KING MEMORIAL CHURCH TO GET NEW PASTOR; REV. CARTER RETURNS

Garner Backers Are Planning Fight to Finish

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP)—Campaign managers for John Nance Garner in the southwest today sought to keep the vice-president in the race for the 1940 democratic presidential nomination despite any decision President Roosevelt makes concerning a third term.

R. T. Stuart of Oklahoma City, campaign director for Garner in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and New Mexico, said that the Garner drive will go on "despite anything Mr. Roosevelt decides to do".

Garner backers will open their Oklahoma campaign with a barbecue Wednesday at Ada.

Stuart, an insurance company executive, said that the Garner campaign, in contrast to the McNutt movement, is "not based on any contingency but is built on the honest desire to elect Mr. Garner president".

Oklahoma campaign managers for Paul V. McNutt have announced that the organization work depends upon the possibility that Mr. Roosevelt does not seek a third term.

Oppose Third Term

"We are against a third term for anybody", Stuart said. "Garner should have been the nominee in 1932 and we are determined he will be the 1940 nominee no matter who is in the race. We think a third term for anybody sounds too much like dictatorship".

E. B. Germany, Texas democratic chairman and national director for the Garner campaign, has accepted an invitation to make the kickoff address for the Garner barbecue at Ada.

Stuart said that state campaign managers are working with him in each of the four states he directs. Claude Thompson, Ada attorney, has been appointed Oklahoma manager.

Stuart said that Garner backers were determined to keep the vice-president in the race and "there will be no backing up, no compromise and no trading out".

Mrs. Roosevelt Suggests Hoover For Relief Post

WASHINGTON (UP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt suggested today that former president Herbert Hoover head a centralized agency for relief of refugees and civilian war sufferers.

Mrs. Roosevelt said that Mr. Hoover has more experience in such work than any other person and his activities during the World war brought universal commendation.

Mrs. Roosevelt stressed the importance of a centralized refugee relief agency declaring it could coordinate all organizations trying to "help human beings in dire need everywhere" in addition to cutting down overhead expenses.

She hinted but did not say outright that Hoover had been asked to head the proposed agency.

TOLEDO (UP)—"Opportunity school"—where adults may learn languages, history, philosophy and other cultural subjects for $1 a course during leisure time — has been opened at the University of Toledo.

Rev. T. M. McBrayer of Gruver was assigned to King Memorial church here as pastor; Rev. Orion W. Carter was returned to First Methodist church, and Rev. Robert H. Knight was named pastor of a new charge, the Childress circuit, when appointments were made at the final session of Northwest Texas Conference in Lubbock yesterday.

Rev. McBrayer, a man below middle age who has served successfully as pastor at Lorenzo, Goree and other charges before going to Gruver, will succeed Rev. Paul W. Evans at King Memorial.

The new circuit charge will include churches at Carey, Garden Valley and Parnell. Membership at Carey will incorporate the former Midway congregation, whose building burned last year. Rev. Knight was pastor of the Midway church.

Rev. Cal C. Wright was returned as superintendent of the Vernon district. Formerly designated as presiding elder, his title was changed by new regulations of the united Methodist church.

Rev. M. G. Brotherton at Kirkland and Rev. H. R. Bennett at Tell are the other Methodist pastors in this county, and both were returned for a year.

Pastors sent to other churches of the Vernon district on changes were C. A. Duncan to the Acme circuit, W. B. Hicks to Crowell, V. N. Henderson to Estelline, Alton Vaughn to Newlin-Hulver, I. T. Huckaby to Truscott-Foard City and G. E. Tyson to the Vernon circuit. Other pastors in the district were returned.

The conference closed yesterday after a five-day session. It will convene next year at Pampa.

Dozen Drunks Fined Here

Officers continued to bear down in the campaign against drunks in Childress and the weekend roundup included an even dozen.

Two of them, repeat customers, were fined $50 and costs each in justice court, and the others were fined $1 and costs. All of them pleaded guilty.

Four were arrested by Constable Mac Mote and eight by the sheriff's department and highway patrolmen.

ATTEMPT ON LIFE OF CZECH PRESIDENT TOLD

LONDON (UP)—The Daily Herald reported today in a dispatch from Yugoslavia that German troops had been forced to fire artillery into workers' quarters in order to subdue last week's Czech uprising in Prague and that attempts had been made Saturday to assassinate President Emil Hacha of the Bohemian-Moravian protectorate.

Although the Germans had announced the execution of 12 ring-leaders of the uprising the Daily Herald dispatch said nazi police and storm troopers killed or wounded 30 students when they stormed the Czech university and that after they captured it they lined 18

LAWYER IS SLAIN BY VICTIM OF HIS KNIFE

DALLAS (UP)—Brooks Coffman, Dallas lawyer who stabbed a shapely blonde stenographer last May 20 because she would not go with him to California, was shot to death today when the girl caught up with him on a busy downtown street.

Two guns in the hands of the stenographer, Miss Corinne Maddox, 26, took his life. Fatally wounded, he died in a hospital a few minutes after the shooting.

"It was awful to have to do such a thing," Miss Maddox told police who arrested her as she walked away from the scene of the shooting, carrying an empty .32 caliber automatic pistol in her handbag and a .38 caliber revolver in a holster under her left arm.

SEVEN GO TO BOTTOM IN 3 DAYS

LONDON (UP)—The British Collier Torchbearer went down off the coast of England today, seventh ship to be sunk in the North sea since Saturday by mines.

Naval authorities believed the sinkings signaled the beginning of Germany's unrestricted sea warfare.

Naval authorities said 14 ships had sunk in the last nine days, most of them by mines in the North sea. The loss of the Torchbearer and possibly nine of its crew of 13 was reported this morning.

Naval authorities insisted that the mines were German because they said British mines are so equipped that they are harmless after they break from their moorings. A weekend gale apparently had scattered German mines, driving them in on the British isles and the Danish and Belgian coasts, but British authorities said the mines in the shipping lanes were set deliberately, probably by German submarines, and had not drifted there.

(In Hamburg an article by A. Muerer, retired German vice-admiral, was published suggesting that Germany throw its surface naval craft into war against convoys to assist German airplanes and submarines "because it is no longer a battle but a ruthlessly conducted commercial war which has become the chief naval task.")

In addition to those ships sunk during the past nine days, it was announced that two small British vessels, unnamed, had been damaged by mines off the east coast.

Total merchant shipping lost during the war was set at 121 ships totaling 486,209 tons, of which the allies lost 69 ships of 315,849 tons, the Germans eight ships of 38,880 tons, neutral countries 44 ships totaling 131,880 tons.

It was announced today that 11 more survivors of the Italian ship Grazia had been landed at a southeast British port, making the total number of survivors 26. The mine explosion had killed five of the Grazia's crew outright and several more were believed missing.

Were You Addressing Us?

Fire-spouting Winston Churchill has spoken again to the people of the British Empire, but it is a pretty good guess that the first lord of the admiralty was hoping Americans had their ears pinned to the keyhole.

Mr. Churchill's speech was blunt. He called Hitler a "cornered maniac" and "that evil man." He called Germany's acts of conquest in Poland "bestial atrocities." He referred to the Hitler-Ribbentrop team as "those marvelous twin contortionists."

"If we are conquered," he said, "all will be enslaved and the United States will be left single-handed to guard the rights of man." And: "The great English-speaking republic across the Atlantic ocean makes no secret of its sympathies or of its self-questionings and translates these sentiments into action of a character which anyone may judge for himself."

We in America must be careful how vigorously we nod our heads in assent over Mr. Churchill's statements. We must reserve the right to judge for ourselves events abroad. We must be careful not to let even as distinguished a salesman as Mr. Churchill slip his foot in our door.

Allied propagandists have encouraged circulation of the idea that Britain and France are America's first lines of defense. Slogans like this, bandied about the country and repeated often enough, can be dangerous and misleading. We may forget to analyze them and accept them at their face value.

The ardor of statesmen in time of emergency must be taken with a grain of salt. It is good policy for the British government to let Mr. Churchill raise his voice now and then. Issues must not be permitted to cool. People must not be permitted to forget they have an enemy.

We didn't start this war, and we don't want any part of it. We got into one war, 22 years ago, and it will be a long time before we forget the expensive lessons we learned. The propaganda this time is just as smooth as it was when making the world safe for democracy—but we aren't going to fall for it again.

America isn't interested in having thousands of its sons die each generation for European ideologies that are forgotten in the thick of battle. We're not going to be kidded into the belief that our real frontier lies along the Maginot line.

Mr. Churchill and other eminent foreign statesmen may as well get used to that fact. They may as well scratch us off the sucker list, and concentrate their energies in other directions. We're going to be too busy at home to attend this party.

Mr. Garner Is Doing a Little Hunting This Fall

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

By BRUCE CATTON
 WASHINGTON. — Government officials who have been giving all of their time to the much talked of South American export trade boom are beginning to admit it will take the United States a long time to cash in on any opportunity that may be present there.

The last of three important conferences on the subject has just been finished at the Commerce Department. A survey of the ground covered indicates that no immediate boom is in sight.

Crux of the matter is that if the South Americans are going to buy more goods from this country, some United States money must somehow be put in their hands. The conferences examined three means by which this might be done: A step-up of tourist travel, an increase in sales of South American manufactured goods for U. S. retail trade, and an increase in exports of South American raw materials to this nation.

WANT TOURIST TRADE DIVERTED BY WAR

Most recent was the travel conference. Last year, Americans spent something like $8,000,000 on travel in South America. They also spent close to $135,000,000 on travel in Europe.

With the war on, no $135,000,000 will be spent in Europe in 1940. If a good share of this tourist travel could be diverted to South America, American exports to South America could rise by that much.

Steamship company executives, Commerce Department experts on Latin America, and representatives of South American governments gathered to discuss the ways and means of this diversion.

The South Americans were urged to spend some real money on advertising to lift some of the petty restrictions imposed on foreign travelers and to provide better accommodations in some of the interior cities. It was suggested the shippers put on special cruises to make a strong bid for the tourist trade.

BUYERS SEEK FINISHED GOODS

The conference on retail trade was held some three weeks ago. Buyers for American stores are looking for new sources to supply a great variety of finished goods heretofore bought in Europe. In many instances, South America could very well fill the bill.

Take gloves. Many of the gloves sold in the United States have been made in Czechoslovakia and Austria, from hides produced in Chile. Chile still has the hides, and has a good supply of highly skilled labor. It ought to be easy to start a thriving glove industry in Chile.

The retailers suggested a skilled analysis of the situation be made by a mission composed of an American retail expert, a stylist and a production engineer. This trio would visit South America, interpret the North American market to the South American manufacturers, and give both sides a detailed report on the possibilities. The conference visions a trade center in New York, where American buyers could see just what the South Americans have to offer and could submit samples of the sort of thing the American buying public wants.

SOUTH AMERICANS ASK FOR CREDITS

No matter what is done along these lines, the underlying fact exists that new capital is needed.

The South Americans at the conference kept interjecting, "We must have credits." Before American retail trade can take a really big bite into South American produc-

Nazi Plane Crashes on Dutch Soil

ROERMOND, Holland (UP)—A Nazi plane crashed on Dutch soil today after being fired at by Dutch anti-aircraft guns but it was uncertain whether the plane was shot down or crashed while trying to evade the Dutch fire.

The German plane was fired on when it violated Dutch neutrality by flying over Holland territory. It crashed within the Dutch frontier. The pilot was killed.

The incident followed a Dutch protest of last Saturday against German flying boats landing in Dutch territorial waters.

The first version of the incident was that the Nazi plane was shot down, but later it was said that it was uncertain whether the craft had been hit by fire or whether it crashed trying to evade bullets.

The plane finally collided with a tree after hitting the ground.

Our business is not only to strengthen external defenses, but also to build up internal morale, which is much more important.—Paul V. McNutt, federal securities administrator.

Someone must invest some U. S. dollars in the South American industries. To date that "someone" has not shown up.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR
 V. M. REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
 Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.
 The average individual has about 10 pints of blood in his body. The amount remains constant. The loss of a small amount of blood is quickly made up by the squeezing of blood out of the spleen, which is known to be a reservoir, and by the passing of fluid from the tissues into the blood.
 The loss of three or four pints of blood at one time may be fatal. There are instances, however, in which as much as six pints of blood have been lost by gradual hemorrhage without resulting in death.
 A normal human being has from 4,500,000 to 6,200,000 red blood cells in every cubic millimeter of blood. The number for women is somewhat less than for men. In normal blood there are about 15 grams of hemoglobin for every 100 cubic centimeters of blood. If the amount of red coloring matter falls below 80 per cent as shown on an ordinary scale, the patient is said to be anemic. However, the patient may still feel well even when the percentage has fallen below 70.

Most of the red blood cells are formed in the bone marrow of the body. Red bone marrow is found in the bones of the arms, the legs, in the ribs and skull, the bones of the spine and in the sternum. The amount of red bone marrow may increase when a patient suffers from diseases which stimulate formation of red blood cells.

When the red blood cells break down and are no longer able to function, they are destroyed in the body by other cells. The average red corpuscle lives from 30 to 80 days. This means that the body has to form daily about one trillion red blood cells. The red blood cells that are imperfect are digested in the spleen and in the liver by the reticuloendothelial cells. The iron is removed and the broken down material is excreted by the gallbladder and bile duct as bile. The iron itself is used in the building of fresh red coloring matter and red blood cells.

If there is an abnormal amount of destruction of the red blood cells in the liver and in the spleen, too much of the bile salt material will be formed. The liver will find it impossible to pass all of this on and this material will then circulate in the blood. If the amount rises sufficiently high, the patient becomes jaundiced.

BPW Tea Honors Touring State Secretary

Miriam Coleman Discusses Work With Members

A program tea at the home of Miss Lula Mae Carter yesterday afternoon complimented Miss Miriam Coleman of Paris, executive secretary of Texas Business and Professional Women's clubs. She spent the afternoon and last night in Childress, one stop on her tour of clubs in the Panhandle-Plains district.

Officers here—Mrs. Herbert Clift, president; Miss Nellie Agnes Kennedy, vice-president; Miss Mildred Phillips, secretary; and Miss Mary Belle Mitchell, treasurer—acted as hostesses at the tea, which ended in an informal discussion of club projects and problems.

The program came first, with Mrs. George Robertson in charge. She introduced the recently-organized club chorus in its initial appearance. Miss Cornelia Maness directed and Miss Maggie Knight accompanied for two songs, "Canoe Song," folk tune, and "Gypsy Sweetheart," Herbert.

Mrs. Jesse Coleman played a piano solo, Toselli's "Serenade," and Elven Watkins sang "Desert Song," Romberg, with Miss Maness as accompanist.

Mrs. A. B. Nave poured tea at the dining room table, which was centered with a low basket of white and yellow chrysanthemums and lighted with white tapers in crystal holders. She was assisted by Misses Reba Curtis, Aubra Hankins and Marie Roan, members of the refreshment committee, in serving sandwiches, cookies, salted nuts and olives.

Miss Coleman, who had previously conferred with executive board members, answered questions on various angles of club business. Members continued the discussion with a brief business meeting in which they voted to sponsor a dance on the evening of Dec. 5 after the C of C-BCD banquet honoring state highway commissioners, and to contribute the proceeds to support for an NYA training project.

The club will join other service clubs of the city in deferring its regular meeting that week and attending the banquet, which will be served in the new high school gymnasium.

US WOMEN

By Sue Vinson.

A sister and brother, Betty and Jack Barry, are rival contestants for popularity honors at Junior High school this week. Betty has been nominated as the most popular girl in the seventh grade and Jack as the most popular boy in the sixth grade. Since voting is for teams in a contest between grades, one of the Barrys is going to defeat the other in the final count. But that's keeping it in the family.

Probably it was mention of Keystone cops in some movie advertising that reminded me of a cat named Keystone that belonged either to Frances Ballew or her brother, Joe Stribling, when they were kids. Both of them claimed the white cat and it, in the snooty manner that all cats have, never deigned to show any favoritism.

Already I've met one of the new home demonstration club reporters who was elected this month to serve in 1940. She is Mrs. J. M. Felts who will replace Mrs. E. N. East, the efficient reporter who has had charge of Kirkland club publicity since last January.

All the new reporters will have a chance to learn the fine points of their job Saturday, when Miss Laura Lane, director of publicity for the state extension service, will be here. Miss Lane is new to that job, was formerly society editor of the Vernon Record. Laura Tannahill, who was society editor for The Index a few years ago, took Miss Lane's place at Vernon incidentally.

TEXAS OUT-O'-DOORS

AUSTIN—A primitive battle for existence is taking place in the wooded sections of Texas, biologists of the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission discovered during a survey of squirrels. It is a fight, apparently to the finish, between the red or fox squirrels and the cat or gray squirrels. The reds are winning.

The fight is for possession of the range remaining. Sportsmen probably will be pulling for the cat squirrel to stage a comeback, but they apparently are backing the loser at this stage of the battle for the fox squirrel is moving into much of the country over which the cat squirrels formerly ranged. The gray nut-eaters are considered by the majority of hunters the best game animal of the two. Thinning of the woods makes the range more suitable for red squirrels, Game Department technicians have found, and therein lies the story of the advantage the reds have over the grays. The ratio is believed to be one gray squirrel for every ten reds except in some sections where there has been little cutting of timber. There the cat squirrels still outnumber the reds about ten to two.

Quail hunters who moan because Texas has a bag limit of twelve birds per day and a possession limit for any one week of thirty-six should examine the plight of bobwhite shooters in North Dakota. There state laws forbid the hunter using pointers or setters. Retrievers may be used, but NO POINTERS OR SETTERS.

The first snow-white dove reported in Texas was seen in Gillespie county recently by the state game warden with headquarters in Fredericksburg. The warden got within thirty yards of the dove and examined it closely through his field glasses. The dove appeared to be a pure albino, having pink eyes. It was not killed by the warden.

An argument as to which was the best shot proved costly recently for a couple of prominent young Beaumont attorneys. To settle the argument as to who was the best shot, they drove their car to a side road near Beaumont to shoot it out. They had driven only a short distance before they saw a couple of doves sitting in a tree. Two shots were fired by the driver of the car and he missed. Then the other attorney stuck his gun out the car window, but when he looked down the barrel of it he was face to face with a state game warden. In court the lawyers paid off $72. Moral—don't choose public roads and shoot from a car to settle a bet as to who is the best shot—or for any other reason.

Dame Nature has a lot of ways of aiding her children, but one of the most unusual is what she arranger for the prairie chicken. The prairie chicken is nature's best ventriloquist. Its call can be heard two miles away and far more clearly than by anyone within 300 yards of the birds.

BOBCATS LEVEL SIGHTS ON DISTRICT CROWN

Recovery of Injured Men Big Problem

With their sights on the district championship flag which has been in Vernon since last Thanksgiving, the Childress Bobcats have ten full days in which to prepare for their final barrier, the Electra Tigers. Unless Graham can pull the impossible and turn the Tigers back this week, the race will not be decided until the Bobcats and the Tigers tangle at Electra Nov. 30. The Bobcats, who will be idle this week, will need a tie or a victory at Electra to annex the title.

Chief concern of the Bobcats right now centers on injured members of the squad.

If Vic Bates, Childress' high scoring fullback, can get into top condition by Nov. 30, the Bobcat hopes will be lifted considerably. Bates played about two-thirds of the Wichita Falls game here last Friday night, but his game leg handicapped him considerably. He has been out since Oct. 20, when he suffered the bruised leg muscle in the Vernon game.

No additional damage was done to Bates' leg in the Coyote game last week and it is entirely possible that he will be in peak form for Electra.

Junior Brown went out of the Coyote fracas with an injury to his bad knee, but he is recovering satisfactorily and should be ready to go again within a few days. Several other members of the squad suffered minor injuries, but none of them appear to be of troublesome nature.

The Bobcats have not been in top physical condition for a single game this season, and the backfield has been hit particularly hard by injuries. Leroy Reeves was the first casualty, then James Willeford went out for almost a month with a bad shoulder. Morgan Goodson was on the hospital list for a time, and just as he and Willeford returned to form, Bates was hurt.

Workouts this week will not be too strenuous, but the squad will bear down early next week.

The Electra game will be an afternoon affair and tentative plans for a special train to carry Childress fans to the game are being made.

LUCKY DR. ANDERSON Iowa Coach Product of Golden Age Of Football Under Knute Rockne

By HARRY GRAYSON NEA Service Sports Editor CHICAGO.—The story book success of Dr. Eddie Anderson at Iowa sets Joseph Ralph Brandy to talking about coaching.

"Coaching", says Little Joe Brandy, "is 90 per cent personality, 5 per cent psychology and 5 per cent knowledge."

Brandy, now editing a newspaper at Ogdensburg, N. Y. . . . right on the Canadian border, likes Dr. Edward Nicholas Anderson's lucky pants yarn.

When Eddie Anderson drew his equipment as a 17-year-old, 150-pound Notre Dame freshman in 1918, Knute Rockne said to him: "Here's a lucky pair of pants, Anderson. They need some patching, so take 'em over to the tailor and have them fixed. But don't lose 'em. They're lucky. I'll let you wear 'em."

"Darned if I didn't believe that luck business", recalls Dr. Anderson.

And he's been "lucky" ever since . . . "lucky" as a player . . . "lucky" as a coach at Columbia College of Dubuque, DePaul of Chicago, Holy Cross and Iowa.

All of Dr. Anderson's good fortune cannot, of course, be traced to the lucky pair of pants, but, as Brandy points out, Rockne got the youngster off on the right track.

Dr. Anderson gets as much or more out of the Notre Dame system and its variations than any other product of the plan.

"That", explains Editor Brandy, "is because he came up in football's golden era of ideas".

ROCKNE CREATED DEMAND

The 1920 Notre Dame team . . . the best one Brandy ever saw and on which the then 147-pound quarterback blocked for the immortal George Gipp . . . sent more young men into coaching careers than any other one array.

On it were Dr. Eddie and Hunk Anderson, Clipper Smith of Villanova, Buck Shaw of Santa Clara, Slip Madigan of Saint Mary's; Chet Wynne, who went to Kentucky; Harry Mehre of Mississippi; Earl Walsh, the Fordham line coach, and Chet Grant, who is still a member of the Notre Dame staff.

Frank Thomas of Alabama, Curly Lambeau of the Green Bay Packers, Dutch Bergman and Tom Lieb played football at Notre Dame while Dr. Anderson and Brandy were in school. Jimmy Phelan of Washington captained the club in Brandy's freshman year.

"Less was known about football then", explains Brandy. "There was more to learn. We had a wonderful instructor in Rockne."

"We came into college with little or no knowledge of the game."

Little Joe Brandy would like to wager that Dr. Eddie Anderson distributed a complete set of lucky pants in Iowa City this fall.

Gridders Play Game in Long Undies

LAWTON, Okla. (UP)—Coach Jess Thompson's Cameron college football team and the spectators who attended the Cameron-Eastern Oklahoma game Saturday had recovered sufficiently today to report that "undies" make fine football togs, especially when it's raining.

Rain had been falling since Tuesday when Thompson and his team arrived in Wilburton, scene of the game, Saturday morning. The field was soaked and the mud deep.

"I decided I didn't want to get the boys' clean uniforms all dirty," Thompson said, "so when they had on their shoulderpads, long underwear and shoes I just told them to trot on out without the suits."

Teachers attending a district conference watched Cameron win 20 to 0.

Turkey Plans Cage Tourney

TURKEY. — Turkey's annual basketball tournament will be held here Dec. 15 and 16, according to announcement made this week by coach Al Duncan.

Thirty invitations have been sent to teams in this section of the Panhandle. Better games and larger attendance than for any tournament held in the past are expected, Duncan said.

The boys working for a place on the Turkey team are Chatty and Chas. Johnson, U. F. Coker, W. F. Geisler, Richburg, Jack Barnhill, Odell Setliff, Gly Brock, Perry Lacy and others. Duncan states prospects are good for a winning team this year. Last season the Turks won the county championship, and were nosed out of second place in the district by the Medicine Mound boys by only 2 points. The Turks beat the Carey Cardinals for third place.

Appropriate trophies will be given the winners in the tournament.

Davey Sets New Pro Pass Record

CHICAGO, Ill. (UP) — Davey O'Brien pitched his heart out Sunday, setting a National league forward passing record for the second straight week, while the bruising Chicago Bears were riddling his Philadelphia teammates, 27 to 14.

O'Brien, playing his second straight 59-minute ball game, completed 21 of his 36 passes, two more than the league record he set a week ago against the Green Bay Packers. Two were ruled complete because of interference, one was intercepted and one was good for an 84-yard touchdown.

THE WIZARD OF OZ

Adapted from the METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER TECHNICOLOR Picture by FRANCES BARBOUR

SYNOPSIS: Little Dorothy (Judy Garland), a Kansas country girl, is unhappy because a neighbor, wicked Miss Gulch, wants her dog, Toto, destroyed. That night a cyclone hits and Judy finds herself in the land of Oz. She sets out to find the Wizard (Frank Morgan), who alone can send her back to Kansas. On the road she meets a Scarecrow (Ray Bolger), who wants a brain, a Tin Woodman (Jack Haley), who wants a heart and a Cowardly Lion (Bert Lahr), who wants Courage. Unknown to them though, a Wicked Witch is following.

NOW READ CHAPTER THREE—BELOW

"So that's the Horse of a Different Color I've heard about."

In the poison poppy field, the four friends start to drowse off. But Glinda (Billie Burke), the Good Witch, sends down a snowstorm and saves them. They finally reach the beautiful Emerald City. The populace is gay and friendly and drives them through the streets in a lovely carriage drawn by a Changeable Horse.

"Tra-la-la, tra-la-la—here's how we sing the day away in the merry old land of Oz."

They go to the Wizard's castle but are told to come back later. Then a huge cloud descends on the city. In it is the Wicked Witch who serves notice on the city to "Surrender Dorothy or die." But Dorothy's magic ruby shoes save the day. Everybody assembles in the public square and there is a great dancing and singing festival. The four friends are deliriously happy and sure their wishes will be granted. The Scarecrow can almost feel his brain in action and the Tin Woodman can fairly hear his heart beating. Dorothy is certain she'll be back in Kansas for supper and the Cowardly Lion is sure he'll get the Courage he wants and be King of the Forest.

"Hey! — but what if she kills us first!"

Finally the Wizard consents to see them. They are overjoyed when he says that he will grant all their requests. But there is one important condition he has to make. They must first kill the Wicked Witch of the West and bring back her broomstick. The four friends start out. Don't miss reading the next thrilling episode.

FOOTBALL
Waco Sets Pace
In Schoolboy
Grid Chase

Waco continued last week as the standout team in Texas schoolboy football circles as Corpus Christi, 1938 champs, dropped out of consideration.

Waco beat the East Texas power, Tyler, 25-7, in an interdistrict contest, and has already annexed the district title.

Breckenridge in the Oil Belt is also roaring toward a title with a perfect record and has only Cisco or Mineral Wells to beat to go into the playoff round.

Sulphur Springs has won the championship in district 6 and Robstown beat Corpus to take the title in the upper bracket of district 16.

Sweetwater needs a victory over Big Spring in district 3, Mason Home must beat Polytechnic in district 7, Tyler is almost a cinch in district 11, and South Park of Beaumont must win over Livingston in district 14.

In other districts, this is the picture:

District 1—Lubbock and Amarillo, undefeated, meet Nov. 30 for championship.

District 2—Childress, leading by a half game, has Electra to play. Electra can win the championship by beating Childress and Graham.

District 4—Austin, El Paso, and El Paso High meet this week for the championship.

District 5—Sherman and Gainesville play Nov. 30 for the title.

District 8—Woodrow Wilson, undefeated and untied, has Sunset and Dallas Tech to play. Could be tied for the title by losing one of the games.

District 12—Nacogdoches, undefeated, needs only a tie with Henderson to win the title. Can win it with a victory or tie for it with a defeat.

District 13—Austin, Houston, leading by a half game, has Jeff Davis and Sam Houston of Houston to play. Lamar, Houston, still in the running.

District 15—Austin, undefeated and untied, has San Antonio Tech and Kerrville to play. Can be tied for the title with a loss.

District 16—Brownsville heads the lower bracket but can be tied for the title by McAllen if the Eagles lose to Harlingen.

KAISER
DEATH

DOORN, Netherlands (UP)—Former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany had a narrow escape from death yesterday when a cyclone passed within 50 feet of him as he walked in his private park. It tore down three trees, each at least three feet thick, it was disclosed today.

Parts of the trees went high in the air and were hurled down, burying themselves deep in the earth.

The former kaiser returned to his house highly alarmed and said prayers of thanksgiving.

Negro Boosted For Court Post

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Roosevelt received a request today to appoint a representative of the negro race for the supreme court vacancy caused by the death of the late Associate Justice Pierce Butler.

The request was made by the United Government Employees Inc., an organization of negro government workers, at a third anniversary meeting yesterday.

The resolution, which was sent to the president and members of the senate, recommended the appointment of Charles Houston, former dean of Howard university law school.

AT THE THEATERS

Although the plot rigidly follows the old "boy meets girl" theme, "Hollywood Cavalcade," now at the Palace is one of the more entertaining of the season's new crop of films.

It is something of a history of the movie industry with Don Ameche as the celluloid pioneer who made a star of Alice Faye, only to lose her and his position in the industry, then finally regain both.

The early sequences in which Miss Faye is the center of attraction in pie throwing comedies, the Keystone Cops and the counterpart of Mack Sennett's bathing beauties are particularly interesting to the older movie goers.

The Monogram offers another of the Jones family series, "Too Busy to Work," and as an added attraction a newsreel which includes scenes from the recent SMU-Texas A&M football game.

Baby Sandy and Mischa Auer, who overshadowed Bing Crosby in "Paris Honeymoon," are featured with Shirley Ross in "Unexpected Father" at the Gem.

INDUSTRIALIST FORCED TO FLEE GERMAN HOME

ZURICH, Switzerland (UP)—Fritz Thyssen, German iron and steel magnate credited with having aided the nazi party to achieve power in Germany, declared in a letter to the United Press today that his opposition to the war and the present policy of the reich government "forced me to leave Germany."

Thyssen is living at Locarno, Switzerland.

"As a member of the reichstag I expressed myself timely and emphatically against the war and the present policy of the reich government," Thyssen wrote. "This political attitude threatened to cause consequences which forced me to leave Germany."

Thyssen wrote that it was to be regretted that articles had appeared in the foreign press which neither directly nor indirectly originated with him. He referred to dispatches regarding his activities since he left Germany several weeks ago.

"I reserve to myself determination of the moment when public opinion should be informed," he wrote with reference to his differences with the Hitler regime.

BRONX CHEERS LEGALIZED Judge Rules Razzberries Proper Expression by Movie Patron

Dear Boss:

There is going to be plenty of Bronx cheers heard in the country's movie temples during the next few weeks now that the customers have been given a chance to pass them out legally.

I wouldn't be surprised if my cinema brother W. E. Wolfenbarger doesn't set aside his scheduled showing of the llano looseherder, Hopalong Cassidy, this weekend in favor of a mum version of Bertha The Sewing Machine Girl. And just to give the razzberry releasers their long sought opportunity without competing noise from the screen.

What a thrill it would be to see the hirsute chested hero escape from the water filled basement and rescue Bertha from her bunion producing task of playing bicycle with a Singer. And all to the accompaniment of a boisterous bevy of Bronx cheers, legally stifled these many years.

The legality of using the razzberry method of voicing one's opinion within the nation's movie houses was approved last week when a New York judge ruled that if two women insist on discussing the coming convolutions of the plot, a nearby patron has the right to give them the stadium salute.

This addition to the celluloid world's bill of rights was the most sweeping move since the practice of snuff throwing was outlawed on the lower floor at our local dime nights.

No longer will a customer who is seated near a couple of gabby lips be forced to endure without protest a description of how, in the next reel, the strip tease dancer will expose the spy ring that has been writing armanent secrets on the flyleaves of hymn books. You can turn and with the abandon of vegetarian at a pie eating contest emit a choice variety of the moisture laden laudation known as the razzberry, and still remain strictly within the limits of your legal rights.

The Bronx cheer is one of our American institutions and is as much a part of our heritage as overdue drug bills and sticky cake icing. This form of opinion expresser has been used legally for years as a method of heckling baseball umpires, replying to the little woman's request for a fur coat, and showing Sunday afternoon guests how intelligent junior is. Its place in the cinema castles may become as well known as the hisses that were once hurled at Jack Dalton and the cheers that rang out when Little Nell did a Sonja Henie safely across the river.

A few more such additions of such things that have been left out of our bill of rights, and the public will be floored by the constitution's lefts and rights.

Spookie (Bar Rester) Spinks, Your legal editor.

Pension Raise in California Asked

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UP)—Gov. Culbert L. Olson last night said he would ask the California legislature in January to adopt new taxes in an effort to boost old age pension payments to $50 or $60 monthly for those over 60 years of age.

Making another in a series of Sunday night broadcasts, the governor keynoted his pension message as follows: "The profit motive is failing to provide general employment and economic security, as witness 10 million unemployed men and women and millions demanding government pensions to protect them from abject poverty in their declining years."

Bronchitis, acute or chronic, is an inflammatory condition of the mucous membranes lining the bronchial tubes. Even if other medicines have failed you may get relief now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics. Only four survivors of the Torch-bearer reached port and those were taken to a hospital. The master of the ship had a fractured spine. British authorities believed the plague of mines meant that the U-boats had been having such a lean time raiding shipping that they had resorted to dumping mines indiscriminately.

Lawyer—

Coffman was shot as he walked along the sidewalk on one of Dallas' busiest streets with a young woman who was identified by police as a former employe in his office.

Miss Maddox, who said she had been trying to kill Coffman for weeks, walked up behind him. When about five feet from him she opened fire.

Coffman crumpled to the ground, turned and begged her to stop firing. Four more shots were fired. The lawyer staggered to his feet, stumbled across the street and fell again while his assailant continued to fire at him.

Miss Maddox readily admitted the shooting. It was the result, she said, of the attack which Coffman made on her last May. Miss Maddox spent several weeks in a hospital after the stabbing and she said today she feared Coffman would make another attempt to kill her.
