Call Is Sounded By Ku Klux Klan To Oust Kingfish

Imperial Wizard Hiram W. Evans Declares Work To Be Left To Louisiana Klan; Long Answers That If Evans Comes To His State He Will Remain There "With Toes Turned Up"

(By The Associated Press)

ATLANTA, Aug. 17.—An attack by the Ku Klux Klan here today on Huey Long was made public almost simultaneously with an attack on the Klan by George W. Christians, commander-in-chief of the "Crusade White Shirts."

The garb of the Klan is a plain white robe, but the two organizations are in apparent conflict.

Virtually dormant since its debacle from the political heights of ten years ago, the Klan, through its imperial wizard, Hiram W. Evans, announced it had sounded a "bugle call" to remove Senator Long from power and to retire him. The announcement said the work would be left to the Louisiana Klan.

George W. Christians from his headquarters in Chattanooga made public a letter to the imperial wizard saying that he had noticed the Klan had dropped the racial and religious issues to "actively fight for Americanism against communism and alien radicals."

Christians then asked a series of questions wanting to know how the Klan stands among other things "on the proposal to nationalize our banking system" and give the politicians, "complete control over credit so that they can shove rough Johnson and smooth Tugwell and the rest of the alphabet soup down our throats."

He also said that "I am inclined to think" the new Klan has "merely stolen part of our program for sucker bait."

"The Klan has plenty of adherents in Louisiana to do the job and they are preparing to do it at the first opportunity," Dr. Evans said, in announcing the imperial wizard had issued the call for a fight aganst Long.

Is Shown Statement

Shown a statement made by Senator Long in Baton Rouge in which he said if Dr. Evans went to Louisiana he would remain there "with the toes turned up" and that Evans had attended a Klan meeting in Shreveport in 1924 only to be "nearly thrown out of his own organization by Long," Dr. Evans said:

"Recalling the personal courage of Senator Huey P. Long as amazingly demonstrated in an occurance on Long Island in New York, the imperial wizard fears to meet him in open conflict with his weapons in Louisiana."

Replying to Long's charge that he was only prevented from being thrown out of the Klan by withdrawing his candidacy in 1924, Evans said:

Made Private Citizen

"I made a trip to attend a meeting in Louisiana in 1924 at which Henry L. Fuqua was endorsed and with the Klan and the people properly supporting him, he was elected. That is history.

"They made a private citizen out of the Kingfish in 1924 and no human agency can prevent the aroused citizenry of Louisiana from retiring him to private life again the next time they have the opportunity."

Commenting further on Long the imperial wizard said:

"The Klan in militant action against radical alienism naturally opposes alienism of renegade Americans. What he (Long) is trying to do would aid and comfort radical alienism in this country and if

Fight Against Paralysis Now Thought Ended

Doctor Reveals Perfection Of Method To Prevent Dreaded Disease; Effectiveness Of Fluid Demonstrated

(By The Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17. — A victorious end to science's hundred year search for a method to prevent infantile paralysis was claimed today by Dr. John A. Kolmer, Temple university professor and medical research director.

After three years of effort, inspired by severe epidemics of the disease, Doctor Kolmer said he has perfected a successful vaccine.

Entirely Preventive

Stressing that the vaccine is entirely a preventive measure and in no way a "cure" for paralysis after infection sets in, the professor said he demonstrated the effectiveness of the fluid in experiments with monkeys and finally with injections into his own body and that of his technical assistant, Miss Ana M. Rule of Halifax, Nova Scotia.

As an indication of his confidence in his disocvery, he declared his intention to vaccinate his two teenage children.

The vaccine is prepared from the spinal cords of monkeys, Dr. Kolmer explained, much as Pasteur developed his preventative for hydrophobia, or rabies.

Available At Low Cost

Declaring it could be made available for general use without delay and at low cost—probably $2 or $3—the physician predicted it would be requested by parents as preschool vaccination against other diseases is now.

The vaccine, treated with sodium ricinoleate, a chemical substance from castor beans, does not com-

DAMAGE CAUSED

SULPHUR SPRINGS, Aug. 17. (AP) Firemen battled for four hours today before gaining control of a blaze which did $25,000 damage to the J. G. Bridges grocery store and the Sulphur Springs State bank. Flames ruined the store but damage to the bank was less. Heat caused show windows in adjacent business houses to break. Cause of the fire was not known.

Floyd Hamilton Is Indicted On Charges Of Aiding His Brother In Escape From The Eastham Prison Farm

(By The Associated Press)

CROCKETT, Aug. 17. — Floyd Hamilton was indicted today on charges of aiding his brother, Raymond Hamilton, and four other convicts in their escape from Eastham state prison farm last Jan. 16.

It was charged that he "planted" the guns which made it possible for the outlaws to break for liberty.

Guard Was Killed

A prison guard, Major Crowson, was wounded fatally in the gun fight which occurred when the convicts seized firearms that had been left for them under a culvert. Simultaneously, guards said, a machine gunner identified as the late Clyde Barrow cut loose with a deadly burst of fire.

Raymond Hamilton, Joe Palmer and the three other prisoners involved ran under cover of machine gun fire to a car and were driven away.

The date for the trial of Floyd Hamilton, a Dallas man, has not been set yet, but District Judge Ben Dent said it probably would come up during the August term of court.

Free Under Bond

At present, Floyd Hamilton is free under $5,000 bond.

Raymond Hamilton and Joe Palmer were recaptured and tried for the shooting of Major Crowson. Both were convicted and sentenced to death. Recently they escaped from death cells at the state peni-

Sister Aimee Is Threatened

Bombing Plot Is Bared And Cash Demanded

Reports State That Missing Minister Is On His Way To Join Aimee In Spreading Of Four Square Gospel

Ransom Is Sought

Guard Is Thrown Around California Temple; Deadline On Payment Of $25,000 Ransom Is Set Today

(By The Associated Press)

GOLDSBORO, N. C., Aug. 17. — Reports that R. H. Askew, reputedly kidnaped, was instead en route to join Aimee Semple McPherson in spreading the "Four Square Gospel," coupled with word that the famous woman evangelist had been threatened on his account, brought renewed activity by investigators here tonight.

Sheriff Paul Garrison received word tonight from Kinston that Askew had told a minister there, whose name was withheld, that he planned to become one of Sister Aimee's disciples in Los Angelcs. The conversation was said to have taken place last week, several days before Askew disappeared after leaving his home with word that he planned a business trip to nearby Smithfield.

Bombing Threatened

Almost simultaneously the sheriff was advised that Aimee's representatives in Los Angeles had received a letter from Richmond, Va., demanding $25,000 ransom under the threat of killing Askew and bombing her Angelus Temple.

Earlier it became known that Mrs. Askew had received a telegram from Washington, signed "Cortez" and apparently from the purported kidnapers, saying: "have the money ready Saturday."

On Wednesday, the day after her evangelist husband disappeared, she received a note, postmarked here the day before, demanding $25,000 "or you will never see your husband alive again."

Procedure Unknown

Whether any steps would be made to meet the ransom demand tomorrow could not be learned.

The Askews are not persons of means. They have spent their three years of married life teaching and in itinerant evangelical work. Mrs. Askew's brother, Roby Geer, a power in Democratic politics in Watauga and surrounding counties, is a large landowner but was understood not to be wealthy.

While officers worked apparently on the ransom kidnap theory, some of Askew's followers expressed the theory that he might have been abducted by enemies he was reported to have made in religious circles here.

An agreement toward this goal has just been negotiated with Utah. Johnson plans to confer shortly on the matter with Governor A. Harry Moore of New Jersey, home of the protesting barber.

Onion A Day Is The Governor's Way, States Bill Murray As He Offers Diet Advice To Readers

Black Coffee, Weakened With Water, Claimed Harmless But Milk Or Cream Ruins It; Turnips? Wild Bill Declares There's Not Enough Food Value To Keep Person Alive

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 17. —An onion a day is the governor's way, readers of William E. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray's personal newspaper learned today in a front page article on diet which appeared over the signature of the state's chief executive.

Onions, counselled the governor-dietician, are a "universal food," and "should be consumed daily in whatsoever climate or country one may live."

Murray, whose angular physique carries a suggestion of frailty, has completed three and a half years of his term at a pace which at times left his followers breathless.

He offered a number of other health suggestions.

"Black coffee, weakened with water," he said, "is harmless; in fact, a little coffee, when taken into the system, is a mild laxative." The decoction is his favorite beverage.

But, declared Murray, "cold cream or milk put into hot coffee is positively poisonous and injurious to the system."

A cheap breakfast food, palatable and nutritious, he said, can be prepared at home by boiling whole wheat grains, and then adding a little grease—"par-

Ransom-Seeking Kidnapers Of Canada Release Their Victim But Payment Of Funds Denied

Lack Of Cooperation With The Authorities Is Charged By Attorney General; Officers Continue Investigations

(By The Associated Press)

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 17. (AP) — John S. Labatt, first victim of ransom-seeking kidnapers in Canada, was restored safely today from a 65-hour captivity under strange circumstances.

They brought an official complaint of "lack of co-operation" with the authorities.

Whether any ransom was paid was the subject of conflicting statements.

Rumors Varied

One source described as authoritative said the London, Ont., brewer was freed without payment of any part of the $150,000 demanded by a note left in his abandoned automobile Tuesday.

In Hamilton, Ont., a statement was made that "less than $50,000" was paid before Labatt, blindfolded with adhesive tape, was put out of an automobile in the outskirts of Toronto between midnight and 1 a. m., today.

The formal official statement on the case by Attorney General A. W. Roebuck of Ontario had this to say on the subject of ransom:

Arrangements Unknown

"This office has no knowledge as to what financial arrangements if any, were made with the criminals."

Whatever arrangements were made, neither Hugh Labatt (brother of the kidnaped man) nor his solicitor, Mr. H. G. Ivey of London, had any hand in their making.

While complaining that "owing to the exclusion of the police from the transaction in its closing hours there is very little . . . on which investigators can build," the attorney general said the authorities are going forward with their work on the

Before he came here three years ago Feroe was assistant professor of physics at Kansas State Agricultural college, Manhattan, Kas.

Back In Race To Battle Ferguson

DALLAS, Aug. 17. (AP)—State Senator Joe Moore of Greenville announced here tonight that he would continue in the race for lieutenant governor against State Senator Walter Woodul of Houston, due to the fact that "since my statement of withdrawal was put in the mails Thursday to Texas newspapers, former Governor James E. Ferguson has unqualifiedly indorsed my Houston opponent."

"Because of my limited financial resources," he explained, "I had considered withdrawing, although I received more than 170,000 votes in the first primary.

"However, I now accept this indorsement of Mr. Woodul by Mr. Ferguson as a challenge to my loyalty to the citizens and to the state of Texas. I have determined to stay in the race to fight for clean government and help rid the state for all time of Fergusonism."

Confidence Of Fatherland Is Hitler's Plea

Declares His Succession To Powers Of Von Hindenburg Necessary To Curb Hostility Of Other Powers

Troubles Revealed

Whirlwind Campaign Climaxed With Address At Hamburg On Friday; People's Decision Set For Sunday

BY WADE WERNER
Associated Press Foreign Staff

HAMBURG, Germany, Aug. 17.—Adolf Hitler pleaded earnestly with all Germany tonight to approve his succession to the powers of Reichspresident Von Hindenburg, an action he asserted was made necessary by foreign hostility toward Germany and economic distress at home.

He made no effort to cover up the present economic difficulties of the reich, but on the other hand referred to them as conditions calling for a strong central government.

Would Prove Costly

The chancellor declared that he would have preferred to appeal to the people first and then carried out their decision, but that the leaderless weeks which would have intervened would have proved costly to Germany.

Hitler referred to the possibility that some foreign circles which predicted trouble after the death of Von Hindenburg cherished the thought that there would be confusion "here and abroad" and the already existing "international uncertainties" would be added to by new intrigues.

His address in this hard-hit seaport was the climax of a whirlwind campaign which will culminate Sunday in the plebiscite on one question—whether the Germans sanction Hitler's assumption of presidential powers.

Want Large Vote

The vigor of the campaign—its hundreds of speeches by lesser nazis, testimonials by leaders in every sphere of activity and slogans and appeals to every possible medium. The seriousness of the fuehrer tonight has made it evident that nazidom is fighting firmly for a vote so large and so favorable that the future course of the regime cannot be

United Textile Workers Of America Declare That Almost A Million Workers Will Walk Out On Strike In Near Future For Better Working Conditions; Vote Not Unanimous

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Strikes involving 325,000 additional workers were voted tonight in the woolen and worsted, silk rayon and synthetic rayon knitters industries, by the convention of the United Textile Workers of America. The convention yesterday voted a strike in the cotton textile industry, which employs 500,000 workers.

The votes to call out workers allied with the cotton textile industry were by a large majority but not unanimous.

The silk and rayon industries, the delegates left to the discretion of the new executive committee of the United Textile Workers of America and the executive committees of their own branches the time the strikes were to be called.

Woolen and worsted and synthetic rayon workers also empowered the central executive committee and their own divisional executive committees to set the times for their strikes.

The vote yesterday calling out the cotton textile workers approved a strike on or before Sept. 1 at 12 hours notice.

Officials of the united association conferred after the night session that for reasons of strategy and preparation the other strikes might not be called at the same time as the strike of cotton workers.

Russell Wood, president of the silk workers federation, said there were 125,000 workers in that industry, although not all are members of the union.

Conditions Are Same

"Conditions in the silk and rayon industry are the same as those in the cotton industry," said Frank Schweitzer of Paterson, N. J., who introduced the silk and rayon resolution.

"Since the advent of the NRA, the silk industry has been in worse condition than it ever was before."

Representatives at the convention said that there are 150,000 workers employed in the woolen and worsted industry, and 50,000 in the synthetic rayon. All of the workers, however, are not members of the unions.

No Estimates Available

No estimates were available tonight as to the percentage of workers affiliated with the groups which voted the strikes.

Announcement of the affirmative votes on the strikes was greeted by applause from the delegates.

Before the vote on the silk and rayon resolution was taken Wood informed the convention that the workers would walk out voluntarily in sympathy with cotton workers if the strike was not called.

William G. Batty of New Bedford, Mass., argued that if the strike was to be successful the paralysis must be as complete as possible.

Emil Riede of Milwaukee led the opposition to the resolution and asserted "we ought to bite off just as much as we can chew and not be swayed by enthusiasm for a general strike."

Boards To Convene

President Thomas F. McMahon of the united organization said he expected the executive board of each division to convene upon the matter before the adjournment of the

School Tax Of 86 Cents Will Apply In City

Same Rate As That Last Year Set Last Night By Lubbock School Board; Budget For Year Also Set

School tax rate was set at 86 cents on the $100 valuation at a meeting of Lubbock public school board in Lubbock sanitarium clinic last night.

The rate was the same as that of last year.

At the same time, the board fixed an operating budget of $206,980 for the 1934-35 academic year.

Due to salary increases, totaling about 12,000, the budget was increased by that sum. When teachers were employed last spring the average salary increase per teacher was $5 a month.

Valuations have not been totaled, but a school board official estimated the amount would approximate $23,000,000, or about the same as the previous year.

No Holds Are Barred As Allred And Hunter Near Last Week Of Campaign

Blended Tax System Lauded By Hunter In Houston Talk

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Aug. 17. (AP)—Tom F. Hunter, campaigning for governor, tonight brought to Houston his arguments against monopolies and large chains and for a blended tax system which would make "every group bear a part of the tax burden."

Asserting that "no single tax can reach all alike," Hunter said that a fair program would include levies on tangible and intangible property, a tax on net earnings, select and luxury taxes and a just levy on natural resources.

Would Ease Burden

The whole should be arranged so that no class would have to pay more than its just share of governmental expenses, he said. He urged that all ad valorem taxes on homesteads up to $3,000 assessed valuation be removed and that the burden on other real estate be eased to the extent that it again will become self sustaining.

This was Hunter's first run-off speech in either of the three largest cities. Supporters of Hunter and James V. Allred, his opponent, each claim that their favorite will carry this populous county. Allred led here in the July 28 primary and Hunter was third. The candidate in second place, C. C. McDonald, has asked his supporters to turn to Hunter.

Republican Leanings

Hunter spent considerable time trying to convince his audience that Allred had Republican leanings and was not an advocate of the Roosevelt program.

He charged that "one of the War Veterans Will Be Told Of Plans In October Speech

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17. (AP) — President Roosevelt plans to tell the nation's war veterans in a speech in October just what he proposes to do for them.

The occasion will be the dedication of a new $2,000,000 veterans hospital for mental cases in Roanoke, Virginia.

Reliable sources indicated no drastic change in policy would be announced, but that the president would sum up the present government program for the ex-service men and outline future plans to assure the veterans the administration is their friend.

Farm Officials Lack Power To Intervene In Milk Strike

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17. (AP) — Officials of the farm administration said today they lacked power to act in the strike of dairymen at Fort Worth, Tex., to obtain an increase of milk prices to $2.50 per 100 pounds.

The administration has not established a milk marketing agreement and license for the Fort Worth area and therefore has not authority to intervene, they declared.

Capello disappeared this afternoon with three year old Frank Antonio whose mother was executed last week for the murder of her husband.

Jimmie Says Texans Becoming Tired Of Governed Chiefs

(By The Associated Press)

WACO, Aug. 17.—Texans are tired of "governed governors," James V. Allred, candidate for the Democratic nomination said here tonight as he repeated his assertion that his opponent, Tom F. Hunter, had made political alignments that would not permit him to enter the governor's office and act freely.

"Texas needs an ungoverned governor," Allred said. "It is weary of governors hamstrung by political debts, receiving orders from behind the scenes.

Charge Reiterated

Allred reiterated the charge that his opponent had traded out with C. C. McDonald, who ran third in the first primary, and James E. Ferguson, former governor, who actively supported McDonald's candidacy.

Allred criticized Hunter's prediction of a "bear fight" if the legislature refused to enact his program, saying "Texas needs patriotic cooperation between its governor, the legislature and every citizen more than ever before."

Says Hunter Is Frantic

"The attorney general accused Hunter of being "frantic" and "on the run" and said his efforts were becoming ludicious.

Allred was introduced by John F. Sheehy, Waco city commissioner.

"The people ought to be glad Jimmie Allred is a boy," said Sheehy, "as his opponents state, because he is not old enough to have been trained in the old school of politics."

AT LAST men are coming into their own with the comfort idea in collars. Appearing on the market now are no-bind health collars with lastex which "assures perfect comfort with perfect fit."

The greatest of all discomforts in male apparel is the tight shirt collar, we read in the circular sent to our desk. The face that the man is making as he tugs at his Adam's apple reveals that he is in misery of some kind. If new collars relieve such contortions we give them our hearty approval.

Many doctors attribute boils dizziness and headaches to unnatural pressure of the collar on the jugular vein. How many times a day do you notice the great American gesture, men tossing their heads from side to side and tugging at a tight collar in a nervous and irritable manner?

We are glad that men are forsaking more of the old customs in wearing apparel. With looseness of clothing comes greater comfort.

BOYS AS COOKS

STUDYING foods and nutrition in the Bedford, Ohio, High school are five boys, who, in addition to being honor students, are active in football and baseball participation. The boys have just returned from New York where they attended a convention of the American Home Economics association, a gathering which drew more than 2,500 high school and college home economic specialists from all parts of the country.

Victor Baltitis, one of the boys, youthful pitcher for his high school nine has shown sufficient talent to attract the attention of Rogers Hornsby and is being watched carefully by the St. Louis scouts. That shows that Victor is no sissy.

THEY WERE CURIOUS

THE FOUR boys became interested in cooking they said, from a standpoint of training diets. They wanted to know the whys and wherefores of the "don'ts" prescribed by athletic coaches. They are hiking enthusiasts and they wanted to know how to cook on their long tramps. They insist that they can get together a "nifty" meal over a one-burner camp stove.

After all, what is so strange about boys liking to cook? Some of the boys of our acquaintance are good cooks, remembering lessons in Scoutcraft. The leading cooks of the country are the chefs to be found in hotels and summer resorts.

A culinary expert would have to get up early to find someone who can make better pop-overs than J. T. Trigg or barbecue chicken to outdo that cooked by C. E. Hunt.

Jubilee Singers Heard Last Night

The music-loving, rhythm-breathing soul of the American negro came alive last night for an overflow audience at senior high school auditorium when the Fisk Jubilee Singers presented a concert as the final number of the Tech summer artist course. There were eight in the group, including an accompanist who appeared only for the two solos sung by Harold Patton, baritone. For the rest, the voices alone, in their poignant, haunting cadences were heard. Even pitch was found without preluminary fumbling audible to the listeners.

The spirituals found the greatest favor. Of these Deep River, The Old Ark's A-Moverin' and Steal Away were especially liked. Who's Been Fishin' on Sunday? and Swing Low were appreciated encores. There was disappointment in the failure to sing the scheduled Old Man River, which, though of recent composition, has taken on the character of an American folk song.

Music as it is—not a luxury but a language—is exemplified in the Fisk Jubilee octet. Last night's audience was enthusiastic.—RAL.

Amos Denounces Self-Indulgence

* * * *

Text: 6:1-7, 11-14

International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Aug. 19

By Wm. E. Gilroy, D. D., Editor Of Advance

BENEATH the sham and injustice of life, Amos saw also the evil of self-indulgence. In the seemingly prosperous society that he observed as he came from his fields and farm life he saw not only the depth of social corruption, but he saw also the debasement of individual life and character.

He perceived that the character of men and women was being corrupted by the ease and luxury that they had brought into their lives.

He challenged the worth of much that every age has tended to call culture and refinement. He questioned what could be the real culture or refinement of a people who cared nothing for the affliction of their fellowmen, and he predicted the overthrow of those who had not established their lives in strength and right and truth.

He saw the great houses smitten with breaches and the little houses with clefts. He saw ruin and depression settling upon the nation that had been building a luxurious superstructure and disregarding the foundations of simple verity and right.

HE warned the people against their false security, and he spoke of a preparedness of a different sort, that was essential to a nation and people.

He did not tell the rich to secure their ill-gotten gains, and the luxurious and cultured to defend their easy ways, by building up great armies to provide even heavier burdens for the tax-ridden masses. He told them that the deepest law and way of security in the life of any people was to get back to sound principles to build individual character and social life upon integrity and fairness, man with man.

One can realize that Amos was not a popular prophet. What scorn the sophisticated must have had for his rough dress and his simple ways! What scorn the city has alway had for the rustic and the farmer, in spite of the fact that he feeds them all!

Yet it is the man from the wilderness and the country who has come again and again to warn of dangers and to save society, when its own false ways and practices have brought upon it dire peril.

WHERE is the Amos of today? Possibly he is found in our midst, if we would but give heed to him and listen to his counsels.

We may be sure that he is no more attractive and popular than in this ancient time. We may be sure that he has no honeyed words, but we may be sure, also, that unless we heed his warning the forces of ease and evil that have brought disaster in the past will continue their story of disaster until we establish things aright.

It is interesting to observe that all through the period of our recent prosperity, and the later depression, there have been some men here in America who have rightly appraised the facts and who have given counsel, little as their fellow men were willing to heed.

What tragedy and sadness in the lives of millions of our people might have been spared, if in our days of assumed prosperity we had been building truly and wisely and conserving the wealth of a vast country for the welfare of the whole of its people!

Blaze Damage Set At $2,000

Building And Contents Protected By Insurance; Probe To Determine Origin Of The Flames Is Made

Lyric theater building, 1115 Texas avenue, suffered about $2,000 in fire damage early Friday morning, it was estimated. The total did not include damage to the screen and projection machine.

Building and contents were protected by insurance, said D. A. Forbess, City fire marshall. He said the projection equipment was damaged only slightly.

Motor Causes Fire

Mrs. W. A. Mauldin owned the building. Her husband operated the theater. A motor in the building caused a small fire earlier this week, he said.

Possibility the fire was of incendiary origin had not been abandoned entirely. Fire Marshal Forbess and Fire Chief W. E. Twitty, however, expressed the opinion that a lighted cigaret dropped in the balcony had caused the blaze.

The two balconies, connected by a hallway, were used by negro patrons.

Ignited Burlap Strips

The fire evidently sprang up about the front row of seats in the south balcony, the fire marshal said, and ignited burlap strips which it followed to the other balcony, while fire brands fell to the lower floor.

Roof and walls of the theater virtually were intact, although firemen had cut through the roof to fight the blaze, which they had been unable to penetrate because of intense heat and heavy smoke. Nearly all the interior was ruined.

Few seats were burned. Most of the others, however, were damaged appreciably by heat, smoke, and water.

Burlap had been used to improve acoustics.

AUSTIN, Aug. 17. (AP)—Corp diversification followed the federal government's camgaign to reduce cotton acreage, figures released by the United States department of agriculture for Texas reveal.

The 1933 Texas cotton cultivation of 11,488,000 acres was reduced to 10,576,000 in 1934, a decline of nearly 2,000,000 acres.

About 1,000,000 acres of this decrease was planted to wheat. The 1933 wheat acreage was 1,973,000 while acreage reported this year was 2,861,000. Despite extremely unfavorable growing conditions due to the drouth the Texas wheat harvest this year was estimated at almost double last year's.

The anticipated production of 1934 wheat was 25,749,000 bushels compared to 13,022,000 last year.

Farmers planted 271,000 more acres in corn in 1934 than in 1933 sharply reduced by the dry weather. The government estimated the Texas corn crop on Aug. 1 at 56,930,000 bushels, 17,894,000 bushels less than last year.

Acreage planted to oats was 357,000 in excess of the acreage planted in 1933. Production was estimated at 34,012,000 bushels, 13,208,000 in excess of last year. The increase in the oats production was regarded as fortunate owing to the severe shortage of other feed crops.

Nearly 1,000,000 more bushels of barley will be produced this year from only 34,000 additional acres than was harvested last year, the government estimated. Predicted barley production was 2,678,000 bushels this year compared to 1,720,000 last year.

The price received by producers of farm products on July 15 was estimated by the government to be the highest since June, 1931, owing to the substantial reduction in prospective production.

School Closes Here Saturday

Hatchery Sessions Will End At Texas Tech; Visitors At Convention Remain Over To Attend Meetings

A hatchery inspectors school, its purpose to acquaint hatcherymen with government agricultural program as it effects the poultry industry, will close two days of sessions at Texas Technological college this afternoon.

From 45 to 50 visitors at the 11th annual convention of the Texas Baby Chick association, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, remained for the school, held in stock judging pavilion at Tech.

Mowery Speaks Today

First speaker on the program this morning will be Prof. Ray C. Mowery of the agricultural division at the college. Professor Mowery will continue a discussion began Friday on the duties of inspectors under the code.

Other instructors at the school are Prof. C. Luker of Texas Tech and Prof. D. H. Reid, head of the poultry department at Texas A. and M.

Emphasizing the beneficial effect of culling, Prof Reid yesterday spoke upon popular breeds of chickens and also upon the technique of flock inspection.

Prof. Luker discussed brooding, flock improvement and disease prevention.

An examination for inspectors will be given at the close of the school today.

Two South Plains Men Pay Fines For Minor Offenses

AMARILLO, Aug. 17. (AP)—L. M. Brandt and O. B. Bland who were questioned in connection with the Joe Vickers slaying near Shamrock last night pleaded guilty to minor charges and paid fines in justice and county court at Canyon. Then they were taken to Paducah, where Bland faces a cotton theft charge.

Brandt pleaded guilty to a vagrancy charge and was fined $1 and costs in justice court. Bland was fined $1 and cost in county court on charges of reckless driving and was assessed the same fine in justice court on charges of operating a car with improper license.

Mrs. Brandt, who was with the men when they were arrested, was held by Plainview officers for questioning. Plainview officers also held the car in which the three were riding when stopped by officers near Canyon Wednesday.

Water Works Funds Okayed

Authorization Of Grant Made Friday By The Public Works Administration; Abernathy To Receive Loan

Public Works administration has authorized funds for a waterworks system at Abernathy, the Associated Press reported. The authorization was one of 215 non-federal projects announced Friday.

Abernathy would receive a loan and grant of $26,000. The loan part would be secured by a bond issue.

Never Had System

Abernathy has never had a water works, the town water supply being furnished by windmills and wells. A large well and tank in the rear of the Struve building supplies water for the business section.

Never in the history of the town has Abernathy voted bonds for any reason. It is one of the few incorporated towns in this section without a public debt.

Big Spring Get Pool

Big Spring was alloted a grant of $32,000 for a swimming pool. Five other Texas towns were given allotments of loans and a grant. It was indicated that the total virtually depleted the $400,000,000 allotment to the PWA by President Roosevelt from the deficiency appropriation. A total of 4,028 non-federal projects have been approved.

Other projects in Texas were: Refugio, city hall and recreation center, grant $12,000; Bexar county, sewer system and administration building, loan and grant $154,000; Bowie, waterworks improvement, loan and grant $164,000; Odem, water works, loan and grant $31,000; Fort Worth, boulevard improvement, loan and grant $150,000.

Wichita County Democratic Chairman Speaks For Hunter

Roy Daniel, Wichita county Democratic chairman, will speak twice today on the South Plains in the interest of Tom Hunter, his fellow townsman, a candidate for governor of Texas.

Mr. Daniel, former state legislator, will be at Tahoka at 3 o'clock and at Lamesa at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. He was at the old settlers' reunion near Crosbyton yesterday.

He said he had found considerable Hunter sentiment between Wichita Falls and Lubbock.

Strange Masonic Temple In Oklahoma Deserted; Structure Built In 1908

McALESTER, Okla., Aug. 17. (AP)—One of the strangest Masonic temples in the nation, built on a mountain one thousand feet above the surrounding country, virtually has been deserted.

The structure was built in 1908 by Cryptic Rite Masons of Oklahoma at a cost of approximately $25,000. It is two miles north of McAlester.

Place Christened

A sanctum, suggestive of King Solomon's temple, was constructed upon a foundation of solid rock from which nine arches were carved.

The Masons christened the place "Mount Moriah" and buried in a secret underground spot a receptacle containing temple treasures—gold pieces, a Bible, names of the officers and lodge equipment. Many of the members then active have died and it is believed that only one living man, William H. Essex, knows the hiding place of the receptacle.

It had been planned for the craft to re-assemble 25 years after the date of the dedication of the temple and open the receptacle but the ceremony probably will be left to a future generation if it is held.

Made Pilgrimages

For years members of the lodge made annual pilgrimages to the temple of symbolic Masonry. As the older craftsmen gave way to a younger generation the annual assembles at Mount Moriah ceased and degrees were conferred in a hall in McAlester. The altar and officers' stations in the temple have been smashed with a hammer, doors and windows have been broken and marble facings have been pried off or broken.

The temple consists of two stone buildings, one on the shoulder of a cliff about thirty feet from the other and about twenty feet above it. The two are connected by a subterranean passage. One building is two stories high with a basement cut out of the stone. The upper floor forms the lodge room. Floors alter and officers' stations are built of concrete and the floors and ceilings are supported by heavy steel girders.

The second building also is of two stories, built of stone and concrete. The lower rooms, the underground passage and an archway are used in conferring of degrees.

Slaton Public Schools Will Begin New Year September 3

SLATON, Aug. 17. (Special)—Slaton public schools will begin the 1934-35 academic year Monday, Sept. 3. It is anticipated last year's enrollment of 1,320 will be equaled and possibly exceeded.

The teaching corps will have 31 classroom teachers and five fine arts supervisors, Joe H. Walker, president of the board of education, said. Other teachers may be added.

Miss Geraldine Clewell of Waco, a graduate of Texas Technological college, has been elected to teach home economics in high school to succeed Miss Lila Allred, who resigned to accept a similar position at Wellington, Tex.

Slaton, which has a total of 28 credits of affiliation, has four credits in home economics.

MURDER STALKS IN THE MIDST OF BEAUTY!

Science has made a new discovery about body odor. It is caused by stale perspiration curds and requires deep-pore cleansing. It cannot be ended by ordinary soaps, because their sluggish lathers cannot reach into the pores and cleanse them. Instead the soap combines with the waste material and forms clogging curds!

Kirk's Coco Castile soap works in an entirely different way. No matter how hard the water, this 100% pure vegetable oil soap breaks instantly into a searching, bubbly lather. This bubbly lather cleans deep into the pores, actually removes the embedded stale perspiration curds—then rinses out completely, and in a flash. Thus it ends body odor at its source!

Delightful to use, Kirk's Coco Castile is entirely free from M. S. (medicine smell)—leaves your body as fresh and clean-smelling as a woodland breeze! A big generous cake, half again larger than the average toilet soap, it is now selling at the lowest price in history! Be sure to ask for Kirk's Castile by name—at your grocer's.

Tigers And Yankees At It Again; Whitewash Each Other In Double Header

Rowe Gives Up Three Bingles In Second Tilt

Lefty Gomez Allows 8 Hits In Opener But Tigers Lose, 5 To 0; Washington Takes Two Off Cleveland Tribe

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

YANKEE STADIUM, NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, Detroit's lanky 22-year-old pitching sensation from Eldorado, Arkansas, stood the New York Yankees on their collective heads today for the second time in three days and swept to his 14th consecutive victory on the crest of a dazzling shutout.

Despite a heavy fall in the second inning, when he tripped over third base and nearly broke his ankle, Rowe recovered from a streak of subsequent wildness to check the Yankees with 3 solitary singles, strike out no less than eleven batsmen and add a 2-0 triumph to his remarkable winning streak.

Two Games Of Record

The "boy wonder" who is now within two games of equaling the record American League streak of 16 jointly held by Joe Wood, Walter Johnson and Bob Grove, pitched the Tigers to an even break in the concluding double-header of the crucial series and thrilled a crowd of 46,571 spectators.

Vernon (Lefty) Gomez obtaining revenge for his shellacking in the first game of the series, blanked the Tigers 5 to 0 in today's opener, thanks to a heavy early attack on Vic Sorrell, but the Tigers left the Yankee stadium with three out of five games in their bag and a commanding margin of five and a half games over New York in the pennant race.

Rowe handed the Yankees their second coat of whitewash for 1934 and the third they have experienced within two seasons.

Ruth Turns A Cat

Gomez yielded eight hits to Sorrell's six in the first game but the southpaw in scoring his 20th victory of the year was highly effective in the clinches. He was aided by two double plays in addition to sensational support from Babe Ruth. The Bambino came pounding in to right-center in the sixth to make a circus catch of Charley Gehringer's line drive. Ruth turned a complete somersault after getting his hands on the ball and got a big ovation.

Allison Beats Bell To Enter Newport Finals With Parker; Cup Players Win

Van Ryn Teams Up With Allison To Win Doubles

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 17. (AP)—Wilmer Allison and Frankie Parker, two methodical shotmakers who keep banging away at their opponents' weak spots until they break through, today gained the final round of the Newport Casino singles tennis tournament.

Allison, runner-up to Frank Shields here last year, gained his second straight Casino final by wearing down the greatly improved Berkley Bell of New York, 6-4, 2-6, 2-6, 7-5, 6-2. Parker entered the last round after giving the new clay court champion, Bryan "Bitsy" Grant of Atlanta, a 6-3, 3-6, 6-2, 6-3, trouncing.

Half of the doubles final bracket became occupied after the entire U. S. Davis Cup team went into action on the same court. The national champions, George Lott and Lester Stoefen, had little difficulty turning back Shields and Sidney Wood, who divided the Davis Cup singles assignments, in straight sets, 6-4, 9-7, 6-3.

Mako And Budge Lose

In the only other match on the card, Allison and his perennial partner, Johnny Van Ryn of Philadelphia, qualified for a semi-final match against Bell and Gregory Mangin of Newark by defeating the California youngsters, Gene Mako, new national junior titlist, and red haired Donald Budge, 3-6, 6-1, 6-3.

Bell played rings about Allison until the latter's stubborn attack to his left side cause him to tire late in the fourth set.

As Bell weakened gradually, Allison increased his pressure and the turning point of the match came in the 11th game of the fourth set. Bell seemed on the point of breaking Allison's service but the latter saved it by pulling up from 15-40 to take a six games to five lead.

Bell then started pressing and, after two double faults and two of his backhanders were netted, Allison gained the set that squared the count. The decisive set was a walkaway for Allison for he became stronger as his opponent weakened.

Allison made 130 errors, including 69 nets against 116 misses for Bell.

Golfers May Qualify For City Open While Playing In South Plains Tilt At Meadowbrook Club Here Tomorrow

Two vacant golf titles are to be filled next week with the staging of the annual South Plains invitation and Lubbock City open tournaments here.

The South Plains event, open to all golfers in the region, is a one-day, 36-hole event booked for tomorrow at Meadowbrook. It is expected to bring in outstanding players of the Plains including those of the South Plains league, as well as many non-championship qualifiers.

The 18-hole round played in the morning will count as a qualifying score. The afternoon score will be added to the morning score for totals determining winners of each flight. There will be as many flights as the entry list demands, and each player will have a chance to win.

Qualifying for the annual city open begins tomorrow also, and local golfers entered in the South Plains event may qualify for the city open at the same time. Those who do not qualify Sunday may shoot an 18-hole score Monday at Meadowbrook.

First round match play will be shifted to Lubbock Country club Tuesday, and two days will be allowed for each round until the third. On Thursday play will revert to Meadowbrook for second and third rounds, and back to Country club on Sunday for the finals.

All local golfers are especially urged to enter both tournaments. Attractive prizes will go to winners.

Ken Meenan, sensational Northwestern back of several years ago, will be eligible for Big Ten competition this fall, but not with Northwestern. He will play for Bob Zuppke at Illinois.

Catcher's Record On Verge Of Tumbling In Texas Loop

DALLAS, Aug. 17. (AP)—A moss-covered Texas League record probably will be eclipsed this season. It is the catching mark held by Frank "Pop" Kitchens of 130 games in one season.

Johnny Berger, Tulsa maskman, is closing in on Kitchens' endurance feat. Through Thursday night, Berger had caught 116 games, only 14 short of tying the record. With 23 more Texas League playing days remaining, Berger has an excellent chance of establishing a new record.

A year often makes a tremendous difference in batting averages. The interesting race between Beau Bell of Galveston and Chester Morgan of San Antonio for the league hitting honors recalls the fact that neither hit .300 last season. Bell finished the 1933 campaign with a .293 average, and Morgan called it a season with a .294 swat mark.

Here's the difference: Through Thursday night, Morgan boasted a .360 average, and Bell was pressing for the lead with .358.

The case of "Pid" Purdy, San Antonio outfielder, should also figure in this swat angle. "Pid" was the league's champion batsman last year, with a husky .358 average. Through Thursday night, "Pid" had a .302 average to be far down the list of leading hitters.

Federal Stamps Unnecessary For Dove Hunters Next Month

AUSTIN, Aug. 17. (AP)—William J. Tucker, executive secretary of the game, fish and oyster commission, said today purchase of federal stamps was required of hunters of water fowl but not of those hunting doves, snipe rails or coots.

Tucker said many hunters had sought to buy the stamps for hunting doves.

The white wing season opens Aug. 20, and the dove season in the north zone Sept. 1. In the south zone it opens Oct. 1, each zone having two months of hunting.

Softball Managers Meet For Drawing

Entry Deadline Is 1 O'Clock; Meet At Hotel Here

Drawings for first round games in the first South Plains open softball tournament will be conducted at Hotel Hilton at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Representatives of teams entered or who plan to enter the tournament are invited to be present. An outline of rules and regulations concerning the tournament will be presented. Managers or team representatives will draw numbers for first round opponents and for starting times.

The meeting will be held on the second floor of the hotel.

With less than a dozen teams indicating they will enter and several more waiting until the last minute to decide it is thought highly probable that the tournament will start as scheduled Monday afternoon. The exact starting time, the number of games to be played daily, will be determined by the number of teams entering the tournament.

Two-Game Elimination

Since entries have not come in with alacrity, it is probable that the tournament will be based on the two-game process of elimination. That is, before a team is out of the tournament, it must lose two games. As a team loses, it shall fall into a lower bracket, there to compete with other losers until all but three teams have been eliminated. These will play off for first, second and third place, and receive cash prizes in proportion to the place won.

Cash derived from the "gate" will go into the prize pot, and be divided three ways.

The meeting today at 1 o'clock will signal the deadline on entries. Teams desiring to enter must signify their intentions by that time. Afterwards they will not be accepted, since the schedule must be drawn up and published tomorrow morning.

The entry fee of $4 may be paid today. A few teams already have paid. Managers may submit today a player list which shall constitute the club rosters. The lists are subject to change up to the starting time of the first game a club plays in the tournament, but may not be changed thereafter. A club is allowed sixteen players, including the manager if the manager plays; 17 if the manager does not play.

All games will be played at the College Avenue ball park, which will be revised to suit the needs and measurements of a softball field.

Two teams which have entered the tournament, Sam Rosenthal's Hub Clothiers, and the Swift & Company team. National league winners are scheduled to play a practice game Sunday afternoon at College Avenue park.

Jesse Guilford Loses To Sandy Somerville While Campbell Defeats Ernie Palmer To Reach Canadian Finals

(By The Associated Press)

LAVAL-SUR-LE-LAC, Que., Aug. 17.—Albert (Scotty) Campbell of Seattle, the defending titleholder, and dour C. Ross (Sandy) Somerville, famous shot-maker from London, Ont., moved into the final round of the Canadian amateur golf championship.

Campbell won handily in the 36-hole semi finals from Ernie Palmer, 21-year old Winnipeg sensation, 5 and 4, while Somerville, four times holder of the Canadian crown and only Canadian in history to win the United States amateur championship, crushed Jesse Guilford of Boston, 9 and 8.

Somerville reached the peak of his game in his conquest of Guilford, himself a former United States amateur champion. He ended the match on the 28th green, taking a six to Guilford's seven on a par five hole.

Quintuplets Bring Fame To Country Doctor

A "DOLL" THAT OPENS ITS EYES

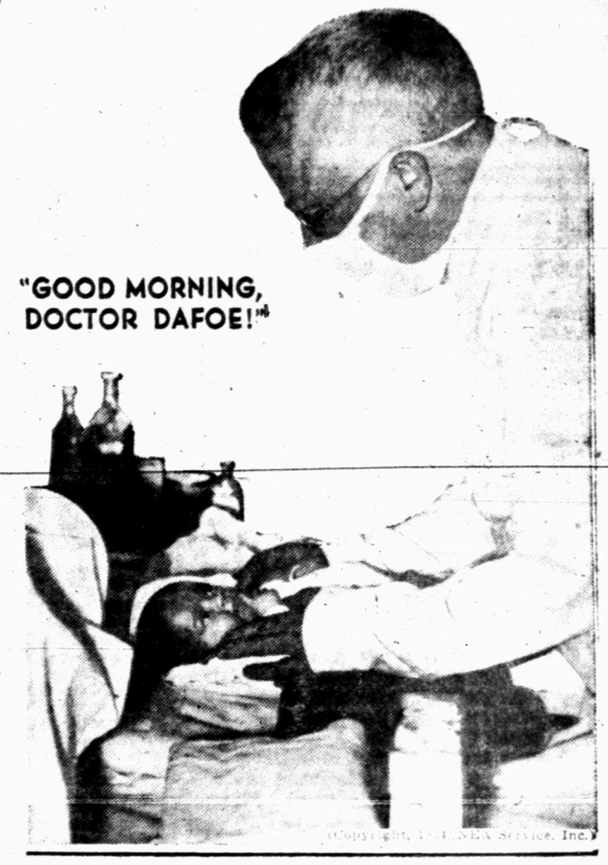

(Copyright, 1934, NEA Service, Inc.)

THE DOCTOR TURNS TO A BOOK TO FIND SOMETHING STRANGE

(Copyright, 1934, NEA Service, Inc.)

Even as busy a man as Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe must relax now and then, and here he is in the study of his Callander home with the shelves of classics and detective and mystery stories that are almost his only diversion.

"GOOD MORNING, DOCTOR DAFOE!"

(Copyright, 1934, NEA Service, Inc.)

Little Annette seems to be exchanging a silent secret with Dr. Dafoe as her tiny finger touches the sturdy, capable hand of the physician. He's about to lift her up for the daily examination which follows their oil baths each morning.

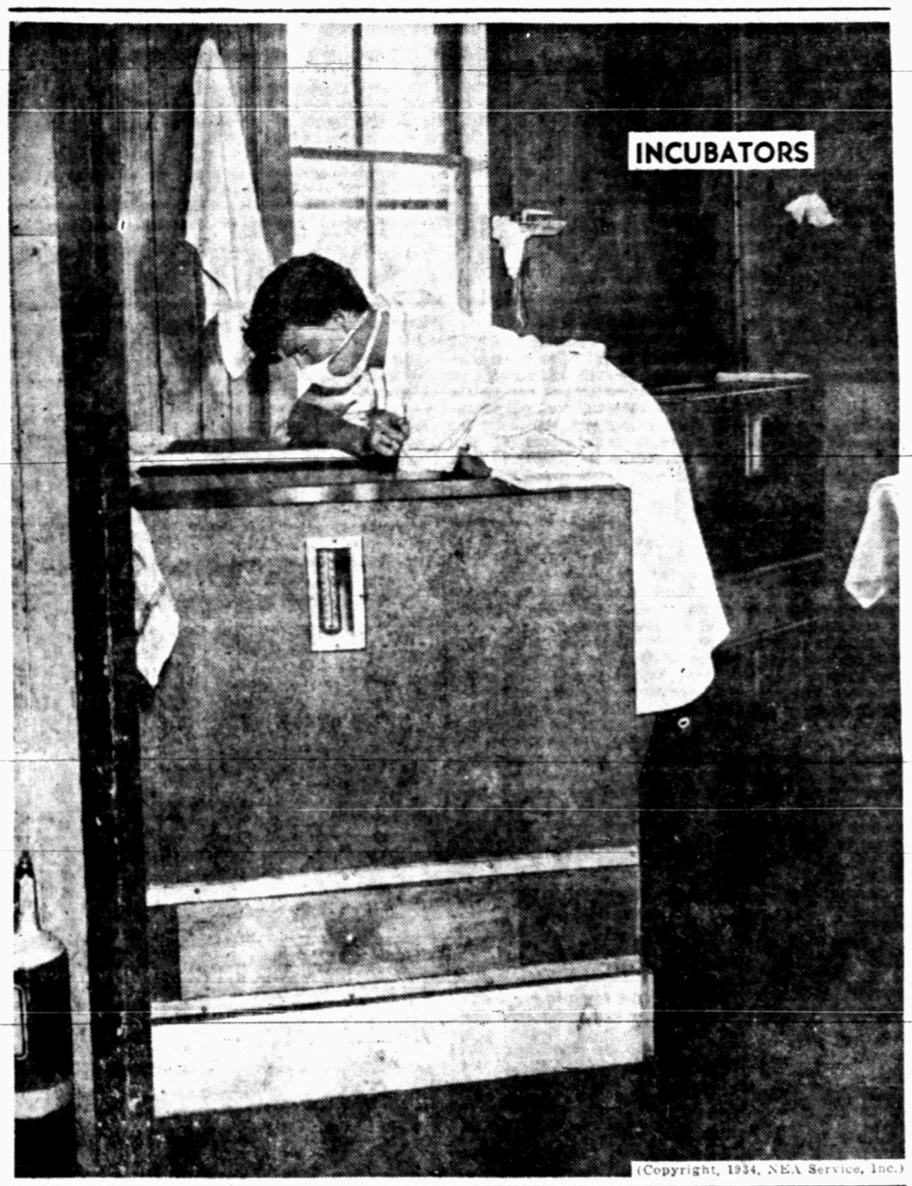

Though she isn't saying anything, you can see that Cecile Dionne is taking in all the proceedings despite her doll-like appearance. Dr. Dafoe's gentle and skillful handling has been a great factor in the quintuplets' remarkable condition

"FIVE LUNCHES— MAKE IT SNAPPY!"

(Copyright, 1934, NEA Service, Inc.)

Kept at an even temperature, the precious supplies of mothers' milk are now guarded at the Dionne home in a modern refrigerator. Here's Nurse De Kiriline removing the bottles for a feeding. And she does it every three hours

INCUBATORS

(Copyright, 1934, NEA Service, Inc.)

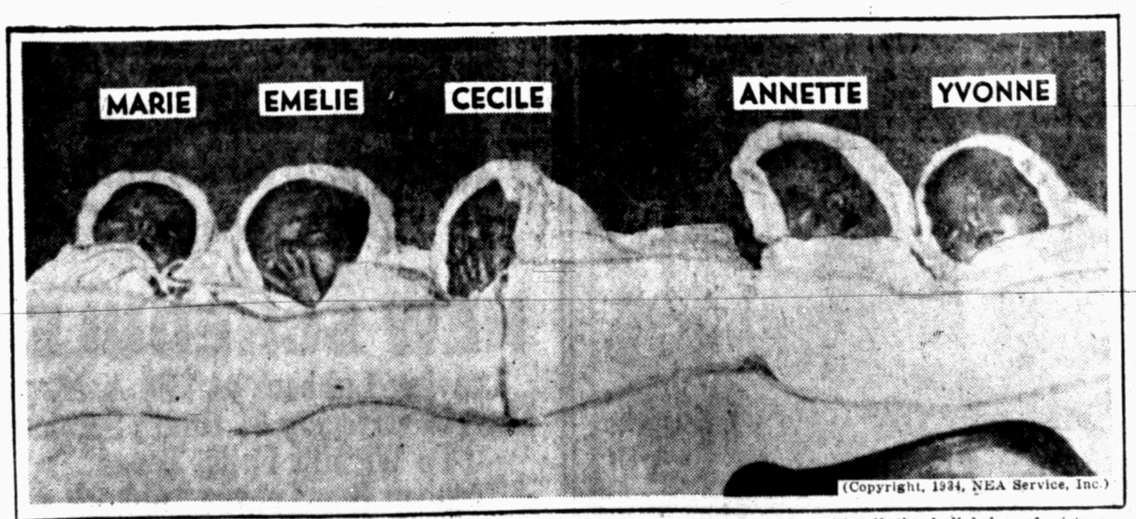

Home, sweet home for a quintuplet. One of the five individual incubators in which the babes are being reared. A second may be seen in the corner of the room, behind Nurse De Kiriline. Note the thermometer, which enables the temperature readings inside the incubators to be made without opening the lid. Note also the plain board floor and walls of the room.

HOME, BUT DR. DAFOE'S NOT THERE MUCH

(Copyright, 1934, NEA Service, Inc.)

Here is the modest brick home of Dr. A. R. Dafoe in Callander, with the doctor before the wire gate, about to set forth on a call. Dr. Dafoe's wife died several years ago, and a housekeeper maintains his combined residence and office, which are known and frequented by almost every resident of the vicinity.

(Copyright, 1934, NEA Service, Inc.)

Too sleepy and tired even to "watch the birdie," the Dionne quintuplets register boredom with all the hullabaloo of picture taking. And this is a characteristic photo, too, for 16 or 17 hours a day are spent in this manner, though mostly in their separate incubators. Pleasant dreams!

THE ROCKY ROAD TO CORBEIL; IT'LL BE SMOOTHER NOW

(Copyright, 1934, NEA Service, Inc.)

Lest the quintuplets be isolated from the twice-daily visits of Dr. Dafoe and their milk supplies, the Ontario government put a crew to work on the rocky side road that leads to Callander. With the coming of snow and winter weather the road might well have become impassable and the quintuplets' lives endangered. The crew building the all-weather road is shown above.

The Problem Of Suicide

EVERY time The Morning Avalanche goes to press there is a story—or many stories—which have to do with suicide.

It seems to be a general custom for people to take their own lives during this day and time, but it is doubtful if we, as individuals, take full cognizance of the fact.

There have been one hundred and twenty thousand lives snuffed out in ten years—not by disease, or accident, but by suicide. And the problem is growing worse.

The national suicide rate is now about 20 per 100,000 of population. The highest rate was 21.5 in 1908; the lowest, 12.3, in 1920.

We are thus confronted with a national problem of no small magnitude, and it is no small thing to contemplate that 120,000 persons have voluntarily ended their existence during a decade.

The suicide problem is not one of preventing these tragically rash and insane acts after a financial crash and during periods of business depression and unemployment. When the suicide rates for a period of years are correlated to business failures, there is a fair consistency in the correlation. Human nature dares risk all in a gamble but lacks the courage to face adversity.

Eternal vigilance on the part of friends and relatives of those under mental distress, further progress in the study of the mind and a voluntary slowing up of modern life accompanied by less frenzied finance and "plunging" are about the limit of our powers in suicide prevention.

STOCK MARKET

Forecasting is the greatest American industry. Everybody, whether employed, or idle, is engaged in it every day of the year. One might also term it the greatest American pastime.

In its most popular form it has to do with tomorrow's weather. Every mother's son and daughter entetrains his or her private opinion about the atmospheric conditions the morrow will bring forth.

Since "Black October" nearly five years ago everybody has been predicting the end of the depression. The "professionals," in which group Charlie Schwab belongs are now out of the mood due to some notoriously bad guessing in the early days of the economic unpleasantness, but the amateurs guess on undaunted, as, for example, the author of the book, "The Coming American Boom."

This optimist tells the world, or such part of it that takes the time to read his book, that Wall Street will stage its big recovery before the end of the summer.

The best that can be said for such auguries is that if this book were read by enough investors and convinced the majority of them Wall Street would stage another boom as soon as the reading were accomplished. There will be no stock market recovery until the nation recovers its confidence in the market.

RUINED FARMS

One of the reasons why the federal government will undertake no compulsory evacuation of the drouth-stricken Dakotas is that no one ever moved a farmer against his will. He is a great nomad until he owns his own farm but let no one tell him where he must do his tilling.

What the federal reclamation bureau has in mind for the stricken Dakota farmers is federal aid in reclaiming the acres several dry summers have transformed into barren deserts, or in migrating to sections of the country where there is plenty of water.

The typical American farmer is hardy enough to find new ground to break when nature licks him at the old place, and, in most instances, he will acquire a new farm without asking Uncle Sam's help. If he does accept a little financial assistance in this emergency he will pay it back from the proceeds of the first crops.

What to do wtih the "Dusty Dakotas" is Uncle Sam's greatest problem. The drouth stricken portions of the two states are not entirely lost to agriculture, but it becomes increasingly clear that millions of acres must be turned into crops which can keep the rolling sands of the plains in place. More trees and vines are needed for the reclamation of this fertile country.

Memorandum: A little note you write on a pad to make yourself wonder next day what you meant by it.

Today's One-Minute Sermon

Lead me, O Lord, in Thy righteousness because of mine enemies; make Thy way straight before my face.

For there is no faithfulness in their mouth; their inward part is very wickedness; their throat is an open sepulchre; they flatter with their tongue.

Destroy Thou them, O God; let them fall by their own counsels; cast them out in the multitude of their transgressions; for they have rebelled against thee.—Psalm 5; 8, 9 and 10.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

ONE angle seems to have been overlooked entirely in all the talk about crop shortages resultant from the drouth and AAA curtailment.

Folks everywhere are viewing with alarm the Agriculture department's most recent estimate of this year's total food production—but they are missing one factor that may make the outlook even less gay.

A sizable percentage of many crops will not be available for domestic consumption. It will be needed for seed purposes to make possible next year's harvests.

Wheat is a prime example. August 1 estimates indicated a total crop this year of only 491,000,000 bushels. The 1927-31 average was 886,000,000 bushels. Planted acreage in 1934 was 44,000,000 as against the normal 60,000,000.

New Deal farm regulators, as a result of the drouth's toll, are getting ready to go back to normal production next year. It takes roughly a bushel and a quarter of wheat to seed an acre.

Thus, of this year's yield of 491,000,000 bushels, approximately 75,000,000 bushels will have to be set aside to re-seed. The drouth area farmers must get their seed from the crops raised in more fortunate districts—which also, of course, have to be replanted.

WHISKY: Rye is a minor crop—unless one wants to remember that rye whisky is legal again—but a similar situation exists.

Normal production is 40,000,000 bushels. This year's yield is down to 17,000,000 bushels. Nearly 4,000,000 bushels will be needed to germinate the 1935 crop.

A shortage of rye bread probably could be withstood, but think of a shortage of rye for whisky! Maybe the imported reserves now in bond will look like Joseph's stores in Egypt.

SEEDS: With corn the situation is somewhat different. Although the current crop is down to a billion, six-hundred million bushels as against a normal yield of 2,500,000,000, it takes but a bushel of corn to plant six or seven acres. That means only sixteen or seventeen million bushels will have to stay in the bins for next year's planting.

Oats, barley, buckwheat, flaxseed and rice also are way off this year and the '35 crop will have to be taken into consideration.

Seed loans in recent years have been voted by Congress in such persistent manner as to indicate they are chronic.

MEAT: Secretary Wallace has warned city dwellers that they may have to do with less steaks and chops next year as a consequence of the drouth.

Impartial observers are pointing out, on this premise, that the only way to bring meat prices back within the reach of retail purchasers will be to loan stock raisers enough money to replace their drouth-slaughtered herds.

Official Washington is preaching earnestly that there will be no shortage of food. Urban bystanders are wondering two things—first, how much retail prices will soar, and second, how much government money will have to be loaned out to start the agricultural ball rolling again.

OUTSIDERS: Native, and therefore voteless, Washingtonians—whose number is greater than the individual populations of seven states with Senators 'n' everything—are beating their heads on the wailing wall again these days. Unfortunately for their heads they merely are irritating a very old sore spot.

Politicians from many sections are busy trying to force appointment of their henchmen to important jobs in the District of Columbia government.

Inasmuch as Congress controls the Capital city and allocation of the taxes it pays, chances are good that still another batch of outsiders soon will be in office directing the affairs of the franchiseless citizens.

Rep. Tom Blanton, of Texas, flushed with a recent primary victory for reelection, has served notice on the city fathers that he wants Maurice V. Books, of Abilene, Texas, appointed assistant corporation counsel for the D. of C.

Roaring Tawm, who has blocked more District of Columbia bills than almost any other man in Congress, made his desire known to three sources. He notified the district commissioners, the corporation counsel—and the chairman of the district alcohol beverage control board.

City officials got the idea immediately when they learned the ABC board chairman also received the ultimatum. The district liquor board has nothing whatever to do with appointing assistant corporation counsels but the fact remains that Blanton was a ringleader in pruning ABC appropriations drastically last session. Congress meets again in January and he'll be back.

NOTES: AAA officials are sympathizing with the North Carolina preacher who let a rattlesnake bite him to prove his faith. . . . Wallace-Tugwell, Inc., are also about to let nature take its course. . . . American manufacturers hear disturbing reports that the Japs are getting set to hit them another blow beneath the belt. . . . If you catch the idea, Japan can establish factories in Mexico or other Latin American countries and label her low-cost products with the technical truth that they are "Made in America". . . . Tourists with Washington on their future schedules may be pleased to learn that still more plans are afoot to make it the world's truly "city beautiful". . . . Arrangements are being made to remove the car tracks from Pennsylvania Avenue and re-route them through adjacent side-streets and tunnels.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

THE National Steel Labor Relations board pulled a Babe Ruth when it induced Tom Girdler of Republic Steel to shake hands again with the Amalgamated. It wasn't exactly a fraternal grip but it will serve just as well.

Consider the background. With the possible exception of E. T. Weir, Girdler has been the most vigorous opponent of organized labor in the whole steel industry. He led the fight for the company unions which nearly precipitated a strike two months ago. He hurled the gauntlet squarely at the Federation of Labor by refusing to allow Republic to renew its contract with the Amalgamated. So his willingness to have his managers write letters now is a major event in labor relations—as startling as if Jim Farley were suddenly to demand that Herbert Hoover be returned to the Presidency. What wrought this miracle? Painstaking diplomacy by the Steel Labor board plus the private influence of several big-timers in the industry.

SCOTCHED: The latter rate more than a casual assist. While they are as devoted as ever to open shop principles they've reached the conclusion that slapping labor in the face isn't the soundest way to uphold them. They are far more sensitive to public opinion than they used to be. They still hope to wallop Amalgamated in company elections. Meanwhile they're on guard against acts that might win sympathy for the opposition.

New York insiders say they advised Girdler—privately but urgently — to quit throwing monkey wrenches. Girdler—who hopes to be an even bigger shot in the industry than he is at present—hearkened and heeded.

The fact that Republic was permitted to save face by using letters rather than formal contracts to reestablish relations with Amalgamated doesn't detract from the union victory. The main point is that relations were reestablished — however informally — and labor isn't bothered about details. The chances for an amicable adjustment of the whole steel labor dispute are immensely improved. The board has established its good faith with the unions—which strengthens the conservative labor heads who don't want trouble and scotches the redical argument that mediation always favors the employer.

HAIR IN THE PALM OF HIS HAND

Roy Deason of Ecorse, Michigan, had an unfortunate accident that resulted in a queer growth of hair that seems impossible—hair in the palm of his hand. Deason was employed in the mill of the Michigan Steel Corporation, July 11, 1933, and in the course of his work his hand was caught in a machine in such a pepuliar manner that he lost one finger and all the flesh from the palm of his hand. Doctors of the Michigan Mutual Hospital found it necessary to graft flesh from his abdomen, and in so doing grafted a piece with a growth of hair that has continued to grow. So, contrary to the old adage, Deason proudly proves that hair can grow in the palm of the hand.

SOPHIE KERR'S SUPERB LOVE STORY

"STAY OUT OF MY LIFE!"

By Sophie Kerr

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JANE TERRY comes to New York determined to show her home town and especially AMY JACKSON that she can make a success of her life. Amy had been her best friend until HOWARD JACKSON broke the engagement. Jane forced on him and married Amy. Unable to bear the sight of Amy's happiness, Jane obtains a job in a New York real estate office.

Jane is clever and soon is making an excellent salary. She has an affair with ROGERS THORPE, who is married. Later she tires of him and when he offers to bear the expense of their child she dismisses him contemptously.

In her desperate plight Jane turns to Amy for help. Howard is touring Germany and Amy comes to New York. She stays until the baby is born and then, horrified because Jane insists on giving her daughter away, agrees to take the child with the understanding that Jane never shall reclaim her.

Back in Marburg Amy worries over what Howard will think of her taking the baby. A month passes and then one morning the telephone rings and she hears his voice.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XX

Over the telephone Howard explained it all to Amy. He and Professor Ellert had suddenly managed to get passage on a freighter—slow and small and primitive, without a wireless. They had just landed and he had raced to the nearest telephone. Yes, he had sent her a cable when they left but had had to entrust it to a stupid chap. Probably he'd pocketed the money and thrown the message away. They were both well and he was going to grab old Professor Ellert and dash to the station for the next train.

"But I had to hear your voice, Amy—I couldn't wait. I'll send a wire if there's time but I had to speak to you first." And then again "Darling—darling!"

After she'd put down the telephone, she remembered that he didn't yet know about the baby. Not that it mattered. He was back, he was safe. In another day he would be with her! Nothing, nothing else mattered beyond that blessed knowledge and expectation.

How she ever got through the interval she could not tell. She telephoned and was telephoned to, though she hardly knew what she was saying. She cleaned and polished and arranged and re-arranged the house. She crammed her refrigerator and pantry with every eatable for which Howard had ever shown the slightest preference. She filled the rooms with flowers. She played loud triumphant music—the A Flat Polonaise, the Rakoczy March and the hilarious "Alexander's Ragtime Band"—but every moment was an age and she turned constantly to watch the clock. A telegram came, telling the train, the hour of his arrival, and at last time reluctantly dragged itself to the fulfillment of the promise.

He was there, actually, brown and hard and strong. His arms were like bands of steel around her. "I worked as an able seaman on that dammed boat," he said. "It would have been fun if I hadn't been so anxious to get back to you. I'll never let you out of my sight again—"

His clothes were torn, wrinkled and water-soaked. "I had nothing to change into. We lost our baggage in Germany, or had it pinched. Old Ellert mourned his night-shirts every hour of the way back! It was a whale of an adventure, the whole thing, and I'm glad I saw it and glad I'm out of it. I've got a billion things to tell you. But first I want to hear what you've been up to."

She blurted it out: "I've adopted a baby. A little girl!"

He laughed aloud: "Amy—I don't believe you!"

"But I have. It's the truth. Come along and look at her."

He followed, holding her arm tight, still laughing, but at the sight of the cradle and the sleeping child he stopped amazed. "Well, I'm a son of a gun! It is the truth. A little girl? What's her name?"

"She hasn't any yet. I waited for you to choose one."

"Good, we'll call her Axelina after the wife of the captain of the ship. She was a grand old Norwegian dame six feet two, voice like a fog-horn, hard enough to be in the Ellert Museum, bossed the whole works."

She watched him for some sign of disapproval. "You don't mind, Howard? You're sure you don't mind?"

But he only took her again in his arms. "Amy, sweet, anything in this world you want to do is right with me."

Jane read the letter from Miss Rosa with a frown. It was plaintive, querulous, quite unlike Miss Rosa's usual robust communications. She didn't feel well. She was tired all the time. She didn't sleep more than two hours a night. This war over in Europe was very upsetting and now it looked as though America would have to join in and a fine mess that would be! Her affairs were in bad order, too, and she didn't trust the advice of this new young partner Mr. Massey had taken in, one of the Trainors and the Trainors were trash through and through. She wished to goodness Jane would come and help her decide what to do. She didn't want to end her days in the poor house, but she felt she was surely headed toward it.

Jane put the letter down on her desk and considered. It was almost four years since she had been to Marburg. Her last visit there was when she had managed to get her inheritance out of Miss Rosa's and old Mr. Massey's hands.

"The old chap was gaga then," she thought, "and if he's taken in a smart young hick there's no telling what could happen to Aunt Rosa's money. That money ought to

Letters To The Editor

Bunch Fullingem Comes Out For Clark Mullican

Editor The Avalanche: First of all, because he is a man of mature years and wide experience. Our nation faces many vexing problems, problems that affect the very life and security of all the people. And if we win our way back to normal conditions it must be accomplished by men who know our needs and who, through experience can properly administer to these needs. This is no time for petty squabbling.

As we counsel, one with another on this important matter of electing a Congressman to the new 19th district we should bury every other thought, have and accept the greatest good to the greatest number. Let us be reasonable.

My home has been in Crosby county for many years. I am a farmer-stockman. I know that we men of the soil must have relief if we are to continue in our calling. And to me, to all farmers of the great Southwest there is a hope that the voters over the nation will acquaint themselves with the ability of all candidates and choose those of proven ability and experience to lead us out of our depressed condition.

Clark Mullican is my choice because I know that he has the ability, the courage of his convictions and a thorough knowledge of all our needs. He will get the job done and we need his services for this district.

And he is my choice because he is big enough in thought and mind to serve every man, woman and child in this district. He has no thought of sectionalism. He is much too big for that kind of foolishness and we

TARZAN AND THE JEWELS OF OPAR, No 78

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Mugambi, after his successful break for liberty, had fallen upon hard times. His way had led him through a jungle country with which he was unfamiliar, a jungle country in which there was but little water and less food. Soon he found his strength so reduced he could scarcely drag himself along. His was a pitiable state when finally he stumbled by accident upon a large river in a country where fruit and small game were abundant. A long way, he knew, lay ahead of him before he could reach the outskirts of the Waziri country.

Mugambi wisely decided to remain where he was until he had recuperated his strength and health. And so it was that he constructed a substantial thorn boma, and rigged a thatched shelter within it where he might sleep by night in security, and from which he sallied forth by day to hunt the flesh which alone could return to his giant thews their normal prowess. One day, as he hunted, a pair of savage eyes discovered him from the concealment of the branches of a great tree beneath which the black warrior passed.

Wicked eyes they were, set in a fierce and hairy face. They watched Mugambi make his kill, and they followed him as he returned to his hut, their owner moving quietly through the trees upon the trail of the negro. The creature was Chulk, and he looked down upon the man more in curiosity than in hate. The Arab burnoose which Tarzan had placed upon the ape had so obstructed his movements and proven such a nuisance that Chulk had long since torn it from him and thrown it away.

But somehow clothes had pleased Chulk's fancy. Now he saw the warrior arrayed in less cumbersome apparel—a loin cloth, a few copper ornaments and a feather headdress. These were more in line with Chulk's desires than a flowing robe which was constantly getting between one's legs and catching upon every limb and bush along the leafy trail. Mugambi's pouch, ornamented with fringe and feathers, hung at his hip. This also took Chulk's fancy, and so the ape hung about Mugambi's boma, waiting to steal by stealth or might the black's apparel.

oman Facing Murder Count

s Mary Lou Howell Charged In Fatal Shooting Of Ranchman; Found In His Pasture Near Cisco

CISCO, Aug. 17. (AP)—Charges of murder have been filed against Miss Mary Lou Howell in connection with the shooting of L. F. Threet, ranchman found fatally wounded Wednesday in his pasture nine miles west of Cisco. Authorities continued questioning her today.

The woman, in a signed statement to officers, said the 67-year-old victim was shot by two masked robbers shortly after she and Threet entered the pasture about 10 a. m. Wednesday. She said the robbers followed them into the pasture. From the time he was shot until searching parties found him at 5 p. m., Threet lay out in the sun. He died in a Cisco hospital yesterday.

Lying On Quilt

Officers who accompanied the Howell woman to the pasture late yesterday said Threet was found about a mile from the spot where she said the robbers attacked them. He was lying on a quilt.

Miss Howell met Threet in a Cisco resort, she said, and told him she wanted to go to Abilene. She said he offered to take her in his car as far as Baird. As they drove by his pasture, she said, he decided to go in and put out some salt for his cattle.

A son of the slain man said Threet had more than $100 in his bill fold Tuesday. The bill fold was found on his person but the money was missing.

Bound Up Head

Officers said they found that Miss Howell had bound up Threet's head after he was shot. The bandage used was held as evidence.

Tracks purportedly made by the woman to a water tank in the pasture were found, officers said. From the tank, the tracks led to the highway. She said she picked up a ride into Cisco. Instead of going directly to police headquarters, it was learned, she went to the resort where she had met Threet and sent word to Threet's son that he had been robbed in the pasture. Learning of this, Justice of the Peace Fulson ordered her arrest.

A man who had been in the woman's company here Monday and Tuesday was detained for questioning today. A statement was obtained from the man's son but its contents were not revealed.

WALL STREET REPORT

BY FREDERICK GARDNER
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 17. (AP) — Speculative markets remained in a rut today, but bonds forged ahead vigorously on a recovery for the fourth consecutive day.

Movements in the share market were mixed, with the main drift toward slightly lower levels.

Speculation marked time while traders waited for an incentive to renewal of activity and some definite indication of autumn business prospects.

Transfers of stocks decreased to 447,030 shares, the smallest for a full session since July 9, compared with 610,120 yesterday. The Standard Statistics Co. average for 90 stocks dipped four-tenths of a point to 71.9.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 17. (AP)—The cotton market was rather quiet during most of the day's session but showed a little activity in the late trading. Prices developed a downward trend due to poor cables and threats of a general strike in the domestic textile industry. Stocks and wheat also developed an easier tone. The market closed barely steady at the bottom with prices showing net losses for the day of 14 to 15 points.

First trades showed losses of 13 points, but as there were some buying orders on the market and satisfied shorts covered, prices rallied 5 points in the early trading.

The market showed more activity during the afternoon and prices eased off gradually owing to weakness in outside markets and to some hedge selling, making new lows for the day and March 14 points net lower.

Port receipts 11,393, for week 50,626, for season 128,381, last season 197,788. Exports 12,523, for week 49,956, for season 153,613, last season 348,130. Port stock 2,389,954, last year 2,903,261. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans Galveston and Houston 35,400, last year 62,959. Spot sales at southern markets 11,133, last year 12,001.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Aug. 17. (AP)—Cotton continued under selling pressure today, closing about $1 a bale lower. December contracts after selling off to 13.40, rallied to 13.48, but broke to 13.37 in the late trading and closed at that figure. The general market finished barely steady at net losses of 18 to 21 points.

Initial prices were 13 to 15 points lower under liquidation and selling through houses with foregn connections. Sentiment was unsettled by a treaty of a general strike in the cotton mills.

Prices rallied several points around midday with October selling up from 13.26@13.33 and May from 13.64@13.72. This carried the market back to within 8 or 10 points of yesterday's close, but weakness returned in the late trading under renewed liquidation coupled with southern selling. October sold off to 13.32 and May to 13.72, with closing quotations at the lowest.

Exports today 12,780 making 144,472 so far this season. Port receipts 11,852. U. S. port stocks 2,383,644.

Mullican Heard By About 3,500 Persons Last Night

SPUR, Aug. 17. (Special)—Judge Clark M. Mullican of Lubbock, a candidate for congress from the 19th district, addressed about 3,500 persons here tonight.

Fred C. Haile, a former opponent of Judge Mullican, introduced the speaker. The address was given a "big reception," it was said.

Judge Mullican spoke at an old settlers' reunion in Crosby county this afternoon.

His itinerary Saturday will carry him to Aspermont at 11 a. m., Rule at 2 p. m., and Haskell at 4 o'clock. He will be accompanied by several carloads of Dickens and Lubbock county citizens.

Three Doses Enough

It is injected under the skin, like typhoid, diptheria and rabies vaccines, in doses ranging from one half to three cubic centimeters. Three doses at weekly intervals are considered sufficient for immunization.

To be effective in preventing paralysis, Dr. Kolmer said the vaccine would have to be injected six weeks before the germs attacked the body.

Once administered, however, he expressed confidence it would make the subject of vaccination immune for life.

Grains

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Aug. 17. (AP)—Fair demand continued for the light offerings on the grain market here today.

Prices quoted:

Delivered Texas gulf ports, export rate, or Texas common points: Wheat No. 1 hard 110 3-4@113 3-4. Barley No. 2 nominally 80@81; No. 3 nominally 79@80. CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Aug. 17. (AP)—Severe setbacks of corn prices today accompanied eastern selling that revealed the market was without any aggressive support from buyers, and that started heavy liquidation.

An extreme fall of nearly 4 cents a bushel in corn was witnessed, and many stop-loss orders were forced into execution. Pit observers said that an apparently antagonistic attitude of Washington officials toward speculative operations had a decided tendency to restrain active buying power.

Corn closed nervous 1 1-2 to 2 1-4 under yesterday's finish, wheat irregular at 1 1-8 decline to 1-2 advance, oats 1-4 to 1 1-8 off, and provisions varying from 10 cents loss to a gain of 5 cents.

county, where both Hunter and Allred live, the attorney general said he carried Travis county, where he has resided as a state official for three years; that he obtained a clear majority in Montague county, where he was born and reared, as well as Wise county, Hunter's birthplace, and that he was the only candidate to get a clear majority over all candidates in his native county.

Allred stressed the "trade" which he said had been made between Hunter, Ferguson and McDonald.

Trying To Lead

"Jim Ferguson and McDonald do not believe that those who voted for McDonald in the first primary are intelligent enough to choose between candidates in the run-off," he asserted. "They are trying to tell them how to vote.

"I want the support of every man and woman who voted for a candidate defeated in the first primary, but I am asking the voters themselves for it and am not asking some political boss.

"Hunter says he will enter the governor's office unfettered and under no obligations. He has a strange sense of gratitude and loyalty. Neither Jim Ferguson nor Charley McDonald ver did any thing for anybody for nothing. I would rather be defeated for office than to be under obligation to James E. Ferguson or any other politician for my election."

les read:

"Get $25,000 at once or you will lose your worker, Askew, in North Carolina. This better be forthcoming or your temple will be blown up. Everything is set."

The letter was mailed Aug. 15 from Richmond, Va. It was typewritten on plain white paper.

A guard immediately was thrown around Angelus Temple.

Police assumed the demand was made on the temple because it is headquarters of the "Four Square Gospel" and because the Rev. Mr. Askew had been identified as a minister of that faith.

Whether the letter contained instructions as to how and when the money was to be paid, Davis did not say.

Police said there was little doubt as to the authenticity of the letter.

questioned.

Not with the usual nazi fanfare of music and lights and marching men and huge crowds, but in a comparatively quiet and small hall Hitler gave the appeal which is regarded as his frankest and most straightforward since he became chancellor.

Many of his arguments were the stock pronouncements of nazi orators, but with apparent sincerity he declared that his course was prescribed by unfriendliness abroad and condemned post-war political disunity.

Need Central Power

He emphasized again and again that only a centralized government can cope with the problems of finance, religion and politics.

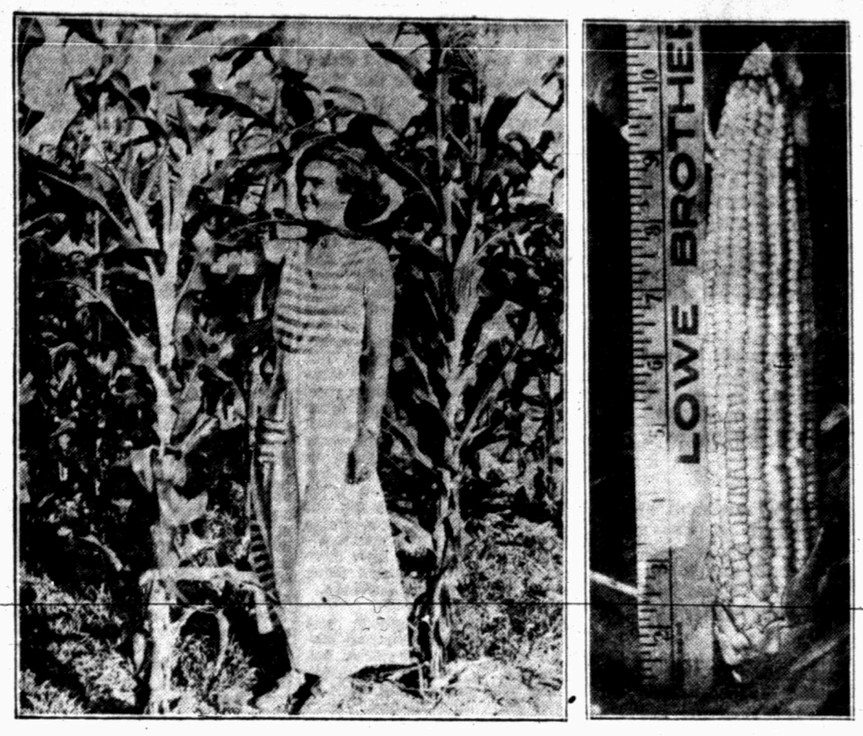

He renewed his fight for unity—the crux of the campaign—and declared "today this fight has led to a success which history sometime will describe as the turning point; my ideas proved to be correct."

His forecast of the future was somewhat enigmatic.

"While I do not want to forestall in the future a definite form of constitution for the reich," he said. "I believe I shall succeed in adding in the future a new honor to the title of German chancellor."

Tall Corn Grows In Iowa Despite Dry Summer

The photographer found scenes such as this in Iowa where some tall corn grows even though the season has been abnormally dry. France Strengthens Navy To Match Italian Program And Nazis' Pocket Ships, Entire Fleet Is Overhauled

PARIS, Aug. 17. (AP)—France is starting a ship-building program designed to put her in a strong bargaining position with Italy at the 1935 naval conference and to offset Germany's three "pocket battleships."

The "Strasbourg," a 26,500 ton man-of-war, a destroyer and two submarines soon will be laid down as a part of a coordinated rearmament program on land, in the air and on the sea.

In addition, the entire fleet is being scrubbed and polished. State navy yards are so over-loaded with this task and with constructing the "Dunkerque," the model for the "Strasbourg," that the new building plan has been allotted to private yards.

Third Dreadnaught Planned

The huge new capital ship will be constructed by the Penhoet Company at St. Nazaire, builders of the giant transatlantic liner "Normandie," not yet completed.

When the "Strasbourg" takes to the water in 1937, France will have two crack modern fighting ships of super-tonnage. Another of the same size probably will be asked for next year.

These new ships will bring French heavy craft up to the 176,000-ton limit for capital ships allotted by the Washington treaty of 1921 to France and Italy.

Neither of these countries signed the London treaty of 1930. But France, by scrapping the six capital ships now in service, all of which have served their 20 legal years, could add four other men-of-war to her equipment (making a total of six) and still be within the Washington limit.

This is the club the French hold over Italian and German ambitions to build bigger and better navies. The French claim that they are in a position to match ship for ship if anyone wants to start a naval race.

Ready For Building Race

The new defense scheme calls for close cooperation between the air fleet and the navy. Fifteen "flying ships" are contemplated as the air-arm of the navy. They will be equipped to function in battle in close liaison with sea craft.

Furthermore, strategic coastal points are being equipped with subterranean oil tanks as reservoirs for the navy. These are to be kept filled in time of peace. The government hopes to get the oil from the French share in the Iraq oil fields which are about to be opened.

FRENCH NAVAL STRENGTH

PARIS, Aug. 17. (AP)—The total strength of France's navy on January 1, 1934 including craft under construction, was 183 ships totaling 659,004 tons, classified as follows:

10 capital ships, 212,400 tons.
1 airplane carrier, 22,100 tons.
12 heavy cruisers, 124,400 tons.
17 light cruisers, 110,100 tons.
60 destroyers, 113,472 tons.
7 old submarines, 4,776 tons.
76 modern submarines, 71,756 tons.

"Dan The Bull" Loses License

Dan, the dumpy, "high yellow" bulldog who has been loafing in hotel lobbies all his life, is dodging the poundman these days.

Dan, it seems, has lost his collar and hanging from this collar was a tag of the sort which adds to the longevity of canines.

Moreover Dan may have to quit his nightly prowls with patrolmen for no sensible dog, minus a license, wants to pal around with a lot of cops.

Even The Cactus Died Back In The 1900 Drouth In Texas

RIO GRANDE CITY, Aug. 17. (AP)—Farly-day residents of Starr county, reading reports of drouth in various sections of the country, can recall one which was more severe although less widespread.

In 1900 there was no cotton, no corn, no foodstuff for man or beast. It was so dry the cactus and mesquite died.

Some 2,000 or 3,000 persons were moved out of the section to other parts of the state where they could find work, Judge F. W. Seabury of Brownsville, who headed the relief committee, recalled. Railroads ran special trains hauling hundreds to northeast Texas, where they picked cotton.

Piety Of A Chinese Son Is Winning Honor Of A Nation

NANKING. (AP)—Because Teng Ching-Yao, 36-year-old villager, stayed by his parents' graves for three years, the nationalist government has set up a votive tablet in recognition of his filial piety.

Teng's native village, south of Wuhu, rice center of China, in Anhwei province, now is called officially "Filial Son Village."

Grave watching for three years has been regarded by Chinese for centuries as the acme of filial devotion. The son builds himself a mud hut alongside the graves of his parents and there meditates and prays. If single, he must not get married; if married he must leave his family alone.

Labatt was questioned at the home of his brother, Hugh, in London, to which he went immediately after his dramatic appearance at the Royal York hotel here.

The questioning lasted five hours, but only meager details of what was said were revealed.

A statement authorized by the attorney general was to the effect that Labatt was intercepted about 9:30 a. m. Tuesday by two men who passed him in a car then turned their machine around in front of his.

Two armed men got out of the car and forced him to get into the other machine.

Confident Of Solution

"I have not told all the police know," said Attorney General Roebuck significantly, after detailing the manner of Labatt's release and giving his views on the ransom angle, "nor have I indicated what has been done, but I am confident that in due season there will be a solution of this crime."

When the man for whom all Canada was searching came back, he found nobody at hand looking for him.

Haggard from his experience and needing a shave, he walked into the lobby of the hotel. His limp, due to a boyhood injury, made him appear an even more unusual figure.

He told those in the lobby he was John Labatt, and asked "where is Hugh?"

Goes, Direct To Hotel

He had come direct to the hotel where his brother had been staying.

Finally a guest who knew him by sight took Labatt to his brother's room. From the hotel they went to London, where Mrs. John Labatt and her three children were in Hugh's home.

A police guard around the home was increased after their arrival.

The John Labatt home was deserted, as it had been since its master disappeared while motoring from Sarnia to London.

Newspapers — all carrying big headlines about the kidnaping — were piled up on the porch.

Labatt was kidnaped by two men and was released by three or four, said the official account.

After he was seized, he was driven around for a period he estimated as 12 hours, and was kept at a place he could not identify.

All the time he was blindfolded with tape, over which a pair of spectacles was pushed.

Before he was dropped from the car about three miles from the hotel the captors drove around for what Labatt took to be five or six hours. He believed they were "stalling for time."

He was warned not to take off the blindfold until the car drove away, and obeyed.

After the car moved on, he hailed a taxicab to the hotel, whence he and Hugh motored to London, arriving about 3:45 a. m.

It was not expected that the dates for the other strikes would necessarily coincide with the one to be chosen by the cotton textile workers.

Prior to the night meeting a telegram was sent to William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, asking the federation's help in the nationwide cotton textile strike.

At Atlantic City Green promised the federation's support.

"We will cooperate," Green said, "in every way we can."

Funeral Services Held For Banker

SEYMOUR, Aug. 17. (AP) — H. Nichols, bank official shot to death Wednesday night by a woman who drove up alongside his car as he sat talking with another woman, was buried here today.

Friends for many miles around came to pay their last respects to the slain man. More than 1,500 attended the services in the First Baptist church and at the cemetery. The Rev. J. R. Balch officiated at the church and the Masonic lodge, of which Nichols was a member, presided at the grave. Nichols' widow attended the funeral.

Meanwhile, Miss Ruby Britain, charged with murder for the shooting, was at liberty under $10,000 bond. She waived examining trial and was bound over for action of the grand jury which convenes Aug. 27. Other than to discuss her case with her lawyers, she had little to say about her arrest.

come to me some day. I wish I had some of it now for this Sears sale. It would be handy. I suppose I'll have to go and look into it."

Her little office was a neat and pleasant place even on this cloudy March morning. There was nothing feminine about it except Jane herself, slender and smart in her dress of fine dark serge with thin white ruffles across the neck and around her wrists. The clear contrast suited her. Her sense of drama was gratified by good clothes and good grooming. She was the successful young business woman, setting and costume complete. But the plain polished walnut, the casement cloth curtains, the dark rugs, the call-button, telephone, letter baskets—these might just as well have belonged to a successful young business man. It was perhaps an unconscious tribute to the rebellion of Ann Veronica against a man-made world—though Jane did not read Ann Veronica now—which kept Jane's office like a man's. Also it made her clients a little more easy in their minds about doing business with so young a woman.

After the Thorpe episode was completely over and Amy had taken the child, Jane had started out for herself, a perilous proceeding for one with only a small circle of friends and acquaintances, since the real estate business counts so surely on such contacts. Yet Jane had done fairly well. Now and then she acted confidentially for Kandels', and Mr. Kandel had urged her to come back to his office, but she would not do that.

Gradually and persistently she had worked up a definite line for herself among the small landlords and her progress had been steady, her profits slight but sure. It had meant week after week, month after month of hard grind 10, 12, 14 hours a day. Not that Jane objected to the grind. She wanted to be so tired at night that she would neither think nor remember. She welcomed an anodyne for regret and humiliation. Regret for her foolish surrender to Roger Thorpe, humiliation and anger for having, as she saw it, abased herself to Amy, permitted Amy to insult her.

Amy had told her to stay out of her life, never to try to take the child. Jane hated the recollection of it, the submission to Amy. She should have been as bitter with Amy as Amy had been with her. As for staying out of Amy's life—why, it was Amy who had better stay out of hers, Jane's—hadn't she begun by taking Howard Jackson away from her? And now, her child?

Time had blurred and faded these resentments, pushed them into the background. Jane's assurance had returned with her established business, her growing bank account and her own private discretion. She had taken another apartment—with elevators and an alert hall force. She asked some of her best clients to dinner now and then and was asked by them in return. She went to the theater and to an occasional concert or art show with a woman friend, Miss Jardine perhaps, or some other chosen for politic reasons, but her work was her first interest and nothing pushed it aside.

Sometimes all that nonsense about Roger Thorpe, and the child, and even Amy, took on a quality of unreality. Such things surely could never have happened to this brisk resourceful creature who lived so sensibly, so openly, with no hint of romantic adventure.

Nevertheless, Jane had not gone back to Marburg. There was no reason why she should. Miss Rosa and she were better friends at a distance, and this was the first time Rosa had ever sounded a note of distress. Knowing her aunt's disposition to ride both physical ailments and mental perturbations, Jane knew there was something serious behind the present appeal. Miss Rosa was not one to make a fuss about nothing. "She's not really old," thought Jane. "She never tells her age, but she can't be more than 61 or 62. So she surely must be sick. And this Massey partner must have bothered her more than she says. I shall have to look into that."

COLLEGE STATION, Aug. 17. (AP) — Texas counties in which sheep and goat purchaing will be carried on as a new government relief project were selected at a preliminary conference here today between G.
