Five Indicted by Grand Jury; Traffic Enforcement Urged

The grand jury, called into session Thursday, December 29, by Judge Luther Gribble, returned five bills of indictment, all felonies, County Attorney Jack Deahl, who was acting in place of District Attorney Leonard King, reported.

All persons who were indicted will be arraigned on January 23, Mr. Deahl said. The criminal docket is set for the week of February 13.

The grand jury also inspected the court house and went into a study of traffic violations and requested the law enforcement officers to continue to enforce the laws to the fullest extent to stop such reckless driving if possible.

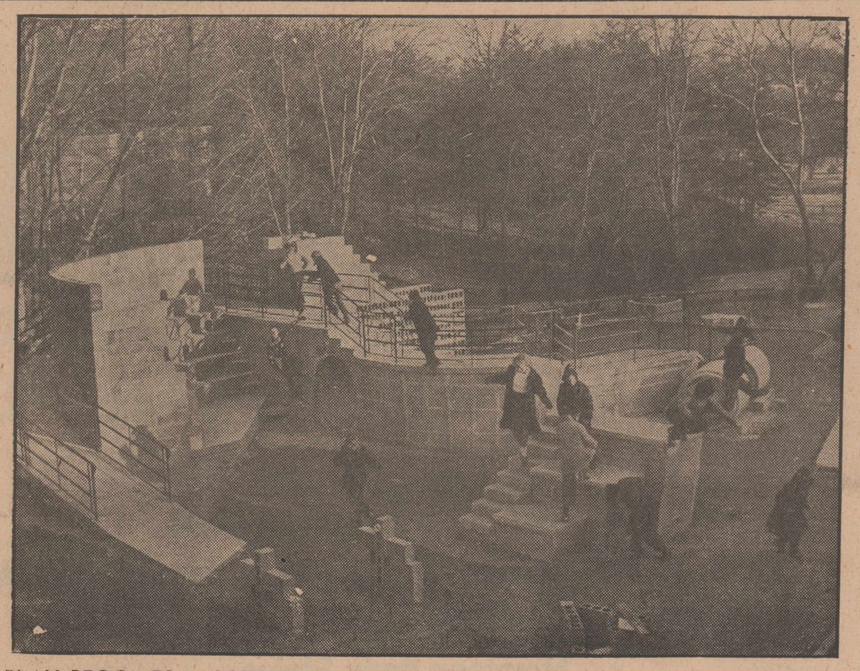

The grand jury report, given by H. A. Painter, foreman, follows:

We have been in session one day, and have examined many witnesses and have voted bills of indictment in all cases in which it was deemed the evidence was sufficient to sustain a conviction. We hereby return into court five indictments, all felonies.

"We have inspected the court house and are of the opinion that the investment therein has not been properly protected, and that the damage which has been done to it by reason of the elements and persons, either accidently, negligently, or carelessly should be repaired.

"We have examined witnesses today which exposes the conditions as to traffic violations of serious enough nature to endanger the lives of everyone on the highways and streets, and has already been the cause of one death of a teen ager in this county, and direct and request that the law enforcement officers of this county continue to enforce the laws to the fullest extent, and stop such reckless driving if possible.

"We have finished our labors so far as known to us and ask that we be recessed subject to the order of this court."

Court House Slowly Sinking, Needs Repair: Templeton

The foundation of the county court house is sinking at one corner, and unless remedial steps are taken, serious damage to the building will result, County Judge R. L. Templeton revealed Saturday, December 31.

For this reason, Judge Templeton requested the grand jury to go over the building and inspect it carefully when they were in session last week.

The sinking is very slow, and has been going on for several years, the county judge said.

The northwest corner of the building is involved.

Judge Templeton said that the foundation pillar at that corner has slipped and this is causing cracks to appear throughout the building.

In addition to these foundation pillars, set at regular positions under the building, a concrete skirt extending approximately 18 inches beneath the surface of the ground, is placed between the pillars.

Apparently the damage began when a water pipe beneath the northwest corner of the building burst about ten or twelve years ago, saturating the ground and allowing the pillar to slip, Judge Templeton said. During the heavy rains last spring, water seeped beneath the concrete skirt and allowed further slipping.

Judge Templeton said that he could not make an estimate of what would be required to repair the building, since an examination of the building by a capable architect would be necessary.

NEW CONTACT LENSES

Dr. William Feinbloom, of New York City, is about to place a contact lens weighing little more than a postage stamp over the right eye of Adrienne Goldstone in a demonstration at Northern Illinois College of Optometry in Chicago. Plastic and unbreakable, the new lens is based on a newly discovered principal of successfully moving the control area onto the cornea, instead of the white of the eye. This, says Dr. Feinbloom, eliminates discomfort.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Allan Harp, of Childress has been appointed district attorney to succeed Leonard King, also of Childress, who resigned due to ill health.

Allen Harp Named New District Attorney

Allen Harp, county attorney of Childress County, has been appointed district attorney of the 100th Judicial District, to fill the unexpired term of Leonard King, who resigned due to ill health.

Mr. Harp's appointment was made by Governor Allan Shivers.

Born in Kirkland, he had lived in Childress county all his life. He was official court reporter for the 100th judicial district for six years before beginning his practice of law, and served the 121st district as state representative in 1939.

He is a graduate of Abilene Christian College.

During World War II, he served both as a private in the Army and a junior officer in the Navy, including overseas duty as a gunnery officer.

He has tried 11 cases for Mr. King in Childress County during the latter's illness this fall.

Mr. Harp and Judge Luther Gribble were in Panhandle Tuesday, when the grand jury for Carson county had been called.

Mr. King was stricken while trying a criminal case in Panhandle in October, and he has been unable to return to his duties. In a statement to the people of Collingsworth County, Mr. King said:

On October 20th while in the trial of a criminal case at Panhandle, I suffered a serious attack of illness and was immediately taken to the Veterans Hospital at Amarillo and remained there until I was released and returned home at Childress about a week ago. I am deeply indebted to the court, the county attorneys, sheriffs, and other peace officers of the district who carried on my duties for me during my absence.

My doctors have advised me that it would be detrimental to my fu-

July Peak Month for Both

Marriages Outnumber Divorces Seven to One

There were seven times as many marriages in Collingsworth County during 1949 as there were divorces filed, records of J. M. Moore, county clerk, and Mrs. George Keller, district clerk, show.

July, rather than June, was the month of marriages here, Mr. Moore reported, for 36 licenses were issued by this county during the former month and only 21 in June.

License sales dropped abruptly in October, when the new marriage license law went into effect, but Mr. Moore said an increase is being shown since the laboratories of the Jones-Watkins Clinic and St. Joseph's Hospital have been accredited by the State Department of Health to give the premarital blood tests.

License sales by months were January, 23; February, 13; March, 23; April, 22; May, 8; June, 21; July, 36; August, 31; September, 18; October, 7; November, 7; and December, 12.

Two hundred and seventy-two licenses were issued during the preceding year.

April, May and July were the high months for divorces filed, each one accounting for five. None were filed in January, Mrs. Keller said. The number filed for other months were February, three; March, one; June, one; August, three; September, three; October, two; November, one; and December, one.

Letter Travels Six Years to Arrive Christmas Day

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Harwell got a Christmas letter this year they weren't expecting — one that had been six and a half years getting to them.

Raymond Horton, who now lives at Wellington, and who is a brother of Mrs. Harwell, wrote the letter in Oran, Africa, July 17, 1943. It was addressed to the Harwell's at Lincoln, Nebraska, where he was stationed with the Air Force.

Horton went on to serve in the Italian Campaign, in which he was badly wounded, and after a long stay in Army hospitals, he returned to Wellington to live. Harwell also returned here after he was released.

There is no indication where the letter Raymond Horton had written in Africa had been for most of these six and one-half years.

Northwest Texas alfalfa seed growers are taking their drive to be included in the Central Seed Zone directly to Washington, and their work at present is to bring the key officials up-to-date on the alfalfa situation in the Texas counties bordering Oklahoma, Alex Coleman, chairman of the Northwest Texas Alfalfa Growers Assoriation, announced Wednesday.

Mrs. Altavene Clark of Amarillo and Washington, executive officer for the Committee on Agriculture of the House of Representatives, has become interested in the county's alfalfa seed situation and has assured growers that she will do what she can on the problem.

Mrs. Clark learned of the alfalfa problem by accident when she came to Wellington Wednesday, December 28, on a study of the cotton acreage quotas, but upon being informed that of the work of the Northwest Texas Alfalfa Growers, she requested and received complete information on the problem and on the steps being taken in an effort to secure the removal of the price differential in seed grown here and identical seed grown in Oklahoma.

Mrs. Clark is recognized as an outstanding authority on agriculture and was recently a delegate to the world's Food and Agriculture Organization meeting held in Washington.

Members of the Northwest Texas Alfalfa Growers Association met in Wellington Friday, December 30. Two counties have been added to the association during recent weeks, Hardeman and Childress. Original counties are Collingsworth, Wilbarger, Wheeler and Hemphill.

Much practical information was brought out by Tom Cunningham, Hardeman County agent, Hollis, and R. V. Miller, chief, division of field seed certification, department of Agriculture, Austin.

But at the same time the group learned, through a letter from Ralph S. Trigg, Administrator, Production and Marketing Administration of the Department of Agriculture, to Senator Tom Connally, that there is much educational work to be done with men in key positions in the department.

"It's certainly an injustice out here that those men in Washington know nothing of," J. W. Thomas, county agent, declared.

Mr. Miller, devoted most of his talk to practical suggestions to the growers, and told them that their problem was presented before the International Crop Improvement Association in Kansas City by him the second week in December. "If we can't get it solved, the PMA will pass it on to the Bureau of Plant Industry and they will make the decision," he said. He added that Dr. W. M. Myers, head agronomist in charge of the BPI, Beltsville, Md., attended the meeting and was keenly interested in the Northwest Texas Alfalfa Growers work.

All available information is being gathered this week by Mr. Thomas to be forwarded to him.

Mr. Cunningham explained the Oklahoma method of handling certified seed under the "approved of origin" program. He said that fields are inspected within five days of harvest and the approval of origin tags are issued through his office. If noxious weeds show up in the test, the tags are recalled.

Mr. Trigg's letter, sent here by the office of Senator Connally, was discussed at the meeting. It reads in part:

"No doubt there have been many changes in alfalfa seed production since the days of OPA. Present seed qualities may entitle northwest Texas growers to a different classification.

"In earlier discussions with your office the subject of certified seed was not mentioned. It was assumed that the questions relative to uncertified "Texas Common" alfalfa seed under the price support program. The matter of arranging to have alfalfa seed certified will have to be taken up with the state certifying agency to insure that the seed possess the genetic characteristics and qualities described by your constitutents.

(It was pointed out at the meeting that this was done by growers in this area five years ago).

"Furthermore, consideration is being given to establishing a separate price support for improved

Added Beauty and Style Feature the New 1950 Chrysler Models Displayed Here

In its 1950 line, now on display at Stinson Motor Co. in Wellington, Chrysler offers new styling, inside and out, including entirely new upholstery in virtually all models; the introduction of an entirely new body style available in both the six- and eight-cylinder lines; improvements in the instrument panel, larger brakes on the six-cylinder models and an improved booster on the brakes of the eights; increased visibility through a rear window that has 27 percent more glass area; a slight increase in height, width and length, a wider rear tread on the sixes, and a refinement of numerous features introduced in the 1949 models. Nineteen body styles are listed and 15 standard body colors, eight of which are entirely new, B. B. Frisbie, manager, said.

Appearance improvements begin at the front bumper and are carried through to the rear bumper, giving the new line distinction and individuality. Different styling features have been incorporated in the sixes and in the eights, so that one is readily distinguishable from the other at first glance. Among the points of difference between the two lines are the parking lights, the length of the molding on the front fender, the nameplate on the front of the radiator and the wheel cover.

Front-end styling features an entirely new die-cast grille, comprising three heavy horizontal bars, topped by a fourth bar that curves down at the ends. In the sixes, a new rectangular parking light is located below each headlight between the top and bottom bars of the grille. These bars extend out to wrap around the fender. In the eights, a new round parking light is installed in a chrome grille plate underneath each headlight. This chrome plate fills the space between the top and bottom bars of the grille. Seven thin vertical bars are placed between the horizontal bars of the grille. A new enameled nameplate with chrome wings is placed just above the center of the grille in the sixes. The name Chrysler in script is used on the eights in this position. There is a new hood ornament placed lower on the hood.

Front bumpers are two inches wider than in the preceding model and new-style bumper guards complement the deep-section bumper and frame the license plate holder.

Body changes include a longer rear fender, which retains its full height almost to the extreme rear of the car. The rubber grommet at the filler tube is recessed into the fender, thus making possible an almost flush mounting of the filler cap.

A new large combination of taillight, stop-light and turn signal is flush mounted in each rear fender, thus contributing greatly to the clean and sweeping rear-end lines. Back-up lights are mounted on each side between the fender and the deck lid. A new script Chrysler nameplate and vertical lock handle ornament the deck lid. The rear bumpers, like those in front, have been made more massive. Two new bumper guards frame the license plate and the license lights are set into the inside of each of these guards. Additional box-shaped bumper guards are installed on the top of each bumper behind the fender.

Appearance of the rear-end also is improved and visibility increased by a newly-designed rear window that has an area of 684.4 square inches, as against 537.2 in the 1949 cars. The bottom edge of this window is extended to the belt molding, giving an attractive double molding line around the rear of the car. The window is of the three-piece type, with chrome division bars at each side. New front and rear fender moldings are placed lower down and in the eight-cylinder models this molding stops at the front door, while in the sixes it is carried beyond the middle of this door.

The instrument panel has been improved by new and larger rotary switch knobs with a vertical bar for easier control. The transparent backgrounds have been provided for the gauge dials, speedometer, radio dial and clock. In the sixes, this background is transparent brown on polished Richlow brass and in the eights it is transparent gun-metal on polished aluminum. A new concentric turn signal switch housing in the steering column creates a more compact appearance.

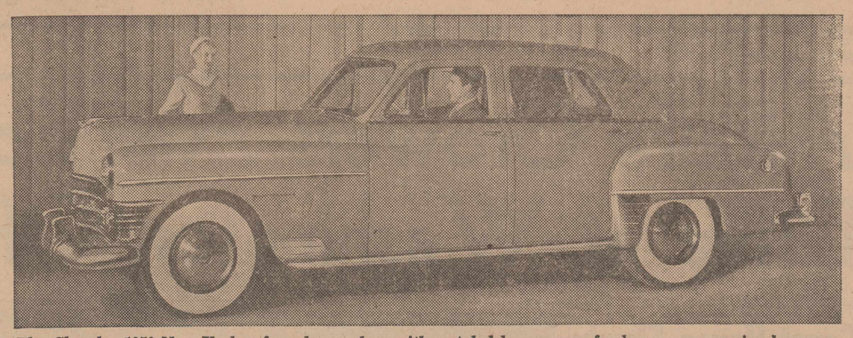

Interior styling has been given additional touches of elegance in all models. In the Royal and Saratoga, there are new horizontal lines and a new arm rest on the door panel. In the Windsor and New Yorker, the door panel has been improved by the addition of new horizontal lines, a new type arm rest and a chrome molding strip below the door handle. Horizontal lines have been added to the front seat back. In the New Yorker, the improvements noted for the Windsor have been made, plus refinements in the rear-seat cushions and backs of the sedan models. These cushions now have a narrow center pillow, with wide pillows on each side. A center arm rest is provided by dropping the center pillow in the rear seat back. On the front-seat back a new horizontal and vertical line effect is introduced, with buttons at the line intersections. This treatment is also applied to the door trim panels.

Upholstery options have been increased and finer fabrics are offered. In the Windsor, there are three two-tone trim combinations and one of nylon in a waffle pattern; in the New Yorker, all fabrics are new and a choice of several patterns of striped broadcloth is available, together with nylon. New fabrics also are used in the Royal and Saratoga in chain stripped broadcloth. Upholstery in the convertible models is striped Bedford cord combined with leather, or all leather at a slight extra cost, with a choice of four colors.

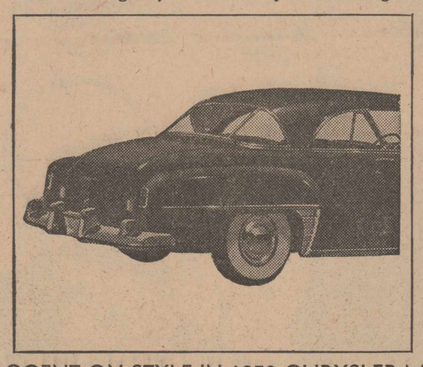

To complement the trim selected, the purchaser is offered a choice of three distinctive steering wheels made of hard plastic in variegated colors. This matching of steering wheel and upholstery creates very rich and attractive effects.

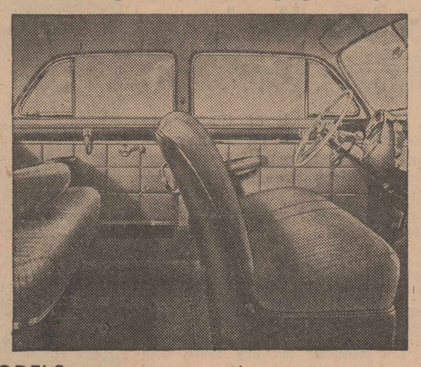

One of the important mechanical changes is the adoption on the six-cylinder models of 12-inch brakes. This brake replaces the 11-inch type used on previous models and it provides 15 percent more lining

Twenty Arrests During Week End

Approximately 20 arrests were made during the week end by the Sheriff's department, Claude McKinney said Monday.

One arrest was for drunk driving and four for reckless driving. The remainder were for being drunk, gambling or other minor offenses.

Chief of Police Franz Holley said that one reckless driving arrest grew out of a game of "bump 'um," played around the court house square, which ended when the fleeing car was bumped up on the court house lawn.

The men in the cars weren't drunk, the chief of police said. They were just celebrating a donkey basketball game that had been played at Vinson, and in which they took part.

Extension Course Open at Childress

An extension course planned especially for teachers will be organized at Childress Monday night, January 9, Mrs. Bryan Denley announced today.

The organization meeting will be held at the high school, beginning at 7:00 p.m.

This course is given by West Texas State College, Canyon. The specific course has not been decided upon, but will depend on the needs of the majority wishing to enroll, Mrs. Denley said. Tentative plans are that it will be an education or English course.

DON'T LET MUD STOP YOU!

The Tough 4-Wheel-Drive Willys Station Wagon Takes You Through When No Other Car Can!

Don't put up with the inconvenience and danger of being stopped by deep mud and bad roads. Get the car that gets you through when nothing else can—the new 4-Wheel-Drive Willys Station Wagon.

When you shift into 4-wheel drive, the front wheels pull through mud instead of pushing against it. You get all-wheel-drive traction that takes you up slippery grades you'd never make in an ordinary car. All-wheel drive cuts down tendency to skid, makes driving safer. This "go-anywhere" car is built on a special sturdy frame for operating over the most rugged, difficult terrain.

On top of its unmatched performance in snow and mud, the Willys Station Wagon is a car you'll drive with pleasure the year 'round. It rides six adults in roomy comfort and handles easily in 2 or 4-wheel drive. Rear seats are quickly removable to provide 98 cubic feet of space for hauling.

The 4-Wheel-Drive Willys Station Wagon is "made-to-order" for farmers, ranchers, doctors, oil men, veterinarians—or anyone who can't let weather stop them.

If you live where roads are often blocked or have duties that must not be delayed, the 4-Wheel-Drive Willys Station Wagon is your one best assurance of always getting through. Let us demonstrate this remarkable new 4-wheel-drive model for you now.

4-WHEEL DRIVE WILLYS Station Wagon Jeep PRODUCT BUILT BY WILLYS-OVERLAND

Willys Station Wagons are also made with 2-wheel drive, choice of 4 or 6 cylinders, overdrive at no extra cost.

DUTCH RAISE OIL PRODUCTION

Since the end of the Genman occupation, oilmen in the Schoonebeek Field on the Netherlands-German frontier have raised their production from 40,000 of crude oil a year to a little more than 40,000,000 in 1949, the largest production in Western Europe. Their nodding motion has given these pumping jacks the picturesque name of "jaknikkers" or yes-nodders. Most Schoonebeek wells are pumped.

Long Awaited Picture Opens Here Wednesday

Guaranteed to take its place with the greatest lover teams in cinematic history, to rank with the John Gilbert-Greta Garbo, John Barrymore-Dolores Costella and Clark Gable-Viven Leigh pairs, is the newest one of Gary Cooper and Patricia Neal, the two who are bringing alive the tempestuous love story of "The Fountainhead." Warner Bros.' long-awaited film opens at the Ritz on Wednesday.

When Warner Bros. decided to film this best seller novel which had aroused the American reading public as no other book in recent years, the big problem was admitted to be the casting of two lovers who could make credible the tumultous love of the independent-minded Roark, the architect, and Dominique, the cold though beautiful and brilliant heiress who succumbs only to the one man whom she cannot reach and who appears uimpressed — manifestly.

Scores of letters descended on Executive producer Jack L. Warner with casting suggestions, much in the manner that the producers of "Gone With the Wind" received a few years back. That Gary Cooper was the perfect Roark. strong, handsome, independent, was immediately apparent, and Ayn Rand, the author who was also doing the screenplay, was in accord for in her mind's eye when she created the character of Roark there was "a man like Gary Cooper," she said.

But everyone had ideas about Dominique and at one time or other, every major actress in Hollywood was suggested for this choice role. The girl had to be beautiful first of all, but she also had to be statuesque, aristocratic, cold-appearing, and down deep she had to convey a love — once she found her man — that swept aside all obstacles and conventions, a love deep enough even to face death for her man. And such an actress was found in Patricia Neal.

Discovered on the Brodway stage in "Another Part of the Forest," Pat Neal was rushed to the Warner Burbank studios and placed in "John Loves Mary" for picture seasoning. She came through with flying colors and was then handed the plum role of Dominique in "The Fountainhead." How she teams with Cooper in this story is evident in the Academy Award mentions that were made on all sides by preview audiences. Cooper himself, a veteran leading man, admitted he'd rarely before played opposite such a finished actress and personality.

Supporting the stars are Raymond Massey, Robert Douglas, and Kent Smith.

LOOKING AHEAD

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President—Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

If the next session of Congress is not the time to balance the national budget, then for sure I do not know when that time will ever come. In fact, indications are that unless we can bring spending and taxes into line in 1950, we may never be able to get back our sanity in government money matters. If we are unable to balance the budget in good times, just when shall we hope to? The time to balance is now!

Senator Byrd, that hard-working expert on problems of federal spending, says the budget can be balanced. But he says Congress has three possible choices to make this coming year. It's up to Congress, he says, to decide whether to balance or not balance. It can choose a tax boost of more than $7 billion — it can hold the spending budget to $36 billion — or it can allow more than $7 billion of spending in excess of revenue, and add it to our huge national debt.

This latter course, the Senator so well says, would lead the nation "gaily along the economic primrose path of indefinite deficit financing." This is the route that so many of our people have become accustomed to, yet it is the path that may well lead to economic ruin. That so few citizens are aware of these dangers is a fact hard to understand. That so few of those who understand are doing anything about it is even more amazing.

President Truman apparently has chosen the first course. He wants to keep government spending at a high level. He reasons that this can be done by loading business and industry with heavy tax burdens. (These taxes cost you money, no matter whether your bracket is high or low!) The President has shown some willingness to avoid deficit spending next year, after letting expenditures run $5 1-2 billion over income this year. But he says he can't do it without more taxes.

Even Budget Director Pace has said that a tax raise will be needed to balance the budget. He has also promised that the budget to be presented in January by President Truman will not be more than $45 billion! Revenue under present laws is only $38 billion. This leaves $7 billion needed to balance that kind of spending. That kind of money doesn't grow on trees in Arkansas. (Arkansas could use the part of that we'd have to pay, right here in the state!)

But where would this $7 billion come from? It is obvious that spending is another way of saying the word taxes. Just like it would be in your own personal affairs, spending more than you've got calls for more income — or else bankruptcy. But the nation is yours, too. That's a lesson that every American must learn, before it is too late. More government spending means less take-home pay, higher living costs, and greater risk of depression.

But that $7 billion need not come from anywhere! Senator Byrd proposes that $7 1-2 billion be peeled off the present rate of spending. This would bring the budget for next fiscal year down to $36 billion. Even this, he says, is $2 billion more than the President's own budget for 1948. And with present tax laws, a $36 billion budget would provide a $2 billion surplus that could be applied to our dangerously big national debt!

Now is the time to balance the budget, not add to it. Yet we are going along, spending this year more than we did in the first year after the war. All this in peacetime, when business is good and employment high. If we cannot balance the budget when tax revenue is so high, just when can it be balanced? When the government insists on spending more billions on added millions of persons, naturally there will be no balance of the budget. The future demands economy, not more taxes.

Tiny Miss, Born at Wellington, Recovers From Delicate Operation at Two Months

By NORTON SAPYDE
In the Amarillo News-Globe

"I don't see how she's lived this long in such a condition," said the eminent surgeon.

"This long" was only two months and "she" is little Nancy Capps who lives out at Pantex with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur V. Capps.

A month ago there was just a ghost of a chance that the two-month-old Nancy would live for more than a few days. Her stomach was upside down and just about everything else inside her was out of place.

Today, one month later, Nancy is fit as any three-month-old baby, her stomach and everything else back in the right place and with the expectation of a long and happy life.

The transition was a dramatic one, including a chance diagnosis here, an automobile dash to Chicago and a delicate operation performed by one of the world's outstanding surgeons.

Nancy was born three months ago in St. Joseph's Hospital in Wellington where her father was helping her grandfather, Fred Capps, harvest a peach crop. A short time later the family, which also includes two-year-old Dickie, moved to Amarillo and the father went to work at the Texas Tech Experiment Station at Pantex.

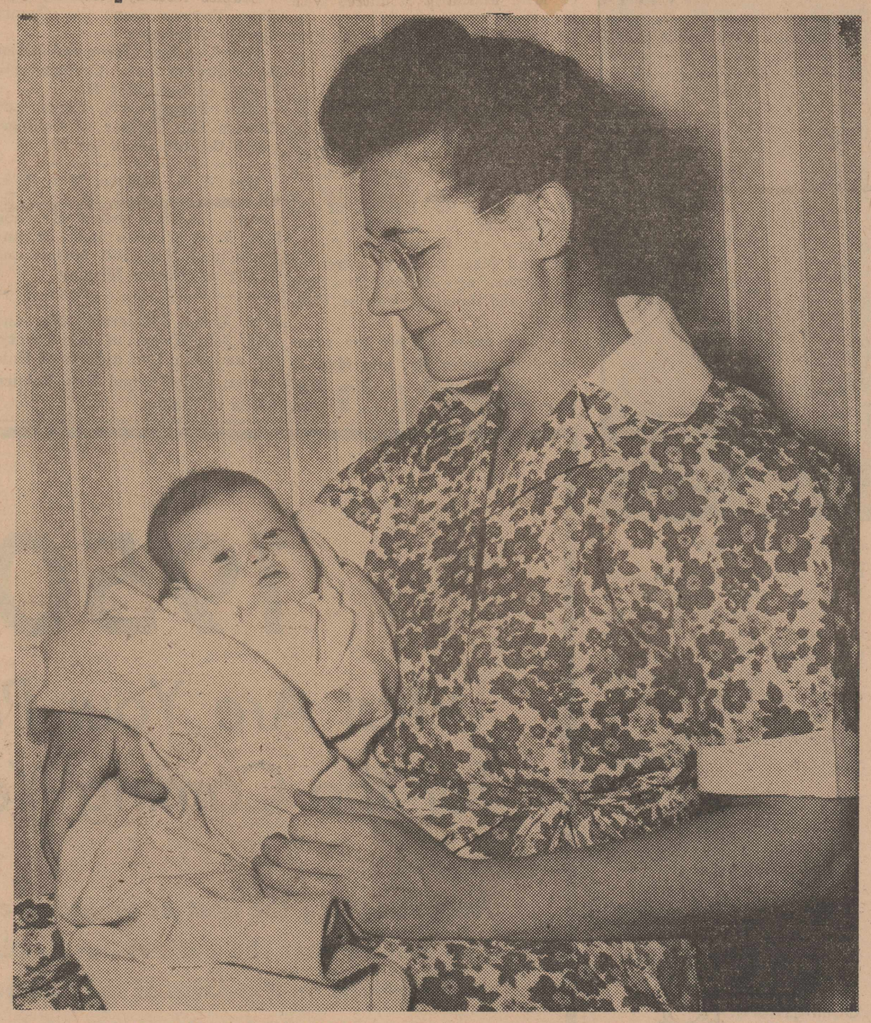

Mrs. Capps, Lutie, had been having a bit of normal trouble with the baby so decided to have a six-week check-up. Because Nancy had been having trouble breathing, the Amarillo physician decided on an X-ray examination for a possible thymus condition.

The X-ray showed no thymus trouble but the X-ray experts and physicians who read the picture noticed an accumulation of gas in the chest. That called for more X-ray. But this time the child was given barium, a substance that shows up on an X-ray plate. When the second X-ray pictures were taken, the barium showed plainly that the child's stomach and part of the intestines were in her left chest where the heart ought to be.

Every day such a condition existed was added danger. The stomach was pushing and pushing. The heart was clear over on the right side and the left lung was being deflated. It called for immediate action.

There are only a few surgeons in the country who have performed such delicate operations. One of them is Dr. W. J. Potts of Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago. He is the one who perfected the "blue-baby operation" that saved the life of another little Amarillo girl about a year ago. Because of his fame, Dr. Potts is much sought and has a long waiting list.

But this was an emergency. So arrangements were made and the next day the Capps left in the family automobile for the 1,000 mile ride to Chicago. It took two and a half days — making it as easy as possible on the baby — to complete the trip.

MRS. FRED CAPPS AND NANCY Picture Courtesy Amarillo News.

Nancy was entered at Children's Hospital on arrival. With the Amarillo physician's diagnosis and his own examination on arrival, Dr. Potts made the assertion that it was a wonder she had lived so long.

Dr. Potts reported to the physicians here that the operation was a complete success. He reported that the child apparently was born with a slit in the diaphram that separates the abdomen from the chest cavity. The stomach had forced its way up through the slit, and along with other internal organs pulled with it, had displaced the heart and was injuring the lung. The surgeon cut into the chest on the left side, righted the organs, and then stitched the delicate membrane into place.

Today Nancy has a pink scar from the center of her chest to the center of her back. It is disappearfast and physicians say that it will be completely gone in a few years.

The child was kept in the hospital until the recovery was well under way. And now at home, she cries just as lustily as any baby seeing its first Christmas tree.

China, Russia and India are the three largest countries by population.

High School Graduates Urged To Join Army

The graduates of Wellington high school were urged to consider the Army's new Career Guidance Program in a statement made here today by Sgt. LaVell McKinney in charge of the U. S. Army & U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station located at Room 6, County Court House, Wellington, Texas.

"Never before has the young man of 17 or 18 been faced with such a wealth of opportunity as that offered him by the Army," he said.

"Army entrance standards have been raised and the competition for enlistment is becoming stiffer all the time, but the benefits of Army service are becoming increasingly greater."

Sgt. McKinney cited the Army's new Career Guidance Plan as one aimed at the educated, alert, physically fit young man — with advancement based on personal efficiency and individual initiative more than before.

"In essence, the Army's career plan sets up specific job fields in which similar skills and occupations are grouped. The career soldier advances within his chosen field through new technical school opportunities as well as expanded on-the-job training."

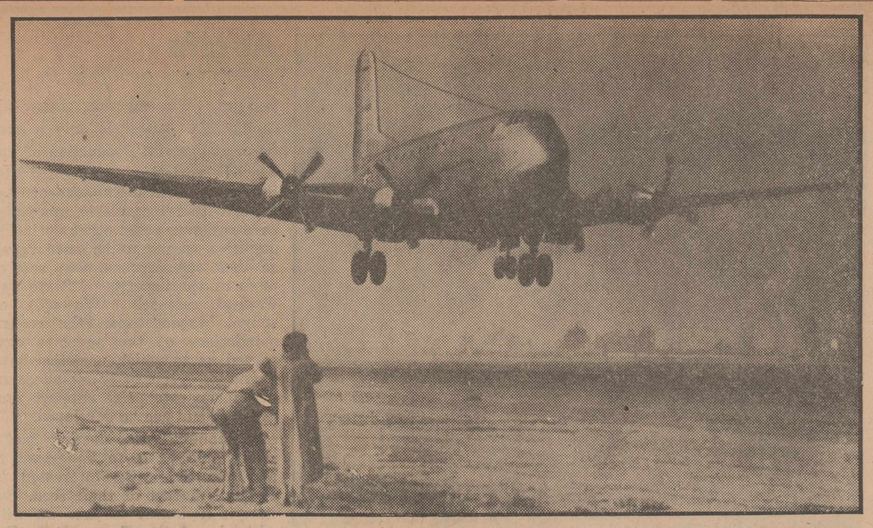

Sgt. McKinney added that Army promotions to higher rank and pay now depend on the soldier's efficiency, experience, and knowledge, as well as on his seniority.

The streamlining of the Army grade structure and provision for more regular promotions added to the attractiveness of the Career Program, Sgt. McKinney said.

"The modern armored and infantry divisions as well as the many technical services in the Army are based primarily on the work of many skilled specialists. Literally hundreds of career opportunities open up to the enlistee. All the time he is learning, he draws full pay and allowances, receives free goods and services, and has started earning free retirement credit."

Job security and excellent sports, recreation, and travel opportunities he mentioned as still more reasons why high school graduates should consider an Army career for themselves.

"The openings are fewer, but it will pay well to check closely with high school officials or personnel in the recruiting station at Room 6, County Court House, Wellington, for latest information on quotas and opening dates," Sgt. McKinney stated.

BIG BIRD WINGS AWAY

Douglas Aircraft's giant C-124 Globemaster II transport leaves the runway for the first time at Long Beach, Calif. Hadacol Helps Textile Worker Stay On Job

The great textile mills of the Carolinas are booming again with shifts working day and night to turn out the nation's finest materials, and HADACOL is doing its part to keep folks on the job.

Many textile workers have reported the wonderful relief which HADACOL with its five B vitamins and four important minerals. This worker, a young father employed by the great Cannon Mills at Kannapolis, N. C.

Mr. Barnhardt

Jay W. Barnhardt, Route 3, Box 343, Kannapolis, N. C., is 30 years old and the proud father of two children. His work in the Cannon Mills calls for a great deal of standing up.

"I had been ill for several years," said Mr. Barnhardt as he explained how close he came to having to give up his work. "I suffered with a weak stomach. It became worse and worse with gastric disturbances. I just could not hold food and no food agreed with me. I could not sleep and finally I became so sick that my legs got weak as I worked in the mill each day."

Mr. Barnhardt, like so many sufferers, had tried many preparations without relief, when he heard about HADACOL.

"After the second bottle of HADACOL I began to feel better an dto regain the weight I had lost," said Mr. Barnhardt. "My digestion became normal again and today I am as well as ever. My legs no longer bother me. I eat and enjoy my food. I sleep well and have plenty of energy."

Mr. Barnhardt has taken several bottles of HADACOL and now takes the famous vitamin and mineral preparation to help stay well. He has had his wife take it with wonderful results and has recommended it to his friends in the mill.

Mr. Barnhardt suffered from a lack of B vitamins and the minerals which HADACOL contains. HADACOL comes to you in liquid form, easily assimilated in the blood stream so that it can go to work right away.

A lack of only a small amount of B vitamins and certain minerals will cause digestive disturbances . . . Your food will not agree with you . . . You will have an upset stomach . . . You will suffer from heartburn, gas pains and your food will sour on your stomach and you will not be able to eat the things you like for fear of being in misery afterwards. Many people also suffer from constipation. And while these symptoms may be the results of other causes, they are surely and certainly the signs of lack of B vitamins and minerals which HADACOL contains. And if you suffer from such a deficiency disorder, there is no known cure except the administration of the vitamins and mineral, which your system lacks.

It is easy to understand, therefore, why countless thousands have been benefited by this amazing tonic, HADACOL.

contact area. The overall result is lighter brake pedal pressure and greater reserve. The new Chrysler self-energizing disk brake will be standard equipment on the Town and Country "Newport" and the Crown Imperial models.

Improved brake action also is produced in the eight-cylinder models and the Royal and Windsor eight-passenger sedan and limousine by a new booster. Smoother and more positive brake feel is accomplished as a result of the smoother booster action resulting from the use of external valving instead of internal valving. The new booster causes the brake to take hold quickly and at the same time makes the action smoother throughout the operation of stopping the car. Brake pedals, as well as clutch pedals, now are square.

Easier servicing of the Prestomatic Fluid Drive Transmission has been made possible by minor changes in design.

The 1950 line comprises the following body styles, divided among six models:

Royal (six-cylinder) — Four-door sedan; club coupe; station wagon; eight-passenger sedan.

Windsor (six-cylinder) — Four-door sedan; club coupe; convertible coupe; eight-passenger sedan; 8-passenger limousine; "Newport" special club coupe.

Saratoga (eight-cylinder) — Four-door sedan; club coupe; convertible coupe; "Newport" special club coupe.

Town and Country (eight-cylinder) — "Newport" special club coupe.

Crown Imperial (eight-cylinder) — Eight-passenger sedan; eight-passenger limousine.

Entirely new in the line is the "Newport" offered in the Windsor, New Yorker and Town and Country. This car is designed for those who want the sleek, racy lines and unrestricted visibility and ventilation of a convertible, with the added safety provided by a solid steel top. This new Chrysler offering is in effect a hard-top convertible in appearance. It can be opened up to the same degree as a convertible by dropping all the side windows flush with the top of the body, while a huge rear window, with its sides curving into the steel roof, interferes virtually not at all with the illusion of a completely open car.

The "Newport" is the only car to be built in the Town and Country line this year. With an all-steel body set off by artistic white ash trim and a solid steel top complementing its graceful lines, it promises to be extremely popular with those who are anxious to possess the utmost in motor-car swank.

Wheelbases, interior dimensions and horsepower throughout the line remain the same as in the corresponding models of the 1949 line.

EASIEST 3-POINT HOOK-UP YOU EVER SAW

The new Eagle Hitch on the 1950 Case "VAC" tractor takes hold of the new latch-on implements and picks them up—fast and easy. Without getting off the seat you just latch on, slip in a pin, and go! You get to the field quicker, finish sooner. Work is done better because the Eagle Hitch keeps implements working at a steady depth in spite of hard spots and uneven ground. Come in and see it! Try the new low-pressure hydraulic implement control. You'll like the way it works with both latch-on and front-mounted implements. This isn't push-button farming but it's the nearest thing to it. SOCIAL SECURITY TAX GOES UP TO ONE AND HALF PERCENT JAN. 1

John B. Dunlap, Collector of Internal Revenue, today reminded employers and employees of the Second Texas District that the Federal Insurance Contributions Act provides for an increase in the tax rate under that Act to one and one-half percent on employees and one and one-half percent on employers, based on all taxable wages paid on and after January 1, 1950.

Ever since the beginning of the Social Security program, of which these taxes are a part, these rates have been one percent each on employees and employers, and Collector Dunlap called attention to the change in order to prevent confusion in preparing January payrolls.

This change does not affect the rates of income tax withholding from wages, which are the same as they were in 1949.

Employers were also reminded, however, that new regulations will be effective January 1 regarding the depositing and reporting of both the F. I. C. A. taxes and income tax withheld from wages.

Starting with wages paid in January, employers who are liable for more than $100 of these taxes in one month are required to deposit them in either a Federal Reserve Bank or a commercial bank authorized to receive such deposits for transmittal to the Federal Reserve Bank.

Deposits are required for taxes resulting from wages paid in the first and second month of each quarter. Each such deposit should be made not later than the fifteenth day of the next month, but may be made earlier if desired. Taxes for the third month may be deposited or paid with the quarterly return.

Employers will be furnished with blank copies of Treasury Depositary Receipt Form 450 to use in making deposits. Employers will fill out the receipt as a deposit slip. After the form and remittance are received and checked by the Federal Reserve Bank, the deposit receipt will be validated and mailed back to the employer for attachment to his quarterly return.

The year 1950 also will mark the nationwide adoption of a combined form for quarterly reporting by employers of income tax withheld and the employer and employee F. I. C. A. taxes. The new form, Form 941, and detailed instructions will be mailed to employers late in March, in ample time for use in making the return for the first quarter of the year. This return, covering wages paid in January, February, and March, is due by April 30.

This type of combined form was tested in the Maryland district for more than a year and was found to effect substantial savings to both Collectors' offices and employers.

ture health to attempt to resume the strenuous duties of the district attorney's office, which duties require long hours and much driving between the five counties. I do not feel that I would be keeping faith with the people of the district if I attempted to hold the office longer and having to depend on others doing the work since my doctors have advised me that I should not undertake the responsibility of the office for at least several weeks and possibly longer. I have, therefore, tendered my resignation as district attorney to the governor to be effective January 1st.

The greatest satisfaction I shall receive for having had the privilege of serving you as district attorney will not be as much the fact that during the three years there was only one acquittal, but rather the many friends that I have made over the district and the fact that of all the suspended sentences granted during this time only one has had to be revoked. I want to again thank all of the people for their co-operation and for the privilege of having served you as district attorney for the past three years.

United States in 1946. At that time she specialized in Religious Education in the Union Theological Seminary in New York. Having returned to Brazil, Miss Anderson gave efficient assistance to the administration of Colegio Americano of which Miss Mary Sue Brown was Directress. Upon the return of Miss Brown to her native country, Miss Anderson was once more made head of the school, the position she held until her death. This took place while she was saying the first remarks before giving out the Certificates to the girls of the fourth year of the Junior High School.

Miss Anderson, at various opportunities, showed herself to be a great and devoted friends of the teachers, who in return gave their full cooperation. She also showed a great enthusiasm for the Parents and Teachers Association, considering this as "a family radiating over the whole country."

She paid much attention to the extra-curriculum activities which gave to the pupils a healthy mind and a clearer understanding of life outside the limited program of the classroom.

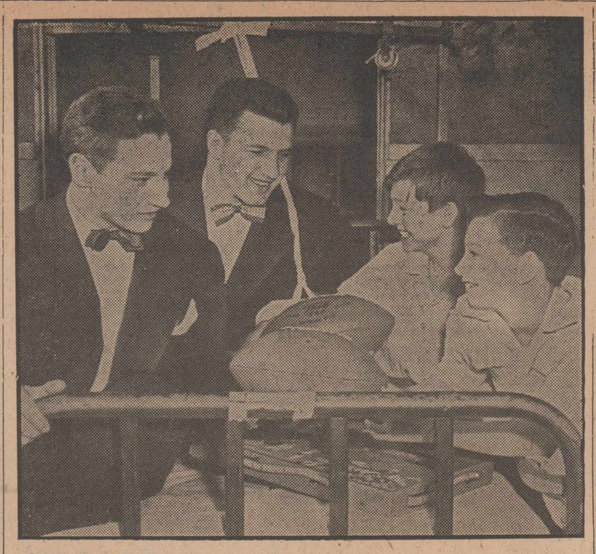

The body of this wonderful teacher was carried to the chapel of Colegio Americano, and was watched over during the night by teachers, pupils and friends. The following day it was carried to the Evangelical Cemetery, accompanied by a host of friends in an almost endless line of automobiles.

The funeral service followed the Methodist Ritual and was directed by Bishop Sucasas, assisted by Bishop Pithan of the Episcopal Church, and Rev. Derly Chaves, pastor of Central Methodist Church.

The chapel choir directed by Maestro Schneider sang several sacred hymns appropriate for the occasion.

At the Cemetery, loving hands bore the casket to its last resting place, where the closing service was held by the Bishops.

In a touching farewell address, speaking in the name of the faculty, Prof. Joao Fassina expressed in eloquent terms the value of the services Miss Anderson had given to education, in Brazil, and her exceptional qualities of heart and spirit that made her loved and admired by all who knew her.

varities. We mention this, although the matter is only a proposal at present. Production of improved varieties, originated by State and Federal Experiment Stations, with better yields, more disease resistance and other desirable qualities, ought to be encouraged so that our farmers will receive more of the benefits of State and Federal research. "We will, of course, depend upon the recommendations of the agencies concerned as to which varieties have sufficient merit to be included under a separate price support program should one be developed.

"Expanding seed testing facilities should be quite important to an area primarily interested in the fall market of their seed. But that is a matter to take up with officials of the Texas State Department of agriculture.

"Here in the U. S. Department of Agriculture we hesitate to encourage the expansion of alfalfa seed production in the Southern Area since its production capacity greatly exceeds the normal market outlet. When production exceeds the market, Southern Area seed moves northward where we are advised it is less well adapted."

In a reply to Senator Connally, signed by Mr. Coleman, the association pointed out, along with other pertinent information, that "This association has furnished many widwestern farmers with planting seed and know they have proved winter hardy as far north as Wisconsin. In five years producing certified alfalfa seed we have not had any kickback on seed as to quality or winter hardiness."

Conversation among the growers at the end of the meeting and following it, left the members more firmly convinced that their real problem in getting the price differential removed lies in Washington.

A WATCHMAKER'S PRAYER

Now I lay me down to sleep,
My temper I will try to keep,
If I don't die before I wake,
I pray some one a watch will make
That I can take apart and then,
Repair and it will run again.

It sure gives me one awful pain,
Sometimes I think I'll go insane
The junk that is brought in to me,
I look at it and plainly see
That it was only made to sell
And not to run, but what the H'll.

Our customers they may not know
But if they'd give us half a show
We'd sell them watches that would run,
And if they broke, work would be fun;
When I'd cease my toil at end of day
I'd know that I had earned my pay.

I'd sure be satisfied with life,
And could be pleasant to the wife,
And when I lay me down to rest,
I'd sleep as tho I had been blessed
By He who blesses as only He can,
I'm a good watchmaker,

Miss Peggy Riggs Becomes Bride of Charles Walker

In a morning ceremony of beauty and dignity, Miss Peggy Riggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard S. Riggs of Wellington, became the bride of Charles R. Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Walker of the Elm Valley community Saturday, January 31, at 10 o'clock. The vows were spoken at the First Methodist Church, with Dr. Henry H. Kinkeade, pastor of Grace Baptist Church, Denton, officiating in the presence of several hundred friends.

The chancel railing was draped in white and palms formed the background for the setting. Before them stood tall lighted tapers in seven-branched holders. For the recitation of their vows, the couple stood before an archway entwined with white flowers and greenery. Flanking this were baskets of white gladioli. White damask covered the prie-dieu on which the couple knelt for the closing prayer of the service.

Preceding the ceremony, Benny Karnes, organist, played "Thine Alone," Beethoven's "Adagio" and Lizst "Lebistraum," and accompanied Miss Helen Holder as she sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly." Mr. Karnes played "Clair de Lune" softly throughout the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a dress of ivory satin which was also worn by her sister, Mrs. Charles O. Holman Jr., at her wedding. It was fashioned with a basque waist, small round collar embroidered in seed pearls, and buttoned down the front with tiny covered buttons. The long fitted sleeves were also closed with covered buttons. The full skirt extended into a long train. Her double veil of bridal illusion was scalloped around the edge, and held with a coronet of orange blossoms. The brides' bouquet was of white gardenias, from which fell satin streamers.

Mrs. Holman attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore a dress of turquoise velveteen, fashioned with a high neckline, and a draped girdle marking the long fitted bodice. Fullness of the floor-length skirt was drawn to the back. Gloves of the material were elbow-length, and her half-hat of matching material was accented with a rose and white gardenia at the back. Her colonial bouquet was of rose and white gardenias.

The bridesmaids were Miss Diane Wells, Miss Neeta Ball, and Miss Joyce Wood. Their dresses were fashioned like that of the matron of honor, with Miss Wells and Miss Ball wearing wine velveteen and Miss Wood rose velveteen. Their colonial bouquets were of pink and white gardenias, and they, too, wore elbow length gloves of velveteen.

Harvey Walker of Morton was his brother's best man.

Ushers were Charles Holman Jr. of Dallas, Robert Lee and Billy Clark of Shamrock, V. C. Saied and Johnny Jones.

Lighting the candles were little Miss Sharryon Longino of Odessa and Len Wilson of Borger.

The tiny flower girl and ring bearer were Peggy Lynn Ames of College Station and John Wayne Roark of Wichita Falls. Sharryon and Peggy Lynn wore dresses of rose velveteen which were fashioned identical to those of the other attendants.

Mrs. Riggs, mother of the bride, wore a navy blue ensemble with a navy taffeta picture hat. Her corsage was of white gardenias. The groom's mother, Mrs. Walker, was dressed in black and her corsage was of white gardenias.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents.

The dining table was laid with a lace cloth, appointed in crystal. The three tiered wedding cake was topped by two doves holding wedding rings, while wedding bells and flowers decorated the all-white cake.

After the bride and groom had cut the first slice, the cake was served by Miss Yvette Schaded, while Miss Jeanne Jones presided at the coffee service.

Guests included Misses Wood, Neeta Ball, Holder, Campbell, Anderson. Barbara Wilkins, Lura Finley, Coleman, Wells, Jones, Mrs. Holman and the honoree.

Pantry Shower

Closing the series of entertainments for Miss Riggs was the pantry shower in the C. B. Jones home. This was also a surprise event for the honoree.

Pink and white checked cloths covered the tables where the guests were seated, in keeping with the theme of the shower.

In the bridge games which followed, Mrs. Holman won high and Miss Campbell low, and they in turn presented their gifts to the bride-to-be.

Miss Riggs was then presented a large cardboard "store," stocked with pantry utensils and such things as spices, coffee, sugar, jellies, and other items.

Guests for the evening included Misses Campbell, Wood. Ball, Wells, Schaded, Wilkins, Finley, Anderson, Coleman, and Mesdames Langford, Holman and H. S. Riggs, and the honoree.

SUPER-SURE-GRIP TRACTOR TIRE

First choice for 2 reasons!

1. Deeper soil penetration — greater pull. Goodyear's open center tread has straight deep-biting lugs. They cut cleanly into the soil, penetrate full depth, full length. Straight bars closer together at the shoulders wedge the soil for firmer grip — don't "plow out" soil at the sides.

2. Balanced straight lug tread design — longer wear. Goodyear open center lugs are all straight, all equal in size and spacing. That's why every lug works equally, pulls fully, wears more evenly.

1950 Chevrolet Goes on Display Here Jan. 7; Many New Features

The new 1950 Chevrolet will go on display at the Clark Chevrolet Company in Wellington Saturday, January 7, that firm announced this week. One long- waited new feature is attracting the interest of car owners, both those who do and do not own Chevrolets.

The automatic transmission, hailed as the most revolutionary driving aid since the advent of the self-starter, makes its first appearance in the low-price automobile field, with the introduction of 1950 Chevrolets.

Chevrolet's application is an exclusive development known as Powerglide. A product of company research covering the entire postwar period, it is the chief element in an optional, extra-cost "power-team." Included is a larger, more powerful engine and many refinements that extend throughout the line of new passenger car models.

Also presented for the first time to the retail automobile market is the Bel Air, a luxurious, six-passenger coupe possessing the swank of the convertible with the practicality of the solid top. With the Bel Air as leader, the latest series contains two individually-styled two-door sedans and two four-door sedans, a sport coupe, business coupe, convertible coupe and all-steel station wagon. As in the 1949 models, when Chevrolet set new volume records to once again lead the industry in sales, most of the bodies are available in "special" and "de luxe" treatments.

1950 CHEVROLET OFFERS AUTOMATIC TRANSMISSION

As in 1949, Chevrolet's newest line of passenger cars offers two individually designed sedans. This is the Fleetline, so described because the curvature of the rear quarters follows body roof lines. Fresh beauty in exterior and interior treatment is visible to the eye with increased power and comfort highspotting chassis improvements. In addition, the company offers an automatic shift in the optional Powerglide transmission.

Improvements through the 1950 chassis and bodies are many. A new "Power-Jet" carburetor eliminates the "lean" periods in gasoline feed and affords quicker warmup in cold weather. Larger exhaust valve capacity helps power output. Each of the six-cylinder passenger car engines follows the traditional, economical valve-in-head design. In the new bodies, stylists have accomplished striking effects with smart, two-tone upholstery and freshly-fashioned exterior metalwork.

The Powerglide automatic transmission makes use of hydraulic torque conversion, a method of smoothly transmitting power to wheels that received considerable impetus during the war in the search for more maneuverable armored vehicles.

Torque, or the force of rotation, generated at the engine crankshaft, is now transferred through rapidly whirling oil. The force is increased in direct proportion to throttle pressure, as with the conventional clutch and gear transmission. However, instead of the "steps" involved with mechanical gear linkage to reduce engine speed as the car gathers momentum, the flow of power to the rear wheels is fluid and variable. Once the car is moving with the lever in "Drive" position, no shifting action is necessary regardless of the number of traffic stops-and-goes.

To develop an automatic transmission, Chevrolet engineers had two major problems even after the fundamental principles had been determined. The first was to design a unit that would meet Chevrolet's high-volume, quality standards. The second was to assure the economical operation for which the car has been famous.

Solution to the first problem involved an entirely new manufacturing setup and the construction of huge batteries of special purpose machinery. The mechanism, especially in the vanes which multiply the power of the fluid, requires exacting workmanship. A new plant was opened at Cleveland and manufacturing departments added at Flint, Mich. Starting slowly, the company forecasts a steady rise in production to a level never previously attained with precision parts of this description.

The so-called "power-team" answered the second problem. Here engineers designed a chassis to take full advantage of the responsiveness of an automatic transmission and yet at the same time maintain operating efficiency. More power was provided by a new engine. Increased cooling and greater intake and exhaust valve capacities were introduced. The manifold was

SAMNORWOOD

By MRS. C. W. FRITTS

John Morgan returned to his home near Samnorwood recently from an Amarillo hospital. He is recovering, and is able to be up some.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Grey, Mrs. Carl Caywood and daughter, Helen Popwell, Mrs. Frankie McClain and daughter, Cathy, of Borger, and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Burt, Jr. of Amarillo were Christmas Day guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Young.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Williams and son, James Carol, and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Jarrand of Paken, Mr. and Mrs. James Paul Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Truman Homby and children of Rochester, and Nolan Hop Wood were Christmas dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Young and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Young and children are moving this week from the Orville Cunningham farm to the L. E. Ward farm west of Wellington.

Dug Payne, a student at College Station, spent the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Payne.

FAR FROM HOME

The natural habitat of this large white owl is in the Artic but somehow it wandered down to Seaford, N. Y., where a resident found the creature in his yard with an injured wing and unable to move for the lack of food. Taken "under wing" at the Long Island Museum of Natural History at Seaford, the snowy owl is being patched up to go back home.

re-positioned and hydraulic valve lifters installed. The axle ratio was reduced from 4:11 to 3:55 to lower engine speeds. The result, together with exclusive features of the Powerglide, the company claims, is "the most satisfactory performance ever achieved with an automatic shift."

Driving with the Powerglide is simple. On the steering column is mounted a quadrant in miniature somewhat like power controls on ocean liners. The quadrant is marked from left to right with "Park," "N," "D," "L," and "R." A lever under the steering wheel positions a pointer at one of the five stations. To start the engine, the pointer may be placed at "N" (Neutral) or "Park." Otherwise the starter button on the dash remains ineffective. With the engine started, the lever is moved to place the pointer at "D" (Drive). For ordinary travel forward movement thereafter is dependent on throttle pressure alone.

To bring the car to a stop the throttle foot is moved to the brake as desired. Resumption of forward movement in traffic is obtained merely by depressing the throttle.

Because engineers must recognize that driving is not confined to forward movement on level, paved highways, the "R" (Reverse) and "L" (Low) positions are incorporated on the quadrant. Although the drive continues through the converter, low and reverse gears increase the power on the real wheels by definitely fixing the ratio of revolutions between the crank and propeller shafts. To provide the gears a simple planetary gearset is built into the transmission.

Advantages of the Powerglide over some of the other versions of the automatic shift are reportedly many. Through check vanes in the converter, the car does not "free wheel" once the throttle is released, giving the driver safer, surer control on down grades. Valve control of the hydraulic fluid is more positive and service-free. Reverse and low gears are fitted into a compact unit, permitting better response when the gears are alternated as might be necessary in "rocking" a car in deep sand, snow or mud. In the "park" position, gears are locked, preventing rolling on grades. In neutral the car may be pushed to gather momentum for the emergency engine starts that might be necessary with a dead battery.

The engine used with the Powerglide develops 105 horsepower at 3,600 revolutions per minute. Displacement is 235.5 cubic inches with bore and stroke at 3 9-16 x 3 15-16. Power output of the car without the automatic transmission has been boosted by engine refinements to 92 at 3,400 rpm's. The cubic inch capacity is 216.5 with bore and stroke 3 1-2 x 3 3-4.

The new carburetor applies to both engines. It introduces a concentric float bowl which prevents any "starvation" of the fuel metering jet regardless of sudden starts or the level of the road. Other highspots include a central location of the main discharge nozzle to eliminate gas spillage and a guard against vapor lock through the "bedding" of the metering jet in cooler fuel. More positive operation in cold weather is also claimed.

A direct drain has been added to prevent gasoline stains on rear fenders from fuel spilling during filling, ventipanes modified against wind roar, an improved rear vision mirror and glove compartment light repositioned to exclude glare are some of the other advances adding to 1950 Chevrolet quality. A novel touch is the inclusion of a whistle on the gas tank vent pipe to warn of approaching overflow.

New body colors are livelier than a year ago. Interiors are two-tone with tasteful greys being worked into the cushioning and paneling. The radiator grille has been redesigned to enhance grace and beauty. Bumper guards are higher and stronger. The "T" handle of the rear deck is replaced by a new stationary, ornamental handle. Tail lamps have been redesigned to be more easily discernible from the sides.

Although the Bel Air, possessing a special frame and other exclusive features, is best recognized for an unusual symmetry of body lines, the design offers utilitarian benefits as well. Vision has been increased, particularly toward the rear. The model has 40 per cent more rear window glass area than the conventional coupe.

FREEDOM PAYS OFF ... FOR YOU

You hear a lot of talk about the advantages of making our government socialistic. Don't be fooled. Freedom—and that's the American Way—pays off, and here's proof: Americans are only 1/16 of the world's population. Yet this handful of people produces almost 1/3 of the world's goods—mostly for its own enjoyment. What other system beats that?

AMERICANS HAVE MORE—

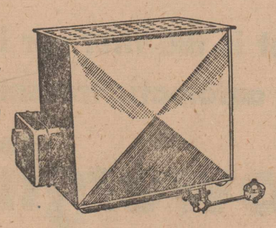

AMERICANS HAVE MORE OF EVERYTHING THAN ANYBODY ELSE!

Remember that, when you hear tales of the marvels of a socialistic government . . . when people urge that our government get that way by taking over the electric industry, steel, railroads, medicine, and so on and on. Look at the record. AMERICANS HAVE MORE OF EVERYTHING THAN ANYBODY ELSE. Freedom did it, and never forget that. It makes a lot of difference to you—and to your family.

Cycle of Prosperity for the "Magic Circle."

A county that has practically grown up during the first half of the 20th century, is bound to look with interest toward the second half of this same century. In line with this comes a prediction of President Walter A. Bowers, of Utopia College at Eureka, Kansas, concerning the coming importance of that portion of the lower Middle West he terms inside the "Magic Circle."

Now this Magic Circle is not new. Roger Babson, noted financial authority who among other things has founded the college Mr. Bowers heads has used the term for a number of years, describng it as "Richest in time of Peace, Safest in time of war of any part of the nation." He included in it this section of Texas, although Mr. Bowers stops at the Oklahoma state line. For all practicall purposes, the "Magic Circle" includes us.

In the second half of the twentieth century, Mr. Bowers predicts, the area within this "Magic Circle" will become the most important region in the nation's economy, with all its water, fuel and transportation resources, not to mention its food producing potential and its growing industrial importance.

He goes so far as to predict that a cycle of prosperity will begin in 1950. "Business, civic and educational leaders of the "Magic Circle" will begin in 1950 to assume leadership of America for the next half century. In the Magic Circle free enterprise and individual initiative will continue to receive priority over welfare state philosophies. In the Magic Circle governments will still function to serve the individual instead of the individual existing as a cog to serve a government."

Looking to the economic side of the picture, he says the center of population of the United States will move west of the Mississippi River to the world's largest gas and oil reserves, the most productive part of the nation from an agricultural standpoint, and where atomic energy and water power will aid in the development of vast new industries.

Nor is it to be overlooked that this area includes vast undeveloped resources.

All of this is fine. It sounds good to our ears, and a little looking will show that whether the good college thinker's predictions materialize there has been for some years a trend in the direction of his thought. Growth of industries has brought wealth, and improved farming methods have brought more.

But it all boils down to the fact that what we have gotten so far has come through our own hard work and enterprise, and what we get in the second half of the twentieth century will more than likely come by the same route.

OTHER EDITORS SAY:—

Modern Life Demands More Than Vocational Skills

A recent survey of higher education in the United States brings several issues into bold relief. First, our people have a great enthusiasm for higher education. In the second place, it is evident that our people place a far greater emphasis upon the practical applications of higher education than they do upon the value of liberal arts. This survey reveals that "a better appreciation of such things as literature, art and music" are designated as the least important college aims. "Training for a particular occupation or profession was over whelmingly considered the most important," says the report. Our people have learned their lessons well. The philosophy of materialism is well-rooted in American life. We all admit that education must equip one for his or her place in the world of work, but we must also recognize that our world makes demands upon all of us that go far beyond our vocational competence. It is in this area "beyond the vocational" that women have such a significant role to play. Indeed, I think it can be said that we must look to women to preserve and promote the values that we associate with general or liberal education. There is, then, a special place for such education in a college for women. Somehow, we must get a special emphasis upon our human resources, and those cultural and spiritual values which not only enrich our personal lives, but which are such a necessary ingredient to group living.

This national survey high lights one other fundamental issue. The report says that "in the field of education, it would seem, relativism has gone rampant. There exist few, if any, fundamental criteria that are acceptable to all." This fact is producing a vast amount of confusion in our personal and social living, and poses one of the basic problems of democracy. Under such conditions, education is a search for values, and since we reject a way of life superimposed from some authoritarian source, it is all the more essential that we develop the ability within each of us to build our own design for living which has meaning and significance, and which not only brings personal happiness, but also the greatest contribution to our group living.

These are broad generalizations that grow out of the demands of contemporary life, but we need to discover their functional applications in our educational program.

The Buck Creek Philosopher

Editor's note: The Buck Creek Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Buck Creek seems to be starting the new year off about like he finished the old one, his letter this week reveals.

Dear editar:

I was out here yesterday tryin to get over Christmas and collect my thoughts for the comin year, lots of folks I know spend a lot of time gettin their farmin equipment ready for a new year, get their planters ready, overhaul their plows, get their tractor tuned up, but neglect tunin up their minds, although a man that relies on his brain as much as I do to keep from relyin on a cultivator needs to get his mind in shape, let the other equipment look out for itself, and I got to thinkin.

With 1950 already on us, a man who is broad-gauged and looks beyond the immediate future needs not only some resolutions for the new year but also some for the new half-century, unless he's plannin on usin the same ones.

As for me, I figured out the resolution business a long time ago, and under my system a man don't have no trouble atall keepin his word.

For example, in 1950 I don't expect to plant no more cotton than I did in 1949 and I blamed sure ain't gonna work it any harder, and if the government is settin up a acreage control program for me, it can save its time. It doesn't take an act of Congress to get me to work less.

Moreover, I don't expect to have any less Johnson grass at the end of the year than I started with and I got Johnson grass in every direction now. I know when I'm whipped and Johnson grass and me buried our differences long ago when I seen which one had the most energy and as far as I'm concerned there's room for both of us out here. Don't know whether capitalism and communism can live together in the same world, but me and Johnson grass can.

Also, I don't expect 1950 to be any better than 1949. People are always excusin themselves and sayin next year will be better, but it generally ain't and besides I ain't got many complaints against last year anyway. Pretty good year. Started out nip-and-tuck, wound up nip-and-tuck, and my observation is that most people find most years the same way, and my policy has always been to enjoy the situation at hand, regardless of the economic index.

In short, I don't expect to do no better in 1950 than I did in 1949, an I expect to enjoy not doiin it.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

BIBLE COMMENT
FOR JAN. 8

The Resurrection Was the Church's One Foundation

With the miracle of the Resurrection of Jesus is associated the miracle of the transformation in the lives of men—a miracle that one man so transformed actually described as a passing from death unto life.

It was the Apostle John, one of the brothers whom Jesus called Boanerges, "sons of thunder" — the brothers who had wanted Jesus to call down fire and consume villagers who had used Him inhospitably, and who, through their mother, had sought the foremost places—this John, who said, "We know that we have passed from death unto life because we love the brethren." (I John 3:14).

It was in the miracle of the Resurrection—and in this miracle in the lives of the disciples—that the founding of the church began. Its true founder, of course, was Jesus, and it was founded in His life and teaching. Its charter was the Sermon on the Mount, and its mission and purpose the preaching of the good news concerning the gospel of God's love and grace. But it was the Resurrection that brought the life and teaching to its triumph in the lives of those who went forth to preach that gospel and to found the church.

They were real Christian statesmen, the men of divine destiny, who established the church upon its one foundation. Jesus Christ, whom they had known in His earthly life, and whose spiritual presence, "Lo, I am with you always," was their strength and guidance.

Soon they were to be strengthened by a converted persecutor, Paul, who saw the Christ, as he said "as one born out of due season."

If we would see the Christian church strong today, we must relive the experience of these men. We must find the faith, vision, and courage of the early disciples. What was possible then is possible now, if we will seek the power and guidance of God.

So maybe you've already seen some 1950 Buicks on the highway.
Maybe you've noticed the extra "git up and travel" they have—glimpsed the wide, curving windshields (one piece in most models)—noted, approvingly, that the typical Buick taper is now found in all Buick fenders.
Maybe you've even heard some things...
That there are more than a dozen-and-a-half models to choose from. That there are three power plants in the Buick line—all of higher compression, all stepped up in power.
That all models are big and roomy inside—some rear seats are better than a foot wider than before!—yet in every instance, shorter over-all, so easier to handle, park and garage.
Above all, maybe you've heard of exciting news on price...
That Dynaflow Drive, for instance—standard on ROADMASTER models, optional on all others—now costs 20% less than on 1949 models.
POWER NEWS WITH A REAL PUNCH!
Here's just one part of Buick's three-way power story for 1950—the brand-new F-263 valve-in-head straight-eight. Packing a wallop that makes the SUPER a standout performer of the season, here is still higher compression and still greater power in no greater overall size. You'll get this new engine on all SUPER models, in 124 hp with Synchro-Mesh transmission, 128 hp with Dynaflow Drive.*

The 1950 Dodge Coronet Now Displayed at Castleberry Motor Co.

The new 1950 Dodge is now on display at the Castleberry Motor Company in Wellington, J. B. Castleberry and Bobo Castleberry, owners, have announced.

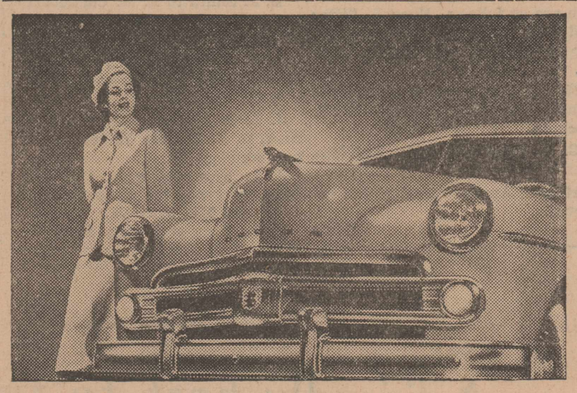

Pictures of the new models and specifications were released today. They are longer and lower in appearance as a result of styling modifications. Rear fenders are larger and longer and the rear tread is two inches wider. The rear window area in Coronet and Meadowbrook models is increased one-third. New parallel bar-type grille, of separate piece construction to minimize repair and replacement cost; new larger bumper guards, new exterior chrome trim, a restyled instrument panel, new dash and cowl insulation and new tail lights are among the improvements.

Available in ten body styles and on two standard wheelbases, the new Dodge cars retain the generous head room, shoulder room, leg room, seat height and wide door openings of preceding models, which established an all-time Dodge high in retail sales.

"The public has voted overwhelmingly in favor of the roominess, convenience and riding comfort that Dodge offers," Colbert said. "Our new models have those advantages in full measure. People enthuse over their looks, too. They are beautifully styled in the true tradition of functional de-

Fluid Drive is no-extra-cost equipment on all models. Gyro-Matic transmission, which frees the driver from shifting, is available in the Coronet series, at less cost than competitive automatic transmissions. Other chassis features, exclusive in the Dodge price class, include a resistor-protected ignition system, speed proofing of cylinders and Cycle-bond brake linings.

In the Coronet series, Dodge will build six body styles, including an entirely new model, The Diplomat. Seating six, the Diplomat has the low sporty lines of a convertible but with a permanent steel roof. Windows and divider bars crank down out of sight as in a convertible. Other Coronet models include a four-door sedan, club coupe, convertible, eight-passenger sedan and station wagon.

FRONT VIEW OF NEW DODGE

Beauty and serviceability are combined in the front end design of the new Dodge cars. Bumper guards are larger, and of special design to provide maximum protection to parking lights, hood and grille. The grille is made of gleaming stainless steel members, replaceable separately to minimize replacement costs.

The four-door Coronet station wagon has a new type of rear seat which folds down to form a level floor more than eight feet long. The spare wheel and tire are carried in a well below the floor. The station wagon's four-door design and positioning of seats enables passengers to enter or leave with exceptional ease.

Other models in the Dodge line are the Meadowbrook four-door sedan, Wayfarer two-door sedan, Wayfarer business coupe and the popular Wayfarer Sports Roadster. Coronet and Meadowbrook models have a standard wheelbase of 123 1-2 inches; the Wayfarers, 115 inches.

All models are powered by the Dodge "Get-Away" engine with a compression ratio of 7 to 1.

Despite their new, longer appearance and [illegible]ar tread, the new Dodg[illegible] substantially unchanged in[illegible]erior dimensions, thus retain[illegible] the "bigger inside, smaller outside" feature of preceding models.

Modifications in the front end, in addition to enhancing appearance, are designed to provide increased protection against costly repairs. Bumper guards are larger and are contoured to resist bumper locking and grille damage. The grille is constructed of chromed, stainless steel members which can be replaced separately. The attractive Dodge medallion is mounted on the center piece of the grille.

With a view to minimizing repair and replacement costs, fenders are bolted, not welded, to the body.

The Coronet and Meadowbrook sedans and Coronet club coupes have a new type of dash and cowl insulation to give passengers a quieter ride. Forward side panels are lined with a thick sheet of rubber, backed by a layer of jute, instead of the conventional embossed cardboard. The same combination—rubber and jute—is used in insulating the dash against heat and hum. Attractively patterned, the new linings are scuff-proof and will last for the life of the car.

Chemical treatment of cylinder walls has been one of the most successful recent improvements in the manufacture of automobile engines, according to B. B. Settle of Detroit, Dodge director of service.

At Dodge, the process is called speed proofing because it makes the break-in period of new car ownership easier, briefer, more enjoyable and safer from a service standpoint. It also prolongs the life of the engine. Dodge's instructions to new car owners are to hold speed to 40 miles per hour for the first 250 miles, then add 5 MPH for each 25 miles. Thus at 350 miles on the speedometer, a speed of 60 MPH is permissible, although owners are told not to drive at sustained high speeds during the first 1000 miles.

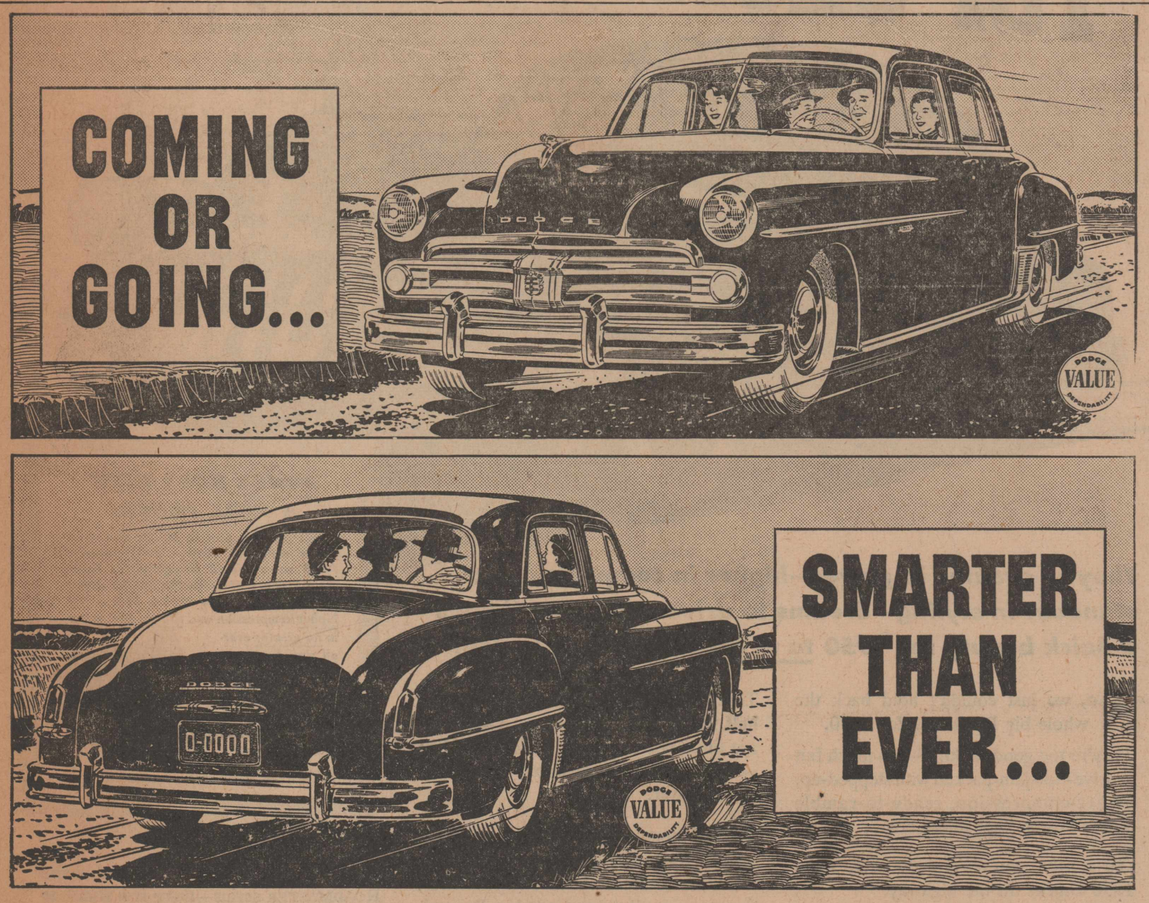

Settle says owners and dealer service departments alike are enthusiastic over the results of speed proofing, which has now been tested and proved in billions of miles of owner use.

Cylinder walls in Dodge engines are machined to precise tolerances and then are given a chemical coating that serves two purposes. First the chemical reduces the possibility of scuffing contact between pistons or rings and cylinder walls during the first few hundred miles of operation. Second, the chemical creates microscopically fine pockets in the cylinder walls. These invisible pockets below the surface serve as minute lubrication reservoirs and provide an extra source of lubrication — an important factor in extending the life of cylinder walls and rings.

From a service standpoint, Settle regards two other recent engine improvements as of major importance. They are the Oilite fuel filter and the Dodge resistor-protected, moisture-resistant, ignition system. Both contribute importantly, he says, to trouble-free motoring.

New body lines, larger rear window and fresh front end styling identify the new Dodge Coronet four-door sedan. The new Dodge line consists of ten body styles on two wheelbases.
