Amarillo Police Seek Motive For Bombing Of Attorney's Wife And Son

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

Statistics of the bonded indebtedness of Texas cities show that Wichita Falls has with one exception—that of Austin—the lowest bonded indebtedness of any city of its class in the state. But while it is true that bonded indebtedness of the municipal corporation of Wichita Falls is comparatively low, when the school district and the water improvement district bonds are taken into consideration our bonded indebtedness would rank among the highest in the state.

The bonded indebtedness of Wichita Falls on March 31 as shown in the city's balance sheet is $3,609,500 from which may be subtracted $65,696.58 cash and $14,000 in bonds in the sinking fund leaving a balance of bonded indebtednes of $3,529,803.42.

No bond issues have been voted by the municipality of Wichita Falls in several years and the amount of outstanding bonds is being gradually reduced. The interest and sinking fund is being maintained, even if more than an ordinary amount of taxes are delinquent.

The firm of Allred, Lambert & Nichols, certified public accountants, have completed an audit of the records of the city of Wichita Falls for the year of April 1, 1929 through March 31, 1930. A lot of interesting information is compiled in this audit and here is one paragraph especially that ought to be pleasing to every citizen of Wichita Falls: "An examination of schedule 24 (the budget of appropriation and expenditures) reveals that every city department stayed well within the annual appropriation made for that department. You will note that $1,215,082.18 was appropriated to cover the city's needs for the present year but that only $1,090,-319.92 was expended, thereby leaving a favorable margin of $115,-762.26 between appropriated monies and expenses."

As long as that kind of a record is being made there isn't much chance of a movement to abandon the city-manager plan of government getting anywhere.

If all its taxes could be collected the city of Wichita Falls would be in excellent financial shape—it is anyway so far as staying within its budget is concerned. But the amount of taxes going delinquent is increasing. Delinquent taxes in Wichita Falls now aggregate $286,017.60 of which $152,941.07 was added from taxes due in 1929.

The report of the auditor shows that its mayor and board of aldermen cost the city of Wichita Falls $956 for the year of which $900 was for salaries, $6 for supplies and $50 for traveling expenses. Fifty dollars had been budgeted for office supplies and only $6 was expended. That's economical administration. What private business of such magnitude is so economically administered?

The audit contains a lot of other interesting information about our city government to which Talker hopes to advert from time to time but maybe this is enough for this installment.

The busines council of the chamber of commerce hears a discussion of a proposal to create a special junior college district in Wichita and possible adjoining counties. It

PLOT TO SLAY LAWYER SEEN IN TRAGEDY

Infernal Machine Wrecks Automobile as Woman Is Driving

BOY IS NEAR DEATH

Nitroglycerin Blamed For Terrific Explosion; Part Of Device Found

AMARILLO, Texas, June 27. (UP)—A sweeping investigation into the death of Mrs. A. D. Payne, wife of a prominent Amarillo attorney, and probable fatal injuring of her 14-year-old son when their automobile exploded here today was launched by city and county officials tonight.

Officials investigating the blast tonight said they were convinced that a nitroglycerin bomb had been placed under Payne's automobile, causing it to blow to pieces. No motive could be ascribed to the act, believed to be a plot to murder Payne himself.

Boy Near Death

Mrs. Payne and her son, A. D. Jr., had just left Payne and his 12-year-old daughter when the tragedy occurred. A few minutes later, as Mrs. Payne was en route to the business section to shop, the car was blasted into bits with an accompanying roar that shook the entire neighborhood. She was killed instantly, her body badly shattered The boy's right arm and leg were almost torn from his body. Physicians tonight said he had little chance to recover.

"I know of no one in the world who would do this to me or my family." Payne, a prominent civil attorney here who is popular in social and professional circles, said.

State's attorneys sensed no political enmity in the plot. Although Payne was a candidate for the district judgeship until he withdrew recently, they could not connect his candidacy with any political friction.

Wiring Found

Payne said his son had been talking recently of getting some dynamite for the fourth of July celebrations, but police officers who investigated the tragedy said tonight the explosion was not caused by dynamite.

The wiring used to fasten the infernal machine to the automobile was found near the scene of the explosion. Parts of the shattered car were found a block away from the blast. Police said the bomb probably was under the driver's seat.

The boy's body was blown more than 30 feet from the car.

Tex Thornton, oil well shooter and explosive expert who was called to aid in the investigation, reported the blast had been caused by either a charge of nitroglycerin or TNT.

Fail to Find Clue

Authorities late today were without any clue to follow concerning the bombing.

Efforts of police, the sheriff's office and the district attorney were being directed at finding a motive for the attack, after M. M. Scott, chief of detectives, found a metal scrap which he said had been identified positively as part of a nitroglycerin bomb. This was found in wreckage of the car.

Parts of dry cell batteries found earlier in the day, Scott said, indicated the charge was planted in the car with apparatus timed to explode after the car had started. He also discovered that ignition wires of the car had been tampered with and surplus wires spliced to a circuit leading from the storage battery.

The car was left in the garage last night, Payne said, but the garage door was not locked.

Mrs. Jessie Smith was looking out of a window at her home as the car passed. The explosion shook her house, wreckage of the car was scattered along half a block and the mutilated body of the boy was dropped in her yard near the window.

A coroner's verdict was withheld pending further investigation.

Court Ruling In Wichita Bigamy Case Upsets Law

Man Who Took Second Wife in Oklahoma Did Not Violate Texas Statutes, Appeals Judges Declare

Holding that a person could not be tried for bigamy in Texas if the bigamous marriage was contracted in another state, the court of criminal appeals at Austin in its last session of the 1929-1930 term Friday reversed and remanded the case of Riley Hopson, convicted for bigamy and sentenced to two years by a jury in the 30th district court here more than a year ago, according to an Associated Press dispatch to The Record News.

Amendment Likely

The case as decided Friday by the higher court settles a dispute over the meaning of Texas statutes which have been in effect for about half a century, according to the statement of George W. Anderson, assistant district attorney. The statute as it now stands, the attorney explained, does not make provisions for marriage ceremonies contracted in another state while a first wife is still alive in Texas, even though the couple bigamously married cohabit in this state.

The district attorpey's department here will write immediately to Austin for an opinioin in the case and if the terms of the appeals court decision warrant, the department here will join with the court in submitting to the legislature an amendment to the statute, Mr. Anderson said. The possible amendment will add only a few words to the existing statute, making it possible to try a person for bigamy if the bigamous marriage is contracted in another state and the persons so joined live together in Texas, the attorney stated.

The original case against Hopson was filed in district court here when he married Louise Allison at Davidson, Okla., while another wife, Retta Hopson, was still living. It was alleged that Hopson and Miss Allison went from here across the state line to be married and returned shortly after the ceremony to live here.

Divorce Follows

Attorneys for the defense contended that the statute does not allow trial for bigamy when the ceremoney in such a case is performed outside Texas. State attorneys argued that even though the mere ceremony was contracted in Oklahoma, outside the jurisdiction of Texas law, the fact that the couple lived together in this state amounted to common law marriage, which in effect was bigamy, since a previous Mrs. Hopson was still living and no divorce had been granted. The opinion of the appeals court Friday eliminated the aspect of common law marriage, since an actual marriage ceremony had once been perforced. This action reversed the conviction of the district court.

Mr. Anderson said Friday that Hopson and his previous wife, Retta, were divorced about 60 days after the trial for bigamy was held here. Hopson is now living in East Texas near Mt. Pleasant, it was said. He has been at liberay on appeal bond since the trial here.

SUICIDE HALTS MERGER SUIT

Chief of Youngstown Counsel Shoots Himself

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, June 27. (AP)—L. A. Manchester, chief counsel for the Youngstown Sheet & Tube company, killed himself today at the moment of the opening of court for the third day of trial in the injunction suit to prevent merger of the Youngstown company with Bethlehem Steel corporation.

The suicide caused abrupt adjournment of the trial after a dramatic episode in the Mahoning county common pleas court. July 8 was set as the date for resumption of the hearing.

News of the attorney's act was brought to President Eugene Grace of the Bethlehem corporation in the courtroom as the score or more attorneys settled in their places to await opening of the third days session.

The chair immediately behind former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, acting as chief counsel for all the defendants in the suit, was vacant.

President Grace called Baker and Attorneys F. H. Wood and James B. Kennedy aside for a whispered conference. Judge David G. Jenkins entered. The bailiff rapped his gavel and began the ritual.

"Hear ye! Hear ye!" As he continued through "God save this honorable court," Attorney Kennedy leaped to the judge's dias and pushed that official through the door leading to his chambers. Spectators and opposing counsel, unaware of the tragedy, gasped.

Finally Baker, Wood and Luther S. Day of Cleveland, the latter chief counsel for the stockholders fighting the merger, were called into the chambers.

Baker emerged first. He was crying. The atmosphere was charged with excitement. At first the spectators thought there had been an out-of-court settlement of the suit.

Judge Jenkins emerged. His face was white, his features drawn. He rapped his gavel. "For good and sufficient reasons, this court is adjourned," he said.

It was several minutes before newspapermen and spectators learned what had taken place. Manchester's death occurred at 8:55 a. m., just five minutes before court was scheduled to open. From his own ofice at the headquarters of the Youngstown company on the public square J. C. Argtsinger, associate counsel, heard a shot. He rushed into Manchester's office. The attorney was slumped over his desk dead. A bullet had pierced his right temple. A revolver lay on the floor.

HEMBREE FATE RESTED WITH DUNCAN JURY

Prolonged Assault Trial Closes After Day Of Argument

SHIELD GIVEN DEATH

Davis Wins Suspension Of Five-Year Term For 'Thrill Slaying'

Special to The Record News

DUNCAN, Okla., June 27.—The fate of E. S. Hembree, on trial for his life for an alleged assault upon Miss Leota Bosley, Gainesville, Texas, school teacher, was placed in the hands of a jury at 7:20 Friday night at the close of a trial that has lasted all week. The jury retired to its chambers for deliberation at 8 o'clock after a 40-minute pause for supper. After two hours deliberation the body retired for the night without reaching a verdict.

The presentation of the court's charge and the arguments of counsel occupied all of the session Friday, County Attorney Singleton closing for the state after 7 o'clock.

Hembree, with his brother, A. Y., is charged with kidnaping Miss Bosley and her companion, Chad Thurman, on a road near Loco last March. The girl was shot by a bullet intended for her companion, fired when the young man refused to attack her. She testified at the trial with her arm still paralyzed from the effects of the wound, in a sling.

Both Thurman and the young woman identified E. S. Hembree as one of their two assailants.

The defendant entered an alibi, supported by the testimony of his wife, when he took the stand in his own defense Thursday. Hembree claimed that he had caught game chickens on the night of the attack and returned to his home at 9:30. Blood found on his clothing was chicken blood, he declared.

The trial of the younger brother, severed from that of E. S. Hembree on a defense motion, is scheduled to follow the verdict in the first case.

SHIELD GIVEN DEATH PENALTY

BROWNWOOD, Texas, June 27 (UP)—Joe Shield, 35, charged with killing his wife and her parents, was found guilty and sentenced to die in the electric chair here today.

Shield was tried first for the murder of his wife, Mrs Opal May Shield and still is under indictment for the alleged murders of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Shields, shot to death in a triple killing at Brookesmith, near here May 16.

Shield pleaded insanity.

THRILL SLAYER' WINS SUSPENDED TERM

EASTLAND, Texas, June 27. (UP)—Thomas Davis, charged with the "thrill slaying" of Lucian Shook, today was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and given a suspended sentence. He still faces charges of murder in connection with the death of Leon, Lucian's brother.

Davis first was given the death penalty but was granted a retrial by the criminal court of appeals at Austin.

County Attorney Joe H. Jones said tonight he would oppose any motion to obtain Davis' release on bond on the charge of having killed Leon. Woodrow Wilson Davis, Thomas' brother, testified for the defense that Clyde Thompson killed the Shook brothers to "see them kick."

Endurance Fliers Fight Sleep And Motor Kinks to Keep Ship Circling

Hunter Brothers Brave Perils of Night Refueling as End Of 421-Hour Battle Looms

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN

CHICAGO, June 27. (UP)—An endurance flight is something like a dance marathon, only more so.

You fly or you dance until you can't fly or dance any longer, and then you fly or you dance some more.

"Just exactly like a dance marathon," said Walter Hunter, eldest of four brothers who had succeeded tonight in keeping an airplane flying around the Sky Harbor airport in circles for 15 days. "Only maybe it's not quite as silly.

"You see we stand to make close to $200,000 if we break the record. No marathon dancer ever did that."

Sunday Tells Tale

The record goes to smash early Sunday morning when the Hunter family's ship will have been in the air 421 hours, unless the plane or one of the Hunter brothers goes smash first.

The Stinson-Detroit cabin monoplane, City of Chicago, is full of rattles, the motor full of khocks, the gasoline lines full of kinks and the Hunter brothers, all four of them, full of aches and pains and a mad desire for sleep.

John and Kenneth are the pilots of the endurance plane. Walter and Albert handle the refueling ship. Their sister, Irene, sees to it they get enough of the proper kind of food.

Sister Hopeful

"I know that if all it needs is courage and bravery, my brothers will win," said Irene, pretty country school teacher spending her summer vacation over the frying pan so her brothers won't get indigestion. "They have set out to win and I have a firm belief in them."

John and Kenneth didn't have much trouble during the first two

FIFTY DIE IN STORM'S WAKE

Winds and Rains Spread Wide Destruction

NEW YORK, June 27. (AP)—Death and destruction rode the wings of storms in parts of the United States and Canada last night and today, taking 50 lives, injuring many persons and causing property damage of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Thirty persons were killed at Brockville, Ont., in the explosion of a charge of dynamite under the drill boat J. B. King. It was believed the blast may have been caused by lightning. High winds and a swift current balked divers in their search of the sunken boat and only one body had been recovered tonight.

Eleven persons were killed near Caperol, Ont., in the wrecks of a freight train and a passenger train. Both wrecks were caused by spreading rails, loosened by the driving rain and high waters. Six of the dead were tramps, riding the rods of the freight train. Almost a dozen deaths and loss of 30 fishing vessels were reported at Harbor Grace, N. F., and vicinity. At St. John's, N. F., hail stones weighing as much as ten pounds broke windows, caved in roofs and sank small fishing boats.

Two men were drowned at Buffalo when a boat foundered, a farmer was killed by lightning near Carlisle, Pa., and a 9-year-old girl at Hackettstown, N. J., met the same fate.

As far south as Atlanta, Georgia, high winds and beating rains damaged buildings and crops.

Wichita Area Gets West Texas 'Rain'

Wichita Falls was coated with a heavy layer of sand borne by a high wind from the northeast shortly before mid-night Friday. High temperatures which had oppressed the section through the day were substantially lowered and overhanging clouds brought a promise of rain to break the week's heat wave. A scarcely perceptible sprinkle accompanied the wind at its height.

Senate Committee Expected To Approve New Veterans Measure

WASHINGTON, June 27. (AP)—Committee approval of the new house measure authorizing disability pensions for veterans of the world war was confidently predicted tonight by Senator Watson of Indiana, the acting chairman of the senate finance committee.

Director Hines of the veterans bureau endorsed the bill before the committee during its day of hearings and his statement was regarded as giving full approval of the Hoover administration.

O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander of the American Legion, in a telegram read to the committee urged a speedy report of the measure with minor amendments. The committee will vote tomorrow.

Democrats are prepared to ask for an increase in the pension rates to provide for a $60 maximum instead of the $40 limit in the house bill. Spanish war veterans get the $60 maximum.

An attempt will be made in the senate tomorrow to take up the veterans bill immediately but its passage is not believed likely before Monday.

Meanwhile, congressional leaders tentatively fixed next Wednesday as the adjournment date. Some still are hopeful of getting away sooner.

"We will without a doubt report the veterans bill tomorrow in practically the form in which it was passed by the house," said Senator Watson.

PRIVATE FUNDS FOR STUDY OF CRIME PLANNED

Solons Cut Down Money For Use of President's Appointees

SCOPE 'DEFINED'

Resolution Directs Group To Attend Strictly To Prohibition

WASHINGTON, June 27. (US)—President Hoover today defied the senate to restrict the scope of the national law enforcement commission to a dry law inquiry by limiting its appropriation, and belligerantly announced that he would secure private funds so that it can continue its work.

This action came immediately on the heels of senate action cutting the requested appropriation from $250,000 to $50,000 and directing the commission to attend strictly to the business of investigating prohibition law violations.

The president declared:

1.—The enforcement of any one crimnal law involves the machinery of all law enforcement.

Prisoners Increase

2.—There is an alarming increase in the number of federal prisoners and that only 30 per cent are convicted for prohibition violations.

3.—That the country is interested in the enforcement of all laws and the citizens are sufficiently interested in enforcing all laws to contribute funds to continue the inquiry. He pledged $100,000 from this source.

Immediately after the senate slashed the commission's appropriation to $50,000 the president called in the members of the law enforcement commission in the city. These were Chairman Wickersham, Miss Ada L. Comstock, Henry W. Anderson, Monte M. Lemann and Roscoe Pound. It was here that the preliminary funds were arranged for. Later Chairman Wickersham said:

"I have nothing to say except that we never quit."

New Suits and Another Hop Share Attention of Southern Cross Fliers

NEW YORK, June 27. (UP)—Land-bound for the first full day since they flew westward from Ireland, the men of the Southern Cross bought new suits today and went out to see the town. The town also saw them, with a reception at city hall the inevitable mark of formal greeting.

But before the day was over representatives of Maj. Charles Kingsford-Smith announced plans for another long distance flight—this time a sweep across the continent from Washington to San Francisco without a stop.

Should the Southern Cross be used for the journey it will mean the veteran monoplane will have completed an around-the-world flight. It was in that craft that Kingsford-Smith spanned the Pacific to Australia. There followed the memorable air voyage over Asia and Europe to London. And at yesterday's dusk the tri-motored Fokker rolled to a stop at Roosevelt field after having settled at Harbar Grace, N. F., at the end of a transatlantic flight.

The tentative program calls for "plenty of rest" and only minor engagements Saturday and Sunday. Monday morning the fliers will depart by plane for Washington, where they will be received by President Hoover and the projected take-off for California is scheduled for late Monday or early Tuesday.

C.-C. DISCUSSES COLLEGE NEEDS

Less Expensive to Train Pupils at Home, Says Martin

Extended discussion of plans now being considered for providing continuance of a Junior college in Wichita Falls featured the bi-weekly meeting of the business council Friday noon, with Judge P. A. Martin, J. T. Harrell, W. M. Priddy and Dr. J. W. Cantwell appearing as leading advocates for making the institution permanent in this city.

Judge Martin, introduced by Chairman Paul G. Putty as the authorized spokesman for the Junior chamber of commerce committee recently appointed by the directors, voiced a plea for a permanent Junior college here not only to save "the outpouring of money to other communities having collegiate facilities, but to provide home influence for boys and girls who are too young at high school graduation to prosper in the university atmosphere."

"It is a commonly acknowledged fact that we are going to lose our Junior college unless something is done," Judge Martin said. "This is an institution of which we justly are proud. Under the new laws governing such matters, it can not longer be sustained by city school funds. We must therefore make up our minds whether or not we shall continue to operate our local college."

Economic Viewpoint

Judge Martin again advanced the proposal that a bond issue imposing a tax of not more than 15 cents per $100 of property valuation in Wichita county would provide a $300,000 building, take care of interest and retirement fund, and provide sufficient money for operating expenses. He added that the amount of such a bond issue would be spent within two or three years for education of local young people in other communities in event of the local Junior college being discontinued.

"There are considerations other than the financial one," Judge Martin continued. "Most high school graduates now are 16 or 17 years of age. They are in the most critical period of their lives. It is of inestimable value to them, and to us, that they be enabled to do their early college work here where the benefit of home training, home churches, home Sunday schools and home friends may be continued."

Judge Martin also declared that many families have moved to Wichita Falls within the past few years because "of our proud boast of having a modern Junior college." Failure to provide means of continuing the institution, he said, would be "penny wise and pound foolish." Marking the development of Junior colleges as an integral part of the modern educational system, he said that the number of such institutions in this country has doubled since 1923.

May Lose College

In reply to a question raised by E. H. Eddleman, Dr. J. W. Cantwell, superintendent of the city schools, declared that he knows of no other city equal in population to Wichita Falls which has no Junior college. Referring to the possibility of losing the college permanently by allowing its discontinuance next year, Dr. Cantwell added:

"Under law and under the program of the state board of education, Junior colleges can not be established in communities where collegiate facilities already exist. We can not of our own will set up a Junior college. We can vote to do so, and can provide funds, but the state board of education determines whether or not we can have it."

It was pointed out, in connection with Dr. Cantwell's statement, that should the Junior college be abandoned here, and a similar institution subsequently established in some other city in this area, restoration of a Junior college in Wichita Falls probably would be forbidden.

Referring to the importance of having facilities for collegiate work provided in this city, Dr. Cantwell quoted the following statement from Dr. Frederick Eby of Texas university, a veteran of the faculty there: "You may have in the Junior college an homogenous group of students, approximately of the same age, needing the same kind of discipline. They belong to middle-adolescents, who are the most difficult of all to discipline. In the university, there is a grand mixture of adolescents and students of higher grades. These institutions are adjusted to the needs of higher grades of students, so far as discipline is concerned, but not for the middle-adolescents. They permit the freedom of university life to all students. Those of Junior college are not yet sufficiently controlled to receive such freedom."

Francis Gives Views

Estimating that a bond issue such as Judge Martin recommended would result in a very small increase in taxes, W. M. Priddy declared emphatically his belief that steps should be taken at once to guarantee the permanent continuance of Wichita Falls Junior college.

Questions relating to the present bonded indebtedness of this city, and the wisdom of voting further taxation upon property here, were raised by Charles I. Francis, who expressed opposition in a public discussioin of the matter recently to continuance of the college at the expense of this community.

It was explained by J. T. Harrell, chairman of the Junior college committee of the chamber of commerce that no definite plans have been worked out, but that members of the committee are in accord with Judge Martin's expressed views. Efforts will be made to perfect a plan within the near future for creating funds to provide a new Junior college building during the ensuing year, and to assure its operation with no charge to students in the supporting area other than minor fees, he said.

City Clearing Alleys And Vacant Lots of Weeds

In an effort to keep down the hordes of mosquitoes and flies which have invaded Wichita Falls since the recent heavy rains, the city is running two mowers each day on vacant lots and alleys and has drained all pools and low places within the city limits, according to M. Farrell, chief city sanitary inspector.

Henry Penix Jr. Captures Honors In Junior C.-C. 'Bathing Revue'

150 Take Part in Frolic and Picnic at Westmoreland Pool Friday Night

Members of the Junior chamber of commerce, members of their families and friends comprising a group of about 150 persons disported themselves hilariously in Westmoreland pool, cheered lustily their favorites in aquatic contests, and consumed picnic rations in prodigious quantities Friday evening, from 6 o'clock until far past curfew.

Crowd Views Contests

Principal interest in Friday evening's activities centered in the series of water contests which were staged under the direction of Leonard Rice and Tom Beatty, lifeguards, Otto Lazenby, manager of Westmoreland pool, and Frank Dempsey. Perhaps 200 persons, other than those in the Junior chamber of commerce party, lined the banks of the pool for the 45 minutes of amusement furnished by the tourney of splash.

Henry Penix Jr., captured major honors by carrying of first place in the bathing beauty revue with which the pool events closed. Clad in revealing attire which competed successfully with the very latest to be seen at Atlantic City for downright scarcity of material used, with alluring "spit-curls" adorning softly rounded cheeks, and a Clara Bow gait, Henry outdistanced his five competitors sufficiently to win a wrist watch guaranteed to run 24 hours each day, if not stopped. Aside from winning first honors in the display of pulchritude, Mr. Penix featured as Rustic Ruth in a life-saving exhibition, Frank Dempsey portraying the heroic lifeguard who brought the soggy form from the depths.

Mrs. Jerry Vinson first breasted the wire in a 50-yard dash from shallow to deep water, winning by a stroke by a burst of speed in the few yards of deep water at the end of the course.

In a similar event for men, with about 10 entries, Dick Kenley pulled away to win by a length. Referring, apparently, to the manner in which the contestants took to the water when given the starting signal on the wall, the announcer proclaimed the event to have been done in ten-flat.

In the log race, a 25-yard dash through water of swimming depth, that timber which was straddled by Dick Kenly, Paul Hines, Ike McCarty, H. L. Druce, and E. E. Harrison shoved its snout under the wire only a yard ahead of its opponent. Since each craft was moved to invert itself suddenly with all aboard, at about the same spot, there was a brief period during the race when both crews were confusingly commingled — without casualties.

Picnic Follows

The tug-of-war was, in terms of baseball, the seventh inning. It produced stellar performances, but foretold the end of events aquatic through reducing participants to a state of exhaustion. Members of the competing teams gripped the rope with left hands, using rights and feet to swim backwards, the contest being staged in 10-foot water. The squad composed of Rollin Dixon, Lowell Nichols, Jerry Vinson, Dick Kenley, Ike McCarty, E. E. Harrison, and H. L. Druce finally dragged their opponents over the line. Life buoys aided the wearied contetstants to make port.

In the life buoy race, Joseph Bialkowski revealed an experienced crawfish mode of travel which brought him home an easy winner.

Appropriate awards were made to winners by E. L. Freuchte. Tom Beatty acted as director of the course.

Horshoe pitching and swimmnig preceded the series of contests. Following the bathing revue, the entire party gathered on the lawn, for a picnic dinner, while music was broadcast from a phonograph through loud speakers. Games directed by Bob McCulloch completed the evening's entertainment. The affair was planned and supervised by the general meetings committee headed by T. J. Waggoner Jr.

SMITH UPHOLDS DEMO BOLT

Candidate Also Favors Tariff on Oil

John Lee Smith of Throckmorton, candidate for congress from the 13th district, Friday night broadcast an address in the interests of his campaign over station KGKO, grouping his speech mainly about the four subjects of bolters, prohibition, farm relief and the tariff.

In an attack on those Democrats who refuse to support a party bolter, Mr. Smith said that "the Democrat who denounces a bolter for becoming a candidate before the primaries is making a sorry spectacle of himself in the light of such precedents as are furnished by Cleveland and Wilson, both of whom bolted Bryan in 1896."

"In fact," he said, "the Democratic party has elected only bolters to the presidency since the civil war."

The candidate urged that prohibition be "given a chance." "This government," he said, "banished the traffic in human lives from its confines even at the cost of the civil war. Shall it hesitate to banish the traffic in liquor, that vile enslaver of minds and morals?"

Mr. Smith declared himself in favor of a revision of the present high tariff duties. "Though I do not favor a high tariff from a standpoint of principle, yet if the manufacturing industries in the East are given such protection, I would insist that a tariff be placed on oil, one of the basic industries of this district. If we had a tariff on oil at present, Wichita Falls would be enjoying her full share of prosperity and many men now idle would be employed."

As a solution for the farm problem, the speaker urged the debenture plan and lower interest rates to farmers on federal farm loans.

smoothly. They took turns at sleeping, and their brothers ferried up their food and gasoline regularly.

Then the steady grind began to tell, both on man and on steel. First a gasoline line began to leak. The brothers promptly emptied the big tank in the left wing. That made the ship lopsided and necessitated a constant hand on the stick.

Night Perils

It also necessitated frequent refuelings; even at night, the first time in history that such a feat ever has been attempted, much less completed, and completed regularly.

"It's pretty tough," said Walter, "this business of bringing two airplanes close enough together in the dark to transfer gasoline from one to the other with a hose. One false move and it would be bingo for us."

Between refuelings, John and Kenneth try to take turns at sleeping. But they don't trust each other at it any longer. The last time John tried to snatch a little sleep, Kenneth took over the controls and the first thing they knew, both were asleep. The ship slipped into a dive. The rushing air awakened them barely in time to avert a catastrophe.

$200,000 at Stake

All four brothers are young airmail pilots. They pooled their total resources, $11,000 to buy the plane. If they exceed the record, the $200,000 they will get will come from testimonials, prizes and advertising.

"And if we don't break it," said spokesman Walter, "it's be because we didn't get the breaks, and we'll be so flat broke that we simply have to break it."

YOUNG SPEAKS AT HENRIETTA

Bowie Included on Friday's Itinerary

Special to The Record News.

HENRIETTA, Texas, June 27.—Speaking to an attentive crowd on the court house lawn Friday afternoon, Jim Young, after giving in detail his reasons for opposing the $350,000,000 state road bond issue and the $300,000 prison relocation plan advocated by Tom Love and Ross Sterling, and his reasons for advocating a fair tax of natural resources and industry, renewed his attack on Ross Sterling for not resigning from the highway commission now that he has announced for governor.

He said that the entire highway commission is using its influence and its tremendous power in an attempt to get Sterling nominated for governor in direct violation not only of a sound governmental principle but of a published rule of the highway department forbidding its employes to engage in partisan politics.

Young charged Clint Small is the candidate for special interests seeking to prevent fair taxation of natural resources and industries advocated by Young who said these values should be taxed in proportion to tax on farm homes and ranches and that Small voted in the state senate against the $1 sulphur tax.

Attacks Commission

J. P. Williams, attorney and secretary of the chamber of commerce, introduced Young. V. Leferve, chairman of the county Democratic executive committee presided.

Young said the highway commission has showed its hand by not turning down any requests for road designations or other favors since Sterling's candidacy got under way. "That's politics," said Young.

He made a strong plea for re-establishment of Democracy in Texas as the only means for helping put the Republican party out of national power and saving agriculture and the common people from the ills of the Republican tariff designated to enrich one section of the country at the expense of others and assailed Tom Love, saying "if he's a Democrat I'm not." His remarks about Love were gleefully applauded by the crowd.

Wins Applause

Young said he would require pipe line companies to act as common carriers in truth and to serve independent operators without discrimination and not squeeze them out of business for the benefit of the oil trust. He credited the independents with development of Texas oil fields.

BOWIE HEARS JIM YOUNG

Special to The Record News

BOWIE, Texas, June 27.—Speaking to about 400 people gathered in the city auditorium here Friday night, and introduced by Homer B. Latham, former county judge, Jim Young, gubernatorial candidate, declared Clint Small of Wellington was brought into the gubernatorial race by selfish special interests not so much in the hope that he can be elected, but in an attempt to split the non-factional vote of Texas, opposed to nomination of Jim Ferguson, Earle Mayfield, Tom Love and Barry Miller, and thus prevent nomination of Young.

The speaker said the interests are opposed to him, Young, because he advocates requiring natural resources and industry generally to bear its just share of the tax burden, now imposed in unfair proportion on farms, homes and ranches.

He aserted that election of Small, who openly opposes such taxation and voted against the dollar tax on sulphur, would be satisfactory to them, as would election of any of the other four, whom Young named as professional politicians and factional leaders.

Forsees Strife

He said the nomination of any of those four would be displeasing to the majority of Texas voters and would cause a continuance of the strife which has disrupted Texas politics for many years and caused inefficient government. The speaker added that the voters are determined not to let two of the factionalists in the runoff together, and that the only hope of the factionalists is that the non-factional vote be split.

The split, however, will not occur, Young predicted, declaring that his 8000 miles of campaign traveling have convinced him he will lead the ticket in the first primary as Texas' only hope against factionalism, and that he can win in the second primary against any candidate in the field without leaving his home town of Kaufman to make a speech.

Young said he proposes to tax natural resources and industry in the same proportion that homes and farms are taxed, no more and no less, and in accordance with constitutional provision for uniform taxation. He called attention to enormous quantities of gas being piped from Texas soil to large cities of the north and east, on which no tax is being paid to Texas.

Would Tax Industry

He also aserted the sulphur companies of South Texas can pay $1 per ton tax and still make 150 to 250 per cent profit. He said the valorem tax originated when no great wealth of natural resources and no great corporations existed to be taxed, and that as a sole means of raising the bulk of revenue it is now obsolete, putting too heavy a burden on the average man.

Young proposes to reduce the burden on farms, homes, and ranches by the amount which would be brought in by the natural resource and industry tax, which he said would amount to millions annually.

is estimated that with Wichita county as a college district the college could be supported on a tax of 10 to 20 cents on the hundred dollars. The larger the district the less the tax and probably the better the college. Some object to the plan because they say we are already heavily burdened with taxes and for the further reason that they do not believe it is the duty of the local community to provide college tuition to the young people of the community. The proponents of the plan say that the local community can provide the first two years of college for its young people much more economically and in a much better manner than the state can do so through its schools. They estimate that at least $250,000 could be sent out of the community annually for the education of young people which could be performed at a cost to a college district of probably $60,000.

We will likely hear a lot of discussion of this question within the next few years. There will be opposition to the plan in Wichita Falls but Talker would guess that Wichita Falls will adopt some such plan, for he does not believe that Wichita Falls will be willing to lose its junior college. What Talker is most anxious to learn is whether the other communities of the county will want to join in the creation of such a district.

RALEY FILES TAX REPORT

Shumake and Somerville Praised for Aid

Less than 10 per cent of the taxes due from Wichita county taxpayers during the fiscal year ending April 1 remain unpaid, according to the annual report of Guy C. Raley, county tax collector, to the state comptroller, in which tax collections totaling $1,572,037.26 were shown. Mr. Raley's department completed the compilation of the report Friday.

Auto Fees Gain

In a statement issued in connection with the announcement of the figures, Mr. Raley pointed out the collections for the past year are as high as during so-called "favorable years" and the proportion of taxes paid higher than the preceding year, indicating stable business and economic conditions in the county. With a total of $419,725.04 collected in motor registration fees, the report indicated approximately 1,000 more automobiles registered than during the year preceding.

Of the amount collected on automobile licenses, the county received $136,626.69, the remainder going to the state. This year, however, according to the statement of Charles Parker, head of the automobile registration division, the county will receive considerably more from this source, due to a new method of dividing the money which went into effect this year, the county already having received about $160,000 from registrations.

Important items in the collection report were $856,684.91 from the current tax roll for 1929 and $95,627.31 in delinquent taxes, Mr. Raley pointed out. Tax collections up to April 1 represented about 85.18 per cent of the total, an additional five per cent having been collected since that time. Delinquent tax collections shown in the report are exceptionally high in comparison with those of other years, Mr Raley said. The report showed collections on the supplemental roll amounting to $6,019.73. Of the taxes uncollected on April 1, $21,709.78 was upon personal and $131,677.17 upon real property, the report indicated.

Final Report

In issuing his report Mr. Raley pointed out that the work was considerably more facilitated during the past year than in previous years due to the cooperation between his department and those of Max Shumake, county tax assessor and Wayne Somerville, county attorney. The excellence of the tax roll prepared under the supervision of Mr. Shumake and the efforts of Mr. Somerville in collecting delinquent taxes were commended as having been instrumental in making the year's tax report one of the most complete and correct ever made in Wichita county. Mr. Raley pointed out the report was the last to be issued by the department under his supervision and, in retiring from office, he expressed appreciation to the newspapers of the county for the service and cooperation they have given in aiding the work of the collector's department.

vious vote of 30 to 29 to give the commission $250,000 for another year in which to complete its inquiry into law enforcement generally.

After this strange fight among the ultra-drys, which left the liberals laughing on the sidelines, ended, the victor's laurels resting on the brow of Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, the senate, without a roll call, passed the deficiency bill, carrying $70,000,000 including $10,665,000 to start work on Boulder dam.

The battle was waged by Glass, sponsor of the original proposal of a prohibition invstigation, on one side, and Senator Jones of Washington on the other. Both are personally and politically dry bu they heatedly disagreed on the commission's activities.

Glass Charges Waste

Glass contended fiercely the commission was wasting money investigating juvenile delinquency and other subjects, while Jones asserted that the money already spent by the commission would be wasted unless it was permitted to complete its broad inquiry.

Jones carried his point by a single vote—30 to 29—on the first test of strength. Glass declared senators did not know what they were voting on and Senator Overman of North Carolina, quickly moved to reconsider the action. On this Glass won by another one vote margin—33 to 32. Then Glass' proposal to limit the commission to a prohibition inquiry was approved 35 to 30.

Service of "Want Ads"

"Want advertising is the oldest and simplest form of advertising," says the Worcester-Telegram Gazette.

"It is the only form of advertising written and placed and checked by the masses. It is a public utility similar to the telephone. Like the telephone it must approximate universal use to be of a maximum value. A telephone system that reached only a few families, or that was open on certain days, would be of slight value. Each telephone subscriber is interested in having as many other subscribers as possible and in having continuous service. Similarly, each want advertiser profits from all the other want advertisers whose offerings surround his and compete with it, because it is the conveniently classified grouping of many offerings which attract ready buyers."

"Want ads constitute a unique addition to the markets of the world. Probably no other means ever brought buyer and seller together so efficiently. The cost of selling and distributing merchandise through the usual channels of trade ranges from 25 per cent to 50 per cent, yet $1 worth of want advertising may sell a $500 piano or a $2000 automobile or a $20,0000 home. No phase of the modern newspaper is essentially romantic, more amazing, than the service of the want ad. A few lines of agate type buried among the thousands of lines of agate type bring together employer and employe, or landlord and tenant, or buyer and seller, drawing each other to each other."

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

With a bunch of us reading at home, we have noticed one thing, the children are quicker than the grown folk, to announce a decided opinion; and that stands for other things than reading.

◇ ◇ ◇

This young generation believes that it knows just exactly what it wants.

◇ ◇ ◇

While father and mother have learned to be wise and not express all their opinions; not at least until they are widows or widowers.

◇ ◇ ◇

If a man admires a dainty slip of an actress on the stage, and his wife happens to have become something over 180 pounds, nine times out of 10, she takes his praise as a criticism of herself.

◇ ◇ ◇

But men are just as childish so far as that goes; if a woman marries him, she is his, and if she wants to keep him, she must praise him in approximate comparison with the praise she gave him before marriage.

◇ ◇ ◇

We read somewhere the other day that the meek were the more persistent. If we could have had it explained thoroughly, we might have agreed. We know meek people who say nothing at all if a wish is denied, but who persistently keep on with their quiet methods to get what they want. Uriah Heeps.

◇ ◇ ◇

And then we have known meek people who are too meek to ever let anyone know they wanted anything.

◇ ◇ ◇

They get on our nerves, like those godly people who persist in seeing the bright side when you have a toothache.

◇ ◇ ◇

That's the one special time when everything in the world is wrong. Toothache or neuralgia are sufficient cause for murder, if someone says sweetly, "Oh you'll be all right directly."

◇ ◇ ◇

We always take men's sides thus far; any man who will marry and take on the trials of family life when he might be free is a hero.

◇ ◇ ◇

But we came across a line lately that made us feel tender toward women, "America leads the world in maternal mortality."

◇ ◇ ◇

IT'S LUCKY THEN

Julia: Do you think it's unlucky to postpone a wedding?

Frank: Not if you keep on doing it.—Passing Show.

YOU CAN'T AFFORD IT

NO MATTER how many fine silks and woolens you own, you can't afford to wash them in hot water. Because, even if you have the price of new ones, you can't renew the tender skin of hands that emerge red and swollen from hot wash basins.

If you think that only hot water can get clothes clean, here's news for you! White King Granulated Soap, a pure vegetable and nut oil soap, will yield quick, cleansing suds in cool or lukewarm water. Ginghams and prints will stay bright, white goods wash whiter, and your hands will remain smooth and soft.

White King Granulated Soap is condensed. You will be surprised to find how little is required. It's the safest and yet the most economical soap you can buy. Hard water does not hinder its effectiveness. Have you tried it? At your grocer's.

Legislation Won't Make People Good, Says Dorothy Dix

Can Laws Be Passed That Will Keep Homes Intact?—Why a Wise Wife Lets Her Husband Have His Fling—May a Girl Go After Her Man?

Dear Miss Dix—I favor having a law passed that would make it a misdemeanor for a married man ever to step out with any other woman, married or single, except his wife, mother, daughter or sister, or for any married woman ever to accept any attentions from any man except her husband, father, son or brother. The penalty for the violation of this law to be a fine not under $50 or more than $5,000 with a term in the state prison of from six months to two years. Any housekeeper or stenographer who drives her employer's car should be liable to the same penalty. Furthermore I believe that flappers who break up homes by cajoling and petting married men should be treated just as a man is who robs a bank or steals an automobile. To take care of such cases we might have to enlarge our state prisons but what a glorious thing it would be if it would stop the breaking up of homes! —A READER.

Answer—Anything that would stop the breaking up of homes would be a glorious thing, but, alas, you cannot legislate virtue into people. Nor can you make them good by throwing them in jail, as has been abundantly proved by the prohibition experiment.

Indeed, such is the contrariness of human nature that the more we fence it in with laws the more determined it is to break over them. The apple incident in the Garden of Eden is typical of our craving for forbidden fruit which is so great that we are willing to risk Paradise to get it. So no matter how many laws you made against the association of the sexes you could not keep them apart. A year or two ago I was traveling in Arabia and was told that among the nomad tribes it was a certain and horrible death for a woman to be unfaithful to her husband, and yet this did not keep the women from stealing out of their tents at night in search of romance.

The only way to stop divorce is to keep men and women from wanting them, and the only laws that will help the situation are those that would prevent marriages taking place that are foredoomed to end in divorce.

It seems to me that we could do much to stop divorce, and to prevent the misery of broken-up homes and the tragedy of half-orphan children by passing laws that would require several days to elapse between the issuing of a marriage license and the performance of a marriage ceremony. That would give a lot of romantic idiots time to think it over and cool off and count the cost of what they were about to do and prevent thousands of the marry-in-haste and repent-at-leisure marriages. Also, it would give the parents a chance to interfere. And it would stop the drunken marriages and give gin-soaked youngsters an opportunity to sober off and discover that what they thought was love was merely alcohol. Likewise, it would do good to put some teeth in the law against child marriage and penalize to the limit those justices of the peace who help wreck school girls and boys' lives by marrying them.

But the cure for divorce must come from within and not from law but love. Homes must be kept together not by force but by the desire of those who live within them to keep them intact.

Husbands and wives must realize that whether marriage is a success or a failure depends upon the intelligence, the unselfishness, the sense of duty that they bring to bear upon it. Practically every couple who marry are in love with each other at the time of the wedding and look upon founding a home as the very height of their earthly ambitions and desires. If they fall out of love with each other and if they come to hate their home instead of cherish it, it is because one or the other or both has failed in the obligation.

No man falls out of love with his wife without reason. He wants to love her. It is to his advantage morally, financially and socially to go on loving her, but she disillusions him and kills his love by slovenliness or tactlessness or selfishness or peevishness or by some other fault.

Same way with a woman. She does not voluntarily cease to care for her husband. She is a thousandfold happier and more contented loving him than she is in loving some strange man, but when she wanders away from home in search of an affinity it is because her husband has slain her affection by neglect or coldness or lack of attention or stinginess or fault-finding.

We talk a lot about home-wreckers and love pirates and vamps breaking up homes and stealing the love of a husband or wife, but in reality it is always an inside job and the wife or husband was always accessory to the crime. As long as a husband or wife guards his treasure it is safe from the depredations of any thief.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—Before I met my husband he was very shy and took no interest in women. I encouraged him to snap out of himself and overcome his inferiority complex, and he has gone to the other extreme and become a philanderer just because women and being admired by women are new experiences to him, and it tickles his vanity. I see things that are not right, but I pretend not to notice them. I believe that his love really belongs to me. I believe I will not lose him because I have more sense and am broader-minded than the women he associates with. I am more attractive than they are. I am his wife, but for the moment he is intoxicated with the gold-diggers' flattery, but I believe that if I let him have his fling he will come back a wiser and better husband.

Am I right or should I ask him if he wants a divorce and let him have one if he desires it? I have no children and have my own money, so am not dependent on him.

—ANXIOUS WIFE.

Answer—You are a wise woman and you are taking exactly the right course in dealing with your husband. Just keep quiet and hold steady and play a waiting game and in a little while your husband will come back to you never to roam again.

Every good wife has to have a lot of the maternal love in her. She has to be able to look upon her husband's faults and vagaries as a mother looks upon the naughtiness of her little boy and to realize that he often doesn't mean to be bad or to hurt her, but he just had to follow the impulse of the moment and, above all, that he had to play hookey from school a little while, but he is glad enough to come back to her after he has had his little fling and he wants to be spanked and kissed and forgiven.

Not long ago a man said to me with tears in his voice: "Oh, Miss Dix, if our wives would only have a little more patience with us! I know we don't deserve it, but if they would only stick awhile longer how many tragedies they would save! Now I fell into the hands of a gold-digger, a girl young enough to be my daughter. I was flattered by thinking that I was still a lady-killer and could win the heart of a pretty young girl and she kept jollying me along and telling me my wife was too old for me and didn't understand me, etc., until finally I broke up my home and divorced my wife and married her.

"I hadn't been married a month before I bitterly regretted it, before I knew I didn't care anything for this girl and the only woman I loved was my wife and before I knew that all the girl wanted of me was my money. I am the most miserable man in the world, and when I see a happy, middle-aged couple together I envy them from the bottom of my soul.

"And I often think that if only my wife had had patience enough to wait for my infatuation to be over, as it soon would have been, how happy we might have been for the balance of our lives and how grateful I would have been to her for saving me."

That story, which is a true one, answers your question better than I can. —DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—Why is it proper for a young man to go after the girl he wants and improper for the girl to go after the boys she wants?

—BETTY.

Answer—It isn't improper in either case. The only difference is that convention permits the boy to go after the girl openly, while the girl has to camouflage the love chase. But she generally gets her man just the same.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Foard County Women's Clubs Hold Meeting

Interesting sidelights are given on the Foard county federation of Women's clubs, which met Thursday at Vivian, about 15 miles from Crowell, with approximately 75 federated women present.

Mrs. Ben G. Oneal attended the meeting and stated that it is one of the most active federations with which she has met.

Clubs represented were the Winodausis club, the Crowell P.-T. A., Claytonville Home Demonstration club, Vivian Home Demonstration club, Columbian club of Crowell and members of each of these clubs made interesting talks. Miss Hale, the county demonstration agent, made an impressive talk and Mrs. Oneal reported on the biennial. Foard county women show interest not only in local clubs, the president of the first district T. F. W. C. stated, but in state and national club work.

Mrs. John S. Ray is president of the Foard county federation and Mrs. Roy C. Steele, secretary.

The luncheon served by these clubwomen was one of the most interesting, according to Mrs. Oneal, that could be laid. She mentioned among other things, 12 big dishes of fried chicken. Each woman brought a special covered dish of food.

Last year a rural project was put on to make the most attractive living room, not over $50 to be spent. Mrs. J. C. Rasbury, who lives a short distance from Crowell and who is a widow with five children, won the county and district prize of $50 and is in line for the state prize. Her room is described as unusually attractive.

Mrs. Rasbury owns seven sections of land, rides the range and is a splendid ranch woman. She is educating all her children splendidly and two of them are in Chicago in school now and she is interested in all club projects.

A project is being put on in that county now for girls competing in bedroom decoration; the girls make their own bookshelves and much interest is being shown.

Federation has proven its worth, it was said, to women of Foard county.

COMPLIMENTS

Mrs. Clancy: Faith now, and why don't yez get in out of the windy and let your pet monkey sit there awhile? The neighbors would get a good rest from yer ugly ould face.

Clancy: "It was this morning I did just that. And a policeman came along and when he saw the monkey, remarked: 'Why Mrs. Clancy, when did yez move downstairs?'"—Tit-Bits.

Prizes were awarded to Miss Jess'e Gibson and John Buckhart for being the tackiest dressed girl and boy.

Proud Mother!

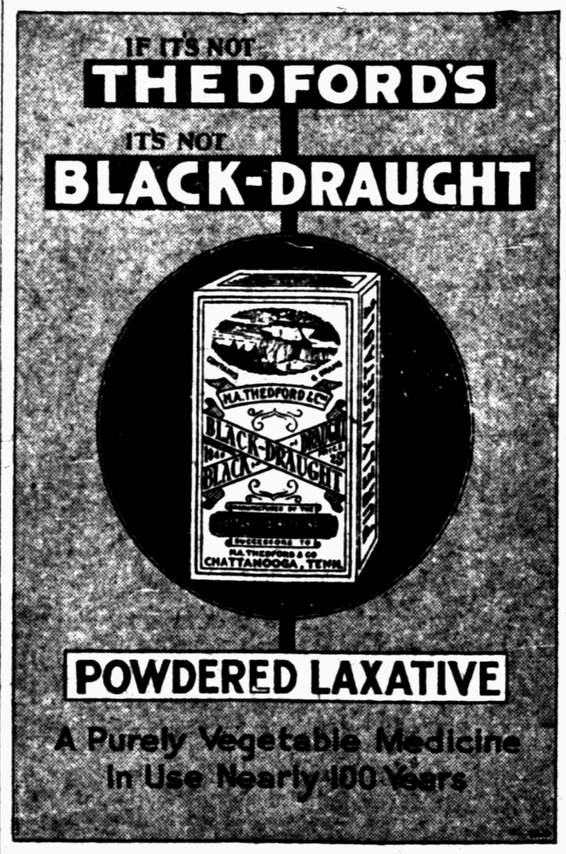

Jackie Tom, 4, of 1722 So. Olive St., San Antonio, is the picture of health. No wonder his mother says: "I'm proud as can be of my little boy. He's always bright, active, robust.

"I give California Fig Syrup a lot of credit for his wonderful condition. I have used it with him for every little upset or cold. It always has him back to normal in a few hours."

When a child shows, by bad breath, coated tongue, biliousness or feverishness, that the little bowels are clogged, you know the system needs a prompt cleansing.

California Fig Syrup does the work quickly and gently. In addition, it helps tone and strengthen weak bowels and stomach. So it gives lasting help.

The word California marks the genuine; the pure vegetable product loved by children and pronounced safe and effective by doctors.—Adv.

Iceless refrigeration has almost revolutionized meal preparation. With a mechanical refrigerator preparations may be made hours and even days ahead of time and many delicious frozen and chilled dishes, not entirely practical with former methods, may be easily and quickly made. Family meal service has been simplified and entertaining has become a pleasant undertaking.

Take, for instance, the dinner menu above. While these dishes may be prepared in the hours just preceding serving time, it is surprising to see how much can be done the day or evening before, if that is desirable.

The fruit cocktail may be made ahead of time, poured into a covered refrigerator dish or glass jar, if it is necessary to economize on space, and stored in the refrigerator. One or more hours before serving it may be put into cocktail glasses which might well be placed on a tray to save manipulation, and the trayful set into the refrigerator until serving time.

Veal birds may be made the day before, seared in the skillet, placed in a baking dish and kept in the ice box, ready to be covered with cream or brown stock and baked during the hour before serving time. However, in transferring glass or earthen baking dishes and food from cold storage to an oven it must be remembered that the food and dish are very cold and a little time and perhaps a slowly increasing heat are required to cope with the difference in temperature. Time would be saved if only the dressing was made and rolled in the squares of meat the day before.

The potatoes may be pared and placed in water to soak. They should be thoroughly dried with a cloth before being placed in the hot fat.

Green peas may be shelled hours ahead of time, covered tightly with waxed paper and kept fresh and cold.

A delicious roll recipe, called Denver biscuit, was given on February 12th, 1930. Enough dough may be mixed at one time to last a week but it must be refrigerated well this time of year. Upon request this recipe will be given again.

Aspic salad, in fact any salad, is infinitely easier to serve the "iceless way." The gelatin mixture may be poured into one of the larger-sized ice-cube trays and allowed to harden. An hour or two ahead of serving time, the trayful may be dipped into hot water, dried and inverted over a platter, then out will come the neat squares, individual salads, each ready to be slipped onto a crisp nest of lettuce on a plate capped with dressing and put back into the ice box until the last minute. Jars of salad dressing should be kept in the warmest part of the refrigerator as some of them separate if subjected to intense cold and all keep at a moderately low temperature. Jellied salads require at least two hours to become firm and may stand twenty-four hours or longer without harm.

The frozen dessert may be left indefinitely in the drawer of a mechanical refrigerator if the temperature is properly regulated. Fruit and vegetable mixtures should not be actually frozen, even though they bear the name. Such combinations should be subjected to intense cold only long enough to bind the ingredients together. The temperature should then be raised to a point sufficiently low to keep the mixture solid, but not low low enough to make them icy, a little gelatin is an excellent addition to a frozen dish as it keeps it from getting icy.

A quantity of icebox cookies may be made at one time. They should be molded into a loaf, placed in the refrigerator to harden, rolled in oil paper and sliced and baked as needed. These cookies will keep for two weeks or longer if properly handled.

The ice cubes for the tea may be colored green, flavored with lime juice, frozen and removed from the ice trays several hours ahead of time, if the compartment is needed for the frozen dessert. They should be stored in the coldest part of the refrigerator until serving time. Of course, the iced tea itself may be made ahead of time and cooled, if pressure of work demands it, but all connoisseurs of good iced tea prefer to pour the freshly made hot tea over the ice cubes at serving time.

Inasmuch as the following dishes were named in the menu, the recipes will be given.

Fruit Cocktail

Two cantaloupes
Four peaches
One lemon
One orange
Four tablespoonfuls powdered sugar.

Dice into small pieces the firm inside of two cantaloupes and peaches. Pour over them the strained lemon and orange juice. Add powedered sugar—this cocktail should be tart. Chill. When serving top with a green cherry.

Veal Birds

One and one-half teaspoonfuls salt
Two teaspoonfuls sage
One loaf bread, crumbed
One tablespoonful lemon juice
Dash of pepper
One-fourth cupful melted butter
Three pounds veal round.

Have the veal from the round sliced thinly. Cut it into pieces about five inches square, after it has been pounded until thin. Spread each square with a dressing made by browning the breadcrumbs in the butter and adding the above named ingredients in the order and proportions given, with only enough hot water to barely moisten. Roll meat over the dressing to resemble birds, skewer with toothpicks or tie with cord and brown in drippings. When thoroughly browned remove the cords, if they are used. Cover with cream and simmer one hour or place in seasoned stock and cook until tender in a moderate oven—350 degrees F. The cream and stock should be added just before the dish is placed in the oven. The stock may be made by placing an onion, a carrot, a turnip, a sprig of parsley, gristles, bones etc., in a little cold water. Cook this mixture slowly for an hour or so; drain. Make a gravy in the pan in which the birds were browned, using a tablespoonful of flour mixed to a paste with a little cold water to each cupful of stock. Serve the birds on buttered rounds of toast with a little of the souce left in the baking dish poured over all.

French Fried Potatoes

Wash, pare and cut five or six potatoes in lengthwise strips one-half inch wide and one-half inch thick. Soak in cold or ice water for at least an hour. Drain and dry between towels. Fry in deep fat which has been heated to 395 degrees Fahrenheit, until they turn a golden brown. They should be crisp and well cooked. Drain on unglazed paper. Sprinkle with salt. If a thermometer for testing temperature of fat is not available, test the fat by dropping cubes of soft bread in the fat. A cube of bread should brown lightly in from 40 to 50 seconds if potatoes are to be cooked correctly.

Jellied Brazilian Salad

One tablespoonful gelatin
One-fourth cup cold water
One cup boiling water
One-fourth cup sugar
One-third cup lemon juice
One-half teaspoonful salt
Parsley
One-fourth cupful celery
One-third cup strawberries or red cherries
One orange
Four Brazil nuts
Three ripe olives.

Soak gelatin in cold water, add boiling water and when dissolved add sugar, lemon juice and salt. Strain and put a thin layer on the bottom of small molds which have been rinsed out with cold water. When firm decorate with a slice of strawberry cut in the shape of a small flower pot with a tiny stem of parsley growing out of it. Have in mind when arranging this decoration that when the jelly is turned out of the mold the decoration will be on top. Cover with just enough jelly to hold it in place. To the remaining jelly add celery cut in fine pieces, strawberries or cherries cut in pieces, orange sections from from membrane and cut in pieces, nuts shredded and olives finely chopped. Fill molds, put in a cold place to stiffen, unmold and serve on lettuce with cream mayonnaise dressing.

Orange Pekoe Mousse

One cup milk
Two cloves
One-half tablespoonful gelatin (soaked)
One and one-half tablespoonful orange pekoe tea
One-half pint cream
Two eggs
One-third cupful sugar
Few grains salt
Grated rind one orange.

Scald milk with cloves and gelatin over hot water. When gelatin is dissolved add orange pekoe tea, using the dry tea leaves, then add gradually to egg yolks mixed with sugar, salt and orange rind using yellow part only. Return to double boiler and stir until thickened. Strain and cool. Beat egg whites until stiff and beat in the first mixture. Stir occasionally until cold and beginning to stiffen. Beat cream until it begins to thicken and beat in mixture gradually and turn into the pan of a mechanical refrigerator or into an ice-cream freezer and freeze without stirring.

Icebox Cookies

One and one-fourth cupful Crisco or butter
One cup white sugar
One cup brown sugar
Three eggs
One teaspoonful vanilla
One teaspoonful cinnamon
Two teaspoonfuls soda
One-half teaspoonful nutmeg
One-half teaspoonful cloves
One-half teaspoonful allspice
Four and one-half cupfuls flour (about)
One cupful nuts (broken)

Melt fat; add sugar; break whole eggs into the mixture one at a time and beat well. Add vanilla, spice and soda and enough flour to hold its shape. Then stir in nuts. Make into rolls and place in ice box to harden. Roll in wax paper and return to the icebox until desired. Cut in thin slices and bake about 10 minutes in a moderate oven.

Ham and Mushroom Custard

One-half pound of mushrooms
Three tablespoonfuls of butter
Two teaspoonfuls of parsley
One teaspoonful salt
One cupful chopped cooked ham
One cupful warm milk
Five eggs

Brown the peeled sliced mushrooms in butter 10 minutes, adding the salt and parsley. Blend warm milk and ham with the well-beaten eggs. Butter shallow baking cups and put in each first some of the mushrooms, then pour egg mixture over them. Set cups in pan of hot water and bake in a slow oven—350 degrees F.—until the custard is set.

Pineapple Cheese Cream Bombe

One-half cup or one-half package soft cheese
One-quarter cup mayonnaise dressing
One-half cupful cream
One-quarter to one-half cupful maraschino cherries
Pineapple ice.

This is a versatile frozen dish that may appear either as a salad or may combine the two courses in one. Any soft cheese may be used for the center of the bombe. A yellow package variety makes a pleasant contrast with the cherries, pineapple ice and lettuce. Work cheese until creamy and mix with mayonnaise dressing. Fold in cream beaten stiff and maraschino cherries cut in small pieces. If freezing in melon mold, line the mold with pineapple ice and fill with cheese mixture, cover with buttered paper and metal cover; pack in ice and salt using 4 parts of ice to 1 part of salt; let stand 2 to 3 hours. If freezing in an automatic refrigerator, put pineapple ice in drawer and stir every 15 minutes; when it is partially frozen push half of the mixture to one end of the drawer and spread the remaining mixture flat; cover with cheese and then with the rest of the pineapple ice and leave until serving time. Turn out on crisp lettuce leaves and serve cut in slices.

Pineapple Ice

One-half cup water
One-half cupful sugar
Two tablespoonfuls lemon juice
One-half can crushed pineapple or one-fourth fresh pineapple.

Put sugar and water in saucepan, stir until sugar is dissolved and boil 5 minutes. Add lemon juice and pineapple (fresh pineapple should be cut in fine shreds). If freezing in automatic refrigerator add to sirup one teaspoonful gelatin dissolved in one tablespoonful water. Heat fresh pineapple thoroughly when it is to be used with gelatin.

Green Forecasts Unemployment Drop

WASHINGTON, June 27. (AP)—A prediction that unemployment conditions will improve in the late summer and autumn was made last night by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

In a formal statement, he said unemployment conditions in June had shown no improvement over May when the federation estimated 3,600,000 persons were out of work. He also estimated that wage earners had lost more than $2,000,000,000 during the first six months of this year because of unemployment.

"Layoffs always come with the beginning of the summer dull season in June," he said, "with the usual fall pickup in business, employment will improve in the later summer and autumn.

"But meanwhile, the summer months will bring hardships to hundreds of thousands of workers who have already been out of work from three to six months. And the low level of workers' purchasing power will continue to delay business recovery."

U. S. SMASHES WOOL TRUST

Institute Enjoined From Setting Prices

NEW YORK, June 27. (AP)—The federal government struck today to end what it charges is a wool monopoly maintained by the Wool institute.

Federal Judge Grubb of Alabama, sitting in the New York jurisdiction, enjoined the institute and its 138 members from continuing violations of the Sherman anti-trust law, on complaint of government counsel that participants in the Wool institute reported to it before every sales season on the subject of prices and "agreed to maintain schedules without deviation, thus eliminating all price competition."

Members of the Wool institute control most of the nation's supply of woolen yarns and cloths, according to the complaint filed by the government.

The institute consented to the decree, presented to the court by James Lawrence Fly, special assistant to the attorney general, and John Lord O'Brien, head of anti-trust enforcement.

The complaint averred that the institute is a trade association with 138 member concerns or corporations, of whom 35 are spinners. On Jan. 25, 1928, and since that date, it was charged, the institute and its members "have engaged in a conspiracy to restrain and have restrained interstate commerce in woolen goods and yarns."

The government also alleges that the wool institute published "schedules to be maintained by its members," and that on Dec. 11, 1929, agents of 84 weavers of men's wear met and established prices for the spring of 1930.

On Dec. 12, 1929, the complaint sets forth, there was published an advertisement that "The Wool institute is authorized to announce that the following member mills will definitely maintain their established spring prices on all duplicates of new business for spring, 1930." Then followed a list of 105 men's wear milling concerns.

Bridal Couple Dare Perils of The Yukon in Globe-Circling Tramp

PRINCE GEORGE, B. C., June 27. (AP)—Unmindful of the pleadings of trappers to forsake their wild adventure into the dangerous northland, William H. Albee and his bride of Carmel, Calif., were tramping onward today about 500 miles north of here, intent upon reaching Dawson, Yukon territory.

Yesterday, for the first time since early this month, when they left civilization and plunged into the little known reaches of Northern British Columbia, word came from the adventurous couple. Trappers arriving here said they had seen the Albees, and that they had ignored their pleas to turn backward.

On their projected hike around the world, the Albees were carrying only the barest necessities, including a .22 caliber rifle, with which Albee hoped to meet every demand of their perilous journey.

The trappers predicted the Albees would perish unless they gave up their idea of invading a territory where only the most experienced of hunters and trappers survive.

Salt Plant Urged For Texas Deposits

Special to The Record News.

TURKEY, Texas, June 27.—Prospects for action toward development of Turkey's salt deposits, some seven miles north of town, were brightened this week by a visit and inspection of E. H. Sellars, director of economic geology, University of Texas.

The local chamber of commerce is investigating the feasibility of a salt plant here and will be in a position to offer full details as to freight costs, availability and other data within the next few weeks.

The main bed of the salt veins here lie within Mule creek, a tributary of Red river and extends southward some four miles. The bed of this creek, when dry, is covered with a white salt crust and on warm days has a blinding effect. Cattlemen have used these deposits for years for cattle. There is practically no vegetation within the valley.

NEGRO SAVED FROM LYNCHING

Shots and Gas Bombs End Port Arthur Threat

PORT ARTHUR, Texas, June 27. (INS)—A volley of shots and tear gas bombs today averted the lynching of a negro here by a mob of several hundred.

The negro, Rainey Williams, charged with criminal attack, was successfully spirited from the county jail after officers had fired a round of shots over the heads of the mobsmen and cut a lane for the passage of an automobile through the crowd with the use of tear gas bombs.

Williams was whisked away when a large crowd began collecting before the jail in which he was lodged after his arrest yesterday.

As the police car left the jailyard, the crowd rushed forward and attempted to wrest the black from officers. The mob was driven back when the officers fired into the air and then hurled tear bombs.

It was believed the negro was taken to Beaumont for safe keeping.

Valley 'Impresses' Wisconsin Party

AUSTIN, June 27. (AP)—The Wisconsin delegation sent to Texas by Governor Kohler to investigate possibilities of land in the lower Rio Grande valley frankly admitted following the three day tour of inspection that peopel of Wisconsin had been grossly misinformed as to its real worth, Governor Moody said today.

The governor predicted an amicable adjustment of differences of the two states as the result of the tour and stated the Wisconsin delegation was astounded at the tremendous possibilities afforded by the valley. The governor said members of the Wisconsin committee had no conception of the earning power of citrus orchards until growers offered their books showing the amounts that had been exchanged from operation of the orchards.

Following the tour the Wisconsin delegation joined in a statement that the valley had unusual resources and possibilities and that the controversy arose simply because the residents of Wisconsin did not have an adequate conception of the opportunities of the region.

Suit Would Enjoin Boulder Dam Work

PHOENIX, Ariz., June 27. (AP)—Fred T. Colter, former state senator of Arizona, today announced he had mailed to Washington, papers in his second suit to enjoin construction of Boulder dam.

Fifteen defendants, including President Hoover, are named in the suit which charges the Boulder canyon dam act is "constructively fraudulent" and is the "outcome of a conspiracy to defraud the state of Arizona."

The action seeks abrogation of contracts entered into by Secretary Wilbur for Boulder dam power; and the Colorado river compact, insofar as it relates to Arizona. It asks the Boulder dam act be declared unconstitutional and a permanent injunction issued to prevent Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior, and all others from carrying out power contract provisions based on power from the Colorado to be generated in Arizona.

Capone is under $14,000 bond pending arraignment on June 30.

RABBI WEIGHS DRY PROBLEMS

Modification Foreseen As 'Inevitable'

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 27. (AP)—In what he said was the most comprehensive statement he had ever made about prohibition, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York City, declared here today that "we now have to choose between enforcement, which, alas, seems impossible and modification, which, alas, seems inevitable."

Rabbi Wise made his statement in explanation of his opposition yesterday to the introduction of a resolution urging repeal of the 18th amendment before the 41st annual convention of the central conference of American rabbis. The resolution, which was tabled, was introduced by Rabbi Clifton Harby Levy of New York City. It was signed by five other rabbis—Max Reichler of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Louis I. Egelson of Cincinnati; Emil W. Leipziger of New Orleans; Alvin S. Lucas of New Rochelle, N. Y.; and Abram Hirschsburg of Chicago.

"The central conference, having taken no stand in other days on behalf of prohibition and the 18th amendment, would come rather belatedly into the picture if it, at this late date, expressed itself in favor of repeal," said Dr. Wise, who described himself as one "identified with the prohibition cause for many years."

"It is true that we now have to choose between enforcement, which, alas, seems impossible and modification, which, alas, seems inevitable.

"Personally I have always felt that prohibition should have been given, as it was never given, a fair trial. The thing I have most hoped for from prohibition has utterly failed to come to pass such liberation of the spirit of the people as would enable them to face problems of the social reconstruction of the commonwealth with clarity and sobriety. Instead of that, the mind of the nation is given almost undividedly to the liquor problem.

"In any event, it is hardly the business of the central conference to indulge in pronouncements which will reinforce lawlessness instead of enforcing the law."

Barring a Fine Play
Back to the Sea
A Grafting Reporter
Better Off Dead

By EMILE GAUVREAU

A fine American play, "The Green Pastures," which wins the Pulitzer prize, is barred production in England by Lord Cromer, British censor. The reason given is that the play introduces God as a character, and calls for His impersonation by a negro.

There is no disrespect in such representation or impersonation. The negro has as much right, and perhaps as much reason, to believe God made him in his own image as we have. The negro, in this, is being no more offensive or sacrilegious than the cultured Egyptians who deified a bull (Apis), or the enlightened Roman who could see with equanimity his god, Jupiter, transformed into a variety of lower animals; or the fanatical Israelites who worshipped a golden calf.

Count Luckner's "Back to the Sea" movement should have a mighty response. The call of the sea is in the heart of all youth, the world over. Already forty-five American boys have enlisted, and will cruise with Germany's "sea devil" to the Caribbean shortly.

Land-lubbers live only half a life. Three-quarters of the globe is water. We originate from water. All life originally did. Those whose purpose does not hold, with Tennyson, to sail sometimes "beyond the bath of all the western stars," or who do not thrill to the stirring lines in Masefield's "Salt Sea Ballads," or quicken to Keats' "perilous seas forlorn" must be dead from the toes up.

If it is true, as now held in some quarters, that "Jake" Lingle, veteran Chicago reporter, was a victim of his own duplicity, then he only paid with his murder the wages of sin, which is death.

No newspaper man can be made a party to graft or collusion of any character and live with his fellows. No reporter can offer protection to gangdom without suffering the consequences. A newspaper is committed, first and last, to serving the people, not to betraying it. A reporter that does not know this is better off six feet below the earth.

The number of maniacs and criminals who escape from asylums and penitentiaries these days is notorious. There are about half a dozen of them at large who, in some way that is still puzzling the authorities, made their get-away. Now they roam the state, murdering right and left. One of them, docketed as "actively insane," walks out of a hospital in the Bronx, then hurls his wife and four children to their death over a cliff.

There is something criminally wrong or criminally stupid with an administration which permits and then has to "justify" such escapes.

Mr. Mellon's views that the new tariff rates will help business have not been received with enthusiastic manifestations in Wall street. A marvelous soothsayer will be required to counteract the prosperity talk of Mr. Hoover, arch priest of the discredited prophets. "Buy bonds," Mr. Mellon said before the big crash. He should stick to those two words.

Secretary of State Stimson is trying to persuade us that secret diplomacy and democracy go hand in hand. His refusal to make public important documents relating to the London Naval Treaty indicates that certain tactics, long supposed defunct, are still operative in these republican United States. Mr. Stimson acts under orders from the president whose autocratic way of doing business is not making him popular. The country wants a strong man, not a despot — a political leader, not a party tyrant.

HORSEMAN DIES

KANSAS CITY, June 27. (AP)—James H. Ogleby, 84, breeder of race horses and a former Kansas City wholesale grocer, died here today in a hospital where he had been cared for for two years.

Lindy's son, an astrologer acutely observes, has a "pronounced leaning toward aviation." Indeed, he's being accustomed to the milky way even now.

Arriving at Los Angeles from her pilgrimage abroad, Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, threw big oranges at her welcomers. Now if it had been the other way round, that would have been news.

"Student let out of jail to take examination." Headline. Then to return to take cross-examination.

A complaint has been made that radio speakers are too loud in Washington. Just as soon as the president gets in his "appointing" mood he'll put them in commission.

Hoover used six pens to sign the tariff bill. On the assumption apparently, that write makes might.

Guiding Our Children

CHILDREN were told to honor their fathers and mothers back in the days of Abraham and Isaac. Honor somehow became synonymous for obey, and a child who didn't follow the parental injunction was accused of wrongdoing.

But case after case has appeared in recent years in which parents took advantage of that misinterpretation of the word "honor" to use their children as tools, and another instance has just come to light.

In Chicago the other day a man killed his wife while she was summoning help on the telephone. Later his small daughter admitted that he had forced her to say that her mother had had a paramour with her at the time. The father wanted to use the story that he had been defending his wife from the man.

The little girl didn't want to tell that lie. But the man who asked her to do so was her father, and he had taught her that children must do as their parents tell them.

The country witnessed a tragedy not long ago when a child's lies, at Orrville, Ohio, sent two men to prison as kidnapers of another child. He, too, it appeared, had been primed. His father told him what to say, and he did as he was told. This situation became so hopelessly involved with the passage of time that it has never been solved.

When a child will lie because he thinks it is worse to obey a parent than to tamper with truth, it is time for fathers and mothers to realize just how important they are as factors in the character formation of their children. All children are alike in the fealty they give their parents. Parents rule their world.

Of course it is a pretty safe bet that fear plays an active part in the stories of those who lie because they are told to do so. But at the same time, the child thinks that the parent has a right to inflict that punishment just because he is a parent.

Life is pretty hard on children sometimes. It would be well if fathers and mothers occasionally would decide to honor their children, small sons and daughters.

Reforming Our Prisoners

IF AN OTHERWISE normal young man in a moment of forgetfulness loses control of himself, the shorter his prison sentence the better chance he has for reformation.

This is the belief voiced by Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, in a recent address before the Cleveland Association for Criminal Justice.

Mr. Baker is not advocating abolishment of punishment. He merely wants the proper amount of medicine to be given to cure the illness. Too much may be as harmful as too little.

In Soviet Russia a man may go to jail for only 10 years. The government believes that if he hasn't improved by the end of that period, prison isn't going to make a man out of him.

The crowded condition of penal institutions in America today makes thoughtful people consider the advisability of such a course.

A normal young man, and it is of such that Mr. Baker was speaking, is usually penitent when the deed is done. If given encouragement, most of such young men will resolve to play fair thereafter.

But a man who knows that all his ambition to accomplish something must die slowly down the dim corridors where he waits, is going to become bitter. He will have no incentive for improvement.

Intimate contact with hardened, seasoned prisoners, those who have committed outrageous crimes and those who have a criminal tendency which leads to repeated wrongdoing, isn't going to benefit the normal, repentant man. Attitudes are contagious. He won't lift up the fallen. He'll slide after them.

But if he knows that after he has taken his punishment manfully he will have another chance, that appealing prospect may encourage his reformation and lead to his reclamation as a useful member of society.

At least, Mr. Baker's assertion opens the way for an interesting field of discussion.

Law of Supply and Demand

ACCORDING to Wall street dispatches low level commodity prices are pounding the life out of stocks, and the wisest of the Napoleons and their satelites in the street do not know whether it is the beginning of the end or the end of the beginning.

Senator Jim Watson of Indiana, Republican whip and leader, witnessed the signing by the president of the tariff act and made the prediction that within 30 days prosperity would return to the United States on all fours and that there would be joy everywhere instead of gloom in some spots or sections.

There came a promise from the White House that Hoover prosperity bulletins were on the way. This is as it should be. Just now the people everywhere are prepared for an inundation of the prosperity wave. They are prepared to extend a most enthusiastic greeting to the waves and an old-fashioned reception to the wave bringers. There are campaigns on in all the states and even the practical politicians would sidestep a bit in order that the prosperity procession might not be interrupted in its march from coast to coast and from Canada to Mexico.

"SHEILA"

Love and Mystery
Humor and Tragedy

A Story of Wichita Falls
By GORDON TURNER

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Frank Sheridan, wealthy young lawyer whose hobby is the solving of crime mysteries, is making a double investigation into a safe robbery at the home of William Oliver Wilber, inventor and manufacturer, and into the strange death by electrocution of Lena Swartz, a maid in the Wilber home. From the safe was stolen a diary of Wilber's wife, now dead, which contains a secret of the birth of Sheila Wilber's daughter who was engaged to marry Joseph Hedley, assistant county prosecutor. The diary was stolen by Riley Morgan, burglar client of Homer Menton, unprincipled criminal lawyer, who gets possession of the diary and persuades Andy Masters, Sheila's wayward cousin to join him in a blackmail plot against Wilber. Andy, while intoxicated, tells Sheila she is a foundling and has no legal right to Wilber's name. Sheila surprises her father into partial confirmation of Andy's accusation and, feeling herself disgraced, returns her engagement ring to Hedley. Andy has been paying court to Edna Rogers, Sheila's chum, but has an affair with Menton's stenographer, Mercedes Riverton. Menton is killed and Andy injured in an automobile accident. Mercedes, also a passenger in the car, escapes injury and plays the role of Andy's nurse at his apartment, which is presided over by Ike Sellers, Andy's valet.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER XXVIII

Menton, shrewdly secretive, had been careful to keep from Mercy knowledge of his shady deals. As his secretary she knew only the routine of his office; she knew nothing of the sinister relations between lawyer and client—relations whereby Menton, like many of the vicious type of criminal lawyer, in reality was the confederate of his client and accessory to his crime. She was too intelligent not to observe that Menton had little regard for the ethics which guide high-principled men of his profession, but she was not in his confidence. She kept the office records, but Menton's criminal bargains with his underworld clients were not recorded. A blackmailer knows the game too will lay himself open to blackmail.

So Mercy knew nothing of the theft of Mrs. Wilber's diary, nothing of Riley Morgan's attempt to steal Wilber's invention, nothing of the plot to blackmail Wilber. Obviously she did not understand Andy's reference to the diary.

"A diary in Homer's desk?" she repeated questioningly.

"Yes, yes," he answered impatiently, "you've got the keys to his office; there's nobody there and you could get the diary. They aren't likely to open the office until Homer's brother gets here, and that won't be for three or four days. It's perfectly all right; it didn't belong to Homer. He hadn't any right to it."

"Andy," Mercy interposed, "what is it? Whats it all about?"

"Oh, I forgot you didn't know," he replied. "It knocked me in a heap when I remembered the diary was there and what a lot of trouble it would cause when it was found. It's a diary that was kept by Aunt Frances—Uncle Bill's wife who died five or six years ago. It tells something about Sheila that oughtn't to come out. Oh, what a crazy fool I was ever to have——"

There was a knock on the door. To Mercy's "come in" it opened part way and Ike announced:

"Mr. Wilber to see Mr. Masters."

Andy glanced at Mercy in consternation as Wilber entered the room and walked to the bedside.

"I'm sorry I didn't get out sooner, Andy, but I was held up," Wilber said. "Dr. Rice telephoned this morning. He told me he hoped to have you up in a few days, so I knew your injuries were not serious. He said you had a nurse." He turned to Mercy. "I presume this is the young lady?"

"Miss Riverton," Andy murmured in embarrassed introduction.

"I'm glad you don't wear a uniform, my dear," Wilber said, "a uniform always seems to me to have too much of a death bed aspect. How's the patient—hard to manage?"

"Oh, no; he's a dear," Mercy replied, smiling in relief that Wilber had accepted her nurse role. "He's doing fine."

"Good!" said Wilber, "but be careful—sick men are prone to fall in love with their nurses." His voice lost its tone of assumed raillery as he turned back to Andy.

"Sheila," he said, "told me to tell you she will come to see you tomorrow." He eyed Andy keenly, accusingly. "Sheila, you know, has not been very well since last you saw her."

Andy was quick to see the veiled implication. He groaned and closed his eyes in a grimace of pain. Mercy, sensing the electric tension, glided quietly to the door and closed it softly behind her. Andy opened his eyes.

"Uncle Bill," he blurted out, "I'm awfully sorry for what I said to Sheila. I don't know what possessed me. Everything had been going wrong that day and—and I had been drinking. Oh, I know that's no excuse—there isn't any excuse for being such a cad, but—oh, what's the use; you can't understand what a horror it all is to me now." He buried his face in the pillows.

Wilber stood for a moment looking down at the bandage-swathed head. His mind raced back through the years; he seemed to be standing again at the deathbed of his only sister, Andy's mother, where he had solemnly promised to be a father to her boy. The look of stern accusation faded from his face. He sat on the edge of the bed and laid his hand upon Andy's.

"No, there was no excuse," he said quietly, "but I think I do understand that you are sincerely sorry and that's what counts. We won't discuss it now; perhaps later when you are on your feet again you can help us straighten it all out. Sheila has been very fond of you; she has suffered a cruel blow, and you can do a great deal towards restoring her faith in herself."

Andy turned his head in the pillows. He looked at his uncle through a mist of tears.

"You mean it, Uncle Billy?" he cried chokingly. "You don't despise me! You'll give her another chance? I can't ever undo all I've done to you and Sheila, but I know something I can do!"

Wilber was gone and Mercy returned to Andy's room. Andy looked at her with a wondering, bewildered expression in his eyes.

"I don't understand it, Mercy," he said, "everybody's so damn good—so decent to me, just when I deserve the least. You, taking care of me like this and Uncle Bill, who ought to have cursed because I wasn't killed, being such a good sport. I've just got to make good now. Listen, Mercy."

He plunged into the story of the stolen diary and told of his sordid bargain with Menton to blackmail Wilber of his visit to Sheila and his brutal, drunken accusation. He did not spare himself in the telling. He told of his shrunken fortune, his wild speculation, his borrowing from Menton and his final complete surrender to the crafty lawyer's evil influence.

"I don't know how Homer got hold of the diary," he said, "but he had it in his office. He showed it to me and I saw him put it in the top drawer of his desk. It must be there now."

"I'll get it," promised Mercy, who had listened with wide-eyed interest to Andy's long recital, "I've got the keys to the office doors, but I haven't any key to Homer's desk, and he always kept that locked. But I guess I can pry the drawer open. I'll get it; don't worry. I'll go down tomorrow morning early."

"You're a brick!" Andy exclaimed. "Youre a real pal." His eyes glowed in appreciation. She bent over and kissed him. He groped for her hand and clung to it.

"Mercy, it's a rotten deal you've gotten all round," he said, "but you haven't let out a whimper. I kidded you along, making believe I would marry you some day when I hadn't the slightest intention of doing so. I liked you better than any girl I knew, but I was going broke and I thought I had to marry someone who had money. That's all off now—I don't want to marry anybody else, and I know you wouldn't want to marry a pauper. When I pay all I owe I won't have a cent. I'll have to go to work, and the Lord knows I don't even know how to dig a ditch. It's different with you, you're trained to do something; you've lost your job through Homer's death, but you can get another easily. You can earn the nice things you ought to have and I couldn't give to you. Mercy, you're a mighty good little sport; you know all this, and you've known most of it ever since that night you left home, yet you are sticking with the sinking ship. Why, Mercy, why? Is it possible that you care for me, just—just for myself?"

Mercy burst into tears and buried her head in the pillows, her arm around Andy's neck.

"Oh, Andy, I do, I do!" she sobbed. "I love you, I love you!"

"My little Mercy," Andy murmured soothingly, his lips caressing a fragrant curl that fell across her face. They clung together for a long time, then Mercy gently drew away, dashing the tears from eyes that held a look of pathetic renunciation.

"Andy, O dear, dear Andy," she cried, "I love you! I'd marry you tomorrow—today, I don't care about the money—that doesn't count any more, but you won't want me when you know. It was the money I wanted—at first. I've been nothing but a cheap gold-digger. I want to be a fine lady; I laughed at the idea of love, though I pretended love. I schemed every way to get you to propose to me. I would have married you if I could whether you loved me or not. I even figured on a bust-up, with alimony. Anything to get the money—I would have sold my body and soul for money. Then as I got to know you—I got to really caring for you. You were so different from the crowd I was running with. You were so decent—even when you were drinking you never said or did anything any girl could object to. And, Andy, I know now what love is—it's both heaven and hell—heaven in knowing I love you and hell in knowing you wouldn't be happy with me. You couldn't be after what I've told you, but I—I had to tell."

Mercy dropped limply into a chair and hid her face with her hands.

"Mercy!" Andy called softly. She looked up. Andy's old-time grin peeped out from the bandages.

"We've both been a couple of simps, haven't we?" he said. "Both playing a game and both getting stung. That evens things up and leaves everything clear for a fresh start. Forget it!" His voice changed to a tone of deep tenderness. "Mercy, there's just two things in all this world that amount to shucks; one is, you love me and the other, I love you."

Mercy threw herself on her knees beside the bed.

"Andy!" she cried, "do you mean it?"

"You bet I do, little one. Gosh, I feel like I could lick the world!"

Chicago Airport Fire Incendiary

CHICAGO, June 27. (INS)—Incendiarism was given as a possible cause of the million dollar municipal airport blaze when an apparent attempt was made today to fire a tri-motored plane of the Texas company at the Palwaukee airport.

A man thought to be the Palwaukee firebug was described as being about 24 and driving a car with Michigan license plates. He was seen at the field before the blaze was detected, but had disappeared when authorities looked for him.

The first plane to burn in the municipal airport conflagration belonged to the Texas company. Previously, it was believed the fire might have ben started by friction set up by draining of a gasoline tank.

Q.—Is Ernest Hemingway's novel, "A Farewell to Arms," to be dramatized?—D. O.

A.—Laurence Stallings has just completed the dramatization of this popular novel. It is announced that the play will be produced this fall.

Q.—Has the Bible ever been translated into the Hopi language?—P. N.

A.—The American Bible society recently completed the first publication of the four Gospels into the language of the Hopi Indians. For many months the proofs of the Gospels passed back and forth between the translator and the headquarters of the society in New York City in order to perfect the typesetting. The difficulty of the task may be gathered from the text of the first Beatitude which follows: Pas Hikwsit an ookiwyaquam hahlaypit epya, pi oveqatsit anqw monwatunatya hapi pumuy himuamiq'o.

Q.—How many states have old age pension laws?—G. F. C.

A.—Eleven states and the territory of Alaska. The states are New York, Colorado, Montana, Maryland, Kentucky, Nevada, Wisconsin, Wyoming, California, Minnesota, and Utah.

Q.—What is the difference between candlepower and watt?—E.H.

A.—Candlepower is the illuminating power, as of a lamp, or gas flame, reckoned in terms of the light of a standard candle. Watt is the practical unit of electric power, activity, or rate of work; equivalent to 107 ergs or one joule per second, or approximately 1-746 of a horsepower.

Q.—What are some of the uses of sawdust?—L. D. M.

A.—Besides the more common uses of sawdust, it is commercially valuable as the basis of various manufactures. Oxalic acid is manufactured on a large scale from wood sawdust. Sawdust is also used in the "carbonating" stage of the process for the manufacture of soda ash. The sawdust of mahogany and rosewood is used in dressing furs, and the small fragments of some woods, such as the pencil cedar made by saw cuts or the turning tool, yield perfumes.

Q.—What is the name of the German army officer who popularized the so-called police dog in the United States?—D. L.

A.—This has been accredited to Capt. Max von Stephanitz, the world authority on Shepherds. Thirty-one years ago he formed his famous Society for German Shepherds which grew from a small local club to an organization with headquarters in Munich and branches all over the world.

Q.—Is Basil Rathbone married?—T. F.

A.—The popular stage and screen star married Ouida Bergere, a writer.

Q.—Is Captain Dollar, president of the steamship line, a self-made man?—O. E.

A.—Captain Robert Dollar was born in Scotland, March 20, 1844, the son of parents in moderate circumstances. At 11 he left school and went to work in a machine shop in Scotland, where he received a half crown (60 cents) a week as wages. At 13 he went to work in a machine shop in Ottawa, Canada. Subsequently he took a place as chore boy at a lumber camp 100 miles from civilization. In six months he learned to speak French fluently. So proficient was he in his work that he remained at the camp for many years. When only 20 he was boss of 50 loggers. In 1880 Captain Dollar migrated to Michigan where he entered upon his first private venture in the lumber trade. From this early start the Dollar lumber and shipping interests grew to their present proportions.

Q.—What can be done for cracks between the toes?—R. M.

A.—Cracks or abrasions between the toes should be carefully cleansed with soap and water, then dried with absorbent cotton, and covered with zinc ointment. Absorbent cotton should be used to keep the raw surfaces apart.

Q.—Why are automobiles prohibited in Bermuda?—J. M.

A.—Automobiles are prohibited in Bermuda because the people do not desire to have the noise and confusion which arise from automobile traffic.

Q.—Do more people visit southern California in the winter or in the summer?—A. T. S.

A.—Until 5 or 10 years ago, southern California was considered a winter resort only. Since then summer vacationists have gone in increasing numbers so that last year almost 600,000 people from other states were there in the summertime, the annual total of visitors being more than 1,000,000.

Seasonable Salads

Soak 1½ tablespoons gelatin in two tablespoons cold water and dissolve in one-third cup boiling water; add one cup ginger ale, two tablespoons sugar, a few grains of salt, and the juice of one lemon. When jelly begins to set, fold in one-half cup white grapes, skinned and seeded; one-half cup diced apple; one-cup celery cut in small strips; one-half cup shredded pineapple, and one-fourth cup preserved ginger. Turn into a ring mold; chill; and serve on lettuce leaves, with cream mayonnaise dressing.

Or if that does not tempt you, consult further our booklet on oranges and lemons which contains recipes for many other salads that are seasonable. Also you will learn from it how to concoct numerous cold drinks for hot weather.

This is the coupon to use ordering the booklet.

Other left-over meats may be used in this way and found very appetizing.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Epilepsy

Question—F. G. writes: "I am going to start the fasting and diet regime for epilepsy, and I would like to know just how the treatment will affect me at the start—what changes or other indications of a cure will take place. I have tried so many things without result that I wish to know all these things at the start in order that I will understand all symptoms and not become discouraged, for I believe your method is the right one."

Answer—The first thing to do is to take a fast, followed by a careful diet in which you use a large amount of leafy-green vegetables to assist in producing free bowel elimination. At the start of the fast there will sometimes be a greater number of spells and sometimes they are more severe than formerly, but this effect soon disappears as the accumulated poisons which produce the disease are sufficiently eliminated. It is sometimes necessary to take several short fasts, using a cleansing diet of non-starchy vegetables between the fasts. If the spells do not disappear during the first week of the fast they will at least from that time on cut down in severity and occurrence until they finally disappear.

Dead Teeth

Question—L. K. L. asks: "When is a tooth considered dead, and should it in that instance always be removed?"

Answer—A tooth is considered dead when the nerve has been removed or died. A tooth should be removed only when there is evidence of an abscess at the end of the root. If a dead tooth is properly filled it may last for years without causing any trouble and be generally more useful than an artificial one.

X-Ray Diagnosis Of Kidneys Possible

DETROIT, June 27. (AP)—Discovery of a dye which makes the kidneys opaque to the X-ray when injected into the veins has been disclosed at a meeting of the radiology section of the American Medical association convention.

The new dye, discovered by Dr. Arthur Bins of Berlin, was hailed as an aid to diagnosis of kidney infections, heretofore a painful process fraught with dangers of inaccuracy.

Announcement of the discovery of the dye known as uroselectan, was made by Leopold Jaches of New York. Dr. Bins described the history of his discovery after the announcement. By use of uroselectan, he said, kidneys now stand out as vividly as bone structure under the X-ray. Tests have proved, he said, that uroselectan can be injected without deleterious effects upon the patient.

Hoover Gives Approval To Universal Draft Study

WASHINGTON, June 27. (INS)—President Hoover today signed the congressional resolution, sponsored by the American Legion, creating a special commission to consider the feasibility of legislation instituting universal draft in time of war.

The commission to be set up will consist of four members of the house, four members of the senate, secretary of war, secretary of navy, secretary of agriculture, secretary of commerce, secretary of labor, and the attorney general. It is charged with reporting its findings to congress the first Monday in December, 1931.

The Annual Wilt

In winter time I skip with pep
And with ambition burn,
But now the heat hath weighed my feet
And I do not give a dern.

Indeed, there is only one class of people who seem to enjoy this 'ellish 'eat, as the Englishman would say and pardon my French; and that class is made up of ball players. And even there we find exceptions, as witnesseth the melting of Grover Cleveland, etc., down at Dallas Thursday. But the majority seem to relish summer's imitation of the hot house in which some of us have reservations for the after life. Spider, otherwise Lightnin' Levey, for instance, claims he can play better ball in the 106's. And the heat certainly doesn't bother Larry Bettencourt, who said that when he lost weight in a period of illness down at Beaumont, he regained it at the rate of five pounds per day when able to get around. And down on the coast the heat is more terrific than here.

Speaking of heat, there arrived in the morning mail a hot skit by one of our regular fan contributors, who for some reason or another now wishes to "travel incognito." He says the name Tom Beecey will suffice, and asks that his true handle be left out of print. We respect his wishes. His first pome is about the Dallas Steers, and the second about the Indians. We will save the second for later publication. The first follows:

Hell 'Mongst the Yearlin's

They're havin' some hell 'mongst the yearlin's
Down where Jakie Atz gets his chuck
And it seems Foreman Stock shoulda stayed with the stock
And they might nota got in the muck.
And feller as knows his cow-handlin'
Knows Milt put them Steers thru the rough
And knows every Steer in the drive o' last year
Was a struttin' heap more'n his stuff.
'Taint no difference one way nor t'other.
That outfit's a different brand
And I'm not a-meddlin', just this bunk a-peddlin'.
Don't figger I'm takin' a hand;
But a boss as can take a few dogies
And make 'em outshine the fat beeves
Had all o' the luck, you'd think he'd a stuck
And deserved a heap more'n he receives.

The transfer of Art Shires from the Chicago White Sox to the Washington Senators prompted Lloyd Gregory, Houston Post Dispatch sports editor, to spin a yarn about Art's younger brother, as follows:

Down at Goose Creek, Art has a younger brother, Leonard, who is a dead ringer for "Artful Art." Leonard plays shortstop for the Goose Creek club of the South Coast league, a semi-pro circuit sponsored by The Houston Post-Dispatch.

Like his brother Jack, who plays first base for the Baytown Oilers of the South Coast league, and like Art, Leon Shires is ready to "go" at the drop of the hat.

Goose Creek played at Galveston Sunday, and a loud-mouthed Galveston fan attempted to razz young Shires the first time he came to bat.

"Are you a ball player or a fighter?" the rooter yelled at Shires.

Mr. Shires was interested at once, and came back with a retort that would have done credit to the one and only Art Shires.

"I'm both," yelled Len. "But I can show you a lot better than I can tell you. Come down out of that stand!"

PANTHERS PLAY LOOSE GAME

Champs Open Series in Shreveport Today

Special to The Record News

FORT WORTH, Texas, June 27.—The Wichita Falls Spudders knocked the Panthers' $10,000 twirler, Hank Thormahlen, off the mound in the first inning today, and continued timely hitting coupled with loose fielding by their opponents gave them the decision, 10 to 6. It was the Spudders' third victory in a row, and left them tied with Houston for first place, Beaumont having been whitewashed by the Waco Cubs.

Levey opened the assault on Thormahlen with a double down the third base line. Storti came to bat and Thormahlen tried for Levey at second but threw the ball into center field, Levey taking third. Storti popped to first. Fitzgerald singled off Kelly's glove, scoring Levey. Kloza singled to left, Fitzgerald taking second. Burns singled to center scoring Fitzgerald and advancing Kloza to third. Thormahlen was forthwith yanked and Dick Whitworth came to the rescue. Bettencourt hit into a double play to close the period.

Caldwell Relieved

Whitworth, though hit hard, finished for the Cats. Caldwell started for the Spudders but was knocked out in the sixth, when Vincent relieved him.

The Panthers tied the score in the second. Brown doubled to right. Clarke flied out to Kloza. Fowler singled to center scoring Brown. Kelly beat out an infield hit to third, advancing Fowler to second. O'Connell grounded to short right and Bettencourt threw Kelly out at second, Fowler taking third. Whitworth singled to center scoring Fowler, and continued to third when Fitzgerald booted it. Tavener flied out to center.

The Spudders returned in the fifth to take the lead with a three-run spree. Levey was called out on strikes. Storti singled to center and Fitzgerald flew out to center. Kloza strolled. Burns grounded to Kelly who booted it, and when Tavener let Kelly's throw to second get by him Storti and Kloza scored and Burns made third. Bettencourt beat out an infield hit to second, scoring Burns. Bettencourt stole second. Crouch beat out an infield hit to short, but Bettencourt was caught out at the plate, short to first to catcher.

Both Sides Tally

The slugging continued in the fourth with both sides participating. Geygan opened it with a triple to right. Caldwell grounded out, second to first and Levey fouled out to third. Storti grounded down the first base line and was safe when Whitworth dropped Kelly's throw. Geygan scored on the error. Fitzgerald doubled to right, scoring Storti, and went to third on the throw to the plate. Kloza flied out to center.

The Cats answered this with a three-run barrage in their half. Clarke flew out to left. Fowler singled to center. Kelly singled through third, advancing Fowler to second. Meyers flew out to center. Whitworth hit a home run over the left field fence scoring Fowler and Kelly ahead of himself. Tavener flew out to Bettencourt.

Bettencourt's single to right and Geygan's single in the same direction which scored Bettencourt accounted for a lone tally the Spudders made in the fifth. Fort Worth likewise made one in their half, Brown doing it all by himself with a homer over the left field wall.

The sixth went scoreless for both but the Cats made a great threat. Kelly opened the Panther half with a triple to left. Meyers walked. Then Vincent relieved Caldwell. The next three up were retired in order by Vincent.

The Last Two

The Spudders scored their remaining two runs in the seventh when Bettencourt hit a home run into the right field pavilion, scoring Burns who had walked.

The Spudders left here tonight for Shreveport, where they open a three-game series tomorrow.

Indians Take It on Chin Although Houston Buffs Get Few Base Knocks

SAN ANTONIO, June 27. The Tribe got one or more hits in every round but the sixth while the Buffs were held to four hits until the seventh when they started on George Darrow and extended operations on Tom Estell to put all of their runs across on five hits. U. S. Stars Enter Semi-Final Round at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England, June 27. (AP)—Three youthful Americans rose to brilliant tennis heights today to stroke their way into the semi-final round of the Wimbledon championships as they dealt a blow to England's titular aspirations.

Wilmer Allison, the young Texan, and the equally youthful Johnny Doeg from California, and Gregory Mangin of Newark, N. J., won their way into the last eight along with Henri Cochet, the wiry little defending champion from France, at the expense of the English. Big Bill Tilden, the ace of the American invaders, and George Lott, United States No. 4 ranking player, may increase the United States representation in the final eight to five, when they meet their British empire opponents in the fourth round tomorrow.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Miss Helen Jacobs, America's ranking women stars, also sailed through their matches today, each losing one game. Mrs. Moody made short work of her match with Miss M. Canter, Holland star, 6-0, 6-1, while Miss Jacobs defeated Mrs. W. D. List of England by the same score.

Of the three American men who won today, Mangin had the hardest fight and covered himself with the greatest glory by defeating H. W. (Bunny) Austin, Britain's foremost singles star, 9-7, 10-8, 6-0.

Allison and G. P. Hughes, English Davis cup team member, carried on an exciting match, each battling for the advantage at the net but the swift Texan finally emerged with the honors, winning 4-6, 6-1, 6-3.

Doeg's powerful southpaw service and volleying compensated for his lapses on ground strokes and the Californian brought in the third American singles victory as he defeated H. F. David of England 6-3, 6-3, 6-1.

America's supremacy in the singles failed to carry over into the doubles although the invaders from across the Atlantic managed to get an even break. Tilden advanced in two phases of play. Paired with his Dutch partner, H. Timmer, he defeated Pierre Landry and Grandguillot, a French combination, 8-6, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Mexican Polo Team to Play Picked San Angelo Quartet Early in July

Special to The Record News

SAN ANGELO, Texas, June 27.—Gen. Joaquin Amaro, secretary of war and marines of the republic of Mexico, is selecting a polo team to represent that country in an international series with a picked San Angelo club in this city during early July. Meanwhile extensive preparations to entertain the visitors are being made by the San Angelo Polo, Racing and Riding association, other sportsmen and the board of city development.

Due June 30

The Mexican team is due here June 30. Its members likely will be met in San Antonio by a local committee and will be brought here on ships of Cromwell Airlines, Inc., which operates passenger planes daily between San Antonio, San Angelo and Big Spring. All expenses of the visitors while here will be paid. A Mexican army captain who was stationed for some time at Washington will be a member of the party, but it is understood none of the Mexican players will be of a rank below colonel. The country club and other facilities here will be open to the friendly invaders and a round of dances, golf and other recreation is planned.

Dates for the series of seven games have not been announced but the matches likely will extend over a period of 10 days or two weeks. They will be held at the mammoth polo plant which George A. Henshaw Jr., San Angelo independent oil operator, is building just south of the city. The turfed polo fields—there will be seven—the barns, stables and other equipment on which approximately $500,000 already has been spent, is said to rank with the finest in the South. Later a race track, grandstand and clubhouse will be erected.

Players Selected

Members of the Concho Kids and the San Angelo Rainbows will provide the opposition to the Mexican army team. These clubs played in tournaments both at San Antonio and Fort Reno, Okla., during the spring. The San Angelo players will include George A. Henshaw Jr., J. B. Gilmore, Lee Aldwell and Morgan Flowers of the Rainbows and Dick Nasworthy, Len Mertz and Gene Linthicum of the Concho Kids. Several Texas cities have sought international polo matches, but San Angelo is the first to succeed. M. D. Bryant, San Angelo oil operator, largely was responsible for arranging the tournament while he and Mrs. Bryant were in Mexico City recently on a vacation.

BEAUMONT, Texas, June 27. Lutz Captures Vernon Singles Championship

Special to The Record News

VERNON, Texas, June 27. — Charles Lutz, youthful Vernon netter, won the championship in the men's singles division of the first annual Vernon tennis tournament last week when he defeated Robert Petty in straight sets, 6-3, 8-6, 6-4, on the McLarty court. Both netters were playing slightly under form in the final round, but Lutz displayed the ability in placement shots which took him to the semi-finals in the Texas Interscholastic Tennis meet at Austin this year.

The champion started off with a rush, taking the first set, six games to three. Petty came back in the next set, however, to extend Lutz to the limit, but the lanky youth finally won out in a brilliant exchange of shots.

It was evident at the start of the match that Petty's serve was not up to its usual standard. The bespectacled netter, who had driven and placed his way through an exceedingly tough upper bracket, rarely got an exceptionally hard ball over the net in his service, while Lutz' serve was slightly below its usual standard.

Lutz' margin of victory was in his placement shots, lobs and cuts. His forehand and backhand drives were exceedingly erratic.

French Rooster Taken From Bridge on Rhine

STRASBOURG, France, June 27. (AP)—The "coq gaulois," or crowing rooster, French emblem, which was taken down yesterday from the German end of the bridge across the Rhine from here to Kehl, has been placed permanently over the French end of the bridge. This symbolizes French evacuation of the Rhineland for the populations on both sides of the frontier.

CINCINNATI, June 27. (AP)—A pass to Walker in the ninth inning and singles by Meusel and Kelly, the latter driving in the winning run, today gave Cincinnati a 7 to 6 victory over Boston. Franchise of Burkburnett Valley League Team Transferred to Newtown

The franchise of the Burkburnett Baseball club of the Wichita Valley league has been transferred to Newtown, near Burkburnett, it was announced here Friday by Charlie Cook, manager of the Panhandle Valley league nine. The transfer was made several days ago, but it was not learned here until Friday, Cook said. The Newton team will continue under its present name, the Newtown Terrors, and will finish the race, playing the games originally scheduled for the Burkburnett team.

The Terrors came to Wichita Falls Friday for a practice game with the Panhandle nine. The two teams battled to a 6-6 tie, the game being closely contested, and the new arrivals in the Valley loop made an impression on their fellow members in Wichita Falls, Cook said. Barker and Cox toiled for the Terrors, while Roper, Luper and Habern carried the Panhandle's burdens. Much keen competition is expected the remainder of the season as the result of the addition of the Terrors to the league.

J. T. Dickson is the manager of the Terrors. Neely Vaught was manager of the now defunct Burkburnett nine.

According to the schedule, the Terrors will get into action in the Valley league no later than Sunday, when the Iowa Park team, which had been scheduled to play Burkburnett, will journey to Newtown. The other teams in the league will follow their schedule, the Panhandle team meting the Archer City team at Archer City, and the Electra team clashing with the Byers nine at Byers.

Dealers Lead League in Club Batting

By MACK TURNER

Big Everett Blue, mound ace of the Texas Electric Service Company baseball team of the Merchants league, closed the first half of the race far in the lead of the rest of the field of swatters with a grand average of .614. Blue hit safely at least once in every game of the first half in piling up 27 hits in 44 times at bat and to score 11 runs. Blue only whiffed three times during the first half while he was well up among the leaders in base stealing with 11 thefts.

But while Blue was hogging most of the spotlight in batting and pitching the Kilowatts to a tie for the first half honors with the P. B. M. nine, he was given much assistance from Glenn Coolidge, a teammate. Coolidge amassed an average of .455 in 44 times at the bat and was second to Blue in base hits with 20. These were the only players in the league to get a total of 20 safe cracks in the first half. Coolidge is recognized throughout the league as one of the most deadly men in the pinch that has ever graced sandlot baseball in Wichita Falls. Close to two-thirds of the hits made by Coolidge came with runners on paths waiting to score.

Dealers Lead League

The P. B. M. club which finished in the tie with the Electric company for first place in the first half, had far more hitters with more or less sensational batting averages and were second in club batting to the Furniture Dealers, who led the league with a .333 club batting record to a mark of .302 for the Clothiers. The Electric company as a team batted .293.

The P. B. M. nine found three of their regular players batting .500 or better, but they did not bat as many times as Coolidge or Blue. With Beck hitting .560, Keith hitting .545 and Harry Costley hitting .529, the P. B. M. nine had a heavy clouting team in the first half.

Slim Kellogg, Jack Thurman and Speedy Vincent came in for their share of the batting honors on the P. B. M. nine. Kellogg batted .394, Thurman batted .359 and Vincent batted .310.

The Furniture Dealers came up at the end of the first half with six of their regulars batting above the .300 mark. Jelly Cope, who was one of the most sensational hitters of the last games, finished in the lead with an average of .417 while he was pressed closely by the mighty Babe Horsley, who slugged his way to a .400 average. Big Boy Ridling was pressing them closely with an average of .390. L. D. Lyle, the fast little infield star of the Furniture Dealers copped off a great half year in the field for banging the ball for a .340 average and his speed on the bases gave him a lead over the rest of his mates in the base stealing angle of the game. He swiped 14 sacks to lead Ridling and Horsley by eight bags. Larry Robertson came through with a .324 batting average and bested Shorty Witherspoon by one point.

Bankers Lead Stragglers

Of the remaining three teams in the Merchants league, the batting power was somewhat below the pace set by the three leaders with the Security National bank leading the second division hitters with a .273 average as a team. McClurkans followed them closely with a .260 average and the luckless Southwestern Glass and Paint company team brought up the rear with a .236 average.

The Security attack was centered mostly on the shoulders of four hefty hitters led by the youthful Jack Cossey who hammered the ball for a .395 average in 43 times at bat. Ted Smith in 15 times up batted an even .400 with Al Gates batting .387 and John Mathis piled up a .350 average. Jack Alexander the young southpaw, also topped the .300 level by batting .304 for the first half.

The McClurkans nine had seven regulars topping the charmed circle. Red Thurman, hard hitting outfielder, batted .467 in 15 times at the bat with Thomas, the real leader, with an average of .385. Red Bullard came through in fine style after joining the team and in 20 times at the bat he clouted the ball for a .400 average. C. Smith came through with a hefty .379 average for the first half while Hogan batted .333 in 30 times up. Hogan was also the leader in base stealing with the Macks with 12 bases to his credit against eight for C. Smith, his closest rival. Dills broke into the charmed circle with a .308 average while Bill Meyers came through with a .303 average.

Marion Barrett and Geogre Washington were the only regulars in the line for the Southwestern Glass and Paint company team to hit above the .300 mark. Barrett slammed the ball for a .379 average while Washington batted an even .350 for the first half.

Stealers Tie for Honors

In the race for base stealing honors in the league, there is much keen competition with the first half ending with three men tied for the leadership. Morrell McGregor, Johnny "Posies" Reed and Paul Whatley are tied for the lead with 16 each. L. D. Lyle, the Freaar Furniture company speed demon, holds the runner-up post with 14.

The sensation of the race was carried out by Paul Whatley, manager of the Texas Electric Service company, who stole eight bases in two consecutive games, four in each game. Posies Reed has been out of the last few games with an injured foot and it is not known when the Security National Bank flash will get back into the lineup, while McGregor, P. B. M.'s speed merchant who paced Reed through the first half, is in the big middle of a batting slump. Hogan, of McClurkans, is close on Lyle's heels with a dozen stolen sacks. Shepherd and Blue, of the Electrics have 11 each. McPhail, of the Electric company is close on their heels with 10.

Three men are tied for the league leadership in walks to first base on the fourth wide one with 11 passes each. Raymond McPhail, of the Texas Electric Service company, Roland Dills, of the McClurkans nine, and Morell McGregor, of P. B. M., are the three leaders in this department.

Both the leaders for the first half can be counted upon for a strong race in the last half, while the rest of the teams in the league have been fast plugging up the little holes in their teams and will be ready to give a good account of themselves in the last half of the race. The strong finish made by the Furniture Dealers makes them a feared team in the last half. Both McClurkans and Security National bank finished strong in the first half and look even stronger for the last half. The Southwestern Glass and Paint company is still shy a few players, but they are expected to fill the ranks in the next few days and come through with a winner.

Play-Off Planned

With the cup and pennant offered by Bailey-Moline for the winner of the league race, interest in the last half and the play-off for the first half is at fever heat. Although no final decision has been made as to the play-off for the first half at the present writing, the general belief is that it will be for the best two out of three games and will be played on consecutive Sundays. The play-off games in this case will be nine inning games instead of the regulation five innings of the regular season. The second half will get under way Monday afternoon and the schedule of the first half will be followed in the last half.

The batting averages of each player in the various teams follows:

Middleweight Asks For Money Back

TRENTON, N. J., June 27. (AP)—Edward (Mickey) Walker, middleweight boxing champion, filed suit today in chancery court to restrain Mrs. Margaret Kelly Walker, his wife, from spending $200,000 he claims to have given her during their married life.

Walker also seeks to prevent his estranged wife from transferring title to their home at Rumson and property in Middletown.

It had been agreed Walker contended, that the money and real estate would remain his property although in Mrs. Walker's possession.

Jack Kearns, Walker's manager, accompanied the fighter to California where Mrs. Walker then resided last February to effect a reconciliation, Walker said. Kearns, in an affidavit, said Mrs. Walker informed him she spent all but $51,500 of the money. She threatened to spend the balance, Kearns said, so that she could force Walker to pay her alimony to support herself and two children.

A divorce action charging cruelty, filed by Mrs. Walker last January, is pending.

This season YOU CERTAINLY CAN AFFORD GOODYEARS

THERE never has been a time when the tire-buyer's money could buy as much as right now.

Rubber's cheap—and consequently tire prices are the lowest they've ever been.

People with an eye to values are seizing this chance and making the most of it.

They're buying Goodyear Tires—because right now they can buy them for as little as they used to pay for inferior or unknown tires.

Why are they singling out Goodyear Tires with especial insistence as against all others?

Because Goodyear Tires are definitely superior in tread and carcass, the two main parts of a tire.

Now is the time to get YOURS

The Goodyear All-Weather Tread is superior in traction.

The Goodyear Supertwist Carcass is superior in vitality and long life.

You are not asked to accept these statements without inquiry.

Any Goodyear Dealer will be glad to demonstrate the facts.

The facts certainly are: Goodyear Tires do give greater value.

As far back as 1916, it became a fact that more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind.

Every year since that time it has been increasingly true that more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind.

Today this preference for Goodyears runs into millions: millions more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind.

More Goodyear Tires than any other kind annually leave motor car factories on new cars—more Goodyear Tires go into service through the great Goodyear dealer organization—more Goodyear Tires are used by transcontinental, urban and interurban buses.

There can be only one conclusion: Goodyear Tires must be better—and at present prices they are a matchless bargain.

Now is the time to get yours!

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, June 27. (AP)—Cotton reacted here today under week-end realizing, or reselling by some of the recent buyers who may have been disappointed over the failure of a more general or aggressive demand to develop.

After selling up to 13.82 at the start, July declined to 13.45 and closed at 13.52 while the new October declined from 13.16 to 12.87 and closed at 12.95. The central market closed barely steady at net declines of 10 to 18 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 2 to 10 points on a renewal of yesterday's buying movement, which was probably encouraged by the fairly steady showing of Liverpool and some rather less favorable private crop reports from the Southwest referring to the effects of recent high temperatures in some sections. The old October sold at 13.45 and the new December at 13.30, but the rallies of some 60 to 80 points from the low levels of the week appeared to have eased the technical position of the market. This was reflected by a falling off in demand and trading later was quiet with prices working gradually lower and realizing and scattered selling.

The market showed little resistance until old October had eased off to 13.15 and the new December to 13.05 or about 25 to 30 points from the early highs but these prices attracted some covering and closing quotations showed rallies of some 5 to 8 points from the lowest on the more active positions.

Additional July notices estimated at 4,200 bales were reported in the market here this morning, which, however, seemed to be going into the same hands as those reported earlier in the week.

Liverpool cables said that foreign buying and covering had been supplied by realizing in that market. Port receipts 6,976 bales. U. S. port stocks 1,679,755. Exports 5,618 making 6,734,681 so far this season.

Futures closed steady, 10 to 18 points lower; spot quiet. Middling 13.60.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, June 27. (AP)—The cotton market after a moderate opening bulge of 6 to 8 points due to favorable cables and an advance in silver gradually eased off on some show of weakness in the stock market and a few rains and lower temperatures in the Northwest. The decline carried values down 23 to 26 points from the early highs. Sentiment among ring traders appeared to be bearish and even the usual demand from shorts covering was lacking.

The market was steadier after mid-session and gradually recovered 13 points on July and 6 to 7 points on new crop months on shorts covering. The general market closed steady at net declines for the day of 4 to 13 points.

Liverpool came in 1 point worse to 2 better than due and first trades here were 4 points down to 3 up.

Later prices eased off with stocks and cooler weather and rains in the Northwest, July dropping to 13.03, October to 12.90 and December to 13.07, or 23 to 26 points down from the highs. After mid-session the market ruled steadier owing to shorts covering and recovered 6 to 13 points. July closed at 13.16, October at 12.97 and December to 13.13, or 4 to 12 points net higher on those months.

Port receipts 4,957, for week 33,365, for season 8,592,598, last season 8,432,146. Exports 2,618, for week 44,105, for season 6,461,245, last season 6,686,509. Port stock 1,687,694, last year 793,078. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 61,961, last year 49,206. Spot sales at southern markets 3,144, last year 4,717.

Futures closed steady at net decline of 4 to 13 points:

Prices Average Lower at Close Of Erratic Session in Stocks

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, June 27 (US)—An erratic market at the conclusion of which prices generally were lower was witnessed on the stock exchange today. Opening quotations were almost a point higher on the average, in response to the exceptionally large decrease in brokerage loans. The firmness, however, invited additional selling which caused declines of several points in the leading stocks, only to be followed by another recovery which carried prices close to the previous highs but failed to hold. The only encouragement derived from the day's erratic fluctuations was the tendency for selling to dry up on the downside in the general list. On the whole today's fluctuations were more or less meaningless, except in a few particular issues. The net change for the day throughout the list probably ranged within a point or so. Money renewed at 2 per cent, and remained at this level throughout the day, but its relative firmness—the rate having gone to 1½ per cent. Thursday—had no influence on the market. Wheat prices held firm but cotton was lower.

Professional bear element, emboldened by recent success, continued to seek out vulnerable issues. North American continued under constant pressure. Not all of the selling here could be attributed to bear attack, one very large stockholder having recently liquidated 50,000 shares which had been held outright. The market undoubtedly had been materially weakened by this selling and the professionals found the market somewhat softened. The stock dropped to a new low and closed off 3½ points. North American for 1929 earned $4.81 a share on its common stock. Other utilities were also under pressure of offerings induced by reports that electrical output is declining as a result of lessened industrial activity. The bears continue to emphasize the ratios at which most utility shares are still selling compared to per-share earnings.

Allied Chemical was the outstanding strong point, closing at 262½, for a net gain of 7¾ points, and up 15 points from the low of the day. This stock had been sold by a bear crowd which thought it presented a bright prospect for attack. Apparently however, the stock's friends were well prepared for a raid, the stock running up sharply on comparatively light volume. Attempt has been made to emphasize the relatively low yield on Allied furnished by its $6 cash dividend, but no mention was made by the bears of a 5 per cent. stock dividend paid last year and the management's intention to pay additional stock dividends. Worthington was another stock subjected to bear attack but after selling down sharply closed off only half a point net. Considerable difference of opinion exists as to this company's actual earnings. Copper shares were off with the list although recovering from the lows. Short covering temporarily weakened the technical position of the stock but renewed buying developed for interests who believe that most of the bad news on the trade has already developed.

Railroad stocks were under pressure throughout the day as additional reports covering the first five months' operations were issued. The exceedingly poor earnings being disclosed naturally increases nervousness regarding safety of dividends, particularly of roads which are now earning even their preferred requirements. A factor of great importance, however, is the reduction which has taken place in the railroad expenditures for maintenance and other similar charges. The railroads in the first half of 1930 spent abnormally large sums in keeping with their promise to President Hoover to aid business revival, but these extraordinary charges will not be reflected in the second half of the year. Maintenance of only the same gross, with the lowered expenses, will bring an automatic expansion of net. In various instances, of course, the railroads, particularly the smaller lines, will be unable to maintain dividends because of the severe drop in earnings. Most of the old-line systems, like New York Central, Atchison, Union Pacific, Norfolk & Western, etc., will be able to maintain current payments. New York Central has a backlog of undistributed earnings of subsidiaries, as exemplified by the recent increases in Michigan Central and "Big Four" dividends, most of which goes to the New York Central.

It is obvious that bankers' desire for a quieter market are being realized. Volume was just above the 2,000,000-share level. Price fluctuations were kept within relatively narrow range, especially the net changes. Steel common closed off ⅞, Radio 1½, American Can 1⅝, A. T. & T. 1¾, Anaconda 1. Southern Railway was under special pressure on nervousness over its $8 rate. Except for North American and perhaps one or two others, the utilities shares likewise showed moderate declines. Foreign power was off ½, Public Service ½, while Consolidated Gas was down 2⅜. Oil stocks showed only slight response to a reduction in surplus gasoline stocks, this news being offset by realization the surplus still is large and that crude oil prices are far from firm.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 27. (AP)—Reports of black rust in the Northwest and of farmers holding their wheat in the Southwest gave wheat buyers an advantage today.

After fluctuating rapidly both above and below yesterday's closing figures, wheat closed firm, unchanged to ⅜c higher.

Corn closed unchanged to ⅜c up, oats ¼@⅜c off, and provisions varying from 2c decline to an equal gain.

Corn borowed strength today from the action of wheat. Oats trade was very small.

Provisions were upheld by upturns in the value of hogs.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, June 27. (US)—While there was still a great deal of bearish sentiment in the local wheat trade today, there were many traders who displayed less enthusiasm for the short side. Export trade and flour business of the past few days has been sufficient to provide support for the market and there is a growing belief that Canadian crop conditions are not of the best.

The Winnipeg Free Press is scheduled to issue its report on wheat condition in the prairie provinces tomorrow morning. Some traders have been looking for a bullish report, but in view of the government summary today it is thought the Free Press statement will also show improved conditions.

The sound merchandising basis is proving the best support in coarse grains. Speculative operations are rather limited.

Siebel C. Harris, of Cross, Roy & Harris, says: "We do not see any increase in hedging pressure and believe this is due to the holding tendency that is being shown by producers generally at current low levels. We have an idea that Canadian crop conditions are likely to be a dominant factor in the immediate market, assisted by an improved cash demand, both export and domestic, in our markets. With prices at their present level and serious danger of deterioration in Canada, it seems to us that the buying side of wheat offers by far the best opportunities."

SUMMER TIME BOON FOR OIL

Gasoline Consumption Gains in Hot Weather

By BENNETT WOLFE
Associated Press Writer

TULSA, Okla., June 27.—Arrival of the "good old summer time" has brought the oil industry a boon it would have welcomed weeks ago.

Hot weather means increased gasoline consumption as American motorists respond to the beckon of the open road, presenting a picture of a nation on wheels that is especially cheering to the refining branch of the industry.

The effect of excessive gasoline stocks, while felt first by refiners, has extended through the entire industry, and the assurance of a greater gasoline consumption during the latter half of the year is being pointed to as offering the industry an opportunity for planning operations so that it will not enter 1931 overstocked. Demand for gasoline during the last six months of each year always exceeds that during the first half.

Reeser Warns

Reviewing the first half of 1930 in the oil industry, E. B. Reeser, president of the American Petroleum institute, sounded a warning note against accumulation of stocks.

"The additions of stocks over the past three years," he said, "have been so persistent that many producers, I fear, have become so accustomed to it that they will take it as a matter of course and believe purchasing companies will continue to add to the accumulation."

A study of statistics covering the first half of the year should help the industry in deciding upon its actions during the second half, the institute head asserted.

He estimated the curtailment movement was responsible for saving the industry $1,000,000 a day in the crude oil market.

Science is blamed partly for the surplus gasoline stocks which have prevailed this year. Greater efficiency in the manufacture of motor oil. Within a few years' time the yield has been boosted from 40 per cent to nearly 47 per cent.

Greater Recovery

Another factor contributing to the same situation and likewise one in which science has had a big part is the production of more and more gasoline from other raw materials than crude oil. Cheap cracking stock and natural gasoline are two sources which, statistics indicate, will account for a sufficient increase in gasoline production to equal the year's improvement in demand. Natural gasoline formerly was a waste product.

A further complication has been injected by a steadily increasing demand for premium or anti-knock gasoline, produced by the cracking process. This development tends to create a problem in disposal of the straight run gasoline.

The federal oil conservation board has pointed out that the only market for crude oil—refined products—is being diminished by encroachments of cracking stock and natural gasoline. In the same connection is mentioned the remarkable strides made by natural gas in competition with fuel oil.

Demand Grows

Figures of the United States bureau of mines show the demand for gasoline in the first four months of the year totaled 139,904,000 barrels, an increase of 15,688,000 barrels over the corresponding period of 1929. A gain of 10.8 per cent in domestic demand and 23.3 per cent in exports accounted for the increase. The gain exceeded general expectations, and recent estimates indicate the rate of increase has not been maintained since May 1.

The supply for the same four months totaled 151,207,000 barrels, of which 77,686,000 barrels was in straight run gasoline refined from crude oil 51,894,000 barrels in cracked gasoline refined from fuel oil and gas oil and the remainder in natural gasoline, a small quantity of benzol and 4,720,000 barrels of imports.

New Yorkers Hatch Up Bogus Names for 'Phone Book

NEW YORK, June 27. (AP)—The telephone company has routed from the pages of its Manhattan directory the bogus last names invented by ingenious subscribers so they might be listed last in the phone book.

An epidemic of Zzzyzyvaras, Zzyns and Zzyx-es caused the company to look carefully into the authenticity of any which began with a Zz. All the Zz's were found to be invented names and were thrown out.

The last name in the new book is D. Zywokarta—and it's on the level.

REVOLT FAILS IN CHIHUAHUA

Almada Regains Post Of Governor

EL PASO, June 27. (INS)—Collapse of the government set up by the victorious Priestolstas faction in Wednesday's revolt in Chihuahua city, state of Chihuahua, Mexico, and the re-establishment of the rule of Governor Francisco Almada, was reported authentically here today.

According to semi-official dispatches, Almada, aided by the federal government at Mexico City, took over state affairs at the government palace at the capital.

No violence was reported in the surrender of Manuel Jesus Astrada, who was named governor two days ago when the Prietolstas stormed the government palace and forced Alamada to flee to Juarez.

Although leaders of the uprising, in which Gabriel Jiminez, state chief of police, was killed and three other persons were wounded, have not been arrested, stringent measures have been adopted to prevent a recurrance of the revolt, dispatches said.

Today

At the Theaters

By ELLEN SEE

STRAND: Nancy Carroll, in "The Devil's Holiday," not to speak of Phillips Holmes who does real acting.

MAJESTIC: Lawrence Tibbett in "The Rogue Song," with Laurel and Hardy for laughs. Plenty of laughs and splendid music.

STATE: William Boyd in "Officer O'Brien," which proves a splendid crook story. Grown-ups as well as children thrill to it.

GEM: "Overland Bound," and an all talking comedy.

Yes, they say that Nancy Carroll made herself a real star in her first drama, which began Friday at the Strand.

◇ ◇ ◇

To prove it, there were many wet handkerchiefs brought out of the theater after her first appearance. But it wasn't all Nancy; that young fellow Phillips Holmes, who belongs to a stage family, did acting that should have a nice big adjective applied.

◇ ◇ ◇

The supporting cast is good throughout. Lots of hokum, of course, but one could not put over a picture like that without hokum!

◇ ◇ ◇

Nancy would not appeal so to her audience if she were not so pretty; but she is all of that and more!

◇ ◇ ◇

This Phillips Holmes just happened in the movies. He had no intention whatever being an actor; was in Princeton studying hard when Paramount decided to make some of Buddy Rogers pictures there. They asked for temporary help and Holmes was recommended.

◇ ◇ ◇

He stood out so well he was offered a contract and his father advised him to accept it. They tell us he is over six feet tall and has very blue eyes and light brown hair, so here goes for another movie hero.

◇ ◇ ◇

One thing we could not understand about the tones in the "Devil's Holiday". There was a time when we could not understand anything they were saying and then the voices boomed forth loud enough to make the audience jump.

◇ ◇ ◇

Lots of things we don't understand about movies or rather talkies, anyway. This Larry Tibbet who has been cut in as a preview of his "Rogue Song" beginning Saturday has a deaf sweetheart. Either that or her ears are stuffed with cotton—for Larry sings an operatic air at the top of his voice right into her ear, and she doesn't shrink. It isn't natural.

◇ ◇ ◇

If "The Devil's Holiday," doesn't sound just exactly nice, go to see it, anyway. The end of it makes you feel like this is such a nice world and action is so well sustained you are never bored a moment.

Special Rate To 'Evangeline' Given School Children

Here is where the school children get the best of it. And by school children, the management of the State means those from 5 to 16.

Beginning Sunday and running through Wednesday, Longfellow's "Evangeline" will be shown at the State. Dolores Del Rio will play the lead and the score is written by Al Jolson.

It is the realization by the theater management of the classical value of this poem, which is studied in high school, and the beauty and purity of the story, that has caused it to make a special arrangement for the children.

From Monday to Wednesday from 1 to 6 o'clock, any person from 5 to 16 will be admitted for 10 cents.

Under such conditions, Magnolia Socony Motor Oil (Paraffine Base) is at its best, because then you can appreciate its stamina, its fine quality and, above all, its inherent ability to keep your motor properly lubricated under all conditions. Change to Magnolia before you start!
