COTTON DAMAGED

Picking and Ginning Halted Over Wide Area by Precipitation

With snow and freezing temperatures reported only as far south as Amarillo, Forgan and points along that line in Oklahoma and New Mexico, Friday night, the Wichita Falls vicinity apparently had no prospect of extreme cold for at least another day.

New Crops Helped

Although roads in many localities were made almost impassable and gathering of crops appeared to be delayed several days by the continued rains which fringed the southeastern line where the snow left off, winter grain crops were greatly benefited and the soaking moisture gave promise of good ground for planting next spring.

The greatest depth of snow in Texas was two inches, while reports received in Amarillo said six inches had fallen across the Texas line in New Mexico, according to Associated Press dispatches. Snow which covered the ground at Borger Thursday started falling again Friday afternoon but there were no indications that the wave would extend farther south.

Rains General

Railroad dispatchers late Friday night reported the same conditions to north and south that had prevailed the greater part of Friday. Reports from the Panhandle said livestock was not expected to suffer from the cold. The minimum temperature for Texas was 25 degrees, reported at Amarillo. From

BAD ROADS DELAY EPWORTH LEAGUE MEET

The annual banquet of the Wichita Falls district of the Epworth league, scheduled for Saturday night at Archer City, has been postponed indefinitely on account of the impassable roads in Archer county, it was announced Friday. Thorne, chairman of the Epworth league committee of the North Texas conference, who received a message Friday from Rev. Patrick D. Moreland, formerly of Wichita Falls and recently transferred to Archer City, in which he pointed out the condition of the highways.

Municipal Airport Here to Have Model Administration Building

Here is the architect's drawing of the new administration building now under construction at the Municipal airport. The structure will typify the Spanish and Indian influence on architecture in the Southwest and will be an innovation in business buildings as well as in airport construction. Located in a central position will be a general ticket office where passage on all airlines out of Wichita Falls may be purchased. Seating arrangements for both incoming and outgoing passengers will be provided to either side of the ticket box. Rest rooms for both men and women, a smoking room, a pilot's lounge and other conveniences will be installed.

Offices for the Lone Star Aviation company, the Safeway and Braniff airlines, the city airport manager, the Wichita Falls airport company and other companies interested in the port will be provided. The grounds around the building will be beautified with trees, shrubs and flowers, and paths and driveways will be placed for the convenience of motorists and visitors. Automobiles will approach the building at the portico shown at the rear. Parking space will be provided in the grounds behind the building. The wide concrete runway extending from the hangar and fronting the building, also under construction, will allow passengers to step almost from the door into the waiting airliner or from the plane to the building with no danger of being splattered with mud in bad weather.

Famous Dramatist Accused of Murder When Play Solves 1921 Death Mystery

Peter Martin Lampel Charged With Carrying Out Sentence Of Secret Corps to Kill Fritz Koehler

By WILLIAM HILLMAN

BERLIN, Nov. 8. (US)—Peter Martin Lampel, one of Germany's greatest living dramatists, was arrested today, charged with a murder which occurred eight years ago. Lampel's realistic portrayal of a murder in his recent novel, "Betrayed Youth," is alleged by the district attorney to have cleared up a mystery which has baffled the authorities since 1921.

Secret Tribunal Sentence

Lampel, whose "ghastly genius" has given the modern German stage its most startling plays since the war, is accused of slaying Fritz Koehler, carrying out the sentence of an illegal secret tribunal of a nationalistic military corps called the Oberland Free Corps, which put to death traitors within its own organization.

Lampel's description of these illegal tribunals, known as "vehmgerichts," prototypes of which flourished in medieval Germany and which were revived in 1921 during the German-Polish conflict, and his vivid portrayal of the murder of a condemned traitor, are alleged to have betrayed the dramatist.

Member of Corps

The playwright was a member of the Oberland Free Corps in 1921, when Koehler disappeared, and it was charged Koehler was a victim of the secret tribunal.

Although Lampel is charged with Koehler's murder, the allegation stating that the dramatist himself carried out the execution with a revolver, Koehler's body has never been found.

Lampel's career has been even more fantastic than his plays, since he was in turn a writer, soldier, policeman, psychiatrist, adventurer, sexual prison reformer and one of the most notorious "political turncoats."

At present, Lampel is a Communist. His play "Poison Gas Over Berlin," was banned from the Berlin stage this spring on the protest of the war ministry.

MAGAZINE TO PLEAD 'TRUTH'

Collier's Prepares to Defend Articles About Creager

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Nov. 8. (AP)—Plans to plead "truth and justification" were announced today by Charles E. Keeley, an attorney for Collier's weekly who is here preparing to defend the magazine against a million dollar libel suit filed by R. B. Creager of Brownsville, Republican national committeeman for Texas.

The suit was based on several articles concerning the political situation in Hidalgo county, Texas, scene of a bitter factional fight last November. The articles also touched on the patronage system in Texas, which was investigated by a congressional committee. The suit is scheduled to come up here in federal court Dec. 2.

"We are going to plead truth and justification," Keeley said, "and we are ready to go to bat in an effort to prove it. We will not mince words. If Mr. Creager says we made certain statements about him we will admit it and will attempt to prove them. Our answer will be filed when the case comes to trial. We are willing to try the case in Brownsville—in fact we are going to insist on trying it here."

Keeley and Owen P. White, who prepared the articles, have been here several days working on their defense. They announced today that a firm of lawyers here and another firm in McAllen had been hired to try the case.

He said clouded titles jeopardize property rights in numerous Texas cities, and that it would be to the interest of the entire state to join West Texas in a movement to remedy the situation at the next legislative session.

Bills will be supported, he said, for the following purposes: Giving

OIL CRISIS ENDS IN CALIFORNIA

Prices Go Up as Field's Output Is Cut

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 8. (US)—Highlights today in the program to reduce California's petroleum production were:

1—Daily production in the state was approximately 653,000 barrels, a curtailment of 212,000 barrels in seven days.

2—Successful reduction of the Santa Fe Springs daily output to 150,000 barrels and to 100,000 barrels at Signal Hill.

3—Restoration of higher crude oil prices; an increase of from 70 to 75 cents a barrel at Santa Fe Springs and a boost of from 50 to 60 cents at the Long Beach fields.

New England Senator Finds Independents and Demos In Fiery Mood

Nebraskan Illustrates His Thrust at Regulars by Excelsior Bowl

By FRASER EDWARDS
Universal Service Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—A definite split in the Republican party, which may permanently arraign the agricultural West against the industrial East in elections as well as legislation, appear imminent today, as another wedge was driven into the widening breach between the warring factions.

The latest surface indication of the bitter strife within Republican ranks was a savage assault on Senator George H. Moses, of New Hampshire, by insurgent Republicans for dubbing them "sons of wild jackasses."

Moses to Chicago

Scarcely had the bitter debate ended in the senate before Moses, who is chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, boarded a train for Chicago to hold a series of conferences with Republican leaders from the ballwick of the "wild jackasses."

It is this development which disturbs the insurgents. It has been rumored for some time that the old guard, at the insistence of great financial leaders, will make war on such insurgents as Senator Norris, of Nebraska, and Independents like Senator Borah of Idaho, both of whom are up for re-election next fall.

The insurgents will watch narrowly the Chicago conferences. If Moses confers only with the enemies of Norris, Borah and others in the group, their suspicions that a declaration of open warfare on them will be confirmed.

Insurgents Wary

While Moses insists that it is the function of his committee to "elect, not select," the insurgents realize the pressure being brought to bear to sweep out of the party the "pigmies and obstructionists," as James Francis Burke, counsel for the Republican national committee, called the insurgents at the recent "millionaire dinner" in New York.

The speeches which leaked out of that dinner have been coupled with reports that Dr. Hubert Work quit the chairmanship of the Republican national committee, rather than

Record News Cotton Table

For Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma

A lively cottonseed price war, which sent quotations to $50 a ton at Frederick, Okla., provided the only cotton feature of a dull and listless day Friday for ginners, farmers and business men over Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma. Gins over the entire area were practically idle, and farmers and cotton hands saw little chance of returning to the fields for several days, even if the weather clears over the week-end. Fears that considerable damage to cotton has been caused by the rains was expressed in many sections. The scramble for cottonseed at Frederick which brought $50 a ton to farmers produced the record price of the season for Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma. Seed prices several times previously have shown a tendency to shoot skyward at Frederick, but at no time in the past has the quotation been as high as $50. The following prices prevailed Friday, according to reports to The Record News from correspondents in the principal interior markets:

Four Suspects Held After Killing Of Jim Kiersey, Brother of Wichitan

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 8. (UP)—A rapidly organized police search in Oklahoma cities for a man and woman who escaped Thursday night during a gun fight between officers and a bank robbery suspect near Seminole, tonight had brought arrest of four men and two women.

R. A. Hull and Gladys Evans were found by officers here in an apartment occupied by Frank Lang and Delmer Hall who also were held. Police believed Miss Evans was at the scene of last night's shooting, a cafe between Earlsboro and Maud. Hall and Lang were believed to have escaped from jail at La Cross, Kan., Oct. 9. All four of the prisoners were being questioned.

Officers at Seminole earlier had arrested Sam Dyer and his wife, Ruth, proprietors of the cafe in which the shooting occurred.

James Kiersey, an officer, and Owen Edwards, bank robbery suspect, were killed when Police Chief Jake Sims of Seminole led three men in a raid on the cafe. Sims had received a report that the gang which robbed banks at Prague and Kendricks last summer were hiding at the resort.

Edwards was killed by an officer after he fired on the posse, mortally wounding Kiersey.

Officers of the state bureau of identification here today said Edwards had been known to Arkansas police as a member of the notorious Ace Pendleton gang of southwestern outlaws.

SLAIN MAN BROTHER OF OFFICER HERE

Cliff Kiersey, 1103 Euel street, former deputy sheriff and policeman here, left Wichita Falls Friday upon receiving the news that his brother, Jim Kiersey, had been shot to death in a gun battle between officers and a bank robbery suspect near Seminole Thursday night.

Jim Kiersey was mortally wounded shortly before the suspect himself was killed by an officer's gun. His death marked the first to have occurred by violence in a long line of peace officers, the Kiersey family probably having contributed more men to the cause of law enforcement than any other family in the Southwest.

Three of the brothers, Jim, Con, and Ben, were in active service as officers at the time of Jim's death. Five of the brothers and the father, now dead, all had served as officers at one time or another. Cliff Kiersey of Wichita Falls had only in late years become special investigator for the Dixon Motor company, leaving the active service.

Banker and His Wife Kidnaped

Inola, Okla., Institution Robbed of $500

INOLA, Okla., Nov. 7. (UP)—A posse of officers searched the Verdigris river bottom tonight for three bandits who late today kidnapped the president of the Inola State bank, his wife and a customer and looted the bank of $500.

No trace had been found of the men, the sheriff's office at Claremore reported. It was believed they headed toward Tulsa after driving their captives 15 miles north, toward Claremore, where they released them along the highway.

The robbers drove up to the bank in a motor car, held up Dennis Koenig, the president, Mrs. Koenig and the customer, then ordered them to get in the car outside.

One of the men made a hurried trip behind the barrier and took all the money in sight, said by Koenig to have been $500.

The trio had cut all telephone wires into Inola, according to officers at Claremore.

SENATE 'ASSES' ANSWER MOSES

New Englander's Attack Draws Replies

carry on a campaign against the insurgents which was demanded in some quarters.

Seldom has so much personal feeling been exhibited in senate debates as in the fiery assaults upon Moses today by Borah, Norris, Nye of North Dakota, Brookhart of Iowa, Norbeck of Nebraska, Republicans and Wheeler of Montana, Democrat.

Moses Speaks Up

The New Hampshire Republican, who employed the "Jackass" characterization in a speech last night before a meeting of New England manufacturers, was presiding at the time in his capacity as president pro tem. He ignored the rules long enough to state from the chair to Senator Wheeler, a Democrat, "if the senator from Montana can find a more fitting appellation for the gyrating crew that runs the senate, the senator from New Hampshire will be glad to make use of it."

This word by the presiding officer brought laughter from both sides. Smiles lighted the faces of the participants in the ensuing discussion, which attracted leaders of both the Republican Independents and the Democrats. Senator Simmons of North Carolina, ranking Democrat on the finance committee, insisted the coalition was the result only of a "union of minds" and not of any agreement.

Not First Speech

Senator Brookhart of Iowa, one of the Republican Independents who told the senate the other day of the "Wall street booze party" to some Republican senators, observed that, "this is not the first eloquent speech of this kind the senator from New Hampshire has made."

"In the days before dry dinners became fashionable," continued Brookhart, "he spoke of the farm bloc and he described them as composed of 17 lawyers, one editor and one well digger. Since dinners have become dry I want to congratulate the senator from New Hampshire for he rises even to a higher pinnacle of eloquence and determines that we are the sons of wild jackasses."

Senator Wheeler, who first called the attention of the senate to the Moses appellation, said he presumed it applied to the Western Republican Independents "and to some of us over here" on the Democratic side."

Borah Satisfied

"Of course, we cannot tell," Wheeler said after Brookhart's remarks, "what he might have said if the dinner had not been dry; he might have been even more eloquent under other circumstances."

This caused Senator Borah, of Idaho, a leader of the Independents, to observe "when we think of what the senator from New Hampshire said and what he might have thought, we ought to be well satisfied with what he said."

Senator Heflin, Democrat, Alabama, suggested the Moses' speech was inspired by the "scripture idea that the 'ox knoweth his owner and the ass his master's crib.'" At this point Senator Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky, asked "does that apply to jackasses as well as to the ordinary ass?"

Senator Wheeler referred him to Senator Moses.

"He not only goes to the extent of reflecting upon the senators themselves," continued the Montanan, "but he reflects upon their fathers and their mothers."

Political Aspect

Wheeler called attention that Moses has been selected as chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee and noted that he would be active therefore in seeking the re-election of some of the "sons of wild jackasses" in the Northwest.

Getting into the discussion, Senator Norris of Nebraska, another of the leaders of the Independents, went back to the table hearing all manner of articles to be used as exhibits in the tariff debate. He referred to this collection as "Grundy's store." Joseph R. Grundy president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' association, is one of the leading high tariff advocates.

When Norris picked up a salad bowl filled with excelsior, Senator Barkley asked if that was "fodder for the jackasses?"

"That's the kind of food they are giving the American people," said Norris, "and they turn the bowl over to Mr. Grundy to help keep these jackasses out of the senate."

Clyde Thompson Sentenced to Die

trial by the jury in his first trial in October of 1928.

Thompson was arrested along with Woodrow and Thomas Davis, brothers, after the bodies of Shook and his 17-year-old brother Leon were found close by the former's oil field cabin near Leray, Texas, Sept. 8, 1928.

Woodrow Davis, the state's star witness, was granted immunity, chiefly because of his age, but his brother was tried and given the death penalty. An appeal has been made in his case.

Defense attorneys for Thompson sought to save him from the supreme penalty by introducing a deposition by his mother that he was born in Oklahoma in 1911, making him 17 years of age at the time of the crime. The state, however, offered a statement by the defendant that he was born in 1910.

Woodrow Davis admitted witnessing the slaying. He testified in Thompson's trials that he, his brother and Thompson went to Shook's cabin and told Shook they had a wolf in a den and wanted help to get it out. They had been to Shook's home the Wednesday before, he said, and Thompson had stolen a banjo and a rifle.

The youth testified that as they were en route to Shook's home he saw his (Davis) father's pistol in Thompson's belt and asked Thompson what he was going to do with it. Thompson, Woodrow said, replied: "I am going to murder Lucian Shook."

The witness asked Thompson, he testified, what he had against Lucian, and Thompson replied: "Nothing, I'm going to shoot him to see him kick."

Thompson, in a statement to officers, said he shot the brothers after they had fought following a quarrel brought on by their accusing him of stealing Lucian's banjo and gun.

Woodrow testified that after Thompson shot the brothers he pointed the six-shooter at him and his brother and said: "I have two notches in my gun, and if you tell this I'll have two more, and when I am 21 I'll have 21 notches on it."

The Davis boys said Thompson bought shells for his father's gun, and that Thompson and Thomas Davis had been stealing the gun out and practicing shooting for two or three weeks prior to the Shook slayings.

Bids on Three Bridges Open

AUSTIN, Nov. 8. (AP)—The state highway commissions of Oklahoma and Texas today advertised for bids on the construction of three bridges across the Red river. Contracts are scheduled to be let Nov. 25.

The structures will replace toll bridges now in operation. They will be located between Denison, Texas, and Durant, Okla.; Ringgold, Texas, and Terral, Okla., and Gainesville, Texas, and Marietta, Okla.

The bridges will cost approximately $225,000 each and will be of steel and concrete, G. G. Wickline, state highway bridge engineer said. This cost will be borne equally by the two states. The state commissions have allotted $800,000 for the purpose of procuring free bridges over the Red river. They have offered $100,000 for the Preston toll bridge between Sherman, and Madill, Okla.

Winter Crops Aided; Roads In Poor Condition

a point south of that city to Fort Worth, no extreme cold had been reported, although the rains continued. Conditions to the east were said to be almost identical with those in Wichita Falls.

Rain accompanied the lowering temperature in the Lubbock and Big Spring region, interfering there also with harvesting. Similar conditions prevailed at Dallas, Houston, Beaumont and Waco.

The record News received reports from corerspondents in the following towns:

SPUR—The temperature stood at 39 degrees here early tonight, after 24 hours of almost continuous showers. The total precipitation amounted to little more than one-half inch, however. Conditions are unfavorable for the harvesting of crops and highways are hazardous for traffic.

SEYMOUR—A slow rain was falling here early Friday night, with the mercury standing at 47 degrees, only five degrees lower than the day's maximum of 52. Precipitation totaled .26 inches and will be of material aid to winter wheat. Cotton now open will be damaged somewhat, and picking is expected to be delayed for several days.

FLOYDADA—Further delay in the gathering of crops will be caused by a slow rain which began falling here early Friday morning and continued through the day. A sharp drop in the temperature accompanied the rain, and the mercury was still falling Friday night. The rain totaled .85 inches.

ALTUS—Roads in all directions from Altus were slippery and cotton picking had been halted for several days following a two-inch rain here Friday.

GRANDFIELD—State highway No. 36 from Grandfield north, which has recently been graded, was almost impassable here Friday following three days of slow rainfall which totaled .70 inches. The mercury registered 44 degrees early tonight; but was falling rapidly. Farmers have given up hope of getting back to cotton picking before the latter part of next week, even if the weather clears Saturday or Sunday.

WELLINGTON—A cold, drizzling rain which has fallen at intervals here since Thursday night had reached a total of more than one inch late Friday afternoon.

STAMFORD—A slow rain amounting to .85 inches fell here Friday. Dirt roads in this area are slick but not impassable.

SHAMROCK—Freezing weather was expected here Friday night following intermittent showers throughout the day Friday. The temperature was much lower early tonight. Cotton will suffer considerable damage from wet weather. Highways in this area are in bad condition following the rains.

CHILDRESS—Cotton picking and ginning was halted here Friday following two days of drizzling rain which amounted to more than one inch. The temperature Friday night stood at 40 degrees.

HENRIETTA—Ginning and cotton picking was at a standstill in this area Friday following slow rains during the day.

HASKELL—A slow rain fell in Haskell and Haskell county Thursday night and Friday. Pospects are fine for a good grain crop, but cotton picking has been halted, at least temporarily.

VERNON—Rain totaling three-quarters of an inch fell in Vernon Thursday night and Friday, accompanied by a drop in temperature that sent the mercury down to 45 degrees here Friday night. While assuring an excellent season for winter crops, the rain will seriously retard cotton picking.

ELECTRA—The cold wave sweeping over the territory north of here Friday had not struck Electra Friday evening, but a slow drizzle of rain, totaling about one-half inch, had fallen up until late in the afternoon. Roads out in every direction except along the paved highways were in bad condition.

IOWA PARK—A total of almost one inch of rain has fallen here within the past two days and the activities of cotton pickers have been considerably retarded. Other crops are also awaiting clear weather for harvesting. No marked degree of cold had reached Iowa Park by Friday evening.

FREDERICK—Slightly colder weather here Friday gave promise of the cold wave sweeping over the territory to the north of here but no speeding up in the gathering of crops could be effected due to the half-inch of rain and the almost impassable roads out in many directions.

PLAINVIEW—Heavy rain accompanied by a severe drop in temperature, a freeze and snow which began Thursday continued almost all day Friday, with only a few moments of sunshine during the morning. The snow melted almost as it fell Friday, the temperature having indicated a slight rise. Cotton picking has been virtually suspended for the past 10 days but the moisture is giving the wheat acreage in this vicinity a good season.

MEMPHIS—With a slow rain, which has soaked well into the ground for the past two days, assurance is given of adequate moisture for planting next spring, but much cotton on the ground in Hall county fields will be destroyed. The precipitation since Thursday noon has amounted to over two inches. The wind is from the northeast and the temperature down to about 45, with indications good for a further drop.

Several Transfers to North Texas Announced

PALESTINE, Texas, Nov. 8. (AP)—St. Paul's church of Houston today was chosen as the site for the next annual meeting of the Texas Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South.

Several reports and transfers were made.

Transfers out of the conference were announced as follows: W. H. Wallace Jr., to North Texas; W. F. Renfro to North Texas; Chester Harris to North Texas; W. H. Edwards to Arizona; S. W. Williams to West Texas; E. L. Unger to Arizona, and C. C. Porter to Northwest Texas.

F. E. Few was made presiding elder of the Huntsville district, succeeding Jesse Lee, who goes back to a pastorate, and Ed R. Bareus of the Jacksonville district was named to succeed Glenn Flinn, who also will be appointed to a pastorate.

It was announced there would be no other changes in presiding elders.

The bishop's cabinet was in session completing the list of appointments, which will be read Sunday night.

Bishop Sam R. Hay in speaking of the large number of young preachers in the conference, said the conference must make places for them and older preachers must help in this. The bishop said he had appointed at least 50 old preachers to charges over his district who should be superannuated, but their work was their meat and bread and they must be kept on the job that they might live. This condition is because the church does not make adequate provision for its old preachers, he declared.

Citrus Quarantine Changes Announced

AUSTIN, Nov. 8. (AP)—J. M. Delcurto, state entomologist, today announced a modification of the citrus canker quarantine against Louisiana after a conference with W. E. Anderson, Louisiana entomologist. George B. Terrell, Texas commissioner of agriculture, participated in the conference.

Delcurto said the quarantine was modified to permit the entry of oranges which Anderson would certify were free from infestation. This fruit may be shipped to that part of Texas lying, roughly, north of the Southern Pacific line between Beaumont and El Paso.

The quarantine against citrus nursery stock from Louisiana and the requirement of a bond on sweet potato shipments from that state were retained.

Oklahoma Methodist Groups May Unite

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 8. (UP)—The general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, will be asked to unite the East and the West Oklahoma conferences at the general meeting at Dallas in May, 1930. The west division approved the plan late today.

They also voted to give the general conference the right to cede the Oklahoma Panhandle to the Northwest Texas conference.

The east conference voted for the union at its recent meeting at Shawnee. Tulsa was selected as the 1930 convention city of that division.

Governor Holloway gave an address before the conference today.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8. (INS)—Miss Eileen Bowen, 20, was christened in the arms of Michael Conroy nearly two decades ago; today she is suing her godfather, now 45 years old, for $300,000 in a breach of promise suit.

According to the suit, Conroy left his fiancee waiting at the church altar this fall and sent a note of apology saying that he had to help his sister clean house.

At the christening nearly 20 years ago Conroy, according to the girl's relatives, cradled the infant carefully in his arms and joked about waiting until the girl grew up when he would marry her.

McAdoo Recalls Lone Texas Ranger's Offer to Capture Huerta 'in Person'

DALLAS, Nov. 8. (AP)—A story of the late Capt. Bill McDonald, Texas ranger, who was called to Washington as a bodyguard for Woodrow Wilson during his first presidential campaign was as near as William G. McAdoo, cabinet member during the Wilson administration, would approach "politics" during his visit here.

McAdoo, chairman of the board of an air transportation company, refused to discuss any phase of present-day politics.

"Mentioning politics reminds me of Captain McDonald, one of your former rangers," he said. "When Wilson was making his first race I arrived at the opinion he should have a bodyguard.

"I went to Ed House and asked him if he knew of a man who could shoot with both hands and could efface himself in the back ground sufficiently to disguise his real duties.

"'I know exactly the man,' Mr. House said. He immediately sent a wire to McDonald somewhere in the South Texas oil field. Three hours later a wire was received in Washington which read: 'I'm a-coming.'"

After being with Wilson for some time, the difficulty in Mexico arose and McDonald got the idea that the president wanted Huerta in person, Mr. McAdoo recalled.

McDonald went to the president and offered to go into Mexico and get Huerta "dead or alive."

Mr. McAdoo said he asked McDonald how many men he would want and whether any of the regular army would be requested.

"'All I would need would be 20 Texas rangers,'" McDonald replied, Mr. McAdoo related.

"And I believe he would have brought Huerta out with no more assistance than that," Mr. McAdoo commented.

Economic Millenium Pictured Before Tulsans

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 8. (UP)—"The millenium of economic ease is seen for the Mississippi valley and America if we will perfect control of economic environment," declared Walter Parket, New Orleans economist, at a chamber of commerce meeting here today.

"Economically the whole valley is one," he said. "Oklahoma might take the lead in bringing it together. We should demand national policy which declares water an asset, and work toward an economic goal for conserving water, controlling it and using it to irrigate, turn wheels and for navigation."

Mrs. Van Lesley Hostess To Club at Luncheon

Mrs. Van Lesley was hostess Friday to the members of the Century club, whom she entertained with a luncheon at her home on Talunar lane. Baskets of bronze and white plume chrysanthemums were features of the decorative motif.

In the study of feudal England, the subject for the day, Mrs. John Barnard was leader and Mrs. J. C. Straus Jr. presided.

Roll call in the Century club is one of the interesting and unusual features. Each member is assigned a subject for the year and answers roll call with something new on this subject at each meeting. Modern music, sports, poetry, social service, art, wit and humor, nature, aviation, science, theaters in the larger cities, movies and even the happenings in the White House, with numerous other as interesting subjects, enliven the program.

Another interesting Century club feature, is that all work is given as talks. No papers are read. On the program of Friday, Mrs. Dick Davis gave an unusually interesting talk on "When Knighthood Was in Flower," and Mrs. Barnard had as her subject, "English Cathedrals," which was handled in a masterly fashion.

The program was completed with a parliamentary drill conducted by Mrs. Leslie.

Places were laid at luncheon for the following members: Mesdames Jimmie Allred, John Barnard, Dick Davis, H. B. Dudley, J. C. Foster, Paul Hines, Darrold Kahn and J. C. Straus Jr. and Misses Anabel Couper, Fay Fisher, Mary Jo Kell, Gene Nelson, Thelma Fisher and Helen Grisham. Guests were Misses Leah Belle Duff of Topeka, Kan., and Gertrude Melat of Fort Worth, who are house guests of Mrs. Darrold Kahn and Mrs. Harry Wendt of Bartlesville, Okla., who is the house guest of Mrs. J. C. Foster.

The club will meet on Nov. 13 with Mrs. H. B. Dudley.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

We thought once upon a time that our troubles with biology were over, but it seems that drawing an earthworm is the latest problem in that study and we continually hear the "figure" of an earthworm discussed.

If ever there was a subject we dreaded, it was the slimy earthworm. It was our sole drawback to the pleasure of fishing—the earthworm and the cockroach.

When our advice was sought, we thought it best to illustrate, so we took a pencil and traced a curving line until we reached a figurative head—or tail—then retraced the same outline to make the opposite side of the—earthworm.

—And we got the horse laugh!

We were told the earthworm, the humble fish bait as we know him to be, had 151 segments. When we spoke of the worm as a mere bit of fish bait, we were told the proper name was "annelida."

Never having made a study of biology, we marveled to know that mere "fish bait" carried on all the processes of life we carry on.

Knowing that an earthworm has a "cerebral ganglion" and realizes what we have done when we have put him on a hook, has ruined any use we might have for this "annelida."

Our biologist went on to tell us of many other things; that you might pull off the legs of crawfish and they would grow back; but at that, we seemed to have no desire to try the experiment.

If we never have to see earthworms, we would not mind them so much. We know they go through the earth, eat dirt and make agriculture possible.

Somewhere not so long ago, we read an editorial telling that the earthworm was the greatest friend of man. We thought in the beginning, the writer was defending the angler's great sport.

We do not wish to look upon the annelida, but we are able to feel more respect for the—thing.

We have seen the coiling outline drawn in all the glory of 151 segments, shaded to make a "better grade," but we will not have the drawing hanging in our rooms, no matter how great the work.

Risk of Alimony Keeps Many Men From Marriage

Is the Easy Alimony System Keeping Men From Marriage?—Folly Of Playing With Matrimony—Should a Son Bring His Girl Friends Home?

Dear Miss Dix—We men are on our guard. We are watching out and getting leery of marriage since the divorce records furnish such glowing accounts of women getting divorced and living on alimony on easy street ever after. The records of the city in which I live show for last year: Marriages, 1147; divorces, 928. Men who have a good business, or draw a good salary, dare not take a chance where there is only 25 per cent or less of a chance of a marriage venture being a success. They hesitate in assuming the prospective chance of supporting an idle woman on alimony. Change the easy alimony system, then men will not think every woman or girl is a gold-digger and 100 per cent more lonely men would venture into wedlock, and the fair ones would land their meal tickets.—OSCAR.

Answer—I think you are right, Oscar, and I often wonder that any man has the courage to take a chance in the matrimonial lottery when it is run as it is at present. For there is no denying that the cards are stacked against him, and that he doesn't get a fair show.

In every marriage that is a failure it is the man who has to pay, and pay, and pay, no matter whether he was the one who was at fault or not, and nothing is more iniquitously unjust than that of a good, upright man, who has done everything in his power to be a model husband, can be divorced by an unprincipled woman and forced by the law to support her the balance of her life.

There are just as many bad wives as there are bad husbands, and a large percentage of the women who ask divorces have never made any honest effort to make their marriages a success.

Many of them ask for divorces because they were not willing to do housework, and didn't want to have children, and wanted to live free and independent lives, and it is outrageous that their husbands should be victimized by having to pay these quitters alimony that maudinly sentimental judges award them.

On the other hand, when a woman has been a good and true and faithful wife, a real helpmate to her husband, and he forsakes her after she is middle-aged for another woman, she is entitled to a fair compensation for the years that he has robbed her of, and the service she has given him.

No subject is more complicated than the alimony question. I think it should be settled before a couple get married, and in these days, when divorce hovers on the horizon of every couple who enter into the holy estate, that they should have a marriage contract and agree before marriage on what compensation, if any, a man should make to his wife in case they separate. If there are no children and the woman has earned her own living before marriage, there is no reason why she should not take the same sporting chance on marriage that the man does, and not ask for alimony at all.

And in every divorce case I think that before a wife is granted alimony she should have to prove by credible witnesses that she has been a good wife, that she has made a comfortable home, and has been thrifty and economical, and reasonably pleasant to get along with. No man should be forced to pay alimony to a wife who has reneged on her part of the bargain.

It is fair that a man should have to support the children he has brought into the world, but supporting an able-bodied woman who has quit on her job is another matter that should be determined strictly upon the individual circumstances.

Certainly alimony should not be permitted to remain the potent source of easy graft that many women find it to be now.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—We are a club of girls in high school. We all have fellows under 20 years of age. They wish us to become secretly married, but still continue our studies. The boys do not make enough to support us, so after we were married we would have to work. Do you think that we should do as the boys wish us to?

—UNDECIDED GIRLS.

Answer—For heavens sake, no. You would be crazy to do such a thing. It would be wrecking your lives before they have fairly commenced.

Stop, my poor foolish little children, and consider what you are about to do. No doubt it seems very romantic to you now, and a great lark for the whole bunch of you, boys and girls, to go off and get married, but it won't seem romantic or amusing to you when you find out that you have tied yourselves for life to husbands and wives that you do not really love, and that you are married people with no homes, no way even of providing yourselves with the bare necessities of life.

Don't marry anybody secretly. Secret marriages have always a tang of disgrace about them, and people always look askance at a belated marriage certificate, even if it is genuine. Don't marry until you can marry honestly and openly and decently in the sight of your community.

Don't marry until you have had your playtime in life. If you marry when you are schoolgirls and boys and get right down to the stern business of life, you will always feel that you have been cheated out of your youth, and by the time you are 22 or 23 years old you will rebel, and begin to want to dance, and flirt, and run around. Most of the roaming husbands and wives are those who married before they had had their fling at life and were ready to settle down.

Don't marry until you have some settled way of making a living. Marriage has to be financed just like any other proposition, and the boy and girl who get married before they can afford it are sure to quarrel like cat and dog. The boy who takes a family on his shoulders to support never has any chance of rising in the world. He never can give up a poor job to look for a better one, and he has all of the ambition crushed out of him by bills.

Marriage is for grown-ups. It is not a diversion for children. Wait until you are old enough to assume its responsibilities.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a widow with a son who has just started taking girls out to parties. I have always encouraged him to bring his boy friends home, and have told him to bring his girl friends also, but a friend thinks I am not doing right in this. Am I wrong?

—MRS. B.

You are exactly right to have your son bring his girl friends as well as his boy friends to your house. That gives not only him, but you, a line upon them.

A girl seen against the background of a home shows just what she is, and many a little gum-chewing flapper, who looked attractive enough on the street, will show her lack of refinement in your drawing room, and thereby disillusion your son. And you may be very sure that your boy is only going with nice girls if he brings them home with him.—DOROTHY DIX.

A riot of gorgeous color from the finest fall flowers the Wichita Falls section is capable of producing drew crowds to the Woman's Forum annual flower show and Spanish Fiesta Friday despite the dreary weather. The flower display is by far the finest and most beautiful offered in the four years of the annual event here, visitors at the booths said.

Parade Opens Show

A Chevrolet, used through the courtesy of the Fox Chevrolet company, headed the parade that opened the annual flower show Friday noon. It was a moving car of living golden chrysanthemums. At least 15 tubs full of chrysanthemums were used to hide every vestige of wood and metal. Wheels were solid rounds of the yellow blossoms and on the windshield, which had the effect of a mirror, were outlined in yellow, the words, "Forum Fiesta." Large bronze 'mums outlined the outer edge of the car. Misses Marguerite Sheldon and Kathleen Wiley, wearing Spanish mantillas, drove the decorated car and following were 14 cars and a fire truck, all moving to the music of Paul Seed's Playground band. Spanish senoritas in the other cars, were Misses Lida Lea, Mary Sue Franklin, Una Gose, Maxine Pendleton, Helen Powers, Mary C. Boone, Dorothy Cline, Margaret Bone, Helen Ruth Connelly, Lenora Walker, Mary Claire Burton, Mary Louise Riff, Alma Winn, Mary Kate Ard, Elisabeth Hines, Kathleen Cason, Wilma Brown, Rebecca Park, Mary Agnes Riley, Camille Avis, Luelle Harper, Zaidee McKinney, Hallie Broday, Mary Virginia Barron, Lena Belle Jenkins, Corrinne Tucker, Josephine Kelley, Imogene Willis, Jane Adams, Charlotte Joiner, Marjorie Bass, Johnnie Green Hawkins, Mary Tancred, Delores Peavy, Jane Moore, Alva Ruth Walker, Marjorie Bright, Mary Meredith, Melba Jordan, Mae Belle Sonhamaker, Geneva Taylor, Katherine Minter, Maurine Maule, Katherine Hawley, Laura Mae Costley and Mesdames Woodard Bass and Walton Allen.

Building Decorated

The Fritz Motor building had a finished appearance far beyond any previous flower show. Colors were predominantly orange, with black mingling with the orange in the back room where vari-colored lights twinkled through the evening.

The imported Spanish dancers, Rodolfo Lovano and Maria Ramsey, danced an Argentine tango on the show room floor Friday afternoon and evening, and will dance again Saturday afternoon and evening.

Mrs. Guy Raley had charge of the serving of the luncheon, which will be given again Saturday. Lovely girls in Spanish costumes acted as waitresses in serving the delicious food.

Mrs. P. P. Langford had charge of the bazaar, featuring the daintiest of handkerchiefs, Italian cutwork towels and all sorts of handmade things that may be purchased for personal use or for gifts. Mrs. George Keith Sr., assisting Mrs. Langford, showed a handsome afghan that had been sent from Henrietta.

Curio Shop Attractive

The curio shop, in charge of Mrs. Walter Campbell, assisted by Miss Dorothy Campbell, presented treasures which drew throngs Tuesday afternoon and night. A tinkling music box giving old-fashioned tunes and a handsome lamp with Dresden base belong to Mrs. A. H. Carrigan. A Dresden ornamental piece and a Persian shawl belong to Mrs. Wiley Wyatt, and a shawl made on taffeta in 1847 hangs on one wall. It was made 82 years ago by Mrs. Wren of Selma, Ala. Several interesting exhibits belong to Mrs. Clifford Mooers, one of the young brides of the city, including a framed certificate in Spanish which appointed her father consul general representative in Cuba under the signature of the king of Spain.

Mrs. John W. Caldwell has on exhibit a string of beads made of links of Hudson bay trade beads and fossil ivory, the ivory being estimated at 50,000 years of age. A pair of white kid wedding shoes 89 years old, made on a plantation in Princess Anne county, Virginia, were loaned to the exhibit by J. E. Hartman, and a queen's ring and an Egyptian bracelet by Mlle. Delphyne Baluews.

A Java sword and an old Holland clock were among the pieces loaned by Mrs. Frieda van Emden, and a set of exquisite Italian wood carvings and a clock by Mrs. Guy Rogers and Mrs. G. L. Shapard. Many other unusual curios are also on display, making the collection one of the most interesting ever presented here.

The candy booth also presents an elaborate display of confections, under the direction of Mrs. H. R. Robinson. Mesdames S. B. Heard, H. P. Ledford and M. A. Rutis were presiding in the booth Friday afternoon.

Many Wichita Falls industries and stores have also entered elaborate displays for visitors, the merchants' exhibits exceeding any previous show conducted by the forum, it was said.

Dairy Expert Tells Wichita Bankers How to Aid Development Program

Factory System Cannot Prevail in Handling Herds, Says Harding, in Address to Business Men

An outline of the economic background of the dairying industry which placed before the banker suggestions as to how the latter can be of aid to dairy farmers and prospective dairymen, was given in an address by Dr. H. A. Harding, noted dairy and milk specialist of the East, at a called meeting of the members of the Wichita County Bankers association Friday night.

The picture of the dairying industry Doctor Harding drew dispelled the idea that dairying can be run successfully by methods employed by the factory system. The picture was designed to show that dairying, while an efficient part of farming, fails if the rest of the farm is neglected, and in relating what he termed the real factors of the business Doctor Harding showed how bankers, with their advice, can help dairy farmers or those who intend to enter the business.

Diversification Urged

Doctor Harding implied that bankers should urge diversification on farms, so that too intensive dairying would not result. He specifically urged local bankers to encourage the development of cow testing associations, which would be of great aid to dairy farmers in that it would point out the weak spots in dairy herds; to advise farmers able to manipulate milking machines and other modern conveniences to obtain them; and to advise against the purchase of pure-bred stock when high grade herds produce the same, if not better results.

Wichita county bankers, guests of the Wichita Falls Clearing House association at the Friday night meeting, were in turn hosts to a number of Northwest Texas ice cream manufacturers, dairymen, creamery men and agricultural specialists, including G. C. McGown, Wichita county agent, O. K. Barnes, of the agricultural department of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, J. L. Mizell, Wichita county dairy supervisor; Ralph D. Eyer, Childress, Texas, creamery man; John R. Scott, and Dr. S. A. Pittman of Childress, and several others who came to hear the address. Doctor Harding was brought to Wichita Falls by the Wichita Dairy council.

Banquet at Club

The meeting Friday night was held at the Wichita club. A banquet was served previous to Doctor Harding's address. The invocation was given by W. L. Robertson, president of the Clearing House association, who presided at the banquet and introduced Doctor Harding. Those at the meeting were introduced by Oral Jones, secretary of the bankers association.

Those present included: Oral Jones, A. M. Miller, G. R. Kincaid, Lester Jones, I. W. Karrenbrock, Ralph D. Eyer, Childrenn; G. C. McGown, O. K. Barnes, J. C. Walker, St. Louis; M. A. Ellis, F. F. Thompson, P. R. Freeman, N. M. Clifford, J. D. Huffman, P. H. Simmons, J. L. Mizell, W. E. McCutchen, J. T. Harrell, John Hirshi, A. D. Burger, A. R. Hill and L. L. Kincaid of Burkburnett; L. W. McCrory, Dr. S. A. Pittman and John R. Scott of Childress.

Influence of Good Personality Urged Upon Congregation

"The gospel of Christ is the revelation of God's love through a personality, and the most powerful thing in the world is a personality," said Dr. J. Leslie Finnell, evangelist, in his sermon at the First Christian church Friday night before about 200 persons.

Doctor Finnell chose for his text a portion of the Apostle Paul's declaration to the citizens of Rome, in which he said, "I am not ashamed of the gospel of Jesus Christ, for it is the power of God unto salvation unto everyone that believeth," and "It is written, the righteous shall live by faith."

Illustrating the influence of a good example, the speaker cited an instance of an entire community having been renovated as a result of a school teacher's asking one of her pupils to go home and wash her face. The result of compliance, observed by a family which followed suit, spread to the neighbors and effected a cleaning up of the whole community, he said.

Men of the church had charge of the service Friday evening. Under the direction of R. E. Shepherd, a choir of about 25 men sang several special numbers during the opening musical service.

Doctor Finnell will preach Saturday night, and at the morning and evening services Sunday, concluding the revival services which began on Oct. 29.

to land owners the first right to purchase unappropriated strips within their property, first right to purchase such land adjoining their property and providing for trial of suits involving land titles in the counties in which the lands are located, instead of at Austin.

Austin "Prejudiced"

The reason Mr. Hamilton advanced for the latter change was that Austin is a "prejudiced location" for such trials because Austin "profits indirectly from all money by the state through any of its various departments."

W. N. Davis, president of the General Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association, pleaded for closer cooperation for the conservation of oil resources, and more orderly drilling and marketing.

The only permanent cure for unregulated production, he said, "is common ownership and unit development of the common reservoir."

He said a committee of lawyers and representatives of land departments is now at work to devise a more definite code of practice and universal form of contract for unitization, and expressed hope that this report would be available for submission to the directors of the general Mid-continent at their annual meeting late this month.

Federal Charge Filed After Cops Seize Liquor

Charges of possession and transportation of liquor were filed Friday night against P. Phillips before J. A. Lantz, federal commissioner, following Phillips' arrest by city officers. Phillips was released later under $1,500 bond to appear in federal court here Nov. 18.

The arrest followed a chase of about 15 blocks from Holliday street to Lamar avenue, Plainclothes Officers F. E. Summers and A. L. Stubblefield racing after a speeding automobile. The officers confiscated 24 half-gallon jars of whisky.

BLACK-DRAUGHT LONG IN USE

Georgia Lady Tells of Buying Her First Package of This Medicine at 1876.

Gainesville, Ga.—Thedford's Black-Draught has been in use for the relief of constipation, indigestion and biliousness, for nearly one hundred years, and many people tell of having taken it, when needed, all their lives.

Mrs. M. C. Barron, of 64 West Myrtle street, this city, recalls her first use of Black-Draught, 53 years ago.

"When I lived in Forsythe, Ga., in 1876," says Mrs. Barron, "I bought my first Black-Draught at Mr. Jim Jay's store. He was selling it, and some one in the store recommended it to me for biliousness, and as I was having trouble and needing a purgative, I bought it.

"If I get constipated, I have headaches and feel so tired and sluggish, and such a bad taste in my mouth. But after I take a few doses of Black-Draught I get all right.

"In all these years, I have never found a better medicine of the kind. I am satisfied, so why change? I recommend it to old and young."

Sold in 25-cent packages.

PASTORS SPEAK TO MEN'S CLUB

Swanee River Minstrels Prove Real 'Hit'

Talks by Dr. C. M. Simpson, pastor, and Rev. J. R. Spann of Abilene, and a 45-minute performance by the Swanee River minstrels, directed by Mrs. J. S. Pitman, comprised the program given before about 150 persons present for the men's club monthly meeting at the Floral Heights Methodist church Friday night.

Rev. Mr. Spann, who is pastor of the St. Paul's Methodist church at Abilene, devoted his address to a detailed explanation of the financing system in use by the Abilene congregation. His exposition covered not only all phases of obtaining funds for the church budget, but the methods followed in determining its disbursements.

Doctor Simpson made his first appearance before the men's club of the church since his assumption of the local pastorate two weeks ago, and in a brief talk gave his opinions as to functions which best can be discharged in the work of the church by the men's organizations.

The Swanee River minstrels is an organization made up largely of young men of the Floral Heights Methodist church young peoples' division, and has been sponsored personally by Milton Gaines, who acts as interlocutor. Its personnel of blackface artists has been coached by Mrs. J. S. Pitman in preparation for Friday night's performance, and other appearances which are being booked for later dates.

The entertainment presented by the Swanee River ensemble Friday night was declared the smoothest and most effective home-talent minstrel presented in Wichita Falls during the past few years. What the circle lacked in numbers it made up in perfect synchrony of hand and foot work, all of which had been evolved appriately for the individual numbers given.

In thick-lipped repartee, L. D. Lile, Joe Bailey, Howard, and Guy Hawkins delivered not only a refreshing line of cracks which were either new or well worth recalling, but accomplished it with a ridiculous degree of loose-jointed shuffling and characteristic vocal gymnastics.

Among the musical specials, an appealing baritone voice was introduced by Walter Bernard in "True Blue Lou," the ensemble presentation of which was one of the circle's best bits of the program. Joe Pitman followed his ukulele solo with a real darktown interpretation of "Ah ain't got nobody." Other specials which drew equally upon the applause of the audience were Robert Godfrey's buck and wing dance, Guy Hawkins' "Ole Man River," and solos by Gene Hawkins Johnny Reed, Joe Bailey Howard and Milt Gaines. Following the opening chorus, "Singin' in the Rain," Mrs. W. J. Howard appeared in solo dance with choral accompaniment from the circle. Mr. Gaines' special introduced the finale—a brief pageant of nations with sufficient humor introduced to relieve the pathos of Old Black Joe's stooped figure.

Miss Eleanor Pitman played piano accompaniments for the entire performance.

During the first part of the program, which was arranged by Leon Deaton, Dr. Austin F. Leach, president of the men's club, presided, and introduced the speakers of the evening.

Ladies of the church served refreshments following the minstrel.

His death came as a result of coronary thrombosis, a disease of the heart, according to physicians who were called immediately after he crumpled to the floor in the Wichita club, having taken only one step from the elevator door.

THE RETURN OF KING JAMES

Daily Editorial

THE un-civil war, which various pretenders to the throne of New York have so bitterly waged, is ended, and King James is more firmly established than ever in the Kingdom of Manhattan.

The titular rulers of London, Paris and Berlin wield no such scepters. Theirs is an empty authority.

The Shah of Persia and the Mpret Albania (with a dozen assorted eastern monarchs thrown in for good measure) together serve realms whose aggregate wealths and significance are tawdry gestures, when compared to the empire that again passes under Walker's sway.

Neither Caesar's Rome nor Alexander's stupendous loot held within their polyglot reaches as many strains or a tittle of the might coagulated on the former twenty-four dollar rock-pile, which has since become minister of finance and high arts, and "arbiter of elegances" for entire civilization.

Mr. Walker equally occupies a political job and an economic pivot.

His municipality, with a population exceeding that of many independencies, presents problems of administration to test the acumen of a prime minister.

His responsibilities comprehend the range of functions within a head of state's duties—including diplomacy and racial conciliation.

The secretary of the interior himself is not called upon to deal with more diverse or pregnant interests, and the average chancellor of the exchequer isn't vested with comparably intricate or stupendous fiscal burdens.

No play-boy or organization straw-man could have coped with such situations as Manhattan's housing puzzle, her transportation enigmas, her traffic tangles, her port congestion and her borough expansion.

MR. WALKER emerges from the bitterest and perhaps most unetical campaign of our time, with a magnum cum laude in engineering, city gardening, bridge and tube building, budget balancing—and good housekeeping.

Under his government, New York has conducted her kaleidoscopic affairs with unprecedented dispatch, and poll-vindicated economy. The assaulting analyses of Fusion, Socialist and guerilla candidates have failed to undermine citizen approval of its integrity, efficiency and foresight.

His police department, despite the bungling of the Rothstein case and its unsatisfactory handling of sundry underworld murders, can still qualify as the keenest, the most corteous and honest metropolitan force in America.

With millions of outlanders and aliens annually contributing to the difficulties of maintaining public decorum and safety, his successive commissioners have no cause to apologize for their effectiveness, their judgment of their subordinates.

Gangsters, pickpockets, prowling prostitutes, mendicants and pederasts have met short shrift at the hands of this dapper youngster, who came down from the state assembly to assume the momentous task of adjusting post-war Manhattan to crowding opportunities.

The accoster has disappeared from New York sidewalks; unaccompanied women may move without risk or challenge throughout Father Knickerbocker's town.

The best fire-fighters on earth can boast that there have been fewer important conflagrations and less loss of valuable property under their stewardship than casual memory recalls.

Mr. Walker's first election was merely evidence of party faith in his untested capacities. His re-election must be interpreted as a vote of community admiration and a token of appreciation for services adeptly rendered.

AIRDROME FOR WALES

LONDON, Nov. 8. (UP)—The Prince of Wales who was described by a famous flying officer today as one of Britain's most promising pilots, will have a private airdrome of 100 acres a short distance from his new house at Virginia water.

An American, visiting in London, says the English girl who drinks, smokes and goes without stockings doesn't shock anybody. That must be disappointing for her.

Men who earn $25,000 a year are usually good dressers, says the National Association of Merchant Tailors. Wonder what they do with the other $1,000.

Let's Not Be Too Cocky

THE NEW PENAL CODE of Mexico seems to be one of those things that will enable us to pat ourselves on the backs and reflect on our immeasurable superiority to our neighbors south of the Rio Grande.

There is, for instance, the new law relating to robbery.

No Mexican, hereafter, can be punished for robbery, if he can prove that he was hungry at the time he committed it and that he had never engaged in a robbery before.

This is just the sort of thing that will make us feel that Mexico is truly a backward nation. There is something childish, trusting and ingenious in that law. Imagine how it would work in a city like—for instance—Chicago! Wouldn't it be a wonderful defense for rascals?

Yet, when you stop to think about it, it isn't quite as laughable as it sounds.

It may be clumsy and impractical; yet, for all that, it represents a genuine attempt to put a little common sense and humanity into the criminal code—and the criminal code north of the Rio Grande isn't exactly bogged down with either of those qualities.

Mexico, clearly, is trying to make her legal machinery recognize a perfectly obvious fact; that a man can commit a major crime and still not be a real enemy of society.

Many a robbery is committed by an ordinarily law-abiding and upright man who is driven by poverty and misery to a point where it seems better to commit a robbery than to starve to death and see his family starve to death.

In such a case—where it is quite clear that the man is not a criminal by nature—isn't it better to turn him loose and give him another chance than to do as we usually do in the United States—stick him in prison and turn him into a confirmed criminal?

Mexico's new law undoubtedly will help some real scamps to escape punishment for their misdeeds. But will that be any worse than some of the savage injustices that our own laws occasionally cause?

Our whole tendency lately has been to make our criminal code stricter. As a result we see men getting 10-year terms for stealing a couple of dollars. We see a hopeless fury settling down on our convict class, resulting in outbreaks like those at Dannemora, Auburn and Canon City.

This Mexican law is probably quite as impractical as our lofty critics have been saying. But it contains an idea that we might very well think about copying.

How the Wind Blows

IN RECEIVING the enthusiastic indorsement and support of a group of representative Electra business men Wednesday night, the deep oil program of this section might be said to have cleared one of its most important hurdles before the actual business of drilling is started.

Leaders of other cities in Wichita county, and from Clay, Wilbarger and Archer-Young counties have been present at all meetings held here and have assured their active support, but Electra is the first city outside Wichita Falls in which business men have been asked to set the pace for the stock subscriptions of their fellow citizens. If Electra's attitude is any indication, other towns in this county and in the other counties may be considered as ready to discharge their part of the program.

For some time it has been apparent that the drilling stock would be well subscribed in Wichita Falls, not only by wealthy individuals, but by persons of small means who would take only a few shares. The Electra meeting indicates that the same feeling pervades the entire area, an important factor in the financial success of the deep drilling program and a pleasing sidelight on the unity of thought among the people of Wichita, Clay, Wilbarger, Young and Archer counties.

Selling Lake Wichita Fish

THE WICHITA FALLS MAN who was called into court the second time within a few days on a charge of selling fish from Lake Wichita may consider that his fine of $10 and costs was less than he really deserved. His offense was not only one against the laws of the state, but one against the right of hundreds of residents of this section to the pursuit of pleasure and happiness out of doors.

In the recreation they afford, the lakes of the Wichita area are our treasures. The value of all the fish taken from their waters in a season probably doesn't equal the cost of a month's supply of plugs or minnows, but the combined wealth of our town couldn't purchase the joy which hundreds find in taking their own fish.

Our original endowment of fish and game was almost dissipated before steps were taken to halt the destruction. Now we have bag limits, size and catch limits, seasons and other regulations in an attempt to maintain our dwindling resources. A hefty fine is usually sufficient punishment for those who violate these regulations for the first time. Jail is the correct place for those who offend repeatedly.

Interlude

Swinging down the streets they go,
People with their cheeks aglow;
Laughing, chatting, making plans—
Drama hounds and football fans.
Oh, how dare you be so gay—
Don't you know that she's away?

Shuffling down the streets they go,
Faces haggard, movements slow;
Sneering, snarling, sullen-eyed,
Looking pale and sorry tried.
Why so drawn, so lustre-lack—
Don't you know that she is back?
—DON WAHN.

Thinking Fast

It is no simple stunt to think of a retort snappy or snippy when you are on a stage in a Metropolitan playhouse and a guy who is drunkee starts to heckle your act. The nimble-witted Fred Allen, however, crushed a bothersome stew during the "Little Show" performance the other night. After Allen had left the auditors limp with laughter over a joke, the inebriated one waited until the hilarity died down and then yelled: "Aw, I heard that gag 10 years ago!"

The interruption staggered the comedian no little, but when he revived his composure he dryly remarked: "People who keep their mouths shut never show their ignorance—or their false teeth."

Nifty

Then there's the one about the well-known theatrical company whose stock fell from 62 to 22 last week and when they heard of a guy who was buying some of their stock they immediately sent him tickets to all their theaters.

Imagine

There have been numerous tales unfolded since the Wall street pillars crumbled, but this one, we think, sums up matters.

A man, who also had to give up his keptive because he couldn't pay the Park Ave. rental, drove his recently acquired Packard down to a fashionable speakeasy-restaurant in Greenwich Village and summoned his friend, the proprietor. "Joe," he faltered, "name your price. I can't even pay the garage bills for it. Anything you say goes, kid; anything!"

"But," said Joe, "I couldn't even buy it, old man; I couldn't give you a dime for it!"

"Well, then, the hell with it!" said the man as he threw the keys at his pal and raced away.

Merciless Truth

And Izzy Elinson avers that many a man who once clipped coupons is now cutting paper dolls.

By the time you swear you're his,

And he vows his passion is
Infinite, undying—
Lady, make a note of this:
One of you is lying.

Things That Burn Me Up and Knock Me Cold

Far be it from us to aggravate the highly strung Harold Ross, who edits The New Yorker, but a drawing submitted to him lay on his dusty desk for several months because he did not think it was especially comical. The drawing is the excuricatingly amusing one which was recently published, and which entised great comment from the literary reviewers. The caption is: "I say it's spinach, and I say the hell with it!" Gilbert Seldes, who gives away compliments as often as Venus de Milo gives away hugs, got drunk over the infinite sagacity of this wording, and everybody got credit for the swell thing but the caption maker, and the executive who ordered it printed.

So that the records will be accurate, the picture was penned by Carl Rose, but the wording was by the adroit E. B. White of the mag's staff. It remained, however, for Mrs. Katherine Angell, who recognized its humor all the time that Mr. Ross yipped at it, to steal it from his desk while he was holidaying and she sent it to the composing room. By the time Ross returned, the picture was a sensation.

The Morning Mail

"Dear Walter," affectionately writes Nils T. Granlund. "I was wondering when you were at the Hollywood Restaurant the other night if you noticed it. I mean the mob of cowboys and cowgirls from the Rodeo whose enthusiasm over our show made it a merry evening and who cried: 'Whee!' or 'Yowwwwwww!' or 'Yi-yi-yi!' They never once hollered 'Whoopee!' which the controversialissts always contended Broadway thefted from the West. It just struck me funny, considering all the comment the 'Makin' Whoopee' expression aroused."

Tut-tut, Nils. Didn't so profound a lexicographer as Mr. Visetelly of The Literary Digest once tell the Associated Press that "Whoopee" was stolen from Shakespeare's "Upe?"

Get the connection?

Pun My Soul!

To read the two-column headline and fable in the Denver Post and other newspapers of Oct. 13: Gilbert Miller has suggested to Walter Winchell, critic and storyteller of the New York Mirror, that he remain away from the Miller plays and theaters for a while. Mr. Winchell already is exiled from several other New York playhouses. It is his sense of humor, always acute, that gets him in trouble with producers and managers, and Walter very likely soon will find himself a critic always dressed up with no plays to go."

Mr. Miller, who called our attention to the spurious report, added that if it were true, it would indeed be the Millernium.

Lillian, Looks!

The dispatches from London reporting the scene put on in the Savoy dining room by Lillian Foster, the American actress, who slapped Hannen Swaffer's face because the critic panned her, reminds us of our favorite anecdote about the big I-brow. Swaffer, it is known, intensely dislikes a manicure and he is better described as a big bundle of dirty linen, if Heywood Broun won't mind being robbed of the distinction.

At any rate, during Britain's general strike when noblemen drive trucks and otherwise volunteered their services, a Lord and Duke ankled into the Savoy in their greasy overalls. After waiting for service half an hour they sent for the captain. "See here," said one, "we've been here half an hour (drop the aitches yourself) and we haven't had a wafter come near us!"

"I'm very sorry," cooed the lackey, "but do you realise where you are?"

"Certainly," was the reply, "we are in the Savoy dining room."

"But," butted the captain, "you both are so dirty!"

"What of it?" was the retort swelegant. "Isn't this where Hannen Swaffer eats?"

'EASY' The Love Story of a Modern Girl

By BEATRICE BURTON

CHAPTER XXXIV

Ann Marie held her breath, waiting to see what was going to happen.

What would Neal do?

He was getting up from the floor now, his fists hanging at his sides, his face dead-white, his eyes glaring at the man who had knocked him down.

"He's going to fight him," thought Ann Marie, half sick with fear for him.

But she was wrong. Neal wasn't going to fight. He wasn't going to do anything at all! . . . He was going to take his medicine without a murmur.

He did not say a single word to the big, burly man. He glared at him a minute longer and then silently turned away from him and put one arm around Alice.

He said something to her, and without so much as a backward glance at Ann Marie, the two of them started for the stairs that led up to the street. . . . They had forgotten all about her!

She picked up their coats and the little beaded handbag that Alice had left upon the table and started to follow them.

But at the foot of the steps the manager of the place stopped her. He was waving a slip of paper in his hands and talking excitedly in Italian.

"Oh, the bill!" Ann Marie cried and took the slip of paper from him.

She looked at the figures that were penciled upon it. . . . Eighteen dollars and a half! That was what the evening's entertainment had cost!

"The gentleman has gone out to get a cab," she told the manager. "I'll get him. He has the money—" And she ran up the stairs with the manager at her heels.

Neal and Alice were nowhere in sight. But an orange colored taxicab was just vanishing around the corner of the narrow, lamp-lit street.

"They've gone," said Ann Marie. . . . Gone with the $20 bill.

She opened her little purse and began to count out 18 dollars.

"It's a-too-bad they gone," answered the manager. He was not so excited now that he saw he was going to get his money. "Too bad they fight-a. Ain't it too bad?—Goodnight."

And Marie said goodnight, and started home on feet that dragged along the pavement. She was dog-tired after the long day.

"And in less than eight hours I'll be starting my new job," she said to herself. "I should have gone to bed early tonight."

The thought of her new job made her think of Jim Goodwin and Janet. . . . How kind they had been to her! . . . What a good time the three of them had had at lunch that afternoon! And how comfortable they had made her feel.

But she had not felt comfortable and happy that night with Neal and Alice. She had sat there with them, feeling like a wall-flower and remembering that "two's company—three's a crowd."

"They would have had a better time if I had stayed at home," she thought, facing the truth.

"Neal loves me—but Alice is more his kind of girl," she told herself frankly. "And they have a wonderful time together."

But they were not having a wonderful time when she got home.

They were having a pitched battle in Ann Marie's flat, both of them talking at once in loud and angry voices.

"—and if you hadn't flirted with that brute it wouldn't have happened!" Ann Marie caught the end of a sentence of Neal's as she opened the door.

"Oh, shut up!" shouted Alice, trying to drown him out. "Before I'd let any man knock me down the way you did, Neal Forsythe!"

She turned furiously upon Ann Marie. "Your darling little boy friend says it was my fault that the man picked on him tonight!" she snapped. "Trying to put the blame on a woman—just like all the men!"

Her eyes seemed to shoot sparks as she stood and glared at him.

"He wouldn't have dared to touch you if he hadn't seen that he could get away with it, you poor softy!" she told him. "That's why he did it!"

Neal shook his head, his sleek dark hair shining under the electric light.

"You flirted with him, Alice," he said in a loud voice, bringing his fist down upon the edge of the mantel shelf, "and when I objected to his grinning at you he hit me. It was your fault."

Alice opened the door that led into the hall.

"Get out—go home!" she cried in a voice that shook with her rage, "and for Pete's sake, next time a man hits you hit him back if he kills you for it, you great coward!"

Neal went out, slamming the door after him.

Ann Marie was tired and disgusted and discouraged. But she couldn't help laughing at the two of them.

"You were just like a pair of gutter snipes," she said when she and Alice were alone. "If there had been any stones or half-bricks handy, I do believe you'd have thrown them at each other!"

But there wasn't a sign of a smile from Alice. Her little face was hard and grim as she began to take off her clothes and drop them on the floor.

"You certainly did pick yourself out some sweetie!" she said a bit thickly, sitting down on the edge of the day-bed and kicking off her high heeled slippers, "a man that doesn't even know how to stan' up for himself—and, listen to me, do you know what he did tonight?"

Ann Marie shook her head.

"Well, he kissed me," said Alice, giving her a cock-eyed look. She swayed gently as she stood up. "Gosh, but I'm dizzy as a merry-go-round!—your boy friend had T.N.T. in his flasks apparently. Yes, he kissed me several times. I los' count, in fact, after a while."

A sharp pang of jealousy ran through Ann Marie. She knew that Alice was telling the truth. . . . About the only time that Alice did tell the truth was when she had had something to drink.

"Never mind, Alice. Let's go to bed," she said. "I'm so tired I could drop."

But she could not sleep. The day-bed was not very wide and Alice turned and twisted and groaned on her side of it.

Towards morning Ann Marie got up and made herself up a bed with the two arm-chairs in the room. She threw her coat over her shivering body for a blanket and fell into a troubled uncomfortable sleep.

Miss Hogan gave Ann Marie a desk of her own in the big bright outer office. Near it stood a screen, and from the top of the screen hung three smart little silk dresses.

"What I want you to do," said Miss Hogan, "is to make little pen-and-ink sketches of girls wearing these dresses. Make them look as clever as you can. And when they're finished bring them to me."

"Is that all?" asked Ann Marie. "Just three fashion-plate pictures?"

It struck her as being surprisingly easy work.

She looked the dresses over, and then settled down to draw three pictures of girls wearing those dresses.

They were not the long-drawn-out slender girls of most fashion pictures these days. They were cute and pretty. Their noses turned up and their hair curled softly around their ears. Their lips were Cupid's bows and their figures were plump where figures ought to be plump and delicately slender where figures ought to delicately slender.

"Very good!" said Miss Hogan when Ann Marie carried them to her at 4 o'clock that afternoon. "I like them, and I think other people will like them. They're different."

She studied the pictures with her sharp kind eyes. "It's hard for me to believe that you've never had any drawing lessons," she added. "Your work is really good. Very good."

And Ann Marie felt as if she had given her a diploma of some sort.

"Some day when you have time, and when I have some more money than I have now," she said, "I want to talk to you about a good art school for myself, Miss Hogan."

She had made up her mind not to ask Jim Goodwin about one. She wasn't going to bother him any more than she had already—and besides Neal was jealous of him and didn't want her to see him. So she wouldn't . . . She wanted, above all things, to please Neal.

At half past six that night Ann Marie got home.

Alice had gone out. But she had left several souvenirs behind her . . . Half-soiled clothes hung from the foot of the day-bed and the backs of the chairs. Her night gown lay in a little circle of pink muslin on the floor beside the unmade bed. A towel, stained with lip-stick and face-cream, was slung over the edge of the bath tub, and the tub itself had not been rinsed out. A coffee pot and plate of dried-up sandwiches stood on the window sill beside a basket of Jim's pansies. A moving picture magazine and a fashion magazine lay on the rug in front of the fireplace and beside them was a small bag of licorice gum-drops. Alice had always "adored" licorice gum-drops.

"Maybe she's gone into Neal's flat," thought Ann Marie.

She went out into the hall to see if there was a light showing under Neal's door. But there wasn't. . . . He had gone out, too, evidently.

But he was not with Alice. She was sure of that, remembering their battle of the night before.

She went downstairs and to the little delicatessen for food for supper . . . Food that Alice liked. Dill pickles and spiced ham and cream puffs.

Then she went around the corner to the little meat market and bought a thick club house steak.

"Just in case Neal comes for something to eat, too," she told herself. Like most men, he was fond of a good juicy steak.

She had only $92 left after she paid for the things. The speed with which her money was going frightened her a little . . . Let's see, she had let Neal have $30 yesterday, and then she had spent another $18 at the basement "night club."

"I'll have to stop lending money pretty soon," she thought. "Alice is going to be such an expense—If only Alice had stayed at home! Alice had spoiled everything."

There was still no streak of light under Neal's door when she got back to the top floor of the building.

But, as she stooped to fit her key into the lock of her own door, she thought she heard someone moving around in his studio.

She stood up and listened . . . Yes, there were voices in there, murmuring, murmuring!

The Once Over

Locating America's Unnecessary Noises

("Big cities to use sound-recording trucks to determine chief offenders in campaign against excessive noises."—News item).

"Is that the Noise Truck, mister? . . . Well back it up right here, please . . . I wanna have you get a load of very unusual noises . . . Back it up close to the curb so you'll get everything . . . Don't be afraid.

"All set? . . . There . . . Did you ever hear anything worse in your trucking experience? . . . Certainly, I know what it is . . . It's little Rosalie Opstein . . . Her folks think she will be a great pianist some day . . . She plays her exercises like that every morning . . . She's working on 'Hearts and Flowers' now . . . Written for one finger with cold-chisel accompaniment . . . Bah!

"Back up a little closer . . . Hear that? . . . Somebody torturing an animal? . . . Nope! That's Mr. Gillett snoring . . . He sleeps days, the big stiff . . . Now have I any rights or is it legal for him to go making a disturbance like that?

"Drive down the street half a block . . . There's something else I want your machine to get if it can stand it . . . Hark! . . . A murder? . . . In a manner of speaking, yes . . . That fool woman vocalizes like that two hours a day with the windows open . . . Somebody told her that Mary Garden and Jeritza had nothing but determination . . . It it's legal for her to yell like that, why do they punish people for things like manslaughter?

"Don't go . . . Lissen . . . I want your truck to get all it is able to carry in one trip . . . Sounds like a gang war, don't it mister? . . . Well, it's not . . . That's Joe Gropper . . . He runs his engine idle by the hour in the back-yard to see what makes it skip . . . Is there no justice?

"Now point the truck a little to the east . . . There's a radio nut in that house with the gray blinds . . . He thinks 'Moanin' Low' and 'Singin' in the Rain' are the two greatest songs ever written . . . Those and 'I Kiss Your Hand, Madam' . . . He has three home-made radio sets and he runs them all at once so he won't miss them numbers on any station . . .

"What? . . . You can't record any more noises? . . . You're full up? . . . Well, that's too bad. You haven't even a good idea of the bigger disturbances that go on up here . . . Come back tomorrow with a bigger truck . . . There's a tuba player, an unhappily married couple, a parrot, a police dog that's locked up all day without food or water, a fellow who likes to whistle and a baby getting its first tooth . . ."

Wichita Falls as a City

Wichita Falls has grown to its present size and importance because of the natural resources of the surrounding country, and the faith and industry of its citizens in utilizing these resources for their own and the common good. Wichita Falls agriculture, poultry, dairying, livestock and oil, all of which produce wealth and give employment.

Wichita Falls has the advantage of excellent railroad facilities, good highways running in all directions, and an air development comparing favorably with that of any city its size. Bus and motor truck lines also cover the entire territory in the handling of passengers and freight. Two major aviation transportation companies serve Wichita Falls, the city has two airports, both of which have recently inaugurated many improvements to care for contemplated service in air travel and transportation.

Wichita Falls has more advantages than many industrial centers. In raw materials it is the center of a great cotton and wheat producing area, one of the world's most productive oil fields, a great livestock area, and the hub of a rapidly expanding poultry and dairy business. It has natural industrial gas at a rate that is much lower than many cities in the Southwest. It has fuel oil at very reasonable prices. Water is obtainable in large quantities at cheap rates for both irrigation and for industrial work. Electric power may be had in any quantity and from a steady source. The climate is favorable to industry. Workers are intelligent and reliable. Reasonable living conditions, good schools, splendid churches, a great municipal auditorium and an intelligent citizenship makes Wichita Falls the ideal city for industry.

The location of Wichita Falls in northwestern Texas and near the Oklahoma boundary is ideal. It is the largest city within a radius of 100 miles to the south and east, and 150 miles to the north and west. Its manufactured products go into every state in the union and into many foreign countries. The retail trade outlet is unusually large in view of the rich country which it covers.

Wichita Falls is a city of opportunity that no individual or concern can afford to overlook.

COYOTES PLAY PLAINVIEW IN FINAL GAME ON HOME FIELD

The Sportlight

By GRANTLAND RICE

The Day's Round-Up

Army-Illinois—at Urbana
I know that Dr. Zuppke's dream
Is set to trim an eastern team,
And when the East comes to the test
To grapple with the corn-fed West,
The good old Doctor, keen and gruff,
Always prepares to shoot his stuff;
But he may catch some merryell
From Mister Cagle or Murrell
The Illini defense is keen
Along Urbana's stretch of green,
But I believe the Army has
A chance to play the Cagle Jazz.

Harvard-Michigan—at Ann Arbor
The Crimson has a husky bunch
To show the Maize and Blue
That old John Harvard has the punch
That ought to carry through;
And if the Cambridge team can save
A slump from coming down,
I think that Crimson flags will wave
Though Michigan has had a chance
To rest from warfare's brunt,
I still think Harvard should advance
Along the western front.

Iowa-Minnesota—At Iowa City
This battle ought to be immense
In sizing up the conference;
Though Minnesota has a team
Of which so many coaches dream,
Iowa is no cream-puff crew
For any team to wander through.
If Minnesota's dream comes true
She ought to tie with old Purdue,
But with Iowa grim and set,
It ought to be an even bet.

N. Y. U.-Georgia—At New York
I think that Georgia's early pace
Has hurt for the November race;
The Red and Black spun out too fast
For any football team to last;
Yet N. Y. U. has had its share
Of dandruff and of falling hair;
You can't lose Lassman, Hill and Strong
And still punch that old pill along;
I don't know who'll win this pell-mell,
And if I did it I might not tell.

Pittsburgh-W. & J.—At Pittsburg
Pittsburgh should canter on its way
And take this game upon the bound,
But if Jap Douds is fit to play
A lot of backs will hit the ground;
They won't get up and start to flit,
For when Douds hits 'em—they stay hit!

Columbia-Colgate—At New York
Columbia's hopes are none too sour
Amid the cheering din,
But Colgate's team has too much power
And Colgate ought to win.

Vanderbilt-Georgia Tech—At Nashville
At least half-way up to the hilt
The big thrust goes to Vanderbilt.

Other Games
Yes, this time Maryland will fall
To slip one over on old Yale,
And Nassau's Tiger ought to range
I don't think Baylor can defeat
The Texas Longhorns when they meet;
The Fordham-Boston college mill
Is anybody's battle still.
So is the Navy-Georgetown drill,
And if there's any choice to spare,
I like the Navy by a hair;
Dartmouth should slip one over Brown,
Unless the dope comes tumbling down,
And S. M. U. should prove the gem
In tackling Texas A. & M.
Yes, other teams are in their prime,
But I've run out of words that rhyme.

Memphis Trims Childress In Downpour by 15 to 7

Special to The Record News

MEMPHIS, Texas, Nov. 8.—The Memphis High school team played the Childress eleven here today in a sea of mud and defeated the visiters to the tune of 15 to 7. A continual downpour kept up during the entire length of the game and slowed down the game.

Memphis made both touchdowns in the first five minutes of play after the resumption of play in the third quarter. Memphis received the kick-off and Martindale scooped up the ball and ran 60 yards for the first marker. A blocked punt gave Memphis two extra points.

This victory for Memphis tied them with the Clarendon team for honors in the district. They will go into a play-off as soon as arrangements can be worked out to the satisfaction of both teams.

Texas A. & M. Track Team Defeats Longhorn Racers

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Nov. 8. (AP)—The Texas A. & M. Harriers defeated the Texas University cross country team in a dual meet this afternoon, 21 to 38. Shoemaker of the Aggies finished first over the 3.8 mile course in the time of 20 minutes, 45 seconds. Perkins and Winder, Aggies, took second and third, while Storm was highest placing man for Texas with fourth.

Clara School Athletic Teams Worst Valley View

Special to the Record News.

IOWA PARK, Texas, Nov. 8.—The Clara school girl's volley ball team played a 25 to 25 tie with the Valley View school here today.

The Clara school boy's basket ball team defeated the Valley View boys' basket ball team by the score of 18 to 12.

Statements Exonerate Bombing Suspect

MARTINS FERRY, Ohio, Nov. 8. (INS)—Tom Mooney, who is serving a penitentiary sentence for the San Francisco preparedness parade bombing in 1919 is innocent, according to the statements of two Belmont county residents today.

They corroborated the story which was divulged by Frank O. Stevens, aged inmate of the National Soldiers' home at Dayton, Ohio, who named Lewis (Lew) Smith as the real perpetrator of the outrage.

Prize Fight Losses Blamed for Crimes

CHICAGO, Nov. 8. (UP)—Overconfidence in Jack Dempsey's ability to beat Gene Tunney in 1927 made a thief of Otto Siebert, 32, a bank teller, according to an alleged confession made to police here today.

Siebert, officers said, lost $200 of the Ogden National bank's funds on Dempsey. Unable to earn enough to replace the deficit, Siebert took more money, played it on the races, and lost.

Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh To 'Christmas' in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 8. (INS)—Col. and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh will spend Christmas in Mexico, it was learned here today.

The colonel and his wife will be included in the family reunion at the home of United States Ambassador Dwight Morrow, his father-in-law.

It will be Colonel Lindbergh's fifth visit to Mexico.

By W. G. CHAMBLESS

The Wichita Falls high school Coyotes will make their final bow of the season at Athletic park before the home folks here Saturday when they will call upon all their might and main to roll up an overwhelming score on the Plainview Bulldogs. The remaining games on the Coyote schedule will be played on foreign gridirons against such formidable customers as Lubbock and Amarillo.

Bulldogs Have Grit

The Plainview Bulldogs are one of the weaker teams in the conference but have the reputation of living up to their namesakes—Bulldogs. The Bulldogs have the tenacity and grit to keep on battling in the face of unspeakable odds.

It is one of the strange ironies of circumstances that the allegorical representation of these two teams as brought out in their names is a disruption of all natural order in the scheme of things. By all odds of nature the bulldog is a ferocious and savage beast and easily a favorite to tear into shreds the lowly coyote. Yet when the Wichita Falls Coyotes and the Plainview Bulldogs are pitted against each other out on the gridiron arena at Athletic park Saturday afternoon before what is expected to be a huge throng of rabid supporters, the chances are that the Coyotes will be at 10 to 1 odds over the Bulldogs.

Coyotes to Protect Rep

The Wichita Falls Coyotes will be playing with something of a reputation at stake and a goal to make, while the Bulldogs will be trying to save only their faces and whatever gridiron pride they possess—and that is reported to be aplenty.

Should the Coyotes pile up an impressive score out there Saturday afternoon and flash the same form against the Bulldogs which they exhibited against the Vernon Lions, they will demonstrate to their following that they have turned over a new leaf and do really mean to try for the district championship.

Going Full Strength

As on the Saturday before when they humbled the Vernon Lions, the Coyotes will be at their full strength. Not a man has suffered a serious injury in a full two weeks and added to their strength three men, Holden, Ray and Smith, who have been reinstated in the good graces of the academicians are now re-eligible for participation in conference games.

Mud May Slow Game

Though a muddy, heavy field Saturday would necessarily slow the playing down considerable, it would not necesarily handicap the Pack machine unduly. For the outfit has got in two good scrimmage sessions during the week in which they had their baptism of mud. If the field is muddy this afternoon the Pack will be prepared for it. If it is not, then they will be prepared for that, too.

Double-Header Game On

The program Saturday afternoon will begin at 1:30 o'clock with a game between the Denton Junior high school and the snappy little Reagan Junior high outfit. This is the first double-header football card that has ever been played here and will add novelty to the occasion as well as add attraction to the drawing power of the gate.

Two Great Intersectional Games On Nation's Gridiron Slate Saturday

By JOHN W. HEISMAN
Famous Coach and Football Authority
(Copyright, 1929, Distributed by Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The two intersectional games of most importance for this week-end take place in Urbana, Ill., and Ann Arbor, Mich. In the first, Zuppke's men are planning a rodeo with the Army mule, and it's safe to say that before the home folks they will put out every last ounce of desperate energy to mount and stay on the Army mule. But I doubt if they can get away with it. True, the Cadets could only draw a tie from Harvard and a defeat from Yale, but don't forget they scored five touchdowns while all that was happening. In other words, the Army mule has a big kick in the right hind leg called Cagle and another in the left called Murrell. Illinois, on the other hand, hasn't shown much of a kick or a punch anywhere. I pick Army.

For pretty much the same reasons my hunch is on Harvard against the Wolverines. At he beginning of the season it looked like a great game. But since then Michigan has misspent a lot of perfectly good reputation. It might be said that Harvard also lost some—to Army and to Dartmouth. But the Crimson tallied three touchdowns against that Army team, and as Dartmouth played that day, she would have beaten any team in the East by as big a score. Any way I saw the Johnnies play Florida last Saturday. That was enough for me. They had stolen Dartmouth's punch. Michigan won't stop them.

I fancy Princeton is worried a bit over even Lehigh—and well she may, for Lehigh is nobody's doormat this year.

Colgate vs. Columbia will be a bully good game. The former should win—but give the Lions credit for playing fine ball.

Now that Clark and poor Marsters are out for Dartmouth I begin to wonder whether the Indian can win from Brown. It depends largely on their frame of mind—they may play in dispirited fashion or in grand desperation to cheer their injured comrades. Who can fortell how.

And if anyone can prophesy what kind of game either N. Y. U. or Georgia will put up against each other they can do better than I. Both have been in-and-outers all season.

I'm picking Vanderbilt over Georgia Tech, and Kentucky to win from Alabama, knowing perfectly well that both games may go the other way. Lack of consistency is my main argument against Tech and 'Bama.

Minnesota and Iowa will both red-rag each other. No fiercer game will be played anywhere. I like the Swedes but admire the Hawks.

Baylor and Texas U. will settle something or other about their conference championship.

Buffaloes and Matadors Estranged

Turkey Day Battle With Simmons Eleven

CANYON, Nov. 8.—Many fans of West Texas, both followers of the West Texas Buffaloes and the Texas Tech Matadors have wondered why these two leading schools of this section of the state were not scheduled for football this season. These teams have met annually ever since the establishment of Tech college and have always played to capacity crowds. An interview with Coach Burton, athletic director of the West Texas State Teachers' college, discloses the following facts which seems to place the blame for this on no one; just merely circumstances seem to have brought about the condition. Coach Burton says: "For four years we met Tech on a home and home basis, playing on Thanksgiving. Last Thanksgiving our contract expired and the Tech authorities saw fit to enter into a contract with Simmons university for a period of years for the Thanksgiving game; evidently they thought it would be a better game from a financial standpoint, this I doubt."

"When we had our annual conference meetings at Dallas early in December last year, for the purpose of making schedules and attending to such other business as might come before the different organizations, Tech made application for admission into the Southwestern conference and until they heard from this they would not make schedules, as they were desirous of leaving all possible dates open in order to be in a position to accept any open dates tendered them by Southwestern conference teams. We could not hold our schedule open for them as we felt that our conference games must be provided for. We did hold one date open, and thought that it was being held by them, but they had an opportunity to schedule Baylor university on that date and that left us without an open date to offer them.

When asked what his attitude or the attitude of the athletic committee would be towards a post-season game, Coach Burton said: "I can only speak for myself as I do not know just how the athletic committee feels at this time concerning a possible post-season game. Personally I think it a shame that the two leading state institutions of all West Texas have not been scheduled for a game in the regular season. It should be the biggest game of all West Texas every year. As to a post-season game I personally would favor it this one time under the right conditions; more to keep our relations with Tech than for any other reason. Unless I felt that the teams can get together regularly in the future I would not favor a post-season game at this time." He continued, "I would not have any one believe that there is any friction between the athletic departments of the two institutions. Our dealings have always been amicable. I have heard nothing from Mr. Freeland regarding a post season game and do not know how his pulse are concerning the matter." When asked if the proposed game of football would interfere in any way with the progress of basket ball training, one would think that the big coach had been prodded with a hot iron. "Of course it would!" declared the basket ball mentor. Every man that gives much promise of making my basket ball team with one exception is playing football. But for the good of the game and in order that our relations with Tech will remain unbroken we are willing to consider the proposition of a post-season game."

Smoke Clouds Put Chicago in Darkness

CHICAGO, Nov. 8. (UP)—It was good morning, good afternoon or good night somewhere in Chicago on every stroke of the clock today.

In the loop it was "good night" almost all day, with smoke and fog so thick in the air office workers groped their way to work. Lights blinked from every skyscraper window. Automobile headlights were little aid and traffic crept along.

At 10 a. m. the sun could not be seen. Several blocks away, where the variable winds had cleared the smoke pall, it was breaking through the fog blanket slightly.

Movement of aircraft was impossible and lake traffic was paralyzed.

BAYLOR - TEXAS S. M. U. VS. AGS

Games Have Bearings on Conference Title

By GAYLE TALBOT JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Nov. 8.—The Baylor Bears, heavy pre-season favorites to capture the Southwest conference title, either will take a big step toward their goal or see their hopes blasted when they collide with Texas university's steam roller tomorrow at Austin.

A review of the records of the two teams for the season indicates a victory for the undefeated, unscored-upon Longhorns, who will be playing on home sod, but the dope might take a tumble if the Green Bears reach the zenith of their power. They have been pointing to the game for three weeks, while the Steers have been too busy fighting off other stout opposition to stress their bout with Baylor.

Victory Means Much

Victory would perch Baylor at the top of the heap, probably alongside the Texas Christian team, which is favored to win its second conference start against the Rice Institute Owls at Fort Worth, Texas, tied by Southern Methodist last week, must defeat the Bruins to remain in the forefront of conference contenders. It is the week's most important bout.

Southern Methodist and the Texas Aggies tie up at College Station in a tilt which promises to be equally spectacular, but in which less will be at stake. The Mustangs will be fighting to remain in the championship race. The Aggies, out of it, will have nothing to distract them from the task of dumping the Ponies into the also-ran class.

Dedicates New Stadium

The game will mark the opening of the Aggies' remodelled stadium, seating capacity 34,000 souls. That is considered a psychological advantage for the visitors. Few teams are able to dedicate new stadiums and win on the same day.

Over at Fayetteville in the Ozark hills, the big Arkansas eleven is preparing to run roughshod over the Central Oklahoma Teachers. The Razorbacks, just coming into their full power, swept over Louisiant State, 39 to 0, last week. It is unfortunate the Porkers do not have another fray with a conference member. Seven regulars will be lost by graduation.

Inability of the powerful Longhorns to score on S. M. U. last week boosted Baylor's hopes for victory tomorrow. Operatives reported that the Bears looked great trouncing Texas Tech—looked like the great outfit their wealth of material indicated they would be. They came out of the Tech tussle without an injury, in fine fettle, while the Steers stood a terrific battering against the Mustangs. Claude Meadows, fleet Texas back, received a hurt that will keep him out of tomorrow's game.

Two Great Backfields

The conference's two outstanding backfields will match their ability before the memorial stadium throng. Baylor will match the brilliant Dexter Shelley with its dynamic little field general, Jake Wilson. Both backfields are well coached and capable. A smashing offensive battle is forecast. There is power to burn on both teams. Baylor has not displayed this potency consistently but it is there.

If Coach Francis Schmidt cares to unleash all his dogs, Texas Christian may be expected to run up a sizeable score on Rice. The Frog mentor has expressed great respect for the Owls, but it is doubtful his performers will show the same respect tomorrow. The Grubbs-Leland combination insists upon playing its best, which is very, very good, all the time. Rice held the Frogs to a 7 to 0 verdict last year, a pass from Grubbs to Leland scoring the winning points late in the game. The Christians are much stouter this season, however, and the Owls weaker. A guess is that Schmidt will be able to conserve his regulars for next week's battle with Texas.

Fans Are Guessing

The outcome of the Aggie-Mustang tilt has the fans guessing. Neither is a pronounced favorite, except in the eyes of its followers. Southern Methodist will enter the game somewhat handicaped by injuries. Powell, regular center, is out and Mason, versatile halfback, will not be at his best. He still has not recovered fully from a head injury incurred last week. He will see service, however.

The Aggies are free of injuries for the first time this season and will face the Mustangs at full strength. They were able to take it easy against Stephen F. Austin last week, while the Ponies were being battered about by Texas.

Lawton Grid Team Pounds Walters Hard to Win 26-0

LAWTON, Okla., Nov. 8.—Lawton pounded Walters' line hard for steady gains here this afternoon, winning by a score of 26 to 0. Walters was helpless and made but one first down and that on a penalty, compared to 16 first downs for Lawton. Lawton used the pass successfully once for 40 yards and another for 25 yards. The game was played on a heavy field with below freezing temperature.

Burleson College Downs Terrel 3-0 in Hard Game

GREENVILLE, Texas, Nov. 8. (AP)—A field goal booted 25 yards in the first quarter gave the Burleson college Bulldogs a 3 to 0 victory over the T. M. C. Bruins of Terrel this afternoon, placing the Burleson Bruins in the lead for their conference championship. The Bulldogs have not been defeated this season.

Youth Leaps to Death From Brooklyn Bridge

NEW YORK, Nov. 8. (UP)—A young man leaped from the Brooklyn bridge today, falling 132 feet into the East river.

He was not killed directly and fought the crew of a tugboat who attempted to rescue him with boathooks. He then sank into the river.

Oklahoma Sooner Coach Tells Team Beating Kansas U. Is the Big Test

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 8. (UP)—Coach Ad Lindsey called his football team together tonight and told them what to expect tomorrow when they face Kansas at Norman.

Coach Lindsay said, "it is the big test. We are entering the last half of the season with a perfect record. If we beat Kansas we will have gone a long step toward retaining that perfect record when our schedule is completed."

The coach made it clear beating Kansas was not to be easy. The Kansans are smarting under the ill-fortune which has taken two conference games from them by narrow margins—games in which they demonstrated their power.

Nebraska, with a top standing in the Big Six conference, along with Oklahoma, has been tied by Missouri, leaving the Sooners with the only clean card. Coach Dana Bible's men are resting Saturday. Missouri is playing Washington university at St. Louis in an intersectional game, and the Kansas Aggies meet Iowa state in the second conference game of the day.

Kansas Aggies are not expected to be in danger against the Iowans who have lost all their conference starts. The interest of the followers of football, consequently, are left undividedly to the Kansas-Oklahoma match. You can take your choice in the valley and the money is even, despite a last minute report that J. Bausch, plunger par excellence of the Kansas backfield, may be forced out of play by a severe cold.

BUS SPECIAL

Pep Squad May Follow Indian Eleven to Arlington

Plans for the bus special to carry pep squad members of Wichita Falls Junior college to the Armistice day battle at Arlington Monday between the Wichita Falls Junior college Indians and the North Texas Agricultural college Hornets were about to meet with success, according to a statement of Miss Madge Davis, faculty sponsor in charge of of the trip and Miss Nan Snoddy, college yell leader. Some difficulty had been met in getting the required number owing to the fact that a large number of Wichitans are leaving early Sunday to see also the Waggoner races at Arlington Downs.

Saturday noon was set as the time limit for the turning in of requests for reservations as that is the final hour for class activities at the college. The bus is to leave at 5:15 Monday morning from the bus station in order to make the trip in plenty of time for the game, which begins at 10:30 in the morning. Miss Davida Olinger, gymnasium instructor and one of the pep squad sponsors, is to act as chief chaperone for the bus special. Other pep squad members are expected to make the trip by automobile.

Horned Frogs Will Engage Conference Team in Rice Owls

FORT WORTH, Nov. 8. (AP)—The Horned Frogs of T. C. U. after two recent engagements with non-conference teams, will resume their Southwest conference campaign Saturday when they take the field here against the Owls of Rice institute.

Although the Rice Owls have displayed little strength this season, Coach Schmidt will send the most powerful lineup he has on the field with instructions to play their hardest. Frankly, Schmidt isn't any too confident.

"Say, what you will about the Owls, they made five first downs to eight by Texas and the Longhorns had the breaks to beat them," the Christian's coach said tonight, "they always are real tough for T. C. U. Anything can happen Saturday."

Henrietta Team Romps In With 38-0 Win Over St. Jo

Special to The Record News.

HENRIETTA, Texas, Nov. 8.—The Henrietta high school gridders ran fast and wild over the St. Jo eleven here this afternoon to run up a score of 38 to 0. The visiting team never threatened seriously but once and this was late in the final quarter when Aldridge, quarterback passed 50 yards to a halfback and the ball was rushed to the Henrietta 4-yard line. Here the Henrietta line stiffened like bands of steel and held the St. Jo eleven for downs and took the ball in their own possession.

Gaden made four touchdowns for Henrietta eleven and Pwyman, left halfback, two markers, one being a spectacular dash of 90 yards to cross the enemy goal line. Jackson for Henrietta intercepted two passes, one of them being for 40 yards.

Gaden, Jackson, and Pwyman were easily the luminaries for the Henrietta team, while Aldridge was the ranking player for the St. Jo eleven.

Visitors to the English parliament average 5,000 on ordinary days and more than 20,000 every Saturday.

WAGGONER PONY TAKES PURSE

Dixie Dreamer Finishes First in Event

FORT WORTH, Nov. 7. (AP)—W. T. Waggoner, president of the Texas Jockey club and builder of the $2,000,000 racing plant at Arlington Downs, again had the pleasure of seeing his racing silks flash home winner when Dixie Dreamer easily defeated four other two-year-olds in the Texas hotel purse, main event today.

The victory was an upset as ultimate Vote and Star Mistress seemed the class of the field in the five and one-half-furlong dash.

Dixie Dreamer finished five langths in front and was cantering at the finish line. Ultimate Vote came in second and Dutiful Don third.

The first large purse of the meet will be offered Saturday when the Dallas handicap, $2,500 value, is run. Ten horses are nominated but six only are expected to face the starter.

The Reagan junior high school football youngsters will make their first appearance on a real big time program Saturday when they take on the Denton junior high school team out at Athletic park, 1:30 o'clock. The game will precede the Coyote-Bulldog contest and will serve the same purpose of a preliminary bout in a big boxing show.

Three weeks ago the Reagan boys lost a 12 to 0 battle with the same team which they play Saturday and it is with much interest that this contest will be watched. The youngsters are the future greats and promise to put up a scrappy game with the invading team.

Both teams have been training all the week for this contest and will be in fine shape for a grueling scrap. Another thing that will pep them up is the fact that they will be playing before a big grandstand. The youngsters will also have a well drilled pep squad from their own school to keep up the cheering.

Harvard in First Appearance on Big Ten Soil Saturday

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 8. (UP)—Harvard's gesture toward more amiable relations with midwestern universities reaches a climax here tomorrow afternoon when the powerful Crimson eleven makes its first appearance before a Big Ten conference crowd against a thrice-defeated Michigan team.

Win, lose or draw, Harvard is expected to gain from the contest, because the game should remove the last "high hat" charges against Harvard. As well as show that the Crimson physically can take and give as well as the hardy westerners.

Ann Arbor was aglow with preparations for the game, which renews the oldest of all intersectional contests, Michigan having travelled to Cambridge 48 years ago to lose by a lone touchdown.

Streets were filled with crowds, flags and hawkers, and fraternity houses with noise and merrymaking. The football teams, having undergone their final preparations, both rested outside of town, Harvard at the Oakland Hills Country club, near Detroit, and Michigan at Washtenaw Country club.

Betting was heavy, with the Crimson a slight favorite. The visitors staged a light workout in the huge stadium, where more than 80,000 will be in their seats when the game starts. Later the Wolverines had their final, peppy workout.

Razorbacks Meet Oklahoma Teachers

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 8. (AP)—The Arkansas Longhorns tapered off with a light signal drill this afternoon in preparation for their non-conference clash with Oklahoma Teachers college of Ada, here today.

With the exception of Chambers, regular end, the Razorbacks will have their full strength for the clash. The starting lineup which tripped Louisiana State University last week will probably start against the Teachers, Coach Fred G. Thomsen said today.

Mr. Kell's acquisition of controlling interest in the M. & N. A. railway was recently announced. The meeting to be held Saturday is one of the regularly scheduled assemblies of the directorate and stockholders for consideration of routine business, it was said.

The Wichita Falls men will return to Wichita Falls Monday afternoon, it was announced.

Inflamed Nerves

The term "Neuritis" means an inflammation of a nerve. The degree of pain felt varies with the amount of inflammation. The nerve trunk may be extremely tender so that the patient cannot bear pressure on it. Some patients describe the pain as boring, darting, burning and shooting. Since many nerves contain mixed fibres, of which the motor fibres move the muscles, the sensory fibres bring sensation, while others control nutrition and blood supply, one can readily see that when a nerve is affected any one or all of these functions may be described. For instance, some of the motor symptoms are loss of muscular power, and if the legs are involved the patient may find it difficult to walk and the knee jerk reflex disappears, and the usual faradic or electrical reflex of the muscle is altered. The sensory symptoms are numbness and tingling and with a sense of ants crawling over the skin, which may be followed with severe pain to last through the whole course of the dizease.

The pain is continuous and is made more severe upon the slightest movement. The skin may become extremely sensitive to the touch and become so tender that even the weight of blankets may seem too heavy. When nutritional nerves are involved the skin may wrinkle, become thin, and be very shiny. Swelling under the skin may also occur.

It should be remembered that the usual cause of neuritis is a toxic or poisonous substance which has been circulating in the blood but becomes accumulated around the nerve, irritating it and causing it to become inflamed. The treatment should aim at removing this toxic cause and treatment should be taken as easily as possible to prevent nerve degeneration from prolonged inflammation.

The use of alcohol to excess, or the absorption of arsenic or lead, makes a decided predisposition to neuritis. Trembling is characteristic of alcoholic, arsenical and lead poisoning in cases of neuritis accompanied by the tingling and numbness.

It sometimes happens that the cause of neuritis will be found to be purely mechanical misplacement of the bones, usually in the spine. In these cases the symptoms often disappear after a few treatments from a skilled chiropractor, osteopath or naturopath.

The usual course of this disease is either an acute or sub-acute process which achieves its peak in a few weeks and is then stationary for a length of time, after which recovery slowly begins. The use of a fruit or orange juice fast greatly shortens the time of recovery after which one can by following the correct diet ward off future attacks in a very satisfactory way.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Please Sign Letters)

Question—Mrs. B. Writes: "I wrote you some time ago asking a question to be answered by you in the paper, but as yet I have not seen a reply."

Answer—Only a few letters can be answered in the paper each day, so unless your question was of general interest there would not be space for me to answer it in the column. However, you can always be assured of a prompt answer if you will sign your name and address to your letter which will then be answered directly to the address you give. Among the many letters received each day, some are not answered because the name and address are omitted, and because there is no more room in the paper to publish the question and answer.

Strict Vegetarianism

Question—J. F. D. asks: "Can a well balanced diet for keeping fit be had, excluding all animal food, including milk and eggs?"

Answer—A well balanced diet can be made up even with the milk and eggs excluded, providing enough protein is taken in the form of nuts, cereals and legumes. These proteins are usually much harder to digest than the animal protein, and I would not advise this for one in delicate health.

Infected Nose

Question—Mrs. H. S. writes: "Two years ago I had a tooth extracted which had bothered me many months. One month later pus began to come through the right nostril which had a very bad odor. I have had treatments and operations, Wassermann tests, etc., to no avail. My husband is a M. D., and we have done all we can. What is your opinion and advice?"

Answer—Of course, without having a chance to examine you, it would be impossible for me to determine the definite cause of your trouble, but I feel sure that a proper regime to build up your resistance, accompanied by the right kind of local treatments, possibly diathermy cautery, or localized ultra-violet light, might be helpful in bringing about a healing of the condition in your nostril.

Judge Cuts Damages Against Harry Thaw

NEW YORK, Nov. 8. (UP)—The $75,000 damages awarded to Marcia Estardus in her suit against Harry K. Thaw was cut to $25,000 today by Justice Aaron J. Levy.

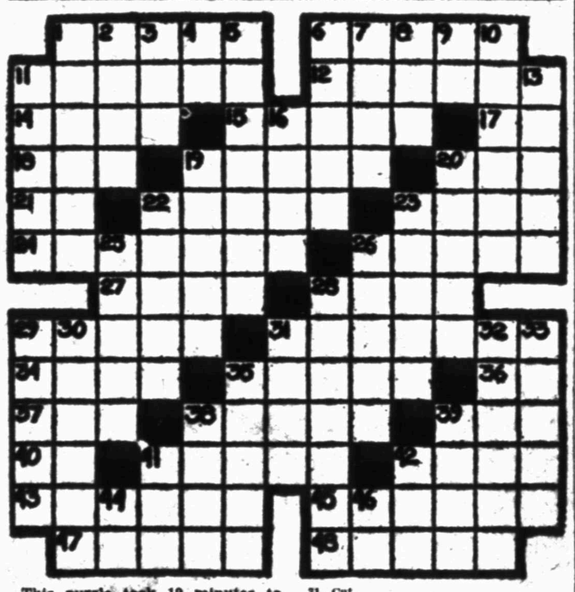

The former night club hostess had sued the Pittsburgh millionaire claiming he had injured her at a New Year's party two years ago by biting and striking her. The jury which heard the case returned the verdict of $75,000 damages with the notation that it might serve as a "deterrent."

Miss Estardus' attorney will appeal.

Former State Banking Superintendent Sentenced

NEW YORK, Nov. 8. (INS)—Frank H. Warder, former state superintendent of banking, was sentenced to five to 10 years in the penitentiary today by Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins. Warder was convicted of receiving a $10,000 bribe from Francesco M. Ferrari, late head of the City Trust company which failed for $5,000,000. It was charged that Warder delayed examination of the City Trust company so that its real financial condition was not revealed until after the collapse.

THREE DUNCAN TESTS PLUGGED

Failures Leave Only Two Active Wildcat Wells

Special to The Record News.

DUNCAN, Okla., Nov. 8.—With three wildcats abandoned and casing cemented on showings cored in two semi-wildcats, interest in Stephens county wildcats slowed down during the week.

The Magnolia Petroleum company has set 8-inch casing at 2983 feet on the Paul Andreae No. 1 in the NE SE NE of 8-2s-6w, a north offset to the Berta Brooke gasser in the Palacine field southeast of Duncan. Total depth of the Andreae is 3007 feet.

Smith and Crowl have set casing at 2217 feet on the No. 1 Pielsticker, in the NE NE SE of 5-2s-8w, an offset to the Miller lease in the Empire field southwest of Duncan. The Pielsticker is considered wildcat territory since other tests on the lease have been dry.

Magnolia Abandons Test

The Magnolia has abandoned the R. W. Martin No. 1 in the SW SW SW of 21-2s-4w wildcat test three miles northeast of Loco, after fishing several days for 2,000 feet of drill pipe lost in the hole. Total depth of the Martin was 4623 feet.

George Pace has abandoned the No. 1 M. D. Butler in the NW NW SW of 35-2s-7w, wildcat test of Comanche, as dry at 2934 feet. Pace has also abandoned the Watkins No. 1 B, in the SE SW SE of 26-2s-7w, another wildcat in the same territory, as dry at 2705 feet.

This leaves only two interesting wildcats in the south end of the county. The Twin-State Oil company is drilling in hard sand at 2496 feet on the No. 1 Davidson, in the SE SE SE of 11-3s-8w, deep wildcat test four miles south of Comanche. Pierce-Brown and the I. T. I. O. are drilling at 3308 feet on the No. 1 Harley, in the NW NW NW of 30-2s-6w, wildcat between Comanche and the Palacine field.

The Mudge Oil company is drilling at 1025 feet on the No. 1 Grose, in the SE NW SW of 15-1s-3w, wildcat north of the Santa Fe shallow field.

Resume Drilling

The Wirt Franklin Petroleum corporation has resumed drilling at 3652 feet on the No. 1 Bonner in the NW NW SE of 9-2s-6w, on the southeast side of the Palacine field, after being shut down several days.

The same company is drilling at 1573 feet on the J. W. Martin No. 1 in the NE NW SW of 9-2s-6w diagonal offset to the Palacine discovery well, after being shut down for water. The same company is coring at 3172 feet on the Thelma Green No. 1 in the NW SW NW of 9-2s-6w, diagonal offset to the Berta Brooke gasser in the Palacine field.

The Dunmar Oil company is shut down at 1718 feet on the C. C. Randel No. 1, in the SE SE SE of 9-2s-6w, southeast of the Bonner in the Palacine field.

TURKEY SALES CONTINUE DULL

Growers Slow to Market Birds Here

Reports from territory surrounding Wichita county on all sides indicated Friday that owners of turkeys are persistently holding back their stock, presumably hesitating to furnish turkeys for the Thanksgiving table this year at 20 cents per pound. This figure prevails throughout the Southwest, so far as can be learned through wholesale houses.

Deliveries made thus far have been scattered and small in amount, it was reported. In localities where turkeys are being pooled for open bidding, it has been indicated generally that sale will not be made until Nov. 11 to 13. The interpretation of this attitude, according to the wholesaler, is an expectation of better price schedules as Thanksgiving day draws near.

MARKET AT ALTUS OPENS AT 20 CENTS
Special to The Record News

ALTUS, Okla., Nov. 8.—Jackson county's turkey market was opened at 20 cents today. This price will be paid for turkeys which weigh around 14 pounds each, old toms will bring 15 cents, while No. 3 birds will sell for 10 cents per pound. Gobblers brought to Altus this year are expected to line the purses of their owners in Southwestern Oklahoma to the extent of approximately $100,000, a survey of the Thanksgiving and Christmas markets show.

Turkeys that have been dressed in this section during the past two days, according to dealers, confirm the opinion expressed by poultrymen recently that birds in Texas and Southern Oklahoma would be in much better condition for the market 45 days from now than they are today. Young toms in excellent condition but weighing only 9 to 11 pounds are included in flocks being offered. It was said, whereas a month of colder weather, additional feeding, and greater maturity would make a superior meat bird of 14 to 15 pounds weight.

Available information on the activity of Wichita county cotton gins Friday revealed the ginning of but eight bales, six at Electra and two at Iowa Park. The county total stands at 16,542.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Nov. 8. (AP)—Cotton showed a good deal of irregularity today with early advances followed by sharp reactions after which prices firmed up again on covering and trade buying. After selling up to 17.53 after the government report, January declined to 17.34, making a net decline of 4 points and closed at 17.49 compared with 17.28 at the close of Thursday. The general market closed steady at net advances of 21 to 28 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 18 to 27 points on further covering in preparation for the government crop report and some buying promoted by relatively steady cables and unfavorable feature in the weather outlook. This advance met considerable southern selling and realizing but the offerings were absorbed on comparatively slight setbacks and the market was selling within a point or two of the opening prices when business was suspended to receive the government report.

December advanced to 17.43 and March to 17.84, with active months generally showing net gains of 23 to 30 points shortly after the resumption of business, but these prices seemed to attract a renewal of old long liquidation while there was probably some local and Wall street selling.

The pressure was sufficient to send the price of December to 17.12 and May to 17.41 or 3 to 9 points lower but demand improved on the decline and a good part of the loss was recovered in the later trading.

Last prices showed rallies of about 24 to 25 points from the lowest. The government crop estimate of 15,009,000 bales was about 69,000 bales below the average expectation of New York cotton exchange members as indicated by a canvass earlier in the week, but 92,000 bales above the average of recent private reports. There was some bullish comment on the ginnings of 10,589,314 bales reported prior to Nov. 1.

Exports today, 48,417, making 2,513,471 so far this season. Port receipts, 87,623. U. S. port stocks, 2,383,093.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 8. (AP)—Cotton prices fluctuated widely today due to buying on the government's bullishly construed crop report and heavy short selling which entered the market soon after the official figures were issued. Offerings were absorbed around yesterday's closing levels and the market advanced in late trading almost reaching the early highs.

January contracts, after advancing to 17.45, eased to 17.17 but rallied to 17.45 and closed one point under the latter figure for a net gain of 28 points. The general market closed steady at net advances of 24 to 28 points.

Liverpool cables were relatively steady and the market here opened higher in response. First trades showed gains of 14 to 20 points and the market continued its advance after the start under a demand stimulated by the unfavorable weather in the belt. Just before trading was suspended for reception of the government report December traded around 17.25, January 17.38 and March 17.67, or 19 to 22 points net up.

The indicated yield of 15,009,000 bales and ginnings to Nov. 1 of 10,589,314 bales were smaller than generally expected, particularly the ginnings, and as a result, when trading was resumed, active positions sold up 6 to 15 points above the prices ruling just before the report was issued. At those levels December traded at 17.34.

The market then encountered heavy short selling and under pressure of the offerings prices sold off rapidly. All the early gain was lost with December sagging 17.05, or 28 to 31 points under the highs and about parallel with the previous close.

In the late trading, however, shorts covered rather freely and the market recovered almost to the early highs. December ticked at 17.30 and March at 17.71.

FIRE PREVENTS BARGAIN SALE

'Fire Clearance' Impossible After Blaze

LOCKHART, Texas, Nov. 8. (AP)—The sale planned by Morris Rosenwasser for his drygoods store here could not even be changed to a fire sale today.

When fire broke out in the store, newly arranged for a sale to open within a few days, the fire siren was out of order, and only the bell in the courthouse was sounded for a fire alarm. Many people, not knowing about the ailing siren, failed to answer the call.

On top of this, the fire pressure at the waterworks was not turned on for several minutes and much time was lost. The building and stock were almost completely destroyed. Loss was estimated at $80,000 and it was said that not a piece of merchandise in the store escaped damage.

It was believed the sale Mr. Rosenwasser planned was indirectly responsible, when defective wiring came into contact with masses of goods hung from the ceiling.

Golfer Travels 7,000 Miles In Hunt for Caddie

LONDON, Nov. 8. (INS)—Hugh S. Jenkins of San Diego, Calif., is in London after traveling more than 7,000 miles with the sole object of finding the caddie who went around a Manchester, Eng., course with him a year ago. He believes the caddie is the only person who can make him recover his lost golfing prowess.

"My game has all gone to pot," Jenkins said, "and I've come to England to find the only man who can put me wise. I forget his name, but I am hoping he is still running around at the Timperly course near Manchester, and if he is, well, I guess he'll fix things all right."

Jenkins was for 15 years associated with Henry Ford at Detroit and was for four years director of the Ford Motor Car company in England.

"The caddie was a great tall lean fellow, who didn't say much, but he made you sit up when he did speak," he added. "He was a rare tyrant to me. He bullied me when I didn't handle the clubs to his liking. I hope I can find him again. If I don't, this trip will be wasted."

"Get me right. This doesn't mean there are no good caddies in America. It just happens that the man I am looking for is the only one who can put me wise."

Ishbel MacDonald Refuses to Give Impressions of Our Women

LONDON, Nov. 8. (INS)—Miss Ishbel MacDonald, daughter of Britain's premier, disappointed a large groups of hearers at the Hampstead town hall when she flatly refused to give her impressions of American women.

"Not because what I think of them is unsayable," she declared, "but because I consider such a thing a personal matter. I don't believe one should talk about what he thinks concerning others."

Texas Grapefruit Has High Sugar Content

AUSTIN, Nov. 8. (AP)—Grapefruit in the lower Rio Grande valley has a higher sugar content than that in any other section of the United States, J. M. Del Curto, entomologist for the state department of agriculture, said today.

Del Curto had just returned from a trip to the lower valley. He said that some of the fruit tested as high as 14 and 14½ per cent and that groves were found in which the fruit averaged 12 per cent. In California the same variety tested only 6 per cent and in Florida 9 per cent, Del Curto said.

After being champion pugilist of England, one John Gully entered politics and became speaker of the house of commons, holding this position for 30 years.

BUSINESS ON UPWARD TREND

Optimism Keynote of C.-C. Quarterly Meet

Expressions of satisfaction with the upward trend of general business conditions in Wichita Falls and of pronounced optimism relative to the deep oil drilling campaign soon to be started featured numerous short talks given by local business men Friday noon before the annual business meeting of the chamber of commerce at the Kemp hotel.

Confidence Renewed

That increased activity and renewed confidence will be an immediate result of completing the deep oil drilling corporation project, and that discovery of deep oil will furnish an immense stimulus to all kinds of business, was declared by J. C. Mytinger. Referring to the field of real estate, as an index industry, Mr. Mytinger described conditions here as being much better than discouraging. A recent survey showed only 5.2 per cent of property vacant, he said, and added that a similar survey in Los Angeles recently revealed a vacancy percentage more than twice that extant here. Public optimism, he said, is eloquently expressed in the subscription of $400,000 for the deep oil project in only one week.

Mr. Mytinger's statements were corroborated and commended by Walter S. Curlee and J. J. Perkins.

School Increases

That the chamber of commerce will have to help the city school system in preparing for about 1,000 additional pupils next year was pointed out by Dr. J. W. Cantwell, superintendent, in referring to the new state law admitting children six years of age to the public schools.

Funds designed to secure a transcontinental airmail route through Wichita Falls have been underwritten by local business men, Orville Bullington, president of the chamber of commerce, announced. A representative of the local organization will go to Washington soon to confer with postal authorities in an effort to consummate that plan, it was announced.

The members voted to give President Bullington power to appoint the budget committee, nominating committee and program of work committee. Mr. Bullington announced that these appointments would be announced in the Sunday issue of the Wichita Daily Times.

It was voted to place the question of the reorganization of the business council before the program of work committee.

Jerry Vinson announced "Buy It In Wichita Falls Week," and urged the cooperation of every member of the chamber of commerce.

Greetings to Rayzor

Frank Haley stated that a banquet would be held in the near future for salespeople of this city. This banquet will be sponsored by the Junior chamber of commerce.

Members of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce voted to send Arthur C. Rayzor, one of the members, who is ill, a letter of appreciation for the civic work which he has done and expressing regret that he was unable to attend the meeting. Mr. Rayzor has been ill at the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital for some time and although his condition is reported to be much better, he is unable to have visitors.

Members of the Junior chamber of commerce were the guests of the senior group at Friday's luncheon.

School And College Notes

By MARGARET FLEMING
The Record News Staff

Approximately 700 high school and Junior college boys attended a pep rally Friday morning at the regular assembly period, according to A. K. Presson, registrar. Principal S. H. Rider made a brief talk. Coach Barry Holton appealed to the boys for wholehearted support to the team and the school.

Parade Called Off

S. H. Rider, high school principal, announced Friday morning that the high school parade, which was to be held Saturday morning had been called off because of inclement weather.

Football Day

Friday looked like "tag day" at the high school and Junior college. Every student and teacher wore a football tag. "Beat Plainview" was printed on the high school tags in red while the maroon and gold college tags bore the inscription, "Beat Arlington."

Christianity was first carried into Japan by Xavier in the 16th century.

Members of the Wichita Falls Little Theater's "combatant" corps are in the final stages of preparation for an event which, unless signs miscarry, should prove an important milestone in the progress of amateur dramatics in this city. With a program made up of two well-chosen one-act plays, the organization will open its new home at Avenue H and Polk streets with four performances, the first being scheduled for next Monday night, Nov. 11.

Following the acquisition of the Hammon building about one month ago as a home for Little Theater activities, an adequate stage, wings, sets and curtains have been installed; seats for approximately 180 persons have been provided, and other equipment secured to convert the building into a satisfactory show-house.

Both the one-act plays chosen for the opening week are among the most successful produced during recent years on the professional stage in this country. "Unseen," by Alice Gerstenberg, a penetrating character study which dramatizes the operation of every-day psychology, will be the first play, and "Drums of Oude," by Austin Strong, will complete the program.

The Gerstenberg piece, a 50-minute play, was written by a girl who was born and reared in the theaters of Chicago. The story has its setting in the apartment home of a metropolitan business man. Keyed up by the impelling drive of modern competition, he is obsessed with illusions of "forces in the air" designed to effect his downfall. Strangely, his fears convert an intellectually opaque housemaid into a nemesis inspired of evil influences. As the action moves to a resolution of its lines, the stupidity of the suspected domestic is revealed as having been an agent for the man's salvation.

The cast of "Unseen" is Mrs. Paul Harrell, Ernest Robertson and Frieda van Emden, the latter carrying the role of the modern but supposedly satanic Joan of Arc. For the second play, Mrs. J. W. Akin Jr., Paul Barnett, Jimmie Campbell, Louis Bond, Raymond Strong, Lee Erwin and Fred Sehmann Jr. have been chosen. Several members of this cast have been heard in Little Theater productions here during the past year. F. A. Newth will man the drums.

It is significant that a play in which an atmosphere of destructive warfare furnishes the predominant theme has been selected for the opening performance of Armistice day, Nov. 11. It has its setting in Oude, India, during one of the recurrent religious uprisings among the Sepoys. While the regiment of British troops is absent on a brief expedition, the garrison is at the point of being annihilated by the attacking natives. Dramatic intensity is drawn about the presence of huge stores of powder in this fort, an objective of the attackers, and an avenue of last minute escape for the besieged.

One of the strongest elements in "The Drums of Oude" is the factor which gives the play its title. Throughout the entire period of one hour, which is required for the action, there is the monotonous, portentious, terrifying throbbing of the drums. First barely audible, then coming nearer, and nearer, maddening in its regularity and growing intensity. Similar effects were used in Eugene O'Neill's "Emperior Jones" and in "Rain" (the latter the masterpiece of the late Jean Eagels). In O'Neill's play the all-night booming of drums runs the renegade to earth; in "Rain" the unceasing beating of a torrential deluge on the tin roof drove all beneath to near-madness.

Since the house-opening plays are to be presented Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights, officials of the Little Theater anticipate that the productions will be heard by more than 600 persons. Rehearsals have been underway for several days under the direction of F. C. McClung.

City Clerk Lists Gifts Santa Should Leave For Wichita

Everyone secretly dreams of marvelous presents from Santa Claus, but W. E. McBroom, city clerk, was quite frank Friday about what he wants the giver of gifts to bestow on Wichita Falls this Christmas.

Mr. McBroom said he thought Wichita Falls and Santa Claus could get along right well if:

1—The deep oil drilling plan turned out OK.

2—The community chest was running over with dollars.

3—The traction franchise question was settled soon and amicably.

4—The taxpayers are prompt in payments.

5—Everybody got through the winter without the usual three weeks' tussle with the flu.

BANKER BOOMS TEXAS' FUTURE

St. Louis Man Visitor Here, Sees Great Growth

Texas and the Southwest will see the most striking development within the next few years of any section of the nation, according to an opinion expressed Friday by J. C. Walker, vice president of the Mercantile Bank and Trust company of St. Louis, who was a visitor here. Mr. Walker was the guest of J. A. Kemp, chairman of the board of directors of the City National bank, and of J. T. Harrell, president of the bank.

"The business man who doesn't know that the Southwest is to see its greatest period of development within a few years is behind the times," said Mr. Walker, pointing out that the state in addition to its vast natural resources and great supply of raw materials, is now entering upon a most successful period of industrial growth.

Eastern and northern capital looks with favor on commitments in Texas, he declared, and almost any legitimate Texas enterprise is assured of a most careful and sympathetic consideration in other states. Texas has increased its wealth so rapidly within the last decade, said Mr. Walker, that much capital for expansion is now supplied the state at home by its banks and financial institutions.

"Whereas 10 years ago large business enterprises in Texas were forced to look to the North and East for financing, we find today that Texas has many institutions supplying home capital for the further development of the state. Banks in Texas have increased their capital amazingly within the last few years, and with the state's favorable position in foreign financial centers, there seems no reason why this section of the country cannot look forward to its greatest period of growth and expansion."

Mother and Daughter Contest for Child

A three-year-old boy was left temporarily in the hands of his grandmother Friday afternoon when the case to decide whether the child should be returned to his mother after her second marriage and absence from the child of about two years was brought before Judge W. W. Cook in the 78th district court.

The case, unfinished Friday afternoon, was postponed until next Friday and the child was left in the hands of his grandmother meanwhile. A writ of habeas corpus, issued by Judge Cook on the application of Mrs. Hallie Moore, 20, directed her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Appleby, 1312 Eighth street, to bring Ralph Duane Freed, the three-year-old son, to the courtroom Friday afternoon for the hearing.

The petition presented by Mrs Moore alleges that she left the child with her mother about two years ago when she separated from her husband. When she married her present husband and attempted to regain custody of the child, her mother refused to surrender the boy, the petition stated.

Bank Suspect's Return Denied

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 8. (AP)—Governor Parnell today denied a request from Gov. Dan Moody of Texas that Ray Love, serving a 15-year sentence in Arkansas penitentiary for bank robbery, be returned to Ballinger, Texas, to face a bank robbery charge there.

Governor Parnell wrote Governor Moody and the sheriff at Ballinger that he did not believe it wise to release Love, since an acquittal in Texas would leave him free, as Arkansas would have no further claim upon him. Love's sentence does not expire until 1941.

Love, who escaped from the state prison farm at Tucker, was captured at Ballinger following robbery of a bank there and returned to Arkansas to finish his sentence. The sheriff at Ballinger, in asking for extradition, claimed he released Love to Arkansas on the condition that he could be returned to Texas when wanted.

Subsequent to the seizure, a complaint was filed on the operator of the place. The raiding party was made up of Dan Ellis, Elmer Thornton and John Saye, deputy constables.
