

On The BEAM

By J. W. King, Sr.

Since it seems popular to ask the attorney general for a ruling on something, especially if it would be legal to vote this way or that the writer of this column decided it would be wise to ask an opinion on a question, hence we addressed a letter to Hon. Price Daniels, Attorney General of Texas, and nominee of the Democratic Party in Texas for the office of United States Senator as follows:

Dear Mr. Daniels: I have noticed in the papers that someone has asked you to rule on the question of whether or not it is legal for Democrats to mark out the names of Adlai Stevenson and John Sparkman on the Democratic ticket and substitute therefor the names of Ike Eisenhower and Dick Nixon.

When you rule on that question, Mr. Daniels, would you also rule on this question: Would it be legal for the Democrats of Texas to scratch the name of Price Daniel for United States Senator on the Democratic ticket and substitute therefor the name of Senator Tom Connally?

It seems, Mr. Daniels, that you are determined to be a Republican. If you want to be a Republican that is your privilege, but I would like to have a Democrat represent Texas in the United States Senate. I want to vote for a Democrat for that office but I find the place on the Democratic ticket will be occupied by a Republican. Can I scratch the Republican's name, Mr. Daniels, and substitute the name of a Democrat, Tom Connally, in it's place?

Senator Connally Out For Stevenson

When asked today what he may do in the Presidential campaign, Senator Connally said:

"Of course I am going to support and vote for Governor Stevenson for President and Senator Sparkman for Vice President. Stevenson and Sparkman are Democrats. So am I. General Eisenhower is not a Democrat because he has said he is not. He has said he is a Republican. I believe in the principles of the Democratic party. Republicans do not. They are making a bitter campaign to defeat the principles of the Democratic party and to undo the work which the Democratic party has accomplished in the past twenty years in the interest of the American people.

Of course, everyone is entitled to vote as he may please. If he wants to vote Republican he has a perfect right to do so. But he has no right to claim that he is voting Democratic when he is voting Republican."

Trent Slips Up On Loraine Bulldogs

The Loraine Bulldogs went to Trent last Friday night for their second conference game and came home with the second defeat of the season starting them in the face. Trent 6, Loraine 0.

We do not know what happened. We could not make the game, but it seems that the lads were a little overconfident and got slipped up on. Trent wasn't supposed to have much of a team this year. Poor officiating was also a factor in favor of Trent, in the opinion of some who saw the game.

Coach Yoes says the figures on the game prove the officiating was not what it should have been. Loraine was penalized a total of 170 yards and Trent only 25. Every time, except 1, the Loraine boys made a long run they were called back and penalized for something which took their fighting spirit away. In this connection it might be well to inform Loraine fans that if they demean the officials openly during a ball game it could cause Loraine to be thrown out of the district for a year, so we should watch ourselves and even though it may appear to us that the officials are not giving the boys a fair deal we should keep our criticism to ourselves.

Loraine fumbled 4 times and Trent recovered every time. Trent fumbled 1 time and Loraine recovered. Trent made 5 first downs and gained 111 yards from scrimmage while Loraine only made 3 first downs and gained 112 yards from scrimmage. Trent threw 6 passes and completed 3 and had two intercepted by Loraine. Loraine threw 11 passes and completed 2. Trent scored the only touchdown of the game in the third period following a 25 yard run by their right half to the 1 yard stripe from which Graham scored. The touchdown was set up when Loraine fumbled a punt and it was recovered by Trent.

Because of so many penalties the game was a defensive one for the Bulldogs. Outstanding on defense for the Bulldogs were Glen Carroll, Bill Hanna, Bobbie Price and Bill Narrell.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Long of Colton, California, spent the weekend in the home of his brother, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Long, as they were enroute to Missouri to visit relatives. Other guests of the Longs Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Hodges and Nell of Roscoe.

School Lunch Room Shows Book Profit

The school lunch room at the end of the first month of operation this school year shows a balance of $448.67 with the government subsidy of $174.40 yet to come in, according to Supt. H. H. Homsley. The balance, however, does not give a true picture of the situation, Mr. Homsley said, because of the fact that there was an outstanding debt of $475 against the lunch room and the further fact that some students paid a full year in advance for their meals. The operating statement follows:

On hand Aug. 31	119.98
Student meals Sept.	1,458.45
Adult meals Sept.	120.03
Other income	26.29
Total	1,724.72
Expenditures:
Food	891.49
Labor	317.00

Meet Clifton Henderson and his son Tharon Henderson, who operate a father and son business at the intersection of Farm Road 644 with Highway 80.

Clifton Henderson was born in Comanche County and came to Loraine with his parents, N. L. Henderson and the late Mrs. Henderson, in 1915. He farmed with his father until he married Miss Mae Preston December 22, 1920, and continued farming until 1943 when he bought a small filling station one block east of his present location. In 1947 when the location of the farm to market road had been established, he built a new building where the farm road joins the highway. He first opened it as a Cosden Service Station with a small stock of groceries. He has expended his business activities to include a larger stock of groceries, meats and

Mitchell County and Colorado City News

Pat Bullock of Colorado City was elected Thursday morning to head the "Texans for Eisenhower" campaign in the 13 county area comprising the 24th Senatorial District. Bullock is present Senator from the district.

Meetings in each of the 13 counties will be called in the near future to select county chairmen. Bob Wagstaff of Taylor County was named chairman of that county last week.

The Colorado River bridge on US 80 was opened Wednesday morning with J. C. Roberts of Abilene, District Engineer of the State Highway Department, snipping the ribbon in a formal ceremony.

The new bridge replaced a bridge built in 1922, and torn out early this year. The new structure is 392 feet long and has no superstructure. The floor is four lane, 60 feet wide with a concrete divider through the middle, and cost approximately $260,000.

Kiwanis, Jaycees, Lions and the Chamber of Commerce joined in sponsoring the celebration divided into two parts--the ribbon cutting ceremony at the bridge, and a luncheon in the Caddell Transit building a block west of the bridge.

Dan Nowlin of the Highway patrol and Colorado City police were in possession of a hot potato Sunday night. Several teenage youngsters at Loraine had presented Dan with an object which appears to be a foreign made hand grenade, shell detector, or mortar shell.

The youngsters wanted Nowlin to disarm the object, which they said they had found sitting upright in the highway between Colorado City and Roscoe. Nowlin brought it to Colorado City and Colorado City police called Webb Air Base for information as to what it was. The Provost Marshal at Webb told them that the description fitted a mortar shell and advised them

Significance of Texas Grasses

Texas grassland is the foundation on which to build permanent prosperity for the whole state.

Grass feeds livestock. It builds fertility and saves soil. In its own way, grass is just as important as any of the natural resources of the United States.

Texas is making rapid strides in restoring its grasslands—an important phase of farm, economic my. The soil improvement program, using grasses to best advantage, is sweeping through the state with increasing velocity. Some counties are more advanced than others, but the movement is state-wide.

The average farmer or rancher has not always been so concerned with the preservation of cover grasses. And the nation is still paying for this shortsightedness. The disastrous sandstorms of the early '30's is an example of what happens when grasses are destroyed, good land practices are abandoned, and the farmer begins to mine, instead of farm, his soil.

One of the most striking examples of how grasses can save the land was demonstrated in an experiment performed by the Soil Conservation Experiment Station at Zanesville, O., some years ago. The experiment revealed that 34.5 inches of rainfall annually on a 12 percent slope planted to corn would wear away the top seven inches of soil in only 19 years.

Yet, this same slope planted in blue grass would not lose this rich seven-inch layer of soil for 23,300 years. This is an amazing comparison—and it is that average of seven fertile inches of soil upon which we must depend to feed and clothe our nation.

Two important conclusions can be drawn from a study of grass. First, it is almost indispensable to the profitable raising of livestock. Because of this fact, it deserves the thoughtful consideration of every intelligent farmer.

Second, it is invaluable in the functions of soil conservation and fertility maintenance. Because a stable soil is essential to the nation's welfare, grass merits the high regard of every American citizen.

It is conceivable, of course, that the return to grass could go too far for the welfare of our present economic system.

Certain crops are necessary for human food, industrial demands and livestock needs. The goal of agriculture should be to find the ideal mean between the two extremes. When this point is found, the soil would be held to the land, fertility would be maintained, and yet there would be enough of the various crops produced to meet the country's needs.

In the overall scheme of things, grass was nature's way of conserving the soil and producing food. And time after time, nature's way has proven to be the best way.
