Murder confession read, jury due case

By NOBLE B. YOUNG
SDN Staff Writer

The guilt or innocence of capital murder suspect Dorsie Lee Johnson Jr. was in the hands of a seven-woman, five-man jury Wednesday afternoon, the same panel which Tuesday heard evidence that the suspect confessed the crime to local police last April.

Wednesday morning, only one witness was called by the defense and final arguments from both sides were offered in 132nd District Court.

District Attorney Ernie Armstrong had rested the state's case against Johnson Tuesday afternoon following the reading of two signed confessions given to Snyder police.

Attorney Frank Conard, court-appointed defense counsel from Sweetwater, rested his case just after 10 a.m.

The confession statements were the subject of a lengthy pretrial hearing in September in which Conard attempted to have them declared inadmissible as evidence.

The defense counsel contended the statements were made after an illegal arrest and that his client did not fully understand the implications of giving them.

District Judge Gene Dulaney took his ruling on the defense motion to supress the statements "under advisement" at the conclusion of that hearing, but Monday told Conard and Armstrong on the record that he would rule them admissible.

Snyder police detective Steve Warren — who had taken both statements from the defendant on April 9 and again April 10 — was called to the witness stand to present the confessions.

He said the first statement was taken at the Mitchell County sheriff's office between 1 and 6 a.m. April 9 after Johnson's arrest in connection with the armed robbery of Burrus Grocery in Colorado City.

The second statment was taken by Warren at the Snyder police station April 10 after the defendant had been transferred to the Scurry County Jail.

In those statements, Johnson told Warren of a trip from Colorado City to Snyder the night of March 23 with Amanda Lynn Miles and her sister Janet.

Eventually, he said Janet Miles left them. While he and Amanda were sitting at the traffic light at 30th St. and College Ave., he said she produced a .25 caliber automatic pistol and asked him if he wanted to rob Allsup's.

He said the drove around the city for a time discussing the crime. Both agreed, he said, they could leave no witnesses.

They then went to the store to "look around." While there, he said, two girls also came to the store.

After some conversation between them, he said the girls left the store. He noted he and Amanda Miles left also.

According to the statement, the pair then drove around for another 30 minutes or so talking about how to commit the robbery.

He said they re-entered the store after that discussion with Johnson carrying the gun in his jacket pocket.

They then asked the clerk — Jack Huddleston — if he had any transmission fluid for a 1968 model car. According to the statement, Huddleston went with them to the north part of the store where the transmission fluid was located to help them find what they asked for.

About that time, according to Johnson, a man came into the store.

He said that he and Amanda then went over by the milk case, located in the northwest corner of the store, and waited while the clerk waited on this customer.

The clerk, Johnson said, then came back to the part of the store where they were waiting. Johnson said he then asked him if he had any orange juice in gallon bottles.

The clerk said he would check, then walked around the cooler case to the walk-in door.

According to his statement, Johnson followed Huddleston into the walk-in, pulled the gun and told the clerk it was a robbery.

Amanda, according to the statement, went behind the checkout counter and began emptying the registers.

Inside the walk-in, Johnson said, he told the clerk to lie down on the floor. He then said he shot

LINKED TO MURDER--Defendant Dorsie Lee Johnson Jr. (left) was implicated in the murder of a Snyder convenience store clerk Tuesday by his brother-in-law, Donald Robinson of Colorado City. Robinson testified Johnson loaned him money which the defendant said came from the Allsup's robbery. When asked if anyone could identify him with the robbery, Robinson testified the suspect replied, "Dead men can't talk." (Drawing by John Gibson)

120-plus to offer job information at SHS career day

Career Day activities at Snyder High School, an event which will involve an estimated 1,000 students from all three Scurry County schools, are scheduled Thursday morning.

Leadoff speaker will be U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm (D-Stamford), who will speak to the student group during a morning assembly set to begin at 8:40 a.m.

In addition, Stenholm has scheduled a meeting beginning at 10 a.m. with county farmers. This will be in Room B of the coliseum.

He will also be the featured speaker at a joint civic club luncheon in the coliseum. This meal, with members of the Rotary, Lions, Kiwanis and Jaycees to meet, will begin at noon.

Contributing to the Career Day sessions will be more than 120 business and professional individuals who will discuss employment opportunities in 42 career areas.

The 1986 edition of Career Day is jointly sponsored by the Snyder Rotary Club and the guidance departments of SHS and Western Texas College.

A majority of career day speakers will come from the membership of Rotary, other local business and professional individuals and the staff of both the Snyder public schools and WTC.

High school students from Snyder, Hermleigh and Ira have been given their choice of career fields they would like to learn more about. For each vocation, two presentations will be made Thursday, from 9:20 until 10:20 a.m. and from 10:20 until 11:20 a.m.

Local business and professional individuals to speak include Larry Anderson, Mike Banta, Kay Bellamy, John Best, Ken Branam, Donny Brown, Lisa Brumley, Leslie Butler, Blanche Chisum, Dennis Chisum, Charles Church, Penny Clark, Bob Clifton, Winona Curfman and Jon

Snyder ISD to fund wind break addition

Citing a potential hazard to younger students, Snyder school board members agreed Tuesday to assume financial responsibility for a $2,000 project proposed by East Elementary school officials.

East Principal Jim Erwin had asked the board to consider constructing some type of windbreak wall to protect an exposed student walkway on campus.

Specifically, he noted that strong westerly winds blew through the walkway, occasionally causing a heavy metal entrance door to slam shut on the hands of kindergarten and first grade students.

Erwin had indicated that if the school board opted not to consider the project, the East PTA had expressed a willingness to help raise funds for the project.

But, school officials Tuesday noted the poor precedent in allowing outside groups to become involved in the actual construction of school facilities.

It was noted such groups tend to only see the needs of a specific campus rather than the prioritized needs of the system districtwide.

Trustee Charlene Light commented, "We've been told that this problem is a danger to students, and based on this I think we need to do something."

J.D. Hinton made the motion to approve a low bid of two submitted for the work, and the measure passed unanimously.

Since the improvement project is not included in the current year budget, financing for the project will likely take a budget amendment, Assistant Superintendent Artie Butler told the board.

The bid of $2,079 was submitted by T.E. Shelburne and Son. Wadleigh Construction bid $2,585 for the work.

The action came at a noon meeting of the board.

Jr. High project proposed

Plans by Snyder Junior High School parents, teachers and administrators to "beautify" a central patio at the campus were given a go-ahead Tuesday by Snyder school trustees.

The proposal does not involve any fund requests from the district, explained Principal Charles Anderson. He noted plans are to use some $10,000 in money accumulated over a period of time in a student activity fund.

The money was raised through sales at soft drink and candy machines which had been located at the junior high.

Anderson noted that a beautification of the central courtyard was deemed a high priority project on campus.

He described the area as it now looks as "like a prison yard."

The uncovered patio is a center area surrounded by the junior high classroom buildings. It has an asphalt surface and is currently without any type landscap-

Snyder ISD assets exceed $18 million

Assets for the Snyder school district were listed in excess of $18 million Tuesday--part of information provided trustees during the annual outside budget report.

The report was given by CPA Joe Morren of Colorado City, who was also approved to conduct the outside audit again next year for Snyder ISD. He offered his report at the regular November meeting of the board.

Morren's report noted that, as in year's past, the majority of the district's assets are comprised of buildings and improvements. The estimate for these was retained at the same figure quoted last year, some $12.8 million.

As for liabilities, the district's total is negligible, estimated at some $423,000. The majority of this, some $277,000, is comprised of tax monies now deemed for bookkeeping practices as "uncollectible."

Also included in liabilities is the final $5,000 payment owed for bonded indebtedness incurred with the consolidation of the Fluvanna school district. That debt--essentially the only long term debt owed by the school district--will be paid this year.

Other major fund areas reported with the audit involve district revenues and expenses for last school year.

Regarding revenues, the district took in almost $12.5

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Many adults think the only thing harder than being a kid today is being a parent of one."

The chamber's athletic committee is busy trying to attract football playoff games to Snyder. Someone might ask the benefit of visitors coming here, and the answer is obvious.

Even if a business does not derive a direct benefit, the same dollar spent turns six or seven times. Tourism is a big and important business, and we're glad efforts are being made in this direction.

Houston, for example, is making an intense effort to land the 1988 Democratic Party Convention. Houston, also rocked back by the plummeting oil industry, is looking in all directions for anything that might give its economy a surge.

Estimates are that the Democratic convention would put about $67 million into Houston business firms. An even better boost fizzled when the Houston Astros failed to make the World Series.

A berth in the World Series would have poured an estimated $100 million into the economy of the state's largest city. Don't underestimate the value of any dollar spent in Snyder--not only is it good for local business, it's also good for the spender.

Money creates jobs. Loss of local sales s eans fewer jobs, and fewer jobs mean less money to spend period. Think about it.

One thing about folks in West Texas, they are always eager to help out. An interesting incident occurred a few days ago on the parking lot of Varsity Square Center.

Walking across the parking lot, a woman saw a driverless car slowly rolling toward her. With unusual agility, she sprinted toward it, hopped in the open door, and pulled it to a quick halt with the emergency brake.

As she got out, a man huffing and puffing approached her.

"Well, I stopped it," she announced with pride.

"Yeah, I know," said the man, "and I was pushing it."

Steel talks

PITTSBURGH (AP) — No progress was reported after USX Chairman David Roderick and United Steelworkers President Lynn Williams met for the fourth time to resolve a 104-day-old work stoppage by 22,000 union members, the company said.

Roderick was accompanied to Tuesday's meeting by his chief labor negotiator, Executive Vice President J. Bruce Johnston, and Williams was accompanied by several members of the union's negotiating team, said USX spokesman William Hoffman.

The two leaders met late in October, agreeing that after 11 weeks of silence it was time to send their bargainers back into negotiations. The talks resumed Oct. 21.

Cold front

by The Associated Press

A high pressure system centered in Oklahoma brought more cold air into the state but even colder temperatures are on the way tonight, forecasters say.

Another cold front moved into Texas Tuesday afternoon, bringing a freeze to parts of northern and northwestern Texas.

Temperatures will plunge into the 20s tonight in North Texas and the Panhandle, forecasters said.

Lows before dawn today were mostly in the 30s in the Panhandle and West Texas, while readings in the 30s and 40s prevailed across North Texas.

The Western Texas College theatre department will present "Terra Nova" Thursday through Saturday and Monday in the Fine Arts Theatre on campus. Performances begin at 8 p.m. each night.

"Terra Nova" is based on journals left by three English explorers who died on an expedition to the South Pole in 1911-12. The play deals with honor, sacrifice, duty and the excellence of people, Jim Rambo, director, points out.

Tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for students and can be reserved by calling the box office during regular office hours. WTC students will be admitted free with their identification cards.

Ministers discuss Rhine pollution

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — Environment ministers from Rhine River countries gathered today to discuss one of Europe's worst ecological disasters in recent years — a chemical slick from a Swiss industrial fire that is killing fish and threatening water supplies.

Ministers from France, West Germany, the Netherlands, Luxembourg and the Common Market Commission meet in Zurich today after being convened by Switzerland, which has come under strong criticism for its handling of the emergency.

About 30 tons of insecticides, herbicides, and mercury-containing fungicides poured into the Rhine River along with the water used to put out a Nov. 1 industrial fire at the Sandoz chemical plant outside Basel, Switzerland.

An approximately 25-mile-long chemical slick has slowly rifted downstream toward the North Sea, killing an estimated half-million fish and contaminating water supplies.

Some critics are calling the Sandoz spill "Chernobale," after the Chernobyl nuclear disaster last April in the Soviet Union. Bale is the French name for Basel.

West German, Dutch and French senior officials who met in Brussels Tuesday accused the Swiss of negligence in dealing with the disaster, of reacting too slowly to it, and of failing to provide other nations with timely and adequate information, according to Common Market sources.

Swiss officials have said such information was given as soon as the scope of the disaster became evident, and that France and West Germany were alerted shortly after the fire.

Dear Abby

Lamb of a Husband Is A Lion Behind the Wheel

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1986 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a sweet, considerate, gentle, loving man — until he gets behind the wheel of a car. Then his personality changes completely, and he turns into an angry, hostile, raving lunatic. He finds fault with other drivers, cursing them out and calling them stupid (and worse) even when he himself is at fault. If I try to calm him down, he pulls over to the side and demands that I drive. I don't want to drive; I just want to go places with him without having it end up in a quarrel. We've been married for nearly 40 years and he's always been this way.

Abby, what makes a gentle, loving man turn so mean and hostile when he gets behind the wheel of an automobile?

TRULY CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: Psychiatrists have heard this complaint often. Their responses have been various versions of the following: "Your husband is frustrated either in his work or personal life, but is unable or unwilling to express it, so he releases all his pent-up rage and anger at other drivers.

"Some men with unconscious doubts about their own masculinity use this means of exhibiting their masculinity by driving overaggressively and cursing out those in their way."

Since this has been a lifelong problem, perhaps during one of his "gentle and loving" moods, you can persuade him to seek counseling. When he understands the reason for his belligerent and unsettling behavior, it may help him to change.

DEAR ABBY: Add me to your list of "I never thought it could happen to me": My husband and I have been happily married for 10 years. We've had our ups and downs, but consider our marriage to be one of the better ones. We decided long ago that we did not want children. Not because we thought we wouldn't be good parents, but because there is so much wrong with the world.

Last week I learned that I am pregnant — an accident, for sure. Now my kind, considerate, sensitive husband has gone completely berserk and informed me that if I don't have an abortion immediately, there will be a divorce. I am morally opposed to abortion and he knows it. He insists that he does not want this child, and I could not give it up. It's either him or the baby.

I am 32 and he is 34. Our home is paid for and we have money in the bank, so it's not that we can't afford it. I am heartbroken to think that this wonderful life growing inside me is unwanted and unloved by one of its creators.

Can you help me, Abby?

HURTING IN FORT WORTH

DEAR HURTING: If you must make a choice, choose the baby. Hold your ground. I'm betting that your husband will change his mind once the baby is born. And if he doesn't, in my judgment, you'll still have made the better choice.

DEAR ABBY: The woman who bought the story that her husband had an affair out of pity for the poor girl she caught him with should wake up! Against my better judgment, I gave in to the relentless pursuit of an "unhappily" married man. After the little woman found out, he told her he only did it because he felt sorry for me!

I found this amusing because I weigh 80 pounds less than his wife, have a better job, make more money, my stocks are doing well, I drive a Mercedes, I'm well-educated, good-looking and popular. I guess my pathetic circumstances must have really tugged at his heartstrings. I was so pitiful I mistook his eagerness to get me to bed for mad passion, when all he was concerned about was my getting my proper rest. What a saint!

Ladies, let's keep the pity where it belongs — with the liars who can't tell the truth to save their own marriages. These guys feel sorry for themselves, not the little cookies they chase after. Sign me ...

MESA "CHARITY CASE"

DEAR "CHARITY CASE": Beautiful.

Boom forecasted for Dallas in 1990s

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas will experience sluggish growth for the next two years followed by a boom stretching far into the 1990s, according to a study by a Washington-based environmental group.

Population-Environment Balance Inc. said the boom, which will result in 22 percent growth by 1995, will be fueled primarily by defense contracts and service businesses.

But M. Rupert Cutler, author of the study, warned that the area's rapid growth will result in higher living costs and lower quality of life if local governments don't improve their planning.

"Traffic will become even more congested," said Cutler in the study released Monday. "Violent crime, already at high levels, will escalate. City and county services will decline. Taxes must increase."

The study said population in the Dallas Fort-Worth metropolitan area will grow 21 percent by 1995. Dallas County will grow by 22 percent, Johnson County by 32 percent and Ellis County by 28 percent, according to the study.

American soldiers honored Tuesday

By Dan Murphy
Associated Press Writer

More than 13 years after U.S. troops left Vietnam, honor for those who fought there was a dominant theme as America marked Veterans Day with parades and ceremonies in recognition of all those who fought for their country.

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger on Tuesday laid a wreath before the Tomb of the Unknowns at Arlington National Cemetery in Virginia, and urged renewed support for President Reagan's military buildup, while other speakers cited the desire of veterans to spare their descendants the need to take up arms.

"No veteran wants future generations to suffer the tragedies of war," John Halachis, Massachusetts commissioner of veterans' services, said at ceremonies in Boston. "To know our youth will not have to repeat those sacrifices is what we fought for."

A new memorial to Vietnam veterans was dedicated in Cody, Wyo., and ground was broken for similar projects in Olympia, Wash., and in Baltimore. In Oklahoma City the bronze figure of a battle-weary Vietnam-era soldier was unveiled.

The Cody memorial and those planned for Olympia and Baltimore consist of granite walls etched with the names of dead and missing servicemen, similar to the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington, D.C.

"We look forward to the day when we will no longer have to remember our young with a chisel and granite," said Hugh Walkup, a member of the veterans group that proposed the new Olympia memorial.

Organizers of the Maryland project said that memorial would be finished by next Veterans Day and would be the 22nd monument in the nation dedicated to Vietnam veterans.

"As the war fades into history, they will live always in our hearts," said Maryland Gov. Harry Hughes.

As he dedicated a 24-foot-long wall bearing the names of 139 dead and missing, Wyoming Gov. Ed Herschler said, "They hold a promise that these men and women have not died in vain."

More banks are getting into trouble

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The government's list of financially troubled banks is growing by one bank a day as the industry continues to be buffeted by bad loans and stiff competition, a top federal regulator says.

L. William Seidman, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., said Tuesday his agency is adding a bank daily on average to its watch list of institutions with such weak balance sheets that there is a danger they could fail.

There are now 1,450 institutions on the trouble list — about one bank in 10 — compared with 1,150 at the beginning of the year.

While typically only about 10 percent of the troubled banks fail, Seidman noted that already this year his agency has had to close 123 banks, a post-Depression record.

He said he expected the total of failed banks would hit 150 before the year is over, and he said 1987 would not show any improvement.

Seidman said despite these problems the FDIC, which insures deposits in 15,000 banks, is sound, with reserves expected to grow by more than $500 million this year to approximately $18.8 billion.

Oil executive...

Minimum floor price sought

HOUSTON (AP) — A "minimum floor price" for domestic oil should be set by the government and the petroleum industry to ensure the industry's survival, an American Petroleum Institute official says.

George M. Keller, board chairman of API, made the remarks Tuesday at the closing session of the trade group's two-day annual convention.

Keller, board chairman of Chevron Corp., said that such a move could consist of tax incentives to encourage oil and gas drilling; "insurance" against a prolonged period of low and unstable prices."

In another speech, the head of Mexico's national oil company denounced the idea of a U.S. tariff on imports saying it would deliver "a staggering blow to freer trade in Mexico."

"The impact would not be restricted to the oil industry," warned Mario Ramon Beteta, director general of Petroleos Mexicanos. "It would affect the overall competitiveness of U.S. industry and could trigger retaliatory actions by countries that import U. S. goods."

Keller's remarks came as the trade group grappled for an effective strategy to deal with the staggering impact of the oil price collapse.

The price of a 42-gallon barrel of oil had fallen from about $32 to below $10 since last November before rising back to current levels between $14 and $16.

Consumers have enjoyed the cheapest gas and heating oil prices in years. But the price plunge has devastated industry balance sheets, discouraged domestic exploration and encouraged rising imports amid growing consumption.

Keller said these trends "have put our nation on a collision course with another energy crisis."

"In three or four years, the United States could be dependent on imports for more than 50 percent of its petroleum requirements."

"To put that in perspective, that level of imports would represent a higher level of U.S. dependency on foreign oil than exsisted during the oil shortages of the 1970s," he said.

His proposal represented his own views and Chevron policy and not that of the API, Keller noted.

He said he believed the industry should first determine "a minimum floor price for domestic crude oil that will keep our industry functioning until world oil prices stablize at higher levels."

But that price, he added, should be aimed at ensuring the survival of--not the economic comfort of--the petroleum industry.

The API board chairman also urged the industry to develop a consensus "on the most effective approach and what type of government involvement to achieve that level of price stability."

And he said it should "work with government as a unified industry to put our program in place."

"By identifying a minimun survival price level — you might call it disaster insurance — a lot of the political controversy could be eliminated," he said, "because there probably would be almost no immediate significant impact on consumers."

Opening lead: ♣ A

South got to a slam after North had used Jacoby two no-trump as a forcing major-suit raise. Although a different lead from West could have beaten the slam, declarer's play is still noteworthy.

South's three-club bid showed a singleton, and North-South cue-bid their way to slam. Of course South should have passed four hearts, but he pushed to a thin slam by cue-bidding the spade king.

West led the club ace and then switched to the diamond 10. Declarer knew that West would not lead away from the diamond king, so he played low from dummy and won the ace. He then played a heart to dummy's jack and ruffed a club low. After a spade to dummy's queen, another club ruffed low, a spade to dummy's ace and the last club ruffed with his heart ace, declarer played a low heart to dummy's queen. Now the heart king picked up West's remaining trump as South shed a diamond. Then dummy's last trump tightened the noose around East's neck. Declarer discarded his last diamond and poor East had to release the diamond king or unguard the spade suit. Either way, the slam made.

Although I dislike admitting it, the bidding should have prompted West to lead the diamond 10 at trick one. Now declarer cannot trump out dummy's clubs without first allowing East to take the setting diamond trick. Why not take the club ace right away? When West knows that South holds a singleton, he should wait, since he may be either setting up the club king, if dummy has that card, or giving the declarer time to ruff some clubs.

Government moving ahead on foreclosures on farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Farmers Home Administration is gradually moving ahead with foreclosure actions against thousands of borrowers whose debts have been stacking up for years.

Moreover, according to year-end figures provided by the Agriculture Department agency, there has been an increasing number of farm borrowers who have lost equipment, livestock and other property through "chattel liquidation" to raise money for debt payments.

In all, during the fiscal year that ended on Sept. 30, the FmHA sent "acceleration letters" to 7,593 borrowers demanding payments, the first step toward the drawn-out legal process of foreclosure. That compares with only 978 acceleration letters sent in 1984-85, and 2,954 in 1983-84.

The report showed that a total of 11,126 borrowers had either received acceleration notices last year or had undergone chattel liquidations to take care of at least part of the debt. Those combined actions were up from 4,007 in 1984-85 and 5,865 in 1983-84.

New foreclosure proceedings by FmHA were effectively stalled by a federal court order in late 1983 until the agency came up with new guidelines that clarified for farm borrowers the kind of help and alternatives available to them.

After all the legal paperwork was cleared up, the agency began last winter to write get-tough collection letters to thousands of overdue borrowers who had made no payments for three years or more.

Now, according to FmHA officials, despite loan reschedulings, consolidations, reamortizations, interest buy-downs and other steps to help borrowers survive, thousands are nearing the end of the road.

The report showed that as of Sept. 30, the agency had 274,145 active borrowers and that 79,320, or 28 percent, were behind schedule on payments, about the same percentage of delinquencies as in the previous two years.

In all, FmHA has a farm loan portfolio of around $29 billion, accounting for about a sixth of the total debt owed by the nation's farmers.

Other figures provide further evidence of the crunch on thousands of farmers who have used FmHA as the lender of last resort after being turned down by banks and other commercial lenders. For example:

—During the last fiscal year, 5,723 farm borrowers filed for bankruptcy, up from 4,018 in 1984-85 and 3,842 in 1983-84.

—As of Sept. 30, there were 1,514 bankruptcy cases pending, compared with 980 a year ago and 1,140 two years ago.

—There were 111 actual foreclosures by FmHA last fiscal year, compared with 89 in 1984-85 and 356 in 1983-84. Those partly reflect the hold-down caused by the November 1983 federal court order, however.

—In additon, FmHA shared foreclosure actions with other lenders in 850 cases last year, compared with 703 the previous year and 1,066 cases two years ago.

In spite of reforms, many teachers still thinking of quitting

NEW YORK (AP) — Salary gains and other improvements during the past year failed to reduce the number of public school teachers who want to leave the profession, a new survey has found.

A majority of teachers said they endorse many of the aims of school reformers, but only little more than a third said they think reform has helped teachers, according to findings released Tuesday in the third annual Louis Harris poll of teacher viewpoints.

According to the poll, commissioned by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., 55 percent of the teachers said they have seriously considered quitting the classroom, compared with 51 percent in the 1985 survey.

The margin of error was plus or minus 5 percentage points.

The 1986 poll was the first to include the opinions of principals, superintendents, teacher union leaders, state education officials, state legislators who serve on education committees, and deans of colleges of education.

Only 36 percent of teachers felt recent reforms have had a positive impact on teachers, but 78 percent of state education officials and 73 percent of legislators thought reform had helped teachers.

More than 90 percent of teachers and education leaders agree that poor pay is a leading contributor to an impending teacher shortage.

And more than 80 percent from all groups surveyed said teachers are doing an "excellent" or "good" job.

"This survey reinforces the value of teachers in our society and the need to pay them more," said Mary Hatwood Futrell, president of the 1.8-million member National Education Association, the nation's largest teacher union.

"Agreement is highest among those who are closest to the schools, namely, teachers, principals, and teacher union and association officials," she said.

On reform issues, 72 percent of teachers remained set against merit pay, as did 55 percent of principals.

But 73 percent of education college deans favored merit pay, as did slim majorities of superintendents, legislators and state education officials.

Teachers were more favorably disposed to other types of pay scales created under school reform.

By a slim 49 percent to 46 percent plurality, they supported career ladder programs, such as one in Tennessee which divides teaching into different jobs and gives teachers the chance to move up a ladder of higher salaries and greater responsibility.

Mentor teacher programs, in which excellent teachers are assigned to coach other teachers, proved most popular among those surveyed. Of the 44 percent of teachers familiar with such programs, 82 percent favored them, as did over 80 percent of all categories of educational leaders.

Police officer: army failed to cooperate in arms seizure

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The U.S. Army failed to cooperate with local police in an attempt to trace 9½ tons of military hardware seized in Dallas just before the 1984 Republican convention, a Dallas police officer says.

Problems with the 5th Army and its subordinate unit, the 90th Army Reserve Command, were part of a larger lack of cooperation encountered when police tried to trace the origin of the cache, Deputy Chief G.F. Holliday said.

The materiel included submachine guns, thousands of artillery shells, protective clothing for nuclear, biological and chemical warfare, grenades, rockets and bulk explosives, he said.

Holliday said he would outline the problems in testimony today before a Senate Armed Services subcommittee, which is looking into the problem of military hardware being sold on the black market.

"The military refused to acknowledge it was theirs. Everyone kept saying, 'Unless it was stolen from us or the person who stole it was on active duty, we can't get involved,' which is completely absurd," Holliday told the San Antonio Light Tuesday in a telephone interview from Washington.

A 5th Army spokesman, Lt. Col. Scott Ericksen, said he could not comment on Holliday's statements until he researched the allegations.

Holliday and Richard Kirks, an undercover detective who helped make the the seizure, were scheduled to testify this morning in Washington.

"If there was this much found in Dallas, how much is out there?" Holliday asked.

Because the Army could not trace the weapons, the prosecution's case fell apart as they could not prove it was stolen government property, police officials said.

The man whom police said was behind the cache, Richard C. Lopez, received seven years probation and now is suing the city of Dallas to compensate him for the loss of $1 million worth of "personal property."

One of the first places Dallas police turned in the case was the 5th Army, which is headquarters over most of the Army reserve units in the Southwest. Lopez was an Army reservist in Dallas.

Headquarters for the 5th Army and 90th ARCOM are at Fort Sam Houston.

New treatment for dysplasia

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I had a Class III Pap smear and a colposcopy, and was diagnosed as having severe dysplasia. My gynecologist recommended a cone biopsy. I sought a second opinion and found a gynecological oncologist. He "zapped" my cervix with a laser. It was not painful, I walked out of his office less than an hour after walking in, and the portion that was burned off grew back.

I understand that the success rate for this is 90 percent, and all of my subsequent Pap smears have been normal. Please inform your readers of this latest application of laser technology.

DEAR READER — Thank you for writing. Laser treatment of cervical dysplasia (abnormal-looking cells) is gaining wide acceptance and, for many women, is an appropriate alternative to cone biopsy.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am a gay female and want to have a sex-change operation. No editorials, please; just tell me how to find a doctor who will do this kind of surgery.

DEAR READER — OK, no editorializing. Ask a plastic surgeon to recommend a colleague who does this sort of operation. It's a tricky procedure and usually will require the additional services of a urologist or gynecologist.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What medical books or sources of information can tell me more about acute costochondritis?

DEAR READER — Acute costochondritis is inflammation of the cartilage that connects the ribs to the breastbone. Your own doctor should be a valuable source of information. If you want detailed information, go to your local library and look in any standard medical textbook.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Three people in our family wear eyeglasses or contact lenses. Is it possible to make up a sterile eyewash solution for home use?

DEAR READER — Making sterile solutions at home can be a real nuisance, because home sterilization is difficult. Nonetheless, under the guidance of your ophthalmologist, you could do it. Ask him or her for advice.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am 21 and have very badly decayed upper teeth. What would be the best and least expensive way to have them fixed?

DEAR READER — Check with a dentist. Ordinarily, the cheapest way to take care of badly decayed teeth is to have them removed and substitute china choppers. However, if you want to save your uppers, the dentist may be able to repair and cap them; that's a more expensive procedure. You might look into the possibility of being treated at a dental school. Dentists-in-training often do superb (and supervised) jobs for a fraction of the usual cost. It's part of their training and they enjoy challenges.

Dr. Gott's new Health Report, EPILEPSY: THE FALLING SICKNESS, explains the causes, treatment and types of epilepsy. For your copy, send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

Wet grounds hampering tree clearing

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Wet grounds caused by recent rains may prevent a 52-ton tree crusher from clearing forest damaged by pine beetles, a U.S. Forest Service official says.

Forest Service spokesman Hal Glassman said Tuesday the machine has not gotten stuck in the mud but has ceased operations because of the possibility of becoming bogged down.

Glassman said the giant machine probably will not get back into action until later this week, or even later if there is more rain in the area.

Environmentalists have criticized the clearing operation in the Sam Houston National Forest, saying healthy trees and wildlife in the forest are being sacrificed.

Last month, six members of the group Earth First were arrested after chaining themselves to the machine and trees. They were scheduled to appear in court today in nearby New Waverly.

Work at the national forest was suspended for a week while Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox's staff investigated the tree-clearing operation. The moratorium expired last Friday, but Mattox's staff is still studying the case.

Sierra Club member George Russell of Huntsville disputed Glassman's claims about the mobility of the tree crusher, saying the machine became bogged down in mud Sunday after starting up again.

"It was up to its armpits in mud," Russell said.

Dallas shelter may have to close doors

DALLAS (AP) — The homeless were 300-strong, all wrapped in thick clothes and seeking a hot bowl of chili stew at the Stewpot cafeteria.

The scene Tuesday was common this time of year at shelters for the homeless. More and more people want to come in from the bone-chilling cold.

But while temperatures are expected to plunge into the 20s tonight, one of the city's largest shelters for the homeless is threatened by a $42,000 deficit.

The Dallas Life Foundation has had a slight deficit before, said the Rev. James Starkes, who founded the shelter. But he said never has the red ink flowed so deep. The debts were accumulated for food, utilities and supplies, Starkes said.

The shelter was already reeling from increased demand caused by rising unemployment and a drop in contributions.

"One woman who gave us $500 last year is now staying here," Starkes said.

Supervisor Wanda Bailey said all 382 beds were taken Monday night. Others slept on the floor.

Starkes said demand has increased 50 percent and donations have fallen 25 percent in the past three months.

"We think the City of Dallas will rise up to the occasion" and help the shelter retire its debt, Starkes said. "The need has doubled this year and the donations have gone down because more people are out of work."

Howard Matson, a spokesman for Lone Star Gas Co., said the utility has granted the shelter extensions even though the facility is two months behind in its payments.

"We're getting people now who are in this place for the first time," Ms. Bailey said. "A year ago work was not hard to come by, and this year there is not much work."

"I just can't see us closing the place," she said. "We're just going to be overflowing with this cold weather, but we're not turning anyone away."

Proposed temple stirs controversy

PARKER, Texas (AP) — A proposed Hindu temple to be built near Southfork ranch of television's "Dallas" fame has upset residents who claim the 4,000 square-foot temple would be an eyesore, a target for terrorism and decrease property values.

But Dallas area Hindus say they want a place to preserve their ancient culture, and constructing the temple in the rolling hills or this bucolic community north of the city would go a long way toward meeting that goal.

During a hearing Tuesday night, the Parker City Council and Planning and Zoning Board postponed taking action on whether to grant the Hindus a building permit for the site.

"It'll be a blight in the neighborhood, an eyesore," said C.W. Deloney, who lives across the street from the site. "So far, no one wants it out there. It just doesn't fit in."

"If we have to have it, at least make it blend in," said Deloney. "If they built a temple like the (Baptist) church next door, that'll be fine."

Referees 'seem conscious of color' of Dallas jerseys, states Schramm

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Dallas Cowboys President Tex Schramm, an outspoken advocate of instant replay to correct NFL officials' mistakes, said Tuesday he's beginning to wonder if his team is getting a fair shake from the men in striped shirts.

Penalties have figured prominently in the Cowboys' last two losses to the New York Giants and Los Angeles Raiders.

Two holding calls killed the Cowboys' final drive in a 17-14 loss to the Giants and officials called back two touchdowns in Dallas' 17-13 loss to the Los Angeles Raiders on Sunday.

Schramm said the officials seem to be "very conscious of the color of our jersies."

He said the calls in Sunday's game against Dallas appeared to be correct, but added that rules infractions "haven't been called the same way on both sides."

Schramm said their may be a "subconscious" dislike of the Cowboys by some officials.

"They're humans," Schramm said. "There is no in-between with the Cowboys because of our visibility and success. You either like them or you don't. There might be some resentment because of our image or success."

Schramm said he couldn't remember two games back-to-back where the Cowboys were hit with "disastrous calls."

"They say those things even up and we should have a hell of a second half of the season if they do," Schramm said.

Schramm defended the instant replay system, saying "complaints are down. We've taken the pressure off the officials."

Club has to forget 'run of bad luck' says coach Landry

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Tom Landry said the suddenly star-crossed Dallas Cowboys need to forget the last two weeks quickly or face the prospect of watching the NFL playoffs from the sidelines.

"We've had a run of bad luck," said the Dallas coach. "It's haunted us the last two games but we've got to forget it. I hope our team is desperate because that's our situation."

Landry said Tuesday that Dallas, 6-4, would have to win its last six games to win the NFC East.

"As long as our record is no worse than four losses we still have a chance to win the division," Landry said. "I'd have to think 12-4 will win the division and 11-5 or 10-6 might be good enough for a wild card."

The Cowboys lost to the New York Giants and the Los Angeles Raiders the past two weeks. Dallas trails the Giants and Washington Redskins by two games.

Landry said the only consolation he could find in the last two losses was that the Cowboys are a better team this year than the one that made the playoffs last season.

"This team is far superior to the one we had last year," Landry said. "We have better offensive depth and our defense is playing better."

The Cowboys have received crucial penalties at the wrong time the last two weeks. Dallas had two touchdowns called back by penalties in the 17-13 loss to the Raiders.

Asked if he thought Dallas was a marked team by the referees, Landry said "I'd hate to think that was true. Our penalties have come at crucial times. I guess we're just in a streak of bad luck."

Landry then quipped "Tex Schramm is responsible for it all."

Club President Schramm has been an outspoken advocate of instant replay to correct official's mistakes.

Landry said quarterback Steve Pelluer would have to get back on track for the Cowboys to defeat San Diego on Sunday.

Pelluer suffered five interceptions in the loss to the Raiders.

"Steve may be leaving the pass pocket a little too soon," Landry said. "That comes with frustration. He made a brilliant run for a touchdown then it was called back. It was the type of game a young quartrback is going to get into. It was the kind of game where he needed experience to carry him through."

Landry said "We are capable of playing much better the last six games. But this is where we miss Danny White."

White suffered a broken wrist in the Giants' loss.

Landry said running backs Herschel Walker and Tony Dorsett should be healthy for the Chargers' game.

"Herschel's sprained ankle should be better and Tony is learning to live with his bruised knee," Landry said.

The Cowboys are seven-point favorites over the Chargers, who defeated Denver last week under new coach Al Saunders. Don Coryell resigned after the Chargers started slowly.

"All the pressure is off San Diego," Landry said "They are playing much better. It will be tough."

Dallas owns a 2-1 edge over San Diego but the Chargers beat the Cowboys 24-23 in 1983, the last meeting between the two teams.

SPORTS

SWC cagers figured stronger this season

DALLAS (AP) - The Southwest Conference should be a stronger basketball league from top to bottom this year with the spotlight on new University of Houston Coach Pat Foster, who succeeds the legendary Guy V. Lewis.

Lewis ended his 30-year career with 592 victories and Final Four appearances in 1983 and 1984.

Foster proved he could coach at Lamar University in Beaumont where his teams earned two NCAA bids and four National Invitation Tournament invites.

He brings a career winning record of 134-49, ninth in winning percentage among the nation's winningest active coaches.

Foster didn't find an empty cupboard at Houston.

The Cougars return starters Rickie Winslow, who averaged 15 points, and center Greg Anderson, who averaged 19 points and 12.6 rebounds per game. Anderson was the second leading rebounder in the nation.

"I'm excited about the possibilities of this year's team," Foster says. "I think that the combination of seniors like Winslow and Anderson as well as youngsters like Gerry McGee, combined with newcomers to this level of basketball such as Rolando Ferreira and Jerome Brewer, should make for an exciting chemistry."

The 7-foot, 240-pound Ferreira, a transfer, has played on the Brazilian National Team.

Texas Christian is considered the favorite in the SWC but Texas, Southern Methodist, Texas A&M and Arkansas could all be troublesome, not to mention Texas Tech, which won the SWC Post-Season Classic and only lost by six points to Georgetown in the first round of the NCAA playoffs.

TCU Coach Jim Killingsworth returns four starters, including guard Carl Lott, who averaged 15.8 points per game and was named SWC Newcomer of the Year and was second in Player of the Year balloting.

"We have what should be a tougher non-conference schedule than last year, beginning with a road game against an LSU team that went to the Final Four," Killingsworth said. "So after December we should have a pretty good idea how we stand. Looking at things right now I think we will be a pretty good defensive and rebounding teams again this year. And hopefully, we'll be able to ignore that new three-point line enough to run our offense."

Tippens cops honors for defensive work; Tigers battle Friday

Snyder High School junior Trey Tippens took double honors as Coach Dennis Tomlin released his Ragin' Tiger honor roll this week.

Tippens, a 6-4, 210-pounder, was Defensive Player of the Week. He had 12 tackles and graded 91 percent. He was also credited with the Big Hit, for his tackles of Big Spring quarterback Paul Decker.

Snyder was a 16-point underdog going into the contest, but trailed only 21-17 with just under four minute to play. The Tigers lost to the 2-4A champions 27-17.

Vyron Clay, who had 76 yards and a touchdown on just five carries, was chosen as the Most Valuable Player on offense. His efforts went hand-in-hand with Steven Mack, who was honored as making the Big Play of the week.

Mack caught a 13-yard pass on a third down situation that got Snyder out of the shadow of its end zone and later nabbed a 41-yard toss that set up the Tigers' final touchdown.

Best Blocker was center David Martinez, who graded 93 percent for the game.

The Special Teams player was Troy Menix, who was the Tigers' deep snapper. Menix was also cited for his coverage downfield on the punting team.

Snyder will wrap up the 1986 season this Friday in Lamesa. Kickoff is scheduled for 8 p.m.

Underclassmen teams play final grid games Thursday

Snyder underclassman football teams close out their respective 1986 seasons Thursday against Lamesa.

The seventh grade and junior varsity teams will play the role of hosts at Travis Field. Action begins at 4 p.m. with a seventh grade B-team game and follows at 5:30 p.m. with an A-squad contest. The junior varsity plays at 7 p.m.

In Lamesa, Snyder eighth grade B-team takes the field at 4 p.m., the B-team at 5:30 p.m. and the freshmen at 7 p.m.

Scrimmages set Thursday for high school cage teams

Snyder high school basketball teams have scheduled scrimmages here Thursday evening.

Snyder varsity and junior varsity girls will scrimmage teams from Lubbock High and Roscoe beginning at 4:30 p.m. in the high school gym.

The varsity boys will entertain Merkel at 6 p.m. in Scurry County Coliseum.

The public is invited to attend the scrimmages.

Boosters choose officers; memberships are available

Western Texas College Booster Club re-elected Judge Wayland Holt as president for the 1986-87 team. Jack Denman was chosen vice-president.

The club, which met Tuesday, noted that members will be making contacts throughout the community as regards to its membership drive.

Season tickets are available for the WTC home basketball games. Tickets will be offered at Saturday's 7 p.m. game between the Westerners and Hill College.

It was also noted that season passes will be honored for the Duster Thanksgiving Classic, slated for Nov. 28 and 29.

Anyone needing further information concerning the booster club or season tickets should contact Fran Bowden, athletic secretary, at 573-8511.

Free agent list longest in history

NEW YORK (AP) - A record number of major leaguers, boosted by a final-day rush, have filed for free agency. Now, what will happen to them?

Fifteen players, including outfielders Brian Downing of California and Gary Ward of Texas, and pitchers Tommy John of the New York Yankees and Jim Clancy of Toronto, declared free agency Tuesday, bringing the total to 82.

The deadline for filing was midnight, and late paperwork could push the number slightly higher. Among the top names who filed earlier were Tim Raines, Jack Morris, Lance Parrish, Andre Dawson and Reggie Jackson.

This year's total exceeded the 1985 figure of 62, which had been the most since the free agent system began in 1976. Last year was the first in which the reentry draft - which had limited players to dealing with only 13 teams - was abolished and allowed players to negotiate with any team they chose.

But, only two free agents actually changed clubs last season, with Juan Beniquez leaving California for Baltimore and Dane Iorg moving from Kansas City to San Diego.

The agent for Detroit's Kirk Gibson, the biggest name available last year, said his client did not get a single offer from another team. Several other players, whose teams wanted to re-sign them, said they received similiar treatment.

As a result, the players' union filed a grievance charging collusion among the owners. The matter is currently being heard by an arbitrator.

Teams have until Jan. 8 to re-sign their own free agents. If those players do not sign by then, their original teams cannot re-sign them until May 1.

This year, several player agents have expressed the intention to go past the Jan. 8 deadline if they do not receive the kind of offer they want.

Among this year's free agents, which also include Bob Horner, Steve Carlton and Dave Kingman, the Yankees have the most with eight, highlighted by Ron Guidry, Willie Randolph and John. Next on the list are the two American League division winners, California and Boston, with seven apiece. Jackson, Downing, Doug DeCinces and Downing head the Angels' list, while Tom Seaver and Rich Gedman are among the Red Sox who have filed.

The position with the highest number is catcher with 12, including Gedman, Boone, Parrish of Detroit and both Toronto catchers, Ernie Whitt and Buck Martinez.

Utah 104, Dallas 103

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) - A steal by Rickey Green and two three-pointers by Darrell Griffith in the last seven seconds brought Utah from behind 101-99 to a 104-103 NBA victory over Dallas.

"This was the greatest comeback victory I've ever been associated with," said Utah Coach Frank Layden. "We may have come back from a bigger deficit to win, but not this kind of a comeback in such a short time."

The game was tight throughout the first half with the Jazz taking a 27-26 lead after a quarter of play.

Astros pitcher...

Scott wins Cy Young Award

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Two years ago, Mike Scott's days in the major leagues appeared numbered. Now the numbers are in his favor.

At age 29, after compiling a miserable 5-11 record with a 4.68 earned-run average for the Houston Astros in 1984, Scott's future was cloudy. But then the 6-foot-3, 215-pound right-hander learned the split-fingered fastball.

He's been brilliant ever since and on Tuesday was named winner of the Cy Young Award as the best pitcher in the National League.

Scott, who helped the Astros win their first National League West championship since 1980, had an 18-10 record with a major league-leading 306 strikeouts and 2.22 ERA.

Scott, whose no-hitter on Sept. 25 against San Francisco clinched Houston's division championship, received 15 first-place votes, six more than runnerup Fernando Valenzuela of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

In voting conducted by the Baseball Writers Association of America, Scott totaled 98 points, 10 more than Valenzuela, who won the award as a rookie in 1981. Balloting was completed before the postseason games.

Weinberger lays wreath on tomb for Veterans Day

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — They came in the rain, some in wheelchairs, others with canes or coats with empty sleeves tucked in their pockets, the visible scars of war.

Some were accompanied by family; all with heavy hearts to pay homage to America's great silent army, the more than one million men and women who fought and died in wars from the American Revolution to Vietnam.

Under grey skies and a cold, driving rain, Secretary of Defense Caspar W. Weinberger placed a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknowns at Arlington National Cemetery on Veterans Day.

The 11 a.m. ceremony Tuesday came 68 years to the day and hour of the signing of the armistice that ended what was then known as the "Great War," but now remembered as World War I.

"We remember America's veterans because we are the beneficiaries of their service. We also remember because the peace they secured for us is so easily taken for granted," said Weinberger, a World War II Army veteran.

Weinberger urged America to honor its veterans by maintaining its military strength to ensure freedom and peace.

"Let there be no mistaking the message from the thousands of heroes who stretch in silent formation across these hills and fields. Their message to us is clear: 'Safeguard what we have won; honor us carrying forward our cause.'"

Criticizing "those who would grasp every excuse for weakening America's defenses," Weinberger used the occasion to urge support for President Reagan's military buildup.

"It is ... important, with each passing year of peace, to remember the short-sightedness that cost so many lives earlier this century. Wishful thinking and imprudent budget priorities could be just as tragic now as they were then," he said.

Veterans associations representing the 50 states, Jews, Roman Catholics, Purple Heart and Medal of Honor winners graced the amphitheater stage as the Navy Band played and 2,000 people witnessed the proceedings.

Across the Potomac River, in the nation's capital, veterans, many in wheelchairs and with missing limbs, ignored the rain to pay homage to their fallen comrades at the Vietnam Veterans Memorial.

Above the V-shaped black granite monument bearing the names of America's more than 58,000 Vietnam-era dead and missing, stood a 15-by-25-foot flag made entirely of carnations and roses; one for each of America's fallen heroes.

Only woman scientist on project dead at 67

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Leona Marshall Libby, who worked with Enrico Fermi on the first nuclear reactor and was the only woman researcher on the Manhattan Project, has died. She was 67.

Mrs. Libby, whose disciplines included chemistry, physics, astronomy, geophysics and environmental studies, died Monday night at St. John's Hospital in suburban Santa Monica, said her son, John Marshall III.

He didn't give a cause of death, but said she had been ill for some time.

Mrs. Libby, who published about 200 scientific papers and wrote three books, including "The Uranium People" and "Past Climates," entered the world of research when women in the ranks of scientists were few.

"She said there were people who told her to go back to pots and pans and probably she just sort of outworked and outshone some of the best of them," Marshall said Tuesday night.

Born Leona Woods in LaGrange, Ill., she was studying at the University of Chicago when she saw the man who would become her first husband, John Marshall Jr., smelting bricks of metal in a hallway.

"She said to him, 'You guys have discovered how the chain reaction works!'" her son recalled her telling him. "The next day, Fermi said that she should be working with them (on the Manhattan Project).

"The project was so secret, they had to figure out something to do with a clever woman."

Sample PPST tests available at local college

College students planning to take the PPST on Nov. 22 can take sample tests in workshops planned at Western Texas College on Nov. 17 and 20.

The PPST (Pre-Professional Skills Test) is required for admission to teacher certification programs in the junior year of college. Anyone who plans to take the test in the future can also attend the local workshop to help determine areas in which they may need to prepare.

"Most students pass all three tests on their first try," Dan Osborn, WTC counselor, said. "Math seems to give students more trouble than the reading or writing sections."

The workshop will be held from 2-4 p.m. in room 104 of Building 2C on the north side of the campus.

Ornaments focus of dough art classes to start

Making Christmas ornaments will be emphasized in dough art classes scheduled for Nov. 18 and Nov. 25 at Western Texas College.

Classes will meet from 6:30-9:30 p.m. each evening. Virginia Forshee will be the instructor and will be showing students how to make the dough, add the tempra for color and shape the dough. Students will make at least four ornaments to take home and will receive patterns for 10 ornaments.

Fees will be $20 per person. Students should bring a cookie sheet and large bowl to class.

To enroll call 573-8511, ext. 240.

Murder trial goes to jury Wednesday

him once in the upper part of the back.

According to the statement, the clerk made no sound of any kind when shot.

Johnson said he and Miles then left the store, taking money and a carton of cigarettes each.

According to the confession, they then drove straight to Colorado City where they parked in Ruddick Park and divided the money before going home.

Armstrong also introduced testimony Tuesday afternoon from two individuals who said that Johnson had told them about the robbery.

The first was the defendant's brother-in-law Donald Robinson of Colorado City.

Robinson testified that he had asked Johnson to loan him a few dollars on a Sunday afternoon in March. Johnson he said, gave him some money and told him he had gotten it from the Allsup's Store in Snyder.

Robinson testified he asked Johnson if anyone could identify him with the robbery.

According to Robinson, Johnson said "Dead men can't talk," and laughed.

Also offering testimony based on verbal statements from Johnson was Edward Ramshur of Austin.

Ramshur had been confined in the Scurry County Jail in April for probation revocation. At that time, he had been kept in the same cell block with Johnson.

Ramshur said Johnson retold a story of robbing the Allsup's store and killing the clerk.

Other testimony offered by the prosecution Tuesday afternoon included that of firearms expert J. Allen Jones of the Southwest Institute for Forensic Sciences in Dallas.

Jones testified that he had run tests on the .25 caliber pistol owned by Janet Miles and allegedly used to kill Huddleston. Also tested were the bullet taken from Huddleston's body and a spent shell casing found on the floor of the Allsup's walk-in cooler.

According to Jones, the barrel of the pistol and the bullet taken from Huddleston could not be positively matched.

He testified, however, he had gotten a positive match between the gun and the shell casing based on a microscopic comparison of marks left on the primers in the shell.

Following a short recess Wednesday, Judge Gene Dulaney read the charge to the jury and final arguments were heard from both Armstrong and Conard.

In closing, Armstrong told the jurors the physical evidence he had presented had painted a picture of a "cold blooded premeditated killer."

In his arguments, Conard asked the jury to put aside emotions about a horrible crime and to use their logic and reason to render their verdict.

The defense council attacked the statements read by Warren as "what Mr. Warren wanted them to say."

The only defense witness called by Conard was the father of Janet and Amanda Miles, George Edward Miles.

The elder Miles testified that on a Sunday morning in March — March 23 — his daughter Janet had given him a .25 caliber automatic pistol which he had taken to work with him at the cotton compress.

Miles testified that the gun was loaded when he got it and that he had fired six rounds from the weapon at a barrel behind the compress building during the day.

Janet Johnson had testified she placed only six shells into the gun and Conard contended if it had been used to kill Jack Huddleston there would not have been six bullets in it for Miles to fire later Sunday.

During his cross examination of Miles, however, Armstrong succeeded in loading seven rounds into the pistol's clip—showing that a fully loaded gun could have fired one bullet with six remaining.

Following that demonstration, Conard left the courtroom to consult with members of Johnson's family before returning to rest his case.

million. The majority of this, some $10.8 million, was comprised of local ad valorem taxes. Another $1.1 million was received from the state with some $488,000 in federal funds received.

As for expenses, the district paid out close to $12.4 million in operating costs. This left an "excess" of some $128,000 last year, down from an excess of almost $289,000 reported the previous year. Exact figures for each were $128,561 and $288,935 respectively.

All trustees attended Tuesday's meeting to include Mike Jordan, board president, Charlene Light, Allen Grimmett, G.A. Parks Jr. and J.D. Hinton.

In other school business, the board voted to:

—Grant a request for reduced fees at Tiger Stadium submitted by the Sports Committee of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce. Fees approved are for playoff games secured here this year and include $200 for a day game and $250 for a night game.

—Accept a bid of $24,781 submitted by Texas School Bus Center Inc. of Austin for a 53-passenger school bus. The purchase price, listed without trade-in, includes a stipulation that the company will offer a trade-in price of $900 if the district fails to sell a 1975 model at public auction this spring. The bus to be traded, a 1975 International, currently has almost 121,000 miles of use.

—Table two bids received for a 1987 four-door sedan to be used as the superintendent's vehicle. Since only two bids were received, trustees indicated they might re-bid the vehicle, changing specifications to allow for a wider range of cost estimates.

—Appoint the district's textbook committee. Members include Superintendent Bob Hawes, serving as chairman; and Kathy Moore, health; Troy Scott, physical education; Sammie Webb, basal reading; Jo Ann Peek, basal reading; Billie Adams, handwriting; Helen Mock, handwriting; Virginia Quintela, basal reading; Sue Eiring, basal reading; Dale Hamby, Texas history; Kenneth Gibson, earth science; Roy Burk, chemistry; Larry Scott, U.S. government; Phyllis Smith, typewriting; and Vicki Nelms, health education.

—Accept the resignation of Opal Lavender, resource teacher at the high school; and Beth Curry, a librarian for East and Central Elementaries.

—Approve the employment of Keitha Brown for the SHS resource teacher position.

—Approve the transition back to fulltime status for Albert Lewis, social studies teacher and coach at the high school. He had been on temporary leave through November.

ing.

The proposal is to add tree-shaded gazebos plus other trees in the courtyard and to add benches and planter boxes along the sides.

An existing stage at one end could be used for outdoor programs, Anderson noted.

Other additions might include native flowers and plants, plus such "low maintenance" shrubbery as ground cover.

Some type of sealant for the asphalt surface–which is now broken in several places–was discussed also.

Anderson said the plan to beautify the area came from a committee comprised of both school and parent representatives.

Members of the committee, which includes Anderson, are Dale Byrd, who serves as chairman, John T. Best, Joe Coronado, Lillian Durst, Linda Gutierrez, Terry Huestis, Carol Miller and Janeen Patterson.

The next step is to finalize details and to obtain bids for the work, items which will be presented to the school board also.

Tuesday's go-ahead was made during a special noon meeting of the board.
