Posthumous Award For Sgt. Nelson

Posthumous awards were presented recently to the family of a 25-year-old Richland, Wash., man killed in Vietnam Dec. 10. The Bronze Star and Purple Heart, under the direction of the President, were given to Mr. and Mrs. Clayton E. Nelson, 1620 Davison Ave.

Austin. — Gov. Preston Smith plans to answer the state's big money question Friday (June 20).

He is expected to announce on a statewide television hookup whether he will veto the Legislature's one-year budget bill and if so, when the special session to mop-up the unfinished finance job will be scheduled.

At noon the following day, the Governor will present further views on the subject when he addresses the 90th Annual Summer Convention of the Texas Press Association at Saturday's luncheon at the Inn of Six Flags in Arlington.

Fate of the $60.4 million teacher pay raise hangs delicately in the financial balance which Smith can tip in several directions with a flick of his veto pen.

State officials are having a hard time agreeing on just how much money is coming in during the next year — and whether there will be enough for both the salary hike and the $2.8 billion one-year budget.

As though the situation were not complicated enough already, Smith could throw it out of balance by vetoing any one — or more — of five revenue-raising bills before him. Or he could square it up again by line-item vetoing of spending proposals.

He can, of course, veto the entire one-year bill and call legislators back to work promptly on a two-year budget. Many expect him to do just that.

BILLS CHALLENGED—Governor Smith left up in the air the fate of 41 bills and 13 concurrent resolutions passed at the last minute by the recent Legislature. He challenged their validity on two counts.

Smith said the measures—one of which created 28 new district courts—were not signed in the presence of the House and Senate by the lieutenant governor and the speaker as required by the constitution. He contended that they were signed after the Legislature already had gone home. In addition, they reached him seven days later than they should.

A thorough study will be made of their legal statutes before he acts, pledged Smith. Legislative leaders contend that a logjam of bills caused processing delays that are commonplace at the end of sessions. They say that other governors have not complained.

EDUCATION—Twenty-three college and university educators from around the state have sent Governor Smith a letter asking that he not veto the bill that will increase the cost of education to students by $10 a semester. They are the presidents and chancellors of the various state supported schools. They point out that vetoing the bill will cost the state $4 million a year.

State Board of Education has appointed fifteen representatives from the state's education profession — including college administrators, classroom teachers, superintendents and principals—to a commission to study standards for the preparation of school administrators. Appointments are for two years and the group is charged with finding ways to train the people who will eventually run the school systems.

Governor Smith has announced the establishment of three continuous programs of meetings and conferences with high school, college and non-student young people in order to gain "positive understanding and solution to the main problems facing our state."

These three new organizations include: the Governor's Conference of College Leaders, to consist of college and university student body presidents and other campus leaders the Governor's Hall of Honor of the Texas Youth Conference, made up of all presidents of major high school youth organizations in the state; and a Governor's Council on Young People, concentrating on out-of-school young people, emphasizing career problems and an understanding of the democratic system.

Boy's State, sponsored by the American Legion, and Girl's State, sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, both aimed at teaching top high school students the ways of Texas government on a "learning by doing" theory, held their annual meetings in Austin.

BOND CAMPAIGN MAPPED—Committees to ramrod a campaign for a $3.5 billion water development bond issue have been formed under the direction of Governor Smith and former Governors Allan Shivers, Price Daniel and John Connally.

Smith called for a statewide education campaign, warning that the state "stands on brink of water deficiency" unless an imaginative, positive program is carried out.

Austin Attorney and former Ambassador to Australia, Ed Clark, heads the finance committee. Barnes will be chairman of senate participation and House Speaker Gus Mutscher directing activities of state representatives. Membership in overall campaign committee includes all but nine Texas legislators. Legislative "holdouts" include two senators and seven representatives.

LCB RULES ATTACKED—New Liquor Control Board rules for operation of private drinking clubs face a court attack.

Suit was filed in district court here by two Dallas club operators. They protested in particular prohibitions on cash sales and strict limitations on guest card provisions. Rules, they argued, would close about 75 per cent of clubs now operating.

The Texas Nuclear Science Symposium shows
young scholars career opportunities in science

Each year we are pleased to send a number of high school science students and teachers, from the area we serve, to the Texas Nuclear Science Symposium in Austin. Here students receive an in-depth look at the field of science. The symposium is sponsored by Community Public
