Red China Loses UN Bid But Makes Some Gain

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Red China won majority support today for admission to the United Nations, but failed to win the two-thirds support required.

The vote was 51 in favor, 49 against and 25 abstentions.

It was the first time that the General Assembly had given a majority to the Peking rovernment in 20 years of voting. The assembly had voted earlier in favor of a U.S.-backed resolution declaring that this was an "important question" requiring a two-thirds majority.

The pro-Peking resolution received 51 per cent of those present and voting.

Many diplomats saw in the Peking gains the beginning of a trend which could win a seat for the Communist government by 1971 or 1972.

The key to the assembly's vote was the continued coupling of Peking's bid with a demand for the expulsion of the Chinese Nationalists. During the debate a substantial majority favored Red China's seating, but not at the cost of expelling the Nationalist government.

The United States was among those shifting emphasis to the expulsion issue rather than the attacks on Red China and its qualifications for a seat in the world organization.

The vote on the "important question" resolution was 66 in favor, 52 against and 7 abstaining. Some delegates expressed doubts about supporting this idea in the future if Peking should attain a majority.

Three abstainers in 1969, Canada, Italy and Equatorial Guinea, have established diplomatic relations with Peking this year. Chile, which also abstained last year, switched to support of Peking's candidacy after the election of a Marxist president recently.

On the other hand, the Chinese Communists lost Cambodia's support because they gave refuge to the ousted Cambodian chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, and allowed him to set up a government in exile in Peking. And Mauritius, which voted for Peking in 1969, announced this week that it would vote no this year. Ambassador Radha Krishna Ramphul told the assembly that his government still favored Peking but not to the extent of ousting the Chinese Nationalists, which the resolution introduced by Peking's backers called for.

The SDN Column

Quite a football battle is shaping up tomorrow at Lubbock, where Texas Tech and Arkansas University will go at it with each still in the running for the Southwest Conference title and the host spot in the Cotton Bowl on Jan. 1. Tech, of course, must whip Arkansas and then hope something happens to Texas in its Thanksgiving Day game with the Aggies, plus an Arkansas victory over the Longhorns on Dec. 5, to get in the Cotton Bowl, unless, of course, there is a three-way tie for the loop crown. In that case, the member of the winning trio which has gone the longest period of time without getting into the Cotton Bowl will be the New Years Day host.

Tech went to the Cotton Bowl back in 1939, but it was not a member of the Southwest Conference then.

Texas has been to the Cotton Bowl the past two New Years Days, and Arkansas was the host team in 1965 and 1966.

When Texas Tech was the host team for the Cotton Bowl game in 1939, the Southwest Conference had no ties with the bowl game, although two teams from the conference, TCU and Rice, were in it in 1937, the first year of the Cotton Bowl, and 1938, respectively. Tech had a 10-0 won-lost record and got the bid for the game Jan. 1, 1939.

Just to show you how things have changed, Tech played what was regarded as a rather tough major schedule that year, but five of the 10 schools on that schedule do not even field football teams today. These included Duquesne, Oklahoma City U., Loyola U. of New Orleans, Gonzaga, and Marquette. And the visiting team in the Cotton Bowl that year was one of the most colorful of the era and one of the strongest on the Pacific coast, and it doesn't have a football team in intercollegiate competition today. That would be the Galloping Gaels of St. Mary's University of California.

That Cotton Bowl game in 1939 also brought together a couple of coaches who were known as the innovative and competitive types — Slip Madigan of St. Mary's and Pete Cawthon of Texas Tech. St. Mary's finally prevailed in the Cotton Bowl, 21-13.

The Cotton Bowl got two outsiders the next year, Clemson and Boston College, and then established its permanent ties with the Southwest Conference with an agreement that the SWC champion would be the host team each Jan. 1.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Nov. 20, the 324th day of 1970. There are 41 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1945, 24 Nazi leaders went on trial before an international war crimes tribunal at Nuernberg, Germany.

On this date:

In 1620, Peregrine White, the first native American child of the Pilgrims, was born aboard the Mayflower in Massachusetts Bay.

In 1870, German troops surrounded Paris during the Franco-Prussian war.

In 1893, the Supreme Court ruled that the Great Lakes and their connecting waters were high seas.

In 1917, the World War I battle of Cambrai began in France.

In 1942, the Alaska Highway was formally opened.

In 1962, President Kennedy signed an executive order forbidding racial and religious discrimination in housing built with federal aid.

Ten years ago: The first direct clash between the army of the Congo and U. N. forces occurred in Leopoldville.

Five years ago: Princess Margaret and her husband, Lord Snowdon, were visiting New York.

One year ago: The two Apollo 12 astronauts blasted off the moon, rejoined their orbiting mother ship and began their return voyage to earth.

Typhoon Damages Manila

MANILA (AP) — Damage left by Typhoon Patsy closed the Manila airport today, caused postponement of two major international conferences and may affect the visit of Pope Paul VI next week.

Roman Catholic Church officials held an emergency meeting to determine if the typhoon damage would alter plans for the Pope's visit, beginning next Friday.

Part of the roof of the University of Santo Tomas, where the Pope will preside over a religious conference, was ripped off. Triumphal arches were blown down. But authorities indicated they want the Pope's three-day visit to go ahead as scheduled.

While Typhoon Patsy had blown out to sea, the control tower at Manila airport was knocked out by power failure. One flight was diverted and all incoming flights were suspended.

The most powerful typhoon of the century to hit Manila, Patsy slashed Manila and Luzon Island Thursday, killed at least 42 persons, injured hundreds and left thousands homeless.

Damage estimates ranged upward to $80 million. Besides wrecked buildings and homes, and damaged airports, crop damage was severe along a 250-mile stretch of Luzon.

Three U.S. military installations were in the path of the typhoon but reported only minor damage and no serious injuries to American or Filipino personnel.

The 24-nation Colombo Plan Conference Nov. 24-Dec. 3 was rescheduled for Feb. 16-25 because of storm damage in Manila.

A foreign ministers meeting of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations set for Dec. 11-12 was postponed with no date yet set.

New Building Accepted At High School

A new building on the Snyder High School campus was formally accepted from the contractor Thursday by the Board of Education.

The new structure was authorized last summer to provide space for the CV-AE program at the high school and also to provide some additional regular classrooms.

The building, erected by J. L. Wadleigh Construction Co., will be put into service on Nov. 30, the date that pupils report back to school following the Thanksgiving holidays.

Horrace Bostick, high school principal, said that two mathematics teachers and two social studies teachers would be assigned classrooms in the new building. When the new building is put into service, each teacher at SHS will have his own classroom for the first time in some two years. At present, some teachers move from room to room to hold classes during off periods of other teachers.

TWA Laying Off 2,000

NEW YORK(AP) — Trans World Airlines, the nation's No. 2 international airline and third biggest domestic carrier, says it is laying off 1,500 to 2,000 of its 43,000 employes.

BANQUET PERSONALITIES — These five had major roles at the Snyder Firemen's annual Thanksgiving Banquet last night at the Central Elementary School Cafeteria. From left are Fire Chief Alfred Kohl, who gave the department's annual report; Capt. Kenneth Wood, who received a 20-year service award and who introduced guests at the banquet; T. B. Early, who was named Fireman of the Year; Roy Meadoe, who presented the award to Early in behalf of KSNY Radio; and Kelton Pinkerton, who received a five-year service award.

Early Gets Top Fireman Award

T. V. Early, a member of the Snyder Fire Department since 1963, was honored as the Outstanding Fireman of the Year during the annual Thanksgiving Banquet of the Fire Department, held last night at Central Elementary School. He received a plaque from Roy Meadoe, representing radio station KSNY, originator of the annual award.

Early has been a captain for the past couple of years, and at a recent meeting was elected incoming president. He is married and the father of five children.

Early also was one of 11 firemen who were honored for having attended all of the fire drills during the past year. The other 10 are Ross Rochelle, Lt. Butch Martin, Tommy Boyd, first assistant chief Darby Scott, G. L. Autry, Bennie Benitez, Lt. Garland Williams, assistant chief L. T. Keller and Fritz Huffman.

Capt. Kenneth Wood received a 20-year service pin last night, and he also was honored for having a perfect attendance at fire drills during the past 20 years. The service pin awards were presented by Fire Chief Alfred Kohl.

Kohl gave the annual report mentioning the fact that the department answered 412 alarms during the past fiscal year, including 48 general alarms.

Entertainment was provided by guitarist-singer SSgt. Don Walser of the National Guard. Master of ceremonies was Dr. John Hamblen. Invocation was given by Rev. Robert McArthur, the fire department chaplain. Assistant Chief Leonard Keller gave the welcoming address. The response to the welcome was given by Mickey Nunley, Chamber of Commerce manager and a former fireman. Capt. Kenneth Wood introduced guests.

Most of the city and county officials were guests along with Highway Patrolmen, sheriff's authorities and a number of policemen.

Addresses Of Servicemen Being Sought

The Ladies Auxiliary to Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 8231 is seeking names and address of all Scurry County men serving in Vietnam.

The VFW Auxiliary plans to honor the men at Christmas time and they will encourage others to include these men on their Christmas card lists this year.

The list of names and addresses will be published in The Snyder Daily News when it is completed.

Anyone who knows the name and address of anyone serving in Vietnam is asked to call 573-5846, 573-2389, or 573-9826. The addresses also may be submitted by mail to the VFW Auxiliary, Box 921, Snyder.

The addresses are needed no later than Nov. 26 so that the list may be published in time for all to send Christmas cards and have them delivered by Christmas Day.

House Approves Trade Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A quota-setting trade bill that would throw up Congress's most formidable new barriers against foreign goods since 1930 has passed the House, but Senate approval is in doubt.

Opponents said the controversial bill to limit textile and shoe imports would touch off a world trade war. Backers said it would protect threatened U.S. industries and jobs.

It passed the House 215 to 165 Thursday night with trade lobbyists filling the galleries.

Nixon administration efforts to cut the bill back to the President's request for textile quotas only—plus a tax incentive to boost U.S. exports—didn't even come to a vote.

But administration supporters said Nixon will make no decision on whether to veto the bill until he sees how it comes out of Congress.

Senate opponents led by Sens. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., have hinted they will filibuster if necessary to prevent a similar trade package from even being considered there.

Opponents concentrated their attack, during two days of debate, on predictions the quotas would bring trade-war retaliation from the countries affected—particularly Japan and the European Common Market—and would drive up U.S. prices dy protecting American goods from cheaper foreign competitors.

But Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., the bill's floor manager, said the mandatory quotas would reverse a decline in U.S. textile and shoe industry jobs and force foreign competitors to negotiate voluntary import curbs.

Senate Okays Farm Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has on his desk today a favored $3.5 billion farm bill which sets for the first time a limit on the subsidies paid major growers for not producing.

The measure passed the Senate 48 to 35 Thursday after a lengthy and stormy fight in which opponents said the bill would cost farmers billions of dollars in income.

The bill, which lays down federal policy on farm subsidy and farm support programs over the next three years, won praise from Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin.

"It will give farmers an opportunity to take greater advantage of shifts in market demands from commodity to commodity by moving away from fixed crop acreages toward greater leeway in crop plantings," he said.

The bill limits subsidies to $55,000 on each crop of wheat, cotton, corn and other feed grain lands held from production. Senate opponents sought a $20,000 limit. There was no limit under past laws.

During the House-Senate conference meetings House members refused to budge from administration-backed provisions of the measure. Three senators walked out of the session and refused to sign the conference report, among them Sen. Stuart Symington.

The Missouri Democrat Thursday ridiculed the conference-reported bill as "both unfair and inadequate and ... a bill which is certain to lower farm income."

"Farmers especially resent these incredible efforts by Secretary of Agriculture Hardin to junk the parity concept in connection with price supports and loans," he said.

Symington was disturbed over House conference members' refusal to go along with Senate language setting price supports for corn at $1.35 per bushel or 75 per cent of parity—whichever was higher.

Instead, the conference dropped the figure to 70 per cent for two years and gave the secretary the authority to lower it to 68 per cent in 1973.

—Southern opponents, including Sen. Allen Ellender, D-La., predicted disaster for cotton farmers. He said the bill would encourage overproduction and an eventual order from the Agriculture Department to drastically reduce the amount of acreage in production.

The old law allows cotton farmers to produce on 16.3 million acres of land. The new bill reduces that figure to 11.3 million acres.

Other provisions of the bill include extension of both the Food for Peace and wool support programs.

Joe's love won't pay her bills

By Abigail Van Buren

(c) 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syn., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am 42 and am keeping steady company with a 40-year-old musician who is separated from his wife. I was widowed two years ago, and nearly lost my mind from loneliness, and I must say Joey took my mind off my sorrow.

A month ago, Joey's landlady put him out for nonpayment of rent so I let him bring his stuff to my place. He needs one room for just his guitar and sheet music. Well, he hasn't worked since he moved in with me and he isn't even looking. He plays fair guitar and says he "composes" music. He has trunks of it, and to my knowledge he hasn't sold a song in his life.

Meanwhile, I am feeding him and the grocery bill is something else. He says he loves me and will get a divorce if I will pay for it. I do love him when the sun goes down, but I don't know what to do. Am I crazy? GLADYS

DEAR GLADYS: Crazy? No. Crazy people don't ask if they're crazy—they think everybody else is. Did Joey perchance write that song, "I Love Gladys Cuz Everything Is Gratis"?

It's all right to love a man when the sun goes down, but when the sun comes up, you've got to pay your bills. There are worse things in life than loneliness, and if you don't get rid of Joey, you'll find out what they are.

DEAR ABBY: I'm hooked on your column. It's the first thing I turn to in the newspaper, but I never thought I'd be writing for advice. It's about my husband, whom I love madly. Is it possible for a happily married man [at least he says he is] to have such affection for a buddy that they have to talk to each other on the phone three or four times a night, at any hour? No business ties or dealings whatsoever. They are just good friends. And several times a week they run to meet each other for "coffee," if it's only for 15 minutes.

His buddy's wife and I wonder with disbelief over these two guys. They are so straight it isn't even funny, or else we're naive, that's why we need an experienced opinion. I have had a close friendship with a girl friend for 15 years and if we talk twice a week, it's sufficient. Should I worry? PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: No. I have seen such affection between two men, and it's beautiful.

DEAR ABBY: What's wrong with a husband who will not wait to walk across the street with his wife and family? He will use any pretext in order to dash across the street ahead of me. [I am considered attractive.]

Our sons, now in their teens, have never seen their father escort me across the street. And when they were small, I was left to manage the children and parcels by myself.

I have told him how I feel about this Abby, but he considers it unimportant. I am concerned about the example being set for our sons. Am I being overly sensitive? CANADIAN

DEAR CANADIAN: No. It's the "little things" that make the "big" difference. Your husband is obviously very impatient, inconsiderate and downright mean if he is aware of how you feel about this and makes no effort to change. If he is merely thoughtless and preoccupied, gently "remind" him.

DEAR ABBY: To the 13-year-old girl who has a collection of dolls, and whose father objects to her keeping them, I would like to venture my opinion after 30 some years of marriage to a 58-year-old woman who still loves dolls.

I don't know whether she "plays" with them, but I know she combs their hair occasionally because I notice once in a while their hairdo is changed.

Based on my experience, I would say that a girl who loves dolls will make a darned good mother. ED IN CHICOPEE, MASS.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

'Lethal Factor' Delays Tests

By BILL STOCKTON
AP Science Writer

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Three scientists who have assembled living, reproducing once-cell organisms from individual components say a mysterious "lethal factor" must be bypassed before more elaborate bioengineering experiments can begin.

The team of scientists from the Center for Theoretical Biology of the State University of New York discussed their work Thursday at a news conference and in a scientific paper at a meeting of the American Society for Cell Biology.

The scientists, Dr. J. F. Danielli, Dr. I. J. Lorch and Dr. K. W. Jeon, have taken individual components from the single-celled amoeba and reassembled them into a cell that appears normal in all respects to other cells in the same amoeba strain.

They said their technique works 75 per cent of the time, provided the components—nucleus, cytoplasm and membrane—all come from the same strain—or species of amoeba.

But if the components come from different strains, less than 1 per cent live. This data led to postulation of the lethal factor, described as a protein found in both nucleus and protoplasm which inhibits synthesis of ribonucleic acid vital to the genetic functions of the cell.

Once the factor is bypassed, and other problems that may result when cell components from one species are merged with those of other species, the door could open for a whole new era of experiments in cell biology.

The experiments, Danielli said, one day might revolutionize agriculture and medicine through bioengineering.

Desirable components from cells of one species might be combined with desirable components from another, creating new species with unique characteristics.

These might include crops that would grow in the desert, or plants that would produce nitrogen in the soil, eliminating the need for fertilizer.

In medicine, micro-organisms could be created that would produce large quantities of antibodies against specific diseases—antibodies now impossible or expensive to produce.

Danielli said the possibilities "really go beyond the boundaries of the human mind." But he emphasized that such bioengineering may be far in the future.

Pesticide Ban Is Rescinded

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department, stumbling over a classic snarl of bureaucratic red tape has rescinded its recent pesticides ban.

At the urging of another federal agency, the department issued an order six weeks ago banning the repeated use of pesticides on farm crops without special permission after Aug. 31, 1971.

Then it discovered the problem was under review elsewhere in the federal bureaucracy and that a new environmental agency will inherit the whole mess next month.

"We had to placate the Interior Department by issuing the original order," said a USDA official. "But then it dawned on us that all these questions are under review anyway and will not be completed as soon as expected."

Since the review was taking into account repeated use anyway, the ban actually was a duplication and unneeded, said a spokesman.

G.G. Rohwer, in charge of pesticides regulations, said the first order "was not intended to be a notice of cancellation of any registration nor of refusal to register any product."

Instead, he said, its intent was "merely to advise the public and the industry regarding matters now under consideration."

Pesticides included in the original notice were DDT, DDD, dieldrin, aldrin, endrin, heptachlor, toxaphene, BHC and chlordane.

The revised notice said the department had hoped to complete its review of these pesticides by next Aug. 31, but probably would miss the deadline for all except DDT.

Adding to the confusion is the transfer of all pesticide registration decisions to the new Environmental Protection Agency—EPA—when it begins operating in December.

Contract Holds Miss Sweden

By DON MCNICOLL
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Miss Sweden, the blonde favored to win the Miss World contest tonight, denounced the event today as a cattle market and said she would walk out if she wasn't under contract to the organizers.

"I don't even want to win," said Maj Christal Johansson, 20-year-old model from Stockholm.

"I was warned the contest was like a cattle market and I'm inclined to agree.

"I feel just like a puppet.

"I am fed up with people shouting and screaming at me.

"The rehearsal routines are exhausting. If I were not under contract to the organizers I would walk out at once."

Maj added that the strict chaperonage is "quite ridiculous."

A spokesman for the dance-hall and bingo chain which runs the annual contest said: "In this contest there will always be chaperones for the girls and no one will ever be allowed to go out without one."

One leading British handbook made Miss Sweden a 7-1 favorite to win the crown. This year there are 58 girls from 57 countries, with South Africa represented by both a white girl and a mulatto.

The winner will get a $1,200 tiara, $6,000 in cash, a screen test, lots of clothes and contracts for personal appearances and other work that could be worth more than $100,000.

The U.S. entry is Sandra Anne Wolsfeld, 24, of Aurora, Ill. Although the program booklet reported she was a devotee of the miniskirt, she told an interviewer: "I couldn't wait to get to London to buy maxi fashions, and I now have a wardrobe worth about $5,000, and I'm still spending."

READY FOR RALLY — These girls and boys are members of Explorer Post No. 130, and they will compete in a road rally at Odessa Saturday. They will travel over a marked course and try to finish as close to the standard time as they can. The purpose is to encourage safe driving. The road rallies also are a hobby of the Explorer Scouts.

Youth's Story Calms Paris

PARIS, Tex. (AP) — A Negro youth, wanted to stop a rumor that set off tensions and absenteeism at Paris High School, walked into a group of belligerent blacks, told his story and apparently calmed what could have been a racial confrontation.

And today, Paris High School was calm and most of the outside officers brought in to keep control had gone home.

Authorities said the youth, not named, was the object of the rumor. Other Negroes said a white assistant principal at the high school held him while a white youth beat him during a fist fight Wednesday.

The tensions resulted in about 200 Negro pupils refusing to return to classes Thursday after lunch. They held meetings in a Negro residential and business area near the school.

Officers sealed off the area.

The youth, accompanied by Police Lt. Dabney Hodges and the Rev. A. M. Seamon, a black minister went into the sealed area. The youth insisted on the minister and officer leaving him while he went alone to address the belligerents.

Not long after, the crowd of pupils dispersed.

Maj. Guy Smith of Dallas, regional commander of the Department of Public Safety, arrived shortly after dusk Thursday and sent home the 58 state patrolmen called to stand by. All 13 members of Ranger Company B of Dallas, headed by Capt. Bill Wilson, remained.

Principal Dean Cunningham said today that pupils who left the school at noon Thursday will be readmitted after they confer at the school with their parents. Some parents took their youngsters out of school to avoid trouble.

Cunningham said the high school has 990 pupils of whom 250 are Negroes. About 20 to 25 per cent of the blacks remained in school Thursday afternoon.

Aside from two small fist fights and some broken car windshields, there was no violence Wednesday and Thursday, authorities said.

Authorities said trouble began Wednesday when a fist fight between about eight pupils broke out in the gymnasium.

School officials said about 100 white youths and about 100 Negroes gathered after school Wednesday afternoon, and the white group was induced to scatter. The blacks moved off together toward their homes, authorities said, and police arrested one boy and two girls as a few car windshields were broken.

A number of Negroes refused to attend classes after lunch Thursday and others joined them, swelling the crowd to about 200. Police Chief Lloyd Mathews advised them to go home or return to classes.

Instead the crowd moved to the cleared site where Gibbens High School, once all-black, formerly stood. It was there that the youth talked to them.

Ky Enjoys Texas Visit

FORT WORTH (AP) — South Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky reiterated today his conviction that his country will be able to take over conduct of the war in Southeast Asia after next year.

He was talking with newsmen for the first time during his Texas visit, just before taking off from here for Alabama.

Ky said he was highly encouraged by the progress Vietnamese students are making at U.S. military installations in Texas and specifically mentioned about 250 South Vietnamese helicopter students at Ft. Wolters, where he spent the night.

He added that he had enjoyed his Texas visit. "Just wonderful ... my visit here in Texas," he said.

Ky and his wife, an attractive former air hostess, arrived in the state Thursday. Their stops included Kelly and Lackland Air Forces bases in San Antonio and Carswell Air Force base here. They are making a 17-day visit to the United States.

Mrs. Ky was the hit of the evening at a party given Thursday night by Brig. Gen. Robert N. Mackinnen, Ft. Wolters commanding general. She wore a red "ao-dai", a long native dress, and was the center of attraction among Army wives and staff officers attending.

When she left Fort Worth today she was wearing a brown midi-coat with brown leather boots and dark glasses.

Major Illness Plan Criticized

By G.C. Thelen Jr.
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration, all but promising to submit a similar plan of its own next year, has sharply criticized a Democrat's major-illness insurance proposal as hasty and ill-considered.

Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana sprang his plan Thursday and said the Finance Committee, which he heads, will vote on it next week. The plan would have the government pay 75 per cent of medical costs over $2,000 a year or of hospitalization beyond 60 days, at an estimated cost of $2.5 billion a year paid for by increased Social Secreity taxes.

Secretary Elliot L. Richardson of Health,, Education and Welfare, whose department is drafting legislation along similar lines, said Long's proposal "has not received anything like adequate consideration."

He noted there have been no public hearings on Long's plan, and said they are needed to examine its impact on other health insurance programs and proposals.

"The administration is now developing an over-all health strategy for submission to the 92nd Congress" next year, Richardson said through an aide.

One HEW draft proposal, which health officials say has strong White House appeal, would pay all costs over $2,000 or 60 days, not just 80 per cent as in Long's plan. It would also be paid for out of increased Social Security taxes and would cost an estimated $3 billion—$500 million more than Long's.

Officials say the White House views the plan as a political counter to Democratic-sponsored blueprints for cradle-to-grave national health insurance.

The administration contends universal insurance would be unworkable, inflationary and cost an estimated $77 billion a year.

Nixon has already promised to introduce in January a legislative program of government-subsidized health insurance for all poor families with children. This would largely replace the federal-state medicaid program for the poor, which the administration sees as discredited.

Proposals for family and major medical insurance would fill the most gaping holes in present coverage, administration health officials contend.

Most middle-income persons are covered adequately by private insurance plans against all but the most costly illnesses, they say, and the elderly have medicare protection.

Learn The Difference In Sunglasses 'n 'Funglasses'

By AP Newsfeatures

NEW YORK (AP) — How many people really know the difference between true protective sunglasses and "fun" glasses? There is a serious difference, a top authority cautions.

According to Dr. Irving Lueck, head of Ophthalmic Research at Bausch & Lomb, "Sunlight, aside from brightness and glare, which make you squint, contains invisible rays—ultraviolet (sunburn rays) and infrared (heat rays)—both potentially dangerous to the eyes.

"Another important fact is that the eyes normally use 25 per cent of all your physical energy. Expose them to glare or to the strain caused by badly made glasses and this percentage will greatly increase, because seeing has become more difficult, drains more of your energy.

"True sunglasses are designed to prevent and eliminate these problems," says Dr. Lueck, adding that the best place to look for such sunglasses is either an optician's office or the optical department of a sporting goods or department store.

"A good lens actually is a filter carefully formulated to screen out harmful invisible rays, as well as to reduce glare," he explains. "Such a lens—just like a regular prescription lense—has a precise curvature, and is made of special optical-quality glass. Plastic sunglass lenses do not filter out infrared rays."

Sunglasses are not a seasonal or specialty item, according to Dr. Lueck. They should be worn summer and winter, whenever the eyes are exposed to sun and glare, including reflected light on snow or water, and even on particularly bright but overcast days. How do you choose sunglasses and how do you use them? Dr. Lueck makes these suggestions:

For maximum eye safety, select impact-resistant, precision-ground and polished glass lenses carefully matched to provide exactly the same color, density and optical quality for both eyes.

Sunglass lenses should transmit no more than 30 per cent of the light. For best color perception and least color distortion, lens color should be either neutral gray or a special sage green which conforms to the color sensitivity of the human eye.

Frames should fit so comfortably that you can wear the glasses all day.

Have your sunglasses handy year-round, for all sun and glare. Tests have shown that your night vision will be reduced from 50 to 90 per cent after a few hours outdoors on a bright or sunny day without proper eye protection—a most dangerous hazard when you have to drive home from a day on the ski slopes or beach.

Don't wear sunglasses at night, especially not for driving. After sundown your eyes need all their natural seeing power for obscure highway and roadside details.

Don't become a sunglass addict. Wearing dark-hued lenses without interruption on gloomy days, indoors, or at night, can make your eyes unnaturally sensitive. Eye-strain, painful inflammation and even affected vision could be the result.

Genuine sunglasses obviously are more expensive to make, so be prepared to spend a little more money on them.

As for fun or fashion accessory glasses, according to Dr. Lueck, they generally are made of plastic and are recognized easiest by their light lens colors. Such glasses, he cautions, are not made for eye protection. When made of a better quality, they are fine for streetwear and fashion—occasionally even indoors, if their lenses are light enough, so eyes won't get strained.

African Girls Have Anti-Bikini Law

WITBANK, South Africa (AP) — Swimming pool superintendent Wighton Cameron has been given an agonizing job. He is Witbank's swimwear czar.

The municipal council has been fighting the bikini battle in this small industrial town, 125 miles northeast of Johannesburg, since 1967. It was then the council decreed "one piece costumes only" for Witbank's feminine community.

But Witbank girls are not as conservative as one might think for a country town. They used a dainty chain or a lacy piece of string to join the upper and lower halves and so convert biknis into one-piece swimsuits.

Next season the council struck back: Costumes must be one piece as sold in shops.

At this stage, however, shops were selling revealing one-piece costumes that showed more than a bikini.

This Southern Hemisphere swimming season, which opened September 1, the council decided to compromise. Now two-piece suits may be worn, providing they are "decent" and not too revealing.

And this is where Wighton, 22, comes in. He must decide whether a girl is decently or indecently attired for the pool. He is philosophical about the job: "I am a young chap and not too fussy: I don't mind what people swim in.

"But you must have rules because there are children coming here and because you must respect older people who might object to a costume that is too revealing."

He has been lucky so far. He has only had to turn away a handful of girls since the pool opened. But summer's only beginning and it gets mighty hot in Witbank.

4-H Club Meets

The Snyder Junior 4-H Club met in the County Extension Office on Tuesday Nov. 17.

The ten girls present prepared a "Super Supper" of carrot strips, celery strips and frankfurter-cheese sandwiches. They learned about the 4-4-3-2 magic formula for planning meals to meet their needs.

This was the first lesson in the new food project book "Tricks for Treats." The next meeting will be on "Plain and Fancy Puddings."

Sarah Gallegos and Penny Rodriquez performed a simple science experiment to show the reasons for cooking cheese with low heat.

The girls ate the supper they had prepared and discussed manners at meals.

Other girls present were Ann Marie Rios, Kelly Everton, Patsy Bass, Sheryl Nuley, Lydia Villarreal, Arline Sanchez, Martha Scuvas and Leticia Scuvas.

The next meeting will be Dec. 1. Any girl 9 years and older in elementary school are invited to join the 4-H Club.

AAUW Meets

The American Association of University Women met Thursday evening in the home of Irene Smythe.

Mrs. Smythe gave a very interesting and informative talk on the "Big Thicket." She showed pictures depicting the wild life of the thicket. She stressed, that if each club woman would write their respective congressman and representative it would be an easy task to get this most controversial bill passed by the legislature.

After a short business meeting delicious pie, coffee and cokes were served to members. Mrs. T. C. Whistler and Miss Vallie Loff two new members were given a hearty welcome. We urge all eligible women to come and be one of us.

Cancer Society Members Attend Workshop

A crusade workshop for District IV, Texas Division, of the American Cancer Society was held in Abilene Tuesday, at the Thunderbird Lodge.

W. R. Rice of Sweetwater, District Campaign Chairman, presided over the opening session. After a brief welcome he introduced Mr. Clayton Williams, also of Sweetwater, National Board Chairman, who had just returned from a Board Meeting in New York City. Williams outlined the goals of the ACS for 1970-1971, mentioned various resolutions, and commended Texas volunteers for elevating the state to the number one spot in the nation.

Mrs. Wilton Jones, of Snyder, local campaign chairman, chaired the session for presidents, crusade chairmen and special gifts for the counties of Callahan, Coke, Fisher, Haskell, Jones, Mitchell, Runnels, Shackelford, Stephens, Sterling and Stonewall. Ways and means for consolidating and extending various areas in campaign procedures were discussed and evaluated.

Mrs. Travis Rhoades, local unit president, attended the session for the presidents of the larger counties. Scurry, because of its population, and previous fund raising efforts was classified with Brown, Nolan, Taylor and Tom Green. This session was chaired by W. R. Rice. Responsibilities of the presidents in crusade work was this session's theme.

The workshop was held as an educational preparation for the general Crusade workshop to be held January 22, 1971.

The local delegates reported the workshop to be informative, interesting and challenging.

Haack States Opinions In Speech To NYSE

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — "I wrote this speech myself, nine drafts of it. I wanted to be very precise. This wasn't a product of the public relations department. It was pure Haack."

It was also the most startling and certainly one of the most important speeches ever addressed to members of the New York Stock Exchange, of which Robert Haack, at the discretion of its Board of Governors, rules as president.

"I knew it would offend some members," said Haack, an articulate man who ordinarily speaks without notes, "but I felt very strongly." Conceivably, he said, "it could lead to me being fired."

Haack's speech, which he said had been fermenting in his mind for three months, was delivered Tuesday night to incredulous members of the Economic Club of New York.

Since then it has been termed courageous by many who tend to be younger and more flexible than others identified as being members of the "establishment," some of whom felt it was simply outrageous.

What had Haack done? All this:

—Delivered his "personal opinion" that the exchange consider abandoning fixed commission rates on large transactions and substitute negotiated rates, a stand contrary to the widely publicized position of the exchange governors.

—Suggested that "inept management" of some members is fostered by fixed minimum commissions, which remove a great deal of the competitive edge from the industry.

—Stated that the securities industry, "more than any other industry in America, engages in mazes of blatant gimmickry," and deplored the "intrigues and machinations of some of our members and some of their customers."

—Challenged the exchange bureaucracy—"It should not be tolerated"—and suggested a restructuring of the Board of Governors and exchange election procedures.

Why did Haack do it? Even those who oppose his position are likely to agree he spoke out of the deepest conviction. As he put it: "I made it because of a genuine concern for the survival of this exchange as the premier market place.

It was obvious he was frustrated by the divisiveness within the exchange that prevented effective action on issues that, to his mind, were little less than matters of survival or decay.

He has worked long, tedious hours over an endless maze of problems that, because of complexity, bureaucracy and regulation, seldom permit direct forward action and, in fact, even logical action.

He declined to say directly why he had; for the moment, foresaken the internal battle to bring the issues to public attention, but there is some indication he felt the shock would enliven dialogue, goad members into refining their thoughts, and thereby to clear the way for action.

Wheat Program Is Launched

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new farmer-financed research and promotion organization wants Americans to eat more wheat and is launching a campaign to promote the grain.

It will be a huge job, admit officials of the new National Wheat Institute set up by Congress this year. Domestic per capita wheat consumption has dropped steadily for 40 years.

The program will be financed by a $4.2 million pool accumulated in 1968 from fees paid by wheat exporters. The money technically belongs to wheat farmers under an "inverse subsidy" agreement administered by the Agriculture Department.

Farmers are being encouraged not to request the refunds —most would get only a few dollars—and to allow the money to be used by the institute for research and promotion.

In 1930 Americans consumed about 169 pounds of wheat a year each. Last year the rate dropped to around 112 pounds. Thus, despite rising population, total wheat used for food has not increased much.

Wheat for food has varied between 500 million and 525 million bushels per year, or roughly around one-third of a big crop. The rest winds up as livestock feed, exports or surplus.

The institute says use can be increased by stressing wheat's potential as human food and by developing the possibilities of enriching and fortifying wheat flour.

Some Agriculture Department experts are skeptical. Americans are not cereal eaters, they say. Beef is the favorite single food item and probably will continue to be.

Also, some officials say, the case of wheat as livestock feed offers the best chance for farmers to dispose of more of the grain.

Partly because of higher food prices and the corn blight situation, wheat recently has enjoyed a brisk feeding market in some areas.

But the purists who see wheat truly as the "staff of life" are not easily swayed into viewing the grain as just another animal food.

The human food advocates point out that converting grain into protein by feeding it to animals and then eating the steaks, roasts and chops is an inefficient way to boost nutrition.

It takes about 10 pounds of feed to make a pound of beef; two pounds of it for one pound of chicken and about three pounds to produce one pound of eggs, the wheat people say.

No one suggests all those products be eliminated, only that more positive emphasis be put on wheat items as good sources of nutrition.

This view was not helped by a recent report by a University of Texas scientist who told of a group of rats dying of malnutrition after eating nothing but ordinary white bread for 90 days.

"So what?" one wheat spokesman told a reporter. "Man doesn't live by bread alone, and neither do rats."

The point, the wheat people say, is that humans need balanced diets and that wheat—bread in some form—can be a larger part of that diet.

Wheat spokesmen readily admit more work needs to be done in the field of fortifying wheat products with more nutrients. This will be one of the objectives of the institute.

Meantime, plant breeders are working to develop newer high-protein varieties of wheat, thus providing more body-building substances in the raw materials going into food products.

All of these factors, plus an apparent nationwide interest in improved nutrition, are contributing to hopes that wheat might some day get a new look by U.S. food manufacturers.

Recalling Memories Is Fun

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — There is no finer fun than playing the game of "remember when." The more we can match each other's memories, the more warmly akin we feel. You can play the game pretty well yourself if you can look and remember when—

Every girl dreamed of meeting the man she'd marry by having him save her from being mashed by a runaway horse.

The school of hard knocks had more pupils than any other school in town.

If you didn't swim, you sank.

The only really big problem youth had to face was acne.

The rich had all the ice they wanted all the year round, but the poor got most of theirs in winter.

In the newspaper cartoons an Englishman was a fellow who wore a top hat, a monocle and spats, and went around murmuring "Bah Jove,"

It made you feel mysterious to eat in a Chinese restaurant, and it was almost a ritual requirement to say to somebody afterward, "you know, at the time it filled me up completely but an hour later I felt I hadn't eaten a thing."

A guy in the 1920's who wore sideburns and flapping pants was called a "cake eater." The girl he escorted wore rolled hose, short skirts and a studied look of vacuity, and was known as a "flapper."

Only the local filling station had the courage to give away free calendars with a nude girl on the cover.

After you found a steady job, you were expected to stay with it for the rest of your life. The general theory was that you should begin by sweeping out the place and end up running it.

Young ladies wore big-brimmed hats in summer to protect their pale complexion from the sun's ravages. A tanned face made a girl feel rather common.

Anybody who dwelt outside hearing distance of a street car was known to vaudeville wits as a "hayseed," a "rube," or a "local yokel."

You could buy a hand-wound phonograph for what it costs you today to have a color television set repaired.

Most Americans lived by the courageous, give it another try philosophy once expressed by the late Mike Todd: "I've often been broke, but I've never been poor."

Those were the days—remember?

Artists Not To Be Created

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the world's most celebrated art educators, Lord Kenneth Clark, says federal help to the arts can be a boon but governments must take care not to attempt to "create" artists.

"So do everything you can to help the consumer make up his mind but don't try to create artists. It's not for us to do," he said.

The National Gallery of Arts, thanks to a grant from the U.S. National Endowment for the Arts and Humanities and Xerox Corp., purchased 25 copies of Clark's 13-part film series, "Civilisation," and is making them available on a first come, first served basis to small colleges.

A gallery official estimated three million persons would see the widely acclaimed "Civilisation" series through the new program.

137th Diphtheria Case Confirmed

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A girl, 15, was confirmed as a diphtheria victim Thursday, bringing to three the number of cases currently under treatment.

The girl was the sixth confirmed case this month. Three children have died during the city's epidemic, including one this month, and 137 cases have been recorded for the year, health officials said.

Free diphtheria shots continue to be offered at immunization clinics.

Power Restored

HURST, Tex. (AP) — The Bell Helicopter plant here was back to normal today after a major power failure Thursday shut down the facility.

A burst of wind hurled a piece of sheet metal into an electrical transformer complex shortly after noon Thursday, cutting off all power to the plant.

Employes were sent home and second and third shift workers were told to remain away.

A company spokesman said the power had been restored by 5 p.m. and machinery was back in operation.

Receives Award

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Dr. Lee A. DuBridge, former science adviser to President Nixon, is this year's recipient of the highest honor given by the California Institute of Technology.

DuBridge, president of Caltech from 1946 until 1968 when he became the President's science adviser, received the Robert Andrews Millikan Award on Tuesday. He left his federal post in August.

Big Grid Clash Set In Lubbock

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
Associated Press Writer

You'll be able to tell more what the Southwest Conference football puzzle looks like Saturday after Texas Tech and Arkansas fit the biggest piece into place in their showdown at Lubbock.

It's a semi-final matchup for the SWC championship that also will determine which teams go to what bowls.

The sixth-ranked Razorbacks are at least two touchdown favorites to quell the Raider uprising and move into a proposed Dec. 5 Big Shootout No. 2 with No. 1 ranked Texas for the SWC title and the Cotton Bowl host berth.

Texas Christian is at Rice and Baylor plays Southern Methodist in the Cotton Bowl in other games Saturday that are of lesser importance to the final SWC picture. Texas and Texas A&M are off this week, making plans for the traditional Thanksgiving Day tussle at Austin.

The Arkansas - Texas Tech game has all the markings of an all-out war—there are plenty of weapons on both sides.

Team-wise, the game will match Arkansas' No. 1 defense against Tech's No. 3 ranked offense and Arkansas's No. 1 offense against the Raiders' No. 2 ranked defense.

There'll be a pair of slick quarterbacks at the controls. Tech's Charles Napper has operated the Raiders Tech Option offense to almost perfection this season. Arkansas signal caller Bill Montgomery has directed the Hogs to a 41.2 average points per game.

Tech will be looking to sophomore flash Doug McCutchen for another outstanding performance. The thundering McCutchen has gained more than 100 yards in each of Tech's last three games. McCutchen leads the SWC in rushing with 506 yards in last three games alone.

"They're the best team we've played this year," said Tech Coach Jim Carlen, "based on their ability to throw the football, on their kicking game and on their rushing game. They're the best balanced team we've played and physically, they're the quickest team we've played."

Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles said of Tech: "The record indicates Tech is a fine football tam. They're a complete football team. Their defense is sound and conservative. They don't have any weak spots or somebody would have found them."

Carlen said the Raiders would be pulling all stops to defeat the Razorbacks and remain in the SWC race.But Tech has an ace. The players already have voted to accept a Sun Bowl bid if they should lose a chance at the Cotton.

The TCU-Rice game will pit a pair of teams who started the season with high hopes but are going nowhere at this point. The Frogs were humbled by Texas 58-0 last week and feel they have something to prove against the Owls.

Sophomore running back Raymond Rhodes said, "We were humiliated last weekend. We don't ever want that to happen again. We want to win this Saturday. We feel that we have something to prove."

The Owls, who are playing their last games under head coach Bo Hagan who resigned last week, are coming off a come from behind 18-17 victory over A&M. Rice was down by 17-3 at one point before the startling rally that ended a four-game losing streak.

The Baylor-SMU game possibly will see the return of SMU's quarterbacking man Chuck Hixson, who has missed the last two games with a deep bruise on his knee. Baylor, vastly improved over the beginning of the season, has a 2-7 record and 1-4 in the SWC while SMU is 4-5 and 2-3 in the conference.

The game also offers the two top receivers in the SWC in Baylor's Derek Davis and SMU's Raymond Mapps.

The Bears have shown great improvement in the past two weeks, battling top-rated Texas to a 21-14 loss and losing by only 7-3 to Tech.

Royals Stave Off NY Knicks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Cincinnati Royals added insult to injury by finally beating the New York Knicks while the Detroit Pistons were happy just to beat anyone.

The Pistons, suffering through a six-game losing streak after winning 12 of their first 13 games, came from behind to nip the Phoenix Suns 112-110 in Detroit Thursday night in a National Basketball Association game.

The Royals, trounced twice earlier by the Knicks, blew a 21-point lead before staving off the Knicks 106-98 in New York as the world champions played without injured Willis Reed, Cazzie Russell and Dave DeBusschere.

In the only other NBA game, Seattle beat Los Angeles 111-110.

In the American Basketball Association, Utah crushed Texas 130-115 and the Floridians nudged Memphis 108-103 in the only games.

Reed missed his second game with a sore knee and DeBusschere left in the first quarter when he aggravated a bad ankle. Russel is out with a broken wrist. The Knicks fell behind 62-45 at the half.

However, they came out with 6-foot-7 Dave Stallworth playing center, 6-5 Bill Bradley and three guards for the third quarter and staged a furious rally, finally pulling even at 96 and then 98 as Stallworth had 21 points and 19 rebounds.

However, Nate Archibald, a 22-point scorer with teammate Tom Van Arsdale—Walt Frazier had 28 for New York-hit a basket with 1:47 left and two free throws 16 seconds later and the Royals scored the last eight points.

During those final minutes, Royals' Coach Bob Cousy suffered a dizzy spell, but stayed on the bench for the end of the game. He was examined later and pronounced fit, although he was to have a more intensive check-up today.

The Pistons blew a 14-point lead in the second quarter but still led by five with 3:25 to go before Phoenix stormed into the lead 110-108. However, Bob Lanier scored for Detroit with 30 seconds left and then passed to Steve Mix for a driving layup with four seconds to go for the winning basket.

Jimmy Walker had 23 points for Detroit and Clem Haskins 24 for Phoenix.

Los Angeles rookie Jim McMillan missed two of three foul shots in the waning seconds enabling Seattle to outlast the Lakers. Garfield Heard had scored the field goal that put the Sonics ahead 111-108 with a minute left.

Wilt Chamberlain of Los Angeles was game-high scorer with 32 points while Don Kojis topped Seattle with 26.

Donnie Freeman scored 22 of his 24 points in the first half as Utah ran off to a 69-48 lead and was never threatened, winning for the 13th time in 16 games. Glen Combs had 30 for the Texans, now 2-12.

The Floridians blew all but six points of a 71-52 lead as Memphis climbed within 104-98 with one minute left before Larry Jones and Mack Calvin cut short the rally.

49ERS ARE FAVORED

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Back into the ball game after a week's layoff, body rested, mind alert—and ready to predict that the Western Division race in the National Football Conference will be all but wrapped up Sunday by San Francisco's 49ers.

The 49ers, two games ahead of the Los Angeles Rams, meet the tougher opponent in Detroit, while their West Coast neighbors take on Atlanta. But the 49ers will win, the Rams will lose.

Here are this week's picks, all games Sunday unless otherwise noted:

San Francisco 31, Detroit 17—The 49ers are rolling behind John Brodie, a rebuilt defense and a four-game winning streak. They have never won a division title. But this is the year. The Lions should be down after losing to Minnesota last week.

Atlanta 24, Los Angeles 21—Two weeks ago the Rams had to rally to tie the Falcons 10-10 and last week they were blasted by the New York Jets 31-20. The defensive unit is showing signs of its age, and Atlanta should be able to exploit what the Jets showed them.

Minnesota 35, Green Bay 24—The Vikings only loss in nine games was in an early season meeting with the Packers. But it would be difficult to imagine a club as strong as Minnesota losing to any opponent twice.

Oakland 28, San Diego 27—George Blanda may not be able to get the Raiders off the hook a fifth week in succession, but it does figure to be Daryle Lamonica's turn to grab a headline in this meeting in the American Conference's tough Western Division.

Kansas City 31, St. Louis 24—The Chiefs' offense may be ready to roll under the guidance of Len Dawson, and the defense is strong enough to shut down the Cardinals' ground-oriented attack revolving around MacArthur Lane.

Washington 34, Dallas 24—Both still in Eastern race behind Cardinals and Giants. Redskins, however, are clicking on offense. The Cowboys just aren't clicking.

Baltimore 38, Miami 21—The Dolphins should give the Colts more trouble than they did in a 35-0 loss earlier in the season. But the Baltimore defense is made of sterner stuff than Miami's.

Cleveland 42, Houston 21—The Browns aren't exactly terrors, but then Wally Lemm's quitting the Oilers for some reason. Even Charley Johnson's return at quarterback hasn't braked the skid.

Cincinnati 27, Pittsburgh 14—How Coach Paul Brown continues to pull off surprises for the Bengals is a constant amazement. But his play calling's been pretty good. It's a good time to stick with him.

Denver 17, New Orleans 10—The Broncos are slipping, but Floyd Little is No. 1 in the American Conference in rushing and should be able to run for daylight against the Saints.

Chicago 31, Buffalo 14—The Bills have a hot passing combination in Dennis Shaw to Marlin Briscoe, but are injury-riddled. The Bears gave Green Bay a tussle last week before succumbing.

New York Jets 34, Boston 10—The Jets' Al Woodall, Joe Namath's quarterback substitute, apparently has found himself, Joe Kapp still is looking.

New York Giants 37, Philadelphia 20—The Giants have the most versatile back in the NFC—Ron Johnson—and the go fostered by six straight victories. The Eagles haven't won that many even if you count last year.

Pro Cage Crowds Up

By RANDY SCHMID

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The commissioners of the American Basketball Association met Thursday to hear progress reports on television plans, attendance and recruiting, but took no formal action.

ABA Commissioner Jack Dolph reported at a news conference after the meeting that attendance for the league is up 33 per cent this year.

Dolph said that this week he approved a dozen new merchandising contracts for the league, including everything from earrings to pennants.

On more controversial topics, however he would only say that the league owners had met to "bring ourselves up to date on television, recruiting, merger status and to make some plans."

As he sees it, Dolph said, merger between the ABA and the National Basketball Association is inevitable. And, he said, he feels there is about a 50 per cent chance of the two leagues operating a common draft this year.

Dolph declined to speculate about the amount of the league's television contract with CBS, noting that no decision has been made on the exact number of games to be played on television. He estimated that there will be about seven televised games, besides the All-Star contest and said agreement has been reached on three of these.

Lions Lead AAA Poll

The Brownwood Lions' football philosophy has won many a horse race.

The Lions tend to lay off the pace at the start of the season, perhaps losing a game or two in the early going. Then they build up steam and by the time they reach the stretch, they are streaking.

Cards Triumph In Two Tilts

HERMLEIGH—The host Cardinals' junior high basketball teams won a couple of games over Hobbs here Wednesday with the boys taking a 50-27 decision and the girls emerging triumphant 57-5.

Ronnie Roemisch and Steve Mason each pitched in 16 points to lead the Hermleigh boys. Gee netted 22 points for Hobbs.

In the girls game, Vicky Rutherford put in 33 points and Jan Glass collected 10 for Hermleigh.

Bengals Host Lake View Chiefs Tonight

For the first time since the first game of the season, Snyder's Tigers will be favored to win a football game. The Tigers close out the 1970 campaign at home against Lake View Friday night. Kickoff is on tap for 7:30 p.m.

The Bengals will rate a solid one touchdown favorite over the Chiefs. Despite the Tigers' 2-7 record, they are a tough ball team. Nobody, except perhaps Big Spring, has been able to run over the Bengals this year. Snyder has tallied 94 points and given up 170 against nine foes. Lake View has scored 93 points, but has yielded 295.

Lake View has won only one game this year and still is seeking its first win in District 3-AAA competition. The Chiefs are loaded with returning lettermen and are somewhat of a disappointment this year. Many observers felt the Chiefs should have finished higher on the district ladder. They have eight returning regulars, both offensively and defensively.

Most of the Chief power is up front where M. C. Holt, a 235-pound senior, is seeking All-District and All-Area honors again this year. He and Bobby Davis, a 215-pound senior, give the Chiefs two of the best tackles in the district.

Lake View also has experience in the backfield. Returners include quarterback Larry Todd, a 170-pound senior; halfback Ronnie Phillips, a 165-pound senior; halfback Jimmy McGee, a 160-pounder who made honorable mention on the All-District team last year; and, Dennis Dollins, 180-pound senior. Dollins gained over 1,000 yards rushing in '69.

The Chiefs operate from a multiple T offense and employ a 5-4 alignment on defense.

Snyder and the Chiefs have met seven common opponents. The Tigers looked better than Lake View in six of these games, but Lake View did better than the Bengals against Andrews. Snyder lost that contest 20-0, while Lake View dropped a 35-21 decision. All of the other comparisons indicate the Tigers are about 20 points better than the Tribe. In 16 previous meetings, Lake View has won only twice.

The Tigers still are not at full strength, but they should have enough muscle to put down the Injuns. Operating the Bengal Wishbone T attack will be quarterback Butch Buchanan (160), fullback Mike Glasscock (198) and halfbacks Stewart Sims (165) and Larry Wall (160). Wall and Sims are seniors. The others are juniors.

Included among those on the Bengal ailing list are safety Travis Bunch, split end Gary Patterson and guard Gary Jones. Sophomores Tim Holder and Jimmy Don Dyess and junior Jackson Brewster are filling in for the injured trio.

Snyder's offense and defense have looked brilliant at times this year, but both units have seldom looked sharp on the same nights. Moreover, the caliber of the opposition in District 3-AAA this season has been exceptionally good. A good team could finish seventh in the league this year.

Nine Snyder seniors will be playing their last game for the Black and Gold.

Elsewhere in the district, Sweetwater and Estacado tangle on Lowrey Field in Lubbock to determine the district championship while Brownfield and Lamesa and Colorado City and Dunbar tangle in also-ran clashes.

Probable starters:

Were Players Blacklisted?

By CHARLES R. HORNICK
Associated Press Writer

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A special federal grand jury investigating operations of the National Football League was in recess today after hearing testimony about alleged blacklisting of players in the league.

Bernie Parrish, a former member of the Cleveland Browns' defensive backfield said he told the jury Thursday that he felt he had been blacklisted.

Parrish, now an official of the Teamsters Union in St. Louis, told newsmen that he thought the jury, which is looking for possible antitrust violations, would return some indictments.

Parrish, 34, was followed into the jury room by Walter Beach, a former teammate who also has complained of being blacklisted.

Beach declined to say when questioned by newsmen whether he had made the blacklisting claim during three hours of testimony before the jury.

The 23-member jury, which was impanelled Monday, recessed subject to recall following Beach's testimony.

Parrish was with the Browns from 1959 until he asked for his release after the first game of the 1966 season. He finished that season with the Houston Oilers and then retired from football. He declined to say why he asked for his release from the Browns.

He said he felt that he had been subpoenaed by the grand jury because of "my feeling that I was blacklisted and because of the research I did for my book on the inner workings of the league and the treatment of players." His book has not yet been published.

Browns' President Art Modell accused Parrish of talking "to promote his book" and said the Browns "have not violated any provisions of the antitrust law — nor any other law."

Modell said he had asked for an opportunity to appear before the grand jury at the earliest possible time."

He said the jury questioned him about blacklisting and trade and waiver procedures in the NFL.

The jury apparently is probing into owner-player relations for possible antitrust violations under the Sherman Act, which prohibits restraint of services — in this case the players' services in the alleged blacklisting.

Such violations could bring criminal indictments. Conviction could bring a fine of up to $50,000, a jail sentence of up to one year, or both.

Parrish said he knew of players who had been blacklisted, but declined to give names or say how many.

Beach, in his second year at Yale Law School, was put on waivers by the Browns shortly before the 1967 season started and was to be claimed by another team.

Beach declined to say specifically what questions were asked of him, but said he was quizzed about such subjects as blacklisting, racial discrimination and gambling. He would not elaborate.

The investigation, expected to take at least a month, is being conducted by the Cleveland District office of the Justice Department's Antitrust Division. There has been no indication who the witnesses will be when the jury convenes again.

Umpire-Charges Are Dismissed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The complaint of two baseball umpires that they were fired for union activities has been dismissed by a trial examiner for the National Labor Relations Board, it was disclosed Thursday.

Alexander Salerno and William T. Valentine, Jr., former umpires for the American League, claimed they were fired by Joe Cronin, president of the AL, in Sept. 1968 because they tried to get other umpires to join the Major League Umpires Association, Inc. Cronin said they were fired for incompetency.

David S. Davidson, the trial examiner who held a nine-day hearing in Boston, said that the "complaint must be dismissed for failure to establish an essential prerequisite to a finding that the discharges were caused by union activities." He said that the umpires' counsel failed to establish that the AL had knowledge of the union activities "beyond mere suspicion or surmise."

There was no immediate comment from Salerno or Valentine.

They have 20 days to appeal the decision to the full five-man NLRB board.

Americans Took Dixie Traditions To Brazil

By BRUCE HANDLER
Associated Press Writer

AMERICANA, Brazil (AP) — In a small clearing amid the lush farmland of southeast Brazil stands a stone monument boldly emblazoned with the diagonal crossbars of the U.S. Confederate flag.

A few steps away, in a humble graveyard, lie the remains of sons and daughters of the Old South who left their defeated, battle-ravaged homeland after the Civil War to seek new lives in the Tropics.

This is the center of what once was Vila Americana-American Tows-Brazil. Here was where, over 100 years ago, American Southerners briefly transplanted the traditional society of prewar Dixie to Latin America.

The descendants of those immigrants—Joneses, Gergusons, Carrs—remain in Brazil, some in their fifth generation in this country. Although many speak English, their main language is Portuguese. They are every bit as Brazilian as their neighbors named Silva, Oliveira and Souza.

Brazil's Confederate families assemble here every three months to visit their ancestors' graves and renew old friendships. In a little red brick chapel by the cemetery, a Protestant minister conducts services—in Portuguese—from a pulpit covered with a large Confederate banner.

Later, there is an old-fashioned picnic. Between mouthfuls of fried chicken and chocolate cake, the people swap stories about what life was like in Vila Americana.

After the South fell in 1865, many families decided to leave the country rather than face occupation by the Union Army. Mysterious, romantic-sounding Brazil, which still allowed slavery and was ruled by an emperor, seemed a good place to go.

About 2,000 Southerners emigrated to Brazil in 1866-67 and founded outposts in areas ranging from the Amazon jungle to Parana state, not far from Paraguay and Argentina. Most of those early settlements failed. Frustrated and usually broke, many Americans went back home. Some died in Brazil.

One of the first Southerners successfully to establish himself in the new land was Col. William Hutchinson Norris, a former Alabama state senator, who left his home near Selma in 1865 and bought a 600-acre farm in Sao Paulo state.

Norris grew cotton, rice, corn and vegetables. He made money, and word of his good fortune spread. New arrivals from the U.S. South bought adjoining property. Other Americans in Brazil whose earlier colonies had folded also moved to the area.

This was the beginning of Vila Americana.

Southerners continues coming to Vila Americana in regular, but decreasing numbers until after the turn of the century. Exact records are unavailable, but it is estimated that the community had over 500 residents in its heyday.

The living descendants of the Confederate immigrants, however, are not steeped in the ways of the Old South.

"We've quit fighting the war," said James R. Jones, president of the American Descendancy Fraternity, which keeps up the cemetery and chapel and organizes the picnic meetings.

"Why do we have that Confederate flag in the church? Oh, that's just for old times' sake," he said.

Despite the fact that they were mostly humble farmers and relatively few in number, Brazil's Confederate settlers made several important contributions to their adopted country. They are credited with the introduction of the plow and harrow—Brazilian farmers were using only simple hoes at that time—the kerosene lamp, modern school organization, pecans and watermelons—the latter including a juicy variety known as "Georgia rattlesnake."

Americans are said to have fought with Brazil against Paraguay in the way of the Triple Alliance—1865-1869. One historian notes, however, that the Brazilian army court-martialed and shot two American boys for signing on as mercenaries with Paraguay.

Progress eventually caught up with Vila Americana and assimilated it. In 1874, the Brazilian government began a full-scale immigration drive and opened the nation to millions of Portuguese, Spaniards, Italians and Japanese. Slavery was abolished in 1888. The monarchy toppled a year later.

Despite strong—often vehement—parental objections, the children and grandchildren of the Confederate settlers started marrying outside their nationality. The younger generations tired of rural life, left Vila Americana and moved away to distant cities.

New cultures and new industries poured into the Vila Americana region. The city of Americana was founded in 1924. Today it has a population of 45,000, and an additional 35,000 people live in the surrounding farmland.

But among the American descendants, the ties to Vila Americana remain.

"Those are my parents, and over there is Uncle Marvin," Prudente Mac Knight, 43, director of a Rio de Janeiro finance company, said softly during his latest visit to the Confederate cemetery.

"And when my turn comes, I've left strict instructions. I'm going to be buried here, too."

Trouble With Proclamation

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The Rev. Royce Makin, associate pastor of Central Christian Church, told Sunday of difficulties he encountered in locating the wording in the Thanksgiving proclamation signed by President George Washington on Nov. 26, 1789.

Makin said he first called the San Antonio Public Library, but an employe said the "person in charge of Texas history" was not in.

He then called a local newspaper, thinking its library might have a clipping that had the wording in its file.

"I'm sorry sir, but our files do not go back that far," Makin said he was told by a librarian.

He said he never did find out how the proclamation was worded.

No Gap In Albert House

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The daughter of the next speaker of the U.S. House says there is a generation between her and her father but no gap.

"Generation gap implies noncommunication," said Mary Frances Albert, 22, a Rice University co-ed. "I communicate with both my parents. That doesn't mean we agree on things, but we talk about them."

Mary Frances' father is Carl Albert, the Democrat from Oklahoma who will be elected speaker next year.

Albert, who generally votes with liberals on issues, is very much a member of "the establishment."

But as for Miss Albert, "I don't like labels. I guess you could call me a non-demonstrating radical-liberal. But I am a conservative socially.

"I'm not a demonstrator. I mean I just don't dig that. I think the system is a good one, especially the legislative one. So I work and vote for the candidate I support."

She didn't vote for her father this time, but only because of lack of opportunity.

"This is my fifth year at Rice," she says, and she is registered to vote here, not in Oklahoma.

As the daughter of a politician, Miss Albert believes that for children whose fathers are in politics there are usually only two viewpoints.

"You either hate it or you love it. Some can't stand it. I just happen to think it's groovy."

"The average man on the street says 'student' with a hiss, the same way he says 'politician.' But politician isn't a bad word and there are very few bad politicians. I don't know why it's considered a bad name. As a politician you have to get in there and be human and help people."

"God understandeth the way thereof." Job 28:23.

We come into the world decidedly bare,
And our path in this life touches pleasure and care.
Whether our end tends, upward or no,
God definitely knows the way we shall go,
But we do the deciding as to map and to load
And seek our own heaven at the end of the road.

Revival To Begin Sunday

A revival will begin Sunday evening at the Church of God, located at 2100 Avenue O.

The Rev. David Leon Arrant of Grass Valley, Calif., will be the visiting evangelist for the series of services, which will continue for two weeks. The services will begin at 7:30 p.m. daily, except Sundays when the starting time for the evening service is 7 o'clock.

The public is invited to attend all services, said the Rev. Allen Stevens, pastor.

Rehearsal Set For Children

Parents of 4th, 5th and 6th grade children have been reminded that these children are invited to participate in the community Thanksgiving service sponsored by the Scurry County Ministerial Alliance on Sunday evening at First United Methodist Church.

There will be a special rehearsal at 4 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church for the youngsters. They will rehearse the two songs they will sing during the service.

PLANNING THANKSGIVING SERVICE — Going over last-minute plans for the community Thanksgiving service to be held at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at First United Methodist Church are, from left, the Rev. Jesse Dea, pastor of Union United Methodist Church; Joe W. Jones, music-youth director of First Baptist Church; the Rev. Raymond E. Hall, pastor of First Baptist Church; and the Rev. Wallace H. Kirby, pastor of First United Methodist Church. Rev. Hall will bring the message at the service, which will be sponsored by the Scurry County Ministerial Alliance.

Community Thanksgiving Service Set

A community Thanksgiving service will be held Sunday evening at the First United Methodist Church, with churches of several denominations participating.

The special service for the Thanksgiving sermon will be sponsored by the Scurry County Ministerial Alliance.

The Rev. Raymond Hall, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will bring the Thanksgiving message, with the service scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m.

Joe Jones, director of music at First Baptist Church, will direct a youth choir of 4th, 5th and 6th graders in presenting special music for the service.

Other local clergymen and laymen also will participate in the service, and everyone in the community is invited to attend.

Bush Is Considered For Post

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Sen. John Tower says Rep. George Bush, who lost his bid for the Senate to Democrat Lloyd Bentsen, is being considered for a high government post.

Tower, here Thursday to address the Retired Officers Association told newsmen he could not elaborate.

Bush is a man of "tremendous ability" and is highly thought of in Washington, Tower said.

In his speech to the association, Tower said the United States could easily become second to Russia as a world power.

Russia is steadily spending more of its gross national product for military purposes, while this country is taking the opposite route, the Texas Republican said.

"We seek a generation of peace, but a generation of peace, if it comes, will come on (Russia's) terms if we don't look to the maintenance of a military posture superior, or at least at a parity, with the Soviet Union," he said, adding:

"I personally opt for superiority, not parity."

The No. 1 national priority is, "and must be until the threat is removed, adequate military power," Tower said, "and we must pay what's necessary to get it."

6 Arrested In Houston Raids

HOUSTON (AP) — Narcotics officers carried out a series of raids Thursday night and early today, looking for 30 persons named in sealed indictments by a Harris County grand jury.

Six charged in the indictments were arrested Thursday afternoon. Another 10 were named in arrest warrants.

The indictments charge possession and sale of marijuana, with two charged with sale and possession of LSD.

About 60 officers from the sheriff's department, the Texas Department of Public Safety and the U.S. Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs took part in the roundup.

Liberty Bell Case Reopened

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The case of the cracked Liberty Bell is about to be reopened.

About 40 irate consumers, convinced American colonists got a lemon, will leave here for London during the Thanksgiving holidays to picket Whitechapel Bell Foundry, Ltd., maker of the bell.

Whitechapel claims the crack was due to mishandling after the bell was delivered in 1752, not faulty material.

Trucker Burns In Crash

TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP) —A trucker hauling liquid sulphur burned to death and a second driver suffered severe injuries in a highway crash involving three vehicles Thursday night.

It took nearly two hours to extinguish flames leaping around a trailer loaded with the sulphur and a semi-truck carrying mail. A pickup truck also figured in the collision 1½ miles west of here on U.S. 67.

Authorities still were unable to identify the dead man hours later. They reported he was burned beyond recognition and they were not able at once to determine the ownership of the badly charred truck.

Bobby Green, 32, of Memphis, Tenn., at the wheel of the mail truck, suffered burns over 45 per cent of his body and was taken to Texarkana Wadley Hospital in critical condition. Attendants said they expected to move him to the burns center at Brooke Army Hospital in San Antonio.

Injuries which apparently were not serious were received by two occupants of the pickup—Robert Vickers, 47, and his son Mickey, 19, of Hooks, Tex.

Sulphur flowed in a blazing stream for about 300 yards down the road after the crash at the intersection of U.S. 67 at Kings Highway near Nash, Tex.

"The whole side of the highway was a wall of fire," said state patrolman Jerry Kirkpatrick.

Three overhead telephone cables were severed by the flames, interrupting service for a time to about 550 customers.

Wife Is Acquitted

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Mrs. Louise Thoresen was acquitted today of murder charges in the death of her millionaire gun collector husband, William Thoresen III.

The eight-man, four-women jury returned their verdict just 11 hours after they got the case from Judge Joseph J. Joy.

The judge convened court at 3:45 a.m. when the jury reached a verdict, and the court clerk read it aloud.

Mrs. Thoresen was joyfully embraced by her parents in the courtroom. The 34-year-old defendant was not set free, however, since she is being held on a New York warrant involving a gun charge.

But Mrs. Thoresen was expected to be released later today. She was found innocent after a 13-day trial.

Mrs. Thoresen's husband, son of a Chicago steel executive, was shot to death in the couple's Fresno home last June 10.

Minibus Plan Is Discussed

DALLAS (AP) — A massive reshuffling of office space at City Hall may result in minibuses being run at 30-minute intervals to link City of Dallas branch offices and provide a shuttle for both city employes and citizens.

Asst. City Managers Dean Vanderbilt and Bob Wright say such a plan is being discussed informally.

As city departments are moved around, Wright thinks there will be "further disruption and confusion on the part of the citizens on where to go for service."

"Confusion is bad enough in the present set-up, floor to floor," he says, "but now we have a geographic element in it."

The mini-buses, it is thought could transport citizens using city services, saving them the cost and inconvenience of seeking additional parking.

Gorman Bank Is Robbed

GORMAN, Tex. (AP) — Two robbers in false beards and mustaches took $3,900 at pistol point Thursday from employes of the First National Bank here in West Central Texas.

They escaped in a white late model car, and witnesses said there may have been a third person in the auto.

Charles Duran, chairman of the bank board, said the bandits missed more than $3,000 because tellers keep only part of their money in cash drawers, leaving the rest in boxes underneath.

The robbers entered just two minutes before the bank was due to close at 2 p.m., sacked up their loot and departed in about 10 minutes.

"It seemed like an eternity," Duran said.

A bank customer, A. D. Pittman, collapsed on the floor during the stickup. He was treated by a doctor and pronounced in satisfactory condition shortly after the gunmen fled.

Garbed in dark business suits and hats, one of the bandits was described as a stocky 200-pounder and the other as small and slightly built—possibly a woman. The smaller one didn't utter a sound in the bank, employes said.

A car similar to that in which the robbers fled was found about three miles north of Gorman. Officers said it had been reported stolen at Lubbock.

Expressway Contracts Let

AUSTIN (AP) — The state Highway Commission has let contracts to build two sections of San Antonio's north expressway that have aroused controversy among conservationists.

H.B. Zachry Co. of San Antonio was awarded a contract for the two-mile section extending from Tuxedo Avenue to .2 mile south of Interstate 410.

The company's low bid was $4,741,170, and it expects to take 300 working days to do the job.

The other contract was awarded to Killian-House Co., also of San Antonio. It will work the section between Pearl Parkway and East Mulberry Avenue, a distance of 1.2 miles. Low bid was $3,848,732. The work is expected to take 250 working days.

The San Antonio Conservation Society failed in efforts to get Austin federal judge Jack Roberts to halt the work until a new route could be planned. The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans upheld Roberts's decision.

The society appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court Wednesday, but no word came from Washington in time to stop the contract letting.

Conservationists opposed the freeway, which has been embroiled in controversy for the past 10 years, because part of it would go through local parks, including Brackenridge Park.

The sections let to contract Thursday, however, do not extend through the parks.

Vitamin C Is — Cure For Colds

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Linus Pauling, the scientist who won two Nobel prizes, says an effective cure for the common cold is as simple as a walk to the corner store.

Vitamin C can do the job, but people have not been making proper use of it, he said Thursday.

If they did, there would be no more colds, he said at a news conference to discuss his book, "Vitamin C and the Common Cold," scheduled for publication Dec. 7.

Pauling offered the following prescription for cold sufferers:

Take about one-half level teaspoon of the powder form of ascorbic acid—vitamin C—each day until the cold disappears.

When a person first catches a cold, he said, taking about one gram of ascorbic acid each hour will chase the discomfort away.

Pauling said continued suffering with colds "is explained by the fact that in the past, the medical student has been taught little about vitamins and nutrition."

"Fortunately, physicians are now beginning to recognize the value of the vitamins," he added.

Pauling said enough vitamin C for a year's worth of cold protection can be bought for about $5 a person.

It is now available at most grocery and drug stores, he said.

Pauling, a scientist also known as an antiwar crusader, said Americans spend about $500 millions a year on "cold remedies which do not prevent colds."

"They may do the somewhat the misery of the cold, but they also do harm because of their toxicity and side effects," he said.

Pauling, who has received Nobel prizes for chemistry and for peace efforts, said he has been using vitamin C to ward off colds with excellent results for five years.

GM Suits Settled Out Of Court

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — General Motors Corp. and the families of two persons killed while riding in Chevrolet Corvair's have settled out of court two separate civil suits involving a combined total of $891,960.

Records in the U.S. District Clerk's office here did not disclose the terms of the settlements.

Both suits alleged that Chevrolet Corvair cars had been defective in design.

One suit, filed by Clifford Porterfield of Pampa, sought $275,000 as result of his 19-year-old wife's death on Feb. 22, 1965. Mrs. Ovie Porterfield was killed when riding in a Corvair on US 287 near Iowa Park, he said.

The other suit was brought by William O'Laughlin of Roberts County, who sought $616,960. He alleged that his 17-year-old son was permanently injured when a Corvair failed to respond to steering on Feb. 1, 1967. He claimed his son is completely paralyzed from the waist down as result of the accident and "will never use his legs again."

Porterfield charged that General Motors concealed the condition of the Corvair when it was placed on the American market.

The suits had been scheduled for jury trial in January.

Trial dates in three similar suits brought by Ochiltree county families against General Motors have not yet been set.

Read the 150th Psalm for a clue.

It begins and ends with a call for all men to praise God.

Let everything that hath breath praise the Lord. Perhaps we would do well to follow David in this matter of being Thankful. Our Pilgrim Fathers did. They put God right in the center of every Thanksgiving day. It was the Lord's Day . . . not just another day void of work. Then just what is there about Thanksgiving, about God, that makes me glad? What is it that lifts my face to Heaven when I am sad and when I am glad? Too many times we find the weak, the hungry, the sick and the sad way out in front with their Thanksgiving to God for His fairness, His kindness and His goodwill.

Certainly the Great God goes beyond justice to establish love as the central virtue. He gave up His Son to prove it to us beyond a doubt. He calls on us to be very Thankful for health, if we have it — for wealth, if we own it — and for that friend who can turn us on when our way is dark.

He invites all of us to live like women and men who know very well about God, . . . to be grateful for the few days He gave us which have been full of the trouble He promised. Don't ever let us say a final farewell to dear ones, but let us be Thankful for His promise that we may find them again.

Thank you, Lord, for these reasons and many more. Amen.
