Decision Hits Strangers

AUSTIN, June 29. (AP)—Strangers to title cannot recover under faulty acknowledgement of a married woman, the supreme court held late today in answering a certified question in the case of P. L. Buvens against E. R. Brown from Harris county.

Brown had sued Buvens for title to some oil bearing land in the vicinity of Goose Creek, alleging that Frances Hardin, who, with her husband, conveyed the property in 1847, signed the deed, but failed to have her signature acknowledged by a notary public.

President Gil Declines

DALLEN, Tex., June 29.—(AP)—President Portes Gil of Mexico sent word today that he would be unable to attend the Fourth of July celebration here, as he previously had planned. He designated the governor of Tamaulapas to represent him.

The Ill Wind Again

GALVESTON, June 29.—(AP)—It's an ill wind that blows nobody good. Friday night's blow that brought a slight rise in the tide here swept back out of the way hundreds of logs that had drifted in from the recent Grazos river overflow and left West Beach, famous among campers, wide and smooth again for the holiday crowds expected for the Fourth of July.

Incidentally, the tide saved Galveston county several thousand dollars it had planned to spend in removing the logs.

Named College Head

LITTLE ROCK, June 29.—(AP)—Dr. Charles D. All Spain Unites In Celebrations Honoring Fliers

Afloat At Sea For Almost Week Through Fatigue, Hunger And Storms, Bird-Men Picked Up By Plane

Mystery Explained

Major Raymond Franco and Three Comrades Tell Of Hazardous Attempt To Fly To New York

(By Associated Press)

MADRID, June 29.— All Spain poured into the streets in vast roaring demonstration of joy for the discovery today of the four Spanish aviators lost and despaired of since they failed to arrive in the Azores Islands last Saturday.

Afloat at sea through storms, hunger and fatigue in their seaplane, Major Raymond Franco and his three comrades on a round trip flight from Spain to New York were picked up by two British airplanes from the aircraft carrier Eagle about 100 miles southeast of Santa Maria island, the Azores.

Five Nations Search

Five nations sent in vain ships and airplanes to search for them through a week of anxious watching before the Eagle discovered the aviators close to the very spot where the Spanish government thought they had landed last Saturday.

A mysterious and untraced message, purporting to be from Major Franco, then said the fliers were landing on San Miquel island, nearest of the Azores group to Santa Maria where they were found by British airplanes scouting without hope but on a chance to find them.

On board the Eagle bound for Gibraltar tonight, Major Franco himself explained the mystery of their disappearance in the first direct account of the flight. He said they passed over the Azores in the darkest clouds Friday night and when they turned back their

CONFLICT ARISES

Power To Postpone French War Debt Questioned

WASHINGTON, June 29. (AP) — A sharp conflict of opinion existed among congressional leaders tonight to whether President Hoover has authority to postpone collections of the $407,000,000 war supplies debt of France, August 1.

Acting on instructions from Premier Poincare, French ambassador Claudel has begun negotiations with Secretary Stimson to secure an unconditional postponement of collections of this debt until December 31.

New Wrinkle For Finding 'Leggers

AMARILLO, June 29. (AP)—Prohibition agents, seeking schemes for capturing "city slicking" bootleggers, have hit on a new disguise and as a result 13 alleged violators of the prohibition law, arrested by a squad of officers disguised as country boys, were arraigned here today.

Nine Texas rangers, cooperating with eight prohibition officers fro mall sections of Texas donned straw hats and overalls mingled with the harvest hands in a suburb near Borger yesterday. The wheat harvest was underway and the officers attracted no attention. After "bumming" around with the harvest hands the officers dropped in on a number of "speak-easies" and made 36 arrests.

The 13 brought here today made bonds of $2,000 each. They will be tried in September.

Wayland College Gym Contract Is Let In Amarillo

Plainview Firm Will Erect Building Given College By Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Nunn, School's Friends

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

AMARILLO, June 29.—Harrison and Smythe, Plainview contracting firm, today was granted the general construction contract for the erection of the new Wayland college gymnasium, Plainview. Construction work will be placed under way tomorrow, and the contract-letting took place in the offices of Guy C. Carlander, architect in charge of plans and specifications.

The new gymnasium, which will be modern throughout and the same size as the gymnasium at Texas Technological college, Lubbock, is being erected for Wayland college, a Baptist institution, by Mr. and Mrs. J. Lindsey Nunn, of Amarillo, friends of the school. Mr. Nunn's father, Dr. J. E. Nunn, has for a number of years been instrumental in the progress of the college.

Finished By September 10

The building is to be completed by September 10, of this year and is being erected to meet the increased attendance in prospect for the 1929-30 terms as based upon the growing enrollment of the past three sessions, it was announced.

Several Injured As Explosives In St. Louis Ignite

(By Associated Press)

ST. LOUIS, June 29.—Four persons were burned to death and several were injured when fireworks on display at the F. A. Schariott, Inc., five and ten cent store, were ignited accidentally late today and enveloped the store in flames.

The dead are Thomas Henderson, 12, an unidentified woman of about 25 or 30, and two unidentified girls, about 16 and 14.

The fire burst from the fireworks counter. It is believed a short circuit ignited one piece of fireworks and it spread flame to the others.

Henderson had gone to the store with his twin brother, Francis, to purchase fireworks. Francis said he did not know how he got out, but that he found himself in front of the store and his brother was missing.

Hoover Recognizes 2 Farm Branches

WASHINGTON, June 29. (AP) — Two more branches of agriculture, dairying and fruit growing, were given recognition by President Hoover today in selecting the personnel of the newly created federal farm board.

Places on the board, to which will be entrusted the task of carrying out the provisions of the farm relief bill, were offered to W. S. Moscrip, secretary-treasurer of the Twin City Milk Producers association of St. Paul, Minn., and Charles C. Teague, of the California Citrus league. President Hoover is awaiting their decisions as to whether they will be able to serve.

As the situation now stands, three of the eight appointments have been made and accepted, three other places offered and two are yet to be filled.

Jury Finds Pete McKenzie Insane

Asylum To Where Convicted Slayer Will Be Sent Is Not Determined; Death Ordered If Sanity Gained

(By Associated Press)

SAN ANTONIO, June 29.—Where John M. (Pete) McKenzie will be committed as an insane patient had not been decided after a verdict here today find the slayer of Sam Street, chief of San Antonio detectives, insane.

Judge W. W. McCrory said he would suggest that McKenzie be sent either to the state hospital in Terrell or Austin to remove him from the environs of the scene of the crime for which he was sentenced to death before being found insane. The choice of an institution was in the hands of County Judge Perry S. Robertson.

McKenzie is to be committed to an institution "so long as he shall remain insane." If, at any time, he is believed to have regained his sanity, and an affidavit is filed to that effect, he can be returned to San Antonio for another sanity hearing. If he then is found sane he must be electrocuted under the law.

GAS TAX PASSES

AUSTIN, June 30. (Sunday) (AP)—The senate tonight passed on final reading the 4 cent gasoline tax and 50 per cent automobile registration fee reduction bill.

The action came after several hours deadlock in which nine senators left the chamber and were sought on warrants signed by Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller.

Four of the missing senators opposed to the bill, and one who had been excused earlier in the day came to the state house to participate in the final vote.

The vote was 20 to 2 with Miller and Holbrook voting no. The measure finally was passed at 12:20 a. m. today. It was the first time the legislature has met on Sunday since 1907.

Creager Defends Action In Senate Patronage Probe

"You Can't Bluff Me," National Committeeman Tells Senator Brookhart In San Antonio Investigation

(By Associated Press)

SAN ANTONIO, June 29. (AP)—Vigorously defending his actions as republican national committeeman, R. B. Creager testified today before the senate patronage committee, charging the committee had exceeded the authority granted it by the senate and telling Senator Smith W. Broobhart, Ohio, chairman, "you can't bluff me."

At 7:15 p. m. the committee adjourned to reconvene Monday at Dallas where the hearing will be continued.

Creager went on the stand after witnesses had defended the Texas republican organization. He prefaced his testimony with the statement that the "committee has exceeded the authority granted it" by considering subjects other than patronage.

"And I refer to the chairman when I say that even common courtesy has not been extended to persons appearing before the committee," Creager said.

Bluffing Referred To

Senator Brookhart, after Creager had made reference to "riff raff" testifying before the committee, said: "Well, you might as well know you aren't going to bluff anybody on this committee."

"And you are not going to bluff me," Creager replied.

The audience applauded.

Creager first answered testimony by A. G. Martin that he had been kidnaped. Martin, Creager declared, was kidnaped and placed in an insane asylum. "The committee heard testimony of a crazy man,"

"SCARFACE" AL LOSES

First Skirmish For Freedom Proves Futile

PHILADELPHIA, June 29. (AP)—"Scarface" Al Capone, Chicago gang leader, today lost his first skirmish for freedom since he was sent to county prison for one year for carrying a loaded pistol.

After a long argument and hearing witnesses in municipal court, which sentenced Capone and his bodyguard, Frank Cline, refused to grant an application for a writ of error seeking Capone's release.

Counsel for Capone announced appeal.

Carroll Weaver, Son Of Lubbock City Commissioner, Crushed Under Light Roadster As Two Cars Collide Here

Little Hope Is Offered For Recovery Of Seventeen-Year-Old Youth By Attending Physicians

Parents Are Away

Accident Occurs At Corner Of 14th Street And Avenue X; Internal Bruises May Prove To Be Fatal

HOPE for life was fast waning early this morning as physicians and nurses watched over the battered body of Carroll Weaver, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Weaver, 1901 Broadway, who was seriously injured Saturday afternoon about 2 o'clock when the automobile which he was driving collided with another car causing it to overturn and settle on his body at the corner of 14th street and Avenue X. His father is a Lubbock city commissioner.

Young Weaver, driving a light roadster, was said to have been going north on Avenue X, while the other car, a sedan, driven by Warner McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. McDonald, Highland Drive, was said to have been moving west on 14th street. The two cars met at the corner, the sedan striking the roadster in the rear, turning it completely around and then bottom side up with the driver pinned beneath it by a door of the car. McDonald stopped his car and ran to the aid of Weaver, who was in a semi-conscious condition.

Immediately after the accident young Weaver was rushed to the Lubbock Sanitarium. An X-ray examination revealed that no bones had been fractured but physicians reported that his liver had been ruptured and that he suffered serious internal injuries. Later in the night a report came that internal hemorrhage had set in and that the young man's reserve strength was fast being sapped from his body. Doctors stated that the door of the

Sanitarium Case Jury Deadlocked

The jury in the case of Mrs. Clara McCallon vs. Lubbock Sanitarium, after an all day's deliberation Saturday, still had failed to arrive at a verdict.

Judge Homer L. Pharr of the 72nr District court, excused the body until 9 o'clock Monday morning at which time, it is understood, deliberations will be resumed. Saturday was the last day of this term of court but Judge Pharr extended the term to include Monday.

In her suit Mrs. McCallon is seeking $35,000 alleged damages as a result of the death of her husband after an operation. She charges that his death was due to negligence.

RATIFICATION LIKELY

Early Agreement Of French Debt Thought Certain

PARIS, June 29. (AP)— Early ratification of the French debt settlements with both the United States and Great Britain tonight was considered a certainty since Ambassador Claudel at Washington reported that there was no chance of postponing the maturity date of the debt for American war stocks.

W. Claudel's report of his conversation with Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, in the course of which Mr. Stimson made it plain that the American government could not accept the postponement request of the chamber of deputies, cleared the atmosphere in Paris.

Attempts Of Two Planes To Establish Endurance Refuelling Records Fail As Landings Are Forced

(By Associated Press)

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., June 29. — Martin Jensen's third attempt to set a refueling endurance flight record in the monoplane Three Musketeers ended in failure at 6:07 (Eastern Daylight Time tonight, apparently because of trouble in the fuel line.

When Jensen landed he said he was out of gasoline, but examination of the plane later by Emil Burgin, pilot of the refueling ship, disclosed that 40 gallons remained in the tanks. Burgin said he believed the fuel line was clogged.

Accompanied by Wife.

Jensen, accompanied by his wife, Margurite, and William Ulbrich, lacked 24 minutes of being in the air 71 hours and was more than four full days short of the record of 172 hours, 2 minutes and one second established last month at Fort Worth, Texas.

Before the Musketeers landed, refueling attempts had gone awry, and the fliers were able to get only a few gallons of gasoline at a time.

Plan Another Attempt.

Jensen at first said he was "through for ever" with endurance flying, but after bathing and dining he discussed with his wife and Ulbrich plans for a fourth attempt in the near future.

Ulbrich seemed worried over the condition of Miss Viola Gentry, critically injured yesterday when her plane was wrecked in a refueling endurance flight. He expressed a desire to go at once to Nassau county, where Miss Gentry is being treated. Friends told him, however, that the news of the Three Musketeers' failure might have an ill effect on her. So he decided to postpone his visit.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 29. (AP)—A sputtering motor which gradually lost its power brought an end today to the futile attempt of Thorwald Johnson and Owen Haughland to set a new mark for an endurance airplane flight af-

Lubbock Is Using Much Material In Building Work

Building Permits Reveal Vast Amount Of Material Being Shipped Into City For Activities

A building permit means more than a mere slip of paper—a blank form whereon the contractor's and owner's names are written, along with amount of money represented, the kind of structure, location, et ceters.

It would not be far from absolute fact to say that every one of the building permits, issued this year by City Building Inspector D. J. Schlag, represents as many carloads of material to be used in construction.

Permits Total 400

There have been, to date, approximately 400 permits issued in the city of Lubbock. Total money involved is almost $2,500,000.

If one will figure in terms of carloads of freight needed to gather all material used in erecting dwellings and business houses and all classes of structures in between, every time a permit is issued it is to be seen that, at some time, another carload of materials have moved to Lubbock.

The biggest job under constfuction in this city at the present writing is that of the Hilton hotel. This will be 12, 14, perhaps 16 stories in height.

Requires Much Material

This job requires 120 carloads of gravel, and there are, it is well to note, some 85,000 pounds to the car, which is 42 tons and a half. Sand will fill 80 cars, running 40 tons to the car. Cement is responsible for 35 cars, consisting of 200 barrels to the car, or 800 sacks, or 80,000 pounds each.

Structural, reinforcing steel and miscellaneous steel and iron fills 12 cars. Then, there's brick and tile to be counted. Face brick will occupy 20 cars, hollow tile 20 cars, both having 40 tons to the car, while six cars of gypsum tile is to be counted in addition.

The Hotel Lubbock job will call for perhaps half as much, or more than half.

Subway Used Much

Not a few carloads of material has been and is being used in building the Broadway subway. It requires 3,750 yards of concrete for the Panhandle Construction company's part of this job. In this there are to be 100 carloads of gravel 150 cars of sand, 30 cars of cement, 120 cars of brick, one car of steel for reinforcing, 10 cars of asphalt. This does not include the carloads upon carloads of steel and other materials used by the Santa Fe railway on this structure.

The government of the city of Lubbock has had shipped to town, since January first, this year, almost $25,000 worth of building materials, to be used in construction of drainage, street paving, curbing, water system, including pipes, water and electric supplies. This represents about 20 carloads.

Government Ends Fiscal Year With Enormous Surplus

Startling Increase In Income Tax Receipts Causes Expected Deficit To Become $200,000,000 Ahead

WASHINGTON, June 29. (AP) — The government which started the 1929 fiscal year last July 1 with an indicated deficit of $94,000,000 in its business operations, closed the year tonight with a surplus of nearly $200,000,000 due to a startling increase in income tax receipts.

Income tax payments for the fiscal year up to the close of business on June 27, latest treasury figures available, had totaled $2,327,760,722, or $153,808,166 more than was collected in the entire 1928 fiscal year and a $158,522,567 increase over the same period of last year.

The exact figure on the government's financial transactions and the amount of the surplus for the fiscal year will not be known until tomorrow night when the treasury will issue the totals for the 12 month period, but the figures of June 27 indicate that the prediction of Secretary Mellon of a government surplus of $160,000,000 or $70,000,000 will be exceeded.

At the business meeting of the government last July Calvin Coolidge as president warned the department heads that the estimates at that time on government receipts for the year indicated a deficit of $194,000,000 and asked their cooperation in practising the strictest economy.

Semi-Final Try-Outs In County Grain Judging Events Are Held At Tech College Saturday

Six contestants survived the semi-final tryouts for the Lubbock country grain judging team which were held Saturday afternoon at the livestock pavilion at Texas Technological college.

Eight were entered and five were to be picked to continue the work until the final tryouts. Two boys tied for fifth place and Coach D. F. Eaton decided to let the six continue the work. Corn, kaffir and milo were used in the contests and D. A. Adams, county agent of Lamb county, was official judge.

The final tryouts will be held July 20, which is the third Saturday in the month. At this time three boys will be picked for the team, two as regulars and one as substitute.

Results of the judging Saturday are: Wayland Potts, first; O. B. Haught, second; Arvile Elliott, third; George Railsback, fourth; Jimmy Knight and Horace Emery, tied for fifth.

Defendant Winner In Property Suit

The case of John Gelin et al vs. P. H. Herndon et al, which started in the Lubbock division of federal court Friday, was decided in favor of the defendant Saturday by Judge James C. Wilson.

In the suit plaintiff sought to have a contract, which the two parties had made to exchange property, called null and void on the grounds that the contract was a violation of the statutes. Judge Wilson decided that the contract was valid and should be held binding on both parties.

This was the last case to be tried in this term of court.

Individuality Is Sought In Speech

ATLANTA, June 29. (AP)—A plea for individuality in a machine standardized world was voiced by William John Cooper, United States commissioner of education in an address prepared for the opening here tonight of the 67th convention of the National Education Association.

Mr. Cooper and Josephus Daniels, Raleigh, N. C., publisher and former secretary of the navy, were principal speakers o fthe opening session of the convention, convening in the south for the second time in its history.

During the day L. W. Lampkin, of Maryville, Mo., president of the association, declared that neither the association nor the schools would welcome any suggestion from the treasury department on law enforcement. His declaration was in reply to a query concerning the statue of Miss Anna B. Sutter, chief of the division of statistics and education of the prohibition bureau, at the convention.

PREFERS OLDER MEN

Henry Ford Likes Workmen Between 35 And 60

PHILADELPHIA, June 29. (AP)—Henry Ford, in the July issue of The Ladies Home Journal, says that he should prefer, if he could make the choice, to have all his employes between 35 and 60 years og age.

"For then," the automobile manufacturer adds, "we should have a stable and experienced force. We could not care how much over 60 the men were so long as they could do their work."

"Under no circumstances would we have a working force made up entirely young men," Ford says. "It is solid framework of older and more experienced men who know exactly what they are doing."

"The American Girl Excells At Love," Says Dolores Del Rio

NEW ORLEANS, June 29.—A softly-sung serenade and the low strumming of a guitar beneath a tropical moon in old Mexico may fill the average American girl's dream of a romantic courtship and cause her to believe that she is missing a lot in life.

But she isn't—because the average American girl has it all over her Mexican sister when it comes to playing the game of love.

No less an authority than Dolores Del Rio says so, and Dolores should know because this beautiful Mexican-born movie queen has been wooed many times in both Mexican and American style. And, while in New Orleans for a brief visit, this beautiful daughter of the republic south of the Rio Grande gave an interview that debunked the game of love as it is played in her romantic land.

American Girls Excel

Dolores votes for courtship, American style, every time. Moreover, she shatters the illusion of the Mexican senorita's world-mastery in the art of the "come hither" technique by the frank admission that "American girls are the most expert coquettes, the most artistice flirts, in the world."

"I thought I knew something about the game," she said with a flash of her dark, liquid eyes, "but American girls can teach me pointers any day."

"Weary camouflage" are the words Dolores uses in describing a romantic Mexican courtship with its soft-voiced guitar and all the other trimmings. She contrasts it unfavorably with the direct brand of American courtship wherein the boy friend dashes up in his sporty roadster, honks for his girl to come out and they race away to attend a dance or enjoy an ice cream soda.

Getting the Desired Man

"Of course, a typical Mexican courtship is romantic and beautiful, but how weary one gets of keeping up the camouflage that it is the man who does the selecting and then pursues the girl he wants to marry," she said. "Any woman knows that, short of cross eyes and a hump, any woman with brains can get the man she wants. Sometimes they do it with cross eyes and a hump and without any brains at all. But in Mexico, the tradition of 'man, the pursuer' still prevails."

But the Mexican gentleman makes a delightful pursuer, at that. Everything is strictly formal and the parents help a lot.

The young couple usually meet at some social event, explains Dolores, and the young man asks the privilege of paying a call. When he does call, there is always a chaperone hanging around.

And, Oh, That Chaperone!

"The mother or some member of the family is always within earshot," says Dolores. "Either the chaperone sits in the same room with them or in the next room with an open door and unobstructed view.

"That certainly does 'cramp your style,' as the American slang puts it."

Usually, after a call or two, the young man finds himself desperately in love. No Mexican gentleman ever gets in love any other way. If he isn't desperately in love, he isn't in love at all. He begins to shower the girl with flowers and candy because he cannot give jewelry or other objects of value before they are engaged.

"But he can serenade her," says Dolores, "and he does. The serenade still flourishes in all its glory in Durango, where I was born—there isn't a moonlit night that you can't hear the soft strumming of guitars beneath the iron-barred windows."

Sometimes the lover goes to the serenade with the guitar slung over his shoulder by a broad, bright ribbon. Nobody laughs at him. All his elders have been in love once, themselves. And such lovely songs they sing to the soft accompaniment of those guitars!

But suppose the lover isn't musically inclined—suppose he can't play a guitar? What then? He hires a small orchestra of four or five musicians, they hie to the lady's window and the serenade is on. The lover stands by, beaming satisfaction.

At last the lover proposes—with the chaperone still within earshot and eyeshot. The bride's father gives his consent and they become engaged, but still the darned chaperone hangs around. Not until the marriage is held does the watchful chaperone relent for even one moment. Then, and not until then, are the cumbersome social traditions and ground-rules of a romantic Mexican courtship ended.

American Girls Free

"But look at the American girl," says Dolores. "Suppose her parents talk about a chaperone. 'Be your age!' would be her first answer. Take it from Miss America, there would be no chaperone.

"Free as birds of the air, these American girls seem to a conventbred Mexican girl such as I. I thought at first that Lord must have had them in His special keeping because most of them seem to land on their feet, right side up, after what from a Mexican point of view seems taking all the chances in the world.

"Now I know it is a combination of the Lord and the American girl herself, Fifty-fifty, I guess.

Sunlight vs. Moonlight

"No American girl has to ambush her man from behind a barrier of tradition and conventions. She swims with the boys and plays tennis and golf with the boys. She hears their confessions and binds up their wounds and frequently can lick them at their own game. She knows boys in general as a Mexican girl hardly knows her own brothers.

"She can take care of herself and does, under social conditions and situations that would drive a Mexican father and mother to suicide. Freedom is hers and she makes good.

"She picks her man and gets her man. She kids him into making love to her, even. She doesn't set her courtship to music, but she enjoys the greatest courtship in the world.

"She has debunked the game of love. Maybe she has taken some of the moonlight out of it, but she certainly has let a lot of sunlight into it."

American girls may have taken a lot of the moonlight out of romance but they've put a lot of sunlight into it, says the beautiful Dolores Del Rio, Mexico's fairest daughter, who admits that the flappers have the senoritas beat at playing the great game of love. And Dolores ought to know—she's loved and been loved in both countries and in both languages.

U. S. Holds Refuge For General Jose Escobar; Whereabouts Still Unknown

EL PASO, June 29. (AP)—The north side of the Rio Grande border has become a haven for Mexican political refugees as an aftermath of the southern republic's latest revolution.

At least half a dozen generals have crossed the American border seeking safety from treason prosecutions, and looking for a possible means of replacing lost fortunes.

General Missing.

Gen. Jose Gonzalo Escobar, chief instigator of the revolt, is the only outstanding rebel leader whose whereabouts is not known. He is variously reported in Canada, the hills of Sonora and San Antonio. One story had it that he was killed while attempting to enter the United States with a quantity of gold.

Aurelio Manrique, Mexican agrarain leader and Escobar's principal adviser, has sought refuge in Los Angeles. There, it is said, he will offer to teach languages and history. Manrique is an accomplished linguist, speaking Spanish, English, French and German.

Valenzuela In Los Angeles.

Los Angeles also claims Gilberto Valenzuela, insurgent presidential candidate, and General Fausto Topete, divisional rebel commander.

El Posa, however, is headquarters for most of the defeated revolutionists. Gen. Miquel Valle, who led victorious insurgents into Juarez, and Aguistin Gallo, former mayor of Juarez, operate a dairy here.

General Marcelo Caraveo, former governor of the state of Chihuahua and second in command to Escobar, is recuperating in a private home.

A watch repair shop is operated by Gen. Marcelino Murrieta, commandant at Juarez during the revolt. Generals with friends in El Paso include Raul Michel, chief of staff for General Caraveo; Raul Madero, member of the Francisco Madero family and Antonio I. Villareal, presidential candidate and a political exile before the last outbreak.

Ramon Yucupicio and Roberto Cruz, two other leaders, are hiding in Sonora's mountains. Yucupicio is a Yaqui Indian, and Mexican federals say his tribesmen are protecting him.

Bottle Floats On Sea 2,000 Miles

BEAUMONT, June 29. (AP)—After floating 2,000 miles from near the island of Jamacia, in three and a half months, a bottle thrown overboard by a representative of the United States hydrographic service has been picked up by Jesse Harbine, a Beaumont boy, on the beach at High Island. According to a note in the bottle it was thrown overboard from the SS La Marea on March 4 by Second Officer T. K. Young. J. C. Jackson was master of the vessel. The bottle was turned over to Assistant Postmaster Tobe Hahn for forwarding to Washington.

BUILDING DESTROYED

Quartermaster's Headquarters Razed By Fire

FORT SMITH, Ark., June 29. (AP)—After defying the elements for almost 100 years, the quartermaster's headquarters building of Old Fort Smith was destroyed by fire late today.

The structure, erected in 1838 as a part of the original garrison designed to protect settlers from Indian raids, at one time was commanded by Gen. Zachary Taylor. It was in the old fort that Jefferson Davis, then a lieutenant in the United States army and later president of the confederate states, courted and married the daughter of General Taylor.

Only because Goodyear is the world's largest rubber company, producing millions more tires than any other company, is it possible to sell you a first grade tire like the Goodyear tire at our present prices.

Supertwist Cord – – Goodyear's patented feature—is one of the reasons why Goodyear Tires outlast and out-endure any other kind. Come in and we will prove why—on the cord testing machine pictured above. See Supertwist stretched side by side with regular standard cord.

A Question 36 ...

EVERY day, twenty-four hours on end, Goodyear's tire-testing cars race along the roadways of America.

Overloaded, steaming, crowding the speedometer from dawn to dawn, they cover concrete and gravel, hill and dale, piling up often as much each as 800 miles a day.

Some of them are big cars, some small; some cruise in Ohio, some in Florida, some in Arizona and New Mexico, some on the Pacific Coast.

Altogether they comprise the largest tire-testing fleet in the world, and they're kept on the run in sunshine and storm the whole year through.

THIS ceaseless and unmerciful testing—this question 365 days long—is the kind of scrutiny Goodyear Tires must survive before they are offered to the public.

Every improvement in compound, every advance in construction, must run this gauntlet successfully before it is incorporated in production.

Inspection to insure uniformity of quality in itself is not enough; even this inspection is subject to check in the harsh laboratory of the road.

As a consequence Goodyear quality is a definite and dependable thing—so outstanding as to support the largest tire business in the world.

When you buy a tire, ask yourself if it has this back-ground—this insurance of brilliant and economical performance that is intrinsic in every Goodyear Tire.

Ask yourself if it contains the values made possible by Goodyear experience and science, proceeding from

A WOEFUL SONG

The recent series of setbacks suffered by the St. Louis Cardinals is attributed to the failure of the Redbird pitchers to come through. Jess Haines is the only veteran twirler of the staff that has approached standard form. Grover Cleveland Alexander, the Cardinals' star hurler, is suffering from what experts fear to be an "athletic heart." The veteran moundsman has been almost carried from the mound on several occasions when he curled up in a knot on the hill. Only last week in Cincinnati, after Manager Southwort hhad made up his mind to start Grover against the Reds, Alex became violently ill and could not work the Sunday game.

We Willie Sherdel's slow teasers have been easy pickin' for National League batters this season and especially the Chicago Cubs. Yesterday as McCarthymen took their third straight from the Redbirds, Sherdel went down before the murderous attack of the Bruins before he got hot. One was Rogers Hornsby's fourteenth home run of the season and his third in the current series.

There is nothing the matter with the Cardinal attack. The team is hitting well over .290 as a group and three regulars are pounding the pellet for averages above the .300 mark. But if the pitching staff does not pick up, these sluggers are going to have pummell at a rapi dclip all year to balance matters and bring the club back in the race.

ANOTHER RUMOR

Rumor has it that Uncle Wilbert Robison, president and manager of the Brooklyn Robins, will succeed Jack Hendricks as boss of the Cincinnati Reds when the season is over. Hendricks is headed back to the American Association. Looks like the directors are jumping out of the frying pan into the fire. Supporters of Hendricks aver that he has done more with what has been furnished hi mby the Scotch owners than any other one man could have done, but the directors have picked him as the goat to save their own hides. Hendricks has been getting the blame for all the present misfortunes of the club and it is practically certain that he will be out of a job at Brooklyn this fall. It is no idle rumor that the two groups of stockholders fighting each other are spending no more money than they are compelled to. Uncle Wilbert, if he is given the post, will have to show more than he has in recent years at Brooklyn to improve things at Cincinnati.

THE HITLESS WONDERS

Seems that the colorless Chicago White Sox are going from bad to worse. Gamblers who follow the progress of the major league teams just about as closely as the next fellow, are laying wagers that the Chisox will finish the season in the basement, below the lowly Red Sox. Failure of Ted Lyons to work the persistent soreness from his good right arm and the miserable performance of the Chicago outfielders are mentioned as the main causes for the downfall of Lena Blackburne's outfit. Blackburne, himself, is given part of the blame. The cocky Art Shires, former Waco first baseman appears the only bright light of the White Sox club One Chicago scribe says

"Art Shires continues the spark plug of the team. If he hadn't returned, the White Sox would be a mighty drab outfit, but he manages to keep up his exuberance regardless of what is going on around him and occasionally infects his teammates with enough enthusiasm to go out and win a game."

It would not be at all surprising to hear of some other major league club laying their hooks to catch the fiery Texan during the winter season.

Berkeley Bell Is Collegiate Champ

HAVERFORD, Pa., June 29.—(AP)—Berkeley Bell of Austin today gave Texas university another intercollegiate lawn tennis championship of the United States. He defeated Gregory Mangin of Georgetown university in a five-set match after one of the greatest uphill struggles the college tournament has seen.

Two years ago, Wilmer Allison, now in Europe with the Davis Cup team, won the college singles title for the Lone Star state.

Bell wears the crown which for the past year was worn by Julius Seligson, of Lehigh university, compelled to default to Bell in a semi-final match yesterday when he failed to appear, believing, because of the rain, that competition had been called off.

Changing his style of play after dropping the first two sets to Mangin, 6-2, 6-3, Bell returned to conduct himself like a different player. Bell won the others, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2.

Texans Still In Missouri Tourney

KANSAS CITY, June 29. (AP)—A "furriner" will hold the Missouri state men's singles tennis title for the next year.

The last Missouri hopes faded today when Karl Kammann of St. Louis lost to Fred Quick of Dallas in semi-finals matches. Royer won 4-6, 6-2, 6-2, 7-5, while Quick easily dispatched his adversary in straight sets, 6-1, 6-0, 6-3.

Ruth Bailey, defending champion in women's singles won from Mary Greef, Kansas City, 6-3, 6-1. Miss Bailey paired with Mary Zita McHale Dallas, to capture the women's doubles from Mary Greef and Millicent Endicott, St. Louis, 6-2, 3-6, 10-8.

Barr-Quick of Dallas will meet Hudge-Kammann of St. Louis in the final match of the doubles tomorrow.

Barr-Quick defeated Hubbell-Fitzpatrick of Kansas City 6-2, 6-2, 6-0, while Hodge-Kammann defeated Klingman-Royer of Chicago, 6-1, 6-4, 6-3, in the semi-finals.

Bobby Jones And Al Espinosa Tie For U. S. Open Golf Championship At 294

BOBBY JONES

AL ESPINOSA

Bobby Jones, left, Atlanta amateur, and Al Espinosa, Chicago, professional, tied in the United States open championship with a 72-hole total of 294. It was the second successive playoff and the fourth altogether for Jones in American open championship competition. The Georgian lost to Johnny Farrell in the playoff last year. The deadlock will be settled today over 36 holes.

Winners Will Play Off Today For Title At 36

By ALAN J. GOULD
Associated Press Sports Writer

WINGED FOOT CLUB, MAMORONECK, N. Y., June 29. (AP)—Out on the high perched home green this afternoon, the greatest golfer on them all, Bobby Jones, somewhat tired and worn by a battle with par and a record gallery, knelt to study the difficult line of a 12-foot putt on which hung his last hope of staying in the hunt for the open golf championship of the United States.

While 12,000 spectators jostled, shoved and milled for a peek at the last episode of a dramatic truggle, Jones stepped up briskly, struck the ball and sent it curving beautifully into the cup for the par fourth, enabling him to tie with Al Espinosa, after the Atlanta amateur had gone perilously close to disastrous elimination.

Tie For Honors

Jones, two-times champion, now in his fourth play off and Espinosa, professional of the Sportsman's Fulg and Country Club, of Chicago, now sharing the greatest heights he has ever experienced, tied for the regulation 72 holes at 294 strokes a piece after one of the wildest battles in the history of the tournament. Jones, finishing as poorly as he started brilliantly, scored 69-75-71-79. Espinosa put together rounds of 70-72-77-75.

Tomorrow they will play off for the title at 36 holes, 18 in the morning starting at 10 a. m. and 18 in the afternoon at 2 o'clock. Thus for the second successive year, Jones, with the crown apparently perched firmly on his head, permitted it to slip off in the final round for hands to grab and dispute with him.

Last year, the famous Atlanta amateur in a similarly commanding position as leader going into the last 18 holes, frittered away seven strokes on five straight holes, wound up in a tie with Johnny Farrell, also at 204, and then lost the play off by a stroke at Olympia Fields.

Takes Seven On Two Holes

Today, with a three-stroke margin over his nearest rival, Gene Sarazen, and four shots ahead of Espinosa, after 54 holes of competition, Jones astonished a gallery of 12,000, the greatest and also probably the most uncontrollable in open championship history, by taking sevens on two holes, the eighth and fifteenth, then three costly putts on the sixteenth green from only 18 feet.

Espinosa, in the thick of the fight all the way, a co-leader with Sarazen after 36 holes, rallied spectacularly on the last few holes to post his 294 and take the lead, after an eight on the twelfth hole apparently had put him out of the running. But Jones met fresh trouble himself, where he seemed to have the title stowed safely away.

After Espinosa had finished with a blazing 4-3-4 for his final round of 75 and grand total of 294, Jones came to the last two holes needing par four on each to tie. He played the 17th perfectly, then smashed a long drive down through the dense masses of humanity fringing the 18th fairway. His iron, slightly pulled, was hole high, but off the green a foot from the edge of a trap and when he chipped a dozen feet short of the cup, his chances looked slim. A slight slope to the green required careful calculation, but Bobby had the finishing punch and delivered it, where farther back it looked as if he was himself on the ropes and about to be knocked out of the tournament.

Shute Threatens

This was exciting enough for the great throng, but there was one more bit of drama as Densmore Shute, 42 year old Columbus, Ohio professional came along behind Jones to make the one remaining thrust either for the title or a share in the tie. Needing 4-3 or 3-4 to tie Jones and Espinosa on the last two holes, Shute missed his bid for the birdie on the 17th by inches. Still game, he slugged a tee shot that cleared the last two hillocks and rolled to within 125 yards of the 419 yard ninth. His pinch was straight, but too strong, rolling back over the green among the spectators.

Knowing he had to sink the next shot to tie, Shute struck it boldly, but it went well past the cup. His last hope gone, he took a 5 for the hole, 76 for his final round and a grand total of 296 that left him in a tie for third place with Gene Sarazen.

Tie For Fifth

The list of the half dozen contenders who furnished the main pack of thrills in the closing drive was completed by George Von Elm, Detroit amateur, and Tommy Armour, professional fellow townsman. Each wound up with totals of 297 for a tie for fifth position with the rest of the field, as well as a flock of badly beaten favorites scattered behind them. Leo Diegel finished in a tie for eighth at 301. Horton Smith finished ninth with 302, Walter Hagen in a tie for 19th at 309. Gone and almost forgotten was the 1928 champion, Johnny Farrell, who failed to even have the distinction of competing in the last half of the battle.

Among those who automatically qualified for next year's open were: Ted Longworth, Fort Worth, 311; Jack Burke, Houston, 312.

Tilden And Lott Constitute Double American Threat In Quarter Finals Of English Singles Championship

Mack's Athletics Continue To Show Way In American

Jimmy Foxx Holds Batting Lead With Average Of .405; A's Lead In Both Hitting And Fielding

CHICAGO, June 29. (AP) — The pitching offered by the Yankees and Red Sox during the last week looked just like any other pitching to Jimmy Foxx of the Philadelphia Athletics, and he continued to set the American league standard with a mark of .405, unofficial averages, including games of Wednesday, reveal.

Connie Mack's first baseman added nine points to his average to bound back into the .400 class, and to go ahead of Bob Fothergill, Tiger outfielder, who slipped from .406 to .393. Foxx has topped the batsmen playing regularly in his circuit for the last five weeks.

Other Mackmen Lead.

Among the other reasons why the Athletics were at the top of the heap were Al Simmons, Mickey Cochrane and Bing Miller, all batting in the first 10. The leaders besides Foxx and Fothergill were: Simmons, Philadelphia, .390; Dazzeri, New York, .374; Manush, St. Louis, .372; Cochrane, Philadelphia, .371; Fonseca, Cleveland, .358; Miller, Philadelphia, .354; Combs, New York, .354; Gehringer, Detroit, .352.

As a team the Athletics lost three points in batting, but remained out in front with an average of .316. Detroit stuck in second place with .306. The Athletics had collected a total of 424 runs during the season, while restricting all opponents to 239.

Bob Grove southpawed himself to another pair of victories during the week and raised his mark to 12 wins and one defeat. Behind him were George Uhle, Detroit; Vic Sorrell, Detroit, and Rube Walberg, Athletics, who each had records of 10 triumphs and three setbacks. Although not able to work in turn, Eddie Rommel, another of Connie Mack's hurlers, had collected six victories without suffering defeat. Grove was far out in front in strikeouts with 83.

The house of Mack also was on top in team fielding, although forced to share first place with the Yankees with a mark of .976.

Cleveland, ranking as the poorest fielding team in the circuit, continued to show the way in double-plays, having performed the double ceremony 73 times.

Other leaders: Runs batted in, Simmons, Philadelphia, 79; home runs, Gehrig, New York, 20; triples, Manush, St. Louis, eight; doubles, R. Johnson, Detroit, 25; stolen bases, Miller, Philadelphia, and Gehringer, Detroit, 11; runs, Gehringer, Detroit, 65.

Veteran Net Star and Youthful Lott Win Straight Sets; Women Singles Players Hold Own

WIMBLEDON, England, June 29. (AP)—George Lott of Chicago winning in straight sets today, the United States has two representatives among the eight surviving contenders for the English tennis championship in men's singles.

Bill Tilden and the youthful Lott, who eliminated Jan Kozeluh, 6-4, 6-1, 6-4, constitute a double American threat in the quarter finals with one in each half of the draw. France has three of its men in the charmed circle of eight—Henri Cochet, Jean Borotra and Pierre Landry—while a young Englishman, H. W. Austin, a Hungarian, Baron Von Kehrling, and a Dutchman, Hans Timmer, complete the list.

U. S. Women Hold On.

In women's singles the end of the first week of the classic tournament finds Miss Helen Wills, Miss Helen Jacobs and Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, all of California, still keeping the United States in the running.

In the doubles events, Tilden and Frank Hunter; Wilmer Allison of Texas and John Van Ryn; Lott and John Hennessey; Miss Wills and Miss Edith Cross; Mrs. Bundy and Miss Marjorie Morrill and Miss Elizabeth Ryan, former Californian who is paired with Miss Betty Nuthall of England, are left to represent the U. S. A. with third round play completed. The Wills-Cross combination today won, 6-1, 5-7, 6-1, from Mrs. Molla Mallory and Miss Besmid, A. U. S.-South African team.

Lockney To Hold Golf Tournament

LOCKNEY, June 28.—A number of West Texas golfers have signified an intention of playing the first annual invitation golf tournament at the Lockney Country club, July 7th, and 8th, according to Dr. H. H. Ball, chamber of commerce committeeman in charge of the affair.

Several enthusiasts from the surrounding cities have played the course and pronounce it one of the best on the South Plains.

Four flights are being arranged and plans are now being made to have the qualifying rounds played on July 7th., followed by the match play on July 8th. Pat O'Brien, Oklahoma City golf professional will superintend the tournament.

Shreveport Host To Golf Tourney

SHREVEPORT, June 29. (AP) — Linksmen of six states are expected to compete in the third annual tournament of the Southwestern Golf association at the Shreveport Country club, July 23 to 27. The association includes the states of Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Arkansas, New Mexico and Arizona.

Jack Speer of Houston will defend his title.

Reds And Corsairs Divide Double Bill

PITTSBURGH, June 29. (AP)—Although held to five hits, Cincinnati won the second game of a double header today 3 to 2 to break even with the Pirates on the day's bill. Paul Waner's wild throw in the fourth after Critz had driven Kelly home with a single gave the Reds the winning margin in the nightcap.

Burleigh Grimes won his 12th victory of the season in shutting Cincinnati out 3 to 0 in the opener.

Lubbock High Gridders Face Stiff Schedule For 1929

New Rookie Rule May Terminate Texas League Supremacy In Dixie Series

Westerners Start Early Training In August For Season Which Calls For Ten Games; Jackrabbits Come First

Frnka Predicts Close Battle In District One; Fears Wichita May Have A Strong Threat

Lubbock High school's Westerners open their 1929 football campaign here on September 20, against their old rivals, the Ralls Jackrabbits, the tentative schedule for the local eleven reveals.

Ten games are scheduled for the cohorts of Henry Frnka and Del Morgan, including six conference scraps and four with Class B. elevens. The Westerners will play all but two of their games on the home gridiron. Two outstanding games of the season will be played on foreign soil, Amarillo and Vernon.

Preliminary training will begin August 19, Coach Frnka announced yesterday. The site for the early training camp has not been selected but the Westerners are likely to return to Two Draw Lake near Post, since other resorts are not able to furnish suitable accomodations for the large squad expected.

Expect Close Race

"Indications point to a stiff fight in District One next season," Frnka said yesterday. "Practically every team in the district will have stronger clubs and for some reason they are all pointing to Lubbock. The outlook for the Westerners is just about on a par with the beginning of the 1928 season. Much will depend upon the way the new candidates come through. One thing is certain, Lubbock will have a scrappy club and so long as the fighting spirit is kept up, we'll have a chance. A good start at the early training camps is highly important."

The Wichita Falls Coyotes are likely to present one of the greatest threats in the district when the fall season opens. Coach Barry Holten, former Trinity University mentor, will find 27 squadmen out of 33 slick for service, including 15 letter men. Lubbock swept the Coyotes off their feet in last year's encounter the locals displaying their most effective football of the entire season. Holton is certain that the Pack will be more vicious than ever next season and the Westerners are due for a stiff tussle when Holten invades Lubbock for the first time.

Stars Are Missing

While the majority of the teams in District One were able to retain the majority of their veterans, Lubbock lost four linement and three backfield stars that will be hard to replace. Captain Raymond Barton, H. A. Castleberry, Charlie Wilson, and Buckingham were the outstanding cogs in the Westerner forward wall during the season of '28. Such stars as Earnest Dowell, Joe Powers and George Pierce are gone from the Lubbock backfield. The shoes of these scrappy gridiron warriors will be extremely hard to fill, and unless the newcomers rise to the occasion, the Westerners are likely to bow to more than one conference team when the season gets under way.

Coaches Frnka and Morgan plan to send invitations to forty gridders for the early training camp during the latter part of August. This number may be increased if more prospects are uncovered.

Following is the schedule as it stands today, subject to changes in several points:

Sept. 20th.—Ralls at Lubbock.
Sept. 28th—Crosbyton at Lubbock.
Oct. 5th.—Quanah at Lubbock.
Oct. 12th.—Slaton at Lubbock.
Oct. 19th.—Electra at Lubbock.
Oct. 26th.—Olton at Lubbock.
Nov. 2nd.—Amarillo at Amarillo.
Nov. 17th.—Wichita Falls at Lubbock.
Nov. 23rd.—Vernon at Vernon.
Nov. 28th.—Plainview at Lubbock (Thanksgiving.)

West Texas Loop

ACES SPLIT WITH COLTS

ABILENE, June 29. —Abilene and Midland closed the first half of the West Texas league split season by dividing a double header here today. The Aces took the first tangel, 7 to 6, and Midland won the second, 6 to 2.

First game:
Midland ..... 000 030 201—6 9 1
Abilene ..... 100 002 211—7 14 1
Eagan and Francis; White and Bradbury.

Second game:
Midland ..... 200 310 0—6 7 0
Abilene ..... 011 000 0—2 9 0
Caldwell, Moore and Francis; Cromer and Bradbury.

COLEMAN CINCHES FIRST HALF

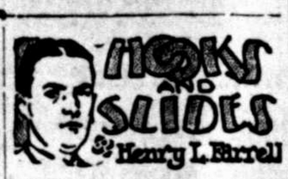

COLEMAN, June 29. (AP)—Coleman lost today's game to San Angelo, 4 to 3, but cinched the pennant for the first half of the West Texas league season as the Abilene Aces dibided a double-header with Midland.

S. Angelo ..... 300 020 000—4 7 1
Coleman ..... 120 000 000—3 9 3
Hinson and T. Moore; Glaser and Parma.

BALLINGER WINS FINAL

BALLINGER, June 29. (AP)—Ballinger defeated Big Spring, 5 to 1, here today, making it three out of four and the series.

Big Spring ..... 000 000 001—1 9 1
Ballinger ..... 001 003 010—5 8 2
Vick and Rabe; Henning and Ratliff.

HERBIE IS A MODEST FELLOW

Herb Pennock of the New York Yankees, who is regarded as the best southpaw pitcher in baseball, was asked recently by a New York writer to name the ten best pitchers he had seen in the American League in the last ten years.

With becoming modesty the Yankee pitcher omitted his own name when he mentioned the following in order of their merit:

Waite Hoyt, Walter Johnson, Lefty Grove, Lefty Walberg, Sam Jones, Red Faber, Ted Lyons, George Pipgras, General Crowder and Ed Morris.

UP COMES HUGGINS

Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, overheard the cross-examination and he stepped in with an opinion of his own. It is seldom that the little Miller ventures any opinions without pressure.

"I'll tell you," he said, "without you asking me, that Pennock is the best pitcher in the last ten years. Hoyt comes next. Pipgras doesn't rate up there because he hasn't had enough experience, but he will get there. The same thing goes for Crowder and Morris.

"I'd put Uhle way up there. He's poison to us. I'd also have way up there, Grove, Walberg, Lyons, Faber, Jones and Jack Quinn and mercy, by all means, Walter Johnson."

AIN'T THAT MANY PLAYS

Knute Rockne, the Notre Dame football coach, tells of a young high school coach who approached him and asked him for a few new plays.

Rockne asked him how many plays he had given his squad and the young coach answered that he had 180 in his bag.

"You don't need any more plays," Rockne said. "I never heard of 180 plays and furthermore I don't believe there are that many any place."

THAT'S A SWELL REASON

Helen Meany and Martha Norelius, two of the best swimmers and drawing cards in the country, were suspended recently by the A. A. U.

And the official reason given by the A. A. U. was that "they did something that they knew they shouldn't have done. They associated with professionals."

It is to be presumed that the young ladies did the impossible thing of swimming in a meet (without pay) in which the A. A. U. or one of its allied clubs didn't gobble up all the gate receipts.

NO BROKEN HEART FOR HIM

John Hertz, cabling back to his friends in Chicago about Reigh Count, said: "He is a wonderful horse to have gone through three losing races without breaking his heart and then to run the race he did in winning the Coronation Cup."

Regardless of what he does in the Ascot Gold Cup race Hertz told his Chicago friends his great colt would be shipped at once to the United States and would be retired to the stud.

IRELAND TO SEND TEAM

Dempsey Presence Booms Chi Boxing

CHICAGO, June 29. (AP)—The fist fight industry in Chicago faces a big winter boom, following the decision of Jack Dempsey, itinerant promoter, to establish himself in Chicago coliseum as a competitor to Paddy Harmon's big building—the Chicago stadium.

The latest pugilistic alliance ties Dempsey to Charles R. Hall, president of the coliseum company. The former world's champion has contracted for 10 shows, opening early in October.

The man who caused Tex Rickard to exact $50 a copy for seats at the ringside when he was champion announced his promotional policy will call for popular prices, with standard $5 top.

Start Remodeling.

The historic old coliseum, a relic of the world's fair days, is being completely remodeled to make it up to date. The main floor seats will be elevated to a point probably 12 rows back of the ring. These back sections will be inclined in gradual form, similar to the arrangements of the stadium. The seating arrangement of the balcony also will be changed, and the interior will be thoroughly redecorated for the opening of the glove season in October.

There hasn't been a boxing show in the coliseum since the night last winter when the match between Jackie Fields and Young Jack Thompson was interrupted by a panic that injured nearly 100 persons.

The coliseum, under the new seating arrangement, will have a capacity of from 10,000 to 12,000, which is just about half the size of the stadium.

Gracious! Helen Wills Appears Before French Without Stockings

Father Of English Boxing Buried With Honors In Westminster Abbey

LONDON, June 29. (AP)—Jack Dempsey and that other wealthy ex-champion, Gene Tunney, needn't get puffed up over the vast popular attention attracted by their exploits.

It is true they both made their millions in the ring, and it is likewise true that Tunney broke all prize-ring precedents by marrying into the social register and hobnobbing with George Bernard Shaw. But there are a few honors still unachieved by either the Manassa Mauler of Gentleman Gene.

For instance, neither has been buried in Westminster abbey.

When it comes to achieving a place in the British hall of fame, both Jack and Gene will have to take off their hats to stalwart Jack Broughton, one of the fathers of English boxing, who was buried among the celebrities in the abbey about 105 years ago.

Broughton was a big figure in the English ring during the second quarter of the eighteenth century. His rules of the ring long were an accepted authority on the etiquette of fist-fighting. It was Broughton who in 1743 built an arena dedicated to "The True Art of Boxing," an arena which (modern promoters please note) was operated under the slogan: "No person is to pay more than a shilling."

It was Broughton, too, who refined the hitherto somewhat homicidal sport by introducing boxing gloves.

For years Broughton maintained his position of authority in the pugilistic world by flattening all challengers who dared to meet him. Eventually, of course, he met defeat, and thereafter retired.

He died in 1789, aged 85, and was buried in the west cloister of Westminster abbey.

During his prime he posed for the figure of Hercules in Rysback's monument to St. Peter, which stands now in the North transept.

Three Teams Are Bunched In City

Half Game Separates First And Third Place Teams In City League Race; Santa Fe Protest Ruled Out

The race for supremacy in the Lubbock City league was turned into a three-cornered struggle during the past week with but a half-game between the Auto-Barbers in third place and the Santa Fe and Hardware teams, tied for the top rung in the loop.

While the three leaders were engaged in their wild scramble for the league leadership, the floundering Carpenter-Painters were buried deeper into the cellar with a brace of setbacks. The Tradesmen have displayed an improved brand of baseball under their new manager, Dee Puckett, but have encountered stiff competition in their last two games.

Tomorrow the Auto-Barbers meet the Carpenter-Painters in a contest postponed from June 19, when the negro element were given possession of Merrill Park. By defeating the tailenders, the Chisum outfit can go into a triple tie with the Railroaders and Hardware nine for first place.

Protest Disallowed.

The protest of Manager Bill Hargrove of the Santa Fe team over the Thursday game with the Hardware nine was disallowed by the league president, J. A. Raley Jr. A disputed decision at third base was the basis for the protest.

President Raley made the following statement:

"Since the decision made by Umpire Galey was based upon judgment alone and since the two arbiters had agreed before the game time that Galey should call plays at third base when there was a play at first, it is impossible to reverse this decision.

"It is always necessary to abide by the decision of the umpires when a ruling is not involved. Therefore the game stands. I will gladly give the interested parties a written statement of my ruling in this case if one is desired."

How They Stand.

Two Capitals Are Without Baseball

CHARLOTTE, N. C., June 29. (AP) Raleigh, in North Carolina, and Richmond in Virginia, capitals of adjoining states, are two of the few capital cities which have no professional baseball.

Raleigh only recently lost its professional franchise in the Piedmont league, the club being transferred to Henderson during the winter. Richmond dropped out of professional baseball ranks when the Virginia league disbanded last season. Virginia has no professional baseball.

NEW OGLETHORPE STADIUM

ATLANTA, Ga., June 29. (AP) — Construction has begun on the first unit of the Hermance Stadium at the Oglethorpe university here. The stadium when completed will cost $700,000 and seat 45,000. The first unit will cost $100,00 and seat 5,000.

LEAGUE MAGNATES MEET

DALLAS, June 29. (AP)—Texas League baseball magnates will meet here Tuesday to discuss an appeal on a game by Shreveport and the lively ball. Local league officials did not look for any discussion of a split season as the arithmetical half of the season ends Monday.

Five-Rookie Rule In Texas Likely To Help Southern

Southern Association Has Far More Flimsy Rookie Rule Than Lone Star Circuit; Spitballers Drift

DALLAS, June 29. (AP)—The Texas league's long succession of victories over the Southern association in the annual Dixie Series, broken only once, by Mobile, may become only a fond memory since adoption of the five-rookie rule by the Roberts circuit.

Southern association adherents always have claimed the Texas league derived its superiority from the absence of a rookie clause and use of the spit-ball by its pitchers. If they are right, the Dixie title will go to the Old South at the close of the present campaign.

Rookie Rule Changed.

The Texas circuit now has a far more stringent rookie rule than the Southern, and the league's supply of moist ballers has dwindled to the point where they are a rarity. A check-up shows three established spitters, Tuero at Shreveport; Estill at Beaumont and Wachtel at Houston. All are veterans and, with the exception of Tuero, have been ineffective most of the season.

While the Southern has a rookie rule, it is a far ore flimsy one than that adopted by the Lone Star league. It really does not mean anything. Any player coming from a league of lower classification is a rookie for two years, despite his previous experience. For instance, Wilbur Good, who played in the majors before many of the present crop of youngsters were born and who at present is managing Atlanta, is a rookie, because in 1923 he piloted Macon in the South Atlantic.

In the Texas league only players who have not had more than extremely limited Class A experience come under the rookie rule.

Lubbock To Meet Littlefield Today

Lefty Hannah Pitching Choice For Hubbers In Second Engagement With Lamb County Nine

It's "Ladies' Day" at Merrill Park this afternoon when the Hubbers tangle up in their second encounter of the season with the Littlefield All-Stars. A determined Lubbock nine will take the field at 3:30 to turn back the Lamb county aggregation just as decisively as Littlefield defeated the locals early in the season.

Lefty Hannah will make his first home appearance on the mound for the Hubber club. Against the Tactless Texans of Amarillo a week ago, the elongated southpaw looked like the proverbal million dollars and should be able to turn back the Littlefield sluggers if he is right.

D. Waller will start behind the plate for the locals today, with Volney Hill ready for relief. The rest of the team will remain intact, with Morgan at first, Taylor at second, Ater at shortstop, Gaither at third and the starting outfield composed of H. Taylor, Jackson and Hensley. The veteran B. Wilson will likely see service in the latter part of the contest.

Lubbock fans will be given their first opportunity to cast their peepers on Alex McColl, righthander, today. The former Dallas Steer will pitch to the Lubbock crew in batting practice before game time. There is a possibility that he will take his turn on the hillock in case Hannah fails to last or the Hubbers gain a decisive lead.

A record crowd is expected on July 4 when the Lamesa Loboes come here for a double-header with the Hubbers. On the Sunday following the holiday bargain bill, the Amarillo Texans will meet the locals on the home diamond. Then on July 14, the Quanah Chieftans, headed by Jim Bradford, will invade Merrill Park for a scrap with the Jackson club.

George Blackerby Forges To Front In Texas League

Waco's Slugging Outfielder Has Chance To Cop Batting Laurels For 2 Straight Years

DALLAS, June 29. (AP)—Unless he suffers a slump in the second half of the campaign, George Blackerby, Waco's slugging outfielder, promises to be the first player to lead the Texas league in batting for two consecutive seasons. A great spurt during the past week, including one game in which he hit six for six, enabled Blackerby to top the field with an average of .390.

In addition to his hefty average with the stick, Blackerby also is tied with his teammate, Sanguinet, for homerun honors, each with 18 through Thursday's contests.

The 10 leading batters:

Blackerby (Wa) .390; Langford (St.) .380; Bennett (WF) .378; Starr, (St) .376; Lapan (WF) .367; Hanson (Bt) .359; Benton (WF) .349; Hutson (St) .349; McClanahan (St) .349; Sullivan (WF) .347. Eight of the first 10 hitters are listed either with Shreveport or Wichita Falls.

Benton, Wichita Falls, leads in runs scored with 73, followed by Whelan, Shreveport, with 72. Randolph Moore, Dallas, ran his total hits to 113 to maintain his lead in that department. Larmon Cox, Fort Worth, leads in doubles, with 28. Eddie Moore, Fort Worth, has hit 13 triples. Stewart, Shreveport, ran his stolen base record to 18, one more than his teammate, Whelan.

Barnabe, Dallas, still has the best winning pitching average, with 11 wins and three losses, but the leader in games won is Lindsey, Houston, with 12. Messenger, San Antonio, has 63 strikeouts to 60 for Lindsey.

Four clubs are batting .300 or better, Wichita Falls leading with .308. The Spudders have scored the most runs and are tied with Fort Worth for the most hits.

Eino Purje, Finnish runner, was named Borg until the Finnish authorities changed all names of Swedish derivation.

Pinehurst, N. C., with six golf courses within a two-mile radius, claims to be the golf capital of the world.

Cures Players With Blues Song

CHICAGO, June 29. (AP)—Injuries are bread and butter to Bill Buckner, who has been wiping away White Sox tears for 20 years and more, but he thinks the modern experts are not so hardy a race.

So Bill figured on cutting down his work a little by pasting on the wall of the club house this bit of doggerel.

"In the early and uncultured days of baseball,
All the ath-a-letes were tough and hardy men;
They enjoyed a fistic riot
And subsisted on a diet
That they gathered from a lunch stand, now and then.

"They considered it a casual occurrence
When they put a knee or ankle on the bum;
But today a cry of anguish
Makes the nation weep and languish
When a rookie has a hangnail on his thumb."

Brooklyn Battering Ram Pushes Way To Top With Mark Of .382; Ott Leads In Three Departments

NEW YORK, June 29. (AP)—Babe Herman, the Brooklyn battering ram, pushed his way to the top of the standing in the National League batting race in the week ending last Wednesday, according to averages made public today. Herman owns a mark of .382 for 58 games, two points above Frank O'Doul, the Philadelphia outfielder, who showed the way for many weeks.

A good share of the laurel wreath rests with Melvin Ott of the Giants. The Louisiana boy leads in runs scored with 64, in home runs with 21 and in runs batted in with 77. Bill Terry of New York heads the list in total hits with 99, while Chick Hafey of St. Louis shows the way in doubles with 21. Lloyd Waner leads with 11 triples, while Kiki Cuyler of Chicago holds base stealing honors with 20.

Other leading regular batsmen, following the two top men, are: Terry, New York, .371; Roush, New York, .364; Frisch, St. Louis, .362; Stephenson, Chicago, .356; Hafey, St. Louis, .354; Traynor, Pittsburgh .349; Ott, New York, .348, and Cuyler, Chicago, .347.

Grimes Leads Pitchers

Burleigh Grimes, with eleven victories and one defeat for .917 still leads the pitchers in games won and lost. The big spit-baller's 129 innings of work also qualifies him for the top. Guy Bush of Chicago is second in winning, with seven and one for .875, and Johnny Morrison, the rejuvenated curve ball shark, is the nominal league leader with four victories and no defeats, but cannot yet be classed as a regular.

Three clubs are at or above .300 in team batting. Philadelphia leads with .310; New York is next with .303, and Pittsburgh is third with .300 even. The Cubs lead in fielding with .975, two points more than the Giants can show.

Five Report For 4-H Semi-Finals

No Elimination Held As Boys And Girls Are Carried To Finals In Poultry Judging Contests

Only five boys and girls reported at the office of County Agent D. F. Eaton Saturday morning for the semi-final tryouts in poultry judging to select a team to represent Lubbock county at College Station during the short course to be held there. At least ten had been expected and those who did not appear were automatically eliminated.

No eliminations were held and the five will be carried on until the third Saturday in July, the date being the 20th, when finals will be held and a team of three will be picked. This team is to be composed of at least one boy and one girl and the next highest in the judging whether a boy or a girl.

Five Named!

The five now being carried are Florence Hudson and Edwin Merrell, of Hardy, Bessie Moores, Carlisle; Audrey Pounds, Acuff; and Hovel Smalley of Shallowater.

The next workout is to be held next Saturday on the Myrick Poultry Farm at Shallowater, at 2 o'clock.

New Orleans Was Member Old League Few Months Of 1858 Campaign; 21 Cities In History

DALLAS, June 29. (AP)—The average baseball fan, if asked whether New Orleans ever had been a member of the Texas League, would answer in the negative and feel sure of his ground. But he would be wrong.

Since the league was organized in 1888 with Fred Turner of Austin as president, there have been at one time or another 21 clubs within its borders, and one of them was New Orleans. The Louisiana metropolis had an entry in the league for the last several months of the 1888 campaign, after several of the original starters had dropped out. The Crescent City finished fourth.

Fort Worth and Dallas Strong

Of the 21 cities that have supported a Texas league team, Dallas and Fort Worth are the only ones with unbroken tenures. Thirty-five campaigns have been run off, and both cities were in at the start, at least, of every one. The list of cities with tenure in years:

Fort Worth and Dallas 35, Houston 30, San Antonio 28, Galveston 25, Waco 25, Shreveport 18, Beaumont 16, Austin 14, Wichita Falls 9, Paris 5, Corsicana 4, Oklahoma City 3, Sherman 3, Temple 3, Denison 2, and Cleburne, Greenville, New Orleans, Ardmore and Texarkana one each.

If the old South Texas League, which flourished for four years between 1903 and 1906, and played the same class of ball as the Texas League, were brought in, two other cities would be listed. They are Lake Charles, La., and Brenham, Texas. San Antonio, Galveston and Houston each won pennants in the South Texas, the Buffs grabbing two.

Many Failures

Prior to the revival of the league in 1902 by Ted Sullivan, Doak Roberts, Joe Gardner et al, the Texas league finished but one complete season, that of 1896. The other seven attempts resulted in financial disaster or destructive squabbles. Since 1902 the league has failed to finish one schedule, that of 1918 when the famous "work or fight" order put baseball out of business.

Of the 21 cities that have made up the Texas league, ten never won a flag. The list includes Beaumont, Temple, Greenville, Paris, Texarkana, Sherman, Denison, Ardmore, Oklahoma City and New Orleans.

Fort Worth and Houston each is officially credited with eight pennants, Dallas six, Waco three, San Antonio, Shreveport and Wichita Falls one each. The highest Beaumont ever finished was third in 1914, 1919 and 1924.

CRUICKSHANK STAYS

Bobby Cruickshank, the professional golfer, and his wife, Helen, have declared their intention to become American citizens. Cruickshank, native of Scotland, is instructor at Purchase, N. Y.

WOMAN SUCCESSFUL COACH

Miss Ethel David is called the "Pop" Warner of girls' school coaches. Her teams at Haverford High, Philadelphia, have won championships in basketball, swimming, track and field.

Edd Roush spells his name that way, but Jimmy Foxx added the superfluous x when he reached the majors.

Land Where Women Are Bosses Found By Explorer

By HORTENSE SAUNDERS
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, June 29—After five years of adventure and hazard in Central Asia, Nichols Roerich, artist, scientist and philosopher, returns to the United States with 250 new canvasses, two completed books and an understanding of the amazing life and culture of perhaps the most mysterious and little known country in the world.

One of the greatest figures in contemporary art, Roerich already has 3000 paintings to his credit, and is represented in nearly all the famed museums of the world. Next fall, the new skyscraper museum, named for him, which now is being completed in New York City, will house his new Asiatic canvasses, as well as many of his older ones.

"An amazing, mysterious people, these Tibetans," he said. "They have been studying evolution for centuries. Before America was discovered they were building skyscrapers in Lhasa—the Potola is 17 stories high, and very similar in architectural construction to what now is going up in this country.

Found Hoover Deified

"What surprised me most was that in the remote mountain regions they know about President Hoover and have deified him. I found an old picture of him enshrined in a home, and the people worshipped it. They have confused his name with "Koovera," which is the name of their god of happiness."

In these scattered mountains, suspended like wasp nests on the sides of barren rocks, he found a people not unlike the American Indians in physical appearance, who never had seen an airplane or a tractor or a radio, but who knew all about them, were interested in electricity, and are searching for a new type of power not yet identified, which they believe is shortly to be discovered.

"The Tibetan does not travel," Professor Roerich went on, "but in some mysterious ways, the world comes to him. He says everything is written in his sacred books. He is surprised at nothing and he questions nothing. He seems to receive physically what the westerner must obtain through mental and physical struggle. How?"—the artist dismissed it with a gesture and a shrug of his shoulders. He, too, learned not to question, but to accept.

Oriental Traits Are His

There is an oriental calm and quietness about the artist which made him less conspicuously a stranger in the east than a typical go-getting American might be. Roerich is a Russian by birth and an American by adoption. Then, too, his son, who is an expert orientalist and speaks Tibetan and Chinese, accompanied him. The barrier of language once removed, it was easier to get into the life of the people themselves. Naturally, they dislike and distrust strangers, and make traveling as difficult for them as possible.

Even with the most favorable conditions, the trip was beset with dangers and great discomfort. For more than a year, no word was heard from the expedition, and it was feared it was lost. During this time, they were detained for six months in a summer tent in one of the loftiest and coldest plateaus of Northern Tibet at an altitude of 15,000 feet.

Of the original caravan of 100 camels, 90 were lost, and five of the 30 people in the party died from exposure.

"We never knew when we went to bed at night," he recalled, whether we could survive the intense cold or not. We had little food and doled it out with the strictest economy. The natives would give us nothing, but occasionally we were lucky enough to steal away at night and buy a sheep or some such animal.

"They refused to allow us to get into communication with the outside world. Finally we were allowed to go on, just as mysteriously as we had been stopped. We never knew why in either case."

Mrs. Roerich suffered such hardship at this time that she was not able to return, but remained in India.

Their route wound intricately in and out of about 35 mountain passes ranging from 14,000 to 21,000 feet in altitude. The party set out from Sikhim, in India, crossed over the Soja Pass to Little Tibet where it went over the great Karakorum passes into Chinese Turkestan, and from there through the Gobi desert into Tibet.

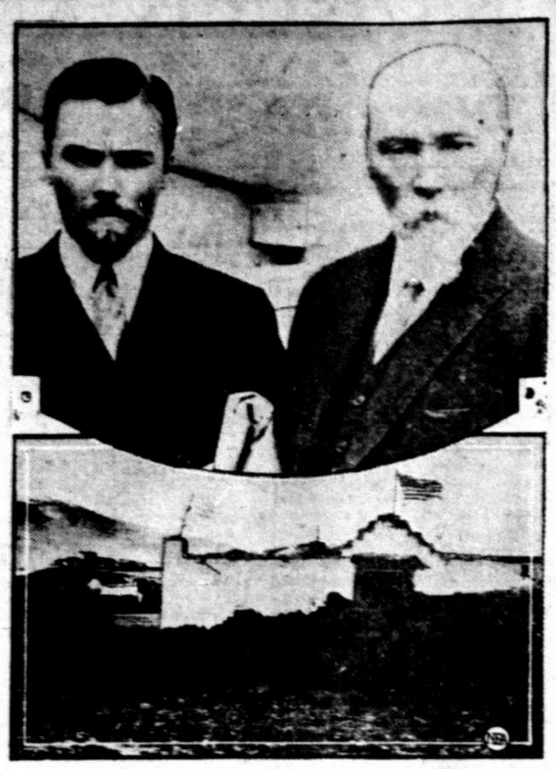

It was in this section that they found the women of Lhasa, who not only achieved political and social equality with men, but went one better and secured supremacy. There women have more than one husband, instead of the men collecting harems.

"Polyandry, however is like every other social custom—easily understood when you live in the country," the professor explained. "There is an over-population of men here, and most of them are traders camel drivers or men who are away from home for long periods. A woman may have half a dozen husbands, but have them all distributed on jobs in different parts of the country. In fact, there rarely is more than one around the house at a time. But it is the women who give the men their assignments and who completely control the country."

No Servant Problem

In all parts of the east, it surprised Roerich to find that people abandoned fertile farms to live in poverty in larger cities. In certain parts of Turkestan, for instance, many are so poverty-stricken that richer folks never hire servants—that would be foolish extravagance. For 25 or 30 roupees, about $12, one can buy a slave that will last for a lifetime, with fair treatment. Children sell for about $1.25.

Professor Roerich first came to this country in 1920, having achieved fame in Europe, to conduct an exhibition of his paintings. When he completed his tour it was decided to found the Roerich Museum and form a permanent home for his collection. It is the only one in the world to be named for a living artist.

ORDINANCE NO. 444

An Ordinance providing for rules and regulations controlling the distribution and sale of water to consumers by the City of Lubbock Water Works, and providing that for a violation of any of such rules and regulations that the water be cut-off; regulating the making of connections with the city lines, meters; rates to consumers outside of city; requiring deposit by consumer; fixing a due date for payment of water bills; fixing responsibility for leakage; prohibiting the turn-on or off of water from street stop-cocks without written permit from city; prohibiting consumers to supply other persons with water without permit; prohibiting extensions from one building to another; providing for inspection of premises; controlling service repairs and renewals; providing for safety valves for boilers; requiring apartment houses to provide separate connections and meters for each apartment; prescribing the kind of service pipes and making provision for relaying iron service pipes with lead under specified conditions; providing for temporary discontinuance of water or electric service without notice under specified conditions; reserving the right to make future rules and regulations; prohibiting tapping of street mains except by city employees; providing for the placing of service pipe to one foot inside surb line and for stop-cock and stop-box under exclusive control of city; providing for payment for tap and service and prohibiting plumber or other persons commencing work before tap and service is paid for according to schedule furnished; regulating the depth of service pipes and providing for stop and waste; prohibiting opening of fire hydrants, defacing equipment and plant; regulating hose attachments and stop-cock boxes and connections with elevated tanks; providing for check valves; requiring separate service pipes from sidewalk and separate stop-cocks and boxes; defining and prohibiting tampering; prohibiting diversion from water meters, pipes or mains; interference with meters and preventing of the passage of water through meters; providing what shall constitute prima facie evidence of knowledge and intention of defraud by diversion of water; and providing for a penalty for the violation of any of the provisions of this ordinance; providing this ordinance to be comulative with all ordinances not in conflict; and providing that all of the provisions of this ordinance shall be deemed to be incorporated in every contract between the City of Lubbock and each and every consumer, and that such consumer shall be charged with knowledge of the provisions of this ordinance:

WHEREAS it has become necessary and desirable to provide reasonable rules and regulations for the conduct of the business of the City of Lubbock Water Works owned and operated by the City of Lubbock in the sale and distribution of water from its plant, mains and system to consumers in the City of Lubbock and vicinity; and Whereas, the succeeding provisions of this ordinance, after investigation by the City Commission of the City of Lubbock, have been found to be reasonable rules and regulations for the conduct of such business; Now, Therefore,

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COMMISSION OF THE CITY OF LUBBOCK

SECTION I

All property owned and controlled by the City of Lubbock, including its plant, water supply, mains and system and the organization used by said city in furnishing an adequate supply of water to the inhabitants of said city and vicinity, shall hereafter constitute and be known as the City Water Works.

SECTION II

Meters

All water furnished by the City Water Works to its consumers shall be measured by meters. The size, type and right to own and control all meters installed or used by consumers of its water shall be determined by said City Water Works, which shall keep all meters owned by it in repair without expense to consumers. When it is impractical to meter water for special occasions, water may be sold and charged for at estimated consumption upon a written permit issued under the same conditions as prescribed in the following paragraph.

All water furnished to the various departments of the City of Lubbock shall be measured by meter and paid for on the same basis as any other consumer except that where it is impossible to meter the consumption, as in the case of fire hydrants, a flat rate may be designated by the Commission, and payment based upon such rate shall be made in the usual way. Under no conditions shall fire hydrants be used for furnishing water except for Fire Department or Sewer Department, provided, however that the Water Superintendent by and with the consent and approval of the City Manager, may grant a special permit in writing to contractors or others engaged in street improvement or other construction work under such regulations as may be prescribed by the City Manager to use water from not more than one opening on Fire Hydrants.

SECTION III

Private Meters Repaired

All meters 1 1-4 inch and larger to be furnished by water user, the owner thereof shall have his meter repaired when notified by the City Water Works to do so and, in the event of his failure or refusal to repair same, the City Water Works shall repair the same and charge the cost of same to said consumer and shall add it to his water bill and the same rules applying to amounts due on water furnished shall apply to these repair bills.

SECTION IV

Average Charge

Should any meter fail to register correctly the amount of water used by a consumer since the previous reading, the right shall exist on the part of the City Water Works to average the month and charge for water on the basis of any three months' average.

SECTION V

Water Bills

Meters shall be read monthly and the consumer notified in writing, or otherwise, and proof of this notice may be made by showing of a statement sent to the last known address of said consumer, of the amount due from him to said City Water Works, stating in said notice that water bills shall become due and payable at the City Hall on the date the bill is rendered. Said bill shall carry a discount of 10 percent for a period of ten days from its due date, after which date the gross bill must be paid. If, within fiftsen days after the date of the bill, the amount due is not paid, it will be sufficient notice from the consumer to discontinue service, and service shall be discontinued and not re-established until the full amount due has been paid, plus $1.00 additional for turning water back on. If it is deemed necessary by the City Water Works to remove consumers meter in order to stop the use of water until past due amounts are paid, then in this event the City Water Works shall make an additional charge of $2.00 for removing and resetting meter.

Where water is cut off from any consumer or from any premises on account of non-payment for water service furnished, the City Water Works shall not permit water to be again furnished to the said premises, or to the said consumer at any other premises, until the full amount delinquent shall have been paid.

SECTION VI

Rate Outside of City

The City Water Works shall be authorized to furnish water at or inside the City limits to consumers outside the City limits upon such terms, conditions and rates as may from time to time be prescribed by the City Commission by resolution, except that in no even shall such rates be lower than the schedule of rates charged consumers within the City limits.

Nothing in this section of this ordinance or any other ordinance shall be construed to compel the City Water Works to furnish consumers beyond the corporate limits or to continue such supply once begun; and the City Water Works reserves the right to furnish such customers it deems advisable and at any time wholly or partially to discontinue the supply upon violation of any of the terms of this ordinance had such consumer resided in the city.

SECTION VII

Before any consumer may have water service from the City Water Works he must deposit with the City Water Works a reasonable amount as in the opinion of the City Water Works may be necessary, except that no deposit shall be for an amount less than $5.00. Said deposit shall bear interest at the rate of 6 percent per annum, and shall be refunded to the depositor when he shall have discontinued the use of city water and electric service and shall have paid all bills and accounts due the City Water Works for any account whatever connected with the water service and for electric service and shall return receipt. If the receipt is lost, he must give security to the City Water Works or furnish the City Water Works satisfactory evidence of his right to receive the deposit. This deposit is required and made in the nature of a guarantee for the payment of water service accounts and or electric service accounts, and damages to service connections or meters caused through the neglect, abuses, or failure to properly care for the same by the consumer or his agents, and the said deposit or any part thereof may be applied by the City Water Works to the payment of any such account when it becomes past due. This deposit shall not be made nor accepted in the nature of a prepayment, but only as a guarantee. Failure to pay the water bill and or electric bill when due by the consumer is considered notice from consumer to discontinue service and apply so much of the deposit as is necessary for the payment of the then past due account. In case any deposit or any part thereof shall have been applied in payment of past due accounts, no service may be re-established until the deposit shall have been brought back up to the full amount required

SECTION VIII

Responsibility for Leakage of Property Owner's Pipe

All property owners, their agents and tenants shall be held responsible as consumers for loss of water due to leakage in pipe or plumbing inside the discharge side of the meter or on said property, and if this water is not paid for according to the rates provided herein, when it becomes due, the water shall be cut-off by the City Water Works, and not turned on again until all claims are paid or adjusted to the satisfaction of the City Water Works. In the event of any change in tenant or consumers in rented property and there exists, at the time, arrearages for past leakage, the landlord and property owner shall be held dto account for payment for this leakage before service will be extended and water furnished to the second tenant.

SECTION IX

Turning on Water

No plumber or any other person shall turn on or off water from the street stop-cock without a written permit first obtained from the City Water Works, except only in case of repairs.

SECTION X

Service Rules

No consumer shall supply water to other persons or to other families or suffer them to take it, except for use on the premises, without the permission of the City Water Works.

SECTION XI

After water is introduced into a building or upon any premises, the same shall not be extended by any plumber or any other person to any other premises for additional fixtures.

SECTION XII

Two Houses Not to Be Connected

Two houses shall not be permitted to be supplied with one service pipe where there is a water main in front of the premises or on either side thereof, but shall have separate service pipes. Two or more houses fronting on a street or streets, where there is no water main, may be supplied with one service connected with the main, said service being of sufficient size to insure ample supply, but in such cases each of said houses shall have a separate service pipe, stop-cock and meter.

SECTION XIII

Inspection by Superintendent

Every person taking water from the City Water Works shall at all reasonable times permit the superintendent or his agents to enter the premises and building for examination of pipes and fixtures and the manner in which the water is used and refusal by any consumer shall result in refusal of water suply from the City Water Works until such permission be granted.

SECTION XIV

Service Repairs and Renewals

The City Water Works reserves the right to make all repairs and renewals of service pipes from main to curb and it shall be unlawful for any other person or persons to repair or renew service pipes from main to curb.

SECTION XV

Check Valves

All boilers for heating water shall be provided with safety valves and a check valve shall be placed on service pipes to protect the meter from hot water. Any consumer failing to comply with this provision shall have his water supply cut off and not turned on again until such valve has been installed. All steam boilers connecting direct with city supply are required to provide a tank or tanks for at least twelve hours storage. Churches, opera houses, theatres, schools and factories may be supplied through one connection with the street main.

SECTION XVI

Connection Each Department

All buildings used as flats or apartment houses shall be required to provide a separate connection with the main and meter for each apartment and upon non-compliance with this provision, the City Water Works shall cut off the supply for the entire building or any portion thereof deemed proper, it is provided further, however, that any buildings used as flats or apartments which contain more than four separate flats or apartments may upon request of the owner be served through one meter, such water to be paid for by the owner in accordance with rates in effect.

SECTION XVII

Testing Meters

Should any consumer feel that his meter is registering improperly, he shall make request in writing to the City Water Works to have his meter tested. The same shall be tested as quickly as possible and if there is as much as a 2 percent error in the registering of a meter 1 inch or less, or an error of 3 percent in a meter larger than 1 inch, there shall be no charge for testing, but in case there is not such an error, then the consumer shall pay $1.00 for the said test.

SECTION XVIII

Relaying Service Pipes

All service pipes hereafter laid shall be of extra heavy lead pipe, unless the use of service pipes of brass or other material shall be authorized by the Water Works superintendent.

All iron service pipes, upon becoming defective and impracticable to repair or in the event that the street in which the same is located shall be paved, shall be relaid with extra strong lead pipe prior to the paving of the street; and any owner or agent or consumer of said service failing or refusing to re-lay said services, when notified to do so by said City Water Works, prior to such paving are given notice that no water supply will be furnished in the future to such premises until the service is re-laid with extra strong lead pipe at the expense of such owner or consumer desiring the same and that the cost of such renewal after the street is paved practically doubles cost before paving, according to schedule of rates for said work on file at the office of the City Water Works.

SECTION XIX

Repairing Mains

The right is reserved by the City Water Works to temporarily discontinue and to re-connect without notice water supply to all consumers for the purpose of making repairs, connections, extensions and cleaning of mains, machinery, reservoir or any part of said City Water Works.

SECTION XX

Taps

It shall be unlawful for any plumber or person, other than the tapper employed by the City Water Works, to tap any street main, make connections with the street mains or to extend service pipes from mains to one foot inside the curb line, and to place a stop-cock and stop box at that point, and all of this equipment shall be under the exclusive control of the City Water Works, and said tap and service shall be paid for by the plumber ordering the work done before work is commenced, according to schedule of prices on file in the City Water Works' office, copies of which shall be furnished to all licensed plumbers upon application upon revision.

SECTION XXI

All service pipes shall be laid eighteen inches under the ground and provided with stop and waste inside the property line, such as to properly drain all pipes above ground.

SECTION XXII

Fire Hydrants

It shall be unlawful for any person, except a member of the Fire Department or employee of the City, to open or use water from a fire hydrant, or to take off the cap except as hereinbefore provided.

SECTION XXIII

Deface Property

It shall be unlawful for any person in any manner to deface the houses, walls, machinery or fixtures conected with or pertaining to the City Water Works and its system.

SECTION XXIV

Hose Connections

All hose attachments when located on the sidewalk as well as stop-cock boxes, must have suitable iron cover with top flush with surface of sidewalk.

SECTION XXV

Tanks

All elevated tanks located on roofs of buildings for water distribution below may be constructed with one connection direct between the mains and said tank, but no other connection shall be made on said line to the tank, and a check valve shall be placed on said service to the tank as near the entrance of the building as possible. In case an additional supply is desired, a separate connection shall be made with the main as provided for stores and office buildings, but in no case shall a connection larger than two inches be made with the city mains.

SECTION XXVI

It shall be unlawful for any person to individually or in association with others wilfully break, injure, or tamper with any part of the water works system of the City for any purpose whatsoever, or in any other manner maliciously to interfere with or prevent the running and operation of such system and the water supply therein.

SECTION XXVII

Whoever intentionally by any means or device prevents water from passing through any meter belonging to the City Water Works or used in connection with the supply of water to any consumer by said City Water Works to register the amount of water passing through meters, or intentionally prevents a meter from fully registering the quantity of water supplied, or in any way, interferes with its proper action or just registration, or without the consent in writing of the superintendent of said City Water Works intentionally diverts any water from any pipe or pipes of the City Water Works, or otherwise intentionally uses, or causes to be used, without the consent of the City Water Works any water produced or distributed by said City Water Works, or any person who retains possession of or refuses to deliver any meter or other appliance loaned to him by the City Water Works for the purpose of furnishing water through same, with intent to defraud said City Water Works shall for every such offense be fined as hereinafter provided. The presence at any time on or about any such meter or pipe of any device or pipes resulting in the diversion of water or preventing of its free passage and registration by the meter or diverting from the meter as above defined or resulting in the prevention in water reaching the meter, or preventing the just registration of the meter or meters or the taking of any water except through a meter as above set forth shall constitute prima facie evidence of knowledge on the part of the person owning or having custody and control of the room, building, place or premises where such device or pipe is of the existence thereof and knowledge of such existsnce to the person who would be benefitted by the failure of the water to be properly metered, and shall further constitute prima facie evidence of intention on the part of such person or persons to defraud and shall bring such person prima facie within the scope, meaning and penalties of this article and ordinance.

SECTION XXVIII

Penalty

A violation of any of the above rules and regulations of the City Water Works as set out in the preceding sections or a doing or causing to be done by any persons or persons, firm or association of any of the things or acts forbidden or made unlawful in any of the preceding sections shall be deemed to constitute a violation under the terms of this ordinance and an offense and punishable as such and for each and every violation of the terms of this ordinance the person, firm, association or corporation shall, upon conviction thereof in the Corporation Court, be fined not less than Twenty-five Dollars ($25.00) nor more than One Hundred Dollars ($100.00.)

SECTION XXIX

Any person, firm or corporation who shall violate the terms of Section XXVII of this ordinance shall be punishable by fine, upon conviction, as provided in the preceding section, and each day such violation continues shall be deemed to constitute a separate offense and punishable as such.

SECTION XXX

If any section or part of a section of this ordinance shall be declared invalid it shall not effect the validity of any other section or portion of this ordinance, but the same shall remain in full force and effect.

SECTION XXXI

This ordinance shall repeal every prior ordinance in conflict herewith, but only insofar as the portions of such prior ordinances shall conflict and as to all other sections of ordinance and ordinances not in direct conflict herewith, this ordinance shall be and is hereby made cumulative.

SECTION XXXII

All of the provisions of this ordinance shall be deemed to be incorporated in every contract between the City Water Works and its consumers and each consumer shall be charged with knowledge of the provisions of this ordinance and, by applying and accepting water from the City Water Works, to have assented to the provisions hereof.

Prison Walls Surround Aged Man

Convict Who Escaped From Oklahoma Nineteen Years Ago Again Will Be Sent To Prison

HOUSTON, June 29. (AP)—Prison walls arose again today before Arthur J. Sparks, 52, who escaped from the Oklahoma state penitentiary at McAlester 19 years ago.

Sparks was in the custody of C. H. Hulsey, transfer agent of the Oklahoma state penitentiary, who was armed with an extradition warrant and planned to return with him to that state today.

Sparks had followed the carpentry trade here for the past six years. He was arrested several weeks ago, but was freed when the transfer papers were found faulty.

"I'm going to take him back so quick he won't have time to file any kind of a motion," Hulsey said today.

Sparks was sent up from Mangum and was serving three years on a grand larceny charge when he escaped.

She Discovered He Was Married

Woman Palm Reader And Husband With "Wonderful Business Opportunity" Work Together

BROWNWOOD, June 29. (AP)—Ben Pittman faced 10 years in the penitentiary today because a Brownwood woman discovered he was a married man.

Not that the plaintiff cared that he was married, but she did object to the fact that his wife was her fortune teller. The combination, she declared, cost her a cool $900.

Several months ago the plaintiff, who takes in washing, had her palm read. She was told that a man would come into her life who had a wonderful business proposition. It would make her a fortune, declared the palmist.

Sure enough, it wasn't three days until the man, just as described, appeared at the woman's door with a bundle of linen to be washed. He admitted he had a great business proposition, but needed capital. He left with $150 in his bill fold. He returned for more, from time to time, until the total reached $900.

Then the victim smelled a rat. In fact, she smelled an entire rattery. Word reached her that the nice young man was married whereas he had represented himself as single. A little investigation revealed that his wife was none other than the palm reader.

A jury last night decided Pittman was guilty of swindling.

Twenty-five Students High In Grades At Tech; More Than 150 On Honor Roll

Twenty-five students of Texas Technological college distinguished themselves scholastically in the spring term, according to the honor roll given out by Registrar E. L. Dohoney yesterday. More than 150 students were on the honor roll.

Four of the students, Donald R. Boggs, and Verna Johnson, Lubbock; Hal B. Lary, Clovis, N. M.; and Robert Spivey, Jacksboro, made all "A" grades in eighteen hours of work.

Twenty-one other students who made an "A" average are:

Lester Bearden, Lamesa; Frank Beauchamp, Turkey; Lawrence Bussey, Lubbock; Wayne Castleberry, Eastland; Canon Clements, Lubbock; Lizzie Bell Clements, Lubbock; Lloyd Croslin, Lubbock; G. Wilson Drake, Kress; Lois Gable, Lubbock; Maurice T. Glenn, Stamford; Ralph C. Glover, Raymondville; H. C. Hervey, Chatfield; Pauline Holland, Lubbock; Sarah Michie, Lubbock; Wm. H. Nelle, Laredo; Elvis Pickett, Dalhart; Ora Mae Robbins, Floydada; Lilah Gaye Rodgers, Lubbock; Elizabeth Rodgers, Lubbock; Jerome P. Sanders, Haskell, and Anne Snyder, Lubbock.

There are now 563 millionaires in Great Britain and Northern Ireland; in 1925 there were 597.

Littlefield Man Dies of Injuries

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

LITTLEFIELD, June 29.—Phillip Stockgenger, pioneer citizen of this community, died here Friday of injuries received when a car in which he was riding collided with another machine at a street crossing here Thursday.

Herman Timian, Mr. Stockgenger's son-in-law who was driving the car, and three other occupants were uninjured. Occupants of the other car escaped hurts also.

The collision was blamed to the inability of the drivers to see each other for a building at the corner of the crossing.

WASHINGTON, June 29. (AP)—A report from Commander Richard E. Byrd, made public today by Secretary Adams, related that observers in the airplanes of his South Pole expedition had discovered approximately 20,000 square miles of hitherto unknown land in the Ant-Arctic.

Trial Of Alleged Poison Slayer Is Underway

Nix Denies Guilt In Death Of Wife From Strychnine

Husband Is Arrested After Poison Sandwich Is Found In Stomach Of Dog; Wife Dies In Convulsions

(By Associated Press)

BOSTON, Texas, June 29. (AP)—Gladys Varner, Bowie county man, first witness on the stand in the trial of Ocie Nix, 22, for the alleged fatal poisoning of his wife, Vinitia, 17, ten days ago, testified today that Nix asked him several days before Mrs. Nix death how much strychnine and how long it would take to kill.

Varner told of finding the Nix family dog dead a few hours after Mrs. Nix died, Varner said he cut the animal open and found part of a hamburger sandwich in it which Mrs. Nix told him Nix had given her the Saturday night before.

Mrs. Varner corroborated her husband's testimony.

Death Described

Other witnesses described the death of Mrs. Nix. They declared Nix was in a field, and that they were attracted to the Nix house by Mrs. Nix' screams. Her husband entered and tried to comfort his dying wife, but she screamed "get away! don't touch me!"

The state's testimony was not expected to be concluded before Monday.

When Nix was arraigned today, he denied guilt.

R. G. Walters, district attorney, testified and produced a confession the defendant was alleged to have signed in the Bowie county jail.

Paper Produced

The paper, to which the defense objected, said Nix filled a capsule with poison and "put it on the table where I knew she would get it."

This was the morning of June 18. An hour later, Mrs. Nix died in convulsions. The paper said Nix "did not know exactly" whether she took the poison.

The paper also said Nix attempted to poison his wife with a drugged hamburger sandwich several days before her death but that she noted it tasted bitter and did not eat enough to harm her.

Family Trouble Blamed

Family trouble, in which Nix' mother-in-law was accused of disturbing the peace of his household, was given in the paper as the basis of the trouble. It also said Nix at first considered killing himself.

Rheu Harrell, whose father owned the farm on which Nix was a tenant, said Nix told him of taking out $1,400 life insurance for himself and his wife five weeks ago.

LAREDO, June 29. (AP)—An alibi was advanced by Thomas Hernandez, former Laredo police officer, when he took the stand today to deny the charge that he and Raymond West, another peace officer, choked Harry Williams, newspaper reporter, to death last January and threw his body in the Rio Grande.

According to Hernandez, he and West were attending a party at a farm near Laredo at the time Williams was believed to have been killed in a hallway of the Commercial hotel. He declared he saw Williams at the hotel shortly after midnight, but did not learn of his disappearance until he returned to the city the next morning. Hernandez said there was drinking at the farm party and admitted he shot at the lights.

Anger Is Theory

The state is attempting to prove that the two officers, angered because the reporter would not accompany them on the party, choked him to death and carried his body to the river, from whence it was recovered exactly a month later.

After the defense had rested in its attempt to prove that the defendants remained at the party in the country until about 5 in the morning the state presented rebuttal witnesses. The first, Russell Love, member of the family owning the farm where the party was held, testified that the two officers left the farm shortly before 1 a. m.

The second state rebuttal witness testified that in a conversation with West about two weeks after the reporter had disappeared West had told him that he had seen Williams leave the hotel about 12:30 on the morning of the slaying. Defense witnesses had testified West was at the farm at that time.

Capper Condemns Congress Tariff Measure

TOPEKA, Kas., June 29. (AP)—Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas in a radio address here tonight said "The joke will be on the farmers" if congress enacts the house tariff bill.

"The house tariff bill is vicious, uneconomic; a travesty on the announced purpose for which it was drawn," said the senior Kansas senator, who returned today from Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Weaver were not in the city at the time of the accident but were notified immediately at Oklahoma City. They were expected to arrive here early this morning, word having been received from them at Paducah.

Witnesses Vary On Story

There were said to be several eye witnesses to the crash, some of them stated that both cars were going at a rather fast pace while others were of the opinion that a medium speed was held when the two struck.

ter nearly 150 hours of continuous flying.

Three struts were sheared off in some unexplained manner, mechanics explained, after they had inspected the ship. This, they said, allowed compression to accumulate in the cylinder, forcing gasoline back into the carburetor and gradually "smothering" the motor.

A farmer's pasture, at Langdon, Minn., was the landing field of the tiny monoplane which for six days and nights had battled to stay aloft more than 172 hours, 2 minutes and one second, the endurance record.

necessary to suspend the rule and pass the bill. The vote to engross the bill on second reading was favorably, 19 to 8.

The sheriff and constable finally were ordered to serve the warrants, use of rangers being considered in case the senators were not brought in.

Senator Walter Woodward of Coleman took the floor shortly before midnight and charged large oil interests with being behind the opposition to the bill. He declared there had been constant lobbying against it, and that the walkout was one of the results.

Senator A. J. Wirtz of Seguin was talking while the senators eased out, one by one. After Wirtz finished speaking, he, too, left the chamber.

Senators sought on warrants besides Wirtz, included:

W. H. Cousins, Beaumont; J. T. Holbrook, Galveston; Eugene Miller, Weatherford; Archie Parr, Benavides; Gus Russer, Schulenburg; J. W. Stevenson, Victoria; Edgar Witt, Waco; and Walter Woodul, Houston.

Sheriffs Notified.

The secretary of the senate telephone to sheriffs of Harris, Jefferson and Galveston counties to keep a lookout for the men and return any of them to the senate chamber immediately if found.

Plans also were considered to send an airplane to Fort Worth to get Senator Julian Hyer, a friend of the bill. Hyer went home this afternoon before it was evident the opposition would resort to extreme measures to defeat the measure.

All missing legislators were opponents of the bill, none of its friends leaving.

It was pointed out that should they not be found, the measure possibly might die as the present special session ends Monday.

Mrs. Willebrandt Is Out Of Office

WASHINGTON, June 29. (AP)—Mrs. Mable Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general, much in the public eye for two years because of her aggressive prosecution of prohibition law violators and her militant political activities in the last presidential campaign, went quietly out of office today to engage in private law practice.

But before leaving Mrs. Willebrandt made known her intention to issue a statement "to all the newspapers within a short time" and revived gossip as to the cause of her sudden withdrawal from the department of justice at a time when she was expected to assume the direction of prohibition enforcement as well as prohibition prosecution.

They made for Fayal, Major Franco explained. "But owing to a strong head wind we ran out of gasoline about 40 miles from that point.

"A strong northeasterly wind drifted us to the south and on the following day, the 23rd, we were about 100 miles from Fayal," he related.

"The wind shifted to the southwest and drifted us toward the island of Santa Maria. From the 24th to the 27th winds of varying force and direction drifted us about. On the morning of the 27th the situation was extremely dangerous."

With Franco were Major Eduardo Gonzales Gallarza, pilot, Captain Julio Ruiz de Alba, navigator, and Sergeant Pedro Madariag, mechanic.

Patronage Probe

and apparently placed credence in it, Creager said.

Bridge Is Discussed

Then he discussed an international bridge he had built, connecting Brownsville and Matamoros, saying that many "personal matters" had been gone into by the committee and many "false statements" put into the record.

Creager charged that C. G. Malott, who had testified he attempted to obtain a concession for the bridge, and that the franchise was awarded to Creager, had as his only purpose "to hold me up just as any ordinary blackmailer."

The national committeeman explained the transactions in detail.

Clashes between Senator Brookhart and Creager were frequent and bitter. Once when Creager was discussing the $100,000 fund now being raised by Texas republicans, Senator McKellar stopped a rapid exchange between the two with: "Let me be the oil on the troubled waters."

Ask For Courtesy

"Let the Senator (Brookhart) treat me with courtesy and I will give him the utmost courtesy," Creager promised.

"We will have plenty of courtesy out of you," said Brookhart.

"Yes, here in the courtroom," Creager responded.

Creager testified that "cowardly insinuations" had been made "by persons of no credibility that we have been assessing federal office holders contributions to our state fund."

He said he could use only two "short and ugly words, lie and liar" for persons who testified to that effect.

"If I knew of a man who was using his donations to get an office he'd be the last man under Heaven I'd recommend."

Later, Creager remarked: "I would say any man who assailed my reputation and character is lying."

"Whether it's the truth or not?" Brookhart asked.

Differences Related

Creager also testified as to his differences with Harry Wurzbach republican candidate for congress defeated for re-election in the last election by Augustus McCloskey, democrat. He claimed credit for developing Wurzbach, saying he contributed $200 of his own money to Wurzbach's first campaign for congress.

"Then he's a product of your dictorial organization?" Brookhart asked.

"You seem to be proud of that product," Creager replied.

When Brookhart made another reference to the "dictatorial organization" Creager remarked:

"We can have one in Texas if we want to and it is none of your business."

Creager said that when a federal judge in El Paso died he wrote to Wurzbach asking whether Wurzbach had a recommendation to make. Wurzbach wrote him a letter saying he did not wish to make a recommendation, Creager declared, but later he found Wurzbach had recommended John D. Hartman.

Wurzbach Interrupts

Wurzbach interrupted: "You don't have that letter you say I wrote saying I wouldn't recommend an appointment."

"If I haven't you or someone of your assistants removed it from my files," Creager answered.

When Creager left the stand, members of a grand jury which considered evidence of an alleged conspiracy between Tarry Hamilton, former group prohibition head here, and a bootlegger for the sale of confiscated stills and bottles were called. One, Burt Calvin, said he was of the opinion that the case against Hamilton was an attempt by B. C. Baldwin, then Texas ranger captain, to "frame" Hamilton.

Calvin said Hamilton was not indicted because most of the evidence against him was based on an affidavit made by Albert Norton, later convited of bootlegging, and the grand jury did not consider that affidavit.

in the celebrating of the first birthday. This will be the second pilgrimage made to the newly discovered oil field. About a year ago, right after oil was discovered almost within the city limits of what is now New Hobbs, a large delegation from Lubbock made a trip there to investigate the country and to become better acquainted with the new field.

Santa Fe Seeks Permit

With the Santa Fe railway fighting for a permit to build on out to Lovington and Hobbs, that section offers a good trade territory. For this reason officials of the Lubbock chamber of commerce are especially anxious that a good representation from this city will make the trip Friday. Due to the fact that the trip is to be made on a day following a holiday, members of the committee expect difficulty in obtaining a representative group. However, the committee expects to have from forty to fifty cars loaded with citizens who realize the importance of the trade jaunt to the city of Lubbock.

The party plans to leave Lubbock at 6:30 o'clock Friday morning.

CAREER ABBREVIATED

Jewel Bandit Backs Into Arms Of Policeman

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 29. (AP)—Robert Bristol's career as a jewel bandit was an abbreviated affair, terminating in a local signed confession less than half an hour after he had backed out of a local jewelry store into the arms of a policeman.

Bristol, 16, who said he escaped several months ago from the State Industrial school of California, entered the Terrance Jewelry companys store here tonight and took jewelry worth $2,870.

Tom Guest, policeman, [illegible] youth backing from the store and slipping up behind him pinioned the youths arms to his sides.

Testify Divorcee No Home Interest

CHICAGO, June 29. (AP)—Seeking to show that Ann Livingston, Tulsa, Okla., divorcee, had little interest in love and motherhood, as she claimed, attorneys for Franklin S. Hardinge, wealthy 62 year old manufacturer, today read to the jury a pre-nuptial contract offering Ann $100,000, which she spurned. The 29 year old ex-secretay is suing Hardinge for $250,000 for breach of promise.

Hardinge also testfied that Ann acted cooly toward his one year old grandson, despite the fact she had written him often about her desire to be a loving wife and mother.

He denied much of the ardent love making that Ann had attributed to him while she was on the stand and recounted one by one the various gifts and articles of clothing he bought for her. The defense tried to show that Ann hinted broadly for everything he gave her.

munication lines blown down by the gale, which approached a velocity of 90 miles an hour in the vicinity of Port Lavaca. It was believed they would have reported any further loss of life or serious damage.

The plight of the crew of four on an oil barge between Matagorda and Freeport was reported by the tug Titan, which said it was force to drop the barge when the storm struck yesterday. The tug last was reported riding the swells in 10 fathoms of water. A coast guard crew was dispatched to rescue the crew.

A dredge, with 15 aboard, was working in the open bay near Port O'Connor when the gale struck. Officials expressed the belief the dredge was capable of riding out the storm.

Six Counties Swept

Five or six counties were swept by the severe rain and wind storm. Trees were uprooted and hundreds of barns and outhouses unroofed or blown over. In numerous instances automobiles on the highway were blown into the ditch by the tempest.

Adivces from Victoria estimated crop and property damage in Victoria and Calhoun counties alone at over a million dollars. The wind reached a velocity of 70 miles at Victoria, accompanied by three inches of rain. Cotton was stripped and corn levelled.

HOUSTON, June 29. (AP)—One ship was aground on Matagorda Island, one barge was aground, one dredge was ashore near Magnolia beach and a check tonight showed a total of five deaths caused by the tropical hurricane that lashed the gulf coast from Galveston to Point Isabel late Friday.

Wind was sufficient late today to keep high seas running on the coast near Matagordia bay and miles of flats beyond the normal high tide line were inundated by the water forced into the bays by the steady pressure from the gulf.

The barge, Petroleum No. 2, dropped in the gulf by the tug Titan late Friday when the storm struck, was aground near Matagorda. The tug Galves-Trojan had been sent from Galveston to pull the barge off the beach and tow it into port.

The Gulf Coat's Company's dredge No. 1, was high and dry on the beach at Magnolia beach where heavy breakers swept the vessel after it had dragged its anchors in the Port O'Connor—Port Lavaca channel, five miles away. The crew of the dredge were taken off by rescue parties just before it broke from its anchorage and swept onto the beach.

The story of a narrow escape by a party of 18 women and children, due largely to the presence of mind of an 18 year old lad, was carried to seadrift today when a rescue boat took the party from Matagorda Island after it had spent the night wandering among the high sand dunes to escape the fierce hurricane and accompanying high tides.

AIRPORT SITE BOUGHT

T. A. T. Purchases Estate Near Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, June 29. (AP)—Purchase from the W. A. McLennan estate of a 380-acre tract six and one-half miles north of the heart of Fort Worth for an airport was announced today by Tom Hardin, vice-president and general manager of Southern Air Transport, Inc., of which Texas Air Transport, Inc., is a subsidiary.

The field was purchased in the name of the T. A. T. Flying Service, Inc., another subsidiary, which operates the various passenger lines, for $93,000.

All flying activities of Southern Air Transport, Inc., at Fort Worth, including the T. A. T. Flying School, Inc., as well as the passenger and express activities and the shops of Southern Aeromotive Service, Inc., another subsidiary, will be concentrated. Thus the field will be the center of air transportation in Texas.

Buildings and two large hangars will be erected at a total cost of $200,000.

GIVE BACK MONEY

'Confidence Men' Released Following Arrests

DALLAS, June 29. (AP)—Six lucky investment specialists, "confidence men" the police called them, were at liberty here tonight engaged in the strange occupation of giving back money to those from whom they obtained it.

Having in their possession several thousand dollars worth of good securities, the man opened an office and solicited trade by telephone with business men. Police estimated their probable total sales at $25,000.

Their arrests came after a detective reported irregular stock and bond schemes.

Lady Godiva Parades

COVENTRY, Eng., June 29.—(AP)—An estimated 300,000 persons lined the main thoroughfare of this old city today as a beautiful golden haired girl rode on a white charger through the heart of the town attired only in flesh-colored tights. It was a holiday pageant and procession of Lady Godiva enacted for the benefit of the Coventry hospital.

Miss Muriel Mellerup was the modern Lady Godiva.

Complain Of Tariff

CENTRALIA, Ill., June 29.—(AP)—U. S. Biplane No. 2 of Fort Bliss, Texas, en route to Belleville, Ill., from Rantoul, Ill., crashed tonight in an attempted takeoff near Irvington. The landing gear caught on a barbed wire fence.

An officer and the pilot, whose names were not learned, were bruised. They landed to get directions. The plane was damaged.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

MME. RUBINSTEIN

The first item of summer complexion care is the matter of sunproof protectives. You must prevent or counteract sunburn and tan if you wish to reach the fall and all subsequent seasons with a lovely, youthful skin. Or if you insist upon tanning, you must learn to tan discreetly and to give your skin special care.

Just now you may want to look sunkissed and brown—but remember that leathery old ladies are what sunkissed maidens become—and take care. If you must be brown, and just now you must be to be in style, you may, if you wish, wear a synthetic tan make-up, or a very dark sunproof powder that will create the effect of a natural tan, and at the same time protect your own fair, delicate skin. I have talked at some length in a former series of articles about the beauty of a snythetically tanned complexion, and I shall speak briefly of it again. Just now I want to speak more emphatically of some health and beauty precautions which you may take to safeguard your complexion.

First of all, plan to include in your summer beauty program a generous supply of one or more protective preparations. The regular use of a good sun and windproof cream or a sunproof lotion, before your make-up, will enable you to spend long, lazy hours on court or green, or even at the seashore, without one single bad effect from exposure.

If you know your own limitations in the matter of taking this kind of beauty care, at least tuck into your week-end bag a tube of sunburn cream. A good sunburn cream will draw out the sting of a painful burn and do much toward alleviating its permanently harmful effects to the skin. But an ounce of prevention will be worth infinitely more than a pound of this type of cure, and I strongly urge you now to consider it.

Another important item of your summer beauty kit is a good cleansing cream. And I suggest that you use at this season a pasteurized face cream. This type of cleanser is excellent because of its all-around beauty purposes. It not only cleanses the skin perfectly, but acts as a mild stimulant and bracing cream, and it will neutralize the effects of frequent washings with hard water such as one so often finds at shore and mountain resorts.

Try to remember in the summer, first, to cleanse your skin. Second to stimulate it. And third, to protect it from the drying effects of sun and wind by the use of a protective foundation.

If it's at all possible, plan to include occasional beauty treatments in your vacation program, so that this period of rest and pleasure will not be also a period of neglect in the important matter of your beauty care. The summer season should be a time for reclaiming your beauty, since nature is so kind to your health at this time of year.

And for your last precaution, use a good anti-wrinkle cream. You might almost forget the necessity for this in making up your list of summer beauty items, until you remember that the sun causes those ugly little squint lines that form at the corner of your eyes, and that deepen later into crowsfeet. These can be prevented or corrected by the faithful use of anti-wrinkle cream, patted gently around the eyes before bedtime each night.

FLIERS STILL ALOFT

City Of Cleveland Is After Endurance Laurels

CLEVELAND, June 29.—(AP)—The monoplane City of Cleveland, with a big 13 painted on its fuselage, cruised above Cleveland tonight as Pilots Roy L. Mitchell and Byron K. Newcomb ended the first day of the monotonous grind which they hope will bring them a new endurance flight record for planes refueled in the air.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, June 29.—(AP)—Not enough cattle here today to test values, nor was there indication of need for many. Few rail hogs available. Quality considered, hogs sold fully steady.

The few sheep on hand sold at steady prices.

In cattle quality was lacking and trading limited to package lots and most hold over cattle. Few cows sold at 4.50 to 5.25. No steers or slaughter yearlings offered. Few odd head of bulls sold at 6.00@8.00.

Most calves offered were culls and sold at 6.00@7.00. One load of hogs in the rail division sold at 10.65, or fully steady, quality considered. No change in the sheep prices.

SUPRESSED DIVORCE

Prima Donna Files Petition In Chicago Saturday

CHICAGO, June 29. (AP)—A suppressed divorce bill filed by Edith Mason, Prima Donna of the Chicago Civic Opera company, against her husband, Giorgio Polacco, music director of the company, was made public officially today after the action became known to newspapers.

Miss Mason charged the conductor with cruelty, set forth that he once threatened to kill her with a pistol, that he upbraided her often and some times back stage just before she was to sing a difficult role and that he once told her American wives and cattle were somewhat the same.

Grain Prices Are On Upward Trend

CHICAGO, June 29.—Fast rising prices in grain today encountered a flood of profit-taking that sent values reeling packward at times and partly obliterated gains. An outstanding feature, however, which did much to hoist prices was an unofficial forecast that owing to adverse crop conditions North America will produce 225,000,000 bu. less wheat than last year. Incidentally, corn and rye each established a new high price for the season.

Closing quotations on wheat were greatly unsettled at 1 1-4c to 2 1-4c above yesterday's finish. Corn closed unchanged to 5-8@3-4c up, oats at 3-8c decline to 1-2c advance and provisions varying from 2c setback to a rise of 15c.

Liverpool quotations for higher than expected led quickly to a generally buying stampede at the start in the wheat market here.

Assertions that regardless of all the moisture hereafter which could be wished for, Canada cannot raise a crop equal to the last two years attracted particular notice, and served to stimulate buying.

Corn was irregular, being at times strong owing to sympathy with wheat, but met free selling when the market bulged.

Oats were affected by liquidating sales of holders of July contracts.

Cotton Is Lower Saturday After Weather Reports

NEW YORK, June 29. (AP)—Cotton was lower today under selling promoted by a favorable view of weather conditions in the South. The offerings were not heavy but buying was comparatively limited, with October contracts selling off to 18.85 or 13 points net lower. They closed at 18.75 with other months also showing slight rallies on covering and with the general market closing steady at net declines of 9 to 18 points.

The market opened steady at a decline of 4 to 11 points in response to the relatively easy Liverpool cables. There may have been a little buying on reports of a disturbance along the Texas Gulf coast but local traders seemed to feel that if this should cause rain in South Texas, they might be more beneficial than otherwise and the market worked gradually lower.

Private cables attributed the decline in Liverpool to London, local and continental liquidation and said that sales of cotton cloths and yarns were small with order lists running down rapidly.

The amounts of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the close of the week was estimated at 61,000 bales against 78,000 last year.

MID-WESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, June 29. (AP)—Livestock trade around the 11 market loop this week was marked by unevenly lower prices on most all classes of cattle except highly finished fed steers. Losses of 50c to 75c were general on grass fat cattle. Stockers and feeders were weak to unevenly lower. Aggregate receipts were estimated at 174,900 as compared with 176,855 last week.

Closing hog prices steady to unevenly higher than a week ago with average upturns at most points of 10 to 20c.

The sheep supply numbered around 177,600 against 182,270 last week. Although fat lambs 25 to 75c lower than a week ago, current prices are materially higher than mid week.

Yearlings are on a firm to slightly higher basis, but aged stock shows losses of as much as 50c at some markets.

With the issuance of one building permit Saturday afternoon for $6,500 the week's total for Lubbock mounted to $26,725, slightly under the total for the week preceding. Valuations for the month of June now stand at $139,024, representing 47 permits while the year's total is $2,473,041.

"Bull" Movement Features Market On Half-Holiday

Despite Fact Many Traders Away, Trading Is Heavy For Summer Session; 1st Of Month Dividend Seen

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, June 29.—The "bull" movement in stocks, under way Saturday elevated a number of shares to record high levels. Although many traders were away trading was heavy for a half-holiday summer session, the sales aggregating 1,995,700 shares.

Telephone Shares Buoyant

Extreme buoyancy of the telephone shares was a feature of today's trading. International Telephone ran up 7 1-4 points to a new high record since the stock split-up at 107 closing at 105 1-2. American Telephone closed 7 3-4 points higher at 234 1-4 but was still a few points below the year's high.

Revival of activity in the copper stocks was influenced by the announcement that export sales yesterday totaled 6,250,000 pounds, the largest in three months.

Talk of at least two or three other large public utility holding companies being formed within the next few weeks helped to maintain speculative interest in the power and light stocks.

Quiet Trading Is Feature Saturday Of Cotton Market

NEW ORLEANS, June 29. (AP)—narrow price movement featured today's short session in cotton, most business being in the way of week end likuidation and evening up. After a steady opening, despite rather disappointing Liverpool cables, prices gradually eased off on realizing by recent buyers for over the week end induced to some extent by the rather better weather in the belt, although there was some fear of rains in South Texas due to a tropical storm which passed inland on the Texas coast. After easing off 10 to 11 points, the market recovered a point or two at the end.

October which closed Friday at 18.54 declined to 18.44 down 10 points and closed at 18.46 or 8 points net lower for the day. The general market closed steady at net declines of 7 to 9 points.

Private Reports Issued

Two additional private reports were issued, one making the condition 70 per cent of normal and the increase in acreage 3.5 per cent and the other giving condition of 72.5 and an acreage increase of 2.2.

Port receipts 1,836; for year 9,324,204; last year 9,431,295; exports 1,495; for year 7,705,827; last year 7,262,598. Port stocks 785,921; last year 876,538. Combined shipboard stock 55,171; last year 82,597. Spot sales at southern markets 2,458 last year 7,081.

Coroner Says Too Indifferent

By NEA Service

LONDON, June 29.—Dr. Edwin Smith, Shoreditch coroner, in an investigation of a porter who died of lobar pneumonia, issued a statement that: "There is far too much of the 'Go-home-and-let-me-know-how-you-are-going-on' method," among doctors.

Smith believes that physicians should not be as lax in treatment of patients as is evidenced in his statement above.

"Speaking generally," he says, "the home treatment of panel patients who are not well enough to go to the surgery is very inadequate."

Number Of Newspapermen Of Section To Fly To Meet at Sweetwater Next Week; Kelly To Attend

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

SWEETWATER, June 29.—Jimi Kelly, now vacationing on a ranch near Breckenridge, will be among the prominent figures to attend the West Texas Press association convention in Sweetwater, July 12 and 13, it has been definitely announced.

Both Kelly and Reg Robbins, pilots of the "Fort Worth" in its recent record-breaking endurance flight, were invited to attend the convention.

D. W. Carlton, manager of aviation activities for the Fort Worth Association of Commerce, notified Monte Owen, secretary of the board of city development this week that Kelly would be able to greet West Texas newspaper men at the convention here, but that Robbins, who is in California, may not return in time to attend.

Many To Come By Air

It is expected that the West Texas Press association convention will be the largest attended by airplanes of any convention ever held in the southwest and there is an effort being made by the local committee to get even more to attend so that it will be the largest number of visitors riding airplanes of any convention ever held in the United States, outside of aeronautical meets.

Already word has been received from the following, who will fly to Sweetwater for this convention: H. S. Hunter, editor El Paso Times; Chas. A. Guy, editor Lubbock Avalanche; Eddie Warren, Post Dispatch, Post, Texas; Jimmy Smith, Scurry County Times-Signal; J. M. North, managing editor, Fort Worth Star-Telegram; Tom Jordan, Big Spring; T. Paul Barren, editor of Midland Telegram; Paul Vickers, Midland Chamber of Commerce; Editor T. E. Roderick, Slaton Slatonite; Editor Ralph Shuffler, Olney, and Dr. George B. Hamilton of that city, Silliman Evans, vice-president, T. A. T., Robert Cantwel chief pilot, Safe Way Lines, Tulsa, D. W. Carlton, aviation secretary, Fort Worth Association of Commerce and Jim Kelly, Fort Worth endurance flier. As the meeting is still weeks off, it is expected that a number of others will be added to this list.

Aviation will be stressed considerably during the program and a great deal of interest is being manifested.

CHURCH IS FINISHED

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

TURKEY, June 29.—Members of the First Baptist church will commemorate the completion of the basement of their new church building Sunday, June 30, when an appropriate program will be rendered throughout the day.

The building completed will cost $20,000.

Soil Survey Given To Randall County

Experts To Study Phases Of Agriculture In County In Near Future; Solons Must Approve Act

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

CANYON, June 29.—Randal county has been designated for a soil survey, according to reliable information received here by county officials. If appropriation is made by the state legislature, work in this county will begin within a very short time.

W. H. Templen, soil expert who has just finished work in Potter county, likely will be stationed in Canyon to handle the survey in Randall county, officials believe.

Soil survey work is financed jointly by state appropriation and federal funds administered through the bureau of soils. More than 55 Texas counties already have been surveyed and accurate charts prepared of their soil content. Only three counties can be surveyed each year with the present limited organization working in Texas.

Every phase of agricultural enterprise dependent in any way upon soil is studied by the experts making a survey, and county officials believed the survey would result in general improvement of crops and livestock conditions over the county, once the findings of the survey are applied by the farmers.

INCREASE REVEALED

Turkey Area Poultry Work Has Good Volume

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

TURKEY, June 29.—According to a census of the volume of country produce marketed in Turkey as compiled by J. M. Edwards, secretary of the chamber of commerce, a large increase in volume is shown.

As an indication of how rapidly the cream, poultry and egg production grows in this vicinity, figures reveal the fact that last week's sales were $964.65 more than was marketed the week before. The total amount last week being $2,800. A year ago the sales for the same week were $1,200 less than this year.

From week to week rural citizens practically pay their living expenses out of sales of country produce. From all indications the volume of products from the rural districts will rapidly increase.

CONTRACT TO BE LET

Turkey School Work Will Be Awarded Tomorrow

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

TURKEY, June 29.—Contract will be let Monday, July 1, for the construction of another $5,000 high school building for Turkey. Even though a $50,000 building was completed and occupied the first of this year, is not enough to care for the school demands, due to the rapid development of this town and community.

The building is to be completed and ready for occupancy by Sept. 10, 1929.

Blue-Eyed Brunett Wears Colors

BY LUCIEN LELONG
Special Cable to Central Press
PARIS.

The problem of dressing the blue-eyed brunette is very similar to her problem in the choice of make-up colors, but the variety possible in dress colors makes the choice seem easier. However, I think that the woman with blue eyes and dark hair will gain by restraining her choice in colors. She can, as I see it, key the colors of her clothes with her eyes, or if the natural color of her hair offers a good contrast with her eyes, she can choose her dress colors to harmonize with her hair and contrast with her eyes.

Both principles will give quite enough lattitude to vary her dressing. The color of dark blue eyes is so varied that the woman must use a great deal of "finesse" in the selection of colors intended to harmonize with them. We say, "blue eyes", but the term actually covers eye colors which would be called blue-greens, grays or even greens, were we to see them, say, in a piece of cloth. Consequently, each woman must approach the problem with the utmost frankness. That her eyes may seem blue to the world, she must be willing to acknowledge to herself that they are one or another odd shade, and to choose in her dressing tones less lively in the same color.

In my summer collection, I have included a number of dusty greens, bluish grays and faded blue tones, which will give each blue-eyed woman a large choice. These more subdued shades of the color intensify the eyes by means of giving them a neutral but harmonious background. It is also possible to wear a violet or a green much more intense than the eyes, and thus offer them a contrast with its link of harmony.

Thus, by wearing an intense green, the woman with greenish-blue eyes will create the illusion of having sapphire color orbs, while the woman whose eyes incline to violet tones may wear the greenish-blue to heighten the unusual shades of her optics. All the soft grays naturally will fall into the scheme of heightening the eye colors. Black is also a perfect color for the blue-eyed woman whose hair is jet black.

Dressing keyed to the color of the hair or of the complexion, is also a successful principle for the blue-eyed woman; particularly is it useful to those whose skin is ruddy or well bronzed, and whose hair is brown rather than black. Following this principle, the colors chosen will be the beiges, the browns, the greys the yellow-grays and other neutral yellows, which have been so continually fashionable ever since woman discovered that sunburn was becoming.

All of these yellow and brown tints, you realize, are definitely color complements of blue and, in wearing them, the blue-eyed woman not only can create a splendid harmony with her complexion, but also offers the most effective foil to her eyes.

The most dangerous colors for blue-eyed brunettes to attempt to wear are the reds and pinks. In fact, unless she has a great skill with colors herself, or unless she has a very competent adviser in her dressmaker, I should caution her to avoid them entirely. All reds (and pink is reduced red) are complementary colors to greens, and by wearing any of the red tones, the blue-eyed woman risks accentuating any tone in green that may exist in her eyes.

I do not say that this would always be of a bad effect. For instance, I would counsel a client, the color of whose eyes made it possible to use pink or red, if it would give her the appearance of having emerald eyes; but unless one were aiming to such a striking efect, I think it might be wiser to let the reddish tones alone and confine the clothes colors to the cool blue-greens, grays and to the yellow browns.

Former Local Man Married Saturday

Miss Estelle Johnson And G. E. Bean Are Married In Brownwood Late Yesterday Afternoon

Miss Estelle Johnson, of Brownwood, became the bride of G. E. Bean, formerly of this city, yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Johnson, in Brownwood. The groom's uncle, Dr. J. W. Hunt, president of McMurry college at Abilene, read the nuptial ceremony in the presence of a few friends and relatives of the couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Bean are living in Brownwood where he is treasurer of the Brown County Gas company.

Miss Sallye Bean, of Lubbock, who is the groom's sister, was maid of honor in the wedding and Mrs. Charles Shropshire, of Brownwood, was matron of honor.

Mr. Bean was attended by C. A. Chipley, his roommate while the two men were studying at A. and M. college. Mr. Chipley is the son of H. D. Chipley, of this city.

The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Bean, 1610 19th street, and Miss Sallye Bean left Friday for Brownwood to attend the wedding and were accompanied from here by Dr. Hunt.

The bride is a graduate of the Brownwood high school and a former student of Howard Payne college there. Mr. Bean received his public school education here, graduating from the high school. He attended Southern Methodist University, at Dallas, for a year and was a student at A. and M. college, College Station, for four years, graduating in 1926 with a bachelor of science degree. Since that time he has been with the Lone Star Gas company of Dallas and the Brown County Gas company and has been located in various Texas and Oklahoma towns. He is a civil engineer.

Mr. and Mrs. Bean expect to visit in Lubbock during the summer.

Miss R. Leaverton Has Party Friday

Bridge Is Played Friday Afternoon When Rosemary Leaverton Entertains In Her Home

Miss Rosemary Leaverton entertained a few friends with bridge Friday afternoon in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Leaverton, 1820 13th street.

Three tables were laid for games during the afternoon and the following guests participated in the games; Misses Martha Alice Penny, Annie Lou Bennett, of Arlington, May Tom Simmons, Evelyn Rutherford, Denver Davis, Priscilla Watson, Jean Shelley Jennings, Elizabeth Pickett, of Post, Mildred Price, Ozie Davis, Melba Mae Tatum, and Mary Cosby.

Refreshments of peach ice cream and cake were served.

Miss Watson scored high in the games and Miss Price was high in a cut.

Smart World Hies To The Seaside For The Summer

Miss Virginia Thaw — Mrs. Oliver Rodgers — Miss Cathleen Fox

Bare-Legged Fad Charmingly Cool Yellow In Favor

Southampton Is Filled With Society People Seeking Surcease From Heat Of Summer At Beach

BY BETSY SCHUYLER
NEA Service Writer

SOUTHAMPTON, L. I., June 29 There is really only one thing to do in such torrid weather—be sure you are surf-fitted with chic and then dive into the ocean.

It is surprising how many speedy packings have taken place in New York this past week. Apparently it is never too early to be hot enough to drive folks to the beach. With Park Avenue looking like the proverbial deserted village, it is no shock to find Southampton well filled already.

The first person I saw was Mrs. Oliver Rodgers just coming out of the surf after a swim with her husband. Her swimming suit was extremely chic, exemplifying the new, fuller modes. It was blue and chartreuse, with the latter a deep pointed front yoke and the shorts cut on much fuller lines than last season.

In the Chic Picture

Other smart looking women at the Beach Club these last few days included Mrs. Philip Kip Rhinelander, the lovely Mrs. Kenneth O'Brien who is stunning in her beach togs and Millicent Rogers (Salm) Ramos, who spent the week-end here.

I'm thinking hopefully that maybe silk stockings may go down in price soon, sizing up the increasing numbers of smart young things and not so young, who are sponsoring the bare-legged craze.

I distinctly like the fad, especially when trim-limbed women embrace it. Cathleen Fox, for instance, looked charmingly cool and summery in a one-piece white linen frock with no beads or other extras and her bare feet slipped into white pumps.

A Study in White

Virginia Thaw is another. She is one who wears white admirably, with her dark hair [illegible] her suntan. I saw her in a [illegible] ttle white silk one-piece froc[illegible] a double jobot collar and kick pleats in the skirt, front and back. She wore a medium-sized white felt hat and brown and white shoes, over her stockingless feet.

Yellow, which Palm Beach made so much of, is having its day in Southampton. Every smart woman has a yellow streak or two in her wardrobe. Mrs. Orson Munn carried off the palms for the most pleasing yellow outfit I have seen thus far.

The two-piece frock was of a soft, clear yellow flat crepe, with the skirt pleated in French box pleats and the overblouse sleeveless. She wore a bright orange kerchief scarf knotted on one shoulder, and the neatest, chicest little white leghorn, turned down on one side and turned up into a little rolled edge on the shorter side. It was banded in orange. She wore short white gloves and a vivid orange bead bracelet.

Others in Yellow

Others featuring yellow to noticeable extent are Mrs. Morton Smith, Mary Alice Waller, and Mrs. John Warner, the former Emily Smith. The last two wear sweater suits in varying shades of yellow, with pleated skirts. I saw Mrs. Smith in a pale yellow frock and deep yellow silk coat that had a rounding neck, no collar and hung very simply and straight in unbuttoned fashion.

White hats bloom everywhere, many straw. Phyllis Thompson wears many different ones. One especially nice on her rolls its brim a little bit all around, but so conservatively that it looks as if it were a straight brim. She is one of the many who prefer mixed oxfords in sports colors and combinations of materials rather than sandals.

Afternoons see many chiffons, prints of every description in the world though I must say the print that is not just a large flower wins. Mrs. Stuart Duncan Preston has a lovely blue and white diamond printed one that has a double tiered skirt of pleats and a rounding neck with a sort of fichu collar.

Lubbock Woman Winner In Exhibit Of Paintings

Social Calendar

MONDAY

Wednesday Needle club members are entertaining with a picnic at 7 o'clock in the evening honoring Mrs. G. M. Cosby.

Circles of the First Methodist W. M. S. are meeting as follows: District 1, Mrs. R. T. Campbell, 1621 Avenue Y; District 2, Mrs. K. Carter, 1412 Avenue L; District 3, Mrs. Joe Hess, 2111 14th street; District 4, Mrs. G. C. Wolffarth, 2304 Broadway.

The Camp Fire Council is meeting at 8 o'clock in the evening with Mrs. G. C. Wolffarth, 2304 Broadway.

The First Christian W. M. S. is meeting at 8:30 o'clock in the morning at the church.

A business meeting of the First Baptist W. M. S. will be conducted at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at the church.

Mrs. E. L. Robertson will conduct a Bible lesson from Acts. 3, 4 and 5 when the First Presbyterian Women's Auxiliary meets at the church at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

TUESDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lowery are entertaining the I-Deal club in the evening at 1212 Avenue N.

A business meeting of the O. E. S. chapter will be conducted at 8 o'clock in the evening at the Masonic hall. All members are required for some business that is to be discussed, according to an announcement made by the worthy matron.

Miss Blanche Bacon will entertain the Fortnightly club at 8:15 o'clock in the evening in her home at 1620 Broadway.

Mr. and Mrs. Earle Thompson, 1911 Sixteenth, returned Friday night from Texhoma, where they spent the week on business.

When tea made its first appearance in England, early in the seventeenth century, it was such a novelty that people paid from $30 to $50 for a pound of it.

Mrs Chester Hubbard Awarded Prize In Portrait Class

One of the six cash prizes, awarded for the best exhibits by students attending the Eighth Annual Texas Artist camp, at Christival recently, was won by a Lubbock woman, Mrs. Chester Hubbard, of 1815 Avenue K. More than 100 pictures were on exhibit, painted by the artists from every section of Texas, who were enrolled.

Mrs. Hubbard's award was for the best portrait, the six prizes representing, in addition to portrait painting, the painting of landscapes in oil, landscapes in pastel, pictures of still life, drawings and water colors. Competition in portrait painting was lively, two of the artists in this classification having studied a year in Paris.

"I attribute the honor of winning this award," Mrs. Hubbard declared, "to my study with A. W. Mack, of Amarillo, who formerly taught art in Lubbock."

Work Is Praised

When the Swedish landscape painter, Redin, of the Albuquerque, N. M., Art colony, was at Texas Technological college a few months ago, the work of Mrs. Hubbard was very favorably criticised by him and the award at Christival stamps her as one of the Lone Star state's artists.

This year's Texas Artists Camp was favored with three of the southwest's most famous art teachers, Zavier Gonzales, of San Antonio; Miss Adele Brunet, of Dallas, and Will H. Stephens, of New Orleans. The exhibit, which consisted of paintings done by students during the first two of the three weeks at the camp, was considered the best ever had and the general character of the work was declared by the hundreds of visitors to be very excellent.

Mrs. Hubbard's prize-winning portrait is now on exhibit at San Angelo, with the other winning paintings. As soon as available, it will be on exhibit in Lubbock at the Sherrod Brothers Hardware store, which will probably be the latter part of this week.

Mrs. Hubbard's subject, Irene Neves, formerly lived in Lubbock and is now in San Angelo.

Program Enjoyed Friday Afternoon At Benefit Event

New Home Of Dr. and Mrs. M. C. Overton Is Scene of Tea Friday Afternoon For Church Society

For those people who are not leaving Lubbock during the summer or will be away only a short time, gay social affairs are being given each afternoon and evening.

The larger parties are courtesies to visitors in the society and lists of club members at events are usually supplemented by other friends of the hostesses.

Each early morning and evening swimming pools in and near the city are frequented by many people and the majority of these carry their lunches with them or prepare them over fires in the parks.

Picnic Given At Springs For Visitors Here

Misses Marjorie Leaverton and Nancy O'Neall invited a number of their friends to Buffalo Springs park on Friday evening for a picnic, introducing Miss O'Neall's cousin, Frost Davis, who is visiting here from Pasadena, Cal.

After a dip in the pool, guests gathered about a fire for supper and later dancing was enjoyed.

Those in the party were the honor guest, Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Leaverton Jr., Miss Grace Jennings, Harold Bowen of Hope, Ark. Miss Jean Shelley Jennings, Miss Rosemary Leaverton, Ronnie and Charles O'Neall, Miss Eulala Henderson and Gilford Scott.

Nine Women Entertain With Benefit Tea

Nine women in the First Methodist Mary Helm Auxiliary, of the First Methodist church, entertained Friday afternoon with a silver tea in the new home of Dr. and Mrs. M. C. Overton, 1812 Broadway, and the function was a pleasant society favor of the week.

During the afternoon a program of readings and music was given by Misses Mary Gene and Lucy D. Owen, each of whom gave a number of readings; Mrs. J. C. Powell, who played piano numbers and accompanied Miss Margaret Halsell in playing violin selections, and by little Ruth Overton.

200 Attend.

About 200 guests registered during the afternoon and were served a refreshing ice course by Misses Lizzie Belle Clements, Virginia Smallwood, Elizabeth Camp, Mildred Hinds, Evelyn Sowell and Mrs. Ethridge Eagan.

The hostesses and Mrs. Overton received guests upon their arrival. The nine women entertained were Mesdames H. L. Munger, Tom J. Foster, Rufus Rush, W. J. Spain, Joe Baldridge, Ed. O'Sullivan, Claude Burrus, Carl Slaton and H. W. Richardson.

SHOWER FOR BABY

Church Women Entertain For Mrs. O. A. Terry

A five-months-old baby who was recently adopted by Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Terry, was given a shower of clothes and gifts Friday afternoon when members of the Young Matron's auxiliary in the First Christian church entertained, having as guests other women in the congregation.

The child has been named Rex Jennings Terry.

A program was given, consisting of a piano solo by Mrs. S. J. McFarland, a reading by Miss Lucy D. Owen, a vocal solo by Mrs. Paul Barrier and a contest.

Two small negro boys brought in a clothes basket in which the gifts were stacked. Delicious refreshments were passed.

The Great Pyramid of Egypt or Cheops tomb, is the largest building in the world. It was originally 482 feet high and it covered an area of 13 acres.

Las Chaparittas Are Entertained With Swimming Party And Picnic Four Young Women Hostesses

Misses Ainsworth, Gamel And Dougherty And Mrs. Allen Entertain Yesterday With Party For Club

A swimming party and picnic supper was a social favor Saturday for members of Las Chaparittas club and several guests.

Hostesses were Mary Lois Gamel, Lynn Dougherty, Marjorie Ainsworth and Mrs. Edward Allen, Jr. The guests went to Tumble N pool for a swim at 6 o'clock and returned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gamel, 1505 Main street, for a picnic supper.

Club members attending were Misses Bess Wulfman, Frances Ford, Dorothy Rushing, Virgina Murray, Almeda Murray, Zella Riegel, Floy Pryor, Cymbol Patterson, Sut Bryan, Ruth Starnes, Flossie Burkholder, Sylva Wilson, Gladys Grimsley, Glenys Honey, Mrs. W. D. Benson, jr., Mrs. Gaylord Hankins, Mrs. Al Van Dyke and Mrs. Harold Griffith.

Other guests were Miss Gail Quinlan, Miss Leola Bigham of Midland, Miss Fay Albrighton, Miss Melba Dougherty, Miss Annie Lou Bennett, Miss Virginia Bacon, Miss Catherine Jameson and Miss Elizabeth Evans.

The Woman's Day

By Allene Sumner

Allene Sumner

A World War veteran of British Columbia, unable to get work, was helping with the family washing. His tie caught in the wringer and he was strangled to death.

Not only does it seem ironic that a man could escape unscathed from a war and then die in this way, but some figures from various insurance companies to the effect that many more fatalities occur from just such unexpected little hings about the house than in any so-called place of "hazardous employment" seem ironic, especially in light of the fact that very few housewives carry insurance or are credited as doing very important or "hazardous" work.

BEAUTY OF UNIVERSE

It will be interesting to see what becomes of Miss Louise Goldarbeiter of Austria, recently selected as The Most Beautiful Girl in the Universe. (One wonders how they found about the girls of Mars, but let that pass).

We have a theory that if a girl has beauty she needs nothing else, and yet a roll call of selected beauties of recent years proves, too, that beauty still brings its troubles as it did to Helen and Cleo of old.

Still, most of us would take a chance on the troubles in such a cause!

MONEYED TRAGEDY

Most of our love tragedies center about the fact that either the boy or girl is poor and of humble parentage, and the other a favored member of society.

But the love tragedy of Miss Ruth Wilson and her fiance, Horace Roberts, Jr., of Moorestown, N. J. centers about two young people to the manor born. The murder-suicide theory to explain the two young people found dying in the girl's home was changed to a double murder theory, and one broken engagement after another seems to have preceded the tragedy.

Sometimes life remains at too smooth a level and more trouble comes than when it has its high and low spots.

It took a man to get up a cook book of all the things that can be cooked without pots and pans. The book is called "Jack Knife Cookery" by James Wilder. He tells how to make cranberry or apple pie without pain, and all sorts of stews to be cooked in leaves or coconut shells. The author's life as a wanderer and explorer made him find out how to do these things. Now he tells the world.

After all, we are learning more and more that the realm of cooking is not a woman's province solely, and that most of the real things in this realm have been by men.

Speaking of cooking, have you heard of the famous French club of gourmets, called the Club des Cents? Each member has to prove that he really knows good food and drink before he can join the famous old club. The club gives occasional dinners at a restaurant which it deems worthy of its patronage. It may be an obscure little place made famous overnight by the fame paid it by the gourmands.

Imagine any American body of men daring to form such an association! American husbands, willy-nilly, are forced by American wives into the great national game of dieting. They may laud the vitamin but never the trussed and ruffled fowl. We apologize for food in this land, never laud it.

MEMBERS ADDED

Hardy Home Demonstration Club In Meeting

Three new members were received in the Hardy home demonstration club Friday afternoon in a meeting with Mrs. J. W. Rogers. Ten women were in attendance. The new members were Mrs. B. E. Fowler, Mrs. Pierce, of Shallowater, and Mrs. B. F. McClusky.

SON IS BORN

Dr. And Mrs. O. W. English Welcome Junior To Home

Dr. and Mrs. O. W. English, 2220 16th street, announce the birth of a son, who will be christened O. W. English Jr.

The newcomer arrived Wednesday and Dr. English reports that both mother and baby are progressing satisfactorily. The young man weighed six pounds at birth.

150 CALLS DAILY

City Hall Telephone Exchange Is Busy Place

"City Hall!"

Those words are uttered about 150 times daily in response to as many telephone calls, a record of flashes at the telephone exchange of the building revealed.

Calls to the police office, Chamber of Commerce, Boy Scout office, fire department, Retail Merchants association and city school tax office are not included in the number, for these offices have separate lines.

The exchange handles calls for the city manager, city secretary, light and water and other departments of the city.

Favors Extended To visitors And Brides Of Plains

Birthday Dinners, Wedding And Other Events Are Of Interest To People Of West Texas

Miss Mary Lee Bardwell, who has moved to Lubbock, has been guest of honor at several affairs given in Post recently.

She shared honors with Misses Louise Morrell, Elizabeth Pickett and Louise Ruth Weakley, Friday evening when Miss Blanche Connell and Mrs. Jim Power entertained with a dance in the home of Mrs. Power. There was a large attendance of young people at this affair.

On Thursday, Miss Evelyn Babb entertained for Miss Bardwell with a bridge party.

Pair Married

A wedding of interest on the Plains was that of Miss Lola Murl Johnson, of Colorado, to Max Brown Adams, lumberman of Littlefield, on last Saturday afternoon.

The wedding was in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Johnson, with Rev. W. M. Elliott, pastor of the Presbyterian church there, reading the ceremony. Only a few friends of the couple attended.

One of the most delightful parties in Colorado last week was a party given at the Country club of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Thomas honoring Mrs. D. H. Snyder, jr. About two hundred attended.

Home Party Feted

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Towle, of Snyder, complimented their house guests, Misses Nell Harper Green, Virginia Stonerode, Katherine Price, Margaret Mann, Messrs. William Greene and Sherrod Smith, of Colorado, with a picnic and swim Wednesday at Ennis Creek.

Other affairs in Snyder included a party given on Tuesday evening by Mrs. Warren Dodson for her sister, Miss Mildred Stokes, of Fort Worth, and a breakfast and swimming party on Saturday at the Snyder country club. Mrs. H. J. Brice was hostess on this latter occasion, entertaining for her niece, Miss Frances Denson, of Mineral Wells.

The A. B. Hays family of Littlefield met in reunion in that city last week. A number of out-of-town relatives were in attendance.

Mrs. A. G. Smith, of Lorenzo, her nephew, Charles B. Smith, and her granddaughter, Alice Rachel Jones, were honor guests at a birthday dinner served Sunday in Mrs. Smith's home. There was a large attendance of friends and relatives of the trio. Mrs. Smith is seventy years of age.

Professor Making Study of Canyon

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

CANYON, June 29.—The South Cota Canyons, a branch of the Palo Duro Canyon, have proved of interest to W. D. Mateer, a member of the faculty of the West Texas State Teachers college, Canyon, who is making a study of geological formations to be found in this reigon. Mr. Mateer has discovered many rock and mineral formations suitable for his purpose.

One of the most unique rock formations is the septarium. Originally, a mud ball is deposited in a small pocket or accumulated in loose sand. After the water has receded, the heat of the sun bakes the ball. During the baking the parts contract and leave cracks along the lines of greatest tension. Mineral matter is later deposited in these cracks, giving an artistic or geometric design of different colors. The shape varies according to the material from which the mud ball is made and the intensity of the heat to which it is exposed.

Bathing Suits More Feminine

By FRANCES CLYNE
Fashion Writer for Central Press

NEW York, June 29.—The bathing beach seems to be as indispensable to fashion as the ball-room used to be. No need to remind the modern bather of the ugly, cumbersome "bath suits" of pre-war days. It is inconceivable to us today that women could consent to such atrocities as the ankle length, high necked suit and ugly rubber bath caps.

At the same time, a more feminine quality is entering into the newest bathing suits, one that combines the practibility of the black wool suit with the little trimmings and color combinations that make womenfolk more attractive.

The vogue for the pyjama as a beach accessory has taken a definite hold on women this season. When smart continentals appeared on the Riviera several seasons ago, wearing brilliant colored pyjamas, it was looked upon as just a "fad" of the moment. But these pyjamas served a very definite purpose and proved so practical, that they are now considered an essential part of every beach wardrobe.

In the first place, it grows rather monotonous and awkward to see women on bathing beaches, from morning until night, in their abbreviated suits. Then, too, if a woman has any distance to come in her bathing suit, it seems much better taste to see her completely arrayed in an attractive ensemble, than in a skirt and sweater thrown over the bathing suit.

Comfortable and Attractive.

The bathing suit itself serves the two-fold purpose of being comfortable and attractive this season. Always bearing in mind that she must appear charming in her mid-summer evening gown, the modern woman sees that her jersey swim-suit follows the lines of her low-cut, sleeveless, gown, thus permitting an even coat of tan on her otherwise fair skin. Many women still prefer the all-in-one, form fitting jersey swim-suit, while the ones who boast of slender lines can wear the attractive bodice-and-trunk suits to splendid advantage. With their fitted hips, comfortable bodice and athletic width "shorts" they give the modern miss a sense of freedom when she engages in medicine ball and the diverse sports offered by modern beaches. The suit pictured is of Copan blue jersey and is effectively brought out by a short "thow" cape of petal pink pongee. The pyjama suit is a combination of king blue and biege, the coat and trousers being of the solid color, while the coat lining is of blue and biege plaid printed silk to match the tunic.

Slight Declines In Building And Trade Hits Texas

Agricultural Prospects In Sections Have Brightest Outlook In Years; Weather Is Aid

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, June 29.—Heavy rainfall during the last three weeks of May greatly retarded farm operations seriously affected the growth of row crops and retarded buying in some lines of trade, says the monthly business review of the Dallas federal reserve bank, issued today. Construction activity during May showed a sharp decline, value of building permits at principal centers being 58.1 percent less than in April while commercial failures in the eleventh federal reserve district were slightly lower but the amount of indebtedness involved in defaults was much larger than in April.

Weather Aid Farmers

More favorable weather in June enabled farmers to make rapid progress with cultivation of crops and to proceed with harvesting of small grains. The condition of livestock and grazing ranges showed further improvement in May and is now fair to excellent in most sections of the district, according to the review. However, more rain is needed in portions of southeastern Arizona and Western New Mexico.

"While harvesting of wheat and oats in the north, central and west-central portions of Texas was delayed by the wet season which resulted in some damage to the crops, harvesting has been proceeding rapidly since early June and threshing is well under way," says the report. "Corn generally has made good progress and is now in fair to good condition. The crop in southern Texas is nearing maturity and roasting ears are becoming plentiful in north Texas. Corn in southern New Mexico is in a good state of cultivation and early fields are in the tassle stage.

Alfalfa To Be Heavy

"The department of agriculture reported that the second cutting of alfalfa in Texas will be heavy. The second cutting in southern New Mexico is in progress. Grain sorghums in Texas are up to a good stand.

"While planting of cotton is nearing completion in most sections of the district, an unusual amount of replanting has been necessary in the old cotton belt of Texas, southeastern Oklahoma and northern Louisiana. Planting and stands in northwest and west-central Texas are farther advanced than a year ago, but in other portions of the district the crop is late, plants small and growth slow.

"Prospects for peaches in Texas were considerably reduced during the past month by hail, wind and rains, but the condition of apples and pears is better than in several years. Oranges and grapefruit are in good condition. Watermelons and canteloupes are moving in car-lots. Fruit crops in southern New Mexican promise good yields. On account of continuous rains severe losses from rotting have been sustained in the early potato crop in Texas.

History Of Lubbock Country Club Shows Progress Is Being Made By Organization; Expansion Planned

During Past Nine Years Of Service, Country Club's Offerings Have Become Popular In Extreme

By ALLEN CARNEY
Avalanche-Journal Staff

BACK in the old days before golf became the rage and social sets were content to hold their dances and other forms of entertainment in private homes or in public halls, before the younger generation took to the fairways and greens, Lubbock, a growing western outpost, knew nothing of Country Clubs and all that goes with such organizations.

Realization of a need for a golf course in the South Plains Hub dawned upon several progressive business men of this city in 1920 and the first nine-hole course on the South Plains was laid out on a tract of land four miles east of Lubbock, near the main highway. This first venture found only a handful of golfers interested in the pastime now enjoyed by millions. The membership of the club was limited to an even 100.

This was the beginning of a Country Club in Lubbock and during the following year, definite steps were taken for the establishment of the Lubbock Country Club. A deal with Easton and George Wolffarth secured the 160-acre tract of land on the Lubbock-Plainview highway, where the club is now located. The property bought by the stockholders of the new club was then a barren waste situated around a creek bottom.

Water Hazard Secured

This small creek gave promise for a beautiful lake and a constant water hazard for an up-to-date golf course. One of the first steps of the club members was to set aside a sum to dam up the creek. The first nine-hole course laid out on the new location was crude in many details. Greens were of partial sand and the fairways as rugged as the Pyrenees mountains. Since that time, the course has been changed a number of times, from sand greens to cotton seed and from cotton seed to pure sand. Each change in the location of the greens has resulted in improvement.

The club was organized with a limited membership of 100, which if still retains. Neil H. Wright was the first president and Lee Duggan, now of Houston, was secretary. Since that time W. A. Myrick, Jr., Spencer Wells, L. H. McCarty and Homer Grant have served in the capacity of president.

Trees Beautify Site

The club house, located near the center of the golf course, was built the first year at a cost of $8,800 and still stands amid the large shade trees that have grown to enormous size since the club was first organized.

As time went on and water flowed under the bridges, interest in golf and other club advantages grew along with Lubbock. A keen need for various improvements and enlargements was felt. The expansion program started early this year, included the enlargement of the golf course from a nine to 18-hole, the bringing of a golf professional to the club and an adoption of a rule whereby outsiders could pay a nominal green fee and play the course.

May Add to Membership

Neil Wright and Walter Posey have taken an active part in beautifying the club grounds while Spencer Wells, Ross McWhorter and L. H. McLarty have worked steadily on the general advancement of the organization. At the present time there is considerable sentiment in favor of enlarging the membership of the club to meet the growing interest in golf, but no definite steps have been taken. This problem as well as the need for a new club house is receiving the attention of club members.

The present organization has functioned well during the current season from the president to the green keeper. Homer Grant is president of the club, J. O. Smith, secretary and the following are directors: Jack Randal, Sam Arnett, Frank Jones, Dr. Fred Standefer, George Benson, Neil Wright and Ross McWhorter. W. T. Finney has been green keeper for the past three years.

Diversification Pays In Randall

E. J. Friemel Family Near Umbarger Live Off Fruit Of Country; Started With Capital Of Only $200

(Special To The Avalanche)

CANYON, June 29.—Does diversified farming in Randall county pay dividends?

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Friemel of Umbarger, who since 1907 have been living off the fruit of Randall county soil, believe it does.

Most Randall county farmers have long been converts to the idea of diversification, but few, if any of them, have undertaken such a wide variety of crop and livestock culture as have the Friemels.

Started In 1907

Mr. and Mrs. Frimel started farming in 1907 with a capital of only $200. They were forced to make their farm produce everything possible for their own needs as well as a dividend from crop sales.

Hogs, chickens, cows and garden produce supplemented field crops on the Friemel farm from the beginning. Today, the list of vegetables and fruits raised reads like the index of a small seed catalog; irish and sweet potatoes, cabbage, onions, sweet and hot peppers, lettuce, beans, peas, cucumbers, garlic, asparagus, and rheubarb constitute the bulk of vegetables raised in the extensive Friemel garden.

A large orchard, laid out in an orderly fashion and tended with the same care as the garden, produces quantities of peaches, several varieties of plums, apples, cherries, and pears each year. Grapes, strawberries, gooseberries, currants, and blackberries complete, in a measure, the truck gardening and fruit raising activities on his extraordinary farm.

All Products Thrive

All of these products do well in the Panhandle, Mr. and Mrs. Friemel say, and point to years of success in support of this statement.

Several hundred pounds of "fryers" are sold each year from the Friemel farm, and the monthly average of egg sales is more than six cases.

The livestock part of the diversified farming program of these successful farmers furnishes a large share of the profits from this farm, according to the Friemels. Three hundred head of cattle, with a good herd of milk cows included in this lot, produce good revenue. The Frimel farm markets 160 pounds of cream each month. From one to two cars of hogs are shipped each year, and the Friemels put up their own hams, bacon, lard and sausage. A row crop of maize, hygeria and cane is raised each year to feed the cattle herd.

Ford Suit Makes Duties An Issue

RIO JANEIRO, June 29. (AP)—The recent refusal of the supreme court of Brazil to grant an injunction to Henry Ford against duties on the importation of rubber seeds from one state to another, has served to draw attention to the multiplicity of these interstate tariff walls in Brazil. The constitution of the country, like that of the United States, prohibits these levies but the provision has been honored more in the breach than in the observance.

In refusing the Ford petition, the high court explained that the finding was based entirely upon the faulty form in which the request was offered. Lawyers believe that if a technically correct petition is presented to the court, the state of Para's tariff on rubber seeds will be declared unconstitutional, giving a basis upon which to fight similar imposts throughout the republic.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Alvey and little daughter, Nelreita, returned Saturday to Texhoma, Okla., after a visit with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Q. Alvey, of this city.

MISS WRISTEN WEDS

Miss Fay Wristen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Wristen of Lorenzo, became the bride of R. J. Blackwell of Bard, Calif., Saturday, June 15. They were quietly married at Yuma, Ariz., where Miss Wristen was working, and left immediately for Los Angeles and Catalina Islands. Upon returning to Bard they will make their home, where Mr. Blackwell is assistant manager of the U. S. experiment station.

O. E. S. SCHOOL HERE

Lorenzo chapter O. E. S. entertained the school of instruction for this district Monday in the chapter rooms at the Masonic temple. One of the largest crowds that has ever attended a district school of instruction was assembled here, 153 visitors and local members representing 27 chapters were present. The Lorenzo ladies served lunch and supper and at the close of the night session cake and cream was served. The registration committee reported four grand officers present, among them Mrs. Bertie G. Easterling of Del Rio, who is worthy grand matron of the state; three grand juisdictions were represented, Texas, Wyoming and Kansas. The grand examiner reported certificates given as follows: Grade A, 16; grade B, 58. Mrs. W. P. Fullingim of Lorenzo made the welcome address.

CALLED TO ALABAMA

Mrs. W. M. Blakemore received a message Sunday night from Bridgeport, Ala., stating that her father, Mr. Williams, had died very suddenly. She received the message too late to catch the train at Lubbock, but was accompanied to Amarillo by John Gentry and L. N. Stevens, catching the 6 o'clock train for Bridge port to be present at the funeral. Mr. Blakemore was away on his vacation through the northwest and Canada, and could not be located in time to accompany Mrs. Blakemore.

SWIMMING PARTY AT LUBBOCK

The following members of the Lorenzo orchestra motored to Lubbock Friday evening and enjoyed a dip in Tumble N pool: Misses Edna Mae Dillard, Mary Wiley, Earl Jeane Suits, Aleta Easter; Messrs. Paul Pattillo, Thomas G. Hendrick, Terrell Bowman, Tom Ellis Suits, Guy Pattillo, Ted Hoople, Norvall Dillard and Carmon Williamson. Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Sullivan and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Pearson chaperoned the party.

CELEBRATES 70TH BIRTHDAY

The A. G. Smith home, one and a half mile seast of Lorenzo, was the scene of much merriment Sunday when quite a number of friends and relatives gathered to help Mrs. Smith celebrated her 70th birthday. It was also the occasion of the 39th birthday of her son, Charlie Smith of Floydada, and the sixteenth birthday of her granddaughter, Miss Alice Rachel Jones, who resides in the Smith home. A large cake featured the celebration, it was decorated in three sets of candles in colors of blue, red and pink.

Those present were Joe Smith and family of Joe Bailey; Bob, Ham and Charlie Smith their families of Floydada; Parker Floyd and family of Quanah; Robert McGuire and family of Floydada; John Edward Smith, Mrs. M. A. Lattimore, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Lattimore of Lubbock; Mrs. Elliott of Lubbock; Bert Smith and family of Plainview; Mrs. Ethel Jones and children, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Smith.

S. S. CLASS ENJOY OUTING

The young people's class of the Baptist Sunday school and guests enjoyed a skating party at Silver Falls Monday evening, chaperoned by Rev. and Mrs. J. P. Olive and Mrs. W. L. Pattillo. A picnic supper was enjoyed before returning home. Those attending were Misses Mary Wiley, Madge Huckabay, Earl Jeane Spits, Eula Bowen, Maud Huckabay, Maurine Pieratt, Edna Mae Dillard, Lalla Lay, Sidney Dell Dees, Mrs. Marvin Pruitt, Messrs. Norvall Dillard, Foy Pieratt, H. Wampler, Paul Patillo, Kelton Anderson, Thomas G. Hendrick, Wilbur Pearson, Howard Eaves and Marvin Pruitt.

MRS. HOWELL ENTERTAINS

Mrs. J. T. Howell was a charming hostess during the morning hours on Wednesday in her attractive home on Van Buren when five tables of players enjoyed bridge. Score cards and other appointments were suggestive of July 4. Mrs. J. L. Suits scored high, with Mrs. E. S. Smith second high.

A lovely two course luncheon of congealed salad, nut bread sandwiches, tomatoes, potato flakes, ice tea, sherbet and angel squares was passed to Mesdames O. W. Fagala, Dewey Sullivan, Fred Wiese, John Hughes, J. S. Garmon, Ewell Smith, P. D. Fullingim., LeRoy Huckabay, T. G. Hendrick, Roy Abell, L. J. Sanders, E. S. Smith, Joe Schuler, J. L. Suits, R. L. Bowman, W. W. Anderson, Roy Terrell; Misses Nancy Hale, Aleta Easter and Mary Blankenship of Salina, Kan.

Attempt To Reach Deathbed Futile

PARIS, Tex., June 29. (AP)—Cleve Ghio, having failed in his effort to fly to Paris from Cartagena Colombia before his wife succombed here to swamp fever, was resting in Panama City tonight.

Funeral arrangements here were held up until it is learned whether Mr. Ghio can obtain a plane to bring him on to Paris.

Ghio was 400 miles in the interior of Colombia when his wife was stricken.

Mrs. Ghio died this morning and word of her death reached Ghio at Panama City where he apparently landed today. A cablegram from him said that he had been unable to obtain a plane to bring him on to Paris and advised friends to go ahead with the funeral, but arrangements were held up pending further word from him.

THE VACANT LOT MARKET

Seems to be looking up, and lots all over town are worth a little more money than they were 60 or 90 days ago. But our client still advises us to sell those two we have listed for him on 26th, just west of Ave U, at $325 each, cash. These lots are well worth $450, and they sold for $400 two years ago, so this price makes what is the very best small opportunity in Lubbock to buy open lots low down and either to build on or to hold for the advance

Rubber Plantation Life Explained

Mrs. O. D. Hargis, Lubbock, Tells Of Her Experiences In Sumatra Where Husband Manages Rubber Farm

When we hear the word "plantation" we immediately have a mental picture of the plantation life of the Southern states, with its black slaves, the hum of contented life, the stately old "Marster," and all that sort of thing.

But life on a rubber plantation is different from that of the cotton or tobacco plantations, and is many times larger. The black slaves are the Javanese and the old "Marster" are the people of many nationalities who live on the plantation and oversee the work done by the Javanese.

On the island of Sumatra in the Dutch East Indies is the Goodyear rubber plantation. The original plantation covered 16,000 acres and recently a new plantation of 30,000 acres was opened up for rubber cultivation. Nearly all of the 16,000 acres is bearing and there is a large factory where the rubber is prepared for shipment.

Plantation Modernized

On the new plantation homes have been erected, hospitals built, roads built, rubber plants set out, Javanese laborers and overseers have moved into their homes and cultivation started.

According to Mrs. O. D. Hargis, of Lubbock, who has been on the island for several years with her husband who is one of the managing directors, life on the plantation is very interesting and pleasant.

They live in a town or settlement known as the Emplacement with other Americans on the island. Each nationality has its own social center, and each observes its own customs, as the Dutch government will not permit proselyting among the natives of the island.

The Americans, or the office force, have clubs and enjoy most of the sports that people who live in the United States enjoy. They have swimming, tennis and golf clubs and enjoy horseback riding in the hills. They have bridge parties, dinner parties and tea parties where both men and women attend.

Entertainments Held

Once a month special entertainments are brought to the island. Sometimes it is a great singer, or a noted violinist, a concert company or a moving picture.

The people go to the hills to escape the heat. Near a fresh-water lake the Goodyear company has built cabins for its American employes. There are two large hotels also and holidays are celebrated by dances and dinner parties.

Mrs. Hargis stated that the Americans went to their cabins in the hills to celebrate Christmas because it was cold and seemed more natural Christmas weather. "We go to our own cabins and have a regular Christmas dinner, with turkey and dressing and cranberry sauce," she declared. "Then perhaps we all gather at one of the hotels for a dance or some other type of celebration."

The lake is on a plateau which is 4700 feet in elevation and is fifty miles long, and there is an island in it which is 25 miles long. "There are places in the lake where they have never been able to reach the bottom" explained Mrs. Hargis. "It is a very beautiful place and we often take long horseback rides through the hills."

Roads Are Good

"Some people are of the opinion that we don't have cars," she continued. "But we all have a car and the roads are lovely. We can go any where we want to after a heavy tropical rain. In making the roads they use large boulders first, then a layer of small pebbles which are covered with asphalt and gravel. They have to be well built to stand up under the heavy tropical rains."

"They have fine hospitals there. There is one large central hospital and then there is a smaller one on each plantation or division to take care of the Javanese laborers. The hospitals are well equipped and have some of the finest doctors in the world. These doctors have studied and practiced in almost every country of Europe and are not missionaries as so many people think."

Besides the Americans there are the Dutch, Danes, Germans, Swedes, Australians and English. They are scattered in divisions. There are the manager, the sub-manager and field assistants, who do not work in the fields but merely oversee the Javanese laborers. The Javanese do the weed ing and tapping of the rubber plants.

Manager Substantial People

The managers, or planters, as they are known, are the substantial people of the island. They do not work but oversee all work done on the plantation.

Each nationality observes its own customs and religions. The Javanese are Mohammedans and the Dutch government will not allow missionaries to go to the island for the purpose of converting them. They may establish hospitals or schools but they must not try to change the religious customs or beliefs. If the natives are voluntary converts it is all right but the government will not tolerate coercion.

"The hadji or priest controls the marriages and divorces of the Javanese. A man can get a divorce but a woman never. A woman has to stand beatings and cruel treatment from her husband, but if a man wants a divorce he just goes to the hadji and gets a note saying he wishes to divorce his wife. He gives this note to his wife and after she has had it in her possession for forty days they are considered divorced. If the man wants to marry again he goes to the hadji and he marries him again. A married woman has no freedom whatever but an unmarried woman has every priviledge and freedom," Mrs. Hargis explained.

The onlyChristianized native tribe are the hill people, who are the real natives of the island. The Javanese have merely been brought in to cultivate the rubber or have migrated there.

Natives Are Lazy

"The natives do not make good laborers because they are too indolent," Mrs. Hargis stated. "They are known as the Bataks and were Christianized about fifty years ago by the Germans. There are not many of them left now and they have been pushed back farther and farther into the hills."

There are no schools on the plantation for the children of the overseers. After they are about ten years old they are sent back to the native country for their educations. "There are very few children on the island," asserted Mrs. Hargis.

According to Mrs. Hargis the island of Sumatra is just about as far on the other side of the world from here as one can go and not have to start back in the other direction. There are two smoking volcanoes on the island. These volcanoes have been active for years and it is not unlikely that someday one or both will stage an eruption somewhat like that of Vesuvius.

It takes six weeks of actual travel in either direction to reach the United States from Sumatra but including the side trips they made it took two months and one week to reach Lubbock, Mr. and Mrs. Hargis came by way of Ceylon, the island of Precious Stones; Cairo, Egypt where they saw the pyramids; Alexandria; Naples; Rome; Milan; Switzerland; Frankfort on the Maine and Cologne in Germany; and Amsterdam, Rotterdam and The Hague in Holland.

"It was a wonderful and interesting trip,' Mrs. Hargis declared.

Malt Sales In Lubbock Territory Can Supply Each Person In City With Four Bottles of Beer Weekly, Survey Shows

Four bottles of beer each week for a solid year for every man, woman, and child in Lubbock!

These are the astounding statistics compiled after much research work done on the subject of malt sale in the Lubbock territory, and these figures are conservative!

Had the reporter been able to get answer on all of the questions that were asked, the figures would probably be larger, but due to the fact that some of the parties who were interviewed were rather reluctant to talk, an estimate had to be used. In every instance of this sort, the estimate was known to be lower than the actual figures would have been.

Four Give Figures

Out of the seven wholesale grocery firms that were seen, four of them gave actual figures on the amount of malt extract sold during a year's time; two of them refused to give out any figures, and one did not handle the goods.

Totaling the sales of the various distributors, where eight different brands of malt were handled, over 5,000 cases of the extract were sold last year.

There are twelve three-pound cans in each case, and according to "people who should know" a mean average for one three-pound can of malt would be seven gallons of brew. Some said they never made more than five gallons, some said they always made seven gallons per can, and others said that they never got less than ten gallons out of each can of malt used.

Four dealers in malt extract said about three percent of the malt sold was used for other purposes than brewing, such as making bread, pies, etc., but to give a reasonable estimate, we have based our figures on a five percent usage elsewhere instead of the three.

Instead of a possible ninety bottles that might be obtained from seven gallons of brew, we have figured on an average of eighty bottles for that amount, for there are 112 half-pints in seven gallons, and the average beer bottle holds between ten and twelve ounces of fluid. There are sixteen ounces in a pint.

Therefore, if all of the malt were used to make home brew, it would be possible to get 4,830,000 bottles out of the extract sold here during a year.

Plenty Of Beer

Allowing five percent of this to be used for other purposes, we have to subtract 241,000 bottles from the above figure, and get for a grand total 4,588,500 bottles.

After estimating Lubbock's population at 22,000 persons, we divide the 4,588,500 by 22,000 and find that each man, woman, and child in the city would get as his or her share of 208 1-2 bottles each year, or four bottles each week for a straight year.

Astounding, isn't it?

INTEREST EXPECTED

TEXARKANA, June 29. (AP)—Federal and Arkansas officers engaged in cattle dipping operations in this section are expected to show keen interest in the preliminary trial of L. K. Person, plantation owner and politician, charged with the slaying of a dipping officer, L. H. Simmons.

G. G. Douthit has returned to his home in Baileyboro, following his discharge Saturday from the Lubbock sanitarium.

Tahoka Experiencing Unprecedented Era Of Building

Thirty New Residences Are Built In First Six Months Of 1929; Business Houses Improved, Town Prosperous

Building Permits Indicate Greater Total For Year Than In History Of City; Is $211,286 Now

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

TAHOKA, June 29.—Building and improvements for the first six months of 1929 have reached a total of $211,286, setting a record for this town over any like period in its history and almost equaling the total amount of building for the entire year of 1928. Nearly half of this sum has been expended on thirty new residences, erected at an average cost of $3,125. Tahoka, which has boasted of the fact that it has always had a steady growth but never a boom, is forging to the front as a city of modern, beautiful homes and business buildings and clean streets and as one of the prettiest towns in West Texas.

Diversification Aids

The town's steady growth continues in spite of the fact that last fall's cotton crop was below the average for the past six years, and shows, to an extent, that the cow, sow and hen are doing for the Souht Plains. A large feed crop last fall, more and better dairy cows, bred-to-lay chickens, turkeys, hogs, and other livestock, bigger and better gardens, orchards, vineyards, and berry patches, are putting money into the pockets of the farmers, making necessary more business buildings, and making possible more and better homes both on the farms and in the towns.

In addition to the growth that Tahoka has been enjoying, O'Donnell and Wilson, also in Lynn county, have reported like growths. More new farm homes have been built in the past year than during any like period in the country's history. Practically all of them of a substantial, modern type. Several rural stores have been built and improvements have been made to many rural schools. Eighty per cent of the twenty-four school districts now have modern brick buildings.

Business Buildings Built

Since January 1st, seven new business buildings have been erected in Tahoka, including one now under construction on the west side of the square by B. H. Robinson for a modern grocery store. G. E. Jones, Abilene, chain dry goods store owner, has just completed a 25x80 modern brick on the same side of the square. The West Texas Gas company is just completing a $7,000 office and display building and a warehouse on Main street. This building is of Spanish architecture and is one of the most beautiful buildings in town.

W. L. Knight has just completed a new building on the same street for a filling station and a bakery. T. J. Bovell recently erected two new bricks on Sweet street, one of wh cihis occupied by his bakery and the other a produce company. All of these buildings are of modern design and all except one are occupied by newly established business firms.

Tourist Park Ready

Carlos Courts, tourists' apartments, to be completed this week, is sai dto be one of the finest tourists quarters anywhere in Texas. Carlos Courts was erected by Chas. F. Shook at a cost of $15,000. It consists of ten apartments of two rooms each has gas, lights, hot and cold water, hardwood floors, and is of Spanish architecture. The building is at the intersection of Highways No. 9 and No. 84, and is the third modern tourist camp for Tahoka.

Other additions to the business district of Tahoka include a $2,500 addition to the Hogan building, and addition to the Craft building, and repairs to the Welch and old Connolly buildings.

Announcements have been made, although the contracts have not been let, of at least $60,000 worth of new buildings in the business district, to be completed by early fall, among which is the new English Theatre which will have "talkie" equipment and will be one of the most modern on the Plains.

New Gins Planned

M. L. Handley has recently torn down one of his gins, replaced it with a modern one, and made repairs to his other plant, both of which improvements totaled $25,000. Edwards and Lockhart have announced that they wil lscon install a complete new gin plant.

The new sewer system and disposal plant costing $50,000.00 is now in operation. The new 52-standard white way street lighting system was turned on two weeks ago by the Texas Utilities company. Under a previous street lighting contract with the city, the whiteway system will cost the city very little more than the old system. Minor extensions to lines have also been made by this company and by the State Telephone company and the West Texas Gas company. The gas company is now laying a branch line from Tahoka to Brownfield, and it expects to have gas in the latter city not later than July 15.

Start Sidewalk Campaign

A sidewalk building campaign has been started by the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce preliminary to a link for free city mail delivery. Private property owners have laid approximately $1,000 worth of sidewalks this spring, raising he total length to approximately six miles. Tahoka has twenty blocks of brick-paved streets, being among the first seven towns in the Panhandle-Plains region to have paved streets, even in the business section. Houses have been numbered and streets name standards erected since the first of the year.

Residence builders lead in the total number of permits taken out, there having been thirty modern homes built here since January 1st at an average cost of $3,125.00 each. Practically all are of at least five rooms an dare of either brick or stucco. Those erecting residences are: John Donaldson, Mrs. Ollie Johnson, C. D. Crouch (2), W. S. Swan, Byron West, A. G. Freeman, Hubert Faulkner, Hub Moore, Geo. Hogan, jr., T. H. Henderson, W. E. Taylor, Hugh Johnson, W. K. Crume, L. C. Haney, Herman Turner, Mrs. M. I. Ray, Chas F. Shook (2), Thomas Bros., O. L. McMorse, D. N. Goodnough, R. W. Fenten, Jr., Miss Amanda Leedy, Mrs. J. H. Holloway, C. H. Crouch, J. H. Henderson, Forrest Lumber Co., E. M. Swan and Chas. Deo.

Scholastics Increase

Tahoka's growth is further shown by the recent scholastic census which shows the town to have 706 children of school age, an increase of 101 over last year's total. Six new business firms have opened here since the first of the year, and three more, including two chain grocery stores, will open at an early date. Utility companies report an increase of approximately 75 customers.

Crop prospects are excellent. With a good yield and a fair price for the farm products this fall, Lynn county and her towns will be rolling in prosperity.

Too Much "Math"

Professor Says Work Needless

By NEA Service

NEW YORK, June 29—Multiplication division, square root and all the intricacies of mathematics is a needless heavy subject in the schools, according to a survey taken at the Teachers' College of Columbia University.

"Arithmetic has been shown to be the chief source of non-promotion in the elementary grades," the report states. "It is too abstruse and is couched in language beyond the years, experience and comprehension of most pupils who are required to study it."

Dr. A. O. Bowden, education administrator, says: "Probably not more than one-third of all vocations require any mathematics beyond the four fundamental operations of arithmetic. Arithmetic should be taught but not all arithmetic, and we should transmit to the children of tomorrow only that which they are likely to need."

Floydada Lions Elect Officers

J. C. Gilliam Is Chosen To Head Luncheon Club For Year; W. L. Fry Is Tail Twister

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

FLOYDADA, June 29.—J. C. Gillian, manager of a local lumber yard, is the new president of the Floydada Lions club, having been elected to that position at the last meeting and the annual election of the club officers here. Gilliam has just completed a term as first vice-president of the organization and at the present time is also serving as the commander of the McDermitt Post, American Legion.

Lon M. Davis, manager of the Davis Gin and a wel lknown West Texas booster, was elected by the Lions to serve as first vice-president of the club. Other officers elected were, W. L. Fry, Tail Twister; J. G. Wood, secretary, G. B. Schmidt and W. M. Windsor, directors. Vice-presidents to be elected at the meeting were: E. P. Nelson and C. H. Davis. The new officers begin their term at once.

HARVEST UNDER WAY

Excellent Yield Of Wheat Made Near Littlefield

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

LITTLEFIELD, June 29.—Wheat harvest has begun in earnest in this section of the country, and is turning out an excellent yield of an extra good grade of wheat, having a large content of protein. Harold Goertz brought in the first wheat to be sold for the season on the local market. This particular tract, about four miles northwest from Litttlefield, is averaging 25 bushels to the acre, and weighed out 63 pounds per bushel.

HAVE FLORAL NOVELTY

DENTON, June 29 (AP).—A shrubby vine with delicately rose colored leaves from which spring tiny green blossoms is a floral novelty being grown at the Collebe of Industrial Arts here. It is the bougainvillea, or Japanese paper flower. Foxglove, maltese cross and Chinese forget-me-not are also being grown here for the first time.

CHANGES NAME

BEAUMONT, June 29 (AP).—William Zielinski's name caused him embarrassment and kept him from getting or holding a job, he told Judge George C. O'Brien in 58th district court here. His name was changed to William Hawley.

According to a wall tablet in Florence, Italy, spectacles were invented in the thirteenth century by an inhabitant of that city.

Book News Notes For This Week

GLORIFYING AVIATION

Anecdotes from the airports by a newspaper man who has reported most of the major aeronautical happenings of the last five years and a rosy picture of the future of flying are incorporated by Bruce Gould into "Skylarking" (Liveright).

Gould, himself a naval aviator the war, has attempted to persuade a still timorous public that flying is good fun rather than to trace the development of aviation or to set forth in technical terms the methods of sky travel.

He speaks, too, of the fictioners who have taken flying as their subject and holds that none of them yet in sight has put into prose a real first rate picture of flying or of flying men as a group. In other words, the Thomas Hardy or Joseph Conrad of the air has yet to make his appearance.

"The Story of Hassan," by John Anthony, is a book of India in which no shocked clamors are raised about morals and no ecstatic burblings raised about temples.

The concern of the writer is with Hassan, with his father, an amiable rogue; with his mother, a pleasantly scheming person, and with the people of the village who are uncomplaining victims of the wiles of Hassan's father and willing attendants upon the charm of Hassan's mother.

"The Pagan Interval" by Frances Winwar, is one of those idyllic novels with a great deal of reference to pagan gods and a great deal of mad behavior on the part of the people living where the gods lived.

The island of Ennoia in Italy finds a company of unusual people brought together while shepherds pipe the reeds of pan and the white moon conjures up a breeze afloat with romance.

A story of the Jack London-Rex Beach type is Barrett Willoughby's "The Trail Eater," unusual because a woman wrote it.

"In this novel of love and reckless adventure," writes Miss Willoughby, "I tell of the gold town Nome in the heyday of its glory and I tell of the Sweepstakes Trail and daredevil drivers who risked their lives on that 400 mile course that is the longest, most hazardous most cruel—and most fascinating—known to the world of sport." And in it the hero wins not only the all-Alaska sweepstakes, but the girl from the villian.

Miss Willoughby herself was born and reared in the far north.

Underpass Nears Completion; Will Be Open July 15

Five Month Project Which Will Cost $200,000, To Be Boom To Traffic Over Tracks At Broadway

After five months of rough detour that section of Broadway at the intersection of the Santa Fe tracks will again be open to traffic between the 10th and 15th of July, according to a statement yesterday by Homer Grant, of the Panhandle Construction company, concern doing the work.

With the opening of the underpass beneath the Santa Fe tracks, Lubbock motorists and pedestrians will have a straight path from east to west that will be safe from crossing dangers. This safety has been assured through the expenditure of $230,000 by the city of Lubbock and the Santa Fe railroad jointly. While the amount spent is admittedly large, officials of both the city and railroad weighed in the balance the cost in the long run to life and limb before the project was started. Every investigation was made, points favoring the erection of the mamoth structure and others strongly opposed to it were considered. With these considerations came their decision, and as a result a smooth pass will soon enable motorists and pedestrians alike to pass under the tracks while at the same time several trains may roar above.

Worked For Two Months

The completion of this convenience and modern public safe-guard has not come easily. Five long months of unceasing labor on the part of a crew which ranged in numbers from 50 to 100 men daily, stubborn constructions met and passed, solid rock meeting the biting teeth of electric drills, 24,300 yards of rock and dirt had to be removed before the laying of the concrete pillars could be started.

As the pass now stands 4,000 yards of concrete were used, together with 50,000 pounds of steel. This includes only the underpass and not the heavy steel girders at the top of the structure put down by the railway company and also the steel rails.

The pass is 1,050 feet from its western entrance to its eastern entrance. The width inside from bank to bank is 40 feet with 4-foot walks on each side for pedestrians. There is 15 feet of clearance from the lowest point inside the pass to the roof of the structure.

An average weekly payroll of $3,250 has been maintained by the company since February.

Time limit for the finishing work to be done on the project was July 4. Officials stated that they would finish the work well within that time though they have an extra fifteen days for paving.

Lubbock Youth Is C. M. T. C. Editor

(Special To The Avalanche Journal)

FORT SAM HOUSTON, June 29—The students attending the ninth annual Citizens' Military Training Camp are being informed of their company news through the medium of "C. M. T. C. Sharpshooter", published daily by the students themselves, and distributed to all C. M. T. C. organizations. Hugh Russell, of Lubbock, Texas, Technological college student, has been elected editor-in-chief by the student editorial staff. He is being assisted by two student reporters from each company. It is planned to continue the paper as a monthly publication after the close of camp, arrangements having been made to get the paper edited in the 8th Corps Area C. M. T. C. office.

Eleven Pass Tests In Rescue Classes

Eleven water fans passed the tests at the Life Saving School conducted by the local chapter of Red Cross which closed Friday, according to K. N. Clapp, who supervised the examinations.

Those who passed the tests were: seniors—Charles Brock, Henrie Mast, Garland Mustel, Marvin Fann.

Juniors—George Burnett, M. K. Foster, Ralph Brock, and Evan Bacon.

Previous members who took a review test were Carl Thorp, Mary Frances Gale and Frank Eaton.

Carl Thorp, with a score of 93, was high scorer of the school.

No Decrease

Marriages Go On Here As Before

There has been no decrease in numoer of marriage licenses issued since the new law requiring filing of three-day notice of intention and a health certificate went into effect, according to records in the county clerk's office.

Ten licenses have been issued since the new law went into effect, June 13. Twelve notices of intention have been filed.

"We do not have reason to believe that a number of persons are going to New Mexico to obtain licenses," said Mrs. Walter Clark, deputy clerk; "although many predicted that West Texans would go into New Mexico for licenses to avoid requirements of the new law. We have had inquiries as to whether the same law prevails in New Mexico, but not from persons we knew were seeking marriage licenses."

No applicant for marriage license has failed to meet health requirements as yet in this county, it was announced.

"Sleeveless Errand" Is Puzzle After British Censors Become Enraged

JUST why the British censors became so enraged and apoplectic about "Sleeveless Errand," (William Morrow and Co.) is hard to figure after reading the book. To be sure, it is an unconventional story, and the characters get drunk, break commandments and tell all, in plain Anglo Saxon terms, but after all Iris March got by in "The Green Hat," and so did Brett in "The Sun Also Rises."

Vice is not glorified—far from it—it is made so sodden and so boring that virtue couldn't possibly be worse. And Bill, the only character in the book who wasn't a confessed decadent and sick of living anyhow, gets the moral lesson and decides to go back to his wife and be a better man and raise a family.

It strikes me that Norah C. James, while she made no attempt at a solution of the stupidity of life, did write a poignant, heart-breaking book. She follows somewhat the pattern of O'Neill in "Strange Interlude," in that she records the thoughts as well as the conversation of her characters, often with telling effect.

The book was banned and all the copies destroyed in England, though it was recommended by some of the leading British authors. America now will pass judgment.

Local Pastors Disagree Somewhat

But Four Out Of Five Think Lubbock Is Pretty Good In Church Attendance; Summer Patronage Shrinks

Just try to find a subject on which any four men from different walks of life will agree!

—Or any subject upon which four men who are competitors in the same line of work will have the same views. It's virtually impossible!

Not that ministers are actual competitors, but those who administer the gospel in churches of various denominations come into contact with people of such contrasting natures and individualities that their viewpoints vary in proportion with those who direct their efforts in entirely different channels.

At least they have different ideas about things.

It's Four to One

When asked if Lubbock could be classed as a church going city, figuring the percentage out on a basis of 22,000 population here, four local ministers agreed that it was;—one said that it wasn't.

An eighty per cent majority would carry practically any question, but here are the statistics compiled, so judge it for yourself:

The average attendance at the Sunday schools in the city is about fifty per cent of the number enrolled as church members in the respective places of worship.

The churches here have a combined seating capacity of approximately seven thousand, and though not every seat is occupied each Sunday, throughout the city there are about 5500 persons who are church goers with some regularity. This is about twenty-five per cent of the estimated 22,000 population.

Figures Vary

In estimating the year's average of attendance with clock-like regularity of the members of their churches, the average was given at twenty-five per cent; the highest at eighty-five.

The statements in regard to these questions, as given by various ministers, are as follows:

"My congregation has trebled in the past two-and-a-half years, and the financial values of the church have been quadrupled. My years average attendance of regular church goers is eighty-five per cent.

"I believe that Lubbock with the proper cooperation on the part of the church people has wonderful possibilities, and I like it better than any town of its size that I have ever lived in. It is a fine church-going city!"

One of the others who agreed said:

City Given Boost

"Lubbock compares much more favorably with the very best of church-going cities than any other town of its size that I have ever seen. There is better attendance all over West Texas than there is in most any other part of the state.

"Though this town isn't old enough to have many churches, the ones that we have are well attended indeed. On the basis of the population, I judge about twenty-five per cent of the number go to church with some regularity. This is rather a high average, and we should be proud of it."

The minister who disagreed with the opinion of the others said:

"Though Lubbock compares favorably, and perhaps above the average with other cities of its size in church attendance, when we figure on the basis of its population, I would not call it a good church-going city."

The last preacher interviewed made the statement:

"Lubbock undoubtedly has a better average than most towns of its size, and I like it and have faith in its every enterprise."

Improves Game

Science Is Aiding Golfers Now

LONDON, June 29.—Duffers who moan about the woeful condition of the greens and fairways should hearken back a few decades and then thank science for improving their game of golf.

For instance, green and fairway conditions have been improved considerably through the breeding of grasses. Grass that grows in clumps is unsuitable. Grasses with fine slender leaves are chosen for the greens and a type that creeps along the ground for the links. One of the best golfing grasses developed by science is "dog bent" grass, which is said to be worth more than its weight in gold.

A specialist in the line of grass study is Prof. Stapledon, a member of the Research Committee endowed by golf clubs. He has devoted years to studying and pedigreeing different strains of grass.

Further scientific improvement in the game of golf is the ball itself. One of the first golf balls was a covering of leather stuffed with feathers. Experiments have developed the modern gutta percha ball, product of the "taban" tree of Malaya.

Thirteen Boy Scouts were given promotions and awarded merit badges at a Court of Honor in Brownfield Friday night, when H. B. Yates, executive of the South Plains Area council, was chairman of the court.

Clyde Dallas and Frank Perkins were promoted to second class, and James Michie to first class.

OFFICES REMODELED

Chamber Of Commerce Being Segrated In Units

Chamber of Commerce offices located in the city hall, are being remodeled so that each department may be segregated into an office.

The office of the Retail Merchants association will be moved into one of the new office spaces, and the room heretofore occupied by the association will be utilized as a storage room.

ADD MORE SERVICE

N. A. T. To Double Air Mail From Texas Points

CHICAGO, June 29 (Special)—An important addition to the air mail and air express system of the United States will be inaugurated Monday, July 1, when National Air Transport extends the present daytime service between Chicago and Kansas City to Tulsa, Fort Worth and Dallas, a distance of 504 miles. This will double the air mail service to and from the Texas cities, which are already served by the N. A. T. night line from Kansas City through Wichita, Ponca City and Oklahoma City.

Why

Keep a checking account? Here's why. One: you'll find it convenient and safe to carry a small check book rather than currency. Two: your check stubs are a simple, effective book-keeping system in miniature. Three: a cancelled check provides an unquestionable receipt for the disbursement.

Buyers' Are Plentiful But Cash Isn't Always Available, Local Realtors Say

D YOU ever see a six legged mule? Or a bobbed-haired preacher?

If so, perhaps you have seen a prospective real estate purchaser with cash.

The opinion of the local land men, "there ain't no such," except well, there's always an exception to the rule.

Summer is the time of year when folks like to go riding without worrying for the gasoline. And that's the real estate agent's cue.

Mr. Jones and his family come rolling into the city-they-have-heard-of and would like to know if Lubbock is living up to its recommendations, so they park the lizzie in the shade and call on the land agent with the largest car.

"Yes" is Popular Answer

They must have an excuse, so they answer "yes" to all the questions, letting the firm impression that they have houses and lots and cash and everything else down east to trade for whatever this town has to offer. Moreover, they are ready to buy now.

When they have the ride, they learn all that there is to know of the city, and even imbibe freely of the cold drinks offered by the agent, they thank him profusely, promise to talk the matter over in solemn family conclave, they shake hands all round and leave with the old bromide about "see you tomorrow."

These "manana" people are the bane of the agent's existence, according to several interviewed last week. They never return.

It is a real estate agent's business to read character and between the lines of any conversation, but human nature isn't that transparent, so the average agent casts about ten times for a nibble.

One for the Book

"Why just the other day," one representative of a company here introduced his reminiscences, "a woman who has lived here a number of years and is well known to many of the people, called me up.

"She said she wanted a house between Broadway and 19th street and between Avenue Q and College, the choicest part of town, and that she wanted a nice home.

"Well, I went out and got her and took her around all afternoon, showing her places. I asked a lot of questions but could learn little from her.

"The inspection tour continued, but I finally got through and brought her back to town. Then I got more specific and told her if she would let me know the type of house she wanted and how much she wanted to invest and how much she would be willing to pay eventually, I could help her a lot more.

"And what she said nearly knocked me out of the car!

"She wanted to pay $45 down and $45 per month."

He offered Thanks

There was another day and a large house, located on Main street, was on the market. Callers came and went but finally a man came to see the house.

His inspection was thorough. He asked questions. His tour of parts of the house was repeated several times. He looked good for a buy.

Finally he was ready to leave and it was then that the blow came. As he shook hands with the owner, he supplemented his usual thanks with "It was good of you to show me around. I am expecting to build and I wanted to see how this house is arranged."

Another would-be purchaser led a broker over town all one day, viewing fine residences and in the end it was discovered that the man expected to make a down payment of only $200.

Schemes Resorted To

Then, there are little schemes which one may work with probable success. One agent tells of a man and his wife who blew into his office one day. They looked prosperous enough and through quizzing it was learned that they wished to buy a home in Lubbock as they were moving here.

They emphasized the fact that they were ready to buy immediately if they could find what they wanted.

A house was found and the woman announced almost immediately that the place suited her perfectly and that she was ready to buy.

But her husband was not satisfied. Nothing about the house was to his fancy. So another place was found. The man was satisfied this time but the woman could find nothing which pleased her.

While they were continuing their search they chanced upon some men who knew the customers. These men expressed surprise that the couple were looking at houses and then the truth came out.

"We aren't expecting to buy here," the man explained, "but we had heard of the town and wanted to look it over and find out about values of property here, so we were just looking around."

Women Like to Shop

It takes a woman to shop, according to dealers in real property. A man looks for something specific and when he finds what he wants, he is more easily sold than a woman.

A purchaser is easily sold, usually, as he is definite about his demands, but there are enough shoppers who buy to make it worth while to shop with them.

"If a man comes in here and tells me frankly that he is not in the market for land but that he does wish to know the values of property here and wants to talk with me, I usually ask to drive him over the city and show him the points of interest," one veteran land agent said. "It is a pleasure to know such men and I am glad to take them about, but I do like for them to be frank."

City Realtors Lucky

Dealers in city property don't have the grief of those who handle farm lands. These latter haul people all over West Texas who do not expect to buy a foot of land.

But that's a part of the business, so they are philosophical about it all.

Probably 98 per cent of the property here is burdened with some debt, according to estimates of some of the agents, and approximately 60 per cent of the real estate is covered with loans amounting to as much as the actual value of the property.

"When a man comes in here to list property for sale and tells me that it is entirely clear of debt, I feel like hugging him," one agent exclaimed.

And it might be worth it, at that.

City Of Lubbock Relies Upon Fine System Of Records To Show Profit Or Loss In Operations Each Month

Close Check Is Kept Every Month By Business Heads Of Municipal Government In Hub Of Plains

By CHARLES C. WATSON, JR.
Avalanche-Journal Staff

FEW people, without doubt, have ever stopped to consider the problem that faces a city of 22,000 population in the cost of maintenance, keeping every organ of that city running smoothly, police protection, lights, water, legislative, legal, fire, street, and all of the departments that go to make up a modern American city the size of Lubbock.

Each month a recapitulation sheet is made up in the office of the city secretary, showing to a fraction of a cent just where the money goes that has been spent by the various sections of the city and also showing the revenue that is obtained through different departments such as police, tax collector, engineering, building, etc.

Figures Are Given

Figures, as shown by statements from city secretary, W. H. Rodgers' office, show that it cost the city just $28,551.93 to operate through that month while total revenue overbalanced this figure to a credit or surplus of $2,274.90, making a total revenue of $30,826.83.

The city of Lubbock owns its own light department and during the month of March the total expense of maintenance, operation, distribution and commercial was $12,211.93. Place against this the total revenue gained of $15,255.79 and a net revenue is realized of $3,043.86. Lubbock is said to have one of the lowest light rates of any city in Texas, this is enabled through the fact that production costs are held down to a decided minimum.

Water Profits Up

Total revenue gained through the distribution of water by this department was $11,695.27, while the cost as figured for operation was $6,388.55, leaving a net revenue of $5,306.72, placing the department as the most profitable of the month.

The legislative department made up of salaries to the mayor and commissioners, other incidentals cost the city $901.32, the managers' office $308.44, secretary-treasurer's office $601.49. None of these offices were a source of revenue.

The tax collector and assessors realize a revenue of $1,165.77 from small taxes that are not included on the tax rolls while their total operation expense was only $446.40. The legal department gained no revenue though its cost to the city ran to $208.80.

Building Permits Help

The city engineering department turned in an expense record of $627.32 and a report of revenue to $166.25. The building department more than balanced with revenue its expense. Revenue from building permits, gas permits, etc., was $1,134.50 while the operating cost of the department was barely half that much —$424.72.

Corporation court had no revenue but an expense of $135. The police department showed a revenue of $1,159.25 and a cost of operation of $1,667.51. Expense of fire protection for the month totaled $1,783.45.

Other departments included: Health department, expense $540, revenue received $215; street department, cost $756.63; street cleaning department, cost $264.90; garbage removal department, cost $385.05; garbage disposal department, no expense with a revenue of $35; sanitary sewer department, cost $49.77; sewage disposal department, cost $385.55; parks, cost of maintenance $486.13; warehouse, cost $208.33; city hall, cost $365.20; fire hydrants and street lights, cost $2,182.56.

The city fully pays for itself through the revenue taken in by the various departments, as is shown by the surplus recorded.

Pastors Explain Summer Lethargy

Ministers Of Lubbock All Move To Bolster Dwindling Crowds When Thermometer's Ascent Holds Sway

When the bright red fluid in the thermometer threatens to hit the hundred- mark before high-noon and rolls around, and the drowsy silence of a sleepy summer Sunday roars in your ears like the monotonous drone of an airplane motor, it realy takes will power to don your "go-to-meeting" clothes and attend church!

But after we shake off the spell of Morpheus, begin to dress to the accompaniment of tenor yawns, and view the lazy world with dreamy eyes, there are very few urges that can begin to compete with cosmic urge to "return to nature."

Many Really Worry

Though there is a struggle within the mind of the average person as to the type of diversion to choose on that particular day, it very seldom gives him little to worry about. Did you ever stop to think, though, that there is a certain class of men to whom this subject gives real food for thought—genuine cause for worry?

Ministers comprise this class, and they give it their undivided consideration. It furnishes a real problem to them!

Of all the ministers who were interviewed on the subject of "Keeping Up Church Attendance," not one failed to cite the call of the great outdoors as one of their omnipotent competitors.

Each minister was asked the question: "What percentage of the winter attendance do you have during the summer months; is it because people are away, or because they use hot weather as the universal excuse?"

Summer Crowds Smaller

In answer to the first part of the question, all but one replied that they had between seventy-five and eighty per cent of the winter crowds in their summer services; and one said that he had approximately seventy-five per cent attendance.

The one preacher who had such high average for summer crowds, said that the five per cent were away because of the hot weather; the people who were out of town were usually replaced by visitors. Two of the others blamed the decrease on both the hot weather and the members leaving town, while a fourth one said he believed it to be solely the result of a call to the great outdoors.

Inspired By Audiences

When asked if they could deliver more personal and heart-to-heart sermon when preaching to smaller summer audiences, they all replied in the negative, and said they always were inspired to a greater degree by a large audience. They could notice no difference in the actual results between the sermons preached in the summer and those preached in the winter.

The last question asked these ministers in the interview was: "What methods do you resort to in order to get bigger crowds out during the summer months? Is it an appeal to the conscience, to reason, or to comfort?"

The first one replied:

"I find that summer congregations are attracted by the unusual and out-of-the-ordinary. An appeal to one's desire for something new and different will draw better crowds."

Another said:

"If we can convince people that our churches are cooler, it helps materially. I have had churches that were cooler than nineteen-twenties of the homes.

Appeals to Conscience

"My appeal is mostly to the conscience, and I find that questions touching worldiness and things they are interested in attract more than sermons on doctrines and phases of the history of the church."

A third minister answered:

"An appeal to loyalty and brief pointed services seem to keep my crowds about the same throughout the year."

The last one interviewed said:

"If we can furnish a cool church, have better music and shorter sermons, the people will do their part.

"My appeal is through the normal development of chuch life; we never practice sensationalism. Jesus gathered just a few together in little groups and did some of His greatest work; there is no reason why the work shouldn't go on just as well in the summer when we have to preach to smaller crowds."

Finances Lower, Too

Every preacher agreed that they had bigger crowds at the mid-day services than they did at night, and said that finances were considerably lower in the summer than in the winter.

T. Duggan Heads Development Firm Busy In Lubbock

South Plains Investment Co. Names Enoch, Grant And Wilson In Other Offices; Personnel Announced

UNITING into an organization which proposes to aid in phenomenal fashion in the development of Lubbock, nine Lubbock business men, representing a combine with potential power to assemble $1,000,000 or more for projects, have pooled interests into the South Plains Investment company, Inc., it was made public yesterday.

Officers of the corporation are T. B. Duggan, president; I. C. Enoch, vice president; Homer D. Grant, secretary, and Roscoe Wilson, treasurer. John Dalrymple, D. N. Leaverton, R. D. Moxley, O. L. Lykes and W. B. Price are members of the combine.

The organization is now financing the erection of a $75,000 storage building for the new Hilton Hotel, Texas Avenue and Tenth street, a $6,000 structure, financed by the company, has recently been completed at the intersection of Texas Avenue and Ninth street, and numerous lots have been purchased within the mercantile district for future building possibilities.

Own Many Lots

Among the lots owned by the company are two on West Broadway, near the Southwestern Bell Telephone company. Although not owned by the corporation, ten lots, bordered by Thirteenth street and Avenue J, are property of the men composing membership in the company.

"We do not propose to operate anywhere but Lubbock," said Mr. Duggan. "Every investment will be made in this city, and developments will be made as conditions justify. At present we do not have any immediate major projects planned.

"The plan of banding together into such an organization was conceived for the purpose of pushing to completion any building needs of the business district. Our movement in this measure is a direct expression of our faith in Lubbock, and every person in the organization is a resident of this city."

The written history of China goes back 4,000 years, or nearly twice as long as that of Europe.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

On Wednesday at the home of Mrs. F. W. Struve a party was given in honor of Mrs. Struve's niece Hilda Marie Palmer of Plainview, who celebrated her 11th birthday. A lovely dinner was served to the honored guest and Gertrude, Billie Mae, Wilma and Helen Richter. Those calling in the afternoon were Mesdames H. E. and W. A. Richter. At a late hour lovely refreshments of lemonade, cookies and cake were served.

CHEESE FACTORY IS SUCCESS

The Cheese Factory which was opened for business a month ago is proving a successful venture for the operators. About 15,000 pounds of cheese has been made. This plant belongs to F. W. and B. F. Struve. A number of the farmers of this territory are finding it profitable to sell their whole milk and there seems to be little doubt but what the factory will continue to operate as a benefit to local farmers.

HOUSE BURNS

The small house belonging to J. F. McMaster and occupied by C. J. Chapman was destroyed by fire this week. About three o'clock in the morning the fire was discovered by T. J. Struve, a neighbor, who alarmed the neighbors and rushed to the building, where Mr. Chapman was sleeping, he was awakened and draged from the building. The building and household furnishings were a total loss, partly covered by insurance.

PRODUCE HOUSE CHANGES HANDS

The produce business owned and operated by F. F. Risinger was sold this week to D. L. Williams, local grocerman. Mr. Williams is moving his grocery stock from his former location to an adjoining room in the same building with the produce business, where he will continue to operate both businesses. Mr. Risinger has not decided on his plans for the future.

W. A. Richter and father, H. Richter returned this week from Burnett county where they visited for several days. They were accompanied home by Mrs. W. A. Richter and two daughters who had been visiting for the past month in Austin, Georgetown and Marble Falls.

BUSY BEE NEEDLE CLUB

Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Harrell of Roswell, New Mexico, were here this week as guests in the home of her brother, R. E. Risinger. From here Mr. and Mrs. Harrell accompanied by R. E. Risinger, went to Sonora, Texas, to attend a family reunion of the Risinger family.

Mr. J. O. Jones of Friona, Texas, is here on business and visiting his daughter, Mrs. Ebb Coffman. He reports wheat in good condition in Friona territory.

Mr. and Mrs. U. L. Morland have ha das their guest this week Mr. Moreland's grandfather of Hollis, Okla.

Mrs. Sykes, who before her marriage was Miss Marie Arnold, of Muleshoe, was here this week visiting relatives.

LOCAL PEOPLE MOVE

Mr. and Mrs. Troy Stambaugh who have been living in the house belonging to Mrs. Mamie St. Clair, moved Friday morning to the house belonging to the Higginbotham-Bartlett Lumber Co. The St. Clair house will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Bob Littleton, formerly of Abernathy, but who have been living in Lubbock since the first of the year.

LOCAL MASONS ELECT

The annual election of the officers of the Masonic Lodge was held at a meeting of the body. The following officers were elected: Trow D. Stambaugh, worshipful master; Lewis Stambaugh, senior warden; H. E. Richter, junior warden; W. A. McKenzie, senior deacon; H. O. Pettit, junior deacon; Joe. M. Ramsey, secretary; Andrew Reir, treasurer; J. C. King, tiler. W. A. Richter and R. S. Karnes were appointed senior and junior stewards respectively. Installation of the new officers will be held at the next regular meeting.

One of the most attractive events of the social season was the shower given at the home of Mrs. Welcome Ragland on Wednesday afternoon in honor of Miss Edna Maupin, the bride to be. Members of Miss Maupin's graduation class and Mrs. A. B. Reid assisted Mrs. Ragland in making arrangements for the event and in serving the refreshments.

The guests arrived at the home of Mrs. Ragland about four and were invited into the dining room where punch was served and about four thirty the bride-to-be arrived accompanied by her mother.

A package containing gifts for the bride-to-be was presented.

W.T.C.C. Plans To Aid Wheat Farmer In Car Problem

Efforts Being Made To Care For Possible Shortages Of Cars In Panhandle-Plains Area

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

STAMFORD, June 29.—If the farmers of the Penhandle do not have sufficient means of conveying their wheat crop to the market it will not be the fault of the officials of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

J. E. Biggs, field representative of the organization with headquarters at Amarillo has sent U. S. Pawkett, traffic manager, with headquarters at San Antonio, detailed information as to the wheat prospects of a number of towns in the Panhandle. Pawkett is turning the information over to the railroad authorities. Information as to places where the wheat crop had been injured by wind, hail or lack of rain was given and taken into consideration in advising the number of cars needed to move the crop.

Towns Need Cars

Six towns will need 1000 cars or more, including Tulia, Panhandle, Pampa, Spearman, and Perryton. Dimmitt, Hart, Hereford, Vega, Claude, Groom, Whitedeer, Stratford, and Farnsworth will need cars ranging in number from 500 to 1000, the average being 500.

Towns whose grain crop will justify sending more than 100 cars, but less than 500 cars to the vicinity are Canyon, Adrin, Wilderado, Conway, St. Francis, Gruever, Hitchland, Norse, Booker, Darouzette, Higgins, Canadian, Miami, Laketon, Hoover, and Lee.

Six thousand locations in the Atlantic, Pacific, and Indian oceans have been measured and found to be more than 6,000 feet deep.

STILL FAVORING PAVED HIGHWAYS

STATE designation on the eastern outlet of Highway 53, leading from Lubbock to Idalou, has been changed again.

The State Highway commission, in a meeting in Austin last Wednesday, decreed, official records show, that instead of leaving Lubbock by way of North Avenue H, Highway 53, proceeding eastward, will be run along East Broadway. Thus another chapter in the local highway war has been written.

About three or four years ago the State Highway commission changed Highway 53's designation from the Broadway route to the Avenue H route. Great was the hue and cry which followed and, for a time, it appeared that a serious breach would result between opposing factions favoring the respective routes. The flames thus aroused, however, were subsided to a smouldering and, until several weeks ago when the Highway commission rescinded the Avenue H routing but did not announce the new designation, most of the people had forgotten all about it.

Recent re-designation to Broadway, however, has opened the question once again for public discussion and doubtless, there will be continued jockeying in the matter, although there is not a man among us who is qualified to prophecy just how and when the differences will be ended.

Suffice to say, proponents of Broadway claim that the Broadway designation will continue as official from now on. However, when Avenue H's route was officially announced, proponents of that route were just as certain that their victory was final and it is probable that much water will run under the bridge before the rank and file of us will know just who won and why.

The Broadway-Avenue H fight is, and has been, important to the rank and file of the citizens of Lubbock county mainly because of its affect upon county paved road projects. The factional war waged about the two thoroughfares is credited with considerable weight in the defeat of two paving bond elections and doubtless was one of the principal points considered in the balloting for or against issuance of paving bonds. Aside from this feature—which affects the entire county—the Avalanche-Journal is frank to say that it doesn't believe the average citizen of Lubbock county cares one whit which way he rides to Idalou.

This publication has favored and continues to favor a paving campaign for Lubbock county. Regardless of the designation of Highway 53, paved roads are essential to the continued progress and prosperity of Lubbock county. When the Avenue H designation was announced as final, The Daily Journal said, in substance, "All right. The question is decided. Let's accept it and go on with our paved road plans." Now that the same situation, save with reverse english, holds, The Avalanche-Journal continues its policy of representing what it believes to be the views of the great majority of the citizenship.

As far as this newspaper is concerned, it favors paved roads for Lubbock county, regardless of outlets. It favors paved roads which will benefit the county as a whole and as nearly agreeable to the population as a whole as humanly possible to arrange. It believes, and in so believing feels that the rank and file of Lubbock county citizens agree, that the thus far endless jockeying on Highway 53's routing has been a stumbling block in the way of paved highways and will continue to act as such until finally dropped.

Let's quit this bickering and forget about angles of the question which affect the few and have little interest to the many, and proceed upon the big project—that of paving the principal highways of Lubbock county.

HOOVER AND MacDONALD

Already, say news dispatches from Great Britain commenting on Ramsay MacDonald's projected trip to America, there is better feeling between the two countries. Word has gone to England that the new prime minister will be heartily welcome in America. The British press, reflecting popular sentiment, believes the conferences planned will lead to a better understanding.

This is the natural reaction of two peoples who desire to be friendly, but are made miutually suspicious and somewhat irritable by day-to-day pinpricks. There comes a courteous and conciliatory gesture by on high in authority, and immediately there is a generous response from the tens of millions of well-intentioned citizens.

An incident something similar is as old as Homer. Diomed, the Greek, encountered Glaucus, the Trojan, on the field of Troy. Each was ready to slay the other, but each wished to learn the identity of the other, for if the victor could boast that his victim was a mighty chief, the greater would be his glory. They discovered that their grandfathers had exchanged hospitality, and Diomed said:

"Welcome, my brave hereditary guest!
Thus ever let us meet with kind embrace,
Nor stain the sacred friendship of our race!"

Whereupon they exchanged arms in token of brotherhood. Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Hoover will exchange arms, but they may go a long way toward reducing armaments. At any rate there has been a mutual gesture which, for what it may lead to, is interpreted as meaning a great deal for the future peace and prosperity of the world.

On the Firing Line at the Nation's Capital

NEW G. O. P. LEADER IN SENATE HAS HANDS FULL THESE DAYS
BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, gets no vacation this year.

Next after Chairman Reed Smoot, of Utah, Senator Watson is the highest-up member of the senate finance committee, which is busy putting the finishing touches on the tariff bill—the one passed in its crude form by the house of representatives a few weeks ago, and then handed over to the senate expert to put the polish on.

In fact, when the extra session recessed the other day, and the rest of the senators and all the representatives beat it for the seashore or the mountains, it was with the understanding that the tariff specialists were to stay here and swelter, tinkering with that bill.

It is especially hard on Senator Watson because his job had been a gruelling one already, during the first leg of the extra session, as the G. O. P.'s new senate leader.

There are peculiar reasons why it has been an unusually difficult job, too—with Herbert Hoover in the White House.

At the last regular session, when Senator Charles Curtis (since retired into the vice presidency) held the G. O. P. leadership, the "organization" and President Coolidge got on together pretty well. True, the organization never had counted Mr. Coolidge as one of its one. Still, he was a practical politician and unquestionably a republican. He and the organization spoke the same language, at least.

Senator Watson and President Hoover have trouble even understanding each other—politically.

Senator Watson is a "party man." He is for the G. O. P. ahead of any individual, including himself, the president—anybody.

There is no doubt that he suspects Mr. Hoover of holding himself above the party—outside of it, indeed, unless it agrees with him. In short, he is skeptical of Mr. Hoover's 100 per cent Republicanism.

Before the Kansas City convention he said so. Now he has to keep quiet about it, but it is evident that he is as skeptical as ever he was.

Politically speaking, the ideal thing for a party organization is to pick its presidential candidate out of its own ranks, put him in the White House, and run the whole government—executive, legislative and, as far as possible, the judicial branch, too—as one single system, all operated from the same central plant.

This by no means was provided for at Kansas City.

The organization had to accept Mr. Hoover because of circumstances entirely beyond its control. It supported him throughout the campaign because it preferred that to having the opposition party win, but it was afraid of him all the time.

Its worst fears have been realized. It does not like President Hoover's appointments, or his policies or hardly anything he does.

The organization's antagonism to Mr. Hoover is more obvious in the senate than in the house of representatives. The representatives are against him on some questions; not on all. The senate is against him both ways from the middle.

For instance, the representatives gave him the kind of farm bill he asked for, but are trying to stick him with a much higher, wider tariff than he wants.

The senate has voted against him on both propositions.

Its majorities had to flop back and forth in order to do it, but that is just what they did do.

The senators had a radical spell when he was advocating conservative action on the farm debenture issue. They turned very conservative when he took a progressive position on the tariff.

COMMON IDEA THAT FAT MAKES GENIAL PEOPLE SHOULD BE QUALIFIED

Finds Reducing Number

Do you remember Mrs. W., who weighed 255, lost 91 pounds in eight months, and was restored to normal health? She was but 29 and at 25 her menses had ceased, and she was thought to have a premature menopause. But after losing 38 pounds, she became normal, after four years suppression. She wanted to continue to lose at the rate of 1 1-2 pounds a week, until she got down to normal weight (134), and asked me how many calories she would have to use daily. I told her she would have to determine that by herself by keeping track of her calories for three or four weeks and then averaging her calories and her loss.

Here are some exoerpts from her second letter, which came today:

"Dear Doctor: Before I got your answer, I had already found out for myself how many calories I needed to reduce 1 1-2 pounds a week. I increased to 1,400, but found I lost 2 1-2 to 3 pounds a week on that, so I increased them to 1,700 and found I would lose 1 1-2 to 2 pounds, which is what I want. I have already lost 12 pounds more, so my total loss now is 103 pounds. When I began to count my calories, I found that the things that had been running them up (and therefore my weight) were candy, pastry and starchy foods, and since I have reduced so much I dont crave these any more. I can have candy around without touching it, and furthermore, if I feel I do want some, Im able to take some without gorging!

"I found it helpful to have a household scale and measuring spoons, and so I took no chances of getting too much of anything.

I took your advice and saw my physician, and he says what I've accomplished is wonderful, and I am in perfect physical condition. No one knows how happy I am. My periods still come regularly, and I can work like a trooper and half the time cant find enough to keep me busy. Before, I could never get done, and was always cranky. My husband says I lost my mean disposition with my weight, and that I look like a chicken! This, of course, gives me a smile.

I hope what I have done will encourage some others, and I am eternally grateful to you, Dr. Peters, for pointing the way. MRS. W."

You certainly will encourage others, Mrs. W. A weight reduction of 103 pounds is some feat, and I rejoice with you for the benefits you have received.

It is a common idea that fat persons are good-natured because they are fat. Theres no truth in it! There may be a partial truth in the reverse: that is, good-natured persons are fat. But I will have to qualify that. Good-natured persons who overeat will get fat more easily, for they do not fret and fume over trifles, and therefore their digestions are better. But getting fat certainly doesn't add to the good nature! No, indeed; just the reverse, as you have demonstrated, Mrs. W.

Overweighters are not only handicapped physically, but mentally. They are continuously aware that they are advertising that they overeat. (While they may not be gluttonous, they are under suspicion, for they certainly must eat more than they need, else there would be none left over to store as fat). This engenders an inferiority complex, and they are very apt to be touchy and sensitive.

Irregular menstruation, or its entire suppression, may accompany overweight in women, and overweight is frequently the cause of sterility in both man and woman.

Thank you very much for writing again, Mrs. W. Measuring foods is an excellent idea, especially measuring cream, butter, sweets and nuts!

Fleet Car Sales Are Major Factor

Whirling off the swift miles over the vast network of American highways, fleets of cars and truck operated by merchants and manufacturers are becoming a major factor in the solution of distribution and sales problems.

That alert business executives are realizing the importance of motorized fleets is indicated by the constant sales of cars and truck to corporations representnig practically all lines of business. To properly meet the expansion in this market, the National Business Sales department of Chrysler Motors has been formed to adequately handle the demands for products of the Chrysler, Dodge Brothers, De Sota, Plymouth and Fargo division.

Appointment of J. H. Mack, formerly in charge of the National Business Sales department of Dodge Brothers, to head of the National Business department of Chrysler Motors, is indicative of plans to meet the increasing scope of this market. Additional representatives have been established in New York, Chicago, Kansas City and San Francisco. Other offices will be opened later.

Rickenbacker Goes To Fokker Co.

NEW YORK, June 29.—General Motors Corporation announced today the transfer of Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker, war time ace of aces, from the sales managership of the La Salle Division of Cadillac Motor Car company, to the vice-presidency of the Fokker Aircraft Corporation, in charge of sales.

It was announced on May 17 last by James A. Talbot, chairman of the board of the Fokker company, that General Motors had acquired a 40 per cent interest in Fokker. At that time it was stated that the present personnel would continue in operation, supplemented by additional personnel from General Motors.

Rickenbacker's return to aviation brings into the air industry one of the outstanding aviators whose fame during the period of America's participation in the war was world-wide.

On the Fence with The Seer

The Seer is not a connoisseur of manners becoming a Knight of the Old Order but sometimes, folks, through observation, I almost conclude that chivalry is pasing with many other things that were paramount in the yesteryears. Now days a man is so busy trying to make as much money as his neighbor that he puts courtesy and good manners on the shelf of neglect as a secondary duty. I think a man who practices courtesy in a sincere manner is rich within himself. The women of today are just as beautiful as they were in the days of the Bourbons, and I am sure just as deserving—it's up to us boys to revive this essential and dutiful practice. Tip that hat brother and smile—smile—smile.

The man who used to go out and kill a bear every morning before breakfast to whet up his appetite says he now eats two meals a day.

In the seventeenth century an Englishman by the name of Newton was struck on the head by a falling apple and he conceived the idea of gravity—and in this new born wisdom conceived the idea of a self-propelled vehicle. After fruitless efforts he abandone dthe scheme and his countryment credited the apple of striking him a harder blow that was at first recorded. For centuries scientists from all nations had contributed efforts along the line but it all ended in failure. In the last generation the automobile has been perfected and because of paramount importance in the bonds of an age that has mastered steel. The other day, the Seer in his rambles about the city, visited an auto salvage and wrecking plant and as he ambled down its avenues of discarded junk he could not refrain from becoming evolved in a series of thoughts connected with this gigantic pile of wood, copper and steel that has played such a major part in the lives of a fast-moving civilization. It represents the joys and sorrows of a yesterday—fascinated the Seer, lingered on and the ghost of some former pleasure seewed to rear its head about it all to remind me that it had not been for naught. Soon the sledge of destruction will erase it forever and memories will fade and disappear—only silence of oblivion will hold its many secrets.

Today's Poem

"LOVE, I MARVEL WHAT YOU ARE"

Love, I marvel what you are!
Heaven in a pearl of dew,
Lilies hearted with a star—
All are you.

Spring along your forehead shines
And the summer blooms your breast.
Graces of autumnal vines
Round you rest.

Birds about a limpid rose
Making song and light of wing
While the warm wind sunny blows,
So you sing.

Darling, if the little dust,
That I know is merely I,
Have availed to win your trust,
Let me die.
—Trumbull Stickney (1874-1904)

Tech Heads Praise Cotton Courses

Professor Camp, Harry Blocker Will Teach Practical Classes In Judging Fleecy Staple At College

SOMEONE has said that everyone should have a hobby.

Texas Tech has a hobby which has proven the truth of the statement by its extreme value—besides the big job of ushering one of Texas' largest bodies of college students along the path of learning, Tech's sideline is being useful to great numbers of West Texas people by extending special services of supreme value to those who are not actually enrolled as regular resident students.

Texas Technological college and its faculty are always on the lookout for some new way of being of greater service to the Plains people, and for that matter, many more people outside the Plains territory who are within the reach of these special servcies.

Offer Many Courses

Some of these services are: a great number of extension courses whereby non-residents may obtain full affiliated credit for correspondence work in many of the departments of the college, another is the great amount of help and co-operation afforded agricultural clubs on the Plains, and another is the milk testing-by-mail laboratory service being conducted through the department of agriculture and extending cow testing service to many farmers over the Plains. However, the service with which this article is chiefly concerned is the Summer Cotton school being conducted every summer under the direction of the department of textile engineering.

The school which is to be held for four weeks beginning July 15, is a service that is entirely practical to every farmer, prospective cotton buyer, merchant, and ginner. It is the wish of Prof. E. W. Camp, head of the department of textile engineering and director of the school, that all of these people who can should attend the school in order that they may more profitably carry on their business and to further organize them so that they can cooperate with each other fully in making a bigger and better cotton industory on the Plains.

No Entrance Requirements

There are no entrance requirements for the course except attendance and the fee for the entire four weeks of expert instruction is very small. The instructors will be Prof. Camp of the college, and H. E. Blocker, president of the Blocker Cotton company, of Lubbock. There are four weeks of instruction, five and one-half days each week, which will enable each student to class some 4,000 samples, and thus to satisfactorily and correctly class and grade cotton for well standardized buying and selling, and making the practical value of the course to every farmer, prospective cotton buyer, ginner and merchant who buys cotton, absolutely sure.

Course Is Broad

The course will cover grading white cottons; grading colored cottons; stapling cottons; marketing, covering street buying and selling, F. O. B. buying and selling, flat buying and selling, and the relation between interior buying and selling and export buyig and selling; cotton office practice, covering all basic principles of the book work, and clerical detail, such as the making of invoices, figuring grade and staple differences and the opening and closing of a set of books especially designed for the cotton business.

In connection with the course, Prof. Camp will demonstrate to the class the necessity of being able to staple cotton by showing members, with the aid of the textile engineering equipment, the difference in spinning value of long and short staple cotton. "It is necessary that the buyer should be able to standardize his grades so that he may give the manufacturer the cotton that will turn out his particular kind of goods, he says. The department has a complete set of government standard grades and staples which are to be used for reference in the work.

Both Prof. Camp, and A. H. Leidigh, dean of the school of agriculture, recommend the course to every person engaged in any phase of the cotton industry as they believe that it will be of some help in getting the cotton marketing and growing systems up on a quality basis which will pay premiums upon the better staple cotton acording to its spinning value.

4-Speed Forward Whippet Feature

A new conception of value in commercial cars is found in the new line of Superior Whippet Six 1 1-2 ton units announced by the Willys-Overland company. In outstanding mechanical features, which include four-speed forward transmission, heavy seven-bearing crankshaft, silver-strut pistons full force feed lubrication, timing chain, big four-wheel brakes, "Finger-Tip Control" and a chassis of exceptional sturdy construction, the new Whippet Six commercial unit is seen as a striking advancement over present day engineering practices employed in other commercial units selling in the Whippet price brackets.

The company's presentation of this new line complete the Whippet commercial car program for 1929 and provides complete coverage in the low-priced commercial field.

De Soto Protected By Number Plates

The thief is rapidly disappearing as a menace to automobile owners. This fact is disclosed in figures furnished by the De Soto Motor Corporation, a division of Chrysler Motors, at Detroit.

An analysis of police reports from all over the United States, shows the percentage of recovered cars has increased during the past 10 years from 79 to 92.8 per cent. All but 7.2 per cent of the automobiles stolen throughout the country last year were reported recovered at the end of the year, compared with 21 per cent in 1918.

Among the reasons given for this remarkable increase are the increased ability on the part of the police department to combat the car thief and the innovations in locking equipment on modern automobiles that now protect car owners. Dealers and service departments, too, are co-operating with the factories in tracing stolen cars. In this way they provide an efficient service to owners and discourage those who would make a business of stealing cars.

"Adoration" With Billie Dove Will Begin Here Today

Great Exponements Of Love Making At Palace

TWO of the screen's most compelling interpreters of the soft passion are Billie Dove and Antonio Moreno who appear in the former's starring picture for First National, "Adoration," which starts today at the Palace Theatre.

There are numerous scenes of perfervid emotion in this story of Russia and France in the days of revolution and afterwards. They are a prince and princess of Muscovy, they are torn apart when the red tide flows over the land and through an error, he believes her unfaithful. In the end it all results in happiness, even when the luxuries to which they have been accustomed have been stripped away.

But in the moments of love, there is a realism that reaches sublime heights of passion and stamps the beautiful star and the handsome leading man as perfect exponents of emotionalism in pictures.

"The Circus Kid" Lyric Attraction

Helene Costello Is Star of Big Top Picture

"Presenting a grand, glittering and glorious galaxy of the world's most startling and stupendous aerial and acrobatic acts by an astounding aggregation of artists assembled from all the countries of the globe exclusively for this prodigious and pretentious presentation."

Not quite so flowery as this old-time circus billing but considerably more accurate and sincere is the announcement of the circus specialty acts that are presented in the screen performance of "the big show" in "The Circus Kid," FBO's thrilling special production at the Lindsey theater starting today.

Not only does it tell a gripping story of circus life outside of the "big top" in which Joe E. Brown has the featured role of a lion tamer who has lost his "nerve," and little Frankie Darro plays "the kid" with Helene Costello in the leading feminine role and Lionel Belmore and Sam Nelson in other strong roles, but it also pictures a complete circus performance.

In this Poodles Hanneford and his great bareback riding troupe are seen in the specialty that was for seven years a "headline" act with Ringling Brothers circus. Other notable acts in the show, which begins with the "grand entry" behind Prof. Bridell's 26 piece band, are the DeGaro family, aerial artists.

NEW YORK, June 29.—Just as the effervescent talkies have brought greater fame to the Ruth Chattertons, the William Powells, the Bessie Loves, the Nancy Carrolls of the player section of the cinema so that they raised a number of directors to higher standing in the movie world.

Direction of Lionel Barrymore is given most credit for success of "Madame X." After having spent many years before the camera as a player, Barrymore surprised the screen world with what he could do behind.

Today Lionel can be regarded as one of the most important movie directors. He has found his field. And the talkies should be the better for that.

Though Roland West has had picture connections since 1916 and directed such pictures as "The Bat" and "The Dove," his fame jumped notches with the production of "Alibi," talkie crook picture.

Lubbock Has Gone Yo-Yo Crazy

Top Fad Sweeps City More Than Mah Jong; Contest Scheduled

Lubbock has gone Yo Yo.

Men and women, boys and girls, old and young, alike, join the ranks of the rest of the nation in the new pastime of Yo-Yoing. On the street corners, in homes, in stores—everywhere in fact where one may chance to wander—can be seen the fascinating movement of the Yo Yo top.

The Mah Jong, the cross word puzzle, and the many other fads which have swept the nation in the times past are mild in comparison to the craze that now the idol of the country.

Seeks Interview

The reporter, bent on getting an interview on the subject of an airport, approached a prominent business man, with a question: "I would like to get your opinion on—"

"Oh, the Yo Yo," he interrupted, "I think it the most wonderful invention of the age. Just let me show you." And he proceeded to exhibit his art as a Yo- Yoer, of throwing it around his head, and of making it do all kinds of fancy didoes.

About that time his stenographer announced that an important business visitor was in to see him. "I'm out of town and will be for the rest of the day," he told her, annoyed that he had been interrupted. "Now," he said, again turning to his Yo Yo and to me, "can you do this one—starting the Yo Yo from the bottom?" I confessed, mildly, that I couldn't and made an exit while he was so busily engaged in his pastime that he failed to notice it.

The barber was shaving me with a razor in one hand and a Yo Yo in the other, making a stroke with the razor every time the Yo Yo came back to the top. "Hey," I yelled, "You're cutting my chin."

"Oh, but did you see my Yo Yo. I swung it completely over," he came back. Which was all very nice.

Rumor has it that the Yo Yo was invented by a bell hopp in a California hotel. It seems that he made one for his own use. Then his companions wanted one an dfinally the demand in the hotel became so great that he started making them as fast as he could. With the present popularity, he perhaps has a factory now and has become wealthy. The popularity of the Yo Yo is nationwide in its scope. Everywhere Yo Yo contests are being staged and everywhere more people are being hit by the Yo Yo bug. Grandmother is giving up her knitting, father his golf, and so on.

Record Claimed

A Fort Worth negro claims the Yo Yo endurance record with a nonstop mark of 35 consecutive hours and with more than 100,000 times. An Amarillo youth claims 67,000 consecutive times.

Lubbock's champion Yo Yoer is yet to be determined. At the Palace theater Tuesday and Wednesday of this week the cit's first Yo Yo contest will be held and the champion will be crowned—(let's hope it is with a brick.)

The area of Persia is about twelve times the area of the state of Alabama.

Final Play For Little Theater To Be Tuesday

Satricial Comedy Is Production To Be Given

CLOSING their fourth successful season of activity, members of Lubbock Little Theatre will make their final bow Tuesday night in "The Torch-Bearers," a satirical three-act comedy by George Kelly.

The play, a take-off on Little Theatre work and amateur acting is considered one of the most difficult ones ever presented by the local organization. It is also expected to bring a larger ovation than previous productions due to the extremely realism and humor sprinkle dthrough the story.

Usual Group Shown

Every town has its Mrs. Ritters and Pompinellis as one will readily agree after seeing the play. The story is of a usual group of average Americans, the wife of on suddenly becoming interested in "art," especially dramatics. Under the guidance and enthusiasm of the usual average town director, the woman appears in a public performance and that's where the husband almost passes on. Her acting is acclaimed and she is determined to go further with her work. New York becomes her goal and here her husband goes into another spasm. After much persuasion, he convinces her that it would be better to retire from the stage and be remembered as a great actor and all ends well.

A number of new players are appearing in the cast. Miss Ruth Pirtle is directing the production which has been in careful preparation for the past three weeks.

The Cast

J. M. O'Boyle, a newcomer on the local stage, plays the part of the husband while Mrs. G. G. Castleberry, who has been seen in past performances, has the part of the wife. Other players are: Mrs. R. A. Mills, the director; Mrs. B. C. Dickinson, Hugo Harstman, LeRoy Vaughan, Z. R. Robison; J. Wesley Read; Mrs. Fredda Hunt, Miss Ruth Budd and Mrs. Katherine Lyons.

The play is minus a strong plot and is one of characters instead.

Local firms furnishing properties are: Foxworth-Galbraith Lumber company, Rix Furniture, Spikes Brothers, Hemphill-Wells, Baker Furniture, Hilton-Sansom and Lubbock Oil and Gas company.

Following this production, members of the Little Theatre will gather in a meeting within the next few days to select officers for the coming year and begin plans for the 1929-30 season which is expected to be one of the best of the organization.

Vilma Banky has been known as the "Hungarian Rhapsody and Florence Vidor was once called the "Orchid Lady."

Others having had or still possessing titles include Billie Dove, the "Girl with the Chameleon Eyes"; Ronald Colman, the "Magnetic Lover;" and many others.

The business of titling stars dates from the movies earliest days when leading players in a picture were not named on the screen but were given such titles as the "Vitagraph Girl," etc.

Scene Taken From "In Old Arizona"

Melodramatic Play Shows Soon At Lindsey House

"The Dummy"—a melodramatic comedy, an all-talking Paramount picture, with a cast of stage stars and screen favorites headed by Ruth Chatterton, Fredric March, John Cromwell, Fred Kohler, Jack Oakie, ZaSu Pitts, Mickey Bennett and Eugene Pallette.

If you have laughs prepare to use them when you see the new all-talking melodrama at one of the Lindsey playhouses soon. "The Dummy" is the strangest and most amusing entertainment to be produced in the new medium which has added so much enjoyment to the moving picture theater.

There isn't a dull moment in "The Dummy" from beginning to end, laughs following thrills in quick succession. From the time Mickey Bennett starts his deaf and dumb talking, while everybody else is speaking with the voices they were born with, until the gang of kidnapers is safe in the clutch of the of the law, "The Dummy" supplies all the thrills and entertainment any one could wish for one evening.

"Desert Song" To Show Next Week At The Lindsey

First Operetta On Screen To Begin Next Sunday

THE wonders of Vitaphone are presented in new guise in "The Desert Song," the brilliant operetta which takes its place as the first musical play ever transferred to the screen in its entirety.

Warner Brothers, pioneers of the talking picture, have taken another step forward in the production of this famous stage play accompanied by all the tuneful melodies of Sigmund Romberg, its composer, played by the Vitaphone symphony orchestra, and with a magnificent chorus of one hundred voices.

The use of such a large number of people brought up new problems in voice recording, but the difficulties were surmounted with complete and astonishing success, and the result was a Vitaphone production which far excells all previous efforts.

"The Riff Song" and all the other inspiring choruses of "The Desert Song" come to the audience in volume as melodious as it is remarkable. The desert settings are exceptionally beautiful.

Important roles in this epoch making production are played by John Boles, Carlotta King, Louise Fazenda, Johnny Arthur, John Miljan, Marie Wells, Jack Pratt, Myrna Loy, Edward Martindel, Otto Hoffman, Robert E. Guzman and Del Elliott. "The Desert Song" was directed by Roy Del Ruth, and Harvey Gates made the screen adaptation. It will be the attraction at the Lindsey theater beginning on next Sunday.

Star Gazing

By Central Press

NEW YORK, June 29.—The business of tacking a slogan or sub-title on movie stars with hope of bringing them added attraction continues.

One notes that Ann Harding, screen newcomer, is being ballyhooed as the "Girl with the Magnetic Voice." Maybe she will become well known to film fans by that method and maybe not. Some movie stars have thrived on a title while others faded from notice despite what slogans were tacked behind their names.

To the movie fans the "Man With the Thousand Faces" will always be Lon Chaney as the "It Girl" can be no other than Clara Bow.

But who remembers who the "American Beauty" was? Katherine MacDonald if you remember her.

In "Desert Song"

John Love Boles, above, breaks into the talkies in "The Desert Song" which shows at the Lindsey starting next Sunday. Boles' singing is acclaimed in the production.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

NAN CARROLL, secretary, finds herself deeply in love with her employer, JOHN CURTIS MORGAN, lawyer, and decides to resign. Her resignation however is delayed when she learns Morgan is to defend a supposed friend, BERT CRAWFORD.

Morgan wins Crawford's acquittal. Crawford leaves town at once followed closely by IRIS, Morgan's beautiful wife. She wwrites to Morgan she will never return.

Nan saves Morgan from despair by forcing him into his work. For six months she acts as long-distance housekeeper for him, winning the love of little CURTIS, his son, and bringing comfort to a man who ironically thinks only of another. Morgan tells her he is divorcing Iris and asks her to marry him. They are prevented from going on their honeymoon by the unexpected arrival of a pleading client. Nan urges Morgan to stay with the case.

Their farcical marriage continues for three months. Hysterically, Nan prepares to leave when Morgan finds her and confesses he adores her but has believed she married him out of pity. The next morning at breakfast time, Iris returns, apparently deserted by Crawford. Morgan tells her she is no longer his wife. She feigns fainting and hysteria to bring Morgan to his knees. Nan, seeing her happiness in danger, decides to fight. She telephones thedoctor ta take Iris to a hospital.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVII

At 3 o'clock that day Nan Carroll Morgan, junior partner in the law firm of Morgan & Morgan, was sitting at her desk in the richly furnished prison which was labeled "Mrs. Morgan—Private."

Her brown eyes brooded unseeingly upon a neat stack of letters which she had somehow managed to dictate that morning and which Kathleen O'Hara had delivered to her hours before. They were still unsigned, unread, though Nan's limp hand held the new desk fountain pen in readiness to affix her signature. She did not realize she had been holding it thus for more than an hour.

Slow, terrible thoughts milled about in her feverish brain. Disjointed pictures flitted across her mind, like a badly assembled film run off on a poor projector. Scraps of one of those new "talkie" pictures, Nan thought, with bitter amusement. Iris Morgan, looking incredibly lovely and frail, lying on the big couch and stretching out a feebly trembling hand to Dr. Black; Iris' lovely voice, like the sobbing of a violin:

"Dear Dr. Black! I never thought we should meet again—like this."

Dr. Black's gruff voice: "What seems to be the trouble, Mrs. Morgan? Any severe pain?"

Iris' blue green eyes, widening at him reproachfully. "Only in my heart, Doctor. . . . No, no, don't get out your stethoscope! . . . Tell him, Jack. I haven't the strength, or the heart . . ."

John Curtis Morgan squaring his shoulders to face the doctor. His voice harsh and uneven: "Mrs. Morgan tells me she has not been well for some time. She came—home, not knowing that I had secured a divorce and married again. The shock caused her to faint. My wi—Nan called you."

The film jerked; showed to Nan's brooding eyes a close-up of the doctor's professional noncommittal face, one hand stroking his newly shaved chin, his small cold, gray eyes narrowed speculatively upon the recumbent woman. "Hmm! Nothing serious, I take it. A few days rest in bed will put you on your feet again. . . . St. Luke's Hospital all right, Morgan?"

"Oh!" a desolate wail from Iris. "I can't go to a hospital, Dr. Black. I have no money—no money at all. Ill, broken, cast-off, penniless . . ."

Another jerk of the film; a close-up of John Curtis Morgan's face this time. But Nan could not look upon it; closed the eyes of her mind against it desperately. But she could not shut out the memory of his words:

"Any hospital you say, Doctor. Of course I'll pay. The best room available, naturally—a special nurse—"

"Oh, that won't be necessary—a special nurse, I mean." Nan heard again the doctor's callous answer. "A few days' rest, plenty of sleep and good food and, I should say, a philosophic acceptance of facts. . . . Now, now, no hysteria, Mrs. Morgan, please, or I shall have to give you a hypodermic. I'll run her over to the hospital myself, Morgan. I see by the papers that you'll be busy in court today on the Blackhull case. . . . Highly interesting trial, that. Do you think you'll get the boy off, Morgan—you and your brilliant young junior partner, I mean?"

The jerky "talkie" film was broken by a knock on the door. Nan raised her head, blinked her eyes to clear her mental vision. "Come in!"

Kathleen O'Hara's brightly smiling, pretty face peeped in. Then she pushed the door open with her foot and entered Nan's private office, a tall glass of hot chocolate in one hand, a paper-napkin-covered plate in the other.

"I just couldn't bear to think of you working away in here without any lunch," Miss O'Hara explained coaxingly. "Please, for my sake, eat every bit of it, Mrs. Morgan. I had them put lots of thick whipped cream in the chocolate, and—look! A chicken sandwich — toasted! Doesn't it look good? Please don't worry about the Blackhull case, dear Mrs. Morgan. I just know Mr. Morgan will win it, after all the marvelous work both of you have done on it."

Nan flushed guiltily. She had scarcely given the murder trial a thought that day. "Thank you, Miss Harr. You're a darling."

"Oh, no I'm not!" the little secretary laughed and blushed tremendously pleased. "I'm just taking a leaf out of your book! Mr. Evans and Mr. Blake have told me how you used to bring lunches in for Mr. Morgan and simply bully him into eating when he was so busy he forgot all about food. My greatest ambition is to be as good a private secretary as you were, Mrs. Morgan. . . . Now, will yau promise to eat every bit of it?"

The tender white meat of the chicken sandwich might have been leather for all Nan knew, but she munched obediently. Kathleen Ohara's thoughtfulness had done Nan one good service at least. It had released the tears which had pressed, unshed, against her hot eyeballs all day. It did not occur to her that she looked like a pathetic but absurd child as she sat there at her desk, doggedly munching a sandwich while tears trickled steadily down her cheeks. For she was not thinking of herself at all, except as herself was bound up inextricably with John Curtis Morgan. She was sure he had not eaten at all that day and the thought made her tears flow faster.

He had telephoned from the courthouse at the beginning of the non recess, to tell her that he could not join her for lunch. By the strained note of apology and hurry in his voice Nan had been told, as plainly as if he had spoken the words, that he was going to spend the noon recess hour at the hospital with his former wife. Nan had felt no resentment toward him; only a dull despair. Of course he had to see Iris, both for the sake of his peace of mind and to arrange some sort of fiancial settlement with her. Iris' tragic wail—"Ill, broken, cast-off, penniless—" must have tormented him all day like a dagger in his heart. Even if he no longer loved or desired her, Iris had made herself his responsibility again.

That started the mad whirligig of thought again. Could it be possible that it was only last night that she—Nan—had asked him, "But John—what if you saw Iris again?" and he had answered, scorning to lie: "I—don't know. I can only say, 'Nan, I love you with all my heart and soul and mind. I hope I shall never see Iris again'."

Now that he had seen her again, had all his old passion for her burst into flame again? Could just one night of deep but sane happiness withhis new wife avail now to protect him against the terrific appeal of his passion for the woman who had been his wife for eight years?

"If she had only kept on reviling him and me, so that he could have seen her as she really is—an utterly selfish and cruel woman!" Nan's heart cried despairingly. "But she chose the one sure method to shake him to the very roots of his being. She has made him believe that she loves him at last, that she came back to him ready to give him her whole heart."

For the first time that day Nan tried to picture the events in Iris' immediate past which had driven her back to her deserted and despised husband as the only possible refuge. It was obvious that Iris had suffered. It was even possible—yes, highly probable—that she had tried to commit suicide, as she had so plaintively assured her stricken husband. Bert Crawford was the answer, of course. Nan had felt sure that Bert Crawford would tire of her, would be unfaithful. The two had undoubtedly lived riotously, fling Crawford's stolen money away in handfulls. But they could scarcely have spent a quarter of a million dollars in 11 months. Crawford was to shrewd a man to pauperize himself, Nan knew.

Then how had it happened that Iris had had to creep home, penniless? There could be only one answer: Crawford had abandoned her as heartlessly as she had abandoned her husband. Perhaps they had lived on the $20,000 which the embezzler had given to Morgan as an unsolicited fee for having won him his freedom, and which Morgan had presented to his wife. Crawford—as wily and selfish as Iris herself—could have given Iris a dozen plausible excuses for using her money instead of his own—or rather, instead of the money he had embezzled.

"If John knew that Iris and Crawford had been lovers, that they've been living together, that Crawford was really guilty of the charge of embezzlement—" Nan could not keep that thought down no longer. It had been lurking, like a coiled snake ready to spring, and now it had struck. She shuddered, recoiled. Involuntarily she went to her filing cabinet, took from its secure hiding place the betraying letter from Crawford to Iris which she had kept all these months; held it gingerly, as if it were unclean, while her tormented eyes scanned its familiar contents. Yes, it was incontrovertible proof of Crawford's villainy and of his and Iris' relationship.

"I ought to show it to John!" Nan told herself fiercely. "That would kill his pity and his passion for her, if anything could! But—I can't fight that way. I can't."

"Iris has no scruples. She'll fight you with every weapon she can lay her hand on," temptation reminded her.

"But I'm not like Iris," Nan's heart retorted, with forlorn pride. And she was rewarded by another flash of memory. Last night, when she had used the same words to her husband, he had answered fervently: "No—thank God!"

It was 4 o'clock when Nan finished signing the long-neglected letters and cleared her desk to go home. If Curtis had ever needed her, he would need her this afternoon. The memory of his wistful bewildered eyes, as they cast a lingering backward glance toward the dining room door beyond which his mother, strangely returned after a

Co-operation Brings Wealth To Farm And Business

Oklahoma Town Adds A Million Income A Year

Businessmen Realized That Agriculture Was A Firm Foundation; Helped Farmers Market Crops

HENRYETTA, Okla., June 29. — While national legislators are fuming and sweating over some plan for farm relief, this city of 10,000 people has quietly and in a business like manner added a million dollars a year to its income.

Five years ago Henryetta was a commercial town. Its mines, oil wells and building trades kept it going. Agriculture for city dwellers was just an industry that kept them supplied with food. The farmer was a minor problem in their life.

Now this is all changed. Business men of this community have been cooperating with farmers for four years. They have helped them market their crops, get expert advice on planting and certified seed, and have worked together in the purchase of improved machinery and the adoption of improved methods.

The movement for better farms and improved agriculture started here when business men found that farmers were not coming into town to buy, but because of indifference on the part of the city folk, were selling their products and buying their necessities elsewhere.

Mohammen Goes to Mountain

Realizing that agriculture was a firm foundation on which to build a city, the business men got together and elected as secretary of their chamber of commerce George C. Gibbons, a Kansas State Agricultural College graduate, whose duty it was to spend most of his time with farmers, help them make more money and develop a closer relation between the city and country.

Gibbons didn't issue glowing bulletins inviting farmers to come into town and meet the city folk. Rather he took the business men out to visit the farmers, to mingle with them, admire their healthy children and extend good will.

The resulting reaction was that in short order, through good will established through this contact, farmers began coming into town with their products, bought their necessities in Henryetta, and business was enriched by one million "new" dollars that it never counted on before.

"We," says Gibbons, including other chambers of commerce, "have attempted to gain the good will and support of farmers by following childish practices. The confidence of the farmer can only be gained and held by actual service of a continuous order. This may be performed in the largest and most valuable way in the matter of market facilities."

Gibbons Shows How

Having acquainted the farmers with the business men, Gibbons' work had only been started. His next step was to don overalls and give farmers the benefit of scientific farming gleaned not only while he attended school, but from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and the state agricultural college.

He terraced, plowed, planted, advised. At community meetings he gave crop advice.

"Grow into your business—don't jump into it," Gibbons told farmers who contemplated a hurried switch from one crop to another. The idea was to try suggested crops and if they didn't prove successful to try another, always on a small scale at first.

Through Gibbons, and the chamber of commerce, certified seed that had been tested and suggested as best for the Henryetta territory was bought in quantities. As a result seed merchants benefited thru increased sales, and farmers thru increased production.

Trading Area Enlarged

Not only has the cooperation of business men and farmers added financially to the town of Henryetta, but it has added miles to its surroundings. The trading area is enlarged. The influence of scientific farming methods has extended for miles around.

"The work of the chamber of commerce has just meant everything in the world to our farmers even though they live 35 miles away," W. W. Winston, a farmer merchant living 35 miles from Henryetta says. "They are paying their bills and have money in the bank. I believe it has helped Henryetta, too, for our farmers ship their produce over from there and stay over to make purchases."

In four years that the cooperation has been functioning, it has cost only $5000. The value received has been many times multiplied.

Through this investment have come many improvements in community agriculture. It has been responsible for terracing, planting of shrubs and trees, encouraging poultry breeders, building of a four-mile road to open up a new trade area and organization of women's clubs and other rural organizations.

Money Is Being Made On Some Farms

Income Of $3,000 A Year From 80 Acres Netted By Lubbock County Farmer; $3,675 On 160 Acres

Some things learned recently, by the committee composed of County Agent D. F. Eaton, County Home Demonstration Agent Miss Louise Baird, Master Farmer Douglas Pounds, and Al Hill, editor of the South Plains Farmer, in scoring a number of Lubbock county farmers in an effort to have one from this county selected among the 10 master farmers of Texas, are worth broadcasting. There are many farmers who will score about as well as these and therefore as many more stories as appropriate to tell.

One of these, operating on 80 acres, shows an approximate annual net income from his farm, figured on an average of the past five years, of $3,000. Another farmer, operating on 160 acres, shows an annual net income of approximately $3,675.

Record on 80-Acre Farm

The 80-acre farmer shows an approximate gross annual income of $4,150. How he has accomplished this is worth telling to the world. Of his 80 acres, 75 of them are cultivated, the other five being used for house, yard, barn lot, stock pens, etc.

This farmer's principal cash crop is cotton, having an average of 40 acres planted to registered seed each year, and his five-year record showing an average production of half a bale to the acre. This crop averages $3,000 a year.

No Feed Stuff Is Sold

Grain is raised on about 30 acres, but none of it is sold, being fed to stock and poultry. Wisdom of this is seen in the fact that dairy products bring $600 a year cash. Pork sold annually totals $400 for the past two years and $300 a year the years previous, the increase accounted for in more hogs raised.

Profits are to be made from the farm garden and farm orchard, this farmer's record proves, with canned products of these, which includes some canned meats, averages $500 a year. Poultry helps to spell success for this farmer, also, at the rate of $125 a year income from 70 hens, 50 baby chicks and 18 turkeys.

His dairy herd totals 15 purebred Jerseys and his hogs total nine head, with one purebred sow kept.

Records Are Very Similar

On the 160-acre farm, there are 110 acres in cultivation, about 30 acres kept in grass, and this farmer's record is similar, in many respects, to the one listed above, although on a larger scale.

Forty acres of cotton show an income of $1,200 net a year. Hogs and cattle, $1,300 net a year; dairy products, $500 net; poultry, $300 net; canned products of garden and orchard, $300 net; garden truck sold, $75 net. Approximate annual gross income is $5,000.

Seventy acres of this farm are planted to feed, of which none is sold, all being fed to stock and poultry. Dairy cattle kept averages 23 head, six of them registered Jerseys, and there are 30 head of beef cattle, with 15 or 20 hogs.

Poultry brings in $875 a year, from an average of 225 hens, 75 turkeys and 400 baby chicks.

Famous Jerseys Arrive Memphis

Tennessee Adds World Renowned Purebred Jerseys To Great Array Of Dairy Cattle In State

MEMPHIS, June 29.—Tennessee, known for almost half a century for its fine purebred Jerseys has attracted national attention by the purchase of eighteen outstanding individuals of the world famous Killingly Jersey herd of Massachusetts by Dr. J. A. Crisler, owner of Duntreath Farm, near Memphis. During the past eight years the Killingly herd at Barre, Mass., has held as many as twelve world records for high production and at one time during this period four living world champions in the different age classes were in the herd.

Two of these world champion cows, Killingly Owl Susannah and Killingly Nora, the son of another, Killingly Torono Lass, Son, and the famous sire of the Killingly herd, Killingly Owl Interest, are included in Dr. Crisler's purchase made at the dispersal sale.

Killingly Owl Interest, the herd sire for which Dr. Crisler paid $10,000, has the distinction of having all his tested daughters make an average mature 365-day equivalent production of 798.5 lbs. of butterfat. This is a higher average production than that made by the tested daughters of any other bull of the breed now on record, and far exceeds the average yield of 180 lbs. of butterfat per year made by dairy cows throughout the United States.

Killingly Torono Lass' Son, the younger bull selected by Dr. Crisler, is the son of Killingly Torono Lass, the holder of two world championships in different age classes, the junior 3-year-old championship for butterfat production in 305 days, 816.87 lbs., and the junior 4-year-old championship 305 days, with a record of 882.48 lbs. butterfat.

Three Records Made

Killingly Owl Susannah, youngest of the world record cows included in Dr. Crisler's purchase, held the senior 3-year-old championship with a record of 772.78 lbs. of butterfat in 305 days. Before reaching 5 years of age this remarkable cow had completed two 305-day records above 745 lbs. of butterfat. Now in her sixth year, she is on test again and has twice yielded over 100 lbs. of butterfat in a month. Killingly Nora, the other world champion cow going to Duntreath Farm, made her record in the class for cows over 12 years of age with her production of 751. 21 lbs. of butterfat in 305 days.

In addition to these individuals, Dr. Crisler's purchase includes five daughters of Killingly Torono Lass' Son, three of which are full sisters and daughters of Killingly Owl Louise, twice a world champion for production, and two others which are also full sisters, the daughters of Killingly Princess, a cow with a record of 797.12 lbs. of butterfat in 305 days.

Dr. Crisler already has a carefully selected herd of 200 fine purebred Jerseys at Duntreath Farm so he will be able to make the most use of the wonderfully bred Killingly bred bulls. Jersey breeding in Tennessee and in the South in general will get a new impetus from the fact that these great animals are now right in the heart of the oldest Jersey section where their merit will be genuinely appreciated.

Has Huge Board

Southerner Plays Chess In Open

TUPELO, Miss., June 29.—H. R. F. Goodlett, Tupelo chess enthusiast, plays his game in the open. He has designed and built an out-of-doors chess "court" on his front lawn, where giant kings, knights and pawns do their jousting on marble slabs.

The open air board is made of marble squares interspersed with growing grass—a color variation from the conventional black and red of the usual chess board.

Pieces range in height from 13 to 27 inches, and are made of wood from Goodlett's lumber yard here. And in their intellectual tilts the players loll about on comfortable canvas chairs, from which easeful retreats they can watch the puppet panorama before them.

RUSH AIRPORT WORK

Big Spring Building New Landing Field

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

BIG SPRING, June 29.—Shall we have an airport is no longer asked by the citizens of Big Spring, but work is being rushed on the 230 acre field two miles west of the city. The five room administration building under construction together with two hangars and a machine shop will be completed and the field dedicated August 23 to 25, according to Ray Willvox, president the the Big Spring Airport Company, Inc. Army planes will be secured to assist in the celebration. The Texas Air Transport Company, Inc., who will maintain Big Spring as their West Texas division headquarters when the field is copleted will join in the celebration, says Silliman Evans, vice-president of the company.

Toledo, in Spain, was the first locality to practice the art of paper making. This happened in the early eleventh century.

Greatest Menace To Poultry Told

COLLEGE STATION, June 29.—"Worms are the greatest menace to poultry profits in Texas, and now is an important time for attacking ... parasites," declares E. N. Holmgreen, Poultry Specialist in the extension service. He calls attention to the general warfare on worms waged by Texas poultrymen cooperating with county and home demonstration agents, who report remarkable increases in productivity and profits following flock worming.

The injection of an iodine preparation directly into the gizzard is gaining in popularity as a worm remedy. The worms are ejected immediately and no bad effects seem to follow. Typical of results is that of a Somervell county poultry demonstrator who figures he made 20 per cent on his investment by this method combined with the use of a raised wire mesh floor to keep the birds off from the infected floor.

Another standard remedy for round worms is the feeding of pulverized tobacco dust in the mash for three weeks, omitting the tobacco for three weeks and then repeating the mixture for the same period. Two pounds of frsh tobacco of 1 1-2 per cent to 2 per cent nicotine content to 100 pounds of mash is recommended. For tape worms kamala tablets are suggested.

Of greatest importance in worm control, however, is sanitation. No remedy is good unless houses are cleaned; wet, sloppy places cleaned up; and clean green range provided.

The estimated population of the world is 1,849,500,000. O this number 1,013,000,000 are said to be in Asia and 475,000,000 in Europe.

Floydada Creamery Makes Record Since Opening March 25; Shipping A Car A Week; $2000 Month In Profits

Hale County Dairy Association Starts With Membership of 280; Has Over 600; Payroll $900 Daily

A very remarkable business success, and a marvelous growth in volume, has been obtained by the Hale County Dairy association, in the operation of their creamery at Floydada, which opened for business on the 25th day o flast March, according to data furnished in a letter from Prof. H. J. Bower, of Texas Technological college, to Al Hill, editor of the South Plains Farmer.

Prof. Bower is doing field service for the Texas Wheat Growers association during the summer months having spent a number of years as a practical farmer, he is intensely interested in anything pertaining to the betterment of farm conditions and the development of the South Plains.

Perhaps the most remarkable success of the creamery is the monthly rebate, or profits, of $2,000 each month, paid to members of the Hale County Dairy association, since March 25.

Opening the creamery with 280 members, on March 25, the membership of June 25 had climbed to 635 members.

The creamery made 63,000 pounds of butter during May, and the same number of pounds during June.

"Farmers receive $850 daily for cream," Prof. Bower writes. "Labor receives $30 a day. This, a total payroll of $900 daily is recorded.

They ship one carload of butter per week.

"I consider this a wonderful record. This association is going to have a big picnic sometime after July 16. The time will be set in accordance to the date that the desired speakers can be secured."

Portales Interest In Dairying Told

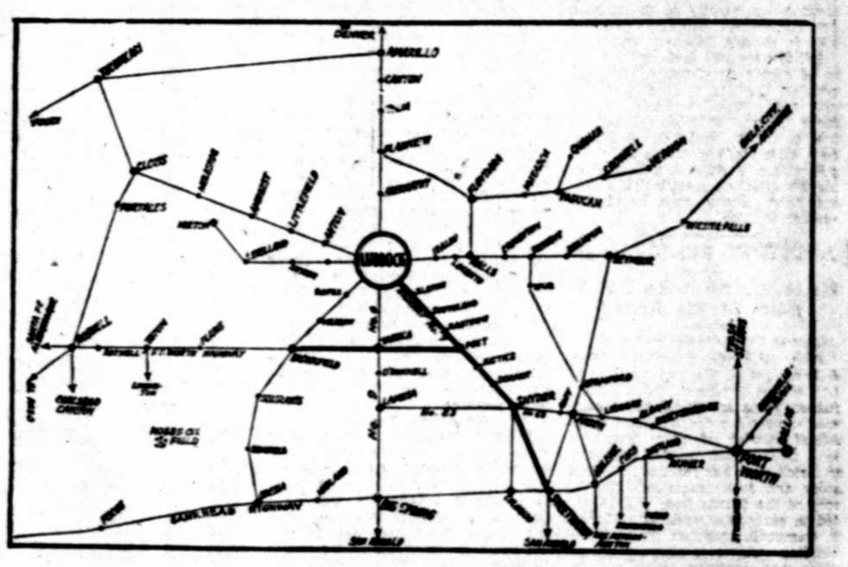

Much interest in dairying is manifest in the vicinity of Portales, N. M., according to W. H. Harold, of that city, who was in Lubbock for the week-end, on business.

"There are seven bull circles near Portales now," Mr. Harold declares, "and considerable interest in improving the herds. We do not have so very many registered dairy cattle, but they are mostly good grade and dairy farmers are ambitious to get more and better cows."

Mr. Harold, while here, inquired as to the possibility of purchasing several head of fine dairy cows, but said none were found to be available. He met the same difficulty in the Plainview vicinity and other South Plains points where he visited.

One Portales concern, last Saturday week, shipped 500 cars of corn from that city, Harold said.

Sudan Continuing Its Growth; Plans Laid For Holiday

Celebration To Be Staged July 4, 5 and 6; Schools Growing, Figures Given Out, Indicate

By Staff Correspondent

SUDAN, June 29.—A brick high school and grade school buildings are evidences of the rapid growth of this town. In 1920 there were three pupils and one teacher. In 1929 there was an enrollment of 900 pupils and 35 teachers in the Sudan public schools. The buildings have been changed from a one-room shack to a modernly equipped brick one. During the last scholastic year the high school secured affiliations with all southern states. This year a team of agriculture boys took first place on the state judging contest of dairy cattle at Texas A. & M.

Three gins are running during the cotton season. Cotton is a good crop for the farmers and is free from the boll-weevil of eastern parts of the state. A grain mill, under construction, will soon be converting the grain crops into feed stuff for the dairying and poultry farmers. The four produce houses ship, on the average, a weekly business of 32 cans of cream, 152 pounds of poultry and 80 cases of eggs.

Organizations Numerous

There are numerous live organizations. There are three churches, an Eastern Star, Masonic lodge, Odd Fellows and a Kiwanis club. The fire department is a voluntary one with 18 members. A city band plays for all public affairs and accompanies all booster trips. It is composed of about 19 men and boys. Music for July 4th, 5th and 6th celebrations will be furnished by the band. The band and fire department are in charge of he program and the entire celebration proceeds will be divided between hem.

Bonds were sold and contracts let to he Panhandle Construction company of Lubbock for the laying of city water mains at Sudan it was made known yesterday. Construction is to be completed within 60 days after starting and is to be begun within 10 days. A well producing 200 gallons a minute will supply the water. Bonds were voted November 14, 1928.

ADDITION BEING MADE

Six Stories Will Be Put To Hotel In Big Spring

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

BIG SPRING, June 29.—With construction of the two story addition to the Douglass Hotel being rushed, plans are being ade considered to continue the structure to six stories instead of four, according to J. C. Douglass, builder and owner. Brick work has reached the third story and steel framework for the roof of the fourth floor will be fitted in early next week, says George F. Campbell, architect. The present building consists of nine stores and shops and spacious lobby on the ground floor.

Starting with only one microbe, and giving it sufficient food, at the end of 12 hours there will be about 18,000,000 microbes. At the end of six more hours there will be nearly 90,000 million.

Nearly 700,000 spiders, it has been estimated, would be required to produce a pound of web. A single spider has been known to spin a thread 34,800 yards long.

Do You Agree With Texas Editors?

Questionnaire On 'Ten Most Interesting Men In Texas' Answered By Eighty Lone Star State Newspapermen

Office-holding, past or present, apparently constitutes a strong claim on the public interest of Texans, if the judgment of Texas daily newspaper editors on the question, "Who are the 10 most interesting personalities in Texas?" is correct. For of the dozen names selected—the number had to be increased because of tie votes—five come directly within that classification, one of the others has held at least one public office and still another has sought public office in the state. Two newspaper editors, two ministers, two capitalists, both of wide prominence in political matters, and one educator comprise the remainder.

The Texas Public Service Information bureau asked 80-odd Texas editors to name the 10 Texans whom they regarded as the most interesting. They were asked to give the list not on the basis of their own personal preferences, but on their evaluation of the names for their news interest. In all, 90 names were given in the lists, including practically every major section of the state. When the results were tabulated the 12 receiving the highest number of votes were alphabetically, these:

The Winning Ten.

Dr. Samuel P. Brooks, president of Baylor university, Waco.

United States Senator Tom Connally, Marlin.

Ex-Governor James E. Ferguson, Temple.

Marcellus E. Foster (Mefo), editor of the Press, Houston.

Cone Johnson of the State Highway Commission, Tyler.

Jesse H. Jones, capitalist-newspaper owner, Houston.

John H. Kirby, capitalist, Houston.

State Senator Thomas B. Love, Dallas.

Governor Dan Moody, Austin.

Dr. J. Frank Norris, minister, Ft. Worth.

Joe J. Taylor, State Press, Dallas News, Dallas.

Dr. George W. Truett, minister, Dallas.

Possibly as interesting as the list of the dozen above is the wide range of names receiving votes, some of them almost enough to be classed with the 12 leaders. Those receiving a good vote, but falling short of the lowest of the dozen included educators, ministers, office holders, editors, capitalists, utility men, railroad men, lawyers, chamber of commerce and publicity men, Texas Ranger captains and three women, Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cunningham, of Galveston; Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, of Austin, and Miss Kate Daffan, of Ennis. Some of the editors included names of much interest only in their own communities who failed to receive votes from other sections.

Educators Listed.

Dr. H. Y. Benedict of Texas university; Dr. C. C. Selecman, of S. M. U.; Dr. Stockton Axson, of Rice Institute; Dr. T. O. Sam A. Robertson, of San Benito; Lon C. Hill, of Harlingen, and Col. C. C. Goodnight, of Goodinght, were others receiving substantial support in the voting as among "the most interesting personalities in Texas."

Airport Group In City Wants More Sites To Inspect

Eight Proposed Sites Are Already in View; Plans Will Be Carefully Laid, Chairman Asserts

WITH eight sites now under consideration, the aviation committee recently appointed by the Lubbock City Commission is soliciting more bids for the prospective municipal airport before making recommendation to the city dads, according to George E. Benson, chairman of the committee, and a member of the aviation committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

"Choosing a permanent field is a problem which cannot be completed without deliberate study," said Mr. Benson, "for the airport site which we will choose must be one that we believe will meet the expansion neds of the vastly developing industry.

Prices To Be Watched

"Our choice will also depend largely upon the prices submitted, for we want in addition to smooth layout, to expend as much money as possible on equipment. The $75,000 provided in by bonds voted for the project will assure Lubbock an outstanding airport, provided the fund is used to best advantage.

"We have not yet determined the size of field we will recommend, but we know that Lubbock's altitude will require a 3,000-foot runway.

"Practically every location we have under consideration is free of hazards or obstructions. Most of the land adjacent to Lubbock is ideally suitable for transformation into an airport. We are fortunate in this respect, and may have reason to look forward to a wonderful field."

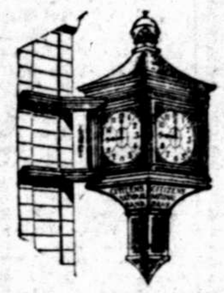

Prices submitted in the eight bids range from $60 to $150 per acre. The prospective fields are from two to six miles from the city limits.

Dr. E. P. George, of the faculty at Texas Technological college, and T. B. Duggan are assisting Mr. Benson on the airport committee.

A NEW KIND OF CAR THEN—A NEW KIND OF CAR NOW

OCT 11 1924

"+ + the Chrysler is a new type of motor car, which holds entirely novel sensations for every motorist. + + The fact is, that Chrysler engineers have in this car employed the fundamentals of motor car design in a manner fully as revolutionary as the application of the steam turbine to ocean-going ships. + + Your first ride in a Chrysler will compel a new conception of automobile transportation."

WHAT YOU EXPECT OF CHRYSLER

The imposing succession of Chrysler accomplishments has led the public instinctively to expect more of Chrysler than of other cars—and it is the completeness with which Chrysler fulfills these higher expectations that explains the ever-rising tide of Chrysler success.

You expect of Chrysler a charming individuality in style, and you get it. You expect a livelier and more thrilling spirit of performance, and you get it. You expect a more luxurious feeling of cradled comfort, and you get it. You expect a greater sum total of actual value in Chrysler, and you find it.

Chrysler today exerts a tremendous influence over the entire industry—and justifiably. In the five years of its meteoric rise, Chrysler has done more than any other force in the automobile world to revolutionize and modernize motor car standards.

That is the reason why the volume of Chrysler sales has increased to such mighty proportions—and why Chrysler enjoys such prestige in 93 countries.

We invite you to take a Chrysler demonstration—expecting more of Chrysler than of any car within several hundred dollars of its price.

CHRYSLER "75"—$1535 to $1795—Eight Body Styles. CHRYSLER "65"—$1040 to $1145—Six Body Styles. All prices f. o. b. factory. Chrysler dealers extend convenient time payments.

Plains Area Prepares To Observe Independence Day

Celebrations Are Planned And All Forms Of Amusement To Be Offered Thrill Hunters On Fourth Of July

Rodeo At Amarillo, Sudan To Have Three Day Party While Silver Falls Will Offer Barbecue

INDEPENDENCE Day, which falls on Thursday of this week, is to offer an array of holiday attractions to people of this section who are seeking amusement, and a large number of Lubbock citizens are expected to attend celebrations.

The Allen brothers post of the American Legion is to have an annual picnic Thursday at Bud Johnston's ranch in Yellowhouse canyon and an attendance of about 125 is expected.

A ball game, staged by teams under the leadership of Vaughn E. Wilson and Homer Pharr, will be the feature of the day. Losers in this contest, according to an annual custom, will feed the remainder of the gathering with a chicken dinner during the evening.

This celebration starts about 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon and will continue into the evening.

Silver Falls to Be Host

A galaxy of attractions, including a rodeo, free barbecue, dancing, skating and swimming, will be offered for the huge July Fourth celebration at Silver Falls, near Crosbyton, according to Ell Hoover, of Lubbock, who will have supervision of the entertainments.

All features of the holiday at the falls will be promoted by the South Plains Amusement company.

"We are making careful plans to efficiently handle an expected crowd of 10,000 to 15,000," said Mr. Hoover. "There will be ample cold water, and a large circus tent will provide the needed shade."

Airplane stunt flying and passenger flights will be additional pleasure items on the holiday menu.

Rodeo at Amarillo

Amarillo is staging a rodeo and wild west performance, Abilene is advertising automobile races, Sudan offers a three-day celebration beginning on the Fourth, Midland, Ralls, Hobbs and other towns are staging attractions of their own for the holiday.

Only seven speed car contests in the United States this year will be larger than the program offered at Abilene, on July 4, according to announcements sent out from that city, following a check of the American Automobile association's 1929 racing schedule, and only one of the seven is in the Southwest.

There will be five events on the card presented in Abilene under the direction of D. H. Jeffries, Texas supervisor of the American Automobile association.

Miller and King's Master Rodeo will be staged at the Texas Ball Park in Amarillo on July 3, 4 and 5, according to announcements sent out from that city.

Hawk In Charge

W. C. Hawk, who is in charge of arrangements for the affair is general manager of the Amarillo News-Globe publishing company.

Afternoon and evening performances will be given daily during the rodeo, which is to be staged in a park that has a seating capacity of 7,500. The park has been equipped with 26 flood lights and other lighting effects to make the big arena in front of the grand stand as light as day.

Included among the performers in the rodeo will be Vaughan Craig Johnson, known as the "Sweetheart of American Rodeo"; Tommy Kirman, champion trick rider and roper; his wife, Bea Kirman, known as the favorite horse lady of America; William King, Colorado's best known performer, and many others, according to those who are preparing for the celebration.

Other features will include wild cow milking contests, bronc riding, calf roping, bull-dogging, maverick race, brahma steer riding, trick riding and roping, high jumping horses and high schooled horses.

To Have Fireworks

On the night of the Fourth of July there is to be a spectacular fireworks display.

July 4, 5, and 6 will be three days in which inhabitants of Sudan will observe their first celebration besides Trades Day since the establishment of the town in 1917. Plans for the tri-day affair are elaborate. They include a rodeo, a free barbeque, ball games, carnivals, and dances. The platform for the dance will be built in the middle of the carnival and it is said that one of the best orchestras in the country will play.

With these well laid plans and the promise of a show, rain or shine, Sudan will be host to a large number of people.

Picnic at Ralls

Ben Cole, Jr., of Ralls, is in charge of arrangements for a basket picnic at Ralls Thursday under the sponsorship of the Ralls chamber of commerce. Special attractions have been planned for the day.

A number of eminent speakers in Texas are to be on a program sponsored in Midland Thursday by the chamber of commerce and other civic organizations there.

Among these speakers will be Congressman Claude B. Hudspeth and Mayor R. E. Thomason, of El Paso; John W. Carpenter, president of the Texas Power and Light company, of Dallas.

Among the attractions for the day will be a free barbecue, band concert, rodeo events, horse racing, baseball games, daylight and night fireworks, street dancing, bathing, golf tournaments and free picture shows for all visitors.

The new 12-story Hogan-Petroleum building is to be formally opened on July 4.

Hobbs, N. M., will celebrate the first anniversary of the town on July 4 and 5 with a free barbecue, all-night dancing, airplane rides, and many other attractions there, according to announcements sent out from the town.

Our Old Friend Will Talks Again

Business Of Royalty Worries Famous Humorist Who Sympathizes With Those Who Must Honor Titles

By WILL ROGERS

WELL all I know is what I read in the papers. What do you know about the Prince of Wales getting married? Looks like the Kid is going to settle down. You remember a couple of lesson back I was telling you about old Henry the 8th doing all his rough and tumble marrying. Well you know these Titled Birds seem to have one tradition that they are pretty jealous of, and that is that it is bred into them to try and cop off a Princess if possible. Course some times the Boys go out among the plebians and take a spouse to wife, but they just practically ruin themselves with the rest of their family.

We had a lot of Gals over here that went practically haywire when the Prince was over here, and they would practically cut off a leg to dance with him, and if he had been out strictly for money I expect he could have picked up more over here than anyhere else in the world. So it does go to their credit that they don't always go out for a monetary consideration. It's just as I tell you, it's this "Grab off a Princess' idea that is so deeply rooted in them, that they are always out for that first. Now take two or more Princesses, and let one of them possess a little more of the world's goods than the other. I am not saying that that would make any difference in his choice, but she would be the one that he would pick. Course that may be accidental but it always happens so there is a chance that it is premeditated.

Here is the way the whole thing is done. King George and Queen Mary have one of the Privy council bring in a director of all the living royal families, that are really operating now. When Russia and Germany dropped out that almost ruined the directory; they had to tear out 20 pages. I don't care how royal your blood is, and how far your breeding goes back, if you are not at the present time employed in the business of ruling, why there is no more thought of marrying into your family than we have if all the members of a family happen to be at the time incarcerated in a jail.

Now there is just thousands of Russians that are eligible and their breeding is about as good as it ever was, but as far as matrimoney with some reigning family they are just what you might call null and void. England is especially handicapped in this present crisis, as they have always used Germany as a mating ground, in fact the English family have just learned to speak what little English they do in the last couple of generations. They was all kind, and they just kept their marriages in the family, a little thing like being a cousin, or aunt, didn't stop them in the least. Well you see all that available talent is now out of the question. The late big war not only showed that civilization don't pay, but it just eliminated over 70 per cent of crop of available wives and husbands that a self respecting Prince had to pick from.

Well now we have them eliminated, lets get back to the ones left. The King and Queen take the list and go over it carefully. You would think they was looking for a telephone number. Instead of taking the numbers alphabetically, they start down in Italy; thats about as far south as you can safely pick up a wife and not take a chance on her being a little "Off color." You get further south than that and you are liable to find that the hair grows out, turns around and grows back in again.

Now they take Italy. They have an awfully nice breed of Princesses. Their Mother was a Monte-negroian, and their Father an Italian. But they cant consider them. Why? On account of a Gentleman named Mussolini, they never know when he is liable to get peeved at them and declare the whole shebang a Republic. Well that would do away with the standing that the Royal family had. Now suppose the Prince was betrothed to an Italian Princess, and Mussolini went on a rampage. Well, see, she would lose her Amateur standing and become just a professional commoner. Well that would mean that he would have the right to annul the engagement, or even if they was already married, it would give him the right to be divorced, for he could prove that she obtained him by false pretenses. So that lets Italy out, and he lost a fine girl just really on account of Mussolini.

Now that brings us to Spain. They have two fine Girls there. But there again we have Primo Revira, the Amateur Dictator. He is a kind of second company of Mussolini. Kinging there is not what you would call a steady job. So its too unstable to monkey with. You couldn't possibly take a chance on being linked with a Republic. Portugal is out, for they would have three revolutions between the time of the engagement and the marriage. France. Nothing there worth while. Belgium, I havent looked over the chart but I dont think there is anything available there.

Holland. They and the English don't mix so much. When an Englishman is having his tea he dont want to be interrupted by a clattering of wooden shoes clattering through the house. So that didnt leave him anything but the Scandinavian countries. There is three of them, Sweden, Norway and Denmark. Well there was "Something queer in Denmark" so he dident go there. Norway sounded too cold, so that leaves Sweden, and a beautiful lovely Girl 18 years old, who perhaps is in love with some nice young man of her own age and country, but the old heads must keep up the "Prestige" of this marrying business, and find somebody that will do Royalty the most good. Its just like Queen Isabella told all her children, when she was doleing them out to Henry the 8th and King Charles, "Its not a Princess place to love, its a Princess place to breed." She sent em out to marry for their Country.

A thoroughbred race horse breeding establishment is more in line with royal marriage than anything I know of, only they are careful to never inbreed, but as far as the love thats a lot of Hooey. They think it brings Nations closer to each other to have the heads marry to each other. Well it dident do so much for Germany and England, but anyhow lets get him married off and let the Girls all over the world wet their minds on somebody else. Its wonderful I reckon to be a Prince or Princess, but they pay for it.

Your Home

Your home should come first. Successful men throughout the ages have fought for their homes—worked a life time for them. There is a lot in that old saying "There is no place like home. To have a beautiful well furnished home should the foremost ambition of every man. His home should come first.

Competion

competition has kept many a man from having a home he could be proud of. No, not the old kind of competition between two furniture dealers or two drug stores. Not that . . . its competition of a different kind. National advertising and complete distribution of almost every article under the sun have caused another kind of competition. It's the kind that makes people buy other things and neglect their homes. It's a competition between your home and other wants. People take trips to Europe and buy things for immediate pleasure and then live in a home they are ashamed of. Your home should come first.

Your Furniture

Your furniture makes your home. It should be pleasing to the eye, colorful, restful and durable. Good furniture does not cost a lot of money when you consider the long years of useful service and pleasure it gives. Any of our salesmen will be glad to show you how you can make your home beautiful. Don't forget . . . . it is not expensive. Maybe all you need is a few small pieces to change the whole looks of your home.

Hudson Announces New Super Six Car

Dover, Product Of Years Of Experiment Will Be Presented To Public On July 1st; Is Light Car

A light inexpensive commercial super six, product of years of experimentation, is the latest addition to the sensationally successful line of the Hudson Motor Car company, manufacturers of the Greater Hudson and Essex the Challenger. It has been named the Dover, and will be presented July 1.

There will be five body types available, a chassis, panel body, open express, canopy express and screen side express. Built in the same factory as the Greater Hudson and Essex the Challenger, the newcomer, is of three quarter ton capacity with super six power and smoothness and the completeness and finish of a passenger car.

"Believing that the user of a light delivery wagon desires, above all, a car which has power and speed enough to do light delivery work both quickly and economically, Hudson has," states S. C. Mitchell, sales manager of the new division, "built these qualities into a car with an exterior striking enough to represent the character of the owner's delivery service."

Gain Is Shown In Willys-Overland

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

TOLEDO, O., June 29. — An increase of 68 per cent in Willys-Overland retail outlets from May 1, 1928, to May 1 of this year is announced, this gain setting the largest year's increase in the history of the company. On May 1, the Willys-Overland dealer organization reached a record total of 8,443, which includes authorized service stations, as compared with 5,024 on May 1, 1928, a gain of 3,419 for the 12-month period.

Since the first of the year, when the company's new line of Whippets and Willys-Knights were first shown, nearly 1,000 new retail outlets have been added for the Willys-Overland line and indications point to a continuance of the present large growth.

It is announced by the company that the first four months of the current year brought into the Willys-Overland dealer organization accounts of the first magnitude in the metropolitan cities as well as the secondary cities. This marked demand for the Willys-Overland franchise is attributed to the wide public acceptance of the company's product which has established for the year to date a new high sales record, surpassing the record sales for the same period of last year.

New Fargo Truck Sweeping Nation

The Freighter, the new one-ton truck, announced last month by the Fargo Motor Corporation, has met wide-spread and immediate approval from the truck buying public throughout the country, according to Fargo officials at Detroit.

Although the Freighter has been on display less than a month, orders already are pouring into the plant from dealers, necessitating increasing production schedules and indicating keen public interest in the new truck, according to Harry A. Kaufman, general sales manager for Fargo, at the big Highland Park factory in the motor metropolis where Fargo products are made.

The new truck is powered by a 55 H. P. Chrysler-built, six-cylinder engine and has a 133-inch wheelbase.

While the Freighter represents a heavier line of commercial transportation than the 1-2 ton Packet and the 3-4 ton Clipper, commercial car models introduced last year by Fargo, it still embodies the beauty, style, swagger and stamina, with which the earliest Fargo units already have established an enviable reputation.

Metal Tailoring Is Hupp Feature

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

DETROIT, Mich., June 29. — Among the many innovations which have been introduced by the Hupp Motor Car Corporation, none has attracted more attention than the new styled sheet metal tailoring employed in the New Century models.

Hupmobile was the first company to design and construct sheet metal parts in conformity with the lines of the car itself. When the New Century models were first introduced, these common place items were elevated to a new plane in the mind of buyers because of the new flair which this manufacturer had given them. For the first time, sheet metal attachments in the rear were extended to cover the gasoline tank, providing a neater and more finished appearance.

Shortly afterward, a further development took place. Hupmobile engineers redesigned the fender splash guards in both front and rear. These were so extended as to cover spring ends and shackles. Hupmobile termed this development "tailored metal" because of its complementary effect with the car as a whole. Instead of the former practice of leaving straight edge with comparatively unfinished appearance of sheet metal parts, Hupmobile had created a new and practical style. Later developments of this sheet metal work have brought about a "unity of appearance" which has, in turn, established another new Hupmobile standard in providing engineering attention to details ordinarily overlooked.

New Hudson Town Sedan Is Roomy

One of the most important additions to the Greater Hudson line is this distinguished Town Sedan. Outstanding among the features of this model are unusual roominess, luxurious upholstery and fittings and the ultra-modish lines. Choice of color, at no extra cost, is another feature, as in all Hudson and Essex models.

In order to attain the extra amount of room which this model affords, Hudson engineers hav tilted the seats slightly, built the body as long as practicable on the 139 inch chassis on which the car is mounted, and made the upholstery on the seats much deeper and more comfortable than is the common practice.

Fittings on the new car are of Wild Rose design with a Tiffany finish, which accentuates the trim beauty and smart individuality which has been carried down to the last detail in this stylish new model.

WOLVES WORRY ARKANSAS

Viking Crankcase Well Ventilated

Recent Improvement Of Engines Which Give Longer Life To Motors Is One Feature Of New Eight

Crankcase ventilation is one of the recent improvements made in automobile engines which has increased the life of motors by reducing dilution of the crankcase oil. An excellent example of one of the newest and most efficient methods of ventilating a crankcase is found in the Viking, the new V-shaped, eight cylinder companion car to the Oldsmobile Six.

For years engineers have known that a certain quantity of raw gasoline and water found its way into the crankcase with the result that it diluted the lubricating oil, thereby lessening its efficiency.

Combustion Results.

Incomplete combustion frequently results when the choke is used to start a cold engine. As a result the unburned gasoline vapor condenses on the cylinder walls and seeps down into the crankcase. Water, likewise, is the result of condensation, the moisture in the air settling on the cold walls of the engine interior. While these facts were known, engineers were at a loss to eliminate this dilution until crankcase ventilation was devised.

The advanced design of the V-type Viking engine has enabled the engineers to perfect a most efficient system of crankcase ventilation. The method employed maintains a current of air flowing through not only the crankcase but through the valve operating mechanism as well.

Chrysler Springs Smooth Out Bumps

"All roads must be smooth to a Chrysler car." is the slogan of engineers at the Chrysler plant at Detroit.

As a result of continuous and exhaustive research on the part of these engineers, the Chrysler "65," "75" and the Imperial are noted for their riding ease over any road and under all driving conditions.

Experience in building quality cars has proved to the satisfaction of Chrysler engineers that no part of an automobile is more miportant to real comfort in riding than the springs, which the Chrysler cars are designed especially for the model into which they are built.

Exhaustive tests and continued research in the Chrysler engineering laboratories have resulted in standards being set for the springs on each Chrysler model. Those on the roadster are different from those used on the sedans, coupes or phaetons, etc.

Doctors Here Explode Superstitions

Eating Of Seafoods In Summer Is O. K. If You Like 'Em, Representative Physicians Here Declare

The age-old superstition against eating fish, oysters, shrimp and other seafoods during the summer months, is exploded by Lubbock doctors.

Several interviewed on the subject, declare hat fresh fish and seafoods used in moderation may be eaten at any season of the year. However, they were of one opinion —that oysters particularly, were best adapted for use in the fall and winter months, due to their being rich in vitamins and proteins. They were also emphatic in denouncement of the superstition regarding the use of milk and fish together, and say that they may also be consumed at the same meal and no ill result therefrom.

Rollo Scores Bunk.

According to Dr. J. W. Rollo, city health officer "Thats purely the superstitions 'bunk' that seafoods cannot be eaten during the summer months. True, they should be eaten in moderation, and they should be strickly fresh. This superstition regarding their summer consumption has been handed down from generation to generation, and has no foundation to it. Another superstition is that about eating fish and drinking milk at the same meal. No harm can come of this, and a fish diet is all righ at any time," he declared.

When asked for his opinion on the subject, Dr. Sam G. Dunn, surgeon at the West Texas hospital, said "The use of seafood in summer is all right, that is shrimp and fresh fish. But oysters are really not good eating in summer. They are better in late fall and winter, in the cooler months. Occassionally we find some one who will have rash from eating seafood of any sort. Their reaction is somewhat like that of the folk who have hay fever from dust or pollen of certain flowers. Dr. Dunn said that while the superstition had to deal with deep water fish, it seems rather a "shallow subject."

Depends On Individual.

Dr. V. V. Clark, of the Lubbock clinic, explained, "This matter of eating fish in the warmer months like many other things, depends entirely on the individual, I think. The grease combined with the fish is what causes most of the trouble. It's the low acid condition of the stomach, where it does not assimulate the food properly—where people experience difficulty after eating some seafoods and oysters especially. Oysters should be eaten sparingly in summer, as they are high in vitamins and proteins. Again, there are some people who cannot eat fried oysters at any season, just as some asthmatics cannot work with certain foods or sift flour without experiencing a return attack of asthma. Many people are sensitive to foods just as are others to flowers which cause hay fever."

Stating that he thought the matter "an age-old superstition," Dr. M. C. Overton, of the Lubbock sanitarium, said, "I do not think at this season of the year that fish and seafoods are especially desirable as foods. I suppose there is some special cause for this. Perhaps it is due to the heat and also the chemical change they undergo, which in turn causes them to become unhealthy and to spoil easily. I think the superstition about combining fish and milk at the same meal should be exploded as merely a false idea — and therefore, an age old superstition."

To Celebrate 1st Plymouth Birthday

When the Pilgrim Fathers landed in December, 1620, near the famous Rock and settled what they later called Plymouth, they began to make history. The struggle of these Puritans against all natural odds, their physical and moral stamina, their success in establishing colonies in the wilderness of the northeast part of North America, has earned for them everlasting fame.

When the engineering experts of Chrysler Motors, more than a year ago, conceived and completed plans for a new low-priced Chrysler-built automobile, a suitable name was sought. So sturdily had the new car been designed in every point, so rugged was it in construction, so free was it from those limitations generally associated with lower priced cars, that it seemed entirely fitting to name the car Plymouth, because of the association of the name with that dauntless band of stalwart Pilgrims, who were among the first American colonists.

CHURCH IS PLANNED

Bids To Be Opened July 5 At Big Spring

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

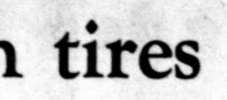

BIG SPRING, June 29.—Bids will be opened here on July 5th on the First Presbyterian church to be erected in this city at the corner of Seventh and Runnels streets. The building will cost approxiately $65,000, says Rev. R. L. Owen, pastor. The first bids were rejected by architects and the church building committee at the first letting, and more modest plans prepared according to W. T. Strange, local architect.

A desert snail of Egypt was fixed to a tablet in the British Museum in 1846. Four years after, the snail showed signs of life, was removed from the tablet and lived for a considerable time.

do you shout the name of your car or whisper it ?

When you have finished discussing politics and the home team's batting slump and the conversation turns to automobiles, you naturally would rather be an orator than an auditor. And when you are asked the name of your car, you want to shout it, not whisper it.

The driver of a Chrysler-built De Soto Six is proud to talk about his car in any company, for its name is accepted as a badge of real quality. Although De Soto Six sells for as low as $845, the price needs no apology from the owner. He found that he did not have to go higher to purchase complete motoring satisfaction. Above all else, De Soto gives a real foundation for pride of ownership. This pride must be based on something more than mere transportation, nowadays. It can be inspired only by a car that conforms to every high standard of performance, appearance, comfort and safety.

People take it for granted that an automobile will get you there and back, that it started in life with a presentable coat of paint and that it has its quota of gimcracks and knickknacks. The test of its value is how much it exceeds these minimum requirements. The stricter the test, the more evident is De Soto's all-around superiority.

Ask for a demonstration and learn for yourself why De Soto Six owners like to "talk automobile" in any company.

Physicians From Everywhere Will Attend Session

Doctors Will Travel By Autos To Annual Meet Of American Medical Association July 8 to 13

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 29.—Inquiries coming into A. A. A. touring bureaus in every section indicate that physicians from all parts of the country are planning to travel by automobile to the annual meeting of the American Medical association, which will be held at Portland, Ore., July 8 to 13.

This statement was issued today by national headquarters of the American Automobile association, which has placed all facilities of this large travel agency at the disposal of the physicians.

The A. A. A. said that all indications point to a number of members of the nation's largest medical organization combining the trip with their annual vacations and many will remain on the Pacific coast for outings.

"The Oregon State Motor association, with headquarters at Portland, which is an A. A. A. affiliation," says the national motoring body, "is having an important part in arranging for the convention in that city and will serve as the clearing house for information, especially that dealing with touring.

"Physicians en route to Portland from the east and middle west will find a wealth of important highways crossing the country, offering many diverse routes of scenic and historic interest. Many will go through the Yellowstone Park area and will find adequate highways through these public-owned domains."

Ford Uses About 150,000 Pounds Of Steel Daily

Close to 150,000 pounds of special steels are used daily by the Ford Motor company in its Rouge plant in conditioning and replacing worn tools, dies and machine parts.

Ford efficiency has found a way to beat the cost of this very costly process by reclaiming the expensive alloys from high-speed steel scrap. As it is worth $14 to $15 a ton, and, as high-speed steel, up to $1 a pound.

N N Run In Furnace.

Fifty tons of that material are run through special electric furnaces every day to reclaim the chromium, nickel, vanadium, tungsten, cobalt and molybdenum thereby saving the company thousands of dollars a day.

The equipment of that department consists of one 50-ton, two 10-ton, one 3-ton and one 1-ton electric furnaces. They turn out steel in ingot form, ranging from one-half to eight tons in weight.

In Holland all Christian names after the first are taxed.

Had Lost Hopes Of Ever Seeing A Well Day Again

"I Know What Orgatone Will Do From Actual Experience; I Gained Three Pounds First Week," Says Lubbock Visitor

"I had actually given up all hopes of ever seeing a well day again," said Mrs. B. L. Kinsey, of 3809 Harrison street, Amarillo, Texas, who was visiting her brother, who is deputy sheriff at Lubbock, and gave this interesting statement while en route to Amarillo, at the South Plains Drug Store, at Plainview.

"I had suffered," she continued, "for about thirteen years with just a general run down condition, my stomach troubled me, and I was bothered with gall stone and kidney trouble. I was so weak and nervous I couldn't hardly do a thing, and all the doctors told me I would never be well again and the fact of the matter is, I never expected to be for I was just about all in. Everything I ate caused me indigestion, and I didn't have any appetite at all, and food soured and formed gas, and hurt me so I got to where I was afraid to eat, and ate less and less every day. I was so weak and didn't have enough strength to even do my own house work and life was just a long dread from one day to another and every day seemed a week long.

"My brother at Lubbock, Texas, recommended Orgatone to me, and it was the luckiest day of my life. I began taking it. It is the wonderful medicine I have taken or ever heard of. ON AUTO ROW,

THEY HUNT PROSPECTS

Automobile dealers of Lubbock were given time enough last week to delve extensively into the list of prospects and formulate plans for the busy months that are to follow. At no time in the past six months has there been so general a let-up in business in the ratail automobile business in Lubbock and its trade territory.

ACTIVITY IS SLIGHT

Although the prospects for a busy fall season is at the present time bright in all respects, activity along Auto Row during the past week was at a low ebb. No reason for the slack in business was available other than the fact that the rural element is unusually busy with home duties and have no time for car schopping.

OPEN USED CAR LOT

Scoggin-Dickey company, new Oakland-Pontiac dealers in Lubbock, opened up a used car lot during the past week on Main street, one block north of their show rooms in the 1200 block. Otto Geisler has been named used car sales manager. The Oakland-Pontiac concern delivered two new cars during last week's business, both of which were Oaklands. C. E. Dean, of Ralls, purchased an Oakland Coupe and Paul Sisco, of Tahoka, an Oakland "Special" Sedan.

POSTON JOINS FIRM

D. L. Poston, formerly of Slaton, has joined the staff of mechanics employed by the South Plains Motor company, local Whippet-Wyllis-Knight distributors.

While the sale of new machines has been noticeably off recently, the Whippet salesmen report a number of used car transactions.

NEW CARS IN

Gough Motor company, local Studebaker-Erskine distributors, unloaded a carload of new automobiles Wednesday, including the new Dictator Eight. This new product by Studebaker was on display for the first time Thursday.

A Studebaker Commander "6" Sedan was delivered during the past week to Leon H. Edwards, 2317 14th street, C. E. Gough, manager announced yesterday.

SALES RECORD GIVEN

Sales for the month of June up through the 27th at the Gough Motor company, included 6 new cars and 19 used cars, figures given out Saturday revealed.

TWO CARS SOLD

F. A. Norman of the West Texas Motor company announced the sale of two Hupmobiles during the last week. A Hupmobile cabriolet was delivered to J. W. Sampson and a custom "six" sedan with 6 wire wheels to Mrs. F. S. Sadler, of Littlefield.

SALES ARE ANNOUNCED

Two Plymouth sedans were sold last week by the Joe Hilton company in Lubbock, Ted Tipps, sales manager announced. Both buyers were Brownfield men. L. A. Greenfield and J. A. Wright.

The Joe Hilton company at Plainview is enjoying a prosperous business, according to local Chrysler officials. Two Chrysler "75's" were sold last week.

Chevrolet Cold Room Aids Motor

The cold room of General Motors Research Laboratories designed to put cars through tests in freezing temperatures is one of the chief reasons for the heralded ability of the Chevrolet six to start easily and quickly, no matter how frigid the weather. The cold room was the first of its kind in the automobile industry and was originated an developed six years ago by General Motors engineers, since which time it has been used as a pattern by other manufacturers.

The object of the cold room, obviously, is to furnish Chevrolet engineers an opportunity to study at intimate range the reaction of the Chevrolet car to the temperatures an automobile must withstand in winter, whether left overnight in an unheated garage or parked for hours alongside the curbing of a street. It is, in short, an indoor "proving ground" where winter "weather" can be produced at will. Through the use of amonia gas, much after the manner in which it is employed in cold storage plants or in establishments devoted to the manufacture of ice, the thermometer readings can be raised or lowered by the engineers within a short space of time. For instance, with the mercury at zero, the temperature can be dropped to 45 below zero in three hours.

The Roman mile was considerably shorter than the American mile being about 1,620 yards compared with 1,760 yards.

The British Nautical Almanac was first prepared in 1767 by the Astronomer Royal, Dr. Maskelyne.

Studebaker Offers Three Eight Lines

"With the introduction of its new Dictator Eight, Studebaker now offers three lines of straight eights from $1,185 to $2,575 in addition to three lines of sixes ranging from $860 to $1,525," said C. E. Gough, local Studebaker-Erskine dealer, in commenting on the enthusiastic reception accorded the new Dictator Eight.

"The trend toward the eight-cylinder car in the fine car field is a very definite one," Mr. Gough pointed out. "Six years ago only 10 per cent of all makes of passenger car engines manufactured in the United States were eights. Today the figure is 41 per cent. It is significant, too, that 88 per cent of American cars over $2,200 are powered with eight-cylinder engines.

"In Europe, this trend is even more pronounced. At the recent Olympic show in London there were 25 makes of eight-cylinder motors displayed as against 13 in 1927. In Paris, too, at the 1929 Grand Palais Automobile Show, 27 makes of eight-cylinder cars were exhibited as against 15 the year before.

Mono-Piece Body Of Dodge Studied

Recognition of the Dodge Brothers mono-piece body as an advanced step in modern motor car body design has been added significance by experimental and research work conducted by automotive engineering students of the Oregon Institute of Technology at Portland. To carry on the investigations, sections of the mono-piece bodies were sent from the factory at Detroit.

"We regard the mono-piece body, found exclusively in the New Dodge Brothers Six models, as one of the mos t significant contributions to modern motor car design," said C. E. Spencer, principal of the automotive division of the school. "Our aim in obtaining sections of this body from the factory was to acquaint our students with this latest development in automotive body engineering. Rigidity and strength in in construction, freedom from body noises and ease of repair were found to be outstanding advantages in this construction."

The mono-piece construction introduced with the announcement of the New Dodge Brothers Six models is an all-metal seamless body that incorporates strength, safety, roominess and improved appearance. Four major sections are welded into one piece, and horizontal-vertical bolting to the chassis frame eliminates the conventional sill separating the body and chassis in other forms of construction. This lowering of the passenger load makes for lower center of gravity and perfect balance under all driving conditions without sacrificing head room.

Incubators capable of dealing with 50,000 eggs at once are in use on a poultry farm at Elten, Germany.

Oakland Head Is Alumni Prexy

Another signal honor recently was accorded to A. R. Glancy, president and general manager of the Oakland Motor Car company, when he was installed as president of the Alumni association of Lehigh university.

Mr. Glancy was graduated from the institution in 1903 as a mining engineer, a profession which he followed for some time after graduation, later becoming a construction engineer. Since joining the Oakland organization in an executive capacity five years ago, he has been regarded as one of the automotive industry's leaders, having been elected to a vice-presidency in General Motors a month ago.

LIFE...LIBERTY AND THE PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS

Just 153 years ago fifty-six men were signing their names on the most important "dotted line" in the history of the world. They were placing an order for the three million inhabitants of the Thirteen Colonies—and for the untold millions that were to follow them. They might have said, "What's the use? After all, this is only a scrap of paper. We haven't a chance in a million with the trained armies that will be sent against us." Who at that time would have denied the logic of their statement? A great many important things would never have been done in the world if logic were our only guide. Columbus might never have discovered America. Lewis and Clark might never have traversed "the vast illimitable West." Lindbergh might never have landed in Paris. Sometimes it is best to forget obstacles and to resolve to succeed at any cost. The world is served by those who dare to face odds.

And not so many years ago your own Utilities started pioneering a Great West Texas—a South Plains exploitations that would give believers in this great country happiness and freedom from things that electricity could be an aid. Today we are happy for our exploits and as we stand at the verge of still greater expansion we anticipate still greater things for a wonderful country and assure each and every subscriber that Texas Utilities Service will always be apace and ahead of the rush.

Younger Generation Upheld By City Pastors But Fears Are Expressed On Morals Practiced By Modern Folk

BY GILMORE N. NUNN
Avalanche-Journal Staff

TIME changes all things.

The moral issues of the Stone Age dealt primarily with breathes of tribal etiquette, and the moral and mental worth of man was in direct ratio to his physical ability.

There were no written codes; no certain standards of living, no definite religions and no strict laws, yet the level of morality was high. Man realized that the future of his race depended upon the safety and protection of the weaker sex, so he cherished this duty above all things else.

Man's place was afield, and he studied it, loved it, and lived there; woman's place was at the fireside, and to her the outside world was as nothing at all.

Many Ideas Expressed.

Quite naturally the morals of that time wouldn't tally with the conventions and social customs of today, nevertheless living was on a wholesome, genuine, high plane that was to be admire. Today, in our midst, we find people who compare our moral conditions with those of the pre-historic times and say we are all on the road to doom and destruction. They find fault with our every existing institution; they would blame it on the strict laws, the modern trend of freedom in thought, speech and action; they claim our churches are not creating the proper environment. Some say that drinking, gambling and public and private morals are being lowered every day; they find fault with the youth, the home, the parents of today.

Such pessimists attempt to compare the morals of the two different ages under the light of present day standards and fail. Because the pagans of long ago were ignorant, they use this as an excuse to exonerate them from their faults, and claim that we are advancing in this present day only in world knowledge—not in spirituality. These people would return to nature!

Ministers Are Questioned

In reply to the comments of these morose people, we have here the interviews with several of Lubbock's ministers. The opinions of the clergy comprise a veritable barometer on moral issues; after moulding the opinions of this community into a general article, and after subjecting them to the frigid criticism of the best of pessimists, the barometer still registers 100 per cent.

Each minister interviewed was given a set of questions pertaining to and fairly well covering the various points at issue concerning public morals. For the benefit of those who would like to compare their own opinions with the ones that follow, these questions will be printed here. Answer them for yourselves, then see how your judgment compares with that of those who have studied the subject well.

The questions follow:

1. Do you think the world is getting better or worse? Why do you think as you do?

2. Do you have any solutions to offer for these existing conditions?

3. What do you think of the much maligned "younger generation"? Do you think they are martyrs to the cause of a new age, or is it that they have brought this on themselves only by their own attitude and by championing so whole-heartedly this trend of modernism?

4. Do you think public morals are nothing more than public opinions—if not, to what extent are public opinions affecting the morals of humanity? Do they help or injure their possibilities?

5. Where do you think this freedom on thought and action will lead the coming generations? How may we curb it, or should we try to do so?

6. Do you think drinking is worse now than it used to be? —gambling?—private morals?

7. To what extent do you believe the prohibition law has affected the morals of the country, both private and public?

White Is Undecided

Dr. W. R. White, minister of the First Baptist church, made the following statements on the questions:

"No one can say definitely whether the world is better or worse as far as morality is concerned, but in my opinion it is far beter than it used to be in some respects; in others not nearly as good.

"We are living today in a period of transition due to three reasons: (1) All of our oldest traditions have suffered a severe shake-up; (2) A liberal manner of thinking on religious and moral subjects is resulting from lax and reckless living, and (3) The highly organized civilization of today has developed within us a tense and nervous spirit that demands an outlet. All things in this day and time tend to the extremes.

"Youth Apes Elders"

"As to the question raised about youth, I merely believe that the spirit of adventure in youth is an outstanding expression; our real youth is essentially an adult age. Youth does not do that which is not exemplified in his elders. We live in an age of power, all power tends to abuse unless curbed.

"Long ago youth would have followed. Of course the youth of long ago had more subtle treacherous curbs, but they didn't known of the things that the youth today understand. Our youth are healthy, and the morality of today they are lax, perhaps. There is good and there is bad by profession.

"The world has had its problems today and will have its problems tomorrow, and this generation of people will solve them. This generation will look for the best in life, and will find it."

Williams Sees Bright Side

The Rev. L. G. H. Williams, rector of the Saint Paul's-on-the-Plains Episcopal parish, made the following statements when interviewed:

"I am certain of the fact that the world is getting better.

"There is one thing that I would like to call attention to, however, and that is the manner in which headlines in the daily newspapers are set up. The best people want news, and it seems that their attention is always called to the worst. The headlines in the modern daily demoralize both old and young. More care should be given to composing them; I truly believe this would be very beneficial.

"Potentially, the younger generation is all right; our whole trouble is in the examples that are set for them by their elders. It is only natural that young people like to copy them. If we could only train the parents to use more discretion in training their children and stay home more, the children would be better. Metaphorically speaking, there are too many can-openers on the table at meal time; parents give too much absent treatment.

Morals Are Practices

"Public morals are not so much a question of public opinions as they are a question of public practices. Questionable amusements set bad examples; prominent people should be more careful in their practices.

"As youth has forever been, the young people of today don't give enough serious thought to morals; when they get so they think more of high ideals, they will come to themselves and go into better citizens.

"I feel sure that there is a good bit of secret drinking. People who ought to know better encourage it. The bootlegger is arrested, while the church member goes free. This favoritism isn't right.

"As far as gambling is concerned, I believe that the spirit of "get something for nothing" is a natural feeling that will never be eradicated. Gambling is in the blood; purify the blood!

For Young People

"Young people are matter of fact; they are solving their own problems and assuming responsibilities more than the youths of any age ever did. The proper instruction for young people and cleaner living on the part of their elders should settle the moral question definitely.

"It is natural for people to evade any kind of prohibition. A law should be enforced, for lax law enforcement will affect the morals of any country."

Munger Undecided

The Rev. H. L. Munger, pastor of the First Methodist church, in his interview regarding moral question, said:

"Whether the world is getting better morally is a difficult question to answer. In some particulars it is; in some it is not, but in a general way I believe there is a noticeable improvement. There is no doubt that those elements which are showing an improvement are more powerful in their scope and farther reaching than the ones that are injuring our present code. Some of these influences, however are undermining our Christian ideals.

"The modern crime wave indicates a letting down of ideal and a destroying of moral standards; a deepening of religious life and conviction through the efforts of Christians seems to be the only way to right this condition.

"The younger generation is usually to a large degree what the older generation before them is. This subject does not resolve itself into the sole discussion of correcting the morals of the coming generation; rather than that it is a question of the entire generation! A bishop at our last conference made the statement that there was no problem at hand dealing with the younger generation.

"I don't doubt at all that there are temptations and conditions existing today that the older generation never came in contact with. Shows, cars, and a lowering of sexual barriers, for instance. It's a certain fact that it takes more stamina for the youth of today to live as cleanly as did their predecessors.

"I believe that public opinion has a material influence on public morals. If the public frowns on a certain act, the individual will be very slow about making it a practice, but if this same individual thinks that the public is winking at his action, he will be only too prone to do it. We must have a public opinion to enforce law and to create a good moral atmosphere.

"A few days ago a woman of my congregation said:

'In 50 years there will be no such thing as marriage.'"

"Do you believe this, Mr. Munger?" inquired the reporter.

"If the trend keeps on as it is now, we're coming to the place where we will break with all of the old standards and institutions that are so well founded in our midst at present, I'm afraid. It is truly deplorable!

For Prohibition

"I don't think that the drinking today is nearly as bad as it was in the days of the opene saloon. I'm sure it's not, for when I was a boy and lived in a town of not more than three or four thousand, there were thirteen open saloons there,—and they were all kept busy too!

"Some try to make us think that it isn't working and never will. When I was in Chicago last summer, the papers were full of criticisms about the rigid efforts that were being made to enforce this law. We aren't giving it an even chance.

"In closing, I will say with all due respect to our "dough-boys' that the ideals and private morals were greatly lowered during the war. Such a thing could not have been avoided, I don't believe, however, that prohibition has hurt the public or private morals to any degree. Bad things are traceable to other existing conditions."

RIVAL WIVES

strange absence, was engaged in a strange scene with his father, stabbed the girl's tender heart. But what could she tell him? Nan squared her shoulders, lifted her head gallantly. That was part of her job.

"If Mr. Morgan comes in or telephones, tell him I've gone home, please," she said to Kathleen O'Hara on her way out.

She found the sedan where she had parked it that morning, got in, started it mechanically, with the ease of three months' practice. She had driven down alone that morning, for her husband had insisted on accompanying his former wife and the doctor as far as the business district, on their way to the hospital. There had been no chance for him to kiss her good-by, with Iris watching every movement he made. Would he ever kiss her again?

When Nan stopped the car before the house which had been her home for three months, Cop, Curtis' police dog, raced across the lawn to greet her, followed more slowly, but as eagerly by "Little Pat" O'Brien.

"Hello, Mrs. Morgan!" the cook's 11-year-old son san gout. "Curt has gone with his papa to see his mother at the hospital. Mr. Morgan come for him in a taxi 'bout 10 minutes ago, and—"

"Thank you, Little Pat," Nan interrupted crisply.

The boy, who adored her, looked nonplussed and crestfallen, then, to hide his confusion, began to chase the police dog with loud whoops.

Nan locked the car carefully, then walked steadily, unhurriedly up the path to the house.

"Please, ma'am," Estelle greeted her nervously in the hall, "Maude says would you mind telling her what you want for dinner, tonight."

"Tell Maude to prepare anything she pleases," Nan wanted to answer. Instead, she went directly to the kitchen.

An hour later she raised her tear-wet, convulsed face from the cushions of her chaise longue and listened. Yes, they were back. She heard Curtis' shrill, excited voice, the deeper rumble of her husband's. Nan sprang to her feet, flew from one door to the other, locking them. He shouldn't bring his load of grief into this room that had only last night witnessed perfect joy!
