Nixon Busy At Retreat

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. AP - Massive correspondence and paper work will occupy Richard M. Nixon in coming days, in addition to whatever Watergate turmoil might lie ahead.

Three principal assistants are working with Nixon here at his oceanfront retreat in his transition from president to private citizen. In addition, he has met with two close friends.

The Presidential Transition Act provides Nixon with staff support for six months. Principal tasks are to handle correspondence remaining from the end of Nixon's presidency and to arrange for movement of his voluminous presidential papers.

The assistants also are handling liaison with the new White House of President Ford.

The three top aides here with Nixon are his former press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler; former appointments secretary Stephen Bull and military aide Col. Jack Brennan. Several lower ranking assistants from White House days also are here along with Dr. Walter Tkach, Nixon's personal physician in Washington.

The staff is working at the office compound formerly called the Western White House, located on a Coast Guard facility adjacent to Nixon's 26-acre estate. Operators at a telephone switchboard, greatly undermanned from previous times, now answer "San Clemente" instead of "Western White House."

Under the Former Presidents Act, Nixon is entitled after the six months transition to nearly $100,000 annually for support of an office staff. An aide said this office likely will be quartered at the former Western White House. He also said there definitely will be a presidential library to house Nixon's papers and mementos, although a site has not been determined.

The aide, who asked not to be named, said Nixon has been reading and working in his office, where news service tickers still operate. He said the former president will seek far greater privacy as citizen Nixon than as chief executive.

On Sunday Nixon worked in his office for more than an hour and visited with friends C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo and Robert Abplanalp, aides said. In the afternoon the former President went on a three-hour outing, spending an hour on the beach at Camp Pendleton Marine Base, just south of his residence, then driving with Rebozo to Red Beach to join Mrs. Nixon and their daughter Tricia and son-in-law Edward Cox. The family returned home in late afternoon.

Earlier Abplanalp and Rebozo, interviewed briefly at a nearby restaurant while they lunched, said they had talked several times with Nixon during the weekend.

"We are out here as friends to do what we can-that's all," said Abplanalp. "He seemed fine; he is not upset."

Both men said any more substantive remarks would be inappropriate. Through an investment company, the two own about three-fourths of the acreage in the Nixon compound.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, Aug. 12, the 224th day of 1974. There are 141 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1898, the peace protocol ending the Spanish-American War was signed after hostilities lasting three months and 22 days.

On this date:

In 1658, a guard of eight men was established in the Dutch colony of New Amsterdam. It was the first police force in America.

In 1851, Isaac Singer of Pittstown, N.Y., was granted a patent on his sewing machine.

In 1914, Britain declared war on Austria-Hungary at the start of World War I.

In 1941, President Franklin D. Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchhill met at sea to draft the Atlantic Charter.

In 1959, token school integration began in Little Rock, Ark., as six black students enrolled in a formerly all-white high school.

In 1962, the Soviet Union made space history by sending a cosmonaut into orbit while another cosmonaut already was circling the earth.

Ten years ago: The United States sent four large turbojet transport planes to the Congo to help President Moise Tsombe fight a rebellion by hauling troops and supplies to combat areas.

Five years ago: Catholics, Protestants and police battled in Londonderry in the worst outbreak of violence in Northern Ireland in more than 30 years.

One year ago: American planes were carrying out heavy bombing around Cambodia's capital of Phnom Penh as the U.S. Congress was moving to end the bombing.

Syrian President Hafez Shuffles Military Command

By The Associated Press

Syrian President Hafez Assad shuffled his country's military command today, bringing in as chief of staff the head of the Syrian team that negotiated last spring's Golan Heights disengagement agreement with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Maj. Gen. Hikmat Shehabi, in his mid 40s, headed Syria's military intelligence service before Assad promoted him from brigadier and gave him the army's top post. He replaced Maj. Gen. Youssef Shakkour, chief of staff during last October's Middle East war.

This and other changes, made by presidential decree, were the first in Syria's armed forces heirarchy since the October war.

They came as Syria's government-controlled press charged that Israel was preparing to launch a fifth war with the Arabs, a charge Israel has made repeatedly against Syria.

Shehabi is a long-time confidant of Assad. He led a Syrian military team to Washington last spring to negotiate with Kissinger Syria's terms for a separation of forces with Israel on the high ground separating the countries.

The eventual signing of the disengagement agreement helped open the way for Richard M. Nixon to become the first American President to visit Syria. Nixon and Assad announced during the visit the renewal of diplomatic relations between Washington and Damascus, severed during the 1967 Middle East war.

The radio broadcasts announcing the shakeup gave no official reason.

Lebanese newspapers also claimed in Beirut that the Soviet Union has warned Palestinian guerrillas Israel "is about to deal a major military blow on one or more Arab fronts."

The press reports charged that Israel was preparing for a two-pronged offensive across its frontiers with Syria and Lebanon. The objective was said to be "the destruction of Syria's military power and the elimination of the Palestinian guerrilla presence in Lebanon."

Despite the Arab talk of war, Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon said on Sunday he expects Middle East peace talks to resume in Geneva this year.

Allon met with Kissinger last week in Washington as part of a new round of discussions among the American secretary of state and Israeli and Arab officials. Allon said last week's discussions brought no decisions on the next step in Israeli-Arab negotiations.

Labor Pledges Ford Support

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Organized labor has pledged support for the new President despite Gerald R. Ford's nearly solid antilabor voting record in Congress.

Ford, according to the AFL-CIO, voted "wrong" 109 times and "right" on nineteen occasions when it came to legislation favored by labor during his 25-year congressional career.

But with Ford assuming the presidency, organized labor's chief spokesman, George Meany, pledged on behalf of the 13.5 million-member AFL-CIO "all possible support in meeting the grave and serious problems the nation faces."

Similar comments came from other labor leaders.

United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock said his union would cooperate with the new administration "in any effort to correct the enormous economic and moral difficulties the nation faces."

"You can count on our support and cooperation in your efforts to bring America back to the principles upon which it was founded and under which it has prospered," wired President Floyd E. Smith, president of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers.

Teamsters chief Frank E. Fitzsimmons, a staunch ally of former President Richard M. Nixon, said his union is "ready to unite" behind Ford.

President Jerry Wurf of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes union, referred to Ford's conservatism but said "we are willing to work with him on the very real problems facing the country."

Labor leaders generally consider Ford a conservative on most issues and although they rarely saw eye-to-eye on legislation they respect his integrity.

An AFL-CIO staff official called Ford's relationship with the labor federation on Capitol Hill "exceedingly friendly."

"He was a man you could see anytime, a man you could talk to," the official recalled. "This was not a man who was unapproachable."

Both Ford and labor regard inflation as the No. 1 problem facing the country and the new President is expected to call for reduced government spending while urging business and labor to restrain wage and price increases.

Despite the promised cooperation, workers are unlikely to react too favorably to any call for holding down pay increases as they try to catch up with a nearly 5 per cent loss in real wages over the past year.

How long Ford's honeymoon with labor lasts will depend on what economic proposals the White House puts forth.

Air Crash Fatal To 47

OUAGADOUGOU, Upper Volta (AP) — At least 47 persons were killed today when an Air Mali jetliner crashed near here, the government reported. There were 13 survivors.

The Russian built Ilyushin-18 jet was en route from Jidda, Saudi Arabia, to Bamako, Mali, when it crashed.

First reports indicated that the pilot attempted a crash landing on the road linking the capital of this West African republic and Niamey, Niger.

Ford To Outline Aims To Nation On TV Tonight

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford goes before Congress tonight to call for national unity after the splintering era of Watergate while pledging his administration to fresh efforts to combat inflation.

Pausing briefly in his broad search for a vice president, Ford conferred with his advisers and worked on the speech as he began his third full day in office.

His address before a joint session of the House and Senate, scheduled for 9 p.m. EDT, is to be telecast and broadcast nationally.

Aides said the new chief executive would promise "full, fresh efforts" to stabilize the economy. In the words of one spokesman, Ford sees inflation as "Public Enemy No. 1."

Arriving from his suburban home at 7:25 a.m., Ford beat many of his White House aides to work. He went directly to his Oval Office, where in the next three hours he held meetings with transition adviser Donald Rumsfeld, holdover White House staff chief Alexander M. Haig, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Press Secretary Jerald F. terHorst.

Aides indicated Ford would not set out a specific anti-inflation program in tonight's address, though detailed proposals will follow soon.

His address was expected to stress the need for national conciliation and would outline the "spirit and the tone of his administration," aides said.

They said Ford won't disclose the name of his choice for vice president in the address. The search for his successor won't be complete until late in the week, one aide said.

With a whirlwind series of 11 White House meetings on Sunday, Ford accelerated his consultations with congressional and political friends, who said women and Democrats are among those being considered for the No. 2 post.

After the meetings, Ford told a newsman "I'm not ruling out anything or anybody." Other sources said it was highly unlikely that he would stray from a list of about a dozen GOP leaders in making his selection.

Republican national chairman George Bush emerged from Sunday's meetings with the backing of an influential conservative, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

"He's Mr. Clean and that's what the country wants," Goldwater said of Bush, a former Texas congressman and U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Greyhound Bus Is Hijacked

CAMARILLO, Calif. (AP) — Authorities said today that three armed men boarded a Greyhound bus and raped a pregnant teen-age girl, pistol whipped a man and robbed all 34 passengers before making a getaway.

A Ventura County sheriff's spokesman said the girl, who was not identified, was six months pregnant. The spokesman said she was raped in the restroom aboard the bus, but was otherwise unharmed and continued the trip.

The trio boarded the San Francisco-bound bus at North Hollywood and pulled out handguns and a sawed-off rifle about 30 minutes later. As one of the robbers kept a pistol on the driver and another stood at the rear, the third walked down the aisle demanding money and valuables from the passengers, police said.

Glenn B. Coons, 56, of Santa Barbara, was hit with a gun after he told the robbers he wasn't carrying any money, deputies said.

"It was a nightmare," said Mats Grape, 24, a student visiting here from Sweden. "I was frightened. The blacks were so full of hate and so nervous, it made me frightened."

The gunmen, all identified as Negro males in their early 20s, got about $3,000 in cash, travelers checks and jewelry, then ordered the bus driver to stop near a freeway exit where they got into a waiting car, police said.

Anders Franzen, 25, also vacationing from Sweden, said that just before the robbery he heard one of the men whisper, "I want to kill some of these passengers."

But he said another answered: "No, no killing."

"I was frightened to death," Franzen said. "I was afraid to say anything and I didn't tell my friends. I just waited and hoped nothing would happen."

Police said they had no leads in the case.

Group Leaves On Bus Trip

A delegation of Snyderites left at 7:30 a.m. today on an all-day trip to publicizes the Scurry County Museum and school opening activities here.

The bus junket, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce Merchants Committee, headed first to Colorado City. Other stops were to include Loraine, Roscoe, Sweetwater, Roby, Stamford, Aspermont and Rotan.

The group was to have lunch in Anson and the bus was due to return to Snyder around 6 p.m. Making the trip were local businessmen, members of the Scurry County Museum Association, representatives of Western Texas College and others.

Kissinger Keeps Peace Talks Alive

By The Associated Press

As artillery fire rumbled again in northern Cyprus, the peace talks in Geneva stayed alive only through last-minute intervention by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

But evidently in a gesture of good will, Greek Cypriot troops late Sunday began evacuating Turkih enclaves they occupied after the Turkish invasion began July 20. And the Cyprus government freed 13 Turkish prisoners of war in exchange for Friday's release by the Turks of five Greek Cypriot POWs.

The Greeks pulled out of four Turkish villages in eastern Cyprus, and U.N. troops moved in to keep peace. A U.N. spokesman said the Greek Cypriots would evacuate four more Turkish communities in the southern coast cities of Larnaca and Paphos today.

The occupation of Turkish villages by Greek Cypriot forces has been a major issue at the Geneva talks. Many Turkish Cypriot villages remain under Greek control.

The sound of artillery fire Sunday night broke three days of quiet on the Mediterranean island. The shooting appeared to come from the Kyrenia Mountains about 10 miles north of Nicosia, where the invading Turkish army and Greek Cypriots fought until late Thursday.

Neither of the warring sides nor the U.N. peace force had immediate comment on Sunday's shooting.

The four armies on Cyprus—Greek Cypriot, Turkish, British and the U.N. peacekeeping force—reinforced their defenses on Sunday. Britain flew in 600 Gurkha mercenaries from Nepal and placed on alert in London 400 Royal Marine commandos.

In Geneva, the peace talks among the foreign ministers of Britain, Turkey and Greece came near collapse over Turkish demands to divide Cyprus among its Greek and Turkish populations. The three countries guarantee Cypriot independence under a 1960 treaty.

Kissinger reportedly telephoned Turkish Premier Bulent Ecevit in Ankara and urged him to keep the talks alive. The secretary of state then met with President Ford for half an hour to bring him up to date on Cyprus.

The peace talks finally convened Sunday—delayed nine hours by urgent consultations among political and military but little progress was reported.

Showers Continue To Fall Over Area

Thundershower activity continued intermittently over the weekend in the Snyder area, adding 1.89 inches to the official rainfall record at the city water plant.

The heaviest weekend rains fell late Saturday as squall lines swept across the county again. The official gauge in Snyder logged 1.19 inches in the 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. Sunday and .70 for the 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. today.

The latest showers were lighter to the west, with only .30 reported last night around Union.

At lake J.B. Thomas, .20 was measured Saturday night and .30 was measured Sunday night at the dam.

Brisk winds accompanied the Sunday evening showers, and there was considerable lightning and thunder.

The latest rains boosted the total for August here to 4.46 inches.

The U.S. Weather Service reported that the Sunday thundershowers were scattered over most of West Texas. Temperatures remained on the cool side, with a low of 63 degrees recorded this morning in Snyder, with a high Sunday of 86.

Just before dawn, the activity extended from near the Big Bend northward through the Hill Country to near Abilene. Heavy rains brought some street and stream flooding to an area from near San Saba to Sonora in Southwest Texas.

Warm southerly winds kept overnight readings in the 70s and low 80s in parts of Central and Southeast Texas, but just before dawn, temperatures ranged from 63 at Dalhart in the Upper Panhandle to 68 at Waco in Central Texas.

Mild weather was predicted for most of the state today, with some afternoon and evening thundershowers expected across the central portions of the state.

Can transvestite be "all man?"

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from the man who likes to wear ladies' lingerie, and claims to be "all man."

My husband was one of those. He, too, served with the Marines, during which time he was sexually involved with an ex-Green Beret. I finally had a private detective get pictures of the two of them together, which was all the evidence I needed. His boyfriend was the father of four, and I was pregnant with my fifth at the time.

We are divorced now, and nobody can understand why I left a handsome, 6-foot, 210-pound, masculine-looking man who was "good" to me and the kids, and who had a pleasant, easy-going personality.

Abby, please warn other women that men who like to wear women's lingerie are not "all men" like they say. I don't care if they're ex-marines, ex-policemen or olympic champions. Don't use my name. My children don't know about their father. Sign me...

BEEN THERE

DEAR BEEN: Men who get their kicks from dressing in women's attire are transvestites. Some are bi-sexual, some are homosexual, and some, strangely enough, are strictly heterosexual. And unless a woman can go along with it (which takes a very understanding woman), these men are not for marrying.

DEAR ABBY: Can you tell me in what state I can marry my former daughter-in-law? She was divorced from my son two years ago.

I have been looking after her ever since her divorce, and we are very fond of each other. It is not what you think. I only want to marry her so she will be the sole owner of my estate.

Answer soon as I have heart trouble.

BORROWED TIME

DEAR BORROWED: Since there is no blood relationship between you and your former daughter-in-law, you may get married in any state.

DEAR ABBY: Tell the small-town bartender who doesn't like to lie over the phone to handle those calls as his big city cousins do. The tactful bartender will page the individual, and if no one answers the page, that is what he reports to the caller.

Some people meet in bars for business reasons, and don't want to be bothered by phone calls; others simply want a few relaxing moments away from their daily routines. A well-managed bar sells a lot more than drinks, which is one reason patrons will pay six times more for a drink at a bar than they would for the same thing at home.

PATRON

CONFIDENTIAL TO ROBERTA: Don't envy anyone. Few things are as good on the inside as they appear to be on the outside.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for all Occasions."

Old Ford House Empty, For Sale

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Jerry Ford slept here. And if you're interested, it's yours from the Veterans Administration for $500 down and a $9,000 mortage.

For seven years Ford lived at 649 Union Street, which was then in the ritzy section of town. But in 1974, the three-story wood frame house where the President lived as a teen-ager is not exactly a national shrine.

In fact, it is empty. Bottles are shattered on the lawn, some windows are long since broken, and weeds grow in the crumbling walkway. The porch screens are ripped and rusting, and a white cardboard sign warns the VA will prosecute trespassers.

"From a real estate standpoint, it's not a salable neighborhood," said John Bierce, property manager for Westdale Co., the VA broker.

The last owner of the gray house on the southeastern side defaulted on the mortgage two years ago. Since then, the VA has had only a $100 offer to buy the place.

Neighbors say the area is a bit crime-ridden. Sylvia English, 78, who has lived on the block long enough to remember Ford's father, says she's been robbed "two or three times, but I'm not afraid. I can live here nicer and cheaper than if I moved."

Ethel Henderson said it was crime that forced her to move out of the former Ford home and across town five years ago.

"When I go back now and see what bad shape it's in it just makes me sick," she said.

Rosie Sylvester, who lives next door, thinks it would be nice if the government restored the home in view of its presidential significance.

Gerald R. Ford Sr. moved his family into the four-bedroom home in 1923, and Jerry played football at nearby South High School.

Around 1930 the family moved to the more affluent suburb of East Grand Rapids.

Miss English said she remembers Ford Sr. but not the President.

"He was a real nice man, a lovely gentleman," Miss English said. "He was a good Republican."

Thousands Greet Ousted Makarios

LONDON (AP) — Archbishop Makarios, the ousted president of Cyprus, was greeted by an estimated 7,000 persons who cheered, wept and threw rose petals when he arrived to say mass at a Greek Orthodox Church.

The crowd was composed mainly of Greek Cypriots now living in Britain.

Nixon's Decision Supported

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — More than three-quarters of Americans surveyed in a Gallup poll believe Richard M. Nixon "did the best thing" by resigning the presidency.

But more than half of those polled oppose an investigation of possible criminal charges against him.

In a telephone survey conducted by the polling organization last Thursday night and Friday after Nixon's resignation speech, 79 per cent of those questioned said he "should have resigned." Thirteen per cent said he "should have stayed" and 8 per cent gave no opinion.

Fifty-five per cent of the 550 persons questioned opposed a criminal investigation of Nixon. Thirty-seven per cent favored such an investigation, and 8 per cent offered no opinion.

On the question of whether the former president's "actions regarding Watergate were serious enough to warrant his resignation," 65 per cent said yes, 22 per cent said they were "not serious enough" and 13 per cent gave no opinion.

Asked to choose from a list of six possible vice presidential nominees suggested in the survey, 23 per cent chose Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater and 18 per cent chose former New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California was next at 12 per cent. Tennessee Sen. Howard H. Baker and former U.S. attorney general Elliot L. Richardson received 11 per cent each. George Bush, chairman of the Republican National Committee, received 1 per cent and the remaining 24 per cent gave no preference.

Sherman Pleads Guilty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey's former press secretary, Norman Sherman, pleaded guilty today to aiding and abetting illegal corporate donations from the milk producers, a spokesman for the Watergate Special Prosecution Force said.

Sherman's business partner, John Valentine, also pleaded guilty, the spokesman said.

Sherman and Valentine were charged in a criminal information with a single misdemeanor count of aiding and abetting the use of corporate money to purchase computer-mail lists used in Humphrey's 1972 presidential campaign and in a number of other Democratic campaigns.

Sherman had been Humphrey's press secretary when Humphrey was vice president. He and Valentine later formed a computer-mail firm with offices in Minneapolis and Washington.

The spokesman said the two entered guilty pleas in U.S. District Court in Minneapolis.

The two were charged July 30. The charge said Associated Milk Producers Inc., the nation's biggest dairy-farmer cooperative, had used $82,000 in corporate money to buy the computer lists from the Valentine-Sherman firm.

The lists were used only in political races, and did not give any business benefit to the co-op.

Sen. Humphrey, D-Minn., has said he wasn't aware that corporate money was being used.

Valentine and Sherman each face maximum possible punishment on the misdemeanor of one year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Congress Members Eye Earlier Adjournament

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon's resignation as president, ending the prospect of long impeachment proceedings, apparently will enable members of Congress to do more campaigning for re-election in the fall.

Congress intends to maintain this week the momentum it built up trying to clear the decks for the expected impeachment debate, now canceled. However, the objective now is to make possible an abbreviated summer recess and earlier adjournment than had been hoped for.

The House plans to recess from Aug. 22 to Sept. 11, the Senate from Aug. 23 to Sept. 3. Some party leaders said Congress may be able to adjourn early in October.

However, the early adjournment depends on a number of factors. President Ford, who addresses a joint session of Congress tonight, may indicate additional legislation he wants considered.

Another factor is how quickly Congress acts on Ford's nomination of a vice president. Ford's own confirmation last fall, although nearly unanimous, took about two months.

The session also could be lengthened if efforts are made to pass tax, trade, health insurance and other controversial measures before the November elections.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La.; Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., and Rep. Martha Griffiths, D-Mich, said on Sunday that Congress would pass the health insurance bill this year.

The Senate and the House are nearing final action on two major pieces of legislation—one a compromise $11.3 billion housing bill and the other a measure to protect employes in private industry against loss of pension benefits.

The housing measure is to be acted on first by the Senate, possibly early in the week, while the House is expected to send the pension bill to the Senate later in the week for final action.

The House also is to take up a $20 billion mass transit bill.

In other congressional developments:

—Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said Communist China is encouraging strong NATO defenses in western Europe and discouraging any immediate withdrawal of U.S. troops from the area.

The Chinese fear that if the Soviets no longer have to reckon with a credible NATO in the West, then Moscow could intensify its political and military pressure in the East, Jackson said in a report to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

—The Senate Special Committee on National Emergencies said that many of the most significant presidential decisions have been withheld from Congress and the public.

The committee's report said the gaps in the public record are "primarily due to a failure by Congress to specify substantive standards under which all presidential directives should be recorded."

One Injured In Mishap Here

Snyder Police were called to a major automobile accident at 4:18 p.m. Saturday at the intersection of Twenty-fourth Street and College Avenue. Involved were a 1974 Ford Galaxie, driven by James D. Blankenship of 3002 Crockett and a 1972 Chevrolet Impala, driven by Al Ray Young, 3401 Irving, Young was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by Galyean Ambulance Service, where he was entered for observation. Considerable damage was done to each vehicle.

City Firemen Are Kept Busy

Snyder firemen were kept busy over the weekend, in spite of the rains. They were called out twice Saturday and once Sunday. The first call Saturday came at 3:05 p.m. to a car fire at Seventeenth Street and Avenue R. Five minutes after this call came another to 509 Avenue F, where an asphalt pot had overheated.

—The Sunday alarm occurred at 12:30 p.m., and involved a heater treater two miles west of Knapp.

Even Whales Have Highs

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — A new high has been reported in the gray whales counted during migration off Yankee Point near here.

The number spotted by National Marine Fisheries Service observers during the period Dec. 18, 1973, through Feb. 4 of this year was 3,492 — nearly 200 more than the previous year, and more than in any winter since the count began seven years ago.

Debt Paid

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — A Washington County school superintendent found the following message in his mail:

"This is for the $3.50 that was taken from a desk drawer in the office 45 years ago. The Lord Jesus saved me and I was born again."

Inside the envelope received by Richard Bishop of Trinity Area School District was a $10 bill.

Charge Is Filed

Charges of felony theft were filed Saturday against Roy Stephen Chamberlain. The charges were filed in the court of Justice of the Peace Jimmy Billingsley. Bond of $2500 was set and later posted.

Market Awaits Address

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market retreated gradually in slow trading today while Wall Street marked time awaiting President Ford's address to Congress tonight.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 6.65 at 770.65. Declines maintained a narrow edge on advances at the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers said the chief depressant on the market was continuing inflation and the apparent absence of any ready means of curbing it. Ford was expected to announce no dramatic shifts from the Nixon administration's economic approach, but rather an intensified anti-inflation effort using such strategies as spending cuts and restrictive monetary policy.

Polaroid was the Big Board volume leader, down ⅞ at 25½.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index was down .04 at 79.01.

The NYSE's noon composite index of all its listed common stocks was down .26 at 42.13.

Scott Sees Ford On GOP Ticket

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott predicts that President Ford will head the GOP national ticket in 1976, despite Ford's past assertions that he's not interested.

Scott, appearing Sunday on "Face the Nation" on CBS television, said, "Conditions may force him to run."

The Pennsylvania Republican added: "I rather think he will run ... I think the party will force it."

When Ford was nominated to be vice president last year, he said he would not run for president in 1976.

Ford Speech To Be Broadcast

NEW YORK (AP) — The three television networks will broadcast live President Ford's speech to a joint meeting of Congress at 9 p.m. EDT tonight. The speech also will be carried live on radio.

Drive Planned For March Of Dimes

Work on Snyder's first March of Dimes Mothers' March in five years got under way Monday in the home of Mrs. Stanley Walker, 3604 Kerrville Avenue.

Attending the planning session were Mrs. Ann Lane of Big Spring, executive secretary of the MOD Caprock chapter; Mrs. Linda Walker, Mothers' March chairman, Mrs. Ginny Griffith, secretary for the Scurry County unit; and Mrs. Peggy Kennedy, unit treasurer. Also present were newly appointed regional chairmen which include Mmes. Jan Johnson, Esther Thompson, Ann Noble, Gloria Romo and Mr. Mike Ezzell. Mrs. Maria Corrales also attended the session.

Coordinating activities of the Snyder March of Dimes group with the rest of the MOD Caprock chapter, which includes Big Spring, Lamesa, Colorado City, Snyder and the surrounding areas, is Mrs. Ann Lane.

Speaking of the new March of Dimes nucleus, Mrs. Lane asserted, "They realize that they have got to do more than talk. They are an action group."

Local interest in March of Dimes work started when Amitie Junior Study Club viewed a birth defect film presented by Mrs. Lane. That group then sponsored a bake sale which raised over $85 for the March of Dimes at the July 4th Celebration in Towle Park. The enthusiastic MOD group already plans to man a healthy baby booth at the Scurry County Fair which will be held in the Coliseum on Sept. 19-21. They have also slated a Mothers' March coffee Sept. 24 to introduce workers to the campaign, which will probably be held in late January.

It is estimated that 700 babies a day, or seven per cent of all live births in the United States are born damaged in some way. Snyder's MOD group hopes to educate citizens about causes and prevention of birth defects.

Persons interested in working on the Mothers' March or in others March of Dimes activities may contact Mrs. Stanley Walker at 573-8312 or Mrs. David (Ginny) Griffith at 573-2702.

Low-Cost Food Plan Up 20¢

WASHINGTON (AP) — Food costs for low-income families rose 20 cents a week in June while meals designed for richer households went up 10 cents, new government figures showed today.

The Agriculture Department said the cost of a "low-cost" food plan for a family of four in June was $44.10 per week, compared with $43.90 in May.

A "moderate-cost" menu cost $55.10 a week, compared with $55 in May, and a "liberal" plan was $66.70 in June, compared with $66.60 in May.

The three plans, which allow for larger quantities of higher-cost items such as meat, fresh fruit and vegetables for moderate and liberal menus, each went up 50 cents a week from April to May.

In the low-cost plan, a family—including two elementary school children—is allowed more beans, potatoes and grain products. Prices of those have frequently gone up faster than some of the other normally more expensive items.

Compared with a year earlier, the June figures showed the low-cost menu was up 17 per cent, or $6.30 per week. The moderate-cost menu was up 13 per cent, or $6.50; the liberal plan rose 12 per cent, or $7.

Nixon's Wax Likeness Moved

LONDON (AP) — The wax likeness of Richard M. Nixon has been put on the shelf at Madame Tussaud's Wax Museum.

"After hearing the news of his resignation, we decided it would be better that he be stored," a museum spokesman said Sunday. "He was no longer in a relevant post."

The Nixon figure once stood in the Grand Hall, a room reserved for world leaders. The lifesize likeness was removed on Friday after Nixon resigned as president of the United States.

Lightning Is Fatal To Youth

CLAYTON, N.M. (AP) — Picnickers, campers and fishermen at Clayton Lake State Park in northeast New Mexico walked around the body of a 22-year-old Texan all day Sunday, apparently thinking he was asleep.

At 7 p.m., a park ranger, who decided against approaching the youth nearly 12 hours earlier, discovered he was dead.

Union County Coroner Robert Gordon said Phillip Anthony Diller of Hereford, Tex., had died Saturday night after being hit by lightning.

Police theorized the youth, who apparently was traveling alone on a motorcycle, was struck after taking refuge under a park shelter.

Park ranger Martin Franz said he saw the youth early Sunday morning, but decided to "let him sleep."

"I collected from some other campers about 60 feet away, and we figured he was just sleeping," Franz said. "I came back about 7 p.m. and I realized he hadn't moved."

The rangers said about 50 persons had been in the area where the youth was found. Officers said Diller's motorcycle was found nearby.

The Weeders Guide

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

Tender crops in your garden will soon fall victim to frost in northern areas, while they continue to flourish in the south.

But you can plant some vegetables in mid-August and have a fruitful harvest. One such item is lettuce. This is what to do.

Drop two or three seeds together about one foot apart along the row, which can be the same one from which earlier crops were harvested.

Sow the seed about a half-inch deep; seedlings will be up in a few days. Thin them to one seedling.

Keep the weeds out, water when needed, and spray against aphids and leaf hoppers, if necessary.

It is probably a bit late in more northern sections of the country, but even fairly to the north you can plant some vegetables, such as peas, cabbage, lettuce, in August and get results. Select seeds advised for your particular area, seed that is fast-maturing, and sow directly into the soil. Water in to speed germination.

If you reside in a climate similar to that of Michigan, here are some recommendations:

Snap beans, Provider or Spartan Arrow.

Beets, Ruby Queen or Detroit Dark Red.

Broccoli, Green Comet or Spartan Early.

Brussels Sprouts, Jane Cross or Long Island Improved.

Cabbage, Stonehead 66 or Ruby Ball Red or C-C Cross.

Cauliflower, Self-blanche or Snowball Imperial.

Chinese Cabbage, Early Hybrid G or Springtime.

Kale, Dwarf Blue Curled or Vates.

Kohlrabi, Early White Vienna.

Lettuce (head) Buttercrunch or Ithaca.

Lettuce (leaf) Salad Bowl or Grand Rapids.

Onions (green or bunching) Beltsville Bunching or White Portugal.

Peas, Freesonian, Greater Progress or Dwarf Gray Sugar.

Spring radishes, Cherry Belle or Champion; winter radishes, White Chinese or All Seasons White.

Spinach, America or Viking.

Turnips, Tokyo Cross or Just Right.

If the soil was fertilized well in the spring you might not need more. But if natural soil fertility is low, apply a commercial mixture such as 5-10-10 after seedlings are growing rapidly, about one cut per 25 feet or row.

Plant Pansies

If you want big, strong pansy plants next spring, sow now in an even mixture of peat, soil and perlite. Cover seeds lightly, wrap flat to retain moisture and keep in 60-65 degrees. After germination, move flat into light. When seedlings are the size of a quarter, transplant to porous soil outdoors. Water and fertilize regularly. In fall, reduce watering and eliminate food. Protect plants during winter with straw mulch after first freeze. In spring when new growth appears, remove mulch, fertilize, let plants harden two or three weeks, then transplant. Don't hurt the roots.

Pat's Home Is Firebombed

CERRITOS, Calif. (AP) — A mysterious firebombing has scarred the green-shuttered home where Mrs. Richard M. Nixon spent her girlhood.

Police said they had neither motive nor suspects for the early Sunday firebombing, but said "an unidentified flammable liquid was poured on the south wall of the recreation hall attached to the home."

The fire, spotted by a paper boy, was extinguished by Los Angeles County firemen in about five minutes, doing only about $1,500 damage, a spokesman said.

The home where Thelma "Pat" Ryan lived as a child stands in the center of a 4.4-acre historical park named for her and dedicated to children. Mrs. Nixon was born in Ely, Nev., in 1912, but the next year her family moved to this little house in Cerritos when her father started farming in nearby Artesia.

Don't Let Your New Flooring Floor You

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

A do-it-yourselfer can lose money if he is the type who must try every new thing that comes on the market just because his own labor is cheap.

For some people this attitude can be costly. One couple has put down two kitchen floorings within 16 months, and they still aren't satisfied. It has become so easy to install flooring that many do-it-yourselfers buy what catches the eye without knowing much about the product.

Such decorating projects need to be preplanned, insists one flooring executive. Before you decide on a new floor ask yourself some questions, suggests Mel Haines, a vice president of Mannington Mills, a family-owned company making hard surface floorings.

In determining what your floor needs ask yourself, he advises, what your traffic problems are, how often things are spilled and dropped and what maintenance features you need. You should also consider comfort and appearance, whether you want a smooth or embossed surface, and whether you want to install your own flooring or have it done professionally. Then, too, you should decide on color combinations and designs that are compatible with your own decorating scheme. Taking it all into consideration with your budget, you should be able to reach a worthwhile conclusion that narrows your choice. After that, equip yourself with knowledge of available products, industry jargon — and go shopping.

For example, of the popular types of resilient flooring — another word for hard surface flooring — the rundown goes about like this:

...Vinyl asbestos tile — usually can be installed on any subfloor, an advantage. It is porous and tends to absorb liquids, and needs wax. It is easy to install and relatively inexpensive. The pattern does not usually penetrate the depth of the material. It is often selected for basements.

...Solid vinyl tile — softer than vinyl asbestos, porous and dirt resistant, and the pattern goes to the depths. It is easy, economical and durable. Some do not need wax. These are more expensive and can cost as much as carpet.

...Linoleum is considered very durable, porous, requiring care, but if waxed will resist moisture and grease. It has a long surface life although it is likely to dent easily.

...Rotovinyls, sheet vinyls with rotogravure printed design, have a top protective surface of transparent vinyl. Backing is laminated to the sheet of vinyl. Durability varies according to construction.

Rotovinyls with foam core provide comfort underfoot; those with asbestos fiber backing can be installed even in the basement. Waxing is not required on these floorings, which emerged in 1970, but the surface will clean easier and shine with vinyl dressing. The great variety of design encourages their use in other rooms in addition to their use in the bathroom or kitchen.

An improvement on those rotovinyls now provides no-wax floorings which have special wearing surfaces that retain gloss without waxing. Marketed by at least three manufacturers, some rotovinyls have antistaining ingredients built in. They are also decorative and available in about every bright decorator solid color.

In heavily-trafficked rooms, sheet flooring does away with the dirt-catching cross-hatch of seams, one reason for the renewed popularity of sheet flooring.

And there is a key to the thing called mils (1-1000th of an inch). Mils refers to the wear layer (top surface) on resilient flooring. A 10-mil wear layer should withstand the foot patrol for at least 10 years; those marked 14 mils are touted as good for 14 years; and the 20 mils should be around for several decades.

One way to keep costs down on the no-wax floorings which cost more than the others is to do the installation job yourself. These days vinyls are touted as softer and easier to shape which should make the job easier. Easy installation may be achieved too by using the double-faced tape, the kind used to put down carpet.

Sheet vinyl is available in 6-foot and 12-foot widths, which may make it possible to avoid seaming which was heretofore a big hurdle for do-it-yourselfers who had difficulty coping with the chemical adhesive needed to join the pieces. For a kitchen that is odd-shaped or wider than 12 feet, you might feel safer having a professional job done.

Mummies and ancient relics such as baskets and cloth have been found in well-preserved condition in Arizona.

To Sew Or Buy Is Question

COLLEGE STATION—Every homemaker must decide for herself whether she will buy or make new clothing for her family.

Marilyn Brown consumer education-clothing and textiles specialist, texas Agricultural Extension,Serivce, The Texas A&M University System, pointed out several advantages and disadvantages to both buying and home sewing.

Some points in favor of buying ready-made clothes are:

—They can be soen in final form and are ready for immediate use,

—Many fabrics in ready-to-wear garments are not available in piece goods,

—Buying rather than making saves time,

—Many notions and trimmings are available to the manufacturer but not to the home sewer, and —More consumer information is available on ready-to-wear clothing than on bolts of fabrics.

"But some people consider sewing a highly rewarding creative experience. To them, there are more advantages in making than in buying the finished product," the specialist noted.

Some points for the home sewer to consider are:

—Can she plan and visualize the garment well enough to be satisfied when it is completed,

—Does she have the necessary time to finish a quality garment,

—Does she have the skill to make the garment as planned,

—Does she have the necessary equipment,

—Can she find the fabric and notions of the quality, color and textures desired,

—Can she fit herself properly, and

—Is her motivation sufficient to make her give up other activities in favor of this.

Ford Puts Economy Woes First On Agenda

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — It's the No.1 problem — the economy — so proclaimed by Gerald Ford himself before he assumed the presidency. And he seemed to confirm this by working with economic advisers hours after taking the oath.

If it weren't for Watergate, the true significance of the nation's economic confusion would be evident. The problems are unprecedented in their intensity: A 12 per cent prime rate and roughly the same rate of increase in consumer prices.

Undoubtedly inflation helped undermine the presidency of Richard M. Nixon, if only because people thought he and his administration were so preoccupied with his Watergate problems that he ignored theirs.

Their fears seemed to be confirmed when Nixon in his final economic message told Americans to cut back on their spending.

Ford seemingly recognizes the dangers of preaching rather than acting. "It serves no purpose to lecture the harassed public," he said in a recent speech.

Despite Nixon's repeated assurances that the worst of inflation was behind, the worst always was ahead.

On his final full day in office it was announced that wholesale prices for July rose 3.7 per cent, or at an annual rate in excess of 40 per cent.

Significantly, just as prominently as he called attention to his foreign policy successes, Nixon omitted any reference in his resignation speech to his domestic policy. His legacy in domestic economic policy is disarray.

Savings banks are rapidly losing deposits because they cannot offer customers the high interest rates available elsewhere. Home mortgages therefore are frequently unavailable.

More seriously, there is considerable feeling in financial circles that some savings banks are headed for more trouble, and that action to restore confidence is required by the Ford administration.

Public utilities, hard hit by higher energy and borrowing costs, are so severely pinched they must reduce or suspend dividends. This in turn lowers their capacity to raise capital to meet demands for their services.

The purchasing power of the ordinary factory worker is declining. The jobless rate, although still not exceedingly high at 5.3 per cent, is widely expected to reach 6 per cent before the end of the year.

Some people on fixed incomes have been reduced to desperation by the rapid erosion of their buying power. They cannot cut back; they cannot trim any fat from their budgets without cutting to the bone.

The stock market is depressed. Those high interest rates cause trouble there too, because they draw capital into debt issues that ordinarily should be supporting stocks. And besides, corporate profits aren't that good.

A move against high interest rates and high prices has to be a top priority for President Ford. Mere recognition of the difficulties might in itself produce some relief.

Missing Guest Had Valid Excuse

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The guest of honor was absent, but Gerald R. Ford had a valid excuse.

While still vice president, Ford had promised to speak in person at the dedication on Friday of a Watts district housing project.

The audience attending the dedication of the new, 200-unit housing development in the predominantly black district of Los Angeles heard a Ford speech recorded an hour before he was sworn in as President in Washington and piped here by telephone.

"I had looked forward to meeting in person with the new homeowners at today's ceremony, but fate had something else in store, so I'm still in Washington," the President said.

'Superfan' Argues On Radio, TV

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — There are sports fans and there are sports fans. And then there's "Superfan" — Alan Minter, a Miami realtor. He argues a lot about sports in his spare time on radio and television.

He argues with fans each week night on radio station WINZ in Miami, has argued with them the past two football seasons Sunday nights on WPBT-TV and may do it again this season. Both shows are called "Superfan" and the formats are phone-in.

Minter, 34, who says he majored in history and psychology at the University of Miami, tries to avoid controversy, of course.

But he will say, for example, he thinks Howard Cosell is "absolutely horrible" or that ice hockey "is an idiot game ... just get a bunch of middleweights and put 'em on ice. It's just a fight, anyway."

"Alan is quite knowledgeable about sports and a very opinionated guy, although he often changes his opinion as the occasion merits," opines George Dooley, president of WPBT and a longtime friend of Minter.

It was Dooley who first put him on the air, despite Minter's lack of experience.

Minter was placed in a living room set and told to talk sports with callers, live, for 30 minutes each Sunday after the day's pro football jousts.

Dooley, who said he's considering a third "Superfan" season with Minter, says the idea was to have a controversial guy who talks like the average sports fan, not like a sports commentator.

And Minter, an avid sports fan who says he played a year of football and three of baseball in college, filled the bill, Dooley said.

In the early days, he added, Minter was wont to end abruptly a sports colloquy by telling the caller, "You're dumb, you swine, I don't ever want to hear from you again" and hang up.

Minter laughed. He conceded he was brash and occasionally rude in the beginning, but only to drum up viewer interest.

He says he doesn't deliberately try to insult a caller, but both shows "have kind of a bar-room atmosphere and they can insult me back. I'll take anything as long as they don't go too far and I don't go too far with them. I've had guys purposely bait me, but that's good, too."

Did he get many threats of bodily harm in the early days from outraged fans?

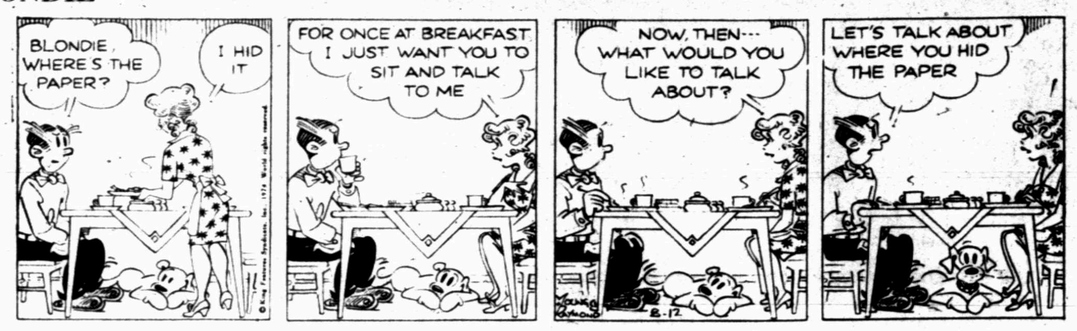

"No, as a matter of fact, I didn't," said Superfan. "I don't think I come off that way. I think most people go along with my act."

The cost of products a farmer must buy to produce his crops and animals rose 67 per cent between 1950 and 1972.

Junior Editors Quiz on DOGWOOD TREES

QUESTION: Can you tell me about the dogwood tree?

* * *

ANSWER: Flowering dogwood is America's most decorative tree. It is small alongside of other trees in the forest, but is conspicuous in early spring with its beautiful blossoms which appear before the leaves come out on surrounding trees. Like many of the flowering trees, the blossoms unfold before the leaves. The dogwood looks like an umbrella of flowers and is enjoyed by motorists as they travel along a parkway.

Dogwood is interesting in all seasons. After the beautiful white flowers fade, the leaves emerge with curved, almost parallel veins, dark green above and pale green underneath. The red fruits, clusters of berries, are attractive and serve as food for wild life. In fall and winter, the silvery flower buds shaped like urns adorn the tree. The bark of the dogwood is unusual. It resembles somewhat the hide of an alligator. Nursery men cultivate dogwood as an ornamental for the lawn.

"Recess" Gets Mixed Reaction

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The owner and head coach of the Houston Oilers have criticized a proposal that striking National Football League veterans report to training camp for a 14-day cooling off period while negotiations continue.

Coach Sid Gillman called it ridiculous. Owner Bud Adams said he would vote against it.

Meanwhile, Oiler running back Fred Willis, a spokesman for 32 striking Houston veterans, said they would report to camp Tuesday.

"Even if the owners vote for this, I'm not about to take a veteran under those conditions," Gillman said Sunday at the Oilers training camp here.

"All it would do is disrupt our camp. To come in and then maybe walk out two weeks later is the most ridiculous thing I've ever heard of. No, I won't accept that. It's either got to be all or nothing."

Adams, contacted at his ranch near Waller, Tex., agreed with Gillman.

"We want players who will come into camp and stay," Adams said. "If they ask for my vote on it, I'll certainly say no. If they all come in, we may be forced to cut some of our rookies and then they (veterans) walk out again. We'd be back where we started, without players."

Gillman said anyone coming into camp now will have a hard time getting ready, "and I don't care who he is."

"In fact, I think that anyone who comes in after this point, well, he may not have much of a season," Gillman said.

"They're simply going to make a lot of mistakes and I'm going to play the people who make the fewest errors."

Prior to the NFLPA announcement, striking Oiler veterans met in Houston to discuss the strike situation.

"Before we heard from the executive committee (of the NFLPA), 32 of us voted as a team that we were going to stay out of camp as long as the strike continued," Willis said. "Now, we'll be going into camp as a team. Contrary to what some people think we want to play football this year."

Willis said he could not understand why management would oppose the players' decision to report.

"The decision was made at the request of the federal mediator," Willis said. "We're just trying to get a collective bargaining agreement in the next two weeks. I can't understand why Sid Gillman or any body else would be upset unless they have advance information there's not going to be any agreement in the near future."

Four more veterans reported to the Oilers' training camp Sunday, bringing the veterans in camp total to 20.

The latest report include defensive tackle Al Cowlings, safety-cornerback Zeke Moore, safety Joe Blahak and center Ron Lou.

LOOKING AT LIE—Golfer Gay Brewer pushed back the branches of a pine tree to take a look at his lie after hitting into the rough on the first hole in the PGA Tournament in Clemmons, N.C. The Tournament was won by Lee Trevino.

Trevino: King Or Clown Prince?

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

CLEMMONS, N.C. (AP) — The clown prince of big time golf is back, and everybody is hailing him as a king.

"Do you feel like the old Trevino?" Lee Trevino was asked Sunday after he had beaten out Jack Nicklaus by a stroke in a cliff-hanging victory for the 56th PGA Golf Championship.

"I don't know how the old Trevino felt," the bouncy, ebullient Mexican-American retorted. "Maybe I will have to ask my wife."

It was hot and humid and there was no icy drink waiting for the new American professional champion.

"I will buy," Trevino said. "Can anybody cash a check."

He reached in his dark trousers and pulled out the first prize check for $45,000.

Everybody laughed.

Almost everybody laughs at Lee Trevino. He is loose and uninhibited. He is quick with the quip. He has a rich homespun philosophy. He is to golf what Yogi Berra and Dizzy Dean have been to baseball and Muhammad Ali—without Ali's occasional venom and militancy—to boxing.

He has enriched the game with both his skill and his Trevinoisms:

"If you keep your mouth shut too long, you get bad breath."

"I missed three fairways—the first and 15th."

"Now that I got all this money, maybe I'll buy the Alamo and give it back to the Mexicans."

"I come from such a poor family, my sister was made in Japan."

Since Trevino joined the tour in 1967, he has established himself as one of the giants of the game—twice U.S. Open and twice British Open victor, winner of 18 tour victories and banker of more than $1,270,000 in golf purses alone.

His first PGA triumph solidified his position as one of the three best players of the current era along with Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player.

He gave one of his most impressive and gutty performances in winning the 1974 PGA crown in a head-to-head duel with Nicklaus, who had to be content with the second purse of $25,700 after finishing one stroke back.

Trevino has become a personal nemesis of the great Nicklaus, beating him in a playoff for the U.S. Open crown in 1971 and also beating him out for the British Open titles in 1971 and 1972.

Nicklaus paid him the supreme tribute after Sunday's futile chase over the 7,050-yard, par-70 Tanglewood course.

"This man is fantastic," Nicklaus said. "He hardly made a mistake out there. He hit almost every fairway and every green. I hate to lose but when a guy plays as well as Lee did, there is nothing one can do."

Trevino fired a final 69—a score matched by Nicklaus—for a 72-hole score of 276, four-under-par. Nicklaus finished at 277, with the closest other pursuers a quartet two shots farther back at 279. They were the fantastic, 62-year-old Sam Snead, 69; Dave Hill, 69; Hubert Green, 70, and Bobby Cole of South Africa, 71.

The final round Sunday evolved into a three-way battle among Trevino, Nicklaus and Cole, with Trevino never once losing the lead although young Cole, 26, pulled even five times.

Top final scores and money-winnings Sunday in the 56th PGA National championship on the 7,050-yard, par-70 Tanglewood Golf Club course:

Lee Trevino 73-67-68-69—276	$45,000
Jack Nicklaus 69-69-70-69—277	$25,700
Dave Hill 74-69-67-69—279	$10,958
Hubert Green 68-68-73-70—279	$10,958
Sam Snead 69-71-71-68—279	$10,958
Bobby Cole 69-68-71-71—279	$10,958
Gary Player 73-64-73-70—280	$7,200
Al Geiberger 70-70-75-66—281	$6,635
Don Bies 73-71-68-70—282	$5,850
John Mahaffey 72-72-71-67—282	$5,850

All-Stars Split In Two Contests

The Snyder Miss Softball America Major League All-Stars defeated Breckenridge 12-9 Saturday morning, and then lost to Abilene North 21-10 in a marathon that began Saturday evening and was completed Sunday morning.

In the win over Breckenridge, the Snyder All-Stars jumped off to 8 runs in the first inning and were never headed in the contest. They added two more in each of the 2nd and 3rd frames. Breckenridge tallied once in the first, and then score 2 runs in the 2nd, 1 in the 3rd, 2 in the 5th and 3 more in the final inning.

Scoring for Snyder were Holly Green, Carol Byrd, Tammy Ashworth, Joann Martinez, Jo Ann Alarcon, Esmeralda Romero (3), Ann McClain (2), Josie Rios, and Tonja Banks. Ann McClain and Carol Byrd hit singles, while Esmeralda Romero singled and doubled. Tonja Banks was the winning pitcher.

Scoring in the game against Abilene North were Holly Green (2), Tammy Ashworth, Carol Byrd, Ann McClain, Jo Ann Alarcon, Joann Martinez, Connie Pollard, Sheri Cotton and Esmeralda Romero. Hitting singles were Tammy Ashworth (3), Rachel Chaidez, Chrystie Sellers (2), and Deborah Cain. JoAnn Alarcon hit a 3-bagger, and Connie Pollard doubled.

Tammy Ashworth made the all-state tournament team. Cathy Weber of Snyder, who played for Big Spring, made the all-state tournament team in the Senior League.

Offensive-Minded Cougars Must Rely Upon Defense

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Bill Yeoman says defense will have to carry his Houston Cougars through the first five football games this year and if that's the case, the Cougar fortunes are in good hands.

While the glamour boys on offense were pounding out 5,093 yards in total offense en route to an 11-1 record, UH trenchmen were holding the opposition to 2,690 yards in total offense and a mere 99.1 yards per game rushing.

"Our defense is an experienced group and if it can hold up early in the season, it looks like we've got a chance to be half-way decent," said Yeoman, who has eight offensive and eight defensive starters back from last year's Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl titlist.

The most awesome sight UH opponents likely will see this fall is the Cougars' defensive forward wall which includes left end Larry Keller, a senior from Orange, the "midget" of the four at 224; tackles Wilson Whitley and Lee Canalito, both sophomores; and Mack Mitchell, 6-8, 255 senior right defensive end.

Mitchell, a converted basketball player, is the leading executioner along this death row. Mitchell has been the Cougars' leading quarterback sacker the past two seasons, snagging 13 last year.

"I'm just repeating what a couple of pro scouting combines have said," Yeoman said. "The figure if we have a good year and he has a good year, he might be the No. 1 pick in the pro football draft."

"There aren't many 6-8, 255-pound kids around that run a 4.6 40-yard dash," Yeoman said.

As for Keller, Yeoman said "He's never out of position. He hasn't been out of position for three years and he has good speed."

The Cougars aren't too concerned about having a pair of sophomores at the tackle positions. Canalito is an off-season amateur boxer and Whitley is listed as potentially Houston's greatest defensive lineman.

For the few who get past UH's defensive front four, there's an impressive group of linebackers waiting—Harold Evans, Gerald Hill and Bubba Broussard.

Evans and Broussard are two-yeas starters at their positions and Hill is moving to middle linebacker from his defensive tackle position last year. "He did a good job adjusting in spring," Yeoman said. "He's got great speed and football sense."

Todd Williamson and Robert Giblin, a third team AP all-America pick last year, will return at cornerbacks and Barney Williams and Joe Rust will fill in at safties left vacant by Jeff Bouche and Howard Ebow.

The Cougars traditionally field high-octane and diversified offenses that don't like to stand still and this year's group hopes to give the star-studded defense plenty of rest.

Only losses were 1,000-yard rusher Leonard Parker, quarterback D.C. Nobles and tackle Ken Baugh. Nobles, a fleet runner and adequate passer, will be replaced by junior squadman David Husmann.

Parker's replacement will be 185-pound Dallas junior Donnie "Quick Draw" McGraw, who came by his nickname honestly. McGraw gave a preview of things to come with two touchdowns in the 1973 Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl.

Returning starter Marshall Johnson will be at running back with McGraw at fullback.

The Cougars' eight top receivers will return with Frank Scalise at flanker, Bryan Willingham at split end and Marty Watts the tight end.

Sophomore David Brooks will replace Baugh and the rest of the offensive line remains intact including tackle Ken McIntosh guards Val Belcher and Everett Little and center Bert Schupp.

The Cougars' 11-1 record in 1973 was their best in history and they finished tied for ninth in the final AP major college football poll with perennially tough Arizona State.

Houston could settle that score Sept. 7 when it opens its 1974 season at Arizona State.

Chris In Easy Win For Title

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Saying she isn't "tournament tough" after a month without serious play, Chris Evert proved herself wrong in Sunday's women's singles finals of the $130,000 U.S. Clay Court Tennis Championships.

Miss Evert glowed with elation after an almost gaudy 6-0, 6-0 triumph over Gail Chanfreau of France. The startlingly easy victory gave the 19-year-old Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., lass her third consecutive U.S. Clay Court title.

Rentzel Pleased With Comeback

By RON ROACH
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lance Rentzel sprinted, then cut quickly to the sideline and grabbed the pass before going out of bounds. The crowd in Memorial Coliseum cheered the eight-yard gain.

They applauded No. 19 as he jogged back to the Los Angeles Rams' huddle.

And the warm reception on his return to the National Football League was still evident after the game. Rentzel could laugh again, and even though the Rams lost 13-6 to Dallas Saturday night, no one could blame Lance for not sulking over the exhibition game defeat.

Rentzel is back after a one-year suspension for actions detrimental to the NFL—marijuana possession.

"The first pass I caught was a quick out," said the 30-year-old wide receiver starting his ninth NFL season. "I heard the fans yelling and it really made me feel great. They are really great fans. It made me feel like I'd made a touchdown instead of just catching a simple pass."

Even Les Strayhorn, whose 67-yard run with a Craig Morton pass set up the winning touchdown for Dallas, couldn't have been happier than Rentzel. Craig Morton, Rentzel's former Dallas teammate, threw a five-yard touchdown pass to Walt Garrison for the deciding score in the fourth quarter.

Morton took time to congratulate his old friend and former Cowboy teammate after the game.

Not even No. 28 of the Cowboys, rookie defensive back Gerrard Williams, could spoil the evening for Rentzel. They had angry words as one tried to beat the other to a pass.

"Jack Snow came back to the huddle and said, 'Watch it, twenty-eight is really throwing elbows.'" Rentzel said.

"I smiled a lot, and I laughed at him," said Lance of No. 28. "And I told him I'd be watching him play on World Football League TV."

A 90-day jail sentence and $2,000 fine have been stayed pending outcome of his appeal, on grounds of illegal search and seizure of his Hollywood apartment in early 1973. He pleaded guilty to possessing marijuana and the appeal was rejected by the California Court of Appeals. However, his attorney said the 1974 season will be over by the time the appeal is taken to higher courts for final verdict.

Legislators Claim New Federalism Falls Short

By ROBERT LOCKE
Associated Press Writer

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The New Federalism, the foundation upon which former President Nixon built his domestic policy, has fallen well short of its billing, say many state legislative leaders.

"It's working, yes, but much less well than what the President said he intended. It's not working that well," said Colorado House Majority Leader Carl H. Gustafson, a Republican.

The Associated Press contacted leaders of more than a score of state legislatures around the nation during the past week. Most said they welcomed the proposed return of power and money to the states.

But many also complained, as they prepared to gather in Albuquerque to discuss state issues at the National Legislative Conference meeting this week, that New Federalism didn't go nearly far enough.

Some also argued that the reality of the program was less money and continued red tape.

Texas House Speaker Price Daniel Jr., a Democrat, summed up the common evaluation: "It's a worthy concept, but it is not working as well as we would like."

Oregon Senate Minority Leader Victor Atiydh, Republican, was more emphatic.

"If the New Federalism is supposed to mean a strengthening of states' rights, it's not working," he said. "The government may be returning some responsibilities to the states, but not the authority that should accompany those responsibilities."

Said Republican House Majority Leader Harry Derrickson of Delaware, "It's not working more in rhetoric than in fact. There's little practical evidence that it's working."

At the extreme was connecticut Democratic Rep. Carl Ajello, who said "The New Federalism is an absolute mess."

Kentucky GOP Rep. Harold Demarcus, however, said he's happy with the program. Asked if it's working, he said, "Yes, very much so, especially revenue sharing."

The more common reply, however, was expressed by the Democratic pro tem of the North Carolina Senate, Godon Allen, who said, "The funds still come with too many strings attached."

And New Mexico's Senate minority leader, Republican John Conway, said, "My basic feeling has always been, why send it (the money) to Washington in the first place."

Georgia's Democratic majority whip, Rep. Jack Connell, said, "There have been some indications that the federal government may wish to put more responsibility back in the states. But then they qualify that by saying that if you don't do certain things, they're not going to give us the money."

Another complaint came from the president of the Oregon Senate, Democrat Jason Boe, who said he welcomed revenue sharing "but they're picking our pockets at the same time by cutting off categorical grants in aid."

And Pennsylvania Republican Rep. Sheldon Parker said he's concerned that the power being returned to his state tends to wind up in the governor's office.

"We would like to see the legislative branch treated more equally with the executive branch in terms of decision making, allocation of resources and so on," he said.

Most agreed that at least the New Federalism was a step toward local authority.

"We're moving in a better direction than we were three, four or five years ago," said Republican Senate Majority Leader Raymond Johnson of Wisconsin. "We had all kinds of federally concocted programs that were created there and administered from there. Now we have a more desirable trend, one that I hope will continue."

Arkansas' Democratic Sen. Cal Ledbetter said he thinks "more say-so for state governments is ... the wave of the future."

Soviets To Continue Detente

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has affirmed its intent to pursue the process of U.S.-U.S.S.R. detente with President Ford.

"The Soviet Union will continue in the future to maintain with firmness and persistence a policy line towards further improvement of Soviet-American relations," declared Pravda, the voice of the ruling Communist party.

The Kremlin had earlier expressed "deep satisfaction" with Ford's foreign policy plans. Sunday's statement, however, was the first specifically on the future of detente since the resignation of former President Richard M. Nixon.

"The destiny of the world depends to a large degree on the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A. and the process of detente," Pravda said.

Among Ford's first moves as president was to send Soviet party chief Leonid Brezhnev a private message, presumably pledging to follow the foreign policy course set by Nixon.

The Pravda statement indirectly expressed hope that Ford could steer the 1972 Soviet-American trade pact through Congress, where it has been blocked by demands for eased Soviet emigration policies.

The newspaper stressed that the changing of presidents was an internal American affair. But it added that the event could not be ignored by the world.

Roberts Will Replace Morse

BAKER, Ore. (AP) — State Sen. Betty Roberts has been chosen to replace the late Sen. Wayne Morse as the Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate seat held by Republican Bob Packwood.

Packwood, who is seeking reelection, unseated Morse six years ago. Morse, an early foe of American involvment in Vietnam, died last month in the midst of an attempt at a political comeback.

Sen. Roberts, a 51-year-old lawyer, won the nomination on the fourth ballot Sunday at the Oregon Democratic Convention. She ran a close second for the party's gubernatorial nomination in the May primary election.

Dear Joyce: We would like to get information about government laws concerning men and women getting equal pay. - T.C., Evanston, Ill.

The Federal Labor Department's Employment Standards Administration has two booklets, "Equal Pay, WH Publication 1320" and "Equal Pay, WH Publication 1179." Number 1320 generally explains the law and Number 1179 gives more nitty-gritty examples and how to ascertain if you're a victim of pay discrimination. Both have been revised and are at the printers. EXPECTED delivery date is October, but one never knows. If you want a copy of both booklets, specify titles and numbers and mention that you want 1974 REVISED copies. Send your request on a postcard to me at this newspaper. Don't be surprised if you don't receive them until late October or November.

If you can't wait, call the nearest office of U.S. Department of Labor - Wage and Hour Division - and explain your problem.

Ford Has Early Chances To Strengthen Party

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford will have two early chances to show whether he takes the task of building a strengthened national Republican party more seriously than his two GOP predecessors.

The first will come when he picks a vice president, the second in his approach to November's midterm elections.

For all of their own personal success at the polls, neither Dwight D. Eisenhower nor Richard M. Nixon paid much attention to restoring the national Republican dominance that prevailed before Franklin D. Roosevelt's election to the presidency in 1932.

Eisenhower, the war hero turned statesman, had little interest. Nixon, a party man all his life, became more and more interested in his own political fortunes exclusively.

One of the legacies of the 1972 campaign, besides the scandal that ultimately drove him from office, was the bitterness in the GOP over the President's failure to help bring other Republicans in on his coattails.

Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, the 1972 GOP chairman, has said he felt like an outsider at Nixon's victory celebration. GOP lawmakers always felt Nixon could have saved several senators who suffered narrow defeats.

But Ford demonstrated in his long congressional tenure and his brief spell as vice president a devotion to fellow Republicans that could spell brighter GOP days ahead.

His major task, in recent months, has been to help Republican candidates, part of a broader effort to give leadership to the party at a time the national administration was floundering.

Some efforts this fall in behalf of Republicans seem inevitable, and an extended Ford honeymoon could be a big boost to GOP candidates.

Before that, however, Ford must pick his No. 2 man, and the choice will tell much about his views on the party.

In the past, Ford has talked of the need to broaden the GOP base, a view that led him to help liberal Republicans as well as conservatives and to suggest in 1968 that Nixon choose a liberal running mate.

Such a view now would appear to dictate the choice of a party moderate, either an established figure such as Nelson A. Rockefeller or a younger Republican such as Gov. Daniel J. Evans of Washington, Sen. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon or Sen. Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts.

Brain Pacemaker Implant Works

By WILLIAM SCHIFFMANN
Associated Press Writer

TULARE, Calif. (AP) — Mark Bevins has simple goals: To talk without stuttering, to care for himself. Things most people take for granted.

And with the help of a pair of experimental brain pacemakers implanted in his skull two months ago, the Tulare teenager may be a little closer to those goals.

Bevins, 18, victim since age seven of a rare unnamed nervous disorder which gradually blinded and paralyzed him, returned to the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco last week to pick up two timers designed to regulate the pacemakers automatically.

Until then, the battery-powered machines, implanted in an experimental operation after Mark suffered a seizure which nearly took his life, had to be turned on and off several times an hour. At night, they were left off so his father, Jake Bevins, could sleep.

During the seizure last May, Mark's heart and respiration stopped. His parents thought the progressive ailment had finally claimed their son. But the youth revived, and on June 16 Dr. John Adams implanted the tiny pacemakers in an effort to reverse the effects of the illness.

The pacemakers supply to the brain a tiny electric current, designed to block muscular rigidity and control the shaking and tremors which make it impossible for Mark to feed himself or control his movements.

The father says Mark's condition has improved in the short time since the operation. "It was so gradual we didn't notice until recently how much he had really improved."

He said he could tell when "we disconnected the pacemakers ... once they were off, we could really notice the change."

Although the doctors have made no such promises, Mark's parents still hope for a dramatic recovery.

The disease has not impaired Mark's mentality, and his father says the youth is pleased with his progress.

"When we shut off the pacemakers it showed how much good they really did, and it gave him a lot of encouragement.

"Right now he just wants to be able to talk and use his hands to take care of himself," Bevins said. "But his real goal is to walk and be just like you and I again."

Car No Bargain

VALPARAISO, Ind. (AP) — A Valparaiso man who waited more than three months for delivery of his new car had driven only 69 miles when the car started to fall apart.

Architect Douglas Pierce took his 1974 car to a garage, where mechanics told him a tie rod had fallen off, bolts inside and outside the transmission, in the bell housing and in the tie rod system were loose and the clutch linkage was dangling.

When Pierce complained, an observer quipped, "What do you expect for $4,000?"

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Planning funeral arrangements can be a difficult, confusing task—and an expensive one, too. It is hard to make such important decisions in an atmosphere of grief and sadness, harder still to seek out the facts necessary to make informed decisions at such a time.

It may be easier for Texans to make responsible choices should the need arise if they have gathered sufficient information in advance about legal requirements, alternatives to the traditional funeral service and burial, and what questions to ask when arranging a funeral.

As for legal requirements, contrary to what many think, there is no Texas law requiring embalming, although in most cases it is a practical necessity.

The State Health Department, the agency with the authority to set regulations in this matter, requires only that a body held more than 24 hours either be embalmed or refrigerated, unless death was due to communicable disease, in which case it must be embalmed.

If a body is to be shipped by common carrier, it must either be embalmed or enclosed in an airtight metal casket encased in a shipping case, or in a casket encased in an airtight metal or metal-lined shipping case.

There is also no Texas law that says a casket or other burial container must be placed in an airtight vault before final disposition, although some cemeteries—both municipally owned and private—do have such a requirement.

As a matter of fact, as the Texas Funeral Directors Association points out, there is nothing in Texas law that requires a family to use the services of a licensed funeral director. The specific requirements of the public health and vital statistics laws of the State would make it extremely difficult, if not impossible, however, for an untrained person to handle, transport, or bury the dead. And any person performing such services for the public or for a fee must be licensed as a funeral director or embalmer.

A growing, although still decidedly small, segment of the population is investigating and choosing alternatives to the traditional funeral service and burial, according to some studies.

Some persons choose cremation, others donate their bodies to medical schools, or will certain organs such as kidneys or eyes to organ banks. Still others join memorial societies which handle the details of burial, cremation, or body donation at a lower than average price for members who pay a fee to join.

While any of these alternatives generally will be less expensive than a traditional funeral and burial, many people choosing them do so not only for economy but for reasons of personal preference. It's worth noting that persons who donate organs still have the option of a traditional funeral and burial.

For that majority of Texans who still favor the traditional funeral and burial, our Consumer Protection attorneys strongly advise acquiring information in advance when there is time to think logically about such matters. They suggest that you consider, or have others consider, the following when making funeral arrangements:

-Are you or your friends and family familiar with the funeral home and its reputation for good service?

-What is the least expensive service offered by the funeral home and what does it cover? What is added to this for a more expensive service? Do you consider the additional items worth the extra cost?

-Inquire about the price of the casket, services, and other charges before discussing any insurance, pension, or government death benefits due to the family of the deceased.

-Ask what is included in the total cost of the service. Be sure you know about services or goods that will result in extra charge (newspaper notices and police escort are often considered "extra").

-Find out about cemetery charges. In addition to the plot or mausoleum space, there usually are charges for opening and closing the grave or crypt, and there may be charges for maintenance or "perpetual care." If you buy a plot or crypt in advance, there may be additional charges for transferring or selling it if you move or decide you don't want it. Some cemeteries require an airtight vault, an extra cost. Others require a certain type of marker or monument, which is also additional.

The recent Federal Trade Commission study of funeral pricing in Washington, D.C. revealed that persons making funeral arrangements need more information about prices, options, and policies for particular funeral homes and more comparative information for different funeral homes in order to make informed decisions in selecting a funeral home and making arrangements for a service.

Our attorneys say the only way to acquire this information at present is to ask specific questions, either in advance or at the time of arranging a funeral.

Phone Mix-Up Nuisance

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — From the barrooms in Middle America to the salons of Paris come the telephone calls to Gerald T. Ford on who should be picked as vice president.

The leading contenders? California Gov. Ronald Reagan and Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

But groaned Gerald T. Ford: "I try to tell them I'm not the President. I'm Gerald Tierney Ford—the accountant. I'm young and I've got all my hair."

The 21-year-old Ford has an Alexandria address—as does President Gerald R. Ford, who lives 5 miles away but has an unlisted telephone number.

Bachelor Ford said his phone began ringing, and hasn't stopped, since the eve of Richard Nixon's resignation.

"The first few times I thought it was a joke," said Ford. "I played along. But now they're calling at two or three o'clock in the morning. It's a pain in the neck."

He says he has gotten more than 50 telephone calls for the President since his namesake became chief executive on Friday.

Foreign newsmen call. Just plain folk call. Paris calls, Luxemburg calls. Drunks call.

"'Hang in there, Jerry; we're rooting for you,' they tell me," said Ford. "Others tell me to get to work on inflation."

He said another contingent tries the personal touch, like "this is so-and-so, don't you remember me, I met you in Connecticut."

Ford said he attempts to explain to them the telephone mix-up, but often they don't believe him.

And when he hangs up in desperation they just call back.

Still others are truly sincere and offer prayers for the President, he said. They figure when President Ford moves into the White House, things will cool off," said Ford. Otherwise, he's thinking about unlisting his phone number, too.

What did the switchboard operator at Ford's apartment building have to say? "Them people—they're driving us up in the wall," she said.

The Roman Colosseum was dedicated in the year 80 by Emperor Titus with a 100-day Roman holiday featuring gladiators battling each other and wild animals.

SAYS EHRLICHMAN

Nixon Was Aloof With Staffers

By GREGG HERRINGTON
Associated Press Writer

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — As President, Richard M. Nixon purposely remained aloof from dozens of middle and lower level White House staffers and only rarely socialized with his top aides, says John D. Ehrlichman.

Only two or three times in the four and one-third years that Ehrlichman was a top aide to Nixon did the Nixons and the Ehrlichmans get together socially, Ehrlichman says.

Ehrlichman added in an interview Sunday that Nixon's relationship with his then-chief of staff H.R. Haldeman was about the same: Numerous contacts during the working day but only rare private social get-togethers.

"That was not because of a character flaw necessarily, but because of his sense of what the relationship ought to be between the President and his staff," he said.

Ehrlichman also said Nixon, who Friday became the first president in U.S. history to resign, purposely had little contact with middle and lower level White House staffers.

"We talked about the desirability of his just going out and going in and out of offices and saying hello to secretaries and dropping in on staff members," but Nixon rejected the idea, Ehrlichman said.

"I thought the decision was a mistake."

Ehrlichman said if Nixon had spent time talking with those employes "I think it would have enhanced staff performance."

Ehrlichman resigned his White House post as chief domestic affairs adviser to Nixon on April 30, 1973, amidst the then burgeoning Watergate scandal.

He said on Sunday that Nixon "surely must be very unhappy" now. "He's had a very personal defeat in Washington in a political sense and he's an individual who doesn't like to lose.

"It's been my experience that losing does not put him out of business, so to speak, doesn't down him for long. But certainly I'm sure he is what you would call a bad loser."

Ehrlichman said he thinks Nixon, now at home at his San Clemente, Calif., estate, will make a personal comeback and perhaps do some writing and eventually become a senior statesman of some sort.

He said he did not think Congress should continue with impeachment proceedings nor should court action be brought against the former president.

Cure For The Speechless

SIBOVAC, Yugoslavia (AP) — Ibrahim Omeragic, now 92, did not utter a word between 1914 and 1944.

He was numbed by a bomb explosion in World War I but spoke up suddenly when his relatives wanted to divide property at his expense.
