My Montgomery

For a week in Dallas, I had to be back in God's country. I enjoyed my visit, but there's no place to live here. They can't even go to a super market without a car on a freeway.

Driving on freeways, I was in a breeze this trip. I was crowded me, in fact, I was hardly a car in the lane, no matter what I chose to drive in. A half way there, I painted a large sign on the trunk of my car "Caution! Country driving." You'd be surprised how much respect I have for a country car on the freeways.

Driving alone gave me a chance to notice a few things along the route. Being I have always had Jim who is most critical of driving. Also, loud pop music, which has the same effect on me as someone being behind me beating on the head with a hammer.

Things were nice and I had an opportunity to see the scenery, animal markers, signs. One cute sign, put up in the chamber of commerce, I'm sure, was located outside of Coleman on the highway cuts that off to through travelers. "Oops, you missed man, try again."

Another which was certainly apropos, was a huge board painted stark white with bold black letters two high reading "PRAY FOR RAIN."

It is a fact that most rabbits on college campuses are there on government money. Yet the proposed amendment to put tax money into the loan fund passed. You tell me why?

I voted absentee since I would not be here in the election Tuesday. I don't think I have been so surprised as I was when I got home and read to see how the constitutional amendment fared. Not surprised at the result here, but surprised at the light turn out.

There were 196 votes cast in Crockett county in the August election. There are 1,000 registered voters in the county. Can you imagine the tax payers in this county who don't care how their money is spent? They are too indifferent to exercise their right to vote. They deserve whatever they get. For shame.

A group of women in a city are boycotting because of the price increase. They organized a boycott on the price of sirloin steaks. It jumped from 99 cents to a pound in only a few months time. The women are housewives, but they are going to station members of their group at various markets to encourage consumers to buy substitutes.

Leading meat packer in city dismissed the boycott with a brief comment, "Buy the cheaper."

Crockett Voters Nix All but Three Of Amendments

In a light turn out Tuesday, August 5, Crockett County voters went contrary to other voters in the state by nixing all but three of the proposed amendments to the state constitution. Statewide a total of five out of the nine proposed amendments were defeated.

While the widely publicized water plan proposal, listed on the ballot as Amendment No. 2, was turned down by the majority in the state, voters here went 113 for and 81 against the proposal.

Crockett voters went along with the rest of the state in turning down Amendment No. 3, raising legislators' salaries. Here, as in other parts of the state, the amendment lost by the biggest majority. The vote was 54 for and 134 against.

Amendment No. 4, water tax exemptions, failed here as it did statewide. Crockett county voters turned it down 14 to 14.

$29.1 Millions Pumped Into Crockett County's Economy In 1968 From Oil And Gas Wells

Crockett County oil and gas wells pumped some $29.1 million into the county's economy last year, according to a study just released by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association.

Value of production from oil wells was $23.1 million and from natural-gas wells $6 million, based on the most recent U. S. Bureau of Mines figures compiled by the Association. The county ranked 42nd in the state in value of production.

"Output from Crockett County is part of this country's domestic oil supply which is endangered by some of the proposals now before Congress," commented Corbin J. Robertson, Association president. "Attempts to destroy percentage depletion provisions of our income tax laws and to nullify present controls over imported oil could discourage further development of Texas oil resources. Eventually oil markets now shared by the country would be given over to foreign producers."

Last year, the county produced 7.9 million barrels of crude oil and 46.8 billion cubic feet of natural gas.

Of this total, county landowners and others with mineral interests received royalty payments of $3.6 million.

The state received $15.5 million in production taxes with crude oil accounting for $1.1 million and natural gas $423,000.

Drilling expenditures were an estimated $20.3 million. Of the 137 wells drilled in the county, 54 were completed as oil wells and 51 as gas wells, according to Ira Rinehart's Yearbook. The 32 dry holes cost $2.4 million. There were 28 wildcats drilled.

The Texas Employment Commission lists 214 workers on oil and gas payrolls, which totaled $1.4 million.

Also adding to the county's economy, the Oil and Gas Journal shows 7 natural-gasoline processing plants with a daily capacity of 121 million cubic feet.

Mitchell Field Crockett Area Gets Extension

A 1 1/2 mile southwest and a 1 1/2 mile northwest extension to the Crockett County portion of the JM (Ellenburger gas) field was assured with the flowing of 470 barrels of load water in 24 hours, plus gas at the daily rate of 6,558,000 cubic feet daily at Shell Oil Co., Midland, No. 104 J. M. Mitchell, in 104-1-I&GN, 36 miles southwest of Ozona.

Flow was through a 30-64-inch choke and perforations at 12,932-14,228 feet. The section had been acidized with 40,000 gallons. Testing continued.

DAVY PHOTOGRAPHED AGAIN — Ever since the movie about Davy Crockett and the catchy little song from it fired the imagination of youngsters throughout the country several years ago, Ozona's statue of the Alamo hero from Tennessee has been an attraction to tourists and Davy has been photographed, with family groups, perhaps thousands of times in recent years. Here a Maryland family was caught by our own photographer getting a family group shot with Davy as the point of focal interest.

ON CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

The debate on capital punishment goes on year after year. There are strong arguments for its being retained and equally strong advocacy of its abolition. There are peripheral arguments as to which crimes should be included under the supreme penalty and which not. There are religious arguments, moral arguments. Few people are neutral and each side is certain that they hold the truly just view.

Thirteen states have abolished capital punishment. This includes New York, which still imposes the death penalty for the murder of a peace officer if he is acting in the line of duty, or upon a prison inmate for killing a guard or fellow inmate, providing the murderer is already serving a life sentence.

The number of executions per year even in states with a provision for capital punishment has declined steadily over the years and there are indications that the death penalty will disappear in the U. S. within the next decade.

One argument against the penalty is that it does not act as a deterrent to crime. This is specious. It seems to me the sentence of death is not capital deterrent. It is capital punishment. It is a deterrent only in so far as the individual murderer is concerned.

Another argument against the death penalty is the hap-hazard manner in which it is imposed. Shrewd lawyers are capable of working around it, and clients able to pay the fees frequently beat the penalty. Those unable to pay must suffer the penalty. This should be corrected of course.

We recognize and agree with the concern for the rights of the accused. Capital punishment is final and irrevocable once exacted. But what of the victims? Their suffering is often overlooked, particularly by those sympathies lie with the guilty. We advocate a sentence of life imprisonment where there is sufficient doubt, but we are equally in favor of the death penalty for those cases where doubt is not at issue.

MEMORIALS TO SENATORS

The recent tragic death of a young woman in the automobile accident involving Senator Edward Kennedy is just one more development in the rapid decline in the prestige of the Kennedy name and image. It was just seven years ago that President John F. Kennedy was in the White House, Robert was in firm control at the Justice Department as Attorney General, and young Ted was the junior senator from Massachusetts.

In those seven years two of the brothers have been assassinated by deranged leftists, the president's widow has made an unpopular second marriage and books continue to appear that cut away at the image so carefully built over the years.

The latest Kennedy incident will not be easy to forget. Too many important questions remain unanswered and the Massachusetts senator has stated flatly that he will allow them to remain so. This attitude has simplified congressional apportionments to attempts in the Capitol to subsidize a memorial to the late Senator Robert Kennedy.

Plans call for an impressive granite wall and reflecting pool in Arlington Cemetery costing over $600,000. The Kennedy family would contribute $420,000 and the taxpayers would supply the balance of about $258,000. President Johnson attempted to finance a larger share of the cost ($431,000) by including the figure in his budget request as an unspecified contingency, but the Nixon economists ferreted out the expense and removed it in an economy move.

The memorial to the late Robert Taft, which is located near the U. S. Capitol building, cost a million dollars, but not a penny of this was government subsidized. The structure was paid for with voluntary contributions by people who admired the senator.

Opponents of the Kennedy memorial have grounds other than fiscal for their opposition to the memorial. Arlington Cemetery with its rows and rows of simple white headstones is in danger of being filled. Even now there are restrictions as to who may be interred on its slopes. One wonders why so many acres should be dedicated to one man at the expense of others. Are men who gave equal devotion to the cause of freedom to be turned away from Arlington? Why not a privately financed memorial elsewhere?

ON THE MOTH OF CHAPPAQUIDDICK

By John J. Synon

Once or twice, now, I have made a false start at passing an opinion on this Ted Kennedy mess. But I find, beyond the obvious, there is not much to say about him, personally. In a word, he is unclear — in the biblical sense. If he were put behind bars for the rest of his life, it would suit me just fine. And that is about all there is to say of Edward Moore Kennedy.

But he won't be put behind bars. Ted Kennedy will go on being a member of the United States Senate and as sure as God makes foolish women — specifically, 28-year-old, moonstruck spinsters — just so will Ted Kennedy, one day, become the Democratic nominee for the presidency.

That is what is of public significance in this affair: The forces that have made this essentially-oafish scion into a glittering symbol — a hypnotist's bangle with which to mesmerize the American people — such as these will maintain him, so. At whatever price, they will.

However little, then, is to be said of the rotter, personally, there is plenty to be said of and against the cabal of hogs that pull his strings.

I don't refer to the likes of Kennedy's foot washer, the man Joe Gargan, nor to the former U. S. Attorney Paul Markham who, the two of them, so Kennedy says, shared some part of his tragic "nine hours." I point at the whole of the kingmaking Liberal Establishment.

I refer, to be specific, to the likes of that character, Robert McNamara who debauched our armed forces and is now up to God knows what at the World Bank. This myopic jasper flew into Hyannisport before the poor woman's body was dry to lend his talent towards the protection and, one assumes, toward the soothing of the tin god-head. I refer equally to such as that fellow, Mansfield, who slips around the United States Senate like a softshoe Mr. Chips and who defends the "indefensible" with the ultimate in cynicism: "After all, even a politician is human."

Yeah, some are; some ain't. And some are monstrous cowards who would desert a woman (dead or alive).

More pointedly, I put it on the broad spectrum of those silent, now — who have abetted this nation's dip into the carnal, who have destroyed with their creed of permissiveness the concept of Jovian wrath, who pooh-pooh in unctuous, seduc-tive, soul-rotting tones the thought that sin must be paid for (Who can be a sinner when "all men are equal"?)

Certainly I mean the Liberal preachers; who else? They are the guilty, they and their kind, frocked and unfrocked, and unless the whole stable of their filth is cleaned this nation has no more chance of survival than had Sodom.

Do I believe the stable will be cleaned? Indeed I do not; not by those who, today own the shovel. I don't because I am as certain as I can be that they themselves are the filth. They themselves are what must be cleaned — out; or turned into salt.

How well I remember, just a few years ago, the actions of another of these Great Liberals, this one the governor of a State. His high-flown ribs, you might recall, slipped into a man's child-packed home and stole the mother-wife.

How did the public react to that? They re-elected the adulterer, knowing he was an adulterer, is how they reacted. And that some who read this will wonder just which governor I refer to proves how easily we, as a people, shed the memory of the contemptible. And that sort of memory, born of the Liberal's permissive creed, is why this particular American Tragedy will blow over and the witless will support the polluter in degree great.

Washington News Letter

Congressman O. C. Fisher

A Tax Bill in the House, and funds for ABM in the Senate, got approval last week, as Congress prepared for a 3-week Summer recess. The 367-page tax measure contains some desirable provisions and some equally objectionable ones. It is replete with technicalities and confusion, which prompted an Assistant Secretary of Treasury to say the bill would better be known as "the lawyers and accountants relief act of 1969." It was a mother-hubard effort, and the committee which drafted it did so hurriedly and under considerable pressure in time.

It deals with Foundations, which need to be dealt with. It contains provisions which may discourage charitable donations. It jeopardizes the saleability of municipal and school bonds by diluting the incentive for their purchase. The bill cuts oil depletion allowance down to 20% — which action stands a good chance of nudging the retail price of gasoline to consumers up by a cent or two a gallon.

The measure does provide for some needed graduated tax relief, and it assures that no one in high income brackets will escape paying taxes. Because of so many unknowns in the bill and some objectionable features, I was constrained to vote against it. I thought it needed further study. But it's a start, and it is certain the Senate Finance Committee will take the necessary time to re-write the proposal and hopefully make it more palatable. Appropriate tax reform is overdue.

Senate Approval of the ABM came on a vote to strike out funds for the project. Our newest anti-ballistic missile is the result of some $3-billion in research and development, already expended, over a period of some 15 years. While not perfect, it has a great potential. Dr. Edward Teller, father of the H-Bomb, says continued research, development and deployment of this remarkable weapon is a must. Yet some of the non-expert critics would discard it entirely, or delay its deployment by several years.

Perhaps it was not a coincidence that on the eve of the Senate vote, two major Russian newspaper reaffirmed Soviet opposition to the deployment of Safeguard. One thing is certain: The Russians, now deploying their third generation of ABMs, will continue an intensified research and development effort.

TIPS For Gardeners

From

The Ozona Garden Club

By Mrs. Bailey Post

Since the Ozona Garden Club had to call off the annual spring flower show in April due to hail, a summer flower show will be staged in the Civic Center Thursday, August 21.

The club decided it would be beneficial for all to have a chance to practice arranging, and exhibit plant and flower specimens that have survived the dry, hot summer. Too, some of the student judges in this area need to judge another show and exhibit in order to be eligible to take the reading examinations in October.

Although not on as large a scale as the spring show, the show will be a standard show. It will be open to the public from 10:30 until 11:30 a. m.

The Artistic Division will have three classes for fresh plant material, one class for fresh or dried material, and one for dried, treated or painted materials.

Five classes will be exhibited in the Horticulture Division. Class I will be roses;

A "Perfect" Rose

Look closely at a so-called perfect rose! Scan the petals; you will find they are far from perfect. But uneven shapes, blemishes or misshapen stems will not spoil the delicate color, rich fragrance and sheer beauty of the total flower.

How clearly a rose illustrates that nothing in life is truly perfect! But, rather than discourage us, this should give us fresh confidence and strength.

God did not make the rose perfect—nor did He make us perfect. Yet He thinks none the less of us for our faults and blemishes. In His eyes we always have another chance. But it is up to us to take it.

Start by going to the church of your choice next Sunday.

No creature is shrouded in as many myths and half-beliefs as the rattlesnake.

Yet there are a couple of honest-to-goodness facts about this common reptile that are not falsehoods.

It has been established, beyond doubt, that the truculent western diamondback rattlesnake accounts for more deaths than any other species of snake in the United States. Also that more people die from snake bite in Texas than any other state. Specifically, 10 to 15 deaths annually.

These facts, among others, come from "A Guide to Texas Snakes," authorized by Gerald G. Raun and published by the Texas Memorial Museum in Austin.

In his book, Raun points out that the annual national death rate from snakes (about 40) is less than that caused by stings of bees or wasps, or surprisingly, that caused by lightning.

As for rattlesnake myths, he debunks the much-told one that a mama snake swallows her young when threatened by danger.

"This old folk tale has been around for as long as European man has been familiar with rattlers," Raun writes, "and will probably persist for a long time to come." He continues, "I have met no fewer than six eye witnesses to this miraculous event in the past five years! The odd part about it is that I would not hesitate to accept the word of these persons on any other topic and I doubt that any were consciously lying to me." "But," says Raun, "if such an event were true, some herpetologist who spends his life studying snakes could not help but have witnessed it; none has."

This tale does have a leg-ical foundation, much more so than the weird fables of hoopsnake or milk snake. It lies in the fact that "rattlesnakes are ovoviviparous and the young at birth are active and aggressive miniatures of mother."

If one kills a female rattlesnake who is about to give birth, and cuts her open in such a way as to free the young, a dozen or so active little rattlers will be released. Hence the belief that the female must have swallowed them to protect them from harm. Thus, a fable is born along with a brood of rattlesnakes.

Raun points out that with prompt and proper treatment it seems quite likely that less than three per cent of the people bitten by poisonous snakes would die. Many of the deaths in Texas, he feels, occur among uneducated field hands who often fail to get medical attention.

Actually, according to Raun, there is no excuse for an adult to be bitten by a snake.

"If you are in an area where there are apt to be snakes, look where you step, sit, or stick your hand," he cautions. "Anyone who steps over a log or sticks his hand in a hole without looking, is asking for trouble."

Many people falsely believe that the rattlesnake gives birth to young just as a mammal, like the human, does. "Not so, says Raun. 'All snakes produce eggs. In some species like the rattlesnake the eggs are retained within the female's body until hatching.'

Another myth that Raun debunks is that the forked tongue of a snake is poisonous. "Purpose of the tongue," he says, "is as a device for chemoreception ('smell') which aids the snake in relating to his surroundings."

WASHINGTON AND SMALL BUSINESS

Medicaid Runs a Fever

The "something for nothing" get-rich-quick philosophy which helps explain the popularity of advertising contests, trading stamps and gas station games also extends to state and local governments, who should know better. Some are learning the hard way, that this is usually an illusion.

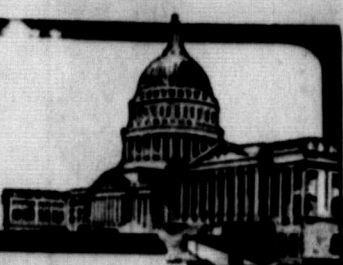

Some of the regional governments seem convinced that the Federal government is playing give-away with its state aid programs like urban renewal, welfare and highway construction. The Feds say "We'll put up 75 per cent of the money, you put up the rest" and it looks like a bargain.

Trouble is, there are strings attached. The state of Maryland, known for its horse farms, has learned to look a Federal gift-horse over pretty thoroughly, after its unhappy experience with Medicaid.

Before Congress drew up Medicaid to provide free health services for indigent persons (apart from Medicare), Maryland provided basic medical service for 150,000 poor. When Medicaid began, state legislators sized it up as a terrific bargain with the U.S. paying more than half the costs.

Maryland formulated a plan acceptable to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and budgeted 29 million for the first year, including the Federal money. But first-year expenses ran 38 million. Last year, the state budgeted 46 million but this was overspent by

(c) National Federation of Independent Business

Needless to say, this brought on what is commonly known as "an agonizing reappraisal" of the situation. What went wrong? Under liberal Federal policies, eligibility was greatly extended, rates increased, drugs covered, and hospitals paid any "reasonable costs."

Skyrocketing hospital charges have been the biggest cost.

Faced with a crisis, Maryland decided to charge nominal fees ($1 per doctor's visit, 70 cents for each prescription, etc.) to the patients, but Federal Medicaid administrators objected, saying such charges would have to be proportional to each patient's income, not flat fees. The state decided this was much too complicated to even consider and dropped the idea.

Even Senator Clinton Anderson of New Mexico, called the "Father of Medicare," has been pleading for amendments to Medicaid before states are driven to the wall, as his own state was. He favors giving states flexibility in establishing and in modifying Medicaid plans.

"We are not only virtually bankrupting many states and municipalities," he said, "but gouging more and more billion-dollar chunks out of the Federal budget."

States and cities anxious to accept Federal "generosity" might ponder whether the road to Utopia is really strewn with Federal dollars.

Woman's Forum Program Planning Session Is Held

Mrs. Lowell Littleton, President of Ozona Woman's Forum, entertained members and guest speaker, Mrs. Roy R. Harrell, Jr., with a luncheon, following an organizational meeting for the coming year, on Tuesday, August 5, in the Club Room of the bank.

Mrs. Littleton announced that Mrs. L. B. Cox, III, and Mrs. Dempster Jones will coordinate the Forum's spring style show. Some new committee chairmen appointed were Mrs. James Baggett, Americanism; Mrs. Jake Young, Courtesy Committee; Mrs. Charles Williams, Family Entertainment; Texas Heritage, Mrs. W. T. Stokes, Council of International Clubs, Mrs. Oscar Kost; and the Museum Committee, composed of Mrs. Brock Jones, Mrs. Dempster Jones, and Mrs. T. J. Bailey.

Mrs. Dempster Jones gave the Projects Committee Report. The club voted several new projects and will continue to sponsor existing ones, such as the Robin Jones Memorial Fund; Shell Education Scholarship Contest; Candy Strippers Scholarship Fund; Art Talent Contest for High School Seniors; Best Citizen Award in Ozona High School; Youth Recreational Program at the Civic Center; Award to Best Citizen of Girl and Boy Scouts; donations to Mc-Knight Christmas Gift Shop; donations to Mr. and Mrs. Roy A. Harrell, Jr. of Chad, Africa, who work with youth; contributions for eyeglasses, and financial aid to children at the Austin State School and the Abilene State School.

Mrs. Roy A. Harrell, Jr., described life in Chad, and her husband's work there. Mr. Harrell is Aid Operations Officer with the United States Embassy at Fort Lamy in Chad and his current project is a "Windmill Corridor" to promote better production of beef in this country. As the life expectancy in Chad is thirty-five years, the American program is designed to upgrade health and to teach techniques of industry that will increase self-sufficiency and utilize natural resources.

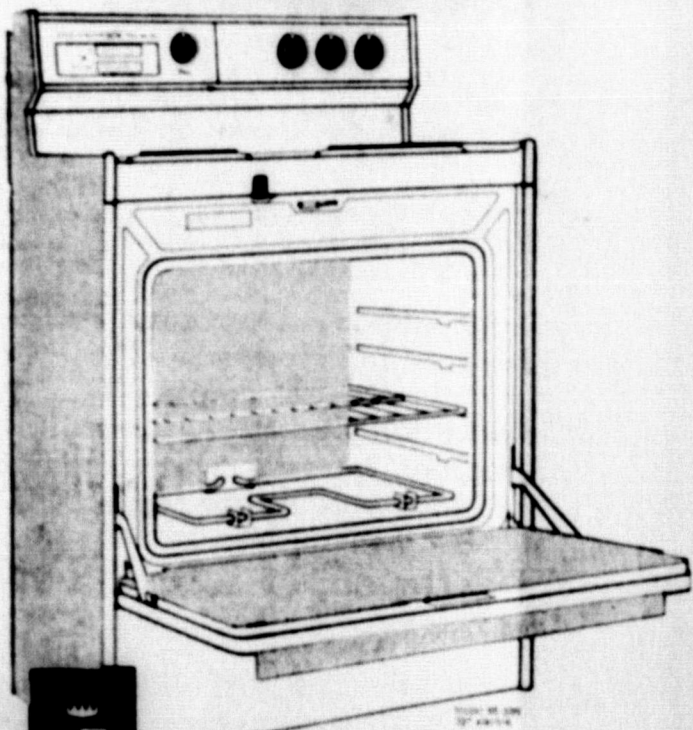

Forum members present were Misses Marshall Montgomery, L. B. T. Sikes, T. J. Bailey, Pleas Childress, Jr., Brock Jones, Sr., Arthur Phillips, Dempster Jones, L. D. Kirby, B. B. Ingham, Jr., Fred Young, Kirby Moore, Fred Hagelstein, Charles Black, Jr., C. O. Walker, and W. R. Baggett, Jr. A new member, Mrs. James W. Lively, was voted into the club.

The first regular Forum meeting will be a luncheon on Saturday, September 20.

Clyde B and Roy Sikes left yesterday for their home in Tucson, Ariz. after visiting here a month with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Max Schneemann.
