BELFRY-BOUND—If you've heard bells ringing recently, don't worry about it. Bribery Charged In Probe

Murphy Is Under Fire

By FINIS MOTHERSHEAD

DALLAS (AP) — An assistant state attorney general charged today that Dwight Murphy, former Texas oil control official, accepted bribes to permit slant-hole oil drilling.

David McAngus testified before a Texas House Investigating committee probing the slant well scandals. Some oilmen are accused of pumping oil from beneath land which they do not operate by deviated drilling.

Committee counsel David Witts said the committee will trace bribe money.

Murphy was former district engineer for the Railroad Commission at Kilgore. The commission controls the state's oil industry.

McAngus' testimony followed a state police undercover agent's statement Monday that two commission employes profited through permitting the illegal well drilling.

The agent named them as Murphy and Nelson Decker, an inspector for the commission at Kilgore. He said he reached his conclusion by checking bank accounts. Both men were fired earlier.

McAngus traced in detail transactions which he said could have put $76,000 into the joint account of L. D. Murphy and his wife, Margaret W. Murphy in 1957 through June, 1962.

This account is in the Hull, Tex., State Bank near Liberty.

In addition, the witness said an account in the name of Robert V. Jobe received about $26,500 in the same period. The account was in the Louisiana State Bank at Shreveport.

McAngus said he had been unable to locate Jobe. His description dovetailed precisely with that of L. D. Murphy, he said.

"In my conversations with Mr. Murphy he refused to identify himself as Mr. Jobe but he would not disclaim such an identity," McAngus said.

"It is our opinion they are one and the same man."

An undercover agent testified yesterday.

His statement came on the heels of an assertion by Texas Atty. Gen. Will Wilson that sizeable bribes obviously were paid to one or more staff members of the Texas Railroad Commission—the agency charged with regulating this state's giant oil industry.

And William J. Murray Jr., railroad commission, said only "a very careful, clever conspiracy" could have dovetailed official reports to conceal the illegal oil production.

This and other evidence went before the Texas House General Investigating Committee, ostensibly eyeing the situation to decide whether there is need for remedial legislation.

As general counsel for the committee, Dallas lawyer David A. Witts promised the group would push for names, dates and details in allegations of bribery. Wilson at the same time declared there was no doubt "a number of actions should be presented to the grand juries having jurisdiction."

Monday's session launched a three-day inquiry. State Rep. Charles Ballman of Borger, chairman of the House committee, disclosed the group would reconvene here Sept. 10 to go into the matter of slant-hole drilling still further.

Bruce Read, intelligence agent for the Texas Department of Public Safety, spoke briefly about the connection of two former railroad commission employes linked to profits from illegally deviated wells. He said both men have been fired.

Without going into details, Read said his check of bank accounts showed L. Dwight Murphy, former Kilgore district engineer, and Nelson Decker, an inspector for the commission at Kilgore, received money from such wells.

Read was discussing what the attorney general referred to as "the flow of money from deviated leases to Decker and Murphy." Wilson interrupted to say this information would be brought out later in testimony from Asst. Atty. Gen. David McAngus.

Witts listed McAngus among nearly two dozen witnesses under notice to appear today. Also on call was Decker. Texas Rangers said they had been unable to serve a subpoena on Murphy.

Read indicated the inquiry into crooked hole drilling may be no more than half completed. He testified field crews have detected 120 wells stealing oil from nearby leases and predicted tests will uncover "about that many more."

In a formal statement, Witts reported 568 oil wells have been shut in because they occupy leases containing slanted shafts. He added that the flow of 64 more has been halted because these wells were junked before tests could be run. Witts said the aggregate production amounted to three million barrels a year worth about $9 million in the current market.

Murray told the legislators that as many as four supposedly qualified sources furnished affidavits stating some of the crooked wells departed no more than the legal maximum of three degrees from vertical.

The commission chairman said such statements were filed by lease operators, drillers and by either an outside well testing firm or personnel of the oil regulating agency, or both.

While leases of some operators remain shut down because of crooked well discoveries, Read testified that 68 wells on 10 leases have regained pipeline markets. He said this was done through affidavits stating the slanted holes had been plugged and tests showed remaining wells on the leases to be drilled straight down.

Murray said after the hearing recessed that the railroad commission was advised it lacked authority to keep a well from producing once an operator furnished proof it was drilled legally.

Wilson advised the legislators that state bribery laws need overhauling. He said present statutes nevertheless afford ample basis for criminal charges of bribery and oil theft where the evidence warrants.

The attorney general reported his staff already has filed civil suits asking more than $26 million in penalties from oil operators accused of violating railroad commission rules or existing laws.

Ex-President Hoover Has Operation

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Herbert Hoover, 88, underwent an operation today for removal of an intestinal lesion.

Hoover withstood the operation well and is resting satisfactorily, a spokesman at Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center told newsmen.

"We do not know at this time whether the lesion was malignant (cancerous) or not," the spokesman said.

The operation took more than three hours. Hoover was in the operating room more than five hours.

The lesion was taken to a laboratory for examination. Results probably will not be announced before Wednesday.

One Dead In Greek Quake

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—A severe earthquake shook most of Greece for 20 seconds today, toppling homes in some areas. One death was reported.

The quake here was accompanied by strong tremors across southern Italy, where a quake last week took 29 lives. But no deaths were reported in Italy and officials said initial checks indicated the damage there was slight.

Nine persons were injured in Naples by falling as they rushed from their homes. Naples hospitals said five other persons suffered shock or heart attacks.

On the Amalfi coast of Italy where Jacqueline Kennedy is vacationing, the quake was barely felt. The American First Lady was sightseeing in the Amalfi Cathedral and did not notice the disturbance.

The Athens Seismological Service said the quake centered 65 miles southwest of Athens. That would put the epicenter at the town of Nafplion, in the eastern Peloponnesus.

Reports reaching Athens from ancient Corinth said a 90-year-old man was killed in the collapse of his home.

From Patrai, Greece's third largest port, came word that a number of homes were destroyed.

No damage to the Acropolis or the Parthenon, the ancient ruins on the hillside overlooking Athens, was apparent.

The quake struck the Peoponnesus peninsula at 1:02 p.m. It was also recorded on the island of Crete and in southern Greece. Police said they were unable to get word on the extent of destruction and casualties because all communications south of Corinth were disrupted.

Across the Adriatic, the trembling of the earth was felt in a belt from Bari, in the heel of the Italian Boot, to Naples, on the west coast.

Thousands fled into the streets in panic.

At Bari, damage apparently was limited to a few cracks in buildings and falling of two cornice stones.

The shocks also were felt in Reggio Calabria, at the toe of the Boot, and across the Strait of Messina at Messina, Sicily, an area that a quake in 1908 killed 100,000.

All's Rosy With Khrush, UN Official

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev interrupted his holiday-making at Yalta today and received U. Thant, acting secretary-general of the United Nations.

The official news agency Tass said the two talked in "a friendly and easy atmosphere." Tass gave no indication what the topics were.

Before leaving for Yalta, Thant told newsmen in Moscow he planned to discuss world problems with Khrushchev.

Khrushchev's family is at Yalta and Tass said that after the talk, Khrushchev invited Thant to dine with him and the family.

Thant met with Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko Monday and reported later they had discussed "some of the major problems facing the United Nations today." Thant termed the talks fruitful and friendly. He said the Berlin crisis was not brought up.

Alma Takes Token Poke At Carolina

HATTERAS, N.C. (AP)—Tropical storm Alma gave the North Carolina coast and Outer Banks a light brushoff today and moved northeastward along the Atlantic shore.

The center of the feeble storm, described by the Miami Weather Bureau as poorly organized, was located in the vicinity of Cape Hatteras, N.C., at 8 a.m., moving northeastward at about 18 miles per hour.

Maximum winds were estimated at 45 m.p.h. just east of the center with squalls of 30 to 40 m.p.h. extending some 200 miles in the eastern semicircle. The western half was described as relatively weak.

The storm brought drenching rains and the Weather Bureau said these will occur in the coastal areas northwest and north of the center.

No damage was reported.

Cape Hatteras reported 5.21 inches of rain between 1 and 6 a.m. a period when the storm was centered southwest of there.

Winds along the coast have generally been only between 30 and 40 m.p.h. However, Cape Hatteras reported winds from 35 to 48 m.p.h.

No flooding was reported. Tides were only a foot or two above normal. The prediction is for tides along the North Carolina and extreme southeastern Virginia coasts to range from one to three feet above normal.

Gale warnings were displayed from Moorehead City, N.C., to Cape Charles, Va., and the Weather Bureau said small craft from the North Carolina coast to Cape May, N.J., should remain in port.

Weather-wise residents along the North Carolina coast shrugged off the storm, the season's first Atlantic-spawned tropical storm.

Guerrilla Leaders Receive Summons

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

ALGIERS (AP) — The chief of the regular Algerian army summoned guerrilla leaders to a meeting in eastern Algeria today in an effort to weld a common front against anti-Ben Bella guerrillas controlling Algiers and the surrounding area.

From his headquarters in western Algeria, Col. Houari Boumedienne called the commanders of Wilayas (military zones) Nos. 1, 2, 5 and 6 to the meeting in Setif, 150 miles east of Algiers on the road to Constantine.

The leaders of Wilayas 3 and 4, who chased Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella's Political Bureau out of the capital, were not invited.

Boumedienne, chief of the 45,000-man regular army, clearly was attempting to unite most of Algeria's 100,000 troops against the anti-Ben Bella guerrilla commanders in central Algeria. But there was no sign that shooting was imminent.

Diplomatic observers believe the opposing sides will continue to try to avoid bloodshed. They fear, however, that a form of military dictatorship will emerge from the economic chaos and bitter political bickering that has prevailed since independence July 3.

The anti-Ben Bella leaders command an imposing force of toughened veterans of the war for independence against France. Wilaya 4, controlling Algiers, is believed to have 20,000 men under arms. Their supporters in Wilaya 3, in the Kabylie Mountains to the east, are estimated at 10,000.

Boumedienne's own troops are largely untested, having sat out most of the war in Morocco and Tunisia. Despite Boumedienne's order placing them under the command of his general staff, the four other Wilayas have given no indication that they are prepared to fight their guerrilla brothers.

It was resistance to Ben Bella's efforts to bring the six guerrilla zones under a unified central command that caused Wilaya 4's rebellion against the Political Bureau, sending it in flight to Oran. The Algiers guerrillas accused the Political Bureau of betraying the revolution and launched bitter attacks against the West, Europeans and "neocolonialists."

In Oran, Ben Bella's Political Bureau issued a statement accusing the Algiers guerrillas of planning to impose their will on the capital "despite the unanimous opposition of the Algerian people." It also announced the appointment of Mohammed Khider, Ben Bella's chief aide, as foreign minister, replacing Mohammed Bosdiaf.

Boudiaf, the only anti-Ben Bella man on the old political bureau, resigned Saturday.

Small Motor Could Alter Space Chase

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A small ace-in-the-hole motor weighing 37.3 pounds is the big key to America's attaining the world's most significant interplanetary achievement — shooting the Mariner 2 spacecraft on an exploratory mission past Venus.

If the complex space messenger sweeps within 10,000 miles of Venus in December as planned—after a 180-million mile trip—it would mark a major breakthrough for the United States in the race for space.

Information relayed by Mariner 2 could help scientists and astronomers unravel secrets concealed for centuries by the planet's constant cloud layers. It could determine whether life as we know it possibly could exist on the planet, something doubted by most scientists.

The spacecraft motor became all-important Monday when analysis of tracking data indicated an excellent chance Mariner 2 can be directed from the ground to the vicinity of Venus even though it is far off course.

The critical firing of the motor by ground signal is scheduled tentatively for next Tuesday, Sept. 4, after the flight path, alignment, speed and other factors have been carefully computed.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration expressed much concern shortly after the launching when early tracking indicated the spacecraft trajectory was off by as much as 600,000 miles. This would have been too great for the midcourse motor, which has a capability of correcting an error up to 500,000 miles.

It is essential that the probe approach within 25,000 miles of Venus if it is to gather the desired measurements.

Several hours later, however, refinement of tracking signals revealed Mariner 2's error was only 250,000 miles. Project officials announced the "space craft is on a trajectory that can be corrected to make it fly by Venus within a distance of 10,000 miles as planned."

The trajectory error was caused by an unexplained rolling motion executed by the first stage of the Atlas-Agena B booster rocket.

While appearing confident the experiment would succeed all the way to the December encounter with Venus, the officials cautioned that many important functions must take place before the signal to ignite the engine is beamed from the tracking station at Goldstone, Calif.

Ten gas jets which control alignment of the craft must operate properly, radio transmitters must continue to relay vital information, and a highly sensitive antenna must lock on the earth to stabilize Mariner 2 on its roll axis.

The pitch axis was stabilized one hour after launching when sensitive sensors zeroed in on the sun.

Once the vehicle is stabilized on two axes, Goldstone will transmit signals to gas jets to alter the roll and pitch so Mariner 2 is pointed at Venus. Then the midcourse motor will be commanded to ignite to accelerate speed by 80 miles an hour, enough in the vacuum of space to propel the spaceship close to the target planet.

At the time of midcourse maneuver, Mariner 2 will be about one million miles from earth, traveling about 6,800 miles an hour.

At 2 a.m. today it had covered more than 200,000 miles of its planned 180-million mile trek across space.

Even though the midcourse motor fires, scientists do not know whether Mariner 2's instruments and transmitters will hold up in the unknown environment of space where they are subjected to radiation, shifting temperatures and meteorites.

If the craft successfully passes Venus as planned, Earth and Venus will be 36 million miles apart. Transmission of radio signals over this distance would break the interplanetary communications record of 22.5 million miles held by the U.S. Pioneer V sun satellite.

Undersecretary Is Called To Testify

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Undersecretary of Agriculture Charles Murphy goes to Capitol Hill today for questioning about his role in the Billie Sol Estes case.

Murphy, right-hand man to Secretary Orville Freeman was linked in disputed testimony last week with an alleged high level Agriculture Department scheme to "whitewash" Estes' big money manipulations of federal farm aid.

The Senate Investigations subcommittee, exploring whether political influence helped the Pecos, Tex., promoter, hears Murphy this afternoon.

Chairman John McClellan, D-Ark., has charged that someone of front office rank—Either Freeman or Murphy—must have been behind the suspension last Jan. 6 of orders canceling Estes 1961 cotton acreage planting allotments.

Thomas Miller, Southwest area farm aid director, testified he was sent later that month to Texas to make a rigged investigation of Estes and a report advocating he be allowed to retain a challenged 3,123 extra acres of cotton planting allotments. He said the orders came from Emery Jacobs, and he understood them to have Murphy's blessing.

Jacobs, later ousted as a farm aid official when his name was linked to Estes, vigorously denied under oath that he asked Miller for a biased report. And, as Jacobs was testifying, Murphy issued a statement appealing against prejudgment until he testified.

The allotments were canceled and civil penalty fines totaling $554,000 were levied against Estes after his arrest April 29 on fraud charges.

Quick-drying white paint gushed from a 200-gallon pressurized tank onto the road, sidewalks, fences, lawns, flowers, hedges, cars and trucks.

Police said the worker traveled at least two miles—almost the entire length of Tharptown—before honking automobile horns alerted him something was wrong.

House Committee Rejects Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee turned down today President Kennedy's proposal to renew extended unemployment insurance.

The margin was only one vote. It is possible for the committee to reconsider its action next month. However, administration leaders were visibly stricken by the action turning down a recommendation for which Kennedy made a personal plea. It was one of the measures he counted on to help the economy, when he decided against the more drastic move of a quick tax cut.

British Columnist Defends Jacqueline

LONDON (AP)—A leading British columnist today defended Jacqueline Kennedy's frequent public appearances in a bathing suit.

"Since when has youth and grace and gaiety at the White House been improper?" asked the London Daily Mirror's Cassandra (William Connor), who rarely has a good word to say for the United States.

Cassandra took issue with Dr. Willis Ray, a Colorado Baptist leader, who contended that both the President and Mrs. Kennedy has "thrown dignity, decency and decorum out the window" because they went swimming in bathing suits.

McKnight will meet Peter E. Granello, a Mason & Dixon Lines driver from New York City, in the finale.

He will also face Howard Nissen of L.C.L. Transit Co., Green Bay, Wis., who trailed him by one point in the preliminaries.

GIFT TEA — Mrs. Ronnie Leigh Martin, the former Beverly Jean Wilson, was honored with a gift tea in the home of Mrs. Hubert McKinley, 1910 Forty-second Street Friday evening. A pink and white color theme was carried out. The couple were married July 19, in Mexico, and now make their home in Corpus Christi. Pictured from left, Mrs. Hubert McKinley, Mrs. Harold C. Wilson, mother of the honoree, Mrs. Martin, and Mrs. J. H. Martin, Jr., mother of the groom.

WEDNESDAY

The WSCS will meet in a general meeting at the First Methodist Church at 9:30 a.m.

THURSDAY

Corn And Tomato Scramble

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 medium onion (cut into thin strips)
2 cups diced celery
½ cup diced green pepper
1½ cups corn kernels (cut from 3 large fresh cobs)
1 can (1 pound) stewed tomatoes
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon tomato seasoning

In a large skillet melt the butter; add onion, celery and green pepper and cook gently until wilted; stir in corn. Add tomatoes, salt, pepper and tomato seasoning; simmer 10 to 20 minutes. Serve in sauce dishes if you like. Makes 6 to 8 servings. NOTE: After kernels are cut from corn, use back of knife to extract corn "milk". If tomato seasoning is not on hand you can season with a mixture of savory, allspice and paprika.

Jellied Cantaloupe

1 package (3 ounces) pineapple flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 cup dry white wine
1 tablespoon lime juice
1 medium cantaloupe

In an 8- or 9-inch aluminum cake pan stir together the pineapple gelatin and oiling water until gelatin dissolves. Stir in wine and lime juice. Place pan in ice-cube compartment, stirring several times, until slightly thickened—this will probably take only 15 or 20 minutes so watch. Meanwhile, halve cantaloupe and remove seeds; using a round-bowl ¾ teaspoon measure, cut out balls—there should be 1½ cups. Fold cantaloupe balls into slightly thickened gelatin; turn into a 3½ or 4-cup mold; cover and chill until set. Unmold.

Pilcher, Jerry Rainwater, Mrs. J. W. Lewis, Ranoka Hooker, and Jody Wood of Colorado City.

Another granddaughter, Peggy Whitehead of Del Rio, Mrs. Walter Gracey of Brownfield, and Mrs. W. M. Bierman of Andrews, cousins, presided at the gift table.

Self-Revealing Letters Of Author James Agee

LETTERS OF JAMES AGEE TO FATHER FLYE. Braziller. $5.

People who are interested in books and the writing of books will be the main audience for this collection of personal letters.

These are the circumstances:

Agee, a boy who had lost his father, became a pupil of an Episcopal priest named Flye. The latter served almost as a foster father to the boy, and from the time he went to prep school until his death from those mid-40 heart attacks which often take overworked men into eternity, Agee continued to write to his father confessor a series of revealing letters.

They convey a tragic theme of "might have been." Agee was a man who wanted to write. Economic necessity drew him into a first-rate professional career with Fortune. Time and the film industry. He had to do his "serious" writing in what spare time he could find.

At his death, his published works included a book of verse, a short novel and a short prose work called "Now Let Us Praise Famous Men." After his death there appeared a volume of his film writings and the novel "A Death In The Family," which won the Pulitzer prize and was made into a play.

Personal letters often contain more self-depreciation than public utterances, as well as a full measure of soul-searching and doubts. Even so, these letters are remarkable for the way in which Agee expressed his troubled problems and his painful gropings toward self-expression.

He had a great mind and was a good reader. His letters are filled with reactions to the books he read, and he read in wide-ranging taste. Of course it must be remembered that Father Flye was an unusual person to have inspired such confidences, on an intellectual level which surpasses the ordinary.

Reading these letters, one is apt to wonder how far Agee might have gone with a little better luck.

Spirit Of Resignation Seen In East Germany's Interior

EDITOR'S NOTE — Although Western correspondents regularly visit East Berlin, the rest of Communist East Germany usually is closed to them except for such East-West events as the annual Leipzig Trade Fair or an all-European sports competition. AP correspondent Loyal Gould has been covering the European swimming championships in Saxony's largest city and sends this report of life behind the Iron Curtain.

By LOYAL GOULD

LEIPZIG, East Germany (AP) —Hopes rise and fall along the Berlin wall with the slightest change in the East-West political climate. But inside East Germany, there is a spirit of resignation.

Walter Ulbricht, Germany's top Red, has succeeded in wiping out almost all hope for a change for the better.

"After 17 years of Communist rule," a Leipzig streetcar conductor said, "we are coming to accept our fate."

He expressed the opinion of dozens of people this reporter talked to during 10 days in this former cultural and commercial center.

Once known as a little Paris because of its sparkling intellectual and social life, Leipzig now has the drab uniformity and widespread shabbiness characteristic of East Germany's colorless cities.

"Since it looks to many of us as if it's going to stay this way, we're knuckling under and trying to make the best of a bad situation," said a student from East Berlin Humboldt University.

"The only way to get ahead here is to at least pretend you're a good Communist," he explained.

Joining the party assured him a university education, a slightly better diet and preference for a job when he graduates next year.

"There are about 1.6 million of us in the party," he continued, "and about 1 per cent are true believers.

"What's the use of showing opposition? You'll only suffer for it. Why try to escape? You'll probably be killed."

He said the widely publicized shootings by East German border police of their fellow countrymen trying to escape over the Berlin wall "have discouraged a lot of us from even thinking about getting out."

A shop clerk in her late teens voiced similar opinions.

"There's no use even pretending it ever will be any different," she said, "because the people running things here are backed up by Russian power."

The girl, who would be pretty if she had the things with which Western women enhance their looks, is a member of the Communist Free German Youth organization.

"Why shouldn't I be?" she asked. "This way I get free vacations on the Baltic Coast in summer and better chances for job promotion."

Her fiance is a 20-year-old machinist in a Leipzig factory. The party has promised them a 2½ room apartment in an apartment house to be completed in three months.

"I have to give lip service to party doctrine," said the machinist, "but why not when it's to my advantage?"

He said Communist and non-Communist workers in his factory meet almost daily to discuss the editorials in the party's main newspaper Neues Deutschland.

"These sessions are boring and time consuming and we dislike them," he continued, "but if you don't show you've read and understood the editorials, you're sunk."

He also said a constant display of enthusiasm for official policy tends to remove a bit of the police surveillance that hovers constantly over the residents of this country.

"If I'm a good boy and they begin to trust me a little," he added, "the sudden visits to my room by the police tend to fall off."

A young musician in a local night club for party big shots said 60 per cent of all popular music played by his band must be composed in the East bloc and the other 40 per cent must come from lists approved by the regime.

"This rules out real jazz and the type of music I like which is branded here as an example of Western decadence," he said.

"As you in the West, say, it's square, but by playing this way I have a job and can get together now and then with my pals for private swing sessions of our own."

The President's Cup Regatta boat races are held in Washington on the four weekends between mid-August and mid-September.

Scientists Agree Space Work Vital

By ED STAATS

AMARILLO (AP) — Scientific talent in Amarillo for a two-day nuclear-space seminar agreed the United States' ambitious programs in space and nuclear science are vital and necessary.

Noted physicist Dr. Edward Teller Monday warned, "We could lose our freedom in space if we are not prepared to defend it."

The speakers here for the symposium, which ends today, applauded the nation's space exploration program. However, Teller warned that in big projects there will be big mistakes.

He said from space "we might find out something about the beginning of the world." Teller, the world's leading exponent for peaceful use of atomic energy, cautioned doubly that if "we are scared of progress, and if progress is slow, the future will not be ours."

Dr. Lloyd Berkner, said that "space accomplishments are now equated with world leadership."

"It would be foolish to abandon to the communists, the symbol of leadership," he said.

Berkner, president of the Graduate Research Center of the Southwest, Dallas, added, "No nation can be a world leader without space technology."

Dr. Clark Goodman, of Techno-Science Inc., Houston, said the United States already is behind in the field of big engines used to power rockets. He said that this lead by the soviets can be overcome.

Goodman said there are three basic sources for rockets. One is chemical power presently used in manned space flight programs, and which he says will be used to get man to the moon.

Nuclear propulsion systems will be used to transport man to Mars, he said. And electrical propulsion systems will be needed to take man to the near planets. Solar energy, he said, will be utilized to run auxiliary power units, but not for propulsion.

He discounted any danger in using the nuclear power plants as they would not be ignited on earth, but rather in space, after being launched by chemical boosters.

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

MEXICO CITY—The way to get into big time free enterprise here is to have your establishment burn down. This is what happened to Ovaciones, one of the big local journals on the top of the stack.

Last year, an electric wire got hot in the old plant and resulted in a very spectacular blaze. The flames shot 7,500 feet into the atmosphere. Mainly because Mexico City is 7,400 feet up in the mountains to begin with.

So Mr. Fernando Gonzalez Parra Diaz Lombardo got out the hammer and nails and built himself a 24-carat news emporium. Mr. Diaz Lombardo is the head man of Ovaciones. And he now has himself the most modern news factory in Latin America. Latest type presses and equipment with all the ultra-new gadgets available.

When the morning sun streams through the picture windows of Mr. Diaz Lombardo's plush office, he pushes a button. Up shoots a transparent blue plastic curtain to cut the glare. On shady afternoons, Mr. Diaz Lombardo punches another button. This one unrolls a transparent brown curtain to brighten up the place.

"Mexican invention," said Mr. Diaz Lombardo, puching the buttons.

Now the reason your curious correspondent is aware of these items if because I accompanied a group of free-loading news gentlemen to inspect the new Ovaciones building. Checking up on stories we had been hearing.

And it turned out even more elegant than the reports. It would not be a fib to say this plant would make many large U.S. newspapers wish they had the same kind of machinery.

In addition to the supersonic printing equipment, Mr. Diaz Lombardo installed a gymnasium for the workers and a roof garden. Where they can flex their muscles among the geraniums.

Offices and editorial rooms are walled up with a special plastic cover that looks like fancy paper, in pleasant colors.

It is in situations such as this that you discover the true nature of the persons with whom you are associated in the news industry. Dr. Dave Weber, president of the Foreign Correspondents Association made a very astonishing revelation to yours truly.

While Ovaciones rolled off the shining new presses, Mr. Weber leaned over and whispered in a loud yell that he had always wanted to pick up a squirt can and oil the presses.

This coming from our president, no less.

Mr. Weber may have suffered emotional shocks as a child. Otherwise, he might have risen to the position of a tractor mechanic. Not only squirting oil but shifting gears as well. Possibly he got complexed up because his mama would not allow him to set fire to the family dog. And out of sheer frustration, he turned to news gathering. Many persons are reluctant to believe Mr. Weber is a newsman, however, since he is a gentleman and has friends.

Miss Marion Wilhelm, of the Chicago Tribune, confided that watching the mechanical operation was very exciting. I considered it interesting but somewhat noisy. But Miss Wilhelm may have been reading poetry the day before or just suffering from a bad case of spring fever.

Mr. Charles Guptill, one of the top news scribes in Latin America, whom Ovaciones pilfered from The Associated Press, is notched for the editor's chair of the English language edition they will publish in the near future.

Mr. Guptill was neither poetic nor emotional about the operation. He merely strolled around like a banker who had just put out a few hundred thousand at 20 per cent interest. With the collateral already in the safety deposit box.

It is a far cry from the antique journalistic efforts that came out blank or all ink. Progress is almost getting ahead of itself in this modernized town.

Ted, Young McCormack In Debate

BOSTON (AP) — If President Kennedy's youngest brother were simply "Edward Moore"—instead of Edward Moore Kennedy—his candidacy for the U.S. Senate, in his first try for elective office, "would be a joke," his rival for the Democratic nomination says.

The two youthful candidates for the Massachusetts nomination—Kennedy, 30, and State Atty. Gen. Edward J. McCormack Jr., 34, nephew of House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., met Monday night on the debating platform.

Television cameras and radio microphones carried their words throughout the state and beyond.

It was hot in the well-filled auditorium in the South Boston High School—and the debate was just as warm in spots.

McCormack went quickly on the attack with his reference to the magic Kennedy name.

Kennedy said the candidates "should not be talking about families or personalities, but about the people's destiny in Massachusetts."

McCormack said he and Kennedy agreed on most of the administration program in Washington but said the principal issue between them is their qualifications for the office of senator.

McCormack cited his 10 years in elective office, three terms on the Boston City Council and three as attorney general.

"I ask my opponent about his qualifications — you've never worked for a living and never ran for or held public office—you're running on a slogan 'he can do more for Massachusetts' — the most insulting slogan I've seen," McCormack said.

"This is a slogan that is an insult to the President of the United States, because it means the President is not doing enough for Massachusetts or will discriminate against a man who is not his brother."

Kennedy said the decisions to be made by the Senate in the next few years "will affect not only the United States but the world."

"We must nominate and elect a vigorous spokesman, not only for the state, but one who knows the problems of the world as well," Kennedy said.

He said it is essential to elect a Democrat, "because many issues are decided by a single vote and there are key programs coming up in the next year or two."

"If my opponent is successful (in the primary Sept. 18) I will support him," Kennedy said.

McCormack reminded the audience he was born in South Boston, had attended that very high school, that he had married a South Boston girl and their two children were born there.

He said Kennedy, only two years ago, was thinking of moving to the West.

"Massachusetts isn't a second choice to me," he said.

The audience obviously included many old friends and supporters of McCormack. But Kennedy also came in for rounds of applause—in one case when he said he believed surplus foods should be sent as aid to Yugoslavia and Poland. South Boston, once regarded as all Irish, now has many residents of Polish background.

The debaters disagreed on whether the United States should quit production of nuclear arms.

McCormack said a halt in production would show good faith.

Kennedy said he couldn't disagree more, that the United States must have a strong defense against communism.

McCormack said later he also favors a strong defense.

Both debaters insisted they could be independent as members of the Senate.

Kennedy said if his brother, the President, called for tariff cuts, he would have to oppose them if they affected the shoe and leather industry or other Massachusetts industries.

McCormack says he favors a tax cut now, but that his uncle, the speaker, had opposed it.

He said a tax cut in the lower and middle income levels would put more money in the hands of the consumers and help the national economy.

Kennedy said he opposes a cut because it might lead to a deficit. Anyway, he said, small taxpayers would be helped more if loopholes in the tax laws were closed.

NEW WAY TO BE SUDDENLY SLIM

Are you a woman whose figure is on the good side but might look perfect? You'll be thrilled by the new easy way science has discovered for you to become Suddenly Slim. If you're more than 15 pounds overweight, then this idea is not for you. If your weight problem falls within this range, then you can realize a new, smoother figure today, without diet or exercise.

Suddenly Slim is an all-new kind of 4-oz. girdle constructed of science fibers. A startling innovation is the sheer front panel. This is permanently stiffened by a science process and cannot give or sag. It's surrounded by a slimming action border. A featherstitched panel down each side of this girdle will contour your hips if they are a problem. The girdle itself is of "wonder" Lycra spandex fiber. It feels like nothing on but has such slimming strength it gives your figure everything that's possible with a foundation.

"Suddenly Slim" is the peak achievement of the designer-genius, Olga.

Be "Suddenly Slim" today in either girdle or panty version.

NEW FALCON—The first 1963 model car to be announced out of Detroit, Ford's all-new Falcon Futura convertible sets a "sporty" pace. The newest addition to Ford's compact line will be introduced in dealer showrooms on Friday, Sept. 28.

Best hitting streak in the first half of the National League race was the 18-game streak compiled by Frank Thomas of the New York Mets.

Vanilla beans, dried in the sun for weeks to acquire their heavy scent and aroma, lose 75 per cent of their original weight in shrinkage.

Instead of being nagged by an unemployment problem, West Germany is worried about the possibilities of an acute labor shortage.

Falcon Futura Is Shown In Detroit

The Falcon Futura convertible—a completely new model in Ford's industry leading compact line—led Detroit's parade of 1963 models today when Ford Division of Ford Motor Company released complete details and photographs of the sporty car.

A combination of low convertible silhouette, compact lightness and 170 - cubic - inch engine performance, the car has the rakish flair of a sports car while maintaining the traditional economy features of the Falcon.

Full-width, pleated, all-vinyl front and rear seats are standard. Optional front bucket seats and a sports console are available to customize the convertible in sport car fashion. An electrically operated, power top is standard equipment.

Lee A. Iacocca, Ford Motor Company vice president and Ford Division general manager, pointed out that the car can be tailored to six different performance levels through various transmission and rear axle combinations.

The car is available with either automatic, 3-speed manual, or a fully-synchronized, 4-speed manual transmission. Wire wheel covers are optional.

In styling, the new convertible is distinctively Falcon, while its lower silhouette gives it an even more racy appearance. Interior appointments are tailored with luxury-car plushness. The all-vinyl convertible top is anchored to each roof bow to prevent "ballooning" when the car is underway.

The Falcon convertible is the first compact to provide 36,000-mile factory installed major chassis lubrication and 6,000-mile oil change and minor lube intervals. Because of improved lubricants and advancements in sealing designs, the historical oil change and inspection after the first 1,000 miles have been eliminated.

The new convertible will be in Ford dealer showrooms Sept. 28.

National League pitchers turned in 48 shutouts during the first half of the baseball season.

The Conestoga wagon, which carried freight in the East and pioneers in the West, was named for the place where it was first made in Pennsylvania.

CALLS HIS OWN PLAYS NOW

Plum Shines In Detroit Uniform

By The Associated Press

Given the chance to prove his point, quarterback Milt Plum is doing just that these days for his new club, the Detroit Lions.

Acquired by the National Football League club in a multi-player deal with the Cleveland Browns, Plum expressed great satisfaction at escaping the 1-call-the-plays system employed by Cleveland coach Paul Brown.

Plum always contended that a quarterback should be allowed to run the team on his own and in Cleveland that's just not the way it's done. After five years Plum began complaining out loud and before he knew it, he was wearing a Lions' jersey.

Detroit coach George Wilson promised the ex-Penn State star complete control of the club while he was on the field. Monday night Plum not only was in control of the Lions but he ran the Pittsburgh Steelers too—right off the field, that is.

With the Detroit offense stumbling and his club trailing 7-0 in the second period, Wilson put in Plum. The ex-Brown peppered the Steeler defense with passes, completing 15 of 18, including two touchdowns, as Detroit came from behind for a 26-20 victory.

That gave Plum 27 completions in 44 attempts in Detroit's first three exhibitions, and those kind of figures could make NFL Western Division coaches wish Plum had never left Cleveland.

Today was cutdown day in both American and National Leagues, with NFL teams forced to reduce their rosters to 43 men and AFL clubs to 38. Most clubs had already reached the cutdown figures but two teams, Buffalo in the AFL and Minnesota in the NFL, were active in the player market.

The Bills asked waivers on guard Jim La Compte, their seventh draft choice from North Carolina, and linebacker Don Caraway, who had been signed as a free agent. Buffalo also signed Marv Matuszak, a linebacker recently released by the Baltimore Colts.

The Vikings returned tackle Dale Memmelaar to the St. Louis Cardinals, nullifying an earlier trade that sent a 1963 draft choice to the Cards. Minnesota also got Ted Stute, a rookie tackle, from the Cleveland Browns.

All-American Futurity The Richest Yet

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M.—Record-conscious Ruidoso Downs staked a claim to another new "high" this week when it revealed that the All-American Quarter Horse Futurity, slated for its fourth running next Monday (Labor Day,) will rank as the richest horse racing stakes of any kind to be presented in the United States thus far this year.

The gross value of the All-American, now established at $222,850, tops all three jewels of this year's Triple Crown of thoroughbred racing—the $150,000 Preakness, $125,000 Belmont Stakes and $125,000 Kentucky Derby.

The only two remaining thoroughbred stakes due to top the All-American by year's end are the Arlington-Washinton Park Futurity, expected to gross approximately $350,000 on September 8, and the Garden State, which last year led 'em all at $301,365.

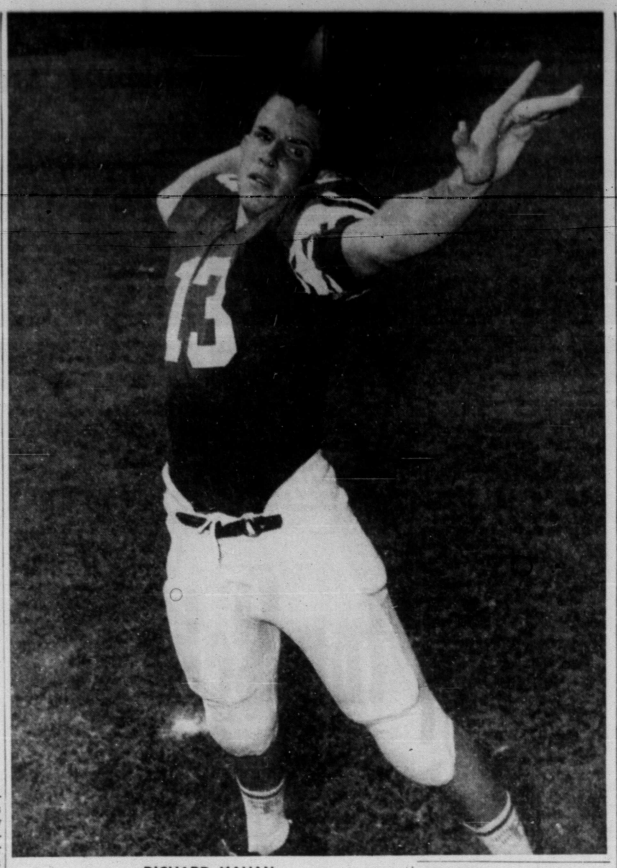

Last year's All-American, which grossed $202,425, ranked fifth among the nation's richest horse racing stakes for 1961. This year's renewal now appears destined to "improve its position" to third place among horse racing's final standings for juiciest stakes races of 1962.

You Crave Watermelon? We Got It!

'Tis a proven fact that practically every red-blooded American boy loves watermelon. If not inborn, it's a trait they acquire at an early age.

All local football players will be afforded a golden opportunity to "fill up" on watermelon this evening at 7:30, when the Snyder Quarterback Club plays host to its annual watermelon feast at the Towle Park Pavilion.

Boys who plan to play football from the seventh grade on up through high school are all invited to the feast, as are all Quarterback Club members and prospective members.

Turnstiles Click Out Merry Tune In LA

NEW YORK (AP)—The Los Angeles Angels, the sixth major league team to move past the million mark in home attendance, have virtually doubled their turnstile count this season.

Playing in the 56,000-seat Dodger Stadium, the Angels have drawn 1,030,294 customers in 65 home dates as compared to 567,097 in the same number of dates in 20,000-seat Wrigley Field a year ago.

Other teams over the million mark are the Los Angeles Dodgers 1,828,638, San Francisco Giants 1,241,459, Minnesota Twins 1,240,976, New York Yankees 1,132,789 and the Detroit Tigers 1,045,638.

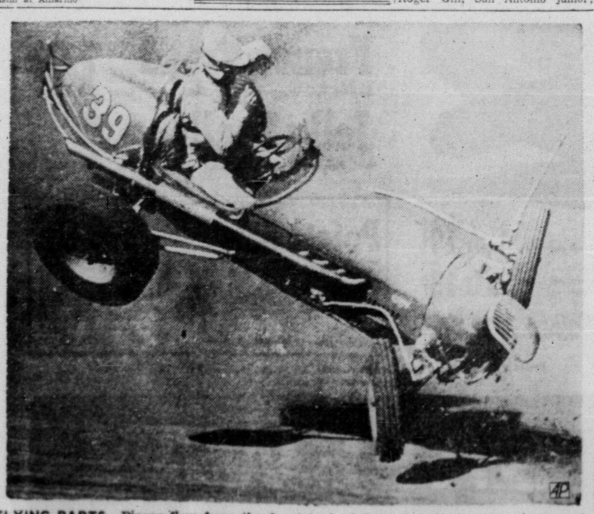

Pittsburgh and the Chicago White Sox are closing in on a million paid admissions, the Pirates with 943,694 and the White Sox with 910,450. The figures include Sunday's games.

Additional Pee Wees Needed Here

The flare has gone up for additional Pee Wee football players at the Scurry County Boys' Club, and each boy planning to participate has been asked to register by Friday if possible.

Coaches will begin picking their teams Friday, so it is especially important that all be signed up prior to that time.

Bill McLaughlin is currently drilling all hopefuls in the fundamentals of the game each day from 5-6 p.m. on the Central Elementary practice field. All grade school boys in Snyder aged 10-12 are eligible to participate in the program and urged to register soon so that the group may be broken up into four league teams.

FLYING PARTS—Pieces flew from the front end of Russ Long's racer as it flipped over on the Minnesota State Fair track Long, 31, from Yucaipa, Cal., suffered an eye injury and bruises as he wound up under the careening car. No other cars were involved in his wreck, one of two duing the race program. (AP Wirephoto)

Dallas Open Begins Friday

DALLAS (AP) — Three defending champions and five of the ten top money winners will be in the field Friday when the $35,000 Dallas Open Golf Tournament starts at Oak Cliff Country Club.

Missing will be the No. 1 winner, Arnold Palmer; the No. 3 cash-grabber, Bill Casper; the No. 5 winner, Gary Player; the No. 6 winner, Bob Goalby and the No. 8 winner, Bobby Nichols.

Gene Littler, who has taken down $62,280.83 to be the second leading money-winner; Jack Nicklaus, the National Open champion, who ranks fourth with $52,098.95, and Doug Sanders, who has soared to seventh place with $35,305.29 by winning the last two tournaments, head the field.

Aussie Southpaw Challenges Field

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—The National Tennis championships get under way on the polished turf of the West Side Tennis Club Wednesday and for all intents and purposes it will be Rod Laver against the field.

The red-thatched Australian lefthander has been cutting a wide swath all over Europe and Australia this year and has won just about everything in sight except his rivals' rackets.

At last count, he had won nine titles including the big three—Australia, France and Wimbledon. If he can win the United States championship—and he certainly is the heavy favorite—he will be the only other player besides Don Budge to capture the four top tournaments. Budge accomplished the feat in 1938.

Laver, of course, is seeded No. 1. Who might make it tough for him? Well, there's his Davis Cup teammate and defending champion, Roy Emerson, who is seeded No. 2. Emerson whipped him in the 1961 final.

The United States contingent is headed by Chuck McKinley of St. Ann, Mo., who blows hot and cold. He is No. 3, one of the two U.S. players seeded. The other is Frank Froehling of Coral Gables, Fla., No. 8.

Behind McKinley comes Rafael Osuna of the Mexican Davis Cup team that squashed the United States in the American zone final. Fred Stolle, a second line Australian, is No. 5, followed by Jan-Erik Lundquist of Sweden and Nicola Pietrangeli of Italy.

The women's division, too, is headed by an Aussie, Margaret Smith is No. 1, followed by Karen Hantze Susman of San Diego, Calif. Then there is Maria Bueno of Brazil, Vera Sukova of Czechoslovakia, defending champion Darlene Hard of Long Beach, Calif., Rene Shuurman of South Africa, Leslie Turner of Australia and Sandra Reynolds Price of South Africa.

Miss Hard is the No. 1 player in the United States, but she has not had a good year. However, compared to Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., the No. 1 ranked men's player in the country, she has been doing great. He has been clobbered so much in early rounds of tournaments, he wasn't even seeded.

This probably will be the most international of all 82 U.S. championships. Players from 30-odd nations will play. The field was so bulky, in fact, that qualifying rounds will be held Wednesday and Thursday to get the field down to 128 men and 96 women.

Four Russians are in the tournament. This is the first time the Soviets ever have sent a delegation here, and they are the first to admit they don't expect to do much.

Babb Among Castoffs

DALLAS (AP) — Gene Babb, veteran linebacker, and three rookies were cut from the Dallas Cowboys squad Monday.

Babb had been with the Cowboys from their first year—1960.

The rookies let out were John Sutro, offensive tackle acquired by the Cowboys from the Green Bay Packers; Lloyd Winston, offensive halfback, and Charles Sells, offensive end, who came to the club as free agents.

Terry Wins No. 19 To Halt Yank Skid

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ralph Terry, who five years ago climbed out of a ditch to resume his pitching career, reigns today as king of the hill in the American League.

The 26-year-old right-hander reached the top Monday night with a sparkling performance limiting Cleveland to three singles in a 5-0 victory that ended the first-place New York Yankees' longest losing streak in four years at six games.

It left Terry, the AL's winningest pitcher, only one triumph shy of the 20-victory circle, and propelled him another step upward in the long, hard climb that began on a bleak November night in 1958 when he fell asleep at the wheel of his car.

Terry's car shot into a ditch and rolled over four times.

"I could still hear the wheels spinning in the darkness," Terry recalls. "They took me to Kansas City (he had been traded by the Yankees in the swap involving Billy Martin) where they found I had fractured my hip. I spent seven weeks in traction, lucky to be alive."

In 1959, Terry was traded back to the Yankees. A year later he compiled a 10-8 record, but threw the home run ball to Bill Mazeroski that gave the Pittsburgh Pirates the World Series. Last year he was 16-3 although sidelined for a time and lost his one series start against Cincinnati.

This year he has been healthy all season and has stepped in as Ralph Houk's big winner. The victory against the Indians was his third shutout, and his 12th complete game, bringing his record to 19-10.

The triumph, halting the world champions' longest skid since they lost six in a row from Sept. 16-23, 1958, boosted the Yankees league lead to 3½ games over second-place Los Angeles and third-place Minnesota, both idle.

In the only other games scheduled, Lu Clinton and Carl Yastrzemski powered Boston to a 7-4 decision over Detroit and Washington blanked Baltimore 7-0 behind Tom Cheney's four-hitter. There were no games scheduled in the National League.

Terry hurled perfect ball until Bubba Phillips singled to open the sixth inning. A single by Tito Francona in the seventh and Al Luplow's infield single with two out in the ninth were the only other Indian hits. Terry faced only 30 batters, striking out nine while walking none.

Rookie left-hander Sam McDowell (2-6) took the loss. He gave up two runs in the second inning when Mickey Mantle doubled for the first of his four hits and Tom Tresh and Elston Howard walked. Mantle and Tresh also raced home when Jerry Kindall's relay to first base on the attempted double play went wild. Bobby Richardson's two-run double and Mantle's run-producing single wrapped it up in a three-run eighth.

Clinton hit his seventh homer in 13 days and added a double and single for three runs batted in while Yastrzemski was 3-for-3 with a double and two singles, scoring three times and knocking in two runs for the Red Sox. Billy Bruton and Al Kaline tagged winner Gene Conley (13-11) for consecutive homers in the first inning and Kaline's single in the seventh accounted for the other two Tiger runs and brought on reliever Dick Radatz to finish up. The loser was Hank Aguirre (12-6).

Cheney (5-8) posted his third shutout with his third complete game, retiring the last 12 Orioles he faced. Russ Snyder and Whitey Herzog shared Baltimore's four hits. Harry Bright, who was 3-for-4 with two RBI, drove in the first Senator run with a first-inning triple off Billy Hoeft (4-7). Another run came across in the third on a sacrifice fly by Chuck Hinton before a five-run eighth-inning uprising put it out of reach.

Labor Scores 'Achievement' In Strikes At Space Centers

By INEZ ROBB

We Americans may never get to the moon or Mars or Venus. But we can be proud of one great achievement: We shall have fully protected the right of labor on space projects to strike irresponsibly for the most paltry reasons, if and when it pleases, in the face of continuing international crises.

As this is written, members of Local 588 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Engineers are reluctantly obeying a Federal court injunction to return to their jobs at Redstone Arsenal at Huntsville, Ala.

The electricians at Redstone, one of the United States' primary space installations, showed exceptional finesse and timing in selecting the day on which to walk off the job. The day was August 14, when the whole world was awed by the stupendous Soviet feat of putting two cosmonauts in orbit.

Amid the columns of newspaper reports of this Russian achievement, a preliminary exercise to a moon landing, there were two boxes. One reported the electricians' walk out at Redstone. The second was datelined London and contained a statement by one of Britain's foremost scientists, Sir Bernard Lovell.

Sir Bernard is director of Great Britain's radio-astronomy station at Jodrell Bank. What he had to say is probably a fair cross-section of scientific thinking about the space race. The British scientist declared:

"I think the Russians have demonstrated that they are so far ahead in the technique of rocketry that the possibility of America catching up within this particular sphere in the next decade is now remote."

In the face of this, as well as President Kennedy's admission that we are behind in space, the electricians struck. Under court injunction, they reluctantly went back to work nine days after walking off the job.

The employment of two nonunion electricians by one of the many contractors at Redstone lead to the strike of 150 electricians and the immediate refusal of 1,200 other construction workers to cross their picket line. It is the same dreary story that has been repeated ad nauseum even since the space program began.

Cape Canaveral from the beginning was dogged by one wildcat strike after another. Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg made it his first order of business to bring some sort of labor order out of chaos at the Cape.

This latest strike at Redstone saw construction halt on vital space and military projects, including the gigantic C5 Saturn booster essential for the planned U. S. moon landing.

It would be nonsensical to blame union labor for the basic American lag in space exploration. But it is inexcusable that union labor has added to that lag by its irresponsibility and its wildcat strikes.

By tolerating this situation, union labor is begging for what it's going to get eventually, when the voters are sufficiently fed up to force the two major political parties to act. So far neither the Democrats nor the Republicans have had the intestinal fortitude to force on union labor the responsibility it forced on capital 30 years ago. But the voters are restless.

James Haygood, union agent for the Redstone electricians, in the face of the Federal court injunction, said his men "are not happy."

Well, here's news for Haygood: Millions of Americans aren't happy, either. They're unhappy about the space lag and no longer inclined to shrug off continuous and irresponsible strikes at space centers when the nation's honor, prestige and safety are at stake.

Junior Editors Quiz on BONES

QUESTION: How do bones grow?

• • •

ANSWER: We are very apt to think of bones as just hard, stick-like things. They don't seem to be alive, so it's natural to wonder how it is that they manage to get bigger and keep pace with other parts of the body. The mystery is solved when we understand that bones are not dead things but are made of living tissue. The hard part is on the outside. Inside is spongy tissue and there is a long canal filled with marrow, which helps to manufacture blood corpuscles for the body. When you realize that bones are connected with the blood stream and are part of the whole life of the body it is easy to think of them growing as other parts of the body do by the continual addition of new cells, which are the minute building blocks of the body. So Jack's "humerus" or arm bone is constantly growing while he is young. At the rounded end of the bone is a plate of "cartilage", a soft material. This continually widens and grows away from the center part,—making it longer. As it grows, the cartilage secretes the hard substance which turns into bone.

• • •

FOR YOU TO DO: Knowing that a bone is living tissue will help you understand how bones will knit together again after being broken. But we all should know exactly what and what not to do in the case of broken bones. Check a Boy Scout or Girl Scout Handbook for this information. 8-28

Arguments On Profits To Continue

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Profit seems likely to become an even more controversial word in the months ahead.

Management makes two words of it—profit squeeze. It complains of making less on each unit of production and sales.

Labor tends to regard any profit rise as an indication that workers aren't getting their fair share of the fruits of industry. Labor cites the still rising total of profits as showing management can pay more in wages.

Government regards profit as a good thing—it provides tax receipts, for one thing—but not if a rise in profits comes from an inflationary rise in prices or from more unemployment brought on by cost-cutting automation.

The profit trend in many industries just now depends on two things: continuing recovery from the last recession rather than a dip into another one; and the next round of wage negotiations, with top union officials plugging for a 35-hour work week at the same pay as for the present 40 hours.

The steel industry, for example, is complaining of the profit squeeze. This was born from rising labor costs due to the fringe benefits granted last spring and the inability to raise prices because of government opposition at first, and later because of increased competition from foreign mills and new materials in the United States.

The steel labor contract can be reopened next year on the question of higher wages. By that time the mills should be producing more as the last of the stocks consumers built up as a hedge against a possible strike this year are used up.

But if wages go up and prices can't, there'll be even more of a profit squeeze. Competition from foreign mills and from other materials making inroads on steel's markets could make price hiking hard.

Part of the controversy over profits can very swirl about what role the government plays next year if the steelworkers seek higher wages.

The profit question is further clouded by the fact that, with a few exceptions, each year since the war has seen the total of profits by all industries and services rise. And even in times of recessions some companies will set record profits.

Part of the dollar rise in the total of profits since the war is due to monetary inflation. The dollar totals are higher but they buy less in the marketplace, whether it be materials or labor.

Part of the rise in total profits is due to the even higher climb of the total of sales. More people are buying more things. They are paying out more for them.

But many companies complain that while their sales totals have climbed their profits either have not risen in the last year or two or have done so at a much slower pace than sales.

This is the profit squeeze. It means a lower margin of profit on sales. It means production, transportation, merchandising costs have risen faster than have prices and profits are less.

Many people are willing to leave this problem in management's lap.

But if profits don't justify it, industry won't expand. If profit prospects are poor, new ventures will be shelved.

The result is a squeeze on companies and their stockholders. It's also a squeeze on jobs.

All Jobs Manned At Space Center

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—Jobs were manned at normal strength at the Marshall Space Flight Center Monday for the first time since Aug. 14 when about 150 electricians began a strike.

Members of the AFL-CIO International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers set up pickets protesting employment of non-union electricians by a subcontractor. About 1,200 members of other building trades unions honored the lines and several projects vital to the country's moonshot program were hampered.

Poll Tax Ban Amendment Is Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Capping a 23-year battle, Congress has approved a proposed constitutional amendment which would ban poll taxes in federal elections.

Now it's up to the states, which have seven years to make up their mind.

With 40 votes to spare, the House completed action Monday on a resolution submitting to the state legislatures the proposition of making it constitutionally wrong to require payment of a poll tax to vote in elections for federal officials.

The vote was 295 to 86. A two-thirds majority was needed for approval. The winners included 163 Democrats and 132 Republicans. On the losing side were 71 Democrats and 15 Republicans.

Most of the dissenting Democrats were from the five states still having poll taxes: Arkansas, Alabama, Mississippi, Texas and Virginia.

The next move is up to the General Services Administration. That agency must certify the congressional action—approved last March by the Senate—to the governors of the 50 states. If three-fourths of the state legislatures—38 of them—ratify the proposed amendment within seven years it will become the law of the land.

The abolition proposal does not affect elections for state and local officials. It applies only to presidential and vice presidential electors and to voters for senators and United States representatives.

There was no certainty that approve of the 38 legislatures would be forthcoming despite the fact that only five states now have poll tax laws. Some Southern states which have repealed their own poll tax laws may look upon the proposal as an attempt by the federal government to prescribe qualifications for voters.

The House action lessened for the time being the potency of poll taxes as a national political issue. For years the platforms of both major political parties have clamored for repeal of poll taxes, and since 1939 Congress has grappled with the issue. The House had passed five bills that tackled the problem from the legislative point of view. Twice the Senate passed constitutional amendment proposals. Never before had the two branches agreed on a final approach.

Alabamans Go To Polls

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Voters in 21 of Alabama's 67 counties nominate new Democratic legislative candidates today, the first in the nation to act under a federal court's reapportionment edict to give more representation to more populous areas, less to rural areas.

As a result of the court's unprecedented order in July, six populous counties are selecting additional nominees to go with those chosen in the regular primary in May.

Thirteen other counties, which had their House representation reduced, are holding elimination contests among nominees who won in May.

Two counties, placed together in a new senatorial district, are picking a senator.

The federal court, rejecting two reapportionment measures passed by the Alabama Legislature in a special session, handed down a decision which put parts of each bill together.

The judges ruled the legislature had failed to comply with the court's earlier order, calling for fair reapportionment. The three-judge panel declared the measures unconstitutional and reapportioned the legislature by judicial decree.

Mexico Explosion Claims 6th Life

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Francisca Salazar Jiminez, 26, died Monday to bring to six the number of persons killed in last week's gas explosion here.

Authorities continued to investigate the cause of the blast which heavily damaged a seven - story apartment house. Dozens of persons were injured.

A gas company employe said he pumped gas into the basement through an altered intake valve. The valve he said had been altered and he had not been notified, he added.

Officials said plumbers' torches apparently ignited the gas.

Triplets Born To Milwaukee Couple

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)— The 24-year-old wife of an unemployed man gave birth Monday to triplets—their 9th, 10th and 11th children.

A boy and two girls were born to Irma Washington, whose husband, Henry, 30, is on relief.

Their other children are Diane, 9; Thomas, 8; 5-year-old twins Ernest and Ernestine; Curtis, 4; Sherman, 3; Herman, 2, and Philip, 1. A daughter who would be 6 now died in 1960.

Dividend Withholding Tax First Used 100 Years Ago

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Just over 100 years ago the first income tax in American history went into effect with a provision now being kicked around in Congress as if it were brand new and unthinkable.

This act of July 1, 1862—among other things—called for withholding a tax on dividends and interest paid out by banks, trust companies, railroads, savings institutions and insurance companies.

The Supreme Court in 1881, by a unanimous decision, declared this act constitutional.

But now when President Kennedy asks Congress to approve a withholding tax on dividends and interest—as part of a general tax revision to close loopholes in the tax laws—he has run into fiery opposition.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd, conservative Southern Democrat of Virginia, says the dividend withholding is "unworkable." Sen. Jacob K. Javits, liberal New York Republican, says it is "impractical."

Stock exchange firms, life insurance companies and banks want it knocked out of the bill or changed. The National Association of Manufacturers blasted the whole bill.

Support for the idea comes from equally strange mates, like liberal Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., and the conservative U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Stranger still, nobody on either side seems to remember that act of 1862 which provided for what Kennedy is asking now. But that law of a century ago should be an eye-opener to those who think some of the main features of the present tax system are of recent origin.

It was a graduated income tax. Then—as now—the first $600 of income was exempt. Then the tax was 3 per cent on income between $600 and $10,000 and 5 per cent on all income over $10,000. It went up higher later in the Civil War. It also imposed a tax on inheritance over $1,000. And — the tax was withheld from the salaries of government employes.

The House passed Kennedy's tax revision bill March 29, leaving in the withholding tax on dividends and interest. Then the measure went over to the Senate where the Finance Committee, headed by Byrd, began hearings.

When the Byrd committee got through with the bill, the withholding tax on dividends was gone. The Senate this week began debate on the measure.

The Senate bill, as it stands, instead of saving the government money will probably cost the government money. It's a guess whether the withholding tax on dividends and interest will be put back on the Senate floor.

Yet, the Treasury says $4 billion in dividend and interest income is not reported each year on tax returns. It estimates $800 million is lost yearly because of this and that withholding would bring in $650 million more.

Congress passed the 1862 act as one more way to pay for the Civil War. The greatest revenue came from other sources, like tariffs. There was a lot of cheating then, too, and gripes about the complicated tax forms.

Congress abolished this whole tax measure in 1872 under pressure from business during President Grant's administration. In 10 years it brought the government about $375 million. The revenue from other taxes ran to about $1.5 billion in the same time.

Still, in a landmark case, the act was challenged in 1865 by a lawyer who argued it wasn't right to tax a lawyer's income. This stumbled through the courts until in 1881 the Supreme Court told him he was wrong.

Even in those days the idea of an income tax wasn't revolutionary. The British had such a tax in 1803 in the struggle with Napoleon. In this country an income tax was proposed in 1815 to pay for the war with Britain but it was never enacted.

Between 1872 and the end of the century American industrial development was on its way. Some men made great fortunes. There were also hardships and demands for social reform. The Populists in their 1892 platform called for a new income tax. A lot of Democrats favored it. And Congress passed it in 1894, not a graduated tax, as in 1862, but a flat 2 per cent tax on all kinds of income.

The rich men didn't like it. One of the leading attorneys fighting it was John D. Rockefeller's lawyer, Joseph Choate, although Rockefeller was not involved. And in 1895, in a blinding reversal of that 1881 decision, a highly conservative court declared the income tax unconstitutional. The vote in this case was 5 to 4.

To make an income tax constitutional the country then had to pass the 16th Amendment to the Constitution in 1913. But in those years between 1895 and 1913 the nation had to do without needed revenue.

That decision of 1895 brought the court more public condemnation than any decision in its history up to that time, except the Dred Scott case which in 1857 enlarged slavery and helped bring on the Civil War.

Gas Growth Depends On Fair Prices

By MAX B. SKELTON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)A pipeline executive said today development of a great growth potential by the natural gas industry is dependent upon fair prices to producers.

W. M. Elmer, president of the Independent Natural Gas Association of America, said the gas supply is in good shape and the potential is tremendous.

"The only hinderance is equitable treatment of producers by the Federal Power Commission (FPC)," Elmer said. "The producers must be given the incentive to produce the gas."

Elmer said the industry probably will have to wait another year or more before the FPC can make its first major rulings under a new area formula to control wellhead prices of gas sold wholesale to interstate pipelines.

The president of Texas Gas Transmission Corp. of Owensboro, Ky., also said he believes area pricing is the most practical approach.

The FPC began developing the area formula two years ago. The objective is to have ceiling prices for each of the nation's major producing areas. Under the old cost rate formula abandoned in 1960, each producer's case was handled individually.

The delay in implementing area prices has prompted some producers to renew pleas that Congress be asked to intervene and exempt wellhead prices from federal regulation.

Elmer said he does not believe such an appeal to Congress can succeed until the FPC has had a chance to prove the effectiveness of area pricing.

"We'll just have to sit and wait out the area proceedings," he said.

Carlos Alsogaray Argentine Power

By FRANK MANITZAS

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Alvaro Carlos Alsogaray sits at an old wooden desk with 34 call buttons and 10 telephone lines. To a large extent he runs Argentina.

Alsogaray, as minister of economy, has widespread control over the things Argentines can eat and do, the way they earn a living today and how they may work in the future.

Few people are neutral about him.

"After more than three months in office, he has distinguished himself by being completely ineffective," the widely circulated Economic Survey said. "This is seriously endangering the country's recovery from its deep economic crisis."

"Now that he is at the helm of the treasury," a U.S. financial expert said, "we are certain that Argentina will go forward."

Ready to listen but eager to talk, Alsogaray speaks to the people at length. His fireside chats sometimes last an hour and a half. He convinces foreign business men there is hope for doing business in and with Argentina. He irritates Argentina's military men to the point of fighting.

Now 49 and pushing 200 pounds, he can never again be a sprint champion as he used to be in the Argentina air force, where he spent 17 years up to 1946. He still pilots a plane occasionally.

His career began with training as an aeronautical engineer. He took no formal training as an economist, but schooled himself—and learns more every day by plowing through books, newspapers and magazines. From his point of view, the best economist is an organization man who can inspire confidence amid people who know economics.

He has polished the science of public relations, but whether this can reflect itself in a likely future politically is open to question. He seems to be more respected abroad than in his own country—partly because he has imposed measures of austerity from time to time.

His program for economic stabilization began in 1958. Eventually he resigned, after a series of frustrations, from President Arturo Frondizi's cabinet. When Frondizi was ousted by the armed forces, President Jose Maria Guido opened the door to Alsogaray's return.

Alsogaray demanded and obtained control of major agencies and departments, placing them under his command in a new machine he called CITES, Consejo Intre-Ministerial Council of Labor, Economy and Services.

Critics claim that whatever his assets, Alsogaray has not carried a program to completion. After his fight with Frondizi last year, Alsogaray blamed the ensuing policies with ruining what he sought to attempt in economic stability.

Now, with Argentina's military forces bickering amid implied threats to take over the goverment, Alsogaray says:

"Whatever the difficulties facing us, we must go forward, with conviction and with enthusiasm. There is no other alternative for a country like ours, aspiring to be an organized nation."

Frank Manitzas finds parts of Argentina like his native Texas. He is a member of the Associated Press staff in Buenos Aires, and has worked in the AP's Santiago and Lima bureaus.

Efforts To Identify Lost Girl Fail

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Police were back today at their starting point of a week ago in their efforts to identify Smiley, the lost little girl whose name they don't know.

What they regarded as their best lead among hundreds of tips from across the nation evaporated Monday night when a Minnesota woman's real daughter was located.

Lillian C. Oachs, 37, Hanska, Minn., had identified Smiley as her daughter, Carri Caye, who had been missing a year and a half.

But while Mrs. Oachs and officials here awaited arrival of a birth certificate to confirm her identification, police in Duluth, Minn., disclosed the arrest there of Mrs. Oachs' former husband, Corgle Oachs, 42, on a kidnaping charge, and the recovery of Carri Caye.

Duluth police said the Oachs child was in a private home where the father had put her while he worked at a service station under an assumed name.

Smiley was found sitting on a downtown doorstep about 2 a.m. eight days ago.

Nicknamed Smiley by nurses at Children's Guardian Home, the blonde, blue-eyed waif is believed to be about 3 or 4 years old. She can't or won't tell her name, has spoken but rarely and officials say she is suffering traumatic shock, apparently from being lost.

Daily Crude Flow Rises

TULSA (AP)—U.S. oil production rose last week to the highest level since April, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

Production averaged 7,306,850 barrels daily, up 42,950 from the previous week and topped the 7,300,000-barrel mark for the first time since the week ended April 28.

Oklahoma paced the increase, up 23,550 to 565,950.

Texas production is averaging 2,531,650 barrels daily; Louisiana 1,298,500, New Mexico 290,500, Arkansas 75,000 and Colorado 115,600.

Wall Street, the heart of New York's financial district, follows an old fortification, or earthen wall, constructed by Dutch settlers to repel a threatened British invasion.

NFO Launches Campaign To Hold Products Off Market

By RON SPEER

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Flushed with victory over the repudiation by two large firms of a controversial farm report, the National Farmers Organization launched today an attempt to boost farm prices by holding products off the market.

Oren Lee Staley, 39, of Rea, Mo., NFO president said he is confident such an action would force processors of farm products to agree to long term contracts calling for higher prices.

NFO members from 15 states were to vote today on proposals to hold cattle, hogs, sheep and grain off the market. The organization went into its meeting after having gained statements from Ford Motor Co. and Sears, Roebuck and Co. disclaiming any connection with a farm plan proposed by the Committee on Economic Development (CED).

Theodore O. Yntema, Ford vice president, and Theodore V. Houser, a Sears director, were members of the CED research committee that drafted the plan calling for removal of some two million farmers from the farms and reduction of farm price supports over the next five years.

The NFO had demonstrated against the two firms, demanding that they issue statements clarifying whether the report represented the official policy of the companies.

Ford repudiated the report Sunday. Staley said he received a telegram Monday from Sears officials, saying that the company "is not connected in any way with the report on agriculture by the CED."

Staley said he expected quick approval of the holding action by the more than 15,000 NFO members expected at the meeting.

"We also plan to discuss the possibility of including milk among the products we will keep off the market," Staley said. "Our plans call for the holding action to start mighty soon."

The proposed action would be the seven-year-old NFO's most ambitious attempt to hike farm prices. Three previous holding actions on hogs by NFO members failed to create noticeable effects on hog prices.

"I believe we are strong enough now to have a reasonable chance of success," Staley said. "And we intend to hold out until contracts with processors are signed."

Staley said the holding proposals call for members to keep hogs off the market until farmers are paid $22.75 a hundredweight for 190-210 pound butcher hogs graded No. 1 and 2.

He said other minimum prices sought include $32.45 a hundredweight for choice cattle weighing 900-1,000 pounds, $29.45 for slaughter lambs weighing 90-00 pounds, $1.49 a bushel for corn and $2.56 a bushel for soybeans.

Staley said current prices paid farmers are about $18.50 for hogs, $28.00 for cattle, $22.00 for lambs, $1.10 for corn and $2.30 for soybeans.

"Just getting these prices isn't the goal of the holding action," Staley said. "We are demanding that processors sign contracts to purchase farm products through the NFO that will stabilize prices and marketing conditions."

The NFO so far has failed to get any processors to sign contracts making the farm organization a bargaining agent, Staley said.

Little Trouble For Negro Pupils

By J. WALTER JOHNSON

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Negro pupils who broke the racial barrier in nine Escambia County schools said there was no trouble and things went well in the classrooms.

The 21 children who Monday became the first of their race to enter previously white schools in northwest Florida may be joined today by another—Alver J. Nichols, 10.

Alver backed out at the last minute Monday, telling his parents: "I don't think I could make it."

His parents indicated, however, they probably would let him go to previously white N. B. Cook Elementary School until arrangements can be made for his transfer back to his former Negro school.

Sheila R. Harris, 16-year-old Negro senior who entered Pensacola High School, said that on the whole everything was very nice.

"The majority of the kids were very nice to me," she said. "Nobody had any bad things to say to me.

"Of course I was apprehensive at first, but they helped me a lot. I lost my way to class twice and some students showed me how to get there. There were no complications."

Barbara Donaldson, a junior at Pensacola High, said she, too, experienced a good day.

"Nobody tried to start trouble or hurt my feelings," she said. "If they did I didn't hear them."

Mrs. Charles Poindexter, mother of three girls who entered the first, second and third grades at J. H. Wise School, said the three got along fine.

The mother of still another child, Ronald Leon Colvin, quoted her second-grade son as saying, "I loved it. I really loved it."

Virtually no spectators were on hand for either the opening or closing of the schools attended by 2,900 pupils. There were only two minor incidents.

One was a bomb hoax at Pensacola High where four Negroes entered. The building was evacuated in a normal fire drill. Pupils were back inside within minutes.

In the second incident, a man driving past Pensacola High shouted critical remarks to an Associated Press photographer who was preparing to make a picture of a Negro girl entering the school.

Escambia is the sixth Florida county to desegregate schools. Dade (Miami) was first in 1959. Five other East Coast counties began token desegregation last year.

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP)—Foreign Minister Joseph Luns introduced a bill in Parliament Monday night to approve the Dutch-Indonesian agreement on the transfer of West New Guinea.

The lower house will meet Sept. 6 in special public session to discuss the bill, officials said.

U. N. Planning To Drop Leaflets

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Brig. I. J. Rikhye, U.N. Secretary-General U Thant's military adviser, said Monday that the United Nations will drop thousands of leaflets over West New Guinea this week, telling the Indonesian guerrillas to come out of hiding.

The leaflets will tell Indonesians of the recently signed cease-fire agreement that ended the Dutch-Indonsian dispute over the territory, Rikhye said.

It was launched to obtain infrared measurements from the surrounding area and atmosphere. The data is for use in the manned space program.

Jane Morgan Hospitalized

NEW YORK (AP)—Singer Jane Morgan, 42, was taken unconscious to a hospital Monday night after telling a friend she had consumed "a dose of pills," police said.

She was given oxygen in an ambulance en route to Roosevelt Hospital. She regained consciousness early today and her condition was listed as good.

A private physician said there was no indication the singer had taken pills. He attributed her condition to nervous exhaustion.

The friend, Dick Horton of Manhattan, who was in the singer's apartment at the time, quoted her to police as saying: "I did it. I did it. I took some pills."

A maid summoned a physician, who found her unconscious. He called an ambulance and administered oxygen on the way to the hospital.

The physician, Dr. Cornelius H. Traeger, said she regained consciousness early today but was too woozy to talk.

Foe's Taxes Are Cited By Candidate

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Taxes paid by his Cuernavaca opponents have been listed in full-page newspaper advertisements bought by the embattled governor of Morelos.

The advertisements, appearing first Monday, also answered a letter signed by the Organization of Morelos Private Enterprise which had listed several complaints.

The advertisements, signed by the press and publicity department of the governor, said those belonging to OMPE were all wealthy business men who did not speak for the people themselves.

It denied most of the charges made by OMPE, and on a separate page listed the small taxes paid by the leaders of the opposition group. According to the figures, some paid less than $ 1 a year for substantial pieces of property.

The governor's office specifically denied any fall-off of tourism or industrial development in the state during the four-year regime of Gov. Norberto Lopez Avelar.

OMPE has sparked two paralyzing shutdowns in Cuernavaca in recent weeks, and is still pressing the governor for lower taxes, some specific improvements in the city of Cuernavaca, and an end to what it calls mismanagement of the state government.
