State Teachers' College Officials Band To Oppose Consolidation Plans

GROUP ASSAILS PROPOSALS FOR SINGLE SCHOOL

Legislative Committee's Hint Called Work Of New Yorker

ASK SUMMER FUNDS

College Presidents State Willingness to Help Solve Problem

FORT WORTH, Dec. 12. (AP)—Drawing up battle lines to save teachers' colleges of Texas from whatever ogre of abandonment or consolidation threatens them in the 43rd legislature, presidents and regents of the seven institutions concentrated their attention in an all-day session here today on security for summer schools.

In a defense of the system of teachers' colleges issued at the close of the session, the officials ignored recommendation of the legislative committee on efficiency and economy as "not yet made clear to the public."

Criticise Report

Suggestion that teachers colleges be consolidated on one campus and the plants of six institutions abandoned could only be the recommendation of a "New York efficiency expert," they think. It will not, they believe, be the report offered as a recommendation by the committee of the 43rd legislature.

"We all believe," the college officials said in their statement "that the teachers colleges are too closely identified with the cause of public education to suffer impairment at the hands of any amateur educational reformers."

Most important now, they think is the necessity to convince the legislature 1933 summer school appropriations will be imperative.

Willing to Cooperate

The group expressed itself as willing to cooperate along sane lines with all governmental authorities toward the end of government cost reduction, but declared itself ready to "fight like tigers" against any proposal to abandon units of the teachers college system.

"We do not have too many teachers colleges but too flimsy standards for certification of teachers," one of the group said.

In the session were Presidents H. F. Estill, Sam Houston State Teachers college; R. L. Marquis, North Texas State Teachers college; C. E. Evans, Southwest Texas; S. H. Whitley, East Texas; J. A. Hill, West Texas; A. W. Birdwell, Stephen F. Austin; H. W. Morelock, Sul Ross; President A. B. Mayhew of the board of regents, Uvalde; Vice President H. A. Paulus, Yoakum, and Dr. Webb Walker, Fort Worth, regent.

Bandits Kill Man In Speakeasy Raid

ST. CLAIRE SHORES, Mich., Dec. 12. (UP)—Four young robbers invaded an alleged speakeasy here today, shot and killed one man and wounded a woman and three other men.

They fled toward Detroit in a waiting automobile after looting the cash register.

The dead man was identified as William Marshall, Roseville, Mich.

Others wounded when the bandits met resistance and opened fire were:

Mrs. Amy Fraser, 34, St. Claire Shores; Emory Ball, 41, Flint, Mich.; Walter Webb, 33, Detroit, and George Rose, 40, Detroit. They were rushed to St. Joseph's hospital, Mt. Clemens, Mich.

Convicts Saw Way Out Of Escape-Proof Prison

OSSINING, N. Y., Dec. 12. (AP)—Widespread search had failed tonight to reveal any trace of two long-term convicts who went over the wall at Sing Sing prison early today after sawing their way from supposedly escape-proof cells.

The two prisoners, William Sutton, serving 30 years for a holdup, and William Eagan, serving 10 years for burglary, bound and gagged a trusty and stole two ladders from a storehouse to make their escape over the 20-foot wall that surrounds the prison.

Doodle Bugs Demonstrate Fighting Prowess To Red Ants

Bomarton Men Find Peaceful Insects Are Ferocious Battlers

Special to The Record News.

BOMARTON, Texas, Dec. 12.—Just what significance, if any, science will attach to it is uncertain, but two Bomarton men conducted an experiment recently and discovered that the doodle bug is mightier than the ant, insofar at least as is concerned their abilities at battle.

Belying the belief that the doodle bug is a pacific insect and an introvert from having heard so often that his "house is on fire" from the lips of children who seek to capture him, the experiment resulted in the discovery that the doodle bug is to an ant just that same thing a belligerent bulldog is to a timid house cat. When the doodle bug arrives on the same scene with the ant, the ant hits out for other parts.

The two experimenters, A. H. Golden and the bookkeeper at the Farmers gin, conducted the test after having read of the "battle of death" between a spider and a snake, and later the spider that is trying to harness the moving hands of an alarm clock, in which the spider is imprisoned.

The first step of the experimenters was to catch two large red ants—of that variety that makes humans bite nails in two when the ant "sits down." The ants were taken to the homes of some doodle bugs.

No sooner had the ants been placed in the cone-shaped abode of the doodle bugs than the occupants began to kick up the dust. Figuratively, of course, the doodle bugs let out a roar, and rushed into the arena.

Then the battle started. And, what a battle!

The ants put up stiff opposition, as red ants might be expected to do. But it required but a few seconds of hammer-and-tong activities for the doodle bugs to demonstrate and prove their superiority.

This fight over, the two men took the doodle bugs and a few of their mates to an ant bed. Depositing the doodle bugs in the ant bed, the two experimenters left.

Returning two hours later, they found it deserted save for one ant, which was wandering around, bewildered, some three feet from the bed.

Attempt To Assassinate Ex-Kaiser Balked By Wilhelm's Servant

DOORN, The Netherlands, Dec. 12. (AP)—An attempt on the life of former Kaiser Wilhelm II was believed to have been frustrated here this afternoon with the arrest of an unidentified German who was carrying a pistol and a huge dagger as he crouched in a tower of the ex-kaiser's castle.

The unidentified man had scaled the high wall surrounding the castle unseen by any servants or members of the former monarch's retinue.

Later he was detected by a servant as he crouched in a tower. He was seized by a member of the house personnel and handed over to the police, who searched him and found the weapons.

RUTH JUDD TO DIE ON FEB. 17

Trunk Murderess Loses Plea To Supreme Court

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 12. (UP)—Winnie Ruth Judd, convicted trunk murderess must hang, the Arizona supreme court decided today when it denied her appeal from the death sentence.

The court set Friday, Feb. 17, as date for her hanging at the state penitentiary after it upheld a jury's verdict she should die for the murder of Agnes Ann Leroi, her one-time roommate and friend.

Mrs. Judd was ordered to her death after months of delay pending arguments on her appeal of 12 assignments of errors in her trial.

Her claim was that the jury had not been instructed on the law of self-defense. She contended she shot to save herself.

Mrs. Judd was never prosecuted for the murder of Hedvig Samuelson, another friend.

Beyond the bare announcement that it had upheld the superior court sentence, the supreme court withheld temporarily all comment and rulings on her appeal.

Farley Approves Plan For Texas Demo Office

DALLAS, Dec. 12. (UP)—National Democratic Chairman James A. Farley has approved the plan of Democratic leaders in Texas to maintain permanent state party offices, it was announced here today.

The offices probably will be located in Austin with W. H. Kittrell Jr., publicity director for the Roosevelt-Garner campaign in Texas, as manager, it was intimated.

The plan was submitted to Farley in Washington last week by National Committeeman Jed C. Adams State Campaign Director Roy Miller of Corpus Christi, and Kittrell.

Banker Suicides Rather Than Face Theft Charge

NEW YORK, Dec. 12. (AP)—After wandering over this country and Europe the last six months, Walter C. Davis, 50, president of the City Saving and Loan association of Colorado Springs, Colo., chose death by suicide today rather than return to Colorado to face a million dollar embezzlement charge.

Davis was arrested yesterday in fashionable Gramercy square. Shortly after 3 a. m. a partolman on duty found the man had hanged himself with his necktie.

Rail Board Orders Hearing at Longview

AUSTIN, Dec. 12. (AP)—The Texas Railroad commission today ordered a hearing for Longview on Dec. 23 to consider testing of wells in the East Texas Woodbine oil sand on the David Ferguson and adjoining surveys for casing or casing seat leaks. It was explained these leaks permit oil from the Woodbine sand to migrate to the upper water sands found at about 800 foot depths.

Amendment of Dry Law Proposed To Give Texas Beer

AUSTIN, Dec. 12. (AP)—Sale of 3.2 per cent intoxicating beverages in packages of from one quart to one gallon was proposed today in a draft of an amendment to the Texas constitution prepared by the Texas liquor control committee.

The committee, headed by John M. Mathis Sr., of Houston, member of the Texas house of representatives, planned to ask the Texas legislature to submit to the voters the proposed amendment when it meets next January.

Texas now has both constitutional and statutory prohibition.

The proposed amendment would specifically outlaw the saloon and forbid drinking intoxicants on the premises where purchase was made It also would provide for local option, giving political subdivisions the right to say whether any kind of intoxicants should be sold.

It was proposed to permit hotels to sell the beverages with meals.

Members of the committee, formed several weeks ago to consider ways of adopting some form of liquor control for Texas, who are attending the meeting included R. J. Boyle, P. L. Anderson and Ray Marshall of San Antonio, C. C. McDonald of Wichita Falls, E. G. Senter of Dallas, Senator W. K. Hopkins of Gonzales and Vance Muse of Houston.

DALLAS LEGISLATORS SHY AT DRY LAW COMMENT

DALLAS, Dec. 12. (UP)—Dallas county legislators were extremely wary of expressing their views on questions involving repeal of modification of state liquor prohibition laws, the Dallas Journal found in a poll reported today.

Only three of the seven legislators had replied and only one of these three answered the questions submitted.

This was Representative Z. E. Coombes, re-elected, who replied he did not believe the legislature should either vote to repeal the 18th amendment or to modify the state liquor laws until the people have had an opportunity to vote directly on the question.

Senator George C. Purl and Jeff D. Stinson, representative-elect, declined to commit themselves. Purl said questionnaires served "little or no useful purpose except to satisfy idle curiosity."

Texas Grain Growers Get Better Prices, Miller Say

FORT WORTH, Dec. 12. (AP)—The numerous mills in Texas provide keen competition enabling the Texas grain producer to receive a better price than does the Kansas producer, Fort Worth milling company executives testified this afternoon at the Southwestern grain rate hearing.

W. Lee O'Daniel of the Burris Mill and Elevator company, W. L. Newsom of Kimbell Milling company and W. P. Bogar of the Bewley Mills, all of Fort Worth, were on the stand.

ABUSE OF FEE SYSTEM BARED

Officers Pocket $9,152 On Dismissed Cases

AUSTIN, Dec. 12. (AP)—The Texas state senate fee investigating committee revealed today that in one county $9,152 in fees was collected by officers on 263 felony cases that were dismissed without prosecution.

Of the cases wiped off the docket, 222 were liquor charges worked up by a negro "undercover" operator, whose own reputation was so bad convictions could not be obtained on his testimony, the report stated.

The fees were divided as follows: County attorney, for examining trials, $1,060; justice of the peace, examining trials, $121; sheriff, mileage, approving bonds, etc., $4,841; district clerk, for final disposition, $2,630.

Another case cited was the payment of $179.60 in fees for handling a chicken theft case. The chickens stolen were valued at $5. The sheriff's account showed he traveled 2,560 miles to serve subpoenas on 86 material witnesses, 78 of whom were called by the defense. The defendant was acquitted on motion of the district attorney because the "property cannot be identified," the report stated.

The report told how one man was sentenced to 252 years in the penitentiary and two others to 254 years each, and all three given death penalties as well for robbery, burglary, theft, attempt to wreck a train and murder. The men were convicted in a total of 134 cases and the state treasurer paid the officials of three counties where the trials were held a total of $6,322, the committee stated.

The committee said responsibility for abuses of the fee system could not be "placed solely on officers." Officers "are merely a part of the system," the report stated.

Ice-Caked Streets Take Toll As Mercury Hits 12-Degree Mark

WINTER GRASPS U. S.

Most Severe Attack Covers Entire State and Takes Life of Texan

Winter's grip on Wichita Falls and surrounding territory tightened Monday as the thermometer reached 12 degrees, the lowest in almost three years. Streets continued to be ice-caked hazards for both motorist and pedestrian, as no immediate relief was seen from four days of continuous freezing weather.

Slightly warmer temperatures were in prospect here Tuesday, although indications were that the mercury would lack several points of rising above the freezing mark. Forecasts for Tuesday and Wednesday were "cloudy and slightly warmer."

The mercury registered 22 degrees at midnight Monday in Wichita Falls, representing a moderation of four degrees since 5 p. m.

Railway dispatchers here reported weather conditions over the entire area to be cloudy and calm, although late Monday afternoon skies appeared to be clearing in the Panhandle near Texline.

Snow was falling late in the afternoon at Hooker, in northern Oklahoma, and the temperature at that time was reported at 10 degrees. Temperatures gradually ranged upward from Hooker southward.

With the mercury at 18 degrees in Wichita Falls at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon, temperatures were higher at points northwest of here, toward the Panhandle, and were practically the same as here in the territory to the southwest, along the Wichita Valley railroad. Temperatures in this latter section ranged from 20 degrees at Spur to 26 degrees.

Wichita Falls' 12-degree temperature was reached before daybreak, and is the lowest mark since January, 1930, when the mercury was at three degrees below zero. At 8 o'clock the reading was 13, at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon the reading was 17.

A light wind blew from the northeast during the day, the velocity ranging from a maximum of five

Widely Divergent Plans To Control Panhandle Gas Offered At Hearing

Railroad Commissioners Hear Proponents of Two Methods Argue; Number of Wells Is Main Issue

AMARILLO, Texas, Dec. 12. (AP)—Two widely divergent plans for the regulation of gas production in the west Panhandle field under the new market demand law were presented to members of the Texas Railroad commission in a hearing here today.

Testimony offered in support of the two plans required all of today. The hearings will be resumed at 10 a. m. tomorrow to consider conservation rules for the same area, involving the gas and oil ratio of oil wells, and gas used in the production of casinghead gas.

Minimum of Drilling

One of the plans, according to the testimony introduced, would require a minimum of drilling to develop the entire gas producing area. The other would require intensive drilling.

The first plan provided for a minimum of one well to a unit of 2,560 acres, or one well to every four sections of land, while the second would provide for 160-acre units, or four wells to each section.

Under the first plan, the allowable per well would be calculated from the average expected open flow, average expected rock pressure expressed in atmospheres, and the number of acres in the lease. The second plan would provide for an allowable based two thirds on open flow and one-third divided between acreage and rock pressure.

Claim Plan Ruinous

Proponents of the first plan claimed that the 160-acre unit plan would lead to ruination of the field because it would encourage drilling at a time when the market demand is such that the taking from each would not be profitable. They also charged that the small unit would encourage drilling in such structures as promised big wells, while the less promising areas would not be drilled and therefore would be drained.

They also pointed out that only about three per cent of the present open flow is being taken by pipe lines, and that as the number of wells increased the percentage of open flow required to supply market demand would become smaller.

Proponents of the second plan charged that the 2,560-acre unit plan would mean ruin for the small independent operator, landowner and leaseholder, and that the physical waste actually would be greater because in many instances one well would not drain so large a territory. They said the price of small leases would be ruined.

JURY READY IN FERGUSON SUIT

Way Cleared for Trial Of Highway Case

AUSTIN, Dec. 12. (AP)—The way virtually had been cleared tonight for a trial on its merits of a suit brought by ex-Governor James E. Ferguson and others challenging the right of the Texas Highway commission to contract indebtedness against the state highway fund.

A jury to try the case was selected today and sworn in by District Judge Carl Runge in the 98th district court of Travis county. The jurors were ordered to report for service in the case at 9 a. m. tomorrow after being given a strict warning by Judge Runge to not discuss the pending suit with any one or to allow a discussion of the case within their presence.

Actual trial of the suit was expected to be delayed tomorrow to allow Judge Runge to pass on the special exceptions filed by both parties to the pleadings. It was possible, and even probable, that a ruling on the special exceptions would render a jury trial of the suit unnecessary. Judge Runge studied the exceptions today and tonight and will hear arguments on them in the morning, it was indicated.

Herriot Says France Will Pay, But Blames U. S. For Europe's Debt Ills

PARIS, Dec. 12. (AP)—Assailing the Hoover moratorium as the cause of all Europe's debt troubles, Premier Herriot told the chamber of deputies today that he plans to pay, with reservations, the $20,000,000 due the United States next Thursday.

He would not say what reservations he had in mind, explaining that before doing so he wanted to consult the foreign affairs and finance committees of the chamber. Presumably he plans to make the payment with the stipulation that it will be the last under the present debt system, pending negotiation of a new arrangement.

This evening he and Louis Germain-Martin, the finance minister, met with the two committees, but the premier said it would be advisable, before making a final decision, to await complete information from London as to what the British government intends to do. The British cabinet meets tomorrow morning.

It was a straightforward, uncom-

Wilburn Page was continued as secretary. He has served since May, 1930. The board met at the Wichita club.

Active in Work

Mr. Dudley has been active in the junior chamber since its organization. He has resided in Wichita Falls 13 years and served as an alternate director in 1931 and as a board member this year. He takes office at once and will direct work of the group in planning 1933 activities. Mr. Dudley is a native of Dudley, Texas, in Callahan county, and received his education at Rice institute, Houston.

"I should worry," was the keynote of Mr. Haynes' swan-song address to the board members in a humorous discussion. Members of

Noted Convict to Take Parole and Visit Mother

FOLSOM PRISON, Calif., Dec. 12. (UP)—Warren K. Billings, who has been called the "forgotten man" of San Francisco's preparedness day bombing case, today said he would accept a 90-day parole so that he could visit his aged mother, Mrs. Anna G. Billings, 76, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Resolution Introduced To Kill Hoover Plan

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. (AP)—Opposition to President Hoover's bureau regrouping plan burst into the open today, with definite congressional moves to kill the program before it can take effect.

Senator King, Utah, Democrat, stepped into the lead by introducing a resolution to set aside every one of the executive orders by which Mr. Hoover proposed to group related government activities. Disapproval by either house or senate within a 60-day period would invalidate the orders.

In the house, LaGuardia, New York Republican, heeded a request of the American Federation of Labor, and presented resolutions to prevent transferring the functions of the employes' compensation commission to the labor department and the civil service commission.

Senate in Argument On Philippine Question

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. (AP)—Driving toward a vote on Philippine independence, the senate today became involved in a heated argument over the length of the trial period before complete withdrawal of American sovereignty and deferred a decision on this point until tomorrow.

Indications pointed to a final vote on the Hawes-Cutting measure, granting full freedom to America's possessions in the Pacific, by Wednesday, if not late tomorrow.

Women Storm Congress Committee In Fight To Kill Collier Beer Bill

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. (AP)—A score of women dry leaders gave back blow for blow to advocates of legalized beer today in a dramatic and emotional appearance before the house ways and means committee.

One after another they deluged the committee with appeals to kill the Collier beer bill now pending, and presented testimony intended to refute assertions of representatives of the brewing industry who indorsed the legislation in hearings last week.

They brought with them an exhibition of baby shoes, milk, bread, and toys and pointed to them as more important to the stability and welfare of the American home than beer.

Meanwhile, the senate judiciary committee shuffled off onto a subcommittee, headed by Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, the task of drawing up a resolution to repeal the 18th amendment. Blaine is an anti-prohibitionist.

At the same time, dry leaders in the house, with the assistance of

FIELD CONTROL DEPENDS UPON TROOPS' HELP

Rail Commission's Chief In East Texas Section Regrets Ruling

STERLING CRITICIZED

Supreme Court Takes Governor to Task For Proclamation

TYLER, Texas, Dec. 12. (UP)—Official doubt was expressed tonight that production in the East Texas oil field could be peacefully kept to the allotted 310,000 barrels daily if state militiamen are withdrawn in conformity with a United States supreme court decision rendered at Washington today.

The court held that Gov. Ross Sterling, in sending troops into the field in 1932 to enforce his executive orders limiting production, exceeded his authority under the federal constitution. Production is now curtailed by the railroad commission.

46 Soldiers in Field

Only 46 soldiers of the nearly 2,000 sent into the field in 1931 are still on duty, but Homer Pierson, chief of the state railroad commission's proration enforcement division for East Texas, said tonight he sorely needed these men to carry out orderly control.

Governor Sterling refused to comment at Austin on the decision, waiting until he sees the written opinion. It was intimated he intends no revocation of his martial law proclamation in the near future. The proclamation, with modifications, has been in effect almost continuously since Aug. 17, 1931, though the railroad commission has enforced proration for a year.

Troops Keep Peace

Pierson tonight was attempting to communicate with Col. Louis S. Davidson at Kilgore, who is in charge of the few troops in field, to determine if they will be withdrawn.

"I couldn't say that we can control production without the soldiers," Pierson said.

"I need them to protect my men. There have been a few shootings down here and some lease operators have refused to allow my men on their property. The soldiers do no actual work in the proration scheme, but act merely as guardians."

SIX INJUNCTION CASES ARE PENDING

AUSTIN, Dec. 12. (AP)—District Judge W. F. Robertson tonight overruled a second motion presented by the state to set aside temporary injunctions, granted four applicants, restraining the Texas railroad commission from interfering with oil production from their properties in the East Texas oil field and in addition granted two other companies temporary writs prohibiting the commission from restricting their operations.

Judge Robertson earlier in the day had refused the motion of Maurice Cheek, assistant attorney general, to set aside restraining orders granted to the Ebony Oil company and three others. Cheek, accompanied by Attorney General James V. Allred, renewed his motion later.

While argument were in progress on the motion to vacate, attorneys for the Pine Petroleum company and the Cullen Oil company presented application to Judge Robertson for temporary injunctions. Allred protested the granting of the injunctions strenuously but they were granted despite the urgings of the state.

Allred then demanded an immediate hearing on the temporary injunctions but Judge Robertson declined to set them for hearing immediately, saying he was in the middle of a trial of a murder case and would not have time. A request that the injunction cases be transferred to another court in Travis county was made by Allred, but Judge Robertson declined and then set the hearings on the nijunctions for Dec. 27.

The six injunction cases will be heard on that date. They previously had been set for hearing Jan. 3.

HUGHES UPHOLDS LOWER COURTS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. (AP)—The supreme court today set aside orders issued by Gov. R. S. Sterling of Texas to officers of the state militia for reducing oil proration in the East Texas fields and then ruled that the railroad commission had lost its appeal from a federal court decision which held invalid the commission's order restricting production in the sand area.

In the first case, the court sustained a three-judge federal court which had prohibited enforcement of the gubernatorial orders, the opinion criticising Governor Sterling for declaring it necessary to call out troops because of riot and insurrection made restoration of order imperative.

Recognize Powers

The opinion by Chief Justice Hughes said it recognized a governor's power to use the discretion that emergencies might require but declared that all such executive actions were subject to judicial review which must decide whether state executives had overstepped their recognized authority.

The court decided that in this case there was no military necessity for interfering with operations of the East Texas oil wells. Proceedings originally were instigated by E. Constantin and other operators in Rusk county, Texas, who challenged validity of the state law and orders of the commission fixing the amount of oil they could produce. Amendments directed the attack against Sterling and Texas national guard officers.

In the second decision, the supreme court, finding that the commission's order was based on an act of the legislature, since amended, declared that the controversy no longer presented a live issue.

Suit Dismissed

It, therefore, directed the trial court to dismiss the suit, brought originally by Alfred MacMillan and other East Texas producers.

Referring to the martial law case and Sterling contention that the courts were powerless to intervene to prevent his calling out the troops Chief Justice Hughes said:

"If this extreme position could be deemed well taken, it is manifest that the fiat of a state governor, and not the constitution of the United States, would be the supreme law of the land."

He said findings of the federal court in Texas in the Sterling case were supported fully by the evidence.

"They leave no room," he said, "for doubt that there was no military necessity which, from any point of view, could be taken to justify the action of the governor in attempting to limit complainants oil production, otherwise lawful."

NEW ORDER TO BE ENFORCED, SAYS TERRELL

AMARILLO, Texas, Dec. 12. (AP)—The new proration order for East Texas limiting production to 310,000 barrels daily, will be enforced, Chairman C. V. Terrell of the Texas Railroad commission, said here today. The order became effective Saturday.

Chairman Terrell and Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson turned down the plea of Carl Estes, Tyler publisher, who came here as a representative of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce oil committee to ask the commission to rescind the order which cut 15,000 barrels from the field allowable.

"It is my opinion that the order should be enforced until such time as all the commissioners, in session at Austin, see fit to set it aside," Terrell said. "I can't say that we will ever want to rescind it, but it is a matter that demands the attention of all the commissioners."

Commissioner Lon A. Smith, who was quoted Saturday as saying that he favored a rehearing for the East Texans was not in Amarillo where the other two members of the commission were holding a gas hearing.

Thompson had previously stated that he favored "enforcement of the order as signed."

The commissioners met Estes at the breakfast table this morning, immediately after Terrell's arrival. Estes described the conference as "a stormy one." He returned to Tyler tonight, saying that he would "gather additional data supporting our contention that a rehearing should be given East Texas."

"The commission has set a very dangerous precedent in refusing the people of East Texas a hearing," Estes said. "We gave them two good reasons why the operators of that field were entitled to place additional testimony in the record."

Estes said he told commissioners that the "acreage basis of proration in East Texas is fundamentally wrong, since vested rights have been built up under the per well basis." He said he argued for the "bottom hole pressure" basis, since the courts had held the per well allowable illegal.

He also said that engineers and geologists had prepared proof that "the present plan is discriminatory against the small independent producer and grossly inequitable."

some wets, defeated an effort to reduce the coast guard's annual appropriation and forbid it to engage in prohibition enforcement activities.

Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, president of the New York Woman's Christian Temperance union, startled the ways and means committee by her assertion that President-elect Roosevelt had freed Democratic members of congress from the party's wet platform during his successful presidential campaign.

She presented a photostatic copy of a letter from Governor Roosevelt to Dr. C. F. Reisner of New York dated Sept. 12, 1932, saying:

"I might say that Democratic senators and congressmen are bound to vote in accordance with the views of their constituents regardless of their personal opinions."

Mrs. Ella B. Black, Beaverdale, Pa., president of the Pennsylvania W. C. T. U., brought up the change of view on prohibition of Senator Davis, Republican, Pennsylvania.

"Senator Davis said he believed that a home with a loaf of bread, a piece of cheese and a mug of beer was a contented home," she said. "We do not agree with Senator Davis. Labor conditions in the coal mine regions of Pennsylvania are bad. We believe that if Mr. Davis, as secretary of labor, had paid more attention to labor conditions and less to organizing the Moose, (fraternal organization) conditions would not have been so bad."

So enthusiastic were the women prohibitionists they were admonished time and again for cheering and applauding their witnesses. Representative Rainey of Illinois, Democratic floor leader, finally stopped the proceedings.

Five men including Representatives Blanton, Democrat, Texas, and Mouser, Republican, Ohio, and D. Leigh Colvin, New York, representing the prohibition party's national committee, supported the women in their contentions.

FRANCE WILL PAY HER DEBT

Payment to Be Made With Reservations

promising speech he made in the chamber of deputies, and the members liked it, bursting into applause time and again. He talked for more than two hours and when the chamber adjourned until tomorrow afternoon there was a general opinion that he had won over many of those who had opposed payment of the December installment with or without reservations.

The debts holiday which President Hoover declared last year was the cause of all the troubles in which America's debtors are now involved, he said.

"That is my interpretation of the Hoover moratorium," he declared. "If the United States did not want to concern itself with the problem of reparations, Mr. Hoover should not have become involved in it. He should have allowed Germany to ask for the moratorium provided for in the Young plan."

But, he insisted, America did become involved in the reparations issue when it allowed Charles G. Dawes and Owen D. Young to frame the reparations plans under which the German payments were carried out up to the time of the Lausanne conference a few months ago.

Criticizes U. S. Policy

He went over the postwar relations between France and America in some detail, criticizing several phases of American foreign policy, beginning with the refusal of the American congress to approve the League of Nations as sponsored by President Wilson.

"At this time, when there is talk of a link between debts and disarmament," he said, "I have the right to recall these things to the attention of all the American people who have lofty and just ideals."

He spoke of the cooperation by American experts in the establishment of the Young plan, and declared that "no one can deny that this plan, evolved by an American, created a link between reparations and other international debts. Many members of this chamber of deputies look upon the Bank for International Settlements as a clearing house to assure constant co-relation between debts and reparations."

Since the armistice, he said, misunderstandings have arisen between France and the United States, principally as a result of the fact that the pact of guarantee which was arranged to complete the Versailles treaty and was to have been signed by the United States and Great Britain "has become null and void."

Hoover Responsible

"Moreover," he said, "we did not have the pleasure of receiving the United States into the League of Nations. I am telling you now about some of the early difficulties which influenced succeeding events."

There was a burst of applause as he said, after hesitating just long enough for dramatic effect:

"It was the intervention of President Hoover which destroyed everything and reopened everything.

"The Hoover moratorium cost France more than the £16,500,000 in cash actually involved. It cost us our title in the reparations.

"I would like to make understood abroad, especially in the United States, the disappointment of France which, having listened to advice that she collaborate in international reconstruction, on the day when she asks even temporary benefit from her collaboration, is met by doctrines exactly contrary to those on which the appeal for help was made."

While the deputies applauded one of the members arose in his place.

Proposes to Pay

"Then the conclusion is," he called, "that we must not pay!"

The premier disregarded the interruption and went on to talk about the Hoover-Laval conference in Washington last summer, which, he said, constituted a new appeal for an end to the chaos in Europe.

"Germany especially heard the appeal," he said, "and asked for a meeting of the consultative committee which the Young plan provieds for. Those experts met and recommended measures for the restoration of confidence to cover a period longer than the crisis itself."

At this point in the negotiations, he said, France cannot bring herself to default on the payment due this month; neither can she pay without reservations.

Then he declared that his government proposes to make the payment with reservations.

Garner Not Sure Even Constitution Permanent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. (AP)—Speaker Garner believes permanency means just that and nothing else.

While talking to newspaper men about the fact that Democrats next year could change any governmental bureau realignments made by President Hoover, he said:

"There's nothing around here that's permanent except the constitution."

With a grin he added:

"I understand that might be changed before long, too."

Rheumatism Goes Swollen Joints Vanish

PAIN EASED FIRST DAY

If you suffer from crippling rheumatic aches and pains, Neuritis, Lumbago, lame knotted muscles, swollen inflammed joints, it's because your system is full of the irritating poisons that cause rheumatism.

What you need is RU-MA, the new internal medicine that acts on the blood, liver and kidneys, and helps expel these dangerous poisons from the system through the natural channels of elimination. Only an internal medicine can do this.

No long waiting for your suffering to stop—RU-MA eases pain first day and gives rheumatic sufferers such safe and lasting relief from their stiffening, crippling lameness and torturing pain that it is recommended by druggists everywhere.

Allison's Drug store urges every sufferer to get a $1.00 bottle of RU-MA today, and agrees to return the purchase price if it does not free them from all their aches and pains of rheumatism.—Adv.

Slain Wanderer Buried At Sea As Accused Man Continues To Deny Guilt

LONG BEACH, Calif., Dec. 12. (AP)—The body of the slain Walter Wanderwell, traveler of the world's long trails, went to an ocean grave today under a brooding storm.

Cold rain fell, thick fog was wraith-like over the harbor, chill wind furrowed the waters as the little schooner yacht, on which the adventurer was mysteriously shot in the back just a week ago, put out to a sullen sea.

Aboard the ship a little band of wanderers, seekers after the glamor of strange and distant places, huddled about the widow, Aloha Wanderwell. Beside the yacht as it drafted ghost-like through the mist a water taxi carrying newspaper men chugged fretfully. Reporters were not permitted aboard the Carma, but police detectives were there "to see that all the witnesses come back."

The Carma was a funeral barge sailing in an atmosphere altogether funeral. At the start its motor protested. It wheezed and sputtered and refused to start. Finally a tug drew the Carma to the harbour's mouth. Gray sails went up, caught the strong wind. The water taxi dropped behind, and soon the Carma was one with the wet mist.

On shore the search for Wanderwell's slayer continued uncertainly. No formal murder complaint was issued against the jailed suspect, William Guy, foe of Wanderwell since a quarrel in South America, and authorities would not indicate when and if one was to be issued.

In his cell the youthful prisoner, his habitual smile a little strained as he continued his denials of homicide while admitting his enmity for Wanderwell, patiently awaited the outcome.

District Attorney Buron Fitts suddenly took a hand in the investigation, arrived hurriedly from Los Angeles and announced that all witnesses and principals in the case would be summoned to his office for requestioning tomorrow.

WINTER GRIPS ALL OF TEXAS

Temperature Hits Low Mark For Three Years Here

miles per hour to a minimum of three miles per hour.

Toll of accidents from ice-covered walks and pavements remained light, a check of hospital reports indicated, although at least four injuries have been listed. Motorcycle Officer Herbert Pogue was seriously hurt early Friday morning shortly after the precipitation of sleet started. Late Sunday Henrietta Reese suffered a broken collarbone when she fell from a sled and G. L. Jones suffered a scalp laceration Sunday night when he fell at Seventh and Scott. Judge A. H. Carrigan suffered a broken arm Monday on Eighth street, when he fell due to the slippery footing.

MERCURY AT 12 DEGREES AT HENRIETTA

HENRIETTA, Texas, Dec. 12.—Thermometers in Henrietta dropped to 12 degrees above zero Monday morning, which is said to have been not only the lowest temperature this winter, but since January, 1930.

Frozen water mains, icy streets and lack of gas pressure were a few of the inconveniences suffered by residents of this city.

Wood and coal were almost at a premium and water wells that have been little used of late were again being drawn upon as a water supply.

No great amount of suffering has been reported by livestock men in this section.

COLD WAVE COVERS ALL OF TEXAS

(By The Associated Press)

Winter's most severe attack Monday brought untold discomfort to Texans generally and was responsible for at least one death.

From the Panhandle almost to the coast of the Gulf of Mexico subfreezing temperatures were reported and traffic of all sorts was made hazardous by a thin layer of sleet or snow over a wide area in the northern part of the state.

H. L. Payne, 36, a member of the Fort Worth fire department, was injured fatally when the truck he was riding skided into a telephone pole. It had been equipped with chains to aid in negotiating slippery streets.

Public schools at Groesbeck were dismissed for two days when half the pupils and seven teachers were kept at home because of an epidemic of influenza and cold weather. In far West Texas, Pecos stockmen took precautions to protect their livestock in 16-degree temperatures.

The weather men held out little prospect for relief either Monday night or Tuesday. Rain, sleet or snow, and frequently any combination of those three were forecast for both East and West Texas, although there were indications for slightly higher temperatures. The peak of the high barometer area apparently was passing southeastward from the Panhandle, where it first struck Texas.

Texas temperatures most generally reached their minimums after midnight. They ranged from 4 degrees below zero at Pampa to 58 above at Brownsville, far down in the Rio Grande valley. Many of the readings established records for the last two winters.

The following low marks were reported during the morning: Pampa, 4 below, Amarillo zero, Plainview 5, Vernon 8, Denison 9, Lubbock 10, Wichita Falls 12, Abilene 15, Gainesville 16, Dallas, Fort Worth and San Angelo 18, Tyler 20, Corsicana 22, Waco 23, San Antonio 25, Austin and Palestine 26, Longview 27, Del Rio and El Paso 36, Houston 37, Corpus Christi 40, Port Arthur 42, Galveston 44, Brownsville 58.

There was snow, sleet and rain in the New England states and California. In the vast section between the two coasts temperatures fell as low as 51 degrees below zero.

Traffic accidents caused many of the two score deaths reported, but there were several instances of persons freezing to death.

Livestock died on the prairies of the Dakotas, Minnesota, Iowa, and other states. The mid-West feared for its winter wheat, although protecting snow fell in several states.

The lowest official temperature was 37 degrees below zero at Elko, Nev., while Deeth, Nev., recorded an unofficial 51 below.

Thirty below at North Platte, Neb., 26 below at Lander, Wyo., and Webster City, Iowa, and 22 below at Pueblo, Colo., Winnemucca, Nev., and several other points were among the many places where it was colder than 15 below.

In Chicago, the temperature hovered near zero, Illinois being one of the 15 states where the mercury fell below that point.

COLDS GO THROUGH 3 STAGES!

And They are Far Easier Stopped in the First than in the Second or Third!

A cold ordinarily passes through three stages—the Dry Stage, the first 24 hours; the Watery Secretion Stage, from 1 to 3 days; and the Mucous Secretion Stage. Relief is twice as easy in the first stage.

For prompt relief take a couple of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine immediately upon catching cold. This will usually expel the cold overnight and thus prevent the spread of the infection within your system.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is effective because it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels. Kills the cold germs and fever in the system. Relieves the headache and grippy feeling. Tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is absolutely safe to take. Contains no narcotics and produces no bad after effects. It is regarded the world over as the standard cold tablet. Comes in handy, pocket size box, cellophane-wrapped. For sale in every drug store in America. Make it your first-aid in all cases of colds and grippe. Accept no substitutes.

JURY CONVICTS BARNEY STOUT

Two Years Assessed For Concealing Property

Barney Stout was convicted on a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property and given two years in the state penitentiary by a jury verdict returned before Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court late Monday afternoon.

Stout was indicted early last summer in connection with the recovery at a house on Wichita street of merchandise allegedly stolen from an automobile belonging to John O'Brien, Waco traveling salesman. Stout was apprehended at George West, Texas, late in September, and was returned by Wichita county officers to face the indictment returned here.

District Attorney Sam B. Spence and his assistant, George W. Anderson, conducted the prosecution in the trial Monday, which consumed the entire day. The defendant was represented by Willie Ballard.

Trial of felony cases will be resumed before Judge Martin Tuesday morning.

O. U. Men's Council Holds Meeting After Flogging

NORMAN, Okla., Dec. 12. (AP)—A closed meeting of the men's council of the University of Oklahoma was called tonight in an attempt to ferret out the identity of the members of the gang which flogged Bill Stephens, student reporter for an Oklahoma City newspaper.

The men, Stephens said, wore masks and the initials D. D. M. C., insignia of the secret organization banned from the campus in 1925 after a beating resulted in a criminal conviction for Lee Thompson, student council president.

Scout Demonstrations

The dinner was served by members of the co-ed class of the church. During the meal Council Member T. J. Waggoner Jr. presided for a demonstration of scouting by members of local troops. Rope making from binder twine was given by troop 12 in charge of George Truett, followed by a series of knot tying with the newly made quarter-inch strand. Kenneth Erwin's troop 16 gave three signaling demonstrations by flags, an original lighting system and by telegraph. First aid work was given by troop 8 in charge of C. E. Rhodes and Rufus Neal. Troop 16 also presented a working airplane flying exhibit.

Mr. Allison presided at the program and introduced Lloyd O'Neal of Dallas, scout executives, as speaker of the evening. Mr. O'Neal presented a detailed picture of the 10-year scouting program for enlistment of 25 per cent of available youths between the ages of 12 and 21 in the work under capable leaders.

plan in collaboration with Ed Warren of the Continental Oil company, and John Sherrin of the Shamrock Oil and Gas company, spent most of the day on the witness stand in defense of his proposed purchase rules. The second plan was presented by Stanley Marsh and Lawrence Hagy, independent gas producers.

"There is just so much gas in the field," Thompson said. "The amount of money to be made depends on how much it costs to produce the gas, and how much is wasted. The 2,560-acre unit plan makes it possible to produce at a minimum cost and with little waste. One well from each tract will more than supply present market demand. Others can be drilled as they are needed."

He had prepared figures to show that the drilling of 126 wells in addition to the 322 wells already drilled would develop the field if placed on 2,560-acre units, while 4,240 additional wells would be needed on the 160-acre unit plan. The cost of drilling, he said, would be $2,770,000 under his plan, compared with $93,000,000 under the other.

The two groups were agreed that the market demand should be determined by the railroad commission over 60-day periods, that owners of "dry" or sour gas wells be accorded an allowable on the same basis as owners of sweet gas wells, provided they condition their gas to meet pipe line requirements, and that producers should build lines to connect with a gathering system.

How to Escape FLU and Grippe

1. Avoid so far as possible the places where germs are most likely to be spread; overcrowded cars and public meeting places; overheated, stuffy rooms.

2. Be careful of close contact with others and beware of all coughers and sneezers; breathe through the nose, get fresh air, but avoid drafts or chilling.

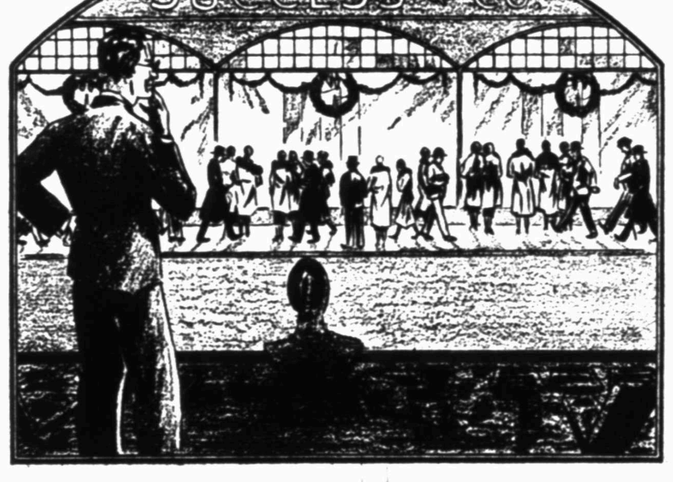

3. Get lots of rest. Drink plenty of water. Keep the bowels open. Take extra precaution to keep in good physical condition, so your system will have normal resistance against germs.

4. Try, particularly, to avoid catching cold. Colds lower your resistance to disease germs. At the first sign of any cold, take Bayer Aspirin; remain indoors if possible until your cold is gone. And if you have a sore throat, dissolve some Bayer Aspirin tablets in water and gargle; this relieves the soreness, and it usually reduces the inflammation.

5. If you have any reason to suspect even a touch of flu, call your doctor at once.

Mr. Merchant:

Is Your Christmas Business Going ACROSS the Street ?

Christmas crowds go where there is light and action. If your Christmas business goes across the street, investigate your lighting—your store windows and displays are evidently not as bright and attractive as the other fellow's across the way.

In one town, a row of stores on the dead side of the street were transformed with light. Their attractively lighted windows invited—commanded—closer inspection. By actual count, it was proved that light diverted people to that side—the wrong side—of the street.

Your show windows should make business for you. The higher the lighting intensity, the better people can see objects in your windows. That is why big, successful stores keep their windows well lighted electrically all day long.

Skimping on light is penny wise but light foolish. Electric light is so cheap that abundant use of it is true economy. Current for a 50 watt lamp costs only one cent for three hours' use.

Abundant light is one of the best salesmen.

Is light on your payroll earning for you? If not, let us help plan an installation which will be a good business builder.

Borah Proposes $30,000 Payment To Mexico For Ardmore Killings

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. (AP)—Payment of $30,000 to Mexico as "an act of grace" for the killing of Emilio Cortez Rudio, relative of former President Rubio and Manuel Gomez, near Ardmore, Okla., last year was proposed in a resolution today by Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee.

Emilio Cortes Rubio, kinsman of former President Ortiz Rubio of Mexico, and Manuel Garcia Gomez, traveling from American colleges to their Mexican homes, were shot to death on June 27, 1931, after two deputy sheriffs of Ardmore, Okla., had attempted to question them because, they said, the youths looked "suspicious."

The deputies, William Guess and Cecil Crosby, were acquitted of murder charges. Guess, who took responsibility for the actual shooting, told the jury which freed him that he fired after the youth levelled pistols at him.

A third boy, Salvador Cortes Rubio, was unhurt.

SEVEN ESCAPE FROM PRISON

Mississippi Convicts Bore Through Wall

PARCHMAN, Miss., Dec. 12. (AP)—Seven prisoners bored their way through a wall a foot thick and escaped from the state prison farm here early today. Five bloodhounds were put on their trail after the delivery was discovered by Supt. O. G. Tann, an hour later.

The fugitives include Oscar Winters and Woody Conner, who escaped with Rouey Eaton, Prentiss county "bad man" and others three months ago, only to be recaptured. Eaton has never been apprehended. Winters was serving seven years in connection with a Como bank robbery. Conner was serving 15 years for burglary and larceny.

The other fugitives and their sentences follow:

Henry Warden, murder, life term; Herbert Talbert, robbery, 15 years; J. P. Conner (brother of Woody) burglary and larceny, 15 years; George Walters, burglary, five years and Henry Bowen, robbery, five years.

After leaving the prison farm, Tann said, the prisoners went to Goldfield, Miss., where he said they stole a sedan belonging to Ed V. Jones, a merchant. Later, they were reported seen at Water Valley and Oxford.

The searching party was placed in charge of Sergeant Judson Jennings of camp one.

The escape was effected, the superintendent said, after visitors smuggled a brace and bit into the prison.

Tann said the visitors would be arrested today for questioning.

The escape three months ago was led by Eaton, who was serving a life sentence in connection with the fatal wounding of Cylde Rivers, a United States deputy marshal at Booneville. Eaton presumably fled into the Prentiss county hills where Tann said he is the leader of a band of moonshiners.

Shooting Extends Boy's Run of Very Bad Luck

BELOIT, Wis., Dec. 12. (INS)—A long string of bad luck was climaxed for William Clark of Chicago, president of the freshman class at Beloit college, when he was shot and wounded in his room early today.

Clark said when he entered the room he mistook the other occupant for his roommate. When he spoke, the stranger fired three times and fled. Clark was taken to a hospital with a bullet in his shoulder.

Since the beginning of the school year Clark has been slashed with a razor by a man who robbed him of $10, suffered a sprained ankle while playing football, and felled and sustained a concussion. He recovered from the last accident only a few days ago.

Fire Threatens Part Of Fayetteville, Ark.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Dec. 12. (AP)—Battling in 16-degree weather that froze water in fire hoses, Fayetteville and Springdale fire departments today brought under control a fire which threatened two blocks in the downtown business section after it had destroyed two three-story buildings and damaged two other structures.

Tentative estimates placed the loss at about a quarter of a million dollars.

Originating in the Boston store, second largest department store in the city, from an undetermined origin, the blaze destroyed that building, spread to the adjoining Red Cross drug store, razing it and then leaped across the street to the Home Furnishing store, where it was brought under control after two hours.

The McIlroy Bank and Trust company was damaged by the intense heat.

Accused Slayer Plans To Change Guilty Plea

SULPHUR, Okla., Dec. 12. (UP)—Claude Oliver plans to change his plea to guilty tomorrow when his trial on a murder charge in the death of his girl wife is called in district court, defense attorneys said today.

His nephew, George Oliver, 18, may also change his plea, attorneys indicated.

The two were charged with murder in the death of Mrs. Della Oliver, whose body was found in the wreckage of her husband's car Nov. 3 along a lonely road near Davis.

Authorities said they had obtained confessions from both men that the girl was beaten to death in a plot to collect $5,000 insurance held on her life. The asserted confession accused two negroes as the slayers.

Mexican Liquor Runner Injured in Auto Crash

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 12. (AP)—An unidentified Mexican liquor runner, about 32, was probably fatally injured early this afternoon as his alcohol-laden truck, hotly pursued by customs officers, crashed through the railing of a bridge and plunged into the Medina river, 40 feet below, about 10 miles south of San Antonio on the Pleasanton road.

The truck, headed for San Antonio, crashed after a 40-mile chase by the officers over the slippery highway.

Mexican alcohol, valued retail at more than $1,000, was contained in the cargo.

The victim of the crash, who rode the truck alone, was brought to San Antonio in an ambulance. Hospital attendants said he was dying.

HEALTH BONDS MAILED TODAY

Ogle Asks Public Aid In Tuberculosis Fight

The Wichita County Tuberculosis association is placing in the mails today letters to a selected group of Wichita county citizens, accompanied with Christmas seals and health bonds, asking these citizens to purchase seals or bonds in amounts of $5 and upwards.

"If all who receive this letter will respond as generously as they can the work of the Wichita county association can be continued through the next 12 months," said J. R. Ogle, president. "Last year the association was compelled to suspend its work for several months and to borrow money because the sale of seals in 1931 did not yield sufficient revenue to carry on our program.

"Our sole source of revenue is the sale of Christmas seals and health bonds. Surely there are a number who will contribute $50, $25, $10 or $5 for the cause of the eradication of tuberculosis to which this association is dedicated.

"You can make your contribution with the assurance that every dollar raised will be efficiently and economically expended. And that for every dollar in cash contributed there will be given many times its value in service by the officers and directors of this association and by members of the medical profession whose services are given in our clinics without charge.

"I hope that all to whom the bonds and seals have been mailed will receive them in the spirit in which they have been sent, and will, as promptly as they can, make remittance in the amount they feel they are able."

Expedition To Seek Treasure Aboard Sunken Lusitania

NEW YORK, Dec. 12. (INS)—Masked in secrecy, another expedition was being planned today to salvage the buried fortune aboard the Lusitania, most famous submarine victim of the world war.

It has been 17 years since a pair of German tropedoes sank the imperial liner of Great Britain with a loss of more than 1,000 persons, including Alfred Vanderbilt and Charles Frohman.

The new salvaging group claims it has definitely located the sunken ship and hopes to begin operations next year.

Charles Courtney, president of the American Association of Master Locksmiths, who has been engaged to help in the expedition expressed regretful surprise that the news had leaked out.

Courtney declared that raising the buried gold from the hulk of the Lusitania was quite feasible and said the backers of the scheme had designed "a special technique."

Courtney valued the gold aboard at from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000. He said that it had been discovered that there was also a cargo of $2,000,000 in diamonds aboard the Lusitania.

Morrow, of Englewood, N. J., mother-in-law of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. Federal Judge James A. Lowell imposed a suspended sentence of one year in the Worcester county house of correction and placed Jodfrey on probation for two years.

THIS CHRISTMAS I'D LIKE AN ELECTRIC WASHER

if it's a Maytag

"I never even thought of home washing before. But I've seen how easy it is to wash in a Maytag. And it seems silly to pay someone else to do such light work."

But don't confuse "buying a washer" with investing in a Maytag. A Maytag washes clothes cleaner . . . faster . . . with less work . . . less wear and tear on clothes . . . less cost per washing . . . and keeps on doing that for more years. It represents a permanent investment in household equipment and in actual dollars and cents savings.

Certainly a washer is an appropriate gift—if it's a Maytag. Come in and let us demonstrate and talk terms.

First Christian Divisions Meet In Christmas Parties

Christmas luncheons and parties marked the closing of the church year in two divisions of the First Christian Woman's council who met Monday. Mrs. G. M. Howard, leader, was hostess to members of circle one at her home on Seventh street. Christmas decorations featured the home and a lighted tree was the central decoration.

Dr. H. T. Wood gave the invocation before the delightful covered dish luncheon. In the meeting following, Mrs. M. D. Bolton gave an inspiring devotional on "Peace and Good Will." Mrs. H. E. Dudley told a beautiful story of the first Christmas present and Mrs. W. C. Duncan gave a clever story about the turkey.

Mrs. R. E. Hilburn was in charge of the Christmas tree gifts and distributed them with clever greetings. Mrs. L. B. Cummings made a pretty talk of appreciation in commending the work of Mrs. Howard as leader, and presented her for the division with a handsome orchid and green satin coverlid and a pretty Dutch doll quilt.

Dr. and Mrs. H. T. Wood and Mrs. W. H. Weaver were guests and members present included Mesdames M. B. Adams, M. D. Bolton, L. B. Cummings, J. T. Cumley, H. E. Dudley, W. C. Duncan, R. E. Hilburn, J. R. Kenney, J. M. Martin, J. W. Snow, E. W. Smotherman, R. L. Sanderford, E. Vandeventer, M. W. Flournoy and the hostess, Mrs. Howard.

Circle Six

Members of circle six, Mrs. George Gutzman leader, held their last meeting of the fiscal year at the home of Mrs. G. D. Rigsby, when a delightful covered dish luncheon was served. A lighted tree was the center of the large table and small trees were pretty frosted center for the small tables.

Mrs. W. L. Parker opened the meeting by singing "Oh, Little Town of Bethlehem," furnishing an exquisite prelude to the original devotional given by Mrs. Curtis Atkinson, a guest. Mrs. Atkinson gave in her inimitable manner, a lovely dramatization of the Christmas story taken from the second chapter of Luke. Her story was in itself a charming Christmas program.

Plans for charity work for the holidays were made in a short business meeting.

The delightful luncheon was served to guests including Mesdames Tom Reese, Curtis Atkinson, C. R. Hartsook, Arch Taylor, H. E. McConnell and to 13 members: Mesdames T. M. Conrey, W. L. Parker, R. S. Harper, Roy Spradling, John B. Rhea, G. R. Walker, Grady Taylor, A. A. Young, Homer Karrenbrock, J. Monroe Allen, F. E. McConnell, George Gutzman and the hostess, Mrs. Rigsby.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Walter Russell Bowie, writing his inspiring book "On Being Alive," has a chapter headed "Being Alive to the Truth," and mentions therein the word, "old-fashioned," as one that people who think everything has changed and should change use as one of opprobrium to conjure up outmoded and grotesque things: haircloth sofas, crocheted mats, hoop skirts, bustles, beards, etc.

But, my, oh, my, how many things he missed. Old-fashioned things that are stored away in attics, if any one has the good fortune to own an attic now. There's nothing much more lovely in my memory than an old attic where we spent rainy afternoons when I was a girl "playin lady," dressed in quaint old gowns. Quite often the bunch scorned me because the stack of Peterson's magazines and Godey's Lady's Book and Magazines in a dark corner were more entrancing to one small book-worm than dressing up.

The rules of etiquette embodied in the 1860 copies of the latter monthly must sometimes have made me an insufferable little prude, and the carefully chosen fiction certainly caused me to expect more of men and women than I found when I faced the world a little later on.

But while we had grand times with the old-fashioned things in our attics, there were things in our own homes that one regards now as utterly out of style. Take folding beds for instance; the golden oak monstrosities that I have often seen set cat-a-cornered in a sitting room to make a sleeping place for unexpected guests; for believe me, my dears, people visited in those days. One had to make trips by train or by horse and buggy and it took too much time to go 100 miles to spend only a day.

Possibly folding beds gave place to what we now recognize as a feature of what they call efficiency apartments, in the wall beds. They are no more comfortable than the folding beds; I speak from experience. Though, of course, they may be made more ornamental. (Why the word "efficiency"?) Then another feature of that date were the bead portieres that hung in double doors between two rooms. Utterly useless and certainly not beautiful. I hope they are not laid away for future generations to marvel over. I rather like future generations.

Those are two of the old-fashioned things for which I crave no return (I never loved slippery horsehaired sofas, either). But do you know, if I did not have to grind it, I would like to wake to the sound of a coffee mill in the early mornings. Boiled coffee in these days tasted quite as good as the French drip our taste demands now.

And somehow I've never tasted plum preserves like those old-fashioned ones my mother used to make with the seed in them. (She "had a hand," and never measured anything.) I had never tasted pound cake like hers until last year in this column I bemoaned restaurant pound cake and a queen among cooks sent me the best one I ever ate, made by her mother's receipt.

A reader of this column 500 miles from Wichita Falls wrote me the other day she was going to send me some muscadine preserves, adding, "I'll bet you haven't had any since you left Tennessee," which I haven't. They were another thing stocked in the old-fashioned pantry at home and it was all my mother could do, when she had traded some old dress for a waterbucket full, to keep us from eating them raw, and of course "getting chills," which was probably another old-fashioned idea.

Ah, well, love and honesty and truth and loyalty, qualities that parents held high in those days, are not and never will be old-fashioned. I do not despair.

The lesson on mission schools was taught by Mrs. John L. Gibbs and nine members were dismissed with prayer.

The group of young women met at 11 o'clock in the morning and spent the day in social service, sewing round the great fireplace where logs threw out a ruddy blaze.

A Christmas motif was observed in the delightful buffet luncheon served to 20 members.

An inspiring devotional was given by Mrs. O. R. Hartt preceding a short business meeting in which a box was planned for a family in addition to the sewing planned for another group. Mrs. Albert Lowe, chairman, was in charge of the social service work.

The Mizpah benediction dismissed Mesdames Dillard Anderson, Walter Bachman, James Blair Baker, Jack Barnard, B. K. Booth, W. H. Caldwell, Raymond Myers, E. S. Gates, Wiley Culbertson, J. OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

SPELLING

Every term a certain number of children fail in spelling. Usually, children have little difficulty with thiss ubject so when the occasional child fails he gets little sympathy.

"What? A low mark in spelling? Now there's no excuse for that. You get a high mark in arithmetic and that is hard for anybody but you get a low mark in spelling when all you have to do is study. Now you just go and get that book and I'll hear you spell every word in it."

That is exactly the way "not" to teach spelling. Spelling is a written exercise. We don't spell out things unless we are trying to keep what we are saying from some sharp-eared child. One doesn't learn lists of words for that purpose. It is much easier to say, "Now, Marybelle, run downstairs and see if the man has left the newspaper and if he hasn't you can sit on the steps until he comes and then you can bring it up. That's a good child."

What we need spelling for is to be able to write our communications to some one who can read and understand them. That means we have to spell and write accurately. Most of us do. What's the matter with the few who don't.

Sometimes it is poor vision. Sometimes it is defective hearing. Sometimes it is a lack of coordination between nerves and muscles that makes accurate writing difficult and poor spelling easy. Sometimes it is a lack in the memory. You know we have different departments of memory and if the department that deals with remembering symbols or sounds is not functioning, we don't spell. Not ever. Usually the school psychologists can give the reason for the difficulty. Often it is nothing more serious than the use of the wrong methods.

You can't teach a child to spell accurately by dictating lists of words to him and listening while he spells them aloud. He may spell every one of them correctly and the next day, when he has to write them in class, he gets them wrong 90 per cent. You wouldn't expect him to be able to make a cake on demand merely because he could recite the recipe perfectly, would you? You would understand that making the cake and reciting the recipe were two different operations, related to each other distantly, but not one and the same thing. Well, oral spelling bears about the same relationship to written spelling as recitation of the recipe does to the making of the cake.

Let the slow speller write each word slowly and say each letter aloud as he makes it. Let him write each word twice, no more. Give him a few words and let them be related either in sound or in content. Then turn over the paper and dictate them and let him write them. Correct them and let him write those he missed just once and repeat each letter aloud as he makes it. If he doesn't improve in spelling by this method take him to the eye man. If he can't find the trouble, go to the ear man. If he fails, try the psychologist.

Don't make him write words more than three times. Twice is plenty. Don't ask him to spell orally and expect him to write correctly. Don't give him too many words at one time. Few children fail in spelling if they get half a chance. When they do, there's a good reason.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

SENATE TURNS TO INQUIRIES

Bonus Riot and River Labor Investigations Asked

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. (AP)—The senate's flair for investigations—strangely missing heretofore this session—made itself felt today with proposals for inquiries into the bonus riots of last summer and labor conditions on Mississippi flood control projects.

The creation of a special senate committee of five to investigate the eviction of the bonus marchers was proposed in a resolution by Senator McKeller, Democrat, Tennessee.

It was followed almost immediately by a demand from Senator Wagner, New York, Democrat, for the labor investigation. Conditions in the Mississippi flood control camps have been the subject of repeated protests from negro organizations.

Wagner introduced a resolution to have the commerce committee make the inquiry and asked for its immediate consideration, but Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, objected and the measure was referred to committee.

McKeller would have the proposed bonus army committee directed to investigate acts by District of Columbia or federal officials "causing or inciting, or directing, the attack on the ex-service men and women and children."

His resolution asked that the committee determine whether the bonus marchers were in Washington legally, whether they were orderly and peaceful, whether they were armed, and by whom the troops were called out to evict them.

The committee would be given $5,000 to find the answers to these and nearly a score of other questions in connection with the bonus march, including a study of all other facts in connection with the army.

As these proposals for new inquiries were launched, Chairman Norbeck called a meeting of the senate banking committee to make plans for resuming its investigation of the New York stock exchange.

The stock market inquiry was recessed over the summer after a series of sensational hearings last spring, but committee agents continued digging into the books of corporations and brokerage houses.

An investigation of the Insull utilities crash was made by the committee's workers, and Norbeck has said the evidence is ready for presentation to the committee.

Creekmore Tells House Inquiry Cotton Stabilization Has Failed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. (AP)—The house committee investigating government competition with business today heard E. F. Creekmore, manager of the American Cotton Cooperative association, detail operations which resulted in its owing the farm board approximately $60,000,000.

The association was organized with farm board aid, and Creekmore insisted in answer to questions by Representatives Stafford, Republican, Wisconsin, and Rich, Republican, Pennsylvania, that the government should bear the greater portion of that $60,000,000 indebtedness.

"Most of that was due to stabilization operations undertaken in 1929-30 and 1929-31 at the instance of the farm board," he said.

"We must remind you that cooperatives were functioning before the agricultural marketing act set up the farm board. We would never have undertaken what we did had it not been understood that the board would bear the loss, if any resulted."

Creekmore said that he had come to the conclusion, and thought the farm board had, that stabilization, without some means of controlling production, is a failure."

In response to a question by Representative Stafford, he said the American carry-over of cotton was about 13,000,000 bales, the largest in history.

There were objections from committee members that representative Rich was going "far afield" when he made the declarations that unless "the farmer, the ex-service men and other groups stop running to this government for assistance that we will be ruined," but he repeated the statement for emphasis.

Creekmore told the committee he felt that close examination would show cooperatives were handling cotton cheaper than old line cotton merchants who "are our bitter enemies."

"We have come here," he said, "and reveal our secrets to our competitors. Why don't you summon officials of Clayton's Cotton company of Texas and other big firms to find out what they pay in salaries and what profits they make. That would be only fair."

One Contract Remaining In Fort Sill Project

Wilbarger County Gins Nearing 50,000 Bales

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Dec. 12.—Continuing to lead last year's figures by approximately 5,000 bales, Wilbarger county's gins turned out 1,472 bales of cotton the week ending Thursday to send the season total nearer the 50,000-bale mark. The present total for the season is 47,352 bales and it is generally believed the gins will turn out enough cotton to send the figures above the 50,000-barrel mark before the end of this month.

The present total of 47,352 bales is 5,153 bales ahead of figures at this time last year, 42,200 bales, when little more than 48,000 bales was the entire season's run.

Ginnings by communities in the county follow: Vernon, five gins, 11,117; Oklaunion, two gins, 6,097; Odell, three gins, 5,627; Elliott, 2,333; Harrold, 1,006; Fargo, 3,364; Lockett, two gins, 7,137; Parsley Hill, 1,882; Bourland, 2,500; White City, 2,435; Farmers Valley, 3,354.

Lawton Man Produces Four Crops on One Tract

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., Dec. 12.—Lee S. Eckles, president of the Lawton school board and a pioneer business man of this city, has demonstrated that four crops may be successfully grown on one tract of land in this section within one growing season. He conducted an experiment this season of which many gardeners will read with interest.

Mr. Eckles, early in the spring, planted Irish potatoes and planted sweet corn between the potato rows six weeks after planting the potatoes. When he dug the potatoes, June 15, the work aided in cultivating the corn. On July 6 he planted black-eyed peas between the rows of corn. The roasting ears were harvested and the corn cut by Sept. 1. Turnips were then planted in the corn rows and he has harvested the turnips.

Four crops, and all good crops, on a garden plot.

8-CENT MEAL IS SUGGESTED

Golden Rule Plan Calls For Cheap Food

NEW YORK, Dec. 12. (UP)—American workers still on the job have been given a menu for an 8-cent meal so they may save money to give unemployment relief.

They have been asked to live all this week on eight cents a meal and to contribute the money saved.

The occasion is golden rule week, sponsored by the Golden Rule foundation. More than 100 leaders of the organization—clergymen, educators, dietitians, and philanthropists—gathered in the ornate splendor of the Waldorf Astoria yesterday to demonstrate that there was such a thing as an 8-cent meal.

They dined off the Waldorf Astoria's choice linen from fine Haviland plates with heavy silver. The meal was delicious and the ingredients cost approximately eight cents per diner.

The menu: Tomato juice cocktail, roasted stuffed flank steak, gravy, browned potatoes, mashed yellow turnips, bread and butter, butterscotch pudding, top milk, coffee or milk.

In the great Waldorf Astoria kitchens, Oscar, (Oscar of the Waldorf) one of the world's most celebrated and most expensive chefs, personally supervised the preparation. Oscar was having the time of his life. It was the first time he ever prepared a feast with such plebian ingredients.

Similar luncheons were held in cities throughout this country and abroad.

The menu was one of 21 devised by 18 household economists and dieticians—enough for the 21 meals of golden rule week. They provide for a family of five persons at a total cost for the week of $8.88.

SILLY BUT SAFE

Driver Abandons Stalled Car on Tracks And Sprints Home

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 12. (UP)—Harold E. Munjou admitted between blushes today that he felt pretty much like the foolish ostrich which proverbially buries its head in the sand when dangers lurks.

Munjou was driving along when his car stalled on the railroad tracks. A train was bearing down on him. Thinking it was time for action, the panic-stricken driver jumped out and in a very few minutes put two miles between himself and the ill-fated machine.

Winded, he arrived home and shut himself up before deciding that maybe he had acted a bit silly. He returned to find police poking among the wreckage in search of the driver.

Rites Held For Aged Clay County Pioneer

Special to The Record News.

HENRIETTA, Texas, Dec. 12.—Funeral services were held at 11 o'clock this morning at the Baptist church in Bluegrove for Mrs. J. L. Roach, 78-year-old Clay county pioneer who died Sunday at her home near Bluegrove. Mrs. Roach's death resulted from a fractured hip which she received eight weeks ago. Funeral services were in charge of Rev. J. N. Hunt, pastor of the First Baptist church of Henrietta. The F. O. Moore Undertaking company of this city had charge of funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Roach was a native of Arkansas, but had lived for more than 45 years in this county, making her home for the past 40 years at the location where death came.

Those who survive are one son, O. T. Roach, of Charlie, Texas, and one daughter, Mrs. Robert Childs, Bluegrove; several grandchildren and one great grandchild.

FARMER MAKES COTTON 'FIND'

Discovery Produces Stalk With Longer Staple

DUNCAN, Okla., Dec. 12.—A new type of long staple cotton that produces heavily discovered, by W. M. Lindersmith of near Comanche, may solve one of the big problems of southern Oklahoma growers, believes County Agent J. A. Killough. Samples of the seed are being sent to the Oklahoma A. & M. college for experiments at the farm there.

Lindersmith discovered the new cotton in his field four years ago when he investigated a stalk that had a heavy growth of long staple cotton. He picked the seed out by hand and planted them in a separate plot the next year.

The cotton held true to the parent stock and last spring Lindersmith had seed enough to plant 12 acres. The plot yielded half a bale to the acre. Staple length ranged from one and one-eighth to one and one-fourth inches.

The principal feature of the new cotton, Killough said, is that it promises to combine a high yield with a long staple length. Short staple cotton has been grown extensively in this county in recent years because this variety makes a larger lint yield per acre. The short staple has resulted in a penalty being placed against all of the cotton in this county by large purchasers.

Experts at the college will be able to determine the potential value of the new cotton, but Killough believes it is one of the most important discoveries for growers in this section made in recent years.

"Sure, I'm a careful driver ...but I want a racing oil!"

"I'M NO SPEEDER. It's once in an age that I drive more than 40 miles an hour . . .

"But at 40 miles an hour—or at 20, or at 10—I want that 100-mile-an-hour motor oil—Gulf Supreme!

Right! It's better able to do everything an oil should do! To conquer heat! To cut lubrication bills! To forestall repairs!

Gulf Supreme has earned the right to be called the 100-mile-an-hour oil because of its amazing ability to lubricate at terrific high speeds and to take super-punishment! Listen to this . . .

On the famous Indianapolis Speedway, Supreme out-performed special "racing oils" in a one-hour, non-stop run! Under Official AAA supervision, it lubricated a thundering Duesenberg racer at an average speed greater than 100-miles-an-hour! . . .

Switch to Gulf Supreme. There is a proper grade for every climate. Its ability to take super-punishment will put money in your pocket. And give you better lubrication at any speed. Drive into a Gulf station now!

Q.—Is a bat a bird?—J. T.

A.—The bat is not a bird but a mammal; that is, it is warm blooded, covered with hair, gives birth to its young alive, and suckles them, but at the same time has the digits of its four limbs enormously elongated into wing-like structures over which a thin membrane of skin is stretched. Bats are therefore the only true flying mammals.

Q.—When was hydrotherapy first practiced?—J. E. T.

A.—General hydrotherapy was introduced by Asclepiades, and no less than 1,800 public baths had been founded during the period 334 B. C.-180 A. D.

Q.—What is glass cloth?—F. J. B.

A.—The term is sometimes applied to the flexible material made by weaving finely drawn glass threads. It is also used to designate a patented process for treating cloth in such a way that the ultra-violet rays will penetrate it.

Q.—Why do black walnut husks make such obstinate stains?—F. B.

A.—The persistence of the stains is probably due to tannin, which most fabrics absorb or combine with very readily. It is possible that the tannin acts as a fixing agent, holding the coloring matter of the husks firmly to the fiber.

Q.—Are there any revolutionary war pensioners still on the pension roll?—O. W. F.

A.—No payments are now being made on account of service in the revolutionary war.

Q.—In what musical show was a song sung which included the lines, "It is no time for mirth or laughter, the cold gray dawn of the morning after?"—H. W. E.

Will Russia and Japan Be the Next to Fight?

Many students of world affairs are of the opinion that the next war will be between Russia and Japan. At any rate, the trouble in Manchuria is still seething.

Whether there is war or not, this section of the world is certain to play an important part in world affairs, and you should be informed about the Soviet Union and the Far East, where a volcano is still boiling just below the surface.

The Map of the Soviet Union includes Japan, Mongolia, and that portion of Manchuria that has been the bone of contention.

On the back of the map there is much inportant statistical data which will greatly help your understanding about the Soviet and its principles and laws.

If a man tells a lie often enough he'll eventually come to believe it, says a novelist. Married men who are frequently "detained at the office," will have to be careful about demanding overtime pay.

The chief objection many Americans have to the six-hour day and five-day week urged by the A. F. of L. is that it doesn't represent shorter hours but 30 more a week than they now have.

A French scientist declares it's not necessary for a person to swallow liquor to get a "kick." Gargling a drink is just as effective, says he. At least this should stop drinking on the quiet.

Fancy Sails With the Constitution

THIS voyage to the west coast of the old frigate Constitution is one of those odd little events which remind us, unexpectedly, that our nation is actually beginning to get along in years.

The trip itself, made at the end of a towline with a snug harbor furl on all sails, doesn't amount to so much. But the ship, rebuilt though it may be, is a living link with a past that seems almost infinitely remote—a relic of national youth which, by its very existence, emphasizes the fact that America has long since grown up.

Consider, for instance, the changes that have taken place since the Constitution made its first trip, way back in 1797.

George Washington was still alive. Thomas Jefferson had not yet become president, Florida and New Orleans were foreign soil and almost no one knew what lay west of the Mississippi. Revolutionary war veterans were beginning to seek homesteads in the wilderness of Ohio. No honeymooner had ever yet made a trip to Niagara Falls; no millionaire had ever lolled on the sands at Palm Beach.

Overseas, Napoleon was just coming to fame by virtue of a dazzling military campaign in Italy. Travel in the Mediterranean was unsafe because of the Barbary pirates—which, incidentally, was chiefly why the Constitution had been built. England was still an agricultural nation, Liverpool was thriving as headquarters of the slave trade, and English sailors could be, and frequently were, flogged to death at the whim of their commanding officers.

Africa was still the dark continent, and no white man knew where the Nile rose—or, for that matter, the Mississippi. China was the haughty celestial empire, unperturbed by the foreign devils, Japan was a walled-in kingdom and the Pacific held thousands of islands that were not on any chart.

The values of petroleum and electricity were alike unsuspected. In all the world there was not a railroad train or a steamship or a steel mill.

That was the world the Constitution was born into. Our nation, like the ship which is its pride, is a long way from its youth.

Parnell and Federal Farm Board

GOV. HARVEY PARNELL of Arkansas is on the warpath. Parnell is a cotton grower. He is the executive of a cotton-growing state. He has asked the governors of all cotton-producing states to join a movement to ask repeal of the farm board act "as it affected cotton." His blunt charge is that the board has done more to destroy the cotton market than any other factor except possibly "the Grundy tariff act." He has convinced himself at least that the way to see the return of happy days is to get the government out of the cotton business. This should be water on the wheel of William L. Clayton of Houston, one of the wisest of all the opponents of "government in business" and the methods and policies of the federal farm board as to cotton. A reminder that according to the last count of the federal bureau the cotton crop this year is estimated at 12,727,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight. A month ago an estimate of 11,947,000 bales was made while the crop of 1931 was 17,096,000 bales. There is a heavy carryover. And regardless of all that the experts may say or the national lawmakers enact, the surplus will continue to fix the price.

The Soviet Weather-Makers

ONE of the most interesting of the many interesting experiments now being attempted in Soviet Russia is the effort government scientists are making to control the weather.

Electrical apparatus slung beneath captive balloons is being used in an effort to ionize storm clouds in such a manner as to prevent the fall of rain or snow.

To be sure, the first attempt seems to have been a flat failure. Moscow got a heavy snowfall the other day in spite of the balloons, and a traditional Russian winter seems to be in prospect no matter what the scientists do.

But—was there ever a more interesting experiment? Human control over the weather has always been the most chimerical of mankind's dreams. It is fascinating to find a government that is actually willing to give the proposition a whirl, no matter how it ends.

If Not a Sales Tax—?

THE present session of congress, like the last one and, very probably, like the next one, seems due to sweat over the question of a sales tax.

The federal treasury needs more money—lots of it. There is little reason to doubt that a sales tax would provide seads of it. Any measure that would do that must automatically recommend itself to congress.

But, on the other hand, the sales tax is an undemocratic affair which collects just about as much from the chap who has little money as it does from the chap who has more than he needs. Very properly, there is a deep and widespread objection to it. In a great many ways it would be a step in the wrong direction.

What, then, is a harassed congress to do.

WALTER WINCHELL
On Broadway

Copyright, 1932, Daily Mirror, Inc.)

There Hasn't Been a Fowler Show by Hecht!

"Dear Walter," writes Ben Hecht and Gene Fowler (who never wrote a so-so story, book or play in their careers—until the other night). "As president and secretary of the Cads' club (us, not you!) and grand commanders of the Filthy Minds society and, incidentally, co-authors of our favorite (if not yours) drama, 'The Great Magoo,' we offer you our ruminations, following the recent exhibition of critical blood-lust of which we were the startled victims. We figured you might find some amusement in this portrait of two indignant playwrights talking to themselves, while hanging from the rafters after the show's opening."

Fowler—Keats was run out of Scotland for writing what the dunderheads called erotic poetry!

Hecht—Byron fled London in a rage because of the foul calumny aroused by his exquisite verse!

Fowler—Stendhal threatened to shoot himself because his finest book, "The Red and Black," sold only 50 copies and was booed by the so-called critics of his days.

Hecht—Shakespeare was arrested for poaching, and not only that, but ignored, so help me, by every columnist and commentator of his time—and what a time he had. Oh, boy!

Fowler—If you're going to talk about such guys—then how about Edgar Allan Poe, who was crucified by the Puritan yammerers?

Hecht—And wasn't Francois Rabelais hurled into the local hoosegow for "literary misdemeanors?"

Fowler—For that matter, Zola was tossed into the cooler for having a filthy mind.

Hecht—The author of "Fanny Hill," a member of Parliament, was put on a government pension so he wouldn't have to write sequels to his book to keep his wife and kiddies fed!

Fowler—Hmm—there's a thought.

Hecht—Nietzsche tried to beat his brains out in a lunatic asylum as a result of what people said against his fine writings.

Fowler—Gerard de Nerval hanged himself by a garter from a Paris lamp post—for practically the same thing!

Hecht — Ferhevvensakes — they jailed Cervantes!!!

Fowler—Nobody would speak to Shelley because he was such a literary blackguard to the Burns Mantelites of his day!

Hecht—And poor Oscar Wilde.

Fowler—Didn't I read somewhere that they wouldn't let Gorki into a decent hotel when he came to New York?

Hecht—Petronius committed suicide by special order of the Emperor Nero. Maybe we're lucky. We weren't stoned, you know.

Fowler—Looka what happened to Nathaniel Hawthorne.

Hecht—Pushkin was killed in a duel. Spinoza was ostracized—and Vic Hugo, whose works still live, was driven into exile.

Fowler—Fergossakes—didn't Goncharov die a raving maniac in a Russian bobby-hatch? Sam Butler almost starved to death—and Thomas Paine was barred from all polite society!

Hecht—I wonder if the critics were wrong?

Fowler—Who was it said: "When a play and a critic's head come into collision, and one of them sounds hollow—is it always the play?"

Hecht—That was Schopenhauer, pal, or Sirovich! Aw, the hell with it! Let's spend the week-end visiting the tomb of Jesse James.

Finally, Winchell, who couldn't get a word in edgewise (because he was too busy helping to tighten the ropes around their throats) chirped: "How come you left the columnists out? Didn't you see those Hollywood versions on the screen of what baddies we are? Or any of that literature?

"When the authors, frinstance, of 'Blessed Events' (my title, yet!) came to me with the first act of their play, and asked me to look it over and perhaps help with some suggestions, I nearly plopped when I saw that first act ending. You know, where they show the columnist crossing an unwed mother-to-be, so he could have a scoop!

"'Gee,' I said to the authors, who never made a dollar at the racket until they decided the Broadway belter was good copy, 'you don't think any columnist ever did or would do a thing like that? Say anything else but that, please! That's horrible.'

"And this was one co-author's reply: 'We know that; nobody would do such a thing, Walter, but we need a walloping first act curtain. Wait'll you see the rest of it. After making the columnist look like that kind of a guy, we slowly built him up into an all-right fellow. No heroics, but at the end—they've got to like him, in spite of his routine.'

"'All I know,' I answered, 'is this. That that ugly angle will send your audience into the foyer feeling plenty sour—and no matter what you make of your character, you'll never get any audience to soften up again. It'll hurt your show, watch and see.'

"So what happened? 'Blessed Event' was touted as a 'New York hit,' which it wasn't! It went into the cut-rates the second week and lasted about two months. They cleaned up on the movie sugar, however. But it never was a play hit in the show-shops. And, besides, I took all the raps and didn't put up any beef, the way you fellows are doing!"

Hecht—Oh, nuts! What has that to do with the subject we started? Go away, now, or Fowler and I will come down and write a book about all your critics—and drive you out of town!

Winchell—Others have tried it for years! And ruined me. Ruined, I tell you! ("Brother, can you spare a dime?")

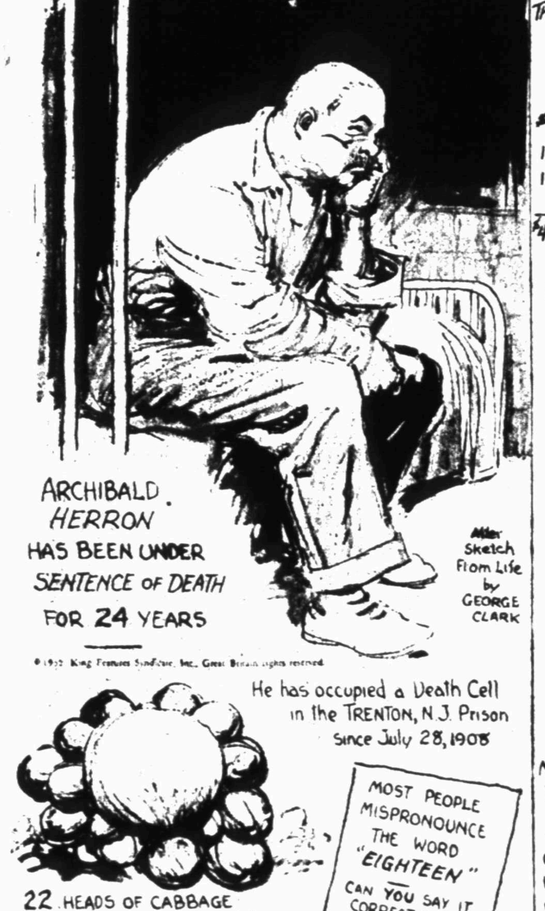

Fowler—Say, I'm beginning to think that you're crossing us, you lousy magoo, you! And after we prepared this good copy, too, to help you fill a lot of space. What do you think of this bum, Ben? He's turning on us! He's really the wicked Walter they say he is!

Winchell—Oh, stop being so McIntyresome.

Hecht—Now, justaminnit, sonny boy. I did columns on newspapers long before you were a wink in your father's eye! We don't care about the reviews on our show—we merely had to laugh, but loud, over the charges against us—that we were naughties for writing wordage that the Eugene O'Neills write—but take nine acts to act it!

Winchell—Liasen, Ben. "Front Page" was terrific and everything else you did, for that matter. And Gene, your books. "Trumpet in the Dust." "The Great Mouthpiece," and your movie, "What Price Hollywood?" were classics. But "Magoo," while all right, is hardly up to the level of your's and Hecht's various masterpieces. So don't blame the critics. Even if you had a hit it would starve. Look at the current "smashes!" And don't forget what Aristotole or some such champion once niftied about authors who groaned about critics. He reminded them that the guest—and not the cook—is the sole judge of a dinner! (Say! Have I been trapped into being a press agent?)

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

TENNESSEE'S WAR OF THE ROSES — The gubernatorial contest in Tennessee in 1886 presented an unusual spectacle. The Democratic nominee was Robert L. Taylor, while the Republican choice was his brother A. A. The active political campaign of the two brothers did not in the least conflict with their genuine brotherly affection. Their discussions revolved around federal matters rather than affairs of the state. This curious campaign of "Our Bob and Alf" is remembered in Tennessee as the "War of the Roses." The Democratic campaign emblem was the white rose of York, while the Republicans opposed them adorned with the red rose of Lancaster. Robert L. was elected in 1886, but his Republican opponent was elected governor 34 years later in 1920.

PARIS LOVE

by NINA WILCOX PUTNAM

SYNOPSIS

Ten years after the death of Alacia Sayers' father, her mother was worth $60,000,000, made by continuing the manufacture in France of the now famous motor car Europa. Alacia, while worrying about the constant attentions paid by Alfredo Santini, a gigolo, to her most unattractive, middle-aged, mid-western mother, fell in love at first sight with a handsome young Frenchman. She learned later that he was Armand de Pas, Prince d'Orsant, poverty-stricken pretender to the French throne, who was employed in the Piron jewelry shop in the rue de la Paix. Two other salesmen, Ramon Cabero and Etienne Lejarre, were members of Santini's gang of jewel thieves. Armand told Alacia an American aunt had left him a million dollars on condition that he had "made good" at the age of 30. He was now 29. Three of his aunts friends were to decide whether he got the money: Colonel Bradley, an American, M. Piron, and M. Jessant, Paris Prefet de police. Santini was to drive the Europa in the Grand Prix at Monte Carlo. A girl known as Victorine, jealous of Santini, told Alacia he was going to throw the race. Alavia, deciding to replace him with Armand. Meanwhile Santini and Mrs. Sayers had gone to Piron's to see about having her rubies reset. At Santini's direction, Cabereo had substituted imitations and put the real ones in the tool box of Santini's Europa racing car, which Santini was driving to Monte Carlo that night.

INSTALLMENT XVIII

Meanwhile Armand de Pas was in the act of producing Mrs. Sayers' rubies. As usual, whenever the safe was opened, he was accompanied by the detective from the surete and a second clerk, in this case Etienne Lajarre, a trusted employee who had been with the house of Piron for several years. The envelopes bearing Mrs. Sayers' name were soon located and checked and then Lajarre was called away to attend to a client while Armand and the detective entered the private room where Santini and Mrs. Sayers were waiting for them.

There was something breathless in the attitude of the little group which gathered around the table when Armand began opening the packages. Rubies are an exciting jewel at any time, and this was probably the finest collection of its kind in the world. As the flaming mass of stones was spread upon the strip of gray velvet before him, Santini gloated with satisfaction. The reproductions were a huge success; their fire and color were superb and would deceive practically any one, particularly when backed by the psychological setting of a private room on a world-famous jewelry establishment. Armand was laying the stones one by one, upon the etched design for the new setting, using a delicate pair of tweezers so as not to dim their brightness, and the effect of the proposed arrangement was magnificent. Santini, reconsidering a part of his plan, decided then and there to abandon his intention of creating suspicion. If Mrs. Sayers' accepted the substitute stones without question, so much the better! If the order for the resetting received her sanction and they walked out of that room in a few minutes' time without any adverse comment, all would be smooth sailing. Santini watched her face intently as she leaned over the patterns, a lorgnette at her nose. Would she be deceived? For several moments it seemed she would be and then suddenly she frowned.

"That's odd!" said Kate Sayers sharply. "When your plier slipped just then, it made a scratch on that large center stone, Monsieur Armand!" In public she always addressed him in this formal manner. Armand looked aghast as he followed her pointing finger. Sure enough, there was a faint scratch right across the face of one of the largest of the rubies.

"Mrs. Sayers!" he exclaimed penitently. "I'm most ghastly sorry! I'm afraid you're right, there is a mark. I wouldn't have had that happen for anything. I will have it repolished, of course!" Kate Sayers looked at him intently from under her beaded lashes. Since the night of their first meeting there had always been a slight doubt about him in her mind and now it flared up anew.

"Don't you know," she said slowly, "that real rubies don't scratch as easily as all that?" Armand shook his head and crimsoned slightly at her tone.

"I know they are delicate stones," he said, "and I was clumsy. I am most sorry it happened."

"Let me see that one in the daylight!" said the woman briefly. Picking it up, she carried it to the window and held it in the hollow of her hand, examining it through a jeweler's glass which Armand handed her in silence. Kate Sayers, like many ugly women, had made precious stones her hobby. She loved them with a passionate devotion and perhaps secretly relied on them to lend her some poteney of charm. What was more, she had studied them to a very considerable degree and while dealers welcomed her as a large purchaser, they also feared her keenness in detecting the slightest flaw. Now she took quite five minutes to examine the ruby before handing down her verdict, and when she laid the stone back on the table, her expression was distinctly unpleasant.

"Will you please send for Monsieur Piron?" she said evenly. "There is something wrong here." Then as Armand started for the door she stopped him with a gesture. "No, you go!" she said to the detective. "I want Monsieur Armand to remain." The detective tiptoed out with a frightened look and Mrs. Sayers walked up and down the room trying to control herself, but palpably upset.

"What seems to be the trouble?" asked Armand, anxiously. "I hope I have not ruined your stone? To tell the truth, I am still a bit of an amateur about these things."

"That's quite evident," said Kate Sayers shortly.

"But, dear lady, the stone can surely be polished?" Santini protested soothingly. "Don't worry so! I cannot endure to see you suffer." To his amazement and secret delight she turned on him furiously.

"Oh, shut up, Alfredo!" she said impatiently. "You don't know anything about jewels; you wouldn't know a bit of onyx from a chocolate caramel!" He shrugged his shoulders depreeatingly.

"I admit it!" he said. "I have a nice taste for pretty things and that is all. But don't excite yourself so, or you will be quite worn out!"

She was about to administer a second snub when the door opened to admit Monsieur Piron and the detective. The former was a little out of breath from haste, but he came forward with a smile and outstretched hands.

"My dear Madame Sayers, bon jour!" he beamed. "Forgive me for keeping you waiting, but I was just talking on the telephone to my friend the prefet de police. He is coming around to see me on a personal matter but I have told them downstairs he must wait until I have finished my little visit with you. And what can I do to help you?"

"Monsieur Piron, I hope there has been some mistake," she said gravely. "Because these are not my rubies. This large stone is a fake." The old jeweler looked at her with an expression of childlike amazement, as though he had not heard aright.

"Would you mind repeating that remark, Madame?" he asked.

"I said it was a fake, an imitation!" said Mrs. Sayers emphatically. "Mr. Piron these stones are the exact duplicate in shape and in size of the ones I brought here for resetting, but they are not mine."

"But, Madame, such an accusation is absurd!" the old man protested. Nevertheless, he picked up the jewel she indicated and examined it through the glass, little beads of perspiration starting out on the edges of his white hair as he did so. The pearl necklace which Alacia had returned to him only that morning was still in his breast pocket, and this challenge, coming immediately on top of her revelation, was profoundly disturbing to say the least of it. The others in the room watched him intently until he removed the glass from his eye and turned a blanched face toward his audience.

"There is no doubt about it!" he said in a strained tone. "The stone is a copy. This is the most extraordinary thing I have ever heard of!" A brief examination served to reveal that the remaining jewels were also false.

"Who has handled the matter?" It was Santini's voice, nicely toned to concern, which asked the obvious question. "I presume the stones have passed a good many hands since Madame brought them in?"

"On the contrary," Armand spoke now, troubled, but quietly so. "No one on these premises has touched Mrs. Sayers' rubies except myself and the man who removed them from their original settings."

"That work is done here, on the top floor," Monsieur Piron explained. "Jewels entrusted to us never leave the premises until required by their owners, and there is not a workman in the factory who has been in my employ less than 20 years. It is impossible that any one of them could be party to a substitution."

"Then if the stones have never left the premises," said Mrs. Sayers, "they are still here. Unless of course you mean to suggest that the rubies I originally brought you were imitations."

"Madame, your ownership of those rubies was too well known for such a suggestion, even if I were inclined to make it," Monsieur Piron answered coldly.

"I suggest," said Santini, "that no one be allowed to leave this building until every person in it has been searched. It is quite possible that the thief is still on the premises. In fact for all you know, I myself may have been clever enough to slip them into my pocket! At any rate, I am quite sure every one will be more comfortable if he is searched, n'est-ce-pas?" He looked around the room questioningly. The others all appeared to agree, at least to the point of making no protest, and M. Piron consented with an unhappy shrug of his broad shoulders.

"Perhaps you are right, Monsieur!" said old Piron. "I will give the necessary orders," he added, as he left the room. Santini moved closer to Mrs. Sayers and was whispering.

"Have you noticed the clerk?" he asked. "He does not seem enthusiastic about my proposal!" She nodded in agreement.

"I notice," she whispered back. "This city, Alfredo, it's so full of disappointments! One is forever meeting nice people and then having them turn out all wrong. I declare, after four years of living in Paris I've got so's I'd scarcely trust my own mother!" He laughed under his breath.

"Witty one!" he said, giving her hand a surreptitious squeeze. Then they were interrupted by the return of M. Piron, accompanied by a grave, bearded personage whose heavy eyebrows sheltered a remarkably piercing pair of eyes. Slack in his dress, there was yet something imposing in his appearance.

"My friend Monsieur Jessant," M. Piron announced. "Madame Sayers, Monsieur Jessant is prefet of the police of Paris. We could not, obviously, have help from a better quarter!"

At the newcomer's entrance Armand had turned crimson, but the prefet was cordial in his manner. He shook Armand's hand heartily and there was no mistaking the liking which showed in his smile.

"Well, well, mon fils!" he cried jovially. "Cava? I had not expected to see you before the dinner hour. You have not forgotten, eh? Be on time, for we have a bouillabaisse prepared under the eye of my wife and she does not like to have it stand too long. Entendu, eh?" Armand could only nod, wordlessly. Then the chief turned to old Piron.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Speaker Garner probably views his approaching translation to the vice presidency as the beginning of a quieter afterglow period of his long and active career in politics.

JOHN N. GARNER

Certainly the vice presidency does not promise such high moments of power and influence as he enjoyed that first day of the short session in the house.

Possibly that impending eclipse of his personal share in great legislative moments played its part in prompting Garner to force the issue in the house that day on the prohibition repeal resolution.

To accomplish what he did—bring the question of submission of a naked repeal resolution to the states to a vote in the house within three hours of its convening—the Texan went to the extreme limit of the written or implied powers of the speakership. Not since the days of the late "Uncle Joe" Cannon has any such procedure been known in the house.

A Rare Experience

With battering gavel and unfaltering purpose Garner drove the house to that vote. Whatever may happen, it is safe to say that he will not find opportunity to repeat in the months that remain before he crosses over to keep order in the senate but to have no voice in its debates.

The big moment of Garner's whole three decades "on the hill" probably was that when the roll call on the repeal legislation got under way. His inauguration as vice president will not compare in thrill.

It is quite possible the question will be up again in the house before Garner's speakership ends. No proposition that fails of a two-thirds majority in the house by a meager six votes can be viewed as settled for the session. Precedent would indicate otherwise.

The vicissitudes of congressional life are such that within a matter of days a situation could develop making certain another vote at this session. Even so, however, it would be a moment of anticlimax for Garner.

In a rather long Washington press gallery experience the Bystander has never seen a house roll call taken under such circumstances.

There was virtually no talking on the floor to disturb proceedings. The galleries did not even murmur. Everybody was keyed to hear each "Aye" or "No." Probably a third of the members kept their own tallies.

Matter-Of-Fact

So the result was no surprise when the official announcement came. The house already knew what it had done. The smattering burst of handclapping by the "No" voters was very brief. Had it gone the other way there were indications that there would have been a demonstration.

It was clear that repeal advocates in the house and galleries view that vote as assurance of victory later on. From their viewpoint, the demonstration merely was deferred.

Texas Solons Protest Moving of Army Unit

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. (INS)—A protest against the proposed moving of the army garrison now at Fort D. A. Russell, Marfa, Texas, to Camp Knox, Kentucky, was lodged with President Hoover today by Senators Sheppard and Connally, and Representative Thomason of Texas.

The legislators told Mr. Hoover that the town of Marfa, due to the depression, is now largely dependent on the pay roll of the 600 men for its existence. They argued that $1,000,000 has just been spent on the post and it would not be economy to scrap it.

PONIES TO PLAY POSTSEASON GAME WITH SCHOOL OF MINES

GAME TO BE PLAYED DEC. 31

Contest Scheduled for El Paso Field

By BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Dec. 12.—The Southern Methodist Mustangs of the Southwest conference will play a postseason football game. Their opponents will be the Texas School of Mines at El Paso. The game will be played at El Paso on Saturday, Dec. 31. The official booking of the game was announced today by Ray Morrison, head coach and athletic director at Southern Methodist. It was confirmed by Coach Max Saxon and the Mines athletic council.

A dispatch from El Paso said that Southern Methodist had been guaranteed $2,500 for the trip and game. Southern Methodist has been dickering with the Texas School of Mines for several days for a post-season game. Having just finished a successful season, the Mines athletic council decided to leave the post-season suggestion up to the letter men. In a ballot of the letter men on the team, there was an equal division of opinion, half being for the game and half against playing it. The rather indifferent manner in which the players received the suggestion of a post-season scrap with Southern Methodist made the Mines athletic council slow to accept, but the deal was closed today.

Morrison said that an excursion would be directed from Dallas to El Paso for the game, and that probably 1,500 persons would take advantage of the reduced rates.

The Mustangs recently closed their regular schedule by losing a 21 to 14 game to Nebraska university. On a straight season campaign, Southern Methodist won two, lost seven and tied two games. Offensively, the Mustangs scored 56 points. Their opponents scored 112 points. The Mustangs finished fifth in the Southwest conference race this year. They won the championship last season.

The Texas School of Mines boasted a fine team this season. J. B. Andrews, Charles Coldwell and Ben Boykin were the outstanding ball luggers.

Freshmen were allowed to play on the Mines team this season but will be prohibited next year.

Bank Bowlers In Second Place

Led by Doc Allen, the City National Bank bowlers of the Commercial league rolled their way into undisputed second place in the league by taking three straight from E-Z Self Service Monday night in the regular league games. First National Bank dropped back into third place by losing one and winning two from Wichita Mill and Elevator. The league leading Maxwell Hardware postponed their regular match with Texas Company due to illness in the Texas Company ranks, but picked up half a game by winning the playoff with Wichita Mill and Elevator of their tie game played two weeks ago. Doc Allen was both high with single game and three-game score. Allen rolled a 208 game for high single game and 590 pins for the night. Scores:

LAND ACQUISITION OKAYED

LIVINGSTON, Mont. (UP)—Adding 7,900 acres of land to be used for winter grazing and feeding purposes for wild game in Yellowstone National park, President Hoover recently authorized acquisition by the government of a triangular section of land on the west bank of the Yellowstone river. A bill to acquire the land was introduced in 1928 by Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana.

Tests of paper-making quality of golden rod stalks by the bureau of standards showed the material to be an inferior source of fiber.

Coaching Power Behind Olney's Titlists

COACH ALBERT S. ACKER

Albert Sidney Acker, former all-Southwest conference end with the Texas Christian university Horned Frogs, whose football teams have been consistent winners since he took over the coaching job at Olney in 1928.

Archer, Brownfield And Masons Only Foes to Score On Cubs In Two Years

Olney Gridders Have Won 29, Lost Two and Tied Three Over Five-Year Stretch

The Archer City Wildcats, the Brownfield Cubs and the Masonic Home eleven of Fort Worth share the honor of being the only teams in two years of conference play to score on the Olney Cubs, who last Saturday brought another successful football season to a close to round out a five-year record of five straight district titles and three regional championships.

Archer City scored six points on the Cubs this year; Brownfield scored seven, and Masonic Home, now a semifinalist in the state class A race, scored 45 against Olney last year in the bidistrict game.

Record Without Equal

The Cubs' record probably is without equal in the Texas Interscholastic league class B conference. In five years since Coach Albert Acker took over the helm in 1928 the Cubs have played 34 conference games, won 29, lost two, and tied three. The losses were inflicted by Mineral Wells in 1928 and Masonic Home in 1931. The Cubs were tied in 1929 by Megargel, in the same year by Hereford in the regional championship game, and this year by Chillicothe in a district conference game which was counted one-half game won and a half lost. The Megargel and Hereford ties were counted Olney victories under the 20-yard zone penetration rule.

The Cubs' scoring record for five years shows the team has amassed a grand total of 1,094 points while allowing its opponents 173 in conference play.

The Guiding Hand

Coach Acker, the power behind the Olney championship throne, came to Olney High school in 1928 after finishing a brilliant athletic career at Texas Christian university. He was an all-Southwest conference end with the Frogs in 1926 and all-Southwest conference member of the T. C. U. basket ball squad in 1927.

The Olney football record since 1928 follows:

1928—Undefeated in district play. In bidistrict lost to Mineral Wells, 26-14.

1929—Undefeated but tied by Megargel, 6-6, in district play, allowing opponents only 13 points. In bidistrict defeated Jacksboro. Met Hereford in regional final. Game resulted in 7-7 tie, Olney winning on 20-yard zone penetrations. It was Olney's first regional championship.

1930—Undefeated in district play. In bidistrict defeated Nocona, 51-14, and in regional championship game defeated Slaton, 13-6.

1931—Undefeated in district play. In bidistrict game met second conference defeat in four years at hands of Masonic Home. Score: Masons 45, Olney 6.

1932—Undefeated, but tied by Chillicothe, 0-0, in district play. In bidistrict defeated Brownfield, 45-7. In regional final defeated McLean, 6-0.

The Cubs have not lost a game in their own district since 1927, before Acker's regime, when the Olney team was defeated at Seymour.

MAJORS START ECONOMY TALK

Steering Committee Debates Drastic Measures

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—By way of inaugurating the "week of the fallen arches," otherwise known as the annual meetings of the two major baseball leagues, club owners made the first moves today in effecting a general policy of economy and retrenchment for the 1933 season.

In a session that lasted all afternoon and most of the evening in the smoke-filled headquarters of President William Harridge of the American league, the joint "steering" committee of the two big leagues debated a number of drastic proposals, including further reduction of the player limit, banishment of the radio from all games except the world series and even a rescaling of admission prices to meet current conditions.

Terry Seeks Talent

The meeting, attended by four club owners of each circuit in addition to President Harridge and President John A. Heydler of the National league, paved the way for a three-day convention, to be concluded Thursday with a joint meeting of the two leagues.

The magnates have tabled any proposition to "pool" their player resources, in the interests of bringing about more balanced club strength, especially in the American league, but managers took up the hunt for much-needed talent in the lobbies, led by Bill Terry of the Giants.

Terry lost no time getting down to business, but most of the other discussions led nowhere. The Yankees and Senators both laughed off any suggestions of exchanging Ben Chapman for Heine Manush, a brace of outfielders, and Bill Killefer, pilot of the St. Louis Browns, denied reports his star catcher "Rick" Ferrell, was on the block.

Player Limit Discussed

Meanwhile the club owners canvassed recommendations for lowering the player limit by having the present limit of 23 include the team coaches, although not the manager. Naturally wealthier clubs, such as the world champion Yankees and Chicago Cubs, do not favor further curtailment of their forces, but they are willing to go along with the majority in the interest of economy.

If it is decided to exempt the coaches, the player limit may be cut to 22 as an alternative measure. Several clubs already have cut down their coaching staff for 1933, but Washington will keep the famous team of Nick Altrock and Al Schacht, even if it is necessary to get special dispensation or designation for Nick as an official comedian.

LION CAGERS OUT FOR DUTY

Three Letter Men Back On Vernon Team

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Dec. 12.—Approximately 30 candidates for the 1932-33 Vernon High school basket ball squad reported to Head Coach Ralph Binnion at the high school gymnasium at 3:45 Monday afternoon for the initial practice session of the season. The aspirants included three letter men from last year's team, two squadmen, and numerous players from the Marine and intra-mural ranks from which the Lion cage mentors will probably fashion their coming court organization.

Coach Binnion indicated today that games may be matched for the next week-end for the Lion cagers, giving the combination but two weeks in which to mold into shape for the early-season encounters. While no contests have been definitely matched as yet, and are not likely to be for several days, negotiations are under way for tilts with Denton, Plainview, Pampa, Olney, Crowell, Wichita Falls, Electra, Childress, Quanah and numerous Oklahoma teams.

Season Delayed

The cage season for the Lions has been delayed a week due to the lateness of the football season. The Vernon gridders were eliminated from state competition but little more than a week ago and as many of the football players are leading candidates for berths on this year's court outfit, opening of practice was delayed until Monday. While this lateness in starting will probably handicap the Lions in early season games, the combination may start clicking acceptably early in February or before.

Filling of the squad positions seem the main worry of the Vernon coaches as the basket ball season opens as all of the four letter men at the back positions of last year's team have graduated. The guards were Elton Blanton, Capt. Woodrow Smith, Pete Smith and Ray Cox. Blanton and W. Smith were rated two of the outstanding guards in this section last year, and replacing of these two performers with inexperienced guardians is likely to prove a harrowing experience.

Team Loses Lockhard

Another excellent basketeer lost from last season's crack quintet is Shaw Lockard, three-year letter man and generally regarded as one of the best court players ever to perform in this section. Lockard was co-captain of the quintet last season and its ranking forward. During his three years of competition here he starred at any position at which he played and he performed in several games either as a guard, center or forward.

Returning from last season's Vernon team will be Tarleton "Too Tall" Jones, towering center who led the Lion scorers the past season. Along with the six-foot, six-inch Jones will be two other letter men, Henry Galloway, towering teammate of Lockard at forward, and Ed Garner, diminutive reserve forward. In addition to these letter men, Paris Grogan and Harold Wilson, a pair of speedy squad men, will return as will several other likely prospects from the Marines and intra-mutal organizations and a few transferred players within the county.

Vernon has boasted one of the outstanding cage organizations in the state for the past two years and the present season may prove no exception. In practice competition the past two years, although badly riddled by influenza through a large part of each season, the Lions have rung up a total of 26 victories against six defeats. In two years the Lions combined a total of 1,281 points against 734 for opponents. The Vernon victims have included North Side High school of Fort Worth, Olney, Estelline, Childress, Wichita Falls, Electra, Quanah, Harrold, Frederick, Okla., and numerous others. Two of their losses were each by one-point margins to North Side (Fort Worth) and Olney, respectively.

Corsicana To Play At Houston

HOUSTON, Dec. 12. (AP)—The John Reagan Bulldogs of Houston and the Corsicana Tigers will meet here Saturday afternoon to determine which shall play in the finals the winner of the Masonic Home-Amarillo clash. Arrangements were made at a meeting here today of Corsicana and John Reagan officials.

Coach Johnny Pierce's Tigers will arrive here Friday in time for a workout Friday afternoon at Rice field. A special train Saturday will bring several hundred Corsicana rooters to Houston and many others will come by automobile. It is estimated a crowd of around 8,000 will see the semifinal high school classic.

Masonic Home and Amarillo will play their semifinal game Saturday at Texas Christian university stadium, Fort Worth.

Charles Gurke of Chicago stood shivering outside Jacob Drouse's house. Drouse is a relative. "What happened to you?" asked Drouse. "Three fellows took my money, and all my clothes except my shoes and underwear," Gurke explained. "Let me in, I'm cold." "Ha, ha, ha," laughed Drouse. "That sure is funny. Come in." "Funny, is it?" said Gurke. "Well you know that automobile you loaned me—they took that, too."

Rival Clubs Show No Disposition To Help Giants Obtain Players

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—The New York Giants, once one of the richest, most powerful organizations in the baseball world, find themselves in a bad fix.

They need help, must have it if they are to get out from behind the eight ball, and prospects are they will receive about as much sympathy and assistance from seven rival National league clubs as could be conveniently carried in a gnat's knapsack.

In other words, it looks very much as though the other boys are perfectly willing that Bill Terry's pupils remain right where they finished the 1932 race, in seventh place. Whether they are bright in their attitude is open to discussion, but they show no sign of weakening.

Every effort of the Giants so far to acquire players of proved ability to replace their present crew has fallen flat. The Braves, the Phillies, the Cubs and the Dodgers in turn have looked blank when it was suggested they rally round.

"Looks like practically every club in our league has set up a trading barrier," declared the Giants' secretary, Jim Tierney. "Either they refuse to talk business, or they offer us players we don't want."

There was, of course, the one deal in which the polo grounders sent Pitchers Bill Walker and Bill Mooney and Outfielder Ethan Allen to the Cards in exchange for an untested battery composed of Ray Starr and Gus Mancuso, but that wasn't the kind of help the Giants need. Metropolitan critics, in fact, aren't convinced Branch Rickey didn't slip over a fast one.

It since has been reported the Giants were about to acquire Berger and Brown of the Braves, Whitney and Klein of the Phillies and almost any other star you can call to mind, but nothing has come of it.

Unless some real trades do develop before next spring, Manager Bill Terry will be left in the unhappy position of piloting a group of players he has said, quite frankly, don't fit in with his scheme.

Fortunately for him, in the event the desired deals do not materialize, Terry was smart enough not to name the players he had in mind when he made his war talk late last season. The boys, however, probably have a pretty good idea.

Even though it scarcely will afford the Giant owners any comfort, the situation at least should convince the skeptics baseball is very much on the level. With things what they are right now, the National league could use a winning club in New York.

GIANTS GET SOME PLAYERS AFTER ALL

NEW YORK, Dec. 12. (AP)—A three-cornered player trade among the New York Giants, Pittsburgh Pirates and Philadelphia Nationals, involving five players, was announced here tonight. Involved in the trade were Gus Dugas and Glenn Spencer of the Pirates, Freddy Lindstrom and Chick Fullis of the Giants, and George Davis of the Phillies.

Under the terms of the triple agreement, the Phillies receive Fullis, Dugas and an unannounced amount of cash; the Giants take Spencer and Davis, and the Pirates snare Lindstrom.

Dugas, Davis, Fullis and Lindstrom are all outfielders while Spencer is a young right-handed pitcher.

Craig Wood Winner Of Match Play Open

LAKESIDE COURSE, OLYMPIC Club, San Francisco, Dec. 12. (UP)—Craig Wood, veteran campaigner from Deal, N. J., breezed around the frozen tundra of this golf course today to defeat Al Espinosa, Akron, Ohio, two and one and win the national match play open golf championship.

One down at the start of the afternoon 18 holes, Wood staged a comeback to go one up on the 32nd. He clinched the match on the 35th by holing a 15-foot putt. His victory brought him $512 of the $2,500 prize money.

David K. Baker of South Yarmouth, Mass., sawed three cords of wood the day before his 84th birthday.

BOXING BOUT ON TONIGHT

Benny Perez Meets Terry In Main Event

The second weekly session of leather pushing goes on tonight at Govro arena under the guiding hand of the Pat Carrigan post of the American Legion with Benny Perez taking on Pee Wee Terry in the eight-round main event. Both are featherweights with worlds of action and power in their style of battle. According to all advance notices both men pack a hard wallop in their gloves and the bout should make a whale of a go.

The semifinal will bring Kid Rutledge, the tough little Walters, Okla., youngster who last week shaded Leo Voss. Rutledge will take on Johnny Owens of Wichita Falls in the six-round semifinal. Those who have been watching Owens work out are of the opinion that he will make things hot for the Sooner tonight.

Leo Voss and Scrappy Williams will fight the four-round preliminary in a renewal of their grudge of long standing here. There will also be a battle royal.

SPARTANS BEAT ANCIENT FOES

Portsmouth Pro Eleven Eliminates Packers

By BILL BRAUCHER
NEA Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Led by Coach Potsy Clark, a young man generally accepted as the greatest quarterback Bob Zuppke ever had, the Portsmouth (Ohio) Spartans have achieved an ambition several years old—to knock the Green Bay Packers out of the National Pro league championship.

Our Portsmouth operative appends the following inspired copy: "A purple tornado, riding abreast a mile-a-minute gale of almost cyclonic fury, swept out of the timbered hills of southern Ohio Sunday afternoon at Universal stadium before a record concourse of 12,000 frenzied fans and blew the Wisconsin Green Bay Packers off the world football throne.

"Eleven of Coach Potsy Clark's 17 iron men, in blasting Green Bay from power, wrapped up the Packers in a 19 to 0 defeat-shroud, packed them in a big black-creped casket and laid them to rest in the football mausoleum."

By which you may gather that the Portsmouth operative really went to the ball game to bury the Packers and not to praise them.

Portsmouth has a team composed of former university stars, some of whom you may remember, and some you may not. Offhand, there are Morris Bodenger, the former Tulane star; Ox Emerson and Mule Wilson, from the University of Texas; Bill McKalip and George Christensen, produced at Oregon; John Cavosie, former Wisconsin fullback; Harry Ebding, the old St. Mary's end; Father Lumpkin, one time Georgia Tech star and plague of the Rose bowl in 1929, and Earl "Dutch" Clark, from Colorado college.

The team is in itself a suggestion that all-America honors do not mean a great deal in pro football. Most of the names of the players are not even well known nationally. In college they were for the most part just capable football players who went about their various stints without receiving a great deal of praise. The notable exception is Father Lumpkin, who was hot stuff at Georgia Tech.

Dutch Clark is the National league's outstanding player, however, and during his college days never so much as received a buzz from all-America guessers. During his more than 10 years of football he never played on a championship team.

This year during eight games he punted 38 times for an average of 46 yards. He has consistently outclassed Ernie Nevers in games in which he has played against the man Pop Warner calls the greatest football player of all time. He excels in leadership, forward passing, pass receiving and running.

He was the outstanding ground gainer of the 1932 season, ripping off 561 yards in 10 games.

Stockholders Must Pay In Altus Bank Case

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., Dec. 12.—Five stockholders in the defunct Citizens State bank of this city must pay liability despite their claims that an increase in capital stock from $25,000 to $50,000 was unauthorized and that their stock was worthless, according to a decision of the supreme court of Oklahoma which has been forwarded to W. C. Austin, liquidating agent of the defunct bank.

The supreme court ruled that liability must be paid by E. L. Garnett to the extent of $5,000; H. H. Harris, $5,000; J. A. Clarkson, $5,000; L. H. McConnell, $2,500, and A. Kahle, $2,500. These men were sued by the bank commissioner.

The Jackson county district court had held that Garnett and Harris were liable but that Kahle, Clarkson and McConnell did not have to pay.

A period of 15 days will be allowed in which time a request for new hearing may be filed with the supreme court.

The total sum of $20,000 involved, if collected, would represent a dividend of approximately 15 per cent for the defunct bank, Austin said.

Murray Promises Veto For Bond Issue Bill

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 12. (UP)—Gov. W. H. Murray will veto any bill passed by the next legislature authorizing bond issues, he said today.

"All bonds are based on the ad valorem tax," said the governor, "and that must be lowered, not raised. We must pay the public debt instead of increasing it."

Murray attributed world-wide financial crises to enormity of the public debt of the nations and their political subdivisions. He advised general bankruptcy as the solution.

Murray said the ancient practice of the Jewish nation of wiping out all debts, public and private every 50 years should be revived.

Advice To Investors

By Charles W. Storm—Editor of the "News Service of Wall Street"

L. R.—Kindly inform me regarding the financial condition, earnings, etc., of Cream of Wheat corporation, also your opinion of the stock.

Answer—For more than 30 years Cream of Wheat corporation and its predecessor have shown satisfactory profits and maintained an unbroken dividend record. Earned $2.51 per share in 1931, as compared with $3.11 in 1930 and $3.14 in 1929. For the first nine months of 1932, net income equaled $1.65 per share, against $1.88 in corresponding period of 1931. Regular dividends of $2 per share plus 50 cents extra were paid in 1930 and 1931. An extra of 25 cents was paid Jan. 2, 1932, in addition to the regular 50 cents quarterly distribution. The corporation has maintained a strong financial position; as of July 31, 1932, current assets were approximately 10 times current liabilities and there are no bonds, preferred stock, mortgages or bank loans outstanding. Inasmuch as the regular dividend rate appears secure, the stock is regarded as a good speculative investment.

J. K. R., Wichita Fall—Please advise me what you think of Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad common stock.

Answer—Various points in Texas and the cities of St. Louis and Kansas City are served by the "Katy." Tonnage is composed chiefly of wheat, bituminous coal, petroleum, gasoline, etc. Capitalization well conceived. Funded debt $94,000,000; preferred stock $66,000,000; common stock 808,936 shares (no par value). Three dollars per common share earned in 1930 and nothing in 1931. The continued downward trend in traffic and earnings resulted in dividend omission for common and preferred. The common stock is distinctly speculative.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Dec. 12. (AP)—After making new high ground for the movement, cotton today reacted partially under hedging and scattered realizing.

March contracts, which had advanced to 6.03 or 16 points above Saturday's finals and 50 points above the low price of last Thursday, closed at 5.94 with the general market closing steady at net advances of 4 to 8 points.

The opening was 5 to 11 points higher in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables and reports of unfavorable weather for the movement in the South.

The market worked up 5.91 for January and 6.13 for May during the afternoon or about 15 to 16 points net higher on the more active positions. Steadiness in the stock market and reports of a steadier market for cotton goods were probably contributing factors on the advance but the demand tapered off somewhat later with January closing at 5.79 and May at 6.04. December was relatively quiet and responded slowly to fluctuations in other months, as the interest in that position has evidently been reduced to small proportions.

According to the New York cotton exchange service, domestic consumption of cotton of all growths in this country for November amounted to 516,000 bales against 503,000 for October and 426,000 for November last year. There were reports of a fair volume of business in the local goods market toward the end of last year with a steadier ruling of prices.

Wires from Texas said that bad weather was interfering with the movement and that there was a fair European demand. Liverpool cables reported a quiet steady market there. Liverpool imports today were said to include 17,640 bales of Russian cotton. Exports today 27,691 making 3,578,987 so far this season; port receipts 44,544; U. S. port stock 4,840,543.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 12. (AP)—Cotton values continued to push upward today in moderately active trading, stimulated by trade buying and firmness in other markets which caused considerable short covering. Realizing reduced an extreme advance of 15 points, but the close was steady at net gains for the day of 7 to 10 points.

British board of trade statistics for November showed exports of yarns at 10,000,000 pounds against 12,000,000 in November last year and exports of cloths 159,000,000 square yards as compared with 126,000,000 a year ago.

The market opened quite steady. Liverpool cables came in about as due and sterling was a shade up. Private cables said that market was quiet and steady with scattered continental and Bombay selling; the imports included 17,640 bales of Russian cotton. Manchester cabled Indian inquiries continued but offers were low. First trades here showed gains of 2 to 5 points and prices continued to improve after the start owing to a fair trade demand and price fixing until near the end of the first hour January traded at 5.83, March at 5.93 and May at 6.02 or 6 to 3 points above Saturday's close.

After easing off 3 to 6 points early in the second hour on some hedge selling, the market rallied again on firmness in stocks and rather persistent short covering. In the first half of the afternoon, prices made highs for the day at 5.90 for January, 6.00 for March and 6.11 for May or 15 points above Saturday's close. In the late trading prices eased off 8 points from the top on profit-taking. January closed at 5.82, up 7 points net for the day, March at 5.92 and May at 6.03, both up 7 points net.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 1 to 3 penny points up.

Port receipts 45,141, for week 87,099, for season 5,266,457, last season 5,697,928. Exports 28,288, for week 65,706, for season 3,560,819, last season 3,327,955. Port stock 4,771,730, last year 4,721,690. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 171,315, last year 179,197. Spot sales at southern markets 20,994, last year 25,848.

Futures closed steady at net advances of 7 to 10 points:

Increased activity on a small but broader scale, has had a steadying influence on prices of medium wools. Receipts of domestic wool at Boston during week ending Dec. 10, estimated by the Boston grain and flour exchange, amounted to 1,044,400 pounds as compared with 4,343,100 pounds during previous week.

One-Point Advance Appears As Limit As Stocks Trend To Quiet Firmness

By JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Stocks conveyed an impression of quiet firmness today.

Neither an effort toward a rally nor its result was particularly impressive and closing prices were somewhat irregular, but on balance the market showed a small net gain so that last week's upward trend was maintained.

Extreme advances of about a point measured the degree of Wall street's cautious hopefulness. Embryonic pool activity was again apparent in some of the lower priced shares, especially industrials, yet aggressive support for an upward move was lacking and the market settled back in the late trading. Sales totaled 924,270 shares.

With debt settlement day so near at hand and the cables still humming with late developments, the financial community was obviously willing to proceed along conservative lines. There seemed to be some evidences that traders who are making the present market felt at least mildly cheerful over business prospects, once the winter dullness is hurled, particularly if congress should give budget-balancing an expeditious handling.

Rubber shares were fairly responsive to bullish whims, but most of the other motor equipments lagged. U. S. Steel corporation's unfilled tonnage statement proved to have been well discounted as a market factor; both stocks of that company finished a shade higher, although the preferred had an early dip. American Can, General Electric, Westinghouse, Harvester, Case Cudahy, U. S. Gypsum, Owens Illinois Glass and an assortment of preferreds eased on the day, but there were net gains for Allied Chemical, Du Pont, Sears Roebuck, Bethlehem Steel, Industrial Rayon, Consolidated Gas, National Dairy, Coca Cola, Shattuck, Kroger Grocery and Kennecott. Oils acted somewhat skittish in the face of reports that mid-continent crude prices might be cut. Rails were steady to firm. New York City tractions firmed.

Trade news, as is usual on a Monday, was limited. One of the steel trade reviews said structural material buying had taken at least a temporary spurt and that Ford was releasing orders for new models, which took some of the sting from a sag in the operating ratio. One rail mill is expected to reopen later this week.

Foreign copper was down a little, but domestic held at what is regarded as a nominal quotation. Consumers appeared to be awaiting repercussions of the conference break-down and no business has been reported for two or three days.

The enormous oversubscription to the government financing spoke leoquently of the jam in short term money markets, a situation which is expected to last for some time to come. The possibility of any immediate change is reserve system policy is regarded as remote.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 12. (AP)—Wheat scored late upturns in price today, but quick selling of profits at the last more than wiped out the advance.

Assertions that heavy abandonment of domestic winter wheat acreage was probably did much to stimulate the price rallies. One trade authority said wheat in the Southwest had already been so damaged both by lack of protection from cold and by drouth that even with favorable conditions hereafter the indications were for a crop of only 400,000,000 bushels, about the same as the total in 1912, the lowest on record.

Wheat closed unsettled, ⅛@⅜c under Saturday's finish, corn ⅛@⅜c off, oats unchanged to ⅛c higher, and provisions varying from 7 cents decline to a rise of 5 cents.

A liber decrease of 2,590,000 bushels shown today in the United States wheat visible supply counted as a transient bullish factor, and so too did the fact that today's receipts at primary points were but 600,000 bushels, hardly half as much as either a week or a year ago.

The principal stimulating influence, however, was the unpromising outlook for winter wheat Southwest, where sub-zero temperatures and only meager snowfalls appeared to be the rule. Numerous Chicago traders professed belief that with continued cold and with lack of any adequate snow blanket, the groundwork was being laid for a big crop scare next spring unless there was a decided change of conditions.

In some quarters, however, it was contended that Saturday's advance of wheat values had largely discounted for the present the crop damage from cold and drouth. Another handicap to wheat bulls was the fact that today's Liverpool quotations were lower than expected. Enlargement of the amount of wheat on ocean passage, with the total 40,552,000 bushels against 39,736,000 a year ago, was likewise of some effect as a weight on the market.

Corn and oats were relatively firm owing to wintry weather that increased livestock feeding and tended to restrict rural shipments of corn.

Provisions were irregular, governed mostly by changes in hog values.

KAY DISCUSSES LIQUOR LAW

Prohibition 'Must Come From Hearts of People'

Replacing of "prohibition by the 18th amendment" by a prohibition emanating from the enlightened hearts of the people was urged by Judge John C. Kay before members of the Kiwanis club Monday after declaring that because the prohibition amendment is a criminal statute it has no place in the federal constitution.

Amendment Went "Too Far"

Voters in this country became unduly exercised in 1919, and went too far in passing the 18th amendment, Judge Kay said. While the constitution is supposed to provide limitations upon the government, he continued, the 18th amendment is a limitation upon the people.

Judge Kay mentioned the Democratic platform repeal plank and expressed his doubt, along with that of attorneys generally, that the constitution can be amended "through a joint resolution of congress and submission to the people through state conventions."

He aded, however, that the "supreme court has its ear to the ground, knows the desires of the people, and might declare such an amendment constitutional."

Will of People

Judge Kay emphasized the statement that a law is a power and strength "only in the house of its friends, and any workable law works by the will of the people and not by the letter of the law." While there has been little teaching of temperance during the past 12 years, he said, only education in temperance will bring about prohibition.

As in the past, the Kiwanis club will supply Christmas dinners for 12 Wichita Falls needy families, and at the Monday meeting Roy Grimes, sunshine committee chairman, appointed 12 committees to be in charge of providing food for 12 families named by the Family Relief association. Committee chairmen are W. R. Creamer, M. A. Ellis, Lawrence Elkins, Jasper Ferguson, Pat Hardage, Fred Lane, Ray Patton, Eli Morgan, Ed F. Riley, Paul Stokes, M. E. Wallace and Dr. G. F. Swarts.

By acclamation, club members voted to hold the Dec. 26 luncheon in connection with the Tuesday, Dec. 27 board of directors meeting.

Group singing was led by William E. Young, and J. L. Jackson Jr., pronounced the invocation. Dr. O. W. Wilson was program chairman. Oral Jones was a guest at the luncheon.

Services Wednesday For J. M. Roueche

Funeral services for James M. Roueche, 30, 1601 Twelfth, have been postponed from Tuesday until Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock pending the arrival of a surviving brother from Des Moines. Services will be conducted from the Sacred Heart church with the Rev. Father F. J. Schiessel, assistant pastor, officiating. The Dalton-Powell Funeral home will direct burial in the Sacred Heart cemetery.

Mr. Roueche died at the family home Sunday night after an extended illness. He had resided in this city since 1921, when the family moved from Salisbury, N. C. Mr. Roueche was employed in the area oil fields for several years until he enlisted in the army two years ago. He was discharge in February due to ill health.

Pallbearers will be Mose Thomas, Sam Wisdom, Harry Morgan, R. W. Okey, E. O. Albert, H. G. Schueler.

Survivors are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Roueche; three brothers, Thomas N. Roueche of Des Moines, Iowa, Richard and John T. Roueche of Wichita Falls; and four sisters, Miss Elizabeth Roueche of Greensboro, N. C., Mrs. Blanche Kimberlin of Wichita Falls and the Misses Mary and Ethel Roueche of Wichita Falls.

Final Tributes Paid To Mrs. Wiley Blair Sr.

Funeral services for Mrs. Wiley Blair Sr., former resident of this city, were held at 1:30 o'clock Monday afternoon from the home of a daughter, Mrs. J. R. Pelick of Fort Worth, with burial following in Dallas. Mrs. Blair died Friday night. She resided here for 20 years until about 20 years ago when the family moved to Dallas. Wichitans attending the services were J. Anderson Kemp, Mrs. Bertha Mae Booth and Mrs. W. Newton Maer. Survivors are the husband, three sons, two daughters and a sister.

Former Wichitan Killed In California Accident

Walter Cothran, former oil operator of this city, was almost instantly killed Sunday morning in an automobile accident at Redlands, Calif., according to word received by his mother, Mrs. L. A. Cothran of Wichita Falls. His wife was injured in the accident. Survivors are the widow and a son, both of Hollywood, Calif.; his mother, four sisters and a brother. Two sisters, Mrs. Mildred M. Jameson and Miss Dixie Cothran, reside here.

300 APPLY FOR 25 POSTAL POSITIONS

Application lists for extra help in handling Christmas mail at the postoffice here were closed Monday with more than 300 names listed from which 25 assistants will be selected. None of the additional clerks or carriers will be called to work before next week, Postmaster O. P. Maricle said.

Wichitans who expect to have packages delivered at their destinations by Christmas eve should begin mailing them this week. The postoffice department throughout the nation will observe a 48-hour holiday Christmas from midnight Saturday, Dec. 24, to 12:01 o'clock Tuesday morning, Dec. 27. Only special delivery letters or parcels will be handled during that period from the mass of incoming mail.

Steam Radiator "Blows Out"

High pressure steam at the home of John W. Harris, 1507 Garfield, blew a radiator cap in the residence at 2:45 o'clock Monday afternoon. A unit of the fire department answered the resulting alarm.

14,000 Turkeys Received

The Wichita Falls turkey market from Christmas demands ranged from 7 to 8 cents per pound Monday with leading shippers and buyers for local distribution reporting about 14,000 birds received during the day.

This Sign Out of Date

A sign that shouts 30 degrees colder inside from the front of a cafe in the 700 block on Scott has little appeal to the public of Wichita Falls during the current cold wave. The sign was installed several months ago before the cafe ceased operations.

Jubilee Pictures

Echoes of Wichita Falls' jubilee party in September were seen in the front cover of West Texas Today, official publication of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, when the December issue appeared Monday. The magazine carried pictures of two Denver railway locomotives taken here during the party and offering a comparison in motive development from 1882 to 1932.

Try Almost Any Street, Boys

C. B. McConnell, bailiff of the 78th district court, and Fred Stengel of the city police force are among the foremost exponents of ice skating in Wichita Falls. About four years ago, when this section endured arctic weather for several days, McConnell and Stengel spent many hours on the F. W. & D. railway tank just south of the city. On a wide, glassy straight-away paralleling the embankment, they cut figure eights, eagles, stars and other artistic patterns while the heavy ice endured.

Not Worth a Dime

Blame it on the weather. A young farmer was fined $1 and costs Monday morning by Judge Irvin J. Vogel in the county court at law for having engaged in a fight at a country dance recently. He debated his course of action—avowedly not having money to pay the fine and costs. The court kindly advised that for an added cost of 10 cents, he might file motion for a new trial—which at least would give the defendant until Feb. 1 to pay the bill imposed Monday.

The defendant then conferred with his older brother.

"There's no work to do now on the farm," quoth that counselor, "with this snow and ice—you might as well go to the jail and lay out your fine and costs—all you could do now at the farm is loaf."

The youth forthwith began a term of 21 days in the county jail.

Howard Battles Flu

Arthur C. Howard, county tax collector, was still confined to his home Monday with illness of more than a week's duration.

Medical Examiners Warn of Fakes

An appeal to the public of Wichita Falls was received Monday by the chamber of commerce from the state board of medical examiners warning against a series of rackets now current in Texas. Any unknown physician who operates in a community should be checked through the district clerk's office to see if he has filed an approved license, if not he should be ousted by action of the district attorney, the appeal said. The warning stressed operation of lecturers of psychology, dietetics, life prolongation, rejuvenation or similar subjects and following lectures with high-priced offers for fake treatment.

Sleds and Skates in Demand

In its third day of sub-freezing weather, Wichita Falls began to go "winter-minded" by way of sports Monday. Local hardware stores reported the sale of several pairs of ice skates—a rare event in this locality—plus a number of sleds. Workshops and garages at private residences, however, have resounded with hammer and saw constantly since Saturday morning as innumerable sleds have been constructed hastily for the emergency.

What a Man!

County Commissioner M. A. Bundy proved himself a ministering angel Sunday to numerous motorists whose course carried them by way of the steep hill at the west end of Tenth street. None succeeded in the ascent. Too many negotiated the descent—for on the glassy incline their cars became merry-go-rounds. One overturned as it left the pavement. Then Mr. Bundy arrived with 1,200 pounds of salt, and labored with great fervor for 30 minutes spreading the chemical upon the icy roadway. Since then motor travel has been unexciting on the Tenth street hill.

And Was His Face Red?

Police Chief Dick Morris didn't break the camera when he was posing for Bertillion Expert Jimmie Gonzales at police headquarters Monday afternoon, but in the excitement of the "sitting" Mr. Morris' suspenders snapped. The chief required both hands to make his way downstairs to his office where the damage was repaired.

Penney Manager Ill

J. F. Luke, manager of the J. C. Penney company store here, was confined to his home Monday following an attack of the flu.

Hospital Patients

S. W. Dudley of K. M. A.; Paul Murray, 1704 Beverly drive; and J. L. Helms, 300 Polk; were admitted to the Wichita General hospital Monday for medical treatment.

On Taxpayers Honor Roll

The following persons and firms were added Monday by city officials to the honor roll of those who have paid all or part of their 1932 city and school taxes:

V. S. Fraser, J. S. Swain, C. A. Tidwell, William McKemie Jr., C. H. McClelland, J. M. Bland company, John P. Ryan, Will Gambell, B. B. Christy, R. L. Stanbury, Reno Oil company, Wichita Falls Medical Arts building, J. A. Lantron, E. W. Shaw, G. B. Garrison, J. P. Searles, North Texas Utilities company, and Eugene Leopold.

Flu Victims

Sonny Davis, son of Mrs. Dora Davis, 1619 Elizabeth street, was absent from classes at Austin school Monday because of illness with influenza.

Frank Wolf was forced to bed Monday following an attack of the flu.

Ice Hampers Crooks

"The quietest week-end in many months," was the comment of Police Chief Dick Morris Monday on the lack of reports of activity of underworld characters. Not a report of a loss Sunday or Sunday night had been filed late Monday. "Too slick for em to risk getting away," was the statement of officers.

Vogel Hears Guilty Pleas

Six pleas of guilty were accepted by Judge Irvin J. Vogel in the county court at law Monday morning after the criminal docket set for this week had been called.

One defendant was fined $1 and costs for alleged use of narcotics; two drew similiar penalties for vagrancy; another $1 and costs for swindling by check; one $5 and costs for violation of the state sanitary laws; and one youth was fined $1 and costs for disturbing the peace.

Several misdemeanor cases were postponed because of the illness of state witnesses, it was said.

JUDGE CARRIGAN BREAKS ARM IN FALL ON ICE

Judge A. H. Carrigan, 1100 Austin, well known Wichita Falls attorney, received a broken left arm above the wrist Monday when he fell on the icy pavement as he returned to his office on Eighth street. Judge Carrigan was reported resting well at his home Monday night.

Overcoat Stolen From Office

Lemar Turner, Continental Refining company representative, told police Monday his overcoat, valued at $40, was taken from his office in the Hamilton building. He posted a reward of $5 for its recovery.

Auto Stolen

J. N. Hobbs, 807 North Broadway, reported loss of his dark green 1928 model Chevrolet coupe from the 700 block on Ohio about 10 o'clock Monday night.

Prowler

Patrol officers answered a "prowler" call to the 2200 block on Holliday Monday night only to find a house cat anxious to enter the residence.

WORK FOR BOARD

County Prisoners to Break Rock for Roads In Electra Area

Road-building in the Electra precinct from native rock will utilize the services of at least some Wichita county prisoners after Jan. 1, according to plans announced Monday by H. H. Haynes, precinct 4 commissioner.

Mr. Haynes declared his intention to use 25 prisoners in quarrying rock for road-surfacing. Before beginning their reduction of rocks for road-building purposes, Mr. Haynes said, the prisoners will build themselves a rock house.

According to the special road district laws for this county, employment of county prisoners for labor on the roads is mandatory upon the county commissioners.

Railroads Would Extend Wage Cut Indefinitely

CHICAGO, Dec. 12. (AP)—Railroad executives proposed today an indefinite extension of the 100 per cent wage cut now in effect, and tossed fuel for conflict into the joint wage conference.

Spokesmen for the shop workers and trainmen expressed fear such a plan would facilitate a reduction in the basic wage, which has remained unchanged during the last year; or that it would lead to a reduction greater than 10 per cent.

Under the agreement signed last winter, railway employes acceded to a temporary reduction of 10 per cent until next Jan. 31. The present conference was called by the railroads to deal with a new agreement beyond that date.

City Council Votes On New Ordinances

Routine business occupied the city council in a brief executive session Monday night, with Alderman C. E. McCutchen acting as mayor protem in the absence of Mayor Walter Nelson Jr., who is ill at his home with influenza.

Carl W. Lane was granted a chauffeur's permit for operation of a 15-cent taxi.

Two ordinances were passed on second reading. One forbids the erection of any all-metal buildings within the fire limits here, and the other provides for semiannual inspection of electric wiring in buildings in the fire zone.

Alderman J. M. Spoonts also was absent.

Fascist High Official Dropped From Council

ROME, Dec. 12. (AP)—By a decree of Premier Mussolini, Augusto Turati, former secretary of the Fascist party, has been dropped from the grand council membership.

He remains, however, a deputy of the party and also a lieutenant general in the militia, but it was considered possible he also would have to relinquish these honors.

His recent suspension from the Fascist party was attributed publicly to letters officials said he wrote. These, the leaders maintained, were of a scandalous nature.

Wichita Legionaires To Greet Commander

Epidemic Takes Big Toll In City Schools

A combination of low temperatures and influenza cut deep into ranks of the city schools Monday, Supt. H. D. Fillers stated. Absentee reports from the various schools totaled 2,414 pupils and 25 teachers.

The condition was comparable to the inroads of the flu epidemic of last February when a total of 2,594 pupils and 33 teachers were out at the peak of the wave.

The Washington negro school reported the largest group of absentees, with 296 out. Reports from other buildings listed the number of absent pupils as follows: Junior college, 270; Zundelowitz, 152; Reagan, 219; Alamo, 220; Austin, 203; Barwise, 79; Bowie, 59; Carrigan, 220; Crockett, 101; Fannin, 85; Franklin, 54; Huey, 125; Sam Houston, 117; San Jacinto, 136; Travis, 78.

Offficials Of West Texas Counties To Meet Relief Director Here

West Texas counties of the Wichita area have been invited to send representatives here Monday, Dec. 19, to meet with Relief Director Robert W. Kelso of the Reconstruction Finance corporation when applications for funds for January, February and March will be filed. Funds for this section were issued to county representatives for use in November and December at a meeting here early in November.

Details of handling applications were placed in charge of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce by Gov. R. S. Sterling, and Walter D. Cline of this city was delegated by President Wilbur Hawk of Amarillo to handle the initial requests at Austin. Mr. Cline was notified Monday that Mr. Kelso and Manager D. A. Bandeen of the regional chamber would arrive here Monday for the conference.

Mr. Kelso will discuss supervision of relief distribution in meeting with the area representatives.

The local committee for handling the R. F. C. funds through community agencies includes Mr. Cline, Jacob B. Price, John F. O'Donohoe, Linton H. Estes, Roy B. Jones, C. J. Coffey, A. E. Kelly, and Pat Simmons.

Mr. Kelso is an authority of public welfare and social relief work and is head of several service groups in the East.

Highway Officer To Collect Light Receipts

According to an order passed by the commissioners court Monday, J. B. Fitts, county highway officer, will take up from all headlight test stations in the county headlight test receipt books for 1931-1932, and station operators will purchase new 1932-33 books from the county auditor.

The order rescinded one passed one week previously, providing that station operators should bring their old receipts to the auditor's office.

The application of G. H. McAdams, 2222 Holliday street, this city, for permission to open a headlight test station was granted, and his $500 bond was approved. The court approved also the $500 bond submitted by W. A. Kennemer, who operates a test station at the corner of Monroe and Avenue F.

The court passed another order fixing the number of allowable headlight test stations at 10 for precinct 1, three for precinct 2, three for precinct 3, and three for precinct 4.

The bond of the county tax collector for 1933 to the state was set at $35,000, and to the county at $20,000.

Man Who Fell in Pit Of Volcano Recovering

EL PASO, Dec. 12. (AP)—Berlyn Brixner, 21, El Paso, who was injured in a 150-foot plunge to the bottom of a volcano blowhole near Afton, N. M., 57 miles west of here, Sunday morning, remained unconscious tonight. Doctors felt assured of the youth's ultimate recovery, especially when infections feared as a result of a five-inch scalp wound had not set up.

Brixner fell to the bottom of the shaft when a small rope with which he was being lowered into the cavern snapped in two. He was rescued six hours later.

A Bargain in Beauty

It's a Hollywood trick—they do it with mirrors. So here are two profiles and a silhouette of Sari Maritza, imported star, all wrapped up in one bargain of beauty.

Committee To Plan Selection Of Best Citizen

Thirty-four leaders of Wichita Falls organizations and civic groups will meet at 12:10 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the Wichita club for organization leading to selection of the recipient of the annual best citizen loving cup. The group will be guests of the Wichita Falls Advertising club, donors of the cup.

The club voted this year to award only one cup instead of two as in past years. The awards have been based on financial or philanthropic work for the city. The cup this year will be awarded at the annual chamber of commerce meeting Jan. 13.

All Wichitans are asked to cooperate in the selection and to turn in nominations and reasons to the special committee. W. M. McGregor and Grover Bullington were winners in 1931.

Bronchial Infections Need Creosote

For many years our best doctors have prescribed creosote in some form for coughs, colds and bronchitis, knowing how dangerous it is to let them hang on.

Creomulsion with creosote and six other highly important medicinal elements, quickly and effectively stops all coughs and colds that otherwise might lead to serious trouble.

Creomulsion is powerful in the treatment of all colds and coughs no matter how long standing, yet it is absolutely harmless and is pleasant and easy to take.

Your own druggist guarantees Creomulsion by refunding your money if you are not relieved after taking Creomulsion as directed. Beware the cough or cold that hangs on. Always keep Creomulsion on hand for instant use. (adv.)
