For Seventy-two Years a Builder in Collingsworth County

WELLINGTON, COLLINGSWORTH COUNTY, TEXAS 79095 THURSDAY, JUNE 3, 1982

Volume LXXI Number 46

HIGH RISE

Collingsworth County farmers, harvesters and grain dealers are preparing this week for the county's wheat harvest. One addition to the harvest scene this year is a new elevator leg which rises over 100 feet above ground level at Warrick's Inc. The leg will handle 6,000 bushels of wheat per hour. Top right, a new grain storage facility will hold 125,000 bushels of wheat.

Hail, Wind Brings More Damage Through County

Storm clouds on Sunday evening took their second destructive run through the county in a week's time, and on several other days, rain fell in scattered parts of the county.

Again the Arlie area in southeast Collingsworth and northeast Childress counties bore the heaviest crop damage, but there was also crop or property damage last week through the north part of the county and in the Samnorwood-Dozier area, damage at Quail and wheat damage around Swearingen and Rolla, in the south part of the county. This damage extended east to Arlie.

The rain Sunday was in great quantities and fell hard, causing flooding of many dirt roads. Some in the Arlie area said it was the worst they had seen. There were reports from farmers who still could not travel the roads to get to their fields Tuesday to determine crop damage.

Sheriff Kenneth Maxwell who was cloud watching west of town, said the first hail he saw was not large, but as the cloud traveled east, hailstones got larger.

"I believe the storm intensified the farther east it traveled across the county," he said.

The hail storm apparently followed the Collingsworth Childress county line. Reports are still coming in of damage in the Swearingen community, at Rolla, due south of Wellington in the area of the Sims ranch and at Houselog, as well as farther east and on to Arlie.

Maxwell pointed out that the storm struck eratically, with a "tremendous amount of rain."

There was also hail in the vicinity of Friendship Baptist Church 9 miles west, and at the Quail-Memphis Y where FM highways 1547 and 1056 intersect, where another sheriff's department unit was cloud watching.

South of Dodson, more than a quarter of a mile of FM 1642 was under water at one time.

The Quail and Marella areas suffered the damage in the Thursday rainstorm and hail.

Cary Don Neeley, reserve deputy, reported the roof blown off the Noah Beechy garage a short distance west of Quail. A garage was unroofed on the Obie White farm north of Quail and a mile north of the old Marella store, R.D. Jones lost a shed.

There was heavy loss of irrigation equipment. On the Wilbur Depauw farm, south of Jones, a pivot irrigation system belonging to Tommy Coleman had 6 towers blown down and half of the center pivot is gone. N.E. Childers' reported damage to his irrigation system in the same area.

Summer Reading Program For Children Opens June 7

The Texas Reading Club Program for children in Kindergarten through sixth grade opens at Collingsworth County Library Monday, June 7 and will close Friday, July 30.

This year's theme is "Space Capers," focusing on space exploration and travel, mysteries of the universe and the finest in science fiction, said Mrs. Rhuia Ketchum, librarian.

The young readers will have their own room this year, as the old district clerk's office on the third floor, next door to the district court room, is being prepared for them.

Mary Saldana, a high school senior who has worked at the library after school and on Saturday's during the last year, will be in charge of the reading room and will work full time with the children.

Directing the reading program will be the three librarians, Mrs. Ketchum, Mrs. Erma Faye Kersten and Mrs. Marie Gollihugh.

New this year will be the microfilm showing twice each week and films with reading accompanient. Miss Saldana will be the reader for most of these programs.

The annual reading program is presented through the co-operation of the county library and the Texas State Library.

Special displays and activities will be included this year, and each child will receive a kit which includes book markers, reading log to record books read and paper games and puzzles to challenge the young reader.

Children who read a required number of books during the two months will receive certificates from the Texas State Library. These will be presented at a party given at the end of the reading program.

Boys and girls must read books within their age range, and may check out of the library only 5 books at one time, explained Mrs. Kersten.

Democratic Primary Runoff Sat.

No county or district races will be determined in the Democratic second Primary Election Saturday, June 5, but County Chairman Doug Seal urges a good turnout of voters.

Four races will be listed on the short ballot.

Attorney General: John Hanna and Jim Mattox.

Commissioner, General Land Office: Gary Mauro and Pete Snelson.

Judge, Court of Criminal Appeals, Place 1: Charles F. "Chuck" Campbell, Jr., and John E. Humphreys.

Judge, Court of Criminal Appeals, Place II: Bill Black and Chuck Miller.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., Seal said.

All polling places will be used, and the regularly appointed election judges will be in charge. These include:

Box 1, Wellington High School, Helen Fires, judge.

Box 2, Dodson American Legion Building, Mrs. Olan Farris.

Box 3, Court House, east side, Mrs. Willie Faye Patrick.

Box 4, Lutie Gin Office, Willie Knoll

Box 5-6, Samnorwood School, Rudie Tate, judge.

Box 7, Bura Handley Community Center, Willie B. Harwell.

Box 8, Quail Booster Club (school) Building, Cary Don Neeley.

Box 9, Elementary School, Raymond Horton.

"Traditionally, about 60 percent of the voters who voted in the first primary will vote in the second primary," Seal said. "We encourage everyone to go vote. These are state races that are of much importance to us, including that of Commissioner of Agriculture. Also, people don't look on the judges races as important to us, but they are."

Auxiliary Garage Sale Opens Fri.

Collingsworth General Hospital Auxiliary is completing plans for its big garage sale to be held Friday and Saturday, June 4 and 5, Loretta Wright, president, announced.

This will be in the building vacated by the Fashion Shop earlier this year on the east side of the square. Hours will be 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m. to 12 noon Saturday. Those bringing sale items should come from 3 to 5 p.m. Thursday.

Special sale items will be hospital beds and recliner chairs from the hospital, which have been replaced, and those interested in either are urged to come early as the supply is limited.

All proceeds from the sale will go to the Hospital Auxiliary, but the organization in turn will use the money to buy needed equipment for the hospital, Mrs. Wright explained.

The auxiliary is also accepting good salable items. Clothes cannot be used.

Mrs. Wayne Cudd and Mrs. Richard Nall are in charge of the sale.

TV TOWER DOWN

Cablecom General's 400 feet television tower in Memphis was destroyed by a tornado Thursday, May 27 at 5 p.m. The destruction caused a cable blackout in Wellington of channels 4, 7 and 10 from Amarillo which were relayed to Wellington by the tower. Temporary service has now been restored on those channels, but Cablecom manager Dorothy McGill said that good quality pictures on the 3 channels will not be available until the tower is rebuilt.

Funding of Sweetwater Reservoir-Dam Viewed

Those working to secure a proposed Sweetwater Dam and Reservoir in Wheeler County believe they are one step closer to their goal as a result of a meeting held Monday, May 3, at Wheeler. Representing the Red River Authority (RRA) which would control the actual construction of the project was Fred Parkey.

Because the Red River Authority furnishes water to rural Collingsworth homes, the Sweetwater project has been of interest to county residents interested in East Panhandle water development.

Parkey told Wheeler County Commissioners and representatives of Shamrock and Wheeler that the project has a long colorful history.

The plan to construct a lake by damming Sweetwater Creek was first proposed in 1961--21 years ago. Red River Authority was granted a permit to construct the facility which would develop one of the last sources of untapped surface water in the Panhandle, as well as provide a source of hydroelectric energy to area consumers.

In 1963, a long court battle over collecting of core samples of the ground at the site was resolved in Red River Authority's favor by the Texas Supreme Court which ruled that Geological testing could continue.

In 1968, the project was dealt a blow when RRA's permit renewals were indefinitely postponed.

Original cost of the project, 1968, was to have been about $5 million.

Parkey told the Wheeler County commissioners that due to inflation and increase of constructions, the proposed facility would cost up to $20 million.

He went on to propose a combination of water revenue bonds and taxation as a means of raising the necessary funds.

Another point presented by Parkey was the current water situation in the region.

The Ogalalla Aquifer, which provides much of the water for the Panhandle and extends into part of Wheeler County, is being depleted more quickly than it is being replinished.

This reality, he said, makes it imperative that serious discussion of the Sweetwater Dam Project begin in earnest, with representatives of Shamrock, Wheeler and possibly Canadian, Wellington and Pampa meeting to discuss methods of funding and construction. This will be looked into in detail.

Federal funding for a project of this nature is unavailable since the Reagan economic program went into effect last year. A constitutional amendment in last year's Texas election designed to take a significant portion of the state's annual budget surplus and to divert it into financing water prospects, was defeated at the polls.

The defeat set back the cause of water projects in the Lone Star State, according to Parkey. There is however, still some hope that the new legislature which convenes in January of 1983, will see that the matter gets on the agenda.

Both State Representative Foster Whaley and State Senator Bill Sarpalius are strong supporters of water development.

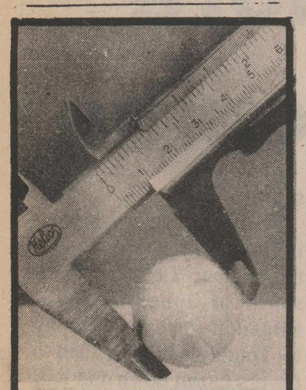

While it may be difficult for the cities involved initially to raise the necessary capital, it is Parkey's belief that group effort of regional cities can overcome the money problems and move the Sweetwater Dam Project off dead-center.

MEMORIAL DAY

Mrs. T.D. Nored, assisted by John Brown, lays a wreath at a veteran's grave during Memorial Day ceremonies at Memorial Gardens Cemetery on a chilly, windy May 31. The Memorial Day observance, which honors those who have died in the nation's wars, was sponsored by the Glynn Moore Post, VFW and the VFW Auxiliary. Earlier in the day veterans marked graves of comrades with small American flags and gathered at the VFW Post for a breakfast prepared by Auxiliary members.

STORM---

Dale Green was caught in the storm at one of Canada's farms, reported watching funnels form overhead. Wind was so high here that more accurate rain measurement was impossible.

The Ross Ranch measured 1.3 in. in a brief period in the rain gauge and excessively high wind.

To the northwest, Benny Carson, another reserve deputy, estimated four inches in the vicinity of his grandparents, the B.F. Farmers, farm with the same excessively high wind.

Out buildings were reported blown down on the John Birkey farm west of Quail, and about 5 miles south, a roof was blown off a barn on the Clyde Milam place.

West of Quail, Delbert White watched a small tornado go across the road in front of him at tree top height.

There was also damage in the Samnorwood - Dozier area Thursday, Kenneth Martindale, reserve deputy, reported. The first damage appeared near Dozier where half a tin roof was blown off a vacant house formerly occupied by the Guy Bells.

Doug Coleman, Jr., lost part of an irrigation system, with parts being found as far as half a mile away.

The Robert Fulfer house (the old Donald Coleman place) lost part of its metal roof and in a direct line about 1½ miles northeast at the Alvin Brock home, the roof blew off a garage that is immediately west of his house.

Brock seemed to think a small twister was repsonsible for damage at his place.

At the Byron Bell home, a pump house and TV antenna were lost and a highline pole was leaning.

Joe R. Knoll lost a barn on the Frank Knoll place. He and his family were in the cellar near the barn when it was blown away.

Near Dozier, a house on the Bill Shields farm described as "fixing to fall anyway," was flattened by what appeared to be a high straight wind.

However, three funnels were sighted a mile and a half southwest of Shamrock.

James Martindale of Abra reported three inches of rain which would bring his total to around 15 inches since the rainy period started.

Just north of the Wheeler county line, Mike Oldham of China Flat already had 16 or 17 inches and the Thursday rain would bring this total to above 20 inches.

At Samnorwood 1.4 in. of rain was measured, but Martindale said there was extremely high wind, estimated from 50 to 60 miles per hour easily. Since much of the rain did not go in the rain gauges, the actual total or most of these places could not be measured.

Tree limbs on the Norwood school campus were blown off and the school sign blown down.

Rain and scattered small hail fell in the Wellington area both Thursday and Sunday, but with none of the damaging results felt in the other areas.

Sunday's rain was estimated at from 1" to 1.3" in Wellington. (Rainfall records are no longer kept in the city.)

Donald White of Greenbelt Electric Co-operative, Inc., reported lower case lines down in many places in the system. Much of it was the loss of two and three poles here and there throughout the area. As some of these were nearly new poles. White believes there may have been a number of small funnels.

A total estimate of the loss has not been determined.

One damaged area from the first storm which struck Arlie two and a half weeks ago has come to light:

Truett Holland reported he went to the Arlie Cemetery during the last week and found "about half the gravestones knocked down, apparently by the tornado."

Some of the stones had blown two or three feet from their footing. Others had fallen onto the vault tops, cracking them.

The fences are intact, but the aluminum gate was bent, he said.

Holland believes this damage had been overlooked because of the urgency of taking care of crop damage and getting new crops in.

Computer Literacy Becomes Necessity

COLLEGE STATION---Computers have become a new factor to be considered in the age-old quotient of reading, writing, and 'rithmetic, says a national leader in teacher education.

That means teachers today must be able to show their students how to use computers in mastering those skills. And if teachers going into the school systems need to know computers, it follows that university faculty who teach those teachers must know computers as well, said Dr. Dean Corrigan, dean of Texas A&M University's College of Education. Corrigan also is president of the American Association of Colleges for Teachers Education.

"Computer literacy is almost a basic skill now," Corrigan said. "Students can use computers for sociology classes as well as mathematics."

City Sales Tax Rebate Is $12,056

The City of Wellington received a payment of $12,056.15 in city sales and use taxes allocated by the Comptroller of Public Accounts for the period ending May 9, according to the office of State Comptroller Bob Bullock.

This represents Wellington's share of the one-percent city sales tax levied.

This year's figure is down about $600 from the comparable period last year, when the payment was $12,652.11.

Total payment for the five pay periods to date in 1982 is $33,313.66. This figure is up from $32,895.03, the 1981 payments. It enables Wellington to show a 1.27% increase for 1982 over 1981.

SEWING NOTIONS

Got a notion? Don't take these sewing aids for granted when constructing garments. Use them to your advantage.

Sewing notions, such as needles, pins, shears and marking, measuring and sewing aids, can be used in various ways to achieve a more professional-looking garment.

PINS: Using appropriate pins and pin sizes on various fabrics, such as wool, corduroy and heavy-weight denim.

Ball-point pins should be used on knits, while most other fabrics, such as cotton-polyester blends, silks and lightweight linens, can take size 17 fine silk pins.

Larger glass or plastic-head pins are easier to handle and work with. To identify pin types, store them in different size or color pin cushions.

SHEARS: Cutting down on time means cutting with the right pair of shears. Eight-inch bent handle shears offer the best performance for most fabrics.

Lightweight shears are compatible to light and medium weight fabrics, and metal shears are best suited for heavier weight or thicker fabrics, such as wool blends and denim.

Pinking Shears, those with the notched blades, have a "built-in" seam finisher for fabrics that tend to ravel or fray easily.

MARKING AIDS: Selecting the proper marking and tracing aids depends primarily on fabric type.

Use a serrated tracing wheel and tracing paper on fabrics with smooth, flat surfaces.

You may also choose to pin-mark fabrics using tailor's chalk or a tailor tacker aid which marks each side of the fabric in a single motion.

Threaded tailor tacks are best suited for textured or tweedy fabrics, such as raw silks and wool blends.

THREADS: The best buy in thread is a long-staple 100 percent polyester or cotton wrapped polyester thread.

These threads perform better than short-staple 100 percent polyester threads.

Specialty threads, such as silk thread, add luster and brillance to a garment but are often difficult to find.

Mercerized cotton threads lack strength and elasticity needed for today's fabrics.

When topstitching, use two strands of regular size thread when heavier, topstitching thread in a particular color cannot be found.

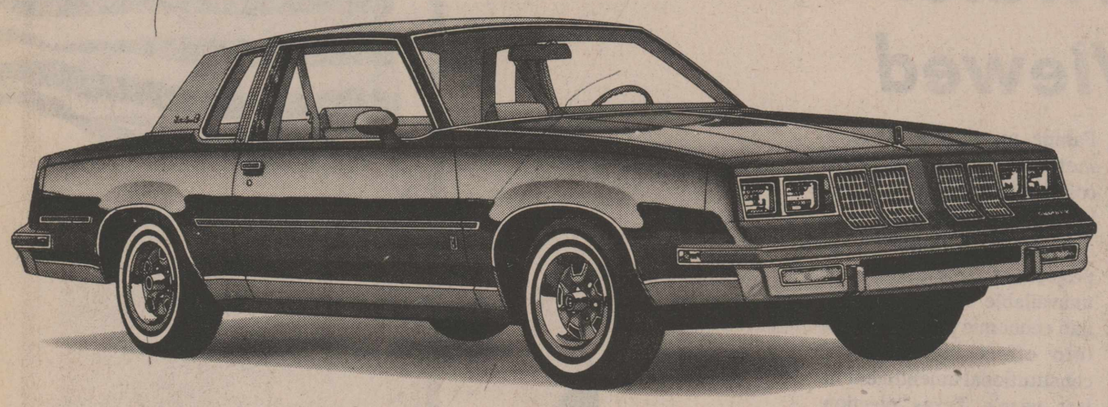

If your machine doesn't have a dual spool holder, wind two bobbins or use two spools of thread and extend the spool holder with a plastic drinking straw.

NEEDLES: The needle is the strongest influence in stitch formation and thread performance. Different styles and sizes of machine needles are designed for specific fabrics.

The needle package will tell you which fabrics to use with which needles.

Always keep needles sharp and clean by placing them on an emery-filled strawberry on the pin cushion. Dull or blunt needles may cause poor stitch performance.

THE BIG FISH

Mearl and Dorothy Parker and David and Mary Armstrong with the 8½ foot, 90 pound sailfish they caught in deep waters at Puerto Vallarta, Mexico.

Two Couples Win Trip to Mexico

At the annual KADS, Inc. Board meeting a surprise bonus was given to David and Mary Armstrong and Mearl and Dorothy Parker, consisting of five days in Puerto Vallarta, Jalisco, Mexico. The bonus was from Anson and Sherron Parker.

Armstrong is the yard manager of KADS Derrick and Fabrication. Mearl Parker is the Oklahoma district manager of KADS Dirt Construction.

Both couples declare they truely enjoyed the trip, starting at Oklahoma City thru Guadaljara on to Puerto Vallarta.

The days were full of city touring, shopping at the Vallart market place, deep sea fishing during which they caught a 8½ foot, 90 pound sailfish.

They enjoyed all the hospitality of the Mexican people.

The nights were filled with steak and lobster dinners, walks on the beach and swimming.

Mearl and Dorothy Parker still have a home in Wellington and one in McLoud, Oklahoma. David and Mary are formerly of Wellington but now live in McLoud, Oklahoma. Mary is the sister of Mrs. Keith Smith.

Tully Hunter Youth Worker For Methodists

Tully Hunter, a junior in Texas Tech University, is serving as the youth director of First United Methodist Church, according to the Rev. Tom Thomson, pastor.

Hunter's home town is Morton.

His work with the church here will be with junior high and senior high youth groups, and it will include arranging programs and meetings, planning trips and fund raisers and related types of activities.

This is his first year of summer work with church youth.

In Tech, where he is a history major, he worked with the Wesley Foundation, a Methodist organization, and for a year was enrolled in the Air Force ROTC.

Hunter will be in Wellington until just after the middle of August.

COUNTY EXTENSION AGENTS REPORT

COTTON SEEDLING DISEASE

Cooler than average temperatures and excessive moisture are an ideal environment for seedling disease in cotton.

As the name implies, seedling disease organisms attack the young plant shortly after germination, either before or after they emerge from the soil. Lesions or dead spots are visible on the young plants near the soil line. These lesions may cause death or severe stunting.

Because cotton farmers are concerned about the disease, extension research is in progress. During the last few years research has proved that cotton may be planted much earlier if fungicides are mixed in the soil.

This disease is caused by several common soil fungi which feed upon organic matter in the soil. However, they can also use tender living tissue such as that provided by young cotton seedlings. Growth of these fungi is favored by cool soil temperatures.

After June 1, seedling disease is usually slowed up due to warmer soil temperatures and also planting on top of the bed provides warmer soil conditions.

Beards were once subject to government control in Rumania. Those seeking to wear wiskers needed an official permit and had to pay a fee.

Ex-Students Group Seeking Early Graduates' Addresses

"The Wellington Ex-Student Association would appreciate your help in securing mailing addresses for these ex-students from 1910 thru 1919", said Vickie Mayhugh Porter, secretary. "In the 1910 Class, we know the addresses, as we do with the 1912 Class.

"We do not know of LaFayette Glenn, Class of 1913."

In the 1914 Class is Lois Grey (Mrs. Lois Childers).

1915, Roy I. Nunn and Bertha Duncan.

Class of 1916 Albert Haley, and Oma Lee Hunter (Mrs. M. L. Simpson, Sr.,).

Class of 1917 F.T. Carpenter, Howard Gilliam, and Bess Royal (Mrs. Wade Dorsett).

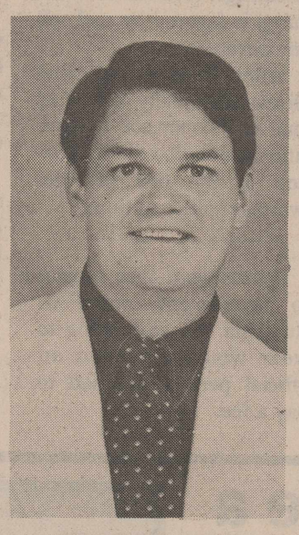

Class of 1918, Edna Dyche, Hallie Gilliam, Lena Goad (Mrs. Jim Cooke), Ethel Johnson, Etta Sledge (Mrs. Travis Baumgardner), Vanna Mae White (Mrs. Ellison Godwin) and Raymond Zigler.

Class of 1919, Oma Kelly, Candler Hawkins, Keener Hudson, Alice Cockran (Mrs. Ira C. Fore), Allie White (Mrs. Frank Skinner); Bess Pritchard (Mrs. Bess Strong).

"Any help would be greatly appreciated," said Mrs. Porter.

The Association's mailing address is P.O. Box 386, Wellington, Tx. 79095, or call 447-5690 after 5 p.m.

"We did not have enough pre-registeration cards to mail out to all ex-students living in Wellington. If you want to go ahead and pre-register, you might send the necessary information to us. We have received great response from our newsletter, along with several generous donations. These donations are greatly appreciated," she continued.

REV. JOHN COLLIER

Revival at Fundamental Baptist Church

The Rev. John Collier of Garland will be the evangelist for revival services to be held at Fundamental Baptist Church Sunday through Saturday, June 6-12, with services to begin at 7:30 p.m.

Bus transportation will be provided, and those wishing to use it should call 7-2903, said the Rev. Howard McCann, pastor. There will be a nursery for infants and small children.

Rev. Collier is founder and president of John Collier Revival Ministeries, Inc., at Garland, a faith operated evangelistic outreach. Pior to that he was a pastor of churches at Mesquite and Gainesville and was youth pastor at Miller Road Baptist Church, Garland. He is a former camp director of the Bill Rice Ranch, Murfreesboro, Tenn.

He was educated for the evangelistic ministry in Tennessee Temple College and in 1966 was graduated from Garland College.

Rev. Collier has served as youth pastor at Lavon Drive Baptist Church in Garland and at the Central Baptist Church of Pomona, Ca.

Rev. Collier, with his wife, Virginia and their children, Winn and Vonda, often travel together as a team, singing together some of the services.

The public is invited to attend these services, said Rev. McCann.

Gray New ACU Vice President

ABILENE Texas--The dean of the College of Professional Studies at Abilene Christian University, Dr. C.G. Gray, will be promoted to vice president for academic affairs, effective June 1, Dr. William J. Teague, ACU president, announced this morning. The appointment is subject to the approval of the board of trustees at their meeting on Monday, May 2.

Teague made the announcement to faculty members in a specially called 10 a.m. meeting. Gray replaces Dr. Ed Brown who announced his resignation earlier in the semester. Brown will return to classroom teaching and also serve as chairman of the communication department.

Teague said Gray was chosen from a list of exceptionally outstanding faculty members who were nominated for the position. "He possesses the quantity and quality of characteristics in the appropriate combination to lead in the academic development of the university," Teague said.

The president commended the search committee for serving with distinction and for maintaining an "exemplary level of confidence." The committee was led by Dr. Dwain Hart, chairman of the physical education department.

Teague said a replacement for Gray as dean would probably be named next week.

Gray, 55, has served as dean of the College of Professional Studies, which includes the departments of communication, education, home economics, psychology and social work and sociology, since the university reorganization in the fall of 1981.

Previous to joining the ACU administration, he was administrative assistant to the superintendent for the Dallas Independent School District.

He is a native of Melbourne, Ark., and a graduate of Wellington (Texas) High School. After two years in the Army, Gray earned the BS, ME and EdD in education fields from Texas Tech University, in 1949, 1952 and 1965 respectively. He also has done post-doctoral work in reading at Texas Woman's University and advanced management training with IBM.

For ten years he served as a teacher, counselor, assistant principal and director of guidance for the Lubbock Public Schools. From 1960-74 Gray was employed by Science Research Associates, Inc., a subsidiary of IBM, working at the regional level in mid-America, Texas and California, and later as national director of sales and product sales in Chicago and national manager of adoptions at the Dallas office.

Gray served as associate director of instructional services and computer services for the Region 10 Education Service Center in Dallas for four years before joining the Dallas schools in 1978.

Gray has served as chairman of the research committee for the American School Counselor Association, as president-elect of the Texas Personnel and Guidance Association and has given numerous workshops and consultations through his affiliation with SRA and for the Texas Education Agency. He has given 10 presentations on technology in education specifically relating to reading or computer assisted instruction at state or national conventions.

Kay Coffee Completes Internship

Kay Coffee graduated from the dietetic internship program at Vanderbilt University Medical Center, Nashville, Tennessee, on Friday, May 28.

She will complete Master's Degree requirements from Vanderbilt University in July and plans to take the American Dietetic Association registration examination in October.

Included in the graduating class were 15 interns from all regions of the United States and Canada.

At the graduation ceremony, Miss Coffee was recipient of the Lois Beeby Stow Award, which is given annually to the outstanding dietetic intern. Selection is based on work performance, enthusiasm, professionalism and leadership qualities.

The recipient of the award is determined by votes from the 43 supervising dietitians and the dietetic interns. Ross Laboratories presents the recipient with a $100 cash award and plaque.

While in Nashville, Miss Coffee was a member of the American Society of Hospital Food Service Administrators and the Nashville Nutrition Committee. She is a junior member of the American Dietetic Association and the Nashville District Dietetic Association.

Miss Coffee is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Coffee. She received her B.S. degree from Abilene Christian University in December 1980, then attended graduate school at Texas Tech University before attending Vanderbilt. Those going to the graduation ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Coffee, and her two sisters and brothers-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dickie Johnson and Dr. and Mrs. Dee Green of Childress.

The first time the Olympic Games were held in the U.S. was in 1904 at St. Louis.

Land Bank Interest Rate Rises

Interest rates on all Land Bank variable rate loans will be increased to 11½ percent on farm loans and 12 percent on rural residence and farm-related business loans, said Talmadge Porter president/manager of the Federal Land Bank Association of Childress.

These rates become effective June 1, 1982.

According to Land Bank President Thomas H. Benson, "Marketing conditions have prompted the Bank, with full cognizance of the problems facing agriculture, to recommend the increase."

"Refunding maturing bonds have a face rate ranging from 6.65 percent to 8.70 percent, with new ones in the 14 percent range continuing to cause obvious pressure on the Bank's earnings," Benson said.

The Federal Land Bank Association of Childress makes long-term real estate loans of farm and rural residence property in the counties of: Childress, Cottle, King, Hall, Donley, Wheeler and Collingsworth.

For further information contact: Federal Land Bank Association of Childress, P.O. Box 910, Childress, Texas 79201, Phone: 817/937-6181.

Isla Mae Morris Chosen RTA Teacher of the Month

Collingsworth County unit of the Retired Teachers Association has selected Mrs. Isla Mae Morris as Teacher of the Month for May.

Mrs Morris, whose home is 1806 Ellison Street, was born in Eastland County, one of 9 children of the late Mr. and Mrs. W.W. Johnson. She was three when her parents came to Collingsworth County and settled in the Salt Fork Community.

Mrs. Morris began her schooling at Salt Fork, and except for a brief time when her parents operated the Lillie Store, attended Salt Fork as far as the little country school offered classes. Later she began her teaching career here.

She attended Wellington High School in the summer of 1930 and the school year of 1930-31, to graduate as valedictorian of her class.

The following year, Mrs. Morris attended West Texas State Teachers College, as it was then called, then began a teaching career that spanned the next 40 years--all in Collingsworth County.

Life extended outside the schools she taught for she continued her own college studies, attending the summer and cotton picking vacation terms.

The latter are all but forgotten except by those who experienced them.

For 6 to 8 weeks each fall, when cotton picking began, schools closed their doors and students stayed home to pull cotton sacks up and down long rows on their parents farms. This was an economic necessity, for these were the depression years. A vacation it was not. As West Texas was primarily a teachers college, it accommodated itself to the situation, and began the split fall semester. Students could complete 6 or 9 college hours as they wished.

But with better financial times, the beginning invasion of cotton fields by Hispanics each fall, and the first mechanized cotton pullers, the annual cotton picking vacation passed into limbo.

A good many Collingsworth teachers join Isla Mae Morris in these memories.

Ten years after she graduated from Wellington High School, 1941, Mrs. Morris received her B.S. degree from West Texas State College.

There was no break in her studies as she began graduate work---summer school, night classes and Saturday work.

Another ten years later, 1951, Isla Mae Morris received the Master of Education degree from WTSC, as it was still known.

She holds four professional Texas teaching certificates: elementary, superintendent, principal and administrator.

Mrs. Morris first school was in her home community, Salt Fork, as a replacement. She did not teach long enough that term to get credit for a year's experience toward retirement, but she made up for it in what she learned as a teacher. That year she taught with one sister, Mrs. Ruby Riley, who recently returned to Wellington to live.

She followed this with two years at Lillie, one at Rolla, one at Wellington, and then 32 at Quail. She was elected principal of Quail elementary school at the beginning of the 1951-52 years, then in 1963 she became high school principal, a position she held until she resigned to assume the duties of superintendent of the Collingsworth County Schools.

She remained four years, retiring when the office of county superintendent was phased out by the Texas Education Agency.

She called this a delightful way to end a career.

She had the privilege of teaching her own son, Lt. Col. Darryl Morris, now of Ft. Hood; a sister, and several nieces and nephews.

Mrs. Morris was always active in community affairs, having served on various committees and held offices in the county unit of Texas State Teachers Association. She worked with March of Dimes, Collingsworth County Historical Museum, the Red Cross Bloodmobile and as a spelling bee judge.

She was married to the late Lewis Morris Nov. 28, 1934. They lived at Marella, where she continued to teach and he farmed.

Besides her son, she has three granddaughters, Debbie, a senior at the University of Texas at Austin, Nicki, 12 and Sharyl, 10.

A Methodist since early in life, she was active in Salt Fork Methodist Church until it became a part of Trinity Methodist Church, and in turn became a part of 1st United Methodist Church.

She taught young people's Sunday School Class, served as secretary-treasurer, as a trustee and on the Trinity Church building committee.

A dedicated teacher, she felt she was hired to do the best teaching possible. Her goal was to inspire her students to work hard, set high goals and be an asset to their community.

Moreover, she taught them that second best was not good enough.

Mrs. Morris says she received many pleasures from teaching. She learned from students as well as taught them.

She counts off other ways in which she was fortunate: to have worked with good principals and superintendents: good local and county school boards, understanding parents, cooperative teachers and coaches and enthusiastic students.

Family Honors Pete Chandler Sunday on 75th Birthday

Pete Chandler was surprised by his family with a celebration on his 75th birthday, Sunday, May 30, in the National Guard Armory.

This was one day earlier than his real birthday, which occurred May 31.

Hosting the party were Mrs. Chandler and his son, Weese Chandler.

A large birthday cake in colors of orange and white was on the refreshment table, which was covered with an orange cloth trimmed in white lace, and appointed with crystal. The floral arrangement of mixed spring flowers was used with white candles.

Guests were served by Mr. Chandler's granddaughters, Susie Chandler of Borger and Stacy Chandler, and friends, Susie Joann Price of Borger and Mrs. E.S. Hale, Jr.

Another granddaughter, Deborah Chandler, registered the guests.

Mr. Chandler has lived in the Wellington area since 1914, 68 years, coming here from Vernon.

Friends and relatives calling to wish Mr. Chandler a good day, to say hello, and to visit included Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Chandler, Mr. and Mrs. Baldemar Gonzales, Kim and Kelly and Mr. and Mrs. A.E. Reddock, all of Amarillo; Joann Price of Borger; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Black of Dodson;

Ricky Seale and Mr. and Mrs. Randy Seale of Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. Red Seale and Darla of Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pritchard of Shamrock;

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Don Smith with Christy and Brian, and Mildred Smith and son, Lindel of Sweetwater; Jessie Lou Kirk of Shamrock; Kay Chandler White with Gina and Chet of Richardson, and Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Duncan with Michael, Kavin and Stacy of Muleshoe.

Attending from the Wellington area were Baldemar Gonzales, Mrs. Ruby Harris, Jimmy Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Peters, Mr. and Mrs. E.S. Hale, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. James Hale, Billy Chandler, Mrs. Raymond Hodges, Mrs. Don Reeves, Mrs. Henry Rogers, Mrs. Jim Sikes, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Tramel, Mrs. Victor Garza and Michael, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Morrow, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Holliman, Mr. and Mrs. E.B. Golden Barnett Installed as B&PW Club President May 25

Mrs. Goldie Barnett was installed as the president for the 1982-83 club year of the Wellington Business and Professional Women's Club at the meeting on Tuesday, May 25.

Mrs. Truman Estes was the installing officer. Mrs. Dudley Phipps is first vice-president; Mrs. Tex Smith, second vice-president, Mrs. Jerry Manuel, secretary and Mrs. D.R. McKinney, treasurer. Mrs. Estes used "The Hands of Leadership" for the installation service.

With a clock, she told how the club pendulum swings from a state and national movement on a 4-objectives jeweled mechanism.

The mainspring is membership, she said and the all-important hands that tick off the hours of service and accomplishment are the hands of the individual member. She said: "as we think of hands, let us remember that one alone can only mark time--it takes both to record time."

She told Mrs. McKinney as the retiring president of the club that her hands have been "Sustaining Hands." By now they are probably tired hands but are also victorious hands for she has led the club to achieve many goals.

The hand that controls money is always powerful and must also be agile hands in the event a tight fist becomes necessary to balance the budget, she told Mrs. McKinney as the new Treasurer of the club.

For Mrs. Manuel as the secretary, her hands are busy hands with eight nimble fingers and two untiring thumbs ever tapping the keys of a typewriter and should also be creative hands, skilled and dedicated to accurately portray the picture or story that her membership inspires.

To Mrs. Phipps and Mrs. Smith as the vice-presidents, Mrs. Estes said theirs must be vigorous hands, for upon their palms lie the membership potential and the program aspirations of the club.

To Mrs. Barnett she said "yours must be humble hands, for they have been entrusted with the leadership of this club which is the greatest honor your members can bestow. As president, the future of the Wellington BPW Club is yours to command...success or failure in each of its many endeavors will be attributed to your directing hands.

Club members were given copies of "Praying Hands" depicting thankfulness and humbleness. Mrs. Doug Mead was in charge of the meal which the Gold group served to the winning group. Mrs. McKinney and Mrs. Estes prepared the tables and program booklets. Pink flowers and napkins were used in the table decorations.

Mrs. Barnett announced her committee chairmen:

Program, Mrs. Dudley Phipps; Membership, Mrs. Smith; finance, Mrs. McKinney; legislation, Mrs. Pearl Harwell; public relations, Mrs. Lynn Wright;

Foundation, Mrs. Jimmie Kelso; personal development, Mrs. Mead; world affairs, Mrs. Sweat; civic participation, Mrs. Erma Fay Kersten; yearbook, Miss Myra Hays and Mrs. Estes; reporter, Miss Hays;

Song leader, Mrs. Sweat; pianist, Mrs. Estes; hospitality, Mrs. Harwell; calling committee, Mrs. Bura Handley and Mrs. Ernest Harwell.

These members were present: Mrs. Barnett, Mrs. Estes, Mrs. Marie Gollihugh, Mrs. Pearl Harwell, Mrs. Ernest Harwell, Miss Hays, Mrs. Kelso, Mrs. Kersten, Mrs. McKinney, Mrs. Phipps, Mrs. Joel Sherwood, Mrs. Smith. Mrs. Adam Sosa, Mrs. Zook Thomas, Mrs. Delmar Turner, Miss Patty Turner and Mrs. Wright.

PERSONAL

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Brooks over the Memorial Day weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Danny Brooks of Dallas and Christy Brooks of Amarillo. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. Joe Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. Manley Wood and Mr. and Mrs. Randy McGill and Aaron.

A.A. Spear, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Barton, Saundra Hale, and the guest of honor and hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Chandler and Weese Chandler.

5 GENERATIONS

Seven-months-old Amber Adams, was the youngest of 5 generations which was together recently in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Smith. Holding Amber is her grandmother. Mrs. Terry (Sherrie) Adams; and to their right is Amber's great great grandfather Willie Smith. At left is Amber's great grandfather, Keith Smith, and next is her mother, Mrs. Tim (Jennifer) Adams. The three Adamses are from Atlanta, Ga.

Keith Smiths Host Family Dinner for 5 Generations

Mrs. Terry (Sherrie) Adams, her daughter-in-law Mrs. Tim (Jennifer) Adams, and her granddaughter, Amber Adams, of Atlanta, Georgia, were here last week to visit all their relatives.

It was the first time for Amber and her mother to meet her maternal great-great grandmother, Mrs. Lala Dunson, her paternal great-great grandfather, Willie Smith; her great grandfather, Keith Smith; and her two great aunts, Mrs. Bill K. Hall and Mrs. Ann McGill.

They had attended the wedding of Miss Cheryl Dawn Herring and Tommy Heartwell, Jr. on Saturday evening in Dallas and had seen all the other Smith relatives there.

From Wellington they went to Bovina and Dumas for a visit with their Adams relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Smith entertained the group Monday night in their home with a steak dinner along with visiting, reminiscing, and picture taking. Pictures were made of the five generations there with Jennifer Adams being initiated into the Smith family.

Those attending the dinner were: Willie Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Bill K. Hall, Darren Hall, Mrs. Ann McGill and Leland Rothwell of Childress, Mrs. Evelyn Tarver, the honorees, Sherrie Adams, Jennifer Adams, Amber Adams, and the host and hostess. Mrs. Dunson was unable to attend.

Mrs. Terry Adams, who grew up here, will be remembered as Sherrie Smith.

Thank You

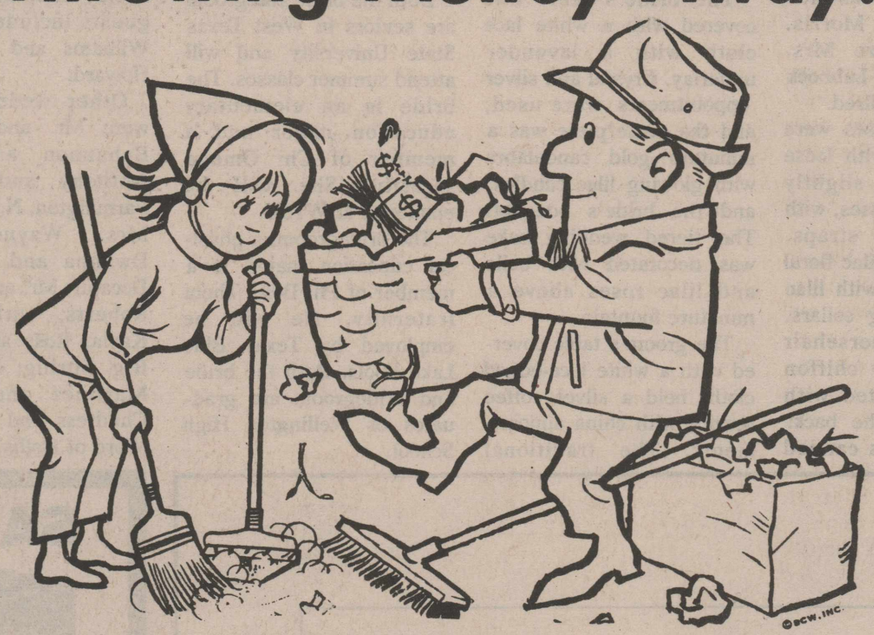

What is life without wonderful friends in time of happiness, sickness and death.

During our time of sorrow, the passing of our loving Mother, Grandmother and Great Grandmother, we would like to at this time express our very sincere thanks and appreciation to everyone who has been so kind and thoughtful — Guy and Juanita Owens for their services, the ones who sent and brought food to the church and home, the beautiful flowers, the memorial donations, the expressions of love and the special prayers which were offered.

May God bless each one is our prayer.

Wedding Vows Exchanged by Jeanne Morris, Carl Taylor

Jeanne Marie Morris and Carl Lewis Taylor, both of Canyon, repeated wedding vows Saturday, May 29, in a ceremony performed at six o'clock in First Christian Church. Joe Mack, minister of the church, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerol D. Morris, 1209 Amarillo Stret, while the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Glen Taylor, 1601 Amarillo Street.

An arched candelabra holding lighted wedding tapers was at the back of the altar area, and at front an arch was entwined with ivy and lavender daisies.

Spiral candelabras at the sides were also entwined with ivy and daisies.

Foliage, satin bows, with lavender daisies and purple chrysanthemums marked the aisles. Windows of the sanctuary held lighted lavender candles.

Kathleen Reeves was the pianist and Mrs. Teresa Howard of Lubbock sang "My Treasure," and "Wedding Song."

Mr. Morris gave his daughter in marriage.

She wore a formal gown of white silk organza, fashioned with a high neckline. Two ruffles of Chantilly lace, touched with pearls accented the bodice, and the full bishop sleeves were of matching lace. The empire waist was enhanced by a bow in the back. Her full skirt featured two flounces edged in Chantilly lace, extending to a chapel length train. Her picture hat was also of Chantilly lace and pearls, with large puffs of illusion in the back, falling into a double tiered veil of fingertip length.

Her bouquet was a cascade of white roses, lavender and white daisies, and white carnations and English ivy, tied with white and lavender lace streamers. It was carried on a Bible which belonged to her grandmother, the late Mrs. Robert Johnson.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister, Sandy Morris. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Teresa Howard of Lubbock and Mrs. Peggy Allred.

Their lilac dresses were evening length, with loose fitting pullover slightly flared blouson blouses, with narrow shoulder straps. Capelets were of lilac floral chiffon, trimmed with lilac lace and standing collars. Their matching horsehair hats had floral chiffon streamers accented with lilac flowers at the back.

The attendants carried lace fans with lavender daisies and silk orchids.

MRS. CARL LEWIS TAYLOR

Charles Taylor of Wichita Falls was his brother's best man. Groomsmen were Jon Sessions and David Baumgardner.

Dannie Morris, brother of the bride, Rex Cash of Post and Richard Chapman of Texline ushered.

Mr. Morris and Mr. Chapman lighted the candles.

The flower girl was Leah Taylor of Wichita Falls, niece of the groom, and Nicky Dean Johnson of Kelton, cousin of the bride; was ring bearer.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Morris entertained with a reception in the Heritage Room.

The bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth with a lavender underlay. Crystal and silver appointments were used, and the centerpiece was a minature gold candelabra with glowing lilac candles, and the bride's bouquet. The tiered wedding cake was decorated with bells and lilac roses above a minature fountain.

The groom's table covered with a white lace-edged cloth, held a silver coffee service with china appointments. The traditional chocolate cake was decorated with ivy. Completing the arrangement was a picture of the bride in her wedding gown.

A third table, also covered in white and accented with lace and lilac satin overlay, held a wicker basket of rice-filled lilac satin roses Distributing them were the bridegroom's nieces, Alicia Wright and Micha Tarver.

In the house party were Leslie Holden of Wichita Falls, Laronda Williams of Lubbock, Linda Fox of Amarillo, Lisa Draper of Guymon, Ok., and Dwanna Barton of Decatur, niece of the bridegroom.

Upon returning from a short wedding trip, the couple will live at Canyon.

Both the bride and groom are seniors in West Texas State University and will attend summer classes. The bride is an elementary education major and a member of Chi Omega sorority. She will be employed at WTSU.

The bridegroom, a physical education major, is a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity. He will be employed by Texas Blue Lake Pools. Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of Wellington High School.

Charlotte Barnett, James Hall Wed in Formal Rites on Friday

The sanctuary of First Baptist Church provided the setting for the wedding of Charlotte Adelle Barnett and James Hall of Key West, Florida, Friday, May 28, at seven-thirty in the evening. The Rev. Stanley Hughes, pastor, performed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Barnett, 1804 Ellison Street, are the parents of the bride while the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Clara Oldham of Amarillo and Watson Hall of Henderson.

Church decorations were a brass arch entwined with foliage and yellow daisies, which centered the altar area. At each side were tall spiral candelabras holding wedding tapers and also entwined with foliage and yellow daisies.

Completing the arrangement was the kneeling bench, and the unity candle. The two smaller candles beside it were lighted by the mothers of the bridal couple before the ceremony began.

Brass candelabras marked the first two rows of pews, and other pews were marked by foliage, satin bows and yellow daisies.

Wedding music was presented by Mrs. Truman Estes, organist, and Miss Kloette Camp, pianist. Mrs. Clinton Oldham of Samnorwood sang "Wedding Song," and "We Have Only Just Begun,".

Mr. Barnett gave his daughter in marriage.

Her wedding dress was designed with a fitted bridal satin bodice which had a lace overlay trimmed in seed pearls. The lace design was repeated in the bishop sleeves, and narrow ruffles outlined the sweetheart neckline with narrow band collar and the fitted cuffs.

The full skirt was of alternating tiers of chiffon and lace, with a lace overskirt and swept to a chapel length train.

Appliques of lace bordered her hip length illusion veil, which was attached to a fitted headpiece.

Her bouquet was a cascade of yellow roses, yellow daisies and baby's breath.

Jolene Hill of Amarillo was the maid of honor, and bridesmaides were Rhonda Hernandez of Amarillo, cousin of the bride, and Elizabeth Brewer. Their pale yellow crepe de chine dresses had sleeveless bodices with matching capelets that extended to tie on one shoulder. The floor-length skirts were a modified A-line and gold belts marked the waistlines.

MRS. JAMES HALL

The honor attendant carried a nosegay of yellow and white carnations and daisies, while the bridesmaids' nosegays were of yellow and white carnations.

The flower girl, Paula Gonzales, carried a basket of silk daisies. Shane Jones of Dodson was the ring bearer.

Jerry Hall of San Antonio was his brother's best man and groomsmen were Louis Hall of Longview, another brother, and Hank Barnett, the bride's brother.

Kirk Patterson, the bride's cousin and Neal Van Pelt, ushered.

Candles were lighted by Tammie Hernandez and Melanie Watts, the bride's cousins.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Barnett entertained with a reception in the church fellowship hall.

A white lace cloth with white underlay and two large yellow bows at the ends covered the bride's table. Crystal and silver appointments were used and the bride's bouquet was used with lighted tapers in crystal holders to form the centerpiece. The tiered wedding cake stood above a minature fountain.

Susan Barnett and Gina Barnett served the guests.

Lisa Hartman was at the register, placed on a round table with a white cloth over yellow and accented with a basket of flowers.

The couple's wedding trip will take them through the Gulf Coast States enroute to their new home at Key West, Florida.

The bride, who graduated from Wellington High School in 1980, received an Associate Degree in Applied Science from Amarillo College this spring where she completed her studies as a dental hygienist. The bridegroom, a graduate of Henderson High School, has served in the United States Navy 5 years and is stationed at Key West.

In 1980 the U.S. accepted more than 800,000 refugees

Tents Are Not The Pits

The plight of prisoners in the Texas Department of Corrections facilities who are now being housed in tents instead of in more permanent quarters doesn't distress us...as long as those tents are inside walls and security is maintained.

The crowded condition of the state's prisons and county jails is a cause for concern, certainly, and is a problem which Texas government must deal with.

But living in tents does not, in our book constitute any cruel or unusual punishment for prisoners.

Many thousands of us who are veterans of military service with the United States Armed Forces in wartime...at home or abroad...know about living in tents. Many of us have had continuous months, or even years, in this type of shelter.

And while tents are neither the most comfortable nor the most beautiful of housing accommodations, they are not beyond the realm of endurance as human habitations in any climate or in any kind of weather. Tents can be warm and dry...sometimes too warm in tropical climates, and not too dry at times in wet ones...but adequate shelter on the whole. It is easier to heat them in the winter than to cool them in summer...but tent air conditioning is relatively simple and cheap: just raise the flaps to let the breezes through, or tie them down to keep the wind out.

Perhaps the worst part of tent-living, assuming that the cooking and serving is done elsewhere as it surely is in the prison compounds, is the sleeping accomodation. Army-type cots are no match for an innerspring mattress, but one learns to adjust. Thousands of army veterans have.

And except for the confinement, probably most veterans would've gladly traded their tent homes in the jungles of New Guiena or Vietnam, or on the frigid hills of Korea, for the safety and security of the tents which Texas convicts have in Huntsville or on the farms. In the TDC tent cities the inmates are not subjected to strafing runs by hostile aircraft, or to grenade attacks by enemy raiders.

We need to be seriously concerned in Texas about the overcrowding of our prisons, and the basic causes for it...but that concern shouldn't center around the comforts and conveniences of the prisoners who live in the tents inside the walls. Let bleeding hearts bleed over worthier woes. Ben Ezzell, The Canadian Record

A Word on the Word with Jim Powell

'God, If You're Real, I've Got to Know Now'

When Fay Frei first went away to college, she was in for a shock. She had grown up in a Christian family in a small town where everyone believed in God.

So, she was "rather shattered" when one of her professors made what seemed to be convincing arguments that God does not exist and Christianity is only a crutch.

Dismayed, Faye returned to her room in the dormitory after class.

"I just sat down on my bed and said, 'God, if You're real, I've got to know now,'" she said.

Then, Faye picked up her Bible, opened it at random and began reading.

"I had opened it up to Colossians where it says 'Beware lest any man spoil you through philosophy and vain deceit.' When I read that, I knew. That settled everything from that moment on."

If you would like to learn more about the real God Faye Frei knows, write to the Christian Bible Society, Nashville TN 37210, and request a no-cost, no-obligation copy of the Gospel of John.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Texas lawmakers definitely will be returning to Austin this summer for the purpose of abolishing the state property tax, and Gov. Bill Clements says he will call the special session for May 24.

Clements is asking the Legislature to approve a constitutional amendment doing away with the tax—which hasn't been collected since 1978—because of a lawsuit scheduled to go to trial in June.

That suit, brought by Midwestern University, is seeking to restore the tax, which was used to finance construction at 17 public senior colleges and universities before the Legislature reduced the assessment rate to 0.0001 in 1979.

Clements says nearly $1 billion in past and current taxes would be due if Midwestern wins the suit.

Clements had hardly announced his plans for the session before several groups began calling for the governor to open it to several other issues. Some of those issues include appropriating millions of dollars to offset major increases in state employees' monthly health insurance payments, to offset federal cuts in the Work Incentive Program and to help fight the imported fire ant.

The governor, however, has said he will not allow lawmakers to consider anything but the property tax issue, and has indicated he hopes the matter can be handled in as little as two days.

The summer session will inconvenience some lawmakers who will be campaigning for the June 5 runoff elections.

GOP Offers 800

A total of 800 candidates for public office appeared on the 1982 Republican primary ballot last Saturday, according to State GOP Chairman Chester R. Upham, Jr. This is the largest number ever to compete as Republican candidates in Texas.

"We are really pleased with the large number of excellent candidates who sought election this year as Republicans. The interest in our Party has also resulted in a record number of Re-Upham said. "In addition to the statewide contests and the five important referenda questions, Republican primary voters had a choice of two or more candidates in 11 congressional races, seven State Senate districts and 24 House districts."

The increase in the Republican primary can also be seen in the number of counties which conducted elections. In the last non-presidential year, 186 of the state's 254 counties held a Republican primary. This year, there were 225 counties covering over 98 percent of the state's population.

Voters in all counties choose among candidates for the United States Senate, Governor, Comptroller and Land Commissioner in addition to expressing their views on local option parimutuel wagering on horse races, gun control, Sunday blue laws, mandatory penalties for repeat drunk drivers, and initiative and referendum.

Mayors Panel

The Mayors Advisory Committee to the Governor has identified water as the major issue of concern to their cities, and the group has decided to study several other issues they believe the Legislature should address during the 1983 legislative session.

The panel, chaired by Temple Mayor John Sammons, has agreed that water—whether the lack of it or too much of it—is the number one priority to be dealt with next year.

The mayors believe development of a state water plan should no longer be looked at as a West Texas issue and should be given statewide, non-partisan support.

The panel also identified crime, utility rates, financing for needed capital improvements, fire ants, housing and streets and roads as other major problems that need to be addressed soon by the Legislature.

The panel will present its recommendations on those matters to lawmakers and the governor in July or August.

Harding Woes

As if State Treasurer Warren G. Harding didn't have enough trouble with his two indictments for official misconduct, Harding now is being accused of sexually harrassing female employees in his office.

Harding, who has been indicted for allegedly using state employees to perform campaign work for him on state time, has been accused of the sexual harassment by John Cutright, one Democrat who opposed Harding in the hotly contested treasurer's race.

Cutright says that a Dallas newspaper has complete documentation on the matter, and officials of the Travis County District Attorney's Office have confirmed that the harassment allegations are part of their investigation into the treasurer's office.

Harding was facing little opposition to his re-election prior to disclosure of that investigation, but ended up facing three Democratic and one Republican challengers.

Despite the allegation, Harding gained the endorsements of several newspapers and political groups.

Political Streaker

You may have thought "streaking" had gone out of style long ago, but at least one Austin politico has found it to be a unique way of campaigning.

During a political rally for Democratic land commissioner candidate Pete Snelson, a man clad only in tennis shoes, a Richard Nixon mask and a bumper sticker across his posterior streaked through a crowd of about 400 people at Austin's Fiesta Gardens.

The culprit was apprehended by a Travis County sheriff's deputy, but Snelson campaign workers decided not to press charges.

The bumper sticker worn on the man's derriere proclaimed the name of one of Snelson's major campaign opponents—Garry Mauro.

AUSTIN — Gov. Bill Clements once again is getting exactly what he wants from the Texas Legislature.

Only four days after the start of the special session he called for the repeal of the state ad valorem tax, Clements already had achieved that victory.

Both the House and Senate voted overwhelmingly to adopt a proposed constitutional amendment to repeal the property tax. The amendment will be submitted to the voters when they go to the polls Nov. 2.

House Speaker Bill Clayton ramrodded the property tax repeal through the House with little opposition, but the measure was delayed temporarily in the Senate by a group of Democrats that wanted to save at least a portion of the tax to create a dedicated fund to finance construction at 17 state universities that do not participate in the Permanent University Fund.

Those schools received construction funds from the property tax prior to a 1979 legislative action reducing the assessment rate so low that the tax was virtually eliminated.

The supporters of the dedicated fund proposal eventually gave up their opposition when it became apparent that they could not muster the necessary votes to deny the tax repeal the two-thirds majority required for passage.

Sen. Lloyd Doggett of Austin, one of the governor's most vocal critics, called the repeal an "empty gesture" since the tax hasn't been collected in three years.

Clements, however, has contended that Texans might be called on to pay nearly $1 billion in back taxes if a lawsuit challenging the 1979 action is successful.

The governor has said lawmakers can address a permanent funding solution for the non-PUF colleges in 1983, and legislation to appropriate $130 million in interim funding is pending in the House.

However, Doggett says the chances of passing a dedicated fund in the next legislative session are slim because Clements, "for all practical purposes," opposes such action.

Prison Funding

And tax repeal isn't the only issue that is getting quick action.

The Senate already has approved legislation to provide $50 million to help speed up construction of additional prison units to relieve overcrowding in state prisons and passed three proposed constitutional amendments to raise interest rates the state can pay on water bonds, exempt farm tools from ad valorem taxes and correct an error in an earlier amendment setting a limit on welfare expenses.

Those actions came only two days after the governor opened the call of the special session to those issues, and the House is poised to take similar action soon.

The prison bill, however, is expected to go to conference committee, because the House Appropriations Committee has recommended some $24 million more than approved by the Senate.

With action proceeding rapidly, the special session should be extremely short.

The Devil's Hand

Gov. Clements has been the object of many caustic remarks by Port Arthur Sen. Carl Parker, but probably none that resulted in more snickers on the Senate floor than the Gulf Coast Democrat's barb suggesting the governor is exerting a "satanic" influence over the state's lawmakers.

On the opening day of the special session, the Rev. Gerald Mann, the Senate chaplain known for his one-line invocations, offered the following prayer:

"May this special session be adjourned at least 10 minutes before the devil knows it has convened. Amen."

"The devil called it," Parker shouted in reply.

Sherman Endorsement

Former college president Max Sherman, the man who ran third in the Democratic primary race for attorney general, has endorsed fellow Democrat John Hannah for that post.

Hannah, a former U.S. attorney from Tyler, is battling Dallas Congressman Jim Mattox in the June 5 Democratic runoff.

Sherman said he is supporting Hannah because of the kind of campaign he has run and his reputation among lawyers.

Sherman described Hannah's campaign as "positive and dignified."

Mattox has accused Hannah of misleading voters to believe he is a law school graduate when he actually obtained his law license under a state law that allows legislators to take the state bar examination without completing law school.

The winner of the Hannah-Mattox runoff will face Sen. Bill Meier, R-Euless, in the general election.

VICKI PARKER

Women's Golf Has First Hole-in-One

First woman to make a hole-in-one in official play on a Wellington golf course is Vicki Parker, who achieved this golfing honor during a Tuesday evening scramble May 25, on the Country Club course.

Mrs. Parker, wife of Leon Parker, hit a 135 yard par 3 on the No. 7 hole. She hit a driver and it rolled into the hole, said Teddy Martin, club professional.

"She's been playing about two years or so, not long," he added.

Mrs. Parker shot a two under par on the 9-hole scramble.

Witnesses to the hole-in-one were Tony Stephens, Ivabell Mauldin and Patsy Martin.

Dick Pendleton, Country Club president, said records were searched since the beginning of play on Wellington Country Club, as well as its predecessors, first Green Acres Golf Club then Hay Camp Country Club. There is no record of any other woman having made a hole-in-one.

Mrs. Parker took the ball home for safe keeping. The Country Club will present her with a plaque, in which the ball is mounted.

4-H Helps With Career Decisions

Helping youth with career decisions--that's what the 4-H career exploration program sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service is all about.

"The program was not developed to tell children what career is right for them, but to open doors so they are aware of various career possibilities," points out Preston Sides, Extension 4-H and youth specialist.

Career exploration is a three-step process in which parents can participate along with the child.

The first step is an awareness of jobs and work. Children are given the opportunity to study their community and types of available jobs. They also look at jobs in their school and local government.

In the second phase, teens find out more about salary, working hours, lifestyles and training required of jobs their community offers and jobs of interest to them. Students can evaluate their own personalities to see what types of jobs fit their lifestyle and interest, explains Sides.

Finally, 4-H'ers develop career interests. They are encouraged to participate in hobbies that will help them build skills. They put together resumes and look for part-time jobs. And they also have a chance to observe people on the job and many times to work alongside them.

"Shadowing" is a program where members spend time with such workers as bankers, dentists and factory workers. At each workplace or office, students are given a chance to try the work or to observe.

"While career exploration programs can help high schoolers make career choices, decisions actually start much earlier and are largely influenced by parents," notes Sides. "Parents begin to influence their children's career decisions from early in life. Parents are examples and models for children. How well parents get along at their job will give children a good or bad impression of work."

Three types of career decision-making patterns can emerge in a family setting, points out the specialist.

The first is child-centered. In this type, parents experience little or no involvement, and children make decisions with no guidance from parents.

In the second type, family-centered, the entire family becomes involved in the decision-making process Children and parents contribute freely to discussions, and children gradually take responsibility for their own decisions.

The third type is parent-centered. Children conform to parental expectations, and parents make the final decision with little consideration for their children's point of view.

"Generally, families operating in a family-centered pattern are more likely to encourage self-confidence and independence," says Sides. "Children who feel they are a part of the decision-making process will be more willing to consider their parents' ideas when making choices."

The specialist offers these tips for parents in helping guide children's career decisions:

--Encourage career exploration at an early age. Children's hopes often are expressed in fantasy, especially during play. Encourage such actions.

--Investigate new ideas by asking children what they would do if they could not do the first job they think of.

--Be responsive when your child asks, "What do you think I should be when I grow up?" Point out talents the child has and suggest careers relating to these talents.

--During middle years, help your child explore and develop skills needed for work.

--Encourage your child to take up hobbies and other leisure activities that will help develop job skills.

--Help your child understand how important school work will be later in a job search.

--Take advantage of friends to introduce new careers to your child. Encourage youngsters to discuss jobs with teachers and guidance counselors.

--When helping children toward a decision, encourage them to look at all aspects of a particular career. Examine how the career fits their skills and long-term goals and the employment outlook for particular jobs.

JANA CORNELIUS

Ms. Cornelius Gets Phillips Scholarship

BARTLESVILLE OKLA - Jana K. Cornelius of Guymon, Okla. is among the 66 winners of scholarships worth $4,000 from the Educational Fund for Children of Phillips Petroleum Company Employees.

The local winner may use the scholarship to attend any accredited college or university of her choice.

Jana is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Cornelius. She was a 1982 senior at Guymon High School. Jana was a member of the National Honor Society, Future Homemakers of America and Future Teachers of America.

She is also the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Farris Cornelius, who attended the graduation ceremony Monday, May 25.

As in past years, Phillips this year has awarded 66 scholarships and named 30 alternates, in accordance with the rules and regulations of the Company's Scholarship Fund. Winners were selected by a committee of educators and businessmen who have no connection with Phillips. This independent committee awarded scholarships on the basis of scholastic record, future promise and financial need.

Each winner will receive a $1,000 award renewable yearly based on scholastic achievement, for a four-year total scholarship of $4,000.

4-H Horse Club To Open Monday

The 4-H Horse Club will open its 1982 season Monday, June 7, and meetings will be held each Monday evening through the summer, Extension Agent Don Reeves has announced.

Starting time will be 7:30 p.m. at the VFW Arena in northeast Wellington.

This is for boys and girls in the 4-H Club age limits, 9 through 18 years.

A group of pre-4-Hers is being considered, Reeves said.

The District 4-H Horse Show will be held in Amarillo Tuesday and Wednesday, June 15 and 16. Winners in that event will qualify for the State 4-H Horse Show to be held later in the summer. Collingsworth County has been consistently represented in the state show for many years.

"Riders who are more advanced and want to go to the district show need to be working with their horses," Reeves said.

He emphasized that the meetings will be held each Monday evening unless the ground is too wet.

The extension agent pointed out that each 4-H Horse Club member must provide his or her own horse, which must be owned by the club member or by a family member. No stallions will be permitted in the arena where the boys and girls are riding.

Those who have been in the riding club over a period of years are urged to return this year, and younger boys and girls who want to learn western riding should come out, Reeves pointed out.

Teenager Speaks For School Prayer

JILL BROCK

Jill Michelle Brock, a frequent Wellington visitor, is graduating from Caprock High School, Amarillo, with more than the usual number of honors, plus recognition on the state and national level for her work as student council president. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Brock and granddaughter of Mrs. Bura Handley.

Jill has emerged as a spokesman for those Amarillo students who staged a brief walkout recently in opposition to the school board's decision to enforce a 20-year-old supreme court ruling probibiting prayer in public schools.

"We didn't know what we had until it was gone," said Jill of the cancellation of Caprock's daily devotional. "Now everybody really misses it," she was quoted in the Dallas Times Herald.

Until the recent school board action, Caprock school officials had permitted student representatives to use the intercome to "say grace" shortly before lunch each school day since the school opened in 1963--one year after the Supreme Court ruling.

In addition Jill will present a workshop on "Organizing for Effective Leadership" at the National Association of Student Councils' annual conference June 27-July in Reno, Nevada.

The Caprock Student Council also was designated as Outstanding Student Council at the recent state Student Council conference in Austin and its All-School Fiesta was selected as a Top Ten Project.

First place in district for UIL ready writing.

In August she will be the student leader of a statewide student council leadership training workshop to be held in San Angelo.

She was in the Gifted and Talented Enrichment Program.

Jill has received scholarships from the University of Texas at Austin, Dallas College, San Angelo State University, West Texas State University and Amarillo College.

In activities within her school, Jill ranked 10th in her class of 360 graduates.

Honors during her senior year included Longhorn of the Month (outstanding student for September), Who's Who in Caprock High School (one of 12), outstanding senior girl, National Honor Society three years, National Latin Honor Society three years, also

President of the student council and student body, runner-up for Miss Caprock High School, vice president of Future Teachers, vice-president of the speech team which participated on a mock trial team that won city, regional and third place at state UIL of 99 teams.

DEN 6

Cub Scouts, Den 6, went to Pioneer Park Friday, May 14.

They played in the river and hiked. They set up their tents and spent the night on the river banks. Hot dogs and home made ice cream were served with popcorn popped at night.

Boys there were Phillip Frasso, Chad Skelton, Scott Hankins, Jason Clark, Michael Orr, Larrie Black, Bryan Black, Jeff Fires, Johnny Shaver, David Rudy.

Debbie and Johnny Shaver and Lameda and Lynvel Black took the boys and spent the night with them.

Leaders were Sandra Fires and Judy Clark.

Apples keep longer if they don't touch one another.

Mrs. Newman Dies May 26 At Age of 85

Mrs. Kate (Guthrie Newman, 85, died May 26 at 6:30 p.m. after having lived in Collingsworth County for most of her life.

She came with her parents, the late Jerry and Alice Phipps when she was two years old. Her father was a leader in farming activities and church affairs for a long period of time.

Funeral services for Mrs. Newman were held Saturday, May 29 at First Baptist Church, with Elder Jack Hayes and Elder T.J. Pittman officiating. Burial was in the family plot of Quail Cemetery under the direction of Guy Owens Funeral Home.

Grandsons were pall bearers.

Mrs. Newman had remained active until the end of her life.

Katherine Elizabeth Phipps was born January 18, 1897, in Jones County. She was more affectionately known by many as Kate, or Aunt Kate.

She lived for many years at Cross Roads northwest of Wellington, rearing her family there, before coming into town to make her home.

Through her adult life, she had devoted much time to her church, and as well as to her community and family, and among all of these she was much beloved.

She had been a member of the Primitive Baptist Church since 1922.

On December 9, 1917, she was married to Jerry Guthrie in Wellington. He died July 17, 1959. One June 5, 1964, she was married to Austin Newman, who preceded her in death October 12, 1964.

Mrs. Newman is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Bill Lee of Pampa and Mrs. Leonard James of El Paso; two sons, Dan Guthrie of Wellington and Jerry Guthrie of Guymon, OK; four sisters, Mrs. Mary Chandler of Wellington, Mrs. Julie Emmert of Shamrock, Mrs. Ruby Yeary of Floydada, and Mrs. Augusta Aaron of Dallas; five brothers, Jack Phipps and Dudley Phipps of Wellington, Charlie Phipps of Friona, Jerry Phipps of Muleshoe and J.D. Phipps of Earth; 18 grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren.

One son preceded her in death in 1920.

55 Blood Units Given Thursday

County blood donors provided 55 units during the Thursday, May 27 visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile. Fifty-nine offered. This was just a little over half of the 100 units needed to give blood.

This shortfall was part of an overall picture that has left the Red River Regional Blood Center at Wichita Falls in an emergency situation.

For the first time those who volunteer time and work with the bloodmobile on its semi-annual visits were honored by the Red River Regional Center, as certificates and pins were presented.

Receiving these were Edith Waters. Louise Peters, Jean West, Barbara Coleman, Lois Ratliff, Corky Bowen, Maudie Coffee, Coleen Barton, Veta Bryan, Leatha Thomas, Lottie Handley, Agnes Ewing, Hildred Vaughan, Ruby Riley and Dollie Mae Wilson and Willie B. Harwell.

Nurses receiving citiations were Sharon Bowen, Mattie Winton and Lori White.

Virginia Robey, Wellington Leader news editor, received a certificate for informational coverage of the blood program over a period of years.

The next bloodmobile visit will be on December 29.

Those giving blood were: Jack Campbell, Dana Larrison, Corky Bowen, Ray Cozad, Henry Wells, Sam Schaffer, Louise Orr, Ann Langford, Wauline Hiett, Nell McKinney, Helen Patterson, Margie Pennon, Rosemary Foster, Keith Upchurch, Pauline Masten, Bob Goforth, Zelda Hatch, Vanieta Null, Howard Murdock, David Hall, Thomas Hudson, Nell Wilbur, Ray Null, Edward T. Aguilar,

William Guthrie, David Castillo, Odelia Cantu, LaDonna Murdock, Louella Hartman, Thomas C. Darter, William Anders, Dee Burba, Tammy Hernandez, Perry Foster,

Willie Gragson, Nancy Bigby, Danny Gray, David Peters, Anneese Darter, Morene Childers, Jolene Wilson, N.E. Childers, Jimmy Cantu, Trinidad Cantu, Jr., Saundra Daniel, Diane O'Rear, Andy Henard, Trysten Thomas, Jr., Sally O'Hair, Gracie Michael, Deanna Van Pelt, Marshall Peters, R.L. Hunnicutt, Anne Long, Betty Baumgardner, Charles Darter, jr., Irma Aguilar, Haskell Bonapart, and Dan Langford.

BLOODMOBILE LEADERS

The chairman of the May 27 blood drive and three former co-chairmen were honored with citations for their service by the Red River Regional Red Cross Blood Center, Wichita Falls. Mrs. Lynn Wright, left, was in charge of the current drive and follows Mrs. Gorman Owens, Mrs. Wayne Cummings and Mrs. Dollie Mae Wilson, co-chairmen for several years. Presentations were made by Polly Brumfield, director, donor resources development for the Red River Region.
