Thailand Holds First Elections Since 1948

BANGKOK (UPI) — The Democrats, long-time opposition party to Thailand's former military rulers, consolidated their lead today in general elections to choose the country's first popularly elected government since 1948.

Although the middle-of-the-road Democrats outdistanced the other 42 parties, it did not achieve a majority in the 269-seat parliament, making formation of a coalition government a certainty.

At midafternoon the day following Sunday elections, the Democrats held 65 seats.

The closest group to them was the right-of-center Social Justice Party with 44.

Prospects of a coalition of three or more parties led some politicians and observers to express concern that uncertainty and indecision that have plagued the country since the ouster of the military dictatorship would continue.

Thailand has been ruled by a caretaker civilian regime since October, 1973. Many have voiced fears that if instability followed the elections, the army might be tempted to seize power again.

Seni Pramoj, 68-year-old leader of the Democrats, has said it would be difficult for his party to align themselves with groups which included large blocs of followers of the former military dictatorship.

Seni is a lawyer and long-time politician of royal blood who served briefly as prime minister following the end of World War II. He was a wartime ambasador to the United States who earned the gratitude of his countrymen by refusing to deliver a Japanese-dictated declaration of war, thus saving his country from post-war occupation.

Only an estimated 35 per cent of the eligible voters turned out to elect the 269 members of the lower house of parliament, according to unofficial figures.

Voting was conducted under a constitution drafted after student-led riots led to the collapse of the military dictatorhip in 1973.

The Democrats, traditional foe of military rule, swept most of Bangkok's seats and also did well in southern Thailand, making participation in a coalition likely.

Two leaders associated with the deposed government of Field Marshal Thanom Kittikachorn —Social Justice party leader Tavich Klinpratoom and National party chief Siri Siriyothin —failed to win parliamentary seats.

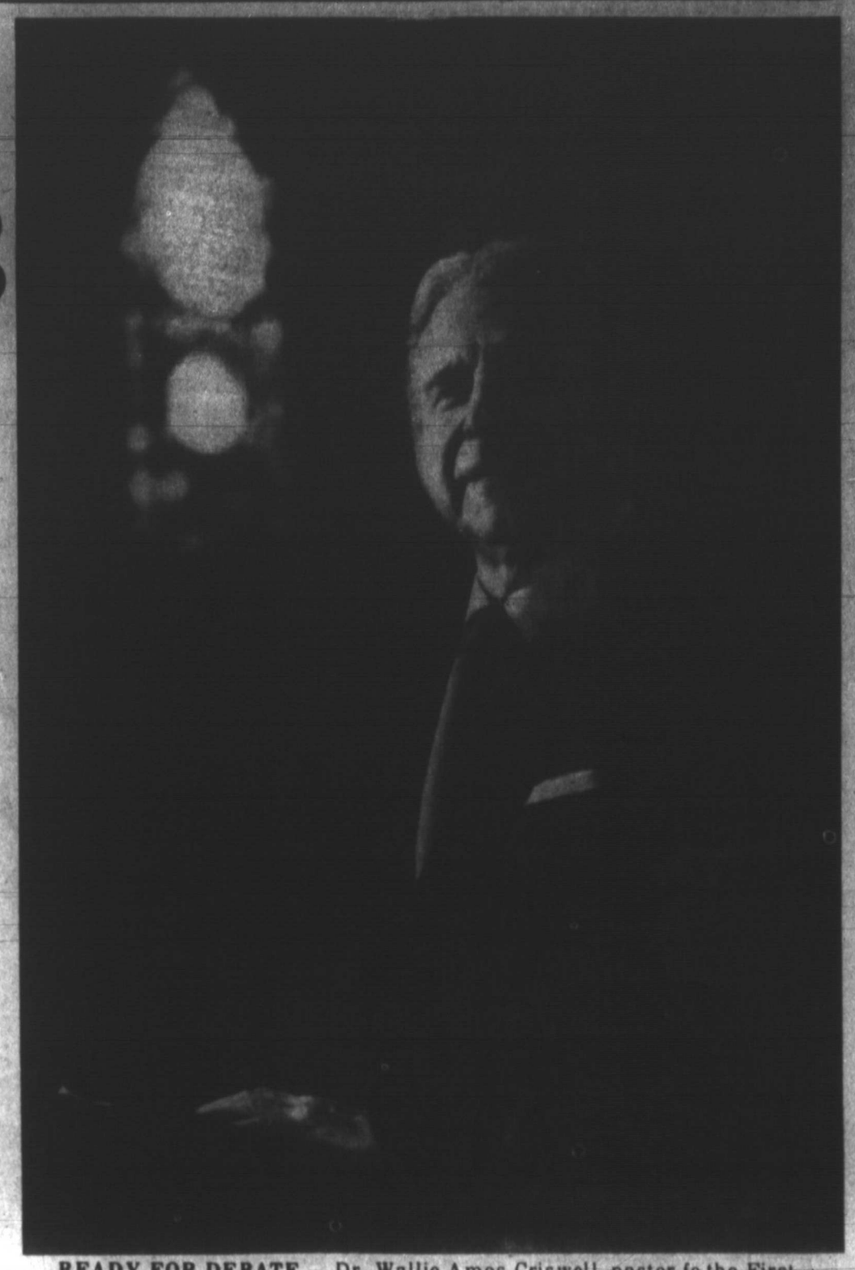

The two men had been considered likely candidates for prime minister. Their parties appeared to gain sizable votes despite the losses of the two leaders.

Tavich said in a predawn news conference he is still his party's leader and would play a key role in choosing a possible coalition government.

Kukrit Pramoj, former speaker of the interim national assembly formed after Thanom's ouster, won a Bangkok seat by a close margin, but the party he formed to contest the election did poorly in early returns.

Officials said one person was killed and one wounded by gunfire in election violence, but voting turmoil was much less than expected.

An angry crowd also destroyed a polling booth in the northeast sector of te country when they were told their names were not on voting rolls.

READY FOR DEBATE — Dr. Wallie Amos Criswell, pastor fo the First Baptist Church of Dallas, largest church in the Southern Baptist Convention, has agreed to debate with famed atheist Madalyn Murray O'Hair on "church, religion, church and state, and faith." The debate will be held Friday night on a two-hour radio talk show in Dallas. (UPI Photo)

4 UNIONS INVOLVED

Wildcat Strike Hurting Burlington Rail System

CHICAGO (UPI) — A wildcat strike early today by four shop unions against the Burlington Northern Railroad temporarily disrupted traffic on the nation's largest rail system.

A court order restored some commuter service in the Chicago area. But the strike spread to two other railroads, the Chesapeake and Ohio and the Louisville and Nashville lines. A C&O spokesman said the wildcat strike threatened to shut down service in Michigan and an I&N spokesman said 2,800 members of the four unions were out and even clerks were not crossing picket lines.

Union pickets began withdrawing in the Chicago area after the court order was signed in the home of U.S. District Court Judge Joseph Sam Perry. The order restrained workers from striking until 6 a.m. Feb. 5 and set ahearing Feb. 3.

A similar restraining order was obtained at the company's St. Paul, Minn., headquarters. Burlington officials predicted normal operations by midmorning.

"Good news," Burlington spokesman Peter Briggs said in Chicago. "The pickets are down at Aurora (Ill.). We're resuming suburban operations this morning."

The strike, which apparently resulted from a breakoff of talks between one of the unions and Burlington officials in St. Paul, Minn., had threatened rail service along Burlington's lines, the longest in mileage in the nation.

The strike, hastily called Sunday night by angry union officials, inconvenienced many of the railroad's 23,000 commuters in 12 Chicago suburbs, and threatened to disrupt the operation of the railroad's 45,000 employes and the movment of passengers and freight in 19 states and two Canadian provinces.

The striking unions were the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of the U.S. and Canada; International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers; the Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Ironship Builders, Blacksmiths, Forgers and Helpers, and the International Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers, Helpers, Roundhouse and Railway Shop Laborers.

Perry said he signed the order because the unions were violating a federal law banning strikes while an issue is subject to binding federal mediation. He said the company had submitted its dispute with the unions to a federal mediation agency Sunday, and the unions apparently struck in retaliation.

"In my judgment, wages are the central issue," Briggs said.

Briggs called the strike "illegal." He said formal written notice must be submitted to the company's headquarters in St. Paul 14 days in advance of a strike, but the headquarters only received a telephone call early Sunday night informing them the strike would occur at 12:01 a.m. today.

However, Woodson Knight, spokesman for the L&N in Louisville, Ky., declined to call the strike illegal, although he said the company would seek an injunction.

Besides 250 to 300 C&O employes from the four unions who walked off their jobs in Grand Rapids, Mich., pickets also etablished lines at the C&O trainyard in Toledo, Ohio.

Johnson said the strike essentially shut down service in the United States to Seattle, Portland, Ore., Denver, Colo., Omaha and Lincoln, Neb., the Dakota and Montana. It also affected British Columbia and Manitoba.

However, he said, other railroads may be affected by the strike.

U.S. Reluctant To Start Airlift Into Phnom Penh

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Americanofficials told Cambodia today the United States is very reluctant to begin a Berlin-type airlift to Phnom Penh because of the danger to U.S. aircraft and that Cambodia should launch an offensive to clear the banks of the Mekong River of Communist troops.

Government officials who disclosed the U.S. statement said that, in response, the Cambodian high command told U.S. Embassy officials they had neither the troops nor resources necessay for such an operation.

The exchange came as stocks of food in warehouses in the capital fell to a one-week supply. Some dealers at the capital's huge Central Market were forced to stop selling today because of a lack of rice and other food, shoppers reported.

Although the food supply is not yet critical, it will become so within two weeks at the most, government officials estimated today.

A battered river convoy, the second to break through a rebel blockade in four days, reached the besieged Cambodian capital Sunday with fuel and ammunitio —but no food.

A tanker loaded with aviation fuel and two barges carrying ammunition pulled into Phnom Penh's docks after braving intense insurgent gunfire along the Mekong River. Six crewmen were wounded. A third fuel tanker was sunk.

U.S. planes, piloted by civilians, already are flying about 10 loads of ammunition to Phnom Penh daily, and American officials have said they are considering a Berlin-style airflift to resupply the city. But today U.S. officials cited what they said was State Department concern because of the danger to aircraft involved in any airlift.

Small internal airlines have been flying just enough meat, seafood and vegetables to provide Phnom Penh tables with a minimum daily requirement.

Rebel forces have taken over most of the 71 miles of river bank along the Mekong between the South Vietnamese border and Phnom Penh since the beginning of their current offensive Jan. 1.

In arguing against an offensive to clear the banks of the Mekong, the Cambodian command cited the continuing rebel threat to Phnom Penh, a recent upsurge of attacks in other provinces in the nation and the battered state of most Cambodian troops, who have been fighting continually since last New Year's Eve.

Cates Gets Post On 3 Committees

AUSTIN — State Representative Phil Cates of Pampa has been named vice chairman of the Business and Industry Committee in the Texas House of Representatives by House Speaker Bill Clayton.

The choice committee post was given to the third term House veteran along with an assignment to the seven member House Administration Committee.

Rep. Cates also captured a seat on the Environmental Affairs Committee by virtue of his seniority.

"I am especially looking forward to serving on the Business and Industry Committee and actively seeking new areas of industrial growth for Texas, especially the Panhandle area," Rep. Cates stated at the Capitol.

"I hope to shift a sizable amount of the expansion and growth interest to small towns and rural areas," Cates stated.

"Business and Industry Committee also works with the Texas Tourist Development Agency in increasing tourism in the state. I have had a longtime interest in the continued growth of tourism which is beneficial to Texans and out - of - staters alike," Cates explained.

In commenting on his appointment to the House Administration Commitee Rep. Cates said that he would work to assure the smooth continuance of the day - to - day matters of House operations and expenditures.

Cates expects the environmental affairs committee will handle legislation concerning the preservation of wildlife and fish within Texas; hunting and fishing laws and the Parks and Wildlife Commission.

City Receives 9 Applications

City Manager Mack Wofford said today a total of nine applications had been received so far for the post of Pampa police chief.

Eight of the applications are from out-of-town and one from the local police department ranks.

George Wallace, assistant police chief under the late Chief James B. Conner, is the lone local applicant. Wallace currently is serving as acting chief.

The city manager said applications will be accepted until Feb. 17 and an appointment to the job is expected by March 1.

Dr. Criswell Plans Debate With Atheist

DALLAS (UPI) — Dr. W.A. Criswell, the former head of the Southern Baptist Convention and the leader of the largest Baptist congregation in the world, says some members of his church have questioned his sanity for agreeing to the debate.

"I told them I would be ashamed of myself if I refused to confront an atheist, if I were afraid and trembling to do so," Criswell said this weekend. "If I can't defend the faith more than that, I should give it up as not real."

Criswell, the silver-haired pastor of the First Baptist Church of Dallas, will get a chance to confront an atheist this week when he debates Madalyn Murray O'Hair on "church, religion, church and state and faith." The two-hour debate will be heard Friday night on a radio talk show.

Mrs. O'Hair, who refers to Criswell as "the pope of the baptist Church," said she can not imagine why he agreed to debate.

"He is entirely devoted to an illogical philosophy," she said. "The only thing he can do during all that time is give a testament to the Lord. There's no possibility that he can defend the Bible. There's no possibility he can defend the activities of the church in economic matters."

Mrs. O'Hair said Criswell and other preachers always speak unchallenged from the pipit and "after all those years of pontficating, they feel like they can take on anyone at any time."

Mrs. O'Hair, who lives in Austin, Tex., successfully petitioned the Supreme Court in 1963 to forbid compulsory prayers in public schools. Since that time she has filed lawsuits attacking astronauts' prayers during a Christmas flight, Billy Graham and the tax exempt status of churches.

"We'll be talking about church, religion, church and state and faith," Criswell said. "And she'll probably look on it all as idiocy and me as one step above, or below, stupidity."

Oil Exporting Countries Agree To Energy Talks

ALGIERS (UPI) — The oil-exporting nationis have agreed to take part in energy talks with industrial and developing countries, setting the stage for a possible confrontation between the West and the Third World.

The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries ended a three - day meeting in Algeria Sunday by rejecting a U.S. call for limiting the oil talks to the producing nations and the industrial powers.

The 13 OPEC nations issued a communique endorsing a French proposal for a broad international energy conference inolving the oil states, industrial nations and developing countries.

The communique said OPEC nations "intend to participate an international conference, such as the one proposed by France, which would treat problems of raw materials and development."

Western diplomats said the admission of the Third World — the developing nations —would raise the possibility of a clash with the industrialized West.

"It will be a direct confrontation between the have and the have-nots with OPEC championing the Third World," one Western diplomat said.

The oil, finance and foreign ministers of the OPEC nations also attacked Western "threats" and "propaganda" against the petroleum nations.

The OPEC states —Abu Dhabi, Algeria, Ecuador, Gabon, Indonesia, Iran, Iraq, Kuwait, Libya, Nigeria, Qatar, Saudia Arabia and Venezuela — said the world economic crsis "constitutes a growing threat to world peace and stability."

But the communique condemned "the propaganda campaign placing on OEC's member countries the responsibility for this crisis as well as threats directed at these countries which create confusion and lead to confrontation."

The OPEC nations, which provide 85 per cent of the world's oil exports, also approved plans for a summit meeting of oil-producing heads of state between Feb. 21 and March 8 to prepare a common front for the conference.

Jamshid Amouzegar, Iran's chief delegate to the Algiers meeting, predicted the international conference might take place next June or July.

The OPEC states also agreed to study an Algerian call for "a general embargo on oil exports to the aggressor country" if any petrolem state "is a victim of agression."

Johnny's Brushing A Waste Of Time?

LONDON (UPI) — So you've been fighting with Johnny for years to get him to brush his teeth. Don't blow your top, but a British government says it's all been a waste of time.

The report, based on a study of 13,000 children by dentists in Britain, says brushing teeth has no impact at all on the incidence of dental decay in children.

Dismissing the popularly held belief in the efficacy of brushing teeth, the report compared the impact of children's dental habits on groups of 5 year olds in England and Wales.

The study, released Sunday, reported some tooth decay in 72 per cent of the children who brushed their teeth three times a day. It said a little more than one-third of the youngsters had five or more decayed teeth.

But the study reported slightly less decay, 71 per cent, among children who brushed under once a day. A little over a third of the children had five or more teeth decayed.

The investigators said they concluded that there is no systematic relationship btween the frequency of brushing teeth and the incidence of dental decay.

The experts even had a kind word to say about thumb sucking.

They said the thumb suckers in the study were less likely than other children to have cavities in five or more teeth.

The dentists reasoned that children who suck their thumbs are less likely to suck other things, such as dolls, soft drinks and sweets.

Sweets, in fact, remain the chief problem in tooth decay, the report said.

A 5-year-old who does not eat sweets is only one-third as likely to have five teeth decayed as a 5-year-old who eats a largequanity of sweets, the report said.

Less than half the mothers questioned were prepared to change their children's diets to help dental health, the study concluded.

Pampans Visit Area Banquets

Pampa was represented at two area chamber of commerce annual banquets Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. E.O. Wedgeworth and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Aftergut attended the Spearman banquet where members of the Spearman High School football team were honored for their successful season as runner - up to the state finals.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Royse and Mr. and Mrs. James Green attended the Wheeler chamber's annual banquet.

Rural Programs In Bad Shape

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There will be little good news for backers of rural development programs when President Ford's budget is made public early next month, Sen. Richard Clark, D-Iowa, predicts.

Clark said he drew that conclusion after administration officials displayed a tight-lipped reluctance to discuss future spending plans in a recent appearance before his Senate subcommittee on rural development.

A year ago, Clark said, the same officials declined to discuss speific figures before formal publication of the budget, but handed out broad hints that backers of rural development plans would be "very happy" when the 1974-75 fiscal year budget was unveiled.

"Now they won't say a single word. I gather from their reluctance that the news is not going to be good," Clark said in an interview.

The Iowan's subcommittee conducts continuing reviews of administration progress in activating a 1973 law designed to step up rural economic development. The law authorized a long list of credit and other assistance aimed at providing new nonfarm jobs in rural areas, improving rural community facilities and aid for rural projects ranging from forestry to fire departments.

Currently, Clark said, only about half of the approved new activity has been funded. He said nobody realistically expects "enormous new outlays" in the 1975-76 fiscal year, but he fears rural programs will not fare well in competing with urban operations in the forthcoming new budget.

One symbol of the administration's reluctance to push hard in expansion of rural development, according to another group of congressional critics, is the refusal of the White House budget office to retain a formal rural development category in listing its budget proposals. The administration budget office will present rural development spending plans in a number of categories ranging from agriculture to natural resources and general community development.

The Congressional Rural Caucus, a group of rural House members, has attacked this form of budget planning as a violation of congressional intent and a potential threat to adequate financing for rural programs. "We have a genuine Concern about this," said Frank Tsutras, staff director for the House group. He said that if rural industrial credits are lumped in with urban programs in the budget, it iwll be hard to identify the rural protions and hard to fight for a "fair share" for rural areas.

"If they drop rural development as a budget planning category, many rural communities will find their needs falling between the cracks," Tsutras said.

Clark, in a separate interview, said the change in budget category listings showed that "talk in the administration of putting the focus on rural development is mostly rhetoric, not action."

PETRODOLLAR PIPELINE

U.S. recycling plan better

On the surface, the disagreement between the United States of America and the Common Market nations over recycling of petrodollars appears to be one of means rather than ends. The plan advocated by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and the plan supported by Common Market finance ministers both would provide a pipeline for money to flow back to countries whose currency reserves are being drained to the danger point by heavy purchases of Arab oil.

The Europeans want to set up a facility to channel petrodollars back to oil-importing nations through the International Monetary Fund. This would give the recycling program a broad base involving the industrialized nations, the developing world and the Arabs themselves — all members of the IMF. Mr. Kissinger wants the recycling done through the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, a new group limited to industrial nations and also concerned with cooperative action on other aspects of the energy problem.

Since the recycled dollars would probably get to the same needy nations by either plan, why all the fuss? Obviously the Europeans feel that the dominant influence which the United States might exert in the OECD would be diluted if recycling went through the IMF. Less evident, perhaps, is the fact that the Europeans are still uneasy about Mr. Kissinger's strategy of confronting the Arabs with an organized counterweight to their oil cartel, which is what he envisions the OECD to be.

The Western European nations have been cool toward the idea of a "confrontation" with the Arabs because they are almost wholly dependent on Middle Eastern oil. They are emphasizing cooperation with the sheiks. However, the Arabs, for their part, have shown no inclination to cooperate by establishing a more realistic price for oil which would be less crippling to the world economy.

If the Europeans do not want to look at their plight as a confrontation now, how much deeper into debt to the Arabs must they sink before they do? Mr. Kissinger is simply looking farther down the road. Europe, Japan and the United States now have the economic strength to bargain with the Arabs, who need us as customers for their oil and who need the technology and manufactured goods that only we can supply.

Petrodollars can probably be recycled as well through the IMF as through the OECD, but recycling must be coupled with a concerted effort by the major oil consumers to break the monopoly which the Arabs are now exploiting exclusively for their own economic and political aggrandizement. If it is not, the consuming nations eventually will discover that it is their own political and economic independence which has been recycled into Arab hands.

Full value, more or less

The "short-count" in packaging, according to a survey by The Wall Street Journal, may be so widespread as to represent a further strain on inflation-stretched budgets.

The newspaper checked the content of more than 500 packages of products ranging from vitamins to paperclips. About 41 per cent contained less than the quantities claimed in advertising.

The cost to consumers of the discrepancies was estimated by the chief of New York State's Bureau of Weights and Measures as up to $3 million in 1973.

The message to the buying public is clear. Be skeptical. Count those paper cups, facial tissues, sandwich bags, envelopes, razor blades and pipe cleaners. Complain loudly when shortchanged.

There is a brighter side to the coin.

The newspaper study found that 11 per cent of the packages checked contained more of the product than promised.

It is assumed, of course, that wary consumers coming upon such a package will promptly bring the inaccuracy to the attention of the retailer and return the surplus.

Or is that carrying fairness too far?

Legend of Football's 'Gipper'

By MAX RAFFERTY

Q — "I'm 14 years old and the only girl in a family of four brothers. They're all football fanatics, while I couldn't care less. Ever since I can remember, I've heard 'Win one for the Gipper'' whenever they were excited about some challenge. I've asked them what the expression refers to, but all they say is that he was a famous football player and that the phrase means, 'Let's go all out'.

"Can you tell me how this expression originated?" — Miss L.D. Joplin, Mo.

A — Long, long ago, when football players wore funny leather helmets instead of shiny plastic ones, a small college in South Bend, Ind., suddenly found itself with one of the greatest football players who ever lived. George Gipp was his name. Notre Dame was his alma mater and when he went into a game he broke it wide open. He razzle-dazzled you. He ran rings around you. He was thunder and lightning and an Indiana tornado in shoulder pads. With Gipp, the Irish couldn't lose.

Then stunningly, catastrophically, George Gipp died, young, with his life ahead of him, riddled with pneumonia. At his hospital bedside when the end came was his coach, Knute Rockne, and what passed between the two in those final moments was not to be known for many years. Rockne was in many ways a man of iron, but he couldn't bring himself to talk about his greatest player. There are breaking points, even with the hardest iron.

The seasons came and went. Notre Dame became a great university, and her sternest gridiron rivalry was with the gray-clad Cadets from West Point. The annual Notre Dame-Army game became a national classic, with apple-cheeked kids and grizzled elders clustered around the radio sets while all business stopped. And one momentous November day, disaster struck the Fighting Irish. Above the crackling static came the clipped tones of announcer Graham McNamee: "Notre Dame is being pulverized."

Oh, the score wasn't so bad — 7 to 0 at the end of the first half. But the statistics were crushing. Army had run wild on the field. The men from South Bend had hardly chalked up a first down.

The Irish walked slowly to their dressing room, their tails between their legs, a beaten team. Everyone held his breath, expecting Knute Rockne to flay these failures with the blistering sarcasm for which he was famous.

But Rockne wasn't in sight. Earlier in the season, his penchant for letting his players block him instead of a dummy had given him phlebitis, and he was confined to a wheelchair. The minutes ticked by; the team sat glumly in silence, heads down. Finally, only moments before the second half whistle was to blow, the door opened and Rockne wheeled himself in.

"You all know the story of George Gipp," he began quietly. "When I was with him at the end, he roused himself a little and recognized me: 'Rock, someday when everything is going wrong out there on the field and the breaks are beating the boys, tell them to win one for the Gipper. I don't know where I'll be or what I'll be doing, but somehow I'll know about it — and I'll be glad.' These were the last words George Gipp ever said."

Rockne paused as the warning call came from the field: "That's all, men. I've delivered the message."

And he wheeled himself out.

The rest, as people like to say, is history. The Irish went up and down the gridiron that second half almost in a trance, tight-lipped, burning-eyed, impassioned and invincible. Nothing human could have stood against them. When the Notre Dame halfback fought his way across the goal line for the winning score just before the final gun sounded, he stood for a brief moment in the shadow of the goal posts and he laid the ball gently on the turf. The tears ran down his cheeks and he looked searchingly up at the gray November sky.

"Here's one for you, Gipper!"

And football's greatest legend was born — a long half-century ago.

That's the way the story goes, Miss L.D. And if it isn't all exactly true, by the Eternal it ought to be.

Answer to Saturday's puzzle.

Belief in Propriety Of Property Destroyed

By C.R. BATTEN

On two or three occasions since last fall, this observer has commented on a study made for the Council on Environmental Quality (CEQ). After reviewing 700 years of British and American legal history, the authors concluded that "there is little historical basis for the idea that a regulation of the use of land can constitute a taking of the land." Only the actual occupancy of the land by government is a taking for which the owner must be compensated, the researchers concluded.

For $2.95 the CEQ could have purchased a report on a much more exhaustive study and saved the taxpayers money. But this report emphasizes that the protection of private ownership of property is the foundation of all progress toward civilization. One could hardly expect an agency seeking justification for the central control of private land and resources even to recognize that such a study exists.

In Defense of Property, by Gottfried Dietze was first published in 1963 by Henry Regnery Co., and was republished in 1971 by the Johns Hopkins Press.

The documentation of Dietze's work includes references written in German, French and Spanish, as well as English. He traced the origin of law protecting the ownership of property back to the Romans, and followed the rise and decline of the protection of property in the western world down to the present day.

"No matter what period oo aspect of our civilization we may consider, we find that the institution of private property has been defended on grounds of justice, freedom, progress, peace and happiness," wrote Dietze. "Often attacked and suppressed, ultimately free property emerged victorious. Common ownership, although enjoying temporary vogues, has been rejected as utopian, as incompatible with the good of society and the individual, as productive of quarrels, as retarding development, as restraining freedom, as arbitrary and unjust."

Dietze shows how the advocates of every form of government since the Roman Empire (with the exception of Karl Marx) supported the protection of private property.

He shows that the belief that the individual is supreme led to the revolutions that established democracy in Europe and America. Yet, those same democracies have replaced that belief with the one "that the individual is divine only as an insignificant part of the crowd," which led to "the belief that the crowd is divine." So the divine right of kings has become the divine right of the crowd.

The original democracies guaranteed the rights of property, but limited the rights of suffrage and the right to participate in government led to an absolute democracy, with unrestricted lawmakers, and has resulted in a decline of the law and of property rights. Unlimited democracy "...endeavored to gain a more equal distribution of property. Of course, this could be done only by impairing the property rights of the individual," wrote Dietze.

In his conclusion, he wrote, "Ever since free property has become restricted, our appreciation of property has declined. Since this curtailment of property has been effected by modern democratic government, the question arises as to whether that type of government has not lost its legitimacy. For it has destroyed one of the main factors in the growth and progress of our civilization, namely, a belief in the propriety of property."

PICASSO'S 'BATHER'

ROLLING MEADOWS, Ill. (UPI) — The "Bather," a major public space sculpture designed by Pablo Picasso, is now under construction at Gould Center here.

The 28-foot-high work —being executed by Norwegian artist Carl Nesjar in the unique medium of engraved concrete —was designed by Picasso in 1962 as one of his famous series of "Dejeuner sur l'herbe" outdoor figures. Nesjar has constructed all 16 outdoor sculptures designed by Picasso for public space areas.

Work on the "Bather" is scheduled for completion in mid-January 1975. Gould Center, a 40-acre commercial and recreational complex, will be completed in late 1975.

Farmers should remain alert to signs of pesticide poisoning, such as headache, giddiness, nausea, blurred vision and chest pains.

Potomac Fever

Ford was on the slopes so long he can't make a decision unless he's wearing skis.

Some government agencies were way ahead of the new privacy law. They stamped every blooper "Top Secret."

There's no truth to the rumor that the administration has pardoned the recession.

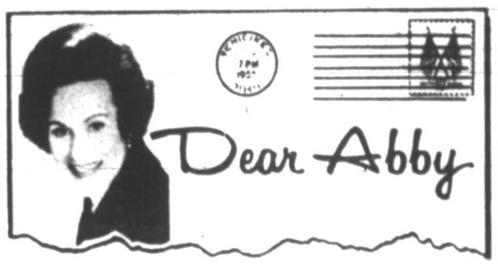

Congress finally passed and Ford signed the Right to Privacy law — written by Thomas Jefferson in 1776.

A new law directs research into undiscovered sources of energy. It hasn't worked yet in the Oval Office.

SHARING

NEW YORK (UPI) — George and Edith Pearson hope to feed 7,500 persons for a month by setting up a Christmas tree on their point of Pender Island off the Georgia strait in Canada.

The Pearsons will turn on a light on the tree each time a donation is made to CARE's food program. Their goal is $5,000. More than $16,500 has been donated to CARE from the Pearson's Christmas tree over the past 14 years.

Ma and Pa went to the altar 85 times

By Abigail Van Buren

c 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this for my great-grandmother, who is 99 years old.

My great-grandfather passed away a few weeks ago at the age of 101.

"Ma" and "Pa" (as we've always called them) were first married June 6th, 1889, and every year after that, on their anniversary, they went back to the little church where they were married and had another marriage ceremony to renew their marriage vows.

Last June, Pa remarked that he wouldn't be at all surprised if he and Ma had set a world's record for being married more times than anyone else alive. Then he said if that was really a fact he wanted to have it engraved on the double headstone he already had picked out for himself and Ma.

Abby, here is where you come in. Will you please ask your readers if they know of anyone who has had their marriage vows renewed more than 84 times? If nobody writes in, I think maybe a record has been set. Thanking you kindly.

MRS. DAVID JOSEPH
FLATWOODS, KY.

DEAR MRS. JOSEPH: I'll inquire. But I doubt that anyone will challenge your great grandparents' record.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old boy who is one of three children. My parents have been divorced for five years and I live with my mother.

My father lives ten miles away. The first year he made little effort to see me, and I haven't seen him since. My mother has had him in court several times, and it's hammer and tongs to get any support money out of him. My father has a good job. He's in construction. Every Christmas, he mails me five dollars.

My problem is, if he isn't interested in seeing or supporting me, should I continue to accept the five dollars, or should I mail it back to him? I always feel like a hypocrite when I write him a "thank-you" note.

ONCE-A-YEAR-SON

DEAR SON: Why should he get off scot-free? Accept the five dollars and drop it into the Salvation Army kettle.

DEAR ABBY: When my husband and I go out to dinner and the waitress brings the check, my husband will put the money and the tip on the table and leave.

This may save time, but I don't think it's right. What if, just by accident, he doesn't leave enough money? Won't the waitress be stuck for the difference?

Also, what if somebody should walk by and see the money on the table and just pick it up? Again, the poor waitress will be held responsible.

When I mentioned these possibilities to my husband he said: "Don't worry, a good waitress is on her toes. Nobody would get out the door in the above-mentioned situations."

Who is right?

SAN CLEMENTE

DEAR SAN: You are. Waitresses have enough to do without watching the tables, the departing customers, and the door.

Gray County Reports 18 December Accidents

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 18 accidents on rural highways in Gray County during December, according to Sgt. D.E. Womack, Highway Patrol supervisor in the Pampa area.

These crashes resulted in no fatalities and 11 persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for Gray county during 1974 shows a total of 168 accidents resulting in seven persons killed and 92 persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for the 60 counties of the Lubbock Department of Public Safety Region for December shows a total of 598 accidents resulting in 11 persons killed and 340 persons injured as compared to December, 1973, with 499 accidents resulting in 17 deaths and 277 persons injured. This was 99 more accidents, six less killed, and 63 more injured in 1974 at the same period of time.

The 11 traffic deaths occurred in the following counties: three in Potter; two in Haskell; and one each in Clay, Garza, Lamb, Moore, Randall, and Wheeler.

Rockefeller Says VP Job Hard

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nelson A. Rockefeller, in a tuxedo he last wore in 1954, sat slumped in the Air Force Two lounge chair and talked about how hard it is to be vice president.

It's not the work, said Rockefeller, who thrives on an 18-hour day, but the careful ballet that a President and his vice president must dance.

"He trusts me and I'm not going to violate that trust," Rockefeller said summing up his relationship with President Ford.

"Politically it's very difficult for a President to give power to a vice president," he mused as his Air Force jet flew through the night returning the vice president to Washington from a speech in Chicago late Thursday.

"It's very delicate to create two power centers in the government—it calls for very great sensitivity on the part of the vice president and great courage on the part of the President.

"It's up to me not to get between the President and his people—or Congress," the 66-year-old former New York governor said. "You don't want to step on anybody's toes."

Rockefeller says he's still adjusting to the job, but in a month he has:

—Begun to convince everyone that he really enjoys presiding over the Senate, his only constitutional responsibility. He's already set a new record for vice presidents in terms of time on the Senate podium and he spends considerable time explaining what he has learned about the operation of Congress.

—Assumed willingly, although sometimes with obvious lack of enthusiasm, the ritual trappings of the job—such as hosting a luncheon for the Sultan of Oman, making the truckdriver of the year award, and flying to Chicago for a speech to businessmen after Ford had to cancel out.

—Shown his organizational ability by quickly cranking up the commission to investigate the CIA.

—Debunked wide speculation when he took the job that he was going to move in and run the government for Ford.

"So what do you do?" Rockefeller was asked.

"Whatever he wants me to do," he responded.

Rockefeller said Ford has kept his pledge of an open door for his vice president—a departure from previous administrations.

"He's extraordinary—you call him on the phone and if he's busy, he calls back," Rockefeller said. "He dropped by the office the other day after his news conference—but I wasn't there. I was presiding over the Senate."

Rockefeller sits in on all the President's cabinet meetings, and most of the other important sessions with Ford's his economic or energy advisors.

White House aides say there is none of the predicted Rockefeller "take charge" attitude. He reportedly gives advice when asked, and has limited his input to problems of which he has broad knowledge, such as welfare.

Rockefeller appeared relaxed in his role, and content with playing second fiddle after 15 years running one of the nation's largest industrial states.

World's Oil Producers To Discuss Problems

ALGIERS (UPI) — The world's major oil producing countries agreed Saturday to stage a summit conference next month before meeting with Western industrial nations for crucial talks on energy and how to spend their billions of oil-earned dollars.

The oil summit and support for a U.S.-proposed mid-year energy conference was decided on by ministers of 13 members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting countries who among them produce 85 per cent of world oil exports.

OPEC officials said the heads of state will not consider any change in the price of oil, which has been frozen by the oil cartel at $10.12 for a 42-gallon barrel for the first nine months of 1975.

"We have agreed on a summit, but not on a date," Saudi Arabian Oil Minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani said after the second day of the ministers' conference at the Palace of Nations outside Algiers on the Mediterannean coast.

Iranian Interior Minister Jamshid Amouzegar said the summit probably will be held in Algiers at the end of February. OPEC officials said the date will be announced Sunday.

The summit will determine the stand producers will take in meeting with the United States and other industrial powers on the energy crisis.

Amouzegar said the producer-consumer talks will take place in June or July.

The OPEC conference came out in favor of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's proposal for talks confined to producers and Western industrial nations who consume most oil, leaving the developing countries out of the first stages. France has insisted on inclusion of the developing countries.

Amouzegar said the OPEC chiefs will discuss all oil issues, including the recycling of petrodollars—how to reinvest the estimated $10 billion that flowed to the oil-producing nations in 1974 to keep the world monetary system afloat.

Stockpiling of dollars by the relatively underdeveloped producing nations, with assurances of even more to come as a result of the steep oil price hikes in the past year, is seen as one of the most serious problems afflicting the economies of industrial nations.

OPEC member nations are Algeria, Abu Dhabi, Ecuador, Gabon, Indonesia, Iran, Iraq, Kuwait, Libya, Nigeria, Qatar, Saudi Arabia and Venezuela.

Family Gardens Good For Beating Inflation

CLEMENS, N.C. (UPI) — A 20 by 40-foot garden planted under optimum conditions can save a family an estimated $350 to $400 a year.

It isn't a bit too early to plan your garden and order seeds to be sure of getting the varieties and types of fruits and vegetables your family prefers, says Cecil Brake. Brake is an executive of the tractor division of Clarke-Gravely Corp., Muskegon, Mich., and a home gardener.

A garden plan should be determined not just by family likes and dislikes but also by availability of space, soil and sun conditions and the amount of time you want to spend working on it, he said.

Vegetables need a minimum of six hours sun per day, in a well-drained, open area away from shade-producing trees and buildings. If you must plant near a shaded area, try to lay the garden out so plants will have a southern exposure, Brake said.

He suggested tomatoes, beans, cucumbers, lettuce and corn because they are perennial favorites that are hardy, produce excellent crops and are liked by most people. Tomatoes, among other vegetables, can be started from seedlings rather than seeds. Nursery bought plants usually yield quicker crops, although costs are higher, he said.

Brake said the best and easiest time to work the soil is in the spring after it has dried out a bit. Soil that is plowed or tilled when it is too wet will form lumps or clods that are hard to break up later.

Small areas can be spaded with a garden fork, which gives an excellent seedbed. But hand-spading is time consuming and hard work. If you don't own a tiller or a garden tractor with a rotary plow or tiller attachment, rental ones can be obtained from most garden supply shops or rental yards, Brake said.

Before plowing or tilling, he suggested spreading compost or a good 5-10-10 fertilizer evenly over the area to be prepared, so the nutrients will be mixed evenly through the soil.

If you use chemicals to fight insect infestation, your lawn and garden supplies dealer can recommend the right pesticides for your area.

Kleasen May Never Stand Trial

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) - The man accused of killing two Mormon missionaries may never stand trial.

Doctors at a federal hospital in Springfield, Mo. have said Robert Elmer Kleason, 42, is not capable of aiding in his defense against charges he violated the federal Firearms Act of 1972.

Kleason, 42, goes before U.S. District Judge Jack Roberts Wednesday for a competency ruling on the firearms trial.

The firearms charges were filed following a raid in New York during which authorities arrested Kleasen and seized 126 rifles and shotguns, 32 handguns, four machine guns, teargas canisters, grenades, 100 pounds of gunpowder and 42,000 rounds of ammunition.

He failed to appear for trial. New York officials learned he was living near Austin, Tex., last year but Gov. Dolph Briscoe refused to extradict him.

A state court will have to decide whether he can be tried for the October killings of Gary Smith Darly, 20, and Mark Fischer, 19.

Authorities accused Kleasen in November of the killings. They said they found traces of the bodies of the two missionaries for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in a taxidermy shop were Kleasen worked parttime.

A justice of the peace formally pronounced the men dead last week.

Friends said Darly and Fischer felt sorry for Kleasen and spent their night off every Monday talking to him about religion, their faith and church.

Burglary Reported

Police investigated a burglary at Granny's Lounge Sunday. The complaint was received by city officers shortly before 3 p.m. The owner told officers burglars had entered the building sometime after 1 a.m.

Entry to the building was gained through a hole broken in the sheet rock officers said.

Pool tables, a cigarette machine and the juke box were robbed of an undetermined amount of cash. The owner told police $80 - $100 was believed to be in the pool tables alone.

Thirty - two cases of beer were also reported stolen in the incident.

Rep. Hightower Concerned At Area Economy

Congressman Jack Hightower visited in his district over the weekend, making stops in Amarillo, Vernon and Wichita Falls.

Hightower, in a telephone interview, told The News he was concerned with the downward trend in the economy in counties affected by the bankruptcy of two of the largest cattle - feeders in the nation, namely operations situated at Cactus and Perryton.

"It is terrible we're faced with this type situation and loss of industry which could have a disastrous affect on the economy in the area," Hightower said in offering his assistance to affected communities and persons who have been put out of jobs and those who face the possibility of losing employment.

Hightower said events in Washington during the past two weeks have affected a great loss to Texas and the Congress, pointing out the ouster of longtime Agriculture Committee chairman, Bob Pogue.

Tom Foley, the new chairman, represents rural agriculture area in Washington, according to Hightower, who added his belief the new chairman would work had as an outstanding authority in agriculture.

"He is a good man," the Congressman said. "I hope he proves knowing of the problems and conditions faced in our district."

Hightower surmised that the continued committee membership of Pogue would held offset the area loss of chairmanship. The committee will still maintain the advice and help of the former leader.

Congressman Hightower was back in Washington early today to resume work in the Congress.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

TUESDAY, JAN. 28

Your birthday today: You learn to live and prosper among powerful neighbors this year: bridging communication gaps, easing cooperation and carrying stronger roles in your career. A transition period to an entirely new stage of development comes late in the year. Relationships are too often neglected and need your care. Today's natives attempt the unusual, optimistically are serious thinkers.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Proposals and invitations have strings attached to them; don't accept any of them. Don't mind friends' schemes or comments; you have work waiting for you.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Be early since you've got more to do than you bargained for. Reply late to give yourself time to think before dealing with associates.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Everyone rushes into action today, but little is gained by the commotion. Don't pay attention to gossip; more than the usual is floating around. Relax and be natural.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: There's no short cut in the long run, but try to economize energy. Stay put where you are and take time out to meditate, instead of dashing about needlessly.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: If you can't quite find joy and glory in harsh and intemperate remarks, you've proven you're still human. Get away from the crowd if you can.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Plan for yourself today; do things alone where possible. An early start helps, as does a steady pace with rest periods for readjustments. Quit early.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: You and your opinions become the biggest obstacle in your path today. It may seem as though others are just guessing; if they're incorrect, let them learn by themselves.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: If you procrastinate at work, you won't finish in time for the extra benefit that shows up later. There are no miracles or easy roads today, but don't complain.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: The error you catch can save your project if you check it further. Put off publicly declared decisions until you're free of emotional distraction.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Partnership and group actions require explicit agreement on fine details, precise figures. Don't force issues, be prompt in responses and check travel times carefully.

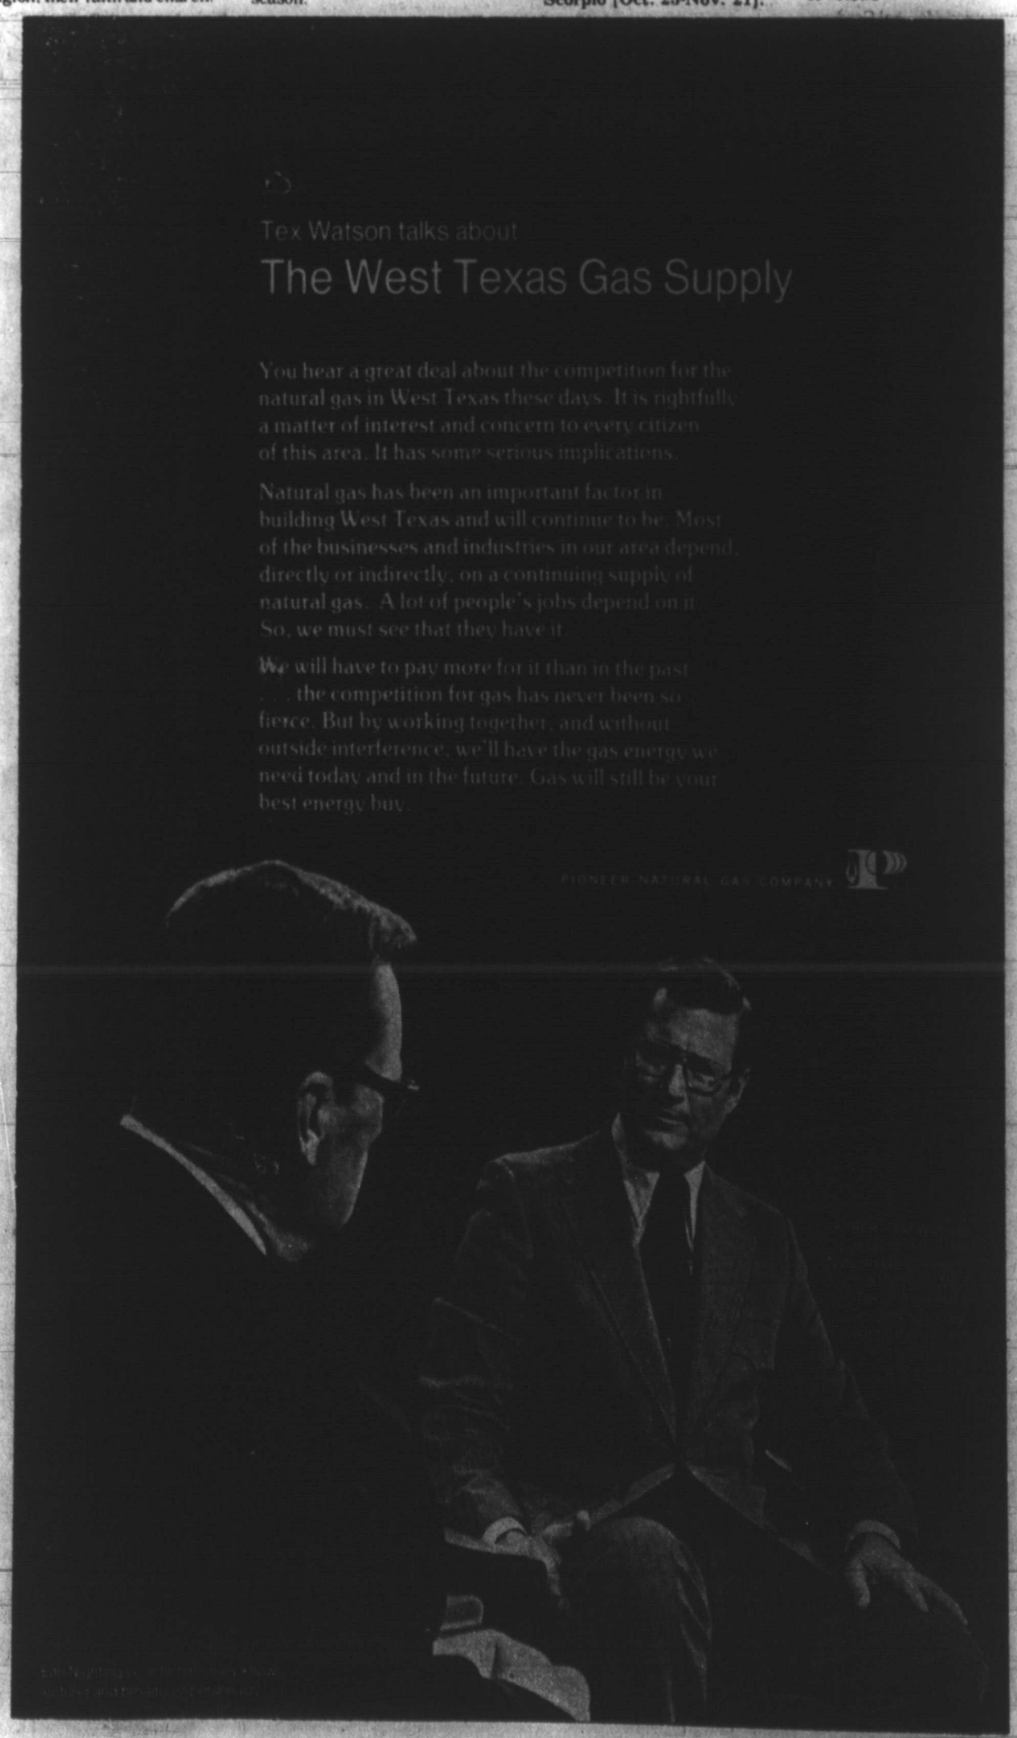

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Anything you do is bound to cause gossip. Do what you really believe is right, despite a clash of personalities and opinions.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Be alert; sort out the trivial from the significant. Hold your comments until you've put the whole picture together and made up your mind about what you intend to do.

Tex Watson talks about
The West Texas Gas Supply
You hear a great deal about the competition for the natural gas in West Texas these days. It is rightfully a matter of interest and concern to every citizen of this area. It has some serious implications.
Natural gas has been an important factor in building West Texas and will continue to be. Most of the businesses and industries in our area depend, directly or indirectly, on a continuing supply of natural gas. A lot of people's jobs depend on it. So, we must see that they have it.
We will have to pay more for it than in the past ... the competition for gas has never been so fierce. But by working together, and without outside interference, we'll have the gas energy we need today and in the future. Gas will still be your best energy buy.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM T. BRANNAN
...nee Miss Carol Ann Kilbreth

Kilbreth-Brannan Vows Are Solemnized

The First United Methodist Church was the setting Sunday, Dec. 22 at 4 p.m. for the exchange of nuptial vows for Carol Ann Kilbreth and William Thomas Brannan.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. L.C. Kilbreth, 2324 Comanche, and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. R.W. Brannan of Comanche, Tex.

THE CEREMONY

Dr. Loyd V. Hamilton, pastor, officiated for the double - ring ceremony before a background of candelabra entwined with greenery. The altar was flanked by large arrangements of white mums and pink carnations. Mrs. P.O. Stevens, organist, accompanied Marshal Gordon as he sang the "Wedding Song."

THE BRIDE

The bride, given in marriage by her father with the "her mother and I" avowal, wore a Juliet style gown of Ivory silk peau de soie combined with pearl braded Alencon lace. Made especially for the bride by Priscilla - of - Boston, the attire was styled an all - over lace bodice featuring a portrait neckline edged in the lace pattern, with a deep yoke of Swiss net and high collarlet of lace with tendrils of lace forming a sunburst pattern. Long sleeves of matching lace appliques were tapered to the wrists highlighted with buttons and loop closures and scalloped over the hands. The silk skirt belled from a high - rise waistline which was marked in lace scallops and pearls. Deep folds at each side were outlined in appliques of the pearl beaded lace forming an apron effect.

Her mantilla veil, designed for the gown of twin panels of lace edged veiling, sprinkled in seed pearls, fell from a silk satin Juliet capulet, forming the chapel length train. She carried a bouquet of burgundy roses and stephanotis and pink carnations and baby's breath.

ATTENDANTS

Leslie Cunningham of Amarillo was maid of honor wearing a burgundy knit and Ecru lace trim floor length dress styled with a high - rise waistline.

Ellen Kilbreath, sister of the bride, and Cindy Brannan, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. They wore pink knit dresses styled identically to the honor attendant. Each carried nosegays of pink carnations, burgundy roses and baby's breath.

Greg Easley of Lubbock was best man and groomsmen were Gary Brannan, brother of the bridegroom, Comanche, and Warren Wilson, Austin, cousin of the bride.

MOTHERS

The bride's mother wore a blue floor length dress and the bridegroom's mother wore a deep aqua floor length dress. Both wore cymbidium orchid corsages.

RECEPTION

The serving table for the reception held in the church parlor was covered with an Ivory lace trimmed cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink carnations and candelabrum.

The three - tiered Ivory wedding cake decorated with burgundy and pink roses, bells and hearts, was separated by white columns and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

Mrs. Robert Kelly, Amarillo, cousin of the bride, served cake, and Mrs. Don Schoon, Amarillo, cousin of the bride, assisted at the punch bowl. Guests were registered by Mrs. W.H. Wilson, aunt of the bride.

For the Mexico wedding trip, the bride wore a western suit.

The couple will reside at 2122 6th St., Lubbock.

AFFILIATIONS

A graduate of Amarillo High School, the bride is a junior majoring in theater arts at Texas Tech University.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Comanche High School and TTU, is presently employed by Coca Cola Co.

PRE-NUPTIAL EVENTS

A bridal shower at the Flame Room was recently hosted by Mrs. W.H. Wilson, Pampa, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Terry Wold, Garland, cousin of the bride.

A coffee honoring the bride was hosted recently in Comanche by Mrs. Derrol Carroway, who served hot tea, assisted by Mrs. John Hathcock who presided at the coffee service.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted at the country club by the bridegroom's parents.

OUT-OF-TOWN GUESTS

Attending from out - of - town were Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. Don Schoon and Shonda; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kelly, Kendall, Randal and David; David Simpson, and Miss Leslie Cunningham, all of Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. Dan Thomas, Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. G.W. Kilgore and Cherry and Mr. and Mrs. Greg Easley, Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. R.W. Brannan, Jr., Gary Brannan, Miss Cindy Brannan, and R.W. Brannan, Sr., all of Comanche; Mrs. C.W. Kelly, Joe Kelly, Miss Sharla Kelly, and Mr. and Mrs. E.C. Gordon, all of Mobeetie; Dr. Lee Gordon, Garland; and Warren Wilson and Joe Ninstiel, both of Austin.

Organic Gardening Is Topic For Upsilon Meet

Upsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met recently in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Taylor for their regular meeting. Following the opening ritual, the business meeting was conducted by chapter president, Vickie Moose.

It was announced that Beta Sigma Phi area meet would be in Amarillo March 1, 2 with registration deadline Feb. 15.

The program speaker, Mrs. H.H. Boynton, was introduced by Rochelle Lacy. Mrs. Boynton, a past - president of the Pampa Garden Club and a member of the Organic Garden Club spoke on "Organic Gardening."

Mrs. Boynton discussed reasons for an organic garden, which uses natural compost rather than chemical sprays and additives. She explained methods of making various types of compost.

She also discussed natural methods of insect control and explained why "organic gardeners" oppose chemical sprays and poisons, especially on food items. Mrs. Boynton stressed that the soil is living it needs care and constant replinishment.

Following the program, Mrs. Boynton presented each Upsilon member with a seedling of Sweet Hesperis (also know as Sweet Rocket).

Judy Field presented the speaker with a gift from the club.

Hostesses were Clie Taylor and Jane Radcliff. In keeping with the program theme, refreshments were fresh apples and oranges, served with sherbet and apple juice.

Members attending the meeting were Mary Ann Anderson, Nancy Chase, Virginia Dewey, Barbara Haney, Sue Hoggatt, Rochelle Lacy, Janette Martin, Vickie Moose, Sandy Osborne, Jan Ott, Janice Snider, Patsy Strawn, Clie Taylor, Dena Whistler, Andrea Wyatt, Judy Fields, and Jan Radcliff. Kay King attended as a guest.

The next meeting will be Feb. 3 at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Dewey.

The BSP Sweetheart Dance will be held Feb. 8 in the Heritage Room. Upsilon's reception honoring their chapter Sweetheart, Mrs. Dennis Wyatt, will be at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Taylor.

On Jan. 16 Upsilon held a spaghetti supper in the Reddi Room.

Members attending were Clie Taylor, Andrea Wyatt, Patsy Strawn, Barbara Haney, Vickie Moose, Jane Radcliff, Mary Anne Anderson, Dena Whistler, Nancy Chase, Virginia Dewey and Jan Ott. Kay King was a guest.

LIBRARY LINES

By Mary Fatheree

It's only a few months until the Friends of the Pampa Library's annual second - hand book sale, so from now until May donations of books will be accepted by the library during regular hours daily.

Here's a quick rundown on book sale policies: Books may be either hardcover or paper back, with both covers intact and no pages missing.

Magazines will be accepted if they are of the "timeless" variety such as "National Geographic," "Antiques," "Gourmet," etc.

The book sale committee regrets that they cannot accept weekly news magazines, women's monthly magazines or such periodicals as "Life" and "Saturday Evening Post."

There is always a gread demand for juvenile fiction (children through young adults), so please ask your children to check their home libraries for donations in this category when you are taking your book inventory.

Paperbacks sell well, as do text and reference books and religious books.

If you have donations but can't get them to the library, a member of the Friends will be happy to make arrangements to pick up your books.

The staff at Lovett Library will handle your requests.

Mrs. Rufe Jordan will review Jane Goodsell's "I've Only Got Two Hands and I'm Busy Wringing Them" at 10 a.m. Tuesday, Feb. 4 in the library's main conference room. The public is invited to the Friends - sponsored review, which will be preceded by an informal coffee at 9:30 a.m.

A reception honoring the Elton Coes, first Library Family of the Year, and the library staff is being planned for a later date in February, to be followed by the beginning of the Friends - Pampa Fine Arts Association film festival series in early March.

Make plans now to attend all of these events provided especially for you by your public library.

And remember, good books are your best insurance against the winter doldrums, so stop by and select some of the latest offerings in fiction and non - fiction from the Lovett shelves.

Langham-Grumke

Mr. and Mrs. Wes Langham of Amarillo, formerly of Pampa, announce the engagement of their daughter, Kristi Kay to Charles Grumke. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Grace Grumke of Claude. Miss Langham graduated from Amarillo High School and attended Dental Assisting classes at Amarillo College. The bridegroom-to-be attended Clarendon College and is currently employed by K-Mart. The wedding is planned for Feb. 14.

Upsets Mark College Play

The gap is widening between Indiana and the rest of the nation's college basketball teams.

While the top-ranked Hoosiers continue to toy with their opposition, their most serious challengers—teams with impressive names like UCLA, Maryland and Louisville - can't seem to keep pace.

This past weekend, for example, Indiana easily stretched its winning streak to 21 games—longest in the nation among major colleges — by whipping state rival Purdue, 101-71. Saturday while the next three clubs in the UPI top 10 rankings all were defeated.

Second-ranked UCLA was upset by Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind., 84-78; third-ranked Louisville, suffering its first loss of the season, was upended by Bradley, 65-59, at Peoria, Ill., and fourth-ranked Maryland was downed by 14th ranked North Carolina, 69-66, at College Park, Md.

The results of the weekend's activity leaves unbeaten Indiana as the only major college team in the nation with a perfect record.

The key to the Hoosiers' success thus far is experience, according to Purdue coach Fred Schaus, a former pro coach.

"In pro ball, the championship teams like Boston and Los Angeles have been together for years," says Schaus. "It's the same for college teams. There's no substitute for experience. This is the big diference in Indiana from a year ago."

In their rout of Purdue, which came at Bloomington, Ind., before the largest crowd ever to see a basketball game in person in Indiana (17,823), the Hoosiers showed their experience by employing a balanced attack that had five players scoring in double figures.

Scott May topped the Hoosiers with 23 points. Quinn Buckner added 8, Kent Benson 14 and John Laskowski and Bob Wilkerson 13 each.

Notre Dame got 32 points from Adrian Dantley, the nation's No. 1 scorer, and defeated UCLA for the second straight year at South Bend. Last year the Irish ended the Bruins' NCAA record 88-game winning streak.

Holding a 76-75 lead with four minutes to play, the Irish held the ball tying to brek a man open behind the Bruins defense and twice they succeeded, once on a goal-tending call. Billy Paterno scored the last eight points in the game for Notre Dame, hitting four straight three throws in the final minute.

Jim Caruthers scored four points and Tom Les added a free throw in the final 20 seconds to give the Braves their victory over Louisville. Bradley was leading by one point, 60-59, when Les was fouled with 19 seconds left. He hit the first shot of a one-and one to boost the Braves advantage to two points then two turnovers by the Cardinals in the last seconds resulted in four more points for Bradley.

North Carolina employed its four-corner stall to perfection in dealing Maryland the second loss of the week. With the Tar Heels ahead, 61-60, with 10:10 left, Coach Dean Smith ordered the freeze and neither team scored for eight minutes and 14 seconds until the Terps were forced into a series of desperation fouls which produced the North Carolina triumph. Tom LaGarde led North Carolina with 16 points while John Lucas led Maryland with 17.

Pros' Golf Next Friday

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Jeff Burroughs of the Texas Rangers and the Denver Broncos' Bob Anderson will defend their title in the ninth annual American Airlines Golf Classic next Friday through Sunday.

Burroughs, the American League's MVP last season, plays to a six handicap while Anderson has a 17 handicap.

The oldest twosome in the $30,000 Classic—scheduled at the Canyon Hotel Racquet and Golf Club—will be Hall of Famers Joe DiMaggio, 59, and Otto Graham, 52. They will be playing in the tournament for pro football and baseball personalities for the seventh time.

A year ago, they finished in a tie for secod.

District Play To Resume

If Borger beats Palo Duro as expected, only two teams will be tied for the district's first half lead after Tuesday night's action. Pampa and Tascosa are tied with Borger at 1 - 0 and will play Tuesday on the Rebels' home court.

In another 3 - AAAA game Tuesday, Amarillo High and Caprock, both losers last Friday, meet in the Amarillo Civic Center.

Borger is a heavy favorite to win its contest against lowly Palo Duro. Although Pampa is favored, Tascosa is always tough at home, exemplified by the fact Robert McPherson's Pampa teams are 2 - 2 in the Rebel gym.

Pampa opened district play with a convincing 69 - 47 win over Caprock, while Tascosa belted Palo Duro, 71 - 58.

Littler Stymies Miller, Others

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Gene Littler, who is 44 and stopped Johnny Miller's winning streak by taking the $185,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am Sunday, says he is going to keep right on going.

"Sure, I'm going to play in Hawaii and maybe then I'll take the following week off," said Littler, who won the Crosby with a closing 73 for a 72-hole score of eight-under-par 280. "You never want to stop when you are going good."

But Miller, who is 27, says he is tired and will take this week off when the PGA tour moves to Honolulu for the Hawaiian Open.

The Crosby was the third event in a row for Littler, as it was for Miller, and he won $37,000 to boost his 1975 earnings to $45,145 and his career earnings to $1,065,803. Littler finished in a tie for seventh at Phoenix and in a tie for 11th at Tucson, events Miller won by a combined total of 23 shots.

It was his first victory since the 1973 St. Louis Classic and the 26th overall of his 20-year pro career which was interrupted in the spring of 1972 for cancer surgery. He said it was a sweeter victory than the St. Louis one because it came over tougher courses.

NFL Players Draft Tuesday

NEW YORK (UPI) — Coaches, general managers and personnel directors from the National Football League's 26 teams poured through scouting reports for the final time today as they prepared for Tuesday's college player draft.

The annual grabbag of college talent begins Tuesday at 10 a.am. EST and will end Wednesday night with 442 players whose college eligibility has expired begin selected in the 26 rounds.

The clubs draft in inverse order of their final standings but several trades have changed that on the first round. Baltimore, which won a coin toss for the No. 1 pick, dealt its rights to Atlanta last Thursday for offensive tackle George Kunz and the Falcons' No. 1 draft.

Atlanta indicates it will select California quarterback Steve Bartkowski to open the drafting.

Dallas has the second pick, having obtained the rights in the deal which sent Craig Morton to the New York Giants last season.

Sports Page

Dallas could be taking Randy White, the defensive end who was Lineman of the Year at Maryland, or either linebacker Robert Brazile of Jackson State or his teammate, Walter Payton, a 60, 208-pounder who is considered the best running back.

Baltimore has third pick, followed by Chicago, Cleveland, Houston (from Kansas City), New Orleans, San Diego and Los Angeles (from Green Bay). The Rams have three first round picks and 11 choices in the first five rounds.

San Francisco is 10th, followed by Los Angeles (from Philadelphia), the New York Jets, Detroit, Cincinnati, Houston, New England, Denver, Dallas, Buffalo, Los Angeles, St. Louis, San Diego (from Washington), Miami and Oakland.

Volleyball A Challenge Again For Pampa Coach Mrs. Wolfe

Pampa High volleyball coach Lynn Wolfe met a challenge last year, when she took her Harvester team all the way to the state semifinals, losing to Irving, which went on to become state champion.

This year, Mrs. Wolfe has what could be a much bigger challenge, that of building a team good enough to be competitive in its own district. Pampa lost four of the best players in the state to graduation and will field a short, inexperienced outfit going into the Borger round - robin tournament Saturday.

Gone are 5 10 Debbie Harris and three 5 - 8 girls — Lynn Richardson, Debbie Fortin and Debbie Gray. Harris and Richardson were all - district; the others could have been.

This year's tallest girl is 5 - 9 Pam Edgar, a spiker. Everybody else on the squad is in the 5 - 5 range. "We've been working on jumping exercises," Mrs. Wolfe said.

"I don't know how we're going to do until we play. This group just hasn't played together very much. Borger had all juniors on their varsity last year, and they were big girls. If they came back out, they have potential. Amarillo High sure did get a lot of good sophomores up from junior high. And, of course, they got a million people to pick from. They also have had a sophomore team, along with the junior varsity and varsity, so they always ecret. It'll depend on how fast we can move."

The Harvesters aren't totally devoid of experience, returning seniors Annette Keeton, a 5 - 5 spiker, and Jean Harvey, a 5 - 5 setter off last season's starting crew. Miss Harvey has three years starting experience and could be the best defensive player in the distriv

Probable starters, besides those two, are senior Terri Cox, 5 - 6 spiker; Edgar, a junior off the B - team; senior Melinda Millican, 5 - 6½ Spiker off the B - team; Harvey, and senior Peggy Tyrell, who played on the B - team a year ago.

Others who might gain a starting berth after the season starts are Senior Donna Doggett, 5 - 4½ setter; junior Gwen Steele, 5 - 7 spiker, and junior Wanza Jernigan, 5 - 5 spiker.

In the Borger tourney with Pampa will be Hereford, Perrytown and Borger. Pampa's first home court action will be its own tournament Feb. 8. That affair will include Plainview, Borger and Hereford.

In 1626, Peter Minuit bought all of Manhattan Island's 2,200 acres for 60 Dutch guilders' worth of trade goods. In those days, 60 guilders equalled 2,400 English cents. Today, Manhattan land sells for about $24 a square inch.

Park Service Awards Rangers for Lake Signs

A suggestion by two Seasonal Rangers will soon make Lake Meredith safer. Large signs with reflective numbers will be installed near each major, cove and canyon around the lake.

Seasonal Rangers Robert E. Wilson and Billy Blackman proposed the signs as location aids for boaters. The National Park Service has awarded Wilson and Blackman $150 for their suggestion. In presenting the award, Park Supt. Bill Dyer stated the sign system was "badly needed for identifying locations when lake related emergencies occurred."

Approximately 20 signs will be built by the Lake Meredith staff for installation along the shoreline. The signs will be placed by the Youth Conservation Corps.

Bob Wilson has been a Seasonal Ranger at Lake Meredith since 1967. He and his family live in Stinnett, where he teaches at Stinnett Junior High School.

Bill Blackman has just completed his second year of intermittent employment with the National Park Service. He and his wife live in Fritch, where he is an insurance representative.

QUAKE STUDY

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — The safety of buildings in Nicaragua in another devastating earthquake like the temblor that struck the country a year ago is one of the first studies at the new John A. Blume Earthquake Engineering Center at Stanford University.

"Recent earthquakes in Nicaragua, Peru and the U.S. have shown once again that improved methods of building design and construction are needed if injury and loss of life are to be reduced during major earthquakes," said Prof. James M. Gere, one of the center's directors.

PROFESSIONAL PEANUT TASTER — Sally Field, a sophomore at Oklahoma State University from Pampa, is ready to pop a peanut into her mouth in her job as a taste panel member for the Oklahoma Agricultural Experiment Station. For a dollar a day, and about 15 minutes of tasting, the ten coeds on the panel rate roasted peanuts and peanut butter for such factors as odor, flavor, taste, roast, texture and dryness. The results help OSU peanut breeders select tastier new varieties for consumers.

Officials Report On CPR Week

By KATHERINE GIBBY
Member of the Board
Gray County Division
American Heart Association

The officers and the board members of the Gray County Chapter of the American Heart Association are especially pleased with the results of CPR Week. The mayors of Pampa, McLean, and Lefors, and Judge Cain originally proclaimed this past week to be Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation Week for the primary purpose of bringing the attention of the Public to the need for everyone past the sixth grade level to learn the technique of giving CPR, and this has been accomplished. Now that the citizens of Gray County know about this need it is hoped that they will follow through and learn the technique.

It is believed that CPR Week is one of the first, if not the first in the nation, and it is expected that it will be copied by other areas in the future.

Two final events in conjunction with CPR Week were lectures and demonstrations given at the McLean and Worley Hospitals.

On Jan. 23, 29 people attended a session at the Worley Hospital. Dr. C. Forrest Sparger gave a lecture on Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation; and, Dennis Danenberg, physiotherapist, at Highland Hospital, gave a demonstration on the technique of mouth - to - mouth resuscitation and cardiac compression. Mrs. Sharon Mack then demonstrated the technique of inserting an endotracheal tube, "airway tube," into the trachea (windpipe). Personnel of the Worley Hospital then participated in the practice drills.

On Friday, personnel from the McLean hospital attended a talk given by Dr. Sparger on CPR week and cardiopuimonary resuscitation. Miss Vermell Meader, Director of Nurses at the Highland General Hospital, and Mrs. J.J. Johnson demonstrated Basic CPR technique and then supervized the practice drills.

Bill Owen, Chief of Inhalation Therapy at Highland General Hospital, and Dennis Danenberg demonstrated and discussed the technique of inserting the endotracheal tube not only in the adult manikin but in the infant manikin as well.

Personnel participating in the pratice of CPR at McLean were: Dry Fabian, MD. Dr. Wood, M.D., Marie McCracken, LVN, Pauline Burnett, NA, Lena Y. Carter, LVN, Lucile Blair, LVN, L. Pavlosky, LVN, Mildred Mantooth, NA, Doretha Richards, NA, Maggie Johnston, LVN, Bertha Jones, NA and Irene Williams, LVN.

It should be stressed that the people completing Instructor's courses in Pampa, have been taught and are teaching the very latest techniques of CPR as approved by the American Heart Association and The National Academy of Sciences. Since, some of the other areas are just now beginning to learn these latest innovations based on press reports, it is pleasing to know that Gray County is ahead of the game, so to speak, in this regard.

WHEELING ALONG

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When Americans want to go somewhere, almost all of them go by motor vehicle, says Donald B. Stabler, president of The Road Information Program. Ninety-three per cent of all trips —whether for work, recreation or family business — are made by car, bus or truck, Stabler said.

CANADIANS VISIT

NASSAU, Bahamas (UPI) — -Almost 60,000 Canadians visited the Bahamas during the first quarter of 1974, compared with just under 40,000 for the same period two years earlier, the Central Bank reported.

The bank said Canadians represented 514,683 visitor-days in the island nation during the first three months of this year.

JOE. D. FOX

SP. 4 Joe D. Fox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe H. Fox, 1033 S. Farley, has been selected as Distinguished Graduate of the 2nd Inf. Division Basic Leadership Course at Camp Casey in Korea.

According to notification received here the course prepared Fox with individual training in duties and responsibilities of the contemporary military leader.

Fox, whose wife and child reside at 219 Sunset Dr., entered the service in September of 1972.

He currently is stationed at Camp Howze, 20 miles from Seoul, Korea.

Scientists Puzzle The Weathermen

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Driving on the right side of the road may produce tornadoes, a group of scientists says. But a weather expert says X-rated movies are a more likely cause.

Allen Pearson, responding to a study by California scientists who concluded highway traffic has caused an increase in tornadoes, said Friday, "I think it's awfully early for an April Fools' prank. I'm dubious about the study, and I would like to see their evidence."

The study, released in London, said that an increase in cars and trucks driving on the right side of roads in Europe and North America creates an unnatural air flow that helps spawn killer tornadoes.

"I'm surprised they didn't find the obvious correlation between tornadoes and X-rated movies," said Pearson who is director of the National Severe Storms Forecast Center. "Everyone knows that hot, steamy air is needed for the formation of tornadoes."

In a more serious tone, Pearson said the turbulence created by two trucks passing each other is miniscule compared to the turbulence generated by the sun beating down on a large parking lot.

He also disputed the study's claim that an eastward shift in the traditional "Tornado Alley" where most of the nation's tornadoes occur corresponds to the concentration of vehicle traffic in the nation.

Pearson said studies by the National Weather Service and private institutions show the concentration of tornadoes is moving south and west —not east.

The forecast center director also disagreed with the study's explanation that the decrease in tornadoes on weekends is because traffic moves away from urban areas.

"If tornadoes decrease on weekends it might be readily explained by the fact that many factories have shut down rather than traffic is leaving the cities," Pearson said. "Certainly truck traffic throws pollution into the air that has an effect on the weather. But if the traffic has an effect on tornadoes, that's a new one on me, and I've been studying tornadoes for more than 25 years."

There are more than 3,000 varieties of flowering plants on the island of Jamaica.
