Center Of Controversy

It was work as usual for Miss Katherine Shorey, chief librarian of the Martin Memorial Library in York, Pa., despite the controversy she touched off. Miss Shorey banned all junior and senior high school students from staying in the library on grounds they socialize instead of study and sometimes get rowdy. The York library board has scheduled a meeting to attempt to settle the situation.

What Will Tshombe Do? Reports Are Conflicting

★ ★ ★ ★

British Claim He's Willing To Give Up Katanga Battle

LONDON (AP) — The British government said today President Moise Tshombe has issued a statement indicating he is giving up the fight for an independent Katanga.

A Foreign Office spokesman said Tshombe issued the statement in Elisabethville after being strongly urged by British Consul Derek Dodson to cooperate with the United Nations plan for Congo reconciliation and unification and abandon any thoughts of a scorched earth policy.

Tshombe was reported as saying he had returned to Elisabethville, the Katanga capital, to restore calm and peace and declared it was essential to apply the U. N. plan "without new spilling of blood and without useless destruction."

Dodson and the Belgian consul general met with Tshombe shortly after the secessionist leader returned to the Katangan capital Tuesday.

"This meeting took place with the knowledge of United Nations authorities," the Foreign Office spokesman said. "The British government is concerned to have the plan of reconciliation accepted and implemented.

"Mr. Dodson told Mr. Tshombe of this continued concern and asked Mr. Tshombe to cooperate in this matter."

Dodson also deplored any last ditch action by the Katangans involving destruction of property or continued fighting.

The reconciliation plan, drawn up by U. N. Secretary-General U Thant, provides for an end to the secession of Katanga and a formula for sharing the revenue from Katanga's mineral wealth with the Central Congo government.

Tshombe's apparent capitulation came after he hinted that sabotage might still be used to combat unification by force.

With a gesture as if pushing a button, he said he and his ministers had been very busy at his emergency headquarters in Kolwezi "preparing the demolition of all industries."

Dodson told the Katangan president there must be no scorched earth policy or destruction of roads, bridges, power stations or installations of the rich Union Miniere mining company. Union Miniere had reported two dams and power stations in the Kolwezi area were mined and Katangan police occupied its pits and plants there.

Tshombe subsequently issued pledge of cooperation, which was transmitted to the Foreign Office in London.

"It is evident that in these circumstances I will abstain from any declaration against the United Nations," Tshombe said.

In the light of the confusion which has surrounded political developments in the past in the Congo, the British spokesman declined to interpret the meaning of Tshombe's declaration.

However, the British believe that if Tshombe's pledge is kept, and if the Central Congo government and U. N. authorities treat Tshombe with tact, a settlement of the Congo problem could be in sight.

Tshombe has claimed to be the president of an independent nation. Congo unification would leave him with the status merely of a provincial leader.

He Threatens To Carry Out Scorched Earth Policy

BULLETIN

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP) — President Moise Tshombe told a news conference today he intends to carry out a scorched-earth policy if the United Nations attacks Kolwezi. He said Katangans have every major industrial installation mined, ready for demolition.

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP)—Renewed threats by Moise Tshombe to blow up vital industrial installations in Katanga placed the United Nations' Congo reunification drive at a delicate juncture today.

Woes also piled up for the U.N. Command with the reported outbreak of serious tribal fighting in the diamond-mining province of Kasai, a region just northwest of Katanga. The United Nations is short of men there, having moved much of its strength to embattled Katanga.

"My ministers and I have been very busy in Kolwezi ,preparing the demolition of all industries," Tshombe said on his return to Elisabethville Tuesday from Kolwezi, an industrial city 150 miles from the U.N.-occupied capital.

Union Miniere, the giant company that owns most of the province's mines and utilities, described the sabotage threat as real and appealed "to all responsible parties" for measures to prevent it.

"After 10 days of hostilities, Katanga has already reached an economic standstill," the company said in a statement.

Union Miniere said two dams and power stations in the Kolwezi region which provide more than three-fourths of Katanga's hydroelectric power have been mined. The company said Tshombe's gendarmerie occupy its pits and plants in the area.

With only five days remaining before Secretary-General U Thant's deadline for reintegrating Katanga into the Congo, the United Nations must decide whether to brook further delays in order to prevent serious destruction.

Tshombe didn't say what would cause him to give the signal to blow up the mines and utilities of the rich copper-producing region. He has threatened before to resort to scorched-earth tactics rather than accept forced reintegration into the Congo.

U.N. forces have all but shattered Tshombe's military resources in a drive that began late last month. Representatives of the central Congo government followed the U.N. armies and have begun to take over the provincial administration.

Before Tshombe's return to the capital under a U.N. safe conduct, U.N. officials said they had no intention of reopening negotiations with him on the issue of unity. The United Nations is acting in Katanga under various decisions of the world organization to end the secession which began a short time after Belgium gave the Congo independence in 1960.

There was no immediate word from the United Nations on how it proposed to deal with Tshombe's threatened sabotage. When he arrived in the capital, Tunisian United Nations troops withdrew from the presidential palace and Katangan gendarmes resumed duty there.

Ralph J. Bunche, U.N. undersecretary, left by plane to tour northern Katanga. He has said that he and Tshombe had nothing to talk about.

U Thant Takes Cautious View Of Statement

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —U.N. sources said today Katanga President Moise Tshombe could prove his avowed intentions to cooperate with the United Nations by ordering his gendarmerie to surrender Kolwezi to the U.N. Congo command.

The informants said Secretary-General U Thant was reacting with extreme caution to the Katanga president's statement in Elisabethville that he wanted to restore peace and calm in Katanga.

The informants added that the secessionist leader had made contradictory statements in the past and that was the reason for Thant's cautious assessment.

House Resolution Honors Publisher

AUSTIN (AP) — The House of Representatives congratulated Houston Harte, publisher of the San Angelo Standard-Times, today on his 70th birthday Jan. 12.

Rep. Forrest A. Harding of San Angelo offered the resolution signed by more than a dozen other legislators.

The resolution said Harte "is one of his newspapers' best reporters and editorial writers."

New Congress Goes Into Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—The unpredictable 88th Congress swung into action today.

Families, friends and the merely curious packed the galleries of both branches to watch the colorful ceremonies of swearing in new and re-elected members.

But in the offing—for a likely midafternoon decision—was a grim political battle to determine whether the House will set up its Rules Committee in such size and complexion that it will not bottle up President Kennedy's major legislative proposals.

Kennedy got earlier assurances at a White House meeting of Democratic leaders that this will be done. He also got their promise they will make every effort to put through a constructive program.

The President will outline his requests in a personally delivered message on the State-of-the-Union Monday.

Senate leaders reached informal agreement to wait until after that time before members begin wrangling over whether to change the rules to make it easier to kill off a filibuster. This effort is certain to provoke a filibuster.

CHALLENGE

Republicans challenged the Democrats' confident predictions that Kennedy will get a major share of his program through what could be a lengthy session. They looked to conservative Democrats to help them defeat some proposals and water down others.

In the Senate, Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson banged the gavel to get the session underway.

In the House, this duty fell on Clerk Ralph R. Roberts. For the moment, the House was without any elected officers and its first order of business was to organize —mainly meaning to go through the formality of electing Rep. John W. McCormack, D-Mass., as speaker. McCormack was speaker in the last Congress.

Senate Democrats, at a pre-session caucus, re-elected Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana as their floor leader, and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota as assistant leader or party whip.

They also re-elected Sen. George A. Smathers of Florida as secretary of the Senate Democratic conference. Southern Senators, at a meeting Tuesday, had unanimously requested Smathers to reconsider his announced intention to quit that post.

SHOULD HE RESIGN?

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., had said he understood Smathers felt he should resign because of criticism that he did not vote with the administration enough.

Among the House visitors was Edward McCormack, nephew of the speaker, who lost a bid for the U.S. Senate to President Kennedy's brother, Edward, in last fall's Massachusetts primary.

There was a festive air throughout the Capitol and the adjoining office buildings as the opening hour approached. Visitors crowded the corridors and many of the new members held open house, complete with coffee and doughnuts, or stronger beverages.

Relay Beams First Full TV Program

NEW YORK (AP)—Relay, the newest U. S. communications satellite, beamed its first full-scale television program simultaneously to Europe and the United States today.

Stations on both continents saw films of the ceremonies at Washington's National Art Gallery Tuesday night where President Kennedy opened the display of the painting Mona Lisa.

The telecast was carried over the Communist network, Intervision, the first time it had carried a live telecast from America, NBC reported.

A spokesman said the program was seen in Czechoslovakia and Hungary, and perhaps in other East European areas.

A second broadcast, via Relay, to Europe was arranged later in the morning, to show firemen fighting a fire in the Empire State Building.

This was billed as a first action-news telecast across the Atlantic.

The Radio Corporation of America handled transmission of the pictures, as Relay went on duty in space.

The show, portion of the NBC "Today" show, lasted 10 minutes during the 207th orbit of the satellite.

The signals were sent from the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. station at Andover, Maine.

Technicians in charge of the operation reported that reception in France was good, but that signals were "not so good" in England or Italy because the signals had to be converted from the sole receiving point in Brittany.

The picture and sound reception was good in the United States.

The signals were transmitted to the satellite and relayed right back to this country and onto home television sets—all in a fraction of a second.

Several successful transmissions between the U. S. and Europe were accomplished last year with Telstar, the first communications satellite, which is still in operation.

Cosden Gives Pay Increases

Cosden Petroleum Corporation has announced a five per cent salary increase for all monthly paid employes, effective Jan. 1, 1963.

President R. L. Tollett said the increase is consistent with the company's acceptance of a proposal by Local 826, International Union of Operation Engineers. Under the agreement, hourly paid employes were awarded a five per cent increase, effective Jan. 1, 1963.

The pay increase is in line with a general trend which has developed in the oil industry.

Banks Hold Annual Meets

Two Big Spring banks held their annual meetings Tuesday afternoon, and officer and director personnel was left exactly as they were.

Stockholders of the State National Bank and the First National Bank renamed directors, who in turn re-elected the present officers. Missing from the State National annual meeting for the first time in many years was T. S. Currie Jr., who was fatally hurt in a car mishap last year.

Reports at the banks reflected a good year except agriculturally.

The Security State Bank is due to have its annual stockholders session at 4 p.m. Wednesday, and at Coahoma the Coahoma State Bank annual session is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Thursday.

Possible Cold Wave For Texas

By The Associated Press

The Weather Bureau indicated a possible cold wave for Texas by Thursday night in a forecast issued Wednesday.

The forecast called for much colder in the extreme north portions of South Central and Southwestern Texas, with colder weather in the Northwest Texas section.

Daniel Says Farewell To Joint Session

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Price Daniel told the Texas Legislature farewell today.

"It has been a great honor and privilege to serve as governor," Daniel said to a joint session of senators and representatives in his final legislative appearance after six years in office.

"On Jan. 1, I shall be succeeded by a man who has every qualification for an able chief executive. Although I offered for another term . . . I never doubted John Connally's ability to make Texas a distinguished governor. I merely doubted his timing."

"Since his election, I have cooperated in every way to make the transition helpful and pleasant. I shall leave with no lingering disappointment or regrets, because I am a strong believer in the decisions of the majority of the people," Daniel said.

Daniel, who after Jan. 15, becomes a practicing attorney with offices in downtown Austin, reviewed his tenure as governor. He made his recommendations for the 1964-65 state budget, as required by law, and added a number of other recommendations for improvement of state government.

"To put it briefly, the condition of our state is excellent," Daniel said. "We are enjoying a rate of growth and prosperity unmatched in our history, and it presents a real challenge for those in state and local government to keep pace and chart the course for continued progress."

Daniel's recommendations were made in a 190-page book presented each legislator. The slick paper document had an attractive maroon hard cover binding with gold imprinting. It contained numerous photographs and charts.

The favorable aspects of his report, he said, include:

"The condition of state finances is far better than I have been able to report to a legislature in four years" with an estimate of a $10 million balance in the general revenue fund at the end of this fiscal year, Aug. 31, 1963.

"We have one of the most economically administered state governments. On a per capita basis, our state taxes are less than any of our neighboring states and a total of 36 states have higher per capita tax rates."

The unfavorable side, he said, concerns mostly the fields of law enforcement and taxation.

He recommended a number of law enforcement measures "with special emphasis on the need for small loan regulation, enactment of the law enforcement study commission proposals, general improvements in the criminal code and code of criminal procedure, improved election laws and appropriations for an adequate juvenile parole program."

He repeated his recent budget recommendations for spending of a total of $3.1 billion the next two years with income to be augmented by increased state college tuition and an extension of present state franchise tax rates.

"If the recommendations of the commission on higher education are followed both as to increased appropriations and tuition, and if the present rate of the corporation franchise tax is continued one additional year, there will be sufficient funds to finance the entire budget without any new taxes," Daniel said.

Patient At State Hospital Year's First Traffic Victim

George Klingman, 64, Big Spring State Hospital patient, became Howard County's No. 1 traffic fatality for 1963 at 7:20 a.m. today when he was run over by a gasoline transport truck.

Mr. Klingman was crossing US 87 in front of the hospital. The driver of the truck, travelling south, tried to stop but could not bring the big truck-tractor to a halt in time to miss the elderly man.

The wheels on the truck locked and after Mr. Klingman had been knocked down, the vehicle ran over him.

A Nalley-Pickle ambulance took him to Cowper Hospital but he was dead on arrival. Highway Patrol Officers Arvin Henry and John Smith investigated the accident.

The officers reported the truck was driven by Hurshel A. Oden, 59, Levelland, who was alone in the big vehicle travelling south. At a point .4 of a mile north of the city limits at the first gate of the hospital, Oden saw the elderly Klingman start across the southbound lane. He said he applied his brakes and the truck skidded to the left of the road. He could not stop in time to evade hitting Klingman.

Walter Grice, justice of the peace, investigated the mishap and said the ruling would have to be death due to mishap.

Body of the victim was removed to the Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home. State Hospital officials notified Mr. Klingman's relatives in San Angelo.

Johnson Funeral Home, San Angelo, notified Nalley-Pickle the body would be removed from Big Spring to San Angelo. Services are to be held from the Johnson Funeral Home. Arrangements were incomplete this morning.

He was greeted on arrival by Col. Wilson H. Banks, Webb commander (left). Rear Admiral Frank A. Brandley, chief of Naval Aviation Advanced Training, Corpus Christi Naval Base, joined Admiral Lee for the briefing. The party was to leave Webb this afternoon.

Tiny Capsules Will Decide Terms For Legislators

AUSTIN (AP) — A handful of tiny capsules will decide the terms of office today for Texas' 31 state senators.

Each senator will file past the presiding officer's chair, draw an envelope containing the capsule and announce the number inside.

If the number is even, the senator will hold a two-year term; if it is odd, he will be one of 16 due to serve four years.

A resolution adopted Tuesday directed the Senate secretary, under supervision of a five-man committee, to prepare the capsules and slips of paper, numbered 1-31.

Passage of a redistricting bill in the last regular session made it necessary for all 31 senators to run for office in the last election.

Normally, only half the Senate is elected every two years and all serve four-year terms.

The drawing was the only major item on the Senate calendar for the day. Most business must wait until after Preston Smith takes his oath of office as lieutenant governor Tuesday and committees are appointed.

After the drawing, the Senate adjourned to meet in joint session with the House and hear Gov. Price Daniel speak.

Daniel's office said in advance his speech would be brief but would include recommendations besides those in his $3.1 billion budget.

He estimated in the budget message that state operations could be held at present levels with a few improvements, particularly among state colleges, without additional taxes.

However, Daniel based his budget forecast on acceptance by the legislature of his suggestion that state college tuition be doubled to $100 a semester and a so-called temporary increase in state franchise taxes be extended.

The House, after the 141-9 election of Rep. Byron Tunnell of Tyler as speaker Tuesday, prepared to get down to the business of lawmaking earlier than at any session in many years.

Tunnell, a conservative, met only token opposition from Rep. John Alaniz of San Antonio, a liberal.

Several months ago the Tyler representative said he had about 130 pledges of support from the 150 House members. With his election virtually assured so far in advance, most observers expected speedy appointment of committees and possibly the announcement of some assignments as early as Thursday.

Tunnell also beat down easily an attempt to defeat his recommended set of rules. The vote was 113-34. His proposed rules, under which the House operated in the last session, call for 43 committees.

Reps. C. W. Pearcy of Temple and Bob Eckhardt of Houston failed in efforts to win adoption of rules written by the last legislature for the present session.

These rules would have limited the number of committees to 25 and would have allowed senior members some power to choose committee assignments.

The only item on the House agenda for the day was the joint session.

Club Planning Base Meeting

President Ben Johnson told Rotarians Tuesday that the Jan. 22 meeting would be held at the Webb AFB Officers Club in keeping with the once - a - year policy to visit the base. He also announced a dinner meeting of the board of directors at Coker's Restaurant at 6 p.m. Monday.

Elmo Wasson, January program chairman, introduced Tom Loughrey, Abilene, field supervisor for Trezevant & Cochran, Dallas insurance brokers, who explained the structure of the basic fire insurance policies, including extended coverage.

He also went into detail on how to file a claim for damage from fire, or from other acts.

Loughrey advised all insurance policy holders, especially home owners, to keep an itemized inventory of everything in the home, to be used by the claim agent in case of a loss.

"The present day home owners policy, which covers loss by fire, theft, and other damage, plus personal liability, is one of the safer methods of protection known today," he said. "The policy even includes an adjustable cost of living clause in case a person has to move into a hotel if his home is burned. This would pay the difference between the average cost of living in the home, and the cost in a hotel, including meals."

The speaker advised every one to take stock of his insurance and to consult with his agent on whether or not he had the best available insurance policies on home or property.

Appropriations Axes Are Honed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democratic and Republican leaders of the House Appropriations Committee honed their axes today in anticipation of receiving a $99-billion budget from President Kennedy late this month.

They set their sights on deep cuts, as high as $10 billion.

Chairman Clarence Cannon, D-Mo., said: "It seems to me to be a little impractical to propose such an impressive budget and at the same time suggest tax cuts when we already face a huge deficit."

"We expect to cut it as deep as we can and at every opportunity," Cannon said.

Rep. Ben F. Jensen of Iowa, senior Republican on Cannon's committee, called the budget proposal "ridiculous."

DEAR ABBY

Forget Stars, Find Him Quick!

DEAR ABBY: A very well-to-do retired gentleman has been dating me off and on for three years. He finally asked me to marry him. I didn't want to seem too anxious although I am no spring chicken myself. I went to my fortune teller and told her all about him. She said my horoscope was not in favor of marrying a redhead, and also my stars warned me against marrying this year. She said my stars would be different next year and I should wait. I told this man what my fortune teller told me and I haven't heard from him since. I really should have grabbed him. What should I do now?

GEMINI

DEAR GEMINI: CALL HIM! Maybe you can still get another crack at him—if he isn't already married to your fortune teller.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been making a habit of taking his secretary to lunch every day. She is a young married woman with marriage problems and has been crying on my husband's shoulder. Now I am not saying there is anything going on between them, but I do not like the talk it's been causing. I told my husband I wanted him to stop this, but he says she pays for her own lunch so there is nothing wrong with it. Can you advise me?

NEEDS AN OPINION

DEAR NEEDS: The way to a man's heart is not always through his stomach. It can be through his shoulder, moistened with tears. Tell your husband that he is neither a Dear Abby nor a Father Confessor to his secretary. If you value your marriage, Madam, break up the luncheon dates. They can result in marital indigestion.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am 11 years old and have been going steady with a girl on my block. She is 9. She gave me her telescope and I gave her my frog. She's got awful bossy lately and I want to break off with her. How can I do it? WANTS TO BE FREE

DEAR WANTS: Return her telescope and tell her you want your frog back. She'll probably jump at the chance to be free, too. Hurry before the frog croaks. (You know how girls are.)

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I never had a dog when I was young because my mother was one of those crazy clean housekeepers who wouldn't put up with one. I am a mother myself now (our baby is 13 months old) and my husband and I are going to see to it that our child is raised with a pet. We have heard it is a good idea to get a puppy and let it grow up with the baby. Others say to get an older dog. Which is better?

PET SHOPPING

DEAR SHOPPING: Contrary to popular opinion it is unwise and often inhumane to match up a small puppy (or kitten) with a very young child. Older and more placid animals are better for small children.

Compact Cars Not New; They're Olds

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—This is the car the public wants—"small, compact and simple in construction."

By the turn of this phrase, you might guess George Romney was putting forth a super-sales pitch for the Rambler, built by American Motors Corporation.

But, it was the turn of the century.

And the speaker at the Detroit Auto Show of 1903 was the original "compact" car man, Ransom E. Olds.

This horseless carriage was really compact—two seats.

The compact car idea put new life in American Motors Corporation of the 1950s.

Look what the compact car, or Runabout, did to Olds Motor Works, Inc., during the rutty road days: Production in 1901—425 cars. Output in 1902—2,500 cars. Production in 1903 — 4,000 cars.

For three years the nation's leading automaker was Olds.

Stock values of his company quadrupled.

It was all because of the curved dash Olds, the popular name for the ancestor of Corvair, Falcon, Rambler, Lark.

The story od Olds and his compact cars has emerged after half a century as a history written by a member of the faculty at Michigan State University.

The historian is Dr. Glenn Niemeyer, who used Olds as the basis for his doctoral theseis.

Niemeyer's sources were forgotten manuscripts and newspapers at the automotive history collection in the Detroit Public Library, the Valuable Manuscript Collection at MSU, private papers and talks with those who knew Olds.

The curved dash Olds, weighing about 800 pounds, had evolved from the automaker's earlier efforts with a three-wheeled, 1,500-pound gas buggy, Niemeyer reported.

The compact Olds was developed in the fall of 1900, a year after Olds moved operations from Lansing to Detroit.

Prior to 1901, Olds had been building several bigger models. A fire burned the factory in March, 1901, and only the compact survived.

When the company rebuilt, Olds concentrated on the curved dash and forgot the other models.

Yet, while sales climbed, Olds came into conflict with the firm's chief investor, Frederick Smith.

Smith claimed there was a rising demand for more passenger capacity than the Runabout offered.

Olds held out for the "buggy without a horse concept," in line with the curved dash that sold for $650. He lost his position as vice president and general manager at the 1904 election of the board of directors.

Later in the year, Olds formed the R. E. Olds Co. which later became Reo Motor Car Co. General Motors Corp. absorbed the Olds in 1908.

Credited with inspiring the auto industry to build for the mass market, Olds retired in 1905 at 41. He lived to be 86, dying in 1950, the author of a concept that still is proving good.

Finnish Blast Leaves 7 Missing

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — An explosion in a nitrogen-fixation factory in central Finland Tuesday night injured four men critically and left seven others missing and believed dead.

The blast at Oulu destroyed an eight-story structure and heavily damaged nearby buildings, police reported.

Four-Year College Regulation In Bill

AUSTIN (AP) — Sen. W. T. Moore of Bryan says he will introduce legislation requiring a vote of the people before a four year state - supported college can be created.

Moore, a long - time opponent of creating more four year state colleges, said he will introduce a constitutional amendment which, if accepted by the voters, would require another amendment before a college is brought into the state system.

His filibuster in a special session was a major factor in the death of bills to make San Angelo Junior College and Pan American College in Edinburg four year state-supported schools.

Moore also said he will introduce a measure which would repeal the state law which gives justices of the peace power to hold courts of inquiry.

British Farmers Face Big Change

LONDON (AP)—If Britain enters the European common market British agriculture must adjust almost overnight from low prices plus farmer subsidies to high prices protected by tariffs and variable levies.

Britain says it is ready to do that. The questions holding up negotiations are: How and when?

Britain says the change-over must be gradual so as not to hurt farmers or force a catastrophic leap in food prices. The six common market members—France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg — say no extension of their own transition period (running till 1970) can be permitted.

Britain must obey the rules from the moment of joining. Besides, say the six, British agriculture is more advanced than that of the continent, so no special treatment is called for.

BANS SUBSIDIES

The market's system bans the protective subsidies paid to British producers. Instead, it offers duties and levies so as to raise internal market prices to levels high enough to be judged profitable to farmers.

The common market system is somewhat similar to that in the United States. The governments support prices through purchases when necessary and control imports so they cannot undermine home prices.

In all six countries subsidies exist in one form or another on certain products. These guaranteed prices must disappear by Jan. 1, 1970.

In France the price of all grains and wines is guaranteed.

West Germany has indirect subsidies for grains by means of transport bonuses. Italy pays similar transport bonuses on fruits and vegetables destined for export.

Belgium subsidizes milk, and also fruit and vegetables in some regions. The Dutch subsidize milk and butter.

BRITISH METHOD

Britain, an off-shore island with a traditional cheap food policy, allows free imports and lets home prices drop to world levels. Then the government gives farmers a cash subsidy—called a deficiency payment—to make up the difference between average market prices and a mutually agreed target price.

The price control program in the common agricultural market aims at gradual price harmonization so that the six farming systems will operate as one integrated market by 1970. Foodstuffs too plentiful or too scarce in one member country will be sent flowing to another. What is not needed will be channeled to the rest of the world under strict controls.

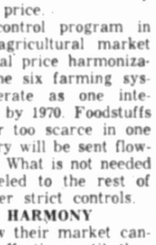

PRICE HARMONY

The six know their market cannot be fully effective until they have achieved price harmony among themselves. Their reluctance to make concessions to Britain is probably based on the fear that their own delicately balanced structure might break down if such a big new member got advantages they do not themselves enjoy.

In the background is the effect the common market may have on U.S. farmers. These countries now buy a third of U.S. farm exports sold for dollars.

U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman said recently that the unity of the free world is threatened by agricultural policies being developed in the common market area. He said the United States faces possible loss of vital markets, and believes the policies involved go counter to American efforts to promote freer world trade.

PRAYING FOR ALL MEN

By T. H. Tarbet, Preacher
Church of Christ, 3900 West Highway 80

"I exhort therefore, that, first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men; for kings, and for all that are in authority; that we may lead a quiet and peaceful life in all godliness and honesty" (I Tim. 2:1, 2).

Here we are told to pray for all men; and specifically to pray for the rulers of the lands; and the prayers of the righteous will avail much (Jas. 5:16).

We should pray for "all that are in authority", not just our own leaders.

In commanding us to pray for all men, the Lord has commanded us to pray even for our enemies. In fact he specifically said we are to do so. He said, "But I say unto you; love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you" (Mat. 5:44).

This is a difficult thing to do; but when we see it done it is a very beautiful thing; and it is the real test of one's unselfishness and love.

Overcrowded Schools Cited In Grid Riot

WASHINGTON (AP)—A special committee reports that the capital's Thanksgiving Day football riot was "a serious racial conflict" brewed in what it calls an overcrowded public school system with lax discipline and a pattern of violence and lawlessness.

This situation, plus the frustration of defeat in a championship high school football game, resulted in "pitting of angry Negroes against whites," the report said.

This was the unanimous verdict Tuesday of an 11-member committee of Negroes and whites after a five-week investigation of a riot at the city title game.

Over 50,000 persons attended the game at D.C. Stadium, in which the predominantly white St. John's team defeated the predominantly Negro team from Eastern High School.

MANY INJURED

More than 42 persons were treated for injuries suffered in the fighting that began in the stadium spilled out into the parking lots and spread over the surrounding neighborhood.

Police have said that scores of others nursed their injuries in quiet without reporting them.

The committee, headed by Dr. Shane MacCarthy, former head of President Dwight D. Eisenhower's Council on Youth Fitness, had been directed by school Superintendent Carl F. Hansen to make a complete study of the riot and its probable cause.

The report said "the hoodlums who went on a rampage at the stadium would have attacked supporters of any victorious team, including a predominantly Negro one, as they have in the past without interference."

The result however, the report said, was a racial incident that damaged relations in the city between Negroes and white persons.

HOODLUM ELEMENTS

The committee said testimony had shown "administrative lack of control over hoodlum elements in the school system and a deteriorating condition in mass audience events outside of the school buildings.

"Fear rages through many school buildings which have become trampling grounds for outside influences, including thugs, hoodlums and persons of the lowest character."

The report said the basic causes went back to the problems of the school system.

In recent years, MacCarthy said, the District of Columbia school system had been swamped by "the rapid growth in numbers of Negro pupils, many with low mental ratings, coupled with increasing crowding of facilities."

Negroes now make up about 75 per cent of the pupils in Washington's public schools.

Inauguration Crowd Strains Housing

AUSTIN (AP) — Visitors planning to attend the inaugural Tuesday of Gov.-elect John Connally and Lieut. Gov.-elect Preston Smith are planning original approaches to solve their housing problems.

Hotel and motel rooms in the capital have been filled for some time, the Austin inaugural committee said.

One group is planning to live in a fleet of Pullman cars; others have rented new apartments for a month; and still others are renting and bringing their own house trailers, the committee said.

The inaugural crowd is expected to be one of the largest in Texas history.

Odessa Laborer Beaten To Death

ODESSA (AP) — A laborer was found beaten to death behind a police pistol range Tuesday and officers arrested a man they said admitted the slaying.

The victim was Ralph Searcey, 46. Police said he had been dead 12 to 24 hours.

Five hours after the body was found by a patrolman, officers took a man into custody. They said he admitted hitting Searcey with a jack handle.

Less Wheat Land Idled

WASHINGTON (AP)— Growers of winter wheat have signed agreements to take about half as much land out of production in 1963 as they idled in 1962 under a federal grain surplus reduction program.

Final reports of the Agriculture Department showed today that 5,219,140 acres of land alloted under a control program for winter wheat for 1963 harvest had been or will be retired from harvest and put to soil conservation use.

This compared with 11,153,822 acres of winter wheat hand diverted under a 1962 program. A sign-up for spring wheat will be conducted during the late winter.

Under the program last year, farmers were required to take at least 10 per cent of their allotment out of use. In return, they were eligible for government price supports and payments on the idled land.

Under the 1963 program, retirement of wheat land was voluntary —a factor contributing largely to the smaller diverted acreage. Those who do idle at least 10 per cent of the 1963 allotments will be eligible for price supports at $1.82 a bushel, a payment of 18 cents a bushel on the normal production of the land kept in wheat and a payment on the idled acres.

Mexican Labor Chieftains Laud Alliance Program

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A group of speakers representing many of Mexico's powerful labor organizations has praised President John F. Kennedy's alliance for progress as a "peaceful revolution which will set free from misery the needy classes of Latin America."

Roberto Arellano Bonilla of the InterAmerican Regional Labor Organization said the Mexican revolution and the alliance for progress are after the same "social justice ideals."

Other speakers also praised the alliance plans, as "giving hope" to the future of this hemisphere.

East Highway Paving Costs Are Approved

Widening and repaving East Third and East Fourth streets, from Union to Tulane, will begin in the near future if bids are accepted by the Texas Highway Department Jan. 25. The department has requested payment of $22,844 by the City of Big Spring for curb and gutter on the two streets. Payment was approved by the city commission at Tuesday night's meeting.

The commission, in other business, heard a request for street lights on Baylor Boulevard; approved purchase of a new car for the building inspector to replace one damaged in a collision two weeks ago; approved an ordinance on final reading rezoning Tract 34 in the William B. Currie Addition from general residence to neighborhood service; directed an ordinance drawn annexing property adjoining the new IH 20 bypass west of the city; heard a report on the traffic signal at Marcy and Birdwell Lane, and discussed an ordinance clarifying wrecker towing service for the police department.

AGREEMENT

The commission authorized Mayor George Zachariah to sign an agreement between the City of Big Spring and the Texas Highway Department for payment of the curb and gutter cost. Property owners will be assessed on a front-foot basis and will repay the city in the amount of $22,011.

The highway department will also pave Tulane, between Third and Fourth, in the contract, but will not improve Birdwell Lane. Engineers had approved the Birdwell paving but the highway department's legal department ruled that such work would be in violation of state law, since the street was not a designated highway.

Purchase of a car to replace the one damaged in a collision two weeks ago was authorized. Cost, including $384.12 trade-in of the damaged vehicle, will be $1,556.73. Shasta Ford Sales has the car in stock.

BIDS

Informal bids were taken from four automobile dealers on the car. Some did not have cars in stock and some did not meet requirements. Other bids were received from Jones Motor Co., Pollard Chevrolet, and McDonald Motor Co.

John M. Little Jr., president of College Park Development Co., appeared before the commission to discuss a former commitment to light Baylor Blvd. The commission, after hearing a discussion of the city's growing street lighting problems, told Little that at least some lighting would be placed on Baylor in the near future and increased as development grew, since it had been designated as a thoroughfare and paved to extra width.

Bruce Frazier presented a preliminary plat of land west of the city on which development is pending, requesting annexation. He told the commission that a 76-unit motel was being considered if the area is annexed and water made available. An ordinance was authorized to annex an area from the present city limits to the Halliburton property.

INDUSTRY

Frazier told the commission that he was trying to get industrial development in the area and that further annexation might be requested in the future. The area will be known as "Industrial West" Addition.

City Manager Larry Crow told the commission that the traffic signal, authorized for Birdwell Lane and Marcy, had arrived and was being installed. He said electrician Roy Rogan would have the signal operating by late Wednesday. The light will be operated by activators in the traffic lanes on Birdwell and may be hand operated by push button for foot traffic. Warning signals on Marcy, where a 60-mile-an-hour speed limit now exists, will be installed to slow traffic approaching the light.

Crow and Police Chief Jay Banks told the commission that complaints had been received concerning wrecker service in the city. A city ordinance was adopted last year setting up requirements for wrecker service and storage of cars towed off the streets.

FOLLOWED RULES

"We have stayed strictly with the ordinance," Banks said, "but we still get some unwarranted complaints. The ordinance says we must use wrecker service on a rotating basis and that, if a call is made for a wrecker and we fail to locate one, we must call the other. This we have done. We have asked for an amendment to the ordinance setting out clarification."

Banks also pointed out that drivers of vehicles had first choice on wrecker companies. If they have no choice, police call the wrecker firm designated for the week.

Feb. Hearing Set By NLRB

The National Labor Relations Board has set Feb. 26 as the date of a hearing in Big Spring on a complaint alleging that the Coca Cola Bottling Company here failed to bargain with the International Union of Operating Engineers.

The NLRB complaint was the result of charges filed by Local 826 of IUOE (AFL-CIO).

The Local contends that as a result of an election conducted here June 29, 1962 by the NLRB, Local 826 was designated as the bargaining agency.

In addition to claiming that the company had refused to bargain collectively with Local 826, the complaint alleges that the company did not intend to bargain; that employes "had been threatened with economic reprisals if they became or remained members of Local 826"; that company supervisors "engaged in surveillance of meetings of Local 826." No formal reply was issued.

Company representatives, union representatives and others will have an opportunity to testify in the hearing which will be held at the Howard County Courthouse. On the basis of the hearing, an NLRB examiner will return a finding. This may be appealed by either side to the national level. Once there has been a final determination, the matter is settled unless either side elects to appeal in federal courts.

In proceedings, the NLRB lists Jack Roden, manager, as the local representative of the company, and Roger Brown as its attorney here. Local 826 has been represented by D. A. Brazel, international representative of IUOE, by Frank Parker, IUOE business representative; and by Group Chairman Darrell Gaskins and Group Secretary Geral Bennett. The NLRB complaint on which the hearing will be held was signed by Elmer Davis, NLRB regional director at Fort Worth.

Sheffield Loses Appeal To Court

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals upheld today for the second time the conviction of Brady land promoter B. R. Sheffield, found guilty on charges stemming from the Texas veterans land scandals.

Sheffield was convicted of passing a forged document to the Veterans Land Board in 1954 and was sentenced to six years in prison.

It Now Takes Nickel Stamp

The absent-minded coterie was getting in its licks Tuesday and Wednesday—the folk who always forget were forgetting to put an extra penny postage on the letters they were dropping into the post office slot.

"We must have had at least 200 letters Tuesday with four cents postage instead of five cents," observed A. A. Porter, assistant postmaster.

"The patrons getting the letters will have to make up the difference. And if they won't we'll have to send them back to the original senders or, if no return address is on the envelope, to the deadletter office."

Monday, according to E. C. Boatler, postmaster, most of the mail was adequately stamped. Then, when Tuesday rolled around, it seemed many persons forgot the higher cost in mail rates.

Meantime, a brisk sale of one-cent stamps continues at the office. Apparently there were thousands of four cent stamps in the hands of the patrons and the rush for one-centers is to make these stamps useable under the new rates.

Folk who were prepared for the change are stocking up on the new five cent issue, Porter said.

Leonard To Get Second Implant

Arthur Leonard was flown to Houston Tuesday evening to undergo a second cornea implant operation.

When Leonard learned that the cornea was available and the operation set up for Wednesday, Lester Morton, president, First National Bank president, made the bank's plane available for the flight to Houston. Leonard entered Memorial Hospital there.

This will be the second attempt to transplant a good cornea. Last year the operation appeared successful, but several weeks later a complication developed and the transplant did not take.

Empire State Building Is Hit By Blaze

NEW YORK (AP)— A troublesome fire whipped through a pipe shaft running the height of the 102-story Empire State Building today, shooting flames into offices an eighth of a mile above the ground.

Firemen closed two floors of the building—the world's tallest— as they continued finding and fighting smouldering blazes. No injuries were reported.

Police Blotter Has Light Report

One minor accident, selling magazines without a permit, vandalism, and runaways, were listed on the police activity sheet during the past 24 hours.

Drivers of vehicles involved in a collision at Third and Runnels were Cleve Dwane Myrick and Marvin Eugene Stewart, 1205 College. There were no injuries.

Three men were arrested at Douglas and West Seventh Tuesday afternoon for selling magazines without a permit.

Oakey Hagood, 701 Highland, reported the windshield broken from his car while it was on the high school parking lot.

A man requested police Tuesday to apprehend his son and a girl companion if located. The girl was reported as a runaway and the caller said he believed the couple was on their way to be married.

New Building Is Dedicated

George Zachariah, mayor, snips the ribbon across the doorway of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association building, officially putting the edifice into service. Looking on at the left is Robert Stripling, secretary-treasurer, and Roy Reeder, right, past president of the Chamber of Commerce as well as a number of well-wishers on hand for the open house.

Big Crowds Visiting New Plant Of First Federal

Initial day of First Federal Savings and Loan Association's two day open house to display its new home was well under way Wednesday morning.

From the time Mayor George Zachariah snipped the broad white ribbon which barred the vast front entrance, a steady throng of citizens paraded through the luxuriously furnished rooms of the big building.

The open house goes through two days and Robert Stripling, secretary-treasurer, said that if the first day's attendance is a guidemark, most of Howard County's residents will have seen the building by the time the dedication is over.

Members of the Ambassador's Club of the Chamber of Commerce served as reception committee. Refreshments were served and souvenir ballpoint pens were given visitors.

Two drawings, one each day, will be held and $1,100 in savings accounts will be presented to those whose names are drawn. Half of the 40 gift accounts will be awarded today and half Thursday.

The architects, Howard Schmidt and John Stuart, Lubbock, presented the officers and the directors with gold keys, each inscribed with the officials' name. Dr. P. D. O'Brien spoke the invocation.

R. L. Cook, president, and Stripling urged all residents to visit the new building.

Preliminary Budget Plans Made Tuesday

Eighteen department heads of the City of Big Spring met with City Manager Larry Crow Tuesday afternoon for a briefing on budget requirements for the next fiscal year. Plan sheets were distributed, along with tentative estimates of available funds for each department.

"We will have, according to present estimates, $1,249,750 in the general fund, and approximately $708,000 in the water and sewer fund," Crow said. The total will be around $53,758 above the current year's money.

"One of the things we have to consider during 1963 will be additional firemen to man two new stations and equipment. Some of these men will have to be employed early for training, and others will be employed later in the year as the stations are completed and equipped," he continued. "This will absorb about all the difference."

Crow said no tax rate increase and no service charge increases are anticipated. The exact assessed valuation will not be known until later when assessments are completed.

Each department head was handed several budget estimate sheets to be completed by Jan. 22. He will then meet with the city manager to discuss the estimates listed and agreements will be reached on figures to be presented to the city commission.

"Except in rare occasions, where an employe deserves a salary increase through advancement or more efficient production, there will be no salary increases this year," Crow said.

The city manager also said sheets were included to list supplies, equipment, and capital outlays, for each department.

"If the amount tentatively allocated to your department is not sufficient to meet your needs, make a separate estimate showing what you need and we will try to help you work it out," he continued.

The current general fund estimate for the budget was $1,195,992 as compared to the new figure of $1,249,750. The water and sewer fund estimate of $708,000 is below the current year's estimate of $719,000.

More Banquet Tickets Sold

Persons intending to go to the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet Friday night are urged to get their reservations in as soon as possible to make planning easier, according to Carroll Davidson, Chamber manager.

"We need to know how many persons are going so we can plan for seating and the meal," he pointed out.

About 650 persons are expected to attend. Reservations this morning totaled 438, an increase of 52 from Tuesday's noon figure.

The banquet will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Goliad Junior High School gymnasium. Tickets are available at the Chamber for $3.50 each. Reservations may be made by phone by calling AM 4-4641.

Dr. Charles W. Jarvis, a dentist from San Marcos and well-known after-dinner speaker, will be guest speaker for the event. He arrives here Friday about 4 p.m. by private plane.

In addition to a report on 1962 activities of the Chamber, the outstanding young man of the year chosen by the Junior Chamber of Commerce will be revealed. Jaycee president Wayne Graham will award him the Distinguished Service Award.

Optimists Hear Talk On Youth

Members of the Big Spring Optimist Club this morning were informed of problems of mental health and especially those relating to boys. Dr. Paul C. Young, chief psychologist at the Big Spring State Hospital, spoke on this subject at the breakfast meeting of the club at the Wagon Wheel Restaurant.

Sixteen Optimists were present. C. B. Andries, instrument engineer for Cosden Petroleum Corp., was a guest.

The Optimist board of directors met Tuesday morning in a planning session for 1963. They tentatively set the annual bicycle inspection made by club members for April and briefly discussed plans for the Pony League baseball team sponsored each summer. A committee was also appointed to check into work which the club can do on the North Side.

The Common Market Is Topic For Discussion

Mrs. J. T. Anderson Sr. spoke to the 1955 Hyperion Club on "The Common Market," discussing its organization and telling how women should be educated as to its effect on the nation. Her talk was made Tuesday afternoon in a meeting held at the home of Mrs. Travis Carlton. Cohostesses were Mrs. L. D. Harris and Mrs. Russell Hoover.

"It has been said repeatedly that women hold the purse strings in this country. Since women are the principal buyers of goods they need to understand the importance of trade in our everyday lives," Mrs. Anderson said.

"We know that the more our country exports, the better for everyone, but we must also understand the value of imports to ourselves as well," she continued. "Imports can make a great contribution to the consumer, not only by reducing prices but by giving us a greater freedom of choice."

Mrs. Anderson discussed the inadequacy of the country's reciprocal trade agreement act as it stands today. Also she told of what is being done by the President and his economic advisers to meet the needs faced by this country to increase economic growth in this new era in trade brought on by the growth of the common market.

A new member, Mrs. Walter Wheat, was received by the club, and members voted to give to the March of Dimes. A letter was read from Capt. and Mrs. Barker, formerly of Webb AFB, now stationed in Germany.

A Common Interest

Girl Scouting For The Future Topic Of Talk

"Keep Girl Scouting new and keep it exciting" was the advice offered to members of the West Texas Girl Scout Council when Miss Pat Twiss spoke to them Tuesday morning at the Cosden Country Club.

Introduced by Mrs. E. H. Hamilton, Miss Twiss, assistant director of Region 9, Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., pointed out that the Girl Scout of today will be the leader of 2030. "Today's adult leaders are instructing Brownies who will probably live in the year 2030; today's adults are those making the happy resourceful citizens for the 21st Century," she said.

A program planned in the year 1912 is obsolete and inadequate, according to the speaker who told of the tremendous growth and the constant change within the organization.

A solution to problems means to change, which could affect millions of girls and adults, Miss Twiss explained. She urged Council members to examine their vested interests, while considering proposed changes in the Scouting program. The many pattern changes would include open-end troops, where girls would enter and leave a troop according to her age; leader level changes; new badges; new concept of progressiveness, ranks, etc.

She concluded her talk by saying that the organization knew where it was going, and that after looking at Girl Scouting objectively, there is a logical solution in the proposed projected program.

The annual meeting of the Council, welcomed by Mayor George Zachariah, also included the presentation of awards by Ann Howard and other members of Girl Scout Troop 300. Those honored were Dan Conley and Dr. J. C. Shipman of Abilene, both receiving statuettes; Mrs. Morgan Jones Jr., receiving a badge of thanks; and Mrs. W. A. Stephens, a badge of thanks.

Johnnie Ammons served as master of ceremonies, and Dan Conley was introduced as the annual meeting chairman. Mrs. Larson Lloyd, former Girl Scout director introduced the board of directors and neighborhood chairmen who were installed by Conley.

After a flag ceremony presented by Troop 300, prayer was offered by Curtis Camp, Church of Christ minister.

Luncheon was served to approximately 120 members and guests. Tables, decorated by Troops 299 and 424, featured the blue and gold motif. A gilded tree filled with Girl Scout and international friendship pins centered the main table. Other decorations were dolls and flags of all nations and the Girl Scout emblems placed at intervals on the tables.

The lodge charter was draped for the late Mrs. Odessa Baker, whose death occurred in December. Taking part in the ritual, directed by the funeral marshal, Mrs. Leon Cole, were Mrs. John Cate, chaplain; Mrs. H. F. Jarrett, Mrs. Jones Lamar, Mrs. Homer Petty, Mrs. Ray S. Doty, Mrs. Elmo Martin, Mrs. Laverne Rogers, Mrs. Garland Land, Mrs. Morgan Martin, pianist, and Mrs. Irene Dempsey.

A report was heard of lodge participation in the state hospital Christmas party. A letter from Mrs. Hila Weathers was read urging representation at the Volunteer Council meeting in Ward 8 at the state hospital Jan. 18.

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Robertson to 36 members. Mrs. Jake Robertson and Mrs. Emily Palmer assisted.

On Tuesday evening, Jan. 15, Mrs. H. C. Burnam, district deputy president of Stanton Rebekah Lodge No. 287, and her staff will install officers for the ensuing term. Mrs. Elmo Martin will take office as noble grand and Mrs. Ray S. Doty, vice grand.

Cougars Maul Steers For Initial Victory

The Cougars of Abilene Cooper High School stuck to the Big Spring Steers like fly paper on defense and cut loose with some uncanny shooting from all over the court to win a 57-49 District 2-AAAA basketball decision here Tuesday night.

The defeat was the third straight in district play for Big Spring and served to hammer the Longhorns deeper into the league cellar. Cooper, co-incidently, was winning its first conference joust in three starts.

This was far and away the worst defeat the Steers have experienced in league competition they could never do much about solving the Cougars' full-court press but that was only part of the story of defeat. Cooper consistently outrebounded the locals.

The visitors used a two-platoon system to good advantage and nine of the ten Cougars who saw action broke into the scoring column.

Three of the Cooper team hit in double figures. Roy McCharen led the way with 13 points while Don Herttenberger had 11 and Don Ray ten.

The game's top point getter, however, was Big Spring's Eddy Nelson, who connected for 23 points, including five from the free throw line. Nelson missed seven other gratis pitches.

The Steers led, 13-9, at one stage and boosted a 17-13 advantage at the end of the opening period but Cooper took complete charge thereafter, outscoring the Steers in the second round, 19-7.

Big Spring registered 17 points in the third period to 16 for the visitors and cut the Cougars' advantage to three points on one occasion but the Cougars were up to the challenge and kept pulling away.

None of the Steers was in danger of fouling out and Cooper lost only one player on infractions. He was Jack Striplin, who departed with only seconds left in the game.

Cooper's B team also won, 54-50. The Cougar reserves built up a 49-36 advantage at the end of Round Three but the Steers staged a rally in the final eight minutes that almost paid off.

Keith Bristow, deadly from the free throw line, led Big Spring in scoring with 18 points while Joe Rattir followed with ten.

Cooper was paced by Mike Simmons, who also tossed in 18. He was the only visitor in double figures.

WOULDN'T KILL SPORT

Committee In New York Could Ban Fight Game

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The Joint Legislative Committee on Boxing in New York is investigating the sport to determine whether it should be banned in the Empire State.

In the past, the outlawing of boxing in New York, where Madison Square Garden was the mecca of the game, would have had catastrophic effect.

That's no longer true. There's no question that such a move would seriously damage boxing financially and in prestige. The repercussions could be severe.

But it would not kill boxing nor would it prevent boxing from being seen in New York. The reason is television.

Home television or theatre-television provides the big money today for the major championship fights.

It's also one of the key reasons why most championship fights are now held out of New York.

Few TV sponsors will stand for a blackout of New York, which provides about 25 per cent of the lushest market in the country.

In boxing there aren't too many attractions worthy of closed circuit hookups. The Sonny Liston-Floyd Patterson heavyweight title fight at Chicago last Sept. 25 was a multi-million dollar bonanza. But after that one-round quickie, how can they sell the proposed return?

But while television has shown its potential to make the big buck and spread the gospel of the game, it also has been mainly responsible for the killing off of most of the small clubs — the spawning grounds of boxers.

As a result the network television shows — once seen on five nights a week — rubbed out one small club after another. Now network boxing is down to one program a week — Saturday night — but the damage has been done.

Some of these small clubs may have died off anyway because of general television, the rise of other professional sports, the military draft, and better times.

In an effort to build up boxing again, Madison Square Garden, which has the contract for the Saturday night programs — in September it will be back on Friday nights, as it used to be — is plowing some of its television money back into small clubs.

For the last two years, the Garden boxing department, headed by Harry Markson, has been subsidizing small clubs at a cost of about $100,000 a year.

Hawks Fashion 94-64 Victory Over Pioneers

HCJC's basketball legions whacked the Lubbock Christian College Pioneers but good here Tuesday night, winning by a margin of 94-64.

The triumph was the second in three Western Conference starts for the Big Springers. Overall, the locals are 16-3. They return to action against the same team in Lubbock Friday night.

The provincials jumped out into an early lead and were in charge at half time, 43-24. Only one of the Christians, Stan Lynch, hit in double figures. He had 15.

Conroy Lacy, enjoying his best game since he donned HCJC colors, led the Hawks in scoring with 26 points. Four other locals were in double figures. Bill Thompson wound up with 14, Ernest Turner with 13, Jim Oldham 17 and Jim Wilburn 11.

Although he saw only limited action, Dick Ebling almost made it for the Hawks, connecting for four field goals.

The defeat was the third in four conference tests for LCC, which has beaten only Clarendon within the league. LCC left on its current road trip with a 10-7 record but since has absorbed defeats in San Angelo and here.

Lubbock's Ronnie Davidson, a 6-feet-3½ boy, had scored 185 points in the Pioneers' previous 18 contests but was held scoreless by the Hawks. He had two chances at the penalty line and missed them both.

Lacy, a sophomore from Turkey, hit eight times from the field and connected with ten free shots. He had 13 opportunities at the foul line. The Hawks, as a whole, missed only eight of 36 gratis pitches.

Baltimore Selects Shula As New Head Grid Mentor

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Colts have fired Weeb Ewbank as head coach. Replacing him is Don Shula, defensive backfield coach of the Detroit Lions.

Carroll Rosenbloom, owner of the National Football League club, announced the change Tuesday, calling it "probably the most difficult task I've ever faced."

Ewbank's dismissal confirmed weeks of speculation that he would lose his job. He coached the Colts to NFL championships in 1958 and 1959. Since then Baltimore has been just another team in the Western Division.

Shula, 33, accepted a two-year contract for 1963-64 in his first head coaching position. Salary was not disclosed.

Rosenbloom said Ewbank, 55, was offered another job with the Colts. The club owner denied reports that it was the general manager's position now held by Don Kellett.

"They offered me another job in the organization, but I've had no chance to think it over," said Ewbank.

"Football has always been my livelihood. It's been good to me and I dislike getting out of it at this time. I've been coaching for 35 years and it's in my blood."

Shula played four seasons for the Colts under Ewbank as defensive halfback and signal caller.

The Stride Of A Champion

Arnold Palmer, with a grin on his face, strides across the 18th green with nothing left to do but tap the ball into the cup for first place in the Los Angeles Open golf tourney. Palmer had just putted, with the ball stopping inches from the cup. He tapped it in to card a 5-under-par 66 in the final round. The title, which eluded Palmer in seven previous attempts, didn't get away because the 66 on the final day gave him a 72-hole total of 274 and the $9,000 check which goes to the winner. Foss Says His League Isn't Under Cloud

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Commissioner Joe Foss of the American Football League, taking the stage only hours after his National League counterpart stepped down, denied today the rumors linking his league with the increasing talk of a betting scandal.

Foss, in Los Angeles, told The Associated Press:

"No governmental investigatory agency, at either the federal or state level, has been in contact with the AFL office."

Foss also said that no information had come to the AFL which would cause him to order lie detector tests, a power he has under league rules.

"I'm not so naive, however," said Foss, "to think that in any league of this kind, with so many players, that there may not be a few boys who would have some contact or association with people who might be considered tainted.

"All you have to do," continued Foss, "is bump into the wrong kind of person on the street, let someone stretch a point, and they will say you're associating with him. We're always on the lookout in such a matter, but there's been no contact by government bodies and as far as the league knows there's no cause for any contact."

Foss stepped into the situation that first flared Friday and since has produced little fire but much smoke after newspaper reports linked the AFL with the same rumors of betting coups and point-shaving that originally hit the NFL.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle emphasizing that no investigation in his league, "stemmed from federal agencies," said Tuesday that league investigations being conducted in Chicago and Detroit have uncovered "nothing more than questionable associations."

Amateur Sports War Likely To Be Ended

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—After a 72-hour period packed with intrigue and rumor, the raging U.S. amateur sports war was headed for arbitration today and at least a temporary peace.

Both the National Collegiate Athletic Association and Amateur Athletic Union went on record Tuesday as ready to begin deliberations under Gen. Douglas MacArthur, appointed by President Kennedy to referee the dispute that has threatened to ruin the U.S. squad for the Olympic games next year.

The next step was expected from the attorney general's office in Washington, where a spokesman said a meeting tentatively was scheduled today to set a date for the start of arbitration procedure between the NCAA-supported U.S. Track and Field Federation and the AAU.

Both sides, if nothing else, were apparently agreed that the first hurdle—consent to the President's call for binding arbitration under the famous Army general—had been negotiated.

The National Boadcasting Company held television rights to the last NFL championship playoff game, having paid $615,000 for the privilege.

NBC's contract on the game ran out, however, so the cost will probably go up against next year. That could mean the players, who cut in on the proceeds, could get an even larger paycheck than they did this year.

Cadets, Bovines Top SW Circuit

By The Associated Press

Texas A&M's Cadets and the University of Texas' Longhorns stayed atop Southwest Conference basketball Tuesday night with their third straight victories.

The Aggies took a 71-61 decision over the Rice Owls as the surging Longhorns smothered Baylor 76-38.

The Arkansas Razorbacks stayed in contention with a 81-59 victory over Texas Christian's Horned Frogs. And the Southern Methodist Mustangs whipped their co-champion defenders Texas Tech 70-61.

Mike Humphrey stole the show in Austin's Gregory Gym as the 'Horns stomped Baylor in an error filled game.

Humphrey scored 21 points and grabbed 15 rebounds as he put on his best performance of a stellar career.

The 38-point victory margin matched Texas' all-time high against Baylor, the record established in a 57-19 Longhorn triumph back in 1915. Texas had its hottest night of the season, canning 33 of 57 field goal attempts for a blazing 57.9 per cent average.

The Texas Aggies stayed abreast of the Longhorns and despite leads of 13 and 12 points in the first and second halves, respectively, had to fight down to the wire against the pressing Owls.

Lee Walker led Cadet scoring with 18 points and pulled down 11 of the Aggies' 50 rebounds. Benny Lennox hit for 16 points and Jerry Windham had 12 points and 12 rebounds for the Cadets.

Rice's stellar Kendal Rhine flipped in 21 points and had 9 rebounds.

The spirited Horned Frogs whittled a 20-point Arkansas lead in half in the second half, but the Razorbacks rallied to take their second circuit victory in three starts.

Texas Christian substitutes, who may be seeing more action, ignited the Frogs' second half rally and cut the Hog lead to 58-48. But the Horned Frogs were never able to pull closer.

Larry Wofford and Tommy Boyer paced the Razorbacks with 23 and 20 points, respectively. Arkansas hit 19 of 21 from the free throw line with a sophomore, Jim Bane, missing two free shots with only four seconds left in the game.

An Ironic Background In Politics

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Gov. Elmer L. Andersen was giving the traditional chief executive's advice to the Minnesota Legislature today, but against an ironic background.

He was bypassed when oaths of office were administered to other state officials at opening ceremonies Tuesday, and he doesn't know yet if he'll be around to sign the bills the legislature passes.

The Republican governor is awaiting results of a recount to determine whether he or Democrat Karl Rolvaag, former lieutenant governor, was elected by Minnesota voters Nov. 6.

The court-supervised recneck, currently best with 95,980 contested ballots, may not be completed for several weeks.

Andersen said that the work of state government must go on while inspectors scan ballots.

Andersen continues in office under Minnesota law until his successor—himself or Rolvaag — is duly elected and qualified.

In his noon talk to a joint Senate-House session, the governor was expected to repeat his earlier statement that Minnesota would require no new taxes to operate for the next two years.

He based the prediction on what he termed the greater than expected receipts from the income tax withholding system started 18 months ago, plus an anticipated upturn in the Minnesota economy.

Two New Texas Congressmen Take Their Seats Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two new Texas congressmen took their seats in the House today, one representing the state as a whole, the other the Midland-Odessa to El Paso district.

Joe Pool, Democrat, Dallas businessman and lawyer, became the 23rd member of the Texas delegation in the House.

Failure of the legislature to redistrict Texas after the 1960 census gave the state an additional seat forced election of a representative-at-large.

Ed Foreman, Odessa Republican, replaces fellow townsman J. T. Rutherford, a Democrat whom he defeated in the Nov. 6 election.

At 29, Foreman is the youngest member of the new 88th Congress. Born Dec. 22, 1933, the West Texas engineer - businessman is just four months younger than Rep. Don Fuqua, D-Fla., another freshman.

On hand to see the two Texans sworn in were members of their families.

For young John Pool, the day had added importance. It was his 10th birthday. Mrs. Pool and the two other sons, Wesley, 12, and Joe Jr., 7, also were here. A fourth son, Richard, is attending SMU in Dallas.

Foreman's wife and mother were present to see him take office. His father, E. F. Foreman Sr., a Portales, N. M., farmer, was unable to make the trip. The new congressman was born at Portales. He settled in West Texas after returning from World War II service.

The two Foreman children, Kirk, 5, and Rebecca, 3, also were on hand.

Foreman raises to three the number of Republicans in Congress from Texas. The others are Rep. Bruce Alger of Dallas and Sen. John Tower.

Pool attended a closed - door caucus of House Democrats Tuesday at which he was introduced by the dean of the 20-man Texas Democratic House group, Rep. Wright Patman of Texarkana.

Scheduled for election as new chairman of the Texas delegation, which includes Sen. Ralph Yarborough, is Rep. Joe Kilgore of McAllen. He will succeed Rep. Bob Casey of Houston. Members take turns in the position.

Foreman and his wife plan to fly Saturday to Brownsville, where he is to be honored as one of the five outstanding young men selected annually by the Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce. They will fly back to Washington Sunday.

Mariner Report Due In February

WASHINGTON (AP) — Full reports of Mariner 2's close-up look at the planet Venus will not be ready until sometime in February, a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Tuesday.

Scientists and technicians, analyzing data from Mariner's Dec. 14 fly-by the planet, had hoped to have the information available this month. Some of the data is taking longer than expected, a spokesman said.

New Graduate School Planned

HOUSTON (AP) — A graduate school of biochemical sciences will be established in Houston by the University of Texas.

Dr. Harry Ransom, chancellor of the university, said Tuesday the school will coordinate activities in medical sciences at the university's three Houston branches—the M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute, dental school and postgraduate school of medicine.

Ransom said university regents and the Legislative Budget Board have generally approved the plans and a bill creating the school has been drafted for introduction in the legislature.

Site Of Race Battle Is Now Peaceful City

LEVITTOWN, Pa. (AP)—There were fiery crosses, violence and bloodshed five years ago when a Negro family moved into all-white Levittown.

Today about 10 Negro or interracial families are scattered through this community of mass-produced homes that rose out of a marshland 10 years ago and now has 60,000 residents.

Several of the Negroes are active in community affairs.

Henry Ford, 31, who played professional football for Cleveland and Pittsburgh, lives in the house the first Negro family occupied. Ford is a Negro. His wife, Rochelle, is white. They have a son, Mike, almost 2, and another child on the way.

WONDERFUL LIFE

How do they find life here?

"Wonderful," they tell you. They have lived here 1½ years and receive many dinner and party invitations. Henry is an assistant manager of a supermarket and Rochelle, 26, a substitute schoolteacher.

The first Negroes to move here were Mr. and Mrs. William Myers. After 3½ years they left for Harrisburg, where he is an air conditioning technician for the state and she a social worker.

The second Negro family was that of Kenneth Mosby, who arrived with his wife and three children a year after the violence at the Myers home.

"Things went just fine," Mosby, an aircraft mechanic, said. He is president of a 37-member model airplane club. Mrs. Mosby is secretary of the Levittown Arts Association.

NO INCIDENTS

No incidents were reported when the other Negro families moved in. Some bitterness, however, remains on both sides—white and Negro.

The Fords say the Myers were bitter when they moved.

"I can't blame them too much," Ford says. "After all they went through."

"Mrs. Myers told me," says Rochelle, "that whenever she saw someone in the street or talking with her children she'd ask herself, 'Did I see that face before? Was that one of the faces in the mob?'"

The Myers say they moved to take better jobs.

"We had nothing to be bitter about," says Mrs. Myers. "We couldn't have been happier. I don't see how anyone can pass an opinion on how we felt. Even when the crowds were outside the house we never felt bitter about anything."

LEADING ROLE

Ford speaks often at father-son banquets and church meetings. He had one of the leading roles in a play being put on by the Levittown Players, "Toys in the Attic," by Lillian Hellman. He played a chauffeur who has an affair with his employer, a wealthy lady in New Orleans.

His wife says she kidded him into trying out: "It had a big part for a Negro and how many handsome, young Negroes are there in Levittown?"

He's also in constant demand for football practice sessions in the neighborhood.

Mrs. Ford is a member of the fellowship Singers of Delaware Valley and the Women's International League for Peace.

In 1957 three days after the Myers and their three children started moving in, rocks crashed through their front windows. Mobs of several hundred people formed outside their house for about 10 nights, shouting threats and curses.

CROWD CHASED

State police were called in. One night 22 state troopers swinging clubs chased a crowd of 500 through backyards.

A few months later the state won a permanent injunction against seven Levittown residents who were ordered to stop harassing and terrorizing activities.

One of the seven was James Newell, an electrician and a native of North Carolina, who lives about eight doors away.

"I'd still rather have it the way it was before they moved here," he said.

Joseph Thorpe, his wife and two children moved into the house across the street from the Myers a year after the Myers arrived. He says he understands the previous owners objected to living near Negroes and so he got a bargain, buying the house for $9,400.

He says other houses nearby have been selling for $11,000 to $12,000.

CHURCHES HELP

The Quakers, other church groups and human relations councils are working to make it easier for the Negro to move peacefully to the suburbs.

Charlotte Meacham, national representative for housing programs of the Quakers' American Friends Service Committee, says, "We can almost guarantee that if we are given a chance to help local committees prepare a neighborhood for its first Negro, to set up a favorable climate of support, that what happened in Levittown five years ago can be avoided."

Mrs. Meacham and other interracial leaders predict that virtually every white neighborhood in the North will have a Negro in it within 10 years.

Friends Suburban Housing, Inc., a real estate agency, estimates there are 60 Negro families in previously all-white suburbs around Philadelphia.

OTHER CITIES

Negroes have also moved into the other Levittowns, about 40 in New Jersey just across the Delaware River from here and a dozen in Levittown, N.Y. Inter - racial councils smoothed the way.

The Quakers advising local committees how to prepare their neighborhoods for Negroes have offices for the suburbs of San Francisco, Los Angeles, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia. One will open soon in Washington, D.C.

Volunteers are doing the same type work in Seattle, Denver and Dayton areas.

The Quakers work closely with the National Committee Against Discrimination in Housing, which has headquarters in New York

Dunn Unsurprised At 4 Indictments

PECOS (AP) — County grand jurors returned four indictments in minor cases Tuesday, and embattled Dr. John Dunn said he wasn't surprised.

Dunn claims his independent investigation of crime in Pecos, the West Texas home of Billie Sol Estes, caused directors to oust him from the staff of the Reeves County Hospital last week. He has said the crime probe could result in charges against a number of leading citizens.

His published remarks presumably led to the physician's appearance before the grand jury Monday.

Three of the indictments charge breaking into a coin-operated machine and the fourth involves a bad check.

In Dallas, meanwhile, the president of the Defenders of American Liberties said his organization is assisting Dunn because the hospital board acted against him without due process of law.

Dunn has said he started his crime investigation while serving as police surgeon. He subsequently called FBI attention to the financial operations of Estes, now bankrupt and facing criminal charges.

A hearing is scheduled Thursday on Dunn's request for a district court injunction to force the hospital board to keep him on the medical staff. Only staff members may treat patients at the hospital.

The Defenders of American Liberties president, Robert Morris of Dallas, said doctors "who make great sacrifices are entitled to the fundamentals of due process. Too often the rights of professional men are taken for granted."

Morris added in a statement:

"Dr. Dunn . . . does much of the complicated obstetrical work as well as extensive surgery for the people of Pecos. There is no other hospital in or around Pecos and the nearest hospital is at Fort Stockton, 56 miles away.

"Dr. Dunn was removed by the medical board of the hospital which is made up exclusively of non-doctors, without notice, without stated cause and without a hearing. . . ."

In the only public statement so far from a board member, chairman Harrison Beauchamp said Dunn was dismissed from the staff for "contirual harassment of personnel." Beauchamp accused the physician of disrupting hospital operations.

Out?

James H. Meredith, 29, announced in Oxford, Miss., he would not register for second semester classes at the University of Mississippi unless his situation improves.

Colorful Salute

TYLER (AP)—Byron Tunnell's hometown newspaper saluted his election as speaker of the Texas House by running a picture of him and his family in full color on page one.

A Tyler Courier-Times spokesman said enough copies of the edition would be sent to Austin to provide one for every member of the 58th Legislature.

France, Monaco Expected To Agree On Tax Problem

MONTE CARLO (AP)—French and Monacan officials reportedly will agree in Paris Thursday to end the 10-month tax dispute that has ruffled the calm of this Riviera haven from taxes.

Informed sources said the agreement will continue much of Monaco's privileged tax situation but will close many loopholes.

French authorities have been trying for 10 months to pressure the 370-acre principality gently into aligning its tax system with that of France.

Monacans don't deny the French charge. They just phrase it differently. They say that one of Monaco's most endearing attractions has been its lack of income taxes on corporations and individuals. They proclaim proudly that Monaco doesn't need the money.

With the French seeking to eliminate Monaco's status as a tax-free refuge in a tax-bound world, and Prince Rainier III zealously guarding Monaco's sovereignty, negotiations between the two countries broke down in October. Prince Rainier, however, said then that agreement had been reached on basic principles.

Sources here said the agreement to be announced Thursday will continue to spare Monaco's citizens—about 2,000 in a population of 23,000—from paying income taxes. French citizens who have resided in Monaco five years or more will continue to be exempt from French taxes.

Corporation and commercial enterprises will be required to pay the same types of taxes imposed in France but the rates will be lower in Monaco and will take effect over a period of several years.

Throughout the dispute, neither side has resorted to anything stronger than gentle pressure, discreet silence and feigned indifference.

Mail to Monaco has had to carry international postage—double the French internal rate.

A handful of French customs inspectors and bored police have showed up most days at the border for a few hours of customs checks which have been polite, perfunctory and speedy.

Since 85 different streets or roads lead from Monaco to France, anyone in a hurry—or reluctant to explain a truck cargo—can turn around and seek another exit.

The tax clouds have not interfered with Monte Carlo's usual pleasures. Hotels were jammed with Christmas and New Year visitors. Princess Grace was busy with the annual Red Cross drive for funds. This week she and the prince flew to London for one of their periodic visits.

Steer Market Hit Its Peak In November

CHICAGO (AP) — After five successive months of a steadily higher trend, the market for slaughter steers in November hit its highest peak in three years.

The average price of choice grade then was $30.47 a hundredweight compared with only $26.02 a year earlier. But the gain was more than $5 at its best in September.

After a long decline from early April, the market turned firm late in June from an average of $25.02 and except for two relatively small setbacks posted broad gains each week.

Except for about six weeks from late May until early in July, prices were above those at the start of the year and for all but six weeks were higher than a year earlier.

Trends generally paralleled those of 1961 but broadened in the late summer and early fall as marketings declined. Prices had been on a long climb when the National Farmers' Organization (NFO) called its strike against all markets in September. The NFO urged its members to withhold livestock until meat packers signed contracts guaranteeing minimum prices.

Although the strike was understood to have had a limited and temporary effect on marketings, buyers said it was doomed for failure from the start because the organization's membership controlled only a small percentage of the supplies.

The market for butcher hogs averaged a little lower than last year but in the late months prices generally were above those of the comparable period in 1961. The average price of $19.31, paid in September, was the peak and exceeded the 1961 top by about $1.

Revocation Asked On 3 Probations

District Attorney Guilford Jones has filed petitions with Judge Ralph Caton in 118th District Court asking that probation granted to three defendants be revoked.

Judge Caton has set down hearings on the revocation motions for Austin Bankston at 9:30 a.m. Jan. 13, Ronald Murphy and Forest Knowles Lee, 9 a.m. Jan. 11.

The petitions recite the defendants have violated the terms of their probation and John Dibrell, probation officer, has reported all three delinquent in their records.

Back To Schoolbooks

Muguette Fabris went back to her schoolbooks wondering if she would lose her job as a high school mathematics teacher in Luchon, France. The 22-year-old brunette beauty was named Miss France of 1963 in a nation-wide contest Jan. 1—entering without permission from the head of the school.

Stolen House Is Tax Deduction

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A Chicago man, Edward G. Pence, wants to list a stolen house as a tax deduction.

Pence wrote Sheriff L. C. Boies that his one-room house about 16 miles north of Phoenix disappeared between last August and October.

Pence said tractor tracks led from the spot where the house had stood.

"I would like this complaint made a part of your records," he wrote Boies, "because I intend to claim the loss on my 1962 income tax."

Boies duly noted one stolen house.

Capital Pulse Quickens Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — The capital looked more like its old self today. Its pulse was faster, its pace quicker.

The change was a little like that which comes over a household when a rich but sometimes cranky uncle pays his annual visit.

As the taxicab driver said when he swung down Pennsylvania Avenue toward the Capitol — "I'm glad to see Congress come back, but it sure stirs up this traffic."

Things were stirring all over town. President Kennedy had returned from his Florida vacation. Congress was reassembling at noon.

For the 12 new senators and 67 new representatives it was go, go, go.

Most of them planned informal receptions in their offices after the noontime office oathtaking in the chambers of the House and Senate.

For the new senator from Indiana, Birch E. Bayh, the Democratic Campaign Committee of Indiana was throwing an afternoon reception for which 1,500 Indiana meat balls had been ordered, 1,500 fancy finger sandwiches and 800 deviled eggs.

The President's brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., was having an informal open house in his offices.

Sen. Kennedy said he was going to hold his speeches and public appearances to a minimum, that he couldn't go to everything.

"You can't go to all of them; you turn some of them down," said another new Congress member, Rep. Everett G. Burkhalter, D-Calif., of the invitations he had received.

"It's really busy. I don't get time to look at my mail."

Added to the usual affairs this year are two receptions being given by Vice President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson at their Washington home Thursday and Friday nights.

This innovation in the official social goings-on was planned to introduce new members of Congress to members of the executive branch, such as Cabinet heads and the White House staff.

Tuesday night there was the big to-do over the Mona Lisa, tonight, there's a big dinner given by the Women's National Press Club.

Aswan Dam Goes Forward

ASWAN, Egypt (AP) — The morning alarm clock in Aswan is the roar of 5,000 pounds of dynamite.

At 6 a.m. each day some 16,000 tons of granite erupts, moving that much closer to reality the giant Aswan Dam — Egypt's dream and the Soviet Union's largest foreign aid venture.

"We are right on schedule," says Osman Ahmed Osman, contractor who is a key man in the project which may largely decide Egypt's place in the 20th Century and President Gamal Abdel Nasser's role in history.

Nasser sees the dam as the crowning symbol of his socialist revolution.

To back Nasser the Russians have lent $200 million and pledged as much again. This followed U.S. refusal to finance the dam.

The well-being of Egypt's impoverished millions could well depend on the outcome. The dam is Egypt's chance to ease the relentless pressure of an exploding population — 27 million people, a total which will be doubled in 25 years.

The dam will give Egypt vast electric power plus almost a million acres of new farmland. Much of this can be plowed back into the economy without being offset by hungry new people. Egypt hopes the effect will snowball, making her the first industrial power in the Arab world.

The senior engineer, Ibrahim Zaki Kennawi, sees a dam by-product in 600 top-drawer engineers and 10,000 skilled construction workers.

Aswan is attracting Egypt's best. Pay and allowances triple what a man might make in Cairo. Ambitious young engineers and government bureaucrats realize the word Aswan in their records will aid advancement. Visitors note a quickened pace even among ordinary laborers.

The site itself is impressive. The timeless Nile has carved a gently curving channel through desert sands and stone cliffs, widening to embrace eroded islands reminiscent of Japanese rock gardens. Blistering in midsummer, it is balmy in the winter.

A new city is rising with thousands of boxlike airconditioned apartments. Officials speak ambitiously of a new industrial complex—textiles, fertilizer, aluminum and even steel. For the present the dam absorbs almost all effort. There are 16,000 men working there—soon to be 25,000.

In the excavation sites and on the cliffsides 50 men have been killed—about two a month. It is an uphill battle to impress often illiterate laborers of the hazards inherent in such a massive project. Danger abounds—unmarked holes, loose rock, miles of uninsulated wiring and hundreds of screaming machines.

Work is now concentrated on a mile-long diversion channel—two-thirds completed—through which the river will flow while the actual dam is constructed. This 300-foot-deep canyon will also house the power station perched over six awesome tunnels, each big enough to gulp down a three-story house.

Work will start soon on the massive rock-filled structure that will eventually span the Nile. When completed it will be 436 feet high, 2.6 miles long.

Contractor Osman's schedule calls for completion of the diversion canal in 1963, beginning of cofferdams early in 1963, a start on the power station in 1965, to have the first one-third of the electric power available by 1967 and completion of the whole project by 1970.

Visitors Feel Left In Dark In N.Y. News Blackout

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—What does the newspaper blackout mean to New York City convention visitors?

Disappointment, frustration and a feeling of being in the dark make up the reaction of some executives attending the convention of the National Retail Merchants Association to the month-old strike that has closed nine New York dailies.

The NRMA's five-day meeting brought 5,000 merchants and their families to the city. It is one of the bigger conventions held each year in this greatest of convention cities.

Delegates from far away are attempting to keep abreast of the news by watching radio and television programs in their rooms. Some from such cities as Philadelphia, Baltimore and Chicago are able to buy their hometown papers at hotel newsstands.

"It's a great disappointment to come to the greatest city in the world and not have the news at our fingertips before breakfast," said George W. Dowdy, executive vice president of Belk Bros. Co. of Charlotte, N.C.

"Much of the glamor of the city is missing," said Joseph T. Meek of Chicago, president of the Illinois Retail Merchants Association. "My daughter is here with us for the first time and she feels frustrated, not being able to find out in the newspapers where to go and where to shop. We don't know who the entertainers are."

Delegates say, too, that they are hampered in business activities by absence of newspapers.

"We come here not only as delegates to the convention but as observers of New York stores and their advertisements," said Nathan J. Gold of Gold & Co., Lincoln, Neb., department store. "Now we don't know what's going on."

Harold H. Bennett, outgoing president of NRMA and president of Zion's Cooperative Mercantile Institution, Salt Lake City, Utah, department store, commented: "It is most disappointing to have this void in a most important media.

"I think the problem of the New York stores is greater than it would be in smaller cities like mine where television and radio are more local."

Gold said that mail orders, generated by newspaper advertising, are more important to New York stores than to merchants in smaller cities.

"With all respect to other media, you can't give adequate coverage without newspapers," he said.

A Devotional For The Day

In my distress I cried unto the Lord, and he heard me. (Psalms 120:1.)

Don't Disturb Baby And Old Fido

Newton N. (Television Wasteland) Minow, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, is saddling up in the best tradition of the Old West, to succor the helpless, near - deafened television viewers. The subject is the alarmingly high decibel rate of some television commercials.

Minow has announced that he will hold hearings early next year on the problem of objectionable noise level in some television advertising.

Some staff engineers, Minow said, have informed him that part of the "apparent" noise problem is "psychological." Television viewers who can believe their ears will be more inclined to accept the findings of an analysis made in Boston which revealed that of 40 TV programs sampled, 65 per cent of them had louder commercials than program tone level.

Among complaints reaching the ears of some officials are these (1) Old Fido is being threatened with neuroses because of the commercials which interrupt his dreams by the fireside; (2) sleeping Junior has been aroused well before bottle time, ruining the effectiveness of commercials and destroying the domestic tranquility; and (3) sleeping babies in the next apartment and the apartment next to the next apartment have been frightened out of their dreams by sudden swelling of volume accompanying the hard-sell.

A bit of almost spontaneous reform may be undertaken by television networks and their affiliates. If television stations haven't learned the lesson newspapers learned long ago they soon will: Anything that disturbs Old Fido and children is murder.

Tackling A Vexatious Problem

California is moving ahead as bellwether of the effort to equip automobiles with devices to reduce gas fumes. The state's Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board has approved two devices that curb the emission of fumes. Eventually all cars and trucks in California will have to be so equipped.

The change will not come overnight. According to the plan, all vehicles must have such an installation by November 1965 and fume-control devices will be a legal requirement for registration in 1956.

Swiftness of development being what it is today, the chances are that by 1966 the devices for curbing emission of gas fumes will have been greatly improved. This is not much of an argument against prompt installation of devices now available. The important thing is that a start is being made in California. Other states would do well to speed up similar programs, and the need for national co-ordination should be pondered. The air pollution control problem grows steadily more urgent, and eventually it might affect every city in the country.

'I'LL TEACH THOSE SQUARES SOME STYLE'

Around The Rim

The Shrinking Work Week

From the National Industrial Conference Board I learned that the average American work week has declined about 31 hours during the last 110 years.

Before you get the idea that pretty soon we'll be working a few hours a day, it might be well to note that matters have been levelling off in recent years. The last decade has seen about an hour come off the average work week.

BACK IN 1850, according to the NLCB, the American worker labored on an average of 70 hours a week. Today the average week is 39 hours.

In the half century from 1850 to 1900, the average work week declined only 10 hours. But from 1900 to 1930, the walls came tumbling down with a reduction from 60 to 46 hours per week.

The next decade cut off about four hours, and then by 1940 the average was down to around 40. The current average is estimated at 39 hours.

WHO WORKS THE longest—outside of me, of course? Probably you. But outside of us both, as a class, those on the farm are estimated to have a 53-hour work week on the average.

If you want a shorter week, then don't get into a managerial position. These people have to stay after hours, and they end up with an average of about 50 hours on the job. Of course some of them, along with executives, hearken back to the 1850 routine when it comes to hours.

CRAFTSMEN AND professionals are said to average 42 hours a week; operatives are pegged at 41; service workers at 39; clerical workers and occasional farm laborers and sales workers are said to average 38 hours; and other non-farm laborers about 36. The shortest work week on the whole goes to private household employes, who frequently work only part-time. They average 26 hours.

Many categories have either aimed at or have attained the 35-hour week. New York union electricians last year announced a 25-hour week.

TECHNOLOGY HAS contributed most to the reduction of the work week by use of tools and instruments which enable a man to produce more in less time. The fly in the ointment is that frequently it takes less men to produce more. So we end up with the shortest work week of all—zero—for an increasing number of people.

Somewhere in all this there is liable to be a minimum below which we can not go and still maintain a productive economy. Moreover, most of us are not equipped to work only 40 per cent of the time (except when the boss isn't looking) and properly apply our hands and minds the other 60 per cent. The way most of us operate, we'd go busted trying to go some place or do something, or we'd go stir crazy sticking around the house.

Those Puzzling Tax 'Reforms'

WASHINGTON —Tinkering with the tax laws in the year 1963 may throw a monkey wrench into the operations of the national economy. Taking away deductions and exemptions for various items hitherto granted can affect many a business.

On the surface it has been made to appear that on individual incomes the citizens are going to get a reduction in taxes and that they'll have more money to spend. But it could turn out that many individuals will have less income after taxes. It all depends, not on what tax rates will be changed, but on whether historic principles imbedded in the tax structure for 40 years are to be uprooted in new legislation.

THUS, PEOPLE of higher incomes are being entranced at present by the idea that the maximum tax rate will come down from 91 to 63.5 per cent. This will cost the government only $250,000,000 in revenue, but the Treasury experts have already begun to figure out ways that they can collect an extra billion by new provisions in the law called "tax reform." This would be felt also by persons in the middle brackets, who may find certain deductions repealed or reduced.

All sorts of ideas for "reform" have been advanced. Some will never be enacted, but it will be months before the persons affected will really know whether they are going to be penalized or let alone.

TAKE, FOR INSTANCE, what is known as "capital gains" taxes. This is different from ordinary income taxes because, in effect, a flat 25 per cent rate is used. If for example, more than a year ago you bought a property for $16,000 and now sell it for $20,000, your "capital gain" is $4,000 and the government gets a fourth, or $1,000, in capital-gains taxes. Reports from Capitol Hill are that the Treasury wants Congress to hike the capital-gains tax on all kinds of property, including stocks and bonds. The citizen will wonder: Should he sell property now or can he wait a year? Shall he sell his stocks and bonds or wait? If there is a general tendency to sell, how will it affect markets? What impact will it have on real-estate values and on new construction?

ANOTHER "REFORM" talked about is in connection with estate taxes. At present, no capital-gains tax is paid when a house or other property is sold after death. Only the usual inheritance-tax rate applies. But, under the proposed "reforms," the estate would pay both a capital-gains tax and an estate tax. What will this do to bequests and wills which were drawn up years ago by citizens who figured out what money they would be able to leave to care for their children in case of death? Many people of middle age die accidentally and leave money to educate their growing children. More funds will have to be provided now if a capital-gains tax as well as an inheritance tax is to be imposed.

MANY PEOPLE, especially in the retired class, have invested in state and municipal securities, the annual income from which is immune from federal income taxes. In administration circles, there is talk of repealing this exemption and imposing the regular taxes on the income from all securities.

Married couples are permitted to make a return on their combined income. This has the effect of lowering their taxes, especially if one or the other has no income. When both husband and wife have income, they can also, under present law, take certain exemptions and deductions together. Now there are plans to repeal this privilege of making a joint return. Millions of persons will find their planning in disarray because they will not know till late in 1963 or perhaps 1964 whether joint returns will be abolished and higher tax rates will apply to each individual.

THERE IS TALK, moreover, of ending the exemption for income received through the Social Security system. This will affect adversely those older people who have small incomes and have counted on the exemption from taxation of such money returned to them, because they have paid it for many years into the Social Security system.

Another "reform" being suggested is that tax benefits for retired people and homeowners be reduced. It is being suggested also that deductions be ended for interest paid on personal debts and for various kinds of charitable contributions as well as for payments made on state and local taxes.

SOME OF THESE proposals may never be passed by Congress, but the country will have to go through a period of puzzlement and uncertainty before the final touches are placed on the tax "reform" bill. The strategy of the administration is first to try to get the cut on tax rates into law, and then, when the nation begins to grow fearful about the enormous deficit—which will be widely publicized—the case for "plugging loopholes" and eliminating a lot of exemptions so as to raise revenues will be emphasized.

Altogether, it's to be a year of "agonizing reappraisal" of one's personal affairs. That's not the kind of atmosphere which is conducive to spending or investing.

Question Whether They Vote Together

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three things President Kennedy has to worry about with the new Congress opening today are a conservative preservative, a demolition coalition and an attitude of lassitude.

But his greatest worry is how to get his Democrats to act like a party by voting together in a Congress where — if they did—they are so plentiful they could grant him anything he asked.

They outnumber the Republicans 67 to 33 in the Senate and 258 to 176 in the House. There's one vacancy there.

A CONSERVATIVE preservative is any device — like the House Rules Committee—which conservatives of both parties can use in unison to bottle up a Kennedy program they don't think is conservative enough.

A demolition coalition is a wrecking crew of Democrats and Republicans working together to dynamite one of his projects after it has somehow escaped from a bottle.

And an attitude of lassitude is the tardiness—to use a nice word—which sometimes overtakes legislators, as it did last year, putting them so far behind in their work they may go home without finishing it.

KENNEDY over-dramatized the importance of the Rules Committee, which he made his first concern of the year, when he said he hopes it is kept at its present size because "we can't function . . . we're through . . . if it isn't."

This committee, long famous for its concentration of conservatives from both parties, can bottle up a program, if enough of its members choose to, by not letting it up to the floor of the full House for a vote.

This can't work at all if a simple majority of the House members—218 of the 435—have enough interest in a program to want to vote on it. They can, by a vote of 218, force it out of the committee and up to the floor.

So this shouldn't be any problem for Kennedy at all—since the Democrats number 258 in the House—and the Rules Committee could be only a minor nuisance if only 218 out of the 258 Democrats saw eye to eye with him.

IN 1961, under Kennedy's urging, but only on a skin-tight vote, the House enlarged the membership of the committee from 12 to 15. This was supposed to dilute the conservative influence by liberalizing it.

At today's opening the committee was to revert to 12 unless the full House voted to keep it at 15. Unless it stays at 15, Kennedy says, all is lost.

In Love With The Past

NEW YORK (AP)—Everybody is in love with his past, whether it was rich or poor.

Even a child of 10 eagerly asks a parent, "tell me how it was when I was just a baby."

As we grow older, many of us spend more time recalling the past than we do planning for the future. But your memories date you just as surely as rings of growth date a tree.

And you've been around some time now if you can remember when—

Husbands were more suspicious of the iceman than they now are of the television repair man.

You couldn't buy a dictionary, a box of aspirins, or a packet of hairpins at the corner grocery store.

Eating in a Chinese restaurant was a big adventure, because you just knew that somewhere behind a secret panel was an opium den.

It was considered normal for a dog to have fleas.

The goal of every Iowa farmer was to grow enough corn so that he could retire to Southern California and listen to some really interesting evangelists.

You could get the operator on the telephone merely by lifting the receiver.

The ambition of every arriving Irishman was to get on a police force.

You could tell how new a man's shoes were by how loud they squeaked.

No candidate had much hope of being elected to the U.S. Senate unless he could hold a crowd of 10,000 spellbound by his oratory for two hours, rain or shine.

A hired hand wouldn't stay on a farm where he couldn't have a huge slab of apple pie for breakfast.

Kids earned their spending money by collecting scrap iron, tinfoil and bottles and selling them to the junk dealer.

Hamburger sold for three pounds for a quarter, and it was wrapped in butcher's paper, not plastic.

Traffic was no problem and there was no trouble finding a parking place. The only one-way street, as the popular saying went, was the one that led to the cemetery.

Advocates of the straight-edged razor confidently predicted the safety razor was a passing fad.

No one knew where Cuba was—or cared—except a few veterans of the Spanish-American War.

Yes, those were the days of innocence. Remember?

First Kentucky Home

BARBOURVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Dr. Thomas Walker, a Virginian, was the first white man to build a house in Kentucky.

A surveyor and physician, he and several companions came into the state in 1750 on an exploration trip for a London, England, land company. While on the trip, they put up the one-room cabin.

Deer At Sea

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — There is a deer swimming at sea, a telephone caller told the Coast Guard station at Ocean City, Md. A patrol vessel from the station found it three miles from shore. After a 20-minute struggle the crewmen wrestled the deer aboard the vessel, carried it later to shore and released it.

Not Black Lace, But A Black Box

Some persons, admittedly, are born 30 years too soon and others 30 years too late. But Miss Marlene Dietrich seems to have hit it on the nose.

Her Hollywood career came to fruition at exactly the right moment in time—in an era when men still remembered Mata Hari, and the old Orient Express (sic transit gloria!) was judged to be a vehicle solely used by glamorous espionage agents, usually in black lingerie.

AT LEAST, sometime during busy nights, while the Express hurtled through the starless dark and agents and double agents plied their chilling trade, the seductive lady triple agent appeared in lingerie that was the hallmark of the espionage trade, female branch: black lace and chiffon.

At all odds, Miss Dietrich arrived on the scene before governmental and public faith in the feminine spy had been shaken by such robot gumshoes as the U-2 and the all-seeing camera. In the good old days, in the espionage business, there was nothing like a dame. Today, the experts tell us, there is nothing like a do-it-yourself satellite.

ALTHOUGH OUR government hasn't done away with the CIA and shows no inclination to do so, nonetheless there is more and more talk out of Washington and out of scientific laboratories that the mechanical spy has completely superseded the Dietrich-Mata Hari type.

"The spy-in-the sky," as it is affectionately called by laboratory whiz kids with no proper respect for black lace and chiffon, will replace all espionage agents, or so they say. It is their contention that the camera is the greatest private eye in the world, and who needs Chanel No. 5?

IT, THE CAMERA, specially built for espionage work, sees all and tells all to experts who know how to interpret its film, a former agent said. In the recent Cuban crisis, the spy-in-the-sky camera, mounted on the U-2 or similar ghost planes, revealed more accurate data about the Russian missiles, weapons and men in the island than a corps of Matas could possibly have done, no matter what the expenditure for black chiffon and lace. Or so this antiromantic declares.

"Our Man in Havana" and environs, he maintained, was a real private eye up above the world so high that if it needed any stimulant at all, it was oxygen and not champagne. Furthermore, it cannot talk under pressure, go to pieces in the clinches or switch sides—or affections—for pay. Neither can the camera talk in its sleep.

"THE WORLD MOVES too fast today for Mata or Marlene," my friend said. "On the Orient Express or on an ocean liner a woman had time to work up to the black-chiffon routine. But what chance has she on a jet between Paris and New York, for example? Or San Francisco and Honolulu?

"If, in flight, she got herself rigged up in black lace and all that jazz, she would be arrested today not as a spy but for indecent exposure or put under observation for the snake pit. And with free champagne for all on those first-class flights, who's going to ply whom with the bubbly?"

AH, WELL, I suppose with automation taking over in every sphere of life, Marlene and Mata could not hope to be spared. The femme fatale was good while she had it, and she had it for a long time. Now she has been superseded by film, worse luck. Too bad, for there is really nothing like a dame and black lace.

An Old Order Is Passing

WASHINGTON — It happened that last summer I stood with Senator Herman Talmadge before the bronze plaque in the C Street entrance of the New Senate Office Building, and we talked of the names emblazoned there in 1958 as members of the Building and Plans Committee—nine in number, but only two are still Senators: Mundt and Sparkman. Bridges, Kerr, Chavez and Malone are dead, Purtell has retired, Green is very ill, and Johnson is enbalmed in the Vice Presidency. Sic transit gloria.

EVERY DEATH diminishes the race, but in a special sense the passing of the Great Men of the Senate in recent years has been so appalling that one wonders if the institution itself will quite survive. When I first came to the Senate Press Gallery, the famous figures on the floor were Vandenberg, Taft, George, Millikin, Tydings—all dead—and Harry F. Byrd, who today epitomizes, along with Richard Russell, all that is best and finest of Senate traditions.

Kerr and Clinton Anderson arrived in 1949, and were instantly part of the inner-inner circle that commands the Citadel. Johnson valulted into leadership, and in the mid-50's, when John F. Kennedy produced "Profiles in Courage," the Senate had renewed itself and reached its apogee in modern times.

BY 1960 the Senate had become the repository of nearly all the presidential ore: Kennedy and Johnson, Humphrey and Symington, Goldwater and Vice President Nixon dominated the primary races and the national conventions. Those days were only rivalled by the galaxy of 1850, which glittered with Clay, Webster, Calhoun, Old Bullion Benton, Sam Houston, Jefferson Davis, Stephen A. Douglas, Seward and Salmon P. Chase.

WE MUST ASK, can the Senate renew itself once more? The oldest Senator is Carl Hayden, still tending store in his silent but effective manner, and the youngest is Ted Kennedy of the magic name. In between are many unknowns: What will we be hearing in years to come of Bayr, Brewster, McIntyre?—and of some who are already stalwarts: Dodd and Cannon, Humphrey, Jackson, Keating, Douglas, Saltonstall and Fong?

IT HAS SEEMED to this observer that two criteria are the checkpoints of rising excellence in a Senator. One is his ability to grow in about his second and third terms. I would look to see what happens to Joe Clark, Bill Fulbright and Tom Kuchel now that they have crossed a divide tha twould normally assure them of life-time tenures. I would wonder how Dirksen, with a fresh term, will marshal his depleted minority and how Mike Mansfield, after a rough passage in the last Congress, will swing this crucial session that leads into a presidential election.

BUT THE SECOND criterion of Senatorship is more exacting. We are still in a time of sharp ideological divisions, and the test is one simply stated in how a Senator resists his temptation. A Liberal is endangered by the yen to savor the adulation of the mob and to wallow in demagogery. One Liberal who never does this is Douglas, and one who had recently desisted from doing so is Humphrey. A Conservative is equally imperiled by the desire to protec tvested interests and obsolete forms. As an automatic member of the minority, whatever his party, a great Conservative is always a lonely man, with only his intellectual integrity to sustain him.

Well, the old order is passing, and of the new breed we must wait and see.

To Your Good Health

Don't Hesitate To Have X-Rays If Necessary

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is your idea about a chest X-ray required annually by an employer? There has been much discussion concerning aftereffects, possibly leading to cancer.—Mrs. H.A.M.

To clear the air, let's dispose of the "cancer" idea. No, this won't cause cancer.

A chest X-ray requires about one-tenth of a second exposure, and comparable amounts for other diagnostic X-rays.

It's true that in the early days some doctors and scientists were burned by the rays, but that was the result of hours of excessive exposure. At the rate of one ordinary X-ray a year, at a tenth of a second, 36,000 years would be required to accumulate only one hour of exposure—or 600 years for a mere minute.

These figures ought to set your mind at rest.

The more urgent concern these days is over fall-out from nuclear explosions, and what effect this may have on genetics. Will the increased radiation result in more babies being born with defects?

Whether it is fall-out, or natural radiation, or from an X-ray machine, it is still all radiation.

Therefore we want to avoid ANY radiation, even small amounts, unless there is good reason for it.

I would never hesitate for an instant over the split second of radiation needed for an X-ray. But neither would I permit any X-ray without good reason. It's a very small amount but it all adds up.

Because of the significance as applied to birth defects, the important time for protection is in early life—say until 35 years or so.

That covers the child-bearing years for the most part. After then, the added radiation is of less significance.

There has been some change in routine testing. Instead of chest X-rays for everyone, there is now a growing practice of giving a tuberculin, or skin, test to people under 35. If the test is negative, no X-ray is required. If it is positive (showing that the person has been exposed to TB) then an X-ray is taken. If this shows no disease, then an additional X-ray every other year (rather than every year, as in the past) is taken.

But—and mark this well — further X-rays are taken at once if there is any symptom, at any raising suspicion of TB.

The chest X-ray, of course, is useful in detecting many other conditions. It is an important, useful tool, and I hope no reader will hesitate for an instant when one is really needed.

However, it is also possible to reduce unnecessary X-rays by freely exchanging them. As an example, at least half a dozen X-rays crossed my desk this morning. Insurance companies, for one, are conscientiously asking health departments, medical centers or individual doctors if they take a look at recent X-rays instead of ordering new ones, thus avoiding duplication of exposure.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 80 and have been wearing a pessary for several years on account of prolapse. Would an operation at my age be O.K.? I am comfortable. —Mrs. M.R.H.

If you are comfortable, and the pessary is effective and causes no irritation, why not continue as you are? Or is there some reason you did not mention to me for considering surgery?

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Majority sentiment in the United States was clearly with the federal government in enforcing the right of Negro James Meredith to enroll in the University of Mississippi. But a look back over that period two or three months ago discloses use of some pressures with which many even in the North would not agree.

Several southern newspapers have reprinted an editorial from the Tulsa Tribune which called attention to an interview given by Robert F. Kennedy to a correspondent of the Sunday Times of London. In this the Attorney General was quoted as saying he had talked with executives of 40 important business firms; asking them to use their influence in the Mississippi situation either by persuasion or by threatening to curtail their investments in Mississippi. Although Mr. Kennedy later said parts of the report were inaccurate, he did not specifically deny this statement.

Using the agencies of government to enforce the law as declared by the courts is one thing; attempting to use economic pressure through private business to compel obedience by a state is another and is not the province of an officer of government . . . It ill befits a federal official to seek deliberately to injure any one of the 50 states in the course of administering the laws.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Romanoff's, operated for more than a decade under the dubious princely aegis of the Romanoff known as Mike, is one of the plushest restaurants in movieland. The demise of this gathering place for the glamorous focuses attention on a possible rash of such closings.

Romanoff says that "the drop in expense account spending" is forcing him to shut down this place. This may be true. Certainly Uncle Sam's promised closer look at how businessmen lavish expense account money on clients and friends is going to put a crimp in how much some of the drinking and dining places take in. Those with the biggest overhead—spots which go in heavily for the sort of overt swank which may attract a man trying to impress his guests—are in danger of succumbing.

Such closings would not be entirely a deplorable thing. Restaurants that depend on snob value for their clientele could fold up without being much of a loss to anyone but their owners. The best of the expensive restaurants will not have to close their doors.

They will adapt to changing conditions. They will place greater emphasis on good food and service. The diner will be the gainer.

Mona Lisa Is Unveiled As Science Fails

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mona Lisa is a sight to behold, but it must be related with sadness today that her American debut was spoiled by a failure of science.

The loudspeaker system in the marble-halled National Gallery of Art, where President Kennedy introduced her Tuesday night amid hands across the sea felicitations with France, could not cope with the acoustics.

The result was that a gorgeously dressed lady in the front row of VIPs, not 25 feet from Mona, registered a complaint at a crucial moment.

"I cannot," she said, "hear a word."

This was when a linguistic expert was translating remarks in which Andre Malraux, French minister of cultural affairs, was trying to solve the enigma of Mona Lisa's smile.

MILLIONS TO SEE

Anyway, Mona exerts her spell silently, not through words, and the public had its chance today to fall under that spell when doors of the National Gallery opened to ordinary folk at 10 a.m. In the next four weeks it is expected that perhaps a million people will view the Leonardo da Vinci masterpiece, on loan from the Paris Louvre. The painting will then be taken to New York for a special exhibition at the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Da Vinci, a man of science as well as an artist, might have been able to do something about the technical defects Tuesday night, but nobody on the scene could.

First failure came when President and Mrs. Kennedy arrived at the gallery after eating dinner at the French ambassador's. The elevator failed to work. Mrs. Kennedy had to hitch up her long pink chiffon dress, a strapless number embroidered with pearls and brilliants, and hike up the broad marble stairs.

So also did Mme. Malraux, looking like a Renaissance picture in a black velvet dress with a rope of pearls looping down to her waist.

ONE THEORY

For the benefit of the 1,500 distinguished listeners, including members of Congress, who could not hear a word: M. Malraux has a theory that Leonardo tried to improve on pagan antiquity by endowing his painting with "sight, soul, spirituality."

When it came Kennedy's turn, he realized that he must talk real loud and he did so. He paid tribute to France, "the leading artistic power in the world."

With a bit of a joke about President Charles de Gaulle, who pursues a tenaciously independent course among Western allies, Kennedy said:

"I want to make it clear that we will continue to press ahead with the effort to develop an independent artistic force and power of our own."

As is inevitable in Washington, the affair was picketed. A group of "Young Americans for Freedom" marched to and fro about a block from the gallery—as near as the police, the Secret Service and the Marines would allow them. They explained that they had nothing against Mona Lisa, but thought the Kennedy administration's policy toward Katanga was wrong.

Church-State Issue Boils

NEW YORK (AP)—School prayers made big headlines last year, but 1963 may well see even greater controversy develop over the issue of church-state separation.

The Supreme Court's decision last June banning official school prayers in public schools left unanswered many questions dealing with the relationship of schools and the church.

Foremost is the matter of just what constitutes an official prayer.

Would any prayer said regularly in a public school be an official prayer?

Two cases to come before the court this winter are expected to throw new light on the question of how far public schools may go in allowing prayers and Bible reading.

MARYLAND CASE

One pertains to an appeal by Madalyn Murray of Baltimore from a 4-3 decision by Maryland's Court of Appeals.

The Maryland court upheld a Baltimore School Board regulation calling for Bible reading and recitation of the Lord's Prayer at daily school-opening exercises.

Attorney generals of at least 10 states have agreed to support Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan of Maryland in his case.

In the second case, Pennsylvania state officials are appealing a decision by a three-judge federal court in Philadelphia. The special court decided that a Pennsylvania law requiring Bible reading in public schools violates the Constitution.

The June prayer ruling was probably the court's most important to date on the church-state issue as affecting public schools.

Earlier decisions of the court on church-state matters were concerned largely with lunches, text books and school buses.

PROTESTANT SCHOOLS

Some clergymen predict a major development of Protestant parochial schools if the court rules out public school prayer in any form.

In New York State, where the prayer case started, new questions relating to this already have arisen to confront James E. Allen, the state education commissioner.

Nine parents are protesting the Levittown School District's practice of allowing teachers to read either a passage from the Bible or the Declaration of Independence or have the pupils recite the fourth stanza of "America."

This stanza ends: "Great God our king."

Allen has reserved decision. He did rule that the national anthem could be sung or recited in schools as long as it was not designated as a prayer. The Hicksville School Board had initiated the practice.

Both of the New York cases developed after the Supreme Court banned the nonsectarian 22-word prayer recommended by the State Board of Regents, educational governing body.

NO BUSINESS

Justice Hugo Black, in the court majority opinion, said the government has no business sponsoring "official prayers."

In Miami, Fla., a group of agnostics and Jews say they will take to the Supreme Court their fight against daily Bible readings in Florida's public schools.

The practice, required by law, was upheld last summer by the Florida Supreme Court.

A similar issue was raised indirectly in Georgia in litigation over whether tax-exempt privileges could be withdrawn from private colleges that admit Negroes.

One Georgia Supreme Court held there was no conflict between church and state and that the college involved in the case, Emory University, was entitled to the exemption.

A Texas case which may eventually reach the Supreme Court involves charges that it is unconstitutional for garbed Catholic nuns to teach in public schools.

SCHOOL LEASED

The case developed after the Bremond School District of central Texas leased the Bremond parochial school from an adjacent Catholic church in 1947 for $1 a year. Protestant taxpayers filed suit three years ago, claiming the school violated federal and state constitutions.

There is an unusual case in Norfolk, Va., concerning a statue of St. Francis of Assissi in the city botanical garden.

Eugene W. Sawyer, operator of a driving school, asked City Council to remove the statue on grounds it violated the doctrine of church and state. When the city council ignored the complaint, Sawyer sued in the circuit court.

Junior Republicans Blitz Way Into Party Councils

WASHINGTON (AP)—A formidable group of junior Republicans has blitzed its way into GOP party councils in the House.

In a quickly hatched coup they elected 49-year-old Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan chairman of their party conference at Tuesday's initial 1963 GOP huddle and won themselves eight votes in the 36-member party policy committee.

Emphasizing their claim that their action was not a revolt against the old-line leadership, they then joined in unanimously re-electing Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana as their party floor leader and Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin as chairman of the policy committee.

Ford unseated Rep. Charles B. Hoeven of Iowa as conference, or caucus, chairman by secret ballot of 86 to 78. Hoeven, 67, had held the post since 1957, when he was elected with Halleck's backing.

Hoeven, starting his 21st year in the House, bitterly disputed claims of his opposition that the fight had as its goal only a larger voice in party councils for relatively newer members. Ford has been in the House 10 years.

"I was the victim of a power play," Hoeven angrily told reporters. "And I'm just the first. They'll be going after Mr. Halleck and Mr. Arends in due time.

"They just started on me because they thought I was the member of the leadership group they could deal with easiest."

Rep. Leslie Arends of Illinois is Republican whip and had no opposition for re-election.

Ford's backers denied that the ouster of Hoeven was the first step in a carefully planned campaign to eventually boost Ford into the party's floor leadership.

The drive was launched only last week by a group headed by Reps. Charles E. Goodsell of New York and Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, who said they wanted to help the GOP leadership.

Ford told reporters that his election "in no way indicates a division in leadership." He pledged full cooperation with the leadership under Halleck.

Halleck called Ford an "able, diligent and effective" legislator and said he welcomed his addition to the leadership ranks.

Ford, a high-ranking member of the Appropriations Committee, calls himself neither a conservative nor a liberal, but "a good Republican—squarely within the traditional Republican policy."

Cotton Council President Against Proposed Program

DALLAS (AP)—Opposition to a proposed government cotton program was voiced Tuesday by the president of the National Cotton Council, Burris Jackson of Hillsboro.

The proposal was laid before growers Monday in Atlanta by Assistant Secretary of Agriculture John Duncan.

"It is not possible to comment on all the plans for cotton being proposed, but if the reports on the Atlanta meeting are correct, the plan will not be acceptable to the cotton growing areas of the West," Jackson said.

The proposal calls for a cotton bill which would leave the national acreage allotment at 16 million acres, provide a price support no lower than the 32.47 cents for 1962, let producers overplant their basic allotments by no more than 20 per cent if they pay the trade incentive payment of 8½ cents to the government and provide an incentive payment to American textile mills equal to the present export payment of 8½ cents.

"It is impossible to believe such a plan would be seriously considered by Congress," Jackson said.

CHEVROLET IMPALA SPORT COUPE

CHEVROLET BEL AIR 4-DOOR SEDAN

And it's easy to see why—what with all the easier upkeep and sheer excitement these four entirely different kinds of Chevrolets have going for '63. The Jet-smooth Chevrolet, America's favorite way to go luxurious in everything but price; the family-size Chevy II that gives even modest budgets plenty to brag about; the rear-engine Corvair or how to get the whole family into the sports car act; and for a mouth-watering pièce de résistance: two all-new versions of America's only all-out sports car, Corvette. Nobody could miss with a choice like that. Least of all, you!

Consolidation Of Tax Offices

LAMESA (SC)—Consolidation of the City of Lamesa and Lamesa school district tax offices moved a step nearer reality here Monday following meetings of the city council and trustees. Both the solons and trustees discussed the proposed merger of the taxing agencies in regular, separate meetings, then met jointly to go over the details.

It was reported that both groups reacted favorably to the proposal and indicated that only minor issues remained unsolved. It was generally agreed that the school tax office would maintain control of both agencies and will be established in one central location. The office site has not yet been determined.

The merger idea originated in the city council and was later proposed to the trustees, who selected a three-member panel to investigate and study all aspects of the consolidation.

A contract specifying the general agreement has been prepared but not yet approved by either body.

Apartments Okayed For Kentwood Area

A four-acre tract, in the southeast corner of the intersection of Birdwell Lane and East Twenty-Fifth Street, was approved for rezoning from residential to a planned district for multi-family purposes at Tuesday's meeting of the Planning and Zoning Commission. The approval followed a public hearing at which no one appeared against the request.

A proposed zone change from residential to neighborhood service of lots 11, 12, and 13, of Block 1, Thorpe addition, was referred to the Big Spring Traffic Commission for study of possible traffic hazards before final approval or rejection. The tract is owned by J. W. Thorpe and is just west of Wasson Road, south of Marcy. Two lots are south of the traffic island and one is west. No one appeared against the change at the public hearing.

A preliminary plat of Colonial Hills Addition was reviewed and approved by the commission. The addition, which will be annexed to the city if approved by the city commission, will be bounded on the west by Parkway Road and on the south by Hearn Street. Developer Harvey H. Langston, Midland, requested approval of the preliminary plat so that he could proceed with firm plans before appearing before the city commission for annexation approval.

Al Milch, who requested the zone change for the Kentwood tract for multi-family purposes, told the commission that he planned four apartment buildings on the four acres. He said the first would be a 30-unit, two-story building and that it would be of ultra-modern design. The building will face Twenty-fifth Street. Future plans call for a second building to the east, and two more to the south, with a swimming pool in the center of the area. He also said more land was being dedicated by him and by Bruce Frazier, who owns 10 acres west of Birdwell extended, to connect Birdwell with McDonald on the south. He said the street would be paved to provide a traffic artery on both sides of his property.

W. W. Milburn, who represented Kentwood developers, was present and said he approved of the apartment buildings.

The Thorpe Addition zone change was requested to enable construction of a drive-in cafe west of Wasson Road and north of the miniature golf course. The Planning and Zoning Commission felt that possible traffic hazards from Wasson and Marcy should be studied by the traffic commission before final approval of the request was granted, since it is close to two heavily-traveled streets.

Beauty Culturists To Hold Contest

The Big Spring unit of the Texas Association of Accredited Beauty Culturists voted Monday to hold a contest as part of its plans for observation of national Beauty Salon Week Feb. 10-16.

Teams were chosen to represent the local unit at the All-Texas Beauty Show coming up in Dallas in February. The contest will be followed by a dance and the National Beauty Salon Queen will be chosen.

Glenn Neileigh, District 8 director, will conduct an all-day educational clinic on new trends Jan. 20 at the Childress Beauty School.

Water Improvement Plans Okayed By Lamesa Council

LAMESA (SC)—A major waterworks improvement program has been approved by Lamesa City Council and the city's consulting engineers have been authorized to proceed with plans and specifications on the project.

Estimated cost of the entire program is $351,000. Revenue bonds were voted by citizens about three years ago and the newly-authorized projects are part of a continuing waterworks improvement program.

Plans call for construction of a ground storage reservoir and pump station in a water well field north of Lamesa that will boost capacity from 3½ million gallons of water to 5½ million gallons; the construction of a one million gallon reservoir and pump station in the city limits; an elevated 500,000 gallon storage tank at Avenue V and South Eighth Street; and improvement of the water distribution system and addition of 10 new fire hydrants in the downtown area.

All improvements have been recommended by the State Fire Insurance Commission. The water distribution change costs are expected to be redeemed in the form of reduced fire insurance rates within a three-year period.

A revised budget, calling for total expenditures in the current fiscal year of $830,691 has also been approved. The new budget includes additional expenditures of $38,805 for a number of projects and extra revenue will be provided from additional tax collections.

The council approved the floor plans and front elevation scheme for the new city hall building and appointed Dr. Douglas B. Black as city health officer for 1963.

C-City Slates Annual Banquet

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The 54th annual banquet of the Colorado City Chamber of Commerce will be held in the Colorado City Civic House, Jan. 17 at 7:30 p.m. R. W. Whipkey, publisher of the Big Spring Herald, will be the speaker.

The following Chamber officers will be installed to serve for 1963: Charles Root, president; R. J. Hoback, first vice president; Porter Richardson, second vice president; L. J. Taylor, treasurer; James Hull, secretary. Bob Carver is the retiring president.

The new directors are Charles Root, J. S. Craddock Jr., Bill F. Carter and L. J. Taylor. The holdover directors are Bob Carver, Porter Richardson, James Hull, Bob Reily, George Womack, R. J. Hoback, Dr. Kenneth Cowan, Arlene Morris.

The awards to be presented at the banquet are a plaque for outstanding Chamber member for 1962 and the Distinguished Service Award from the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Schools Lose Scholastics

For the fourth consecutive report period enrollment in Big Spring public schools registered a drop. The figure dropped by 19 on Friday's report to 7,419 students.

During the four-week period of loss, enrollment has gone down by 65 students from 7,484 on Nov. 30, 1962. A drop at this time of the year normally occurs and enrollment should begin to climb again before the end of the month if the trend established in past years continues.

Biggest losers last week were secondary schools. They lost a total of 12 pupils, dropping to 2,882. Elementary schools lost eight, going to 4,372 students, and special education went down by one to 163.

Enrollment by schools and changes during the reporting week are: Airport 440, down seven; Bauer 508, down six; Boydstun 520, up eight; Cedar Crest 301, down ix; College Heights 527, up three; Kate Morrison 272, down three; Lakeview 205, up three; Marcy 543, up five; Park Hill 290, down six; Washington 766, up one; Goliad 906, down four; Lakeview Junior High 71, down two; Runnels 726, down five; and Senior High 1,179, down one.

Lamesa Employs Finance Officer

LAMESA (SC) — Carl C. Cole has been employed as the City of Lamesa's first finance and budget control officer. Lamesa City Council has authorized Cole's employment as finance officer and he will also assume some of the bookkeeping workload formerly handled in the city secretary's office.

Cole has been employed by the City of Midland since March, 1958. He has served as internal auditor for the city's tax department for 2½ years and the rest of his tenure was spent as an accountant in the finance department.

Prior to his municipal ties, he was associated with a Midland accountant. A graduate of Abilene Christian College, where he majored in business administration, Cole is married and the father of four children. He will assume his duties here Jan. 21.

Moscow Has Bad Case Of Urban Overcrowding

By GEORGE SYVERTSEN

MOSCOW (AP)—Moscow, sometimes called "the beautiful lady" by its natives, is suffering from a bad case of urban overcrowding.

The problems include chronic shortages of housing, office space, stores and public services, as well as a shortage of municipal transportation.

The Soviet regime is making an effort to solve the major problem—the housing shortage.

The city fathers have allocated 455 million rubles for housing construction in their 1963 budget. This is about half the total budget. (Soviet authorities set the value of the ruble at $1.11 but there is no free exchange on it).

Soviet propaganda chiefs deny vigorously that the impressive housing construction rate in Moscow is a special effort to put up a showplace front. However, the city of Moscow, with probably 6½ million residents, represents less than 3 per cent of Soviet population. The capital is getting about 9 per cent of total national appropriations for housing construction.

Moscow officials say 400,000 Muscovites got new living quarters last year. But Moscow has grown at a rate of 400,000 a year for the past three years. It would appear officials are managing just to keep roofs over the heads of the population without substantially improving the lot of the vast majority.

The officially prescribed sanitary living space form here is 9 square meters—96 square feet—per person. This is about the size of many American bathrooms.

Most Russians don't have that. It is estimated that the Moscow average is 6-7 square meters.

In practice this means that three, four, sometimes a half dozen people are crowded into one room. Young people frequently cannot marry for lack of a place to live.

Divorced couples often share rooms with their new spouses. Most Soviet families have a crowd of in-laws living with them. A family rarely has a private bath and kitchen. Sometimes a single large room is divided among tenants who live in cubicles divided by curtains.

City authorities have quadrupled their planned expenditures in 1963 for co-operative housing. They are pinning hopes to an effort to get citizens to help finance new apartments.

The co-op member puts up 40 per cent of the cost of a new apartment. The state furnishes the remainder as a long-term loan.

Office space in this administrative nerve center of the Soviet Union has been a perennial problem. A few institutions, such as the Foreign Ministry and Council of Ministers, have skyscraper quarters. The bulk of government offices are crowded into ramshackle pre-revolutionary buildings—usually the confiscated mansions and townhouses of the tsarist aristocracy and middle class.

Public transportation is growning under the load of Moscow's constantly moving population. Almost a billion persons rode the efficient and comfortable subways last year. This represents only 40 per cent of the total transient load—the other 60 per cent rode antiquiated buses, trolley buses and street cars. Taxi service, by Western standards, also is inadequate.

Municipal authorities have made sporadic efforts to increase retail trade outlets and other service points, but still have a long way to go to streamline stores and markets. It is not unusual to spend 15 minutes buying a pound of butter.

In recent years, auto traffic has become a problem on major thoroughfares. The administration has taken a few measures such as closing some streets to trucks, and introducing one-way arteries.

To drain off cross-city traffic the government built a highway around Moscow, called the Ring Road. Many trucks use the road but it appears to have made little difference on the slow-moving stream of traffic in Moscow.

Despite these problems, many Russians dream of living in Moscow, a so-called closed city since 1931. Those who do have permission to live here wouldn't think of leaving it to live in the backwoods, as they call the provinces.

House Downs Rules Change

AUSTIN (AP)— The House of Representatives rejected a proposal to change long-standing rules of procedure Tuesday.

Members backed new Speaker Byron Tunnell 113-34 in his recommendation that rules of the last legislature be adopted.

This gives Tunnell a free hand in naming committee chairmen and members. Adoption of the rules is the first act of every legislature.

Reps. C. W. Pearcy of Temple and Bob Eckhardt of Houston lost attempts to block adoption of the rules, which provide for 43 committees.

Eckhardt favored rules which would have limited the number of committees to 25 and would have given senior members some power to choose committee assignments.

Tunnell said the 43-committee rules "insure continued efficiency in our internal operations."

ON THE SHELF

THE MAN WHO PLAYED GOD. By Robert St. John. Doubleday. $5.95.

By The Associated Press

This is fiction. But the plot of this novel has many strong parallels with historical fact.

The scene is Budapest in the latter part of World War II. It is a time when an Obersturmbannsauerkrautfuhrer named Wedemeher has set up a system of shipping a few million Hungarian Jews off to the extermination camps.

The hero of the novel is Andor Horvath, who by sheer force of will has become the head of a Jewish rescue committee negotiating with the Germans for the ransom of as many members of his race as he can possibly save.

In Hungary, there was no suicidal fight such as other writers have chronicled in stories about the Warsaw ghetto; most of the Hungarian Jews went meekly to their horrible fate.

Horvath raised ransom money —historically the fact was that the Germans demanded trucks—to get a rescue train of 1,600 Jews to safety in Switzerland. While this delicate mission was under way, he sacrificed several parachutists who had been assigned to organize a resistance force, on the principle that a few lives should be sacrificed for the sake of a larger group.

And then several years after the war, in Israel, Horvath was accused of being a collaborator with the hated Germans.

Throughout this long novel the author has raised the emotional and moral question of whether it is better to negotiate for a small number of doomed lives, or to go down fighting. He keeps asking the reader what he would have done in such a situation — bribe the methodical killers, to rescue a few? And also the question: If you could rescue a few, how would you choose them? How to play the saviour?

St. John has piled masses of detail into his story, and that slows up the narrative. Yet he has managed to maintain the grisly tension of fear, despair and moral crises throughout the book. Horvath is a memorable character. The book is a grim, nerveshaking episode from a shameful history of this era.

THE FINE ART OF LITERARY MAYHEM. By Myrick Land. Holt, Rinehart. $5.

Literary brickthrowing is as old as literature.

The ancient Greek satirist Aristophanes acidly described Euripides as "a cliche anthologist." Mark Twain said that, given a choice of burning in Dante's Inferno or reading a novel by Henry James, he would leap immediately into the flames. And Truman Capote, asked his opinion of beatnik author Jack Kerouac, replied, "That's not writing — that's typing."

Herein, living up to its subtitle, is presented "a lively account of famous writers and their feuds."

The 11 selected vendettas range from Dr. Samuel Johnson vs. Lord Chesterfield and Thackeray vs. Dickens to such modern embroglios as Ernest Hemingway vs. Gertrude Stein and Norman Mailer vs. All - the - Talent - in - the-Room.

Along the way we learn that D. H. Lawrence called John Middleton Murry "a dirty little worm." Somerset Maugham thought Hugh Walpole "easy to like, but difficult to respect." And Sinclair Lewis denounced critic Bernard DeVoto "as a fool and a tedious and egotistical fool, as a liar and a pompous and boresome liar."

For readers a bit weary of the awesome air that sometimes surrounds the literary great, this book is a joyous treasure indeed. It shows not only that literary idols have clay feet; they also sometimes find a human pleasure in making and hurling mudballs at one another — just like the other kids in the kindergarten. Brightly written; fascinating reading.

Sgt. Schnauzer, Where Were You For So Long?

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP TV - Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — As television's "Bilko" series ended, its creator, Nat Hiken, started planning another comedy series about policemen, "Car 54, Where Are You?"

Al Lewis, who had been playing a member of Phil Silver's comedy platoon, was interested in changing from olive drab to blue. But Hiken shook his head firmly and said, "No. You're not a cop."

In the fourth "Car 54" episode, Lewis was cast as a superintendent of construction. Fan response was so good that two weeks later he played a garage owner. One week later Hiken changed his mind and wrote in a regular part for Lewis. Thus, Sgt. Leo Schnauzer of the 53rd Precinct was born.

Now, in the second season, Lewis is almost as important to the series as the stars, Joe E. Ross and Fred Gwynne.

Lewis, a tall, mobile-faced man well past the first fine flush of youth, is—surprisingly—almost a newcomer to acting. A native New Yorker, he has been fascinated by the theatre for years and studied nights in the Actors' Workshop for nine years. But he has been a professional only since 1956.

He made his stage debut in an off-Broadway revival of "the Iceman Cometh" (playing an ex-cop) but developed his distinctive, apoplectic comedy style during his student years.

"The first time I played Schnauzer, I had only a half dozen lines and I wasn't quite sure what kind of a character he was," Lewis explained. "But in those three scenes I got about 75 per cent of the idea—and to tell the truth, he's pretty close to what I am.

"He gets excited easily—and he gets very loud when he's excited. He's frenetic about the simplest thing, and when he gets angry, there's a real boom. But even if he's loud, he's not an oaf, but a very simple guy, down-to-earth, and does everything with relish. But he overdoes everything."

Lewis is fascinated by his fan mail:

"Remember, in most of my acting I've been cast as a heavy or as an idiot," he explained. "I don't get as much mail from the kids as Joe E.—they love him. "I get my mail from women. And they write to tell me what a charming interesting man I seem to be. Me! My wife watches the show, and she thinks they must be kidding."

This Preacher Had The Spirit(s)

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) —A Nashville church pastor was fined $50 in city court for manufacturing illegal whisky in the church coffee urn.

The Rev. Bernard Swain, 30, pastor of the St. Psalm Spiritual Church, was arrested in a Dec. 20 raid. Officers said they found a 55-gallon drum of mash and a 15-gallon coffee urn which also contained mash. Swain told Judge Andrew Doyle Monday he was making sacramental "holy wine" for his congregation. He pleaded innocent to the charge.

The Rev. Mr. Swain said services were suspended temporarily three months ago because of financial difficulty but said his congregation numbered 6,000.

Police Inspector Ramon Marler, testifying about the raid, called the building "anything but a church."
