MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

By U. N. P.

Texas has a new health officer—Dr. John Hicks Florence of Houston and Dallas and the entire commonwealth. Texas has a real state officer. He came in when Dr. Manton Mercutio Carrick went out. Manton resigned. He had grown weary of the cares and trials of office. He will take a long vacation and then take up the work in a larger world and more extensive field of usefulness. He is to be commended. Man should aim high and then climb high if possible. Dr. Florence is a gentleman widely known in the ranks of the medical fraternity. He was state health officer during the reigns of Thomas M. Campbell and Oscar B. Colquitt. He isn't noisy; he never employs a publicity agent. He gets there just the same. Flowers for the living; flowers for the dead. In this instance flowers for every body. Now clean up the cess pools wherever cess pools may exist.

Henry Hobbs is the Texas Chief. That is Henry is the Texas Chief oil and gas company. Henry evoluted from a cow puncher on the Texas plains into a petroleum millionaire. Texas Chief has paid dividends of $675 since it came into existence. Henry received a bunch of flowers Saturday. G. A. Barks of Tucson, a leading business man of the Arizona city, sent the bunch of posies. There is a fragrance to the note that accompanied the bunch that made Henry and all those around and about Henry smile. "I take a great pleasure to say that after I received such a handsome dividend from you that the Texas Chief is the only company that has made a success which makes the others stop and take notice or will make them when they see the news in the papers which I am sending you. Also I take great pleasure in sending you a box of our delicious cactus candy by parcel post. I know that you will appreciate such a novelty. Hope to hear from you in the near future and receive more dividends." A copy of the Barks' letter should be sent to the Hon. Martin W. Littleton of New York. Martin had some dead sea fruit on hand and he sent it in a letter to those who may have needed it and the aforesaid letter was given space in The Record-News a week ago. Arizona Barks is happy. Henry Hobbs is happy. Texas Chief is doing business at the same old stand. Also the sun is shining, the sky is cloudless, spring is coming and the pessimist is hunting his hole.

NEWCASTLE, Pa., Jan. 14.—A notice of a mortgage of $10,000,000 on property of the Trans-continental Oil company was filed in the office of the recorder of deeds here today. It was learned tonight. The underwriters were said to be the Equitable Trust company and John Armstrong of New York City.

PARRISH IS A CANDIDATE FOR U. S. SENATE

A Native Texan, in Boyhood Knew All About Poverty, but He Faced the Issue and Fought His Way.

School and College Days, His Success as Teacher and Lawyer and Record as Servant of People.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Congressman Lucian W. Parrish, "the man of the West" has announced as a candidate for United States senator as the successor of Charles A. Culberson, subject to the July primary.

He was born in 1878 in Van Alstyne, Grayson county, Texas. In 1887 his father moved to Clay county, settling near a village called Joy. In keeping the wolf from the door during these strenuous days young Parrish had no chance to attend school and his education during that period was confined to such knowledge as one gets in the college of hard knocks.

His mother had ambition for him and she persuaded him when grown to leave the family and go to work on a ranch to get money to pay for his education. He worked for eighteen months and then went to Bowie public schools for a year, returned to ranch work and in the fall of 1899 he entered the North Texas Normal college at Denton.

Leaving Denton in the fall of 1902 he entered the University of Texas. He went there without money, he stayed there seven years, took three degrees, took part in all forms of college athletics, won almost every student honor available, held most offices, won a dozen or more medals as well as an enviable record as a clean, straight forward upstanding man.

Lucian W. Parrish went into the practice of law in 1907 at Henrietta, sitting at a desk that he had bought with borrowed money. He won his cases and made a name for himself by hard work. He always had worked hard and it came natural with him.

He acquired an interest in some land in his neighborhood and it proved valuable. He had triumphed over penury and difficulty in early youth; heroic effort and perseverance while the tariff should be a tariff

G. O. P. OFFICIALS CHARGED WITH CORRUPT ACTS

By Associated Press.

SHREVEPORT, La., Jan. 14.—An investigation was ordered by Federal Judge G. W. Jack today of alleged corrupt practices in the part of Hugh C. Fisher, United States district attorney for the western district of Louisiana and alleged collusion in the matter on the part of Emile Kuntz, republican national committeeman from Louisiana and R. A. Giddens of Coushama, La., member of the republican state control committee. The order of the court names E. H. Randolph, prominent Shreveport attorney special counsel and vests him with full powers to conduct the investigation in open sessions to begin February 1.

Acording to the te t of the order the court declares that it has obtained information from reliable persons that Giddens had made the declaration that his son-in-law, Tracy S. LeMoyne, charged with embezzlement of about $8,000 from the Commercial National bank would not be convicted. It is alleged that Kuntz and Giddens entered into a bargain with Fisher that if the last named were appointed federal district attorney, he would not press the case against LeMoyne or at least have it nolle prossed.

PROGRESS REPORTED ON WELL ON MARTIN FARM

Good progress is reported on the new wildcat being drilled on the N. H. Martin farm, eight miles north of Wichita Falls. Drilling began the first of the week, and so far the log shows up in line with the formation in the Texhoma-Burkburnett pool, according to the driller, J. J. Pipes. The location has been visited by a number of interested parties, it is stated, and the progress is being watched with interest.

CHICAGO MAN, COUNSEL FOR ALLEGED MEMBERS OF I. W. W., IS FLOGGED

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, Jan. 14.—Blood stained garments and a severely lacerated scalp and back exhibited by Harold F. Mulks of Chicago at a local hospital tonight as the result of a beating he received at the hands of a band of men last night near Shreveport, La.

According to his statement, Mulks was seized by two men as he stood in the lobby of one of the largest hotels of Shreveport, was forced into a waiting automobile and carried 20 miles from the city where the punishment was administered by several unmasked men, none of whom, he said was known to him. He estimated that he was struck forty times with a heavy leather strap, in addition, he said, to being throttled and otherwise mistreated. He was then placed on a train at a small railway station with the warning that he stay away from Shreveport. The train carried him to Greenville, Texas, when he came to Dallas, arriving here today.

Mulks gave his age as 35. He said he had been hired by Chicago individuals whose names he did not care to give, to act as counsel for three men at Shreveport charged with vagrancy. He stated that on several occasions while in Shreveport he had received verbal warnings from men on the streets advising him to leave and sever his relations as counsel for the accused men.

Mulks said he was married and the father of one child. He announced his intention of returning to Chicago for a time as soon as he recuperated from his injuries. These are said by medical attendants not to be of a serious nature.

EASTERN ORGANIZATION DEMANDS INVESTIGATION

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Immediate investigation of the alleged kidnaping of Harold Mulks was demanded in telegrams sent by the American Civil Liberties Union today to Governor Parker of Louisiana and Commissioner of Public Safety Stringfellow of Shreveport.

A statement said the imprisoned I. W. W. workers at parish farms had been arrested for alleged vagrancy at a Standard Oil company camp, despite the fact they were on the camp

REPRESENTATIVES OF WAGGONER AND BOARD AGREE ON LAND SALE

Conference, Asked As Directors Were Preparing to File Condemnation, Results in Agreement With Waggoner's Representatives.

Agreement between representatives of W. T. Waggoner and of the directors of the irrigation project, which will obviate the proposed condemnation proceedings for the site of the two irrigation reservoirs, if signed by Mr. Waggoner, who has previously indicated his acceptance of terms involved, according to statements made by representatives of Waggoner.

Mr. Waggoner, according to one of them, is expected to sign the contract Monday. R. L. More of Vernon, agent for the Waggoner interests in this part of the state, Judge Miller of Fort Worth, Mr. Waggoner's attorney, and W. F. Weeks, local attorney, represented the Waggoner intrests in the conference.

Mr. More, when called at his home in Vernon, admitted that the agreement had been made, referring the representative of The Record News to Mr. Weeks for furtber details. Mr. Weeks confirmed the making of the agreement, and indicated that his representatives expected Mr. Waggoner to sign Monday. The goner has previously indicated agreement.

Members of the irrigation board refused to say anything in connection with the negotiations. The present negotiation started Friday, just as the board was on the eve of filing the condemnation proceedings, date for which was only recently completed. Attorneys for Mr. Waggoner requested delay in the filing of these proceedings pending the new conference which has just closed.

In case Mr. Waggoner signs Monday, according to the opinion expressed by one of his representatives, work on the project could start Tuesday. In case he should recondinate the agreement, it is not believed that a much longer delay would be possible, as the delay necessitated by the preparation for condemnation is now out of the way.

Tea Party Raided By Pro Officers; Whaddye Mean Tea!

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—A tea party was interrupted this afternoon when 12 prohibition agents from Prohibition Director Charles Gregory's office raided the Casino club, an exclusive gathering place for Chicago's elite on the gold coast. The door to the room in which Mrs. Wallace C. Winters was giving the party was barred when the prohibition agents attempted to enter. In a rear room they found two gallons of wine which they confiscated.

'GOOD WHISKEY GETTING KINDA HARD TO FIND'

"Though John Barleycorn May Not Be Dead, He Has One Foot in Grave and Is Leaning Over."

By HERBERT COREY.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—This morning I happened to be in the office of a friend. He is a loose, easy-going, businesslike person. While I was there the telephone rang.

"You say you know where to get 25,000 gallons of whiskey?" my friend repeated to the man at the other end of the wire.

"Perhaps. I do not know whether I can get the permits to move it or not. I'll call you up in the morning and let you know."

"—"

"Perhaps. That much money ought to move it. But I'll let you know."

No Prohibition Statistics.

When that sort of thing is going on, why talk about the statistics of the enforcement of prohibition? There are no statistics. There are figures, of course, about the 40,000,000 gallons of intoxicating liquor of one sort and another still in the warehouses. There are guesses at the number of bootleggers who have bought themselves agreement is at present unsigned, but is made on terms to which Mr. Waggoner automobiles and brick houses, since this fine new way of getting rich in a hurry opened up. But there are no statistics. A statistic is presumed to be a fixed fact and there are no fixed facts about prohibition.

Another friend got home from Grand Rapids the other day. He said that he had had a beautiful time

THREE OTHERS BADLY INJURED; ONE FATALLY

Fatal Blast Occurs at Combination Gin and Sawmill Which Is Completely Demolished.

Rescuing Party Searching Debris for More Bodies; All Available Physicians Arrive at Scene.

By Associated Press.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Texas, Jan. 14.—Five persons are dead and three others seriously injured, one of them probably fatally as a result of an explosion at the saw mill of George Parsons near here today. The mill was demolished, the boiler being blown 300 feet through a pile of timber.

The dead are:
GEORGE PARSONS, 50.
THOMAS PARSONS, 16, son of George Parsons.
LOUIS HAYS, 34.
HENRY CHURCHWELL, 34.
LOUIS EVANS.

The injured:
Man named Parker, leg and arm broken.
Carey Graham, arm broken, and internal injuries.
Desoto Martin, internally injured; not expected to recover.

Parsons operated a combination saw mill and cotton gin. Churchwell had just driven into the gin yard with a load of logs. Parker had just finished having a bale of cotton ginned. The exact cause of the explosion is not known. After the blast the vicinity of the mill looked as though a cyclone had struck it, with logs and timbers scattered in all directions. A rescuing party is engaged in clearing the debris to ascertain if there are any more fatalities. All available physicians of Mount Pleasant responded to the call for help.

POINCARE TO CHANGE FRENCH GOVT. SYSTEM

By Associated Press.

PARIS, Jan. 14.—M. Poincare, who has accepted the premiership to succeed M. Briand and expects to have his cabinet completed tomorrow, engaged in a lengthy conversation today with the British prime minister who came to Paris from Cannes especially for that purpose. What conclusion the heads of the two governments reached is not known, but M. Poincare, in a statement to the correspondent this evening, declared that "international questions henceforth will be settled, as heretofore, through ambassadors."

This, in the expressed opinion of the premier designate, would mean the virtual disappearance of the supreme council, although he added:

"There must be one final meeting of the supreme council, to which all the allies should be invited, should the French viewpoint prevail, and I have good reasons to believe that it will so far as Great Britain is concerned. Let us have our ambassadors settle these questions for us."

M. Poincare thought there had been too many meetings of the supreme council, to various accompaniments, and he desired a return to the old fashioned way of dealings between nations.

Al Jennings, the Reformed Outlaw Mighta Backslid

By Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 14.—Police today were searching for Al Jennings, former outlaw, but now an evangelist, following the issuance of a warrant charging assault. The warrant was issued on complaint of Harry Kerr of Kansas City, who asserted Jennings had induced his wife to accompany him on a tour of Kansas and Missouri as his secretary and that January 2, Jennings threatened him with a revolver when he found Jennings in his wife's room at a local hotel.

IS TO RESIGN FROM CABINET AT EARLY DATE

Announcement That Mr. Hays Will Retire as Government Official Made by President Harding.

Senator New Is One of Many Mentioned During Day as Possible Selections as Hays' Successor.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Intention of Postmaster General Hays to retire from the cabinet in the near future to become the directing head of an association of motion picture producers and distributors was announced today at the White House at the conclusion of a conference between President Harding and the postmaster general.

President Harding in a statement declared he could not well "interpose any objection to Mr. Hays retiring from the cabinet to take up a work so important, while Mr. Hays stating that he had decided to accept the offer of the motion picture interests, made it clear that as yet no contract had as yet been executed. The postmaster general, however, expressed confidence that a satisfactory contract could be agreed upon.

Representatives of motion picture producers and distributors have been negotiating for the services of the postmaster general for some time and are understood to have outlined clearly to Mr. Hays what they wish to undertake. Within a few days he expects to confer again with them probably in New York and unless something unforeseen develops, it is expected that a contract will be signed at the meeting.

The date of his retirement from the cabinet, Mr. Hays said, would depend largely upon the wishes of his prospective employers. He declared, however, he would not give up his government duties until the president has had time to select his successor.

While it was stated at the White House that the question of a successor to Mr. Hays had not been considered by the president and would not be until he had definitely made his decision, immediately there sprung forth numerous and varied reports. These include the names of Harry S. New, senator from Indiana, Mr. Hays' home state; Dr. Hubert York, present first assistant postmaster general; Walter S. Dickey, Kansas City, manufacturer and Representative Steenerson, of Minnesota, chairman of the house postoffice committee.

DYNAMITE VAINLY USED IN EFFORTS TO CHECK FLAMES

By The Associated Press.

MEXIA, Texas, Jan. 14.—Loss estimated at about $750,000 is the toll of a fire which swept nearly a block in the business section of Texas' latest oil town tonight. Seven two-story buildings were destroyed. About half of the estimated loss is said to be covered by insurance. The electric light plant and the telephone systems were put out of commission.

The buildings destroyed were: Ross & Green, Simon Brothers, Jesse McLenden, Prendergrast-Smith, Wells, Pitman and Colonial Investment.

Troops and rangers under command of General Jacob F. Wolters, here keeping order under martial law, took charge of the situation and prevented crowds from interfering with work of firemen.

The fire started in a small restaurant in the Ross & Green building and spread rapidly. Almost instantly with the alarm the entire building was in flames and the blaze leaped across the street to the Pitman building. Telephone communication was broken and a courier had to go six miles to notify the pumping station to increase pressure. Firemen then obtained control of the flames, but only after the blaze threatened additional property.

Dynamite was used in an endeavor to check the progress of the flames but to no avail. The telephone office was destroyed by charges of dynamite and for three hours the town was without outside telephone communication.

About 200 hundred small oil operators had offices in the Rose and Green building.

Five telephone operators in the telephone exchange remained at their posts until the roof caught fire.

The Prendergast and Smith bank, located in the building of that name, was one of the heaviest losers. Blake Smith, president of the City National bank announced tonight that the City National bank would take care of the Prendergast and Smith depositors at opening of business Monday.

Emergency calls for assistance were answered by Wortham, Groesbeck and a hose company from Corsicana, but only after the fire had gained a good headway.

Soldiers were patrolling the streets tonight and people who had become to consider the presence of soldiers lightly, were made to understand that General Wolters was in full charge of the city.

MEXIA, Texas, Jan. 14.—Fire which for a time threatened the entire business section and which destroyed the Ross and Green, Pitman, Oil Exchange and Petroleum buildings, was believed to be under control at 8 o'clock, after burning for about two hours. The city is under martial law following a proclamation by Governor Pat M. Neff to rid the town of gambling and alleged bootleggers. The military and state rangers encountered difficulty in handling the crowds at the fire.

Most of the business buildings in Mexia are of frame or brick. Few are more than two stories. The Ross and Green buildings, and the structure across the street in which the telephone offices were located are near the railroad depot.

While the city of Mexia is more or less scattered, the business section proper is confined to a comparatively small space, and the principal business houses were along Commerce street.

An adequate water supply has been one of the problems of the city. It has sufficient when it was a town of a few thousand inhabitants but its sudden growth was such, coupled with the fact that a well drilled near the spring which was the source of supply made water scarce. Getting enough water for a good bath has been more or less of a problem, especially to the visitor.

The buildings along Commerce street were built close together.

WHEN, OH WHEN DO WE GO HOME ASK DELEGATES

After Fall of Curtain on Main Attraction, Foreign Diplomats Do Not Care to See Side-Show.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The Shantung negotiations took another step forward today while all of the other activities of the arms conference were at a standstill.

Meeting for the twenty-sixth time since they began their separate conversations, the Japanese and Chinese agreed on some of the preliminary moves looking to complete restoration of Kiao-Chow territory to China.

At the same time there was apparent in some quarters a mounting hope that the question of the Shantung railroad, the only point on which the two delegations have found themselves completely deadlocked, would be settled soon on the basis of American and British compromise suggestions now under consideration in Peking and Tokio.

The halting progress of the discussions, however, coupled with complete suspension of conference negotiations on other subjects led to renewed rumblings of disappointment from foreign delegations who are anxious to get home. Conference officials were talking tonight of a resumption of the session of the far eastern committee next week, although 24 hours before they had indicated that the committee would not reassemble until the Shantung problem had been solved. Besides Shantung the general far eastern issue constitutes virtually the only remaining business of the conference. A reply still is awaited from Tokio regarding the Pacific fortifications section of the naval treaty, but most of the delegates are so confident the point will be easily settled that they are beginning to speak of the naval negotiations as a

MEXIA OFFICIALS AND OTHERS CHARGED WITH VIOLATION OF PRO LAW

By Associated Press.

WACO, Texas, Jan. 14.—County Attorney Lon Eubanks and Deputy Sheriff Jim Steele of Limestone county, and four others including one woman, charged with violation of the federal prohibition laws were brought from Mexia this afternoon and arraigned before United States Commissioner A. P. McCormick. County Attorney Eubanks is charged with conspiracy to violate the national prohibition laws and was released under $1,000 cash bond.

Deputy Sheriff Jim Steele, charged with obstructing internal revenue officers in their duty was given his freedom under bond of $2,000. Garret Carter, charged with having intoxicating liquor in his possession was released under a $5,000 bond. The others charged with a similar offense, Mrs. Minnie Hawkins, Claude Riley and E. S. Stafford are being held in the county jail in default of bond.

Deputy Sheriff Steele, when taken into custody with two other deputies, is said to have attempted to draw a pistol to attack the ranger who arrested him.

Ten complaints charging various violations of the federal liquor laws were filed this evening before Commissioner McCormick against that many men who were taken in Mexia raids last week by the Texas Rangers. M. M. Gonzanlius, federal prohibition agent left the city tonight at 11 o'clock for Mexia. He will return Sunday with twenty-five federal prisoners, now being held by the national guardsmen in that city.

Of this number, complaints charging the possession of intoxicating liquors have been filed against J. A. Handy, R. L. Golladay, W. H Sanders, George Blackford and R. L. Lewis, J. F. Long, J. B. Baker, D. A. Long, Sam Gambrell and George Gambrell are charged with manufacture of liquor.

The trial of County Attorney Eubanks has been set for Friday, January 20. The case against Deputy Sheriff Steele will be heard the following day.

there. The only drawback to a visit to Grand Rapids, he said, is that one dares not stop on the street nowadays. If a stranger pauses there—nay, if a stranger but hesitates—some blue-eyed boy is apt to get him by the elbow and breathe into his ear:

"Would you like to buy a bottle of good whiskey, partner?" asks the second stranger.

Bootleggers Are Unafraid.

My friend says that he had not been in the hotel an hour before three different bootleggers approached him. He had never been in the town before in his life. No one knew but what he might be Prohibition Commissioner Roy Haynes in a slight disguise. He doesn't look unlike Hayes, as a matter of fact. He knew no one in the town. But the three bootleggers came to him as unafraid as so many cats in a rabbit hutch.

"Canadian Club," they said. "Is only $8 a bottle today."

He might have beaten them down to $5, he said, but having become accustomed to paying $14 a bottle for it here in Washington he jumped at the bargain. And another said that he had just crossed the border from Canada. A hard-faced customs inspector looked into his single grip very thoroughly. Finally he turned a heavy glance on the incomer.

"Where's your whiskey?" he asked.

"I haven't got any," said the incomer. "I wish I had."

Inspector Was Obliging.

"Well," said the inspector, "I'll sell you some."

And another has just returned from Milwaukee. While there he was told this story. It appears, according to the returned visitor, that beer is on tap most anywhere in Milwaukee. It is not the beer that once made Milwaukee famous. My friend speaks very bitterly about its quality, in fact. But the point is that the beer, such as it is, is for sale. Now and then some one is arrested.

"There was a case in court while I was there," said the returned one. "The evidence against the seller was complete and overwhelming, but the jury disagreed. The foreman explained why to the judge.

"'Your honor,' said he, 'we can never get a conviction on this charge. Why, your honor, the law is all wrong.'"

One man reached town today after having touched both high and low spots in 18 states. They were all fairly wet, he said. Some of them were wetter than others. Another has just come in from the Mexican border. Old Chief Plenty Licker is still at work all along the route.

Found New York Very Moist

Another visited New York not long ago. While there he took dinner at a dinner club and supper at a supper club and finally wound up at what he presumed was a breakfast. Anyhow, it was breakfast time. Wherever he went there was no thirst. At the breakfast club one of his friends was called aside by an acquaintance.

"Djon want any hotch?" asked the acquaintance.

The friend said yes.

"I gotta couple bottles," said the acquaintance. "Come to me whenever you want some. I'm an Enforcement Officer now."

So it goes. In the past week reports have come in from every state—almost from every city—in the country through the lips of drinking men. The reports agreed in two particulars. First, that no matter where one may be it is always possible to get some form of booze. The second is—

Now hold your breath—

"Prohibition has come to stay."

Vast Dry Areas Found, Too.

These drinking men say that there are vast, dry areas between the wet spots. That the very men from whom they bought their liquor and the other men with whom they drank admit that there isn't the thousandth part of a chance that the prohibition law will be repealed. They say that they do not know of a state in the union that would go back to the old whiskey and gin days, and as there seems no way to get beer and light wines without whiskey and gin there is not a chance for beer and light wines. They say that most of the stuff that is being sold would knock a cigar store Indian off his pedestal. The men who are paying the price demanded for this poison are venomous against the bootlegging fraternity that sells it.

There are no statistics about bootlegging. But there is a mighty clear conviction in the minds of the clearthinking men who know something about it—and the men referred to are the men who drink—that the "dry" sentiment is getting stronger. Bootlegging and drinking are the staple topics of conversation. No party is complete without a bottle. Public dinners are deadly dull nowadays. Diners in private houses yawn in each other's faces. Fifty years from now there may still be wet spots here and there. For all that the drinking men who have reached town lately make the same report:

J. Barleycorn may not be dead. But he's on crutches.

PREFERS PIGS TO MILLIONS; AND SELLS GREENS DAILY

ORANGE, Texas, Jan. 14.—Oscar Chessons, a millionaire owner of the famous Chessons oil tract in the local oil field, upon which is located a 23,000-barrel well, cares more about his pigs and vegetable crop than he does about his riches and oil.

Chessons turned down an offer of ½ million dollars for royalties alone on his 46-acre tract, he said. This offer approximated eleven thousand dollars an acre, the highest price ever offered in the state for royalties. Chessons shrugged his shoulders and retired to his 2-room hut on the edge of the oilfield, and there he began the delicate job of doctoring sick pigs.

Last week Chessons sold a flivver full of fresh turnip greens on the local streets, obtaining, he said, the highest market price.

In his conversation, Chessons indicated his biggest interest is in his crops.

"That there oil nearly ruined my water crop," he said, referring to the big gusher. "I had to hurry and get the 'taters away from there."

Other interesting points in the life of this new millionaire are:

He paid $14,000 income tax last year.

He has $40,000 in the bank last week he owed $20 for something, and borrowed it from his brother.

FOWLKES WELL REMAINS CHIEF OIL INTEREST

Lease Trading Assumes the Greatest Activity Since Texhoma Strike in Early Part of 1921.

Performance of the Magnolia's Duke well continued the principle point of interest in oil circles Saturday, with considerable leasing activity in the territory surrounding the strike. The well Saturday, although not cleaned out, continued to flow by heads and show a good gas pressure.

The lease trading of Saturday, as well as since the well was completed, was the most active seen here since the Texhoma strike in Archer county early last year.

Prices ranged up to several hundred dollars per acre, with leases bringing as much as $75 per acre nearly a mile from the well in one direction. The higher prices, however, carried development provisions with a good portion of the purchase price to be paid in oil from the lease—straight out cash considerations not being reported among the higher priced stuff close to the well.

NO VERDICT IS ANNOUNCED IN CASE OF BURCH

By Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 14.—Thirty hours of deliberation failed to find a verdict from ten women and two men jurors in the trial of Arthur C. Burch of Evanston, Illinois, charged with the murder of J. Belton Kennedy, broker here, August 5, and the jury was locked up for the night shortly after ten o'clock.

The jury, after 24 hours deliberation, communicated with the judge today who then left for his home saying that he would not return to court until 9:30 o'clock Monday morning, unless the jury sent for him.

The communication sent out at 4 o'clock was the first to come from the jury in 24 hours of deliberation. When it was announced that the jury had a communication for the court, it was believed in many quarters that a verdict had been reached.

Judge Sidney N. Reeve and attorneys in the case were summoned. Judge Reeve read a communication the foreman of the jury sent out. He wrote a reply, put on his hat and coat and told newspapermen he was going home and would not come back to the court room until 9:30 o'clock Monday morning unless the jurors sent for him.

This was taken by attorneys to indicate the jury had communicated to him an inability to agree but that he refused to accept it.

PAVING BURK HIGHWAY BY THERMOMETER

The thermometer now regulates the amount of paving done on the Burkburnett road under the Potts & Prentice contract. Starting late in the morning and quitting during the middle of the afternoon, have been necessary several times since work started on the Burkburnett road in order to avoid freezing temperature.

Canvass, lanterns and sometimes fires along the side of the road have been used as a precautionary measure against freezing after the concrete had been laid. No loss as yet has resulted from the cold weather.

Approximately three-quarters of a mile of paving had been completed on the road up to Friday night a half mile of the total having been laid during the last week. Of the total 1,600 feet is at the mixer at this end of the road and the remainder at the central proportioning plant.

Mrs. Miller Announces for County Clerk

Rumors that Mrs. R. L. Miller of this city would be a candidate for county clerk in the democratic primaries next July, were confirmed Saturday when definite announcement of her candidacy was made. Mrs. Miller is widely known in the city having lived here with her family for thirty-one years. She is the widow of Dr. R. L. Miller for many years a physician of this city.

An announcement made by Mrs. Miller's friends says in part: "Mrs. Miller has been a resident of Wichita Falls for more than thirty-one years so that she will need no introduction to the old timers in Wichita county. The death of her husband left her the head of a family of three children and the courage and resourcefulness with which she has met the responsibility resulting from his death are an indication of her capacity to discharge the duties of the office for which she seeks the nomination."

Miss Elizabeth Hall is the only other announced candidate at this time for the office to which Mrs. Miller aspires.

for revenue only that it should be collected by the government upon the finished products of the farm and ranch co-equally with the products of the mill and the loom. This is known as the Walker tariff and his position has never been assailed in any democratic platform.

No man in congress has been a more consistent advocate and supporter of disarmament than Mr. Parrish. He has voted for all the resolutions, looking or leading to disarmament and led the fight for the Connally resolution which the republican organization in the house was compelled to accept after Senator Borah had forced the issue in the senate.

He fought universal military training. He fought compulsorny military training and ever declared for the national guard or guardsmen as the defenders of their country in time of peril.

Demand for land and value of irrigation to the West and particularly to Texas has been the subject of much thought by Mr. Parrish. He is convinced that in irrigation lies the secret for the great development of Texas and he believes that the next decade or so will see the construction of dams spanning the rivers and water courses of the state, providing vast storage reservoirs from which will be drawn the waters to irrigate unnumbered millions of acres and along with this will come the drainage of enormous tracts of cut over and swamp lands.

As a close friend of those interested in the Wichita Falls project as well as their congressman he has obtained for them whatever governmental help was permissible. First and last, he has been interested in all legislations for the conservation and reclamation of idle lands.

He has voted for all relief measures for the cattle and farming industry. is an unofficial member of the agricultural bloc of the house and his efforts to bring about legislation for the eradication of the pink boll worm and other pests is well known to all readers of the press.

He offered an amendment to the Esch-Cummins Transportation act that would have saved to the state commission not only of Texas, but other states, power and control over purely intrastate rate. This amendment was killed by a republican house. He accepted the Esch-Cummins act as a choice of two evils rather than to continue government ownership of the railways.

It is certain that there is no member of congress who has been indefatigable in the interests of the former service men than the representative from the Thirteenth district of Texas. Speaking of West Texas and the railroad administration, his record of valuable services to the people stands out in bold relief and this covers the interests of those engaged in the livestock industry, farming, manufacturing and the oil business.

His battle for the income tax payers of Texas which permits them to submit separate returns for the husband and wife on what is termed community property has resulted in the saving to those tax payers of millions of dollars, particularly in Texas.

Representing a district which for several years has produced more oil than any other district of the state his services as representative has been of vast value to all engaged in the industry as it was due to his activities that the branch of the bureau of mines in Texas was established.

Representative Parrish has served the people three years. He has the ability, the physique and the tireless industry as well as the experience which would make him a power in the senate as the servant of all the people and all industries. His record of legislative activity is one he and his friends has every reason to feel a sense of pride for it is unquestionably one of achievement and vision.

He is deemed by all his colleagues as one of the strong men among the newer members of the house. There is team work in congress as elsewhere and many a leader of "a forlorn hope" seeks the assistance of the member from the Thirteenth District because he stands well, is earnest, aggressive and persuasive and above all because he plays the game fair and to the end.

In short this is the verdict of those who are familiar with his early life, his achievements, his congressional career and the services he has rendered in three short years:

"Lucian W. Parrish is by birth and by training peculiarly fitted for public service in a democracy such as ours. He has no boss but his conscience, acknowledges allegiance to no sovereign except the American people, has no enmity for any group of citizens and something in common with all the best elements in our composite civilization. He is a man who is anxious to work for the good of the country and he is both physically and mentally capable of unremitting labor. He is a man to whom his duty to his constituents and to the whole country constitute his pillar of cloud by day and his pillar of fire by night. In honoring him, Texas will honor herself and in trusting him she will trust herself."

COUNSEL FOR ALLEGED I.W.W. MEN FLOGGED

placed large achievements to his credit. He found himself respected in his profession, he was honored by his fellow citizens who knew him best and possessed of enough wealth he gave his attention to serving the people of the state.

Having come from the farm he knows the heart of the farmer and he has a heart that beats in accord of the tillers of the soil. During his term of service in congress, Congressman Parrish has devoted himself assiduously to looking after legislation helpful to the farming interest.

Another group that has his fullest support is that composed of our soldiers in the world war and he has given no small amount of his time to secure relief and assistance for the men who fought that human liberty should not disappear from the earth.

Legislation to restrict immigration so as to prevent the entry of radicals and undesirables and afford an opportunity for the assimilation of worthy foreigners now domiciled here has been repeatedly urged in congress by Mr. Parrish.

In the platform on which he made his first race for congress long before war was won, he declared himself on this question and he has consistently adhered to the position which he enunciated then. Congress passed the Johnston-Colt bill operative for two years and at the expiration of that time congress must again face the issue raised by Congressman Parrish and others and determine whether to retain restrictive immigration or, throwing down the bars, admit the host of Europeans, particularly from Poland and Greece and Italy "who look at the United States simply as the land of golden opportunity."

He is for the admission of only those in sympathy with the constitution of the United States, laws of the land, obedient to the flag and willing to accept their full share of responsibility of citizenship.

From first to last he has been for the budget system and was one of the democratic congressmen who voted to pass a measure over the veto of former President Wilson. During his career in congress he has been one of the foremost champions of economy and an ardent foe of deficiency expenditures and appropriations.

He voted for the emergency tariff and did so with the open declaration that democrats who voted for it adhered to the time honor democratic doctrine. It was his contention that payroll. Their only offense, it was asserted, consisted of possessing I. W. W. cards. One of the prisoners was declared to be ill from mistreatment by his jailers.

DECLARED HE FAILED TO HEED WARNING TO LEAVE

By Associated Press.

GREENVILLE, Texas, Jan. 14—Harold F. Mulks of Chicago, counsel for two alleged I. W. W. convicted at Shreveport of vagrancy charges, arrived at Greenville today upon a Missouri, Kansas & Texas passenger train upon which he was placed last night by a band of men who had severely flogged him after kidnaping him from his hotel at Shreveport.

The men, Mulks said, directed the conductor not to let him off the train "this side of Dallas." He plainly showed marks of the flogging.

Wallace Fowler, a Greenville policeman, talked to Mulks at the station here. He said Mulks told him he had been warned to leave Shreveport several days ago but that he had not heeded the "suggestion."

"I was not to stop this side of Dallas, but I am certain I will not stop this side of Chicago," Mulks was quoted by Fowler as having said.

Home Town Stuff

A grass fire at the corner of Ninth and Broad streets caused the fire department to make a run about noon Saturday. No damage resulted from the blaze, however.

W. B. Pyron, vice president of the Gulf Production company, left Saturday night for Dallas where he will attend a "get together" meeting and conference of the officers of the 112th cavalry, Texas National Guard. Mr. Pyron holds a commission as lieutenant in this organization. The conference is one of the regular meetings which are held by the officers in this regiment, Mr. Pyron said.

R. E. Farmer, chief dispatcher of the Wichita Falls and Southern, left Saturday for a trip of the line.

Mrs. J. Will Gray returned Saturday from Childress where she has been visiting relatives.

Roy E. Carter of the office force of the W. F. & N. W., left Saturday for a week-end trip to Fort Worth.

Mrs. C. W. Stevenson will leave for Fort Worth Monday where she will be the guest of her niece, Mrs. J. D. O'Keefe, and attend the Rachmaninoff concert in Dallas on Tuesday evening.

Miss Christine Fuchs is spending the week end with her parents at Jolly.

Miss Ruby Greenwood of Dallas is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. J. B. Stokes, Jr.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles W. Wallace are spending a few days in Dallas.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Meredith have returned from Moran, Texas, where Mr. Meredith is interested in oil. They will return to Moran in a few days, to remain probably until spring.

Mrs. Augusta South, manager and proprietor of the Parisian, has gone to St. Louis, Chicago and New York on an extended business trip in the interest of the store.

J. A. Wise, vice-president of the First National bank, who motored down to Wichita Falls Sunday says that he counted, between this city and Iowa Park, 163 cars headed towards Electra. It required only a few moments to make the trip and figuring that there was as many cars headed the other direction, there would be over three hundred cars traveling between the two cities in this short space of time.—Electra Star.

Representative B. F. Johnson of Wichita Falls is a war horse in community work. He has been identified with many measures along these lines in various communities and has served as secretary of different chambers of commerce. Mr. Johnson spoke at a noonday luncheon Monday on the "Why a Chamber of Commerce." His address put new life in many of the members. It fired the solicitors for membership with new enthusiasm. He spoke clearly, forcefully and with a thorough knowledge of his subject. Mr. Johnson's definition of a chamber of commerce is, "a condenser of dreams."—Electra Star.

According to E. D. Kelly, local manager of the Wichita Falls Electric company, arrangements have been made for the installation of a radio phone receiving set which will be installed at the high school in the near future. The material and equipment was ordered from Dallas the past week.—Electra Star.

Many motorists of Wichita county availed themselves Sunday of the opportunity of utilizing the newly completed paved road between Electra and Wichita Falls. The mild weather of the day served to lure the citizens from their firesides and all descriptions of cars were out on the highways carrying their loads of people for the days pleasure. The highway bore the appearance of a gigantic parade, with the people of Electra seeking pleasures in Wichita Falls and the people of Wichita Falls seeking pleasure in Electra.—Electra Star.

H. F. Stribling of Wichita Falls was in Vernon Thursday.—Vernon Record.

ARMY VESSEL WINS BATTLE AGAINST GALE

"Don't Give Up the Bones," Was the Cry Heard Above Roar of Storm While Crook Hurdled Waves.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—A thousand doughboys returning from Germany on the transport Crook learned today for the first time that their ship had sprung a leak last Tuesday and had been in danger during great gales that swept the North Atlantic.

"Not a crap game stopped," was the smiling comment of Captain Frank Reppa as the Crook was being lashed to her pier at the transport base in Brooklyn.

The transport St. Mihiel, which had been dispatched to her assistance, accompanied her up the bay.

The doughboys eagerly scanned the newspapers giving accounts of the plight of the Crook and then remarked that seasickness gave them more concern than anything else.

Captain Reppa said that most of the crew of 140 were sent below decks to plug up opened seams. Some water leaked in and it was necessary to remove baggage. Care was taken to see that the water did not reach the coffins of 652 bodies of American soldiers transported from French cemeteries.

In addition to the 968 enlisted men and 50 casuals the Crook brought 14 German wives and 3 babies. Most of the enlisted men had been engaged in policing the Rhine. Many of them had seen hard fighting in the war.

WHEN, OH WHEN DO WE GO HOME ASK DELEGATES

closed chapter in conference accomplishments.

A view that the far eastern discussions should be held in abeyance to give free rein for the Shantung negotiations has been emphasized in American quarters particularly, it being argued that the Japanese and Chinese groups were fully occupied with the question of the Kiao-Chow leasehold and that the far eastern committee could not go ahead without them.

In the background of this proposal has appeared a suggestion that it might also help solve the remaining problems of the far east if the Shantung question first were put out of the way.

It is evident, however, that not all the delegations agree with the American view. After nine weeks of discussion and with important political developments shaping in foreign capitals, some of the delegates are outspoken in their desire to avoid every unnecessary delay in the main tasks of the conference. To what extent Secretary Hughes had become cognizant of that sentiment is not revealed.

That some spirited clashes of opinion are to be expected when the far eastern meetings are resumed is brewing more apparent as the various delegations developed their positions. Today Dr. Chung-Hui-Wang, of the Chinese delegation, issued a formal statement reaffirming the determination of China to press her request for conference discussions of the "twenty-one demands" despite the objections of the Japanese. Meantime among other delegations there developed evidence that not only this request but the Chinese proposal for abolition of spheres of influences and for restoration of leased areas face a dubious prospect.

KLANSMEN RECEIVE APPLAUSE DURING CORSICANA PARADE

CORSICANA, Texas, Jan. 14.—About 500 men masked and garbed in the regalia of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan paraded the main business street here tonight at 9 o'clock. The parade was led by the usual horsemen bearing a fiery cross, emblem of the klan. Citizens lined the sidewalks and applause was frequently heard.

MEXIA GETS ITS FIRST TASTE OF MARTIAL LAW

MEXIA, Texas, Jan. 14.—Mexia felt its first real martial law tonight when soldiers on every corner turned back even those who "have lived here since '86" with a gruff command to "halt." It became necessary to establish a rigid patrol and disperse crowds when looting threatened to become serious. Strangers, helping shop-keepers remove their stocks, in some instances, walked on away with the goods.

A number of arrests were made tonight and there was slight friction in some instances when crowds failed to grasp the idea of martial law. The Corsicana fire department came to the assistance of the local department.

Lieutenant Kerr of General Wolters' staff rode nine miles in an open car in twenty-two minutes tonight to shut off the pipes of a big oil company and divert the water into the mains.

SHIRT-SLEEVE DINER CAUSED HOT DISPUTE

VIENNA, Jan. 14.—Is it permissible for a man to sit in his shirt sleeves in a cafe? That is the question before a Viennese judge.

An architect of unconventional habits sat in the restaurant garden of the Elsvogel dressed in a tussore silk suit, but the sun burned fiercely on him and he took off his coat, disclosing a pale blue silk shirt.

Two other guests—possibly envious because their shirts were not silken—objected, and the proprietor requested the architect to put on his coat. He refused.

A private, walking down the street arm in arm with his sweetheart, met a sergeant belonging to the regiment.

"My sister, sergeant," said the bashful private, introducing her.

"That's all right, my boy," said the sergeant, grinning. "She used to be mine."

FAIR MAKERS OF SEYMOUR ARE READY

Plan for Best Rodeo Talent and the Largest Cash Prizes for the Baylor Fair This Year.

Horse Racing Will Be New Feature and Big Delegation of Blanket Indians an Added Attraction.

SEYMOUR, Texas, Jan. 14.—At a meeting of the officers and directors of the Baylor County Fair Association here Thursday definite steps were taken with reference to the program for the fair here this fall. At an earlier meeting in November the dates were set for the week of Sept. 10 to 16, and it was unanimously passed by the board of directors at their meeting Thursday to reproduce as nearly as possible the general program as staged at the cowboys' reunion here in 1806.

Inducements will be made to have the best rodeo talent in the west at Seymour by offering the largest cash purses ever offered in rodeo contests. The bucking broncho contest will carry the big money and the board of directors intend this to be one of the big features and not a contest for amateurs.

Races will be another one of the new features and plans are being made to build a three-quarter mile combination track. Steps are also being taken to secure a big delegation of blanket Indians to be in attendance during the fair.

In every detail enlargements will be made, including the livestock and agricultural exhibits. A sale of registered stock will again be made on the last day of the fair.

A program committee with F. F. Fisher as chairman was named. Len Bellows and G. C. McGown were appointed to represent the Baylor county fair at the meeting of west Texas fairs at Abilene on January 23. Other committees will be named as the affairs of the association demand.

The officers and directors are as follows: J. O. Newton, president; J. T. Lively, vice-president; George S. Plants, secretary-treasury; Len Bellows, Al Baker, W. B. Craddock, Joe A. Wheat, W. H. Snyder and R. E. Baskin.

WILL YOU BE IDENTIFIED WITH THE

CITIZENS OR DENIZENS IN 1922

—A CITIZEN is a person who lives in a community, enjoys its blessings, its opportunities and its comforts—but who also thinks of his duty to his neighbors. He works for the advancement of the community.

—A CITIZEN realizes that he is a part of the whole community and that while he may have a legal right to live to himself and to disregard conditions that affect his neighbor—he has no moral right to do so.

—A CITIZEN understands that a cess pool far removed from his own dining table may breed germs that may be carried to his own luxurious home and give his child disease.

—A CITIZEN pays his poll tax and votes for the men and the propositions which he sincerely believes, after thoughtful investigation, to be the best for the whole community.

—A CITIZEN glories in the work of having a part in making his community better. He believes in the city where he is working and profiting.

—A CITIZEN conducts himself with due regard for the rights and comfort of others who rubs elbows with him.

—A CITIZEN wants his city to be clean and makes an effort to keep it so.

—A CITIZEN will obey the laws himself and will help see that others obey.

—A CITIZEN CARES.

—A DENIZEN is a creature who merely inhabits a locality. He eats and sleeps and absorbs the nourishment and comforts of life, but gives no thought to the community or its upbuilding.

—A DENIZEN wants to "get his" and get out. He does not care for the general condition of the city so long as he and his wife and his son, John, and his wife, are warm and well-fed.

—A DENIZEN might feel that an unsanitary condition in a part of town several blocks from his own home is no concern of his.

—A DENIZEN takes no interest in local municipal affairs—drawing his skirts about him, he lets things run themselves.

—A DENIZEN does not contribute time or money to church, lodge or Chamber of Commerce. He accepts the benefits these institutions bring to the community without doing his part. He gets a lot for nothing, by letting his neighbor carry his load.

—A DENIZEN will spit on the side of a beautiful building or on the sidewalk because he doesn't care for the other fellow's feelings.

—A DENIZEN will maintain a garbage pile in his yard, and throw trash in the streets.

—A DENIZEN will try to evade the laws of city and county.

—A DENIZEN DOES NOT CARE.

Chamber of Commerce

WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS, January 11, 1922.

Mr. W. B. McNeely,
Box 545, Wichita Falls, Texas.

Dear Mr. McNeely:

In response to your recent inquiry about the attitude of the Chamber of Commerce towards accepting as members citizens engaged in day labor, permit me to say that this organization welcomes as members any and all citizens who are interested in the commercial, cultural and civic upbuilding of this community, without regard to their occupation, financial strength, religion or politics.

In my mind, there is no distinction between a union man and a non-union man. Each must stand on his merits as a man and as a craftsman.

To make my position clear, I would say that when you call upon me, I think of you simply as Mr. McNeely, a citizen, and your views on the labor question are your own, and I have no concern with them.

Such of the work that the Chamber of Commerce is engaged in has to do with the improvement of living conditions, the promotion of parks and playgrounds, co-operation in the improvement of schools, municipal conveniences and other things along this line. These mean more to a workingman and his family than they do to a man more fortunate in this world's goods.

While I have no power to shape the policy of our members' council myself alone, I wish to say that I believe I am reflecting the sentiment of our Chamber of Commerce in this letter and that you and any other citizens in like occupation who desire to affiliate with us on the broad policy outlined herewith will be welcome, and I believe the Business Council at its first meeting of this year, will create a division to be known as Labor, to be composed of men who are engaged in day labor in the crafts, regardless of whether they belong to a union or not.

We shall be proud to have you contribute your time and money in the upbuilding of the city that we all love.

With kindest regards for you, I am

Sincerely yours,

Signed HUBERT M. HARRISON, General Manager.

CLUB WOMEN ENJOY LECTURE-RECITAL

With more than 150 members of local literary and music clubs, special guests, the Music Study club gave its initial open meeting at the Wichita club Thursday afternoon in which Mrs. O. E. Nichols entertained with an instructive lecture-recital. Mrs. Nichols was introduced by Mrs. N. M. Clifford in a few well chosen words, and took for her subject, "The Music of Old England."

The lecture opened with a history of the customs of the people which led to the development of the folk music of the British Isles; the gams and festivities, out of which grew the folk dances and with a description of the instruments in use at that period. It was copiously illustrated with music of the British Isles; the games Nichols, conveying its development from the time of minstrel to the golden age of Purcell.

Mr. Nichols assisted Mrs. Nichols in illustrating the lecture, by singing traditional folk songs, some of them of the Elizabethan era, two of them from the famous queen's own virginal book, Traditional music to the songs of Shakespeare's plays; political songs of the struggle between the Cavaliers and Puritans, were also given.

The program, which was thoroughly enjoyable, was concluded with three of Purcell's songs, the famous "Death Song" from Dido and Aeneas; "I Attempt From Love Sickness to Fly" Attempt From Love Sickness to Fly" and Mead Valine White's setting of Purcell's famous Jacobite air "Lillifurlee" to Browning's words.

Accompaniments to the violin numbers were played by Mrs. A. H. Britain and preceding the program, the Music Study club presented Mrs. Nichols with a beautiful art bouquet, the gift being made by little Miss Ona Bell Britain.

Individuality Marks Winter Sport Togs

WITH the innovation of knickers, greater interest is being taken in the more strenuous forms of outdoor sports. Heretofore, it was more or less a matter of discomfort when it came to skiing, but now nerve is the only qualification needed for this ideal winter sport—that is, if one is fortunate enough to live in cold and hilly sections.

Although the white knitted sports frock, worn in the picture by Julia Faye, who is taking a leading part in Cecil B. DeMille's Paramount picture, "Saturday Night," is most seasonable for the mid-winter Southern trip, it makes a welcome addition, in a chillier clime, if worn under the cape. As it stands, with its short sleeves, its white fox fur and white felt hat trimmed with a white aigrette, it is essentially a costume for a warmer climate.

Take, for instance, this fascinating gray checked tweed, in the sketch, which can be utilized for any form of outdoor sport. The sweater vest fits snugly and is made in varicolored tints. Over this is worn a perfectly straight line jacket, with tight sleeves. A wide cape with deep shawl collar, lined with a brilliant shade of deep orange, and a light gray angora tam complete the costume.

This is but one of the many examples proving that individuality is the thing that counts this season. If a costume is becoming, that is sufficient. It will be noted that sports coats and frocks follow no particular example as they have in years gone by. It was thought, not so long ago, that anything would do for outdoor wear, but now even the most casual survey of the new intriguing designs is bound to develop keener interest, and will give as much cause for competition as the daily promenade along Fifth Avenue.

This competition naturally warrants any sort of idea, and has given rise to the most absurd angles for trimming. The crushable hat in the upper right hand circle seems tame enough when considered for itself, but after four brilliantly colored feathers have been added in this manner, it readily assumes a position of unique importance.

J. O. C. CLASS HOLDS MONTHLY MEETING.

Miss Helen Snider was hostess to the J. O. C. Sunday school class of the First Methodist church, south, Friday afternoon, a combined business and social session in which officers for the coming year were elected as follows: Irene Funderburk, president; Eunice Hine, secretary; Roberta Pool, treasurer and Thelma Cain, press reporter.

During the business session, the class was also divided into four circles with leaders chosen as follows, Dorothy Nolen, Doris Ragland, Helen Snider and Thelma Kahn.

A delightful social session was enjoyed in which the feature was, "A Manless Wedding," with Doris Ragland, in the role of the bride; Helen Mae Smith, the groom; Helen Snider, the minister, and Marjorie Foster and Virginia Calvert, train bearers. The wedding march was played by Thelma Cain, and the costumes worn and the solemnity with which Miss Snider read the ceremony made the affair a very comical one.

Other contributions to the program was a reading entitled "Happiness," by Mrs. Clyde Foster, the class teacher, and two readings by her little daughter, Marjorie. Dorothy Belote recited, "An Old Maid's Prayer."

At the close of the afternoon, Mrs. C. W. Snider, mother of the hostess, served a dainty refreshment course to Lorraine Russell, Helen Snider, Alice Copeland, Zona Bachman, Thelma Cain, Lily Clark, Virginia Walters, Evelyn Barker, Olivia Harrison, Berepice Garlin, Margaret Akin, Helen Mae Smith, Doris Ragland, Lucille WRey, Roberta Pool, Dorothy Belote, Mrs. Foster and Marjorie Foster.

EDWIN NAPIER JR., CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Fifty little friends of Master Edwin Napier Jr., assisted him in celebrating his eleventh birthday Friday afternoon at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Napier.

A coincidence in the affair, was that this is the first time since the young man's advent into the world that his birthday has fallen on the same day of the months of his birth, Friday the 13.

The house was appropriately decorated for the event, and several hours were spent in playing games, after which a dainty refreshment course was served, and the birthday cake cut.

The Woman Citizen

Idealists.

Every moment has its idealists, its fore-runners, who hitch their wagon to a star and draw us up a notch higher, at least, than we would be without them. Such is the Woman's International league for Peace and Freedom, demanding, not the beginnings of peace, achieved by the Disarmament conference, but immediate millenial peace and brotherliness and internationalism.

Child Labor Day.

"It is infinitely better to prevent child labor and compel and support the education of our children today than to look after untrained, inefficient and unhealthy citizens tomorrow."—Herbert Hoover.

Child Labor Day will be observed January 28 or 29 in synagogues and churches and the following Monday in schools. For information write National Child Labor committee, 105 East 22nd St., New York City.

Is your women's club doing anything to help?

SMILES.

A Compound Fracture.

Upon the ice I fell,
On New Year's Day,
And saw—I'm here to tell—
The solar system and the Milky way!

I turned—it is a fact—
Two revolutions,
Then broke the ice and cracked
Two brand-new New Year's Resolutions.

"Fore!" shouted the golfer, preparing for a big swipe.

But the woman who was crossing the links paid no attention.

"Fore!" yelled the man with the clubs, angrily. Still she took no notice.

"Try her with three ninety-nine," suggested a friend. "Perhaps she's one of those bargain hunters."

The defendant, accused of stealing chickens, had been duly examined in court and at the conclusion the judge said: "As I understand it, Sam, you entered the hen house and then, deciding to resist temptation, left it. Is that correct?" "Yes, suh, jedge. Dass about right." "In that case, can you explain how two of the hens were missing?" "It was jes' dis way, jedge. I took 'em. I reckoned I was entitled to dat many fo' leavin' de res'."

Hygiene and Care of the Baby

FEEDING AFTER THE FIRST YEAR.

The change from the bottle or breast to table food must be made intelligently if the baby is to continue to grow properly.

No child three years of age or under should ever be fed at the family table, or permitted to have tastes of food other than that which is especially intended for him.

To try to feed a young baby at the family table while attempting to partake of a meal is not conducive to a mother's or father's digestion. It is also unfair to a young child to expect him to sit quietly through the time his elders take for their meal and not want the food he sees them eating.

A simple, safe and satisfactory method of feeding a young child, and a practical substitute for the always dangerous high chair is the separate small table and chair. Where the house-room space is limited, this small table may be fastened on hinges to the wall so it may be dropped out of the way when not in use.

While the mother is preparing the family meal, the baby may be served just what he ought to have at his own table. In this way, he does not see other foods and will not ask for them. When baby has finished his own meal, he will be content to play or sleep while the family enjoy theirs unhampered by his presence.

The small table is an excellent means of training in table manners. When the child has learned proper control of himself at the age of four or five years, the family will then enjoy his presence at their table.

Cut out these feeding suggestions and tack them over the kitchen table for reference. If you would have a healthy baby do not depart from them except under the doctor's advice.

They will make their home on Fourth street.

Dr. William Lawless of Bradley's corner was a professional visitor in Burkburnett and Wichita Falls Tuesday.

Mrs. Hanks and children, Jimmie Lee and Simonell, left to join Mr. Hanks in Breckenridge where they will make their future home. The many friends of the family regret to see them leave our city.

Officials of the First Baptist Baptist church announce their first "Get Together Meeting" this year, which is of a social nature, including all members and friends of the local congregation. There will be a program rendered by the pupils of Rev. E. W. Ethridge's class, refreshments served and a general good time socially.

Burkburnett friends of Miss Elizabeth Hall of Wichita Falls are expressing much interest in report this week, that she will enter the race for county clerk of Wichita county in the coming election.

Dr. and Mrs. H. D. Prichard made their final move to Wichita Falls Wednesday and will be cozily domiciled in the Joline apartments of that city, until a permanent home is secured.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Whereas; It has pleased our Heavenly Father to remove from our midst our co-worker, Miss Eva B. Stratton, who departed this life, January 2, 1922.

We, the Parent-Teachers association have lost our most beloved leader, who worked long and diligently for the schools and people of the Sam Houston ward; a friend who struggled faithfully against odds to build up the community; who was sincere, loyal and loving always.

The Sam Houston school has lost a principal and teacher who was an unfailing help and inspiration to each and every pupil in the school; who was a gracious example of all she wished her pupils to be, who as she said, "Taught something besides looks."

The teachers of the Sam Houston school have lost a brave and loyal leader, who was a help in every difficulty, who instructed, advised, encouraged, praised; who was a follower of the Great Teacher.

Resolved:

That a copy of these resolution be sent to Mr. and Mrs. Stratton, her parents.

That a copy be put on record in the minutes of the Parent-Teachers association.

MRS. C. P. WARMAN,
MISS OLGA MOVIS,
MRS. C. H. POLSTON,
MRS. ERIC BRUNO, Committee.

What Will Happen in 1922

Three hundred and sixty-five opportunities will dawn before New Year's morn, 1923. What, oh what, will these lay at the feet of 1923? We can forecast a bit:

More than half a million babies will be born in the United States. How many in the world, who can estimate?

Laws affecting children will be improved in all civilized countries.

Skirts will grow longer.

Women will be given rights before the law more nearly equal to those enjoyed by men.

We will all be one year older.

Women will take such active part in world affairs as can scarcely be imagined.

Women's organizations will become more widespread, more international, and more co-operative, thus extending their power and hastening the realization of women's ideals.

Ten thousand American mothers and fifteen thousand American babies will be here on New Year's day, 1923, who had died were it not for our recently enacted Maternity-Infancy bill.

The same old "eternal feminine" instincts which Eve brought out of the Garden of Eden will still be as keen and sweet as ever—the eternal wifely, the eternal motherly.

The Dove of Peace will increase and its coo-ing be audible above the scream of the American eagle, the roar of the British lion, the grunt of the Russian bear, or the call of the other birds and beasts.

Education will "march;" physical education will be emphasized, and play be more universal.

The world will become re-stocked on manufactured products.

Thousands of dwellings will be built.

Invention will add to the efficiency and the pleasure of life.

The aeroplane will become of more practical use.

Rural life will become socialized, more interesting, and satisfying, and remunerative, and less arduous.

Business will become "normal."

Dream on—dream on * * * your own rosy dreams! You have 365 chances that they will come true.

"Thine own wish, wish I thee!"

Woman's Organizations Co-Operate

Mrs. Winter and Mrs. Park Write Joint Letters.

In order that women's efforts for good may not conflict, nor over-lap, the presidents of the two largest women's organizations have addressed a joint letter to their organizations urging cooperation. Mrs. Thomas G. Winter of the General Federation of Women's Clubs and Mrs. Maud Wood Park of the National League of Women Voters are thus aiming to knit together the energies of their four million constituents.

The joint letter calls attention to the fact that both organizations are of "progressive women interested in the right development and right conservation of the nation's resources." Both are organized in each of the forty-eight states and are working for similar, and often the same, legislation in both state and nation.

The federation "is primarily sociological and educational" while the league "concerns itself with women as voting citizens." But the federation has always done legislative work and the league is educational.

Both presidents announce their mutual understanding of the value of both organizations and their earnest desire that the most cordial relations of cooperation shall exist in all state and local branches, "to the end that the work in which we are all interested may be forwarded with the least possible waste of efforts."

ALAS

By HoWard Hilles

I often read romances and with envy
I am filled,—
I read the last "best seller," enthralled, entranced and thrilled,
But, tearfully I sorrow and persistency I pine,
No story-book experience has ever yet been mine.
Truth's stranger far than fiction, so much happenings well may be,
But—I sorrow as I say it—they never happened to me!

I meander to the movies, where I view upon the screen
Such sights and situations as I swear I've never seen;
I've lived through several summers, but I mournfully admit
Less really happened in them all than in one six-reel hit,
So I mope off to the movies, where successively I see
A thousand things occuring that never happened to me!

My neighbors tell of dramas where they have played a part
So handsomely heroic that it thrills my humble heart;
And amazed I gaze upon them with a glamour in my glance,
To hear of "actual happenings" that sound just like romance,—
My friends are truthful as the chap who chopped the cherry t. re—
Why do things happen to them that never happened to me?

A FRIEND IN NEED A FRIEND INDEED

Writes Mrs. Hardee Regarding Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Los Angeles, Calif.—"I must tell you that I am a true friend to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have taken it off and on for twenty years and it has helped me change from a delicate girl to a stout, healthy woman. When I was married I was sick all the time until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in bed much of my time with pains and had to have the doctor every month. One day I found a little book in my yard in Guthrie, Oklahoma, and I read it through and got the medicine—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—and took eight bottles and used the Sanative Wash. I at once began to get stronger. I have got many women to take it just by telling them what it has done for me. I have a young sister whom it has helped in the same way it helped me. I want you to know that I am a 'friend indeed,' for you were a 'friend in need.'"—Mrs. GEORGE HARDEE, 1043 Byram St., Los Angeles, California.

Wichita High Quintet Smothers Electra 30-10

UNLESS YE SWEET-VOICED OPERATOR FIBS. YE GRID ELEVEN NOW'S REVENGED

The Red and Black quintet that is seeking a high school basketball championship for the city of Wichita Falls knocked the cagers of Electra high clear out of Wichita county last night, according to a sweet-voiced operator in the Electra telephone office. This maiden fair with golden hair, a pippin rare (who, thar, Ezry!), reported to the sporting editor of the Record News at 10 o'clock last night that the final score, as it had percolated through her beautifully shaped little bean, was Captain "Brick" Johnson and others 30; Electra 10.

Busily engaged in the arduous (Ho, ho! Tee, hee!) labors of framing up a handsome, hand-painted sport page for the Sunday paper, the sporting editor was unable to make the trip to Electra with the boys. We wanted to, but he knew the game was not a championship affair, as the high school title battles do not start until next month, and so he had perforce to miss the sight of the basketball athletes of the old home burg taking sweet revenge on Electra for its monotonous football victories of past years.

But if the operator in Electra did not fib (and ah, she talked too sweetly to be so false!) the Danheimers just naturally kicked ol' Electra Hi right in the mush! Gosh-durn, holy smoke, gee whiz, ain't that swell?

DOC LANDON PUTS UP LOVING CUP AS CAGE LOOP PRIZE

"Doc" Landon, proprietor of Landon's Sporting Goods store and a good sport himself, has donated a silver loving cup to be awarded to the winning team in the City Basketball league race.

Doc made the announcement yesterday, and stated modestly, that it might be a modest li'l cup, but that he wanted to put up something—and his offer was happily accepted. The players like Doc, and if his loving cup hain't no bigger'n a thimble it will be as welcome as though it stood two feet high and held three quarts of old I. W. Harper.

CLYDE MILAN WILL MANAGE THE SENATORS

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Clyde Milan, outfielder, will be the manager of the Washington American league baseball club this season, it was announced tonight by President Clark Griffith.

Milan is a native of Tennessee and has been a member of the local team since 1907 when he was obtained from Wichita club of the Western league.

AGGIES WIN CLOSE GAME FROM S. M. U.

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, Jan. 14.—A. and M. defeated Southern Methodist University here tonight 26 to 21. A. and M. was outplayed by its opponents, but were unable to make their free goals, McCain and Matthews were the stars for S. M. U., while Dwyer and Gill played splendid for A. and M. A. and M. leaves tonight for Waco where they will meet Baylor Monday and Tuesday nights. The game was attended by a large crowd, the stand being heavily overtaxed.

JUVENILE RETURNED FROM GATESVILLE

Cleo Lanier, juvenile, was returned here Saturday from Gainesville by Jack Miller, city detective. Young Lanier was arrested by police officers at Gainesville several days ago. He has been wanted here by juvenile officers for some time. He is being held at the juvenile jail.

Mrs. Barton French told at a dinner in Newport a story about the kaiser. "The kaiser," she said, "liked to talk to Americans about Theodore Roosevelt. Once, at Kiel, he told how, when he first met Roosevelt he said to him: 'Mr. Roosevelt, if you were a German, I should certainly make you my prime minister.' 'If your imperial highness,' said Roosevelt, bowing and smiling, 'were an American, I should make you my press agent.'"

DEATH CLAIMS BENJAMIN SHIBE OF 'ATHLETICS'

By Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14.—Benjamin F. Shibe, president of the Philadelphia American league baseball club, died today.

Mr. Shibe, who was 83 years old, had been ailing for about two years. About a year ago he was in an automobile accident, receiving injuries from which he slowly recovered.

Mr. Shibe's financial assistance made it possible for the American league to establish a club in Philadelphia when it invaded National league territory in 1901. He was made president of the club when it was established and remained in that position to the time of his death. He owned, it is understood, 50 per cent of the club stock, some of which was transferred to members of his family. Connie Mack is the owner of the other 50 per cent.

Sam Houston Smothers Rice Owls 34 to 14

By Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Jan. 14.—The Sam Houston normal overwhelmingly defeated the Rice Owl quintet at the Y. M. C. A. court Saturday night by a score of 34 to 14. The Normalites completely outclassed the Rice five in every angle of the game playing rings around Rice.

St. Johns Wins! It Didn't Lose!

By Associated Press.

SYRACUSE.—N. Y., Jan. 14.—St. John's military academy of Manlius established what is thought to be a world's record today when the basketball team scored 228 points in a double-header.

The scores were made against the teames of Utica academy, 96 to 7 and Savannah high school, 132 to 11.

SPUDDERS OPEN THEIR 1922 SEASON ON THE HOME LOT WITH DALLAS

Special to the Record News

HOUSTON, Jan. 14.—After an all-day and late night session, the Texas league meeting tonight adopted a 154 game schedule opening the 1922 campaign on April 1, and closing on September 14, conforming the final date to the expected finale of the Southern Association season in order to permit the post-season championship series to open.

Dallas opens at Wichita Falls, Shreveport at Fort Worth, Houston at Galveston, Beaumont at San Antonio.

None of the schedules mailed in advance or packed to the meeting by J. Doak Roberts, who since time immemorable has been a schedule committee of one, for the past several weeks were available, and the veteran schedule tabulator spent several weary hours remaking the most acceptable.

The full schedule will be released for publication on Sunday, January 22.

The league spent the day in a long drawn out executive session with nothing of moment to impart to the news hounds hovering on the fringes of the star chamber. A good deal of the morning session was taken up in discussing the latest developments of the Dallas situation.

Papers were served on the club owners early this morning in a suit brought by Joss Hassell and Ham Patterson, former owners of the Dallas club.

The league magnates are instructed to appear in the 44th district court at Dallas Monday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock and show cause why they should not be restrained from interference with Hassell and Patterson in the ownership of the Dallas franchise. The league today entrusted its legal representation to Judge John M. Crooker, president of the Houston ball club and former district attorney here.

As Judge Crooker is engaged in the trial of a case here Monday, he will ask a continuance of the hearing to a later day next week.

President Doak Roberts was notified by local newspapers of a suit for damages filed against the league by Hassell and Patterson in which he is named as co-defendant. He had no comment to make.

A. L. Perkins of the Galveston Tribune, representing the Managing Editors Association of Texas Associated Press papers appeared before the meeting this afternoon and was assured by the league that no wire privileges out of its parks will be granted to the exclusion of any newspaper news service.

Talks of trades were rife around the meeting but up to a late hour nothing had been consummated.

The league voted to enter into a new ten-year contract to use the Spaulding ball.

In addition to President J. Doak Roberts and Secretary William B. Ruggles, clubs were represented as follows: Beaumont, B. A. Steinhagen, Joe Mathes; Dallas, Walter Morris; Fort Worth, Paul Lagrave; Galveston, N. E. Leopold, Bob Turleton; Houston, John H. Crooker, Fred Ankreman; San Antonio, H. J. Benson; Shreveport, H. B. Gears; Wichita Falls, R. O. Harvey, Walter Salm.

$50,000 CLUB HOUSE WILL BE BUILT IN 1922 BY LOCAL GOLF CLUB

Preliminary steps leading to the construction of a $50,000 club house will be taken by the directors of the Wichita Falls Golf & Country club next Saturday night, it was announced yesterday. On that date, at 6:30 o'clock, the directors will hold a joint dinner with the club's building committee in the living room of the present club house and definite plans will be considered and action taken to finance the erection of a building in keeping with the club's growth during the past three years.

For some time past sentiment has been strong among the club members for a new club house. The present quarters are far too small to care for the large membership. It is almost impossible to hold entertainments on a generous scale, while locker space in both the men's and ladies' dressing quarters is at a premium. Three years ago the club house was large enough to care for all needs. But with the dissipation of oil boom days and the return of normal business conditions scores of members now find time to play golf and to make the club their evening headquarters. Many new members have been taken into the organization, and today hardly a golf tournament of any character can be launched without from thirty to fifty entrants. This steady growth of interest in golf and in other golf club activities has driven home to the membership forcibly the need of larger quarters, and it has been definitely determined to build a new club house this year.

Unless a change is made in the earlier plans, the new building will ground south of Holliday creek. The probably be erected on the high location is an ideal one, overlooking a broad sweep of country and in every other respect better suited as a club house site than the present location. With the expiration recently of the lease on the land over which Holes Nos. 16, 17 and 18 were laid out, and the opening of three new holes to the south, a club house built south of Holliday creek would be almost in the center of the new 18-hole course.

Even without any improvement in the present irrigation system, the present links coupled with a new club house would in less than three years give Wichita Falls one of the finest country clubs in the state. The new course, with the addition of a few traps and other hazards on a few of the open holes, will be as sporty a links as there is in Texas today, and one that will test the skill of the finest golfers.

The building committee appointed by the board of directors to go into every phase of the plans for the new club home includes the following men: C. H. Reid, C. J. Barnard, Scott Bower, Orville Bullington, Doc Burleson, W. D. Cline, W. Daniel, F. M. Gates, R. O. Harvey, Leslie Humphrey, P. J. Lea, W. M. McGregor, J. F. O'Donohue, C. W. Reid, G. F. Reppy, M. Staniforth, C. E. Watson, Lloyd Weaver, G. C. Wood, H. F. Weldon, W. F. Weeks, Joe Jones, W. W. Anderson, W. Newton Maer, T. P. Duncan, Carl Williamson, N. B. Chenault, L. H. Cullum, E. P. Pass, B. J. Shaw, S. L. McDowell, A. R. Dillard, W. B. Pyron, Dr. G. H. Hampshire, Dr. C. R. Hartsook, John C. Kay, W. B. Chauncery, C. I. Francis, C. C. McDonald, A. E. Myles.

NEGRO HELD ON CHARGE OF MURDER

After George Bradshaw, negro, had waived a preliminary hearing on a murder charge, Saturday morning, Justice of the Peace Gwinn remanded him to jail without bond to await the action of the grand jury now in session.

Bradshaw was arrested Thursday night by police officers following the killing of his brother-in-law, A. B. Belton, living in a servant house at 1824 Elizabeth street. Bradshaw is alleged to have shot and killed Belton following a quarrel over the possession of a hat.

ARCHER CITY FIVE BEATS BYERS 24-7

The rugged Archer City high school collection of basket ringers scored a clean, decisive victory over the Byers high school five on the outdoor court of the local high school yesterday noon, the final score reading 24 to 7. A stiff wind blowing across the court made the play difficult, but both teams put up a clean, hard game.

The first half ended with the City boys leading by the lopsided count of 18 to 2. The Byers quintet came back strong in the second half, however, and succeeded in holding their heavier, taller opponents practically even.

Moonshine Does For Gasoline But "Spoils" Flivver

(By International News Service)

MOUNTAIN HOME, Ark., Jan. 14.—One of those popular "rattlers" will run on the stuff, don't ever doubt it, and if you run out of gas and can't find a kerosene tank handy sit down by a tree and howl like a dog, or give three knocks on the smokehouse door, and you'll get in.

Bill Kelsey, who was making an overland tour through the Ozarks, drove into this place with an odor coming from his exhaust pipe that made a lot of people thirsty. He ran out of gas in the mountains and had to fill his tank with moonshine. Attention was attracted to the flivver on account of its actions. It had a musical note in its cough and was doing the highland fling. After it had been filled with gas it had to be coaxed before it would run.

When Oliver Cromwell and the Puritans ruled England a law was passed which stated that Christmas day was a heathen festival, and insisted that no rejoicing might legally take place upon it.

THEM WAS THE GOOD OLE DAYS, SAYS GILMORE

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—In these days of pugilistic values with boxers demanding sums reaching into the thousands for short contracts, Harry Gilmore, a veteran championship contender, today turned back the pages of history 35 years in recollection of his championship battle with Jack McAuliffe for which he received $195.

Thirty-five years ago tonight McAuliffe, then the lightweight champion, defended his title against Gilmore oin one of the most desperate battles in ring history. The contest was fought in the loft of a building in Lawrence, Mass. The Salvation Army wah holding a meeting on the floor below at the same time. After 28 rounds of furious fighting with skin-tight driving gloves Gilmore's backer conceded the victory to McAuliffe because the challenger was bruised and battered so badly.

Today in celebration of the event Gilmore, now 68 years old and in the best of health, showed some of the present day boxers some of the tricks of the game by stepping four rounds at a local gymnasium.

McAuliffe, like Gilmore, is in excellent health. He is in England now in search of a heavyweight to bring back to America.

SHE WANTED TO GROW HER RHUBARB PIES

(By International News Service)

LEGRANGE, Ohio, Jan. 14.—Extra! Help!

A young bride from Cleveland inquired about pie plants while visiting her aunt here.

"We like pies. I'd like to see what kind of pies grow. If we like them we will want some of the pie plants in the spring," the bride from the nation's "fifth city" told her aunt.

TOE DANCING ON CLOUDS IS PAT'S ONLY WEAKNESS

Pat Murphey who tdied to knock the roof off the Kemp hotel in a wild aeroplane rush on the occasion of the street fair held here a couple of months ago, is going to give an exhibition of high, wide and handsome death-defying "ship" stunts at Call Field this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

This Pat Murphey bird is one of the original eight flyers in this country who started some time back indulging themselves in the pleasant aeroplane practice of "wing-walking." Of the eight, he and Ed Lirette, of Dallas, are still living. Let us change the subject.

Pat also claims to be the only airman today who will stand on the upper wing of a ship while it goes into a tail spin. This stunt, however, is very safe; about as safe as standing behind an army mule and prodding him with a jacknife.

If Pat Murphy pulls all these gentle tricks this afternoon, why tonight Ed Lirette, of Dallas, may be in a class by himself—you can't tell.

JACK DEMPSEY'S WORRIES

By "NICK" CARTER

This life is a tangle of toiling
Of danger, of sorrow and sin,
And few of us guys who pretend to be wise
Know half the troubles we're in.

I am moved by this sober reflection
To consider the heavyweight mess,
And to ponder Jack Dempsey's dilemma
And his manager's cruel distress.

Why, morning and night they just hound him,
Those great, big powerful men,
Just yearning to pummel and pound him,
And to steal both his title and yen.

Bloodthirsty? It's awful, I tell you,
The way they are screaming for gore;
They beat one another to powder,
Then sign up to do it once more.

Fred Fulton says: "I'LL fight this Dempsey."
Then his backers he just has to sadden
By barely escaping a knockout
At the hands of the wreck, Bartley Madden.

Levinsky? He laughs at Jack Dempsey:
"Jack Dempsey a fighter? Thant's funny!"
Then Battling L. from the very first bell
Is whipped by the youngster, Gene Tunney.

Tom Gibbons is anxious to fight him;
For Dempsey he's simply a-thirst,
But on second revision he makes the decision
Then suddenly takes it all back!

Oh, they all are quite crazy to battle,
Just aching to battle with Jack.
Why, they say so in violent language—
Then suddenly take it all back!

'Tis a terrible life for the champion,
This hounding from pillar to post;
Nightly, it seems, he's fighting (In dreams!)
And each night he is knocked out (Almost!)

WISDOM and WORSE

By C. F. C.

Beyond doubt the University club quintet will be a hard gang to stop in this race for city basketball honors. The "ex-studes" made a brilliant start in their opening game against the Texhoma five, and while their team play was ragged the individual brilliancy of several of their players made up for the lack of united action.

On paper and on a basis of games thus far played, the University club, the High school and the Knights of Columbus appear to be the strongest teams in the loop—but anything can happen between now and the close of the season. Several teams will be strengthened before next Friday, after which date every club in the league will have to reduce to eight men.

Although the Texhomas took a handsome drubbing from the University club, one thing should be said for the Texhoma outfit—they're a good bunch of clean sports. They were the first outfit to enter the league, and they went into it with enthusiasm and willingness. W. B. Hamilton has always supported the athletic interests of his men loyally, and the Texhoma record on the baseball diamond and the basketball court has been a credit to the employes of that company.

And after all is said and done, the City Basketball league was formed for the primary purpose of providing opportunity for workers in this city to play basketball; to enjoy the thrill of athletic contact again and the physical benefits therefrom—and in the desire to put winning teams in the field, the players should not lose sight of that purpose.

Floyd Brooks, captain of last season's city championship team of Methodist ball tossers, is standing in the middle of the street surrounded by heavy traffic and uncertain which way to jump. Floyd has received half a dozen offers to play with fast semi-pro nines this coming summer, and has also been offered a try-out with the Stamford club of the West Texas league—but he can't make up his mind on which of the many dotted lines to sign. In addition to these outside offers, Gene Leipold wants Brooks to manage an independent city team here next summer and to book games with teams in other sections of the state.

I'll say this for Floyd Brooks. He's young; he's strong; he's a natural ball player, with a fine pair of hands and a good eye. He played all over the diamond for the North Methodists, tackling almost every berth in the infield, including backstopping, and he played every position well. He is a fast and dangerous man on the bases, and he swings a wicked bat. Floyd is the only amateur who ever parked one at the local Texas league park, smacking the apple over the left field fence last fall in the final game of the city championship series against the University club nine. I don't know how much these various semi-pro nine teams are offering Floyd, but the local boy is fast enough to earn pretty good money with the best of 'em.

Henry W. Locke, special agent of the Katy, is a great student of indoor sports—and I also judge an admirer of old Omar. Seated at his desk yesterday, he dreamily indited the following "gem of purest my serene."

"Jars are made of clay, I think;
Wine, I know, was made to drink.
When I die—the day be far—
Let the Potter mould a jar
Of this poor, poor clay of mine,
And let the jar be filled with wine;
And God forbid—should it fall to you—
That it be filled with any home brew!"

There speaks a man with a true love for his fellows! Stay in there and pitch, Henry!

Get out the old blue pencil and draw a line through the name of Fred Fulton, Minnesota pug. Check him off the list of heavyweight championship possibilities. If the best he can get against a tramp like Bartley Madden is a draw, he'll never never, NEVER wear the crown. Fred, I doubt not thou art a fine plasterer.

Archer City has a basketball team that is aching to take a fling at the Gaines Motor company five of the City league, according to word I received yesterday from Brother Wilson of the Archer City high school. Don't know just why they want to pick on the Gaines quintet, but I reckon Milt and Sid will be glad to oblige at the first opportunity.

At the moment of going to press, I know not what the Texas league moguls did yesterday at the Houston meeting—but I'll wager they were far more interested in the Hassell-Patterson-Morris-Sablosky rumpus than in the details of drafting a 1922 schedule. That row in Dallas is beginning to assume alarming proportions to the seven other clubs, whose owners can see a world of trouble ahead if it is not satisfactorily adjusted in the near future. It is not beyond the bounds of possibility that if the case is not settled in court or out before the opening day of the season Ham Patterson and Joss Hassell might obtain an injunction that would keep the Marines out of the league temporarily—or at least prevent them from playing in Dallas as a Texas league club.

Bert Adrian, local contractor and an old-time ball player, also has more than a passing interest in the Dallas dispute. Bert has hopes of landing a fat little piece of work on the new ball park. Walter Morris and Ike Sablosky are dreamily contemplating in Dallas—but Bert shrewdly holds to the opinion that perhaps Walter and Ike are merely putting up a good, stiff bluff in order to get the use of the old park from Joe Gardiner, who is stringing along with the Patterson-Hassell faction.

Who says business is dull? Without any assistance from the chamber of commerce, and refusing offers of millions of dollars as backing, a new business will open its doors to the public of our fair city tomorrow morning. Claud Mann, better known to the baseball fans and players as "Shorty," the terrible mixer of cokes, will open up a cigar stand and soft drinkery on his own hook at 615 Ohio avenue. Shorty used to work for Carl Stoecker, but now he says he's going to be a reglar gosh-durn head of an industry. Hey Shorty, see what the boys in the back room will have!

MUNGER WINS IN LAND SUIT

After deliberating since late Friday a jury in the 78th district court Saturday afternoon returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff in the case of H. M. Munger against G. W. Bronson for damages in connection with the lease rights of a 40-acre tract located in block 25 of the J. A. Kemp Wichita Valley farm lands. The jury awarded the plaintiff $250 damages; $1,000 damages were asked.

The suit grew out of a lease contract for the 40 acres which the plaintiff alleged he had leased from the defendant. According to the plaintiff's petition, he was ejected from the property before his lease had expired.

PROPHECY OF OLD PROPHET WAS PHLIVER

Arkansas Mountaineers, Clad in Guest Room Bed Sheets, Waited Vainly for Trumpet Toots.

(By International News Service)

HUNTSVILLE, Ark., Jan. 14.—Boy, page old man Gabriel, and tell him he forgot to toot his big horn on December 25th.

Joseph Childress, of Hartwell, his family and a few ardent followers are sore at the world. They were all prepared for the end of the world on Christmas Day and stood, donned in white flowing robes, awaiting the final blast of the proverbial horn which would mark the end of time.

Childres had been preaching to a number of followers in the mountains that the world would cease to function, and he selected December 25, 1921, as the date for this said event. He declared that poisonous gas would fill the air in the larger cities of the world, and within a short time it would envelope the entire universe and leave no vestige of human life.

As the "great day" approached the little group of worshippers gathered together and awaited the hour set. Just a few moments before the time arrived a noise was heard in the valley below, and the gathering was joyous, believing they were right. The noise proved to be some mountaineers who had consumed just a little too much Arkansas moonshine, which has practically the same effect as TNT.

After the hour had passed and the sun came out from behind a cluster of clouds, Childers soon found himself the only one left his followers having returned home to cook their Christmas dinners.

VETERAN JAIL BIRD RETURNED TO HIS ROOST

(By International News Service)

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va., Jan. 14.—When a man breaks out of jail it is usually with the intention of staying away from it, but the rule does not apply to Strotcher Colley, of this county, who escaped from the Mason county jail here two months ago. He was sentenced to a four months' term for sending a threatening letter through the mails.

The other night Sheriff John F. Lewis was aroused from his bed by the ringing of the jail doorbell. He responded and was surprised to find Colley standing there. Colley said he had come back to eat. He had wandered over several states since leaving the jail, had been unable to obtain "three squares" a day. Colley had three months of his sentence to serve, and he figured it was easier to eat by staying in jail than roaming the country.

The friendly atmosphere of the City National Bank of Commerce is as much appreciated by its patrons as is the unquestioned protection it provides for their money. U. S. Government supervision, a strong Directorate, and Federal Reserve Membership are among the factors that assure the safety of every penny entrusted to the bank.—Adv.

This is the World's Greatest Spender Enjoying Her Millions

Mrs. Smith-Wilkinson, England's "Queen of Sheba," Having Amazed London by Insuring a Ball Gown for $5,000,000, for a Single Evening, Now Feels She Is All Primed to Flabbergast America.

The $5,000,000 Insured Ensemble of Mrs. Edward Henry Smith-Wilkinson. "Rings on Her Fingers"—Rubies, Diamonds, Pearls!—75,000 of Them! Posed in the Prince of Wales Box, Which She Hired and Decorated for the Victory Ball.

In Her Latest Aviation Costume.

The Butterfly Gown of Silver and Jet That Astounded Parisians.

This Ermine Cloak Cost Just $100,000. She Says It Is Well Worth It.

"Ropes of Pearls Around Her Neck and a Jewel Casket Overflowing. Sumptuous Furs Carelessly Draped!"

ALONG comes Mrs. Edward Henry Smith-Wilkinson, the world's greatest spender, and insures—owners of evening gowns please take notice—one of the costumes she has in her wardrobe for the tidy sum of $5,000,000! She wore this creation at the recent Victory Ball at London. Those who inhabit the United States of America had better get their blinders out, for she's soon to arrive here and intends to display a more elaborate one to the eyes of those who are fortunate enough to edge within field-glass distance of this woman whose lavish expenditure of money excels anything history, profane and ecclesiastical, ever recorded. This amazing costume was of gold thread, embroidered in pearls and diamonds. Her headdress was a cap of diamonds made in lattice-work fashion. Pearls as big as hickory-nuts and diamonds as large as English walnuts—75,000 of 'em—studded the crown she wore.

It gives one pause to think of it. One can understand, on close observation, why Mlle. Bourgeois Mestinguett, famous Parisian dancer, was wholly justified in insuring her shapely legs for $50,000. It is obvious why Ignace Paderewski, before he quit the piano bench for the premier's chair, put even a greater value on his sensitive fingers. By the same token one comprehends the good business sense of Mischa Elman when he fortified his future against an accident to the hands and arms that guide his magic bow across the catgut.

But $5,000,000 insurance for an evening gown worn once only and then thrown on the ash heap!

Money weighs heavily on Mrs. Smith-Wilkinson. She has a trifling $40,000,000 annual income which her first husband founded through prohibition rest cure hotels in England. Just to show how anxious she is to spend it she entertained her native town of Nottingham, England, a few weeks ago, by wearing 100 gowns, 176 hats, 135 coats and 30 pairs of shoes during a seven-day week, incidentally spending $1,000,000 of that $40,000,000 on "odds and ends." Yes, Mrs. Smith-Wilkinson has proved the Queen of Sheba to be a piker and Croesus a mere tinhorn sport. So now she is coming to the U. S. A. bent sure enough on making Diamond Jim Brady turn over in his grave, not to speak of matching stone for stone with real pearls and diamonds, the synthetic display of our famous actresses, such as Theda Bara, even in the scintillating spectacle, "The Queen of Sheba," where she wore little aught else than dazzling "joo-els."

But Mrs. Smith-Wilkinson asks her critics to have a thought for her history which, briefly told, is this:

She was married originally to a man named Dunk, who started business by establishing a hotel which offered an austere contrast to all other British "pubs" in that it had no tap-room and served no spirituous, vinous or malt liquors. No hale or hearty Englishmen could be found to patronize such a place as this, however, so the resourceful Mr. Dunk tried another tack. He advertised his hotel as a rest sanatorium. Patronage picked up immediately. He established another and another, until finally he had a string of forty or more extending throughout England.

When Mr. Dunk died he left his widow something like $10,000,000 and a good deal of financial wisdom. She acquired another husband later on, but kept adding to her money. Then the war came and she turned her capital over so rapidly that a special corps of bankers was needed to keep her accounts straight. In the course of time her second husband died and Mr. Smith-Wilkinson married her.

One day she took stock and found that her yearly income was something like $40,000,000 and that she was 53 years old. She thereupon decided that if she was going to prevent her wealth from rolling up into meaningless abundance she would have to make an extraordinary effort to get rid of it. A Paris trip and a fifteen million-dollar spending orgy was the result of this decision.

Since her Paris experience Mrs. Smith-Wilkinson has become imbued with a motive other than the mere desire to have a good time. She feels that she would like to die poor. This means that she must bestir herself more than she at first planned to do. And as America has always been advertised as a locality which promotes profligate expenditures, she determined to come to the States and set a new high mark for future spenders.

Thus far Mrs. Smith-Wilkinson has acted astonishingly like a typical woman. Instead of endowing some money-absorbing enterprise like a circus, a newspaper or a symphony orchestra, she has put her millions in dress and ornamentation. With the exception of the prices she pays for each article and the number she buys—she acts much like a farmer's wife on a holiday.

Her wardrobe at the last counting consisted of 175 gowns, 240 coats, 300 hats, 36 pairs of shoes, 180 blouses, 123 skirts, 77 silk and wool sweaters, 46 knitted suits, 20 golf suits, 29 riding suits, 44 bathing suits, 15 hunting jackets, 12 pairs of tweed trousers, 350 pairs of gloves, 160 brassieres, 423 camisoles, 400 pairs of silk knickers, 340 silk undershirts, 700 pairs of stockings, 260 pairs of garters, 150 nightgowns, 125 negligees, 46 bathrobes, 125 petticoats, 24 pairs of boudoir slippers, 30 boudoir caps, 44 breakfast coats, 36 scarfs, 27 Spanish shawls, 59 fans, 60 parasols, 7 flying costumes.

No estimate of her jewels has been made public. It is known, however, that she spent as much as $5,000,000 for pearls in one afternoon while shopping in Paris. In spite of these lavish prices Mrs. Smith-Wilkinson doesn't possess any celebrated collection of pearls or any world-famous gems of any kind. Neither has she amassed any treasures of art, though she has hinted that she will get around to art one day, when she has nothing else to do, and buy out a whole gallery.

Mrs. Smith-Wilkinson resents insinuations that she is squandering her money in a foolish manner. She says: "I am helping trade and giving employment to lots of women by buying so many hats and coats and gowns. It keeps money in circulation. Isn't that better than to hoard it?"

In doing this step you make a half turn. To finish the turn and face the same way you started, repeat the above step of eight counts.

The lady does the counterpart. When the man begins with his left foot, the lady begins with her right. If the man walks forward, she walks backward. But in turning, the lady always turns to move in the same direction as the man. They both turn to the right of the line of direction in which they are going or they both turn to the left. The lady's part is usually described in opposite language to the directions for the man, except when turning. You can readily understand that it would be impossible for the man to turn one way and for the lady to turn another way. Both must turn in the same direction.

The Most Distinctive Feature of the "Conversation Walk" (Above) Is the Very Long Step. The Photograph Shows the Preliminary Phase of the "To the Rear" Turn. From This Position Turn to the Left (About Face) on the Balls of Both Feet Without Lifting the Feet from the Floor.

By Arthur Murray

OUT of the half-dozen twists and glides that have flowered on the hardwood floors of America this season, two are conspicuously popular. They are the Conversation Walk and its elaborated and somewhat vulgarized companion, the Scandal Walk.

Orthodox teachers of dancing are backing the Conversation Walk. It is a proper dance, they say, and a simple, beautiful dance as well. Conservative dancers also prefer its well-contained and modest postures. But the craving for sensation makes the Scandal Walk a bit too tame for rakish dancers. They want something with a "kick" to it. They want something that seems a more fitting embodiment of those syncopated rhythms that daring jazz bands are making popular.

So they take the Conversation Walk as a basis, add an extreme touch in the way of a long walking step and a motion of the head in the direction that the step is taken and call it the Scandal Walk. The mechanism of the Scandal is the same as that of the Conversation. Any one who can do the Conversation can do the Scandal—if he wants to.

Like most of the dances which have the American hall-mark on them, the Conversation was originated by college students. The reason why college students usually originate new steps is not difficult to find. They do more dancing than any other section of society and they pay more attention to making their dancing finished and graceful. It is a part of their equipment to dance well.

But innovations among college students are not always contained within the limits of good taste and beauty. Out of a sense of the comic and for lack of taste, they often start steps that are nothing but ridiculous contortions.

There has been a disposition among dancing professors to take away from college men the credit of originating the Conversation. But regardless of how it originated, it has received the sanction of the national organization of teachers. The origin of the name is also in doubt. The name, however, should not be considered seriously, for while it is entirely possible for dancers to converse while doing this step—conversation is not essential. And whether they talk or not, they will certainly walk.

The aim and end of this dance is the same as of any other. It is the creation of certain pleasurable emotions by means of rhythmic exercise of the body. It is not designed to promote conversation any more than the waltz, the two-step, the one-step or the fox trot. In fact, I might say in passing, that conversation more often than not detracts from any dance. One is supposed to dance in time—and it is not often possible for a person to dance purely by reflex action of the mind. He has to think about what he is doing. When he introduces a contrary and broken rhythm by starting a conversation, he tears the co-ordination of mind and body to pieces and makes his dancing jerky. If he really wants to do the thing right, he should learn to converse in the same rhythm as that of the dance.

The Conversation, as I said, is recommended by dancing teachers as a simply learned, beautiful, rhythmic step. The Scandal can easily be made into a horror. There will be many who will dance it, no doubt, but before the critics of modern dancing become too highly inflamed by the crude and vulgar, they should really try to find out what the majority of the dancers are doing.

Music can have a soothing influence and bring out the finest qualities, or it may have just the opposite effect. Raucous sounding jazz will bring out every atom of commonness in a person. If you would see how low one can be, let him dance for a few hours to noisy, barbaric jazz.

A great deal of unbecoming dancing today is due to the fact that in a crowded ballroom there are always a few who, for lack of better taste, feel compelled to show their savage instincts. Occasionally, however, indelicate movements are due to an insufficient knowledge of dancing. Whatever the cause, there are always a number who give unsightly exhibitions in the ballroom, with the result that dancing, old as history, becomes the target for frequent attacks.

For instance, when we see a woman make her long-suffering husband dance with the professional wallflower and then we see him "plowing" over the dance floor in the most agonizing manner, both looking like chief mourners, can we call it dancing? But when two good dancers execute the new dances properly, gracefully and without affectation, do we not find pleasure in watching the?

MAGNOLIA WELL IS WICHITA COUNTY'S WEEK'S SENSATION

The Magnolia Petroleum company's No. 1 Duke, east of Electra and just north of Fowlke Station, was Wichita county's sensation this past week.

Drilled a few feet into an oil sand at 1,591 feet, the well showed up during the first 36 hours for a good Electra sand well, with the more optimistic who watched it hopeful of a much better production than the 300 barrels put into the tanks during the first 24 hours, when the well has been cleaned out and drilled in. The well was put down with a star machine.

The nearest production in the 1,600-foot sand is between four and five miles away, on the Bywater lease to the northwest and the properties on the south, where the Gladiolus, Planet, Griswold and other companies have recently met with much success in their development of the 1,600-foot sand. There have been some dry holes drilled between this new well and the Electra pools, but to the east, the north and the southeast there is sufficient untested territory to give room for another nice pool.

Trading was exceptionally brisk in leases located close up to the well, immediately after the sand was drilled, and there is every indication that this section will see much immediate activity. The Mona Marie Trust company let contracts Thursday for three wells on the east of the new well. One of these will be put down to the 1,600-foot sand and the other two drilled to the 900-foot sand, where the Mona Marie has had two producers for several months. There is other shallow production around the Duke, and it is understood that there will be considerable deepening of these shallow producers in the near future.

In the South Electra pool activity was about up to normal this past week. The water shortage was not relieved by the rain of the past week, which though scant, was a great help to agriculture.

The Bryan Oil corporation's No. 6 Burnett, in the 1,600-foot sand, reported on completion the middle of the week, estimated at 300 barrels. The No. 1 same lease, drilled deeper to the 1,800-foot sand, was reported preparing to complete, and the No. 4, also drilled deeper from a shallow producer, is now on the 1,600-foot sand.

New locations are reported on the Gladiolus and Planet leases on the Burnett.

To the west of the pool on the W. T. Waggoner the Petroleum Producers' company is putting down a new test. The Griswold wildcat is reported drilling below 1,500 feet. Stone, Cullum and others are putting down a test on the west, on the H. & T. C.

Other new tests reported during the week included the No. 2 W. T. Waggoner of C. F. Spencer and the No. 1 S. B. Burnett of Carter & Hill.

To the west of Fowlkes Station the Hobbs Oil company's No. 1 Douglas is reported still working to complete in the 1,800-foot sand.

South Burkburnett.

Two new producers are reported in the South Burkburnett-Texhoma pool. The No. 10 M., K. & T. right of way of the Wessun Oil company is reported a 75-barrel producer, in the 1,600-foot sand.

In the south part of the pool, 1,000-foot sand, the Lewis Oil Corporation's No. 8 Dodson is reported a 50-barrel well.

On account of the water shortage there is very little new work under way in the South Burkburnett pool.

New Texhoma-Archer Well.

The Texhoma Oil and Refining company has just completed it's No. 12 Gose, a couple of locations east of the discovery well of the pool. The new well is reported a 75-barrel producer. No. 13 will start drilling some time this coming week, it's location being 450 feet east of the No. 12. No. 14 is another new location, offsetting one of the inside producers.

The Riner & Bailey's No. 1 Netherton, south of the producing area, was abandoned the latter part of the week, failing to make a producer in the sand drilled at 1,600 feet. This latter test was a short distance from the test drilled during the early days of the pool's development by Shaw and others, on the Netherton, which also failed to make a producer on account of water trouble.

Northwest in Northwest.

Three new wells are reported from the Burkburnett Northwest, all of them small wells. The Bryan Oil corporation's No. 6 Hobbs-Taylor is reported good for 50 barrels. The Contractors' No. 6 Vogel is reported a 30-barrel producer, and the No. 1 Wagner of Barkley & Patton is reported a 50-barrel producer.

STANDARD OIL BUYS 30,000 TONS OF TIN

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—The Standard Oil company of New Jersey has contracted for 750,000 boxes of tin plate, or more than 30,000 tons, covering its requirements for the first nine months of 1922. The Texas company is reported to have contracted for 30,000 boxes. These are the largest individual orders placed in this country in many months. Tin plate is quoted at $4.75, so the Standard order represents more than $3,500,000, but it is said that prices were shaded below the market.

The United States Steel corporation will supply 80 per cent of the order. The American Sheet and Tin Plate company will get the order for the Standard's domestic needs, and the United States Steel Products company will supply the foreign demand. The greater part of the remainder of the order goes to the Weirton Steel company of Weirton, W. Va.

American manufacturers got the contract in face of international competition. The plate is to be made into oil containers. Welsh tin plate makers were among the bidders. It was said that if the Standard had placed the order in Wales it would have been entitled to a drawback on petroleum exported in the containers. But despite the drawback, which is equivalent to the import duty on the tin plate in this country, the price of the Welsh manufacturers was above that of the Steel corporation.

The plate ordered for the Standard will be used at the Bayonne plant. That of the Texas company will be used at the Port Arthur plant.

SUN COMPANY GETS BUNGER'S TWO COMPLETIONS DURING WEEK; ROSSELL AND WILKINS MAKE OIL

The Sun company furnished the only completions recorded for this week in the Bunger pool, both being better than average producers, from the 1,900-foot sand. The No. 2 Driver is reported a 400-barrel well and the No. 3 a 500-barrel producer.

There have been no new developments from the 2,600-foot well on the Lynn of the Rossell, nor the 3,500-foot Wilkins well on the Grimshaw, both continuing to make some oil. The Wilkins is reported still cleaning out the bridge caused by the shot.

Several completions are forecast for next week, barring accidents, the drilling review showing a number of wells nearing the 1900-foot sand depth.

The Texas company's No. 1 Stoffer is reported drilling below 1,900 feet and the No. 2 Bunger is drilling below 1,700 feet. The No. 1 Bunger of this company is down around 1,500 feet.

ONE DAY POULTRY SCHOOLS.

To the Record News:

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., Jan. 12.—Towns along the Denver road are bidding for big crowds on the day of their one day poultry schools. Bowie has offered forty different prizes, ranging from an auto casing to a pound of coffee. One of the banks offer $10 in gold to the largest family coming to town on the day of the poultry school. Prizes are also offered for the one coming the greatest distance. Hats, shoes and other merchandise are offered as prizes by many business firms in order to attract people from all parts of the country.

Dr. H. J. Farris of Henrietta, who is chairman of the publicity committee, is conducting a vigorous advertising campaign throughout the county and told the agricultural agent of the Denver road yesterday that they are expecting two thousand people to attend the speaking and to see the poultry special. Some of the country schools will be dismissed on this day.

The poultry special car was sent to College Station on January the 8th so that a full week would be available for preparing and placing the exhibit on the car. J. B. Lamson, agricultural agent of the Burlington Lines, went to College Station January the 11th to assist in preparing the exhibit car.

At all places the poultry specialists of the A. & M. College Extension Service will make talks in the forenoon. Premiums will be awarded at this morning meeting for the best dozen eggs brought in that day. Each town is offering three prizes for the best dozen eggs. The poultry specialists will do the judging. This feature of the poultry school is arousing much interest and will attract a great many people to the morning meeting.

The poultry special exhibit car will be open in the afternoons only. This arrangement is necessary in order that the poultry specialists of the A. & M. College Extension Service can be at the car to answer poultry questions and show the crowds through the car.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Yesterday's declines were followed by rallies in the market for coffee futures here today owing to higher Brazilian cables and covering for over the week-end. May contracts sold at 8.37 and September at 8.30 with the market closing at a net advance of 8 to 10 points. Sales were estimated at about 17,000 bags. Closing quotations January 8.39; March 8.48; May 8.36; July and September 8.30; October 8.29; December 8.27. Spot coffee dull and unchanged. Rio 7s 9@9 1-8; Santos 4s 12@12 1-4.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Cotton goods were firmer today under moderate demand. Yarns were quiet and steady. Cable advices said shipments of Calcutta burlap to the United States in December were 53,300,000 bales. Silks and linens were quiet.

Guy Oyster, Samuel Gompers' brilliant secretary was talking to a Washington reporter about a strike. "The employers take the usual stand," he said. "And the usual stand of the employer reminds me of the farmer who never rose till 9 o'clock in the morning, always saying to his wife when the alarm clock struck 4, 'You get up and milk and feed the stock and do the chores, my dear, while I lie here and think out a day's work.'"

Stocks

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Trading in the two-hour session of today's stock market was more active and embraced a greater variety of issues than at any full period of the week. Gains of 1 to 3 points were made by numerous issues comprising the leading industrials and specialties but advances among rails were confined to a few trans-continentals, grangers and cotton carriers.

From surface indications much of the large turnover represented short covering, but observers noted substantial buying of motors and accessories as well as metals, oils, chemicals and specialties. Among the latter were coca cola and Wilson & company. Sales amounted to 450,000 shares.

Business in bonds was in keeping with the extensive market for shares but the trend in that quarter was mixed. Liberty 3 1-2s for example were under further realizing, closing at a loss of 70 cents per $100. Rails and internationals were steadier and miscellaneous industrials also hardened. Total sales, par value, aggregated $15,750,000.

The better tone extended to foreign exchanges, sterling demand bills rising to the week's highest quotation. Continental remittances were firm, the Italian rate being in no degree affected by cables, announcing suspension of a bank in Palermo.

A loss of about $40,600,000 in the actual cash account was the only usual item disclosed by the weekly clearing house statement, reducing excess reserves to little more than $16,000,000.

Mercantile trade reviews were favorable, wholesale dry goods and similar merchandise showing greater distribution than during the same period of last year. Mail order houses also reported an expansion of business and better collections.

Cotton

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—The cotton market was quiet today and business seemed largely confined to evening up of commitments for over the week-end. A more optimistic view of European political conditions was reflected in an early advance but after selling at 18.04, March eased off to 17.90 under scattering liquidation. It closed at that level, with the general market closing steady net 1 point lower to 5 points higher.

The opening was steady at an advance of 6 to 16 points on the better view of conditions abroad, and the census report showing a larger domestic consumption for December than anticipated. There was also some buying on London advices reporting a generally optimistic feeling in the Lancashire cotton goods trade, with predictions of a complete revival within a few months. Week-end reviews of the domestic cotton goods situation, showed no improvement, however, and after initial buying orders had been supplied, the market became very quiet with prices easing off from the best under realizing or scattered southern selling.

According to the census report domestic consumption last month amounted to 118,000 against 295,292 last year, but this showing was offset to some extent by the increase in mill stocks which were placed at 1,737,771 bales on December 31, compared with 1,251,122 last year.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 14.—Although mill figures were considered bullish the cotton market today felt only moderate buying at any time and there were periods when the demand was well supplied. Around the opening prices were 12 points up after there was a sag to levels 3 points under 2 points over the close of yesterday, March first rising to 16.90 and the falling back to 16.87. In the late trading July made some display of strength, rising 12 points over yesterday's close to 16.66, but other months did not follow. Last prices were net unchanged to 5 points up with March at 16.92 and July at 16.53.

American consumption during December of 511,800 bales according to the report by the census bureau, which was issued on the opening, was larger than expected as private estimates were around 457,000 bales. The continued increase inactive spindles was regarded as being highly favorable, but after the first effort of the report wore off more or less selling came on the market from traders who did not like the increasing mill stocks, mills holding in their warehouses at the end of December 1,737,771 bales of cotton against 1,648,216 at the end of November. The selling movement was not pronounced, however, as many traders argued that if mills were accumulating stocks it meant a continued large consumption.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Scattered liquidation on the lower trend in lard and grains carried cottonseed oil off several points but covering by local and western shorts checked the decline and final prices were unchanged on January and 5 to 8points lower on other positions. Sales 8,400 barrels. Prime crude 7.00@7.15; prime summer yellow spot 8.35; March 8.65; May 8.68 and July 9.13, all bid.

Grain

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—Local shorts, driven to cover caused a sharp rally in the last fifteen minutes of today's wheat market on the Chicago board of trade and pulled prices back to about where a weak market started from. Other grains were unusually dull and provisions were weak. Final prices were 3-8 lower to 1-8 higher in wheat, 3-8 lower in corn, fractionally lower in oats and 1 to 30 points off in provisions.

Wheat was in the doldrums throughout most of the session. Lower prices at Buenos Aires and Liverpool caused some selling at the start and with support lacking the market sagged readily. Transactions were neither numerous nor extensive however, and the decline checked on scattered buying, at around 1.10 3-4 for May.

Corn and oats were extremely dull and changes were inconsequential. There was some local selling of corn.

HIGH COTTON GOODS PRICES ARE MODIFIED

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—A price circular modifying many of the high prices reached in the standard cotton goods after the sharp cotton rise last fall, was sent out after the close of the market today to customers of a large manufacturing company of Manchester, N. H., as effective for fall of 1922, on dress ginghams, tickings, flannelettes and shirtings.

The new prices are lower by 4 cents a yard than some of the prices reached in the early fall and are generally lower by 1 1-2c a yard on many of the standard clothes.

Staple tickings are priced at 25c a yard, against 28 cents; utility dress ginghams is priced at 20 cents, against 24 1-2c; staple gingham 16 1-2c against 17 1-2c.

Cotton goods merchants in primary markets have maintained for some time that it would be impossible to secure higher prices in keeping with higher cotton.

"DRUNK AS A SAILOR" NOT APPLICABLE TO DRY NAVY

(By International News Service)

WICHITA FALLS WANTS A FAIR.

(George Robinson in Waco Times-Herald.)

A citizen of Fort Worth will tell you that Dallas belongs to East Texas, while Fort Worth belongs to West Texas, but that's merely a pleasantry; all of us are for grand old Texas.—Waco Times-Herald.

If Dallas is in East Texas, then Fort Worth is in East Texas. These cities are only thirty miles apart. Dallas has the greatest fair and exposition on the continent of North America. Fort Worth would like to create a great fair and exposition. This is the reason why a Fort Worth man tells you that Dallas is in East Texas. There should be a great fair and exposition and it should be created in West Texas. Why not Wichita Falls?—Wichita Falls Record-News.

We will have to leave that matter for Fort Worth and Wichita Falls to settle as best they can. We have here at Waco an exposition of international renown, the Texas Cotton Palace Exposition, and we shall hope to have you with us next November, Brother Hugh Nugent.

Gilbert Creek Oil Co.

Capital $9500—Units of Interest $10

—Holdings consists of 100 acres in R. E. Moore tract and Horn tract northeast old Texhoma field. We are two miles from the Texhoma Field. We are less than half a mile from shallow well brought in the 7th inst. on same land at 540 feet.

We are going to make a deep test for oil on the R. E. Moore land. We believe we have located another favorable spot for oil. Every oil man who has seen it pronounces it very favorable. We are on a structure. We have every indication possible for oil so far as surface indications go. Yes, there are some dry holes in that vicinity; there are dry holes all around the Magnolia's well brought in this week also. There were dry holes about Burk too before the Fowler came in; as well as the Northwest Field. One thing about our stuff, there are more than 2000 acres in this immediate vicinity never been tested; and the closest deep test made to the land we are to drill showed strong with gas and some oil.

No oil proposition ever offered to the small investors had the potential possibilitites as this. Capital only $9500, with 100 acres; and in the very vicinity of oil producing territory with shallow oil near us. We can say this: that every person who puts money into this deal will get every cent coming to him, and money invested with us, although it be small, carries with it a real interest on account of the small capital.

We hope to begin drilling immediately. We are not handicapped for water, as we have plenty accessible near by. You will get quick action. We will use every precaution to get the oil. Figure out and see if you can find a place to put a small investment that will have the chances for large returns this will have.

—Send check for what you can afford. Take one more chance. Any amount accepted from $10.00 up.

JURY NOT YET COMPLETED IN FATTY'S TRIAL

By Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 14.—Inability of opposing counsel to complete the jury today in the second manslaughter trial of Roscoe C. (Fatty) Arbuckle, led to the belief that the trial would not begin until Tuesday. Defense attorneys expressed the opinion that this trial would take at least as long as the first one, which occupied three weeks.

The jury box has been filled six times since the case was called last Wednesday, but the use of six peremptory challenges has lengthened the process of selection. Eleven temporary jurors were in the box at adjournment today and examination of a twelfth virtually was completed.

The crowds which waited in front of the hall of justice the first few days to see principals come and go are no longer to be seen. According to court attaches, the case is attracting less public interest than the ordinary criminal trial.

The only outstanding incident today was a request by the court to the jurors temporarily in the box and to the veniremen waiting examination, that if any one approached them "from either side" the court be notified at once.

WORKERS GET INSTRUCTIONS AT LUNCHEON

Final Details of Chamber of Commerce Membership Drive Explained at Wichita Club Saturday.

Final instructions to the workers teams which are to conduct the membership campaign of the local chamber of commerce Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week were given at a luncheon at the Wichita club Friday.

G. Clint Wood, general campaign chairman, who presided, told the workers that although the organization had an assured income as a result of the pledges made in the last campaign, which was for a three-year term, that the board of directors realized that conditions had changed in the past two years with the result that many of the old members were pledged for more than they should be assessed now, and many others for less, while many newcomers had not been enlisted in the organization at all. In the "new deal" Mr. Wood brought out, the fair share of every business man in the work of the chamber of commerce had been rated by a committee composed of bankers conversant with the affairs of all, and in a position to know what each should contribute as their share.

B. F. Johnson gave the instructions to the workers. In a detailed discussion of campaign methods to be employed, and methods to be employed in recording the progress made by each individual and each team, he made a number of suggestions drawn from experience with a great many of such campaigns during his chamber of commerce work, and as a director of campaigns here during the past few years.

Among other things Mr. Johnson warned his hearers that they would find here, as in every other place many who brought objections toward the chamber of commerce, often on grounds of personal likes and dislikes of members of the organization or of the various boards and committees.

These people should be shown, he said, that the chamber of commerce is the one organization in which the citizens of a place could unite for its development—first to make it a "live town" and one of constant growth, and second to keep it that way. That has been the history of the chamber of commerce in Wichita Falls he said. As for those who disagreed on personality or policy, he told the workers to tell them that by becoming members, and after becoming workers, it would be possible for them to give expression to their views and help to turn the organization in a direction more to their liking.

COUNTY ROAD QUESTION TO BE FEATURED

Farmers From South of Iowa Park to Ask Consideration in Further Paving Work Done.

Further evidence that county road matters would feature the meeting Monday of the county commissioners court was evidenced Saturday when it was learned that a delegation of farmers living in the south part of the county will attend, urging that a road south of Iowa Park be paved following the completion of the Burkburnett road. It was announced Friday following a meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce that a committee from that organization would appear before the meeting Monday urging the paving of the road from this city to the Clay county after the Burkburnett road had been completed.

Les Denny and John Pace, two land owners in the south part of the county were at the office of Judge J. P. Jones of the county court Monday and asked that the south part of the county be given consideration in the paving program after the completion of the Burkburnett highway. They said that property owners in that section of the county felt that they were getting no benefit from the $2,225,000 road bond issue. They said that their section of the county favored a concrete road south out of Iowa Park to the county line near the site of the diversion dam of the irrigation project. They with other farm owners will attend the meeting Monday.

If the recommendation of either committee is acted upon favorably by the court Monday it will necessitate a change in the present plans of the court which calls for a division of the road bond money between the Iowa Park, Burkburnett and Electra precincts after the Burkburnett concrete road is completed.

DAUGHTERS OF THE SOUTHLAND WILL BE BUSY

President of Texas Division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy Sends Greetings.

Lee Memorial Work Is Announced; Woodrow Wilson Foundation and That Which It Represents.

To The Record News:

WACO, Texas, Jan. 14.—I am sending a communication addressed to the members of the U. D. C., for which I hope you will find place. If occasionally during the year you could find time for an editorial on some phase of our work, we should be very grateful. Our work is chiefly for educational purposes now, and while some of the older ones still find comfort in stone and bronze, we of the younger generation feel that living memorials are best and strive to the uttermost to help the educational situation in Texas generally, and the descendants of Confederate soldiers in particular. We have been hampered in our work by lack of publicity, lack of funds and the feeling of young people, that we represent nothing but a dead issue. An occasional article from your brilliant and facile pen, would help us a great deal. Thanking you in behalf of the Texas division for any courtesy, I am, very sincerely,

DECCA LAMAR WEST,
President Texas Div. U. D. C.

Every chapter in the Texas division, U. D. C., receives this week a greeting from the state president, Miss Decca Lamar West, setting forth the plans of work for the coming year. In the work for education, scholarships, medals and prizes given in schools and colleges for essays, collections of historical data, form the chief work of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. The hero-fund of fifty thousand dollars, the interest of which is used for scholarships for ex-service men of the world war, who are descendants of confederate soldiers, was reported complete at the annual general convention in St. Louis. This shows the work for the boys of the American Legion, in the south at least, is to be continuous. Miss West stresses the work for January as "The Lee Memorial at Lexington, Va.," and urges an active individual participation in the "Woodrow Wilson Foundation," the drive for which begins January 16. She says in part:

Lee Memorial.

"Of the Lee Memorial, you will hear of special plans from both Mrs. Schuyler and the retiring president general, Mrs. McKinney, who is to assume the general directorship. Our state director will be announced soon, but as the birthday of General Lee is so near, we hope you will not wait for their appeal to start your work. Let every chapter redouble their usual efforts to make January nineteenth of 1922, a banner day in the brilliance of its celebration and in the collection for the Lee Memorial. Would it not be wonderful to have our pledges ready before they are called for, and why not? One of the plans suggested for last year, was to ask every church on the Sunday nearest General Lee's birthday, to have a sermon on his life and character and have the collection on that day go to this Lee Memorial. No higher example of Christian manhood has been proclaimed in history. Acknowledged by the world, one of the greatest military geniuses of all ages, conceded by all students of his life, to have been even greater in the hour of defeat and the civil life that followed war's devastation, he is indeed a subject worthy sermon, address or epic, to be classed with the world's great literature."

Woodrow Wilson Foundation.

Another message if coming to us in a few days, while not a part of our official work, must have a strong appeal to every son and daughter of the confederacy, and it is one to which, as individuals, we should strive to the uttermost, and as chapters, we may certainly contribute without doing violence to our constitution or the purpose for which we are organized. I refer to the drive to be inaugurated the sixteenth of this month, for the "Woodrow Wilson Foundation." We of course can have no committees for this cause but should respond to those organized for this purpose and we hope every chapter will report next fall that they had the honor of participating in this noble undertaking. Woodrow Wilson, represents to the world the ideals of self-determination or the rights of the small nation. The principles he advocated and for which he has almost sacrificed his life, are the same principles which animated the spirit of the confederacy, and when the heat of passion and injustice shall have passed away, Woodrow Wilson's name will be emblazoned with that of Jefferson Davis, two great men;; the two greatest Martyrs in American history.

Meeting of State Executive Board.

The executive board of the Texas division, U. D. C., is called to meet at the Adolphus hotel, Dallas, Texas, Tuesday, January 24, at ten o'clock a. m. Committee chairmen who have plans to submit for the board's approval, will kindly have matter in the hands of corresponding secretary by January 22. Address Mrs. J. F. Self, corresponding secretary, Texas division, U. D. C., 2218 Colb street, Dallas, Texas.

MAINTENANCE PATROL NOW ON HIGHWAYS

The maintenance patrol for the concrete roads of the county is now at work under the supervision of the county engineer's office. Three men with truck are working along the Wichita Falls-Iowa Park road fixing the shoulders of the concrete pavement with stone.

Part of the equipment for the maintenance patrol has not as yet arrived. A machine to heat and pour tar at the joints is expected to arrive within a few days and a new truck will also be obtained from the state highway department.

GRAND JURY RECESSES; NO REPORT

After being in session two weeks the grand jury of the 30th district court Saturday failed to make a partial report as had been expected. Although no definite announcement was made, information from officials working with the grand jury indicated that as yet it was not known when it would complete its work.

Matters outside the general routine of criminal cases is said to be responsible for the long session of the grand jury.

GEORGE SPEAKS IN DEFENSE OF THE FLAPPERS

Flapping Is Not a Matter of Age; Some Are Born as Flappers; Some Have in Them No Flap at All.

A True Flapper Begins Before She Leaves School; Then She Marries and Flaps Only in the Home.

W. L. George, noted English novelist, comes to the defense of the flapper. This keen analysis of feminine psychology presents the case of the ultra-modern girl who so often is condemned because, perhaps, it is almost as much of a sad to condemn her as it is to be a flapper.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—"It is one of the curiosities of life that the very young should prove irritating to the old. It is as if a wise parent were to look upon his child to see what he should avoid," says Mr. W. L. George.

"There is about the young a boldness, a loudness, which irritates those whose years aspire to quiet; they pronounce the words 'modern girl' with horror, the word 'flapper' with contempt. It seems a pity to me. I love the bright, laughing, high-heeled, low-bloused little animal some call a flapper. That nice child is the first proof of the future woman, and we have no right to complain if this earliest specimen appears rather heavily inked and smudgy at the edges.

Some Are Born Flappers.

"Besides, flapping is not a matter of age; some of us are born flappers; others at 16 have in them no flap at all. We all know flappers of 40, and we know them as little as we can, for it is sad when the hashed mutton of maturity garnishes itself with the frivolous parsley of youth.

"The true flapper begins before she leaves school. Eventually she marries and flaps only within the home—that is, if she is wise. Thus it is the unmarried flapper who interests us; she seems to have so good a time visiting in one day four restaurants, two theaters and three movies, attended always by an everchanging man. And yet—the world does cruel things to flappers!

"In Ursual Trent I drew the picture of a flapper. She liked pleasure and she liked men. Being poor, she could get only what men gave her. So men took. If Ursula had not been brave enough to bear all things, she would have been unfit to dare all things; she would not have survived a life of misery and toiling coming at last upon marriage and happiness, knowing herself and her own strength.

Suggests a Kindlier Attitude.

"That is perhaps the story of many of the flappers we laugh at. In many of them lies, tragedy, lovelines, poverty, unrealized ambition, despised love, inability to love. I suggest that a kindlier eye should be allowed to rest on the flapper as she struts along the Great White Way. Her hardness is often a defense; her shrill laughter holds a note of pain; her lust for pleasure is not only a healthy lust for life, but an attempt to crowd some emotion into an existence otherwise empty.

"Tears are always near this merriment. For the flapper is a woman able to suffer and to love. Why is she a flapper? Why does she remain a flapper? Because true love, real life, does not readily give her a chance to be a woman. It is not entirely her own fault."

Collection of Taxes Is Below Expectations

County, state and school tax collections for the week with a total of $64,293.34, fell below expectations of county officials. With only fourteen days left to pay the taxes, before becoming delinquent, there remains over $900,000 yet to be paid.

Although the tax collections were below expectations there were a large number of automobiles and trucks registered during the week. Saturday was the last day in which motor vehicles could be registered for the year and a constant line of motorists filled the office of the county tax collector throughout the day extending into the corridors part of the day. Several employes of the office spent the day registering the cars and it was estimated that over 8,000 cars have been registered. It is believed however that between 2,000 and 4,000 cars in the county are yet not registered.

A total of 876 poll tax receipts were issued to men and women in the county during the week. People generally are paying their poll taxes when they pay their other taxes and it is expected that the number of poll tax receipts issued will also show a large increase during the next two weeks. Less than 3,500 receipts have been issued in the county to date.

CEREMONIAL IN MAY PLANNED BY SHRINERS

Last Ceremonial Brings Membership to 1316, Secured in Little More Than a Year's Time.

Maskat Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., will hold a spring ceremonial on May 11, this date having been set by Potentate Walter D. Cline at the monthly session. The fall ceremonial, which was held on Thanksgiving Day, netted the temple 141 new members, which brings the membership up to 1,316 in little more than a year's time.

A George Washington ball and drill is scheduled for February 22 at the Call Field auditorium for shriners and their ladies. Specially arranged dance music will feature the program, and, with the auditorium floor in first class condition, it is expected that an unsurpassed event in Shrinedom will occur. The New Years Eve ball was the feature of the old year, with over eight hundred guests present.

SPECIAL MEETING OF TEXAS SHRINE COUNCIL

John M. Wyatt of El Paso, president of the Texas Shrine council, has called a spring meeting to be held at San Antonio on February 22.

The Texas Shrine council is composed of five representatives from each of the ten Texas temples.

Alzafar Temple of San Antonio, has made arrangements for a ceremonial session to be held in honor of the representatives to the meeting. As a special distinction, Walter D. Cline, Potentate of Maskat Temple, has been invited and requested to preside over the ceremonial session for Alzafar Temple.

The representatives from Maskat Temple to the San Antonio meeting will be: Walter D. Cline, Frank Collier, L. G. Hawkins of Vernon, D. J. Bailes of Seymour, and C. A. Fritz.

HOPE FOR MEN YET ENTOMBED IN MINE LOST

By Associated Press.

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 14.—Despite the continued efforts of rescuing parties today to reach the three men entombed in the National mine of the Glen Alden Coal company, so far no trace of them has been found. Crews maintained in relays toiled late into the night, however, to find the victims. All hopes of finding the men alive tonight was abandoned by the rescuers. During the day, workers underground came upon three caps and two mine lamps thought to have been found. Crews maintained in relays toiled late into the night, however, to find the victims. All hopes of finding the men alive tonight was abandoned by the rescuers. During the day workers underground came upon three caps and two mine lamps thought to have been worn by the missing men, but the hazardous position prevented their progress, forcing them to leave their posts until the soil had settled.

NEWS FROM ELECTRA

BY H. A. STROUD,
Special Correspondent.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE DRIVE VERY SUCCESSFUL

ELECTRA, Texas, Jan. 14.—The chamber of commerce is assured for another year. In spite of the depression in general, the slowing up of the oil fields and the general poor showing of business during the past year the budget was fully subscribed in three days. The campaign was put over in whirlwind fashion. It was started early in the week at a general meeting of the committees, who were spurred on to a successful campaign with a rousing speech from State Representative B. F. Johnson, of Wichita Falls.

With a year of successful operation as proof of the value of the chamber of commerce and a reduced budget, little opposition was met and the $9,500 were easily raised and it appeared, the last of the week, that the sum would be oversubscribed and $10,000 or better be in the treasury.

A general membership banquet will be held Tuesday, January 17, in the basement of the Methodist church. At this meeting the president will make his annual report of accomplishments for the year ended and in addition, Adolph Boldt, southwestern representative of the United States chamber of commerce will address the members. Plans are being made to provide entertainment for three hundred people.

NEW SCHOOL BUILDING WILL NOT BE USED

The Thompson ward school building in the Southland addition of the city will not be used this year, according to the trustees, unless something unforseen arises that will expediate the liquidation of the bonds against it. T. T. Weatherall, treasurer of the school board, stated last week that on account of the funds coming in so slowly that the board had found difficulty in rushing the completion of the building as they were unable to pay off the contractors as they completed their part of the work.

When the school bonds were placed on the market the finances of the country were at the peak of the depression and the school board sold the bonds to the state department. A fund had accumulated from the liquidation of sinking funds, with which the state proposed to purchase the school bonds and thus encourage the expansion of the educational program in the state. However, the funds were so limited that no school could get their entire quota at one time and the department decided to prorate the funds equally between the applicants. It was the belief that Electra's quoto would be about ten per cent of the entire issue per month. However, the funds did not come in as rapidly as anticipated and instead of receiving 10 per cent a month the local school board has only received about 2½ per cent.

As soon as all the money is obtained the school board will have enough money to pay off all the indebtedness of the new school and enough more to pay off $25,000 of the old bonds outstanding against the Waggoner high school.

NEW WELL CREATES MUCH INTEREST

The recent completion by the Magnolia Petroleum company of a well north of Fowlkes station has served to stimulate interest of the oil men in this vicinity, combined with the good completions of the Planet Petroleum company and others in the south pool it has had a great moral effect on not only the oil men but the business men as well throughout the district.

Water connections have been affected to the south pool in the past two weeks that have made possible the drilling of many wells. The Waggoner holdings south of the city are also attracting great interest since W. T. Waggoner has opened his holdings to legitimate operators. Several new locations were made on that ranch last week and numerous new tests are all rigged up awaiting water to start the drill going.

The effect of the partial opening up of the fields is already being felt in the business circles of the city and the business men are predicting that 1922 will be a much better year in every respect than 1921.

BREVITIES

ELECTRA, Jan. 14.—A donation of $36.75 was made to the Associated Charities by Burton Prince, on behalf of the Elks lodge. Last year the local Elks made application to the Grand lodge for a charter in Electra. However after meeting numerous obstacles it was decided to give up the matter. The $36.75 represented the balance due the local Elks from the Grand lodge.

Ginsburg Bros., dry goods merchants closed a deal last week whereby Sam Rosen of Fort Worth, became the owner of their store. Mr. Rosen is well know in Fort Worth business circles and has announced that he will carry a larger stock than the former proprietors.

Preparations are being made for the installation of a radio phone receiving set at the high school building. The proposition is being financed by E. D. Kelly, local manager of the Wichita Falls Electric Company. Wires will be strung on top of the building and one of the upper rooms used as the receiving station. Mr. Kelly intends to sold concerts to which he will charge admission, and from this source derive revenue to pay for the set. It will be donated to the school. Arrangements are being made to secure the sermons of Dr. Geo. Truitt of Dallas, each Sunday evening at 7:00 o'clock.

Mrs. H. C. Riggs of Mankins, Texas, is in a local hospital suffering from several broken ribs, and slight injuries about the head, as a result of being knocked down and run over by a Ford car driven by Virgil Hunter, negro, Saturday afternoon about 4 o'clock on Scott avenue between Seventh and Eighth streets. The negro driver of the car is being held by city police until the injured woman's exact condition is determined.

According to the story told by Hunter, who was driving the car which was occupied by two negro companions, the woman stepped out in front of the car too late for him to apply his brakes with any success. The car struck the woman in the side, knocked her down and one of the front wheels passed over her body, witnesses said.

Bystanders picked the victim up and carried her to the offices of Drs. Jones and Kiel where she was examined. Later she was taken to the Methodist hospital.

The condition of the woman is reported not to be serious unless internal injuries develop.

TEMPLARS IN ANNUAL MEET ON THURSDAY

To Elect Officers and Confer Two Degrees; Reports for Year Show Healthy Increase.

Wichita Falls Commandery No. 59, Knights Templar, will hold their annual meeting Thursday evening, January 19th, commencing at 5 o'clock. Promptly at that hour the commandery will confer the Order of the Red Cross on at least five candidates, and probably more. At 6:30 o'clock a dinner will be served in the banquet hall; following the dinner, the annual election of officers will be held and after the business session, the Order of the Temple will be conferred.

The local commandery, according to reliable information, after the work on Thursday night, will have increased its membership more than any other commandery in the state of Texas. The annual conclave of the Grand Commandery held here in April added considerable stimulus to the work. However, a great deal of credit is given to the local officers, under the capable leadership of Dr. Charles R. Hartsook.

Charles R. Hartsook, Commander; William Y. Hammack, Generalissimo; Otto Stehlik, Captain-General; James R. Buehman, Senior Warden; Mortimer M. Cooke, Junior Warden; Clifford O. Fritz, Prelate, William W. Gardner, Treasurer; William J. Webb, Recorder; Thomas J. Schley, Standard Bearer; John T. Yeargin Jr., Sword Bearer; John G. Groves, Warder; Alexander F. Kerr, Sentinel.

In addition to the splendid showing made by the commandery, Captain-General Otto Stehlik has organized a drill team of twenty-seven members, which has assisted the commandery in every possible manner. The team will attend the triennial conclave of the Grand Encampment, Knights Templar of the United States of America, to be held at New Orleans during the month of April.

A special conclave of the Commandery will be called for the purpose of installing the new officers.

KIWANIANS TO HEAR REPORTS ON MEETING

Talks by Julian Bobo, district trustee, Ben Neal, president of the local Kiwanis club and district secretary, and possibly another district official will feature the weekly luncheon of the club Monday noon at the Kemp hotel, according to the letter sent out by Pat Jarrett, newly elected secretary. Messrs. Neal and Bobo are now in Dallas attending a meeting of directors of the Texas-Oklahoma district and expect to have something interesting to report at this meeting.

January 23 has been announced as the date for the installation of the 1922 officers of the club. This meeting will be held at night and will be in the nature of "Ladies' Night" as well.

Entertainment for the Monday program will be given by Mrs. Gertrude Ray, with vocal selections, accompanied by Mrs. F. R. Collard.

Rex Watland will give the attendance prize, Grover Bullington the silent boost and the 'glad handers" will be Jouette Bonner, Ed Huckabee, Tom Wynn and Charles Nolen.

MRS. BERNEY SPEAKER FOR VARSITY CLUB

At the regular weekly meeting of the University club at the Kemp next Tuesday, Mrs. James C. Berney, head of the Texas educational extension department and a prominent club woman of this city, will speak to the members on the necessity, advantages and benefits of a junior college in Wichita Falls. A 100 per cent attendance is being urged upon the members by the program committee.

The University club originally launched the junior college idea last year, and although the matter is now being handled by the Chamber of of Commerce, the club is still keenly interested and ready to co-operate at any time in the movement to bring such an institution to this city.

Prof. Frank Frederick Loew has arranged an attractive musical program for this week's meeting. Mrs. William Gamble will sing, and a number of other numbers will be on the program.

HERO OF WAR, EARLY PIONEER, HAS GONE HOME

Death of Captain T. H. C. Peery of Seymour Removes One of Best Known Men of West Texas.

Fought at Shiloh and Franklin as a Soldier, Served as Lawmaker and Had Been a Mason for 65 Years.

Special to the Record News

SEYMOUR, Texas, Jan. 14.—Captain T. H. C. Peery, age 82, retired merchant, prominent citizen and battle scared hero of the civil war died Friday afternoon at his home in east Seymour following an illness of several weeks duration.

Born in Maury county, Tennessee, August 9, 1839, where he was reared to manhood, he enlisted in Company C, Twenty-seventh Tennessee Infantry of the confederacy as a non-commissioned officer at the outbreak of the war. After the battle of Shiloh he was commissioned a first lieutenant and at the battle of Murfreesburg he was promoted to captain.

He was in all the engagements participated in by the army of Tennessee, altogether forty-two in number, and the most important being the battle of Shiloh, Perryville, Chattanooga and Missionary Ridge. He was wounded at the battle of Shiloh and at the battle of Nashville commanded his regiment, his superior officers having all been killed or wounded at the battle of Franklin.

After the war he engaged in the mercantile business in Tennessee where he met and married Miss Anna Hornbeck, a daughter of Hon. Pleasant Hornbeck, who was a member of the state legislature in the '30's.

In 1876 he moved with his family to Denton county where he lived and followed mercantile pursuits until his removal to Baylor county in 1889. Since moving to Seymour he has been engaged in the mercantile business until a few years ago.

He has always been active in the educational interests and served for a number of years as president of the school board. He was instrumental in the incorporation of the city of Seymour and served as the city council's first secretary.

Captain Perry was one of the lawmakers of the twenty-fifth and twenty-sixth sessions of the Texas legislature in 1897-99, and served on some of the most important committees during those sessions. He was conservative, and whether questions were national, state or county, he never allowed himself to become partisan.

He was one of the able men of this section of Texas, and as the years crept upon him he mellowed like old wine or rare vintage. He had been a member of the Christian church and Masonic lodge for more than sixty-five years.

He is survived by his wife and two daughters, Mrs. Helen Briggs of this city and Mrs. L. J. Hudson of Fort Worth.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday afternoon by Rev. L. Swindle, pastor of the First Christian church, the Masonic fraternity taking charge at the grave.

According to the announcement, the station is to be the last word in filling stations. In addition to the usual services given motorists of free water and free air, two new services have been added to the free list which will no doubt register a big hit with local motorists. One is the free use of a parking ground in the rear of the station and the other is the offer on the part of the management to clean without cost the inside of closed cars with a new vacuum cleaner especially designed for this work.

The management is anxious for all motorists to avail themselves of this free service and extends a very cordial invitation to the public to avail themselves of this new and unusual serice.

Miss Doyle to Appear Here on Thursday Night

Thursday evening at the Wichita club, Miss Mary Agnes Doyle, a leading entertainer, as well as instructor in expression and dramatics of the North and East, will appear in a reading recital, under the patronage of the Studio Players. Miss Doyle is the first entertainer to be brought to Wichita Falls by the Studio Players, and the organization is hopeful of an unqualified success of this first undertaking.

In view of the interest that prevails already, and which the Studio Players hope to further until a Little theater is possible for Wichita Falls, Miss Doyle's coming at this time is especially opportune, since she stops here on her way to California, where she will take the leading roles with the Hollywood Little theater. She will remain in California until May when she will return to Chicago to take up her class work.

Her Thursday evening program will be "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," by Jerome K. Jerome. Several of the study clubs of the city have included this in their course recently, making it of more than usual interest for these, while the book continues of interest to all, being classified as one of the really great pieces of American fiction of the last decide.

In addition to being a teacher and entertainer, of a country wide reputation, Miss Doyle has had much experience as an actress. Her latest, and perhaps her most notable role, was that of "Happiness" in the morality play of that name. Miss Doyle had the distinction of creating the title role in this play.

A good advance sale on tickets is reported, members of the Studio Players appearing before the study clubs during the past week, and making an active canvass. However, it is not necessary to buy tickets in advance, it is announced, as they may be secured at the club room entrance on Friday night.

Judge Rogers Candidate to Succeed Self

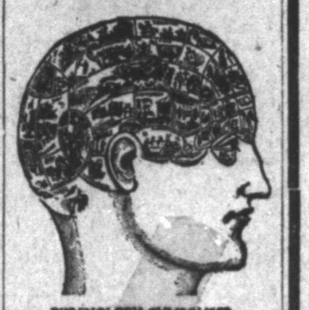

Announcement of the candidacy of Judge Guy Rogers of the county court at law for re-election was made Saturday. Judge Rogers is a candidate for a second term.

One of the youngest county judges in the state, Judge Rogers was elected to the office for the first time soon after he resumed the practice of law here following his discharge from the army. He served as captain during the late war.

Elected as the first judge of the court which was created for the purpose of relieving a crowded docket, Judge Rogers succeeded in clearing the docket during his two-year term so that there is now no cause for delay in the trial of cases in his court.

"MAKING GOOD," OR WOMAN'S PART IN LIFE

"The Lord Recognized the Need of Man and Gave Him a Helpmate," Says Dr. Grafton in Sermon.

Woman's Relation to Man Is Three-Fold; Inseparably Connected With Home; Avoid the "Skate."

By FRANK S. REID.

At the close of his series of sermons on "Making Good" Dr. Grafton, at the evening service of the First Presbyterian church on Sunday, preached one of the most beautiful sermons of the series—perhaps the best of all, for it dealt with "Man's partner," the wife, in the home and in his business life, the very inspiration of success or failure of man. He selected for his text the 18th verse of the second chapter of Genesis, wherein it says, "The Lord God said it is not good that man should be alone; I will make a helpmate for him."

Said Dr. Grafton:

"Woman plays a large part in the failure or in the success of man making good. Back of practically every man who has made good in a material way has been some woman and back of every man—practically every man who has failure written across his life has been some woman. The Lord God recognized the need of man and gave him a helpmeet—not a help eat but a helpmeet. The Hebrew word helpmeet means help as a counterpart, or as a supplement. In order for man to be perfect—reach perfection; that he accomplish all that God plans for him to accomplish, there must be a woman in his life and that woman must be a supplement to him; must help as a counterpart for him.

"I am first going to say that any man who does not marry, is handicapped in life; he can never reach the perfection that God meant for him to reach; he cannot make the success in life that God meant for him to make, and I would say, at the same time, that every woman ought to marry. I recognize, after all, that women are handicapped. A woman has to play the winning game; she has to wait on the question that the man must surely ask, and as a result there are a great many good women in the world who would have had a wonderful influence in the life of some men who have never married, who would have been a great blessing in some man's life.

Woman and the Home.

"Women's relation to man is three fold. First, I want to speak of her relation in the home. She is instinctively a home maker. This is a God-given instinct; it was planted there by the Almighty. She may neglect it; it may lie dormant, but this instinct will surely come to light when other things have failed. Woman has saturated the home with all the meaning it has come to have in the minds of men and she is inseparately connected with it.

"A great Englishman has said 'For a man to dwell alone is suicide; for two men to live together is homicide; woman alone holds man on a level' and this is true as God himself is true.

"Man's home life is necessarily reflected in his business life. You give a man the right sort of home influence, the right sort of environmen in the home, the right sort of encouragement from the home and it is a poor stick indeed who does not make good in any avenue, in any walk in life. If the home life is constantly distracted, it will reflect itself in the concentration of man's business affairs. It is woman's place to safeguard him; it is her business to show him that when he comes into the home, it will indeed be a home, a home of rest, a home of peace, a home of comfort and a home of security.

"I believe a woman can help her husband by becoming intelligently informed about his work. I do not believe it is necessary for man to talk shop with a woman any more than it is for a woman to constantly talk shop to a man in the home, but I do believe she should intelligently interest herself about her husband's business so that she can discuss with him the affairs of his business life.

"In the second place I believe she can stimulate him to proper ambitions. There has been many a man gloated, literally, by his wife into higher ideals, and success is written on him because back of him has been a woman pushing him on and instilling into his mind and heart that which makes the very best out of him.

Her Social Obligations

"How can she help him in his business? By maintaining proper social relations. It is the business of the housewife to take care of man's social interest. I do not mean she should be a little butterfly flitting along and setting such a pace that when the time comes for man to come home and rest, he is expected to go out to social functions. I am talking about the woman who will see to it that the social circle into which he gets will be stimulating; that the efforts he makes will be helpful to him as he grows and develops in his business life.

"A woman can help a man by sympathy with him in his business. There are worlds of women today who have no sort of sympathy with their husband's business. About all they think of a husband is a fat bank account; there is no sympathy, there is no cheer. Man must fight the battles alone simply because of a lack of sympathy on the part of the woman in the home.

"I believe a woman should radiate cheer. The man who can go into a home of sunshine and cheer and feel that his counterpart is radiating cheer and sunshine, will find that his tired brain will be stimulated and that he will face the battles of the morrow with a greater courage because of the stimulation that he got down in that home.

"Do you know that heads of big business today are not only stopping with the man when considering heads of departments, but they are going down into the home and examining the women in the home.

"Woman has shown herself capable of taking a man's place in almost every department of business and professional life. She has ability to make good, but should she be there? Should women go into business? Should women leave the home? Should she compete with men? Should eleven million women displace eleven million men Women ought not to go into business if she can find the right sort of a man.

"Yes, Go Into Business."

"In preference to marrying a skate, yes, go into business.

"But if it is possible to have the right sort of partnership and marrying the right sort of a man and making the right sort of home, then she ought to stay out of business, but since she has gone into business, what are the good results?

"First: It enables her to judge values; she comes to learn the worth of a dollar. That means a great deal. In the second place she becoms independent of charity when she faces the cold hard world in time of trouble. Women learn independence in the business world so when that hour of trial comes she can face the world and be independent of charity; it gives a brighter outlook on life; enlarges the horizon. How many women need that sort of thing. She can better appreciate the problems of a man in the business world and can help him, encourage him, rather than distract him with the petty troubles of home life.

"Woman's influence in religious matters. Religion is woman's deepest and profoundest thing. It is no wonder that a woman was the last to leave the cross and the first at the tomb of a Risen Savior because he lifted her when she was degraded and gave her freedom and the thing that gives us serious thought is why a woman could reject the Lord Jesus Christ, how she could refuse to crown him as Lord and Master. Do you know the greatest hymns of the heart have been the hymns written by women?

"If a woman is concerned only in worldly things she will eventually lead her husband to a worldly life; a neglect of God and a neglect of the church of Jesus Christ. If she is vitally interested in religion, interested in the church, interested in the organizations of the church, interested in the services of the church, then she can and will lead her husband to the Church of the Living God. Man's spiritual destiny rests in the hands of women and if she is Godless and Christianless, then 99 times out of a hundred, yea nine hundred and ninety-nine times out of a thousand, the man will lead a Godless and Christless life. God has placed in a woman's hand the destiny of a husband's soul, the destiny of his spiritual life."

Olney Dam For Big Lake Is Under Way

OLNEY, Texas, Jan. 14.—Ralph Shuffler, publisher of the Olney Enterprise, is very optimistic over the business and building outlook for his town. The Enterprise says:

"The dirt work on the construction of the dam for Olney's 80-acre reservoir is nearing completion, and the rip-rapping with rock is well under way. The concrete work on the spillway yet remains to be done, but a few weeks at most will see this part of the work completed.

"The machine for laying the pipe line has been in the city for several days, and was moved out to the location this week and work of digging the six mile trench for the pipe line begun. They claim that with this machine they can dig something like two thousand feet of the ditch each working day, so they ought to finish the line to town in a short time. After that is done, then the work of laying the distribution system of pipes within the city limits will begin.

"Probably not many of our citizens know that we are to have more new pipe line within the city than we now have old. The water service can be reached by any part of the town when the new system is completed, and fire plugs will be in reach of every building within the incorporation. This last feature alone will be worth a lot of money to the citizens, because of the savings of insurance premiums, to say nothing of the convenience of having an abundant supply of pure soft water.

"Probably all of the readers here in Olney have visited the site of the dam, but we are sure that there are hundreds of our readers who have not had the opportunity. We wish that all of them could pay the site a visit, as it would prove an eye-opener to many of them. The thing is larger in extent than you have imagined, and the site is picturesque. It will be an ideal camping spot in summer, and we predict that it will prove one of the attractions of this city when completed.

"While the continued dry weather has been unfavorable to the best interests of the county as a whole, it has certainly been ideal for the construction work on this project, and they have made excellent time with the work.

"It will be finished in ample time to catch the spring rains, and we should by all means have plenty of water here before the hot dry weather of next summer arrives. As stated in these columns before, this step means that Olney will come out of the village class rapidly, and will take its rightful place as one of the leading commercial and industrial centers of this section of the state. In spite of the gloomy outlook from many angles, 1922 will prove a banner year in the commercial and industrial growth of this city, and we unhesitatingly go on record with this prediction, staking our reputation as a prophet thereon, without equivocation.

"Immediately upon completion of the water system, we are informed that work will be started on the sewerage system. This will mean the expenditure of $40,000 more money in the development of our city, and this will add to the attractiveness of Olney from the homeseekers' and investors' viewpoint. 1922 will see a continued and a substantial growth in Olney. Smile, brothern, smile!

The world could manage to rub along without us, but we are rather glad that it doesn't have to.

To be on the right side in politics means to be on the inside.

What Does It Cost to STOP Advertising?

—You remember James Pyle's PEARLINE. It had been advertised regularly from 1873 to 1907.

—Then the trustees of the estate saw a brilliant chance to save money. They cut out the advertising.

—Sales dropped—profits went where soapsuds go. In 1914 Pearline tried to come back. But it was too late. The business was sold at a price which is said to have covered barely the value of the machinery and inventory.

—A business will grow as long as it advertises.

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

"There is a quality in Woodrow Wilson which I wish could be the final object of the Wilson Foundation," declared Dr. Stockton Axson, brother-in-law of the man who millions believe to be the greatest living citizen of the world. "That one quality is sincerity—sincerity in all things. I have heard Woodrow Wilson criticized for many things but I have never heard him criticized for lack of sincerity. That is what we need n politics more than anything else. Virtue, honesty, even, may lose its merit if it lacks sincerity." Dr. Axson is professor of English Literature at Rice Institute and he was explaining the ideals and principles which prompted the beginning of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation movement. This is what he said: "Of the group of people who started the foundation there were not more than two or three who knew personally the man who had been the national leader. It was his ideals and his sincerity in his ideals which determined this group of admirers that something should be done to perpetuate his work. Wilson's great cry was for justice. He was born in the South and he was a lad in the days of reconstruction which followed the Civl War. It occurred to him that the thing that made the rift between the North and South was not so much the war itself but what followed war. He believed it was the policy of vangeance and hatred which had become the curse of the land. And it was his ideals of justice, gained through those former days, which was burning the man through in those days which were darkest for him during the great war." Woodrow Wilson foundation week opens today. Ministers all over the United States will announce it from the pulpits, will explain the ideals of President Wilson to their congregations. Monday the newspapers, financial committees, secretaries and chairmen will be ready during Wilson hour to receive the first contributions toward the foundation. The object of the foundation, to endow permanent awards for distinguished public service, will be half accomplished with the collection of $1,000,000 over the United States between January 16 and 23. The other half of the work on the memorial will be in the exact determination of every detail of the awards and in the election of permanent executives. The funds will be invested in government securities, which will afford an absolutely safe income of sufficient amount to make very substantial awards for meritorious service to democracy, public welfare, liberal thought or peace through justice. The Central Union Trust company, 80 Broadway, New York City, is the depositary for these funds. Liberty and Victory bonds will be accepted at par value in the campaign. It will be entirely a free will offering. No drive methods will be pursued. Every penny given to the foundation will go direct to that fund. All operating [illegible] been taken care of [illegible] ations separate from the foundation gifts. One million dollars is the sum needed and the quota of Texas is $60,000. Roy Watson of the Houston Post is state chairman. Chairmen have been named for the thirty-one senatorial districts and chairmen will be named for the 248 counties of the state. Rhea Howard of the Times has been designated senatorial chairman for the 29th district and Mrs. W. S. Robertson is the vice-chairman. Mr. J. A. Kemp has permitted the use of his name for county chairman. There are women identified with the national organization and it is fitting that they have not been overlooked in the naming of vice-chairmen in senatorial districts and counties. Women hate war. Women have done all in their power to force general disarmament and prevent future wars. All those who are in charge of the work are admirers and sturdy champions of the superb white souled statesman who was the war president and is today the most distinguished causalty of the never to be forgotten bloody conflict of all the ages. Texas was the banner Woodrow Wilson state. Texas brought about his nomination for the presidency in the city of Baltimore. Texans backed him to a finish in peace time and in war time and Texans went down in defeat in the city of San Francisco fighting for the policies of Woodrow Wilson and the achievements of his administration. This drive begins today. It will be on for a week. Texans should go over the top for the Woodrow Wilson One Million Dollar Foundation and his ideals of universal justice as Texans went over the top at Baltimore and nominated him for the presidency and standard bearer of the Democratic people.

Texas led all states of the union in 1921 in value of all crops produced as well as for the twenty-two leading crops. Texas has held this rank for several years. California stands second. Cotton was the largest and most valuable crop, being $177,100,000. Value of all Texas crops in 1921 was $431,764,000 compared with $808,130,000 in 1919. These figures show that the Texas farmer has taken his losses. A shrinkage of almost $400,000,000 in a single year shows just what deflation did for the tiller of the soil. It should not be necessary to remind the people that pre-war conditions are returning the world over and that wage schedules must be made to meet the conditions.

Postmaster General Will H. Hays is opposed to pending legislation which will prohibit the use of the mails to newspapers publishing racing news. This is his objection: "The whole bill had better be defeated in my opinion than to add this additional curtailment of the freedom of the press. There has been a very strong tendency of late from that direction and I am sure that it is essential that such tendency should be checked." There are politicians in America who would throttle the press. There are certain interests in America which would throttle the press. There self-elected and so-called reformers in America who would shackle the press and gag free speech. They are out of place in this republic. Why there is Brother Atticus Webb. He would prohibit the press or the paragraphers of the press from indulging in "unseemly comment" on the antics of certain blue law advocates or pious men who are forever clamoring for a return of the good old days of the vintage of 1660 when witch burning was in flower and fanaticism was in the saddle.

Governor B. A. McKinney of the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas was born and reared in Collin county. He was not rocked in a golden cradle nor did he come with a silver spoon in his mouth. As a small boy he conducted a lemonade stand in the thriving city of McKinney. He grew up, continued to hustle, became a leading banker, moved to Dallas, became vice-president of the American Exchange Bank and now he is the governor of the Federal Reserve Bank. He made the most of opportunities and Opportunity is another name for Texas.

Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, as "a sandbagger of business," continues to perform at the same old stand. Why does he threaten the minnows? Why doesn't he go after the whales? And lastly why should he attempt to sandbag prosperity just as it began to peep out of its hiding place?

"THIS WILL BE A REAL ADVERTISING YEAR," RANKIN

By H. N. F.

Publicity is the thing. Advertising is the thing. If you have a good thing, tell it to the people. If you wish to do business, advertise the fact to the people. Those who get the trade are those who go after it. William H. Rankin is president of the William H. Rankin Company of New York and Chicago. He is a man of vision, a man of successful achievements, a man who knows all about business and how to get it, a man who knows conditions and he says "1922 will be a real advertising year."

By WILLIAM H. RANKIN

1922 will be a real advertising year!

When you compare business conditions just now with those conditions that were with us and in front of us for 1921, we can say with a sigh of relief that we prefer the outlook for 1922.

One thing certain, 1921 proved the necessity of both salesmen and advertising. I believe these two factors combined intelligently will be far more important in the promotion of business in 1922 than in any one year during the last ten.

The manufacturer wants and must have the salesman who really sells—sells on such a basis that when he goes back he will get repeat orders. The same manufacturer wants and must have advertising that will educate the consumer to ask for—to insist on having—the goods advertised.

Instead of advertising only for prestige—instead of so-called "institutional" advertising—most manufacturers now look upon advertising for just what it is—namely, the most economical way to create a consumer demand for their goods. Manufacturers now know that a fairly good sized campaign can be produced to use newspapers at a cost as low as 1-10 of a cent per reader reached; to use farm papers at ⅓ of a cent per reader; to use magazines and weeklies at 1-7 of a cent per reader.

This morning as I write, there came into my office a man who represents a concern that has done business for 60 years without advertising. He told me that in 1922 they will let the consumer know about the merits of their product so they can own their own business—as without advertising they found during the last year that they do not own it.

This business—like that of the automobile, the tire, the packing house, the flashlight, the storage battery—has reached rock bottom so far as prices are concerned. Like all businesses that have readjusted their prices properly, this concern has had the satisfaction of seing its sales on the up grade during the last 60 days. And it looks for one of the best years of its business career in 1922, because it will add the force of advertising to back up its sales work to and for dealers.

The prime factors in selling in 1922 will be the Salesman; Advertising to the Dealer; and, last and most important, Advertising to the Consumer.

We must plan to help the Dealer more through advertising to create the demand for products he handles, and also to teach him to advertise and sell the products he handles so that the consumer will get lower prices because of quicker turnover in sales of advertised products.

Advertising will help manufacturers to realize their fondest hopes in 1922.

Advertising can of course do its best work for concerns in healthy manufacturing, sales, and financial condition. There are thousands of manufacturers in healthy condition that plan for advertising to be used in a better and more effective way in 1922. President Harding, Secretary of Labor Davis, Secretary of Commerce Hoover, Postmaster General Will H. Hays and Mr. Charles Henry Mackintosh, president of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World are doing their utmost to help business through every possible influence, including country-wide publicity. They have accomplished much in 1921; they will do even more in 1922. They deserve the united support of every advertising man.

The Disarmament Conference in Washington has led the way toward better feeling between Nations, and more stable conditions at home and abroad. And because of that fact President Harding, Secretary of State Hughes, and all our good men at Washington have given business men confidence to "go ahead."

"Go Ahead!" means saner and safer use of advertising—better sales and business conditions resulting in 1922.

Set the example, and work 10, 12 or 16 hours a day, and in that way we can catch up for time lost in 1920.

Newspapermen, salesmen, and advertising men can do much to improve business conditions as they always do—and as I believe they will do—in 1922.

One of the best ways to help is to encourage buying at readjustment prices. Every buying and selling transaction helps to bring back property; helps the retailer clear his shelves; helps the manufacturer sell to the retailer, and—It helps the man who works for the manufacturer—so that man can buy from the retailer and his purchase can move again in the same beneficial circle.

Therefore, I say 1922 will be a real advertising year!

"A LOOK AT OHIO" AND JAMES A. REED

(George Robinson in Waco Times-Herald.)

Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald, who can write as entertainingly and as accurately in a railway car, speeding along at the rate of 60 miles an hour, as he can in his library surrounded by reference books, which he never uses because his memory never fails him, has this to say in a recent issue of his most excellent paper, the Wichita Falls Record News:

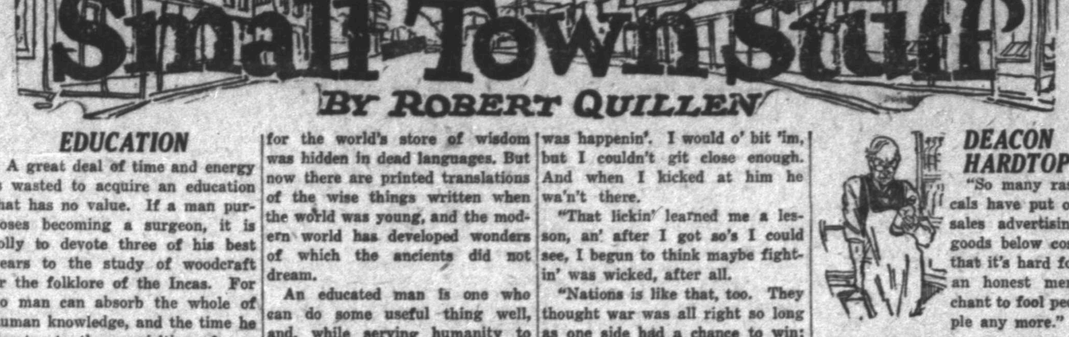

"For almost a century Virginia was the mother of presidents. Virginia surrendered the honor to Ohio and the Buckeyes appear to be all powerful in the affairs of the nation today. Warren G. Harding is a Buckeye. He is president of the United States. William Howard Taft is a Buckeye. He is chief justice of the supreme court of the United States. John H. Clark is a Buckeye. He is associate justice of the supreme court of the United States. W. R. Day is a Buckeye. He is an associate justice of the supreme court of the United States. Ohio has three of the nine. James A. Reed of Missouri is a Buckeye and James A. Reed is the ablest debator of the senate, the terror of the senate and the power of invective that scorches is his. As a satirist he is without an equal in public life his wit is of the most caustic kind and when it comes to irony, the Lord help the man who happens to be his victim. James A. Reed is a Democrat. He was the most pitiless and merciless critic of the Versailles treaty, as he is the most pitiless and merciless of the critics who are now fighting the ratification of the Four-Power Pact for which the president is said to be responsible."

If we mistake not, brother beloved, Virginia laid claim to the territory out of which Ohio was carved. But, of course, Ohio wasn't settled by Virginians, save in rare instances. The Virginians had all the land and all the freedom and all the prosperity they wanted; why should they go hiking into the wilderness? The first settlers of Ohio, if we mistake not, came out of New York and New England, and later they went on further West, settling up Nebraska and Kansas, and that's why Kansas came to be more Puritan than Massachusetts. John Brown, the noted Abolitionist, is credited to Kansas, but he was born and reared in Connecticut. Woodrow Wilson is credited to Virginia, but the family belongs to Ohio. Between the Puritan of New England and the Cavalier of Virginia is a gulf almost as wide as that which separates between Irishmen and Englishmen. Both the Puritans and the Cavaliers came to America largely to escape religious persecution, but we owe it more to the Cavaliers than we do to the Puritans that religious freedom became a dominant note in our American life. However, let us not get the impression that all of the Cavaliers were free from intolerance; Mr. Jefferson struck at the church establishment in Virginia and overthrew it, and his example laid the basis for religious freedom in America. Yes, brother beloved, James A. Reed is the ablest debater of the Senate, and seldom is he wrong in any of his conclusions. His arguments against the League Covenant, sponsored by Mr. Wilson, were the ablest delivered on the floor of the Senate. Ohio is credited with some great Democrats. It was William Allen, a senator from Ohio, who said:

"Democracy is a sentiment not to be appalled, corrupted, or compromised. It knows no baseness; it cowers to no danger; it oppresses no weakness. Fearless, generous and humane, it rebukes the arrogant, cherishes honor, and sympathizes with the humble. It asks nothing but what it concedes; it concedes nothing but what it demands. Destructive only of despotism, it is the sole conservator of liberty, labor and property. It is the sentiment of freedom, of equal rights and equal obligations. It is the law of nature pervading the land."

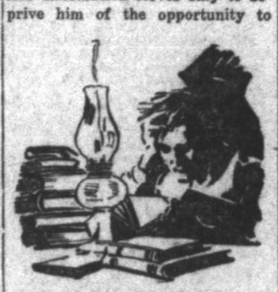

And then there was Allen G. Thurman, whom men delighted to designate as the noblest Roman of them all. And more recently were we made acquainted with another great Ohioan of the Democratic faith, Judson Harmon. But men like Allen and Thurman and Harmon are not today found in the Democratic leadership, whether for good or ill is not here under consideration; the fact remains, as all must admit, that with the coming of Mr. Bryan on the scene the Democratic party underwent radical changes in its principles and policies.

The Democratic party in 1920 went to Ohio for its standard bearer; we reckon that Brother Cox made as good showing in the election returns as any other Democrat could have made, the League Covenant being a handicap of no small weight; besides, the party had changed its point of view as to the nature of the general government, and it was another instance of putting new wine into old bottles. We are wondering, Brother Hugh Nugent, if the Democrats will again make James Middleton Cox their standard bearer.

EDUCATION

A great deal of time and energy is wasted to acquire an education that has no value. If a man purposes becoming a surgeon, it is folly to devote three of his best years to the study of woodcraft or the folklore of the Incas. For no man can absorb the whole of human knowledge, and the time he devotes to the acquisition of useless information serves only to deprive him of the opportunity to acquire information that he can use in his business.

Every man who is worth a hill of beans is a specialist, whether he is a bricklayer or a painter of pictures, a musician or a printer. And if the specialist would develop the highest skill of which he is capable, he must devote the whole of his energies to studying the technique of his trade, and study other matters, if at all, only as a diversion.

It may be argued that concentration upon one line of endeavor will make a man narrow; but this is not a sound argument. For the need of getting a living will bring him into contact with the problems that concern all men, and he will, without conscious effort, study the problems of his day and form opinions concerning them. Moreover, if he is an indifferent craftsman, he will be indifferent in all other particulars; while if he is an excellent workman, conscious of his skill, self-respect will teach him to be a citizen of the world. Self-respect is the foundation of all progress.

When our civilization was young, a study of dead languages was essential to proper education, for the world's store of wisdom was hidden in dead languages. But now there are printed translations of the wise things written when the world was young, and the modern world has developed wonders of which the ancients did not dream.

An educated man is one who can do some useful thing well, and, while serving humanity to earn his bread, understand that all fellow travelers in this vale of tears are brethren.

UNCLE GUS

Uncle Gus spread his newspaper on his lap, sighed heavily, and looked at me over his spectacles. "The hand-maiden o' virtue," said he, "is a black-eye."

I looked my bewilderment.

"That," he continued, "is what you writin' fellers calls philosophy an' what I call hoss sense. The' ain't nothin' helps a feller to be good like gittin' the boun' beat out of 'im. When I was a young feller, I was a purty good fightin' man an' I felt my oats right sharply. The' wa'n't no rules then like the' is now. When a feller fought, he used such weapons as God give 'im. He used his fists, maybe, if he didn't need nothin' else; but if he got in tight, he kicked or used his teeth. I had pow'ful good teeth in them days, an' when I fastened a feller, he mos' always hollered calf rope.

"You know how it is when a feller can lick ever'body he knows. He gits to thinkin' he's about the best man the' is, an' he's all the time huntin' trouble. I was in a rukus ever' Sat'day night that come, an' if I got scratched up some, the other feller was always in a worse fix than I was.

"The preacher kep' telling' me fightin' was wicked, but I didn't see no sense in that. Wicked or no wicked, it was a sight o' fun.

"But one day the' was a feller come through here sellin' washin' machines, an' if seems he had been a sort o' professional fightin' man. He knowed how to use his fists. Well, sir, him an' me got tangled up somehow or other, an' he had me licked befo' I knowed what was happenin'. I would o' bit 'im, but I couldn't git close enough. And when I kicked at him he wa'n't there.

"That lickin' learned me a lesson, an' after I got so's I could see, I begun to think maybe fightin' was wicked, after all.

"Nations is like that, too. They thought war was all right so long as one side had a chance to win; but when this last one showed 'em that winnin' cost 'em about as much as losin', they was ready to quit an' be good fo' a spell. The' ain't nobody likes to be wicked after he finds out wickedness don't pay no profit."

THE AUTOMOBILE

The automobile is a vehicle used to carry passengers and encourage violent exercise on the part of pedestrians. It also encourages profanity, the desire to get there quickly, and young lawyers who specialize in damage suits.

Automobiles are not essential to happiness unless the neighbors have one. If the neighbors have one, mother and the girls suffer keenly every time it passes the house and lay awake at night trying to think up new arguments that will impress old Dad. Dad finally decides that he might as well starve to death as be pestered to death, and arranges for a second mortgage on the house.

Then he visits an agent who once told him that a man of his standing should have a car, and does his part to encourage the discovery of new oil wells.

The agent has been demonstrating with the car for six months, but it is still a new car. As he tells Dad, it is "just nicely limbered up." But by the time Dad drives it home it has become a used car and has depreciated in value 25 per cent. By the time all the members of the family have learned to drive it, it has depreciated in value another 25 per cent. And the gasoline bills have had a similar effect on old Dad's bank balance.

The members of the family learn to say "The Car," always with capitals; to speak casually of what "she" did on that hill north of town, and to draw liberally on their imaginations when revealing the number of miles obtained to the gallon.

During the first three months the car is washed every second day and run under a shelter when rain threatens. But when the paint begins to dim and the tires to wear, the mud of many roads chokes the spokes and the family refers to the car lightly as "the old boat."

The fever has cooled. But one more family has learned to class an automobile as a necessity, and one more rod has been placed in pickle for the chap who invented the mortgage.

State Press Comment

DISLIKING WILSON TACTICS HARDING MUST ADOPT THEM.

(From the Philadelphia Public Ledger, Stawart Republican.)

For nine months President Harding has waited for congress, a republican congress, to wade in and start cleaning up on campaign promises and pledges. Now he is slipping off his coat. He may need to roll up his sleeves. The President is a mild-mannered and long-suffering man, but there comes a time when patience ceases to be a political virtue.

What with "blocs," lack of leadership and one thing and another, it is no party secret that congress has not been delivering according to specifications indicated by the administration. Disliking to follow the tactics of Woodrow Wilson in dealing with congress, the President has kept hands off. It appears that circumstances are about to force the administration to get in and put a shoulder to the wheel.

There have been signs and portents. Last Thursday night the President gave a little party to Senators Capper of Kansas; Kenyon of Iowa and Kellogg of Minnesota, all of the "farm bloesters." The President wanted to argue things out with them. He did, and when the party broke up there was perfect agreement—that there was no agreement.

Came Saturday night, and there was another party at which John T. Adams of Iowa, chairman of the republican national committee, was present. "Administration" leaders were on hand. It is probable that what John T. Adams and other spokesmen said when boiled down would amount to this:

Congress may have done the best it could, but that best is not good enough and has not been placed in the best possible light before the American voter who is going to the polls next November.

The President is solid with the "folks back home" so far, but congress is not.

Congress has no boss and is loitering along the highway picking daisies when it ought to be throwing itself into the collar and raising a dust.

Therefore and wherefore, it seemed to be the sense of the little gathering that it was time for the president to demand action on something. The decision was reached that it might be best to make a test case out of the Allied War Debt Refunding Bill and call for a showdown on the part of the folks on Capitol Hill. The argument can be used that the funding bill can be tied up with soldier-bonus legislation and the administration thereby get two birds with a single stone.

The president is likely to get his "vote of confidence" on this. The "farm bloc" is not hunting trouble in that direction so long as the bonus is not hooked up with a sales tax.

This will be more of a skirmish than a real battle. It may accustom the senate, however, to listen to word from the White House and foreshadow the beginnings of leadership, White House directed. Maybe it will restore some of the lost disciples.

However, if the president and party leadership generally want this thing decided on the lines where it must be settled late or soon, the Simmons amendment that would put a "dirt farmer" on the Federal Reserve Board and "roll" W. P. G. Harding, governor of the board, is a good place for a real trial of strength and a genuine test vote. It is there that the bonds of party discipline would get a test that would mean something.

San Antonio closed the greatest construction year in its history, with 3,595 permits granted having a total valuation of $7,515,045. This compares with 2,570 permits in 1920 having a valuation of $4,771,705. The permits included 2,100 for new residences. Real estate transfers in Bexar county totaled $25,646,896 during the year. San Antonio's exports to Mexico during 1921 amounted to $15,000,000, or $6,000,000 over the 1920 figures. Postal receipts amounted to $879,874 in 1921 as compared with $863,410 in 1920. Parcel post cancellations were 857,900 greater than in 1920. Bankers are of the opinion that financial conditions will be much better the coming year.

BIG IRRIGATION PROJECT.

(From the Waco Times-Herald.)

Contract has been awarded for the construction of a dam across the Wichita river, sixty miles from Wichita Falls, for the largest independent irrigation and municipal water project ever attempted in the United States.

The irrigation project will be triple in purpose. It will protect a vast section from floods, supply the water for Wichita Falls and other towns and for irrigation of a semi-arid section and will [illegible] potential power plant for that part of the country.

The lake to be impounded by the dam will have a shore line of seventy-five miles, and will have a maximum depth of eighty-five feet. Its capacity would fill a 16-inch pipe line 10,000,000,000 feet long, or enough to circle the earth forty times. It is said to be as much as the mean annual flow of the Wichita river.

The construction will require about 7,100,000 cubic yards of earth, 45,000 cubic yards of rock rip-rap, 60,000 cubic yards of earth excavation in the canals and laterals, which will total 100 miles in length.

J. A. Kemp, financier of Wichita Falls, is the chief promoter of the project.

CHILDRESS AND WICHITA FALLS SHOULD CO-OPERATE

(From the Childress Index.)

It is probable that if Childress and Wichita Falls chambers of commerce, assisted by the chambers of other cities and towns between, would join together and request a motor car service between Childress and Wichita Falls, that it would become a reality.

Monday a representative of this paper was in conversation with a railroad official and this matter was discussed. It is said that large motor cars can be purchased for about $20,000 each. Three cars would be necessary to maintain good service.

It is said that if a car would leave Wichita Falls about 8 o'clock and another leave Childress at the same hour, the service would be just what is needed between the two cities. The return trips could be made about 4 o'clock, giving another service that would be appreciated by people residing in the oil fields of Wichita county. It would also be a great service for traveling men.

The car coming from Wichita Falls could carry a trailer and deliver local freight to all towns, thus giving the merchants a service at least two days ahead of the present freight schedules. This service would also do away with the trucks that are now used by the wholesale houses. It is estimated that at least 10,000 pounds of freight is now hauled by motor trucks daily into Childress from Quanah.

The expense of operating a motor car is very small. The car is about the size of a standard passenger coach and is propelled by a motor using kerosene for fuel. A motorman and conductor compose the crew.

Another point that would be of value in a motor service between Childress and Wichita Falls would be the relief accorded passenger train No. 2. It would not be necessary for this train to make local stops, enabling the train to reach Fort Worth an hour earlier. The territory from Childress to Wichita Falls is the most thickly populated along the Denver road and there are several roads with which connections can be made.

OLYMPIC PLAY SUCCESSOR TO 'HUMORESQUE'

"Just Around the Corner," by Same Author, Fannie Hurst, Is Also Filled With Smiles and Tears.

Harold Lloyd, Glassless Glasses and All, Will Be Shown at Olympic in Big Four-Reel Comedy.

Thousands who wept and laughed at "Humoresque," will have an opportunity soon of seeing another East Side story by the author of "Humoresque"—Fannie Hurst.

The new picture is "Just Around the Corner" and not only is the original story the work of one of the collaborators of the screen version of "Humoresque" but the scenario and direction are the work of the scenario writer of that classic—Frances Marion. It will be shown at the Olympic theater Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

"Just Around the Corner," tells the story of the Birdsong family living in New York's East Side. It is a story of family devotion, of the struggles of a mother, a daughter and a son to preserve the untarnished name of their family in the face of poverty and their ultimate triumph. Love, humor, misfortune, smiles and tears and smiles again all play their parts.

A brilliant cast contributes to the excellence of "Just Around the Corner." It includes Margaret Seddon, favorably known as a result of her work in "The Inside of the Cup"; Lewis Sargent, creator of the role of "Huckleberry Finn"; Sigrid Holmquist, the "Mary Pickford of Sweden," who appears for the first time in an American picture; Fred C. Thomson, husband of Frances Marion, the director, Edward Phillips, well known for his stage work in "Seven Days' Leave" and "The Hole in the Wall"; Peggy Parr, Mme. Rose Rosonova and William Nally.

Heir Becomes Gob.

Harold Lloyd is said to be a Grand Gob of Joy in "A Sailor-Made Man," his new Associated Exhibitors feature comedy coming in four reels to the Olympic theater Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Introduced as a gilded youth bored by his own society, he becomes one of Uncle Sam's sons and wears a middy, flappy trousers and a peanut hat. For the first time he learns the meaning of discipline and rules.

The U. S. S. Frederick was used for the battleship scenes, and it is there that much of the action and the funny stunts take place. But, when they land at Kairpura-Jhandanna and he meets again his sweetheart, and she is kidnapped by a bold and wicked Maharajah,—oh, boy, but things get lively!

WIERD BATTLE BENEATH OCEAN FEATURES PLAY

Miss Annettee Kellerman, With Excellent Cast Stars in "What Women Love" at Gem Friday.

Far down through the glowing, opalescent water of Honolulu Bay, two figures were grapping to the death. One was the gorilla-like figure of a man; the other the slender figure of a girl.

Twenty feet above them the barnacled keel of a tramp schooner wallowed in the swell and cut off the light of the moon.

It was the strangest fight that was ever waged. The man was fighting for the girl and she fought against him, with strength born of desperation for her honor.

The incident is to be vividly depicted on Friday at the Gem theater when Annette Kellerman appears in her greatest modern comedy drama, "What Women Love."

Bernard McConville, author of many of the Mary Pickford, Norma Talmade and Lillian Gish screen successes, wrote a wonderfully dramatic story around Miss Kellerman's ability to live under water and the gripping battle scene is just one high light in the amazing production.

"What Women Love," a First National Attraction, was produced by Sol Lesser, the young Pacific coast chieftain of the First National Exhibitors' Circuit. It was directed by Nate Watt, who was previously identified with the Lois Weber productions.

Wheeler Oakman, Walter Long, the famous Bull Montana, Carl Ullman and Ralph Lewis are among the famous players who support the star.

"WOMEN FAR FROM GOAL," SAYS BRITON

Modern American Business Woman Said to Be Complacent; Success Threatens to Kill Her Ambition.

Admits American Woman Has Gone Farther Than Any Other Woman in the World Has Traveled.

W. L. George, noted British novelist, whose ability to analyze women is one of his strongest bids for fame, has gained the impression on his visit to America that the modern American business woman is too complacent; she believes she has reached the pinnacle of "freedom." So he sounds a warning.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—"An Englishman feels rather strange in a country such as America, where so many women seem to have careers," declares W. L. George, English novelist. "I do not mean that in England we find no women in offices, that we lack women physicians or officials. But we are not accustomed to seeing woman so much "on her own;" we are surprised, not so much by her capacity (of which I, for one, am well aware) as by the reward that her capacity obtains. For England, and the rest of Europe, fails to afford woman a square deal; she has a better chance in England than in France, Italy or any Latin country, but even that chance is one the American girl would laugh at as she emerges from Vassar or Smith.

Mr. George Has Doubts.

"When I consider the American business woman, I feel doubts, doubts being a feature of my unfortunate mental equipment. I discover here and there a woman district attorney, magistrate or even assistant attorney general; I observe with admiration a few woman bankers, a firm of feminine real estate agents, women editors paid $10,000 a year—and yet I ask myself: Has the American business woman gone as far as she thinks? Certainly she has gone farther than any other woman in the world has ever aspired. The American woman has cut a furrow along which European women will drive their plows, but there are still many worlds for her to conquer.

Men Still on the Job.

"If one looks through the business directory of any city, one does find a few women's names on the lists of vice-presidents—but how few! What a crowd of masculine names surround the lonely peaks that women have scaled! And where is the woman president? The feminine secretary of state? The group of woman senators?

"I don't want to belittle the amazing success of American women, but I admire them so much that at the risk of unpopularity I venture to show them conditions as I see them.

"Time is on women's side; let her make for its forelock. There is nothing she cannot attain, and it will do her no good to believe that she already has achieved all, when so much power waits for the taking. The American woman has known few defeats: today she has only one dangerous foe—the consciousness of victory."

A man could have himself a lot of trouble by not trying to make it for other people.

'COMMON CLAY' PRESENTED BY LORCH COMPANY

Highly Dramatic Play That Has Won Most Complimentary Press Notices—at Wichita Theater.

Theodore Lorch's Interpretation of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," Will Be Played Friday Night.

No better advance notice relative to "Common Clay," the bill at the Wichita for the week beginning tomorrow night, could be prepared by a press agent than the criticism printed in the New Orleans States on Nov. 9th and which is as follows:

"Miss Cecil Fay and Theodore Lorch covered themselves with new honors at the Louisiana theater Monday night when they presented "Common Clay." It is one of the best presentations of the play seen here, even better than that by a traveling company here a year ago. The embellishments are true to life, the scenery new and the acting all that could be desired.

"As Ellen Neal, the daughter of the woman who was wronged in her early life and who is forced to go to work for her living, Miss Fay gave a practical and careful demonstration of her powers as an actress. Miss Fay's emotional powers were never more fully demonstrated than in this role, and she carries herself as only the real heroine can under the trying situations in which she is placed.

"The play gives Miss Caroline Morrison her first real chance. She is the mother of the heroine who has been wronged. And her anguish as she tells what befell her and her display of sorrow at her plight in early life was enough to elicit the sympathy of everyone in the audience. Her character acting was a treat and a surprise, few thinking her capable of so convincing a portrayal.

"Theodore Lorch adds to his honors as Judge Filson, the man who erred in his youth. The part demands emotioned action and dramatic powers above the ordinary. Mr. Lorch fills every requirement. He is powerful and painstaking in his work and repeatedly was encored, especially in the tensely dramatic passages with Miss Fay.

"Joseph Booth was fine as W. P. Yates, the pompous attorney whose kindly traits crop out most unexpectedly and counterbalance the shyster proclivities he is supposed to have. Miss Ida Mantell was excellent as Anne Fullerton; Mortimer Martini makes an able Richard Fullerton and Harold Hutchinson as the gay young blade had a part that suited him splendidly. In fact the acting of the entire cast far surpasses what one expects of stock companies."

For one performance only, Friday night, Mr. Lorch will play his masterpiece, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." In the dual role of this weirdest of dramas Mr. Lorch stands head and shoulders above any actor on the American stage. Because of the tremendous mental and physical strain necessary for a true interpretation of the play it is only possible for it to be put on for one performance.

Why Four Years' Study for Osteopathic Physicians?

No Osteopathic physician can enter practice without four full school years of intensive training.

The reason for this is important.

A complete and unquestionable knowledge of every part of the body is absolutely essential. He must know these parts intimately—their structure—the work they are intended to perform—and the manner in which they do that work.

He must study carefully every muscle, every bone, every nerve.

He must study every known fact with reference to the causes of disease and sickness. He must prepare himself until his ability to treat these by Osteopathic methods is beyond all doubt.

Before he is permitted to term himself a doctor he must have proved in clinics that he knows and can do all this successfully.

It takes four long years for this preparation. True, it is a difficult program. But the men who earn the title of Doctor by meeting these requirements are capable and competent. They are worthy of your confidence.

When you think of Osteopathy remember its success has been due to the extreme care with which its physicians are trained.

SAYS CALOMEL SALIVATES AND LOOSENS TEETH

The Very Next Dose of This Treacherous Drug May Start Trouble.

You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.—Adv.

MONEY GOLIATH OF THE AGE IS UNCLE SAM

America Is the Greatest Creditor Nation in History of the World, the Report Shows.

Was a Big Debtor Nation in 1914; Now the Country Has Banking Assets of 50 Billion.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—America is the unchallenged Goliath of the financial world, the annual report of D. R. Crissinger, comptroller of the currency, made public today, shows.

From a heavy debtor nation in 1914 she has emerged the greatest creditor nation in the world's history. Her banking power in the intervening seven years has increased nearly 85 per cent and her 31,200 banks can marshal cash and credits estimated at more than $48,200,000.

Banking Assets of 50 Billion.

Added to this is more than 1 1-2 billion dollars in the banks of her island possessions, thus giving the United States a banking asset of nearly 50 billion dollars.

These startling governmental figures clearly show the important role the United States would play if it agrees to active participation in the world economic conference at Genoa next March.

The administration now is considering the official invitation to the conference with indications that it will offer to participate under certain conditions.

From the pre-war days to the present time an unprecented flow of gold has poured into the United States, Crissinger said. Gold in this country totals more than 3 billion dollars, or approximately one-third of the entire supply of the world.

Praise for Reserve System.

Crissinger credits the federal reserve system with saving the United States from disaster in the last six years. The system acted as the "pneumatic cushion" in the period of deflation and reaction following the world-wide expansion of credits, Crissinger said. The report shows that thirty-four national banks went into the hands of receivers in the year ending October 31, 1921.

Crissinger recommended congressional action to limit rediscounting of bank paper as a means of extending credit. Abuse of this privilege is a constant menace to depositors and the stability of the financial structure, he said.

The stock of money in the United States was given as $8,027,395,496, which if equally divided would give every inhabitant of the country $53.44, the report stated. The per capita circulation in 1914 was $34.53.

GROW LARGE ON ISLAND OF MANHATTAN

Where Sons of Southland Achieve Distinction in the Law, Finance and the Political World.

Joab H. Banton, New District Attorney, From Waco, Texas, Latest of Many to Succeed.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Raymond G. Carroll, a New York correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger, is responsible for the following story of the latest son from Dixie land to achieve distinction in this city:

"Southerners do very well in New York City. The new district attorney, Joab H. Banton, who has ordered his staff of fifty assistants to stop talking to newspapermen, is a Southerner, born at Waco, Texas, where he formerly practiced law and served a term as assistant prosecutor. All the talking that is to be done he will do himself. Mr. Banton left the Lone Star State twenty-six years ago. He is more than six feet tall, smooth-shaven, with a prominent nose. His method of presenting a case is unsensational—a careful analysis of the facts in short, terse sentences. Mr. Banton is a deeply religious man, being a member of the Church of the Disciples of Christ. He took hold of the district attorneyship of New York county the first of the year, succeeding Judge Edward Swann, under whom he had previously served as first assistant.

"In many ways Mr. Banton is the sort of public prosecutor that one would never expect to see incubated from Tammany Hall. That a man from a small place like Waco, Texas, should be nominated and elected to the most powerful public office on Manhattan Island is interesting in more ways than one. 'Joab was a Democrat down home, and naturally he was a Democrat up here,' said his brother-in-law, James I. Moore, also a transplanted Texas lawyer. We remarked to Mr. Moore that the United States first became acquainted with Waco through the sensational killing there in April, 1898, of W. C. Brann, the brilliant editor of a weekly publication called 'The Iconoclast.'

"'I saw the murder,' replied Mr. Moore, 'for I happened to be standing across the street when Tom Davis, a real estate dealer, came out into Fourth street and shot Brann in the back. Brann instantly turned, drew his gun and shot Davis down. Brann was a plucky chap, and walked two blocks to the city hall, where he gave himself up, dying the next day. Joab H. Banton left Waco before that double killing.'

"It is a singular fact that two other eye-witnesses of the Brann murder are living in New York—Sidney Herz, who ran a cigar store across the street from Brann's office, and Eugene B. Wiel, who was working in an office above Davis' place of business and saw the famous encounter through an open window.

Other Notables From the South.

"Probably the most notable Southerner in New York is William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury and son-in-law of President Wilson. He was born in Georgia, but was educated and practiced law in Tennessee. 'Jim' Osborne, an assistant district attorney famous for his prosecution of the Molyneaux case and later a criminal lawyer, hails from North Carolina, as does George Gordon Battle, who was also active in Tammany and various public offices. Bernard M. Baruch, whose accomplishments are too well famed to need mention, was born at Camden, N. C.

"Martin W. Littleton, the distinguished lawyer, while a native of Tennessee, came to the metropolis via Dallas, Texas. Colonel Edward M. House, who now counts himself a New Yorker, is a Texan by birth. Colonel Francis Gordon Caffey, who has just retired as United States district attorney here, hails from Gordonsville, Alabama. General Samuel McRoberts, the new president of the Metropolitan Trust company, is a Missourian. Mann Price, the former assistant attorney general of Texas, has hung out his legal shingle in Manhattan, as has E. Bright Wilson, who was the youngest speaker of the Tennessee House of Representatives.

"Colonel Thomas B. Felder, who is the counsel for the $4,000,000 'bootlegging crowd,' just indicted and about to go to trial, came from Atlanta, Ga. He is the lawyer who cleared Jeremiah O'Leary, friend of Germany. Joe Johnson, the newly appointed commissioner of public works for Manhattan, is an Atlantan; likewise Bob Adamson, who was secretary to Mayor Gaynor and fire commissioner under Mayor Mitchel, and William Harmon Black, an assistant corporation counsel.

Bainbridge Colby, the former secretary of state, was born in St. Louis. General Robert Lee Bullard and Major Bozeman Bulger are Alabamans, and Irvin S. Cobb, who now lives in East Thirty-ninth street, escaped from Kentucky. The old town is full up with ex-Southerners—yes, thousands of them."

Munday Has Big Program For This Year

MUNDAY, Texas, Jan. 14.—According to the Weekly Times of this place Munday has a big building program for the year. The Times says:

"Munday will witness the greatest building era in 1922 in the history of the city, and by the time the fall season opens bids fair to become the most modern and beautiful little city in this entire section of the state. All that portion of the city recently destroyed by fire will be rebuilt immediately with more modern and more beautiful buildings than those destroyed, and in addition to these several modern brick structures are to be erected in the business section.

"The contract for Munday's new $40,000 school building will be let on January 16, and work will likely begin on this edifice within the near future. This building, together with the present excellent building, will afford the facilities for the building up of the school to a very great extent and will greatly relieve the present crowded condition of our public schools. This new building, too, with the equipment that will be available, will enable the school to offer additional credits and comply with all the requirements of the state board of education as a school of the first class.

"A contract will also be let on January 16 for the erection of the Baker-Campbell building. According to the plans this building is to be 50x100 feet with frontage on both the square and on the side street, and will be built along the most modern lines for a mercantile establishment, with plate glass front and attractive awnings on both the front of the building and on the west side.

"Plans have been drawn and a contract will be let at an early date by C. A. Eiland and brothers for a modern brick adjoining the Baker-Campbell building, which will be a two-story structure, the lower floor of which will be occupied by the Eiland Drug Store and the upper story will be divided into office suites for offices. This building will be 50x80 feet in size.

"With this contract will also be let one by Messrs. C. A. Eiland and H. A. Pendleton for a brick of like dimensions, the lower portion of which will be occupied by the W. H. Atkieson grocery and the second story by the Odd Fellows and Woodmen of the World as a lodge room.

"On the southeast corner of the square the Campbell Mercantile Co. will soon begin the erection of a modern brick to be occupied by them. This building is to be 50x90 feet in size and will be modern in every respect.

"In addition to the above buildings to be erected on the block recently destroyed by fire, U. S. Rogers will erect a modern brick building, which will be occupied by a grocery store, and will be 50x80 feet in size.

"W. A. Wychne and J. Arthur Smith will also build a brick on this block, which will be occupied by them as a barber shop and tailoring establishment. This building will be 25x80 feet in size.

"In addition to the buildings to be erected on this block, a deal was made this week whereby R. B. and E. M. Wilson purchased the J. M. Terry property just west of the People's theater, and state that they contemplate erplacing the frame buildings now on these lots with modern brick structures in the near future.

"The R. P. Munday building on the northwest corner of the square has been completed and shelving is being placed in the building, which we are informed will be occupied by a dry goods establishment.

"The erection of these buildings and the installation of the $50,000 water works system, for which bonds will doubtless be voted within a few days, will mean that Munday in 1922 will witness the greatest building era she has ever experienced, and with favorable crop conditions should push forward and become one of the very best little cities in all West Texas."

MOTHER!

Move Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Hurry mother! Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful today may prevent a sick child tomorrow. If constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful, has cold, colic, or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels is often all that is necessary.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.
