Knowledge of Country Makes Them Less Apprehensive of Captive

CANYON, Texas, May 28.—(AP) J. W. Shanklin, Canyon citizen, in the hands of bandits at Vera Cruz, is safe, in the belief of his wife here.

A. R. McLane, resident manager of El Potrero plantation, on which Shanklin is cultivation manager, has wired Mrs. Shanklin her husband is in no danger, and mentioned nothing of threats on Shanklin's life.

McLane was expected to telegraph further developments to Mrs. Shanklin tonight.

The Shanklins have lived in Mexico and Porto Rico for 22 years, and their knowledge of Mexican tendnecies and customs makes them less apprehensive of the captured man's safety, Mrs. Shanklin and her children said.

She and her two daughters and son have their trunks packed to leave for a summer's visit with Mr. Shanklin at Vera Cruz.

"If Mr. Shanklin is safely rescued, we probably shall go ahead with our trip as planned, but if he is injured, Harold and I will go to him at once. We hope for good news tonight."

Shanklin maintains a home and a dairy business in Canyon in order to keep his children in college. His son, Harold, 18, manages the business. Shanklin went to Mexico last fall. He has not seen his family since the Christmas holidays which he spent here.

Swedish Prince Is Amazed At Paleontogical Specimens Shown In National Museum at Capital

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(AP)—The crown prince and princess of Sweden were kept on the move throughout the first full day of their visit to the capital by a continuous round of activities which gave them an insight into social, political and scientific phases of American life.

After breakfast at the Swedish legation, they went to the national museum, then to the capitol to watch congress function. They were luncheon guests at the British embassy, visited the bureau of standards during the afternoon and late in the day attended a reception given in their honor by John Hays Hammond. Tonight they were guests at a White House dinner.

Today's schedule left the prince and his consort tired but enthusiastically waiting for tomorrow's events which will culminate in unveiling of the memorial to John Ericcson, designer of the Monitor of Civil War fame. It was chiefly to attend this ceremony, at which President Coolidge will deliver an address, that they came to the United States.

At the National museum, the royal couple bent studiously over glass cases filled with curios, ranging from American, Mexican, and European antiquities, sand stone slabs marked by fossil footprints, to gigantic skeletons of pre-historic reptiles, mastodons, and numerous paleontogical specimens.

"What a pity," the prince said as his escorts finally persuaded him to leave the museum. He was reluctant to go without seeing more of its wonders which were of particular interest to him because of his own archaelogical researches.

Work Order Issued Friday For Red River Free Bridge

HIGHWAY DEP'T. TELLS AUSTIN CO. TO BEGIN

Is "Last Chapter" In Long Fight For New Span At Burk

PARNELL SENDS WORD

Senator Goes to The Capitol To Speed Up Matter

What was declared to be "the final chapter" in the fight for a free bridge across Red river near Burkburnett was written in Austin Friday when a work order was sent out from the state highway department to the Austin Brothers Bridge company of Dallas. This concern was awarded a contract for the work several months ago.

Word that the order had been given was received by the chamber of commerce in a telegram from Senator J. D. Parnell who went to the capitol to attempt to speed up the matter there. It was thought that the whole thing had been settled, but a final hitch of an unimportant nature arose and it was this that Senator Parnell went down to straighten out.

The order from the state highway department was the last thing needed to insure actual construction work on the new bridge, officials here stated. With this attended to, the contracting company is expected to begin immediately on its task of throwing the big concrete span a ross Red river's sandy wastes. All the needed surveys and plans, of course, have been made long ago.

Quits Politics To Answer Call Of Christianity

Lewelling Withdraws From Race to Enter Ministry

DALLAS, May 28.—(AP)—In a statement addressed to the people of Texas, Dwight L. Lewelling today withdrew his candicny for attorney to succeed Dan Moody.

Lewelling expressed the belief that he "can serve God better in an active Christian service," than he ever could in politics. He indicated that he will enter the ministry.

"Had I won the attorney generalship as kind friends thought quite probable," Lewelling said, "I would have only lost, or run the risk of losing, the eventual higher reward when the Son of God shall come again."

Lewelling declared that his sole motive for quitting politics is that for several years he has had "at frequently recurring intervals the distinct impression, which could only be from God, that my life work did not lie in politics, but in active Christian work.

"On the one side," he continued, "is the call to public service, either as a private citizen or public official; on the other is the commission, world wide, to carry the greatest message man ever heard to sinful men, one of whom I am, being only a poor sinner saved by grace."

Lewelling said he is sorry but he must obey what he deems to be "the call of God."

The books have been assembled, printed and bound and are ready for delivery to local subscribers.

The 55,000 figure, of course, is simply an estimate made on the bases of investigations conducted while the directory enumerations were being made here. In as much as the census takers throughly covered the city, it is believed that this figure is as accurate as can be obtained without a full-time census being made. The 55,000 mark is compared to that or 40,079, the result announced by the government after its last annual census was made in 1920.

"Middle of Road" Chosen by Baptists

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(AP)—The "middle of the road" development of the Northern Baptist convention was victorious today in the only test of strength against the ultra-fundamentalist groups.

The convention adopted a resolution favoring concentration of the church's activities in the next six months upon evangelism to the tacit exclusion of further controversy on Baptism by immersion and the interpretation of the Bible. It elected unanimously the "regular" tickets of officers of five component societies, including Rev. J. W. Hilcomb Brougher, Oakland, Cal., as president of the convention itself. Then the only contest of the day cropped out in the selection of officials of the American Baptist foreign missionary society.

Texas Manufacturing Ass'n. Head Says Wichita Falls Has Principal Needs for Great Industrial City

G. M. Knevel of San Antonia Predicts Bright And Prosperous Factory Future With Gas Lines And Railroads Offering Needed Outlets

"There is no reason why Wichita Falls should not develop into one of the great manufacturing centers of the southwest," G. M. Knevel, vice-president and general manager of the Texas State Manufacturing association with headquarters at San Antonio, declared Friday during a visit to the city.

Mr. Knevel, who is here endeavoring to interest local manufacturers in preparing exhibits for the state fair at Dallas this fall, asserted that with cheap fuel in the form of natural gas available, with railroad advantages and with an abundance of water, the city had all the fundamental requisites for a great and prosperous industrial element.

"You have a great manufacturing city now," he asserted, "but you have only touched the surface of your possibilities. I have been amazed at the growth you have shown between the time of my last visit here in the fall of 1925 and the present. It augurs well for your future.

"I noticed in the press a few days ago that the census bureau declined to hazard an estimate on your population because of your rapid growth, and for that your city is to be congratulated. You are building well."

While in the city Mr. Knevel has talked to a number of the leading executives in the interests of a Wichita Falls exhibit at the Dallas exposition in October. He believes such a display will be arranged by the manufacturing building of the fair and that local enterprises will have a representative showing.

After an hour's effort the fire was controlled.

BYRD PLANNING NEW POLE TRIP

American Aviator Convinced He Will Find Hitherto Unexplored Land

LONDON, May 28.—(AD)—By the strange irony of fate, Lieutenant Commander Richard E. Byrd, none the worse from 15 hours in the air, facing arctic breezes on his recent flight from Spitzbergen to the North Pole, has come to London only to catch a cold. He is still full of energy, however, and already is laying plans to revisit the North Pole, with the hope of discovering land. Then after he has fully satisfied himself as to that, he will begin work on another air plane expedition to the Anarctic.

Lieutenant Commander Byrd told the Associated Press correspondent that he was more convinced than ever after his pole flight that unexplored lands exist somewhere between Ellsmore Island and Axel Heiberg Islnd and Alaska. He reached these conclusions after studying the currents and conditions generally during his recent flight. He said he might make his next North Pole flight in 1927, but the date of his south pole expedition is indefinite.

Asked what was the greatest thrill of the flight, Byrd replied:

"Well, it was not what most persons might imagine. It was not after we had taken our calculations showing we had reached the pole, nor when Bennett and I shook hands warmly over our accomplishments; nor was it when we landed back after completing the flight. The truth is that the most supreme thrill of my career came when we took off from Spitzbergen and I realized that at last I was bound for the pole sure as fate. It was more than a thrill; it was a tinkling sensation throughout my body which I wont ever forget."

SECOND LOVE

MALCOLM DUARTE

COPYRIGHT, 1926, BY LEGEND MACLEAN

SYNOPSIS.

John Parrish is the poor young husband of Audrey, his rich, young wife. They have quarreled, partly over his attendance at a girls revue without telling her of it, partly because of her frequent mention of her own generosity to him.

Her friend, Marcie Allen, young and beautiful, meets Parrish and Audrey at Parrish's office one evening and tells them her father has turned her out of the house without a cent. Her only possessions are her clothes, her yellow roadster and a share of stock worth a little over $1,200. Her free ideas about what women can do nowadays were the cause of her trouble, she says. They hear a pounding in a rear office. She tells them casually that her father had followed her there, and she had locked him in.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER IV.

Parrish laughed, as the three listened a moment to the distant thumping.

"It isn't right to keep your father in a cage, Miss Allen," he said. "I'll go and let him out."

The two girls settled back expectantly as he left the room, and traversed the outer office, where the clerks worked in daytime. He disappeared into another room, and opened a door. The thumping came more loudly to their ears.

In a few moments Parrish returned, followed by a middle-aged man in a towering rage.

"What in the devil did you mean by locking me in there?" he shouted at Marcie. "What did you expect to gain by that, young woman?"

She looked up at him, her dark eyes wide and innocent.

"I thought it best for you to be alone, papa, dear," she said, coolingly.

"Were you a party to this outrage?" he demanded.

Her father had turned to Parrish.

Parrish grinned and shook his head. "Take a chair, Mr. Allen," he said.

Marcie's father glared at the proffered seat.

"I don't want your devlish chair," he said. "I want to settle with this daughter of mine."

"You can do it better in a chair," urged Parrish. "And don't shout so. You're in my office now."

The older man snorted. "In your father-in-law's office, you mean."

Parrish compressed his lips, but made no other retort than: "Sit down, man."

After an instant's hesitation the newcomer obeyed. His daughter had been watching him with sweetly intent interest.

"Don't you want to take off your hat, daddy, dear? Mrs. Parrish is present," she suggested.

Her father's face dropped, as he hastily rose to his feet, with his hat in hand.

"I beg your pardon, madam," he said to Audrey. "My daughter had infuriated me so I really did not notice there was a lady in the room."

"I'm not a lady," placidly observed Marcie.

Her parent favored her with a hostile glare, but continued his speech to Audrey.

"My daughter," he said, "has adopted a bar-room program of life. She is exactly what a tough young boys used to be. Mrs. Parrish, that girl smokes, drinks, swears, and stays out all hours of the night!"

"But you do, too, papa, dearest," said his dutiful daughter.

He was still standing, and he turned to face the pretty little tormentor.

"I'm a man, and you're a woman," he said, shaking his finger at her. "And what's right for me is wrong for you."

"I don't see why," she said.

He sat down, and made a sweeping gesture with his arm.

"Mr. and Mrs. Parrish, I ordered my daughter out of my house today," he said. "That girl has tried me beyond endurance. I turned her out without a cent. And then, because I'm a soft old fool, it occurred to me that she might need money. I followed her to this office this evening, intending to provide her with means to live on until she could find work."

A delighted shriek arose from Marcie. She leaped to her feet, and running across the office, with both hands patted her father upon the cheeks.

Ungrateful for his attention, he shoved her briskly away.

She still gurgled with pleasure, however. "You dear old sweet thing!" she cried. "And here I went and locked you in that old office! Where's the money, daddy dear? Why didn't you tell me that was what you wanted?"

He grimly arose, and moved toward the door.

"There isn't going to be any money, now," he said. "I saw you by accident, and came here to help you. But you're a selfish, egotistical, dirty-minded little brat, and I'm through. Goodbye."

Without further formality he left the office and slammed the door. The three, silent and staring at one another, could hear his emphatic footsteps moving down the hall.

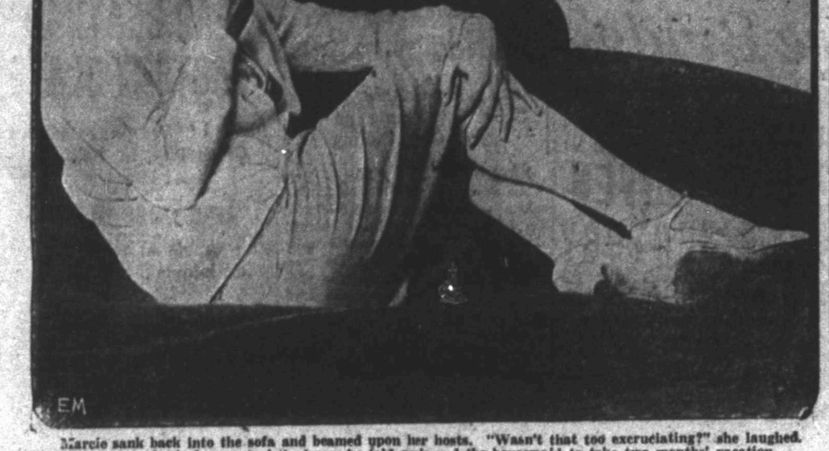

Marcie produced her mirror, and tucked stray ends of hair under her hat.

"Just like a play, isn't it?" she said, serenely. Taking note of the troubled faces of her friends, she went on: "Don't worry. Cruel father; little Marcie turned out in the cold; snowflakes; and music; sobs from the audience. But plays like that always turn out all right."

She regarded her nose in the little mirror, and sighed.

"Don't you think my nose is turned up too much at the end?" She looked again. Then, to Parrish: "What would you do with a father like that?"

Audrey answered for him. "Mr. Allen isn't sweet and kind like my daddy."

Marcie sank back into the sofa and beamed upon her hosts. "Wasn't that too excruciating?" she laughed. "So when father chucked me out of the house he told cook and the housemaid to take two months' vacation.

Parrish supplemented this warmly. "It is a father's duty to help his children."

Their visitor put away her mirror. "Applesauce!" said she.

Parrish showed surprise. "What's that?"

"I said, that's applesauce. The fact is, I've devilled the life out of him for the last three or four years, and he doesn't know what to do about it. So he dumps me out. I've got it coming to me, I guess. But what'll I do now?"

She swung her handbag by its chain, and waited for suggestions.

Audrey tapped her chin thoughtfully. "Marcie, you come to our house and stay," she said.

The other girl promptly came and kissed her on the cheek. "You darling!" she cried. "You sugary old life-saver!"

"Yes, you must do that, at least until you get regular employment some place," said Parrish.

"Employment!" There was wonder in Marcie's tone. "Do you mean I have to go to work?"

"Work?" repeated Parrish. "Why, yes. You have no income, you know. If somebody doesn't give you an income, you'll have to earn it, won't you? How else will you get any money?"

Marcie settled herself on the arm of her chair, and reflected. "Maybe I could vamp some rich old fellow." She turned to Audrey. "Could I vamp your father and marry him, maybe?"

Audrey laughed and shook her head. "That's been tried by every expert female in New York, Chicago and points west," she said. "They used to follow him around in squads. Think of something else."

Parrish arose and looked at his watch.

"There's plenty of time to decide what Miss Allen will do," he said. "She'll come to our house, and maybe we can plan something. Let's start home."

It was dark when they emerged upon the street. The little flivver and Marcie's long yellow car started off together, Marcie in the lead, Parrish and Audrey following. In a moment Marcie's roadster had flashed around the corner and was gone. The flivver chugged energetically, but when it had turned into Tenth the roadster was out of sight.

Parrish sighed. "I love this old can," he said, "but it doesn't go fast any more."

"You can use my big car, you know," his wife said, patting his arm.

"Rather ride in a car I bought myself," he said. They dropped the subject.

Marcie was waiting for them on the front steps when they arrived. She had run her roadster into the Parrish garage, she said—"and I almost had to lick the chauffeur to make him let me in," she added.

Parrish trundled his own machine around the driveway, as Audrey tripped up the walk to join the other girl. When he returned, they were in the long living room, discussing the day's adventure.

"If mama hadn't been in Hawaii, maybe this wouldn't have happened," conjectured Marcie. "She usually does as dad says, but she sort of counter-balances me. I rile him, and she soothes him."

She giggled. "Dad got so mad at me three or four days ago that he went down to the hotel to stay. Said he wouldn't be in the same house with a girl that cut up the way I do.

"I met him at three o'clock in the morning, two days running! We were both just coming home!"

She sank back in her chair and beamed upon her hosts. "Wasn't that too excruciating? So when he chucked me out he told the cook and the housemaid to go take two months' vacation until mama comes back."

Abruptly her face fell, and then filled with slow horror.

"If I'm not the original boob!" she cried. "Every rag I've got, except what I'm wearing, is locked up in that house! I didn't bring a single gosh-darned stitch of clothes!"

WATER PROBLEM STUDIED AGAIN

Duncan Makes Report To Business Council Friday Noon

The water distribution question in Wichita Falls which has been the subject of considerable controversy of late came up again Friday for consideration of the chamber of commerce business council. It developed additional argument and more difference of opinion, none of which, however, had any effect on the status of the question.

T. P. Duncan, chairman of the water committee of the chamber of commerce, was the principal speaker of the day. He explained in some detail the work of his committee and of the board of directors of the chamber in investigating and recommending to the city council certain improvements deemed advisable. The city commissioners recently called for a bond issue of $1,250,000 for the enlargement, improvement and general rehabilitation of the water supply system—a move that later brought out considerable opposition and brought recommendations from the business council that the election vote be delayed until some further studies could be made.

Mr. Duncan defended the report of the committee and traced in detail the factors and decisions that motivated the committee's action. Several questions were asked by members of the council, and the final decision of the directors of the chamber of commerce in recommending again to the city council that the vote be delayed was presented to the business council by Hubert M. Harrison, general manager of the chamber.

BLACK GOLD WEALTH OF TEXAS

A FASCINATING story with all the romance that the atmosphere of golden fleece can give it, is the narrative of the discovery of petroleum in Texas and the repitidy of its growth, or rather the growth of the industry in recent years. That story was told to the bankers of Texas the other day by a petroleum producer who had been assigned a subject, "The Banker and Oil Producer in Texas." W. S. Farish of Houston was the man, and he is the head of a gigantic oil and refining concern.

His statistics are appealing. And, the sidelights of his subject are appealing. He told his hearers that since the discovery of oil in Spindle Top in 1901, with practically nothing invested in the oil business in Texas at the beginning of that year, there is now $1,250,000,000, including investments in leases, driller wells, pipelines, refineries, tank cars and sales equipment. He told the men of finance that investments in this great business in the United States totals more than nine billions of dollars.

He volunteered the interesting information that the growth and extent of the business of Texas has been in a measure parrellelled by the growth and extent of the business in the U. S. with probably one-eighth to one-seventh of the total investment of the United States in Texas. Furhermore he had something to say of independent producers. Today, he said, the four largest companies in Texas are producing only about one-third of the oil, the other two-thirds being produced by the hundreds of companies and individuals.

This should not escape the eye or the ear of the politicians who are going up and down the state discussing the petroleum industry. He did not overlook the matter of taxes, the tax money paid into the state treasury and the reasuries of many Texas counties. He produced the figures to show that in Texas alone the so-called gasoline tax of the petroleum industry collected for the state approximately $4,000,000 a year. He asserted the industry pays in direct and valorum taxes at the same rate and in the same proportion that all other property and industries pay.

In addition to this, he said, the industry pays to the state on every barrel of oil produced a gross production tax which totals $7,250,000 annually. He said something else, and the people who read and think should not overlook it, "it is entirely true and safe to say that the industry by reason of these special taxes, not only in Texas, but throughout the whole United States is being taxed more and at a higher percentage than any other industry. The oil business in its total taxes is paying well in excess of 40 percent of the total taxes paid to our state and the taxes paid by the oil industry today to the state government equals the total taxes received from the state from all sources ten years ago."

It should be the ambition of a Texan, all Texans to be informed as to the industries of their commonwealth, the size of the investments made, the output, the taxes paid, the number of people employed, the volume of business transacted both in the raw and the refinished and the future of industries as it concerns all the people who live under the Lone Star flag.

There are two sides of every question. Both sides should be studied, and all the facts collated and placed before the reading public. A well-informed electorate is an intelligent electorate and intelligent men and women voters are able to read and think and then vote for men and measures worthy of their ballot.

WHERE IS BARRY

WHERE is Barry Miller? Where is his standard? What has become of his tongue? He is the present lieutenant governor. He is a candidate for re-nomination. Cautious Cal has set an example for the political statesmen of America. His motto is, "say little and saw wood."

A FINANCIAL TIP

Perhaps France could stabilize the franc by giving trading stamps with it.

WHAT ABOUT THE FUTURE

WHAT about the future of the oil industry in Texas? W. S. Farish, banker and oil producer, asked the question at Galveston and then he answered it. "I have shown that we have all producing rocks from the very old to the new. We have all types of producing structures in which oil accumulates. Oil is found in this state from Amarillo on one corner to Orange on the other, from the Rio Grande Valley in the southwest to Panola county in the northeast. The geologists who are familiar with the geology of the state by reason of years of study, believe that there are 151,000,000 acres of land in the state within which it is possible to discover oil fields and produce oil; this area represents about 87 percent of the total area of the state. This does not mean that the whole 87 percent will produce oil, for only a small part of it will produce, but it does mean that the whole 87 percent is prospective, and within this area, at widely spaced intervals perhaps, oil fields will be found.

"And this banker and oil man said something that should make the people of Texas sit up and think, "the important fact here is the large percentage of our people, farmers and land owners and others, who are interested in seeing this whole area tested and developed for its possible production. I might even add that every citizen of this state is a potential partner in the oil industry. We have an empire of oil developed and to be developed."

Not many years ago a Standard oil geologist carried on his person a little book. In this book he had 149 Texas counties listed as spots where petroleum prospects had caught his eye. He had been scouting from the Gulf to the Rocky Mountains and from the Red river to the Rio Grande for several years. He must have known where of he spoke when he jotted valuable information on the white pages of his little book.

PETROLEUM FACTS FOR TEXAS

"BANKERS are also interested in the fact that in the last 25 years the oil industry has brought more new money into our state than all other industries combined," thundered W. H. Farish in the ears of Texas bankers when the aforesaid bankers met in annual session on Galveston Island. He declared that these oil investments has built up cities, enhanced the value of property and made active and busy communities all over the state. He asserted the payrolls of the oil companies in the state aggregate approximately $250,000,000 a year. He asserted the amount of money spent by the industries for bonuses and leases aggregated approximately $250,000,000 last year.

He asserted that there are thousands of land owners all over Texas who received vast sums of money in bonuses and royalties every year, and this money is paid to the 500,000 people directly dependent upon the oil industry for their living. He asserted the gross tonnage of oil and its product handled by Texas railroads in Texas is greater than that of any other industry. As its movement is more than six times as large as that of cottion and wheat, five times larger than the movement of livestock, including all animal product, and this takes no account of pipe and steel and other heavy tonnage necessary to carry on the oil industry.

All this has come to pass in a quarter of a century. Texas ranks third today as a producer of petroleum. Texas, in the future, according to the wisest and sanest of oil men, will take first rank in this gigantic industry. There is a new Texas on the map. Mark this and mark it well.

PHILADELPHIA'S VIEW

(From Philadelphia Public Ledger)

TEXAS politics is always a colorful spectacle. The entrance of the Ferguson family into the "Lone Star" arena has added to its gayety. Mrs. Governor Ferguson was elected two years ago on the "platform" of vindicating the Ferguson name. She craves re-election to further vindicate it. She is opposed by Dan Moody, attorney general, who came near unto ousting "Jim" Ferguson, the "unofficial adviser of the governor," from the executive mansion last winter. Governor Feruson pledges herself to resign immediately if Moody beats her by so much as one vote, if he will agree to resign his office if she defeats him by 25,000. He has accepted, and now ariseth one of the numerous other candidates and declareth the sovereign and unterrified state of Texas has been insulted by said unseemly wager. A Texas primary has always been a circus. This one promises to have half a dozen rings and as many side shows.

Questions From the World of Love Answered by a Noted Authority

WHY IT IS A GOOD THING FOR BOYS AND GIRLS TO LEAVE HOME FOR A TIME.

Dear Dorothy Dix—Why do boys and girls, blessed with kind parents who provide well for them, leave home?

I know a girl whose father and mother lavished every luxury upon her, but who left them hertbroken to go out into the world, where she met with grievous disappointments, but was finally prevailed upon to return home. Is this sorry state of affairs caused by our carefree, jazz-mad, modern age? R. E. S.

Answer:

Boys and girls leave for the same reason that young birds leave the nest. They have an instinctive desire to try their wings.

Probably no more boys leave home now than have always left. Boys have always left to seek their fortunes or in pursuit of adventure, and if more girls leave home than used to, it is merely because the outside world holds opportunities for them now that it did not have in their grandmother's day.

In olden times a girl had to stay at home because there was nowhere else for her to go. Home may have been as dull as ditch water. In it she may have been doomed to a life of domestic slavery, without even a chance of transferring her serdom from her parents to her husband. But she had to stay put, for the very good reason that she would starve if she got away from the parental table.

But now, when a girl with a goodd trade can make her living anywhere, in the world, fortune beckons and adventure lures the girl away from home just as it does the boy. And so Peggy grabs her suitcase jams on her sports hat, cuts mother's apron string, bangs the door behind her and is off on her own.

Of course, these young birds who hop so blithly out of the home nest and who are so confident of their ability to fly find that they don't know so much about aeronmatics as they thought they did, and that it isn't as easy as they expected it to be to make tail dives and loop the loops. They all get some nasty falls. A few break their neck and many of them smash their wings and come limping back home sadder and wiser birds.

But they had to try their own wings It was a cosmic urge that they could not resist.

And generally speaking, it is a good thing for them. If they succeed and develop the strength to stand on their own feet, well and good. They make better men and women for it. If they fail, they have at least had a valuable experience which has taught them much and that makes them appreciate home more.

There is no other cure so efficacious for the tempermental, discontented boys and girls who think they are heaven-ordained writers and actors and movie stars as letting them go and try it out. Most of them are glad enough to have a return ticket back home sent them and to connect again with a steady job and three square meals a day.

Another reason that boys and girls leave home is because so many parents never realize that their children grow up and never accord them any liberty. Father and mother think that Jamie at 19 should go to bed at the same hour she did when she was 9. And if John works for father, father feels he should not expect the wages he would pay another young chap, but that he should be content with a dollar or two of spending money.

And to save her life, mother cannot keep from paging her children about putting on their rubbers and wrapping up warm, and putting them through a questionnaire about every single blessed thing they do and think, until she drives them away from home in order to get a little freedom.

On the whole, this going away from home is a god thing for them is no truer saying than the old proverb, "Home-keeping youths have ever homely wit." There is no education equal to travel and seeing the world at first hand. DOROTHY DIX.

POEMS THAT LIVE

"Madrigal," by Thomas Lodge.

Here is one of the older English poets, who lived from 1556 to 1625, singing a love-song that will be the food of lovers for generations. Nothing more delicate in thought could be conceived, it has always seemed to me, and the rhyme scheme is delightful.

Love in my bosom like a bee
Doth suck his sweet;
Now with his wings he plays with me,
Now with his feet.
Within mine eyes he makes his nest,
His bed amidst my tender breast;
My kisses are his daily feast,
And yet he robs me of my rest;
Ah! wanton, will ye?

And if I sleep, then percheth he
With pretty flight,
And makes his pillow of my knee
The livelong night.
Strike I my lute, he tunes the string;
He music plays if so I sing;
He lends me every lovely thing,
Yet cruel he my heart doth sting;
Whist, wanton, still ye!

Else I with roses every day
Will whip you hence,
And bind you, when you long to play,
For your offence.
I'll shut mine eyes to keep you in;
I'll make you fast it for your sin;
I'll count your power not worth a pin.
—Alas! what hereby shall I win
If he gainsay me?

What if I beat the wanton boy
With many a rod?
He will repay me with annoy,
Because a god.
Then sit thou safely on my knee;
Then let thy bower my bosom be;
Lurk in mine eyes, I like of thee;
O Cupid, so thou pity me,
Spare not, but play thee!

DINNER STORIES

An American was boasting to an Irishman about the fastness of American trains.

"Why, Mike," said the American, "we run our trains so fast in America that the milestones look like a cemetery."

"Do they now?" said Mike. "Well, sir, I was wan day on a train in Ireland and as we passed first a field of turnips, then wan of carrots, then wan of cabbage, and then a large pond of water we were goin' that fast I thought it was soup."

The professor of geology had placed some specimens of rocks on his desk and was going to describe them to his students.

While his back was turned for a moment one of the students placed a piece of very stale bread among the rocks.

The professor went through the specimens, saying, as he picked up each: "This is a piece of sandstone; this is a piece of granite." And so on.

Eventually he came to the piece of bread, and, holding it up, he said: "And this, gentlemen, is a piece of confounded impudence!"

The salesman was doing his best to sell a motorcycle, but the prospective customer was a bit short in the purse. So the salesman enlarged upon the "pay-as-you-ride" plan of installments.

"I'll take the machine," said the customer, "but, remember, I'm a very slow rider."

Talks to Parrot, Then Kills Himself

HOUSTON, May 28.—(AP)—W. E. Coleman became despondent today and prepared to shoot himself, he thought of his talkative companion, a parrot. Previously he had told his wife at their home here that if he died, he wanted his parrot buried with him.

Taking a hatchet he killed the bird a second later a shot rang out and his body lay by the side of the parrot.

Justice of the Peace Campbell rendered a verdict of death from gunshot wounds, self-inflicted. Coleman, who was about 48, had been in ill health for some time, Mrs. Coleman told Justice Overstreet.

TRIAL ORDERED

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(AP)—Immediate trial of Charles W. Morse, of New York, and others under an indictment returned in New York in 1922 was ordered today by Attorney General Sargent.

WHO'S WHO

ALBERT B. CUMMINS

The next senatoria. campaign in Iowa is attracting nation-wide attention because of the recent unseating of Smith Brookhart by the senate. Brookhart, rankled because of his defeat at the hands of Daniel Steck, has announced his intention of seeking to overwhelmingly defeat Cummins and return to Washington with a support of almost the entire state of Iowa. In the first count at the last senatorial election Brookhart was declared the winner. Steck contested the vote and the matter dragged for almost two years, finally winning the decision a short time ago.

Senator Cummins is a "regular" republican, while Brookhart is known to have decidedly radical leanings and at the cost of influence in the republican party supported the late Robert Marion LaFollette in his campaign for the presidency in 1924.

Senator Cummins was born at Carmichaels, Pa., in 1850, and received a college education at Waynesboro, Pa., he studied law and was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1875, beginning practice in Des Moines three years later. After serving in the state legislature for a term he made an unsuccessful campaign for a seat in the U. S. senate in 1894 and again in 1900. In 1908 he became a U. S. senator from Iowa. Before coming to Washington he had been governor of Iowa from 1902 to 1908.

He has retained his seat since 1908 and in 1923, at the death of President Harding, as president pro tem, automatically became permanent president of the senate.

Staging of the West Texas chamber of commerce convention in 1923, launching surveys for a big irrigation project and woolen mill here and serving as secretary of the annual all-west Texas exposition at San Angelo are among enterprizes in which Yaggy took leading parts.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

NOT NOW

How men will guard their wealth of gold!—
And yet grow careless, yet grow cold
To all the things that men possess
From which they get their happiness.
We watch the store, we watch till late:
The good wife's kiss—well, that must wait.

Poor Father's getting rather gray,
And Mother's ageing every day.
I ought to go and see them, too,
Yes, see them oftener than I do.
I've been a little slack, somehow;
I'll just run down sometime—not now.

The children—goodness, how they grow!
A few short months, a year or so,
And they'll be through with baby things.
If this new deal a fortune brings,
More time for them I'll try to get,
More time for play. I can't, not yet.

I have some friends I seldom see;
Perhaps they have forgotten me.
I'd hate to think my wealth had cost
So much that all my friends I lost.
Sometime I'm going to slip away
And look them up—but not today.

WILLIE WILLIS

"I remembered what Mamma told me about my new pants an' took 'em off when me an' Pug was slidin' down the shed roof."

What Do You Know About It?

Daily Science Six

1. What common chemical of the medicine chest gives a test for starch?
2. How may be presence of lime be tested?
3. Why does silver tarnish when exposed to the air?
4. What is present in the soil that gives the color to the red clays?
5. How may the stains of iodine be removed from a fabric?
6. How is the presence of carbon dioxide in a well or cave revealed?

Answers to these questions in Monday's Record News.

Canary Birds and Chemistry.

Many and marvelous are the tests by which a chemist analyses an unknown substance. Every chemical element may be tested for in some way, and some tests are easy and others are long and complex. The strangest test of all is that of a canary bird, which is often used in mines, where carbon dioxide, carbon monoxide, fire damp, and many other asphixiating or explosive gases are to be feared. At the least trace of one of these deadly gases in the air, an amount so small that a man would not notice it, the birds keel over and die, thus warning the miners of danger.

Now what do you know about that?

Answers to yesterday's questions:

1. Sea level is considered officially to be the average level of the high tide.
2. A barometer measures the pressure of the atmosphere.
3. An isobar is an imaginary line along which all points are of the same atmospheric pressure.
4. Strong winds follow a fall in the barometer, and often rain or snow or at least muggy oppressive weather.
5. A high barometer generally brings clear skies and usually a cessation of wind; in summer in our latitudes it means hot dry weather, in winter clear, cold weather.
6. When a barometer is taken from seal-level to a point below sea-level, other things being equal, it registers increased pressure.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

BY MARY BLAKE
GEMINI

Today's planetary aspects are favorable until the early afternoon. They then become adverse, and liable to create undesired emotions. "Do all that thou hast to do" in the morning, as there will be sensed a feeling of exhilaration and an urge to work—a combination that is always productive of success. Marriages solmenized before or immediately after noon will lead to enduring happiness, and the signs denote that they will be free from friction. In the afternoon, relaxation should be sought, as nervousness and restlessness will be felt, and this is a state of mind in which nothing of an important character should be attempted. It is a good opportunity for outdoor sports and recreations.

Children born today are destined to suffer from one or more serious illnesses during the period of infancy, and the gravity or lightness of these attacks, and the manner of recovery, will depend very much on the nutrition they receive, as well as the environment with which they are surrounded. Their dispositions will, at first, be peevish, but they promise to learn that discontent gets them nowhere, and the signs indicate that in later life they will be cheerful and good natured. They will display a cheerful anxiety to do well in their studies, and will be rather inclined to neglect outdoor forms of amusement. They, although not serious, will take a serious view of life, and its responsibilities.

If today is your birthday, you are very congenial, although at times, somewhat dominating. You generally know what you want, and make every effort to get it. You are not unscrupulous in your methods. On the other hand, you have little regard for the interests or feelings of those who, you imagine, stand in the way of your own accomplishment. When you form a friendship, it is, so far as you are concerned, "for keeps." In the same manner, your love is loyal and sincere. You are a great "confessor," and all your friends bring their troubles and difficulties to you, knowing that you will keep their secrets, and believing that you will be able to show them a way out.

You possess a strong sense of justice, and, mentally, often condemn yourself for things that you do and which your finer sensibilities tell you are not "according to Hoyle."

MY QUEENS OF THE MAY.
By Harry L. Bostwick

This time of the year I remember
Those days in the long ago
When into the house I would scampes
And cry out, with face all aglow:
"Oh, mother, kin I have a penny?"
Or, "Mother, kin I have some cake?"
"Kin I go out playing with Benny?"
Or "Kin I go swim in the lake?"

To mother, not schools, goes the credit
Of teaching me never to say
That incorrect 'Kin"—when I said it
She made me repeat and say "may."
How often, how often my mother
Has made me say "May I" do this,
Or "May I" do that, or the other,
Till I got so I never would miss!

So firmly I'm fixed in the habit
That "May I" I'll say all my life.
Why, even since marriage dog nab it!
I'm saying "May I" to my wife!
And so, what with wife and with mother,
I've set up a record, I'll say,
For I, between one and the other,
Can boast of TWO Queens of the "May!"

Thoughtless.

However, I think that it should be amended to read one pound of raisins instead one-half pound of citron. The baking powder clause should be removed and corrected by a special committee!"

"I demand that the vice president tell us where he got that cute little hat!"

"I think we should put this issue squarely up to the people at the next election! While I disagree with the Lady from New Jersey, I feel that she is right about the corsets. But, ladies, this question MUST be settled! Shall we banish joy at every fireside—at every street corner? At every co-educational college? NO! A thousand times no, ladies! Let the government fix the skirt level at an inche below the knee!!!"

"Just the same, I think you're an old cat!" SO THERE!"

EASTLAND WINS BIG ROAD SUIT

Five-Year Litigation Is Ended In County's Recovery

EASTLAND, May 8.—(AP)—Eastland county today was awarded a verdict for recovery of $200,000 from G. A. Davisson and other highway contractors, by the district court jury hearing the case for the past four weeks.

The suit involved alleged overpayments to road contractors, and was for damages for alleged inferior work done in connection with Eastland county's $4,500,000 highway system.

The case has been an issue in all political campaigns here for the past five years. Ceaseless litigation followed the contract, and several unsuccessful attempts have been made to oust the county commissioners and former county judge C. R. Starnes, under whose administration the work was done.

Prior to this case, contractors were victorious in all suits, and when the jury returned the verdict favoring the county, after 24 hours deliberation, the defense attorneys announced they will appeal.

Public Shooting Ground Planned Off Gulf Coast

AUSTIN, May 28.—(AP)—Creation of a public shooting grounds off the southeast coast between Port Oconnor and Rockport will be the objective of a bill to be introduced in the 40th legislature, T. E. Hubby, game, fish and oyster commissioner said today on his return from an inspection of the close 50 islands that would make up the grounds.

Mr. Hubby was accompanied by State Senator W. E. Wood of Granger and Representative Alf Petsch of Fredericksburg, advocates of wild life conservation in the 39th legislature. The aggregate acreage of the proposed grounds would be close to 50,000 acres, Mr. Hubby said.

"Passage of the bill would turn this splendid area over to the supervision of the game, fish and oyster department, and insure the average hunter of an ideal place to hunt duck, geese, and other game birds," Mr. Hubby said.

California Keeps To Fore on Track

C. A. A. A. A. title meet.

Houser broke the discus record with a toss of 151 feet, 3 3-8 inches after bettering the shotput mark with a heave of 49 feet, 11 3-4 inches.

Yale was in qualifying honors, placing 11 men and California tied with Stamford for third position, each placing 10 stars. Georgetown landed nine places, Harvard and Princeton eight each.

Boat R. Hicks, 47 years old, met his nemesis in Howard Golden, 14-year-old Boy Scout, when he attempted to escape after slaying Martin Erickson, 40, and Mrs. Mary Hicks Erickson, 37, in Kansas City. Hicks surrendered his revolver when the Boy Scout threatened to strike him with a baseball bat. Hicks said his wife did not divorce him, although she had taken Erickson's name. He is held for trial on two first degree murder charges.

Minchew Disclaims All Knowledge Of Conspiracy to Kill

DALLAS, May 27.—(AP)—A. P. Minchew, Dallas and Denver, Colo., oil operator, testifying in his own behalf today, admitted the truth of most of the preceding testimony except that incriminating himself, in his trial for alleged conspiracy to maim and rob his divorced wife and husband at Denver.

Minchew refuted the claim of Tommy O'Grady, 23-year-old ex-convict that had offered O'Grady $50,000 to go to Denver, dash acid into the faces of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley G. Smith and rob them of money and diamonds. Minchew said, however, that O'Grady, whom he picked up as a bell hop and befriended, insisted on going to Denver on his own initiative.

Minchew emphatically denied he suspected that the youth was actually meant to go to Denver when he left the Minchew home here February 21, a few days before he was arrested with a bottle of acid, a rope and pistol cartridges in the same block the Smiths reside in Denver.

He said that he told the boy that it would only make more trouble for him and begged him not to go.

NOT A CRY FOR ALMS
NOT A PLEA FOR ASSISTANCE

But A Reminder—

LEST WE FORGET

EVEN TO THOSE who were far from the scene of actual conflict, war was a vivid reality. But eight years of comfortable security have made the World War a figment of the memory, a dim recollection, to those who did not actively participate.

The passage of time has dimmed the memories of the war—but time cannot heal all wounds nor efface all scars. The totally disabled men—those who were forced to seek new occupations because of partial disability—the men who made all except the last sacrifice—who has thought of them?

Not the man in the street, and not you or I!

There is one strong force laboring unceasingly in their behalf. There is one organization whose untiring devotion to their unfortunate comrades has not been lessened by the passage of time.

They have not forgotten, and they shall not forget. Their activities are all embracing. The protection and encouragement of the wives and children of those who laid down their lives in our behalf; the training and rehabilitation of partially disabled men; the care of those who have been unfitted for civilian life by the ravages of tuberculosis and shell shock—these are only a few of the great humanitarian services which the American Legion silently performs, unknown to the great portion of our citizens.

Only once a year do they ask for assistance—and how little do they ask! So little that it cannot truly be called assistance—rather is it a word of encouragement—a mark of approval.

Knetsch Declares Congressman Seeking Control Of Organization

SAN ANTONIO, May 28.—(AP)—Charging that Congressman Harry M. Wurzbach was undertaking to gain control of the Texas republican machine mainly for the purpose of opposing the forces of President Coolidge in the national convention of 1928, Fred M. Knetsch of Seguin, today launched his active candidacy to succeed Wurzbach as congressman from the 14th distrit.

Knetsch said in a statement that Wurzbach's move in Texas was the first of several y which a group of congressmen hoped to control the national republican machine in 1928 and stifle the president's influence in the party nominations.

If Wurzbach is successful in his announced fight to oust the present leadership of the Texas republican organization, he will have the 24 delegates to the national convention pledged to oppose the president in every move, Knetsch charged, and now has an understanding to that effect with a group of congressmen.

Fights Creager.

Wurzbach, in an open rupture with the Texas "machine" charged in a speech delivered in congress March 3 that he was constrained to fight the continued control by R. B. Creager, national committeeman, and Eugene Nolte, state chairman, because they persistently opposed him in his duties as congressman and shorn him of his rightful prerogatives in controlling the patronage of his district.

He also charged that the present state organization, in common with other southern republican organizations, existed chiefly for patronage purposes and was concerned more in sending delegates to the national convention than in electing republicans to office.

Knetsch produced a series of letters and documents which he says disproves Wurzbach's contention that the republican organization has persistently opposed his election. All the letter purported to be personal letters from Wurzbach dating back to his second candidacy in 1922, thanking members of the regular organization for both moral and financial support.

Claims He's Martyr.

In the 1924 campaign the republican organization contributed more than $4,000 to the Wurzbach camactive and vigorous support to his paign fund, Knetsch said, and gave candidacy, although there were then grave differences between the organization and Wurzbach concerning patronage matters.

"Wurzbach very selfishly seeks to extend his influence outside his own district and control patronage in every part of Texas," Knetsch said. "He has controlled every appointment in his own district—he now poses as a martyr to the machine because he was not permitted to dictate affairs in El Paso, Waco, Dallas and Fort Worth."

Houser closed her class in expression and voice on Thursday evening in grade school auditorium, when she presented her senior group of pupils in recital, Misses Sarah Wheat, Thelma Dickson and Glen McDaniel. The decorations of the long banquet table were very beautiful, featuring the blue larkspur and pink Dorothy Perkins roses, making a lovely setting for the honored men of Silas W. Baker post, of which Richard Dresser is commander, and of the bounteous dinner which was thoroughly enjoyed.

F. H. Bunkley presided as toastmaster of the program which followed, opening with music by American Legion band and invocation by Rev. E. C. Cargill. A vocal duet by Lee Harris and Robt. Jones was then enjoyed, Rev. Cargill addressing the legion in his usual charming manner. Other selections from the legion's band were received with pleasure, the main address of the evening was given by Dr. E. B. Surface, pastor of Central Presbyterian church in Abilene and was pronounced very excellent by legionnaires. The program closed with more music. Sixty-seven men of the legion enjoyed the evening.

Ugly Tank Cars Made Almost Beautiful by Snow White Paint

At least one manufacturer, operating tank cars for transportation of raw products, has sensed the psychology of cleanliness suggested by the use of snow white paint. Instead of the usual unsightly, begrimed, drab colored tank car, so familiar in most railroad yards, the cars containing cottonseed oil for the manufacture of Mrs. Tucker's Shortening are painted snowy white. The beaming face of kindly Mrs. Tucker occupies a prominent place and adds to general effect of wholesomeness and cleanliness. It is a matter of great pride with the Interstate Cotton Oil Refining Company of Sherman, that everything connected with the manufacture of this famous shortening is spotlessly clean. Inside the refining plant one gets the impression of immaculate cleanliness everywhere. It is almost as if the spirit of Mrs. Tucker herself prevades the place. The cottonseed oil used in Mrs. Tucker's Shortening is itself clean; the very choicest grade and quality produced anywhere in the South.

"Jim Got the Surprise of His Life When I Called His Bluff," Moody Tells Big Crowd in Hempstead Talk

Candidate for Governor Asserts His Acceptance Of Challenge Not a Bet But a Chance to Give Texas Opportunity of Repudiating Ferguson

BY S. RAYMOND BROOKS
Record News Staff.

HEMPSTEAD, Texas, May 28.—His accepting the Ferguson challenge was not a wager, but the method of giving the voters of Texas an opportunity for a speedy vote of confidence or of repudiation, Dan Moody, candidate for governor, told an audience of Waller county voters Friday afternoon. Moody's audience filled the district court room.

This county has always been pro Ferguson.

County Attorney R. E. Thompkins introduced Mr. Moody.

"When I took up the challenge, I gave Ferguson the surprise of his life," Moody declared. "He expected to get by on this bluff, like he has bluffed his way through political campaigns in the past, but now, the people have been given an opportunity to say whether they want this man to run the affairs of their state government, and that is why I accepted the challenge. The people can now speedily say at the polls whether they approve the American Road company contract, the Hoffman Construction company contract, the American Book company contracts, the maintenance contracts, a situation that turns the state over to Ferguson as a dictator, or to say whether they want to bring the state back to where it is in charge of elected, responsible officials."

The stores were closed for the speaking and delegations came in from Chapelhill, Brookshire, Simoloton, Waller, Howth and Bellville. Moody told the voters of the county their highway bridge on the Brenham road had been out of use ever since the present administration has been in office, and that the highway department has failed to repair it on the ground of "no money." While in the same time it has paid or approved estimates to the American and Hoffman construction people of $3,000,000, "of which nearly $2,000,000 has been profits."

Strawberries A Summer Favorite At Dinner Table

BY BARBARA B. BROOKS
Home Economics Dept., Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Michigan.

Strawberries! The very word brings a sense of fragrance and deliciousness. Of all the berries grown, strawberries are perhaps the best liked. They are beautiful, too, in color and make a lovely garnish when they are too expensive to use lavishly. Even one strawberry topping an individual service of vanilla blanc mange or rice pudding puts it into the company class.

How refreshing strawberries and corn flakes are for breakfast these golden mornings — served, of course, with cream. For luncheon some day have strawberry tarts. Add a very little sugar to the berries and cook for a few minutes. Lift the berries out of the syrup, add more sugar and cook the syrup until it is thick.

Serve With Cream.

Bake pastry by covering the outside of individual pie pans. Sprinkle a few corn flakes on each baked crust, add the berries and pour the thick syrup over them. Serve with whipped cream.

An English recipe with which few Americans seem to be familiar is made from bread and berries. Cut bread in half-inch slices. Butter them and remove the crusts. Fill the center with sugared berries which have been cooked just enough to extract the juice. Put bread on the top. Cover tightly and set in a cold place over night. The pudding will turn out of the bowl without breaking. Serve with cream. Raspberries may be used instead of strawberries.

An delicious topping for cream pie is made by adding strawberry jam to whipped cream. Fresh strawberries are sometimes beaten into hard sauce and served on cake.

WIDOW GUILTY GIVEN 99 YEARS

Woman Who Plotted With Negro to "Freeze Out" Husband Convicted

LA GRANGE, May 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Ella Jones was sentenced to 99 years in the penitentiary by a jury in district court here today after pleading guilty to a charge of murder in connection with the fatal shooting of her husband, J. P. Jones, on the night of May 8.

Pete Banks, negro was found guilty on a similar charge last night, with death in the electric chair fixed as punishment.

The state had sought to prove that Banks had fired the shots which killed Jones at the instance of Mrs. Jones. The woman, testifying during Banks' trial, had admitted offering to pay Banks $150 if he would "freeze Jones out," but she declared she did not understand the phrase as intending the death of her husband.

Mrs. Jones entered her plea of guilty when the jury to try her had been chosen within 15 minutes after court convened today. Sheriff Loessin, however, was put on the stand for the state before the issue was submitted to the jury to identify a statement made by Mrs. Jones.

In the statement which was offered in evidence, Mrs. Jones admitted that she understood the term, "freeze out" to mean that Banks would slay Jones. "I'm sorry I ever met Banks," one statement said. "He is the only one who would have done it for me." At another point the statement continues, "when the second shot was fired, I thought, "well, Banks got Jones now." Jones was shot twice by shotgun charges while reading in his home on the night of May 8. Mrs. Jones was in an adjoining room."

No Announcement Yet on Katy Card

There has been no formal announcement from the Dallas offices of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad of prospective changes in the time schedule of Katy trains in and out of Wichita Falls, it was stated Friday afternoon at the office of W. G. Little, M-K-T division freight and passenger agent. Beyond plans spoken of by W. G. Crush, Katy general passenger agent at Dallas, to J. W. Chatham, industrial agent of the Wichita chamber of commerce, recently nothing actually is known of what changes are contemplated.

It is believed, however, that the afternoon train connecting with the "Texas Special" at Denison will be moved up to leave at a slightly later hour and will make a through Dallas connection at Whitesboro. Actual announcement of the change is expected within the next two or three days.

It was the second meeting of the Houston Teachers association called to arrange a method of presenting to the school board the teachers' objections to the training requirements and to the salary allowances, and in an effort to clear up what were considered vague and conflicting clauses.

Superintendent E. E. Oberholtzer acting sponsor of the proposed subject, was the center of attack. More than a score of women teachers took the floor to object to different phases of the plan. The questions were put to Superintendent Oberholtzer who endeavored to explain the terms and to bring about harmony in the meeting.

Deputy Missing In 'Roadside Justice'

DALLAS, May 28.—(AP)—Emmett B. Fry, former deputy constable, was indicted by the Dallas county grand jury today on a charge of extortion in connection with his alleged operation of "road side courts" in traffic cases.

Fry disappeared several days ago when a charge of extortion was filed against him after a public hearing before District Judge Felix Robertson.

Fry is charged in the indictment with having taken $30 from Joe Adams of Dallas in payment of alleged fine and costs for a traffic violation when no charge was pending against Adams for any offense. The charge filed after the hearing before Judge Robertson named Pat Malone as complaining witness. The hearing resulted from an application for a writ of habeas corpus filed by Malone alleging he was held in restraint of his liberty by Fry.

Bruised And Battered Spuds Leave Beaumont Behind For Three Games In Sport Camp

Misfortune Growls on Brainard's Outfit, Putting Stellar Performers on Sick and Injured List

BY BLONDY CROSS.

BEAUMONT, May 28.—Three more days away, four more games and the Spudder itinerants make the homeward trek. The travelers pass on to Shreveport tonight where Saturday they open the first of a three-game series with your Cousin Bob Tarelton's outfit, doubling up Sunday and then jumping to Dallas for a contest Monday, returning to Wichita Falls Tuesday with the Steers for a three-day stand against the first division boys. Shreveport follows Snipe Conley's club into the North Texas metropolis for a three-day session starting next Friday.

The crippled Spudder outfit picks up three additional players Saturday in Shreveport. They are Tut Jenkins, the Red Sox outfielder, and Pitchers Ross and Kiefer, obtained in the deal that sends Howard Fitzgerald to Boston.

Suds Sutherland, Wichita Falls pitcher-outfielder who ran over a stump yesterday, fell on his head in a ditch and stepped on his hand while in pursuit of a fly ball, thereby dislocating a wrist and lacerating the mitt, departed these environs tonight, sore in mind and body, headed for Wichita Falls and the hospital. Carl Williams subbed in right field this afternoon. Pizzola, the usual guardian, performed at first base.

Manager Brainard was forced to call on a pitcher today who had hurled a full game but two days before, and in great need of rest, and then was euchered into falling back on a slabster who had chunked nine heated stanzas but one day before. That is testimony as to the present plight of the Spud flinging corps.

Result was, slippery fielding combined with tired pitching, the Exporters managed to turn back the Spudders 10 to 5.

Estell Starts.

Tom Estell locked with Hal Diviney in a battle that Salvia played the lead. The Beaumont spitter, although tapped with regularity, came away the winner.

Beaumont realized one large inning and several small ones. Slow fielding at second put on the first two men up in the third, albeit a lenient scorer ruled the second blow a base hit. Given this start the Beaumonters did not prove slow to take advantage, but got to Tom with gusto for a volley of base wallops that chased over five runs. Brown slammed a home run to left center inside the park with Diviney on base after there were two away in the fourth. An error at first base, and a triple laced to left by Davis scored a run in the fifth and sent Tom to cover.

Jim Roberts was hailed into service and was inconvenienced but once the rest of the way, Dunning socking a homer with Galloway on to wind up the Shipper advances in the seventh.

Hits Into Double.

An error and a walk followed with singles by Brainard, Lamb and Turgeon scored three Spudders in the fourth. Bodie whacked a double down the third base line in the fifth and scored when Williams rattled the right center boards with a single. Brainard singled and De Fate drew another base on balls, choking the hassocks, but Lapan bounded into an ill-timed double play that scored Williams, but ruined further possibilities of a concerted Wichita Falls advance.

The unhappy faculty of our Spudders to larrup lusty lashes into twin killings today proved one reason the crew couldn't win. Pizzola fell into the same tough break during the third frame with nobody out and the bases full.

Diviney pulled out of a hole in the sixth and from there on turned back the Spudders with exception of a single in the ninth by Bodie with one out.

Lester White who was sick today, if improved, will open against Shreveport, otherwise Lefty Fussell draws the pitching assignment.

Grain Facilities At Port Enlarged

HOUSTON, May 28.—(AP)—The Port commission moved with celerity today to provide more adequate shipping facilities at the new grain elevator. According to Major B. C. Allin, director of the port, it was decided to provide eight mooring clusters so that at least two ships could be handled at once. The project will be completed in ample time to aid in the grain movement, beginning the last half of July.

With the present shipping and conveyer berth, provided with flour chutes with a maximum capacity of 50,000 bushels per hour, and the auxiliary, it is expected that the facilities will be able to handle the traffic even if the bumper grain crop in Oklahoma and Texas materialize.

Water Boys Win From Electrics In Wild Battle

15 to 7 Score Results From Slugging Bee Friday

The Water Department baseball team broke into the win column Friday afternoon with a hectic 15 to 7 triumph over the Wichita Falls Electric club. The game was strictly a slugging affair and the scores were piled up in two big innings.

Errors, base hits, walks, stolen bases and other wild proceedings were crowded into the five innings of baseball. Two hits were all any player could get, but five of them broke into the hit column twice. D. Hefner, C. Hefner, Belcher, Horton and Andree collected two each.

Lee Courtney was robbed of two home runs during the game. The first one was by failure to touch third base and the other was hit in the sixth inning just before the game was called and was reverted back into even innings. Charley Hefner also lost a triple by reverting the game.

Morley had a busy day in the field with six putouts and one assist. He figured in one double play. Twelve stolen bases were marked up during the scrap.

Two new men were on the hill for both teams and were hit hard. Burt and Rose were the two and were greatly handicapped by the boots. However, Burt had the best of the battle most of the way.

Rose was a trifle wild and passed several men in the pinches, Polly Woods drawing three walks and a sacrifice, to be charged with no times at bat.

Mackmen Halt Yankee March, Winning Double

Pate Stops Hitting of Huggmen, Threatening Rally In Sixth

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—The winning streak of the New York Yankees, who had won sixteen consecutive games, was checked today by the Philadelphia Athletics, who took both ends of a double header, 2 to 1, and 6 to 5. A crowd of 45,000 saw Grove limit the Yankees to seven hits and strike out nine in the first game. French's hitting decided the contest. His single in the second innings put Simmons on third, from where he scored on a force play. French's triple drove over the deciding run in the fourth. The Mackmen opened with an explosio of hits against Shocker in the second game and piled up an early lead of five runs. The Yankees later drove Gray from the box put Pate came to the rescue. Score:

Twilight League Premier Set For Sunday Battle

Panhandle And American To Clash In Crucial Game

Sunday will be one of the biggest days in the Twilight League for the first half championship, for on that date the Panhandle Refinery and the American Refinery will hook up in a crucial contest on the diamond.

At present, the Panhandle crew is leading the Americans by a half game margin and the Sunday clash will be close to the end of the season's first half of play.

Who will pitch is yet undecided and will not be settled until just before game time.

In their first meeting of the teams the Panhandle won by a 6 to 3 margin over Snipe Connally when the American infield blew up behind the spit baller.

One of the greatest crowds that ever watched a Twilight League ball game is expected to be on hand.

This will be the farewell game of First Baseman Don Faichney with the Panhandle club. Faichney will leave after this game and take over a job in Megargle. He is one of the best first basemen in the league and will be a hard man to replace.

Other men on the Panhandle team that will bear watching in the pinches are Peewee Hinds, Harvey Hargrove, Tond Graves, Riley Rawls, Red Hicks and Kerr. All have been playing good ball with the longhorns. They are all good hitters and nice fielders.

The Americans will put such men as Ping Martindale, Curly Christian, Coyal Francis, Hubert Maddox, Raymond Windham, Reed Pace, Johnnie McMahon and others in the field for the fray.

In center field is a large part of the strength of both teams. In Riley Rawls of the Panhandle and Johnnie McMahon of the Americans is the power of the attack. McMahon was a weak hitter last year, but this season he has come through in fine style and is banging the ball hard and in the field he makes hard catches look easy.

Henry Hatton has wone his last six starts with the Panhandle and it is the opinion of many that he will be picked for hurling duties, but some are of the opinion McDuffy will start the battle.

Glidewell is the prospective starter for the Americans. But there is a chance of Snipe Connally getting a second shot at the Longhorn batters for the revenge over the last loss.

Bears Lead Again

SAN ANTONIO, May 28.—(AP)—Letting the Steers down with four hits and striking out six, with Eddie Woebr, leading Texas league home run hitter, breezing three times, Lefty Bill Ward won his second shut out victory this week as the Bears took the final game of the series from Dallas 5 to 0. The victory put San Antonio back on top in the pennant race.

It was a snappy fielding exhibition with only one error in the game, and that did not prove costly.

The Bears got to Ed Holtzhauser, formerly of the American association in the second and third inning, accumulating three hits and two runs in each with Najo, Segrist and Klein as the club swingers. Ward helped the cause by smacking the frist ball pitched for a hit in his first time at bat, driving in a run.

Braves Unveil Matty Memorial And Beat Giants

Old Timers Play Four-Inning Game Prior To League Contest

BOSTON, May 28.—(AP)—After the unveiling of a bronze memorial tablet to the memory of Christy Mathewson, who died last October, while president of the Boston Braves, the home team proceeded to defeat the Giants 5 to 3, in the first game of a series here today. Before the unveiling there was a four and a-half inning game between the Braves for whom Dick Rudolph pitched and Fred Mitchell caught, and the old timers, for whom Joe McGinnity and Mike Lynch pitched and Roger Bresnahan and Jack Ryan caught. The oldtimers lost 4 to 3. Impressive ceremonies prefaced the unveiling which was viewed by Mrs. Christy Mathewson, seated between Christy's father, a civil war veteran and young Christy, her son.

Judge Landis, Governor Fuller, Mayor Nichols and President John A. Heydler of the National league all were speakers. The proceeds of the game go to the Mathewson memorial fund which is to be used for a club house for the Saranac Lake, New York American legion post. Score:

CINCINNATI, May 28.—(AP)—Cincinnati won the third straight game from St. Louis, 14 to 4 today. It was a weird game with the St. Louis pitchers giving 13 base on balls and being touched for 11 hits, one of which was a triple by Walker in the seventh with the bases full. The Reds wasted several opportunities in the early innings. Critz probably established a new record for successive walks as he got five successive free tickets to first. Score:

PITTSBURGH, May 28.—(AP)—Pittsburgh defeated Chicago, 6 to 5, in 11 innings today, Wright's triple scoring Rhyne with the winning run, after the Cubs had tied the score in the ninth. Meadows, who had relieved Yde in the ninth, held the Cubs hitless the remainder of the game. Six of Chicago's seven hits were for extra bases, Scott and Grimm hammering out home runs. Osborne, who started for Chicago, twisted his foot in the second and Piercy was called to the mound. The latter made way for a pinch hitter in the ninth and bush finished. Koney Starts Hitting Spree And Atzmen Win

Big First Sacker Raps Two For Circuit as Others Follow

HOUSTON, May 28.—(AP)—Big Ed Konetchy's two home runs accounted for six of the first seven runs scored by Fort Worth here today and were the chief factor in the Cats' 10 to 5 victory. Ray Powell also hit for the circuit, the hit coming in the ninth with one man on base.

The Buffs' defense cracked frequently. Catcher Bob Schang, subbing at second base, was unable to cope with the strange situation.

A Buff error preceded each of Koney's homers and a perfect play in each instance would have retired the side. Score:

Sweetzer, America's Remaining Hope in British Amateur Golf Title Quest Shoots Splendidly

MURIFIELD, Scotland, May 28. (AP)—Jess Sweetzer of New York, former American intercollegiate and amateur champion, and A. F. Simpson of Scotland meet tomorrow in the finals of the British amateur golf championship.

When the semi-finals of the tournament started today expectation was general among the followers of golf here that Bobby Jones, American champion, after his magnificent victory Thursday, over Robert Harris, present British title-holder, most likely would make America's bid tomorrow in the classic final tilt, with the possibility of an all-American class if Sweetzer also survived.

It was not to be, however, Bobby, the magnificent, passed out of the picture in the morning's sixth round play. He was defeated, 4 and 3, by A. Jamieson Jr., youthful Scotch novice in international golf. Sweetzer, former Yale university star won in the morning, two up, from Robert Scott Jr., and played sterling golf in the afternoon against his Irish opponent, W. G. Brownlow, winning a thrilling 21 hole struggle. Sweetzer accomplished this by steadiness on the extra holes after faltering somewhat at the close of the regulation period.

Meanwhile the setting for the finals had been rounded out by Brownlow's victory over W. A. Murray of Westhull and the success of A. F. Simpson, Sterling Highland youth, over G. C. Killey of Luddingston in the morning round. This brought Simpson against Jamieson in a purely British half of the semi-finals.

Not Seasoned

Jamieson, a likely youth, but not sufficiently seasoned to stand the strain of a long championship tournament, went down 2 and 1.

Jones' defeat not only was a hard blow to his American followers, but was regretted, as much as national pride would permit, by numbers of the native golfing enthusiasts who thronged to the course to witness the matches in the closing stages of the tournament.

Bobby unquestionably is a popular figure over here and the prospect of a final wherein he would figure was an alluring one which the donwfall of the American amateur and erstwhile open champion, shattered.

It was difficult to believe that the Bobby Jones, whose game collapsed before the trim young Glasgow youth this morning was the same man who overwhelmed Harris, 8 and 6, yesterday.

The holes that were birdie threes against Harris became loose fives in the Jamieson match. Last night Bobby caught cold and this morning a massauer worked for an hour to remove a slight stiffness in his neck.

When he started the round he said that he felt fine, but the phenonemal strokes of Thursday simply would not come.

Jones pulled his drive into rough on the first hole and was little better on the second, losing both. He recovered one at the fourth, but lost the tenth, twlefth and, fourteenth, missing hole able putts, while Jamieson never wavered. Without mistakes on his opponent's part, only birdies could save the American and he could not produce them. So the match ended at the fifteenth.

Has Hard Day

Sweetzer had a hard day, but came through splendidly. His match with Scott was not an easy one, particularly as he turned two down and was forced to win the battle on the last nine. But he was equal to the task, although aided somewhat by the Glasgow man's nervousness after missing a putt at the ninth that lost him the hole.

There likewise was a costly slip by Scott at the sixteenth when he was penalized for touching his own ball accidentally.

In the afternoon semi-final Sweetzer's longer driving and steady putting cut a considerable figure although Brownlow proved a hard customer to shake off. There were British rounds of applause as the Irishman's fine putts on the seventeenth and eighteenth squared the match and forced it to extra holes.

The excitement became most intense, with the gallery of 5,000 on the qui vive every minute, racing from green to green as the extra holes were reeled off with neither men giving ground. Sweetzer did not give in; neither did Brownlow, but a slight mistake in direction on an approach by the Irishman and his failure to run up sufficiently on his next try gave Sweetzer an opening of which he took immediate advantage to finish the match on the twenty-first green.

Brownlow and Sweetzer presented contrasts in dress and golfing styles. The American was a perfect picture of what is considered the well-dressed linksman, including the stylish plushfours and colorful plaid stockings while the son of an Irish peer opposing him appeared to have left his desk for the match. He wore gloves, an old gray coat, striped long trousers and well polished black shoes, topped off with a small cap on the back of his head.

Brownlow was so casual about his game that he seemed almost careless. As the gallery broke from each green to rush to the next, the Irishman strolled along to his ball as if wondering what all the excitement was about.

Tomorrow's result is problematical, although caddies and others around the course tonight were making small wagers that Sweetzer would come through because of his longer experience in competitive golf which is expected to stqda him in good stead in the 36-hole final.

A verdict for the defendant in the appeal from the probate court's acceptance of the report from the administrator of the F. B. BOSTON WOOL.

BOSTON, May 28.—(AP)—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

Demand for wool continues slow and prices are barely firm. Every branch of the wool textile industry is following very closely the move of the man higher up and extreme caution prevails. It is hoped that the repeat orders for goods may presently come along in better volume, however. There is rather more export trade, chiefly for cape wools.

London opening Tuesday is expected to rule firm on the finer wools, but probably easier on medium to coarse cross breds.

Operations in the west are moderate and prices hardly changed for the week.

Mohair is firm. Wool quotations:

Scoured basis Texas fine 12 months (selected) $1.10@1.12; fine 8 months 98c @$1.00.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, May 28.—The cotton market was decidedly quiet today with price fluctuations restricted to a very narrow range, the extreme spread being only seven points on the most active months. The price trend, such as it was, was up held mainly on shorts covering for over the week-end and in advance of the holidays in New York and Liverpool. The last named market was closed today and will remain closed until Monday while New York will be closed tomorrow and Monday for the Decoration day holiday. At the highest of the day prices were 4 to 7 points above the close of yesterday. The market remained around the high points until at the end when it receded a point or two on liquidation. The close was steady, showing net gains for the day of one to three points.

At the start the market was about steady and first trades showed no change to 2 points decline. The market eased off a little more during the first hour mainly on prospects for cooler weather in the eastern belt and probable showers. July traded down to 17.72, October 17.18 and December 17.17, or one to three points below the close of yesterday. These prices proved to be the lows of the day.

The market gradually improved on week-end covering and after mid-session July traded up to 17.79, October to 17.22 and December to 17.24, or 4 to 7 points up from the lows and 3 to 4 points above yesterday's close. The close was a little below the best on realizing.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—With the cotton market here closed until next Tuesday, trading today was very much restricted and fluctuations correspondingly narrow. After selling off to 17.62 early, October rallied to 17.67 and closed at 17.63, compared with 17.64 at the close yesterday. The general market closed barely steady, net one point lower to 4 points higher.

Owing to the holiday in Liverpool there were no cables from that market to influence sentiment here either way. The local opening was steady at an advance of 2 points to a decline of 2 points. Active months showed net losses of about 2 to 3 points shortly after the opening on realizing for liquidation.

Comparatively small offerings were readily abarbed by covering for over the week-end and the market steadied up during mid-day on continued drouth complaints from the eastern belt and the prospects for rather unsettled weather in the southwest.

July sold up to 18.43 and December to 16.60, net advance of about 3 points, while March worked up to 17.64, or 3 points net higher on a few buying orders.

Later fluctuations were irregular, the market closing at reactions of a few points from the best. There was some switching from July to later months but the bulk of the business was supposed to be of the usual pre-holiday character.

Another private crop reported estimated the condition at 68.7 and the indicated acreage at 1.9 per cent, less than last year but it had no apparent effect on the market.

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—Unlike most pre-holiday sessions, today's stock market gave in impressive demonstration of strength on a heavy tournover. Both the rail and industrial averages closed higher on the day with final quotations disclosing a long list of net gains ranging from 1 to 5 points. Total sales were 1,506,900 shares, the largest since April 23, when the 2,000,000 mark was crossed for the last time.

The recovery took place in the face of a marked stiffening of call money rates due to the heavy calling of loans in order to meet the heavy holiday and June 1 demands for currency and not withstanding the absence of many large operators who went away early on extended holiday trips. The weekly mercantile reviews continued to emphasize the unfavorable effects of the unseasonable weather, but point out that bank clearings confirm other indications of a sustained large purchasing power.

Buying of the oil shares was stimulated by the publication of statistics showing that gasoline exports in the first four months of the year exceeded 575,000,000 gallons, or 32.6 per cent above those of the corresponding period last year. Despite rather heavy profit taking in this group, net gains of a point or more were recorded by Associated, General Asphalt and Standard Oil of New Jersey, preferred. Lago touched a new high record at 23 on a heavy turnover.

Predictions that the recent advance in steel bars would be extended to other products infused new strength into the steel shares. U. S. Steel common advanced over two points to 125 a new high on the current recovery, and Crucible closed 1⅝ higher at 69¼. Equipments were helped by the announcement of several large railroad orders and the declaration of an extra dividend by General Railway Signal.

Discovery that a rather thin market existed for some of the motor shares led to active short covering, particularly in such issues as General Motors, Hudson, Mack Trucks, White Motors and Willys-Overland, all of which closed 1 to nearly 2 points higher. Retail merchendising stocks also developed marked strength, Woolworth crossing 148 for a gain of nearly 6 points, while Montgomery Ward, Julius Kayser, R. H. Macy and Phoenix Hosiery showed net gains of 2 points or more.

Atchison was again the leader in the railroad group crossing 140 to within ¼ of the record high for all time, established last year. Among the dozen or so other rails to show net advances of a point or more were Chicago and Northwestern, Chicago and Eastern Illinois preferred, Lackawanna, Frisco common and Pittsburgh and West Virginia. Wall Street heard unconfirmed reports today that the revised "Nickel Plate" plan would make its appearance next month.

Call money renewed at 3¾ per cent, advanced to 4 and thence to 4¼, closing at the top. Banks are reported to have called about $30,000,000 in loans during the day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Sharp recessions in the French and Belgian currencies in sympathy with an earlier decline in the London market featured the foreign exchange trading. Both French and Belgian francs dropped about eight points to around $4.23 and 3.10 cents respectively. Demand sterling was slightly higher around $4.86 3-16. Spanish jesetas which sold at their highest price in three years yesterday, fell back about ten points to 15.15 cents on realising.

Produce

TEXAS VEGETABLES.

SAN ANTONIO, May 28.—Texas onions continue to move in unexpected volume, rollings yesterday being 101 cars. Shipments of other commodities, however, are light, the day's loadings being but 27 cars of potatoes, five of tomatoes, one of sweet potatoes and four of cucumbers. The pick up for the previous day was two cars of potatoes, 36 of tomatoes, seven of onions, eight of mixed vegetables.

Trading in tomatoes yesterday at lower valley points was weak around $1.75 for four basket flats of unwrapped greens and $4.00 for fancy stock of similar character in six basket carriers. Many cars of tomatoes as most of the potatoes loaded out were shipped on consignment, or rolled for transit sale.

DUN'S REVIEW.

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—Dun's tomorrow will say:

The general aspects of the business situation are not essentially changed as another month comes to an ending. Gradual retrograde movement has for sometime been under way in certain industries and still continues, while complaint is yet heard of the delecetrious effects of inclement weather on retail trade in some parts of the country. This is conspicuously the case in the northwestern area where abnormally low temperatures have prevailed, and mercantile results thus far in the spring season have not met earlier expectations. There is unmistakable evidence, however, of an unusually heavy aggregate of transactions and latest returns show an unprecedented railroad freight traffic for this period of the year. Statistics of bank clearings confir mthe other indications of a sustained large public purchasing power, employment of labor being full, and it is almost the universal report, that dealers exceed those of a year ago.

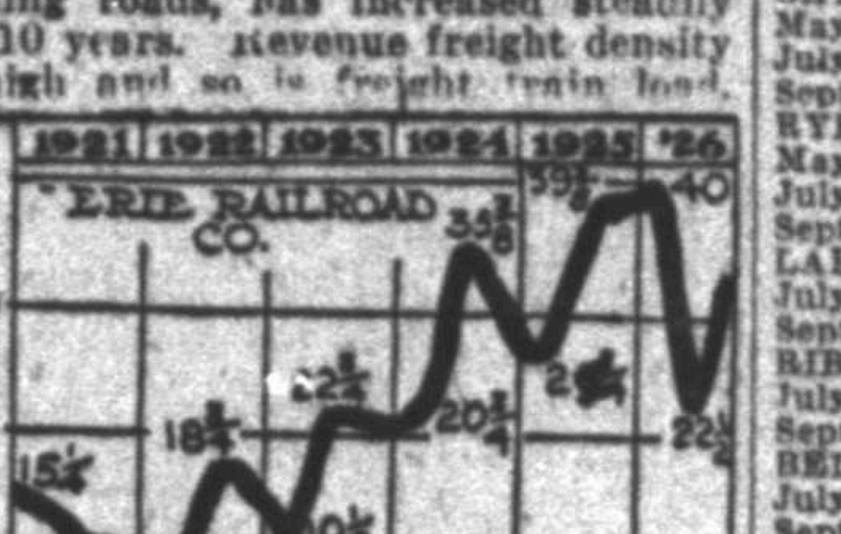

Weekly bank clearings $8,421,893,000.

STOCK-A-DAY

The Erie railroad was one of the carriers included in the proposed Nickel Plate merger with the Pere Marquette, the Chesapeake and Ohio and the Hocking Valley roads, which was not approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The Erie operates 2,325 miles of road from New York to Buffalo to Chicago with branches to Cleveland, Cincinnati and Wilkes Barre. The road has been several times reorganized. Since the last receivership it has plowed back into the property its revenues from operation and the system has been almost rebuilt.

The main line is almost double tracked, equipment has been modified and grades corrected. Freight tonnage about half of which comes from connecting roads, has increased steadily for 10 years. Revenue freight density is high and so is freight train load ...

... doubled in 10 years although expenses have grown almost as fast. The company owns valuable coal properties.

Capital stock outstanding consists $47,904,400 in first preferred, four percent non cumulative shares of $100 par; $16,000,000 in four percent non cumulative preferred shares of $100 and $112,481,900 in common stock of $100 par. Funded debt to $255,847,250. Considering the effect of the anthracite strike in 1925, the company did well. Net income for the r...ced at $6,739,307 or equivalent to $14.05 per share on the first preferred, $30.08 on the second preferred and $6.26 on the common.

No dividends have been paid on any class of stock since 1907. On January 1, 1926, current assets were $30,969,664 and current liabilities $34,191,031.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, May 28.—(AP)—Surprising renewal of strength developed in the wheat market today. speculators who were selling freely in expectation of forcing a fresh break in the May price found difficulty getting their wheat back. Today's deliveries on May contracts totaled only 301,000 bushels and nervousness of traders was increased by unfavorable crop reports from parts of Kansas and Nebraska. Wheat closed strong, ⅝ cents to 3⅝ cents net higher, with corn ⅛ cent off to ⅛ cent up, oats unchanged to ¼ cent down, and provisions unchanged to 12 cents advance.

There was but little snap to demand for corn or oats, but wheat strength brought about late rallies after deferred deliveries of corn had touched the lowest price yet on the crop.

Packers' buying gave firmness to provisions, despite lower quotations on hogs.

Confidence In Air Returning Engineer Says

R. A. Catell Declares That Government Will Do More Pioneering

"Confidence in aviation and air development is coming back strong in the United States and is destined for some rapid strides in the next few years."

Such is the opinion of R. A. Catell, government engineer in charge of helium manufacture for the United States government and who was in Wichita Falls Friday.

"The Shenandoah disaster," Mr. Catell said, shook confidence to some extent in aviation, but Amundsen's successful flight over the north pole has done much to restore this and the army and navy have given indication of vigorously pushing their air services. The Los Angeles is to be used more extensively in flight work and the Lakehurst naval station will be maintained again next year by the navy department."

Mr. Catell pointed out that the Fort Worth helium plant was the only one in the world and that it accordingly was a thing in which Wichita Falls ought to be interested since it was in this section of the country.

Change of Mind Costs Bridegroom $65 Each Month

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28.—It cost Charles Lloyd Lowenberg, local realtor, just $65 a month for an indefinite period to change his mind about his feeling toward Lady May Lowenberg.

When they were married in Napa in June, 1922, Lowenberg was the ideal bridegroom, according to Mrs. Lowenberg. Shortly thereafter, she told Judge J. J. Van Nostrand, he announced that he had lost his love for her.

In spite of his apparent coolness, however, Mrs. Lowenberg related that he exhibited extreme jealousy, to the point of objecting to her receiving visits from her relatives and friends, and threatening to lock her out of their home if she visited her mother.

In further support of her claim for temporary alimony pending her suit for divorce, the wife alleged that Lowenberg was nagging and fault-finding, and that he was lazy and stayed in bed at unreasonable times, to the detriment of his business.

WHOSE MAN IS DAN, LYNCH ASKS

Davidson Tells Valley People How He Rehabilitated Railroad

EDINBURG, Texas, May 28.—(AP)—Charges that somebody is spending many thousands of dollars plastering Texas with "Dan's the Man" literature were linked with the inquiry, "whose man is Dan?" by Lynch Davidson, candidate for the democratic nomination for governor in an address here today. Davidson is nearing the end of his campaign in the Rio Grande valley.

The speaker, continuing his attack on the Moody candidacy, declared that "not since the brewers put Oscar Colquitt in the field for governor has such an enormous sum been spent in behalf of a gubernatorial candidate."

The entrance Wednesday of W. S. Farish, president of the Humble Oil and Refining company, into the gubernatorial struggle has brought into the open for the first the forces which are fighting my candidacy and supporting that of Dan Moody," Davidson said, referring to a statement by Farish which appeared Wednesday attacking the Davidson position on senate bill 180.

"When before has the president of a great Standard-owned oil company found it necessary to devote so much time to a political issue?" Davidson asked. "With Oscar Colquitt driving, Standard Oil forces pushing and the political lawyers of Texas trailing along, the Moody wagon is now out in the open where everybody can see."

Fires at Ferguson

Then shifting his fire to the candidacy for re-election of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, Davidson described the "repeal of the anti-trust laws of Texas by senate bill 180 as the blackest stain on the black record of Fergusonism.

"While this bill lay for 18 days on the governor's desk, the Ferguson Forum was being flooded with advertisements paid for by the big oil companies," Davidson charged. "Fergusonism is at the lowest stage it has ever known. I doubt if Ferguson will get as many votes as in the first primary two years ago, fewer than 150,000 out of more than 700,000 cast."

Davidson spent much time discussing business phases of his platform. He told of rebuilding the state railroad described as a $325,000 job for which he was given $25,000 to do.

By getting rails free the freight rate on materials reduced from $35 to $7.50 a ton and other economies, Davidson said, he "created a new railroad and ended with more money in the bank than when he started." The railroad, he added, was turned from being a losing proposition to where it nets $1,000 to $2,000 monthly to the state.

WORMS GET FAT ON TREES HERE

Property Owners Ignore Warnings to Spray Foliage

Little attention is being paid by Wichita Falls property owners to warnings to spray their trees and prevent possible depredations at the hands of the bag-worms, it is stated by City Park Superintendent C. C. Bunnenberg. It is Mr. Bunnenberg's prediction that unsprayed trees will be practically devoid of foliage within the next three weeks or a month, the bag-worms having already made their appearance in great numbers. Trees on which the pests take hold are oftentimes completely stripped.

The last two or three years have seen a wonderful improvement in the shade trees which property owners have set out in the city, Mr. Bunnenberg states, calling attention, however to a large number of the younger trees that have died and seriously mar the appearance of streets in some sections.

Those wishing spraying or other work done can get in touch with the proper persons through the city park department.

He Traces "The Middle Of The Road" In Nursery Benefit Program

A small crowd was present for the Kiwanis benefit book review given under the auspices of the club for the Day Nursery fund Friday evening at the Wichita club when Rev. Fred T. Datson, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, reviewed Sir Phillips Gibbs' "The Middle of the Road."

Graphically he told the story of Bertram Pollard, the man who lived, loved, lost and won, and his butterfly wife, Joyce, who worshiped position and felt that battles might be won and lost that such as she might live.

J. L. Jackson, Jr., president of the club, presided at the meeting and introduced the speaker.
