UAW, Ford Officials Meet Again

By DWIGHT PITKIN

DETROIT (AP) — United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther met with top Ford Motor Co. negotiators today in an effort to hammer out settlement of a strike that has shut down Ford plants across the nation.

Reuther and Malcolm L. Denise, a Ford vice president for labor relations, met for 30 minutes. Top-level negotiations then were recessed until 2 p.m. to allow subcommittees to work on language involved in national noneconomic matters and local-level disputes.

Fords 120,000 hourly production workers walked off the job Tuesday after negotiations broke down on a national noneconomic contract. Bargainers had reached agreement on wages and benefits. Still unsettled are local issues at many key plants.

Reuther said he was suggesting to Ford that national and local settlements on working conditions be placed in one package so as to end the strike without setting another deadline on local issues.

Denise, commenting on Reuther's proposal for combining local and national issues, said, "We have been working on local issues and will continue to work on them.

CRMWD Asks Fast Action On Pollution

BIG SPRING—Directors of the Colorado River Municipal put oil operators in the Sharon Ridge Field on notice today that they expect prompt action toward clearing up salt water pollution along the upper Colorado River.

The board authorized Charles Perry, Odessa, to inform the West Central Texas Oil and Gas Association, through whom it has had contact with the operators, that there is a keen sense of urgency about the matter.

Operators have before them three proposals for salt water disposal in the field, but reports to the board Tuesday indicated none of the three had resulted in many signed contracts. One proposal, advanced by the Operators Salt Water Disposal Committee created by the association after the CRMWD laid before them its findings last December which pointed the finger at oilwell salt water pit disposal as the chief source of pollution, was made by Mesa Pipeline Company of Dallas. Two independent proposals were submitted from the floor, one by Permian Corp. of Midland and the other by Southwest Hydrocarbon of Corsicana.

It has been 15 months since the State Board of Water Engineers granted the District a permit to impound a second lake on the Colorado River but with the proviso that salt water pollution would first have to be controlled. E. V. Spence, CRMWD general manager recalled. It has been 10 months since the district advised the operators that proper means of salt water disposal is required, and the district can ill afford to wait much longer before taking definite action, he said.

Perry expressed the hope that operators could settle the matter soon without the district having to seek corrective action.

Bids for a headquarters were taken under advisement when the lowest of 12 proposals was considerably beyond estimates for the job. A.P. Kasch & Sons of Big Spring was low with an offer of $96,240, and the bids ranged up to a top of $120,877. Whether to seek modification or a redesign of plans and specifications will be explored prior to Oct. 12 when the board is due to meet again to consider the annual budget.

An appropriation of $38,000 was approved for converting the Morgan Creek booster station in northeastern Howard County into an automatically operated unit. Savings on a similar one in eastern Martin County have almost paid for the expenditure there, said O. H. Ivie, assistant manager-production. The new equipment will be micro-wave operated and will be set up for eventual extension to all the system.

W. E. Routh, Odessa city manager, and Tommy Morris, director of utilities for the City of Odessa advised the district that land on which part of the well field at Odessa is located may be plotted for small industrial tracts. Under a contractural arrangement, the district has the water rights under the land.

Cool Spell Endures Here

Snyder area residents awoke to another morning of chilly temperatures, but a gradual warming trend with continued clear skies was predicted for most of the state today.

Snyder had a low reading of 42 degrees, the same as the Tuesday morning reading.

A 39-degree reading at Junction was the lowest reported in the state, which is some 12 degrees warmer than the frigid 27 degrees recorded as the state's low Tuesday morning at Muleshoe.

The early-morning high was 60 degrees at Galveston.

The U.S. Weather Bureau forecast fair weather and warmer temperatures for all sections of the state through Thursday.

Soviet Commander In Berlin Warns Against U. S. Action

BERLIN (AP) — Marshal Ivan S. Konev, commander of Soviet forces in East Berlin, has warned the U.S. Army commander in Europe against taking any action that might upset prospects of East-West talks on Berlin.

This was announced Tuesday night by a Soviet Embassy spokesman. There were reports that the tough-talking marshal was complaining about the resumption of U.S. military police patrols on the autobahn linking West Berlin with West Germany — 110 miles away.

The Soviet spokesman said Konev's letter was sent to Gen. Bruce C. Clarke, commander of the U.S. Army in Europe, under whose orders the patrols were resumed Sept. 23 after a nine-year lapse.

The patrols were resumed after two U.S. soldiers were detained on the autobahn for six hours by East German Communist police. The action was, in effect, a warning to East Germany to keep hands off U.S. military traffic to Berlin.

Konev took the line that any undue steps by U.S. authorities might rock the boat and ruin prospects for a peaceful settlement of the Berlin issue, the Soviet spokesman said.

Former commander of the Warsaw Pact armies, Konev was pulled from retirement for the East German assignment in August after tension rose over Berlin and the Soviet threat to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany. Such a treaty, the Soviets warn, would place Allied lifelines to Berlin under the control of the East Germans.

A U.S. Army spokesman at Clarke's Heidelberg headquarters confirmed that the general had received a message from Konev and had answered it.

One of Clarke's aides said such communications between the top U.S. and Soviet commanders "occur from time to time and are not necessarily matters for publication."

West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt told a group of visiting U.S. newsmen that the Allied command bore the responsibility of allowing the East German Communists to erect without interference the wall across the divided city.

Brandt said that as mayor he had to accept the allied decision. Both Brandt and Allied commanders agree that the barrier violates agreements with the Soviets providing for unhampered travel between East and West Berlin.

Kennedy, Gromyko To Confer Friday

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko will confer Friday on the Berlin situation.

The White House announced the expected appointment time today. Presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger declined to go into the nature of subjects to be discussed.

The conference was arranged as a followup to those in New York between Gromyko and Secretary of State Dean Rusk seeking to determine whether there are prospects for fruitful East-West negotiations to settle the Berlin dispute.

Salinger said the Kennedy-Gromyko meeting was arranged by the State Department. He declined to say whether the initiative came from the Russian or American side.

Kennedy will give Gromyko a final expression of the U. S. view before the Soviet foreign minister leaves for Moscow.

Further U. S.-Soviet talks seem likely. So far, Gromyko has given Rusk only a limited clarification of the Kremlin's intentions on Germany.

Rusk would still like to know more precisely what Soviet Premier Khrushchev means, for instance, when he talks about guarantees for Western rights to West Berlin after he signs a peace treaty with Communist East Germany.

Diplomats said firm arrangements obviously would have to await the outcome of the White House meeting. But barring a more rapid advance than has taken place so far, more exploratory talks will be needed before the prospects of an East-West negotiating conference can be gauged.

These sources named the U. S. ambassador to Moscow, Llewellyn Thompson, as one who might carry out continued preliminary discussions for the U. S. side. They noted that U. S.-Soviet ambassadorial level contact is also possible at the United Nations and in Washington.

Kennedy received a report from Gen. Lauris Norstad, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Commander. NATO is building its armed strength in the face of the Berlin threat and a generally tougher Communist stance worldwide.

Joining the White House conference, which lasted about two hours, were Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Norstad's visit was described as one of his frequent trips to Washington for consultation.

Hopes Brighten On U. S. Issue

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Prospects appeared a little brighter today for East-West agreement on naming a U.N. secretary-general.

Informed sources voiced guarded optimism that a formula might be announced soon — perhaps when Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko meets Secretary of State Dean Rusk in Washington later this week.

Soviet delegates were giving the impression that their only demand on the naming of a temporary successor to the late Dag Hammarskjold is that he be screened by the Security Council, where the Soviet Union holds the veto power.

But if the selection is left to the General Assembly alone, as advocated by some Western nations, the Soviet Union will refuse to recognize the new secretary-general "even if he were a Russian," on high Soviet source said. There is no veto in the General Assembly.

Latest speculation centered on a plan to name an acting secretary-general with five deputies. Two would come from the Soviet Union and the United States, the other three from Latin America, Asia and Africa.

There was no indication whether such a plan would be acceptable to the Soviets, who have proposed naming a secretary-general to work with three deputies representing East, West and neutrals.

The Soviets are telling other delegations that this formula is a far-reaching compromise and that they have dropped the idea that the deputies would exercise any veto over the actions of the temporary secretary-general.

As for a permanent solution, however, the Soviet Union continues to insist on troika—a veto-armed three-man secretariat. The United States rejected the soviet temporary formula Tuesday, declaring it amounted to recognition of the troika principle.

Seasickness Hit Titov During Orbit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet astronaut Gherman Titov was somewhat seasick during most of his 25 hours in orbit around the earth, Soviet scientists reported today.

They said preliminary indications were that the nausea was the result of extended weightlessness.

In a paper for presentation to the International Astronautic Federation O. G. Gazenko and Y. J. Yazdovsky of the Soviet Academy of Sciences noted that another U.S. astronaut Alan Shepard, who spent five minutes under conditions of weightlessness, nor Soviet astronaut Yuri Gagarian, who endured zero gravity for more than an hour, noted any comparable disturbances.

One of the medical questions raised by the prospect of space travel has been whether the human system could endure long periods without the familiar effects of gravity.

The paper said Titov retained "a sufficient level of working capacities" at all times and his principal bodily functions were not harmfully affected. However, it continued, he felt during weightlessness unpleasant sensations associated with the ear chamber. Balace is regulated in the inner ear.

These sensations became stronger and stronger during the flight, especially when Titov turned his head sharply or was observing swiftly moving objects.

For some time after Titov woke from his nap the sensations decreased, but they did not disappear until he began to feel the spaceships deceleration, its return into the atmosphere.

"Thus, the sensation of some discomfort, accompanied the considerable portion of the flight and resembled seasickness," the paper said.

FEM CONTESTANT WINS GRID PICKING PRIZE

It was inevitable that something like this would happen sooner or later. Anyone could see the handwriting on the wall back when they up and granted the women suffrage.

The reference is centered around the weekly Snyder News football Contest. Yep, fellows, you guessed it; this last week's was won by a woman.

Mrs. Jack Longbotham of Route 3 is the lucky lady. She fumbled the ball on only six of the 28 selections, two of which were tie games involving Ohio State vs. TCU and Kansas vs. Wyoming. After three weeks of contesting for the top spot, she represents the first clear-cut champ, as multiple ties have reared their heads in the two previous ones. She will receive $10 by virtue of having submitted the winning entry.

Two contestants—both of the masculine variety—tied for second place, which should serve to salvage at least a portion of the shattered male ego. Just one miss away from Mrs. Longbotham with seven miscues each were Tom Bennett of 2802 Thirty-fourth Street and Jack R. Berry of 601 Twenty-ninth Street. They thus fall in line for a 50-50 share of the $2.50 second place award.

Three stumbling blocks were encountered by all three winning contestants, and included the aforementioned pair of tie games along with Houston's 7-10 loss to Mississippi State.

Finishing just out of the money were a number of entrants with eight misses each—a cool 13, to be exact. Making up that list are Carol Bailey, Hazel Berry, Mrs. Garland Bishop, Ronald Z. Bratton, Mrs. Ronald Z. Bratton, Faye Cook, Bill Davis, Arturo Espinoza, Robert Foree, Mrs. M. M. Keeble, Charlie B. Morrow, Joe Overton, and S. A. Parker.

A new contest involving games of this weekend may be found elsewhere in today's edition.

Trapped Teen-Ager Rescued From Georgia Mountain Cave

RISING FAWN, Ga. (AP) — Rescue workers, inching their way through a treacherous mountain cave, brought to the surface about dawn today an injured teen-aged boy who had been trapped overnight.

The youth, Ronnie Reese, 15, did not appear to be in serious condition from his ordeal. He was taken to a nearby hospital.

"We had to have an awful lot of help from the man upstairs to get this boy out," commented weary Charles McGuire, chief of operations of the Civil Defense rescue unit from Chattanooga, Tenn., about 30 miles northeast of this remote, mountain section of Georgia.

Reese fell into a crevasse in the cave shortly after dark Tuesday while he, his brother, Byron, and two other teen-age boys were exploring the cave near the top of Fox Mountain.

He was trapped on a ledge 50 feet below the cave's main floor about 10 hours before rescue workers managed to bring him up. Then it took another gruelling two hours to reach the cave entrance, about a half-mile away.

Rescue operations were hampered by loose rocks and some big boulders around the top of the crevasse where Ronnie fell. Members of the rescue unit said they were frightened once when a few small rocks started falling. But no big ones tumbled down.

The boy was unconscious much of the time during the rescue operation.

Rescue workers swaddled him in padding, blankets and jackets and put a helmet on his head before they bound him to a stretcher for the trip outside.

They reported portions of the cave's floor were [illegible] the time they had to pass the stretcher from one man to another.

Two Associated Press newsmen helped carry the stretcher the mile down the mountainside over the brushy, pine-thicket terrain to a truck.

At one time about 50 persons huddled around two fires, but when the rescue was completed only four men, including Ronnies father, were on hand.

There were no cheers. Just relief.

Trial Of Suit Against City Begins

A retrial of the law suit of W. Prentis Bass vs. the City of Snyder began this morning in 132nd District Court here.

Bass, developer of the Bassridge Addition, was the first witness called by the plaintiff's attorney as testimony got underway at 11:30 a.m.

In the suit, Bass asks a total of $34,319.50 for sewer facilities and pavement in the Bassridge Addition south of Towle Memorial Park. The addition was annexed to the city in December of 1959, and the improvements in question already had been made in the addition.

In his pleadings the plaintiff alleges that he should be reimbursed for the facilities since they have been taken into the city. The city denies any obligation and denies ownership of the facilities, except as custodian of public property.

First trial of the suit ended last June 10 when a jury was unable to reach a verdict. The jury had been asked to establish whether the improvements had market value, intrinsic value, or both, and if so, the amount of such value.

Warlick Carr of Lubbock and Gene L. Dulaney are attorneys for the plaintiff, while the city is represented by Lewis Nichols of Dallas, and Arthur Blanchard, city attorney.

Panel Raps Rifle Delay

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate subcommittee has criticized "delays and deficiencies" in production of the M14 automatic rifle.

It noted in a report released Tuesday that while the rifle was conceived 16 years ago, U.S. forces in Berlin were not issued the new weapon until last month.

"It was disappointing to realize that our troops on the frontier of a global crisis were not in possession of the most modern [illegible] available," the subcommittee said.

But the subcommittee said it was pleased to learn the Army had corrected the situation and "not only the entire Berlin garrison but also all combat elements of the 7th Army were fully equipped with the M14 by Oct. 1."

The subcommittee said "among the factors contributing to the long delay was a lack of emphasis on the program and insufficient funding."

The report said the M14, which fires 750 rounds a minute, was superior to three similar Soviet weapons.

School Aid Bill Signed By JFK 'With Reluctance'

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has signed into law "with extreme reluctance" a bill containing the remains of his aid to education program.

The measure (1) extends for two years the program of federal aid to school districts burdened with children of federal personnel and (2) continues for two years the National Defense Education Act.

The former, known as the impacted areas program, carries about $300 million a year in U.S. grants. The Defense Education Act, which provides loans to college students and aids to teaching of science, mathematics and foreign languages, has been costing about $250 million a year.

It was all Congress granted the President of the ambitious federal aid to education program he proposed this year.

Kennedy Tuesday night vetoed a bill that would have given $60.5 million a year in pay raises to 560,000 postal workers through quicker longevity increases.

In a veto memorandum Kennedy said, "Budgetary needs are too urgent to permit approval of this measure unattended by revenue increases."

Congress did not pass the postal rate increases recommended by both the Kennedy and Eisenhower administrations. The President cited this as one of the reasons he vetoed the measure. He said the proposed raises would have increased the postal deficit to more than $800 million.

Despite the extra costs, said Kennedy, the bill would not have achieved its objectives.

He said civil service and postal pay structures need extensive revision and promised that the administration will make recommendations to the next session of Congress.

In signing the education measure, Kennedy said in a statement:

"It ill becomes those who insist that we cannot afford the expenditure of federal funds to aid the public education of all children to insist with equal fervor upon the passage of this unsound and uneconomical measure which aids the education of only some."

Kennedy announced that he will try again next year to push through his broader education program.

The need to improve educational standards still will be before Congress, he said, and "that need must be met on a basis which, for every dollar spent, goes much further to attack our most critical deficiencies than the measure I am required to approve today."

Kennedy said an air of utter inconsistency surrounds the impacted areas program. "The communities which demanded the federal government to maintain nearby installations however uneconomical now demand that the federal government rescue them from the fiscal burdens these installations allegedly create."

He added: individuals who profess opposition to federal aid to education on grounds of states rights, racial or religious controversy, budgetary economy or academic freedom do not hesitate to demand this federal aid to build school houses and pay teachers' salaries in their own areas."

He said he signed the measure because the Welfare Department told him that to defer action until the next session of Congress would jeopardize the entire educational effort of a substantial number of school districts largely dependent on federal funds.

An estimated one-third of all public school children benefit from the impacted areas grants.

Administration forces in Congress tried to use the popular impacted areas program as a bit to win passage of the key measure in Kennedy's education package—grant to public grade and high schools.

Accuse Nasser Of Stifling Freedom

By DVID LANGASHIRE

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—President Gamal Abdel Nasser's agents moved "like an octopus to weaken the Syrian army, suffocate freedom of citizens and to fill prisons," says the new Syrian army commander.

Gen. Abdel Karim Zahredin told reporters Tuesday that was the reason the Syrian army rose against Nasser's United Arab Republic last week and forcibly severed Syria's 2½-year-old ties with Egypt.

Zahredin also accused Cairo agents of stealing millions of dollars worth of Syrian arms and equipment for shipment to Egypt.

He said Nasser's intelligence officers filled Syria's prisons with political prisoners and stifled individual liberties.

"The army's only aim was to redress wrongs and it was pledged not to interfere with the political life of Syria, he said.

Informed sources said that one way Nasser weakened the Syrian army was to send several dozen Syrian officers to Communist countries as students. They said Syria now has demanded their prompt return.

Interior Minister Adnan Kuwatly told newsmen the new Syrian regime had found a large number of political prisoners but had been unable to come up with an accurate count. Premier Mamoun Kuzbari estimated the number at about 30,000.

Kuwatly said the dreaded internal security system at one time had about 6,500 secret agents with a monthly payroll of about one million Syrian pounds — $2,800,000.

Syria will continue its ban on the Communist party, Kuwatly said, adding that "we will leave the question of political parties to Parliament."

Syria's four non-Communist parties also were barred under the U. A. R. Their leaders have announced support of the new regime.

Kuzbari has set a four-month limit within which elections are to be arranged.

City Employe Gets Award

State Health authorities have awarded an official citation to David B. Stroud, filter plant operation with the Snyder municipal water department, for "excellent performance of a vital community service."

The impressively designed document, signed by the commissioner of health and authorities of the Texas Water and Sewage Works Association, is sparingly awarded only to those who can demonstrate "skill and knowledge of water treatment plant management and and an understanding of the public health importance of the work."

Under the State Health Department's operator certification program, operators are carefully examined on their technical ability and on their knowledge of their work's influence on community health. Each must pass a stiff written test to qualify for certification.

The Texas general sanitation law requires that at least one plant operator per shift be certified by the state health agency, but other plant personnel and persons in related fields frequently seek certification on their own time and at the own expense to advance themselves professionally and to increase their efficiency.

From me to you

A DAILY VIEW

by Rev. R. Charles Spivey

"Paul, standing on the steps, motioned with his hand to the people; and when there was a great hush, he spoke to them in the Hebrew language, saying: 'Brethren and fathers, hear the defense which I now make before you!' And when they heard that he addressed them in the Hebrew language, they were more quite.'

Acts 21:40 — 22:2 (please read Acts 22)

How interesting it is that the crowd which gathered around Paul stopped their arguing and listened to what he had to say when he "spoke their language". Paul had a way of communicating the Good News because he could speak their language. Often this is the failure of the Church and its members today; they simply do not speak the language of the people. Only when the Church learns this "language", can, and will, people hear the good news.

New Shapes And Forms In Furniture

By JOE MILLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Getting to like plastic chairs that look tubular, tortured or like diseased mushrooms?

Then stick around. The next decade or two are for you.

John Van Koert, one of the country's eminent designers, predicts new shapes, forms and functions in furniture in the next 10 to 15 years, dictated by kinds of material available.

Fine woods are disappearing, he points out, and in a few years furniture will be made of plastics or metal, with wood used only for decorative purposes.

"The whole domestic architecture will be different," says Van Koert. "Rooms will not be bedrooms, dining rooms and so forth, as we know them. People will live all over a house, which will be subdivided according to needs. There will be no dead areas. Everything will be more convertible. More folding furniture will be used, and sliding screens. Beds will fold away. Most things can be put away right after you've finished using them."

Van Koert expects the new furniture to be less expensive.

"We're going to having an economic breakthrough in furniture when the industry gets really industrialized. As in terms of the metals industry, for example, the furniture industry isn't industrialized. It still has hand work. I like hand work, but it's expensive and in this case it's not expression of individual artistry but merely that there's no machine to do the work."

Industrialization will make furniture more expendable, and that's a subject dear to Van Koert's heart.

"I truthfully believe it is perfectly absurd to hold onto mediocre average furniture when you move. Why drag an inexpensive little sofa across the country, even if the company is paying for the move? It's practically immoral.

"So grandma did used to sit on it. Unless it has unusual merit, there's no reason to keep it."

Oh, he's all for heirlooms, Van Koert explains quickly. Works of art and fine handcraft should have a permanent place.

"But I won't attach value to an awkward piece of furniture."

Van Koert thinks the time will come when we have a few very fine portable possessions. "Americans are becoming more and more nomadic. The average young businessman moves his family time and again. He certainly should become adept at it. And holding on to things that have no intrinsic value is false sentimentality."

Atoms For Peace Is Chief Interest At Oak Ridge Now

By INEZ ROBB

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. — The average citizen of Oak Ridge has an almost evangelical fervor in his eagerness to tell the world that his community is far more interested today in atoms for peace than for war.

Certainly, the extensive and diversified work of the great Oak Ridge National Laboratory is up to its Cutie Pies — a small Geiger counter resembling a telephoto lens — in peaceful experimentation with th atom.

In its complex of buildings are housed 18 research and development divisions of which "five are concerned primarily with the various aspects of physics; four with chemical research, two with reactor engineering and one each in the following fields — metallurgy, mathematics, biology, health, instrumentation and controls, education and technical information," according to one of the laboratory's bulletins.

This laboratory is the Atomic Energy Commission's largest research center. It was first built during World War II as a pilot plant and produced gram quantities of plutonium, the nuclear fuel used in the Nagasaki bomb.

Since the war, it has been broadened into a multi-purpose national laboratory, run by the Union Carbide Corporation under contract to the A.E.C. The laboratory is, for instance, the largest producer of isotopes for medical and industrial purposes, with between 3,000 and 5,000 customers.

Three of the lab's main purposes according to Alvin M. Weinberg, director of the laboratory and one of the world's top half-dozen nuclear scientists, is the production of isotopes, the development of reactor systems (to run submarines, merchant ships, produce electric power, etc.), and to develop an energy system for man that will act for all time.

Among all the esoteric experiments going on here in Oak Ridge, one of the most readily understood by the layman is this attempt to find an energy or fuel system that will last man in perpetuity.

If man can only harness them, there are two great and inexhaustible sources of energy available to him once he has run out of "fossil fuels," i. e. coal and oil.

First, there is the known abundance of deuterium, or heavy hydrogen, in the oceans, enough to power the world. And second, there is the residual thorium and uranium that exists in all granite or granitic rocks, available all over the world.

In the first case, scientific gobbledygook knows the process as "burning the sea"; in the second as "burning the rocks."

It is obvious that Weinberg favors "burning the rocks," although experiments in both processes go on here.

"I firmly believe that in a hundred years man will be using energy made out of granite," Weinberg said as he handed me a sample of granite and a small phial full of a clear, oil substance extracted from granite. "This is one of the most important projects of the laboratory, for it means that man would have a limitless new source of fuel."

The projects in the biology department are of equal interest to man and his survival, even if less easily stated, especially when a vital program is titled "Mammalian Radiation Recovery Program". Boiled down, that means intensive study in trying to save you and me from doses of radiation in case of nuclear war, God forbid.

What man longs for is a pill to cure or prevent radiation sickness. Has this laboratory hit on such a palliative?

Well, not really. However, in the biological laboratory I learned that the invention of a synthetic chemical has been perfected that will permit a mammal to receive a lethal dose of irradiation — providing the mammal (no one substitutes the ultimate word "man"!) has taken a sufficient amount of the synthetic chemical, called A. E. T., before — remember, BEFORE, not after — the lethal dose of irradiation is received.

As of now, the best and most practical solution is to avoid a nuclear war.

Drilling Crew Is Heading For Land

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP)—Fourteen men who tried to ride out a Gulf of Mexico storm on a weather-beaten $5.5 million oil drilling rig were to head for port today, leaving the crippled barge behind.

The men, uninjured but weary from a day and night effort to save the rig, abandoned the barge late Tuesday and spent the night on a tug standing by.

Efforts to tow the large barge toward Brownsville, 105 miles to the south, were stymied when tow lines broke under the force of 20-foot waves and 35 mile per hour winds.

The Coast Guard said the barge was owned by Reading and Bates Co. of Lake Charles, La.

It's Easy To Fool A Husband

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Everyone knows it is all but impossible today for a husband to fool his wife.

But how about wives fooling husbands?

On the evidence, it's getting easier for them all the time.

"No woman can pull the wool over my eyes," brags many a husband. Such men are pitiful examples of self-delusion.

Usually a woman has pulled the wool over their eyes so long ago they have become used to it. They have forgotten what a clear view is like.

Civilization ties husbands in knots; it merely gives wives more loose threads to knit to their own purpose.

A man is kept so busy trying to fool his boss he doesn't have the time to fool his wife, and attempts it only in what he regards as emergencies. As a result he usually fails.

But fooling a husband is both a game and a duty to a wife. She regards it as a marital necessity, for she feels if she doesn't keep him fooled she can't keep him happy.

The classic ways by which women fool their husbands are to act dumb and to say one thing to them when they mean something else.

Example of the first way:

Husband, going over check stubs: "Here's one you wrote for $150. It looks like it says, 'frammis oglesrack.' What in the world was that for?"

Wife, innocently: "Oh, dear, you know I can't read my own handwriting, but I know it was for somethig terribly important."

Actually, what she did write down was "frammis oglesrack." To her it stands for $150 for 10 charm school lessons to lose weight and improve her personality. But she knows that if she told her husband she spent the money for this vital purpose, he'd go through the ceiling—thus creating an unnecessary repair bill.

Example of the second way:

"Wife: "Dear, you're looking a bit shabby, and you really can't afford to in your business. Promise me you'll buy yourself a new suit today."

Husband, flattered by her interest in his appearance: "Guess you're right at that. I will."

Here what the wife really meant wasn't, "You look shabby," but "I feel shabby." As soon as he buys one new suit, she'll buy two new dresses.

Ex-Head Of Firm Jailed

HOUSTON (AP) — The former president of the United States Sulphur Co. is in jail on six charges of embezzling more than $26,000.

He is Harry Thomas McClain, 35, who was replaced as president of the Houston company at a stockholders meeting March 16.

McClain denied the charges Tuesday and said the money was his own and represented part of the money he loaned to the firm.

The complaints accuse McClain of converting $26,722.55 of the company's funds to his own use.

Gerald Fortney, an attorney for the company, said an investigation has turned up a shortage of $130,000 so far. He said even more money may be missing.

The company was founded in 1957 with a plant at High Island, Tex.

Quarterbaek Club Makes Awards; Hears Comments

Honored Tuesday night as inital recipients of the Quarterback Club's Lineman and Back of the Week were guard Bob Smith and halfback Mike Morris. They were given the nod for the honor by their fellow teammates on the strength of the brand of play as displayed during Snyder's 19-12 Friday victory over Kermit.

The presentations were made before the Club during its regular session, with president Joe Williamson awarding the certificate to Morris and Bill Vestal presenting Smith's to him.

Several other high school gridders attended the meeting as guests of the Club, including Danny Colwell, Larry McNair, Tim Marcum, Darrell Aldridge, Billy Stewart, Tim Hardin, Kenny Wellborn, Jimmy Taylor, Pete Greene, and Ray Grimmett.

Relevant to Friday's victory, head coach Horrace Bostick mentioned that he considered the team's come-from-behind win in the second half "a matter of just getting 'wound up.' " Snyder trailed at halftime by 6-12 prior to lighting the spark and roaring to the triumph on the crest of some quick second half fireworks.

Line coach V. V. Shearburn echoed Bostick's sentiments, commenting that the coaching staff was "proud of the way our boys came back in the second half," and further noted that, "It has been a characteristic of Snyder clubs to be strong during the second half, so maybe we're beginning to 'come around' now."

Prior to turning the program over to the system's coaches, a number of members purchased plastic booster pennants which are designed to be mounted on car antennas. They sell for one dollar each, and are being pushed as a fund-raising project by the school band. All Tiger fans are encouraged to buy and display them throughout the remainder of the season.

Breck Next

The Bengal eleven next engages the Breckenridge Buckaroos this Friday in Breckenridge. Coach Ace Amos briefed the Club on what to expect from the Bucks offensively after he and Coach J. P. Ward scouted them against both Abilene Cooper and Abilene High.

"They didn't have too rough a time against Cooper," Amos began, "but last week they beat Abilene in everything but the score. The only thing that saved Abilene was their punter," he continued. "That boy was the best punter I've seen playing high school ball."

"They move the ball well and can throw," he stipulated. "They have a little flare pass out into the flat that works about four out of five times, too, which can hurt."

Breck's primary weakness, he continued, rested in their punting game, which he described as their "one big disadvantage."

He summed up his comments with the forewarning that, "They're a typical Breck club, though—they're scrappy, and will fight you down to the last drop."

Ward itemized that their defense is, to say the least, "changeable," and that there thus may be some surprises awaiting along those lines. Against Cooper and Abilene the Bucks "changed their defense quite a bit," he commented.

He added that the Tigers will no doubt be faced with a four-man front, but that as far as the Buck secondary and safety men are concerned it will have to be a policy of wait-and-see.

The meeting was topped off with a showing of the Snyder-Kermit game film, along with narration by Coach Bostick.

LUBBOCK (Special)—Texas A&M's Aggie Band will parade through downtown Lubbock Saturday preceding its appearance at the football game with Texas Tech here that night.

The band will arrive at Lubbock on a special train at 3:25 p.m., and begin the parade from the Santa Fe station at 4:p.m.

Route of the parade will be west on Main Street to Texas, then south to Broadway, west again on Broadway to Avenue N, where the band will be loaded on buses.

At 5 p.m. the band will go to the Army Reserve Armory for a barbecue sponsored by the Lubbock A&M Club in the drill hall. At 6:30 p.m. the band will leave the barbecue for Jones Stadium.

Tickets to the barbecue will be available at the door for $2.50 each. At the same time Aggie fans who do not have tickets for the football game may purchase them for $4. A limited number of tickets in sections 18 and 118 on the east side near midfield are still available, according to Don McInturff, local A&M Club president.

Mullins Named As Co-Captain Against Ags

LUBBOCK (Special) — Captains for Texas Tech's game with Texas A&M here Saturday night were announced today by Coach J. T. King.

They will be fullback Coolidge Hunt of Lubbock, end Larry Jones of Lubbock, and tackle Larry Mullins of Snyder.

A record-breaking crowd of 35,000 is expected for the game, according to Mrs. Mildred Graham, ticket manager. Both reserved and general admission tickets are still available at the Texas Tech ticket office on 6th Street immediately south of Jones Stadium.

Smith Making Mark For Tiger '11'

Bob Smith Jr., a solid senior two - way Tiger, is proving to be a big help in battening down the club's interior line. The 5'9" lineman, who is 17 and tips the scales at 189, handles the starting guard assignment on both offense and defense, and is currently working toward his third varsity letter with the team.

Young Smith was born in Decatur and attended elementary school in Midland and Sweetwater prior to moving to Snyder. He now resides at 320 Thirty - fifth Street here.

His dad, R. L. Smith, is the area foreman in charge of the Scurry County gathering system for the Magnolia Pipe Line Company.

Bob has one sister, Kay, who is 16 years of age.

In addition to sports, he also enjoys radio, television, and bridge.

From a college angle, he has an eye cocked in the direction of Texas Tech, where he plans to pursue a course in the study of pre-med.

On the basis of the prowess as shown Friday against Kermit, he was honored Tuesday night by being presented the initial Lineman of the Week award by the Snyder Quarterback Club, the selection being made by vote of his fellow teammates.

O'Toole Has Jitters, But Still Eager

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Jim O'Toole, 24-year-old son of a Chicago policeman, had the most important assignment of his career today, and he admitted he had "butterflies."

Currently the hottest pitcher on either team, O'Toole was Manager Fred Hutchinson's choice as opening-day pitcher for the Cincinnati Reds against the New York Yankees.

"I'll feel the butterflies, all right," conceded O'Toole, a 190-pound, 6-footer. "But I always feel them in any game until I get a batter or two out. Then they go away."

O'Toole is the youngest of Hutchinson's big three, and the least experienced.

But he had a winning streak of eight games at the end of the season and did not allow a single home run in 101 innings of his last 16 games. That's what Hutchinson needs against the Yankee long-ball hitters.

Match Set Following Ref Rabble

TORONTO (AP)—Floyd Patterson will defend his world heavyweight championship against Tom McNeeley here on Dec. 4 — all because they couldn't agree on a referee in Boston.

Originally, the bout was set for Boston on Nov. 13, but was called off because the Massachusetts Boxing Commission refused to go along with Patterson's request for an out-of-state referee.

Patterson apparently felt that McNeeley, who comes from Boston, might have an advantage with a local referee.

Promoter Tom Bolan made the announcement Tuesday that the Patterson-McNeeley bout would be held here in the 15,000-seat Maple Leaf Gardens.

Mike Morris Gains Ground On Teammate

Halfback Mike Morris closed a large portion of the gap between himself and fullback Bob Pena in the Tiger rushing yardage department the past week, rolling to a total of 120 yards on 11 carries while Pena was picking up 38 steps on 10 luggings.

The bulk of the mileage as compiled by Morris during the 19-12 Tiger victory over Kermit came about on one play in which he rocketed 88 yards for a touchdown to knot the count at 12-12 at the time. Eddie Phy split the uprights to boost his mates into the lead, and then Snyder tallied another quick one to ice the contest.

The longest run as made from scrimmage by a Tiger prior to Morris' gallop came about in the Andrews game when halfback Bax Callaway embarked on a gainer of 42 yards. Ironically, that is also his jersey number—42.

Callaway, with 60 yards netted on nine totings, continues to pace the team in average gain per rushing carry with his tally of 6.7, although Morris' Friday performance put him into the position of breathing down Callaway's neck, as the blonde speedster is now averaging 5.6 yards per try. Pena is averaging a steady 3.5 yards through it all at this stage of the season.

Quarterback Steve Free has strengthened his hold on the passing yardage leadership, with his 131 yards on eight completions in 22 attempts being tops in that category. Phy has connected on the same number as Free—eight for 22—for a net of 65 yards. Dalton Walton is the passing percentage leader of the team, having found the mark on five of eight occasions for 74 yards and a firing consistency of 62.5 per cent.

Morris is blazing the trail in the area of pass receiving, having grabbed an even dozen aerials for a total net yardage of 148. He is also leading his mates in kickoff return yardage with 125 yards gained on six runbacks. And in addition, he is the team scoring leader with his tally of 12 points.

Linebacker Darrell Aldridge has been credited with the largest number of tackles and assists—44. Guard Bob Smith is only a whisper away from him with 43, while linebacker Joe Robinson and tackle Bill Weaver follow up with 37 and 36, respectively.

Playing For Yankees A Thrill-A-Day

By YOGI BERRA
Written for The Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP) — For the last few years fellas keep asking me what World Series record gives me the biggest thrill. I really couldn't answer that one. I get a thrill every time I put on a Yankee uniform.

I'm 37 now and I guess Lou Gehrig said it best when he said "I'm lucky to be a Yankee."

The World Series scheduled to start today against Cincinnati is my 12th. It used to be that I looked forward to the winner's share. But as you get older your sense of values change and you realize money isn't everything.

I see where I've earned $71,841 extra for playing in 68 World Series games. You know, I never added it up.

To me it's more important to be playing. I have no idea what I'd like to do when I'm finished playing. I don't even think about that. And I have no plans about retiring. I just want to play from year to year.

This series means a lot to me because this will be the first time I've started in one as an outfielder. Oh, I played some outfield last year and in 1947 when I was a rookie of 22 and the Dodgers ran wild on the bases in my first two series games as a catcher.

PETE PEDRO'S THE NAME

Buff Back Cited

CANYON, Tex. (AP) — Modest little Pete Pedro said Wednesday "it I am back of the week it's because of my teammates."

Pedro, the fellow? 180-pound Puerto Rican who created a sensation when he scored six touchdowns in sparking West Texas State to a 56-27 victory over Texas Western, was picked for the honor by The Associated Press.

His coach, Joe Kerbel, said the youngster was "overcome with the thrill of the thing."

"He told me that he had great blocking and that was the reason he was able to get the ball," Kerbel declared. "He was quite correct but he also did a great deal of it himself. He is the great-est running back I've ever seen in football."

The youngster is only a sophomore. He came to West Texas State as a transfer from Trinidad, Colo., Junior College. His home is in Lyon, Miss.

West Texas State had won only five games in three years, three of them last season — Kerbel's first as coach. "We already have yellow crowder assured," said Kerbel.

Pedro was chosen over such standout stars as Jack Tatum of George Tech, Buddy Gibbs of Texas Christian, Bud Sears, of Stanford, Willie Brown of Southern California, Doug Elmore of Mississippi, Bill Swingle of Northwestern, Angelo Dabiero of Notre Dame, Dave Sarette of Syracuse and others who stood out with their play last weekend.

SMU Leaning Heavily On Soph Crop

DALLAS—Sophomores whose play featured SMU's games with Maryland and USC are expected to furnish the spark for the Mustangs when they clash with the Air Force Academy Falcons in the Cotton Bowl at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Tom Sherwin, a pre-medic sophomore from Windber, Pa., leads the Ponies in scoring with 12 points, in rushing with 47 yards, and is tied for number of pass receptions with three. Billy Gannon, a sophomore from Highland Park High School of Dallas, ranks second in rushing with 39 yards net and completed the only pass he has thrown. Jerry Rhome, a first-year varsity man from Dallas Sunset, is the No. 1 passer with seven completions in 14 attempts.

Defensively, the work of Mike Kelsey, linebacker, and Jimmy Reeves, halfback, sophomores from Ray High of Corpus Christi, has been spectacular as has the play of sophomore John Hughes of Belville at tackle.

Oriole Outfielders On The Way Out?

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles paved the way Wednesday for the unconditional release of two veteran outfielders, Jim Busby and Dave Philley, by asking waivers on them.

Lee MacPhail, Oriole president, said the club wants to put two minor league players on the roster so they can't be drafted by other major league teams.

Both Busby and Philley were used in relief roles by the Orioles this year.

NEW YORK (AP)—There will be a full schedule of college football games this weekend despite the World Series. If you get too excited about the baseball, don't worry. Here are your football winners!!!

(Last week, 32 right, 15 wrong for .681. Season's average, 748)

Iowa over Southern California: This will occupy your TV screen after the Series game. Larry Ferguson, Hawkeye speedster, is injured but the Iowans still have too much for the once mighty Trojans.

Mississippi over Florida State: The Mississippians, like the river, just keep rolling along.

Georgia Tech over Louisiana State: A night contest. But the darkness won't hide Stan Gann's cleverness at quarterback for the Engineers.

Texas over Washington State: With ease.

Michigan State over Stanford: Stanford will furnish most of the excitement, but Michigan State provides the heavyweight tackles who will control the scoring.

Syracuse over Maryland: The Orangemen from New York could be in trouble if Ernie Davis hasn't completely recovered from his hurts.

Ohio State over UCLA: The Buckeyes stingy defense will decide this struggle between the leaders of two powerful conferences.

Michigan over Army: The Cadets have given up their lonely end offense. They'll also give up the decision in this one.

Elsewhere:

Purdue over Notre Dame; Kansas over Colorado; Missouri over California; Texas Christian over Arkansas.

Friday night

Penn State over Boston University; Florida over Tulane; Miami over Navy.

Saturday

East: Holy Cross at Buffalo; Colgate over Bucknell; Columbia over Princeton; Cornell over Harvard; Villanova over Massachusetts; Dartmouth over Pennsylvania; Rutgers over Connecticut; Yale over Brown.

South: Auburn over Kentucky; The Citadel over Richmond; Duke over Wake Forest; George Washington over Virginia Military; Georgia over South Carolina; North Carolina over Clemson; Tennessee over Mississippi State; North Carolina State over Virginia; Virginia Tech over West Virginia.

Midwest: Kansas over Colorado; Northwestern over Illinois; Wisconsin over Indiana; Nebraska over Kansas State; Cincinnati over Xavier; Minnesota over Oregon; Oklahoma State over Tulsa; Oklahoma over Iowa State.

Far West: Utah over Arizona State; Brigham Young over Montana; Texas Western over New Mexico; Oregon State over Idaho; Washington over Pittsburgh; Wyoming over Utah State.

Junior Editors Quiz on SIGHT

QUESTION: Are dogs really color blind?

ANSWER: The eyes of animals and of man are lined at the back with many very small organs, called rods and cones because of their shape. The rods are used for seeing blacks, whites and grays, while the cones are sensitive to the various colors. In the eyes of all mammals (which means animals which give milk to their young) we find many more rods than cones, with the single exception of the group called the primates which include the monkeys and mankind. This means that all the mammals except the primates are more or less color blind and see nature more in black and white than in color. Dogs would fall into this group so we can say, yes, they are color blind. But remember, many men and women are also color blind, even though they see the world very sharply and well. Birds can see color quite well but it is said that they see yellow, red, green and orange most distinctly and do not notice blue as much as the other colors.

* * *

FOR YOU TO DO: In our picture a friend of ours, Jack, is trying a color experiment on his dog by waving two different colored bones. Rover is enjoying it but you can see he doesn't know one color from the other. Cut the picture out and color it.

Solons Disagree On Nixon's Role

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Republican senators disagreed today on whether Richard M. Nixon's decision to seek the California governorship eliminates him as a possibility for the GOP presidential nomination in 1964.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., who identifies himself with the liberal element of the GOP, said he is accepting at face value Nixon's statement that he is not a candidate and won't be the next Republican nominee.

"I'm glad he's running for governor and I accepted what he said about 1964," Case said.

But Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., who lines up with conservatives, said in a separate interview he is certain that if Nixon is elected governor of California there will be a movement to draft him for the 1964 presidential nomination.

"I don't think you can count him out of the running at all," Mundt said. "If he is elected governor, he will be a powerful force in the next convention. No California governor is going to be ignored by his party."

Republican leaders who have studied the transcript of Nixon's Sept. 27 announcement at a news conference have noted that he didn't entirely rule out the possibility of a 1964 draft. He limited himself to saying he would not be a candidate for the nomination and didn't expect to get it.

Last weekend, Nixon said in reply to newsmen's questions on whether he could be drafted, "the answer is no."

"With all the talk about drafts, there has never been one in history unless it was stimulated by the candidate, and this I will not do," Nixon said.

Mundt said he thinks Nixon stands to benefit from a hot primary fight in California. Former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, feuding with Nixon over whether Knight was promised a state job to stay out of the primary, has projected a vigorous battle in a contest in which there may be at least two other entries.

"If Nixon can win a tough primary fight and do it convincingly, it will help him in the general election," Mundt said. "He will be in a much stronger position to challenge his Democratic opponent if he has a good primary victory under his belt.

"Party workers always get stirred up in such primaries and it's easier to get them into action for the general election."

Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown is expected to seek re-election.

Illness Of Rayburn Stirs Speculation On Speakership

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Who will be speaker of the House of Representatives if Sam Rayburn does not return when Congress reconvenes next Jan. 10?

That question arose naturally today as Rayburn, 79, remained on the serious list at Baylor Hospital, awaiting results of medical tests to determine the nature of his illness.

Should it become certain that Rayburn's health won't permit him to return, there would be several months for potential candidates for the speakership to organize a campaign. It would take a lot of organizing in view of existing conditions.

When Rayburn left the speakership temporarily a month before the House adjourned, Rep. John W. McCormack, D-Mass., took over as speaker pro tem. McCormack had been majority leader, a position from which previous speakers traditionally have advanced to the top House job. McCormack still is majority leader, but he has temporarily assigned leadership duties to Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma, the Democratic whip.

As speaker pro tem and majority leader, McCormack would have "a leg up" to replace Rayburn on a permanent basis. He has been Democratic leader since 1940 except for four years when Republicans controlled the House. Rayburn was party leader during those four years.

McCormack's leadership position has given him an opportunity to build an organization which would be hard to topple in a few months. Any challenger might well run the risk of political suicide if he lost, for the speaker can go a long way toward making or breaking a party member in the House.

Mentioned prominently as a possible successor to Rayburn is veteran Rep. Francis E. Walter of Pennsylvania, who may reconsider his recently announced decision not to seek reelection. Walter has a strong following among Southern Democrats. As chairman of the controversial Un-American Activities Committee, Walter probably would lose the support of some liberal Democrats who disagree with the committee. At 67, he is younger than McCormack, who will be 70 next Dec. 21.

A political donnybrook could develop over the majority leadership if McCormack vacated that post to become speaker.

Southerners would claim the leadership if the speakership went to a Yankee. Either McCormack or Walter. There are plenty of potential candidates from Southern and border states.

Albert of Oklahoma would rate the inside track by virtue of being acting leader as well as party whip. He is serving his 15th year in the House, is one of its more popular members and has strong Southern backing.

Other Southerners whose names crop up in speculation over the leadership assignment include Hale Boggs of Louisiana, Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas and Albert Rains of Alabama. Richard Bolling of Missouri, a border state, also has been mentioned.

The party leader is chosen at a Democratic caucus.

Each party also chooses its candidate for speaker and the entire House does the electing. The party in control invariably elects its man.

It's conceivable, though not probable, that a third candidate backed by conservatives of both parties could enter the race for the speakership.

It's also possible that the White House might get into the scrap, but a defeat could jeopardize the entire Kennedy legislative program. The House resents executive interference in its own affairs.

Star, Show Both Have Age Problem

By WILLIAM GLOVER
Associated Press Drama Critic

NEW YORK (AP)—The leading lady of Noel Coward's new musical, "Sail Away," has an age problem. And so, unfortunately, does the big, noisy show itself.

Passe plotting and ancient gags streak the production that opened Tuesday night at the Broadhurst theater. Some amiable songs and a whirlwind windup are its main modes for capturing the popular fancy.

Written, composed and directed by England's elder enfant terrible, "Sail Away" begins its career with an advance ticket sage of $1,300,000.

A brash, heel-stamping belter named Elaine Stritch is in grand form as the cruise director on one of those luxury liners that roam the Mediterranean with elegant Britishers, bumptious Americans and noisy youngsters.

The lanky blonde star tosses her head, curls her lip and giggles strenuously when entrapped with such lines as "Do you care for bingo? Who's bingo?" and "Our shuffleboard champion has developed a hernia."

The tattered main story thread concerns Miss Stritch's reluctance to become romantically involved with a younger passenger, lustyvoiced James Hurst. There's no conceivable motivation for the on again-off again progress of their affair, or for the bits of sub-plotting that are tossed about and thrown away.

The surrounding cast, including Alice Pearce, Margalo Gillmore, Betty Jane Watson, Patricia Harty, Charles Braswell and Grover Dale, conduct themselves with stiff-lipped determination.

A very minor member of the cast, a nervously indiscreet black poodle named Adlai, provided the chi-chi first-nighters with an unexpected moment of roaring hilarity that nearly broke up the show.

An old hand, Coward astutely has saved the best material for his second act. By then the Cornonia has reached Tangier, Naples and Athens. Each stopover gives choreographer Joe Layton and scenic designer Oliver Smith an opportunity for fast-stepping action and colorful variety.

Coward is at his mocking best in the lyrics of "Why Do the Wrong People Travel?"

Why couldn't "Sail Away" have had more of that sparkle?

Crop Failure Is Reported By Soviets

By STANLEY JOHNSON

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union has disclosed a virtual crop failure in Kazakhstan, and the virgin lands. This may have a considerable effect upon both domestic and international policies.

Pravda reports that delegates to a Communist party meeting in the central Asian republic spoke with great uneasiness about the fact that this year Kazakhstan cannot give the state much grain.

The first secretary of the Communist party in Kazakhstan, D. A. Kunayev, said: "We must report to the Congress (the 22nd Congress of the Communist party, meeting here Oct. 17) that we do not cope with our task in the production of grain. We cope with our tasks completely unsatisfactorily."

Last year Kazakhstan and the virgin lands also had a disastrous harvest. The first secretary, Nikolai Belyaev, was fired from his local job and from his top job on the Moscow Presidium.

The development of the virgin lands is a pet project of Premier Khrushchev, who sees those vast reaches of central Asia as a means of overtaking the United States in food production.

By all accounts, the harvest in western reaches of the Soviet Union is not much better.

The crop setback may have its influence on foreign policy. On the international front, the Soviet Union almost always lowers its demands when there is a bad harvest since, unlike the United States, it has no reserves on which to fall back.

House Probe Panel Sets Friday Session

AUSTIN (AP) — The House Investigating Committee will meet Friday, Speaker James Turman reported Tuesday.

Charles L. Ballman, chairman of the committee, Turman said, told him the meeting will be held to hear reports from representatives of several state and private agencies, which were active during Hurricane Carla and afterward.

The committee will hear firsthand, Turman said, reports on the storm, and may be able to determine what legislation, if any, might be needed to improve the coordination of all public and private agencies to cope with such disasters.

Knight Promises Proof Of Charge

By MORRIE LANDSBERG

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Goodwin J. (Goodie) Knight staked his bid for a political comeback on promised proof today that Richard M. Nixon tried to lure him out of the Republican race for governor.

The 64-year-old former governor called an afternoon news conference and said he would disclose the who, what and where to back up his charge.

Knight, who has clashed with Nixon before, alleged that a Nixon emissary offered him anything in the state if he wouldn't oppose the former vice president's candidacy for governor.

Nixon denied it. He said he is willing to swear on the Bible that he had nothing to do with any attempt to keep Knight from running for the job he held from 1953 through 1958.

Knight announced his candidacy for re-election in 1959, then withdrew after Nixon and other state party leaders threw their pre-primary support to then Sen. William F. Knowland, who lost to Democrat Edmund G. (Pat) Brown. In 1956, Knight for a time fought Nixon's renomination for vice president.

J. Howard Edgerton, president of a Los Angeles savings and loan association and a former Knight campaign finance chairman, said he wouldn't be surprised if Knight named him as the supposed emissary.

Edgerton told newsmen, however, "I have never been an emissary of Dick Nixon on any matter in my entire life."

Paul Mason, Sacramento attorney who was Knight's legislative secretary and director of motor vehicles, previously said he heard a telephone conversation in which the supposed offer was made when he was visiting Knight in a Sacramento hotel room Sept. 8.

He said he heard the caller offer Knight any job in the state — chief justice or anything you want—if you won't run against Dick", in the Republican primary next June.

Knight timed his charge for last Thursday, the day after Nixon announced he would seek the governorship in 1962. Nixon promptly termed the statement ridiculous.

"Why would I be sending emissaries to Mr. Knight," he asked, "when I myself had not made a final decision on my candidacy until just the night before I made my announcement?"

Boston Man Miffed At Site Selection

BOSTON (AP)—The president of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce says "Jim Crow civilization" in Houston will harm the Apollo moon shot project center to be built there.

"Texas and Oklahoma got together long before we did with a well-conceived plot to make Texas the center of space activities," Ephron Catlin told the Advertising Club of Boston Tuesday.

"But, in succeeding, they probably put the whole space program back several years and increased the cost of it," he said.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration recently awarded the multi-million dollar project center to Houston. Massachusetts and other sections of the nation also had been bidding for it.

Littlefield Youths Killed In Collision

LITTLEFIELD, Tex. (AP)—A car-truck smashup claimed the lives of two teenage brothers and injured three persons Tuesday night six miles east of here.

The brothers, Milton Anderson Ogle, 19, and William Alvin Ogle, 17, were both from Littlefield. Their brother, Burl Ogle, 16, and Clarence Bundick, 21, were critically hurt.

HARREL W. McKINZIE

McKinzie Is New Scurry GOP Chief

The Executive Committee of the Republican Party of Texas has approved selection of Harrel W. McKinzie as Scurry County Republican Chairman.

McKinzie was selected for the post recently by the county executive committee. He succeeds Mrs. Joanne Norred, who resigned.

McKinzie has served for the past year as the local GOP publicity campaign director and has held a position on the state executive committee of the Texas Young Republican Federation for the past 3½ years. He currently serves as Area III chairman of this group, supervising activities of Young Republican Clubs in the 24th and 28th Senatorial Districts on the South Plains.

McKinzie is a teacher in the Stanfield Elementary School. He is immediate past secretary of the Snyder Evening Lions Club, a member of the Abilene U.S. Naval Reserve Mobilization Team division, a Sunday School teacher at East Side Church of Christ and publicity chairman of the Snyder Classroom Teachers Association.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. McKinzie, live in Brownwood.

City Of Graham's Claim Is Upheld

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Supreme Court has ruled that the Brazos River Authority owes the city of Graham $139,250 for damage to the city's sewage disposal plant.

The high court agreed Tuesday with the city's contention that the plant was periodically flooded by high waters caused by silting up stream from the authority's Possum Kingdom Lake. The plant was made unusable, the court held.

Lower court judgments that the authority also must pay $248,500 for damage to the city's water treatment plant and $43,000 for Graham's channel reservoir were reversed. The court ordered a new trial on these claims, but upheld lower court decisions concerning the sewage plant.

Graham contended that construction of the dam backing up Possum Kingdom Lake caused silt to be deposited in the old riverbed in large quantities, causing upstream floodwaters to rise higher than allowed for in constructing the lake.

The city's attarneys said flooding to the sewage system and water works began in 1951 and recurred through later years, particularly 1957.

The authority argued that Graham still used the public works in question when not flooded. They said the question was one of paying for damages, not whether the authority had actually taken the property for public use without paying for it.

The court held that the damage to the sewage plant amounted to condemnation without payment.

The court said no permanent damage was done to the water treatment plant or reservoir. The city alleged these facilities were damaged because flooding sent raw sewage overflowing from the disposal plant into the city's water source.

The court refused to review a Third Court of Civil Appeals decision that a Liquor Control Board order forbidding Diners Club Inc. to carry out a contract with 36 Texas liquor dealers was unenforceable.

The court, in effect, upheld an injunction issued by a district court here against enforcement of the liquor board order. The contract enables the club to purchase members' charge accounts with liquor dealers at a 6¼ per cent discount and assume collection. Package stores in Amarillo, Austin, Big Spring, Dallas, Fort Worth, Odessa, San Antonio and Wichita Falls were parties to the contract.

Family Of Slain Woman Files Suit

HOUSTON (AP) — The family of a woman killed by a mental patient has filed an $86,253 suit against Houston's Methodist Hospital.

The suit was filed Tuesday by the family of Mrs. Gladys Foreman, 50, a nurse's aid and one of two hospital workers stabbed to death by Charles E. White, 36, last spring. White was ruled insane by a jury later and sent to a state hospital.

The suit accused the hospital of negligence in failing to arm workers in the psychaitric ward.
