Singer Says Name Makes Difference

CHICAGO, Nov. 13. (AP)—What's in a name?

The practical difference, says "Joe Benton," between a job in the Oklahoma wheat fields and treading the boards of grand opera.

It was "Joe Benton," undergraduate at the University of Oklahoma, and still "Joe Benton," helper in his father's wheat fields at Sayre, Okla.

Now it is Guiseppi Bentonelli, the former Oklahoman who has appeared in Europe's finest opera houses.

Whether to be "Bentonelli" or "Benton" in America these days is a very serious question, the young singer explained.

"In Italy one has to have an Italian sounding name to get any place," he said, recalling that one time he had sung as Joseph Benton, and his expressive Italian audience had mistaken the dark eyed youth for a Frenchman.

OIL PROBLEMS ARE TACKLED

AMERICAN PETROLEUM INSTITUTE HAS FIRST GENERAL SESSION

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Nov. 13.—The American Petroleum institute turned from technical group work today to the first general session of its fifteenth annual meeting to hear its two highest officers discuss problems and policies, and to choose 41 men to complete a roster of 86 directors.

An expression on federal leadership, a question uppermost in the minds of many oil men, was anticipated in formal addresses by Axtell J. Byles, president, and W. R. Boyd, jr., executive vice-president.

No Discussion Slated

Their statements on the controversial topic likely will comprise the institute's expression of policy. An open discussion and poll of delegates was not scheduled.

Through an address by Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior and federal oil administrator, the government's attitude will be given the oil men in the second general session tomorrow.

Nominees to succeed 39 directors whose terms expire this year and to fill two new places authorized at this convention will be selected by the board of councilors. Election of the new directors will be by the general assembly. Later the directors will select for another year the officers, which include vice-presidents to represent production, refining and marketing.

Politics Calm

Institute politics appeared calm, on the basis of discussions by delegates. Retention of Byles and Boyd for the key positions appeared unchallenged.

VIEWS OF FDR ON QUESTION UNCHANGED

BOTH DEMOCRATS AND REPUBLICANS STUDY NEW PROPOSALS

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—Some Republicans and Democrats were talking today of a compromise on the soldier bonus issue, but there was no indication President Roosevelt had changed his opposition to cash payment at this time.

Although a compromise was regarded in some circles as a possibility eventually, administration officials were careful not to take a position either way despite the rapidly growing agitation for full or partial payment 11 years before the due date.

Legion Heads To Meet

The executive committee of the American Legion will meet November 24 to consider the resolutions adopted at the recent national convention at Miami favoring the bonus and cancellation of the $200,000,000 in interest due on loans on the adjusted service certificates.

Joining the compromise advocates today was Chairman Buchanan (D-Tex) of the house appropriations committee. He favored immediate cash payment to those veterans now on relief rolls.

Would Cost Less

Buchanan estimated this would cost only about one third or one fourth of the total outlay of approximately two billion dollars that would be required if all ex-service men were paid off.

Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex) of the senate military committee said he would favor this compromise if President Roosevelt felt it would not upset his budget plans.

"My position will be guided by that of the president," he added.

Senator Borah, Idaho Republican independent, has announced he will offer a bill for interest cancellation on the ground this is eating at the entire bonus for veterans unable to pay the interest.

NEGRO CONFESSES SLAYING STUDENT

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13. (AP)—Less than 24 hours after Lawrence Leonard Lyons was shot to death, police announced today a negro had confessed he killed the 30-year-old medical student.

Police Captain A. S. Bradley said Russ Griffin, alias George Johnson, 19-year-old negro, admitted the killing but said he shot Lyons during an argument in self defense.

Capt. Bradley said, however, evidence indicated that Griffin and William Smith, another negro, kidnaped Lyons, and drove him to the Little Harlem section where they planned to rob him. Lyons was slain, Capt. Bradley said, when he tried to resist the robbery.

Rickenbacker Hops On Florida Flight

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 13. (AP)—Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, in command of a twin-motored 14-passenger Douglas plane, took off from Newark airport at 6:06 a. m., Eastern Standard time, today for a dawn-to-dusk return flight to Miami, Fla. The distance one way is 1,195 miles, Eastern Air Line officials say.

The ship used by Rickenbacker is the one which set a new transcontinental record for transport planes of 12 hours, 3 minutes, 50 seconds from Burbank, Calif., to Newark last Thursday. It carried 14 passengers.

COTTONSEED DECLINES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13. (AP)—Cottonseed crushed in the three-month period, August 1 to October 31, was reported today by the census bureau to have totaled 1,236,655 tons compared with 1,399,976 in the same period a year ago.

SLOW DEATH FOR POISON CANDY VICTIMS FEARED

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 13. (AP)—Slow death or serious weakening of vital organs, physicians said today, face eight of the nine children who ate poison-coated marshmallows they found in a junk yard.

Death already has taken one of the youngsters, and two of them are in a critical condition.

The others appeared to be recovering but physicians explained that the poison often continues to ravage organs even though temporary recovery may be made.

It was on an empty barrel in a junkyard that one of the youngsters found the marshmallows and divided them among his playmates. In a few hours the nine children lay writhing in pain in a hospital.

The junk dealer, H. Finkelstein, was said by Captain of Detectives Albert T. Clark to have told him the barrel was purchased from a wholesale drug house and had contained poison. Some of the powdered preparation sifted into the broken package of marshmallows.

FATHER READY WITH RANSOM

BELIEVES 6-YEAR-OLD CHILD IS SOMEWHERE IN NEW YORK CITY

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 13. — The whereabouts of 6-year-old Dorothy Ann Distelhurst is still a mystery today, but her father clings to his belief that the child is somewhere in New York.

Ready to pay $5,000 ransom, the father, Alfred E. Distelhurst, is waiting to hear from the supposed kidnapers who, he believes, stole the girl away while she was on her way home from kindergarten in Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 19.

Instructions Followed

Since he arrived in New York last Wednesday, Distelhurst has followed carefully the instructions given in a letter he received a month ago, the last of three communications from the supposed kidnapers. He disclosed last night that the second letter he received had instructed him to come to New York to await contact with the kidnapers. Instead he sent a friend, but nothing was heard from the senders of the letter.

He said he received the third letter Oct. 12, but postponed coming to New York for reasons he did not make known. Last Wednesday he came here from Nashville, registered at a hotel and inserted an advetisement in a newspaper which read:

"Dorothy come home; father in New York at same place, room 1736. Please write."

WOMAN KILLED

HOUSTON, Nov. 13. (AP)—An outbound Southern Pacific motor car struck and killed instantly Mrs. W. C. Gibbons, 50, opposite her home near here last night. The body was dragged 200 yards before the car stopped. Her husband said his wife was crossing the tracks to help drive some cows home.

MEETINGS AND PARADES ARE UNDER BAN

NEW PREMIER PLEDGES TO DEFEND COUNTRY AGAINST REVOLT

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS, Nov. 13—Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin promised parliament today that he and his cabinet, the new government of France, would defend the nation against dictatorship and revolution bred of hard times.

His statement was read to parliament shortly after the cabinet had ordered that no parades or assemblages should be permitted during the day.

Demonstrations Banned

Declaring "the Republican state will not capitulate to factions," Flandin announced that his plans forbid demonstrations, suppress the carrying of arms, and threaten to dissolve parliament if it fails to keep the political truce.

Even as Flandin made his bid for parliament's support, Edouard Herdot, minister without portfolio, charged the resigned Premier Gaston Doumergue with "admiration" for coup d etat methods.

The Flandin government announced that its slogan was "truce with action and unity."

Policy Announced

Flandin announced his economic policy as freedom of commerce to spur business and to reduce unemployment. He promised to fight the depression, saying: "Hunger is the best promoter of revolution."

The premier said international stabilization of moneys will be sought by continued negotiations abroad while lower interest rates will be sought at home.

Flandin praised Doumergue and accepted some of his predecessors reforms intended to strengthen the premiership, control governmental employes, and limit parliament's spending powers but no mention was made to constitutional revision. The measure to prevent parliament adding expenditures to the budget after the finance committee reports it on the floor of the chamber of

Twelve Injured As Bus Hits Tractor

NACOGDOCHES, Nov. 13. (AP)—Twelve passengers on a Palestine bound bus were injured, two critically, when the machine crashed into a tractor and rolled over twice in a ditch on a highway three miles west of here last night.

Mrs. Jack Anthony of Lufkin, badly cut on the head, and Miss Tommie Day of Center, internally injured, were most seriously hurt.

Jack Anthony, Mrs. Bertha Rowland and Mrs. Verna Caricker, both of Cushing; T. O. Weber of Nacogdoches and two negroes received painful but not serious injuries.

MINOR HOLIDAY ACCIDENTS REPORTED; TWELVE ARE JAILED FOR DRUNKENNESS

Although several of a series of minor Armistice day mishaps here early were serious, no one was reported injured seriously and law-enforcement agencies seemingly were not overtaxed.

Twelve persons were placed in city and county jails Sunday and Monday for drunkenness.

Police reported a Chevrolet automobile that Brownie Beard, 34, of 1406 Avenue C, was driving struck a Ford car driven by Mattie Edwards. She said a piece of glass penetrated a hand of a young boy in her car. The wound was not serious, she said. The collision occurred at Fourteenth street and Avenue H.

Evidently having learned identity of the owner of a Ford V-8 tudor sedan reported to have been in several mishaps late yesterday afternoon and last night, police today sought to learn whether he was driving the automobile at the time.

Mrs. W. L. McDill, Benson & Arnett addition, reported the sedan struck her automobile at Broadway and Avenue T and did not stop. Police said they had earlier reports in which license numbers indicated the same machine had been in other accidents.

The sheriff's department intimated a report that two girls had been pushed from the sedan had not been confirmed. Although names of the girls were not learned, it was indicated they were not hurt seriously, a deputy sheriff said.

Robert Palmer, 1808 Avenue J, struck by a hit-run car last night at Ninth street and Texas avenue, was not injured severely, police said.

None was hurt, according to police, in collision of a Chevrolet sedan driven by Mrs. Phillips of Littlefield and a Ford car driven by

DRUM STICKS WILL NOT BE SO HEFTY BUT WILL COST MORE THANKSGIVING; WHOLESALE TURKEY MART IS OPENED

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Nov. 13.—Drum sticks will cost more this Thanksgiving and probably won't be quite so hefty as usual.

Opening of the wholesale turkey market in the southwest today showed that prices generally had been boosted around 25 per cent, due to a short crop, and that the quality of available birds was somewhat inferior to that of last year.

"Turkey Trot" Slated

Price advances over last year ranged from three to as much as five cents a pound on the wholesale market.

In the Cuero region of South Texas, where the annual fall round-up of marketable turkeys is celebrated with a nationally-famous "turkey trot," it was estimated that only 165,000 turkeys would be sold this year, as compared with 180,000 last year.

The Cuero market started at 12 cents a pound, four cents up from the opening wholesale quotations of 1933, for first grade turkeys.

Tursday Cuero holds its seasonal "turkey trot," with 8,000 birds ready to parade en masse to the packing houses. Governor-Elect James V. Allred and other political leaders were due to participate in the festivities, which usually attract around 50,000 spectators.

The supply of turkeys offered on the Fort Worth market indicated the crop would be approximately 85 per cent of normal, with prices 25 per cent higher. First grade turkeys were quoted there at 12 1-2 cents per pound.

Drouth Affects Crop

A survey of the growing region showed that the prolonged drouth had seriously affected the developments of maturing turkeys, inasmuch as it reduced natural feed and cut short grain crops, with an attendant increase in feed prices.

The four turkey dressing plants at Brady start buying tomorrow, with prices up between 25 and 30 per cent and the crop only 65 per cent of normal, as compared with last year. Usually Brady sends out 50 to 60 carloads of dressed turkeys for eastern and other markets.

Plainview faced a similar situation, with early quotations at 12 cents for No. 1 birds, 8 cents for old

RAINS ARE REPORTED IN OTHER SECTIONS OF SOUTH PLAINS

First rainfall of appreciable amount since October 19 fell in Lubbock this morning. Don L. Jones, superintendent of the state experiment sub-station said that up to about 11 o'clock between .10 and .15 of an inch had fallen, with showers prevailing at that time.

On October 19 the fall was .28 of an inch. The last good rain was in September.

Moisture so far has not been enough to have any effect upon agricultural work, owing to the extreme shortage of sub-soil moisture that has prevailed the last two years. Present shortage is more than eight inches.

Santa Fe dispatches reported fair showers between Muleshoe and Lubbock and scattered showers at Whiteface, Lehman, Slaton and Seagraves. No rain was reported north or east of Lubbock.

Brutal Slaying Of Aged Woman Probed

PUEBLA, Mexico, Nov. 13. (AP)—Federal troops were dispatched to the town of Acajete today to investigate what authorities called the brutal slaying of an aged woman by religious fanatics because she supported the government plan for socialistic education.

Senora Castillo was shot seven times, cut with machetes and beaten with clubs. Her body was then dragged to the center of the town, where it was burned. The daughter and the two men servants were severely beaten, it was reported.

Two Cases Set For Trial Here Today

Cases of Sarah Williamson, a negro, charged with murder, and G. F. Powell, with intoxicated driving, were set for this afternoon in 72nd district court here, the district attorney's office announced.

The negro woman was indicted for shooting to death Earnest Williamson, a negro, here last Feb. 3.

Cases set for Wednesday by Judge Homer L. Pharr, of 72nd court, were those of Jack Knipe and J. D. Pite, charged with cow theft, and George McGinty, facing a life bill.

The case of C. Hardy Rampy, charged with robbery, in the holdup of the Hilton hotel, was set for Thursday morning.

FOOTBALL STAR FAILS TO REPORT TO BE MADE A SOLON

(By The Associated Press)

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 13.—Kingfish Huey Long, minus one senator of his entourage, tightened his dictatorial reins today for speedy enactment of his "debt postponement" legislation.

Foregoing the hurly-burly of Louisiana's legislative halls, Abe Mickal, state university football star, tucked his books under his arm and went to classes, flaunting Senator Long's order that he go through a ceremonial seating as a state senator.

Fails To Appear

Mickal failed to appear for the mock seating last night. Long had a ready explanation—that Mickal had to study. But authoritative word went around that the 22-year-old Syrian-born candidate for All-American halfback honors refused to have anything to do with the procedure.

The senate thereupon granted him a five-day "leave of absence"—the length of time that the legislature will sit.

After pacifying the legislature and filled galleries with his explanation of Mickal's absence, Long set both houses to work last night, the house proceeding at a dizzy pace.

44 Bills Introduced

The lower chamber received 44 bills, covering 43 subjects listed in Governor O. K. Allen's call for the special session. The bills were referred to the ways and means committee and the house adjourned until 8 p. m. tonight. The senate, which must wait to receive the measures from the house, adjourned until tomorrow.

The proposed legislation calls for a two-year moratorium on person-

Irish Sweepstakes Ban Is Considered

LONDON, Nov. 13. (AP)—Sale of sweepstakes tickets of the Irish Free State hospitals would be banned in England under a betting and lotteries bill now before the house of commons.

Football pools also would be prohibited. One speaker estimated 5,000,000 people contribute $1,250,000 weekly to football pools, or $65,000,000 during the season. Of this, he said, the promoters pocket nearly $15,000,000 in expenses and profits.

PRESIDENT TO LEAVE THURSDAY FOR TRIP THROUGH SOUTH

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—President Roosevelt undertook a heavy schedule today to speed up his recovery plans prior to departure on Thursday for a trip through the south.

Once again, relief and unemployment problems dominated the White House considerations with Secretary Perkins and Harry L. Hopkins, the relief administrator, on the calling list.

Calls In Cabinet

Mr. Roosevelt called in the cabinet for its regular session and devoted a share of the day with Donald Richberg, director of the emergency council.

The president hoped to receive all of the many reports now under preparation by immediate aides before going south where he will formulate policies to be announced probably in a radio talk to the nation upon his return here early in December.

Leaving the White House Thursday, Mr. Roosevelt will travel by special train to Harrodsburg, Kentucky, to dedicate a monument to the pioneers of that state on Friday morning.

He then will proceed through the Tennessee valley by way of Knoxville, Nashville, Muscle Shoals, Alabama, and Tupelo, Mississippi, concluding his journey at Warm Springs, Georgia, where he will remain over Thanksgiving day.

Sound Budget Sought

His first care will be to rush through a sound budget before Dec. 31, and the budget committee of the chamber began work today.

With an eye on reports of German rearmament and the Armistice day disorders in this country, the 45-year-old leader appealed to political parties to drop their differences.

The cabinet was said to be seriously concerned over reports that German is able to produce 300 airplanes a month. The air, war and navy ministries are expected to ask parliament for additional appropriations.

There was also some New Orleans and southern selling and prices eased off 2 or 3 points right after the call. December eased off from 12.39 to 12.36 and March from 12.53 to 12.49 with the market showing rallies of a point or two from the lowest at the end of the first half hour.

Local spot people reported a continued firm basis in the south and said there had been very little southern selling here during the morning.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 13 (AP)—Cotton today opened steady 1 to 2 points up compared with Saturday's close. Liverpool advanced during the holiday here yesterday but lost the gain today.

Prices eased off 3 points in the first half hour in sympathy with an easier stock market. December dropped back to 12.38 and March and May to 12.50, or net unchanged to two points above the previous close. October traded up to 12.19, or three points net up.

During the morning trading was fair. Dec. showed more weakness in its near position under increased liquidation.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Nov. 13. (AP)—Financial markets today displayed a rather spotty appearance as strong and weak spots developed in the various speculative and investment categories.

Stocks showed no definite trend. Some specialties found followings for substantial gains as hopes for better earnings in certain lines were renewed. Heaviness of some of the utilities and other issues, however, tended to chill the enthusiasm for a general advance. The news was neither especially bullish nor bearish.

Wheat dropped a cent or so a bushel, but most of the other cereals were narrow. Cotton was little better than even. Bonds were quiet and moderately mixed. Sterling moved substantially against the dollar while the gold currencies sagged.

Shares of Briggs Manufacturing and Air Reduction got up around a point each to new 1934 highs. At the same time Consolidated Gas lost 2 points at new year's low. Curtis Publishing preferred gained 3 and the common was up 1. U. S. Smelting, Cerro de Pasco and American Smelting firmed fractions to more than a point, as did Johns-Manville, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft and United Fruit.

A heavy tone was shown by Texas Gulf Sulphur, which dropped 2 points. American Telephone, Public Service of New Jersey, North American and United Gas Improvement yielded a point or more each. Most of the rails eased, as did U. S. Steel, Du Pont, American Can, General Motors, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck. The oils were fairly steady.

RECOVERY

boom year of 1925 were noted by observers of the industry.

Building Shares Boom

On the stock exchange a boom in building shares reflects the significance attached to the tangible evidence of broadening construction activity as well as hopes the administration would proceed with proposals for housing on an ambitious scale.

Some Wall Street students of the industry see a parallel with what happened in Great Britain the past few years. Much of England's recovery progress has been ascribed to the relatively high level of building activity there.

A compilation of building permits by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., for October disclosed an increase of 40.9 per cent over September and of 42.9 per cent over the total for October, 1933. The normal seasonal September to October increase is about 2.5 per cent.

Permits covering new building and improvements last month totaled $37,446,293 compared with $26,567,925 in September and $26,198,342 in October, 1932. The figures embraced operations in 215 cities.

For the first ten months, the total was $299,751,129 against $260,739,318 in the like period last year, a gain of 15 per cent.

REPORT GIVEN ON PASTORS

NINETEEN METHODISTS IN FIRST YEAR IN PRESENT CHARGES

Nineteen of the 27 pastors of the Lubbock district of the Methodist church are completing their first year in their present charges, while only one pastor, Rev. J. O. Haymes, pastor of the First church, Lubbock, has finished four years in his present charge.

That was the report of Dr. W. M. Pearce, presiding elder of the district, who is completing his first year in the district as its superintendent.

Haymes May Change

Rev. Ed A. Tharp, Brownfield First church pastor, and Rev. H. O. Smith, Tahoka First church pastor, are completing their third years in their respective charges. The other ministers, five in number, have seen but two years service in their present charges.

There is a possibility that Reverend Haymes may be made a presiding elder. He has served four years in that post and it is known here that Bishop H. A. Boaz has made overtures to him to accept a district. Otherwise, it is probable, according to those in touch with the situation, Reverend Haymes will be returned to the Lubbock church. It is rated as the second most important church post in the conference, only the Amarillo First church being considered its equal or better.

There will be five or six vacancies in the conference this year among the presiding elders. Only three men, including Dr. Pearce, have not served their allotted four years in their charge. With indications that the number of districts will be reduced from nine to eight, there may be but five new appointments.

Membership totals for the district are expected to show an increase. Last year a net increase of 338 was reported, bringing the total to 10,510. It is believed this year the membership will be slightly under 11,000.

toms and 6 cents for No. 2 turkeys.

At San Antonio the market was steady at 4 to 5 cents above last year. Dealers expected the market to continue strong at San Antonio through Thanksgiving. Supplies were somewhat below those of last year and the market was 14 to 15 cents for first grade birds. Last year it was from 9 to 10 cents, holding those figures through Thanksgiving.

Light Marketing Seen

The market on No. 1 turkeys opened at 12 cents in Brownwood, three cents above last year. Dealers expected light marketing for Thanksgiving, as advices from Central Texas indicated many birds were yet too light for market. Heavier selling for the Christmas market, which opens Dec. 1, was in sight. Brownwood dealers figured the turkey crop at only 50 per cent of normal.

In Chicago the price advance was as much as 6 or 7 cents, with an apparently seasonable supply but early quality not up to standard.

Turkeys in the Kansas City district generally will be slightly higher and the size smaller than last year due to the drouth. Choice grades were expected to be marketed for Thanksgiving, with the remainder offered the Christmas trade. Increased production on the west coast was expected to alleviate the paucity in the Kansas City district.

HUEY LONG

al debts, and a number of other subjects, including establishment of state civil service for municipal police and fire departments, regulation of court injunctions, creation of the "state bar of Louisiana" and a state narcotic law.

Mickal persisted in his silence, unbroken since the burlesque started last Saturday when Long directed a campus mass meeting at which 3,000 students "elected" the football player to the seat held formerly by J. Y. Sanders, jr., of East Baton Rouge parish.

"Had To Study"

A short time before the hour for the "seating" last night, Captain "Biff" Jones, Louisiana State university football coach, conferred with Long, but all either would say as the Kingfish stalked away was that Mickal "had to study."

An official explanation of Mickel's absence came from Senator Harvey Peltier, an administration leader, who proposed the five-day leave for Mickal, to let him "do his work at school and go forward with his preparation for his football duties."

The senate granted the leave, but another administration man, Senator Jules Fisher, jumped to his feet and suggested that a committee of three be appointed to lead in the "athlete-senator." "Have the sergeant-at-arms bring him here," cried Fisher. "Have him arrested."

He yielded the floor, however, when the chair said that a committee already had been appointed to escort Mickal before the senate today. But the senate does not meet today, having adjourned until 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Plant Is Nearly Ready For Machines

Rebuilding of Economy mills, Fifteenth street and Avenue B, destroyed by fire recently, is nearly enough finished for installation of machinery, W. G. McMillan, the general contractor, said this morning.

Cost of the construction was estimated at $10,000 by McMillan. Total expenditure for the renovation, including new machinery, had been estimated at $25,000 by Claude Tatum, president of the mills.

The building, L-shaped, 37x76 feet one way and 36x40 the other, has a heavy-mill wooden frame covered with galvanized iron. A 36x64-foot part has two floors. The foundation is reinforced concrete and the roof galvanized iron. There is a concrete basement, part of it new and the rest an old basement deepened.

The headhouse extends 40 feet above the second floor. Grain will be elevated by bucket conveyors and chuted out into three cylindrical iron bins outside.

Unloading facilities will be improved by installation of a power unloader for removing grain from cars on railway sidings.

Vapor-proof electrical outlets and switches, in which grain can not lodge, will be installed as a precaution against fire, McMillan said.

No Clue Found In Theft Of Jewelry

Police this morning were without an appreciable clue in theft of jewelry from the home of Dr. H. H. Bidwell, at 2311 Tenth street, when it was ransacked between 3 and 4:30 p. m. Monday, they intimated. A first report was that nothing was missing, they said.

Two diamond-set stickpins, several rings, three class pins, two bracelets, a wrist watch valued at $40, and other pieces of jewelry were taken, Doctor Bidwell said.

He said every drawer in the building was opened and ransacked, that seven keys to the house were stolen, and that the garage also was burglarized.

The intruder entered a dining room window.

The Bidwell home is adjacent to Miss Elizabeth West's residence, which was burglarized and set on fire last month. Miss West is Texas Technological college librarian.

Most Cotton Lint In National Pool

Nearly 90 per cent of the more than 17,000,000 pounds of lint cotton alloted Lubbock county farmers under the Bankhead bill has been pooled with the national pool, Jason O. Gordon, assistant county agent in charge of cotton adjustment, advised County Agent P. T. Montfort today.

Pounds pooled were 13,520,805, or 441,957 under the 90 per cent.

Date of the closing of the pool has been set as November 24, according to word from Washington.

In addition to the allotment, Mr. Gordon has been advised of an allotment of 568,120 pounds, under the Bankhead bill, for farmers who had cotton last year for the first time, and 228,090 pounds for farmers who did not have cotton in 1932 and 1933 but who did have it this year.

Net receipts will be used by the legion in its relief work here, said A. I. Glassman, who is chairman of a committee directing the appearance.

Birch's equipment, fittings, scenery are valued at more than $25,000, it was said. There will be many baffling illusions, Glassman said. One of the most interesting will be that of the vanishing pony, in which the animal is caused to disappear in mid-air—or so it seems.

Only Few Clashes

Few were clashes between partisans of the Lubbock and Amarillo High school football teams. One, however, arose over a goat the Amarilloans had. The label on the goat indicated it once had belonged to Lubbock. As the visitors were leaving, some kicked the goat. A scuffle ensued, was broken up quickly by police and spectators. The animal had been tethered on the city hall lawn during the game. Firemen fed papers to it.

Mrs. A. E. Scifres of Spur underwent a major operation in Lubbock sanitarium this morning.

WELL, we lost another ball game to Amarillo, but, after all, what of it? One of the teams had to lose and this year it had to be us. To be perfectly truthful about it, the best team on the field yesterday won the ball game and it happened that the game was played yesterday.

And as The Plainsman told Weldon Bailey Chapman, Westerner head coach, last night, "there'll be a game with Pampa next week and one with Amarillo next year."

So what?

Probably nobody in Lubbock, with the exception of the players and the coaches, feels any worse about yesterday's debacle than your humble servant.

Surely, there isn't a sophomore in Lubbock High who does, and that's saying something.

But after all, teams play football to see which one can win and we found out Monday.

THERE isn't a worse loser in all this country than The Plainsman.

When Amarillo drove across the line for that quartet of touchdowns yesterday this writer was plain sick.

But there's a little verse that goes: "And when the One Great Scorer Comes to mark against your name
He'll write not that you won or lost
But how you played the game."

And even though they admittedly looked completely outclassed by the visiting Sandies, there wasn't a Westerner kid on the field who wouldn't have given almost anything he owned or expected to ever own to win that ball game.

We just got beat, that's all.

But maybe we'll win next time.

The Plainsman hasn't talked to Coaches Berl Huffman or Bennie McWilliams, but he knows that they're just as heartsick and crushed over the game as Head Coach Chapman was last night.

And he was plenty heartsick, if you want to know something.

But if you admire good sportsmanship, if you admire the kind of clean coaching Chap and his aides have been giving here year after year, you'll say to them something like this:

"Come on, boys. Nobody's mad at you. Sure, we're disappointed, just like you are, but what of it?

"Just keep on instilling clean sportsmanship and gentlemanly demeanor into our boys, just keep on building their minds and bodies—that's the big thing. And while you're doing that we'll win more than our share of the games."

And to the Westerners, The Plainsman remarks:

"It's tough, kids—double tough. But in the years to come you'll find out that you can't win all the time and the fellow who can lose once in awhile and then come back and win again is all the bigger for it."

That Man on Avenue Q says modern youth will be served but it has no inclination to be reserved.

Winning an argument by calling a friend narrow-minded is like winning a race after your rival has broken his leg.

SOME folks live and learn and other folks just live. The Plainsman has decided he's in the latter category.

After being married for years, and years he hasn't yet learned that you can't win an argument with a lady!

Yesterday this column took the ladies to task for wearing gloves for reasons other than the logical one—that of keeping the hands and arms warm.

He expected the feminine readers of this department to rise up and call him blessed, because who should want to make the hands any more bunglesome than nature has made them?

But he got a comeback, right quick, from a Lubbock lady who signs her name, but who prefers to be known only by her initials, which are "Mrs. W. C. P."

SAYS she: "Being one of the sometimes glove-wearing women you refer to in your Monday column, I would like to ask in rebuttal—why do men wear heavy coats when the temperature is 100 and above? Why is it the mode? Who says it is the mode and how do they get the power to enforce it?

"Coats, like gloves, should be worn to keep men warm.

"Anyway, I am not in any mood to be 'goaded' right after the 'Brainstorm' (sub for 'Sendstorm') has just brained us!"

Lady, you've got The Plainsman there, you sure have.

While he works in shirt sleeves summer and winter and in summer rarely ever wears a coat of any kind and never a heavy one, the world is full of men who do.

You win—and the fair sex has just as much right to be inconsistent as those of us who have whiskers!

Thanks!

Big Money, Great Talent And Expert Direction Put Life Into British Film Industry, Which Eyes American Market

This is the second of three articles by Milton Bronner, NEA and The Evening Journal staff correspondent in London, describing the remarkable rise of the British film industry.

BY MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Nov. 13.—Abundantly equipped with movie houses wired for talkies and with film production studios prepared for the making of talkies, it nevertheless looked a few years ago as if Britain was all dressed up and had no place in the world trade to go.

Alexander Korda is the man who changed all this. A Hungarian, barely 40, he had worked as a film director in Germany and Hollywood. Then he decided to come to London and do his own producing.

He was apparently the first one to size up the possibilities of getting dollars out of the American market. But also he realized that you cannot make a champagne picture out of a beer budget.

Korda decided to spend big money. For his first venture he chose "The Private Life of Henry VIII." You know what happened. The film packed the houses in Britain and made a nice heap of dollars in America.

Others Follow

Korda's success was as revolutionary to the British film industry as was the coming of the talkies. The big English companies saw the light. They set themselves to making big pictures which cost heaps of money.

They outbid Hollywood for the services of outstanding directors and technicians. They borrowed some of the best known Hollywood stars.

Lothar Mendes, big-time director at Hollywood, came and Ernst Lubitsch is coming. Alfred Santell and Thornton Freeland from Hollywood are also here. Heinrich Fraenkel, famous German-Jewish scenario writer exiled from his native land, settled here. So did Paul Graetz, famous German character actor.

Thus equipped the big British companies have already turned out some big films and are planning more. British and Dominions, for instance, made "Nell Gwyn," featuring Anna Neagle and Sir Cedric Hardwicke, one of the greatest stars of the London stage.

Big Movies, Great Actors

Its biggest coup is the signing of a contract with one of the most famous actresses in the world—Elizabeth Bergner. This Viennese Jewess, formerly the unquestioned queen of the German-speaking stage, barred from Germany by the Nazis, last year had all London at her feet in the play "Escape Me Never."

British International's biggest picture to date is "Blossom Time," based upon the life story of Schubert. For hero they took the famous Austrian tenor, Richard Tauber, whose voice is familiar to thousands from his popular phonograph records.

Makes Money And Hit

Korda, the dynamic force in London Film Productions not only made a hit and money with his Henry VIII, but followed it with another in "Catherine the Great," starring Elisabeth Bergner and Douglas Fairbanks, jr. Then he made "The Private Life of Don Juan," starring Fairbanks, senior.

Korda at present rents studios from British and Dominions. Soon he is going to build his own out at Boreham Wood. He has in hand now the manufacture of two big films—"The Scarlet Pimpernel," starring Leslie Howard and Merle Oberon, and "Saunders of the River," based upon stories by Edgar Wallace. The stars will be Paul Robeson, the famous negro singer, and Leslie Banks, one of the most accomplished of English actors.

NEXT: How British films are made.

I could have gone to England and duplicated the reputation there that I've made here.—Samuel Insull.

TODAY'S JOURNAL EDITORIAL

CAPTAIN COOK OF THE AIR

Many songs of praise have we of Lubbock sung for our own great American fliers but now let us sing one for a great foreign birdman, who has upon more than one occasion proven his greatness.

As the explorer of Pacific ocean air routes, Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith has established fame rivaling Capt. James Cook's as the explorer of its water routes. The Australian's high place in aviation history is made double secure after his return 7,365 miles from Brisbane, Australia, to Oakland, Calif., over the same route he flew in the opposite direction in 1928.

Because of the prevailing adverse trade winds all the way, and especially from Hawaii, the flight northeast has been considered much the more difficult and hazardous. Sir Charles and his navigator, Capt. P. G. Taylor, are not only the first to fly from Australia to North America, but also the first to span the 2,400 land miles from Hawaii to the Pacific Coast. The latter constitutes a feat that neither the U. S. army nor the navy has undertaken, though both have air bases in Hawaii.

Trade winds assisting, naval and private fliers have made a series of outbound flights to Hawaii, including, of course, Kingsford-Smith. The perils when flown with helping winds were proved by the tragedies marring the competition for the $25,000 Dole prize in 1927. According to the accounts of the present flight, tail winds were sought at high altitudes. The speed enabling completion of the leap in 15 hours indicates favoring winds were found.

It is certain that, before many more years pass, these first South Pacific flights will have charted air-ways which regular commercial planes will serve. Pioneering paves the way. During 150 years to come, planes and airships using the air routes first traversed by Kingsford-Smith will match the shipping that has used the water routes first traversed by Capt. Cook 150 years ago.

Dutcher's News And Views OF WASHINGTON

Dutcher

(Copyright, 1934, NEA Service, Inc.)

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Extension of the automobile code, with assurances that it was a victory for the industry, labor, NRA and the White House, shouldn't obscure the fact that the motor car business is headed toward a big strike threat this winter.

The unions are bent on obtaining some genuine collective bargaining, which the industry will fight as you or I would against taking a dose of poison, and on getting rid of the president's automobile labor relations board.

You'll begin to read about the strike threat in December, when production picks up, and the situation probably will be red-hot by February, when the code expires again and production will be about at its peak.

Auto Makers Obdurate

But there was a lot of pianissimo accompanying the code extension which wasn't audible in the official announcements.

Leading roles in the plot were played by President Roosevelt, Chairman Clay Williams of the NIRB, and his friend, Walter Chrysler—who represented the industry in secret negotiations with the White House—and Sidney Hillman, labor member of NIRB.

Nobody else counted except Secretary Frances Perkins, who always plays closely with Hillman.

The code was due to expire and the industry insisted that if it were to be continued it must be preserved unchanged. Otherwise, the administration could go chase itself and there'd be no code.

The A. F. of L. demanded public hearings for a code reopening, elimination of the "merit clause," and a 30-hour week—or at least revision of the present hour-averaging clause.

Everyone knew Roosevelt, who took the job over from NIRB and certainly added nothing to its prestige when he did so, wouldn't accept the industry's challenge. Automobiles are a vital part in such recovery as he can claim and he could afford, for the time being at least, to ignore labor's demands rather than court an open break with a huge industry.

Code Held Costly

NRA hadn't been able to show that the industry had directly benefited from its code. General Motors sent word to the White House that it had made $50,000,000 less this year than it would have made on the same volume of production had there been no NRA codes.

Other codes had upped the prices of materials for cars. Fisher Body, its sawmills restricted by code, had to go out and buy hardwood. Steel prices to the industry were down barely to the point where it wasn't profitable for automobile companies to build their own mills.

It was shown that the industry had made a tremendous increase in profits while labor received a moderately larger return in hourly wages and a spread of employment. While administration folks contended no such profits would have been made without the New Deal, automobile men insisted they would have been larger without the New Deal and that their workers were dissatisfied with the code because they averaged but 33 hours a week.

They intimated they'd be quite happy if the code were abandoned, allowing them to build up company unions, work their most efficient employes on a 48-hour average—which meant many more hours than 48 in peak season—and contribute to unemployment in a big way by releasing tens of thousands of men.

Trouble Is Dodged

At the last moment, it appeared that Roosevelt—who could have imposed a code on the industry—wasn't going to be the least bit tough about it and that the code would be merely renewed as it stood.

Just a few hours before extension, Roosevelt called Hillman to the White House and the two men talked for on hour. Insiders suspect the interview was urged on Roosevelt by Miss Perkins.

Anyway, it was one more demonstration that the administration turns to Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, for advice on labor problems rather than to any old line A. F. of L. leader.

Hillman advised Roosevelt that the automobile situation called for some assertion of administration power and—by implication at least—that it didn't quite do to let labor and the country get the idea that Big Business was just pushing the president around.

In the afternoon, Roosevelt, extending the code, announced a special inquiry into employment stabilization possibilities in the automobile industry.

He emphasized that he hadn't asked the industry to agree to this, but was ordering it under his own executive powers.

Shrewdest Labor Leader

Some labor people deride Hillman's subsequent expressions of pleasure, feeling that labor received a mere crumb.

But it's worth remembering that Hillman is the strongest, shrewdest and most practical labor leader in the business. He never bites off more than he can chew, but he misses few bets and hits hard when there's a chance to win.

You can't tell yet whether the president's assertion of his power is significant. But the inquiry and its findings will be a handy weapon for him when the auto strike scare comes.

The Clew of the Forgotten Murder

By CARLETON KENDRAKE
Copyright 1934 by Carleton Kendrake

BEGIN HERE TODAY

When CHARLES MORDEN, reporter for The Blade, is found dead DAN BLEEKER, publisher, employs SIDNEY GRIFF, famous criminologist, to solve the murder.

Morden had been investigating the affairs of FRANK B. CATHAY, wealthy and prominent, following the arrest of an impostor claiming to be Cathay and accompanied by a girl called MARY BRIGGS.

The day following Morden's death Cathay dies of poisoning.

Griff learns that Morden had visited the apartment of ALICE LORTON who has reported to police the disappearance of her roommate, ESTHER ORDWAY.

Griff goes to see Alice and accuses her of being "Esther Ordway." She denies this but changes her former story. When Griff leaves he instructs detectives to shadow the girl.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXII

Sidney Griff returned to his own car and drove at once to the Hillcrest hotel. He got in touch with the bell captain on the night shift and gave him a $5 bill by way of introduction.

"I want to find out," he said, "about a man by the name of Cathay who was registered here on Monday night in Room 964."

"There's been two or three people asking about him," the bell boy said.

"Showed you photographs?"

"Yes."

"The photographs they showed you weren't the photographs of the man who was here?"

"No."

"Can you remember what he looked like?"

"He was rather a big fellow and I think he had blue eyes. I can't remember enough about him to describe him, but I could tell him if I saw him again."

"He was paged several times during the evening?"

"Yes."

"Who took him up to the room when he came in?"

"I did."

"Did he have any suitcases?"

"I can't remember, Mister," the bell boy said, "but I think he did, because if he hadn't had any I'd probably have remembered."

"Can you tell me about the calls he received? You paged him during the evening here in the lobby."

"It must have been 15 or 20 times."

"Were the calls telephone calls, or was it someone who was here in the hotel and wanted to talk with him?"

"Someone here in the hotel—a little guy with gray hair and blue eyes. I remember him well. He was mad as a wet cat about something. He had an appointment with this guy, Cathay, that Cathay hadn't kept. He was some kind of an inventor, I think, and there was some kind of a deal on that Cathay was to close."

Griff's eyes were thoughtful.

"I wonder if we can find out who that man was?" he said.

"I think so," the bell captain told him. "I think the man had a room here in the hotel, at least for the night, and I think he waited over. It seems to me I saw him checking out about the time I came on duty Tuesday night."

DE PAUL WILL PLAY FRIDAY

CHICAGO GRID SQUAD FACES MATADORS IN HOMECOMING TILT

The Demons of De Paul university, Chicago, furnish opposition for the Texas Tech Matadors here Friday afternoon.

The game with De Paul is the highlight of Texas Tech's annual Homecoming program. Alumni and ex-students and local fans will be favored by something different, since it is the Chicago team's first invasion of the South Plains. Tech's first game with De Paul.

Know About Tech

The Blue Demons, although not a nationally ranking team, figure to give the Matadors something to worry about in this intersectional game. De Paul has had representatives at Tech games serving as scouts, and will know about what to expect. Yet word from Chicago indicates that the Demons are not losing any sleep over the possible outcome.

Tech has not scouted De Paul, and the Demons are coming up on the Matadors' blind side.

Coaches Cawthon and Smith sent their lads through a fast workout yesterday afternoon following the high school game. A lot of signal practice, drill on new and old plays and blocking rehearsal kept them on the field until dusk.

Tickets for the game are on sale now at the J. & J. Sporting Goods company store, at $1.65 each for seats in the west stands.

DEMONS TO SHOW VARIED ATTACK

(Special To The Journal)

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Heavy workouts for their game with Texas Tech at Lubbock, Tex., next Friday are occupying the Demons of De Paul at their field on the Lake Michigan shore. Last week De Paul soundly smacked over Niagara in a homecomming struggle.

Win First Three

De Paul got off to a flying start this season and romped to three straight victories. The Demons ripped Ripon College, 33 to 6; crushed St. Ambrose of Davenport, Ia., 20 to 6 and then turned back Dayton University, 12 to 6.

However, De Paul took to the road only to find their progress afield rather abruptly halted. The Demons met their first defeat in almost three years at Kalamazoo, Mich. They ran into a sleet storm and were practically helpless in handling the ball, frequent fumbles enabling Western State to carry off a one touchdown victory.

De Paul again was forced to play on a miserably muddy field in its next game and once more the Demons proved themselves poor "muddlers" and lost to Valparaiso at Valparaiso, Ind.

Dangerous In Dust

On a dry field De Paul will be hard to stop with its dazzling aerial attack aided and abetted by a formidable running game. The Demons are in possession of two superb sets of backs although their line this year has been more or less dubious.

The first string backs are Ray Durkin, blond quarterback who weighs 185 pounds, Walt Loess and Bill Oldani, halfbacks; and Walt Mehn, fullback. Willie Phillips and Johnny Fay, both sensational sophomore backs, Johnny Cella, veteran quarter; and Julius Heim, 172-pound fullback, compose the second backfield combination. Fay and Loess are perhaps the outstanding kickers while the latter is a deadly passer.

LEVELLAND BEATS LITTLEFIELD HIGH

(Special To The Journal)

LITTLEFIELD, Nov. 13 — Littlefield's Wildcats passed with precision here yesterday but their clicking airline attack failed to keep pace with a driving eleven of linecrashers from Levelland and the Lobos remained undefeated with a 23-6 triumph. Result of the game put Ralls in undisputed lead of the northern half of the district.

Levelland, conqueror of Ralls, forfeited four conference victories recently because of the ineligibility of a reserve halfback.

McCann Goes To Town

On the first play, McCann, Lobo left halfback, took a pass from his running mate, Rodgers, and went through the Wildcats for 80 paces and touchdown. Rodgers kicked goal. Levelland counted again in the first quarter when Fullback Roberts smeared Yantis, Littlefield back, in the end zones for a safety.

The Wildcats passed on almost every down, completed more than twenty attempts through the air. Yantis intercepted a pass thrown by Rodgers in the fourth period, galloped 40 yards for Littlefield's lone score.

The Lobos scored in the second period after Quarterback Kirkpatrick circled left end for 30 yards to go over erect. Fullback Roberts made the final touchdown after a

STIDGER PROVES THE NEMESIS OF LOCAL HIGH GRIDDERS

Little Johnny Stidger, a squat red-headed little fellow who wears a size 16 collar, again proved the nemesis of Lubbock High school as the Westerners went down before a driving Amarillo Sandstorm, 25 to 0.

Last fall Stidger scored one point to turn back the Westerners; this fall the little quarterback tabulated four touchdowns and one point after score for Lubbock's undoing.

White Looks Good

Only an alert performance by Morris White saved the Lubbock team from annihilation. Time after time White dumped the charging Sandie backs after they had split the Lubbock wall and were in the open. Although his blocking was mowed down every time he carried the ball, there was no doubt in the minds of the 12,000 fans who saw the game what White would have done with such support as had the Amarillo ball-bearers.

White Versus Harlow

There was a great individual battle yesterday between the backfield stars of both teams. We mean big John Harlow and Morris White. Harlow, one of the four "Johns" on th Sandie club, was Amarillo's big backfield gun. He divided time with Stidger and Bufkin at carrying the ball, but his fine defensive work made him a star.

White and Harlow were after each other, assigned to mind each other's business, and they did a fair job of it. Nearly every time White was tackled or blocked, you could see big Harlow getting up and straightening his headgear. Likewise, White was in the thick of it every time Harlow went down.

Statistics show that White carried the ball on running plays 16 times, for a total of 71 yards. Harlow carried it for Amarillo the same number of times, for 88 yards. Stidger, however, was the chief ground gainer, toting the apple 15 times for 98 yards.

They Don't Hesitate

It was Amarillo's game from the start. A compact, hard-charging line simply beat Lubbock's wall into the dust, and trampled over them to block out the secondary, all but White, for Amarillo's ball toters.

The game was young when Amarillo showed its true side after loafing through preliminary games this season.

Lubbock took the kick-off. White getting back to the 21-yard line. But Gear, subbing for the injured Calhoun and thereby removing one of the best blockers Lubbock had, was tossed for a loss on the next play. Hill gained a bit, but not enough, and White's punt was short.

Following an off-side penalty that gave Amarillo first down on Lubbock's 35, Harlow broke off tackle for 13 yards, Bufkin picked up two, and from the 20, Stidger circled his left end, and had nothing to do but carry the ball for a touchdown. Lubbock tacklers were laid out on the ground like so many shot soldiers.

Westerners Miss Chance

There was no more scoring in that quarter, but there should have been. After holding another Amarillo drive on the 6-yard line, White kicked a beauty out of bounds on Amarillo's 9-yard line. Bufkin made 4 and Harlow 3, then Bufkin kicked away. He was to White, near midfield, and the shifty-hipped halfback ran it back to the 30. Robert Allen Hill, whose best was hardly good enough yesterday, passed to Irwin Gear for a first down on the 20, and White picked up 8. Hill scurried to the 5-yard line, White to the 2, and Hill to the 2-foot line.

But the quarter ended there, and Lubbock's punch was spoiled. By the time they'd changed goals, some of the fire was missing, and on fourth down White was stopped by the entire Amarillo line.

Lubbock never threatened seriously again. Amarillo scored in the second period after Ricketts had recovered a fumble on Lubbock's 17-yard line. Stidger and Harlow went to the 2-yard line on five plays. Amarillo drew a 5-yard penalty, but Bufkin went back to the 2-yard line from where Stidger went over easily for a touchdown.

Even In Third

The third period was played in midfield. Lubbock's defense tightened perceptibly, but the offense was little better. Lubbock got no closer to Amarillo's goal line than the Amarillo 43, except on punts, and Amarillo once got to Lubbocks' 47.

All of the third quarter, except the 30 yard run. The counter ran Roberts' total scoring for the season to 96 points.

First downs were Littlefield 10, Levelland 15.

LAMESA BEATS SLATON HIGH, TAKES LEAD

TIGERS LOSE 43 TO 0 TO TORNADO; FIGHTS FOLLOW CONTEST

(Special To The Journal)

SLATON, Nov. 13.—The footballers of Lamesa High, last year regional Class B champions, took the lead in the southern half of district three and continued their march toward another title here yesterday by defeating the Slaton Tigers, 43 to 0.

A near-riot in the form of spirited fist fights between Lamesa and Slaton fans followed in the formal battle. Although they brandished clubs and guns police were well toward twilight stopping the fights on the streets and at the field.

40-Yard Placement

Boswell, swift 171-pound right halfback for Lamesa, made the first touchdown on an 80-yard return of a punt in the early minutes of the first period. Attempt to kick goal was wide.

The Golden Tornadoes blocked Fullback Todd's punt for the next score. Todd standing in his own end zones was hit by a mob of Lamesa forwards. Cozzens, Lamesa center, fell on the ball for the score. Conversion try again failed.

Lamesa opened their second quarter counting with a perfectly booted field goal by Halfback McKinnon from Slaton's 40-yard marker. The Slaton line had stiffly held Lamesa for three downs. The ball was squarely in the center of the field. McKinnons' foot hit the nerve center of the sphere, which sailed high in the air and cleaved neatly over the bar between the uprights.

Tigers Rally

The rampant Tornadoes tabulated a few minutes later in the same period, also from 40-yard line. Fullback Jordon intercepted a pass hurled by Henry, Slaton captain and quarter, and dashed for the score. Lamesa again failed to convert.

In the third period the Tigers outplayed the invaders, made a touchdown which did not count because the Slaton line was offside. After a steady Slaton advance down the field, Halfback Dossey Gentry went over from the 13 yard line. Lamesa held after the play was called back; the Tigers' threat ended.

Lamesa ran wild in the nightcap quarter for three touchdowns. Quarterback Berry and Jordon each made counters after consistent drives down the field.

Freak Counter

The final Tornado touchdown was made in freakish fashion. Lamesa kicked off and the ball went into the Tiger end zones. A spectator threw the ball on the field, the ball was picked up and then dropped by a Slaton player. Mitchell, Lamesa end, seized the ball and stepped two paces for the score.

The statistics clearly illustrate Lamesa's superiority. First downs were Slaton 6, Lamesa 12. Lamesa gained 170 yards to Slaton's 76. Lamesa gained 91 yards passing, Slaton 43. Only in punting did the Tigers excell. Lamesa punted 13 times for a 32 yard average. Slaton punted on 11 occasions for 39 yards.

final downs, was deep in Lubbock territory, too deep. Stidger scored two more touchdowns, the first after a 36-yard drive with Harlow and Bufkin doing some of the fetching. Stidger went over from the 2-yard line the second after a 34-yard drive, featuring an 8-yard dash by Harlow and a 15-yard sprint by Stidger. Anybody could have done it, though, with the blocking they had. Again it was from the 2-yard line that touchdown was made.

One Final Effort

Lubbock marched from its 24 to Amarillo's 36, with White carrying the burden as he had all the game. Gene Alderson started passing, and two of them were completed to White, who ran his own interference, until numbers brought him down.

Fatigued to the breaking point, White took the ball on the last play and literally plowed his way through the Amarillo line for half a dozen dearly sold yards.

Coach Blair Cherry had the satisfaction of seeing, for the first time, one of his teams defeat Lubbock on the local gridiron. That had never happened before.

PARDON us while we heave a large sigh of relief. It doesn't matter so much who won or who lost, just so somebody did and that it's all over.

Something happened to those Westerners yesterday. Yeah, about four touchdowns happened to them, but that's not what we're talking about. What we mean is that the Westerners got cold feet, or stagefright, or something. And we think we know what the "or something" is.

The Westerners have come to depend too much on Morris White. They know he's good, you know he's good and we know he's good, but he's not good enough to lick, single handed, eleven stalwarts such as Blair Cherry threw at him yesterday.

Because his mates feel the way they do, they sorta folded up yesterday and left the matter squarely up to White. "Take it away, big boy," they seemed to say, "it's your party." Which was not exactly sporting of them, if that's the way they really felt.

It was White's party, all right, but it wasn't his funeral. He took up his own burden and that of three or four other men, played his heart out and staged the most courgeous one-man defensive stand we've witnessed in many a day.

There were a few in the Lubbock lineup who seemed to put forth real efforts, but they fell miserably below the standard of previous Westerner demonstrations. We recall that Jeton Meador, a reserve end, went in and tried hard. He did a nice piece of work. Lubbock might have fared better had he been in the lineup all the time.

The loss of big Charles Calhoun was felt more keenly than most of us had dreamed. Upton and Gear tried to replace him, but they lack weight and experience at blocking. Calhoun is a great blocker. And by the way, do not misunderstand the coaches' move in sending Calhoun in yesterday. He shouldn't have played, to be sure, and coaches had no idea of using him. But he clamoured and begged for a chance to go in, even brought a doctor's statement that playing for a few downs would not aggravate his hip injury. In he limped, for one play, and then out. But he was not seriously hurt. It was an heroic gesture for him. He blocked his man out, and Amarillo did not gain on that play, but in blocking his injured hip came into contact with the opponent, and the pain was pretty terrible. Doctors and coaches are pretty sure Calhoun will be ready to go against Pampa Nov 23.

Two other men were out there yesterday eating their hearts out for the Westerners, and when it was all over Coaches Weldon Chapman and Berl Huffman were whipped down about as much as their boys. It is no fault of theirs that Lubbock today does not unfurl two gold and black banners from the housetops, because they did their jobs in capable fashion. The most surprised persons at the game, and after it, were Chapman and Huffman.

THAT AMARILLO team is plenty good, and make no mistake. They're improved marvelously, those Sandies, getting better and better in each game. Lubbock lost to a fine ball club, but Lubbock is capable of playing better football than this morning's papers recounted. This Harlow and Stidger and Bufkin are great backs, and they had a powerful line ahead of them. Give a boy a ball and tell him to follow five more boys and you can win any ball game. The thing is to have five men ahead of him, or even four or three or two, and Amarillo did just that. Any back, if he could run at all, would have looked great behind such ends as Peterson and Cochrane, such tackles as Fitz, Ricketts and Bailey, such a guards as Mathews and a center like Sullivan. We'll elect Captain Blackie Young over Sullivan for our center, but we'd sure like to have Peterson, Ricketts and Mathews on our ball club.

We were impressed yesterday by the commendable manner in which the large crowd was handled. It was the most orderly football crowd of that size we have ever seen, thanks to foresight by Lubbock High officials and the cooperation of local and state officers.

Local police, city and county, special officers and highway patrolmen did a great job yesterday. High school officials and fans have asked this department to thank them publicly for their services, since they refused to take pay for hard work. The cops'll treat you right, we've found, when you cooperate with them, and vice versa. They're pretty nice to have around and about.

Schreiner Defeats Texas U. "B" Team

KERRVILLE, Nov. 13. (AP)—A couple of bullet passes, a field goal and a staunch line that held in the pinches gave Schreiner institute's Mountaineers a 16-6 victory over the University of Texas "B" team here yesterday before a record-smashing holiday throng.

Lowe's 14-yard pass to Jackson and a 20-yard aerial to Graves, plus Reed's 21-yard field goal, accounted for the Mountaineer scoring. Launey, Texas, blocked Reed's attempted punt and dashed 21 yards for the Steer touchdown.

Coston, center, Graves, end, and Hancock, halfback, played sterling defensive games to halt Steer marches. Laurence, Texas back, ran a kickoff back 60 yards in the third period but the drive stopped on the Schreiner nine-yard line.

JAMES ATCHESON WINS

First flight championship in the prolonged Texas Tech faculty golf tournament was won Sunday by James Atcheson with a 4 to 2 victory over W. L. Stangel.

P. L. McRee defeated Charles Galbraith, 1 up, 19 holes, in a semi-final match of the championship flight. McRee will meet Cecil Horne, the other semi-finalist, probably Saturday for the championship.

OWLS TO MEET TEXAS AGGIE GRID TEAM

ARKANSAS TO INVADE S. M. U.; STEERS TO BATTLE FROGS

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Southwest conference football machines clicked off easy workouts yesterday as they started slowly on this week's preparations for Saturday's three championship games.

Coach Jimmy Kitts of the undefeated Rice institute Owls allowed his cohorts to limber-up and gossip about Saturday's victory over Arkansas which was the Owls third 1934 conference win and their seventh victory this season. Starting today, Kitts will have his men bearing down for Saturday's clash with Texas A. and M. at College Station.

Aggies Downhearted

With their morale below par because of last week's loss to Southern Methodist, the Aggies ran through some signal drills, worked a bit on fundamentals, tightened their pass defense and called it a day.

A basic drill in tackling and blocking started the University of Arkansas' practice for Saturday's game at Dallas against Southern Methodist. The 190-pound Arkansas line will be intact for the Mustang game. Coach Fred Thomsen told his team that pass defense would occupy first place on the Razorbacks practice menu this week.

Ponies Stress Passes

In an optimistic mood following Saturday's 28 to 0 victory over Texas A. and M., Coach Ray Morrison told his Mustangs to spend the afternoon tossing the ball around and going down under passes and punts.

The University of Texas Longhorns rested on their 25 to 6 victory Saturday over Baylor, but were served notice from Coach Jack Chevigny that today would be a busy one. The Longhorns battle Texas Christian Saturday at Fort Worth. The Longhorns will pit their full strength against the Frogs unless mishap stalks their camp during this week's practice.

Saturday will be home-coming day for Texas Christian and the Frogs lost no time yesterday starting their preparatory work. They spent the day planning new plays. Offense was the object, an offense that Coach Dutch Meyer hopes will keep the Frogs in the conference running.

The Baylor Bears started routine practice for their game at Shreveport against Centenary.

Turkey Season Is Slated For Today

The turkey buying season, delayed because of Armistice day holiday yesterday, will probably start today with buying and dressing expected to get under way.

Feed shortage is curtailing the market some, especially the size and weights. Number of birds, according to A. H. Brooks of the Lubbock Poultry and Egg company, may be expected about normal, but the large number of unfinished birds will show a smaller poundage.

That concern shipped a larger number of birds in October this year than for several years, Mr. Brooks added. He expects the seasonal total of shipments for the next few months to be a normal one for this section of the state.

Three Unbeaten Squads To Play

NAVY, SYRACUSE AND PRINCETON TO FACE SEVERE TESTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 13. (AP)—Three of the country's six major unbeaten and untied football elevens will perform in eastern arenas this week and the hectic preparations in their respective training camps indicate the coaches fear the worst.

The best Navy team in years, with seven victories bulging under its belt, is faced with the man's sized job of stopping a beaten, but none the less powerful Pitt machine if it is to continue in the race for national honors.

Syracuse, also riding with the pace setters, is sure of a miserable afternoon from Colgate's Red Raiders, coached by Andy Kerr, and though Princeton is heavily backed to trim Yale, Coach Fritz Crisler is well aware that strange things sometimes happen in these Big Three games.

Severe Test For Navy

Coach Jock Sutherland's Panthers, conquerors of Southern California and Notre Dame and beaten only by Minnesota's juggernaut, are expected to give the middies their toughest afternoon of the season so far.

That Hamilton is running no chances with the Pittsburghers is seen in the announcement that he will flash an entirely new offense—formations, passes and running attack—on Pitt.

Minnesota Favored

Two other undefeated teams will be in action in the middle west with Minnesota, generally regarded as the nation's No. 1 eleven, a heavy favorite over Chicago, and Illinois, victorious over the crack Army machine, risking its chance for a Big Ten title tie against Wisconsin.

Alabama, also with a perfect record, and the south's outstanding contender for national honors, figures to keep its slate clean at the expense of Georgia Tech.

Two Teams Considered

Alabama and Navy are considered Rose bowl possibilities if they go through undefeated Minnesota, Illinois and Princeton would be eligible. But the two former are barred by Big Ten rules against post-season games and Princeton has a similar agreement with Yale.

Armistice day games around the country yesterday contributed one major upset. Slip Madigan's powerful St. Mary's Gaels were bowled over 6-0 by the University of California at Los Angeles eleven. Boston college beat Centre, 7-0, and Maryland's Terrapins turned back Virginia Military, 23 to 0.

Abilene Christian Downed By Austin

SHERMAN, Nov. 13. (AP)—A hustling Austin college team outclassed the crippled Abilene Christian college here last night, 27-6, in a Texas conference game.

Hodges scored twice, Buchanan and Clements once and the Kangaroos added a safety to pile up their total. Parker threw a 22-yard pass to Hardegree to give the visitors their only score late in the second period. The entire Kangaroo squad saw service.

TED CLARK TO ENTER RACE

HORSE OVERLOOKED IN BETTING TWICE AND WON BOTH TIMES

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Nov. 13. (AP)—When Ted Clark goes to the post Saturday at Arlington Downs in the $2,500 added Texas Centennial handicap it will be interesting to see what kind of play he gets at the pari-mutuel windows.

In the Arlington Downs inaugural, Ted Clark was completely overlooked in the betting. All he accomplished in that race was to establish a new one mile track record and pay off a straight $2 mutuel ticket with $162. Saturday in the $10,000 Waggoner handicap, Ted Clark was again overlooked by thousands of persons seeking the winner. Again he galloped in with a new track record and a rich mutuel of $21.80 to win.

Harry Sinclair, who once owned the famous million dollar Ranocas stable, is a daily visitor at Arlington Downs this week. The oil baron is spending his time at the Dallas API convention during the a. m. hours but the p. m. hours send him to Arlington. One of the feature attractions Thursday, which will be API day at Arlington, will be the Sinclair handicap.

After several disappointing races, Clarify, owned by W. C. Stroube of Corsicana and trained by A. G. Tarn, broke down yesterday while striving to win the $2,500 added Fort Worth handicap. Clarify was carrying top weight of 117 pounds with H. Callahan up when the break down occurred. This fine four-year-old by Chatterton out of Maharance, was led from the track without returning to salute the judges' stand. Too much weight in recent races contributed to the break-down. Clarify had been nominated for Saturday's running of the Texas Centennial handicap, but naturally will not compete.

FAMOUS FOOTBALL FEATS!

COLUMBIA had pointed for the Cornell game all year in 1930, and when Ralph Hewitt stepped back 10 yards from the scrimmage line, with the ball at midfield, and booted a 60-yard drop kick that crossed between the goal posts, cohorts of the Lions were jubilant.

But not for long! Cornell came back with a terrific drive that soon pushed over seven points—and the poor Lion was due to take its annual sock on the chin.

Then occurred one of the most dramatic plays of the season. Hewitt, on his own 10-yard line, caught the Cornell kickoff. On the dead run he sidestepped and stiff-armed his way down the field 90 yards for the Columbia touchdown that won the game, 10-7.

"Change to Plymouth" is to join with the Modern Trend

Who were all those people who, buying Plymouths, gave to Plymouth the most sensational sales gain in automobile history?

Mostly, they were people who had already owned other low price cars. They investigated Plymouth value and found many reasons for changing their opinions about low price cars. They made a new trend.

Now in the New Plymouth Six and the New DeLuxe Plymouth are offered new reasons for that trend to take on even greater proportions. In style, performance, and value Plymouth again sets the pace.

The Clew of the Forgotten Murder

By CARLETON KENDRAKE ©1934 NEA Service, Inc.

"What time was that?"

"Eight o'clock in the evening."

"If he checked out that late." Griff said, "he either paid for an extra day, or else he had some understanding with the room clerk."

"Probably an understanding with the room clerk. We're not particularly crowded," the bell captain told him.

"Let's go see if we can find out."

"Okay," the bell boy said. "You wait here, chief, and I'll go prowl around a little bit. I think maybe I can find out. I tell you what I think I can do. I think I can contact one of the boys who took a pint of whisky up to his room. I remember, the boy asked me for an okay on him."

The bell boy grinned confidentially. "Of course," he said, "that's just between you and me, chief."

Griff nodded. "The management strict?" he asked.

"They're not strict about what we do," the bell captain said, "but they're awfully strict about what they know about. They know when to keep one eye closed—and when to keep both eyes closed."

"I see." Griff told him. "I'll wait. You find out what you can."

The bell captain departed and was back within less than five minutes.

"I've got him located for you," he said. "His name is Harry Fancher and he lives at 3692 Kenwood avenue, Millvale. At any rate, that's the address he gave on the register."

Sidney Griff looked at his watch. "A night drive," he said, "would bring me into Millvale just about daylight."

The bell boy regarded him curiously.

"It would," he said, "be a long way to go if the man had given a phoney address. Lots of them do, you know."

The bell boy grinned with the worldly wisdom of a youth who has made his living in and about hotels.

Sidney Griff nodded thoughtfully. He handed the boy another $5 bill. He went to the telephone booth and put through a call for the police headquarters at Millvale. Within 10 minutes he had them on the line.

"You have a city directory there, as well as a register of voters?" he asked. "This is Sidney Griff, the criminologist."

"What is it you want?" asked a gruff voice at the other end of the line.

"I want to find out whether you have a Harry Fancher registered in town, what his occupation is, and where he lives."

"Hold the line," said the voice, with a weary lack of curiosity, engendered by a life that made crime a mere matter of daily routine.

After a moment the voice came over the wire.

"Yes, there's a Harry Fancher registered. He lives at 3692 Kenwood avenue, and he's an inventor and machinist."

"Thank you," said Griff, and hung up.

Harry Fancher, attired in towseled pajamas, with his hair in wild disarray, regarded Sidney Griff with meek brown eyes.

"Did I get you up?" asked Griff smiling cordially.

Harry Fancher nodded his head then added after a moment, "I'm sorry."

Griff raised his eyebrows. Fancher went on to explain.

"I shouldn't have slept so late," he said. "Usually I'm up earlier but, this being Sunday morning, I stayed in bed."

Griff regarded the man with curious, speculative eyes.

"I am the one who should make the apologies," he said. "for disturbing you at this hour. But I drove all night in order to get here—that is, the best part of the night."

"To see me?" asked Fancher, raising his brows.

"Exactly," Sidney Griff agreed.

"Won't you come in?"

Fancher led the way into the house, his slippers sliding along the floor. He waved a hand and indicated a chair in the sitting room.

"I'm sorry," he said, "the room looks like this. It's just the way I left it when I went to bed last night. I do quite a bit of reading and research work, and I'm not always tidy about putting my books back."

Griff surveyed the littered table and picked up one of the trade magazines at random.

"You're an inventor, I believe?" he said.

"Well," Fancher said, "I don't know as you could call me that. I'm a tinkerer. I like to tinker with things."

"Did you know Frank B. Cathay of Riverview?" asked Griff.

There was a flicker of fire in the meek brown eyes.

"He had me come on a wild goose chase all the way to the city," Fancher remarked. "If he didn't want to finance my invention, why didn't he say so in the first place? Why did he go to the trouble of writing me a letter and telling me how wonderful he thought my invention was, and then fail to keep the appointment he made with me?"

"He wrote you?" asked Griff.

"Yes."

"Have you his letter available?" Griff inquired.

"Why, yes, I think so."

"I wonder if I could see it?"

Fancher's slippered feet made shuffling sounds as he crossed to a writing desk. He opened the desk and turned to the criminologist.

"I'm sorry," he said. "about the condition of this desk. I haven't been able to get at my filing for a few days. It's in pretty much of a litter."

"Quite all right," Griff said. "Don't bother to apologize."

The inventor fumbled around through papers, finally brought out an envelope. From it he took a letter.

"Here it is," he said.

Griff examined the letter carefully. It was written on the stationery which read simply, "FRANK B. CATHAY — INVESTMENTS—908 First National Bank Building, Riverview."

There followed a date line, with the name of the city and state. The letter, which was addressed to Harry Fancher, at Millvale, read,

Dear Mr. Fancher: I have been very much interested in your correspondence relating to your new static eliminator for radios. While, ordinarily, I do not finance inventions, I would be very glad to have a discussion with you for the purpose of ascertaining upon what mutually profitable basis we can arrange for the manufacture and sale of your device.

Will you please meet me at Hillcrest Hotel on Monday, the 19th of March at the hour of 10 o'clock p. m.? I will be glad to go into matters in detail at that time, as I expect to be in the city in connection with other business. I would suggest that you bring with you your patents and any data you may have on the cost of manufacture.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) Frank B. Cathay.
(To Be Continued)

Fancher continues his story, involving a pretty brunet and a roadster, in the next installment.

This Is The ENJOYABLE LAXATIVE

Feen-a-mint, the delicious mint chewing gum laxative, gives you no harsh, upsetting action, no strain, no after-effect discomfort. It tastes just like your favorite gum. The pleasant, easy action of Feen-a-mint is due to the fact that you CHEW it. Saliva juices mix with it like they do with your food, and so it goes into the system gradually. Thus, no laxative mass hits your system suddenly to upset its delicate balance. Feen-a-mint is ideal for children, but thoroughly positive for adults. Doctors prescribe the laxative in Feen-a-mint. It is for pleasant correction without upset to diet or appetite. Delay is dangerous. Today, get back on schedule and stay there with delicious Feen-a-mint. At druggists, 15c and 25c.

OIL AGREEMENT SUSPENSION SEEN

DALLAS, Nov. 13 (AP)—Lifting of the temporary suspension of the purchasing agreement between East Texas oil refiners and major companies was expected today at the purchasing plan.

Dr. E. R. Lederer, allocator for this district and head of the committee, said an announcement on resumption of the plan would be made today.

The plan, designed to stabilize the price structure of gasoline, was temporarily abandoned "pending the working out of several details", Lederer said. Buying orders in the field were stopped upon reports to executives of the majors that a few of the refiners were not abiding by the plan.

T. M. Deavenport, executive secretary of the independent refiners association of East Texas, said "the fault of the failure was not that of the East Texas refiners but of methods used by those supposed to put it into operation."
