Movie's hit, but it isn't childproof

By Myra Lee Salcedo
Staff writer

Forget that big, purple, cuddly dinosaur children know so well. Hordes of Midlanders queued up to see what one young moviegoer proclaimed "Dino with an attitude" Friday afternoon and evening.

■ Review, features/1C

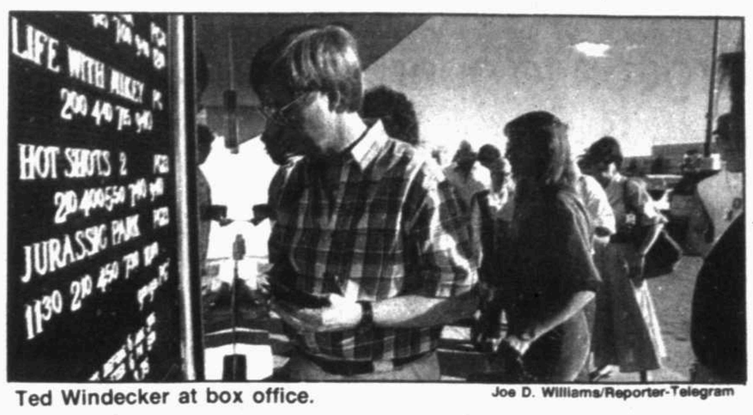

"They're big. They're bad. They will eat your brother," 11-year-old Terry Watson said, giggling as he exited the 4:50 p.m. North Park General Cinema's screening of "Jurassic Park."

Terry's younger brother, Ted, 7, was less enthusiastic about the film.

"The dinosaurs wanted to eat the children," he said. "I covered my face at that part."

Although the box office got off to a slow start, the lines began forming at 6 p.m. to buy tickets to five evening showings — on two screens — of director Steven Spielberg's predicted summer blockbuster.

U.S., allies hit targets in Somalia

■ U.N. launches night attack on Somali warlord's forces.

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — United Nations forces, bolstered by American troops and high-flying gunships, launched a night-time attack against the forces of Somalian warlord Mohamed Farrah Aidid, the Pentagon said Friday.

In a statement released at the Pentagon, Defense Secretary Les Aspin said the 1,200-strong U.S. Quick Reaction Force in Mogadishu joined a U.N.-led "military action against those responsible for armed attacks against U.N. Forces in Mogadishu on June 5."

Aspin said the action was in support of a U.N. resolution that called for a "strong response" against those who attacked and killed members of the U.N. force.

"This response is essential if the U.N. is able to continue its long-term humanitarian relief and reconstruction efforts in Somalia," Aspin said.

A Pentagon official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the operation, which occurred before dawn Saturday in Somalia, targeted at least five specific sites.

The targets include Aidid's radio station, his command quarters and several weapons caches, the official said.

A second phase of the operation involved ground units ordered to move in to secure certain areas of the city and search for additional weapons caches. The official declined to specify exactly how many troops might participate in the ground operation.

'This response is essential if the U.N. is able to continue its long-term humanitarian relief and reconstruction efforts in Somalia.'

—Les Aspin
defense secretary

"The main aim is to restore security so we can continue the humanitarian operation," the official said.

Asked whether Aidid himself would be a target of the operation, the official declined to respond specifically pointing out the United Nations has called for "the detention of Aidid and four of his henchmen."

Two AC-130 "Spectre" gunships, armed with 105mm howitzwers and Gatling guns, were used in the operation. Two others that had been sent into the region last week were held in reserve, the official said.

The Pentagon had no immediate assessment of the operation's effectiveness.

A retaliatory attack on Aidid's compound had been expected since an ambush last Saturday that killed 23 U.N.

Court: Religious freedom protects right to sacrifice animals

MIAMI (AP) — When followers of the Afro-Caribbean religion Santeria announced plans to open a church in suburban Hialeah, local officials responded by banning their ritual sacrifices of chickens, ducks, goats and sheep.

On Friday, the U.S. Supreme Court overturned the 1987 ban, saying the Constitution's guarantee of religious freedom protects the right to sacrifice animals, no matter how offensive that might be to others.

The 9-0 ruling was the court's third decision this week favoring religion in disputes with government. Undiminished by the rulings, however, is a 1990 Supreme Court decision that mainstream religions say undermined their libertv.

The animal-sacrifice ruling overjoyed the Hialeah church's priest, but an animal-rights activist called it "an obscene, bizarre and disastrous mistake."

The case was taken to the high court by the Church of the Lukumi Babalu Aye (pronounced loo'-kuh-mee bah-bah-loo' eye-ay'), and its priest, Ernesto Pichardo. Animal sacrifices have long been an integral part of Santeria birth, marriage and death rites and the initiation of new priests. Most of the animals are eaten.

Writing for the court, Justice Anthony M. Kennedy said Hialeah improperly aimed the ban at Santeria believers. Other cities, including Chicago and Los Angeles, have passed similar laws.

"Although the practice of animal sacrifice may seem abhorrent to some, religious beliefs need not be acceptable, logical, consistent or comprehensible to others in order to merit First Amendment protection," Kennedy wrote.

Up to 60,000 people in south Florida practice Santeria, which was carried to Cuba by slaves in past centuries but banned by early slave traders and Christian missionaries.

"We are amazed by the decision. As an immigrant, as a Cuban, I feel a great honor," Pichardo said. "This is why we came to the United States, because we have

Ruling: Hate crime penalties may be tougher

WASHINGTON (NYT) — A unanimous Supreme Court ruled Friday that states can set tougher penalties for hate crimes motivated by racial bias or other prejudices without violating the right of free speech.

The opinion, written by Chief Justice William Rehnquist, involved an African-American man convicted of leading a racially motivated assault on a white boy.

The ruling in a Wisconsin case has wide-ranging effect because more than 20 states have similar laws that provide for longer prison sentences in crimes committed because of the victim's race, color, religion or sexual orientation.

"Traditionally, sentencing judges have considered a wide variety of factors," Rehnquist wrote. "The defendant's motive

AIDS-infected man triggers virus in 260 babies

BERLIN (AP) — An AIDS epidemic that swept through hospitals in southern Russia in the late 1980s, infecting 260 babies, has been traced to one man who picked up the disease in Africa, researchers say.

Exhaustive medical detective work by authorities in the southern Russian town of Elista revealed that only one man in the area was infected: a Russian radio engineer who had recently returned from the Congo.

He apparently transmitted the disease to his wife, who passed it on to their child. The child was

Surgeon to open facility for refractive surgery

Staff report

Having spent the last year teaching eye surgeons across the nation the latest advancements in refractive surgery, Dr. Ronald W. Ingram has announced he will open the area's first eye care facility dedicated to refractive surgery.

As one of only a handful of fellowship trained refractive surgeons in the country, Ingram said he chose the Permian Basin area because, "In addition to calling Midland/Odessa home, I felt like there was a genuine need for advanced refractive services in the central and west Texas areas. Our goal for the Eye Center of West Texas is to become a complete resource center for people of all ages interested in having their nearsightedness and farsightedness surgically corrected."

In addition to refractive services, the Eye Center of West Texas initially will offer an entire array of medical eye care services, including no stitch cataract surgery, glaucoma management, laser therapy and treatment for retinal disorders.

Ingram's new facility — located at 3001 W. Illinois, Suite 2B2, in Midland — is approximately 2,000 square feet and includes examination rooms, a laser surgery suite, an area for visual fields and patient dilations, a dedicated refractive surgical operating room for RK and other procedures, and a video education room.

Ingram is a Diplomate of the American Board of Ophthalmology, a Fellow in the American Academy of Ophthalmology, a member of the American Society of Cataract & Refractive Surgeons and the Texas Medical Association and is a Fellowship Trained Specialist in refractive surgery.

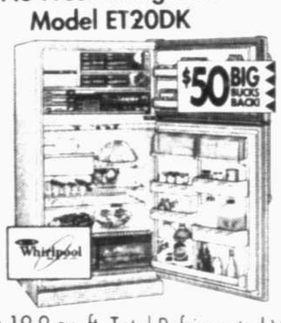

Upon graduating Valedictorian of Andrews High School, Ingram attended Texas Tech University, where he graduated magna cum laude in

MOVIE: Steven Spielberg's 'Jurassic Park' pulls in crowds

(From 1A)

The 7 p.m. showing soon sold out. By 7:15, with 30 people still in line, the 7:30 p.m. show sold out and moviegoers began purchasing tickets for the 9:40 and 10:10 p.m. showings.

"Both sneak previews Thursday night sold out," North Park manager Kevin Kothmann said. "We expect to sell out this weekend and next weekend. It's supposed to be the biggest movie of the summer."

Kothmann said the theater received some complaints about the violence in the movie from parents who had brought young children under age 6. Some parents, with children in tow, even walked out, he said.

"Some said they would come back and see it once they got babysitters," Kothmann said. "The movie is PG-13 and not really intended for young children who might have nightmares. Children under 13 should have parental guidance."

But, he said judgment is left to parents on whether or not to bring the tiny tots to see the film.

Several adults leaving the theater described the film as "Excellent. Fabulous. Realistic," and "worth seeing again."

Tom Croxford, viewing the film for a second time Friday afternoon (after attending one of the two sneak preview screenings Thursday night) said the film was "like 'Jaws' set in prehistoric times."

Despite the film's intensity and violence, Croxford said it did contain humor. Another adult noted that "the kids in the film have some of the best lines."

Lupe Sosa, who brought her 6-year-old daughter, Rachel Sosa, said the film was intense, but not as violent as she expected.

"It's no worse than anything kids see on cable TV," she said. "But I was on the edge of my seat. The dinosaurs were like aliens. Nobody knew what they were capable of or how to stop them."

Rachel just had two words to say. "Very scary."

Would she see it again?

"Yep."

Matthew Alford, 13, said some parts of the film were violent and gruesome, "but it was good overall. I would see it again."

His younger brother, Grant, 10, said the violence wasn't overdone. "It didn't bother me," he said.

Both brothers said younger children should stay home.

Several other adults in line were seeing the film for the second time Friday.

A few patrons complained about the fact that the price was hiked from $5.50 to $5.75 for the evening showings of "Jurassic Park" only. Evening showings of other films were $5.50.

Three teen-agers were caught short when they were dropped off and each had exactly $5.50 each.

A construction worker, Alan Wyatt, overhearing their plight, gave them a dollar so they could get in. "I am really angry. This is scamming the Midland public," Wyatt said. "They only raise the price like this because they know they can get it."

Wyatt paid for his ticket, nonetheless. Another moviegoer, turned on his heel and left when he couldn't get an answer about the price increase.

Kothmann, who was unavailable as business picked up, couldn't be reached for comment about the price hike. One cinema worker, who answered the telephone later in the evening, said, "We raised the price because the movie is a blockbuster. That's all I know."

Despite the 25-cent increase, the majority of moviegoers were more concerned with getting a seat than paying the higher price.

"I'll take whatever you have left, I don't care if it's 10 o'clock show," one woman said to the box office attendant as two grade school children stood beside her crying when they found out the 7:30 p.m. was sold out.

"It might be a violent movie," the woman allowed, after successfully purchasing tickets to the 10:10 p.m. show. "Spielberg's movies always have great action, but watch out for the violence. I'll never forget taking my nephew to an 'Indiana Jones' film where a man's heart got ripped out."

"But what can you do?" she said. "The kids have been begging to see the film for days. They have been showing "Jurassic Park" commercials on TV practically every five minutes. And you know, I want to see if the dinosaurs look real myself."

Clinic adds two to staff

Staff report

Planned Parenthood of West Texas, Inc., has added two new members to its staff.

Dana Hernandez has joined the agency as clinic coordinator of the South Odessa clinic, located at 910-B South Grant.

Ms. Hernandez, her husband and 3-year-old son recently moved to Midland from New Mexico, where she obtained a bachelor of science degree from Eastern New Mexico University.

The South Odessa clinic is the agency's largest clinic. In 1993, 4,609 patients visited the clinic, 4,517 of whom were at or below the federal poverty level.

Services available to to patients there include pap smears, birth control methods (including Norplant and the Depo-Provera contraceptive injection), mammograms, colposcopies, pregnancy testing and referrals, testing for sexually transmitted diseases and prenatal care.

For additional information or appointments, call 332-8258 in Odessa.

Meanwhile, Lori Galaviz is the new site supervisor at the Big Spring clinic, 618 Gregg St.

Ms. Galaviz, a Big Spring native, attended medical secretarial training in Dallas and Odessa. She, her husband and four-year-old attended Birdwell Lane Baptist Church.

In 1993, 1,249 patients visited the Big Spring clinic. Of those, 1,112 were at or below the federal poverty level. The Big Spring clinic offers the same services as the South Odessa facility, with the exception of no prenatal care. For further information or appointments, call Ms. Galaviz in Big Spring at 263-8351.

Sun to take place of early clouds

Staff report

Today's forecast is for brief morning low cloudiness, otherwise mostly sunny, with a high in the mid-90s and south winds 10-20 mph and gusty, according to the National Weather Service at Midland International Airport.

Tonight is expected to be clear with a low in the upper 60s.

Sunday's forecast is mostly sunny with a high in the mid-90s, the NWS said.

Yesterday's high was 87, compared to the record high of 104, set in 1959. The record low for today's date is 55, set in 1979.

STATE

Strong thunderstorms were dumping heavy rains Wednesday along a dry line in Northwest Texas, with a tornado watch posted for parts of the state.

Storms were centered just north and west of the Dallas-Fort Worth area. The National Weather Service issued a tornado watch north of Dallas-Fort Worth and for the Permian Basin and southern South Plains.

A flash-flood watch was also posted until early today for the northern Permian Basin, southeastern South Plains and the Abilene area. Severe thunderstorms were possible in North Texas overnight.

Storms developed Wednesday afternoon along a line from the central portions of the Permian Basin northeast through the Big Country and Low Rolling Plains.

Up to 2-inch hail and very heavy rains fell in the Midland-Odessa area, the weather service said.

High humidity pushed the heat index over 100 in parts of South Texas, while temperatures in other areas ranged from the 70s to 90s.

Winds were generally northeasterly to easterly in the Texas Panhandle and South Plains at 10 to 20 mph and southeasterly at 15 to 25 mph and gusty elsewhere.

Skies were cloudy along the coast with partly to mostly cloudy conditions elsewhere.

Mostly cloudy skies were expected through Friday with a chance of showers and thunderstorms statewide, except for the far west with fair conditions forecast. Some storms could be severe.

Overnight lows should range from the 50s to 80s, with highs from the 80s to 90s.

TOUGH: Ruling calls for stiff hate crime penalties

for committing the offense is one important factor."

The decision "is destined to become a landmark in Supreme Court jurisprudence," predicted Anti-Defamation League chairman Melvin Salberg. "We hope the message the court has sent today will resonate among would-be perpetrators, and will deter future hate crimes."

However, Harry Reinhart of the National Association of Criminal Defense Lawyers called the decision "very dangerous."

It "allows the government to regulate or attempt to regulate . . . thoughts that people hold that are presently unpopular," he told the Associated Press.

This is the second time the justices have attempted to define the parameters of the First Amendment protection of speech in regards to hate crimes. A year ago, the Supreme Court struck down a Minnesota law that banned the display of "hateful" symbols including a Nazi swastika or a burning cross. The court said that law unconstitutionally restricted free speech.

The difference was that the invalidated law "was explicitly directed at expression," while "the statute in this case is aimed at conduct unprotected by the First Amendment," explained Rehnquist.

The ruling on Friday centered on Todd Mitchell, an African-American man who was 19 at the time of the crime.

The case began on the evening of Oct. 7, 1989, with a group of young black men and boys discussing the movie "Mississippi Burning" outside an apartment complex in Kenosha, Wis. They were angered by a scene in which a white man beat up a black youngster who had been praying.

"You all want to (mess) somebody up? There goes a white boy. Go get him," Mitchell said. He counted to three and pointed at the boy. The group ran toward the youth, beat him unconscious, and stole his tennis shoes. The victim was in a coma for four days.

Mitchell was convicted of aggravated battery, which ordinarily carries a sentence of two years in prison. However, the jury found Mitchell had picked his victim because of the youth's race.

Under state law, the maximum sentence is increased when a criminal "intentionally selects" a victim "because of race."

RITUAL: Court overturns ban on animal sacrifices

freedom of speech and freedom of religion."

Roger Caras, president of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, called it "an obscene, bizarre and disastrous mistake" and compared it to the high court's pre-Civil War ruling that upheld slavery.

"This voodoo-like religion is not legitimate in the context of modern America," Caras said.

Hialeah Mayor Julio Martinez said the city would accept the decision reluctantly. He said its ordinance had been based on health concerns.

"I don't think anyone likes to see animal carcasses in front of your house or in front of your car when you're driving down the street," Martinez said. "But the Supreme Court says that's what we have to put up with."

The church was represented by the American Civil Liberties Union, and legislative counsel Robert Peck in Washington said that as sweeping as the ruling appeared, it doesn't counter the court's recent willingness to allow some regulation of religion.

The decision specifically cited the wording of a 1990 decision allowing government to outlaw Indian religious use of the drug peyote, he noted.

"In this case, what they had was a classic example of a targeting a particular religion," Peck said. "It was only after Santeria announced their plan to establish a church in Hialeah that they passed the ordinance."

The U.S. Senate is considering a House-passed bill that would limit the 1990 peyote ruling, which said that people's religious beliefs don't excuse them from having to comply with laws.

Kennedy said Hialeah's law failed to meet the "neutral and generally applicable" requirement and flunked another test: that it "must be justified by a compelling governmental interest and must be narrowly tailored to advance that interest."

HIV: Infected man triggers AIDS in babies hospitalized and the virus spread to other children in 1988 and 1989 after doctors reused tainted syringes.

The existence of the epidemic became public shortly after it began, but new details were disclosed this week during the Ninth International Conference on AIDS.

The tragic episode deeply embarrassed Russian health officials, who have taken steps to assure that it will not be repeated, said Dr. Alexandre Gromyko of the World Health Organization's AIDS program.

"This was really a stimulus to national authorities to revise practices in the medical institutions," Gromyko said Friday.

The epidemic has attracted new attention with the easing of travel restrictions and the social and economic upheaval in Russia and Eastern Europe. The former communist countries face an explosive rise in AIDS cases if prevention is not begun immediately, World Health Organization officials said.

A similar children's epidemic broke out in Romania about the same time as the Russian epidemic. In Romania, more than 2,000 children and infants were infected.

But the source of the virus was tainted blood, not a single infected individual.

The Russian children's epidemic began in 1980, when an engineer from Elista, in the steppes between the Black Sea and the Caspian Sea, left home for a year's work in the Congo.

He returned to Elista in 1981 carrying the AIDS virus. He married. The virus spread to his wife. She had a child. The child was infected, became sick and in 1988 was sent to the hospital. Doctors did not know the child carried the virus.

The child received various drug injections. If the same drug was to be given to several children, doctors and nurses "would use the same syringe, because they would think children are sterile," said Marina Savelyeva, a molecular biologist with the AESOP Resource Center in Moscow, an AIDS education and training center.

The virus spread to other hospitalized children. Some got sick and were transferred to larger regional hospitals.

At each of those hospitals, the pattern was repeated. New cases appeared 300 miles away in hospitals in Volgograd, Rostov-on-Don and Stavropol.

ATTACK: U.N. strikes Somali warlord soldiers and wounded 59 others. The United Nations blamed Aidid for simultaneous attacks on Pakistani U.N. troops in two locations in southern Mogadishu. Aidid denies responsibility.

Earlier in the week, the United States dispatched a 4,200-man Navy and Marine assault force for possible intervention in Somalia.

The force broke off a military exercise in Kuwait on Friday and planned to head to the Straits of Hormuz, where they would await further instructions, officials said.

The force would only be moved to the waters off Somalia should the strike against Aidid require further backup, Pentagon sources said.

There are 4,200 U.S. military personnel in Somalia, which includes the 1,200-strong Quick Reaction Force from the 10th Mountain Division in Fort Drum, N.Y.

All told, there are 18,000 foreign troops in Somalia, including 10,000 to 11,000 in Mogadishu.

The attack was authorized by the 15-nation Security Council in a resolution adopted June 6. The resolution authorized Secretary-General Boutros-Ghali "to take all necessary measures" against the people who killed the Pakistani peacekeepers.

The resolution also called for an investigation, arrest and punishment of the perpetrators. The measure also called for the disarmament of all Somali fighters.

LOCAL/AREA REPORTS

■ Assault

ODESSA — After arresting a man on assault charges, Odessa police initially thought they had apprehended a San Antonio capital murder suspect, according to a police spokeswoman.

But the suspect turned out not to be wanted for capital murder. However, he was charged with two counts of assualt and two counts of burglary — two misdemeanors and two felony charges.

Odessa police officers arrested William Charles Casarez, 20, of San Antonio Friday afternoon following a disturbance at University and Grandview streets.

Police responding to a call arrested Casarez for allegedly assaulting another man. The victim's name and condition were unavailable, according to officers.

Casarez allegedly gave a false name to officers when he was arrested, the identity of a man wanted for capital murder. Officers declined to elaborate on how his actual identity was later discovered.

According to the Odessa Police Department, Justice of the Peace J.E. Weatherly set bond at $15,000 for a burglary of a habitation charge and $7,500 for a burglary of a building charge.

He had not posted bond and was still in jail late Friday night.

■ Cocaine

ODESSA — An Odessa man and woman were arrested Friday for aggravated possession in connection with more than two pounds of cocaine, according to police records .

The Permian Basin Drug Task Force and the Ector County Sheriff's Department, acting on a tip, confiscated approximately 2.35 pounds of cocaine at East Second Street about 8:20 p.m. Thursday.

Odessans Santos Castillo, 30, and Margarita Rodriquez, 47, were both arrested and charged with aggravated possession of a controlled substance and violation of the Texas Controlled Substance Stamp Act, according to records.

A 1973 Ford pickup was seized during the arrest.

Bond was set for both Castillo and Ms. Rodriquez at $25,000 each for the possession charge and $15,000 each for the stamp act violation. Castillo had posted bond Friday night while Ms. Rodriquez remained in jail.

■ Drugs

ODESSA — A grand jury, meeting in Ward County, indicted seven people on 19 charges Friday afternoon, according to officials.

All charges were for delivery of controlled substances.

Arrested were Norris Lee Spencer, Ronald George Washington, and Gail Ann Thompson, officials said.

They had not been arraigned late Friday night. Four suspects were still at large Friday night, officials said.

The Ward County Sheriff's Office and the Monahans Police Department, working with the Permian Basin Drug Task Force, began rounding up suspects about 2 p.m. Friday.

Comptroller: Lottery pays out $1 billion in year's time

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Lottery, operating for just over a year, has paid out more than $1 billion in prizes, Comptroller John Sharp said Friday.

One of those to claim a share was Jean Oliver, 42, a Greenville restaurant owner, who won the $10 million Lotto jackpot offered in Wednesday night's drawing.

Mrs. Oliver, who said she plans to sell her cafe, became the first player to match the six winning numbers using a new "quick pick" computer selection process, said lottery spokeswoman Carmen Luevanos.

Mrs. Oliver said she was too tired to stay up for the drawing, so she picked up the newspaper Thursday morning while drinking coffee with some regular customers at her Market Cafe.

"I told them if I ever won the lottery, I'd never pour a cup of coffee again," said Mrs. Oliver, who is married and has six children.

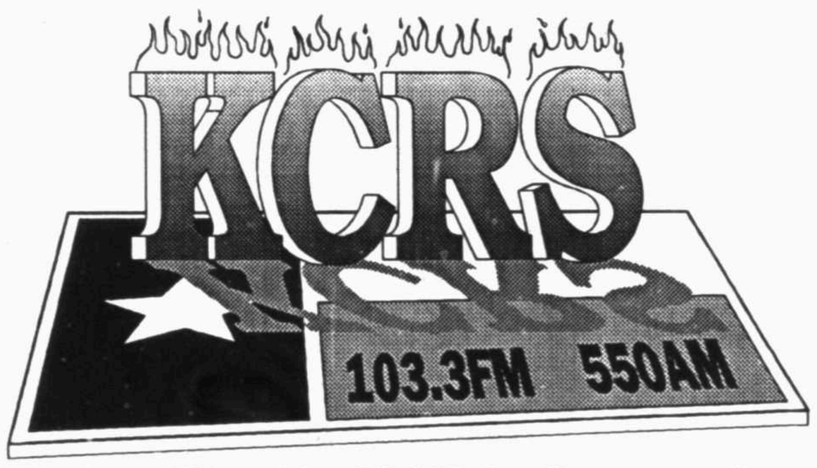

The Texas Lottery began selling scratch-card, instant-win tickets May 29, 1992, and the big money lotto game began in November.

Sharp said Friday it was impossible to say exactly when the prize payouts hit the $1 billion mark.

As of May 1, $581 million in lottery proceeds had been deposited in the state's main bank account, the General Revenue Fund. Another $17 million went to pay for lottery administration; $84 million was paid in commissioner to ticket sellers, and $111 million was paid for products and contractors.

Instant game prizes awarded through June 5 totaled nearly $660 million, while $256 million was paid to lotto winners, Sharp said.

Breyer appears likely choice for Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — Summoned from his hospital bed, federal judge Stephen Breyer met with President Clinton on Friday, hoping to become the first justice in a generation named to the Supreme Court by a Democratic president.

Press Secretary Dee Dee Myers said Clinton "felt good" about the meeting but Breyer was not offered the job. "There's been no decision," she said.

Breyer, nursing broken ribs and a punctured lung suffered in a bicycle accident, ate lunch with Clinton at the White House. Their meeting, which lasted 1 hour and 40 minutes, was the final exam for the centrist judge and former Harvard Law School professor who had already survived a vigorous review process to remain on Clinton's short list as dozens other candidates fell away.

Sources said Clinton wanted to meet his new justice face-to-face.

Breyer

Several sources, including key White House officials, said Clinton had settled on Breyer but wanted to meet face-to-face with the jurist before making his decision final.

Interior Secretary Bruce Babbitt was the only other candidate, administration officials said. Clinton telephoned Arizona Gov. Fife Symington on Thursday, expressing concern about the ramifications of taking Babbitt from Interior.

Clinton did not talk publicly about the matter Friday. Myers said an announcement would not be made before Saturday. "I think he's just going to finish this on his own timetable," the spokeswoman said

Breyer met with White House counsel Bernard Nussbaum after eating with Clinton in a dining room near the Oval Office.

Firm sells contaminated potatoes, agents say

LOS ANGELES (AP) — One of the nation's largest potato growers is facing charges it used partly treated sewage water to grow potatoes sold to customers across the country, including fast-food restaurants.

The indictment Thursday also alleged that Agri-Empire Inc. and its president, Larry Minor, buried pesticide containers under a dirt pen where cattle are fed.

Agri-Empire, described by authorities as the nation's second-largest potato grower, and Minor, were charged with 33 federal counts of conspiracy, mail fraud and illegally handling hazardous waste. Minor denied the charges.

The indictment said the company bought partly treated sewage water, saying the water would be used to grow seed potatoes or crops to be fed to animals.

But the water, many times cheaper than that for domestic use, was allegedly used on potato crops sold for human consumption.

Agri-Empire sold crops grown totally or partly with the waste water to supermarkets and through potato brokers to fast-food restaurants around the country, federal prosecutors Adam B. Schiff and Bryan Daly said.

The hazardous-waste allegations include storing DDT and other banned pesticides and burying unrinsed and improperly rinsed pesticide containers.

Agri-Empire spokesman Xavier Hermosillo called the allegations "precipitous and hollow, and a colossal waste of tax dollars."

He said waste water was used only for growing animal feed and seed potatoes and that the FBI search turned up "nothing — nothing at all."

The FBI and other agencies raided Agri-Empire's offices last July and dug up a 100-acre feed lot, or penned in patch of ground where cattle are herded and fed out of cement troughs. Nothing is grown on a feed lot.

The charges against Minor could carry a combined maximum sentence of 159 years in prison plus $8.25 million in fines if he is convicted. The company, based in San Jacinto, about 70 miles east of Los Angeles, could be fined $16.5 million.

Poor districts ask judge to strike down school finance law

AUSTIN (AP) — Poor school districts asked a judge Friday to declare the new education funding law unconstitutional and require a new way of distributing state aid before school opens in the fall.

It's the latest move in a long-running court battle that's depicted as "a life and death struggle for people who live in poor districts" by lawyer Al Kauffman of the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund.

Seventy-five poor districts — including 13 represented by MALDEF — filed motions challenging the new law Friday in state district court in Austin and asked for a hearing by the end of June.

"Your poor districts take it on the chin" under the measure, said Austin lawyer Rick Gray, representing 62 poor districts. Funding changes shift $165 million — out of about $7 billion annually in state aid — from poor to rich districts, his group said.

Property-poor school districts have won a Texas Supreme Court order for lawmakers to even out funding available to school districts of differing property wealth. Texas' 1,048 schools are financed through state aid, local property taxes and some federal funds.

Two previous attempts by lawmakers to meet the Supreme Court mandate have been ruled unconstitutional. The latest law was passed last month.

Kauffman said in San Antonio that the new measure — which gives the state's richest school districts several options for giving some property wealth to poorer ones — makes progress but still falls short.

"After 25 years of being in this fight I think that I can give the legislators . . . a 'D'," added Demetrio Rodriguez, who launched the original school finance fight when his children attended school in San Antonio's property-poor Edgewood district.

His grandchildren now attend an Edgewood elementary school with no gym, and eight portable classrooms, requiring students to go to another building to drink water or use the restroom, he said. "We're still in the same shape that we were before."

Gov. Ann Richards, who signed the new law less than two weeks ago, said a court challenge was expected. But she added, "Overall, I think the court's going to say it's OK."

Assistant Attorney General Toni Hunter said the measure should be given a chance to operate. "The Legislature has come up with what they think is the best they can do, given the court mandates and given the financial restrictions on the state," she said.

Ms. Hunter noted that state District Judge F. Scott McCown of Austin, who oversees the case, has set a July 15 deadline for challenges to be filed. She said she hopes he'll wait until then to set a hearing.

McCown has said the new law likely will be in effect at least for the 1993-94 school year.

But MALDEF said if the new law is unchanged, projected funding losses would require school districts "to take such actions as laying off teachers, canceling programs, not contracting for improvement of school buildings or buying teaching materials, or enriching curriculum."

Students in poor districts will suffer more than others from limited state funding because of the way the money is distributed, its motion said. The Legislature did not put in enough new state money to cover enrollment growth, leaders acknowledge.

The law decreases the state's basic per-student funding grant.

DA: Allegations of destruction of documents steps up probe

AUSTIN (AP) — A prosecutor said Friday he stepped up his investigation of U.S. Sen.-elect Kay Bailey Hutchison's operation of the state Treasury after hearing allegations that evidence was being destroyed.

However, Travis County District Attorney Ronnie Earle also said he does "not have any hard evidence that Kay Bailey Hutchison committed a crime."

He said the investigation would continue and could take weeks.

Republicans, including Mrs. Hutchison, said a Thursday raid on the Treasury and a grand jury inquiry was political retaliation by Earle, a Democrat who had expressed an interest in the Senate.

"Yesterday's sudden and massive show of force . . . has the raw smell of politics, not justice," said U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas.

But Earle, whose office is charged with prosecuting wrongdoing by state officials, said he was only doing his job.

"Earlier this week, we received information that crucial evidence was being removed and destroyed and so for that reason, we took the action that we took," Earle said, refusing to elaborate on the allegations.

The prosecutor subpoenaed 14 Treasury employees and Mrs. Hutchison's campaign spokesman to testify before the grand jury.

Investigators also subpoenaed telephone, computer and personnel records and other material.

According to information from the subpoenas, the investigation appears to center on whether there was misuse of state telephones and other state resources at the Treasury, and whether anyone tampered with state records in a coverup.

Mrs. Hutchison overwhelmed Democrat Bob Krueger by a 2-to-1 vote in a special election last Saturday for Lloyd Bentsen's former Senate seat. She is scheduled to take office Monday.

Mrs. Hutchison said Thursday night that the investigation was "outrageous" and "beneath partisanship."

Her staff said she was in meetings most of the day Friday and unavailable for further comment.

Earle discounted claims that his actions were politically motivated.

"Had we wanted to make this political, we would have taken this action during the campaign," he said.

"It is true that I sought the appointment to that Senate seat and it is also true that I gave some thought to that race," Earle said. "But this action that we have taken in initiating this investigation takes me out of the running as a candidate. I couldn't possibly run for this office after conducting this investigation, so I won't."

Deputy Treasurer John Bell, who likely will take over the Treasury until Gov. Ann Richards names a new treasurer, testified to the grand jury for an hour Friday. Bell said afterward that he knows of no wrongdoing or destruction of records.

"The staff at the Treasury was stunned and would like to get this behind them, but it will not disrupt the work being done on a day-to-day basis," Bell said.

Earle said more subpoenas were likely.

North Korea cools atomic fears

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — North Korea pulled Asia back from the brink of a possible nuclear arms race on Friday by reversing its decision to withdraw from a treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons.

The hard-line Communist country had said it would leave the 153-nation treaty on Saturday.

Kang Sok Ju, a North Korean vice foreign minister, said his country made the reversal based on its "legitimate rights" and hinted the United States offered nothing concrete in exchange.

"This is not horse-trading," the minister told reporters at the U.S. Mission to the United Nations.

He spoke after talks with Robert Gallucci, assistant U.S. secretary of state for political-military affairs.

But the North Korean negotiator said his government had decided to "suspend" its withdrawal from the pact, indicating it could change its mind.

North Korea would have become the first nation to withdraw in the 23-year history of the pact, which provides for nuclear inspections by foreign observers to ensure that nuclear weapons do not spread.

The North announced its pullout March 12 after barring an inspection of a suspected reactor and reprocessing plant at Yongbyon. The prohibition heightened concern that North Korea, despite its denials, was developing nuclear arms.

North Korea made the announcement less than three weeks after CIA Director James Woolsey said there was a possibility it had manufactured enough fissionable material for at least one nuclear weapon.

If North Korea were to have nuclear weapons, South Korea and Japan might try develop their own nuclear stockpiles as deterrents.

North Korea's neighbors regard it uneasily. On Friday, a Japanese defense official said North Korea had tested a new intermediate-range ballistic missile capable of hitting western Japan.

The official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said information about the missile's test firing in May over the Japan Sea came from several sources. He hinted they might include U.S. intelligence sources.

Our troops won't go, Russia says

ATHENS, Greece (NYT) — Despite requests from Britain and France, Russia declined Friday to commit troops to the United Nations peacekeeping force that is to defend six "safe havens" for the beleaguered Muslims in Bosnia-Herzegovina.

In recent weeks, Russian Foreign Minister Andrei V. Kozyrev has indicated that Russia would be willing to send more troops as peacekeepers to the Balkans, a pledge he reiterated Friday, "We will be prepared to send additional peacekeepers," he told reporters before meeting with Secretary of State Warren Christopher.

But afterward, Kozyrev said that although Russia was prepared in principle to send troops, "we need a much clearer mandate by the Security Council" and probably a new United Nations resolution before doing so.

Privately, Kozyrev has told the Europeans — half jokingly — that Russia has no "reliable and available troops" to send, according to senior European officials. He has also expressed doubt that the peacekeeping troops will be able to guard the safe havens successfully.

Russia has 800 peacekeepers in eastern Croatia who have appeared at times to cooperate with the Croatian Serbs, in violation of the peacekeeping mandate.

In one instance in January, the Serbs seized heavy weapons in all four U.N. patrol zones in Croatia. There were suggestions at the time that the Russian troops could have done more to prevent the raids.

The refusal of Russia to send more troops is particularly irksome to the French, who last month proposed the idea of safe havens under the protection of British, French, U.S. and Russian troops.

Gays okay, Israeli army says

JERUSALEM (NYT) — Israel's army Friday said it has formally adopted a policy of drafting homosexuals and that it will not automatically ban gays from jobs requiring a high security clearance.

The guidelines confirm the long-standing practice, never formalized, of allowing homosexuals to serve in the military. They are intended to ease the concerns of civil rights advocates here after a flurry of press reports earlier this year cited examples of discrimination against gays in uniform.

President Clinton has taken political heat for his promise to end the ban on gays in the U.S. military.

Unlike the United States, Israeli army policy has been to not ask the sexual preference of inductees. Israel has a mandatory draft for 18-year-old men and women.

"In Israel, it is not really an issue on the agenda," said Lt. Col. Moshe Fogel, an army spokesman.

The formalized policy calls for "no restrictions on recruiting homosexuals to the Israel Defense Forces." Israel has a regular force of 175,000 and about 430,000 reserve troops. It is considered the best military in the Middle East and one of the best-qualified in the world. Most men serve in reserve units at least 40 days a year until the age of 55.

Candidates for special or high-security duties will be reviewed on a case-by-case basis, but will not be automatically disqualified based on their homosexuality. The policy also applies to civilian employees of the IDF.

Officials of the U.S. Government Accounting Office, the research arm of Congress, were in Israel last month studying its military policy toward gays, Fogel said. Israeli state television reported Friday that several U.S. senators were in Israel last week.

Russia brews controversial Vodka reforms

MOSCOW (AP) — Russians driven to drink by painful market reforms soon may find it harder to drown their sorrows: Boris Yeltsin is considering tightening controls ver Russia's lucrative liquor business.

The Cabinet has prepared a presidential decree that would require the licensing of sellers and producers of liquor, set standards of quality for spirits and establish controls over liquor advertising, government spokesman Valentin Sergeyev said Friday.

The proposed decree is aimed at curtailing the unregulated peddlers who sell beer, wine and liquor from sidewalk kiosks in cities across Russia. It would outlaw the sale of spirits "by hand or from places unequipped with proper storage facilities," Sergeyev told the Interfax news agency.

The issue is sensitive for Russians, who are legendary drinkers from the lowliest laborer to national leaders. For years, the longest queues at shortage-plagued Soviet shops were at liquor stores.

In 1986, Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev branded alcohol the nation's scourge and mounted an intense campaign against it, to no avail.

Justice concludes Sessions must go

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senior Justice Department officials have concluded that FBI Director William S. Sessions should be replaced and are searching for a graceful way to ease him out, says an administration official familiar with the discussions.

The agency is seeking a way to get Sessions to resign "for the good of the service" and to avoid further controversy over an internal report that harshly criticized him for ethical lapses, said the official, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Under this scenario, Attorney General Janet Reno would not be forced to make any recommendations to the White House about Sessions' future, and Sessions would be able to leave the post he has held for five years without further harm to his reputation, the official said.

Justice Department spokesman Carl Stern said that Reno "has not reached a conclusion on what she is going to report to the president."

Thomas Susman, a Washington attorney who represents Sessions, did not immediately return telephone calls.

Stern said that Deputy Attorney General Philip B. Heymann is reviewing the matter, but declined to provide any details. Heymann's review could take a month, Stern said.

A report by the Justice Department's Office of Professional Responsibility said Sessions arranged speaking engage ments so that he and his wife, Alice, could fly to San Francisco at Christmas to spend the holidays with their daughter.

It also questioned the propriety of other use of FBI aircraft and Mrs. Sessions' use of the director's limousine for personal errands.

And it criticized Sessions for letting his wife interfere in bureau business by overruling a decision by FBI officials to build an iron security fence around the couple's home.

Mrs. Sessions insisted on a wooden fence that she said was cheaper and afforded more security and privacy.

Clinton eyes Krueger for ambassadorship

WASHINGTON (NYT) — Bob Krueger, ending his five months in the Senate after his defeat at the hands of Texas voters, has met with top White House officials about a possible ambassadorship, according to sources in Texas and Washington.

Krueger closed his Senate office and said goodbye to his staff on Friday before heading back to his South Texas home of New Braunfels. An aide said he plans to quickly embark on a Canadian vacation to assess his future and recover from his grueling Senate race.

Krueger was defeated two-to-one by Republican Kay Bailey Hutchison in the June 5 special election. Hutchison will be sworn in Monday in the U.S. Capitol, giving Texas two Republican senators for the first time since 1875.

The outgoing Democratic senator met with White House Chief of Staff Thomas F. "Mack" McLarty and White House personnel director Bruce Lindsay on Thursday to discuss a possible ambassador's appointment, according to two Krueger associates speaking on the condition of anonymity.

The associates did not know if the White House plans to offer Krueger a post.

Bill Burton, an aide to McLarty, confirmed the meeting but declined to discuss specifics. Krueger could not be reached for comment.

"They talked about ways in which Mr. Krueger could help the administration," said Burton. "It was a private meeting and Mr. McLarty respects that."

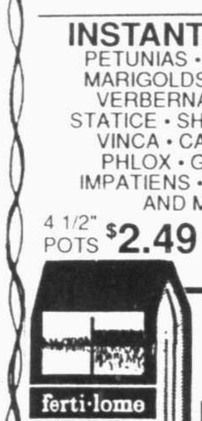

Krueger, who served as President Carter's ambassador-at-large to Mexico in 1979-81, has told associates and Senate colleagues that he would be interested in a diplomatic post under President Clinton. One associate said several of Krueger's Democratic colleagues encouraged him to meet with White House officials to discuss an appointment.

"Obviously, it's something he's interested in," said the associate.

Although Krueger is known to be interested in Latin American issues, the president has already nominated an ambassador to Mexico and is moving swiftly to fill other diplomatic posts.

UTEP names AD

EL PASO — John Thompson, a former banker who served as Texas-El Paso's associate athletic director in charge of fund raising for 16 months, on Friday was named athletic director.

Thompson replaces Dr. Brad Hovious, who resigned in May after a six-year stint. He was promoted by university President Dr. Diana Natalicio, who didn't conduct a search or seek applications from outside the university.

He will serve on a yearly basis at the president's discretion.

For the time being, Thompson will serve as both AD and executive director of the Miner Foundation, the fund-raising arm of UTEP athletics.

A native of Rochester, Ind., Thompson, 54, was graduated from Western New Mexico University in 1960 with bachelor's degrees in economics and English. He was a basketball letterman at WNMU and the school's Most Valuable Player his senior season.

From 1960 until 1992, Thompson had a career in banking. From 1983-88, Thompson was president and chief operating officer at First Financial of El Paso.

In 1988, he became senior vice president of Sunwest Bank, where he managed its marketing department.

Until his appointment as executive director of the Minder Foundation, Thompson helped raise capital and operating funds for a number of civic, charitable and social organizations, including the El Paso Chamber of Commerce, El Paso Center for the Deaf, Sun Carnival Association, El Paso Boys' Club, the United Way and the UTEP El Dorados, the forerunner of the Miner Foundation.

Gulls rain on game

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Nearly 100 sea gulls swooped down on County Stadium during Friday's game between the New York Yankees and Milwaukee Brewers, creating a bizarre scene as players tried to catch and hit a white baseball in a flurry of white birds.

Stadium personnel sounded a siren and a factory whistle to try to scare the birds off, but they returned each time. Then, with the theme music from Alfred Hitchcock's "The Birds" playing over the loud speakers, a sign on the scoreboard called for "Noise, Noise, Noise." It didn't work.

Gary Vanden Berg, the Brewers director of grounds, said the birds were apparently in search of hatching moths, whose nests were located in the outfield and infield grass.

"I've never seen anything like it," said Brewers president Bud Selig, who's been watching baseball at County Stadium since the 1950s.

Bulls burn Phoenix, 111-108

Chicago's Scottie Pippen goes up for a jumper in Friday night's game.

■ Chicago takes a commanding 2-0 lead behind Jordan's 42-point effort.

By Bill Barnard
Associated Press writer

PHOENIX — Charles Barkley played like the Most Valuable Player. Michael Jordan and the Chicago Bulls played like champions and made history Friday night.

Barkley scored 42 points and had 13 rebounds and played with special fire from start to finish, but it was Jordan's 42 points, 12 rebounds and nine assists that carried the Bulls to a 111-108 victory that pulled them ever closer to their third consecutive championship.

Never before has a team started the NBA Finals with two victories on the road, and the outcome makes the Bulls an overwhelming favorite to win another title. The next three games of the best-of-7 series are scheduled for Chicago Stadium, starting Sunday night with Game 3.

Jordan got plenty of help, with Horace Grant scoring 24 points and Scottie Pippen coming through with 15 points, 12 rebounds and 12 assists.

A 3-pointer by Dan Majerle pulled the Suns even at 87-87 in the first minute of the fourth quarter, the first tie since the first half.

Three more ties and two lead changes followed in the next three minutes before the Bulls took the lead for good on a 3-pointer by John Paxson, his first points of the game.

Jordan kept Chicago in front by scoring the next 10 points for the Bulls, giving them a 106-98 advantage on a jumper with 1:33 left.

Danny Ainge, who scored nine of his 20 points in the last 1:27, followed with a 3-pointer and a layup, pulling the Suns to 106-103 with 58 seconds remaining. Three free throws by Pippen and two by Jordan kept Chicago safely in front and the Suns made it close with a 3-pointer at the buzzer by Ainge.

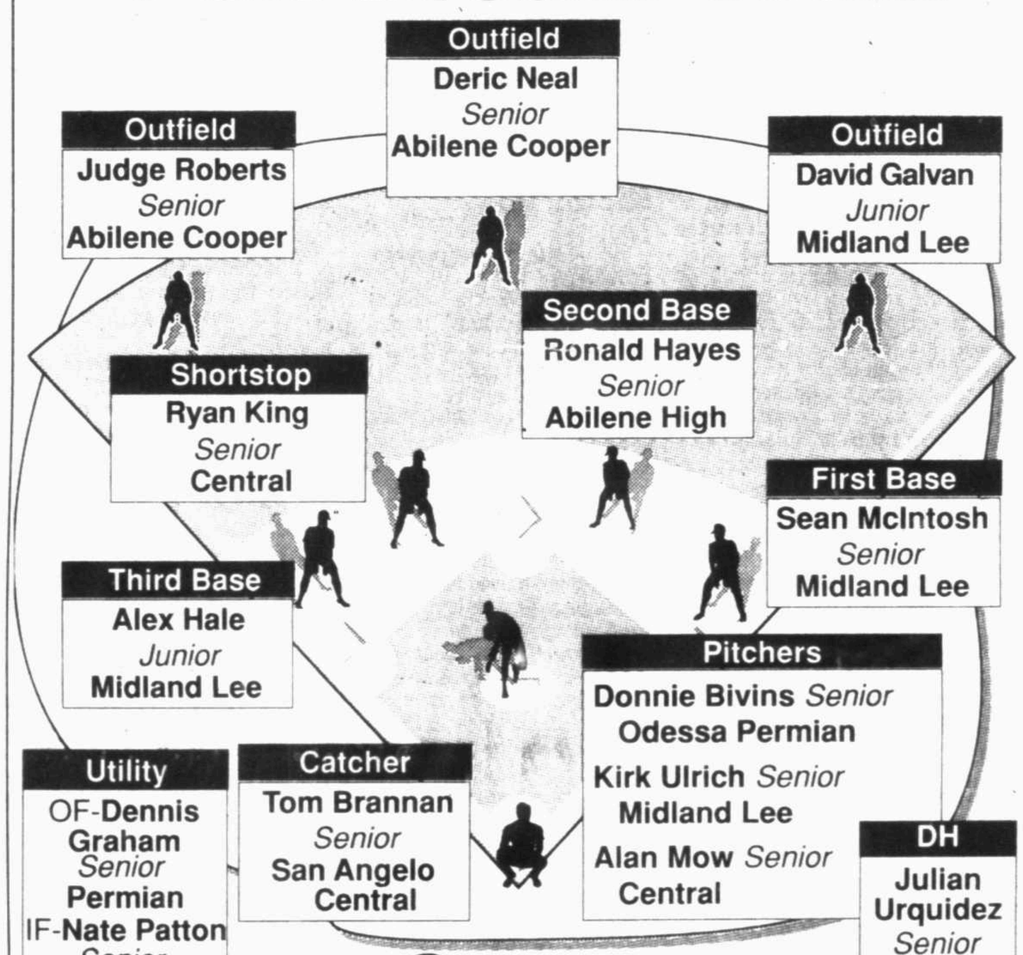

The situation looks bleak for Phoenix, but the Suns are no stranger to playoff deficits.

The Suns became the eighth team in NBA history to rally from an 0-2 hole to win a playoff series when they beat the Los Angeles Lakers in the best-of-5 first round. The Bulls then became the ninth team to do it when they defeated New York after losing

■ Cooper's cinderella season comes to a halt as Guillermo Foster throws a four-hitter to shutdown the Cougars.

AUSTIN — Guillermo Foster threw a four-hitter and David Johnson went 3 for 3 and scored two runs as Arlington Martin ripped Abilene Cooper 8-0 Friday night to win the Class 5A state baseball championship.

The Warriors won their first ever state title, jumping on Cooper early and keeping the pressure on by pounding 12 hits.

■ State Baseball Playoffs

Arlington Martin rode the arms of Foster and Matt Blank into the state tournament, so it was only appropriate that they were among the first to hoist the championship trophy over their heads.

Blank (13-2) fired a five-hitter Thursday in an 8-3 victory over Corpus Christi Carroll in the semifinals. And Foster (12-1), a stocky senior with a sizzling fastball, took over Friday.

Chaps finish third at national JUCO golf tournament

Staff report

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — Scottsdale Community College saw to it that Midland College didn't have a miracle left in its golf bag here Friday in the final round of the National NJCAA golf tournament.

Last year, MC rallied on the final day to win the national JUCO crown by two strokes over Scottsdale, but the host team turned in the best single round of the tournament with a 282 Friday to post a four-round 1,159 total, four strokes better than second place George Wallace State of Hanceville, Ala.

Dundas

Midland College held on to third place with a 293-1,176, but there was not enough charge in this one to pull off another final day national surprise.

Still, MC coach Delnor Poss was pleased with the Chaparral showing.

"That's four years in a row that we have placed third or better in the national tournament — third in '90, second in '91, first in '92, and now third in '93," Poss said. "I'm very proud of the way these kids represented Midland. They are all gentlemen.

"This ended a great season for us, winning 14 tournaments, the conference championship and the Region V

Rockies use rookie hit to beat Astros

Associated Press

DENVER — Pedro Castellano drove in his first run in the major leagues with a two-out, bloop single in the eighth inning Friday night, lifting Colorado over Houston 5-4.

Castellano, who entered the game as a defensive replacement for shortstop Nelson Liriano in the sixth inning, singled to short right field off Xavier Hernandez (2-2). Jerald Clark led off with a single and was sacrificed to second.

Charlie Hayes put Colorado ahead 4-3 with an RBI single in the fifth inning. Scott Servais tied the game with a homer in the Houston eighth off reliever Jeff Parrett (1-2). Darren Holmes pitched the ninth for his fourth save.

Craig Biggio led off the game with a home run against Armando Reynoso. Biggio doubled home Servais, who had single, in the second. Jeff Bagwell opened the Astros third with a triple and scored on Luis Gonzalez's groundout.

Colorado scratched out two runs in the second on just one hit. Hayes walked and scored when Gonzalez made an error on Clark's double. Clark took third on the late throw to the plate and scored when Eric Young hit a grounder to third baseman Ken Caminiti, whose throw to the plate was low.

The Rockies chased starter Mark Portugal in the fifth, scoring twice and loading the bases before reliever Brian Williams worked out of the jam. Alex Cole was credited with a stolen base when he appeared to have been picked off first base but outran first baseman Bagwell to second, setting up RBI singles by Liriano and Hayes.

Marlins 11, Pirates 3

MIAMI — Dave Magadan had four of Florida's team-record 21 hits, and the Marlins trounced Pittsburgh for their sixth victory in seven games.

Magadan hit his third home run of the season and also doubled. Florida matched the club mark for runs, and set a record with seven extra-base hits.

Luis Aquino (4-3) gave up three runs in seven innings. He began the game with a 2.12 ERA, best in the National League.

Tim Wakefield (3-7) was knocked out in the second inning. The Marlins led 5-2 after the two innings and 8-2 after five.

Chuck Carr singled to start the first inning for Florida, advanced on a wild pickoff throw and scored on a single by Bret Barberie. Magadan hit an RBI double and Benito Santiago singled home another run.

Phillies 5, Mets 2

NEW YORK — Third baseman Chico Walker made an error on Pete Incaviglia's grounder with two outs in the ninth inning, giving Philadelphia the go-ahead run and a victory over New York.

The Phillies, who overcame a 5-0 deficit against the Mets on Incaviglia's homer in the seventh inning Thursday night, rallied for its 14th win in 18 games. Curt Schilling (8-1) gave up five hits in his fifth complete game.

The Mets have lost four in a row and seven of eight. Pete Schourek (2-8) dropped his fourth consecutive decision.

With the score tied at 2, Lenny Dykstra led off the Phillies ninth with a single. John Franco relieved Schourek, and Mariano Duncan sacrificed Dykstra to second. After Dykstra took third on a groundout and Darren Daulton walked, Walker misplayed Incaviglia's grounder for his second error in two days.

Wes Chamberlain, who homered earlier, walked to load the bases and Kim Batiste, who also had homered, followed with a two-run single.

Cardinals 1, Expos 0

ST. LOUIS — Joe Magrane allowed two hits in 7 2-3 innings, and torrid Bernard Gilkey homered as St. Louis beat Montrel.

Magrane (4-6) has won his last two starts, allowing only one run in 14 2-3 innings after losing four in a row. Before his previous start, the Cardinals had considered removing him from the rotation.

Gilkey hit his second home run on a 2-2 hanging breaking ball from Kent Bottenfield (1-4) with one out in the fifth. He also singled twice, making him 5-for-9 in the series.

Braves 6, Reds 5

ATLANTA — Otis Nixon, the subject of strong trade rumors, scored the winning run on Brian Hunter's pinch-single in the 11th inning, lifting the Atlanta Braves over the Cincinnati Reds.

Nixon, who had not played in eight days since being replaced by Deion Sanders in center field, has attracted interest from several American League teams, including the Boston Red Sox.

Tigers beat Jays; lead East by 3 games

Associated Press

DETROIT — Bill Gullickson pitched his first complete game of the season and Lou Whitaker continued his hot hitting as the Detroit Tigers beat the Toronto Blue Jays and increased their lead atop the AL East to three games.

Gullickson (4-2) allowed six hits and a walk and struck out three in pitching his first complete game since last Aug. 7. It was just the second complete game of the year by a Detroit pitcher.

Whitaker went 2 for 4 with an RBI and two runs scored, making him 5 for 7 with three runs and two RBIs in the first two games of the four-game series.

Jack Morris (3-7) had beaten his former teammates four straight times, but struggled Friday, allowing six runs on six hits and one walk in six innings. Morris' ERA is 9.91.

Yankees 5, Brewers 4

MILWAUKEE — Kevin Maas pinch hit a two-run homer in the ninth inning as the New York Yankees rallied for a victory over the Milwaukee Brewers in a game played in bizarre conditions.

Dozens of sea gulls swarmed on the field throughout the game. Milwaukee's groundskeeper said the birds were apparently in search of hatching moths, whose nests were located in the outfield and infield grass.

Mike Stanley opened the ninth with a single off starter Jamie Navarro, and Doug Henry (0-1) reliever. Maas, batting for Spike Owen, hit a homer to right, his ninth of the season, on a 3-2 pitch.

Yankees starter Melido Perez (4-5) allowed nine hits, walked one and struck out a career-high 12 for the victory. Steve Farr worked the ninth for his 15th save.

Navarro allowed six hits in eight-plus innings, walked three and struck out six. He did not allow a hit from the fifth inning through the eighth.

Greg Vaughn's 14th homer, following a walk to Tom Lampkin and single by Billy Spiers, came off Perez and gave Milwaukee a 3-1 lead.

Twins 11, Athletics 8

MINNEAPOLIS — Shane Mack's fourth hit of the game, a three-run homer in the seventh inning, completed Minnesota's second comeback of the night as the Twins defeated the Oakland Athletics.

Mack, mired in a season-long slump that had him hitting .217 coming into the game, hit his third homer of the season off reliever Edwin Nunez (1-3) as the Twins struck for five runs in the seventh.

Mike Trombley (3-3), Minnesota's third pitcher of the night, picked up the victory, and Rick Aguilera pitched the ninth for his 19th save.

The Twins rallied from a 5-0 deficit to tie the game 5-5 against A's starter Ron Darling, but Oakland went ahead 8-5 before the Twins came back again.

The Twins loaded the bases off Storm Davis with three straight singles, and Nunez allowed an RBI infield single to Pat Meares to make it 8-6. After Chuck Knoblauch's RBI groundout and a fly out by Chip Hale, Mack homered to left for the Twins' first lead of the night.

The two teams combined for 29 hits, including three each by Oakland's Terry Steinbach and Minnesota's Pat Meares.

White Sox 6, Royals 1

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Frank Thomas and Robin Ventura each hit their 11th home run and Jack McDowell won his ninth game as the Chicago White Sox beat the Kansas City Royals.

McDowell and Mike Mussina of Baltimore, who beat Boston on Friday, lead the major leagues in victories.

Thomas homered leading off the third and Ventura homered leading off the fifth against David Cone (3-7), who allowed one run in each of the first five innings in his shortest outing of the year.

McDowell (9-4) went seven innings, giving up a run on eight hits while walking two and striking out three. McDowell, who lost a complete game effort to Kansas City on May 25, gave up the Royals' only run in the sixth when Felix Jose doubled and scored on a pair of groundouts.

Cone, who took a one-hitter into the seventh inning of his last start against Milwaukee, gave up five runs on seven hits in five innings. He walked four and struck out four.

Orioles 16, Red Sox 4

BOSTON — Cal Ripken's three-run homer capped a six-run Baltimore fourth inning and the Orioles added five more runs in the fifth to win their ninth straight game, defeating the Boston Red Sox.

Ripken, who had five RBIs, also had a run-scoring single and an RBI double off the left-field wall. The Orioles had a season-high 16 hits, including seven doubles, and extended the longest winning streak in the majors this season.

Mike Mussina (9-2) joined Jack McDowell as the only nine-game winners in the major leagues. He has won 16 of his last 18 decisions, including six straight on the road.

The loss was the sixth in a row for Boston and its ninth in 10 games.

Trailing 2-1 entering the fourth, the Orioles knocked out Red Sox starter John Dopson (3-5) with a walk, three straight singles and a hit batter. Jose Melendez relieved and gave up a sacrifice fly before Ripken followed with his sixth homer of the year.

The Orioles, who had scored just four runs in four previous games against the Red Sox this season, added five the next inning on two doubles, two singles and two-base errors by shortstop John Valentin and third baseman Scott Cooper. Ripken had an RBI single in the inning.

Angels 8, Mariners 2

ANAHEIM, Calif. — Two Seattle errors helped the California Angels score four runs on a single in a victory over the Mariners.

Chuck Finley (6-5) pitched a six-hitter for his fourth complete game in 13 starts. He struck out five and didn't walk a batter. The left-hander has won his last eight decisions against Seattle.

The Mariners, who entered the game with the best fielding percentage and fewest errors in the majors, committed two on Greg Myers' fourth-inning single. The bizarre play led to Seattle's sixth loss in seven games.

Kelly Gruber was hit by a pitch with two out and Eric Hanson (5-4) walked the next two batters. Myers singled home two runs, and outfielder Henry Cotto's throw sailed over catcher Bill Haselman's head, allowing Myers to take second.

Hanson backed up the play and tried to get Stan Javier making a wide turn at third, but he threw the ball over Mike Blowers' head, and Javier and Myers scored for a 4-2 lead.

Gary DiSarcina added his third home run two pitches later.

Hanson lost his fourth straight decision after starting the season 5-0. He allowed seven runs, six hits and four walks in four-plus innings.

The Angels knocked out Hanson with fifth-inning doubles by Tim Salmon and Chili Davis. J.T. Snow added a sacrifice fly off reliever Dwayne Henry.

Indians 8, Rangers 3

ARLINGTON — Carlos Baerga drove in four runs and the Cleveland Indians took advantage of Kevin Brown's wildness during a five-run fourth inning to beat the Texas Rangers.

Baerga hit a two-run homer in the sixth and knocked in two more runs with a single and a groundout to lead the Indians to their fourth win in five games. Baerga extended his hitting streak to a career-high 14 games.

Indians starter Tom Kramer was trying to beat the Rangers and Brown for the second time in three weeks. He lasted only four innings, however, allowing three runs and five hits. Heathcliff Slocumb (1-0) followed with 1 2-3 innings of one-hit relief to pick up his first American League victory.

Jose Canseco, in the lineup after missing eight straight starts due to a stiff lower back and strained muscle in his right forearm, hit a bases-empty homer in the first.

Charland sparkles in Angels' debut

Staff report

WICHITA, Kan. — Colin Charland, making his debut as an Angel, pitched three-hit ball through seven innings as Midland blew by Wichita 6-1 to clinch at least a series split with the Wranglers.

Charland surrendered the first 15 batters he faced, striking out five Wranglers in that span.

The Duncanville native allowed a pair of singles in the sixth and only one base runner got as far as third base in the first seven innings.

After John Jackson was hit by a pitch to lead off the game, neither team was able to muster up a base runner until the fourth, when Midland went ahead 2-0 on a two-run single by P.J. Forbes that scored Mark Dalesandro and Jorge Fabregas.

Dalsandro, who played first base Friday, was playing his fifth defensive position in nine games for the Angels.

Kevin Davis had his seventh home run of the year in the fifth to put the Angels up 3-0.

Dalesandro had an RBI single in the seventh and Brian Grebeck a two-run double in the eighth to give the Angels their six runs.

Wichita's only run came off reliever Ron Watson, who yielded two walks and two singles in the eighth.

The win was Midland's third in the last five games and seventh in their last 11 games.

LSU earns berth in world series finals with win, 6-5

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Armondo Rios tied the game with a two-run double in the bottom of the ninth, then scored the winner on Todd Walker's infield smash as LSU beat Long Beach State 6-5 on Friday to earn a berth in the College World Series championship game.

LSU (52-17-1), the tournament's fifth seed, plays for the title on Saturday against Wichita State (58-16), the No. 7 seed. LSU beat Wichita 6-3 in the title game two years ago.

Adrian Antonini singled leading off the ninth against Long Beach reliever Gabe Gonzalez (4-3), who hadn't allowed an earned run in 13 previous appeartances this season. Williams walked one out later to bring up Rios, whose liner off the wall in left center scored both runners.

Rios advanced to third on a passed ball and came home when Walker's shot glanced off Long Beach first baseman John Swanson.

LSU almost gave the game away by committing five errors, including one that let the go-ahead run score in the top of the ninth. That hard bouncer off the bat of Brian Whatley and the glove of LSU third baseman Jason Williams allowed Jeff Richardson to score for a 4-3 49ers lead. Tim Falsken's bunt single followed, scoring Jeff Liefer for a 5-3 advantage.

Eddie Davis, whose two-run pinch homer in the bottom of the eighth on Wednesday helped Long Beach beat LSU 10-8, hit his second home run of the series after Eric Martins singled in the top of the first.

Walker hit his 21st homer of the season and second of the series in the LSU second, then singled in a run in the third, and Rios tied the game 3-3 with a two-out double in the seventh.

Mike Sirotka (12-6), who threw a three-hitter to beat Long Beach 7-1 in the first round, stranded runners at third in the fourth, sixth, seventh and eighth and twice worked out of bases-loaded jams.

Red Wings deal right wing Ysebaert to Jets

DETROIT (AP) — The Red Wings traded right wing Paul Ysebaert for collegiate defenseman Aaron Ward, the Winnipeg Jets' fourth-round pick in the 1993 entry draft, and future considerations, Detroit officials said Friday.

The 20-year-old Ward, who has played the past three seasons at the University of Michigan, had four goals and eight assists in 28 games for the Wolverines last season. Overall, he's scored 19 goals and had 31 assists for 50 points in 116 games.

Ysebaert was traded to Detroit in 1990 by New Jersey. He was the Devils' fourth pick and 74th overall in the 1984 Entry Draft.

At Detroit last season, he had 34 goals and 28 assists in 80 games. The 27-year-old is a native of Sarnia, Ontario.

The draft pick Detroit acquired in the trade initially belonged to the Toronto Maple Leafs. They transferred the pick to the Washington Capitals last June 20 in a swap of draft choices. Washington dealt the pick to Winnipeg with John Druce on Oct. 1 in a trade that sent Pat Elyniuk to the Capitals.

championship. We also had five players make the All-Conference team and Chad Campbell was the conference medalist.

It was Shawn Savage who led the MC contigent in this tournament, posting a final round even par 72 for a team leading 292.

"Savage played really well for the fourth straight day and made second team All-America, missing the first team by only one stroke," Poss said. "Steve Dundas had a bad final round (79), but he also made second team All-America."

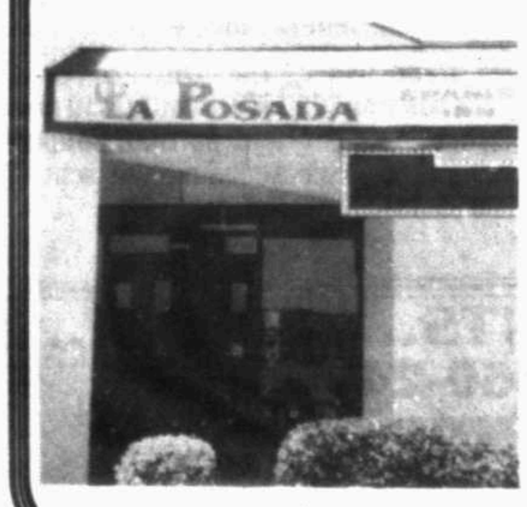

Dundas went into the final round only two strokes off the medalist pace, but the 79 cast him out of the final day chase for that title. In fact, Savage's four-round total of 292 was two strokes better than Dundas.

Campbell came through with a big one-under par 71 Friday, which was the second best round by a Chap in the tournament. Dundas had a 69 round on the second day. Darren Summers and Guy Redford each posted 75 in the final round.

Ainge gives Suns experience for final exam

Phoenix Suns guard Danny Ainge has been to the NBA Finals six of his 12 years in the league

By Howard Ulman
Associated Press writer

PHOENIX — Danny Ainge looks more like a scuffler than a sage. There's a shiner under his left eye, a splint on his right thumb and a tough playing style that belies his choirboy face.

Beneath it all, there's the wisdom that comes from reaching the NBA finals in half of his 12 seasons. Now if his Phoenix teammates would only take his advice.

He tried to tell the other Suns, none of whom had been in the title series, what it would be like. Midway through the second quarter of Wednesday night's opener, they trailed the Chicago Bulls by 20 points. They lost by 8.

What had he told them?

"Exactly the opposite of what we did," Ainge said. "The thing that I said was, particularly in my experience last year playing in the finals against Chicago, was Chicago came out and set the tone intensity-wise, and it's very important for us to get off to a good start, match their intensity level, their confidence level.

"And the exact opposite happened. It seemed that we had some anxiety."

The scrappy guard wasn't playing with poised veterans like Larry Bird and Kevin McHale, his teammates in four finals with the Boston Celtics. He wasn't playing with Clyde Drexler, his Portland teammate in last year's finals who had reached that round once before.

He is the elder statesman of the Suns, even though he joined them this season as a free agent and didn't start a single game. But he has been in more playoff games than any player in the finals.

"He's been explaining to everybody what type of style it's going to be, how important it is to do certain things, how you have to be aggressive and how rough it's going to be," Suns rookie Richard Dumas said. "Danny's helped a lot."

Coach Paul Westphal said other veterans, like Charles Barkley, can help prepare younger players. But Ainge plays a key role also.

"Danny certainly has the players' respect and he's been to the finals a lot because he's good and he knows what he's doing," Westphal said. "Danny has been a big part of the success around here both for his play and his leadership."

Barkley emphasized Ainge's contributions on the court.

"We just need Danny to play," he said.

He plays hard. He got the black eye in the seventh game of the Western Conference finals and jammed his thumb in the opener against Chicago.

During the season, Ainge established career highs in 3-point shots made and attempted. On Wednesday night, he took only one that missed as Chicago rarely double-teamed inside and guarded him closely.

His 11.8-point, regular-season scoring average was higher than those in his championship seasons in 1984 and 1986. But his role has changed from his 7½ years with Boston, most of them as a starter.

"I think I contributed a lot more in those days and had a lot more responsibility," he said. "I'm a lot more relaxed. I appreciate the opportunity more than ever because it doesn't come around all the time and I know that my career is winding down."

He's found other changes as he's switched teams.

"The difference in Boston," Ainge said, "is they won so many championships that there was probably a higher expectation than in Portland and Phoenix where they're hoping to win it, but if you don't it's still a successful season type of attitude."

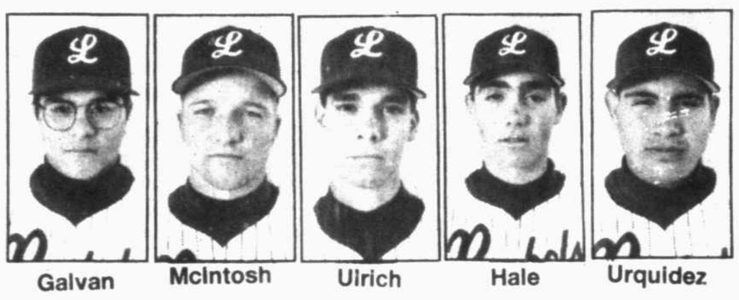

"The expectation levels come from within" and not from the fans, he added, "come from what we feel as a team."

It's part of Ainge's job to create that feeling.

"Everybody has their own things to say," he said. "Some guys listen to it and some guys don't."

REBELS: Lee places 5 on first team

(From 1B)

Galvan McIntosh Ulrich Hale Urquidez

all record for the Rebels. McIntosh, a senior, hit .447 in 4-5A while leading Lee with six home runs for the season. Urquidez, another senior, was hitting .650 with three homers when his season was ended halfway through the league schedule with a broken foot.

Urquidez was also first-team DH last season while McIntosh was named to the second team a year ago.

Galvan and Hale, both juniors, should add punch to the Rebel lineup next season, as Galvan hit .472 from the lead-off position while Hale hit .432 this year.

The remainder of the first team includes Abilene High second baseman Ronald Haynes, shortstop Ryan King, pitcher Alan Mow and catcher Tim Brannan of San Angelo, utility outfielder Dennis Graham and pitcher Donnie Bivins of Odessa Permian, and Abilene Cooper outfielders Judge Roberts and Deric Neal.

Cooper pitcher/third baseman Jimmy Frush was selected as the district's MVP, owning a .486 batting average. Cougar coach Lee Driggers was named Coach of the Year.

BULLS: Chicago takes Phoenix by storm

(From 1B)

the first two games of the best-of-7 Eastern Conference finals.

Friday night's victory was the sixth straight in the playoffs for Chicago and also marked the 12th loss in 13 home games by the Western Conference's champion since 1988. The only West victory in that span was last year when Portland won once in three home games en route to a 4-2 loss to the Bulls.

The Bulls, 13-2 in the postseason compared to 11-9 for the Suns, appear to have a clear path to a third consecutive championship. Only the Boston Celtics from 1959-66 and the Minneapolis Lakers from 1952-54 have accomplished that feat in NBA history.

Phoenix, trailing by 14 in the second quarter, closed within one on a three-point play and layup by Tom Chambers early in the third quarter before Jordan capped a 7-0 run with his second 3-pointer.

After the Suns closed to 68-67 on five straight points by Majerle, the Bulls scored the next 10 for an 11-point lead with 4:52 left. The run could easily have been bigger, but Pippen ran into Barkley near midcourt on a breakaway by B.J. Armstrong.

That didn't stop Phoenix from pulling within a point for the third time in the period as Barkley converted two three-point plays in a 25-second span, keying a 15-5 run that closed the Suns to 83-82. Two layups by Jordan, one with each hand, enabled Chicago to take an 87-84 edge into the fourth quarter.

The Bulls led 59-53 at halftime despite a spectacular first half by Barkley, whose 25 points on 10-for-14 shooting exceeded his first-game point total by four.

Chicago broke away from a 33-33 tie with a 24-10 second-quarter run led by 10 points from Jordan and eight by Grant. The spurt, which included a dunk by Jordan on a 4-on-0 break, gave the Bulls a 57-43 lead with 2:23 left in the half.

The Suns outscored the Bulls 10-2 for the rest of the period, including a 3-pointer by Ainge and the final seven points by Barkley, who hit three tough baskets inside in the last 1:14.

Barkley, after missing nine of 13 shots in the first half of the opener, scored nine points and Richard Dumas eight in the first six minutes Friday night, but the game was tied 19-19 as both teams hit eight of 12 from the field.

The scoring pace slowed considerably for the rest of the first quarter, with only half as many points scored. Despite 2-for-13 shooting in a six-minute span, the Bulls led in the final minute of the period until Ainge's three-point play with 2.1 seconds left gave the Suns a 29-28 edge.

Notes: Nine teams have come back from 0-2 deficits to win NBA playoff series, including the Phoenix Suns this year in the first round against the Los Angeles Lakers.

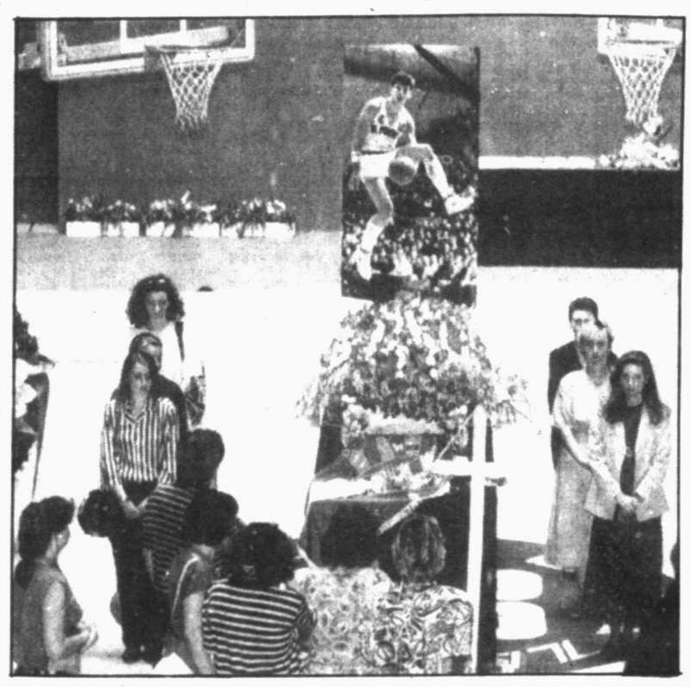

But only two of the 0-2 comebacks have come in the NBA Finals — when Boston rallied to beat the Lakers 4-3 in 1969 and when Portland defeated Philadelphia 4-2 in 1977. In both cases, the first two games were lost by the road team.

Sweeps

The Suns are trying to avoid the fifth 4-0 sweep in the NBA Finals. The most recent whitewash was Detroit over the Lakers in 1989, preceded by Boston over Minneapolis in 1959, Milwaukee over Baltimore in 1971, Golden State over Washington in 1975 and Philadelphia over the Lakers in 1983.

Stats

Scottie Pippen's 15 points, 12 assists and 12 rebounds were his third career playoff triple-double.

Mourners pay their respects as they pass the coffin of Drazen Petrovic. Petrovic was killed in a car accident in Germany, Monday.

Thousands pay final respects to Petrovic

ZAGREB, Croatia (AP) — Thousands of people, many of them weeping, gathered at a central Zagreb cemetery Friday to pay final respects to NBA star Drazen Petrovic.

President Franjo Tudjman and other high officials of the Croatian government were among fans and friends who attended the Roman Catholic funeral in the city where the New Jersey Nets' shooting guard rose to stardom.

Petrovic died Monday in a car accident in Germany. He was 28.

Amid flowers, candles, and dozens of pictures, his body was escorted to the grave by Tudjman's guard of honor. His friends who carried the coffin openly wept.

Drazen's best friend, former Boston Celtic Stojko Vrankovic, who now plays in Greece, sobbed so hard that Dino Radja, now with Italy's Benetton, held him in support.

Petrovic's parents and brother Aleksandar walked behind the coffin. His mother Biserka, who often cheered Drazen when he played at home, had to be carried and finally fainted in front of the open grave.

Authorities look into discrimination at Tech

LUBBOCK (AP) — Federal officials are looking into a complaint that the Texas Tech athletic department discriminates against women in its hiring and recruiting practices.

Word of the probe comes just months after the Lady Raiders won the NCAA basketball championship and just two days after Athletic Director T. Jones announced his resignation Aug. 31.

Privacy laws protect the identity of the person or people who filed the complaint March 29.

"The issues in the case are equal athletic opportunities for female athletes, coaches, support staff, administrators and recruitment of female athletes," said Rodger Murphey, a spokesman for the U.S. Department of Education Office of Civil Rights.

Murphey said Thursday that the complaint charges Texas Tech with violating the tenets of Title IX of the 1972 Education Amendments. Title IX mandates equal opportunities for men and women at institutions that receive federal funds.

Investigators from the regional Civil Rights Office in Dallas will visit Texas Tech and release their findings this summer.

"I know personally of our efforts and how we've tried to help our women athletes and our staff within the constraints of our budget," Jones said. "If effort and desire to help our women athletes means anything, then we're OK."

Jones denied his resignation announcement Tuesday had anything to do with the Title IX probe. He said the athletic department was disappointed by the complaint but would cooperate.

"We will address it. We're working on it now," Jones said.

Tech President Robert Lawless said school officials are not aware of a particular violation.

A program found guilty of a gender equity violation typically is made to enter into a compliance agreement, Murphey said, in lieu of losing federal funds.

Last week, the University of Texas announced it would add women's soccer and softball following a lawsuit accusing the school of Title IX violations.

Tracy turns in fastest qualifying time in Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Don't be fooled by the baby face and the glasses. Paul Tracy can flat-out drive.

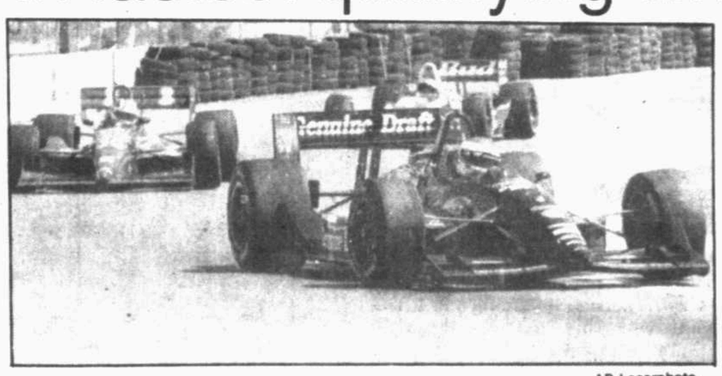

And now he has more reason than ever to keep the peddle down. He became a father two weeks ago.

Tracy, 24, turned in the fastest qualifying lap Friday for the ITT Automotive Detroit Grand Prix race for Indy cars. He drove his Penske-Chevrolet around the 2.1-mile, 14-turn course on Belle Isle at an average speed of 105.144 mph.

If nobody tops that speed on Saturday, Tracy will be on the pole for the first time this season and the second time in his budding career.

There is a bonus of $10,000 for earning the pole position. If the pole-sitter also wins the race, he earns an additional bonus of $15,000. If the pole-sitter fails to win the race, that $15,000 rolls over.

After four straight weeks of rollovers, that bonus is worth $70,000 now. The head of the newly enlarged Tracy family figured that sum would come in handy.

AP Laserphoto

Bobby Rahal, drives his Lola T9300/Cheby Indy V8/C Indy-car around the track on Belle Isle near downtown Detroit Friday during a morning practice session for Sunday's Detroit Grand Prix.

■ Detroit Grand Prix

"You don't think of those things while you're driving, of course," Tracy said. "But I'm thinking about it now, and I've got to tell you that $70,000 sounds like a nice chunk of change. I could make real good use of that bonus money, with a new little girl (Alysha) to take care of."

But he has two of the most famous names in racing right on his tailpipe, and both promised to drive faster on Saturday.

Nigel Mansell, already the winner of two races in his rookie season on the Indy car circuit, pushed his Lola-Ford around at 105.111 mph, and Emerson Fittipaldi, Tracy's Penske teammate, had a lap of 104.850 mph.

Eight drivers bettered the course record of 101.694 mph set last year in qualifying by Michael Andretti. The race was moved to the island park, in the middle of the Detroit River, last year from a downtown circuit.

This is only the third year on the Indy car circuit for Tracy, a Canadian from West Hill, Ontario. He finished second twice last year, and earned one pole.

Tracy appeared to have his first victory in hand when he led by two laps in the late stages at Phoenix, only to hit the wall. He finally got his victory at Long Beach.

"It's a lot of work," Tracy said. "It's a challenge every week. But it's what I've wanted to do my while life. Now it's starting to pay off."

Mansell, the defending Formula One champion, made his reputation on road courses like Detroit. His first Indy-car race was on a street course in Australia, and he won. Mansell finished third at Long Beach and Indianapolis, then won last week on the oval at Milwaukee.

Sunday's race, with a purse of $1 million, will go 77 laps, covering 161.7 miles.

Graf still uncertain about title defense

NEW YORK (AP) — Steffi Graf's injury is more severe than earlier believed and it still is "not a certainty" she will be able to defend her women's singles title at Wimbledon.

The French Open champion has "a serious condition that will have to be taken care of in a substantial way," her agent, Phil de Picciotto, said Friday.

Graf is suffering from periostitis, an inflammation of the membrane of the tissue covering a bone in her right foot. She reportedly was injured in her quarterfinal match at the French Open and received pain-killing injections before her semifinal and final matches.

Following her title match victory last Saturday over Mary Joe Fernandez, Graf returned to Germany where she was treated at a hospital in Essen.

■ More Sports/8B

"She has not been able to train" since the French Open, said de Picciotto, who confirmed the tennis star "is continuing to receive treatment."

"She will start training for Wimbledon this weekend," he said, but admitted her playing in the year's third Grand Slam tournament was "not a certainty."

Earlier in the week, di Picciotto said, "The top athletes have to play all the time with pain, and most, including Steffi, don't make a big deal about it because it is such a common occurrence."

Graf, who regained her No. 1 ranking by reaching the final in Paris, has won the last two Wimbledons and 12 Grand Slam titles in her career.

Schrader eclipses track record, wins pole

LONG POND, Pa. (AP) — Ken Schrader won his third pole of the NASCAR season by breaking his own track record with a 162.816-mph lap in qualifying Friday for Sunday's Champion Spark Plug 500.

Ford drivers Mark Martin and Hut Stricklin had beaten Schrader's year-old record of 162.499 at Pocono International Raceway when the latter reclaimed it in his Chevrolet.

Schrader's 55.277-second lap on the 2½-mile triangular track edged Martin's 55.373-second run at 162.534. Stricklin averaged 162.508.

■ Champion 500

Now, Schrader gets to try for the 17th time to win a race here. His best Pocono finish was second, to Bill Elliott in July of 1988.

"I don't really know if I know how to get around the track every lap yet," said Schrader, 38, who has 14 career poles and is one of only four drivers with three at Pocono.

Schrader said he likes qualifying because "you get to scare ... yourself and you get paid for it."

"The more you scare yourself the more you get paid," he said.

Besides, his car owner, Rick Hendrick, likes him pushing the car in qualifying.

"If you destroy one qualifying, you get a medal instead of a demerit," Schrader said.

Rookie Jeff Gordon will join Stricklin on row 2. Winston Cup points leader Dale Earnhardt will start fifth.

Rarick fires 67 to take second day lead

AP Laserphoto

Dottie Mochrie is stunned after a triple bogey on the last hole Friday.

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Cindy Rarick shot a 4-under-par 67 Friday to emerge from a pack atop the leaderboard and take a one-shot lead at the halfway point of the LPGA Championship.

Rarick, who started the day in a 10-way tie for the lead, had five birdies to move 7-under after two rounds. She has never finished better than fourth in a major tourament during a nine-year career.

"So far, my performances in majors haven't been that great. But I really played consistently today," Rarick said. "I believe I have the capabilities of winning this tournament."

Pat Sheehan, Cathy Johnson-Forbes and Jenny Lidback were one shot back at 136. Jan Stephenson and defending champion Betsy King were among five players at 138.

Although no one bettered her 68 in the opening round, Rarick was virtually lost in a logjam of big names that included Sheehan, Nancy Lopez and the year's leading money winner, Trish Johnson.

"Yeah, the media picked out Lopez, Sheehan and Trish. That's understandable," Rarick said. "All I'm trying to do is the best I can, and if my best is good enough then the press will eventually write about me."

Lopez and Johnson shot 73s to fall well off the pace. Amy Alcott and Pat Bradley missed the cut of 145 by two strokes.

Rarick rebounded from a bogey on No. 11 with a birdie on the par-5 12th hole, barely missing an eagle when her 22-foot putt rolled three inches short. She also flirted with an eagle on No. 1, leaving her approach just one foot from the cup.

Rarick missed a chance to take the lead Thursday when she bogeyed her final hole, but this time she concluded her round by dropping in a 3-foot birdie putt on No. 9.

Sheehan's first-round 68 included six birdies and three bogeys. The Hall of Famer got the same score Friday, but in a much different fashion — four pars and just one bogey.

"It was a real solid round of golf," she said. "It was much better than yesterday's scrambling round."

King, who shot a 72 in the first round, immediately moved into contention. Starting on the back nine, she went birdie-birdie-eagle-birdie over the first four holes and played par over the final 14 en route to a 66, the best round of the day.

"I didn't hit very well on the range, but I got off to a great start," she said. "I was hoping to have a good round so I could make the cut; the scores were low yesterday."

Trio lead after opening round of seniors classic

BELTON, Mo. (AP) — Kermit Zarley, George Archer and Dave Stockton shot 5-under par 65s to share a one-stroke lead Friday after the opening round of the Southwestern Bell Classic.

A one shot behind was defending champion Gibby Gilbert.

Light breezes and perfect conditions led to 21 sub-par rounds on the 6,664-yard Loch Lloyd course, which had just opened when it first hosted this PGA Seniors event in 1991. It was expected to play longer.

"The conditions are perfect," Stockton said.

■ Southwestern Bell Classic

"If the winds stay like this, there are going to be some real low scores. If there's such a thing as an easy 65, that one was."

Gilbert led wire-to-wire in last year's event, finishing 17-under to for his first Seniors victory. He had seven birdies and three bogeys Friday. One bogey came on the 188-yard No. 3, his old nemesis.

"Of course I would bogey that one," he said. "I bogeyed it twice last year. It was the only one I bogeyed."

Ben Smith and Walt Zembriski were at 67. Six golfers at 68 included Charlie Sifford, Tommy Aycock and Rocky Thompson. Nine more players were at 69, including Gary Player and hometown favorite Jim Colbert, the 1991 winner.

Among 12 players bunched at 70 were Billy Casper, Miller Barber, Charles Coody and Bob Charles, the leading money winner on the tour.

Archer comes into the tournament in much the same way as Gilbert last year, on a hot streak. He has finished in the top 10 eight times this year and was second or tied for second three times.

Cliffhanger hangs in

LOS ANGELES —"Cliffhanger" took an $8 million-plus tumble but still landed on top of the box-office mountain in the last weekend B.J.P. — Before "Jurassic Park."

The Sylvester Stallone action-adventure film collected $12.2 million from Friday through Sunday for an easy second-week win despite its 40 percent decline from last weekend's high-flying $20.5 million opening.

Repeating in second place was the Ted Danson-Whoopi Goldberg comedy "Made in America," which spawned $7.5 million or $3,654 per screen, compared to the heftier $5,200 average of "Cliffhanger."

Checking into third place was the thriller "Guilty as Sin," one of the weekend's two Disney newcomers, with a total take of $5.7 million or $5,047 per screen on 1,132 screens. The other Disney offering, "Life With Mikey," starring Michael J. Fox as a former child star turned kiddie talent agent, could only manage a seventh-place $3.6 million.

In fourth place was the presidential look-alike comedy, "Dave," with returns of $4.8 million in its fifth week. "Hot Shots! Part Deux" was close behind, hitting the $4.4 million mark in its third week in the line of fire.

WHAT'S UP IN Jurassic Park?

Richard Attenborough, Martin Ferraro, Sam Neill, Jeff Goldblum and Laura Dern head out on their tour of the amusement park that houses dinosaurs replicated from prehistoric DNA.

Spielberg delivers big thrills

By Janet Maslin
N.Y. Times News Service

Steven Spielberg's "Jurassic Park" is a true movie milestone, presenting awe- and fear-inspiring sights never before seen on the screen.

The more spectacular of these involve the fierce, lifelike dinosaurs that stalk through the film with astounding ease. Much scarier, however, are those aspects of "Jurassic Park" that establish it as the overnight flagship of a brand-new entertainment empire.

Even while capturing the imagination of its audience, this film lays the groundwork for the theme-park rides, sequels and souvenirs that insure the "Jurassic Park" experience will live on. And on. And on.

■ Review

The timing of this cinematic marketing coup could not be better, since an entire generation of children has fallen in love with dinosaurs, transforming the fossils of yesteryear into the totems of today.

On the other hand, "Jurassic Park" has its planning problems, since this PG-13-rated film is clearly too frightening for the young viewers who could have best appreciated its magic, and who will most easily be drawn in by its marketing arm.

Parents and guardians, take note: children who think of Tyrannosaurus rex as a huge hunk of friendly, prehistoric exotica will not want to see a T. rex bite a lawyer in half.

Who will? Well, anyone of an age and disposition to appreciate one of Spielberg's canniest roller-coaster rides and to have read Michael Crichton's novel.

"Jurassic Park" is a gripping, seductively scientific account of a top-secret theme park, named for the era during which dinosaurs reigned. Jurassic Park's main attrac-

Opinions vary whether dinos are kids' stuff

By Michael H. Price
N.Y. Times News Service

LOS ANGELES — The main question has little to do with whether "Jurassic Park" is worth seeing, but plenty to do with whether children should see it.

And yes, Steven Spielberg's new film is at base a horror thriller, concerning itself primarily with people who spend the adventure trying not to get gobbled up by dinosaurs. Two of these desperate souls are children, played by 13-year-old Ariana Richards and 9-year-old Joseph Mazzello; their perils are constant, but both prove resilient.

Producer Kathleen Kennedy, a Spielberg partner of long standing, wants it made plain that "We knew all along we'd be dealing with a potential audience of young people. And we didn't pull any strings in order to secure our PG-13 audience-suitability rating, which is in the family-filmgoing range.

"No, we worked from the start to create a scary movie that would thrill more than horrify," Kennedy said the other day following a pre-release screening in Los Angeles. "At certain key points, the audience's imagination must kick in to fill out the details. Some viewers will imagine details more unnerving than others will, and I believe that's better than any explicit portrayal by our movie."

The declaration is enlightening, but hardly definitive. Kennedy is not a parent, after all — or a child, for that matter. And so other sources bear consulting as to the matter of audience suitability; a random sampling of talents connected with the making of "Jurassic Park" provided a variety of opinions.

"I don't know that it's a children's film," said Ariana Richards, the film's juvenile female lead. "I know that kids are anxious to see it, but I think it's probably a better picture for kids of my age and up — I turned 13 while we were shooting the movie — than it is for littler kids. But most kids are crazy about dinosaurs, no matter how scary."

It is intriguing to note that the Motion Picture Association's PG-13 rating, which discourages viewing by customers younger than 13, was created more or less in honor of Steven Spielberg. In 1984, two films from Spielberg's hitmaker company — "Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom" and "Gremlins" — were assigned commonplace PG (as in "parental guidance") ratings and yet proved to contain extreme levels of grotesque violence nearer the level of an R (or "restricted") rating.

A popular outcry was mounted regarding "Doom" and "Gremlins," and

'Jurassic' actors enjoy challenge

By Bob Strauss
N.Y. Times News Service

LOS ANGELES — They've been Oscared and Tonyed, feted at the Cannes Film Festival, featured semiregularly on "Seinfeld." One of them is even a British knight.

What this universally respected, critically drooled-over assortment of actors is doing dodging Steven Spielberg's "Jurassic Park" dinosaurs is a question that must be asked. And the answer most of them voiced is: for the fun of it. The unspoken answer, of course, is it was Payday City.

"When Steven asked me to do the film, he said, 'You know, you're not gonna win an Academy Award with this one,'" recalled Laura Dern, who was Oscar-nominated for "Rambling Rose" last year (as was her actress mother, Diane Ladd, who ironically is headlining Roger Corman's "Jurassic Park" knockoff "Carnosaur").

Dern, Goldblum and Bob Peck search the dark for escaped dinosaurs. Youngsters Ariana Richards and Joseph Mazzello stay close to Neill as they return to the visitor center of the park.

"He said, 'It may be a nightmare half the time, but I think you're gonna have a lot of fun and you should do it.' He was right about almost everything except the nightmare part of it."

Australia-based actor Sam Neill followed his stint as "Jurassic's" heroic paleontologist with a role in the recent Cannes Film Festival Best Picture co-winner "The Piano," a period romantic drama. "Some reporter at the festival asked me, 'Is anyone going to notice the actors in 'Jurassic Park'?" Neill recalled. "I said, 'Give me a break. We'll blow the dinosaurs off the screen!'

"That was not meant to be taken literally," Neill wryly continued. "But I don't think the dinosaurs would have worked without the cast, frankly, and I don't think the cast would've worked without the dinosaurs. It was a very symbiotic relationship we had. And the cast and dinosaurs got on very well. There was no antipathy between us, no tension at all on the set."

EDITOR'S NOTE: The rating system for the film list: 4 stars — Don't miss it; 3 stars — worth your while; 2 stars — Has it moments; 1 star — if you must.

N.Y. Times News Service

BENNY & JOON: Johnny Depp enlivens this quirky romance with his fresh performance as an illiterate, slapstick genius. He brings laughter and love into the lives of Joon (Mary Stuart Masterson), an artist who suffers bouts of insanity, and exasperated liberation to her over-protective brother (Aidan Quinn). Too cute by half — the script's by a former circus clown — but well-made, charming and ultimately winning. PG. Rating: 3 stars

CLIFFHANGER: Truly spectacular stunts, camerawork and special effects are nearly wasted on this stone dumb, Alpine adventure. Sylvester Stallone battles John Lithgow's murderous thieves at 12,000 feet. Director Renny Harlin ("Die Hard 2") piles on the virtuoso, ridiculous action, but the effects of oxygen deprivation are only apparent when somebody tries to speak coherently. R. Rating: 2½ stars

COP AND A HALF: Insultingly stupid story about a kid who witnesses a murder, but won't share his evidence with the police until they make him a cop-for-a-day. Burt Reynolds stars as the gruff, kid-hating cop assigned to take care of the youngster. High jinks ensue. PG. Rating: 1 star

DAVE: Pleasantly polished comedy starring Kevin Kline as a venal president and the likable Everyguy recruited to stand in for him when he suffers a stroke. The trouble starts when he actually starts making the world a better place to live. Director Ivan Reitman has crafted a smart and breezy entertainment with a terrific cast — Sigourney Weaver, Frank Langella and Charles Grodin co-star. PG. Rating: 3 stars

GROUNDHOG DAY: Bill Murray's ever-funny unpolished glibness carries this comedy about a jerk weatherman who is forced to live one day — Groundhog Day — over and over, and the hilarious ways in which he deals with his bizarre situation. Andie MacDowell and Chris Elliott co-star. PG. Rating: 3 stars

GUILTY AS SIN: Rebecca de Mornay plays a high-powered attorney defending figurative and literal ladykiller Don Johnson in this no-brainer thriller directed by Sidney Lumet. This is the kind of movie you spend either laughing or wanting to scream at characters who fall prey to every dopey cliche of the genre. R. Rating: 1 star

HOMEWARD BOUND: THE INCREDIBLE JOURNEY: A remake of the Disney nature adventure, in which two dogs and a cat travel through the wilderness to get back to their owners. This time, the animals sound like Michael J. Fox, Sally Field and Don Ameche. More comic than the original, but with the same, kid-pleasing blend of action and maudlin sentimentality. G. Rating: 3 stars

HOT SHOTS! PART DEUX: A pumped-up Charlie Sheen, a now-presidential Lloyd Bridges and Saddam Hussein are back in this latest action-movie parody. Instead of "Top Gun," they're mostly sending up "Rambo" this time, and the results are arguably funnier than the pretty witty first flight. It's also a good-looking movie — better than most of the allegedly serious "Rambo" knockoffs — if limited, as all these things are, by its barrage of jokes' variable humor. PG-13. Rating: 3 stars

Summer releases readied for holiday sales blitz

N.Y. Times News Service

With summer movies flooding theaters, studio video divisions are thinking months ahead.

Will the big titles — a "Last Action Hero," say — be finished with their theater runs in time to be in stores by Christmas? Equally important, which of this summer's releases has the right stuff to carry a low price tag on tape?

Movies priced low to sell (usually about $25) are vital even to video dealers whose business is primarily based on rentals.

"We like movies priced low because at wholesale we can afford to bring in many more copies for rent," said Rich Thorward, the owner of three Home Video Plus stores in Bergen County, N.J.

When a film's rentals slow, retailers like Thorward move along to sales by offering used tapes at discount prices customarily under $15. "If we have 25 copies of something for rent, we'll sell 24 and keep 1," Thorward said.

Many dealers give up sales of the biggest titles to mass merchants, who have the lowest prices. Thorward said a sales title like "Aladdin," to be released by Disney in October, is fine for discount chains but not so promising for many video stores because people would be more inclined to buy the tape than rent it.

More suitable, he added, are two other low-priced video titles coming this summer, "Home Alone 2: Lost in New York" and "Homeward Bound: The Incredible Journey," both of which should rent well, too.

Among the new movies going into theaters, several shape up as both good sellers and renters. "Jurassic Park," Steven Spielberg's dinosaur epic, is one. Distributors mention a variety of other titles, including "Last Action Hero," with Arnold Schwarzenegger, "Dennis the Menace," and, despite its R rating, "Cliffhanger," with Sylvester Stallone.

Requirements for low-price films have always been child appeal and revenues of more than $100 million at the box office. That still holds true, but with some modifications.

Last year, for example, MCA/Universal broke the mold by putting the low price of $24.98 on "Beethoven," which had a moderately successful record at the box office. To date, it has sold about 3 million copies.

This year, video dealers say they hope for a wider choice of similar films with broad-based appeal that do well enough this summer to get a low price this fall.

As always, the movies must appeal to children, but this year they have to appeal to parents as well, dealers say. "The buzz words today are family values," said Steven Apple, a vice president of West Coast Entertainment, a national chain.

Apple said "Dennis the Menace" might qualify for a low price as might "Last Action Hero," with the softer Schwarzenegger of "Kindergarten Cop."

Action films sell well, but R-rated ones like "Cliffhanger" usually don't appeal to mass merchants. Columbia Pictures reportedly toned down "Last Action Hero" so it would be given a PG-13 rating. Columbia Tri-Star Home Video won't say if the film is being considered as a sales title.

As a possible sleeper in the low-price category, Apple mentioned "Free Willy," about a boy and killer whale, which, along with "Dennis the Menace," is among several films on a new family entertainment label from Warner.

THE LOVER. 1992. 103 minutes. Closed captioned. R.

In Saigon in 1929, a French schoolgirl (Jane March) from an impoverished family has a torrid affair with the son of a wealthy Chinese businessman (Tony Leung). Adapted from Marguerite Duras' novel, Jean-Jacques Annaud's film coolly examines the sexual and racial dynamics of a relationship in which the daughter of French colonials mixes with what her family regards as her inferiors. For the girl, the liaison is both an exploration and a rebellion. Somewhat baffled by her almost impersonal focus, the young man goes along in a beautifully controlled film, which, Vincent Canby wrote in The New York Times, "has a way of standing just outside everything it sees."

BODY OF EVIDENCE. 1993. R, 99 minutes; unrated, 101 minutes. Closed captioned.

With her marketability riding on the singularity of her projects, Madonna unaccountably lands herself in a sluggish courtroom drama offering little new in the way of format and risks making her laughable as well. As Rebecca Carlson, she is accused of using her body as a weapon to kill an older lover, who dies during a session with handcuffs and nipple clamps. Rebecca's lawyer (Willem Dafoe) is bright, but just not the kind of guy to be thrashing around sadomasochistically with his client on the top of automobiles. "As major corporate decisions go, 'Body of Evidence' ranks with the Edsel" (Canby).

Used rental tapes sell strongly and often reflect more adult tastes than do new low-priced movies, which are usually child- or family-oriented. Here are some titles from Video Business magazine's best-seller list of used tapes.

LETHAL WEAPON 3. Once again, Detective Sergeants Riggs (Mel Gibson) and Murtaugh (Danny Glover) prance through their high-explosive antics, but this time the action is more mean-spirited. 1992. 118 minutes. Closed captioned. R.

MY COUSIN VINNY. For his first case, the New York lawyer Vinny Gambini (Joe Pesci) travels to Wahzoo, Ala., accompanied by Mona Lisa Vito (Marisa Tomei, who won an Oscar for this role). 1992. 119 minutes. Closed captioned. R.

PATRIOT GAMES. Jack Ryan (Harrison Ford), formerly of the Central Intelligence Agency, gets into a high-tech slugfest with IRA killers in Philip Noyce's film, which is based on the Jack Clancy thriller. 1992. 117 minutes. Closed captioned. R.

HOUSESITTER. Steve Martin and Goldie Hawn are lovelorn architect and dizzy squatter respectively in Frank Oz's assembly-line comedy. $14.95. 102 minutes. Closed captioned. PG.

ALIEN 3. Officer Ripley (Sigourney Weaver) has some nasty surprises on the planet Fiorina 161, where she finds an alien queen who can reproduce by the thousands. 1992. 115 minutes. R.

KIDS: Intensity of action is key to suitability an embarrassed Motion Picture Association had its Classification & Ratings Administration cobble together the PG-13 seal of approval for pictures whose ceilings of violence, harsh language, or adult subject matter hover between a PG and an R.

(From 1C)

And so that PG-13 sticker has had Spielberg's name on it since way before "Jurassic Park" came along.

The Motion Picture Association says its PG-13 stamp on "Jurassic" accounts for something called "intense sci-fi terror," invoking an annoyingly precious code-word for "science fiction." Spielberg, on the other hand, insists that "Jurassic Park" "is not science fiction — it's science eventuality."

Uh, yeah, well, whatever. What the rating covers more specifically would include:

Any number of violent chases and attacks, starting during the first few minutes with an onslaught related mostly in horrifying noises and anxious voices.

- A scene involving the discovery of a severed arm.
- The near-electrocution of one player on a charged fence.
- The use of a commonplace vulgar word (in a literal sense) on one occasion.
- And the portrayal of one character as a compulsive smoker.

But we were talking about the opinions of "Jurassic's" creators as to whether children should see the thing. Here's source-author Michael Crichton:

"I don't believe the picture is violent, but it's very intense," said Crichton. "I'd have to break down its appropriateness for kids into some age groups.

"Under 6 years old, I'd say no, the film's not appropriate.

"Ages 6 to 8, I'd ask whether they've read the novel, 'Jurassic Park,' or if they'd been allowed to see another scary effects film, 'Terminator 2,' and how those experiences affected them. If they got through 'T2' all right, then 'Jurassic Park' shouldn't be too intense a picture.

"Ages 8 and up, then, generally speaking, should be emotionally equipped to handle this movie. But if there's any doubt, then the parents should go see the picture first and then make up their minds," said Crichton.

Supporting player Samuel L. Jackson said his 11-year-old daughter has sat once through "Jurassic Park," adding: "Now she's challenging herself to watch it again to see if she can keep her eyes open all through it. I think kids know when to close their eyes."

PARK: Movie combines scares, odd romanticism

(From 1C)

tions are real live dinosaurs, which have been created through the reconstruction of dinosaur DNA. The DNA has been obtained through blood found in prehistoric mosquitoes preserved in amber. (The film, being much more mainstream, explains this process with the help of an animated "Mr. DNA".)

Crichton, who wrote the film with David Koepp, delights in such details and presents his story as a fascinating, obsessively detailed treatise on both the possibilities and the evils of modern science. "Jurassic Park" is that rare high-tech best seller punctuated by occasional computer grids to advance its story.

The savviest character in Crichton's book, a glamorous mathematician (yes) named Ian Malcolm, is among several scientists taken to Jurassic Park to inspect the place before it opens. Confronted with the apparent glitch-free nature of this computerized Eden, Malcolm is skeptical. He frequently cites chaos theory as a way of suggesting that theoretically perfect models have a way of going haywire once they run up against reality.

This idea has some bearing on the film version of "Jurassic Park," too.

On paper, this story is tailor-made for Spielberg's talents, combining the scares of "Jaws" with the high-tech, otherworldly romance of "E.T.: The Extra-Terrestrial" and "Close Encounters of the Third Kind," and of course adding the challenge of creating the dinosaurs themselves.

Yet once it meets reality, "Jurassic Park" changes. It becomes less crisp on screen than it was on the page, with much of the enjoyable jargon either mumbled confusingly or otherwise thrown away.

Sweetening the human characters, eradicating most of their evil motives and dispensing with a dinosaur-bombing ending (so the material is now sequel-friendly), Spielberg has taken the bite out of this story. Luckily, this film's most interesting characters have teeth to spare.

Sometimes matching the scare value of "Jaws" (though they also occasionally suggest an educational trip to the World's Fair,) this film's dinosaurs trample its humans both literally and figuratively. They appear only for brief interludes, but the dinosaurs dominate "Jurassic Park" in every way.

Amazingly graceful and convincing, they set a sky-high new standard for computer-generated special effects. But thoughts about how those effects were achieved aren't likely to surface while the film is under way. The most important thing about the dinosaurs of "Jurassic Park" is that they create a triumphant illusion. You will believe you have spent time in a dino-filled world.

That world, on an island near Costa Rica, is the brainchild of John Hammond (Richard Attenborough), a mostly venal developer in Crichton's account but now a tediously merry old codger. Hammond recruits Dr. Alan Grant (Sam Neill) and Dr. Ellie Sattler (Laura Dern) as part of a team that is expected to give Jurassic Park its seal of approval.

But a funny thing happens on the way to the T. rex pen. Because of an industrial saboteur (Wayne Knight) who tries to steal dinosaur embryos, electricity within this automated theme park is turned off. Huge, mean, hungry things start to escape.

Plotting the dinosaurs' escapades is Spielberg's strongest suit, and the director's glee is clear. Spielberg has great fun with every last growl and rumble signaling the approach of danger, as when Ian Malcolm (Jeff Goldblum) looks down to see a mud puddle shake.

He also leaps to the challenge of choreographing ingenious duels, as in a terrific sequence that shows vicious velociraptors stalking Hammond's two grandchildren (Ariana Richards and Joseph Mazzello) through the large kitchen of the Jurassic Park visitor's center.

Anybody can stage a fight, but it takes Spielberg to show just how the pots and pans might go flying at the stroke of a velociraptor's tail, or how the children might trick their wily attackers.

"Jurassic Park" keeps its viewers on edge while leaving much of its real violence to the imagination. When it's dinosaur feeding time, Spielberg avoids obvious gore; he gets a greater frisson out of showing farm animals that are left near the hungry beasts and suddenly disappear.

"Jurassic Park" mixes such horrific touches with sentimental strokes, suspenseful action scenes and occasional droll notes. The camera effectively winks at a "Jurassic Park" souvenir book shown at a concession stand (though this may be most clever to those who plan on selling programs).

Spielberg also gets a last laugh by letting a T. rex muscle aside a museum exhibit of a dinosaur skeleton, rising up against a banner that reads "When Dinosaurs Ruled the Earth." Obviously, they rule again.

CAST: Actors marvel at effects piece, is no stranger to upstaging special effects; he virtually co-starred with, and was often hidden under, grotesque makeup effects in the 1986 version of "The Fly."

"I think we came off OK," Goldblum said of "Jurassic's" human contingent. "The characters — not unlike those in 'Jaws' and 'Close Encounters of the Third Kind,' which also have phenomenon spectacular in them — are interesting, interesting. It would be ungraceful to comment on myself, but I loved Richard Attenborough's performance, Sam's performance, Laura's performance. I loved the actors in this movie.

"And the dinosaurs are spectacular. It's great that they're so good — it would've been not so good if they weren't. I'm the kind of actor who loves other actors to be as good as they can possibly be. Anybody just looks better if things around them are fabulous. So, you know, I feel fine."

So does Wayne Knight, the portly comic actor who plays "Jurassic's" main bad guy — although he didn't feel that great during production.

"Being hired was fun," said Knight, best-known for his recurring role of Newman on the "Seinfeld" sitcom. "Some of the stuff was fun. But you're dealing with obstacles in terms of the rain and special effects that you're not used to dealing with. The concept of that is fun, but the actual doing of it involves just trying to slog through it and make it work for you, while repeating the same action when you're wet and acting with a puppet. It's sort of strange, but interesting."

Even the upbeat Dern admitted that playing a heroine who mostly runs around fighting off monsters wasn't the highest achievement of her career. "I think everything is challenging," she said. "Having to be terrified with nothing there is totally challenging — and not so much fun as an actor. To me, it's more fun to be sitting with a person, trying to make that moment authentic, than screaming 'Aiyee!' you know? But with this movie, it was fun and exciting to try to make people believe something that's so unbelievable."

Samuel L. Jackson has made a minor splash in starring roles ("Loaded Weapon I," "Amos & Andrew") and won awards and acclaim for his supporting work ("Jungle Fever," the current "Menace II Society"). To him, a small part in a dino-dominated film stands out more than it otherwise may have.

"There are only about eight actors in this film," Jackson said, exaggerating only slightly. "There really aren't any minor roles. The technology and the dinosaurs and all that stuff are very important."

Knight expressed an equally philosophical sense of humor. "Look, you end up sharing the screen with people you don't like all the time, so sharing the screen with an inanimate object — what's the big deal?" Knight said. "Frankly, I was much more impressed by some of those dinosaurs than I was by myself, anyway. I'd never seen anything like that before and I'd seen me before, so I didn't mind it."

"Years ago, when I saw 'Jaws,' I was still in Atlanta dreaming about getting to do a real movie some day," Jackson recalled. "It never crossed my mind that I would ever work with Steven Spielberg. But I'm sitting there watching 'Jaws,' thinking 'Boy, I wish I could be in something that scared the hell out of people like this.'

"And now, here we are. We're in 'Jaws' on legs! You know, it's kinda great."

REVIEWS: Summer movie crop above par

(From 1C)

fers Demi Moore and Woody Harrelson's financially stressed married couple $1 million for a night with her. So far, so sleazy, but after the dirty deal is consummated, the drama collapses into a cowardly, conventional romantic triangle. R. Rating: 2½ stars

LIFE WITH MIKEY: Unassuming comedy about a former child star-turned-kiddie talent agent (Michael J. Fox) who discovers a pint-sized pickpocket. Fox, newcomer Christina Vidal, a fine supporting cast (including Cyndi Lauper as a ditzy secretary) and not-too-much-nonsense direction from James Lapine make a fairly routine tale enjoyable for kids and adults alike. PG. Rating: 2½ stars

MADE IN AMERICA: A one-joke, mixup-at-the-sperm-bank movie should not be as funny as this Whoopi Goldberg-Ted Danson vehicle is. It shouldn't get as sappy in the stretch as this mildly subversive, unfortunately platitudinous social sex farce does, either. Laugh out loud for an hour, then leave. PG. Rating 2½ stars

SLIVER: Another ridiculous sex thriller, though this one is sporadically done up in intelligent, psychologically queasy visuals. Sharon Stone is the repressed book editor who has just moved into a thin, New York high-rise where people are getting killed. And watched, by a voyeur who has hooked up surveillance cameras in every room. William Baldwin is the cute younger man; Tom Berenger is the cute, older mystery writer; and the bank of 50 eavesdropping monitor screens is the film's real star. Phillip Noyce ("Patriot Games") directed Joe Eszterhas' ("Basic Instinct") adaptation of Ira Levin's ("Rosemary's Baby") novel. R. Rating: 2½ stars

SUPER MARIO BROS: Super is hardly the word, unless your idea of a good time is being trapped in an overcrowded video game arcade. The movie version of the popular Nintendo game offers all the frenzy and noise and none of the appeal or challenge of its video model. Set in what's best described as the Disney version of "Blade Runner," this hectic, empty and quite expensive exercise in kiddie-marketing stars Bob Hoskins and John Leguizamo as the indomitable plumbers who vault into a parallel universe to rescue a princess (Samantha Mathis). The place is ruled by evil King Koopa (Dennis Hopper, coasting) who wants to meld his dimension with ours ("Cool World" anyone?). The special effects are occasionally diverting — especially the Goombas, giant reptilian pinheads — but for the most part, this is a lot of sound and fury and promotional tie-ins, signifying nothing but a waste of time and money. PG. No rating

TEENAGE MUTANT NINJA TURTLES III: More of the same, only more confusing. Writer-/director Stuart Gillard, thinking he'll go artsy on us and make a reptilian "Yojimbo," slapped together this muddle concerning time travel, 17th-century Japan, corrupt gunrunners, social rebellion and bonding with kids. PG-13. Rating: 1½ stars

UNFORGIVEN: Clint Eastwood's finest achievement is an unflinching examination of the price paid for violence and other dysfunctions of the American character. Finally giving a soul and a fate to his Man With No Name, the director plays a decrepit ex-gunslinger out to earn one last bounty. R. Rating: 4 stars

Facts About The BIBLE

BY JOHN ALBAUGH

AN INNOCENT MAN IN PRISON!

UNJUSTLY IMPRISONED, JOSEPH SHOULD HAVE BEEN EMBITTERED TOWARD THE FATE THAT SEEMED TO ENVELOP HIM! WHO COULD HAVE BLAMED HIM FOR DENOUNCING PHAROAH'S CRUELTY AND UNJUST SYSTEM OF IMPRISONMENT IN THOSE ANCIENT DUNGEONS? BUT JOSEPH WAS A MAN WHO TRUSTED GOD'S PURPOSE. HE DIDN'T WASTE TIME BEMOANING HIS DESTINY BUT TRIED IMMEDIATELY TO BETTER HIS CONDITION. (GENESIS 40: 22,23). BECAUSE OF HIS FAITH IN GOD AND GOD'S PROMISES HE SOON BECAME THE HEAD OF THE PRISONERS EMERGING AS RULER OF EGYPT ACCOUNTABLE TO PHAROAH ONLY.

Woman to go on mission trip

Marcy Faris of First Presbyterian left June 11 to go on a mission trip to Austrialia with a team from the "Children of the World Ministries." This is a branch of Campus Crusade for Christ and is part of Vernie Schorr's ministries. The Mission trip will provide training and equip lay people and teachers with tools so they can introduce Christ within their own churches and communities.

Faris

Ms. Faris was Vacation Bible School director, music instructor for the First Presbyterian Church Mother's Day Out Program as well as a teacher in that same program. The children of Vacation Bible School prepared ditty bags with school supplies that she will take with her when she goes.

Church finally has bells in its tower

By Jim Jones
N.Y. Times News Service

FORT WORTH — When the 10,000-member First United Methodist Church of Fort Worth constructed its present building in the late 1920s, a bell tower was included.

But the tower remained empty — until now.

In May, cranes hoisted five bronze bells, hand-cast in the Netherlands, into the tallest of the church's two Gothic-style towers.

The bells, which weigh nearly 8,000 pounds, began pealing every hour on the hour May 30 with what is known as the five-note "Westminster Chime."

The electronically controlled bells, the largest of which weighs 3,300 pounds and measures 53 inches in diameter, will be sounded on other occasions, such as weddings and funerals, said the Rev. Weldon Haynes, associate minister.

The Great Depression had something to do with why it took so long to put bells in the tower.

"The congregation broke ground for the building on Oct. 29, 1929, the day the stock market crashed," Haynes said. "When the building was finished in 1931, the country was in the middle of the Depression and a lot of things were left unfinished."

The bells, which cost $250,000, were cast by Petit and Fritsen Bell Foundry in Aarle-Rixtel, the Netherlands. The company has been making bells since the 1600s, said Evert Fritsen, its Dallas-based representative, who is overseeing the installation.

> 'Each bell is a musical instrument.'
> — Evert Fritsen, of Fritsen Bell Foundry

"Each bell is a musical instrument," Fritsen said. The largest bell sounds the musical note D, the second largest, F; the third largest G; the fourth largest A and the smallest bell sounds B, he said.

The Rev. Barry Bailey, senior minister, said the bells were presented by Perry Bass, a Fort Worth businessman and investor, and his wife, Nancy, who are church members.

"Their marvelous gift is not only of great significance to our church, but it is also of importance to downtown Fort Worth because of the ... beautiful sounds which will be heard throughout our city," Bailey said in a statement.

The hourly "Westminster Chime" melody is borrowed from the Parliament clock tower in London, said Mark Scott, minister of music at St. Stephen Presbyterian Church. The largest of the five bells within the clock is Big Ben, Scott added.

Three Midland women receive Womanhood Recognition Award

Three Midlanders recently received the gold medallion for achievement in the Young Womanhood Recognition Award of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Julie Lindsay, daughter of Deborah and Robert Lindsay, is a 1993 graduate of Lee High School, where she was a member of National Honor Society, the yearbook staff, Health Occupations Club and Bio-Med Club. At church, she has served as Young Women class president and secretary, and is presently teaching the Merri-Miss class in primary, the church's children's organization.

La Rae Blake, who was Young Women president in the Midland Third Ward of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints for four years, also earned the award. A mother of eight children, she served in the Primary presidency for over six years, has worked in Scouting and has taught various church classes.

Deanna Tubbs, who was a counselor in the Young Women presidency for four years, also received the award. A mother of two children, she has served in church as a Primary teacher, YW Camp Director, and YW basketball coach. She has also taught special education at Alamo Junior High.

The Young Womanhood Recognition has been recognized by the First Presidency of the Church as a parallel accomplishment to the Eagle Scout ranking earned by many young men.

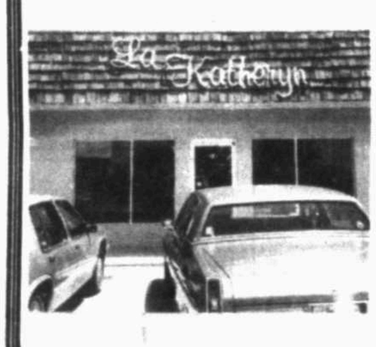

Young Women begin the Personal Progress Program that culminates with receipt of the Young Womanhood Recognition Award, at the age of twelve. It is a goal-oriented incentive program designed to help young women develop personal and spiritual qualities and virtues in their lives.

Adult YW leaders may also earn the award along with the young women. Mrs. Blake and Mrs. Tubbs both started the program in August 1989.

In order to receive the award, they had to complete at least eight goals in each of seven values — faith, divine nature, individual worth, knowledge, choice and accountability, good works and integrity.

In addition, they had to complete four projects, two of which are to involve service to others with each requiring a minimum of 20 to 30 hours.

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints is one of the larges' sponsors of young women's groups in the world.

Milwaukee becomes hog heaven for Harley 90th anniversary bash

Sharon Thelmer
Associated Press writer

MILWAUKEE — Waves of leather, denim and chrome rolled through the city Friday with the bone-shaking rumble of thousands of "hogs." Motorcyclists from all walks of life had come to pay homage at the temple of Harley-Davidson.

About 20 00 motorcyclists and many others with just an interest in the Harley phenomenon were expected in Milwaukee for this weekend's Harley-Davidson 90th anniversary bash. Police reported only minor traffic snarls Friday.

Harley enthusiast Jay Leno was to be the emcee of a birthday ceremony Saturday night.

Looking around the city Friday, it was easy to understand the company's claim that it sells a lifestyle as much as a product.

Riders ranged from corporate executives to the unemployed, sharing a love of the open road and humming engines.

"It's freedom," said Lucy Zartman, a U.S. Census Bureau statistical clerk in Louisville, Ky. She abandoned her office attire in favor of dangling Harley earrings, a T-shirt and jeans.

"You smell things on a motorcycle," Zartman said. "You smell the earth, hear the birds. It's not like anything else I've ever done."

Harley Owners Group members proudly displayed their motorcycles, many of them custom-painted to resemble everything from cows to globes.

The Hog Wash launched a brisk business, carefully polishing the pampered machines for $2.

But a 44-year-old carpenter from Flat Lick, Ky., would have nothing to do with that. Identifying himself only as "Smitty," he boasted that his 1946 Harley hadn't been washed in 17 years.

More than 100 pounds of souvenirs including toilet paper, an American flag and a working smoke detector dangled from the muddy, greasy machine he dubbed "Rat-1."

'You smell things on a motorcycle. You smell the earth, hear the birds. It's not like anything else I've ever done.'

— Lucy Zartman, Harley enthusiast

"It just kind of evolved," said Smitty, pointing out rusted treasures as a curious crowd gathered. "I'm normal when I'm home. Here I'm Smitty with Rat-1."

America's only major motorcycle maker got its start in Milwaukee in 1903, when three boyhood friends collaborated in a shed. Today, Harley-Davidson owns a 60 percent share of the domestic motorcycle market.

At the House of Harley-Davidson, owner Jerry Renner said hundreds of bikers had come in this week for oil changes, new tires and souvenirs.

"They're mostly coming in for T-shirts," Renner said. "They want a T-shirt that says Milwaukee on the back. That's what Harley people love to do. A true rider would not have a T-shirt sent to him. He must have ridden to the place and bought it."

Furry helmets, Harley tattoos and black leather were standard attire at State Fair Park, which was opened for camping.

But the riders bristled at the outlaw biker image often attached to motorcyclists.

"We're enthusiasts," said Linda Nobile, 29, a state motorcycle safety instructor in Baltimore. "That's instead of 'bikers.' We pawn that off on the guys who pedal and give them a bad name."

Japanese get Walter Mondale

WASHINGTON (NYT) — President Clinton Friday nominated former Vice President Walter F. Mondale as ambassador to Japan and said he was optimistic that a new U.S.-Japanese trade arrangement will be ready to unveil at the economic summit next month in Tokyo.

"It is particularly appropriate that this announcement occurs today, for today we are beginning negotiations with the Japanese to craft the details of an economic framework intended to spur global growth, open markets, and deal with trade and investment issues affecting America's economy and America's workers," the president said during a Rose Garden ceremony.

'Because there is no more important bilateral relationship in the world than between U.S. and Japan.'

— President Clinton

Describing Mondale as "a leader of enormous wisdom, courage, compassion and stature," Clinton said he chose the 1984 Democratic presidential nominee "because there is no more important bilateral relationship in the world than that which exists between the United States and Japan.

"Fritz Mondale's skills give me great hope and confidence that my goals with Japan can be achieved in a way that benefits both of our nations and the prospects for worldwide democracy, peace and global growth," he added.

Mondale, 65, served as vice president during Jimmy Carter's presidency. He had hoped to become president himself, but lost overwhelmingly to Ronald Reagan in the 1984 presidential campaign.

Operation Rescue chief gets prison for fetal maneuver

NEW YORK (AP) — Operation Rescue founder Randall Terry was sentenced to five months in prison Friday for presenting a fetus to Bill Clinton during the Democratic National Convention.

"Unfortunately, when the defendant spoke, he demonstrated no remorse, no contrition, no respect for the law," U.S. District Court Judge Robert J. Ward said as he imposed the sentence, which was suspended pending Terry's appeal.

Ward found Terry, 34, of Binghamton, guilty of one charge of contempt following a three-day, non-jury trial. Ward said Terry aided and abetted a man pretending to be an autograph seeker who presented the fetus to Clinton on July 14, 1992, even though Terry was not present.

A federal court order issued prior to the convention had barred Operation Rescue and Terry from delivering on a threat to present a fetus to Clinton.

Before sentencing, Terry told of his pleasure when he learned that Clinton had gotten into his limousine, then came out to sign one more autograph.

Clinton walked about 20 feet to a man who held a newspaper, ostensibly to be signed. Under the paper, the man held a container with a 19-week-old fetus. Spotting it, Clinton tossed the newspaper and the pen back to the man and left.

UNITED WAY AND AMERICAN RED CROSS... WORKING TOGETHER TO SAVE LIVES.

Lonnie Hamil, and his son, Reed.

The Problem? Last year, just in the state of Texas, 145 people died from choking accidents. Some of those deaths might have been prevented by timely, trained assistance. Lonnie Hamil's son was almost the 146th victim of such an accident.

The Solution? Well-trained instructors, teaching lifesaving skills, can make a difference. Lonnie learned these skills at the American Red Cross. One month later, he used them to save his son's life.

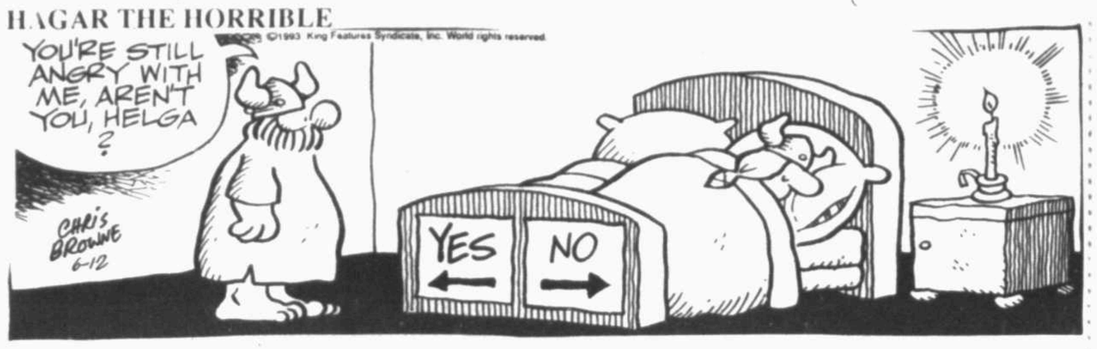

Through the United Way, your contributions to local Red Cross chapters will teach thousands of West Texans to become lifesavers this year.

SATURDAY, JUNE 12, 1993

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: A busy social life and better work conditions are part of the picture. Flexibility will give you an edge over the competition. Computers, medicine and nutrition hold special interest, especially in the fall. Romance is both spirited and a source of joy. Your inquiring mind leads you to an important discovery in December. Early in 1994, you are able to accomplish something others have failed to do.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: singer Vic Damone, actress Ally Sheedy, jazz musician Chick Corea, former President George Bush.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Neither borrow nor lend money unless it is absolutely necessary today. Spending a quiet afternoon alone or with mellow company will leave you feeling refreshed.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Spending extra time with a child pays off. Someone is depending on you; open your heart but not your pocketbook. Too much confidence can be just as bad as too little. Avoid bragging.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Give someone the benefit of the doubt. By letting your partner take the lead today, you will find out what is really going on. Encourage younger family members to be more self-reliant.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Lie low for the next few days and gather information. Your charm encourages people to confide in you. Be careful when a possessive streak emerges. Make time for an intimate chat this weekend.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Spiritual growth brings you new peace of mind. Involvement with a community project becomes increasingly attractive. A romantic excursion lives up to your expectations.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Be more assertive and you will get your point across. Family responsibilities lie heavily on you only because you are unwilling to delegate more of the work. To avoid exhaustion, change your ways.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Insecurity could be at the root of an argument that arises this weekend. See things as they really are. Conflicting principles are not easy to reconcile. Romance involves a fun adventure.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Tell your partner exactly how things stand financially and you will get more cooperation. A social invitation you thought was not coming finally shows up. A light touch is fine in romance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Be direct when differences of opinion arise. You reap new financial rewards from old efforts. Friction between relatives could upset vacation plans. Suggest a compromise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Make things happen! You will have to create the financial and social opportunities you want. Try your hand at a new game or hobby. A phone call brings joyous news. Confide in mate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Take steps to protect your family's financial security. Those who decide to get into the social swing will not be disappointed. You could find romance in an unusual setting.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A second career is possible for someone who recently retired. Challenge yourself to make the most of every day. The outlook for romance is brighter than in the recent past.

Humor helps him as a parent, comedian Lew Schneider says

NEW YORK — Lew Schneider, co-star of the Fox sitcom "Down the Shore," isn't sure being a father serves as grist for his humor as much as humor helps him with parenting.

Schneider

Still, that didn't stop him from playing host of a night of standup comedy dedicated to parenting. The event this week was a benefit for the Children's Museum of Manhattan.

He joked that New York can be a terrible place to raise children and compared looking after his 20-month-old son in the city to keeping a hand on your piece in a checkers game till you're sure about your move.

"I feel like in New York the issue is if you're not touching whatever you think you own at the time, it's fair game," he said. "I feel like yelling, 'That's my kid. ... My hand's still on that piece.'"

A small child's natural destructiveness can be embarrassing, too, said Schneider, a standup comic whose other TV credits include the CBS series "Wish You Were Here" and the Nickelodeon game show "Make the Grade."

"We'll be over at someone's house, and my child will present me with a broken-off piece of someone else's home," he says. "I feel like I should walk into the house with a checkbook ... and say, 'You know what? Could you just run me a tab? And we'll just settle this up.'"

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Country performer Charlie Daniels will make a one-day visit June 20 to sailors aboard the USS Roosevelt in the Adriatic Sea.

He will perform informally on the carrier and join the sailors for lunch, his spokeswoman, Paula Szeigis, said Friday. Daniels' visit will be sponsored by the USO.

His hits during a 20-year career include "The Devil Went Down to Georgia" and "Long Haired Country Boy."

LOS ANGELES — Michael Bolton will perform at a Music Center benefit for the United Negro College Fund's "Ladders of Hope" program.

The Grammy-winning artist's June 26 show in the center's Dorothy Chandler Pavilion will raise money to help send low-income minority students in Los Angeles to college. The program has already raised more than $1 million of its $5 million goal.

BOULDER, Colo. — Gary Hart delivered his message of reform — and a warning to President Clinton — before a bookstore audience of about 100 people.

Hart

"There's a difference between reform and change," Hart said Thursday night while on a national tour promoting his new book, "The Good Fight: The Education of an American Reformer."

"Change just means change, good or bad. Reagan changed the United States from the chaotic '80s to what he saw as the peaceful '50s, but that wasn't reform," said Hart, the Democratic former senator from Colorado who ran unsuccessfully for president in 1984 and 1988.

"We're in the hinge of history right now," he said of the United States' transition from an industrial society to an information-based one.

"If Bill Clinton fails to build that bridge from industry to information, people will look for a new third party," he said.

LONDON — The Duchess of York, in her new post as goodwill ambassador to the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, accepted a humanitarian award Thursday on behalf of High Commissioner Sadako Ogata.

Mrs. Ogata of Japan was honored "in recognition of her role as the guardian of the world's refugees," said Pida Ripley founder of WomenAid, the charity that sponsors the annual Women of the World Award.

Ripley said the duchess has been appointed a goodwill ambassador because the U.N. organization "has been looking for a personality who could help focus attention on the plight of the refugees."

Her recent appointment comes as the duchess, the former Sarah Ferguson, reemerges from a period of public silence following her breakup with Prince Andrew, younger son of Queen Elizabeth II.

Widely criticized for shirking royal duties and inelegant behavior, including being caught photographed topless with her "financial advisor," the princess has recently taken steps to recover her public image.

She recently founded a charity to help the children of Bosnia and has rejoined the efforts of other charities she had supported.

In her acceptance speech, she said few people "can fail to be moved by the tragic plight of refugees around the world."

"That the number of refugees is increasing so dramatically is a major cause for concern," she said.

DELIVERY
MOONLIGHTING!

The Midland Reporter-Telegram has several distributorships which need to be filled with responsible individuals.

Often Asked ????
Is it worthwhile for adults also?

Yes! Our current distributor force is already 90% adult and 10% youth.

Morning newspaper routes are attractive for:

- ADULTS who have F/T jobs, yet want to supplement their income with a steady part-time job.
- MOTHERS who can't justify a small job and daycare, because as a distributor, you do not need daycare!
- STUDENTS needing a part-time job which will work with classes!
- SENIOR CITIZENS wanting regular exercise, added income, or just want to work with people, neighbors and friends.

How much money can I make as a distributor?

Depending on the size of distributorship from $300 to $700 monthly!
Some make even more!

How long does it take?

The actual delivery takes 1-2 hours Monday-Saturday, and 2-3 hours on Sunday, again depending on the size of the distributorship. Also, a few hours a month are needed to collect from subscribers. Many distributors choose to handle some of this by putting envelopes in subsribers'papers. Collecting in person will be necessary though!

When do papers have to be delivered by?

6 a.m. Monday-Friday and 7 a.m. on Saturday, Sunday and holidays.

Do I ever get a day off?

The job requires a 7-day a week commitment. However, distributors do take days off by finding a friend or a family member to substitute a for them!

RESERVE YOUR DISTRIBUTORSHIP NOW!
$100.00 deposit.
