PROTECTED WILD LIFE.

It is becoming more and more the practice in this section of the State to protect the game, rather than allow hunters to destroy the few deer that remain where once hundreds could be found. Unless the laws are strictly enforced it will be only a short time until deer and turkey will not be found in this country.

CENTRAL AND EAST TEXAS COUNTIES DRAW MORE MOST RURAL AID.

The Rural Aid Fund, appropriated by the Texas Legislature for the aid of the poorer county schools, has been absorbed and monopolized by the richer agricultural counties of the State. Twenty-six of the poorest counties in Southwest and West Texas did not get one cent of this so-called "rural aid" in the three-year period from 1919 to 1922. Thirty-two of the other counties of West and Southwest Texas, got in the same three-year period $42,237.00; while thirty-two of the rich agricultural counties of Central and East Texas got $2,025,844.01 of the $5,500,000 fund.

On the face of it when relatively poor counties, partially developed, with small taxable values can and do get no help with their rural schools; and when the other older and developed counties in high state of cultivation, with high taxable values (though assessed very low) get the bulk of the State fund for the aid of rural schools—then the conviction is forced on one that the State finances are being juggled for the benefit of certain favored counties. This situation is given unpleasant emphasis when the further fact stands out that these favored counties, in effect, pay no taxes to the State and contribute nothing to the fund which they monopolize.

Since about 1917, the Texas Legislature has appropriated from the General Fund of the State to make this so-called "Rural Aid Fund." Ostensibly this fund is to aid the country schools in the poorer counties. Practically it has gone to the richer agricultural counties and the poorer counties get little, if any of it.

In the three-year period of 1919-1920, 1920-21, and 1921-22, 99 counties in Texas received back in school aid all the taxes they have paid the State and in addition the sum of $9,733,000. In short by the analogy that, if I give you $10 and you give me $20, I haven't given you anything—these 99 counties, in the three-year period paid no taxes to the upkeep of Texas but received a bonus of $9,733,000 for being in the State.

The Rural Aid Fund had available in the three-year period just closed from 1919 to 1922, the sum of $5,500,000. Of this fund 99 counties paid no taxes to Texas, and hence contributed not one dollar to this fund, received 64 per cent or $3,522,711. The remainder of the State which paid tax money out of which this "Rural Aid" was appropriated, received 36 per cent of $1,977,289.

Or to put it another way—these 99 counties that pay no taxes to Texas, comprise 40 per cent of the population and one-third of the area of the State. In short, less than one-half of the people of Texas, living in an area of less than one-third of the State, received 67 per cent of this State's educational fund of $5,500,000 while the larger part of the population living in over two-thirds of the State received only 35 per cent of aid from the so-called "Aid Fund." And this is the two-thirds that contains the poorer counties of the State.

So in the process of beating the State of Texas out of taxes, which they should rightfully pay, these tax-dodging counties qualify their schools to receive a larger share than is just from the rural aid fund.

Furthermore, the size and arrangement of the common school districts are vital matters in determining whether or not any particular district will or will not show sufficient taxable values to support "a suitable school." Originally the law provided that school districts should comprise, at least nine square miles, but the law has been so amended that the commissioners' courts of the several counties have absolute power to fix these common school districts. It is easy to see that by jockeying and gerrymandering common school districts in a county can be made so small and that they will none of them have enough taxable value to maintain a school.

For example, Bexar County has 48 common school districts, and comprises an area of 1,263 square miles. Each district has therefore over 26 square miles—and every district out of one or two has enough taxable value to maintain a school. On the other hand Hunt County has 99 common school districts and an area of 893 square miles. The common school districts in the county, therefore, contain a little over nine square miles, and of course relatively smaller taxable values.

Now let's see how this works out: In the three-year period, 1919-1922, figuring Bexar County contributed over $300,000 to this rural aid fund and received from it $9,840.

Hunt County in the same period got back all the taxes paid the State and then some in addition and so contributed nothing to this rural aid fund. Hunt County, however, received from this fund in those three years $99,258. Other specific examples could be cited to show that the distribution of this rural aid fund is not on a just and equitable basis.

Every right thinking man believes in education, and most Texans are not averse to the richer counties contributing of their excess to help educate the children of the poorer counties. But in the distribution of this State fund for helping rural schools there is no question that it should be distributed equally and justly and with due regard to the needs of the poorer counties, rather than on a system of grab and get all you can.

TOURISTS' PARK TO HAVE IMPROVEMENTS.

Within the Next Few Days the Junction Free Camp Ground for Tourists Will Have Many Conveniences for the Use Of Travelers.

A party composed of J. A. Heyman, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Emil A. Loeffler and Lewis F. Boyle of the Park Commission, and H. G. Perry went to Kerrville Tuesday to make a study of the Kerrville Tourists' Park, with a view to making similar improvements in the local park.

Kerrville has a most attractive and conveniently located and equipped tourists' park in the west part of the city. There is ample camping space in the park which has a number of fine live oak shade trees, and a camp house, benches, toilets, and a care-taker has been supplied to accommodate the tourists that want to camp for a few days. Water and lights are furnished free, but wood is sold to the campers at a reasonable price.

Plans have been practically completed for building a camp house or tabernacle on the park site here, located near the South Llano bridge on the Kerrville road. This tabernacle will be 24x30 feet or larger, and will probably be provided with a ladies' rest room. Toilets will also be provided and lights and water will be supplied.

The park will be fenced with woven wire and a stock gate will be built next to the road so that only automobiles can go into the park. The material for making these improvements will be on the ground in a few days and the work will be rushed to completion in ample time to accommodate the large number of tourists that will begin to come here within the next few weeks.

MRS. FLORENCE COOK DIES AT ALVORD.

Saturday morning Mrs. Oren C. Reid received a telegram that her sister at Alvord, who was formerly Miss Florence Sheppard, was critically ill and was not expected to live. Mr. and Mrs. Reid left that afternoon and arrived at Alvord about noon Sunday. They were there only an hour before Mrs. Cook passed away. Her parents, Mrs. Reid and a brother, Tom Sheppard, were with her at the time of her death.

Mrs. Cook was thirty years of age and was born in Mason County. She had been married about six years.

She is well known here, having taught in the public schools in this county for four years, leaving here about four years ago. She is survived by an adopted daughter about eighteen months of age, her husband, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Sheppard of Ada, Oklahoma, and Mrs. Oren C. Reid, who is her only sister, and two brothers, Tom Sheppard of Cameron, and Gus Sheppard of Los Angeles, California.

Interment was made at the Alvord cemetery Monday afternoon.

The many friends of Mrs. Cook will regret to learn of her untimely death, and join the Eagle in extending sympathy to the bereaved family.

Mr. and Mrs. Reid returned Tuesday.

ANOTHER RAIN AND CLOUD WAVE HIT JUNCTION.

During the past several days more good rains have fallen over the county. From reports this rain was of a general nature, as was the one more than a week ago. This last rain and cold wave was the result of a storm which swept across the United States from the Northwest. Texas was only in the edge and this section suffered very little from the blizzard that swept the northern and central states. The rainfall at Junction was 1.7 inches with a temperature of freezing or a little below.

A light shower fell in Junction Wednesday and grew heavier towards the north. From Cleo to Menard a heavy rain fell which caused the mail car to be a couple of hours late. Little mail was received that day as the Frisco was 12 hours late.

RECITAL AT LONDON.

Miss Lois Hankins presented her London music class in a recital February 8th, at Mrs. G. R. Ivy's residence.

An appreciative audience of patrons and friends heard the program, which was quite a success, each pupil showing grace and skill in rendering their number. Miss Hankins will present her London and Junction classes in a joint recital here sometime in April.

RESULTS OF A HUNT.

The above picture tells of the success of two Junction hunters during the open season just passed. During November and December it was a common occurrence on the streets of Junction to have a number of cars stopping here with one or more big buck and a few turkeys on them.

PECAN TOPPING DEMONSTRATION AT TELEGRAPH

On Tuesday of last week, a pecan topping demonstration was held at Mr. F. M. Edwards' place near Telegraph. Those present expressed themselves as being very much interested in the improvement of their pecan groves. It is very important that trees which are to be budded later in the spring and summer, should be cut back before they begin to bud out in the spring.

The reason for topping pecan trees preparatory to budding is that it is best to put the bud in new growth where the bark is smooth and easy to work. Also fewer buds will be required to convert the tree into one producing the improved pecans.

DOCTOR PARRY HAS LOCATED IN JUNCTION.

Dr. Roger S. Parry, wife and little daughter, Mary Ellen, arrived last week and are temporarily at the Becker Hotel. They came through in their Chandler car, making the 2,000 mile trip in about two weeks.

The Doctor has taken over the practice of Dr. McMahon, who will probably leave Junction about the first of the month, but has not decided definitely where he will locate.

Dr. Parry will occupy the offices formerly used by Dr. McMahon. He is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, and has taken special work in obstetrics and diseases of women. During the past twelve years he has been practicing in Washington, Pa.

He and Mrs. Parry are very favorably impressed with the country and State, and after seeing much of the country here and the eastern part of the United States, they like this country better than any visited so far.

MORE ABOUT DISTRICT COURT POSTPONEMENT.

In last week's paper the statement was made that the reason for cancelling the February term of the District Court was serious illness in the family of the District Judge, and the prevailing "flu" epidemic. A letter from Hon. J. H. McLean this week states that, while there was serious illness in his family, the term was cancelled at the request of the health officer and members of the local bar on account of the "flu" epidemic.

The reason for delaying the February term was not mentioned in the issue of this paper following the time set for court, in order to get information from the court, and when none came from him, one of the officials of the court house gave the information as stated in last week's paper.

WOLF CLUB TO ORGANIZE.

All the signors of the Kimble County "Wolf Club" petition and all others interested in the organization of the club are expected to meet at the Court House in Junction, Saturday afternoon at 2 p. m., February 24, for the purpose of organizing, provided the necessary minimum of $2,000 has been pledged.

Try to be there if you think it a good move to help stop sheep and goat losses from cats or wolves.

NEW MEMBER OF FURNITURE FIRM.

Arrangements have recently been made whereby Walter Buck has become one of the owners of the Junction Furniture Company. Messrs. Bralley and Buck state that they are adding more capital to their business and will enlarge the stock, and the furniture and jewelry business will be conducted under the old firm name.

PETITION LEGISLATURE SUPPORT COMMISSION.

A petition to be sent to the Senator and Representative from this district was circulated in Junction this week and a large number of representative citizens signed it.

This petition is in support of the appropriation for maintaining the Live-stock Sanitary Commission as it is now being operated.

This county and most of those adjoining it are practically free from ticks and by proper care it will be no trouble in keeping this section of the State above the quarantine line.

Persons interested in a pecan publication will be glad to learn that the Pecan Press, formerly published at Bend, but which suspended publication about a year ago, has been revived and will hereafter be published by the San Saba Star. This announcement was contained in a recent issue of the Star.

A FLURRY IN PILLS

"The excavations," responded Ames

"Wait just a minute!" begged Dr. Dill excitedly, hurrying to the door. "Mother! Here's a gentleman who has been to Pompeii!"

Chapter IV.

"You wouldn't like all of Italy," smiled Ames reminiscently. "I wonder why it is that the older the civilization the worse the sanitation."

"Probably for the same reason you find it that way in an old house," answered Janet Stanbury, with a little curl at the corners of her lips. "I believe sanitation is a recent whim, isn't it, Doctor?"

"There is always sunshine at Pompeii," mused "Mother" Dill, who wore her gray hair rippling coquettishly down the sides of her waxen cheeks, which had still the flush of pink in them. Above all things, she hated cloudy days.

"You must visit Pompeii," urged Ames. "Neither words nor pictures will ever bring it to you," and he waved his hand over the litter of books, maps and engravings strewn on the old doctor's library table.

"I wish we could afford it," regretted the doctor, with a fond glance at his wife.

"This past week of foreign travel with Mr. Ames has been most unsettling," complained Miss Stanbury, with a not unfriendly glance at the handsome and polished newcomer.

"Frankly, I want to really go; every place!"

"Join the Dill party," laughingly advised Ames. "Doctor, you can go, if you want to."

"I know how poor I am," the doctor remonstrated.

"Any man is rich who has the means of producing wealth," stated

Chapter V.

"I believe you," the administrator and the principal heir of the Henry Phelps estate," began John Ames, as he confronted a man whose brows were so low over his eyes that they seemed to be no upper lids.

"Well," responded F. W. Phelps, who disliked his caller for three things; because he was well-dressed, well-bred and polished.

"I came to see you about the Kleno company," went on Ames, taking a chair with pleasant assurance.

"He might as well have offered to bite the grain and feed man; for that gentleman raised an indignantly quivering finger.

"Every Kleno bill is paid and receipted," he declared.

"I'm glad of that," observed Ames, suavely; "because I thought somewhat of negotiating for the Kleno name."

T. W. Phelps displayed the fact that he could smile.

"We're holding that at a pretty good figure," he stated.

Ames smiled right back at him.

"Then there's no use to open negotiations," he stated in return. "The Kleno name is not worth a fancy price."

The administrator and principal heir, lowering his brows until they almost obscured his eyes, squinted up at Ames quite studiously.

"Well, there's different opinions about that," he argued. "Why, man, Uncle Henry spent a hundred and fifty thousand dollars in making that name! There ought to be a profit on it."

Ames leaned over to smile at him more directly.

"If I find that I can use it, I'll pay you five thousand dollars for it," he coldly suggested.

Phelps still remembered the sight of all that money.

"What do you want to do with this?" he suspiciously demanded. "If I told you, you'd try to do it yourself," was the calm reply. "If you think that you can squeeze more than five thousand dollars out of Kleno, keep it; but you must decide immediately."

T. W. Phelps struggled severely with himself. "What kind of an option do you want?" he finally asked.

"I'll write it for you," offered Ames, and did so.

As he passed over the paper, he again produced the wallet, and fingered through the sheaf of bills. Phelps made a rough estimate. He saw a one-thousand-dollar bill, and at least ten five hundred, to say nothing of some small change, like hundreds and fifties. That was an extremely comfortable sight, and he read the option.

"Where's the dollar?" he wanted to know, as he reached for his pen.

SHEEP AND GOAT MEN FAVOR SAN ANGELO.

Sanderson, Feb. 13.—The executive committee of the sheep and goat raisers' association of Texas, meeting here yesterday, selected June 26-29 as dates for the annual convention, accepted San Angelo's invitation for the annual show and sale in event Del Rio does not want it and endorsed San Angelo as the "logical" location for the proposed Texas Technological College.

The committee recommended re-appointment of Adjutant General T. D. Barton, suggested a livestock experimental station at Sonora and left last night for Austin to urge legislation including a truth-in-fabric bill, a law to enforce sheep dipping and an appropriation of $50,000 for extermination of predatory animals.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE DISCUSS LEGISLATION.

Sanderson, Feb. 12.—Discussion of pending legislation consumed the morning's session of the executive committee of the Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association of Texas, holding their third quarterly meeting here.

Claude A. Broom of San Angelo, president of the Association, is presiding at the meeting, which is being held in the Terrell County court house. The Truth-in-Fabric bill and the amendment which would provide for the enforcement of sheep dipping were among those discussed at length.

Plans for the annual convention of the Association to be held at Del Rio in June and the annual sheep and goat show and auction sale were taken up this afternoon.

Included on the legislative committee are: C. A. Broom of San Angelo; J. B. Murrah, of San Antonio; Jim Moore, of Cleo; R. E. Taylor, of Carlsbad,

New Mexico; V. A. Brown of Rocksprings; and J. T. Elliott, of San Angelo.

Members of the executive committee attending were: Roy Aldwell, of Sonora; Oscar Appelt, of Sonora; F. C. Bates, J., of Sheffield; V. A. Brown, Rocksprings; W. C. Bryson, Sonora; Bob Davis, Rio Frio; T. L. Drisdale, Juno; Fred T. Earwood, Sonora; W. C. Gay, Coleman; Hal Hamilton, Del Rio; Albert Kincaid, Ozona; Jim Moore, Cleo; J. B. Murrah, San Antonio; W. M. Noelke, Mertzon; Sam Oglesby, Mertzon; W. O. Shultz, Faint Rock; E. E. Strickland, Juno; R. E. Taylor, Carlsbad, New Mexico; Sam Witt, Brackerville; and B. E. Wilson, Juno.

HILL COUNTRY TRACK AND LITERARY MEET.

The "Hill Country" Meet is composed of the following counties: Bandera, Kendall, Gillespie, Kimble, Edwards, and Kerr.

This is our first year and we are very anxious that each school, independent or Rural, will enter without fail, and try to keep the honors at home. Each and every school is urged to enter, and enter all events possible, according to the events and rules of a county meet of the Interscholastic League, except Senior Girls' Basket Ball, which has been added by request. We are certain that it will create a friendly school spirit as well as an interest in athletics and literary events entered into between the schools participating, and at the same time, developing the pupil.

So ye schools of Kimble County, hear ye the call, and enroll right now, and ten days before the meet, send names and events in which each pupil will enter, into the Director General. The larger schools are already in line and coming strong, so now it is up to the Rural schools as well as the other larger ones that have not entered to fall in line.

Who will win the Championship Cup for the Independent District? For the Rural Districts?

What pupils will win medals in each event? Be there to try to win and bring your relatives and friends to see you win and cheer for you.

All contestants will be taken care of Friday night provided their school enrolls at once and sends in names of contestants as requested above.

Does not cost one cent to enroll, and look what you receive. Enroll now; not tomorrow!

Address all communications to Guy C. Moses, Director General, Kerrville, Texas.

Still have some choice residence lots that I will trade for livestock or good car.

Half Smiling and Half Crying, She Drew Him Down by the Lapels of His Coat and Kissed Him.

Ames, becoming serious. "Why don't you market your pills?"

"Huh!" grunted the doctor. "I couldn't sell enough in a hundred years to send us to Europe."

"I believe you could," pondered Ames, and, for the first time, he found the eyes of Janet Stanbury fixed on him without the expression which he had fancied to be mockery.

"Oh, do you suppose he could?" prayerfully wondered "Mother" Dill.

"I thoroughly do," John told her, acquiring a certain determination, as he looked at that waxen face, its delicate color deepened by eagerness.

"You're not bothered much about professional ethics are you, Doctor?"

"I do anything I please, as long as it's honest," declared the doctor. "What connection is there between ethics and pills?"

"None," chuckled John; "except that I think the market is ready for some of the good, old-fashioned remedies."

T. W. Phelps conveyed, by expressive pantomime, the fact that he was dropping dead.

"I couldn't think of it for a minute," he expostulated.

"Now, look here, Mr. Phelps," Ames kindly explained; "five minutes ago you didn't think you would ever get a penny out of this unfortunate Kleno. The compound proved dangerous; nobody would have the formula as a gift, and the advertising is totally wasted. If you'll talk sensibly with me, I'll bargain with you; if you're going to bluff, I won't."

Twice the nephew of the departed inventor of "Kleno" started to bluster, and twice he quickly changed his mind.

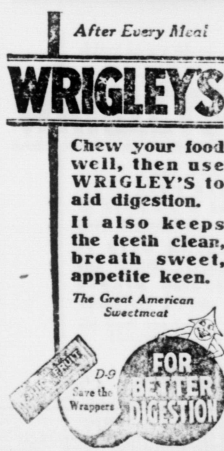

"Would the five thousand be in cash?" he avaciously inquired.

"One dollar down," Ames genially informed him.

"You are taking up valuable time," was the quite expected answer, and Mr. Phelps grew red in the eyes.

Ames produced a wallet, thumbed over a sheaf of large bills and replaced the wallet in his pocket. The sight somewhat soothed Mr. Phelps.

"The dollar is to legalize a thirty-day option," Ames told him. "If I don't have time to find out whether I can use the Kleno name, it has no value to me at all. I wouldn't gamble a dollar and fifteen cents on it; but I will gamble a dollar."

From Our Exchanges.

A TOLERANT CITIZENSHIP.

The Mayor of Dallas, Mr. Sawnie Aldredge, is nearing the end of his period of service, and has repeatedly declared that he will not accept the position for another term. A few days ago he had occasion to attend and participate in a public meeting in which brief reports were made of the work done by the municipality during the past eighteen months, and suggestions were made for continuing the progress of Dallas for another two years.

When Mayor Aldredge arose to speak, he did not "point with pride" to the accomplishments of his administration. He did not declare, as he looked toward the future, that Dallas needed a greater water supply, or more schools, or more street paving, or other things to which one would expect a retiring Mayor to call attention. He said that the greatest need of Dallas is "a tolerant citizenship."

"We need a citizenship that will live in peace. We must be tolerant towards our neighbors. We must grant to each other the right of living as each may choose, and must draw no lines of religion or race or society. Dallas can never prosper so long as it is handicapped by cliques among its citizenship. It can never develop so long as intolerance flourishes in its midst."—Brownwood Bulletin.

ARE THEY FREE?

The whole trouble is that free textbooks aren't free.—Dallas News.

In other words, it's all bosh—talk about getting something free because it is furnished by the government. There is nothing of value free, and there is no use to waste talk about it. Simply because the cost is put off on the government is no sign that it doesn't have to be paid for. There is continual talk about taxes being high and going higher, and yet every year are added more and more "free" things for the government to pay for. "Free" textbooks have to be paid for as do all the other conveniences and necessities that the State and Federal government furnish. There is no use to complain about high cost of government if more and more of the living expenses are thrown from the person to the state and nation every year.—Denton Record-Chronicle.

EDITORS MAKE MISTAKES.

"We made a mistake in one issue of the paper," admits an exchange. "A good subscriber told us about it. The same day there was a letter in our post-office box that didn't belong to us. We called for 98 over the phone and got 198. We asked for a spool of No. 50 thread and when we got home we found it was No. 60. The train was reported 30 minutes late. We arrived at the depot 20 minutes late after the train had gone. We got our milk bill and there was a mistake of 10 cents in our favor. We felt sick and the doctor said we were eating too much meat; we hadn't tasted meat for two months. The garage man said the jitney was missing because it needed a new timer; we cleaned a spark plug and it's run fine ever since.

"Yes, we made a mistake in last week's issue of the paper; and so do others."—Ex.

B NK ROBBERY CASE.

District Court is in session at Kerrville this week. A number of witnesses in the case of State vs. Chas. Merritt, charged with burglary of the First National Bank of Bandera, went over to be present when the case was called for trial yesterday. This case was transferred from Bandera to Kerr county for trial at the spring term 1922, but when called for trial the defendant was absent and bond declared forfeited. He was located in a prison in Kansas and extradited. Another one of the men implicated in the blowing of the First National Bank safe, Johnny Odell, was tried in Bandera and given five years in the penitentiary. His case is now on appeal. The third man, Walter McMillan, died in San Antonio just a few days ago.—Bandera New Era.

NEW CO. LINE DISTRICT.

The House Journal says a bill has been introduced in the Legislature by Mr. Stewart of Edwards, as follows:

H. B. No. 341. A bill to be entitled "An Act to create the Deets Independent School District in Kimble and Edwards counties, Texas, providing a board of trustees there or vesting said Independent School District and board of trustees with all the rights, powers, privileges and duties conferred upon independent school districts incorporated under the General Laws of Texas; providing that the board of trustees of the present school in said district shall continue to act as such until their successors are elected in accordance with the General Laws of Texas, and declaring an emergency."—Edwards County Leader.

MANY LOAFERS SEE STREET PAVING WORK.

Most everybody is finding time to drop around and see the street paving crew at work. Quite a crowd was attracted to Broadway throughout the day Monday when the brick layers began work, and interest kept up as the roller began to press the brick into the sand and the asphalt machine was put in operation spraying the hot tar over the first block of brick laid. It is interesting to stand around and listen to the comments from time to time. "Sho goin' to be dandy," remarked one bystander, to which another replied, "Yes, but we are going to pay for it." "Does that tar machine belong to the Ku Klux?" inquired some loafer as he nodded his cranium vacuum towards the boiling vat of asphalt which was being made ready to spray on the brick. "Wish we had it to use on the fellows who opposed the street paving," remarked another, while another bystander says, "I wish I had an interest in this business; I bet they get rich." "I heard these bricks cost 10 cents apiece, said one spectator. "No, you are too high," says another, "I bet you can buy 'em for two and a half," and as the roller revolved over the newly laid paving, cracking a brick here and there and the workmen were extracting the broken ones and replacing them with good bricks, the same fellow who wished he had an interest in the business was heard to say, "Gosh, they are going to lose a lot of bricks if they have to take out all the broken ones.—Ballenger Banner-Ledger.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE SCHREINER INSTITUTE.

Owing to the very rapid developments in the matter of construction, securing of faculty, shaping of curriculum, etc., in connection with the Schreiner Institute, the Executive Committee met at the call of Chairman A. C. Schreiner last Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

President J. J. Delaney had prepared some very interesting statistics relative to cost of tuition, operation, etc., in other preparatory schools throughout the country and these were presented to the committee for consideration, in the light of rates to be charged in connection with the school.

A financial statement was also presented at this meeting by President Delaney and attention was called by several of the members present to the splendid way in which expenditures were being held to a minimum while maximum results were being obtained.

Copy of the "Schreiner Institute Bulletin," the official publication of the Institute was submitted and accepted and plans made to issue the same by the first of March. This issue will give full details as to curriculum, rates, etc.

Construction work on all the buildings is being maintained at a high pitch and the work on some is rapidly nearing completion.

The Executive Committee of the Institute is composed of the following men: A. C. Schreiner, chairman; Dr. W. P. Dickey, H. Remschel, Judge W. G. Garrett, and Ally Beitel. L. A. Schreiner is treasurer.—Kerrville Mountain Sun.

GATES TIRES

The Tire with the Wider and Thicker Tread

JUST TO ANSWER A QUESTION—

We are often asked if it isn't true that we put exceptional rubber and fabric into Gates Super-Tread Tires.

We do use the best materials that can be bought but we believe that some other factories do this, too.

The extra miles you are getting from Gates Super-Tread Tires are due to having more rubber in the wider and thicker tread. More rubber to wear—more rubber to protect the inside fabric—naturally, more miles.

Hear the Word:—O earth, earth, earth hear the word of the Lord.—Jeremiah 22:29.

B. M. Halbert, chairman of the Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association calls attention to the fact that proper application of the word "Chevon" is not being made and makes the following suggestions:

"Mutton is the meat of sheep, and when we have an edible sheep we call him a 'Mutton' sheep.

"Chevon is the meat of a goat, so when we have an edible goat it is a 'Chevon' goat, because when it is butchered, the meat will be chevon, not mutton.

"Eat chevon, talk and wear mohair, everywhere in 1923."

It is to the interest of every grower of goats to boost his product to the end that this meat may become well and favorably known to the public.

The road between here and Kerrville is holding up remarkably well, but since the rains, has not been dragged and is rather rough in places. It seems that it would be a considerable saving to the county, in the future, to properly drag the roads after rains. The gravel cuts up in ruts and ditches will be started if not properly looked after. The new road is open all the way, and is practically complete to within three miles of Kerrville; however work is still going on along the entire seven miles between Kerrville and Ingram, and there is still some work to be done this side of Ingram. The contractors are now building the fences along the road that runs along the high bluff of Johnson Fork.

In this issue is printed an article about the "Hill Country Track and Literary Meet," that will be held at Kerrville during this month. We trust that the teachers of the schools of this county will make arrangements to have their schools enter this contest. It promotes a feeling among the schools of this section that cannot be secured in any other way, and the association of school students from the several counties will be worth much to those who attend and take part. Those interested should get in touch with Prof. Moses at once.

It was ever thus, and likely always will be. A few days ago we published a very complimentary article about a local citizen, but in it we made a trivial and immaterial error. The first time we met him after the paper was published, he mentioned the error but said nothing about the rest of the article. People rarely fail to point out an error in a newspaper. Seemingly, they take pleasure in doing so. If the local newspapers were to point out the errors committed by every townsman, it would likely contain not much else.—Plainview News.

The above shows the appreciation some people have of their local newspaper. There are always those who are seeking publicity, but who fail to appreciate what is done for them. If an error is made they take a delight in knocking the paper, always failing to see the good that is being done. Fortunately Junction has only a few of this class, but we just "saw wood" and let 'em knock, for they seem to get pleasure out of it, and who would be so unkind as to begrudge them this pleasant pass time?

PLAIN ENGLISH.

"Doctor, if there is anything the matter with me, don't frighten me to death by giving it a long, scientific name. Just tell me what it is in plain English."

"Well, sir, to be frank, you are lazy."

"Thank you, doctor. Now tell me the scientific name for it. I've got to report to the missus."

NOTICE TO READERS

During the past few weeks we have had some half a dozen complaints from people who failed to get their paper. All these have come from people living away from here, and who get their papers wrapped separately. We have been trying to find the cause of this trouble for we are just as anxious to get the paper to our readers as they are to get it after they have paid for it.

Of course, we have no control over the paper after it goes into the hands of the postal authorities, and cannot prevent them from misplacing papers in transit. Occasionally some one writes in a manner that would indicate that they think we are able to watch the paper through out its journey to them, or in case they miss one paper, we should take the next one to them.

We are now using a much wider and longer wrapper than formerly and we hope that this will remedy the trouble, as the wrapper will be less likely to tear or lose off. We are always glad to have people notify us when they do not get their paper and we will make every effort to get every copy to every subscriber.

Don't fail to notify us when you fail to get your paper. We can then make an effort to locate the trouble, whereas, if we are not notified, we have no way of knowing whether all are receiving their paper or not.

Notice to Car Owners.

You will be required to keep cut-outs closed on cars between the bridges, and as far out as the cemetery on South Llano road. The law against speeding will also be enforced in the business section of town.

W. H. RALAND DIES.

Word was received by relatives here Monday that W. H. Ragland had died that morning at Abernathy in Hale County.

No details were received. He was a brother of our ex-tax assessor, J. W. Ragland, who was unable to go to Abernathy to attend the funeral, on account of illness.

Deceased is about sixty years old and has been in Texas some forty years, most of which time he has lived near Abernathy, going there when there were few settlers in that part of the State. He was here on a visit three years ago.

J. W. Ragland and a sister in Mississippi are the surviving members of the family.

STATE CAPITAL NEWS

From The Austin Statesman:

MEXICAN RECOGNITION
RESOLUTION IS SIGNED.

Governor Patt M. Neff late Monday signed the Pool-Quaid-Quinn house joint resolution in which the Texas Legislature declares itself pleased with the administration of President Obregon, congratulates the people of Mexico upon the new era of peace, prosperity and amicable relationship which has been established with Texas, and urges the Federal government to take steps towards the recognition of the present government.

STORMY DEBATE BAKER SCHOOL BILL DIES.

Religious factionalism was injected into the deliberations of the House for a time this morning during consideration of the Baker bill, which would require private and parochial schools to meet the educational requirements prescribed for public schools. The House finally killed the bill, 72 to 54, by striking out the enacting clause. The bill had been adversely reported by the education committee, but was printed on minority report.

EVEN 800 BILLS HAVE APPEARED THUS FAR.

An even 800 bills have appeared so far at this session of the Legislature.

Of this number 496 have been introduced in the House and 304 in the Senate. Many of these have been killed by committee and many are on the same subject, besides duplicates in the two branches.

There were seventy-nine bills submitted in the House this week and thirty-nine in the Senate.

It is expected that more than 1,000 bills will have been introduced before the expected end of the session, four weeks hence.

COMMERCIAL FISHING IN CERTAIN COUNTIES TABOO.

The House Monday afternoon adopted an amendment to the present fishing laws by which commercial depletion of streams in specified counties will be stopped. Representative Fabian, author of the bill, said that it is desired to stop the operations of fishermen who send their catch to the cities for sale.

The bill prohibits the sale of bass, white perch, crappie and catfish caught in the following counties: Burnet, Llano, San Saba, Pecos, Travis, Bastrop, Lampasas, Medina, Cherokee, Hunt, Runnels, Rains, Kimble, Lee, Williamson, Houston, Zavala, Dimmit, Wood, Burleson, and Milam.

The bill was first engrossed and then finally passed under suspension of the rules by a vote of 107 to 1.

NEFF FILES BILLS WITH SECRETARY OF STATE.

Governor Neff filed with the Secretary of State, to become laws without his signature, the following bills:

Authorizing cities having 1,000 inhabitants, or more may acquire necessary lands for the purpose of constructing reservoirs.

Relating to recovery and to defendants of replevy bonds.

Providing for the return of pension warrants where the pensioner dies during the quarter for which the warrant was issued, and the issuance of a mortuary warrant to pay the funeral expenses of deceased pensioners, fixing the amount there of at $65.00.

Reviving the bill of discovery, in accordance with usages in courts of equity.

Creating the following independent school districts: Harmony, Paris, Richland Springs, Webster and Rankin.

Governor Neff approved the House concurrent resolution providing for a committee to inspect the proposed sites for relocation of the penitentiary.

BILLS FAVORABLY RE-PORTED TO SENATE.

The following bills were favorably reported to the Senate:

Fairechild bill separating Department of Insurance from Department of Banking.

Strong bill, making rates of Texas Employers' Insurance Association maximum that may be charged by any concern writing workmen's compensation risks in Texas, instead of minimum.

TAX MONEY POURING INTO STATE TREASURY.

On March 1, the State of Texas will again be on a cash basis, after having been operating on deficit since last September, announced C. V. Terrell, State Treasurer, Saturday. He added that on March 1, it is expected there will be approximately $10,000,000 in the treasury to the credit of general revenue.

Tax collections during the month of January, the heaviest tax paying month of the year, are just now being remitted to the treasury at the rate of about $500,000 a day. Last Friday remittances exceeded $1,000,000 according to the State Treasurer.

Treasurer Terrell declared that the collection of delinquent taxes are better this year than last, which is a strong indication that the financial condition of the state is much better than one year ago. The deficit in the treasury last September when payment of warrants from general revenue fund was suspended, was over $1,000,000, which grew to a peak of about $3,000,000, while the deficit at the present time is slightly above $1,000,000, and is being daily decreased.

In the opinion of Treasurer Terrell, the State will again go on a deficit next fall unless the Legislature passes at least some of the revenue producing measures now pending. He attributes this condition of affairs to a gradual increase in the expenses of operating the State government.

HOUSE VOTE FAVORS
CONVENTION. 77 TO 43.

The Rountree-Quaid resolution providing for the call of a constitutional convention was adopted in the lower House of the Legislature late Friday by a vote of 77 to 43.

That the Senate is bent on an early adjournment of the regular session of the Thirty-eighth Legislature is indicated by the fact that seventeen members have signed a senate concurrent resolution providing sine die adjournment of the present session on March 9. No action has yet been taken on the resolution, but it is expected to be offered shortly. In the House there is a concurrent resolution providing for sine die adjournment on March 14, which was laid on the table subject to call.

Representative Satterwhite of Carson obtained brief consideration in the House of his bill creating a State Tax commission to a uniform system of taxation. This bill has been on the calendar for the past ten days and debated at length, and probably some action would have been taken on the measure Wednesday afternoon, had not the time for the consideration of local bills intervened.

The author of the bill submitted a substitute for the entire measure which follows in a general way the original bill, but provides that the assessing of property shall be by the county commissioners of the various counties as at present. The commissioners would then send their rolls to the State tax board for review and if the board finds that the property has not been uniformly assessed then it is empowered to change the rendition. The commissioners shall meet on July 1, annually for this purpose and send the rolls to the board for review by July 15. After reviewing the renditions then the board would advise the commissioners of the changes made. No action was taken on the substitute.

A PROPER AMENDMENT.

In adopting the resolution submitting to the people the question of calling a constitutional convention, the House amended it so as to provide that the question of calling the convention shall be voted on in a separate section from that at which the delegates to such convention would be elected. It fixes the election on the convention question for the regular election date in November, 1924, and the election for the choice of delegates for the second Saturday in March, 1925. The convention itself would be held in May, 1925.

If we are going to have an election to pass on the question of a constitutional convention, certainly the date for naming the delegates should be a different one from that of such an election. The lapse of time provided for in the amendment—from November to March—is adequate to provide for a careful discussion of the matter if the people should decide to call a convention.

If the people want to make the attempt to write a new Constitution at this time, there can not be too much deliberation about it. And the amendment adopted yesterday provides for this.—Star-Telegram.

"I have taken Cardui for run-down, worn-out condition, nervousness and sleeplessness, and I was weak, too," says Mrs. Silvie Estes, of Jennings, Okla. "Cardui did me just lots of good—so much that I gave it to my daughter. She complained of a soreness in her sides and back. She took three bottles of and her condition was much better.

"We have lived here, near Jennings, for 26 years, and now we have our own home in town. I have had to work pretty hard, as this country wasn't built up, and it made it hard for us.

"I wish I could tell weak women of Cardui—the medicine that helped give me the strength to go on and do my work."

RAISE GARDENS, KEEP FAMILY IN GOOD HEALTH

By Edith M. Andrews, Home Economics Specialist, Extension Service, A. & M. College of Texas

The need of tonics and other medicines in the spring of the year is due largely to the lack of fruit and vegetables in the winter diet. If more greens and leafy foods were eaten daily throughout the year, less money would be spent for medicines and doctor's bills and there would be less suffering from many of the ills that are constantly with us. A large percentage of our digestive troubles, colds and other sickness and diseases are caused by improper diets, showing the wrong selection of foods. The importance of fruits and green vegetables in the diet is being continually brought to our attention by food and nutrition specialists. Fruits and green vegetables are valuable in the diet because they supply mineral substances, roughage and vitamins or protective substances without any one of which we cannot keep in good health. Not all vegetables contain the same kind of food principles. Everyone should learn to know the kinds of foods that are necessary to make up a safe or balanced diet. The green, leafy vegetables are specially fine sources of mineral and vitamins. Among this class are spinach, lettuce, turnip tops, beet tops, mustard, kale, cabbage, Brussels sprouts, celery, collards, chard, dandelion, water cress, rape, lamb's quarter and onions. These vegetables also have coarse fibrous materials that assist in carrying off waste products from the body. A sufficient amount of fruits and vegetables must be eaten daily by every one wishing to keep in the prime of health. Experts tell us that we should eat plenty of cooked leafy vegetables and two salads made of raw fruits and vegetables everyday, in addition to one quart of milk, and a small amount of meats with eggs, cereals and starchy vegetables. If more people conformed to this rule there would be fewer diseases that shorten life.

In order to comply with this important instruction, we must raise in our gardens enough vegetables to furnish the table and also to supply sufficient amount for canning and preserving for winter use. Every thrifty housewife will take pride in putting up a nice store of vegetable foods ample to keep her family in fine condition during the winter months when green stuff is scarce. Only products from the garden may be successfully canned.

Fall and Winter Gardens.

Statistics show that thousands of farms in Texas have no gardens at all and a very large number have gardens only a few months in the spring. If the proper methods are followed, the home garden could be made an all year round proposition. Early plants should be started in seed boxes, hot beds or cold frames so that as soon as danger of frosts is past the plants may be set out and an early crop harvested. After the spring and summer vegetable have been used, the land should be prepared for the fall garden. It should either be spaded or plowed, depending on the size of the garden and then the soil should be thoroughly pulverized by a rake or harrow. This can best be done after a rain while the ground is still moist. There are certain plants and shrubs that may be grown in the permanent garden that will add greatly to the variety of table foods.

Plan for the Garden.

If it is worth while for you to grow a garden, it will pay you to plan definitely what you are going to plant; the time of planting and the rotation of the crops in order that you may have a garden the whole year. The best and easiest way is to sit down with pencil and paper and make a diagram of your garden plot, and with the aid of lists of vegetables and other information obtained from bulletins and your own experience, mark down the location of rows for the different kinds of crops and what the following crop is to be. In this manner, fresh green things can be supplied every month in the year.

Essentials of a Good Garden.

For convenience, the garden should be located as near the house as possible, sloping towards the south or southeast in the colder sections, because with this exposure the soil will warm up early in the spring and early plants may be grown. The land should have sufficient fall to drain off the surplus water during heavy rains, but the fall should not be so great as to allow the washing of the soil. After the proper selection of the garden site, then the essential things of a good garden are:

1. Suitable soil.
2. Proper preparation of the soil.
3. Good seed or plants.
4. Water or moisture.
5. Sunshine and warmth.
6. Right cultivation and care.
7. Control of diseases and insects.

Practically the control of all of these conditions, excepting sunshine and warmth, lies in the hands of the gardener, and the success of the garden will be due largely to his watchfulness and care.

SUGGESTIONS ON MANAGEMENT OF SHEEP.

By J. M. Jones, Animal Husbandman in Charge Breeding Investigations, at Experiment Station.

The Texas farmer does not have to provide such expensive barns or sheds for sheep as are required in the North. It is desirable, however, that farmers allow their flocks access to sheds during the cold and penetrating winter rains. Sheep can withstand low temperatures without any ill effects whatever so long as they remain dry, but a sheep whose wool has become saturated with water quite frequently succumbs when exposed to a cold and penetrating north-er.

Many Texas farmers have ample room for housing a few head of sheep during wet weather under an unused shed or in one end of the barn. When the weather is dry, the sheep thrive better out of doors in an enclosed lot at night.

A sheep shed should be located on a high, well-drained piece of land, the open front having a southern exposure. The shed should be from 18 to 20 feet in depth and of any desired length, depending upon the size of the flock. The main points to keep in mind is to provide a watertight roof and a dry floor upon which the sheep may lie down and rest.

The farm flock owner should provide some green forage crop for the winter grazing of the flock. Winter wheat, oats, rye, and barley, sown after the removal of the summer crop, grow rapidly, provided there is sufficient moisture in the soil. If the pregnant ewe flock is allowed to graze on the green forage crop during the winter months they should be in splendid condition to deliver lambs. The green feed increases the milk production and the lambs gain at a rapid rate. Where there is an abundance of green feed, it is not essential to supply the breeding flock with silage. On the other hand, when a green forage crop is not available on the farm, it is a good plan to supply each ewe with from two to two and one-half pounds of good silage daily. Never feed mouldy silage to sheep as it is likely to cause death. If the ewes are thin, one-half to three-fourths of a pound of feterita, milo or kafir should be added to the daily ration a few weeks before lambing time.

The flock owner should be careful to avoid an excess of such feeds as cotton-seed meal, cotton-seed hulls, oats, etc., which are high in protein contents, because unless these concentrates are fed in moderation, difficulty is very likely to result at pasturage time, owing to the tendency of highly nitrogenous feeds to increase the development of the young in utero to such an extent that losses are likely to occur unless assistance is given the ewes during delivery of lambs.

After the lambs have been dropped, the grain ration should be increased gradually after the first few days so that the ewes will provide enough milk to keep the lambs gaining steadily.

The lamb that has once been stunted never attains the size and development that it otherwise would, had its growth never been checked.

After the lambs are two or three weeks old they will begin to nibble at grain, and at this age it is well to provide what sheepmen call a "lamb-creep," which is nothing more than a small pen containing feed-troughs for the young lambs. The entrance to this "creep" is slatted so that the mature sheep cannot gain an entrance. During the first few weeks, the lambs should be allowed all the grain they will eat, as they will not consume enough to injure them. A desirable mixture is four parts oats and one part bran. Another desirable ration for the lambs, is seven parts ground feterita or milo and one part cotton-seed meal, well mixed. The troughs should be constructed so as to keep the lambs from climbing into them, as they contaminate the feed and refuse to eat it. The feeder should learn to judge their appetites and feed them the amount they will consume daily.

The male lambs should be castrated at from one to two weeks of age. The entire lamb flock should be de-tailed when the lambs are from one to two weeks old. In the de-tailing operation the tail is severed at the second or third joint from the tail head. There is not much loss of blood when the lamb is de-tailed at a young age, but when this operation is deferred until a time when the lamb is a month or two old there will be a considerable loss of blood and probably some deaths. In case of severe bleeding after the tail has been severed, tie a string tightly about the stump of the tail and the bleeding will stop in a few minutes.

MORE COTTON FOR SONORA
Sonora, Feb. 14.—Sonora and the Sonora country are in prime condition. Rains falling since the first of the month have put the soil in a wonderful condition for crops. It is expected that $150,000 of cotton will be grown here this year, as the result of a "raise more cotton" move recently started here by W. L.

Aldwell, president of the First National Bank of Sonora. The rains, coupled with a half a foot of snow which fell the first of the month, has practically insured one of the best lambing seasons known in this section for many years. It is estimated that in the neighborhood of 100,000 lambs will be produced in this section this year.

CLUB AND SOCIETY NOTES.

(Edited by Mrs. A. W. Loeffler)

TACKY PARTY.

The Baptist boys and girls of the Junior age were hosts to their friends of the town at a Tacky Party, Monday evening, the 19th. The parsonage was the scene of much gaiety as halcones, Samboes, mummies, Mexican generals, dudes, gay young things and prim old maids, made their appearance.

A program in keeping with the occasion was rendered, and at times the entire gathering took up some popular song.

There were games like ring on the string and crossed and uncrossed. Of the contests, the most exciting was that one where several boys brought home the potato crop a la the pig style.

After Miss Dorris Jones, as the tall and stately, not to say stringy old maid, and Gay Munn as the portly, puffy doctor, were adjudged the prize-winning pair refreshments of cake and rabbit hash were announced. The hash proved to be a mound of bananas and gelatine, crowned with nuts and whipped cream. More than sixty guests were served.

Then all joined in singing "Keep Sweet," and went home at ten o'clock.

If the party was not a howling success, it was surely a noisy one.

DINNER PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Joseph entertain Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Perry and Mr. and Mrs. Lee J. Corkill at dinner Wednesday evening. The menu consisted of veal loaf, with tomato sauce, creamed potatoes, peas, olives, tea pineapple salad and a dessert course. tained Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Perry.

After the dinner a number of games were played and a very enjoyable evening was spent.

A SHOWER.

Mrs. Lee J. Corkill's music class gave her a towel shower Wednesday evening. The guest of honor was not at home, so the gifts, accompanied by best wishes, were left for Mrs. Corkill to find on her return. Another surprise that the class left for Mr. and Mrs. Corkill was the sugar bowl which they emptied of its contents and filled with salt.

Miss Cowsert was reared here and has many friends who will join the Eagle in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Kunze a long and happy life.

KIMBLE COUNTY ADVERTISING AT STOCK SHOW.

The local Chamber of Commerce has just printed some 2,000 picture brochures or folders, that will be sent to the publicity manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, who will be in Fort Worth about the first of March and who will see that this information folder is properly distributed.

The folder contains 8 pages of pictures and descriptive matter of Junction and Kimble Co., and will serve to acquaint visitors at the Fat Stock Show with the town and county. The work was completed at the Junction Eagle plant Thursday and will be mailed this week.

GOVERNOR DISPOSES OF NUMBER OF BILLS.

Governor Pat M. Neff late Friday signed the House Concurrent resolution authorizing the State Prison commissioners to execute penitentiary notes. He also approved the House Concurrent resolution calling upon the governor to issue annually a proclamation calling upon State officials to display the United States flag upon all State and school buildings, homes, lodges, churches, etc.

"We Told You So."

AFTER THE Happening of any desirable event, there are always those who say, "I told you so!" We knew the good rains were coming—they always have—and we knew that the time to prepare your ground was before the rain fell, so that the land would hold the moisture.

THOSE WHO Prepared their ground, now have have an excellent seed bed and a better chance to produce a larger yield than those who delayed this preparation. Success in farming is not different from other lines of work. Diligence gets results.

NOW THAT We have a good season, we urge you to prepare to work every acre that you own. There is no danger of over production. You'll need more feed stuff than you think for.
