Wolves kickoff 1994 football season Friday night

The young and inexperienced Colorado City Wolves travel to Coahoma Friday night to kick off the 1994 football season. Game time for all non-district games is 8 p.m.

The Wolves have high hopes of improving on last year's record of one win and nine losses.

Third-year head coach Mark Howeth will have the majority of the coaching staff back from last year.

New defensive coordinator Steve Gunter joined the staff this summer, replacing Gary Graves, who moved to Abilene.

Returning coaches include offensive coordinator Chuck Claxton,

Jerold Epperson, Larry Hartwick, Kyle Baker, Yardy Powell and Monte Richburg.

Traditionally, 3AAA and larger schools win with seniors and once again the young Wolves have only six on the roster. However, the coaching staff is expecting a great deal of leadership from them.

Returning starters on defense include three seniors, Daniel Silva, Jason Castillo and Frank Casares. Junior Ryan Costabile will also be returning as a starter.

Others starting on defense are Dan Morgan, Phillip Garcia, Eli Ornelas and Clint Simms.

Ty Henderson and Tim Edwards will alternate and sophomores Joe Ross Jamieson and Zack Love round out the Wolves' starting defensive unit.

Offensively the Wolves have a little more experience with seven returning starters back from last

You can also mail your entry in to the Record at P.O. Box 92. All entries must be postmarked by 5 p.m. Friday.

CISD adopts '94-'95 budget

The Colorado Independent School District Board of Education voted unanimously to adopt the 1994-95 official budget of over $9.3 million Monday night.

CISD Business Manager and Tax Collector Geneva Findley said as part of the method used to figure out the district's budget she "projects revenues to be low and expenditures to be high."

The expected revenue for the 1994-95 school year is $8.1 million. An additional $1.2 million will come out of the cash fund balance to meet this year's planned budget.

The total budget for the school year is $9,393,115, Findley said.

She explained that more than $250 thousand of the $9.3 million will come from this year's tax base.

The board unanimously voted to approve a resolution that will raise this year's tax base from $1.457 to $1.52, representing an increase of .63 per $100.

Christine Cooley

Christine Cooley retires after 28 years

Christine Cooley worked for the Colorado Independent School District 28 years before finally retiring.

Why did she stay for so long? Simple. She was happy and satisfied and she said she still feels the same way, even in retirement.

"The most gratifying part was taking care of the children," Cooley said.

Cooley wasn't a teacher, she didn't serve on the Board of Trustees and no, she wasn't a counselor. Not unless you want to consider her a food counselor.

Cooley started work at CISD in 1966.

City tax rate is increased

Colorado City Council members voted unanimously to accept a .423 increase in the 1994-95 tax rate.

The property tax rate was increased from last year's rate of .3763 to .4186 per $100 in the hopes that the City will be able to divert a deficit budget.

City Manager Steve Shutt said the tax rate increase was necessary because "the last two years the City has been running into deficit budgets to keep from having to raise taxes."

Also attributing to the deficit budget were unexpected expenses not foreseen by the council members at the time, he added.

By raising the tax rate the City hopes to get ahead of its current deficit situation within its general fund.

According to Shutt there will be a deficit of $100-$200 thousand within the general fund.

Mayor Jim Baum said that although the City is raising taxes the deficit will still be there.

"The money we collect from the ad valorem tax doesn't even cover the operation of the police department," Baum said.

Shutt attributes much of the problem to the previous policy of transferring monies from one of the various funds to another.

Rotary dove hunt is slated for September 3

The fourth annual Colorado City Rotary Club Dove Hunt will be held on Saturday, September 3.

Activities scheduled for the day-long event include both a morning and evening hunt. Sufficient prime dove hunting locations have been lined up by club members.

Hunters will meet at 6 a.m. at the Villa Restaurant, located at the intersection of Interstate 20 and Hwy. 208 North for registration. Those who have preregistered should also meet there. Transportation to hunt locations will be available.

The morning hunt will begin at approximately 7:30 a.m. and will last until noon. A catered barbeque lunch will be served and is included in the registration fee.

You may preregister for the hunt by mailing your name, address and hunting license number along with a fee of $25 per gun to: Rotary Club Dove Hunt, P.O. Box 912, Colorado City, TX 79512.

Quarterbacking again this year will be senior Jason Castillo. He'll be joined in the backfield with Phillip Garcia and Frank Espinoza. Freshman Aerial Emerson will also see a lot of action this year.

Other returning starters include Daniel Silva, Frank Casares, Marcus Sanchez and Lynn Boyd.

Rounding out the offense are first-time varsity starters Tim Edwards, Ty Henderson, Andrew Briseno and Jaime Gutierrez.

Two Wolves will be starting both offensively and defensively. Quarterback Jason Castillo also plays defensive back and Frank Casares is the offensive center and a defensive linebacker.

Castillo was a second team defensive back All-District selection last year.

The Wolves' biggest problem this year may be depth. "Because we're limited in numbers, we've had to move some sophomores up," Howeth said. Hopefully, the Wolves can stay healthy.

Sophomore Chris Ramirez will handle the kicking chores. "Chris has been doing a good job and we're pleased with his progress," Howeth said.

However, the punting game is a different story. The Wolves have had a difficult time finding a punter. "We're very inexperienced in the punting game," Howeth continued.

Once again it's going to be an interesting race in the always-tough district 8-3A. Kermit is probably the team to beat. Reagan County, Sonora, Crane, Midland, Greenwood and Colorado City make up this tough district.

It's the season opener for both the Wolves and Coahoma and the Wolves hope to avenge last year's 34-7 loss to Coahoma.

1966 as a cook at Hutchinson and put out more fruits," she said. "Now they're working on a plan to cut down on fat intake."

Cooley said through all the changes, she never got tired of her job and she attributes this to her employees and the students.

Elementary and worked her way up to Food Service Director.

So, in a way, we can call her a counselor, because after all, she was the person who decided what nutritious foods the children in CISD got to eat.

"There were a lot of responsibilities that came with the job," she said. "I was in charge of four kitchens, responsible for 20-25 employees, hired personnel, purchased the food and had to plan a budget for almost a quarter of a million dollars."

Cooley said there were changes she had to face, both small and large.

"I moved from an adding machine to a computer," she said. "And eventually products became more competitive."

She explained that she used to buy products from whomever she could get them, but that soon turned to "everyone wanting you to buy from them," she said.

Cooley said state guidelines changed, too.

"We couldn't put salt shakers on tables anymore to cut down on sodium and we would use less sugar

"I really enjoyed working with all the people and ensuring that the students were taken care of," she said.

Now that she's retired Cooley said she wants to spend more time with her children, grandchildren and great grandchild.

Cooley was born and raised in rural Arkansas in the Ozark Mountains, but she said she calls Colorado City home.

"When we moved here in 1959 I cried almost every day," she said. "But now, if I ever left Colorado City, I would probably cry every day, because this is my home."

"This has created a lot of holes in the general fund that we need to deal with," he said.

Property tax statements will be sent out October 1 and will reflect the adopted tax rate of .4186.

All property taxes will be due by February 1 after which they will become delinquent and be charged a seven percent penalty and interest rate.

That total will increase every month until it reaches a maximum of 18 percent in July 1995. From there, a one percent interest charge will be charged every month after that.

The City hopes to raise approximately $215 thousand dollars with the new tax rate in place.

increase for out-patient revenue.

"Hopefully the new physicians will generate that much more additional business," he said.

Alford said he felt that the budget was a reasonable one.

"We have realistic expenses on the one side and we're conservative on the revenues on the other side," he said.

Part of the reason for being conservative with revenue predictions is because the hospital district is not sure of the implications of the possible Health Care Reform plan, Alford said.

Alford added that because he felt the budget was a workable one that he would recommend not raising the tax rate.

The board unanimously voted to allow the tax rate to remain at its current .3736 per $100 level.

CHIEF LONE WOLF

BY JIM BAUM

Back in the early '40s, the amphitheatre at Ruddick Park was jumpin' with entertainment. And Ida Mae Keith Shawn of San Angelo remembers those days. When she was a child growing up here, she recalls EVERYONE went to the park on Friday nights to enjoy the talent shows.

"A band composed of present and past members of the high school band," she wrote to us, "led by the high school band director, R.P. Rose, would play before the talent show began. Everyone would settle themselves on the rock tiers (trying to escape the inevitable patch of stickers), enjoying the ice cold bottles of pop they had purchased by the swimming pool, the conversation with their neighbors and the band music before the individual displays of talent were presented."

Well, Ida Mae, the amphitheatre and the stickers are still there, but the talent you mentioned has long since vanished. Mrs. Shawn particularly remembers a local band. It was comprised of "Dr. Logsdon, State Senator Sam Bullock and lawyer Harry Ratliff." She says they all wore big cowboy hats and maybe chaps and played western music, a sort of Bob Wills sound.

Well, Ida Mae, nowadays folks in Mitchell County turn on TV and flip through the channels 'til they get something like "Nashville Today." We'll probably never see the likes of the physician-politician-attorney band again.

Mrs. Shawn reminds us that just behind the amphitheatre and across Lone Wolf Creek was (and still is) the Boy Scout House.

"Our little group of Campfire Girls (we didn't have any Girl Scouts in Colorado City at the time), had an overnight campout there. [We] fixed our meals over the fire, sang our songs, told stories and heard a lot of spooky sounds during the night."

She recalls that their sponsor was their sixth grade teacher, Rebecca Smoot. The Smoots (her father was a banker) lived in a big house on the corner of 5th and Chestnut, "or Church Street, as it was more often referred to in those days."

Ida Mae says she knows those teachers back then cared about the girls, "even after we had left their care. Miss Smoot, for example, invited all of her Campfire Girls to her wedding several years later." Of course, the invitation was readily accepted by the girls.

Another event recalled by Mrs. Shawn also occurred at Ruddick Park. The annual Methodist barbeque was held there each summer, during the early '40s, and the Wulfjen brothers, Sam and Urda, provided the meat and did the cooking.

"I remember going out with my dad one morning before that evening's gathering and I was impressed. They had sides of beef on long poles across that big cooking 'pit' and would anoint it with sauce applied with those white string kitchen mops. Talk about heavenly aroma!"

Mrs. Shawn goes on to say Sam Wulfjen always reminded her of Will Rogers, "in looks and mannerisms." And she says both Wulfjen brothers were the "salt of the earth," really fine people.

The former Colorado City resident also remembers the Methodist women used to cook every Friday for the Noon Lion's Club.

"Those women," she added, "cooked some of the best meals you could ever hope to taste in the kitchen [at the church]." She says she knows that to be a fact, because her mother was one of the cooks and Mrs. Keith "volunteered" her daughter to help.

The women cooked the Lions meals to raise money for either the Women's Society of Christian Service or the Wesley Bible Class. She can't remember which.

And on the subject of food, who remembers where Terry's Boardinghouse was? It's now the Colorado City Playhouse and it was a great place to eat.

"On Sundays (maybe other times, too), they opened the dining room to the public and I think the meals were a whopping 75¢, all you could eat, family style. Believe me, you had to stand in line and wait to get in the dining room." Terry's later moved to 4th and Hickory, where the carwash is now.

To round out her letter, Mrs. Shawn took us on a trip down Memory Lane, or in this case, through downtown Colorado City.

It's a typical Saturday evening, in the fall, about 50 years ago. "Well, I was quite young at the time," she writes. "Parking places are at a premium, so we were lucky to find one in front of City Hall at 3rd and Oak. The best ones are along 2nd between Oak and Elm or on Walnut between the depot and 3rd."

You can sit in your car and watch everyone walking up and down the sidewalks. Right beside City Hall on the north side of the street is the new Kiker and Son Funeral Home, "now the police station. Next was the post office."

"Cross Walnut and on the northeast corner is the Ritz Theatre. Roy Rogers, Gene Autry or some other western is playing on Saturday, always! Across the street is Thomas Brothers Service Station. "Next to Thomas Brothers is Dr. J. Melvin Crymes' office with Mrs. Crymes as office manager, nurse and doctor's assistant."

"Then comes Mrs. Tiner's Beauty Shoppe. I could write a bit on the tortures of the permanent wave machines that were used at that time. On the corner is Dr. Logsdon's Clinic. Heading south on Elm, we pass Hardegree's Bakery, then we come to Max Berman's Department Store on the corner of 2nd and Elm."

"Across the street is the Barcroft Hotel, ably run by Mrs. Barcroft herself, a longtime pillar of the community. On 2nd, just east of the hotel, is Herrington Auto Parts. Across from the hotel where Anthony's is located today was Piggly Wiggly Grocery, J.W. Randle."

Going back to 2nd and Elm, headed west, Mrs. Shawn recalls Farmer's Candy Kitchen, Sam Majors Jewelry Store and a barber shop. She says Colorado City had a lot of barbers back in those days. Men like Ed Jones, Bert Smith, Boyd Dozier, Roy Dozier, Mr. Simpson and others. "I guess men got haircuts more often than some of them seem to nowadays," she concluded.

Meanwhile, the sentimental journey continues along 2nd Street. The Best Yet Cafe, run by a Mr. Richardson, was where the RECORD office is today. There was also Thomas Dry Goods and a variety store owned by H.I. Berman with Walgreen Drug on the corner. "Sie Hamm presided over the prescription counter at the back of the store by the side door opening on to Walnut," Mrs. Shawn remembers.

Turning north on Walnut, Huron Dorn Dry Cleaners was in business. Mr. Dorn, she recalls, smoking his ever-present cigar, operated one of the steam presses himself.

Then came Pritchett Grocery, next to the Western Auto Store, owned by Leslie A. Keith, with the help of their children, including Ida Mae and the next store was Dr. Nall's dental office and Adolph Wood's Barbershop. That brought us back to Thomas Brothers Service Station.

"Crossing to the west side of Walnut," Mrs. Shawn wrote, "we find Pond and Merritt Cleaners on the corner. Hutchinson Hardware was located where Corky's is today, then down on the corner was Corner Drug with Henry Bilberry as pharmacist."

Next week we'll continue the tour and walk past such landmarks as Fuller's Grocery, Bodzin's, Barry-Fee Hardware and Miss Neal Mill's hat shop. Better come early so you won't have to park in front of City Hall!

Public urged to attend health care meeting

The Center for Rural Health Initiatives (CRHI), the state Office of Rural Health, is seeking public testimony on rural health care issues.

The hearing will take place in the east room of Dorothy Garrett Auditorium, Howard College, 1001 Birdwell, Big Spring on Wednesday, September 7 at 1:30 p.m. The phone number is (915) 264-5045.

The CRHI will use verbal and written testimony from interested persons to develop its report on rural health care for the 74th Texas Legislature in January 1995.

The report will contain information about the state of rural health and suggestions for legislative and programmatic changes to help improve rural health care in Texas.

The CRHI is interested in receiving testimony on the following subjects:

Changes in local health service needs; experience in recruiting health professionals; hospital and other health facility needs; health care availability and accessibility in underserved areas; specific service needs such as maternal and child health, obstetrical, emergency medical/trauma care, substance abuse; mental health services and preventive services; health service needs of the elderly and transportation needs.

Written comments from persons unable to attend are welcome.

Send comments to the Center for Rural Health Initiatives, P.O. Drawer 1708, Austin, TX 78767-1708.

Stenholm picnic is set for September 10

"Welcome to Ericksdahl" will be the greeting on Saturday, September 10 as neighbors gather in Stamford for their annual picnic honoring Charlie and Cindy Stenholm.

Swedish immigrants first gathered in 1906 on 80 acres along California Creek that were once a part of the S.M. Swenson ranches and now belong to the Lutheran church.

A publication of 1918 records, "The land occupied by the Swedish and Danish people stretches from Stamford to Lueders with some of it lying in the western part of Shackelford County. Most of it is upland intersected by hills and valleys."

The first church building was a white frame structure completed in the summer of 1907 at a total cost of $2520.

Today a magnificent rock building dominates the area. Men of the congregation began digging rocks in 1932 and the building was completed in 1941.

Dr. Hugo B. Haterius had come to serve the church and the community in 1919. He dedicated his life to improving living conditions with emphasis on better farming practices.

The California Creek Soil Conservation District was organized in 1938. One of the early officers of the group was Lambert Stenholm, father of Charlie.

On September 10 a western band will provide music as friends reminisce and get in line for barbecue and watermelon. Charlie and Cindy have a farm home two miles from the picnic area.

The event will start at 4:30 p.m. For more information call (915) 773-5521.

LORAINE NEWS ABOUT TOWN

BY BESSIE ANN VAUGHN

And the heat goes on....
Using the remote control for the television, I clicked into something that didn't appear to be a rerun and watched a pretty young lady interview a "movie star" that I wasn't familiar with.

He told her that while on hiatus from filming he liked to play golf and fish but decided it was just too hot right now to do either.

He went on to say he was writing some country songs in hopes of pitching them to Garth Brooks and Vince Gill.

The young lady told the "star" she was from Tennessee and could give him advice if he wanted it.... The star said, "Oh, yes; he needed all the help he could get. She told him the producers were looking for songs with mama, cheating, dying, lying, trains or leaving in them.

It's true the weather is still too hot to do much and I might as well write and pitch, too.

If I incorporate all the misery at once my song will surely be a hit, don't you thing?

I can't go home to my darlin'... She's no longer waiting 'round. I sure can't go home to my mama 'cause they boxed her in the ground.

Yodel...Lady...Lady...hoo!
I got to drinkin' hard likker... And staggered close to the track.

Now I don't have any toes left... And the doctor can't sew 'em back.

Yodel...Lady...Lady...hoo!
I'm sorry I did so much cheatin'... And I got to drinking this gin.

I stole a truck Monday morning... And now they have me in the "pen."

Yodel...Lady...Lady...hoo!
This could take too much pitching, don't you think?

Water sprinklers are going full blast at the city park and it looks so cool and inviting.

I would guess that there's a city ordinance against sitting under a sprinkler but I'm almost willing to try it.

Loraine does have a bicycle ordinance now that prohibits bicycle riding up on the sidewalks in certain places in town. Call City Hall for the locations.

Last Saturday the 20th was a very special day for Dawn Butler as she entered Hardin-Simmons University. Family and friends are proud and wish her the very best.

Pam and Brian Butler had a doctor's appointment to keep in Abilene, so Juaneice went along, knowing that she would get to see Dawn while there.

Lee Matlock wants to remind us that there will be a city-wide revival in Colorado City at the Christian Temple, a non-denominational church, starting Saturday night September 24 at 7 p.m. The speaker will be Bro. Bill Buckley.

Terry McCollum and wife Nikki from Tucson, AZ came back to Loraine this past week to visit relatives, see old friends, take pictures and reminisce. Terry is a nephew of Jay McCollum of Colorado City. His father is H.B. McCollum and his grandfather is Dee McCollum, all Lorainians.

He went out to visit his old home place where Roland Graham now lives.

While at the Baptist Church Sunday, Terry sang some special songs. While youngster, he developed a boys' choir.

He also visited with Chrystene Hall, Iris Preston and Vida Mae McDaniel.

Guests of Royce and Neysa Beights from Lubbock recently were Tracy Biles, along with Morgan and Natalie.

Carroll and Joy Bowles from Waco last week came not only to visit with the Beights' and Lula Lafevre, but also with Mrs. Harmon in Colorado City.

Sunday the 28th, Bill and Lela Bowles from Rule, Tx., along with Royce and Neysa, visited with Lula Lafevre and took her out to lunch.

Last Sunday, Kenneth Johnson from Big Spring came to visit his mother, Dorothy Johnson.

Later in the day they rode around to look at local places and crops, then dined out in the evening.

While other people are eager to retire from work, Vida Mae McDaniel is anxious to get to her job each morning at the Coahoma State Bank, Loraine Branch. Other than her family and church, her two great loves are music and her work.

Vita Mae started playing piano in 1950 and still plays for the Baptist Church and other fun choirs as well. She is a gifted pianist.

In 1953 she began her job at the bank and is now vice president, so she must have done something right!! The townspeople have depended on her over the years and she's done her best for each one.

Other friends at the bank with long work tenures are Chris Oliver and Doris Graham, who are both friendly and helpful.

Bill Crockett is branch manager at the bank in Loraine and he, Vita Mae and the other employees appreciate your business.

The bank was established in 1908 and in September of 1993 merged with Coahoma.

They have available rent boxes, a night drop and continuous hours from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Darlene Hamrick, Senior Center manager, says to write down the date for flu shots as being October 5 at 9 a.m.

Medicare and Medicaid will pay for this service for older Americans.

Please let the Center know if you will be planning to get your shot through the Center by the Friday before inoculation, which will be Friday, September 30.

Tetanus and pneumonia shots will also be available.

Please remember to bring your Medicare and Medicaid cards.

Members having birthdays in August are Gertrude Stokes, Ollie Gale, Della Matejowski, Leila Beaty, Yvonne Sadler, Laura Stewart, Auta Doss, Nola Taylor, Billy Schroeder, Howard Calloway, Edith Matlock, Deede Hantche, David Collier, Virgil Parnell and Jewell Boatter.

Doris Henderson made the special cake for the party table.

All in attendance enjoyed the traditional turkey and dressing lunch with all the delicious trimmings.

Irene Kidd is making doll furniture ... Dorothy Johnson said something about a root canal ... Billy Derryberry has his new glasses ... Joy Dickenson played piano Wednesday and Lee Matlock led group singing at the Center ... Audrey Beights has been picking peas ... Jack Richey sporting a pretty new shirt ... Elsie LeCroy winning another watermelon....

Have you ever eaten cantaloupe cobbler? It is wonderful! Tastes a little like apples and peaches mixed. Nora and Millie say to make it just like a peach or apple cobbler pie. You'll love it!

Other memorials made to the Center lately have been from Syble Walker, Margaret Brame and Bessie Ann Vaughn.

James and Treva Quinney from Oklahoma came to the Center Friday the 26th to visit and have lunch with Bobby and Darlene Hamrick.

We had a nice card from Winnie and O.W. Richburg. She is doing some better now. They are adjusting to life in Lubbock but miss friends back home.

Thank you, Della Matejowski and Billie Schroeder, for the pot holders for the kitchen.

"Spotlight"

This week's spotlight shines on Joy Moreau Dickenson, a retired school teacher who has lived in Loraine for many years.

Joy was born and raised in Olustee, Okla. and went through all her school grades and graduated there.

She received her B.F.A. degree from OBU in Shawnee, Okla. and her M.E. degree from Hardin-Simmons.

Joy taught school in Oklahoma for ten years, later going to Crane and Levelland for several years before coming to Loraine.

Mrs. Dickenson taught public school music and high school English in Oklahoma and in Texas taught elementary grades and music.

For 17 years here in Loraine, Joy helped out and taught at the Spanish Mission, where she spent some of her most enjoyable moments to date. She has a daughter, Ann, and two grandsons. Her late husband, Vance Dickenson, was coach and high school principal here in town for several years.

Joy's hobbies are bird watching, needlework, art, music and reading. She won't mention this, but she is still active in the community and helps out whenever she can. We are fortunate to have Joy in Loraine.

Have You Ever?

Have you ever decided that you could crochet because your sisters could, and it was most likely in the genes anyway?

Why should I need a teacher, I reasoned. I've watched women crochet a chain, then make something. It looked extremely easy, a piece of cake!

It's true, chaining was easy, but what in the world am I going to do with 37 miles of pink chain?

The thread cost too much not to use the long chain for something! I could string it back and forth two and a half times to Colorado City and once to Roscoe, but why?

Swallowing my pride, I asked a friend for instructions on how to make a simple pot holder and could barely wait to begin. In no time I had a little tiny pink ugly thing that buckled up and poached out and up.

The "thing" wouldn't lay flat even though I ironed it while wet several times. Finally, almost crying, I gave up on a pot holder and told everyone what I had crocheted was a little bitty pink hat for a chihuahua dog.

Oh, look. Here are some instructions on how to knit ... it looks so easy—piece of cake!

Now I can use the 37 miles of thread and knit several sweaters; pink sweaters would be nice!

Take good care and see you about town!

Football is here

Housewives, girlfriends, mothers and sisters BEWARE! FOOTBALL SEASON IS HERE!

Soon husbands, sons and in my case, boyfriends, will be glued to the television set watching Monday night football or games that happen to show up Sunday afternoon. And yes, even our Wednesday nights will be occupied with our beloved's favorite sport.

Now gentlemen, don't get in an uproar! I'm not trying to get the women to band together in an anti-football movement...I'm actually trying to help you men out, so bear with me.

This is a Bama gal here and believe me when I say I know what a football tradition is, be it professional, college ball or high school.

Attending the University of Alabama taught me one thing about football...when this time of the year rolls around, what else is there? And, to most men concerned, there isn't anything else.

I don't know much about the football traditions of West Texas, but I definitely know about tradition. And let's not forget the rivalries. For me it was the Crimson Tide versus the Auburn Tigers and heaven help you if you were a Tiger fan.

From what I can see Texas has its own traditions and rivalries. Dallas Cowboys were Super Bowl Champs two years in a row. And let's face it, everyone is praying for a third consecutive championship. Now, in the face of certain ridicule, I think the chance of that occurring is, well... possible, but no cigar.

Who do I think will win this year's coveted title? Well, I like New Orleans, but don't quote me on that, (unless, of course, they do win when you can quote me all you want).

Now I've been told that THE RIVALRY in Texas is the Texas Longhorns against the Texas A&M Aggies (or A&M Aggies against the Texas Longhorns, lest I offend someone). If this rivalry is anything like the heated one between Alabama and Auburn, this Bama gal may fit in just fine here.

Of course I haven't been around long enough to chose sides, but I'm sure the good folks of Colorado City will be more than happy to help me make up my mind.

Someone recently asked me if I thought Bama would win another trip to the Sugar Bowl and walk away number one this year, as has happened so often in previous years. My response to him was, "Is Austin the state capitol?"

I really have to admit, I miss the chants of thousands of people crowded into Bryant-Denny Stadium shouting "Roll Tide" at the tops of their lungs. It's a huge rush to watch your team crush its opponent, whenever the unlucky team may be.

I'm sorry, I seem to have gotten off track.... Now ladies, back to your dilemma. I know that after a day of work, your men will come home too tired to help you out around the house, but not too tired to watch football for several ungodly hours.

And I know that your poor, dear, exhausted loved one will be too tired to take out the trash, but not so tired that he expends what little energy he has whoopin' and a hollerin' at the T.V.

And romantic nights? Uh-uh. Forget about them. They don't exist during football season.

There's really only one solution to this problem, as we Bama gals have found out.... If you can't beat 'em join 'em. It makes life a lot easier, and let's not forget.... Football's really NOT that bad. We simply hate it because our men love it.

Varsity girls play in Wichita Falls Tourney

The Colorado City varsity girls volleyball team participated in the Wichita Falls Tournament last weekend.

Friday they played three mini-games: Pampa, 10-15, 12-15; Notre Dame, 15-7, 17-15; and Rider High, 11-15, 12-15.

"All the games were close and good competition for our girls," said Coach Linda Mathis.

The team won against Holliday on Saturday, then lost twice to Vernon.

"Our girls played well and competed well with the other school involved. It's early in the season and our goal is to improve our serving and passes so we can use our power hitters to our advantage," Coach Mathis added.

The next home game is the Lone Wolf Tourney, September 17.

It's not too late to join the Booster Club

The Booster Club is continuing to sell memberships for the year. A one-year membership is only $5. All proceeds from the Booster Club are put back into the Wolf football program.

The noon luncheon is Dutch treat and the club will meet every Thursday during the season.

The Booster Club will meet Thursday noon at Collum's Restaurant for their first noon luncheon of the year.

Head coach Mark Howeth will introduce the Wolf varsity players and all parents and Booster Club members are urged to attend.

Freshman volleyball team competes in Abilene

The Colorado City freshman volleyball team competed in the Key City Tournament in the Abilene High Tourney on August 27.

They lost their first match after three close games, then won, bringing home the consolation trophy.

In the second match they beat Albany; they won against Brownwood in the third match and in the fourth match they won against Cooper.

"The competition was good and our girls played very well," Coach Linda Mathis commented.

GED fall registration to be held Sept. 6

Registration for GED fall classes will be Thursday, September 6 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the Wallace Center.

Classes will begin the following Monday, September 12, and will be held each Monday from 6-10 p.m. at the center.

Teachers for the year will be Orphie Conner and Bob Reily and instruction will be on an individual basis.

"This enables people to attend classes when they can without falling behind as would be true in the normal classroom situation," Reily said.

All supplies and instructional material are furnished to the students free of charge.

According to Reily, the informality of the classes helps students to feel more relaxed.

"We try to make the classes as informal as possible with each student free to advance at his or her own pace," he said.

Reily said that both he and Conner were looking forward to the new year.

"It has been very gratifying to see so many students in the last two or three years obtain much better jobs that require a high school diploma or GED certification," he added.

Stenholm says crime bill is "misguided attempt"

Congressman Charles Stenholm voted against the amended conference report on the crime bill last week when it was brought before the House.

The bill passed by a vote of 235 to 195.

"While the amended version of the crime bill was better than the original conference report, there were not enough substantive changes to the bill to gain my support," said Stenholm.

A compromise bill was worked out so that it could gain enough support to pass the House.

Changes to the crime bill included a cut of $3.3 billion in spending, block grants for some of the specific prevention program monies and stronger consequences for sexually violent predators.

Stenholm said, "Obviously, I am disappointed by the outcome of this vote. It has been my belief throughout this entire process that we should have killed this bill and started over next year with a more targeted approach."

"The law enforcement folks tell me that they know what the problems are in their jurisdiction and they are handling these problems at the local level."

"They see this crime bill as another misguided attempt by the federal government to try and mandate solutions for state and local problems," he added.

Another crime proposal, co-sponsored by Stenholm, would have provided grants to correctional facilities to expand prison capacity, grants to state and local law enforcement and funding for border enforcement.

The alternative proposal would also have required truth-in-sentencing, abolished luxuries for prisoners, required prison work, stopped the endless appeals process for death row inmates and convicted felons and would have provided a "good faith" exception to the exclusionary rule, ending the practice of setting criminals free based on technicalities.

This alternative failed to gain the necessary support in the House.

Education Forum

Life Skills Building almost completed

After almost a year of planning, paperwork and construction the new Life Skills Building is almost ready to be utilized by self-contained special education students in the Colorado Independent School District.

In the beginning of 1994 CISD began making preparations for the construction of a 1,600 square foot "home" at Colorado Middle School. There, students will be taught life skills in order to become as self-sufficient as possible when they leave the public school system.

The construction of the Life Skills building was completely funded by federal monies allocated for special education programs.

Local architect Ron Goebel designed and overlooked construction of the building.

According to Kitten Arthur, CISD Curriculum Director, the facility will be addressing needs that are not currently being met in the district.

"The whole idea behind the project was to create an atmosphere as close as we can get to the real world," she said.

According to Arthur the home has three rooms. One of those rooms will be used by students to learn general skills such as folding clothes and doing handicrafts.

The second room is designed like any normal bedroom would be, she said. Here the students would learn general home maintenance skills such as dusting and changing sheets.

The third room will consist of a hospital bed and teach students how to provide basic hospital maintenance and care, she added.

"We want them to be self supportive when they enter the real world," Arthur said. "Here we hope to teach them skills that could earn them jobs in the hotel/motel industry or with the hospital."

According to Arthur the house will be maintained by the students themselves.

"They'll be responsible for all the maintenance, cleaning and up keep of the grounds," she said.

Arthur said the facility would be utilized by all the schools in the district and will not be limited to just the special education students.

"For example, if the home economics class wanted a nice place to host a luncheon they could do so in the Life Skills Building," she said.

Teachers and students are anticipating starting classes in the Life Skills Building within the next few weeks, Arthur said.

TEXAS ANGLER

BY KEITH WARREN

Many fishermen experience difficulty in locating black bass whether they are fishing in a lake they have never been to, or fishing in a lake they have fished for years.

Most people can catch bass after they find them, but they need to find them first!

Black bass are predators. They feed on just about anything they can catch and swallow.

At certain times of the year they are very predictable. But more often than not, they will elude fishermen.

I have fished with some of the best bass fishermen in the world. Sure, some of those days we were successful in catching numbers of big bass, but these guys are professionals. They know things that normal fishermen don't. That's why they are so successful, right?

Wrong! These guys pay attention to what's going on.

When looking for bass, you need to be alert. Observe everything. Most of the time it's just common sense, but fishermen just can't put it together.

Every time you catch a fish you should learn something.

What type of structure did the fish come from? Was there any wind at the time? Was it early or late? Cloudy or clear skies? What depth was it?

These and many more questions are asked and answered in just a few seconds each time a professional boats another bass.

It is this question and answer process that enables the fisherman to become more successful. His ability to evaluate these answers helps him predict where he may catch his next fish.

The most common problem that bass fishermen have is that they fish too slowly.

I believe in fishing fast and covering a lot of water. By using fast moving baits such as spinner baits and crank baits I can make more casts per minute than by worm fishing.

I use my trolling motor more each day than my big motor. I will use the outboard to get me to the best looking area but then my trolling motor goes to work. I rarely turn it off when looking for bass.

Bass will relate to some type of structure most of the time. Use your trolling motor to fish the structure as rapidly as possible with fast moving baits.

Once I get a strike in an area I'll slow down and fish thoroughly. The best big bass bait, day in and day out, is a worm or a jig. But I'll only fish these baits after I have found a good area.

Drop a worm or jig into the cover. I call this fishing targets. Usually if a bass is in a target area he will hit a worm or jig right away.

Many times bass will not be aggressive enough to chase a bait down. You will notice a boil in the water or a short strike behind your lure. If this happens, slow down.

Worm and jig fishing is productive, but only after you have located an area holding fish. If an angler is going to locate bass, he must make as many casts as he can and cover as much water as possible.

A worm or jig just doesn't eliminate enough water as quickly as a spinner bait or crank bait. Just think of how many casts you make per hour.

When worm fishing, you may make one cast per minute but with spinner baits and crank baits you can make two to three casts per minute. All of a sudden you have just doubled or tripled your casts and your odds of catching bass.

Labor Day gala in Robert Lee

Make plans now to spend Saturday, September 3 at the Labor Day Extravaganza in the shady county park in Robert Lee.

The event is being sponsored for the fifth year by the West Coke County Community Development.

The day's fun will include lots of food, cold drinks, watermelon and items for sale at various booths.

There will be entertainment by the Happy Harts Square Dancers.

Two highlights of the festival will be the Rabbit Twister BBQ and Chili Cook-off and the free dance at 8 p.m. on the tennis courts by "Shockwave."

Reynolds named Ambassadors' president

The Colorado City Ambassadors held a noon meeting on Monday to elect a new president and vice president.

Jerry Reynolds was named president and his wife, Wilma, was named vice president by a unanimous vote.

Stepping down at his request was Kent Womack, who had assumed the position following Ben Lancaster, who recently moved to Eastland.

In a short business session following the elections, dates and times were set for the upcoming ribbon cuttings.

The group discussed receptions and activities for the rest of this year.

Members present were Lee and Billie Woods, Flo McKenney, Bob Reily, Mildred Free, Kent Womack, Jay McCollum, Joy Morris, A.W. Rowe, Tandy Curlee, Don Jones, Bob Chalker, Jerry and Wilma Reynolds and Ray Anne Carlock.

Individuals or couples who are interested in representing and boosting Colorado City may join the Chamber of Commerce-sponsored organization.

Contact any ambassador or Jerry Reynolds at 728-3877.
