AGED WOMAN NAMED IN 'INSURANCE DEATH' PLOT

Ray Keech Wins Most Exciting Automobile Race In Speedway's History

THRILLS PACK EACH MINUTE OF BIG EVENT

Brick Track Leadership In Seven Drivers' Hands During Dash

1 KILLED; 21 CARS LOST

Winner Fails to Equal Record of De Paola On Speedway

By WARREN BROWN

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 30. (US)—A craving for speed, that brought 175,000 persons to the Indianapolis speedway today brought death to one driver, Bill Spence of Los Angeles, brought destruction, partial or total to 21 of the original 33 cars that started in the seventeenth annual 500-mile race, and in the final analysis, brought victory to Ray Keech, the pilot of a Simplex piston ring special.

Keech, who at one time held the established world's record for speeding an automobile, 207 miles per hour, in a jaunt across Daytona Beach, failed in winning today's race, to equal the speedway record of 101.23 miles per hour, made by Peter De Paolo, in 1925.

Most Exciting Race

He succeeded, however, in driving his car home first in what must go into the records as the most exciting of all the seventeen brushes around the brick track that is the speedway.

No less than seven times, in the course of the race, did the leadership change. And in the last 10 miles, Keech, who had gone into the lead at the 392nd mile, was pursued so closely by Barney Kloepfer, relief driver for Louis Meyer, Miller Majestic special, that less than a lap, and much less than a minute's time separated them.

Lou Meyer Stopped

Keech had taken the lead when Lou Meyer, last year's winner, and pace setter for a great portion of the route today, was forced to the pits for gas, oil, water and a change of tires.

This misfortune cost Meyer the race, but if that was a bad break for him, it was nothing by comparison with the ill luck that overtook the Miller Majestic.

There it was booming along, less than a lap behind Keech and his Simplex, and not more than five miles to go, when the car suddenly developed an ailment that required its immediate presence at the pits. While it was there, and the diagnosis was taking place, Lou Moore, the original driver, replaced Kloepfer. He succeeded in getting the car back on the track and around the back stretch but there it folded up and passed out of the race.

Woodbury Crashes

The rapid change of fortunes was merely a repetition of what had been going on, almost from the start of the race, when Cliff Woodbury, who had qualified his Boyle

Jack County's Biggest Gusher Flows 50 Hourly

Jack county's biggest gusher well apparently had blown in Thursday night when the Security Drilling company's No. 1 Shanafelt, one and a half miles west and north of Bryson, was flowing steadily at the rate of 45 to 50 barrels of high grade oil per hour.

The well topped the sand at 3,055 feet and barely scratched the formation when it began paying off handsomely. It is located south of the Harper production on the Leffel farm and west of the Texas-Petroleum Producers wells on the G. L. Jones land. Pipeline connections are being made and Friday more sand will be taken when it is expected the production will leap upward.

PRESIDENT IN PEACE APPEAL

Hoover's Speech Leads Memorial Services

By WILLIAM P. BLYTHE

WASHINGTON, May 30. (US)—In Arlington National cemetery today President Hoover led the nation in Memorial day services with a stirring appeal for world-wide peace and a promise of "just preparedness" for the protection of "our people."

In this beautiful valhalla, surrounded by the tombs of some 35,000 of the country's most distinguished warriors and with the heroic survivors of many wars about him, the president challenged the powers to join with the United States in a sincere reduction of naval fighting forces.

Speech Solemn

President Hoover spoke solemnly. He expressed a hope that the Kellogg treaties for the banning of armed conflict would prove the stepping stone to world peace. But he spoke with frankness.

"Today as never before in peace, new life destroying instrumentalities and new systems of warfare are being added to those that even so recently spread death and desolation over the whole continent of Europe," he declared.

"Despite those lessons every government continues to increase and perfect its armament. And while this process is being made in the development of the science of warfare, the serious question arises—are we making progress in devising ways and means to avoid these frightful fruits of men's failures that have blotted with blood so many pages of the world's history."

Hope in Treaty

The president then said that there is "a great hope" in the adoption by 40 countries of the Kellogg treaty. It is a declaration, he said, which springs from the "aspirations and hearts of men and women throughout the world. But, notwithstanding this noble assurance,

SERVICES HELD OVER BODY OF GEO. ROCKHILL

Remains of Youth Drowned In Lake Wichita Sent To Iowa Home

SEARCH SUCCEEDS

S. Y. Ross and Eddie Malone End 63-Hour Hunt On City Reservoir

Funeral services for George Rockhill, 19, who was drowned in Lake Wichita Monday evening were held at 3:15 o'clock from the Merkle Undertaking company chapel Thursday afternoon. Dr. S. S. McKenney, pastor of the First Methodist church of this city, conducted the services. The body was forwarded at 4 o'clock to Clarinda, Iowa, where burial will be held.

Following a continuous search of more than 63 hours, the body was recovered by S. Y. Ross and Eddie Malone, both of Wichita Falls who were in a boat in charge of Pleas Brown of 604 Travis street. The body was brought to the Merkle Undertaking company in a Merkle ambulance, which had remained at the lake throughout the duration of the search.

Hook Pierces Ear

The body was found by the men with the aid of a special type of drag after combing the lake with the appliance since 7 o'clock Thursday morning. The body was raised to the surface after one of the hooks of the drag had pierced the ear of Rockhill and evidently forced his body from an obstacle under the water, as the remains immediately floated to the surface after being dislodged by the hook. The body was recovered from the lake channel about 400 yards from the spot where it went under Monday afternoon.

Besides his uncle, N. H. Martin of Wichita Falls, Rockhill is survived by a grandmother, Mrs. Alma Martin, and a sister, Mrs. Montgomery Wilson, both of Clarinda, and another uncle, George E. Martin of Denver, Colo.

Wave Caused Drowning

Rockhill was drowned Monday afternoon while setting a trot line at a point about 500 yards from the pier with his friend, Wright Cox, 22, who was employed by the Texas Electric Service company with Rockhill. A large wave which came up over the boat knocked the youth into the water. Cox attempted to rescue his friend and was pulled into the water when his friend began fighting him. After holding Rockhill above the water for nearly five minutes, Cox became exhausted and was forced to let go of his hold.

After reaching the boat, Sox signalled a number of persons on the shore, who immediately came to the spot and began their search. The body was never seen again, up until the time when he was found Thursday morning, although a number of reports were current to the effect that a piece of his flesh and shirt were found on grapnel by volunteer searchers.

Uncle Aids Search

N. H. Martin, Rockhill's uncle, and Cox remained on the waters almost continuously until the body was recovered from the lake. Police Chief Frank Burns praised the volunteer searchers Thursday for their willingness to aid in the work despite the frequent high winds and cold.

Chief Burns also extended thanks to the owners of a number of large boats which were cut loose from their moorings by the directors of the search when it became necessary to call in all of the smaller craft from off the waters.

George Rockhill came to Wichita Falls three years ago from Clarinda, Iowa, and was in the employ of the Texas Electric Service company up until the time of his death.

Rotary Convention to Adjourn Today After President Is Named

DALLAS, May 30. (UP)—Only one piece of unfinished business remained tonight for delegates to the 20th annual Rotary International convention here. Announcement of the new international president and board of directors will be made from the platform at noon tomorrow. The convention will adjourn shortly thereafter.

Balloting on the officers and resolutions ended at noon today and the election committee spent the afternoon counting the votes.

Candidates for president are Eugene Newsome, of Durham, N. C., and Raymond J. Knoeppel, of New York City.

Official proceedings, which have run smoothly throughout, were practically ended today with the presentation to the convention of the recommendations of the resolutions committee. Sixteen resolutions were submitted. Of these two were rejected.

The only controversy of the entire convention came when the British and United States delegates locked horns over the resolution to reduce the per capita tax from $4.50 to $4.00. The British proposal was rejected after considerable debate.

The assembly also rejected another British resolution to abolish the last part of the Rotary motto, "Service above self—he profits most who serves best."

LABOR CANDIDATES SCORING GAINS

LONDON, May 31.—(Friday)—(UP)—Ramsay MacDonald's Labor party was making great gains in the number of its seats in the house of commons and the Conservative party was lagging well behind in general election returns at a late hour this morning.

With more than one-third of the contests decided, there was a growing possibility that the Labor party would increase its representation in the commons to such an extent that it would be able to form a government.

At 2:30 a. m. 212 of the 606 seats contested were reported complete.

The Labor party candidates had won 116 of the 212 seats, representing a gain at the expense of the other parties of 54 seats. Only three seats held by Laborites in the last parliament had been lost.

The Conservative party, now in power under Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, had won 79 of the 212 seats. The Conservative candidates had lost 50 seats which they previously held and had gained but one at the expense of another party.

The Liberal party had 13 seats of the 212, representing a gain of seven. The gain, however, was offset by the loss of 10 seats which they previously had held.

YOUTHS GIVEN 'HOME' IF THEY BUY POLICIES

Landlady Accused of Plotting Death of Young Printer

TWO 'VICTIMS' SAVED

Insurance Company Turns Down One, Another Scents Trouble

MACON, Ga., May 30. (AP)—Authorities today sought to link Mrs. J. C. Powers, aged landlady, with several "insurance plots" and simultaneously planned a trial for her and Earl Manchester, 21, a roomer, on charges of killing James Parks, 25, for his insurance.

Chief of Police Ben T. Watkins said the 65-year-old woman had used newspaper advertisements "offering willing young man a home and family companionship" as a lure. At least two young men besides Parks, found dead Tuesday, answered.

One, Hollis L. Mullis, was sent to an insurance examiner by the landlady Feb. 4, and was turned down on a $12,000 policy. T. S. Martin, a photographer's assistant, today said he answered Mrs. Powers' "ad," and that she urged him to let her pay the premium on a policy and become beneficiary. He never returned.

Suspicion was directed to Mrs. Powers in the Parks slaying when detectives found her "burning something in a stove" while the temperature outside was 84 degrees. The woman confessed verbally before 10 witnesses, but later repudiated her confession.

Manchester told his story and signed it before a notary public. He said the aged woman offered him $1,000 if and when she collected $14,000 insurance on Parks' life.

Finally accepting, the confession ran, Manchester lured Parks to a lonely spot on the river front, and shot him twice.

WOMAN WAILS IN HER JAIL CELL

MACON, Ga., May 30. (INS)—The Bibb county jail tonight housed a strange couple, haunted by impending doom, hopelessly looking ahead to death in the electric chair.

A weeping, disheveled old woman, her gray hair stringy about a face swollen and discolored by tears, huddles on a cot and whimpers her fear of that fate.

An embittered young man, hard and cold in spite of his youth—he is only 21—sits nonchalant and unworried in his cage and describes a lure of honeyed words and motherly affection from "that old witch" which led him to murder.

Insurance Murder

They are Mrs. J. C. Powers, 65-year-old operator of a rooming house and Earl Manchester, of Rochester, Mich., the alleged tool of her plot, who are charged with the death of James W. Parks, a young printer who was slain, in the theory of police, for $14,000 insurance of which Mrs. Powers was beneficiary.

Mrs. Powers raised her reddened face from her cot a moment at the appearance of a reporter beside her cage this morning, and her response to his request for a statement was a wail:

"There's nothing ahead of me but death!" she cried. "Look at me—the first woman to sit in the electric chair in Georgia! Death—death—death!

She dropped her face again to the cushion of her cot.

"Oh, my!" she moaned. "Did you ever know of anyone to have so much trouble? I never thought all this would happen. I don't want to live—but to think—the electric chair! Oh, my!"

Woodruff Explains Need Of Historical Museum

AUSTIN, May 30. (AP)—Need of a museum to house state historical exhibits and relics was brought to the attention of the legislature in its first special session by Representative Grady Woodruff, Decatur, when the house was asked to accept as a gift to the state the service flag of A. & M. college bearing 55 gold stars.

Woodruff opposed acceptance of the flag with the statement that all similar schools had an equal right to preserve their standards in the capitol, and that there was no place to drape the emblems.

"Every organization that desires to should be given an opportunity to present the legislature with their flags," he said. "I believe that there is a need for a museum, not only for these emblems but also for other trophies which public-spirited citizens may in later years give to the state government."

Action on the resolution calling for acceptance of the A. & M. flag, which bears the stars of 2,200 former students in the service of their country during the world war, was deferred until the approaching special session.

Both owner and occupant are deputy constables here.

Neither of the two men were near the house Thursday morning when the place became ignited, and although the fire department was quick to arrive, the fire had made such headway that only the back walls were left standing.

preparedness for war still advances steadily in every land."

In view of this situation the president pointed out that pessimists already are beginning to term the Kellogg pact as a pious expression from foreign offices and a trick of statesmen on the hopes of humanity. He declared that he could not accept this view and called upon the peoples of the world to clothe their ideals and faith with action and seriously begin reduction, instead of limitation, of armaments. He said that navies should be measured by their defensive, rather than their offensive strenth.

Defense Obligatory

The president, by faith a Quaker and opposed to war, made it plain however, that he does not intend that the United States shall be weakened in relative strength with the other powers.

"To make ready for defense is a primary obligation upon every statesman and adequate preparedness is an assurance against aggression," he declared. He pointed out that the strength in fighting ships required by nations is but relative to that of the other powers, and that if all nations would seriously reduce their armaments they could still maintain the same relative strength.

He emphasized that in any negotiations for reducation of armaments, however, the United States would insist upon a parity with the British, or any other sea power and that this point is conceded by the nations of the world.

Reviewing previous efforts to bring about reductions in naval armaments the president declared that the net result had been the "building of more fighting ships." The time has come, he declared, "when we must know whether the Kellogg pact we have signed is real and whether we are condemned to further and more extensive programs of naval construction."

Distinguished Audience

The president's address was received with sustained applause, by the veterans of America's wars since 1861 and a distinguished group of diplomats of the foreign powers, with whom Secretary of State Stimson is dealing in an effort to bring about reductions in sea strength.

The ceremonies at Arlington were impressive. As the president entered the reservation he was greeted with the presidential salute of 21 guns. Leaving his automobile he walked to the tomb of the unknown soldier and while a guard of honor composed of veterans of the civil-Spanish American, Indian and world wars stood at attention, he placed a laurel wreath on the grave.

Major General John L. Clem, the famous "drummer boy of Shiloh," and yet a chipper figure in his G. A. R. uniform, met Mrs. Hoover. She carried a small bunch of white Calla Lilies and placed them beside the wreath.

The president then walked into the beautiful amphitheater where the services were begun. Senator Dale, Vermont, who was to have made an address, could not be present on account of illness.

In the last six months farmers of the Gold Coast of Africa received $40,000,000 for their cocoa crop.

hundred acres of fertile farm lands were inundated, and about 100 head of livestock drowned.

Houston Better Off

At Houston, the situation seemed improved, although intermittent showers still were falling.

Streams around San Antonio, and further south, were falling after reaching their highest mark in a number of years. Traffic over the Austin-San Antonio highway was resumed after an interruption of two days on account of washed-out bridges.

Rain Records Fall

In North Texas, no serious damage had resulted from swollen streams, although rainfall records of several years' standing had been broken for May. Many acres of lowlands were under water.

Unsettled weather was forecast for the whole of Texas during the next 24 hours. Madison county continued to be assaulted by the highest flood waters in its history, caused by an unprecedented May rainfall, the precipitation for the past 30 days measuring 24½ inches.

Madisonville and Midway, near each other, apparently bore the brunt of the attack, authough blocked highways and crippled telephone service had made it impossible to check the county's loss. The situation was aggravated by continued rain.

Six thousand acres of farm land were estimated under water, and many more threatened as the Trinity river and other streams continued to climb.

WICHITA SECTION DRENCHED AGAIN

Unwelcome rainfall which at 5 p. m. Thursday had totaled 1.46 inches to shatter records of the last five years for total precipitation in one month, was still the order Thursday night, heavily banked clouds indicating the showers would continue at least into the early hours Friday.

The rain was not regarded as beneficial as it added delay in planting of crops.

Thursday the total precipitation for this month was well over seven inches, as compared with a record of 6.28 inches which fell in June, 1928.

The heavy showers here were duplicated over the entire area of Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma, according to reports from dispatchers of the various railroads. No traffic tie-ups or serious damage was reported.

The streets of Wichita Falls were transformed into the usual river-like proportions, many of the early morning workers being forced to wade broad gulfs on their way downtown.

Among the points in this area receiving the heaviest rain were Wellington, which received two inches, and Memphis, which received one and one-half inches. Despite the general rule, farmers at Memphis regarded the rain as very beneficial to young cotton.

200 POISONED BY SANDWICHES AT FIREMEN'S CONVENTION

GALA SUPPER NEARLY FATAL

Muskogee Families Laid Low by Ptomaine

MUSKOGEE, Okla., May 30. (AP)—Sandwiches served at a box supper here last night for delegates to a state firemen's association convention were blamed for the illness of 200 persons who were recovering tonight from effects of ptomaine poisoning.

Exact cause of the poisoning had not been determined. Several kinds of meat were used in the sandwiches.

The victims, most of them firemen and members of their families, were stricken shortly after the supper. Many dropped to the floor while at a dance which followed. Others, most of whom returned here for treatment, were attacked after leaving Muskogee.

All who were taken to hospitals had been released tonight.

Condition of Mrs. George Higginbotham, wife of the Muskogee fire chief, who was dangerously ill for several hours, was reported improved.

The Muskogee fire department force was so weakened by the ptomaine attacks that volunteers were recruited to fill the places of the ill firemen.

Closing sessions of the convention today were cut short as a result of the greatly diminished attendance.

ELECTRA, Texas, May 30.—Little Miss Martha Ray, 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. The child was severely bitten and scratch.: before her father succeeded in removing her to safety. The cat then turned on the man and inflicted several deep scratches on his arms and face.

Upon examination of the cat it was found to have had a well developed case of rabies.

The patients are receiving the Pasteur treatment at the local hospital.

Telephoning From a Train

An invention that eventually will enable railroad passengers on a train to pick up a telephone and talk with any person on the continent was perfected in Canada the other day when a conversation was carried on between officials of the Canadian National railway in Toronto and other officers on a speeding train. J. C. Burkholder, formerly of the Bell laboratories in New York, is shown above with an operator, getting the connections as the instrument Burkholder designed transmits the voice to the telegraph wires alongside the track. Below is shown the train from which the transmission was made. Note the aerial along the top of the cars.

SOLONS WANT SUMMER REST

Hoover Forces Make Plans For Recess

WASHINGTON, May 30. (INS)—Confident of President Hoover's approval, administration leaders on Capitol Hill went ahead today with their plans for an all-summer recess of congress.

A stiff legislative program, however, must be completed before congress goes on its vacation. The president has insisted on final enactment of both the farm relief bill and the new census and reapportionment bill before congress recesses and administration leaders have agreed.

Jones In Revolt

The one-man revolt of Senator Wesley L. Jones, Republican "whip" of the senate, who protested against any recess until the tariff bill becomes a law, found virtually no support from either Republican or Democratic chieftains. Administration leaders though declared that before congress does go home, the senate must agree to fix a definite date for final enactment of the tariff early next fall.

The insurgent group has demanded revision of the senate rules, too, before congress recesses. The insurgents initiated the drive for publication of all senate roll calls and for public consideration of presidential nominations three years ago and with victory so close, they fear a long recess may block adoption of the reform.

The leaders on Capitol Hill, with Jones excepted, were about unanimous for a recess.

Watson for Rest

Senator Watson, of Indiana, Republican leader of the senate, said: "I certainly do favor a recess until the tariff is ready for the senate. If I have my way, it will be until Sept. 9."

Senator Smoot, of Utah, Republican finance leader, said: "There is no reason for congress remaining in session until the committee finishes with the tariff. I expect it will take until Sept. 1 before we can report the bill."

Senator LaFollette, of Wisconsin, Republican insurgent said: "If we have a vote on the farm bill, national origins and senate publicity, I favor a recess. It usually takes the finance committee about seven weeks to prepare a tariff bill and congress does not need to remain in session during that period."

Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, the Democratic finance leader, said: "It will take the finance committee at least six weeks to consider the tariff bill. I see no objection to a recess for that time."

Speaker Longworth, of the house, said: "Before a recess can be taken, congress must finally enact the farm bill and reapportionment and the senate must agree to vote on the tariff before the end of November. If that is accomplished, I favor a recess."

Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, Republican leader of the house, voiced the same idea.

BLAST WRECKS POWDER VAULT

Heat Is Believed Cause Of Explosion

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., May 30. (AP)—Powder stored in an underground vault at the Remington-Union Metallic Cartridge company's plant exploded this afternoon, shaking up that immediate section of the city. Heat was believed to have been the cause of the explosion.

Fire apparatus and police reserves were rushed to the plant, but there was little need for their services, as the powder in that particular storage place had been burned up.

The plant was closed for Memorial day and no one was known to have been near the powder section. The police report was that no one was hurt and damage was not serious.

In some houses and buildings window glass was shattered.

"I Had Lost All Interest in Life But Since Taking Orgatone I Feel Like a Different Man Now," Says W. J. Henson.

"I've looked for a long time for a medicine that would do for me what Orgatone did," said W. J. Henson, residing at 3005 Grant, Wichita Falls, while talking with the Orgatone nurse.

"For several years, I have been in a terrible condition, and I suffered from stomach and digestive troubles. I had a very severe chronic case of stomach trouble. Everything I ate soured on my stomach, which caused gas to form, and I wouldn't eat because it hurt me so. I lost in strength and energy all the time and grew gradually worse. I was restless at nights and could never get a good night's sleep. I had heard so much about Orgatone and read so many endorsements in the local paper given by friends of mine that I decided to try it.

"I feel like a new man now, and after I had taken Orgatone three days I was able to go to bed at nights and really sleep all night without having to toss and roll around in bed. My stomach trouble doesn't bother me as it did, and I eat anything I want now. I was sort of skeptical about Orgatone, for I had taken so many different medicines and treatments, but it was a lucky day for me that I bought it. I am certainly pleased with the results I have derived. I now have a good appetite and no longer nervous, and my strength and energy is coming back to me. I am very thankful for what Orgatone has done and is doing for me and if I can say anything to help others know about it I'm more than glad to do so, for it certainly is a good medicine."

DIX DEFINES "GOOD SPORT"

Writer Tells Qualities Girl Should Have

"My Idea of a Good Sport Is a Girl Who Plays Fair, Who Gives the Other Fellow a Square Deal and Who Meets the World With Humor and Philosophy," Says Dorothy Dix.

A school girls asks me if I will give her my idea of a girl who is a good sport. Well, my dear, my idea of a girl who is a good sport differs from that which seems to be popularly held by the young women of today. They call themselves good sports because they get drunk and pet and smoke and swear and stay out at nights until they are a scandal in the neighborhood.

I don't think that sort of girl is a good sport. I think she violates every rule of sportsmanship. I think she is a rotter because she cheats on her family. She cheats on the husband and children she may some day have. She lowers the standards of her sex and she doesn't even keep her own slate clean.

My idea of a girl who is a good sport is one who plays fair. And she begins with her mother and father. She doesn't take everything and give nothing. She makes a return for the love and care and money that have been spent upon her.

She doesn't grab off all of the pretty clothes and good times and privileges and perquisites in the family and then never so much as say "thank you" for them.

She doesn't let mother sew her fingers to the bone making her a party frock and then, when mother asks her where she is going and when she will be back, tell her it is none of her darn business and she will come in when she pleases. She doesn't keep her father humpshouldered paying her bills and then scoff at his opinions as those of a senile dodo.

On the contrary, she recognizes that her parents have worked hard and made many sacrifices to rear her and give her the advantages she has had, and that the least she can do is to give them a run for their money by being sweet and affectionate and companionable to them and causing them as little anxiety as possible.

My idea of a girl who is a good sport is one who has the brave attitude toward life. There is not a whine in her whole system. She never sits down and weeps and laments because she has to stand behind a counter instead of before it, and because she has to ride in the street car instead of in a Rolls-Royce.

Perhaps she would like to be a play girl instead of a working girl. Undoubtedly she would like to wear the silks and satins and jewels and furs that she sells to richer girls. Surely she would like to lie abed of a morning and have her coffee and rolls brought to her by a maid instead of having to punch an office time clock, but if she would, you never hear of it from her. She never bemoans her fate. She meets it with a smile on her lips and high courage in her heart, and thanks God that she has the intelligence and ability and grit to hold down a good job.

She parks her feminine wiles along with her vanity case in the cloakroom and earns her salary as a man does his, by faithful and intelligent service. She also leaves behind her the poor-little-helpless-girl stuff, because she is fair enough to recognize that when a woman comes in competition in business with a man she has no right to expect him to show her favors.

The girl who is a good scout is a square shooter with other girls. She doesn't steal another girl's steady away from her. She doesn't vamp another woman's husband away from her. She keeps hands off other women's property. She doesn't kiss a sister on her cheek while she is clawing the character off her back. She doesn't disillusion a man about a girl he is taken with by calling his attention to how thick her ankles are, or how knobby her knees are, or the ridiculous way she dresses, or that she is beautiful but dumb. She doesn't sympathize with every married man she mets and pity him because his wife doesn't understand him, or isn't appreciative of him.

The girl who is a good sport shoots square with boys. She doesn't lead them on and make them think that she is in love with them just because she wants a lot of dates. She doesn't jolly a poor simp into taking her to a party and then ditch him and spend the evening dancing with other men. She isn't a gold-digger who has a birthday every time she sees a new bag, or bracelet, or wristwatch she wants and who jockeys some poor, unfortunate youth who is in love with her into debt to buy it for her.

She doesn't consider it any more sporting to hold up a man with a pair of blue eyes than it would be to hold him up with a pair of blue-nosed revolvers, and she thinks that it is playing it pretty low down for a girl to take advantage of a man's infatuation with her to rob him. So she eats enough to sustain her before she leaves home and turns her head the other way when she passes a jeweler's window and cultivates a taste for street cars instead of taxis and generally goes easy on a boy's pocketbook.

The girl who is a good sport plays the game. She is not pulled up by prosperity, nor downhearted over misfortune. If she is rich, she is not a snob. If she is poor, she is not a toady. She is neither a braggart nor a self-pitier. She neither runs after men nor away from them. If they show her attentions, well and good. If they don't, also well and good. Life is full of a number of things for her besides dates.

Finally, the girl who is a good sport carries on. She is no quitter. She doesn't sit down and wring her hands and cry every time she meets a difficulty. She doesn't give up when the sledding gets hard. She simply bends to her work and puts her heart and her back in it and struggles on to success. All of the big business and professional women are good sports. So are the wives who hold their husbands.

Because they don't give up the first time things go wrong.

So that is my idea of a good sport. A girl who plays fair, who gives the other fellow a square deal, and who meets the world with humor and philosophy.

NEW LIGHT ON OVERWEIGHT

Not Caused By One Food Alone—Many Factors Must Be Considered

It is always interesting and important when sound scientific opinion explodes a popular theory. Recently we asked one of the most prominent scientific authorities on diet to make public his opinion about the cause of overweight. "Too many people today blame sweets for everything," he said "but I can tell you positively that overweight is not due to sweets alone.

"The simple truth is that some people gorge one foodstuff, others another. Men and women who are overweight have become so by the heavy overeating of starches, or sugar, or fats and oils.

"I am certain that I am right in saying that the average increase in overweight cannot be laid to the increasing intake of sugar or any other single food."

Perhaps the most valuable conclusion to be drawn from this famous man's remarks is that a balanced diet is most conducive to good health. Many foods that rightfully belong in such a diet will be more readily eaten if sugar is used to make them more appetizing.

Sugar brings out all the best flavors of cereals, fruits, vegetables and many beverages. It freshens and invigorates the appetite. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

Miss Flora Bruce Greenwood, accompanied by her grandmother, Mrs. A. D. Anderson, has arrived from Philadelphia to spend a short vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Greenwood, 1805 Pearl street.

Miss Greenwood is a talented harpist. She has studied for two years at Curtis institute under Carlos Salvado and just before leaving had an enviable honor bestowed on her when she appeared in a harp ensemble recital at the institute. It is said to be very unusual thing for Salvado to select for the ensemble any one who has not studied with him for a number of years, and it is always the twelve best harpists whom he selects.

Salvado's summer home is in Seal Harbor, Maine, and on July 10, Miss Greenwood and her grandmother will leave Wichita Falls to go there. Mrs. Anderson has a cottage in Seal Harbor and Miss Greenwood will work with Salvado while there.

French Music Hall Artist Plans Tour Of World at 60

PARIS, May 30. (UP)—Mistinguett, the irrepressible, is planning to desert the bright lights of Paris for a world tour at the age of 60 years.

The popular owner of "the loveliest legs in Paris," is busy ordering what she hopes will be the most sumptuous wardrobe ever worn by a star. One order which she placed in Paris amounted to $80,000.

The $80,000 bought what Mistinguett described as her "superfrock" it is of woven gold lace, fitting closely to the body and with a full skirt, resembling a robe of medieval days. The principal item on the bill was a butterfly design of diamonds, rubies and sapphires.

The idol of Montmartre, who had her legs insured for $100,000, probably is the richest music-hall artist in the world. Her holdings in the Moulin Rouge, the Montmartre theater, were responsible for much of her fortune. She appeared there for many years.

Virginia Lady, Who Was Weak, Reports Improvement After Taking Cardui.

Lynchburg, Va.—Mrs. L. T. Marsh, 715 First street, this city, says:

"My health had grown very bad. I was weak and listless, and the least effort on my part put me to bed. I had not strength enough to walk a city block.

"On a friend's suggestion, I bought a bottle of Cardui, and began to take it. When I had finished it, I was noticeably better. I was so pleased with my improvement that I kept on taking the medicine regularly until I had taken six bottle. I was then feeling so well that I stopped.

"Two years ago, we drove to Virginia from Florida in our car. The weather was bad and I took cold. I became really ill. I lost in weight, and was very much run-down. My appetite all but left me.

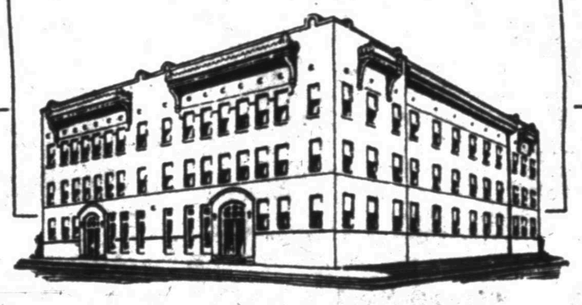

"I began taking Cardui, and in a short time I felt much better. After I had taken several bottles of this medicine, I felt as if I had been made over. I was stronger than I had been in months. I have been in splendid health ever since."

FIRST VISIT TO POPE PLANNED

Italy's Rulers to Visit New State Soon

By PRINCE PIGNATELLI

ROME, May 30. (US)—Although the date of the first visit of Italy's sovereigns to the pope has not yet been fixed, the special ceremonial for the visit has been arranged.

Yesterday Cardinal Prince Pignatelli Granito di Belmonte, president of the papal commission of protocol and ceremonial, presented to the pope the detailed plans for the visit.

The sovereigns will be received by high vatican officers at the "Teutonic Square," at the frontier of Vatican City, near the Charlemagne arch. Over 12,000 Italian soldiers will be massed in St. Peter's square, while Vatican City soldiers will watch at Teutonic square.

The ceremony inside the vatican palaces will follow the protocol used at the time of the visit of the Spanish sovereigns. There will be a solemn reception in the consistorial hall, the king will read a speech and the pope will answer. Following that there will be a presentation of personages of both courts. Premier Mussolini will follow the sovereigns and will receive the honors due his rank.

In the consistorial hall the throne for the king and queen will be elevated at the left side of the papal throne. The cardinals will be seated in front of the thrones. The king will enter with Cardinal Nannutelli, dean of the College of Cardinals, at his right hand, and Cardinal Merry Del Val, first cardinal of the order of priests, at his left. The queen will have at her left side Cardinal Bisleti, first cardinal of the order of deacons.

It is understood that the king and queen will be accompanied by the crown prince and all the princes of the house of Savoy.

After the reception the royal family will be received in private audience in the hall of the small throne.

Attorney Praises Vernon Farm Loan System

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, May 30.—The plan originated by directors of the Vernon National Farm Loan association, which provides for use of dividends accruing to the association from stock in the Federal Land bank as a fund for short term loans to farmers in emergencies to enable them to make interest payments on their loans from the Federal bank, was highly prased by Judge Lewis Rogers, general attorney of the Federal Land bank of Texas, at the closing session held here Tuesday. The federal board suggests that all associations adopt the plan originated by the local directors, the attorney said.

John E. Jones of Munday was elected president of the North Texas district at the closing session. E. E. Balckmon of Bowie was elected vice president and Frank Bunting of Henrietta was re-elected secretary.

Prohibition to Stay and Law Will Be Enforced Ultimately, Says Mabel

FORT WORTH, May 30. (INS)—"The eighteenth amendment is here to stay. It can be enforced. Ultimately it will be enforced."

This was the terse comment here today on the prohibition situation by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, who recently resigned as assistant attorney general of the United States.

She added that "even more important than the enforcement problem is obedience and respect for the law upon the part of the public."

Mrs. Willebrandt declined to discuss her resignation from the department of justice.

Mabel Enthusiastic

This woman, who has long been active in public affairs, who by her own efforts rose from a school teacher to the highest position ever held in the American government by a woman, has entered upon another pioneer field—the field of aviation law.

She is to become Washington counsel for the Aviation Corporation. She spoke enthusiastically of her new work.

"To me it is a challenging field," she said.

"There is a vital need today for the clarification of aviation law," she declared. "The millions of dollars flowing into the industry and the need for the safeguarding of the lives of pilots and passengers demand that the law upon the subject be stabilized.

"It is a pioneer legal field. What legal steps have been taken in the various states are inadequate and in many respects conflicting. Only nine states have adopted a uniform aviation law and several of those states are in a section that has not made great strides in aviation progress.

Stable Law Needed

"The need for stabilized law is imperative. Safety measures regarding inspection of ships, the licensing of pilots, the marking of airports, are important to the aviation industry and to the people whose lives it affects.

"Law has as a usual thing been a matter of slow growth. It has followed development. But aviation by its very nature demands that law must keep abreast of the industry for the protection of investments and human life.

"Aviation has made marvelous strides with scarce any legal development to correspond. It produces the need for a peculiar type of law. For instance, railroad law followed railroad development but aviation law cannot be that. The industry has grown too rapidly to admit of a slow development of the law. The need for clarified law on the subject is acute. Uniform laws in all states is important."

Mrs. Willebrandt said that the Aviation Corporation "proposes to be active in an attempt to aid in the clarification of aviation law." She added that the aviation industry generally is "eager for this development."

Mrs. Willebrant came here from Waco, where she received the honary degree of bachelor of laws from Baylor university and delivered the commencement address.

She praised Reg Robbins and Jim Kelly for their endurance flight and remarked that "Texas is a natural laboratory for the development of aviation."

1,000 DIE IN TRIBAL CLASH

Fierce Desert Battle Rages In Arabia

JERUSALEM, May 30. (UP)—One of the fiercest desert battles in many years was reported here today in advices which estimated that as high as 1,000 tribesmen had been killed.

Rival Nejd tribes—supporters and opponents of the Nejd ruler, Ibn Saud—took part in the bloody clash, southeast of El Sarar, in Central Arabia. The advices said the underlying cause of the battle was the long-standing animosity between the loyal and rebel troops.

The Jelawah tribe, which has been loyal to Ibn Saud, had entertained the sheik of Ajmaan, who is one of the leading rebels, according to advices received via Beirut. When the rebel sheik departed the Jelawahs followed his company and murdered the sheik.

The sheik's company then attacked the Ajmaan fighters.

The sheiks of both the loyal and rebel Nejd tribes were killed as the battle raged. Some reports of the encounter placed the number dead well above 1,000, but it was impossible to verify the advices.

KING GEORGE AGAIN SERIOUSLY ILL

PUBLIC KEPT IN IGNORANCE

True Condition of Sovereign Is Suppressed

By ROBERT WELLES RITCHIE

LONDON, May 30. (US)—To prevent any possible reaction in the British elections today, the news of the renewed illness of King George will not be given to the public until morning.

Great crowds gathered in districts where election returns were being bulletined and projected on screens, but were kept in complete ignorance of the king's condition so that no public alarm would be stirred up tonight.

Suffers Relapse

The announcement that King George had been taken with a relapse was given to the London newspapers with orders that it was not to be published until Friday morning.

It was learned, however, that the king has not left his room since Sunday afternoon when he returned from the picnic gardens at Frogmore where a celebration was held in honor of Queen Mary's birthday. It was reported that his majesty contracted a slight cold from exposure to the cold wind that blew, though the sun shone brightly.

After the garden party the king returned to Windsor castle. Sir Stanley Hewitt was called in and has ever since remained in residence at Windsor in order to be near the royal patient.

Physician Called

Home secretary Sir William Joynson-Hicks tonight declared that he did not believe there was any cause for alarm, as he stated that he had not been officially advised of any change in the king's condition.

However, during the afternoon Lord Dawson of Penn, the king's physician, was summoned hurriedly from Paris, arriving by airplane at Croydon shortly after 7 o'clock this evening and rushing by motor to Windsor castle.

The king was said this evening to be suffering from a feverish condition.

TEARFUL GIRL HONORS 'REX'

Disconsolate Child Places Flowers on Dog's Grave

DENVER, Colo., May 30. (UP)—A little girl with tears streaming down her cheeks knelt here today at a freshly dug grave in one of the most unusual cemeteries in the United States.

In her grimy little hands she carried a bedraggled bunch of pansies with which to pay Decoration day homage to Rex, her playmate, buried there.

Rex, a collie dog, "with spots on his back," died two months ago and was buried in Denver's unique dog cemetery.

The little girl, Elinor Cannon, 5, was disconsolate.

She approached the iron gate to the cemetery slowly. She clenched the pansies tightly with one hand while with the other she tried to brush away the tears that welled in her bright blue eyes.

Child Falters

At the gate she stopped a moment. Before her she saw row upon row of small graves, each marked with the name of some's pet. There were almost 350 graves in the grassy, bowered inclosure. Some were plain, with only simple wood markers to identify them. One marker said:

"May Pal, 1924-1929."

Other graves were marked with inverted tin cans containing painfully scribbled notes detailed the names and the dates of departed pets.

Still others of the canine graves were more pretentious. One had an engraved marble slab commemorating "Lady."

Little Elinor slowly turned her gaze over the cemetery. Since she had helped her mother bury Rex she had forgotten the location of his grave. Tears flowed anew in her eyes as she stepped forward through the graves to find the resting place of the playmate who had "spots on his back."

Finds Grave

Finally she found the grave under an elm tree, with its fresh green grass molted by the sun with beamed through the thick branches above.

Elinor flung herself down upon the small mound. Under it was Rex. He had helped to place him there. The pansies, forgotten fell from her hand. She sobbed convulsively.

Elinor's mother also had tears in her eyes. She knelt beside her daughter and helped her arrange the pansies over the friend "with spots on his back."

Elinor was just one among many of those who remembered the burial ground for dogs on Memorial day.

The success of the previous performances was repeated on the third night. The delightful comedy again won the appreciative interest of the audience.

Preaching and Healing Services Draw Good Crowds to Tabernacle

Constantly increasing attendance at preaching and healing services being held in a tabernacle at Twenty-second and Yale, in the Sibley-Taylor addition, was reported Thursday night by R. L. Cotnam and George E. Gray, evangelists from San Antonio, who are conducting the meetings.

The work of the Cotnam-Gray party is being carried on in two distinct types of meeting, Mr. Cotnam said. At 7:15 p. m. each day, a 30-minutes period devoted to instruction in healing by faith, and to prayer, is held in a prayer room which has been erected adjoining the main tabernacle. Preaching and song services are held at 7:45 p. m. Prayers for healing are accompanied by anointment with oil, the leaders stated.

The meetings are conducted on an inter-denomination basis, converts being urged to join one of the local church congregations, according to their own choice. It was said that the Cotnam-Gray services will probably continue for two months.

Salvation Subject Of Revival Sermon

A large crowd defied unsettled weather to attend the Thursday night revival service of the Scotland Methodist church, when additions since the meetings began on May 22 were raised to a total of 35, according to Rev. John E. Wade, pastor.

Rev. Ben Bell, pastor of the Sibley-Taylor Methodist church, who is preaching during the special services in the Scotland addition, spoke Thursday night on "The Conditions of Salvation."

"Our present life offers us our only opportunity to prepare for a future life," said the speaker. "There are many philosophies of life, made by man, which are not accepted with the Lord, and He is not in them. There is one way whereby we may be saved, and that one way is through Jesus Christ, the Son of God, who took upon Himself the burden of human life, and demonstrated the perfect philosophy of living in terms of love, and in deeds of kindness."

The revival meetings will continue through the remainder of this week, with preaching every night at 8 o'clock, and on Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

$25,000 Suit Expected To Go to Jury Today

The case of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Parton against the Fort Worth and Denver railroad, seeking $25,000 damages in connection with the death of their 15-year-old son in a crossing accident last November, is expected to go to the jury in the 78th district court Friday morning. The taking of testimony was practically completed Thursday evening. Judge W. W. Cook will charge the jury Friday and limited arguments from opposing counsel will close the case.

Raymond Parton was killed last November when the car in which he was riding was struck by a Fort Worth and Denver passenger train at Iowa Park. An earlier trial of the same suit two months ago resulted in a hung jury.

A War That Never Ends

IN THE Missoula (Mont.) Sentinel the other day there appeared a a news item telling how a huge tract of forest land in western Montana, bearing several billion feet of lodgepole pine, had been abandoned to the mountain pine beetle.

Our dwindling forest reserves are highly valuable, and science has found some ingenious ways of protecting them; yet, in this instance, the beetle has come out victorious." There has been unconditional surrender. That particular Montana forest has been won—in open combat, so to speak—by the insect world.

Every so often something like that happens to remind one of the never ending war that the human race is compelled to wage with insects.

There have been, indeed, scientists who have predicted that insects may eventually win possession of the entire earth—ousting man, and all other mammals, and ruling supreme from pole to pole.

Probably that's an over-pessimistic view. But consider the great number of fronts on which the battle rages.

The boll weevil has done untold damage to the cotton growers of the South. It has, literally, caused a good many casualties; poverty, hunger and suffering have visited many homes because of this pest's activities.

In the corn belt the villain has been the corn borer. What the boll weevil has done in the South the corn borer has done in the Middle West. The suffering and hardship that this pest has caused have been very real.

Now Florida is host to a new one—the Mediterranean fruit fly, which is hitting the citrus fruit region a terrific blow. Beyond doubt many Florida families that would have been prosperous and comfortable this season will know want and actual distress because of this overseas insect.

You could multiply such instances indefinitely. Before the Panama canal could be dug the mosquito had to be driven back. Before the rich interior of Africa can be made to blossom as it should the tsetse fly will have to be conquered. Before the great Amazon basin can take its place as one of the rich garden spots of the earth the pium fly and the yellow fever mosquito will have to be subdued.

So it goes. We hold our places here only by dint of a constant struggle; a struggle that is so long drawn out and so much a part of everyday life that we take it as a matter of course.

Sometimes it seems as if we are here at all only on sufferance. Nature is forever striking with weapons we cannot easily combat—floods, hurricanes, tornadoes, earthquakes and the like. Between times she sends the less spectacular but more deadly shock troops of the insect world against our position.

It is a long and rather desperate war, when you stop to think about it. And victory won't even be in sight until we get sense enough to stop fighting among ourselves and devote all of our energies to the conquest of nature.

The Age of Miracles

WE NEVER are any more greatly mistaken than when we say that the age of miracles is over. Sometimes it seems as if the age of miracles had only begun.

Consider this: The Pathe moving picture people had a camera at Churchill Downs to take moving pictures of the Kentucky Derby. In a New York studio they had another film and apparatus to record the sound. The sound waves came to the studio by radio and were duly recorded; and the machines were arranged so that sight and sound were perfectly synchronized. When the photographer got back to New York it was an easy matter to put the two films together—and lo! there was a "talkie," technically perfect, of the great race!

Think over that little bit of work for a minute, and see if it doesn't come close to filling every requirement for a first-class miracle.

Pecan Growers Given a Knockout

TEXAS is a great pecan producing state. Texas pecan producers asked for protection from foreign competition. Now, what did the Republican tariff makers do? They deleted from the original bill duties on pecans, throwing them on the free list.

The original bill had recommended three cents per pound on unshelled pecans and six cents on shelled.

Now pecans, Texas pecans, and the pecans of all other American states will be on the free list with foreign crude. Texas is the great oil producing state. Its pecans are the pride of the pecan growing world.

Texas independent oil producers and Texas pecan growers are among the orphans which the Republican tariff makers flatly declined to afford protection.

Mellon in the Limelight

ANDREW W. MELLON is ever in the limelight but never as a publicity seeker or a wild political exhorter. Eastern newspapers carried a story that Andy had written out his resignation. This brought forth a quaint denial: "My attitude as to the question of resignation is the same as Benjamin Franklin's was under similar circumstances, when he said, 'I am deficient, I am afraid, in the Christian virtue of resignation.'" Why should the secretary resign? He was one of the makers of Warren G. Harding. He was the strong right arm of Calvin Coolidge. He had a powerful voice in the nomination of Herbert Hoover. He will grab his hat and walk out when the spirit moves him.

TOONERVILLE FOLKS By Fontaine Fox

The Day Book of a New Yorker
Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, May 31.—The theatrical season has come to a close and, as Willard Keefe, Broadway bon vivant, observes, it was an unusual one, though generally considered an appalling year. Among the major points of interest:

Managers were convinced that mere "names" mean nothing, as exemplified in the startling failures of Jack Dempsey, Estelle Taylor, "Peaches" Browning and Peggy Hopkins Joyce. The public didn't display the expected interest in seeing news personalities put into plays. Theater goers want theatrical talent and good shows, not a museum of famous personages.

Missing from the theatrical scene were such old dependables as Al Jolson, John Barrymore, Ina Claire, Laurette Taylor, Grace George, Lionel Barrymore, Marjorie Rambeau, Jeanne Eagles, Leslie Howard and the Astaires.

The critics became heretical, considering their usual worship of Eugene O'Neill, by clubbing his "Dynamo," although his "Strange Interlude" continued its successful way. The season gave Mr. Ziegfield his most successful year, what with "Whoopee," "Show Boat," "Rosalie" and "Rio Rita" all turning in large gobs of coin.

Well, and during the same season the theaters won over the reformers for the first time, "My Girl Friday" escaping a charge of being naught. Two plays proved a woman in the cast is not necessary for success: "Journey's End" and "Wings Over Europe."

An excellent story of revenge is told by Walter Winchell, the Broadway commentator, concerning John Farrow, now of Paramount's local scenario department. Four years ago he was a sailor whose life was made miserable by the captain and chief officers on a trading ship. He vowed that some day he would even things.

Recently (with the aid of his savings from a $75 weekly wage) Farrow cleaned up in Wall Street. One of the first things he did to celebrate, according to Winchell, was to buy the major interest in the trading vessel and to fire the captain and his chief officers.

During a recent visit to the Metropolitan Life Insurance company's building in Madison square I was surprised to learn that the company really owns and occupies all the buildings on one side of the square, from 23rd to 26th street. But more surprising was the revelation that a person can walk from one end of this chain of buildings to the other end either underground or via the "air route."

The company has a pedestrian subway system connecting the buildings and this is complemented by a series of bridges over the intervening streets.

They tell me that many such bridge and underground connections exist in New York and, according to our old friends, the experts, the whole city some day will be built upon that principle. I hope so, because I hate automobiles unless I am riding in one.

A crowd of men standing in front of a display window in Broadway gaping at a miniature statue of a nude lady . . . . The sudden appearance of dozens of umbrella venders on rainy days. They seem to hide in alleyways and pop out the minute a rain drop falls . . . . Men and women lazily sitting in front of the public library . . . . There are some days when the crowds on Fifth avenue look dowdy rather than smart—a terrible disillusionment. . . . The Times square loungers . . . . The old New York Sun editorial room, where Dana once ruled, now a Chinese restaurant . . . Reminds me, for no particular reason, of Mark Twain's desk still used by the city editor of the Sacramento Union.

"Mimi," the Belasco spectacle of hell, which has been running more than 25 weeks, is going to close soon. It could remain at its present theater two months more, but it will take eight weeks to dismantle the scenery.

Hell, particularly as Belasco envisaged it, is a rather intricate matter of machinery and some real construction work had to go into its conception and completion. No backdrops for Belasco—no asbestos curtains, for what chance has asbestos in hell?

Eugene O'Neill's "Dynamo" also was rather spectacular looking if the theaters keep on the way they are going with scenery, the major forces of theatrical enterprise will eventually consist of steel workers, mechanics, electricians, welders, chemists and now and then—an actor.

Every year La Follia di New York, oldest Italian weekly newspaper in America, gives an annual concert. Caruso, Gigli and other famous opera stars have sung for it. Last week such a party was given and I marvelled at the number of people who really are feverish about good music.

La Follia has been described as one of the most quaint forms of journalism in America. One example of its quaintness, incidentally, is that it advertises "the only paper in the world in which Enrico Caruso's sketch appeared every week for 18 years." All right, then this is the only column in the world in which no crack was made about that Mrs. Gann-Vice President Curtis society argument in Washington.

The Once Over
By H. I. PHILLIPS

Now It Is All Clear

She: Darling, what is the Federal Reserve board?

He: You don't really mean to sit there and say you don't know what the federal reserve board is, do you, hon? I'd hate to hear you admit it in company.

PHILLIPS

She: Do you know what it is?

He: Certainly, I supposed everybody knew.

She: Well, what is it?

He (uncomfortably): Well, it's er, it's a board—ahem — it's a group of men who, er, who, well it's a kind of round table of big men who have charge of the federal reserve.

She: What's the federal reserve?

He: It's a reserve controlled by the federal government. You know what a reserve is.

She: It's a place where deer are kept.

He: Something like that, except that in this case it is a place where money is kept. When the banks want money they go to the reserve for it. It's very simple.

She: But what's the federal reserve board got to do with the stock market?

He: The board fixes the discount rate.

She: What's the matter with the discount rate?

He: Nothing.

She: Then why does it need fixing?

He (desperately): It fixes the rate in the sense of setting a rate. The whole question of credit is wound around the discount rate.

She: How?

He: Well, it's all mixed up somehow with the question of broker's loans. Now when . . .

She: What are brokers' loans?

He: You see, when I buy a stock on margin my broker has to pay for it outright and to do this he has to borrow the money and pay interest. The interest he has to pay depends on the rediscount rate added to the gold reserves and divided by the unfilled tonnage or something. Now the rediscount rate is all up to the federal reserve board plus the question whether Secretary Mellon will resign.

She: But who are the members of the federal reserve board?

He: General Dawes, Dwight Morrow, Flagpole Kelly and the Four Marx Brothers, I think. Mr. Wickersham is the chairman . . . No. I'm thinking of the crime commission. Now what these men want to do is to curb speculation.

She: But why?

He: So there will be no wheat surplus and there can be a radio in every home . . .

She: What's the wheat surplus got to do with it?

He: (too far over his head to be coherent): It's the wheat surplus that causes the Florida fruit fly and when the fruit fly is let loose it strikes at the two things most dear to the American heart.

She: What are they?

He: Home and mother.

She (still looking very dumb): That's the first time I've ever had it all explained so I could understand it.

U. S. BANS 800 FOREIGN BOOKS

Bocaccio and Candide Ruled Out

By M. L. RAMSAY

WASHINGTON, May 30. (US)—Approximately 800 foreign books are barred from the United States as "obscene" and therefore unfit for the American public to read, it was learned today.

The astonishing range of this official "black list" maintained by the bureau of customs was disclosed as a fight was being waged against the exclusion of Voltaire's classic, "Candide," banned recently by the collector of customs at Boston.

May Be Seized

Meanwhile a still more drastic literary censorship is in the making. The tariff bill passed by the house contains clauses which may be construed to bar certain writings of a political character, and which provide for seizure of an entire shipment where a book contained in it is held "obscene" or otherwise offensive.

The bureau's "black list" is a bewildering jumble of literary classics that have stood the test of centuries, medical studies of sex problems, and Spanish and French novels and what not whose titles appear to stamp them as commercialized pornography.

It is marked confidential, but Acting Commissioner of Customs J. D. Nevius readily furnished a copy upon request.

Decameron Barred

On it appear such classics as Bocaccio's Decameron, the Arabian Nights, Rousseau's Confessions, Gautier's Mademoiselle of Maupin in a Spanish translation, the works of Rabelais, and his Gargantua and Pantagruel specifically.

Mingled with these are "Radiant Motherhood," "Married Love" and several other works of Dr. Marie Stopes, a noted English physician and authority on birth control, and Dr. Krafft Ebing's "Psychopathia Sexualis."

As to these no provision is made for medical men who want them for scientific study and reference, according to Nevius.

"We have made no exception," he said.

Flanking the medical and literary books—nearly all obtainable at any well-stocked American bookstore—are a host of newer books, and books apparently more erotic than literary. Some of these at least, despite the ban on their importation, are not unknown in the "bootleg" book trade.

Lists Grows Bigger

The bureau's list comprises the "prohibition publications" that have been "detained and proceeded against" by collectors or other authorities under section 305 of the 1922 tariff act. The list grows as additional books are excluded.

Any book that is already on the list ordinarily is barred, Nevius said, although a collector may give it new consideration. The importer may appeal from a decision, or the collector himself may refer the question of entry to Washington.

Nevius, who is the deputy commissioner, decides most of the appeals to Washington, he said. He has long exercised governmental authority, and the pitfalls of censorship hold no terrors for him.

He has pointedly definite opinions about the merits of books.

"Certainly no one would deny that the Decameron tales are lascivious," said Nevius, "though they are prettily written. Every one of the stories is lascivious."

He was asked about Dr. Stopes' books.

"I haven't read them in detail," Nevius replied. "I dipped into one here a few days ago." Nevius pointed to "Enduring Passion," which was banned in the new supplement. "It doesn't look to me as though it's very scientific."

Japanese Forests Swept by Blaze

TOKYO, May 30. (AP)—The virgin forests of the southern part of Saghalien island were burning furiously today. The fires started a week ago.

An official report on the situation at the town of Esutori today declared 550 houses had been burned and the town almost wiped out. A correspondent from a Tokyo newspaper declared the village resembled Tokyo after the 1923 earthquake, with the dead lying in the streets.

The death list was put at between 50 and 100, the injured at hundreds and the homeless at thousands.

Hoover's Son Eager To Form Radio Chain

KANSAS CITY, May 30. (UP)—Herbert Hoover Jr., 25, following in his father's footsteps as a graduate of Stanford university and an engineer, was silent today on the subject of politics, but eager to talk of his plans for a chain of radio stations in connection with the Western Air Express, with which he is connected. Young Hoover said he probably wouldn't visit his father at the White House "for a long time" unless "the company" sent him to Washington.

Health And Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper

(Copyright 1929 by The Bell Syndicate Inc.)

Dr. McCoy's menus suggested for the week beginning Sunday, June 2:

Sunday—Breakfast: Crisp waffle, with a little maple syrup, small piece of broiled ham. Lunch: Corn on cob, spinach, salad of chopped cabbage and cold cooked string-beans. Dinner: Baked chicken, asparagus, steamed carrots, salad of raw celery, raspberry ice cream.

Monday—Breakfast: Coddled eggs, melba toast, five stewed prunes. Lunch: Grapefruit as desired. Dinner: Broiled steak, squash, cooked celery, salad of lettuce and tomatoes, pineapple whip.

Tuesday—Breakfast: French omelet on re-toasted shredded wheat biscuit, stewed raisins. Lunch: Boiled potatoes, cooked greens, such as kale or dandelions. Dinner: Roast mutton, cooked string beans, buttered beets, salad of shredded raw cabbage, cup custard.

Wednesday — Breakfast: Whole-wheat muffins, peanut butter, pear sauce. Lunch: Raw apples and pecans. Dinner: Vegetable soup, boiled lean beef, baked grated carrots, spinach, salad of chopped cucumbers in beef jelly, dish of berries.

Thursday — Breakfast: Poached eggs on melba toast, stewed raisins. Lunch: Stewed corn, five-minute cabbage, lettuce. Dinner: Broiled lamb chops, cooked celery, eggplant, cauliflower salad, jell-o with cream.

Friday — Breakfast: Cottage cheese, sliced pineapple. Lunch: Choice of as much desired of any one of the fresh acid fruits, such as apples, oranges, etc. Dinner: Baked sea bass, *baked stuffed tomatoes, string bean salad, no dessert.

Saturday — Breakfast: Baked eggs, toasted Triscuit, stewed figs. Lunch: Pint of buttermilk, 10 or 12 dates. Dinner: Roast pork, French artichokes, baked ground beets, molded vegetable salad of green peas, celery, baked apple, no cream.

*Baked stuffed tomatoes: Remove the interior from the desired number of firm tomatoes, but do not peel. Mix this scooped out portion with the same amount of chopped mushrooms and a smaller amount of finely ground celery. Fill tomatoes to overflowing and around sides with this mixture, and sprinkle melba toast crumbs over all. Bake in earthenware or cooking glass in moderate oven for about 20 minutes. Longer cooking renders the tomatoes too mushy). Add a generous lump of butter to each tomato with a sprinkling of chopped parsley when ready to serve.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Swollen Nose

Question—Mrs. A. D. writes: "My nose is swollen all the time. Is there any relief in a correct diet?"

Answer—You do not say whether or not the swelling is caused by pimples or boils in your nose. If this is the cause, of course it can be entirely eliminated through a correct diet. A red nose usually comes from some irritation of the alimentary canal and is also curable through dieting and promoting intestinal cleanliness.

Sudden Hungriness

Question—Reader asks: "What is the cause of sudden hungriness? If I do not eat the minute I feel hungry I become terribly weak. I am also underweight."

Answer—Most people will have a feeling of gnawing when their stomachs become empty, although this is not true hunger. This gnawing or empty feeling often makes a person nervous and he will suffer from the delusion that he is suddenly quiet weak. He will then believe that he feels strength immediately upon eating. Food cannot give you any real strength until after it has been in the body for at least four hours. For your underweight I would advise you to select food very carefully and not try to "stuff" to gain. Just keep your diet well balanced.

Arterial Tension

Question—E. I. H. asks: "What is arterial tension? How do we know when we have it?"

Answer—The amount of arterial tension which you have is determined by an examination with a blood pressure meter which every doctor uses in his office. Such arterial tension may come from hardening of the arteries or from nervousness which causes the arteries to become contracted most of the time.

Temperance Head Attacked for His 'Intemperate' View

By F. S. ROOSA

WASHINGTON, May 30. (US)—"A little group of wine-drinking society women who are uncomfortable under prohibition."

Thus did Dr. Clarence True Wilson, head of the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church, in an interview today, brand Mrs. Charles H. Sabin of New York and those associated with her in the organization of a nationwide organization to oppose prohibition.

Doctor Wilson's statement was immediately resented not only in "wet" but in "dry" circles. It was described as "intemperate" and as "unbecoming" in view of the type of women associated in the movement, which was launched in Chicago.

"If Doctor Wilson would be as careful of his own actions in the interest of decency as these women are, he would be better off," was the caustice comment of Representative Sabath, of Illinois.

Representative Britten, of Illinois, was particularly resentful of the Wilson interview.

"It ill becomes a professional lobbyist like Clarence True Wilson to cast aspersions upon a group of respectable women who have set about to modify a silly law, just because he disagrees with their view," he declared.

Telephone Officials View Dalhart Lines

DALHART, Texas, May 30.—Ed Brink Jr., of Chicago, chief engineer for the Standard Telephone company, and Charles Wood, Spokane, Wash., who is to be plant superintendent for the Texas and Oklahoma division of the Standard Telephone company, are in Dalhart this week making surveys for additional equipment, which will add 200 telephones to the Dalhart local circuit.

Doyle Peyett, also of the Standard Telephone company, will begin stringing an extra wire from Dalhart to Texhoma to relieve the congested condition between long distance service by the above named cities. This will give three circuits from Dalhart to Texhoma.

WALKUP AND DEVANEY HURL SPUDDERS TO 5-1, 7-0 DEFEATS

PAYNE, STEEN HIT OFF HILL

Lapan's Homer Gives Galloways Only Tally

Special to The Record News.

FORT WORTH, May 30.—The Wichita Falls Spudders tumbled into seventh place today when they were decorated with a double defeat by the Fort Worth Panthers. A veteran and a rookie conspired to subdue the Spudders, old Jimmy Walkup hurling a 5 to 1 win in the opener and Young Devaney chucking a 7-0 shutout in the seven-inning nightcap.

Walkup held the Spudders to eight scattered hits in the first contest and was master of the situation all the way, while the Cats hammered George Payne off the hill in the fourth inning, scoring five runs with the aid of nine hits off the veteran. Goff finished.

Breeze for Devaney

Devaney blanked the Spudders with four knocks in the second pastime, curtailed by agreement. Milt Steengrafe also failed to go the route, the big righthander being replaced by Wiltse in the third round. Milt yielded five runs and six hits. Wiltse hurled the remaining rounds.

Stapleton got two hits in the first game and one in the second to lead the Spud attack. Lapan's home run gave the Galloways their lone tally of the day.

Sports Take Lead

Another change today in the Texas league was the assuming of first place by Shreveport, Waco falling to the runnerup spot.

After tomorrow's game here the Spudders go to Shreveport for one contest Saturday and two games Sunday, and return home Monday.

BILL SPENCE KILLED AS KEECH WINS 500-MILE AUTO RACE

LOUIE MEYER CLOSE SECOND

Record Throng of 175,000 Sees Thrilling Grind

valve special, as fastest in the race, crashed into the north wall on his third turn around.

It found the leadership held, successively by Leon Duray in a Packard cable special, by Deacon Litz, in a Russo-Durac special, by Moore, Meyer, Fred Frame, in a Cooper special, Keech, Meyer once more, and ultimately Keech, the winner, who finished out the route in 5 hours, 7 minutes, 23.42 seconds, for an average of 97.585 miles per hour.

Approximately a half dozen minutes behind Keech, came Meyer, the rare sort of driver who threatened almost to the last 25 miles, to be the first man in the speedway's history, to win the 500-mile race twice in succession.

Driver Killed

The death of Spence, the speedway's first fatality since 1919, occurred during his eighth circuit of the track. His car, a Duesenberg special, turned over on the southeastern turn. Spence, pitched out of the car, sustained a fractured skull, and died on the way to the hospital.

The other crashes, and there were many of them, were productive of no serious injury to the drivers.

Woodbury, victim of the first smash of the race, returned to act as relief driver for another of the Royal valve specials, and subsequently appeared at wheel in two other cars. All in all, he had an eventful, if not successful Memorial day.

The interest the tremendous crowd had in the foreign car, Louis Chiron's Delage, was maintained to the last. Chiron wheeled it himself, most of the way, but gave up the driving late in the race, and another Frenchman finished with it, taking seventh place.

Lindy Reported There

A report circulated throughout the speedway that Col. Charles Lindbergh and his bride were among those present, but no verification was made of this. Even Lindbergh could well escape notice in the jam that was at the speedway today. Another notable, Paul Whiteman, whose orchestra was supposed to furnish some of the music, today managed to squeeze through the gates when the time came to start the race.

The cars continued to disappear from the track with unusual rapidity, after the halfway mark was reached.

The lead, which shifted from Meyer to Frame to Keech, and back to Meyer, inside of 10 laps, kept pace with the disappearing cars.

When Meyer, the leader, was going into his 113th lap, 18 of the original 33 starters had left the track, the last to be reported out, turning up in the Packard cable special that Duray started in the race. A broken gas line accomplished the car's retirement.

Woodbury Wrecks Four

The other two Packards, driven by Tony Gulliotta and Ralph Hepburn had been hauled off the bricks some time previously.

The race progressed through 375 miles, with Meyer still holding the lead, and Woodbury, now appearing in the Miller special that Phil Shafer had started. It was the fourth car which Woodbury had driven today. He crashed his own Boyle valve special, early in the race, and subsequently relieved Billy Arnold, in another of the same make. Later on he acted as relief driver for Bob McDonough, in a Miller special.

The nineteenth car to go out of the race was Wesley Crawford's Miller special, which crashed on the north turn in its 126th lap. An even 20 "out of the race" was registered as Frank Farmer's Miller special folded up with a broken valve, in its 137th circuit of the bricks.

Meyer had made but one trip to the pits, in 375 miles of driving, and that a stay of a minute and 32 seconds for gas, oil, and water. On his 157th turn around, he began to shed a tire, as his car neared the center of the home stretch. While this was being done, the lead passed into the clutch—or clutches—of Keech and his simplex.

Meyer's stay in the pits was a costly one, this time, for when he returned to the track, not only Keech, but Klosfer, the relief man for Moore, were ahead of him.

Amateurs Qualify Over 36-Hole Route

DALLAS, May 30. (AP)—The complaint that an 18-hole round is not a sufficient test of golfing caliber has caused the state's links governing body to order a 36-hole qualifying round for the Texas amateur title tournament here June 4 to 8.

In years past many of the state's leading players have been forced to contend for a second or third flight trophy because of a brief lapse in the short qualifying round. A single bad hole in the shorter route could deprive a sterling player of a chance at the state championship, whel players of less ability got into the select circle by shooting one dazzling round.

A stronger, more evenly-balanced title flight is expected to result from the 36-hole round this year. It will be necessary for a player to shoot excellent golf two days in a row and will lessen the chance of a recognized star being shunted into the background at the outset.

The largest field in the history of the state tournament is expected to tee off in the qualifying round June 4 over the Brook Hollow course.

Nona Rees Three-Letter Athletic Star at Texas

AUSTIN, May 30. (AP)—If Nona Rees, San Antonio product, had found something he could do well in track he would have been the first in the history of Texas university to earn four letters.

The captain-elect of the 1930 Longhorn basket ball team also lettered in football and is regular catcher on Uncle Billy Disch's baseball nine. He is quarterback in football and a guard in basket ball.

The Duffer Cries "It Ain't True!"

Those who have been struggling to crack 100 this spring on various golf courses between two of our best known oceans, have had quite enough to make them bitter, morose, sour, discontented, melancholy and perhaps a trifle upset.

Here are a few almost incredible performances that have caught their startled visions:

Leo Diegel and Al Espinosa—66—at Moortown.

Leo Diegel—65—at Moortown.

Walter Hagen—67—at Muirfield, in the British open.

Gienna Colleti—out in 34—at St. Andrews, against Joyce Wethered.

Herton Smith—two successive 66's—at St. Cloud, in the French open.

Aubrey Boomer—61—at St. Cloud—length, 6,500 yards.

When thousands of golfers straining and cracking every aching nerve in their bodies are turning in 106's, 112's and possibly 122's or more—you can see how they must feel about the situation at large when they inspect these incredible figures in the low or early or middle 60's.

No wonder they look around for prussic acid, a gun or a sharp knife. It is an event in the lives of more golfers than you might imagine to break a hundred. When these follow the figures that indicate a 33 out and a 28 home on a fairly long course, the gross total being 61, you may think you can imagine their feelings, but unless you are a golfer, hoping some day to break 100, you can't.

The duffer now and then can get his 3 or possibly his 2. But when this happens there is always the brooding shadow of an 8 or a 9 hanging over his beleaguered head, in the knowledge that at any given moment he will find himself in a bunker or in a ditch and the supply of balm left in Gilead will be invisible to the naked eye from that spot on.

A Year Ago in Pennantville

At this date a year ago the Yankees were in the act of opening a still larger gap between their ranking and the rest of the field. They were galloping on their way to a 13-game lead, and even around June 1 the pursuing Athletics could barely see their dust.

The situation has been quite different this spring. Connie Mack's young men have at least gotten all the season they needed under the heavy fire, with a much better all around pitching staff than the Yankees can show.

The Athletics last summer had an almost hopeless lead to tackle, but when Pennock, Lazzeri and others were wounded or rendered unfit, they closed the space in a hurry. This season they have given themselves no such obstacles to overcome. A runner can be so far behind that he can wear himself out catching the leader and have little left for the stretch. The Athletics won't be in that condition when another September finish comes in sight. They may have their dips or slumps, but they have put away more early insurance than they could do last year. At this time last year Pittsburgh's Pirates had about blown the job with Cardinals, Cubs and Giants setting the pace in a bunch.

If you turn back as far as 1927 you will find the Cardinals have always been somewhere in the top group. They are a better ball club than many believe them to be.

The early slump of the Giants has given the Cubs a better chance, but even the Cubs have to watch this Cardinal cluster again.

One of the best known of the fight followers brought up the old Tunney-Dempsey argument from a new angle a night or two ago.

"I haven't any prejudice on either side," he said, "for I happen to like them both. But there is one point in the fight game that many overlook. This point is that while A might whip B, and B might beat C, C in turn might whip A. Styles play a big part in the final result. Gene Tunney as he was against Dempsey at Philadelphia, or against Heeney, would have had a hard time against Willard. Willard might have beaten him with his greater reach and strength and size, for Willard had a good left hand. The chances are a Willard-Tunney fight would have been terrible to look at. Dempsey really stopped Willard in a round. Yet I don't believe the Dempsey of Toledo could have beaten the Tunney who met Heeney. Dempsey was at his best against a big, slower target. But he was never a good enough boxer to get to Tunney in the way the latter fought against Heeney. Tunney fought poorly in Chicago, in his over-eagerness to knock Dempsey out. He even led with his right hand time and again, and missed most of these swings. Dempsey couldn't get to Tom Gibbons at Shelby, in 15 rounds, and Gibbons was never as good a boxer as Tunney was in his last fight. Dempsey was only 25 when he met Gibbons and that should be a man's fighting prime—the peak. But there never was a fighter in ring history who could topple the giants of the game as Dempsey could. Fred Fulton might have worried Tunney a lot, but he only lasted 18 seconds against Dempsey. The Tunney type was always the hardest for Dempsey to handle, since a good boxer can nearly always keep a rushing slugger off balance."

"Why do so many fighters go goofy?" asks H. F. S. One reason may be that the human brain was not devised for the almost exclusive purpose of acting as a punching bag. The average brain has trouble enough functioning without being scrambled up.

Schmeling and Uzcudun to Draw More Than Million, Runyon Says

Colorful, Hard-Hitting German and Spaniard Fight for Probable Battle With Jack Dempsey

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, May 30.—It has been said that the day of the million dollar boxing show is done. I am inclined to think the battle between Herr Max Schmeling, the black Uhlan of the Rhine, and Senor Paolino Uzcudun, the Beezark of the Basque, will prove to the contrary.

My guess is that it will beat a million gross. Of course the fact that it is sponsored by the famous milk fund, of which Mrs. William Randolph Heart is chairman, lends it added drawing power beyond the average exposition of what Mr. Tunney calls the dignified profession.

But even so, I think the Schmeling-Uzcudun affair would come close to a million as a private promotion, rather than as a charity event. It presents the most sensational figure produced by the dignified profession in years, with an opponent who does something more than make motions inside those ropes.

It will be the first exposition of the dignified profession of any consequence in New York this year, and it will come about as close to deciding Mr. James J. Tunney's successor as heavyweight champion of the world as any bout that could be arranged.

Many Reservations Made

Already reservations of blocks of the most expensive seats at the Yankee stadium on June 27 have come in from outside cities. The top price is to be $25, with some seats at $50. At this scale it does not take such an enormous crowd to gross a million dollars, if you have the attraction.

Mr. James J. Tunney, defending his title as champion of the world against Thomas Heeney, couldn't reach a million, but William Harrison Dempsey did it in a non-championship fight with Jack Sharkey, of Boston. This card did not suggest the battle that the Uzcudun-Schmeling affair promises. Sharkey has none of the color of either the German or the Spaniard. It is doubtful if he would have had any part in a million dollar gate had he been picked as Schmeling's opponent instead of the old beezark.

Dempsey, of course, would draw a million just now with either the beezark or the black Uhlan. But if Dempsey lets his popularity cool another year, I doubt if he will be any extraordinary card. If he intends fighting again, which I think he does, it must be this year.

I am inclined to think he will be matched with the winner of the Uzcudun-Schmeling battle for September. It promises to be the big "natural" after the German and the Spaniard get through. Sharkey probably has some idea of getting the winner, but I doubt if there will be time enough to dispose of a match involving him. Dempsey and the winner of Uzcudun-Schmeling bout is the logical card.

Paolino at Hoosick Falls

Thee Beezark of the Basque is to train at Hoosick Falls, New York, the home town of William F. Carey, president of the Madison Square Garden corporation, who is assisting Mrs. Heart in the promotion of the 1929 milk fund show.

The lads who have visited Hoosick Falls, which all insist on calling Hoosis Falls, tell me that it is a great spot. It is a town of about 5,000 citizens, foremost of whom is Mr. Bill Kennedy, the actor. I have not seen Bill since the day he showed up in the shell proof grottoes of Verdun, with Mr. Lee Donnelly, who is also a well-known actor.

They were members of a Y. M. C. A. entertainment unit. I am told that Mr. Kennedy is now spending the summer in his old home town and is on tender hooks over the coming of the Basque, which will be the first excitement that has taken place in Hoosick Falls for y'ars and y'ars.

Schmeling at Lakewood

Herr Schmeling is to train on Mr. Dwyer's estate at Lakewood, N. J., and is already in camp there. Herr Choe Veckups, as Herr Schmeling refers to Mr. Joe Jacobs, is to direct the German's training, and he is mobilizing a crew of spar mates.

Herr Choe Yockups is seeking rough, though fellows on the general order of Senor Paolino, although of course no fellows quite as rough as the beezark exist. Herr Choe has taken on Roly Poly Ray Newman and Paul Hoffman as a starter.

I imagine Herr Schmeling requires more intensive training than the beezark. The latter has had more experience against better opponents than Schmeling, and does not have to learn anything about his game. The German can use a little more instruction, especially on in-fighting.

Blue Larkspur Wins The Withers Stakes

NEW YORK, May 30. (AP)—Blue Larkspur, E. R. Bradley's Kentucky Derby candidate today won the Withers stakes at Belmont park.

Chestnut Oak from the Oak Ridge stable took down second money after leading to the final stride, with third going to George D. Widener's Jack High.

Blue Larkspur trailed the field until they hit the stretch then moved up fast, passing both Chestnut Oak and Jack High, with a final burst of speed to win by a head. The race was worth $28,250 to Bradley. Blue Larkspur's time for the mile was 1:36.

Baer Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

NEW YORK, May 30.—We realize that Colonel Lindbergh's romance is his own private affair. That's why we intend to poke our neighborly nose into it.

Ring Lardner dropped us a testimonial archive yesterday. He wrote, "Anytime you ask Lindy a question he makes a non-stop flight between the negative and the affirmative.

"If you ask him something he says he don't know. When you ask Anne anything she says she don't know.

"It looks as if Lindy and Anne both forgot to go to the same school.

"I'll say the conversation at their first breakfast table is certainly going to be educational as well as absent."

Well, Ring, the conversation and chitter-chatter at Lindy's breakfast table will not annoy you.

You won't be there.

Ring, you ain't such an oratorical robot yourself. Anytime they ask you to make a speech, you pull your neck in so thick that your ears get caught on your collar.

Still, you have the right idea about talking at dinners. The Gettysburg speech would have been a flop if it had been made across a bowl of soup.

But the fact that you don't talk at dinners or wedding breakfasts didn't stop you from getting the biggest laugh we ever heard indoors.

It was at the dinner to Eddie Rickenbacker, who is another boy who knows something about flying. Eddie earned his aviation tuition when every plane had a German in it. You weren't there but we read your telegram:

"Dear Eddie. Sorry I cannot be there with you. But it is the children's night out and I got to stay home with the nurse."

If you want the arguments at Lindy's breakfast table to be a success we suggest that you send them a telegram. By the way, do you remember what you said to the bride at your own wedding breakfast?

You said, "Dearie, pass the prunes."

Mrs. Lardner remarked, "They ain't prunes. That's oatmeal."

Then you said, "Well, thank heaven, both of us ain't wrong."

Every man says something at a wedding breakfast with the possible exception of Brigham Young, who merely handed his bride an identification card.

Solomon only said one thing at a wedding breakfast that got into history. It was at his seven-hundredth marriage and as Sol picked the shad bones out of his whiskers, he remarked:

"Some day, I'll get a wife who knows how to cook."

Atlanta Buys Dick Burrus From Buffs on Trial

HOUSTON, May 30. (AP)—Dick Burrus, first baseman, who threatened to quit baseball if the Houston Texas league club sent him to Danville of the Three-Eye, has been reinstated and sold to Atlanta of the Southern association on a 30-day trial, it was announced today.

Henry Williams Will Drive Here

One-Armed Pilot Entered In Sunday Races

A wire has been received from Fort Smith, Ark., entering five fast cars in the races scheduled Sunday at the local track. These new entries bring the total of drivers to participate to 23. The list of entries will be closed Friday noon and by that time two score drivers are expected to have signed for the events.

The Arkansas aggregation will be headed by Bill Matthews who pilots a very fast super-charged Frontenac. Bill is the leading speed demon of tracks in his sector and thinks he can throw dirt in the face of other drivers here Sunday. The work of the Arkansas travelers will bear close watch for they are the winners of the five highest honors at the state meet there.

Inquiries have been made concerning Henry Williams, who makes his home in Wichita Falls. Henry will drive Sunday in the professional events and on June 9 will again pilot his stock car in the events carded for that date. Williams is the country's only one-armed driver, but his physical handicap does not affect in any way the speed which he can get from his iron horse.

Exporters Get Swanson, Chisox Second Baseman

BEAUMONT, MAY 30. (AP)—Karl Swanson, second baseman, has been obtained under option by Beaumont of the Texas league from the Chicago White Sox, it was announced today. Last season he clouted .324 in 97 games in the Mississippi Valley league and stole 58 bases.

COEN BATTLES TILDEN 5 SETS

Master and Pupil Duel In Paris Net Feature

PARIS, May 30. (US)—Schoolmaster Tilden met pupils Coen today in the feature match of the hard court tennis championships at Roland Carros stadium, and after "Teacher Bill" asked all sorts of questions which "Pupil Wilbur" answered by capturing the first two sets, Big Bill dropped his academic robes and whisked the next three sets into the bag for a victory, 8-6, 5-7, 6-3, 6-1, 6-0.

By virtue of his victory over his Kansas City protege, Tilden won himself a place in the quarter finals of the men's singles championships, sharing America's place in the foreign sun with Francis T. Hunter, who defeated the Austrian, Matejka, this afternoon in four sets, 6-0, 2-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Another thrilling net encounter is scheduled for tomorrow when Helen Wills will open play on the center court against Mlle. La Fauris of France, in the women's quarter finals. Helen's play has steadied down considerably during the last few days, and although her opponent is counted one of France's best, the American debutante champion is expected to pull out a victory.

Helen takes the court first, being followed by Tilden, who plays Baron Demorpugo, and Hunter, who is matched against Jean Borotra. All in all, America is in for a difficult fight as the singles championships begin to reach the deciding rounds.

Before they sailed for their new homes on farms in Australia, a party of boys from Dr. Barnardo's homes were inspected in London by the Prince of Wales recently.

"Must cigar smokers be endangered?

No!!! I say"

"Any man who smokes a Cremo is safe . . . I certify Cremo as sanitary."

Says

Alfred W. McCann

noted pure food expert, long active in crusades for pure foods and sanitary factories.

How often have you been disgusted with the filthy, germ-breeding places where some cigars are made . . dark, stuffy factories . . warm, dingy shops and windows . . where cigars are rolled by careless, dirty lips and fingers and spit on the ends! What a far cry this is from the modern, certified "Cremo-method" of manufacture!

Cremo's superiority starts with the choicest and tenderest leaves, ripe and mellow, and continues in goodness through a slow, expensive maturing and mellowing process . . . topped off with the finest imported Sumatra wrapper! Cremo contains no scrap—no floor sweepings—all long filler—all fresh, tender leaves. Over $7,000,000 was spent in perfecting the certified "Cremo-method" of manufacture that insures uniformly fine, sanitary cigars. Foil-wrapped . . . germ-free . . . crush-proof . . . the kind of cigar that the late Vice-President Marshall must have had in mind when he said: "What this country needs most is a good 5 cent cigar."

"When you put a Cremo between your lips, you are protecting yourself from any possible infection from unsanitary tobaccos—you're playing safe.

"Every tobacco leaf entering the Cremo factory is scientifically sterilized by U. S. Government approved methods. And every sanitary precaution known to science is taken to safeguard this purity along every step of the way.

"Each Cremo is folded, wrapped and tipped by amazing inventions! In factories that are models of cleanliness . . . air-flooded, sun-bathed, scientifically clean!

"And to protect its purity until it reaches your mouth, each Cremo is instantly sealed in a separate foil wrapper.

"So when you smoke a Cremo, you get the same scientific health protection that comes with certified milk!"

MANY BUYING DAIRY COWS

Baber Reports Steady Sales From Herd

Acceptable evidence of the continued efforts toward the establishment of dairying as one of the chief industries of this section is furnished by the regular sale of tested Jersey milk cows from the herd maintained by J. M. Baber on the Petrolia road.

More than 30 head have been sold during the last two weeks, Mr. Baber stated Thursday, to farmers and dairymen in the immediate vicinity of Wichita Falls. Between 50 and 60 cattle remain on hand in the herd. Most of the cows sold by Mr. Baber are selected by him from East Texas stock.

Dairying leaders Thursday expressed the opinion that the testing equipment recently installed in the basement of the City National bank, and the proposed county dairying expert whose appointment will be requested before the commissioners' court at an early date, will prove vital factors in developing the milk producing business on a large and profitable scale.

The Western Pacific Railroad corporation was formed as the successor to the company of the same name which defaulted in bond interest and was placed in the hands of the receiver in 1915. Its entirely owned operating company, the Western Pacific Railroad company, operates 1,043 miles of road between San Francisco and Salt Lake city. In 1924 an operating agreement was made with the Southern Pacific whereby 183 miles of each company's single track in Nevada is operated as a double track road.

The net income of the Western Pacific Railroad company averaged about $2,200,000 a year from 1920 to 1926. Gross earnings in 1927 exceeded those of 1926 but net incomes was reduced to $394,851. Schools for Father

INDEPENDENTS PRESENT PLANS

Oil Organizations Unite On Conservation

Special to The Record News.

TULSA, Okla., May 30.—The independent oil producing associations and royalty owners organizations of the Mid-Continent, Gulf Coast, Central West and Applachian oil provinces are planning to unite in presenting their views to the oil compact conference to start June 10 at Colorado Springs.

This was revealed by messages and letters that Wade H. James, president, and Guy H. Woodward, counsel of the Midcontinent Royalty Owners association, has received from the different organizations, all of which have received invitations from Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior to name delegates and to present some program looking to the future conservation of petroleum.

In some of the organizations the full delegation is yet to be named, being held back by a desire not to embarrass the governor of that state.

A joint letter from 11 of the independent organizations to Secretary Wilbur, says in part:

"We are preparing a program which will be presented as an expression of the views of all the independent producers, royalty owners and land owners, whom these associations represent, upon the question of conservation."

The various associations, who have named their delegations, follow:

Gulf Coast Oil Producers association—R. L. Young and Dan Harrison, both of Houston.

Texas Independent Oil Men's association—State Senator J. D. Parnell, Wichita Falls.

Southern Oklahoma Independent Oil Men's association—Wirt Franklin, Ardmore, and B. A. LaSalle, Ada.

National Association of Independent Oil producers—W. H. Gray, C. J. Wrightsman, H. F. Wilcox, of Tulsa; W. R. Ramsey and T. B. Slick, of Oklahoma City; J. S. Cullinan, Houston, and C. C. Harmon, Nowata, Okla.

Kansas Oil and Gas Producers association—W. H. Sproul, Sedan, and Mark D. Mitchell, Independence.

Independent Oil Men's association of Oklahoma—U. S. Senator W. B. Pine, Okmulgee and Washington; James G. Lyons, Okmulgee, and Harry H. Diamond, Holdenville.

Midcontinent Royalty Owners association—Wade H. James, Tulsa; Lee Scott, Wichita, Kan.; E. G. Bedford, Midland, Texas; Harley Henton, Shreveport, La.

Ohio Oil and Gas Men's association—James W. McMann, Toledo.

Northwestern Pennsylvania Oil and Gas association—D. T. Andrews Bradford.

Venango County Oil Producers association—David B. McCalmont, Titusville.

Louisiana Independent Oil Producers association—A. R. Carmody, Shreveport, and W. Scott Heywood, Jennings.

The Wyoming Oil producers are to meet and select a delegation, and so will the Montana producers. Attitude of the Rocky Mountain producers is well shown by this statement by A. J. Hazlett, publisher and editor of Inland Oil Index of Casper:

"It will be a sorry day for the oil and gas industries if the various oil producing states through compacts with each other and the federal government, surrender control to the federal government. These twin industries will then be tied hand and foot and will not be able to make a move of any kind whatsoever without first unwinding reels of red tape and securing permission of the federal government after subscribing the 40-11 different rules and regulations and giving bond in the sum of $9,000,000 to adhere faithfully to said rules and regulations. There is too much bureaucratic control already."

Word trickles through that Mark L. Requa, who recently visited the governors of Oklahoma, Texas and California regarding the oil compacts will preside as chairman of the conference at Colorado Springs.

On Monday of this week, E. B. Reeser, president of the institute conferred with President Hoover, supposedly on the approaching conference.

NEW ARRESTS IN RAID SOON

Oklahoma City Police Continue Probe

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 30. (UP)—Working quietly on a theory that gangsters from several southwest cities are implicated in the $75,000 American First National bank robbery here, Police Chief Charles A. Becker today declared he expected "the most important arrests soon."

Becker frequently has closeted himself with C. W. "Doc" Thompson, Seminole druggist, and R. B. Thompson, his foster son, who are held as suspects.

Russell Gibson, arrested in Kansas City on information from Becker, was fighting extradition. His return here was expected to be expedited, however, by action of Roy St. Lewis, U. S. district attorney at Oklahoma City, who issued a warrant for him on a charge of transporting a stolen automobile. Gibson was arrested at Kansas City on a fugitive warrant.

Mrs. Minnie Rayl, 68, Hutchinson, Kan., society woman and sister of "Doc" Thompson was free today on a $5,000 bond. She had pleaded not guilty when charged with possession of stolen property. Money taken in the robbery had been found in her automobile when she was arrested at Hutchinson.

JEALOUS RAGE BRINGS DEATHS

Enraged Husband Kills His Wife and Druggist

NEW YORK, May 30. (US)—In a frenzy of jealousy during which he accused them of intimacy, Louis Fidele today shot and killed both his 23-year-old wife, Mary, and Samuel Luisi, according to police. Luisi operated a drugstore below the Fidele apartment.

The young wife was slain while she clutched her infant son to her breast and begged for mercy. Another son, three years old, saw the tragedy.

Luisi was shot a few moments before in his drugstore and died a few hours later in Harbor hospital. He recovered consciousness a few minutes before the end and made a statement to police naming Fidele as his slayer. Police tonight were searching for the husband who fled immediately after the shooting.

Luisi, in his statement, denied intimacy with Mrs. Fidele but admitted that he had taken her for an automobile ride last Sunday.

Dragging his wife into the store and confronting Luisi, Fidele made the charge, it was stated. Both denied the assertion and Luisi shouted:

"You are crazy. Get out of my store."

Fidele drew a revolver, the witness said, and fired two shots as Luisi ran towards the rear of the store. Both shots missed and Mrs. Fidele ran back to her apartment as her husband pursued Luisi.

Then, according to police, Fidele cornered Luisi in the back room and fired two shots more. One struck Luisi in the shoulder, the other in the wrist and he fell to the floor.

When Fidele returned to the apartment he tried the door and, finding it locked, smashed the glass and opened the latch from the inside. His wife then fled to the bedroom, where her two children, Albert, 16 months, and Louis, two years old, were.

She had clutched Albert in her arms and was pleading for mercy when another shot was fired, and Fidele ran from the place. The bullet passed through her breast and came out the right side of her back. She died immediately.

Police said they believed Fidele's charges against his wife and Luisi were "pure imagination." A description of the man was broadcast, but Inspector Sullivan said he feared the man had committed sucide. The revolver, however, was found in the apartment.

A PERFECT SETTING

Well Displayed Is Half Sold!

"Eye-appeal"—has a major part in the sale of real estate, particularly in the disposal of houses and homes. Your prospect likes to buy amid pleasant surroundings where there is beauty—snap—dash! Call it showmanship sales psychology—or what you will—IT IS A BIG FACTOR.

Eye appeal scores in two ways in the attractive presentation of the offering to your prospect.

First, your announcement, or sales ad, must completely describe your offering—paint a word picture in the mind of your prospect—SELL him on the desirability of your offering to the extent that he will get in touch with you.

Second, when your prospect views the property "eye appeal" accounts for that lasting first impression—lowers sales resistance—and your sale is well on its way to a successful culmination.

Keep this in mind as you plan the sale of your properties USE a "Houses for Sale" Classified Ad to carry your offering. INSURE a SATISFACTORY presentation of YOUR MESSAGE!

"I'M GLAD I DIDN'T RUN," SAYS PRYOR, FACING PEN

EX-CONSTABLE TO FIGHT TERM

"Wouldn't Trade Places With Shook," He Says

Behind the bars in the Wichita county jail and fecing an 8 year penitentiary sentence as a robbery accomplice, Ed Pryor, former Electra constable, Thursday afternoon insisted that he is still glad he didn't join Tom Shook and other prisoners in a jail break here last summer.

"No, I'll never run," he said. "I haven't got anything to run from. And I'm glad I stayed right here that night even if I have to serve this sentence with Shook still free. I'd do the same thing again tonight if these boys here started anything. I wouldn't trade places with Shook right now."

Refused to Escape

Thursday was Pryor's first day in jail after his conviction here Wednesday afternoon as an accomplice to Henry Shumate in the robbery of the Jefferson hotel in Electra last summer, during Pryor's term as constable of the precinct. Tom Shook, former chief-of-police at Electra, arrested at the same time under similar charges, later escaped from jail here. Pryor, also a prisoner, declined to leave the jail after fellow prisoners had taken the gun from the jailer and seized the keys.

Pryor mused the question of his sentence and the renounced opportunity for freedom Thursday afternoon as he lay on his bunk in the county jail, lifting himself on an elbow to stare through the bars.

"It's not worth it," he explained. "Shook's not really free. He's out, but what good does it do him? He can't work and do anything for his family, and he's always got to be worrying. Knows he might get shot or have to shoot somebody all the time. I don't want any of that. When this whole thing is cleared up for me I'll never wear a gun again."

The prisoner expressed no derious concern about the 8 year sentence imposed.

To Fight Sentence

"I'm going to fight this thing as long as there's a piece of paper in Texas," he declared. "Everybody in the state could point a finger at me and call me guilty without phasing me. I'm innocent, and I'm not through yet."

Pryor expressed concern about the possible effect the news of his sentence might have upon the condition of his wife, ill at Kirkland.

"There's nobody to look after her and the baby with me shut up," he declared. "But I reckon I'll make a bond and be out on the farm again while this appeal goes up anyway."

Shields Heyser, attorney for Pryor, said Thursday afternoon that the formal motion for a new trial will be filed Friday morning, to be followed later by an amended motion to be presented before Judge P. A. Martin within the next few days. Should the motion be overruled, the defense is given 90 days in which to perfect an appeal. During that time, the defendant is given the privilege of making bond.

Captain Shankle, accompanied by his wife and small daughter, left here Feb. 15 by automobile to attend the school. A Texas border story based upon the life and experience of Mexico's phantom bandit and rebel leader, Pancho Villa, with William Russell cast as chief of the Texas Rangers, will be told in the road show picture "El Bandido," which opens for three days Sunday at the Olympic theater.

The cowboys, Indians, gambling dens and wild life which usually constitute moving picture portrayals of the old West are said to be combined in the coming attraction with authentic reproductions of the wild raids, spectacular stories and romantic incidents with which Villa for a long period held the attention of the continent.

A lobby display showing the Mexican leader, his famous horse, and Mexican hand carved ornamental saddle will accompany the showing of the picture here, it was said. The production was made under the direction of Henry King.

Former Sunday School Head, Tried Here, Also Convicted at Abilene

E. G. Ramsey, former Sunday school superintendent given a five year suspended sentence here several weeks ago for swindling, has been convicted in Abilene on a forgery charge, according to information received Thursday afternoon by Sheriff W. G. Bralley.

The second conviction calls for a revoking of the suspended sentence here, and Abilene officials are inquiring about having the prisoner brought back here, Mr. Bralley explained. The matter will be turned over to Sam Spence, district attorney, for action, the sheriff said.

Ramsey, a middle-aged man, was found guilty of passing a $110 "hot" check at the W. B. McClurkan company store. His defense claimed that he expected his wife, from whom he was divorced, to meet the check. Mrs. Ramsey was present at the trial and testified in his behalf. After the verdict she kissed him good-bye and told him to "be a good boy."

The charges of forgery in Abilene were already filed before the trial of the case here and Ramsey was immediately taken into custody by officials from that city.

$10,000 Damage Suit Goes to Trial Today

Selection of a jury for the trial of a $10,000 damage suit brought by Mrs. C. J. Hunter against the Wichita Falls Traction company will begin in the 30th district court Friday morning. Attorneys hope to complete the case before the end of the week.

Mrs. Hunter, joined by her husband, is suing the company for alleged injuries received when the bus on which she was riding on March 5, 1929, ran into the curbing of Princeton street between 23rd and 24th streets. The plaintiff alleges that serious internal injuries resulted from the jar of the collision and that her health has been permanently impaired. The suit was filed by the firm of George and Brannon, and Earl Kuntz, attorneys. T. R. Boone represents the traction company.

SUCCESSOR TO MABEL SOUGHT

Prohibition Overhauling In Prospect

WASHINGTON, May 30. (US)—A thorough overhauling of the government's prohibition machinery was in prospect today, following the resignation of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt as assistant attorney general and initial sessions of the law enforcement commission.

The first important step will be the selection of a successor to Mrs. Willebrandt to head the prosecuting forces. President Hoover is reported to have a number of prominent lawyers, dry in their sympathies, under consideration, but neither the White House nor the department of justice is discussing the prospective appointment.

Other changes, it appears, will be made gradually, and probably with the guidance of facts and opinions developed by the commission as its work proceeds.

Enforcement Transfer

Chief among these is the proposed transfer of enforcement from the treasury department to the department of justice. Opposition to this has been registered by representatives of the alcohol manufacturing and using industries, which are vitally affected by the permit system.

The administration has given no sign of altering its plan to make the transfer. Action at the present session of congress is virtually out of the question, however, and before the regular session begins the law enforcement commission may have clear-cut views for or against.

All present indications are that prohibition commissioner James M. Doran, who has been steadily sawing wood and providing the nonspectacular variety of enforcement the administration favors, will have at least equal authority in any new set-up.

Hoover's Hands Free

Mrs. Willebrandt's retirement is considered to give the president a completely free hand in shaping his enforcement policy and machinery.

Although there was no break between Mrs. Willebrandt and Attorney General Mitchell, Mrs. Willebrandt is known to have cherished strong views as to some of the phases of enforcement with which she had had authority. She was a prohibition "evangelist" as well as prosecutor, had been in the limelight, and made a strong appeal to a great group of the rank-and-file prohibitionists as well as some of their leaders.

Any change in policy that affected her status, while she remained in office, would have injected questions of personalities and stirred up strong feeling, in view of many officials.

Several changes of United States attorneys, aimed in large part at more effective dry prosecutions, already have been made by Mitchell and Mrs. Willebrandt.

Trouble has cropped up since in one or two districts. This grew out of Mrs. Willebrandt's order to prosecutors to use "a wise discretion" in proceeding under the Jones "five and ten" law, and may be smothered over when a successor is chosen.

SPEAKERS?

Rotary Withholds Award When They Show "Lack of Merit"

An extemporaneous speaking contest, sponsored by R. E. Shepherd, was staged Thursday noon at the weekly meeting of the Rotary club at the Kemp hotel, award of the proffered prize being withheld by action of the membership because of insufficient merit in the addresses offered, it was said.

C. C. McDonald, Albert Myles, Dr. Nat F. Grafton, Fred T. Couper, J. H. Allison and Linton Estes were entrants in the contest, each choosing his own subject.

C. A. Rogers gave a classification on "Oil Royalties," detailing some of the features with which he said an investor must be entirely familiar to avoid losses. He also reviewed portions of the Rotary International convention now in progress at Dallas.

Trinity Students To Honor Veteran Educator

WAXAHACHIE, Texas, May 30. (AP)—For 50 years Dr. S. L. Hornbeak has been connected with Trinity university and on June 3 ex-students will honor him with a banquet to be attended by many outstanding educators and professional and business men of the state.

It is claimed that Dr. Hornbeak has been connected with one institution longer and in more different positions than any other educator in the United States. He has been student, professor, dean, chairman of faculty, president, trustee, and director of endowment campaigns during the 50 years. And in an emergency he once served as dean of women temporarily.

To show their appreciation of the service given Trinity by the educator, former students are to write him a letter. These letters are to be bound and are to be presented to Dr. Hornbak on the night of the banquet.

Willacy County Begins Melon Crop Harvest

RAYMONDVILLE, Texas, May 30. (AP)—Willacy county, famous for marketing early watermelons, will begin shipping this product in carload lots within another week, according to growers residing around Yturria, one of the most extensive watermelon producing sections in South Texas. Watermelons for the local market are already appearing, and some shipments by truck have been made.

It is estimated that Willacy county this year has 5,000 acres planted in watermelons, and that the probable output will be around 1,000 cars.

The biggest acreage is at Yturria, with more than 2,000 acres in cultivation. Other important sections in this product are San Perlita, Lasara and Hargill. Each of these communities have about 500 acres, and it is reported that the vines are in good condition.
