Clements Welcomes Teng

HOUSTON (AP)—Chinese Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping was greeted in Houston today by cold, blusterly weather and a somewhat warmer welcome from Gov. Bill Clements and a brass band playing, "Hey, Look Me Over."

"You are most welcomed to Texas," Clements told Teng, who arrived on a flight from Atlanta. "We have a great curiosity about China and we are glad you are here.

"We in Texas have a reputation for hospitality and after you visit us you will know this."

Clements presented the vice premier with a large basket filled with toys for the children of China.

The governor said, "these toys are from the frontier days of early Texas. Our children welcome you to Texas."

Teng, standing on a platform in a brisk wind, said he hoped to learn in Houston about oil production and "other of your industries."

About 100 peaceful demonstrators waited at the main gate of Ellington Field, the former air force base, and waved Republic of China flags.

After the airport ceremony, where he also was greeted by Houston Mayor Jim McConn, Teng went to view American space technology at the Johnson Space Center. Later he was to tour one of the world's largest drilling tool manufacturers.

He will attend a rodeo and barbecue in Simonton tonight and speak to editors and publishers Saturday.

No top city or state officials will accompany Teng's party on its Southeast Texas tour.

McConn has said he was "personally" concerned" that Houston was designated as one of two Chinese consulate offices alloted for the United States.

The mayor said, "We have been the sister of Taipei (capital of Taiwan) and we have a Chinese community of some numbers here, most of whom are related to Taiwan."

WHICH IS YOUR FAVORITE?--Good salespersons should know their product---that's the excuse these Girl Scouts have for tasting the cookies which they are selling, beginning at 4 p.m. today. Caught in the act of sampling the cookies are, from left, Robin Rodgers, Jenifer Farmer, Letha Baldwin, Lisa Lee Montez and Kim Baldwin. They have seven kinds of cookies, including two new ones, granola and sesame wheat crackers. Others are peanut butter sandwich, peanut butter patty, mint, sandwich cream and shortbread. Studying Statistics

WASHINGTON (AP)—Carter administration officials are examining the year's first employment figures for indications that the expected slowdown in the nation's economy is beginning.

The Labor Department was releasing the Janury employment figures today. Unemployment was 5.9 percent in December, up from 5.8 percent the month before, which had matched the previous four-year low. In December 1977, unemployment stood at 6.3 percent.

Suing Ford Motor Co.

AUSTIN (AP)—Survivors of a fiery rear-end Ford Pinto crash and relatives of two men who died in it have sued Ford Motor Co. and a local dealer in federal court for $4 million.

The five plaintiffs in the suit allege the 1972 car was defectively designed and this caused the deaths and injuries sustained in the Jan. 20 crash.

Blast In California

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP)—An explosion and fire in a commercial complex today destroyed half a city block, forcing evacuation of a nearby apartment house and injuring several people, one critically, authorities said.

One businessman was hospitalized in critical condition with second-degree burns.

Fire Capt. Tony Fink said five businesses were destroyed.

The explosion at 3:30 a.m. awakened firefighters in a station a block away, Fink said. "It literally rocked the men from their beds," he said.

The Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department bomb and arson squad was called out to investigate, but Hanson said the cause of the blast was unknown.

Presley Still Critical

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)-Doctors reported some improvement in the health of Vernon Presley this morning, but the 62-year-old father of the late Elvis Presley was still in critical condition with a heart ailment.

Mob In Iran Boos Carter

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)-Shouts of "Death to Carter!" rang out today as tens of thousands of Ayatullah Ruhollah Khomeini's followers surrounded the headquarters of the leader of Iran's revolution while he prayed and mapped political strategy.

The mob also chanted "Death to Huyser:" U.S. Gen. Robert Huyser, deputy commander of American forces in Europe, has been in Tehran for several weeks. U.S. sources say he is President Carter's liaison officer with the Iranian army.

Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar, meanwhile, told state radio he wants to meet with Khomeini for an "exchange of views" that could lead to a political solution of the Iranian crisis.

He proposed the meeting in an interview with state radio and did not elaborate. There was no immediate comment from the Khomeini camp.

Bakhtiar wanted to fly to France last week to meet with the Moslem religious leader, but Khomeini refused, saying Bakhtiar first must resign as prime minister of the "illegal" government appointed by Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

Karim Sanjaby, head of the political opposition to the government of Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar, met with Khomeini and said afterward that the tumultuous welcome home the ayatullah received was a "vote of confidence" in his plans for an Islamic republic and that Bakhtiar should resign "since he claims to be a strong believer in democracy."

"Thursday: I, Mr. Smith, have no sewing machine for sale. I smashed it. Don't call 958, as the phone has been taken out. I have not been carrying on with Mrs. Kelly. Until yesterday she was my housekeeper."

Says Clements...

State Budget Will Show Less Than 22% Increase

AUSTIN (AP)-Gov. Bill Clements says his proposed state budget for 1980-81 will show increased spending, but not as much as the 22 percent proposed by the Legislative Budget Board.

"In about two weeks I will submit my budget and I will show the differences in the two," Clements told a news conference Thursday. "The LBB budget is 22 percent over two years ago and I am not going to approve that. That's excessive.

"My budget will show an increase but 22 percent ...a 22 percent increase is not acceptable."

The LBB budget was drawn up by the Senate-House study group, headed by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, that traditionally gives the Legislature a basic spending measure to start the negotiations.

Hobby has called the LBB document a "bare bones" budget.

Clements said he was glad to hear that Hobby and Speaker Billy Clayton now want a presidential primary.

"Having said all that, I'm going to let these various people who have these

AFS Meeting Set Saturday

The Snyder Chapter of the American Field Service will hold its regular monthly meeting at 8 a.m. Saturday at the Spanish Inn.

Members of the Rotan AFS Chapter will be special guests and their foreign exchange student, Carsten Oogele from Denmark, will show slides of his country.

Anyone interested in the AFS program is invited to attend the "Dutch treat" breakfast meeting.

The local chapter is still seeking a host family for the 1979-80 school year. Any family interested is asked to contact David Robertson at 573-5416, or call Snyder High School at 573-5682.

Don Stacy Is School Candidate

Don Stacy, 214 35th St. has filed as a candidate for Place 2 on the Snyder Independent School District board of trustees.

Stacy, 36, a pumper for Texaco, is seeking the post to be vacated by Max von Roeder. He is the second candidate to file for that place on the board. Bill Seale filed Thursday morning as a place 2 candidate.

Vera McSpadden is seeking re-election to Place 1 on the school board, the only other place to be filled in this year's election.

Candidates may file for places on the ballot at the office of E.D. Flynn, board secretary, at the school administration building. The election is set for April 7 and candidates must file at least 30 days before the election.

Groundhog, Almanac In Disagreement

If there is a sharp-eyed groundhog lurking around the Snyder area, he probably saw his shadow this morning and possibly he will have an even better opportunity before the day is done.

But, according to the Old Farmer's Almanac, it won't make much difference anyway. Old Abe Weatherwise sees another month of cold weather in this area, followed by a warmer than usual March.

In fact, February is due to be much colder than usual, with temperatures 12 degrees below the average for the month, but March is expected to turn things around with an average reading of seven degrees above normal.

So, Snyder area residents can take their choice, the groundhog, or the almanac. Both have had their good years and their bad years.

Slaying Cases' Trial Date Set

Not guilty pleas were entered by Larry B. Williams and David Dell Rivera yesterday to charges of capital murder, murder, armed robbery, and burglary. The two men are alleged to have shot to death John Garcia during a robbery of Gibson's Discount Center Jan. 12.

They were arraigned Thursday afternoon in 132nd District Court before presiding judge Wayland G. Holt. Again, bond was denied.

Williams, 20, the alleged trigger man in the hold-up, is charged with capital murder-murder, and burglary. Rivera, 18, also known as Dale Rocha Rivera, is charged with capital murder and aggravated robbery. He is the one investigators allege demanded a sum of money from a store cashier.

All but one of the charges is connected to the murder-robbery last month. The one exception is the burglary charge filed against Williams.

That charge alleges he broke into Key Brothers' Implement Co. Jan. 7 and stole several knives. The knives were reportedly recovered during the murder investigation.

Cases against both men are tentatively scheduled for trial Feb. 19. What happens then, however, depends on what pre-trial motions are filed.

Williams is represented by attorney Tom Chorn. The court yesterday appointed Dan Cotton to represent Rivera.

Over $3,000 At Stake In Lucky Number Game

Starting today Snyder shoppers will have the opportunity to win over $3,000 in the next three months by playing the Lucky Number Game.

Shoppers will visit any of the 13 participating merchants and get a Lucky Number Sheet (red series) and then watch for matching numbers to appear somewhere in the Snyder Daily News. The numbers could be on the classified page, in an advertisement, in a picture cutline or just anywhere.

The person with the winning Lucky Number each day has until 5 p.m. the next business day to claim the prize at the SDN office.

The prize will be cash every other day and each time there is no winner the cash jackpot will increase in value.

In addition to the cash jackpot, watch for merchandist prizes. Prizes to be given away include portable radios, gift certificates, steak dinners, groceries and many others.

Each day the SDN will publish an advertisement stating the bonus prize or cash jackpot for the day's Lucky Number winner.

The limit is one Lucky Number Sheet per visit. Shoppers must be 18 years of age in order to receive a Lucky Number Sheet.

Participating merchants where Lucky Number Sheets are available are Perry's, M&M Electronics Sales and Service, J.C. Penney, Fenton's Dad & Lad, Anthony's, Tape Town, Snyder Drug, Snyder Book Store Gift Shop, Landes Home Furnishings, Roe's Furniture & Appliance, The Smorgasbord House, Bud's Office Supply and Western Auto.

seeds of bureaucracy

The lead paragraph in a story out of Washington read, "In a move to save taxpayers $3 billion a year, President Carter announced a plan to simplify eligibility requirements for welfare recipients."

Nothing in the story revealed that any programs were to be cut, but the indication was that three billion dollars could be saved through cutting red tape, reducing inefficiencies and obvious fraud.

If there is that much waste and fraud in the single area of welfare, just what might be found in the entire bureaucracy? Granted, the welfare agencies account for a lion's share of funds dispensed by the federal government; but $3 billion going down the drain for no purpose boggles the mind.

We doubt that fraud is the major source of the loss. We would guess that waste and the attempts to prevent fraud take up most of the loss to taxpayers.

Carter told a Health, Education and Welfare conference on fraud, abuse and error in federal programs that cutting red tape will make it easier for needy Americans to receive welfare and easier for government watchdogs to control waste. He ordered those concerned to "head a major effort to streamline the hundreds of complex eligibility requirements.

"We will move to simplify these procedures where it really counts; at the state and local level," Carter said. "Today, the welfare system of one state eats up three billion pieces of paper each year and a thousand different forms. A woman seeking aid in another state had to spend 300 hours in one year filling out paperwork documenting her need."

Georgia Gov. George Busbee said that the basic problem in government aid is not so much thievery by poor benefactors and white collar administrators of federal programs. "The great problem lies in layer upon layer of bureaucracy," he said.

The governor termed the federally supported student loan program as the worst of all complexities, saying, "The federal government now provides some form of financial support to seven different loan programs." He asked for more leeway for states in administering such programs.

Busbee's stand is well taken but it is not in the best interest of careerists in federal agencies. They thrive on duplication between agencies and overlapping activities within an agency. This is where the potential for growth in bureaucracy resides. The Congress sows the seeds for much of this overlapping by tacking amendments on bills for more functions. These amendments become law with little or no real support from the members of Congress.

clements and teng

Gov. Bill Clements added to his stature as a high public official when he announced that he would welcome Chinese leader Teng Hsiao-ping to Texas despite the fact that he disagreed with Teng's politics and philosophy.

Some of Clements' staunch supporters within his own party expressed dismay because the governor refused to ignore Teng's visit and boycott the activities in Houston.

Clements took the position that regardless of his political persuasion, Teng is a high official of another government who is a guest in the state.

There is some apprehension about this country's relations with Red China, but events so far indicate that these new ties might well be much more amiable and much more beneficial than our dealings with Soviet Russia. And, as we have said before, a nation which needs to expand its exports can hardly ignore 800 million people on the other side of the globe.

We doubt that many of the politicians opposed to the governor greeting Teng ever rejected the votes of those who differed with them philosophically and we doubt that many business men refuse to engage in commerce with people of different political leanings.

A lot of mothers I know are downright meddling when it comes to their children's selection of a boyfriend or a girlfriend.

They want to know how old, how tall, what their father does, where they live, the scope of their education, what their plans are for the future, and how they feel about children.

I don't care about any of those things. All I want to know is, "Is he or she a local call or a toll?"

I don't remember names or faces of old flames. All I remember is their area code. One of my sons once dated an area code 513 for six months. It was marriage by Ma Bell. I figured we were spending $35 a month to share such insights as:

"What are you doing?"

"Nothing, what are you doing?"

"I don't want to interrupt you if you're doing something."

"I told you I wasn't doing anything."

"You sure?"

"I'm sure."

"So, what's new?"

Another one of my kids showed an interest in a lovely girl who lived just a few miles from us. It was great. I didn't have to worry about a deep involvement because they were never off the phone. He set his alarm to call her in the morning. At night I used to go in and remove the phone from his ear as he slept. It was like hanging up an umbilical cord. As soon as they left one another at school in the afternoon they would shout, "I'll call you when I get home." I offered to feed him intravenously.

The suggestion by my husband was to put a timer by the phone with sand running through was ridiculous. However, I did slip a calendar under his door and circle the month.

Panic didn't set in until one day when I was standing near and saw him dial "1."

"Who are you calling?" I asked.

"You know," he said, "The same person I've been talking with for the last month."

"But I thought she was a local call."

"Don't worry," he said. "It only costs about eight cents a minute. Besides, this isn't just some silly kid infatuation. This is a person I genuinely care for and want to spend the rest of my life with. She's important to me. She's special and there isn't anything I wouldn't do for her."

"I'm glad to hear you say that," I said, "because according to the phone bill you owed us $36.86 in long distance charges."

I learned something that day. When toll charges enter the room...love goes right out the window.

WASHINGTON (NEA)— Buried in the massive new federal budget proposed by President Carter is unmistakable evidence of a profound shift in the search for energy resources to meet the nation's insatiable power requirements.

Nuclear fission, widely promoted for more than a quarter century as the most promising energy source for the future, now faces the prospect of dwindling federal financing at the same time it is falling into disfavor among utility companies.

Solar energy, which only a few years ago had virtually no support in either government or private industry, is rapidly emerging as a leading candidate to provide a sizeable portion of the country's power in the 21st century.

Perhaps the most dramatic evidence of those fast-changing priorities came from Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger, long one of this city's staunchest proponents of nuclear power, when he recently unveiled his department's 1980 budget to reporters and industry officials.

"As demands for (uranium) enrichment services have been reduced, we have been able to free up some $600 million, and that has enabled us to provide additional funding for other energy sources such as solar," said Schlesinger.

Enriched uranium, the principal fuel for commercial nuclear reactors, is produced by the federal government at three gaseous diffusion facilities (in Oak Ridge, Tenn.; Portsmouth, Ohio; and Paducah, Ky.) for sale to public utility firms.

But during the past five years, those utilities have placed new orders for only 37 commercial reactors while cancelling orders for 39 nuclear generating units.

The industry's stagnation was even more obvious last year. Only two new reactors were ordered throughout 1978, while 10 earlier orders were cancelled and construction of another 40 reactors was delayed for as long as two or three years in some cases.

Schlesinger is reliably reported to have originally requested $10.4 billion for his department in 1980. But the White House cut his budget to $8.4 billion, with nuclear-related spending sharply reduced.

As a result, the Department of Energy budget for nonmilitary work in nuclear fission has been cut from $1.17 billion this year to $1.08 billion next year. Moreover, $211 million of that total is earmarked not for development of new generating technology but for waste management and storage of spent fuel rods.

Compared with that reduction of almost 12 percent, the department's solar budget will increase almost 25 percent, from $559 million this year to $646 million next year.

Expenditures by other government departments will bring the total 1980 federal solar commitment up to $819 million - a figure that is far more than double the amount Carter proposed to spend on solar research and development only one year ago.

(The solar budget proposed by the White House was increased by Congress, and on "Sun Day" last year Carter disclosed that he had instructed Schlesinger to shift another $100 million from nuclear to solar activities.)

The recent developments clearly reflect the president's personal priorities. In his State of the Union speech, for example, he singled out solar energy as a potential source of power to which he was especially committed.

In the same address, Carter reiterated his concern about unchecked global proliferation of nuclear materials, a fear that led him to ban the reprocessing of spent fuel - a step the industry insists is crucial to the economic development of nuclear power.

Nuclear fission is neither being abandoned by the federal government nor being wholly supplanted by solar energy. "We must continue development of a variety of long-term options so we have a choice among these energy sources," says Eliot R. Cutler, a member of Carter's budget staff.

But the trend is unmistakable; There is growing disenchantment with nuclear power and surprising enthusiasm for solar energy.

beer battle

NEW YORK (AP)-In marketing circles, the figurative fistfight between Anheuser-Busch, the country's largest brewer, and Miller Brewing, the challenger, is considered one of the most direct slugfests ever.

Perhaps only out of a sense of what is proper, the leading citizens in any industry seldom fight it out in the town square. They settle for more subtle tactics, which leave the impression they are above it all.

But maybe the beer stakes are too high, because the two giants are swinging away at each other, and there's no question that each hopes to land a haymaker. That beer market is a lucrative one.

The United States has about 80 million beer drinkers, who consume more than 160 million barrels of brew in a year.

By 1985, a Wall Street research house believes, the number of beer drinkers will reach 89.4 million, their consumption 198.5 million barrels, or a per barrel average of 2.22, compared with 2.08 in 1977.

Any way you look at it, the market's a good one, and both Anheuser-Busch and Miller want a bigger share of it, even if they have to swing some heavy blows for it. Anheuser-Busch is the biggest. Miller is second.

One of the first encounters came when Miller, a subsidiary of Philip Morris, which also owns a cigarette company, began heavy promotions of its Lowenbrau beer, which many thought was imported.

They had good reason to so believe. The label looked the same, and the name Munich was prominent. But the product was made in the United States by Miller, which purchased rights from the German company.

Anheuser-Busch complained to the Federal Trade Commission that domestic Lowenbrau was not even the same beer as that which used to be sold under the imported Lowenbrau label.

Miller retaliated by announcing a new beverage, Gussie beer, presumably meant to irritate August Busch, III, the Anheuser-Busch chairman.

Anheuser-Busch publicized what it said were the natural ingredients and purity of its products, and disparaged additives Miller has been known to use.

Through its Lite Beer, Miller got the jump on Anheuser-Busch and other competitors for the low-calorie market.

But Anheuser-Busch entered the market with its Natural Light, a label that couldn't be overlooked by a nation increasingly conscious of ingredients. And then it emphasized the point by calling its new beer simply "Natural."

Anheuser-Busch called attention to other claims of purity.

It publicized its brown bottle as opposed to the clear glass used by Miller. "Brown bottles are beautiful, naturally," it advertised.

And ad claimed "a brown bottle can protect a beer that's made of all natural ingredients." If it weren't brown, light rays would damage the beer, it said.

Miller filed a complaint with the FTC this week to force Anheuser-Busch to halt this campaign, but that isn't likely to stop the battle.

my turn

by john dunnam

Charlie Eastman dropped by the office the other day with some information pertaining to the harshness of West Texas winters past. He said around 1900, he doesn't remember the exact date, J. Wright Mooar, the buffalo hunter, reported a temperature of 20 below zero. Then in the early 1900's he recalls a January night that plunged the thermometer to 6 below zero.

Eastman, who will be 91 soon, says he came to this part of the country 86 years ago. He came with his folks when this was still all open range, he said, and 160 acres could be had for the settling and additional acres could be bought at $1.50 a piece.

Eastman said he can remember when the only fence around was a drift fence, one that kept everything from blowing away. And water then, as it is now becoming again, was very precious and the cause of many violent disputes.

He said there was a terrible drought in the late 1800's.

"I heard tales of a man being able to walk across acres and acres of dead cattle without his feet ever touching the ground. Of course that was a little before my time. And just like you do now, you had to take them things you didn't see yourself with a grain of salt.

"There was also a story going around then that the drought got so bad that the Baptists and Church of Christs stopped dunking their new members and started sprinkling them like the Methodists do," he said chuckling.

Eastman said that when folks began fencing off the range cowboys would cut the wire by night as they drove their herds to the water.

"It was nigh impossible to catch them but they did pass a law deeming it illegal to carry a pair of wire cutters in your back pocket. And that law is still on the books today."

...remembers when

With range wars raging, farming in West Texas may have been a little wilder in those days but it certainly was not as complicated. Eastman does not understand why the farmers are going to Washington.

"It is the silliest thing I ever heard of," he said. Why if I ever had enough money to drive a tractor to Washington I wouldn't think I was going broke."

Eastman confines his farming efforts nowadays to a garden at his home 6 miles west of town, near where his dad homesteaded so many years ago. In December he was showing off an 8-pound turnip he coaxed out of the familiar dirt. Is gardening his secret to being active at 90? Well he also jumps rope everyday.

"I jump it 100 times every morning...sometimes I come to town and forget."

Slides Of European Tours To Be Shown

Bill Parlette is in Snyder to show slides of European tours planned for 1979. They will be shown this Saturday and Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in the Scurry County Coliseum. Enter through the north door.

While Parlette is in Snyder, he is a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wadleigh. He was their tour guide last summer through the Scandanavian countries. They found him an excellent tour guide and wanted the people of Snyder area to have the pleasure of touring with him in "a different way."

Parlette limits his tour groups to 25 so he can give more time in traveling and sight seeing. Many tours have over 200 people and he feels too much time is taken in serving meals, travel stops, and hotel entries. With fewer people in a group, traveling routes off the usual travel paths can be taken.

"The quaint, beautiful, and the most unusual places are often missed by travel groups because of the lack of knowledge of their existance, or the groups are too large for hotel accomodations," says Parlette.

On tours all the worries of travel are taken off vacationers shoulders and put into the hands of the tour guide, he added.

TOUR GROUPS FORMED-Bill Parlette, seated, is shown here aboard a ferry boat in Norway with several members of his 1978 European tour group. Parlette will show slides of tours Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 3-4, at 7:30 p.m. at the Scurry County Coliseum. While here he will be a guest in the Jim Wadleigh home.

Palette calls his tours travels of "a different way." The idea grew out of his experience as an incoming tourist agency operator arranging tours for the U.S. market, and as a tour escort. He likes to take his groups to view the way of life in the usual manner letting the group mingle as much as possible to study the customs, home life, history, religion, architecture, art, commerce, scenery, and eating habits of the foreign land. Each night there will be a luxury hotel with gourmet meals to retire to.

Following the slide presentations, Parlette will be available for travel questions. He has had the opportunity to travel Europe at will in the off-season four tourists which enables him to better plan his tours. Parlette is a resident of Copenhagen, Denmark, and Atlanta, Ga.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

In 1932, that bridge genius Ely Culbertson conceived the idea of using the four-notrump bid to find out about aces and the king of genuinely bid suits.

The convention had two weaknesses. 1) It was extremely complicated. 2) The four notrump bidder needed to hold either three aces or two aces and the king of a bid suit in order to bid four notrump.

North and South had no trouble getting to seven with this convention. Of course, South did not know how good North's trumps were. He did know he had the missing two aces since the five-notrump bid had shown this.

As you can see, the seven bid is a spade lay down. All declarer has to do is to play his ace and king of trumps and claim.

Unfortunately for South, a 1933 expert, the great Ely was defending against the grand slam reached by his disciples.

When South led his ace of spades at trick two Ely, who sat East, dropped the queen.

Now declarer abandoned the idea of leading a second trump and went after hearts with every intention of ruffing two of them in dummy. It didn't work. Ely overruffed with his 10 and the cinch grand slam had gone to Davy Jones' locker.

Ask the Experts

A Canadian reader asks how the Flint convention got its name.

That is an easy one. It was invented by British expert Jeremy Flint.

Steinberg Presents Program

Mrs. Frank Whistler hosted the Altrurian Club at the Martha Ann Woman's Club recently. Attending were 15 members and two guests, Mrs. Wilbur Mindel and Miss Maggie Boone.

Mrs. C.C. Miller, president, conducted the business meeting. She reminded the members of the MAWC bake sale to be held Feb. 10 and urged each member to donate baked goods. The club will make contributions to the Trudie Hataway fund.

The program, given by Mrs. Si Steinberg, consisted of the latest news, slides and commentary on Russia and the Scandinavian countries. Mr. and Mrs. Steinberg toured these countries last summer.

The group will meet Feb. 9 with Patricia Velez, AFS Student, presenting the program. Miss Evelyn Boone will serve as hostess.

Dear Abby

His Unsnug Rug Draws an Ugh

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: What would you do if you had a friend who wears a hairpiece that makes him look ridiculous?

The man I have in mind has a terrific personality and is happily married to a beautiful, intelligent woman.

He must care about his appearance or he wouldn't have bought a hairpiece in the first place. He can well afford the best, but instead he wears one that looks cheap, is too dark, too full, and doesn't fit. He looks laughable, but I like him so much that it bothers me.

Abby, what would you do if he were your friend?

ANONYMOUS, PLEASE

DEAR ANONYMOUS: I would assume that since he is married to an intelligent woman, if he looked ridiculous to HER, she would surely tell him. I'd curb my compulsion to "help" him, and would keep my well-meaning nose out of his ill-fitting hairpiece.

DEAR ABBY: My friend and I have a problem. We want to know how to attract guys.

If you're loud, they think you're a big mouth. If you're quiet, they don't notice you. If you tell a guy you like him, he says you're bugging him. If you don't tell him, how is he supposed to know?

Thanks for any help you can give us.

BEWILDERED IN BRENTWOOD

DEAR BEWILDERED: The secret is to get the guy interested in YOU. First, get him to talk about himself, his work and his hobbies. Feed him questions and he'll open up like a flower. The more he talks, the more convinced he'll become that you are the most interesting conversationalist he's ever met.

DEAR ABBY: Our 14-year-old daughter (I'll call her Meg) has been corresponding with an English pen pal for nearly a year. Derrick is 16. She found his name and address in a magazine.

Well, it seems that Meg told Derrick a lot of things in her letters that were not true. For example, that we were very wealthy, lived on a 3,000-acre ranch and kept horses, etc. Actually, we are far from rich and live in a three-bedroom home in a project in New Jersey. (By "we" I mean my husband and I, Meg and her two brothers, an older sister and Grandma.)

Derrick TELEPHONED Meg to tell her that he was coming to visit us! She broke down and told us, and of course we have no room for this English fellow. I am a nervous wreck and could cheerfully wring Meg's neck, but that won't solve anything.

How can we head off Derrick?

MEG'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Either telephone or cable Derrick and advise him to postpone his visit. Then have Meg write him a long, true-confessions type letter to set the record straight. And tell Meg that fantasies are lovely, but they're like dream castles—fun to build, but you can't live in them.

Do you hate to write letters of condolences, congratulations, and thanks. It's not difficult when you let Abby guide you in her booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

TORONTO (AP)—"Yves Gaucher: A 15-year Perspective 1963-1978" will be on display at the Art Gallery of Ontario March 17 through April 29.

According to the gallery, "The exhibition will be the most extensive showing to date of paintings and prints by this internationally known artist from Montreal."

CowBelles Push Beef

CowBelles are composed of women representing every segment of the beef industry and many related fields.

They work to promote the beef industry by providing accurate facts concerning the nutrition of beef, stressing the importance of the industry on the economy, and general education of the public about all parts of the production of beef.

CowBelles sponsor beef gift certificates, beef for Father's Day, Ag Day, Farm-City Week and enter educational booths at the fair, malls and supermarkets. Many pieces of educational material are distributed annually by the CowBelles.

Other activities performed by CowBelles includes sending letters and placing many phone calls to appropriate offices in Washington to assist in efforts to obtain better legislation for the beef industry.

The Tejas CowBelles are affiliated with state and national CowBelles. The local organization works closely with Texas and Southwestern Cattle Feeders Assn.

Anyone interested in becoming a CowBelle is invited to attend a Tejas CowBelle meeting. The group meets the second Tuesday of each month at 10 a.m. The next meeting will be at The Shack Feb. 13. They submit a recipe using beef which follows.

BEEF JERKY

Slice as thin as possible choice lean beef (such as round steak).

To slice beef, meat should be partially frozen and sliced with the grain.

Salt and pepper each slice.

Place in a large container in layers, refrigerate overnight.

Blanch each slice in boiling salted water about 15 seconds.

Drain on paper towel.

Place on cookie sheet and bake at the lowest temperature for 6 to 8 hours with door ajar. Turn strips each hour.

Store in airtight container.

China's New Status Means Big Business For Texas Oil Firms

By MAX B. SKELTON
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP)—Untold millions of dollars in Chinese contracts with Houston firms preceded Vice Premier Hsiao-ping's visit today to this sprawling petroleum center.

Chinese delegations and Houston oilmen have been shuttling back and forth between Peking and Houston since the Shanghai Communique that followed President Nixon's 1972 visit to China.

There is every indication the shuttling will increase sharply with the normalization of diplomatic relations between China and the United States.

The president of the Petroleum Corp. of China is to head a delegation to the United States, possibly within a month, and National Council for U.S.-China Trade officials have said the trip will be "Houston oriented."

China is interested in petroleum and petrochemical equipment and technology and the Houston-Peking trade discussions have intensified since Chairman Hua Kuo-feng announced in 1977 a 10-year national modernization plan. Hua's program includes the development of a minimum of 10 major oil fields to meet increasing domestic and export demands.

China's petroleum reserves have been estimated at 2 to 25 billion barrels but its production approximates only 1.8 million barrels a day. By comparison, United States reserves exceed 19 billion but its production last year averaged 8.7 million barrels a day.

While most of the Houston-Peking negotiations have been of a hush-hush nature, contracts already announced run into the hundreds of millions.

Last month, National Supply Co. announced that contracts with China had exceeded $45 million, including seven offshore drilling rigs, three of which have already been delivered. Marathon Manufacturing Co. announced last July contracts for two offshore jackup drilling rigs.

The largest announced contracts so far belong to Pullman Kellogg. A $200 million package for eight petrochemical package for eight petrochemical plants enabled Pullman Kellog to become the first American firm to receive process facility contracts after the Shanghai Communique. Six of the plants, erected by the Chinese, already are in operation. In December, similar contracts added another $50 million.

Not all the contracts, however, are for hardware and technology.

Coastal States Gas Corp. is the first company to import Chinese crude oil into the United States and announced Thursday it will become the first to import Chinese oil products.

As the first 750,000 barrels under a 3.6 million barrel low sulphur crude oil purchase contract were arriving in California, Coastal States said the first of seven shipments of fuel oil is expected to arrive late this month.

J. Ray Pace, president of Baker World Trade, a Houston firm representing about 30 companies, has made about two dozen trips to Peking since the Nixon visit.

Texas Delegation Strengthens Grip

WASHINGTON (AP)- Rep Bob Eckhardt's appointment as chairman of the powerful House Interstate and Foreign Commerce oversight and investigation subcommittee, strengthens the grip of the Texas delegation, which had been weakened by retirements this year.

The Democratic committee picked Eckhardt over Rep. John W. Murphy of New York, who has four years' senority.

Eckhardt, a Houston Democrat, is beginning his seventh House term.

Texas lost 196 years of combined seniority - plus two committee chairmanships - because of retirements last year.

Texas Farmers Prepare To Invade Washington

By MILLER BONNER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Texas farmers were camped around the nation's capital this morning, preparing for a diesel-powered assault on Congress and the Carter Administration.

With more than 500 monstrous tractors spread over three Virginia campsites, the American Agriculture movement members said they will wait until Monday morning before wreaking havoc with the commuter-congested Washington throughfares.

"Unless somebody get itchy feet and decides he wants to be the first one in, we'll all go on Monday," said Gerald McCathern, a Hereford farmer and the AAM's national tractorcade wagonmaster.

Today, McCathern and other AAM leaders will be visiting congressmen on Capitol Hill trying to raise support for full implementation of the current farm bill. Such a move would raise goverment-set price and lean levels for practically every crop.

"It's been kinda like a Boy Scout camping trip," said E.G. Reed, a Quitaque cotton-peanut farmer upon completing the 1,900-mile trek from West Texas to a virginia state park about 20 miles south of Washington. "We didn't have any trouble at all oh, I got my AAM flag stolen off my tractor and that made me mad as hell but generally the closer we got to Washington, the nicer the people treated us."

Recently enacted regulations by the Capitol Hill Police involving the use of tractors and the release of farm animals on the capitol grounds brought standard reactions from the farmers.

"We didn't come here to obey all the laws anyway," said Hershel Wilson, another West Texas farmer.

"I don't see how they can keep us out of town," said Reed. "The only vehicle I have to drive up here is my tractor and if I don't drive it I have to bum a ride to town."

"Unless somebody wnts to drive a tractor into the Senate chambers, the rules won't bother us at all," said McCathern who jokingly added, "We went over to the national zoo today to see if they would rent us a few exotic animals."

Leaning against a recreational vehicle to shield hgimself from the blustery, freezing winds sweeping across Pohick regional park, Reed said his trip has been worthwhile regardless of whether any farmer demands are met.

The 30-degree temperatures and gusty 40-mile-perhour winds reminded Reed of West Texas.

"All we need now is a sand storm an we'd feel right at home."

Reed said he and two other Quitaque farmers were given "about $3,000 from the folks back home" to cover expenses.

"We counted it all up last night and we still have more than $1,000 left," Reed said. He noted his tractor had averageed nine miles per gallon and added 128 hours running time on the trip.

"That's less than a week's work in the fields," he said.

2 Granted Probation

Two probations were granted on guilty pleas entered Thursday afternoon in 132nd District Court.

Entering the pleas were Billy Clifford Voss and Barbara Baker. Voss was charged with possession of a controlled substance based on a Dec. 29 arrest made by city police. Ms. Baker was charged with theft in what investigating sheriff's deputies allege was a check writing scheme conducted several days before Christmas.

Voss received a three-year prison term, probated for three years, and fined $1,000. Ms. Baker was handed a two-year prison term, probated for two years, fined $500, and ordered to pay $210 in restitution.

Try the best tranquilizer

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm writing to ask if you can help me. My doctor of 30 years has been giving me Valium for the past eight years. I have taken it in good faith not knowing one could become addicted to it, thinking I could stop without any adverse effects. I take 5 milligrams in the morning and at night.

Last week I decided I would stop taking this drug. But after viewing a TV program, I was very upset with all the accounts that taking this drug will cause withdrawal symptoms and that a person could have convulsions and many unpleasant things happen. This worries me.

I cut the dosage in half and am now taking one half in the morning and one half at night. But I do feel a bit shaky and nervous.

I am very disappointed in my doctor for doing this to me. Also, if this drug is so dangerous, why in the name of heaven do doctors give it to us? I am very confused about this and I certainly do not want to continue taking Valium. What should I do? Many people, I am sure, would like to have your opinion on this matter so please answer.

DEAR READER — Let me say at the outset that I am not at all fond of people taking tranquilizers of any type. Even so, there are temporary situations when the temporary use of such agents is beneficial.

I don't like to use the word addicting because that involves definitions. I would prefer to say that a person who takes most tranquilizers over a long period of time can develop psychological and physiological dependency on such medicines. That includes Valium.

This is not particularly new to the medical profession since the entire barbiturate group has the same effect. Anyone who has been taking barbiturates for a long period of time in a reasonably large dosage may also have withdrawal symptoms.

A few decades ago some informed individuals knew that if they took large doses of barbiturates and stopped them that they could produce convulsions. This was used by some unscrupulous individuals to simulate epileptic attacks to avoid military service.

The proper way to get off most of these medicines is gradual withdrawal, which I see is what you are doing. It's the abrupt stopping of the medicine that leads to withdrawal reactions.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 12-2, Sedatives, Hypnotics and Tranquilizers: The Pill Problem. This will give you more information on all of the different medicines that interact in this way. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, 10019.

Alcohol falls into this same group. Alcohol, tranquilizers and sedatives all tend to depress the functions of the brain. They interact and that's why people who take tranquilizers or sedatives should not drink alcohol.

The other suggestion I'd like to make to readers who feel they need to take tranquilizers is to re-examine their lifestyle. Many people are taking tranquilizers and drinking coffee or tea or colas. Caffeine, present in coffee, stimulates the brain and has essentially the opposite action on your nervous system as tranquilizers. The best tranquilizer many people can get is to stop drinking these beverages.

Coaches Upset Each Other

Arkansas Upsets Longhorns, 68-58

By The Associated Press

Eddie Sutton and Abe Lemons met at midcourt in a real Texas-size shoot-out, tempers exploding.

"You're too good to take cheap shots at us," Sutton told Texas player John Moore, triggering a harsh reaction from Lemons.

Pretty soon the basketball coaches were barking into each other in full horrified view of the near-16,000 fans at the Super Drum arena in Austin.

"He has no right to talk to one of my players like that," said Lemons after his 11th-ranked Texas Longhorns lost a rough 68-58 battle to Sutton's No. 19 Arkansas Razorbacks Thursday night.

What got Lemon angry in the first place was what Sutton said to Moore as the teams walked off the court at half time. Sutton felt that the Texas players were unduly rough on his team, especially Moore.

"I probably shouldn't have said it and I apologize," a cooled-off Sutton said later.

Lemons wasn't so magnanimous, however.

"Sutton has no call to do that to my players," noted the Texas coach. "He called Moore a dirty player and shoved him. That's not his place. No coach has a right to do something like that."

From his side of the fence, Lemons naturally had a different view of the game. He saw Arkansas getting away with murder throughout the night.

"We can't play with people hanging all over us," Lemons said. "They play too rough for us. It really baffles me. I get out of my chair and the official tells me to shut up and sit down. Then the other guy (Sutton) is running all up and down the sideline. Maybe they think I look meaner and will go out there and choke them."

Elsewhere, Ohio State suffered its first Big Ten Conference loss this season when the seventh-ranked Buckeyes dropped an 84-79 decision at No. 15 Michigan State. Second-ranked Indiana State barely preserved its unbeaten record with a tense 91-89 overtime decision over New Mexico State with the help of a miraculous, 50-foot shot at the end of regulation.

Top-ranked Notre Dame stopped Xavier of Ohi 66-57; fifth-ranked UCL whipped Oregon 65-58. 14 Illinois beat Minne a 67-57 and No. 18 Temple crushed Hofstra 92-70 in other action.

Sidney Moncreif did most of the damage for Arkansas, scoring 23 points as the Longhorns lost their first game in 26 at the Super Drum. The loss also cost Texas sole possession of first place in the Southwest Conference, the Longhorns falling into a tie with Texas A&M.

The Longhorns made only 23 per cent of their field goals in the first half and trailed 25-17 by intermission. They never got closer than six points the rest of the way.

Dusters Try Queen Bee's

Then Host Odessa

PLAINVIEW -- WTC's Dusters play their final non-conference regular season game here tonight, taking on Wayland's Queen Bees at 7 o'clock.

The Dusters, 16-9 for the season, will return to Snyder and the Scurry County Coliseum for an important conference match with Odessa on Monday.

Odessa, 16-2 for the year, leads the league with a 5-1 conference record. WTC - which had to reschedule a game with South Plains and thus has only played five conference tilts this season, is 4-1.

Odessa defeated the Westerners earlier in the year, 67-50, and will be a slight favorite. However, WTC has won nine of its last 10 games and with the home court advantage, is expected to give Odessa all it can handle - if not more.

The game is extremely important for Coach Joe Cushing's Dusters, not only for the immediate conference standings, but also because the teams heads out for a two-game road trip with Clarendon and Amarillo shortly after.

Black Bruised By B-Spring

SWEETWATER--Snyder 9th grade Black lost to the Big Spring Toros in round-one of the Sweetwater Tournament here yesterday, 56-44.

David R. Rios led Snyder with 16 points as the Black team hit 41 percent from the field and 50 from the line. Keith Wallace was top rebounder with 14.

The Black team will play Merkel at 10 a.m. Saturday here.

Tech Tops Rice Owls

LUBBOCK--Texas Tech thrashed Rice 78-56 in Lubbock to raise its conference record to 6-4. Rice dropped to 3-7 SWC play.

The Red Raiders capitalized on a cold second half shooting performance by the Owls to take a commanding lead.

Rice coach Mike Schuler could find nothing worthy of praise in his squad's showing.

Rice had six turnovers in its first 10 possessions, and the trend continued throughout the contest.

"It was a matter of us just not getting out there and hustling," Schuler said. "I can tolerate just about anything but that."

But Tech Coach Gerald Myers said his team was getting its confidence back.

"We jumped out and won a few games early and we got an over-inflated opinion of ourselves," Myers said. "Then we went the other way and lost all our confidence. Now we're starting to get it back."

Snyder Trims Jayton Frosh

JAYTON--Snyder defeated Jayton freshman here yesterday in tournament play, 79-60.

Mark Preston scored 38 points while Paul Gafford had 30 for Snyder. Henry Alvarey had 6, Carlos Martinez noted 3, Melvin Wallace had 2 and Devin Donelson Scored 4.

The Tigers, 19-10, will play in Brownfield tonight at 6:15, and return to tourney action here Saturday against Jayton JV at 2:30.

Also attending the meet for Snyder yesterday were Steve Boley, Elodoro Garza, Art Corrales, Randy Huddleston and Randy Lyon.

SWEETWATER--Snyder eighth grade boys teams, Black and Gold, took first-round victories in the Sweetwater Tournament here yesterday.

Snyder Black will now play Big Spring at 4 p.m. today, while the Gold team plays the winner of the Big-Spring-Stamford Blue game at 7.

The Black team now has a record of 11-1.

Westerners Overcome Howard College, 97-66

Western Texas College's Westerners and the Scurry County Coliseum crowd got workouts here last night. The Westerners worked on snaring their 20th victory of the season, while the fans fruitlessly spent their time chiding the referees.

Only WTC won, of course, overcoming a foul-plagued first half to easily fog Howard County College 97-66.

The Westerners, who upped their conference record to 8-2, will host Odessa in the coliseum at 8 p.m. Monday. A WTC Dusters game will begin at 6.

Ignited by freshman Paul Pressey and a host of other Westerners, WTC jumped out ahead quickly on the visitors from Big Spring. WTC executed a powerful man and zone press early-on which limited the opponent's offense.

But Howard College - to the tune of some nifty passing by Rocky Rauls - managed to keep the Westerners from running away with the game too early. The Westerners were neer able to shake the visitors, or the referee's whistles until the second half.

Even Coach Nolan Richardson got in on the act mid-way through the 20-minutes period when refs tagged him with a technical for choice comments he uttered concerning the calls.

But Richardson's actions were mild compared to the reactions of unbelieving fans. Had the referees cited technical tickets in the stands, the contest might still be underway.

Ironically, the officials were able to upset Howard fans also. The whole thing might have been more serious had the game stayed close, but it didn't.

It was freshman guard Franklin Bennett who kept WTC toe to toe with the visitors after Howard had gone ahead 24-22 with six minutes to play in the half.

The 6-1 Richmond, Va. native ripped the cords for six big points for the Westerners, finally bringing them ahead to stay on an outside jumper, 28-27.

WTC expounded on the fortune and took a 40-33 lead going into intermission.

The second half was a run-away from the start. Pressey put in three straight field goals and Dwight Williams added another to give the Westerners eight points in a row before Howard College got set well. WTC kept running, jumping, leaping and straining, and with 14:26 remaining in the game, had a yawning 60-41 advantage.

Pressey's 26 points - 13 of 15 from the floor - was the heartbeat of the Westerner output. Bennett ended the night with 16 - his high for the season - while Freddie Davis and Greg Stewart had eight apiece.

In all, every Westerner scored two points or better in the game as the home team hit 61.9 percent from the field and 57.7 from the charity stripe.

Howard, which went to the line 17 times in the first half to WTC's 6, was paced by Bond's 14 points. Hines and Randolph managed 12 each.

Individual statistics for WTC saw Stewart with eight rebounds, Pressey with seven rebounds and four steals, Patridge with five rebounds, Bennett with three steals, Ronald Portee with five assists, and Joe Mendoza with four assists.

To Celebrate 100th

Mrs. Mollie Wilhelm, Meadowbrook Nursing Home, Van Alstyne, Texas, will celebrate her 100th birthday Feb. 12. The home will honor her with a party Feb. 10.

Old Timers may remember the Wilhelms in a grocery story on the east side of the square called "Mollie and Me." Her husband and three children are deceased.

Police Drunk Hunts Irk Corpus Christi Barkeeps

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP)—A new Corpus Christi police policy aimed at hunting down drunks before they get behind the wheel has come under fire from some local barkeeps and city council members.

About two weeks ago Police Chief Bill Banner, alarmed at the traffic fatality rate in 1978, authorized uniformed officers to go into night spots in search of drunks.

"They can be arrested for public intoxication if they are deemed drunk enough to constitute a danger to themselves or others," Banner said. "The policy is designed to reduce the number of DWIs by getting to drunk people before they get in their automobiles."

The first weekend of the program did not lead to a major increase in the number of public intoxication arrests here.

The chief said he does not know of other cities using similar tactics. Plain clothes officers routinely check bars and clubs in many cities but the use of uniformed officers may be a new idea, Banner said.

It is the uniforms and the tactics that have upset some of the 340 liquor license-holders here.

"There is an undercurrent of intimidation and harassment," said B.D. Horton, owner of the Embers. "Not only against the club operators and business people but against the customers."

A committee of club owners took out ads in the local papers to bring its case before the public.

"These actions smack of a police state and do not present the proper public image for a tourist and convention-oriented city," the ad stated. "We believe that everyone concerned with this situation realizes that human nature being what it is, that the sight of uniformed patrolmen walking about an establishment makes patrons somewhat fearful, apprehensive and they tend to think, 'there must be trouble here, perhaps we should leave.'"

But Banner says customers will become accustomed to the sight of cops in the night spots. The chief also says some club owners have voiced support for his policy.

Nevertheless, city councilman David Diaz has sided with the disgruntled club owners. Diaz sees the tactic as one of intimidation.

"We are allowing our personal freedom to be whittled out. That's how socialism gets started, and then communism," he said at a council meeting this week.

State Budget

ideas - early primary, late primary, restrictive primary, plurified primary - get their knives out and carve each other up and have a real donnybrook. I'm going to sit by the side and listen and learn," he said.

Clements said, however, he would veto any bill that changed the dates for regular Democrat and Republican primaries, in May and June.

Clayton and Hobby are supporting a bill that would call for a presidential primary in March, followed by regular primaries in July and August.

On other matters, Clements said:

-He has not made up his mind on a proposal by Texas Supreme Court Chief Justice Joe Greenhill that appeals of criminal cases be handled by the 14 courts of civil appeals before reaching the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals. Such cases now are appealed directly from district courts to the state's highest court for criminal appeals.

-That any wiretap bill should include safeguards such as approval in advance by a local district judge, who also would be responsible for auditing and monitoring.

-He was unaware of proposals to set up a special fund for construction for 17 state colleges, if the state ad valorem tax is abolished. He said the tax should be abolished and the colleges "should go through the normal budget process for their construction."

-He favors a deepwater port off Texas, but is not necessarily supporting any special bill. "I think it is appropriate for the state to supply seed money but I do not favor the state itself building the project,' he said.

-He has not decided on a "successor" to Ned Price, member of the State Insurance Board, whose term ended Tuesday. "hen I make the appointment, the person I name will be made the chairman," he said, indicating Lyndon Olson would be replaced as chairman. Olson's term on the board, however, has two years to run.

Less Chance For Initiative Referendum

AUSTIN (AP)—Spokesmen for the organization Initiative Texas say Senate bills concerning initiative and referendum have less chance this year than they did in the 1978 special session.

Eris Samuelson, president of Initiative Texas, and David Mitcham, chairman of the group supporting initiative legislation, issued a joint statement saying "there is a high probability that the opponents of direct democracy will kill the proposed measures in committee."

The statement said the issue was blocked in the special session by members of the Senate State Affairs Committee. This time, the proposed constitutional amendment was sent by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby to the Senate Jurisprudence Committee.

The statement said the jurisprudence committee is composed of senators "who are, by their voting records, much more hostile to the freedoms of initiative and referendum than were those in the state affairs committee last summer."

Two Million Tons Of Sugar Being Stored

WASHINGTON (AP)-As of Monday, the government had almost 2 million tons of sugar from the 1977 and 1978 crops stored under $604.2 million worth of outstanding price-support loans.

Twenty-eight processors have sugar under loan. American Crystal, with $93.1 million, and Great Western, at $85.2 million, account for almost 30 percent of the amount outstanding.

That concentration and the general cost of the program to the government will be among the major issues when sugar legislation is debated this spring.

Since Congress restored a sugar program in late 1977, processors have forfeited on 170,890 tons, a report this week said. They have redeemed loans covering 884,711 tons.

Panel To Study Land Use Bill

AUSTIN—Committee studies are due to begin next week on legislation proposing that farm and ranch land taxes be based on use, Rep. Mike Ezzell of Snyder has advised.

This will be the first of the tax relief measures to reach the committee study stage.

Ezzell said that 804 bills had been filed and 780 bills had been referred to committees in this session.

Most attention is directed toward finances, and the lawmakers will have plenty of choices on a budget for the next biennium. The Legislative Budget Board has its budget, Gov. Bill Clements is working on his own budget; former Gov. Dolph Briscoe had a budget and Speaker of the House Bill Clayton has produced his own budget. The Speaker's budget bill would freeze employment in state agencies at present levels and then cut 2½ per cent from agency budget proposals across the board.

All of the budgets reflect a surplus, but amounts vary, with the governor reportedly shooting for $1 billion, the figure he used in his campaign as a goal for turning back to the taxpayers.
