Chileans Voting

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)-Chileans voted today for the first time in nearly five years in a referendum expected to give President Augusto Pinochet's military dictatorship a big endorsement.

The early turnout was light, but since election day is a holiday for most Chileans, the heaviest voting was expected at midday.

About 6 million people were expected to mark "yes" or "no" on paper ballots to a brief statement backing Pinochet "in his defense of the dignity of Chile" and reaffirming the legitimacy of the military government that seized power in 1973.

Steelers Study Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)-The steel industry is studying the government's new import pricing program to see if it provides enough protection for U.S. producers against Japanese and European steel firms.

The Treasury Department announced Tuesday a list of "trigger prices" for about 75 percent of all steel imports. The prices are the minimum that foreign companies can charge for their steel in the U.S. market without triggering government action.

Bail High In Raid

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)-Bail has been set at $50,000 each for 16 men arrested in a massive Southern Oregon marijuana raid, despite defense arguments that the men were mostly employed and well-educated.

Tower Attracts Own Tractorcade At Rotan

By JOHN LONG

ROTAN--Spoken in a hundred discordant voices, the message was not clear, but it was obvious by the tractorcade and the hundreds of people who gathered at the tiny Fisher County Airport to greet Sen. John Tower that farmers were out of the field and in the limelight in their demands for 100 percent parity.

If Tower (R.-Texas) had a prepared speech for the group it was cast aside during his 50-minute talk Tuesday afternoon with disgruntled farmers about their economic plight.

Coming from as far away as Knox City and Munday, the crowd numbered an estimated 1,000 people. Tractors, which one police officer estimated at 300-plus, lined the road leading to the airport.

"What I came out here to do was not so much to talk, but to listen," said Tower.

Except for their demand for 100 percent parity, the farmers presented no clearly united front to the senator. The methods to achieve parity were a source of disagreement among even the farmers.

Parity is the theoretical stage at which the value of the farmer's crops is in balance with his agricultural expenses.

"I'm supposed to reflect your opinions. Give me a majority opinion and I'll try to follow it," Tower said.

Unionization of farmers was rejected by the agriculturists and government price fixing met with only a lukewarm response. Some favored controls while others preferred a floating market.

"Most of you and probably all of you believe you must have 100 percent parity," said Tower, "but it must go through Congress and the president. If you can get the president to sign it, we (in the Congress) will pass it."

To effectively present their demands, Tower said, farmers "need to generate 100 percent support among other farmers."

"What I'm saying is that you've got to get everybody together. You've got to bring pressure on Congress.

"The more you speak with one voice, the more apt you are to get something done."

"My biggest regret," said Tower, "is that all of this is occurring when Congress is not in session."

The farmers' strike is, however, producing an effect, Tower commented.

"I think that what you're doing right now is having its influence," he said. "It focuses attention on the problems."

The problems were also brought into focus by other, state-wide tractorcades and protests. Similiar demonstrations were held Tuesday in Big Spring, Waco, Paris, Amarillo, and Lubbock.

In a whirlwind tour of West Texas, Tower stopped at several small towns yesterday. He was scheduled to appear in Gail late this morning.

Noting that the cost-price squeeze of American farmers cannot be rectified only by Texas farmers, Tower exhorted the group to have farmers in other states to join in the American Agriculture movement and present a united front.

"The more (farmers) you have from different states, the more effective it's going to be," he said.

Concluding his discussion with the farmers, Tower left and the tractorcade began rumbling away. A few farmers, however, stayed behind momentarily to discuss among themselves what had transpired.

"I'm for the farm movement all the way and I came to see what could be done," said one farmer. When asked if he believed very much had been accomplished at the meeting, he replied, "No, I don't think so."

"We're vitally interested in America," said one farmer in citing his reasons for attending. "This whole thing," he added, "is everybody's problem."

Meets With Giscard

Carter In France

PARIS (AP)-President Carter arrived today for a three-day visit to France, the sixth stop in his seven-nation tour. French President Valery Giscard d-Estaing welcomed him on his arrival from Aswan, Egypt, where he had met for an hour with President Anwar Sadat.

Carter described American relations with France as "special and rare ... largely an alliance of ideals" in a brief arrival address. He declared:

"Our approaches to specific questions may not always be the same, but our deep respect for the independence and leadership of France and our affection for your people have remained as strong for 200 years."

Carter said he would discuss international economic stability, disarmament, energy, Middle East peace, relations with the Soviet Union and its allies, and human rights in talks with Giscard d-Estaing, expected to total four hours.

Giscard d-Estaing, in a brief welcome at Orly's VIP lounge, also cited the long history of Franco-American friendship. But he underlined French insistence on independent foreign policy and defense ability, which has been the basis of irritation in the past between Washington and Paris.

Carter was visiting a country that was the United States' first ally, he said, and which has become "a modern active country, which is master of its own destiny and defense and wants to work with you to find the best solution to the problems of the modern world."

"It is true that we may have different views on the paths to follow," said the tall, slim French leader. "But I am convinced that we will derive from our discussions useful elements to light up the road leading to a more fraternal, more united and more secure world."

From Paris, the U.S. leader moves on Friday to Brussels, headquarters of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Was there enough football during the holidays?

It's not over yet, but, except for the "big one" down at New Orleans on Jan. 15, and a sprinkling of all-star exhibitions, the 1977 football season has ended early in 1978. By the time this gets into print, we should know who the panel of sportswriters selected as the champion college team. This should enable all to concentrate on the Super Bowl which will push football to the sidelines for at least five months.

As this is being written, we see three teams standing out as the best in the land on the college front on the basis of their performance in the major bowls. They are Alabama, Arkansas and Notre Dame. And the thought crossed our mind that it would indeed be an unusual situation if Arkansas, a team that didn't win its conference, should be awarded the national title. Nobody could argue with it, however, after the hogs mauled the Oklahoma Sooners down at Miami.

It definitely was not a good bowl season for Texas teams, or for teams of the Big 10 Conference, and if Arkansas hadn't worked its magic in the Orange Bowl, the Southwest Conference would have been shut out.

Before the season is put away, however, we have some nominees for other awards. One is the nitpickers award. We think Bud Grant and George Allen should share this honor. The remainder of the league is out of step with these two.

The goof-of-the-year award. This one without a doubt should be shared by the official who failed to call a fumble a fumble in the Denver-Oakland game and the other who called a personal foul in the Baylor-Houston game because a player "yelled" at another one while a play was in progress.

The foot-in-the-mouth award should go to all of those reckless individuals --- including Jimmy the Greek --- who try to predict the outcome of football games week after week.

Then, with the New Year here, there are some things we hope will come to pass in future seasons, perhaps even in 1978. We hope to see a game involving the Dallas Cowboys when no television commentator will refer to Tom Landry as "the only coach the Cowboys ever had." We also hope to see a TV shot of players on a bench with none holding up one finger, or yelling "We're Number One."

And we sincerely hope that sometime during the off-season someone will teach Paul Hornung how to pronounce Charlie Waters' name. He's called it "Walters" long enough. But we understand that Hornung never had much to do with water, even during his playing days.

Meanwhile, what are we going to do with our television sets for the next five or six months? --WACIL McNAIR

Banks, Savings Firms Set New Records Here

Snyder banks and savings and loan firms set new records at the close of 1977 in both deposits and loans.

Old marks were eclipsed in every phase of operations, which meant that the over-all totals soared to new peaks.

The over-all total of deposits stood at $116,479,692, compared with the old record of $110,133,212 at the end of the first quarter of 1977. The overall total at the close of 1976 was $106,432,313.

The two local banks had deposits totalling $78,214,900. Their previous record, which was set at the end of the first quarter last year, was $75,392,998 and the total at the end of 1976 was $75,131,217.

Bank loans also were at a new peak of $41, 557,972. The previous high was $39,379,426, which was set at the close of the second quarter in 1977. The bank loan total at the close of 1976 was $34,889,199.63.

Local savings and loan firms reported deposits of $38,264,792 and loans of $32,912,341.

Jaycees Making Plans For Auction

Snyder Jaycees are busy collecting articles for their big auction scheduled for Jan. 14.

The auction has been scheduled to raise funds to help retire the indebtedness on Kiddie Land, the huge recreation installation for small children installed last summer in Towle Memorial Park. Jaycees sponsored the project, which cost around $35,000.

Members of the Jaycees and Jaycee-ettes are now soliciting articles from merchants, organizations and individuals which they can sell at the auction, which will be held in the Wickes Building on Jan. 14. Anything that can be auctioned off will be welcomed. Anyone who has an article to contribute is asked to call 573-8341, 573-2241 or 573-9916.

Several prize items will be offered in the auction. Among these will be an autographed book from Gov. Dolph Briscoe, a contribution from Cartoonist Ace Reid and either a painting or a bronze from Kenneth Wyatt, the well-known artist of Tulia.

Sen. Kennedy Met With Huang

TOKYO (AP)-Sen. Edward Kennedy, traveling in China, has met with Chinese Foreign Minister Huang Hua, China's Hsinhua news agency reports.

In a dispatch from Peking, Hsinhua said Huang and Kennedy met Tuesday and had "a friendly talk." No details on the meeting were given.

Market Drops With Dollar

NEW YORK (AP)-The stock market declined sharply again today, dragged down by continuing pressure on the dollar in foreign exchange.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 8.23 at 809.51 after a 13.43-point drop in the first session of the new year Tuesday.

Losers overpowered gainers by more than a 4-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

After falling to new lows against several leading foreign currencies on Tuesday, the dollar continued to slump today.

Brokers say the dollar's weakness has prompted foreign selling of U.S. stocks.

uncertain republicans

Students of political trends in the United States appear to agree that Republican chance of winning the 1980 Presidential election depends a great deal of what happens in 1978 and right now there seems to be little coordination of effort among GOP Congressional leaders and outsiders like former President Gerald Ford and California's former Governor Ronald Reagan.

Republicans have been pretty lucky for the past 25 years, so far as winning the Presidency is concerned. Both Eisenhower and Nixon, profited from unpopularity of Presidential nominees and intra-party fighting among Democrats.

Republicans came close to repeating the performance of cashing in on a poorly organized Democratic Party last year, but their luck ran out. Obviously they feel encouraged now with failure of the Carter Administration to establish a close working relationship with Democrats on Capitol Hill.

Instead of working as a team on an agreed plan of action Congressional Republicans, former President Gerald Ford, leader of his party by custom, and California's former Governor Ronald Reagan are traveling in different directions on key issues.

Ford is for ratification of the Panama Canal treaties. Reagan is head of a national effort to defeat it and GOP members in Congress are somewhere between these two positions. At this point in time it appears likely that what we do about the Panama Canal isn't going to be the big issue in 1978 elections and almost certainly not in 1980.

What Republicans need is organization. They need to elect more Representatives and U.S. Senators, more state governors and gain control a greater number of state legislatures. It is pretty hard to win Presidential elections without a grass roots organization. In any case there are too few registered Republicans to be engaged in fighting among themselves.

Reagan seems to be the only top Republican who knows what he wants and is going about the task of raising money for an all-out fight on ratification of the Panama Canal treaty.

Ford and Republicans in Congress don't seem to know which way to move and whether the Canal issue is worth risk of splitting the party. It's pretty hard to win elections with a party that doesn't know its own mind.

change worth a try

President Carter decided, to the surprise of nobody at all, to replace Arthur Burns as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board. Nor will very many people be taken in by the exchange of pleasantries and expressions of mutual admiration which attended the public announcement of the appointment of a relatively little known business executive to the position.

G. William Miller of Providence, R.I., president and chief executive officer of Textron Corporation, one of the nation's major conglomerates in the field of precision instruments, aeronautics and related categories. He is described as an orthodox businessman with an inclination to favor experimentation and change. He is also credited with the belief that while inflation and unemployment are major problems, greatest emphasis should be on creating jobs.

That view presents one of those distinctions which defy definition, and in this instance is probably academic. But in specific situations the difference could be extremely important.

It is no secret that in many instances Mr. Burns irritated President Carter and liberals in and out of Congress by open criticism of Administration policies. It would also be naive to accept at face value professions by Mr. Miller of a desire to follow policies of his predecessor.

Mr. Miller has been active in politics as a Democrat. He was an early enlistee in the organized effort to place James Earl Carter Jr. in the White House. These are not disqualifications for acceptable service as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board. But they do suggest the likelihood that Mr. Miller would rationalize certain Carter Administration policies that would be rejected out of hand by Mr. Burns.

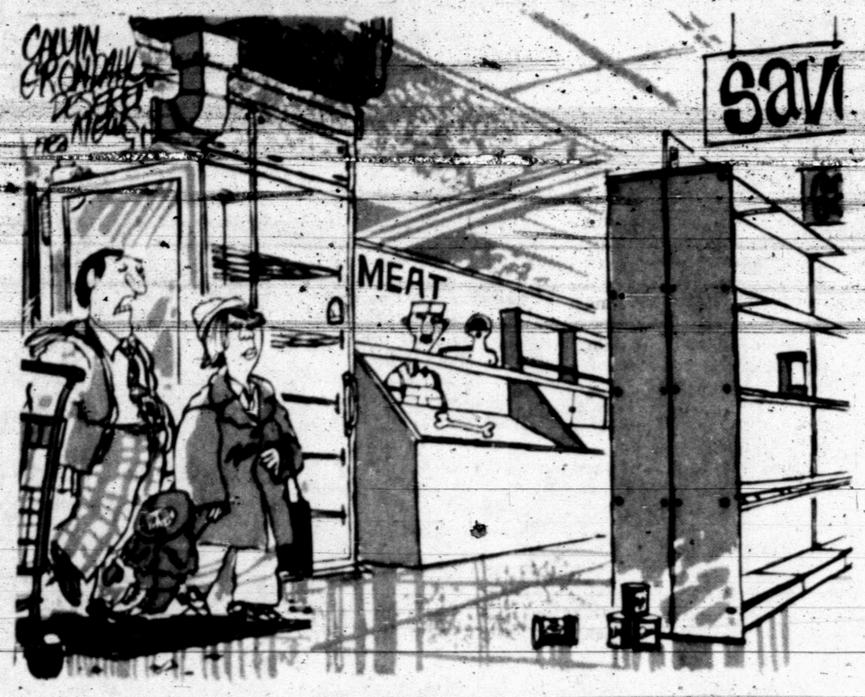

It is possible, of course, that Mr. Burns allowed his basic economic beliefs to take precedence in some situations over the realities in a fast-moving, rapidly-changing world. It is sometimes necessary to forget textbook standards and adjust to circumstances. Mr. Burns found this hard to do.

In any case there will be a new chairman of the Federal Reserve Board as soon as the U.S. Senate can get around to confirming Mr. Miller for the position. There is nothing in the appointee's background as thus far revealed that would create doubt concerning his acceptability for the post.

Some deviation from the doctrinaire attitude of Mr. Burns may be a good thing in these complex times.

productivity's role

NEW YORK (AP)-From the nation's productivity center comes a New Year message portentous in its content. It describes some medicine, but it doesn't promise a cure.

The problem is lagging productivity, which isn't to be compared with nagging backache or tension headache, or other disturbing but often superficial ailments.

It goes much deeper; it's a malignancy, but it gets very little attention from the public.

Productivity growth is achieved by the skillful, efficient use of labor, capital and technology. It is what has given Americans their high standard of living and position of economic dominance.

But in recent years the United States hasn't been able to maintain its old rate of productivity growth. Between 1967 and 1977 the annual average dropped to 1.5 percent from 3.2 percent in the period 1947-1966.

In fact, output per hour in manufacturing increases more slowly in the United States than in any of the 12 major western industrial nations between 1960 and 1976. More slowly than in Britain, half Italy's rate.

Meanwhile, greater demands are being made on the U.S. system, not just to deliver more goods and services, but to produce the less tangible products of equality, security and environmental purity.

In a letter to President Carter and Congress, George Kuper, executive director of the National Center for Productivity and Quality of Work Life, wrote: "Our most recent performance should be taken as a warning."

The warning, said Kuper, is that the American belief in bigger and better can no longer be taken for granted. "Our economy may not be able to deliver on our expectations," he wrote.

Already, some of the delivery has been canceled. If productivity over the past 10 years had increased at its earlier, 3.2 percent rate, the 1977 gross national product would have been $100 billion higher.

In all likelihood, that would have meant lower prices, more jobs, a smaller trade imbalance, a stronger dollar. In short, a bigger pie so that everyone could have a bigger slice without cutting into the slice of others.

As it is, people today seem to be nibbling at their neighbor's portion because we aren't as effectively as before managing our labor, capital and technology.

The problem is not simply that people may not be willing to work as hard as before, although that certainly might be a contributant. The changing work force is believed to be more of a factor.

For example, an influx of women and teen-agers into the labor force, many of them with minimal skills, is believed to have added to production costs. The early retirement of skilled men has hurt also.

Capital, meanwhile, has often been hard to raise, and expensive when available. High energy prices have hurt. And business uneasiness over the extension of government regulation is cited as a factor.

Stop! Don't discard that minicoat or that out-of-style dress, or the skirt you haven't worn since it got too tight.

Clothes that don't fit your current figure or fashion can be reworked and restyled for more wear and enjoyment.

We can buy books with instructions to test our creative skills and can save money and keep wearing clothes with sentimental attachment.

If you don't save trimmings, buttons, lace, ruffles, felt, ribbons, braid and beading from discarded garments, possibly a mother, grandmother or aunt who saves everything can be of help.

Other than clothes, the legs of cut-off jeans can become tote bags with a few seams and a draw string, utilizing the whole pair of pants.

Husband's and dad's old suits may have an all-silk lining to be used in many ways. The rest of the suit, with material from other tossed aside clothing may be used to produce a braided rug of your own design.

Recycling is a multipurpose and much used word today. A great deal of experimenting and research has gone into this because of shortages in our natural resources.

We would be better off financially and probably have exciting and rewarding times if we learned to conserve by saving old things instead of going out to buy new things.

We are reminded daily of the need to conserve, but rarely take it too seriously from lack of motivation. As a young person, I recall my grandparents were very conservative people, and still are. Lights were turned off soon after daylight and used only when they were needed. Water was never left running. More clothes were worn in cold weather because heating was usually concentrated in one room of the house.

I'm afraid we've failed in our contribution toward alleviating the energy crisis by failing to be examples ourselves and teaching our children to be conservative so their children will be able to enjoy the conveniences we've enjoyed thus far.

in washington

WASHINGTON--(NEA)--President Carter's decision to fill dozens of key policy-making positions in his administration with "public interest" advocates is proving to be a mixed blessing for those who have accepted the jobs.

For environmentalists, consumerist advocates and governmental reformers, the unprecedented opportunity to gain control of many of Washington's levers of power initially was viewed as nothing less than a bonanza.

But they belatedly are discovering there is a price to be paid, in terms of lost leadership, momentum and organization outside of government.

California's state government provides an intriguing model for the pattern now emerging in Washington because after he was elected governor in 1974, Edmund G. (Jerry) Brown Jr. recruited public interest activists for some of the most important jobs in his administration.

Carl Pope, executive director of the California League of Conservation Voters, suggests that the newfound access to official power has indirectly harmed the environmentalists' cause.

In a thoughtful analysis recently published in the monthly magazine of Environmental Action, one of Washington's most aggressive conservation groups, Pope offers this perspective:

"It takes time and energy to contact policy-makers, to meet with them and their deputies, to come back to the office with detailed responses to the questions that were raised, and then to help push a final proposal through the bureaucracy.

"It takes resources to use access properly, to keep information flowing ... and while Brown's election increased our access, it did not increase our resources. A major new demand was being made on environmental constituency - that constituency, once cut adrift, lost its momentum."

At the same time, California's business leaders realized that the access to government they enjoyed under Brown's predecessor, Ronald Reagan, would be greatly diminished - but they wisely began mobilizing a grass-roots lobbying apparatus to increase their influence within the legislature.

Those crucial shifts in power are more advanced in California than in Washington only because Brown assumed the governorship two years before Carter became president.

In Washington, the business community similarly realized that Carter would be less receptive to its demands than his two immediate predecessors, Richard M. Nixon and Gerald R. Ford.

But much of that loss has been offset by a sophisticated strategy of lobbying members of Congress with plant managers and other businessmen from the legislators' districts and states.

There already is considerable grumbling within the public interest community about Congress' apparent loss of interest in consumer and environmental programs.

Mark Green, director of Ralph Nader's Congress Watch, complains of a "remarkable lurch rightward" on Capitol Hill and fears the trend is "seemingly irreversible."

He blames that development on a variety of causes-Carter's lack of influence with most legislators, the breakdown of the congressional seniority system and the business community's energetic lobbying efforts.

But Pope suggests that the public interest organizations must accept much of the responsibility because there are too many chiefs, many of them with impressive government titles, and not enough Indians.

"Examine the major conservation groups at the national level," he says. "Few are well equipped to communicate with their own members; almost none are struggling to reach the sympathetic but unorganized public."

MOD Seeks Volunteers

More than 250,000 newborns annually enter the world with a physical or mental handicap.

Some 62,000 people of all ages die each year because of birth defects.

These and other facts of life and death come from Carolyn Salmon, who with Jan Johnson, is serving as co-chairman of the Scurry County March of Dimes 1978 campaign to prevent birth defects.

"Another fact: The March of Dimes is as concerned about the health of the woman as it is about the well-being of her unborn or newborn baby," says Mrs. Salmon. "We seek funds for two major reasons: (1) to improve the outcome of pregnancy and reduce infant damage or death; and (2) to enable the organization to expand nationwide research, education, and medical service programs," she said

Mrs. Salmon also points out that March of Dimes funds are used wisely. "The 1977 annual report shows that medical and community services, public and professional health education, and research support receives almost 75 percent of the total funds, with the remainder being used for fund raising expenses, and only 7 percent being used for management of the Foundation.

"Because persons in Snyder and Scurry County are traditionally generous, we think this could be our most successful drive," she says. "But there's a great need for volunteer services. We need men and women to offer their time and talent. Please enlist by calling 573-5978 or 573-2392."

Here's A Tip: Button Your Lip!

By Abigail van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I'm dating a gentleman who seems very much interested in me. He's 60 and I'm 55. He'd make a wonderful catch, but there's a slight problem. He's funny about money.

He takes me to the finest restaurants, but when we leave, I always slip a few dollars under my coffee cup because his tips are so meager. He's a self-made man who recently sold his business for several million dollars, so I know he can afford to tip properly.

Otherwise he is a very high-class gentleman. I don't want to lose him. A lot of women in this town would love to have him—stingy or not.

Should I remind him that a tip should be at least 15 percent of the bill? He figured he knew me well enough to tell me flat out that I used too much perfume.

ATLANTA, GA.

DEAR ATLANTA: Don't offer this high-class low tipper any tips on tipping unless you're sure he can take it as well as dish it out. Some self-made men tend to be a little tight with their money. It's a tendency they developed in their leaner years.

DEAR ABBY: You say that people who are habitually late are "inconsiderate, selfish and immature."

What have you to say about guests who always arrive 20 to 30 minutes EARLY?

GERTRUDE

DEAR GERTRUDE: They are as inconsiderate and oftentimes more irritating to the hostess than the lateniks.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from 38 AND HATES IT, and I want to say that I had the same problem, only worse. I was a "40 D," I stood 5 foot 1, and had a very well-proportioned figure except for my conspicuously oversized bosom.

Ever since I was 14 I suffered because the boys laughed at me, some thought I was a pushover, and some made insulting passes at me. Not only that, I had a chronic backache from being so top-heavy.

I am now 33 and married. Last year I heard about a doctor who performed breast reduction surgery, so I went to him, and it was the wisest decision of my life.

He reduced my breasts to a normal 34 B and I've never been happier. (My hospitalization insurance covered it, too.) No more ill-fitting clothes or humiliation or backaches! I never knew that plastic surgeons could reduce breasts; I thought they could only enlarge them.

Abby, please let other women know that they don't have to be stuck with an oversized bosom all their lives. And tell them to be sure the doctor is a board certified plastic surgeon.

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: Here's your letter. Thanks for sharing.

Fashion And Beauty Tips

Liquid foundations seem to work better than cake or pressed-powder foundations which tend to build up in any tiny lines or crevices on the face.

Better to remove the polish from all your nails than to go out with chipped nails when you don't have time for a new manicure.

The best bath water is very warm or tepid. Hot baths are hard on the skin, as are cold baths.

North Fell in love with this hand. He had won five national championships, but never had held eight-card trump support for a partner's opening bid.

He cue bid two hearts to tell his partner he had a strong hand with diamond support. Two hearts usually shows first-round control of hearts, but North stretched the point, so in love was he with his eight diamonds.

On his final turn, he leaped to slam without even using Blackwood. A spade lead would have meant instant defeat. But West, not being clairvoyant made the normal lead of the king of clubs.

South, also many times a national champion, studied the dummy quickly and recognized that he had just one chance: a bluff.

South could see 11 top tricks: eight diamonds, two hearts and a club. There was only one possibility for a 12th trick. It risked going down three tricks instead of one, but the slam bonus made it worthwhile.

Declarer immediately played dummy's jack of hearts. East innocently played low. South played his seven and the jack won the trick!

Now the slam was a cakewalk. South wanted to stand up and cheer. He had pulled a rare and fine swindle. But, being an expert, he reined in his emotions long enough to complain.

"You bid that hand like a lunatic," he told North.

"You made it, didn't you?" quipped North.

East and West were also made and they got into the act.

"Why didn't you cover the jack of hearts?" carped West.

"Why didn't you lead a spade?" shot back East.

No one was happy, except South.

Texas Falls To 4th; Hogs 3rd...

Notre Dame's No. 1!

By Herschel Nissenson
AP Sports Writer

Less than three months after critics were clamoring for his scalp and "Dump Devine" bumper stickers were flourishing in South Bend, Ind., Notre Dame Coach Dan Devine is having the last laugh and basking in the glow of college football's national championship.

The Fighting Irish, whose over-all winning percentage of .774 entering the 1977 campaign was the best in history, added another chapter to the Notre Dame legend Monday when they were voted national champions by the 64 voters in the nationwide Associated Press poll.

In a race among five teams with identical 11-1 records, Notre Dame's 38-10 Cotton Bowl rout of previously No. 1-rated Texas enabled the Irish to win out over the Alabama, Arkansas, Texas and Penn State.

"There's a lot of personal satisfaction in a job well done and maybe this is hard to understand but I'm happier for the team than for myself," Devine said when he was informed that Notre Dame had won the AP National Championship Trophy. "I have a combined feeling of being humble and thankful.

"I usually try to hold my emotions in, but I'm kind of quivering all over right now. I'm just so thankful that my staff and my players are the kind of people they are."

Notre Dame, which finished the regular season in fifth place, received 37 1-3 first-place votes - one voter split his ballot among Notre Dame, Alabama and Arkansas - and 1,180 of a possible 1,280 points.

Runner-up Alabama, a convincing 35-6 winner over Ohio State in the Sugar Bowl, climbed from third place to second with 19 1-3 first-place ballots and 1,132 points. Arkansas jumped from sixth to third with 5 1-3 first-place votes and 1,011 points by clobbering previously second-ranked Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl 31-6.

Texas, the only team in the country to make it through the regular season undefeated, dropped to fourth place with the remaining two first-place votes and 797 points. Penn State, which also finished 11-1 by downing Arizona State 42-30 in the Fiesta Bowl, rose from eighth to fifth with 768 points.

Rounding out the Top Ten were 10-1 Kentucky, 10-2 Oklahoma, 9-2-1 Pittsburgh, 10-2-Michigan and 8-4 Washington. Kentucky was on probation and ineligible for a bowl while Pitt trounced Clemson 34-3 in the Gator Bowl and Washington up-ended Michigan 27-20 in the Rose Bowl.

Kentucky climbed from seventh to sixth with 605 points, Oklahoma plummeted from second to seventh with 592, Pitt's defending national championship went from 10th to eighth with 508, Michigan skidded from fourth to ninth with 443 and Washington rose from 13th to 10th with 437.

Ohio State fell from ninth to 11th, the only team to drop out of the Top Ten.

Felines Show Poise In Win Over Seminole Last Night

The Snyder Tigers girls' varsity squad, showing good poise in the late-going here last night, outlasted a much taller Seminole team to earn its fifth win in the past seven games, 44-41.

The final-quarter show of confidence, which brought Snyder from behind, with 3:44 remaining, was a welcome relief to fans who had witnessed a less-ambitious Tiger team in earlier outings.

After overcoming a 6-0 deficit early in the game, Snyder controlled the action until the fourth quarter. But as the period got underway, Freda Hitch, who accounted for 10 of Seminole's points during the non-district battle, hit on the first half of a two-shot free throw to lock the score at 32-32.

The Indians kept a one-point margin, which at times stretched to two points, until 3:44 left in the game when Snyder's Kim Harlin dropped in a crucial basket from the outside corner. A badly thrown Seminole pass was intercepted by guard Debra Baach seconds later and Tanya Boydston used the break to score on a hook shot for the Tigers. With momenteum and a 40-37 lead, Snyder pushed ahead still more as Harlin hauled in a missed Boydston free shot and put it up for two further points. Boydston led the Tiger scoring with 13 points.

Then, with 37 seconds remaining, Snyder's Carrie Taylor iced the game, 44-39, on a wide open layup. Seminole had four freeshots in the waning seconds but managed only two points. It was a badgering defensive effort by guards Baach, Liz Bilano, Cindy Koonsman and Lesa Sterling that kept the 3-7" taller Indians outside most of the night and were the key to Snyder's ninth win in 19 trys, however.

The quick-handed defensive crew dominated the boards and kept the Indians in futile search for the bucket, causing a number of turnovers.

Offensively, the Tigers which open district play here Jan. 17 against Lubbock Estacado - continued to be plagued with chills. Despite three girls in double figures, Snyder managed to find the hoop on only 17 of 52 tries for a percent figure of 32.6. From the free throw line the number was 40 percent (10 of 25). Seminole noted 11 of 25 charity shots.

"We played pretty good," panned Tiger Coach Ken Housden following the game. "I think the girls deserve credit for showing poise. At times, we've choaked in the same situation."

For Snyder, those five wins in the past seven games are hopefully, an indication of better things to come.

District play?

"I think we've got a good chance," admitted Housden, who characterizes upcoming opponent Estacado as inconsistant. Lubbock's Dunbar and Estacado will be new additions to district this year. Lake View, the only other team besides Snyder, is the favorite.

First, however, the Tigers are scheduled to play the Lobos in Monahans on Friday at 7:30 p.m.

WTC Cagers Note Action This Weekend

Western Texas College cage teams return to action this weekend following a layoff that began Dec. 13.

The Westerners, under direction of Coach Nolan Richardson, take to the courts first as they attend the ABC Tournament in Big Spring Jan. 5-7.

The team is scheduled to meet St. Phillips at 9:15 p.m. Thursday, Sul Ross at 7 p.m. Friday and Howard College at 9 p.m. Saturday.

Meanwhile, the Dusters are slated to face UTEP in El Paso Saturday at 6 p.m.

The Westerners host Midland College in conference play Jan. 12, while the Dusters - who note only one home game this month - play Sul Ross Jan. 11 as their next outing.

Tiger JV Falls To Squaw Team

Snyder junior varsity girls turned it over more times than a flapjack here last night but couldn't manage to find the frying pan anyway as Seminole burned the host team 52-32.

Utilizing a succession of Snyder mistakes, the Indians scored a dozen points in each of the first three quarters and tucked the game away with 16 fourth-quarter points while the Tigers could manage only 7-8-6-11.

K. Jameson led the visitors with 20 points while teammates Woodruff and King backed her up with 14 and 10 points each.

Lana Hill and Connie Weber each scored 8 points for the home team as not a single Tiger reached the double figures.

One successful free throw out of seven tries in the fourth stanza was an indication of Snyder's overall effort.

Meanwhile, the Tigers could sink only 12 field goals all night. Seminole turned in 23.

The Tigers are scheduled to play to Lobos in Monahans Friday at 6 p.m.

In earlier play, Snyder ninth grade girls fell to the Indians 48-35. Again the Tigers had trouble scoring, hitting only 5 of 22 charity shots (23 percent). Seminole managed 12 of 23 for a 52 percent figure.

Cindy Woods led the Tigers with a dozen points. Cindy Clayton had 10 points. Seminole's Cescli Gressett had 15 points.

Tigers Won't Take Charity; Edged From Lobo Free Line

LEVELLAND--The Snyder Tigers, getting ready for a full schedule of district warfare, dropped a 77-75 decision to the Lobos here last night in non-league action.

A quarter-hundred missed free-throws drubbed out Snyder's doom as the Tigers managed only 21 of 46 baskets from the charity line.

Friday, Snyder plays host to district opponent Brownfield, to mark the opening of six straight 3-AAA games. The Cubs fell to Lubbock Estacado last night, 82-53.

In other district play, Lamesa defeated Lake View 33-27 and Lubbock Dunbar trounced Sweetwater 77-59. Snyder is 1-0 in league action after edging Sweetwater earlier in the season.

"We shot poorly from the line," summed up Tiger Coach Jack Stephenson of last night's two-point loss to the Lobos. "When you miss 25 free throws and get beat by two points there's not a whole lot you can say."

Snyder failed to connect on 9 last-quarter shots from the stripe, any two of which would have locked the game in a tie.

A high point for Snyder was the return of leading scorer Randy Courtney, who missed the past seven games due to an ankle injury.

"I was happy to see Randy come back and he played real well," remarked Stephenson. "He scored 20 points and got 15 rebounds and I was certainly pleased with that."

Snyder held a 13-11 lead going into the second quarter, but a hard driving Lobo team, spurred on by a large partisan crowd, came on to turn things around and post a 32-31 lead at the half.

Both squads put up 17 points in the third-quarter but the consistantly missed free throws kept Snyder from making any kind of a go-ahead-to-stay surge.

Courtney's 20-point effort was aided by 16 from Lucious Jeffrey, 15 from Earl Clayton and 10 by Richard Crayton.

Meanwhile Levelland posted five athletes in double figures. Yarborough led with 13, followed by a dozen points each from Lawless, Methuin and Spurlock and 11 from Bowman.

In other action, here Levelland junior varsity posted 31 second-period points to eventually win over the Tigers, 104-86.

Brent Taylor and Morris Anderson led Snyder with 14 points apiece. Thomas Selmon had 13.

For the Lobos, Phillips had 22, Skillern had 18, Jones and Jackson posted 15 each and O'Dell had 12.

Brownfield will visit Snyder's Scurry County Coliseum at 8 p.m. Friday, tipping off a string of district battles against the Tigers.

"Brownfield is the kind of team that can certainly slip up on you," said Stephenson. "They have an all-district player, Kerry Cranfield, that is a real fine shooter. They can beat you.

"We're tied for the lead right now and we've just got to go out there and play. I think we'll be alright if we just get out there and get with it," he added.

Campbell Out Of Picture

AUSTIN (AP) - The squabble on whether Heisman Trophy winner Earl Campbell of Texas should play in the Hula Bowl or the Senior Bowl is now moot - he'll pass both of them because of a foot injury.

Cauthen AP Player of Year

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)-Steve Cauthen was named the Associated Press Athlete of the Year Tuesday, becoming the first jockey so recognized in the 47 years of the award.

"I certainly appreciate the honor," said Cauthen, who rode 488 winners in 1977 and won purses worth $6,151,750, the first time a rider has topped the $6 million mark.

Dorsett Top 'Offensive Rookie'

DALLAS (AP)-Tony Dorsett wasn't surprised but he was happy and humble and said he had just the place for his latest trophy - The Associated Press National Football League Rookie of the Year.

"It ranks right along with the Heisman Trophy," said the former Pittsburgh All-American, who became only the eightn rookie back in the history of the NFL to gain more than 1,000 yards.

"To be top dog in your first year of your profession for an athlete is quite an honor," said Dorsett. "I want to thank each and every person who voted for me."

Dorsett, who suffered a knee injury in training camp, wasn't even a starter until Dallas' ninth game of the season yet gained 1,007 yards.

Such great backs as O.J. Simpson, Jim Brown, and Walter Payton didn't rush for 1,000 yards in their rookie seasons.

Duhe Nets 'Defensive Rookie'

NEW YORK (AP)-Defensive tackle A.J. Duhe, a key part in the reconstruction of the Miami Dolphin defense, was named the National Football League's Defensive Rookie of the Year today by The Associated Press.

Duhe, the Dolphins' No. 1 choice in last spring's college draft, was an easy winner in balloting by writers and broadcasters covering the 28 NFL teams. He received 48 of the 84 ballots to dominate the voting. Linebacker Terry Beeson of Seattle finished second with 11 votes, followed by Duhe's defensive linemate with the Dolphins, Bob Baumhower, who had five.

Texas Quads Are Doing Fine

SAN ANTONIO (AP) Three-year-old Timothy Tyson had been looking forward to having a new brother or sister. He got a brother and three sisters.

Penelope Tyson, 27, wife of Air Force Staff Sgt. Kenneth Tyson, gave birth to quadruplets Tuesday night at Wilford Hall Medical Center. Officials said Mrs. Tyson and the babies were in good health.

"I just don't know what to think about this yet," said Tyson. "The doctor kind of prepared us for this, but I don't know what to say. They're just beautiful babies."

As for Timothy, Tyson said, "He's been looking forward to having a new brother or sister. Now he's got plenty of choices."

Dr. John Hauth, who delivered the quads, said he had told the Tysons to expect at least three babies.

"We knew beforehand there would be multiple birth," he said. "But I guess you can never really be ready for four babies instead of one."

Mrs. Tyson and the babies are all doing fine, he added.

Dr. Hauth said Mrs. Tyson was in her seventh month of pregnancy.

Rhodes Makes It Official

Abilene businessman A.L. (Dusty) Rhodes officially filed application Tuesday with the chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, Calvin Guest, for a place on the Democratic Party Primary Ballot in May 6.

Jan. 3 was the first day that application could be made by political candidates for places on the primary ballots, although Rhodes and four others had already announced their intentions to seek the U.S. Congressional House seat being vacated by the retiring Omar Burleson.

Rhodes was the first to make his plans known and since his announcement last Aug. 16, one Republican also has announced for Burleson's spot.

Jury System Decreed In American Samoa

WASHINGTON (AP) By court decree, the people of Tutuila, Aunuu and the other islands of American Samoa are ready for that linchpin of American justice, the jury system.

In a ruling made public Tuesday, a federal judge concluded that the matai don't have the control they once did over the aiga; that ifoga is a thing of the past, and that Fa'a Samoa has to change.

U.S. District Judge William B. Bryant did not plunge into his decision lightly.

"I wish to emphasize that I have a great sensitivity to the views that these questions should be resolved by American Samoans themselves," he wrote in a 13-page opinion.

But he ruled nevertheless that Jake King, a U.S. newspaper publisher convicted by three judges of willfully failing to pay his Samoan income tax, had a constitutional right to a jury trial.

King, who publishes the weekly Samoa News, was fined $250 and put on a year's probation for failing to pay $1,098 in taxes for 1969. He filed suit against the secretary of the interior, now Cecil D. Andrus, as administrator of the American territory.

Namibia stretches more than 800 miles along the Atlantic coastline and extends inland from 50 to 100 miles.

Motorcycle Recovered From Creek

A stolen and waterlogged motorcycle was recovered Tuesday evening from a creek near China Grove.

Owned by Doyle Sanders, the motorcycle was reported stolen during the weekend from Sander's 1409 30th St. home, said city police. The motorcycle was spotted, they added, by a farmer who noticed a tail light sticking out of the water.

Although no suspects have been arrested in theft, police said they are continuing to investigate.

Police are also currently investigating the reported theft of a truck tire, tube and rim at York Transport. Wayne York estimated the loss at $115 and told police the theft occurred Tuesday afternoon.

In other police reports, four minor traffic accidents were listed.

The city's first mishap occurred shortly before 9 a.m. in the 2800 block of 37th St. The collision involved a 1969 Chevrolet driven by Francisco Alvarado and a 1972 Datsun driven by Linda Shelburne.

The next mishap occurred in the 1900 block of 26th St. at 1:42 p.m. Involved in the collision were a parked 1976 Dodge owned by Fred Overman and a 1977 GMC driven by Donna Fowler.

The 2500 block of Ave. R was the scene of a two-vehicle collision yesterday at 3:30 p.m. A 1977 Chevrolet driven by Elbert Klein and a 1976 Chevrolet driven by Lisa Hale of Rotan.

A 1969 Ford driven by Ina Friday was in collision with a 1977 Chevrolet driven by Murry Bell yesterday at 3:39 p.m. The wreck occurred at the intersection of 26th St. and College Ave.

Testimony Continues In Suit Here

Testimony was continuing in 132nd District Court this morning in the trial of a suit against Jerry Stephens of Big Spring, doing business as Bost Construction Co.

Plaintiffs in the suit are Scurry County and the Snyder Consolidated Independent School District who are claiming damages in connection with demolition of the former Travis Junior High School Building, which was removed from the site where a new county jail is now under construction at 26th Street and Avenue M.

The county and school claim that Stephens failed to fulfill a demolition contract and are seeking $30,000 on a performance bond and an additional sum of around $90,000 for additional costs from inflation, etc., and including $28,500 paid to a second contractor to complete the demolition.

Stephens is representing himself in the courtroom, while his bonding company, Balboa Insurance, is represented by Robert J. (Bob) Fisher of Dallas. Representing the county and school district are County Attorney George Killam and Max Addison and Zandt Woodell of the law firm of Crenshaw, Dupree and Milan of Lubbock.

Blind anger

By Karen Blaker, Ph.D.

DEAR DR. BLAKER — I was blinded in a car accident five years ago. Though I went through a terrible period of adjustment, I now feel I accept being blind. But other people's attitudes toward the blind still make me furious.

For instance, last week I was waiting for the subway. Just as the train arrived, a woman approached me, grabbed my arm and shouted, "The train's here. I'll help you." I got angry and yelled back, "Maybe I can't see but I can hear." In the awkward silence that followed, I felt sorry for her. I apologized and asked her to help me onto the subway — although I could have managed myself.

Blind people are expected to be so grateful for any offer of help. Sometimes we don't want it — or need it. Why can't people understand we're not helpless?

DEAR READER — That is a tough question. It is sad but true that the blind are not treated as individuals but in terms of a number of stereotypes.

It is common to think blind people are miserable and unhappy, that they deserve pity, that they are devout and pure, and that they are helpless.

Much of the misery that is supposed to accompany blindness comes from the belief that the blind live in a world of darkness. This view of the blind person's non-world is common in literature. Milton, who was himself blind, used the "world of darkness" image to describe the effect of blindness on the Israelite hero in "Samson Agonistes."

Interestingly, however, Milton chose another color to portray his own blindness: "The constant darkness in which I live day and night, inclines more to a whitish than a blackish tinge..."

These and many other similar myths make it difficult for a blind person to feel like an individual. But most troubling of all is the notion that the blind are helpless. The woman you encountered in the subway station did not ask if you needed help. She saw you were blind and assumed you did.

No wonder you were angry. It is frustrating to be treated as helpless when you are not.

On the other hand, perhaps you were too sensitive. Your feelings of being misunderstood may have been accumulating for some time. Although the woman acted as if you were helpless, she did not necessarily shout because she thought you were deaf as well as blind. Yet, that was your assumption. Possibly she was only trying to make herself heard over the sound of the train.

You mention you could have managed on your own. You might have done more to break down the myth of helplessness if you had declined the offer of assistance and entered the train by yourself.

Write to Dr. Blaker in care of this newspaper, P.O., Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Volume of mail prohibits personal replies, but question of general interest will be discussed in future columns.

Pentagon Set To Trim Bases

WASHINGTON (AP) - Pentagon leaders are preparing for a new round of military base closings and reductions that they calculate will save $25 million to $300 million a year.

They have instructed each armed service to list bases that can be eliminated or cut back. An announcement of installations that may be affected is likely late this month or in February.

"We'll have to get at some bases that are very hard for the services to give up," said one senior official.

This imminent economy move is certain to meet resistance from congressmen whose districts would be affected by a loss of jobs. The last major base cut was ordered by the Ford administration two years ago.

President Carter and top Pentagon officials already are under strong pressure from a bipartisan coalition of more than 200 congressmen from the Northeast and Midwest to prevent any further base closings in their districts.

They claim their areas have been unfairly treated in favor of the South and West.

Beginning with his election campaign, Carter has said he intends to pare the number of bases in his effort to hold down defense spending.

Since the Kennedy administration, Democratic and Republican presidents and defense secretaries have been gradually trimming the number of bases in the face of growing resistance.

In recent years, Congress has imposed requirements, including waiting periods and Defense Department environmental impact statements, that have tended to slow the closings.

Some communities have fought delaying actions in the courts, although so far they have failed to prevent any shutdown or consolidation.

Because of restraints written into law, the Pentagon no longer is as free as it was in the 1960s to announce flatly that a specific base will be closed. Instead, it must select bases as "candidates" for closing, which is how the Pentagon will describe the installations on its forthcoming list.

ASTRO-GRAPH
Bernice Bede Osol

An interesting change could take place within your associations this coming year. You may become the focal point of a group where you have previously been only a spoke in the wheel.

CAPRICORN (Dec.22-Jan.19) In your coterie today there is one who is inclined to cause problems. You'll spot this quickly and be able to neutralize her adverse effects. Having problems selecting a career? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter by mailing 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

AQUARIUS (Jan.20-Feb.19) Two opposing forces are at odds in your career areas today. Fortunately for you, the proponents of your cause will be able to nullify the detractors.

PISCES (Feb.20-March 20) Don't go to those who have rejected you in the past for favors today. On the other hand, you can probably count on those who have seen fit to help you previously.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You have a penchant for conducting yourself admirably with others in commercial dealings today. In purely social situations, you may put your foot in your mouth.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) An old grudge shouldn't be allowed to influence your decisions today. If this happens, another might do something out of spite in an attempt to balance things.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You are not a good self-starter today. Someone else may have to prod you a little, but you'll gratefully accept the nudge and go on to be a winner.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Before you make a request of another today, be sure you'll be able to reciprocate when the shoe is on the other foot. It's not your nature to be a taker without giving in return.

LEO (July 23-Aug.22) When you throw cold water on co-workers, you may get by once. I wouldn't advise you to try the sour grapes again, if you want their cooperation.

VIRGO (Aug.23-Sept.22) Avoid negative persons like the plague today because you have more than your share of self-doubts. Hobnob with positive thinkers and their vibes will be infectious.

LIBRA (Sept.23-Oct.23) Being a good-time Charley with your money to impress pals is an exercise in futility today. Spread it around on your family if you want to make points.

SCORPIO (Oct.24-Nov.22) A career associate who has it in for you may try to make you look small in the eyes of others today. If you react with your best instincts, you can negate his ploy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov.23-Dec.21) Doubts will creep into your mind today, but at least they won't be concerning material things. The problem could be what to do with your windfall.

Estrogen question

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 53 and had a complete hysterectomy 12 years ago. At that time, my gynecologist put me on Premarin to be taken 20 days, then off five days. I am still taking it. I have read many articles that estrogen is dangerous. Do you consider it to be dangerous? If not, how long should I continue to take it?

I also had a partial thyroidectomy, and take one grain of thyroid daily. I have high blood pressure, caused by a blocked artery to the kidney, and take one Aldomet daily to control my blood pressure and one Valium daily for nerves.

I smoke a half pack of cigarettes daily. I feel tired all the time, and am unable to do much housework. I am under a doctor's care. I'd appreciate your advice.

DEAR READER — You are not likely to get cancer of the uterus from taking female hormones, since you don't have a uterus. You can forget about that.

What are the other problems that you might have from taking female hormones? If you have breast disease, or have a lump in the breast, then you probably shouldn't take them, but if your breasts are normal and remain normal, that is not a factor.

You could have some increased risk of heart attack or clotting, but that risk is minimal — particularly since you have taken your medicine so long now without any trouble. It would be far less of a risk if you didn't smoke. My suggestion would be to give up your cigarettes instead of the medicine your doctor has prescribed. That might increase your energy, too.

You need to explore the blood pressure more. If you have a localized obstruction in the artery to the kidney and that is all, with normal arteries inside the kidney you could have it surgically corrected. The blocked area could be replaced with an arterial graft. In certain cases, such an operation will permanently cure high blood pressure when the obstruction is the real cause. In those cases, I prefer surgery to medical management. Ask your doctor to refer you to a cardiovascular center or a high blood pressure clinic at a university medical center.

You may be tired because you may not have your thyroid replacement fine-tuned for your needs. A low thyroid function can cause fatigue. You may also feel tired because of your high blood pressure or from the medicines you are taking. Most sedatives, including Valium, can make you feel less energetic.

Being tired is a symptom. It is often from psychological factors, but it can be medical. To give you a better understanding about this and what you can do about it, I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-3, Fatigue: Feeling Tired and Weary. Others who want information about fatigue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 326, San Antonio, Texas 78292.

If you have normal breasts, have had your uterus out, stop smoking, and control your blood pressure, there is no reason why you cannot take female hormones as long as you get some benefits from them. Studies show that as a group, women live longer and feel better if they are able to use female hormones after surgical menopause. The total benefits usually outweigh the few risks which can be minimized.

Now you can acquire a taste for classical music in your SAFEWAY

Classical music has always been a treat to listen to. But it hasn't always been a treat to buy. After all, there are literally thousands of pieces and many have been recorded hundreds of times.

So if you'd like to sample some, the question naturally arises: "Where do you start?"

Well, starting now, the answer is in any one of our supermarkets. Because we're introducing Funk & Wagnalls Family Library of Great Music.

For your listening pleasure: Each stereo recording is manufactured by RCA Custom Records.

It's a library of 22 albums complete with 60 of the classic selections of classical music by the world's most popular composers, including Bach, Beethoven, Chopin, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Wagner and many more.

And to insure the classic quality of the selections, the music was selected by a board of renowned experts in the world of classical music. Including world famous English conductor Sir John Barbirolli, legendary concert violinist Yehudi Menuhin and Sir William Walton, the eminent composer.

A different album, or two, will be on sale each week, with Album 1—Beethoven's Sixth Symphony—being sold at the record low price of just 69¢*. Albums 2 through 22 will be available for just $2.69 each.

For your reading pleasure: "The Great Composers" collection plus a free binder for it in Album 2.

Each album contains a chapter of "The Great Composers" with some words about the music you'll hear, the composer, his family and friends, and the places he lived and worked.

So the next time you're in the supermarket, you'll find Beethoven, Tchaikovsky, and Mozart, etc., are as easy to buy as bread, turkey, and mozzarella, etc.

Funk & Wagnalls Family Library of Great Music.
