Two Hurt When Car Runs Into Wagon Sunday

Mrs. Effie Watkins, of Mule Creek, New Mexico, and her sister Oma Richburg, were badly bruised Sunday night while riding to town in a wagon. A car, occupied by two Colorado, Texas, men, smashed into the rear of the wagon crushing Mrs. Watkin's ankle and badly cutting and bruising both knees and legs of Oma Richburg.

Mr. Richburg and his family were on their way to church when the accident happened. One of the girls was holding a lighted lantern in the rear of the wagon but the car was going at a high rate of speed, according to witnesses, and could not stop in time to avoid hitting the wagon when it met another car. It is said that the wheels on the car were slid for twenty or more feet in an effort to stop, indicating that it was traveling fast.

The young men in the car are employed at a refinery in Colorado and were supposed to go to work at 8 o'clock and only had about fifteen minutes in which to make it.

Both the young ladies are still suffering a great deal of pain and are confined to their beds.

STATE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH

Austin, Texas—Undulant fever or Malta Fever, a disease contracted from cattle, hogs or sheep which are infected with contagious abortion, is being reported fairly regularly throughout Texas and its being similarly reported throughout the United States. This indicates that it constitutes a public health problem and also the necessity of its more general recognition.

Undulant fever is so called because of the wave-like variations in temperature. The symptoms include rise in temperature, loss of weight and strength chills, sweats and joint pains. The disease has rather a low mortality rate, but important because symptoms may persist for a number of weeks and even months before normal health and strength are restored.

In Texas, the goat, horse, and cows are the usual spreaders of this disease. The germs of undulant fever enter the body through the mouth or skin. Therefore, care should be used in handling animals known to be infected and dairy products from the same sources should be pasteurized, if used. More men acquire this disease than women and adults seem more likely to have it than children. More cases are found in the rural areas than in the cities.

The true preventon of undulant fever is based upon the detection of the disease in live stock and the elimination of infected stock from the herds. Dairy herds should be tested for Bacillus abortus. This is a task that cannot be accomplished in a short time. Pasteurization of milk will prevent the spread from this source.Freuquently the recognition of undulant fever in a community causes much alarm. However, there is no cause for apprehension, as many people are not suceptible to the infection. The disease will probably never appear in Texas as an epidemic; however, to those unfortunate enough to contract it, it is a most discouraging experience both from the standpoint of the patients well being and the family economics.

Four County Convention Drew Large Crowd Here

"The best singing convention ever attended" was heard on all sides at the Four-County convention here Sunday. It was really a good convention where extra good singing was enjoyed all day by one of the largest crowds ever assembled in Loraine on any previous occasion. The crowd estimated at 1500 people, included quite a number of visitors from outside of the four counties of Nolan, Fisher, Scurry and Mitchell.

Lawrence Deaver of Snyder was elected president of the association for another year and Miss Ola Westbrook of Roscoe was re-elected secretary. Colorado was chosen for the next convention city.

YOUNG PEOPLES PRAYER SERVICE

About 45 were present for prayer service at the theatre Saturday afternoon. Rev. A. C. Hardin brought an inspirational address on "consider" bringing a lesson home for youth by four commands, namely, consider your time, your opportunities, your influence and your God. Josefhine Palmer followed with an interesting message on Friendship. Young people of the Beaty family sang a quartet during the meeting.

Misses Bessie Nell Johnson and Winnidell Rowland will conduct the music next Saturday and Boyd House will lead prayer services. Bro. J. E. Harrell will bring an inspirational message.

From 13 to 25 are precious years say many young people, but psychology teaches they are also difficult, unhappy, confused years in many respects. They are also years of greatest temptation. These prayer services are for young people of these ages. Youth, why not grow instead of dwindling away?

The Texas Legislature will convene in extra session Thursday of this week. Main topics for discussion will be issuance of bonds for the relief of the destitute and the modifying of the anti-trust laws so that the National Recovery Act will have a better chance in Texas.

Many believe that the administration at Austin will try to put a sales tax through at this session. It did its best to get it through at the regular session last spring without success and it is feared by those who opposse a sales tax that a stronger effort will be made now.

If you are opposed to a sales tax it will help a great deal for you to write your representative, Will H. Scott, and your senator, Willbourne B. Collie, at Austin telling them your views in the matter. If you want a sales tax write them your views. In this manner they can follow instructions of their constituents.

Loraine might be considered a "dead" town. She has no amusements of any kind, she has no energetic business men to put forth her merits, she does not invite business. So far as the readers of her newspaper is concerned she has no bank, no lumber yard, no hardware stores, no shoe repair shop, one drug store, no blacksmith shop, one garage, one filling station, one dry good store, and two grocery stores.

She really has more business places but so far as the general public, the reading public if you please, is conrerned, they do not exist. A look into the mirror which records the happenings of the community each week will convince anybody that Loraine is "dead."

LET'S EAT IT FOR THEM

It is estimated that perhaps 10,000 carloads of citrus fruit are lying on the ground in the Lower Rio Grande Valley—or that such was the case at the end of the great storm which swept the tip of Texas. The problem of what to do with this fruit is gigantic. Much of the fruit is in excellent condition, we are informed. Packing had already begun and the storm by no means ruined all of the fruit in sweeping it from the trees.

The movement is on now to send the fruit to market. Texas ought to jump at the chance to get the quality it has always preferred. Dallas has always been partial to grapefruit from the valley and is learning to like the oranges that come from there. It looked for a time that we would get almost nothing from the storm area, but the news that we may receive at least part of season's shipment is good news indeed.

Some are urging that we eat the valley's fruit as a means of helping it out. We ought to be glad to do that, but in this case it is really a matter of helping ourselves out. We'd notice it if we had to go without our valley brands. Let's eat grapefruit-not forgetting the oranges, either.

SCHOOL OPENS WITH LARGEST STUDENT BODY

A myriad of boys and girls, young men and young women, has flowed into Snyder schools this week.

The stream was so large and so continuous that when records were compiled this morning, it was discovered that approximately 1,000 students had enrolled. About 700 of these were in the grades, 300 in high school.

And more are coming. Before the enrollment peak is reached, more than 1,100 students may have been signed for courses.

It is the largest opening-week student body in local history by almost 100 students.

Enrollment figures were upped not only by those who caused this year's scholastic census roll to rise by 75 names, but by the largest group of transfers known to either grade or high school.—Scurry County Times.

RUN-A-WAY HORSE INJURES DITTY HUGHES BADLY

Stopping suddenly at a barbed wire fence, a run-a-way horse which Ditty Hughes was riding Wednesday afternoon threw her over its head into and through the fence cutting, jabbing and bruising her in numerous places. It was necessary to take several stitches in the wounds on her thigh.

Mrs. Tom Hughes, her mother, and Ditty drove to Iatan yesterday afternoon where she got on the horse. She was warned that the horse was very skittish and hard to hold but she wanted to ride him anyway. She was no more than in the saddle when he reared up and started out on a dead run.

Her injuries, though painful, were not serious. She will recuperate in several days.—The Mitchell County Times.

ANOTHER BEER VOTE FOR MITCHELL SEEN BY WETS

That Mitchell county voters will have another opportunity to express their views on legalization of 3.2 beer in the county is promised from local "wet" leaders. Such a move would be within the election laws six months following the election August 26, on condition the required number of qualified voters endorse petition to county commissioner's court asking for the vote.

While talk of another election on local option of beer is being threatened in camp of the wets, leaders among the county dry forces listen with a feeling of confidence that what was done at the polls recently will be enacted again should the vote be dalled for. Some of those taking active part in the recent campaign doubt that another election will be sought, at least at the end of six months.—Colorado Record.

Current Comment From Washington

The resignation of Mr. Moley as Assistant Secretary of State is an event which has called forth more comment than it merits. It has been necessary to let good men go before. Kaiser Wilhelm found it impossible to continue Bismarck in his old standing. Mr. Bryan's departure from the cabinet of Mr. Wilson is well remembered. Instances of the sort under consideration might be multiplied. Mr. Moley sums up the situation in few words and with good sense when he says that in a big adminstration there must be differences of opinion.

A great deal is being done to create jobs for the unemployed, but there are things that are more detrimental to the individual and to the country than that a man should be without work. In fact, there is opportunity to accomplish some good by throwing men out of work. Standing on the street corner is bad, but being improperly employed is less desirable. It is estimated that about a half million men make their living by crime. The notion is slowly gaining ground that it would be a help to have a period of hard times in the crime industry. What to do with unemployed gangsters would be something of a problem, but they might be set at the task of collecting the foreign war debts.

Col. Lindberg, on a visit to Denmark, is having some trouble avoiding persons who want his autograph. He is deliberately and wilfully passing up an opportunity to be remembered by posterity that presented itself to John Hancock. Nobody knows just what John did, but all keep his memory green as a good autographer. But for the colonel's modesty and retiring nature, people a hundred years from now might be saying: "Just put your Charles Lindbergh to this."

The government, like Martha in the Bible, is busy with many things. The N. R. A. of course is in the forefront. Realizing that it cannot be applied in all instances without temporary hardship, the President and those associated with him in authorty are perfecting arrangements whereby credit can be extended to those who are embarrassed for the moment in getting their shopwork under way according to the N. R. A. schedule. The Washington powers also have been giving a little thought to the subject of embargo, it seems. Stopping the sending of wares out of the country never has been popular, nor has it been profitable. It is not surprising that the President announced a slight let-up on the gold embargo. Gold as mined now may be sold abroad if the price in the foreign country is more attractive than the price offered at home. The immediate result of the President's action was that gold mining stocks took a jump, carrying some allied stocks with them. No doubt the business of practical gold mining will pick up in a short time, if there is a free market in Europe for the products of the mine. By the way, not many of us lost our jobs because work was slack in the gold mines, yet every little bit of recovery will help. The silver folks cast a suspicious or at least a longing eye at the advantage given to gold, and inquire, "What about silver." Silver of late has been an orphan child, but it may at length arrive on the doorstep of a friendly householder.

INTERSCHOLASTIC LEAGUE REGULATIONS CHANGED

Austin, Texas, Sept. 11-Rules and regulations governing Interscholastic League activities have been amended considerably for 1933-34, according to Roy Bedichek, chief of the University of Texas League Bureau. Under the plan as outlined and adopted by the State executive committee the number of districts in the Texas Interssholastic League has been increased from 27 to 31. This means that the districts are all smaller, and hence the district centers are more convenient to schools participating and less loss of school time and less traveling expenses are required. After the district winners have been determined in the 31 districts they are grouped together in eight regions with centers in higher educational institutions, principally in the teachers' colleges, for eliminations necessary to qualify contestants for the State Meet.

At the same meeeting the State committee considered the case of schools which were compelled to close for financial reassons before the end of the spring semester. Many questions have arisen in connection with the eligibility of pupils this fall who were compelled to drop out of school before the end of the semester on account of the fact that the schools were closed. The "Preceding Semester Rule" could automatically bar such pupils. The State committee, however, considers the depression an emergency, and hence made a rule which will qualify all pupils for fall competition who were eligible at the time their schools closed on account of financial difficulties.

An important change was also authorized in the manner of qualifying essay contestants in Interschlastic League contests. Heretofore it has been the custom to qualify the essays produced in the county meet for the next higher meet. The rule as changed will qualify the essay contestants themselves, who will pass on to the next higher meet and produce essays in that meet, and there will be a final State championship in essay writing participated in the State Meet by the contestants themselves.

New Deal Cotton Plan

Since the administration in Washington seems definitely committed to higher prices for farm products, and in order that the Farmers of West Texas may have an opportunity to take advantage of same and hold their COTTON for higher prices, we have completed arrangements to make liberal advancements on all cotton sold to us "ON CALL."

Basis on the Cotton is fixed on a future month at time of delivery, therefore the farmer knows every day exactly what his Cotton will net him.

Special provisions in this Contract will be:

NO CARRYING CHARGES AT ALL

NO MARGIN CALLS

PRIVILEGE to FIX FINAL PRICE ANY DAY

Inasmuch as Cotton prices are usually higher after the "FALL RUSH" is over, we feel that it will be to the farmer's interest to take advantage of our "NEW DEAL COTTON PLAN."
