CAMPAIGN CLOSES IN CITY RACE

Candidates Uncork Deluge of Statements, Charges and Counter Charges in Final Hours.

Marlow Fires Broadside by Declaring Present Administration "Rottenest in History."

With a deluge of statements and speeches from both sides, the campaign preceeding today's municipal election, when three councilmen are to be elected, closed with a bang—said bang consisting in part of the declarations by Former Mayor J. B. Marlow, that the present city administration was the "rottenest city administration that has ever been pushed off on any community," and a statement by the Hatchitt campaign committee charging that his opponent, Dr. Reed, had "played both ways" on the irrigation project.

Mass Meeting.

Mr. Marlow's address was made at the Monday night mass meeting at the Labor Temple, which was attended by about 150. He declared that his only interest in the contest was to "defeat the present city administration." In his remarks he made no reference to his campaign announcement of about ten days ago, when he denied the existence of an anti-administration ticket, and denied that he was, save in a sense, the anti-administration leader.

His Ticket, Hodgins, Reed and Howard.

The Hatchitt statement refers to Dr. Reid's replies to queries propounded by the Hatchitt committee, charged that he supported the irrigation movement at Wichita Falls, and has been the leader of the opposition to it in the Farm district. They quote C. H. Clark and J. Frank Boyd as to the attitude he took on the matter at Iowa Park.

Donald Contradicts Reed.

With reference to the "sewer line that would have to be built on stilts" in order to avoid the necessity of the water running up hill, they quote John A. Donald, city engineer while Reed was commissioner, in flat contradiction to Dr. Reid's explanation. They declare that Dr. Reed quit the council ina huff, following his failure of re-election as mayor, protem, and that his present candidacy came as a result of his successor asking the Chamber of Commerce's parks and playgrounds committee to take over the work from the park board, of which Reed was chairman, and "do something." Dr. Reed makes a statement with regard to each point. Both statements appear on page 7 of this edition.

Marlow's Address.

Mr. Marlow's address was made after Rhea Howard, candidate for city commissioner, Place No. 2, and George Hodgins, William L. Smith and R. L. Yates, all candidates for place No. 1, had made brief talks. No other candidates were present.

No candidates were endorsed at the meeting. John G. Simmons, secretary of the Trades and Labor Council, who presided, declared before introducing the speakers that the meeting was only called for the purpose of giving every candidate who desired the opportunity to express his views before a meeting of organized labor. About 150 man attended the meeting.

Two Candidates Object.

Former Mayor Marlow's statements regarding the present city administration were made after he had suggested to the chairman following his introduction that candidate and newspaper men be asked to leave and let us get together in this matter.

Candidates Yates and Smith objected to the proposed closed session and when they made known their attitude they were told to stay if they cared to by Mr. Marlow. The two candidates stayed and the meeting remained open.

Referring to his statement regarding the city administration Mr. Marlow declared "that he could have lined up with that bunch if he had wanted to." The speaker added that he had lost his job with the Chamber of Commerce because he had refused

NEFF DEFENDS A. & M. SCHOOL VETO ACTION

Governor Admits West Texas Entitled to More Consideration and Representation.

Makes Light of Threat to Create New State as Proposed at Mass Meeting at Sweetwater.

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, April 4.—Governor Neff gave out a statement late today defending his actions in vetoing the West Texas A. & M. bill, the measure which caused the west Texas citizens to agitate a movement to divide Texas into separate states. The governor pointed out that it was absolutely refused by the democratic convention at Fort Worh. However, he indorsed the representative redistricting bill which was killed n the senate.

"Representative Chitwood is absolutely correct in that part of his resolution in which he charges that west Texas is not fairly and justly represented and that the state should be redstricted, in order that west Texas can have that representation to which she is, according to population, honestly entitled," said the governor.

Has Right to Complain.

"Not only should this be done as a matter of right, but it should be done because the constitution declares that it 'shall' be done, and because the democratic platform on which the present administration was elected to office 'demanded' that it should be done. Mr. Chitwood has a right to complain at the legislature of which he was a member for adjourning without making good this demand. As I have heretofore stated to interested parties, I am going to submit to the special session of the legislature the question of redistricting the state, because it is right, because the constitution requires it and because the party platform demands it.

"I vetoed the West Texas A. & M. college bill because the same democratic party said, by a roll call vote, that now was not the time to establish this college. If the convention had adopted, instead of defeating the resolution, would not west Texas have demanded that the party platform be fulfilled. Party pledges should not be regarded as a 'scrap of paper.' In vetoing the bill I was not only carrying out the party platform, but in addition to this good and sufficient reason I was doing for the state, in a business way, what the people are doing in their own private business affairs, that is establishing no new business enterprises. They are trying to hold and maintain what they have.

Appropriation Insufficient.

"Newspaper reports show that at the Sweetwater meeting considerable stress was laid on the fact that the bill only carried an appropriation of $50,000. I dare say there was not a person at this meeting who does not know full well that you cannot establish an A. & M. college, especially one providing for co-education and a civil engineering department as does this bill, with an appropriation of $50,000. The purpose of this bill is merely to purchase a site for the college, this can be done just as well when we get ready to establish it, and in the meantime it will not necessitate the drawing from the treasury this $50,000 that is so badly needed to maintain the institutions already established.

"I vetoed three bills providing for the establishment of new institutions in this state," the governor continued, referring to the west Texas college, the adult blind institute and the sanitarium for negro tuberculars, "and as long as money matters are as tight as they are now there will be no new state institutions of any kind established in Texas, unless it is one that looks to the conservation of human life.

Might Approve Bills.

"Out of my high respect for the legislature I may approve bills carrying larger appropriations than I think they should carry, for the purpose of supporting and enlarging institutions we already have, but I shall not in the face of the expressed will of the democratic party, and while times are as they now are, approve a bill establishing a new institution. The threat that west Texas will organize a new state does not in any way change my purpose as governor. A movement of that kind will receive no support among the conservative and sober thinking citizenship of even west Texas, beyond the effervescent oratory of the hour."

AMERICA HOPEFUL GERMANY WILL PAY JUST OBLIGATIONS

U. S. Holds Huns Morally Bound to Make Reparations So Far as Possible, Note Reads.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Paraphrases of the informal exchanges between the German and American governments regarding reparations, in which the United States holds Germany, "morally bound to make reparations, so far as may be possible" were made public today at the state department

Describing the German communication as "an unequivocal expression" of the recognition of that obligation, the American reply expresses the hope that renewed negotiations which Germany says it plans to initiate, "may lead to a prompt settlement which will at the same time satisfy the just claims of the allies and permit Germany hopefully to renew its productive activities.

Suggests International Loan

Included in the German communication is the suggestion that the only solution of the reparations problem is an international loan, in favor of which the allied and associated powers would waive the general mortgage on German assets created by the treaty of Versailles. In this connection the German government says it "would not be unwilling to assume the obligation of the interest and the amortization of the foreign debts of the allied and associated powers, within the limit of her capacity."

Germany invites the examination by "unbiased experts of its own ability to make payment," and says she stands ready to meet any proposal which appears feasible "for the solution of the economic and financial problems of Europe."

The American reply makes no reference either to the proposed consolidation of allied debts as a German obligation or the suggestion for the determination by unbiased experts of the ability of Germany to pay.

Offers Service to France.

Another consideration with regard to reparations presented by Germany is that of the rehabilitation of devastated regions. The German government says it stands ready to offer to France good offices and resources in whatever form is acceptable. It asserts that for the immediate rehabilitation of the devastated regions it has "repeatedly proferred labor, technical advice and material assistance," but that these offers have not been accepted.

Following is a paraphrase prepared by the state department of the memorandum given to Mr. Deisel by Dr. Simons:

"It is the earnest desire of the government of Germany to reach an accord with the governments of the allied and associated powers, and it is sincere in its purpose to meet their requirements as far as possible. That an agreement was not reached at the conference of London on the question of reparations is a matter of extreme regret to the government of Germany. In their efforts to reach an agreement the delegates from Germany went far beyond the limit considered possible for Germany, in the judgment of an overwhelming majority of her economic experts.

Germany Not Reluctant.

"It has been asserted that Germany is reluctant to recognize her obligations to make reparations. This is not correct.

"It is entirely clear not only to the government of Germany but to the German people also that Germany must make reparations to the limit of her ability to pay. This realization on the part of Germany will not be altered in any way by any changes which may take place in the internal politics of the country. Every responsible group, particularly the workmen of Germany, are imbued with the determination to do all that lies in their power to help in reconstructing the regions which have been devastated. Fundamental to this determination is the sober conviction on the part of responsible circles in Germany that an early conviction on the part of responsible circles in Germany that an early removal of all traces of the devastation caused in France is to the best interest of Germany. It is the concensus of opinion also that the proposals made by Germany in regard to reparations must consider fully the financial necessities of the allied and associated governments and particularly of France.

Rehabilitation First.

"In view of the foregoing, two con-

CRITICAL DAY FOR MINERS IN ENGLAND

Government and Workers Drifting Into Serious Industrial Crisis.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, April 4.—The signs tonight point to the dispute between coal miners and the government drifting in the direction of the most serious industrial crisis in recent years.

There are rumors that the government has decided upon certain military steps which are likely still further to inflame the miners, while further emergency regulations will be issued in accordance with orders in council giving the various governmental departments almost unlimited powers to take possession of mines, lands, buildings, works, gas, electric and water supplies, horses, food and forage and to requisition all kinds of transport, including tramways and light railways, to close ports or harbors, control shipping and cargoes, fix prices of coal and prohibit or regulate the sale and supply of motor spirit.

Much may depend upon the attitude of the government as revealed by the debate in the house of commons. Tomorrow and Wednesday will be the critical day, deciding whether other sections of the tripple alliance, the railway men and transport workers will strike in support of the miners.

The railway men strongly favor a strike, on the ground that when the railways are taken out of government control a similar situation may arise and unless they support the miners now they cannot expect the miners support should they need it at any time.

BIGGEST OF ELIASVILLE PRODUCERS

Texas Company Gets Record Completion of North Stephens County Monday Morning.

Increases Flow of 11,000 Barrels During Day to New High Mark for Surrounding Territory.

The Texas Company's No. 11 Black Brothers was reported Monday morning flowing at the rate of 11,000 barrels, the biggest well in the history of North Stephens county.

Monday night telegraphic reports were to the effect that the well caught fire late Monday evening, but no other information was available as to the damage or the present status.

This well is about a mile from any production, but in territory already considered as practically proven. The production is coming from the 3200-foot level. It is located in T. E. and L. Company Survey No. 1176, about four miles southwest of the South Bend producers in the 2100 and 2500-foot sands.

Reports late Monday from the well were to the effect that the well was making 15,000 barrels or better. Earthen tanks and dykes hastily constructed are said to have been quickly filled.

The well was first drilled in on Sunday, and was making around 200 barrels. Monday morning it started the increased flow very suddenly.

Excitement in Young and Stephens county is said to be the greatest than at any time in the past year.

Danciger's Big Completion

The Danciger-Emerich No. 2 Graham has just been completed in the 2100-foot sand, and is making 250 barrels. This well is just south of the big producers of the Seaboard Oil and Gas and the Mid-tex Oil Company that have been recently drilled to the 2500 foot sand, and is the second good producer in the 2100-foot sand on this lease.

The 2500-foot sand has not been developed on this lease as yet but it is understood that the wells will be drilled down to the big producing sand shortly.

to agree to the open shop attitude taken by that body.

City to Country.

"When I was a boy most everybody had to go from the country to the city to school," Mr. Marlow said, referring to the proposed site for the high school building, "but it now looks like school children will have to go from the city to the country to get to school." Mr. Marlow made no other criticisms of the city administration.

"I like old Yates, but I am supporting Hodgins for police commissioner," the speaker continued, "because he was the first man to come to me and ask for support against the present police commissioner." He declared himself in favor of Rhea Howard for commissioner, place 3, and related in detail how Howard had come to be the candidate for that place after N. M. Clifford and Frank Collier had refused to run.

Howard's opponent, Shepherd, he declared, was backed by the open shop organization.

"If it don't rain we will win this election," the speaker declared in concluding. "The present city administration will get most of its support from the five office buildings and they will vote regardless of the rain." The speaker urged all laboring men present to see that others come out to vote.

Chairman Introduces Speakers.

Craiman Simmons before introducing the candidates, suggested that they give their views on matters of civic interest. He said that there was a general dissatisfaction around the city regarding the manner in which the administration was handling the city affairs and that he thought it expedient that candidates express themselves on how they proposed to remedy existing conditions.

He said that organized labor was in favor of no public buildings being constructed until bids had been publicly asked for. He added that he favored the changing of the city charter to provide for the recall, the initiative and referendum and a change so that in case an official resigned, his successor would be immediately elected and not appointed.

Smith's Platform.

William Lawrence Smith, candidate for commissioner, place No. 1, the first candidate to speak, reiterated his previous assertions that he was in favor of the employment of a city auditor, a building inspector and a more stringent ordinance regulating the construction of buildings in the city. He said that it was his purpose if elected to "reorganize the police department and place it on a civil service basis as soon as possible."

In seeking the election he said that he was "untrampeled by any man or combination."

Hodgins Heard.

"If a certain candidate is '100 per cent Wichitan,' I am 1,000 per cent," declared George Hodgins, candidate for commissioner, Place No. 1, referring to his opponent, R. L. Yates.

"I have nothing but a clean record to come before you with. I have always been willing to aid in anything that was for the betterment of Wichita Falls."

The speaker spoke of the sewer system, referring to the line a "few miles this side of Seymour."

He scored the present police department. He spoke of the fact that the resident section was not patrolled and said the present police force was all down town in "bunches."

He again declared that if elected that he would "represent all of Wichita Falls and not any particular cliques." The speaker said that he was neutral on the labor question, when asked concerning it.

Yates For Change.

"If you don't want a change in the present police department don't vote for me," was the opening statement of R. L. Yates.

The speaker outlined his plans for the police department if elected. He received the greatest applause of any candidate when he concluded his talk.

Howard Speaks.

Rhea Howard said he had been out of the city just before he consented to run for the council and that he had consented when "Mr. Marlow called me up and asked me to run."

He said: "I knew there was need of changes in the city administration and that it made many mistakes." He spoke of several matters that would come up before the council in the near future. He declared that if elected he would be responsible to no organization or man.

R. W. Holmes, fourth vice president of the International Oil and International Oil and Gas Field Workers, made the final talk of the evening. His address had no reference to the local campaign other than to urge union men to take advantage of the opportunity to vote.

National Survey of Conditions Show Increasing Confidence

BALTIMORE, Md., April 4.—David F. Houston, commenting today on the second survey of national conditions just completed by the Fidelity & Deposit Co., said:

"The survey indicates that the business world is still feeling its way, but with increasing confidence and with the conviction that the worst has passed. The country has successfully borne the strain caused by a most notable drop in prices, particularly of a vast volume of raw materials, and has weathered a trying period of liquidation.

"The demand for finished products has not developed to the point where our factories feel justified in taking the requisite quantity of our surplus raw materials to furnish the necessary relief to their producers; but there are some indications of a change in this direction. Business men realize that forced action based on artifical optimism may lead to unwise action and produce further embarrassment. The foreign situation has not shown the expected improvement and continued difficulties are experienced in discovering an effective European market for our commodities.

"This survey does point to certain favorable domestic conditions. The cost of living has appreciably diminished. Building operations in a number of districts tend to increase. There have recently been no strikes of consequence. Greater productivity of labor per man is reported from all districts.

Raw Materials Plentiful.

"Raw materials are plentiful and physical transportation conditions are good. There have been no business failures of moment. The crop outlook is satisfactory; and the banking situation has improved. It is believed that confidence in business circles is slowly spreading and that while there is hesitancy the business men of the country are feeling their way with sound business caution, and the country is working back toward a more stable condition.

"In undertaking to give business men a comprehensible and timely picture of national conditions and public opinion the Fidelity & Deposit Co. has once again performed a distinct public service.

"What the survey discloses should be an encouragement to us all to go forward with confidence, though not with recklessness."

More than one thousand representatives of the Fidelity & Deposit Co. gathered the information contained in the survey. They obtained from bankers, manufacturers, business men and others, answers to a questionnaire covering economical, agricultural, industrial and general conditions. The replies were telegraphed to Baltimore where they were analyzed and tabulated. The review was made in the same fashion as the company's first survey, published last September.

In preparing the questionnaire, economists, lawyers and many men in public life, were consulted to make it as complete and comprehensive as possible. Among those who suggested questions were: Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, Senator Reed Smoot, Secretary of Agriculture Henry C. Wallace, his predecessor, E. T. Meredith and Albert B. Fall, secretary of the interior.

Mr. Houston's Comment.

Mr. Houston, formerly secretary of agriculture, and more recently secretary of the treasury, made his comment after a careful study of the survey chart prepared from the telegraphic replies. His statement in part, follows:

"This survey is suggestive, and will be helpful. At all times information of the sort here gathered is valuable. It is particularly so now when there is still uncertainty in the business world and leaders are debating the details of their industrial programs and policies.

"While the survey shows that no section of the country reports a marked increase in industrial activity and that manufacturers, distributors and consumers are still proceeding on a short time basis, this does not mean that the general industrial situation has not improved. The country is better off today than it was three months ago and manufacturers in growing numbers are planning definite production schedules.

"But the public is still reiterating its buying, and probably will continue to purchase cautiously until retail prices reductions become more nearly equal to the reduction in manufacturers' and wholesalers' prices. The maintenance by retailers of a relatively high price level has been perhaps the chief stumbling block to quickened industrial activity.

"The attitude of the public has prevented retailers from stocking up for spring business; but as retailers more generally reduce their prices, consumption will come more heavily into the market, larger orders will result and manufacturers can plan production schedules with reasonable assurances that prices will not fall lower. It is apparent that we are approaching the point where many manufacturers can get materials at prices they can afford to pay and with lower wages and more efficient labor they can furnish goods at a cost within the consumers' reach. Meanwhile producers, distributors and consumers are operating for immediate needs, with a tendency to take larger chances and to go forward.

"An appreciable reduction in wages is noted in every section and in virtually every kind of industry. The fact savings acounts have increased in the industrial sections, however, would seem to indicate that in such districts wage and salary reductions have not been as great as the reductions in the prices of commodities, and that therefore, fortunately, the decrease in wages has not necessitated a lowering of the standard of living.

"Except in New England and the Rocky mountain states building operations are increasing, this increase, however, is nowhere sufficient to meet the demand and in every part of the country there is a need for low priced dwellings, but sentiment is not favorable to building at present prices, and unless costs fall to materially lower levels, the unfavorable attitude toward building operations on a wider scale will continue.

Credit Situation Better.

"The credit situation is improved Interest rates range from 6 to 8 per cent for the country as a whole, but banking funds are reported available by every section except the South and Rocky Mountain region. It should be noted in this connection that Federal Reserve banks in the South and West have practically ceased rediscounting with banks in the Northeast. Corporate balances everywhere are reported to have decreased and this is one of the unfavorable aspects of the present situation. Yet it can be partly explained by the fact that the growing purchasing power of the dollar permits a reduction in the size of such accounts.

"The crop outlook is stated to be good everywhere except in the Central West and on the Pacific Coast, farmers are reported to be reducing their acreage. But this must be taken with reservations. Such statements are always common at this time and frequently turn out to be incorrect. It may be too, that in certain areas farmers are shifting their operations and working back to a more balanced agriculture.

"The reports from some agricultural sections of farm labor shortage also may need interpretation. In not a few cases a report of a shortage may mean that the employers can not get labor at their own price; and it is significant that outside of the farming community in the industrial sections, the reasons assigned for the reported acreage reductions are low prices of farm products, rather than shortage of money.

"A demand for farms by renters is observed in Illinois, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska and in the south Atlantic and Pacific states. Western and southern farmers are reported to be withholding payment of bills and the condition of the cattle and sheep raisers in Kansas, Nebraska and the Rocky Mountain districts, where there is a congestion in wool, is reported to be poor.

"Nowhere is there a noticeable movement of men to the farms from the industrial centers. But this is not abnormal or necessarily undesireable, after all, farming must pay, and in the long run there will be as many engaged in farming as will produce the commodities which the consuming public will buy at a profitable price.

"The housing shortage leads as the most important local question in the hundreds of communities covered by the Fidelity and Deposit company's reports. Unemployment is second and taxation third. Sections which report a noticeable increase in crime since last September are the middle west, Rocky Mountain and Pacific coast states.

Taxation Big Question.

"The big national question, according to the survey, is taxation, with peace settlement and international trade conditions next. Taxation is uppermost in the minds of the average man. The country is opposed to the present tax system, and is becoming increasingly impatient for change.

"In reflection of the attitude of business men generally toward the highly technical questions of tariff and other forms of raising revenue, the survey has perhaps its greatest significance to me. It indicates that as a whole we are talking of legislative and other means of stimulating the return to normal conditions without clearly understanding the fundamental economic questions involved—without accurately defining the terms used. It may be doubted whether those whom answered the questions concerning tariff and domestic taxation had an opportunity to give the subject the required investigation and consideration.

"According to the survey many business men and the western farming interests desire a higher tariff on European commodities. Yet it is difficult to see how, now that we have a large surplus to export and are seeking foreign markets—now that Europe is indebted to us large and increasing sums—this nation can profit from a higher tariff or desire it; especially when its chief competitor, Europe, is sadly stricken and will take years to recover.

"In the field of domestic taxation, the survey reports that the country unanimously in favor of the repeal of the excess profits tax. This tax should be repealed. It is difficult of administration; it is cluttering up the administration of the government's tax laws; it does not work equitably as among businesses; and its yield is deacreasing.

Survey Favors Sales Tax.

"Obviously a sales tax, reported by the survey to be universally recommended, would be no substitute for an excess profits tax. The excess profits tax falls on corporations. The sales taxes would, without much question, be paid by consumers. If it is proposed to abolish all profits taxes, and to raise the revenue needed through sales taxes, then we should run into this equally great difficulty, that whereas now about 21 per cent, of our federal taxes are consumption taxes, then perhaps 50 per cent would be consumption taxes. No student of taxation could or would defend making consumption the basis for such a percentage of our federal revenues.

"It is astonishing that there should have been an unanimous expression in this survey in favor of a rebate on the federal income and other taxes. I do not believe that any authority on taxation or public finances would for a moment countenance this proposition. The relief sought can and should be secured along the lines of economy in expenditure, and reform of taxation under the most expert guidance that can be obtained, coupled with a genuine and thorough-going budget system."

WATER MAIN EXTENSIONS ARE SOUGHT

Saying that he was tired of carrying water in a bucket for culinary and hygenic projects, Sam Holliday, 2114 Polk street, Floral Heights, appeared before the city council at their regular meeting Monday evening and asked that the six-inch water mains now being laid on this street as far as Avenue I be extended to L street.

He was seconded in his appeal by R. W. Oakey of the same street, who said that a one-inch main with several families drawing from it was rather embarrassing and stated in a jocular way that further additions to the water system in this section was necessary "if peace was to be kept in the fauily."

This section is now served by a one-inch main owned by private organizations.

Though the six-inch pipe has been placed parallel with Polk street for this distance, Commissioner of Utilities Bonner pointed out that with only six families to be served the expense of placing a six-inch main to serve these people would be exorbitant.

Two-Inch Line.

With entire good humor, after some heated discussions, the city superintendent of the water company said that a two-inch main could be laid within perhaps ten days and the property owners went away satisfied with this, though they frankly admitted they would have liked to have had the big six-inch main extended to cover their property frontage.

Mayor Cline was inclined to agree with the property owners until Commissioner Bonner gave his opinion on the matter, saying that he believed the work could not be done now at less expense than could a temporary main be placed and replaced in later years when the population of this part of the town grew to justify it.

Commissioner Bonner pointed out that under the existing plan for extending water mains there were many sections of the city with a much greater population in need of water as greatly as were the property owners before the council.

Good Business."

The whole affair was conducted in the best of humor and if it had been compatible with "good business," according to Commissioner Bonner, they would have obtained what they requested.

P. A. Abrogast, superintendent of bridge and building construction for the Katy railroad, appeared before the council and asked that further time be given on final sidewalks on the south side of Ninth street to the railroad, saying that a new freight depot was contemplated and that he believed under the circumstances the present project could be postponed without embarrassment to either side. His request was granted.

A representative of the property owners on Indiana avenue from Tenth to Thirteenth street, appeared and asked that had been done with the petition for paving on this street. He said that fully 95 per cent had signed. He was told that this had been recognized and was contemplated in the present paving program.

Ordinances Passed.

The following ordinances were passed on their second reading:

Ordinance 352, final assessment for paving on Ninth street, Sutor, lot.

Ordinance 353, final assessment for paving on two lots on Monroe street.

Ordinance 354, final assessment for paving on the south end of Ohio street.

Ordinance 355, final assessment for paving on Lucile street.

Ordinance 356, final assessment for paving on Brook street.

Ordinance 357, final assessment for paving on Collins street.

Ordinance 358, a franchise granting the Katy right to lay rails on Mills street, approved by city engineer with ten-year restriction clause.

AMERICA HOPES GERMANY WILL MAKE PAYMENT

siderations in regard to reparations present themselves, both of which are of importance. These considerations are first, the matter of rehabilitation of the devastated regions, and, second, the immediate establishment by Germany of an actual sum of cash money, in foreign exchange, of important proportions.

"In addressing ourselves to the first particular, namely, the rehabilitation of the devastated regions, certain facts are at once apparent. For four years, ten of the 86 departments of France served as the theater of the war and sustained the severest blows of the conflict. In these ten departments a number of cities, towns and villages are either partly or entirely destroyed, and wide stretches of fertile farming lands are laid waste. Only a little has been accomplished toward the rebuilding of homes, the reoccupation and the recultivation of the land in the two years that have elapsed since the ending of the war. For the immediate rehabilitation of the devastated regions, Germany has repeatedly proffered labor, technical advice and material assistance. These offers have not been accepted, nor have they even reached the point of diplomatic exchange. The reason is not far to seek.

Concern Limited.

"Peculiar though it may seem, there is only a limited degree of concern for the rehabilitation of the devastated regions. Advanced indemnities have been given to the former occupants of the soil and these occupants have removed to other parts of the country and taken up their abode there. The salvaging of the abandoned war materials and the cleaning up of the war areas has been undertaken by influential groups of promoters who are making no effort to expedite the performance of their contracts. The fact that influential opinion in France sees in the devastated regions a remarkable opportunity for a political agitation which will always make a deep impression in the minds of the people of France and on foreigners has an important bearing on the issue.

"The German government does not desire to see hate perpetuated between nations. In accordance with the purpose it intends to submit fresh proposals on this subject to the government of France, the details of which are now under consideration, and the subject of discussion with the laborers of Germany. Should the government of France entertain objections to the employment of numbers of German laborers in the areas undergoing reconstruction, the government of Germany stands ready to offer to France goods, officers and resources in whatever form is acceptable.

"In respect to the second consideration, namely, the immediate establishment by Germany of an actual sum of cash money, in foreign exchange, of important proportions, it is obvious that Germany can fulfill this obligation only through large increases in the volume of her exports. The memorandum prepared by the economic experts of Germany for use at the conference in London demonstrated how huge this increase in Germany's exports necessarily would be if great sums of money were thereby to be obtained, and the menace this great increase would imply to the economic life of their countries. Conceding even this, it further remains that the sums in cash required could not be immediately realized.

Urge Foreign Capital.

"Other considerations have been advanced at various times, among them the proposal that our former opponents in the great war should participate in the returns from German industry, either through taking shares of the capital stock of German companies or by other forms of the sharing of profits. Such a proposal would produce only proceeds in paper marks, valueless to foreign creditors. Indeed, the allied and associated governments themselves negatived these proposals in the treaty of Versailles by taking for themselves a first mortgage on the total wealth and in all sources of the German commonwealth and states. In addition to this, the allied and associated governments, in their declarations at Paris, reserved for themselves the decision as to what opportunity, if any, Germany may in any instance be given to obtain credit abroad because England and France are themselves in debt beyond their limit and the granting of a credit to Germany by a neutral power is blocked by the general mortgage.

"An international loan, in favor of which the allied and associated governments waive their general mortgage constitutes the only solution of the problem. The government of Germany is prepared to offer the necessary securities for the safety of such a loan. It is the opinion of the German government that if the loan were properly organized and offered and if those who have evaded taxation to be granted a general amnesty, the large sums of German capital which have been secretely withdrawn from Germany, could again be drawn in for the loan and thereby become available for the reparations.

German Situation Better.

"It has been reiterated by the allied and associated governments that the situation of Germany is better than that of many of the allied and associated countries, due to the fact that Germany has no foreign debts. Germany would not be unwilling to assume the obligation of the interest and the amortization of the foreign debts of the allied and associated powers within the limit of her capacity should this measure be entertained by the allied and associated governments and their cerditors.

"Germany stands ready to meet any proposal which appears feasible for the solution of the economic and financial problems of Europe—and would invite the examination by unbiased experts of its own ability to make payments. It is the opinion of Germany that the heavy weight of debt now borne by all the states which were participants in the world war and the damages which were wrought in the course of that war, cannot be laid upon the shoulders of a single people.

"Germany believes also that a policy of duress and coercion would not bring about the reconstrucion of international economic life and that only by way of peaceful discussion and understanding can such reconstruction be obtained. The German government considers it important to give, with solemn emphasis, the assurance that for its part it is honestly willing to follow the path which it has suggested."

Hawaiians at Strand Please Big Audiences

Although the Hawaiian craze is not quite as prevalent as some time since when every high school girl carried a "uke," the weirdly, soothing strains of the music from that romantic clime, played by the famous Hawaiian Jewels, native performers who are at the Strand theater this week in connection with the regular program, scored a tremendous hit. There are five of these native performers, three men and two women, and their offerings are composed of the best, both of strictly Hawaiian numbers and a few jazzy popular selections.

That the exotic music of the Pacific isle had a foundation and real appeal was re-established by the unusual offerings of these talented musicians. In addition to the music the two young ladies dance. They will be at the Strand all this week with three changes of program during the week.

MAN AND MULE RATES TO FIX PRICE OF COTTON

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Cotton growers can meet the present price situation by "carefully considering" operating expenses and reducing them whenever there is likelihood of obtaining a low yield per acre, the department of agriculture says in a report today on the result of a survey of basic requirements and cost of producing cotton.

By applying last year's man and mule rates for labor and prices then paid for seed and fertiliser for the basic requirements in an investigation in Mitchell county, Georgia, the average operating expense of cotton was fixed at approximately 83 cents per pound there.

Man and mule rates for labor in this investigation and seed and fertilizer contracts the department says, constituted 84 per cent of the total operating expense, exclusive of land rent. Other expenses amounting to 16 per cent of the total included such items as ginning, manure, equipment, taxes, insurance and overhead. Man labor was charged at the rate of 30 cents per hour, mule labor 20 cents per hour, seed $81 per ton and fertilizer at $46 per ton. From the total cost of $56.16 per acre a seed credit of $3.90 was deducted, making a total net cost of $52.26.

Asserting that the rates for labor and seed did not start to decline until after the 1920 crop had been produced, the report adds:

"With cotton around 12 to 15 cents per pound the returns not only allowed no interest on capital but failed to pay operating expenses at going rates for labor and prevailing prices for agriculture. With cotton at 15 cents per pound it would require a yield of approximately 450 pounds of lint to cover operating expenses."

"The application of the basic requirements of production in estimating costs should be of vital interest to growers at this time," the report adds. "The history of the year 1920 will not be forgotten immediately and it will be safe to say that the lessons of this period will bear some fruit."

"Setting Up" Meeting Will Be Held Today

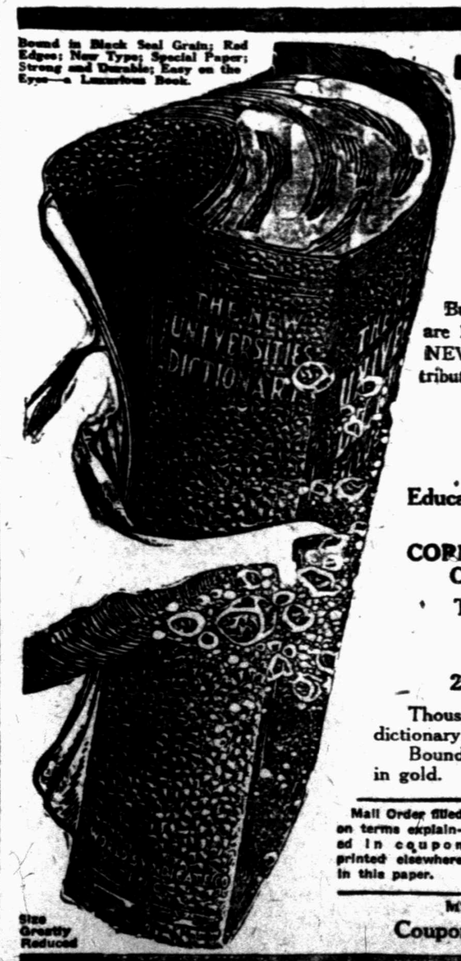

Important steps in the organization for conducting the campaign to raise the $33,000,000 endowment fund for Methodist schools will be made at the "Setting Up" meeting to be held Tuesday morning at the First Methodist church, according to the announcement of W. B. Hamilton, chairman of the District finance committee and of the Northwestern Texas conference finance committee.

More than 200 out of town people are expected to attend the morning session of the conference, according to leaders, and officials are expecting a record breaking attendance at the evening program, when Dr. H. A. Boaz, president of Southern Methodist University of Dallas noted educator and lecturer will be principle speaker.

Plans to cover the entire territory by dividing the district into small sections by assigning individuals to conduct the canvas are expected to be completed. Also "Minute Men" some of whom have already been selected, will act as chairman of the various finance committees. Officials announce that they plan to make a vigorous campaign to carry the appeal to every man, woman and child, who is willing to give something toward promoting the endowment of Christian education.

Officials asked that the public be informed that they are invited to attend the programs and especially the evening program, when Dr. Boaz will speak. The evening program will begin at 8 o'clock.

BOY SCOUTS ACTIVE SINCE FRIDAY MEET

Increased activity among the boy scouts has resulted from the mass meeting held last Friday night at the First Baptist church, according to Scout Executive H. R. Taylor. This meeting, Mr. Taylor says, was largely attended and was very interesting.

From the boys' standpoint the talk by "Alaska Jack" now playing at a popular theater, was the most interesting talk, as he told them of his experience in the wilds of the Yukon and told them other things particularly interesting to scouts.

Judge O. H. Carrigan made a spirited address as did J. C. Mytinger and these were appreciated by the boys, but when business men compete with "adventurers," well, just imagine the result.

Troop 2 won from Troop 3 in the game Saturday and Troop 4 beat Troop 5. Troop 6 was the winner in the contest with Troop 1. Other games scheduled were not played. Troop 2 is said to be leading the league inasmuch as it has not lost a game so far this season.

Troop 14, recently organized, is said by Mr. Taylor to be ready for registration.

The finance committee of the boy scout council will meet Monday night at 7:45 o'clock. It is expected that work on the new budget to finance scout activities will be begun this week.

The assistant scoutmaster of the troop at Burkburnett was in town Saturday purchasing supplies for his organization. At this place they are conducting a vigorous campaign for new members and it is meeting with success, according to the report made to Mr. Taylor.

June 6 to 20 is the date set for the annual encampment of the scouts this year. Reports have been returned from all the organizations and while not all of the troops are in favor of this date, the majority are and so the treck will begin to Cache, Okla., on that date.

Arthur Shelbourne of Troop 9, leaves for his new home in Shelbourne, Miss., this week. Scout Executive Taylor says the city is losing one of its best scouts.

Work is progressing nicely in the planting of shrubbery and trees at Scout park, officials say. Saturday 15 boys put in the whole day at this work and daily six or seven work at the park after school hours. Some of the troops are planting flower beds, cannas, lilacs, etc., being the basis of the floral decorations.

Barnett and Webb Lucas, arrested Sunday in Electra, waived preliminary hearing Monday before United States Commissioner Lantz, on charges of transporting a stolen automobile from one state to another. M'Cluskey Is Made Timekeeper For Commission

After considering 15 applications, county commissioners, in executive session Monday morning selected H. McCluskey of this city as timekeeper on the county road between this city and Iowa Park. Mr. McCluskey, who is the son of E. A. McCluskey of Iowa Park, former county commission, was selected on the second ballot. The salary was fixed at $150 per month.

The duties of the timekeeper were outlined. He will make a report in triplicate to the county auditor, the county engineer and the commissioners court. The matter of the continuing the present timekeeper employed by Potts & Prentice was discussed, final action being postponed until the next meeting of the court. Some doubt was expressed as to the legal right to employ two men for the position covering the same kind of work.

No other matters other than routine business was taken up at the Monday meeting. The usual bills were approved and the court acted favorable on two requests for refunds on the 1920 tax payments.

Issue Warning On Removal of City Garbage

Dr. A. H. Douglas Monday afternoon issued a warning to citizens of the town to beware of trash dealers charging exorbitant prices for the removal of trash and garbage and called attention to the fact that the city was maintaining such a service at a minimum charge and that if in doubt it would be well to call 5015, city health department.

The doctor said in regard to this: "Numerous complaints have been coming into the health department relative to parties representing themselves as representatives of the sanitary department, making collections in advance for garbage and trash hauling and not rendering any service.

"The health department has given permission to two parties recently to make house to house collections of garbage and trash, but this was done with the distinct understanding that that they were not to represent themselves as doing the work for or by the direction of the health department and that they should not make unreasonable charges for their services.

"The city maintains trash and garbage service for residences and whenever collections are made by city wagon drivers the customer is given a sanitary department receipt, a copy of which is filed at the health department. The city charges the following rates for this service: 25c per visit for ten gallons of garbage or one barrel of trash, paid in advance for a two month period.

"At this time of the year one visit per week is sufficient for the average family, but for any who desire more frequent service arrangements will be made for more frequent visits.

"Any further information desired may be had from the health department by phoning 5015."

SCHOOL BOARD WILL CANVASS ELECTION VOTE

A special meeting of the school board to canvas the returns of the Saturday election will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the senior high school building.

A successor to M. O. McDowell, who recently moved out of the city, probably will be appointed at this meeting.

W. M. Priddy, newly elected member of the board will be formally sworn in.

HELD TO ANSWER BAD CHECK CHARGE

With money in his pockets and bad checks, he is alleged to have given in the hands of merchants, E. W. Stezer was arrested Monday by the detective department and was turned over to the county officials on a charge of swindling.

Many merchants visited the city hall Monday afternoon, for Stezer was paying off, according to the police, and has taken up most of the alleged "hot" checks. There remains a balance in his favor, according to Chief of Detectives Boyd.

Police officials declare that eight such checks are known to have been issued. These range from $5 to $20.

Because of their inability to write correct English, the business men of this country lose $20,000,000 every year.

Two Charged With Offense Against Girls

Charged with a statutory offense, Will Sullivan, restaurant proprietor of Burkburnett, and Frank DeMoss, oil field workner near that city, were placed under $1,500 bond Monday morning following a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Maxwell.

The charges against the two men resulted from their arrest Sunday in Burkburnett on the complaints of relatives of two 15-year-old girls of Oklahoma City, who ran away from their homes in that city on March 25. The girls had been attending business school in that city.

According to the story told by the two girls they met Sullivan and DeMoss after they had gone to Burkburnett and started work in a restaurant.

Following the preliminary hearing the girls were allowed to return to Oklahoma City.

There are now more than 17,000 high schools in the United States attended by approximately 1,736,619 pupils.

YOU ARE ASKING
Why Don't You Sell Your Stock to Rich Bankers?

That is what the big syndicates have done in the past and it made rich men richer.

But the management of the United Stores are more concerned in having YOUR influence and patronage. A big block of stock owned by one individual only makes the holder richer, but does not give the United States one-tenth the influence and support that the same amount of stock scattered among hundreds of people with families, gives. You and your family trade in United Stores, and there are hundreds of others whose trade we want and by giving them the opportunity to share in this great business, we make it worth their while to trade here also—to trade in their own store.

This method is the common sense method. You can buy as little as $25 worth, but no one individual may buy more than $1,000 worth. A payment of $10 will secure a block of stock.

MENUS AND COLOR SCHEMES.

In a lecture on menu making before the members of the New England Home of Economics Association in Boston the other day a member of the staff of the New York Teachers College pointed out to her audience that colors contribute character to a meal, and added that hues which clash should be avoided as they mar a repast. To illustrate her point the speaker described a meal of ham and beets as one in which the color effect would be all wrong.

To recall characteristic combinations of food is to be reminded of the fact that color harmonies on the table are accepted as a matter of course. An audience of New England folk might have reminded this particular lecturer that baked beans and brown bread, inseparable combination in that land, are what Whistler might have called a symphony in brown. Gilbert once used the color of cold gravy to point an aesthetic satire, but an artist would find in its cool gray tone combined with the rosy tint of undertone lamb a fine and artistic combination.

Dinner menus suggest a whole train of such color combinations necessary for the perfect meal. The hors d'oeuvre with its silvery anchovies, emerald olives, scarlet radishes and red and white sausage might be considered Cubistic—if it were not sensible and appetizing. Oysters with their lemon garnish make a charming low toned scheme of gray and yellow. A bisque of lobster stands quite by itself in its delicate pink tint. The ensuing salmon and cucumbers are the perfect combination of red and green. The solid notes of color are to be found in the golden brown and flesh white of a slice of roast turkey with its accompanying ruby cranberries. Salad repeats the pale green and yellow notes; ice cream comes in all sorts of fascinating colors; and the menu ends with the firm brown tones of the coffee and cigars.

When professional and amateur cooks who take their art seriously suddenly discover that they have been painters as well as practitioners of the culinary art they will recall the character of Moliere who found he had been speaking prose all his life without knowing it. Let us hope this discovery will do nothing to weaken their skill as culinary colorists but rather tend to embolden them to attempt new and even more delectable combinations of food and color.—New York Herald (Ind.)

THOSE BLONDE WOMEN.

The passage of the Volstead act having to introduce the millenium, our moral protectors are constrained to find other explanations for the continuing deplorability of these times. Satan was always an expert in disguises; he could change himself into a little black dog or a big black cat or a gentleman in red doublet and hose. No wonder the moralists are unable to decide which of his manifestations is still responsible for the existence of evil in human life. Perhaps it is Sabbath desecration or the movie menace; perhaps, as a profesor's wife suggests to the Wellesley girls, it is jazz music; and perhaps, as an optometrist suggests to his fellows in convention, it is ultra-violet rays.

We are much impressed by this last theory. "Do you want to make Chicago safe for husbands?" asks the optometrist. "Then deport the blonde beauties to Moose Factory or some other cold northern region. Blondes don't really belong in the Chicago latitude; they're irritated by the ultra-violet rays of the sun. So from an excess of nervous energy they puff the Cleopatra stuff." This explains a good deal—particularly in Chicago, which by sheer determination has made itself the most ultra-violet city in the United States. There was a time, before the Fair, when Chicago was notoriously and too often proudly intra-red. But a little group of public-spirited men spent their money like water and succeeded in transplanting a large quantity of culture to the lake shore. A recent Chicago novel was announced by its publisher as celebrating the arrival of Chicago as the musical capital of the United States. The sore surprised readers who had found the story concerned chiefly with the lapses of a blonde woman, but the ultra-violet hypothesis explains it. Chicago has bought culture, but at a terrific price in blondes.—New York Times. (Ind. Dem.)

Editorial Digest

WHO GOT SILESIA?

"Self-determination" in Upper Silesia was not a shining success in the opinion of the American press. According to most editorial writers the final results of the plebiscite in Germany's richest mineral province which seemed to give the industrial centers to Germany and the majority of rural districts, including the mines, to the Poles, has left the situation full of danger to the elusive peace of Europe. Some newspapers feel that the allies can void the German claim on the basis of the treaty clause stating that the decision of boundaries is to be based likewise upon "the geographic and economic conditions of the community." Others feel that this would be unjust. There is, of course, general rejoicing that the first announcement of a "German victory" was premature.

The Washington Star (Ind.) calls attention to the "dispute arising over whether the Silesian plebiscite should be determined on the basis of the total vote cast in the province or the votes in the separate communes or districts. On the basis of the provincial vote Germany had a very large majority." The confusion, the Star points out, illustrates "the difficulty of applying the 'self-determination' principle practically," and the Baltimore News (Ind.) considers that "there is no end to the beneficent workings of self-determination" for in the present case, "the practical effect has been to create a 'Polish nuisance' which the Poles would never have thought of if it had not been for the suggested plebiscite. The New York Times (Ind. Dem.) also hints at trouble ahead for the arbitors: "To draw a reasonably fair frontier according to the vote taken will be considerably more difficult than the traditionally delicate task of cutting out a just pound of flesh without shedding blood."

Not the strength of the rival populations but the power of their respective propagandists has been settled by the ballot, in the opinion of the Grand Rapids Press (Rep.) which mentions that "already, before an official count had been made" reports came that the Council in Paris "will exercise the reservation in the peace covenant and repartition Silesia so as to give the rich coal lands to Poland."

Germany's answer to this threat to put aside the election results is the plea that the province constitutes "an indissoluble national geographic and industrial unit" which the Salt Lake Tribune (Rep.) interprets as saying: "despite the fact that large areas voted Polish they are to remain German." The French, it adds, "would have them Polish" and thus, "the council of ambassadors, if it has this problem placed before it for disposition, is likely to find that it has been handed a very modern replica of Pandora's box." In other words, as the Chicago Tribune (Ind. Rep.) remarks, "it is not likely to bring peace but another phase of bitter contest" and the Bridgeport Telegram (Ind.) tersely concludes that "the Silesian plebiscite may ring up the curtain" for a great struggle.

A number of writers that under the reservations in the treaty concerning the plebiscite, the allies, as the Baltimore Sun (Ind. Dem.) puts it, have a "right to reverse the decision of the Silesian electorate." This the Buffalo Commercial (Ind.) takes for granted, since the "plebiscite is not the all-governing factor in the case." Both economic and "strategic" conditions must affect it. The "fallacy of self-determination" the Commercial declares was shown in the "rebellion of the south" during the civil war. The Bangor (Maine) Commercial (Ind.) grants that the allies are not "bound" to follow the vote indication but adds that "the natural assumption" is that they will. If this is done the Commercial agrees with the New York Tribune (Rep.) in accepting the ballot as a "German defeat" for though "the larger portion of Upper Silesia will go to Germany," Poland will receive "the more valuable portion."

IGNORANT ESSAYS

By J. P. McEVOY

On the Expectations of Life

According to the insurance statistics, if you are 20 years old, you can reasonably expect to live 42 years more. That is if you do not live in New York or Chicago. In these cities your expectation of life consists in the expectation that you will live until you get home from the office.

This expectation is also based on the assumption that you are not learning to play the trombone in a neighborhood where the majority of the householders belong to the Home Guards and have guns in the house.

If you are 25 years old, you can expect to live 39 years more. You see you are gaining on old Father Time. At 20 you could live until you were 62, but after you get to 25 he gives you a chance to get up to 64.

At 35 years of age you have a chance to live until you 67, and so it goes. In other words the older you get the better your chance to raise the limit. Or at least that is the way it would seem.

However, my table stops at 65. When I am 65 (so it says) I'll have 11 years more to write essays and you'll have 11 more to read them. That should be long enough.

You will then be 76—so will I, and I will take you all out and buy you a drink of water, provided it isn't Sunday, for by that time the only thing we will be allowed to do on Sunday is die—and that only if we do not derive too much pleasure from the proceeding.

It seems to me, in passing, that the interesting question is not how long we may live after having reached 65, but what we plan to do with those 11 years.

I have it all figured out since writing the paragraph above. I have decided to discontinue these essays when I get to be 65 and spend the remaining 11 years in figuring out how I can stretch them out to 15 or 20.

Or, if I decide by that time it isn't worth while to live any longer than 11 years, I shall spend them in recalling the good times I had back in 1921 paying out all I made to the government, getting seeds from my congressman and trying to make them grow, and hunting for somebody who knew somebody who knew where you could get it.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

March 31, 1921.

Wichita Falls Record News:

In your March 28 issue one who subscribes himself "A Reader" takes exceptions to the Christian Science teaching on some fundamental questions, such as death, matter, sin, atonement, a final judgment, etc., and he sustains his objections on the ground that the Bible is interpreted on these questions by Mrs. Eddy. Christian Scientists read, study and apply the same Bible as do other Christians, although they may not interpret the Bible in all respects as do others. But surely Mrs. Eddy had the same right to interpret the Bible as did Wesley, Calvin, or any other spiritual thinker. The writer seems somewhat perturbed because it is claimed that Christian Science is a re-statement of primitive Christianity.

Christian Science is based on the Bible, on the word and works of Jesus Christ, although a much-worn criticism against Christian Science is that Christian Scientists reject the Christ of the Bible. The honest seeker for the truth about this matter will find that Jesus the Christ is accorded greatest reverence throughout all Mrs. Eddy's writings. Christian Science destroys fear, reforms the sinner, heals the sick; it inspires a search for wisdom and spiritual understanding and shows how to apply them in every day life.

Concerning death, Jesus said: "Whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die." If the Christ had really died he could not have promised immunity from death to others. "And this is life eternal, that they might know thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent."

The Christian Science teaching in regard to matter is nothing novel or shocking when looked at intelligently. This teaching classes what is called matter as a human concept; it says that so-called matter is not what it seems. Even physicists call it sense phenomena. They reduce it to force or energy, and no one is amazed at this treatment of it. The objects about us can be reduced to thoughts and then we begin to understand them better. It can be seen that the sense phenomena all about us are but human beliefs, human concepts, which when looked at long enough and intelligently enough disappear and the spiritual reality comes to light.

Christian Scientists do not deny that sickness and sin exist as sense phenomena, but they do deny that they are real in the sense of being God-ordained. They see them as illusions of the human senses, as false beliefs, and are proving that God's law rightly understood, which is the true idea of Life, destroys them. In its broad sense sin is a belief in other gods, a belief in other powers, a belief in something apart from God. This belief violates the First Commandment, "Thou shalt have no other gods before me." One's sense of sin is the thing with which he must grapple; this sense overcome by the consciousness of the allness of God, good, the sin is destroyed or forgiven.

That Christian Science rejects the atonement of Jesus is a mistaken view which many entertain who think that they have the correct sense of the fact that Jesus came to earth and labored, suffered, passed through the ordeal termed death, and returned to earth again, does not of itself save one. One is saved because he accepts and applies in his daily life the teachings of Jesus about God; he is saved by God's grace and mercy. This mercy and grace is the truth about God and man, which Jesus the Christ presented in a way comprehensible to human understanding.

There is no escape from the divine law of justice. "With what measure ye mete it shall be measured to you again." So long as one violates the law of God, so long will he be in torment, so long will he suffer. In order to avoid the pangs of evil he must bring himself into accord with God's law, universal love. By so doing one gains the true sense of life and expresses harmony. To think truly and to act truly insures one's safety. His conduct is being registered either favorably or unfavorably for him daily, hourly. A final judgment day therefore is a matter of small moment to such a one, whose deepest concern is to express constant watchfulness, self abnegation and self-immolation in his daily life.

DINNER STORIES

A prominent society woman suffering from neuralgia decided to consult a noted specialist in nervous disorders. The physician listened attentively to her symptoms.

"Madam," he said, impressively, when she had concluded, "I can guarantee to cure you only on one condition—the removal of every tooth in your mouth."

"Will you stake your professional reputation on that?" she asked, anxiously.

"I certainly will," said the doctor.

"Very well," replied the society leader. She placed her hand to her mouth and removed two complete sets of false teeth!

"Let me kiss those tears away," he begged tenderly.

She fell into his arms and he was busy for the next few minutes. And yet the tears flowed on.

"Can nothing stop them?" he asked breathlessly.

"No," she murmured, "it is hay fever, you know. But go on with the treatment."

"Call yourself a good district attorney? Why, you haven't scored a conviction in the last 20 cases."

"But think how pleased the taxpayers will be at the low cost of prison maintenance."

"It took Blobson five hours to drive three pigs out of his front garden last night."

"Surely even Blobson could move quicker than the pigs?"

"Oh, he found he could move faster than three pigs, all right, but not in as many directions."

Yet if in laying I grow lax,

A Kansas City man who is manager of the used car department in one of the big motor car salesrooms downtown has evidently been talking shop at home, says the Kansas City Star. The other day his wife fried up some patties from some mashed potatoes that had been left over from a party the night before. The little 4-year-old son was offered a helping. "Naw," he remarked in firm refusal. "I don't want any of those used potatoes."

Once With Patti, Aged Prima Donna Dies of Old Age

By Associated Press.

NORWALK, Conn., April 4.—Annie Louise Carey, famous prima donna of fifty years ago, died at her home here Sunday. She was the widow of Charles M. Raymond, a former New York banker, and as Mrs. Raymond she lived here since 1883. She was 79 years of age and death was due to the infirmities of age.

Annie Louise Carey was born in Wayne, Maine, in 1841. She first sang publicly in Rowe Street Baptist church, Boston, at the age of 18. She was graduated from the Gorham seminary in Maine at the age of 21 and studied for a time under Lyman M. Wheeler of Boston. In 1886, she went to Europe and studied under Corsi in Milan. Two years later she made her debut in opera at Copenhagen. Later under the direction of Strikosch she appeared in opera with Christine Nilson.

The first public appearance of the contralto was in New York in 1870. In 1873 she created the role of Princess Amneris in the initial presentation in this country of Aida. In 1874 Miss Carey went abroad and appeared in opera with Adelina Patti. She returned to America in 1876 and sang many times until she retired from opera in 1881.

Among others she has appeared with Tietjens, Lucca, Gerster, Kellog, Campanini and Carlotti Patti. She sang on the concert stage for a year and retired from professional life when she married Mr. Raymond in 1882. Arrangements for the funeral have not been made.

Resinol relieves dandruff

Dandruff is one of the most frequent causes of baldness and too much care cannot be exercised in getting rid of it. The Resinol treatment is an easy method. Shampoo with Resinol Soap working the lather well into the roots of the hair. Rinse thoroughly and when wholly dry spread the hair apart and gently rub into the scalp a little Resinol Ointment. If carefully done little Ointment will get on the hair. Resinol Soap and Ointment at all druggists.

SWEATER AND HAT FOR EARLY SUMMER

This novel sweater was seen in a recent window display on Fifth avenue. It is made of a mercerized thread or yarn in an unusual stitch. The slip-over style which promises to come back in some form or other this season is used here with good effect. Deep fringe trims the sleeves and the lower edge of the sweater. It comes in all the brilliant shades which are popular this season. The hat which accompanies it here is of jade straw trimmed with large daisies. A plaid skirt or a silk sports skirt would make a complete and very smart outfit for many occasions of the summer season.

Hoover Makes Initial Move In Trade Plan

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Secretary Hoover completed an initial step in his program for trade revival with the announcement today that representatives of the American dye industry had agreed to the appointment of a committee to co-operate with the department of commerce in formulating a plan for protection of the country's chemical interests. Conferences with other industries, including automobile manufacturers, will be held during the week, Mr. Hoover said, at which he expected committees to be named to co-operate with the department in plans for export revival work.

The dye industry would need protection soon, the secretary declared, as the present license system does not protect against any but identified German products.

Allies Ignore German Protest On Saar Force

By Associated Press.

GENEVA, April 4.—The council of the league of nations will apply the same rule to Germany's latest protest against the presence of French military forces in the Saar region as applied to previous protests, it was announced by council officials here today. Unless some members of the league raise the question no action will be taken.

The French troops in the Saar territory are not considered troops of occupation, but a garrison, the officials pointed out. The administration of the territory depends in the first instance upon the league under the peace treaty and was delegated to the Saar valley governing commission of which M. Rault of France is president. As French interests are prominent in exploitation of the mines and factories of the region, the presence of the French garrison is regarded by the council to be proper as eventual protection in case of trouble.

Salm's Spudders Bow in Defeat to Tigers, 9--5

TY COBB HITS HOMER WITH THREE ON BASES

Danny Clark Celebrates First Game as Benedict With 3 Singles and Circuit Clout in 4 Times Up.

With the wind blowing at about 40 to 50 miles an hour, making Athletic park unpleasant for both players and spectators, the Detroit Tigers and the Wichita Falls Spudders went through nine innings of baseball Monday afternoon to a 9 to 5 decision in favor of the visitors.

Three home runs and a long triple were the feature hits of the contest. Ty Cobb walloped the third ball pitched to him in the fifth inning for the circuit. Clark duplicated Cobb's hit in the seventh, while Blue's wallop came near to being called either way, the ball landing squarely atop the left field fence, hesitated a moment and then went over. The three-ply hit came in the first when McDonald, the first Spudder to face Oldham, drifted the sphere into deep center field between Cobb and Heilman. Cobb's hit brought in three runs ahead of him, Anderson having the bases full with none out when Ty advanced to the plate.

Tigers Out to Win.

Ty's men were out to win and played as hard as if they were in the midst of the season campaign instead of being in an exhibition game. Cobb was everywhere, cautioning one player, giving a little advice to another and signaling from the outfield to the catcher for each ball pitched. During the game the Tiger players who were not in the contest were sent limbering up about the field and made to chase around the fences. None of the lightearthedness of the Pittsburg club was in evidence, all of the Detroit players wearing a straight face and playing with every ounce of energy they possessed.

"Big Boy" Anderson started the game for the Spudders and put for one or two tight holes in which he got himself, worked creditably. He allowed eight hits and eight runs during the time he occupied the mound. Half of the number of runs allowed were due to the circuit clout of Cobb's. Bowman, who took up the hurling burden in the seventh, breezed through that frame and the next, sending the visitors back in order. However, in the ninth he was nicked for two hits and a run. Bowman's work pleased the fans, his slow and careful delivery leaving the impression that he was in there to win every inch of the way. With Marshall and Floyd Kroh, Salm's three big men should win many ball games this season.

Miller and Clark Star.

Several fancy fielding stunts were pulled off during the matinee, Jake Miller, Cobb and Danny Clark furnish most of the thrills. Jake was kept busy pulling down six hard hit balls and made three wonderful catches. After Cobb's homer in the fifth, Miller retired the side by "welling" Veach, Heilman and Jones' flys. Cobb came in behind short for McElwee's fly in the seventh getting it at his shoetops. Danny Clark pulled a pretty double play in the fourth when with Jones on first Woodall hit a Texas leaguer back of second, Danny going back turning a few times and finally snagging it. A quick throw to Comstock doubled Jones at the initial corner. Gross made a pretty catch in the third stanza.

The Tigers opened the game with a rush. Young was passed to first on four wide ones. Flagstead dumped to McDonald and was out, "Pep" taking second. Cobb singled scoring Young and then moved himself from first when Veach doubled to deep left center. Veach counted on a single by Jones. Jones went out Bischoff to Clark when he tried to steal.

"Doc" McDonald slammed his triple to right center field, the third ball Oldham pitched in the opening round, and the crowd went wild. Tanner tried his best but was out at first on a hard hit bounder to Young Clark scored Mac with the first of his four hits of the afternoon, pounding the pill through short.

Blue's Homer Queer.

Blue's circuit smash that bounded off the top of the left field fence was the only score made by the visitors in the second round. The Spudders were helpless before Oldham going out in order with the exception of Bischoff who worked the red headed hurler for a free pass.

Cobb's homer in the fifth virtually won the game for the Tigers for the Spudders were never able to overcome the lead. Anderson helped to fill the bases for Cobb by walking Oldham, first up. Young attempted to sacrifice bunting in front of the plate and Bischoff missed the ball. Young scoring at the initial bag safely. Flagstead bounded to Anderson and was safe at first before the big Idaho hurler could entangle himself. Cobb swung at the first and missed. Then he fouled two balls over the umps wading his left hand. The fourth was an ebony hook that Ty caught fairly on the nose of his club and the ball sailed over Moore's head in left field clearing the bases with two. Although it was evident his ball Danny Clarke's homer in the seventh was fouled far down fair, clearing the bases for the

The Spudders scored two in the sixth without making a semblance of a hit off Ayers who relieved Oldham in that frame. "Doc" walked McElwee and Gross and then filled the bases when he hit Comstock on the wrist. Bischoff tried his best but whiffed. Thrash was sent in to bat for Anderson. He slammed the pill to short and was safe when Flagstead tossed to second to force Comstock. McElwee and Gross scored when Young tossed to third and Jones ran to tag "Commy" who was coming in from second after being retired.

The Spudders scored again in the seventh when Clark hit his homer while the Tigers scored their last in the ninth on two hits off Bowman.

Scouts to Start Drive for $6000 For Year's Work

The boy scout meeting held at the Clint Wood building Monday evening was well attended and the finance council of this organization decided to start a drive April 12 for the purpose of raising $6,000 to carry out the scout work for the remainder of the year.

The drive which will start on April 12 will be conducted largely by the boys themselves, though the town has been divided into districts and speakers assigned to each of these districts. Names of the speakers for the different districts were not definitely announced.

It will be the plan for representatives of the boy scouts to appear before the different clubs at their meetings during this week and Sunday, each church will be represented by a speaker.

A plan was put forth to obtain a permanent camp site for the local boy scouts and several sites were suggested though no definite action was taken in regard to location.

Braves Ought to Surprise League

Walter Holke in action, Dick Rudolph with a nifty cap and, below, Walter Cruise.

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

The Braves' 1921 lineup. Look it over.

Outfielders.—Nicholson, Howell and Southworth.

Infielders—Holke, Ford, Barbare and Boeckel.

Catchers—Hank Gowdy and young George O'Neill.

Manager—Fred Mitchell.

As far as scintillating stars are concerned the above lineup doesn't startle one. But a careful analysis of the different players and the summed up product leads one to believe that under the new management of Fred Mitchell the Boston Braves are going to leave the "hopeless" class and give the National league leaders a run for the first division.

Can't see a pennant. Mitchell himself laughs at the idea of one. But he does say that the Braves will be in the first division right along.

When Owner Grant swapped Maranville for the fleet little outfielder, Billy Southworth, and the peppery shortstop, Walter Barbare, he made a pretty good deal. With Nicholson, a youngster, and Howell to team with Southworth, Mitchell has a mighty good outfield. Barbare will fill the gap at short. If Holke plays true to form at first and young Boeckel plays up to standard at third, the infield will hold its own. Ford, another new one, will be at second. Out of a goodly amount of pitching material Mitchell ought to round out a good pitching staff. Dan Fillingim and McQuillan ought to do the bulk of the hurling. Rudolph wasn't a star last year, but the old boy believes he is set for a good season the coming summer. In addition to these Mitchell has Pierrotti, college star; "Bullets" Miller, John Scott and Watson. Scott and Watson may give the first named gents a run for first-string honors.

Hank Gowdy and George O'Neill can handle any staff of hurlers behind the plate.

Mitchell has the backing of Owner Grant and the Hub fans. He has the brains. Handicapped as he was in Cubville, he showed his baseball ability. He ought to pull the Braves up near the top.

SPORT PICKUPS

Why England and her colonies cannot produce a heavyweight of even the second class has long been the ring's greatest mystery. In England the pathetic efforts of Bombardier Wells and Joe Beckett have completely discouraged the fans. In Australia the situation is even worse. The big men there are so impossible that ring followers will not attend their bouts and demand that the promoters put on men in the lighter classes. Canada has no heavyweights worth mentioning. That is still more strange, for Canadian boxers have every advantage that is enjoyed by those of this country.

"Strangler" Lewis, the world's wrestling champion, has reached a stage where he is positive that he can forget his much criticised head lock and beat all his rivals. The champion is incensed over the fact that the public fails to give him credit for possessing any skill whatsoever and that it is only through the application of his head lock that he wins so steadily.

Lewis barred the head lock in nearly all his matches within the past months, yet by his strength and cleverness won them all. This he claims is proof enough that he is more than a "wrestler with only one real hold." He points out that he is the only wrestler criticised for a special hold while his formidable rivals apply gripe and pressures that are almost as crushing. Not that Lewis cares, but he resents being made a target for general condemnation.

Pete Herman, former bantamweight champion, scored his third successive knockout when he stopped Willie Spencer of New York recently. It took the one time king of the bantams twelve rounds to turn the trick. Even then the local youngster was not on the floor but was running around the ring with Herman in hot pursuit when Referee Jack O'Sullivan stopped the bout.

Spencer had been knocked down five times during the course of the mill, but he never was so groggy that he did not know what he was doing and each time he took the count on his knees. He was floored twice in the twelfth and final round, but each time he recovered quickly and it looked as though he might have stuck it out to the finish if the referee had not grown nervous.

Herman showed to better advantage than usual in this bout.

Herman takes more chances now that he has no title to protect. He always was a good boxer and now that he is beginning to hit without restraint the fans are wondering how it was that Joe Lynch beat him so easily for the title.

Although a youngster of no great experience, Spencer has a good record and never had been stopped. It was the first time he encountered a man of Herman's caliber, but he did not allow that to get on his nerves. He was preceded into the ring by a little goat and came in laughing at the joke.

A player who never reported to the Brooklyns has been released by Manager Robbie to the Atlanta club of the Southern league. He is Frank Mills, a backstop. Mills was ordered to report at the team's training camp in New Orleans, but he did not like the contract President Ebbets offered him and never signed. Mills did not object to the salary offered by the Brooklyns, but found fault with several clauses in the document. He also made several novel demands, one of which was that his salary for the season must be guaranteed. Robbie never met Mills, but is sure that he has a lot of nerve.

Kroh, the same old Floyd Kroh of the Chicago Cubs and later with the Sandcrabs of the Texas league, but now a member of the Spudders was out in uniform yesterday afternoon and officated as umpire during the Tiger-Salmite struggle. He will probably pitch the last few innings of today's game, according to Salm, as Floyd reported in good shape and is ready to start or finish.

OLD CLUB, BUT NEW SPIRIT TO WIN FOR COBB

The old ball club with a new spirit. These are the ingredients with which Ty Cobb, the latest leader of an American League club which plays here today and Tuesday against the Spudders, hopes to develop a winner for Detroit. They are the chemical elements that the tall, blue-eyed Georgian—for sixteen years the most surprising figure of the game—relies upon to create anew the old glories of the Tigers' lair.

"Detroit finished in seventh place last year," Cobb said yesterday. Poised on the arm of a chair in the hotel lobby, the light blue eyes that have carried for sixteen years the most accurate estimation of a pitcher's serve in the business, gleamed with the light of introspection, as if the new leader conned over carefully what he intended to say of his club's chances.

"We are going through a period of transformation—an epoch of changes. It is hard to say what will be the result. Spring prognostication means nothing. Perhaps we will not finish better than seventh this year. But the spirit that is working on our ball club now will, I think, accomplish better results.

"For it is in the spirit that this change is taken—so, has already taken place. We are going to hat with the same ball club practically that we had last year. I have had opportunities to make trades. I refused them. For I want no better bunch of fellows to work out with than the Detroit club. In fact, I want to say now that I would not want to work with any other team in the two leagues than the one we have.

Spirit to Make Pitchers

"We have developed one or two pitching prospects, true. But, I believe that we have good pitchers in the men of last season. The only thing is that they were never given an opportunity to pitch. Men went on the hill and were allowed to nearly throw their arms out of the sockets; they were jerked on the slightest suspicion of allowing a hit or so. Could there be any wonder that the spirit was not there? If the American League season opened tomorrow, and I rolled a ball out from the bench and asked for a volunteer to pitch the starting game, I venture to say there would be eleven pitchers bidding for the chance.

"The only change in the regular line-up of the club comes in the release of Stanage, the veteran catcher, leaving the work behind the bat to Ainsmith. Woodall and Bassler, and the substitution of Blue for Portland at first for Heilman, who returns to the outfield. I am satisfied that with Ainsmith and Woodall, Detroit will have the best catching staff in the league.

"Blue will certainly improve the fielding at first. It looks as if he will hit. Heilman never cared to play the bag—the sale of Burns forced him to undertake it. He prefers to play the outfield.

"Young, Bush, Jones! There's a trio for you in the infield! They are playing wonderful ball—and it looks like a good year for the inner defense.

"The outfield?" The blue eyes lit up with humor again. "Well, we think Detroit will have the hardest hitting outfield in the business, and just possibly—the best! Veach, Heilman and Shorten can all hit—how they can hit!"

Not a word, mind you of T. Raymond Cobb of Royston, Ga., who can also hit—how he can hit!

"But back to the old subject—it is the spirit." This is Cobb talking again. "Why, this is a changed ball club—it is a family of ball players, every man of them working for all that he has in him.

"You will see that in our exhibition games. The fans that watch us in action in an exhibition game see the Detroit ball club playing as if every day was the opening of the American League season.

Gauge Rest of Field

"The rest of the league? Hard to say—of course—for we know only what the papers say of them. Washington looks like an improved team. St. Louis has to be counted in. But that is all just 'paper dope.' As far as the Detroit team is concerned, we will size them up as we meet them, and we'll play them as we see them. I don't expect to win a pennant, but the American League can look for a battle from us!"

That "fools rush in where angels fear to tread."
And so, in every camp, the rookies prance,
Caper and slide, and take the dangerous chances!
Strong youngsters, fresh from college and farm,
They risk a neck, a shoulder, or an arm—
They pitch like wild men there in windy March,
While the keen veteran loops an easy arch—
Eager to win, and wild to gain a place,
They fairly hurl themselves from base to base—
And when, at last, it's time to start a game,
The wearied kids are winded, weak, and lame—
While the old players, stepping lightly in,
Give the tired youngsters the sardonic grin!

NEW EXPOSE IN INDICTED HOSE CASE EXPECTED

CHICAGO, April 4.—Promises of a new expose in the baseball scandal came from an unexpected quarter today when attorneys defending the eight Chicago White Sox players indicted with ten others for conspiracy in the alleged throwing of the 1919 world's series and that they uncovered a "real scandal" in which men hitherto mentioned in the case had won more than $300,000 on the series.

The statements were made by Attorneys Benedict Short and Michael Ahearn when they offered a motion before Judge Cline. A. McDonald for reduction in bail of the defendants. Judge McDonald reduced the bail for Eddie Cicotte, Claude Williams, Buck Weaver, Swede Risberg, Oscar Felsch, Fred McMullin and Joe Jackson, White Sox players from a maximum of $40,000 each to $7,500, but announced he would permit no reduction in the cases of the alleged gamblers.

Mr. Short and Mr. Ahearn refused to go into details concerning their charges of a new scandal, but promised that the full particulars would be made public when the case is brought to trial.

"The players that have been indicted," said Mr. Ahearn in pleading for bail reduction, "are not the conspirators in this case. More than $300,000 was won by a set of men who have not yet been indicted and we are prepared to prove this charge and to prove that our defendants were not implicated. When the trial comes up, we will reveal a real scandal and name the men who really are guilty."

It is believed that the seven players whose bail was set at $7,500 each today will surrender within a day or two. State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe tonight reiterated previous statements that the men "would be given just a little more time, and that then, if they did not surrender, he would have the men in Chicago arrested and would start extradition proceedings against the out-of-town defendants.

HATCHITT CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE CHARGES REED WORKED FOR AND OPPOSED IRRIGATION PROJECT

An answer to Doctor Reed's reply on his "irrigation" stand, in which the Hatchitt campaign committee charges that Doctor Reed worked for the project in Wichita Falls and against it at Iowa Park, declaring there that it was a "Wichita Falls project" as one of his arguments, was issued to The Record News Monday night.

Incorporated in the answer were statements from C. H. Clark and J. Frank Boyd on Doctor Reed's irrigation stand, and a statement from John A. Donald, city engineer while Reed was on the council, which flatly contradicts Doctor Reed's charge that the sewer line "bust" was through fault of the city engineer's department.

Doctor Reed gave The Record News answers to the four principal points made by the Hatchitt committee's statement.

In a statement published in the afternoon edition of the Times, Dr. J. F. Reed, candidate for the city council in opposition to Joe B. Hatchitt answers two questions propounded to him by the Hatchitt campaign committee.

At Iowa Park.

Asked as to his record on the irrigation issue, Dr. Reed answers that he did vote and work for the issue when it was before the people of Wichita Falls. This partially answered the query. He did work and vote for it in Wichita Falls.

He opposed it, however, when it was put up to the people of Iowa Park, his former home—one of his arguments against it there being that it was a "Wichita Falls project" according to information the committee has obtained from a member of the board of directors of the farm districts. The member of the board from whom we have this information is C. H. Clark, together with J. Frank Boyd, whose ability and standing are as well known to the people of Wichita Falls as to Iowa Park.

In answering the second question, Dr. Reed attempts to place the blame for the sewer line which would have had to have been built on stilts, on John A. Donald, city engineer under the Marlow administration, and under the Cline administration until shortly after the time Dr. Reed quit the council in a huff.

Dr. Donald flatly contradicts this statement.

Contradicts Reed.

"Dr. Reed made all arrangements for this line without consulting the engineering department," Mr. Donald said. "The first I knew of it, was when I was told that there was some pipe at the depot. I had not ordered the pipe, and didn't know about the line until Dr. Reed told me what he had ordered the pipe for. Then I looked over the ground and told Dr. Reed that he would have to build part of the line above the ground as high as his shoulder, if he was going to run it across a certain dip in the ground, and didn't know some way to make water run uphill.

"The pipe that he had bought was ten inch pipe. Our system is built of eight and twelve inch. Since Dr. Reed quit the council, the city engineers department has been able to figure in a way to use about a third of it, so far, and will probably in the course of years be able to put all of it in some where.

How Long.

"There is this to consider as between Dr. Reed and myself on this matter he continued. "If it had been a bonehead of mine that was responsible for the buying of $3,000 worth of pipe that could not be used, and for a line which could not be built, how long do the people of the town think my job would have lasted?"

Mr. Donald also charged mismanagement in the Riverside cemetery, under Dr. Reed's administration, declaring that lots had been sold which are out in the walkways, with the result that a number of lots are jammed up together with no way to get to them except in trespassing on other peoples burial lots.

In connection with the activities of Dr. Reed for and against the irrigation project—a project which will give employment to hundreds while building, and is the big hope of Wichita Falls and Wichita county in the future, we have learned that Dr. Reed did support the matter—in Wichita Falls. Directors of the Iowa Park district are authority for the statement, as given above, that Dr. Reed did not support it—in Iowa Park. Mr. J. Frank Boyd, prominent Iowa Park farmer, declares that Dr. Reed was the leader of the opposition at Iowa Park, and that one of the arguments that he used against it with the farmers up there was that it was a "Wichita Falls project."

A suprise.

In this connection Mr. C. H. Clark, chairman of the board for the second district, gave us at our request the following statement:

"I was very much surprised to see the statement of Doctor Reed in the afternoon issue of the Times, in which he said he was for the irrigation project.

This was a particularly great surprise after Doctor Reed's having appeared at a meeting at our board at Iowa Park as the spokesman and representative of a group of farmers who are in opposition to this project.

"I don't know anything about the attitude which Doctor Reed displayed while the matter was before the people of Wichita Falls, but I do know about his appearance at this meeting at Iowa Park at which I presided.

"As to the irrigation project being a Wichita Falls project, it is no more such than it is an irrigation project.

"The assurance of a water supply to Wichita Falls through the project is very important to the city, though this water supply is only a negligible part of the irrigation project. The biggest help by the project is the irrigation of the lands of the farmers, through which Wichita Falls and the farmers in the irrigated district will both gain, and the city can only gain through irrigated lands in the valley."

Mr. Boyd substantiated what Mr. Clark had to say on the matter, and characterized Doctor Reed as, in his opinion, the leader of the opposition group at Iowa Park.

Hatchitt's Campaign.

The committee is giving prominece to this on account of the importance of the project to all concerned, and the belief that the people of the city do not wish to elect a man to a place of influence who is not progressive enough to see the advantages of the project, and who might have an opportunity of seriously hindering it's consummation.

The man this committee is supporting, Joe B. Hatchitt, is an able, progressive and energetic young man, who is thoroughly in sympathy with the constructive enterprises of Wichita Falls.

He is not making a campaign on his record in the service, nor on the fact that service men are among his principal supporters. In fact, he has been able to make no campaign at all. Three law suits, important for his clients, have come up in a bunch right at the last of the campaign, and he has worked hard and conscientiously in his client's interests, letting his own affairs go, as he would work in the interests of the people of Wichita Falls.

Doctor Reed.

His opponent, Doctor Reed, has been on the council more or less since there has been anything like a city council. He quit it last year, saying that he had been on there long enough, and it was time that some others devoted their time to the city's affairs. At the time it was openly charged that his resignation came by reason of feeling at the failure of the council to re-elect him mayor pro tem. He had threatened to resign in the past, and had ben dissuaded. At the time of his last resignation, he was on the board with a bunch of men who believed that when a man offered his resignation, he really meant to quit.

What Help Means.

He announced his entry into the present campaign after his successor, McDowell, who is not running for re-election, asked the park and playgrounds committee of the Chamber of Commerce to supervise the park work and to give the city some parks without letting another spring go by. These men have gone about giving the people of the city some grounds where the people and children of the city could go for recreation with the same energy that they devote to their private business and it looks like that this season will see the city on the way to having some parks.

Doctor Reed showed no signs of doing anything, and his friends said that he had been "kicked off" the board when another agency had been asked to "help" with the program, "help" in this case being equivalent to "do something."

In making this statement to the voters of Wichita Falls, it is the hope, and in fact the expectation of the committee, that The Record News will extend to Doctor Reed the courtesy of an opportunity to answer—a courtesy which was not extended to us in the case of the last issue of the afternoon paper prior to election morning.

JOE B. HATCHITT CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE.

REID'S ANSWER.

When the reply of the Hatchitt committee was called to Dr. Reed's attention by the Record News over the telephone, he answered the four principal points made in the statement by the Hatchitt committee.

With reference to the Iowa Park meeting, he said: "I went out there when an Iowa Park man came down here and told us that all who wanted to get out of it could do so. Several farmers in part of the district near Iowa Park did wish to get out of it. We were told at the meeting by Mr. Clark and Mr. Lawton, that we could get out of if we wanted to. They said that they would so arrange the district that the water could be put on that amount of Archer county lands if we didn't want it.

"I think the part of the project that assures a water supply for the city is something that we have to have. I don't think the irrigation part of it is worth a cent.

"I was at the first meeting here on the irrigation project, and supported it here."

With reference to the "sewer line on stilts," Dr. Reed repeated his former declaration that the fault lay with John Donald, at that time city engineer.

"They made a survey. It was an office survey. When the pipe came, and they got on the ground, they found that it could not be built."

As to the charge that he had resigned from the council in a huff because he was not re-elected mayor pro tem, Dr. Reed laughed. "They can charge anything," he said. "I resigned on account of my health at that time. I was completely broken down."

With reference to the charge of feeling over the Chamber of Commerce committee being asked to help with the parks and playground work having something to do with his making this race, Dr. Reed said: "I was perfectly willing for them to take this over."

TY HAMMERS OUT ONE AT KIWANIS CLUB

A very formidable batting order was presented by the Kiwanis club Monday noon at their weekly luncheon at the Kemp, with Tyrus Raymond Cobb, Mayor W. D. Cline and some exceptional musical treats. Ty knocked the first ball pitched into the distant horizon, but the mayor seemed inclined to "wait 'em out" and picked his subject for a brief talk with much care and although there was no grandstand play about it he registered a marker on the scoreboard before he finished, from the applause.

"I have not come here to make a political speech or to recommend any one candidate," Mayor Cline remarked. Then he told a story of an old darkey on a plantation in Louisiana, who had been "fired" by his employer for being "a lazy, no account, lying, stealing," etc. The darkey objected to such harsh treatment and inquired if outside of these few faults he wasn't a pretty good sort of a negro.

So with the present city administration, the mayor said, mistakes have been made but that he believed it was a pretty good sort of an administration after all. "I just leave this thought with you relative to Tuesday's election, you have its record, which is respectfully submitted to your consideration."

As he rose to talk Mayor Cline was given an outburst of applause rivalling the demonstration accorded Ty Cobb, manager of the Detroit Tigers, guest of honor at the luncheon. Raymond Myers, chairman for the day, introduced the mayor as a man who thoroughly follows the Kiwanis motto: "We Build," and had proved by his record as head of the municipality that he exemplified the other Kiwanis doctrine which calls for unselfish public service.

Ty Cobb, introduced as the "greatest ball player in the world," was given a tremendous ovation as he was presented. Although Ty professed to be suffering from a kind of stage fright and said his natural place was on the diamond, those present believed that with a little coaching Ty could qualify in the big league of after dinner speakers.

Speaking in his earnest manner, which characterizes this famous player, he declared that baseball and business were closely related.

"Baseball has come out of the recent bribery scandal," declared Ty, "purified of the reproach cast upon the noble profession by a few players, who forgot in the moment that the game did not belong to the players."

"I believe that it is the cleanest sport in the world," he added.

"We want you to pull for us this year," he declared, "and with the fine bunch of boys we have, all working and fighting together, we believe we will make things hot in the American league."

Two other members of the Tigers' clan, Bush, shortstop, and Dauuss, pitcher, attended the club luncheon also, guests of Crank Queisser.

Musical diversion for the program was furnished by Misses Irene and Thelma Stuck, in several song and dance numbers, accompanied by Mrs. McMurray. The famous Edison artists, Miss Helen Davis, mezzo soprano, and Miss Sibyl Sanderson Fagan, whistler, rendered several selections, accompanied by an Edison phonograph, and both of the artists gave a very efficient method of securing a duet with only one person. The effect of vocal illusion, as it might be called, was very realistic and pleasing.

The attendance prize, a gold pencil donated by Horace Smith, was won by Joe Pate. Silent boosts for the week were useful hose supporters given by Rex Watland. About 100 members and guests were in attendance. Next week's chairman will be Jouette Benner.

Morgan, local attorney, announced Monday that he will make a vigorous campaign among the voters in this congressional district. Mr. Morgan said he had been considering making the race since it became known that Mr. Parrish will not be a candidate for re-election and that when the proper time arrives will devote his entire time to the race.

Mr. Morgan was born at Cedar, Texas, and attended rural schools until he was 18 years of age, after which he began his career as a country school teacher. Mr. Morgan began his legal career and saw his first and only service as a public official in Vernon, where he began practicing law shortly after graduation, as a member of the firm of Berry, Stokes & Morgan. He was appointed to fill out an unexpired term as county attorney and after serving two years and being nominated for the third term, which he declined to accept an invitation to join the firm of which he is now a member, to succeed Judge J. MUSKOGEE MAN FEELS FINER THAN IN YEARS

Well Known Salesman for Phoenix Clothing Company Tells of Splendid Results He Obtained From Tanlac.

"If I hadn't got Tanlac when I did I couldn't have stayed on a job," declared J. B. Gann, 508 South 7th street, Muskogee, Okla., a well known salesman employed by the New Phoenix Clothing company.

"About a year and a half ago," said Mr. Gunn, "my stomach went wrong and I suffered continually from gas, bloating and shortness of breath. I couldn't sleep and got up in the morning feeling dull and drowsy and more like getting back in bed than going to work. My back hurt so I couldn't reach my hands above my head without suffering agony. I was nervous and irritable, had no appetite, never felt like myself and was losing strength and getting in worse shape all the time.

"Well sir, I got Tanlac just in the nick of time for now my appetite has come back in full force and I never feel any distress afterwards no matter what I eat. I sleep soundly all night long and get up feeling thoroughly refreshed and full of strength and energy. In fact I am sound and well and actually feel better than I have for years. I couldn't ask to have a medicine do more for me than Tanlac has done."

Tanlac is sold in Wichita Falls by Miller Drug Store; in Electra by Tarlton Drug Store; in Burkburnett by West End Drug Co., and by all leading druggists.

BONUS REMOVED FROM GRAIN AT WICHITA MILLS

The 5 cents a bushel bonus which has been in force for milling wheat at the local elevators was removed Saturday and the price of milling and export cash wheat basis No. 1 are the same, both being quoted at present at $1.25 a bushel. Slight demand for milling wheat, with a good supply being offered is the reason for the suspension of the bonus, local millers state.

COTTON MART DEPRESSED ON CABLE NEWS

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 4.—Depressions in the cotton market today were started by poor cables and unfavorable developments in the English labor situation and were widened by the bearish construction placed on fertilizer statistics for March. The opening was lower and the decline was not checked until the most active months were 34 to 41 points under the close of last week. In the last half hour of the day the tone was steadied by Washington messages quoting Governor Harding of the federal reserve bank as saying that cotton would come out all right. The close was at net losses on the day of 18 to 26 points.

Most of the early selling was due to reports that railway and transport unions in England had passed resolutions in favor of joining the coal mine strikers. Considerablbe selling followed figures from Hester quoting fertilizer sales during March in eight cotton states at 697,952 tons against 825,040 during the same month last year and bringing total sales for the eight months of the season up to 1,251,158 tons against 1,679,817 during the same period last year, a decrease of 49.58 per cent. The figures were called unfavorable because they indicated that in these eight states more fertilizer had been sold during March than during the preceding seven months of the season.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Unsettling influence of British labor news caused a break of about 30 to 40 points in the cotton market during today's earlier trading, but rather a steadier tone developed during the afternoon on encouraging reports from Washington with the general list closing steady at a net loss of 17 to 27 points. The market opened steady at a decline of 6 to 18 points, only a partial response to the lower Liverpool cables. Later business was less active, but there was considerable covering on reports from Washington that Governor Harding of the federal reserve board was urging southern bankers to retain their confidence on the ground that large stocks of cotton do not represent a surplus but result from the damming up of that commodity, which usually is shipped to domestic and foreign markets. These advices also credited Secretary Hoover of the department of commerce with pledging co-operation by the government in bringing about an amelioration of cotton conditions. Last prices showed rallies of some 10 to 18 points from the lowest. Exports today 2,100, making 3,776,730 so far this season. Port receipts 16,627. United States port stocks 1,396,329.

LIVERPOOL SPOT.

LIVERPOOL, April 4.—Cotton, spot, fair inquiry, prices weak. Good middling 8.32; fully middling 7.62; midding 6.87; low middling 5.97; good ordinary 4.72; ordinary 3.97. FORT SMITH ROAD SALE POSTPONED TO JULY FIRST

By Associated Press.

FORT SMITH, Ark., April 4.—Sale of the Fort Smith & Western Railway, set for today, was postponed until July 1 at the request of stockholders to permit the renewal of trackage contracts which are valid only during the receivership of the road, which has been in effect three years.

Arthur L. Mills will retire as receiver April 15 and the federal district court has appointed Charles T. O'Neil of Washington, D. C., to succeed him.

STOCK MARKET HAS TONE OF SLUGGISHNESS

NEW YORK, April 4.—Regardless of the more reassuring nature of domestic advices over the week end, the stock market today resumed its reactionary and sluggish course, several leaders breaking into new low ground for the year or a longer period.

Steels, equipments and related shares yielded to pressure, probably because of an increasing belief that prices and wage reductions are inevitable, and other stocks of miscellaneous characterised for more specific or definite reasons.

Oils, particularly the Mexican group, lacked the support usually accorded those shares. Mexican petroleum dropped 4¾ points to 1.35¾, its lowest quotation in more than two years, and others of the same class suffered extreme declines of 1 to nearly 3 points.

Inconspicuous specialties with little or no public following, notably Chadbourn-Gotham, Manati Sugar and Continental Can, were among the other backward issues.

A marked change for the better came over the list in the last hour, prices rallying 1 to 2 points as short covering on the 4½ per cent call money rate in the open market, although 6 per cent was the lowest rate quoted on the exchange. Sales amounted to 535,000 shares.

Notwithstanding the British industrial crisis, rates on London were fairly steady and the Paris rate reacted most moderately, but all the Scandinavian remittances, especially Copenhagen, were heavy as were also the Greek quotations.

In the dull bond market changes were mainly downward, Liberty issues moving variably. Pennsylvania railroad general 4½s made a new price at 77¾. Total sales per value $5,250,000.

PIT BEARISH WITH REPORTS OF SOUTHWEST

CHICAGO, April 4.—Rains in the west and southwest had a bearish influence on the wheat market today, but the effect was nearly counter-balanced by liberal export business. The market closed unsettled at 1¼c net decline to a like advance, with May $1.33 to 1.33¾ and July $1.15. Corn finished unchanged to ⅝c higher and oats gained ¼ to ⅝c. In provisions the outcome was a setback of 27 to 70c.

A first a majority of wheat traders were apparently inclined to belief in a rising market. Then came word of rainy weather in Nebraska and Kansas, together with predictions of moisture throughout the greater part of the winter wheat belt and an increase of selling pressure soon became apparent, especially in July delivery. Afterward, however, it was estimated that 1,000,000 bushels of wheat, 500,000 bushels of rye and 20,000 barrels of flour had been taken for export. Rallies followed and during the late dealings the May option in particular showed comparative strength.

Corn and oats were guided largely by the changes in wheat. Liberal increase of western stocks of meat and lard tended to deprive the provision market of support.

Here Are a Few Personal Looks At The Tigers

HARRY HEILMANN.

What do you think of a fellow who can hit better than .300 without effort and who refuses to take base ball seriously?

Such a player is Harry Heilmann, first baseman of the Detroit Tigers. Harry is one of the best hitters in the game, but he would sooner be a soldier than a .300 hitter.

Heilman made several attempts to gain admission to West Point. He almost succeeded but each time something intervened which brought him disappointment.

Heilmann has the ideal build for a slugger. He stands six feet and weighs 190 pounds. There is power behind his hits and the favorite stunt he has at bat is to bound the ball off the scoreboard in center field. Few men in baseball can hit a ball as hard as he does.

HOWARD EHMKE.

This looks like Howard Ehmke this year. The tall, blond flinger of the Detroit Tigers has been touted as one of the greatest pitchers in baseball, but each year on thing or another developed which cut into Howard's work. He has been the unlucky victim of several accidents and just when he started on a winning streak something was bound to break and lay him up.

And now Ehmke is sure that he has passed his hoodoo. He has been through the entire list of possible accidents and is entitled to a stretch of good luck.

Ehmke stands well over six feet and he weighs in the neighborhood of 200. He has about everything a pitcher needs and is good when it comes to control. Any pitcher that can put the ball where he wants to put it will go a long way and Emhke is that kind.

"PEP" YOUNG.

His Christian name is Ralph Stuart Young, but few people outside of his own family circle even suspect it, for when he came to Detroit from California with the reputation of being an excellent fielder and the desire to make good in fast company, he brought with him the nickname of "Pep" and "Pep" it has been ever since the day he made his debut as second baseman for the Tigers.

They doped him right when they called him a great fielder, for he has but one possible peer in the major leagues and that is Eddie Collins. Like Collins, Young is a smart ball player, one of very smartest uncovered in fast company in many years. His value comes not alone in covering a lot of ground, being sure on rollers, bounders and flies, but in outguessing opponents. He is the true keystone of the Detroit first defense.

He is not a .300 hitter by any means, but he makes up in batting intellect what he lacks in physical strength and he has an uncanny habit of breaking up games with short hits. Pitching to Young in a pinch is far more difficult than pitching to Young with bases empty, for at that time when the pitcher and batter are both keyed up to the highest pitch, the edge is with the smart Young.

IRA FLAGSTEAD.

Ira Flagstead was discovered by his father. Few ball players can say as much, but the sterling young outfielder of the Detroit Tigers owes his start in baseball to the male parent.

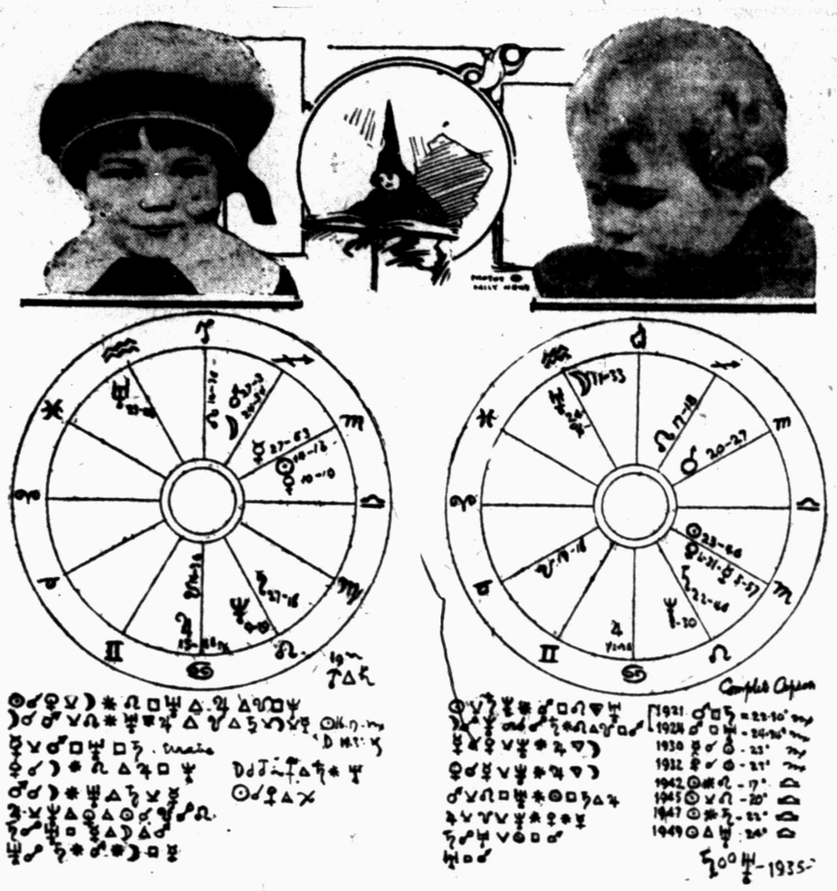

Father Flagstead told the story in Detroit one day last summer while watching his son perform. It happened that Mrs. Flagstead had to go on a shopping tour one day, so she left her 1-year-old son, Ira, in care of her husband. Ira was peevish. Father tried every trick in the book to quiet his son. Finally he handed him a rattle. Little Ira hurled the toy from him. "Ah," exclaimed Father Flagstead, "a great thrower and a right-hander."

From that day on Father Flagstead intended his son to become a ball player. But the son did not share his father's desire. Ira wanted to become a steam fitter. He did listen to parental advice and agreed to play on a semi-pro team in his native town up in Michigan, but this palled on him and one day he removed himself to a distant spot on the Pacific coast.

Starting with the Tigers in the spring of 1919 he immediately became a sensation. A free hitter, carrying a deadly wallop, and with the ability to clean up when runs were needed, Ira soon gained a national reputation. He batted better than .300 in his initial year in the big show.

FUTURE HOLDS VICTORY FOR GUY STILLMAN, DANGER FOR JAY LEEDS, ASTROLOGER DECLARES

Mystic signs of the zodiac that controls lives of Stillman and Leeds babies as Belle Bart sees them, and Jay Leeds, left, and Guy Stillman, the babies whose futures are discussed.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Astrological influences could not be better portrayed than in the horoscopes of little Guy Stillman and Jay Leeds, who in spite of themselves are being made the center of world-wide publicity. So says Miss Belle Bart, astrologer, who has "read" the future of these lads. James A. Stillman, millionaire New York banker, charges that Guy is the son of his wife and a Canadian guide. Mrs. Stillman, in her counter-suit for divorce, says Jay Leeds is Stillman's son. The boy's mother is Mrs. Florence Leeds, "the other woman."

Says Miss Bart: "It cannot be gainsaid that these children are not at the present time the makers of their own lives. Hence the factors of will not being present leaves the full weight of eloquence to be borne by the present horoscopes. The stars indeed speak truly.

"In 1918 the Leeds and Stillman babies were born at a fatalistic time when the planet Saturn, the Oppressor, was unfriendly to the revolutionary Uranus and the Moon, ruler of the subtle life forces was racing to the most malefic bodies, Saturn and Uranus.

Stillman Horoscope.

"Now it so happens that in 1921 approaching the third year after birth of both infants, the aspect is complete and throws thereby its maximum force for evil and scandal. This determines the event, hence this trouble.

"The planets being in fixed signs, it is safe to predict a lengthy controversy which will leave its stamp and exact a heavy toll in after days upon these two children.

"It is no mere chance work to have two children born within barely two months of each other who would be so inextricably entangled in litigation.

"In both charts the malefic planets are opposed to each other from the fifth and eleventh signs of the zodiac, the influence of which is said to dominate over matters of scandal and public notoriety; also premature fame.

"In Guy Stillman's horoscope the concrete picture presented by a thorough analysis of the position of the planets indicates a life full of adventure and of ups and downs, particularly in foreign countries, where he is likely to spend a great deal of his time in the company of his mother.

May Be Millionaire.

"In this case the Sun is conjunct Venus and in the sign Scorpio, the eighth of the sodiacal family. He may be under a cloud himself, his health forces may decline, which will probably terminate his life span. While at the same time little baby Guy, then a grown boy, stands a very good chance to become a millionaire. The misfortune of one will become the gain of the other.

"Should fate so decree that Guy Stillman overcomes his adverse stars at this time, later in the year 1931 we find a series of more fortunate aspects under the Sun conjunct Mercury and Sextile Mars, which as they occur from Scorpio and Sagittarius strongly tend to incline toward a decision being taken to have him sent to a military or naval academy. There he will do very well, gaining distinction, making many friends and life-long associations.

Will Be Romantic

"But, in spite of all these occurences, there will still remain the heavy pall of gloom because of the unfriendliness of Uranus and Saturn in the chart at birth. The parents will remain for all times at daggers drawn.

"The conjunction of the Sun and Venus in the zodiacal sign of Scorpio, both of these in close association with Jupiter, holds forth the promise of a great many conquests in the camp of the opposite sex, many love affairs and romances, some long and lasting with a tragic and dramatic aspect to them.

Predicts a Victory.

"A great deal of money which he will inherit will be spent on pleasures and the real enteertainment of friends of both sexes. The planet of fortune Jupiter forms two powerful aspects with the combination Sun-Venus, and this alone is a guarantee that, no matter what might be the principal changes of fate, he will always be well provided with cash. Upon the whole consideration I do not hesitate to predict a victory for Guy Stillman and his mother.

"Guy Stillman's unconscious protagonist, Jay Ward Leeds, has at birth a greater series of unfortunate influences in operation. From Aquarius and Leo, the eleventh and fifth signs of the zodiac are found the opposition of the moon to Neptune and Uranus to Saturn. This double aspect is a drain upon the life forces of both mother and child. It would be a constant anxiety to the parents and surroundings from the health point of view, being several times on the verge of passing out of this life, were it not for the fortunate influences indicated by a sextile of Mars in Scorpio to the Sun in Virgo and also to the good offices of Venus conjunct Mercury.

Child of Refinement.

"Here we have a child of keen refinement, a highly sensitive nature, with strong emotional bias. In this map it is easy to conclude that his load of cosmic debts which, according to Hindu philosophy he brought with him in this life, will place a strain frequently upon his spiritual resources.

"He may be a precocious poet, an artist and musician, an observer and a critic. His solace, his only means to achieve fame and greatness will be through the constant application of his mind to intellectual pursuits and works of research.

"An early marriage is indicated providing he survives the danger period—the age of twenty-one or twenty-two being the time for the happy event. From 1947 till 1949 and upward the present scandal which has tarnished his possibilities for an early start will vanish entirely."

Edison Artists Give Comparative Joint Recital

The Palace theater was darkened Monday night for one number. A voice started singing. When the light was turned on there was no one to be seen on the stage except an Edison phonograph, yet the same voice continued. The effect on the crowd that packed the theater to hear the famous artists in joint recital could be heard as well as felt by the chorus of "ahs" and the fact that no one really knew when the actual singing of Miss Helen Davis left off and the phonograph started.

A very pleasing program, consisting of a joint recital of classic and semi-classic nature, by Misses Helen Davis, mezzo soprano, Sibyl Sanderson Fagan, whistler, and Williard Osborne, violinist, both alone and with the instrument, was given to the delight of the audience.

The unique experience of hearing a duet composed of one person, one part being taken by the phonograph and the other in person, was given by those present. Miss Davis, in addition to being a finished artist, with a sweet voice, possesses a manner which charmed all of those present. Her singing of "Danube River" and "Darby and Joan" was especially good.

The attraction was made possible by the Edison shop here.

Obituary

HARRELSON

The funeral of the three months old daughter of M. Harrelson, 1913 Taylor street was held from the chapel of the Hines undertaking parlors Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The interment was in the Riverside cemetery.

ELISABETH MARBURY

New York Woman Who, as Play-Broker, Earns a Salary of Over $25,000 a Year

Miss Elisabeth Marbury entered the field of play-broker some years ago. At that time the idea of placing plays through agents was comparatively young. Authors tried to market their products to producers direct and an excellent work was never brought out simply because it was not directed into the proper channels. Miss Marbury developed her chosen field with marked success. She saw the possibilities of her profession and her services were soon sought by many writers. Today she stands in the front ranks of the play-broker business and earns more than $25,000 a year.

FIRST MEETING OF KIND TO BE HELD MAY 16

NEW YORK, April 4.—Ambassadors, ministers and commercial representatives of more than 30 nations have accepted the invitation of the National Association of Manufacturers to attend a conference of ambassadors and ministers on world trade during the association's three-day annual convention in this city beginning May 16.

In making the announcement today the association stated that Secretary of State Hughes would formally open the conference on the second day of the convention unless some unforeseen circumstances should detain him in Washington. A special train bearing the guests, is scheduled to leave the capital at midnight May 16.

"This important gathering," a statement said, "which will be the first of its kind ever held in this country if not in the world, has been arranged in order that representatives of other nations may have an opportunity to explain to the men most intimately concerned in financing and extending our foreign trade, how the constructive forces of the United States may be co-ordinated best to serve the needs of the world.

"There will be discussions of the best methods to meet the demands of Europe and other countries for raw and manufactured materials, and to extend the credit that is so essential. The national association of manufacturers comprises 6,000 manufacturing enterprises which produce more than 75 per cent of the entire manufactured output of the nation, and this convention will give their members an opportunity to obtain the foreign viewpoint for the first time.

Hello Girl Nearly Joins Fire Force

"Look 'em over" said Chief McClure to a pretty blonde, blue eyed, telephone operator who the other day applied for a position as operator for the P. B. X to be installed at Central Station connecting it with other stations.

"Look 'em over, then if you want the job, come back." The little lassie looked over the bunch of young brawn and nerves at the Central station and didn't hesitate—she accepted, but the chief had to turn her down.

"You see," that's the way he put it "it's a hard job, requiring a fireman on it and I have already decided on certain men on the force to take the place. I'd have liked to have given you the job, but under the circumfinances, well, er-er-er," at a glance one can tell the chief is a gallant and hated extremely to disappoint the little girl but "manners is manners."

So husky firemen will man the P. B. X. boards when they are installed.

A survey of the new station No. 2 in Floral Heights leads to the belief that it will be at least May 1 before it is ready for occupancy. The wet weather of the past few weeks has caused certain portions of the plaster to crack and the building is far from complete as yet, though it will be the most adequately equipped and convincingly arranged station in the city when the work is completed.

It is planned to take a hose wagon and a pump from the Central station. Chief McClure will have his residence in this station though the headquarters will remain where it is at present.

The new station faces Buchanan street and is in keeping with the handsome residence of this section being cream brick on a semi Spanish design.

The roof is of red tile and is not completed. The ground floor affords large room for the fire apparatus and the living quarters for Chief and Mrs. McClure. A reception room, bedroom, bath, kitchen and plenty of closet rooms are incorporated in this part of the building.

Up stairs the building is equipped with a large recreation room, and the sleeping quarters are so arranged that each of the ten men to become the personnel of this station will have a window at the head of their beds and each will have a private locker. Tubs and showers will be furnished in abundance.

Plan Defense Dye Interests In This Country

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 4. — The defense of the nation's war-born dye industry against competition of the German dye and chemical trade will be taken up shortly by the department of commerce in conference here with representatives of American manufacturers. Rapid revival of the German industry, especially as a factor in foreign trades, department officials said tonight, must be taken in foreign trades, department officials said tonight, must be taken into account by American interests in order that the industry may be secure here and that the country remain independent of foreign sources of supply.

Other American products needing the co-operation of the government in the field of foreign trade, according to Secretary Hoover, will be given the attention of the department one at a time. Mr. Hoover is to meet with the war finance corporation and southern bankers tomorrow in an effort to develop a workable plan for building up cotton exports.

The credit angle in the trade revival program, officials said, is in the hands of the war finance corporation which is expected the exporters through corporation organized under the Edge act in different sections of the country. In addition, formation of combinations for extending foreign commerce under the Webb-Pomerene act has advocated by Secretary Hoover as the most practical method of moving commodities after credit has been obtained and also as a defense against similar combinations by foreign exporters.

WASHINGTON AGAIN GOAL FOR TOURIST

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

WASHINGTON, April 4. — Long kept out of Washington because of the exigencies of war and the aftermath of war conditions, tourists are beginning to flock back to the Capitol this Spring in ever increasing numbers. They first began to arrive in noticeable numbers about inauguration time, when the Capitol foliage was just beginning to emerge from its long Winter's sleep, and now that the Japanese cherry trees are blooming in Potomac Park and the magnolias are gleaming against the faint green flush of reborn grass, they are here in full force.

GEORGE R. HOLMES

Washington is "returning to normalcy" in more ways than one. The tourists are back, the White House grounds are open again; it is again possible to go through the White House proper, and one can take pictures about the Capitol without being followed around by a gumshoe gent, or being barked at by an irate guard, who has visions of deep, dark, dank foreign plots.

From all over the States they come. Languid millionaires stop off here on their way up north from spending an arduous Winter on the sun-kissed sands of Florida. Sturdy farmers from the South and Mid-West mingle with them in the hotels. Three-gallon hats of glossy sheen bob in and out with sombreros and derbys.

Augmenting the regular tourists this Spring are thousands of perennial job seekers who cluster about a change in administration as flies about a molasses jug. Many of them are really tourists. They mentally excused a sight-seeing trip to Washington on the ground that they might hook on in some capacity with the new administration. Thousands already have seen the sights and gone back home poorer of pocket and richer of experience.

The "ballyhoo" men who conduct the sight-seeing busses are reaping a harvest. For them it is really a return to normalcy. For several lean years they were forced to repeat monotonously many a day: "No, m'am, yuh can't go through the White House. Closed on account of the war." And with slight variations as to place, it was the same advice concerning most of the other points that a man from South Dakota or Arizona wanted to see. The "ballyhoo" men are in clover again. They solicit patronage on the sidewalks with langour because they don't have to bid for trade. It comes to them.

To the ballyhoo artists all tourists are "yaps," just as to circus men all patrons are "rubes." It is not exactly a term of derision, but rather one of affection. The first thing a "yap" wants to see is the White House. In ninety-nine cases out of one hundred the big white mansion on Pensylvania avenue is uppermost in his mind when he gets off the train at Union station. The Capitol comes next, then the Washington monument, the Treasury, Mount Vernon, Arlington Cemetery, and so on down the line of the lesser known of Washington's points of interest.

This year there are many new points of interest added to the sight-seeing routes. The completion of the beautiful Lincoln Memorial, standing, solitary and alone, by the banks of the muddy Potomac is a conspicuous one, as is also the Arlington Memorial Amphitheatre, from which can be obtained the most beautiful view of the Capitol city.

And not the least of the new places of interest is a flat-looking house in S. street, where Woodrow Wilson has retired to his books and reminiscences of past glories. The Wilson home has been added to the routes, and it is proving almost as big an attraction as the White House itself. The sightseers, however, seldom see any signs of activity about the dull-looking house. The garden where the former president takes his airings is in the rear of the house, shut off from the street view.

Many now calling themselves Washingtonians, who came to the capital during the war, were in the class of tourists themselves when the Hardings first threw open the gates of the beautiful White House grounds. The gates were swung open as soon as Mrs. Harding could give the order after the return from the inaugural ceremonies at the Capitol. From that moment on there has been a constant stream of people circulating about the semi-circular walk that leads up to the veranda.

The first crowds in their exuberance were not particularly solicitous about the foliage, and the gardeners have had to labor diligently to repair the ravages of their feet. But the throngs are more orderly now and give the uniformed guards but little difficulty.

Inside the White House, however, the sightseers have to be watched sometimes. The mania for souvenirs, inherent in the American tourist, is ever ready to crop out and is the bane of the guards' lives. Tassels have been clipped from curtains and draperies despite watchfulness. And as for palms, they are shortlived in the White House. The ordinary life of a healthy palm is about four weeks. People will strip off the long blades, and the guards pay little attention to them, evidently figuring that palms are cheaper for the Government than legs of chairs, and candelabra.

Exhibit of Art At School Closed

A program of musical selections, lectures and declamations giving the meaning and interpretation of the different pictures being displayed, featured the program on the last day of the senior high school art exhibit which closed Monday evening. The program was opened by the overture, "The Poet and Peasant," which is a musical selection corresponding to the painting, "The Gleaners," and was followed by Mortimer Clopton, who gave a brief lecture, sketching the origin and history of the painting.

Other numbers on the program included: A brief lecture on the picture, "Sir Galahad," by William Powers; a vocal solo, "Hark! Hark! Hark!" by Miss Masie McClure, and the story of the picture, "The Song of the Lark," by Miss Dorothy Eagle.
