Local businesses burglarized

$5,000 taken from Kiker-Seale

COUNTING THE LOSSES after a burglary Saturday morning at Bealls Department Store downtown was store manager Ben Balanay, who said a large amount of jeans, jackets, shoes and cologne were among the large number of items stolen.

Police are investigating a weekend burglary at Bealls Department Store at East Second and Elm Streets in which a large quantity of clothing, jewelry and other merchandise was taken.

They are also looking into the reported theft of $5,000 in cash from the office area of Kiker-Seale Funeral Home at 338 Locust St. and a vandalism case in the Colorado High School weightroom.

Police Chief Pat Taylor said the Bealls burglary, reported at 8:10 a.m. Saturday by an employee opening the store, appeared to be a professional job by more than one perpetrator but that a large amount of merchandise was left behind at the back door.

"It sure didn't look like their first rodeo," he said. "It was well-planned and thought out. It's not some high school kids playing a prank. It's the real deal."

Chief Taylor said Bealls officials told him the store chain has had similar break-ins recently in Orange, Bay City, Kingsville and Anderson Mill, near Georgetown.

Taylor said entry was gained by cutting a hole through the roof and that Levi's and Guess jeans and jackets, jewelry, men's cologne, Nike athletic shoes and other items were stolen.

The store's telephone and burglar alarm lines were disabled. The amount of the loss had not been officially estimated.

Taylor said police "would be real interested" if anyone saw an unfamiliar van or panel

Burn victim recovering

A 48-year-old Colorado City woman who was critically burned in a Jan. 20 fire here has improved to stable condition in the burn unit of University Medical Center in Lubbock.

A hospital spokeswoman said Dailee Williiams of 407 Cedar St. underwent skin graft surgery Saturday after suffering second and third-degree burns over 18 percent of her body in the fire that killed her 23-year-old daughter-in-law, Rhonda Cope.

She said Mrs. Williams' release will be based on the progress of her skin grafts.

"It depends on how well she does, but right now she's doing very well," the spokeswoman said.

The two women were taking up floor tile and cleaning a floor with paint thinner about 8:10 a.m. Tuesday, Jan. 20, when fumes apparently reached a gas space heater on the wall and ignited, Fire Marshal Billy Ray Williamson said.

Ray Dobson, 38, of 325 W. Sixth St. said Tuesday that he saw smoke coming out the front door of the former Lone Wolf Furniture building at 419 E. Second St. downtown and then saw Mrs. Williams come running outside with her clothes and hair smoking.

Dobson, who was walking in front of the nearby Skinny's convenience store toward his business, Designs in Wood, next door to Lone Wolf Furniture, filled a bucket with water and put out the flames on Mrs. Cope, who was still inside on the floor.

"It was pretty scary," he

Repairs made on major water leak

A major leak in a 24-inch water line about six miles south of Colorado City on the Colorado River kept city crews and workmen from two construction companies busy most of last week.

Water Supt. Kenneth Rich knew something was wrong when water intake in the incoming line at the water treatment plant dropped by two-thirds on the afternoon of Friday, Jan. 16.

Rich turned the pump off and started using mostly water from Lake Colorado City instead of Lake Champion water, and he and City Manager Steve Shutt twice walked the 3 1/2-mile underground line between the two lakes.

When they failed to find the leak, they turned the pump back on full-force on Monday, Jan. 19, so that the leak would reveal itself.

Rich took to the air with local pilot J. O. Dockrey Jr. and saw a 10-foot-wide sinkhole on the south bank of the river about three-quarters of a mile from the Lake Colorado City Dam at 9 a.m. Tuesday.

Rich said, "There's the leak," and Dockrey put an exclamation point on Rich's observation by "peeling off" fighter plane-style and zooming the location.

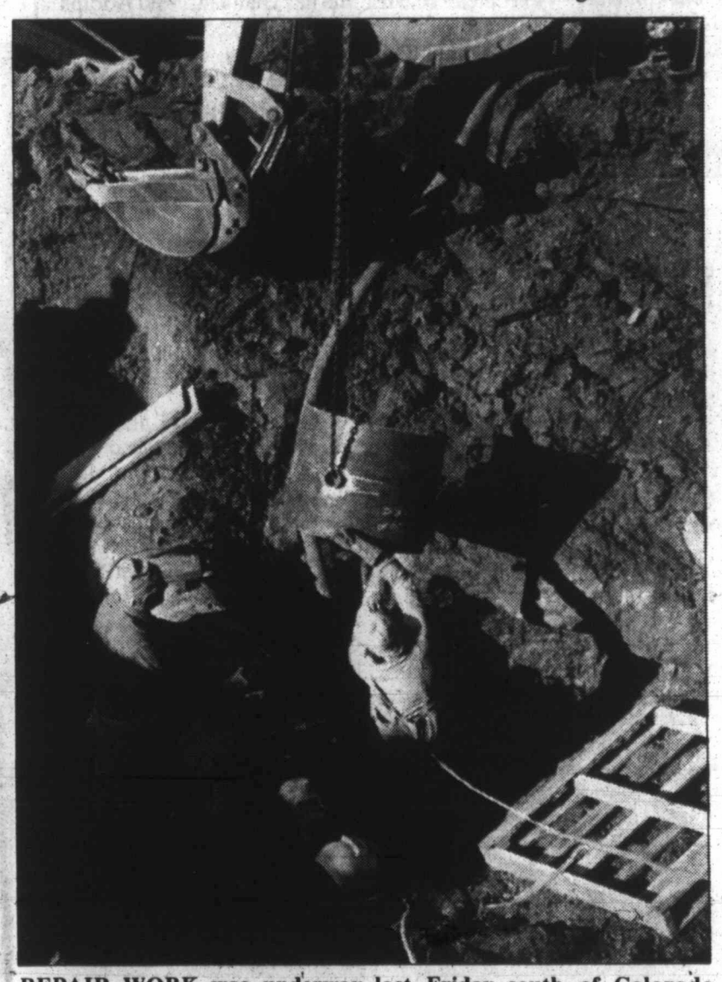

Joined by one of the two crews from Roberts Construction Co. of San Angelo that has been plugging old water lines here, city maintenance men took a bulldozer, a trackhoe and two backhoes, cut a road down to the river on the Thompson Ranch property and then used a pneumatic hammer on one of the backhoes to break out rock around the line and clear a working area.

After digging a hole about 40 feet wide and 15 feet deep, they installed two water pumps and lines to keep the site clear of the river water that was seeping in through the rock.

There was a 10-inch hole in a joint of the concrete and steel pipeline and deterioration in the seam.

Shutt said the location was

Indigent apppeal is heard

Mitchell County Hospital Board members Tuesday night heard an appeal from a County Indigent Health Care Program client and denied the appeal because of excessive income.

Coordinator Kristi Carter said the unemployed woman is receiving an average of $92 a month from relatives when $78 is the maximuim allowable.

However, the board noted that the woman is eligible to reapply next month if her outside income drops.

Other business in the meeting included a medical staff report by Dr. Dee Roach that influenza cases at the Rural Health Clinic at 505 Chestnut St. are down but that a respiratory virus has been sweeping the county in all age groups.

Certified nurse's aide Susan Shoals was named "Employee of the Year" for 1997.

The meeting was attended by board members Tom Carlock, Dale Geiger, Virgil Stone, Kenneth Beasley, Kent Boyd and Shirley Clifton. Kenneth Rogers was absent.

Boll weevil referendum delayed

A referendum whether a boll weevil eradication program should continue in the Rolling Plains Central Boll Weevil Eradication, Zone which includes Mitchell County, has been delayed until March 11. The delay will satisfy a legal requirement for publicly posting the notice of the referendum.

The original referendum was scheduled for February 27.

The March 11 referendum will also elect a board member to represent the Rolling Plains Central zone on the statewide board of directors for the Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation Inc.

Cotton producers who farm in the zone and who have grown cotton for at least seven years may place their names on the March 11 ballot for the board member position. Those wishing to be placed on the ballot must fill out a nomination form and have it postmarked by February 8 to the Texas Department of Agriculture at P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas, 78711 or fax the form to (512) 463-1104.

Nomination forms are available at local county extension service offices; the Texas Department of Agriculture in Austin at (800) 835-5832 or (512) 463-7593; and the Texas Boll Weevil Eradication office in Abilene at (800) 687-

The foundation has scheduled a growers meeting to discuss current eradication program status and answer questions regarding the upcoming election.

The meeting in Mitchell County is set for Monday, Feb. 9 at the C.C. Thompson Room, starting at 6 p.m.

Agreement is reached to make roadbase material

The long-running story of how to clean up pollution from the old Col-Tex Refinery on the southwestern side of Colorado City moved into the final chapters Tuesday.

Mitchell County commissioners' approved an agreement among the county, Fina Oil and Chemical Co. and the firm that will make roadbase from the polluted soil, Environmental Recycling Co. of Prairieville, La.

County Judge Ray Mayo read a letter from Fina engineer Danny Kite of Dallas, who has been working with the city and county on the project, saying the county will need to provide 6,000 to 7,500 tons of broken concrete and some caliche to mix with chemically polluted soil from the 160-acre plant site.

Kite said 12,000 to 15,000 tons of roadbase worth $20 per ton will be produced by Environmental Recycling at the Colorado City site.

Locals voice opinions on Karla Faye case

The Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles' clemency decision on the fate of convicted murderer Karla Faye Tucker is expected Monday, one day before she is scheduled to be executed, and Mitchell Countians are divided on the issue.

Some say murderers should die for their crimes regardless of their gender, others that they oppose the death penalty in any case and some that Ms. Tucker's apparent rehabilitation and religious faith should be enough to earn a commutation of her sentence.

A Texas Department of Criminal Justice spokesman in Huntsville said Tuesday that Walls Unit personnel, where all Texas executions are carried out by lethal injection, are preparing for Ms. Tucker's execution in exactly the same way they have gotten ready for dozens of others in the past several years.

Public Information Officer Larry Fitzgerald said he has witnessed more than 50 executions in the four years he has been with the TDCJ and the parole board recommended clemency from the governor in none of them, but Ms. Tucker's fate will not be sealed until the board meets on Monday to consider her request for Gov. George W. Bush to be asked to stay her death sentence.

Gov. Bush cannot grant clemency in a death penalty case unless asked to do so by the board of pardons and paroles, and 10 of the 18 board members must recommend clemency for the case to be forwarded to him.

"The last time I saw her was three weeks ago, and I think that she is prepared," Fitzgerald said. "She has steadfastly maintained her Christian beliefs. She has never wavered on that.

"She told me at one point that it's God's will, whatever happens. That's her resignation."

Fitzgerald said the TDCJ has a well-established procedure that it follows on every execution, putting 37 men to death last year.

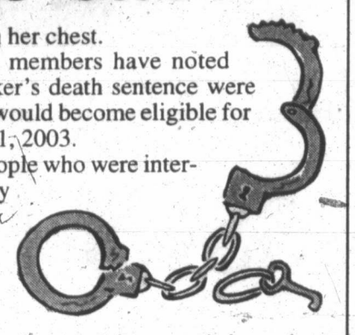

"We don't plan on treating this execution any differently than any other execution," he said. "The only difference is the media attention and some protest groups that have seized on the Tucker case.

"It certainly has turned into a gender issue, but that's something that we're not considering. We're here to carry out the orders of the court. There was no consideration given to her gender at that time."

Ms. Tucker, 38, was given a death sentence for her part in the June 13, 1983, murder of Jerry L. Dean in Houston. Her co-defendant, Daniel Garrett, died of liver disease in prison in 1993.

Dean was bludgeoned with a hammer by Garrett and finished off with a pickax wielded by Ms. Tucker in Dean's apartment, and when Deborah Thornton was discovered hiding under a blanket, Ms. Tucker killed her with the ax and left it sticking in her chest.

Parole board members have noted that if Ms. Tucker's death sentence were commuted, she would become eligible for parole on July 21, 2003.

Among 10 people who were interviewed Monday at Fuller Foods in Colorado City, Lee May said he does not think Ms. Tucker should be executed because it has taken too long to get her to the executioner's gurney.

"Why has it taken so long?" May asked. "If they're going to kill her, they shouldn't have taken so long to do it."

Virginia Fuller said she has "mixed emotions" about the case but that she does have sympathy for Ms. Tucker and is not in favor of the execution because her rehabilitation appears to be genuine.

Yolanda Rivera said, however, that Ms. Tucker's gender or rehabilitation should not be a factor. "I think when someone does something bad, takes somebody's life, that she deserves it," she said.

Friea Humphrey said clemency should not be granted because the defendant is a woman and that if she is guilty of murder, she should be executed like any other convicted killer.

Two of the people who were interviewed had had personal experience with such cases, and one of them, Mary Kay Williamson of Colorado City, said she is still in favor of clemency for Ms. Tucker.

Mrs. Williamson said her brother's wife was murdered by the infamous "Traveling Rapist," Samuel Hawkins, who was executed some years ago, but she never developed the vindictive feelings that many crime victims do, adding that the most difficult aspect of such cases for the survivors is the repeated appeals that keep coming up.

Tommy Thomas of Odessa, who has a home at Lake Colorado City, said his wife was once accosted by a multiple murderer who had been released on parole and that he wrestled the man and held him down until police arrived.

"It makes you wonder what's wrong with society," Thomas said. "I think it should go through."

Penny Gonzales said she is "not against it if she needs it."

Edgar Rogers said Ms. Tucker should not be executed "because she has changed," and Adolph Villegas said he is against the execution "because they got her boyfriend."

Beulah Anderson said she has "trouble with the death penalty" because it is wrong to kill but that she believes convicted murderers should serve life sentences with no possibility of parole.

Cap Rock files motion to have lawsuit moved

Attorneys for Cap Rock Electric Co-op and its president and chief executive officer, David W. Pruitt of Midland, Friday filed a motion here in 32nd District Court to move a former company executive's lawsuit for wrongful termination to Midland County.

Ronald W. Lyon of Sherman, representing the company, and James Boldrick of Midland, representing Pruitt, claim in the change of venue motion that Mitchell County does not have jurisdiction in the suit filed by former Cap Rock vice president Beverly Collier of Westbrook.

The lawyers said the suit should be tried in Midland County not only because Pruitt and the company are based there but also because that is where the decision to terminate her was made.

Mrs. Collier claims Pruitt fired her because she believed a new billing practice that he wanted her to begin using with Cap Rock's bigger customers would have been illegal and she refused to accept it.

She also alleges that he made defamatory claims about her to justify the firing.

Mrs. Collier had been with the company since it was Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative in 1976, and she was promoted to vice president and transferred to Stanton in October 1996 to head Cap Rock's billing, customer service and collections departments.

"The crux of the plaintiff's cause of action is that she was terminated for refusal to perform an illegal act," the change of venue motion says, adding that no specific acts of breach of contract or libel and slander are alleged in the suit.

District Judge Weldon Kirk of Sweetwater will rule on the motion.

The company has denied any wrongdoing.

have said they intend to make extensive use of the roadbase to repave streets and roads.

The commissioners court also agreed to remove the roadbase from the plant site.

Kite said in his letter that the first roadbase, or asphalt stabilized base, may be produced as early as Feb. 15.

Commissioners indicated that they will break up old concrete foundations to provide the first concrete for the mixing process.

In other business in a 9 a.m. specially called meeting, the court heard landowner Terry Revis ask for help replanting trees adjoining his ranch property about 20 miles west of Colorado City near Iatan Road.

Revis said a crew of inmates clearing brush along a county road at the request of Pct. 2 Commissioner Carl Guelker in the summer of 1996 cut trees as far as nine feet over his property line, and Revis said the cutting interfered with a deer crossing and made it harder for him to protect deer from road hunters.

Revis also asked the court to excuse him from paying property taxes for a year.

Pct. 4 Commissioner Bill Preston said the commissioners court does not have the authority to excuse taxpayers from county taxes, but he said the county should have enough money in its operating fund to help replant the trees.

Guelker indicated that he was amenable to replacing the trees, with Revis saying "a baker's dozen" fruit trees would be acceptable.

The commissioners have been considering buying insurance for about 60 volunteer firefighters in the Colorado City, Loraine and Westbrook fire departments, and they voted to write each department to determine if they should proceed.

Judge Mayo said the initiative was taken after a Loraine firefighter was injured last year and was inadequately insured, and he said the county's expense would only be about $2,000 annually.

A budget transfer was approved to pay $12,545 for the "panic button" alarm system that has been installed in county offices.

The judge noted that the alarm to the Jan. 20 fire on East Second Street in which one woman was killed and another critically injured was sounded on a panic button in the county tax office across the street.

Lesa Oliver of the Mental Health-Mental Retardation office at 136 E. Third St. gained authority to have a third telephone line installed, and a request was approved from Mitchell County Librarian Nancy Mayo to apply for a $1,700 grant from the Texas Library Association to buy $500 in adult non-fiction books, $500 in junior non-fiction books, $500 in junior fiction books and $200 in audio cassettes.

Feb. 2 is ag census deadline

Federal agricultural officials are urging farmers and ranchers to return their 1997 Census of Agriculture forms by the Monday, Feb. 2, deadline.

Mike Sweatt, county executive director of the Farm Service Agency, said his office in the G-Kell Building at Highway 208 and Interstate 20 will help people fill out their forms if they need assistance.

"We have had a pretty good response," Sweatt said. "We have to get the forms back to the Census takers to give them all the numbers they're looking for."

He said, however, that some Mitchell Countians have found parts of the form confusing and have needed help.

A spokesman for the Texas Agricultural Statistics Service in Austin said most of the forms, mailed three to five weeks ago, have been returned.

"Farmers and ranchers who are holding their forms because their financial records are not available should complete their forms using their best estimates," the spokesman said.

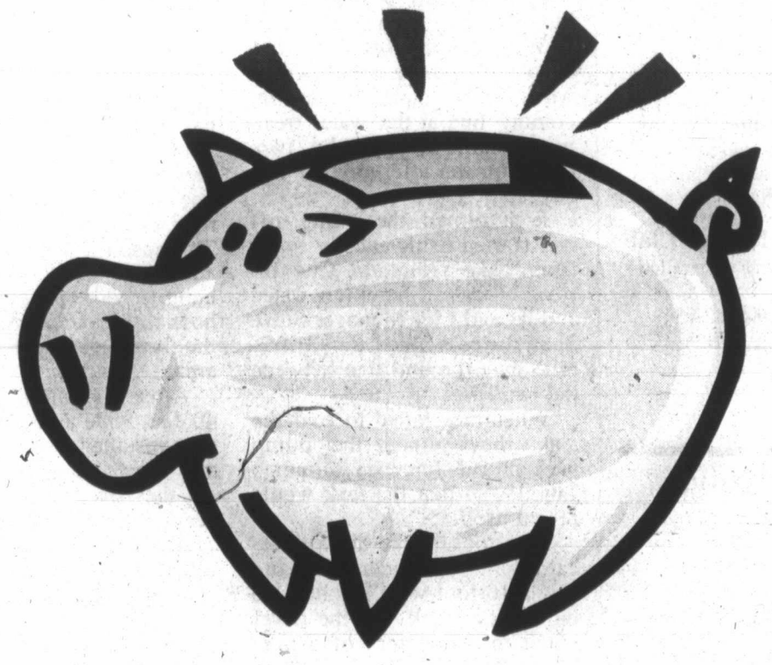

"Those who received a Census of Agriculture form but haven't returned it because they don't operate a farm or ranch should make a note of that on the form and return it so they will not be contacted again."

She said farmers and ranchers who are considering not returning the form should be aware that they are required by law to answer the Census.

"Each mailed form, reminder or personal visit from a Census taker costs time and money and delays the release of data, currently scheduled to begin in the spring of 1999," she said.

Sweatt estimated that Mitchell County has 1,200 to 1,300 residents who are involved in agriculture either as producers or landowners.

State Park needs improvements...but no money available

Getting between $150,000 and $250,000 to improve Lake Colorado City State Park is not an easy proposition, but Park Manager Mark Fambro thinks it is necessary if the park is to stay in touch with the times.

For the past three years, he has been trying to get money to build 16 cottages on the south side of Dorn Creek Cove, which currently has only non-electrical campsites with parking driveways and covered picnic tables.

But appropriations are tight in the Texas Departrment of Parks and Wildlife, with competition from bigger parks like those at Brownwood and Possum Kingdom, and many potential visitors are by-passing Colorado City for parks that have more to offer.

As the 21st Century approaches, Fambro said, fewer vacationers want to pitch a tent and more want some of the comforts of home.

Dorn Creek Cove is only open five weekends a year, bringing in about $2,500, and it attracts mostly people in expensive recreational vehicles or with camper trailers and few tent campers.

"The future trends of recreation are edging away from traditional camping," said Fambro, who has been park manager for nine years. "Our constituents don't mind paying more money, but they want a little nicer facility.

"People who are just now getting into camping don't want to tent-camp, but they don't want to pay $30,000 to $50,000 for a camping trailer. The 20-something people are wanting shelters or cabins with air conditioning.

"Camping out in July and August in 100-degree heat in a tent doesn't appeal to them that much."

Dorn Creek Cove is in the north-central area of the park west of Colorado City, and the area where Fambro wants to build is on the south side of the cove. He also wants eventually to build a marina on the cove's north side.

State penitentiary inmates cleared the cove of heavy brush and made it attractive, and Fambro said inmate labor might be used with the cottages to cut costs.

He wants to build 16 12-by-15-foot fully enclosed cottages with four single beds, a lockable door, two windows that can be raised on each long wall and electrical power with ceiling fans. Running water, restrooms and showers are already available at a nearby park building.

Most of the expense would be in laying electrical lines and concrete foundations, he said.

Fambro is considering a nightly rate of $20 to $25, and he thinks a modernized site would bring in $25,000 a year. The cottages would abut the covered picnic tables.

Dorn Creek Cove and the north end of the Lakeview Camping Area are the northernmost campsites in the park, with the popular Rolling Hills and Mesquite Circle areas to the south along the western shores of the lake.

The park has 50 non-electrical and 78 electrical campsites for a total of 128, and the upgrading of Dorn Creek Cove would change the ratio to 34-94.

Judy Stewart of Loraine, incoming president of the Colorado City Area Chamber of Commerce, said the chamber is wholeheartedly in favor of the project because it would be sure to bring in more visitors.

"They have facilities like that at Lake Brownwood that're really nice," she said. "You see the men staying outside in tents and the women staying in the cabins."

Fambro said he has been increasingly motivated during each of the three years he has been proposing the project because the park has been turning away hundreds of potential visitors each year.

"We get several hundred calls a year from people who are wanting to come, but they want cabins or shelters or something enclosed and we just can't accommodate them," Fambro said. "Whereas state parks throughout the state have cabins, all we have is campsites."

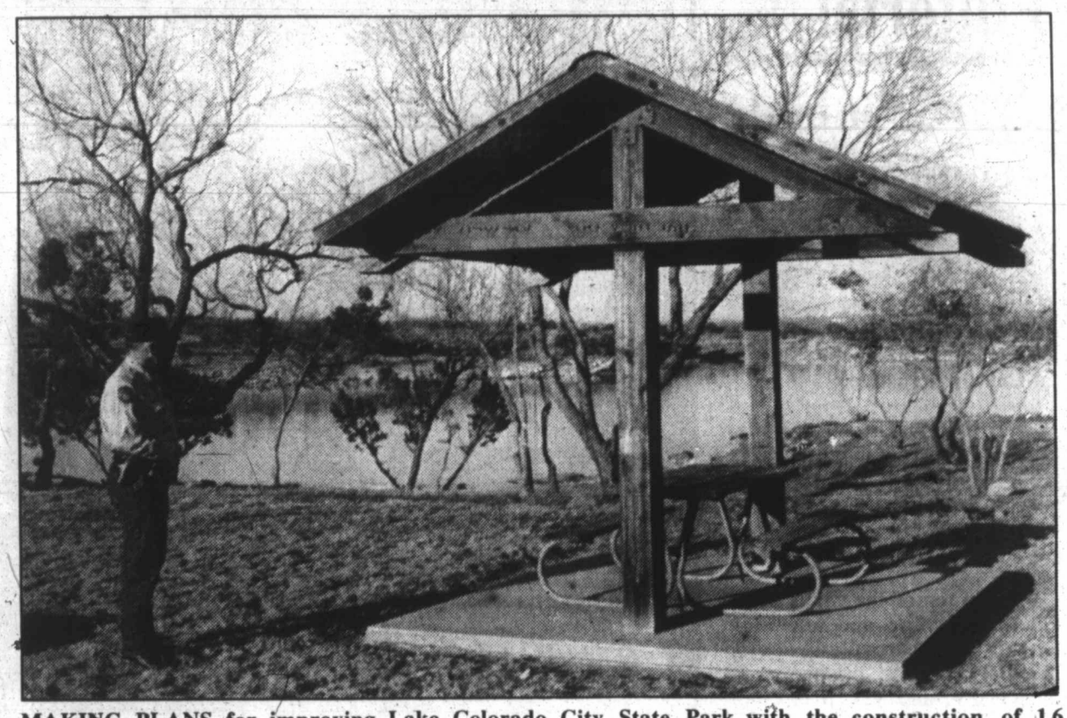

A cabin is similar to the cottages Fambro envisions, but with running water and bathrooms.

Other parks also have screened shelters, and cottages like Fambro wants to build are in some East Texas parks.

Fambro said the Colorado City park drew 274,138 visitors last year and usually attracts 275,000 to 280,000, peaking with over 300,000 four years ago, and he said the park has lost probably 10,000 in the past 10 years, because of its relatively primitive facilities.

The existing campsites rent for $8 a day for non-electrical sites and $11 for those with electricity.

Lake Colorado City State Park is in Region 6 of the Texas Department of Parks and Wildlife, which runs from the Panhandle to Wichita Falls, southeast to Glen Rose and Meridian and west to Big Spring.

MAKING PLANS for improving Lake Colorado City State Park with the construction of 16 cottages is park manager Mark Fambro, who plans to use penitentiary inmate labor to cut costs in the project.

Changes in the law made by the 75th Legislature require a retention referendum be held allowing eligible voters to confirm they want to continue a boll weevil program in the zone.

Growers in the Rolling Plains Central Zone initially approved a boll weevil eradication program December 1, 1994 and a maximum assessment of $10 per land acre to fund it. The assessment rate will continue at that level.

Unlike establishment referenda where two-thirds of all voters must approve a proposition, a majority of those returning ballots will determine whether an eradication program will continue. The Texas Department of Agriculture will mail ballots to all eligible voters in the zone by February 18.

The March 11 referendum for the zone was established by new legislation that corrects a constitutional problem found by the Texas Supreme Court with the statewide boll weevil eradication program. Under the new statute, the Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation continues to carry out the program. However, TDA takes on additional responsibilities that include setting new elections on assessments and eradication programs in regional zones and appointing advisory committees for each zone.

Counties in the Rolling Plains Central Eradication Zone are: Baylor, Callahan, Comanche, Eastland, Erath, Fisher, Haskell, Jones, Knox, Mitchell, Nolan, Palo Pinto, Scurry, Shackelford, Stephens, Stonewall, Throck-morton, Young and parts of Archer, Borden, Brown and Taylor.

TDCJ inmate comforts and privileges

By Glen Castlebury
Information Officer
Texas Department of Criminal Justice

HUNTSVILLE -- The Texas prison system is unique in many important ways, but it still attracts certain "myths" that inmates might wish were true and taxpayers hope aren't true.

At the top of the myth list is air conditioning and television -- and more particularly color television. Yes, prisoners do watch TV, and yes, it is color TV. But it does not come at taxpayer expense.

All TV sets are purchased with the inmates' own money because they are purchased with the profits from the inmate commissaries, the in-prison stores where inmates can buy snack food, toiletry items and approved magazines and books.

Once the TV is in the prison, only the basic networks, sports and educational channels are permitted, and what's viewed is regulated by the guards who keep the remote controls.

Television sets are usually located in dayrooms where from 60 to 90 prisoners may watch one set. The dayrooms are typically outfitted with metal benches bolted to the floor. No kicking back in the old recliner!

And when watching TV in the heat of Texas summers, prisoners don't enjoy the luxury of air conditioning. Texas prisons have heat, but they are not air-conditioned. Summer daytime temperatures can soar into the 90's in the cellblocks, and much of that daytime heating lingers during the overnight hours.

The prisons have forced air systems that keep inside air moving and fresh air coming in. That is a health measure as prisons stay on constant alert for airborne contagious diseases when so many people are housed so densely, particularly in humid areas.

Prison administrators look on the TV sets as the least expensive form of occupying prisoners' time and keeping them out of mischief during off-hours.

The mention of "off-hours" brings up the myth about prisoners sitting on their duffs all day. Not in Texas!

Most citizens are surprised to learn that in Texas prisons, the day starts with wake-up call at 3:30 a.m. Breakfast starts at 4:30 a.m. and work starts about 6 a.m.

Work? Yes, every able-bodied inmate in the Texas prison system works a full day's job every day. No other state prison can make that statement. And in Texas, not one prisoner is paid one dime for working -- and again, no state system can say that.

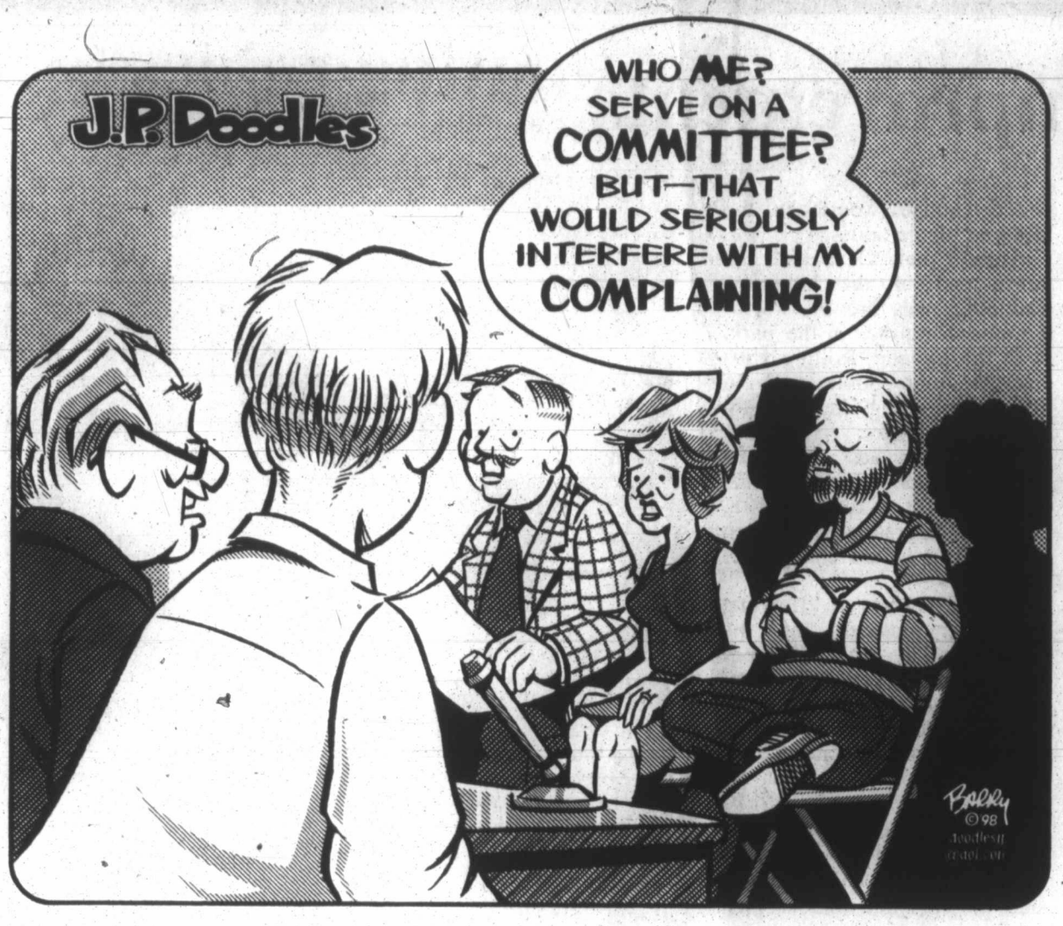

The largest majority of Texas inmates work in prison support jobs -- cooking, cleaning, laundry and maintenance of the system's 107 prison units.

Texas prisons have won national acclaim for their cleanliness, the product of constant elbow-grease by in-mate crews! With the system as large as it is, many prison support functions must run 24 hours a day.

About 10,000 inmates work in the system's agriculture jobs, which last year produced almost $50 million worth of edible crops, livestock and cotton for the prison system on 139,000 acres of farm and ranch land.

(Prison units which don't have enough land to be in the

Healing Waters

By Tumbleweed Smith

Around present day Sulphur Springs, Caddo Indians discovered bubbling pools of water curbed by native rocks and shaded by canopies of oak, cottonwood, willow and pecan trees. The water had a healing effect and the tribe used the springs for restorative bathing.

For specific ailments, they might sip water from the varity of mineral springs in the area or treat their illnesses with poultices from other water sources nearby.

The Indians held the springs in reverence. When they had to leave their tribal home, they left the healing waters and their camp grounds in pristine condition. When white settlers arrived, they found an area lush and beautiful, a perfect location to begin a new life.

Entrepreneur Eli Bibb established the first business in Sulphur Springs. In 1845 he built a one room cabin near the springs and sold basic items. He kept a small supply of whiskey and some of his homemade persimmon beer to satisfy the thirst of travelers. He developed a campground on a four acre plot of ground that was described as one of the most beautiful spots in Texas.

The old campground today lies withing the city limits of Sulphur Springs. In the developing years, enterprising men bought property around the spring lot and built hotels. Guest bathed in mineral water. Soon a public bath house was built on the spring lot.

Word about the healing waters spread and people came from every direction in hopes of curing their eye, kidney, stomach, skin and other diseases. Sulphur Springs became a resort town. New doctors opened practices and prescribed drinking the water and bathing in it. One doctor made a salve from the waters to treat eye problems.

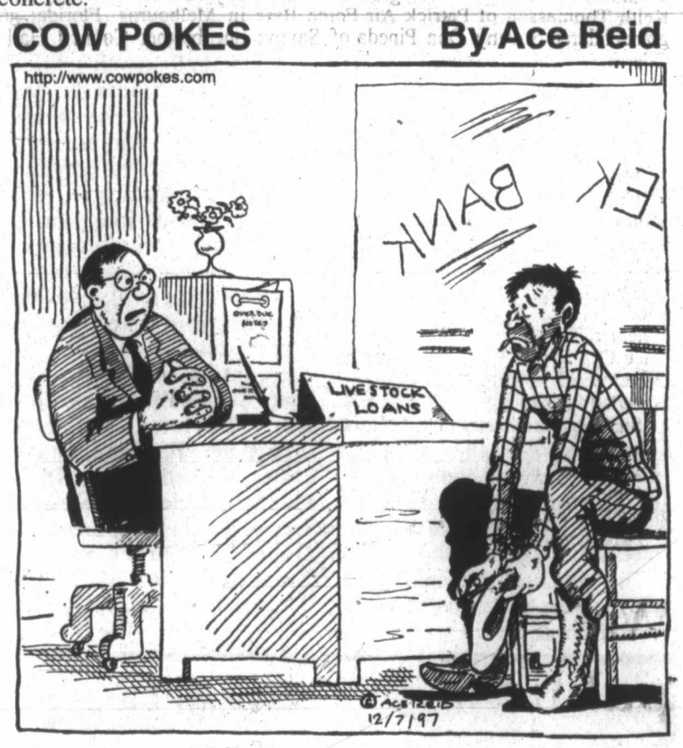

There were several springs in the area, each one seeming to treat a specific medical problem. People with kidney disorders used water from the Jefferson Street Spring. Water from the Collegiate Institute Spring restored youth. The Crabtree Sour Well water helped internal disorders and improved complexion.

One sickly man arrived from the east. Doctors had given up on him and he went to Sulphur Springs as a last resort. After drinking the water from the Crabtree well, his health had improved sufficiently for him to go to a farm south of town to help gather a bumper Elberta peach crop. At the end of the summer harvest he married one of the farmer's beautiful daughters.

Water from the Crabtree well had a bad taste. On Sunday afternoons, dating couples went there. If the young man could drink a cup of the water without making a face, he would propose.

The Downtown Square Springs provided drinking water to horses, oxen and mules. It was paved over in the 40's to provide parking spaces for automobiles.

The Spa business in Sulphur Springs is now a distant memory. The springs, which once were the source of growth for the city, are now a problem to builders. Many springs have been sealed with concrete.

TDH begins fighting rabies in West Texas

You may not have heard of the Texas Department of Health's air corps, but they have one and it's fighting an important battle against rabies in the southern, central and western regions of the state.

After swathing South Texas with 1.4 million vaccine pellets last week, the TDH's three bright yellow Twin Otter airplanes moved into West Texas this week and Tuesday were working the Mitchell and Nolan County areas, among others:

Supervisor Doug McBride said over his cell phone near Midland Tuesday afternoon that the planes, working out of Odessa and Burnet, would cover a 40-county area in Central and West Texas before their work was done.

The department researched what type of bait to make to reach coyotes best in South Texas and gray foxes in West and Central Texas, McBride said, and decided on fish meal for coyotes and vanilla-flavored dog food for the foxes.

"We were testing what gray foxes would favor, and it looked like they had a sweet tooth," he said, explaining that the rectangular inch-long and inch and a half wide fox baits carry a packet of rabies vaccine inside.

"The fish meal for coyotes smells bad to people but very good to coyotes."

McBride said the planes dropped 1.4 million baits in South Texas to combat a canine strain of rabies and will drop 1.1 million in West and Central Texas, working out of Odessa this week and moving to Burnet, near Austin, at the end of the week.

He said some coyotes might eat the fox bait but that coyotes are the primary carriers of rabies in South Texas and gray foxes have been the culprits in the western and central regions.

The TDH said in a press release that there has been a 93-percent drop in animal cases of gray fox rabies in West and Central Texas since the department's first air drop in 1995 and a 98-percent decline in South Texas canine rabies cases during the same period.

to be expected because it was at a "bang point" at the bottom of a hill and below where the pipe lifts up another hill just before it reaches Lake Colorado City.

He said it was fortunate that the leak was not in the pipe under the river because a "coffin" device would have had to be constructed to work in and the river water would have been hard to contend with.

The line was laid in 1959 by the Gifford-Hill Co. of Dallas, and a two-man Gifford-Hill crew was summoned Thursday to put a steel collar and then a "diaper" device filled with concrete slush around the pipe.

The pipefitters arrived about about 2:30 p.m. Thursday and finished the repairs just before dark, and the Roberts Construction and city men filled in the hole Friday in preparation for the system to be re-started Friday afternoon.

said. "I thought the building was on fire, but it was her."

Mrs. Cope was airlifted to University Medical Center but died the same day at 8:20 p.m. Her body was cremated at a Lubbock mortuary and her remains taken to Houma, La., where she has a number of relatives.

Her husband, Tommy Cope, was with her mother in Orange this week, Dobson said, and Mrs. Williams' son James Cope of Colorado City is working with Dobson to complete the remodeling of the store into a coffee shop.

"Her skin is growing back at an abnormal rate," Dobson said. "She's doing real good, and we think in about 10 days she will be out of the hospital.

"We're going to try to have the building ready when she gets out."

He said the surgery that has been performed "is probably all the surgery she's going to have to have."

The fire report was called in from across the street at the county tax office over the county's new "panic button" alarm system.

Marshal Williamson said the fire was out when firefighters arrived in two trucks.

Dobson was treated for smoke inhalation at Mitchell County Hospital and released that afternoon.

Mrs. Cope had moved to Colorado City from California only two weeks prior to the accident, and her husband was planning to follow her here.

Wind break tree orders being taken

Mitchell County Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD) offers windbreak tree tips.

"A tree standing alone adds a certain aesthetic quality to rural living. But the systematic planting of trees and shrubs in windbreak becomes a management tool that affects every aspect of a farm or ranch," says a Texas Forest Service official.

"Now is the time for Mitchell County landowners to order windbreak seedlings produced by the Texas Forest Service West Texas Nursery in Lubbock, before preferred stock is sold out, says Robert Fewin Texas Forest Service forester. The seedling can be purchased through the Mitchell County Soil and Water Conservation District.

Windbreaks protect the soil, increase land value and crop yields, and reduce livestock weight loss and mortality.

But produeing a high performance windbreak requires more than just planting a line of trees, Fewin says.

Prior to planting a windbreak, Fewin states that it is essential to determine: the area or structure in need of protection; tree species adaptable to the planting region; and the planting dimensions of the break, be it a homestead, livestock, field, or wildlife windbreak or a living snow fence.

When designing a windbreak, Fewin also recommends planting multiple rows of evergreens and deciduous trees and shrubs. The purpose of the windbreak dictates the number of rows required.

A single row of trees may suffice for a period, but a multiple-row windbreak established with the recommended dimensions can serve a lifetime.

To order windbreak seedlings this winter contact the Mitchell County SWCD (915) 728-3473.

Parents of the bride are James and Jimmie Fern Day of Snyder, and Randy Phillips of Amarillo. Parents of the groom are Neil an Diane Wall of Houston. Grandparents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. T.S. Thomas of Snyder, and the (late) Loyd West, and Mr. and Mrs. A.W. Phillips of Colorado City and Mr. and Mrs. V.J. Day of Sweetwater, Texas.

The bride wore a WRII Original made of ivory voile. It featured a v-neck with a long sleeved jacket which was adorned with pearls and Montego Lace. Her headpiece was ivory tulle attached by a pearl band. It was made by her grandmother, Jodie Thomas, of Sndyer.

The bride carried a bouquet of cream morning lilies, ivory cabbage roses, english ivy, and baby's breath. It was finished with ivory antique lace, ribbon and pearls. It was designed by her aunt, Sid West, of Snyder.

Robin Phillips of Amarillo, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. She was attired in a three piece navy linen suit. Her bouquet was burgundy tea roses, english ivy, baby's breath, and navy satin streamers tied in love knots.

The groom wore a Pierre Cardin tuxedo with ivory shirt, tie and cumberband. The bride's son wore a matching tux as that of the grooms.

Attending the groom was his father, Neil Wall of Houston.

As guest were seated, Jeff West, cousin of the bride, lit candelabra's decorating the mantle.

Parents and grandparents were seated by Steve West, cousin of the bride, and Scott Brandon of Amarillo.

The bride entered and was met at the bottom of a decorated staircase by her fathers-Randy Phillips and James Day. They escorted her to the alter where she was met and given away by her son, Chase Loyd.

Music was provided by Scott Phillips, brother of the bride, from Mesquite. He played the electric piano as parents and grandparents were seated after which he sang "I Cross My Heart".

At the beginning of the ceremony a unity candle was lit by the mother's of the bride and groom. The bride's mother wore a hunter green tea dress, the groom's mother wore a royal blue suit. Both mothers wore matching burgundy lily corsages.

Following the ceremony, which featured vows written by the bride and groom, they completed the unity circle by lighting their remaining candle.

The bride's table was covered with a burgundy cloth and topped with ecru lace. It featured a floating three tiered ivory cake made by Sandra Hall. It was topped with ivory lilies, baby's breath and ivy. Cascading down the remaining two tiers were burgundy lilies, ivy, baby's breath, and satin streamers. Almond punch was served from a crystal punch bowl. A floating candle centerpiece made by Lisa West, cousin of the bride, was a special feature of the bride's table.

Serving at the bride's table were Deweylene LePori of Irving, Sid Harper of Valde Ora, Kaye Westlund of Odessa, and Lisa West all cousins of the bride.

The groom's table was covered with an antique quilt made by the groom's grandmother, Leafy Denton, and given to the couple as a wedding gift. The grooms cake was an Italian Cream with burgundy roses, made also by Sandra Hall. Coffee was served from a silver tea service belonging to the bride's mother. A special touch of the groom's table was peanut patties made by Gwen Denton, aunt of the groom. An antique lantern and a metal truck given to the groom's son by his family was the finishing touches to this table. Surrounding the reception room were many pictures of the bride and groom's early years.

Servers for the groom's table were Shea Kellams of Lubbock, Teri Tinsley of Amarillo, and Kelly Waggoner of Abilene.

The registry table featured a framed tribute to the bride and groom. It was a gift from the bride's mother and father. It was accented by burgundy roses. A rehearsal dinner was held the night before the wedding at the Wagon Wheel Ranch.

Following a short wedding trip to Lubbock, the bride and groom are at home in Amarillo.

The bride is a 1988 graduate of Snyder High School and attended Western Texas College for two years.

The groom served in the U.S. Army for eight years. Both the bride and groom are employed by the Texas Department of Criminal Justice in Amarillo.

Chamber banquet set for Feb. 21

The 89th Annual Chamber of Commerce Banquet will be held Saturday, Feb. 21 at 7 p.m. in the Civic Center.

The meal will be catered by the cooks at the First Assembly of God Church, who are raising money to pay for the new addition on their church. The catered meal will include turkey and dressing with giblet gravy, fresh vegetable salad, candied yams, asparagus tips in butter sauce, homemade dinner rolls and fluffly pineapple torte.

Featured speaker this year is Biscuits O'Bryan (Monty Jones). Monty and his wife, Virginia, are retiring and in the process of moving back to Colorado City.

Tickets for the banquet are on sale now at the Chamber office for $13 each.

Citizen of Year nominations sought

Nominations are now being accepted until Monday, February 2, 1998 for the 1997 Citizen of the Year and the 1997 Farm and Ranch Family of the Year awards. The awards will be presented at the 89th annual Chamber of Commerce Banquet on Saturday, February 21, 1998 at 7 p.m. Representatives from Westbrook, Loraine and Colorado City will participate as voting members on the selection committee.

Nominating rules for Citizen of the Year are as follows:

1. Any Mitchell County resident may be nominated for Citizen of the Year, however, they must have lived in Mitchell County for the entire 12 month period they are being nominated for.

2. Each nominee will be evaluated on the activities he/she has done in the previous 12 months only. The citizen of the Year Award is not awarded for an accumulation of activities over the years, but rather for outstanding services and/or community involvement for the previous 12 month time period only. The award will not be given to anyone who is employed to do the job he/she is being nominated for.

3. Each nomination must be submitted in writing to the Colorado City Area Chamber of Commerce no later than 5 p.m. on Monday, February 2, 1998. The nominations must state explicitly why each person is being nominated. Individuals will be judged on the reasons they are being nominated, and not on the number of nominations they receive.

Nominations for the Farm and Ranch Family of the Year will also be accepted until 5 p.m. on Monday, February 2, 1998.

Nominations will be considered based on each families ability to manage their farm and/or ranch land, and their ability to continually enhance their property by following proper farming and ranching techniques.

All nominations must be submitted in writing to the Colorado City Area Chamber of Commerce by 5 p.m. on Monday, February 2, 1998. Nominations may be mailed to P.O. Box 242, Colorado City, TX 79512 or contact the Chamber at (915) 728-3403 for more information.

100 DAYS of school seems a long time to elementary school students, and that's what they were celebrating Thursday at Kelley Elementary School as 100 readers came from Colorado Middle School and Colorado High School. From left are Leiza Rivera and first graders Tamara Lelek and Victoria Tovar. They were observing a "Rock 'n' Read" program sponsored by the CHS Future Homemakers of America.

100 YEARS is how long L. B. Elliott of Colorado has lived, and he was observing his 100th birthday Thursday as Kelley Elementary School students were having their 100th Day Celebration. From left are school board member Lisa Hernandez, Principal Kitten Arthur, Mayor Jim Baum, Elliott and his daughter, Frances Godwin, board member Jesse Munoz and Supt. Russell Merket.

Notes from the Colorado Independent School District

Kelley Elementary supports the Governor's Reading Initiative

By KITTEN ARTHUR

Governor George Bush has targeted reading as the most important initiative for our public schools today. At his direction, the Texas Reading Initiative has established twelve essential components of researched-based programs for beginning reading instruction, and Kelley Elementary is working toward accomplishing those goals.

According to the goals, children in grades PreK through 2nd should have opportunities for the following: 1) to expand their use and appreciation of oral language; 2) to expand their use and appreciation of printed language; 3) to hear good stories and informational books read aloud daily; 4) to understand and manipulate the building blocks of spoken language; 5) to learn about and manipulate the building blocks of written language; 6) to learn the relationship between the sounds of spoken language and the letters of written language; 7) to learn decoding strategies; 8) to write and relate their writing to spelling and reading; 9) to practice accurate and fluent reading in decodable stories; 10) to read and comprehend a wide assortment of books and other texts; 11) to develop and comprehend new vocabulary through wide reading and direct vocabulary instruction; 12) to learn and apply comprehension strategies as they reflect upon and think critically about what they read.

How is Kelley addressing these goals? Basically, we're continuing our emphasis on reading skills. At Kelley, our students participate in the daily practice of phonics skills and phonemic awareness (how letters and words sound) through the Saxon Phonics program. Additionally, students read independently, in pairs, and with the whole group. Vocabulary and spelling exercises arise from the phonics study and from reading units in a natural setting. The Rock 'N Read program has high school students reading aloud to younger students, fostering that all-important self esteem issue. National Storybook Character Day allowed students and staff to dress as their favorite storybook character and read aloud to each other in various settings. Also, this year, Kelley is using the Accelerated Reader and the Book It programs to encourage fluency in student reading.

For those readers who are struggling, Kelley provides two of the best accelerated programs available: CEI and Reading Recovery. Reading Recovery teachers work one-on-one with 1st grade students every day for 30 minutes. The intense, highly technical training needed to be a Reading Recovery teacher is evident in the preparation of the individualized lesson plans for each student. CEI, a computer-assisted reading lab, marks its second year at Kelley, serving approximately 80 1st and 2nd graders. Last year, the CEI lab tallied a 97% positive increase in student learning-87% of the students in the lab gained from one to four years growth in reading skills.

In addition to the programs above, Kelley Elementary practices the concept of Integrated Thematic Instruction. ITI is simply the belief that students must experience learning to the fullest extent possible, rather than just reading about it. Brain research asserts that experiential learning activities, like field trips, the 100th Day Celebration, Fraction Day, Western Day, or Fall Fun Day are essential in order for learning to take place. Kelley Elementary has received the Academics 2000 grant for the past two years based on that exact premise; in fact, we built the curriculum around our trips to Canyon, Sonora, Lubbock and San Antonio so that students will have the mental "pictures" already in place before they begin to read about the subject.

Kelley Elementary is committed to the Governor's Reading Initiative. The staff continues its all-important staff development and grade level teaming in order to provide the best curriculum possible, and we believe that we will continue to see positive gains in student learning and test scores as well.

agriculture program still produce several million pounds of fresh vegetables each year to donate to local food banks for the needy.)

About 8,000 inmates work in the prison industries program, a system of 46 factories that last year produced $100 million worth of products -- all inmate and guard clothing, mattresses, cleaning supplies and equipment, furniture, stainless steel, school bus and dump truck repair, license tags, highway signs and microfilming for state agencies, just to name a few.

Prison industry products are sold to state agencies, cities, counties and school districts.

Inmates work in many states, but what is different about the Texas system is that no inmate is paid a penny for his work. Work is the basis for all privileges in Texas prisons

An inmate who refuses to work loses all privileges. He is put on "cell restriction," meaning he is moved to a two-man cell where he stays 24 hours a day.

He cannot watch TV, he cannot go to the commissary, he cannot go to the recreation yard and his meals are shoved through a slot in the door so he doesn't even get a trip to the messhall. Any personal property he owns, such as family pictures or a radio, are taken away.

Only a small percentage of inmates refuse to work. It seems that 30 days of "cell restriction" makes most inmates change their minds.

(Next week: community service, sick call and other topics).

Grand jury issues 5 indictments

A 30-year-old man was indicted Friday for aggravated sexual assault and sexual assault by a 32nd District Court grand jury in connection with a reported Dec. 28, 1997, incident involving a Colorado City female.

Billy Leon Jackson of 306 E. Sixth St. was released on a $5,000 bond.

The grand jury issued five other indictments, or true bills, in cases ranging from assaults on a correctional officer to hindering an arrest.

Christopher Lee Jones, 23, of Belton was charged with retaliating against a correctional officer on June 1, 1995, at the Wallace Unit here when correctional officer Forrest Hubbard was elbowed in the chest and thrown to the ground.

Jones was sentenced to the Texas Department of Criminal Justice after being convicted of burglary in Dallas County in February 1994.

David Limones Barrera, 33, of 624 Vine St. was true-billed for hindering apprehension in a Dec. 11, 1997, incident in which Colorado City Police Sgt. Richard DeLaCruz was grabbed and held while he was attempting to arrest another man for child abuse.

Barrera was released on a $2,500 bond.

David Coleman Hines, 34, of 2116 Lake County Road and Joe Sanchez, 20, of Loraine were indicted for felony DWI, both having been arrested on separate occasions by Department of Public Safety Trooper Mark Negri.

Hines was released on a $3,000 bond and Sanchez on a $2,000 bond.

Sheriff's officers asked that the name of a man who was indicted for burglary not be released until after he was arrested.

5-0 in district play...

Lady Wolves still undefeated

Colorado's Lady Wolves swept through the first half of district play undefeated, making a meal out of Crane's Lady Birds 62-36 Friday evening in Wolf gym.

The "Wild Bunch" smelled victory early and gobbled the 'birds in the first stanza 17-4. That high tech pressing defense employed by the Wolves, caused seven turnovers in the period, and offensively, they went 9 of 12 from the field to smoke the Cranes.

WATCH THE SPIN ON THE BALL - Staci Turnbow shows jump shot shooting techniques to two Lady Birds during the game Friday at the Pit. Ann Marie Scott (54) breaks to the basket. Wolves win 62-36.

The Wild Bunch 16-5 on the year, and more importantly 5-0 in district 4-3A, continued their hot shooting in the second period, caused more turnovers and led 33-16. Colorado made 14-21 from the field for a blistering 70%.

The Pack started the second half with an 8-0 run on lay-ups. Kendra Anderson, the 5'10 junior made a lay-up, Jana Redwine made a lay-up, Mica Merrell made a lay-up, Bettina Bridgford made a lay-up, and after Crane finally scored two, Barbara Rivera made a lay-up as the Pack continued to roll. Rivera, a 5'5" senior, had a great game on both sides of the ball, going six of seven from the field, and making four defensive steals. With 2:38 left in the third Colorado had pushed the lead to 50-25.

Four Wolves got into double figures for the offensively well balanced team.

Redwine, playing with an injured knee sizzled with 14 points. Two of them were three's. Rivera had 13, Anderson made 12 and had four assists, and the 5'7 Merrell put in 10. Bridgford was close by with seven, Ann Marie Scott made four and Staci Turnbow finished with two.

"We played a good ball game. I thought we shot the ball real well. We still have to take them one game at a time," mentioned Coach Darrin Leverton.

Reagan County is one game behind at 4-1, as the second half of play begins this Friday.

Wolves now 2-2 in district

The Colorado Wolves, facing a must win situation to stay in the district hunt, knocked off the Crane Golden Cranes 71-51 Friday night in Wolf Gym.

Now 2-2 in district competition, the Wolves started slowly, but Crane started slower. Offensively, senior 6-4 post Adam Wood, and 6-3 junior Justin Hill led the red and black to a 13-4 first quarter lead.

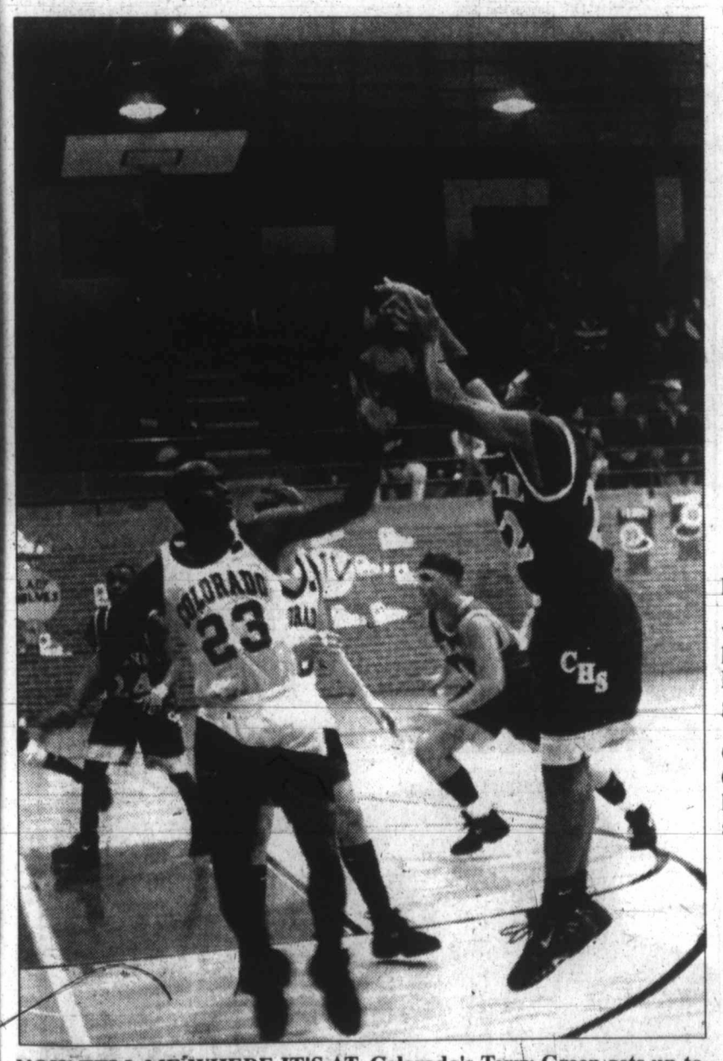

Crane was still having eye trouble with the basket, when along came two more Wolves, Bret Hoyle and Will Bassham, who had eight and five points respectively in the second period as Colorado City pulled in front 27-14 at half-time.

Playing a 2-3 zone defense, the Wolves tricked Crane into shooting long misses in the third stanza, and with 4:16 left in the period, Colorado eased to a comfortable 42-17 advantage. Junior Randy Byington led the attack, scoring six in the third. Wood, who was a major threat to the Cranes all evening, pocketed eight points, while Hill and Hoyle added four and two respectively, and Colorado took command 54-33.

The Pack, playing solidly as a team, added Terry Green to the scoring column with four points in the forth quarter.

Crane did make five three's in the second half, four of them in the final quarter, but it was too little too late.

Wood led the Wolves with 20 points. Hill scored 19, Hoyle added 14, Byington made nine, Bassham scored five, Green made four, and Ty Wood raised one.

NOW TELL ME WHERE IT'S AT. Colorado's Terry Green gets up to guard an unidentified Crane shooter. Wolves won 71-51 at the Pit last Friday night.

loraine news

By Bessie Ann Vaughn

Greetings! The weather has been so nice here lately. Spring fever (or something close to it) has begun settling in around me. I've been doing some armchair traveling via videos lately. My last jaunt took me to England and I learned a lot about the customs and history.

I drank my fill of tea during the video, but without the graceful pouring presentation. I just plopped a teabag in a cup of very hot water and sipped.

This summer, I plan to be brave and chart new territory—going even farther than Roscoe—Merkel has been on my mind a lot lately...

Homer and Dorothy Nance of Midland spent the day last Thursday with Juanice Bruce.

Last weekend, Harley and Verlie Owen went to Corpus to visit their two sons and their families—Darrell and Tina Owen and Gerald (Rookie) and Sheila Owen.

On Saturday, Jan 17, at 10:30 a.m., a stretch limousine was ready and waiting outside Biddie Jones' house to whisk her away for a lovely brunch and shopping at the Lane-Felker dress shop in Haskell.

After seeing their ad in the Abilene Reporter-News, Biddie decided it would be a special treat that she would enjoy. Golda Redwine and Maxine Millsap of Colorado City made the trip with Biddie.

It was indeed a special day for them. They enjoyed a delicious brunch before getting down to some serious shopping. On the way home, the limousine driver stopped in Anson to treat the ladies to a soda.

In rural cotton and cattle country, this service is great for making ladies seem extra special -- a little pampering is a good thing!

The new owners of the dress shop and limo service are Don and June Howard.

Auda Vee and Hattie Mae Graham of Ackerly visited their sisters-in-law Allie Ruth Wiggins and Amy McKee last Tuesday.

Iva Armstrong hurriedly went to the storm cellar to get a small item and neglected to tie down the door.

While she was inside, the wind blew the door down. She managed to get a piece of wood to wedge open the door wide enough to call her husband, Gus, for help. Her hands being occupied, she pushed open the door with her head. We are glad she had a strong, hard head. If not, she would still be shut in the cellar.

All kidding aside, she is still suffering in the neck and shoulder area from all that pushing. We hope she feels better soon.

Mr. Willie Hackfield was in town Friday, Jan. 23. He is now residing in Abilene. At one time, he lived in Loraine and Roscoe. I believe he said he left Loraine in 1967.

Mr. Hackfield's father was Otto. Lorainians Bernard and Raymond Hackfield are Willie's cousins. While in Loraine, he visited with Jr. Green at the store and later had lunch at the center.

Charles and Marilyn Reeder were in Loraine last Friday. They visited with friends and had lunch at the center.

Before leaving town, the Reeders also visited with Oscar and Rachel Singleton. Charles and Rachel were classmates several years ago.

Last Saturday night, Johnna Folson and Glen Woodell were married at the Crockett and Smiley Church of Christ in Loraine.

The bride is the daughter of Wesley and Barbara Woods, Loraine, and the groom is the son of Dub and Jerri Woodell of Loraine.

The couple will make their home in Snyder.

Danny and Pam Butler, along with Dawn Kropp, attended the wedding Saturday night at Logsdon Chapel, H.S.U. of Matthew Preston and Shona Lynn Sugarek.

Matthew is the grandson to both Iris Preston of Loraine and Dr. Joe Terry of Sweetwater.

On Saturday, Jan. 24, Shona Lynn Sugarek and Matthew Terry Preston were united in marriage in the Logsdon Chapel on the campus of Hardin-Simmons University.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Sugarek. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ray Preston.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John A. Hoot, Mrs. James Sugarek, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Terry, and Iris Preston.

A reception followed the ceremony. It was held in the Johnson Building at Hardin-Simmons University.

Great-aunt Chrystene Hall also attended the ceremony.

Prior to the wedding, a bridal luncheon was held Friday at Mulberry Manor. Friday night, the rehearsal dinner was held at the country club. The newlyweds will make their home in Abilene.

SENIOR CENTER NEWS

Last Friday, an enchilada lunch was enjoyed by a large crowd at the center. Prior to the noon meal, a musical treat entertained the crowd. Vida Mae McDaniel played the piano, Gus Armstrong, drummer, Bill Epperson, guitar, Shirley Kendall, castinets.

Singers were Bill Epperson, June Barron, Nell Doyle, Shirley Kendall and Bessie Ann Vaughn.

Recent visitors at the center included William Gregory and William Estes, Hubert and Nina Meadows, Charles and Marilyn Reeder, Willie Hackfield and Bertie Colsen.

Pat Hudgins stopped by the center last week to show us her good friend and pet, Sasha, a solid black Pomerainian. We all had to agree, she was a nice and pretty dog.

Pat planned to take Sasha to the Loraine Manor later—sort of a "show and touch" event. I feel sure the residents will love to hold and pet her.

Iva Armstrong received a letter from Royce and Nesa Beights since their move to May, Tex. (or Brownwood Lake) and they are now settled and happy.

Memorials made to the center lately have been to honor and remember Marvin Martin, Fred Crawford, Jesse Pharis, Peggy Ratliff, Grady Sparks, Martin Soliz, Buddy Blair, Dorothy Cain, Kay Maynard, Pete Andrews, Nettie Cherry, E.B. Irwin, Danny Rivera, Dale Geer, Pansy Northcutt, Kim Lafoon, Lena Marcom and Inez Hock.

Last Monday morning, the Happy Group from Sweetwater came over to sing for us. If you like gospel music, you will like the Happy Group singers. The singers are Melba Gardner, Wyonna Pickett, Barbara Moore, Jimmy Davis, Raymond Lambert and Dovie Finley.
