Railroads to Urge 15 Per Cent Increase Freight Rates

DECISION REACHED AT MEETING OF EAST AND WEST EXECUTIVES IN HOTEL BILTMORE, NEW YORK

NEW YORK, June 6. (INS)—A formal demand for an increase in freight rates all over the country of 15 per cent was decided upon at a meeting of eastern and western railroad executives, according to the understanding in financial circles today.

The gathering of executives which was held at the Hotel Biltmore is the first definite step to be taken in efforts to restore the earning power of the nations' railroad systems.

The decision to make a single application to the Interstate Commerce commission was reached after extended discussions, and takes the place of previous plans for separate action by each group of roads.

The 15 per cent increase, with certain exceptions to be named in the application, is expected to give an increase in gross revenues of approximately $400,000,000 or 10 per cent of total revenues. No rise in passenger revenues is anticipated.

The decision to join in a single application was encouraged by informal indorsement of the rate increase by large shippers and railroad labor unions in eastern and western territory.

CAPT. AMUNDSEN MAY BE LIVING EXPLORER SAYS

MOSCOW, June 6. (US)—Capt. Roald Amundsen, veteran polar explorer believed dead for three years, may be alive on Prince Rudolph Island, north of Franz Josef land and within 600 miles of the north pole.

This hope was expressed today by Anthony Fiala, well-known New York explorer, in a cabled message to directors of Intourist, the Russian tourist bureau, which is taking a party of travellers to Franz Josef land this summer.

Fiala informed the bureau that he left a cache of food on Prince Rudolph Island on his last arctic expedition, and that Amundsen and Rene Guilbaud, who piloted Amundsen's plane when they left Tromso to search for survivors of the Italia disaster, could have lived from the cache up to now.

Fiala urged Professor Vize, heading this summer's De Luxe arctic tourist expedition, to put in at Prince Rudolph Island and search for Amundsen. Professor Vize commanded the Maliguin expedition which went to the relief of Gen. Umberto Nobile and the Italia party.

Special Verdict Expresses Belief Hardin Was Slain In Oklahoma

FIND SKELETON WAS THAT OF MISSING WAR VETERAN

Martin in the 89th district court here Saturday afternoon in which they found that the deceased had been slain in Cotton county, Okla., and not in Wichita county, Texas.

The special verdict, which was attached to the formal verdict of "not guilty," read as follows:

"The jury in the case of state of Texas versus Barney Riley, cause No. 5173, finds that the evidence reflects that the remains of a skeleton found in Cotton county, Oklahoma, are the remains of one Tom Hardin; that Tom Hardin met his death in Cotton county, Oklahoma, from a shot through the head. The jury finds itself unable to find the defendant guilty of the offense of murder as charged as we have agreed that the crime was not com-

RADIO ADDRESS GIVES ITALIAN SIDE OF FIGHT

CLAIM FASCISM GAVE CHURCH PLACE OF HONOR

Fascists Cooperated in Religious Processions Speaker Says

ROME, June 6. (AP)—The Catholic action society was described tonight in a radio broadcast purporting to give the Italian side of the government's controversy with Pope Pius XI, as "a strong organization taking orders from a foreign power."

The declaration was broadcast during the regular evening program of the Roman radio station. It did not purport to be official, but it was pointed out it would undoubtedly not be broadcast unless it represented an official view.

Catholic priests were accused in the broadcast of "black ingratitude" to Fascism, which, it said, "guarantees religious liberty."

This unofficial reply to the vatican and to the speeches of Pope Pius XI was made on the eve of the second anniversary of the ratification of the vatican treaty and the concordat, the two documents which ended the Pope's 59 years as "prisoners in the vatican."

It came also at the end of a day when the pope had declared: "We are fighting a battle for liberty of conscience." The pope's declaration was made during an address to a

OPERATORS BECOMING RESTLESS AND THREATEN RADICAL MOVES UNLESS EAST TEXAS PRORATED

AUSTIN, Texas, June 6. (AP)—A crisis is nearing in the East Texas oil situation, according to reports received today from field umpires by R. D. Parker, chief oil and gas supervisor for the Texas railroad commission.

A. B. Capers, umpire in the Longview field, stated "everybody is suspicious of everybody else; contracts are being made for oil as low as 12 cents per barrel and there are rumors of prices even less than this figure."

Capers reported a growing uneasiness on the part of operators who have abided by the proration orders of the commission because many of them have lost marketing connections and have been unable to obtain connections for new wells. A majority of the operators in the field have abided by the proration orders, but many of them, especially those whose properties are offset by violators of the orders, were reported by Capers as "restless."

"Now that it looks like they are getting a 'raw deal,' these men are becoming restless and are threatening to build earthen storage or take other steps. Unless conditions change very soon I am afraid somebody will lose his head and start something that will be hard to stop," Capers reported.

Violations Charged

Parker released a list of operators who he claimed have been, or are violators of proration orders. The list included 14 who have filed suits to enjoin enforcement of proration. Several of the operators

CLASS OF POOR GOOFS LEARN INNER SECRETS

AMARILLO GAS FIGHT ENDS IN COMPROMISE RATE 27 AND LOWER

AMARILLO, Texas, June 6. (AP)—Amarillo's gas fight came to a sudden and unexpected end Saturday afternoon when a compromise settlement was made with the Amarillo Gas company. Under terms of the settlement, the city is to withdraw its condemnation suit to acquire the local plant, the gas company agreed to a 27-cent maximum rate and to make the new rate schedule a part of its franchise and is to relieve the city of contracts which had been made for a gas supply and for the sale of bonds to finance a city-owned plant.

The compromise followed a week of negotiations.

The gas company had refused to incorporate the new rates in its franchise until Saturday, Mayor Ernest Thompson declared, when a large industrial user was connected up with the city's line which had been extended into the business district recently.

Mayor Thompson considered the settlement as an outstanding victory for the city.

The gas company purchased the Huber Petroleum company's pipe line through which the city was securing its supply and made a private settlement with brokerage houses which had contracted to buy up $1,600,000 of industrial bonds from the city.

The new rate schedule gives Amarillo gas from 27 cents to 8 cents, and compares favorably with the city's proposed schedule ranging from 22½ to 7 cents, Mayor Thompson declared, considering the loss in taxes that would accrue by reason of municipal ownership.

All cancellation contracts and new ordinances covering the agreement were disposed of before a special meeting of the city commission late today.

GERMANS CONFER WITH MACDONALD ON REPARATIONS

Decisions Involving European Affairs Expected To Be Reached

GERMANY WILL AVOID APPROACHING WASHINGTON

Seek to Convince MacDonald Germany too Weak To Bear Burden

By ROBERT WELLES RITCHIE
Universal Service Special Cable
(Copyright, 1931, by Universal Service, Inc.)

PRINCES RISBOROUGH, Eng., June 6.—Behind the locked gates of 16th century "chequers" in Buckinghamshire, residence of the British prime ministers, the Anglo-German conversations began today immediately after lunch.

Before tea time tomorrow, decisions involving European affairs, and probably including American policies as well, will be reached.

The British foreign office, however, would greatly prefer use of the word "understandings" instead of decisions, because "understandings" would keep up the fiction that this meeting of Germany's chancellor and foreign minister with Britain's premier and foreign secretary is "merely a friendly talk, with no decisions possible."

From sources close to the German diplomats came today a broad outline of the attitude of Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius in approaching Premier MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Henderson and whatever other heretofore unnamed British conferees may be called in tomorrow:

Favor Tariff Change

1—Germany will hold aloof to any proposal that she act as agent to approach Washington with the suggestion of reopening the question of the allied war debts: Germany does not want to be placed in the position of asking the United States to reconsider the debt question—one reason being that Germany was not of the allies.

2—Germany would welcome the general levelling of European and American tariff barriers as infinitely preferable to the desperate measure of having recourse to a moratorium under the Young plan, and will insist that there is no other alternative except the Austro-German customs union so long as the world's tariffs are against her.

3—Germany will insist that as long as the Versailles treaty keeps her as a fettered power paying war tribute to her conquerors, the treaty's stipulations regarding disarmament must be faithfully carried out despite France's determination to continue as the armed dictator of Europe.

Despite the foreign office's protestations that nothing can come out of the chequers talks save a mutually helpful understanding, it becomes increasingly apparent semi-officially that Britain hopes Germany's admittedly desperate plight may be hook or crook soften Washington's heart and lead to reconsideration of war debts.

Although Great Britain can afford to pay 5 per cent of her internal war debt should Germany resort to the moratorium, unquestionably Britain, France and Italy would use this leverage against Washington as an excuse for an all-around cessation of payments until Germany resumed the reparations burden.

Borah Approves

WASHINGTON, June 6. (AP)—Revision of the German reparation settlement was advocated today by Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee.

Senator Borah, who conferred recently with President Hoover and Secretary Stimson on the European situation, also joined the president in criticising heavy expenditures on armaments.

"Revision of the reparation settlement," said Senator Borah, "seems to me to be expedient economically and also fundamentally good. Nothing is to be gained by the nations to whom reparations are due and nothing is to be done by anyone in forcing Germany into a complete economic breakdown.

"In considering this question of reparation revision and the ability of the German people to pay, it ought not to be overlooked that one of the great contributing causes of the depression in Europe and which has made it more difficult for Germany to meet her obligations is the constantly increasing burden of armaments, superinduced by the nations other than Germany, and inviolation of the clear intent of the Versailles treaty."

Touch Up Nichols Plane

At Roosevelt field, Clarence Chamberlin, transatlantic flier, was putting finishing touches on the plane which carried Miss Nichols to a women's transcontinental record and in which the woman flier will hop for Paris alone. Favorable weather will find Miss Nichols pointing her white craft toward Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, in her dash for France.

At Curtiss airport Colonel Lindbergh supervised the placing of pontoons on the low-winged monoplane in which he and his wife will sail away shortly on a "vacation flight" over the northern Pacific to Japan and China or possibly over the northern Atlantic circle, via Greenland and Spitzenbergen.

Laura Ingalls, diminutive New York flier, is at Roosevelt field testing her new plane and getting "the feel" of the craft. Her destination is Paris, but she may not fly until late in the summer.

RADIO TALK GIVES ITALIAN ATTITUDE

group of Catholic members of the Fascist organization.

Italian listeners were reminded in the broadcast that Fascism gave a place of honor to the church, which was "badly protected by preceding governments." It declared the church and not the Fascist state had deprived the people of their religious processions and it said many of these had occurred, with perfect order, through cooperation of Fascist authorities, in places where the pope's prohibition against them was delayed or disregarded.

The condition of the church in Italy was compared with that in "other countries, where it is really persecuted." The pope, it said, instead of criticising those countries, spoke "sharp words against Italy."

"Regarding the persecutions spoken of in vatican circles, every one can see that they are rediculous attempts to make the church appear as a victim in a country where thousands of foreigners can testify to the respect shown priests, prelates, churches and church functions.

Religious Liberty

"Moreover, it is observed what black ingratitude is displayed by priests against Fascism, which has guaranteed religious liberty throughout Italy, after it was poorly protected by preceding governments.

"The strongest argument that can be advanced to justify the dissolution of the young Catholic clubs is the defense of the state, which is more than a mere duty of any government.

"There had come to be created the absurd situation of a strong organization taking orders from a foreign power—the vatican state. No government in the world would have allowed it to exist, any more than Italy, which fought for centuries for its independence and political liberty."

avoid firecrackers and other explosive grenades hurled under their feet by the gentle wrecking crew which functions at all of these festivities.

Headed by the screaming sirens of motorcycle officers the parade was lighted by red flares, carried in the hands of members of the society. As these burned short the blazing stubs were dropped on the streets, leaving a trail of flickering ghostly red flames.

Firecrackers kept up a rapid fire detonation that resembled the crackling pop of machine guns and other fireworks brought in the heavier crash of exploding grenades to carry out the front line motif. The Junior Legion band played martial music to keep the veterans in step.

After parading on Ohio, Indiana and Scott avenues the parade proceeded to the Memorial auditorium where the secret stages of the initiation were to be completed.

Chef de Gare S. J. Schwab was in charge of the meeting held at the Memorial auditorium. Leonard K. Hotham acting conducteur and a wrecking crew composed of members of the drum and bugle corps had charge of the wreck. Voyageuers from many nearby cities were present for the initiation. Following the wreck a large number of those present held an informal banquet at the Holt hotel.

The following were initaited: Dr. A. F. Leach, William Brewer, Geo. Shankle, Horace Beckman, Fritz Taylor, D. R. Saenz, B. P. Williams, Alex Fischer, T. Harvick, J. S. Sims, T. Thorman, Leo Underwood, F. W. Stephens, Curtis Young, J. P. Kenney, J. A. Kilgore, W. C. Sills, J. B. McDowell, R. J. Davenport, A. F. Martin, G. W. Carleton, P. M. Backus, O. L. Lauman, Geo. L. Wilbur Blames East Texas

WASHINGTON, June 6. (UP)—Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, as chairman of the federal oil conservation board, believes there is no relief in sight for the oil industry in the mid-continental region until the new field in East Texas is brought under the normal proration programs now existing in the other fields of the country.

"In spite of the great efforts of the oil industry and the recommendations of the oil states advisory committee, there is continuing heedless exploitation of the East Texas field," he said.

He explained the importing oil companies had gone beyond their individual programs in the reduction of oil imports into this country from foreign fields.

"There has also been a considerable degree of mastery of the proration problem in oil of the large producing states except Texas," he said. "There the attempt of the railroad commission to bring the new East Texas field into the state program seems to be unsuccessful. There has been some discussion of the necessity for new legislation to meet the serious problems involved.

"I understand the governor of Texas, who is fully familiar with the situation, and desirous of doing everything possible, is being urged to call a special session of the legislature."

RILEY ACQUITTED IN SLAYING CASE

The verdict was signed by James H. Sullivan, foreman.

This case has attracted widespread attention since the discovery of a skeleton on the Oklahoma side of the Red river last Dec. 11 by a farm boy hunting a gap in a fence.

Large crowds attended each day of the trial, which opened Wednesday morning.

Riley, who admitted on the stand that he was convicted of murder in Harris county in 1923 and later pardoned, appeared with his left arm in a cast, the result of an automobile accident on the Burkburnett-Wichita Falls highway several days ago.

During direct examination the defendant told the jury he had worked as a cowpuncher in Colorado and was a veteran of the world war. Hardin, the deceased, was also an ex-service man.

Riley denied killing Hardin and the state's entire case had to be built on circumstantial evidence.

Hardin disappeared in Burkburnett Oct. 1 last. The skeleton was found Dec. 11 and the dead man's brother, Sam Hardin, testified that he identified the bones as those of his missing brother through the rags of clothing remaining and certain papers in the trouser pockets.

The remains were buried and later the grave was opened and the skull removed by Texas and Oklahoma officials. The skull, introduced in court as evidence, had a hole through both temples which was about the size of a 38-caliber pistol bullet. A physician testified that the upper jaw appeared to have been badly fractured also.

Defense attorneys were Robert Crain, Wichita Falls, and R. S. Ragsdale, Burkburnett.

GRAND JURY WITNESSES FOR CAPONE WILL FACE PERJURY PROSECUTION

CHICAGO, June 6. (AP)—Double trouble was brewed for Al Capone today.

District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson announced he had detailed income tax prosecutor on his staff to see that Capone does not go free of tax evasion charges.

And he revealed that hoodlums and gangsters who testified falsely when they were called before the grand jury, which indicted Capone to tell what they knew of his underworld operations are to be prosecuted for perjury.

"I'd like to get this case out of the way this summer," Johnson said.

Church Inaugurates Sport Tog Services For Golfing Members

NEW YORK, June 6. (AP)—The Sabbath discussion that takes place in many homes where the head of the house would rather play golf than go to church has been obviated in one congregation at least.

The Rev. Arthur Stanley, pastor of the White Plains Congregational church, has inaugurated a special 8 o'clock service for golfers at which sports garb, including knickers, blazers, hob-nailed shoes and caps will be the accepted thing.

Not only has this mandate pleased the members of his congregation, the women included, but it has received the approbation of ministers, priests and rabbis from Fifth avenue to Long Island urban communities.

"It's a most excellent plan in the country," said the Rev. Harold L. Gibb, assistant pastor of the fashionable St. Thomas' Episcopal church on Fifth avenue. Mr. Gibb does not think it would be quite proper to wear knickers in city churches.

"If people want to come to church in knickers, God bless them," was the way the Rev. William H. Friday of the Olivet Baptist church, Valley Stream, N. Y., voiced his approval of the plan.

Rabbi Samuel M. Cohen, executive director of the United Synagogue of America, believes that "it is possible to feel prayerful in any garb."

The idea is hardly an innovation in the Catholic churches, it was explained by representatives of that faith. The early services are often attended by those in sports garb.

Northington Removed as Head Of Cotton Cooperative Association Following Conference of Board

NEW ORLEANS, June 6. (INS)—Allen Northington today was removed from the presidency of the American Cotton Cooperative association, it was announced today.

Northington's resignation was accepted following a two-day conference of the board here, although his resignation had been requested and tendered at a conference in May.

The action was taken, according to a formal announcement by E. F. Creekmor, vice president and general manager, because of alleged irregularities of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton association, of which Northington formerly was the head.

The announcement said the Alabama organization had $120,000 on deposit in the First National bank of Prattville, Ala., when the bank was closed on May 27. Northington was president of the bank.

Creekmor's statement said:

"It appears on a basis of the information at present available that most of the irregularities in the accounts of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton association rose from between improper financial relations between the association and the First National bank of Prattville, Ala., of which Mr. Northington was president and which closed its doors last week shortly after Mr. Northington's resignation had been accepted by the Alabama association. The total amount of money involved is not yet known."

Northington is now under bond pending a grand jury's investigation of charges against him of violating the national banking laws.

FIVE INJURED WHEN STRUCK BY AUTO IN STREET AT LUBBOCK

LUBBOCK, Texas, June 6. (AP)—Lubbock's automobile accident list for the 24 hours was brought to a total of nine tonight when five persons were injured, two seriously, as they were walking on a street here to the business district.

Bessie Stovall, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Stovall, suffered severe scalp wounds and possible brain injuries when she was struck by an automobile occupied by Johnny Berry and Mann Christian, as she was walking with her parents, small sister and Mr. and Mrs. Branam and Howard White.

Berry and Christian were placed under arrest following the accident.

Four Boy Scouts and a scoutmaster were injured Friday night in an automobile accident as they were returning from a scout meeting near here.

A Costly Slap

CLEVELAND.—Two years ago John Carey, city fireman, slapped Evelyn Eppich, 24, over payment of a meal check, she contends. Consequently she estimated that she was injured to the amount of $4,500. But Judge White and the jury didn't think she was hurt that bad. She was awarded $1,500, which makes the slap costly enough.

Texas gasoline users consumed a total of 738,177,457 gallons during 1930. The state tax on this amount was $29,527,098.

each for appearance Tuesday before United States Commissioner Head to answer charges of violating the tariff act.

The plane was ordered held by customs agents of the United States treasury department.

The Halliburton ship, The Cementer, arrived at noon from El Paso.

Halliburton has extensive holdings in Texas and Oklahoma, where, until recently he owned and operated one of the major links in the nation's air line chain.

Mrs. Vida C. Halliburton, wife of the airman, said if any liquor was in the plane, her husband did not know about it, and expressed her confidence that the matter would be cleared up in a short time.

According to customs men the spectacular raid resulted from "inter-office information" received here from a city close to the international border. They refused to give out further details.

BUSCH ONLY BREWER TO BE PRAISED BY BOARD OF METHODIST CHURCH

WASHINGTON, June 6. (US)—Adolphus Busch has the distinction of being the only brewer ever to be praised by the Methodist board of temperance, prohibitions and public morals.

The board's clipsheet today referred to Busch's recent assertion that his observance of the prohibition law doesn't indicate his approval of prohibition, and added:

"He stands head and shoulders above the man who makes a hypocritical pretense of being a good citizen while conspiring with bootleggers to destroy a part of the constitution."

Nor is Busch "to be criticized in the slightest" because he doesn't believe in prohibition, the board conceded.

AUTO RUNS 59 MILES ON GALLON OF GAS

Automobile engineers who worked for years in an effort to reduce gasoline consumption have found the solution in a marvelous invention that fits all cars. An actual test made by one of the engineers showed 59 miles on a gallon of gas. Thousands of car owners have already installed this new invention. They not only report amazing gas savings but are also surprised to find quicker pickup, instant starting, smoother running motors and more power. The Whirlwind Mfg. Co., Dept. 776-S, Station C, Milwaukee, Wisc., for a limited time is offering a free device to those who will help introduce it. They also need men everywhere to make up to $100 weekly in their own territory taking care of local business. Write them at once for free sample and big money making offer.—Adv.

ITINERARY FOR FALL TOUR OF AREA ARRANGED

Wichita Business Men To See Valley Farming Possibilities

CONCERNS HERE ASKED TO SEND REPRESENTATIVES

First of Two Tours Of Farming Areas Set For Third Week in June

The tentative itinerary of the first of the farm tours of the Wichita valley, sponsored by the Junior hcamber of commerce, has been arranged following a journey by Frank wolf, chairman of the junior chamber's committee on arrangements, and G. C. McGown, county farm agent.

The first of the tours, to be staged during the third week of June, will be for business men of the city who desire to see at first hand the agricultural development and possibilities of the valley.

The second, to follow the first by about two weeks, will be for key farmers of the 15 or 20 counties adjacent to Wichita.

According to tentative plans, the tours will require a traveling distance of about 85 miles. The departure will be made from Wichita Falls about 8 o'clock each morning.

The tentative itinerary follows: Leave Wichita Falls for tour of truck farming area east of city; return to Wichita Falls and go via lower Charlie road to Hartsook's dairy; return to Wichita Falls on Iowa Park road and to J. S. Bridwell farm; on dirt road to W. F. George farm; to state experimental farm; to Diversion lake road to Mackechney turkey farm; to lake road and to Moller poultry ranch; back to Wichita Falls.

Lunch will be served at the experimental farm. Arrangements for the lunch are in charge of a committee of which Herbert Hausler is in charge. Each individual will pay for his own lunch.

It is expected, Mr. Wolf declared, that every business concern in Wichita Falls will be represented on the trip. Its primary objects are, he explained, to bring farmers and business men into closer cooperation, and to inform the business men of Wichita Falls of the agricultural possibilities of the valley.

The second of the trips, to follow about the same itinerary as the first, will be for key farmers of about 15 counties in the vicinity of Wichita.

UNITED STATES PLANS EARLY CANCELLATION OF CARIBBEAN COMMITMENTS

WASHINGTON, June 6. (INS)—Renewed indications that the United States intends canceling its Carribean commitments as rapidly as possible under the Hoover-Stimson Latin-American policy, were seen today in a declaration by Stimson of the rapid progress made toward the "Haitianization" of Haiti.

Stimson revealed that virtually the only thing delaying the withdrawal of the marines was a treaty obligation to keep them in the island republic until certain bonds were liquidated. The principal reason for their presence, Stimson declared, was a pledge made whereby Haiti was enabled to float bond issue under the tutelage of an American financial agent that this official would be accorded protection until the bonds mature. He collects the customs and taxes.

No secretary of state since marine occupancy of Haiti has been as outspoken as Stimson on this subject. The fact has been recognized by all, but a hesitancy has existed at the state department about proclaiming anything beyond the technical language of the Haitian treaty of 1915.

Stimson expects the "Haitianization" of Haiti to proceed more rapidly than contemplated by the Forbes commission, sent by President Hoover to untangle an undesirable diplomatic situation. He said progress thus far outstrips the commission's recommendations.

FIGURES REVEAL CHEAP COTTON NET STIMULATING USE

Fewer Bales Are Moved To Mills Than During Last Year

TEXTILE MANUFACTURERS CLAIM SALES ARE LIGHT

Buyers Hesitate to Place Orders Until Prices Stabilized

WASHINGTON, June 6. (AP)—It may seem a paradox, but low prices of raw cotton are doing the opposite of stimulating consumption.

Figures compiled by the department of agriculture show that 1,044,194 fewer bales of cotton moved to the mills from Aug. 1, 1930, to June 5, 1931, than during the same period a year earlier.

The situation simply is one in which manufacturers can not get enough for their products to make operation profitable even if cotton is the cheapest since 1915. At its work outs, the knowledge that raw cotton is so low causes the purchases of yarn and cloth to demand lower prices or limit their orders to bare necessities which in turn narrows the profits of the mills.

Hesitate to Place Orders

Executives of some textile concerns say they are entirely satisfied to keep their machinery running just enough to keep it in good order and to care for their operatives. Buyers in some of the primary dry goods markets are said to be in need of supplies to carry them through the summer but hesitate to place orders until they have more definite assurance or price stability.

The department of agriculture says that with cotton cloth orders diminished and lower raw material quotations mills show little inclination to place business. The dry goods market has not been able to resist the lower prices for raw cotton.

Value as Investment

Commission houses, in some instances, were said to be receiving inquiries as to whether or not cotton at present levels was a good investment.

One firm said the only hope the market had was that investment buying on a grand sale would begin. It would lead to mill buying with those which are strongly intrenched financially probably purchasing for a 3 to 5-year supply on all scale-downs.

A rally in the securities market, it was said, would induce outside buying. The fact that the U. S. treasury bond issue was over-subscribed eight times indicated to many that there is a vast amount of idle capital in the country.

MUSSOLINI PRESIDES AT WHEAT CONFERENCE AND PROMISES RELIEF

ROME, June 6. (UP)—Premier Mussolini, presiding today over the permanent wheat committee, announced it had been decided the government would take immediate measures to help Italian wheat growers.

These measures will include a royal decree effective June 20, making it obligatory for millers to use a certain percentage of national wheat. This will be intended indirectly to check imports.

Another measure would cause the army to purchase 500,000 quintals of Italian wheat instead of foreign wheat during July and part of August. The premier said that further increase of the custom duty or fixation of the amount to be imported immediately after the harvest would be inadvisable.

DISTRICT JUDGE REFUSES TO OUST HOLDENVILLE HOLDOVER PATROLMAN

HOLDENVILLE, Okla., June 6. (AP)—The latest development in Holdenville's double police force situation today was the refusal of Don Williams, district judge, to grant a temporary restraining order designed to oust the holdover patrolmen who are on duty with the new force appointed by the new mayor, A. W. Scott.

A hearing was set for June 15, however, the day before the city council meets to consider the situation.

Scott's appointments took effect yesterday but members of the outgoing force contended the appointments should have been made by council vote instead of by the mayor, and remained on the job.

A friendly spirit prevailed.

Presents Still Roll in to Man Who Was Governor of Empire State And Candidate for Presidency

By ALFRED E. SMITH

There is scarcely a morning that by parcel post or express, from one to half dozen packages do not await me. They are all gifts or souvenirs from friends known and unknown. Large, small, bulky, heavy, carefully wrapped or ragged and torn. It is frequently no easy task to identify the senders, so their gifts can be acknowledged. Sometimes they send me advance notice by letter or even telegram that something is on the way and may be expected soon.

Al E. Smith

No living person could possibly have an idea of the amount of material gathered by a governor of New York who spends six consecutive years in the executive mansion, particularly of he happens at the close of it to be nominated for president of the United States. After the election of 1928 I went down south for a little rest from the rigors of the campaign, and I suggested to Mrs. Smith that she start to get our belongings together to leave for New York. She said there was plenty of time and that there really wasn't very much of it. After we went through the 35 rooms in the mansion, gathered all that was put in the cellar, brought over all the things that were left at the executive chamber at the capitol, there were four or five vanloads of material, to say nothing of my menagerie which had also been acquired as gifts.

The most difficult of transportation, for fear of loss by destruction, were the large number of oil paintings of me made by devoted admirers from photographs. They all seem to think they can paint my portrait and I am still receiving them. The artists range from messenger boys and bootblacks through ambitious daughters of old friends, to serious artists. They portray me smiling, scowling, wearing firemen's helmets, driving trucks, or looking earnest, statesmanlike or very wild. One admirer not only painted my portrait but he also painted on the same canvas the fish which President Coolidge presented to me when I visited him at Lake Osgood in 1926.

The most recent addition to the collection is a large oil painting of a ferocious tiger stalking his prey. Likewise there are paintings of all my children and grandchildren. I showed the collection of paintings to Charles Dana Gibson at one time and he said to me, "You should never let anybody get them away from you. If I were you, I would hold on to them. They will make an interesting exhibit and will be enjoyed by your children and grandchildren for years to come."

My menagerie at Albany gave me the greatest pleasure. It contained a baby bear who grew up and roamed about the neighborhood when he occasionally got loose. He visited the children in the orphan asylum next door and had to be coaxed home. A tame fox was there for a time, and an elk. Deer and fawns came and went. There were two white turkeys and a goat named Heliotrope, who had been in the movies, spent his last days with us. His head has been mounted and decorates the wall of my roof garden even now. I had a collection of monkeys and raccoons. Pheasants added color and in the pool in the greenhouse were alligators, turtles and gold-fish. I spent many happy hours visiting and playing with the animals.

Two Shetland ponies belonged to my boys until the boys were too tall to ride them any more. We have owned so many dogs of so many different breeds that it is difficult to remember them all. We took my old Great Dane, Caesar, to Albany with us when I first went there and I can still see my son Al being pulled up the hill by him on his first arrival at the mansion. After that we had everything from stray dogs adopted by my youngest boy to a succession of police dogs, Great Danes, Russian wolf hounds, Pekinese and collies.

Love-birds, canaries, parrots and turtle-doves completed the collection. One of the parrots still greets me in my present dining room with "Hello Al," every time he hears my footsteps on the stairs. It is the same bird who was in my room in the Biltmore hotel after the presidential campaign when I was meeting the newspaper men and deciding with them that it was not necessary for them to call on me every day thereafter. Suddenly the parrot piped up, "Goodbye!" much to everybody's delight and enjoyment.

Articles of furniture, clocks, sofa cushions, all kinds of things cut out of wood, walking sticks, statues, replicas of the brown derby, lamps and many other articles are sent to me. One lamp that I now have at the house is carved entirely of wood and the fringe of the shade is decorated with perch stones, carved into baskets. The amazing thing about most of these things is the amount of time that must have been devoted to their production. Blankets knitted as replicas of the American flag, hooked rugs, fancy bed-spreads and in fact articles of clothing, particularly homemade knitted golf stockings, come from elderly ladies.

Souvenirs of all kinds from practically all parts of the world have come to me. Only recently I was presented with a model of the Empire State building, more than two feet high, made entirely out of anthracite coal. I receive old newspapers theater programs, books, old prints of New York and Albany, fire hats, stuffed birds and animals of all kinds. That I have appreciated them all is attested by the fact that I still have them. While there is no room for all of them at my house some of them are at my offices at the Empire State building.

Many originals of cartoons, all of which are framed and hung serve to bring back pleasant memories. The members of Hook and Ladder Company Number 1, of New York sent me one of Brown's fine drawings of an organ-grinder playing his organ, outside of an old fashioned stoop house and children dancing on the streets, evidently intended to remind me of the words of the "Sidewalks of New York."

Of course, I receive a collection of walking canes of every kind and make. One is of rhinoceros horn. I have quite a number of blackthorn sticks imported from Ireland. I even have one of the canes which Grover Cleveland used when he was governor, presented to me by an admirer of President Cleveland.

Douglas Volk, the artist who painted my portrait for the executive chamber, presented me with a life mask of Abraham Lincoln, made by his father. I have enough tigers, large and small, a bronze, papier mache, plaster, to outfit any menagerie in the world. In fact, a live tiger cub was brought to me once, but he proved too vicious and had to be sent on promptly to a zoo.

One day a man called on the 'phone at the executive mansion and told the superintendent that a delegation from Idaho was desirous of presenting me with a box of jewels. They were permitted to do so. The box was quite fancy but when we opened it, it contained some Idaho potatoes, which did not go to waste, and the box is still in existence for ornamental purposes. Bags of nuts, cuttings from pine trees, boxes of fruit, all reach me at various seasons and are appreciated by the family.

From the Orient have come some interesting and valuable novelties. The Bishop of Hong Kong sent me a beautiful piece of carved ivory. A priest in the interior of China sent me a number of curios and some choice tea. In return he asked me to send him five pounds of raisins, some sugar and a cake, all of which I promptly shipped to China.

I have a large collection of pictures of small children mailed to me by fond parents. At my office I have a piece of the wood from the floor of the room in which I was born at 174 South street, presented to me by the man who bought the house, and suitably inscribed. At my home is the fish which President Coolidge caught for me in the Adirondacks, stuffed and mounted. Fire helmets worn in many parades of volunteer firemen are on my shelves.

I had supposed that after the campaign of 1928 when I would return to private life in New York, gifts of this kind would cease. The contrary, however, is true. I am still receiving them and I am not lacking in appreciation of the fact that they clearly indicate that throughout the country people are thinking about me. It is a great collection, all told, and serves to recall every event in my life. My only regret was the parting from my many animal friends, who could not live comfortably in a New York apartment. I keep many things about me for which others can see no use, but to me they speak of friendliness.

Capt. Shaddix To Address Disabled Vets at Vernon

VERNON, Texas, June 6.—A mass meeting of Disabled Veterans of the World War from Middle Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma is to be held here Tuesday night, June 9, at 8 o'clock. The meeting will be held at the courthouse and will be addressed by Capt. W. L. Shaddix, national deputy chief of staff, Disabled American Veterans of the World War. Captain Shaddix will give a synopsis of the laws passed by congress for the benefit of disabled soldiers and their dependents. He will explain some of the plans of the organization for assisting veterans who have not had satisfactory ratings on their claims by the veterans bureau.

The purpose of the meeting primarily is to organize a tri-county chapter of the disabled veterans for active work with the state and national organizations, especially the veterans who are not able to prepare their own claims.

The organization has legal experts within most of the veterans bureaus throughout the United States, who last year secured more than four million dollars for disabled ex-soldiers and their dependents. More than 20,000 claims were taken up on appeal and 4,000 were successfully connected with the service.

Captain Shaddix will explain plans for future legislation and will speak again in Vernon Wednesday night, leaving for Amarillo early Thursday morning for an address there. He is touring the United States at the request of the national adjutant of the disabled veterans and without salary. Because he is drawing the maximum compensation under the law, he has pledged his full time to the disabled veterans who is not on the pay roll so long as he himself is on the compensation list.

Deadliest Poison

LONDON.—Adenia, said to be the deadliest poison in the world, has been imported from Pretoria. It is obtained from a plant in the Transvaal, and only a tiny portion of it is enough to kill a man. Fumes from it overcome any one smelling them, and sometimes result in death. The poison leaves no trace in the organs of its victims. It is 5,000 times deadlier than strychnine.

put your Telephone on Half-pay during Vacation

You'll save money . . . and spare yourself inconvenience when you return.

The Rumseys are going vacationing.

The milk's been stopped, the ice man has been called off, and the Man Who Delivers the Newspaper has been instructed to bring no more until further notice.

But the telephone will be left at home, drawing full pay in an empty house!

Something should be done about this!

Vacation rates for idle residence telephones

One solution (provided you're planning a vacation of 30 days or more) is to place your telephone on vacation half-rates while you are away.

It's a convenient way to save money. And—this to folks who sometimes have their telephones taken out—it spares you inconvenience on your return.

That's because:
1. You pay just half the regular rate.
2. Service is reconnected quickly after you return—usually within 24 hours after you notify us.
3. You keep your present telephone number. (You'd lose it if you had your telephone removed!)
4. Your name remains in the telephone book.

If you wish, while you are away we will refer your calls to another telephone—that of relatives, for instance.

"Something should be done about this"

Vacation rates are available for periods of more than 30 days. They apply only to residence telephones—not to business or rural service.

MRS. TURMAN IN POSSESSION HOME PENDING HEARING

FORT WORTH, June 6. (AP)—Mrs. Thomas Turman remained in possession of the $60,000 L. C. Turman home early today while attorneys for her former daughter-in-law, Mrs. Beryl Turman, were preparing a motion to gain occupancy of the house.

Mrs. Thomas Turman is the mother of L. C. Turman, oil man, who was divorced from Mrs. Beryl Turman, several months ago.

"I am staying here because it is half mine," she said. "When the highest court of justice decides, I shall certainly be glad to abide by its decision."

Sheriff Wright received a telegram today from L. C. Turman, who is at Monterey, Mexico, advising the sheriff to "protect himself" by bond before ousting Turman's mother.

But Deputy Sheriff Bill Gibbs, who is handling the matter since the court's sale of the Turman home a few days ago to Mrs. Beryl Turman, already had announced he would not seek to oust Mrs. Thomas Turman until the sheriff was protected by an indemnity bond furnished by Mrs. Beryl Turman's attorneys.

The latter lawyers planned to ask Judge Culver for an order instructing the sheriff to carry out the sale and put Mrs. Beryl Turman in possession of the home.

The Turman home, valued at $60,000, and another piece of property were included in a foreclosure order from Seventeenth district court to satisfy a cash judgment of $355,000 rendered in favor of Mrs. Turman against her former husband, L. C. Turman.

CUBAN DEMONSTRATORS BREAK INTO AMERICAN CONSULATE IN SANTIAGO

SANTIAGO, Cuba, June 6. (INS)—The American consulate here was broken into today by a mob of hungry and anti-government demonstrators who were fleeing from troops and police.

The consulate door was broken down by the leaders of the mob who were seeking protection from the police and troops, but no other damage was done. Vice Consul Harry W. Story finally prevailed upon the leaders to leave the building, but not before a number of them had used threatening language when informed the consulate could not afford them protection from the police.

Secret Process of Manufacturing Rubber From Oil Jealously Guarded By Scientific Institute in Russia

MOSCOW, June 6. (UP)—The Soviet government is jealously guarding the secret of how its factories hope to manufacture rubber from oil on a commercial scale.

A short item in the Moscow Izvestia reported the Leningrad rubber trust factory had produced more than half a ton of commercial rubber from oil through a mysterious process. It was also stated this rubber was sent to the Red Triangle factory for the manufacture of various rubber goods.

Efforts to manufacture synthetic rubber from oil were begun in 1918. Soviet laboratories had been busily engaged on a solution of this problem for the last 13 years. This was, however, the first time that synthetic rubber was produced from oil on a commercial scale, and at production costs presumably below that of rubber produced from plants.

Attempts to obtain information about the general nature of the process were frustrated. Scientific institute for rubber research explained this invention was a state secret, refused to state even in the most general terms what the nature of the process was and went so far as to declare the article in Isvestia appeared "by accident."

HEARING ON OKLAHOMA TEST OIL PRORATION LAW SCHEDULED FOR JUNE 13

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 6. (AP)—Hearing of the Champlin Refining company's federal district court suit testing the constitutionality of the state proration law will be conducted June 13 at Tulsa before three federal judges, it was announced today at the federal court clerk's office. Hearing originally was set for Guthrie but on agreement of attorneys for the Champlin and state the case will be heard in Tulsa.

In its supplemental bill, the Champlin company asks that the proration law be found unconstitutional and void, that the state corporation commission, attorney general and Lewis R. Morris, county attorney, be restrained from enforcing provisions of the law, that rules and regulations established by the corporation commission be declared unconstitutional and that the state be restrained from bringing suit for receiver for Champlin holdings in the city field.

The corporation commission, attorney general and county attorney are named defendants in the amended bill.

ST. LOUIS, June 6. (UP)—"Women in the cemetery business must not mix spirits," U. S. District Judge Faris said in refusing a parole for Mrs. Mary Foelsch, wife of the sexton of a cemetery here, who was convicted of operating a still in the cemetery.

Prohibition agents who raided her house in the cemetery said they found two still and large quantities of whisky, gin and beer. Her attorneys pleaded she could not pay the $500 fine and would have to serve out the amount with 60 days imprisonment.

RENO, NEV., MAYOR PAYS TRIBUTE TO BILL GRAHAM VICTOR IN GUN BATTLE

RENO, Nev., June 6. (UP)—Mayor Ed E. Roberts, whose speeches in churches and speakeasies recently won him re-election, paid tribute today to William "Bill" Graham, victor in a deadly gun duel with a faro dealer.

"We men of the West aren't afraid of anything that walks or crawls or flies," Mayor Roberts said in commenting on the outcome of a "six-gun draw" game between Graham, prominent casino owner and associate of Jack Dempsey, and F. R. McCracken, mining camp and desert town character.

A coroner's jury exonerated Graham on testimony McCracken fired the first shot and Graham acted in self-defense.

Eskimos May Be Called to Settle Meat Controversy

WASHINGTON, June 6. (AP)—It may become necessary to subpoena a few Eskimos to settle the latest controversy over the how and why of meat eating in hot weather.

Recently the public health service said "meat is an active heat-producing food, as shown by the fact that natives of the far north live entirely on animal products."

Joining in the protests of various cattlemen and packers, the Institute of Meat Packers sent a letter today to Secretary Mellon, who has jurisdiction over the health service, saying:

"During the arctic summer the Eskimo is exposed to extremely hot and disagreeable weather, but he does not change his eating habits. He continues to eat meat."

While the agriculture department has taken the matter up with the health service, an enterprising department employe today canvassed some of the women who work there. He summarized the collective reply as follows:

"Its quite simple. Women don't like to cook in hot weather. Steam takes the curl out of the marcel wave."

Steer Pitchers Unable to Halt Spudder Attack

Two Games Scheduled With Dallas in Sunday Bargain Bill

DALLAS, June 6.—Carl Williams' Wichita Falls Spudders evened the series with the Dallas Steers here Saturday night before 2,000 fans, 8 to 4, and regained fourth position in the Texas league club standings. A concerted attack in the first two innings when they knocked Grady Adkins out of the box and chased six runs across the plate salted the game away. They added two more in the fifth off Southpaw Fuhr, who went the rest of the way.

Big Milton Steengrafe turned in a creditable game for the Spudders, holding the Herd to two hits until the seventh. An unearned tally was registered off him in the fourth and the Steers finished strong to get three more in the eighth and ninth.

Six Double Plays

Fast work by the rival infields featured the contest. Each side clicked off three double plays. Scharein again played spectacular ball at short for the visitors. He came up with the prize play of the night in the eighth when he crossed to the right of second base and threw Cotter out on what looked like an impossible chance. Everybody in the Wichita Falls lineup except Bryant hit safely at least once, Allday leading with three singles. Buck Stanton, however, provided the real power in the pinch. He drove four scores across the plate on his first two times at bat.

A double-header will be played Sunday afternoon and Manager Williams announced Saturday night he would give Bochey Koch, former all-American football star of the Baylor Bears, a chance to make his Texas league debut behind the plate in one of the games. Ashley Hillin and Presnell probably will toil for the visitors with Lefty Minogue and Meadows slated for Dallas.

Buck Stanton's timely hitting in the clinches was largely responsible for a six-run lead taken by Spudders in the first two innings that saw the arrival and departure of Grady Adkins, veteran right-hander, on the mound for Dallas. Garms opened the game with a walk, took third on Allday's hit to right and scored when Stanton banged a hit to right. After Gullic fouled to Todd, Allday died stealing third and Euller popped. A walk, the recipient of which was Leo Cotter was all the Steers got in their half.

Fuss Opens Rally

The big blow-off came in the second, which Fuss started with a base on balls. Scharein skied to right but Bryant took two bases on Holman's error, Fuss stopping at third and scoring a moment later when Steengrafe rapped a safety through the right side. Garms' single to right scored Bryant and Allday's punch hit through the middle filled the bases. Akins was relieved by Oscar Fuhr, vet left-hander, whom Stanton welcomed with a double to left that sent Steengrafe, Garms and Allday scampering over the pan. Fuhr fanned Gullic and made Euller loft to Jones to get the side out. Steengrafe set the locals down in order, fanning Jones and Holman.

Fuss launched the third with a single but was doubled off when Holman made a spectacular catch on Scharein's scorching liner. Bryant walked but Steenie rolled out.

Dallas threatened in its half after Todd walked and Fuhr hit into a double play. Kelly strolled and stopped at second on Loepp's hit to left. Cotter ended the rally by skying to Gullic.

Garms set off the fourth with a single to left and raced to third when Allday pounded a hit through first. Stanton popped to short. When Gullic fanned, Todd made a perfect peg to Holman to double Allday at second second when he tried again to steal. An error by Allday giving Jones a life after one was out in the Dallas fourth paved the way for the Steers' first run. Borrelli flied out, but Holman doubled over Fuss' head and Jones scored. Scharein threw Todd out on a pretty play to retire the side.

Score Again in Fifth

Three successive hits opening the fifth got the Spudders two more. Euller beat out a bounder to deep short, stopped at third on Fuss' double down the left field line and both tallied when Scharein sent a long two-bagger to left. The next three died in order. Two bases on balls availed the home club nothing and Gullic's scratch hit through short after two were away availed the Williamsmen nothing in the sixth. Euller, Allday and Stanton clicked off a double play on Borrelli after Jones walked and Holman fouled to Stanton in the home half.

The Spudders died in order in the seventh, Fuss and Scharein fanning. A double play nullified two singles in the home half.

Steengrafe opened the eighth with a hit but Allday slashed into a twin killing after a fine catch by Holman erased Garms. Dallas got two back in its half. Scharein made a magnificent stop on the right side of second and threw out Cotter. Higgins singled to center, stopped at third on Jones' double to right and scored while Borrelli was rolling to Allday. Holman's single to left scored Jones. Again the Williamsmen went down in rotation in the ninth.

The Steers added one more to their total in their last stand when Pinch Hitter Langford, batting for Fuhr, started a rally with a single to right. Murray went in to run for him and legged to third on Kelly's single to center. He was held there while Euller, Allday and Stanton were unreeling a double play on Minogue's bounder, the latter pinch-batting for Loepp. Cotter's single to center scored Murray but the threat ended when Gullic pulled in Higgin's lofter.

Exporters Lengthen Lead With 5-2 Win

BADGRO LIKELY TO BE READY TO RETURN TO SPUDDER DUTY SUNDAY

Morris "Red" Badgro, Spudder left fielder who was injured in the Shreveport series early in the week, is expected to be ready to return to the lineup in Sunday's double header with the Steers, according to word Saturday from Secretary Guy Airey, who is with the club.

Badgro came out of a slide into second base with a strained leg ligament and since has been forced to remain on the bench, with Debs Garms taking his place in the outfield.

Bud Hungling, catcher acquired from Milwaukee, had not joined the Spudders Saturday morning. The veteran maskman was scheduled to report during the Dallas series.

BEAUMONT, June 6. (AP)—The Exporters tightened their hold on first place by defeating the Buffs, 5-2, for the second time in two days. Buck Marrow, whose efforts heretofore have largely been confined to relief work, traveled the route. Marrow gave up 10 hits but was tight in the pinches and only allowed one earned run. Tex Carleton, the league's strikeout leader, was given flawless support but timely hitting by the locals proved his downfall. Score:

GALVESTON, June 6. (AP)—Train schedules assisted the San Antonio Indians in handing Del Pratt's Buccaneers their 20th defeat in their last 22 games tonight, 8-7. The Bucs came out of their batting lethargy in late innings and although Estell had been staked to a seven-run lead, drove Old Tom as well as No-Hit Moore from the hillock. But the game was called at the end of the eighth inning to allow both clubs to entrain for San Antonio where a double-header will be played tomorrow. Score:

City League Pace Setters to Clash With Lower Three

Bailey-Moline Tangles With Sullivan's in Most Important Tilt

By MACK TURNER

The three City league leaders face the three second division clubs Sunday afternoon in the league contests, with Bailey-Moline Hardware company meeting Sullivan Grocery company, Modern Woodmen tangling with Star Transfer company and P. D. Q.'s crossing bats with I. O. Boosters. Of these three games, the Bailey-Moline-Sullivan grocery game possibly is the more important.

The grocerymen seem to have taken a new lease on life with their double win last week over the Modern Woodmen and are slowly but surely getting up into the pennant chase. Stanley Anderson, the veteran right-hander of the grocerymen, who captured both ends of last week's double bill, is slated to take the hill for the grocerymen Sunday on Ball Brothers diamond in an effort to stop Smokey Lupher & Co., in their mad dash pennantward.

Star Transfer faces the Woodmen at Katy park, with the Woodmen wild to take their spite out on somebody for the double lacing handed them last week. Lefty Bell is the most likely starter for the Woodmen, with Lefty Robertson, ace of the transfer nine, and perhaps the best left-hander ever produced in Wichita Falls sandlot baseball, on the hill for the transfer nine. Robertson has lost but two games in the last three years in the City league.

The I. O. Boosters should have little trouble with the luckless P. D. Q. nine, but it has been reported that the P. D. Q. club has added several new men and will present a strengthened front. The Boosters expect a new catcher for Sunday afternoon, in which case Cecil Stovall likely will hurl the game. Just who will ascend the hillock for the P. D. Q. club is unknown.

All games are scheduled to start at 3:30 o'clock.

TRIO GETS BIG CATCH FROM DIVERSION LAKE

A string of 42 fish, including bass, crappie and catfish, made Thursday a big day for three Diversion lake anglers. The fortunate fishermen were Earl McCracken, J. H. Myberry and H. Lee Walsh. The prize of the catch was a bass that weighed more than seven pounds after being dressed.

ELECTRA GOLFERS TO PLAY COUNTRY CLUB SEXTET HERE SUNDAY

LERMOND BREAKS OLD RECORD IN MILE RUN

NEW YORK, June 6. (AP)—A smashing 4:15 mile by Leo Lermond, former Boston A. A. middle distance ace, furnished the one outstanding event of the New York A. C. track and field meet program at Travers Island Saturday. Scratches by several stars, including most of the Stanford athletes, robbed the meet of many of its expected thrills.

MORELAND DECISIVE WINNER IN TEXAS CHAMPIONSHIP FINAL

Dallas Youngster Beats Smith by 7 And 6 for Crown

Sensational Morning Round Runs Up Substantial Margin for Victor

By BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

BROOK HOLLOW COUNTRY Club, Dallas, June 6. (AP)—Gus Moreland, 18-year-old Cedar Crest (Dallas) Country club golfer, holds several minor invitation golf championships, but he caught the kind of them all in Texas goldfom when he defeated Reynolds Smith, Dallas Lakewood Country club, 7 and 6, here Saturday to win the 1931 Texas Golf association tournament, and Moreland is one of the youngest players ever to hold Texas' major golf title. Not only did Moreland defeat Smith, but the Cedar Crest ace conquered the difficult par 70 Brook Hollow Country club course Saturday morning with a 35-33—68, which let him finish the initial 18 holes against Smith, four up.

Moreland now holds the state championship, the Houston Country club invitation, the Ranger Country club invitation, Mineral Wells Country club invitation and the River Crest Country club invitation titles.

DALLAS, June 6. (AP)—The 1932 Texas Golf association state championship tournament will be held at the Texarkana Country club, Texarkana. This club was the scene of the 1930 Texas Woman's Golf association state championship, and is ranked as one of the most difficult courses in Texas, J. H. Wadley of Texarkana was elected to succeed Dr. S. M. Hill, Dallas, as president of the Texas Golf association.

Saturday made his third major tournament match against Reynolds Smith, and in each match, Moreland has won by an overwhelming score.

Fine Golf Played

Unlike most final championship matches, the finals uncovered some of the finest golf shots of the entire five days of the tournament. Although he lost by a top-heavy score, Smith shot beautiful golf that would have won most any championship setto, but not against the par-shattering Moreland here Saturday.

Other champions for this tournament were:

First flight consolation, L. Franks, Dallas, beat O'Hara Watts, Dallas, one up, 37 holes. David Goldman, Dallas, beat Glen Crisman, Orange, 3 and 2, for the second flight title. Willie Maguire, Houston, beat Guy Smith, Dallas, one up, 19 holes for the third flight title.

After getting down in regulation fours at the first hole of the championship match, Moreland went one up at the second when Smith three-putted. The next was halved and Smith squared the match when Moreland three-putted the short fourth.

The finalists then halved two holes, but Moreland again took an advantage by sinking a 10-footer for a birdie three on the seventh. The first nine ended with Moreland one up when the next two holes were halved in perfect figures.

A 20-foot putt at the 10th gave Moreland a birdie and he went two up, retaining the margin through the 12th after both he and Smith played two holes in perfect figures.

Birdies Win Holes

Drives of 235 yards at the 13th left both players short chips to the green. Moreland ran down his putt for a birdie against Smith's par four. Again Smith's par figures were not good enough, Moreland getting another birdie at the 14th to increase his lead.

Moreland's par five at the 15th sent him five up, Smith being in trouble and taking a six.

Smith finally won a hole, getting a par at the short 16th against Moreland's four. The next two holes were halved in par fours, leaving Moreland four up at the end of the morning round.

In their morning 18 holes Moreland carded a brilliant 68 against Smith's 72 to have a safe lead as they started on the final 18 holes Saturday afternoon.

Both got away from the 19th tee with long drives, but Smith pulled his second from the fairway into a trap. He made a superb out and was eight feet from the cup in three. He missed his putt and had to take a five. Moreland was on in two and went down in two putts for par. This made Moreland five up. Moreland went six up at the 20th hole with a par four against Smith's five. Smith was on in two but three-putted. A birdie three at the 21st hole allowed Smith to regain a hole. Moreland was in the cup for a par four, but Smith dropped in a 12-foot putt for a win, leaving Moreland five up.

Moreland Increases Lead

Smith's par 3 at the 22nd hole was good enough to beat Moreland's four. Moreland's tee shot fell in a trap. He was over into another trap with his second and on in three. He went down with one putt for a four. Smith was perfect all the way. Moreland 4 up.

Both shot par five at the 23rd hole. Moreland's drive was short and behind trees, but he played a perfect slice with his brassie to make the dog leg turn and reach the green in three. Smith was straight all the way. Moreland went five up at the 24th hole with a bordie three. He sank a 14-foot putt.

Moreland regained his previous six up lead at the 25th hole with a par four against Smith's five. Smith was in the bunker with his tee shot. His second found a trap, but his third was on and he was down in two putts. Moreland was on in two and two-putted. They both played the par three 26th in even par, Smith had a short putt for a win but missed. Moreland won the 27th and started on the last nine, seven up on Smith. Moreland had a par four at the 27th against Smith's 5. Smith's second landed in a trap and he was shot with his third. He then two-putted. Moreland had a 35, even par. Smith was three over par for a 38.

Mickey Cochrane Remains in Lead League's Hitters

Chuck Klein Offensive Ace In National League; Groves Wins Nine

NEW YORK, June 6. (UP)—Mickey Cochrane, one of the greatest catchers of all time and the "sparkplug" of the world champion Philadelphia Athletics, is leading the American league in hitting, according to the official averages released Saturday and including games of Thursday, June 4.

Cochrane, whose work behind the plate alone would earn him a berth on any team, is hitting an even .499, three points better than his nearest rival, Babe Ruth of the New York Yankees.

Cronin, Washington, is pushing Cochrane for headline honors, the little shortstop leading the league in runs batted in with 49; in triples with 7, and is tied with Averill of Cleveland, in run-scoring with 36. Webb, Boston, leads in doubles with 23, while Foxx, Philadelphia, is the home run king with 10.

Grove Wins Nine

Johnson, Detroit, and Chapman, New York, are tied for base stealing honors with 13 thefts each.

Grove, Athletics southpaw ace, is the pitching leader with nine victories and one defeat for an average of .900.

Harvey Hendrick, once of Brooklyn, but now of the Cincinnati Reds, is setting the pace for National league hitters with a percentage of .388, but his work is overshadowed by Klein, Philadelphia slugger. Klein has scored the most runs, 44, hit the most home runs, 13, and batted in the most runs, 40. Buzz Arlett, Klein's gigantic running mate, has obtained the most hits, 61, while Hornsby, Chicago, leads in doubles with 18.

Indians Hit Hard

Worthington, Boston, has rapped the most triples, 7, while Comorosky, Pittsburgh, leads in stolen bases with 7 thefts.

Ed Brandt, Boston, is the pitching standout, having won eight games, and lost one for an average of .889. All his victories were complete games.

Cleveland tops the American league in club batting with an average of .309, while Chicago is the National leader with a percentage of .301. The champion Athletics top their league in club fielding with the imposing average of .985. Chicago leads the National in this department with a mark of .972.

Bankers Hold Key In Final Battles Of Amateur Race

Team Can End Half-Way Chase in Three-Cornered Tie

The Commercial league will wind up its first half schedule this week, but definite dates for the two remaining games are yet to be set, with the Banks backed to the wall and fighting to the finish to make it a three-way tie with Malone's Beauty shop and Texas Electric Service company.

The Bankers were the underdogs in the last stages of the race, but last week's games have made them one of the most feared clubs in the race. Ham Vance started the sensational week by holding Malone's to a 5 to 5 tie with the aid of Pinch Hitter Grady Ragsdale's last inning single to score the tying run. Big Boy Ridling then took charge of the second big game with a no-hit no-run performance which was so near perfection that only one man got on the bases for the Texas Electric Service company Frigidaires, the hardest hitting club in the league.

The first of the final games likely will be staged Monday or Tuesday between Malone's Beauty shop and the Bankers. A victory for Malone's will close the first half with Malone's the undisputed winners, while a victory for the Bankers will mean another game, the playoff of a tie with Presbyterians. Two bank victories will bring the first half to a close in a three-way tie.

Big Boy Ridling is likely to hurl both games for the Bankers in case two are played, with Harry Geyer, Commercial league strikeout king, on the mound for the Beauties. In case the Presbyterian-Banker game is played, John Horsley probably will depend on his work horse of the league, Larry Robertson, to do the chunking. With the pennant hinging on these games, several hundred fans are expected to be on hand to witness the encounters.

Miss Enid Wilson in Van British Tourney

PORTMARNOCK, Ireland, June 6. (AP)—Rain stymied most of the competitors in the first qualifying round of the British women's open golf championship Saturday, driving a number to shelter and generally playing havoc with scores, but it could not mar the brilliance of Enid Wilson, former titleholder.

Miss Wilson shot a spectacular 75 with Wanda Morgan trailing in second place with 80 and Maureen Orcutt, American threat to the title, third with 82. Miss Wilson shot her great round in the rain.

Miss Diana Fishwick, defending champion, was tied with four others for eighth place with 87, but there seemed little chance Saturday night that this would interfere with her qualifying. Another 18 holes will complete the qualifying round Monday and the low 64 enter match play.

Miss Maureen Orcutt, only American entry, registered an 82.

FOUR STILLMAN CHILDREN WILL GET $3,000,000

Attorney Denies Banker Made Settlement On Former Wife

'Fifi' With Young Husband Spend Honeymoon In Seclusion

NEW YORK, June 6. (AP)—The former Mrs. Anne Urquhart Stillman has received no settlement as a result of her divorce from James A. Stillman, multimillionaire banker, but the World-Telegram said today their four children would divide $3,000,000.

Reports of a million dollar settlement on the former Mrs. Stillman, now Mrs. Fowler McCormick, were denied by her attorney.

The $3,000,000 given by Mr. Stillman to the children is in addition to the $10,000,000 trust fund left for them by the late James A. Stillman Sr., their grandfather.

The World-Telegram said the $3,000,000 gift marks the definite end of Mr. Stillman's former charge that the youngest child, Guy, now 12, was the son of Fred Beauvais, an Indian guide. Guy is recognized in the settlement along with Mrs. Anne Davidson, Jame A. Jr. and Alexander, and his right to share in the $10,000,000 trust fund of his grandrather appears established.

Details of the divorce and Mrs. Stillman's subsequent, marriage to Fowler McCormick, grandson of the late Cyrus McCormick, reaper magnate, came to light today while the couple continued their honeymoon in the seclusion of a small cottage at East Hampton, Long Island.

Mr. McCormick declined to say how long he and his bride planned the remain in the little cottage atop a Long Island sand dune. They were said to plan a visit later to Mrs. McCormick's camp in Canada.

OIL TREATMENT OF HIGHWAY IS BEING TESTED THOROUGHLY

The second oil treatment of the dirt highway west of Grandfield, Okla., was applied last Wednesday. The county commissioners are experimenting with oil roads to see if practical and economical.

Oil is purchased in a tank car of 10,000 gallons capacity. The oil is heated to 200 degrees and applied to the road surface, and then covered with fine dirt. The experiment started 16 months ago and the third application has been applied.

If the experiment proves successful it will mean a cheap way to construct secondary roads and make them of all-weather type. It also opens a big market for low grade oil, which can be supplied from refineries throughout Northwest Texas.

Means should be discovered to use as much of our natural resources as possible, state men who give study to expenditures of public money. If materials are available at home or a nearby county use them in preference to products that come from some distant county or state.

Mayhem Charge Filed by Sister 'Cruel Gangster'

CHICAGO, June 6. (INS)—Frank McErlane, so-called "cruelest gangster" and South Side beer boss, was charged with mayhem in a warrant sworn out this afternoon by his sister, Mrs. Margaret Marvis.

The warrant was issued as McErlane, one of Chicago's most powerful liquor racketeers, occupied a city jail cell after his arrest on charges of drunkenness. McErlane was seized by police early today after he had terrorized a South Side neighborhood by standing in the middle of the street and discharging an automatic shotgun and a rifle into the air.

In the wayhem warrant, McErlane's sister accuses him of breaking into her house at midnight, knocking her down and biting her cheek.

A large area of rich land about Eagle Pass will be irrigated when the plant is completed. The new irrigation area will add considerably to production of winter vegetables and fruits from the Upper Rio Grande river valley.

WIDOW OF SIX CHILDREN DEMANDS THAT BROTHER DIE IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 6. (UP)—A widow with six children demanded today that her brother, the confessed slayer of her husband, be sent to the electric chair.

"Sam had no right to kill Bill," Mrs. J. W. Brown sobbed.

"He left me a widow with six children to raise. The electric chair is not too severe a punishment for him."

Sam Rittenberry admitted today that he shot his brother-in-law, J. W. Brown, a Baptist preacher, to death. No charges had been filed but he was held in the county jail. He said he would plead self-defense.

The shooting occurred at Brown's home. An attempt by Brown, who studied for the ministry when an injury forced him to retire as a construction worker, to oust Rittenberry from the house led to an argument that ended fatally.

The widow said she was destitute.

WORLD'S GREATEST OIL SUPPLY ALONG CAPROCK

There is a belief among geologists that a great oil basin, greater than any yet discovered, will some day be found along the eastern rim of the Llano Estacado country, or the caprock of the Plains. Oil and gas is now found along the eastern rim in Gray and Wheeler counties. So far none has been discovered in the area lying southward. The caprock area is many times larger than the Sabine uplift in East Texas.

TENNESSEE HOUSE TO CONSIDER REST OF OUSTER CHARGES

Seven Other Impeachment Articles Yet to Be Voted Upon

HORTON'S ENEMIES NOT DETERRED BY SETBACK

Names of Luke Lea And Caldwell Figure In Other Charges

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 6. (AP)—Tennessee's house of representatives, after quashing one article of impeachment against Gov. Henry H. Horton, turns next week to consideration of seven other charges awaiting disposition one by one.

The legislators will resume impeachment debate Tuesday.

By a vote of 58 to 41 Friday, the house defeated a presentment alleging the governor conspired with Colonel Luke Lea, publisher, and Rogers Caldwell, financier, to promote his political ambitions by letting them dominate certain governmental departments for their private gain.

Administration forces saw in the first test the throwing out of all the proceedings, but Congressman E. H. Crump, Memphis political leader, and others leading the fight on what they term "corruption" in the state government, said they were not deterred by the initial setback. Horton interpreted the house's action as "a victory for good government and righteousness."

Names of Lea and Caldwell figure in some of the remaining articles. It is alleged Neil Bass, state highway commissioner, and his successor, Harry S. Berry, were lifted from their official chairs for refusing to allow Lea and Caldwell to dominate the road department and Horton to use it for his political advantage.

Among other things, the commissioners were reported in the article to have refused to accede to Lea's "demand" that a road-paving material sold by a company in which Caldwell was interested be specified without competition.

The next article to be taken up probably will be one charging Horton with dereliction of duty by failing to have proper estimates made of the amount of surety bonds that officials and employes handling state money are required to give.

HEADLIGHTS

F. L. H.

Wise county produce and truck farmers have done the wise thing. They have secured experts to form a marketing system for them.

More industrial plants have failed to earn dividends because there was no marketing system worked out in the organization of the plant.

It does not require men with big brains to build a factory, raise squash, pumpkins, watermelons, cantaloupes, tomatoes or peanuts, but it does take a smart man to market the products at a profit, and to sell the entire output or production.

A few years ago the leader in a certain industry in Texas told the writer that their factory did not earn dividends for more than 10 years after its establishment. The manager was then and now a young man and he quickly realized that the success of his plant depended upon a capable sales head. He got his man out of a successful industry in New York and paid him a larger salary than he was being paid.

The scheme worked. Business in a few months was increasing more rapidly than the plant could be expanded. The accounts secured were good and business was soon established in every state west of the Mississippi river, and some in the extreme southeastern states. Business kept growing but the sales manager gave the manager as his opinion that the factory should not be further enlarged but to expand with new kinds of merchandise that could be sold by present salesmen and into stores with established credit.

New lines were brought out and new machinery and equipment purchased to manufacture them. The factory got its eggs, so to speak, out of one basket into two or three baskets. If the demand for one kind of merchandise was low another line might be found in demand. It enabled the factories to shift workers from one to the other and stabilized employment; thereby creating better friendship between the workers and the management.

The factory, located in a Texas city not over 150 miles from Wichita Falls, is now one of the largest of its kind in the United States, and apparently is not suffering from lack of business.

What that factory manager did is being done by the farmers of Wise county. They have organized to sell their tomatoes, watermelons and cantaloupes. A big profit may not be made this year but if the fruit is marketed it means more profit than if permitted to rot in the fields. Wise county farmers are to be commended for their decision to seek business men to head their marketing concern, and Wise county farmers are, no doubt, thankful to officials of the Denver road for assistance rendered them in getting good men at the head of the organization.

REDUCE CITY TAX VALUES 30 PER CENT IN MEMPHIS

City officials at Memphis are "marking down" taxes in keeping with general business conditions, as reported in the Memphis Democrat. The tax values of property in that thriving Hall county metropolis are being reduced 30 per cent by the board of equalization. Cards have been mailed property owners, telling them of the lower value and comparison with last year's valuation.

A recent survey shows that San Antonio garment factories employ 6,000 workers, and several have pay rolls averaging $300,000 each per year.

NATIONAL BUSINESS MAP REVEALS GOOD AREA IS SMALL

The June map of business conditions in the United States shows only two areas where business is rated as very good. One of the black spots is in Arizona and the other along the tobacco and cotton industry area of the Atlantic seaboard in the old South. The shaded area showing good business is spreading out in more directions and embraces all sections of the United States. Texas has such a shaded area centering about San Antonio and extending along the Gulf coast from Corpus Christi. It is interesting to note that all of the entire Atlantic seaboard is shaded with the exception of the Florida coast line and a small area in the New England states. The upland regions of the New England states are enjoying better business than the coast cities. This is perhaps seasonal as many summer resorts are along the New England seaboard and the cool spring has delayed opening of them. The grain harvest for June and July should bring about a shaded area over Northwest Texas and Southwestern Oklahoma when the July map is published.

TEXT OF CRYPTOGRAM MESSAGE REVEALING WILSON POISON PLOT MADE PUBLIC BY MAJ. YARDLEY

EVANSTON, Ill., June 6. (US)—Major Herbert O. Yardley, whose recent book, "The American Black Chamber," has created something of a furore in diplomatic circles, made public today the exact text of the cryptogram message which he declared in his book foretold an entente poison attempt on the life of President Wilson, during world war peace negotiations in Paris.

Major Yardley said the message he decoded came from a person trustworthy and reliable and read as follows:

"A man who is very well known to me and in whom I have the greatest confidence advises me that he has learned of an entente plot to assassinate President Wilson by administering a slow poison.

"My authority has lived in England and Germany and has learned of a new poison discovered in England which can be administered without suspicion and which, he thinks, will be used in this connection. He also said that an attempt will be made to give the president influenza on ice.

"He begged me, for God's sake, to warn the president."

Major Yardley made his revelation today after he had confirmed a report of his appointment as code and cipher consultant of the Northwestern University Scientific Crime Preventional laboratory.

He was in charge of the cryptographic bureau of the army intelligence service during and after the war and in this position, he says, he came into possession of the message warning of the comptemplated attempt on Wilson's life.

City of Memphis Seeks to Recover $9,000 From Gas Company for Failure To File Proper Report of Earnings

MEMPHIS, Texas, June 6.—A suit has been filed in the district court of Hall county by the city of Memphis against the Northern Texas Utilities company for the alleged failure to file a proper report concerning the operation of their local plant. According to the allegations of the petition, the local gas company did not file on or before the first of March, 1931, the report as required by law concerning the cost of the installation, the amount of expenditures, and the gross earnings for the current year and other reports required by law.

The suit seeks to recover the sum of $100 a day for each day since March 1, 1931, and now alleges that the Northern Texas Utilities company is indebted to the city of Memphis in the sum of $9,000 and ask for the sum of $100 per day from the time the suit is filed until the proper report is made.

Mayor Allen C. Grundy stated that if the city wins this suit it will very materially aid, not only the city of Memphis, but it will help other cities in Texas to intelligently fix rates governing utilities in the state.

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR DENIES LARGE NUMBER ALIENS SEEK PASSAGE

WASHINGTON, June 6. (US)—The labor department today denied reports that thousands of penniless aliens are applying for free passage back to their native lands.

Commissioner General of of Immigration Harry E. Hull said that less than 900 such applications had been received, and about 700 had been granted.

The immigration law provides for deportation of indigent aliens under certain prescribed conditions.

DR. HOLT WILL PREACH BACCALAUREATE SERMON CLASS AT TECH COLLEGE

LUBBOCK, Texas, June 6. (AP)—Dr. Ivan Lee Holt, pastor of St. John's Methodist church at St. Louis, Mo., will preach the annual baccalaureate sermon to 163 members of the June graduating class at Texas Technoiogical college here Sunday. Doctor Holt formerly was a member of the faculty of Southern Methodist university and is widely known in Texas and the Southwest. Degrees will be awarded the graduates at commencement exercises on Monday.

Flour Shipments Growing

Flour shipment through the port of Houston during the past three-quarters of the crop year have gained more than 17,000 tons over a similar period in the preceeding year. During the nine-month period ending March 31, the shipments amounted to 35,688 tons.

John B. Hawley, prominent engineer of Fort Worth, was the first man to discover fossil shells of certain marine life along the caprock county in Northwest Texas. In the past the caprock was perhaps a great shore line of the ocean.

WHAT IS WRONG WITH TEXAS?

"Nothing's wrong with Texas, except entirely too many of us get up in the morning at the alarm of a Connecticut clock, button a pair of Ohio suspenders to a pair of Chicago pants. Put on a pair of Massachusetts shoes, wash in a Pittsburgh tin basin, using Cincinnati soap, and a cotton towel made in New Hampshire, sit down to a Grand Rapids table, eat pancakes made from Minneapolis flour spread with Vermont maple syrup, and Kansas bacon fried on a St. Louis stove. Buy fruit put up in California, seasoned with Rhode Island spices, and sweetened with Colorado sugar. Put on a hat made in Philadelphia, hitch a Detroit mule fed on Oklahoma gasoline to an Ohio plow and work all day on a Texas farm covered with a New England mortgage, send our money to Ohio for tires, wondering why Texas taxes are $2.75 per acre while Ohio farmers pay $1.00 tax and drive on paved roads, and at night we crawl under a New Jersey blanket to be kept awake by a bull dog, the only home product on the place, wondering all the time, where in the hell all the money went in this wonderful state of ours. If we all would buy more home manufactured products we could keep our money at home and be prosperous."—Exchange.

FURTHER DECLINE IN WHEAT CROP DUE TO WEATHER CONDITION

Indications point to a further decline in the expected yield of winter and spring wheat in the United States. Canadian reports give heavy damage on account of drouth and much of the western belt in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska will not produce as heavily as anticipated a few weeks ago.

It is reported that the Lubbock territory is expected to produce from 35,000,000 to 45,000,000 bushels of wheat from a planting of 2,650,000 acres. A check on those figures will no doubt find the acreage too high and the yield estimate entirely out of line.

Wheat was needing rain over the South Plains, or Lubbock section, several weeks ago, and moisture since then has not been general. Some localities got good rains while others failed to. It is only a guess as to the amount the South Plains will produce, but some grain experts are placing the yield around 25,000,000 bushels, and say that the figure is plenty high.

The finest wheat in Texas this year is in the Red river basin, from Hall county eastward to Grayson county. There is no better wheat in Texas than can be found in Wichita county. Some have claimed the rich lands of Wichita county had been killed years ago by grain planting but this year all that argument has been found groundless.

Northwest Texas lands retain much of their virgin richness and all that is needed to produce heavily of any crop is the proper amount of moisture and correct cultivation.

RELEASE TWO HELD IN CONNECTION WITH DEATH OF MAN IN FREIGHT CAR

EL RENO, Okla., June 6. (AP)—Two men arrested near El Reno early today and questioned in connection with the murder last night of Ted McKee of Texana were ordered released when witnesses to the slaying said the suspects were not the men who held up a group of itinerants in a coal car prior to the slaying.

Search for the holdup men was extended today to all towns in this section.

William E. Fitzerald Jr., son of Judge and Mrs. W. E. Fitzgerald, of 2418 Ninth street, will leave Monday for the University of Texas at Austin to attend summer school. He attended Wichita Falls Junior college during the last school year.

C. E. Clark of Abilene has moved to Wichita Falls where he has been appointed manager of the typewriter department of Remington-Rand Business Service, Inc. Mr. Clark lived in this city for 12 years, at which time he was manager of the Underwood Typewriter company's office.

Mrs. Jack Hinchman and son, Jack Jr., of Waco, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Fruechte, 1687 Collins, for a few weeks.

HOME LABOR ABUNDANT FOR HANDLING GRAIN CROP OVER NORTHWESTERN GRAIN AREA

There is no need for outside labor to assist in the grain harvest in Wichita county, and the same perhaps holds true in every county in Northwest Texas and Southwestern Oklahoma.

The farmers are harvesting the grain crop at a minimum of expense. In many communities the farmers have joined forces to bind and shock the grain. When threshing time comes they will continue the same plan.

Cutting of the oat crop is about completed. There are only a few fields of winter oats uncut. Some fields of spring oats will not be ripe enough to cut until the end of this week.

Wheat cutting will be general over the entire Wichita Falls trade area Monday morning. The oat crop coming from a week to 10 days ahead of wheat has enabled the farmers to get all implements and equipment in first-class condition and rapid progress will be made in cutting wheat.

The threshing of oats will start this week. Due to the heavy yield of grain will enable threshermen to make a large turn-out daily.

Many farmers will not thresh oats but will stack them and during the winter cut the bundles and feed to livestock. There is expected to be a good demand for feeder calves as soon as the calves are weaned. It is believed that better prices can be obtained for oats and wheat if fed to calves than sold off the farm.

While meat prices are lower yet there is always a demand for fat calves and at better prices than for older animals. The calves gain rapidly in weight when given an abundance of grain feed. The farmers stand little chance of losing money by feeding calves.

When threshing starts there will be a greater demand for labor than during the cutting of grain. More men are required to handle grain from the field to the thresher, and if the grain is hauled to elevators many men will be required to drive trucks.

Interior dealers in gasoline report better sales of this product during the past 10 days. Farmers who have tractors are using them many hours each day.

It is expected that some combines will start work in wheat fields this week. Use of combines will increase demand for both gasoline and lub oils. Combines are usually drawn by tractors and there is a motor built into the combine that supplies power for the threshing equipment.

Evangelist Blind Since Birth Sees After Operation

PHILADELPHIA, June 6. (AP)—Blind since birth, the Rev. Robert Fraser, 25 years old, an evangelist, saw light today for the first time.

Mr. Fraser was operated on about two weeks ago by Dr. G. H. Moore, who performed a similar operation on Earl Musselman recently with notable success.

The bandages were momentarily removed from Mr. Fraser's eyes today and he exclaimed he could see light. The operation was performed on one eye. The other will have to be removed later, it was said.

"This is the most dramatic day of my life," Mr. Fraser said. "It is all so strange, so wonderful, I hardly believe I am in the same world.

"Dr. Moore held what he said was his finger in front of my left eye, the one which was operated on, and I was able to distinguish its shape. What I really saw was a shadow. Previously, I could not have distinguished anything.

"The bandages may only be taken off for a few moments at a time, but I can already distsinguish the difference. I can hardly wait to see my parents and my friends.

MEXICAN AUTHORITIES REDOUBLE VIGILANCE TO CATCH GOLD SMUGGLERS

LAREDO, Texas, June 6. (AP)—Mexican authorities at the international bridge have redoubled their vigilance during the last 10 days, watching for smugglers of gold.

Automobiles entering or leaving the country were being carefully inspected and in some instances drivers of the vehicles were searched personally.

Roy Campbell, United States collector of customs, said today there was little foundation for the statement of Attorney General Maya of Mexico that $1,250,000 in Mexican gold had been smuggled through Laredo recently.

"We have accurate methods of checking gold importation," Campbell said.

WATER METERS SHOW GAIN IN WICHITA FALLS

May Increase Over April Shows That Families Not Leaving City

RENTAL AGENCIES REPORT FEW VACANCIES JUNE 1

Ending of School Failed To Create Many Vacancies

A gain of 35 water meters during the month of May as compared to April is reported by city authorities. This is healthy increase and shows that no families are now leaving the city. During the past 12 months there has been a decrease of approximately 400 water meters. Most of the population that has left Wichita Falls are men engaged in the production of oil.

It is quite probable that the drift out of the city is now at end and that future months will show a steady increase in use of water meters, gas meters and telephone connections.

A survey conducted among rental agents shows that very few houses became vacant on June 1. It has been predicted that following the close of the public schools that many families would perhaps leave the city for other towns or back to the farms and ranches. This prediction failed to materialize, state local real estate and investment men.

A general return to normal conditions would be quickly felt in Wichita Falls, due to the opening or expansion of industrial plants. This past week a refinery that had been operating on a minimum basis went back into heavy refining of crude oil.

Other industries are in order for immediate operation and as soon as demand comes for products will be reopened. A general upturn in better business even over Northwest Texas and Southwestern Oklahoma would have a very beneficial effect upon wholesale, manufacturing and jobbing business in Wichita Falls.

CHILLICOTHE FLOUR MILL AWAITS CROP HARVESTING START

C. H. Moore, owner of the Moore flour mill in Chillicothe, has announced that the mill will start grinding just as soon as the new wheat starts moving in Hardeman county.

The mill has been completely overhauled and additional elevator space is being erected, which will be completed within a few weeks. The new elevator is being constructed of steel.

Old-timers of Chillicothe claim the prospects for the wheat yield are as good as they have seen for many years. Especially in the Chillicothe area is the prospect encouraging. Predictions continue to be offered the average yield will total about 18 bushels. If this proves true farmers will be very well satisfied. Because of the large acreage planted to wheat this year cotton acreage has been cut.

STRANGE WILL INSISTS ON INEXPENSIVE BURIAL

HANLEY, Sask., June 6. (US)—A clause in the will left by A. M. Murray, a Hanley lawyer, on file today in probate court, reads:

"In consideration of the detestable graft systematically practiced so soullessly on sorrowing next of kin of deceased persons by a species of human vampire in this country calling themselves undertakers, it in my express wish that my wife shall not have my body embalmed nor shall she purchase any casket for my body from any undertaker purely carrying on business as such.

"I expresly desire my said wife to instruct a local carpenter to make a coffin out of the cheapest possible lumber, no matter how rich or how poor I may be at my said decease."

The Texas strawberry acreage this year is 1,550 acres, as compared to 2,030 acres in 1930.

Least Controversial Two Texas Truck Bills Signed by Governor No Action on Bill Limiting Load

AUSTIN, June 6. (AP)—Governor Sterling today signed the least controversial of the two truck bills, the proposal giving the railroad commission additional regulatory powers over trucks. No action was taken on house bill 336, which would limit the pay load and size of trucks.

With the signing of house bill 335, Mrs. Jane Y. McCallum, secretary of state, construed opinions of two former attorneys general to hold the law became effective immediately. However, the present attorney general's department was expected to be asked for an opinion by the railroad commission before enforcement of the law was started.

The law placed all common and contract carriers under the jurisdiction of the railroad commission. A contract carrier was defined as any truck operating for hire between two or more incorporated towns. The commission was directed to force contract carriers to maintain as high rates as common carrier railroads and trucks.

Exceptions were authorized in cases of trucks conveying livestock, mohair, wool, milk, stock feed, household goods, oil field equipment, native timber, farm machinery and grain. Existent class A trucks may continue to operate under their present certificates. Class B trucks must get permits under the new law within 30 days after its effective date.

The legislature spent several weeks considering the truck bills. Opponents claimed they were fostered by the railroads with the intent of driving the trucks out of business with proponents insisting the suggested laws were necessary to safeguard the highways. One of the provisions of the bill signed today which caused opposition was that directing the railroad commission to take into consideration existing rail facilities in determining the necessity of a new truck line.

OIL PRICE CUTS SLOW DRILLING ACTIVITIES IN DISTRICT

Hundreds of Operations Shut Down In Section as Amounts Posted for Crude Fail to Pay Producing Cost

By JIMMIE MAXWELL

Drastic cuts in the posted price of the district's crude, announced by the Stanolind Crude Purchasing company, and later followed by the other major companies, had a depressing effect on operations during the past week. The reduction which brought the price to 36 cents per barrel for 39 gravity which covers the greater portion of the crude produced in this part of the state, goes no record as the lowest price offered since the discovery of oil in the North Texas field.

With these ruinous prices offered for the commodity, which made it impossible to continue operations at a profit, hundreds of wells were forced to close down on the various leases, the lifting expense exceeding the compensation received for the oil. According to figures obtained from the offices of the railroad commission supervisors at Wichita Falls and Olney, a total of 421 wells in the seven counties comprising the Wichita Falls and North Texas division were abandoned. Wilbarger, Foard and Baylor counties abandoned as non-producers approximately 276 wells during 1930, while Archer, Jack and Young cut off 145 wells. However, the entire number shut down includes many tests that had ceased to produce, having depleted the pay sands, and not due to the prevailing low price for the oil.

In addition to the losses sustained by the operators on account of the depressed condition of the industry, the slump has extended to the landowner and farmer whose revenue from leasing of his land has been reduced to the lowest possible figure. Corps of leasemen from the larger companies are in the fields reducing rentals. Many leases owned by these concerns about to expire were turned loose or again leased far below the original rental price.

New Deep Tests

Wichita county's activities for the past week consisted in the putting down of a few deep tests in the old K. M. A. area, and the drilling of a few wells on the shallower sands in the Electra field. Progress on the Deep Oil Development company No. 1 Munger slowed up on account of having a little water trouble which is coming in from the bottom. Liner has been pulled and a cement plug is being placed in the hole to shut off the menace. Despite this delay, the well continues to show the usual amount of oil. South of this well one mile, Jack Martin and associates are going along with their No. 1 townsite well in block 35, W. V. F. L. and are drilling at 3100 feet.

Wayne Hammon's No. 3 J. R. Bradley in the S. Holloway survey, about one mile west of the Munger well has been experiencing trouble with some pipe, which parted at 3280 feet, but is now about completed.

Consolidated Oil company's No. 1 Munger, two miles southeast of the Munger well, and a mile east of Martin and others, is still shut down at a depth of 2240 feet.

Mid-Continent Holding company's No. 10 Burnsides, a 4000-foot test located in the Sharpe survey about four miles southwest of Iowa Park, is drilling at 670 feet after setting 12½-inch surface pipe at 42 feet.

Crossing the Wichita line into Archer county, a short distance southeast of Kemp City, the Shappell Oil company's No. 1 W. P. Ferguson, a 4000-foot test, is being watched with interest. The test, in the E. Patterson survey, is drilling at a depth of 3560 feet and, according to its logging, should pick up in a short time one or more of the formations encountered in the original deep well on the Munger three miles to the north.

Two miles northeast of Mankins, and one mile southeast of the Shappell test, Marshall & Lewis' No. 1 W. P. Ferguson, in section 2, S. P. R. R. survey, abstract 1178, a 4000-foot test, is drilling at 1500 feet, having set 10-inch at 120 feet.

Two miles northwest of Scotland in block 20, Lulu P. Hunt subdivision, and a rank wildcat, erected a derrick and will put down a 4000-foot test. A well there would be the means of opening up a vast territory in that section of the county and progress will be watched keenly.

Drilling at 1800 Feet

North of Archer City, the Deep Oil-Lindsay Drilling company's No. A-5 L. F. Wilson, in block 75, A. T. N. C. L. survey, is drilling at 1800 feet. This test is 600 feet west of the same interest's No. 1 Wilson, producing from the deep sand at 2215 feet.

Southwest of Windthorst five miles, Dean & Beer's No. 1 L. C. Herron, a 2500-foot test, in section 74, block 4, Clark & Plumb survey, is rigging up a rotary and will give this territory a thorough test.

Between the old Parrish and Oil Investment pools, the Bridwell Oil company's No. 1 L. F. Wilson, in lot 2, block 107, A. T. N. C. L. survey, a 2500-foot test, is drilling at 1350 feet.

Young county activities resulted in the completion of several dry holes in the shallow fields around Olney, and in the Orth-Newcastle areas. A few new locations were staked out, the greater part spudder tests.

Wilbarger, Clay, Cooke and Jack counties are practically devoid of any kind of activity, the latter having but three wells drilling.

Pipe line runs from the pools showed little change from the previous week's movement. A daily average was maintained of 54,943 barrels, a loss of 316 barrels daily as compared with the previous week's run, which showed 55,259 barrels.

WELL EXTENDS WARD COUNTY'S PROVEN FIELD

Area Production Widened Three Miles North From Grandfalls Pool

LOVING COUNTY WELL SHOT INTO PRODUCTION

Two of World's Nine Deepest Producers Show Gain After Deepening

SAN ANGELO, Texas, June 6.—The extension of Ward county production about three miles north from the Grandfalls pool to a point almost equidistant from the Shipley and Barker areas, the shooting into production of Eppenauer Drilling Co.'s No. 2 Allen in the Wheat field in Loving county and steady production gains following deepening by Texon No. 4-B University and Big Lake No. 5-C University, two of the world's nine deepest producers, in Reagan county, were among this week's West Texas oil developments.

Closing of a deal for casing delayed testing of J. D. Wesner's No. 1 W. R. Nicks in Schleicher county, the Permian basin's most promising and most closely watched wildcat at present. In the week's interim while shut down at 4006 feet, No. 1 Nicks filled with fluid, most of it believed to be oil, from a depth of 1800 to 2300 feet. A half bailer of salt water hourly from around 3900 feet was being carried when the 30.9 gravity oil and an estimated several hundred thousand cubic feet of gas was encountered on Monday night, May 25, at 4000 feet in lime.

Running of 8¼-inch casing with a packer and perforated joint attached was begun Friday and it was thought likely the remainder of the week would be required in cleaning out. The hole bridged last week about 300 feet off bottom after the last two feet of drilling from 4002-6 feet apparently had brought the greatest increase. The slowing up of the rate of the oil rise and diminishing of the gas increase were attributed to the cavings although until early this week the gas continued to break through the bridge.

No. 1 Nicks' showing is by far the best yet obtained at the same horizon in any Schleicher county wildcat and despite distressed conditions in the oil industry and the fact that surrounding acreage is closely held some leasing has resulted. Should production not develop from the existing showing the prospects of deeper pay will have been enhanced, Phillips-Interstate's No. 1 Whitten, five miles to the northwest, having struck some oil and gas at 4912-25 feet and at 6300-38 feet. The Wesner wildcat is only 1¾ miles northeast of Eldorado, 2310 feet from the north line and 2362 feet from the east line of section 77, block LL, T. C. Ry. Co. survey.

Schleicher county's only other active test, Eastland Oil company and others' No. 1 Tisdale, in section 29, block M, G. H. & S. A. Ry. Co. survey, was swedging collapsed 10-inch casing to recement with the total depth 2,525 feet in shale.

Will Be Deepened

E. E. Sturm and others' No. 1 Jones, 330 feet out of the south corner of section 25, block B-29, public school land, in Ward county, topped the pay at 2466 feet, drilled to 2473 feet in sand and began heading an estimated 15 barrels of oil every three hours. After storage was erected the well was to be deepened. Located about 1½ miles west and slightly north of the discovery Shipley pool and about the same distance east and slightly south of the Barker area, the Sturm well may lead to the closing of the gap between those areas. Ward county has a score of drilling tests and is the most active county in West Texas at present.

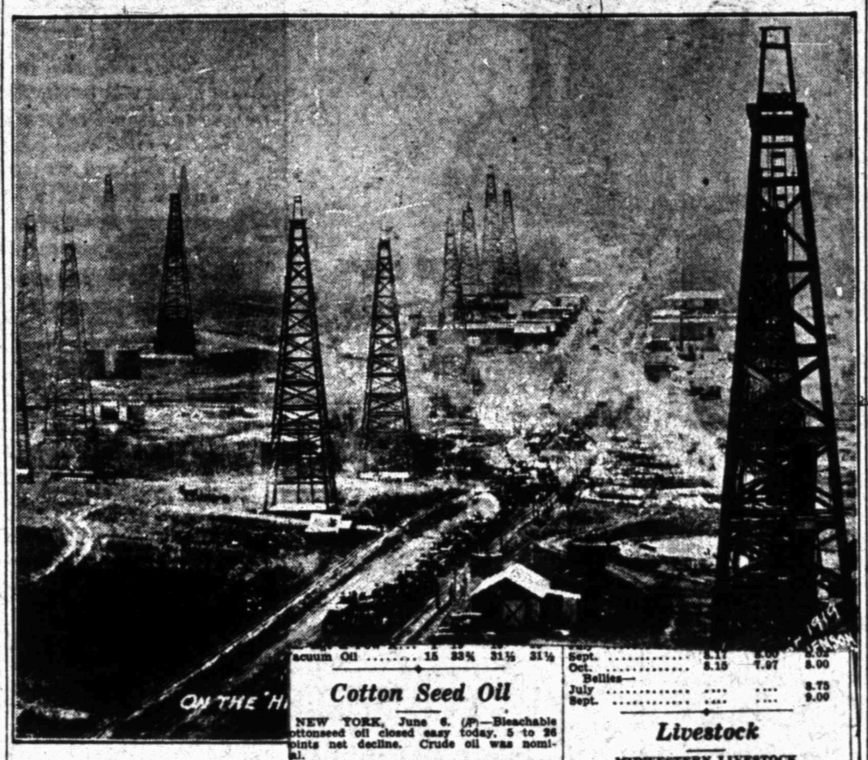

Loving county, next most active county, added Eppenauer Drilling company's No. 2 Allen during the week. It topped the Delaware lime at 4268 feet, 1536 feet below sea level, topped the Delaware sand at 4300 feet, drilled to 4311 and was shot with 190 quarts from 4280 to 4309 feet. During the first 24 hours it flowed 207 barrels and was still cleaning out Thursday. The well is 2310 feet from the northeast line and 330 feet from the northwest line of section 90, block 1, W. & N. W. Ry. Co. survey. The next test in the wheat field due to reach the producing horizon is Richmond Drilling company and others' No. 1 Russell, in section 80, block 1, W. & N. W. Ry. Co. survey. It was scheduled to run and cement 7-inch casing around 4100 feet in grey lime.

Production by Group No. 1 Oil corporation's (Texon) No. 4-B University in Reagan county had increased from 4814 barrels during 24 hours ending Thursday morning, May 28, to 8084 barrels during 24 hours ending Wednesday morning, June 3. The well established a peak of 9614 barrels on April 5, making it the second largest of the world's deep wells. That was after it blew out March 10, when a joint of 7-inch casing split 328 feet from the surface. The well was killed April 15 and the damaged joint of pipe was replaced. All the tubing could not be drawn and that left in the hole was cemented and drilled by to the old total depth of 8587 feet.

MEMORIES

Nineteen hundred and nineteen the refineries offering from 25 to "good old days." To fill up the old 30 cents a gallon.

What a change came over the industry in a short period of 12 years! The major purchasing companies, with few exceptions, have abandoned their schedules, with operators accepting 36 cents per barrel, or "how much am I offered?" High grade gasoline can be secured at from 9 to 12 cents per gallon from any gasoline dispenser in the district, and still the wanton and reckless campaign of destruction of the industry continues throughout the eastern portion of the state.

Attention of Oil Men Focused on East Texas Field Overproduction

TULSA, Okla., June 6. (UP)—Oil leaders marked time today while attention of those interested in the industry from Secretary of Interior Wilbur down to the independent operator of a three-barrel of oil a day well centered on the East Texas overproduction problem.

But while the so-called conservationist faction was formulating a plan of action, new development went ahead steadily in the flush field now overproduced on the basis of its daily prorata quota of 350,000 barrels.

Secretary Wilbur added his voice to those accusing East Texas for the present oil debacle that has made perhaps 75 per cent of mid-continent wells unprofitable to produce. With the price per barrel between 22 and 37 cents, production costs range from 30 cents to 96 cents.

Aside from his interest as head of the conservation movement, Wilbur conferred with Indian agency executives in Oklahoma relative to shutting down some 40,000 wells on Indian lands for a period to await the outcome of the Texas situation.

Major importing companies deferred communication with the oil states advisory committee on proposals to limit imports pending outcome of the Texas situation. The agreement to prorate imports was on such a provisional basis oil men hold little hope in promulgating the plan unless domestic production is immediately curbed.

Extensive Campaign

Atlantic Oil company today joined the ranks of major companies developing the East Texas pool with announced plans for an extensive drilling campaign on 800 acres in leases. The company's acreage is in the proven Lathrop territory, where five new wells were producing today.

Field work went ahead in Oklahoma in a desultory manner this week. Eighteen new wells were started despite the unfavorable production outlook. Four new locations were in Oklahoma county. Creek county, with three, was second. Carter, Tulsa, Okmulgee and Haskell counties each had a pair.

While new operators were entering East Texas, two operators finished development work in Oklahoma City with completion of two gushers. MacArthur Oil company brought in its No. 1 Kammerdiener, SE NE NW 3-11-3w, for 1680 barrels in an hour with an estimated daily gas volume of 52,000,000 cubic feet.

Great Southern Petroleum company brought in its No. 1 Bucher, SE NW 10-11-3w, for 844 barrels an hour with a daily gas volume of 17,000,000 cubic feet.

The Oklahoma City field's 113 wells flowing yesterday produced 219,529 barrels of oil and pipe lines took 138,266 barrels.

The question of pipe line taking oil in excess of a field's prorata production was discussed at the American Petroleum institute board of directors meeting at Fort Worth. This practice was condemned in resolutions as a practice seeking to defeat production stabilization.

BODY DEAN OF WOMEN AT MARSHALL COLLEGE WILL BE SENT TO HOME

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 6. (INS)—The body of Amanda Lee Beaumont, 45, dean of women at Marshall college, who died suddenly last night, today was to be taken back to her home in St. Joseph, Mo.

Miss Beaumont, a graduate of the University of Missouri and of Columbus university, was to have been a chaperone at the Phi Tau Alpha dinner dance last night. Shortly before the dance, she was found, gowned in evening dress and wearing a corsage, on the floor of her apartment by a maid.

Coroner F. X. Schuller, who examined the body, said Miss Beaumont's death was due to a heart attack. No autopsy was performed.

Miss Beaumont received national recognition as chairman of the American Association of Deans of Women. She was also national chairman of the extension division of Altrusa clubs.

Miss Beaumont is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Taney Beaumont of St. Joseph, Mo.; two brothers, George Beaumont of St. Louis, and Taney Beaumont Jr., of Kansas City, and a sister, Mrs. May Beaumont Chambers of New York.

Proration and Low Prices Cause Small Drop in District Production

Crude runs from the various pools of the Wichita Falls district for the week ended Saturday, June 6, 1931, comprising nine pools under the supervision of L. V. Hull, proration umpire, averaged 54,943 barrels daily. This is a loss of approximately 316 barrels per day compared with the preceding seven-day run.

Closing down of a number of wells on the older leases on account of low prices, coupled with proration, was responsible for the slump. Below are the runs by pools:

LLOYD HAMILTON FILES PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY

LOS ANGELES, Calif., June 6. (INS)—Lloyd Hamilton, screen comedian, today had a voluntary petition of bankruptcy on file in federal court here. His total assets, he claimed, consisted of household goods valued at $1,500. His liabilities, according to the petition, were $49,716, which includes $12,500 alimony due his former wife, and $18,000 income tax due the federal government.

DRILLING ACTIVITY LESSENS IN DUNCAN AREA DURING WEEK

DUNCAN, Okla., June 6.—Recent price cuts and activity in the East Texas area have had a marked effect on the oil industry of southern Oklahoma. Not only is drilling in the area around Duncan practically at a standstill, but an increasing number of old producers are being plugged and abandoned as no longer profitable.

A survey indicates that the old wells, pumping only a few barrels a day and making water, are being abandoned at the rate of four or five a week. Many of the wells are not producing enough to pay pumping costs at the present price of crude. Pipe and salvage from the abandoned wells are being hauled to the East Texas area for use in the new producers being completed there.

All of this area is under strict proration, but even then there is no pipe line outlet for some of the allowed production, especially in the newer, flush areas of the Comanche and Walters fields.

The only drilling well of interest in Stephens county is the No. 1 W. M. Andrews of Paul Turner and associates, in the NW SW SW of 5-2s-7w, a wildcat six miles south of Duncan, which was drilling in a hard formation at 3639 feet, nearing contract depth of 3000 feet.

The Shasta Oil company topped oil sand at 2194 feet in its No. 5 Moore, in the SW NE SW of 2-2s-10w, on the south side of the Walters field of Cotton county, and was rigging up to pump. It is estimated good for a small producer.

Crane and Rankin's No. 1 Adkins, in the NE NE SE of 14-1n-9w, a wildcat just north of the Oil City field of Stephens county, is still shut down in red lime at 3265 feet.

Ross Southard and associates' No. 1 O. R. McKinney, in the NE NE NE of 25-1n-8w, a wildcat three miles northwest of Duncan, is still shut down at 1063 feet.

East Texas Oil

LONGVIEW, Texas, June 6. (AP)—Eleven oil well completions, one of which failed to produce except in small heads, were registered this week in the Lathrop pool of northern and western Gregg county.

The 11 new producers added an estimated daily open flow production of 187,000 barrels to the potential of the pool. A decrease in the number of completions was attributed to the fact that new wells completed before June 15 will be allowed only 100 barrels daily under the present proration order. There also was a small decrease in activity due to the fact most major companies had cut crude prices to new low levels.

Ten Lathrop tests are now on the sand and are expected to be completed next week.

Completions this week were:

Sinclair Oil & Gas company's No. 4 Moncrief, W. H. Castleberry survey, estimated 24,000 barrels; Barnsdall and Houston Oil company's No. 3 McGrede, Dolores Sanches survey, estimated 12,000 barrels; Stanolind Oil & Gas company's No. 2 Fiewellen, Marshall Mann survey, estimated 16,000 barrels; Sun Oil company's No. 1 Satterwhite, W. H. Castleberry survey, estimated 20,000 barrels; Magnolia Petroleum company's No. 1 Jones, G. W. Hooper survey, estimated 17,000 barrels; Selby Oil & Gas company's No. 2 Snavely, John R. Crosby survey, estimated 30,000 barrels; Simms Oil company's No. 1 Christian, G. W. Hooper survey, estimated 16,000 barrels; Mid-Kansas Oil & Gas company's No. 2 Castleberry, Dolores Sanches survey, estimated 16,000 barrels; Woodley Petroleum company's No. 2 Magrill, estimated 15,000 barrels; O. L. Mickman No. 1 Moore, Martha Dillard survey, estimated 20,000 barrels; and Walker and Harrison's No. 1 Walker, Martha Dillard survey, flowed two 25-minute heads.

Tests now on the sand:

Elliott No. 1 Stuckey Thrasher, Hooper survey, Roeser & Pendleton and J. K. Wadley No. 1 Sheffield, Sanchez survey; Lacy Petroleum company No. 1 Anderson, Hooper survey; Shell Petroleum corporation No. 1 Richey, Carlton survey; Humble Oil & Refining company No. 1 Edwards, David Ferguson survey, Upshur county; Humble No. 2 Armstrong, Rigsby survey; Magnolia No. 1 Hampton, Ferguson survey, Upshur county; Arkansas Fuel Oil company's No. 1 Allison, Robinson survey; Perkins et al. No. 1 McGrede, Sanches survey; and Smith Properties No. 1 Doby, Castleberry survey.

TYLER, Texas, June 6. (UP)—Owen and Sloan's No. B-1 Starnes today was scheduled for abandonment after it had tested four barrels of salt water in 10 minutes at a depth of 3879-99 feet.

BUSINESS SENTIMENT IMPROVED BY SUSTAINED STOCK RALLY

Many Leaders Believe Improvement In Stocks Foreshadows Substantial Recovery in Business Later in Year

By RICHARD L. GRIDLEY
United Press Financial Editor

NEW YORK, June 6.—Business sentiment in various sections of the country was considerably improved this week by the first sustained rally in the stock market since the end of March.

Although conditions showed further seasonal contraction, it was believed by most leaders that improvement in stock prices foreshadowed a substantial recovery in business later in the year.

> OTTAWA, June 6. (UP)—The economic depression has definitely reached the bottom of the decline, Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, believes, with certain signs indicating business is definitely on the mend.
> Warning "not to believe we are off to the races," Sir Henry told members of the railway committee of the house of commons he was of the opinion stocks were at the "irreducible minimum, with purchasing power starting again."

In fact, several government leaders and a number of industrialists are convinced the bottom of the depression was reached during the first quarter of the year and that improvement can now be looked for. No quick turnabout is expected and much is believed to depend upon such major factors as the stock market, conditions of crops and improvement in conditions in other parts of the world.

Seasonal Drop

Current conditions in general business are reflecting the usual retarding influences of the summer season. Automobile output has passed its spring peak with a corresponding effect on the steel industry. Retail trade continued irregular and manufacturers are awaiting effects of the new Canadian tariff, carrying rates ranging up to 40 per cent.

Dollar sales of merchandise continued below a year ago, chiefly because of lower selling prices. Cotton goods appeared to have the best demand, stimulated to some extent by aggressive sales tactics in connection with "national cotton week." Some summer lines came in for better buying, stimulated by warmer weather.

Car loadings took a mild upward spurt notwithstanding stagnant conditions in many branches of trading. Loadings showed a sharp loss from the two preceding years. Railroad executives continued their efforts to obtain increased freight rates. Eastern representatives met again yesterday to smooth out details.

Steel ingot production in the past week dropped to 42 per cent of capacity from 44 per cent, the lowest rate since early January.

Southwest Review

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 6. (UP)—News in business channels of the Southwest was varied in tone this week.

July wheat dropped to a new low and crude oil prices were slashed. An optimistic note was found in exceptionally good prospects for fruit and grain crops in the district.

After announcement that the federal farm board had withdrawn its support from the market, the price of cash wheat dropped eight cents. The market was demoralized for hours before a price was set.

Practically all companies slashed crude oil prices during the week. Despite predicted disaster by leaders in the industry as consequence of over-production, the East Texas field continued its heavy output.

All classes of crops, favored by heavy rains last week, were reported in good condition. Harvesting of wheat is expected to begin about June 15, with a large yield expected in Texas.

Fruit picking has started in several parts of the district and a large demand for farm labor is reported in the berry raising districts.

Cotton and corn planting was completed last week. Range and pasture conditions were reported in excellent conditions.

The livestock industry remained slow. A good supply of sheep was reported from Texas.

It was reported that good winter feeding quarters were developing in Northern Texas, since diversified farming and wheat production began to expand.

Retail and wholesale trade remained nominally steady, while building activity was reported as under a year ago.

Lead and zinc production and receipts continued quiet.

WELL EXTENDS PROVEN FIELD

barrels in five days, production by Big Lake Oil company's No. 5-C University was killed May 30 for deepening from 8806 feet. Before the well was killed May 7 at 8731 feet it flowed a daily average of around 2100 barrels. Eight of the deep wells, including five days' flow by Big Lake No. 5-C, produced a total of 99,122 barrels of high gravity oil during the week ending May 30, the largest amount in two months and 25,416 barrels more than the week before. Fluctuating production of the deep wells, however, is due to continued experimenting in an effort to establish their gas-oil ratio as nearly perfect as possible.

Drilling Resumed

One of the week's most interesting developments was the resumption of drilling by Galt-Brown and Penn's No. 1 Cowden, Ector county wildcat, after being shut down for a month at 3860 feet and its nearing of the horizon at which oil might be expected. It was credited with topping the grey lime at 3990 feet, 943 feet below sea level, and with having a rainbow of oil from 4040-52 feet. There had been no further shows in drilling to 4170 feet in grey lime. Reported top of the grey lime was 13 feet lower than the grey lime top in the nearest of two Southern Crude producers on the Cowden ranch about 12 miles to the north and six miles to the east. The Galt-Brown and Penn wildcat is about eight miles north and three miles east of the Penn pool. Some geologists believe it is on a structure entirely separate from either of the two now producing in the county.

Other producers in the 2200-foot horizon in that part of the Settles field in Howard county about nine miles south and slightly east of Big Spring may be deepened to the next pay as the result of the restoration of production in American Maracaibo No. 5-C Settles by deepening. The well was making almost 100 per cent water at 2285 feet when it drilled ahead and obtained more oil from 2390-94 feet and from 2433-45 feet. At a total depth of 2447 feet No. 5-C Settles swabbed 40 barrels of 38 gravity oil hourly for 11 hours and prepared to pump. An offset to it, Continental No. 7 Settles, rigged up to deepen from 2240 feet.

Stanolind Oil and Gas company's No. 1 W. H. Williams, deep wildcat in the southeastern corner of Irion county, resumed drilling at 5945 feet in shale after repairing engine. Straughn and Texannati Oil company moved in materials for a test for shallow oil on the Lee place, about 1½ miles north of Sherwood, between the Sherwood cemetery and Spring creek. There were indications that announcement soon might be made of the establishment of a small refinery at Mertzon to take oil from the Irion county shallow pool.

MURDER CHARGES FILED AGAINST YOUTH AND HIS MOTHER AT MUSKOGEE

MUSKOGEE, Okla., June 6. (UP)—First degree murder charges were filed here today against Riley Reece, 20-year-old Webber Falls youth, and his mother, Mrs. Henry Reece in the slaying of the woman's husband whose body was found in a lot partially devoured by hogs.

The county attorney said that the woman and her son admitted slaying Reece with a hammer. He said that the first story that the killing occurred when the father was discovered attempting a criminal assault against his daughter was a hoax.

According to signed statements made by the youth and his mother, the slaying resulted from an argument over family affairs.

DAILY MARKETS

FURTHER DECLINES IN COTTON MARKET LIVERPOOL LOWER

NEW YORK, June 6. (AP)—Cotton experienced a further sharp decline today, losing about ¼ of a cent per pound from the previous closing levels and declining to within 3 points of the low levels established early in the week for most of the active positions.

The weakness in Liverpool combined with heaviness in the stock market and generally favorable weather conditions, with the prospects of a continuation of favorable weather over the week-end, brought renewed general selling, while an absence of aggressive buying was taken to indicate a weaker technical position. October declined to 8.65, a loss of 25 points from the previous close, and the general market closed barely steady at 24 to 26 points net decline.

The market opened barely steady, 13 to 16 points lower and after a very moderate rally on trade buying and week-end covering resumed its downward course and throughout the greater part of the day was easy with an absence of more than a moderate demand. It seemed to be the prevailing impression that the buying which had resulted in the recoveries of over ½c from the low levels established on Tuesday and Wednesday had been largely covering and that the firmness in the technical position had been corrected.

Liverpool cabled that the market there had declined under local and continental liquidation and owing to a poor offtake, and stated that the Manchester market was unsettled with cloth and yarn buyers cautious.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, June 6. (AP)—The cotton market was active for a short Saturday session today. Prices developed a sharp decline and almost duplicated the season's lows at the end after a decline for the day of a little over a dollar a bale. The depressing influences included, lower Liverpool cables, weakness in stocks and a long distance forecast for favorable weather during the coming week. Sentiment appeared to be bearish, which induced considerable liquidation and selling by ring traders.

Liverpool came in 4 to 6 penny points worse than due and private cables stated that local traders and continent liquidated longs. There was a poor offtake. Manchester cabled that the cloth and yarn market was unsettled with buyers cautious.

The close was barely steady, with July at 8.31, October at 8.65, and December at 8.87, or 21 to 22 points net lower for the day on those active months.

OKLAHOMA STATE BAR RECOMMENDS THAT FIVE ATTORNEYS BE BARRED

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 6. (AP)—Recommendations for disbarment of five Oklahoma lawyers were filed with the state supreme court today by the board of governors of the state bar of Oklahoma.

M. A. Kennamer, Newkirk attorney, formerly assistant county attorney of Johnston county, was accused of accepting a bribe for dismissing or continuing cases against Louis Raper and Jim Wolf, co-defendants in a case in Johnston county.

Other lawyers included in the disbarment recommendations were Q. P. McGhee and Frank R. Burns, Miami; Clay Snodgrass, Altus, and Clarence M. McRae, Tulsa.

Snodgrass was accused on complaint of W. B. Stutts, Thoronton, Texas, of misappropriating money received refund on a cash bond put up to defend his brother in a case in Harmon county.

McGhee and Burns were recommended disbarred because of being convicted in Ottawa county of harboring, aiding and assisting a person guilty of a felony. McGhee was sentenced to serve seven years in prison, defaulted his bond and now is a fugitive from justice. Burns is serving a six months sentence.

McRae was accused on complaint of Harry E. Stone, New York traveling salesman, of appropriating $200 obtained in a settlement of a personal injury damage suit.

STAMFORD BAPTISTS PLANNING OPENING OF NEW S. S. BUILDING

STAMFORD, Texas, June 6.—Formal opening of the new Sunday school building of the First Baptist church is planned for June 21, according to announcement of the pastor, Rev. Sam Morris. All former pastors of this church have been invited to be present for the opening service and a great day is planned. The Sunday school has averaged over 500 in attendance during the month of May.

More than 80,000 radio receiving sets are licensed in Belgium.

CURB STOCKS OFF RESULT WEEK-END SALES FOR PROFIT

NEW YORK, June 6. (AP)—Curb stocks, particularly leading oil and utility shares, receded further from the high point of the week, in the short session today under the adverse influence of week-end profit taking. Sales 160,000 shares.

Vacuum, which rallied earlier in the week from a year's low at 23 to 35, yielded 3¼ points after earlier strength. Humble receded 2 and Gulf was off 3⅛ on the day. Standard of Indiana sagged ⅜ to close the week 3 points above the year's bottom price. Cities Service slowly receded ⅛ to 11. All of the oil shares retained a portion of the week's rise.

The recession in the utility group was slow but became somewhat more active just before the close as the volume of offerings increased.

Trading in specialties was extremely quiet and confined to a few issues.

REPORTS OF RAIN IN CANADA CHECK GRAIN PURCHASES

CHICAGO, June 6. (AP)—Wheat reacted today from a 4-cent advance that had taken place in the last week. Much wheat bought on account of drouth conditions in Canada was sold out to realize profits and there was also heavy speculative selling.

Wheat closed unsettled, ⅛@⅝c lower, corn ⅛@½c down, oats ⅛@⅝c off, and provisions unchanged to 12c decline.

Although the Canadian wheat crop situation was authoritatively reported as the worst at this time of the season in 29 years, buying ardor was checked on account of Winnipeg messages telling of rains.

Wheat closed unsettled, ⅛@⅝c lower, corn ⅛@½c down, oats ⅛@⅝c off, and provisions unchanged to 12c setback.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, June 6. (AP) (U.S.D.A.)—Livestock trade around the 11-market circuit this week was featured by a reaction in the cattle market with prices strong to unevenly higher. Several markets lost a good sized portion of the week's early upturn on strong weight steers. Chicago had the week's top of $8.75 on yearling steers and $8.25 on best weighty steers. Country demand for replacement stock was slow. Receipts 141,800, as compared with 157,675 last week and 190,830 the corresponding period a year ago.

Light to moderate runs stimulated the demand for hogs and prices advanced 10@35c with strong weight butchers showing more gain than the lighter weights. St. Louis had a closing top of $6.60. Offerings 391,300, against 420,858 last week and 535,907 a year ago.

Dry Goods Market

NEW YORK, June 6. (AP)—Cotton goods were in moderate request today at low prices for print cloths and other unfinished goods. Finished cottons sold in small quantities for nearby use. Rayon sales were beginning to show a seasonal falling off. Hosiery continued quiet in first hands but the retail movement is steady. Knit outerwear was active in distributing channels. Silk held steady with some indications of firmness.

STOCKS YIELD TO PROFIT TAKING IN SATURDAY SESSION

NEW YORK, June 6. (AP)—Stocks went back to the firing line today for a test against selling. Profit taking and offerings by skeptical shorts chipped away at the list during the two hours of quiet trading, leaving final prices 1 to 3 points under the Friday close. The turnover was 800,000 shares.

It normally happens that after a strong advance — particularly a quick, sharp upturn such as was experienced this week—the market has to undergo what is technically known as secondary selling when profits are accepted on stocks bought at lower levels and bears put out fresh lines on the theory that short covering has been temporarily exhausted.

U. S. Steel encountered considerable pressure following an estimate that next Wednesday's unfilled tonnage statement, showing the backlog as of May 31, would report the large decline of 250,000 to 300,000 tons. A loss is usually suffered in May, which is a month of seasonal slackening.

Operations this year fell off steadily and so did the placement of orders, reflecting in part the slide of prices. Steel common dropped 3 points.

Rails were reactionary, but in some cases the market was thin. Southern Pacific, New York Central and Atchison yielded 2 to 3. Union Pacific lost more than 5 and Norfolk & Western 13, the latter on small volume.

One of the encouraging developments as the markets closed for the week was news that steel operations in the Youngstown area would be up 1 point to 42 per cent. It was the first increase in about three months. Part of the improvement is doubtless due to the sustained demand for pipe.

Except for sterling and the mark, foreign exchanges were firm. The peseta and the Brazilian milreis were up.

PRICES IRREGULAR AS TRADING QUIET N. Y. BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, June 6. (AP)—Quiet trading and irregular price changes marked the bond market today.

Net changes among foreign obligations were divided about evenly between gains and declines. Argentine, Cuban and Colombian obligations advanced from 1 to 7 points. Chinese Hukuang railway 5s jumped 9¼ points following the news that certain interest coupons would be paid. German issues made mixed changes. Shortly before the close cables from Berlin reported that the government had issued a proclamation announcing that the German nation had reached its limit of privation and that new taxes would be imposed.

Liberty and treasury loans were irregularly higher but with the exception of the liberty fourth 4¼s and the treasury 4s and the treasury 4s the trading in them was limited.

Public utilities average showed a slight gain.

Public interest in the bond market as a whole continued moderate. Sales aggregated $4,986,000.

American Telephone debenture 5s, Cleveland Union Terminal 4½s and 5s, Consolidated Gas of New York 4½s, Illinois Bell Telephone 5s and Bell Telephone of Pennsylvania series C 5s reached lower levels.

Local officials of the chamber of commerce and of aviation organizations were enthusiastic in endorsing the races to be held here. Of especial interest is the fact that this is a project endorsed by the Federation Aeronautique Internationale, and that any records established here will be recognized as such. This is the second of its kind to be held in Texas.

J. L. Jackson Jr., president of the chamber of commerce, said Saturday: "Every effort is being made to make Wichita Falls an air transportation center. The air races will not only be the means of stimulating interest in aviation on the part of our people, but will be a fitting introduction for the inauguration of air mail on July 1."

William N. Bonner, chairman of the aviation committee in the chamber of commerce, also endorsed the plan. "It is my best opinion and belief that the Wichita Falls air races coming here June 14 and under the auspices of the National Aeronautic association will be by far the finest event of its kind ever presented in North Texas," he said. "It is my further belief that nothing could do more toward stimulating popular interest in aviation and establishing commercially a facility which Wichita Falls and its territory can ill afford to be without than will this event."

Another encouraging statement came from O. L. Dockum, diserict traffic agent for the Mid-Continent Air Express, who said: "I believe the Wichita Falls air races which are to be held at the municipal port June 14 will prove not only highly entertaining but educational as well. They will be an excellent means of increasing the airmindedness of those attending and acquainting them with the facilities of the Wichita Falls airport. We have an excellent port, one of which we can well be proud. No areonautic event ever previously held in Wichita Falls can in any way be compared with this meet, sanctioned by the National Aeronautic association, in the excellence and wide variety of entertainment which it will afford."

ATTRACTIVE ELECTRA DANCER

GEORGIA JERELEEN BARNES

Among the most popular child entertainers in this section is Georgia Jereleen Barnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jere Barnes of Electra and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Ancell Sr., pioneer residents of Wichita county.

She is now visiting with her father and mother in Cooksville, Tenn.

Twenty Wichita Falls Girls Entered In 'Miss Liberty' Contest Sponsored By Local Post of American Legion

Twenty Wichita Falls girls have been nominated as entries in a "Miss Liberty" contest sponsored by the local American Legion post, with a new 1931 sports model Chevrolet as the first prize in the contest. The choice of "Miss Liberty" will be a feature of the celebration to be held at the fair grounds on July 4 under the auspices of the local legion post.

The young woman who receives second place will be given a diamond ring, and the next five candidates will receive dinner rings. All candidates will be entertained with a dance at the Wichita club next Saturday night, according to E. F. Drexel, director of the contest. Nominations may be made up until 6 o'clock Monday evening to enter.

Campaign headquarters are at 907 Indiana, where the front of the office has been decorated to represent a dugout. Sacks are stacked in the entrance. Other interesting decorations include machine guns, helmets, grenades, bayonets, rifles and shells.

The American Legion is presenting the world war spectacle and conducting the contest to raise funds to send its drum and bugle corps to El Paso in August in an effort to secure the state convention of the American Legion for this city in 1932.

BARNETT MADE AUDITOR FOR SECOND TERM

Paul Barnett was reappointed auditor of Wichita county for the next two years by a unanimous vote of the three district judges here early Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Barnett came to the auditor's office July 1, 1929, from the city water department, where he was chief clerk. His new term of office as county auditor will begin July 1.

FINAL MEETING OF DISABLED VETERANS TO BE MONDAY EVE

The disabled veterans of Wichita Falls and nearby towns are to hold their final meeting Monday night at the court house and at that time will elect temporary officers who will serve for the forthcoming 60 days. Further instructions for carrying on the business of the organization and cooperating with the Washington office and Cincinnati national headquarters will be given.

W. L. Shaddix, national representative, will be present Monday night to give further instructions on the financial problem of disabled men of the late war. He is to address a mass meeting in Vernon Tuesday night. He came here from Corpus Christi, where he addressed the South Texas division convention of the DAV of the WW. While he is here Mrs. Shaddix is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Blackwell at Purcell, Okla., but will meet her husband in Amarillo the latter part of the week.

Mr. Shaddix stated at a meeting Saturday morning at the courthouse that thousands of veterans were not getting justice because of lack of information on how to prepare their claims, and that the DAV of the WW in some counties had done much toward securing full compensation for all who were injured during the war. "In one county the DAV of the WW offers a $10 hat to any person within the county who can find two disabled veterans who are dissatisfied with what moneys they have and are now getting," he stated. Each member of the organization gets a publication twice a month which explains the workings of the Veterans Bureau and the DAV law experts.

Monday morning at 11 o'clock a conference is to be held at the courthouse on plans for securing members for the organization. A dozen veterans have been appointed to canvass the city and county for all who are disabled and who are eligible to join. The dues for a year are $3.50, which include local chapter, state, and national assessments.

Laurence R. Melton of the Dallas Dispatch is state commander of the Texas department, and Capt. Clifford W. Sands, recruiting officer for the United States army in Dallas, is state chief of staff and adjutant, and Samuel Billig, state treasurer.

All disabled veterans who have claims in for compensation or who wish to appeal their claims for back pay and increases are urged to be present at the final meeting Monday night at the courthouse.

REV. MARSHALL MASTERS

REV. CLARK H. RUSSELL

IOWA PARK, Texas, June 6.—Sunday morning at 11 o'clock the Rev. C. A. Spragins, presiding elder, will preach the first sermon of a two weeks' union open air meeting which will be held by the First Christian and First Methodist churches on the lawn of the Methodist church.

The Rev. Clark H. Marshall Masters, pastor of the First Christian church at Honey Grove, Texas. The Rev. Mr. Masters, who has just accepted a call for his third year's service as pastor of the Christian church at Honey Grove, was co-pastor with the Rev. Mr. Russell, who was located at Honey Grove last year, where they held a very successful revival.

The public is invited to attend these services, beginning Sunday morning, June 7, continuing through Sunday, June 21.

WESTMORELAND TO BEGIN ITS ANNUAL FREE SWIM LESSONS

Free swimming lessons, both for children and for adults, will begin at Westmoreland swimming pool Monday through the cooperation of the Westmoreland staff and the city park department, according to Olin Harvey, supervisor of summer activities in the parks.

Children will be taught Mondays and Thursdays between 8 and 9 o'clock in the morning, and adult classes will be on the same days, but between 5 and 6 o'clock in the evening. "Big Bill" Curren, head of the life-saving and instruction crew at the pool, will be in charge, with Tom Beaty, also an instructor, assisting.

Last year, 288 people were taught to swim at Westmoreland pool in the annual "Learn to Swim" campaign. The city park department is enthusiastic in its endorsement of the move, on account of furnishing recreation and also promoting safety.

No charge is made for the lessons, the only charge being made for going into the pool.

Men Celebrate Wash Day With Novel Apparel

"Wash day" is being celebrated by the other side of the house at Perkins-Timberlake's on Monday, for the men's department is staging a celebration of the day usually observed only by women.

In a window on the Ninth street side of the store is a washing machine as the central decoration. Around it are suits, shirts, ties, socks, underwear—everything but shoes—all of which are washable materials. Ties are of every hue in the rainbow and made of linen, pique, broadcloth, oxford and madras.

CITY OF BURK MAY OPERATE GAS SYSTEM

Echoes of the fight now going on in Wichita Falls in regard to gas rates are found in Burkburnett, where the city commissioners have decided to ask Clifford Mooers of Wichita Falls, owner of the gas franchise there, for his price on the distributing system.

The letter written by City Attorney F. L. Jackson of Burkburnett to Mr. Mooers follows:

"June 3rd, 1931.

"Mr. Clifford Mooers,

"Wichita Falls, Texas.

"Dear Mr. Mooers:

"Acting under instruction from the city commissioners of the City of Burkburnett I am instructed to ask you for a price on your gas distribution system in this city.

"Believing that it is good business for a city to own all of its public utilities we are asking that you have sent to us a statement showing what price you will make us on your entire distribution system in this city. We would also like to have the same itemized so that we may examine it carefully before asking an appointment with you.

"This is looking forward to the city operating its own gas franchise and we shall endeavor to deal with you in such a way that condemnation proceedings will not be necessary.

"Very truly yours,

"F. L. Jackson,

"City attorney."

At the same meeting, the commissioners extended rights to those people living just outside the city limits to use the city water system. This applies to those who live on the road between Wichita Falls and Burkburnett near the south limits of Burkburnett.

Straight Answers to Everyday Questions About the Problem of Family Protection

May I continue to Deal with my property after I make my will?

Yes. Your will is effective only from the date of your death, and only as to property you then have.

What will be the duties of my Executor?

Your Executor will have to —obtain letters testamentary from the court —inventory and appraise your property

—review all assets, liquidating those of doubtful character
—advertise for claims and pay them in the order cited by law
—collect moneys due the estate —manage the business, if there happens to be a going concern, until it can be disposed of
—figure and pay taxes
—pay legacies under the Will —distribute the estate
—make final accounting to the Court.

Do you wish to place such a load of work upon any member of your family? Wouldn't it be more thoughtful—and sensible—to turn this work over to us as executor under your will?

MAKE YOUR WILL TODAY

When a man dies intestate—without a Will, the State assumes the liquidation and distribution of his property according to its laws rather than his wishes.

The only way by which you can designate to whom your property shall go, what part of it shall be maintained in its existing form, and who, as executor, is to settle your estate according to your wishes, is by making a Will.

This bank will be glad to consult with you regarding the proper provisions to incorporate in your Will, or in revising your present Will.

60-Ton Exide Battery Will Power Submarine on its Undersea Trip to The North Pole

Exide—the battery choice of the world's greatest modern explorers—has been selected to fill one of the most vital jobs in probably the most hazardous and picturesque polar expedition ever attempted.

Every conceivable safety device to insure the success of the expedition has been placed aboard the submarine—hence the selection of a dependable Exide Battery which will furnish the power to light, operate and propel the submarine while cruising beneath the polar ice.

So powerful is this Exide that it could supply the current requirements for nearly 3,000 automobiles and is capable of furnishing enough power to carry the entire electrical load of a small city.

Think of this when you buy your next battery

Let the choice of Sir Hubert Wilkins and his submarine commander, Lieut.-Commander Sloan Danenhower be your guide in the selection of a battery for your car.

How to Lose Fat a Pound a Day on a Full Stomach

Do Just These Two Simple Things

Fat Melts Away

Science has made important discoveries in fat reduction. The average fat person can now rip off fat a pound a day—four to seven pounds every week!—on a full stomach. Thus it is foolish now to stay fat.

This is what you do: Take a teaspoonful ordinary Jad salts in a glass of water a half hour before breakfast every morning. This reduces moisture-weight instantly. Also cleanses the system of the waste matter and excess toxins that most fat people have, and banishes puffiness and bloat.

Then do this about eating. FILL YOUR STOMACH—eat your fill—of lean meats, vegetables like spinach, cauliflower, cabbage, tomatoes, etc., and lots of salads. Eat a lot. Eat all you can hold. Don't go hungry a minute! Cut down on butter, sweets and desserts, bread. Eat any fruit for dessert.

That's all you do. Fat seems to melt away. The coarse lines of overweight give way to the refined ones of slenderness. You lose as much as a pound a day. You feel better than for years. For in this treatment you achieve two important results. The Jad Salts clear your system of toxins. "The diet takes off fat with food that turns into energy instead of weight.

If you're tired of being embarrassed by fat, try this way. You'll be glad that you did. You can get Jad Salts at any drug store.

"Note particularly—the salts are urged purely as a poison-banishing agent—not as a reducing. The change in food does the work.—Adv.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE

© 1930 BY NEA SERVICE, INC

"I'll take you home," Ted told Sarah when she asked him to call a taxicab for her.

Neither of the two spoke as the car slipped down the quiet, midnight street. Sarah wanted to say something light and banal, but for once she could think of nothing which was light enough, frivolous enough.

As she stepped out of the car at the curb she held out her hand. "It's goodby, I guess, Ted. I'm leaving in a few days and I probably won't see you again. It's been nice to know you. Good luck!"

Once in her room there was such a weird blending of shadows in all the corners that she grew nervous. She decided that the strange impersonal contact of a hotel room would be more restful. Hotel rooms were filled with so many transient memories that they were curiously indifferent to the particular charm of any one person, or the tragedy of another. Sarah called a taxicab again, making a rueful face as she saw the manner in which the bills in her pocketbook were growing smaller and smaller.

Sarah packed a bag quickly. A gay green negligee, curiously worked in gold, mules that matched, slim silken pajamas of a yellow than was lovelier than the gold of the negligee, brushes and powders and creams.

She registered at the hotel desk and was following the boy who had taken her bag, when she heard someone speak her name.

"Sarah Slade, what are you doing in our hotel?"

She turned and saw the Phil Banning was standing near the desk.

"There's a ghost running loose in my rooms. I came away to escape him."

Sarah wondered why she had so completely forgotten that she would be under the same roof as Phil Banning and his wife if she came to the hotel. No one would believe her. People would think that she had come because she wanted a glimpse of the blond architect. But she was there, and there wasn't anything she could do except go to her room.

"A ghost!" Phil's brows were puckered. "From your past?"

"No, my present. But I imagine your wife is getting impatient. You shouldn't stay out so late, Phil."

"My wife? How did you know . . . she was here?"

"That isn't what you started to say," Sarah corrected him. "You intended to ask me how I knew that you had one. Her voice sounds nice."

"Where did you hear it?" Phil looked like a small boy who had been caught by his mother and his teacher at the same time.

"Over the telephone. I left a message . . . a number for you to call. She'll tell you."

"I didn't think it was necessary to explain her. She speaks for herself when she arrives. After all, a luncheon engagement doesn't form the basis for a personal autobiography, does it?" Phil was slipping out of any embarrassment he might have created, Sarah noticed, and she wanted to laugh at his egotism in thinking that he had held any charm for her. He had been handy in letting Ted see that she had other interests, that was all.

She said good night and was turning away when the elevator door opened and she saw a tall, slender woman stepping out. There though music played for her alone, was something regal about her, as intuitively Sarah knew that she was Phil Banning's wife.

Next—Sarah has breakfast at the hotel.

FARM BOY ACCUSED OF KILLING FAMILY TO BE EXONERATED

ELDORADO, Kan., June 6. (AP)—Owen Oberst, farm youth charged with killing his father, mother and five brothers and sisters in 1928, is going free.

R. M. Woodward, Butler county attorney, announced he would ask dismissal of murder charges against Oberst as the result of a state supreme court decision today holding that the case could not be transferred to another county for trial.

"It has been shown the case cannot be settled in Butler county courts," Woodward said. Three Butler county juries were unable to reach an agreement after hearing the evidence.

The charred bodies of the Oberst family were found in the smoking embers of their farm home the night of April 20, 1928. In a confession, later repudiated, Owen, who was then 18 years old said he shot the seven with a rifle, soaked the floor of the house with kerosene and made a pyre of the bodies because he "just got mad" when his father refused him permission to use the family automobile.

He first pleaded guilty and was sentenced to a life term in the penitentiary. Nine months later the state supreme court set aside the sentence and ordered a trial on the ground that the youth was not represented by counsel when he entered his guilty plea.

Owen has been at liberty on $10,000 bond and is employed on a farm near here.

WASHINGTON, June 6. (AP)—Russia, retarded in its early spring sowing campaign by adverse weather conditions, now has exceeded the acreage planted during the corresponding period of 1930 and is proceeding at a faster rate than a year ago.

The agriculture department said today the total sowings to May 25 of all grains were 159,930,000 acres as compared with 153,758,000 last year. Wheat plantings were 47,934,000 acres against 46,103,000.

In another report, the department today estimated the world winter wheat acreage sown last fall for 1931 harvest in 18 countries at 138,686,000 acres, or less than one per cent above the 1929 plantings.

CONFEDERATE REUNION ROMANCE CULMINATES IN MARRIAGE WACO WOMAN

MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 6. (AP)—A romance begun at the annual Confederate reunion at Biloxi, Miss., last year culminated in the marriage here yesterday of Gen. J. C. Hooks of Winchester, Va., and Mrs. Alice Glass of Waco, Texas.

General Hooks, 82, is a superannuated minister of the Methodist Episcopal church, South. The marriage is his third and the second for his wife.

They first met in Biloxi. This week they met again at the Confederate reunion here.

DECLINE IN EXPORTS OF AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS

WASHINGTON, June 6. (AP)—Exports of principal American agricultural products were reported by the agriculture department today at $940,928,000 for the 10 months from July to April, as compared with $1,394,687,000 for the corresponding period the year previous.

A continued decline in exports was shown in April when the index of 44 commodities was placed at 68, the lowest in 16 years with the exception of April, 1930, index of 65. In March, 1931, it was 87 and 71 in February.

Excluding cotton, the April index was 81, the lowest monthly index on record for 43 commodities.

Imports for ten months to April were reported at $956,832,000 against $1,598,196,000 a year ago.

FORT WORTH BANKERS REINDICTED SATURDAY

FORT WORTH, June 6. (AP)—W. L. Smallwood and C. C. Johnson, convicted officials of the defunct Texas National bank, were reindicted by a federal grand jury here today on charges of misapplication of the bank's funds and false entry in the bank's books.

The indictments also named B. B. Samuels, president of the bank, who is ill in New York. Samuels and Smallwood were named jointly in one indictment containing two counts, and Samuels and Johnson in another with 13 counts.

Smallwood and Johnson are to be sentenced Monday. They were convicted yesterday on six charges of violating the national banking laws.

BIG DROP U. S. POSTAL RECEIPTS LAST MONTH

WASHINGTON, June 6. (INS)—There was a big drop in postal receipts in May as compared with those of May a year ago, the postoffice department announced today.

At 50 selected cities receipts declined from $31,370,304.44 in May a year ago to $27,843,801.88 in May last, a decline of 11.24 per cent, while at 50 industrial cities the decrease was from $3,335,061.79 to $3,047,274.08, or 8.63 per cent.

WICHITA FALLS RECORD NEWS PATTERNS

There is nothing more flattering than frocks that fit the individual personality, in color, detail and fabric. If your taste runs to soft, fussy, feminine things, you'll love the sheer chiffons, georgettes, batistes and organdies so important this season. If you prefer tailored dresses, there are pleated skirts, severe collars and clever seamings shown in frocks of cotton, linen and wash silks. And of course, there is always the happy combination of simple frock softened by flattering collar treatments. One model of each type has been sketched for you today and you've priceless opportunity to accentuate your good points by selecting the frocks best suited to your taste. Every color you have ever loved may be had in the glorious array of fabrics displayed, and especially lovely are the combinations of these colors.

Pattern 1112

The chic of this frock lies in its graceful shoulder capelets and the simplicity of detail so necessary with flowered prints. The broad shoulders evident in fashions this season, lessen the width of bust and hips, and so have been welcomed by smart women. Only with capes and cape sleeves can one achieve this effect. Pattern 1122 makes up beautifully in any one of the soft, sheer fabrics mentioned above, as well as voile, lawn and lace. Obtainable only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 39-inch fabric.

Pattern 1123

A simple, surplice bodice softens its effect with tucked ruffling of lawn or batiste, which may be inexpensively purchased ready made. The skirt flare stops at either side of the front to form a slender panel that is most attractive. A pert bow, or a buckle, may be used at the waistline. Pattern 1123 includes sleeves so you may make your frock with long or short sleeves, or sleeveless, as in the sketch. Cotton or silk will be equally smart for this model. Obtainable only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. For a sleeveless dress, size 16 requires 2⅞ yards of 39-inch fabric.

Pattern 1086

For mornings, for sports or for shopping in town, nothing is smarter than the tailored frocks shown at the right. It is a coat model that opens out flat. The pleated skirt insert lends grace and freedom, and the narrow collar, crossing in surplice fashion, is very becoming. A leather belt, selected to match the print, adds a smart touch. Pattern 1086 is especially adaptable to stunning cottons, and was silks—shantung, pique, linen, dimity, percale, broadcloth, etc. Obtainable only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards of 36-inch fabric.

These models are very easy to make as each pattern comes to you with simple and exact instructions. Yardage is given for every size.

Send 15c in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, the style number and size of each pattern ordered.

Send for our catalog of fashions. It features a wide assortment of delightful afternoon frocks, sport models, house dresses, lingerie, pajamas, clothes for the kiddies, and accessory patterns. YOUNG REPUBLICANS OKLAHOMA ORGANIZE COMMITTEE NAMED

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 6. (UP)—A new Republican political group, the Young Republicans of Oklahoma, was organized here today with the pledge to ring the "school bells" and leave the ringing of "fire bells" to others.

Dave Butcher of Enid was elected temporary president.

Fred Clarke, Republican state committee chairman, presided at the opening of the meeting. He was applauded as he read the principles of the new organization pledging abolition of "personal partisan politics in state schools."

Bucher denounced the "lethargy (of Oklahoma voters) which has permitted the state to fall prey politically to first one demagogic theory and then another until we apparently have run the gauntlet of demagogs."

Butcher cited instances in the Walton and Johnson administration that created the impression that Oklahoma "was a land of hill billies, hay seeders and hay eaters incapable of self-government."

More than 200 attended the meetings today.

MR. M'ADOO'S SUGGESTION

The creation of a nation economic council, as urged by William G. McAdoo, is far from being a new idea. This country adopted it as a war-time emergency measure. France and Germany have made use of it, to good effect, in peace-time. It involves the establishment of a federal board which would undertake to stabilize employment, prevent waste and serve in a generally advisory capacity to American business.

American business men could not object to the plan as defined. That is, to a board that merely offered advice. What the average business man would be afraid of is that the board would weary of giving advice and seek the right to give orders. The history of such bodies is in line with the fable of the camel whom the Arab permitted to put his head into the shelter of the tent. Experience has taught that it is difficult to hold the bureaucratic tendency in check. An advisory economic council today would almost certainly become a regulatory economic council within a decade. Official "advice" has a way of growing a stinger.

THE GOVERNOR IGNORES AN OPPORTUNITY

When word came to Governor Sterling that "Tex" Guinan had been barred from France, he was a busy man. His desk was still piled high with legislative measures awaiting his consideration. He might have called out the national guard, but its members were busy with plans for the summer maneuvers. He might have despatched a ranger or two, but a ranger's authority is nil, outside of Texas. He is not to be criticised, therefore, for failing to bestir himself in behalf of the more or less young lady.

According to Dr. J. B. Cranfill of Dallas, Miss Guinan really is a native of Texas, her birthplace being somewhere near Waco. Her folks, says the Dallas minister, were good, respectable citizens. She has as much right to the improvised given name as any cowboy or baseball player who ever used it, even though she long since shook the dust of Texas from her dainty feet. If the governor had wanted to take steps in her behalf, he could have thought of some good sentimental reasons for doing so.

Perhaps his failure to take action was prompted by a belief that France has a perfect right to bar anyone it chooses to bar, for good reasons or bad ones, or for no reasons at all. Perhaps, furthermore, he shares the sentiments of five million and some-odd thousand Texans who just naturally don't give a dern about New York's night club proprietresses, regardless of where they were born.

THE PROGRESSIVES AND PINCHOT

The signs are multiplying that the progressive elements in the Republican party would like to have Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania lead their cause in 1932. The governor's raspinarious speech about the public utilities, at the governors' meeting, served to shove him a little farther toward the middle of the stage. His record as a progressive is longer than that of anyone else in public life today.

There would seem to be a more promising set-up for a progressive today than there was in 1911, a year before Roosevelt led the Bull Moosers in revolt. But the promise becomes, on closer study, an empty one. It is doubtful if such an outstanding progressive as Borah, for example, would join in opposing the renomination of President Hoover. Norris of Nebraska might not do so.

One trouble with the progressive cause is that it must look in too many directions. Pinchot's hobby is the electric power business. Brookhart would insist on prohibition and farm relief. La Follette would prefer a wet candidate and a wet platform. Borah would have to harp on recognition of Soviet Russia. The multiplicity of dominant issues, as one or another of the progressives view the issues of the day, would put their efforts under a handicap from the start.

If they are going to put forward a candidate in 1932, Pinchot is probably the most available man they have. But he would be leading a forlorn hope.

FOUR VETOES

Governor Sterling finally brought his veto ax into action. Up to the time this is written, he has vetoed four bills. One would have provided for the licensing and inspection of cotton gins. Another would have given independent school districts the right of eminent domain. A third would have limited the say-so of the highway commissioner in routing highways through small towns. The fourth was the bill reimbursing West Texas farmers for cotton quarantine losses and East Texas farmers for tick quarantine expenses.

It is difficult to find fault with any of the vetoes. There is no good reason why anybody who wants to operate a cotton gin should have to run and ask the permission of someone at Austin. We are not clear as to why independent school districts should want the right to condemn property, but we can see the obvious dangers of extending them that right. The highway routing veto was prompted by the governor's first-hand knowledge of what the commission has to contend with, in that connection. The reimbursement bill combined one just and proper reimbursement with an unjust and improper one, and the governor could not approve one and disapprove the other, owing to the way in which the bill was drawn.

All four of the vetoes were justified. We hope that Governor Sterling will not sheathe the veto ax just yet; not while the motor truck bill remains on his desk.

THE LINDBERGHS' NEW ADVENTURE

The transpacific flight which Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh will undertake presents no difficulties, if you judge by the map alone. From the Alaskan peninsula across to the northeastern corner of Siberia is a shorter jump than some which Lindbergh made on his trip to Spanish America.

The map, however, doesn't begin to tell the whole story. For the coastal regions to be skirted by the flight are barren and, many of them, rocky. A forced landing at any of many places along the route would be almost as tragic as a descent into the ocean itself. North of Vancouver on the American side of the Pacific and north of Japan on the Asiatic side, there are countless opportunities for trouble for the flyer.

It will not be a pioneering trip, for it has been made before, notably by the army's round-the-world group. The Lindberghs' trip, if successfully accomplished, will serve to direct attention to the possibilities of closer communication with Asiatic countries via the northern route. Much must be done, however, before the numerous difficulties of that route can be overcome in such a way as to make commercial flying profitable, or even feasible. It will be an adventure, in all that the word implies, for a long time.

A Look at Public Words

By GLENN FRANK
President of University of Wisconsin and Former Editor of the Century Magazine
(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

I have been watching with care the progress of a study of public works with which I have some connection, and I list here some passing impressions.

Public construction is more seasonal than private construction.

The construction contracts of cities and states are usually let in the late winter and early spring and the work scheduled for completion in the early fall.

The curves established in the study I have been associated with show slowness of activity in the spring and early summer with the speeding up of activity in the later months of the year.

That is not at all necessary!

Better municipal management and state planning could straighten out this seasonal curve.

The record shows that this can be done. I have before me the curve on sewer construction in five cities. In three of these cities the curve shoots sharply upward from spring to fall. In two of these cities the "curve" is almost a straight line from one end of the year to the other.

I find that, as I write, public construction constitutes almost 40 per cent of the total construction work now under way throughout the nation.

Most of this public construction is municipal.

If, therefore, we could achieve sound advance planning through our municipal government we could control the problem of seasonal employment as far as some 40 per cent of constructional activity is concerned.

The federal government's construction projects are, in total, small as compared with the construction projects of our municipalities, and, aside from the construction of roads, the construction projects of the states are still smaller.

The urgent need of improvements often makes it very difficult for cities to hold back improvements in good times in order to pile up work for slack times.

And the difficulty of financing large projects in slack times makes it difficult to pull forward construction projects that would normally be undertaken one or three years hence.

But, by and large, there is more chance of progress by pulling work forward than by holding it back.

ROUGHLY SPEAKING

Oh, the submarine crew is on its way
To the Arctic's chilly clime;
To them my best respects I pay
For their gallantry sublime.

I'd like to heed their adventure's call,
A part in their feat to play,
But what with my job and the garden, and all,
It seems I can't get away.

This proposition of moving the Spudder franchise would probably meet with considerable support if they left it up to Fort Worth or Shreveport.

Texas Guinan shouldn't blame the French. That bunch of mayors is enough Americans for one country at one time.

Now Go on With the Story

This morning we are going to tell you the rest of the story about Sylvester and Mabel and our scheme for developing a breed of fish-catching snakes. We undertake the task reluctantly, for that experience still weighs heavily on our heart, after all these years. But our readers are entitled to the facts.

Our plans for the John Gould Fish-Catching Snake Co., Ltd., as set forth in the last instalment were coming along handsomely; perhaps we should say, swimmingly. The attachment of Sylvester and Mabel for each other was growing. At least, it seemed so to us, though we make no pretense of being a judge of the romantic propensities of snakes.

The first hint of the troubles in store for us came one day when, on our arrival at the creek, Sylvester alone responded to our summons. There was no sign of Mabel. We could not, of course, question Sylvester about her whereabouts, and our concern increased when we became aware that Sylvester had something on his mind. He was troubled. He did his work as usual, catching fish expertly, but his heart was not in it. It was a perfunctory performance, with the same total lack of enthusiasm that a banker manifests in renewing a note on which the principal hasn't been reduced.

Mabel did not appear the next day, or the next. We were about to reconcile ourself to the frustration of our plan, when, on the third day, she reappeared. Our pleasure at seeing her again was greatly lessened, however, when we noticed that she was not alone. There was a strange black-snake with her, a young, smart-appearing one. It was only too evident that they were already quite fond of each other. Sylvester had a rival!

The Rival

Mabel came gliding up, acting kind of coquettish and frolicsome. It was apparent that she wanted to show off her fish-catching talents before Adolph, that being the name we gave to the third snake. She was quite proud when we took hold of her tail and caught a big fish with her, but her pride turned to discomfiture and chagrin when Adolph adopted a disdainful air toward the performance. It was evident that the feat raised her not at all in his estimation.

Adolph acted as if he thought fish-catching was something not exactly nice. His attitude was superciliously disapproving. We got the impression that he would have raised a cynical eye-brow, if he had had any eye-brows to raise.

Well, you know how women are when they try to make a favorable impression on somebody, and fail. She was down-hearted, crest-fallen. She went on with her work, but without any spirit or pep. And after a while she and Adolph went away together.

And so things went, for several days. Sylvester was not the sort of snake to sit idly by and see another win Mabel's affections, without a struggle. Torn with jealousy though he was, he renewed his suit. At times Mabel would seem to have all of her former affection for him. At other times she would display so marked a fondness for Adolph as to almost break Sylvester's heart.

But as time went on it became evident that the steadier, sturdier qualities of Sylvester were counting in his favor, in the rivalry for Mabel's hand. Of course, we don't mean her hand, exactly, because she had no hand; the word is used in the poetical sense. She evidenced more and more regard for Sylvester, less and less for Adolph. We had reason to believe and hope that her affair with Adolph was just a little flirtation, just her female way of asserting her independence.

We began to dream anew of the consummation of our plans, to turn our thoughts again to the scheme we had formed.

Frustration

Meanwhile, there had been a prolonged dry spell. The creek ceased to flow, for lack of rain. The water stood in scattered pools in which the fish were so numerous that Sylvester and Mabel had no difficulty in catching all that we could use. The drouth continued and the water in the pools began to get very low. The fish began to die. The creek had become almost completely dry when the tragic day arrived.

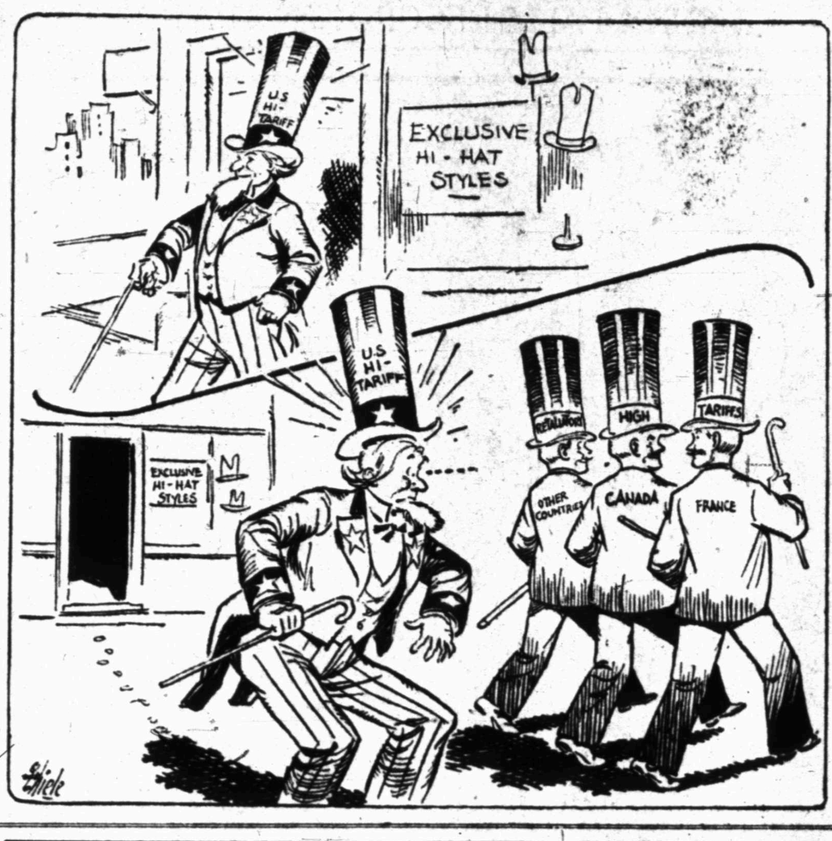

We reached the creek that day and was surprised when Adolph came gliding to meet us. Evidently he had been waiting for us. We glided away a few feet and then turned and looked back, as if wanting us to follow him. We divined his wish, and although we could not imagine what was on his mind, we allowed him to lead us on, up the creek to where one of the largest of the pools had been, but had now practically disappeared.

Oh, the unhappy folly of that day! Why did not we realize that one of Adolph's nature was not to be trusted? So often, since then, we have wondered why we didn't pick up a rock and bust his head with it. Well, life is like that. We walk carelessly into troubles from which we cannot walk back. If we had only known!

We had planned to tell the whole story this morning, to bring to a close this account of our strange experience. But we cannot go on. Some other day, perhaps, we will finish the story. But just now the memory is too poignant, too bitter.

If there were any movies of the arrival of the DO-X, probably they were of the slow motion variety.

"Sick" Gall Bladders

The gall bladder is attached to the liver, and acts as a small reservoir for bile which slowly flows into it from the liver, and then gradually the gall bladder feeds the bile drop by drop into the intestine. If too much bile is being manufactured by the liver the gall bladder will be overworked and often become inflamed or enlarged. The enlargement is really due to inflammation of the crystic duct which conveys the bile from the gall bladder to the intestine. When this biliary passage becomes inflamed the swelling of the membrane inhibits the flow of bile and, consequently, the gall bladder often enlarges. The bile retained in the gall bladder is then forced back into the liver. This brings on biliousness, headache, nausea, and sometimes jaundice, as the system must re-absorb the accumulated bile and throw it out through the kidneys or some other channel.

Inflammation of the gall bladder may exist with or without gall stones. The differential diagnosis between inflammation or catarrh of the gall bladder, and gall stones, is often quite difficult. The X-ray cannot always be depended upon to discover gall stones, and even the new Graham dye examination does not always show the difference between the inflammatory process and the formation of calcareous masses of stones.

The gall bladder that does not function properly, either because of gall stones or because of inflammation, can be a serious menace to one's health. Surgeons who are often not sure of their diagnosis recommend an operation for the removal of what they now like to term a "sick" gall bladder. That expression has grown to mean a gall bladder that does not function properly. Patients who have been ailing for years with enervation, depression, low blood pressure, slow pulse, biliousness and occasional jaundice are now more frequently advised to have their gall bladders removed, and the results that follow such operations are often remarkable. If the gall bladder is "sick" the entire system will be poisoned day after day by the retained bile. The gall bladder becomes a veritable cess-pool of poison, the removal of which marks a quick return to health.

My experience in my private practice has shown me that the largest majority of these cases can be cured by proper dieting. It is first a question of cleansing out the liver and gall bladder through fasting and a restricted diet, then teaching the patient how to correct his habits of living so that the gall bladder will not again become "sick."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Sinus Trouble

Question: Mrs. A. F. asks—"Will you please explain the cause and how you treat sinus trouble? After one has it once are they likely to have it again? How can you prevent it?"

Answer—Most sinus trouble is caused by a general catarrhal condition perhaps brought into an acute form through some bacterial invasion to the mucous membrane. It can be prevented and also cured almost entirely through following the proper diet. I have a special article on sinus trouble which I will be glad to send you if you will forward a large, self-addressed stamped envelope. In the meantime avoid all decidedly starchy foods as well as sugars and fats.

Bleeding Gums

Question: Mrs. H. M. R. writes—"Please tell me what causes my mouth, gums and tongue to bleed when I eat apples. Also, when eating grapes it is necessary to take out the seeds? I always swallow them and have no bad effects?"

Answer—You are undoubtedly suffering from pyorrhea or trench mouth and should see your dentist at once and have this condition corrected through local treatments. I advise using the entire grape, seeds and all, as this makes good roughage for the intestines.

Dizzy Spells

Question: Subscriber writes—"I have severe dizzy spells and pains in the back of my head. I have taken calomel and salts, but my tongue is badly coated. I am 48 years of age. Is it just old age creeping on me, or is there anything I can do to relieve my trouble?"

Answer—You are a comparatively young woman and should not feel any infirmities of age. It is unwise for me to attempt to diagnose your case through this column. What you need is not calomel and salts but a good diagnosis in order to find out the cause of your trouble. It may be due only to biliousness or a toxic condition of your system which can be easily cured through proper hygienic measures.

IN NEW YORK
with Gilbert Swan

NEW YORK.—The first time I saw Reri, she was sliding down a glass-smooth rock, over a waterfall and into a sparkling pool, framed by exotic South Sea vegetation.

With her were a dozen lovely Polynesian girls, whose skins seemed of suntan hue and whose eyes reflected the merry glisten of a tropical sun upon the waters. There were, in gay pursuit, a dozen native boys, who seemed as young gods of the faraway islands.

There was an infectious glamour about them; a poetic simplicity and naivete completely unspoiled by any contact with the peoples of an outside world.

It was, to be sure, all revealed in a motion picture, the name of which was "Tabu," for which I predicted a healthy fate—and it's running for its 14th week or so in New York at the moment. Sitting back in a theater seat, it allowed a moment's escape into the idyllic.

But, as the story unfolded, it appeared that Reri, most beautiful of her tribeswoman, had been promised as a gift to the gods. She had been pronounced "tabu," insofar as men were concerned. Only the old gods of her primitive people were to possess her.

So the Eden was soon resounding with overtones of tragedy. She defied the gods and ran off to other islands with the lad she loved, only to be haunted by the sinister shadow of an inevitable doom. The agents of the temples did not intend that she escape them. It was their mission in life to keep the island deities placated.

So the trail led to places where civilization had brought bars and dance halls and trading posts and all the rest. Barter and money and worldly lessons came to these charming children. The man she had loved died trying to recapture her.

The second time I saw Reri was just the other evening.

It was on the elaborate balcony of a New York theater. She was there in person. Downstairs it was possible to glimpse the illusion; upstairs was the reality.

And it seemed to me just a bit too bad that one could not end it, even as the lover in illusion.

Reri was surrounded by a murmuring crowd of New York girls in evening dresses and young men in tuxedoes. Waiters made a precarious way through the groups carrying trays loaded with punch.

Reri, speaking in perfect French—for hers was a French father—sat on a lounge of some soft-silken material, decorated with gilded trimmings of the Louis XIV period. She wore a sort of loose mother-hubbard, some distant relation of a kimono.

They told me that when she left the boat to come to the fold of Ziegfeld's glorified hula gals, she wore the latest French creations as though accustomed to them. And that when she arrived by train in New York she donned a grass skirt for the photographers, but that she appeared quite as much at home—if not more so—in the attire one meets on Fifth avenue. After all, Tahiti, from whence she came, gets its full share of tourists these days.

And on this evening, a press agent flitted about and whispered stories of the island of Bora Bora; and told how that very day she had been late for rehearsals because she was making her first airplane flight; and someone else whispered that she lived in a grand suite at a swanky hotel.

Meanwhile, Reri—whom the gods claimed—tapped cigarets against the palms of her hand like the best of the debutantes, and sipped at punch and chattered away in French.

And, old sentimentalist that I am, I wish they would leave the Reris in the idyllic picture scenes, and not carry the "tabu" beyond the end of the film.

What Could He Do?

HOUSTON.—The city police station tells the story of a Houston gambler who brought a strange problem in to be solved. He was playing stud poker and held four sevens. He thought he had the pot won, but when he went to rake it in, he found he had another stayer. Having no more money to bet, he journeyed across the town to borrow $500 from a friend, promising to pay $50 interest the next day. Returning, he bet the $500 to find his opponent held four eights. He asked police what he could do about it and they told him to "grin and bear it."

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—For the past several years of peace-time the war department has been bringing to the attention of various industries their wartime responsibilities and giving them estimates of the wartime demands of the army and navy on their plants.

Approximately "15,000 large facilities" have been surveyed, according to the army's war plans as submitted to the war policies commission. Definite tasks for emmergency have been assigned to each selected plant. In order not to upset national production more than necessary and to maintain normal commercial contracts on a reduced basis, such tasks do not involve more than 50 per cent of a plant's normal capacity.

Under the national defense act, the war department points out, the government can place compulsory orders with any factory and is empowered to requisition such plants as may refuse to accept them.

Plan Advisory Council

The war plans call for an "Advistory War Council" to assist the president in carrying on the conflict. Besides the secretaries of war and navy, this council would include a director of selective service, director of war industry, director of public relations and administrator of labor.

This is part of a general plan which, according to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff, is based on a great improvement on our 1917 position in that besides the skeletonized framework of a citizen army capable of rapidly absorbing the nation's man power, the army now maintains intimate contact with the industrial structure under a program which will enable American industry promptly to absorb our war requirements.

Delay in procurement of necessary munitions and supplies, guesswork about the amounts of supplies needed which results in wasteful overproduction and serious shortages, improper distribution of the war production load along with congestion and transportation facilities, inefficient use of resources, unco-ordinated purchases and unequal distributions of war burdens are some of the things which the war department, profiting from lessons of the last war, will seek to avoid in any big future conflict.

The army's shopping list included about 700,000 different items in the world war, but the so-called vitally essential list now comprises about 4,000 articles complete for issue.

Cut Down Competition

Instead of throwing open their procurement necessities to competitive bidding, the war and navy departments will base their procurement plans on allocation. Under this system plants are able to make some preparation for their tasks, prices can better be determined by negotiation and through definite assignments exact pre-arrangement for production of munitions can be obtained.

Many articles required in war are not ordinarily produced in this country, so the war department has assembled a great collection of complete drawings and specifications for delivery to manufacturers who would otherwise have no prior knowledge of applicable production methods. To develop this form of war preparation constant experimentation and actual production is in progress at government arsenals and laboratories. The war department now seeks money from congress for placing "educational orders" with factories, use of which would hasten production in any later emergency.

The army also has widespread plans to govern handling of raw materials in wartime, especially those not readily produced in this country.

Among its designs for reduction of wartime profiteering is an adjusted compensation contract, applicable to large construction programs and procurement of non-commercial items. Tentative cost schedules would be agreed upon which might be revised from time to time. The government would audit all accounts as they arose and pay all approved costs of performance, plus a rate of six per cent a year on the value of the plant involved in the contract.

Contractor Protected

If the company does the job at less than the revised estimate of costs the government pays him some added compensation. Hence, although the profit would be small the contractor is guaranteed against loss. If the cost exceeds the estimate the contractor's profit is reduced and there is no temptation to pad costs as there was with the old cost-plus system.

About 6,800 reserve officers will be needed in a major war to carry out the army-navy procurement program and to date some 2,300 have been selected from among experienced business men and commissioned.

The war department has no definite program for wartime price control, but it is on record as opposing "price-freezing" plans such as that proposed to the war policies commission by Bernard M. Baruch.

Twenty Years Ago Today

June 7, 1911

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Woodrow Wilson, approaching the end of a 9,000-mile swing around the country, spent Sunday in Washington. The New Jersey governor had a room in the New Willard hotel, overlooking the White House grounds. Some were pleased to regard the visit as a preliminary survey incident to a more permanent residence. Mr. Wilson said, however, that he had stopped in Washington because his family was not in Trenton and he desired to break the monotony of his homeward journey.

Try This Alibi

HOUSTON.—Judge Fowler in corporation court was offered an interesting case to solve. A man arrested in a speakeasy raid was brought before him and told to tell why he was in the "whisperiow." The man replied he had a violent headache and that he went into the booze palace to buy a pint. He explained that the pint wasn't for internal use, but to rub on his head. "Dismissed!" the judge said, hiding a smile behind his hand.

THE GREATEST SECRET OF THEM ALL

By Kathleen Norris

MRS. NORRIS

A very charming woman told me something most interesting about her own life, the other day. It was fascinating to me because, although I believe she felt it to be a unique experience, it is really an extremely common one.

At 24 she was a perfectly ordinary young woman. She had had a nice time in high school, and a rather exciting year after that, when she went about with a regular crowd, and felt popular and rushed and happy.

Then came lean years. She got a job, she held it nicely, she went to an occasional bridge or supper party, and to movies, and to church. The nice men that she knew were married; the others were dull. She was 21, 23—the time flew by. And she felt that somehow she was missing things—not really living, never going to live, felt that somehow she didn't know how to get out of the rut.

Suddenly, she knows not how or why, everything changed. Suddenly—she says in an hour, it was as if she saw the world with new eyes, or saw through another layer of the veils that rap away the truth from us, or awakened, or aroused. Something happened.

Instead of being merely a bored, dutiful, capable nonentity in an uninteresting office, she felt herself alive, important, different. She was dramatized; it became thrilling to her to be a young, healthy, good-looking woman, with a job, and with a city and books and restaurants and friends about her.

What happened, and whether it was to soul or body or mind, or all three, she says she can no more determine today than she could then.

MRS. NORRIS SAYS:

The heart has to be right, to be singing over the joy of little things, before the big ones come along. Joy never comes to the soured and discontented; happiness has to know that it can bloom in an atmosphere before it will enter it. The true, ecstatic sense of living that doesn't need a palace, and doesn't mind a slum, is no mere accident of meeting this person, or getting that job. It is the spirit within—actually the Holy Spirit—and only the Holy Spirit can give it. It is not of this earth.

Thousands of women have worked out of dissatisfied, restless girlhood into busy and beloved womanhood; thousands of souls find themselves every year.

Hardly knowing what we do, praying stupidly, letting opportunity after opportunity drift by us unnoticed, we still do manage to reach higher levels, as life goes on, and we look back at our old selves with wonderment.

The men and women about you are just like all the others in the world—sleep is sleep, food is food, friendship is friendship—in an insurance office, on the river steps of Benares, or in Buckingham palace. If you want happiness, service, love, work—look about you and take them. Don't go on hoping to break your leg, be carried into a millionaire's mansion, and captivate his oldest unmarried son.

The way to accomplish it? The way to reach that subtle soul philosophy that makes every weed an American Beauty rose, and every neighbor your friend in an eternal brotherhood?

The spirit can't seem to make much headway in a body habitually overloaded, sluggish, defective. Get well; know what complete, glorious, vigorous living is.

Then clean house mentally. Get rid, as far as you can, of fear and shyness and prejudices—don't think you don't like this person or that, don't imagine the world is unfriendly.

Think big thoughts, and read big books, and practice all the small kindnesses that come your way.

Health of body and soul, and kindness. These are the beginnings of the miracle that means girlhood and happy womanhood, motherhood, happiness that is hers by right.

Thousands of women have worked out of dissatisfied, restless girlhood into busy and beloved womanhood.

Every working girl—every young wife dragging about an isolated little dull apartment—knows in her heart that such a thing might happen. It would only take an opening door, in the office, to let romance and joy walk in. It would only mean one sentence from a discouraged, wearied husband, to start the magic to work.

Suppose that tomorrow morning that empty desk next to yours should be occupied by a keen-faced, quiet, ambitious young fellow whose friendliness, culture, charm would correspond to all your dreams!

Or suppose that your husband came home tomorrow night and said cautiously, "Now don't talk about this—yet. But if Brown drops out and old Foster doesn't get well, it's a doubled salary for us, and we go to England!"

How quickly, how generously every one of us would respond to such an opening—how our hearts would follow a lead like that!

But unfortunately the hearts have to begin it; fate takes its orders from them, rather than they from fate.

The heart has to be right, to be singing over the joy of little things, before the big ones come along. Joy never comes to the soured and discontented; happiness has to know that it can bloom in an atmosphere before it will enter it. The true, ecstatic sense of living that doesn't need a palace, and doesn't mind a slum, is no mere accident of meeting this person, or getting that job. It is the spirit within—actually the Holy Spirit—and only the Holy Spirit can give it. It is not of this earth.

The sudden descent of this Spirit upon the woman whose experience I mentioned in the beginning of this article, was rather unusual in that it was so abrupt, so unannounced. But it is a common enough experience otherwise. Thousands of women have worked out of dissatisfied, restless girlhood into busy and beloved womanhood; thousands of souls find themselves every year.

Hardly knowing what we do, praying stupidly, letting opportunity after opportunity drift by us unnoticed, we still do manage to reach higher levels, as life goes on, and we look back at our old selves with wonderment.

"How sulky and dull and self-centered I must have been," we think, in the happier thirties. "How stupid it was to have those headaches, and that constant heavy sense of having eaten too much, and that old jealousy and fear of being unpopular! How blind I was not to make mother and dad happier, when I had them—it would have been so easy, then."

And to many of us another awakening comes, to show us further that it was ourselves, and not our fates, that were to blame.

"You know who J. Throckmorton Smith is, don't you?" Some one will ask you in 1950.

"The great movie star, of course," you will say. Or, "the famous surgeon—the successful writer—the eminent scientist. Why do you ask?"

"Why, that's Joe Smith!"

"Joe Smith? You mean the boy with glasses, who used to bring us gingersnaps? That idiot?"

"That's the boy."

In other words, the men and women about you are just like all the others in the world—sleep is sleep, food is food, friendship is friendship—in an insurance office, on the river steps of Benares, or in Buckingham palace. If you want happiness, service, love, work—look about you and take them. Don't go on hoping to break your leg, be carried into a millionaire's mansion, and captivate his oldest unmarried son.

And the way to accomplish it? The way to reach that subtle soul philosophy that makes every weed an American Beauty rose, and every neighbor your friend in an eternal brotherhood?

There's a rule for that, too. It begins with a healthy body—the greatest Teacher of all was a doctor, too. The spirit can't seem to make headway in a body habitually over-loaded, sluggish, defective. Get well; know what complete, glorious, vigorous living is.

Then clean house mentally. Get rid, as far as you can, of fear and shyness and prejudices—don't think you don't like this person or that, don't imagine the world is unfriendly.

Think big thoughts, and read big books, and practice all the small kindnesses that come your way. A blind beggar man once told a friend of mine that a certain girl, on her way to the office, stopped to speak to him every day, told him what the day's headlines were. He said that sometimes she was the only person who spoke to him, all day long. It was a little thing, to her—it was as great as the miracle of the loaves and fishes, to him. "It makes my daughter laugh to have me telling her the news, at night," he said.

Health of body and soul, and kindness. These are the beginnings of the miracle that means happy womanhood.

The great fact was that it did happen—this mysterious and miraculous something, and from that instant she never knew dullness, depression, doubt, again.

She went home—this sudden inundation of light took place in the office—she went home glowing, took charge of the dinner-table conversation in a way that simply paralyzed her mother and father and her two younger brothers—somehow she couldn't be interested, animated, sympathetic enough, tonight. That same evening she looked up her old French books, rearranged the furniture in her room, and finally got into bed, with a good book, a good light, and a good conscience, simply thrilling with sheer joy of life.

From that moment the secret was hers. The next day everything looked different in the office, the human values were all changed; a certain dumbly, clumsily, helplessly devoted young man was no longer an object of cold ridicule, for one thing. She dizzied him by going to lunch with him, and found him not so bad. Three months later, with all the fun, confidence and glory that every right marriage adventure has, she married her dumb-bell, and they house-hunted in attics and old houses, and as time went by they had a boy baby, a girl baby, a job in Rio, success, happiness—they had, and have, everything.

But what happened? What started it? That's the problem not only of this girl of 15 years ago, but of hundreds of other girls today, girls who are following the regular course, not without certain compensations, like having enough clothes, enough to eat, occasional movies and plays, two weeks annual holiday—but yet fretted by a constant fear that they are not accomplishing their real destinies, not getting any nearer to their real goals, not living, somehow, in the real sense of the term.

What a June this would be for those girls, if each one of them could feel that that same mysterious experience might be hers, that she might awaken suddenly to vital, thrilled, successful living, and find the kingdom of love, wife-

ZOE BECKLEY'S CORNER

ZOE BECKLEY

No Love in the Picture

"Dear Zoe: I have been going 'steady' with a boy 21. I am 23, a widow with two children. He tells me he loves me but has not taken me to see his mother and says he cannot marry for five years at least. He takes me out a great deal, is very sensible for his years, says my age means nothing, and I do love him. There is an older man who wants to marry me. I like him but don't love him. What to do?—ANXIOUS."

I could spank you, honest I could. As if a woman of 23, a widow with a couple kids, wouldn't know enough of life, love and men to be perfectly aware no callow youth of 21 who "cannot marry for five years at least" and hasn't even presented her to Mother cares a hoot for her. He likes you well enough to take you places. But that's because any youngster enjoys being seen with an older woman. Makes him feel grown up and a man of the world!

Oh, foolish you—if you must hurry up and marry somebody again—to turn down a sensible, good man of suitable age because you fancy a half-baked youth who has more sex appeal!

I seem to be talking in exclamation points. That's because I get all churned up sometimes over women's foolishness. Only one thing makes me madder, and that's men's foolishness. Now be a sensible woman, my dcarie, and ask yourself how you are going to occupy your time for five years or so while the boy of 21 is getting ready to begin to turn around and make up his mind to prepare to think about marrying! It won't be you either, I'm thinking. Better for you that it won't.

Mother Needs Disciplining

"Dear Zoe—We have been married 15 years and have three children, a lovely home, and friends. My mother lost her money and home through a bad investment and has grown bitter. She divides her time between my married brother and me. Has a terrible habit which has grown on her for years, which she does not try to overcome. We cannot entertain on this account and it leads to quarrels between my husband and myself. If I speak to her about it I know she will say, 'Just another working against me, trying to make me unhappy.' Please help me. —LOVE OR DUTY."

Tell her about it and tell her quick. What right has any one to make others embarrassed and miserable by reason of childish, selfish behavior? If she were a helpless invalid much might be forgiven. But to be just a bitter, disagreeable woman who doesn't give a rap for any one but herself is inexcusable. Tell her privately about it and ask her to conduct herself as well-mannered people do. If she doesn't heed, make your rebuke more drastic next time. Remember you have a husband whose right it is to enjoy the home his labor provides, and children who can only learn by example. Ma seems not in any way a good example.

Philanderer

"Dear Zoe—I am a good wife, with three children and a neat, carefully kept home. My husband is vain and foolish beyond belief, not only neglecting me shamelessly (did not even come home the night my last baby was born) but flirting with girls he meets on the street as he drives around. Please advise me, Zoe. —EVA."

There are men of this type who are as hard to change as those addicted to drink. The male flirt is a bad proposition any way you take him. Something can be said as excuse for the man who falls under the spell of a grand passion. But the fellow who, although married to a good woman doing all she can to keep his love and respect, cruises the streets in search of raggle-taggie affairs is fundamentally flimsy. There seems nothing to do but leave him or "lump" him. Perhaps you could strike a sort of balance by accepting him merely as a breadwinner, and making it clear that in order to have you as a wife he must change his ways.

Social Duty

"Dear Zoe—I am very fond of a girl but cannot seem to say to her what I would like. I am not exactly bashful but am quiet and do not like to talk even at home. We are not thinking of marriage. —HANDICAPPED."

You can't overcome the tendency to dumbness without a real effort. And it will pay you to make it. To talk, at least well enough to be agreeable if not entertaining, is nothing less than a social duty. We cannot all learn to play the violin. But we can all learn to talk acceptably. It comes with practice.

Try talking about yourself—that's usually easy to us all. Tell your girl frankly that your inability to talk worries you and ask her to help you overcome it. She'll be only too glad. She'll start you off. That will lead to a chance for a compliment. Tell her she's a sweet kid and a good kid and a smart kid and the very cream in your coffee.

Object? Why?

"Dear Zoe—We love each other dearly but his parents object to his going with me and have sent him away from home. We still see each other. Should we marry against their wishes? I am 18; he 22.

It depends on why they object. There could be many valid reasons why you are unsuited to each other. Think the situation over impartially, for it may save you from unhappiness. There is more to marriage than love. Many things destroy love: Extreme poverty sometimes; religious differences that lead to quarrels and family dissension; temperamental kinks; lack of similar tastes; oh, heaps of things. Have you met his parents and discussed it with them? Not a bad idea.

Committee of Awards

Swimming Lessons

The first swimming instructions were given Friday morning at Westmoreland pool from 8 to 9 by Tom Beatty. About 30 girls and their guardians were present. Mr. Beatty started in from the beginning, teaching the girls the proper way to do the dead man's float, opening the eyes under water, the dead man's float paddling feet, then hands, then together, and the float on back. Several of the girls did not know how to swim at the start.

Miss McIlheran is away this week attending the national training course at Corsicana, Texas. She will return about Monday.

Ahsonzong Group

The Ahsonzong group met at the home of Mrs. W. J. Willis, 1624 McGregor, on Thursday. Gladys Young led the group in some songs, and Williard Young taught the girls how to tie square knots. Those present were Loucille Willis, Gladys Young, Pauline and Irene West, Fay Holland, and Mrs. Willis.

Several of the groups have decided to combine their weekly meetings with the city-wide activities of the summer. Among these are the Nowetompotimmin, Tanokiwin, and Mankilo groups. This partially accounts for the lack of group writeups for the week.

GERMAN MANIFESTO DEMANDS REVISION REPARATION PLAN

First Official Pronouncement of 'Failure of Young Plan'

PRESIDENTIAL DECREE REDUCES EXPENDITURES

Limit of Privations Which Can Be Imposed Reached Statement Says

By FREDERICK KUH
United Press Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, June 6.—The government's first official pronouncement that the Young plan must be revised was issued today.

A manifesto, supplementing President Paul Von Hindenburg's dictatorial decree drastically reducing government expenditures, declared the reparations can no longer be paid out of foreign loans, as heretofore.

The presidential decree provided that the reich's railways finance a gigantic project calling for the expenditure of 200,000,000 marks (about $50,000,000). It was estimated that this would help relieve unemployment, providing jobs for 120,000 persons.

The government will introduce a 44-hour week in its railway workshops. This was expected to offer employment to thousands.

Power to impose a 40-hour week in private industrial concerns also was provided in the momentous decree. However, the United Press understood the president does not intend to use this power at present.

The manifesto, regarded as one of the most vital documents issued since the close of the world war, pleaded for reduction of the reparations payments. A salient passage said:

"We have done our utmost to meet the obligations arising from the lost war. To this end, we also took extensive advantage of foreign help.

Limit to Privations

"This no longer is possible. Harnessing all our forces and reserves of the entire population gives the German government the right and obliges it to proclaim to the world 'the limit of the privations we can impose on our people has been reached'."

The manifesto said benefits which the Young plan had been expected to bring Germany had "failed to materialize." It said:

"The assumptions on which the Young plan was created have proved false, owing to world developments. The alleviations which the Young plan intended and promised to bring to the German people have failed to materialize.

"The government now is aware that the extremely menaced economic and financial position of the reich imperatively commands relief for Germany from the intolerable reparations burdens. The world's economic recovery also depends on this relief."

The manifesto was signed only by the ministry headed by Chancellor Heinrich Bruening. It was issued supplementing President Von Hindenburg's decree.

Workers and middle-class families were chiefly affected by the dictatorial decree.

The decree embodied a scheme for providing work for part of Germany's 4,000,000 jobless through creation of voluntary labor squads enlisted among youth and other organizations. Their tasks would include construction of roads and houses, including homes for themselves.

Tax Increases

Besides providing tax increases and measures of economy, the decree also contained a number of fundamental reforms.

First, to relieve the labor market through reduction of working hours and creation of a voluntary labor army.

Second, to facilitate free competition in view of all-round price reduction.

Third, to complete the government's efforts to protect agriculture.

The decree announced coercive measures against cartels and conventions tending to keep prices high. Thus the Ruhr coal syndicate arrangement will not be renewed. After two months individual coal producers will gain freedom.

Coal syndicates, to which all coal mines have been obliged to adhere, were among the most characteristic features of post-revolutionary economic policy. They grew out of the Socialist efforts to nationalize coal mines.

Non-renewal of the Ruhr syndicate was construed as a significant blow at collectivism.

The decree also announced a new campaign in favor of replacing wheat by home-grown rye, and other measures in favor of agriculture.

Provision for a "crisis tax" yielding 400,000,000 marks ($95,280,000) was considered the most important feature of the new taxation program.

CONOCO SALES EXECUTIVES HERE ON PROSPERITY TOUR

Five sales executives of Continental Oil company reached here Saturday on a prosperity tour that will cover 12,300 miles and will touch 31 states. The Ford tri-motor was piloted by Tip Schier, and the Curtis-Robin (inset) by O. M. Bounds, manager of Conoco's aviation sales department. Members of the prosperity tour, left to right, are Harry J. Kennedy, general sales manager; O. B. Lloyd and P. J. Ryan, assistant general sales managers; O. M. Bounds, and Frank Moore, special sales representative.

Realizing that business doesn't come to the merchant who cuts his advertising budget and then expects customers to beat a path to his door while he sits idly by in an over-stuffed chair, Continental Oil company sales executives arrived in Wichita Falls Saturday on an airplane prosperity tour that will cover 12,300 miles and touch 31 states.

Landing at Municipal airport at 10 a. m. in two airplanes, a Ford trimotor and a Curtiss-Robin monoplane, the Continental party included Harry J. Kennedy, general sales manager; O. B. Lloyd and P. J. Ryan, assistant general sales managers; Frank Moore, special sales representative; O. M. Bounds, manager of aviation sales; Tip Schier, pilot of the trimotor.

"One of the chief aims of this prosperity tour is to preach the gospel of advertising and intelligent sales effort," said Mr. Kennedy. "Advertising is accepted universally as a valuable sales aid under normal conditions, and if it is an aid then it certainly should be a vastly better one now.

"Continental Oil company is one national advertiser that has not reduced its advertising budget for 1931. Rather, we have increased our appropriation in the same measure that greater sales effort is necessary to cope with keener competitive conditions.

"Continental is one company that isn't 'licked' by this so-called depression," continued Kennedy. "As a matter of fact, our sales are showing a steady increase, and we'll never be willing to admit that we are even breathing hard until the newspapers will not print our advertising, and our sales staff refuses to believe in the value of advertising."

Mr. Kennedy said that Continental's sales in Texas have been very satisfactory, and that they are showing a gradual gain. Volume of sales so far this year have even exceeded the total of 1930 up to this time, he said.

The Continental prosperity tour arrived here from Duncan, Okla., and left Wichita Falls for New Orleans. The two airplanes, the Ford trimotor piloted by Tip Schier, and the Curtiss-Robin piloted by Mr. Bounds, left Ponca City, Okla., headquarters of Continental Oil company, Tuesday, June 2. The itinerary reaches from coast to coast, and will include most of the states along both the northern and southern boundaries of the United States. The trip will require about six weeks.

While in Wichita Falls the Continental party visited T. H. Lawson, Wichita Falls division manager, and his assistants, I. M. Campbell, C. L. Oden, L. E. Stiles and G. W. Brown.

Wickersham Commission Will Make Nine Reports on Law Enforcement Before Ending Its Work on July 1

WASHINGTON, June 6. (INS)—The Wickershaw law enforcement commission, nearing the end of its long trail, today is planning to place nine reports on crime and law enforcement before the nation in rapid-fire order.

Police graft, lawlessness of federal prohibition agents and the enormous cost of crime are among the subjects which will be discussed in detail by the commission.

The first of these reports, on prosecutions, is scheduled to be made public Monday. As the commission's life expires on July 1, other reports will either be published or approved by that time.

The commission, it was said authoritatively, is "through" with prohibition. No survey has been made to determine if states have complied with the commission's recommendation to strengthen local enforcement laws.

Chairman George W. Wickersham, for the commission, may generally review prohibition and the work of the commission on July 1, the prohibition question, in the opinion of the commission, is now in the lap of legislators, officials and the people.

The nine reports, including that on prosecutions, are: Crime and the foreign born, causes of crime, cost of crime, police, juvenile delinquency, penal institutions, probation and parole; lawlessness of government officials, and the courts of the nation.

Nearly 100 experts of the commission, it is said, have aided in preparing information on which the nine members will draft the reports. The commission will be in frequent session during the present month completing its work.

EXPLANATION OF LAST SUNDAY'S CARTOON — The Woeful Walls of Meknes: The Woeful Walls of Meknes encircle what is left of the most ambitious building scheme in North African history. Mulai Ismail of Morocco, who died in 1727, conceived this tremendous structure to house his 4,000 wives and hundreds of children. Fifty thousand white captives labored for 20 years in the construction of this edifice. The mortality was very high among these white slaves of dusky masters as a result of untold privations and indignities. Their dead bodies were forthwith immured in the structure, as their taskmasters believed that such an act would render the edifice indestructible. Meknes was the idea of a single man. The city was built and erected into the capital of the Moorish empire, under the driving power of Mulai Ismail, who populated it with the overflow of his harem. By right of descendance Meknes is the most royal city in the world. Marie Clashan Spoke a Language She Never Heard: The case of Marie Clashan Skotnicki of Warsaw, Poland, who overnight became possessed of the ancient Gaelic idiom, created quite a sensation in medical circles towards the middle of the 19th century. The child's only connection with this ancient language was the fact that she was descended on her father's side from a native of the Island of Lewis, in the Outer Hebrides, Scotland, who immigrated into Poland in the 18th century. For more than 110 years the language had been completely forgotten in Marie's family. According to Prof. Saligman there is no record of a similar manifestation of acute aphasia.

CALIFORNIAN KILLED IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT NEAR FORT STOCKTON

FORT STOCKTON, Texas, June 6. (AP)—Homer Leifeste, Los Angeles, was killed instantly today when the car in which he and his wife were en route to Austin collided with a truck on the old Spanish trail, 44 miles east of here.

Mrs. Leifeste was unhurt, as were occupants of the truck owned by a Sheffield ranchman. The car and the truck met on a small culvert the body of the truck sideswiping the automobile and almost severing Leifeste's head. His parents live in Austin. The body was brought here.

NINE MEMBERS OF OLD CHICAGO SANITARY BOARD INDICTED LAST MINUTE

CHICAGO, June 6. (AP)—Indictments against nine members of the old sanitary board of which Timothy J. Crowe was president charging the squandering of public funds were returned last night 10 minutes before the statute of limitations would have nullified the charges.

These replace the indictments dismissed by First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northrup. One of the 10, E. J. Kelly, chief engineer for the district and president of the South Park board, was not reindicted.

Besides Crowe, the others indicted were James Whalen, John K. Lawler, August W. Miller, J. J. Trouhy, Frank J. Link, John T. Miller, Martin Edelstein, and Timothy J. Connally.

TIMES BOOK REVIEW AND LITERARY LANTERN

THE LITERARY LANTERN

The Literary Lantern burns weekly in the Sunday Times and is intended to throw light on writing around and about the South. Communications for this column should be addressed to the Editor of the Literary Lantern.

This reviewer has picked a quarrel with many southern poets, charging them with a lack of stamina and a seeming reluctance to undertake tasks which require deep brooding, long application and sustained effort. Like Browning's minor poet, the southerner seemed all too ready to make pretty little verses: "Touch him ne'er so lightly, into song he broke." but very few contemporary poets hereabouts have attempted large-sized themes and longer forms. Lately, however, we have received several volumes—not so slender either—concerned with such subjects as the life of a great Confederate leader, or the searchings of a great scientist. Others discourse of the spiritual struggles of the thinker in the modern world, still others contain long narrative poems, old folk-tales resung. We turn to them with anticipation.

Only to find, of course, that a poet needs more than a big subject. His lack of gift is more apparent when it does not measure up to his theme. This is the case with Edna Davis Romig's "Marse Lee" (Dorrance, $1.50). On the other hand, James Whaler, who wrote "Green River" (Harcourt, Brace, $2) brought to the story of Rafinesques, the Italian-American scientist, an intensity of imagination which matches the passionate vision of his hero. The first part of the narnative is dramatic, recording the clash between the scientist's devotion to knowledge and his love for his beautiful and faithless wife. After his loss of her, Ravinesque sustained himself by explorations and study of new specimens of fish and flowers in America, wandering as far west as Kentucky. Since Mr. Whaler, now living and teaching in Maryland, is a student of science himself, one would have thought that the last part of the book would concern itself with Ravineseque as a scientist, and depict his tragic isolation because his theories were in many ways advanced beyond accepted scientific systems.

But instead of dealing with the ideas of Ravinesque, our poet takes him, in part two, on a spiritual pilgrimage in which from bitterness of personal feeling he arrives at a love for his fellow man. This conception of a scientist gone humanist would be poetic matter, but for some reason the poet seems to lose control of his story and is unable to achieve climax and suspense. He paints only confused visions among the stalactites of the great Kentucky Green River cave. He even blurs the scene in which Ravinesque, elated by the discovery of a cave unknown to man, lifts his voice in a shout only to jar down about his head the wealth of curious crystal cords and pillars with which the cave is lined. But the incident gives him a text for some of his finest lines:

"Unstable is out tenure, O my blood;
Partitioned from decay by walls so thin
That the cheap inadventure of a pin
May level us to lime and channel-mud!
And the world's beauty is a storm of dust
To hands that clutch it—" . . .

Kentucky Poems

"Lonesome Water" (Harper, $2) is the work of Roy Helton, and like his other poetry it is mostly out of Kentucky, which he knows and loves. The long narrative poems have the genuine quality of simplicity which we find in old folk tales and songs, and they are as redolent of Kentucky as a native spice bush:

"Clover at your feet
To mind you of the meadows,
Heartiest to smell to
Overtop your head;
Sinkfield and vilets
And prices' feathers,
And life everlastin
For the dreamin dead."

In his folk pieces Mr. Helton touches the lightness of "The Raggie, Taggie, Gypsies" and the grim, stark bitterness of "Edward." He has many words and in each one his thought is merged authentically. The reader senses an intense originality here. This is not true in all of his work. In some of his poems of modern trend, there is more than an influence of Whitman. In "My Land, Your Lover" and particularly in "This Moment Eternal" he seems consciously molding his thought in Whitmanesque style.

"Accepting reality, asking no better;
The complex intaker, struggling alone
To teach my dust the meaning of man.
Now, my excuse, my need, the thing triumphant,
The bold creation, the song of songs for me.
No future of this state, nor any states,
No taller towers tomorrow, no better land,
This now the best for me." . . .

Lindley Williams Hubbell voices something of the same thought in "The Tracing of a Portal" (Yale University Press, $1.25) but his style is certainly his own:

"Oh, run, run,
With intricate thews drawn taut and breath unbated,
Before the pitiful, brief term is done
And the tired lids are weighted."

His poetry, even to the slightest lyric, possesses distinction of thought and a clear fresh phrasing. We look forward to greater work to follow this volume and his earlier, "Dark Pavilion." . . .

Dialog Form

In "A Man of Earth" (The Poetry Society of Amherst college, $2) David Morton continues his singing way with undiminished vigor and sustained and lovely imagery. His new book is written in the form of a dialog between a man and his questioner who seeks to know how it is with the spirit of man, from what moments of wonder and worship or hate the soul has shaped itself.

The old form of the dramatic monolog is still popular. Abe Craddock Edmunds uses it in several of his "Poems" (The Little Book Shop, Lynchburg, Va.) His work is uneven and it lacks musical phrasing, but he has something to say, whether it is some meditations put through the mind of Shakespeare or Chaucer, or a very modern monolog as "A Young Man Passes a Lighted Church." Mr. Edmunds' work is new to us. We hope to see more of it.

Elizabeth Madox Roberts' publishers have collected an enlarged edition of her children's poems, "Under the Tree," (Viking Press, $2.50), a book which is being greeted by critics as an unusual addition to the small collection of real poetry for children. . . .

The English poet, John Drinkwater, has a slim sheaf of sketches of the civil war, called "American Vignettes, 1860-1865" (Houghton-Mifflin, $10), a beautifully printed book. . . .

Of the many volumes of minor verse we have not space to say much, and perhaps all that can be said has been said before. So far one volume is very much like the next and also like all the previous little brochures of seasons past. Our list today includes "Southern Melodies," by Gannie E. Hamilton (Christopher, Boston, $1.50); "Silhouettes of the Latin Quarter," by Virginia Church (Bozart, $1.50); "The Diamond of Marifa," by Carl B. Adams (Bozart, $2); "The Legend of Old St. Augustine, a Florida Idyll," by Burton H. Pugh (Homerian Publishing Co., Kansas City, $1.50); "By Way of the Sky," by Elizabeth Warren Jones (Dorrance, $1.50); "Flame in the Wind," by Grace Noll Crowell (Southwest Press, Dallas, Texas, $1.50); "Locoed and Other Poems," by Vaida Stewart Montgomery (Kaleidoscope, Dallas, Texas).

We would like to recommend two valuable poetry anthologies, both edited by negroes. The seventeenth annual issue of "Braithwaite's Anthology of Magazine Verse and Yearbook of American Poetry for 1929" (Sully, $4.00) is a useful handbook which becomes larger and more comprehensive each year. The work Mr. Braithwaite has done has been important, especially in the years when there were few poetry magazines. It would seem that just now a more critical selection might be needed.

Now appears a new revised edition of "The Book of American Negro Poetry," edited by James Weldon Johnson (Harcourt, Brace, $2.00), a discriminating collection which has been enlarged to include such recent poets as Countee Cullen and Langston Hughes. Mr. Johnson has what many leaders of his race lack, balance and self-criticism. We have no hesitation in recommending his book as the best of the negro poetry anthologies.

FAMOUS ORATORIO TO BE PRESENTED AT CATHEDRAL HOUR OF COLUMBIA CHAIN

The magnificent oratorio, Festival Te Deum in E flat, by Dudley Buck, has been selected by F. Channon Collings, director of the presentation, as the central point of the cathedral hour scheduled for broadcast over the WABC-Columbia network on Sunday, June 7, from 2 to 3 p. m., central standard time.

Dudley Buck, eminent organist as well as composer, is considered to have been one of America's most representative and influential contributors to church music. His solid workmanship and sympathetic imagination won for his works importance and popularity. His genuine feeling for a complete religious program has made his compositions a graceful addition to any musical service.

The presentation of this work by Buck will be interpreted by the solo voices of Adele Vass, soprano; Barbara Maurel, contralto; Earl Palmer, tenor; Crane Calder, bass; the cathedral choir and the symphony orchestra.

EUGENIC DEMOCRACY WITH VOTE LIMITED TO REAL INTELLIGENCE VISUALIZED AS FORWARD STEP

NEW YORK, June 6. (AP)—A eugenic democracy, with ballot so limited to real intelligence that even the wealthy and aristocratic might sometimes be disbarred, was visualized today at the 19th annual meeting of the eugenics research association at the American Museum of Natural History.

Prof. Harrison R. Hunt, of Michigan State college, Lansing, Mich., drew this picture in a talk on "Biological Defects in Democracy."

"The biological discoveries of a half century or more," he said, "have revealed that instead of all people being potentially equal at birth, certain human capacities vary enormously, and that such differences are often inherited, so that one might almost say that it is self-evident that men are created unequal."

This condition of unequality, he said, is a fact which must be faced, regardless of whether it arises from hereditary or environment. It must be taken into account in a "rational" attitude toward democratic government.

"Such government," he said, "can be greatly improved if the right to vote and hold office is limited to those persons of good mental capacity, public spirit, humanitarian enthusiasm and interest in governmental affairs.

"This would mean that most members of some families of ability would earn the privilege of voting and holding office in each generation, for as Galton showed, ability tends to run in families.

"It would be possible, however, for the introduction of inferior blood into a family line or the decadence of its public spirit to result in disqualification of persons in hitherto competent families. At the same time it would be possible for able men and women of humble origin to merit the franchise."

The BOOK SURVEY

By BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Writer

The Spanish-American war and most of its heroes are thoroughly and everlastingly debunked in "The Martial Spirit," by Walter Millis.

Mr. Millis believes that this war provides an excellent example of the way in which wars are made and waged. It was a small war, but it had everything. So far it has not been examined very critically. Rolling up his sleeves and suppressing a chuckle, Mr. Millis pitches in—and writes a grand book.

Citing chapter and verse for every assertion, he shows how the war was caused by yellow journalists and self-seeking or purblind politicians. He shows that Spain had actually surrendered every point at issue before war was declared. He reveals the magnificent incompetence of our "higher command" with humorous detail. He tells how it was that we started a war to "free Cuba" by attacking the Philippines, on the other side of the world. He explains how it happened that Theodore Roosevelt emerged from the war a national hero. He lets the reader see the rivalry between jealous army and navy officers in all its ugliness.

In brief, he puts the whole war under a microscope and reveals it for what it was; an unjustifiable bit of international piracy, undertaken by a nation which was thoroughly convinced that it acted from the loftiest of motives. One is convulsed with laughter by some of his pages; by others one is brought to the verge of angry tears.

I wish that this book could be made required reading for every high school history class in America. It would do a lot of good.

Houghton-Mifflin Co. is the publisher and the price is $4. The book is the June selection of the Literary guild.

Ironic Study of a Super-Babbitt

"When the Wicked Man . . ." by Ford Maddox Ford studies the declining years of a glorified Babbitt. One Notterdam, head of a large New York publishing house, has just reached the top of the heap, after an eventful and somewhat wayward life; and fate begins to deal him cards from the bottom of the deck.

In fact, everything seem to work backward for him. He does things that are either idiotic or scoundrelly and the results are excellent. He does things that are charitable and virtuous and the results are deplorable. He shoots at a phantasm seen in an attack of delirium tremens and comes to find that he has slain a notorious gangster, which makes him a national hero. He finds himself adrift in a crazy world.

Now all of this, as the story of one individual, does not amount to much. But Mr. Ford has a way of making his characters more than individuals. Notterdam, like Babbitt, is a type, and he comes to Babbitt's conclusion; that modern America is a fantastic place, and that the material success a man can win in it is not likely to be very satisfying. He is lonely and he is confused, and his loneliness and confusion measure the strange and incomprehensible mixture of cross-currents that make up American life.

"When the Wicked Man . . ." has a number of defects. Its melodrama fails to be uniformly convincing, and the book often sounds like what it is—an Englishman's story of American life. But its virtues outweigh its failings. When you finish it you have something to chew over.

It is published by Horace Liveright, Inc., and costs $2.50.

Tomlinson at His Best

I hope I need tell you no more about "Out of Soundings" than that it is by H. M. Tomlinson and that its price is $4. If you have ever read any of his stuff that is about all you'll need to know.

In this book Mr. Tomlinson returns to the form that seems to fit his talents best—the informal essay. Anything serves as a topic—the behavior of a pet owl, a chance encounter in the street, a chat in a railroad train with a group of strangers; Mr. Tomlinson can start anywhere and be knee-deep in lucid and beautiful prose two minutes later.

The book is pervaded by its author's deep pessimism concerning the current trend of civilization. Yet it is not a pessimistic book. Mr. Tomlinson judges things by standards other than those which the world ordinarily applies. He is bound to see most of the things that he cherishes the most destroyed. But he manages, somehow, to leave one with the feeling that in the end things will turn out better than there is any reason to hope for.

In short, this man is a writer to whom the word "great" can justly be applied. "Out of Soundings," published by Harper & Bros., is in his best vein.

For the Mystery Story Fan

You might be glad to know about these detective stories:

"The Second Shot," by Anthony Berkeley (Crime Club; $1). A guest is slain at a house party, and every other guest present had both motive and opportunity. Very well done; one of the best of the spring crop.

"The Monk's Hood Murders," by The Edingtons (Cosmopolitan Book Corporations; $2). A newspaper publisher dies, followed by the star police reporter and nobody knows just how it happened. Puzzling and well constructed. Do you know what monk's hood means?

"Death at Windward Hill," by Helen Joan Hultman (Fiction League; 50 cents). Who shot the old lady when she was dying of natural causes? And why did the doctor act so strangely? And what did the butler have up his sleeve? Easy to read and hard to solve.

"The Midnight Mail," by Henry Holt (Crime Club; $1). A lady gets throttled on an English train and a man is pitched overboard. There's a fine surprise in the last chapters. A slightly fantastic yarn, but diverting.

THE INTERLOPERS — By James J. Montague

When out of the house she came bilin' an' says: 'Alexander, what 'is that shootin'?'

Stopping at a gateway for a fresh supply of water for my car, which had just climbed a long winding hill, I saw a youth in overalls leaning on the rail and pensively chewing a straw.

"Water's right yonder under the tank," he said, in response to my request. You can hitch a hose to the tap if you want to. Save you a little trouble."

I replied that I had no present need of trouble, and proceeded to reload the radiator by means of a bucket which hung on a peg at the side of the windmill tower. The structure, I observed was fairly alive with birds, and hundreds more of them were circling around it.

"You must be great bird lovers around here," I said, when my job was done. Do you put out food to attract them?"

"Not me. I ain't a canydate for the asylum yet, an' nobody but a lunatic would try to bring them things to a place. What I'd like to do is get shut of them, but she won't have it. She wisht them on us accidental and she's too soft hearted to run them off, though I could do it in one mornin' with a double bar'led shotgun. I s'pose I get to put up with them as long as she's around, and bein' as she owns the place that'll be as long as I'm workin' here."

"What kind of birds are they?"

"Starlin's. Come here from England, I hear, and they're growing up with the country. When I come here we had robins an' thrushes an' blue birds, an' almost every kind of singin' ones. All gone now. These here greedy little devils run 'em off the first year, an' now you got to go five miles to hear a reg'lar bird song. That comes of bein' tender hearted, an' havin' the idea that it ain't right to fool with nature. I tell her that if people hadn't fooled with nature, an' made oxen an' hosses pull wagons an' plows, an' learned dogs to chase off bums, an' cows to stand still an' let you get their milk off 'em, humans wouldn't be doin' so well. But she's deaf to everything I say. I'm only hired help, an' ain't supposed to know nothin', though I been here since I was born.

"When she come here an' bought the place she took me on to do the outside work. Fust off she called me into the kitchen an' says: 'Alexander, I love the dear little birds, an' I'm goin' to have a sanctimony homes and stay here and look beautiful an' sing for us. I live in a city all my life where there ain't no birds, an' now I've got money I'm going to spend my remainin' years among 'em. You look like a wholesome country boy that loves wild creatures too, an' I know you'll help me to realize my dream.

Dream was what it was all right. As soon as the birds around here discovered that they wouldn't be chased by cats an' boys in our place they come in from all sides an' made the place their stampin' ground. It was pretty to hear 'em in the mornin' an' evenin' singing, an' pretty to see 'em flyin' around through the trees, an' splashin' in the baths we put out for 'em, an' eating up the grain that was scattered all over the ground. People all around heard about our sanctimony, an' they come in cars an' afoot, an' I woud lead 'em all over the place, makin' 'em keep quiet, an' they would see the birds on their nests an' come right close to them, an' say that this was a reg'lar garden of Eden.

"Well, accordin' to my readin' the garden of Eden was a sanctimony too, till the serpent busted in, an' these startlin's was the serpents around here. They began to show up about three years ago, comin' first a couple at a time, an' then a dozen in a bunch, squawkin' an' squeakin' an' fightin', an' always showin' up at meal time before any of the other birds, an' fightin' them off when they did come. We had orioles, an' thrashers, an' them scarlet tangerines, an' blue birds, an' every other kind of a bird that lives in these parts, an' the startlin's started in on 'em an' made life so miserable for 'em that they began to git out a few at a time till I see that pretty soon there wouldn't be none of 'em left it somethin' wasn't done about it.

"So I go down to my ole man's an' borrow me a shotgun an' one mornin' I put out a lot of extra feed an' when them starlin's come chatterin' down to breakfast I let go both bar'ls, an' lay about two dozen of 'em out cold. I was pretty tickled with what I'd done, an' was puttin' on a couple of more ca'tridges an' thinkin' how pleased she'd be when she seen the way I was protectin' her little pets when out of the house she come bilin' an' says: "Alenxander, what is that shootin'?" "I'm preservin' the birds, I says," p'intin' to bunch of starlin's on the ground.

"'Do you mean to say it was you who shot those defenceless creatures," she says.

"'Sure,' I told her. 'It was the only way to keep them from hoggin' all the grub an' starvin' the good birds to death.'"

"She picked up the gun, that I'd leaned against a tree, an' looked at it with a sort of a shudder.

"'Alexander,' she says, 'suppose I was to take this weapon an' shoot you through the heart with it?'

"'I don't suppose I'd be very tickled,' I says, feelin' kind of nervous, for I see how mad she was.

"'Well, I ain't goin' to do it,' she says, 'for you didn't know any better; but starlin's is birds just like other birds, an' neither you nor I has got any right to destroy them. If I ketch you bringin' firearms into this place again, you an' me must part company.'

"So that is all they was to that. Them starlin's just kept up their raid on the food, though they had fights with blue jays now an' then to git their share, an' by an' by they wasn't another breed of bird in the place. You can see what it looks like now, an' you can hear them creakin' in the trees like rusty grindstopes. An' me, I've got to put out grain for them every mornin', an' keep the cats from gettin' 'em, an' even bringin' in cotton for them to line their nests with. Every other sort of a bird has beat it, includin' the blue-jays. We got a swell starlin sanstimony, all right, an' it's growin' so fast that it's spreading through the country, an' everybody is complainin' that they ain't any birds on their farms no more. I could fix that up all right in about a hour, an' have the stuff to make a thousand pies out of besides, but she says that we must let Nature take its course. An' it's takin' it plenty."

PEEPING AT NEW BOOKS
Through the University of Texas
LITERARY KNOT-HOLE
By LORENA DRUMMOND

Sequel to "All Quiet . . ."

Remarque's new book is an account of the adventures of a group of soldiers who return to civil life after four years in the trenches. War has given rise to illusions about peace. The "Road Back" is a story of disillusionment. Life in post-war Germany has none of the richness and beauty of which these men have dreamed. They find readjustment painful. They have come back with a new set of values. There is an unbridged gulf between them and the men who have stayed at home. These ex-soldiers distrust patriotism and fine phrases. They find the old delusions still flourishing. It is impossible for them to fit in and take up their lives where they left off. One kills himself. Another is sent to prison for shooting his rival. Some turn materialistic. One, bowing to the disproportionate importance of food in a starving country, achieves an enviable ease by marrying the daughter of a prosperous horse-butcher. All finally look back on the war with a sort of nostalgia for the comradeship which they do not find in peace. The hero attains serenity in the end by a change of heart comparable to a religious conversion, the only unconvincing incident in the book.

The "Road Back" is written more in the manner of a diary than of a novel. The story is told in the first person and in the present tense. This method gives an impression of reality; but the narrative is rambling. The episode characters bob into the story without introduction and out of it again before they are ever alive for us. In many respects a realist, Remarque neglects the old realistic device of lending external authenticity to a character by description of his physical appearance. As a result very few of these tragic figures which Romarque depicts stand out as individuals. Yet the story is at times moving, at times, dramatic; and it is infused with a humor that is almost Rabelaisian. The book leaves a vivid impression, if not of the soldiers themselves, at least of their malaise and their loneliness in the society of men who have not had their grim experience.

Charming Love Story

This new book maintains well the standard of its author, who preceded it with "Stella Dallas." It is a charming romance, a story of Fabia Vale, daughter of one of Boston's oldest and most conservative families. The action takes place during her debut year.

Early in the season Fabia realizes, as she has realised all her life, that she is not one of the herd—that she is a white fawn. Yet because she is a Vale, she makes it her business to do what the herd expects of her. She is true to the Vale traditions but she is just as far superior to the others in her group as the young surgeon, Dan Regan, is superior in his.

From the moment one opens this book and reads the description of the Vale house (which is built just 10 miles from the Boston state house and all that it represents) until the last lines, which take place in London, one is absorbed with the life of the Vales. The writer treats her theme with dignity, sympathy, and understanding. Every action is in keeping with her characters. Even Fabia's and her mother's secret meetings with their lovers are not effected stealthily but quietly and merely off the beaten path as true asistocrats would.

Equally as interesting as Fabia's love story is her mother's. Olive Higgins Prouty has depicted in Lisa Vale a truly lovable character. The reader delights in the fineness and queenliness of everything she does; he especially appreciates the fine way in which she understands her "white fawn."

The problem of mixing classes when the classes are Boston's highest and Boston's middle class is well presented. A marriage between Fabia and Dan is shown as such an oil and water mingling problem. The story ends in the only reasonable way possible. Incidentally, it ends happily, too.

"White Fawn" is well written. I recommend it heartily to any one wishing to read a charming love story.

—By GLADYS WHITLEY.

A Milk Tonic

WINNIPEG.—James Shero does not go in for milk tonics for the hair as a rule, but he had one forcibly applied here recently when he attempted to get away with $7.50 worth of women's underthings from a store. A milkman saw him run from the store and hid in his wagon. As Shero ran past, the milkman applied the milk to his head—enclosed in a bottle. It halted Shero long enough for the police to catch him.

Exide Batteries Used on Sub for Polar Expedition

"Swiftly gliding through the water," said Mr. Woodall, local Exide dealer, "the Wilkins submarine Nautilus recently started on the first leg of the hazardous voyage to the north pole, powered by the giant 60-ton Exide battery with which the craft is equipped.
"To those of us whose acquaintance with storage batteries is limited to automobile and radio sizes," continued Mr. Woodall, "this massive Exide battery which will light, operate and propel the Nautilus while submerged, is almost unbelievable in size and capacity.
"One hundred and twenty cells, each well over five feet high and weighing almost half a ton have been installed in the craft. This big Exide battery is similar to the batteries used in most of the submarines in commission today. Think of the tremendous power necessary to propel this craft, 175 feet long and approximately 700 tons register. So powerful is this battery that it could supply the current requirements of nearly 3,000 automobiles and could furnish enough power to carry the entire electrical load of a small city. When submerged the Nautilus has a cruising range of about 120 miles at three knots an hour on one charge of the battery. The battery can be fully recharged in about six hours' time. Two 500 H. P. Diesel engines complete the propulsion equipment. Fuel tanks are of such capacity that on one tanking she has a range of over 5,000 miles."

Quite Disconcerting
NEW ORLEANS.—Senor Escoval arrived here from British Honduras with two boa constrictors for the city zoo. The senor stopped at a hotel and took his snakes up to his room with him. He fell asleep and the snakes, growing tired of their confinement, broke out of their cages and sallied forth to the hotel restaurant. Their guardian rescued them before excited diners could shoot them.

TELEVISION TO APPEAR SOON IN ENTIRELY DIFFERENT FORM

RADIO ENGINEER EXPERTS SAY

By WILLIAM E. HALLBERG
United Press Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO, June 6.—Television will burst upon the public one of these days in a form quite different from that foreseen as recently as a year ago, experts attending the Institute of Radio Engineers' convention predicted today.
Although not on the program, television was one of the most discussed topics among the 300 engineers, meeting to exchange laboratory secrets and disclose the developments which will be built into the radios of next year and the years to come.
Television enthusiasts found material for speculation in one of the reports before the institute. It was a paper by three prominent engineers, J. W. Conklin, J. L. Finch and C. W. Hansell, of the R. C. A. Communications, Inc., New York City.
They presented a simple method of making the balky, ultra-short waves behave. Used now only for experimental purposes, these are the waves around 10 meters which technicians believe will be the haven of practical television.
In providing the means for keeping ultra-short waves within bounds, accurately, less expensively and without sacrifice of power, the three engineers have bridged another gap in the transmission of television from laboratory to living room.
However, use of ultra-short waves will mean that television images won't be sent vast distances for public amusement, as sound is today. Instead, the sight broadcasts will be from stations that will be "locals" in range as well as in location.
Ultra-short waves have a range of about 25 miles. This means an ordinary television station would transmit signals no farther than the naked eye could see from its towers.
But television on such a basis would not be as cramped as sound brodcasting stations are. One ultra-short wave length may be used without interference by stations as close together as Baltimore and Washington, or Chicago and Milwaukee, an impossibility for sound broadcasters.

EQUALIZATION BOARD IS ABOUT THROUGH CHECKING COUNTY TAX RENDITIONS

Bids on providing funerals for pauper cases will be opened by the county commissioners at the regular weekly meeting of that court Monday.
The commissioners have nearly completed their work of going over the tax assessor's books as an equalization board. Notices are now being sent to property owners whose renditions have been raised and they are being notified to appear before the board if they wish to contest the raised renditions.

ENJOY FINE-CAR PERFORMANCE AT A REDUCED COST WITH THE NEW OAKLAND EIGHT . . . .

an outstanding General Motors value

To our list of Oakland owners this year have come many motorists who have driven other cars—some higher in price—some lower—some about the same. Their comments:

Said a man who had paid more: "I'm getting the kind of performance I've always insisted on. The motor does everything so easily. I find a feature I've enjoyed in my former cars—the Syncro-Mesh. It certainly simplifies gear-shifting. And I wouldn't have believed a car at such a reasonable price could be so well finished. No two ways about it—my Oakland is a good investment."

Said a man who formerly drove a cheap car: "Oakland gives me an entirely different kind of ride. For one thing, I feel as if a few dollars had smoothed away most of the bumps in the road!" (That comfort is due, partially, to deep springs, 4 shock absorbers, soft seat cushions, and rubber insulation at 41 points in the chassis.) "I'm even more pleased with Oakland's pick-up and speed. Talk about hills—this car doesn't ask for a running start. It walks right up, and that's what I call power!"

Said a man who had previously paid about the same price: "Oakland introduced me to motor car distinction that I thought was reserved for people with more money to spend. The Fisher body is a big advantage—seems so carefully built—sounds solid when you slam the doors, and shuts out heat and cold. The upholstery is my idea of real value, too. As for good looks, and a car you can be proud of, just ask my wife and daughter!"

Typical comments, these. We hear lots of them. But of course you have your own ideas. So, drive the car—give it a thorough test—just call any Oakland-Pontiac dealer.

Y., will conduct the series. It occupies the hour used in the winter by the national youth conference, directed by Dr. Daniel A. Poling.

Sacred and concert music during the friendly hour will be directed by George Shackley, pianist, with George Vause, organist; Chester Ewers and Willard Amison, tenors; John Waiman, baritone, and Harry Donaghy, bass.

The Sabbath reveries will start Sunday, June 7, 3 to 4 p. m., central standard time, over an NBC-WJZ network, again presenting the Rev. Charles L. Goodell, executive secretary of the commission on evangelism of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

Devotional music by Katherine Palmer, soprano; Paula Hemminghaus, contralto; Robert Harper, tenor, and Earl Waldo, bass; directed and assisted by George Shackley, pianist, and George Vause, organist, will be heard during the reveries.

The Sabbath reveries will be heard at the time occupied during the winter by the national vespers, conducted by Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick.

The national Sunday forum will present two speakers this season, opening Sunday, June 14, 8 to 3 p. m., central standard time, over an NBC-WEAF network. It replaces Dr. Cadman's hour, who will conclude his winter series on June 7.

The Rev. Ralph W. Sockman, president of the Federation of Churches, will conduct the first nine weeks of the forum, June 14 to Aug. 9, inclusive. The second half will be presided over by the Rev. Frederick H. Knubel, president of the United Lutheran Churches of America.

Sixteen singers and a concert orchestra directed by George Dilworth will present the devotional music for the forum hour.

The various series will occupy the hours and networks assigned at their opening.

The mid-week Federation hymn sing is presented every Thursday, 5 to 5:30 p. m., central standard time, through an NBC-WEAF network, which also carries morning devotions each week day, 6:15 to 6:30 a. m., central standard time.

ROSA PONSELLE IN SECOND BROADCAST ACROSS ATLANTIC

Playing the role of Violetta in "La Traviata," with which she achieved her greatest success in both London and New York last season, Rosa Ponselle, American-born soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company, will be heard across the Atlantic a second time Tuesday, June 9, when part of Verdi's opera is broadcast over the WABC-Columbia network, from 1:15 to 1:45 p. m., central standard time.

As in the case of Miss Ponselle's first transatlantic broadcast, in Verdi's "La Forza del Destino," on June 1, the performance will be on the stage of the Royal Opera house, Vovent garden, London. Tullio Serafin, of the Metropolitan, who made his London debut with "La Forza," will also conduct "La Traviata."

When she first sang the part of Violetta in ondon last year, Miss Ponselle was hailed by the critics for a portrayal unequalled since that by Christine Nilsson, with the possible exception of Nellie Melba's characterization. Melba herself was in the historic opera house, leading the applause when Miss Ponselle achieved her great success last year.

"La Traviata," literally translated, "The Frail One," is based on the play, "La Dame aux Camelias," of Alexandre Dumas the younger, which has been the basis of more than one opera and film, in addition to its popularity as a drama. Dino Borgioli will sing the tenor role of Alfredo Germont opposite Miss Ponselle, with Dennis Noble, English baritone, taking the part of Giorgio, his father.

Helen Nugent on Air

Helen Nugent, popular radio contralto, will pay her respects to a fellow-artist when she sings Kate Smith's original theme song, "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain," as a feature of the Paramount-Publix broadcast over the nation-wide WABC-Columbia network, Tuesday, June 9, at 8:30 p. m. Miss Nugent's other solo will be "Beautiful Love."

MARTHA ATTWOOD IS GUEST ARTIST SUNDAY PROGRAM

Martha Attwood, soprano prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera and also of the American Legion, has promised that when she sings "I Love a Little Cottage" over the NBC network Sunday evening, June 7, at 7:15 o'clock central standard time, her audience will almost be able to see the cottage and to understand why she loves it.

Miss Atwood is a daughter of the revolution by reason of two Massachusetts great-grandfathers who were with Washington's army. She has repeatedly been chosen by the American Legion as its special singer at national and international conventions and is likewise one of those revolutionary artists who insist that every song is a drama and that every listener should be made to understand the drama of each song. Born on Cape Cod and reared in the conservative atmosphere of a New England home, she became a musical revolutionary when she made her debut with the Boston Symphony orchestra, by adding her voice to the music of a string quartet, and startling the musical world with the result. A famous critic declared she added a fifth string to the quartet.

In her concert and operatic work Miss Attwood has consistently carried out her idea of singing the romance of music rather than just the notes. The result of this idea was that she was an instantaneous success when she first sang for broadcast purposes. Her program for June 7 includes a series of ballads of widely varying character, ending with one of the newest and most popular waltz-ballads, the now famous theme song of the German motion picture, "Two Hearts in Three Quarter Time."

OKLAHOMA GIRL GUEST ARTIST ON WEDNESDAY

Lee Morse has returned from an extended vacation with her folks in Allen, Okla., in time to appear as guest artist for the broadcast of Vitality Personalities over the WABC-Columbia network, Wednesday, June 10, at 8 p. m. She will sing two numbers, "It Must Be True" and "I Wanna Sing About You."

Freddie Rich will direct his 30 musicians in a medley of "rose" selections, including "Rose of Washington Square," "Lonesome Rose" and the ever-familiar "Roses of Picardy," as the orchestral feature of the broadcast. The Round Towners quartet will be heard in the vocal choruses.

KNICKERBOCKER TO BROADCAST ACROSS OCEAN

'RUSSIAN EXPERIMENT' SUBJECT FORMER TEXAN

Duchess of Atholl to Open Series of Three Talks Sunday

Russia's five-year plan will be the subject of a symposium of international broadcasts scheduled for successive Sundays aver the WABC-Columbia network, beginning June 7. Capitalism and communism will be represented by the Duchess of Atholl and Dimitri Bogomoloff respectively, speaking from London, and the series will be rounded out by an impartial summing up to be presented by Hubert R. Knickerbocker from Berlin.

Mr. Knickerbocker, who is a noted American foreign correspondent for eastern newspapers, is the brother of Mrs. J. A. Heyman, local artist, and the son of Dr. H. D. Knickerbocker, former pastor of the First Methodist church here. He visited his sister here last year and is well known to Wichita Falls people.

English Speaker

The Duchess of Atholl, who will speak for the Anglo-American system of individual effort in industry, is the most prominent woman in the British Conservative party. Wife of the only nobleman in Great Britain who is permitted to maintain a private army, she spent many years in social work in the district surrounding her Perthshire estate. During the war she was particularly active in organizing civilian services to aid the troops, and was commandant of the hospital into which Blair Castle was converted.

She became engaged in politics in 1920 and was elected member of the house of commons in 1923, becoming parliamentary secretary to the board of education whe nthe Baldwin administration came into office a year later, and held this position until the general election in 1929.

Russian Statesman

Presenting the opposite of the case, Dimitri Bogomoloff will be heard June 14, also from the London studios of the British Broadcasting corporation. As counsellor to the Russian embassy in London, he is intimately acquainted with all question arising between the two countries in regard to the propriety of Russian labor conditions, as well as the alleged dumping of Soviet goods resulting from what le generally believed to be a system of forced labor.

Recently awarded the Pulitzer prize for a brilliant series of articles on conditions in Russia, Hubert R. Knickerbocker, who will speak June 21 from Berlin, is the correspondent in the German capital of the New York Evening Post and other Curtis publications. At a time when Germany was one of the few European countries to recognize and maintain relations with the Soviet republics, Berlin was the distributing point for most of the information about the Communist regime which penetrated to America. Knickerbocker has supplemented his wide knowledge of Russia gained during this period by personal tours of the industrial and agricultural sections of European Russia.

Following is the schedule of the talks, all of which will be at 10:30 p. m., central standard time:

June 7—Duchess of Atholl, "Russia's Five-Year Plan."
June 14 — Dimitri Bogomoloff, "Labor in Russia."
June 21—Hubert R. Kickerbocker, "The Russian Experiment."

HISTORY YORKTOWN SUBJECT OF RADIO PROGRAM SUNDAY

The story of the Yorktown sesquicentennial—its historical significance, romantic portent, and elaborate program planned for the October celebration at Yorktown, will be included in the salute to Richmond, Sunday, June 7, at 7:45 central standard time.

The vivid story of Cornwallis' surrender to Washington in 1781, following the 17-day siege of Yorktown, which battle was conceded as the decisive blow at British control in America, will be retold in this broadcast over the NBC blue network and supplemental stations.

A feature of the sesquicentennial celebration to be observed at Yorktown, Oct. 16-19, will be the playing of "The World Turned Upside Down," which number was played by Cornwallis' band when the British marched out to surrender their arms 150 years ago.

This old English song is to be played by the ensemble on the night of June 7.

Other features of this radio broadcast will be the presenting of episodes of Virginia's romantic history, including vignettes on Capt. John Smith, William Byrd, Patrick Henry, John Marshall, Jefferson Davis, Robert E. Lee, the White House of the Confederacy and Battle Abbey.

Ryder Cup Matches Between English And American Golf Teams to Be Put On Air by Columbia Broadcast Chain

Play-by-play accounts of the Ryder cup golf matches in which eight leading American professionals will oppose eight British golfers at the Scioto Country club, Columbus, Ohio, will be broadcast exclusively over the WABC-Columbia network on June 26 and 27.

The broadcast on Friday, June 26, will take place from 3 to 4 p. m., central standard time, and on Saturday, June 27, from 2:30 to 3:30 p. m.

The American players will constitute a veteran team as far as Ryder cup competition is concerned. All of the six members already selected participated in the 1929 matches at Moortown, England. Four of them were members of the first Ryder cup team which defeated the British in 1927 in Worcester, Mass.

Captain Walter Hagen, Johnny Farrell, Gene Sarazen and Leo Diegel are the four of the six to have played in both matches. The youthful Horton Smith and Al Espinosa were both members of the 1929 team.

Two members to complete the team will be selected on Monday and Tuesday, June 22 and 23, in 72 holes of play. Those who will compete are Ed Dudley, winner of the Los Angeles open; John Golden, winner of the Agua Caliente open; Al Wartrous, William Burke, Densmore Shute, Olin Dutra, Charles Hilgerdorf, Henry Couci, Frank Walsh, Whiffy Cox, Joe Turnesa, William Klein and Craig Wood.

The British team is captained by Charles A. Whitcombe and will include Archie Compston, W. H. Davies, Herbert Charles Jolly, Abe Mitchell, Fred Robson and Ernest R. Whitcombe. George Duncan and Syd Easterbrook also have been named for the squad and one of them will be chosen for cup play.

Los Angeles Makes the Big League

By WILL ROGERS

All I know is just what I read in the Papers. Los Angeles, which has been in the Bush League as far as Racketeers are concerned is getting right up in fast company. We pulled off a double header of a murder here a couple of weeks ago that would do credit to a Chicago or any of the Big Timers. The Racketeers are mixed up with phases of the City Government just like a regular Class A City. The Killer walked away as usual.

In the old Wild West days, the Bandit had to back out shooting, and make his horse by the blaze of his guns. But nowadays the Robber or Killer or whatever his days work might be, why he does it all casually, just in the regular routine of things. If there is a Bank to rob, why he just saunters in, the only way he can possibly be noticed is that he will perhaps be dressed better than the Banker. (Cause money lending is having its tough times, too. They have to have something for security, and no one can think of anything outside of money to use for it, and as they have no money to put up for money, why there is little borrowing done.) Well the young man simply walks up with no mask, no western hat, no big forty five, just a little Automatic, which a Baby can shoot as well as Billy the Kid could, for all you do is point and keep the trigger pulled and you hit everything in the place, there is no possible way you can miss any part of anyone in the building, the more nervous you are the more you hit. If there be one thing that has increased crime its been the Automatic Pistol. Its made no practice necessary to be an outlaw. Give any young Egotist two shots of dope and an Automatic and he will hold up the Government Mint.

He goes in gets his money quicker than you can get it with a boni fide Check. Out he comes. His Partner has the Car Running, and away they go perhaps to their Country home or their Golf Club. The toughest part of robbing nowadays is to find somebody that has something. The minute a Robber gets a clue why the rest is easy. Now thats about the routine of the modern Robbery, and the Murder is about along the same routine, course its a little more expensive on account of having to use a little ammunition.

But the fellow thats hiring the fellow to do the job has to pay so much and ammunition. The fellow that kills you nowadays, why he dont have it in for you, he dont even know you. You are not even pointed out to him till just before he bumps you off. Thats all a business, done through an Agency, just like any other Agency. They can furnish killers for "Singles" or "Double Murders" or "Groups." You get a rate if you want several put out of commission. Its cheaper to have it all done at once. Its very little more trouble to shoot down a group, than it is one.

Oh we are living in progress. All of our boasted inventions, like the Auto and the Automatic, and our increased "Dope" output, terrible liquor, lost confidence in our Justice, Graft from top to bottom, all these have made it possible to commit anything you can think of and in about 80 per cent of the cases get away with it. He can get away quick in a Car. He cant miss with the gun he's got. If he is caught he knows it will be accidental. Then if he is caught, his connections with his gang will get him out, so its not a dangerous business after all, from the looks of it. But there is no use going on with whats happening out here in our Town cause the same thing is happening in yours, so I dont want to be like all these Californians and be accused of bragging.

But goodness sake we get enough crime without writing about it, so lets see what else we got. We sent a bunch of Mayors to France, nobody knows for what reason. I think it was at the invitation of France themselves, so they got nobody to blame but themselves. Our local Mayor from here of course you know at that time did himself proud, he won the approval of two of our local Pastors, and lost France, his Host. Thats one thing when we are foolish, we dont stop half way, we go the whole route.

Right now in Washington the main thing is Mr. Hoover trimming down the various departments. He did a fine job when he lopped off a lot of these old obsolete Army Posts. They are a sentimental obituary to the past, but let the States themselves keep them up. But you know I sure did always love the looks of those old Posts, they always seemed to be located in such pretty and well watered old places, most all built around a square, where the soldiers drilled. And of all the unattractive and out of the way places was these late war encampments, Yaphank, out in an end or part of Long Island that even an Aviator cant find. Nobody had ever been there before or since the war. Another over in Jersey, and all around. No late war Soldier ever wishes to go back where he trained, in fact they cant, nobody knows where it is now.

Say, speaking of Jersey, the other day out on our Movie lot I was working and come on the set was Mayor Hague, of Jersey City, you all know him, that is anybody that knows him, all Democrats. He is a big man in the Ex organization. I tried to get something out of him for I knew he was well loaded politically. He knows both Smith and Roosevelt mighty well and I was trying to find out who was going to run, or would they draw straws for it, or what, or would they get any little difference they might have settled up. Now he could have told me, but like anybody that knows anything he wouldent tell it. You know its people that dont know anything thats always telling it. Now I for instance will tell you anything you want to know, but if I knew anything about anything I wouldent tell you, so thats why I can tell you about everything. Course election is over a year away but they are commencing to send in their entry blanks. Its going to be a great election, with the twenty million unemployed voting against the twenty million that are. The slogan will be, "I believe every man should have a job, but not mine."

STARS TO SING GEMS FROM 'SONG OF FLAME' DURING REVERIES BILL

Helen Gilligan, soprano, and Milton Watson, tenor, will sing the leading roles in a presentation of musical gems from the operetta, "Song of the Flame," during the broadcast of Star Reveries over the Columbia network, Sunday, June 7, at 8:45 p. m. Mark Warnow will conduct the orchestra.

"Song of the Flame," which was produced first at the Hammerstein theater, New York, in 1925, was composed by Friml, who has created a number of popular scores. Its outstanding musical numbers and excerpts from the dialog will be heard.

MICROPHONE WILL VISIT RUM ROW IN UNIQUE BROADCAST

Tug Will Carry Sending Set Beyond 12-Mile Limit On June 9

ANNOUNCER TO DESCRIBE RUM-RUNNING ACTIVITIES

Captain of Smuggler May Be Interviewed for Radio Audience

The microphone will journey to rum row for the first time in radio history on Tuesday, June 9, when a party of broadcasters will plow their way to sea from New York harbor aboard a sea-going tug and describe for the loudspeakers of the nation just what goes on beyond the 12-mile limit.

The broadcast will be sponsored by Philco over the Columbia Broadcasting system network. It will be picked up from a short-wave sending station aboard the tug and relayed over the network at 9:30 p. m., eastern daylight saving time.

The tug will sail from New York harbor early Tuesday morning, with a complete sending station equipment installed and in working order. At an unnamed point in the Atlantic, approximately 40 or 50 miles off shore, efforts will be made to contact one of the vessels regularly located on rum row.

Ford Frick, noted news and sports announcer, will be at the microphone, and will describe all he sees. Unless seas are running too high or other circumstances intervene, a microphone will be run aboard the unidentified vessel and the captain interviewed.

There are many tales to be told of the mysterious ships that slip ghostlike along the American coast and Ford Frick, veteran radio reporter, can be counted on to give radio listeners of the nation a crackling eye-witness account from the heaving deck.

SYMPHONIC HOUR WILL FEATURE TOSCHA SEIDEL

The canzonetta and finale from Tschaikovsky's violin concerto, and his own arrangement of "Anitra's Dance," one of the incidental pieces written by Grieg for Ibsen's "Peer Gynt," will be played as violin solos by Toscha Seidel during the Symphonic Hour scheduled for 1 p. m., central standard time, Sunday, June 7, over the WABC-Columbia network.

Shakespeare's play is particularly well adapted to a musical setting and the music which Mendelssohn wrote at the request of the king of Prussia for the performance in 1843 has become so much an integral part of the drama that nowadays one never sees the play given without hearing some of Mendelssohn's music as well.

Other features of the program include a soprano solo by Muriel Kyle of Grieb's "I Love Thee," and a talk and poetry reading by Edgar A. Guess.

KING OF GOLF STILL NERVOUS IN BROADCAST

He can stand in the midst of a multitude, his every movement followed by thousands of eyes, and swing a club at a little white ball with a steadiness which no amount of spectators is able to diminish.

But once a week Bobby Jones, the king of golf, falls prey to a very human ailment—mike fright.

Every Wednesday, when he appears at the NBC studios to broadcast his golf chat with O. B. Keeler between 6 and 6:15 o'clock, central standard time, the unshakable golf fingers of Bobby begin to quiver.

"And it never gets any easier for him," Keeler, who is the intermediary in all Jones interviews, admits. "Letters we get declare that Bobby sounds so cool and poised that he doesn't seem to realize there is an audience listening in on our conversation about golf. That's because Bobby's a good actor. Actually, he's scared to death, and his hand trembles so hard that we have to paste his copy on cardboard, so it won't rustle audibly."

Strangely enough, Bobby's motion picture experience has been different from his radio one. The camera has never frightened him, from the very beginning of his work in the series of golf pictures he is finishing.

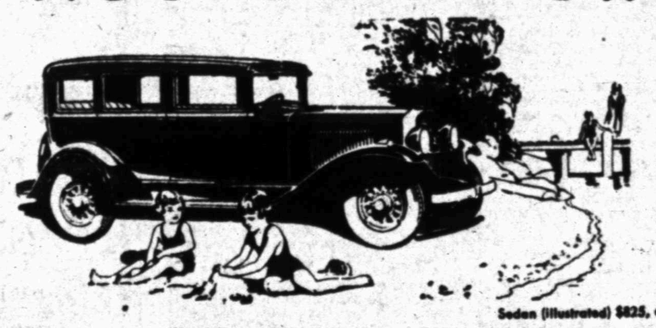

"The presence of the director, actors and spectators helps him in his pictures," Keeler explains. "Bobby has the power of concentration to a degree which nobody else I know can equal. To this concentration of his I lay his whole success as a golfer. He forgets watchers, everything except what he is doing.

"He has what is known as a remarkable screen personality, also. In spite of this he will not remain in pictures, however. The moment he completes his second series, he will go home to Atlanta, Ga., where he has a desk in the law offices of Jones, Evins, Powers and Jones."

MUSICAL SETTING OF SHAKESPEARE DRAMA WILL BE BROADCAST

The scherzo from "Midsummer Night's Dream," by Mendelssohn, will be played by the Detroit Symphony orchestra, Victor Kolar conducting, during the concert program to be broadcast at 7:30 p. m., central standard time, Sunday, June 7, over the WABC-Columbia network.

William Haines, often referred to as the champion wise-cracker of the screen, has his serious moments and can really act in addition to being a comedian, as the patrons of the Majestic have found out. In "Just a Gigolo," Haines is not the "smart-alex" type, as he is usually cast, but a serious young man in search of a mate and willing to sacrifice all for the girl he loves. He poses as a "gigolo" and learns many interesting facts about women. From the way Saturday's audiences laughed and sympathized with Haines, this screen comedy-romance will no doubt be classed as Haines' finest achievement for the talking screen.

Other units of entertainment include a comedy "Two A. M." with Tom Howard and a screen song, "And the Green Grass Grew All Around." The Majestic talking news completes the program.

"The Lawyer's Secret"

JOAN CRAWFORD FEATURED IN "LAUGHING SINNERS"

Joan Crawford is starred in "Laughing Sinners" now playing at the Strand. This is Miss Crawford's second straight dramatic role, her first having been "Paid" in which she scored an emotional triumph. This new picture is from an adaption of the famous "Torch Song" which was an outstanding hit on Broadway last season. Sharing leading man honors in this new feature with Joan are Neil Hamilton and Clark Gamble, the former playing the part of the traveling salesman, and the latter cast as the devoted Salvation Army sweetheart.

"Daddy Long Legs"

With the dream girl of millions of film fans, Janet Gaynor, and the distinguished Warner Baxter in the two finest roles of their screen careers as the spirited orphan and the lonely bachelor, a genuinely outstanding offering comes to the Strand next Friday in "Daddy Long Legs," a story that millions have laughed and wept over in book form.

The management heartily recommends "Daddy Long Legs" as one of the really great pictures in talking film history, and as ideal entertainment for every one.

"FIGHTING CARAVANS" AT GEM THEATER THREE DAYS

"Fighting Caravans," the thrilling and spectacular drama of the battling pioneers who beat new trails across the continent, is the attraction at the Gem Sunday for three days. Gary Cooper and Lily Damita head an exceptionally large and forceful cast of well-known screen favorites in this epic picture of the forefathers of the American west.

"Fighting Caravans" has been filmed on the same gigantic scale which made "The Covered Wagon" a never-to-be-forgotten screen presentation. The lives, the equipment, the characters, even the dangers and privations of those forward-pushing days have been reconstructed, and brought to life on the screen, in a breath-taking production that will make moving picture history.

HERE THIS WEEK

Joan Crawford in "Laughing Sinners," Strand feature through Thursday.

DEMONSTRATION OF CAPONIZING TO BE STAGED THURSDAY

In response to a number of requests from poultry raisers, County Agent G. C. McGown has arranged for a caponizing demonstration to be held next Thursday at 2 p. m. at the Central Feed and Seed store, Fifth and Indiana.

It is believed that by doing more caponizing, a much better market for this section's meat chickens can be obtained, and interest in this phase of poultry raising prompted Mr. McGown to arrange the demonstration.

PROPER SPACING AND PLANTING TIME AFFECT SORGHUMS

Experiments over a 10-year period in West and Northwest Texas and reported in bulletin No. 424, of the Texas agricultural experiment station, show that the grain sorghums, over 60,000,000 bushels of which are produced in Texas alone, can be grouped as to suckering habits and that the ability or inability of the particular variety to produce suckers regulates to a large extent the spacing required for the largest yields. Dwarf yellow milo, hegari, and feterita, according to these experiments, should be spaced on the average of 12 to 24 inches apart in the row, while the kafirs, belonging to the group which do not sucker freely, require closer spacing of six inches in the row. Since grain sorghum is not thinned to a stand like cotton, it is important to plant the seed at the rate that will give the largest yields.

That grain sorghum acre yields can be increased sometimes as much as 40 per cent by planting at the proper date is shown by 10 years experiments conducted at several of the experiment stations in central and western Texas and reported in bulletin No. 424. Dwarf yellow milo, hegari and feterita generally produced the highest yields of grain when planted in the middle of June at Lubbock, Spur, Big Spring and Dalhart. At Chillicothe and Temple, the highest grain yields have been obtained from planting in the middle of May, while at Beeville, farther south, the early April plantings have given the highest yields. Dwarf Blackhul kafir, according to these experiments, ought to be planted about a month earlier than dwarf yellow milo, feterita and hegari for the best grain yields in northwest Texas.

Late plantings of all varieties have given the largest yields and the best quality of forage.

This Is Very Nice

HONOLULU.—No ordinary water will do now to quench the thirst of members of the house of representatives here. They must have their fresh, cold pineapple juice. Phil S. Pell has made arrangements to install pineapple juice drinking fountains for thirsty members. The juice must be kept cold, however, for if it becomes warm, it ferments and is then only suitable for wet members of the house.

Cotton First in Farm Income, With Dairy Products Next, Wheat Sixth, Acording to U. S. Department Figures

Wheat ranks sixth in importance among farm products from the standpoint of cash income to farmers, rather than first, as many believe, and is exceeded by cotton, milk, hogs, cattle and calves and eggs and chickens, the department of agriculture stated May 29 in an analysis of the sources of the farmer's income. Sixteen products account for more than 1 per cent each of the farmer's income, the department said, cotton leading with 14.59 per cent and milk second with 14.52 per cent. The statement follows in full text:

The cash income from eggs and chickens, five-year 1925-29 average, was $813,445,000 or 8.13 per cent of the cash income from all farm commodities. The cash income from wheat averaged $790,129,000 or 7.89 per cent of the total.

Practically 60 per cent of farmers' cash income from agricultural products is received from cotton, milk, hogs, cattle, calves, eggs and chickens, according to compilations by the bureau of agricultural economics.

Cotton and milk vie for first place as cash income products, the income from cotton lint and seed being estimated by the bureau at $1,460,107,000 as an average for the five-year period 1925-29, or 14.59 per cent of the cash income from all farm commodities, and the cash income from milk at $1,453,646,000 or 14.52 per cent of the total. The five-year average total is computed at $10,008,450,000.

Hogs, which use most of the corn crop, rank third in importance of cash income, the five-year average being $1,292,353,000 or 12.91 per cent of the total. Cattle and calves are next with a cash income value of $1,006,142,000 or 10.05 per cent of the total, followed by eggs and chickens, and then wheat.

Corn, sold as grain, trucks crops, tobacco, wool, sheep and lambs, miscellaneous fruits and nuts, hay, forest products, apples, and oats range next in descending order of importance as cash income products. No other individual product contributes as much as 1 per cent to the total cash income.

Horses and mules may be strange animals to most urbanites, but horses and mules contribute nearly $25,000,000 a year to farmers' cash income. Some persons might place potatoes high on the list of income products, but actually the cash income from potatoes, on the average for the five-year period, was only 3.52 per cent of the total, or $290,329,000. Hogs yielded more cash income than cattle and calves combined, and tobacco—universal weed—only 2.61 per cent of the total, or $261,489,000.

Every Day Life of the Farmer's Wife

Well Folks! I have been threshing out turnip seed this morning, it was a terrible job, but now I have a quart of good turnip seed and I can plant as many times as I want this fall. You know the dread of little jobs like that is really worse than the work.

I am setting aside a part of all the different kinds of vegetables in my garden for seed. Of course, garden seed don't cost much if we have to plant only one time, but in this country, on dry land especially, we often have to plant several times before we get a stand and when we do it is mighty convenient to have your own seed. I am convinced that the day has come when the farmer will have to finance himself and it will be mighty nice to have a good supply of garden seed on hand next spring, and don't forget to save lots of flower seed so you can divide with every one you meet. In doing just that little, you make this world a more beautiful place in which to live.

Do you know the hot summer days are just around the corner. I realized that this morning, so I went to the field and found a low damp swag of very rich dirt, the early spring crop drowned out on it and I am going to call it my July and August garden and plant it now in June corn, peas, butter beans, okra and pumpkins. In August I will plant turnips, collards, fall Irish potatoes and all the other fall vegetables that should be planted in August. I am going to leave a few rows vacant in this garden so I can plant these fall vegetables. This ground will be plowed everytime we plant other vegetables, then when we are ready to plant in August the ground will be moist and will not be covered with weeds and insects. By this plan I hope to have fresh vegetables through the summer and fall.

Do you know that if you have a sow on your place and want her to farrow by October you should let her breed by the 10th of June. It will be mighty nice to have a few hogs to sell next spring when old man Hard Times comes knocking at your door. With plenty of this cheap wheat and othef feed and all the milk and green pasture they need, the pigs should be weighing 200 pounds by next April. Seven or eight hogs like that would help a lot in April or May.

Folks, I am "putting one over" on a lot of these garden insects. I had some old turkey hens, my earliest setters, that got smart and went to laying again when their little ones were three or four weeks old. I did not want to set them again on turkey eggs as I do not like late turkeys, so I used their eggs, and set each of them on 36 guinea eggs, and I keep one old turkey and her guinea family in my garden all the time to eat the bugs. They do not bother the vegetables at all. The other day I discovered the striped potato beetles on my potatoes so I put the old turkey and her family in the potato patch and the beetles soon disappeared. I hope to balance my meals this fall and winter with guinea served in various ways.

WICHITANS STUDY MARKET PLANS OF NEIGHBOR COUNTIES

Cantaloupe marketing methods as followed in Wise and Montague counties and watermelon marketing methods as followed in Parker county, were studied Thursday and Friday by a group which visited the counties mentioned.

J. N. Sherrill, chairman of the chamber of commerce agricultural committee, G. A. Remington and Paul Tyson of the Irrigation district and John Gould of The Times made the trip.

The Chico region is making plans for a big crop, which will start coming on the market late this month. A more extended account of the Wichitans' trip will appear next Sunday.

TENDENCY MODERN EDUCATION TO PROLONG INFANCY ATTACKED BY HARVARD UNIVERSITY HEAD

EXETER, N. H., June 6. (INS)—Modern educational methods in the United States from kindergarten to college, were criticised this afternoon by President A. Lawrence Lowell, of Harvard university, who declared that "one of the notable tendencies of American education is that of prolonged infancy."

Before a distinguished gathering of noted educators, prominent business men and professional men and women who joined with more than 2,000 graduates from all parts of the country to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the founding of Exeter academy President Lowell remarked that the methods in use today were perhaps "a revulsion from the Puritan habit of trying to force children to behave like adults."

"The child should not act like a babe; nor the grown man like a boy," said the Harvard president. "Yet in our education there seems to be a retardation that begins in the earliest years and runs right through.

"Kindergarten methods, which are appropriate to the age of 3 or 4 are often used at 5 or 6. In one of our cities children are not admitted to the public schols until 6; and many, if not most of them are sent to kindergarten.

"In the secondary schools we study what we should have finished earlier; in college we do what should have been done at school; in the graduate schools we work in a way that belongs to the college."

However, President Lowell said that the work of schools was becoming better; that within the past 40 years the average age of freshmen entering Harvard has decreased almost an entire year, but that the students now were "distinctly more mature intellectually and socially."

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

SAYS RACKETEERING CANNOT BE LAID TO PROHIBITION

Editor The Times:

There seems to be quite a shower of negations emanating from wet propagandists and their co-ordinate daily papers in some of the anti-prohibition strongholds of the country, with reference to some remarks made recently by Attorney General Mitchell concerning the precentage of profits gained by racketeers through illicit sale of liquor. Mr. Mitchell asserted that perhaps not more than 20 per cent of revenue gathered by gangsters, came from the latter source. He claims to have made this deduction through results of secret prosecutions by the federal government against many organized racketeers. This information surely must be very convincing, and has probably placed many who have claimed that the illicit liquor business is responsible for fabulous profits garnered by gangsters, in a rather inconsistent attitude.

Such dailies as the New York World-Telegram and the New York Evening Post fairly scoff at these assertions by the attorney general. But those dailies that believe in law enforcement and in the 18th amendment have been equally alert in declaring that Mr. Mitchell is "clearly right" in the premises. Wet propagandists must be sorely cornered when they begin to try to belie the integrity of such men as those who compose the president's cabinet. It may be pertinent to question the policies of such men, but it appears like very awkward behavior on the part of any person or publishing concern to question the sincerity of statements made on the basis of evidence gathered by such bureau. When we take into consideration where such daily papers as above mentioned are located, and the strong sentiment evinced against the 18th amendment in New York, to the extent that all state aid for enforcement of it was withdrawn there, it can be easily understood why those sheets take the statements of the attorney general concerning the percentage of the gangsters' profits so seriously, while trying to impugn them.

Wet propoganda is powerfully financed; their object being to bring about if possible, repeal of the 18th amendment and to re-establish the saloon, notwithstanding some of them would have us believe otherwise. Our law breaking troubles are not to be largely chargeable to the disregard of the 18th amendment. We remember how the awful crime wave began directly following the great war. Robberies of banks, payrolls and business places generally, proceeded until organized racketeers took up such work, adding kidnaping of members of wealthy families, to add to their gains. Our girls and women took up extreme modes of having their heads sheared and in dress, until the latter especially became a joke and ridicule over the world. We are pleased to note they have broken from these extremes and have come to a better sense of modesty that becomes ladyhood. The feminine sex has to some extent taken up the cigaret habit. To say that these enumerated violations of our laws and extreme habits are conditions due to the 18th amendment and the Volstead act is as extreme and absurd as the violations and habits. The wet followers would have us think otherwise. Propagandists are bending every energy possible to break down the morals of the temperance worker. We must stand firm and answer their unwarranted statements with facts and records of the day. Outstanding laymen such as Thomas A. Edison and Henry Ford subscribe to the fact that living conditions among the laboring classes are much better under the 18th amendment and the Volstead act than they previously were. They have stated they are something like 60 per cent better, and believe in furtherance of these laws.

The press has just given a report of Gov. Albert Ritchie's statement to the effect that a great burden of taxation would be lifted from the backs of labor if the prohibition question "was returned to where it belonged." The term "returned" means nothing else of course than the returning of the saloon, and we know the saloon is the greatest curse our country ever knew, and that is why men like Edison and Ford make such statements as above. It is the duty of all good citizens to encourage our officers who try to enforce our laws, to the extent of accepting places on juries of our courts, and to censure at the ballot all officers who prove to be in sympathy with the gangster and bootlegger. Mr. Mitchell also stated that criminal gangs commit 10 violations of state laws to one of federal statute.

The world seems to be more mad than ever for vanity, money and power. Such agencies as the automobile make it possible for successes of these wrongs. It must be gratifying to those who want law enforcement, to learn from such irreproachable authority as that of Attorney General Mitchell that not so much violation of our laws is chargeable to the illicit liquor traffic as many wet propagandists would have us believe.
