Moscow trip still planned

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Reagan, despite his own belief that Soviet intrusion at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow is "outrageous," is insisting his secretary of state go to Moscow to pursue an arms accord.

Reagan, who planned to examine the state of U.S.-Soviet relations in a speech today, also predicted the sex-and-spying scandal will not hamper attempts to reach an arms pact.

"I don't see that there is very much distance between us," Reagan said Thursday when asked about chances for a U.S.-Soviet agreement on medium-range nuclear weapons in light of the spy scandal.

Despite Senate passage Thursday of a resolution calling on Shultz to cancel his round of talks or find a secure place to hold them, Reagan's aides said the president wanted Shultz to hold talks in Moscow next week.

"While the president is sympathetic with Congress' intent, he feels that there is just too much at stake right now to cancel the trip," said a senior White House official traveling West with Reagan aboard Air Force One.

The president was queried about the allegations and counter-allegations of U.S. and Soviet espionage during a stop in Indiana at Purdue University on his way to a 12-day California visit.

The official said the president believes there are "a wide range of issues that need to be discussed," such as arms control, human rights and regional issues like Afghanistan.

Reagan does not intend to renege on his invitation to Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev to come to a summit in the United States.

The official, who demanded anonymity, said the president has been assured "the necessary precautions" have been taken inside the embassy to ensure Shultz is protected from Soviet eavesdropping during his talks next week.

Folklore, legends of wildflowers set

Indian folklore and legends associated with wildflowers, the common names for these flowers and how some of these names came to be used will be discussed Saturday as part of Wildflower Day activities on the campus of Western Texas College.

Zoe Kirkpatrick of Post says she hopes to share with people of all ages her love of wildflowers.

She will also be showing slides from her collection. The program will begin at 1 p.m. in the WTC Fine Arts Theatre and is offered free to the public.

Also appearing on the program will be Burr Williams of Midland, who will discuss the use of native plants in landscaping.

Kirkpatrick's knowledge of wildflowers prompted Texas Tech officials to ask her to present a two-day wildflower symposium in Lubbock last fall.

"They dubbed me a naturalist," she said. "I had never been called that but I liked it very much." She has published one archeology paper.

A native of Lubbock, she met and married her husband, Jack, while they were students at Tech. After graduation, they moved to Post and eventually to the ranch south of Post where they still reside. They are the parents of Native plant uses will be discussed

Burr Williams, a speaker at Saturday's Wildflower Day symposium at Western Texas College, published his first plant list at the age of nine.

The owner of the Midland-based Gone Native Nursery, which specializes in drought resistant and native plants, will offer advice on the use of such plants for their water conservation and low maintenance features.

Also speaking on the wildflower symposium will be Zoe Kirkpatrick from Post. She will show slides from her collection of wildflower pictures and offer information on common names of the wildflowers, Indian lore and legend.

The symposium will begin at 1 p.m. in the WTC Fine Arts theatre and the public in invited to attend. Students in the college golf and landscape technology (GLT) department will present a brief program after Williams speaks.

Williams has operated his nursery in Midland for the past five years and has worked on establishing Sibley Environmental Center nature trail near Midland.

He has given more than 100 speeches and tours in support of the center.

Church to build education center

St. Elizabeth Catholic Church here has begun construction on a new Religious Education Center expected to be completed by early fall.

Groundbreaking ceremonies were conducted Sunday at the church. Dignataries attending the ceremony included Bishop Michael Sheehan of Lubbock and Mayor Rod Waller.

The 9,000 sq. ft. building will consist of 12 classrooms, a meeting hall and kitchen. The classroom will be utilized for CCD instruction on Sunday and will accomodate 150 students, pre-schooled age through high school.

The estimated building expense is $227,000.

Wadleigh Construction began preliminary construction work this month. The building is expected to be completed by September.

The current building project began three years ago when the new diocese of Lubbock was organized. The newly consecrated Bishop Sheehan encouraged parishes in the diocese to work toward local self improvement goals.

Prior to that, Tom Scannicchio, who serves as chairman of the finance committee, said local church leaders had already begun to realize that the present classroom situation was not large enough to accomodate all the students enrolled in the CCD classes.

St. Elizabeth serves as the seat for the Snyder Deanery and is

Q. — Are there any plans to put in a cafeteria in Snyder?

A. — The SDN is unaware of any such plans. If speculation about a cafeteria is related to the recent acquisition of Safeway by Furr's, changing that store into a cafeteria is unlikely since the Furr's cafeteria chain is no longer connected with the owners of the Furr's food stores.

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Texas prisons may be able to reopen Monday with the help of some early inmate releases, a spokesman says.

"We're releasing 313 (inmates) today, so it appears at this time we'll be able to reopen Monday," prison spokesman David Nunnelee said Thursday.

As of midnight Wednesday, the number of inmates in the 26-unit prison system was 38,578, or 95.49 percent — 198 inmates over the legal capacity, he said.

Phone strike fails to disrupt service

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Telephone service was virtually normal throughout the country Thursday, a day after 37,000 union employees declared a strike but continued working under federal order.

The government news agency Notimex said the Mexican Telephone Co. has been able to maintain "normal operations" of its communications system, which includes more than 7 million telephones throughout Mexico.

Union workers walked off Wednesday in support of the strike, but returned about two hours later when the government took over the telephone system under an emergency plan allowing it to circumvent normally strict labor laws.

Throughout the country many of the returning workers wore strike buttons and the traditional red-and-black strike banners hung in front of some of the company's offices.

As of Thursday, there has been no announcement of any new wage talks between the Mexican National Telephone Workers Union and the telephone company, which is a private enterprise with majority government ownership.

"It is a strike in legal terms but not in fact," union president Francisco Hernandez Juarez said a few hours after the strike began.

Hernandez said the government takeover, plus widespread use of automatic dialing and switching systems, effectively nullified the strike.

Company spokesman Jose Molina said private telephone users would be the least affected by the strike since 99 percent of those calls are handled by automatic switching systems.

He said the strike was expected to have its strongest impact on calls made through long-distance operators, installations and repairs.

Executives, engineers and retired employees were sent to offices and exchanges nationwide about two hours before the strike began to ensure continued service. That tactic was used in late February when an electrical workers union struck the power company serving Mexico City and the surrounding area.

The strike ended a few days later when the government declared it nonexistent, and Hernandez said he expected the government to make a similar declaration about the telephone strike.

The company said long-distance service in parts of of the capital and six cities around the country was briefly shut down as "unidentified personnel" disconnected automatic dialing equipment as the strike began. It said service was restored within two hours.

The strike developed after the company and union stalemated over the size of an emergency raise retroactive to March 1. They had agreed on 20 percent wage hike effective April 1.

The union wanted an additional 23 percent emergency raise while the company offered a monthly boost of 7,500 pesos, or about $6.55. Neither the company nor the union would say officially how much the workers make.

However, a company official, speaking on condition of anonymity, told The Associated Press that monthly wages for telephone operators now average 220,000, or $192; for linemen, 252,000, or $220; and for secretaries, 192,000 pesos, or $167.

Telephone workers were among 45 unions threatening to strike government-affiliated companies, called parastates, for wage hikes meant to help offset soaring inflation that last year reached a record 105.7 percent.

De La Madrid asks peaceful end to C. American crisis

GUATEMALA CITY (AP) — Mexican President Miguel de la Madrid said Thursday the destiny of Latin America is at stake in the Central American crisis and called for a peaceful solution to be found without outside intervention.

"In the crisis of Central America, the legitimate interest of the region's people and the destiny of Latin America are at stake," he said in a speech to the national congress.

"It is a matter of affirming and consolidating the relevance of our political culture, of the elementary rights of an international public order, and of the principles of independence and sovereignty," de la Madrid said.

De la Madrid is on the second day of a three-day official visit, the first by a Mexican leader to Guatemala in more than a decade.

He said the Central American crisis "will be resolved only with the use of peaceful methods to solve the differences, respecting scrupulously non-intervention of peoples."

Mexico is a member of the Contadora group that has been trying for four years to forge a peace treaty for the five countries of Central America.

Relations between Guatemala and Mexico have warmed since Vinicio Cerezo, a Christian Democratic lawyer, was inaugurated here last year as the nation's first elected civilian president in 16 years.

Cerezo has said his government will remain neutral in the Central American conflicts, but he has taken a more active role in regional affairs than his military predecessors.

De la Madrid praised the Guatemalan president's initiatives, saying "we support his valuable efforts in favor of political repsonses to the conflicts, because they look to separate Guatemala from the hurricane and, at the same time, preserve the difficult balances of an effective and permanent peace in the region, valid for all of the five countries."

Striking Ford workers have resumed work in Mexico's plant

MONTERREY, Mexico (AP) — Striking Ford Motor Co. employees in the northwestern city of Hermosillo resumed work Thursday, ending a 40-day strike over wages that interrupted production of 1987 Mercury Tracers, a spokesman said.

"They're being called back and slowly returning on the job, as production is being organized to start," spokesman Carlos Hernandez said in a telephone interview from Ford's Mexican headquarters in Mexico City.

Hernandez said he expected technical problems will be resolved so that operations could be fully normal Friday.

Bert Serre, Ford spokesman in Dearborn, Mich., said management and workers agreed Wednesday night on immediate wage increases averaging 54.5 percent.

The $500 million plant, considered one of the most automated in the world, makes Mercury Tracers, mainly for export to the United States. Production began last November.

But production of about 220 subcompact Tracers per day ceased March 1 when the approximately 850 unionized workers at the plant walked off the job demanding a 70 percent wage increase.

That kept more than 6,000 vehicles from rolling off the assembly line, although the strike did not keep the new cars from being introduced in the United States as scheduled March 26, company officials said in Detroit.

Before the agreement, workers earned about 108,000 pesos, or about $90, a month. The plant has about 1,600 workers.

Serre and Hector Uriate, union spokesman in Hermosillo, said the agreement included an immediate 24 percent base wage increase and separate increases at eight job levels that raised the average worker's pay 34.5 percent.

Ford also agreed to the Mexican government's recent recommendation that it give an additional 20 percent raise to adjust for inflation, bringing the overall average increase to 54.5 percent.

The huge plant ceased production shortly after midnight Feb. 28 when workers walked off the job after negotiations broke down between Ford and the Ford Workers Union in Hermosillo.

Wednesday's agreement settled only the wage dispute. The general labor contract between Ford and the workers expires in March 1988.

Hermosillo is the capital of the northwestern state of Sonora, which borders Arizona.

The first cash register was patented in 1880 by James and John Ritty of Dayton, Ohio.

Doctors of Law Add Degree Of Confusion to Title Issue

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1987 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Recently a "Dentist's Wife in Utica, N.Y." took you to task for your reference to "all of the doctors and dentists," noting that dentists are doctors — doctors of dentistry, and should be recognized as such. You agreed with her, and so do I.

About 20 years ago, most law schools began to award their graduates the doctor of law (jurisprudence) degree. So since the majority of attorneys now hold a doctor of law degree, why shouldn't attorneys also be called "Doctor"?

ATTORNEY'S WIFE,
MACON, GA.

DEAR WIFE: It's all right with me. Some lawyers get to the scene of an accident before a doctor. And with the threat of malpractice suits so common, fewer physicians are volunteering as "Good Samaritans." So an accident victim might be better off with a lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for assuring a reader that it is perfectly all right to send a note of sympathy and flowers to someone who has lost a beloved pet. There is yet another way:

After I lost my beloved "Sophie" — an aged terrier — I received a lovely card from our animal shelter advising me that a contribution had been made in honor of "Sophie" from a thoughtful friend of mine. As an animal lover, I thought that this was an especially loving gesture on the part of my friend, and want to pass it along to you, hoping you will share it with your readers.

VIRGINIA GRANDFIELD,
DEERFIELD, ILL.

DEAR VIRGINIA: I heard from many other animal lovers suggesting that a contribution to the local humane society in memory of the deceased pet would be a fitting way of expressing condolences. And by the way, the amount of the contribution is never disclosed.

DEAR ABBY: Re: "Worried Wife" whose husband, Sol, has to lose 40 pounds after his heart attack: The key words in Sol's wife's letter were: "I don't have the heart to tell Sol's friends off in front of Sol."

So, do what I did — write them a letter! Photocopy it, and let each one know you've sent a copy to Abe, Sam, Dave, Ed and Fred.

My husband, Gerry, has had two heart attacks, then open heart surgery. I've done just what I'm telling Sol's wife to do. Here's the letter:

Dear Friends: I'm writing to you on Gerry's behalf. Thank you all for coming to see Gerry, and not bringing candy. Thank you for cooking poultry without salt when you have us over for dinner. Thank you for helping Gerry to stay on his diet so that we can enjoy life longer and enjoy your friendship longer. And most of all, thank you for truly being his friend and never questioning what his doctors tell him to do. You good people brighten our lives every day, and for that we thank you. Love,

BERNICE

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago you had a collection of snappy comebacks for the question, "How come a nice girl like you never married?" The best response I ever heard was: "Because I never found a man who could stand to be as happy as I would have made him."

LOUISE TARBUTTON,
ORANGE, CALIF.

Takeover bid is 'not in best interest'

DALLAS (AP) — Three investors' $5 billion bid to buy the largest hospital management concern in the country is not in the best interests of the company's shareholders, a Hospital Corporation of America spokesman says.

The Dallas investors proposed to pay $47 a share for about 81.8 million outstanding shares of Nashville, Tenn.-based HCA, the company said Thursday.

The bid came in a letter from Charles R. Miller, former Republic Health Corp. president; Richard E. Ragsdale, a former Republic chief financial officer; and attorney Richard L. Scott, a partner with Johnson & Swanson in Dallas.

It offered no details on how the offer would be funded, HCA said, and two analysts who follow the health care industry said they question the three men's ability to raise the money.

The proposed stock acquisition is worth about $3.85 billion, said HCA spokeswoman Mita Gaertnier. In addition, she said the company has about $1.2 billion in outstanding debt.

"HCA management does not believe that this proposal is in the best interest of the HCA shareholders but intends to discuss the proposal with the HCA board of directors and respond in due course," company spokesman David McFadden said.

The next board of directors meeting is scheduled for April 17, immediately following the annual shareholders meeting.

"The issue will be addressed then, I'm sure," McFadden said.

In composite trading on the New York Stock Exchange, HCA fell $1 a share to $38.12½ Thursday. The company disclosed the proposal after the stock market closed, McFadden said.

Ragsdale and Miller, who founded the Dallas-based Republic, left to start Community Health Corp., a Dallas-based private company which owns eight hospitals and two nursing homes. Ragsdale is chairman of Community Health and Miller is a director.

Members of the investor group could not be reached for comment late Thursday.

Last year, HCA approved an elaborate "shareholder rights plan" designed to protect the company from a hostile takeover, but industry analysts differ on whether or not a takeover is possible.

Health care analyst Eugene Melnitchenko with Eppler, Guerin & Turner in Dallas, said the investor group probably would need the cooperation of HCA's board to succeed.

"I believe it will be impossible for these guys to acquire HCA without the management's consent," he said.

According to the HCA statement, the three told the company they were "highly confident that the financing for this transaction can be arranged." But the letter did not specify whether any financing arrangements for the deal had been made, HCA said.

Randall Huyser, an analyst with Montgomery Securities in San Francisco, questioned the group's ability to raise the necessary money.

"I think the key issue is whether or not they have the financing. If they do have the financing, I think they could pull it off," he said, adding that "I don't think it has a strong likelihood of getting done."

Joel Ray, who has followed HCA for five years as an analist at J.C Bradford & Co., said he has no doubt about the sincerity of the offer.

"They've got a long track record for operating hospitals and have good contacts in financial circles."

Bridges needing repairs

WASHINGTON (AP) — While federal officials acknowledge four of every 10 highway bridges are deficient and need repair, the Transportation Department is proposing to scale back bridge inspection requirements to save money.

The proposed change, which would require that many bridges be inspected every four years instead of every two years as now required, was quietly unveiled this week in an entry in the Federal Register.

Widespread deficiencies in the nation's highway bridges have been known for years, but the subject has gained renewed attention since the collapse Sunday of a major four-lane bridge in upstate New York. The collapse of the Interstate 90 bridge across the swollen Schoharie Creek 35 miles west of Albany is believed to have killed at least 10 motorists.

According to the latest estimates by the Federal Highway Administration, 243,646, or 42.3 percent, of the nation's 575,607 bridges of at least 20 feet in length are in need of repair.

The government last year authorized $2 billion for bridge repairs, but that amount was rolled back as part of an overall effort to reduce the deficit. The highway bill approved by Congress last week calls for $1.63 billion a year over the next five years for bridge repair, an amount many highway experts say will barely allow work crews to keep up with the current rate of bridge decay.

The Federal Highway Administration suggested that by rolling back bridge inspection requirements for some bridges considered in fairly good shape, additional money might be funneled toward actual bridge repairs.

The agency published its proposed rulemaking in the Federal Register last Tuesday. The proposal calls for eliminating the mandatory two-year inspection program for many federally funded highway bridges.

"This should not affect, or if so only to a minimal or negligible degree, highway safety and should result in cost savings, which could then be applied more effectively toward the removal from service of deficient bridges and thus improve overall highway safety," the highway agency said.

Avoidance at all costs

By James Jacoby

Usually when a deuce is led against a no-trump contract, the declarer can relax. If the opening leader has only four cards in the suit, nothing too bad is going to happen, at least in that suit. Today's East and West were using third- and fifth-best leads, so declarer knew that West had started with five hearts. When the ♥10 of hearts held the trick in dummy, South had to play to keep East off lead. Playing a spade would be OK if West held the ace, but a disaster otherwise.

So declarer played a club back to his queen. When that held, he rattled off five diamond tricks, carefully watching what the defenders discarded. West, needing to keep all his hearts and also to guard the club 10, discarded three spades. East threw away a spade and a heart. Reading the situation correctly, declarer now led the club jack from dummy. East covered. South took the ace, and another club put West in with the 10-spot, forcing him to once again lead away from the A-Q of hearts to give declarer his ninth trick.

Lesson: When forcing out a high card will immediately lose your contract if the wrong defender wins the trick, look for other ways to develop your tricks so that you can avoid letting the dangerous hand get on lead.

Sheriff says he's innocent

RANKIN, Texas (AP) — Upton County's ousted sheriff continues to maintain his innocence in the face of five indictments and allegations that he ordered a deputy to plant marijuana inside a suspect's residence.

Glenn Willeford was indicted for aggravated perjury and delivery of marijuana, third-degree felonies. Other indictments allege official misconduct; official oppression; and tampering with or fabricating physical evidence, all Class A misdemeanors, District Attorney J.W. Johnson Jr. said.

"An indictment is not a conviction," said Willeford, who is accused of ordering a deputy to plant marijuana in a residence six miles east of McCamey prior to a raid last Aug. 26.

The deputy, Scott Taylor, was indicted on a charge of aggravated perjury and possession of marijuana.

Alcohol as fuel considered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President George Bush, pushing for the use of alcohol in cars, trucks and buses to reduce air pollution, is asking a new "working group" to promote such conversions in heavily polluted cities.

The group formed Thursday would help more than 70 metropolitan areas nationwide which face the loss of billions of dollars in federal highway funds unless they reduce carbon monoxide and ozone, commonly known as smog, by the end of the year.

A shift to alcohol would reduce urban ozone levels by 80 percent and carbon monoxide by 10 percent to 15 percent at little cost, enabling dozens of cities to meet legal requirements, according to the Environmental Protection Agency.

EPA's strategy for reducing ozone and carbon monoxide currently involves a list of regulations including limits on wine making and baking, but the agency has not yet embraced alcohol fuels as one of its remedies.

However, in a closed-door presentation Thursday to Bush and his Task Force on Regulatory Relief, EPA Administrator Lee Thomas characterized alcohol fuels or additives as extremely effective ways of reducing ozone and carbon monoxide levels.

Under the plan Thomas outlined, commercial and government fleets would be permitted to convert to alcohol use, either as gasoline additives or in the form of pure, or neat, methanol. States could compel the conversions. The Clean Air Act requires them to come up with a plan to reduce emissions.

"We're under a lot of pressure from the mayors of Cleveland, Albuquerque, Phoenix, to give some guidance on this," said Boyden Gray, the vice president's counsel. "EPA is now acknowledging the very powerful impact these fuels can have."

Alcohol fuel comes in two varieties: methanol, made from natural gas or coal, and ethanol, synthesized from corn, sugar cane and other agricultural crops. Currently, alcohol is being used as a gasoline additive in parts of the U.S., but neat methanol is unavailable.

Automobile companies in the United States and Japan long ago developed efficient alcohol-burning vehicles, thousands of which have been tested around the country, primarily in California. But until now there has been no effective way of introducing alcohol as a fuel, so no market has developed.

Bush, during a recent political stop in Iowa, expressed support for developing alcohol fuels.

"If we raised the standard of American fuel to require that all our gasoline contained ethanol blends in areas of the country that violate carbon monoxide pollution limits, we would stimulate growth and opportunity in Iowa and throughout the farm belt and improve air quality in Chicago, Denver, Los Angeles, Albuquerque, Phoenix and other major cities," he wrote last month in an article for Des Moines, Iowa, newspapers.

Tracking down tropical illness

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — During her recent four-year stint in Colombia (South America), my sister experienced loss of weight and appetite, insomnia, dizziness, rash, intermittent fevers, pronounced fatigue and diarrhea, and she became very pale and depressed. These symptoms have continued. She's had blood tests and stool tests to look for parasites, but all have been inconclusive. Could she be helped by a place that specializes in tropical medicine? Where can she find such a place?

DEAR READER — Tropical diseases can be difficult to diagnose because there are many of them and the average U.S. doctor is unfamiliar with the broad range of illnesses that are common abroad. However, most teaching hospitals and medical schools have experts in tropical medicine. Your sister's doctor can refer her to such an institution or to the local bureau of the U.S. Public Health Service.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My tailbone has been hurting for two years, and I can't sit. The doctor said it was a muscle spasm and gave me Valium, but it didn't help. CT-scans, X-rays and lots of tests show nothing. What next?

DEAR READER — I assume that you do not have a tumor, an abscess or a spinal abnormality. Therefore, you may have a condition called coccygodynia, an unexplained pain in the tailbone (coccyx). Your best bet is to treat the symptoms by using mild analgesics and to avoid sitting on hard, uncomfortable surfaces.

You also might consider visiting a pain clinic. These clinics help patients manage chronic pain by means of physical therapy, exercise, relaxation, biofeedback and other methods. Pain clinics are found in larger hospitals; they also may be independently run or may be part of sports-medicine programs.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I want to remove the hair from my lip and chin. There is a product that sends "radio-frequency energy" into the hair follicles to remove them. Is this device safe?

DEAR READER — Before spending your money on such questionable devices, see a cosmetologist to determine if more traditional methods of hair removal might be more suitable. I am unaware of any scientifically proven way to remove unwanted hair by using radio waves.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My ophthalmologist does not perform lens implants for cataracts. He says they are very dangerous if a problem occurs after surgery. Yet everyone in my senior-citizens' complex is having the operation. What do you think? (I am also diabetic.)

DEAR READER — Many ophthalmologists are performing lens implants during cataract surgery. In capable hands, the technique is safe and effective. If your ophthalmologist believes the surgery would be too dangerous for you, ask for a referral to an ophthalmologist who is more familiar with lens implants and who will give you a second opinion.

Dr. Gott's new Health Report on weight loss tells you how to lose weight wisely — and keep it off. For your copy, send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to ask for WINNING THE BATTLE OF THE BULGE.

City commissioner 8th official indicted

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A city commissioner has become the eighth person indicted since the Texas Rangers were called in to investigate allegations of corruption among city officials and employees.

Commissioner Susan Austin, who was freed on $15,000 bond, was accused Thursday of two felony counts of theft by a public servant, said District Attorney Benjamin Euresti Jr.

Oliver Butler Jr., Ms. Austin's attorney, said the indictments represent a political vendetta against his client that has existed since she first declared her candidacy for the commission. She was elected 18 months ago.

"I think that anyone in Brownsville who knows Susan knows she's not a thief," Butler said. "This indictment represents what is obvious: that they've gone back and found some technical thing to accuse her of."

Euresti said the indictments allege Ms. Austin took $400 to $500 in 1980-1981, when she was in charge of the city's brush department.

Although that kind of theft was a felony in 1980 and 1981, it is now considered a misdemeanor, Euresti said.

Charges against three of those indicted have since been dismissed. The grand jury that indicted Ms. Austin has declined to reindict former City Manager Kenneth Lieck and Municipal Judge Kip Van Johnson Hodge.

The two men were accused of one count each of official misconduct, a misdemeanor.

Jehovah's Witnesses attend convention

Jehovah's Witnesses from Snyder and the surrounding area convened this past weekend in Midland. Some 981 persons were in attendance.

The program's theme was based on the Bible book of Joshua, chapter 24, verse 15.

Walter R. Wissman, district overseer in Brooklyn, N. Y., gave the principle address.

Chemical castration for sex offenders loses in House

AUSTIN (AP) — Rep. Foster Whaley says, given a good knife, he would be glad to go through the state prisons and castrate repeat sex offenders.

But Whaley said he knew courts would frown on that. So, instead, he offered a proposal for "chemical castration" of some repeat offenders. The plan on Thursday drew a majority vote in the House, but failed to get the two-thirds vote it needed for approval.

Whaley offered the chemical castration proposal as an amendment to a bill establishing a counseling program for sex offenders in the Texas Department of Corrections. The bill was approved after initially being rejected by the House.

"Quite frankly, I would like to put mechanical castration in there with a darned good stock knife, but I don't think that would stand up in the courts. And if they don't have anybody down in Huntsville that knows how to do that, I'd be glad to show them," said Whaley, D-Pampa.

"Fact is, I'd volunteer as the executioner," he said in floor debate.

The House vote on Whaley's amendment, which would have made chemical castration a requirement for probation for repeat sex offenders, was 65-64. It failed because it takes a two-thirds vote to add amendments to House bills on final reading.

The bill, written by Rep. Bob Melton, would allocate $400,000 of TDC funds to set up the counseling program. Under the bill, parole officials could consider the results of the counseling and whether the sex offender refused to participate in the program.

Supporters said the program is needed because sex offenders eventually leave prison.

"If they serve their time they are coming out. If they have not had that counseling we are in a world of hurt," said Rep. Mark Stiles, D-Beaumont.

Melton, D-McGregor, said sex offenders have a high rate as repeat offenders and that that could be changed through counseling.

The measure, tentatively approved Wednesday, was initially defeated 73-58 Thursday. However, it was brought back to the floor on a motion to reconsider, and was approved 80-54, sending it to the Senate.

Whaley led the opposition attack on the value of counseling.

Your Birthday

Saturday, April 11, 1987

In the year ahead, your popularity will ascend to new heights, and you will have a powerful influence over your peers. Happy times with good friends are in the offing.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll find plenty to complain about if you start looking for the faults in others today. Just be careful they don't hold a mirror up to you. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Make the best of situations today, even activities that spark little enthusiasm for you. Don't spoil the fun for others.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) There could be more disruptions in your household today than usual. Don't let small frustrations get blown up into something serious.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If someone does something today that disturbs you, try to shake it off instead of taking your ire out on innocent associates.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Some legitimate demands may be placed on your purse today. Don't compound matters by buying things you don't need or can't afford.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you try to be all things to all people today, you're likely to end up not pleasing anyone and making yourself unhappy in the process.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Problems that develop for you today are apt to be of your own making. If you are aware of this, it will help you avert complications.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Let controversies between pals today be resolved among themselves. If you try to step in as the arbitrator, they may all come down on you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Even though you may be reluctant to do so, give yourself a day of rest today. Relax and get away from the serious concerns of making a living.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today you may feel the need to champion an unpopular issue. However, your possibilities for winning new converts appear rather slim.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Let your better judgment guide you today if someone you know who is a poor risk wants to borrow money you can't afford to lose.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Decisions shouldn't be made out of frustration or anger today. If your emotions are rattled, they'll have a negative effect on your judgment.

Bankrupt firm paid top execs hefty salaries and bonuses

DALLAS (AP) — In a year when LTV Corp. lost $3.25 billion and filed for Chapter 11 protection from creditors, the company paid its top executives nearly $4 million in salaries, documents show.

The figure includes almost $1 million in performance-related compensation at the Dallas-based steel, aerospace and energy conglomerate, the Dallas Times Herald reported today.

Although LTV spokesman Charles Palmer said the 1986 wages already have been paid to the 15 officers, committees representing LTV creditors and shareholders in a New York bankruptcy court said the payments would be reviewed and possibly challenged in bankruptcy court.

Palmer defended the executive salaries, saying they were lower than industry standards and, in many cases, lower than those of a year before. He said the bonus payments were needed to retain key personnel, especially in troubled times.

"Even in a year like last year, an individual is still performing," Palmer said. "The performance may even be greater in times of stress than in good times."

But the posture didn't appease LTV creditors, investors and union officials, who said they were stunned that the company's management would pay itself major incentives after such a dismal year, the Times Herald reported.

LTV investors, who saw the company's common stock paper value drop nearly $444 million last year, were just as rankled. On a per-share basis, that meant the stock price declined from $6.75 to $1.625.

"Those salaries strike me as exorbitant," said Gabriel Elias, chairman of the shareholders' committee. "That sounds like somebody who's paying himself and saying to hell with the company."

Raymond Hay, LTV's top executive, had his $530,000 base salary bolstered by a $130,000 performance bonus. And LTV's other four highest-paid executives also received six-figure bonuses, according to records filed with the Security and Exchange Commission.

Hay, an LTV executive since 1975, could not be reached Thursday, according to the company's public relations department. But Palmer said Hay's compensation has declined steadily since 1981, when the company last earned a profit.

According to LTV proxy statements, Hay's total cash compensation in 1985 was $718,680, and $743,315 in 1984. In those two years, LTV had losses of $723.9 million and $378.2 million, respectively.

Since 1980, when LTV began "variable performance" payments — which the company insists are not bonuses — Hay has had his six-figure annual base salary supplemented by an additional $1,554,893 in variable compensation and $417,994 more in performance award bonuses, according to company reports.

In those seven years, the company has had two profitable 12-month periods and five consecutive loss years, amassing a total net loss of $4.2 billion.

The "variable compensation" payments, described as a percentage of the executives' base salaries, are "an annual cash award provided their individual accomplishments, as well as those of the company and its subsidiaries, meet expected performance levels."

Horner to play for Japan

DALLAS (AP) - Free-agent Bob Horner has agreed to terms on a one-year contract with the Yakult Swallows of Japan, a newspaper reported today.

Horner's agent, Bucky Woy, said he would meet with Swallows president, Kazuo Souma, today in Dallas to finalize details, The Dallas Morning News said.

Horner turned down a three-year $4.5 million offer from the Atlanta Braves at the end of last season to become a free agent.

After Horner failed to receive an offer from any other major league team, Woy proposed a one-year deal with a base of $800,000 to the Texas Rangers in mid-March, but the Rangers rejected the offer.

"When the thing fell through with the Rangers, we decided to go a different direction," Woy said.

Both Horner and Woy live in Irving, a Dallas suburb.

Terms of the Japanese baseball contract were not disclosed, but it is believed that Horner will receive "well in excess of $1 million," the News said.

Horner will be in Japan within 10 days and expects to be in the starting lineup at third base about 10 days after arriving, Woy said.

Yakult's season opened today.

Horner signed with the Braves out of Arizona State University after they made him the first player selected in the 1978 free-agent draft. He never played in the minors, playing in 89 games for the 1978 Braves and hitting .266 with 23 home runs, winning the Rookie of the Year award.

His best year was 1982, when the Braves won the National League West. Horner batted only .261, but hit 32 home runs and drove in 97 runs.

Last July 6, against Montreal, he became the 11th player in major league history to hit four home runs in one game.

For game with Panthers tonight...

Cats keep positive outlook

FORT STOCKTON -- Coach Albert Lewis, whose Tigers have lost three straight District 2-4A ballgames now, said his team will aim for a positive future.

"We have a lot to play for. We have a lot of young kids and they are getting some good experience. We just want to play as well as we can and learn, and see what happens," said Coach Lewis, as the Tigers prepared for tonight's 8 o'clock ballgame here against the Fort Stockton Panthers.

Fans will see a familiar figure in an unfamiliar role as David Martinez takes over on the mound. He'll be replaced by Lee Fletcher and Reynaldo Gomez in order, if necessary.

"We've been having a little contest out there this week, and really, David and Lee have been throwing the best," explained Coach Lewis. "We need somebody with some velocity on the fastball and who can throw the breaking pitch, too, and both David and Lee have exhibited that in workouts."

Skip Coward will start at first base. If Fletcher comes in to pitch, he'll be replaced at catcher by Tracy Odom.

Snyder will go with basically the same batting order as the Tigers did against Big Spring. That means short stop Brad Gartman will lead off, followed by second baseman Van Echols, left fielder Scott Lanier, designated hitter Kenneth Pickering, center fielder Troy Burton, third baseman Kevin Combest, catcher Lee Fletcher, pitcher David Martinez and right fielder Dennis Martinez.

With a 1-3 record, Snyder could be already out of the running for a playoff berth, despite the fact that the season is still relatively young.

"It would be hard to make the playoffs but stranger things have happened, for sure. We're not going to worry about it. We just want to go out and try to play our best, and win some ballgames," he said. "We're basically a young, inexperienced team but the kids want to win. They want to improve. And they are trying hard. You can't fault them for their effort."

Snyder takes a 6-7 record into tonight's game. Fort Stockton is winless at 0-11 for the season and 0-4 in district play.

In other 2-4A games this evening, Andrews (11-6, 3-0) is at Pecos (8-6, 2-1) and Big Spring (7-10, 3-0) plays Monahans (4-8, 2-1). Lamesa is idle.

Friday's Games: Snyder at Fort Stockton; Andrews at Pecos; Big Spring vs. Monahans.

Kicking coach thinks Septien should leave for some other team

DALLAS (AP) - Finding a city where he could start life over would be the best thing for Dallas Cowboys placekicker Rafael Septien, the team's kicking instructor says.

Septien pleaded guilty Wednesday to a felony charge of indecency with a child. He admitted fondling a 10-year-old girl who was a friend of his roommate's daughter.

Cowboys kicking instructor Ben Agajanian said Thursday that the kicker would be better off playing for another team and should ask for a trade.

"I was a kicker. If you were a kicker, and you had been through what he's been through, wouldn't you want to go to another city and start all over?" Agajanian said.

In Long Beach, Calif., where Agajanian tried out six kickers, the coach said he was deeply disappointed by Wednesday's developments.

"I haven't talked to him (Septien) since February, but I told him then that if he was guilty, he needed help and I didn't want to associate with him," Agajanian said. "But I said if he was innocent, I would stand in his corner.

"But he never called me again, and he never told me anything. It's a tremendous disappointment to me. His dad, before he died, said, 'Take care of my boy, he's very naive.' I tried. The last two years, I was very patient with him, working with his physical condition."

As a result of a plea bargain, Septien received 10 years' deferred probation, a $2,000 fine and a directive to undergo psychiatric counseling.

Cowboys President Tex Schramm and coach Tom Landry issued brief statements Wednesday that indicated Septien could return to the team.

Septien, in a statement Wednesday, said he was relieved the matter had been resolved but did not elaborate on his plans.

Back problems have hindered Septien the past two seasons, and the Cowboys drafted kicker Max Zendejas in the fourth round of the 1986 draft. But Septien beat him out and the Cowboys released Zendejas before the season began.

Agajanian is taking a second look at Max Zendejas' brother, Luis Zendejas, a former Arizona State kicker who was released last summer by the Minnesota Vikings.

The Cowboys have already signed four kickers and might sign two more before the July 19 opening of training camp in Thousand Oaks, Calif., officials said.

At last week's minicamp, Septien said he was having no problems with his back. He had the team's third-fastest time in the 880-yard run, finishing in 2 minutes, 21 seconds.

Netters play in 2-4A event this morning

ODESSA -- Snyder tennis team was competing in the District 2-4A Tennis Tournament at Odessa College here this morning.

A complete list of opponents was unavailable but it was known that Deone Farmer was to play Amy Sheilds of Pecos and Lori McFarland was to play Barbee Talamantez of Pecos in first-round action at 11:30 a.m.

Boy's doubles competition was to open the two-day tournament at 9 a.m. Playing for Snyder were Michael Rodriguez and Michael Risenhoover, regional qualifiers a year ago, and Brandon Martin and Mark Clemmons. Boy's singles, with Kevin Winter and Alfred Brice, was to start at 10:15 a.m. At 12:45 p.m., girl's doubles were to take place. Playing for Snyder are Shawna Chrane and Michelle Osborn and Rhonda Echols and Rebecca Vestal.

Doubles quarterfinals were slated for a 2 p.m. start, followed b singles quarterfinals at 3:15 p.m. Semifinals are scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. Saturday in singles and doubles, with the finals beginning at noon.

First and second place individuals and doubles teams advance to the May 1-2 Region I Tournament in Brownwood.

Boys at San Angelo for 2-4A golf event

SAN ANGELO -- Snyder boys play their next-to-last District 2-4A Golf Tournament here Saturday.

The Tigers wind up the 1987 season on April 18 in Sweetwater.

Saturday's 18-hole event is expected to get underway at 9:30 a.m.

Snyder varsity is in 10th place in the district standings with 1,076 strokes. The junior varsity is 17th with 1,248.

Andrews has all but wrapped up the 2-4A title. The Mustangs have a total of 952 while Sweetwater is in second place with a 991.

Several other teams have a chance to press Sweetwater for the runnerup spot, which includes a trip to the regional tournament. They include Pecos, which has a 1,032, Big Spring, which has a 1,033, and Monahans, with a 1,037.

Girls play Saturday in golf tournament

FORT STOCKTON -- Snyder's Lady Tigers hope to increase their hold on second place as they tee off in the third Girl's District 2-4A Golf Tournament, scheduled to begin at 9:30 a.m. here Saturday.

Andrews leads the district race with 721 strokes after two 18-hole tournaments. Snyder's 755 is second, followed by Big Spring with 793, Fort Stockton with 794, Snyder B-team with 923, Andrews B-team with 925 and Monahans with 936.

The regular season ends with an April 18 tournament in Monahans and the top two teams will qualify for regional competition. Snyder is the defending 2-4A and regional runnerup, and the defending Class 4A state champion.

Girl's District Standings

Western opens strong at Hobbs, N.M. rodeo

HOBBS, N.M. -- National calf roping champion Keith Hudson flashed an 8.3 to take the early lead at the New Mexico Junior College NIRA Rodeo, being held here this weekend.

Hudson, a sophomore at Western Texas College, won the Southwest Region and the nation last season.

"He timed an 8.3 ... and his calf stayed tied," said Coach Bob Doty, who added the pause for effect.

Hudson had clocked a 9.1 that would have won the long-go at Big Spring last weekend, but his calf got up and he drew a no-time.

Western also got a good ride from Wesley Henderson in the saddle bronc. His 69 placed third in the first night of action.

"I really thought his ride was as good as the two guys ahead of him but that's rodeo sometimes," panned Doty.

Western also got a 5.5 time in the steer wrestling from Todd Danley. His effort is third. Danley and Joel Marr no-timed in the team roping, however.

Those were all of the contestants out Thursday night from the designated Western Texas men's team. A number of other WTC students competed, however. The group included Stephanie Weaver, whose 17.01 is placing second in the barrels, and the duo of WTC's Cleat Stephens and Sul Ross State's Glyn Hutto, who are leading the team roping with a 7.5.

Also, Robert Fifer scored a 60 for fifth place in the saddle bronc and Jo Ditt Danley had a 3.3 plus 10 in the breakaway roping and a 17.93 in the barrels.

Scott Sharp and Robert Fifer, and Cleat Stephens and Thad Springer all had no-times in the team roping.

Among those competing today in slack or tonight for the 7:30 p.m. show, are team members Mike Carrillo in the bareback, Bryan Evans in the bareback and saddle bronc, Todd Danley in the calf roping, Mistri Davis in the roping and goat tying, Sandy Scott in the goat tying and Tana Whatley in the roping.

Snyder native Adam Brewster is slated to compete Saturday in both the bareback and bull riding.

Evans, a freshman from Colorado, will be on the designated team even though this is his first rodeo of the season. He entered Western Texas at the semester, and had to wait three rodeos before he was eligible to compete.

The rodeo will continue here with a show at 7:30 p.m. Saturday. The finals are slated at 1:30 p.m. Sunday.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A 42-year-old woman was in stable condition today after doctors tried to curb her symptoms of Parkinson's disease by grafting adrenal gland cells onto her brain in the first such surgery in this country.

Dickye Baggett underwent five hours of surgery Thursday at Vanderbilt University Medical Center.

"This development in the treatment of Parkinson's disease may usher in a new era of transplantation of tissue into the brain," said Dr. George S. Allen, the hospital's neurosurgery department chairman who led the medical team.

Parkinsonism is a degenerative neurological disorder often characterized by tremors, rigidity or loss of balance.

The disease, which affects nearly 1.5 million Americans, results from the loss of brain cells that produce a substance known as dopamine, which allows nerve cells to transmit messages to one another.

Cells from her adrenal glands were used in the transplant because they also produce dopamine.

Similar operations were performed with some success in Sweden and in Mexico.

"We have high hopes for this research," said Allen.

Drugs can control symptoms, but their effects can be sporadic and complications sometimes include psychological disturbances and impairment of movement.

"Current drug treatment of parkinsonism is directed toward reversing the symptoms and does not halt the progression of the disease," said Dr. R. Stanley Burns, a member of the surgical team who is also associate professor of neurology and psychiatry and director of the Vanderbilt Parkinson's and Movement Disorder Clinic.

Hospital officials said Mrs. Baggett lived near Nashville, but would not be more specific.

Wayne Wood, a spokesman for the medical center, quoted Mrs. Baggett as saying before the operation that the surgery was "a risk I'm willing to take," even though it might not work.

"The possibilities that could come from it are very real, maybe helping in some ways myself and other people too," she was quoted as saying. "All along I felt like the good Lord gave me Parkinson's disease for some reason. Maybe this is the reason why."

"My muscles just don't move the way they're supposed to," Mrs. Baggett said. "I have to think 'move.' When I write my name, I have to think each letter."

Mexican doctors who performed similar surgery on a 35-year-old patient in March 1986 said he showed improvement without medication. A second man, a 39-year-old who had the surgery in October, continues to show a reduction in what had been an incapacitating tremor, said researcher Dr. Rene Drucker-Colin.

Eight later surgery patients also seem to be showing gains, he said.

Several special awards were also presented Thursday night. Delbert Downing received a silver tray for his service as a Silver Haired Legislature member.

Others receiving individual plaques of recognition were Roy McQueen, Bob Clifton, Keith Collier, Betty Rawlings, Xan Harris, Janice Upton, Pat Cornett and Mickey Williams.

Garth and Frances Austin won the drawing for a nine patch quilt.

Jerry Baird, center director, served as the master of ceremonies. He also introduced several special guests.

The Rev. Ken Coffey, pastor of the First Christian Church, gave the invocation.

The theme of the banquet was "We Don't Rock, We Volunteer."

Brandi Robbins played dinner music.

one of four seats in the Lubbock Diocese. Once the new building is completed, Catholic church representatives from the Snyder Deanery are expected to attend functions hosted by the local church.

St. Elizabeth was built in 1952 and eight years later the Katherine Ryan School which now houses the Snyder Child Day Care Center was constructed.

Fr. Sean Sweeney serves as pastor. Barbara Scannicchio is president of the parish council. Jerry Glaves is chairman of the building and operations committee and Carolyn Glaves is chairman of the building committee.

five sons.

"After all these years of collecting slides of all wildflowers that grow here, I still find flowers I've never discovered before," Mrs. Kirkpatrick said. "So, I'm still discovering and learning.

"My program includes slides of only wildflowers native to this region. Roughly it goes nearly to Sweetwater and Jayton on to the east, encompasses the Panhandles of Texas and Oklahoma and the Plains of Kansas, then nearly to Santa Fe on the west and down into northern Mexico."

Wildflower tours slated

can see the wildflower displays there and the art and writing projects created by public school students for the wildflower observerance.

At Friday's reception, awards in the wildflower photography competition for amateur photographers will be presented and local teachers who have 100 per cent participation in the event's art and creative writing projects will be recognized.

Also on display will be Wildflower Day exhibits to include items loaned by two county residents, Peggy English and Phyllis Miller.

A special visitor will be Audrey II, a "plant" which appears in the WTC theatre production of "Little Shop of Horrors."

The wildflower program is a project of the Scurry County Wildflower Committee, the museum and Western Texas College. Persons interested in additional information may contact the museum or Britt Canada, chairman of the Wildflower Committee.

Baptists note anniversary

orado City, and the following Baptist Churches in Snyder: Mt. Olive, Friendly Will, Helms Heights, Allen Chapel and Norris Chapel.

On Sunday the general church is the auxiliary in charge.

The sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Reed of Greater New Hope Baptist Church in Brownfield. Sister Huntsman will give the welcome.

Guest Baptist Churches include Greater New Hope of Brownfield, Lakeside of Spur, Mt. Rose, of Sweetwater, Mt. Zion of Colorado City, Macedonia of Anson, Canaan of Loraine and Little Zion of Rotan.

Lunch will be served to the guest churches after the anniversary hour.

New Hope Baptist Church was organized in 1962 at Norris Chapel with the Rev. Frank K. Williams as presiding minister. Presiding with him were seveal charter members of assisting churches.

The Rev. L. J. Thomas was elected to the church as its first pastor, serving for three years.

In 1965, the Rev. Otis James Archer was chosen pastor. He served for nine years.

The Rev. Irias Hill was elected pastor in May of 1974. He served for two years.

In 1976, the Rev. George Cole became pastor, serving one year.

In February of 1978, the Rev. Raymond A. Dunkins became pastor. He currently serves in that position.

WTC event offers pair scholarship

Two Snyder High School seniors, Steven Mack and Missy Trull, were among the scholarship winners at the Western Texas College Social Science Contest Thursday.

Kevin Pruitt from Snyder High School was among the students receiving medals.

Fifteen area high schools participated in this year's contests. Some 150 students were divided into Division I and Division II according to enrollment, with Snyder in Division I.

The highest ranking senior in each event received a scholarship to WTC. Medals were presented to the top three students in each of the five events: Texas history and government, current events, world history and geography, American government and U.S. history.

Mack placed second in world history and geography to earn his scholarship. Trull was second in Texas government and history. Pruitt was third in current events.

Abilene High School and Abernathy High School were awarded plaques for having the highest number of points in Division I and Division II respectively.

CITY OF SNYDER
REQUEST FOR QUOTATION

Quotations will be received until 10:00 A.M., April 24, 1987 at the Office of the City Secretary.

The City of Snyder is considering contracting veterinary services in support of the City's Animal Department.

The City of Snyder requires compliance with the following list of responsibilities:

1. Unless otherwise directed or authorized, the veterinarian will house, feed, water and observe for disease, all animals turned over to him by the Animal Control Officer for a minimum period of 72 hours.
2. The veterinarian will be responsible for disposal of all animals.
3. All animals destroyed pursuant to Section 6 of The City of Snyder Ordinance No. 88, shall be destroyed by lethal injection of substances approved by the State of Texas.
4. All release of animals, received under item 1 hereof, must receive prior police approval.
5. A descriptive record (breed, color, weight, etc.) of each animal picked up and final disposition of animal (dates picked up, released, destroyed) will be kept by the veterinarian.
6. The veterinarian will bill the city monthly.
7. The City's Animal Control Department will submit a daily report to the office of the City Manager on the number and disposition of animals picked up, handled, released, destroyed, etc.
8. The veterinarian agrees to charge $--- per animal.

Please return this quotation to the City Secretary by April 24, 1987, along with any narrative proposal you want to propose.
