'PROHIBITION CAN BE ENFORCED'--WICKERSHAM

Senate Passes 'Grundy Tariff Bill' After Demos Wage Futile Attack

Home Town Talk

—By B. D. D.—

Wichita county grew 22,174 bales of cotton last season. This was below the county's record crop but was several thousand bales more than the 1928 crop. It's not a crop to be bragged about and our irrigation farmers are hunting for a more profitable crop but it may be said that without the irrigation system, Wichita county would hardly raise more than 15,000 bales of cotton any year.

Frank Beck, artist, who produces the comic strip "Gas Buggies" was a visitor at The Record News office Monday. Mr. Beck was accompanied by Gordon Rogers, a Childress boy, who is assisting him in the production of the strip. Mr. Beck and Mr. Rogers spend much of their time going about the country making contacts with people and this is probably why they are able to produce a comic strip that is very human and has an universal appeal.

Wichita county's bonded indebtedness was reduced by $326,000 during 1929, according to the report of County Auditor Paul Barnett. This was in the face of a larger outlay than usual for road improvement work and unusually heavy demand for charity. Every citizen ought to be glad to know that Wichita county is making good progress in the reduction of its bonded indebtedness. It shows that our county finances are upon a sound basis. At that rate of reduction it would not be many years before the county would have no bonded debt. Some of the bonds, of course, have many years to run. But there will be a continued reduction of the bonds outstanding, a reduction in the amount required for interest and probably a reduction in the tax rate. Objection is sometimes made to bond issues that they continue to draw interest longer than the improvements for which they are voted last. That is not the case with Wichita county's bond issues. Our courthouse and our paved roads will endure and benefit the taxpayers of the county long after the last bond is paid.

The Republican national committee has a balance of $115,110 in its treasury while the Democratic committee owes $488,687. It's a debt the Democrats must discharge before the opening of the 1932 campaign. Talker would guess that John J. Raskob will be glad to resign when the indebtedness is paid. Here's a hint to those who object to Raskob as chairman: pay off the debt and he'll quit.

The Republican chairman collects lobby funds and uses some of them to bolster his margin account in the stock market.

There has always been a suspicion that some of the scandals of the Harding administration had their origin in the campaign fund that was raised by the Republicans in 1920. There will not be any suspicion about the Democratic deficit. It will have to be paid by loyal Democrats who cannot expect any favors for what they contribute.

Just looks as if those Republicans never could learn to handle money—and they have so much of it.

Twenty years ago Wichita Falls boasted of having 75 automobiles and probably there wasn't a corner filling station in town. At that time there was no state automobile license, no gasoline tax and, it is but fair to state, no paved highways, at least, in this section of the state. It is hard to realize that the greater part of this development of a world on wheels, paved highways in every direction and a filling station in almost every block have been the growth of only 20 years.

Wichita Falls has a good start toward having as many airplanes as it had automobiles 20 years ago. There were folks 20 years ago who were too wise and cautious to ride in an automobile just as there are folks today who vow they will never ride in an airplane. We wonder if there will be a state airplane license and aerial filling stations 20 years hence.

Descendants of Temple Houston are suing the publishers of weekly magazine for damages alleged to have been caused by the publication of life of Sam Houston which said that Temple Houston was the son of the immortal Sam by an Indian woman, that he was wild, bad man, and other things. The writer of the magazine story appears to have made little research. If he had read almost any of the biographies of Sam Houston he would have learned that Temple Houston was a son of Sam Houston and his wife, who before her marriage was Margaret Lea; that Temple Houston was a brilliant lawyer and no more of "bad" man than many of his associates in Western Texas and Western Oklahoma. The trouble is that some of these writers on western life and men are more anxious to write a thrilling, gripping story than they are to give facts. The facts of Sam Houston's life are thrilling enough without the necessity of misstatement to make them interesting.

Nomination of Bryant Favored by Committee

WASHINGTON, March 24. (UP)—A favorable report on the nomination of Randolph Bryant to be U. S. attorney for the eastern district of Texas was voted by the senate judiciary committee today. This assured his confirmation.

ALL SENATORS ACCOUNTED FOR ON FINAL VOTE

Seven Democrats and 46 Republicans Put Over Protection Bill

FEW ARE SATISFIED

Supporters of Measure Are Even Displeased; Foes Denunciatory

By FRASER EDWARDS

WASHINGTON, March 24. (US)—After a titanic seven months struggle, the senate today passed the so-called Grundy tariff bill, which will add something like $1,000,000,000 to the American tax burden, by a vote of 53 to 31.

The much-rewritten measure was sent to conference with the house, after its foes had hammered it for six hours with a steady barrage of denunciation, while its supposedly friends sat in silence.

Every man was accounted for on the final vote, which followed a futile attempt to send it back to the finance committee with instructions to bring it to the senate again with all but the administrative features and the agricultural schedule stricken out.

Recommitment Fails

The vote on the motion by Senator Thomas of Oklahoma, to recommit was 70 to 9. The insurgents generally voted against it, as did 26 Democrats. Those supporting it were McMaster, Nye, Pine, Republicans, and Blease, Caraway, Smith, Thomas, Walsh of Montana and Wheeler.

On the real showdown, seven Democrats and 46 Republicans voted for the bill, while five Republicans and 26 Democrats opposed it. Twelve Senators were paired, five Republicans and one Democrat for the bill and five Democrats and one Farmer-Laborite against it.

Funereal Air

There was a funereal air in the senate chamber as the weary senators heaved sighs of relief that the long grind was over. But there was no real jubilation, for the bill as a whole does not satisfy either the agriculturist or industrialist senators.

Sen. Joseph R. Grundy of Pennsylvania, erstwhile lobbyist, who is credited with smashing the Democratic-Insurgent coalition, was absent from the scene of his triumph and was paired for the measure.

City Council Approves Purchase of Lots

Approval of the city's purchase of two lots in the Sibley-Taylor addition to be used for drainage improvements constituted the entire business of the city council Monday night.

Lots 12 and 13 in block 9 in the Sibley-Taylor district were purchased by the city, it was stated, for the purpose of providing space through which better drainage for that area in storm periods may be furnished.

George D. Fairtrace, city manager; J. W. Akin, mayor; W. E. McBroom, city clerk; aldermen R. O. Harvey, C. E. McCutchen, and J. W. Hunt were present at the weekly meeting.

Old World Astronomer Announces Discovery of 'Whole Flock' of Planets

ROME, March 24. (UP)—Rafael Bendani, Italian seismologist and astronomer, announced today he had "fully identified" four new planets existing beyond Neptune, including the one recently described from Flagstaff, Ariz., another much closer, and two still farther away.

He said he was ready to submit his data to any body of astronomers or scientists. He first told of his discovery six months ago but swore his confidants to secrecy until he was ready to make a complete report.

The announcement from Flagstaff, however, that a ninth planet existed impelled him to assert now there are not nine planets but 12.

"My discoveries were based on diligent, systematic research in my observatory, extending over many years," Bendani said.

"The first new planet is 7,000,000,000 kilometers (4,347,000,000 miles) from the sun and has a volume 150 times that of the earth. It completes a revolution around the sun every 360 years.

"The second planet is a giant. It is 10 billion kilometers (6,210,000,000 miles) from the sun, has a volume 500 times that of the earth and completes its course around the sun in 700 years.

"The other two planets will be subject to further study."

Atwell Assesses $2,875 In Fines And 170 Days In Jail In Trial Of 23 Liquor Cases

Fines totaling $2,875 and jail terms aggregating 170 days were imposed Monday by Judge William H. Atwell in 24 informations charging violations of the national prohibition act brought before the opening session of the spring term of federal district court here.

Judge Atwell heard 22 pleas of guilty and two of not guilty. A jury found Ed Parks guilty on a liquor charge after his plea of not guilty and the court assessed a fine of $100. Andrew L. Smith, charged jointly with Mrs. Blanche Powers with possession of liquor, received an instructed verdict of not guilty after E. Crippen, assistant U. S. district attorney, told Judge Atwell he had been misinformed as to what testimony would be.

The liquor cases disposed of Monday completed the list on which Mr. Crippen had informations. A hearing on a motion for continuance in the case of Benjamin T. Tackett, charged with using the mails to defraud, occupied the closing minutes of the court Monday afternoon.

Defendant on Cot

Attorneys for Tackett, who was brought into the courtroom on a cot, declared the defendant was ill and unable to proceed with the trial, since he was to be the chief witness on each count and could not undergo the ordeal of cross-examination. Tackett they said, had been undergoing treatment at the Scott & White Sanitarium at Temple.

Alex Moot, attorney for the government, read a telegram purporting to show that B. D. Sartin, attorney for Tackett, had asked that the government continue the case at the previous court session.

"Be ready, gentlemen, for trial of the case at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning," Judge Atwell said, refusing both a continuance of the case and the government request for a resetting. Court was then adjourned. Fred Horwitz, assistant to the attorney general, is assisting Mr. Moot in the prosecution.

Alias capiases and continuances were ordered by Judge Atwell when five defendants failed to appear for trial Monday. They were: Harry and William Shack on charges of using the mails to defraud; Harry and William Shack for bankruptcy; A. H. Bryant on a charge of counterfeiting; Homer Moulton on a charge of violating the national prohibition act; and Ray Gilbert, also on a liquor charge.

The lightest fine imposed during the day was one of $10 against T. M. Scarbrough, 19, who pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of one-half gallon of whisky. The youth said he was on his way to a "party with a bunch of boys" when he was arrested. His father, he told the judge, was a deputy sheriff. His statement that he "didn't

ARTIST VISITS

Author of 'Gas Buggies' Here on Way to New York

Frank Beck, artist who draws the popular comic strip, "Gas Buggies," was a visitor in Wichita Falls.

Mr. Beck was on his way from San Diego, Calif., to New York and was accompanied by Mrs. Beck and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Rogers. Mr. Rogers is assistant artist.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Rogers are from Childress and the party spent several days there visiting relatives and friends. Mr. Rogers also lived in Wichita Falls several years ago. He has been connected with Mr. Beck for more than a year in the production of "Gas Buggies," a comic strip that is in high favor with the readers of The Record News.

THREE DIE IN ACTOR'S PLANE

Wallace Beery's Ship Burns After Crashing

ALHAMBRA, Cal., March 24.—(UP)—A pilot and two passengers were burned to death one mile east of here today when a monoplane owned by Wallace Beery, film star, went into a nose dive at an altitude of 500 feet and crashed.

Beery was not in the plane but his personal pilot, George Maves, was at the controls. Maves, his wife and Lynn H. Hayes were the victims.

The bodies were burned so badly identification was impossible for for more than an hour.

Witnesses to the crash said the ship went into a dive while making a left turn. It shot down as though to land on the highway, but instead of straightening out plunged into the ground.

The plane was still burning when firemen arrived from San Gabriel, but before they could approach the wreckage, the gasoline tank exploded.

The monoplane took off from the United airport shortly before the tragedy. Beery was working on a picture of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio when informed of the accident.

Murder Charge Follows Finding of Hidden Body

GILMER, Texas, March 24. (UP)—Frank Emflinger today was charged with murdering Cay Robertson, 39, his brother-in-law, and hiding his body in a thicket near Phillip-Springs late last year.

The body of Robertson, missing since Christmas and believed to have left the state after a quarrel with his wife, was found Sunday. His chest and skull had been crushed and his feet severed. The body was in a wagon.

'Cured' Patient Leaps From Second Story

OMAHA, March 24. (UP)—Shortly after hospital authorities told John J. Burke, 42, former Fremont, Neb., city paving inspector, he was well enough to leave the hospital, a nurse left him in his room while he dressed. When she entered the room she discovered he had leaped from the second story window to his death. He had entered the hospital last Wednesday after an unsuccessful attempt to commit suicide.

Slayer Files Appeal From Death Verdict

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 24.—(AP)—Charging misconduct of the prosecutor and lack of corroborative testimony, an appeal was filed today with the state criminal court of appeals here from the conviction of Claude Hager, sentenced to death in Ottawa county for the murder of Walter Harp of Ulysses, Kan. Harp was beaten to death with a hammer.

Mellon Celebrates 75th Birthday in Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 24. (AP)—Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, today observed the 75th anniversary of his birth. His three-quarters of a century of life, in his own words, "has been and still is, both full and interesting."

Appearing like a man many years younger than computation of his natal year—1855—makes fact, the custodian of the nation's financial destinies came to his Pittsburgh home to celebrate the day.

There was nothing to mark the occasion especially excepting hundreds of congratulatory messages from all over the world and some calls from his Pittsburgh friends.

Houston Defamation Suits Are Postponed

FORT WORTH, March 24. (UP)—Trial of five suits against the Liberty magazine for $600,000 damages for alleged defamation of the character of Temple Houston, colorful figure in Texas pioneer history, were postponed today until Wednesday in federal district court. Attorneys for both sides had to attend trials in other courts, they said.

McKenzie Jury Still Deadlocked After 52 Hrs.

SAN ANTONIO, March 24. (UP)—After deliberating more than 52 hours, the jury selected to determine the sanity of John M. "Pete" McKenzie still was deadlocked tonight.

The jury received the case at 12:35 p. m. Saturday. If McKenzie is found sane, he probably will die in the electric chair. If declared insane, he will be recommitted to the state asylum.

Liquor Charge Guilty Pleas Entered by 44

KANSAS CITY, March 24.—(UP)—Forty four liquor cases of the 126 pending in Federal Judge Albert E. Reeve's court were disposed of today when he accepted pleas of guilty. The cases involved 61 defendants who will be sentenced later. The majority are charged with violations of the prohibition law.

Marilyn Miller Will Wed Rich Irishman

NEW YORK, March 24. (US)—Marilyn Miller's marriage to Michael Farmer, wealthy Irishman and automobile manufacturer, will take place in the summer or fall, she declared today.

TAKES OWN LIFE

ARLINGTON, Texas, March 24. (UP)—After writing a note admonishing his friends to lead better lives, Harold Grogan, 23, shot himself through the heart here today. His body was found in a hotel.

GRAHAM SOLON SAYS MOODY TO RUN AGAIN

McFarlane Charges Governor's Prison Attitude Is Political Play

CROWDING DENIED

Sawmills Rusting as Board Asks More Buildings, Says Senator

Gov. Dan Moody will be a candidate for re-election as Texas' chief executive, with prison reform, the "political football of the state" as the chief issue, according to an opinion expressed here Monday by Senator W. D. McFarlane of Graham. Senator McFarlane has recently returned from attending the fifth called session of the legislature, and attended federal court here Monday.

Moody Criticized

The Graham man was severe in his criticism of Governor Moody and the prison board, and mentioned the refusal of the prison manager to accept four convicted men from Fort Worth last week. He pointed out that under the law the district judge is required to commit convicted persons to the state penitentiary, and said in his opinion that the refusal of prison authorities to accept prisoners could properly be made the basis of contempt of court action.

"There are five sawmills rusting away on state owned lands, with thousands of feet of standing timber ready to be cut," declared Senator McFarlane.

"The so-called overcrowding of barracks could be eliminated within a few weeks if the prison management would put its own sawmills to work cutting lumber for barracks. Quarters for every convict in state prison could be built by the state at very little expense if the governor would so order."

Senator McFarlane characterized the continued demand for relocation as a "policy of obstruction" in which Governor Mood is building a political issue for his campaign.

Defeat Predicted

"There is a prison appropriation bill on the governor's desk which provides every requested reform, except that of location. It is not my opinion that the people of Texas want to spend from $6,000,000 to $10,000,000 to change the location of the prison system. The chief trouble with the system is inefficient management, not location."

The Graham legislator predicted that should Governor Moody attempt to carry the issue to the voters in seeking a third term he would be "severely beaten" at the polls.

S. S. Europa Continues To Slash Speed Record

ABOARD S. S. EUROPA, March 24—(US)—With but 519 miles remaining to be clicked off on her maiden voyage from Cherbourg to New York, it appeared at noon (ship's time) today that the North German Lloyd liner Europa would lower the Trans-Atlantic record now held by her sister-ship, the Bremen.

At the speed the Europa is now making on normal boilers, despite headwinds and rough seas, there is a possibility that the record of the Bremen may be lowered by as much as three hours.

Walter Eckersall 'Steps Out' as He Wished to Go, Ending Sports Career

One of Nation's Greatest Athletes, 'Eckie' Shone Particularly As Quarterback at Chicago U.

By BERT DEMBY
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, March 24.—A lifetime brim full of events and sparkling with enviable achievements ended today for Walter Eckersall, one of the best known of American sports writers—and it ended just as Eckie wanted it to end.

A great trackman, a good baseball player and perhaps the greatest quarterback who ever lived, Eckie tried to fight off a heart attack in his rooms at the Chicago Athletic club today and lost the battle at the age of 43.

"Bum Ticker" Quits

The "bum ticker" merely quit beating, just as it did with Tad, Walter Camp and a host of other sports figures, and Walter died in the manner he wanted to go, as he told this writer back in 1927.

At that time we were seated in a press box at Northwestern university and the name of Walter Camp, great football authority who was found dead in bed in New York came up.

"You know," said Walter, "that guy stepped out just like I want to. There've been so many of us who figure in sports, who quit because of a heart which refused to beat that I want to be able to talk to them about how it feels when I meet them later. Perhaps that's rather a morbid feeling but then you've gotta die and what the hell."

With His Fellows

So now he can talk to the rest of the fellows, not only about the heart but he can point out in the University of Chicago records his football achievements—the red letter things he did and it isn't amiss to say Eckie did not hate to die.

Through his sports writing career—and he was the accepted football

F. E. NICHOLSON LEAVES CAVES

Explorer Returns From Carlsbad Tour

Frank E. Nicholson, leader of an exploring expedition for the New York Times through the Carlsbad Caverns, returned to Wichita Falls Monday after nearly a month spent in the depths of the famous New Mexico caves.

Mr. Nicholson ended his tours of the caverns and his series of articles on his work some time ago, but has spent the intervening time in visiting other sections of the country around Carlsbad, and in compiling data for use in other articles. He will leave Wichita Falls Tuesday at noon for New York.

In addition to visiting many great rooms heretofore unexplored, Mr. Nicholson and his party attempted to find a second entrance to the caverns, which many believe exists because of the currents of air noticeable in the rooms. Indications are that there is no other entrance, Mr. Nicholson said here, and apparently the air currents are caused by fissures in the rock in various parts of the cavern. Many of the rooms explored by the Nicholson party will be opened to public visits later, it is said. At one time the expedition's leader descended 1,350 feet below the surface, a new world's record, according to figures given by the party.

Mr. Nicholson, who is the son of Judge and Mrs. E. W. Nicholson, 1815 Tenth street, is now preparing two other articles for the New York Times and the newspapers to which the articles were syndicated. He will also write articles for the National Geographic, Collier's and Wide World, and a book for the Century company on his expedition. Moving pictures of the wonders of the caves are also to be released soon.

Sinclair Co. to Expand Marketing Facilities

NEW YORK, March 24. (AP)—Harry F. Sinclair, chairman of the Sinclair Oil corporation, said today that plans are under way for the expansion of the corporation's marketing facilities. He did not give any further details, but took occasion to deny they were to be taken over by one of the Standard Oil companies.

Rites for Clay County Collector To Be Said in Henrietta Today

Funeral services for Sylvester Karstetter, Clay county tax collector and a resident of Henrietta for many years, will be held from the First Christian church at Henrietta at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Rev. Paul Martin, of the Methodist church in Iowa Park, and Rev. H. H. Neely, of the Henrietta Christian church, will officiate. Burial will be at Henrietta.

Mr. Karstetter died in a local hospital about 9 o'clock Monday morning after an illness originating in October, 1929. He has been practically an invalid since Christmas, and was brought to a Wichita Falls hospital 10 days ago.

Mr. Karstetter was born 46 years ago in Grayson county. He moved to Henrietta while still a boy. Years ago he was connected with the public schools there, has been engaged in the life insurance business, served as county auditor, and was completing his fourth year as county tax collector at the time of his death.

He is survived by his widow and three children, Bobbie, Hugh, and Nancy Jane; his mother, Mrs. Julia Karstetter, of Vasti, Texas; four brothers and two sisters. The brothers are Lee Karstetter, who lives in Idaho; E. B. Karstetter of Bellevue; Sam Karstetter of Vasti; and

HEAD OF CRIME SURVEY GIVES HIS OPINIONS

Law Commission Chairman Believes Some Changes Are Necessary

'APPETITE' HEALTHY

Jones Law Modification and Enforcement Transfer Recommended

WASHINGTON, March 24. (AP)—Expressing the opinion that prohibition "Can be measurably enforced, although human appetite is widespread," Chairman Wickersham of the law enforcement commission has informed the senate that no one can say whether the act can be or cannot be effective until it has been given a trial under the justice department.

A comprehensive report of the eight months study of prohibition by Chairman Wickersham was disclosed in the publication of his recent testimony before an executive meeting of the senate judiciary committee. The house bill transferring prohibition enforcement from the treasury to the justice department is before the committee.

Soften Jones Law

He advocated a softening of the Jones act which was passed last year by congress increasing the penalties for dry law violations.

The chairman reported "steady improvement" in dry enforcement; praised the dry administrators; denied that political influence was filling the service with inefficient and corrupt officials and ascribed the leaks from industrial alcohol as the most difficult source of liquor to contend with.

Good Pay Essential

"I think if the attorney general has a free hand as he should have," he contended, "in reorganizing the prohibition bureau, you have as good assurance of effective conduct of the enforcement agencies as could well be had, provided his personnel is sufficiently compensated and are put on a proper basis. I think until that is done no one can say absolutely whether the law can be or cannot be enforced."

As for the Jones law, Wickersham in asking for its modification, said:

"I do not think you ever can en-

YOUNG PEOPLE HEAR GOODRICH

'Bartering of Pearls' Subject Of Speaker

In a special young people's service at the First Methodist church Monday night, Dr. Robert E. Goodrich preached on the "Bartering of Pearls" in which he said that the Kingdom of Heaven is like the merchant man who sold all he had to buy one pearl of great price.

This same principle he applied to literature, reputation, character, and service. He showed that one great thing in life was worth the combined price of all the lesser things that we value too highly.

Aim of Life

"The projection of human life is on the upward way," Doctor Goodrich said. "No man has ever measured the upward reach of human life. That final milestone to which we are to measure up is none other than the life of Jesus Christ. The aim of our lives should be the selling of lesser pearls for the greater pearls, and then the selling of the greater pearls that we may possess the greatest pearl. The good is always the enemy of the best. That is always true, but not in all places. There are here and there discerning hearts that distinguish between the good and the best. There comes a striving after the thing of superlative worth, a letting go of the lesser values and a pursuing of the greater value.

"We cannot think of this merchant man without thinking of him as moving from city to city in his quest of pearls. He bought many and they were all good. But one day he found one pearl of great price. Then he went and sold all his lesser pearls and bought that one pearl of great price. In this parable we are taught what I consider the greatest principle in the development of young people.

"True to the principle of this test let us look at the matter of our past time with particular reference to our literature. Here we may change our parable to read: 'The kingdom of heaven is like unto a merchant man seeking goodly books, who when he had found a book of goodly price sold all his books and bought it.' The poor class of literature that fills our land reflects the taste and demand of the people for it. Few of the stories that are published today will be living six months from today. Let not the book of the month crowd out the book of the centuries. Let not the good book be the enemy of the best book.

Reputation and Character

"Reputation is but the reflection of outward actions, character is the essence of inward reality. Reputation is the rattle of the wagon, character is the wagon itself. Your character is what you are when the curtain falls and the lights are out. Your character is what you are in the dark. If a lesser pearl must be sacrificed to save the greatest pearl, let it go. I would have you see the supreme value of character.

"Just one other way let us study the meaning of the parable. We talk about service so blandly. I sometimes feel that wonderful word may lose some of its mighty value. Which is the greatest pearl, that of being served, or that of serving someone else? I know that all our utopian dreams are of some land where we are lords of all we survey. It is pleasant to be served, nobody is going to challenge that. To be served is lovely, but our Master teaches that there is something greater: not to be served yourself, but to serve others, even as the son of man came not to be ministered unto but to minister. Those who serve shall some day stand in the light of His countenance, made joyous by his favor, and listen to his words, 'come thou good and faithful servant, rest thou in the joy of thy Lord.'"

Kiwanis Raises Park Funds at 'Tree Auction'

Thirty trees netting a total of $560 were sold on the site of the new Kiwanis park on Holliday creek at a picnic for Kiwanians and their families Monday evening at the consummation of their 1930 civic betterment project, the purchasing of the park to be presented to the city for a playground.

The program included a farewell to Julian Bobo, governor of the Texas-Oklahoma district of the Kiwanis International in 1925, in which a Gladstone bag was presented him by the local club. J. N. Sherrill in his farewell speech to Mr. Bobo, who is moving to Dallas, said that "Julian Bobo has done more for the club than any other member here."

Names of the men who purchased trees will be put on the trees. The money raised in this way is to be applied to the purchase price of the park site. Music for the occasion was furnished by the Playground band. Approximately 125 attended the picnic.

Those who bought trees at a price ranging from $5 to $50 each were Ed Peterson, Henry D. Wolff, J. L. Jackson Jr., Dr. Ralph Peterson, Grover C. Bullington, Tom Medders, Tom Moore, Charles Bolton, Dr. O. W. Wilson, Dr. J. B. Nail, Eli Morgan, Dr. Felix Collard, Dr. C. W. Stevenson, Don T. Haynes Howard Renfro, Jouette M. Bonner, M. A. Ellis, P. Reid Freeman, Paul L. Pearson, Gerald Pond, J. N. Sherrill, Kenneth Bebb, R. E. Darsey, Jacob Price, Vernon Fite, H. S. Sanderford, W. H. Couch, J. T. Yeargin, B. Scales, and P. M. Viennese Probe Death Of Cleveland Couple VIENNA, March 24. (US)—Viennese police tonight are investigating the mysterious death of a Cleveland, Ohio, doctor and a Cleveland woman who left her husband, it is alleged, to flee with the doctor to Europe.

The dead are Dr. Earnest Watzl, 30, and Josepha Cropej, 25. They were found in a hotel room here, the woman stabbed to death and Watzl shot. Police believe they quarreled, and Watzl stabbed his companion and then shot himself. The cause of the quarrel was not divulged.

Kerosene and Sand Keep Man, 90, Healthy

HASTINGS, Minn., March 24. (AP)—Not only wealth but health, too, comes from the soil, and the fountain of youth is in a kerosene can, in the belief of Austin Knapp, 96-year-old civil war veteran.

A spoonful of sand and a sip of kerosene are the daily health givers which Knapp credits with aiding in his longevity. He says he intends to live another 96 years if he can.

SENATE VOTES TARIFF BILL

Demos Savagely Attack 'Grundy Measure'

"Old Joe" was in Pittsburgh attending a political conference which may decide whether he will be a candidate for re-election.

Shoals Bill Up

Immediately after the passage of the tariff bill, the Muscle Shoals bill, which is bound to bring on a spectacular fight, was made the "unfinished business" of the senate. It will be displaced temporarily, however, to permit action on the agriculture and deficiency appropriation bills and the public building bill.

When these have been disposed of, Senator Watson, of Indiana, Republican leader, announced that the senate will take a week's recess in which to rest up from the grueling tariff battle.

The bill was raked from cover to cover before the final vote. Several senators, including Borah of Idaho and Nye of North Dakota, explained that they were voting for it merely because of the debenture and flexible provisions.

Debenture Demanded

"If the debenture provision, which is an indispensable part of the protective tariff system, so far as agriculture is concerned, is knocked out in conference, the fight has begun," declared Borah.

When a number of senators predicted that the debenture would be "killed," Borah said he would "follow it to its grave."

Speaking for the industrial East, Senator Walsh of Massachusetts declared that the bill had increased the cost of all raw materials for food, clothing and shelter and called on President Hoover to veto it.

Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin denounced the bill as the "worst tariff bill in the history of the nation" and Senator Connally of Texas declared that it was a "fraud" upon the farmers, violates "every Republican campaign pledge of 1928" and will "pick the pockets of what little the farmer has left."

Ladies of Legion to Learn of 'Army Chow'

Wives, mothers and sisters of legionnaires will join the members of the Pat Carrigan post, American Legion, in their third old-style army feed next Tuesday night at the Memorial auditorium. State Commander Earnest Cox, State Adjutant Bob Whiteaker and Mrs. F. H. Carpenter, state president of the ladies auxiliary, will be the principal speakers.

Officials of the post stated Monday night that the purpose of the meeting was to give the wives, mothers and sisters an idea of an old-style army feed. Following the feed, members of the post and auxiliary will meet in joint business session. A crowd of between 500 and 600 is expected for the "feed," officers said.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 7:15 Tuesday evening.

Ft. Worth Woman Burned In Oil Stove Explosion

FORT WORTH, March 24. (UP)—An oil camp stove exploded today and showered Mrs. Hub Diggs with flaming fuel, burning her from head to foot. She is in a critical condition. Her husband, an automobile dealer, smothered the flames by rolling Mrs. Diggs in bed clothing. He was burned also.

TRAIN KILLS RANGER CHILD

Two Women Hurt Seriously In Crossing Smash

RANGER, Texas, March 24.—(UP)—A four-year-old girl was killed and her mother and aunt injured seriously when an east-bound Texas and Pacific passenger train crashed into their automobile at Prairie Crossing near here late today.

Marjorie Ruth Crabb, 4, was killed instantly. Her mother, Mrs. Lonnie Crabb, and Mrs. Fred Williams were brought to a hospital here where physicians said they had little chance to recover. Officers searched 45 minutes before they found the little girl's body, thrown more than 40 feet by the force of the impact.

The car was demolished.

Fannie Brice Wants $125,000 in Damages

NEW YORK, March 24. (US)—Fannie Brice today brought suit against the Art Cinema corporation for $125,000 damages, alleging failure on the part of the company to star her in three pictures as agreed by contract. She also asked $30,000 on the ground that she was promised $3,000 a week for any time over 14 weeks that her film ran in New York. She says the picture ran for 20 weeks.

Billy Rose, her husband, at the same time filed suit for $25,000 for alleged failure of the company to allow him to write the music for their productions.

Chicago Police Wins Racketeering Ruling

CHICAGO, March 24. (US)—An important decision in the campaign of Chicago authorities against racketeering and violence was rendered today by Judge Harry B. Miller who upheld the right of the police to seize and search known hoodlums and gunmen without warrants and, if weapons are found on them, to bring charges against them.

Defendants Draw Heavy Fines From Atwell

crave any more whisky" and his plea of guilty brought the leniency of the court.

Grand Jury Charged

The largest fines assessed by Judge Atwell Monday were two of $425 against Bill Foster and Clyde Dopson, both charged with possession of whisky. Both the accused entered pleas of guilty. The maximum fine in their cases would have been $500, Judge Atwell pointed out. Foster told the court he had tried to sell the liquor to obtain money for medical attention which he could get in no other way.

Judge Atwell Monday morning in charging the grand jury declared that law abiding citizens "are arising in appropriate discontent against law violators." He described the government of the United States as "the most magnificent governmental edifice of all time" which has not been menaced by law violation because most of its citizens are law-abiding.

Other fines and sentences imposed Monday were: B. J. Lane, 10 days; Clarence Byals, $175; Roscoe Arbuckle, charged with possession of whisky-making apparatus, $250; Douglas Williams, $15; Raymond Smith, 35 days; Mrs. Rebecca Skinner, 35 days; Mattie Jackson, 30 days; T. P. Chambless, 30 days; H. A. Madison, 30 days; Paul Smith and C. M. Dodson, charged jointly, $150 each; Lonnie T. Robertson, $125; Beulah Praytor, $100; John T. Harris, $175; Joe Guerra, $400; Frank Archer, $125; Mrs. Josephine Bost, $75; Bill Cook, $125.

The grand jury, impaneled by Judge Atwell at the opening of court Monday, began work on bills presented by Mrs. Sarah Menezes, assistant U. S. district attorney, who is representing the government before the body. The jurors accepted were: W. E. Huff, B. L. Fain, George Mobley, D. K. Bell and Ross R. Robertson, all of Wichita Falls; R. L. Moore, and C. V. King, both of Vernon; George Plants and L. D. Jones, both of Seymour; O. A. Brown of Eliasville, Guy Collins of Newcastle, C. C. Madden of Swearingen, E. D. HOLLYWOOD, March 24. (UP)—When the R-K-O Film studio get the Mach telephone bill, one item probably will read "Copenhagen to Hollywood, $984."

authority in the Middle West—he lived in the past. If some one made a 90-yard run he immediately brought up the fact that "Well, he's pretty good but Willie Heston (who played for Michigan in 1905) was better."

He had no ego. He didn't say, "Well, I ran 105 yards against Wisconsin when I was playing with Chicago in 1905." Or he didn't say "I kicked six drop kicks (four of them from past the 40-yard line) against Nebraska in 1906."

No Boasting

And he didn't point out that in 1905 in the famous Chicago 2-0 victory over Michigan that it was his quick thinking that saved Chicago the game. Dropping back for a punt the "little guy" (he was called that because he never weighed over 140 pounds) was rushed from all sides. He couldn't kick so he dove through the would-be tacklers and got over the goal line before they could down him for a safety.

He didn't talk a lot but he carried more sports information in his head than any person who sat in middle western press boxes. If some one ran the 75-yard high hurdles in 9.2 seconds, Eckie without referring to the book knew it was a world's record.

As a football player he was without a peer. Walter Camp, his friend, listed him as the all-time, all-American quarterback and he took Camp's place as the selector of all-American teams.

force laws more effectively by putting extreme penalties on minor violations."

Replying to Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, the commission chairman said "Judges have been considerate and discriminate in their sentences."

Beer Less Popular

"The taste for beer," Wickersham reported, "seems to be greatly diminishing and the people who want to drink at all want a strong drink, something more intoxicating."

He said there were numerous stills but that these were being used more for the manufacturer of whisky than for beer.

Chairman Norris of the judiciary committee, interrupted to say "I am not so much interested in the man who makes something and does not try to sell it and violates the law."

"Yes," replied Wickersham, "but there is a great deal of that made for bootlegging too."

Wickersham was before the senate committee on the resolution of Senator Norris proposing a senate inquiry into dry enforcement. The committee took no action but invited Attorney General Mitchell to appear before it next Monday.

"Hose Delivery"

The commission chairman told of the importation of whisky from British and French possessions off the Atlantic coast by a number of fast ships equipped with tanks with a delivery hose.

"They make a connection, probably by radio, with some point on the coast," he said, "run in and discharge their cargoes into tank wagons in a very brief space of time and are off. A great deal is brought in that way. How much nobody knows."

Exportation from Canada to these islands along the Atlantic coast increased last year over 1926 by more than 900,000 imperial gallons to a total of 1,259,667 for the year ending March, 1929. "In all probability that increase largely came into the United States through some of the ports along the Atlantic coast or the gulf," he said.

He estimated that of the 100,000,000 gallons of industrial alcohol manufactured and sold last year, 5,000,000 or 6,000,000 gallons was diverted into the bootleg trade. He advocated some system of forcing the permittees of industrial alcohol to make a report of what is done with the product.

Floral Heights Methodist W.M.S. Hears Reports

Interesting reports of the council meeting in Amarillo were given Monday when the Woman's Missionary society of Floral Heights Methodist church met for Bible study. Mrs. Austin F. Leach told of outstanding features and mentioned the noonday devotionals on Pentecost by Dr. B. Kern.

Mrs. F. F. Stephens said 300,000 women of the Southern Methodist church were united for the same purpose and the council proved it. Their coming together, she stated, meant "beginning;" their being together, meant "progress" and their working together meant "success."

It was also announced that the collections of the week of prayer of this year will go to a college in Cuba and to a mission school in Tampa, Fla.

Mrs. S. E. Trevathan led the meeting at 2:30 o'clock in song and Mrs. Val Land gave the opening prayer. Mrs. M. T. Clements gave a short lesson on "Paul's Idea of the Approved Life."

Mrs. A. F. Leach announced the North Texas Woman's Missionary conference in Bowie, April 4, and at this time told of the council. Mrs. Stephen's talk on the council also proved of deep interest.

Mrs. Milton Johnson read a lovely note of appreciation from Miss Dora Armstrong, the missionary from Africa who was a guest of the missionary society at Floral Heights church last week.

The Bible study was from first and second Corinthians and Mrs. Johnson discussed the time and occasion of the books and the condition of the Corinthian church. Chapter eight of the first book was in unison and Bible references were given by Mesdames Presley, Simpson, Jones, Stuckler, Gough, and Clements.

After Mrs. Johnson had discussed the outstanding teachings of the second book, Mrs. Leach read the 15th chapter. The Book of Romans was announced for the next study, and Mrs. C. M. Simpson dismissed with prayer.

Those present were Mesdames A. F. Leach, H. W. Barton, Rhea Howard, S. E. Trevathan, M. T. Clements, Milton Johnson, M. J. McGuigan, Henry Milliken, S. D. Harper, E. R. White, A. B. PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

After their bath Sunday night, the trees were a vivid green Monday morning; so vivid a green we began to look again with envy at those windows where the upper branches of trees peep into bedrooms. To wake and look right into the heart of a tree must be a vivid joy.

◇ ◇ ◇

Bridal wreath sprays are beginning to hang in virginal whiteness over the green bushes.

◇ ◇ ◇

Red honeysuckle is blooming over Mrs. W. W. Silk's trellis and on the corner of Ninth and Brook, the hedge of lilacs is in fragrant blossom.

◇ ◇ ◇

Sunday evening we went home to find that a friend had brought us her one golden jonquil.

◇ ◇ ◇

Then Monday morning, there came by mail a box of buttercups and jonquils and narcissus from Mississippi.

◇ ◇ ◇

We know the very yard from which they came. A great yard spread before an antebellum home, where old-fashioned flowers from the nice snowdrop up to the giant snowball bloom in wild luxuriance.

◇ ◇ ◇

A double row of trees, arches over the road that leads to the old home half a mile from the highway.

◇ ◇ ◇

The house is furnished just as it always was; books line the walls of the old "parlor" and the piano is long since out of tune. Books, in spite of the dusting of the caretaker, have grown mouldy.

◇ ◇ ◇

But that sweet smelling old yard has its air of sadness. The hands that planted the flowers are all gone. Only one member of the family is left and she will not live there alone nor allow anyone else to take posession. She treasures the rooms just as they were in her girlhood.

◇ ◇ ◇

Never have we seen blossoms in such profusion. The only place that one may walk is down the rough old brick walk that leads to the stile. White honeysuckle covers the fences. There's a long, glass covered hot bed where they once kept geraniums and ferns through the wintertime.

◇ ◇ ◇

We wondered, as we looked at our sweet smelling blossoms, how these Mississippi bulbs would feel taken from their old home and transplanted to a new one.

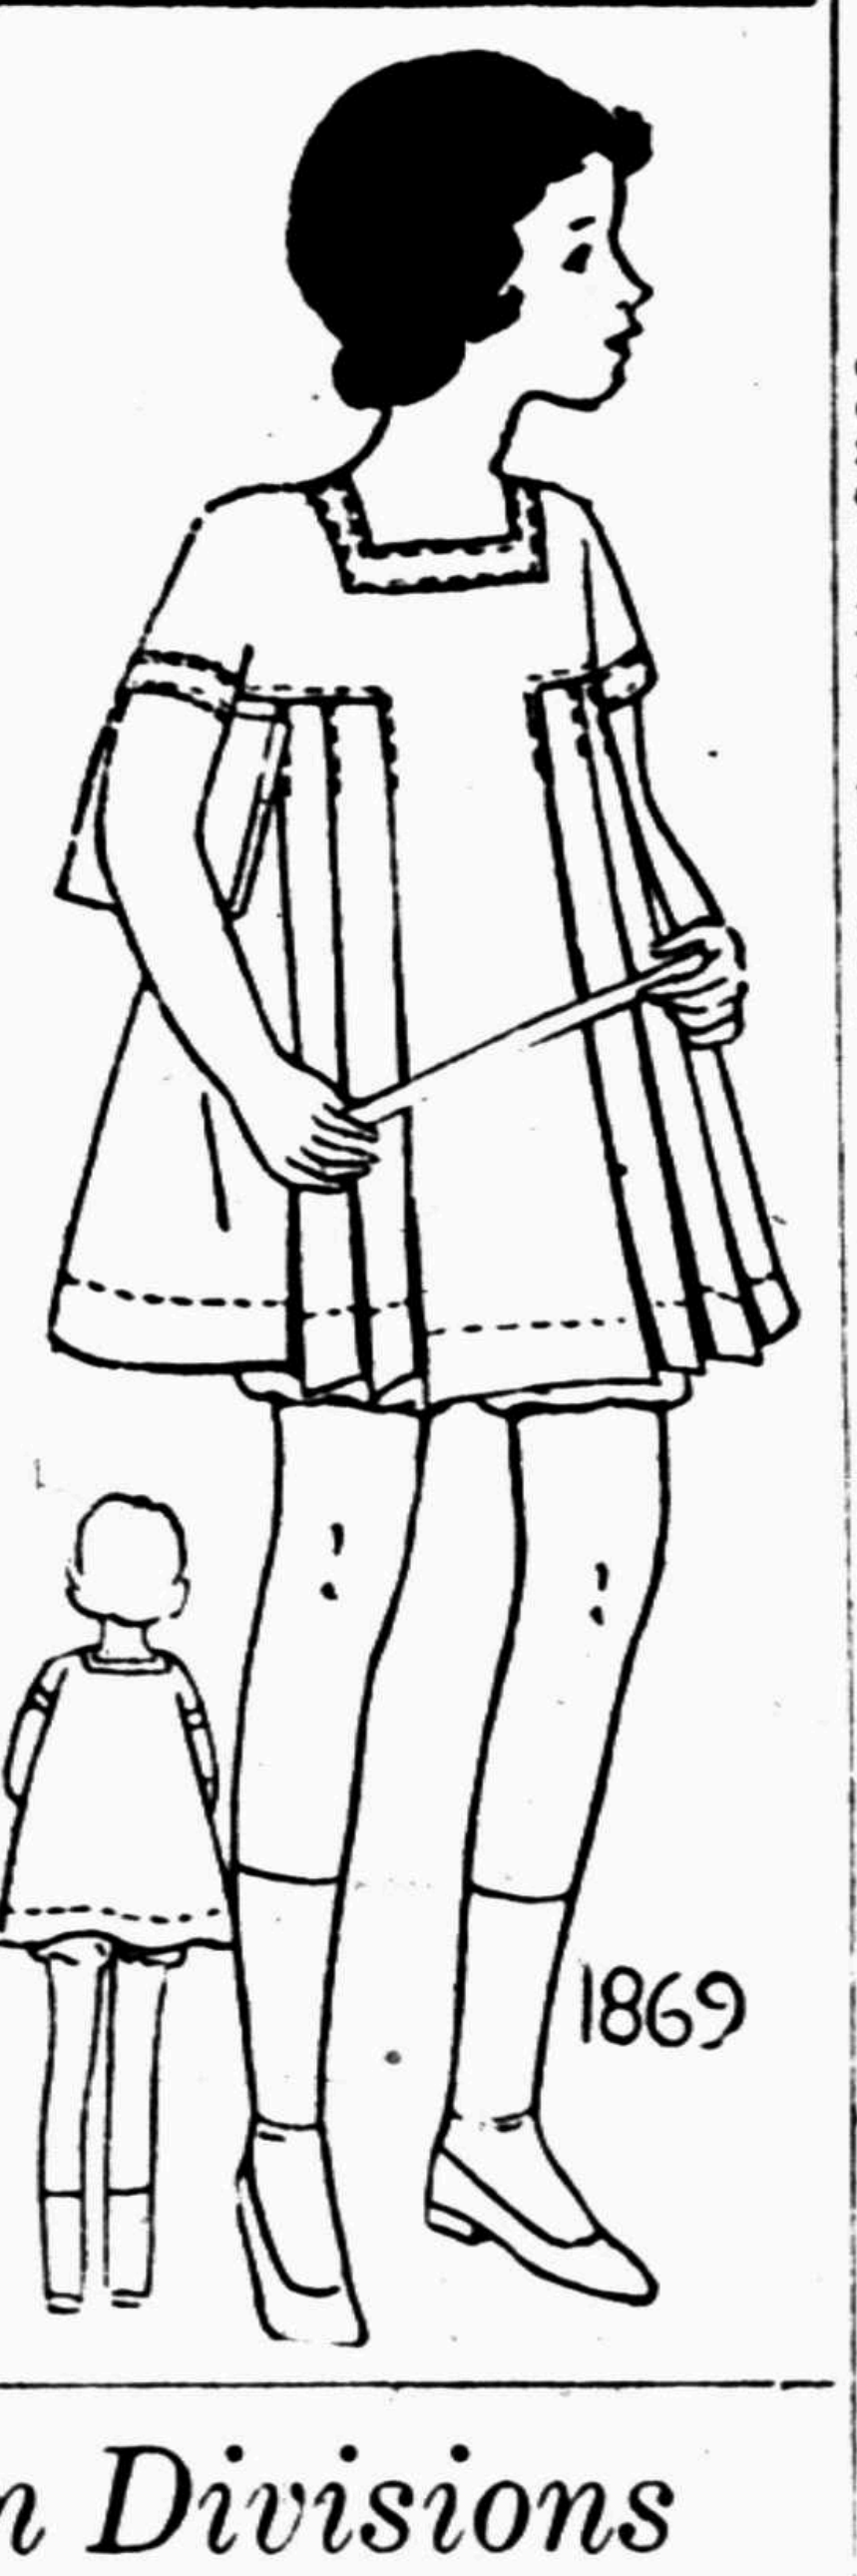
MAKE THIS MODEL AT HOME
Adorable Model for Youngster
Pattern 1869
By ANNE ADAMS



The small girl will look darling in this little bloomer frock which uses stitched banding for its sole trimming. The side pleats which give ample fullness and grace, are also stitched part way to hold them neatly in place. A square neck is new and most becoming.

Design 1869 may be made of dimity, fine linen, gingham, percale, cotton broadcloth, pique, lawn, batiste or silk crepe. A print or plain color will be equally lovely. Pastel shades, red, yellow, blue and pink are favorites for wee tots this season.

Designed only for sizes 2, 4, 6 and 8. Size 4 requires 2½ yards of 36 inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, style number and size wanted.

Our pattern book of new spring and summer styles is fifteen cents, but only ten cents when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Record News Pattern Department, 243 West 17th street, New York City.

GROWING WEATHER

Daily Editorial

WEDGES of geese honking their way homeward, and flocks of lambs wending back to the long-green pastures of Wall street, indicate that spring is keeping faith with the calendar.

The growing season now succeeds the growling season.

The stir of life is in the ground and in business. Merchants have cleared their shelves of winter remainders, and two per cent call money is clearing the air of financial despondency.

The market, after moving for months to the dragging measure of dead marches and dirges, is quick-stepping to the music of Britain's 3½ per cent bank rate and Governor Young's statement, that the federal reserve board finds credits sufficiently satisfactory to warrant "bold plans" for trade expansion.

Condensing his several column message to a paragraph, he advises industry to emerge from the cyclone cellar and resume confident operation.

He inclines to the opinion that the country is cured of get-rich-quick fever, and is indefinitely safe from a recurrent attack of the speculation mania that erased so many air castles and rainbows from the skies, when two and two demonstrated to securities, last October, that they couldn't produce an 8 per cent yield from a hundred dollars' worth of actual assets.

The weather has taken the unemployment situation out of the hands of political experiment and, as usual, is providing their customary jobs for bricklayers, plowmen, foundation diggers, painters, plasterers and mechanics.

The garage door is open and tank cars are increasing their deliveries at filling stations.

Automobile and tire manufacturers, gasoline refineries and frippery designers are climbing up the peaks of production and two cash register bells are ringing where one recently tinkled.

ALL THE tangible money that America owned before the crash, is still here. The billions that depression picked from expectation's pockets, were no part of our working capital. That's intact and waiting to stuff pay envelopes, promote enterprise, write mortgages and discount bills receivable to the limit of legitimate requirement.

Tariff uncertainty is practically over. Ninety-five per cent of commerce already knows how to calculate against European competition. The average household has about learned the worst that protection will do to its income.

The farmer will pay a little more for sugar and lumber and cement, but he secures most of the concessions demanded by the agricultural bloc, which will considerably offset his disappointment at the ineffectual efforts of Mr. Legge's board to keep wheat quotations pegged at remunerative levels. Pittsburgh and Birmingham chimneys are belching overtime.

Locomotive plants are behind in orders. Federal and state building programs will soon broadcast vast emergency expenditures. Section gangs are grabbing picks and shovelse along every railroad right of way, and the hired man has returned to his chores.

Consumption will be a long time disposing of accumulated copper and silver reserves, but cannery warehouses are all empty and the Mediterranean fruit fly has quit Florida. Prosperity isn't yet hitting it on all cylinders, but we're out of the ruts of pessimism and motors are picking up everywhere.

We're solvent, amply resourced and ready to be enthused. Cheer more and croak less. Take your mind off the brakes and step on the accelerator. One optimist makes another.

DAVID BRANCH'S DAILY FILOSOFY

"He who becomes too modest is imposed upon."

Modesty and thoughtfulness of others is often mistaken for weakness. It is necessary at times to put a certain amount of hardness into one's speech and manner, for self-protection.

The United States delegates at London wired the preesident for $150,000 for expenses. You would think they were at college instead of a conference.

To Cure a Depression

THE industrial depression that seems to date back to last fall's stock market crash has not been a very pleasant sequel to the period of high prosperity that preceded it. Efforts to place the blame are nearly as plentiful, and as contradictory, as efforts to find a remedy; but a recent article by Walter J. Munro, Cleveland advertising man, seems to us to be worth as much consideration as any we have read.

Mr. Munro begins by remarking that there is no greater or more common fallacy than the notion that business recessions are the result of overproduction in industry—since such a notion implies that everyone in the country has all the necessaries and comforts of life that he needs or wants.

"Such an idea, of course, is preposterous," he writes. "Just now there are some millions of persons unemployed in the country. Obviously these people and their families are not enjoying an overabundance of goods.

"Recessions do not come from general industrial overproduction, although the economic structure some times is thrown out of balance by the temporarily excessive outputs in particular lines. Actually the most characteristic symptom of a business decline is underconsumption. People from necessity or from reasons of caution and restraint reduce their purchases.

"It is the curtailment of normal buying by those whose purchasing power is unimpaired that tends to stretch out the period of slump and unemployment in times of recession. In advertising, business has an effective remedy for this condition.

"By working together, the newspapers, the merchants and the manufacturers of any city have the means at hand to do more toward reducing unemployment and accelerating sales than any other group.

"By increasing their newspaper advertising manufacturers and merchants can do much to stimulate sales. In this way dealers' stocks will be diminished and factories will be called upon at least to fill current orders.

"Men will be called back to work and once back at work they will enter the market as buyers, first at the grocer's and eventually at the jeweler's. When a fair percentage of people who can afford new cars, new radio sets, and new clothes are led to decide to buy, sales in 1930 can be caused to equal or surpass sales in 1929.

"Newspapers of the United States are read by millions of people. The newspapers are in reality simply strong transmission lines over which we can transmit messages concerning the merits of a product. If the manufacturer who has a truthful story to tell concerning a worthy product will bring it to the attention of enough people through adequate advertising, the public will respond.

"Additional newspaper advertising is the one tug best qualified to break the present ice jam. It is the one tug that can be depended upon to pull people away from their lack of disposition to buy and induce them to enter the market as buyers.

"When 100 national advertisers put 100 tugs to work they will break through the jam in no time and a revival in buying will put to work a great many, who at the present time are unemployed in all large cities in America."

Blocking Disarmament

IN CASTING about for reasons why the naval delegates at London are having such a desperately hard time reaching an agreement, one comes to the rather surprising conclusion that everything would be going more smoothly if the French only were not so prosperous.

A few years ago French finances were in a desperate condition. The franc was tobogganing downward until it looked as if it might follow the German mark to complete collapse. Poincare was hurriedly made premier, with a mandate to stabilize the franc. New York and London bankers came to the rescue, and the franc was finally rescued.

The influence of the bankers was long remembered, however, and when the present naval conference was suggested there were Frenchmen who feared that these bankers might force concessions out of the French delegation. But France, in the meantime, had become prosperous.

The franc has been stabilized. The French budget for 1930 will have an excess of some $12,000,000. Furthermore, the Bank of France holds in gold reserves the huge sum of $1,725,000,000—a greater reserve than any other nation possesses, except the United States.

Because of this huge reserve, the government has reduced the bank rate to 3 per cent, thereby favoring internal trade and preventing foreign capitalists from getting a stranglehold on the country.

So it is that a member of the French delegation recently remarked to Milton Bronner, London correspondent for this newspaper and NEA Service:

"In this naval conference France is in an almost impregnable position. She does not have to fear America and England, because she is shielding herself with a golden buckler and she can, if need be, fight with a golden bullet."

And a leading French editor the other day wrote:

"France entered the naval conference of her own free will. If things do not please her, the French delegates can walk out and there will be nobody who can stop them."

All of which, of course, means that the French do not propose to make any concessions and that they can afford to be independent about it. Their delegates represent a busy country which has practically no unemployment, a country that has the world's largest effective army and the world's largest military air fleet and a program for the world's largest submarine fleet.

It is nice, of course, to know that our former ally in the fight for democracy is getting along so nicely. But it is a trifle disconcerting to find that the cause of disarmament might be advanced more if she were only having hard times.

Two Springs

If I should meet you on the street today
Most unexpectedly, and you should turn
Your eyes upon me in your candid way,
Half hopefully endeavoring to discern
A trace of the old longing, I should be
So calm and careful, talking of light things,
You'd quite forget you ever spoke to me
A few months back of love and wedding rings.

Thus it would end. The hundred colored moods
You knew of mine would merge into this one.
We'd chatter, both, in silly platitudes,
Of folks we knew, of things that we had done;
And then I'd nod and cheerfully depart—
So cools, from March to March, the fondest heart.
—M. E. C. (Cleveland).

Gag

Dezzo Retter, "The Man Who Wrestles With Himself," is a big-time attraction. Recently he was touring the small towns and got on a train which was carrying seven lunatics from one asylum to another county institution. Retter didn't know that, and seated himself among them. One of the guards who counted his charges at every station-stop, started counting after Retter got on. Using an index finger to check up his maniacs, the keeper pointed at them as he counted: "One, two, three, four," and then seeing Retter's unfamiliar face, he said: "Who are you."

"I'm Dezzo Retter, the man who wrestles with himself."

"Five, six, seven . . ." continued the keeper.

Every Man for Himself

Billy Rose, the famous songsmith told us the above quip. Rose is married to Fannie Brice, you know, so we remarked: "I guess it'll be all right to credit that gag to Fannie, eh?"

"No," was the snap reply, "credit it to me! Fannie's name is on every fence in the country."

It Could Happen

Jack Inglis, one of the better clowns, swears that vaudeville conditions are so terrible that one long-idle piffawmer raced out of his 47th St. hotel and kept running until he reached the East rive. Then, while poised on the edge of a dock he proceeded to remove his clothes.

"Justa minute," said one of two guys, whose heads bobbed up out of the water, "Are you on actor?"

"Yeah," was the answer.

"Okay," retorted the others, "come on in!"

"Dear Mister W.: Through the medium of your widely read, interesting and frequently accurate column, you might inform Mr. Franklin P. Adams (who used to be a columnist himself) that long before he or I was telling others how good we were, the prescription as to how become an unsuccessful journalist had been written. Teoprastus Renaudat, Liberty Wilkes and H. Greeley had a few words to say on that basic subject—and each agreed with me. So does Adams. We only disagree as to why we agree. With salutations, I remain,

They were trying to say that the radio has made many stars out of mediocrities and offered for example this incident. The scene was at Gimbel's place and the party contained most of the principals from the "Sons o' Guns" show. The radio was on hand and the announcer said that any request would be complied with at once so David Hutcheson of the show telephoned to the broadcasting station. "My name is David Hutchesan," said David. "We are at Mr. Gimbel's party and Jack Donahue, Lily Damita, Bill Frawley and Mary Horan from the 'Sons o' Guns' show are here. Will you kindly oblige with 'Why?' the hit song from 'Sons o' Guns'?" The man said he would. A few minutes later this is how he announced it over the ether: "There is a party going on at Mr. Whimple's place and David Huchinson phoned to say Jack McGonigle, Willie Hamleter, Harry Moran and Bill McCauley were there and that they all would like to hear 'Sons o' Guns' the hit song from 'Why?'"

He'll Make Good

Western Union messenger No. 1869 just delivered a telegram to this desk, and he paused to say that he felt like 17 although he really is 35. He goes to Columbia's School of Journalism and has written articles for several success magazines and now is competing for the Yale Review award. His name is David Bloom and he wants to be a reporter, he says, and the reason he is a messenger boy is "Where can even people with white collars meet the people I meet? I meet such great people like Ziegfeld and Ed Wynn—and not only do I meet such people, but I talk to them!"

We wish Mr. Bloom well, but when he is a reporter he will find out that he'll be damned if he prints it and be damned if he does not, as F. P. A. would say.

We have just discovered what probably is the only female bouncer in town in a fashionable Park Ave. hooch-house. The place is frequented by swells and debutantes, but now and then "Bunnies" are brought in by "those bankers." A "Bunnie" it appears, is a stenographer with no class. The other night one "Bunnie" got giggly during a star's song specialty and the bouncer grabbed her by the neck and her skirt-seat and hurled her down a flight of stairs.

"Golly!" we golly'd, "that's pretty rought stuff, isn't it?"

"No it isn't," replied the femme bouncer, "We haven't a man bouncer because it takes a woman to handle an objectionable woman and when a woman or man annoys others in here they soon learn that there are only two steps leading to the exit—the top step and the bottom one!"

The Girl With The Red Hair

By Rob Eden

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Pretty Gay Terris agrees to marry her employer, Frank Patterson, whom she does not love, in return for a loan of five thousand dollars to send her sick mother to Arizona. Through Paul Ladishaw, she meets Fania Crandall, prominent society woman who resembles Gay. After due consideration, Gay accepts Mrs. Crandall's offer of two hundred dollars to represent her at the Van Schuyler mask ball, although she resents her secretive manner regarding the affair. Andy Grant, a friend of Gay, tells her he will be at the ball as press representative. At the ball she dances with Mark Loring, whom she casually met on another occasion and was attracted to, but is unable to reveal her identity because of her promise to keep silent. Returning to Mrs. Crandall's her suspicion is aroused when she discovers a complete costume in her bedroom, which she remembers seeing at the ball. A valuable necklace is reported stolen at the ball and Andy Grant interviews all the prominent guests, including Mrs. Crandall, for his paper. She is surprised when he tells her she resembles a friend of his—Gay Terris. Mrs. Crandall learns from Gay that Mark Loring was present at the masquerade and asks Grant why Loring's name was omitted from the printed newspaper list. Gay discovers Loring is Patterson's nephew and a dinner is arranged at Patterson's country home.

CHAPTER XVII

She wanted to lie, to tell him the ring meant nothing.

In Patterson's car going out to his country place in Connecticut that evening, Gay learned much about Mark. He was from California, here on a short business trip in connection with the western firm he represented. He hadn't seen his uncle for 10 years, hadn't in fact been in New York for more years than that.

Patterson was only an uncle by marriage. Mark thought, she realized before they had driven very far, that his uncle had arranged this dinner tonight as a special favor for him. Thought that Gay was to be his companion. She didn't care. She was having a glorious time. Mark was near, talking to her, laughing with her. Even Patterson, himself, was not so formal, not so banal this evening. Gay liked him better than she ever had before. Perhaps because they were not alone. More likely because Mark was there, and for a time, she forgot the ring that fitted tightly to her finger, under her glove. Forgot that this man sitting beside her was to be her husband very shortly.

Only today she had had a letter from one of the doctors at the sanitarium where Mrs. Terris was. An encouraging, cheerful letter. Mrs. Terris had arrived, and although the trip had been almost too much for her, he thought she would respond to the treatment he had planned for her. A year there, he had said, would cure her. He was almost sure. He advised her that her letters to her mother must be happy, joyful ones. Mrs. Terris was to be worried about nothing. Her mind must be absolutely at ease, if she was to benefit by the change.

Patterson's mother met them at the door of the comfortable, rambling farm house where their summers were spent. Gay liked the place immediately, with its great living room, its big old-fashioned kitchen. The stone fireplaces in every room, even the kitchen, big bellied, blackened iron kettles standing on the hearths. There was a spinning wheel standing near a wing chair in the living room. The floors were covered with old-fashioned hooked rugs.

Frank Patterson's mother, she did not like so well. The thin, wiry, old lady frightened her from the first. She was so positive, so efficient. There was so much energy in her slight body. Her bright pale blue eyes saw everything. They missed nothing.

Gay and Mark were shown through the whole house, and were seated in the living room waiting for dinner to be announced, when Patterson called Gay outside. As she had no excuse, she followed him out.

"How do you like it?" he asked eagerly, caressing her shoulder.

"The house? Oh, it's lovely—" It was lovely. All the old New England atmosphere was there.

"We'll live here in the summers—"

We? Yes. She and Mr. Patterson and probably his mother. She had forgotten. She mustn't let herself forget again.

"I've been very careful about restoring," Patterson went on. And then came a history of the house, the condition in which he had found it, what he had done to it.

Gay was bored. She longed to go back where Mark was. Longed to be near him. If it were Mark, now she were talking to, it would be different. She would be interested. She let Patterson drone on, her mind occupied with other things, until Mrs. Patterson appeared and announced that dinner was ready. She almost liked the old lady for her interruption. Dinner was served at a big pine table, lighted with a great brass candelabra. The flickering shadows played cruelly on the faces of Patterson and his mother, gently on Gay's lovely hair, and her pale, beautiful face.

After dinner, they all sat on the terrace for a while watching the moon rise over the hedge of tall, straight hollyhocks.

"Let's get away from here," Mark whispered to the girl, and she felt his hand holding hers as he drew her down the steps and out into the darkness.

They stopped, finally at a rustic bench and sat down.

The perfume of mignonette and sweet alyssum drenched the night air through Gay's hair, ruffling it over her forehead, cooling her warm body.

To sit here with Mark. . . .

"Now will you tell me why you ran away from me that night at Coney Island?" he begged.

"I don't know—"

"You were afraid of me?"

"No, not exactly."

"Nice of my uncle to do this, isn't it? Didn't know the old rascal had so much sense!"

Calling him an 'old rascal'—Her thumb twisted the ring on her finger. Patterson's ring.

"Yes," she murmured, because she could think of nothing else.

"Maybe he isn't so bad."

"Who?"

"My uncle."

"Don't you like him?"

"Do you?" he countered.

"I —— work for him." Let it go at this. She couldn't tell him now. To tell him would spoil everything. The gorgeous night. . . .

"Then you ought to know him better than I do. I haven't seen him for years, and I wouldn't be seeing him tonight, if it weren't for you——"

"You came up to the office to see him——"

"I had to. Had to get a letter from him. A letter of introduction. My mother asked him once for some money——money to put me through college. She didn't have much hopes in getting it, and she didn't." Mark laughed shakily. "I put myself through. Glad I did now, but it would have been easier then if he had lent me the money. Mother and I were alone, and it was hard to keep up a home, and work my way through school."

The leaves on the giant oak tree, under which they were sitting, stirred restlessly. The hushed twitter of a bird rippled near them, a querulous sleepy twitter, as if their conversation were breaking its rest.

Mark's quiet, restrained voice went on. He was looking at Gay while he talked, never tiring of her white throat, her pale face in the darkness, the hair, he knew was to be so ruddy, yet which now was dusky. He touched one of her hands, and she shivered slightly as if with the cold. But she knew it was not cold. It was because Mark was near, because he was talking, because—she liked him.

"Gay! His hand tightened on hers, until the grip of it hurt her. She let it rest still, in his.

"Gay—I've been wanting to ask you all evening. Please tell me," his fingers were turning the ring on her left hand. "This—" he was looking down at it now, as it rested gleaming on her hand—"this does not mean anything does it?"

"What?" She knew very well what he meant, but she dreaded telling him. He couldn't know—yet.

"This ring. You know what I mean. Does it mean anything? It's on your left hand—"

"It—" the words caught in her throat. She couldn't say them. She wanted to lie, to tell him the ring meant nothing. He was going away—and it would make no difference. The truth—was impossible after what he had said about his uncle. What would he say if he knew—knew she had promised to marry Mr. Patterson?

"I've got to know, Gay. I must know. I've been wondering all evening." His arms were around her, and she felt her mouth near his. There was no strength in her to resist. She didn't want to resist. She wanted him to kiss her. . . .

"Gay! Miss Terris," Patterson called out from nearby. Gay came to herself, and sprang away from Mark. Just as she did so, Patterson approached. Mark was muttering under his breath, as he followed her to where his uncle stood.

"Mother wants to have some bridge," Patterson explained fatuously, taking her arm in a proprietary manner.

"I don't play—" Gay insisted.

"You don't play? Well, well, I'll have to teach you."

Mark was glowering as they entered the softly lighted room where Mrs. Patterson was sitting before a table shuffling a pack of cards.

Patterson stopped over so that no one but Gay could hear his words.

"What were you doing in the garden with Mark, Gay?"

"Just—talking."

"Please remember, my dear, that you are to marry me," Gay flushed under the sharp reproof. She didn't like the look in Patterson's small eyes either. They were hard, relentless.

Mr. Haskin will answer any question a reader of the Record News asks. Please avail yourself of this service. Write your questions plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and inclose two cents in coin or stamps for return postage. The reply is sent direct to the inquirer. Address The Record News Information bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, director, Washington, D. C.

Q.—Can an ordinary visitor to Washington see President Hoover at his office or at the White House? K. H. R.

A.—President Hoover has not received the public at the executive offices since last summer. Visitors in order to meet him must be introduced by their senator or congressman in person, the hour for such presentation being usually at 12:30. Visitors are not received by the president in the White House except on formal invitation. The public is admitted to the basement corridor and East Room of the White House daily from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m., except Sundays and holidays. Cards admitting the holders to the Blue Room, Red Room, and State Dining Room between the hours of 10:30 a. m. and 12:00 noon may be secured through senators and representatives who will request their issuance. The president has his office in the State, War and Navy building while repairs are being made in the executive offices which were damaged by fire.

Q.—When was Contract Bridge introduced in the United States? What is meant by a love score? N. B.

A.—Milton C. Work says that it was introduced here in the summer of 1926, and gained popularity slowly at first. It is now a strong rival of Auction Bridge. A love score is 0-0. Love is the same as zero.

Q.—Does John McCormack sing in any foreign language? W. J. H.

A.—John McCormack sings in both French and Italian. He studied in Italy and made his debut in opera there.

Q.—In what years were visits made to Georgia by George Washington and by Lafayette? J. M. T.

A.—Washington's southern tour was made in 1791. Lafayette's visit to Georgia was made in 1825.

Q.—Why does a scratch on a mahogany table show yellow or orange? E. K.

A.—The natural wood is light in color. When a scratch penetrates the finish, the original color is revealed.

Q.—Why is the model of an elephant so popular? E. H. C.

A.—The elephant has figured in mythology from a very early period. It is a symbol of temperance, eternity, and sovereignty.

Q.—What are the floating gardens of Mexico City? A. R.

A.—The La Viga and other canals connect the city of Mexico with Zumpango, Xaltocan, San Oristobal, Texcoco, Chalco, and Xochimilco lakes. On these waterways so many flowers grow that they are called floating gardens.

Q.—Why is Nesselrode pudding so called? B. F. C.

A.—This gelatinous pudding containing chestnuts was named for a Russian statesman and epicure. An ice cream containing chestnuts and candied fruit, and garnished with whipped cream is also called Nesselrode pudding.

Q.—Who made popular the expression "place in the sun?" E. H. C.

A.—The phase was used by the former Emperor of Germany William II, on June 18, 1901, in an address at Hamburg while referring to Germany's acquisition of the Chinese harbor at Kiaochow and other valuable commercial concessions in China. The idea was expressed many years before, however. Pascal, who lived from 1623-62, in his Les Pensees said: "That dog is mine said those poor children; that place in the sun is mine; such is the beginning of type of usurpation throughout the earth."

Q.—Please describe a baron's coronet. R. C.

A.—The coronet worn by a baron has six large pearls fixed to a golden circlet.

Q.—How much money is spent in agricultural experimentation? L. K. C.

A.—About $20,000,000 is spent annually by the state and federal governments for research activities on agricultural subjects. Contrasting with this we find that $180,000,000 is spent in research activities on the same subject by private corporations. The Hatch and Adams Act gave $30,000 to each state annually, and the Purnell Act increased this by $10,000 for each year between 1926 and 1930, and provided for an increase of $60,000 thereafter, making a total of $90,000 per state annually.

Q.—How did Scott happen to write Lochinvar? D. S. D.

A.—It was part of the metrical romance, Marmion. For this romance in verse, Scott was offered 1,000 pounds before it was begun.

OLD SALT CAN'T SPEND LUCRE

Aged Clam Digger Splurges On Broadway

FISHING CREEK, N. J., March 24. (UP)—Ulysses Behle sighed tonight as he shifted his quid from left to right and spat into a clam shell half way across his shanty floor. His friends sighed with him.

"I tell ya, boys, I was right ashamed to come back here an' face ya after makin' my brags about bargin' inta Broadway and cargoin' a hot time in trade for my $1,350.

"I'd raise hell, says I, but—." Ulysses tossed a roll of money on the table.

Disillusionment rested heavily on the face of the 74-year-old clam digger who left here three days ago to spend an unexpected inheritance of $1,350 in one gay, last splurge on a Broadway which he knew when he was a sailor almost half a century ago. His cronies looked like a mourning party.

"Forty year ago when I was a sea goin'-son-o'-satan," Ulysses went on, "I made the port and met Frankie Bailey, who had the most beautiful legs o' all the burlesque queens." A recollection of those legs lighted his face for an instant—

"Then I met Chuck Conners, the mayor of Chinatown. I looked all over for Frankie and Chuck, an' do I find 'em? I do not. Nobody ain't ever heard about 'em."

The story came a little more rapidly after these painful recollections. Ulysses, it seems, left for New York by train last Friday from Philadelphia, but was sidetracked for a time at Elizabeth, N. J., where a fellow passenger persuaded him to disembark for a fling prior to Broadway. This adventure ended with Ulysses finding himself the next morning on Staten Island. He had vague recollections of potent Elizabeth whisky.

It developed Ulysses might eventually have disposed of his entire bankroll, but for his inadvertent sending of a postal card to his nephew, Harry Behle of Hatboro, Pa. The nephew grabbed the first train for New York and Tuesday he found his philandering relative regaining his sea legs in a sailors' lodging house. He finally coaxed the old man to return to his home here.

"But I had three days, mates," the retired playboy mused. "An' I got ridda only $200—includin' passage. There mus' be somethin' wrong."

Butcher, 108, Will Take Fourth Bride, Aged 30

PRAGUE, March 24. (US)—Ibrahim Gayan, a Serbian butcher, is to marry for the third time at the reputed age of 108.

Gayan's first marriage was 82 years ago. His only regret, he says, is that his latest intended bride is not younger—and she is only 30.

"GOOD TO TAKE IN THE SPRING"

Black-Draught Is a Cleansing Medicine That Should Help You as It Did This Lady.

Oklahoma City, Okla. — "The first of the week I was feeling bad, was dizzy and felt bilious," writes Mrs. L. F. Moyer, of 408 North Lee street, this city.

"I took a dose of Thedford's Black-Draught every night for three nights, and now I am feeling fine.

"I can always tell when one of these attacks is coming on. I can't see good and everything dances in front of me. As soon as I begin to feel like this I take Black-Draught, for it always helps me. All this trouble seems to come from constipation.

"My father had used Black-Draught in his home and often told me I ought to try it, but up until two years ago I had not. Then I began taking it for constipation and indigestion. I found it to be the best home medicine I had ever used. I take it as often as I need anything for constipation. I feel fresh and have more pep after I have taken a course of Black-Draught. It is a good medicine to take in the spring of the year."

Costs only 1 cent a dose.

American Industry Gets Down To Realities Since Crash of Stocks

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

WASHINGTON, March 24.—There is a very general opinion throughout the country that the existing situation calls for a new and more specialized inquiry into the sources and extent of our national wealth. It might be said that the demand is for a debunking of previously accepted economic fictions to the end that our people may better know where they stand.

The collapse of values on the New York stock exchange last autumn brought sharply home to thousands the idea that merely to state in printed figures on a ticker that a given security was worth a given amount did not magically convey to that security any such real worth. It was found that the very high quotations which had been accorded certain favored securities were due only to the combined belief and hope of the buyers of them and the optimistic assurances of the sellers. Many securities which suffered severe drops in price did not deserve such a marking down. Others did. A general stock-taking has been following, as a result, with much intelligent inquiry, bereft of all fictions, into realities.

Employment Drops

The panic fear which seized so many people resulted in retrenchment and a sensational drop in employment followed the market collapse. This phase gradually is passing but investors and the public at large are much concerned to know what real values exist in the country before they start upon another cycle of stock buying.

That the country is rich beyond the dreams of its founders or even beyond the dreams of the last generation is past doubt. But how accurate the figures we have in hand are it is considered desirable to ascertain. The federal trade commission has made an investigation based on the last official statistics on national wealth but those figures are old, being no later than for 1922. Not until the census figures for 1932 are available will it be possible to have full confidence in results but the national industrial conference board has made a study which produces some highly illuminating results.

These new figures can be no more than an estimate but the same is true to some extent of the official census figures themselves.

War Increased Wealth

In 1912 the bureau of the census estimated that the national wealth of the United States was $186,300,000,000. The figure for 1922, the latest official one, was $320,804,000,000, a net gain of approximately 65 per cent in one decade. An even higher figure has been estimated. Much is written and said about the mighty destructiveness of war. Without taking into consideration the destruction of manpower which, in the case of the United States, was mercifully light as compared with the other belligerent nations, it will be observed that this enormous gain in national wealth took place in the very decade in which the war was waged; that is, between 1912 and 1922.

Millions of tons of food were sent out of the country, vast quantities of material things in the form of munitions, coal, timber, clothing were exported to our allies and consumed in the conflict. Nevertheless, this vast increase in national wealth occurred. The figures represent almost entirely real wealth. The value of gold and silver coin and bullion and the ships of the United States navy amounted in 1912 to only $3,309,000,000 and in 1922 to only $6,085,000,000. While these items nearly doubled yet they represent only about 2 per cent of the usable, material things in the country, the real wealth—land, buildings, utilities, animals, automobiles, and the like.

The real fact of the war was that it so stimulated industry, so enhanced the purchasing power of the people with its high wages, that we came out of the war vastly richer in real property, out of debt to other nations, and owing no one but ourselves.

From 1922 onward, the national industrial conference board has projected its own estimates made with very great care; as much, doubtless, as was exercised by the officials of the census bureau.

Prosperity Rapidly Recovered

For 1925 the board estimates a national wealth of $362,391,000,000, an increase of $41,587,000,000 in only three years. From then on a decline is noted. In 1926 the national wealth had dropped to $356,540,000,000 and 1927 showed a further and bigger drop to $346,399,000,000. But then came the inevitable upswing and 1928 showed the national wealth figure back to $360,062,000,000—almost back to what it was in 1925. In one year about $14,000,000,000 of the $16,000,000,000 loss of the previous two years had been recovered. The year 1928 is the latest year to which the board has advanced its estimates.

It might be profitably noted that during those very years of 1926 and 1927 in which a drop in real wealth was registered, the stock market boom was in the making. It was on in real earnest in 1928 when so much of the loss had been recovered and probably the figures for 1929, when compiled, will show that there had been a further substantial gain. Yet it was in the autumn of 1929 that the stocks collapsed.

However, it might be well to take note of the fact that the trend in real values in the period leading up to the boom was first downward and then up. If the subsequent figures show that the upward trend continued through 1929 it will be a good omen of rapidly recovering prosperity.

The biggest estimate of national wealth ever registered was at the top of the post-war boom and this is worthy of close attention. In 1920 the national wealth was estimated at the vast sum of $488,692,000,000. Comparing this post-war figure with the official 1912 figure of $186,300,000,000 we find that the war had increased the national wealth about 300 per cent. Before that year of 1920 was half over the great depression of 1920-21 began and 1921 showed the national wealth dwindled to only $317,272,000,000, the lowest in the last decade and marking a loss of $171,500,000,000 from the peak of the year before. But the very next year showed a gain of more than $3,500,000,000 and the next a gain of some $42,000,000,000.

These dancing statistics show that national wealth is governed very much by the price scale.

Woman's Letter Guides Officers to Still

Special to The Record News

MEMPHIS, Texas, March 24.—A sealed envelope left by a young woman on the water cooler in the sheriff's office, led Saturday to the capture of a 75-gallon still and the seizure of 250 gallons of mash. The letter guided the sheriff's department to the hiding place of the plant.

Two arrests were made following the raid. Sheriff Christian publicly announced his gratitude to the unknown woman who wrote and delivered the note.

GUARDS WATCH AFTER MUTINY

Lawton Prison Smoulders From Sunday Riot

Special to The Record News

LAWTON, Okla., March 24.—Officers maintained their vigilance Monday afternoon while the 82 county jail prisoners who mutinied Sunday afternoon and evening moved sullenly about their cells, quieted but still restless.

The uproar, which started in the middle of Sunday afternoon, subsided Monday morning. Water fixtures, torn asunder by the mutineers, were repaired, and jail windows and screens replaced, but special deputies, their guns drawn, continued to guard the jail.

While the rampaging prisoners were at their worst shots that did no damage re-echoed through the cells and "run-around," and the Canon City, Colo., riot battle cry "report at the milky way" rang through the corridors. Officers believed that both whisky and guns had been smuggled to the prisoners, about half of whom are under federal charges.

Suspecting a snare of armed prisoners, desperate from drinking, officers kept their distance from the mutineers while the tumult lasted, allowing the rioters to go to bed without supper. A note sent by the sheriff, asking the inmates where they got the whisky and the guns, went unanswered.

The disturbance was attributed to crowded conditions in the jail.

Pastor Shows Relics For Athletic Fund

FREDERICK, Okla., March 24.—Rev. C. H. Hickman, Methodist pastor of Hollister recently displayed his large collection of Indian relics at Consolidated No. 1 schoolhouse Friday night, the proceeds of the entertainment being used for the athletic association of that school.

Rev. Mr. Hickman spent 15 months lecturing and displaying his Indian collection four years ago, visiting 23 different states and Old Mexico.

He and Mrs. Hickman will leave early in April for Roosevelt where he will occupy the pulpit of the late Rev. Parker. His place at Hollister will be filled by Rev. H. H. Hunt of California. Rev. and Mrs. Hunt are expected to arrive in Hollister about April 2.

Only one oil is good enough for household equipment, says chemist

Chemists, mechanics and lubrication experts say only one kind of oil is good enough for your expensive mechanical devices—the best. To get best results from your sewing machine, vacuum cleaner, lawn mower, washer, electric fan, refrigerator and other household appliances, you should use an oil that not only lubricates, but also cleans and protects.

3-in-One Oil is different from all others, because it is a scientific blend of animal, mineral and vegetable oils. It gives you the best properties of each. It dissolves and works out dirt, protects against rust and wear and gives the most efficient lubrication, thus eliminating unnecessary repairs and replacements.

Naturally such oil costs more to make, but it really costs less to use. Play safe; insist on 3-in-One Oil. At good stores everywhere, 15c and 30c sizes. For your protection, look for the trade mark "3-in-One" printed in Red on every package.—Adv.

GIRL CHANGES STORY OF PLOT

Wilma Jones Names Tom Dodd as Attacker

MEXIA, Texas, March 24. (INS)—Tom Dodd, 30-year-old Buffalo business man, was named today by Wilma Jones as the man who last Wednesday tied her to a bed in a Fairfield hotel, gagged her and set fire to the bed-clothing. Dodd is in custody here.

Dodd was named by the girl in a written statement given to Ranger Sergeant J. B. Wheatley, investigating the attempted killing, after Wilma had first accused Stan Moore, wealthy land owner whose name she was alleged to have forged to a $250 check.

"Moore hasn't any more to do with that attack than you have," Wheatley told a reporter. "The girl has told so many stories we are having a hard time getting the exact truth.

"We brought Dodd here from Fairfield not because there is any danger of mob violence there, but merely because it was a convenient place to talk with him."

Dodd was isolated in the city jail and Police Chief Ed McMordie was under orders not to allow any one to talk with him. He has not asked permission to call an attorney, McMordie said. County Attorney W. V. Geppert, who helped Wheatley question him, said that Dodd had little to say.

The preliminary examination of Wilma on a forgery charge, scheduled to have been held in Fairfield today, was indefinitely postponed, Geppert said, pending further investigation of both the forgery charge and the attempted killing.

Stock Men Want Truck Rates Kept Stationary

AUSTIN, March 24. (AP)—A request that present trucking rates on all commodities in the wool and mohair producing districts remain the same was made to the railroad commission today by A. H. Priest of Fort Worth, representing the cattlemen and mohair and wool producers. He also requested that rates in the Fort Worth area on cottonseed meal and cake remain stationary. The hearing was held on the protest of the chamber of commerce of Mason City to the rates prescribed by the railroad commission for truck lines.

State Appeals From Dismissal of Charge

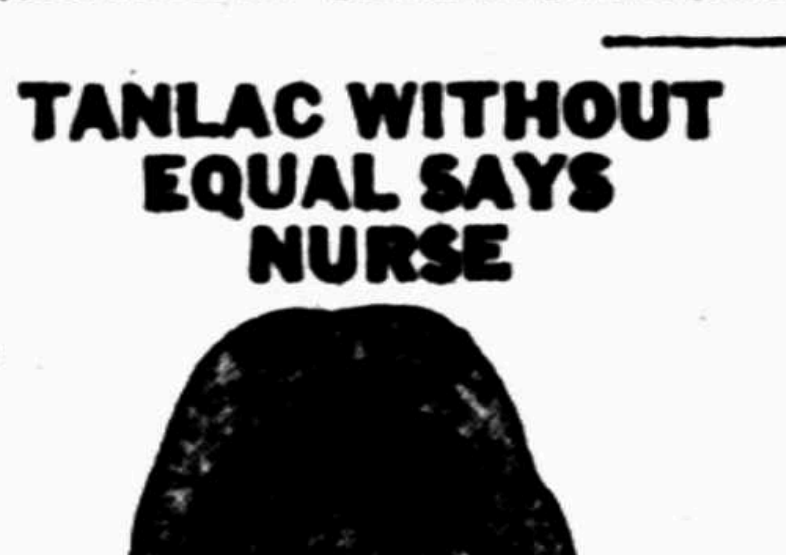
No Substitute For Tanlac

For Quick Relief of Stomach, Liver, Kidney and "Rheumatic" Troubles — Two of The Most Remarkable Endorsements Ever Given A Medicine

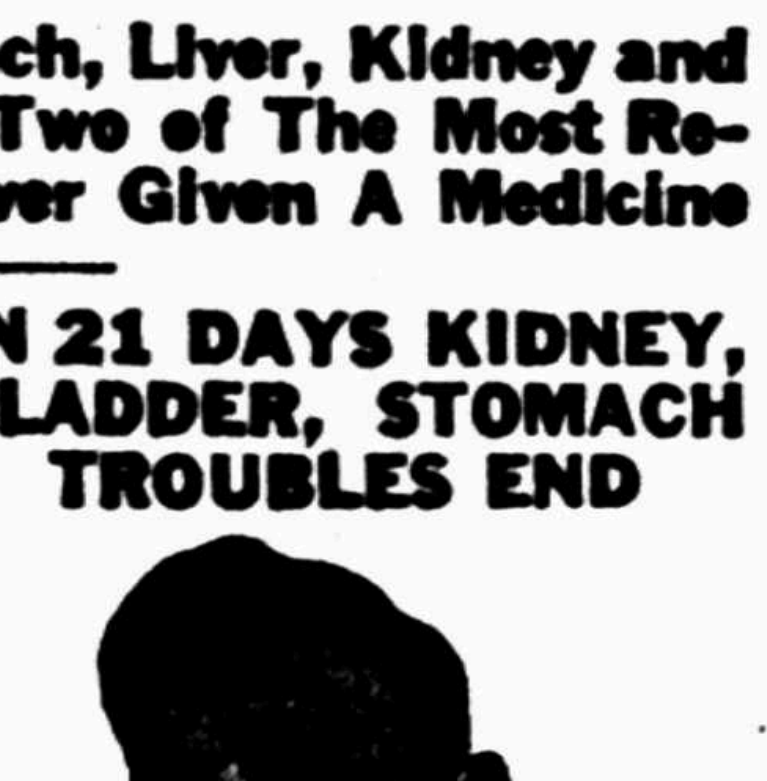
TANLAC WITHOUT EQUAL SAYS NURSE



Read this letter. It is one sent to us voluntarily by a practising nurse, Mrs. B. Piccord, whose advice anyone suffering from stomach troubles could well take.

She writes, "In 10 years active nursing I have found Tanlac without equal as a remedy for stomach and liver troubles and I can certainly promise people wonderful results in view of my long experience with this medicine. I had stomach trouble, myself for years, could eat scarcely anything without suffering, never any appetite, always nervous and rundown. But as soon as I began Tanlac, it started to build me right up. All stomach troubles were routed and never any pain, distress or gases since. Now I eat everything with perfect safety and weigh more now than in past 15 years." Tanlac is not a patent medicine. Every drop is real medicine designed to do its part in making you well. Accept no substitute.

IN 21 DAYS KIDNEY, BLADDER, STOMACH TROUBLES END



Better by far than all the glowing promises in the world is the actual proof of what Tanlac has done for others who once suffered like you.

Mr. Charles L. Stultz, a carpenter, suffered night and day for years until Tanlac put an end to it. He writes, "I suffered from a rundown condition for 3 or 4 years. I also had kidney and bladder troubles as well as indigestion and pains in stomach and side. My sleep was disturbed 4 or 5 times a night. I saw Tanlac advertised and decided to try it. I had tried other things which failed but after I had taken 3 bottles of Tanlac my kidney, bladder troubles and pains disappeared and never returned." Tanlac gives results and gives them quickly, for every ingredient in it is a strong potent medicine. Get a bottle today at your druggist.

IF BACK HURTS FLUSH KIDNEYS

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to stimulate them to their normal activity.

The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive: cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.—Adv.

Livestock Interests Ask Truck Exemptions

AUSTIN, March 24. (AP)—The railroad commission tonight had under advisement an application by the Southwestern Cattle Raisers association, the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers association, the Livestock Traffic association, and various truck operators to exempt truck lines in the mohair and wool producing districts from the rates of the commission which will become effective April 1. A request also was filed asking that no change be made in rates on cottonseed meal and cakes in the Fort Worth area.

A Dissertation on Pig

Most people think that beef is the most popular of all meats, but statistics show that we actually eat more pork than beef. In 1928 the average person ate 73.9 pounds of pork and only 51.7 pounds of beef, or an average of 22.2 pounds more pork per capita than beef.

Part of the popularity of pork depends on its great amount of fat which makes it a fuel that appeals to those in cold climates or with heavy work to do. The price, too, is always reasonable, due to the efficiency with which pork and bacon can be marketed.

Anyone who likes pork should read Charles Lamb's famous essay on the "Dissertation on Roast Pig," in which he suggested that the first roast pig was an accident, caused by a house burning down around the pig's ears. The owner of the house, in dragging out the pig, got some of the grease on his fingers and burned, whereupon, putting his fingers into his mouth to relieve the burn he enjoyed a new flavor. For some time thereafter it was the custom to burn down a house in order to enjoy roast pig.

The idea that pork was poisonous seems to have grown up from religious taboos against eating pork which the Hebrews, Egyptians and Arabians have against eating pork. However, pork meat is not poisonous, but makes a good protein food for those with strong digestions. There is an excess of fat in pork which causes the particles of protein to be coated with fat, and the digestive juices have a hard time to attack the meat, itself. For this reason, people with digestive troubles do not handle pork as well, but the person with a good digestion will find that pork is not harmful and makes a welcome change from beef or other proteins.

Pork meat should be thoroughly cooked to avoid the danger of the disease called trichinosis. Practically all cases of this disease can be traced to the eating of raw sausage or improperly cooked pork. In this disease, certain parasites from the pig are eaten by the human. The eggs develop in the intestine and finally reach the muscles, where they may be found in the form of small worms. By cooking all pork thoroughly the danger of such infection is avoided. Never serve roast pork rare, since this would indicate that the interior of the pork has not been heated enough to kill off any of these parasites that might exist. You can absolutely protect your family from all danger if you cook every piece of pork that comes into the kitchen until it is well done. Never eat raw sausages. The heat used in broiling slices of ham and bacon will render them perfectly safe.

A combination of applesauce and pork is good if non-starchy food is taken at the same time. The best way to serve pork is to roast it in a hot oven, allowing 25 minutes for each pound of meat, basting as required. In boiling ham, first soak it well for one hour. Place in cold water, boil moderately, allowing 20 minutes for each pound, adding more water to the pot as necessary. When done, take off as much fat as possible and put in the oven until brown. When using eggs, it is all right to use a small amount of ham or bacon. Ham is a little more easily digested than bacon. For those who are rebuilding their digestive powers, it is best to avoid pork and ham until the digestion is sufficiently strong to handle them successfully. Others will find that pork and bacon make welcome additions to other food and are quite wholesome, especially if combined with the non-starchy green vegetables.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Lump in Neck

Question: H. W. writes: "I have a lump in the right side of my neck about the size of a pecan that has been there for over four years. Has never bothered me but I get worried at it's being there. It is movable. Would like to know what caused it, and if it may turn into something serious if not attended to."

Answer: The lump is doubtlessly an enlarged lymphatic gland. The best treatment to remove it would be with diet, supplemented by physiotherapy treatments with heat and electricity. This gland was probably enlarged at some time when you had a cold, or perhaps is an infection from some of your teeth. If not treated it may remain the same size and cause no harm, but it is well to try to reduce the size of the lump if possible.

Italian Squash

Question: Mrs. W. H. F. writes: "You often mention zuchini in your menus, but I am unable to find it in the market."

Answer: Zucchini or Italian squash is similar to the ordinary summer squash, and may be used freely if cooked in the same manner as summer squash. It is, however, difficult to obtain in all parts of the country, as it is raised only in certain sections.

Changing Voice

Question—Pat writes: "I am a boy of 14 and am often embarrassed by my voice which I cannot seem to control. Sometimes it is very high, and sometimes very rough. Why is this?"

Answer—You are simply having a change of voice which occurs at your age. In a few months the high notes will disappear and your voice will naturally become under better control.

POOR MRS. SLIDER IS SO WORRIED AND GRIEVED OVER HER SON'S ELOPEMENT – CAN YOU IMAGINE THE INGRATITUDE OF THAT WHELP – RUNNING AWAY AND GETTING MARRIED WITHOUT FIRST CONSULTING HIS MOTHER
IT'S JUST WHAT SHE DESERVES! – SHE'S BEEN HUMORING, PAMPERING AND PETTING HIM – AND DEFENDING HIM AGAINST HIS FATHER'S CRITICISM – SHE'S GOT THAT BIG BOZO FEELING THAT EVERYTHING HE DOES IS RIGHT
YES, IT'S EASY TO CRITICIZE – IT'S THE MOTHER'S FAULT WHEN A CHILD DOES WRONG BUT HOW MUCH TIME DO YOU SPEND KEEPING THEM RIGHT? – YOU MEN ARE ALL THE SAME! BASKING IN THE SUNLIGHT OF YOUR SELF-ESTEEM AND HIDING IN THE SHADOW OF YOUR RESPONSIBILITY

INTRA-SQUAD TILTS TO PREPARE SPUDDERS FOR SAINTS

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

Our willingness to print the poetic compositions of our readers, expressed in our last issue, has achieved notable results and this morning we wish to present a pome written by Mrs. Finley Weldon of 1404 Eleventh street, this city. The author of the pome expresses the "woman's viewpoint." We invite other readers to submit pomes. Mrs. Weldon's composition follows:

One Player's Viewpoint

When scouting round one spring I was Discovered by my wife
Who's some athletic (verbal kind)
And I'm signed up for life.

I score a year-round base bawl game;
And tho' I long and hope
To be released or just farmed-out
I can't upset the dope.

Sometimes I make the sad mistake
A walk or run to play—
For facing fighting-spirit takes
Some nerve, from day to day—

For on her way of working-out!
I needn't bunt or bluff.
She feeds me strikes and varied bawls!
I'll say she knows her stuff!

The call to play means I'll be beaned
Tho' time out has no terrors!
I've never yet chalked up a game—
No runs, no hits, no errors!

If you happen to be passing near the Spudders' clubhouse down at the lot during off hours this week and hear manly voices trying to negotiate the C major scale, don't be surprised. And in the intervals, while the alleged singers are trying to figure out what F sharp means, if you hear a great booming voice practicing on an oration, keep calm.

It will be a few Spudders rehearsing for next Sunday's "baseball day" program at the Kay Bible class meeting; and the stabs at oratory will be flowing from the throat of none other than W. Carl Williams, as our skipper is scheduled to orate at the meeting next Sunday.

J. Alvin Gardner and Prexy William E. Huff are also going to orate at the meeting, but so far as our detectives can find out, these nimble-tongued fellows are not going to do much rehearsing; for whereas a tra-la-la ditty and a thumping good speech don't fit well with sweat and base hits and good fielding, the Spudder owner and the Texas league president by long experience have learned to officiate in society with much elegance and ease, according to our detectives.

This "baseball day" program promises to be a great thing for the Kay Bible class and for all concerned, according to J. R. Ogle, one of the class members. The class, which long has been one of the most active organizations in the First Methodist church, meets every Sunday in the old church building at Tenth and Lamar streets. In the past, an attendance of 800 or thereabouts was the usual thing each Sunday. But with the great national pastime coming up for discussion by experts during the lesson hour next Sunday, and with the added attraction of a husky, broad-shouldered Rusty Hines quartet which has practiced a week in the showers, this department wishes to hereby warn the Kay Bible class to make arrangements for right and left field bleachers somewhere about the church to hold the crowd.

And for the benefit of those who wish to hear every word the baseball magnates say, and glean every note from the singers we add that the turnstile will start clicking about 9 o'clock, and that things will start rolling promptly at 9:30. So come early.

With Harry Kane, dean of Texas league umpires who has been called to officiate here, in the audience, Mr. Gardner will address the class on this subject: "Are Many Games Lost Because of Wrong Decisions by Umpires? Do Umpires Intentionally Rule Wrongfully in Order to Favor a Particular Team? Are Umpires Really as Rotten as People Say They Are?"

This should be an interesting address, inasmuch as the league president undoubtedly will take the side of the umpires, whereas the majority of the fans will continue to swear at a particular ump who gives them pain no end.

Prexy Huff has been allotted two minutes in which to clarify this problem: "The Benefits to a City From a Successful Baseball Season: Does the City Receive As Much Benefit From an Unsuccessful Season as a Good One and Why?"

Carl Williams is no doubt wearing out fingernails on his scalp, for the Bible class has asked him to answer the following question in his oration: "What Do You Consider to Be Some of the Most Important Attributes of the Ideal Ball Player, in Addition to His Ability Along the Lines of Offense and Defense?"

The question is an amazing one, and to hear Carl's answer ought to be worth a fortune. The things most fans demand of ball players are hard hitting and good fielding. If a man is a dyed in the wool, 100 per cent expert at both, there is no reason on earth why he should not be called ideal. Now, what are some other characteristics of this baseball Adonis? Think it over. Then come out next Sunday and hear what Carl says about it.

Provided, of course, Carl is not so busy teaching rookies how to pitch and bat and field that he can't come up and make a talk on the ideal player.

Rainfall Cancels Yanks' Game With Toronto

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 24. (UP)—The New York Yankees were forced to cancel their game with Toronto, today, on account of rain. Before the downpour the athletes got a good workout. Most of them also had a morning drill.

The Yanks are getting ready to leave Wednesday. The final exhibition here is scheduled for tomorrow, with the Boston Braves. Waite Hoyt is to pitch.

PEPPY DRILL HELD MONDAY

Bad Weather Halts Morning Workout

The Spudders made a valiant attempt to get in a workout Monday afternoon, the cold weather having canceled the morning session, but after spending one hour chasing flys and batting and another digging dust out of their eyes, the squad gave it up at 4 o'clock and went to the showers.

Despite the cruelty of the wind, however, Monday afternoon's practice probably was the peppiest so far, the squad being in high spirits over the outcome of the two-game series at Dallas Saturday and Sunday. The fact that the Steers and Spudders divided the exhibition series meant little, in a way, but it served to boost the morale of the team, and real pep and ginger was manifest in everything the hopefuls undertook Monday afternoon.

A brisk batting practice was held simultaneously with a fielding workout, which was conducted with Skipper Carl Williams and Howard Fitzgerald officiating at the fungo bat.

Starting Tuesday, the intra-squad games will be resumed in preparation for two exhibition games here next Saturday and Sunday with the St. Paul Saints. Arrangements for the two games were completed Monday.

Ed Ellis, left-handed hurler from the St. Louis Browns, arrived in camp Monday.

Panthers Beat T. C. U.

FORT WORTH, March 24. (AP)—The Fort Worth Panthers had an easy time with the T. C. U. baseball team today, winning, 10 to 1.

Nine of these markers were made off Buster Walker. Bob El Cox hurled the last four rounds and the Texas leaguers could get but two hits and one run off of him.

Giants Defeat Tribe

SAN ANTONIO, March 24. (AP)—The New York Giants were outhit again today but managed to defeat San Antonio of the Texas league, 3 to 1.

Roy Parmelee, slated for the regular berth on the Giants' hurling staff, and Fred Fitzsimmons kept the Texans' 10 hits well scattered. The National leaguers found Bill Richardson, George Malicki and Tom Estell for eight safeties.

Cubs Rehearse

WACO, Texas, March 24. (AP)—The Waco Cubs were back at practice today despite chilling winds. It is thought that Outfielders Spear and Robin and Infielders Schofield and Boken will be farmed out.

Manager Pratt is well pleased with the work of Weingardner, rookie infielder who has had no professional experience.

Easterling Ill

ORANGE, Texas, March 24. (AP)—Showers made piecemeal work of the Exporter workout today but all hands save Easterling labored either during the morning or afternoon. Easterling was confined to his bed with fever. Intra-club games will be resumed tomorrow when Tink Riviere is scheduled to do his first pitching of the season.

Corpus Christi Wants Class D Ball Club

HOUSTON, March 24. (AP)—President Fred Ankenman of the Buffs left tonight for Corpus Christi where tomorrow he will confer with fans of that city, who want the Houston Buffs to operate a team in a proposed South Texas class D league.

It is known the Buffs now have in training camp several promising youngsters who need seasoning in a class D league.

The Houston president indicated that if the proposed South Texas league was feasible, he would recommend to the Buffs' parent club, the St. Louis Cardinals, the sponsoring of a team at Corpus Christi.

POLO GAME HERE SUNDAY

Kelly Field Team to Play Wichitans

The first of a series of matched games between the Wichita Falls polo team and teams from other cities will be played on Clinerowe field Sunday afternoon between the home team and the Kelly field poloists of San Antonio, it was announced Monday. The date for the clash, which the local team had been planning for several weeks, was definitely fixed Monday, and arrangements for handling the crowd at the game was placed in charge of the Junior chamber of commerce, according to Frank Haley, athletic director of the chamber.

An admission of 25 cents will be charged, Mr. Haley announced.

The game probably will be one of the fastest of the year, the Kelly field team being one of the best in the state. Selection of the lineup of the Wichita Falls team has not been made, but the team will be chosen from C. H. Featherston, Horrace Robbins, Cecil Wilfong, Hubert Stringer, Jim Minnick and John Fastnow.

The Wichita Falls team has been engaging in a series of practice games in anticipation of the clash with the Kelly field riders. One more practice game is scheduled.

O'Doul Gives Buddy Advice on Batting

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 24. (AP)—Tommy Thevenow, the Phillies' shortstop who had a batting average of .227 last season, is not going to be a pushover at the plate this year if Lefty O'Doul can prevent it.

Lefty, who hit has way to the top of the National league heap in 1929, has made a suggestion or two to Thevenow, one of which resulted in Tommy's adopting Lefty's type and weight of bat. O'Doul's motive in helping Thevenow, the players say, is that he likes to see his teammates smack them.

Rain Cancels Phillies' Game With Athletics

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 24. (AP)—Managers Burt Shotten of the Phillies and Connie Mack of the Athletics had a conference here today about the weather. The result was that the Phillies started back to Winter Haven through a tropical downpour, disappointed that they could not play the first game of the series with the Athletics for the baseball championship of Philadelphia.

The first tussle between the two Philadelphia teams will be at Winter Haven Wednesday.

Seven Baseball Fans Contribute Slogans

Entries Roll In As Contest Gets Off to Good Start

The Spudder opening day slogan contest, sponsored by the athletic committee of the chamber of commerce which is helping the city in an effort to win the opening day attendance prize, got off to a good start with seven baseball fans in Wichita Falls and surrounding cities sending in 11 slogans.

G. A. Fletcher, of 1202 Burnett street, this city, sent in the first reply to the plea for slogans. Mr. Fletcher sent in four suggestions, as follows:

"The Spudders are home-owned, too!"

"Sure I'm going! And they'll win if YOU go, too!"

"Let the Sports and Spudders play."

"They'll win, sure, if YOU go too!"

Carrie Jenkins, of the Kemp hotel, suggested this slogan: "Spudders play, let's go today."

Other suggestions follow:

O. W. Rayborn, 1206 Ninth street: "Watch the bark fly!"

Mrs. F. C. Utts, 1917 Eighth street: "Boost the Spudders and swell the chest."

R. J. Davenport, 2406 Buchanan: "Be rite with the Spudders April 9th."

J. O. Robertson, Newcastle, Texas: "Onward Mighty Spudders."

H. W. G. Fletcher, 1513 Monroe street: "Fill every seat at the opening game, boost the Spudders on to fame."

A prize of $250 will be given to the community chest of the city having the largest attendance at the opening baseball game of the Texas league. It is in an effort to secure this prize that the contest is being sponsored by the chamber of commerce committee. Six box seats to the opening game here April 9 with the Shreveport Sports will be given the winner of the contest. The winner will be chosen by judges named by the committee.

Send in your suggestions to The Record News-Times. The coupon printed herewith is for your convenience.

Send In Your Slogan And Boost Campaign!

The chamber of commerce athletic committee that is working for Wichita Falls to win the Texas league's opening day attendance prize, needs your help. They need a battle cry to carry on their campaign to bring out a record crowd of fans for opening day at Athletic park, April 9. For that slogan they will give six box seats to the opening day game.

Think of something appropriate — something short and snappy, and send it to the Times and Record News. Help the Spudders. Help yourself. Send as many suggestions as you like. Fill in the blank and mail or bring it in.

I suggest the following slogan for the Spudders' opening day attendance campaign:

Maureen Orcutt Leads Women's Golf Tourney

SOUTHERN PINES, N. C., March 24. (AP)—Shooting a 78, five below par, Miss Maureen Orcutt, New York star, held the lead at the end of today's 18-hole play in the second annual Mid-South women's golf tournament here.

Miss Orcutt finished the outgoing nine holes in 38. Par for women is 43. She came in with a 40, equaling par.

Trailing closely on the heels of Miss Orcutt was Miss Glenna Collett, American champion. Miss Collett finished the 18 holes with an 80.

SCHOOL TENNIS TEAMS TRAIN

District Meet Contenders To Be Chosen Soon

Budding tennis stars of the Wichita Falls Junior college and high school will complete the early rounds of play and meet in the finals next week in hopes of landing berths on the regular teams which will compete in the district meet here April 14, 15 and 16. The tennis tournament will be held April 14, according to present plans.

Both boys' and girls' singles and doubles entrants have been working out on the high school courts lately, and the final eliminations near gradually.

Only boys singles and doubles entrants are aspiring to the college team, according to Virgil Daniels, president of the college tennis club. College finals are to be held Friday week, and thereafter a stiff training schedule will be observed in anticipation of the district meet. Following the meet, the college team will enter the state meet at Arlington May 5-6, Daniels announced.

COLLEGIATE CHAMPS BEAT INTERNATIONALS

AUSTIN, March 24. (AP)—The international tennis doubles champions fell before the intercollegiate champions here today when Bruce Barnes and Berkeley Bell, University of Texas court stars, defeated Johnny Van Ryn of Princeton and Wilmer Allison of Austin in straight sets, 6-4, 6-3 and 6-3.

Allison and Van Ryn are members of the 1930 Davis cup squad while Barnes and Bell are lanked the best in intercollegiate circles.

A high wind made the playing of hard shots difficult and many freak shots were noted during the matches.

In the singles matches Allison defeated Barnes, 6-3, and 6-0, while Bell triumphed over Van Ryn 6-4 and 6-3.

JAPAN FAVORS U. S. NAVY PACT

Empire's Strength Would Be 69.6 Per Cent of Ours

TOKYO, March 24. (AP)—There were strong indications here tonight that the Japanese government Thursday would accept the tentative agreement of Japanese and American delegates to the London naval conference providing that Japan's total naval tonnage shall be a maximum of 69.6 per cent of the American total. The American quota is expected to be the same as the British.

This expected decision of the cabinet permitting a Japanese American agreement at London, was believed the forerunner of a naval treaty at least between Japan the United States and Great Britain, even though France and Italy should not become parties.

The proposal which the Japanese cabinet is expected to approve is that the permitted United States' naval tonnage should be 527,000 and that of Japan 366,900. While this would permit Japan 69.6 per cent of her requested 70 per cent ratio, instead of her present 60 per cent, there has been dissatisfaction among Japanese high naval officers. These officers urged their government to reject the tentative agreement because it did not grant Japan a 70 per cent ratio with Great Britain and the United States in large cruisers, 70 per cent of auxiliary tonnage and 78,000 tons of submarines.

The naval faction received the support of much patriotic sentiment in their pressure upon the government to reject the treaty proposed, but political considerations involving future amicable relations with other foreign powers are believed to have weighed heavily with the civilian authorities in their expected decision to accept the American concessions.

DISSENSION SHOWN AT CONFERENCE

LONDON, March 24. (AP)—Despite dissension within the naval conference in the form of the Franco-Italian parity dispute, and steady sniping from without by critics, Secretary Stimson and Prime Minister MacDonald intend to defend their banner of a five-power treaty to the end.

Today they started the third month of negotiations.

American and British delegations held a conference at Downing street this morning. Then MacDonald received Dino Grandi, head of the Italian delegation, at his office in the house of commons this afternoon.

It was understood Signor Grandi felt pessimistic and expressed the opinion that adjournment of the conference might enable settlement of Italy's argument with France in a cooler diplomatic atmosphere than that of London at present.

MacDonald and Stimson centered their attention on Tokyo until word comes which will guarantee the London conference being at least a limited success, and unofficial reports here are that there is a growing chance that Japan will approve the three-power agreement without reservations.

The British official spokesman today denied any breakdown. He cited the return of Jacques-Louis Dumesnil, the proposed return of Francois Pietri tomorrow and that of Foreign Minister Briand later in the week as proof that the French have not deserted the conference. Meantime, the experts continued their work.

The spokesman said no plenary session was in sight this week and that one could be called only for one of two reasons—either that the conference is succeeding or that the hope of success has been abandoned. Neither is expected this week.

The only definite arrangement for tomorrow is a meeting between Ambassador Morrow and Dumesnil.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, March 24. (AP)—Extended advances of the past two weeks were followed by reactions in cotton today under realizing or liquidation promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables and an easier technical position. May, which sold at 15.85 Saturday or 180 points above the recent low level, broke to 15.38 and closed at 15.49 or 28 points net lower. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 22 to 30 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 13 to 29 points in response to the relatively easy showing of Liverpool. The market steadied but the demand was soon supplied and prices eased under continued liquidation or realizing.

The earlier weakness of the grain market and rather vague rumors of sales of spot cotton at an easier basis in the South, probably contributed to the decline which carried prices off to 15.43 for July and 15.10 for new October or 33 to 40 points below Saturday. Offerings subsided. July sold up to 15.60 in the late rally and closed at 15.58 while October after selling up to 15.24 closed at 15.21.

Exports today 10,285, making 5,794,005 so far this season. Port receipts 7,175. U. S. port stocks 1,901,726.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, March 24. (AP)—Cotton was reactionary in today's active trading owing to much lower Liverpool cables coupled with reports of labor trouble in Lancashire and on selling by ring traders on the weakened technical position of the market as a result of the recent sharp advance. Following an opening decline of 15 to 17 points, the market eased. Near noon it showed net declines of 34 to 40 points.

A reported easier spot basis probably increased the desire to sell. In the early afternoon the market was steadier and prices rallied 9 to 15 points from the lows. The market ruled fairly steady in the last hour maintaining the early afternoon improvement and closing steady. May opened at 15.31, or 16 points down, declined to 15.10, and closed at 15.19 or 28 points net down. The general market closed at net declines of 19 to 29 points.

After noon the market was quiet but steadier and prices rallied 9 to 15 points from the lows on covering by shorts. This recovery was maintained during the balance of the afternoon and the market closed steady with July at 15.28 and October at 15.22, or 19 to 29 points net lower.

Receipts 6,839; for week 13,645; for year 7,903,172; last year 8,841,413. Exports 10,320; for week 35,791; for year 5,655,599; last year 6,513,250. Stocks 1,980,783; last year 1,835,663. New Buying and Short Covering Send Prices Up in Quiet Market

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, March 24. (US)—Expectation that money would ease materially in the near future caused new buying and short covering that closed the market higher in a less active session today. While the call rate was held at 4 per cent throughout there was an apparent abundance of funds available so that early irregularity in standard industrials was gradually corrected and forward movement developed during the afternoon. Steel was the outstanding leader in the final hours finishing with net advance of 4⅝. Bethlehem gained 1¼, Gillette 1⅛, American can 1¼, Cash register 2, United Aircraft 4¾, Vanadium 13, American telephone 2⅜, Warner 3¾, Public Service 1, Standard oil of New Jersey 1½, Atlantic Refining 1, Central 1½, Union Pacific 3, Atchison 1¼, Briggs 1¾, and Woolworth 2½. Turnover dropped to near the 4,000,000 share level.

Money is the whole story. Bankers believe the temporary period of slight tightening in the money market is ended and that return to exceptionally low rates will be witnessed in the next day or so. Although there is widespread flotation of reports of poor motor earnings, less chain store business, etc., they are entirely overshadowed by money developments as every indication warrants belief that inflation is being encouraged by the Federal Reserve and the other powers-that-be. Washington advices emphasize this belief pointing out that money conditions are as abnormal now as they were last September only in the opposite direction. While the main reason for the money manipulation is to improve the bond market and pave the way for international financing, the result of the inflation that is encouraged promises a much livelier market and more confidence in business circles generally.

The bear contingent had some success in raiding Johns-Manville coincident with reports that earnings were materially under a year ago. They met more resistance in Simmons. There was report that the money operator who made such a big market in combustion and then left the following high and dry was taking a hand in "rescuing Simmons." Woolworth was another bear target but Danforth and others mentioned find this a different proposition to handle than Gillette, Montgomery Ward, and some of their other successes. Once again certain firms emphasize the Montgomery Ward red figures in their special advices.

One leading firm aroused considerable interest with comparison of sales of leading motor companies. The only ones shown to advantage were Auburn and Cord. Those interested in the Chrysler operation took a little offense as the survey did not make allowance for De Soto and Plymouth sales so did not look so good for the Chrysler organization. However, buying of the motor shares now is based entirely on expectation of substantial improvement in April as most of the important buyers realize just how bad business was in January, February and most of March. Anaconda directors meet Thursday and there still is some worry as to the dividend. Air reduction profits in January and February this year are estimated 15 per cent. Ahead of last year. March last year set a record, however, so that returns will not make quite as good a comparison.

Expectation was voiced that the Barnsdall-Sinclair merger will be announced this week. Bankers and officials have been working on terms for three months. The hitch that occured last week, it is claimed, is being straightened out. The report that Mid-Continent crude price will be advanced soon has caused belief that buyers of crude will pay more in other fields also. Interested groups continue working for higher prices in individual oil shares. General asphalt interests look for special developments that will indicate higher earnings soon. Continued favorable reports from California help the Mexican Seaboard operation.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, March 24. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Receipts of cattle around the 11-market circuit today served to check the decline but trade on killing classes was slow with packers resisiting any attempt to boost prices. Some centers reported slight upturns on the better grades of fed steers and light yearlings but generally no material changes on slaughter classes were effected. Chicago scored $15.00 on choice fed steers and $14.25 for best yearlings. Average cost of stocker and feeder steers shipped out of Kansas City last week was $10.58 as compared with $12.43 the same week a year ago. Offerings 7,400 against 70,268 last Monday and 70,999 the corresponding day a year ago.

Hogs 10-25c lower. The top of $10.65 was paid for light weights at Chicago. Receipts 124,800, were 25,000 heavier than a week ago.

The sheep supply approximated 87,500 against 91,910 a week ago and 52,076 a year ago. Choice fed wooled lambs, 98 lbs. down, in Chicago bulked at $9.75@10.00 with choice light weights up to $10.35. Colorado spring lambs at St. Joseph cleared at $12.50.

TEXAS LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, March 24. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Features of today's cattle trade at Fort Worth appeared in increased receipts, a greater variety of classes, an improved demand and fully steady prices in most divisions of the market.

Slaughter steers top $11.75 for good lights. Other carlot sales of slaughter steers 8.50-$11.50.

Choice fat yearlings $11.00@12.75.

Fat cows $8.75.

Choice heavy stock steer calves $12.00.

Good stock cows $7.00.

Packers paid $11.75 for very good heavy fat calves.

No good rail hogs here. Best truck hogs $8.85. Packing sows $7.50@7.75.

Shorn fat lambs $7.50@8.00. Feeder lambs $6.80. Aged shorn fat wethers $5.50.

Cattle and Calves—Receipts 4,100; fully steady; slaughter steers $8.50@11.50; good to choice fat yearlings up to $12.75; one load cows $5.75; butcher grades $6.00 range; one load heavy stock steer calves $12.00; very good heavy slaughter calves up to $11.75.

Sheep—Receipts 1,500; lambs steady; aged wethers 25c lower; shorn lambs $7.50@8.00; stocker lambs $5.50; feeder lambs $6.80, aged shorn wethers $5.50.

CHICAGO, March 24. (INS)—Hogs—Receipts 53,000; top $10.60; market 10 to 15c lower; bulk $9.40@10.50; heavyweight $9.35@10.10; medium weight $9.60@10.60; lightweight $9.80@10.60; light lights $9.75@10.60; packing sows $8.15@9.00; pigs $9.25@10.25; holdovers 1,000.

Butcher cattle: Heifers $8@13.00; cows $6@10.00; bulls $7@9.50; calves $9@14.00; feeder steers $9@11.50; stocker steers $8.50@11.00; stocker cows and heifers $6@9.00.

Sheep—Receipts 20,000; market steady; medium and choice lambs $9.75@10.25; culls and common $8@9.50; yearlings $8@9.00; common and choice ewes $4@6.00; feeder lambs $9@10.00.

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 24. (AP)—Cattle—Receipts 900; calves 200; handy-weight steers $9.50@10.00; yearlings up to $11.00; fed cows $7.50@8.50; heavy bulls $6.50@7.25; top on veals $10.00.

Hogs—Receipts 1,200; prospects 10@15c decline with top $9.25.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, March 24. (AP)—There was little change in the prices of grain as the week started on the Fort Worth market. Wheat was still slow sale with mills nominally bidding $1.10@1.11 for No. 1 ordinary hard delivered T. C. P. Corn, sorghums and cane seed were in good demand; oats fairly well taken and barley slow.

Bids and offers on coarse grains basis delivered T. C. P., freight paid:

Corn—No. 2 mixed 94@95c; No. 2 white or yellow 98@99c.

Oats—No. 2 red oats 55½@56½; No. 3 white delivered Texas group one points 55½.

Barley—No. 2 barley nominal, 62@63c.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo per hundred pounds $1.69@1.71; No. 2 kaffir $1.49@1.51.

Cane seed—Bulk country run red top per hundred pounds, clean out, Texas origin, $4.00@4.50.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 24. (AP)—Grain prices rebounded here today after suffering an early downward jolt that resulted from severe breaks in quotations at Liverpool. A falling-off of 2,309,000 bushels in the United States wheat visible supply, together with increasing crop damage reports from domestic soft winter wheat sections, as well as news storms in Kansas and Oklahoma, did much to turn the market upgrade toward the last. Independent strength of the corn market in the late dealings was also a bullish factor.

Chicago closing prices for wheat were firm, ⅛-⅜c a bushel higher than Saturday's finish. Corn closed ¾-1 ⅜c up, oats ⅜-⅝c advanced, and provisions unchanged to 15 cents down.

Corn owed its late upward trend largely to announcement of a decrease of the corn visible supply and to unfavorable weather for corn movement. Oats followed corn.

Provisions went lower with hogs.

PIT NOTES.

CHICAGO, March 24.—(UN)—Offerings dried up rather unexpectedly on the late rally in wheat today, and much of the late advance in prices was made more on the necessity to bid the market up rather than any heavy volume of buying, pit observers said. This led to the belief that the market was oversold and sentiment was more bullish at the close.

Winnipeg's recovery was somewhat surprising in view of the extreme weakness at Liverpool and reports that Canadian offerings were largely responsible for that decline. Offerings in the Canadian market were also very light in the late trading, wires said.

There is a marked tendency for interest in corn to broaden on the dips, and declines of around a cent in addition to bringing out this support appear to check selling pressure.

Broomhall said: "Many contradictory reports are being received from Russia. While the government insists that domestic supplies are plentiful, authentic private messages state that bread lines still exist in the big cities even for barley bread and that peasants are still intending to plant only sufficient grains to cover their own needs, as otherwise the surplus is confiscated at unprofitable prices."

NORTH TEXAS TRUCK LISTED

Early Produce Placed on Market Here

Wichita Falls is now enjoying North Texas vegetables on its luncheon menus even though truck gardens near this city have not yet matured any new crops. Movement of produce from the fields near Fort Worth and Dallas has begun, and is increasing daily in amount. Trucks loaded with spinach, mustard greens, radishes, and other early vegetables are arriving daily at local wholesale houses.

Supplies from these nearby centers supplement shipments still being received from South Texas. New crops available in the Rio Grande valley now include green beans, squash, potatoes, cabbage, carrots, parsley, green onions, beets, turnips and turnip greens, and the bulk of these green commodities now being supplied to Wichita Falls come from that area. Within 30 days, it was said, considerable quantities of the earlier maturing vegetables will be ready for marketing from truck farms in this vicinity.

With milk deliveries increasing steadily, further improvements are being made on the building formerly used by the Kraft cheese company and now used by the Southwest Dairy Products company in preparation for opening within a few days. Transfer of refrigerating equipment from the old James creamery to the powdering and condensing plant, and installation of new motors for the increased capacity, has occasioned a brief delay in beginning actual condensing processes, it was said. The James plant has been almost completely dismantled, according to the information given Monday, part of the equipment going to the Producers' Creamery plant, and part to the former Kraft plant.

Phone Your Classified Ads to

Our courteous ad taker will receive your Classified Ad and help you to word it, then our collector will call the next day. These accounts are "accommodation accounts" for the convenience of our patrons in transacting business over the telephone.

Classified Ad patrons desiring to have ads charged must have a telephone listed in their own name. No book record is made by the publishers on account of the great number of transactions, hence the necessity of collecting promptly.

Correction of errors in Classified Ads must be made before the second insertion. No allowance will be made for more than one incorrect insertion.

Cancellations and adjustments regarding errors should be telephoned to the Classified Ad department between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m.

Ads accepted for afternoon paper up until 11 a. m. same day.

Morning paper up to 6 p. m. for the following morning.

Sunday paper up to 7 o'clock Saturday night.

Same copy in both papers.

THE CLASSIFIED DEPARTMENT IS OPEN ON SUNDAYS from 4 to 6 p. m. and telephone orders for classified ads to be inserted or to be discontinued will be accepted.

Exceptions: Want ads will be accepted over the telephone for all excepting the following classifications: Situations Wanted and Wanted to Rent. Ads for these classifications are cash with the order and will not be accepted over the telephone.

The Times reserves the right to classify all Classified Ads under the appropriate headlines and to revise or to withhold from publication any ads deemed objectionable.

Waurika Garden Club Expands Spring Work

Special to The Record News.

WAURIKA, Okla., March 24.—The city-beautiful program of the Garden club of Waurika has extended to the cemetery. Members of the club visited the cemetery and with the aid of two men planted flowers and shrubs, most of which had been donated by the members.

The exchange committee of the club, which was only started this year, report that flowers are available for anyone who is interested in exchanging seeds, bulbs or cuttings.

"Flowers in every yard" is the aim of the Garden club and it is toward this that they are working. Teachers in each of the schools have planted seeds, which will be distributed later to each child in school.

Club Boys Entertain Rotarians at Waurika

Special to The Record News.

WAURIKA, Okla., March 24.—Three 4-H club boys presented one of the most interesting programs of the year before the Waurika Rotary club at their regular meeting.

The program consisted of a talk on 4-H work and a demonstration of the methods used in terracing. The work was given under the direction of Clarence Joachim, county agent.

JUNIOR C.-C. SEEKS VOTES

Citizens Urged to Cast Ballots in Election

Even with several candidates in the mayoralty race here on April 1, each of the aspirants to that office may accumulate a goodly block of votes regardless of who wins, as a result of a campaign launched Monday by the Junior chamber of commerce to persuade every voter to go to the polls.

Pursuing the same policy as that followed in January in the "Pay Your Poll Tax" campaign carried on by the same organization, radio, personal and printed appeals to the citizenship to turn out to full strength for the election will be maintained during the coming week, it was announced. Reminders will be placed conspicuously throughout the business district in the effort to bring the city's full voting strength to the polls, it was said.

The "voting campaign" will be sponsored by the political education committee of the Junior chamber of commerce, which is composed of Gus Hecht, chairman, Temple Shell, James L. Fox, Fred S. Reaser, Harry Olsen, J. E. Winecart, Darrald Kahn, Russell Koip, George Gardner and Sam B. Anderson.

Foy Attends Traffic Meetings at Austin

Dudley B. Foy, assistant manager of the chamber of commerce and manager of the traffic department, was in Austin Monday for a meeting of the special committee of the Texas Industrial Traffic league, of which he is a member.

Numerous protests and applications for exceptions to the recently established rate schedule for motor truck lines were to be reviewed by the committee before they are heard by the motor truck division of the state railroad commission, it was said. Mr. Foy is sitting not only as a member of the special committee but will remain in Austin to represent local interests in the hearings by the commission.

Among the cases to be considered during the current session is an application from the Sproles Truck lines, which operate through Wichita Falls.

Contests Draw Many Students

Special to The Record News

LUBBOCK, Texas, March 24.—Students from nearly 50 West Texas high schools were here Monday competing in contests for vocational agriculture students and home economic students.

In the vocational agricultural contests, a total of 279 actual contestants in 93 teams were here from 38 schools, with an additional 100 coaches, alternates and others. In the home economics contest a total of 207 girls from 24 schools were here.

Loving cups and other prizes are to be awarded by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and other organizations to the winners. The girls were entertained by the college during the afternoon and the boys were entertained with a Dutch lunch by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce at the close of the contest.

The vocational agricultural contests were by far the biggest success of any previous year and the home economics contests, held for the first time, were highly successful.

HEALTH REPORT

Fourteen cases of chicken pox, 19 cases of scarlet fever, four cases of smallpox and two cases of whooping cough were reported to Dr. H. D. Fillmore, city health physician, last week. The scarlet fever epidemic is showing a marked decrease while the number of smallpox cases remains unchanged. The chicken pox and whooping cough cases are the first to be reported in several weeks, Dr. Fillmore said.

One of the Proudest Men In Greenville

I'm Grateful for the Happiness Argotane (Orgatone) Has Brought To My Home, Says Jenkins

"I'm one of the proudest men in Greenville today and I just want to tell the people it's all because of what this Argotane (Orgatone) has done for my wife," said J. W. Jenkins, living on rural route No. 8, Greenville, Texas, while talking with the Argotane (Orgatone) man.

"She has suffered so much during the past several years," he continued, "with stomach trouble and gas would form on her stomach, causing her heart to palpitate very fast and it would almost run away from her, it seemed. She had dizzy spells, and sometimes would have to sit down to keep from falling. She was very much constipated and was nervous and restless and couldn't sleep at night. Her nerves were all to pieces and she would often have to rest during the day when trying to do her work. She took strong laxatives most all the time but never found anything to give her permanent relief.

"Not so very long ago she was talking to Mrs. Abbott, one of her friends, and she advised her to take Argotane (Orgatone). She bought a bottle and the relief she has received has certainly been wonderful. The stomach trouble and indigestion is a thing of the past now, and her breathing is regulated and gas does not seem to bother her at all now. Her entire condition is certainly improved and we both are glad to say all we can for Argotane (Orgatone) for it has made us both happy in her improvement."

Genuine Argotane may be bought in Wichita Falls at Allison Drug Store, 716 Indiana Ave.—Adv.

Running neck and neck with "No, No, Nanette," (Strand) to give Wichita Falls a bona fide two-ply strip of high caliber screen entertainment through Monday and Tuesday, "Street of Chance" at the Majestic could rightfully be made the subject of extended comment on talking picture progress. Standing by itself it ranks as one of the most appealing human interest dramas recently delivered from the vocal screen. The extent to which characters have drawn members of the audience into unconscious participation in the action may be accurately measured by reading the breathless intensity of facial expression, and the barely audible exclamations which break forth upon the stillness. "Street of Chance" is admirably constructed step by step, with steadily growing forces to carry its principal character to a tragic, climactic end.

◇ ◇ ◇

Since William Powell, with a two-months' growth of stubble on his chin, contributed a character part to "Beau Sabreur" (was that it?) which practically stole the show, he has appeared in the headlines only with the best plays produced for the screen. His performances during the past two years have been among the most acceptable—without including more than a dozen in the group. Yet "Street of Chance" is conspicuously his forte; built for his suave, intriguing personality and persuasive voice, it gives Mr. Powell the most outstanding stellar role thus far drawn. The play is fortunate in having Mr. Powell for its ace.

◇ ◇ ◇

This strongly moralizing tale of a gambler's fate—and it is that—utilizes the Rothstein case in New York for its background. But far from depending upon the notoriety of that murder-mystery for support, the play stands firmly upon sturdy dramatic legs of its own. Furthermore, its presentation points a general trend of improvement for which the introduction of sound-photography must be given much credit. Despite the presence of William Powell, himself a sufficient drawing card, "Street of Chance" uses the talent of Kay Francis, Regis Toomey and Jean Arthur for a well-rounded impersonation of the other three major characters. At least two of these three principals promise to be among the brightest stars of the next two years. From Powell down to Tony the newsboy, this play is superbly acted. Comparison with the single-star "spectacles" of a few years back, or with those silent films which through the medium of motion gave us our greatest movie-thrills, "Street of Chance" admirably illustrates the development of comprehensible drama made possible by teaching the pictures how to talk.

County Orders Payments of $159,000 On Principal and Interest of Bonds

Paul Barnett, county auditor, was instructed Monday at the regular weekly meeting of the county commissioners court to issue warrants for payment of approximately $159,000 in principal and interest on bonds owned by Wichita county. Orders for payment of the amounts on the various bonds will be given to Tom McHam, county treasurer, at the meeting next Monday, it was said.

Bids for supplies for the precincts of the county during the coming year were accepted by the commissioners Monday, with the exception that it was ordered to readvertise for bids on oil and gasoline for precinct No. 4. Only parts of the bids of each firm were accepted, none of the bids having been accepted entirely. Parts of the bids of the Cicero Smith Lumber company, Foxworth-Galbraith Lumber company, Moore and Richolt, C. D. Shamburger Lumber company, Wooldridge Lumber company and Wichita County Lumber company were accepted to furnish lumber and building materials for the precincts.

For gasoline and oil in precincts Nos. 1, 2 and 3, the commissioners accepted parts of the bids of the Hines Oil company, the Morgan Oil company, Pioneer Refining company and Kent Brothers.

The court authorized advertisement of bids for a motor lawnmower for the courthouse lawn and the county farm.

The annual report of Paul Barnett, county auditor, was read by the commissioners, having been presented to them in bound and printed form. The report was receipted and filed following the approval of the court.

ONE THIMBLEFUL-
A DAY'S FEED
FOR ONE CHICK!

THINK OF IT! One tiny thimbleful . . . all the feed a chick can put in its little crop in one day. On this tiny bit it must live . . . grow . . . build bones . . . build muscles . . . start feathers. Think of the job feed has to do!

They must depend on feed for so many things! They get them all in Purina Chick Startena (mash) or Purina All-Mash Startena Chow . . . 12 different ingredients in every thimbleful. Cod-liver oil . . . dried buttermilk . . . alfalfa flour . . . granulated meat . . . these and eight others are there!

These 12 ingredients . . . think how carefully they must be mixed to make every thimbleful alike. Purina Startena and All-Mash Startena Chow are mixed over and over again . . . 960 times just to be thorough! You will find the same care taken with Baby Chick Chow (scratch) . . . to be fed with Startena until your chicks are six weeks old . . . and with Purina Growena (mash) and Purina Intermediate Hen Chow (scratch) . . . to be fed from then on until the pullets are laying at 16 weeks.

How little feed a chick eats . . . just one thimbleful a day . . . yet how important it is . . . how much depends on it . . . the chick's very life . . . its growth . . . what the pullets will do for you next fall and winter when eggs are sure to be worth good money. You can afford to feed only the best . . . Purina Poultry Chows.
