Weekend update

Debate Begins

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iran's Parliament today began an impeachment debate that is expected to write the political obituary of vanished President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr.

"There was more than the 180-man quorum to begin the debate," a spokesman for the 217-seat Majlis, or Parliament, told The Associated Press in Beirut by telephone.

The spokesman, who refused to give his name, said 23 opposition deputies boycotted the debate, as they said earlier they would.

Iranians are wondering where Bani-Sadr is — whether he fled the country or went underground to rally opposition to the Islamic hardliners demanding his ouster.

Butz To Serve

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — Former Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, the wisecracking friend of agribusiness, has two weeks to wind up his affairs before he joins the ranks of former Nixon men who have spent time behind bars.

Despite his lawyer's pleas, Butz was sentenced Friday to the maximum penalty for tax evasion: a five-year prison term and a $10,000 fine. But U.S. District Judge Jesse Eschbach said Butz will have to serve only 30 days in jail and will be on probation for the rest of the term.

Economy Slow Down

NEW YORK (AP) — The economy has slowed down under pressure from persistent high levels of interest rates and analysts are widely split on when growth will resume.

Business failures are up sharply, the number of Americans making late payments on mortgages is at a record high and a flurry of economic reports this past week all signaled a sluggish economy.

State Reps File Suit...

Court Halts New Districts

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas House version of a troublesome redistricting bill designed to remap legislative boundries has been halted in court — less than 24 hours after Gov. Bill Clements approved the plan.

A group of unhappy state representatives filed suit Friday contesting the plan and Rep. Al Luna, D-Houston, one of the plaintiffs, said a temporary restraining order halting implementation of the plan was issued.

The temporary restraining order prevents the plan from being enforced until court procedings are completed. A hearing on the order has been set for next Friday.

"I kind of figured it (the redistricting plan) would be tested soon," Texas House Speaker Bill Clayton said by telephone from his West Texas ranch when told of the suit.

The House version was approved by Gov. Bill Clements Thursday after he vetoed the Senate redistricting plan.

The suit challenges the House plan on the grounds that it cuts across 33 county lines, a violation of state law.

A similar suit in 1970 was upheld by the Texas Supreme Court when a redistricting plan set up legislative districts that crossed 33 county lines.

But Clayton said the state was not under the federal Voting Rights Act in 1970 as it is now and the state law might be superceded by federal statutes.

"I think it's going to be almost impossible not to cut across county lines," he said, adding that the House plan for legislative redistricting is "pretty well substantiated" in terms of population balance.

However, Luna disagreed, citing his home county as an example.

"It's obvious to me that the (Harris) county line was not cut for the permissable reason — to maintain equality of population and minimum deviation from the standard."

The Houston representative said Harris County could have been split up into 26 districts — all fitting the ideal standard of 95,000 people per district — without cutting across county lines.

"They took 45,000 people out of Harris County," Luna said. "I think the fact that we have the smallest districts as well as the largest in the state shows they were cut off for different reasons. I think that's why the judge issued the temporary restraining order."

He said the restraining order temporarily forbids cities or counties from drawing precinct lines based on the House plan.

Plaintiffs named in the suit in addition to Luna are State Reps. Robert Valles of El Paso and Matt Garcia of San Antonio.

Also named are H.G. Wells, a lawyer from Tarrant County, Dwight Christopher from Cherokee County; Seldon Hale of Potter County, Armando Lopez of Webb County, Juan Gonzalez, a lawyer from Nueces County and Anne Mauzy of Dallas County.

Luna said there also were "problems along racial lines" but he did not specify what the problems were and said the suit "didn't speak to that."

Gov. Bill Clements Thursday vetoed a Senate version redrawing legislative districts and threw his support behind the House plan.

Pyburn Chosen King For A Day

By PAULA PRYOR

Thomas N. Pyburn, 409 31st, was chosen as "King For A Day" by representatives of the Tejas CowBelles and The Snyder Daily News, sponsors of the Father's Day event.

Mr. Pyburn will receive a dinner for two at The Shack, a 10-12 pound brisket from Everybody's Thriftway and the All Beef Cookbook by the American National CowBelles.

Selected from a number of excellent entries written by sons and daughters, Pyburn was one of only two fathers who had more than one of his children to submit his name for the "King For A Day" contest.

This first letter was written by Elta LaVerne Bolin, a step daughter.

"He was a widower with three children and my mom a widow with two when on June 14, 1958 we became a family of seven. I was two and a half at the time and although he's not my natural father, I couldn't ask for a better one.

"He had taken on a big responsiblilty and, although there wasn't always money for the luxuries, he always made sure there was a meal on the table and a roof over our heads. He never made a difference in the way he treated us. We were all his.

"As the older kids married and left home there was an emptiness in our home. Since there was still plenty of love, Mom and Dad became foster parents. In September 1969, the first day of my freshman year, we added two foster boys to our family. When the boys went up for adoption five years later my dad jumped at the opportunity to make them legally a part of the family. My parents were also foster parents to several other children over the years.

"My dad still has lots of love to go around and is so good to stick by us in bad times as well as good. He seems to hurt whenever we hurt. He is father to 7, grandfather to 11 (plus any foster children I may have in my home), and will soon be a great-grandpa. I think my dad, Thomas Pyburn, deserves to be "King For A Day."

The second letter is from another step daughter, Tommie Lynne Reynolds.

"I think my dad should be 'King For A Day' because he is a very special person, not only to myself, but also to my two sisters and four brothers. Although he is my step father, he has a heart of gold. He not only took my sister and myself in after the death of our father, but also became a foster parent.

"After being a foster parent for several years he opened his heart again and adopted two little boys. Before retiring and leaving California 10 months ago, he was very active in coaching Little League and working in the church.

He's now the janitor at the Junior High School here in town. My dad has always been a very hard worker and a good provider for his family.

"He is still a very loving person and is a super grandpa to my baby. He is just a very special person all around, and these are just a few of the many reasons I feel my dad should be 'King For A Day.'"

Thomas, his wife, Johnnie and their family moved to Snyder in August of 1980. He had just retired from working 22 years at Dupont while living in Los Angeles County, Calif.

Pathologist To Assume Position At Hospital

By Shirley A. Gorman

James Weldon Howell, M.D., has recently moved to Snyder and will be assuming his duties as pathologist at Cogdell Memorial Hospital June 29.

This will be Howell's first non-service position in 27 years as he recently retired after 27 years in combined Navy and Air-Force service. The Howells have moved here from San Diego, Calif. where they have lived for the past 10 years.

Even though the position represents a change of pace for the new doctor (to a certain extent that it), Howell said they are "pleased to be in Snyder and are looking forward to associating not only with the medical staff at the hospital but with the people in the community as well."

The Howells are no strangers to West Texas as both Howell and his wife, Audrey, are natives of Lamesa. Mrs. Howell is the former Audrey Fay Sellers. In fact a desire to be closer to parents and other family members still living in Lamesa prompted Howell to accept the position at Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

But that was by no means the only factor since Howell said that after visiting in the hospital several months ago he was "impressed by the hospital, the administration and the fine medical staff."

Howell said they are also glad to be near Lubbock since a married daughter, Mrs. Debra Wheeler, lives there and another daughter, Nancy, will be a sophomore at Lubbock Christian College. A son, James Van, elected to remain in San Diego where he is working.

As a pathologist, Howell will study tissues (anatomic pathology), perform autoposies, and manage the labatory and blood bank. He will also serve as a consultant to other doctors in all matters pertaining to laboratory medicine.

Howell's office will be located in the hospital. Previously pathological services had been obtained in Abilene.

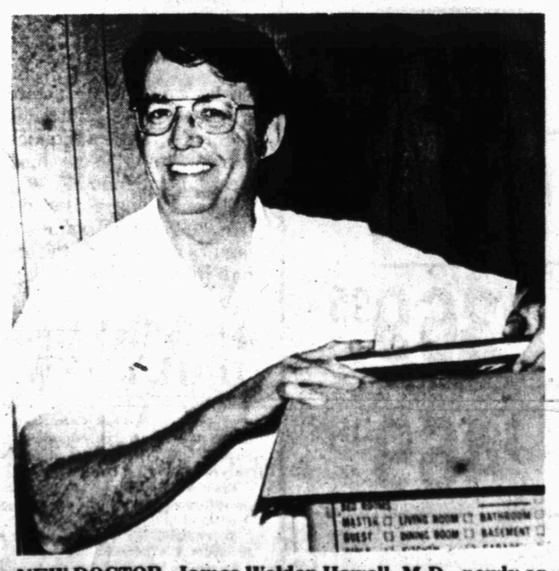

Howell is a member of Affiliated Pathology, P. A., based in Denton.

He has been interested in pathology since he was in high school. In fact Howard Harrington, who operates the Medical Arts Laboratory (located across from the hospital) gave Howell his first job in Lamesa in 1950. He started out as a dishwasher, later graduating from the simple to the more complex lab proceedures.

Howell majored in medical technology at Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene. Then he joined the Air-Force during the Korean War, serving as a medical technologist. At the end of the war, Howell attended the University of Texas, Southwestern Medical School in Dallas. Upon graduation he joined the Navy. Howell served his internship and residencies at the Naval Hospital In San Diego. He is a Diplomate of the American Board of Pathology in Anatomic and Clinical Pathology, the organization which certified him in 1970.

Howell joined the navy in 1962 and upon his recent retirement was a captain in the Navy's Medical Corp.

For several years he took a short hiatus from duties as a pathologist to serve in the Submarine Service which he left in 1965. At that time he entered the pathology field again where he has been continuously involved ever since.

NEW DOCTOR--James Weldon Howell, M.D., newly arrived in Snyder, is quite busy unpacking and settling into his new home as is evident in this picture. Howell will serve as pathologist at Cogdell Memorial Hospital and will assume his new duties June 29. Howell and his wife, Audrey, have three children including a daughter, Nancy, who will live at home this summer prior to returning to college in Lubbock. They have recently moved from San Diego, Calif. (SDN Staff Photo)

Snyder school trustees met in special session at noon Friday and awarded a Snyder contractor the bid for repairs in the high school cafeteria.

T. E. Shelburne and Sons was awarded the bid for $18,589. Work is expected to begin immediately and will be ready for the beginning of school. No other bids were received.

Ask Us

Q. Why weren't the soil conservation signs in and around Scurry County kept up to date or repainted?

A. Erwin Pavlik, soil conservationist, said he knows of only one sign and that it's not that bad. He also advised the district board is considering erecting more signs in the future and they will be in charge of the maintenance.

Neither Side Optimistic

WASHINGTON (AP) — Neither side is expressing optimism, but at least the government and air traffic controllers are talking today in an effort to head off a threatened controllers' strike that would severely disrupt air travel.

The SDN Column

The major league baseball strike has caused all sorts of confusion. The owners are unhappy, the players are unhappy, and some of the fans are down right irate, according to reports from major league cities.

It also has affected fans who get their baseball by television, and these are in the majority. But for ESPN, the all-sports network, it proved to be an opportunity to jump in with a new offering. Mel Gilbert passed along some correspondence ESPN sent to SCAT, the local cable company, about its strike season of baseball. ESPN is carrying games of the International League, which is a triple A circuit just below caliber of the majors. These games will continue on weekends so long as the strike endures.

The reference to the International League caught our eye because we had not paid enough attention to minor league baseball the past few years to know that it still existed. This led to some memories of earlier days in professional baseball when the majors were merely something fans in this area read about in the papers. If you saw any professional baseball in person, it likely was the Class C or Class D variety, with possibly two or three chances each season to see a Class AA game in Dallas or Fort Worth.

In this area there were two minor leagues, the West Texas-New Mexico League, which had teams in Abilene, Lubbock, Amarillo, Lamesa, Albuquerque, etc., and the Longhorn League, with teams in Big Spring, San Angelo, Ballinger, Vernon, Midland and Odessa, Roswell and Artesia.

Then there was the Big State League, a Class B circuit, with some of the larger cities down the middle of the state, the East Texas League, the eastern counterpart of the West Texas-New Mexico League, and the Gulf Coast League, with Corpus Christi, Harlingen, Brownsville, Port Arthur, etc.

Thus, at that time, Texas had about as many minor leagues as the whole country has today.

And true baseball fans were aware of organizations such as the Piedmont League, the Three-Eye League, the Southern Association, and the East Dixie League.

But, getting back to triple A baseball, as we recall there were three of these. In additional to the International League there were the American Association and the Pacific Coast League. Such cities as Los Angeles, San Diego, San Francisco and Seattle had triple A teams in those days, as did Minneapolis, Milwaukee, Kansas City, Toronto, Baltimore and Montreal. Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston and Atlanta had double A teams. All of these cities, which now are among the largest in the country, hardly dreamed of getting major league franchises in those days. Yet several cities in the East and Midwest had two major league teams apiece (Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, St. Louis) and New York had three (the Giants, the Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers).

And nobody dreamed they would see the day when there would be a baseball strike. Time does change things.

Refused To Answer Questions...

Man Jailed On Charge

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A lifelong friend who apparently has fallen out of favor with convicted killer Charles V. Harrelson has been sent to jail for refusing to answer grand jury questions in the Judge John Wood murder investigation.

George Edward "Pete" Kay, who said he has known Harrelson all his life, testified Friday he now fears that Harrelson will have him killed because Harrelson suspects he is an informant.

U.S. District Judge William S. Sessions ordered Kay jailed until the grand jury term ends on Sept. 25, 1982 unless he changes his mind and testifies, despite contentions by Kay that he could be killed if he answered the grand jury's questions.

Kay, 39, testified he still considers himself a friend of Harrelson, but that he fears that Harrelson would make good a threat to have him (Kay) slain. Kay testified two other convicted killers had shown up in Houston asking about him in the past month.

After a 3½-hour hearing, however, Sessions said that higher courts had ruled that fear of reprisal was no justification for refusing to testify.

Kay pleaded the Fifth Amendment during three grand jury appearances, the last time on Thursday, despite being granted immunity from prosecution. He said the government had forced him into deciding between "death or jail."

Kay became the third person in as many months jailed for contempt as the grand jury concentrated its investigation on Harrelson and convicted narcotics trafficker Jimmy Chagra, their families and friends.

Harrelson's stepdaughter, Teresa Starr Jasper, has been jailed since March 27 and a Chagra associate, Earl McLennan, has been incarcerated since May 8 after they refused to answer grand jury questions under immunity.

Kay's attorney, James Moore of Houston, called a Treasury agent who arrested Harrelson last year and Kay to back up his contention that Harrelson threatened Kay, Moore and the agent on Sept. 3, 1980.

Agent George Michael Taylor, attached to the Alcohol, Firearms and Tobacco Division at Houston, said while he was transporting Harrelson from Van Horn to Houston last year that Harrelson asked him to "relay to Mr. Kay that he would get even with him in his own way; he was either going to personally settle the score, and if he couldn't do it, he would get someone else to."

Taylor said he also had arrested Harrelson on Feb. 1, 1980, in Houston on state narcotics, weapons and gambling paraphernalia charges and that Harrelson suspected that Kay and Moore may have tipped off authorities prior to the arrest.

Kay later told reporters, "I have never been an informant and I never will be an informant," saying Harrelson's suspicions about him were unfounded.

The ATF agent said on May 22 that he informed Kay that Larry Culbreath, a convicted killer and friend of both Kay's and Harrelson's, had arrived in Houston and asked questions about Kay. Kay added that another convicted killer, Ronnie Weedon, was looking for him in Houston, but that Weedon had been missing three weeks and was thought to be dead.

Kay testified he believed Taylor's account of the threat and that Harrelson had referred to him as "Peterpottamus," a nickname Kay said his friends used "because I've always been kind of overweight."

"I think Mr. Harrelson would do what he said he would do," Kay told Sessions.

During his questioning of Kay, prosecutor John Emerson implied that "the true reason you don't want to appear (before the grand jury) is that you could be successfully prosecuted for perjury."

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb,M.D.

Too much tea is no help

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I saw your column about sleeping pills. I have been having trouble sleeping and must have some help. I am 20 years old and have a very bad habit of drinking a lot of tea. I drink from three to five quarts of tea. I don't get to sleep until 2 or 3 a.m. I am a very nervous person. I jump when my husband touches me, and I get scared easily. I would like to see a psychiatrist for my nerves but we can't afford it.

DEAR READER — Judging from the rest of your letter you really have some emotional problems that need professional help. Why don't you look in the Yellow Pages of your phone book under "mental health" and see what services are available in your community. Call one or more and perhaps they can help you arrange to get some help despite your financial problems.

I'm sure you have read my comments on coffee from time to time. Tea has many of the same effects because it also contains caffeine and some other similar drugs as well. The amount you are drinking is like taking a large amount of nerve stimulants, just the opposite of what a nervous person needs. I would suggest you taper off by decreasing the concentration of the tea and substituting water for tea until you get off it. Regardless of the basis for your problems, the amount of tea you are drinking only makes matters worse.

To give you more insight about this I am sending you The Health Letter number 14-4, Controversial Beverages: Coffee, Tea, Colas and Chocolate. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Most sleeping pills contain drugs that depress brain functions or alertness. Caffeine has just the opposite effect. Rather than taking sleeping pills you should stop drinking tea. Your insomnia is probably related to your anxiety, which in turn is based on your early life experiences you mentioned in the rest of your letter.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband, a particularly healthy 27-year-old man, refuses to eat anything from either the fruit or vegetable group. Since we have young children this is very upsetting to me. He reads your column so please tell him the dangers of not eating anything from either of these groups.

DEAR READER — I gather he is a bread and meat man. He will be short on both vitamins and minerals if your description is correct.

His diet is deficient in vitamin C. Perhaps you can talk him into drinking a glass of fruit juice for breakfast. While there is a lot of misinformation about vitamin C and the common cold or curing cancer, which you can ignore, it is still true that vitamin C in adequate amounts is essential to health. Without it he can develop scurvy which will cause major dental problems. Smokers need more vitamin C than nonsmokers because cigarette smoking destroys vitamin C.

He is probably deficient in folic acid, a vitamin found in leafy vegetables. This deficiency will be masked by vitamin B-12 which he is getting in the other food groups but he will still have a tendency to have digestive problems without it. Beyond this are the minerals in these groups that he needs and, of course, the bulk for normal digestive functions.

YAZOO CITY, Miss. (AP) — Authorities say foul play is suspected in a freight train derailment that sent two people to the hospital and forced brief evacuation of up to 750 residents.

Museum Plans 3 Group Tours

Group tours for adults interested in visiting Fort Concho, the Ranching Heritage Center and the Petroleum Museum are being planned by the Scurry County Museum at Western Texas College.

Dr. Harry Krenek, history professor at WTC, will be the tour guide. Cost will be $7.50 for one tour or $20 for all three.

Fort Concho in San Angelo is first on the schedule, and is to be visited on July 14. Located on the banks of the Concho River, the fort served as an Indian wars army post from 1867 to 1889. Seventeen original structures still stand at the fort, along with several reconstructed buildings. The museum's collections include military and Indian artifacts, local memorabilia, a 2,500-volume reference library and a photographic collection.

Next on the schedule is the Ranching Heritage Center in Lubbock on July 21.

The Ranching Heritage Center is an authentic outdoor exhibit depicting the history of ranching in America's west through the restoration and furnishing of notable historic ranch structures moved to a 12-acre site adjacent to and a part of the Museum of Texas Tech University. It is of special interest locally because one of the buildings chosen for the Center is the Harrell House from Scurry County, donated by Fay Harrell and Myrtle Harrell. Edith Whatley McKanna of Fluvanna donated the furnishings for a parlor named in her honor, located in the DeVitt and Mallett Ranch Building which serves as a visitor orientation center.

Other buildings on the site include the blacksmith shop from the Renderbrook-Spade Ranch in south Mitchell County, the U Lazy S carriage house from Garza County, and the office building from the Matador Ranch property in Motley County.

Ther Permian Basin Petroleum Museum in Midland will be visited on July 28. Dedicated to the petroleum industry and the men who mine the black gold, this unique museum traces the development of the hydrocarbons from the Permian Sea, some 300 million years ago, to the most modern technology of extracting it. The world's largest marine diorama terminates a tape-guided tour. The museum is located on Interstate 20 West, and equipment displays have been placed on land surrounding the building.

Persons interested in the tours are to call the museum office at 573-6017 as quickly as possible to make reservations so arrangements can be completed. Tours for youngsters offered through the museum's Kollege for Kids have proved very popular this summer and the museum has received some inquiries about similar trips for adults. Krenek has also conducted the youth tours.

Quilt Display Offers Trip On Memory Lane

A visit to the quilt exhibit in the Scurry County Museum is like a trip down memory lane.

There one may see old favorites as the Cockscomb, an appliqued Double Wedding Ring, the Texas Star, a String Star a Dutch Doll, and the Nine Patch. The quilts are displayed in the lobby and the multi-purpose room and each is numbered so viewers can identify them with the aid of a master list to be borrowed at the information desk.

The exhibit opened last Sunday and is to continue through July, and it has already attracted several out-of-town visitors as well as local residents.

For those who make quilts, or who would like to try their hand at it, the museum has reproduced 17 quilt patterns and has them for sale at 30 cents per packet.

Most of the quilts on display are keepsakes from many past years, with 19 of them believed to have been made before 1900. These include a Rising Sun (1876), Cockcomb (1880), Royal Japanese Vase (1876), Dahlia (1880), Drunkard's Path (1875), Triple Irish Chain (1880), Crazy Patch (1888), Spider Web (1870), Ocean Waves Friendship (1895);

Also Flower Garden Applique (1865), String Star (1875), Cactus Basket (1877), Nine Patch (1858), New York Beauty (1860), Drunkard's Path Variation (1875), Lone Star (1880), Double T (1870), Oak Leaf and Reel (1890) and Number One Star (1865).

Several of the quilts have come into the museum's own collection. Donors include William C. West, Mrs. W.E. Loyd, Mrs. Edith Whatley McKanna, Florentz Winston Joyce and Dorothy Winston Casey, Frances Daniel, Esther Boren, Mrs. Lee Stinson, Bess Johnston and Janelda Davis.

Loaning quilts for the current exhibit are Mrs. Eldon Perry, Oleta Jackson, Ollie Clements, Mrs. Boss Baze, Frances Daniel, Ethel Boulware, Nelda Bills, Mrs. Melvin Newton, Jr., Roxie Soules, Jay Richburg, Suzanne Turner, Mrs. Alpha Jean Pylant;

Also Hattie Gatlin, Ruby Butts, Rosalee McGlaun, Otha McIntosh, Kathy Illene Tyler, Mrs. Roy Reeder, Gaylene Harrison, Lanette Patterson, Mrs. W. H. Jones, Sr., Mrs. Ruby Patterson, Ione Vaughn, Mrs. Ed Fenton, Mrs. Hugh Taylor, Thaba McMillan, Polly Harpole Phillips, Ida Hale, Sally Tate, Mrs. Paul Turner, and Ben and Paula Miller.

QUILTS GALORE—Quilts of every hue spill over display racks and hang from the walls of the Scurry County Museum at Western Texas College these days. There are 78 in all, ranging in age from those made before 1900 to some completed this year.

In 1977, an attempt to overthrow the government of Bangladesh by dissident soldiers failed at the cost of 100 lives.

Search For Titanic Is On...

Treasure Hunt Is Stalled

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — The race to find the Titanic is still on — but a treasure hunt, made possible only by the use of a special craft, is not, says Texas millionaire oilman Jack Grimm.

Last year, Grimm financed a search for the ill-fated ship that sank April 15, 1912 on its first voyage from England to New York. The expedition spotted 14 possible sites for the wreck in 15-mile by 20-mile area off the coast of Newfoundland.

Grimm and a crew of 38 will leave Halifax, Nova Scotia on July 3 for a 19-day trip on Texas A&M University's research vessel "Gyre."

But Grimm told the Abilene Reporter-News that he must delay plans to explore the Titanic's hull for treasure — millions of dollars in jewels and other artifacts — because he can't get the proper craft to do the job 12,000 feet under water.

In a copyright story in Friday's editions, the newspaper said Grimm could not get use of the Seacopter or the Aluminaut.

Grimm had planned to use the Seacopter — a cross between a helicopter and a submarine — in the underwater exploration. But the craft's inventor, Fred Koehler Jr. of Coral Gables, Fla., decided he'd try to beat Grimm to the Titanic using his Seacopter.

Since the wreck is in international waters, nothing prevents Koehler — or anyone else — from plundering the wreckage if he arrives there first, Grimm said.

Grimm also had planned to use the Aluminaut, the largest deep diving submersible, to reach the Titanic. But owners of the craft, Reynolds Aluminum, would not allow its use before the sunken ship is actually located.

"Mr. (J. Louis) Reynolds, chairman of Reynolds Aluminum, didn't want to reactivate it until we had found the wreck," Grimm told the newspaper.

CRMWD Revenue Is Above Budget

Revenues are running over budget estimates and expenses under through May for the Colorado River Municipal Water District. However, with the summer peaking season approaching, expenses may rise slightly more rapidly than revenues because of the much higher power costs.

Revenues of $756,779 in April were up slightly, and through the first five months of the year revenues of $3,451,767 were up to $307,000, or nearly 9.1 per cent. Expenditures through May were $1,872,581, which was $176,318 under budget estimates, or 8.61 per cent, for the period.

This was due largely to expenditures of $1,136,452 for electric energy, same being $154,000 or 11.97 per cent less than budgeted for the five-months period. However, power costs were up $381,000, or 33.54 per cent, over the same time a year ago. One reason was a 40 per cent increase in fuel adjustments for power during the past two months.

Total sale of water amounted to 1,592,959,000 gallons in May and 6,065,792,000 gallons through May. This was 135,000,000 gallons more than through May 1980. Cities used 5,086,915,000 gallons, or 75,009,000 gallons less, but oil companies more than wiped out this loss by taking 978,877,000 gallons, or 210,766,000 gallons more than through May of last year.

For May this year 1,176,624,000 gallons of the total supply, or 73.96 per cent, came from Lakes J.B. Thomas and E.V. Spence. During the first five months, 5,036,963,000 gallons, or 82.98 per cent, came from the lakes. In May 1980 only 60.26 per cent came from the lakes, and for the five-months period 68.52 per cent. This was logical because at the end of May this year the two lakes together contained 337,000 acre feet of water, whereas a year ago the total was only 141,078 acre feet.

Dear Abby

Husband's Brief Encounter Provokes Wife to Brawl

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I have been married to this man for six years and I don't think he loves me anymore. I came home early from work one morning and I found my husband and this woman together. She was wearing my best nightgown. I lost my temper and tore into her, until the police came and broke it up. They took her away to the emergency hospital to repair some cuts and bruises I had given her, as she was in a pretty bad way.

The next day when I was straightening up the house I found all her underwear on top of the TV. I still have it. What should I do with her underwear?

BERNICE

DEAR BERNICE: Hang on to it. She may be back.

DEAR ABBY: I am enclosing an article that I cut out of your column in the Portland Oregonian I don't know how many years ago. Twenty, maybe. As you can see, it is yellowed with age and falling apart. I am 81 years old and live alone. My children live close by and are very good to me. How I wish all older people would try to follow what this article says! Please print it again. Thank you.

DAISY S., PORTLAND

DEAR DAISY: With pleasure:

PRAYER FOR THE AGED

"Lord, Thou knowest better than I know myself that I am growing older, and will some day be old.

"Keep me from getting talkative, and particularly from the fatal habit of thinking I must say something on every occasion.

"Release me from craving to try to straighten out everybody's affairs.

"Keep my mind free from the recital of endless details — give me wings to get to the point.

"I ask for grace enough to listen to the tales of others' pains. Help me to endure them with patience.

"But seal my lips on my own aches and pains — they are increasing and my love of rehearsing them is becoming sweeter as the years go by.

"Teach me the glorious lesson that occasionally it is possible that I may be mistaken.

"Keep me reasonably sweet; I do not want to be a saint — some of them are so hard to live with — but a sour old person is one of the crowning works of the devil.

"Make me thoughtful, but not moody; helpful, but not bossy. With my vast store of wisdom, it seems a pity not to use it all — but Thou knowest, Lord, that I want a few friends at the end."

AUTHOR UNKNOWN

DEAR ABBY: The fact that too-tight jeans may cause male sterility is nothing new. I wrote this little jingle back in 1970:

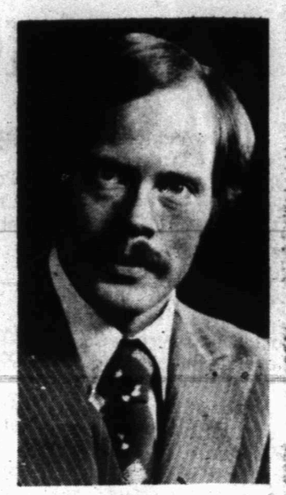

"If your jeans are too tight in the crotch
"Your parental potential is bad.
"Better let out your seams just a notch
"If you hope to be somebody's dad!"

UndecidedVotersCould Swing French Election

PARIS (AP) — Polls indicate France's Socialists are on the verge of extending their presidential victory to control of the National Assembly as the country prepares for Sunday's second and final round of legislative elections.

But conservatives are making a last-ditch effort to woo undecided voters and deny President Francois Mitterrand the legislative majority he wants.

The Socialists, whose May 10 presidential victory gave France its first leftist government in 23 years, won 49 seats in the 491-seat assembly in first-round voting June 14. They are favored to win 202 more in the final round.

But 30 percent of the voters — more than twice the usual number — did not cast ballots in the first round, making a Socialist majority difficult to predict.

"Everything thus depends on Sunday — the battle is not lost," said Paris Mayor Jacques Chirac, who leads the conservatives. Chirac ended the six-week legislative election campaign Friday urging undecided voters to prevent a Socialist victory.

Conservatives argue their economic policies must be continued to slow France's 13.6 inflation rate. They say a leftist majority will empty the treasury with more spending and fail to increase national production.

Mitterrand says conservatives raised unemployment from 2.5 percent to 7.5 percent and lowered France's standard of living. He dissolved the old assembly with its conservative majority, forcing elections in the hope of seating a leftist majority to back his programs.

These include raising the minimum wage, increasing social benefits, raising taxes on the rich, creating new public service jobs and lowering the work week to 35 hours.

France has no precedent for a president and legislature of opposing parties.

The Communists, who had hoped to win enough seats to force the Socialists to include them in the government, did badly in the June 14 voting and could lose half their 86 assembly seats.

On the right, Chirac's Gaullists and former President Valery Giscard d'Estaing's Union for French Democracy won a combined total of 50 seats in the first round.

Mulligan's Stew...

Columnist Writes 500th One

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Crash the cymbals. Send Roman candles soaring into the firmament amid shouts of "huzzah," "gadzooks" and "ole," to say nothing of "begorrah," which is considered stage Irish.

This is the quingential Mulligan's Stew column. No. 500 rolling off an assembly line of expert phrase crafters, participle hangers and word-mongers whose painstaking, precision workmanship would stir envy in the hearts of quality control engineers at a Rolls-Royce plant.

Think of it: 500 columns, from this very typewriter. I never dreamed there were that many original — well, often original — ideas at large in the world. Many of the letters arriving here at Hardscribble House, the mother house of Mulligan's Stew, are concerned with the question of ideas.

Readers ask: "Where do you get your ideas?"

Editors ask: "Why don't you get some?"

In its 500 manifestations, Mulligan's Stew has been brought to you from such exotic climes as Bora-Bora (did I hear a yawn?), a Hong Kong tattoo parlor, the floors of both the Republican and Democratic convention, the playing fields of Plains, Ga., with the president of the United States on the mound for the home team against the White House press, from the Rock of Corregidor to the yak butter lamp lit corridors of the Potala, the Dalai Lama's fantastic winter palace in Lhasa, Tibet, where with exquisite timing I managed to be on the very same day that the Dalai Lama was in St. Patrick's Cathedral just up the street from The Associated Press building in New York.

In a ceaseless search for chewy tender shoots of trivia, the chef de potage here at the Stewworks has flown the supersonic Concorde as well as the brownbag Skytrain, fidgeted through an entire performance of a revolutionary ballet in Peking, visited yet another agricultural commune in the People's Republic, reported on a Canton restaurant that specializes in snakes, roared down a boulder-filled river on New Zealand's south island in a jet boat (high on the list of things never to be done again), bet and lost on the queen's horse at Royal Ascot, watched George Bush outsnow a blizzard in the New Hampshire primary by delivering the same speech 14 times in the same day, sampled the first of Gore Vidal's home grown wine at his villa in Ravello, ordered pizza by the meter at Vico Equense in the shadow of Vesuvius and daringly outwitted raccoons, a nervous skunk, predator squirrels and bill collectors right here in our own backyard.

The problem is: what shall I write about tomorrow? Obviously Scarlett O'Hara was never a columnist or she wouldn't have been so cussedly optimistic about the future.

Owls, Hawks Eat Rodents

SATELLITE BEACH, Fla. (AP) — There are no barns in this Central Florida coast town, but barn owls, great horned owls and red tail hawks are thriving, welcome guests.

The winged predators have been appointed to city jobs by municipal officials. They are rodent exterminators — a dusk-to-dawn position with only one important fringe benefit: all the rats they can eat.

Since 1978, Satellite Beach has enlisted 14 hawks and owls to control its rodent population. They swoop down on rats, mice and gophers that roam beachfront neighborhoods.

And they are making good progress where traps and poisons failed.

"It definitely has an impact," said Acting City Manager Gene Sorensen. "I don't know how many they're eating every night, but we've had reported sightings of them catching rodents."

Nothing Positive From New York...

Strike Negotiations Break Off

NEW YORK (AP) - There will be no further negotiations in the baseball strike until federal mediator Kenneth Moffett detects some spirit of movement on one side or the other.

And there was nothing even faintly resembling that spirit Friday when talks broke off.

"We feel that until there is something of substance, to put on a charade that a lot positive is happening is fruitless," said Bob Boone of the Philadelphia Phillies, the National League player representative. "We're fresh out of ideas."

Boone, Mark Belanger of the Baltimore Orioles, Steve Rogers of the Montreal Expos, Cincinnati's Tom Seaver and Rusty Staub of the New York Mets formed the players' committee which met with Moffett, Ray Grebey and management's negotiating team for less than 90 minutes.

There was no change in the owners' position on free-agent compensation, the issue over which the union called baseball's first-ever mid-season strike which entered its ninth day today.

"We must have something of substance before we'll meet again," said Boone. "We've seen no new proposal. That's the stumbling block. We can't live with what they've got out there. We'll live without it."

Moffett, also involved in negotiations seeking to prevent a nationwide air traffic controllers' strike Monday, painted a gloomy picture in the baseball talks.

"It's futile and stupid going through the charade of getting together on a regular basis with no movement," Moffett said. "I had some indication of some movement before today. Obviously, it fell through.

"It's absolutely useless to keep them around the clock if there is nothing to talk about," he said. "When you do that, there are signs, nuances, indications that there is some willingness to make some moves and bargaining can go forward. I see none of that here. I see a waiting game, a long waiting game."

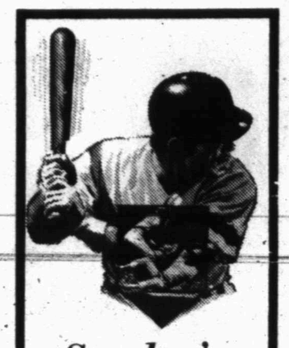

Seaver said management's position was destructive, not constructive.

"If they want to alienate the players, they've done a good job," he said. "We find absolutely nothing new from the owners' side. Their position is the same as it's been for 18 months. It leads you to believe the strike was forced and planned."

Glances Join Lester And Barry Again...

At Negotiating Table

By BILL McCLELLAN

"You know, Barry, there's just nothin' like America. Greatest country in the land, ya' know?

"Yeah...Hot dogs, apple pie, baseball."

"Can't include baseball anymore, Barry. Remember? They're still negotiatin' up there in New York. Here, here's the TV Guide. See what's on the tube this afternoon."

"I don't understand that, Lester. What is this negotiatin' anyway. What'sat mean?"

"Well, negotiatin' is the American way. That's like...well, take hot dogs or apple pie, for instance. Let's say you wanted some ice cream on your pie..."

"Vanilla."

"What?"

"Vanilla. I'll try vanilla ice cream on my pie."

"Okay, Barry. Vanilla. Now, say it costs 55 cents to put two scoops of vanilla ice cream on your pie. But say you just want one scoop. Just one, okay?"

"Okay. You don' wanta' drowned out the pie."

"Right. So you tell the waitress you'll give her 25 cents for one scoop. Then she'll probably say it'll be 30 cents, see? And you say 'I'll take it for 26 cents' and she says '29', and so on. Ya' see?"

"You mean we just argue back and forth like. Like when you tol' Madge you'd buy her that dress if you could go see the Rangers play and she wanted a dress and some shoes and you said 'a blouse and some shoes' and she said..."

"Uh, yeah. Sorta' like that, Barry. Only this baseball thing is a lot bigger."

"Yeah, well it would be. I mean lots of those players got wives...or girlfriends."

"No, no, Barry. They're not striking over blouses and dresses and things like that. They're striking because...well because...well, it has to do with compensation."

"Compensation?"

"Yeah. See when a baseball player leaves one team and goes to the next, the owners of the team he left just get a draft choice. They want an established player or something to compensate...uh, make up for that guy that left them."

"Well why didn't they just keep him in the first place, Lester?"

"What? Well, because maybe he can make more money somewhere's else. Just forget it, Barry. Look. It's called free enterprise or something like that and it's what they call the American Way. And nothin' can replace the American Way. Just remember that."

"Say, Lester?"

Yeah?"

"I think they found a way to replace it."

"Replace what"

"The American Way. Says in this here TV Guide that because of the baseball strike they're going to show a game between the Yoshimoto Wildcats and the Tokyo Tigers."

"Ain't there somethin' else on, Barry?"

"Yeah, there's a Canadian football game on, but I want to watch the baseball game."

"Uh, Barry. Why don't we watch the football game and when it's over we can switch to baseball? How's that?"

"No, no. Nope. I tell ya' what. We'll watch the baseball game and we can turn it over to football during the commercials."

"Look, that's not fair either. Why don't we watch...uh...20 minutes of baseball and then the rest football?"

"Uh-uh. No. We can watch 20 minutes of football and the rest baseball."

"Thirty minutes of baseball, the rest football and I'll compensate you with some ice cream. How's that?"

"With apple pie"?

Financial & tax planning

TAX BRACKET MISCONCEPTIONS

An individual in the 50% tax bracket does not pay 50¢ to the government out of each dollar he earns. Nor is it possible for $1,000 of additional income to cause your taxes to go up by $2,000.

Taxpayers pay at various percentages up to their "top bracket." The minimum tax bracket is 14% starting at $3,400 of taxable income and the maximum bracket is 70% on taxable income over $215,000. The taxable income is arrived at by deducting from adjusted gross income your itemized deductions and family exemptions.

A typical tax return with adjusted gross income of $31,000 might pay income taxes of $5,600. This individual is "in the 32% bracket;" however, his total income tax bill is 18% of his adjusted gross income. Remember the adjusted gross income is first reduced for various deductions and exemptions. Then income tax is paid at 14% on the first $2,100, 16% on the next $2,100, 18% on the next $4,300 and so on through the various brackets up to 32 percent.

An individual's top tax bracket represents the percentage at which the last dollar was taxed. Additional income could cause you to slide into the next higher bracket. However, this will not cause the income in any of the prior brackets to change in any manner whatsoever. The 32% bracket runs from $24,600 of taxable income to $29,900. If a 32% bracket taxpayer is at the very top of this bracket and earns an additional $1,000, it will be taxed at the next higher which is 37%. The prior $29,900 would still be taxed in its respective brackets.

I have often heard the statement, "I'm doing it because it's tax deductible." The 32% bracket taxpayer is only saving 32¢ out of each dollar spent, therefore, the decision should be made on the economics of the transaction, or the personal pleasure derived on the 68c of actual cost to the taxpayer.

Foster New Westerner Golf Coach

Bob O'Day, Western Texas College golf coach for 10 years, has resigned after taking the Westerners to a seventh place finish in the National Junior College Athletic Association Golf Tournament.

He will be replaced by Dave Foster, a former Westerner standout who has been an assistant coach at WTC since the fall of 1980.

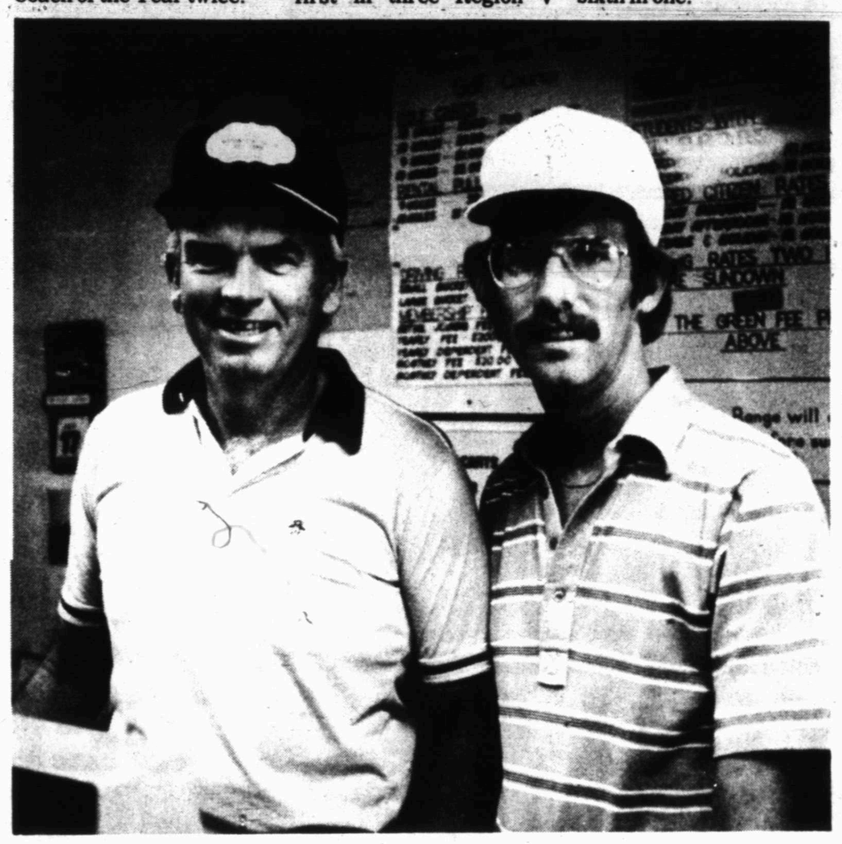

O'Day served as coach for the Westerners since the golf program was initiated in 1971. During that time he was selected Western Conference Golf Coach of the Year four times and Region V Golf Coach of the Year twice.

He sent a team or individual to the NJCAA National Tournament every year except 1978-79. His teams placed fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth at nationals, and placed first in three Region V meets, second in three others, third in two, and fifth and sixth once. Western Texas has won four WJCAC tournaments, placed second in three, third in two and fourth and sixth in one.

O'Day will remain at Western Texas as director of the golf course and golf shop, and new racquetball facilities. Foster will continue to assist O'Day in those areas, and they will work together in physical education classes.

Foster played for Western Texas from 1975-77 before transferring to Pan American University, where he played golf for one semester, then enrolled at Mary Hardin Baylor University and played for three semesters. He was graduated from Mary Hardin Baylor with a bachelor of arts in business management in May, 1980.

Foster was playing for the Westerners in 1976-77 when they finished ninth in the NJCAA National Tournament and was named to the All-Region team that season. He came to WTC as a freshman after graduating from Lake Highlands High School in Dallas and was Dallas District Golf Association city champion in 1979.

Burns Wrangles Lead; Nicklaus 3rd At Open

ARDMORE, Pa. (AP) - Defending champion Jack Nicklaus blew a share of the lead with a double bogey on the 16th hole and left big George Burns alone in the top spot Friday in the second round of the 81st United States Open Golf Championship.

Burns scattered seven birdies over the tiny greens of the historic, 6,544-yard Merion Golf Club course on the way to a 4-under-par 66.

That gave the jut-jawed, 31-year-old Burns a 2-round total of 135, five shots under par.

Playing well in front of Burns, the famed Golden Bear, Nicklaus, had it 5-under-par for the tournament when he went to the tee on the 430-yard, par-4 16th.

He got his drive just into the rough and drew a reasonably good lie.

"Unfortunately, it was a little too good," Nicklaus said. It prompted him to try to pick the ball off the grass with a 4-iron, and he came up too much on it, cutting the ball and sending it well to the right.

He had to chop the next one out of the rough, eventually reached the putting surface in five and one-putted from about six feet for a double bogey.

He was tied for third at 137 with journeyman Tommy Valentine, who also had a 68.

David Graham, a globe-trotting Australian and a business associate of Nicklaus, had a 68 and was alone in second at 136.

The group at 138 included former national amateur champion John Cook, Australian Greg Norman, Bill Rogers and Bill Kratzert. Norman, who first came to American attention with a strong showing in the Masters earlier this year, closed up with a 67. Rogers had a 68 despite a double bogey on the final hole. Kratzert had a 69, Cook 70.

Surprise first-round leader Jim Thorpe went to a 73 and dropped back into a group at 139.

Lewis Springs To Second Best Long Jump In History

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) - Carl Lewis, the amazing 19-year old University of Houston sophomore, uncorked the second best long jump in history, 28 feet, 7¾ inches Friday at the USA-Mobil Outdoor Track and Field Championships, but a strong wind will prevent the effort from receiving official recognition.

The wind at sun-baked Hughes Stadium was 4.57 meters per second when Lewis ran down the runway for his second attempt in the long jump qualifying. After fouling on his first try, he made certain he would get off a legal jump on his second attempt. And he was perfect.

Sailing gracefully through the air, he nearly jumped out of the pit.

The world record is 29-2½ by Bob Beamon at the 1968 Olympic Games in Mexico City's 7,200-foot altitude.

Davis Ready For Responsibility

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Gen. Bennie Davis, the Oklahoma native chosen by President Ronald Reagan to head the Strategic Air Command, says the Air Force needs the MX Missile System, B-1 bomber and other technological advances.

Davis told a news conference Friday he views as "an awesome responsibility" the command of 70 percent of the United States' primary nuclear force, but said he welcomed the task.

"I'm very honored that the president has seen fit to nominate me to become the next commander in chief of the Strategic Air Command," Gen. Bennie Davis said at Randolph Air Force Base.

"It's an awesome responsibility, one that entails the management, the leadership of our strategic deterrent, especially on the Air Force side. I'm looking forward to assuming that position."

Davis, a staunch supporter of the proposed MX Missile System, became the youngest four star general in the Air Force at age 50 when he was named commander of the Air Training Command headquartered at Randolph on April 1, 1979.

Born on May 12, 1928, in McAlester, Okla., Davis played tackle under Red Blake and Vince Lombardi at the Military Academy, then went on to a career in which he logged more than 8,000 flying hours as a command pilot.

He plans to turn over command of the ATC on July 29 to a person to be named next week, then officially succeed retiring Gen. Richard H. Ellis as commander of SAC on Aug. 1.

Davis, who will head the Air Force's largest major command containing 140,000 personnel, plugged the MX Missile System, production of the B-1 bomber and disagreed with critics of increased military spending.

He said he would be consulting this summer with high Defense Department officials to ready the Air Force's proposal to install the controversial MX system, to prevent the Soviet Union from obtaining an edge in nuclear delivery.

"In general I think we're ahead of the Soviet Union as far as our Air Force," Davis said.

HOW, WHEN TO WATER GARDEN

When, how and how much to water are common questions asked by gardeners.

Watering is one of the most enjoyable aspects of home gardening but it is also one of the most misunderstood. Misuse of water in your home garden often causes many problems, among them soil crusting, poor root growth, blossom drop, cracked fruit, nutrient deficiencies and various types of plant diseases.

Regardless of how you water your garden, remember to apply sufficient water to wet the soil to a depth of at least six inches. How often to water will depend on climatic conditions, rate of growth, stage of maturity of your garden, and soil type.

Check the soil, not the plants, to determine when to water your garden. Looking at plants for symptoms such as wilting to determine when to water is a serious mistake. Plants wilt for many reasons, such as diseases, too much fertilizer, heat, or perhaps too much water. If soil is relatively moist an inch or so, you don't need to water. Remember, heavy soils will need watering less frequently than sandy soils.

Most gardeners water by flooding or furrow irrigation. For this method to be effective, it is best to have plants on raised beds so water can go between them. With flood or furrow irrigation, apply water to soak the soil thoroughly.

Watering with a sprinkler is probably the most convenient method. It is simply a matter of placing the sprinkler where it can water the entire garden. Be sure to apply at least one inch of water at each watering. This can easily be determined by placing a coffee can in the sprinkler pattern and catching about an inch of water in it.

When using a sprinkler, turn it on early enough in the day to allow foliage to dry off before nighttime. Wet Foliage in combination with cool nighttime temperatures often results in serious types of foliage diseases.

Drip or trickle irrigation is a relatively new concept which is gaining popularity. This type of system literally drops water onto the soil surface near plants so that it seeps slowly into the soil. # Rock Ledge Has Welcome Mat Out

The tall shade trees at Edith Whatley McKanna's Rock Ledge Farm south of Fluvanna beckon visitors to stop and rest a while.

Hospitality is the watchword at Rock Ledge Farm, and Mrs. McKanna will be putting the welcome mat out once again July 2 when she, the Scurry County Historical Commission and Historic Scurry County, Inc., host "An Evening at Rock Ledge Farm."

Proceeds will go toward the restoration and furnishing of the Dodson House, a Snyder landmark recently moved to the coliseum grounds. Reservations are to be accompanied by a donation of $25 per person and must be made by June 29. Persons interested are to contact Mrs. Jess Everett at 573-2763, or Mrs. Buddy Drum at Margaret's.

The festivities on July 2 will get underway with a barbecue dinner soon after 7 p. m. Cold lemonade and tea cakes, traditional treats for visitors to Rock Ledge through the years, will be served before dinner.

The barbecue will be prepared by George Gann, director of food services for Prophet Foods at Western Texas College. Gann has been in the food business for about 35 years, and he personally selects the beef to be barbecued.

Diners will want to save room for homemade ice cream following barbecue and trimmings.

Entertainment will be provided during the evening by Randy and Barbara Perkins, square dancers from the Sparkle City Squares, and Hatley Lewis and the Western In-Betweens. Musicians in the band are Lewis on the rhythm guitar, Junior Camp on the lead guitar, Richard Beck on fiddle, Louie Vaughan on bass fiddle, and Dub Everett on piano and saxophone.

A variety of items will be sold at auction during the evening.

Mrs. McKanna will be official hostesss for the evening, a role she portrays with ease and charm. She enjoys telling her guests how her spacious home grew from a "shotgun" farm house, and the history of any special piece of furniture or ornament that catches the visitor's fancy.

Although Mrs. McKanna lived away from this area for spme years, she retained a keen interest in her Texas heritage. She has served on the local Historical Commission since 1966 and is a benefactor of the Scurry County Museum. The garden at the museum entrance was given by her in memory of her parents, Dan and Elizabeth Whatley.

She has been active in the preservation of ranching history though the Ranching Heritage Center at Texas Tech University and donated furnishings for an legant parlor which bears her name in the visitor reception center, the DeVitt-Mallett Ranch Building.

Her varied interests can be read through memberhsip in other organizations. She was a founder member of the Martha Ann Woman' Club and a charter member of the Women's Golf Association at the Snyder Country Club. She was a charter member of the Snyder Garden Club and is a life member of the Texas Garden CLub. She was the first woman in Texas to fly her own airplane, and she served as liason to the Civil Air Patrol during World War II, holding the rank of captain. Due in part to her success in the oil industry, she was named one of seven Outstanding Women of the Southwest in 1951.

Boy's Bike Is Stolen

County Tries To Destroy Pests...

Mosquito War Is Underway

Like most places in Texas, Snyder's recent heavy rains have helped breed a large crop of mosquitos that Louie Vaughan, county sanitarian, and his crew, are trying to stamp out — as they do every year.

"We're doing no more, no less, no different than we do each year," announced Vaughan. They treat standing water for the insect larvae and they spray for the adult mosquitos.

But the crew can only kill a certain percentage of the insects with the mild insecticide they use. Other factors contributing to the mosquito crop are the time and amount of insecticide and the amount of people available to combat the problem.

Other areas, such as Houston, are having problems with mosquitos that carry diseases that adversely affect humans. "Luckily, we aren't getting any of the pest type mosquitos," Vaughan said.

But mosquito season isn't over yet.

Vaughan explained that they could probably kill the whole crop if they sprayed from an airplane or if they used a stronger chemical. But stronger insecticides could harm other animals and possibly humans. "We don't want to take that risk," he said.

Vaughan said the health department receives anywhere from 0 to 30 calls each day from people complaining about the mosquitos or about the insecticide.

But he said the insecticide is too mild to bother anyone unless they have bad allergies and stated that someone could eat fruit out of an orchard an hour after it was sprayed and it wouldn't bother them.

Still, there are people who complain the spray makes them sick and people who complain because their yard wasn't sprayed enough. Said Vaughan, "Some people, if they saw the machine, it would bother them."

"But we try to comply with different people's wishes," he said. "It's a tax supported program."

Another problem to the sprayers is that the mosquitos hide under leaves during the day and the spray doesn't get to them very well. They try to treat standing water before the insects reach adulthood — but there's a lot of standing water in unlikely places.

"In East Texas you could fog an area real good," commented Vaughan. But the West Texas winds are a handicap to sprayers. The spray comes out of the nozzle at 100 mph "But you just can't spray against the wind. We kind of shoot it up in the air and try to estimate where it will land."

Vaughan thinks the people of Snyder could do more themselves to control the mosquito population by simple maintenance.

"The more lots that people mow, the cleaner they keep them and the less water they let stand, the fewer mosquitos they'll have."

Brown Bag Luncheon Set

The Scurry County Museum at Western Texas College invites the public to take a brown bag lunch break at noon Monday and hear a program by Dr. Don Newbury, WTC president.

Dr. Newbury will be speaking on "A President's View of Western Texas College."

There is no admission charge for the brown bag luncheons, and tea and coffee are furnished for those attending. Persons wishing further information may call the museum office at 573-6107.

Vital Fact Must Be Learned

HOUSTON (AP) — Most women still have to learn one vital fact about the art of business negotiations, says an expert on working women:

"It doesn't matter if the zipper is in the back or the front. If you're damned good, you better let someone else know about it."

The advice comes from Diane W. Bynum, owner of a consulting company that has worked with executives for the past 20 years.

Ms. Bynum and Walton H. Sharp, director of the Institute of Labor and Industrial Relations at the University of Houston, shared some of their secrets of employee-employer negotiations at a forum sponsored by a United Way agency and Tenneco Inc. Here are some techniques they recommended:

— Plan ahead. If you're looking for a salary increase or a promotion, start writing your own performance review from the first day in a new job, said Ms. Bynum.

— Careful attention to details of dress can indicate a meticulous attitude in other areas of your life. If the subject is business, show it with a sensible, business attire. But beware: an older, female supervisor may feel threatened by a stylishly dressed young woman in a suit, tailored shirt and tie. In that case, a simple dress might be more appropriate, the experts said.

— Don't bluff. "Don't ever issue ultimatums unless you're willing to back them up," said Sharp.

— Follow the Monday-Tuesday-Wednesday-and-Thursday-morning rule, Sharp said. "If negotiations are just beginning or a new, major item is being introduced, it is best to do it during the first three days of the week. On Thursday or Friday, most people are beginning to think about the weekend," he said.

— Displacement is a helpful technique of placing failure to be able to comply with the other person's request on an inanimate object, such as company policy. "This avoids having your opposite place blame on you personally for not achieving objectives," Sharp said.

— Don't be afraid to ask for a raise. "Don't expect management ever to volunteer salary increases," Ms. Bynum said. "You may not like the answers you get when you ask for one, but you'll have to do it."

— Be realistic. Ms. Bynum said nine out of 10 negotiators have unrealistic salary demands. "Check around and be prepared," she advises. But don't rely on coffee room gossip — check newspaper advertisements for salary guidelines.

Bell's Art On Display

Paintings by Liz Bell, Scurry County Artist of the Month for June, will be featured in the Scurry County Museum in an exhibit opening this afternoon.

The public is invited to a reception from 1-5 in the museum lobby.

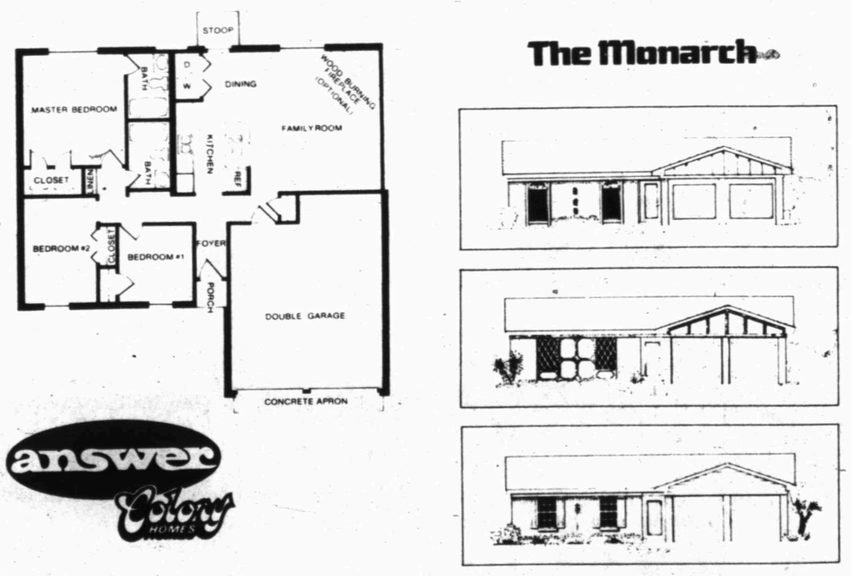

Also being featured in the museum is an exhibit of quilts and a photographic exhibit on loan from the National Park Service.

The museum is located on the south side of the Western Texas College campus and visitors may park in the West Parking Lot adjacent to the museum.

PAMELA CHRISTENE HODNETT
(Ted Bigham Photography)

Pamela Christene Hodnett became the bride of Kim David Robertson in an evening ceremony on June 20 in the Vincent Baptist Church. Rev. Ben Neil officiated the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Lanham Hodnett of Coahoma and the groom is the son of Mrs. and Mrs. M.D. Robertson of Sand Springs.

The alter held a fifteen-branch candelabrum decorated with pale yellow roses, baby's breath and greenery. Flanking each side of the altar were nine candles entwined with roses, baby's breath and greenery. The pews were marked with yellow bows and roses.

The musical program was presented by Mrs. Joe Pat Harding, organist, and Mr. LaRoy Shafer, solist. Mr. Shafer sang "Where There Is Love", "The Lord's Prayer" and "Whither Thou Goest". Mrs. Harding played the traditional wedding marches and provided the music for the reception.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in a white Alford Angelo gown of chantilly lace and satin ribbon. The natural waist bodice with sheer yoke had a high lace collar. A deep-V of satin and ruffles fell to the waist in the front and back. The sheer lace sleeves fell full above the wrist with a full ruffle of lace and ribbon. The A-line skirt was tiered with ruffles and ribbon ending in a chapel train. The waltz-length veil was on a Juliet cap edged with chantilly lace and ribbon.

In keeping with tradition, the bride had something borrowed, a lace hankerchief belonging to her great aunt, Mrs. Lester Owen; something blue, the names of the bride and groom embroidered in the hem of her dress; something old, a family ring belonging to her great grandmother, Mrs. John Hoffstetler, which her grandmother and mother had worn; and something new, her wedding gown. The bride also wore pennies in her shoes which were given to her by Clovis Phinney, Sr.

The bride carried a bouquet of yellow rose buds with baby's breath and silk ribbons. Upon entering the church, she presented her mother with a rose fom her bouquet and after the ceremony she did the same for the groom's mother.

After repeating their vows, the bride and groom lit a unity candle painted with yellow roses by the bride's mother.

Ms. Kellie Anderson of Coahoma served as maid of honor and Mrs. Jimmy Long, also of Coahoma, was matron of honor. They wore gowns of pale yellow eyelet. The bodice had a low ruffled neckline with a re-embroidered ruffle which was caught at the waist with a self bow in back. The floor length skirt had a re-embroidered hem.

They carried chantilly lace fans with pale yellow rose buds, baby's breath and satin ribbons.

Amanda Robertson, neice of the groom from Big Spring, was attired identically to the honor attendents and carried a white wicker basket filled with rose petals and potpourri.

Candle lighters were Dutch Barr and Brad Neill of Vincent.

Jimmy Long of Coahoma was best man and Clinton Smith of Rankin served as groomsman. Ushers were Lanham Dean Hodnett and Darrell Lane Hodnett, brothers of the bride.

The ring bearer was Caleb Robertson, nephew of the groom from Big Spring. He wore a brown tuxedo identical to that of the groomsmen.

The reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the Vincent Baptist Educational Building and the area was decorated with antique glass baskets filled with yellow roses.

The bride's table was covered with a white silk organza cloth and held a three-branch candelabrum entwined with roses, baby's breath and greenery. Crystal and silver appointments were used. The cake was of four tiers with white china doves on the top. Presiding at the bride's table were Mrs. Claude Hodnett of Big Spring, Mrs. Lester Owens of Big Spring, Mrs. Charles Odom of Clovis, New Mexico and Mrs. Loyd Hodnett of Vincent. All are great aunts of the bride.

Ms. Carolyn Owens, cousin of the bride, registered guests in the bride's book. Also on the registry table were rice bags made as rose buds in an antique glass basket. Ms. Stacy Hodnett of Midland and Ms. Dana Hodnett of Denton, both sisters of the bride, distributed the rice roses to the guests.

Members of the house party were Mr. and Mrs. Lester Owens, Mrs. and Mrs. Claude Hodnett, Mrs. and Mrs. Loyd Hodnett, Mr. and Mrs Jack Wolf, Mr. and Mrs. LaRoy Shafer, Mr. Mike Tuddle, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Wolf, Ms. Stacy Hodnett, Ms. Dana Hodnett, Mrs. Ben Neil, Mrs. Dean Phillips and Ms. Carolyn Owens.

A rehearsal supper was given by the groom and his family on June 17 at the La Posada Restaurant in Big Spring. At this time, the honored couple gave their attendants gifts. The bride's colors of yellow, brown and white were carried out with glass baskets of yellow roses. A special guest at the dinner was the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Ralph Wilson of Big Spring.

Following a wedding trip to Ruidoso, New Mexico, the couple will be at home in Vincent where the groom will farm.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

This Friday hand from 1945 is a rather familiar one. It has been appearing in one form or another for 56 years.

South ducks the first spade and wins the second one. He checks for a way to collect nine tricks.

He can attack clubs. If West holds the king, a finesse produces four club tricks plus three hearts and two spades. But if the finesse loses, South can only come to eight.

South can attack diamonds first and finesse against the queen. If West holds that queen, South won't need a club finesse. If East produces the queen, then South can still try the club finesse. He goes down two, but he is trying for game and does not worry about an extra 50-point loss.

So South leads his eight of diamonds and lets it ride. East takes his ace and clears the spades, but South repeats the diamond finesse and scores three diamonds, three hearts, two spades and a club for his nine tricks.

Why did we say this hand has appeared in many forms? Suppose that East held ace-queen of diamonds and West the king of clubs. East could win the first diamond with the ace. The unfortunate declarer would take the supposedly proven diamond finesse and go down on a makable contract.

Letters To Change Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Those letters congratulating constituents for a birthday, graduation or wedding may start carrying stamps instead of just a congressman's name in the upper right corner.

Pending legislation would bar members of Congress from using free Senate and House mail service for such congratulations and condolences but would allow them to address their constituents as "postal patrons" instead of by name.

Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, said Tuesday he expects the bill to be approved by the Senate Government Affairs Committee next week. He said the "postal patron" provision would save $1.2 million in mail being returned to the Senate from undelivered letters addressed to people who have moved.

Spinal Cord Injuries Claim Many People

NEW YORK (AP) — For some teen-agers and young adults, the summer of 1981 could be their last as healthy, active individuals, warns a physician at New York University Medical Center's Institute of Rehabilitation Medicine.

The incidence of spinal-cord injuries, which claims its highest number of victims in the 15 to 22 age bracket, rises dramatically in the summer, says Dr. Kristjan Ragnarsson, who is project director of the New York regional spinal-cord injury center.

Once the spinal cord is injured, the patient becomes paralyzed and is probably doomed to a lifetime in a wheelchair, he points out.

"Each year we see some 80 to 100 new spinal-cord injury patients," says Ragnarsson. "The sad part is that these healthy, active persons need never have been injured. Spinal-cord injury is entirely preventable."

Diving accidents produce a higher percentage of quadriplegia than any other injury, he notes. Yet other forms of summer sports — surfing, roller-skating, bicycling, rock climbing, motorcycling or even riding in a car — can result in irreversible spinal-cord damage.

Ragnarsson offers the following suggestions on how to avoid spinal cord injury:

—Know the depth of any water before diving in. Be wary of ponds or lakes that may have submerged rocks.

—Familiarize yourself with the ocean tide schedule. Remember that sand bars can shift location.

—When climbing, wear proper safety equipment for protection if you fall.

—When engaging in a sport, know the rules, wear proper safety equipment and be aware of your own limitations.

—Always wear a safety belt when driving.

—Don't drink before driving or participating in sports.

Rehearsal Was Kept A Secret

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The orchestra's rehearsal was "cloaked in secrecy," because the maestro, avant garde rock satirist Frank Zappa, needed privacy for his special project.

"He was here, practically speaking, to see how long it would take to rehearse the music before he could present it on a stage," Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra spokeswoman Vicki Vigorito said Tuesday.

Sally Finds Transition Easy

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Sally Struthers, now on Broadway in a new comedy called "Wally's Cafe," once did a CBS show from Leningrad. In Russia, they say, sometimes even innocent table talk is secretly taped.

This may be why, as she sat down for lunch here, she leaned over and murmured into a small vase of flowers: "Hello, I love Russia. They are wonderful 'pipples' and they are wonderful country."

But she has that kind of mind. She is OK. Eight years as Archie Bunker's daughter on the CBS series "All in the Family" hasn't done her lasting harm. Why, she only mentioned the show once during her lunch interview.

And that only was when she was asked if she's found the transition from tube acting to stage emoting difficult. The short, pretty, blond-haired native of Portland, Ore., shakes her head.

"I hate to take away any glory that people might unjustly want to shower and flower on me," she says, "but eight years of 'All in the Family' was doing a Broadway play every week.

"If I can't do this now, in my sleep, I'm in a lot of trouble.'"

Serious about her craft, the lady isn't the terminally serious kind of actress one often finds in Hollywood, the kind torn between doing Lady Macbeth or a walk-on in "B.J. and the Bear."

Miss Struthers marches to a different drummer.

She likes to give the unsuspecting of Tinseltown what you'd call a mental hotfoot, specifically as one-third of an all-girl singing group apparently based on Gladys Knight and the Pips.

Only they call themselves Gladys Day and the Dips. Their preferred arias are "Billy Bailey, Won't You Please Come Home" and "Bye, Bye Blackbird." They like to perform in piano bars. They always sing off-key. Deliberately.

Miss Struthers, who actually is a very good singer, is making her Broadway debut in "Wally's Cafe." It's her second stage job.

The first, in 1972, was in a dinner theater 60 miles from Chicago, in a two-character tableau, "A Girl Could Get Lucky." She says it played Broadway in 1956 but withdrew after three nights.

In "Cafe," she shares the bill with two stage veterans, James Coco and Rita Moreno, who play a married couple. This couple runs a roadside eatery in the California desert.

Miss Struthers essays a starry-eyed young thing who, while hitchhiking to Hollywood, stops at the cafe. During the course of the play, everyone ages 40 years.

In November 1970, while at liberty (actor talk for "I'll take anything, even a talking lemon"), she auditioned for this Norman Lear series about a blue-collar bigot and his family.

It became TV's most improbable hit, acclaimed for its social import and consequence. And Miss Struthers was a success, winning two Emmys and even getting a few bucks in the bank.

But unlike some who get lucky, TV wasn't her only world, staying on top not her only interest.

She got heavily involved in the work of the Christian Childrens' Fund of Richmond, Va., a non-profit organization that supports needy children in foreign countries. Her involvement began with her sponsorship of a young girl in the Philippines.

Since then, she's served with the Fund for six years, promoting its work in print and on TV. She still is its national chairwoman, a post she's held the last four years.

terrible highway toll

The Statistical Services of the Texas Department of Public Safety comes up with some rather startling figures, bringing into sharp focus the fact that American roadways are dangerous places to be.

From 1775 through 1980, a total of 1,186,654 Americans have died in all the wars involving the United States.

Of that number, 4,435 perished in the Revolutionary War, 2,260 in the War of 1812, 13,283 in the Mexican War, 529,332 in the Civil War, 2,446 in the Spanish American War, 116,563 in World War I, 407,828 in WW II, 54,246 in the Korean conflict and 56,261 in the Vietnam unpleasantness.

Compare that with the nation's traffic toll between 1900 and 1980. A total of 2,345,865 Americans have died on U.S. highways during that time.

The bill America has had to pay for the death of its citizens in traffic accidents staggers the imagination. Try this equation to realize the magnitude of the problem:

Say a football field (300 x 160 feet) was completely covered with one dollar bills (2⅝ inches x 6⅛ inches), then a layer of two dollar bills, then a layer of five dollar bills, then a layer of $10 bills, then a layer of $20 bills, then a layer of $50 bills, then a layer of $100 bills, then a layer of $500 bills, then a layer of $1,000 bills. Then cover it again with three more layers of dollar bills, three more layers of $2 bills, three more layers of $5 bills, three more layers of $10 bills, three more layers of $20 bills, three layers of $50 bills, three more layers of $100 bills, three more layers of $50 bills and three more layers of $1,000 bills, On top of that place 12 more layers of $20 bills, The money on that football field would still not represent the economic loss suffered from traffic accidents in Texas for the year 1980.

The $3,010,000,000 estimated loss for this one year would buy 10,000 homes at $80,000 each, 10,000 refrigerators at $700 each, 10,000 electric ranges at $600 each, 10,000 TV sets at $700 each, 10,000 dishwashers at $500 each, 10,000 automobiles at $10,000 each and 10,000 central air conditioning units at $2,500 each.

In addition, the money would furnish the head of each of the 10,000 households with a bank account of $206,000.

Do you still grin when you're called a "Leadfoot" by your friends? Are we in that much of an all-fired hurry to get where we're going? Slow down and enjoy life.

"Tune in Channel Five, Kay — there's a late-breaking bulletin on the marriage penalty tax."

dear dad

Dr. Jack Schreiber -- Canfield, Ohio -- sent me something the other day which moved him.

It is from an anonymous son writing to his deceased father.

Sounds like something a family might have released without a name on it -- in order to share the beauty but protect the privacy.

A letter which a son wrote later than he should have -- to his father -- and from here on I quote:

"Dear Dad, I am writing this to you even though you have been dead for 30 years. Whether you can read these lines perhaps you can read my thoughts -- but there are some things I have to say even if it is too late.

"Now that my own hair is gray I remember how yours got that way.

"I was such an ass -- believing in my own teenage wisdom -- when I might have benefited from that calm, ripe, wholesome wisdom of yours.

"Most of all -- now that I have a son -- I want to confess my worst sin against you -- the feeling I had that you did not understand.

"When I look back now I know that you did understand -- you understood me better than I understood myself.

"How patient you were.

"And how pathetic your efforts to get close to me, to win my confidence, to be my pal.

"I wouldn't let you. I couldn't. What was it that held me aloof? I'm not sure. But despite my best efforts, my own son had to build the same wall between himself and his dad.

"And there is no way a dad can see through it or climb over it. What a shame.

"What a waste.

"I wish you were here now -- across this table from me right now -- there'd be no wall now. We'd both understand now. And God, dad, how I do love you and wish I could be your boy again.

"Well, perhaps it won't be long.

"And I'm guessing you'll be waiting to take me by the hand and help me up the further slope.

"And I'll put in the first thousand years or so making you realize that not one pang of yearning you spent on me was wasted. It all came back -- it all paid off -- eventually.

"I know that the richest, most priceless thing on Earth -- and one the least understood -- is the mighty love and tenderness and that craving to help -- which a father feels toward this boy.

"But no boy can really know that until the roles are reversed.

"Even now, dad, I'm tired and would hasten to join you up there in the silence except for my son. He's a fine young man. He's very capable. Self sufficient.

"But I'll stand by a little longer in case he needs me.

"You understand.

"Your loving son."

at wits end

by erma bombeck

When I was a little kid, a father was like the light in the refrigerator. Every house had one, but no one really knew what either of them did once the door was shut.

My dad left the house every morning and always seemed glad to see everyone at night.

He opened the jar of pickles no one else could.

He was the only one in the house who wasn't afraid to go in the basement by himself.

He cut himself shaving, but no one kissed it or got excited about it.

It was understood whenever it rained, he got the car and brought it around to the door. When anyone was sick, he went out to get the prescription filled.

He kept busy enough. He set mousetraps. He cut back the roses so the thorns wouldn't clip you when you came to the front door. He oiled my skates and they went faster. When I got my bike, he ran alongside me for at least a thousand miles until I got the hang of it.

He signed all my report cards. He put me to bed early. He took a lot of pictures, but was never in them. He tightened up mother's sagging clothsline every week or so.

I was afraid of everyone else's father, but not my own. Once I made him tea. It was only sugar water, but he sat on a small chair and said it was delicious. He looked very uncomfortable.

Once I went fishing with him in a rowboat. I threw huge rocks in the water and he threatened to throw me overboard. I wasn't sure he wouldn't, so I looked him in the eye for a whole year. I finally decided he was bluffing and threw in one more. He was a bad poker player.

Whenever I played house, the mother doll had a lot to do. I never knew what to do with the daddy doll, so I had him say, "I'm going off to work now," and threw him under the bed.

When I was nine years old, my father didn't get up one morning and go to work. He went to the hospital and died the next day.

There were a lot of people in the house who brought all kinds of good food and cakes. We never had so much company before.

I went to my room and felt under the bed for the father doll. When I found him, I dusted him off and put him on my bed.

He never did anything. I didn't know his leaving would hurt so much.

I still didn't know why.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

June 21, 1981

Although your fortunes should be on the rise in the year ahead, it won't pay you to be impatient. It may be late autumn before an upturn becomes evident to you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Today you could find just the right opportunity you've been looking for to change something so that it will be more beneficial to you and your family. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to speicfy birth date.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Play it by instinct today in important one-to-one relationships. Your hunches will help guide you to say and do the right things.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is a good day to talk over business matters with contemporaries in a relaxed atmosphere. Each may have ideas that could be fruitful for one another.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your chances for fulfilling your ambitions today are quite good. You'll know what you want. You'll convince others to play supportive roles.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Things should work out quite well in the long run today, but events may not unfold exactly as you had them mapped out. Nevertheless, they'll work.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Trust your feelings today and you can achieve a better relationship with someone who may now be just a casual acquaintance. Let your heart rule your head.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Chance happenings will head you toward success today better than any strategy you might try to devise. Sit back. Let the chips fall where they may.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) This is an excellent day to work on programs or develop systems, but leave the actual mechanics to another time. Planning is your bag today, not performing.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Settle in the background today and wait for others to seek you out. This is one of those times when the less aggressive you are, the more desirable you become.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Activities with family members should prove more enjoyable today than involvements with outsiders. Plan something fun, which includes the entire brood.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This may be a day of rest for most, but you'll be happiest today doing something you feel is productive, especially if it helps your career.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You could get some ideas today as to how to turn a fun pastime or hobby into something profitable. Do more than just think about it if you want additional income.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

June 22, 1961

This coming year you should do quite well in areas where you are materially motivated. The more you see in it for yourself, the harder you'll try and the more likely you are to succeed.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Some petty but frustrating situations could develop today, yet they will be manageable if you treat them philosophically. Hang loose. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph, which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In joint ventures today you may find yourself relegated to a minor role. Swallow your pride rather than speak out and cause more difficulties.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Steer clear of situations with friends today where you have to borrow or lend something of value. Unforeseen complications are possible.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Matters deemed to be important should be taken care of as early as possible today. As time wears on, you tend to coast. You might not get things done.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your organizational skills are likely to be better than those of your peers today, but you may have a hard time convincing them of this. What you bind together they might untie.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) In your business dealings today, don't bank on things you hope will happen. If a situation isn't strong enough on its own, wishing won't make it better.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your judgment today could be too easily influenced by the wrong people. Just because someone has a certain title doesn't mean he knows it all.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you have important work to do today, try to eliminate outside distractions. Your attention span isn't up to par. You could get off on tangents.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're not likely to let things disturb you today and this is good. By the same token, don't treat too lightly situations that should be taken seriously.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Even though you will feel you are treating others generously today, you might find that the more you give the more they seem to want.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Companions will exert a strong influence on you today. If you're with pals who waste their time and resources, there's a possibility you will do the same.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your possibilities for personal achievement and gain today are good, provided you don't gamble against your better judgment. Proceed cautiously.

my turn

The fellow on Deep Creek says, "People who blow their own horns, are quite apt to be unable to read the score."

---

We remember a journalism school professor making a statement about sportswriters. He said the day is fast approaching when the sportswriter will need a business degree in order to cover professional sports.

Such is the current situation in major league baseball. American's favorite pasttime, if you haven't already noticed, is super big business.

Beginning last weekend, major league players are out on strike. How long it will last is anyone's guess, but if it goes two weeks, one might as well forget the remainder of the season.

Of course, fans are the losers. We can probably see the players' attitude spill over into the other professional sports. It won't be surprising to see the football players demanding more benefits with a strike threat.

However, we fail to understand the economics of the current situation. Most of the 650 baseball players who belong to the major leagues, who average about $175,000 a year, stand to lose a great deal of money.

The player's union isn't paying its members any benefits during the strike, and they stand to lose about $4 million a week in combined salaries.

If the strike is prolonged, players stand to lose in long-range benefits. For example, owners had agreed to pay in more than $2 million to the players' pension fund from the all star game set for July 14. If the game is canceled, the owners won't pay. Also, the payment owners generally make to the pension fund from the World Series would be canceled if there isn't a World Series.

Expecting that a strike might happen one day, owners have put in 2 percent of their gross receipts during the past two years to a strike fund that currently has a value of about $15 million. The owners also paid about $2 million for a $50 million business interruption insurance policy through the world-famous Lloyds of London. The insurance policy goes into effect after 150 games are missed.

The Lloyds policy would compensate each club at the rate of $100,000 per game. At that rate, the $50 million policy would run out by the first week in August.

Since each team would receive the same amount for each game, some clubs would do even better from the strike fund than if they had played the game.

Lowly Minnesota, for example, average just under 7,000 fans per game with a total gate of about $87,000. That also includes earnings from concessions.

The Los Angeles Dodgers, on the other hand, lead both leagues in attendance this season. They average taking in about $345,000 per home game.

There are other economic spinoffs. Consider the loss of revenue at hotels where teams stay, public transportation services, stadium workers, bat boys, vendors and rest room attendants. It all adds up to big business.

In the past baseball players have all wanted to make the big leagues, but the minor league clubs currently have the biggest paychecks.

thoughts

Birthday parties are usually times of merriment and gladness, but one exception appears in the Old Testament. The Pharaoh used that occasion in a different way. He hanged the chief baker whose dream Joseph had interpreted in prison.

"And it came to pass the third day, which was Pharaoh's birthday, that he made a feast unto all his servants and he lifted up the head of the butler and of the chief baker among his servants... But he hanged the chief baker." — Gen. 40:20-22

Diesel Smuggling A Big Headache For Customs

HIDALGO, Texas (AP) — The smuggling of cheap Mexican diesel fuel for high resale profits in the United States has become a growing headache for U.S. Customs officials and state revenue collectors.

"It's driving us up the wall," said Henry Posio, chief Customs Service investigator in Brownsville.

Occasional batches of poorly refined Mexican diesel have driven motorists off the road after buying it at the pump in Mexico or from unscrupulous dealers here.

Diesel costs $1.20 a gallon at American pumps but sells for a mere 17 cents a gallon across the Rio Grande. The Mexican government keeps the price low by subsidizing production costs of its oil monopoly, Pemex.

It doesn't take much arithmetic to figure a smuggler can turn a hefty profit on 100 gallons of diesel by selling it for 90 cents a gallon.

Enterprising smugglers use almost every method imaginable, Posio said, to sneak the fuel past both Mexican and American customs agents.

"You get shrimp boats going into Mexican waters, buying it and offloading it to other boats," he said. "Mexican trucks come in, declare their diesel is for road use but then sell it from their trucks."

One man was arrested last year for smuggling 7,000 gallons of diesel in a waterbed loading on his pickup truck. Customs inspectors got suspicious when they saw him make 37 trips across the Brownsville-Matamoros bridge with the waterbed.

The state of Texas is losing $5 million to $6 million annually in unpaid state diesel taxes, said Tony Proffitt of the state comptroller's office in Austin.

Texas taxes diesel at 6 cents a gallon and requires individuals with fuel tanks over 42 gallons to get a permit.

The federal government requires licenses for diesel sellers and taxes the fuel at 4 cents a gallon. Customs agents said they generally don't worry about people bringing in large quantities for their own use, such as businessmen with diesel-powered fleets.

Many individuals caught with undeclared diesel settle with state and federal governments. But tracking the large-scale operations is harder.

"The paper trail on white collar crime is hard to put together," Proffitt said.

Border residents have taken advantage of the cheap diesel by purchasing diesel-powered cars and trucks.

"The demand for diesel vehicles here is much greater than further north and it's because of the 17-cent price," Posio said.

Texas Leads Nation In Worker Deaths On Job

By ALLEN K. SHORT
Associated Press Writer

Texas, booming darling of the Sunbelt and home of several of the nation's fastest growing cities, is rapidly becoming a deadly place to work.

From the cotton gins of the Texas Panhandle to the oil refineries and skyscrapers of Houston, to the towering grain elevators along the state's gulf coast, Texas workers are dying on the job at a rate nearly three times the national average, state officials say.

"The statistics should shame us all," said Walter G. Martin, director of the state health department's Division of Occupational Safety. In 1980 alone, according to state records, 1,090 Texas workers were killed on the job or died of occupational diseases.

In contrast, California reported 541 on-the-job fatalities last year and New York recorded 813. Both states have larger work forces than Texas, which leads the nation in occupational deaths.

State labor leaders believe part of the problem is lax enforcement of federal worker safety laws by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration. OSHA officials deny that, but concede that budget cuts and manpower reductions have left the agency hardpressed to keep up with Texas' booming economy.

Three Texas cities — Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston — were among the nation's top ten construction markets last year, according to the Wall Street financial analyst, Dun & Bradstreet. Moreover, nearly half of all the OSHA safety inspections conducted in the Dallas area are at construction sites, said OSHA's Lloyd Warren.

"I think right now construction and related trades are where we're seeing most of the injuries and deaths," said William Treacy, executive director of the Texas Industrial Accident Board. "There are also a lot of job-related deaths we never hear about, such as in agriculture."

"There are people being shred in cotton gins all the time."

And — at a time when on-the-job deaths are declining elsewhere in America — they're on the increase in Texas, said Martin.

Hard statistics that would pinpoint industries with bad safety records have been difficult to come by since the Texas Legislature, in a cost-cutting move, deleted money from the state budget in 1975 that had been used to provide statistical analyses of the state's occupational injury and deaths totals.

But officials with the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics in Dallas agree that Texas has a problem — "a major one," according to BLS statistician Gunnar Engen.

Engen points to the state's bulging file of worker compensation claims as evidence of the problem.

Nearly 400,000 Texans submitted workers' compensation claims last year after being injured on the job. Out of a total workforce of about four million, that means that one of every 10 Texas workers sustains a debilitating job-related injury every year.

"That's way too high," said Martin. Most of the injuries are suffered by workers at companies that employ between 50 and 500 workers, he said — companies that consider themselves too small to hire professonal safety engineers.

Many of the state's 400,000 employers are paying a price for their safety records, says the Industrial Accident Board. Nearly half of the 160,000 companies whose accident histories are on file with the board must pay special workers' compensation premiums because their safety records are worse than the national norms for their respective industries.

Texas employers paid $1.2 billion in workers' compensation premiums in 1979, an amount second only to that paid by California employers, said Treacy, the industrial accident board chief. For their money, however, Texas employers provided injured workers with fewer benefits than were disbursed under the California program.

That's because much of what Texas companies paid into the fund was in the form of special premiums based on their higher injury and death rates, Treacy said.

In 1979, for example, Texas recorded 2.66 on-the-job deaths for every 10,000 employees. The national average that year was .86 deaths per 10,000 workers. California reported .30 deaths per 10,000.

"The facts are startling," said Harry Hubbard, president of the Texas AFL-CIO. Hubbard says the problem is not limited to high-risk jobs in the construction and oil and gas industries, however.

"It's everywhere in Texas. I don't think you can isolate the problem among one or even a few industries," he said.

Audience Found For '20s Music

NEW YORK (AP) — Given a choice, Rich Conaty would have been born in 1903.

"I'd have been too young for World War I, too old for World War II, and I'd be dying about now," he says. "And I'd have seen all the neat stuff."

Conaty pines for the 1920s — "when 'Rhapsody in Blue' was No. 1 with a bullet" — and dwells there for two hours every Sunday night on "The Big Broadcast" on Fordham University's radio station, WFUV.

Between the opening theme, Fats Waller's "You Meet the Nicest People in Your Dreams," and Bing Crosby's closer, "Great Day," Conaty serves up Paul Whiteman, Russ Columbo, Louis Armstrong, the Mills Brothers, the Boswell Sisters, Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey, Benny Goodman and Bix Beiderbecke. He rarely strays past 1935.

Although he has called it "music for the old at heart," the 26-year-old Conaty is not after "the Polident crowd."

"I don't like making a point of the music being old," he says. "This is young people's music."

Conaty estimates he has 5,000 tunes in his personal collection, mostly on long-play albums instead of the bulky old 78 rpm discs. Any beginning collector, he says, will find lots of records available.

For serious time travel, however, he keeps an old Victrola at home. He sometimes cues up a Whiteman recording made before the invention of electronic microphones, opens the doors of the cabinet and peers into a fantasy.

"I can see guys in shirt-sleeves, sweating in some dingy studio and playing into the megaphones," he says.

He has been doing the show since 1972, continuing long beyond his college days because no one with similarly antique ears has come along. It's been an education for him and his listeners, he says.

"When the audience stopped asking for the Andrews Sisters and asked for the Boswell Sisters, I knew I had a breakthrough," he says.

The Mills Brothers' "Tiger Rag" hooked him on the era. "I played it to death when I first went on," he says. Lately he has been playing more jazz, Jelly Roll Morton being his latest rediscovery.

The show takes its name from the 1932 film starring Crosby, the Boswell and Mills siblings, Cab Calloway and Kate Smith. Crosby also stars on the radio version.

"You listen to the other people who recorded then, they were just stiffs," Conaty says of "the Groaner's" enduring popularity.

Judging from requests, Crosby's nearest rival is Columbo, whose career lasted only from 1930 until his death in 1934. The original four Mills Brothers are the most requested vocal group, and Whiteman's is the most popular band.

In common with his disco-dancing or new wave contemporaries, Conaty says he suffers a generation gap with his parents. "They like the 1940s — Sinatra and bobby sox," he says, with a hint of disdain.

It topped the Mississippian at 8,350 feet and the Ellenburger at 8,643 feet on kelly bushing elevation of 2,404 feet.

The Jameson, North multipay field gained its tenth Ellenburger producer, with completion of Sun Oil Co.'s No. 10 J. V. McCabe "A" Mitchell County project, four miles north of Silver.

Finaled to pump 160 barrels of 49 gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio of 28-1, production was natural through perforations at 7,160-66 feet.

Location is 660 feet from the north and 3,319 feet from the east lines of Section 4, Block 1A, H&TC survey.

Important To Increase Trade

HONOLULU (AP) — Increasing America's foreign trade is the most important international issue of the day, according to Maureen Reagan.

President Reagan's eldest daughter, who returned Tuesday from a trip to Asia as head of Sell Overseas America, said at a news conference that "the U.S. must either limit imports, which would be catastrophic, or increase exports."

Miss Reagan said she found a strong demand for U.S. products during her trip to Japan, South Korea, Taiwan and Hong Kong on behalf of SOA, which she founded last year.

CRMWD Seeks Oil Lease Bids

Bids will be received by the Colorado River Municipal Water District on July 7 on oil and gas lease proposals for minerals under district lands in Coke County.

Directors authorized advertisements for bids at their meeting Thursday in Big Spring. The district has all the minerals under one 560-acre tract and half the minerals under a 160-acre tract.

The board also authorized expenditures not to exceed $32,000 from the contingency and improvement fund for repairs to a section of two pipelines which washed out April 25. O. H.Ivie, general manager, said that the 27-inch and 36-inch lines now were supported by H-frame bridges and that the downstream channel was being riprapped against erosion. The washout occurred at Leatherwood Crossing north of Big Spring.

Ivie reported that the district's Act in the Legislature was amended by both houses and is due to be signed into law. This updates the district's territory to coincide with that of member cities as of Jan. 1, 1981. It also sets up extra-territorial jurisdiction in all or part of 34 counties for cooperating in air pollution and waste water management projects mandated by state or federal law.

The SACROC Unit in Scurry County has ceased taking any brackish water, relying entirely on Lake Thomas supplies, and this has created some contract problems, Ivie reported. He said also that power charges had incurred a 100 percent fuel adjustment, as anticipated, at the first of the year, but for some unexplaind reason, another 40 percent had been added in April and May. Both Ivie and Robert Moore, the district's legal counsel, said they were encouraged by the tenor of oral arguments in defense of the district's Stacy permit before the 3rd Court of Appeals in Austin last week.

Awards Made By Tubuscope

Two Employee-of-the-Year awards were presented recently by AMF Tuboscope here.

Receiving the awards were Don Parsons and W. D. Myers.

Parsons was presented the Outstanding Salesman-of-the Year Award for the West Region. This region includes six states in the Southwest. He received a plaque and a bonus for outstanding salesmanship, customer relations and dedication to service.

Parsons has been with the company three years and is the youngest salesman ever to receive this award.

Myers, a master inspector for Tuboscope, was named Outstanding Operator-of-the-Year in the same region. He also received a plaque and a bonus for job performance, leadership and dependability.

Myers has been with the company seven years. Both men are employed at the Snyder Inspection District.

HEALTH TIP from DEAN

IMPROVE MEMORY
A woman remarked, "Since taking B vitamins, I know what I went into the next room to get, or turned around to do, or what I'm going after when I get into the car and start driving." (Sound familiar?) "It's really a thrill to know I'm not losing my mind and that all I needed was vitamins and minerals - mainly B vitamins."
