Radio Station KFYO Is Purchased By Avalanche-Journal

DeWitt Landis Is To Operate Local Station

First Broadcast Under New Management Is Heard This Morning; No Changes Made In Personnel Immediately

Plan Improvements

Expanded News Coverage Will Be Offered; Better Programs For Listeners To Be Mapped By New Manager

THE Avalanche-Journal Publishing company, publishers of The Morning Avalanche and Evening Journal, yesterday purchased and this morning takes operating control of Radio Station KFYO, of Lubbock.

At 7 a. m., opening hour this morning, listeners heard for the first time "you are listening to Radio Station KFYO, The Avalanche-Journal station in Lubbock, Texas, The Hub of the Plains and the Home of Texas Tech."

Simultaneously with the change in ownership of the station, hereto-fore owned and managed by T. E. Kirksey, DeWitt "Judge" Landis, experienced in radio business since 1929, became the station's manager. Landis arrived in Lubbock yesterday and will be joined here by Mrs. Landis tomorrow.

Radio Operated Separately

Aside from co-operating in the handling of news broadcasts and program publicity, Station KFYO and Avalanche-Journal papers will be operated entirely separately. Local and sectional news flashes gathered by Avalanche-Journal staffmen will be added to augmented news flashes from the state and nation and as soon as organization details are worked out daily programs of KFYO will be published in the Avalanche and Journal.

Landis comes to Lubbock from Radio Station KGNC at Amarillo, a 2,500-watt station operated by the Amarillo Globe-News. A former newspaperman, Landis has had all types of radio experience from announcing to business management, program details and production.

Remodeling Planned

KFYO's studio, located at 914 Avenue J, will soon be remodeled and improved, Landis announced last night. He said he would also start working immediately to improve the programs and the physical broadcasting equipment. Transmitter and antenna for the station are located at 2312 Fifth street. Landis said the equipment likewise would be improved as soon as possible to do so, thus making for better reception by listeners.

For at least the present, he said, there will be no changes in staff personnel or policies.

The station is operated on an assigned frequency of 1310 kilocycles by authority of the federal communications commission. It operates on 250 watts power during the day and 100 watts at night.

Broadcast periods on week days are from 7 a. m. until 9:15 p. m. and on Sundays from 8 a. m. until 7 p.

Sally Rand Says Sex Appeal Is Necessary For Centennial

DALLAS, April 7. (AP) — Sally Rand, of the shapely figure and famed fan dance, stopped in this Centennial exposition city en route to San Diego today and voiced her opinion that a $25,000,000 exposition without sex appeal was "not much."

She said barring of a nudist colony and the current scrap over whether nude figures in statuary are appropriate for Centennial art are giving the celebration a black eye.

"People are liable to get the impression you're celebrating the arrival of the puritans," she mused.

Ax Murder Bared Here On Tuesday

Decomposed Body Of Mexican Is Found In Shack; Robbery Theory Is Being Probed

THE head slashed open apparently by an ax, the body of Jose Cobarubia, a Mexican, was found in his shack at 122 Avenue N Tuesday afternoon.

Cobarubia, about 45, a sheepherder, had been dead for several weeks. His body was in a late state of decomposition.

Verdict Is Returned

Santos Chavez, a neighbor, said he had not seen Cobarubia for about a month.

J. T. Trigg, coroner, returned a verdict of "murder by person or persons unknown."

A nauseating odor from the locked cabin attracted Chaves and Savino Alvarez, 86, also a neighbor. Some one suggested the odor came from a dead rat.

"No one rat can smell that bad," said Chavez.

So they notified Mrs. George Duval, principal of the Mexcan school, who called police.

Door Battered Open

Assistant Police Chief Don Reeder and Sam W. Fort, police identifications officer, battered open the front door, which was latched from the inside.

The man's body was found beneath his bed clothing, and a mattress. Three emptied purses were found. Nearby was an ax, its blade covered with dried blood. Some of the bed clothing was stained with blood.

Justice of the Peace Trigg was called. He, as coroner, began an inquest, assisted by County Attorney Jess C. Levens. Deputies Sheriff Grady Harrist, Parum Posey, and Bedford F. Carpenter, and Policemen Reeder and Fort.

Crowd Gathers Quickly

Nearly 100 Mexicans, more than a score of them children, some from the nearby Mexican school, quickly gathered about the shack.

Sanders Funeral home was called, the body was uncovered and quickly placed in a wood box. Chaves, his daughter, Rosa, and others identified the ghastly body as that of Cobarubia. All except about 10 of the Mexicans fled, holding their noses.

Fort took the ax, a hatchet, an empty whisky bottle, a kerosene lamp, and other articles from the cabin hoping to obtain fingerprints.

Three Are Arrested

Three Mexicans were arrested for questioning.

Rosa Chaves told officers that Cobarubia, who had lived at the same place for several years, frequently was away from home for as long as four or five months herding sheep. She declared that he was "bound to have some money," because he had worked much of the time.

A rear door of the shack was padlocked on the outside.

The sheriff's office late Tuesday night said, "we know who is responsible." No arrests had been made, however.

(By The Associated Press)

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 7.—Eleven persons—nine passengers and two pilots—were killed today as the Transcontinental and Western's air liner Sun Racer crashed into fog-shrouded Chestnut Ridge, seven miles from here, and burned.

Only the plane's hostess, who staggered valiantly to a farmhouse telephone to report the disaster, and two passengers survived.

The plane, flying from New York to Pittsburgh, struck near the highest summit of the Pennsylvania Alleghanies, where the ceiling of visibility was absolute zero.

The hostess-nurse, Miss Nellie H. Granger, gave first aid to the survivors before she made her stumbling way to the farmhouse, there to report that only Mrs. Meyer C. Ellenstein, wife of the mayor of Newark, N. J., and one man passenger, Charles G. Chalnor of Cleveland, were alive.

The dead, identified by the company's passenger list, were:

Smashing Victory Scored As Voting Record Is Broken

Heaviest Municipal Poll In History Of Lubbock Is Chalked Up And "Conservatives" Take Early Lead To Hold It For More Than 2-To-1 Decision; To Be Sworn In Thursday

IN a smashing victory which brought out decisions of more than 2-to-1 in each of the three races, a "conservative" city ticket yesterday was elected to public office in the heaviest municipal poll in the history of Lubbock.

At the conclusion of the 11-hour voting period between 8 a. m. and 7 p. m., a total of 3,984 persons cast ballots in a heavy stream which kept officials of two city hall polling booths busy throughout the day.

Ross Edwards, running for a second two-year term as mayor and who says he is "just a country boy and proud of it", led the ticket on which W. G. 'Bill' McMillan and J. A. Fortenberry were swept into commissionerships. Derided by opponents as "the fiddlin' mayor who goes a-fishin' between square dances", Edwards took his opponent, City Finance Commissioner B. E. Needles, to a sound cleaning. He polled the surprising total of 2,775 votes to 1,195 given Needles.

J. A. Fortenberry, candidate for commission place 4, was next man on the ballot, defeating opponents handily. He received 589 votes to 1,205 cast for M. C. Butler, candidate on the ticket with Needles, and 147 for J. W. Ross, only "independent" aspirant in the election.

W. G. 'Bill' McMillan, who left his fate in the hands of the electorate without soliciting a single vote and by leaving Monday on a trip to the Big Bend country, also coasted into commission place 4. His opponent, J. C. 'Cash' Royalty, seeking a second four-year term, got 1,374 votes to lead the Needles ticket, while McMillan received 2,587.

The two new commissioners and Mayor Edwards will be given the oath of office at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the regular meeting. Prior to the administration of oath, the commission as it was before Tuesday's election will canvass ballot returns and make the result official.

By charter provision, the commission reserves the authority after each election to designate which members shall assume charge of finance, utilities, police and street chairs. Any person authorized to take affidavits or who is a notary public may administer the oath of office. Each commissioner is required to post bond.

Little "Heat" Generated

Climaxing a campaign which did not generate the "heat" expected, the voting was largely based on differences regarding methods of securing lower gas rates for Lubbock. The Edwards-McMillan-Fortenberry ticket was out in favor of lower gas rates "if they can be secured on a legitimate business basis which will not endanger the financial security of Lubbock." The opposing ticket also was for cheaper gas, but was tagged with the Needles sponsorship of a municipal gas plant to be constructed through issuance of $1,200,000 in bonds, a measure twice beaten in special bond elections and once aired in a district court suit. That proposal also has been espoused by A. J. Richardson, a hold-over commissioner, and by George L. Simpson, a Dallas bond promoter.

Threat Is Dissolved

The election at least dissolved any threat of municipal gas bonds being issued without the approval of a majority of citizens in an election. Commissioner W. B. Price, a hold-over, has already gone on record as favoring no bonds without an election, as have Mayor Edwards and the newly elected commissioners.

The election, while lacking in rancor and personal attacks, was worked at by opposing groups who spared no time and effort in back-

The Woman's Angle

BY MARGARET TURNER
Woman's Editor

DEPARTMENT of commerce figures, supported by the National Retail Dry Goods association, report that there are 10 million knitting and crocheting women in this country. And a survey of public libraries reports that said libraries are very sulky—women who are knitting cannot spare a hand to leaf over pages of a book, so this new handwork fad is cutting tremendously on the libraries' business! More balls of knitting and crochet cotton than baseballs were sold last year.

We haven't checked on the local situation, but after we talk with Miss Lola Mae Rozzell, Lubbock county librarian, we'll let you know.

PEACE WORK

WOMEN are responsible for the organization of a new kind of public body,—the Public Action committee. Without any campaign, but just by word of mouth, this group started with a few members in the spring of 1935 and now has 25,000 throughout the country. There are no dues.

The committee informs its members of the progress of bills in congress which affect international peace and urges members to write their congressmen about them. The purpose is to make congressmen and senators practically aware of the popular desire for peace; and the spontaneous growth of the committee indicates that there certainly is such a popular desire. The committee's office is in Rockefeller Center, New York.

HOW ABOUT YOURS?

ONE of the most used and abused articles the woman carries is her handbag. Too many women are inclined to fill it to over-flowing, so that it rapidly loses its shape.

A recent survey of women's handbags revealed that the average woman carries $6.74 in money, cigarettes, matches, odd scraps of paper, keys, snapshots, lipstick, comb, mirror, a compact, and a bankbook. Four out of four carries an automobile and three out of four have pencils. (We'd like to challenge that sentence. If three out of four have pencils, why do so many women have to borrow them?)

The trouble is that women do not empty the bag often enough to find out what can be thrown away. A bag that is not crowded will last much longer than one filled with useless articles.

Some of the items which a woman should not put in her handbag, but which were found in some of the handbags examined during the survey, are sandwiches, lump sugar, electric light bulbs and shoe brushes.

CONCERNING THE CLOTHES

SOMEONE called us to suggest that the Dallas woman who thinks West Texas women look "wind blown" should be reminded that some of the prettiest informal pictures to be found are of well dressed women pictured on calendars, more than likely walking, or standing against a high wind.

The caller, and it was a man, continued that English women, who are known to be well dressed, have been described as "dowdy." Think of Queen Mary's hats!

Oh well, in its final analysis, some women look grand in calico and others look awful in silk and thus it goes.

CONCERNING APPLES

DON'T know whether you got a sheet from the Apple Institute, but we were fascinated at some of the discoveries. Did you know that two apples furnish enough energy for one to walk two miles, that their cultivation antedates history and that apples cooked in honey are the perfect accompaniment to chicken and rice curry?

ing their candidates. Scores of workers on both sides were busy throughout yesterday and numerous meetings of opposing factions had been held during the two weeks preceding voting day.

Brief Statements Are Made By Three Victors

Three victorious candidates in yesterday's biennial elections all made brief statements at the request of The Morning Avalanche. They follow:

Ross Edwards

"Let's all get behind the same load and push. This town was builded by cooperation and present indications are that we are headed for the greatest expansion yet. It is especially necessary that the citizenship and the city be ready to receive it harmoniously.

"If a division in our citizenship has resulted from the mayor's race, I want everybody to know that my entire energies are to be devoted to the best welfare of Lubbock's citizenship as a whole. That has always held my attention, and I shall continue to appreciate and invite constructive criticism at any time.

"I appreciate the fairness of my opponent in the campaign now closed, and feel that my race was against a high-class gentleman. I want him and his supporters to know that I shall serve all impartially."

J. A. Fortenberry

"To my friends who so loyally supported me, I wish to express my sincere appreciation. It would have been an utter impossibility for me to have gotten as many votes had it not been for the work done by those men and women who had the best interests of the City of Lubbock uppermost in their minds.

"To them I attribute all the glory of the victory and promise one and all, both those who voted for me and those who did not, that I shall do my utmost toward what I believe to be the best interests of us all."

W. G. McMillan

Reached by telephone at Ozona, where he was spending the night after archaeological research in the Big Bend country, McMillan said:

"I am gratified at the opportunity of serving Lubbock on the commission. I still say what I said before the election—I shall do my best to serve the people honestly, efficiently and on a sound business basis, giving the public's business the same attention I would give my own."

Bitsy Grant Beats Allison To Repeat At Houston; Clingman To Wrestle Here

Don Budge And Gene Mako Cop Doubles Crown

Davis Cup Netters In Lively Battle At River Oaks With Mighty Mite From Atlanta Beating The Captain

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, April 7. — Bryan "Bitsy" Grant, Atlanta's mighty mite, today downed Wilmer Allison of Austin, the national champion to become the first player to win the River Oaks tennis tournament two years in succession.

Playing brilliantly all the way, the tiny Georgian gained a 6-1, 4-6, 6-4, 6-0 decision. It was almost a repetition of last year's final, which Grant won from the Austin veteran in four sets except that the Atlantan had slightly less difficulty in scoring his triumph today.

Grant Stays In

Allison, captain of the United States Davis Cup team, was in top form in the second and third sets but his best was not good enough to overpower Grant. Four times in the final game of the third set, Allison needed but one point to win the game but the bounding Georgian would not yield and finally took the set when Allison double faulted on his service.

Members of the Mexican Davis Cup team were interested spectators. They admitted they could find few weaknesses in Grant's play. Two of them face the unpleasant prospect of having to meet the Georgian in singles matches here Friday and Sunday.

Allison held an edge in service and net play during the second and third sets but Grant's superb volleying kept him on even terms.

Cup Team Loses

The Texan's last serious comeback bids were in the final game of the third set and the first game of the decisive set. The score was deuced five times before Grant could take a 1-0 lead in the fourth set. He took the next two games without losing a point and was not pressed in the final games.

Allison, who hardly ever performs at his best until summer, broke even in two matches with Grant last year. Both were played in April.

Don Budge and Gene Mako, spectacular young Californians, completed their tournament play without losing a set as they conquered the Davis Cup combination of Allison and John Van Ryn of Philadelphia in the doubles final, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3.

Allison was tired as a result of his long singles match but it is doubtful if he and his partner could have matched the strokes of their youthful opponents even if he had been fresh. Allison and Van Ryn were ranked No. 1 in the nation last year with Budge and Mako just behind them.

Captain Allison said he would not decide definitely on his lineup against the Mexicans until after he had had an opportunity to observe Budge in singles play. He previously had indicated that Grant and Budge would play the four singles matches and that he would compete only in the doubles, with Van Ryn as his partner.

The Texan heaped praise on Grant for his great play today.

"But Bitsy always plays well," he added. "He's so steady that it's just like hitting against the backboard."

Allison and Grant will rest tomorrow while Budge plays a practice singles match.

Cuba Withdraws From Davis Cup Matches

NEW YORK, April 7. (AP)—International complications over the location of a series between Cuba and Australia resulted today in the withdrawal of Cuba from 1936 Davis Cup tennis competition.

Drawn against each other in a first-round North American zone tie, the winner of the Cuba-Australia series was scheduled to meet the winner of the American-Mexico joust, to be played at Houston, Tex., April 10-12, with the ultimate victor going into the inter-zone final at Wimbledon in July.

Difficulties developed quickly when Cuba invited Australia to play in Havana and Australia firmly replied that, in order to save travel and maintenance expenses, the series should be played in the United States. Australia met and vanquished Cuba in Havana in 1932 in a second round contest.

Unable to agree upon the place, the two nations selected the United States Lawn Tennis association as arbitrator, in accordance with Davis Cup regulations. After studying briefs submitted by the nations, the arbitrators decided in favor of Australia and suggested that the matches be played in New Orleans, May 1-3 thereupon Cuba withdrew.

Popular Texan Meets Haddock In Main Event

Challenge Match To Feature At Auditorium; Newcomer From Germany Takes Spot In Supporting Card

TONIGHT'S CARD

The curtain raiser (8:30 o'clock)—Balk Estes, Elk City, Okla., vs. Ernie Arthur, Toronto, Canada. One fall or 20 minutes.

Semi-final — Rudolph von Zehrfeltz, Germany, vs. Ray Meyers, Louisville, Ky. One fall or 30 minutes.

The main event—Otis Clingman, Amarillo, vs. Dale Haddock, Detroit. Two out of three falls, or 2-hour time limit.

Return of Otis Clingman to the local wrestling wars is heralded as "something special" by followers of the sport here. One of the first and most lasting favorites with the majority of fans, Clingman has rarely failed to ring the bell as a ring performer.

Having fairly well cleaned house with the then crop of middleweights in this circuit, Clingman sought greener pastures more than a year ago, going north into Canada, establishing residence and reputation as one of the best.

Couldn't Keep Date

Prevailed upon to remain in the vicinity of Montreal and help promote wrestling there, Clingman for approximately a year has assisted in bringing the best middleweights and light heavies to the Canadian district, meanwhile mixing it with them in scheduled performances.

Clingman made known his intention of visiting the old home league in a telegram two weeks ago to Sled Allen, in which was issued a challenge to the winner of that night's fight. He has been posted as to the doings hereabouts. The winner was Dale Haddock, who for the third time conquered rough George Poulos. The challenge fight was set for last week.

But Otis couldn't make it on time, wired his apologies in time for substitute bout, promised to be here this week. So he takes on Mr. Haddock from Detroit in what should be a rousing encounter tonight.

The supporting card boasts main event performers, with the veteran Ernie Arthur, loser in last week's principal match, meeting the clever ex-collegian from Oklanoma, Balk Estes, in the curtain raiser.

Promoter Allen presents as a special attraction the advertised antics of a newcomer, the new Teutonic Terror, Graf Rudolph von Zehrfeltz. The German, said to be quite the boy when it comes to rough and tumble grappling, bumps into the hardy Kentuckian, Ray Meyers, in his debut here. Meyers, when he's feeling up to par, is capable of putting on quite a scene, and the ringworms are hoping it will be one of his nights.

Price of admission reverts to the standard—65 cents ringside, 40 cents general admission for men, 10 cents general for women and children. Starting time is 8:30 o'clock, regulation summer curtain raiser time.

Elias Funk Bats Tulsa To 13-8 Victory Over Panthers

FORT WORTH, April 7. (AP)—Tulsa scored five runs in the 11th inning to defeat Fort Worth here this afternoon 13 to 8 and carry off the exhibition series two victories to one defeat.

The Oilers lost a five run lead then had to come from behind to tie the score by counting after two were out in the ninth. Elias Funk, who drive in six and scored four runs yesterday was the batting hero again. His double tied the count in the ninth and his single, coupled with Arnold Moser's error on the hit pushed across the first three tallies in the eleventh.

Deborah Verry And Kathryn Hemphill Tie For Golf Medal

PINEHURST, N. C., April 7. (AP)—Deborah Verry, of Worcester, Mass., and Kathryn Hemphill, Columbia, S. C., tied for medalist honors in the qualifying round today of the annual women's North and South golf tournament. They had identical scores, 39-42—81. Estelle Lawson, of Chapel Hill, the defending champion, was a stroke back with an 82.

Rookies Begin To 'Thin Out'

Flowers That Bloom, Quickly Fade, In Spring Training Camps Leave But 15, Maybe Less, In American Loop

CHICAGO, April 7. (AP) — Few American League rookies out of many called have been chosen to stick.

A checkup with Henry P. Edwards, manager of the league's service bureau, showed not more than 15 of the 96 more or less promising athletes have received anything like definite stamps of approval. The list may expand or dwindle as the pilots change their minds between now and May 15 when the rosters must be trimmed to 23 men.

Starting with the Detroit Tigers, only two newcomers appeared certain to last—Clarence Lemuel Phillips, righthanded pitcher, and Infielder Gilbert English.

Steve O'Neill, Cleveland's new field general, hoped to hang onto Dennis Galehouse and Al Milnar, pitchers; Outfielder James Gleeson and Catcher Bobby Garbark, at least for a while.

Red Sox Like Two

The gold plated Boston Red Sox probably will keep George Dickey, catcher and brother of Bill Dickey, the Yankee's great receiver. Three pitchers, Manuel Salvo, James Francis Henry and Stewart Bowers, were battling to determine which one sticks.

Most promising of Rogers Hornsby's new St. Louis Browns was Gather Angelo Giuliani. At Washington, Manager Bucky Harris will keep John Lewis, young third baseman, at least until someone else demonstrates he can do better.

The only cinch from Connie Mack's batch of 22 rookies, was First Baseman Jim Darn Oglesby who will attempt to fill Jimmy Foxx' big shoes.

St. Joseph And Fort Smith Not Admitted To Association

DES MOINES, Ia., April 7. (AP)—Tom Fairweather, president of the Western Association Baseball league, said today St. Joseph, Mo., and Fort Smith, Ark., will not be admitted to the circuit and that the association definitely will start with its present six-team membership.

"Fort Smith isn't ready to start and won't be," the Western Association president said. "We are all set to go ahead with our present six-club circuit and there will be no changes."

Fort Smith is a former member of the league and St. Joseph recently was dropped from the Western League when an eighth city could not be found.

Experts Elect Campbell Best Amateur 'Hope'

Poll Of Observers Results In Choice Of Young Scotty To Succeed Lawson Little, With John Goodman Close Second

(By The Associated Press)

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 7.—In this year's race for amateur golfing honors, yielded by Lawson Little, jr., after a two-year winning streak at home and abroad, the railbirds figure Seattle's brilliant young Albert (Scotty) Campbell to set the pace, with Omaha's Johnny Goodman the outstanding challenger.

A poll of players and newspapermen by the Associated Press, following the stormy battle of Augusta, today revealed Campbell a slight choice over Goodman, 14 to 11. Walter Emery of Oklahoma, runner-up to Little last year in the National amateur, and Charley Yates of Atlanta, the Western amateur titleholder, as other members of a prospective "big four" nucleus for America's Walker Cup team this year.

Leads Augusta Amateurs

Campbell dashed out in front in the tournament test here, which marked Little's debut as a professional. Scotty shot a 68 on his third round, finished as low amateur with 302 and led Goodman, a former National Open champion, by 13 strokes. Yates scored 307. Bobby Riegel of Richmond, Southern Amateur champion and only other simonpure to finish, scored 319.

While refraining from any positive selections, Bob Jones praised Campbell's shotmaking ability highly after a practice round with the Seattle youth. Little's choice of a successor is Goodman, because "Johnny has the experience and more good shots in his bag than any of the others."

Grantland Rice, dean of the sports writers, named Campbell, and Emery—in that order. Horton Smith, winner of the $5,000 Augusta National tournament for the second time, added Jimmy McHale, a California youngster, to the list.

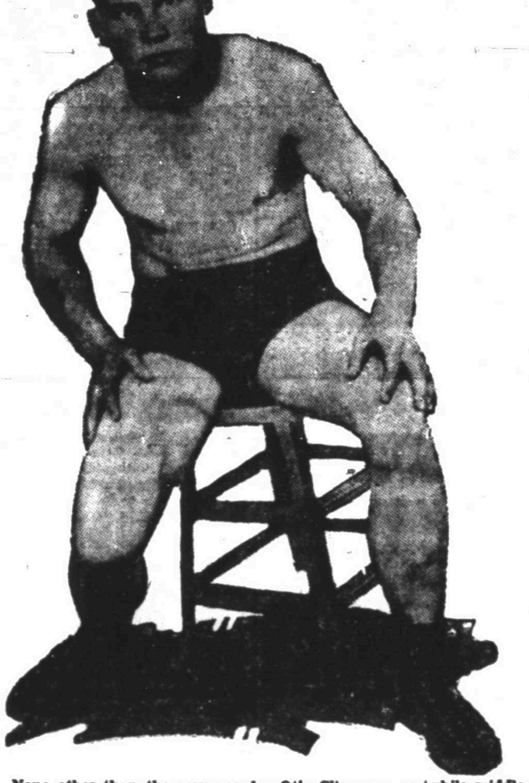

Helps Great Britain

Gene Sarazen took the slant that Little's retirement "will demoralize the amateur ranks, thus giving Great Britain a great chance to capture the Walker Cup for the first time at Pine Valley."

Texas is expected by many observers to produce outstanding contenders for Little's amateur crown, including Dave Goldman, 1934 runner-up; Ed White, intercollegiate champion; Gus Moreland, former Walker Cupper; and Reynolds Smith, a sensation at each of the last two national tournaments. At least two of these four are likely to make the Walker Cup squad.

Other amateurs mentioned include Verne Stewart, Stanford star from New Mexico.

Look Who's "In This Corner" Tonight

None other than the very popular Otis Clingman, erstwhile middleweight wrestling title challenger from Amarillo, now a visiting grappler from Canada. Clingman meets Dale Haddock in a challenge match which is to be the main event on tonight's card at the Auditorium.

Herb Hoover Complains That Job Of Speech-Making Is Becoming Harder

OGDEN, Utah, April 7. (AP)—Herbert Hoover, puffing a big cigar, lounged in his pullman compartment today and complained that speech-making isn't what it used to be.

"Time was," said the former president, "that you could go around the country making the same speech at each town. This way you could polish up the speech as you went along.

"But now with the radio, speech-making is hard work.

"A speech is only good once—because the public is quick to detect repetition. I do a lot of research and spend two or three weeks on each of my speeches."

Hoover was here briefly on a train carrying him to his Palo Alto, Calif., home. He spoke Saturday at Fort Wayne, Ind.

Political outlook?

"I'm surer than ever that the Republicans are going to win the next election. At least, the anti-New Dealers are on their way to win."

EMIGRATION SAGS

OSLO (AP)—Emigration from Norway to the United States reached the record low level of 400 persons in 1935. In pre-war times it totalled as high as 30,000 yearly.

Lookouts Pull Triple Play But Lose Game To Red Hose

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Apr. 7(AP) The Chattanooga Lookouts' Latin-American infield registered a triple play today while taking an 11-3 battering from the Boston Red Sox.

The Sox had a 6-3 lead in the seventh, with Manager Joe Cronin on second and Eric McNair on first when Ossie Melillo lined out hard to Johnny Mihalic, the Mexican second baseman. He tossed to Jose Olivares, his Cuban shortstop, and Cronin was doubled. Olivares then relayed to Harry Taylor, who nailed McNair off first by yards.

Bob (Lefty) Grove worked seven innings, giving the Lookouts six hits, passing three and striking out three.

This Is News! Dean Brothers Won't Predict

Ole Diz Is Changed Man; Not Telling How Many Games He Will Win; Sings Different Tune After Signing

BY FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, April 7.—The remodeled Dean brothers came to town today and promptly made news.

They wouldn't talk!

Brothers Jerome (Ole Diz) and Paul (Daffy) Dean, usually the most loquacious act in baseball, actually shied away from hotel lobby conversations and politely declined to predict how many games the St. Louis Cardinals already had in the bag because of their pitching arms.

"I ain't making any predictions this year," grinned "Dizzy," the standout holdout until a few weeks ago.

Paul Visits Farm

Paul, in a hurry to get out and look over his Dallas county farm and home, "left it up to Diz to do all the predictin'."

How about those 50 games they were certain they could win while resting here as holdouts a few weeks ago?

"Well, our arms are feeling pretty good and we've got a good ball club, but—aw, I'm just not gonna do any predictin'," said "Dizzy."

The tune was slightly different from that he sung here a short month ago, when, in a two-hour tirade against the Cardinals management, "Ole Diz" smoked down two huge cigars, demanded $40,000 and thought it a cinch for "Me and Paul" to bag 50 games.

But He's Satisfied

"Dizzy" Dean is a changed man now. Since that day he has signed an oath of allegiance to the Cards and a contract for considerably less than the sum he said "he'd get or just wouldn't pitch this year."

"Everything is all straightened out now," quoth the elder Dean. "I'm satisfied and my arm feels good. I pitched six innings against San Antonio yesterday and allowed only three hits and one run. And say, you know I wasn't putting a thing on the ball either."

Paul got his second mound workout of the season against the Dallas Steers. He is losing the excess weight picked up as a holdout and says his "flipping" arm never felt better.

Pair Dead In Boiler Blast

Body Of One Man Is Blown For 200 Feet And His Wife Witnesses Mishap; Huge Pressure Is Blamed

KILGORE, April 7. (AP) — Paul B. Jones, 36, and L. D. Littleton, 35, oil field workers, were killed instantly when two rig boilers exploded near here today.

Three other derrick workers were injured slightly in the blast.

Driller L. B. Burke said the explosion was caused by a valve being closed on the outside of the boilers, resulting in tremendous pressure.

Blown 200 Feet

Jones' body was blown 200 feet. His wife witnessed the mishap.

The derrick and drilling machinery were wrecked.

Littleton's body was severely burned. The blast blew flaming coals into pine woods surrounding the well and caused a near forest fire. The Kilgore fire department was called and extinguished the blaze.

Funeral services for Jones will be held at Pipkins, La., Littleton will be buried at Palestine. Both were employes of the Stegall Drilling Co.

Speeches Heard At Tech Meeting

Speeches were given by Spencer Wells, newly elected vice-chairman of the Texas Technological college board of directors, and by Dr. Bradford Knapp, Tech president, at a convocation Tuesday morning in the college gymnasium. Students also learned they will be given an additional day for Easter vacation.

Classes will be dismissed at 6 p. m. Thursday rather than on Friday, Doctor Knapp announced. A petition asking that the holiday include Good Friday had been signed by 300 students and sent to the president.

Committee Coming Here

A committee will be sent here soon by the state board of control and will inspect the college and make recommendations for appropriations by the next legislature, Doctor Knapp said. He urged students to smoke less in the campus buildings, to avoid marking on walls and otherwise to cooperate.

Mr. Wells, who was appointed to the board in February and was elected vice chairman last week, spoke of progress of the school, contrasting conditions now and 10 years ago, mentioned the loyalty which has been accorded it and of the large part loyalty plays in building the college, and spoke of the educational facilities. When confronted with need for a decision, the student might well ask himself: "Is it constructive?" he said. Reception of his speech was enthusiastic.

Mr. Wells is the only local member of the board.

Capt. Pettit Introduced

Capt. Frank A. Pettit, who will command the Reserve Officers Training corps to be opened next fall at the college, was introduced by Doctor Knapp. Dean James M. Gordon gave the opening prayer.

Students were responsive to Doctor Knapp's request to keep the campus clean. The majority of students registered attended the convocation.

Easter holidays will continue through Monday.

Frivolity Marks Luncheon Of Club

Lions yesterday indulged in a little frivolity at the expense of President Hurley Carpenter when he announced that owing to the ladies' night program of the previous week, he had forgotten to name a program chairman for this week's luncheon.

John D. Mitchell, past president; Jess G. Levens, former tail twister and Joe W. Bowman, director, each declined the honor of being program chairman for the day. L. L. (Bill) Watson, new member, was named chairman.

Miss Willette Waters, club pianist, played a number and Morris Burchfield gave several imitations and sang "Popeye the Sailor Man."

C. C. Craig, member of the club's committee working with the W. T. Milam orphanage, reported through the efforts of Lion Paul Sherrod a new stove had been purchased. It has been installed in the new home of the group.

R. H. Bean, chairman of the club's better vision committee, at the suggestion of W. H. Evans, reported some 30 pair of glasses had been furnished by the club to needy children.

D. C. Price, a new member, was given the rites advancing him from cub to full fledged Lion, by E. L. Pitts, former district governor. Tom Carter was presented as a new member.

Dust Storms Are Blamed For Spread Of Blood Infections

Oklahoma City Doctor Claims That Experiment Shows Many Germs And That They Are Very Hard To Kill

FORT WORTH, April 7. (AP)—Belief that the unusually large number of blood stream infections in this section of the country are caused from dust storms was expressed here today by Dr. Leroy Long of Oklahoma City.

In Fort Worth to address a meeting of the Texas Surgical society, the former head of the school of medicine of the University of Oklahoma described the findings of medical students who had placed petri dishes of germ culture on Oklahoma City roofs during dust storms.

Among the germs picked up by the culture were countless spores of the type that cause blood stream infections. The germs are hard to kill, he pointed out, being of a spore type and inclosed in a shell-like covering.

Dr. Long compared the present prevalence of blood stream infections—they have caused five deaths in Fort Worth in the last six weeks—to the influenze epidemic of 1918.

"It is not so severe, however," he added, "since the patients are not so sick nor is the mortality rate nearly so high."

Dr. Long pointed out that since the infections do not come within the realm of surgery, he could discuss the subject only on the basis of what physicians had told him.

More Monkey Business

ALL that hullaballoo about "nude" statues on the campus of Texas State College for Women (formerly C. I. A.) at Denton, merely proves what smart publicity men can do.

The "whole shooting-match" was nothing more or less than Centennial ballyhoo, although innocent enough appearing on the surface.

Anyone with sense enough to call hogs knows that this country doesn't cotton to "nude" statues; that the campus of a state college for young girls is the last place in the world for such an ornament; that "nudity," even in cold stone, does not fit in any sort of a memorial to the pioneers of Texas.

"Nudism" was unknown in the days when Texas was young and so was "ballyhoo"—which may be one reason why the early patriots did such a good job. They had no time for monkey business. Their work was of the most serious nature.

We might think about that occasionally while laying plans for observing the state's 100th birthday. Monkey business is all right in its place but there's no reason for letting it dominate every turn of the Centennial observance.

ANYTHING CAN HAPPEN!

Although Governor Landon of Kansas is shown to be by far the popular presidential choice of rank-and-file Republicans, the bosses of the party are shaking their heads.

They point to Mr. Landon's oil connections; to the fact that the financial East is weakening on him, and to the espousal of his candidacy by William Randolph Hearst. Inside reports to The Morning Avalanche from New York and Washington indicate that Landon has run too far and too fast for this stage of the game and will be out of political breath before the convention at Cleveland in June.

Stock of Senator Vandenberg, of Michigan, and Senator Dickinson, of Iowa, is rising. Both those men have been discussed as possible presidential nominees but they and their supporters have been quietly hanging on the rim, making no enemies and little noise. Further than that, aging Frank Lowden, of Illinois, has been brought out of the mothballs as a possible standard-bearer and other Republicans are looking westward, to Oregon, toward Senator Frederick Steiwer, although his tenure of office has marked him as almost as personable as a fence post.

Even talk has cropped up again about Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors, which shows just how serious is the quandary in which Republicans find themselves.

"A candidate, a candidate, our kingdom for a candidate" is the wail of the opposition.

Meaning anything can happen at Cleveland!

"SURE ENOUGH" TROUBLE

As little as we in West Texas may realize it, the recent floods in the North, East and Midwest constituted the greatest single disaster occuring within the United States in all the nation's history.

Not even the Civil war was more costly in dollars and destruction of property.

Serene in our location despite winging "dusters," we down here don't know what real trouble is.

THE ORPHAN BRIDGE

Des Moines has quite an impressive looking bridge spanning the ravine at Salt Water Park, standing alone and useless. It just spans the ravine. The bridge, built of reinforced concrete at a cost of more than $53,000, is P. P. W. A. Project No. 4145 — going from nowhere to nowhere, and inaccessible both to foot and vehicular traffic for the lack of approaches to both ends of the bridge.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

TOBY RYAN, 19, works behind the jewelry counter of a large Manhattan department store. She poses for a photographer to be used in a store advertisement and MARTY HIATT, the photographer, tells her she has a "camera face."

Discharged from the store due to the scheming of jealous MAURINE BALL, Toby has difficulty finding another job. Then she meets Marty Hiatt and he sends her to BEN BLAKE, manager of a model agency, secures work as a model.

At a style show where she is modeling she meets CAROL MARSH, rich and snobbish. She also sees wealthy TIM JAMIESON who has been trying for some time to persuade her to dine with him. Impetuously she agrees. For a week Tim showers her with attention.

Toby leaves her rooming house and moves into an apartment with her friend, HARRIET HOLM.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVIII

Toby didn't want to believe what happened that night at the Seville Club. She argued with herself about it, tried to convince herself there was some explanation—

It had been two days since she had seen Tim. Both days he'd called her and Toby had confidently expected to spend the evenings with him. Then retakes were ordered on some photographs made the day before, and there was nothing for her to do but tell Tim their date was off.

The second evening he had been tied up—some sort of family affair, he said, that he couldn't get out of.

So when he came for her the following evening, a real celebration seemed in order. Toby wore a new hat—shiny black straw with a bright red flower directly in front. She thought it added a good deal of smartness to her simple dress and coat, and was delighted when Tim approved it, too.

"You really like it?" she asked eagerly.

"Sure. It's a swell hat. What's that red thing on it?"

"Tim! That's not a 'red thing'; that's a very nice rose."

"Oh, is it? Well, I couldn't tell. Where'd you want to go tonight?"

"You know, it doesn't matter to me." Her eyes, raised to his, glowed as they always did when he was near. "Any place that you like, Tim."

"Well—let's see. How about the Seville Club? Haven't been there for a while."

He had never been there with her, Toby said, her interest quickening. "Yes. Let's go there."

It was not until they had almost reached the place that Toby remembered where she had heard the Seville Club mentioned. It had been Carol Marsh who had spoken of it. Carol had said to her friend, Betty, "I'll ask Tim to take us to the Seville Club."

Even now Toby didn't like to think about Carol Marsh. The girl had gone out of her way to be rude. She was a snob and a hateful one. Harriet had told Toby more about Carol Marsh. It was she who had boasted to a group of girls, all of them helping to support others by their earnings, that what she made "wouldn't keep her in soap." Carol liked to talk of her extravagances, but it was known that anyone who loaned her a dollar never got it back.

And Carol hadn't told the truth about Tim. She had said he was "mad about her," but when Toby had mentioned the other girl casually, Tim hadn't shown the slightest interest. Just said, yes, he knew her and then gone on to some other subject.

Well, because Carol Marsh had mentioned the Seville Club was no reason Toby shouldn't go there.

She put the other girl out of her mind and began chattering about happenings of the last two days—the re-takes, and how she had spent the evening before, pasting up clippings in the scrap-book she was making of advertisements in which her picture appeared. Toby had learned that all of the girls who modeled kept scrap-books.

And there were the children she'd seen at the Models' League office. Half a dozen brothers and sisters, none over 12 years old, and every one of them a professional model with years of "experience."

"Do you know what Bill Pryor told me?" she asked. He's the man I worked with in that washing machine advertisement. Bill's wife used to be a model, too. They have a baby now, a little darling — Bill showed me a snapshot of him. The baby's only six weeks old and already he's posed in some pictures. For a baby food company. Bill said he was just grand about it and the agency wants to use him again."

Tim put up both hands in protest. "Six weeks old and a working man! Say, that's making it tough for an old codger like me. I always supposed that until a fellow was able to walk and talk he could sort of take it easy."

"But the baby loved it. He had a grand time."

"Well, I see what they mean when they say there's no place for old age these days."

They were at the Seville Club now. Outside it looked much like any of the other supper clubs to which Toby had gone with Tim. When they entered, however, she saw that there was more formality here — in the decoration of the rooms, in the way she and Tim were received, in the manner and appearance of the men and women about them. Toby wished Tim had told her. The little black hat with its red rose didn't seem quite the thing here.

Then she remembered that Tim hadn't known they were coming. It had been decided on the spur of the moment. Besides, it must be all right. There was a woman at the left in a gray outfit almost as informal as Toby's. Others, too, here and there about the room.

Toby decided not to think any more about what she was wearing. She was with Tim again, and they had the whole evening before them. Nothing was to sopil her pleasure tonight. She said, looking about her, "This is a nice place, Tim. It's the first time I've been here."

"That so?"

He was always forgetting that all of these places were new to her, that Toby's idea of an evening's celebration, until she had met Tim, had been a cafeteria dinner and a movie.

Tim ordered drinks—an extremely mild one for Toby, which he knew she would barely sip, and a highball for himself. Toby didn't like cocktails. Besides, she knew what they did to a face that must be flawless before the camera.

The dance band was playing now. It was a band famous from coast to coast. Rhythmic melody floated out over the room and diners drifted from their tables to the polished space in the center of the room.

Tim leaned forward. "See that girl over there?" he said. "The one in blue?"

Toby saw the one he meant. "Yes," she said. "She's very beautiful, isn't she?"

"Know who that is?"

"No."

"That's Gilda Lang. She's going to Hollywood to make a picture."

Gilda Lang was an English actress, famous on both sides of the Atlantic. Toby said excitedly, "Really, Tim? Is it really Gilda Lang?"

"Of course it is. And that's Todd Banders with her. I bumped into them last night—"

"Last night? I thought you were at home?"

"I was but I—er, I saw them on the street. They say Manders is crazy about Gilda. Well, you can't blame him for that. Looks like a million, doesn't she? Do you remember that last show of hers, year before last?"

"No I—I didn't see it."

Tim knew a great deal about the theater. Toby had been most impressed by all he had told her about actors and actresses and the plays they appeared in. Bits of gossip about this one and that. He knew who were in the new plays, even before they had opened, who suffered the financial loss when a play "flopped." A dozen times he had pointed out celebrities to her—producers, playwrights, song writers as well as actors and dancers and chorus girls. Toby thought it was amazing that he remembered them all.

Tim finished his drink and ordered a second. He went on talking about Gilda Lang. "She was a sensation in that play," he said. "It was one of the biggest hits of the year. A sell-out every night. And then suddenly Gilda decided she wanted to go back to London, and nothing could stop her. Just like that, the play closed. Oh, she's temperamental—but what an actress! I wonder how she'll get along in Hollywood."

"She ought to be grand in pictures," Toby said. "She's certainly beautiful enough. Look, they're going to dance—"

Gilda Lang and the man with her had risen and were moving toward the space reserved for dancing. The actress' unusual beauty fascinated Toby; she could scarcely take her eyes away. Gilda Lang's blond hair lay in sleek ringlets about her head. The blue gown was a sheath for an exquisite figure. But the surprising thing about Gilda Lang was that her face had piquancy. It wasn't at all the sort you would expect with such fragile loveliness. There was a hint of fire beneath the surface.

Watching the actress, Toby was startled to hear Tim's voice. He said abruptly, "Listen—I'm fed up with this place. Let's get out of here."

"It's too crowded and too noisy." He turned, signaling to the waiter to bring the check. "And the service is terrible," he went on: "I never say anything like it. Come on — let's clear out."

Without knowing quite how it came about, Toby was on her feet,

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

PATIENT, stubborn Cordell Hull is quietly trying to crack the hardest, diplomatic nut he's handled since he took office.

How much it means to Mr. Hull shows in the fact that he has sent two of his smartest experts to Paris to conclude negotiations—Harry Hawkins and Paul Culbertson of the trade agreements section. The French even bar foreign apples for fear the juicy fruit may cut down consumption of wine. Now, if Mr. Hull can persuade such a country to tear down tariff barriers, it will be an object lesson to the world, especially aloof Great Britain. Never before has he dispatched his tariff experts to a foreign capital to sign the papers.

Though our Secretary of State may seem to be only a native Tennesseean, his latest move reveals his innate shrewdness. He is forcing the French hand at the very moment when the falling franc may again need U. S. treasury reinforcement, and a France frightened by Germany's Rhineland legions craves the good will in America. He's FDR's best high-pressure salesman.

RICH: There's a good reason behind the Treasury's unusual slowness in collecting and tabulating the March 15th income and corporation tax returns. Too prosperous a showing might persuade Congress that it would be a swell idea to enact no new tax program until after the election.

Private, preliminary reports promise an income for the 1936 fiscal year that will be at least 5 per cent more than the treasury's most optimistic estimates. About 500 typical industrial corporations paid 45 per cent more revenue in 1935 than they did in 1934. Even including payments from such lagging industries as railroads and public utilities, the increase amounts to 38 per cent.

Lower brackets will show proportionate gains. Many corporations increased the little fellows' income by boosting dividends or wages or reemploying laid-off workers. The latter cleaned up old bills owed the grocery store or the doctor, thus pushing their creditors into the surtax-income-paying class. It's a blessed circle, even though the "Morgenthau moaners" won't admit it.

DISTANT: Long-headed government economists puncture the administration's claim that industry and business are reneging on reemploying workers.

Political and labor leaders continually point out that production has reached a 96 per cent level on the 1923-1925 basis. In some industries output has passed beyond even the 1929 peak. In view of such "recovery," they ask why it is that 12,000,000 people still stand at the factory gates, and why 20,000,000 people must be fed by federal relief funds. The question amounts to a pointed accusation of all employers.

But the non-political economists figure that production will have to reach an index figure of 130 before the present army of unemployed can be taken back to work. More than 6,000,000 "employables" have become applicants for jobs since the base years of 1923-1925. Even industries which have not installed labor-saving machinery have learned to save waste steps and motions, and to buck up their personnel. A worker performs more efficiently in times of depression than when another job can be obtained at the next-door factory. All these factors, in the experts' opinion, destroy the "statistical myth" that recovery is here—or even around the corner.

BORROWERS: Government agencies which lend money to individuals and corporations and cities—the HOLC, RFC, FHA and PWA—face the difficult decision of being tough or lenient with borrowers. The answer may determine whether billions loaned through these agencies will ever be repaid to Uncle Sam.

The question has arisen again and again in the last few months, especially in the HOLC. Individuals have pleaded hard times, unemployment and excessive charges as reasons for not paying interest or principal on their loans. Politicians have intervened on behalf of constituents, and the prospect of political interference in these transactions grows more menacing every day.

Settlement of the question will determine whether borrowers will regard a debt to Uncle Sam as sacred as an obligation to a private creditor, or whether they will mobilize their political vote for reduction or outright cancellation. Right now some emergency heads are hard-boiled, some are disposed to be sympathetic. But all see danger signals ahead. A borrowers' lobby would prove twice as formidable as the veterans' gang-up in favor of advance payment of the bonus.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

SELECTION of ex-governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois as keynoter for the Republican convention connotes more than meets the eye. Mr. Lowden—although he has been out of public life for years—remains very popular with farm organizations. They haven't forgotten that he fought shoulder to shoulder with them for the McNary-Haugen bill when that was their pet.

His designation is not a good omen for Landon—although the Kansan's pre-convention position this year has often been compared to Lowden's in 1920. Bringing him back to the limelight is bound to evoke a contrast in the minds of farm representatives between his record of consistent service to agriculture and Landon's rather sketchy accomplishments in that direction. A private canvass of farm group leaders reveals remarkably little Landon sentiment among those who should logically be his keenest supporters. They aren't hostile. They just don't feel he has done anything to merit their enthusiastic support.

There is good reason to believe the Lowden's convention prominence is part of a subtle campaign engineered by certain G. O. P. backstagers to smother Landon's chances with a minimum of ill feeling.

ACCEPTABLE: Here's another angle on Lowden. If the Cleveland convention degenerates into a Madison Square Garden dogfight, stranger things could happen than a sudden move to name the Illinois veteran as the only man behind whom the party can really unite.

A number of G. O. P. big timers are giving serious thought to Lowden. There will be no important boom for him before the convention to dull the edge of dramatic surprise. Nor will he be "drafted" if a simpler solution can be worked out. But paste it in your hat that plans will be ready—if a bitter deadlock develops—to spring him with suitable fanfare as the one sure savior of the Republican party and the nation. Properly staged and timed, the act might easily stampede the convention.

It's true that Mr. Lowden is well along in years. That's a handicap—but not insuperable. The industrial East would approve him and he would have a powerful appeal to the all-important farm vote.

It's also understood that he would be acceptable in a pinch to both Hoover and Borah—a vital point in relation to campaign harmony. His prolonged political inactivity would be an asset rather than a liability, because he has no factional enemies. This possibility — take it from the highest New York sources—is worth watching.

STICKY: Investor appetite for new corporate issues is becoming a bit dulled. Three recent offerings—all by good companies—got a sluggish reception. In one case the price had to be lowered in order to get satisfactory distribution. In another, the dealers are still stuck with a large proportion of the issue.

Anti-New Dealers blame this state of affairs on the Securities Exchange Commission's ruling that the price of an issue must be set 20 days before the actual offering. They claim this prevents necessary adjustment to shifting market conditions.

THE TARZAN TWINS, No. 9

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Penetrating deeper into the jungle, with no danger apparent, the boys' confidence mounted. "The fellows at school didn't call us the Tarzan Twins for nothing," said Doc, swaggering slightly. "But Tarzan is my relative, not yours," Dick reminded with pride.

In a way, these boys were twins. They resembled each other strongly, for they were the sons of twin sisters, one of whom had married an Englishman, the other an American. And the boys were attending an exclusive school in England, preparing for an American college.

When their schoolmates began calling them the Tarzan Twins, Dick and Doc decided to live up to their names. And they scandalized the dignified faculty and their aristocratic school fellows by scurrying around in campus treetops, emitting wild, Tarzan yells.

The ape-man's invitation to visit him had filled them with pride. Now they fancied themselves junior Tarzans. And that was the cause of their undoing; for they did not realize that the safety of civilization blinds the race of men to the sinister forces of the primitive wild!

making her way toward the door. She couldn't understand Tim. What had come over him? If he wanted to go somewhere else it was all right, of course. Only this place wasn't crowded or noisy; it was one of the nicest places she had ever been. And Tim had been enjoying himself, too. Why was he suddenly so anxious to leave?

A girl at a table a little distance away caught Toby's eye. There was something familiar about the girl. She turned then, so that her full face came into view and Toby recognized her. It was Carol Marsh—Carol in clinging silver cloth, with a party of half a dozen others.

Toby, where she had been sitting, couldn't see Carol, but Tim could. He must have noticed her—

Pain, sharp as it was sudden clutched at Toby's heart. Was this why Tim was in such hurry to leave?

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, April 7. (AP)—The Utilities and a few specialties bucked profit taking trends in today's stock market which were centered principally in the recent steel and motor stalwarts.

While 337 issues registered losses on the day against 177 advances, bullish forces were consoled by the fact that most recessions were in a small fractional range and that the trading volume dwindled appreciably on the setback.

Brokers were inclined to attribute the reversal largely to technical factors involved in the steady advance which has witnessed but one small average decline since March 27.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell back .3 of a point to 64.3. Transfers totalled only 1,671,580 shares compared with 2,118,948 yesterday. The rail and industrial composites were each down .4 while that of the utilities emerged .1 higher.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, April 7. (AP) — Bullish weather developments affecting the new crop brought considerable buying into the cotton market just before the close today, and active futures gained from 5 to 9 points in active trading.

The market dragged along at a snail's pace until the noon hour passed and then activity picked up at rising prices. New crop months, neglected during early dealings were the object of considerable speculative buying and the whole list moved forward.

May closed at 11.30, July at 10.88, Oct. at 10.26 and Jan. at 10.30.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, April 7. (AP) — Cotton improved a little today on covering and trade buying promoted by reports of continued unfavorable weather in the south.

Modest advances were held to the close, which was steady, 5 to 9 points higher.

May sold up to 11.26, or even with the minimum price stipulated in the plan for release of government financed cotton.

TICKER TALK
Courtesy A. J. Humphreys and Co.
1001 13th St., Lubbock

Total cotton exports from all United States ports today 6317 bales against 5736 same day last year bringing the movement for the week up to 40,789 bales against 34,611 during same time last year. Exports for the season total 4,886,360 bales against 3,881,806 same time last season.

Older members of the cotton trade consider that this is the most backward cotton season in 25 years. They point out that such states as Louisiana which should have most of its cotton up by this time has hardly started to plant and that in many localities what it has planted it is likely to be forced to replant. This is the seventh day of April. In numerous seasons in the past Louisiana has had a great deal of cotton planted as far north as the Shreveport section by the seventh of March. Compared with some seasons therefore the crop in the south central part of the belt is a month late. The worst of it is that there is nothing upon which to base very strong hopes that the weather will immediately turn favorable. It may remain too cold and it may turn wet. Should the last half of April and the month of May produce excessive rainfall this crop would have the worst start of any crop on record.

Corn, oats and rye took their cue from wheat market behavior.

Provisions reflected hog price downturns.

Plane Crash

dets at Valley Forge Military academy—August, Evans, Smith and Kelly. They had started gaily homeward for Easter vacations. Their mothers waited for them at the Allegheny county airport near Pittsburgh.

The Sun Racer was four hours overdue when Miss Granger staggered into the mountain home of Mrs. R. B. Addiss and begged for a telephone. Already searching planes were aloft along the liner's route, notwithstanding the dangerous flying conditions. C. A. Williams, TWA manager at Pittsburgh, said the searching pilots reported ice forming on plane wings when they returned.

The crew of the Sun Racer had been aware of the flying difficulties. Chief Pilot Ferguson had reported by radio at 10:09 a. m., that he was flying by instruments and would not attempt to land at Pittsburgh. Then came the crash.

In New York officials of the line said late today that reports from the plane indicated that "the radio beam no longer was functioning accurately."

The company promised an immediate investigation.

Airplane officials said Miss Granger probably escaped because she rode in the rear of the plane.

Texas Broker Is Criticised

Former Committee Chairman On Cotton Exchange Says That Wrong Group Is Investigating Exchange

WASHINGTON, April 7. (AP) — Louis Brooks of New York, former chairman of the business conduct committee of the New York cotton exchange, told a senate agriculture subcommittee today the justice department ought to investigate operations on the cotton exchange.

Brooks, a New York broker, said John H. McFadden, president of the exchange, had "admitted" before the committee that he had been on the opposite side of the market from one of his customers, a mill for which he was buying cotton. That, Brooks said, was a violation of law governing the exchange.

Wrong Committee

"The wrong committee is investigating this situation," Brooks said. "It ought to be a committee of the department of justice."

He criticised what he intimated was a disposition of the senate committee to let the hearings "drag out."

Brooks said previous investigations in 1928 and 1930 had been permitted to "drag out" with the result "nothing was done" to correct what he considered undesirable conditions on the market.

The cotton exchange, Brooks said, turning toward Chairman Smith (D-SC) "is as dead as the mule down on your farm." The reason, he added, was that it was dominated by W. L. Clayton of Houston, Texas, a large scale cotton broker. That broker's control of the exchange is such, Brooks said, that "any reforms on the exchange must come from legislation, and they must come immediately." Memberships are being sold on the exchange, he said, "almost every week."

Market Must Pay

He declared Clayton made the market "pay" for every investigation.

"If you permit hearings now to drag out," he said, "we will have a repetition of 1928 and 1930."

"There never has been an investigation," he related, "but what Clayton steps in and takes a hunk out of the market."

He quoted Clayton as saying he was "almost ashamed" of the money he took from the market in 1929.

Terry Population Gain Is Reported

BROWNFIELD, April 7. (Special) — Residents of Brownfield have nearly doubled during an unprecedented population boom since 1930.

A special census, undertaken by the Brownfield Chamber of Commerce when evidence of a population increase was shown, returned a total of 3,555 persons in the corporate limits, comparing with 1,907 in 1930, said J. E. Shelton, secretary of the chamber of commerce. The increase was 86 per cent.

"The increase is attributed to agricultural development solely," Shelton declared. "There are no oil operations being carried on in the county nor any other activity which would especially attract people to the town."

While only estimating the farm population in Terry county, Shelton explained that basis for his statement came from the fact that the county was one of the very few in the state which showed a farm increase in the 1935 agricultural census.

Kirksey Makes Statement

"I regret very much leaving Lubbock," Kirksey said after negotiations for sale of the station had been completed. "My stay here has been very pleasant and enjoyable and I feel sure management of the station has been turned over to efficient hands."

Kirksey said he had no plans for the immediate future but that he would take his family to a lower climate for a while.

Kirksey has operated the station here for the past four years, opening with a 72-hour continuous broadcast on April 23, 1932. It was moved here from Abilene.

He first established the station in Bentonville, Ark., in 1923 as a small 15-watt plant. It was later purchased and moved to Texarkana by the Buchanan-Vaughan company. Kirksey repurchased the station in 1927, moved it to Breckenridge and there secured an increase in power to 100 watts. In 1928, it was moved to Abilene and the power increased to 250 watts, its present capacity.

"Petticoat" Government Set Up In New Mexico Balloting

DES MOINES, N. M., April 7. (AP) —A "petticoat" government was established in this little northern New Mexico community today, as women, backing an all-feminine ticket, elected all but one municipal official.

Mrs. W. P. Crater, candidate for mayor, polled 77 votes to swamp her masculine competitor, Tom Creswell, who trailed with 43.

The lone male successfully to turn back this assertion of feminine authority was Sam Mitchell who won a city council seat by a narrow margin.

He will be in the minority in the council's deliberations however, for the other seats went to Mrs. Carson Ratcliff, Mrs. C. J. Dunshee and Mrs. Vance Longwell. Mrs. Floyd Gossett was elected city clerk.

Train Bombed; Twelve Killed

Attempt To Kill Political Leaders In Mexico Blamed For Criminal Attack; Fifteen Are Injured

BY CLARK LEE
Associated Press Foreign Staff

VERACRUZ, Mexico, April 7. — A desperate criminal attempt to kill state of Veracruz political leaders was blamed by authorities tonight for the bombing of a railway bridge and wrecking of the Veracruz-Mexico City train which resulted in the death of at least 12 persons and injury to 15 others.

The politicians themselves were unharmed. Soldiers searched a wide area for the bombers.

Enemies Are Blamed

A conclusion that political enemies of one or all of the three candidates for the gubernatorial nomination—Col. Eduardo Hernandez Chazaro, chief of the presidential staff of former President Pascual Ortiz Rubio; Ochoa Zamudio and Dr. Guillermo Padilla—plotted the attack was tentatively reached by authorities.

A search for other victims was continued tonight among the mass of twisted and charred steel where pullman cars were plunged into a 40-foot ravine last night.

Victims identified included five passengers, five members of the train crew and two other employes of the British operated railway. No foreigners were believed aboard.

No Definite List

Partly interrupted communications prevented announcement of a definite list of the dead but official messages indicated the attempt to kill the politicians.

Tracing 200 yards of double wire from the bridge, investigators found the apparatus which exploded the bomb by electricity, setting off the charge exactly between the first and second pullman cars.

The engine, petroleum car, mail and express cars and the first two pullmans plunged through the wrecked bridge 40 feet to the bottom of the ravine.

A third pullman car, carrying the candidates, hung partly over the end of the bridge, see-sawed momentarily but remained on the track.

Bombers Flee Scene

The politicians and others immediately sprang from the car, drawing their pistols in anticipation of an attack but the bombers fled after exploding the charge.

As the petroleum car crashed on top of the engine flames shot up and quickly enveloped the five wrecked cars. The wooden pullmans burned rapidly, cremating alive several passengers and trainmen trapped in the twisted wreckage.

Flames jumped from the ravine to the destroyed cars above, burning the third pullman and the first and second class coaches, from which the travelers had escaped.

Previously Destroyed

The Paso Grande bridge, scene of the attack, had been destroyed several times previously during revolutionary movements.

Special details of troops were ordered to guard the tracks of the Mexican railway and of the Inter-Oceanico, which also runs trains between Veracruz and the capital, in order to prevent further attacks.

It was authoritatively learned that several narrow escapes from similar disasters have taken place in the past two weeks. The most recent was on the Inter-Oceanico a week ago when the train crew discovered a bomb on the tracks in time to avoid an explosion.

Election Returns Being Announced

For County Line trustee: D. O. Williams, 35; W. H. Robinson, 25; E. B. Teague, 4; Ed Nelson, 10; J. W. Richson, 1. The first two named were elected to serve on the board.

Abel Affirms His Probe Into Death Of Pinson Is Continuing Unabated

Upon heels of a statement of Police Chief H. L. (Bud) Johnston that he was not satisfied with a suicide theory in the death of W. O. Pinson, 55, and that he had given the "go" sign to his department to continue investigation, Sheriff Tom Abel Tuesday afternoon affirmed he had not ceased his probe into the case.

Pinson, a cotton buyer, was found dead in a shallow pool in Yellowhouse canyon Saturday.

To See Witnesses Today

"I questioned witnesses today, and have several to talk with Wednesday," said the sheriff. "I feel my investigation has just started. I am working on every angle. When I am thoroughly satisfied I will have a complete statement to make."

The sheriff said witnesses had told him Pinson twice had walked out on east Broadway and had asked about "the water in the canyon."

"Especially is this department interested to get the knowledge the public might have about Pinson's whereabouts at any time since March 27, whether in rooming houses, in Lubbock, out of town, or elsewhere," said Abel. "I'd appreciate any information anyone might have."

Checking Theories

"I never heard of a man committing suicide by kicking himself in the stomach, beating himself up, breaking his neck, and walking in a lake," Chief Johnston said. "We have several theories which we are checking on. Because of the doctor's autopsy report, I am not satisfied with a suicide theory."

The autopsy report showed there was no water in the man's lungs, that the upper vertebra of the neck was dislocated, and that there were severe bruises on the left eye, the right groin, and the left knee.

Run Down Clues

"We've run down a half dozen clues and found nothing, and we'll run down every other clue we hear of," said Deputy Sheriff Bedford F. Carpenter.

"We're checking it from every angle," said Sheriff Tom Abel, "but information we have points to nothing except suicide. If it is not suicide, I'll know about it when I have completed my investigation."

Blade Bought March 23

A safety razor, found in Pinson's left hip pocket, was bought Sunday, March 22, in Cammack's Drug store at Broadway and Avenue G, Sheriff Abel said he had learned. A short time before Pinson had checked out of room 252 of Commercial hotel, adjacent to the drug store. Key to room 252 was in Pinson's pocket.

Sheriff Abel said that County Attorney Lewis Orsborn of Van Zandt county had telephoned him that two indictments charging a W. O. Pinson with forgery had been returned at Canton.

Preparing Verdict

Justice of the Peace J. T. Trigg who conducted an inquest Tuesday was preparing a verdict that Pinson committed suicide due to despondency.

A considerable quantity of water ran from the man's nose and mouth after the body was removed from the pool, Justice of the Peace Trigg said he had been informed by witnesses. That fact, he said, may have explained absence of water in the lungs.

He also explained that the darkened spots which appeared to be bruises may have been caused by decomposition. Handling of the body, in removing it from the water, may have caused dislocation of the vertebra, he said.
