Crop Must be Replanted In Practically the Entire Rural Section

PADUCAH, Cottle county, May 14. —Three inches of rainfall within an hour, starting at 4 a. m. this morning, accompanied to the earth by terrific wind and slashing hail is believed to have completely demolished preparatory planting and farm work in practically the entire county, with untold damage to fruit to say nothing of money and labor necessary to the replanting of a vast agricultural region.

As many as six small houses were swept from their foundations by the wind and flood water within the city limits a piblic school building was seriously damaged and the front of the New Furniture company destroyed.

Bridges and culverts are out in a wide area over the county and roads everywhere are in an impassable condition.

Twenty-four hour schedule delays were encountered by the Quanah, Acme and Pacific railroad with the wash-out of one of its large bridges.

In Paducah shade trees were demolished and both the city and county telephone service seriously crippled by the storm which blew up suddenly in an awful display of electricty and passed almost as quickly as it appeared.

Mother and Son Attend School Together Four Years, To Get Degrees

LIBERTY, Mo., May 14. — Mrs. Mary A. Church and her son, James Church, who have been classmates for four years at William Jewell college here, will be graduated next week with AB degrees.

Mrs. Church was a grandmother when she entered the college.

Along with her studies and taking an active part in student activities Mrs. Church has kept her home. Both mother and son made the college honor roll regularly.

Her youngest daughter attends high school here, another son is in Ottawa university and her oldest daughter is rearing a family in Detroit.

Dr. Frank Church, her husband, is a chautauqua and lyceum lecturer.

Mrs. Church is one of the most popular members of the student body and has won many honors in student affairs.

Youths of today are drifting away from their parents because the parents can not keep the lead in mental alterness, Mrs. Church declares, as the result of her college experience.

"The old cry," she said, "was to live with your children. This is wrong in 1925. Let your children live with you! Set the pace. Get rid of preconceived notions of the world, of religion and of life itself; then fit yourself to give intelligent direction to the unorganized, chaotic lives of your children."

MUNY COUNCIL A LOWBROW ON ETHICS, CLAIM

Council Committed Serious Breach in Asking Engineers to Bid, Says Letter

Wichita Falls has unwittingly transgressed a broad and inclusive section of the American engineer's code of social and professional etiquette, it seems; and as a penalty therefor is liable to be excomunicated so far as these gentry are concerned.

To be more explicit, the city has been guilty of an act tending to "jeopardize the professional ethics" of American engineers. It has, it appears, flagrantly and perhaps maliciously flouted established custom in the matter of engineering service.

Shop Gets a Letter

Notice of the havoc he and his minions had wrought in the mental and moral storehouse of the engineering profession generally was received by Mayor Shepherd Thursday morning in the form of a letter from the Technical Advisory corporation of America. It was couched in polite and elegant terms, but it told the mayor straight out that Wichita Falls ought not to have assailed the dignity of reputable engineers by asking them to come out publicly in open competition to submit bids for erection of a sewage disposal plant.

The Advisory Body

The T. A. C. it might be explained, is a sort of advisory body, situated in New York, which, among other things, looks after the ethical welfare of American engineers. It had learned of the sewage disposal plant Wichita Falls pllanned to build and had also been advised of the methods the city was employing to obtain proposals for the work.

Customary as is the competitive bid in other lines of work, it seems that such practice is looked on with more or less disfavor by some engineers of established reputation.

Not Used to Bidding

A community or individual having work to be done is supposed to select an engineer and put the thing in his hands, thus eliminating the competitive angle.

Mayor Shepherd, it is understood, has expressed his regrets that Wichita Falls should have thus trampled the toes of the estimable experts who, to the extent of eight firms, sought the contract for the disposal plant. Otherwise, however, the mayor and his commissioners apparently plan no action.

Suit Against Iowa Park Advances To Counsel Argument

Reading of the court's charge and argument of counsel will start at 9 o'clock Friday morning in the case of W. D. McClure vs. the City of Iowa Park a damage and injunction suit now on trial before a jury and Judge P. A. Martin of the Eighty-ninth district court.

The case is one in which the plaintiff alleges that operation of the municipal sewer system of Iowa Park constitutes a nuisance and a danger to the health of the community. He contends that a septic tank into which the sewage is discharged is unsanitary, and asks a court decree to abate the trouble. Damages of $10,000 are also sought.

All of Wednesday afternoon and all of Thursday was necessary to introduce testimony.

C. C. TO AID IN FIGHT AGAINST RABIES DANGER

Between 50 and 100 People Reported Bitten in Last Six Months

SITUATION IS ACUTE

City Said to Be Overrun By Stray Dogs in Last Month

An organized campaign on the part of the city health department and the chamber of commerce to rid Wichita Falls of any danger of an epidemic of rabies or hydrophobia is prospective for the near future as a result of deliberation of the health committee of the chamber of commerce in consultation with the city health officer at its meeting last night.

According to figures brought out at the meeting between 50 and 100 people in and close around Wichita Falls have been bitten by mad dogs and taken the Pasteur treatment within the past six months. With the approach of warmer weather this number is likely to increase, it was brought out, and with a large number of dogs roaming the streets some action has become necessary to prevent their becoming a real menace.

C. of C. To Help

It was pointed out that the assistance of the chamber of commerce would be given the city health department in any move it might make to take such preventive measures, and in insuring proper publicity in warning the people against the dangers of the disease. A definite request from the health department to the city council for a new and more drastic ordinance than any hitherto passed to combat the disease is also understood to be in the making, although details of the proposed new ordinance could not be learned last night.

It is likely that the co-operation of luncheon clubs, churches and civic organizations will be asked in the near future for a clean-up drive for the city. It was pointed out at last night's meeting of the health committee that there is much clean-up work needed in Wichita Falls at the present time and that such a campaign could be tremendously effective. The campaign would be sepecially directed toward cleaning up vacant lots, draining swampy areas, and cleaning out allays.

Study Milk Supply

Not because the milk sources of Wichita Falls were open to criticism, but because it is regarded by the health committee as a step forward the committee voted to attempt to interest public opinion in he matter of milk supply. It was pointed out that such interest is insurance forever of a good supply of clean milk.

Those present at the meeting included J. H. Alverson, city health officer; Dr. Austin F. Leach, chairman of the committee; Luke McCrory, Mrs. B. W. Fain, Mrs. J. C. A. Guest, and Jack Sheers, who acted as secretary of last night's meeting.

A score or more of persons were shaken up at 6:30 Thursday evening when a heavily loaded out-bound factory street car left the rails at Ninth and Brook and plunged through the concrete pavement for several feet before it came to a stop. Only the fact that it was running slowly in readiness for a semi-curve at that corner prevented a serious accident.

The car, carrying home-going crowds, was packed to capacity. Something caused it to climb the track and in so doing the front trucks were smashed, allowing the body to pitch forward. Windows were shattered but passengers miraculously escaped serious cuts.

Master Criminal At 12 Enmeshed By Bralley

His Grandma Tricked by Fake Letter from Uncle John, Banks Swindled by Forged Checks

HE WAS only 12 years old, but he had a business head on his shoulders, did an overall-clad youngster that set to work in systematic fashion Thursday afternoon to itemize a ponderous stack of illgot merchandise Juvenile Officer W. G. Bralley had spread out on the floor of his office.

Toy Room Stock

Mr. Bralley's balliwick looked more like the stock room of a toy shop during the holiday season. It was littered with about as varied an assortment of toys, hardware, sporting goods, arms and other articles as is ever found outside a shop. A big canvass tent was the most bulky thing in sight, and across it lay a 32 calibre rifle and an air gun. Near at hand were two keen edged hunting knives. They would come in handy in the Indian battles their juvenile owner may have been preparing for.

Over in another corner were the component parts of an electric train —tracks, locomotive, coaches, switches, signal towers, dry cells, rheastats, tin stations and all the rest. It shared space with a dozen silver knives and forks and a conglomeration of electric light bulbs of all sizes, shapes and hues. A small but musical violin stood on the end against a table; some glass "bananas and oranges" were littered here and there, and a toy cash register was wrapped up in a pair of khaki pants. Some rattles, a pair of skates and a new bicycle were also included in the list Mr. Bralley required the youngster to fill out.

He Learned Fast

It was not the amazing variety nor amount of the goods that excited wonderment, though. It was the way in which they had accumulated.

The boy, whose name is being withheld by Mr. Bralley but who has been in trouble before, purchased everything at retail prices with the exception of the bicycle. That was stolen. The money he used, though, came through cashing forged checks that he and another youngster—also about 12 years old, drew and passed. Over $100 was obtained through these instruments, Mr. Bralley said.

Without parents, the lad has been making his home with a grandmother here who he pacified with an explanation that the toys and trinkets had been sent him by an uncle in California. It was a yarn to rival the best the fiction masters can produce. The lad said he had written a letter to himself, using an envelope and some stationery he had found in the postoffice. He said he drafted it in the form of one coming from his relative on the west coast, and then mailed it to his own address on Texas street in this city.

The Letter From Uncle

The letter explained that Uncle John was sending by express a big box of toys which he hoped his nephew would enjoy. The letter, of course, was passed around at home, and a few days later a baggage man delivered a huge packing box crammed to capacity with the toys and trinkets.

Mr. Bralley unearthed this peculiar case while he was searching for the bicycle that was stolen several months ago. The boy readily explained the forgeries, his purchases and the letter when Mr. Bralley questioned him.

John W. Herbert III of Fort Worth will drill a wildcat test in northwestern Haskell county on a block obtained from James I. Harvey and Gose of Wichita Falls, it is announced. It is Haskell county's third test. There is no production in the county.

The wildcat, which will go 2,500 feet if necessary, is in the southwest corner of the northeast of block 27, Gose and Harvey sub-division of G. C. Alford survey No. 46, McGregor ranch. It is located on the general structure, the Marathon Fold, as surveyed by Dr. J. A. Udden, Texas state geologist.

In the southeastern part of the county, just over the line from Shackleford county, H. H. Adams and associates No. 1, Reynolds, Rorriguez survey, was 220 feet and drilling a big hole.

Three miles northeast of Haskell, Terrell, Ramsier and Meyer No. 1, on the Stoker ranch, was drilling at 1,005 feet in a hard rock, with progress very slow. Two fishing jobs last week finished in short order developed.

Haskell county is in the second tier of counties west of Wichita county, below which are Archer and Yung cunites. The first tier west going suth from the Red river is composed of Wilbarger, Baylor, Throckmorton and Shackleford counties; the next tier west is Hardeman, Foard, Knox, Haskell and Jones counties.

In Knox county, Jack Sanders No. 1, Ella Lawson, just north of Goree, is drilling below 1,450 feet in block 81, H&TCRY survey.

Mystery Surrounds Cause For Disaster of Mississippi River Packet

MEMPHIS, May 9.—(AP)—Caught in the swirling muddy current of the Mississippi as she attempted to steam ashore, the government steamer Norman, newest of the engineering corps fleet here, today lies in 35 feet of water just below Chalmers Landing, Tenn. With her in her watery grave lie 20 of a gay excursion party that yesterday went for an outing on the broad expanses of the Big Muddy. Among the men, women and children who were catapulted into the turbid stream and who remained there or were fished out with life extinct were some of the best known men in the engineering profession in the south.

The trip had been taken as a side issue to the first annual convention of the Mid-South Association of Engineers just formed here.

The sand is unusually tight, reports have it.

Waite Phillips Pool

Development in both of the new Waite Phillips pools in Archer county, one south of Mankins on the T. B. Wilson land and the other northeast of Mergargel on the Wolfe land is being held up temporarily pending orders from above. Both wells are on the pump and a location has been made for No. 2, Wilson, 346 feet east of the No. 1, which is approximately in the center of the south half of the Ben Howard survey, abstract 179. The Wolfe pool is without further drilling also.

The Wolfe pool has recently received a northern definition in the Waite Phillips-Maer-Staniforth No. 1, Keys, block 17, Harris sub-division of the Club ranch, J. Wisher survey, due north of the single well, dry and abandoned at 1,609 feet.

Wood, McGill

Mooers, Routin

Cliff Mooers et al No. 1, Routin, in block 19, Holeman survey, Crawford pasture sub-division, between the Ieckert and Gambrel areas and southwest of the Cranfill-Muse pool on the Lowe land is reported drilling at about 950 feet, Archer-Young county line.

Whitehead, Young Co.

C. W. Whitehead has about 1,000 feet of oil in the hole in his deep cable tools test about a mile east of Newcastle in Young county from a gray lime topped at 3,980 feet and penetrated one foot. The well is some distance from production and may be regarded as the opener for another of the deep lime producing sections found in south and central Young county.

Cooke County

Two new wildcat tests supplied the only feature of a colorless week in the Cooke-Grayson district northeast of Gainesville.

Elliott brothers of Texarkana will drill a test on the Leon Osborne farm seven miles east of Gainesville, while seven miles north of Gainesville, just two miles east of the Red river bridge south of Thackerville, Okla., H. H. Simpson and George Kean will drill a test on the Houston farm of 320 acres. A rotary test will be drilled on a 4,000 acre block.

Big Indian Oil and Development company No. 1, Lester, block 24, Fannin county school lands, is nothing more than a derrick. Godley Oil and Gas company No. 1, Florence, block 63, Fannin county, S. L., is 1,500 feet and drilling.

Charles Pettit et al, No. 1, Nelson, Furinash survey, is still fishing at 2,631 feet; Rawson Lyle et al, No. 1, Aldridge, T. W. Ward survey, 16 miles northeast of Gainesville, is also fishing at 2,750 feet. Pettit et al, No. 1, Williams, C. A. McKay survey, will not be drilled until a rig from one of the two last mentioned wells is released.

Clopton and McMahan No. 1, Thorn, northwest corner of Grayson county, is shut down at 1,850 feet but expected to resume sometime this week. Hulsey and Muldoon (Whitesboro C. and O. Co.) No. 1, Jewell-Anderson, near Whitesboro, Grayson county, is drilling below 1,400 feet.

The Texas company No. 1, Cannon, Grayson county, west of Tioga, is reported drilling below 2,244 feet. Red River Drilling company No. 1, Whaley and Jones, north of Gainesville, Cooke county, was last reported drilling below 1,900 feet.

C. D. Lockwood of Tulsa, Okla., a representative of the Oil and Gas Journal of that place is spending a few days in Wichita Falls working up an article intending to purvey in so many words a "cross section" of the producing formations of North Texas. Humble Will Run Prairie's South Archer Co. Oil

The Humble Pipeline company is running the oil from the Prairie Oil and Gas company's new south Archer Swastika, holdings, by the terms of a deal made with that company, some 2,700 barrels a day being taken from the holdings.

The arrangements put a stop to a prospective Prairie south Archer pipeline, the laying of which was considered just a matter of weeks until a day or so ago. It is not believed Prairie will enter this area now with a line until fall or winter.

JUDGMENT ON THE WRONG QUESTION.

In deciding that congress was fully within its powers in opening income tax returns to public inspection, the District of Columbia court of appeals appears to have slighted the real objection to this peculiar course of conduct. The court, however, is not directly at fault. It was asked to pass on the question brought before it by Gorman Hubbard, a merchant of Boston, who contended that the provision in the congressional enactment for publicity of tax returns violated the fourth amendment to the federal constitution which guarantees the citizen against unwarranted searches and seizures. This was an unsound contention and the court of appeals disposed of it in summary fashion.

"We are of the opinion," stated Justice Hatfield, "that where congress has the power to require the divulging of private information for a lawful purpose, it has authority for the due and proper accomplishment of such purpose to require the giving of publicty to the information thus secured. It may develop that congress was very unwise in enacting such provision, but such considerations in no way affect the constitutional authority of congress in the promises." Here the court reasons upon the assumption that where congress has a power to do anything it also has the right to use any means to this end. But we need not here concern ourselves with this reasoning. The specific case, no doubt, is sufficient to make clear the fact that congress did not actually violate any constitutional guarantee in decreeing that information already in the possession of the government should be made available to the public.

That congress acted unwisely in opening tax returns to public inspection is now generally conceded. But that was not its only error. It refused to meet squarely the issue of publicity of tax returns. Our national legislature had recourse to a compromise which at the same time granted and declined to grant publicity of private information. It took refuge in an ambiguity, the total effect of which is still unknown, and let the country take chances with an uncertain provision.

According to this much discussed provision, only information contained in official income tax returns has been made subject to public inspection. Additional material collected by the internal revenue bureau has not been made available. The withholdconcerns from their competitors. Intricacies of the ing of this matter has in a measure protected private official returns make it almost impossible for ordinary individuals to spy out the affairs of their neighbors. And the conservatism of newspapers which have ventured to give the substance of the returns has prevented adequate explanation of their contents. Thus the mischief done by congress in authorizing publicity for tax returns has largely been minimized. Yet there remains the possibility that some well instructed busy-bodies may do incalculable harm to private enterprise by divulging matters which are properly "secret."

NOT SLACKNESS BUT SHARP COMPETITION

In a conference with newspapermen at Birmingman, Ala., Judge Elbert H. Gary, head of the United States Steel corporation, gave it as his opinion that the immediate prospect for American business is not a period of slackness but a time of unusually sharp comptition. More encouraging than anything which the judge propounded was his bare admission that the steel corporation is improving its properties on account of the growth of markets. A vast purchasing power, potential or actual, is present at home and abroad and it is the part of enlightened management to draw it out and to reap the rich reward of a stimulated demand.

As always happens, however, such a large opportunity cannot be enjoyed by a few only. There will be quite a large field contesting for benefits. Those best prepared will bear off the greater proportion of the prize. It was to them that Judge Gary especially addressed his remarks, speaking encouragement to those of high courage and giving assurance to those who have not lost confidence. With the world situation in mind, the judge said:

"I believe in this country. I think that the people generally will follow the flag of loyalty and patriotism and they are in every way to cope with the finest talent and most persistent energy of any and all other nations. Our people offer the hand of friendship and good will to every nation and to all their people. At the same time, we are determined to keep ourselves strong and healthy, morally and physically, and to constantly protect and advance the best interests of our own people."

There is in this language, which is somwhat general, no hint that Europe may flounder and go upon the rocks, calling once more for America to perform the work of salvation; still less is there any intimation that the world as a whole will languish for the need of vitalizing trade activity. On the contrary, there is an unmistakable challenge to American business to brace itself for a strenuous period of friendly rivalry with the industry of the countries which have so lately been our economic dependents. To meet with competition may be less satisfactory than to enjoy a clean sweep in the markets of the world. But it is immeasurably more healthy both for us and for our customers abroad. We will be given that opposition which develops strength to overcome it, and our foreign customers will earn upon their own industry enough money to pay for our goods. This state of affairs will make for steady and sustained economic progress, instead of hectic activity alternating with unhealthy checks to further advance.

KICKING AT DEAD LION.

Woodrow Wilson is in his grave. Rear Admiral Bradley A. Fiske isn't. He has a habitant in New Jersey. This is an excerpt from a recent speech made by the rear admiral, "as you know the situation in the middle of 1918 was well expressed by Lloyd George when he said, 'it is a race between Hindenberg and Wilson.' The race was won, in a certain sense, by Wilson; but it was won fundamentally by a few navy and army officers who had got the navy ready and then the army in spite of Wilson." Wasn't it a live jackass that kicked a dead lion in the story books of long ago?

By Dr. Frank Crane

THE PRICE OF POWER.

America has a good many more questions confronting it today than it had a hundred years ago.

One reason for this is that it is a much more powerful nation than it used to be.

Privileges, duties and responsibilities increase with power.

Sometimes a rich man finds that instead of liberating him, when wealth comes to him it ties him up. He finds there are a thousand things he cannot do. His circle of friends is limited.

Along with the freedom that power brings there is a certain amount of restriction.

In Wagner's opera the god Wotan was limited always by the writing on his spear.

In some respects God, who we think can do everything, is bound down to doing certain things. His character of righteousness limits Him to doing right. He cannot do wrong.

A good man finds that he is under obligations to do a great many things, obligations that the bad man does not feel. A good man must pay his debts, must tell the truth, and on occasion must die for his country or for the protection of his loved ones. From all of these obligations the bad man flees.

The president of the United States finds his liberties much curtailed. He can hardly do as he pleases. He is being watched by a million eyes and his every act is being noted. When he was inconspicuous he had much more liberty of action.

The artist finds that he must constantly rehearse. Very often the woman artist finds she cannot devote time to her family and her profession, too. She must sacrifice the things that all women hold dear in order to have a successful career.

In some respects it seems as though success shuts us up in a sort of prison. We can only do certain things. The public will not let us roam at large.

The freest man in many respects is the tramp. He sleeps where he can and eats what he can. His poverty gives him entire liberty of action. Nobody cares what he does.

As he ascends from this condition of the hobo he finds that more and more his freedom is curtailed.

A man cannot be a prize fighter unless he trains rigidly. He cannot attain success in any athletic direction unless he subjects himself to the severest discipline.

The student finds that he must spend long hours in study if he would get to excellence.

The man who does as he pleases is the man who has nothing, can do nothing, and knows nothing.

Those who want perfect liberty should not seek it in absolute power.

BUILDERS OF THE WEST.

Mineral Wells had the honor of entertaining the members of the West Texas chamber of commerce and all the friends of the members of the West Texas chamber of commerce. With a single exception, this is the largest chamber of commerce in America.

It has been in existence six years. It has watched the development of many rich sections of the west. It has assisted in much of the recent development of the west. It represents the live wires of 150 cities and towns of the west.

Most auspicious indeed is the outlook for the west. Everywhere in the west the drouth has been broken. In many places of the west railway building activities are in evidence. Cattlemen are more hopeful than they were a year ago, sheep and goat men are in better financial standing than they were a year ago.

Petroleum activities are much more marked than they were a year ago. Many new fields have been brought in. Wildcatters are not sleeping and it is ever the wildcatter who discovers new fields and adds to the production of petroleum.

There is going to be a large cotton acreage in West Texas this year, and when fall time comes and the picking season is on, the tiller of the soil will be happy. It is then that he will come into his own.

Uncommon Sense

Poetry.

I have before me a letter from a young man who says he cannot see any sense in poetry. He wonders why men and women should take the trouble to put thoughts into rhyme when they could be better and more intelligibly expressed in prose. He gives it as his opinion that poets are of no use in the world, and that literature would be better without them.

We would suggest to this young man that he purchase himself one of the many collections of poetry to be found in the book stores and begin it by reading some of Macaulay's "Lays' of Ancient Rome." There are critics who say that these are not poetry, but at least they tell very interesting and exciting stories, in a way that they could not be done in prose.

We believe that our correspondent will agree with this after he has read them, and that furthermore he will get from them an idea of rhythm and cadence, and the beauty of his language, that he did not possess when he wrote his letter.

When he has read all the Macaulay he can find in the book, let him turn to Byron's "Destruction of Senaccherib" and see if he doesn't get a thrill out of that.

After he has read a few more of Byron's poems let him try some of Keats' odes, "To a Nightingale," "To Autumn" and "On First Looking into Chapman's Homer" for example.

Then he can begin a course of Shelley with "To Night," "The Cloud" and "To a Skylark."

By this time, if he has any music in his soul and is at all moved by the concord of sweet sounds he may have changed his mind about poetry.

There are people who are what is called tone deaf, and who can not keep on the key when they attempt to sing. But these people can be taught to love and appreciate music.

There are also people like our young correspondent who could not write a rhythmical line without counting the syllables, but that is no reason why they cannot learn to enjoy the most beautiful form of literary expression.

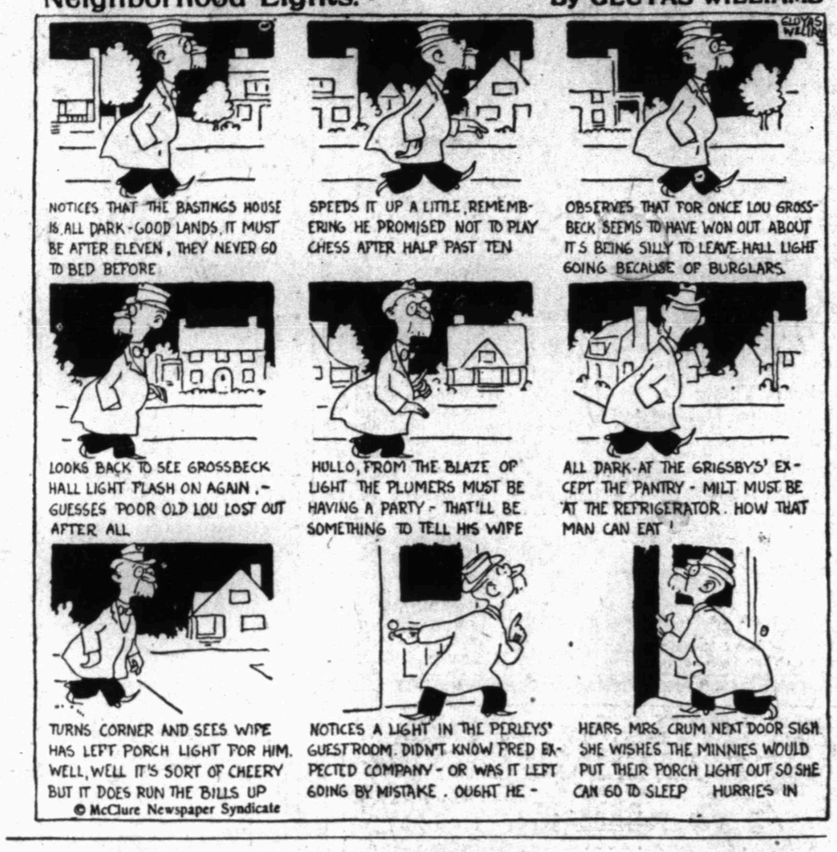

Noble thoughts and fine sentiments can, it is true be well expressed in prose. But there is a lilt and a cadnece to poetry that impresses it on the sense and enables the memory to retain it far longer than it retains prose.

Almost as soon as man learned to communicate with his fellow man he learned to lift his voice in song, accompanying himself on rude instruments, which at first were used only to mark the time.

The rhythm, which marks the movement of the sphere and the flow of the streams, is reflected in the souls of men. Those who have not learned to love poetry have missed a great deal of the joy of living. They will do well to repair that shortcoming before it is too late, for in old age there are few solaces like those brought by the memory of great poems.

What Today Means To You

By MARY BLAKE

Taurus.

During the early part of the day, you will, in all probability, experience a feeling of depression, and dissatisfaction with what, as it will appear to you under these conditoins, the little progress that you have been able to accomplish, especially in the task on which you have set your heart. This will only, however, be of a transitory nature, as the planetary aspects indicate that, at noon, a more favorable atmosphere will prevail, urging you, notwithstanding obstancles and difficulties, to buckle on your armour afresh, so that you can surmount the former and overcome the latter. The signs denote that the time is not propitious for the initiation of any new enterprise, but they do indicate that the vibrations will engender a feeling of resoluteness, that bodes well for the redoubling of your energies on the plan or project already in hand.

Children, who come into the world today, are destined, provided they receive watchful care and proper nourishment, to pass through the infantile period with few, or no ailments. They will develop more quickly in growth than in strength, and in this fact will lie the dangers of the period of adolescence. Their dispositions will be "happy-go-lucky", and they will take life as they may find it, and make for themselves hosts of friends. Their characters, in youth, will reveal many weaknesses which will not only cause distress, but anxiety. Ordinary methods of discipline will fail in their object, and only by patience, love and forbearance, will the characters of these children be made strong, their callousness eliminated, and their heartfelt emotions awakened. Impatience and eager—and they will do things to cause and justify both—will serve no useful purpose: a forbearing love and constant encouragement are the only things that will convert these children at maturity into sons and daughters of whom parents will be justly proud.

There is very little to criticise, and very much to commend, in the characters of those birthdays fall on May 15. They may not be brilliant, but they are capable and always dependable; they may not achieve exceptional material success, measured in dollars and cents, but they will enjoy and radiate happiness and contentment. They are slow to anger, quick to forgive, and absolutely unselfish, and most of them are imbued with a deep religious sense, although they never display it ostentatiously, or parade it for others benefit.

They have, generally speaking, a strong sense of humor, and their wit is keen, but never employed at the expense of other peoples' feelings.

HOW IT STARTED

"Devil-May-Care."

"Oh, the devil may care!" This is a phrase which we sometimes hear used as an expression of indifference, or applied to a person who takes things not very seriously or intensely, who does not worry—and cannot be ruffled, who is irresponsible and "easy going."

It was as descriptive of a certain person that the expression had its origin. Its contribution to modern speech is part of the great legacy left to posterity by Charles Dickens. In his well known "Pickwick Papers" we find the quotation in which the term was first used, as follows:

"He was a mighty free and easy roving devil-may-care sort of person, was my uncle."

West Coast Liquor Price Goes Down As It Climbs in East

NEW YORK, May 14.—The price of liquor going up in New York is going down in California. The reason is the dry navy's blockade of the east coast rum row.

Many of the ships, unable to do business here, have sailed for the Pacific coast where customers are reported bringing loads ashore regularly and without difficulty.

Some estimates place the value of whiskey landed in and around San Diego within the past 48 hours at more than $200,000. As a result the bottom has fallen out of the gin market in California. Scotch is reported selling for $4 a quart in Los Angeles compared with old prices of $6 to $9. Cutters are reported unable to cope with the rum ships off Southern California.

New York newspapers say that though liquor is still plentiful here, it is coming from reserve stocks and wholesale prices have gone up $10 to $15 a case ashore since the blockade started. The World says that champagne, which formerly sold at $85 or $90 a case, now costs $100. Rye whiskey is very rare and Scotch is as high as $60 a case.

HOUSTON LOT BRINGS PRICE OF $205,000

HOUSTON, May 14.—By deed placed on record today, Mrs. Edith Koch and husband sold to Jerry A. Mitchell the property fronting 66 feet on Capitol and 100 feet on San Jacinto street for a consideration of $205,000.

HARDPAN.

There is no hardpan in the Wichita valley. Pretty nearly every farmer thinks there is, but it is a mistake. The soil survey says there is not and we agree with them.

Let us see what hardpan is, what causes it, and where it is found.

Hardpan is a deposit of lime. Much the same thing as the stratas of limestone found in Wichita and adjoining counties, except that true hardpan is lime mingled with earth or sand. In other words it is soil cemented together with lime.

Hardpan is caused by the action of water containing lime. Soils containing lime in arid countries are leached by the action of rain water. The water carries the lime down to about the depth which it will penetrate. This depth is from one to five feet. Not very often more than five feet as this is about the extreme depth of penetration of rain water in most arid sections.

Many of our soils contain lime. It might seem that we should have a hardpan here the same as in arid regions.

The reason we do not is on account of the difference in the amount of rainfall. In the arid regions rainfall will rarely exceed 15 inches, more often six or eight inches per annum. Here it is almost 30 inches on the average with extreme years showing much over 40 inches.

These heavy rains take the lime out of the soil, instead of washing it down and leaving it in place. In arid regions the deeper soils have not been wet in centuries. The hardpan is formed at about the limit of rain water penetration. Our heavy rains prevent its formation here.

New S.A.U.G. Head Says New Line Will Be Built If Needed

SAN ANTONIO, May 14. — "We have now obtained an option on all capital stock and bonds of the San Antonio, Uvalde & Gulf Railway so as to give satisfaction and adequate service in the Rio Grande Valley as it relates to San Antonio. We are ready at any time to build any extension into the valley that is economically necessary."

With that definite announcement, L. W. Baldwin, president of the Missouri Pacific System told heads of other railroads and prominent business men of the purchase of the Sausage and discussed plans for developing the city's contiguous trade territory as well as opening up the valley's inestimable resources.

The announcement was made at the "gateway luncheon" tendered the railroad executives Thursday by the chamber of commerce here. Two hundred and fifty persons were present.

The luncheon was the feature of Thursday's session of the American railway development convention, here for a two-day meeting, held in San Antonio for the purpose of conferring with business interests on the expansion of transportation in the trade territory of the Alamo City.

Mr. Baldwin, T. A. Hamilton, vice-president of the Missouri Pacific; C. N. Whitehead, executive vice-president of the M. K. T. lines and C. K. Dunlap, traffic manager of the Southern Pacific, were honor guests at the luncheon. W. R. Scott, president of the S. P. was unable to be here.

More Truth Than Poetry

PROVERBS

"The worm will turn" the proverb states;
But it alone will take this action,
The ancient author intimates,
When it's been pestered to distraction.
We're taught to think these creatures are
Not always steeped in sodden languor,
But will, if they are pushed too far,
Give way to dreadful fits of anger.

Yet worms I've thrust upon a hook,
A very painful operation—
And never did one even look
At me in rage or indignation.
They never snap, they never snarl,
The very stones could not be muter,
On no occasion do they quarrel
With their severest persecutor.

And as for turning, which we're told,
They only do on provocation.
Observe their journey through the mould—
A trail of constant deviation.
Observe them writhing on the ground,
The plain straight roadways always spurning,
To seek the longest way around—
The creatures are forever turning!

A proverb ought to be exact,
In simple and persuasive diction;
It ought to deal alone with fact
And not concern itself with fiction.
But proverb writers toy with truth—
The laws of nature quite unheeding,
They fill the minds of simple youth
With maxims vicious and misleading!

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

IT'S A CRIME FOR THE UNITED STATES TO TOLERATE CHILD MARRIAGES AND TO PERMIT MINORS, WHO CANNOT SIGN BUSINESS DOCUMENTS, TO ENTER THE MOST SACRED AND BINDING CONTRACT OF ALL

The Russell Sage Foundation, which has been making an exhaustive study of child marriage in the United States, reports that there are more than two-thirds of a million women in this country today who were less than sixteen years of age when they married, and that the great majority of these—contrary to popular belief—are native white of native parentage. Furthermore, that the number of these child-brides is increased each year by thousands of additional child marriages.

In a number of the states the marriageable age for girls is set at 12 years, and 14 for boys. And in fourteen states it is legally possible for a girl to marry at an earlier age than that at which she is permitted to become a wage earner.

These will be startling facts to most persons, who hold up hands of horror when they hear of the child marriages of India and smugly believe that no such heathen practice could obtain in their own enlightened and Christian land, but my own observation bears out the truth of these findings.

For among the tens of thousands of letters that I get from women living all over the country an enormously large percentage of them state that the writers were married when they were 14 or 15, sometimes when they were only 13 years old.

Over and over I get a letter that reads:

"I am a girl of 20, and have three children. When I married I thought I loved my husband, but it was a child's fancy, and now I have met the real man who is my mate and my heart is broken between love of him and love of my children."

Often and often they write:

"I am 19 and have been married five years, and have two babies that tie me down at home. I am miserable because I want to go around and dance and have fun like other girls, and my husband quarrels and says I neglect the children."

Often they write:

"I am a girl of 16, and have a baby, and it's sickly, and I'm sick most of the time. My husband runs around at night with the boys and girls and has a good time, and he finds fault with the cooking, and says I never give him anything fit to eat, and I have to stay at home all the time and work, and I do nothing but cry and wish I was dead."

No more pitiful and tragic human documents were ever written than these letters, from girls who married too soon, and they make an indictment of our laws that permit such an iniquity as child marriage that is written in tears and blood.

It is a shame and a disgrace that any civilized country should tolerate child marriage and permit its boys and girls to wreck their lives by entering into unions for which they are totally unfit in either mind, or body, or character.

And it is almost sardonically humorous that we should permit minors, who cannot make any other binding trade, to enter into the marriage contract, which is the most sacred and binding contract of all.

No boy of 16 or 17 is permitted to handle his own property or mortgage a house and lot, but he can take his whole future, his happiness, his success or failure, his ambitions and gamble with them in the matrimonial lottery. No girl of 15 is thought to have enough judgment to pick out her own clothes, but she can pick out a husband.

It is inevitable that the child marriage is foredoomed to failure. The shoulders of 16, still less of 15 or 14, are not strong enough to bear the heavy burden that matrimony lays upon them. No girl of that age is fit either for wifehood or motherhood.

No girl of 15, or 16, or 17 knows what she is going to want in a husband when she is a grown woman. Her tastes in men change just as much as it does in food, or clothes, or amusement, and the youth that ravishes her fancy in her early teens bores her to tears in her twenties.

The number of child-brides who remain in love with their husbands is infinitesmial. They outgrow their girlish fancies, and then comes the heart-breaking tragedy when the mature woman meets the man she does fall in love with, and either breaks her heart in vain regret or else becomes one of the quitters who fill the divorce courts.

No girl of 15, or 16, or 17 can bring to the vocation of motherhood the wisdom, the patience and the forbearance it requires. To her motherhood is not a benediction. It is a nuisance that keeps her from going to parties and having a good time with the other boys and girls of her age. She has not had her playtime, and she wants to be dancing at night instead of walking the colic, and to be skylarking instead of hearing little prayers.

She is miserable, and discontented, and peevish, and in all the world there is no more pathetic sight than a poor little, dragged out, sickly child-mother wrestling incompetently with a poor, little, sickly, fretful baby.

The report of the Russell Sage Foundation on child marriage should wake us all up to the danger that confronts us, for it is a peril that menaces every household in which there are boys and girls. Let us get laws passed that make it impossible for children to marry.

Then let us begin a plan of education in our homes and in our schools that will teach our youngsters that marriage is hazardous enough for grown people and is a foolhardy risk not to be taken by children.

SOCIETY

IN A SETTING of springtime beauty with long tables arranged banquet style and decorated with pink and red rosebuds, over which colorful balloons hovered, members of the Wichita Falls Penwoman's club with their guests enjoyed their spring luncheon and program at the Wichita club.

Mrs. J. S. Pitman was toastmistress for the occasion and gave a clever little toast to each guest. The Rev. Fred Datson gave in the invocation and Mrs. H. F. Wilcox introduced the members of the club, giving a humorous characteristic of each. Mrs. W. A. McGee, first president and organizer of the club, toasted the out-going president, Mrs. Claude Williamson, who responded with a few well chosen words.

Two minute extemporary talks were given by Emil Hermann, who took for his subject, "What Art Can Mean to a Musician"; by Peter Ames Vincent, who talked on "Are Writers Different to Anyone Else"; Mrs. C. W. Wallace who talked on "What Shakespeare Means to the Modern Writer" and by the Rev. Datson who talked on, "Do Religious People Write Better Than the Irreligious Ones?"

Following the talks, Mr. J. S. Pitman played a piano number "The Stars and Stripes Forever," and accompanied Miss Evelyn Cushman, contralto, and Baldwin Montgomery, tenor, who sang "Home to Our Mountains."

R. O. Jonas Talks.

R. O. Jonas, one of the judges in the recent Pen Women's short story contest, talked on the short story and Mrs. C. E. Skalinder toasted the incoming president, Mrs. W. H. Sanford, who gave a feeling response.

After the toast, Mrs. Pitman announced a contest in writing a short poem in a given length of time in which it was required that the word, "Penwomen" was used. The judges were the men guests at the luncheon, Messrs. Ames Vincent, Jonas, Hermann and Dr. Datson, and the favor, a lovely fountain pen was awarded to Mrs. E. A. Skilander. Mrs. W. A. McGee received the second prize, a fancy pencil.

Mrs. Claude Williamson, past president, presented Mrs. W. H. Sanford the first prize for writing the best short story in the short story contest launched this spring. Miss Lucile Sherrod received the prize for the best one-act play, and Mrs. M. E. Johnson, the prize for the best poem. The favors were handsome books.

Plan Writers' Night.

It was announced that next year the club will observe every Monday night as writers night when members will be privileged to bring guests who are writers or who are interested in writing. The meeting day was also announced to be on Monday afternoons instead of on Thursday as has been the custom of the club since organization.

T. Fowler instead of Mrs. W. T. Willis. It is the pleasure of the Woman's page editor to make the correction.

Miss Kinsey Asked To Draw Up a Plan For State Contest

Each year brings its share of honors to Miss Juanita Kinsey, public speaking instructor at the high school, and through her to the school itself.

For the past five years the instructor has been a power in state interscholastic league literary contests. Her victories each year have caused her to become known over the state as an authority on school declamation and debate.

Plans Unsuccessful.

For years the interscholastic league has been experimenting unsuccessfully with extempore speaking. So unsuccessful did the contest become four years ago that it became necessary to drop the contest from the league entirely. This year it was placed back into the contests under a new system, but the past contests at the state meet caused many complaining voices, according to Miss Kinsey, who took a representative to Austin.

In a conversation with Roy Bedick, head of the league, Miss Kinsey remarked that unusual satisfaction had been found in the manner in which the Wichita Falls high school annually conducts an extempore speaking contest for the J. W. Talbert medal. Mr. Bedichek asked for information regarding the system used here and immediately expressed the belief that the plan was the most successful he had yet heard of. So interested was he in the matter that he has since written Miss Kinsey, asked her to write the system out in detail. It will be printed in the September issue of the Interscholastic League, official bulletin of the league. A vote will be taken on the matter, in the fall and Mr. Bedichek has stated that there is little doubt but that Miss Kinsey's proposed system will be adopted for use next year.

Choice of Subjects.

The league plan this last year gave students their choice of one of several subjects, allowed them an hour in which to prepare their speeches and permitted the use of notes. This plan has been found very unsatisfactory according to Miss Kinsey due to very few of the students getting the allotted hour in which to study and also to many other difficulties.

The plan used in the local high school calls for a single subject, sealed in an envelope to be given to the student eight minutes before time for him to speak. He is not allowed to use notes. It is believed that this system will shorten considerably the time of the contests and will also eliminate several other faults found in the old plans.

Society Pauses To Honor New Additions On List Of Popular City Matrons

ALL Wichita Falls society was at a stand still Thursday afternoon when activities ceased that matrons and maids could attend the delightful tea given by Mesdames Horace Robbins and Walter Robbins, honoring three recent brides from Austin who have been a delightful addition to Wichita Falls. The honorees were Mesdames John Hampton, Lloyd Nash and J. A. Kemp, Jr.

Amid Bevy of Flowers.

All of the lower floor of the Country club was a bower of pretty flowers; ferns, palms, roses, peonies and many other spring flowers. Large floor baskets of the flowers were used here and there in the reception suite, living room and dining room. Vases of flowers were also used. The decorations were gorgeous. All of this formed a pretty background for the members of the house party, prettily gowned in light colored afternoon dresses.

From four until six all of the friends of the honorees and hostesses passed into the club. They were greeted at the door by Mesdames R. O. Harvey and Newton Maer. Little Misses Charlotte Maer and Myra Jane McAmahan took the cards at the door. From here they passed on to the living room where they were met by the hostesses who presented them to the guests of honor and on to the house party in the living room which included Mesdames Carter McGregor, Bobby Burns, Harry Myers, W. I. Sims, Leslie Stringer, Abe Marcus, Earl Clayton, J. L. McMahan, W. U. McCutchen, Harwood Stacy, Clarre Gannon, F. D. Woodruff, C. E. McCutchen, Harry Weeks, Ben G. O'Neal, Merrill Blair, Arch Dawson, Jack Barnard, J. L. Jackson, Jr., O. B. Kell, Luther Hoffman, Peery Hancock, Tarleton Marrow, Lewis Whitham, Annie Hood, Buford Long and John King, Jouette Bonner, Charlie Bass, Walter Cline.

From the living room the guests were ushered into the dining room where Mesdames W. E. Maxson and Fred Weeks presided. They were assisted by a bevy of Wichita Falls young misses including Misses Gay Guinn, Icy V. Larkin, Josephine Cummings, Frankie and Sadie Adickes, Adele Marcus, Ethel Moran, Catherine Weeks, Ella Merle Mathis, Chrystelle Waggoner, Helen Snyder and Vera Hale.

Mesdames A. H. Carrigan, J. A. Kemp, Sr., C. W. Snider and W. M. McGregor presided over the tea table which was prettily decorated. The cover was of maderia and lace. A large basket of spring flowers served as a centerpiece and small bowls of the flowers were used at either end of the table.

All during the evening soft music was played, from the mezzinine floor. The list included:

Mesdames W. S. Abbott, J. V. Adams, M. M. Adickes, C. N. Alexander, H. A. Allen, G. D. Anderson, J. L. Art, J. D. Avis, Jake Avis, Piner Avis, O. T. Allen, Bert Adrian, J. W. Akin, Sr., J. W. Here's the Latest--Cod Liver Oil in Tasteless Tablets

Greatest Flesh Builder For Skinny, Weak, Run-Down People—Full of Vitamines.

No more will weak, thin, unfortunate children cry in protest when the nasty, fishy-tasting, horrible-smelling cod liver oil is brought out.

Medical science progresses rapidly, and now you can get at your druggists real, genuine cod liver oil in sugar coated tablets that young and old can take with ease and pleasure.

Even the run-down and skinny grown-ups, who ought to take cod liver oil, because it really is the greatest vitamine food and builder of healthy flesh in the world, will feel extremely joyful when they read this welcome news.

Of course, doctors have been prescribing cod liver oil in tablets under another name for several years, but it is only of late that one can walk into a drug store and get a box of these flesh-producing talets just as easy as a bottle of cough syrup.

Thin, run-down, anaemic men, women and children who need to grow strong and take on flesh are advised to get a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Talets, and if you don't gain 5 pounds in 30 days just get your money back.

One woman gained 15 pounds in five weeks, according to her own doctor—another 10 pounds in three weeks. A very sickly child, aged nine, 12 pounds in seven months, and new plays with other children and has a good appetite.

Just ask for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. Smith drug Co., Renfro Drug Co., or any good druggist will tell you that they are wonderful flesh and health builders. Only 60 cents for 60 tablets—and don't forget that they are wonder workers for feeble old folks.

Get McCoy's, the original and genuine, and beware of imitations.—Adv.

First Outdoor Card of 1925 Slated Tonight With Denton and Hull Featuring

ALEXANDER ON HAND FOR GO WITH WILDCAT

THE CARD.
Joe Denton, Amarillo, versus Clyde Hull, St. Paul, welterweights, ten rounds.
Battling Jennings, Henrietta, versus Kid Snyder, Burkburnett, welterweights, eight rounds.
Sailor Maley, Kansas City, versus Homer Nolen, Charley, heavyweghts, four rounds.
Wildcat Monte, Wichita Falls, versus Kid Alexander, San Antonio, featherweights, four rounds.
Kid Norford, Wichita Falls, versus Lefty Amos, Wichita Falls, welterweights, four rounds.

All principals of the American legion's first outdoor fistic program of the year billed for tonight in the new arena at Eleventh and Ohio are in the city and prepared for action.

The last of the bevy of fighters lined up for the card arrived yesterday, Kid Alexander coming overland from San Antonio with Johnny Simpson.

Alexander is to meet Monte in a special four-rounder.

The announced return of Denton to Wichita Falls ring circles has been acclaimed with joy by local fight followers for this athlete is one of the best boys who have appeared here in by-gone days.

Denton is expected to give Hull, the flashy Minnesota youngster who came to Texas little more than a month back and straight-away proceeded to beat the best boys of this section, the toughest scrap he has realized here to date.

The St. Paul face frescoer intends to make this bout his last in Wichita Falls for quite a period, he says. Hull has a fight billed in Oklahoma City May 28 with Yarnie Hendricks, and then he is to meet Red Herring, junior welter champ, in Milwaukee June 12. Hull is substituting for Pinky Mitchell in the Herring fracas. Pinky is slated for an engagement with Mickey Walker.

Both the Jennings-Snyder and Maley-Nolen matches are expected to prove slam-bang affairs.

Spud Roster Within Texas Player Limit

Pitcher Ira Morgan, Spudder right hand submarine flinger, enters into voluntary baseball retirement, and Pete Turgeon, Spudder infielder, goes onto the casualty list. Dave Cochlin, rookie catcher, has been sent to Kinston, N. C., of the Virginia league. This cuts the Spudder playing roster down to the 16 player limit set by the Texas league.

Morgan, who is a farmer, finds that he has not the time to play baseball and oversee his agricultural interests credibly at the same time, therefore he has decided to quit the game.

Turgeon has been hampered severely all spring with a sore arm.

The Spudder squad now consists of six pitchers, two catchers, three outfielders, and five infielders. Carl Williams and Arnold Stone, the latter a left hander obtained recently from Omaha of the Western league, will be entered in the league files as spit ball hurlers. It is unusual that a southpaw uses the saliva, but Stone is one of the few. The remainder of the staff is composed of Eulas Morgan, Bob Osborn, Jackie Reid and Rip Wheeler. The catchers are Wray Query and Bubber Jonnard; infielders, Walter Golvin, 1b, Al White, 2b, Freddy Dorman, 3b, George Distel, ss, Manager Buddy Tanner, utility; the outfielders, Ping Bodie, lf, Howard Fitzgerald, cf, Martin Callaghan, rf.

A deal is now under way for another pitcher, it was announced Thursday night. This, of course, will necessitate the sending away of one of the present staff.

Wichita Falls Women Golfers Continue to Win

Mrs. Priscilla Rodgers Scott of Paris, 1924 Texas woman golf champ, was defeated Thursday in the second round of the state tournament at Dallas by Miss Margery Dorrance of Houston. The cards:

Mrs. Scott out .... 565-575-535—46
In .... 365-577-46x—
Miss Dorrance out .... 654-484-636—46
In .... 354-568-55x—

The two Wichita Falls women players, Mrs. J. R. McCaldin and Mrs. Luke McCrory, surving the first rounds, won their matches. Mrs. McCaldin, in the second flight, defeated Mrs. W. R. Wigley of Waco, 1 up. Mrs. McCrory beat Mrs. O. T. Witherspoon of Galveston, 1 up, in fifth flight play.

Mrs. McCrory meets Mrs. Sid Hurst of Dallas today in the semi-final match. Mrs. McCaldin plays Miss Lorna Byrne of Galveston in a semi-final match.

FIGHT AS PIRATES WIN

BOSTON, May 14. — Pittsburgh, defeated Boston today, 7 to 1, in a game punctuated in the 8th inning by a near riot which took several policemen to quell. Morrison turned back Boston with five hits, three of which were made by Burrus. Barnes was hit hard in the first five innings and was forced to retire. The trouble started when Smith, Pittsburgh catcher, ran toward the grand stand for a foul fly which he failed to catch. He got in an argument with W. J. Lewis of Boston, a spectator. They were preparing to "mix" when onlookers said he hit Lewis a glancing blow. Police and others intervened and Smith was ordered out of the game as the crowd swarmed on the field. As he passed down the steps to the visiting team's quarters beneath the grandstand a chair, thrown by an unidentified spectator landed on top of him. Although the game was one sided and the fielding was not strong the police had difficulty in handling the crowd. When Lewis left the park, he said he would wear out a warrant for Smith's arrest. BEAR HURLER HOLDS SPUDS TO FOUR BLOWS

You can't win ball games without base knocks, the diamond sages will tell you, and that's the reason Ripper Wheeler went down in a heart breaking affair before San Antonio's erstwhile juggernaut, 2 to 1, at the Spudder plant Thursday.

Jimmy Lindsey, Bear right hander, was magnanimous to the extent of a quartet of flitting bingles. The Spudder outfit is still wallowing in the mire of a prolonged batting slump.

Ripper hurled a great game. He gave up eight safeties scattered throughout the nine couplets, and but for a miscue by the classiest shortstop in the Texas league probably would be battling yet with Lindsey in a 1-to 1 deadlock.

Tough Break Loses.

Coleman's aggregation absconded with the tilt in the ninth frame. There were two away, Washburn on third by virtue of a base on balls, and Meyers at first because of a hair-raising single he had larruped to port. After consultation with Query, several other of the Spud inner works joining in the powwow, Ripper uncorked four high wide ones, purposely walking the Bruin backstop so as to get at Lindsey. But the breaks were against the gang. The Spudders had played eight and two-thirds innings without a bobble, hand, nor foot, nor head. Jimmy poked a comparatively easy bounder to short. But Distel—we reiterate, the king of Texas league short fielders—messed up the play, and before he could get the ball away from him all hands were safe and the winning marker had stabbed the pan.

The bunch chunked a glittering opportunity into the garbage box during the final half of the ill-fated stanza. Bodie pushed one to short. Clark tore over, scooped up the pellet, but collided with Brovold. He spun around unsteadily, and then whaled a jungle heave at the initial station. Pingus drew up at the keystone. Little Freddy Dorman attempted to sacrifice, but the bunt was poor, and Bodie was cut down at third. Then a few seconds later, Freddy, held to first by Washburn, and with a left handed hitter up, suddenly became imbued with the idea of purloining second. The attempted pilfering foray was a bust, and Freddy was thrown out on bullet throw by Warwick to Gonzales. Golvin grounded out to second.

Bears One in Fourth.

The first Bear tally was punched in during the fourth when Rosenthal doubled down the first base line, waited at second while Washburn aviated to left, and then galloped home on a two cushion clout against the upper tier of the starboard rampart by Clark.

The Spudders evened the enumeration in the sixth. With one away, Callaghan cracked a single through the box. Distel walked. Cal counted on single past second by Fitzgerald. Bodie drew a first base coupon, but Freddy hit into a twin killing. The play was made by Washburn to the platter, forcing Distel. Warwick doubled her back to first ahead of Dorman.

Ripper tossed a sweet brand of ball, apparently having recuperated entirely from his score wing ailment and wildness displayed in the Saturday game with Houston. With the kind of pitching the Spudders carried yesterday when they come out of their hitting sickness it will be almost impossible to hold 'em, so it would appear.

The GILDED ROSE

By May Christie

Who's Who in the Story.

Rosilyn Ridgeway learns on her wedding day from idle gossip that she has been married for her money. Before her enormous fortune was left her, she had been an overworked little drudge in her father's inn.

Landis Ridgeway, her husband, is a brillian, fascinating man, who was forced into the marriage by his mother,

Florence Ridgeway, an aristocratic old lady, who saw poverty staring her in the face, and chcose the easiest way out. Rosilyn loving her husband, knows that he is still in love with

Lydia Harbrook, a beautiful, cold society girl who is bent on marrying

Stevie Van Vorst, a wealthy old roue, although she is really fond of Landis in her selfish way. She is in Paris when she hears of Landis' marriage, and immediately returns to the United States. With her goes

Rupert Briscoe, a dissipated man of the world, who has seen Rosilyn but once, and yet is deeply interested in her. Lydia learns of this interest, and when the two reach New York, she suggests that they ask the young Ridgeways to join them for dinner. She and Briscoe concoct a plot whereby through an apparent misunderstanding Rosilyn and Briscoe will be left alone together all evening, while she will be with her beloved Landis. Thus happens that Landis is amazed to find her waiting for him in the lobby of Claridge's.

Landis phones to find out why his wife has not joined them, and learns that she left the hotel with Briscoe—leaving word that they will join Lydia and Landis in a few minutes. Left alone with Lydia, Landis finds himself swept off his feet by her beauty.

Meanwhile Rosilyn is being escorted to the Clarendon by Briscoe, who tells her that he is doing his best to get in touch with Landis and Lydia.

Had he caught at tonight's opportunity to slip away from her?

If he wanted her, he would have waited for her in their suite—

Landis and Lydia do not appear, so Briscoe and Rosilyn go into a cabaret, where the poor little bride sees her husband dancing with the lovely Miss Harbrook.

When the dance is over, Landis does not join his wife, although she is sure he has seen her. However, her love is so great she determines to wait for one more dance, hoping for just another glimpse of him.

CHAPTER XXX.
Resentment.

Rosilyn forced herself to laugh—though indeed the sound of it was hollow.

"Ah, it's finished!"

Would Landis come up now?

He didn't.

Instead, she saw him, with possessive air, help Lydia into a gorgeous evening cloak of thick white satin edged with snowy fox. Her little golden head emerged, just like a sunflower.

She saw him pilot her—possessively—through a maze of little tables towards the exit. Heads were turned towards the pair, admiringly. Indeed, there could be no slightest doubt they made a splendidly matched couple, and one that anyone would turn to look at twice.

Someone sprang up, to speak to them. Lydia paused in her departure, standing graceful and composed beside her escort. Rosilyn could not fail to see the dainty little gesture with which she laid her finger-tips on Landis' arm—as though she owned him, and wanted the whole world to know it!

Just then, the lights went down, and the second portion of the cabaret performance started.

It was an inane love-song, rendered by a vapidly pretty little actress who was the idol of musical comedy at the moment. In her thin, flute-like voice she trilled and twittered, doing a little 'pas de seul' the while.

"Singing no earthly good, but dances well," was Briscoe's comment as he screwed his monocle in his right eye, the better to observe the charmer.

The latter got a great reception, particularly from the men who were 'getting on' in years. In the most artless, kittenish manner, the little actress ogled them and 'played up' to them, with the spotlight following her in changing colors, blue and rose and green and violet. As she darted and swooped from table to table round the ballroom floor, that spotlight shone on many an old bald head whose lawful mate was not in evidence!

"Are they bachelors?" queried Rosilyn, determined that Mr. Briscoe should not pity her, and that he should not realize her misery over Landis' humilitation of her. "Or are their wives not with them? These girls seem much too young, somehow — unless they're daughters—"

Briscoe flung back his head and laughed.

"When it comes to getting pocket-money, and the dress bills paid, they've got all the daughters beat a mile, I'm positive!" Then he leant forward: "Look at the red-headed kid with her grand-daddy! She looks sixteen but I'll wager that at heart the little devil's just as old as Tutankhamen's wife, and twice as worldly-wise! You watch her!"

Rosilyn felt a sudden nausea.

Here in this great, rushing city, there were undercurrents that she did not understand, but only vaguely sensed.

The next turn was a Spanish dancer, plump of hip, and black of eye. Her coal-black hair was parted in the middle and drawn back tightly into a coil on the nape of the neck, while a large ornamental comb stood up from the straight masses of the coiffure.

She danced with castanets, and a great stamping of the heels and swaying of the hips.

"Now that's a brilliant performance, and a great dancer!" Briscoe gave his meed of praise. "I've travelled in Spain several times, and I know that she's an artist."

Rosilyn saw nothing clever in or attractive in her undulations and contortions.

"You're bored. We'll go on somewhere else," Briscoe rose and paid the bill.

"I ought to be getting back to the hotel," said his guest uncertainly.

Yet she hated the thought of returning before her husband did. A certain deep resentment had begun to simmer in her consciousness.

Why shouldn't she show Landis that she 'counted'? Why shouldn't she let him see she had a willing and attentive cavalier?

He had behaved abominably. Unversed in eitquette as no doubt she was—and she admitted—even an outsider would know that tonight Landis had flung conventions and nice conduct to the winds.

Briscoe saw her waver, and took his chance.

"We'll go on to a night-club. That will entertain you." He led her out and hailed a passing taxi.

Rosilyn had never seen a fashionable night club.

This was a smallish one, and Briscoe was well known to the management.

Though it was long past "hours," being indeed well after midnight, her escort was supplied with liberal refreshment ow the "bubbly" taype.

"Quite a good place to know, if one is thirsty," he observed. "They've been caught by the police once, so far—so they're rather careful whom they serve."

Rosilyn gazed about the place. There were shoals of lean and dark young men with chocolate eyes, and too-perfectly cut evening jackets, too-shiny heads, too-predatory glances.

Most of the women had a haggard air. They seemed ageless, neither young nor old. Flat-bosomed, hipless, they danced with a boneless, sinuous movement, almost like the pouring of a fluid.

Practically every head was shingled. Only two or three were bobbed. Rosilyn realized at once that her own coiffure was old-fashioned, in comparison to these.

In the center of the room—which wasn't very large—there was a square for dancing. A five-piece orchestra, two of its members being negroes, occupied a small raised dais. When the music started, almost everybody made a bee line for the dancing floor, where—packed like sardines in a tin—they jogged uncomfortably, yet with a curiosity rapt look upon their faces.

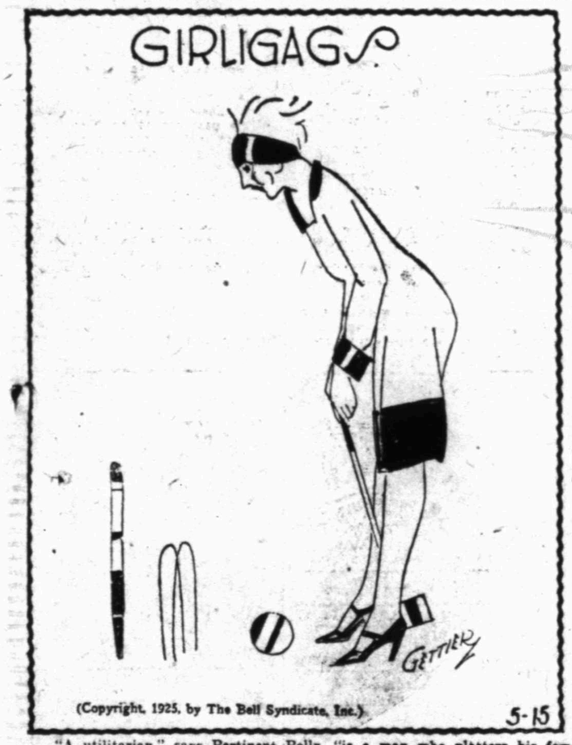

"Do they really enjoy it? They look most awfully serious-like—what's the word? —like 'devotees'," the girl said to her companion.

He smiled at her simplicity.

"It's the fashion. And it seems to fascinate them. Maybe you'll get the craze yourself."

"I'm sure I shan't." She shook her head.

Young People of The Methodist Church To Give "Will O' Wisp"

"Will O' Wisp," the name of the pageant to be presented at the Methodist young people's circus May 29 and 30, was written by Mrs. R. A. Faver of this city and will be directed by the author. It is a fairy story dealing with the time when little princesses were wooed and wedded to the tune of the grasshopper chorus, and little elves played mischievious pranks on poor little shepherd boys who happened to fall asleep in the forest.

The cast in the pageant comprise more than 150 children and young people of the city and will culminate the Methodists Young People's association's first annual circus. Rehearsals for the pageant have been progressing nicely and Mrs. Faver, the director, urges that all Methodist children between the ages of 9 and 12 years who desire to appear in the play to come to the First Methodist church, Tenth and Lamar streets, Friday afternoon at 3:30.

H. B. White, chairman of the young peoples' week, announced Thursday that a large circus tent had been secured for the Methodist circus and would be erected on the lot just south of the church for the performances. The young people are working hard in preparation for event, according to Mr. White, and are planning a program for the two circus performances May 29th and 30th that will eclipse anything attempted here in the line of amateur circuses.

COLLIER WITNESSES CALLED

Over 75 Subpoenas Issued for Trial of Mrs. Collier at Haskell

Subpoenas for about 75 witnesses, wanted for appearance in district court at Haskell on May 25 for the trial of Mrs. Frank Collier, under indictment for murder in connection with the February 14 death of Elzie Roberson, have been received here by Sheriff Fred K. Smith. Most of the summonses have been served, Sheriff Smith said, and the others will be in ample time.

Mrs. Collier, whose husband, former mayor is under a three year prison sentence for manslaughter in connection with the same case, was indicted in April in district court here. The case was sent to Haskell on a change of venue.

"Rather Be Killed Than Go Back," Says Alleged Bond Jumper

J. E. Shaw, alias J. D. Shaw, was taken to Duncan, Okla., Thursday afternoon by deputy sheriffs from that point following his capture here early in the day by Detectives Bryan and Allen of the city police department. He was caught after a long foot race through the "jungles" east and north of the railway tracks.

Shaw, who is alleged to have jumped a bond in Oklahoma, told the officers "I wish you'd kill me, I'd rather be dead than go back" after he had been caught.

Allen and Bryan have been searching for the man for several days and located him Wednesday night in a Lee street rooming house. Early Thursday morning they went to the place to arrest him. They said they thwarted one attempt to escape through a bed room window, but that as they were climbing into their car, the prisoner broke and ran.

Both officers set out in pursuit and Allen sent several shots after the ground at the heels of the flying man. The chase lasted for a quarter of a mile and terminated only when Shaw collapsed and fell to the ground.

Walton Is Cleared Of Former Charges By Appeal Decision

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 14.—The criminal court of appeals today dismissed the appeal of the state in the case against J. C. Walton, former governor, charging diversion of public funds, thus freeing Walton of all charges. The allegations were the same is some included in the airticles of impeachment upon which Walton was removed from office in November, 1923.

J. K. Wright, county attorney of Oklahoma county, appealed from the ruling of Judge A. S. Wells in district court here that informations drawn by Wright's office against Walton were improperly formed.

Judge Wells quashed the actions when he upheld the plea of Walton's counsel that the charges were not sufficiently specific.

Wright refused to amend the informations and carried them as originally drawn to the appellate courts.

The informations alleged that Walton caused the salary of T. P. Edwards, declared to be his personal chauffeur, to be paid from funds of the state health department.

Walton issued a short verbal statement after the appeals court had freed him declaring that "some good citizen ought to prosecute the bunch at the Oklahoma county court house."

about the canopied entrance to the mansion for a glimpse of the veteran

The wedding ceremony started promptly at 4:30 o'clock. The Lohengrin wedding march was played on the organ as the procession passed down especially constructed aisle, set off by flower decorated posts, chained together with white satin cords. The altar was covered with white silk.

On Father's Arm.

The bridal march was led by Mr. Woelfkin, followed by the groom and his best man, Albert Fink Milton, a brother. The maid of honor, Miss Ellen Milton, the groom's sister, came next, wearing a dress of hydrangia blue chiffon.

Mr. Rockefeller with his daughter, Abby, on his arm followed.

The bride wore a gown of silver colored net with a train embroidered with Pointe de Paris lace. Her net veil had a very narrow border of Honiton lace and she carried orchids and gardenias.

The single ring ceremony was used and the word "obey" was omitted from the marriage vows.

1,200 Are Guests.

A reception to 1,200 guests followed the wedding.

The Milton's honeymoon will be a two months' sojourn in Europe and they are taking a roadster in which to tour the continent. On their return they will occupy a modest apartment, the address of which has not been made public.

Mr. Milton and his bride in early childhood were playmates on the adjoining Rockefeller and Milton estates at Pocantico Hills, N. Y. Their engagement was announced February 25 of this year.

Mrs. Milton is the only daughter of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., with her five brothers, all younger, she will presumably share in the fortune of her wealthy father. After Abby's engagement Mr. Rockefeller announced he had provided trust funds for all his children to be drawn upon later in addition with their requirements.

The bride is 21 years old, Mr. Milton a lawyer who died in 1913. Milton is 25. He is the son of David M. mother, who was present at the wedding was Ellen Hunt Fink of Louisville, Ky. He is said to be a direct descendant of Meriwether Lewis, private secretary to Thomas Jefferson and one of the principals of the Lewis and Clark expedition to the Pacific coast, 1803-6.

STOCKS.

NEW YORK, May 14.—Stock prices displayed considerable irregularity as a result of rather heavy profit-taking in some of the rails and industrial specialities, but bullish demonstrations were successfully conducted in a number of copper and food shares.

Revival of speculative activity in the coppers most of which closed a point or so higher, followed the publication of favorable quarterly earnings statements of the porphyry companies. Ray, which earned nearly $1,200,000 as compared with $343,000 in the first quarter of last year was the leader in that group, closing 1⅛ higher at 13⅝ after having sold at 13⅝.

Failure of the oil shares to respond to the resumption of dividends by the Marland company and announcement of advances in gasoline prices along the Atlantic seaboard was attributed to the publication of the report of the American Petroleum Institute for the week ended May 9, showing an increase of 55,500 barrels in daily average gross crude oil production.

Insurance stocks were stimulated into activity by the circulation of rumors in the financial district that a cash settlement will be made soon of the amount owed by Germany to the United States government and to American insurance companies for American ships sunk during the war. Continental insurance closed 3½ points higher at 113½ and Fidelity-Phoenix jumped over five points to a new high for the year at 170⅛. Substantial advances also took place in the insurance stocks traded "over the counter." Some of the high priced industrial specialties were again in brisk demand. Dupont advanced nearly 5 points to 152⅞ and Mack Trucks moved up more than two points to a new high record for all time at 158⅞. Motor Wheel corporation attained a new peak price on buying influenced by a report that one of its subsidiaries had been granted a balloon tire patent of large potential royalties.

Renewal of merger reports accounted for the strength of the Wheeling and Lake Erie issues each of which closed more than a point higher. Frisco common broke through to a new high at 82 but heaviness cropped out in Atchison, Atlantic Coast Line, Rock Island, Erie, "Katy" preferred, Missouri Pacific preferred, "Nickel Plate," the Western Pacific issues and a few others.

Call money renewed at 3¾ per cent and later advanced to four. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchange rates held steady in quiet trading. Demand sterling ruled slightly higher around $4.85 and French francs made moderate recovery at 5.21½ cents in reflection of reports that discussions on the American war debt will begin next month. Other rates showed only nominal changes.

Opening: January 21.73 bid; May 22.35; July 22.20; October 21.59; December 21.72.

NEW ORLEANS, May 14.—The cotton market today developed fairly active business and a moderately wide range of price fluctuations. The most of the day it was on the up grade although it encountered considerable opposition from professional traders who continued to be bearish in the main. The market opened 16 to 22 points up mainly due to much better cables than due. October opened at 21.62 and after easing off to 21.53 i nthe early trading advanced to 21.79 or 35 points net higher compared with yesterday's close. October weakened sharply with the remainder of the list after mid-session and declined to 21.48 or 31 points down from the high and to within four points of the previous close, but rallied sharply in the late trading to 21.6 8closing 22 points net higher for the day. The general list closed 20 to 27 points net up.

Private cables ascribed Liverpool early strength to unfavorable weather news and a good trade demand. The advance during the morning which nearly reached two dollars a bale or 37 points on July was due largely to the surprising large April total of domestic mill consumption during April as shown by the census bureau as much as 597,104 bales of lint cotton, were consumed, against 582,674 in March and 478,583 in April last year. Last month's consumption was the heaviest on record for April. More rain in North Texas where not wanted added to the firmer feeling. The sharp slump after mid-session was due to heavy selling by big New York operators and a recommendation by the national council of cotton manufacturers for curtailment of production. As soon as this selling pressure has run its course, however, the market rallied sharply, recovering a good part of the loss and giving a final level of 27 points on July above the previous close.

Exports today 12,369 bales.

Many Oppose Ford's Offer to Buy Ships

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Henry Ford's willingness to buy 400 ships from the shipping board, involving a large scrapping program, met with immediate opposition today in some shipping board quarters.

While the view was expressed that eventually three or four hundred of the laid up ships, including for the most part lakers, would be forced on the junk pile, some of the commissioners said it was by no means certain that the board would agree to any wholesale scrapping for some time to come.

At the same time it was made clear that no offer from Mr. Ford had been received at the board and the members are awaiting the return of Chairman O'Connor from a trip to Detroit and Buffalo before formally going into such a question.

American Is Happy After Shaking Hands With King George and Jack Dempsey

LONDON, May 14.—(AP) — At least one American of this year's vintage of tourists got a personal audience with King George today and he didn't have to go to the king's palace or to be presented at court in order to do it, the Evening News relates. The king, the newspaper says, was making the round of exhibits at the Wembley exposition when a sturdy American holding a boy by the hand pushed his way through the crowd and without any preliminaries said:

"Shake hands with America, king."

King George with a smile shook hands cordially and smiled again when the American in a jovial manner introduced "the boy."

Then the latest self-presentee lifted his hat and walked away. A moment later, he stopped and with meditative complacency observed:

"Now I'm happy. I have shaken hands with the king of England and Jack Dempsey."

Open Air Arena Is Under Construction For Lake Wichita

Work was started Thursday on construction of an open air arena at Lake Wichita which will accommodate approximately 1,500 people. It will be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible.

It is the plan of the operators at the lake to conduct atheltic events in the arena three nights a week, but it is to be so constructed as to be of possible use for open air concerts, lectures and other affairs calling for a centrilization of a large number of people.

The lake is rapidly becoming a recreational spot for increasing numbers of Wichitans who are taking kindly to the amusement devices now in operation there. Two more big riding devices are being set up now, in addition to those installed when the park was opened for the summer season several weeks ago.

Fishing continues to be a major attraction and it was reported a large number of anglers were on the banks of the lake after Thursday morning's rain.

GOING OUT TO GET IT

Fred L. Haskett, assistant manager of the chamber of commerce, will leave Friday noon for a trip down state, where he will confer with representatives of a large manufacturing concern. It is believed the company will locate a branch factory in Wichita Falls that will give employment to a large number of women and girls.

Olympic Brings "The Wendy Girl" for an Engagement Starting Sunday

ALICE JOYCE AND MARY BRIAN IN THE PARAMOUNT PICTURE "THE LITTLE FRENCH GIRL" A HERBERT BRENON PRODUCTION

THAT "WENDY" GIRL

(How Mary Brian, of "Peter Pan" fame, who comes to the Olympic next Sunday in the title role of "The Little French Girl," found her place on the screen.)

IF HER family had not decided to move from their home in Dallas, Texas, to Los Angeles, the screen might have missed one of its most charming young actresses in Mary Brian, who created "Wendy" in "Peter Pan," and who now has an equally coveted role in the title role of "The Little French Girl."

* * *

BORN and educated in Dallas, Miss Brian spent seventeen of her eighteen years in that city. In July, 1924, the family went to Los Angeles. There Miss Brian pursued her hobby of portrait and water color painting. Her ability along those lines had earned her praise and advice on technique from the Austrian artist, Linenkamp. Shortly after her arrival in the west coast city, one of her friends entered Miss Brians' name in a personality contest then being conducted by a local newspaper. The winning of this contest brought her to the attention of the manager of Grauman's Metropolitan Theatre.

HE WAS so impressed with Miss Brian's youthful appeal and personality, that he gave her a part in one of the elaborate prologues which are a feature of his photoplay presentations. At this time Herbert Brenon and the Lasky studio officials were searching high and low for a girl to play "Wendy" in their proposed filming of "Peter Pan." Miss Brian had acquitted herself so well in the prologue that it was arranged for her to meet the motion picture director. A film test at the Lasky studio convinced Mr. Brenon that he need look no further for his Wendy.

HER success in that role is now film history, and next to the feat of Betty Bronson's achievement in the title role, is one of the most remarkable instances of immediate triumph on record in the annals of the movies. Since "Peter Pan," Miss Brian has appeared in the paramount picture, "The Air Mail," and returns to the screen under the direction of Herbert Brenon in "The Little French Girl," a Paramount screen version of Anne Douglas Sedgwick's "best seller."

ALICE JOYCE, Neil Hamilton and Esther Ralston, who played the mother in the Barry fantasy, are co-featured with Miss Brian in the picture, which was adapted for the screen by John Russell, author of "Where the Pavement Ends."

.....Miss Mary Etta Hunt

Special Meeting Of City Council May Be Called for Budget

A special meeting of the city council may be called by Mayor Shepherd some time Saturday for the pupose of taking up budget consideration.

Final approval and adoption of budgets for the fiscal year starting April 1 has never been given by the council. Unavoidable delays, capped by the illness of Mayor Shepherd who has been unable to give them the attention he wished, bobbed up with monotonous regularity just as the city's fiscal year got under way.

All recommendations have been made now, however, and although some more paring is to be done by the mayor, the financial program for the next eleven months is pretty well mapped out.

High School Seniors Observe Class Night In a Manifold Style

Class night was observed by high school seniors at the Junior college auditorium in manifold style Thursday night with an evening full of merriment, entertainment, and a bit of traditional sentiment.

Clifton Clay, popular member of the class carried off the honors in the senior class play, "In The Spring a Young Man's Fancy," but had as his inspiration a boquet of five senior beauties, cast in the roles of five old sweethearts spending a summer in Paris under the chaperonage of a gay young widow, (Doris Brown). Excellent comedy work was done by the five girls, played by Misses Vera Cain, Lucylle Collier, Hazel Champion, Virginia Creath and Viva Riley.

Play Scenes Well.

As they led Dicky, the hero (Clifton Clay) through a succession of love matches, they played the laughable scenes well. Miss Brown's work as the young widow was clever, and she handled the role with marked ability. Dicky, as he rollicks through the play nearly becomes entrapped by the plot of the five old loves, but—he hears from the girl back home and winds up a brilliant climax.

The play and the entertainment program of musical numbers and readings presented some of the finest talent in the school. Miss Dorothy Reid, talented reader, gave an attractive reading "The Rose Act." John Warmuth, young marimba artists played several selections and Emmett Bucknight read "The Social Pariah." The performers received rounds of hearty applause.

Class Tradition.

Following the tradition of "conferring the class mantle" an impressive ceremony, was presented when Sam Bashara, president of the graduating class appeared with Miss Doris Brown, secretary of the graduates, wearing the historical senior mantle. The mantle, a black cloak, is marked by each class secretary in turn with the numbers representing the year in which the class graduated, and figures begin with the year 1919. Taking the mantle from her shoulders, Bashara presented it to Fred Couper, president of next year's graduating class who placed it around the shoulders of Miss Wilton Wade, class secretary, a heritage of honor, of ideals, and of senior dignity.

A large crowd of students, friends and relatives were present at the class day celebration.

NOTARY PUBLIC LIST HERE

Certified List From Austin Includes Over 800 Names

A certified list of notaries public for Wichita county was received Thursday morning by Mrs. Alma Y. Miller, county clerk, from Austin and noitification of the appointments made by the governor are now being sent uot. There are approximately 800 names on the list.

Inasmuch as it will require several days to address letters to all notaries appointed, it is requested by Mrs. Miller that those expecting appointments refrain from calling in to ask about them until time has been allowed for the preparation and mailing of the letters.

The notifications are to be dispatched as rapidly as possible.

"We Are Making No Progress With Our Boys," Says Cheley

Frank Cheley, Denver boy scout commissioner, and a national authority on boys, addressed Rotarians Thursday noon with a splendid talk on boy life.

"We are making no progress with the boy's problems," Mr. Cheley told Rotarians. "There are more than 60,000 boys in reform school in the nation, and if justice were done, the number would be doubled. Every week should be boys' week in the Rotary club. We don't have the same means of living that we had 20 years ago, but the boy of today is just like the boy of 20 years ago. Remember, that every time a boy goes bad, a good man dies."

Forceful statistics were quoted by the speaker. "Each boy is worth $2,500 to the community in which he lives. Wichita Falls is worth $25,000,000 in the raw material of boys.

Walter Cline, 41st district governor, reported on the Fort Worth meeting that Rotary officials held recently, telling of improvements suggested in the state Rotary clubs.

Vertical-8-Superfine

John Burroughs, the great bird lover, was once asked what the song of a certain bird sounded like.

"Have you never heard it?" asked the sage.

"No," was the reply.

"Then you never will!" said Burroughs.

And so we feel helpless to explain when asked, "What is the difference in performance—in riding qualities of a Vertical-8-Superfine?"

If you have never experienced this novel sensation you have no background—and we no words that would convey to you a sense of that which you can only feel when holding the wheel of this wonder-car yourself.
