METHODISTS OF WIDE PROMINENCE TO ATTEND MEETING NEXT WEEK

Austin Conference of the Church Will Convene Wednesday and the Session's Features Will Be Numerous—Many Coming.

The thirty-third session of the Austin Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which convenes at the First Methodist Episcopal Church at the corner of 7th and Lamar streets Wednesday, will afford the people of this city a very rare treat of celebrated speakers.

No lecture course or chautauqua gathering of talent before the American public affords any better array of talent, and while this program would cost at least ten dollars for a season ticket covering the entire program, all the services will be public and free of admittance, except Bishop Quayle's lecture Friday night, and all the receipts of that lecture will remain in Wichita Falls, the Bishop giving the entire proceeds to the local church.

The Austin Conference, which is one of two hundred and twenty-seven, covering the entire world, covers all of the English speaking, white churches in Texas, west of a line drawn from Red River through Paris, Ennis, Waco, Houston and Texas City, and east of El Paso county; the eastern part of the state being called the Gulf Conference, and El Paso county being in the New Mexico Conference.

All churches for other races or languages are separated from the white races, or languages are separated from the white English speaking churches and in separate conferences from these three.

The two chief events of the session will be the lecture by Bishop Quayle, D.D., L.L.D., Friday night, and the dedication of the new church building.

Sunday morning, one week, from tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. All the other evangelical churches will dismiss their services for the dedication, and the sermon by Bishop Quayle and the dedicatory service will be one of the chief events in the religious life of Wichita Falls. The fact that the building will house the Young Men's Christian Association as well as the church and it is so well equipped for that work.

DELAY IS ASKED.

Haskell and Other Defendants Want Access to Documents.

Chickasha, Okla., Nov. 20.—Governor C. N. Haskell here today in the federal court, secured further delay of pleading to the indictments charging him and five other Oklahomans with conspiracy to defraud the government out of Muskogee townships.

The defendants declare they have been refused access to certain documents pertaining to town lot sales, and are not prepared for trial.

Federal Judge Marshall refused to grant the motion, because the documents are not specified, but he instructed the defendants to make the proper motions for the documents.

Man Meets Death Near Houston on a Gasoline Launch.

Houston, Tex., Nov. 20.—C. D. Wilcox was killed by a gasoline explosion aboard his launch in the ship channel early this morning and a gang of workmen narrowly escaped injury. The workmen were being conveyed to the sand dredge when Wilcox placed lighted lanterns near the gasoline tank. A terrific explosion followed and Wilcox's body was blown into the channel and has not yet been recovered. A wife and two children survive him at Lynchburg.

Sherman, Tex., Nov. 20.—The residents of Denison precinct today petitioned the county commissioners for an election on an issue of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars in bonds for good roads. The commissioners will decide Monday.

Girl Fires at Burglar.

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 20.—Miss Beaulieu, aged 17, residing on Swiss Ave., early this morning fired three shots from a revolver at a burglar found in her room. The intruder escaped, but is believed to be wounded.

WERE FOUND WITH DYNAMITE MACHINE

Stillwater, Nov. 20.—A cablegram received here, by State Senator Sullivan from James Hall, a former Stillwater man, states that Grace and Cannon were discovered with a dynamite machine in their possession and Zelaya believed that they intended to use it in blowing up a government transport containing five hundred men.

Hall formerly resided in this city, but has been engaged in business in Nicaragua for the past eight years.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—Official confirmation of the execution in Nicaragua of the two Americans, Leroy Cannon and Leonard Grace, was received by the state department this morning.

Galveston, Tex., Nov. 20.—Indignant over the execution of a Texan in Nicaragua, the friends of Louis Grace here have started an inquiry to confirm the reports of the execution of Grace and his comrade, Leroy Cannon.

Private advices received here today state that the American were found with dynamite and were attempting to blow up a government transport carrying five hundred men when arrested. They were executed after an impartial trial by a court martial.

ALLENDALE WANTS GAS WELLS THERE

Effort Being Made to Inter-est Local Capital with That Object in View.

HAS BEEN TRIED ONCE

Small Company Was Organized and a Well Sunk to Short Depth Before Funds Gave Out.

Believing that it would pay to drill for gas in their vicinity, a number of residents of the Allendale neighborhood are seeking local co-operation for the carrying out of this plan. Headed by J. B. Sisk, a party from that community called at the Chamber of Commerce offices yesterday and announced that they were willing to co-operate with any one wishing to take the work up. It will be remembered that a number of Allendale residents some time ago organized a stock company, raising one thousand dollars with which a shaft was sunk a short distance, not deep enough to amount to anything.

This was abandoned on account of lack of funds. Since then several speculators have endeavored to take the work up again, but have not succeeded. There is good reason to believe that gas in paying quantities would be struck at Allendale and the cost of the work would be slight, compared with resultant benefit.

The proximity of Wichita Falls to the Petrolia proven field has prevented any active prospecting for oil or gas in this immediate vicinity, it being considered not worth while to sink wells in an unproven field, when the proven field is convenient to town.

There are many, however, who believe it would be profitable to do so and efforts are being made from time to time to arouse interest in the matter.

The question of natural gas at Allendale has not been seriously considered for that reason.

ELECTION MAY BE AFTER CHRISTMAS

RULING OF LOCAL ATTORNEYS' MAKES IT SEEM LIKELY LATER DATE IS BEST.

BOTH SIDES ARE BUSY

Antis' Will Probably Announce Selection of Campaign Manager Early Next Week.

The date of holding the prohibition election in this county has not yet been definitely decided, and it seems now that it will not be pulled off before January, instead of December, as first planned.

Although, under the ruling submitted by the attorney general the election could be held within two weeks after the first of December, local attorneys do not believe that it can be called until two years have elapsed since the result of the previous election was announced by the county commissioners. Attorney A. A. Hughes of this city, has prepared an opinion on this feature of the matter and Chairman Bullock of the prohibition committee, says that he was inclined to the local attorneys' view of the matter.

It is, therefore, improbable whether the election can be called before December 15th, and, as at least fifteen days' notice would have to be given, the contest could not be pulled off before the 30th of December. It is likely that some later date, probably early in January, will be selected for the election.

An announcement by the anti-prohibition forces as to their selection of officials to manage their end of the campaign, will probably be given out early next week, and from that time the fight will be on in earnest. Many predictions as to the result are being made, and it is stated that quite a few bets have been offered by the backers of either side. This is in line with the generally accepted theory that the race will be a very close one.

GOVERNMENT WINS BIG SUIT AGAINST STANDARD OIL COMPANY COMBINATION

Decision Handed Down Today Perpetually Enjoins Corporation From Carrying Out Conspiracy It Planned—Will Appeal.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 20.—In an opinion written by Circuit Judge Sanborn of St. Paul, filed at St. Louis and St. Paul today, the United States Court for the district of Missouri holds that the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, is an illegal corporation and orders that it be dissolved.

This case was heard at St. Louis in April of this year by Circuit Judge Sanborn of St. Paul, Vandevetter of Cheyenne, Hook of Leavenworth and Adams of St. Louis.

It was brought to enjoin the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and about seventy other corporations from maintaining a combination and conspiracy in restraint of trade, to monopolize interstate and international commerce.

The decree handed down today grants the injunction sought by the government. The evidence filled twenty-one volumes and occupied more than ten thousand printed pages.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 20.—The decree of the dissolution of the Standard Oil Company takes effect in thirty days, unless the company secures its suspension for a longer period by an appeal to the supreme court.

New York, Nov. 20.—It was authoritatively announced by the officers of the Standard Oil Company today, upon receipt of the news of the decree from St. Paul, that an appeal would be taken from the decision to the United States Supreme Court.

It is stated that that had been the general understanding between the counsel on both sides in the suit.

New York, Nov. 20.—The news of the order dissolving the Standard Oil Company caused an outbreak of liquidation on the stock exchange and there was a general decline of from one to four points in the general list. Reading was the weakest, with a decline of four points.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 20.—Thirty-three of the seventy odd subsidiary corporations of the Standard Oil Company are excepted from the order of dissolution and the bill dismissed against them.

WANTED FOR FORGERY.

Man Arrested for Wire Tapping Held on Other Charges.

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 20.—Advices received here today from the authorities at Snyder are that W. T. Miller, who is under arrest here charged with wire-tapping, is wanted there for attempting to swindle the Snyder Bank. It is understood that Miller attempted to pass a forged check. His confederate, an alleged expert wire-tapper, intercepted a message from Kansas City giving a description of the depositor requested by the bank and substituted a description of Miller.

NEW EXECUTIVE OFFICE BUILDING AT THE WHITE HOUSE AND ROOM WHERE THE CABINET MEETS.

When President Taft returned from his trip to the Pacific coast and through the south he found the new executive office building completed, furnished and in readiness for him. The new addition to the White House office is built over the old Roosevelt tennis court and gives the executive offices double the space formerly occupied. The cost of the new addition, together with the furnishings, was about $100,000. The president's office stands a little west of the center of the offices and looks out upon the White House grounds and the Washington monument to the south. It is elliptical in shape, with high ceiling, and lighted by windows which reach nearly from floor to ceiling. The furniture is of mahogany and covered with green tinged leather. The floor is of oak.

FORTY ENTOMBED MINERS RESCUED

Cherry, Ill., Nov. 20.—(Bulletin.)—At 2 o'clock this afternoon forty men were reported alive in the St. Paul mine. The men were reached after the wall of debris was broken down. The men were first supposed to be dead, but one raised his hand, and the rest were found to be breathing. The living men were brought to the surface and stimulants administered. It appears that the men, after discovering their predicament, walled themselves in.

Cherry, Ill., Nov. 20.—A great heap of bodies was reached in the St. Paul mine today, after spending the night in efforts to remove the obstructions. In one pile, behind a "fall-in" of gravel and timber and coal, the explorers discovered thirty bodies waiting for the day to break that would bring them to the surface.

The pathetic scenes which attended the recovery of the first body yesterday were re-enacted today on a large scale.

The first five victims brought up to the surface were identified by pay-checks that were found in their clothing as Joseph Burke, Stephen Timke, James Jamison, Peter Brookes and Stephen Hadowaki.

GUILTY OF EXTORTION.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 20.—Mrs. Allen was today found guilty of attempted extortion by a jury in Judge Sawyer's court. A year ago Mrs. Read attempted to force Mrs. Genevieve Phipps to give her ten thousand dollars, threatening to blow her up with dynamite unless she complied.

SERVICE.

The sweetest lives are those to duty wed,
Whose deeds, both great and small,
Are close-knit strands of an unbroken thread,
Where love ennobles all.

The world may sound no trumpet, sing no bells;
The book of life the shining record tells.

Thy love shall chant its own beautiful-
tudes,
After its own life working. A child's kiss

Set on thy singing lips shall make thee glad;
A sick man helped my thee shall make thee strong;

Thou shalt be served thyself by every sense
Of service which thou renderest.

'A KNIGHT FOR A DAY.'

Something Swell Was On At the Wichita Last Night.

Pleanty of good clean comedy, lots of catchy, well-rendered music, a goodly amount of the right kind of dancing, a big bunch of good-looking human beings of the female gender, and a satisfying amount of wholesome fun and action—all for a dollar and a half.

"A Knight for a Day" is the kind of a show that tastes good and the taste lingers. A man that couldn't enjoy a play of that kind ought to sell Old Beck and move to Gainesville.

Grace De Mar as Tillie Day was the one best bet of the lineup. Ugly enough to be from Henrietta, but clever enough to be from Wichita Falls, she established herself as the premier laugh-getter of the current season. She had the art of facial expression down to a fine point, being ably assisted along that line by nature, and her songs, dancing and general deportment were faultless.

Edward Hume as Jonathan Joy was something of a fun-maker himself. He and Grace made a team that would have gotten a laugh from a wooden Indian.

Virginia Stuart as Muriel Oliver, was one of the best-looking things that ever electrified the bald-head row. She could sing and she did, winning repeated encores and making quite a hit. Edward Lynch as Marco was one of the most entertaining of the male characters and his singing was also a feature.

The one criticism that may be pronounced against the production is that it was cut short here, several features being omitted.

There was enough of it left, however, to make one of the most satisfying comic operas that has ever trod the local stage. Among its song hits were "What Fools We Mortals Be," "Life is a See-saw," "My Little Girl in Blue" and "My Johnny is a Fireman." The play was well staged and there were several very pretty electrical effects.

"A Knight for a Day" for the present, will be considered locally the hit of the season.

TO THE INSURING PUBLIC.

A Few Pertinent Facts About Fire Insurance Which It Will Pay You To Know.

Since the year 1880 some 440 stock companies engaged in the business of fire and marine insurance in the United States have either reinsured, retired, or failed—an average of more than 15 retirements and failures a year.

In purchasing securities, clothing, or builders supplies, or provisions, most buyers are careful to select the best that can be had for the money. Why should not the same law of trade govern the purchase of fire insurance? The rates charged by the stock fire insurance companies are the same. Then why not select policies of companies which have large resources, whose business is carefully selected, and which have honorably met the enormous losses occasioned by the great conflagrations at Chicago, Baltimore and San Francisco, to say nothing of those resulting from the smaller catastrophes of the kind?

Any insurance policy is a good enough policy until the unexpected happens—until a fire comes, then it will be found that it paid to select the best.

Companies represented in our office have more than TWO HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS in United States assets, they are the leaders, strong and old-established.

Don't forget that the very best insurance protection can be had for the same money as an inferior article.

MOTHER'S CLUB MEETS.

Better Drinking Arrangements Planned for San Jacinto School.

The Mothers' Club of the San Jacinto school met at the usual hour Friday afternoon. After the roll call some attention was given to business from last meeting and then new questions were enthusiastically discussed.

The members agreed that each child of the San Jacinto school be furnished a drinking cup by the parents. Another improvement to be adopted at once is the use of wash basins, towels, soap, and mirrors in the building so that any negligent child may be given a practical lesson in cleanliness after going to school. The members furnished the materials for this improvement.

Mrs. Pond gave an excellent paper on "Home and Its Furnishings." She was greatly applauded for the interesting thoughts given.

Many other matters were informally discussed after which the club adjourned to meet again on December the third. All members left feeling very much enthused and benefitted by being present. MRS. A. O. HANCOCK.

A Big Blump in Natural Gas.

Owing to the Natural Gas that my competitors have been using in the way of printer's ink the last few days, all the people who are depending on this commodity for household use have had to almost do without fuel.

If they continue to give the public the same amount right along, we will have to get a pipe line run from the new fields at Electra.

There are no strange things in their statements with regard to the value of an insurance policy, as everybody knows that the value of a policy is what it is worth after you have a fire.

The State of Texas recognized the fact that the public had been swindled in times gone by and made a very stringent law with regard to insurance companies of all kinds, and make each company, before they can do business in the state, put up so much money, and then put a certain amount of premium in reserve so that the public will be protected and won't have to depend on the good graces of such people as my competitors in putting them "next" by advertising in their behalf and paying for the advertisement.

When a fellow wants to give you some free advice like that, you can put it down that there is a string on it.

As to my companies, will say that I can give to you a policy that has no superior with regard to STRENGTH, PROMPT, JUST and CERTAIN settlements, and also in companies that are but few years older than they; some that have not only stood the test of the last fifty years in America, but have stood the test of the old countries for nearly TWO HUNDRED YEARS.

I do not, for a minute, insinuate that I am the only pebble on the beach; all the agents in Wichita Falls have first-class companies, but I do want to say that I certainly appreciate your business, and promise you as much for your money as any one else can give.

I appreciate your business—let me convince you. W. W. JACKSON, 164-6tc Next door to Postoffice.

QUEER HOSPITALITY.

A Curious Experience in the Wilds of Arabia.

Of the curious ideas of hospitality held by some of the natives of that wild country lying between Bagdad and Damascus two travelers, Captain Butler and Captain Aylmer, tell in the Geographical Magazine: "We found Feyzul Ibn Rashid (a minor ruler of Arabia) sitting in a low room, the roof of which was supported by wooden pillars. All round the sides of the room were spread carpets, on which sat his viziers and members of his court. He is a man of thirty-three years, with a dark, pointed beard, good, regular features, but eyes that are cold and cruel, and he has a nervous, seditious manner and was all the time arranging his abba (cloak) and combing and curling his mustache and beard and admiring himself in a small, cheap looking-glass that hung just behind him. Above his head on the wall hung his silver mounted walking stick and a sword, the sheath of which was also covered in silver. He was very richly dressed.

"On our arrival at the house placed at our disposal we congratulated ourselves on our good fortune in having such a cordial welcome, but we were speedily disillusioned. We had not been there more than five minutes when Feyzul's head slave, a richly dressed personage called Dahm, came to tell us that the emir would not take our camels or our money as he had plenty of both, but that he would like things of European make or of interest that we happened to have. This was only too true and during our five days' stay there there was a continual procession of slaves and hangers on from the castle demanding things for the emir and his viziers and favorites and demanding them in such a way that it was impossible for us to refuse. At last we had practically nothing of any value left, having been fleeced of watches, revolver, compasses, various clothes and other articles of our kit.

"Apart from this system of more or less polite robbery we were well treated by the emir and had our food sent us from the castle by him. About three or four times a day we had a royal command from him and used to go up to the castle and drink many cups of coffee and excellent sweet tea with him and talk about his country and Europe. He was always very genial on these occasions, and I honestly think he considered he was treating us very well in not taking all we had and turning us adrift to die in the desert."

To Rule a Husband.

To rule your husband, my dear lady, do exactly as you please, but always pretend that you do as he pleases. That is where your ability comes in. Men are ruled, as children are, by the prospect of a reward. The reward of your husband is your amiability, your sweetness, your devotion and your beauty, of which you should take a constant care. Love has to be fed constantly. Always let him suppose that it is for him that you wish to remain beautiful. The woman who believes that she is asserting her independence every time she puts on a hat particularly displeasing to her husband is as clever and as intelligent as the Irishman who buys a return ticket at a railroad office and on entering the car remarks to the passengers: "I have played a good joke on the company. I have bought a return ticket, but I don't mean to come back."—Max O'Reil in "Her Royal Highness, Woman."

THAT BYERS-HENRIETTA MATTER

The Henrietta commercial secretary, James T. Denton, in a letter to the Byers Herald, anent this paper's report of the visit of the Byers delegation to Henrietta, says:

Henrietta, Texas, November 17, 1909.

Editor Byers Herald:

Judging from the report of the meeting of the citizens of Henrietta and the delegation from Byers, which appeared in the Wichita Times of Tuesday, I infer that Robert E. Peary has assuredly secured a position on the Times reportorial staff.

I think it well for you to reprint the article as I wish to say that I deny the general tenor of the article and the statements therein.

I am confident that the Byers Herald will have a true report of the meeting, therefore I will not attempt to report same for your most excellent paper.

I only want to say, that the Byers delegation did not come to Henrietta to confer on the building of a line from Henrietta to Waurika via Byers, nor was the name of Waurika mentioned or considered.

The Byers delegation returned to Wichita Falls because it was more convenient for them to do so in order that they might catch the Wichita Valley train for home the next morning.

The Henrietta Board of Trade appreciated the visit of the Byers delegation and definite steps were taken to extend the Southwestern to Chickasha via Byers.

The Henrietta Board of Trade intends to co-operate with Byers and all the other towns along the line, in every way possible to bring about the consummation of the proposed line from Henrietta to Chickasha via Byers, Temple, Hulen and Sterling, notwithstanding the "knocks" of the "Peary-ized" Wichita Times and kindred opposition.

Assuring you that the Henrietta citizens and Board of Trade are heartily in accord with you. I beg to remain, Yours respectfully,

JAMES T. DENTON

Sec'y Henrietta Board of Trade.
Mr. Denton takes it on himself to defend the Byers delegation for its action. That is very kind of him and his reply certainly lacks nothing, except the facts, but, of course, that is a minor incidental. The Times secured its information regarding the proceedings at Henrietta from sources which it then considered, and which it still considers, reliable. It is a peculiar fact, in this connection, that no protest has been received from Byers. All the kicks have come from our Clay county neighbor.

Mr. Denton is very careful not to state just what progress was made toward the building of a road from Henrietta northward and the Times still believes that so far as the Byers delegation receiving any material encouragement at Henrietta is concerned, the meeting was in vulgar parlance, a "frost."

Bill Edwards of the People's Review at Henrietta seems satisfied with our report of the meeting. At any rate, he did not comment on it.

Far be it from us, henceforth, to say anything calculated to injure the sensitive disposition of the Henrietta gentlemen. We would not dare.

The Times will state, however, (in justice to Henrietta), that the report which gained circulation to the effect that a bill for rent against the Byers delegation for the time they were in Henrietta, was not presented.

A LESSON FOR DEMOCRATS.

The way the democratic party can be made to appear to the republicans and to the independents who decide our national elections is nowhere more forcibly shown than in an address delivered by Mr. Taft at Hot Springs, Va., during the 1908 campaign. This was a stump speech, but this part of it is worth preserving as a lesson to democratic leaders and to the democratic rank and file in forcing their views upon the leaders. Mr. Taft said: "For, while the resolutions of its (the democratic party) platforms in 1896, 1900 and 1904 denounced the abuses of corporate wealth, they never proposed feasible plans or made the prominent and chief issue of any campaign the carrying out of what now have become known, and properly known as the Roosevelt policies. On the contrary, in 1896 the party made the chief issue a disastrous financial experiment which would have retarded the progress of the country a quarter of a century and sullied its financial honor. In 1900 the party reiterated its adherence to this suicidal repudiation of national and private debts and obligations and then advanced as the paramount issue of the campaign not the trusts, not corporate wealth and abuses, but rather the repudiation of all our international responsibilities growing out of the Spanish war, and the destruction of what they called the growing cancer of imperialism in the policy of this country. Again, in 1904 instead of selecting the abuses and evils for which they now seek to make the republican party responsible, as the main issues of the campaign, the burden of their contention was the usurpation of the powers of the executive office of President Roosevelt, including his settlement of the anthracite coal strike, and the violation of the federal constitutional limitations by the republican party, while the extent of the trust evil was minimized by the statement of the then party candidate that the common law furnished sufficient remedy to suppress it, and by the general party declaration that nothing but safe and sane policies were to be adopted under the administration which should follow its success in the election."

Democrats who read this must become convinced that the only hope of party success is in putting before the people the real, paramount issue, which is that of tariff reform. Tariff for revenue only, and only tariff for revenue, should be the next platform. "The tariff is the mother of the trusts," as Havemeyer the sugar trust magnate, frankly testified before a committee of congress a number of years ago. The trusts are tariff-bred and tariff-fed. The tariff is wrong. It violates the eighth commandment, "Thou shalt not steal." It is a robber tariff. It makes the poor poorer and the rich richer. It is the foundation of the fortunes of our multimillionaires, whom the people's government ought not to favor. Mr. Taft's speech shows plainly that the democracy in the past has had too many issues. They are confusing. Once the democrats are in power again the other necessary reforms can be adopted in due order. But first we must relieve the people with tariff reform. The tremendous tariff burden must be taken from their backs. The people can understand this issue if they are not confused with other issues, which delight the republicans, who praise of Roosevelt's policies with that statesman's fine words and no deeds; they can hold a whole campaign of pow-wow on what Roosevelt meant to do and didn't, because he couldn't or wouldn't, and on the democratic side issues instead of being compelled to face the main count in the indictment, which is "protection" plunder, speculation and pelf, tariff-trickery and thievery.—Houston Chronicle.

TRUSTS, TARIFFS AND WAGES.

Kansas City Star.

The basis of tariff revision promised by the republican party, through its national convention, was the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad. The chief argument advanced in favor of this basis is that American labor should be protected against cheap foreign labor. Congress not only ignored this basis entirely in framing the new tariff law, but, in many instances, the tariff imposed is many times greater than the whole cost of labor entering into the protected article. For example:

The linseed oil trust has 40 per cent protection; the labor cost is 3 per cent.

The lead trust has from 40 to 79 per cent protection; the cost of labor is 4 per cent.

The sugar trust has 71 per cent protection; the cost of labor is 4 per cent.

The woolen trust has from 55 to 144 per cent protection; the cost of labor is 13 per cent.

The glucose trust has from 30 to 69 per cent protection; the cost of labor is 11 per cent for starch and 7 per cent for glucose.

Certainly, so far as labor is concerned, there is mighty little need of protection for any of the trusts named, for the labor cost could not be much lower abroad than at home.

THE CLAY COUNTY ELECTION CONTEST

On yesterday at Henrietta in the district court of Clay County, Judge A. H. Carrigan heard evidence in the local option contest case brought by the antis.

This election, it will be remembered was held on Saturday, September 4, and the pros won the contest by a good sized majority.

The contest is based on the fact that at the voting boxes of Petrolia, Thornberry, Halsell, Pleasant Valley and Cobb, the ballots were not signed on the back at all by the presiding judges, and at the voting boxes of Vashit there was, according to the evidence given in at the trial of the case yesterday, a disagreement as to who was the presiding officer of the election at that box. All the ballots bore the signature of one of the officers, who supposed he was the proper official to perform that duty.

At Bellevue the clerk of the election signed the name of the presiding officer on the back of each ballot, and the antis contend this was irregular.

If all the ballots of the contested boxes are thrown out, except that of Bellevue and Vashit, it will reduce the pro majority in the county to 73.

But if the ballots of the last named boxes are also thrown out, it will give the antis a majority.

Up to noon today Judge Carrigan had not rendered his decision in the case, but will probably do this before night.

Those Illinois mobs ought to make cut rates when they get two in a bunch. They could afford to.

A Gold Mine to All

The following is an analysis of water taken from a well on my farm two miles southwest of town, on the road to Lake Wichita; was made by G. S. Fraps, Ph. D., State Chemist, at the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas, on Oct. 13th, 1909.

This sample of water has the following composition, expressed in grains, per U. S. Gallon:
Carbonate of Lime.....	7.58
Sulphate of Lime.....	23.33
Calcium Chloride.....	15.68
Magnesium Chloride.....	32.19
Sodium Chloride.....	135.41

This water is classed as a muriated saline water. These waters stimulate the secretion of the stomach, increase digestion and favor a more complete absorption of the food. This water should have a laxative action, taken in small doses, and a purgative action taken in larger doses, on account of the magnesium which it contains.

Yours truly,
G. S. FRAPS.

This water will be delivered to any part of the city at 10c per gallon.

LADIES ARE ORGANIZED.

Auxiliary to Order of Railway Conductors is Formed. Here.

The Harvard division of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Order of Railway Conductors was organized Thursday morning, November 18th at 9:30 by the grand vice president, Mrs. A. F. Conlisk of Fort Worth, Texas with twenty-five charter members. Mrs. Conlisk gave a very impressive talk to all members. Officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows:

President, Mrs. G. S. Hunt; vice president, Mrs. R. L. Yates; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. G. W. Corkhill; senior sister, Mrs. J. E. Miller; junior sister, Mrs. G. M. Reed, guard, Mrs. J. M. Kelley; chairman, executive committee, Mrs. J. F. Kennedy; 1st member, Mrs. W. P. Wilson; 2nd member, Mrs. Lee McDowell; president of the fraternal beneficiary associations, Mrs. Ella Carter; corresponding secretary, Mrs. D. Dellis; musician, Mrs. J. W. Mode; delegate to convention at Jacksonville, Fla., Mrs. J. W. Tipton; alternate, Mrs. Walter V. Keith.

In the evening the conductors entertained the ladies with an elaborate banquet at the St. James in honor of the grand vice president, Mrs. Conlisk, who gave a very intelligent talk which was listened to with great interest by all.

We were then led by Mrs. Conlisk and Rev. Farley into the dining room and blessing was offered by Rev. Farley whom the L. A. to O. R. C. have learned to love. The elaborate banquet was served in four courses and the ladies wish to thank Mr. Baldwin for the manner in which it was conducted. As it was now a late hour a beautiful cut glass vase was presented to Mrs. Conlisk by Mrs. Corkhill in behalf of the L. A. of O. R. C. and we adjourned.

A MEMBER.

The Telegraph and Telephone Trust.

It seems that all wire communication is to be controlled by a trust, the absorption of Western Union by the American Telegraph and Telephone Company being indicative of such a result. As is well known, the American Telegraph and Telephone Company already controlled the country's telephone service through the ownership of the controlling stock of many associated corporations. The merging of the telephone company with the telephone company thus brings about a combination that will rival any trust in the country in the magnitude of its operations.

It is pointed out that the merger will not be detrimental to the public, but that it will make for economy in the operations of both telegraph and telephone business, that the service may be largely extended by the use of the wires of either branch of the service for the handling of business of the other. An officer of the company is quoted as saying that the merger will save the Bell Company $75,000,000 in new construction.

The people, of course, will have no trouble in understanding how this merger is going to benefit the owners, but are certain to ask where they come in. If money is to be saved in operation and $75,000,000 in new construction, some people are going to wonder if there is a prospect of reduced tolls. We may even expect the reappearance of the comparison of tolls in the United States with the tolls in countries where public ownership prevails, and no one need be surprised if prominent men come forward urging the doctrine of public ownership.

The people are very sensitive at this time in respect to trusts and mergers, especially where these affect public utilities. It is an old question, "If a few men can run all the means of transportation or communication for their own benefit, why can't the government run them for the public benefit?" Of course, the interrogatory is purely socialistic. While up to the present time the theory of government ownership has been successfully resisted, no man may say when such mergers as this one will not open a new vista of promise and activity for the socialistic propaganda. It is logical consequence of such a deal as has just been consummated.

It is exactly true that a merging of the telegraph and telephone lines may result in far-reaching economy of operation in both branches of the service, but where is the public to come in? Is there a prospect of reduced tolls? The public will be expecting something definite from the trust before long with respect to this. If it is not forthcoming, this gigantic combine may expect to encounter stormy weather. There are anti-trust statutes to be reckoned with and there is a sentiment in favor of public ownership that may become dangerous. Some reasonable concessions to the public would be anything but poor policy in inaugurating what is practically a monopoly of the means of wire communication on the North American continent.—Houston Post.

The Farmers Must Advertise.

The importance of publicity as a maker of public opinion and seller of wares has become too generally well known to admit of argument. Those who make money by selling the farming class its necessities and things not always necessary, know this statement is true. The observance of Apple Day and Rice Day recently by the sections which are most vitally interested in growing these respective crops, is a sure indication that the farming class must adopt the same tactics to sell to best advantage its products as do those who sell to the farming class.

The man who would get anywhere must become an intelligent advertiser before he really succeeds. The searchlight of publicity is the thing feared most by those who do wrong and welcomed most by those who do right.

It sometimes takes intelligent advertising to right a wrong. Before Judge Ben Lindsey of Denver, the "kids' friend" could get through the Colorado legislature, reforms so badly needed, reforms which, when started in that state, have spread over the nation and made the Denver judge's name a synonym for humanity to youthful offenders, he had to call in the newspaper boys and "advertise" in the most spectacular way the conditions he was fighting. If Judge Lindsey had not "advertised" the wrongs of the "kids," the "kids" would not have had the relief they so badly needed, and many a criminal would have been unnecessarily made.

When the farming class wants its wrongs relieved it is going to have to advertise them. When the merchants, bankers, cattlemen or other interests want their grievances adjusted, they do "advertise." Sometimes this advertising is done by legal representation, sometimes by widely distributing printed matter through the columns of the press.

Farmers' organizations, to get their demands, must bring their claims before the public. Individual farmers, to sell their fine stock or fine seed, must bring their wares before the public. The rule of advertising will apply in everyday life on the farm. If you have better hogs than your neighbor, bring this fact before the world, and you will sell all your surplus stock.—Farm and Ranch.

OUR CUSWORDS

Writer in Bohemian Contends That They Are Necessary

Who shall weigh the burden put upon the world by the mistakes and imbecilities of biblical translators and interpreters? It was Huxley—borrowing, perhaps, from some grumbling German—who pointed out that all the witch-burning of the good old days was the result of an erroneous reading of a single word in Exodus. Much the same sort of error is responsible for the odium which still attaches, even in these heterodox times, to the ancient and useful art of swearing.

That this art, in its higher phases, serves a beneficent and necessary purpose; that it affords an escapement for overcharged emotions and security against actual physical damage; that, in the long run, it tends to make life upon the earth bearable—all this no sane student of psychology would presume to deny. A large vocabulary of profanity is the inevitable possession of every cultured nation. It represents the accumulated ingenuity of countless talented and resourceful men, working in series for ages. The savage, for all his savagery, is utterly incapable of effective swearing. When he arrives at that pinnacle of anger which just precedes the resort to assassination, he calls his enemy cow or a rat—a banal, and even pathetic exhibition of will without deed. The annihilation of a civilized man's profanity is beyond him. He is as yet unaware of the psychic possibilities which lie in language. Only by killing and eating his enemy can he attain to that equilibrium which the modern American, let us say, achieves subjectively, by the mere magic of words.

It is the common belief among the Western nations, that swearing is forbidden by the moral code, whatever its imperfections, has at least made for human progress, and so on one likes to go counter to it voluntarily, no matter how strong the natural impulse. In consequence, there is a widespread, though insincere, prejudice against swearing. The practice of the art, in public places, is prohibited by law in most communities, and many persons moved by a laudable desire to live virtuous lives avoid it even in private. The result is a painful conflict between impulse and principle. This conflict, it may be said at once, is not only painful, but also useless; for save by juggling words out of all semblance to their true meaning it cannot be maintained that swearing is interdicted by the ancient lawgivers of the race. In neither the Old Testament nor the New is there any actual prohibition of profanity, direct or indirect.

The principal opponents of profanity, like the principal foes of alcohol, are clergymen and women, who know nothing about it. Clergymen and women, no doubt, seldom feel the impulse to swear, and when it comes at all it is so faint that it can be overcome without danger to the health or character. They constitute a protected and parasitic class, which never experience the impact of the world's hard fist. The struggle for existence leaves them untouched; they know nothing of the staggering injustice, the appalling treachery, the constant pommeling which strong men encounter every day. In the true sense, they have no enemies. They pass weeks and months without a single dramatic moment. They live out whole lives without once feeling knives at their throats or necks beneath their heels. And so they can get along without swearing.

But a strong man, living in a civilized state, must have some outlet for his surging emotions. He is forever attempting the impossible, and whether he succeeds or fails, he must sometimes pause to blow off steam. There is the brimstone smell of determined swearing upon every page of Shakespeare; it was a profane man that discovered America, and another that conquered the Soudan and another that built the Pyramids. Imagine the effect of a pasteurized vocabulary upon sailors, soldiers or Egyptian fellahs! As well try to hitch a meteor with a shoe string!—Bohemian for November.

AMERICAN WOMAN

How They Are Viewed By An Italian Writer

Mr. Pecorini in his book, "Oh Americans," which was reviewed last week (Trevor Bros., Milan, Italy), finds a substantial democracy in America, in spite of the accumulation of great fortune, which are not so much more the exception than the fact that they do not push down the ordinary citizen into a lower class. This makes difficult the formation of a class consciousness in the sense in which it exists in Europe. Yet in late years imperialism has pushed the country a step in that direction; the author cites the more elaborate etiquette at the White House as an illustration.

There is special interest in a discussion of the American woman by an Italian because in Italy the relations of the sexes are so different. Mr. Pecorini undertakes to disabuse European readers of their bad impressions drawn from observation of some too conspicuous types. He says:

"When the sweet notes from the famous aria from 'Rigoletto,' 'La Donna e Mobile,' are heard in a theater the ladies in Rome cover their faces with their fans and blush; in Paris they cast down their eyes with a sweetly conscious air while in New York they listen closely to the music and pay no attention to the words, which they consider rather vulgar. Their indifferent attitude seems to say we have passed that stage, it is an old story. And so it is. No more marked difference between old Europe and young America can possibly be found than exists in the respective condition of woman of the two continents. The first colonists brought with them from Europe, as the modern emigrant does still, the degrading idea of woman's servitude; but the good sense of the American people has put her in a different position. Unfortunately, there is a tendency among Europeans to judge all American women by the comparatively few, degenerated and the numerous specimens of the strong-minded female whom they regard as typical of American emancipation.

"In point of fact, in the great majority of American States women do not vote, nor do they hold public office, but they are, as the famous Miss Willard truly said, the companions and not the satellites of men. The question which the Latin race still has to settle, and which has already been settled in the United States, is a moral one and amounts to this: Whether there shall be one code of morality for the different sexes instead of two. In the East woman is a slave, in Italy, little more than servants, in France a lovely piece of household furniture, and in Germany a cook and a child-bearer. In all these countries there are two moral codes, the Latin recognize a stronger and weaker sex, the Americans do not believe in a weaker sex. The Latins have two codes of morality, and the more stringent is for the so-called weaker sex; the Americans have only one code. While they do not declare themselves in favor of political equality, they accord to woman an absolute moral equality, which is a much more important matter.

"The paradise of woman" his chapter on this subject is called, and he gives many facts to show the independence of women in America: "Women in the United States are not necessarily dependent upon men; among the well-to-do they are educated to a profession; in most families they learn a trade and work at it. They are 24,000,000 women in the country over 17 years of age, and of the 4,500,000, that is, about one-fifth, are self-supporting. The administration of charities is largely in women's hands; as teachers in the public schools they outnumber the men three to one. They are advancing rapidly in the professions, especially in medicine; the first medical school for women was established in New York in 1865, and the first woman to be admitted to the faculty of medicine of the Sorbonne at Paris forty years ago was an American. In the hospitals there are five times as many women nurses as men. Yet it is in the 'home' that woman is seen at her best and the author tries to explain this word to the unfortunate Latins who lack it—it cannot be expressed by 'casa' or 'famiglia,' or 'focolare domestico,' or 'patria.' It is all these and more.—Springfield Republican.

Benjamin Clothes

After all, it's really the tailor who makes a suit a success or a failure

The most fascinating style would be a fizzle if there were not careful needle work underneath.

The most phenomenal designer on earth could not make a garment a success without the co-operation of the tailor. It is he who, by the diligent plying of his needle, gives shape and style and ensures service.

The world's most excellent tailors are congregated in New York on account of its being the greatest clothes manufacturing center in the world. They have more work and are better paid there.

Could there be a better explanation of why "Benjamin Clothes," Made in New York, are the most stylish and the most perfectly made of any on earth. Won't you make it your particular business to see these wonderful "Benjamin Clothes."

AMUSEMENTS

"The Man of the Hour."
The success of last season, this season, next season and all seasons' Geo. Broadhurst's great play of American life, "The Man of the Hour," will be seen at the Wichita theatre tonight, under the direction of Wm. A. Brady and Jos. R. Grismer. "The Man of the Hour" is a timely play full of human interest, telling a story of human incidents, which is told in a straightforward, culminating manner with plenty of comedy interspersed to relieve any tensity in its dramatic action. "The Man of the Hour" is a play that appeals to the best there is in the average human nature. It is undoubtedly simple in construction. It is honest, rugged, genuine—a smile, a laugh, a tear, a jolly evening with the wholesome, refreshing thought that the truth and goodness in us need no fine clothes or places for their exhibitions. Plays of this sort cannot but do good to the body theatrical. While they are seen their influence is for good, wholesome, hearty enjoyment. "The Man of the Hour" possesses elements that appeal to all classes of playgoers. Its characters while true to life and intensified but not more than are naturally required for dramatic effectiveness. The dialogue is interesting at all times and the argument possibly pick out a word or act that would bring the blush to the most sensitive, and for this reason, if for no other—and there are other substantial reasons—a plenty. "The Man of the Hour" deserves well of every theatre-goer who loves good, clean, wholesome amusement.

Messrs. Brady and Grismer's special company will be seen in this engagement. Among the players are Thomas Chatterton, John Kelley, Alexander Carlton, Harry Mills, F. J. Rollow, R. E. Clark, Helen Avery, Doris Hardy and others.

The Baptist ladies will entertain Tuesday the 23rd, from 3 to 7 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Dr. Smith, 1410 Tenth street with a Japanese Tea. Come one, come all, both large and small, and have a good time. 162-4to

THE MILITARY SALUTE.

How This Formality Originated and Its Significance.

The custom of firing a salute in honor of admirals, captains and other naval dignitaries as well as other forms of greeting originated in the desire to show to the person saluted that the saluting person was unarmed and could do to the other no injury.

This was a very important matter in the olden days when most people went armed and violent encounters were quite common. When any one approached another it was necessary to assure the latter that no harm was intended, and this sign of good faith was made by the newcomer's handling his weapons in such a manner that they would be useless for immediate action.

The present courteous raising of the cap or hat had its origin in the removal of the basinet, or small metal helmet, an act which showed an absence of fear by leaving the head of the wearer open to attack, and which likewise occupied his right hand, so that he could practically make no assault.

The dropping of the sword point to the ground now as when the sword was in more active and ready use makes the weapon temporarily of no service, says St. Nicholas. The bringing of arms to "present" in salutation of superiors is a custom of precisely similar origin.

The ancient custom of entering the presence of royalty uncovered likewise originated in the desire for safety. So also, did that of retiring backward from the royal presence. In either case the person admitted to the throne, with his sword-arm occupied in holding his helmet, could not easily reach or use his weapons. These precautions in medieval times were necessary, when it is considered that the King, Prince or Duke, being seated, would not be able to defend himself immediately or even readily against sudden attack.

The word "salute" itself has the idea of "safety" in it, as it comes directly from the Latin salute, signifying "health," then "wellfare." To "salute" is to wish health and safety. The root of the word goes back to the Sanscrit sar which meant to "protect" or "guard."

Naval salutes are interesting to landmen as well as to jack tars. The artillery salute is the survival of one of those ceremonial practices which formerly had some definite meaning, and is meant to signify not only an honor to the flag or representative of a friendly nation, but also that the vessel has no hostile intent.

Shotted guns fired by the full armament of the ship were used in the seventeenth century, as if to say: "Now every gun is empty and we are unarmed." Blank salutes became the eighteenth century fashion, but like many other customs of that polished, formal period, were carried to a ridiculous extreme.

When in due time it became the practice to give a special salute for a certain rank or occasion the odd number of guns—in which all salutes are measured—was selected in order that the salute might open as well as close on the "honor" side of the ship, the vessel's starboard. When the United States first attained national standing the existing national salute of twenty-one guns was adopted, in accordance with the usage of other countries, by our army and navy.

So in international usage the national salute for every country is of twenty-one guns; while the American National salute, used in our own country, is one gun for every State, forty-six guns now being fired on state occasions. The earliest instance of this domestic salute was that which history records as given at the raising of the first American flag, when Capt. John Paul Jones fired thirteen original states.

The number of guns fired in an artillery salute varies in accordance with the rank of the officer or personage saluted. The president's salute is, of course, twenty-one guns. Admirals of the navy, generals of the army, governors of the states, ambassadors from foreign countries and justices of the supreme court are saluted by a salvo of seventeen guns. Salutes gradually diminish in the number of guns fired until they reach the lowest grade, seven for a junior commanding officer or our consul at a foreign port.

Custom varies in European countries but all foreign rulers have more powder burnt in their honor than is consumed in the American presidential salute. King Edward and Queen Alexandra are saluted with a salvo of fifty-one guns, and members of the royal family and important states and military personages receive a fewer number, the details of which are, of course, set by law. Kaiser Wilhelm outranks any other contemporary sovereign, being saluted by the largest amount of noise, the imperial salute consisting of 101 guns. This is the standard for Emperors and for some Kings. The birth of an heir to the throne of a state is signalled by 101 guns also, as happened only recently when the little Princess of Holland was born.—New York Sun.
