White House lawyer quits

Counsel resigns after land-deal fumble

■ There's little indication resignation will put end to persistent questions over response to Whitewater.

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — White House Counsel Bernard Nussbaum resigned Saturday, a casualty of turmoil over the Clinton administration's handling of questions related to the Whitewater land deal.

"I now believe I can best serve you by returning to private life," Nussbaum said in a letter to President Clinton. The 57-year-old New Yorker said his resignation is effective April 5.

Clinton, indirectly acknowledging the swirling controversy over Whitewater, wrote back: "We have worked together in Washington at a time when serving is hard."

Clinton said he accepted the resignation with "deep regret" and praised Nussbaum's efforts, but the president in recent days had made no effort to defend his counsel against mounting criticism.

There was little indication Nussbaum's departure would put an end to persistent questions — and harsh criticism from Republicans — over how

The Midland High Bulldogs couldn't win a District 4-5A basketball championship, but they are members of Texas' elite Class 5A Final Four.

The Purple Pack defeated The Colony 66-60 Saturday at Chaparral Center in the Region I finals to record its fifth consecutive playoff victory to earn a state tournament berth in Austin at the Frank Erwin Center Thursday through Saturday.

Residents to name party nominations in primary election

By Ed Todd
Staff Writer

Midland County Republicans and Democrats are expected to head to the polls in moderate numbers on Tuesday to decide their parties' nominations in the primaries.

The Republicans are fielding 23 candidates, including 15 who are in four contested races — Midland County judge, County Commissioner Precinct 2, County Commissioner Precinct 4, and judge of Midland County Court-at-Law No. 2.

Four Democrats are seeking three nominations, including that of Precinct 2 commissioner, a post held since 1987 by Republican Guy McCrary; the judgeship of Midland County Court-of-Law No. 2, and the justice-of-the-peace office.

Eight Republican candidates, including two presiding district-court judges and a county court-at-law judge, are unopposed in the primary. But one of their numbers, veteran Justice of the Peace

SAN ANTONIO — Three hours after arriving in San Antonio, Ed and Elaine Klinske, a vacationing Michigan couple, visited the Alamo. After touring the Shrine of Texas Liberty, Mrs. Klinske, 62, was surprised to find herself in tears.

"Golly, I didn't mean to do this, but it chokes me up. . . . They never had a chance, but they never gave up," she said of the Alamo defenders' fabled last stand.

The Klinske's were among approximately three million visitors to the Alamo, Texas' No. 1 tourist attraction last year.

Somali gunmen attack Egyptian, Pakistani troops, U.N. official says

MOGADISHU, Somalia (AP) — Somalis firing small arms, rocket-propelled grenades and one mortar round staged a series of overnight attacks on Egyptian and Pakistani peacekeeping troops in south Mogadishu.

One Pakistani soldier suffered a minor leg wound from mortar shrapnel and one Somali was wounded in the Mogadishu attacks late Friday and early Saturday, said U.N. military spokesman Maj. Christopher Budge.

Egyptian soldiers and Somali gunmen exchanged about 300 rounds of ammunition in fighting around an Egyptian strong point that flared and waned for almost four hours, he said.

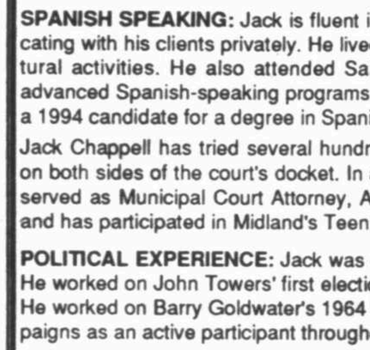

The attacks come at a time of an anti-Egypt campaign on the streets of south Mogadishu. Gen. Mohamed Farrah Aidid's Somali National Alliance have portrayed rival warlord Ali Mahdi Mohamed's ongoing talks in Cairo as an Egyptian attempt to sabotage Aidid's reconciliation efforts in Nairobi.

Leaflets accusing the Egyptians of trying to colonize Somalia have been circulated in recent days in south Mogadishu, which is controlled by Aidid's SNA militia.

Budge said neither the United Nations nor the Egyptians knew the motive for the seemingly organized attacks. He said the U.N. had no indication other than the location of the attacks in south Mogadishu that any particular group might be behind the raids.

EXPERIENCE COUNTS!

County Court At Law No. 2 Is Important To You!

Why not elect a candidate with 20 years experience in Jury Trials throughout West Texas -- with Roots in Midland?

JACK CHAPPELL has maintained an active jury trial and appellate practice in the courts of West Texas since his licensing in 1974; including: municipal court, county courts of law, state district courts, courts of appeal (including the Texas Court or Criminal Appeals); also, including Federal District Courts and the United States 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

LEGAL BACKGROUND: Grandfather, Bell Chappell, began his practice of law in Midland, Texas in 1918, by apprenticing under Judge C.M. Caldwell in an office on Abilene Street in Midland; father, Byron Chappell, currently practicing law in Lubbock, Texas, was born in Midland in 1916; sister, Candace Chappell, is an attorney in Houston; mother, Rosalie Whitworth Chappell attended the University of Texas School of Law.

Jack Chappell received his law license by appenticeship and practical "hands-on" experience in the law office of Byron Chappell and John R. McFall (now District Court Judge in Lubbock).

Jack is licensed by the Supreme Court of Texas, the United States District Courts for the Northern District of Texas, Western District of Texas, and the District for the State of Arizona; and, as well, by the 5th United States Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans and by the United States Supreme Court in Washington, D.C.

Jack is a product of West Texas, having attended Sul Ross State University earning a degree in Business Administration in 1965; and Texas Tech University with a Master's Degree in Business Administration in International Finance. He has traveled extensively throughout Eastern Europe and Mexico and was a volunteer with the American Red Cross in South Vietnam.

SPANISH SPEAKING: Jack is fluent in Spanish and serves as interpreter in the courtroom as well as communicating with his clients privately. He lived in a home in Mexico City during high school and greatly enjoys cross-cultural activities. He also attended Saint Michael's High School in Santa Fe, New Mexico. He has attended advanced Spanish-speaking programs in Monterrey, San Luis Potosi, and Guadalajara (1991, 1992, 1993). He is a 1994 candidate for a degree in Spanish from the University of Arizona.

Jack Chappell has tried several hundred jury trials throughout West Texas and has represented clients actively on both sides of the court's docket. In addition to the private practice of law, which he is engaged in now, he has served as Municipal Court Attorney, Assistant District Attorney and as an Assistant Attorney General of Texas, and has participated in Midland's Teen Court Program.

POLITICAL EXPERIENCE: Jack was a candidate for the Texas House of Representatives, District 75A in 1978. He worked on John Towers' first election to the U.S. Senate while in high school, where he met Barry Goldwater. He worked on Barry Goldwater's 1964 U.S. Presidential campaign. He has worked on various other political campaigns as an active participant throughout the years.

Jack Chappell will bring experience and insight, and he will work for you diligently as Judge of County Court at Law No. 2!

Pro-apartheid factions force leader to retract entry in election

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — A bellicose white assembly assailed one of its leaders Saturday, forcing him to recant in less than a day a decision to enter South Africa's first all-race elections.

The decision of some whites to stay out of the election raises fears of violence as the election nears.

Retired Gen. Constand Viljoen, who leads Afrikaner Volksfront, an umbrella group of right-wingers, registered a party offshoot for the balloting minutes before a Friday midnight deadline.

Hours later, he was slammed by colleagues when he tried to persuade their self-appointed "Boer parliament" in Pretoria to do the same.

"No Viljoen," declared one poster, accusing the former army chief commander of countenancing treason by sanctioning the election expected to give South Africa's black majority power for the first time.

"How can I legitimize an illegal election?" said Eugene TerreBlanche, leader of the neo-Nazi Afrikaner Resistance Movement, one of the factions that shot down Viljoen's idea.

Another former election opponent, the Zulu-based Inkatha Freedom Party, also registered Friday for the April 26-28 vote. But it said its participation depended on international mediation of demands for a separate Zulu kingdom.

In a secret ballot by the assembly of 100 right-wing members, an overwhelming majority reconfirmed its resolve to boycott the vote.

The body wants a separate white-ruled "volkstaat" rather than join a black-governed South Africa, and is now drafting a constitution and finalizing its proposed borders.

A somber Viljoen nodded to the verdict. "This is the will of the people," he said.

MYTH: Ongoing battle between fact, fiction surrounds Alamo

ings about Mexicans, Tejanos (Mexicans who lived in wha now is Texas) and even blacks who fought at the Alamo or in other battles during the Texas Revolution.

Some praise the heroism of Tejanos such as Juan Seguin who supported the principles of liberty that William Barret Travis celebrated in his famous "I shall not surrender or retreat" letter of Feb. 24, 1836.

But such talk about the history of the Alamo rubs some people the wrong way.

"To make heroes of the Mexican people defending the Alamo is like making heroes of the (Nazi-sympathizing World War II French) Vichy government," historian Rodolfo Acuna once said of Mexicans and Tejanos whose lionized forefathers fought against Gen. Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna at the Alamo, the "Cradle of Texas Liberty."

But it is the man in the coonskin cap whose evolving story typifies the twisted path of Alamo revisionism.

Most Americans know that Crockett died knee-deep in slain Mexican soldiers, swinging Old Betsy, his Kentucky long rifle.

For years, Texas school children read in Anna J. Harwicke Pennybacker's "A New History of Texas for Schools" (1888): "The Texans were literally cut to pieces, yet not one fell unavenged. Brave Crockett left a score of bodies about him to show his work."

Susannah Dickinson, wife of one of the slain Alamo defenders, later said that after the siege she found Crockett's body not far from the front of the chapel. So he must have died fighting, right?

Enrique de la Pena, an aide to Santa Anna, wrote that Gen. Manuel Fernandez Castrillon captured Crockett along with a handful of other Alamo defenders. Then Castrillon brought them to Santa Anna and asked him to have mercy on the famous frontiersman and former member of Congress.

Santa Anna brushed him off as if he were a pesky mosquito. Then, wrote de la Pena, the soldiers pounced "like a tiger leaps upon its prey," tortured their captives and then killed them.

De la Pena wrote that he was horrified and turned away while "these unfortunates died without complaining and without humiliating themselves before their captors."

Enter Bill Groneman, a New York researcher who in a new book, "Defense of a Legend: Crockett and the de la Pena Diary" (Republic of Texas Press), claims that the highly regarded de la Pena diary might be a forgery.

So who knows how Crockett really died? Actually, no one.

But Walter Lord wrote that a "surprising number of contemporary sources suggest that Crockett was one of the six Americans who gave up at the end, only to be executed on Santa Anna's orders." Lord's book, "A Time to Stand" (1961), remains the most-respected popular account of the battle.

The Myth Begins

Jim Bowie could have spared polemicists and historians a lot of trouble had he blown up the Alamo before the siege, as Sam Houston later claimed he had ordered.

But the Alamo stood and the heroic legends followed.

Surprisingly, it was not until the end of the 19th century that Americans, and Texans in particular, made articles of faith from the idea that none of the defenders surrendered and that each died a heroic death.

Kevin Young of Forest Historical Associates says that the version of Alamo history students read in the Pennybacker text grew out of a "defeated South" mindset.

It gave Texans, and Southerners in general, "something to draw on after the Civil War," says Young. "Texas had its own Revolution."

Historian Stephen Hardin of Victoria College in Victoria, says that in the late 19th century the Alamo "was depicted as part of the great Celtic Anglo-American myth" with Travis as the model of manhood and heroic behavior.

By the 1960s, he says, "You have people . . . viewing the Alamo not as a symbol but as an event that occurred in history with human beings."

In his "Remember the Alamo" (1958), a part of Random House's Landmark Books for young readers, Robert Penn Warren described those who manned the Alamo as a hodgepodge of individuals driven by motives ranging from greed to patriotic idealism.

Throughout the 20th century, textbook writers have dismissed as myth the story of Travis drawing a line in the dirt and asking those who would fight to the death to step across it.

Then there are Santa Anna's soldiers. Despite the poor non-Spanish-speaking Mayans that Santa Anna had impressed into his army, most historians have written that, overall, his soldiers had heart and displayed courage.

It was left to Rodolfo Acuna, author of "Occupied America: A History of Chicanos" (1981) to describe the Mexican Army as "ill-prepared, ill-equipped, and ill-fed Mexicans," while the Alamo defenders were described as "well-armed professional soldiers."

Ethnicity and nationalism — described by some as "race" issues — have played a significant role in the way some have portrayed the siege at the Alamo and the Texas Revolution.

In the 1956 edition of "Texas History Movies" (which were comic books first issued in 1928 and used in some Texas schools), one of the panels on the causes of the Texas Revolution shows a Mexican and a Texan passing each other on a walkway. The Mexican calls the Texan "Gringo!" as the Texan calls the Mexican "Greaser!"

The sometimes-inflammatory "Texas History Movies" were not nearly as racist as stories written in the 1950s. That may be because, in the 1930s, middle-class Tejanos — Texans descended from Mexican ancestors from the part of the state that once was Mexico — were laying claim to their part of the Alamo legacy

Timothy Matovina of Incarnate Word College in San Antonio points out that "Unlike Anglo-Americans, European immigrants and Mexican soldiers who fought at the Alamo, Tejanos were hometown residents caught between two opposing armies."

Matovina has discovered, and is preparing to publish with the University of Texas Press (Austin), more than 70 documents that record Tejano testimony contemporary with the fall of the Alamo.

FUTURE: Texans debate symbol of freedom

symbols of freedom, surpassed perhaps only by the Statue of Liberty in New York Harbor and the Liberty Bell in Philadelphia.

Many visitors say they are struck by the small size of the cruciform-shaped chapel and adjacent Long Barracks, all that remains from the famous battle of 1836 at Mission San Antonio de Valero, established in the 18th century by Spanish colonizers.

But there is nothing small about the growing controversy surrounding the Alamo and the adjacent plaza.

Critics have renewed the claim that two centuries ago — at least 100 years before the Battle of the Alamo — hundreds of Indians were buried beneath what is now the Alamo's front and side lawns and under adjacent portions of Alamo Plaza East. They say parades and tour buses are defiling sacred burial grounds.

Others complain that the Alamo's official history perpetuates legends at the expense of accuracy.

And influential political and civic leaders would like to restore and expand the area surrounding the chapel, giving it a more distinguished setting, while erecting signs to identify and describe historical features.

As any amateur Alamo buff will tell you, it was on the plaza, not in the chapel, that most of the 1836 battle was fought on walls and palisades long since demolished.

"Five hundred years from now, all the other issues we are talking about will be forgotten, but the Alamo will still be there. It's like the Acropolis. It's that important," said Councilman Bill Thornton.

On a more practical note, the Alamo is a defining feature of San Antonio, the nation's 10th largest city best known as a tourist and convention destination. Among the theme parks, historical offerings and the famous downtown River Walk, the Alamo ranks first among attractions that lure an estimated 10 million visitors a year to the, well, Alamo City.

Simmering beneath the surface of the debate are ethnic tensions. Here, in America's first city with a majority Hispanic population, is a shrine whose stewards celebrate the heroism of Anglos like Davy Crockett, Travis and Jim Bowie while placing far less emphasis on women, Mexicans and African-American slaves who also died defending the mission.

"Scratch the surface of most Mexican-Americans, regardless of their class, and the lingering sentiment is that it is a shrine to racism rather than liberty," said Dr. Abelardo Valdez, a University of Texas at San Antonio sociologist who teaches about race and ethnic relations. "Mexican-Americans see the Alamo as the place that begat their minority status. It's a difficult thing for them to accept."

Valdez's views, probably surprising to many, are commonly held by other respected Mexican-American leaders here.

"The Alamo myth is what anthropologists would call a creation myth; every society has one to justify itself," said Dr. Gilberto Hinojosa, dean of humanities and arts at Incarnate Word College and a professor of early Texas history. "The Alamo myth arose at the same time newly arrived Anglos were dispossessing Mexicans of their land."

Over time, the Alamo's message has become almost universal, said historian T.R. Fehrenbach. "It was a great, tragic battle, and those men were standing for some sort of principal there — if nothing more than courage."

Today, Texans and tourists alike celebrate the 158th anniversary of the Battle of Alamo.

As in the past, throughout San Antonio and Texas, speakers again will attempt to define the meaning of the Shrine of Texas Liberty and its peculiar effect on the human heart.

But this year, more voices are being heard in counterpoint, raising issues that seem to define how the historical representation of the Alamo needs to change in order for the shrine to thrive for yet another century as a symbol of freedom — for all Texans.

WIN: Midland High Bulldogs make it to Final Four

(From 1A)

Abilene Cooper won the district title, but was eliminated Friday night in the Region I semifinals when The Colony beat them 66-53.

"No one thought we could make it (to Austin), but here we are," said MHS junior guard John Marc Sanon. "This feels like the world championship with the Chicago Bulls."

Reserve post Camron Stotts added, "I thought it was hopeless when we were 2-5. I really didn't think we had a chance of doing much, but this is better than anything I could ever ask for."

This band of Bulldogs doesn't even know how to react to the feeling of a Final Four berth since the last time MHS was in the Final Four was before they were born.

"I wasn't even born when they went to Austin in 1973," MHS junior guard Jumon Hailey said. "Everyone on the team thought going into the season that we would have a great basketball team, then we get off to that horrible start.

"I was wondering if basketball was really worth it when we were 2-5. Then we began to play better and I knew we could do it once we made the playoffs."

Senior guard Ryan Bradberry, who started the season as a reserve before cracking the starting lineup, had a huge game against The Colony, scoring 20 points. After the game, he was still a bit numb, but admitted he had some different goals for this season.

"I was just hoping we would make the playoffs this year," Bradberry said. "I can't believe this. This is better than I ever thought it would be."

Team seniors really felt the joy of the Final Four berth.

"It can't get any better than this," said 6-5 senior Jason Kopp, who is the tallest of the Bulldogs' smallish starting lineup. "This means so much because we weren't picked to win anything — not picked to make the playoffs and certianly not to be in Austin. We've come a long way and that makes it really good."

Jack Stephenson, who has his first Final Four team as head coach of the Bulldogs, was rewarded with a dunking of ice water, just like Jimmy Johnson of the Dallas Cowboys.

"This is one of the neatest feelings in the world, but it's cold," Stephenson said. "I'll take a dunking like this every year."

MHS Basketball Playoff History (Since 1961)

1971: Lost to Wichita Falls Rider in bi-district. 0-1.
1972: Defeated Wichita Falls Rider in bi-district, defeated Lubbock Monterey in region semifinals, defeated Highland Park in region finals, lost to San Antonio Jefferson in state semifinals. 3-1.

VOTE: Residents to name partys' nominations in election primary

(From 1A)

Robert H. "Bob" Pine, will be opposed by the Democratic Party's nominee, likely Manuel Lujan, in the November general election.

Should run-off elections be necessary, the runoffs are set for April 12. A candidate must have a simple majority — more than 50 percent of the vote — to win an election.

Republican races fielding more than two candidates are those for county judge, judgeship of County Court-at-Law No. 2, and county commissioners for precincts No. 2 and No. 4.

The victors will be taking their parties' banners to the general election on Nov. 8, when only three Democrats — who are a bare minority in Midland County politics — will be challenging Republicans in three races: Precinct 2 county commissioner, judgeship of County Court-at-Law No. 2, and the justice-of-the-peace post.

Midland County elections official Pat Eastup is predicting a moderate voter turnout. Countywide, 55,459 voters are registered for Tuesday's primary elections.

In the 14-day early-voting period that ended Friday, 4,723 votes — which represent 8.5 percent of the electorate — were cast. Of that number, 4,206 were Republican votes; 517 were by Democrats. The Republicans represented 90 percent of the early vote.

Gauging by the early-voting turnout, Ms. Eastup said the 1994 primary elections are "running pretty much like" the 1990 primaries, which also were in a non-presidential election year.

Four years ago, 39 percent of the electorate cast ballots in the primary elections. Of those votes, 86 percent were by Republicans.

There are four contested races in the Republican Party primary elections.

And four candidates, including a lawyer, a state prosecutor, a businessman and a former political consultant, are running for the Republican nomination for a four-year term as county judge to succeed Charles W. "Bro" Seltzer, who is seeking election to another judgeship.

The county judge is the presiding officer of the Commissioners' Court and is the county's chief fiscal officer. The position pays $60,000 annually.

The county-judge candidates are Ray P. Moudy, 65, a Midland lawyer; Teresa Clingman, 40, a prosecutor in the district attorney's office; Jeff Norwood, 29, former chief-of-staff to Texas Railroad Commissioner Barry Williamson, and businessman Jim Prince, 57.

The Republican winner of the county-judge primary race will be unopposed in the Nov. 8 general election.

Four Republicans and a lone Democrat are seeking title to the $88,417-a-year judgeship of Midland County Court-at-Law No. 2. The court's presiding judge, James "Jim" Fitz-Gerald III, is retiring from the bench.

Republican candidates for jurist are Charles W. "Bro" Seltzer, 45, Midland County judge since 1991; Midland trial lawyers Jack Chappell and John D. Roosa, and Marvin Moore, a county prosecutor.

The lone Democrat seeking his party's nomination for the judgeship is George Patterson, a prosecutor in the district attorney's office.

Three Republicans, including incumbent Commissioner Guy McCrary, and two Democrats are seeking their political parties' nominations for commissioner of Midland County Precinct 2.

Republicans vying for a seat on the five-member court are Patrick Bostick, a 36-year-old deputy sheriff; McCrary, 40, who has been commissioner since 1987, and Audie Porter, a 58-year-old salesman.

Winner of that race will challenge the victor of the Democratic Party primary in the general election.

Candidates in the Democratic primary for Precinct 2 are James Brooks, a 55-year-old farmer-businessman in Greenwood and Marvin Manning, a 58-year-old businessman who deals in cars and rental property.

Four Republicans are campaigning for the Commissioners' Court's Precinct 4 post, which is being vacated by Republican Winfree "Win" Brown, the precinct's commissioner since 1971. Brown is retiring from office.

The candidates are Herb Wales, a 64-year-old Midland lawyer-landman; Bruce Blake, a 39-year-old landman and management consultant; Charlie Goss, a 60-year-old home-builder; and James Brezina, a 45-year-old Midland petroleum geologist.

The five-member Commissioners' Court is the county's governing and policy-making body and sets county government's tax rate and fiscal-year budgets.

A commissioner's annual salary, including travel allowance, is about $31,000.

Robert H. "Bob" Pine, Midland County justice of the peace since 1964, is unopposed for the Republican Party nomination for the justice post. But Pine, 78, a former Democrat, will be opposed in the general election by the sole Democrat in the race, Manuel R. Lujan, a 29-year-old Midland bail bondsman and former law-enforcement officer.

The justice's salary is $39,180, including a travel allowance.

Republican candidates who remain uncontested in the primary and general elections are:

- John Hyde, presiding judge of the 238th Texas Judicial District Court.
- Dean Rucker, presiding judge of the 318th Texas Judicial District Court for family matters.
- Willie B. DuBose, former County Court-at-Law judge and an ex-Democrat, is unopposed for judge of the newly created 385th Texas Judicial District Court.
- Al Walvoord, presiding judge of the Midland County Court-at-Law No. 1.
- District Clerk Vivian Wood.
- County Clerk Rosenelle Cherry.
- County Treasurer Carol Baker.

Serbs may test international resolve on peace, U.N. officials say

By Srecko Latal
Associated Press Writer

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina — U.N. officials confirmed Saturday that more Bosnian Serb artillery had been spotted around Sarajevo, and said the Serbs might be testing enforcement of the cease-fire.

"It is obvious that there still are some heavy weapons not under our control," said Maj. Rob Annink, a spokesman for United Nations peacekeepers.

He was referring to disclosures that peacekeepers found six Serb 122 mm howitzers late Thursday just inside the NATO-mandated 12-mile exclusion zone around the Bosnian capital.

Annink said five of the howitzers had been pulled out of the zone in compliance with U.N. demands, and the last was to be removed Saturday.

But the discovery of the artillery, along with more gunfire and grenade exchanges between Bosnian Serbs and the Muslim-led government troops defending Sarajevo, raised fears that the three-week cease-fire could be in trouble.

U.N. officials did not make clear whether Serbs recently had moved the six howitzers back into the zone, or whether the guns simply were discovered belatedly.

NATO has threatened to bomb any heavy weapons not pulled back from Sarajevo or put under U.N. control. The air strikes would have to be requested by the United Nations.

Despite numerous apparent violations since the ultimatum on artillery passed two weeks ago, U.N. officials say the Bosnian Serbs have mostly complied, making air strikes unnecessary.

But with major powers reluctant to supply thousands more troops to police the fragile cease-fire, concern mounted that Serbs might be testing the international community's resolve.

"It looks like that," Annink said Saturday. "And that's why we need, very fast, extra troops to decrease this tension that is building up."

On Friday night, U.N. radar tracked two mortar rounds fired near Bosnian Serb positions around Vogosca north of Sarajevo, but Annink said he could not confirm which side was responsible. A French battalion reported two more mortar firings at about midnight.

Mortars fall under the NATO ultimatum.

Report: Algerian gunmen kill two

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — Gunmen disguised as students opened fire on the director of Algiers' fine arts school as he reported for work Saturday morning, killing him and his son, Algerian radio reported.

In a separate attack, gunmen seriously wounded a journalist for the state-run television ENTV, the station said. One French and eight Algerian journalists have been killed since May.

There was no claim of responsibility for the attacks. But they bore the earmarks of the hundreds of attacks carried out by an Islamic insurgency trying to topple the military-backed government.

Ahmed Asselah, a noted painter in his mid-50s known for his opposition to Muslim fundamentalists, was hit in the face with a volley of gunfire and died instantly, the report said. His son Rabah, a student at the Ecole des Beaux Arts, died later of stomach wounds.

Violence has left an estimated 3,700 people dead since authorities canceled January 1992 parliamentary elections to thwart a victory by the Islamic Salvation Front.

BRITT IMPORTS IS THE NUMBER ONE CUSTOMER SERVICE VOLVO DEALER IN THE NATION.

PETER IENATSCH AND HIS DAUGHTER, BRITT LEACH AREN'T SURPRISED!

When you've driven a Volvo as long as they have, you know a lot about Volvo quality. And when you've known Britt Imports as long as they have, you recognize and appreciate quality customer service.

Dr. Ienatsch, an Odessa resident since 1973, bought his first Volvo, a brand new model 122S wagon in March, 1965. Although nearing 30 years of age, it's just "barely broken-in" with ONLY 170,000 miles.

Britt began driving her Dad's classic 1966 P1800 in 1968 and she bought her first Volvo, a 1979 242GT, in 1984. Her latest is a new 1994 850 which she purchased only last month from Britt Imports.

To Britt Leach, Dr. Peter Ienatsch, and all the proud Volvo owners who have made Britt Imports number one in customer service, we extend our sincere appreciation.

China allows reporters inside prison holding famous activist

LINGYUAN COUNTY, China (AP) — In an attempt to refute international reports of brutality against political prisoners, for the first time the Chinese government opened up a prison holding one of its best-known dissidents.

But as The Associated Press and other news organizations were visiting the remote prison labor camp where political activist Liu Gang, 35, is serving a six-year sentence, police across the country were rounding up other dissidents.

Friday's moves — a week before Secretary of State Warren Christopher is to visit Beijing for talks on human rights — showed a struggle within the Chinese government over how to respond to international criticism of its rights record.

The official line is that human rights is an internal affair. That thinking was behind a police roundup of dissidents in recent days that included China's most famous activist, Wei Jingsheng, who was held for about 24 hours.

But the United States has heated up the debate since the 1989 military crackdown on the Tiananmen Square democracy movement and linked a lucrative trade relationship to rights improvements. In turn, China has attempted to appear more accommodating.

After years of refusing to even discuss human rights, the government began holding talks in 1991 on the issue with Western governments. Little has come of them, but participants insist that dialogue itself is progress.

Israelis rally, demand dismantlement of settlements

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Tens of thousands of Israelis, many waving black flags in mourning over the Hebron mosque massacre, rallied Saturday and demanded that the government dismantle Jewish settlements in the occupied lands.

"The Israelis are sick of the settlers and their extremism," said Tzali Reshef, a leader of the Peace Now group that organized the rally. The mosque gunman was a Jewish settler.

In Arab east Jerusalem, Palestinians hurled stones and bottles at Israeli riot police who responded with tear gas and rubber bullets. Twenty protesters were detained.

The riot came after a former guerrilla fighter exhorted Palestinians to take up arms again.

"We have to respond to the massacre . . . and return to the intefadeh," the Palestinian uprising launched in December 1987, Salim Zerai told a crowd of 300. Zerai served 23 years in prison for an attempted seaborne attack and was released in October.

The clashes underlined how the shock waves from the Feb. 25 massacre at the Ibrahim Mosque in Hebron continue to reverberate, sharpening old hatreds and jeopardizing the peace process.

In Tel Aviv's Kings Square, tens of thousands of Israelis rallied in a show of support for the peace negotiations with the PLO. Some waved Palestinian flags. Banners read "Dismantle all the settlements" and "War against the extreme right."

"Let's end this horrible occupation," actress Hanna Meron told the crowd. "Let's not do onto others as was done to us."

Reshef, the Peace Now leader, said the immediate aim was to push for the ouster of the 400 Jewish settlers who live among 80,000 Palestinians in the heart of the West Bank town of Hebron.

The demonstrators have the support of several Cabinet ministers. Israel's leftist minister of culture, Shulamit Aloni, branded the Hebron settlers "extremists and racists."

Speaking Saturday on Israel TV, she said the government should "kick out" the Hebron settlers, but without committing Israel to uprooting all settlements.

Prosecutor's actions cause more turbulence at White House

By Pete Yost
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Special prosecutor Robert Fiske struck quickly to address even the slightest suggestions of tampering in the Whitewater investigation, sending a message that reverberated from Arkansas to the White House.

Fiske made his mark in the midst of a tumultuous week in which scrutiny shifted beyond the Clintons' past business dealings in Arkansas to include the behavior of key figures since the Whitewater investigation began.

Making things worse was the White House's embarrassing admission that senior aides to President Clinton received three private briefings from Treasury Department officials on the status of an investigation into a failed Arkansas savings and loan tied to the Clintons and their Whitewater land venture.

Fallout was inevitable. First came a memo ordering aides to avoid contacts with investigators, and then the resignation Saturday of embattled White House chief counsel Bernard Nussbaum, who was involved in the briefings.

The disclosures also gave Republicans, who struggled early to find a theme for their partisan attacks, a direct target. By week's end, Capitol Hill was abuzz with stinging questions about whether the White House sought to cover up or influence the investigation.

Two of the private briefings came last fall when the White House reportedly was told the Clintons had been named as possible beneficiaries of questionable transactions but were accused of no wrongdoing. The third came just last month.

The revelations drew the White House directly back into the fray just a few short weeks after it sought to distance itself by naming Fiske to conduct an independent investigation.

The White House, expressing regret, said the meetings were only to address press inquiries about the case.

A White House official, speaking on grounds of anonymity Saturday, said of the president: "I think we've already said how he found out about the meetings, which was in the process of the news accounts."

Neel Lattimore, a spokesman for Mrs. Clinton, said she "knew nothing about the meetings," even though her chief of staff attended one of them.

Rep. Jim Leach, R-Iowa, issued a statement Saturday maintaining that Fiske's decision to subpoena a half-dozen of Clinton's senior White House aides has moved the investigation "from possible illegal acts committed by a president prior to taking office to possible illegal actions by a president in office. Obstruction of justice is now clearly the issue."

Leach, ranking Republican on the House Banking Committee, early last month released documents obtained by committee staff showing that a company tied to Madison Guaranty Savings and Loan Association, covered a $7,322.42 payment on a 1985 loan to then-Gov. Clinton.

Sen. Al D'Amato, R-N.Y., said Saturday "it's just not conceivable that all the people who worked for them at these high levels ... did not tell the president or the first lady" what they learned from the meetings.

"It's just not credible," said D'Amato, adding that Clinton eventually will have to more fully address the "what did he know and when did he know it" question about the White House meetings.

While Republican rancor grew, Fiske wasted no time in responding on several fronts to suggestions of interference in the probe.

Just days after a newspaper reported that a courier at the Rose Law Firm, where Mrs. Clinton and other top administration officials once worked, had shredded documents that may have been related to Whitewater, Fiske brought the courier before a grand jury in Little Rock, Ark., to be questioned.

The courier, a young college student, reportedly testified he shredded documents from a box that included the initials of late deputy White House counsel Vincent Foster but that he did not see any mention of Whitewater.

In court filings in New York, meanwhile, Fiske revealed that he had decided to hire pathologists to directly re-examine the conclusion that Foster, who was found dead in a park last summer, had committed suicide.

Foster, a former law partner of Mrs. Clinton, was working on Whitewater matters at the time of his death.

ZNORE NO MORE

Each evening millions of people lay down for a restful night of sleep.
Dreaming, snoring, dreaming and snoring again...keeping themselves and their spouses from getting the good night's rest they need.

NOW, THERE IS A CURE FOR SNORING.

Through a series of three to five 15-minute laser treatments, performed under local anesthesia, snoring is being cured approximately 85% of the time. A laser is used to reshape with precision the back of the throat to allow more room for air passage thus alleviating the cause of snoring.
It sounds easy... and it is.
To find out if you or a loved one is a candidate for this new laser treatment breakthrough, schedule your appointment today.

PROTEST: Students practice disobedience

(From 1A)

Marian Jensen, dean of students. "And you cannot tell students that that's an important value . . . and then be surprised when they decide to use those tactics on us."

About 100 students stormed Weston Hall on Feb. 1, angered that administrators planned to turn the building into an admissions office instead of a student-activity center.

The students set up a security force, tapped into the phone lines and the school computer, and used electronic mail to communicate to the outside world. They occupied the building for 32 days.

The siege ended Friday with a victory: The administration agreed to create a task force to study the need for more student space. Some of the protesters were appointed to the panel.

"I think it's now obvious that direct action and activism can be successful in turning the wheels of the process in the system," said protester Tim Benedict, a 20-year-old student from Falls Church, Va.

Protest is practically a way of life at the 660-student liberal arts school 10 miles northeast of Dayton.

The private college opened in 1853, pledging equal rights for women. In 1971, it opened a law school in Washington to train lawyers in social activism. In 1987, it banned Peace Corps recruiters because, it said, the agency didn't ban sexual discrimination.

Last year, the college instituted an anti-date rape policy that requires students to ask for, and receive, verbal consent before any type of physical contact. The policy set off debate at the college and around the nation.

HEAR: Officials expect crowd at meeting their 3306 W. Golf Course Road property.

The city's review of the Erskine property comes amid an ongoing dispute between the Erskines and an adjoining property owner, who claims the operation presents a health hazard.

Ms. Erskine has said that her property — recognized as a sanctuary by state and federal agencies — met the exemption for four years until the city cited her in December.

A city official said the Erskine property had not been exempt and the assumption otherwise was due to a "misunderstanding."

To receive the exemption requires a majority vote by the City Council.

The council will receive input from an outside authority, the city staff and opponents and supporters of the request.

If more people show up than council chambers can accommodate, the meeting will be moved to another location, officials said.

The agenda item will be conducted similar to the city's public hearing for planning and zoning requests. Each side will be given one-half hour to present views followed by a 10 minute rebuttal, depending on the circumstances.

City staff from different departments will present recommendations and any suggested restrictions if the request is granted.

An analysis of the property from veterinarian Evret Newman, regional director for zoonosys control for the Texas Department of Health in El Paso, will also be submitted. Zoonosys concerns diseases people can contract from animals.

"I went out there with him this morning . . . for a couple of hours and he toured the site," Assistant City Manager Glen Hackler said Friday afternoon.

Hackler said Newman appeared to do a thorough examination of the property.

Police: Deputy, 1 of 18 hostages, kills captor

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A gunman carrying a crude bomb took 18 people hostage Saturday at the Salt Lake City Library, then was shot dead by a deputy who had snuck in among the hostages. No one else was hurt.

Salt Lake County Sheriff's Lt. Lloyd Prescott was teaching a class for police officers in a room next to the one where the gunman was guarding the hostages, Lt. Marty Vuyk said.

"He made a super move. He became the last hostage by walking in the room and closing the door behind him," Vuyk said.

Prescott, who was dressed in sweats, shot the gunman four times in the chest and then wrestled him to the ground, police said. None of the hostages were hurt.

The gunman, identified as Clifford Lynn Draper, died at LDS Hospital, Vuyk said.

The 5½-hour ordeal began just after a group of Tibetan Buddhist monks had dismantled an intricate sand painting they had created over four days at the library. The monks, who live in exile in India, were to scatter the painting and throw its grains into the nearby Jordan River. They were not taken hostage.

The man leaped onto a table, pulled out a handgun and announced: "Have a nice life. Mine's probably over," witnesses said.

Radio station KSL quoted witnesses as saying the gunman told them he had a bomb "big enough to blow up the whole building."

The man was holding a hair-curling iron with wires leading into a shoulder bag, witness Jan Carlston said. The man held the curling iron open, and said if he closed it the bomb would go off, Carlston said.

Police said they found an explosive device in the library.

During telephone negotiations with police, Vuyk said, Draper demanded money, an audience with Salt Lake City Police Chief Ruben Ortega and a pardon from President Clinton. Ortega was in Arizona.

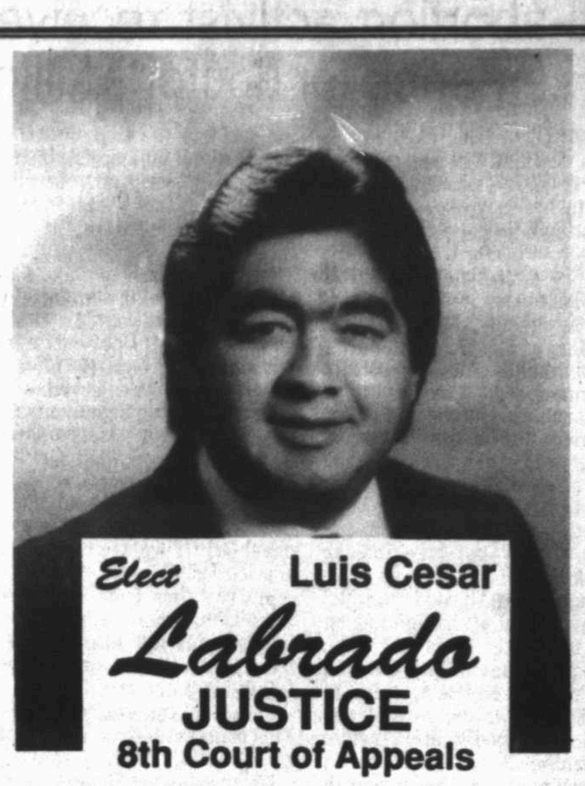

Some people managed to escape as the gunman herded the hostages to the room on the library's second floor. Hostage Carl Robinson said Prescott, the deputy, suddenly showed up as they were being herded into the room.

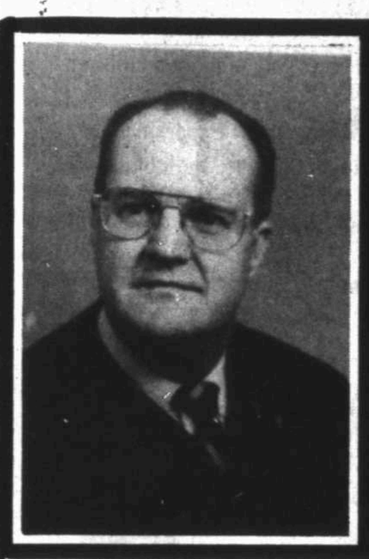

"I said, 'Get out of here.' He said, 'It's okay. I'm with the sheriff's department,' " Robinson said.

Draper gave a sealed letter he wanted mailed to the local Deseret News to the head Buddhist monk, who had followed the group to the second floor. The monk, who doesn't speak English, didn't know what to do with the letter and gave it to Robinson.

The gunman let Robinson go free to mail the letter, and let the monk go with him. Robinson told police that an officer was among the hostages.

Anti-abortion activist receives life sentence for doctor's killing

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — An anti-abortion activist was convicted of first-degree murder and sentenced to life in prison Saturday for shooting a doctor as he arrived at a clinic to perform abortions.

The jury deliberated about two hours and 40 minutes before convicting Michael F. Griffin, 32, in the slaying of Dr. David Gunn.

A few minutes after the verdict was announced, Circuit Judge John Parnham sentenced Griffin, a former Pensacola chemical worker, to life in prison with no chance of parole for 25 years. The prosecution had agreed not to seek the death penalty.

Gunn, 47, was shot three times in the back behind a Pensacola abortion clinic while a protest was under way in front of the building on March 10, 1993.

Gunn's son, David Gunn Jr., and Griffin's wife, Patricia, were in the courtroom as the verdict was announced. Gunn's son gave a slight smile; Mrs. Griffin looked distressed and wiped her face with a tissue.

"I felt justice had in fact been served," Gunn's son said. "Griffin does need to be robbed of the rest of his natural life as he robbed my father of his natural life."

Gunn was the first doctor slain as a result of violence against U.S. abortion clinics. Arson, bombings, chemical attacks and break-ins have been reported at clinics nationwide.

Griffin declined to make a statement before being sentenced.

"Good luck to you, Mr. Griffin," was the judge's final comment after sentencing him. He gave Griffin credit for time served.

During closing arguments Saturday, Assistant State Attorney James Murray called Griffin an "assassin" 11 times.

"This is not a case about abortion," Murray told the jury. "Michael Griffin walked up and assassinated Dr. David Gunn."

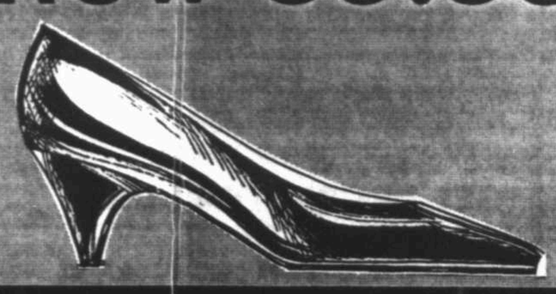

Murray read from a letter Griffin sent to other anti-abortion activists from jail that said if one baby is saved, it would be worth losing his life.

"This is an assassin talking. This is an assassin bragging about what he did," Murray said.

Defense lawyer Robert Kerrigan complained to the jury that Murray used "careless language" by calling Griffin an assassin.

Kerrigan said Griffin was neither the mastermind of a plot to kill Gunn nor the triggerman.

Car crash kills 3 fraternity brothers

SANIBEL ISLAND, Fla. (AP) — A speeding rental car went into a skid on a slight curve and flipped, killing three fraternity brothers and injuring two others on their final day of spring break.

The car went into a 400-foot skid, uprooted a tree, flipped and landed upright against another tree early Friday, police said.

All five students from Johnson & Wales University in Providence, R.I., were thrown from the new Lincoln Town Car traveling 70 mph in a 35 mph zone on this Gulf Coast resort island.

The group from Tau Kappa Epsilon was scheduled to fly out later Friday and be back at school Monday.

Two air bags deployed, but none of the occupants were wearing safety belts. No drugs or alcohol were found in the car. A blood sample was taken from the driver, Mark Sterner, but the results were not immediately available, said Police Chief Richard Plager.

Dear Republican Voters:

I am asking for your Vote for Judge, Midland County Court at Law, No. 2. Each Voter is important to me.

I began this campaign for County Court at Law, No. 2 by explaining that we would not spend money on billboards, yard signs or bumper stickers because we believed going door to door and listening to your concerns were more important.

During this campaign for Judge of County Court at Law, No.2 I have tried to stress my experience, competence and a willingness to work hard for you.

I want to Thank the volunteers who have worked every weekend to visit with as many voters as possible. We have walked door to door and visited with over 30,000 Midlanders.

My wife, Rhonda, and I want to "Thank" the people of Midland who have been so kind to us as we have visited with you. From that early walk in the snow through Old Midland until election night we will keep knocking on doors and visiting with you.

Your warm greetings, firm handshakes and words of advice and encouragement made this campaign a real joy for us. We all have fond stories of our walking.

It would be an honor to serve you.

And I again ask for your Vote.

Health-care alliances remain controversial feature in Clinton plan

By Nita Lelyveld
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Rep. Pete Stark, D-Calif., says nobody wants them. Sen. Jay Rockefeller, D-W. Va., says the health care system can't be reformed without them.

The president says they'll help consumers get the best health plans. Television ads warn they mean "tens of thousands of new bureaucrats."

What exactly are those health care alliances everyone has been arguing about?

Few people seem to know, and if you listen to the latest batch of ever-changing congressional forecasts, perhaps few ever will.

But alliances — organizations set up in the states — are the Clinton health plan's primary network of ensuring that everyone is covered, has affordable insurance and information from which to choose the best options. Under the plan, about 70 percent of Americans would enroll in health plans through them.

Alliance-like structures are also featured prominently, albeit on a smaller scale, in the rival plans of Rep. Jim Cooper, D-Tenn., and Sen. John Chafee, R-R.I. Cooper calls them health plan purchasing alliances (or HPPCs, pronounced, hipic); Chafee calls them purchasing groups.

The alliances' main function would be to pool people who otherwise wouldn't have bargaining power into large groups so they would get better prices than they could get on their own.

"To put it simply, they level the playing field," said Richard E. Curtis, president of the independent Institute for Health Policy Solutions.

But would these alliances play too great a role in the administration of a health care plan? Would they be too bureaucratic?

Many people think so. The Congressional Budget Office report that evaluated the Clinton plan last month enumerated the various alliance duties — from regulating health plans to making sure all Americans are enrolled. "Any one of these functions could be a major undertaking for an existing agency with some experience, let alone for a new agency that would have to perform them all," the CBO said.

The Clinton administration has shown a great willingness to negotiate. Maybe it will give up the alliance concept altogether. Maybe it will take away many of the alliances' proposed functions. Whatever happens, even critics agree that something would have to take their place if universal coverage remained the goal.

"You don't just stand up and face east and blow a horn and say it's going to happen," Stark said recently. "You have to enforce it."

To understand the health alliance concept, take the case of an independent taxi driver. He's likely to pay thousands more to insure himself than someone who gets his insurance through a large company where he works.

A large company can bring in enough customers to make a difference in an insurer's business, so the insurer is likely to bargain. The cab driver can't.

With large numbers enrolled, the alliances would also spread insurance risk. In the Clinton plan, insurance reforms would require community rating, meaning all people in a given area would be charged the same fees for the same type of plan, regardless of their health, age or sex.

Opponents of the Clinton plan's alliances have repeatedly warned that they would limit choice, putting the government in charge of what doctors people go to. It's a charge that infuriates the administration.

In fact, all licensed health plans in an alliance area would be required to offer their plans through the alliance. Customers would get to choose from them — although costs might make some off-limits for some people. Each alliance would have to offer at least one "fee for service" plan, where people get to choose doctors.

QUIT: Nussbaum resigns as lawyer

the White House has responded to the investigation of a failed Arkansas savings and loan with ties to the Clintons.

Special Counsel Robert Fiske is probing the failure of Madison Guaranty Savings and Loan Association and whether investors in the Whitewater land venture in Arkansas — including the Clintons — benefited from questionable Madison transactions during the 1980s.

Late Friday, Nussbaum and five other top White House officials were subpoenaed at Fiske's request regarding White House contacts with Treasury Department officials about the status of the investigation. Earlier in the week, it had been revealed that Nussbaum and other White House staff members met with Treasury officials last fall to discuss the inquiry.

Clinton, sensitive to criticism that the White House was meddling in an independent investigation, has said the meetings should not have occurred and made it clear he was unhappy with Nussbaum's handling of the affair. However, he said there had been no outright wrongdoing in the conduct of the meetings.

Nussbaum also was criticized for removing documents related to Whitewater from the office of deputy White House counsel Vince Foster after the attorney committed suicide last summer. Those documents were subsequently turned over the Justice Department.

Displaying an attitude of defiance, Nussbaum wrote in his letter that the controversy had been "generated by those who do not understand, nor wish to understand, the role and obligations of a lawyer, even one acting as White House counsel."

The letters were released just before Clinton left the White House without comment for a rare family retreat to the presidential compound at Camp David in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains.

Nussbaum, a scrappy former Wall Street litigator, had been associated with a series of White House missteps, including the doomed nomination of Lani Guinier for a top Justice Department job, the firing of the White House travel office staff, and the handling of sensitive papers after the apparent suicide of Deputy Counsel Vince Foster.

Aides said he had successfully weathered past criticism of his conduct in part because of his longtime ties to the Clintons, friends of more than two decades.

Home schoolers win legislative battle

By Gary Shanks
Staff Writer

Those parents teaching their children at home are breathing a sigh of relief, now that a bill in the U.S. House of Representatives no longer poses a threat to their lifestyle.

A proposed federal requirement that all teachers be state certified came under fire by conservative groups that said the bill would threaten the rights of parents teaching their children at home.

The bill is being pushed by Rep. George Miller, D-Calif., who later said he was willing to amend the bill to exclude home-school parents from the requirements. Rep. Dick Armey of Texas later amended the bill to exclude home-school parents and private school teachers from being forced to obtain state certification.

There are more than 100 families in Midland where children are taught at home, according to Terri Dunn.

Rep. Dick Armey amends bill to exclude home-school parents, private school teachers from being forced to obtain state certification.

Mrs. Dunn and her husband, Tim, have six children and she has been teaching them at home for 10 years, she said.

Because of the amendment, Mrs. Dunn said the bill no longer poses a threat to their chosen method of educating their children. There are no state guidelines regarding home-school curriculum, other than requiring the teaching of reading, writing, arithmetic and good citizenship, she said.

Under certain circumstances, area authorities can inspect a home-school program to determine if these subjects are being taught, but there is no state curriculum requirement, Mrs. Dunn said.

A 1986 case granting rights to parents for home schooling currently is before the Texas Supreme Court, she said. Members of the Midland Association of Christian Home Educators are expecting to hear soon about any court action on this case.

"It should be very soon because they've had it for over a year," Mrs. Dunn said.

The right to teach children at home is not in jeopardy in the Supreme Court, according to a Fort Worth attorney involved with the case. Some Texas Education Agency officials would like to have regulatory authority over home-school teachers, but they have been denied by the Legislature and the Supreme Court is not expected to rule in their favor, the attorney said.

Because the 1986 case was filed as a civil-rights case, TEA's loss means they are required to pay all court costs. Part of the current debate in the Supreme Court is because the TEA attorneys are attempting to avoid paying these court costs, the Fort Worth attorney said.

Paper: Lawyers stuff Richard's deep pockets

DALLAS (AP) — Trial lawyers helped Ann Richards get elected governor in 1990 and they're doing a good job supporting the Democrat's re-election bid this year, The Dallas Morning News reported Saturday.

Richards

About 42 percent of the donations of $10,000 or more reported to Richards' campaign through Feb. 8 have come from attorneys, the newspaper said, citing a computer-assisted analysis of her contributions.

Richards spokesman Chuck McDonald said the lawyers' donations have not bought any special attention from the governor.

"They want to be participants in the decision-making process," said Chuck McDonald. "They want to have access, and that's what they get from this."

Richards likely will win Tuesday's Democratic primary and should face GOP challenger George W. Bush in the November election.

Richards has reported raising $5.2 million and Bush has collected $3.7 million.

Forward Midland bolsters basin

By Gary Shanks
Staff Writer

Formed in 1989 to help diversify Midland's economy in the wake of downturns in the oil and gas industry, Forward Midland has worked to increase the number of businesses and jobs in the area.

Forward Midland was developed by concerned community leaders and receives no funding from the city, explained Stan Garrison, interim director of the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

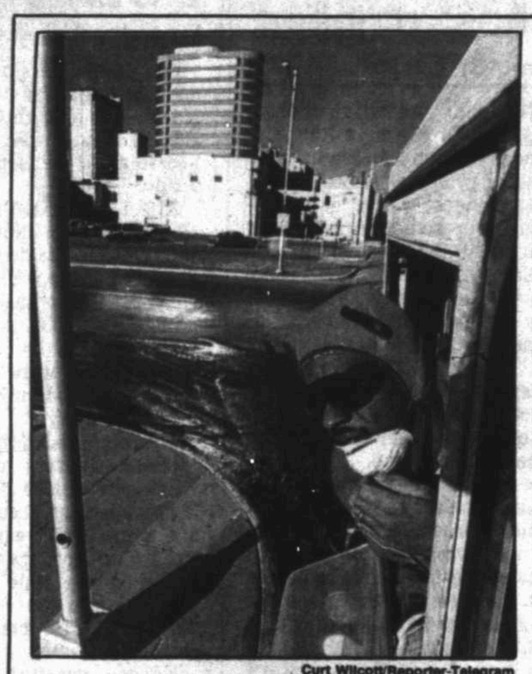

"They recognized the need for a concerted effort to promote economic diversification in Midland," Garrison said.

The chamber receives $183,000 a year from the city to fund its economic diversification programs. Forward Midland has provided more than $1 million in private contributions to this same account in its four-year existence, Garrison said.

In the past, this has confused some Midlanders who thought the $183,000 in city funding was earmarked for Forward Midland. However, Forward Midland, doesn't receive any city funding, Garrison said.

Forward Midland also provides funding for the chamber's administrative salaries.

Poker ace: Great people dare to be different

"Ever since I was a kid, I've always wanted to be different from everyone else. If they wore jeans, I'd wear dress slacks. If they had short hair, I'd grow mine long. I just hate conforming."

Ott

The guy doing the talking was dealing a hand of five-card stud in one of our small-stakes poker games the other night. He had just hit an inside straight so he was in a loquacious mood.

The rest of us were losing money so we just shrugged our shoulders a lot and mumbled things like, "Yeah, right," or "Great. Now, deal the cards."

But the dealer was on a roll and wanted to continue his thought. So he did.

"Most of the greats, in whatever field, have gone against the grain," he said. "They weren't afraid to be unique. In fact, they wanted to be. That was part of their greatness."

The person to my left received a 7 of spades to go with his 3 of hearts and immediately folded. He poured himself another drink, cursed under his breath and said to the dealer, "You're full of it."

"No, I'm serious," the dealer replied. "Think about it. Joe Namath, Willie Nelson, Frank Sinatra, Marlon Brando. They all dared to be different. When society said they had to behave a certain way, they did just the opposite."

The woman to my right looked at her 5 of clubs that matched nothing else in her hand and in a disgusted manner tossed the remainder of her cards on the table. "That's all fine and dandy if you're an entertainer or a sports figure," she said. "But in the real world it is necessary to conform. We can't just do what we want or look how we want. Society can — and does — dictate how we live our lives."

The dealer acknowledged her point . . . to a degree. But he wasn't through talking.

"There's some truth to that," he said, "but more times than not we put restrictions on ourselves because we're afraid to be different. There's a certain comfort level that comes with being 'just like everybody else.' And, frankly, most people want that security."

The final member of the group had a pair of deuces showing and raised the bet a quarter, a rather foolish thing to do. He then snubbed out his Marlboro Light and said to the dealer, "Believe it or not, I agree with most of what you're saying. There is a fear of standing out in a crowd. I, for example, could never wear my hair as long as Willie Nelson's. I don't want people staring and pointing at me. That makes me uncomfortable."

The dealer dealt himself a second ace, shrugged almost apologetically to the rest of us and said, "It's all a matter of talent and self-confidence. If you're good at what you do, then you don't have to care what others think. But you've got to be the best — or at least among the best — in your chosen field. That's the key. If you're just an average athlete and you do outlandish things, then you're going to come across as weird. But if you're the best and you do something offbeat, then people are going to think you're charming."

The dealer then revealed a third ace in his hand.

He gave us a wicked grin and said, "Gee, gang, I do believe I just might be the best poker player in town." He paused ever-so-briefly and then added, "How do you think I'd look with a ponytail and earring?"

DEATHS

Patricia Morgan

Services for Patricia "Pat" Morgan are to be at 2 p.m. Monday at Cornerstone Christian Fellowship Church with the Rev. Richard Spencer officiating. Burial will follow at Resthaven Memorial Park under the direction of Ellis Funeral Home.

Morgan

She died Friday at a local hospital.

Mrs. Morgan was born Feb. 24, 1937, in Robstown. She was reared and educated in Blanchard, Okla.

She earned a bachelor's degree from Central State University in Edmond, Okla., and also studied at Oklahoma College of Liberal Arts in Chickahsa. While in school, she was named to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

She taught music at Blanchard Public School from 1960-70.

She married Virgil Keith Morgan in November 1970.

They moved to Midland, where she taught at Midland Independent School District.

Before becoming a fine-arts teacher at Anson Jones Elementary School, she taught at Henderson and South elementary schools. She retired from MISD in 1992.

She was active in Oklahoma and Texas teachers' associations. In 1970, she was named Oklahoma Teacher of the Year by the McClain, Okla., Education Association. In 1968, the Blanchard PTA named her Teacher of the Year.

She was a member of Sigma Sigma Sigma, Delta Kappa Gamma, Kappa Kappa Iota, Texas Music Educators Association, Music Education National Conference, Texas State Teacher's Association, Midland Classroom Teacher's Association, Texas Classroom Teacher's Association and the PTA. She served as president, treasurer and secretary of the Association of Women Students at Central State University.

She was a member of Cornerstone Christian Fellowship Church.

Survivors include her husband of Midland; three sons, Gaylan Morgan, Alan Morgan and Kris Morgan, all of Midland; one daughter, Gina Opheim of Midland; her mother, Iris Morgan of Midland; and five grandchildren.

The family requests that memorials be made to Hospice of Midland, P.O. Box 2621, Midland, 79702.

Walter Wheat

BIG SPRING — Services for Walter Lee Wheat, 57, father of Lee Elise Kail of Midland, are to be at 11 a.m. Monday at First Baptist Church with the Rev. Kenneth Patrick, pastor, and the Rev. Gary Bonner of Schulenberg officiating. Burial will follow at Mount Olive Memorial Park under the direction of Balley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home.

He died Thursday at his Big Spring residence after a long illness.

He was born Feb. 4, 1937, in Dallas. He was reared and educated in Mesquite and graduated from Mesquite High School in 1955. He moved to Big Spring in 1955.

Wheat graduated from Baylor University in 1959 with a bachelor's in business administration. While at Baylor, he was affiliated with Alpha Kappa Psi and Circle K.

He married Frances Reagan on Aug. 16, 1958, in Big Spring.

He retured to Big Spring in 1959 to work with his father in Wheat Furniture Co. He took over the business in 1969.

Wheat was a member and former director of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, a member of Home Furnishings International and Baylor Alumni Association, a member and former president of Big Spring Country Club, a former member of the Big Spring Planning and Zoning Commission, the Big Spring Main Street Board, the Big Spring Jaycees and the Big Spring Rotary Club, which presented him with a Paul Harris Fellowship in 1987.

He was a member First Baptist Church, where he performed as soloist.

Wheat was an avid golfer, hunter and dominoes player.

Other survivors include his wife of Big Spring; one son, Lawrence (Larry) Reagan Wheat of Dallas; his mother, Mrs. J.F. Wheat of Mesquite; two sisters, Eunice Futrell of Mesquite and Sue Hicks of San Antonio; seven nephews and five nieces.

The family requests that memorials be made to Hospice of the Southwest, P.O. Box 14710, Odessa, 79768-4710, Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, 306 W. Third St., Big Spring, 79720, or a favorite charity.

Geraldine Chapman

Memorial services for Geraldine Chapman are to be a 3 p.m. today at First Presbyterian Church Chapel with the Rev. Jerry Hilton, pastor, officiating.

She died Dec. 16 at a local hospital.

Mrs. Chapman was born Nov. 15, 1921, in Broken Arrow, Okla., where she was reared and educated. She attended business college in Tulsa, Okla., and worked in Washington, D.C., for several years before moving to El Paso.

She married Ford Chapman on Feb. 15, 1945, in Pecos.

Before moving to Midland in 1964, the Chapmans lived in Artesia, N.M., and Odessa.

She was a life master bridge player and a member of First Presbyterian Church.

She was preceded in death by her husband in 1991.

Survivors include her daughter, Martha Scott Chapman Fowler of Kihei, Maui, Hawaii; three sisters, Maxine Dark and Josephine Harper, both of Broken Arrow, and Jeannette Van Hoose of Fort Worth; and two grandchildren.

Harold Cliff

Memorial services for Harold E. Cliff are to be at 2 p.m. Monday at Permian Church of Religious Science with the Rev. Merilyn Chilleen officiating. Arrangements are under the direction of Ellis Funeral Home.

Cliff

He died Friday at his Midland residence.

Cliff was born March 31, 1917, in Cleveland, where he was reared and educated. He attended automotive school in Cleveland.

He married Dollie Schwab on Dec. 12, 1984, in Anaheim, Calif., where he worked for Disneyland.

They moved to Midland in 1990.

He was a World War II veteran, a member of the Confederate Air Force Hi Sky Wing and was active in Meals on Wheels.

Survivors include his wife of Midland; two sons, Wade Cliff of Coolin, Idaho, and Ralph Cliff of Fullerton, Calif.; three stepsons, Steven Schwab and Terry Dean Schwab, both of Midland, and Ronald Lee Schwab of Visalia, Calif.; one stepdaughter, Sandra Baker of Bend, Ore.; two sisters, Edith Mae Walton of Kansas City, Mo., and Laura Mae Glover of Cleveland; 14 grandchildren, six great-grandchildren, two nephews, three grandnieces and one grandnephew.

The family requests that memorials be sent to Permian Church of Religious Science, 2311 Elizabeth Ave., Midland, 79701.

AWARDS: Scouts to host dinner

for Midland Lee High School choirs; and Dr. Carolyn Rhode.

Honorees from Odessa include Sue Blair, professor of business at Odessa College; Nellie Torres, licensing representative for Texas Department of Protective and Regulatory Services; Cindi Wiehle, community volunteer; Betsy Triplett-Hurt, Chamber of Commerce president; Ray Ann Zant, owner of Zant and Associates; Jo Ann Davenport, City Council member; and Carole Jackson, office manager for Westech Mechanical of Alpine.

The awards dinner is to be from 7-9 p.m. Thursday at The Club at Mission Dorado. Elinor Ferdon, first vice president of the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., is to be the guest speaker. Reservations for the dinner are $45 for individuals and $80 for couples.

The Women of Distinction award was established three years ago in an effort to honor women who did outstanding community service and to raise funds for the Girl Scout's Gold Award Scholarship, Ms. Shelton said.

"Gold Award Scholarships are given to two graduating high school seniors who have earned the Gold Award," she said. "It is the highest achievement for a Girl Scout. It is a project that she chooses which tests all their leadership abilities."

Ms. Shelton said one year a young woman's project was to design and distribute kits for women and their children entering the Permian Basin Center for Battered Women and Their Children.

The Gold Award Scholarship is $500 and is in memory of Mary Wynn Hinkle and Janice Eleanor Hill Matthews.

About 100 women have previously been honored as Women of Distinction.

POLICE REPORTS

Fatal car accident

Two Midlanders were killed and four injured in a one-car accident in Hudspeth County outside El Paso Friday afternoon, according to the Department of Public Safety.

Killed were DeAnna Flores, 18, and Estella Zamarripa, 53. Injured were the driver, Martin Zamarripa, 19, Olga Zamarripa, 26, Gabriella Zamarippa, no age available, and Rebecca Zamarripa, 18.

The injured were reported in fair condition at an El Paso hospital on Friday.

The report listed that all had a Midland address of 4000 N. County Road 1330 No. 4.

The accident occurred about 3:45 p.m. (MST) when the 1991 Ford four-door, traveling westbound on Interstate 10, left the roadway into the center median, was overcorrected and rolled four times.

No one was wearing a seat belt, officials said.

Marijuana arrest

Two people were apprehended and about one-half pound of suspected marijuana was seized after Midland County sheriff's deputies stopped a car Friday evening, officials reported.

Willie Gene Walker, 27, remained jailed Saturday in lieu of a $10,000 bond, according to jail officials. No information on a second suspect, a 35-year-old woman, was available from the Midland County jail.

Sheriff's deputies stopped the two in a silver Datsun 280ZX about 9:17 p.m. near Rankin Highway and Taylor Street, officials said. After deputies received consent to search the vehicle the suspected drug was uncovered, officials said.

Both people were reportedly arrested.

Friday

Burglary of a residence: Entry was gained through a garage window and a videocassette recorder, jewelry and telephones were taken from 1007 S. Baird St., reported Sylvia Flores about 2:25 p.m.

Burglary of a residence: Entry was gained through an unlocked back window and a television, jewelry, compact discs and a telephone were taken from 2812 Frontier Drive, reported Nick Tomlin at 6:10 p.m.

Burglary of a residence: Entry was gained through a sliding glass door and a $300 coin collection was taken from 3315 Godfrey Drive No. 58, reported Debra Magness at 5 p.m.

Burglary of a residence: Entry was gained through the front door and jewelry and a camcorder were taken from 4207 Boulder Drive, reported Cathy Straight about 1:44 p.m.

Saturday

Vandalism: A passenger-side window of a vehicle at 2813 Goddard Place was smashed with a brick, reported Bill Carter about 9:36 a.m.

Vandalism: The front window of a vehicle was smashed with beer bottles at the Wydewood Apartments, 4715 W. Wadley

ECONOMY: Forward Midland wants jobs

(From 1B)

During its existence, Forward Midland has actively tried to recruit 73 companies, moved six companies into Midland, kept two companies from being enticed away from Midland, created 232 jobs and retained 91 jobs.

New Midland businesses include Jacobs, Isotrol, Fuel Harvester, Oil Dynamics, Barnmaster and Extro Aviation.

Payroll, taxes and local purchases from these companies are estimated to infuse $9.6 million into the local economy, according to Forward Midland progress reports.

Forward Midland uses private donations from local companies to fund its efforts, and a steering committee makes decisions on how this money is funneled to attract and retain industry.

"We're a real democratic organization," said Clarence Scharbauer III, chairman of Forward Midland.

The board doesn't meet on a regular basis. Instead, it meets to deal with specific matters. During negotiations to bring a company to Midland, the board can meet several times in a period of days. Currently, the board is meeting to discuss plans and goals for 1994, Scharbauer said.

Much of the organization's efforts are aimed at wooing companies from the now unattractive California business environment.

According to a Forward Midland newsletter, "The Golden State has lost is lustrous appeal among many California manufacturers. High taxes, expensive real estate, frustrating labor policies and appalling crime rates have collectively contributed to the decline of California as an economically viable location for industry . . . California is the ideal target of opportunity for Midland's industrial recruiting initiative."

Forward Midland also is heavily involved in the Interstate 27 project, encouraging federal planners to bring that highway south from Lubbock through Midland/Odessa, rather than choosing alternative routes to the east.

In addition to supporting the chamber's economic development efforts, Forward Midland has provided support to the Aviation Maintenance Technology School at Midland College, Objectives 2000 and the Confederate Air Force because of their economic development impact, Scharbauer said.

MONEY: Some attorneys defend donations

(From 1B)

The Morning News and the Houston Chronicle reported Friday that Richards was favored by 52 percent of the voters and George W. Bush by 42 percent. Six percent responded "other" or "don't know."

Bush said trial lawyers are supporting Richards to preserve high jury verdicts and access to the courts for what he called frivolous lawsuits.

"I think they like the system the way it is," Bush said Friday. "I just know that I'm not getting a lot of plaintiffs' attorneys' money probably because they see me as a reformer."

His top strategist has questioned the governor's donations from trial lawyers. In the final weeks of the 1990 campaign, attorneys donated nearly $1 million, helping Richards exploit the gaffes of Republican foe Clayton Williams.

"They saved her," GOP consultant Karl Rove said. "The bottom line is she owes her election in 1990 to the money they poured in at the end."

Several attorneys defended their donations, saying they have the same right to support a candidate as any other Texan.

"We live here, we pay taxes here, we send our children to the public schools here," Corpus Christi trial lawyer David Perry said. "We are concerned about violence. We are concerned about all the same issues that most everybody else is."

Earlier in the campaign, a Morning News analysis of Bush's financial backers found that many of his supporters are the same as his father's, former President George Bush.

The Richards study showed that of the 105 donations of $10,000 or more she received, 44 came from trial lawyers, many of whom file suits in personal-injury and defective-product cases.

The donations have come from individual lawyers or through law-firm political action committees.

For example, Houston lawyer John O'Quinn, whose multimillion-dollar victories against Monsanto and the 3M Corp. have made him one of the country's best-known trial lawyers, gave her $35,000.

Intruders strangle, beat preschooler during break-in

RICHARDSON (AP) — A 4-year-old girl was fatally beaten and strangled Saturday by intruders who attacked her and other family members in their home, police in this Dallas suburb said.

Bethany Rachel Hoyt was dead on arrival at Richardson Medical Center shortly before 7:30 a.m., police said.

But investigators were mystified because they could find nothing missing in the girl's house and it could not immediately be explained why she was singled out from other family members during the break-in.

An autopsy late Saturday showed the girl died of blunt force injuries to the head and strangulation, said Rachel Baer, a field agent for the Dallas County Medical Examiner's Office.

Elect Jim Prince, County Judge

Since Midland County spends 21-plus million dollars, the county judge needs extensive experience in investigating expenditures and developing economic plans limited to necessary expenditures. As former CEO of two major real estate firms, and now principal of a successful Midland business, I have many years of proven experience in budget planning and expense control.

Proven leadership, ability to organize, lead and compromise is required. I have more than a quarter century of successful experience doing this.

Conducting arraignments is best done by someone with the maturity and sound judgment that I possess and have used successfully for decades.

More JOBS = A Better Economy for Midland

SAVE TAXPAYERS MONEY by:

Work camps, not expensive jails, inmates performing community duties in print shops, laundries, landscaping and janitorial, by secure supervision of our capable law enforcement

Diversification = A Brighter Future & JOBS

Midland County deserves and could have a brighter future, but only if diversification is undertaken and accomplished. For years it has been unrealistic to depend economically exclusively on the oil industry. To grow, Midland, new industries and businesses must be attracted that create jobs. This can occur only with an organized professional plan, budgeted and undertaken by local government. I am the only candidate with years of direct involvement and participation in successfully relocating numerous major and small business firms.

Midland County is long overdue for a complete study of the activities that devour the citizens' ad valorem taxes, and after this thorough investigation, programs with policies, and procedures like that of a successful business need to be initiated. No other candidate has the experience and proven ability to accomplish this all-important task.

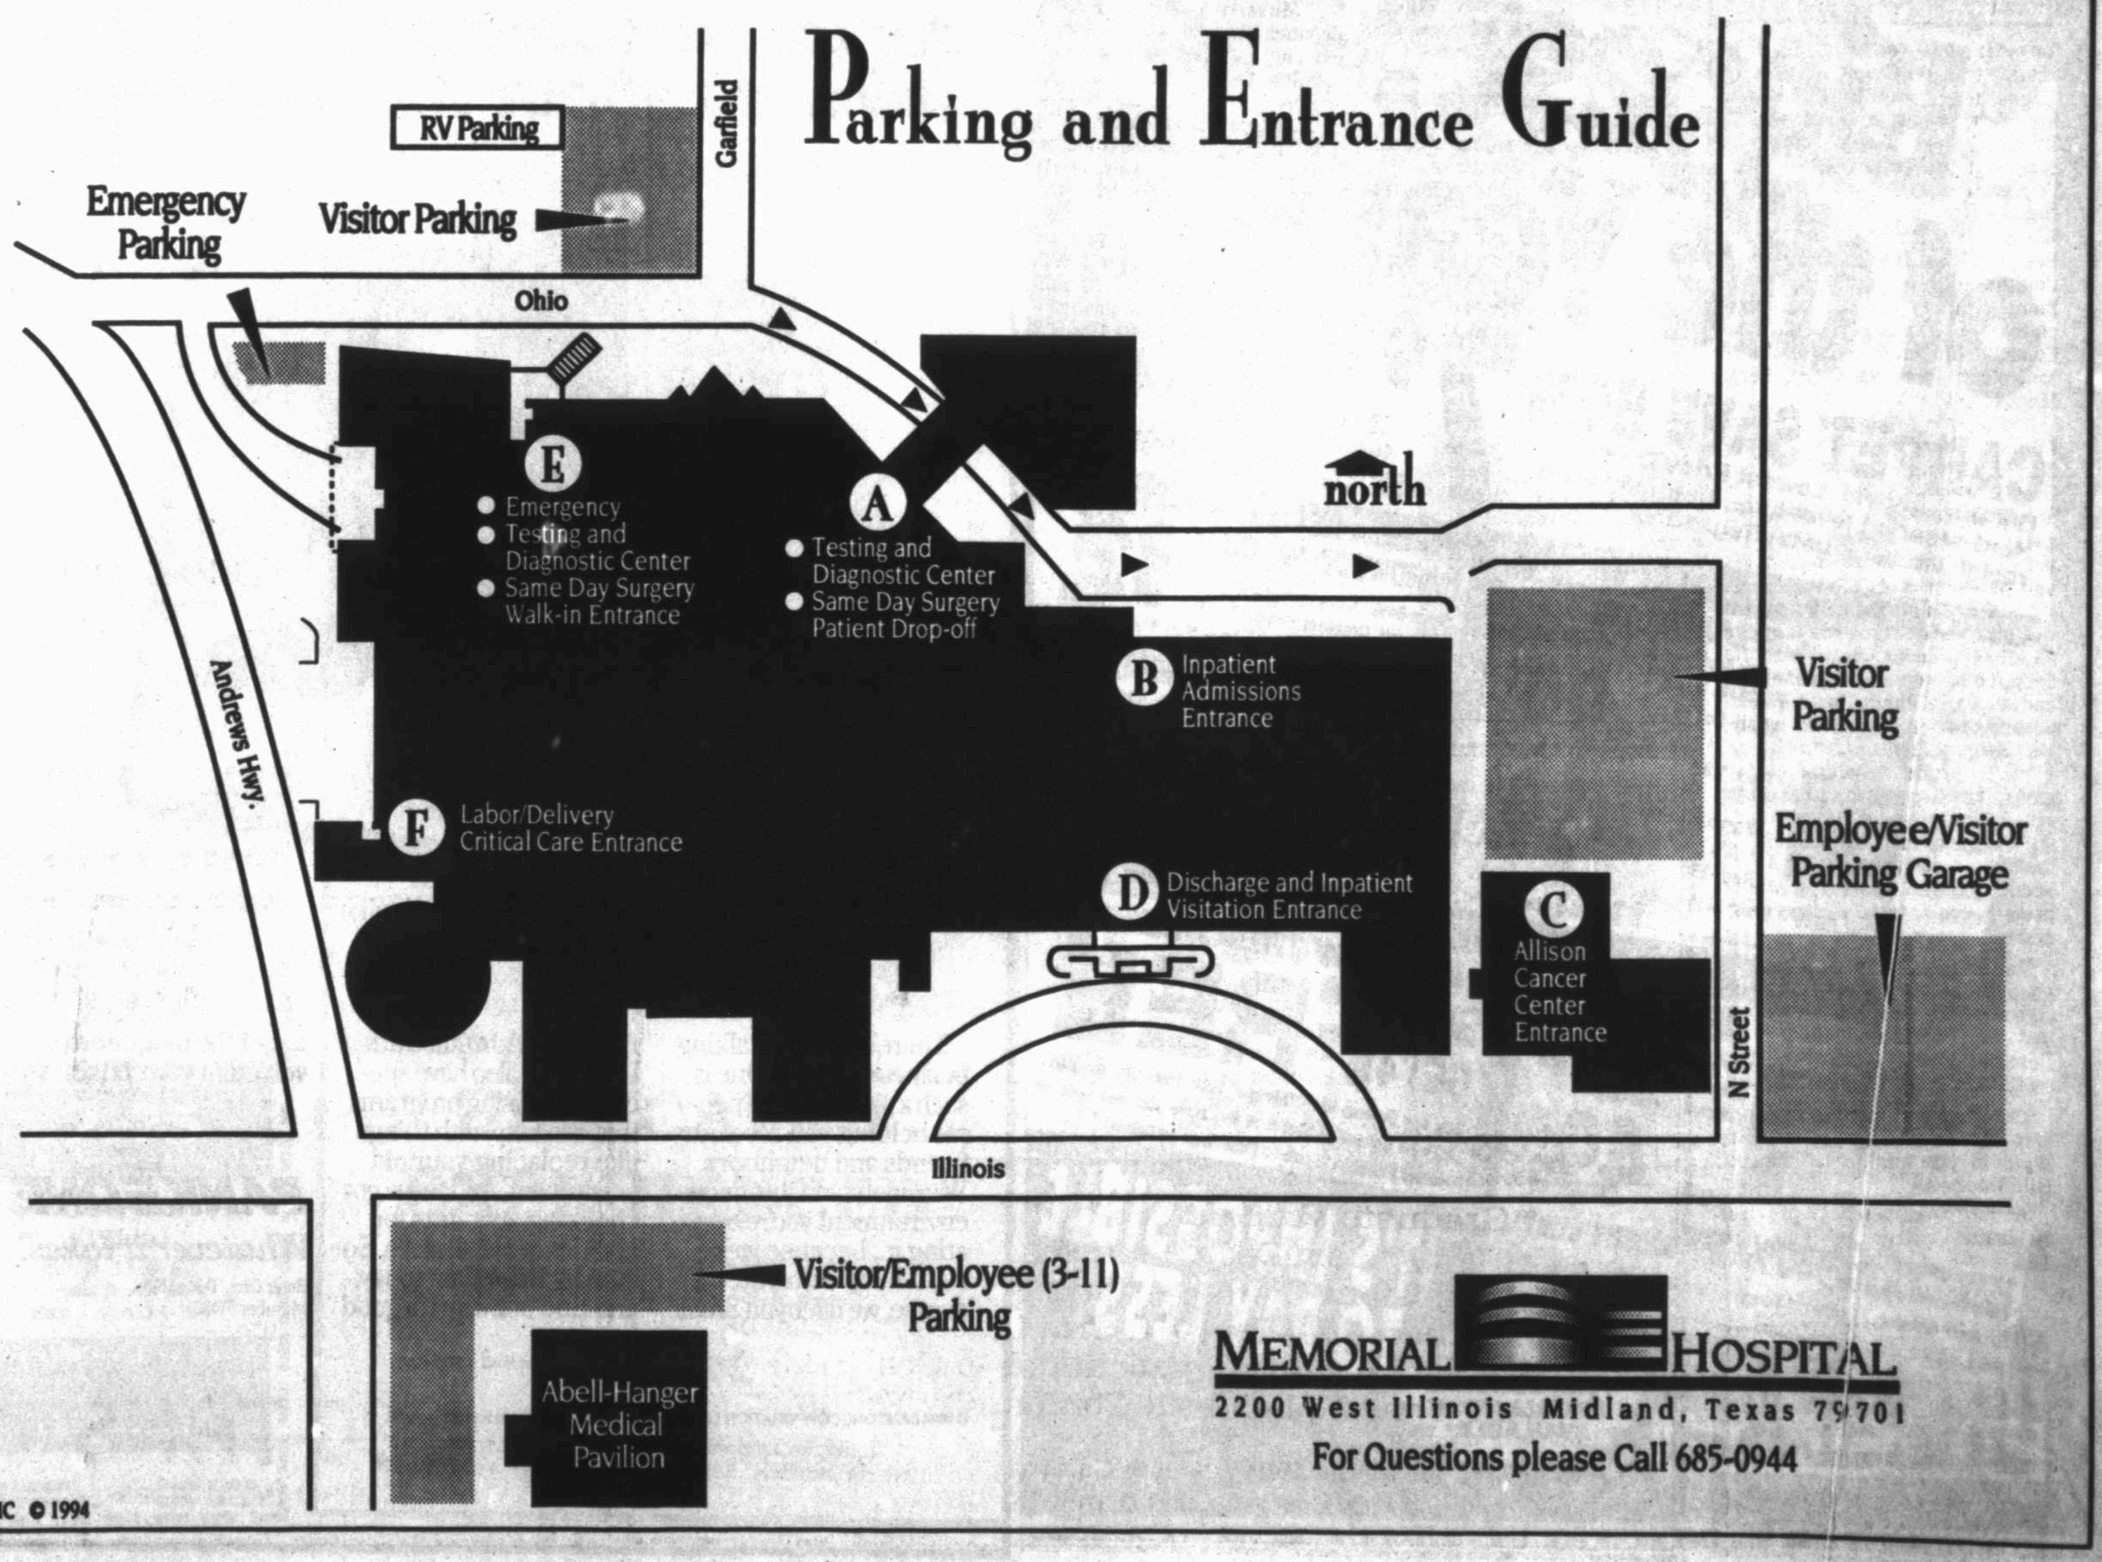

The overcrowded conditions of the jail could be solved immediately by the creation of boot camps and work facilities at much less cost than building additional jails. Why are we waiting? There should be printing shops, laundries, facilities for automotive, office equipment and furniture repairs, landscaping and janitorial duties all performed by inmates under careful and secure supervision of our very capable law-enforcement agencies. I will strive to accomplish this with the cooperation and assistance I have been promised.

Midland could be recognized as one of the most progressive and best communities in the USA, thereby better able to attract new businesses. Midland County needs a successful business leader not another attorney.

Ex-banker admits to 3 bank robberies

WACO (AP) — A former bank officer faces up to 60 years in prison and $750,000 in fines after pleading guilty to three bank robberies.

Ronald Gayle Patton, 48, of Cisco, entered the pleas Friday in federal court in Waco. U.S. District Judge Walter Smith will sentence Patton in about six weeks.

Patton, described by friends as honest and hard-working, is the former vice president at First National Bank of Cisco in Eastland County. He was arrested about 20 minutes after a bank robbery Jan. 4 in Valley Mills.

He also pleaded guilty to robbing the First National Bank of Hico in Hamilton County on July 29 and again on Oct. 12.

In exchange for his guilty plea, government prosecutors agreed not to pursue charges he robbed the Citizens National Bank of Weatherford in Parker County on Sept. 3 or other charges, such as weapons violations.

Patton has agreed to make restitution of $28,377 to the Hico bank, the money he took in the two robberies.

Two days after his arrest, Bosque County officials recovered a garbage bag under a bridge containing $25,343, the amount taken from the Valley Mills bank.

They also found money from one of the Hico bank heists, a pistol and clothes that matched the description of what the robber was wearing that day.

Minutes before the robbery in Valley Mills and the one in Hico in October, emergency traffic accident reports were phoned into the small police departments in those towns as diversionary tactics, federal officials have said.

A bank customer in Valley Mills got a description of Patton's pickup truck as he drove out of town and a state trooper stopped him near Waco.

Bank employees later identified Patton as the robber who walked calmly into the bank, told them to "Get out of the way," and helped himself to the money.

Patton resigned from the Cisco bank in March 1992 to go into the chemical supply business, witnesses at his detention hearing said.

"It is well to be up before daybreak, for such habits contribute to health, wealth and wisdom..."
Aristotle

Two thousand years after Aristotle, Ben Franklin confirmed it in his almanac: "Early to bed, early to rise, makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise."

Of course, no one guarantees these benefits to all who are up and around at sunrise, but we do know that most early-risers thrill to the dawn of each crisp new day, fresh and clean and brimming with promise.

Thoughtful people may wish to specify their wishes regarding their own memorial service, well in advance of need. This spares their loved ones the necessity for making painful decisions. May we help you?

Their Emotional Health Is Not Always Apparent.

Teenagers can find it difficult to express their true feelings. So it's not always easy to know when something is troubling them. Certain behaviors, however, can be signs. For instance, a change in eating and sleeping habits, a change in friends, grades dropping, excessive quietness, isolation, sadness, irritability, or low self-esteem can be tell-tale signs of more serious problems. Free seminar to feature estate planning, how to choose doctor

Staff Report

The Midland-Odessa Health and Retirement Endeavor will sponsor a seminar, "Our Ever-Changing World," Wednesday at the University of Texas of the Permian Basin's Center for Energy and Economic Diversification, Highway 191 and FM 1788.

Mary Larsson, executive director of MOHRE, said the seminar will begin with a continental breakfast at 8 a.m. The seminar is free of charge, but she recommends making reservations because seating is limited.

"We are going to cover a variety of topics, from how to choose a physician to estate planning to the changes in the new tax laws," said MOHRE President-Elect Bill Saxton. "All seniors, retirees and their families are welcome."

Other topics include health-care reform, long-term health care and survival skills for women, said Kevin Skipper, MOHRE secretary.

In addition, Dr. Alan D. Smith, an ophthalmologist with the Eyes of Texas Clinic will give a presentation on aging and the eye.

Reservations can be made by calling the MOHRE office at 561-5331. Funding for the seminar has been provided by the Arco Foundation and MOHRE.

HEALTH CARE REFORM-MORE THAN HEALTH AT STAKE

President Clinton has stated unequivocally that "we have a health care crisis in this country" - even using this supposition as a major plank of his platform in the last presidential election. With due respect (to the office), his statement is simply not correct. Even the democratic chairman of the senate finance committee, Senator Daniel P. Moynihan, has recently acknowledged that "We do not have a health care crisis in this country." Certainly problems do exist within the health care industry, but they involve cost of medical care and access to it; and the access problem exists because of cost.

We have the greatest medical care system in the history of the world. Approximately 90 percent of today's innovations in medical care originate in the U.S. - our country is a mecca to the world for medical care delivery and education. Yet, at any given moment, 15 percent of our population (About 37 million people) are without some type of medical insurance coverage (Private, Medicare, Medicaid). Further, escalating medical costs have become unacceptable to corporate America, contributing significantly to business costs and the national debt. These two factors are the principal causes for the broad-based call for medical reform.

How did the medical profession (representing 14 percent of the U.S. Economy) get into this mess? About 65 years ago we instituted Third-party payment through private health insurance. By the end of World War II, medical insurance had become a standard benefit of the working private sector. Then Medicare/Medicaid arrived to cover another large segment of the population. By the mid-1970's the health care consumer (patient) had little idea of the true cost of medical care, as 80 to 95 percent of his medical bills were paid for by someone else. If the health care consumer is not cost conscious, there will be no incentive for the health care providers (physicians, hospitals) to be cost conscious either, and so the natural incentives for a free market system to function failed in the health care market. Removing the consumer (patient) from the economic transaction has led to market failure.

As a result of this national concern, several proposals for health care reform have been formulated. To the left are proponents of a Canadian-style single-payer system, championed by representative Jim McDermott (D/Washington), and Senator Paul Wellstone (D/Minnesota). On the right are proposals by Senator Phil Gramm (R/Texas) and Senator John Chafee (R/Rhode Island).

President Clinton's Health Security Act is the most detailed of the reform proposals now before Congress. However, only 19 pages of this bill have to do with providing medical coverage; 1323 pages are concerned with the government taking over and running the health care system (1/7 of our economy). The plan would create 59 new federal programs, expand 20 others, impose 79 new federal mandates, and make major changes in the tax code. It has been estimated that as many as 50,000 additional government jobs will be created to serve this bureaucracy.

The President's plan is based upon two programs. The first is called "Managed Competition"; the second is call "Global Budgeting". The concept of "Managed Competition" is endorsed by many but understood by few. Under this plan, almost every American will lose his present private insurance and be grouped into large health insurance cooperatives (Regional "Alliances") That will collectively negotiate with several health care providers (all sanctioned by the National Health Board) for delivery of medical care to their members. The plan will eliminate private insurance (unless these companies adhere to strict governmental regulations) and will also eliminate private medical practice, forcing physicians into collective groups (HMO's, PPO's). The patient's only true choices of medical care (doctors, hospitals) will lie within the menu chosen for them by their "Alliance". Efforts to seek medical help outside the system will result in substantial ($10,000-$50,000) Federal fines to both the patient and to the provider.

Let's discuss "Global Budgeting". Under this plan the national health board will set ceilings on how much each "Alliance" can spend in health care annually. When that money is gone (or in order to conserve it) health care will be rationed - no other term better describes it. The national health board would also determine and set all fees, prices, and payments at every level in its bureaucracy - price controls. And so the twin anathemas of rationing and price controls are intended as basic supporting pillars to President Clinton's health care program.

President Clinton is using what is wrong in American health care as a justification for scrapping the entire system and replacing it with socialized medicine. What is really needed is to protect what is good about the system and change what is bad - the escalating cost and the lack of access because of those costs..

Changes in 7 areas would greatly reduce these problems:

1. Make health care insurance permanent and portable, thus eliminating the fear of loss of coverage because of pre-existing medical conditions, severe illness, or change in employers or marital status.
2. Lower insurance premiums by (A) Making them tax deductible and (B) Permitting the establishment of medical savings accounts. If the latter (controlled by the patient himself) were used in concert with low-cost catastrophic insurance plans, the individual would once again have considerable responsibility for his own health care spending, and costs would decrease.
3. Provide health insurance tax credits or vouchers to low-income families who are employed, not poor enough to qualify for medicaid, but still find the cost of medical insurance beyond their reach. This would increase access without a vast system of employer mandates, price controls, government rationing and mandatory alliances.
4. Eliminate barriers to small-business insurance pools, allowing them to bargain for insurance coverage at greatly reduced cost.
5. Reduce Medicare/Medicaid cost by shifting responsibility for the administration of these programs from federal to state government, thus allowing more flexibility and efficiency.
6. Simplify health care paper work through administrative reforms. The creation of a standard insurance claim form, along with administrative changes to reduce fraud and improve data retrieval would substantially reduce costs and improve efficiency.
7. Reduce costs through malpractice reforms; a common component of many of the present proposals.

The issue of medical care reform being debated in Congress is of the utmost importance to America. Certainly the weak points of the system need to be immediately improved - the best country in the world deserves the best health care system. But far more important, and far-reaching for our society are the issues of freedom of choice, individual initiative and responsibility, maintenance of the free enterprise ethic, and resistance to the intrusion of socialism in our democratic Republic. No matter how much President Clinton talks about competition, freedom of choice, and high quality care, under his plan it will be the government - not the consumer - that decides who gets what treatment, under what circumstances, and at what cost. Quoting Senator Phil Gramm: "We are going to end up with a system with all the compassion of the IRS and all the efficiency of the Post Office."

If you have an interest in your future and wish to speak out on an issue that will touch every American, your Congressmen and Senators truly wish to hear from you. Listed below are their names and mailing addresses. Let such an important issue as medical health care reform be decided by the true majority voice of those that it will effect.

EDUCATION IN BRIEF

Several Midland Independent School District teachers were among more than 600 Texas educators who attended the 1994 Convention of the Texas Classroom Teachers Association, held Feb. 18-19 in Houston.

Those from MISD were: Virgina Earhart, Becky Faught, Betty Forbes, Juanita Harmon, Jo Hayse, Karen Hunley, Donna Kelly, Linda Kleine, Lynn Layman, Susan Lillard, Linda Hancock, Tony Madrid, Corrine Martinez, Martha Martinez, Donna Moyer, Joy O'Hara, Lois Page, Lee Ann Porter, Carrie Schreiber, Delena Singleton and Barbara Yarbrough.

Convention delegates discussed current education issues, made policy decisions for the association and elected 1994-95 state officers.

These teachers are members of the Midland Classroom Teachers Association.

TCTA members honored for outstanding service were Linda Hancock of Midland as Faculty Representative of the Year and Ida Love Smith of Lubbock as Retiree of the Year.

New ER facility enhances care

A hospital's emergency room must meet the needs of different people in different ways at one of the most difficult times in their lives.

To the patient in a life or death situation, it must have state-of-the-art equipment that can save lives that might otherwise be lost, highly skilled medical personnel that can make miracles happen, and easy access to all who need those services. To the patient's family and friends, it must offer ample room, and pleasant and comfortable surroundings. To the medical personnel, it should maximize their lifesaving skills and make their jobs as easy as possible.

The new Emergency Department at Memorial Hospital and Medical Center (MHMC) in Midland passes muster on all those counts and more. It is an outstanding, first-class facility that should mean emergency patients will be receiving the very best medical care possible.

When it opened less than two weeks ago, the new facility was treating 112 to 120 patients a day — about 30 more each day than the old emergency room had been treating. That is an indication of why a new emergency department facility was needed: it is in almost constant use and the number of emergency patients has been on the rise for several years. And with the modern design that places the emergency room directly over the Laboratory as well as adjacent to the Testing and Diagnostic Center and the Same-Day Surgery Department, the new facility reflects the trend in modern medical science that encourages short stays in the hospital.

As a community, Midland demands the best in medical care and it's obvious that the new emergency room will give the medical personnel at MHMC the ability to provide the best possible emergency care to patients.

Financed through revenue bonds as part of the hospital's $19.4 million north expansion, the new emergency facility is a fine addition to an outstanding medical center.

OTHER VIEWS

Fans should remember game's other dimensions

The University of Texas at Austin finally got what it wanted. It's a shame that it had to kill the Southwest Conference to do it. But hey, that's the way the ball bounces.

In the end, it didn't turn on forming a "super conference" of the collegiate football big shots after all. It didn't turn on moving to the Big Ten or the Pac 10, where the Longhorns might face more worthy opponents.

It turned on money, pure and simple. Television money, to be specific. And maybe — just maybe — a little power politics in Austin.

Texas Tech, Texas A&M and Baylor are all part of the package that the Big Eight Conference is buying with its television money, but it is clear that the University of Texas was the sine qua non of the deal. . . .

Is this what collegiate athletics has come to?

Yes, it is.

In fairness, we must also point out that the schools left behind — University of Houston, Rice, Southern Methodist and our own Texas Christian — are not exactly powerhouse teams, either on the field or at the admission gate.

We can blame them for that because they didn't field good enough teams to draw us in as fans. But we can also blame the fans who seem to have forgotten that there is something available on a college football field on a sunny fall afternoon beyond winning and losing.

Blackmun flip-flop on death means he should step down

For more than 20 years, U.S. Supreme Court Justice Harry A. Blackmun has voted to enforce the death penalty.

Now, though, he says he'll never do it again.

"I feel morally and intellectually obligated simply to concede that the death penalty experiment has failed," Blackmun, the court's oldest member, declared in a public change of mind that is rare for a Supreme Court justice. . . .

Fortunately, Blackmun's declaration that the death penalty cannot be constitutionally carried out will not change the law or the outcome of death row appeals to the Supreme Court. The court remains dominated by appointees of Presidents Reagan and Bush who regularly vote to enforce the capital punishment statutes in 36 states, including Texas.

Blackmun has served on the Supreme Court since 1970. A conservative early on, he now is considered the court's most liberal member. At 85, well past the age at which almost everyone else in professional life retires, it's time for Blackmun to step down and be replaced by a jurist who isn't too weak to uphold the law.

Truth may keep North out of Senate

WASHINGTON — The story of Ollie North's dog dramatizes the Virginia senatorial candidate's practice of fictionalizing aspects of his role in aiding the Nicaraguan Contras against the Marxist-oriented Sandinista government.

Anderson

Our first contact — always through administration intermediaries — with Lt. Col. North came in December 1985, when we learned he was directing a secret arms-for-hostages deal with the Iranians. Pleadings from North's intermediaries, and a conversation with President Reagan, convinced us to hold the story until April 1986. In June 1986, while we were preparing the third story on the arms-for-hostages deal, North learned we intended to name him as the official running the operation.

North's intermediaries pulled out all the stops. Our associate Dale Van Atta was told that if North was linked to the operation, he or his family might be harmed. To buttress their case, they related North's story of his allegedly poisoned dog. Already, they claimed, terrorists targeting North had somehow poisoned one of his dogs, killing it.

We omitted North's name in the June 29 column. Other media were also dissuaded by the White House from naming North on the grounds of his personal security.

When the Iran-Contra scandal — and North's name — finally exploded on the front pages, we learned from North's neighbors that this particular dog had actually died of old age.

This story echoes reports by others, particularly the Reader's Digest, that North's penchant for shading the truth fits into a pattern of prevarication. As one former State Department official and North colleague put it: From day one at the White House, North had a way of taking "credit for things he didn't do and even things nobody did. He was capable of fabricating any story that was useful to him."

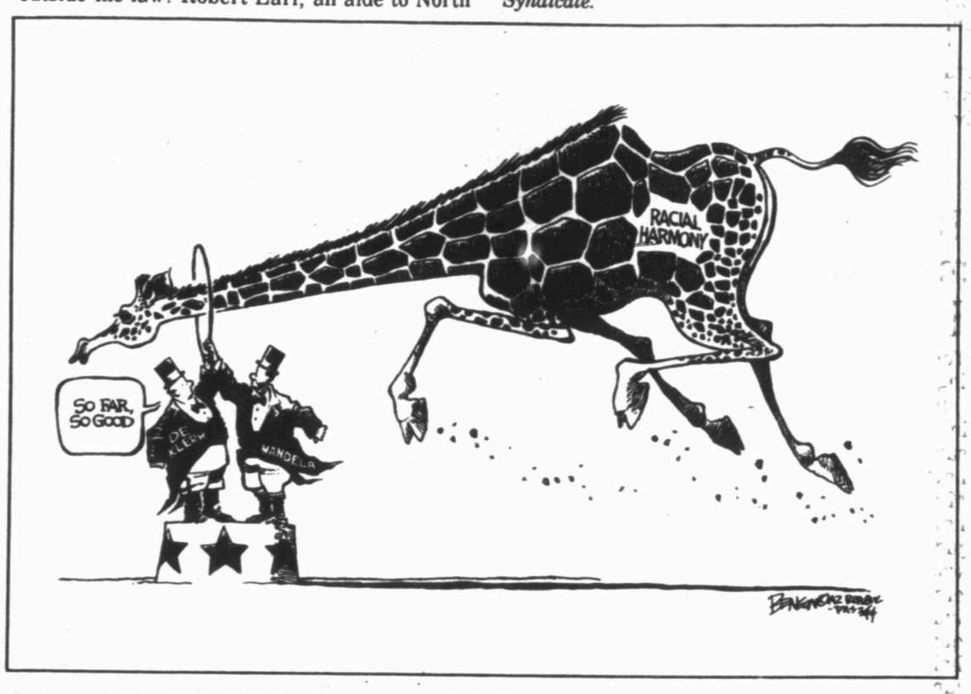

In North's consistent protestations of innocence of any wrongdoing, he says he had no idea that the Iran-Contra operation might be considered illegal by anyone. The claim is important because "criminal intent" can often mean the difference between guilt or innocence. North insists that until the Iran-Contra scandal became public in late November 1986 — when President Reagan fired him and former Attorney General Edwin Meese announced the start of a criminal probe — it never occurred to North that he might have broken the law.

Yet numerous former colleagues of North's say he spoke at various times about stepping outside the law. Robert Earl, an aide to North at the NSC, told congressional investigators that the day after Meese first questioned him about Iran-Contra, North said he had asked Meese whether their discussion "counted," noting he had not been read his rights.

This is the same man who urged the White House to cover up the operation when it started unraveling and who shredded documents and spirited them out of the White House to keep the Justice Department from gaining access to them. Are these the actions of an innocent man?

A technicality kept North out of jail, but perhaps the truth will keep him out of the U.S. Senate.

Spy scandal brings amateur response

The Clinton administration has responded amateurishly to the discovery that a CIA official has been spying for the Russians. It professes to be infuriated.

The Russians, on the other hand, are puzzled that the U.S. would make such a big public deal of it. After all, the U.S. is still spying on Russia.

Reese

Point goes to the Russians. That is the truth. Spying between nations is by no means confined to Cold War opponents. Countries use their intelligence agencies to gain economic advantage and, often, just to keep from being surprised by events.

To profess public outrage that the Soviets had successfully recruited a guy in the Central Intelligence Agency is, well, minor league and amateurish. We have certainly tried to recruit men in the KGB, and for all we know, may have some spying for us. You can be sure neither the CIA nor any of the other U.S. intelligence agencies closed up shop inside Russia just because both sides declared the Cold War over.

Even allies spy on allies. Jonathan Pollard, a former National Security Agency employee, is doing hard time for spying for Israel. Documents left in the U.S. Embassy in Iran and painstakingly re-constructed by the Iranians showed, among other things, that the CIA had agents working in Israel.

When these surface, the best way to handle them is just quietly prosecute the culprit and go on about one's business. Russia no doubt has other spies working in the U.S., because on the whole our counter-intelligence — the job of ferreting out the other guy's agents — is generally lousy.

But just because the Cold War ended and the KGB changed its name, you can hardly expect them to call in all their assets anymore than they expect us to call in ours operating in their country. That's just the way the game of nations is played. Professionals in the intelligence game know that the politicians can always change their minds and that among nations, there is no such thing as either permanent friendship or permanent enmity.

Which is why the Clintonites are acting childishly. What they should be doing is downplaying it and making sure it doesn't get blown out of proportion and queer more important matters, like disarmament.

To make a big deal out of it, the way the Clintonites are doing, is like a prostitute complaining that her customer has been unfaithful.

Of course it's embarrassing whenever you find you've been had by your opponent, but the CIA has been had more than once by people spying for Russia and China and God knows who else. For some reason, the counter-intelligence conducted by the CIA is not much more effective than the FBI's. But, we just have to wipe the egg off our face and go on.

It wouldn't be too much of an exaggeration to say that probably everybody in Washington is either a politician, a bureaucrat, a journalist, a lobbyist, a spy, or some combination of two or more of those things.

It's encouraging that the Russians had to pay the bum. Back in the 1930s and 1940s, Stalin could get all the American spies he wanted for nothing, since so many American intellectuals had gone gaga over socialism and communism.

Even Pollard, besides professing to be a dedicated Zionist, decided that a little cash on the side wouldn't hurt matters. Cash rather than conviction seems to be the motive of most spies these days, perhaps just another clue that materialism has run amok. Even traitors want to keep up with the Joneses, it seems.

Let's hope, of course, that despite the unwarranted theatrics by the Clintonites, they at least have had sense enough not to mistake a thaw in relations with Russia for undying love and affection.

George Washington said it best: no nation can be trusted beyond its own self-interests. That understood, you do what business you can.

RUSSELL BAKER

When does news turn into poppycock?

We spent three weeks where it never snows and there lost touch with the news, which is often fatal to journalists. In journalism survival requires a zealot's belief in the importance of the present moment, and three weeks of refuge from present moments can leave that faith in tatters.

Russell Baker

Three weeks without immersion in the millions of absolutely vital present moments that constitute journalism's definition of three weeks — Ah reader, would you believe how little of consequence really happens in three weeks?

Would you believe maybe nothing?

"A cease-fire in the Balkans you call nothing?" someone will ask, someone fleetingly lifting eyes and ears from the cannonading of present moments pouring in from CNN, New York Times, Connie Chung, "Inside Edition," ESPN, "Oprah," Time, "Entertainment Tonight," the whole, in fact, madhouse of what is called "information," such is the parlous state of the language, Heaven having refused to help us.

"Information," indeed. Information's job is to enrich us, not to bury us in popcorn.

Information, as opposed to "information," would not shout of a cease-fire in the Balkans, but sigh quietly of "another cease-fire" in the Balkans, nudging us to reflect that in lands where firing has gone on eternally it would be foolish to hope for much from "another cease-fire."

As for the mass murder in Israel, it is notable for the great number of victims in a single incident, but matched against the number of Arabs and Israelis killed since their killings began years ago, it is a trifling number.

Diplomacy will or won't be impeded, but only for the moment, and afterward it will succeed or fail in its own time, and probably, over the long run, do both.

Preparing to re-enter the world of present moments, I buried myself two hours ago in the newspapers of the past three weeks. They tell of the Balkans and Israel and of incessant blizzards coating the north in ice, abandoned cars and those sinister creations of the snow-removal artists, ancient blackened mountains of curbside snow that are urban America's winter wonderland.

These stories provide a shameful twinge of sadistic pleasure for one who has passed three weeks where the climate was perfect day and night and the only annoyance a woodpecker wearing his beak out on the house's clapboards.

Still, even the evil-weather stories show how fragile journalism's memory can be. They bring to mind an insupportable New York winter 10 or 12 years ago when a grotesque black tower of snow stood, apparently unmeltable, at Hudson and Jane Streets well into August, if I remember correctly, and if not, so what?

"The artistic lie is always preferable to the inartistic truth, except in journalism," according to Henry James, who despised journalism.

And no wonder, I say to myself, as I wade through thousands of square yards of prose about young people engaged in ice-and-snow sports and dance in Norway.

This is intertwined with a tawdry tale about one Tonya Harding, whose fate in these frigid endeavors so fascinates all America that scarcely a couch potato can bear to turn off the television no matter how mercilessly CBS wields its brutal commercials.

So obsessed with Tonya Harding, America apparently lost all interest in President Clinton. The president, whoever he be, is America's superstar, for the obvious reason that presidents lend themselves to the simple situation-comedy format which television, being an entertainment medium, needs to convey news. Imagine trying to get the TV audience interested in some 500 Congressmen and their families.

So for three weeks of breathtakingly vital present moments, President Superstar gave way to a sad waif in an ice rink. The thought begins to thrill me. Must be time to resume journalism.

Two candidates for judge confuse voter

I am confused by the statements of two of the candidates for county judge. The two men in the race say about 85 percent of county judges in the other 253 Texas counties are not attorneys. I can't help but wonder what the voters in these counties have to do with Midland County.

If you check the records, you will find in the past 20 years Midland County voters have elected an attorney as county judge, one of whom was a woman, and a very fine judge she was.

Another confusing statement being made is that the county judge is the "chief budget officer" for Midland County. Correct me if I'm wrong, but upon checking, it appears to me that the four commissioners are the "chief budget officers" of Midland County, as they have the final say on the budget. The county judge presides over the Commissioners' Court and votes only to break a tie vote.

I am not confused by Teresa's statements — she is an attorney, she is experienced and qualified to be our next county judge.

Thomason's letter misquotes Clingman

I was appalled to read Jess Ann Thomason's letter misquoting Teresa Clingman. Who is misleading the citizens of Midland?

If you read Teresa's political ads in the paper, you will find she says, and I quote, "the only attorney" actively seeking the office of Midland County judge. She has never said or implied a county judge has to be an attorney but it would be beneficial to the taxpayers to have someone in the county judge position who is mature and qualified to do the whole job, not half, someone established in Midland and who has paid ad valorem taxes.

Other counties or 85 percent of the county judges in Texas may not be lawyers, but when we have a highly qualified candidate seeking the job who has business and managerial experience in addition to legal experience, it seems absurd to elect anyone else. We have been fortunate in Midland to have attorneys seek the position.

Please join me in supporting Teresa Clingman for Midland County judge.

Voter: Seltzer's fair, honest, dependable

I have known Charles "Bro" Seltzer for 30 years. He has been associated with my children through high school and college. We have watched him grow and mature and are proud of his many accomplishments.

I feel that his varied experience as a lawyer, his participation in many civic activities in Midland, and his past experience as county judge the last three years qualifies him for the position of judge, County Court at Law #2.

I can give him my wholehearted support because I know him to be a fair, honest and dependable man. His integrity will be a force for good in County Court at Law #2.

Texans should be able to carry their handguns

The Republican Party primary ballot contains a question that reads: "Should the citizens of Texas be allowed to vote on the following question: 'The Department of Public Safety should be authorized to adopt rules for licensing and training qualified citizens to carry handguns for self-protection.'" I urge all registered voters to exercise their right to vote and vote YES to this question.

The State of Florida adopted such a law in 1987. Since that time Florida's homicide rate has dropped 21 percent, while the rate in the nation has risen by 12 percent. This kind of law has significantly lowered the incidence of violent crime in the states that have adopted it.

This is an option that Gov. Richards doesn't want us to have. She vetoed this last year, though it was passed by the Legislature. By voting YES, we the people of the State of Texas can decide this vital question. Voting will take place on Tuesday, March 8.

Road superintendent letter requires more

In response to the letter written by Mike Ridley that appeared in the March 2 issue of the Reporter-Telegram that concerned the article the paper ran on Road and Bridge Superintendent Johnny Williams: it was a long article but could have said much more. No mention was made of the disrespect toward his men or the lack of harmony in his department. Nor was any mention made of the petition against Williams that was signed by 21 of his 27 men, most of which have been employed by the county 10 years or more and have never felt they needed to petition the commissioners for help before.

And as for the improvement of our county roads, there has been a lot of work done in the less than two years Williams has been in office, but how long will they last? County Road 60 West is already full of patches; Fairgrounds Road was being patched a month after completion; 120 East has been patched over and over. Shouldn't paving last longer than this? Then look at the roads in the Rotan Addition, they're not even maintained properly. All these people want is a little caliche so they can get home when it rains. Ask any of them about Williams' road improvements.

Ultra conservatives waffle on freedoms

Today I received in the mail a petition from the conservative Republican Party asking for my signature and donation to help stop legislation of the Fairness Doctrine which would muzzle conservative talkshow hosts like Rush Limbaugh and Pat Buchanan. I find it ironic that the ultra conservative contingent of America who are fighting so desperately for their freedom of speech are the very ones who decided they could eliminate my freedom of speech and choice by censoring my television programming.

There has always been the hope that a free press and a free telecommunications system would allow citizens in a democracy the opportunity to be completely informed, yet censorship has become the rule instead of the exception.

I do not agree with the Fairness Doctrine because it would infringe on the rights of the conservatives and the "Religious Right," yet I had expected the same courtesy of my rights from them.

Voter asks candidates to weigh certain issues

Concerning the upcoming election of candidates for Midland County offices, I would like to express my opinion and beliefs on what I would like for the candidates to stand for, more especially the members of the Midland County Commissioners' Court.

(1) To try to bring harmony back to the elected official of our county offices by staying out of the everyday operations of these offices as much as possible, more especially the number of employees under each of the elected officials, and the assignment of titles as long as they were within reason, more especially, the sheriff and tax assessor and collector. I am in favor of keeping the collection of county taxes in the county tax collector's office. In fact, as I understood it in the beginning, the Midland Central Appraisal District was set up to appraise the value of property to be taxed, and not as a collector of taxes.

As everyone has to go to the Midland County tax collector's office to register their vehicles, I would be in favor of that office collecting the taxes for the county and all the other entities, such as the schools, city, hospital and college.

(2) To keep a close check on the cost of materials bought by the county, more especially the material used to build and/or repair the roads. Another thing would be a close watch on the job of facilities manager and his expenditures from the $1,203,205 budget, with six fulltime employees and some contract hands. See if he is doing the work as cheap or cheaper than a contractor; if not, then cut back on his work and let a contractor do the job, and above all, keep the public informed on the work he does and the cost.

(3) If taxes have to be raised a little to keep our county roads safe to drive on, I would be in favor of that, instead of the people that travel these roads having such an increase in tire, wheel and alignment costs on their vehicles from hitting these chug holes. My cost this year from my two vehicles was more than my county taxes.

Evolution is religion that poses as science

So glad to read Jim Gillespie's letter Sunday (Letters, Feb. 20) to save us from the "evil" creationists. Who needs God when we have geologists to set us straight. How dare God to misinform us about the creation of the world in Scripture. Thank man that the geologists were there, and are not too shy to tell us how it all really happened. Evolution, that's the answer! I'm sure it was just an oversight that Jim forgot to include any of his scientific evidences that prove evolution. We all wanted so badly to see him apply those "rules under which science works" to our origins since he was there.

The "scientific method" stressing experimentation and induction from data rather than philosophical deduction, was invented by Sir Francis Bacon, a creationist. Men like Leonardo da Vinci, Johann Kepler, Blaise Pascal, Isaac Newton, and Nicolaus Steno were the "founding fathers" of many branches of science and they were all creationists desiring to "think God's thoughts after Him." That which is observable, testable, and repeatable makes up what we call "science" today and what the founders of modern science envisioned. Does evolution fit within these parameters of what is called "legitimate" science? The answer is obviously no. Evolution is only philosophical extrapolation as an explanation of origins, a religion and not science. Indeed, evolution is a major tenet of Atheism, Pantheism, Confucianism, Buddhism, Hinduism and Taoism.

Politicians' prices fail to match voter's

One hears almost daily from the political gurus that inflation has been subdued; we should no longer have fear of this monster. Is this true? I sometimes wonder and think not.

Based upon a review of billings over the past two years (February 1992 to February 1994) for services rendered by the city of Midland, I note with some surprise that costs for such services have increased substantially. My analysis shows the following rise in basic services:

1) Water: Costs are up on a unit basis by 22 percent.

2) Sewer: This service has increased to $13 per month from $12.17 per month, or up by 6.8 percent.

3) Garbage: Currently this cost has risen to $10.25 per month from $7.75 per month for a whopping 32.3 percent increase.

Over the two-year period, on a composite basis the estimate shows these three elements to be up by 17.3 percent.

One can't help but wonder if the pols are getting to us? Perhaps, maybe, our local officials are subtly raising money via services for spending elsewhere in lieu of raising taxes.

Justice, jurors turn deaf ear in Harrell trial

What has happened to our justice system? What causes so much crime, including murder, in our young people today? Well, of course, it's our system of justice. What message are we sending to our young people today? You can go out and shoot a man four times in the back of the head (that's shooting someone in the back, by the way) and if you wish later that you hadn't committed this crime (because you've been caught) we will punish you. . .a little. Just be sure that you sob and cry the whole time you're in court, even though the family of the murdered man has been told not to show any emotion.

And what ever happened to "the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth?" Well, the justice system can tell you how much of the truth you can bring in and how much you must hide. Our justice system will allow you to take the stand and lie even though they know you are lying.

The justice system can allow you to flaunt a man's private life and make a public mockery of that man; the man that you murdered. But the friends and family of the victim cannot tell anyone anything about the victim because then we will declare a mistrial.

To the jurors who turned a deaf ear to the facts in the murder trial of Harrell/Musick, how can you live with yourself? I couldn't!

Animal control sells sick cat, woman says

I recently purchased a cat from the Midland Animal Control and took it in for a medical examination. To my sorrow I found that the cat was both FIV (Feline Immunodeficiency Virus) and FeLv (Feline Leukemia) positive. Both of these diseases are fatal. The FIV is related to HIV, so in essence it is the equivalent of a human having HIV and cancer.

The cat is not sick now because the diseases are in the latent phase, but he will just start getting sicker and sicker until he dies. Both of these diseases are extremely contagious. FeLv can be transmitted through saliva and other body fluids, and FIV can be transmitted through blood and in much the same way HIV can be transmitted. Since I have another cat I have to make the decision of whether or not to put a non-suffering cat to sleep or to keep him confined in a room by himself-much like he was at the pound.

The sad part is that no one should have to make this choice. It is a no-win situation. The Animal Control makes such a point of being a responsible pet owner that I believe this is inexcusable. Testing for these diseases is something that should be done before an animal is adopted, because not only are they allowing dying animals to be adopted but they are risking infecting many other healthy animals. Perhaps screening for these diseases could be included in the cost for adopting an animal. . .and spare many others the pain I have felt.

Voter: Go Gonzalez, Haas is 'bushwhacker'

In the Democratic primary, a most important election is occurring between the incumbent, Justice Raul Gonzalez, and the challenger, Ms. Rene Haas, for Texas Supreme Court, Place One. This court can and will determine the destiny of Texas, particularly in business and world markets. Ms. Haas accused Justice Gonzalez of judicial activism and campaign finance improprieties in a Feb. 17Reporter-Telegram article; the Dallas Morning News (Feb. 20) has correctly labeled her antics as "Bushwhacking."

Raul Gonzalez became the first Hispanic to hold statewide office in 1984 working his way through college as a migrant fruit worker. Ms. Haas was born from wealth and is married to powerful personal injury and plaintiff lawyer David Perry (past president of the Texas Trial Lawyers Association) who has contributed nearly $160,000 to Texas Supreme Court candidates in the past few years.

Justice Gonzalez's current contributors are from a constellation of sources, but as of Feb. 6, 154 of 159 of Ms. Haas' contributors are soley from lawyers, with 14 contributions of $25,000 from personal injury law firms. Ms. Haas will apparently raise and spend 2-3 times the funds as Justice Gonzalez. Thus, is the court (again) for sale? Unless one desires increased costs for goods and services purchased, including health care, I would recommend voting for Raul Gonzalez for the Texas Supreme Court.

Remember 'The Rifleman' next time spider crawls under covers

I live in an urban setting. Lots of cement, asphalt and tall buildings around.

There are trees and birds in my neighborhood, of course, but from my front porch I can almost see people working in one of the tallest buildings in Atlanta.

Grizzard

"You know what people who go to work in all those tall buildings do?" a friend asked me once.

I had no idea.

"They sit around and figure out how to get your money and mine, that's what," he explained. "And they're pretty good at it."

The point I am trying to make is I'm not exactly camping out when I go to bed each evening.

Yet I was bitten by something in my bed in the middle of a major American city.

"And just whom were you in bed with," asked that same friend when I related my experience.

That's one thing that's wrong with this country. Almost anything you bring up these days somebody has to put his smutty connotation to it.

That's the fault of Phil Donahue, Oprah Winfrey and Hollywood movie producers. Tonya Harding and Rush Limbaugh are probably involved, too. If nothing else, it's popular to blame them for any number of offenses.

I was in bed alone, the truth be known, and when I awakened the next morning I felt a horrible pain in my left ankle.

I got out of bed and looked at said ankle. It was red and swollen, and there was a place that had a little hole in it.

No question. During the night, I had been bitten by some sort of insect. I showed the injured area to a number of acquaintances. Somebody naturally had to bring up the "S" word.

"Reminds me of the old 'Rifleman' episode," he explained. "Chuck Connors was out on the range in his sleeping bag. A rattlesnake crawled down in there with him.

"The Rifleman awoke and had to get his rifle and shoot down in his sleeping bag and kill the rattlesnake."

"It wasn't a snake that bit me," I said. But I realized that from now on, every time I put my legs under some dark covers, I'll think of the "Rifleman" episode and figure, well, it COULD happen. Even here in the Ritz Carlton.

"I think it was a spider that bit you," somebody else said.

That made sense to me. I pay the bug man to come in once a month to spray that god-awful spray that will curl your nose hairs. But something like a spider or two could survive.

The spider got into my bed somehow, and after I was asleep it was crawling across my ankle, became disturbed or frightened by something and bit me.

Some people are terribly afraid of spiders. That's called "littlemissmuffetaphobia." But not me.

I'll take, in an urban setting, getting bitten by a spider over being run over by a city truck, falling into a pothole, suffering a nervous breakdown in a traffic jam, or worse, being mugged and becoming another urban crime statistic.

In other words, there are a lot worse things than being bitten by a spider while asleep in your bed.

"Depends on who you're in the bed with," said my lecherous friend, a guest on a recent Donahue show regarding men with a fetish for female vampire ice skaters who have been verbally abused by Rush Limbaugh.

ADDAPT recognizes the importance of teachers in the lives of all children and the special challenges that children with ADD present in the classroom. A teacher who makes a special effort and shows a special understanding for students with ADD can made a significant difference in their lives.

Recently, ADDAPT has recognized three such teachers: Blake Robinson, teacher at Abell Junior High, has made a special difference in the life of an ADD student who is also her little sister in the Big Brothers/Big Sisters program; Tracy Farrow, of Parker Elementary, was recognized for her special understanding of children with ADD and Linda Sloan, St. Ann's School, was recognized for her efforts to help build self esteem, communicate with the parents and many other modifications to help her special students succeed.

Any parent of a child with ADD or other learning disabilities who would like to recognize a teacher who has made a difference for their child may do so by writing to ADDAPT at 1900 N. "L" St., Midland, 79705.

IT REALLY WORKS!
The Better Way To Store Bananas...Why?
When you hang your bananas you prevent them from coming in contact with countertops or baskets, this:

1. Provides better circulation for better ripening.
2. Prevents bruising and soft spots.
3. Enables your banana to stay fresh longer.
4. Reduces spoilage.

LETTER FROM COLLEGE

Basketball team works to avoid spring break

By H.A. Tuck

Midland College is closed this week for spring break; however, the Chaparral basketball team has been doing its best not to have a spring break.

Tuck

Since we are writing this early, we don't know how the Chaps are fairing at the Starburst Junior College Championship in Waco.

They went to the tourney as the second seed from the Western Junior College Athletic Conference, along with top-seed Odessa College, No. 3 Howard College and No. 4 South Plains. With a single exception, the march toward a possible national championship is single-elimination.

A team can win three games and take the Region V crown, then could lose to the Region XIV champions and still advance to the National Junior College Athletic Association national tournament.

At the NJCAA event in Hutchinson, Kan., the championship is decided in four games, although every team at Hutchinson gets to play at least two games.

Now we'd like to discuss gifts to the college, both past and present. First, the Hodge Carillon has been silent since Christmas. Its old-fashioned, mechanical system was somewhat like a player piano. A large, plastic roll filled with holes rotated around a drum, signaling for certain notes to be struck on tiny bars and the resulting tones amplified through speakers located atop the Hodge Carillon Tower. The system has virtually died, so a new system is being constructed. For those who have been used to hearing the carillon peal out beautiful music and signal the time, the silence is unnatural.

The Hodge Carillon Tower was a gift to the college by the late Howard and Veda Hodge, who operated motion picture theaters and drive-ins in Midland for many years. They presented the carillon in memory of their late nephew, J. Sanford Hodge, and it was dedicated on Oct. 2, 1975, the same day the campus was dedicated.

MC's carillon is quite similar to one that the Hodge family had presented several years earlier to Howard Payne University in Brownwood. MC's founding president, Al Langford, was a graduate of Howard Payne and Mrs. Hodge was a long-time benefactor of HPU.

Other significant gifts have included the Beal Plaza, presented by the Beal family of Midland; the Blakemore Foundation, given by the William B. Blakemore family; the McCormick Gallery, given by Col. and Mrs. Walter B. Smith in memory of her family; and the Allison Fine Arts Building, named for the James N. Allison family which provided a sizeable endowment for journalism and the fine arts.

The Fasken Foundation has provided numerous scholarships, including the early Top Five Percent Scholarships for local and area high school graduates. The Abell-Hanger Foundation has provided nursing scholarships for many years, scholarships for local high school graduates, as well as scholarships for those who pass their GED tests.

There have been a lot of other gifts, of course, of goods, property and cash. Some of the gifts have been earmarked for specific uses, while others are unrestricted.

How can you make a gift to Midland College? We try to make it as easy as possible. You may make a contribution of money or property, even a delayed gift, to a specific program or department. For a longer-lasting effect, you may wish to consider an endowment, which allows only the interest to be spent.

At present, the college has an on-going drive for the Chaparral Circle Fund. This is an endowment with a goal of $5.75 million by the time the college celebrates its 25th anniversary in December 1997. More than 40 percent already has been pledged toward the goal. The principal will never be used, but the interest will be available for general operating costs of the college.

Eileen Piwetz, director of institutional advancement and effectiveness, would be happy to talk about avenues you might wish to consider regarding a gift for the college. You can contact her at 685-4519. Charles E. P. Simmons, government instructor, also works part-time with Ms. Piwetz. You can contact him at 685-4608.

Gifts generally are recognized as being to charitable organizations, since both the college and the Midland College Foundation have tax-exempt status.

Circus Gatti is performing today and tomorrow at Chaparral Center. Shows are at 2 and 6 p.m. today and 2 and 7 p.m. on Monday. Circus Gatti is sponsored by the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

At the same time, Chap Center is busily selling tickets for Sesame Street Live productions, scheduled March 29-30. They also may be purchased from Midland Sound or Endless Horizons. Prices are $9.50 for adults and $8 for children.

H. A. Tuck is public relations director for Midland College.

Short courses target loss, guitar, antiques

Staff Report

The Midland College Department of Continuing Education will offer 15 short courses beginning March 14. Courses follow:

"Aerobics: Step Bench" will be taught Shawna Loyd on Mondays and Wednesdays from 6:15-7 p.m., March 14-April 25. Step Aerobics, which uses a 4 by 12 step bench. The workout is primarily high intensity, low impact with various step patterns for participants of all ages, skill and fitness levels. Both men and women can be challenged simultaneously. Wear athletic shoes and comfortable clothing. Class is limited to 30 students. Course fee is $23.

Albert Madrid will be teaching "Guitar for Adults II" on Mondays from 7:30-8:30 p.m. March 14 through April 18. This continuation of Guitar I is designed to enable students to become more proficient and will focus on individual needs. Class is limited to 8 students. Course fee is $25.

"Guitar for Teens II" will also be taught by Albert Madrid on Mondays from 6:30-7:30 p.m., March 14 through April 18. This continuation of Guitar for Teens I is designed to enable to students to become more proficient and will focus on individual needs. Class is limited to eight students. Course fee is $25.

Sandy Hicks will be teaching "Real Estate Brokerage" on Mondays through Thursdays from 6-10 p.m., March 14 through March 30. This course is an introduction to real estate brokerage. It will discuss agency relationships, and help in establishing an operating strategy, recruiting and training agents, advertising and promotion of the real estate office. Course fee is 145.

"Tummy Trimmers and Thigh Thinner" will be taught by Shawn Loyd on Mondays and Wednesdays from 7-7:30 p.m., March 14 through April 25. Come and join this special class designed to "beat the tummy bulge" and work off those "saddle bags" and flabby thighs. The exercise level varies throughout the workout — some easy, some fairly challenging routines. Wear tennis shoes and bring a towel. Class is limited to 30 students. Course fee is $16.

Barbara Jowell and Donnette Schwisow will be teaching "We Did It . . . So Can You!" on Mondays and Wednesdays from 7-9 p.m., March 14 through March 30. With wit and wisdom, widow and divorcee take you through a journey of self-discovery to a life of self-sufficiency. Men and women alike benefit from priceless business tips on topics such as money, home, car, insurance and travel, and how to choose and work with one's advisors (attorney, accountant, insurance, finapcial). Workbook available from instructors for $5. Course fee is $39.

"Antiques I: Furniture" will be taught by Dan Haller on Tuesdays from 7-9 p.m., March 15 through March 22. Have you ever wondered if Aunt Emma's foot stool you inherited was worth anything? Come and learn about the periods, styles and construction of antiques. Through discussion and demonstration, you will also get pointers on recognizing age and authenticity. Course fee is $11.

Dennis White will be teaching "Financial Planning" on Tuesdays from 7-9:15 p.m., March 15 through April 5. This class is designed for students who are seeking knowledge in investments and financial planning and have a desire to develop strategies to achieve financial goals in life, pre-retirement, and retirement. Topics to be included are college funding, insurance, asset allocation; investment types and strategies; and, effects of inflation, taxation, and compound interest on income and asset growth. Notebooks and materials are included in tuition. Course fee of $45 covers all materials and registration for either one person or a couple.

"Hunter Education" will be taught by John Cappadonna on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6-9 p.m., March 15 through March 24. Don't wait until the last minute! If you are a hunter born on or after Sept. 2, 1971, you must complete this course to legally hunt in Texas. Anyone may take the course on a voluntary basis and parents are encouraged to attend with their children. Students must be at least 12 years old in order to be certified. Currently, all other states and provinces requiring certification will accept Texas certification in order to purchase a license and/or to hunt. The course will include firearm safety, ethics, laws and regulations, conservation, wildlife identification, field care of game, regulations, conservation, wildlife identification, field of care game, wilderness first aid, and survival. You will need your Social Security number in order to register. If you are under 17 years old, you must have your parent or guardian sign the registration form on the night of the first class. Course fee is $7.

"Plumbing for Homeowners" will be taught by Bob Kinkade on Tuesdays from 7-9 p.m., March 15 through April 19. Tired of paying all that money to a plumber for something you can learn to do yourself? Find out how to avoid costly plumbing repair bills in this hands-on class taught by a master plummer. The required textbook and workbook is available at the MC bookstore. Course fee is $29.

Sandy Hicks will be teaching "Real Estate: Math" on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m., March 15 through March 31. This course starts at a very basic math level. The student reviews how to figure fractions, percentages, square footage, commissions, mortgage payments, proration of taxes and interest. Also included is appraisal math, present value of money, and amortization. Course fee is $145.

"Conversational Russian II" will be taught by Gary Khazan on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7-9 p.m., March 15 through April 21. This continuation of Russian I is designed to enable students to become more proficient in comprehension and speaking. Class will focus on the specific needs of the students. Course fee is $56.

Joyce Low will be teaching "Stained Glass II" on Thursdays from 7-9 p.m., March 17 through April 28. Based on the principles of Stained Glass I, students will work on more advanced projects and learn more advanced techniques. Class is limited to 12 students. Course fee is $29.

"Wills, Probate and Estate Planning" will be taught by Hal Kempf on Thursdays from 7-9 p.m., March 17 through April 28. Estate planning is not just for the wealthy. Come find out what Congress is about to do again! Course fee of $45 covers all materials and registration for either one or a couple.

"Real Estate: MCE" will be taught by Donna Gore on Saturday, March 19 and Sunday, March 20 from 8:30 a.m.- 5 p.m. This course is designed solely as an update for the experienced real estate licensee, broker, or salesperson. Course content is designed to meet the requirements of the Texas Real Estate License Act providing for Mandatory Continuing Education, TREC Provider No. 0061 (Keeping Current with Texas Real Estate, course No. 15-09-064-0163). ■ Midland High advances to the state tournament for the first time since 1973 with 66-60 win over The Colony.

By Terry Williamson
Sports Editor

The "Miracle at the Chap" is now complete. Midland High is Austin bound.

The Bulldogs (25-11) defeated The Colony (31-2) 66-60 Saturday morning at Chaparral Center to earn its first Final Four state tournament berth since 1973.

MHS is now officially the Cinderella team of the state in 1994, earning the state tournament berth after placing second in District 4-5A. MHS had to win five consecutive playoff games to turn the trick, and in the process, had to beat two teams (El Paso Andress and The Colony) which had beaten them in regular season play. In addition, MHS had to defeat Amarillo Tascosa along the way, the team that eliminated MHS from the state playoffs last year in the very first round.

To say this is a miracle is almost an understatement of grand magnitude. The Bulldogs started the season with a 2-5 record.

"I don't think many people expected us to be here," said a euphoric MHS coach Jack Stephenson. "The paper picked us to finish fourth in district play, but these kids hung together and turned it around. This is one of the highlights of my life.

"When it's down to the Final Four, I don't care if it is the NCAA, high school or junior high, it's the neatest feeling in the world.

And how did the miracle happen? Well, for starters take a 61.5 percent shooting eye. MHS couldn't miss on this important weekend. The 'Dogs hit 53 percent in a 67-63 win over Fort Worth Dunbar on Friday night. That was just warming up.

MHS hit the floor running against The Colony, gunning to a 9-0 lead with four different players scoring in the run while the Cougars started with zero-for-nine from the field. The tone was set, but Stephenson wasn't feeling safe.

"Frank Bice, a former coach at Andrews, once said, 'Basketball is the greatest game there is. They ought to do away with it.' That was the way I was feeling. You would rather have a lead than be behind, but the start of any game is like a sparring match. We knew it wouldn't last."

The Colony did come back, gaining a 24-22 lead with 2:48 left

Chaps survive early start

■ Midland College slips by Weatherford College 85-76 in morning game filled with mistakes on both sides.

By Bill Petitt
Staff Writer

WACO — Both Midland College and Weatherford College found a 10 a.m. game a little hard to wake up for as they slept-walked through the first round of the Starburst Junior College Basketball Championships.

Somewhere in the dream state, Midland got a clear message: stop Eric Cardenas at all costs. The Chaps responded by stopping the 6-foot-9, 280-pound center to just two first half field goals and came away with a sluggish 85-76 win over Weatherford Saturday.

The Chaps, now 27-3 on the year and ranked 15th in the nation, will face 28-2, 11th-ranked, McLennan College today at 8 p.m. in the quarterfinal round of the tournament at the Ferrell Center.

Midland took Weatherford out of its game plan of feeding the ball down to Cardenas by double and triple teaming him with a corps of big men John Brown, Steve Walston, Kirk Ford, Luis Cambraia and Tellas Lampley.

The tag team effort frustrated Cardenas, who was held scoreless the first 10 minutes of the game. He picked up two fouls within a nine-second span with nine minutes to play in the first half and was forced to sit down with Midland leading 23-19.

"We thought he was getting his butt kicked down low," said Weatherford coach Bob McKinley. "If you can play like that and get away with it, it's to your advantage. They really played aggressive down low.

"We thought that the foul situation (Weatherford with eight fouls in the first nine minutes of the game compared to one for Midland) was a factor early because they let Midland play real, real aggressive down low and then once the officials tried to straighten it up, we were already in foul trouble. I thought they let the game get away in the first five or six minutes and then they tried to get control back."

Lee girls, Midland High boys win Region I swim titles

Staff Report

LUBBOCK — Midland continued its high school swimming dominance here Friday and Saturday as Midland Lee's girls and Midland High's boys took Region I championships.

Midland Lee shattered five school records and two region records. They had two boys and five girls make state with first-place finishes in the meet held at Texas Tech. Several other Lee athletes had times that should qualify for at-large positions.

Midland High had one swimmer — Howard Flowers — qualify outright for state with a win in the 200 individual medley (1:58.48). All three MHS boys relays finished second and could get at-large berths at state. Flowers could also make state with second-place finishes in the 200 medley relay and the 100 backstroke.

MHS' boys edged El Paso Eastwood 69-65 in the team standings. Lee's girls easily beat second-place Amarillo High 85-52. Lee's boys finished fourth with 39 points and MHS' girls came in 12th.

The at-large berths will be determined today by 5 p.m. The state meet is in Austin March 18 and 19.

Steve Mullins and the girls 400 freestyle relay team broke region marks for Lee. Mullins swam a 53.02 in the 100 yard back stroke. That time also qualified him for junior nationals. Susie Carnett, Lisa Wachsmann,

■ Midland Lee beats Lubbock Monterey for the title in the teams' third game of the Tournament of Champions.

By Pete Herndon
MRT Correspondent

There was little doubt that the two teams in the championship round of the Tournament of Champions baseball tournament wanted to impress each other. After all, perennial playoff contenders Lee and Lubbock Monterey are no strangers to each other in the postseason.

And after Lee's 12-8 win for the tournamnt's title Saturday, they can also claim familiarity before their respective districts begin play.

Lee entered the championship round with a 6-2 overall record. Both losses coming from Lubbock Monterey in a doubleheader earlier in the week. Monterey came out of the losers' bracket in

Tom Ruiz

The secret to the Midland Lee girls' success so far this year has been hard work and commitment. Saturday, that formula paid off as the Lady Rebels held off a furious San Angelo rally in defending their Tall City Invitational Girls Tournament title at Green Tree Country Club.

■ Tall City Girls Golf

The Lady Rebs shot a final round of 339 for a tournament score of 674, three shots better than San Angelo's 677. The win avenged a tournament loss to the Lady Bobcats in San Angelo earlier in the season. San Angelo beat Lee by 15 strokes in that tournament.

If anything helped San Angelo in Saturday's final round, it was that the Lee girls experienced a case of the nerves.

"We were a little bit tense out there," said Lee coach Phyllis Sutton, "but the girls showed what hard work and commitment can do."

MHS boys win league title

ODESSA — Emmanuel Sannon scored two goals here Saturday in a 2-0 win over Odessa High that gave Midland High the District 5-5A soccer championship. The win, coupled with Abilene High's 3-1 loss to San Angelo gives the Bulldogs a three game lead on second-place Abilene High with two games remaining. MHS is now 10-0 in district and 15-0 overall. Odessa High falls to 2-9 and 7-12.

"I'm very pleased and I'm happy for the boys," Midland High coach Tom Esikhati said.

Sannon, a senior forward, scored with an assist from Jesse Dominquez at 19 minutes. He scored at 71 minutes in the second half with an assist from Kiley Miller.

"We played well but we could have done better," Esikhati said of the win over last-place Odessa High. "But we won and that's what counts."

It's the first district title for MHS boys soccer since 1989, Esikhati said.

Lee boys defeat Permian in soccer

Lee got three first half goals Saturday to beat Odessa Permian 3-1 in a District 5-5A soccer match at Midland Lee. K.C. Gore had Lee's first goal seven minutes into the first half. Jeremy Keener scored at 29 minutes. Allie Lerma then got a goal at 32 minutes.

Despite the loss, Lee (4-7 in district, 9-7 overall) dropped out of the playoff race as San Angelo beat Abilene High 3-1 to go 2½ games ahead of the Rebels with two games left for San Angelo and one for Lee. Permian goes to 4-6 and 6-10. Lee is off Tuesday and finishes its season at Abilene Cooper March 12.

Lady Rebs win, clinch tie for third

ODESSA — Forward Jamie Welch scored three goals, two in the second half, as Midland Lee's girls beat Odessa Permian here Saturday 4-2. Lee can now secure a playoff spot with a win in their last game Saturday at home against Abilene Cooper or a loss by Permian in either of its last two games.

"It was definitely one of the best games we've played," Lee coach Van Gravitt said. "Permian plays very physical, very rough. We mixed it up with them. We didn't back down."

Welch scored off a free kick by Chrystal Zachry for the only goal of the first half. Permian tied it 30 seconds into the second half on a goal by Becky Athey. Welch answered with an assist from Kelly Sowell at 60 minutes.

Stephanie Smith tallied on a penalty kick at 67 minutes to put Lee up 3-1. Permian scored again but Welch put the game away with an assist from Erin Blinka with two minutes to go. Lee is now 8-3 in district and 12-4 overall. Permian falls to 6-4, 9-9.

MHS netters take third in Odessa

ODESSA — Midland High scored 81 points and placed third behind Odessa Permian (100) and Odessa High (83) in the Odessa Invitational Tennis Tournament Saturday.

MHS team captain Kevin McIlvain won the boys singles title while team capatin Bonnie Terrazas placed second in girls singles.

"The tournament was an eight-team event, and to place third overall was fair, yet dissappointing because just two more wins here or there would have given us the championship," said MHS coach Tom Heiting.

MHS will host the Tall City Invitational on March 18-19.

V.
	238TH JUDICIAL DISTRICT

NOTICE OF PENDENCY OF CLASS ACTION AND PROPOSED SETTLEMENT

TO: ALL PERSONS AND ENTITIES WHO NOW OWN OR WHO HAVE EVER OWNED A ROYALTY INTEREST AND/ OR AN OVERRIDING ROYALTY INTEREST SO AS TO BE ENTITLED TO SHARE IN PRODUCTION FROM THE 523 OIL AND/OR GAS WELLS DESCRIBED HEREINAFTER EXCLUDING ANY PERSON OR ENTITY WHO WAS A PARTY PLAINTIFF TO A LAWSUIT STYLED PARKER & 1994, PARSLEY PETROLEUM COMPANY, ET AL., V. DRESSER INDUSTRIES, INC., ET AL., BEING CAUSE NO. MO-89-CA-193 IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE WESTERN DISTRICT OF TEXAS, MIDLAND/ ODESSA DIVISION, OR WHO WAS A PARTY PLAINTIFF TO A LAWSUIT STYLED PARKER & PARSLEY PETROLEUM COMPANY, ET AL., V. DRESSER INDUSTRIES, INC., ET AL., BEING CAUSE NO. 39,224 IN THE 238TH DISTRICT COURT OF MIDLAND COUNTY, TEXAS.

THE 523 WELLS WHICH ARE THE SUBJECT OF THE PENDING CLASS ACTION ARE SITUATED IN THE SPRABERRY TREND IN MIDLAND, MARTIN, REAGAN, UPTON, CRANE, LOVING, GLASSCOCK, AND ANDREWS COUNTIES, TEXAS, AND ARE OPERATED BY PARKER & PARSLEY PETROLEUM COMPANY. THEY ARE FULLY DESCRIBED IN EXHIBIT A TO THE PLAINTIFFS' FIRST AMENDED ORIGINAL PETITION FILED IN THE ABOVE ENTITLED LAWSUIT.

Your rights may be affected by the above entitled lawsuit (the "Class Action") and a proposed settlement of the Class Action. The six above named Plaintiffs are the designated Class Representatives (the "Class Representatives"). Class Counsel are Don Graf and Jim Hund of McCleskey, Harriger, Brazill & Graf, L.L.P., Vann Culp and Marc Skeen of Stubbeman, McRae, Sealy, Laughlin & Browder, Inc., and John L. Shepherd (the "Class Counsel"). The Class Representatives, Class Counsel, and all the Defendants have agreed to the proposed settlement; and the Class Representatives and Class Counsel recommend that all Class members accept the proposed settlement.

The Class Representatives allege that the Defendants and their predecessors, including BJ Titan Services Company, intentionally and knowingly engaged in a scheme of improperly treating and/or fracturing the 523 wells commencing in 1983, which conduct resulted in injury to all royalty and overriding royalty interests and owners entitled to share in production from the wells. The Class Representatives allege that the Defendants' conduct constituted fraud, gross negligence, and negligence and seek recovery of damages for the members of the Class for alleged loss of past and future production of oil and gas from the 523 wells and alleged reduction of fair market value of the royalty and overriding royalty interest in the 523 wells owned by members of the Class.

The Defendants deny the Class Representatives' allegations in all respects and deny that the Defendants have any liability whatsoever to any member of the Class.

On September 17, 1991, the Court determined that the lawsuit should be maintained as a class action on behalf of all present and former owners of royalty and/or overriding royalty interest in the 523 wells who were not parties plaintiff to either of the two Parker & Parsley Petroleum Company, et al., v Dresser Industries, Inc., et al., lawsuits identified above in the United States District Court for the Western District of Texas, Midland/Odessa Division, and 238th District Court of Midland County, Texas. The Court has preliminarily approved a proposed settlement between the Class and the Defendants. If you are a member of the Class, you may be entitled to a portion of the Settlement Fund to be paid by the Defendants pursuant to the proposed settlement. Also, if you are a member of the Class,you have the right to exclude yourself from the Class or to object to the settlement. In any such event, you will be required to mail certain information to the Committee of Counsel not later than April 15, 1994.

Persons who have been identified as possible members of the class are being advised by mail of their rights with respect to the Class Action. This Notice is being published because some Class members may not receive the mailed notice either because they have not been identified as members of the Class or the mailing information is inaccurate. If you are (or believe you may be) a member of the Class but do not receive or have not received individual notice of your rights by mail by February 1, 1994, you should immediately notify the Committee of Counsel, P. O. Box No. 6823, Lubbock, Texas 79493, giving your name, telephone number, current address and social security number. You will then be mailed a more detailed explanation of the rights of Class members in the Class Action, including a detailed list of the 523 wells involved, and will be placed on the mailing list for any future notificaitons regarding this suit.

A hearing for final approval of the settlement is scheduled in the 238th Judicial District Court of Midland County, Texas, on June 30, 1994, at 9:00 a.m. If you have not received notice by mail, you should notify the Committee of Counsel immediately at the address shown above. If you are a member of the Class and do not file an election to be excluded from the Class postmarked no later then April 15, 1994, you will be bound by the final judgment entered in the Class Action regardless of whether the proposed settlement is finally approved. Likewise, if you wish to object to the settlement, you must notify the committee of Counsel by mail postmarked not later then April 15, 1994.

Amarillo claims second title

Associated Press

■ UIL Girls Basketball

AUSTIN — Kim Linder and Tracie Swayden, who have been winning basketball games together since they were grade-schoolers, saved the best for last and guided Amarillo to its second straight Class 5A state championship with a 62-46 victory against Conroe Saturday night.

Linder scored 18 and Swayden had 11, but more importantly the two seniors provided the team calm confidence when Conroe battled back from a first-half deficit and threatened early in the fourth quarter.

Amarillo (36-1) became the first team in Class 5A to win back-to-back titles since Duncanville did it in 1989 and 1990. Conroe, led by Nici Johnson with 13 points and 12 points each from Tracy Bougere and Tiffany Moore, ended the year 33-2 after its first tournament appearance since finishing as runner-up in 3A in 1974.

The game was an intense battle of mashing bodies and taunting trash talk for three quarters. Then Swayden hit two free throws and slipped a perfect no-look pass to Linder that led to a basket, and Amarillo was off on a 10-2 run that put the game out of reach, 51-38, with 3:50 to play.

Class 4A Championship
Waco Midway 52,
Dallas Lincoln 40

AUSTIN — Amanda Mooney scored 20 and Mary Curry added 17 as Waco Midway overcame a considerable size mismatch and dismantled Dallas Lincoln.

Midway (37-3) won its sixth state title by out-hustling Lincoln and by collapsing on the Lady Tigers' massive frontline, which includes three players 6-feet or taller.

Lincoln, the 4A runner-up in 1991 and making its third state tournament appearance, finished the year 29-6, led by Cynthia Hogg with 16 points and 17 rebounds.

Mooney scored nine points and Curry had seven in a paralyzing 17-0 run that gave Midway a commanding 33-13 lead with 5:02 left in the third quarter.

The run featured slashing drives by Mooney and Curry and in-your-face pressing and trapping on defense. Midway was able to turn 20 Lincoln turnovers into 22 points.

Class 3A Championship
Dripping Springs 64,
Waco La Vega 56

AUSTIN — Melanie McMullin hit a momentum-stealing 3-pointer with 1:42 to play and then converted six straight free throws in the final 35 seconds to help Dripping Springs defeat Waco La Vega.

Dripping Springs finished the year 36-3 and grabbed the title it narrowly missed last year in a bitter finals loss to Dimmitt.

Waco La Vega, making its first tournament appearance, ended the season 32-4 and received outstanding performances from Katrina Price, who scored 31 points Saturday and 41 Thursday in a semifinal victory against previously unbeaten Brownsboro.

McMullin proved to be the difference down the stretch for Dripping Springs, which had a huge contingent of fans from the Hill Country town just outside of Austin.

After she left the game with four fouls at the 7:42 mark of the fourth quarter, La Vega went on a 9-0 run and took its first lead, 47-46, with 5:07 to play.

McMullin then re-entered the game and scored 13 of her team's final 18 points, including a leaning drive after dribbling the length of the court with a steal.

Class 2A Championship
Tuscola Jim Ned 31, Hemphill 29

AUSTIN — Marissa Thomas scored 13 points, including both ends of a one-and-one free throw attempt with 26.9 seconds left, to help secure a victory for Tuscola Jim Ned over Hemphill.

Jim Ned held off a late Hemphill charge to win the 2A title in its first ever appearance at the state tournament, finishing the year 34-2.

Hemphill, also making its first showing at the state tournament, ended the season 30-5.

While Thomas proved to be the star for Jim Ned, she nearly became the goat when she fouled Hemphill's Lisa McDaniel on a 3-point attempt with 19.6 seconds left and Jim Ned leading 31-25.

Class A Championship
Sudan 40, Jayton 36

AUSTIN — Danielle Martin scored 19 points, including both ends of a one-and-one with 7.1 seconds left, helping secure a victory for Sudan against Jayton.

Martin, who also had eight rebounds, was icy cool throughout the tournament for Sudan, which claimed its third state title and finished the year 35-3.

Jayton, which was led by Buffy Ferguson and Marci Foster with 14 points each, finished the year 34-3 after making its third tournament appearance.

MHS girls stop slide

■ Lady Bulldogs get first District 5-5A soccer victory with 5-0 romp over Odessa High.

By Mike Butts
Staff Writer

Jacque Ketter did some pre-game boogeying. Then the Midland High Lady Bulldogs danced through the Odessa High defense for five goals, a 5-0 win and their first-ever District 5-5A soccer victory.

Ketter's impromptu jig — which came seconds before kickoff as the teams lined up to play — told the story: Midland High was confident going into Saturday's home game.

"Finally we got one," said Bulldog coach Scott Hodkinson, who's team had gone 0-9 in district play before Saturday and hadn't won a game since the Wichita Falls Tournament in the third week of January. "This win was a long time coming because we have been playing well for a couple of weeks now."

The win means the Lady Bulldogs, 5-11 overall and playing in district for the first time, won't have to wait until next season to get their first league win. And they probably won't finish the season alone in last place in 5-5A.

Sophomore Ketter and her partner on the front line, sophomore Tina Richardson, teamed up for two goals each in the first half. Richardson scored before a minute had passed in the game and then scored again nine minutes later. The Lady Bulldogs led 3-0 14 minutes into the game. Ketter finished with two goals and two assists and Richardson had three goals.

"I was surprised we scored as quick as we did," Ketter said. "But our passing has improved so much since the first of the year."

MHS had only nine goals in its eight league games before Saturday.

Odessa High (1-10, 4-15) had beaten Midland High 3-2 in the teams' first meeting. This time the Lady Bulldogs held the Lady Bronchos to three shots on goal.

"I really feel like this is something we should have done to them the first time," Hodkinson said. "We let it slip away and this game we really came out flying."

Richarson's first score was off a rebound of a Ketter shot blocked by an Odessa High defender. At ten minutes, Ketter and Richardson worked a give and go that started at midfield and ended with Richardson getting past Broncho keeper Rhonda Jurado. Richardson was almost too far in the box but she aimed the tough-angle shot perfectly to just miss the post.

The two forwards have played together since they were five years old, Richardson said. Ketter now has 14 goals on the year and Richardson nine.

"I know how she plays and she knows how I play and it's easy for us to work together," she said.

Ketter scored an unassisted goal at 14 minutes.

"I was afraid if they didn't score right away they would begin to doubt themselves," Hodkinson said. "We've been down a majority of times this year and it takes it toll emotionally on the girls."

Ketter scored again on a breakaway at 25 minutes to make it 4-0. Richardson ended the scoring 19 minutes into the second half, dribbling past defenders on a long run. Keeper Cathryn Vadala got the shutout for MHS, but neither goalie recorded a true save in the game.

Richarson moved to forward from goal keeper earlier this year. With the team struggling in a seven-game losing streak before it played at league-leading Abilene Cooper in a 1-0 loss Tuesday, Richardson asked Hodkinson if she could play keeper again.

"I decided having her in the field is better because she's such a good field player," Hodkinson said.

Her hat trick Saturday proved him right.

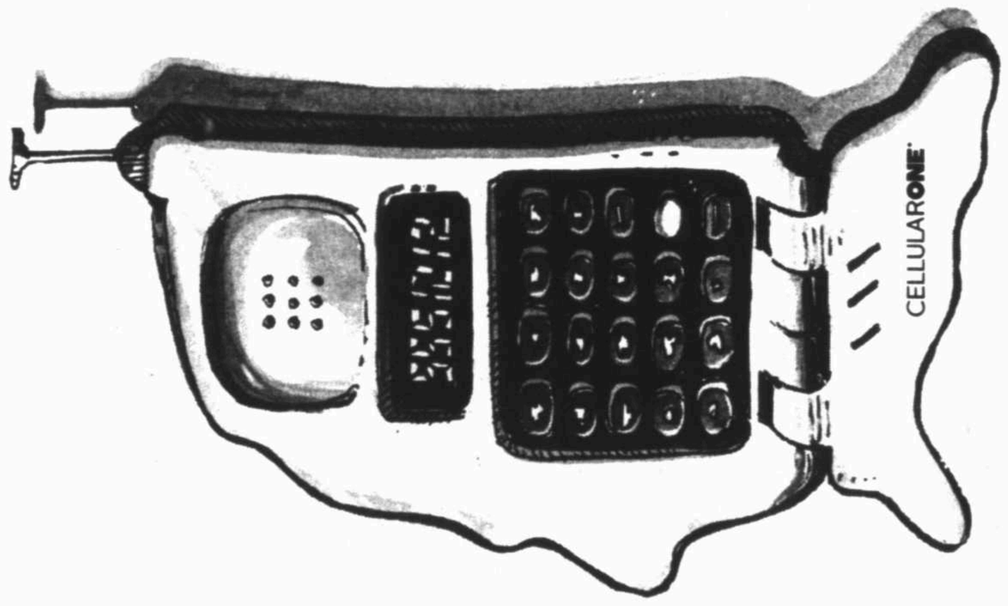

The Lady Bulldogs had played well enough in their last two games, the Cooper loss and a 3-2 loss to Odessa Permian, that the last two opposing coaches told Hodkinson they couldn't believe his team didn't have a district win.

"When the Cooper coach said it I said, 'Man, I'm getting tired of hearing that,' " Hodkinson said.

He won't be hearing it anymore.

MHS: Carter scores tournament-high 23 points in the second quarter, but a Ryan Bradberry three-pointer put the Bulldogs back on top. With 2:52 left in the third quarter, MHS held a 14-point lead on another Bradberry trey, 44-30. At that point, it was becoming clear who would wind up in Austin.

The Cougars tried to come back and outscored MHS by a 23-20 margin in the final period, but it seemed the cause was lost when The Colony's leading scorer Lamont Smith fouled out with 4:11 left to play and took his 18 points to the bench.

"No doubt it hurt us when we lost Smith since he is a 50 percent three-point shooter, but we still thought we were in the game," said Colony coach Tommy Thomas. "The loss is tough, but this in no way takes away from our phenominal season. We learned what it takes to get here."

MHS' Donald Carter had a tournament-high 23 points, hitting nine of 12 shots from the field. Bradberry had 20 points with four treys and Jumon Hailey had 15 points with three treys. Carter also had another of his many double-doubles with a game-high 11 rebounds.

"I just came to play and stepped it up a little ever since the playoffs started," noted Carter. "We thought we could win going in even though they had beaten us by 10 points early in the season."

Bradberry added, "The team had a great shooting tournament. That helped us a lot."

With the win, MHS becomes the first team ever from District 4-5A to place second in the league race and wind up in Austin.

MHS will join San Antonio East Central, Arlington Martin and Willowridge in the Final Four. Times and matchups were not released Saturday, but MHS is expected to play 35-1 Willowridge in the semifinals on Thursday at the Frank Erwin Center on the campus of the University of Texas.

Willowridge, with a 35-1 record overall (the best in the Final Four), defeated Milby 71-60 in the Region III finals.

GOLF: Lee aces title

(From 1C)

Fisher, who shot 159 and 160 respectively for the tournament, helped lead the team down the stretch.

Fuller and Kristin Kight of Odessa Permian tied at 159 for medalist honors, but Fuller won the title by beating Kight on the first playoff hole.

"I was nervous before the playoff. My putting game had been off the last couple of weeks," Fuller said.

Fuller was able to regain her putting stroke in time for her first win of the season.

Unlike former Lee standout Paula King, who helped lead the team to the Class 5A championship last year, Fuller is not ready to fill her shoes.

"Paula was a great player and no one will replace her leadership. Together we have great team work," Fuller said about this year's team.

Coach Sutton brought home that point.

"We know what it takes to win. We are a strong team with a lot of depth," she said.

Lee also has the veteran toughness to win the close tournaments.

"Once you win state, you want to go back," Sutton added.

In the battle for other medalist honors, first round leader Brook Lowrance of Snyder, Lee's Kim Fisher, April deVries of Abilene Cooper finished in a three-way tie for third place. Lowrance won a one-hole playoff.

The Snyder girls finished third for the tournament with a 704, Cooper came in fourth at 724 and Midland High was fifth with a final round of 376.

Midland High's second team, shaved 30 strokes off their first round score of 438 to finish at 408-846.

Both Midland teams will compete in next weekend's Andrews Invitational.

SWIM: Walker wins 500-yard freestyle

(From 1C)

Susie Reed and Monica Stroman swam a record-breaking 3:45.93 in the 400 free relay.

Lee's Carl Walker, Susie Carnett and diver M'Lee Ditmore made state in individual events. Walker had a 4:50.27 in the 500 free and Carnett swam a 5:28.28 in the same event for girls. Ditmore won the girls diving competition.

Lee swimmers with good chances for at-large berths are the girls 200 medley relay (Carnett, Stroman, Sarah Conkey and Sara Carnett), Stroman in the 200 IM, Susie Carnett in the 100 yard butterfly and Stroman in the 100 breaststroke. All of those teams and swimmers set school records Saturday.

MHS' 200 medley relay team should get picked up for state with a second-place swim of 1:18.52. Also Flowers in the 100 yard backstroke with a second-place 53.21 and the boys 200 free relay, 400 free relay and Clay Brown in the 200 free.

T of C: Lee takes title

the double-elimination tournament, having been put there by Lee on Friday.

Saturday, Lee needed a single win to claim the title. Monterey needed to beat Lee twice.

Monterey scored on a wild pitch in the first game and again on a passed ball in a three-run first inning. Infielder J.R. Mize then salted the game away, driving in two runs after a wild pitch put the runners in scoring position. Following the Plainsmen's 8-3 win, Lee returned the favor in the nightcap, plating two runs on errors in a five-run first inning en route to their win.

Monterey took advantage of seven hits to score seven runs in the first inning en route to a 16-11 win over Midland High in the semifinals Saturday. The Bulldogs answered with three runs in both the first and second innings. Michael Valenzuela then drove in Chris Ward in the third to tie the game.

Mize, however, ripped a seventh-inning pitch over the left field fence for a three-run homer to put the game out of reach.

MHS coach Rick Wood, whose Bulldogs are 3-4, said afterward he had hoped to answer some questions about his team's pitching.

CHAPS: Face McLennan in second round

The Chaps built a 10-point lead during Cardenas' absence, 33-23, after a Kevin Rice layup off a steal and two free throws with 4:54 left in the half.

The Chaps carved out a 39-33 lead at intermission. Weatherford scored four straight points to open the second half, a basket by Cardenas and Claude Cummings to trim the MC lead to 41-37 with 19:08 to play. Weatherford cut the gap to three, 49-46, with a Terence Walker jumper with 14:40 to play, but Midland then asserted itself inside as Ford and Brown and Walston scored six points in an 8-0 run to give Midland a 57-48 lead and never looked back.

"I was real pleased with what we did on the defensive end," said Midland coach Steve Green. "You've got to give credit to coach (MC assistant Paul) Stueckler. You give him some time to figure a game plan as to what he wants to do and it helps. He's worked real hard with Walston and Brown with what he wants to do this week. We wanted to make Cardenas work. He got a couple of early fouls and that hurt him."

Cardenas, averaging 28 points and 13 rebounds per game, could muster just two field goals and nine points in the first half. He finished the game with 20 points after fouling out with 6:20 to play and Midland leading 67-60.

From that point on, Midland worked the ball down low to Brown, who scored eight points after Cardenas left the game. Brown led five Chaps in double figues with 17. Forward Kirk Ford, who suffered a sprained knee in practice last Sunday, added 15 points while guards Kevin Rice and Andre Owens scored 12 each. Earl Tyson added 11 points.

"I was stressing my defense today," said Brown. "Coach told us that he was capable of scoring 40-50 points a game. I didn't want that to happen today, so I told the guys to shoot and I would just play defense on the big guy."

Both teams started the game nervous, the Chaps committing six turnovers in the first six minutes of the game as each team turned the ball over 20 times in the first half.

Midland now must focus on McLennan, a team that defeated Western Junior College Athletic Conference member South Plains College 79-77 on Friday night.

Sophomore Brian Green led the Highlanders, ranked 11th nationally, with 25 points. Guard Marcus scored 19 and Damion McKinney and Marco Brown added 10 each in the win.

"They shoot the ball real well," said Green. "They can put two of three guys out there on the perimeter who can drop the three's in. We usually match up well with teams that are guard oriented, its a question of whether our guys inside can score."

CHAP NOTES: Midland continued its streak of never losing a first round game in the regional tournament with the win over Weatherford and is now 13-0 lifetime in regional openers ... MC leads the overall series with McLennan 5-2, winning five of six at the regional tournament ... McLennan won the last meeting 109-90 on March 8, 1992 ... The tournament has held true to form in the Region V tournament. The top two seeds for each conference (Odessa and Midland in from the West and McLennan and Temple in from the North) have advanced to the quarterfinals.

Olajuwon's 30 points clips Clippers in rout

Associated Press

HOUSTON — Hakeem Olajuwon had 30 points and 10 rebounds and Houston used a 19-4 run in the second and third quarters to turn a close game into a rout, 124-107 over the Los Angeles Clippers on Saturday night.

The victory improved the Rockets' record to 40-15, best ever for the franchise after 55 games.

Kenny Smith scored 13 of his 24 points in the third quarter when the Rockets outscored the Clippers 37-23. Otis Thorpe and Robert Horry scored 13 points apiece for Houston, which had a season-high 16 steals.

Dominique Wilkins led Los Angeles with 20 points, followed by Charles Outlaw with 17 points and 11 rebounds and Mark Jackson with 16 points and 10 assists.

Jazz 103, Mavericks 90

DALLAS — Karl Malone had 34 points and 13 rebounds, helping Utah extend their season-best winning streak to eight games.

Malone made 14 for 21 shots and fell one point short of matching his season-high for scoring as the Jazz pushed their winning streak against the Mavericks to 13 consecutive games.

Jamal Mashburn had 22 points and Jim Jackson 20 for the Mavericks, who lost their fourth straight. Jeff Hornacek scored 17 points and Jay Humphries 15 for Utah, which has beaten division rivals Houston and San Antonio twice during the winning streak to get back into the Midwest race.

But the latest victory over the NBA's worst team wasn't that easy as the Jazz led just 50-49 at halftime and 72-68 late in the third quarter before a 12-4 run made it 84-72 entering the final period.

The game was tied at 54-54 early in the third quarter, but Malone scored 10 points in the final 6:50 to put the Jazz in control. Malone had 20 points in the first half when the Jazz shot 56 percent from the field and outrebounded the Mavericks 24-18.

But Utah committed 11 turnovers to five for Dallas.

Bullets 124, Lakers 118

LANDOVER, Md. — Michael Adams set a team record with six 3-point baskets, and Washington scored a season-high 71 points in the first half on the way to a victory over the Los Angeles Lakers.

The Bullets took advantage of five 3-point baskets by Adams to open a 39-27 lead after one quarter. Adams scored 17 of his 29 points in the period.

Washington increased the lead to 69-53 with 1:09 remaining in the first half before settling for a 71-57 halftime advantage.

Los Angeles crept back into contention in the third quarter, using a 27-16 run to close to 87-84 with three minutes left on a pair of free throws by Sedale Threatt, who led the Lakers with 32 points.

The Bullets regained control midway through the final quarter, scoring six straight points to open a 107-98 lead with 5:47 remaining.

Heat 120, 76ers 83

MIAMI — Glen Rice scored 32 points as Miami won a franchise-record seventh straight game and handed Philadelphia its 12th consecutive loss.

The previous mark for the Heat was a 35-point rout of the Los Angeles Clippers on Feb. 2, 1990.

Rony Seikaly hit his first eight shots for Miami and scored 22 points on 9-for-13 shooting.

Jeff Malone paced the Sixers with 21 points, and Dana scored 15, for Philadelphia, whose only two lead in the game were 2-0 and 4-2. Miami dominated from that point on.

Hawks 90, Pacers 88

ATLANTA — Danny Manning drove from midcourt for the winning layup with 7.3 seconds left, then blocked a shot by Byron Scott to give Atlanta a victory over Indiana, the Hawks' sixth consecutive victory.

The Pacers, who won 14 of their previous 16 games, led 86-83 with 2:08 left before a layup by Kevin Willis and Mookie Blaylock's 3-pointer put the Hawks ahead 88-86.

Dale Davis tied it with a dunk for Indiana before Craig Ehlo inbounded to Manning at midcourt, and he drove to the basket, giving the Hawks a 4-0 record since he joined the team in a trade for Dominique Wilkins.

SuperSonics 114, Kings 98

SEATTLE — Shawn Kemp had 25 points and 14 rebounds and sparked a third-quarter rally that lifted Seattles to a victory over Sacramento.

The Sonics won their fourth consecutive game and beat the Kings for the seventh straight time. Seattle improved its record to 23-3 at home and 41-14 overall, both the best in the NBA.

Kemp didn't start because of a sore right elbow, but the All-Star forward made his presence felt, especially in the third quarter when he scored 14 points. The Sonics outscored Sacramento 34-19 in the period, turning a 59-55 halftime deficit into an 89-78 lead.

The Kings were led by Spud Webb with 21 points and Waymon Tisale with 20. Kendall Gill scored 21 points for the Sonics, who had six players in double figures.

Bucks 117, Pistons 108

MILWAUKEE — Jon Barry scored two baskets in a 6-0 run that gave Milwaukee the lead for good in the fourth quarter, and Eric Murdock had 28 points as the Bucks overcame 42 points by Joe Dumars to defeat Detroit.

Vin Baker, the NBA's Rookie of the Month for February, had 24 points, 10 rebounds and six assists for the Bucks, who are four games ahead of the last-place Pistons in the Central Division.

Warriors 123, Hornets 112

OAKLAND, Calif. — Latrell Sprewell, who missed 13 of his first 15 shots, led Golden State's decisive third quarter with 14 points, and the Warriors handed Charlottte its 16th loss in 17 games.

The Warriors led just 80-75 when Sprewell scored 12 points in a 16-2 run to close the third quarter, putting them ahead 96-77. He hit five straight shots, including two 3-pointers, and added two steals in the sequence.

Andrade cruises to lead in Doral-Ryder

Associated Press

MIAMI — Sparked by an eagle-3 on the first hole, Billy Andrade cruised to a 6-under-par 66 and a two-stroke lead Saturday in the third round of the Doral-Ryder Open.

■ Golf Roundup

Andrade completedthree trips over Doral's Blue Monster course in 204, 12 under par.

A non-winner since scoring consecutive victories in 1991, Andrade said he "can't wait for tomorrow" and the final round of the chase for a $270,000 first prize.

"It's a great challenge," he said. "I've won before. I know what it takes to win. It'll be a lot of fun."

His chief challenger is Larry Nelson, who shot a 69 he said "could have been a couple of shots better."

Andrade, who will be playing in the final twosome with Nelson, was unconcerned about his opponent's gaudy credentials that include a U.S. Open championship and two PGA national titles.

"When it comes to the weekend, the world's great players don't usually worry about me," Andrade said. "So I'm not going to worry about them."

D.A. Weibring one-putted 11 times and scattered 10 "3's" across his card in a bogey-free round of 65 that lifted him into a tie for third at 208.

GTE West Seniors

OJAI, Calif. — Jim Colbert broke his own PGA Senior Tour 36-hole record by shooting a 6-under-par 64 Saturday, giving him a four-shot lead heading into the final round of the Seniors GTE West Classic.

On the heels of his 62 in Friday's first round, Colbert had a 36-hole total of 126 at the par-70 Ojai Valley Inn and Country Club course.

Colbert shared the previous 36-hole record of 127 with Bruce Crampton and Gibby Gilbert.

The only player who may be in range to catch Colbert in Sunday's final round is Tom Wargo, who stood at 130 after matching Colbert's 64.

"You tell me I set a new record, then how come tomorrow I don't have a walk in the park?" joked Colbert, whose 62 in the first round tied the course record. "These guys won't let you alone."

But Colbert tried as hard as he could to make that final-round walk as easy as possible with his outstanding effort Saturday.

LPGA Tournament of Champions

ORLANDO, Fla. — Dottie Mochrie eagled the first hole and soared from there to win the inaugural LPGA Tournament of Champions by two strokes Saturday.

The winner's two-hop, 122-yard shot wiped out Nancy Lopez's third-round lead and Mochrie took over first-place for good with a 5-foot birdie putt on No. 8.

She bogeyed the last two holes, but managed to stay ahead because Lopez, who began the day with a one-shot lead over Betsy King, did the same to fall into a tie for second with Lauri Merten.

"It wasn't pretty," Mochrie said. "But I did what I had to do."

Mochrie finished with a four-day total of 1-under-par 287 and earned $115,000. Lopez shot 73 and Merten, the only player to post three subpar scores in the tournament, remained in contention with a 70 for a 289.

Tech ties Aggies for second with 89-80 win

COLLEGE STATION — Jason Sasser scored a game-high 30 points Saturday to lead Texas Tech to an 89-80 victory over Texas A&M, pulling the Red Raiders in a second-place tie with the Aggies in the Southwest Conference.

The Aggies' loss gave Texas its first outright Southwest Conference crown since 1974 regardless of the outcome of its game Saturday against Texas Christian.

Texas A&M dropped its third straight game, 17-9 overall and 10-4 in conference play.

Mark Davis had 20 points, while Lance Hughes added 17 and Roy Smith had 12 for Texas Tech, now 16-10 overall and 10-4 in the conference.

David Edwards had his third triple-double, the only ones in A&M history, with 18 points, 12 assists and 10 rebounds. Brett Murry scored 17 points, Lance Broderson had 16 and Chuck Henderson added 12 for the Aggies.

The Aggies led by as many as eight points during the first half, which ended with A&M leading 40-39.

Early in the second quarter, A&M was ahead 44-43 when Sasser scored seven points in a 12-0 Tech run that put the Raiders ahead to stay.

The closest A&M got after that was four points with 3:35 remaining. Tech then went on a 7-0 run to put the game out of reach.

The victory, Tech's 10th in the team's last 12 games, gave the Red Raiders their highest finish in the SWC since winning the crown in 1985. A&M's second-place tie is its highest finish since it shared the title with Texas and TCU in 1986.

"It was an all-fire game from the tip," said Tech's Davis. "A&M played off a lot of emotion at the start."

"We came out in the second half, played with intensity on defense and took it to them. We played good defense and made them take some tough shots," Davis added.

Tech Coach James Dickey praised his team, saying the players have "faced a lot of adversity this season."

"Every player on this team has gotten better all season," Dickey said.

■ SWC Roundup

Texas 111, Texas Christian 78

FORT WORTH — Roderick Anderson scored 18 points to lead the Texas Longhorns to a 111-78 thrashing of Texas Christian on Saturday, assuring the Longhorns of first place in the Southwest Conference.

Albert Burditt added 17 points and 10 rebounds for Texas (22-7, 12-2 SWC).

The Horned Frogs (7-19, 3-11) were led by freshman Jeff Jacobs with 20 points and Eric Dailey's 19. TCU finished in last place in the SWC.

The Longhorns led for almost the entire game, taking a 41-25 lead on a 17-5 run with 7:37 remaining in the first half.

At the period's end, Texas led 60-38.

In the second half, the Horned Frogs closed the gap slightly, 72-55, with a 15-3 run with 11:47 left. But Texas finished with a 33-point lead, its largest during the game.

Texas outrebounded TCU 46-31 and had 13 steals.

Texas' title is its first since 1992, when it shared the honor with Houston. The Longhorns' last solo title was in 1974.

Texas head coach Tom Penders said the Longhorns played well in every category.

"We wanted to press and run all game," he said. "Our game plan was to use a lot of players and keep pressure on their guards and whole game. I think our defense wore them down."

TCU head coach Moe Iba called the Texas team the best he'd seen. "If we played our best game, we probably couldn't have beaten them," he said.

Baylor 73, Southern Methodist 64

WACO — Willie Sublett scored 21 points Saturday night, leading Baylor to a 73-64 victory over Southern Methodist in the final regular-season game for both teams.

The Bears (16-10, 7-7) will play Rice, and SMU (6-20, 3-11) will play Texas A&M in first-round games Thursday in the SWC postseason tournament.

James Gatewood scored 15 points to lead the Mustangs.

Baylor fell behind early, 6-0, but scored the next 17 points en route to a 39-24 halftime lead, as SMU hit only 28 percent from the field.

But the Mustangs were anything but cool in the second half, outscoring Baylor 20-7 in the first seven minutes to tie the game, 46-all. Chris Boyd's driving lay-up gave the Mustangs a 50-48 lead.

The lead seesawed back and forth, with Matt Timme giving SMU a 57-57 tie with eight minutes remaining. But Jerome Lambert, who scored 19 points and pulled down 22 rebounds, scored the next six points, putting the Bears ahead to stay.

Houston 78, Rice 76

HOUSTON — The Houston Cougars rallied from a 10-point halftime deficit to defeat the Rice Owls, 78-76, in a Southwest Conference game Saturday night behind the 22 points of Lloyd Wiles.

Tim Moore added 17 points for Houston (8-18, 3-9). Adam Peakes had 22 points and 9 rebounds for Rice (14-13, 6-8). Torrey Andrews added 16 points and Jesse Cravens had 13.

Rafael Carrasco had 14 points and a game-high 11 rebounds for the Cougars. Conference game.

Women

No. 5 Texas Tech 109. Texas A&M 75

LUBBOCK — Texas Tech's Noel Johnson scored 21 points as the No. 5 Lady Raiders beat Texas A&M 109-75 Saturday afternoon, clinching their third straight Southwest Conference title.

Connie Robinson added 19 points for the Lady Raiders (24-3, 12-2 SWC), who won their 18th straight home game.

The Lady Aggies (20-6, 11-3) kept the game close early in the first half, leading 22-20 midway through the period.

But LeKisha Wiley tied the game and Johnson sank a free throw with 12:06 left in the half for a 23-22 Tech lead.

The Lady Raiders never trailed after that, closing out the period with a 38-11 run. Four Tech players scored in double figures by halftime as the Lady Raiders led, 60-33.

SMU 88, Baylor 73

DALLAS — Jennifer McLaughlin scored 20 of her 26 points in the second half to lead Southern Methodist to an 88-73 victory over Baylor Saturday in the final regular season game for both teams.

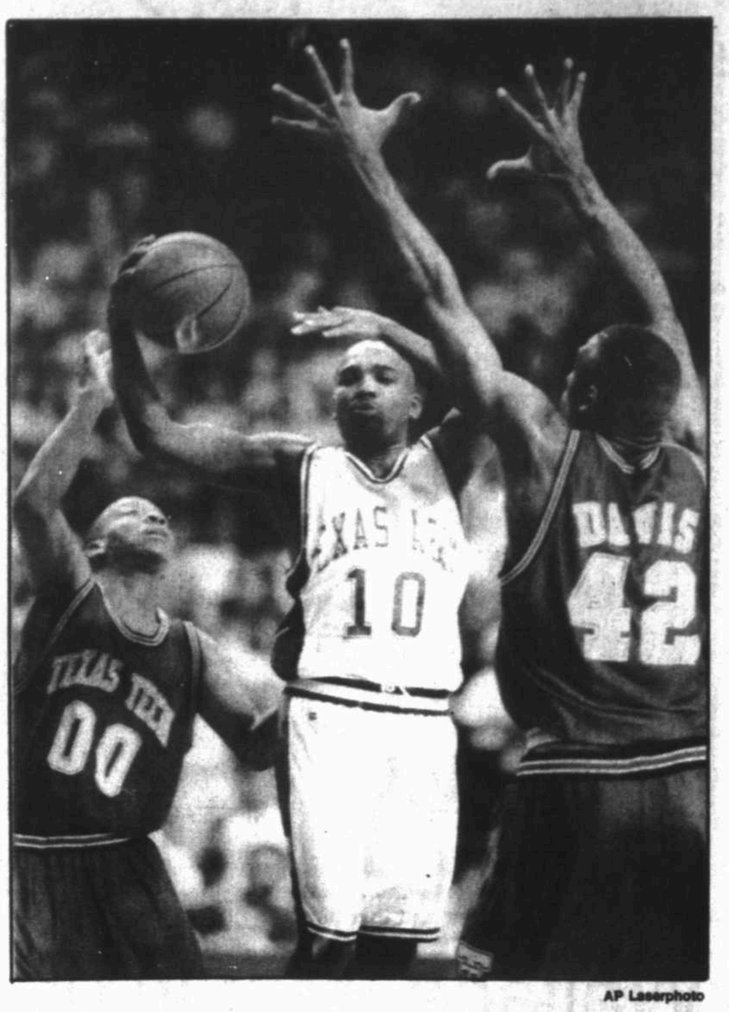

The Lady Mustangs (17-7, 8-6 Southwest Conference) finished their season winning nine of their last 12 games.

SMU took a 39-32 halftime lead behind 13 points from guard Shawna Ford, who finished with a career-high 16 points. Ford made all three of her 3-point attempts in the opening half. She also had five assists in the game.

Mary Lowry led the Lady Bears (13-13, 4-10) with 24 points and 12 rebounds. Amber Seaton added 18 points and 13 rebounds for Baylor.

Rice 73, Houston 66

HOUSTON — Rice junior Brenda Conaway scored 18 points, leading the Owls to a 73-66 victory over the Houston Lady Cougars Saturday in a Southwest Conference women's game.

Texas A&M's David Edwards (10) is surrounded by Texas Tech defenders Koy Smith (00) and Mark Davis during the first half of the Red Raiders' 89-80 win Saturday in College Station.

Rice (13-13) snapped a 14-game losing streak against the Lady Cougars (11-14), dating back to Feb. 3, 1988. The teams finished in a tie for fifth place in the conference, with identical 5-9 records.

Rice junior forward Lacey Guinn and sophomore forward Stephanie Mundschau had 10 rebounds each for career highs.

Kim LaLonde, a sophomore guard, scored a career-high 11 points, hitting on her only three-point attempt and eight of her nine free throws.

No. 5 North Carolina spills No. 2 Devils

Associated Press

DURHAM, N.C. — Donald Williams scored seven points in less than three minutes Saturday night as No. 5 North Carolina broke open a close game on the way to an 87-77 victory over No. 2 Duke and a sweep of the season series.

The game wasn't supposed to be for more than bragging rights and NCAA tournament seedings since Duke (22-4, 12-4) had already clinched the Atlantic Coast Conference title and the Tar Heels (24-6, 11-5) had locked up second place.

But these schools are only eight miles apart and they played like nasty neighbors, trading leads until the Tar Heels broke it open in the final six minutes.

S.Carolina 75, No. 7 Kentucky 74

COLUMBIA, S.C. — Emmett Hall's layup with 3 seconds left gave South Carolina an upset over No. 7 Kentucky and prevented the Wildcats from clinching the Southeastern Conference Eastern Division title.

Hall had 20 points and the Gamecocks (8-18, 4-12 Southeastern Conference) overcame a 12-point second-half deficit for only their third victory in 13 games.

No. 1 Arkansas 80, Miss. St. 62

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. — Corliss Williamson, a bad-turned-good free throw shooter, made 5 of 6 in the final minutes and added two late field goals as top-ranked Arkansas held off Mississippi State.

Williamson, a 60 percent free-throw shooter until a couple of weeks ago, has made 40 of his last 44, including 13 of 15 against the Bulldogs (17-9, 9-7). He finished with 27 points.

Arkansas (24-2, 14-2) clinched its second Southeastern Conference championship in three years and is assured of being No. 1 in the country for a fourth straight week. Earlier in the season, the Razorbacks were No. 1 for a five-week stretch.

No. 4 Connecticut 95, St. John's 80

HARTFORD, Conn. — Donyell Marshall broke the Big East's regular-season scoring record as No. 4 Connecticut beat St. John's to become the winningest team in the league's history.

Marshall, who entered the game with 432 points, scored 29 points, breaking the scoring mark of 435 set by Providence's Eric Murdock in 1990-91 with his second basket, a dunk that gave the Huskies a 13-10 lead.

No. 6 Missouri 80, Nebraska 78

COLUMBIA, Mo. — Missouri got its unbeaten Big Eaight season the hard way, needing Melvin Booker's three-point play with 12.5 seconds left for a victory over pesky Nebraska.

The sixth-ranked Tigers (24-2

■ Top 25 Roundup

overall, 14-0 Big Eight) became the first conference school in 23 years to beat each team twice. They're the third overall since the Big Eight went to eight schools in 1958-59. Kansas (1970-71) and Kansas State (1958-59) were the others.

No. 8 Arizona 85, Wash. St. 69

TUCSON, Ariz. — Khalid Reeves scored 21-second-half points as No. 8 Arizona came from behind to clinch a share of its fifth straight Pac-10 title, defeating Washington State.

Reeves, a senior guard who finished with 26 points, moved past Al Fleming to became Arizona's third all-time scorer with 1,776 points in his last home game.

No. 24 Alabama-Birmingham 85, No. 16 Saint Louis 70

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — No. 24 Alabama-Birmingham, trying to erase any doubt that it belongs in the NCAA tournament, defeated 16th-ranked Saint Louis.

No. 18 Minn. 107, Iowa 96 3OT

MINNEAPOLIS — Townsend Orr scored six of his 12 points in the third overtime and Voshon Lenard had a career-high 38 points as No. 18 Minnesota beat Iowa to record consecutive 20-win seasons for the first time ever.

No. 17 Florida 82, Tennessee 71

GAINESVILLE, Fla. — Dan Cross scored 14 points during a five-minute stretch of the second half as No. 17 Florida beat Tennessee to tie Kentucky for first place in the Southeastern Conference Eastern Division.

No. 20 Cal 74, Oregon St. 44

OAKLAND, Calif. — Lamond Murray had 18 points and broke the California single-season scoring record as the Bears knocked off cold-shooting Oregon State.

No. 21 Okla. St. 83, Colorado 68

STILLWATER, Okla. — Back-to-back 3-pointers by Randy Rutherford and Brooks Thompson started a late surge as No. 21 Oklahoma State pulled away to beat Colorado despite a career-high 46 points by Donnie Boyce.

Marquette 73, Wis.-Milw. 51

MILWAUKEE — Damon Key had 17 points, Roney Eford scored all 16 of his in the second half and Jim McIlvaine nearly had a triple-double to lead No. 22 Marquette past Wisconsin-Milwaukee in the regular season finale for both teams.

Providence 77, No. 23 BC 69

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — Michael Brown scored 22 points as Providence earned a victory over No. 23 Boston College.

Phillies pay back Blue Jays in exhibition

AP Laserphoto

Toronto pitcher Dave Stewart was again on the mound pitching to Lenny Dykstra like in last year's World Series, but this time the Phillies took a 9-4 exhibition baseball victory in Dunedin, Fla. in the the first meeting since the Blue Jays prevailed in October.

Associated Press

DUNEDIN, Fla. — Rookie Phil Geisler homered for the second straight day and Mickey Morandini and Tony Longmire also connected as the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Toronto Blue Jays 9-4 Saturday in their first meeting since last year's World Series.

Mariners 7, Padres 0

PEORIA, Ariz. — Lee Tinsley hit for the cycle, and 18-year-old Japanese pitcher Makoto Suzuki worked two scorless innings for Seattle.

Suzuki, a non-roster relief pitcher, is trying to become the first Japanese-born player to reach the big leagues without starting his career in Japan's professional leagues.

Pirates 5, Reds 4

BRADENTON, Fla. — Scott Bullett and Lloyd McClendon, competing for the same reserve outfield job, homered to lead Pittsburgh.

Cardinals 11, Orioles 4

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — St. Louis sent 14 men to the plate in a nine-run seventh inning, with Geronimo Pena's two-run double driving in the tying and go-ahead runs.

White Sox 15, Rangers 7

PORT CHARLOTTE, Fla. — Robin Ventura hit two-run homers in his first two at-bats, and Clemente Alvarez added a grand slam. Michael Jordan went 0-for-3, but drove in a run with a sacrifice fly and also scored.

Cubs 10, Angels 7

MESA, Ariz. — Shawon Dunston homered for the second straight day, and Ryne Sandberg and Glenallen Hill also connected for Chicago.

Trailing 6-3 in the fourth inning, the Cubs took the lead with four runs against Hilly Hathaway.

Dodgers 6, Marlins 5

MELBOURNE, Fla. — Tim Wallach, Henry Rodriguez and Tom Prince homered as Los Angeles got off to its first 2-0 start in spring training since 1988.

Todd Worrell, plagued by arm trouble last season, pitched a scoreless ninth inning to earn the save.

Indians 10, Tigers 3

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. — Eddie Murray and Sandy Alomar homered, and three Cleveland pitchers held Detroit scoreless on one hit through six innings.

Yankees 8, Mets 0

PORT ST. LUCIE, Fla. — Paul O'Neill, Randy Velarde and Jim Leyritz homered as part of a 15-hit attack.

Bob Ojeda earned the win with three scoreless innings.

Braves 3, Expos 2

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. — Jeff Blauser had two hits, including a decisive single, and rookie catcher Javier Lopez also singled twice.

Royals 11, Astros 7

KISSIMMEE, Fla. — Michael Tucker drove in five runs with three of Kansas City's 16 hits.

Brian McRae added three hits and two RBIs. Scott Servais homered and doubled twice for Houston.

Red Sox 9, Twins 5

FORT MYERS, Fla. — Winner Roger Clemens allowed only one hit in three scoreless innings, and Mike Greenwell and Billy Hatcher supplied the offense for Boston.

Athletics 8, Brewers 0

PHOENIX — Oakland's Bobby Witt overpowered Milwaukee for the first three innings, and Scott Brosius had a three-run double as the Athletics scored four times in the fourth.

Giants 11, Rockies 2

TUCSON, Ariz. — J.R. Phillips hit a two-run homer, and Mike Benjamin and Rex Hudler also drove in two runs apiece for San Francisco.

Wallace, Marlin up for winner's circle

■ Pontiac 400

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Who's hotter, Rusty Wallace or Sterling Marlin?

Neither of them is starting up front, but it's Wallace and Marlin who are considered the favorites in Sunday's Pontiac Excitement 400 at Richmond International Raceway.

Wallace, who won 10 races last season, is coming off a dominating victory last Sunday and seems to be gathering momentum toward a run at NASCAR's Winston Cup championship.

He finished second to the late Davey Allison in this race last year and then won the fall race on Richmond's .75-mile oval.

"I feel like I'm just as good as I was last year," Wallace said after qualifying 12th in the 37-car lineup.

Marlin doesn't have the same kind of credentials as Wallace, the 1989 Winston Cup champion, but he is suddenly one of the most feared competitors on the top stock car circuit. He started the season with a victory in the Daytona 500 and a solid second-place run last week at Rockingham.

The difference for Marlin, who is leading the series points race, has been the chemistry with his new team, Morgan-McClure Racing, and particularly crew chief Tony Glover.

"Tony is really a great crew chief to work with," Marlin said. "He came up the hard way. He had to work on his daddy's racing stuff, and that's kind of the way I came up. ... We kind of came up together, and you never forget that kind of stuff."

Marlin, who qualified sixth for Sunday's 400-lap, 300-mile event, said: "I'm just taking it race by race. ... Everybody on the team is pumped up. They've got a lot of want-to. They want to win races, and they want to win the championship."

The fast start has been an uplifting experience for Marlin, whose best previous finishes before this season had been nine seconds.

"To run second so many times, and to have so many ups and down, well, all this is really satisfying to me," he said. "I felt like once I got with this team, we'd do good. I've known them a long time, and I've worked with some of these boys before. Their attitude at the shop and at the track is great. They're focusing on that race car, and that's what it takes."

Also among the favorites Sunday are front-row starters Ted Musgrave, who set a qualifying record with a lap of 123.474 mph, and teammate Mark Martin.

Greg Sacks was easily the fast qualifier Saturday in the second round of time trials, turning a lap of 122.034 to earn the 21st starting position. Of the 12 drivers who made qualifying attempts Saturday, the only other to earn a starting spot was rookie Ward Burton, whose 121.589 placed him 29th for his first Winston Cup start.

Fourteen drivers stood on their first-round laps and all but rookie Mike Wallace made it into the race, although Terry Labonte's position came via a provisional start as a former Winston Cup champion.

Bobby Hamilton and Bobby Hillin also were added to the rear of the field as provisional starters, based on last year's car-owner standings. Wally Dallenbach, Daytona 500 pole-winning rookie Loy Allen Jr., Hut Stricklin and Dave Marcis were among the nine drivers who failed to make the lineup.

Dallenbach, in his first season driving for longtime NASCAR star Richard Petty, would have made the field had he stood on his lap from Friday.

Texas wins SWC swim

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas captured its 15th consecutive men's Southwest Conference swimming and diving championship Saturday, scoring the second-highest point total in meet history.

The Longhorns' 1,056 total points was the second-highest cumulative total in the 63-year history of the championships. Texas has now won the crown 36 times, including every year since 1980.

Texas A&M was second with 713 points, narrowly beating third-place Southern Methodist (710). Texas Christian was fourth (485) and Rice fifth (214).

Texas qualified 15 swimmers for the NCAA meet, scheduled April 24-26 in Minneapolis. A maximum of 17 team members could qualify for those championships.

Seven SWC meet records were set in the championship, including six by Texas swimmers.

A VIEW OF SPRING...

Design by Mark Stroker

Celebrate the arrival of spring by coming to view this wonderful family home in prestigious Saddle Club East.

Kay Pederson, of the Chaparral Realtors, will be holding an open house this afternoon between 2 p.m. and 4 p.m., at 708 Doral Court.

There is a tremendous amount to see in this lovely four bedroom, custom, house which was built by M.R Lary.

The attention to detail, and quality of construction is apparent as soon as one walks in.

Elegant double front doors open onto the hardwood floored, entry-way, formal dining room and family rooms which are all situated in a bright open-plan design.

For convenience while entertaining, the large and well equipped kitchen leads off from the formal dining area and boasts all of the amenities one would expect from a house of this caliber.

Built-in double ovens, microwave and counter-top range are just a few of the useful features which are set into this wood and tile kitchen.

A great deal of time and care has ben lavished on the small details in the house; plantation shutters abound, chair rail mouldings counter-balance the Georgian style doors and all of the bathrooms and bedrooms have been designed to be as practical as possible, whilst retaining their elegance.

Nowhere are these details more apparent than in the sequestered master bedroom suite. Light floods into the suite via large windows in the bathroom and bedroom, and elements such as split height vanities, and huge double closets add convenience.

For more information about this fantastic house which is valued at $219,000, call Kay Pederson at 686-7000 or stop by this afternoon.

Langston Realtors Talk About . . .

Why agents choose a real estate firm

Joanne Langston
President/Langston Realtors

Real Estate agents are traditionally independent contractors and whether newly licensed or long time experienced, usually initiate negotiations for association with a particular real estate firm. National studies show that Realtors choose a firm because of four main criteria: training offered, visibility of the firm in the community, respect for the Broker and other sales associates, and size of the firm. Secondary factors that may also play a part in an agent's selection of a company include location, commission splits, working conditions, support staff, national affiliations and office amenities. Over the next two weeks we will discuss these criteria.

The Training Offered by a firm is clearly the most important factor for a newly licensed or inexperienced agent. Real estate schools and college courses, while valuable and necessary, simply cannot completely prepare an agent for the "real world of real estate"! Additional training, education, guidance during "hands on" experience and constrictive development of good work habits are absolutely essential in building a new agent's confidence, thus their success level. National studies reveal that training is the single most important factor in a newer agent's choice of firm.

Training, or education, offered by a firm is equally important to the more experienced agents, especially in today's litigious climate, rapidly changing world of real estate and extension of national and state requirements for the conduct of our business. The changes occurring in our business during all of my first 23 years of real estate do not even begin to equal those of these past 4 years, and those changes that are already just over the horizon. Few busy, productive agents have the time nor the resources to keep up with all that is going on in our business today. They must depend on a 5broker who has the time, motivation and commitment or on a Sales Manager/Education Director whose specific duties include this essential responsibility.

Visibility in the Community is the second most important factor in an agent's choice of a real estate firm (and, usually a customer or clients' first factor in the choice of a firm!) "Visibility" is perceived by a combination of several things, amount them; number of signs, share of the market, number of agents and offices, involvement of an office's Broker and sales associates in the community, advertising, word of mouth and location. Whether agents are beginning to build a customer/client base or whether they are serving one already developed, visibility of their firm is important because they recognize that it consistently attracts new and repeat business. They also recognize that success seems to foster success.

Respect for the Broker, Staff and Sales Associates is probably the third highest reason for an agent's choice of a firm, just as respect for management and employees is important to those in other fields in choosing a company affiliation. This "respect" can be based on quality of business, on friends within the firm, on business with the company or on personal recommendation . All agents should be proud of their affiliation with a firm and should be comfortable and work well with their fellow associates.

Size of a Firm, also usually plays an important role in an agent's selection of a company. Some prefer large companies, some prefer smaller and both have their advantages. Larger companies have more resources to afford the staff necessary for training and for support services, maintain a greater visibility in the community, earn a higher market share, have more listings to sell thus usually a "busier" phone. Some agents, however, are intimidated by a large office, feel the pressures of "keeping up" are too overwhelming, see a "market niche" they can develop and serve and thus do not ned a large office, and are just more comfortable in the one-on-one rapport of a smaller firm. Agents should choose the size firm that they feel will better contribute to their professional skills, business and confidence level.

Next week we'll discuss the other factors important to agents in their choice of a firm. See you then.

Joanne Langston is Owner/Broker of Langston Realtors, has been active in real estate and in the community for 27 years.

Selling a home - does one need a REALTOR?

Pat Orseth
President Midland
Association of Realtors

Selling a home today is a complex transaction that takes time, effort and expertise. it takes a real estate professional to guide the seller through a complicated maze of paperwork, disclosures and perfect timing to bring the transaction to the closing table.

According to a survey conducted by Gallup for the National Association of Realtors, when asked for the primary reason sellers used a real estate agent 57% of respondents said "to market the home through advertising, open house or multiple listing services." Sixteen percent said they used an agent to handle the paperwork. Three services were deemed as "very important" by at least 70% of the sellers. They were: the agent exclusively representing the seller, the agent marketing their home and the agent's fiduciary responsibilities to the seller.

When selling your home, here is how a REALTOR can help you:

- REALTORS know the current real estate market and can help you set a realistic competitive price.
- REALTORS know how to figure the approximate net proceeds from your sale based on types of loans, outstanding loan balance and closing costs.
- REALTORS can suggest how to add "marketability" to your home at low or moderate cost.
- REALTORS know where to find prospective buyers. Most homebuyers prefer to work with a real estate agent. Serious prospects are "qualified" as to their affordable price range.
- REALTORS tap a large market for buyers through referrals and marketing techniques.
- REALTORS free you from problems associated with showing your home. The REALTOR handles all phone inquiries, makes appointments, shows your home and follows up with agent showings.
- REALTORS maintain objectivity in responding to possible criticisms by the buyer and in presenting offers and counter-offers until an agreement is reached.
- REALTORS familiarize you with closing procedures and attend to all details of the sale.

For most homeowners, selling your house is not an everyday experience. Why trust your largest investment to anyone but the true professional? To be sure you are working with one, look for the federally registered membership mark, REALTOR, to know your agent is a real estate professional who belongs to the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS and subscribes to its strict Code of Ethics.

Distributorships Now Available

PART-TIME INCOME OPPORTUNITY

The Midland Reporter-Telegram has early morning routes which need to be filled with dependable individuals with reliable transportation. Often asked questions:

➥ Is it worthwhile for adults also?

YES! 95% of our Distributors ARE adults! Morning Routes are attractive for:
★ ADULTS who have fulltime jobs, yet want to supplement their income with a steady part-time job!
★ MOTHERS who can't justify a small job AND daycare, because as a Distributor, you do not need daycare!
★ COLLEGE STUDENTS needing a part-time job which will work with classes!
★ SENIOR CITIZENS wanting regular exercise, added retirement income, or just want to work with people, neighbors, and friends!

➥ How much money can I make as a Distributor?

Depending on the size of the route(s), from $350 to $800 monthly, in some cases...even more!

➥ OK...but how long does it take?

The actual delivery takes 1-2 hours Monday-Saturday, and 2-3 hours on Sunday, depending on the size of the route(s). Also some time is needed each month to collect from subscribers. Many Distributors choose to handle some of this by putting envelopes in the subscribers' papers and having payments mailed to them. Some collecting in person will be necessary though, particularly on some routes more than others.

➥ When do the papers have to be delivered by?

Papers must be on the yards by 6 am Monday-Friday, and 7 am on weekend mornings.

➥ Do I ever get a day off?

The job requires a 7-day a week commitment. However, most Distributors do take days off by finding a friend, family member, or another Distributor to substitute for them!

➥ What else?

An initial $100 refundable deposit is required.

Homebuying? Get a real PAL - a Pre-Approved Loan!

"You know, when you hear the word pal, you normally think of a friend, a buddy, a compadre. But at AmWest Savings, PAL also stands for Pre-Approved Loan. And when you're lookin' for a new home and want to move in quick, AmWest can be your best PAL.

Fact is, most of us go out lookin' for a home, find the one we want, and then go see about a loan. But, if you go see my friends at AmWest first, you can get pre-approved. Now I know that some banks will pre-qualify you, but I'm talkin' pre-approval. That way you know exactly how much you can buy, and you can go out and get the house you want, pronto!

So, if you're fixin' to buy a new home, take your PAL from AmWest with you."

PERMIAN BASIN OIL REPORT

SUNDAY, MARCH 6, 1994 SERVING 54 COUNTIES IN WEST TEXAS AND NEW MEXICO

BRIEFING

A well service unit puts a well back on pump.

Prices gain

Oil prices posted gains this past week on the New York Mercantile Exchange though traders eased activity prior to OPEC's scheduled March 25 meeting.

On the NYMEX, April contracts for West Texas Intermediate closed at $14.73 a barrel late in the week while the posted price held at $13 a barrel much of the week.

So focused are traders on the upcoming OPEC meeting that they ignored an unexpectedly steep decline in the nation's crude stocks, which the API said fell 7.8 million barrels to 325.67 million.

Natural gas prices were weaker, closing at $2.14 per thousand cubic feet late in the week.

Please see PRICE GRAPH/7E

Drilling mixed

Drilling activity was mixed during the week ended February 25, according to Baker Hughes Inc.

In the Permian Basin, activity increased with the Basin rig count rising three to 101, but the count remains below the year-ago level of 116.

Lea and Eddy counties, N.M. remain the most active in the Basin with 18 and 14 rigs respectively, followed by Midland and Andrews counties, each with seven rigs.

Nationally, the rig count slipped five to 747 but remains well above the year-ago level of 663.

Natural gas drilling continued to outstrip oil drilling, with 406 rigs drilling for gas and 330 drilling for oil.

There were 48 rigs drilling horizontal wells.

Among major producing states, Texas posted the sharpest gain, seven rigs, while Oklahoma posted the sharpest decline, seven rigs.

Please see RIG GRAPH/7E

Market growth

Texas Railroad Commissioner Mary Scott Nabers attributes much of the natural gas demand growth to promotion of new alternative markets such as CNG and propane.

Thanks to market promotion last year was the first time in history the value of natural gas production exceeded that for oil.

Total wellhead revenues for natural gas produced in the U.S. reached $38.8 billion in 1993, up from $32.6 billion in 1992.

The natural gas share of wellhead revenues was 52 percent.

The average wellhead price in 1993 was $2.02 compared to $1.74 for 1992, the largest year to year increase since 1982.

Geochem, 2-D duo finds oil and gas

■ Using geochem to reveal shallow prospects and enhanced 2-D to find small and deeper fields is paying off for one Eastern Shelf exploration company.

By John Paul Pitts
Business/Oil Editor

A father and son exploration team from Breckenridge, Texas is finding oil and gas with such a high percentage of sucess that they could redefine exploration strategy in West Central Texas.

Using a double-punch seismic-geochem program that consists of a 2-D dual swath to locate deeper prospects above 5,000 feet, and a new geochem technique to qualify shallow prospects in the range of 350 feet, the company has had a phenonmenal run of success. Success that may cause other oil companies to do a double-take on exploration techniques.

On its Ranchos Grande Project, the company, within a matter of months, has successfully completed 59 of 73 deep wells for an 80 percent success rate, and has hit on 29 of 50 shallow tests for a 58 percent success ratio. While these numbers are not high for 3-D exploration these days, they are extraordinarily high for even enhanced 2-D prospecting, and miles above the typical 10 percent success rate.

It is named Ranchos Grande because it involves 340,000 acres on some of the largest ranches in Shackleford, Throckmorton, Young and Stevens counties. Jim Bass, president of Breckenridge-based Bass Energy, says the project was designed to find new economical reasons to drill in an area that might not support 3-D seismic.

The Basin's newest submersible pump facility, ODI, expects to be in operation within the next 30 days.

ODI's Midland facility set to open

By Mella McEwen
Staff Writer

With its older mature fields, high water zones, tertiary and secondary projects that require the pumping of high levels of fluid, the Permian Basin's has one of the largest submersible pump populations in the nation and it is expected to get even higher.

Already a highly competitive business, most submersible pump companies have established manufacturing and sales facilities in the Basin. Now, it is about to become even more competitive as Oilfield Dynamics Inc. (ODI) prepares to lanunch its new facility.

Located in a 28,000 square-foot building on five acres at 2309 E. Interstate 20, in a building that was formerly part of the Drilco Industrial site, the company recently had its offical open house, and now just four months after it announced plans for a manufacturing and repair facility in Midland, Oil Dynamics Inc. officials says say the company is ready to get to work.

"We've been staffing, training, stocking and installing equipment and should be ready to ready to go to work within the next 30 days," said Mike Mundy, regional sales manager for ODI in Midland.

When fully staffed and stocked, the Midland facility will manufacture and repair ODI's electrical submersible pumping

Texas gas hits a five year high

■ Promotion, consumption behind gas production increases

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas' natural gas production for 1993 hit its highest mark since 1988, Texas Railroad Commissioner Mary Scott Nabers has said.

"We are at a five-year high and that is good economic news," Nabers said Tuesday in a news release.

Texas led the nation in gas production last year. The state's total gas production was nearly 5.61 trillion cubic feet, up 3 percent from 5.45 trillion cubic feet in 1992. The 1993 figure was similar to the 1989 production and below that of 1988, when the state produce 5.71 trillion cubic feet of natural gas.

Total wellhead value of Texas gas in 1993 was $11.2 billion, with total taxes of $1.4 billion.

Nabers attributed the increased use of natural gas to the fact that numerous programs to promote natural gas were kicking in.

JOHN PAUL PITTS

New moods are swinging oil industry

Pitts

It is often only an elusive vapor of unspoken thought — a corporate mood that has not been yet been formalized in budgets or verbally nailed down.

But this undercurrent of mood, feelings and realizations is often the prime driver of the oil and gas industry — eventually becoming the emotional foundation upon which intellectual decisions are based.

As elusive as it is, this emotional driver can often be detected if you talk to enough people and you read between the lines.

Attending the annual meeting of the West Central Texas Oil & Gas Association (WeCTOGA) in Abilene this week and talking to oilmen there, I came away with the same three emotional currents that I found after talking to over 100 operators in the Reporter-Telegram's 1994 oil survey.

■ First, there seems to be a feeling that the oil and gas industry can and will move on, no matter what the price of oil.

There is a new confidence in technology. If prices drop, oil companies seem to feel that they will be able to find cheaper or more effective ways to find and produce oil. That is what Bass Energy Inc. of Breckenridge is doing with its dual swath and geochem exploration program. But there is a long list of operators who are trying new things to make a positive difference.

There is an understanding that those who are flexible, swift, innovative and smart will make it. A knowledge that the petroleum household will have to be swept clean of traditional inefficiencies to move on.

There is also a feeling that the "wait and see" crowd who simply wait on the winds of shifting hydrocarbon prices or political gales to move their boat forward or backward will find themselves out of place in the emerging energy market. Hanging on and waiting for something to happen will not cut it any more. Hanging on and making something happen will.

After the eighties, there is also stronger confidence in the hanging power of independents. Criticism that the oil industry is slow to change is probably justified, but it can never be accused of being full of quitters. If that were not so, we would be buying 75 percent of our oil from foreign sources today. Oilmen are counting on that talent for sticking to help them through tough times.

Jim Polk, president of WeTOGA, made this apt comment: "My daddy always told me that I could make it in the oil business, if I didn't quit and I didn't die."

■ Second, there seems to be a realization that something fundamental is happening with oil prices, that because of oversupply, the price of oil may be undergoing a long-term fundamental devaluation.

There is much apprehension now. March will be a critical month for the industry. Everyone will be waiting for the OPEC meeting later this month. If there is a temporary supply-demand problem that can be fixed, it will be fixed at the OPEC meeting later this month and prices will begin to

DUO: Exploration using two methods

(From 1E)

"Some ranchers want shallow wells drilled and some want deep wells drilled on their property. So, we had to have reasons to drill both," said Bass, explaining the geochem-seismic approach.

Bass and his father, John H. Bass, are principals in the exploration company, and both, with major oil company backgrounds, are experts in their field. John H. Bass is a former senior geologist for Texaco, and Jim is former research and development engineer for Shell.

Jim Bass says the dual swath 2-D is being used because 3-D was just too expensive for that area.

On one 20,000 acre tract, a leading 3-D company gave a bid of $40,000 per section, another bid $31,000 but in the end Bass Energy Inc. paid $14,000 to $18,000 per acre to shoot the area using 2-D seismic.

Another reason for using 2-D, says Bass, is to cut down on the cost of dozier work and the danger of shooting in extremely rough terrain. He said the terrain on these large ranches, which include the Matthews and Nail ranches, was so rugged that several doziers had been lost in canyons so deep that they would never be reclaimed.

"Also, seismic crews are turning up cattle that ranchers never knew they had."

The primary seismic target is small pinnancle fields above 5,000 feet with 100,000 barrels of reserves, says Bass.

"We are able to spot these small pinnancle reef structures in the Mississippian very clearly at about half the cost of 3-D. We don't lose that much."

Bass says he interprets all the seismic data himself using a PC and off-the-shelf programs.

To drill a 5,000-foot prospect in this area of the Eastern Shelf costs about $90,000. Another $80,000 can be added for completions, and if any horizontal drilling is done, the cost can go up another $120,000 feet.

Bass says his company, which is backed by some very strong and big independents, has drilled one horizontal well and is very encouraged by the possibility for horizontal drilling on the Eastern Shelf.

"We were able to take a very mediocre well and turn it into a very good well," said Bass, who explained that there is some fracturing to intersect in most prospects.

The one horizontal well drilled only had a 47-foot lateral which was drilled with a non-steering system, but Bass estimates it will improve recovery of reserves from 20 percent to 30 percent.

To qualify shallow prospects the explorationist uses geochem, and adds a unique twist by taking samples from the bottom of 80 foot shot holes, before the seismic crews stuff it with explosives.

"I have never trusted surface samples for geochem. There is just too much contamination. But by taking a sample from the 80-foot shot holes, we are able to achieve a pure uncontaminated sample."

He calculates that this exploration technique has allowed Bass Energy to complete almost 60 percent of its shallow tests as producers. One Tannehill well recently completed for 100 barrels of oil per day — not a bad return on an 800-foot well.

The geochem samples are brought to a lab in Breckenridge where they are given an acid-wash that releases high-end hydrocarbons. The gases are trapped and prospects are then mapped on the presence of ethane.

"It's amazing how much exploration information we are able to get out of an $80 shot hole," said Bass, noting that the shot holes are drilled approximately 440 feet apart.

Bass said the industry would probably have to look at a lot of new techniques to deal with $12 oil prices, and should be open to change.

Giant oilfields discovered off Brazil

By Peter Muello
Associated Press Writer

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Brazil has discovered four major offshore oil fields with reserves estimated at 1 billion barrels, the government said.

The new fields in the Campos Basin near Rio are expected to produce 200,000 barrels a day by 1998, said Joel Renno, the president of Brazil's state oil monopoly Petrobras.

He did not give details about their location or the type of oil found. Most of Brazilian oil is light.

The discovery raises Brazil's known reserves of oil and gas to about 4.8 billion barrels and moves South America's biggest petroleum importer closer to self-sufficiency.

"This is extremely significant in terms of economic value (and) in terms of world petroleum reserves," Jose Israel Vargas, the minister of Mines and Energy, told reporters in Brasilia, the capital.

The largest of the fields has 550 million barrels of oil and is located next to the giant Alabacora field, said Renno. Anything over 500 million barrels is considered a giant field by international standards, he said.

Brazil currently produces 724,000 barrels of oil a day, and 130,000 barrels of natural gas equivalent a day. Natural gas is usually measured in cubic meters, but the barrel figure is the energy equivalent.

About 55 percent of Brazil's domestic oil comes from a network of fields on the continental shelf in the Campos Basin.

Oil self-sufficiency has long been a dream for Latin America's largest country, with 150 million people and the world's 10th-largest economy.

Petrobras, often working through risk contracts with foreign companies, looked for oil everywhere from the Atlantic Ocean to the Amazon jungle. Its combined reserves of oil and gas eventually climbed to a total of 8.8 billion barrels.

The search for oil has made Petrobras a world leader in deep-water drilling technology.

However, the state-owned company has come under fire as wasteful and inefficient. Petrobras now is at the center of a debate in Congress whether to end the government's monopoly on oil exploration, which is written into the constitution.

Edisto Resources unit sells pipeline system

DALLAS — Edisto Resources Corp. has announced that its subsidiary, Vesta Natural Gas Co., has signed a definitive agreement to sell its Missouri intrastate natural gas pipeline system to UtiliCorp United Inc. The sale is an all-cash transaction and becomes final pending regulatory approval.

Vesta is selling the 218-mile pipeline system to UtiliCorp for $75 million. Vesta will use a portion of the sale proceeds to pay all of the existing debt to its three lenders.

The sale price includes the gas distribution system at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. and a pipeline that crosses the Mississippi River north of Saint Louis, but excludes Vesta's gathering assets. The general route of the major portion of the pipeline is from Curryville, Mo. south to Sullivan, Mo. and then west to Fort Leonard Wood.

The pipeline will be managed and operated by the current employees of Missouri Pipeline Co. and Missouri Gas Co. UtiliCorp will offer jobs to the people who currently work for the pipeline.

Vesta Energy Co., the gas marketing subsidiary of Vesta Natural Gas Co., will continue to focus its efforts on increasing its market share in its core gas markets. Vesta Natural Gas Co. will maintain its long-germ gas sales agreements and firm transportation with Laclede Gas Co. and numerous industrial, commercial and municipal end-users in the Saint Louis and Fort Leonard Wood area.

David Tudor, Vesta's executive vice president, stated, "I am very pleased with the sale of the pipeline assets because it will allow Vesta's management to focus its efforts on its core gas marketing in a debt-free environment."

Edisto Resources Corp.'s consolidated activities include the production of oil and gas, the exploration and development of oil and gas reserves and natural gas marketing and transportation.

PITTS: Energy fundamentals shift move back up. However, if there is a fundamental oversupply problem that cannot be fixed by OPEC quota-setting, prices are likely to remain low for the long term.

The fact that Saudi Arabia is trimming national budgets by 40 percent in some cases and restructuring its mountain of debt in the international financial community has already sapped optimism for some, but others will be content to wait.

■ Third, everyone seems to be aware that a fundamental shift from oil to natural gas is now underway in this country.

Mark 1994 as the year the natural gas era began. There has been a shift in the political arena for the past five years and a shift in the consuming market for the past three years.

But this is the first year the exploration and producing sector of the oil and gas industry has indicated such a decisive mood shift from oil to natural gas.

When we conducted our 1994 survey of Permian Basin operators, we found that nearly all were active in developing a new or stronger focus on natural gas. In Abilene we found many there that were looking to find new natural gas opportunites.

We detected a feeling among many operators that as the oil door of opportunity begins to slowly close because of oversupply, depressed and erratic pricing and environmental and government harrassment, the natural gas door is opening for the exact same reasons.

systems and will serve as the company's southern regional headquarters, serving Kansas, Oklahoma, Southeast New Mexico, Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi.

Mundy said, Midland was a logical place to be for the manufacturing and sales of downhole submersible pumps, and expects this region to represent a $10 million market to the company.

To date, the company has hired a salesman, a regional engineer and 13 others who will work as assemblers, test technicians and in other jobs in the Midland facility, and Mundy said chances are good that nine months from now there could be a staff of 20 working at ODI's Midland facility, and the company expects to work with Midland College on technical training.

How large the facility eventually becomes will depend on the market and the price of oil.

"The price of oil has a big effect on the profitability of running this equipment. I think a lot of operators these days are postponing work with submersible pumps to some extent, because of price, and may be pulling back somewhat and putting their money into gas prospects."

That's not to say that submersible pump manufacturers aren't seeing any activity, he said. "It's just very competitive. A several-dollar drop in oil prices can mean the difference in whether or not a submersible pump system is profitable."

Amoco, Exxon top Texas producers

AUSTIN — Railroad Commission statistics show Amoco and Exxon to be the top oil and gas producers, respectively, in Texas for 1993.

Amoco led all oil producers for the year with an average daily production of 128,887 barrels, 8.18 percent of all oil produced in the state. Exxon Co. took second place with an average daily production rate of 103,087 barrels, 6.54 percent of total state production. Other companies in the top 10 include Shell Western E&P Inc., 74,017 barrels per day; Texaco E&P Inc., 72,607 bpd; Chevron U.S.A. Inc., 59,170 bpd; Marathon Oil Co., 56,818 bpd; Mobil Producing TX & NM Inc., 54,686 bpd; Amerada Hess Corp., 49,073 bpd; Union Pacific Resources Co., 43,555 bpd; and Arco Oil & Gas Co., 32,940 bpd.

Exxon Corp. was the top Texas gas producer for the year, averaging 635,138 Mcf per day, 5.38 percent of total state production. Mobil Producing TX & NM Inc. was second, averaging 619,072 Mcfd, 5.25 percent of all gas produced in the state. Other companies included Shell Western E&P Inc., 514,627 Mcf; Enron Oil & Gas Co., 443,267 Mcf; Texaco E&P Inc., 432,930 Mcf; TransTexas Gas Corp., 422,039 Mcf; Chevron U.S.A. Inc., 375,043; Phillips Petroleum Co., 321,139 Mcf; Union Pacific Resources Co.,320,099 Mcf; and Amoco Production Co., 264,121 Mcf.

Petrolite income rises 12 percent

SAINT LOUIS — Petrolite Corp. reported that net income for the fiscal first quarter ended January 31, excluding two accounting changes, increased 12 percent to $5.4 million or 48 cents per share, from $.8 million or 43 cents per share a year earlier.

"This earnings gain represents the 12th consecutive quarter of year-over-year profit improvement," observed William E. Nasser, chairman, president and chief executive officer.

Revenues in the first quarter climbed to $91.8 million, up nearly 15 percent over year-ago levels.

The aforementioned accounting changes consisted of a one-time, non-cash tax credit — FAS 109 — of $2 million or 18 cents per share, taken this quarter and a non-recurring charge of $6.5 million or 58 cents per share, taken a year ago to cover medical and other post-retirement benefits — FAS 106.

"Industrial Chemicals led the performance improvement with near-record sales and earnings," commented Nasser.

He cited colder than normal temperatures this winter for boosting demand for the company's chemical cold flow improvers used by refiners to improve the handling characteristics of hydrocarbon feedstocks and finished fuels.

'EuroChem operations strongly provided increased sales and earnings for the period by meeting higher demand for oil field treatment programs, primarily in the Middle East.

Commission raises March gas allowable

AUSTIN — Railroad Commission Chairman James E. Nugent and Commissioner Mary Scott Nabers forecast Texas oil production for March at 1,475,280 barrels per day, based on purchaser nominations, and set gas production allowables for prorated fields in the state to meet market demand of 155,420,273 Mcf.

For prorated gas fields, the March 1994 allowable represents an increase of 3,106,144 Mcf when compared to actual production of 152,314,129 Mcf in March 1993. In setting the March 1994 allowable, the commission used historical production figures from March 1993 and producer forecasts for March 1994 demand, then adjusted the figures to account for such factors as well compatibility, new wells in a field, etc.

Nugent and Nabers also reviewed oil companies' March nominations to buy a total of 1,475,280 barrels of Texas oil per day. The nomination total, a decrease of 77,558 barrels daily when compared to February 1994 purchaser nominations, estimates Texas oil purchases in the coming month. March 1993 nominations totaled 1,715,867 barrels daily.

Reagan yields 140-barrel discovery

Staff Report

COLLINS & WARE INC. has completed an unidentified discovery in Reagan County, 10 miles north-northeast of Big Lake.

On potential test, the No. 1 Pink Cadillac flowed 140 barrels of 49.7 gravity crude and 37 Mcfd on a 17/64 inch choke. The well flowed from perforations 9,654 to 9,668 ft., with no treatment reported.

Permitted as a 10,600 ft. wildcat, the well was drilled to 9,670 ft., where 5 1/2 inch casing was set.

Formation tops, on ground elevation of 2,508 ft., include the Dean Sandstone at 6,626 ft., Wolfcamp at 6,786, Canyon Sandstone at 8,441, Strawn at 9,176 and Devonian at 9,476 ft.

Location is 1,635 ft. from south and 2,644 ft. from west lines of Section 77, Block 1, T&P survey, Abst. 314.

Plugback reentry nets Strawn find

A former Morrow producer in the GEM field of Lea County, N.M. has been recompleted as a Strawn discovery, 14 mile southwest of Buckeye.

UNION OIL CO. OF CALIFORNIA recompleted the No. 1 Smith, testing it to flow 39 barrels of 46.8 gravity crude and 74 Mcfd on an 11/64 inch choke with flowing tubing pressure of 40 psi. The well flowed from perforations 12,175 to 12,187 ft., which had been acidized with 4,000 gallons of acid and fractured with 4,000 gallons of gel.

The well was drilled to 13,650 ft., where 5 1/2 inch casing was set, and plugged back to 13,060 ft.

Location is 1,980 ft. from south and east lines of Section 25, T19s, R33e.

The well was originally completed in June 1982 in the GEM (Morrow) field, flowing 683 Mcfd from perforations 13,482 to 13,494 ft.

Blinebry discovery made in Lea County

A reentry operation has yielded a Blinebry discovery in Lea County, N.M.

KELTON OPERATING CORP. reentered the No. 2 Lineberry, completing it to pump 34 barrels of 40.6 gravity crude, 116 Mcfd and 41 barrels of water from perforations 5,376 to 5,794 ft. The interval was acidized with 4,000 gallons of 15 percent NeFeHCL acid and fractured with 40,000 gallons of gel and 70,000 lbs. 20/40 sand.

Originally drilled to 7,080 ft., the well was plugged back to 5,853 ft.

Location is 1,980 ft. from south and east lines of Section 11, T23s, R37e.

Andrews reentry opens Wichita pay

Recompletion of an Ellenburger producer in the Embar field of Andrews County has apparently yielded new Wichita-Albany pay in the field, 12 miles southwest of Andrews.

PHILLIPS PETROLEUM CO. recompleted the No. 122 University Andrews, testing it to pump 15 barrels of 35.8 gravity crude, 59 Mcfd and 18 barrels of water from perforations 6,440 to 6,474 ft. The interval was fractured with 12,080 gallons of gel and 37,700 lbs. 20/40 sand.

Originally drilled to 7,816 ft., the well was plugged back to 7,670 ft. with seven inch casing set at 7,703 ft.

On kelly bushing elevation of 3,260 ft., formation tops include the Yates at 2,598 ft., San Andres at 4,062, Upper Clearfork at 5,430, Lower Clearfork at 6,0008, Wichita Albany at 6,415, and Ellenburger at 7,748 ft.

Location is 1,150 ft. from north and west lines of Section 30, Block 10, ULS survey.

The well was completed in May 1992, producing from Ellenburger perforations 7,713 to 7,782 ft.

Ector well becomes horizontal producer

An existing vertical wellbore has been recompleted as a vertical drainhole in the York field of Ector County, opening Queen/Grayburg pay in the field, four miles southeast of Penwell.

DENBURY MANAGEMENT INC. reentered the No. 3 TXL "19", completing it to pump 11 barrels of 32 gravity crude, 16 Mcfd and five barrels of water from open hole interval 3,806 to 5,410 ft. The interval was acidized with 2,500 gallons of 15 percent NeFeHCL acid.

The well was drilled to 5,410 ft. with 5 1/2 inch casing set at 3,806 ft. in the horizontal wellbore.

The well topped the Yates at 2,698 ft., Queen/Grayburg at 3,656 ft. and San Andres at 4,024 ft. on ground elevation of 3,054 ft.

Surface location is 1,925 ft. from south and 1,986 ft. from east lines and bottom hole location is 1,447 ft. from north and 874 ft. from east lines of the surface location, Section 19, Block 44, T-3-S, T&P survey, Abst. 327.

BRIEFS

Cross Timbers Oil declares dividend

FORT WORTH — The board of directors of Cross Timbers Oil Co. has declared a regular quarterly cash dividend of 7.5 cents per share on the company's outstanding common stock payable April 15 to stockholders of record at the close of business March 31.

Union Pacific drills horizontal well

FORT WORTH — Union Pacific Resources Co. announced that the company recently has completed drilling the first producing horizontal well in the Overthrust Belt of northeastern Utah. This well also represents the first successful horizontal completion in the Twin Creek formation.

The well, located in the Elkhorn Ridge field in Summit County, 10 miles east of Coalville, Utah, is pumping at rates of 784 barrels of oil and 250 Mcfd. The well is producing from a 3,700 ft. horizontal interval in the Jurassic Twin Creek formation at a total measured depth of 14,100 ft.

In addition, UPRC has completed and currently is testing another horizontal well four miles to the southwest. This well also taps into the Twin Creek formation and is located on the southwestern flank of the Lodgepole field.

ANR Pipeline begins public offering

HOUSTON — ANR Pipeline Co., a Detroit-based subsidiary of The Coastal Corp., said it has commenced a public offering through underwriters of $125 million in principal amount of 7 3/8 percent 30-year debentures maturing February 15, 2024.

Citicorp Securities Inc. is the principal underwriter. The underwriting syndicate also includes BT Securities Corp., Chase Securities Inc., Chemical Securities Inc., NatWest Securities Ltd. and UBS Securities Inc.

ANR said it intends to use the net proceeds from the offering primarily for capital expenditures and for other general corporate purposes, including the payment of dividends.

Chevron awards drilling rig contract

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas company has won a contract to supply a special all-weather drilling rig for one of the world's biggest oil development projects, in the former Soviet republic of Kazakhstan, officials of the company say.

Mike Mullen Energy Equipment will provide Chevron with a 3,000-horsepower land rig, which will have a depth capability of 30,000 feet, company president Mike Mullen said.

The rig will be specially outfitted to withstand the Tengiz region's harsh weather and temperatures, ranging from 130 degrees to minus 30 degrees Fahrenheit.

The rig will be refurbished and modified in Houston during the next four months, Mullen said.

Sun to buy Chevron refinery

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sun Company, Inc. has signed a letter of intent to buy Chevron's Philadelphia Refinery and its one-third interest in the Harbor Pipeline for about $170 million, the companies announced.

A final agreement is expected by the end of April, and officials say the sale is likely to close by fall. It is subject to government approval.

Sun already operates two refineries in the Philadelphia area.

"This acquisition is in line with our strategy of growth in our core businesses," Sun chairman and chief executive officer Robert H. Campbell said in a news release.

Chevron announced last May it planned to sell both the Philadelphia and Port Arthur, Texas, refineries as part of a strategy to focus its resources in the South, Southwest and West.

Sun intends to operate the 177,000 barrel-per-day refinery in its present configuration and continue serving many of the same customers, Campbell said. Sun also plans to retain most of the 550-person work force.

SPE conference set in Midland

RICHARDSON — The Society of Petroleum Engineers' 1994 Permian Basin Oil and Gas Recovery Conference in Midland, March 16-18, will serve as a stage for top engineers and managers to share their visions of the future for the U.S. oil and gas industry.

The 18th Biennial Conference and Exhibition, sponsored by the Permian Basin (Midland) and Trans-Pecos (Odessa) sections of SPE, is scheduled at the Midland Center, with five of the 145 technical sessions and two luncheons set for the Midland Hilton.

George Uthlaut, senior vice president of operations for Enron Oil & Gas Co., is the featured speaker at the Wednesday (March 16) Welcoming Luncheon. Uthlaut's topic will be "New Solutions to Old Problems."

The Thursday Keynote Luncheon features 1994 SPE President-Elect Roy Koerner of Texaco U.S.A., who will discuss "New Age Thinking: What Will Be the Future of the Oil and Gas Industry?"

Koerner, who was division operations manager for Texaco in Midland during 1984-89, is now Joint Interest Operations Division manger in Denver. Both luncheons will be held at the Midland Hilton (12:15-1:30 p.m.).

Michel T. Halbouty, chairman and CEO of Houston-based Michel T. Halbouty Energy Co., will headline the Thursday Evening Dinner and Social at the Midland Petroleum Club. Activities begin at 6 p.m.

A reowned entrepreneur, Halbouty will examine "Our Petroleum Industry: Its Past, Present and Future - If Any!"

Details on operating strategies and successful case histories surround the meeting theme, "Overcoming Today's Challenges Through Shared Technology, Teamwork and Innovation," pervade the 104-paper technical program. Practicality is another meeting theme as panel discussions each day will examine field-related issues of concern to Permian Basin Operators.

"All three panel-discussion topics will be of great interest to meeting participants," said general meeting chairman Charles R. Vanorsdale of T. Scott Hickman & Associates in Midland. "Today's operating environment is very challenging both economically and technically and each panel session will feature 'give-and-take dialogue that centers around these issues. The goal for the majority of us in this religion is to economically maximize production fro our fields."

The Wednesday afternoon panel on Reservoir Characterization features discussion on reservoir modeling, simulation, cross-well seismology, formation evaluation, data integration, and geostatistical analysis. Panelists include Ed Clerke of Arco E&P Technology, Bjorn Paulsson and Ganesh Thakur of Chevron Petroleum Technology Co., and Mohan Kelkar of the University of Tulsa.

Thursday afternoon's session on Co^2 Flooding will feature panelists Michael E. Brock of Arco Oil & Gas Co., Andrew H. Falls of Shell Western E&P Inc., Perry Jarrell of Amoco Production Co., Mark B. Merritt of Fasken Oil & Ranch Interests, and Niraj Pande of Oil Recovery Associates. Discussion will center around strategic philosophy, operational aspects, independent operations, loss reduction, and regional industry projects.

Drilling assessment, field development, case histories, and the perspective of the independent operator will be topics of discussion during the Friday morning session on Infill Drilling. Panelists are Craig Clark of Apache corp., Donald Ebbs of Phillips Petroleum Co., Timothy Leach of Parker & Parsley Petroleum Co., James II. Ohlms of Texaco Inc., and Loren Stile, returned senior technical advisor for Exxon Co. U.S.A.

The Society of Petroleum Engineers is a nonprofit, technical, and professional association whose 51,000 members from more than 100 countries are engaged in energy resources development and production. SPE collect, distributes and exchanges information on techniques and operations related to exploration, drilling, production and management of energy resources.

Cross Timbers posts net income

FORT WORTH — Cross Timbers Oil Co. reported fourth quarter net income of $1.2 million or 8 cents per share and record oil production of 8,622 barrels per day, an 86 percent increase from the fourth quarter of 1992. Results for the quarter were adversely impacted by lower product prices, especially oil which dropped by more than $4 per barrel compared with fourth quarter 1992.

Cash flow from operations, before changes in operating assets and liabilities and a deferred income tax adjustment, decreased 5 percent to $6.4 million from fourth quarter 1992, as increased oil production was offset by lower oil and gas prices. The fourth quarter results include an after-tax reduction to general and administrative expense of $1.4 million due to stock incentive and restricted stock compensation adjustments and a reduction of deferred income taxes of $500,000. Pro forma net income for the quarter was $800,000 or 5 cents per share.

"Oil production increased dramatically in 1993 due to the acquisition of strategic long-lived oil producing properties," stated Bob R. Simpson, chief executive officer. "Further production increases are expected during the first quarter due to the acquisition of additional interests in the Prentice Northeast Unit in West Texas. Given the current weakness in oil prices, our 1994 development program will focus on increasing gas production. Primary emphasis will be placed on development drilling in Major County, Oklahoma, our most important gas producing area."

Fourth quarter gas production averaged 54 million cubic feet per day, a 2 percent increase over fourth quarter 1992. Gas prices averaged $1.80 per Mcf, down from $2.15 during the 1992 fourth quarter. Oil prices during the fourth quarter dropped by 44.26 to $13.94 per barrel compared to fourth quarter 1992 average price of $18.20.

For the year, the company and its predecessor partnership reported a combined net loss of $4 million or 28 cents per share. Included in year-to-date results is a one-time accounting charge of $4 million for net deferred tax liabilities recorded upon merger of the partnership into the company. This accounting charge, previously estimated at $4.5 million, was adjusted during the fourth quarter.

Wiser Oil income rises during 1993

DALLAS — The Wiser Oil Co. reported full year 1993 earnings of $1,016,000 or 11 cents per share on revenues of $42,921,000.

These results compare to 1992 net income of $477,000 or 5 cents per share on revenues of $40,182,000.

In 1993 the company sustained a pretax loss of $1,075,000, compared to a pretax loss of $235,000 in 1992. The 1993 pretax loss was more than offset by tax benefits primarily resulting from utilization of Section 29 tax credits, percentage depletion and nontaxable dividend income received.

For the fourth quarter of 1993, Wiser earned $1,178,0-00 or 13 cents per share on revenues of $13,530,000, compared to $783,000 or 8 cents per share on revenues of $12,392,000 in the fourth quarter of 1992.

Full year operating cash flow before working capital changes was $17,659,000 in 1993 versus $18,492,000 in 1992.

Wiser also reported that its December 31, 1993 oil and natural gas reserves were 38.5 million equivalent barrels of oil, a 64 percent increase over the 23.4 million equivalent barrels reported at December 31, 992. Proved oil reserves at the end of 1993 increased to 21.2 million barrels from 11.8 million barrels. Proved gas reserves increased 48 percent to 103.3 billion cubic feet of natural gas from 70 billion cubic feet. The principal factor in the 1993 increase was the acquisition of reserves from subsidiaries of Mobil Corp. in October 1993.

"Although the decline in oil prices during the second half of 1993 has a substantial negative impact on Wiser's results, the company nonetheless performed well," noted Andrew J. Shoup Jr., president and chief executive officer. "Results for the year included only three months of operations from the Mobil acquisition. These new properties should have a significant positive impact on Wiser in 1994."

"1993 marked an imported turning point for The Wiser Oil Co.," he added. "We completed a significant property acquisition that solidified the company's operations in the Permian Basin, added critical mass to its asset base and created attractive new investment opportunities for the future. In addition, our accelerated exploration program had a successful year and work began on our Maljamar waterflood project in New Mexico. With these programs underway, wiser's strategic growth plan is now in full operation and its outlook is excellent."

Texaco markets clean gasoline

N.Y. Times News Service

NORTH WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. — As Mary Grant was filling up her red Volvo station wagon Tuesday morning at the self-service pump of J.T. Muska Texaco here, her three young children fidgeted in the back seat.

And they, like she, seemed oblivious to the banners and signs proclaiming New Clean System 3, the gasoline additive Texaco introduced Tuesday at its 14,000 stations nationwide.

"I have more important things to worry about," Mrs. Grant said, when a reporter asked if she realized she was pumping a tankful of new, improved fuel that Texaco says will clean her engine and cut pollution. "I know very little about cars."

Stewart Douglass, an off-duty firefighter filling his Ford station wagon, shrugged off a similar question. This station is convenient, he said, and his gasoline purchases are "pretty much determined by price."

So much for the recent prediction of Allen J. Krowe, Texaco's vice chairman and chief financial officer, who in announcing the product last month, said that the new gasoline would turn up the heat under Texaco's competitors.

Hyperbole? Probably. But industry executives, recognizing that gasoline is a consumer necessity that generates little brand loyalty, see additives as one of the few ways that oil companies can differentiate themselves.

For gasoline marketers, the challenge in introducing an additive is to convince people who matter — whether Detroit engineers or suburban motorists — that the latest "breakthrough" makes it worth driving even a block out of the way to find the station that sells it.

For decades, refiners have been adding or taking away substances to improve gasoline's performance.

In the 1950s and '60s, the targets were elemental forces like carburetor icing and engine corrosion. The '70s were the era of perfecting the new unleaded formulations and of adding ingredients to clean and condition carburetors.

Then came the early '80s and the ascendancy of fuel injectors, which brought new detergents to clean the injectors' tiny nozzles.

Each incremental improvement has brought gasoline science deeper into the internal combustion engine. By 1989, additives like Texaco's System 3 were at the gates of the combustion chamber, waging war with intake-valve deposits.

And now, with New Clean System 3, Texaco claims to have broken through to the sanctum sanctorum, washing down the piston chamber itself. Five tankfuls of its new gasoline, Texaco says, will significantly clean the combustion chamber.

But for Texaco, or any other company that boasts of the curative powers of its gasoline, proving its claims can be difficult, because the industry lacks a standard test for rating additives and comparing formulas.

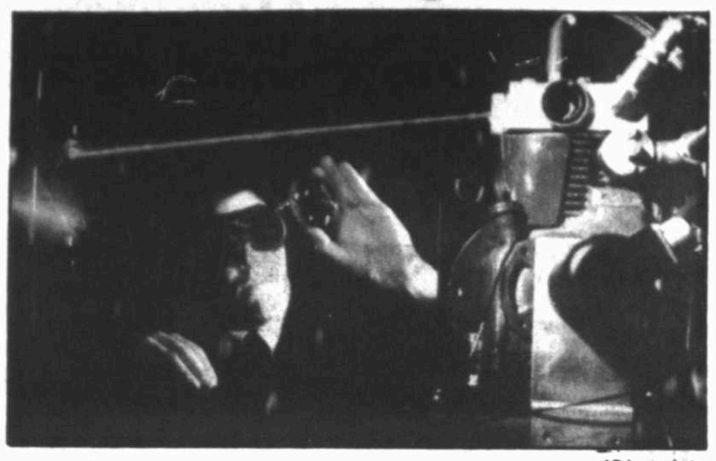

And so Texaco hired one of the foremost authorities on the internal combustion engine, Dr. David Cole, the director of the Transportation Research Institute at the University of Michigan, to render an opinion.

Cole, the only outsider to look at Texaco's data derived from laboratory and road tests, attended the elaborate news conference last month in Manhattan where Texaco announced the new formula.

At first he was skeptical, he said, because over the years he and his students had worked unsuccessfully on the problem of cleaning up combustion-chamber deposits at the behest of auto companies and federal agencies.

It was not easy, Cole said, to find a compound that could withstand the great heat and pressure while doing the cleaning job and then burn itself up without leaving its own deposits or adding to the emitted pollutants.

But Cole said that after reviewing the test results he was convinced Texaco had found a solution. "This is a significant breakthrough," he said

Robert Hahn, a laser technician at Texaco's Research and Development Center in Beacon, N.Y., studies combustion chamber deposits with a laser accessible research engine used in the development of Texaco's new generation of gasoline, New CleanSystem 3.

Engine was window to clean gas

N.Y. Times News Service

NORTH WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. — In tackling deposits inside the combustion chambers of an auto engine, gasoline scientists face a bigger challenge than they did in creating earlier gasoline additives.

Cleaning fuel injectors and intake valves is easier because the gasoline is still in liquid form when it passes those points. But in the combustion chamber, the gasoline becomes vaporized at temperatures of up to 1,600 degrees Fahrenheit.

The trick, according to James R. Ketcham, Texaco's manager of research and development, was to find an organic cleaning compound that would not disintegrate before doing its job but would then break down without leaving any residue.

It was Joseph Russo, an organic chemist, who developed the active molecule behind New Clean System 3 after testing hundreds of compounds in various engines — including an optical engine developed by Dr. William Acker, a physicist at the center.

The experimental engine, similar to others used in research by the auto industry, has a single cylinder with a window made of quartz an inch and a half thick to withstand the explosions inside. By peering inside, Texaco scientists could quickly size up a compound's cleaning capabilities.

"There were a lot of false starts," Scott O. Lindholm, a research group leader, recalled. "There were a lot of things that looked interesting but were dead ends."

But last year, Texaco researchers tried something that seemed to fill the bill. The company, which has patented the substance, says the molecule has no particular name, describing it simply as "a functionalized polymer of a narrow molecular weight range."

And Tuesday, whether they realized it or not, Texaco customers began pumping it into their gas tanks.

Pessimism about Arco overdone

N.Y. Times News Service

NEW YORK — For years Atlantic Richfield lived off the rich reserves of its domestic oil and gas fields and its major 1960s strike in Prudhoe Bay, Alaska.

But the bonanza is running on low and a number of attempts to find major new fields in Alaska have come up dry or have not paid off yet.

Thus the nation's seventh largest oil company is looking for new oil and gas reserves in far-flung places where its management has only had modest experience, although the company has been in Indonesia and the North Sea in a limited way for decades.

Between now and 1997, ARCO plans to spend about $3.3 billion on international ventures, up from the nearly $2 billion invested over the last five years.

Of that, about $1.2 billion will be spent on two large gas projects, one under way in Indonesia and one that has just begun in South China. In addition, ARCO has acquired exploration rights in Algeria and Romania and is exploring in Yemen and Ecuador. This week the company announced that it would explore jointly with British Gas off the coast of Vietnam.

But the move to more reliance on foreign sources at a time of falling crude oil prices has made investors nervous about ARCO's stock.

From a high of $127 last year, the share price has slid as the price of crude oil fell last fall. And since Feb. 4, the stock has tumbled 8.7 percent.

Nevertheless, ARCO stock has remained a favorite pick among some analysts.

They say that ARCO's new emphasis on gas and oil sources outside the United States is a prudent move into relatively safe projects, mostly in natural gas, that could bring a big payoff in a few years.

"ARCO is not blindly throwing money at rank wildcats in unfamiliar territory," said Mary K. Quinn, the oil analyst for S.G. Warburg who did a recent report on the company and recommended the stock.

She predicts that when ARCO begins production at its new gas projects in Indonesia and South China — as well as expanding in the North Sea — earnings from its international side will jump from a loss last year to $470 million by 1997.

She also estimated that production from the company's overseas operations, which account for about 15 percent of last year's total, would rise to about 25 percent by 1997 when the two gas projects are in full production.

Most of the company's gas projects, she believes, pose little political risk and already have long-term contracts under which ARCO will sell its gas to utilities.

Yet most investors, she said, still think of ARCO as a domestic oil producer whose fate is tied to Alaska.

The lack of a major find since its strike in Prudhoe Bay and other areas in Alaska continues to haunt ARCO, according to Robin Shoemaker, domestic oil analyst at Lehman Brothers.

While the gas ventures promise to be profitable, he said, "They still don't address the inability of the company to find a major source of oil."

MEETINGS

'Slimline' wireline tools topic for WTGS

The West Texas Geological Society will meet Tuesday at the Midland Center beginning at 11:30 a.m.

Mark Houpe of BPB Wireline Services will speak on "Quantitative Open-Hole Logging With Very Small Diameter Wireline Tools."

Very small diameter logging tools or true "slimline" tools are often regarded as merely qualitative "poor relations" to fill size tools. Based on many years experience, a suite of logging tools has evolved with diameters of around two inches which give good calibrated results in hole sizes up to eight inches or greater.

When employed in "slimline" holes, these measurements are shown to equal the quality of full-size tool measurements but with the advantage of a much lower cost drilling and logging scenario. Modern PC-based surface systems are used to complement the down-hole equipment, producing output both on paper aond on magnetic media.

Examples will be shown of logs from a range of environments to illustrate the quality and compatability of the data.

Cost is $7 per person and reservations should be made by Monday afternoon by calling 683-1573.

Mechanical engineers discuss OSHA rules

The Permian Basin chapter, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, will meet Tuesday at the Airport Ramada Inn at 11:45 a..

George S. Price will speak on OSHA's requirements regarding process safety management of highly hazardous chemicals, 29 CFR 1910.119.

He is a consulting engineer specializing in the assessment and correction of high-risk pressurized systems such as pressure vessels, pipelines and process piping. He is president and owner of Pressure Systems Analysis in Midland.

A buffet is available for $8. Reservations should be made by Monday afternoon by calling 335-4552.

SPE group to host Core Labs researcher

David G. Kersey will be the guest speaker at Thursday's meeting of the Reservoir Study Group of the Society of Petroleum Engineers. The meeting will be at the American Legion Hall beginning at 11:30 a.m.

Kersey will speak on "Enhanced Reservoir Description: Using Core and Log Data to Identify Hydraulic (Flow) Units and Predict Permeability in Uncored Intervals/Wells." He co-authored the paper with J.O. Amaefule, M. Altunbay and D. Tiab.

The paper documents the theoretical development of an analytical method for identifying and characterizing distinct flow units within a given facies. This method can then be used to develop predictiosn of permeability in cored and uncored intervals or wells.

Kersey is director of Core Laboratories' business development and marketing group in Houston. He joined Core Laboratories in 1983 as manager of petrographic services and since has held numerous positions in the company's technology applications and petrographic services groups.

Cost of the luncheon is $8 per person.

Desk and Derrick plans reunion meeting

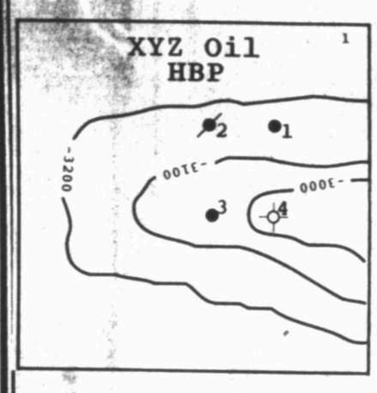

The Desk and Derrick Club of Midland is holding a "Reunion Meeting" Thursday at the Petroleum Club. The meeting begins with social hour at 6 p.m., followed by dinner at 6:30 p.m.

Guest speake rwill be Carol Reinert, a CPA with Morrison, Reinert and Co.

All former members of the club are invited to attend.

Reservations can be made by calling 682-5371.

FORT WORTH — Fort Worth has long been known as the city where the west begins. And while many believe that is still true today, this Cowtown has become so much more.

From cowboys to culture, mules to museums, and boot scootin' to ballerinas, Fort Worth has managed to step into the 1990s without loosing the neighborly charm of the 1890s.

With the Dallas/Fort Worth Metroplex rated as the number one tourist destination in Texas and with the world's second-busiest airport servicing the area, the Metroplex is growing by leaps and bounds. From Midland, the trip is a quick 50-minute flight or a pleasant six-hour drive, making it one of the perfect destinations for Midlanders who want a weekend get-away or a week away from it all.

If you're looking for where the west begins, look no further than the Fort Worth Stockyards. This National Historic District is a monument to the old West, yet blends perfectly with the new age.

The Stockyards is still one of the few places in the West where honest-to-goodness cowboys can be found, and cattle and horses can be seen everyday. The Livestock Holding Pens and Livestock Exchange — built in 1903 — are testaments to why this city became known as Cowtown U.S.A.

For those who love country and western dancing, or just want to see what it's all about, Billy Bob's Texas is the place for boot scootin' fun. Located in the 10-block Stockyards historic district, Billy Bob's Texas is the world's largest honky-tonk. It features indoor bull-riding, 42 bar stations, arcades games, restaurants and a Texas-sized dance floor, all housed under a 100,000 square-foot roof. Even for Texans, that ought to offer plenty of room for dancing to the boot stompin', live country music performed by some of the nation's leading country and western acts.

Courtesy Fort Worth Convention and Visitors Bureau

The Stockyards Historic District provides an authentic Western experience for all those who visit. It also is the site of many of Fort Worth's annual festivities.

Courtesy Fort Worth Convention and Visitors Bureau

Billy Bob's Texas — the world's largest honky-tonk — boasts of more than 40 bar stations, live indoor bullriding competitions and room for more than 6,000 to belly up to the bar.

If you plan your trip carefully, you might catch your favorite country entertainer performing at Billy Bob's. Recently, Confederate Railroad, Joe Diffie, T. Graham Brown and Willie Nelson lent their talents to Billy Bob's stage. Saturday night will feature Restless Heart, and March 18, the Gibson Miller Band will be there. Merle Haggard is scheduled for March 26.

If you'd like to be within walking distance from Billy Bob's and many of the other sites in the historic district, just mosey over to the Stockyards Hotel. This turn-of-the-century, restored hotel captures the spirit of old Fort Worth. In fact, it is believed that Bonnie and Clyde once slept here. Built in 1907, it is located on the corner of Exchange and Main — in the heart of the historic district.

Guests at the hotel are within walking distance of the Livestock Exchange Building.

HAVE YOU HEARD?

Ladies association meets for luncheon

By Marilyn McKnight Harrison

McKnight-Harrison

The musical artistry of Doug Montgomery of Santa Fe entertained a record crowd at Midland Country Club's Ladies Association's February luncheon meeting. Two hundred forty-nine women turned out to hear the superb pianist-singer.

Doug is well known here for his appearances under the auspices of Midland Opera Theater and by those who travel to Santa Fe and visit Vanessie Restaurant, where he is the featured performer. Midlanders attending former President George Bush's inauguration in 1989 may have heard him play at one of the various functions, where he performed.

Doug had the audience in the palm of his hand from beginning to end at the association meeting. There was much tapping of feet, snapping of fingers and at Doug's invitation, some singalong.

Doug's varied program included waltzes, ragtime, classical and the music of popular composers, such as Cole Porter and Nat King Cole, among others. One crowd favorite was a medley of songs from the sound track of the hit movie, "Sleepless in Seattle." Our personal favorite, however, was his rendition of selections from the brilliant musical, "Phantom of the Opera."

He concluded his performance with a medley of audience requests.

Hostesses for the social hour preceding lunch were Lou (Mrs. Don) Matson, Linda (Mrs. Michael) Melson, Altie (Mrs. Bill) Russell and Wyoma (Mrs. G.F.) Whitlow.

Among those enjoying the afternoon at the club were Betty (Mrs. Don) Ewan, Barbara (Mrs. Russell) Parchman, Pat (Mrs. Parker) Humes with her daughter, Trish, who was in from Houston for the weekend; Ellen (Mrs. Steve) Helbing and Dottie (Mrs. Norman) Barker.

JUDY AND WARREN BARTLEY, who celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary on Valentine's Day, were honored the following Saturday by their children, Kim (Mrs. Lyle) Bruner of San Angelo and Doug and Caren Bartley of Galveston.

The Bartleys were led to believe that only their daughter, Kim and nine-month-old granddaughter, Kellsey Kay, were here to take them out to dinner. When they arrived at the restaurant, Doug and Caren were waiting to surprise them.

But the surprise didn't end there. When the family returned to the Bartley residence later, there was a group of friends gathered to honor them.

Attending were Nita and Charlie Harris, Carla and Johnny Barrow, Dr. David Mallams, Shirley and Joe Bruner, Rita Speer, Connie Glover, Martha and Mike Garcia, Kay and Gilbert Bates, Harold and Tandee Thomas and Hill Glover.

SANTA RITA CLUB members were honored with a Valentine Tea at the Petroleum Museum by the board members.

Heart-shaped balloons and red carnations formed the centerpiece on the punch table, from which heart-shaped cookies and sandwiches were served.

Ann Harges, president of the volunteer organization, and Mary Sue Harrison presided at the punch service.

Spotted in the crowd were Betty Miller, Teddy Meyers, Doris and George Welsh, Bobby Moore, Lillian Woods, Ed Rowland, museum director, and Joyce Hauke, who planned the event.

WHEN MARK BUNCH, son of Midlanders Kathleen and John Bunch, and Rosemary Smith were married recently in Houston's River Oaks Baptist Church, it was only natural, with the bride's family heritage, to set a Scottish tone to the event. Rosemary's parents, Laura and Dan Smith, are longtime members of the Scottish Heather and Thistle Society of Houston.

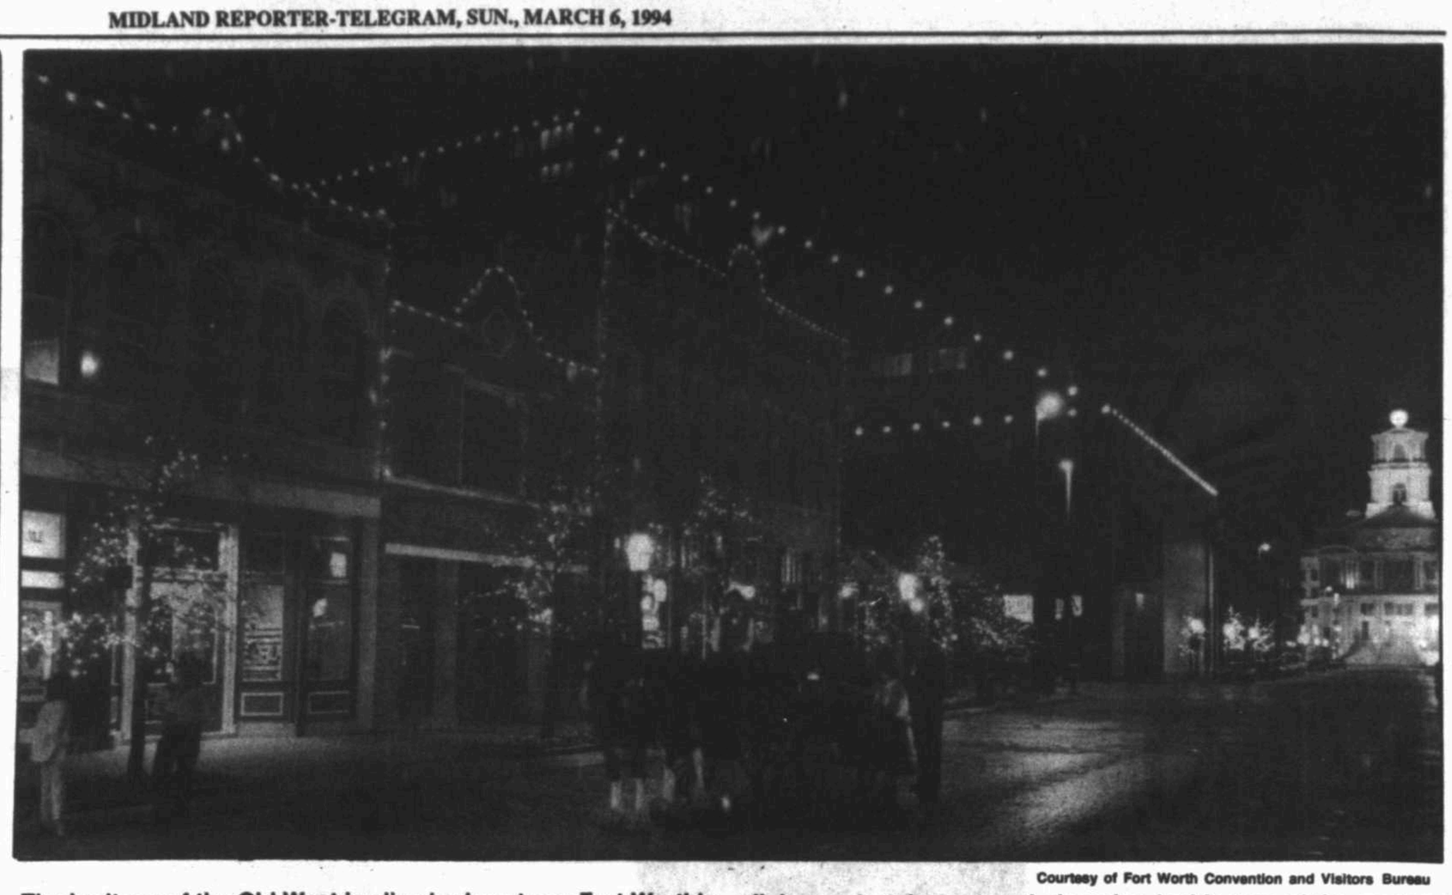

Before the wedding, the Hamilton Pipe Band, in full Scottish dress and consisting of eight pipers and four drummers, performed outside the church for arriving guests. At the hour of the wedding, the pipers marked into the church, in single file, playing "One Hundred Pipers." The drummers gave the drum-roll salute, and the bride entered as the pipers played "Scotland the Brave."

The bride's parents hosted the reception at the Petroleum Club of Houston, where the bridal couple were escorted into the reception area by the Hamilton Pipe Band. During the reception, Pipe Major Donald MacPhee gave a Scottish toast, and presented his sword to the couple for the cutting of the cakes.

On the eve of the wedding, the groom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at the Lancaster Hotel. In addition there were a number of other festive pre-nuptial events to honor the couple.

Among out-of-town wedding guests were Midlanders Katrena and Bob Cain and former Midlanders Norma Kay (Bunch) and Robert Glenn and children, Kathleen and Robert of Amarillo, and Nancy Southerland of Lubbock.

COWTOWN: Old, new meld nicely

(From 1F)

the Cowtown Coliseum, the horse and mule barns, plus numerous shops, restaurants and western craftsmen.

Be sure not to miss Booger Red Saloon, named after the famous bronc buster. The bar stools are far from the norm, featuring saddles for seats in front of the stately oak bar.

The North Fort Worth Historical Society Museum, located in the Exchange Building in the Stockyards, houses wonderful old photographs and knowledgeable volunteers who can steer you to the sights you find most interesting.

While horses and cattle were important in the old West, railroads also contributed a great deal to the growth of this area. The Stockyards' Tarantula Train keeps alive the memories of the iron horse. In 1992, the 1896 steam locomotive began hauling passenger coaches into Stockyard Station. It pulls in several times a day to offer passengers rides down the rails of times.

Another must-see in the Stockyards Miss Molly's Bed & Breakfast.

As you leave the Stockyards, you may want to stop at the Cattlemen's Museum of the Southwestern Cattle Raisers Foundation on Seventh Street. This museum traces the ranching industry back to the days when longhorns were the dominant breed. Also visit old Fire Station No. 1, built in 1873 as Fort Worth's first fire station. The building now houses the exhibit "150 Years of Fort Worth."

IN KEEPING with the theme of the past, visit Log Cabin Village. This village was originally owned by Captain Howard, a farmer and minuteman. It now recreates life on the Texas frontier.

Across from Log Cabin Village is the Fort Worth Zoo where you can kick up some dust in the Texas Exhibit. This pioneer village is full of longhorn steers, buffalo, deer and other animals that roamed the prairie during the era of the cowboy. For the kids, there is prairie dog tunnels to crawl through and get face-to-face with the little critters, as well as a playground and a schoolhouse.

The Fort Worth Zoo opened in 1909 with one lion, two bear cubs, an alligator, a coyote, a peacock and a few rabbits from a traveling carnival. Today, the zoo is home to more than 4,000 exotic and native animals living in natural habitats. It is the oldest continuous zoo site in Texas.

In addition to the Texas Exhibit, the zoo's 52 acres of adventure offers "World of Primates," with an indoor tropical rain forest filled with chimpanzees, bonobos, orangutans, white-cheeked gibbons, mandrill baboons, colobus monkeys and families of endangered lowland gorillas, and outdoor islands; "Asian Falls," where a raised pathway lets visitors peer down on Asian tigers, bears and cranes, plus the zoo's famous white tiger "Neela," who can be seen up close through windows built into the natural habitat; and "African Savannah," where the endangered black and white rhinos, giraffes and a variety of African birds call home.

IN ADDITION, the Fort Worth Zoo has one of the largest aquariums in the region and an internationally acclaimed herpetarium. The cost is $5 for adults and $2.50 for children and seniors.

A new exhibit, "Portraits of the Wild" Zoo Gallery, opened in February, making the Fort Worth Zoo one of the first zoos in the country to house an art gallery. The gallery features what is believed to be the largest collection — 28 paintings — of oil paintings by renowned German wildlife artist Wilhelm Kuhnert.

If you're still in a nature mood, take a walk through the Botanic Garden. Spread over 114 acres, these gardens were inspired by the great gardens of Europe and Japan, and include a Rose Garden, Japanese Garden and Conservatory. Best of all, there is no admission charged.

While the wild West is alive and well in Fort Worth, the Arts District offers a different pace. It has earned a reputation as the nation's third largest center for art with four galleries that anchor the city's Cultural District with exhibits of European, Western and modern art, as well as science and history displays.

The Kimbell Art Museum, the Amon Carter Museum, the Modern Art Museum of Fort Worth and the Fort Worth Museum of Science and History — Noble Planetarium and Omni Theater all make their home in this district.

THE FORT WORTH Museum of Science and History is particularly busy this season featuring "The Dinosaurs of Jurassic Park" through May 30. This 13,000 square-foot exhibit is the only official movie exhibit sanctioned by Steven Spielberg and it features actual movie sets, raptors and other life-sized dinosaurs from the movie. The exhibit is for visitors of all ages and is open every day. Ticket prices are $6 general admission and $4.50 for those 3 to 12 years of age and 60-plus. Admission to all exhibits at the museum are included with admission to the "Jurassic Park" exhibit.

So, for the same price, you also can visit the exhibit "Thundering Hooves: Five Centuries of Horsepower in the American West" through May 1. It is organized by the Witte Museum in San Antonio and traces 500 years of the horse in the American Southwest, focusing on the growth of four major cultures of the region that centered around the house; the conquistadors, vaqueros, Comanches and cowboys. Admission (if you chose not to see the "Jurassic Park" exhibit) to the museum is $3 for adults, $1 for those 60 years old and older and children 3 to 12 years of age. For more information, call (817) 732-1631.

Currently showing at the Omni Theater — and 80-foot dome of surround sound and sght — is "The Secret of Life," illustrating the mutual dependence of all forms of life in micro and macro photography, even showing things the human eye cannot see. Admission is $5.50 for adults and $3.50 for children under 12 and seniors 60 and over.

IN DOWNTOWN Fort Worth, visitors can discover a variety of night spots, restaurants and a jazz scene that continually commands the attention of leading musicians.

Sundance Square — where the old and new west meet — is Fort Worth's turn-of-the-century business district complete with redbrick streets. It now is filled with shops, restaurants, nightspots and museums.

Caravan of Dreams in the square is a performing arts center that includes a nightclub, a rooftop grotto bar and a cactus garden. By sight and sound, it is a hard place for anyone to miss.

Sundance Square is a wonderful place to roam during Fort Worth's annual Main Street Arts Festival. The streets are alive with people wondering from booth to booth viewing everything from expensive sculptures and paintings, to stands offering hot dogs and margaritas. Music fills the air throughout the festival with some big names making the list of performers. This year's festival is planned for April 14-17.

For the sports enthusiasts, the area offers the two-time World Champion Dallas Cowboys, baseball's famed Texas Rangers (ready to enjoy their first season in their new home), the Dallas Mavericks, and the National Hockey League's Dallas Stars.

There also is the PGA's Southwestern Bell Colonial Golf Tournament in Fort Worth and the GTE Byron Nelson Classic in Irving. At these May events, golf fans can watch the world's finest linksmen tee up. However, for those who prefer to play for par themselves, there are several public and private courses available.

FOR THOSE who like to fish, the local fishermen's votes go to Benbrook Lake and Eagle Mountain Lake, but you have to decide if you trust a fisherman who would reveal his true favorite fishing hole.

Fort Worth's calendar of annual and special events is almost overwhelming, offering a gamut of festivals, rodeos, exhibits and shows, not to mention the everyday happenings the area has to offer. It's hard to believe Cowtown has remained such a well-kept secret to the thousands of people arriving in the Metroplex daily.

But whether your interests lie in the Cowtown of old or the culture of new, there is something just right waiting for you in Fort Worth with a friendly person ready to help you discover it.

For more information about Fort Worth, contact the Fort Worth Convention and Visitors Bureau, 415 Throckmorton, Fort Worth, Texas 76102, or call 1-800-433-5747.

Book Review Unit to meet

Staff Report

Genny Bynum

Book Review Unit of Midland Woman's Club will meet Monday at the clubhouse in Hogan Park. Social time will be 11:30 a.m. with lunch to follow at noon. For reservations call 684-6811.

Genny Bynum will present a program on "Art Media Old and New." Ms. Bynum earned a bachelor of fine arts degree from the University of Texas of the Permian Basin. She owns Midland Fine Arts Center and Gallery, where she exhibits art works and teaches children's and adults' classes.

She is a member of Palette Club, Midland Arts Association and Midland Fine Arts Club. Her art is scheduled for exhibition at Midland Community Theatre April 8-24.

En Amie club plans luncheon

Staff Report

Carol A. Scott

En Amie Review Club will meet for luncheon Wednesday at Midland Woman's Club in Hogan Park.

Guest speaker Carol A. Scott will review "I'll Take Texas," by Mary Lasswell, in honor of March being Texas History Month. Ms. Lasswell is a fourth-generation Texan.

Ms. Scott earned a master's degree in speech and education from Baylor University. She taught elementary school and is an adult Sunday school teacher at her church in Big Spring. She and her husband have five children and two grandchildren.

Soil samples show what nutrients are needed

By Deborah A. Benge

Last week we talked about soil fertility and the major plant nutrients that must be present for good plant growth and performance. To determine what kind of fertilizer a soil needs has to be based on general recommendations that may or may not fit your situation or visual symptoms, but soil testing is the only way to determine what a soil really needs in the way of nutrients.

Benge

Soil test results are only as good as the sample on which they are made. Proper collection of soil samples is extremely important. Chemical tests of poorly taken samples may actually be misleading because they do not represent the area to be cultivated.

For instance, it has been a common practice, and is still used, to make holes in the dripline of trees to place fertilizer in them. If when taking your soil sample you sample from one of these fertilizer holes, it will skew your soil sample results, not giving you a true picture of your soil situation. Another method of fertilizing in a concentrated area is called banding. Nitrogen and phosphorus are both banded in the garden sometimes. If a sampling is taken from the banded area, it will misrepresent the soils nutrient levels.

To get a representative look at your soils you need to take a composite sample for each soil difference or soil condition. Differences can be due to texture, slope, color, drainage or past treatment. For example, if one area is sandy and another is heavier (loam or clay), take two separate composite samples. (NOTE: If sample is taken from a problem area, such as bare spots in lawn, it is necessary that one composite sample come from the problem areas and one composite sample from the surrounding good area.)

A soil test is limited in what it can tell you. If grasses, vegetables or flowers die, it may be due to factors other than soil fertility. If this is the case, a soil test would be of little value, because soil test results provide information concerning the soil pH, organic matter, salt and nutrient levels. A soil sample will not tell you if there is a soil borne disease, harmful chemicals, gases or other factors present that would inhibit or prevent plant growth. If difficulties in plant growth appear to be due to one of these reasons, call the Extension Service or bring samples by.

The composite sample should be taken from each area. This can be done by taking small cores or slices of soil from 10 to 15 different places. Put these in a clean container (a plastic bucket is ideal, avoid metal buckets), mix thoroughly and take out approximately one pint for the composite sample.

When taking soil samples, use a spade, soil auger or soil sampling tube. Scrape the litter from the soil surface. Make the core or boring six inches deep in the soil. (For permanent sod or turf, sample to a depth of three to four inches). To use a spade, dig a V-shaped hole and take a one-inch slice of soil from the smooth side of the hole. Then take a 1x1-inch core from the center of the shovel slice. Repeat in 10 to 15 different places, put in a clean plastic bucket, thoroughly mix and remove a pint as a composite sample representing the field or area.

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service has a soils lab in Lubbock and does a variety of soils tests for fees that range from $10 to $25 depending on the test you select. Come by the Extension Service to pick up the forms and bags for taking soil samples. After collection soil samples you'll want to complete the information sheet on the opposite side. Enclose together with the soil testing fee in a sampled envelope and attach to the outside package containing samples so that both will reach the laboratory together. Individual soils sample cartons should be sent inside a second box of sturdy construction.

Within a couple of weeks you will get your soil sample results with recommendations. If you need further assistance in interpreting soil sample result, contact the Extension Service. So you can take the guessing out of fertilizing with a soil sample.

Bedtime reading requires few changes for girls

By Maureen Downey
N.Y. Times News Service

With apologies to children's author Maurice Sendak, I turned his plucky character Max in "Where the Wild Things Are" into Maxine. (Hold off on the Bobbitt jokes. My change was in name only.)

I also performed a gender switch on characters in "The Velveteen Rabbit," "The Runaway Bunny" and "Winnie-the-Pooh."

As a child, I loved reading and so, as an adult, I looked forward to wrapping my daughter, Molly, and myself in a quilt at bedtime and sharing all these wonderful children's books.

After book No. 5 one night, I realized that there wasn't a main female character in any of the stories. It didn't matter if the protagonist was a human, a hedgehog, a hare or a hound dog. The pronouns were "he" and "him."

It bothered me that my own "attagirl" message to Molly was sabotaged by books that limited female characters to the background or the kitchen. (In the animal kingdom, it's usually the apron that tips you off to gender. Dr. Seuss just added a pink bow to his infrequent female.)

My attempt to balance gender isn't as bold as the recent campaign by the California artists calling themselves the "Barbie Liberation Organization," who switched the voice boxes in 300 Barbie and G.I. Joe dolls. (So a baritone Barbie barks, "Eat lead, Cobra," while Joe, in a girlish falsetto, chirps, "Will I ever have enough clothes?")

But I share a goal with the BLO: Letting children know that gender roles are not straitjackets.

That lesson would seem easy to teach, yet we live in a world where male imagery prevails. And sometimes I'm part of the problem.

Even though I'm well aware that Zoo Atlanta's elephants are females, I have heard myself, to my own dismay, tell my 2-year-old son Austin, "Look how big he is!"

Feminist writer Carolyn Kernberger maintains that the he/she issue is significant, citing 16 research studies on the preponderance of male qualifiers. While we tend to view "he" and "man" as all-purpose, the research demonstrates that they produce strictly male images. One consequence is that children perceive males have a far wider range of options.

"Girls can't be firemen," Molly once chided me, after I pointed out a female firefighter. No one ever told Molly that women couldn't join fire departments, but the repeated use of "fireman" led her to that conclusion.

I've heard solemn declarations from Molly's playground pals that all dinosaurs are boys, only daddies can deliver mail, and girls can't be Ninja Turtles. (As Molly's buddy Gregory once told her, "You can be the girlfriend.")

Gender edicts abound. A week into preschool, Molly explained that girls wear pink. Except for the occasional foray into the purples, she's remained steadfast.

And it punctured my feminist ego when she announced at age 3 that she wanted pierced ears. But as a former Barbie doll devotee and cheerleader captain, I know that this, too, shall pass.

So, I'll keep reading about how "Maxine" tames the wild things. Although I confess I haven't followed Kernberger's advice and changed the pronouns in the book with a pen.

After book No. 5 one night, I realized that there wasn't a main female character in any of the stories. It didn't matter if the protagonist was a human, a hedgehog, a hare or a hound dog. The pronouns were 'he' and 'him.'

However, I'm not above fooling with a plot line. My version of Cinderella concludes: "And they lived happily ever after, once she completed MIT and earned a degree in particle physics."

In food choices, gender differences loom large

By Diane Goldner
N.Y. Times News Service

Women are more likely to eat fruit and fruit-flavored foods, and men are more likely to eat meat. Women do more nibbling, and men eat more at a sitting. When it comes to cravings, men tend to lust after entrees while women want sweets.

From cookies and candy to steak and potatoes, psychologists, marketing researchers and dietitians have discovered that taste preferences and eating habits are linked to maleness and femaleness.

The differences have consequences for product marketers. Although food companies are reluctant to discuss the divergent tastes — they prefer to say that everyone likes their products — they take the differences into account when planning advertising and product development.

At Hershey's, for instance, the knowledge that women more frequently eat small amounts led to the creation last year of Hugs, a white chocolate the size and shape of a Kiss. It is one of the most successful food introductions ever.

Celestial Seasonings, aware that 75 percent of its customers are women, runs a campaign showing a woman enjoying a "celestial evening."

Ocean Spray, on the other hand, finds that its cranberry juice is drunk by both men and women, so the company keeps promotions and ads sex neutral.

"IT'S ODD to think taste buds would be different among people in the same culture," said Harry Balzer, a vice president at the NPD Group, a consumer marketing research company that tracks food consumption habits. "I'd like to think that what I find appealing my wife would find appealing. And yet, there are things that come into play that suggest there are differences between sexes."

Take flavor. When it comes to the basics, like chocolate and vanilla, men and women are equal fans. But exotic Haagen-Daz flavors like Caramel Cone Explosion, Pralines and Cream, Triple Fudge Overload and Cappuccino Commotion are between 10 percent and 23 percent more popular with women, said David Gilman, a company spokesman. Both Haagen-Daz and Hershey have found that mint is a female flavor.

Men slightly prefer Peanut Butter Burst and Deep Chocolate Peanut Butter. "The data suggest that women are more willing to experiment," Gilman said. "Men seem to find the familiar comforting, like peanut butter."

Even here, there are plenty of exceptions. "We got a letter from a man who wanted to know if we could add mint to Triple Fudge Overload," Gilman said. "It's possible to make a hypothesis and have it all come flying back in your face."

That's what happened to Campbell Soup. After selling Chunky Soups with the slogan "How to Handle a Hungry Man" for 15 years, the company discovered that men and women consumed it in almost equal numbers. "We've kind of toned down the macho image," said Ed Russell, Campbell's director of market research.

REAL MEN, however, eat Frosted Flakes and Corn Pops, while women are more likely to eat multigrain and fruited cereal, said Katherine MacLeod, director of marketing research at Kelloggs. Chalk it up to the fruit differential. Women are 17 percent more likely than men to eat fruit, according to NPD. Similarly, Pepperidge Farm doesn't sell men many raspberry, strawberry or apricot cookies.

A male editor who didn't wish to be identified said he decided against ordering strawberries at the close of a recent business dinner. His companions, three men, were attacking large pieces of cake.

"In a sense," he said, "it wasn't worth the ridicule I'd get."

Christopher Calapai, a Manhattan physician specializing in clinical nutrition, isn't surprised. "It may sound stupid but a lot of men think" fruit is effeminate, he said. Indeed, just as the word fruit has been used as a derogatory epithet applied to gay men, certain fruits are used to describe women in approving ways, such as "strawberry complexion" or "Georgia peach."

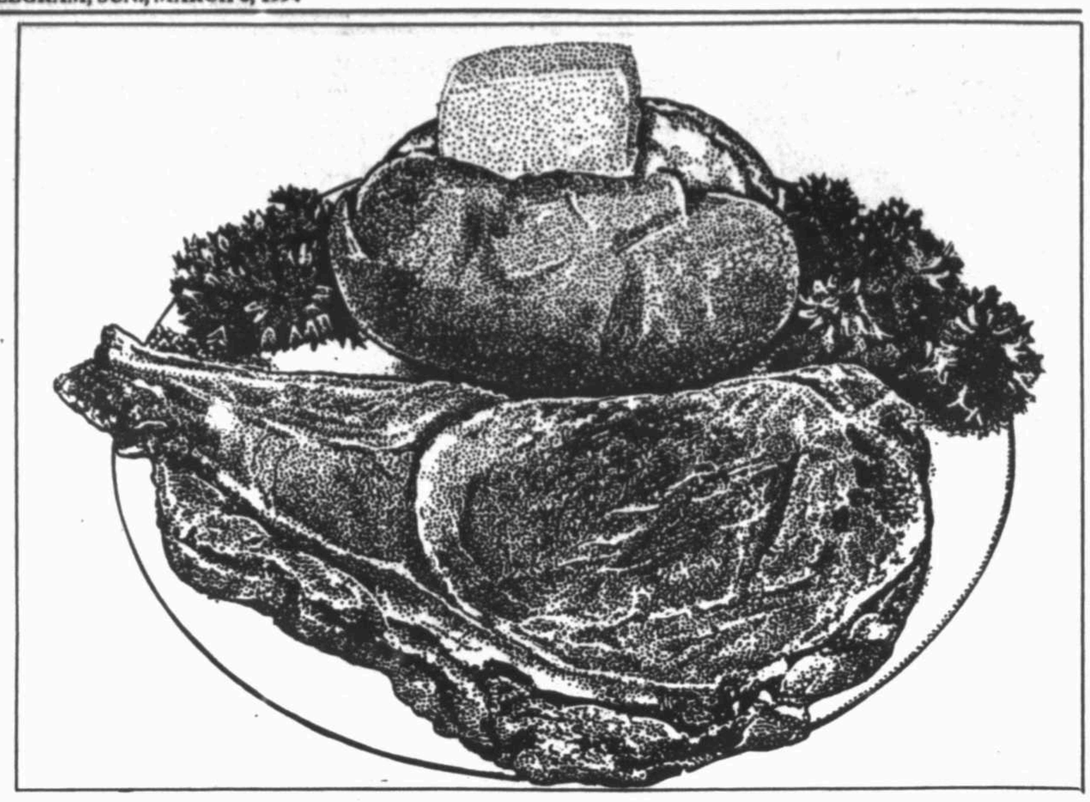

When men and women do eat fruit, apples and bananas are appealing to both sexes, according to NPD. But 50 percent more women than men would consume a cantaloupe, while men are more likely than women to eat fruit cocktail. They also are 30 percent more willing than women to eat raisins.

There is something primal about meat. By an 8 percent margin, more men than women consume beef, pork and cold cuts, according to the NPD group. Even at a four-star restaurant like Chanterelle, "Men are much more likely to order beef or venison or hearty things like soup," said a co-owner, Karen Waltuck.

AN INVESTMENT banker, Wilder Fulford, recently confessed that although he loved meeting his friends for twice-monthly steak dinners, he would never dream of taking a date to a steakhouse.

"That's for guys to go out and eat meat and smoke cigars," Fulford said. "I take dates to places like Bola or Mesa Grill."

As Alan Richmond, the food writer for GQ magazine, put it, "Boy food doesn't grow. It is hunted or killed."

Fort Worth steakhouse has restored Cowtown tradition

By Beverly Bundy
N.Y. Times News Service

FORT WORTH — Riscky's business, in recent memory at least, has been barbecue. But now the family that has put its brand on ribs and sauce throughout Fort Worth and Dallas is bringing us beef in all its western glories.

The family has moved into the spot in the historic Fort Worth Stockyards that was the home of another Polish immigrant restaurateur, Theo Yordanoff.

Riscky's Sirloin Inn is now serving up the steaks that made Theo's Saddle and Sirloin Inn a north Fort Worth institution. Theo's was in business for about 65 years before it closed in 1984. Riscky's opened in that spot at the end of last year.

The restaurant's interior has been renovated but sits firm in the saddle in Cowtown tradition. Three-dimensional fronts of blacksmith shops and saloons decorate the walls; I expected little mechanical people to come swinging through the restaurant singing "It's A Small World."

The menu mix is standard steakhouse fare ... with a few exceptions. Theo's claimed it was the first restaurant to serve calf fries (in 1920) and the little critters show up on Riscky's menu as well. They're available as an appetizer for $2.95 and as an entree for $10.95.

Another interesting offering is kapusta ($1.50 cup, $2.50 bowl), a sauerkraut soup native to Poland. The soup is included with steak meals, a terrific bonus since the soup is a nice briny mixture that resembles onion soup with a vinegar kick.

Salads are also included with entrees; opt for the vinaigrette that incorporates roasted chiles in the standard oil-and-vinegar mix.

The ribeye steak ($17.95) was cooked exactly to the medium-rare ordered. Charbroiled and to-the-tooth perfect outside, the inside was red but warm. Grilled chicken breast ($10.95), a dicey item to cook and keep moist, was well-spiced and juicy. Grilled shrimp, too, were solidly executed: spiced with dry rub and finished with an only slightly piquant sauce.

While the meat portion of the entrees were done well, every version of the potatoes we sampled needed some help. The baked potato was silky, instead of fluffy, making me wonder if perhaps it was a leftover baker that had been refrigerated and then reheated. The huge steak fries looked a little withered, also bringing up the reheating possibility. The au gratin potatoes were simply odd: a skin stuffed with fluffed potatoes and topped with melted cheese.

The beans on the side, too, were nothing special: sparingly seasoned and a tad overcooked. We would have preferred something green.

There are no separate menu offerings for children. In an area that attracts so many tourists, many of them with little buckaroos in tow, this seems a strange practice. As this mother can tell you, family outings are far more pleasant if steak-craving parents aren't forced to pony up big bucks for an adult-oriented meal a child will barely touch.

Service was disjointed. Pleasantly polite at first, our waitress then began to hover and ask our opinion on every course. We were eating an early dinner when the restaurant was less than busy, so perhaps she was a little lonely.

By leaning on its strengths — terrific steak, solid chicken offerings, great sauerkraut soup — Riscky's could begin another beefy tradition in the Stockyards. The kitchen slip-ups, I'm certain, are simply the birthing pains that come along with opening a new restaurant.

Vegetable oil doesn't change 'healthiness' of french fries

By Marian Burros
N.Y. Times News Service

Since 1990, the fast-food industry has been cooking french fries in hydrogenated vegetable oil instead of beef tallow and tropical oils. The industry made the change, to public acclaim, because the prevailing scientific opinion was that vegetable oils were healthier than the other oils. Vegetable oil contains less of the fats that increase the bad cholesterol in the blood, the low-density lipoproteins, or LDLs.

But in the last few years, evidence has been growing that the hydrogenation process, which among other things prevents spoilage, not only increases the amount of saturated fat in the oil but also produces trans fats, which, like saturated fat, increase the bad cholesterol. In other words, hydrogenated vegetable oil turns out to be no better than beef tallow.

A study done by the Department of Agriculture, to be published in April, will confirm not only that a diet containing trans fats raises LDLs, but also lowers the good cholesterol, or high density lipoproteins (HDLs).

Nonetheless, many fast-food companies have trumpeted the use of "100 percent vegetable oil." Now they are coming under fire for this claim.

THE NUTRITION Labeling and Education Act, which takes effect in May, says the phrase "100 percent vegetable oil," is an implied health claim because people think it means the product is low in saturated fat. Under the new regulations, the phrase will be prohibited if a food contains more than one gram of saturated fat per serving.

Attorneys General from seven states, lead by New York, have been talking to some of the fast-food companies about their use of the phrase "cooked in 100 percent vegetable oil." The problem was brought to their attention by a report from the Center for Science in the Public Interest, a Washington-based advocacy group. It tested foods last fall for their saturated fat and trans fat content and discovered just how much artery-clogging fat is produced because of the hydrogenation process.

In a more recent test last week that confirmed the findings, The Living Section sent french fries from four fast-food chains to an independent laboratory to see how they compared to fries cooked in beef tallow.

The test found that french fries from Burger King, McDonald's and Wendy's contained just about as much artery-clogging fat as fries cooked in beef tallow. Only Roy Rogers potatoes contained much less of this kind of fat.

After conversations with the attorneys general, Wendy's said it would stop using the phrase "100 percent vegetable oil." Denny Lynch, director of public relations, said: "We've been told it's not vegetable oil. Seven state attorneys general got together and asked us to remove the claim. If it's partially hydrogenated, they said we need to label it as such. So we are taking it off the fry cartons and we'll take it off the nutrition labels and change it to say partially hydrogenated vegetable oil."

MICHAEL EVANS, a spokesman for Burger King, said the "100 percent vegetable oil" claim was removed last fall. "It's not a point of product differentiation for us," he said.

McDonald's said it would remove the labeling from its french fries before the Nutrition Labeling and Education Act goes into effect on May 8. Roy Rogers never claimed to use 100 percent vegetable oil.

Sweeten homemade bread with sugar swirl

By Nancy Byal
Associated Press

A sweet ribbon of brown sugar laces its way through this wholesome wheat and rye bread.

WHEAT SWIRL BREAD

4½ to 5 cups all-purpose flour
2 packages active dry yeast
2 cups milk
½ cup honey
¼ cup margarine or butter
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg
1 cup whole-wheat flour
½ cup rye flour
½ cup toasted wheat germ
¼ cup margarine or butter, softened
⅓ cup packed brown sugar

In a medium mixing bowl combine 2 cups of the all-purpose flour and the yeast; set aside. In a medium saucepan heat milk, honey, ¼ cup margarine or butter, and salt until warm (120 degrees F to 130 degrees F) and margarine is melted. Add milk mixture to flour mixture; add egg. Beat with an electric mixer on low speed for 30 seconds, scraping bowl constantly. Beat on high for 3 minutes. Using a wooden spoon, stir in wheat and rye flours, wheat germ and as much remaining all-purpose flour as you can.

Turn dough out onto a lightly floured surface. Knead in enough all-purpose flour to make a moderately stiff dough (6 to 8 minutes). Place in a greased bowl; turn once. Cover and let rise in a warm place until nearly double (1¼ hours).

Punch dough down. Turn dough out onto a lightly floured surface; divide in half. Cover; let rest for 10 minutes. Roll each half to a 15-inch square. Spread with softened margarine; sprinkle with brown sugar. Roll up jelly-roll style; cut into thirds. Seal ends; place in six greased 5½x3x2-inch pans. Cover; let rise in a warm place until double (about 45 minutes). Bake in a 350-degree F oven about 30 minutes or until loaves sound hollow when tapped. Remove from pans. Cool on wire racks. Makes 6 small loaves (48 servings total).

Wedding & Engagement Announcements

Thank you for your interest in sharing your special day with the Midland Reporter-Telegram. We offer you the opportunity to celebrate in two ways.

The first option provides you with a complimentary listing about your engagement or wedding. Forms for complimentary announcements are available from our Lifestyle Department.

Our second option gives you the opportunity to publish a larger photo and provide more detailed information about your engagement or wedding announcement by purchasing space. There are a variety of sizes for you to choose from and information on how to order is available by calling us.

Ordering your special paid announcement is easy. Decide which size you wish to purchase (keep in mind that there are approximately 30 words per inch of space for your copy). Third, decide how much you want to spend. Finally, bring your completed write-up and your photo to the Midland Reporter-Telegram's advertising department. Your announcement will be edited to fit the space you request. Remember to bring payment or your charge card when placing your order.

If you have any questions or would like more information on our engagement and wedding listings, please call Mary Hardin at (915) 687-8887 or the retail advertising department, (915) 682-5311.

Museum features 'The Wild West'

By Janet Tyson
N.Y. Times News Service

FORT WORTH, Texas — There are at least two fruitful ways to view the Amon Carter Museum's "The Time of the Buffalo."

One is to see it as a show about representation — about artistic style and attitude and the way they influence our thinking about content, about accuracy and the extent to which pictures do or don't reflect the real world.

The other is to see it as a visual essay about an ecological disaster — the near-annihilation of the American bison in the late 19th century.

"Time of the Buffalo" includes more than 100 prints, drawings, paintings, sculptures and photographs, chosen from the Carter's permanent collection by Rick Stewart, the museum's curator of Western painting and sculpture.

The exhibit also presents maps and wall texts documenting the destruction of an animal central to the livelihood of mountain and plains Indians. In their reliance upon the bison, many Native Americans became part of an ecosystem that endured for centuries.

Not surprisingly, though, the tendency for an art critic is to dwell on representation when looking at these images of the massive, woolly beast.

What you need to know to go

"The Time of the Buffalo"

- Continuing through May 8: At the Amon Carter Museum, 3501 Camp Bowie Blvd., Fort Worth.
- Museum hours: 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, noon-5 p.m. Sunday.
- Admission: Free.
- Information: (817) 738-1933

The differences and similarities in depictions of the bison are fascinating, becoming variations on a theme or motif.

Albert Bierstadt's hand-colored photogravure "The Last of the Buffalo" (1891) reflects a position — at the time officially adopted by the U.S. government — blaming Native Americans for the animal's extinction. The picture shows Indians wantonly running down the "last" of the straggling animals, with several dead bison littering the foreground.

Perhaps a bit more innocently, and in much earlier works, we also see European artists who never set foot in the New World attempt to depict its flora and fauna.

Working from verbal descriptions, they concocted a wide range of improbable creatures, among them two prints by unknown artists (1796 and 1801), in which the bison's head becomes almost a satanic mask. These images reflect French missionary Pere Marquette's description of bison as "bouefs sauvages."

Then there is Johann Rudolph Holzhalb's etching (circa 1790) of a surly animal with superhero shoulders and Lyle Lovett hair.

George Catlin's "Buffalo Hunt, Chase No. 5" also seems unintentionally humorous, with its stereotypically savage Indian on his snorting horse, pulling up to an immense, shaggy bison. The hunted animal looks back in goggle-eyed apprehension as it apparently floats across the prairie, all four feet off the ground, casting a blimplike shadow.

Like Catlin, Karl Bodmer traveled the Great Plains and closely observed Native American ways of life. But his pictures seem to reflect a more scrupulous eye for detail. In an intaglio print titled "Magic Pile Erected by the Assiniboin Indians" (1840-44), he painstakingly documents an altarlike structure erected, perhaps, to commemorate a successful hunt from the past and/or to anticipate one in the future.

Not all of the imagery is by Europeans and European-Americans, though. A drawing from an album (1876) by the Cheyenne warrior Buffalo Meat schematically evokes the hunt. A 19th-century stone pipe in the stylized form of a bison, attributed to a Cheyenne artist, blends abstraction with appropriate detail.

The exhibit closes with photographs by various artists, and paintings and bronzes by Charles M. Russell. During the turn of the century, Russell romantically portrayed the time of the buffalo as he imagined it must have been.

His nostalgia is reflected, as well, in Edward S. Curtis' photograph "Buffalo Dancers" (1921). Stewart calls the picture dreamlike in its darkly toned, soft-focus evocation of Native American buffalo culture.

Perhaps the most eloquent object associated with the exhibition, though, is not an artwork and not actually in the show. It's the bleached bison skull on the stair landing to the mezzanine galleries.

But there's no getting away from the sculptural elegance of the skull. Looking at this aesthetically pleasing artifact of a once-living creature is chilling: It seems to tell us that, in the Western tradition, art is generally made at the expense of nature.

DEAR ABBY

Wives abused by husbands can't always cut and run

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: About the Lorena Bobbitt case: I am a 60-year-old woman, and her story is nothing new to me. I have been married for nearly 40 years to a man who is well-thought-of in the community and who has provided well for me and our family, but if he was ever denied anything in bed, it was a different story. He would throw things, slam doors, take off in the car; then come back still angry, and tell me I didn't understand a man's needs.

Van Buren

Rather than risk being embarrassed if the neighbors heard us, or risk upsetting the children, I would give in. I never refused him. He was far from gentle. He thought it was manly to take whatever he wanted. That's the way he got full enjoyment. It was more like rape. If I complained, he would start all over again even though I was worn out and exhausted.

He kept saying I was stupid and didn't understand a man's "needs." The problem was, he didn't understand mine. And he didn't care.

I can understand Mrs. Bobbitt's feelings. If I had had the courage, I might have done what she did. I assure you, I'm not the only woman who has had such thoughts. I have always wanted to tell someone this, but I was too ashamed.

Thanks, Abby. I feel better for having gotten this out of my system. — GEORGIA (MY STATE, NOT MY NAME)

DEAR GEORGIA: That's what I'm here for. Unfortunately, we will never know how many other women continue to live in abusive situations because they have neither the courage nor the means to leave.

DEAR ABBY: Could you please deliver a message to the other 49 states from California?

"DEAR 49: For the past couple of weeks, you've been asking, 'How can you stand to live where they have earthquakes?'

"This, from those of you freezing in the Northeast, where the cold has killed more people than our earthquake. Or those of you in the Midwest, where tornadoes kill more people every year than our earthquakes do in a decade. Or the Southeast, where hurricanes regularly rearrange the landscape.

"In addition to earthquakes, natural disasters include searing heat, freezing cold, droughts, floods, fires, hail, hurricanes, tornadoes, tidal waves, volcanoes and lightning strikes. Not one of you lives in a place that is immune to all of these.

"You are entitled to your preferences. In fact, I'm glad so many of you don't want to live in California — it's crowded enough as it is.

"But I'm entitled to my preferences, too, which are at least as sensible as yours. Before you toss that next stone my way, you might check the structural soundness of your own glass house!" — SHARI PRANGE

DEAR SHARI: Right on — you took the words right out of my typewriter.

DEAR ABBY: Unlike "Feeling Hurt in Bridgeport, Conn.," whose fiance told her that the diamond ring he was giving her was the same one he had given to a former girlfriend, my ex-husband, who had been previously engaged, swore to me that he was giving me a brand-new diamond ring because he knew it was important to me.

Abby, I wore the ring for 30 years, and after eight children and a bitter divorce, my eldest daughter (who now has it) told me it is the same ring he had given to the girl he was engaged to before he met me.

Evidently he thought it was a huge joke. Sign me ... NOT LAUGHING

AT WIT'S END

Dorothy is new inspiration

By Erma Bombeck

Something astounding happened at Lillehammer during the Olympics that may change life as we know it for women over 50.

Bombeck

A little white-haired lady, who has never had her teeth capped, worn lip-liner, had major reconstruction, and whose name isn't Cokie, Meredith, Lesley or Connie, went right through the glass ceiling of broadcasting and kept going.

I'm talking about David Letterman's mom, Dorothy. In an industry where the on-camera talent is all beginning to look alike (male and female), she was a breath of fresh air.

Now I know how men felt when Nolan Ryan went to the pitcher's mound season after season like the Energizer bunny.

The elderly correspondent from Indiana didn't care if her stomach hung out or her wrinkles showed in the close-ups; she was as genuine as it gets.

There were none of the asinine questions posed by the other reporters. Example: A guy has trained 16 years for the downhill skiing event, getting up early in the mornings and coming home late at night. His entire life has been built around the dream of competing in the Olympics. His moment comes. He pushes off from the platform and leaves one ski behind. He is disqualified three seconds later. It's all over. A reporter sticks a microphone in his face and asks, "How do you feel?"

Dorothy's questions to the first lady, Hillary Clinton, were not so predictable. She didn't waste time asking if she was enjoying herself or how she felt. She got right to it. If she was indeed talking to the second most powerful person in the land, could she fix New Jersey traffic tickets for her son?

Was all this just a gimmick, or will we see more elderly women on television? If extra chins bother viewers, they forgive Charles Kuralt for his. If gray hair is objectionable, maybe Dan Rather better hit the Grecian Formula.

Not since another Dorothy came out of Kansas and led us all down the yellow brick road have we been filled with such hope.

I'm not saying it will happen overnight. Dorothy from Indiana may have burst into millions of homes throughout the world, gotten great reviews, asked all the right questions and earned the admiration of everyone who saw her. But Dorothy does not have a separate identity yet. She is still David Letterman's mom.

Boomer women earn better pay

By Lisa M. Krieger
N.Y. Times News Service

SAN FRANCISCO — Baby boomer women have narrowed the male-female wage gap that plagued their working mothers and grandmothers, according to a government researcher.

"The baby boomer generation of women is very different from past generations of women," said Suzanne M. Bianchi of the Census Bureau's Population Division.

"They are much more likely to have delayed marriage and children, and pursued a college educations; there has truly been a dramatic change," Bianchi said, speaking to a Wednesday session of the American Association for the Advancement of Science at its annual meeting.

In the 1980s, the wage gap narrowed significantly after two decades of little change. Women earned 71 cents for every dollar men earned in 1990, up from about 60 cents in the decade of the 1960s to 1970s.

It was during this decade that baby boomer women — who range in age from 25 to 44 — began to hit mid-career, traditionally a time of peak earning capacity.

By mid-career, they had racked up more years on the job than their mothers and grandmothers. This helped boost their earnings, because their careers tended to be continuous and were less likely to have been postponed or interrupted by marriage and child-rearing.

FIRST-PLACE WINNERS

Spring Show artists display work

Watercolorist Joyce Jones of Lamesa traces her love of art back to childhood.

"It goes back to Crayolas," Mrs. Jones said. "I was fascinated with colors."

Mrs. Jones is among the first place winners in Midland Arts Association's Spring Show, which is hanging at the Museum of the Southwest, 1705 W. Missouri Ave., through April 17.

The biannual show was juried by Midland artist Tom Ryan, who is a member of the Cowboy Artists of America and the National Academy of Western Art.

"I thought it was a neat show overall," Ryan said, adding that he found the watercolor division to contain the most diversity and that he was "overwhelmed" by the number of artists from this area who entered the show.

"I was surprised at the number of artists there are in this area, and I think it's just wonderful that they all get together for a show of this type.

"It's more of a gathering of artists, and God bless the museum for exhibiting them. When you think of that many artists from the area getting together, it's kind of family like. I think it's a great idea."

The other first-place winners in the MAA show were all Midlanders. Joyce Howell received first in the graphics division for her charcoal entitled "French Lieutenant's Woman"; Jack Stanley received first place in the photography division for his photograph entitled "Old Cabin"; and Doris Spires, this year's Celebration of the Arts featured artist, received first place in the oil division for her work entitled "Waterfall — East Fork."

For Mrs. Howell, the show marks the first she has entered. An art student at the University of Texas of the Permian Basin, Mrs. Howell submitted her work because she was encouraged to do so by a UTPB art professor.

"Pam Price, one of my instructors, encourages us to enter competitions for experience and to get our work out," Mrs. Howell said, adding that it was "great" to place first in the graphics category and she felt "very encouraged."

Although Mrs. Howell has "always" been interested in art, her first undergraduate degree is in business.

"I always wish I had done more with my art. So, in the last couple of years I have been doing more studying."

Currently, she said she is "doing a variety of things.

"In school you're forced to do some experimenting in various media," said Mrs. Howell, who has two school-age daughters. "This year, most of the work I've done has been in charcoal, pastel and pencil."

Her goal is to complete a master's in fine arts.

"I would like to be qualified to teach on the college level, but mostly I would like to be independent with my art," Mrs. Howell said.

Mrs. Jones would also like to "support" herself painting.

"I have my work in a gallery now, but I don't support myself painting," said Mrs. Jones, whose work can be found at The Old Pecos Gallery, Carlsbad, N.M., and The Frame Gallery, Lubbock. "My husband supports me, but as of the last few years I can contribute."

The mother of two grown children — Mrs. Gerald "Debbie" Nobles of Midland and Vance Jones of San Angelo — Mrs. Jones, who is a member of the West Texas Watercolor Society and whose work has been included in the Lubbock Art Festival March 25, took time off from her painting while her children were growing up.

"After the family grew up, I became interested in art again and started taking classes with C. Warren Cullar, and I have a lot of self teaching," said Mrs. Jones, who also took an art class at the Lubbock Garden and Arts Center under Mario Cooper, then president of the Student Art League in New York.

"He was a real help to me," she said of Cooper. "In that class, he taught about grid and getting the de-

Texas becomes field of dreams for child Thespians

By Karen Thompson
Associated Press

DALLAS — So, what's a child to do when Hollywood comes calling?

For several young Texans, the answer's simple — answer the call.

Five young actors, all under the age of nine, recently were plucked from Dallas' pool of aspiring Thespians to star in Steven Spielberg's "The Little Rascals."

Kevin Woods, 7, of Dallas, who also starred in last year's "Perfect World" with Kevin Costner, was picked for the role of Stymie. Five-year-old Travis Tedford of Garland bagged the role of Spanky and 8-year-old Bug Hall, of Dallas will play Alfalfa.

"About 300 people showed up for that casting call," said Kathy Tiner, president of KD Studio Actors Conservatory. "We actually had five picked, including Bug Hall's younger brother, but two were later cut." Production on the film started in January.

Nick Stahl, a KD Studio alum, starred opposite Mel Gibson in the 1993 film "Man without a Face." His performance received very positive reviews, Ms. Tiner said.

Another young Dallasite, Jacob Parker, was only five when he was picked to star in CBS' "Evening Shade" as Burt Reynolds' youngest son about three years ago.

"He (Parker) loves it," Ms. Tiner said. "He likes to sleep late and likes to work late. Some kids can't handle that."

A recent open call in Dallas lured about 80 young men hoping to star opposite Michelle Pfeiffer in an upcoming Disney film called "My Posse Don't Do Homework." The role required a bilingual, Hispanic male 16 to 19 with an attractive, streetwise look.

Although 19 was the maximum age requirement, some aspirants were as old as 30. But, many felt showing up for the call was worth a try.

What makes young Texans so appealing? 'We believe they (Hollywood) come to Texas because we have a large available talent pool.'

KD studie

Angel Fernandez, 24, confessed to having little acting experience. He said that urgings from his girlfriend and her sister led him to answer the call.

"You never know," Fernandez said. "I don't gamble, but hey, you just never know."

Small groups standing in the brisk Saturday morning air nervously joked about their chances, while others sat inside a "holding" room practicing their streetwise looks.

"Who knows, this could be my way to 'Wheel of Fortune,'" joked 26-year-old waiter John Fernandez.

Warner Bros. Inc. recently put out the call in Houston for a sexy, streetwise young actor to play Batman's sidekick, Robin, in the third "Batman" movie. Tryouts will be March 12 at Houston's High School for the Performing and Visual Arts. And holy great biceps, the studio wants a hunky, well-built Boy Wonder, 5-feet-nine or under.

What makes young Texans so appealing?

"We believe they (Hollywood) come to Texas because we have a large available talent pool," Ms. Tiner said.

The Texas film industry in recent years has enjoyed renewed success with Hollywood. Producers and directors have been drawn to the state's flexible location potential, skilled crews and lower production costs.

Ms. Tiner said that the cheaper production costs have made Dallas a choice area for filming commercials. These productions have proven to be perfect venues for young actors to hone their skills.

Casting director Rody Kent says neither Dallas nor Texas in general has been singled out by Hollywood, just fortunate.

"They've gone all over, including Atlanta, Florida and other places," Ms. Kent said. "But, the naturalness of young actors in the Dallas area has been cited as an attractive feature."

Spring Show is on display at museum

The Midland Arts Association's Spring Show is on display through April 17 at the Museum of the Southwest, 1705 W. Missouri Ave., and through March 28 at the Midland Woman's Club, Hogan Park.

The show was juried by Midland artist Tom Ryan, a member of the Cowboy Artists of America and the National Academy of Western Art.

Winners in the oil category included Doris Spires, first place, "Waterfall — East Fork"; Greg Price, second place, "Wintery Evening"; Mary Rasmussen, third place, "Oriental Vase With Sunflowers"; and Don Parks and Charles Pruitt, honorable mentions.

Winners in the watercolor category included Joyce Jones, first place, "Taylor County Home"; Dorothy Baird, second place, "Early Snow"; Ann McCoy, third place, "Color Etude"; and James Campbell, Rene Wojcik, Ann McCoy, Dorothy Baird, Mary Rasmussen and Herb Cooper, honorable mentions.

Winners in the graphics division included Joyce Howell, first place, "French Lieutenant's Woman"; Mary Lambeth second place for "Morning Stubble" and third place for "Pine Cone From Hell"; and Christine Scott, honorable mention.

Winners in the photography division included Jack Stanley, first place, "Old Cabin"; Jane Stephenson, second place, "Profussion"; Olivia Hill, third place, "Angles Unaware"; and Peronneau Matthews, honorable mention.

The Midland Gallery Award for Color went to Charles Pruitt for "Sunshine Snow, Durango." This painting also received Best of Show.

The Paint and Palette Award for Realism went to Dorothy Baird for "Early Snow."

Individuals and businesses who helped make the show possible, include M. Elizabeth Locker, Tom Brown Inc., Discovery Operating Inc., Permian Production Equipment Inc., Henry Petroleum, Parker & Parsley Development Co., Jack Sherman Chevrolet-Geo-Buick-Mazda, Charlotte and John Seay, EXXON, Co., USA, Yale E. Key, Inc., Marathon Oil Co., Inc., and Kerr, Fitzgerald & Kerr LLP Atty.

Serving as show chairpersons were Doris Spires and Charlotte Seay. The reception chairpersons were Wanda Steen and Virginia Rachel.

sign on the paper properly."

Also instrumental in her art background was reading the book, "Drawing from the Right Side of the Brain," Mrs. Jones said, adding that the support of her husband, Johnny, has been invaluable as well.

Although she paints a variety of subjects including landscapes and florals, her favorite is porches.

"Not weather-beaten porches. I don't want weather-beaten things. I just like to capture a mood of the good times on the porch. I try to catch the time of day late in the afternoon when there was a lot of joy and peace and a lot of neighborhood gatherings on the front porch."

Receiving first place in the photography division caught Stanley by surprise.

"I kind of do traditional type of photography and sometimes it doesn't go across well and, on the other hand, sometimes it does," Stanley said. "I've won some awards before at some of the shows. Sometimes, I don't even get accepted and sometimes I do OK."

Stanley, who dreamed of being an astronaut or a jet fighter pilot and was more interested in science and technical subjects than art as a child, first dabbled in photography in 1964 when he was in college and was a member of the annual staff. At the time, he had to learn how to print black and white photographs for his section of the annual.

"I dropped out of it for a while, but I always found it interesting," said Stanley, a geologist by profession who is the exploration manager at Mitchell Energy.

Then, in the early 1970s, Stanley and a friend, Bill Burkett, became involved in taking astral photographs through a telescope.

"We found out rather quickly that we couldn't get reasonably decent prints of that type of photo so we went in together and bought equipment," Stanley said. "One thing led to another."

Next, Stanley found himself entering camera club competitions and discovering his interests moved away from astral photography and into "the regular photography." In 1986, he began taking formal photography classes from Midland College photography instructor Kent Moss.

"He teaches photography at least in part as an art form," said Stanley, whose wife, Frankie, he credits with having artistic talent with a camera as well. The couple has two sons, Steven, 23, a graduate of Texas A&M, and Patrick, 21, a student at Texas A&M.

"He (Kent Moss) encouraged me to start exhibiting more and get more involved in photography as an art," said Stanley, who has "followed up" on some of his "other dreams" by acquiring a private pilot's license. "I began entering more contests and art shows, and I've even been selling a few of my works at Celebration of the Arts over the last 5 years."

Also placing first in MAA's spring show was Midland artist Charles N. Pruitt, who was awarded Best of Show as well as receiving the Midland Gallery Award for Color for his oil "Sunshine Snow, Durango."

"I was excited because I didn't know it until I walked in the door, and I certainly wasn't expecting to receive an award, much less Best of Show," Pruitt said of his reaction to receiving this honor. "I was pretty excited."

Pruitt has had an interest in art all his life, "from grade school all the way through.

"I had an uncle that was an artist, and he exposed me to painting on the easel," said Pruitt whose work is in galleries in Tucson and Segovia, Ariz., Breckenridge, Colo., Montana and Florida. "Then I sold my first painting in 1968 here in Midland, and I think now I've sold close to 800 paintings in Midland in those 25 years."

An independent landman, Pruitt describes himself as an impressionist and said he prefers to work in the plain air method.

"I'm using interpretation of the effect of light to produce a style that I consider spontaneous and honest," said Pruitt, who leaves Tuesday for the 26th annual Charles M. Russell Show in Great Falls, Mont., where he is a featured artist and for the second consecutive year, one of 25 quick draw artists.

"We have 30 minutes to do a painting, and then they auction it off," Pruitt said. "It's a nerve racking; it's a lot of pressure. There's people around you talking and all kinds of noise going on. Then you have the pressure of trying to do a good painting that will be worthy of selling."

Still, Pruitt finds the event "a lot of fun, and that's the main thing."

He was impressed, as were the other artists, with the quality of the art at this year's MAA Spring Show.

"We've got some of the best art that I've ever seen at one of the MAA shows," Pruitt said. "I think people are getting more talented and better equipped with knowledge of the arts. The competition is getting fierce."

HOROSCOPE

SUNDAY, MARCH 6, 1994

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Greater confidence will help you find increased success at work, greater happiness at home. The fires of love burn bright for all who are open to romance. In summer, another person's achievements influence your own. Next fall, changes in the economy help you boost profits. The wider your social circle, the more valuable the contacts you will make. Be patient when trying to do business with a prominent individual.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: poet Elizabeth Barrett Browning, Pittsburgh Pirates great Willie Stargell, "Amen" actress Anna Maria Horsford, director Rob Reiner.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Stop feeling guilty for something that was not your fault. Your strong romantic feelings will be reciprocated in the future. A certain amount of leisure time is vital for good health.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Taking a realistic view of a problem may encourage others to do likewise. An admirer is eager to get on your good side. What you desire is yours for the asking!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): A good day to review recent events and consider the effect they will have on your future. Spending time in a restful setting will give you a whole new perspective.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You should be able to obtain wholehearted cooperation from your friends now. Worries begin to subside. Show a new, happier face to the world. Try out some of your innovative ideas at home.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): If unsure what your partner's reaction will be, ask some questions first. This can prevent a grave error. Conserve your money for now. Major purchases are best postponed.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): An unfamiliar or distant locale could hold special allure today. Socializing will bring good fortune. Be loyal to your friends. Turn a cold shoulder to someone who tries to spread unkind gossip.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Make up your mind to be in a good mood today. A positive attitude helps you take the lead in social situations. Count on your loved ones to stand up for their rights.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Let go of some self-control and join in the fun of the day. Influential people affect your plans in a constructive way. An important communication arrives from a romantic interest. Reply promptly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): A promise may be fulfilled today. Make better use of the power at your command. Choose pleasant, relaxing surroundings for a reunion with an old friend or former lover.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Plan activities that several different generations can enjoy. Certain chores will not wait. Do your duty before going out to seek fun. Act friendly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Seek an out-of-the-way place to relax and unwind today. Matters related to your private world are coming to the foreground. These are subjects that are not for public view.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A fine day to travel or visit. Call someone you have neglected lately. Submit a clever idea for an influential person's consideration. Tell some jokes; see the lighter side of life.

TODAY'S CHILDREN are intelligent and sensitive — with a special gift for predicting future events. Praise will work better than criticism in motivating these youngsters. Parents can expect them to be slightly possessive of their friends and toys. Many of these Pisces will show a creative flair at an early age. A career in the arts is very likely later on. Encourage their ambitions.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ten of ♠

Keeping count is the key to winning bridge. Not only of the distribution, but aiso of high-card points. This hand is from a pair tournament in Rye, N.Y.

Note West's pass of the opening bid of one no trump. In the modern style, a double of a one-no-trump opening shows the ability to defeat the contract in hand. For example, you might double with a seven-card minor suit headed by Q J 10 and two outside aces, even though the point-count is only 11. With the equivalent of a no-trump opening bid, pass and see how the bidding develops.

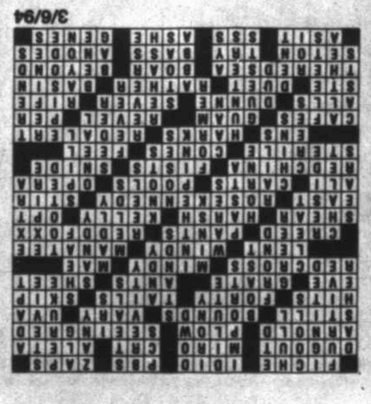

Sitting East-West respectively were Myrna Bachiochi and Harold Feldheim, of Hamden, Conn. Feldheim led the ten of spades, showing zero or two higher cards in the suit. East rose with the king and returned the six, covered by the seven and won by the eight.

Since declarer was known to have a minimum of 15 points for the no-trump opening, all the high cards were accounted for, so West found the deceptive switch to the jack of clubs, ducked to the ace. East encouraged with the eight. Declarer crossed to the jack of diamonds, which held and led a heart to the queen, losing to the king.

Trading on the illusion he had created, West continued by leading the three of clubs. Expecting to find the ten with West, declarer finessed the nine. The result was disastrous.

East won the ten and reverted to a spade, allowing her partner to score two more tricks in that suit. When the smoke cleared, the defenders had collected four spades, two clubs and a trick in each red suit, for down two and an absolute top.

Artists: Vietnamese learn America's anguish

HANOI, Vietnam (AP) — Through works by American artists, some of them veterans trying to exorcise demons, Vietnamese are learning they were not the only ones who suffered from the grotesque aberration of war.

A young woman gasped aloud and covered her mouth with a hand upon seeing "War Baby," a mangled black-red body in the hand of an anguished, imploring soldier. It was painted by a Vietnam War protester, Benny Andrews, who said the war "just bled into my work."

The painting is one of 82 works in the show, "As Seen by Both Sides: American and Vietnamese Artists Look at the War." The show opened on the faded ochre walls of Hanoi's National Fine Arts Museum in January after a widely attended three-year tour in the United States.

There are other reminders of the fighting in the 1960s and 1970s: the rubble of U.S. bombing, the tail of a U.S. warplane protruding from a pond, an Army museum, the air raid sirens that still daily sound at noon.

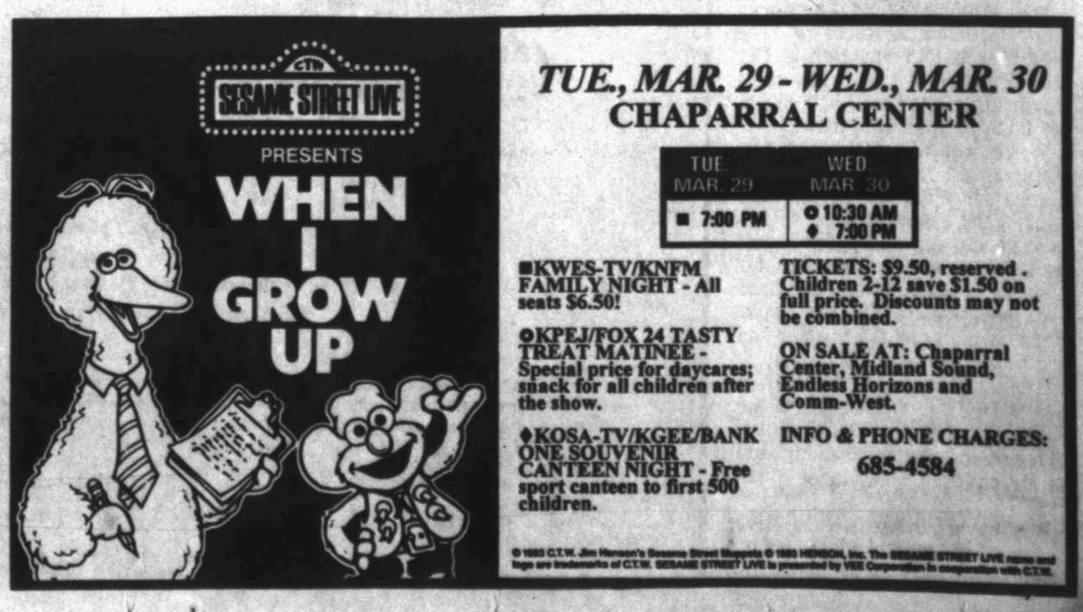

Almost all the Vietnamese work was done by veterans. But many of the paintings were done during the war to rally people to the cause, and they romanticize the conflict.

The Vietnamese are the heroes.

By contrast, the American works are explosions of blood and fire: a "Napalmed Head" with its searing, black screams; "Peace," a bloody Christ-like figure hanging from the blades of a helicopter gunship.

The Vietnamese are the victims.

Through these works, ordinary Vietnamese for the first time have the chance to see the extent to which a war that their leaders had taught them to accept was so passionately and painfully repudiated by the other side.

ENTERTAINMENT IN BRIEF

■ Annual show held

The Eighth Annual Kimble County Gun, Knife, Coin and Indian Artifacts Show will be held April 16 and 17 at the Coke Stevenson Center, a mile north of Junction on U.S. 83-377.

The show is being held in conjunction with the Spring turkey season.

Sponsored by the Kimble County Senior Citizens Foundation, the show will be open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. that Saturday and from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. that Sunday.

Trade tables are $20. Exhibitors may set up from 2 to 8 p.m. April 15, as 24 hour security is provided.

A giant outdoor flea market will be held in conjunction with the show. Exhibitors may choose either a covered space for $12.50 or an uncovered space for $10.

Anyone wishing to reserve an exhibitor's table for the gun show or a booth for the flea market needs to contact Roy Cooper at 720 Main St., Junction, Texas 76849 or at (915) 446-3361 as soon as possible as spaces are limited.

■ Workshop planned

A five day watercolor workshop titled "Painting People in Watercolor — a Design Approach" is open for registration at the Hill Country Arts Foundation in Ingram, to be taught by Alex Powers of Myrtle Beach, S.C.

The class on April 11-15 is more about the students' personal painting styles and designs than it is about technique and subject matter. Although figure and portrait models will be used, students may paint from their own non-people subjects in the class.

The workshop will include slide lectures and demonstrations plus critiques of class work and of paintings done outside of class. Individual consultations will be held with each student.

Powers has won Best of Show Awards in national watercolor competitions, and is a member of the American Watercolor Society. His boo, "Painting People in Watercolor, a Design Approach" was published by Watson-Guptill. Articles about the artist have been published in "The Artist's Magazine" and in "American Artist."

A limited number of places are available in Powers' class and tuition is $225 plus model fee. Class will be held at the H.C.A.F. on Hwy. 39 West in Ingram from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. in the Duncan-McAshan Visual Art Center.

For a Spring Art Workshop flyer or more registration information, call the H.C.A.F. Art Department at (915) 367-5120 weekdays.

■ Musical trubute set

"Patsy, the Life & Times of Patsy Cline," a musical tribute to the famed 1950s country singer, will be presented again by the Point Theatre Friday at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Kerville as a fundraiser for the Hill Country Arts Foundation and season ticket sale kick-off.

The original musical revue of Patsy Cline's music and career was written by Susan Balentine, H.C.A.F. theatre director, with Terri Sharp; and was first performed in the Point Theatre's outdoor amphitheater in Ingram in September 1993.

The September run of the show was a popular success for the Point Theatre. The cast, staff and board members received repeated requests to produce "Patsy, the Life & Times of Patsy Cline" again. All proceeds from the fundraiser will benefit the H.C.A.F., a non-profit educational arts organization.

The one-time performance on March 11 will be at 8 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Harper Road in Kerrville. The evening will include a cash bar and social time beginning at 6:30 p.m., and a dance following the show.

Tickets are $15 per person or $25 per couple. Seating is limited and all seating in the Hall is general admission (no reserved seats).

■ Rattlesnake Races set

22nd Annual World Championship Rattlesnake Races will be held March 19th and 20th in Old San Patricio located 30 miles Northwest of Corpus Christi on FM 666 from 10 a.m. until dark.

There will be games and contests for all ages: egg-catching, human wheelbarrow races, sack hops, 3 and 4 legged races, spiderman races, egg and spoon races, boot races, etc., with prizes for winners of each event. All games are free, except for the Snake Races, which cost $25 to enter and are limited to age 18 and over.

Registration is at the Games Booth. Daily admission fees to the Snake Grounds are $5 for adults, $4 for senior citizens 55 and up and $2 for children 6-12, under 6 are free.

Beef barbeque sandwiches, BBQ turkey legs, smoked sausage, fried rattlesnake, and liquid refreshments will be served on the grounds both days.

Any contestant mishandling a snake, or getting snake-bitten, is automatically disqualified.

■ Show, sale planned

The 42nd Semi-Annual Antique Show and Sale will be held at the Civic Center in New Braunfels, 380 S. Seguin St., March 18, 19 and 20.

The antique show and sale will be open from 11 a.m. until 7 p.m. thq Friday and Saturday and from noon until 6 p.m. that Sunday.

Included for sale will be fine cut glass, art glass, carnival and pattern glass, along with furniture (oak, pine walnut, etc.), primitives, silver, jewerly, coins, toys, lines, quilts, clocks and many other antiques and collectibles.

Admission is $2.50, which is good for all three days.

For additional information write or call Jerry M. Johnson, 1175 Hwy. 81 East, New Braunfels, Texas 78130 or call 210-625-0612/210-620-4934.

■ Art work published

Cynthia Wolfe's art work may be seen in the current issue of Watercolor '94, an American Artist publication. The article "Creating Icons on Paper" deals with the ways in which objects become icons within paintings. By choosing personally significant objects and repeating their images in a series of work, Cynthia Wolfe transfers psychic and emotional energy through her brushes and paints.

■ Art displayed

KERRVILLE — The Cowboy Artists of America Museum here is displaying the works of artist Fritz White in the exhibit titled "CA Retrospective '94," through March 21.

Noted for non-conformity in his style, Fritz White made his break with tradition early. Born in 1930, in Southwest Ohio, by the time he was 12, his father had enrolled him in an adult art class in a college in Cincinnati. "The war was going on and those small colleges needed all the students they could get so they agreed to take me," White said. "Guys were going off to war, and it seemed like all the adults in the art class were more interested in their budding romances than in class. Because I was not yet into romance, but was into art, I got a lost of special attention from the teachers. It was great." Along with numerous other accolades, in 1973 he was accepted as a member of the Cowboy Artists of America.

■ Festival scheduled

Blue Lake Bluegrass Festival, March 25, 26, 27, 1994 is in Big Lake at the Community Center (65 Miles West of San Angelo, on Hwy. 67). Entertainment is by Gore Brothers, Windy Mountain, Star Canyon Band, Concho Grass, Big Sandy and others.

Admission Friday at 6 p.m. is $5, Saturday at 1 p.m. is $8 and Sunday Gospel Show, donation only. Sponsored by Big Lake Volunteer Fire Department.

For information call (915) 884-4650. No alcoholic beverages allowed.

■ OC Choir to perform

The Odessa College Choir will perform its tour concert at 8 p.m. Monday, March 7 in the Jack Rogers Fine Arts Auditorium. Members of the combined college and community choir will preview for Odessans the program they will present March 13 at St. Patrick's Cathedral while on tour in New York City.

Music will include works from the Renaissance, Romantic and Contemporary periods and will be highlighted by two movements fro Randall Thompson's "Peacable Kingdom."

Monday's concert also will feature the vocal ensemble singing favorite tunes such as "Blue Skies" and "How High the Moon" in vocal jazz style. The ensemble also will perform the beautiful ballads "If I Loved You" from the musical "Carousel," and "Embraceable You."

The OC Choirs are directed by Randy Talley. Admission is $2 for adults, $1 for students or free with OC ID.

■ Art workshop set

LUBBOCK — Lubbock Art Association will sponsor a Weekend Landscape Workshop March 18th-21st at the Garden and Arts Center, 4215 University Ave. The hours for Friday, Saturday and Monday are 10 a.m.-4 p.m. and Sunday 1-5 p.m. This prize winning Crosbyton artist takes an impressionistic approach to color, design and lighting in oil. Students can produce a glowing landscape painting every day as Marsh guides them with clear directions.

For registration and information call S. Beauchamp at (806) 793-0281.

■ Novel to be released

"When Cowboys Die," a novel by Midland author Patrick Dearen, will be released in hardcover in May by M. Evans and Company of New York.

Set in the rugged canyons of the Colorado River watershed just northwest of San Angelo, "When Cowboys Die" is the story of a modern cowboy's horseback search for the lost Old West, and an ensuing manhunt.

"When Cowboys Die" grew out of several years of research," said Dearen, "and is based in part on my interviews with 74 men who cowboyed in West Texas and eastern New Mexico before 1932.

Dearen is the author of three other novels, and the nonfiction books "Portraits of the Pecos Frontier" and "Castle Gap and the Pecos Frontier." He was also chief writer for the documentary video "Graveyard of the West: The Pecos River of Texas Where Myth Meets History."

■ Performers needed

Celebration of the Arts is looking for performing artists and artists who want to demonstrate their craft during the May 7 and 8 festival.

Groups and solo acts will be featured during the festival on one of five stages. Those interested in signing up are asked to call 699-1343 or 687-1149.

Artists who want to demonstrate their craft are asked to make a reservation for the demonstration area by calling 682-1421 or 687-1149.

■ Works displayed

Works by Jackie Gulledge Zweiger are on display in the gallery of Theatre Midland, 2000 W. Wadley Ave., through March 26.

The artist has a bachelor of science and master of science degree from the University of North Texas and has taught all levels of art in public schools and college. She has illustrated a children's book and is working on illustrations for other books. Her paintings and sculptures have won Best of Show awards.

The showing is sponsored by ACT IX, Midland Community Theatre's auxiliary organization. The works are for sale.
