FOR LONG TIME LOAN

WOULD FINANCE HOLDING
OF 600,000 BALES TO BOOST PRICE

(By The Associated Press)
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 29.—Bankers and cotton marketing experts of the central south laid plans today for financing the retirement of surplus bales of the present season's cotton crop, grown in the Memphis territory. Advised by Eugene Meyer, chairman of a cotton relief commission named by President Coolidge, the bankers conference determined upon the formation of a finance corporation with capital stock of $2,750,000 which should borrow money from the federal intermediate banks at the rate of 10 for each dollar represented by the company's stock.

To Lend 9 Cents Per Pound

This finance corporation, similar to those undertaken in other cotton growing states visited by Mr. Meyer, is designed to retire a part of the surplus crop by lending to farmers at the approximate rate of 9 cents per pound on their cotton, accepting warehouse receipts as security.

The proposed corporation's loans to growers will run for 18 or 24 months. No other existing financial institution is prepared to lend money on cotton for this period, Mr. Meyer pointed out.

Represents Five States

A committee, representing the cotton raising territory of west Tennessee, north Mississippi, extreme east Arkansas, southwest Kentucky, and southeast Missouri, was named to make necessary arrangements for organization of the finance corporation.

Execution of plans laid here today, joined with successful carrying out of similar enterprises in other southern states, is expected by leaders in the relief movement to provide for the retirement of the 1926 cotton surplus, which had been estimated at around 4,000,000 bales.

GIRL LOSES FOOT

Juanita Aragon Hurt When Truck Goes Through Barbed Wire Fence

When a truck on which she was riding crashed through a barbed wire fence at Littlefield yesterday, Juanita Aragon, 12 years old Mexican girl, suffered injuries which necessitated the amputation of her left leg just above the ankle in a Lubbock hospital.

The wire cut her foot nearly off, gashed her face to the bone, and cut her left forearm. She was also bruised and suffered minor cuts.

Juanita and others were leaving a field where they had been picking cotton when the truck, driven by another of the girls, got out of control and went through the fence. Juanita was riding the running board.

NORRIS MAY ASK FOR CONTINUANCE

ONE OF FORT WORTH BAPTIST'S COUNSEL IS SICK, SAYS COLLEAGUE

FORT WORTH, Oct. 29.—Continuance of the murder trial of the Rev. J. Frank Norris, Baptist pastor, probably will be sought when the case is called Wednesday, if Chester Collins, one of the defense counsel has not recovered from a reported serious illness. Norris' counsel, Collins' colleague, said here tonight.

Want to Go Ahead

District Attorney Robert K. Hanger, commented on the report only to the effect, "we are anxious to go ahead with the trial and get it over with."

No indication as to Criminal Judge George E. Hoyer's possible action on a demotion based on Collins' illness could be obtained from the justice tonight. Judge Hoyer asserted that "ordinarily I don't delay trials where one of the several attorneys is ill."

Detroit Policeman Who Killed Mob Member Last Year, Cracks Down With Gun Again

DETROIT, Oct. 29.—Patrolman Frank J. Dombecky cut another notch in his gun today when he shot dead one man and wounded another who attempted to rob a bunch of the Bank of Detroit on the west side. A year ago he shot and killed a member of a mob who had slain Dombecky's partner.

The attempted robbery itself was thwarted before Dombecky who was on evening duty in the neighborhood, reached the bank. Albert Collier, a bank guard, stationed in a steel enclosed turret above the cages, opened fire with a shotgun, the robbers fleeing at the first shot.

Senator Bledsoe Denies Dr. Overton Gave Land In Trust To Be Offered to City As Park Sites; Testimony Is Now All In

The city park case in the 12nd District Court, involving two blocks of land conveyed by Dr. M. C. Overton to W. H. Bledsoe and T. T. Price, and also claimed by the City of Lubbock under an oral agreement alleged by Dr. Overton with Bledsoe and Price to offer the ground to the city for park purposes, failed to reach the jury yesterday.

The entire day was taken up in defense and rebuttal testimony. Last night Judge Gordon B. McGuire was preparing his charge to the jury, and today argument will be made by the seven attorneys acting as counsel in the three-cornered litigation.

Bledsoe Testifies
Price and Bledsoe, who both took the stand yesterday, continued and elaborated the testimony begun by the former Thursday, to the effect that the two blocks of land in dispute were sold to them for value received, along with other property, by Dr. Overton. Overton has declared that although he sold the other property, the two so-called park blocks, while named in the deed, were not included in the consideration, but were given in trust under an oral agreement that they would be offered to the city. The defendants declared on the stand that while Dr. Overton had told them that he had once offered the land to the city, and that it had been refused, no agreement was made for further proffer. They also denied testimony of purchasers of land near the blocks, to the effect that they, Bledsoe and Price, had mentioned to the purchasers that city parks would be put in on the land in dispute.

Yesterday's testimony was marked by a sharp exchange of words between Price, on the witness stand, and attorneys for the city of Lubbock, during cross examination of the witness. The attorneys were told by Judge McGuire to "quit acting like school boys."

TEXAN ADDRESSES BAPTIST STUDENTS

1600 COLLEGE STUDENTS HEAR SCARBOROUGH IN BIRMINGHAM MEETING

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 29.—Sixteen hundred Baptist college students here tonight studied together the lesson of spiritual values as applied to their lives. Led by J. E. Lambdin, Nashville, Tenn., the delegates attending the first all-southern Baptist student conference turned their attention to the higher aspects of Christian living.

Mr. Lambdin, who is secretary of the R. Y. P. U. in the south, told of the opportunities offered by that organization while Miss Juliette Matheo, Birmingham, pointed out the young people's work in the woman's missionary union as a field of service.

Calis on Young Folk
America would be thoroughly Christianized and a knowledge of Jesus Christ would be carried to all the nations of the world if the full capacity of the young people of this generation were released in Christian service, is the opinion of Dr. L. H. Scarborough, president of the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth, Texas, who delivered the principal address of the evening.

A talk dealing with Christian service was made by Miss Mary Gladys Sharp of Okmulgee, Okla.

A Louisville quartette and Rev. William Lewis, negro song evangelist, from Dallas, Texas, sang several songs. Prominent speakers today included Dr. John L. Hill, Nashville; Dr. S. P. Brooks, Waco, Texas; and Dr. Henry Alfred Porter, St. Louis.

Weapon Used in New Jersey Murder, Is Claim of State Investigators; To Exhumed Body

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Oct. 29.—The recovery of a razor believed to have been used to cut the throat of Mrs. Eleanor Mills when she was slain four years ago, with the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, and the issuance of a permit to exhumate the clergyman's body from a Brooklyn cemetery, were new developments in the famous murder case today. They threw investigators into a feverish state of activity in their efforts to gather up loose ends before the opening in Somerville next Wednesday of the trial of the four persons indicted for the murders.

CHEERS FROM THOUSAND THROATS SEND THEM ON THEIR WAY

Cheers from a thousand throats yesterday sent the Matadors on their way to their first battle with a Southwestern conference team, when the Avalanche-Journal train pulled out at 6 p. m. from the Santa Fe station for Fort Worth, where the Texas Tech football team will meet the T. C. U. Horned Frogs today.

After the team and the eighty piece band and the five hundred rooters were on their way, it took the police fifteen minutes to clear the open space around the station of the traffic jam.

All Steamed Up

In spite of the disappointment of the fans most of whom had seen the Western-Sandstorm game during the afternoon, over the disastrous 3 to 6 victory which sent the Panhandle high school championship to Amarillo, they were "all steamed up" over the Tech breaking into such fast football company as the conference, and a waving of scarlet pennants and a wishing of games evidenced the fact.

The special train will reach Fort Worth at 8 o'clock this morning, when led by the Tech Band and escorted by the Fort Worth police, they will parade Cowtown.

It will be noon Sunday before they reach Lubbock again, and those who wished them "bon voyage" yesterday expect them to bring back the scalps of the Horned Frogs—if horned frogs have scalps.

RESULTS BY QUARTERS ON TECH AND T. C. U.

Results of the Matador-Horned Frog game at Ft. Worth today will be announced by quarters in front of the Avalanche-Journal building this afternoon, but play by play reports will not be available here. However, a complete report of the game will appear in the Sunday morning edition of the Avalanche-Journal, by James Rankin Dowling, who will attend the game.

TWO YEAR FIGHT TO AVENGE OSAGE MURDER IS WON

KING OF HILLS AND ALLEGED TOOL ARE BOTH CONVICTED

WILL APPEAL, SAID

REIGN OF TERROR AMONG INDIANS LED UP TO TRIAL

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 29.—A two year campaign of the United States government to solve what one of its attorneys declared was the most "far-reaching murder plot in the history of the country" tonight was triumphant.

William K. Hale, wealthy rancher, known in the Osage Indian Nation as "King of the Osage Hills" and John Ramsey, a farmer, today were convicted in federal court here of the murder of Henry Roan, full blooded Osage Indian and sentenced to life imprisonment in the Leavenworth penitentiary.

Hale is charged by the government as being the instigator of a series of slayings in the Osage tribe to obtain or gain considerable of their fortunes, and the Roan case was selected as the strongest upon which to try him.

As a result of repeated mysterious deaths among the Osages, a so-called "reign of terror" prevailed and when government investigators went into the country two years ago, they found brilliant strings of electric lights around the homes of many of the tribesmen. Witnesses at first were afraid to talk, but their stories were gradually unfolded as they gained confidence.

Will Appeal
The government's victory came after nearly a year of bitter legal battles. Even now, the end is not in sight. Hale's attorneys immediately announced intention of appealing the verdict to the circuit court at St. Louis.

The collection of a $25,000 life insurance policy that Hale had on Roan's life was the motive ascribed by the government for the Indian's death. Hale defended taking out the policy as a legitimate business procedure, claiming that the Indian owed him the full amount. He now has a civil suit seeking collection pending in federal court at Tulsa, and has charged that the murder proceedings were instigated against him by the Insurgent.

$2,000,000 Involved
Ramsey was charged by the government with being Roan's actual slayer. Three crimes that the government charged were a part of a murderous plot against the lives of an entire Indian family with fortunes estimated at $2,000,000 were laid at Hale's door by investigators of the United States department of justice.

Two Indian women with whose slaying Hale is charged of being the instigator were sisters of the wife of Hale's nephew, Ernest Burkhardt. The first of these to die, Anna Brown, was shot to death in a lonely canyon near Fairfax, a town in the Osage nation. The second, Mrs. W. E. Smith, was killed with her white husband and a servant girl in an explosion that wrecked their Fairfax home early in 1925.

Ernest Burkhardt, Hale's nephew, is under sentence of life imprisonment in the state prison for his confessed participation in the Smith explosion.

Byron Burkhardt, another nephew, is under charges of murder in connection with the killing of Anna Brown. The case is scheduled to go to trial at Pawhuska in December.

The Woman's Day

"What about the new books," inquires my married friend, Margie. "I have such a precious little bit of time and when I do read, I want it to count."

Margie is not alone in this feeling. Let's talk once in awhile about the new books and you can decide for yourself what one is "your book."

They're not all new, these three by Louis Bromfield. But they are trilets, and if you read his "Early Autumn," which really is new, you'll want to go back to the others, "The Green Bay Tree" and "Possessions."

Lily Shane is the heroine of "The Green Bay Tree." Lily, the lovely, daring, spirited daughter of the dead John Shane, man of mystery who came to the drab little mid-western town, bought his estate for a song and held out against the mills, refusing to sell. But the same despised mills let him die a millionaire. Lily, the flesh-pot daughter and Irene, the sickly, ascetic, nunlike one are rich.

"It is because I was rich that I was able to do what many women cannot." The thing she was able to do was to go to Paris after refusing to marry her governor lover, bear and rear her son, and meet life unconquered and unblemished. Lily might be what some would call "a light woman." She admits she cannot live without men. But she rears her son Jean into a good manhood and makes all life about her a more vivid, joyful thing.

Then comes "Possessions," with Ellen Tolliver the heroine. Ellen is a poor relation of Lily. She hates the mill town too, but there seems no way of escape for her. And the genius of a great musician beats within her.

But Ellen finds the way to escape. It is a man—a poor, weak traveling salesman who takes Ellen away. Stupid thing.

INDIGESTION

North Carolina Lady Says She Had An Awful Time With Indigestion, Till She Took Black-Draught.

Filot Mountain, N. C.—"For several years I suffered with a bad case of chronic indigestion," says Mrs. Sam C. Inman, of this place. "I had bad spells with my stomach. At times I had severe pains in my right side. My stomach would get upset and I would have an awful time. It seemed like everything I ate disagreed with me. I was in pretty bad shape."

"My husband had been using Theodore's Black-Draught for some time for indigestion. He had spells of it too, so he suggested that I try Black-Draught. I took some from his box, just to see if it would help me, and I found it was the very thing for my trouble. It did me a great deal of good. My condition was brought on by a chronic case of constipation and by getting relief from this, I found my general health was much better."

"We keep Black-Draught in the house all the time. Whenever I find I need it, I take several doses and thus avert a bad spell of indigestion. It is a splendid medicine and I am glad to say so."

Bedford's BLACK-DRAUGHT
Purely Vegetable

dying, she rises fast. The husband, realizing he is a drag upon her, commits suicide. Ellen, needing no man, is free; Lily, needing them, also free.

"But what will they mean for me?" Margie will ask. A picture of strong, roiling, capable women who "see life steadily and see it whole," and who manage to hew through a hard trail of life into an open clearing of the thing they want. Vivid, superb characters, these women.

Susan Shane, heroine of a book by that name, is a character like that. When 14 years old, with the burdens of a feeble household upon her, Susan begins battling her way through to clean, orderly living. She gets a chef to teach her to make pastries. After weeks of scolding for wasting "good flour and butter" she evolves a "Susan Shane" pastry that makes folks to whom she peddles it, laugh—but eat. Susan's penalty for not succeeding in "growing hard," turning down love for millions. Pathetic but lovable, this Susan Shane.

Fleur Forsythe and her enemy, Marjorie Somebody, reign in Galsworthy's "Silver Spoon." By the way, if you want to put in most of your spare time for many weeks, reading a really neatly novel, dive into Galsworthy's "Forsythe Saga" and then the "White Monkey."

Irene Forsythe, Annette, Winifred, Holly and Fleur are the most entertaining women encountered in fiction in a long time. Irene perhaps is the best picture of "that beauty which possesseth men" ever painted in a book.

A friend asked me about Theodore Dreiser's "American Tragedy" recently. "It sounds so sordid; all about murder and all that," she said. "Must one really read it? Is it worth the horror?"

"Absolutely," I told her, "if you want to read the one big book of a decade."

Queen Sanctions Red as Season's Color

By BETSY SCHUYLER
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Red received the royal sanction as the season's favorite color when Queen Marie made her first appearance in America in a frock of red tulle, with a velvet coat of the same shade, lavishly fur-trimmed. But I doubt if the turbans of metal cloth she wore makes much headway over here, since it was by no means as smart as the small felt or velvet hats which our best dressed women effect.

Certainly red and gold is a difficult combination for a blonde, and I hope I have an opportunity to see our royal visitor in some of the lovely black frocks she is reported to have bought in Paris. Her famed beauty was not enhanced by her choice of costume.

Princess Plainly Dressed
No boarding house miss could have been more demurely or quietly cooed than the Princess Diana, who wore a navy blue ensemble and a small felt hat of the same color. She must have been properly captioned as "what the well dressed sub deb will wear."

I have always considered Mrs. Vincent Astor one of the most perfectly dressed American women, and have admired her conservatism, but I could not grant her much sartorially when she appeared on the Leviathan to greet the Queen.

Her gray wool ensemble trimmed with gray kimmer, and her nondescript little gray felt hat seemed to me quite without distinction. On the whole, I didn't think blondes scored very well on the occasion of the queen's arrival, gentlemen's preferences notwithstanding.

But one brunette on the Leviathan, in particular, was a delight to the eye—though she was a bit obscured by so much royalty and gold braid generally. That was Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt.

Those Morgan girls are born beauties, and understand how to be picturesque as well as beautiful. Though extremely tall, Mrs. Vanderbilt was chic and snappy. Her black suit was narrow and slim and her white blouse was an exquisite French hand made one. Her tiny black hat had tiny folds in the crown and an exquisite jeweled ornament at the side. Her "top coat" was of black Persian lamb. Two style features impressed me—she was wearing a tiny veil held in place under her chin with a velvet band—and she wore black hosiery with her black suede pumps.

With Mrs. Vanderbilt was the Marquise de San Carlos de Pelrosa, very modish in a tweed one-piece frock, a lovely coat of leopard skin, and a felt hat very much like the one worn by Mrs. Vanderbilt.

Those Little Hats
Those close fitting small felt hats—you simply can't beat them for style. Turbans, unless extremely small and very knowingly manipulated, are bound to be heavy—and what is much worse—to be hopelessly matronly.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, also returning on the same boat with the royal party, was completely outfitted in black.

Since the football season has obligingly opened, one has an opportunity to see the new fur top coats and the wooly new wraps in their proper setting.

LOCAL BRIEFS

EXPECT GUSHER

Thornton Well At Needle Creek Looks Good to Observers of Abilene Field

(Special To The Avalanche)
ABILENE, Oct. 29.—Another huge gusher similar to the Joe Winter well of the Phillips Petroleum Company in the Needle Creek pool is expected in the next few days as the drill of the Midway's Thornton No. 1 nears the pay. The drill reached a depth of 2,150 feet today, or 365 feet above the pay sand of the Winter well. Water is standing in the hole that was struck at the same level as the water in the Winter well.

The Phillips Tension No. 1 is 2,975 feet deep, also full of water. The Thornton is the southwest offset and the Tension the south offset of the Winter well.

Three miles east of the discovery well the Hurley company's Bears No. 1, at 1,800 feet, is shut down with boiler trouble.

Howell No. 1, Atlantic Oil & Producing Company, three-fourths mile south of the Joe Winter well, is drilling at 200 feet.

WELLINGTON C. OF C. TO TAKE UP MATTER WITH I. C. C.

(Special To The Avalanche)
WELLINGTON, Oct. 29.—Complaint against the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railway Company will be filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission at an early date by the Wellington Chapter of Commerce according to R. L. Gillette, Chairman of the Chamber of Commerce. Gillette states that the present freight rates into Wellington are entirely out of line, and that a hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission is the only remedy for relief.

Menu for the Day

BREAKFAST—Grapes, cereal, top milk, French toast, syrup, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Broiled tomatoes on toast, caramel custard, milk, tea.

DINNER—Ragout of mutton, boiled potatoes, creamed turnips, celery, fruit cup, graham bread, milk, coffee. The fruit cup is a particularly happy choice for dessert. A pear, peach, an apple, an orange, a banana and white seeded grapes are thoroughly chilled in a medium syrup. A "dash" of whipped cream adds to festivity of the cup when serving.

Broiled Tomatoes on Toast

Four rounds of bread, 2 good sized tomatoes, 4 thin slices of cheese, 1 tablespoon minced green pepper, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 2 tablespoons butter, 4 thin slices bacon, 4 sprigs parsley, salt, sugar, pepper, 2 tablespoons grated cheese.

Toast bread lightly and quickly and spread with butter. Place on a shallow pan and put a slice of cheese on each side. Peel tomatoes and cut in halves. Put half a tomato on the cheese, cut side up. Sprinkle with sugar, salt and pepper, minced pepper and onion. Dot with butter and cover with grated cheese. Put bacon over top and place in a hot oven until the bacon is crisp and the tomatoes and cheese are cooked. Garnish with parsley and serve at once.

This recipe sounds fancy, but its simplicity is enough to serve for club refreshments if the "paris" are assembled and prepared in advance.

The bread is cut about half an inch larger than the tomatoes.

SIDE SHOWS AND THE MAIN TENT

What a wonderful day it was when the old circus came to town! For weeks the fences and barns and specially erected billboards throughout the village and the contiguous country carried the marvelous pictures of the animals, the clowns, the tight rope walker, and the trapeze performers. Excitement grew as the show day approached. When the day did come, early in the morning the people in the country loaded themselves in their wagons or mounted their work horses and started upon the long three or four-mile journey over the rough, unkept county roads to the place of the show. Great expectancy filled every mind. It was to be a great circus, the greatest that had ever been seen in that part of the country, so the billboards said. Then the parade—nothing like it had ever taken place within the memory of the oldest citizen. The mind burst yet as one recalls the excitement of that show day, now long in the golden past. But that day had its let-down. Disappointment almost to the extent of great sadness covered the faces of the throngs that wearily wended their way homeward as the day wore to its ending. In the first place, the parade had only two elephants instead of ten, the woman did not ride in the cage with the lion but in a separate section, the hyena cage was not uncovered, and the steam calliope played one piece. It was a poor parade. Then the main circus was not up to the advertisement. The pictures showed a three-ring circus, and they had only one; they had only two clowns, and one of them seemed to be lame, and they advertised six; they had lots of bareback riding, but the woman did not jump through the hoop of fire; the tight-rope walker did not come, and the elephants did not perform. It was a poor show, and everybody felt that he should have his money back. But my, at the side shows! The fat man! The tall woman! The midget! The snake charmer! Those Arab fellows! There were fifteen or twenty, and it was "extra" to get into any of the, and when you got in you did not see much. The main show was too meager and too light and the side shows too numerous and too clamorous for the circus to gain the commendation and praise of the expectant patrons. But it is really not the old circus that engages us. We are thinking and writing of several things, but primarily of our schools and colleges. We wonder if it is actually true, as Woodrow Wilson, the great educator, once said, that in our colleges the side shows tended to supplant the main tent. He said nothing against these side shows, for they have a place; but he was tremendously interested in the main tent, where the real education was to take place. There is grave danger that too much will be going on around a college for the students to see the main thing and get it. They like athletics and fraternities and parties and things and more things; but if they want intellectual development and life training, they must stick to the main tent. Schools are inclined to undertake too much for their slender means and meager equipment. They will offer courses in everything from housekeeping and china painting to psycholanalysis and world diplomacy just because other schools do and some commercially-indebted patrons demand it. As a result of all this college education is getting distressingly thin in some spots. The show is not equal to the promise of the billboards. The courses given do not meet the level of the pompous bulletins and catalogues. What this Southern country needs just now, and we are not writing for any other, is a dozen or so real first-class college courses taught by professors old enough in experience to be out of their first childhood and young enough in their thinking to be out of their second. The call is for colleges with fewer side shows and more service in the main tent. Education that educates is still really worth while.

We would not criticize the Church nor be unfair in speaking of its organizations and operations because of our reverence for it, but it does really seem sometimes that the main tent is being hid behind a multitude of subsidiary societies. This may not be because the exercises in the main tent have become poorer but rather that those in the side sections have become greatly richer; but, nevertheless, it is a fact that the show will always be judged, and rightly, by what takes place in the main tent. Whether the side sections shall be restricted or the service in the main tent be increased must be left to him who has charge of both. The main tent in human life is too often allowed to be over-shadowed by side matters. Time and talent, worth and destiny are frittered away in undue attention to side issues. They may be important. "Seek ye first"—what a man puts in after that determines not only his character, but his service to the world. Expectancies will never go unmet if a man discharges his full responsibility in the main tent.

THE IMPORTANCE OF VOTING TUESDAY

We are aware of the fact that so far as electing men are concerned for the various offices in the state from the office of justice of the peace up to the highest place in the gift of the people, the matter was settled in Texas at the Democratic primaries in July. However, there are many things that enter into the working of the government that should be taken into consideration, which cannot be effected by any other than the general election on vote D. W. Wilcox, of Georgetown, who is chairman of the State Democratic executive Committee, has issued a statement in regard to the election next Tuesday. He urges that a full vote be polled and gives his reasons for it. He says:

"The claim of the Republican party that it has a good chance of electing its State ticket, is not made seriously, but is a claim made in the hope to catch a few votes. But this claim and the fact that the Republican party is making a vigorous campaign, will doubtless cause every Republican to vote. Certainly the Republican party can never hope for success in Texas. Our loyalty to the Democratic Party is not purely sectional, but the interests, industries and activities of the people of Texas are best secured by the principles of our party. The people of Texas realize that the policies of the Republican party enacted into law mean economic distress in Texas, while the principles of the Democratic party insure prosperity to industries of this State. By reason of the matters above mentioned, every Democrat should go to the polls on November 2nd, and vote the straight Democratic ticket. Eight hundred thousand Democrats voted in the primaries, and all of them should vote in the general election.

In 1928 we will have two State conventions, one to select delegates to the National Convention, and the other the regular State convention. The vote of each county in these conventions will be determined by and in proportion to the vote cast on November 2nd for the Democratic nominee for Governor. The larger the vote in any county is for Dan Moody, the larger will be the vote of the county in the conventions.

It appears now that we will have a Democratic majority in the next Congress, and we will also gain seats in the United States Senate. If the Democrats get control of the House, Congressmen from Texas will be chairmen of ten of the most important committees. Under these circumstances, Texas will be in a position to wield a mighty influence in the National councils of the party. A large vote for the ticket in the general election will strengthen this influence and a small vote will weaken it. Every loyal Democrat should go to the polls and vote the Democratic ticket from top to bottom. We urge them to do so and believe they will, and thereby demonstrate again that Texas is the banner Democratic State.

THE PRIMARY SYSTEM O. K.

A number of political leaders are predicting the end of the primary. They say that the recent evidences of corruption show that the primary system is vicious and susceptible to corruption.

This is the leading joke of the year. The only difference between corruption in primaries and in conventions is that the purchase of convention votes is more convenient and less discernible. The corruption that exists in the primaries of the United States can be ascertained whereas in the old days the bribery of convention members and the purchase of votes could be hidden and, as a matter of fact, was successfully hidden most of the time.

The truth of the matter is that the disclosure of revolting uses of money in the country, in recent primaries, has strengthened the opinion of many people that the primary is a necessary cog in our political machine. It is much harder, and more costly, to purchase the majority of a large electorate than to hand buy the smaller number of votes that will give control of a convention.

The fact that a system is in effect in many of the states of the Union including Texas, whereby a checkup is possible, and it is much easier to locate the graft is a pretty good indication that it is not a very bad thing after all. The trouble with many politicians is that they really are not in favor of anything that will enable the people to check up on them, and for that reason some of them are kicking about the primary system in Texas as well as in other states.

THE HOME DEMONSTRATION AGENT

There is much comment going the rounds of the county just at this time, and much criticism of the action of the Commissioner's court because of its actions in regard to the Home Demonstration agent in this county. In talking with some of the members of the court, we gather that the present court is in favor of the services of some one being continued, and that it is not the reason that they give for the action but being a matter of expenditure of money during the coming year, they were desirous of letting the new court which will be composed of three members, absolutely new on the job, make the contract. In some respects this stand might be connected, but we do not believe that it is altogether justified and in the opinion of the people in general we think would be in favor of the present court going right ahead with the program of work and let the new court take up where they left off. We notice that they are going forward with most every item and we do not see that they should make a month or more break in the work in this county just for the sake of letting their successors sign the contract.

We believe there is a strong sentiment in favor of the office being continued, and those most interested want to know what they may expect in the matter. If the new court is to handle the situation that will be new on the job, and quite naturally they will want to take some time to investigate the work, and to hear what the people have to say for and against, and this will probably take up from thirty to sixty days of the time, and by the time we can get another representative here from the state department we will have lost three months of the time that might have been given to the people.

As we see it, and according to what we have been able to learn of the sentiment of the people of the county, we think the wise thing to do is to renew the contract at the expiration of the present one, which is the latter part of November and let the work go on without any interruption on the part of the agent in this county.

LAUGHS

Unsettling the Laws of Mathematics
A sheet of blank writing paper is lying on a desk. Of itself, it isn't worth much money—say about one fifth of a cent. But now a poet comes along, sees the paper lying there, dips his pen into an inkwell and writes some verses upon the paper. The value of the ink used is about one-twentieth of a cent. Now, by the laws of mathematics, one would think that the value of the sheet of paper now would be the value of the sheet of paper plus the value of the ink. But such is not the case. Both the ink and the sheet of paper having been used are absolutely worthless.—Q. E. D.

SO THINK WE

We think when a fellow goes so far wrong on things that nearly anybody with ordinary intelligence can see through, folks do not have much confidence in them any more.

We think possibly the reason some folks have no aim in life is because they are afraid they will miss it and they do not want people to know that they are such a poor shot.

We think the Westerner will in all probability go right through the Golden Sandstormers this afternoon. Lubbock people will be disappointed if they do not.

We think a lot more folks can be made trouble easier than they can money.

We think the Democrats will very likely make a sweeping victory over Texas this fall.

We think every good citizen who has the interest of the Solid South in their system will go to the polls and vote Tuesday, because it will mean something to this country in our representation in Congress next year.

We think that a grade crossing is a mighty good place to stop look and listen.

We think the main reason of so many accidents at the railroad crossings and street intersections is the fact that too many people are in too big a hurry.

We think the chronic complainer sure has a hard time when everything is working smoothly.

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that asbestos suits have been invented for firemen and those who have to work around intense heat. Possibly the first place will be equipped with these kind of suits, provided a fellow has the money to buy them. But the trouble is we will have to leave all of our money at home when we go, and there will not be a chance to escape.

It is reported that a German has invented a machine whereby he can walk on water. The modelist will now come along and say that the story in the Bible about walking on water is all a hoax. We understand, however, that a monkey has never been taught to walk on water yet.

It is reported that crop failure in Denmark is causing a great hardship in that country among the farmers. Over-production is causing great hardships among the farmers of this section, so after all Denmark has nothing on America.

It is reported that even the church buildings in Lubbock are not big enough to take care of the people who want to go to Sunday school.

PUBLIC OPINION

THE HOME DEMONSTRATION AGENT IS VERY NECESSARY
Lubbock, Texas,
Oct. 25, 1926.

The Honorable Commissioners,
Court of Lubbock County.

Greeting:
In the Lubbock Avalanche of Oct. 16, the Editor makes mention of the fact that the Commissioners of your Court have voted to discontinue the office of the County Home Demonstration Agent. No reason was assigned for so doing.

It is my opinion, and from my acquaintance with the people and work of the various clubs I believe the same is shared by every club woman and girl in your jurisdiction, that you have made a very grave error, and perhaps, to lack of information on the subject.

Home Demonstration Clubs are not "gossiping societies" as you may suppose. The opposite is true. There is a marked absence of foolishness and gossip at every meeting of the Woodrow Wilson club, and great interest is shown in the work.

Times have changed and we must meet the emergency. Farm women and a great majority of girls can not attend industrial schools. The Home Demonstration is their teacher.

Our club has kindled community interest where everything else has failed. If we are forced to disband, a sure and rapid retrogression will begin.

Can Lubbock county afford to allow another county to come to her door (the Home of the Tech) and take her one Demonstrator when she actually needs two to line up the work and get under way toward leadership as her opportunity and position are demanding?

Shall she maintain an unprogressive atmosphere in the home of the Tech and cause embarrassment on account of her surroundings?

Would Lubbock county be showing proper appreciation for the best gift the state had to confer upon a county?

Is she so short of vision she can not see that criticism, nay, more, ridicule, will be heaped at her when the "HDS" is mentioned?

Can she with due regard for the best interest of her citizenship, remove this office, which is one of her greatest assets?

Where is the civic pride of which you boasted in your candidacy?

Will you at this time remember your promise to "serve the people in the best of your ability?"

I appeal to you in behalf of the people against whom you are discriminating, give us back our Demonstrator.

MRS. JOE COLEMAN

Ships Are Farmer's Allies

By SEN. WESLEY L. JONES
Chairman, Senate Commerce Committee

When the World War broke out there were only 15 vessels under the American flag over 1000 gross tons engaged in the overseas trade. The aggregate tonnage of these ships was 164,528. They would carry only about 2 per cent of our foreign trade annually.

On Sept. 8, 1912, I said in the Senate:

"British ships transport the greater part of our foreign commerce. Suppose England should engage in war with a great power. Thousands of her ships would be taken for transport and other thousands might be destroyed and the products we now send abroad would be left on our hands, glutting our markets and bringing upon our industry ruin and widespread commercial disaster. Farmers and manufacturers would suffer alike and the laborer and his family would face the wolf of hunger in his home."

Under the armistice for ships, we spent over $200,000,000 in building them. This money was raised among our people through the sale of Liberty bonds. The sum was more than the estimated value of all the merchant ships of the world when the war began.

It is a conservative estimate that our lack of ships at the beginning of the World War has cost our people more than $2,000,000,000. This is equivalent to an annual expenditure of $75,000,000 a year for a hundred years.

What more is needed to show an intelligent and patriotic man, from the financial side alone, that we can well afford to pay out $20,000,000 a year for new ships and aid in the construction of new ships and their equipment?

I consider it so important for us to have a merchant marine that I am prepared to vote for any measure that offers a reasonable hope of giving us merchant ships.

JUST FOLKS

A FEW LINES TO WISDOM

Well, life's begun, she's on her way
To kindergarten school today!
They'll teach her little bits of verse
And pretty lines which she'll recite;
And these I do not view with dread,
I see the long years stretch ahead
And view with genuine concern
The harder lessons she must learn.
Wisdom, I pray, keep nearest her
And sweet and true her lovely child,
And soon shall teach her how to play
And soon shall teach her what to say
From babyhood she'll climb to youth
Acquiring more and more of truth;
With every fact she comes to know
From her own fairy thought will grow.

Deal gently with her, Knowledge wins,
Steal not the sunshine from her eyes,
Lend not those happy feet astray
While promising a fairy way.
Still keep her clean and pure of heart,
Save her from needless ache and smart.

With beauty keep her cheeks aflame,
Share her the bitterness of shame,
To you, today, our child we give,
Touch her a glorious life to live.

BASSETT LEADS SANDIES TO 3 TO 0 VICTORY

AMARILLO CAPTAIN BOOTS 40 YARD DROP KICK FOR VICTORY IN SPITE OF STUBBORN WESTERNER DEFENSE

Amarillo's Golden Sandstorm swept from off the black expanses of the North Panhandle yesterday afternoon and for forty-four minutes of play Lubbock high school's Westerners bowed their necks and stood their ground. In the final minute of play in the third quarter, however, Captain Bassett, plucky little Sandie quarterback, brought his educated toe into play. From the left side of Lubbock's forty yard line the ball sailed true, dropping over the cross bar as perfect a drop kick as has ever been kicked. The game, replete with thrills, ended three to 0 favoring the invading Sandies from the new oil center.

"Too much Bassett" spells the reason for the stubborn defeat of the Westerners who stretched capacity to overcome the lead of the Amarilloans. "Red" Barton, Westerner tackle, Captain Bassett, and "Toots" Wolfarth, substitute guard who in the final minutes of play flung his toe in the path of Bassett's driving toe to block a punt and after his team's other chance to score, were all "very much on the job." To the Sandstorm leader, however, goes the lion's share of the credit. He passed, he punned, he received passes, he guarded the Westerner line and skirted the ends and every time he was called upon to deliver he delivered—laying the package right at the door.

Passing is frequent. Both teams passed repeatedly, the Sandstormers having the edge on the aerial play, while fake plays were also called upon by both teams. Cyrus Land, Lubbock halfback, brought the Sandies to their feet in the last quarter when Calculator Eddie Atkinson used the drop bucket on the fourth down with fifty yards to go. Land smashed off Amarillo's left tackle for eighteen yards and first down, without interference. With the exception of Bassett's final field goal, Lubbock's play was mostly of the spectacular or the dull, thankless type, time to time he succeeded in skirting the Sandies' axis.

The Westerners seemed to rely upon a defensive campaign, cynically planning to block Amarillo's line in the latter stages of the contest until Lubbock's field goal forced the team to change its tactics. In the first half, the Westerners frequently lost ground on the exchange of punts. From the line on, however, quarterback Atkinson turned his attention to offensive play but to little avail. For the first time since the first City combat Maurice Brown, who has been regarded as first string quarterback, did not start the game. Curtis Allen, at center for New Trier's crew, played a superb game at center, in sharp contrast with the work of Amarillo's pivotal linemen whose passing, at times, was nothing short of ragged.

Strolling Down Sport Lane

With James R. Dow

This kid Bassett, who captains the Amarillo grid team, looks like a count. The youngster has speed and endurance. In addition to his ability to pun, pass and drop kick, he proved himself to be more than an average high school player yesterday and we're probably hear from him later—perhaps at Texas Tech.

When Fredland throws his re-geared looking guard the stone wall of Mickey Bell's eleven, this afternoon almost anything is likely to happen—just like when an invincible force strikes an immovable object, as it were.

Seriously speaking, however, a close score is in prospect. Both teams are better defensively than they are offensively.

An Amarillo sport writer writes in the column which bears his picture too, by gum, that Lubbock needs to worry about having Hal Chase and the Black Sox to play baseball their next summer. He instructs us to turn our attention toward a team here that will beat Amarillo's team, which, he says, will not be composed of "outlaws." It is to be high. Looking back on the Denver outcome in 1925 and the Amarillo team last summer it doesn't look like we have much to worry about.

"Toots" Wolfarth, Westerner guard, showed yesterday afternoon that he had that football essential—"guts." In flung himself in the way of Bassett's incoming eleven and to have a punt in the shadow of the Sandstorm goal post and thus give his team another chance to score in the final minutes of the game.

Ludwig Von Tulpach, Westerner head coach, didn't forget one of the plays he learned while wearing the Red and White jersey of the University of Oklahoma. Several of his players are closely allied to some of the players of the O. U. team, and the University of Oklahoma and the University of Missouri Valley coaches.

We'll see what we will see today when the Sandstorm try their hand at conference competition. The Horned Frogs will know they've been in a football game regardless of the final score.

It was impossible to get play-by-play reports of the game at Fort Worth, due to the location of the press. However, the Avantage-Journal will give the results by quarters. James R. Dow, Avantage-Journal sports editor, will be on hand and will have all the dope in tomorrow's paper.

Horned Frogs Are Ready For Tech

FORT WORTH, Oct. 29.—Horned Frogs of Texas Christian University, taking a light workout Friday, are ready for what is expected to be a better football battle here tomorrow afternoon.

The Matadors of Texas Technological College accompanied by 200 rooters, will arrive Saturday prepared to furnish stiff opposition for the last home game of the Frogs this season.

Only one regular, Tully Brewster, will not be in the Christian lineup. Fred McConnell will take his place at tackle but in case the Matadors drive becomes threatening Brewster will be sent into the fray, regardless of a broken hand.

Brewster, as stout as any tackle in the conference when aroused, will be moved in the line because the Frog linebacker will be up against a stout wall. Fredland is noted for his strong lines developed for his teams and the Tech line is no exception.

Lamesa Swamps Post 52 to 0

(Special To The Avantage)
LAMESA, Oct. 29.—Lamesa, swept the Post eleven off their feet here this afternoon in the time of 52 to 0. The only first down Post made in the game was a completed forward pass. Coaches Stephens and McCallum played the entire squad of thirty men in the game. Lamesa could gain at will and never failed to make their down except once. It would be hard to give special mention to any men on the Lamesa squad, all seem to have starred. Lamesa found considerable strength in her sub in this game. The line of Wiggins from left in the State game was not left today. Lamesa plays Midland here next Friday and will go to Austin to meet the Tooted Tigers on November 11th.

Aggies Clash With Baylor Bears Today

WACO, Texas, Oct. 29.—With thousands of ex-students swarming into the city for the annual homecoming celebration and the powerful team of Coach Dana X. Bible scheduled to arrive here tomorrow for A. M. H. clash with the Baylor Bears on the Cotton Palace gridiron Saturday afternoon. Waco fans were keyed to a high pitch tonight.

Although the majority of critics give the Aggies a margin of from three to fourteen points for victory, the prognostic of Coach Mosley Jennings isn't high hopes. The Aggies will enter the game with several of their leading players on the injured list, according to the latest word from College Station. Though clouds darkened the skies here practically all day today, no rain had fallen at a late hour tonight.

If the field be dry tomorrow, a forward passing game is expected. Both teams are expected to play in a more or less cautious line, however.

Yellowjackets Win From St. Edwards

BROWNWOOD, Oct. 29.—After being outplayed in the first half, the Howard Payne Yellow Jackets rallied by the third period and defeated St. Edwards football team, 7 to 0 here Friday afternoon.

The Yellow Jacket touchdown came after Boyd punted 42 yards and the ball was returned to Howard Payne 29 yard line, where the Salina fumbled on their second play and the Jackets recovered the ball. Boyd made a touchdown in two plays.

St. Edwards then came back strong in the final period and had a tie by the margin of a goal kick when a play Dyer to Schmidt, permitted a touchdown. Brown, Jacket end, blocked the goal try.

Pacific Coast Football Games

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 28.—Football cheer will engrave the picture of attitude gridiron struggle in green tufted field of the Los Angeles coliseum when Stanford and the University of Southern California clash in the far west's outstanding game of the mid-season.

Both undefeated, the result is expected to sound the death knell for one so far as the Pacific Coast conference is concerned.

Whittier and Arizona meet in an inter-sectional encounter at Tucson.

Star Southpaw Gridder

MYRON "MIKE" STEVENS

Myron "Mike" Stevens, halfback and captain of this year's University of Maryland football eleven, weighs only 140 pounds but is regarded as one of the best backfield men in the South Atlantic section. Stevens is a southpaw and not only passes with his left hand, but drop-kicks with his left foot. He is a three-spot man, winning letters in football, basketball and baseball.

Mantel Wins At Amarillo

AMARILLO, Texas, Oct. 29.—Dutch Mantel, veteran matman, kicked Joe Kopeck, Taylor, Texas, grappler into unconsciousness here tonight in a wrestling match before a crowd of 1,000 fans.

Kopecky took the first fall in twenty-one minutes with a headlock and Mantel knocked his opponent out for the night after seventy minutes

ACE HUDKINS WINS

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska wildcat, carried off the judges' decision over Phil McGraw tonight in a spectacular 12 round slugfest, featuring the boxing show at Madison Square Garden, before a crowd of 18,000. It was a return match with Hudkins repeating his victory.

TEN DRAMATIC FOOTBALL TILTS FEATURE EASTERN GRIDS TODAY, WITH THREE INTERSECTION GAMES

NEW YORK, Oct. 29. (AP)—Football foliage which has taken the brightest tints of October faces a withering blast tomorrow, in as dramatic a series of gridiron battles as any day has promised. The tests will determine the front line ranks for the November climax.

The hopes of aspirants for eastern championship recognition will be at stake in no fewer than ten games, most of which will be flavored with intersectional interest or tradition interest.

Five of the major probably will attract crowds ranging from 50,000 to 75,000 each.

The West Point cadets will invade the Yale Bowl, seeking revenge and a victory that will keep their record intact. Reports favor the Mules to trim the Bulldogs for the first time since 1911. The Cadets will be without the services of their best kicker, Trunnell, but Yale is even harder hit by the loss of the offensive ace of its backfield, Larry Noble, as well as the defensive star, Bill Kline.

Three important intersectional tilts will see Pennsylvania invading the stronghold of Illinois, Michigan facing the Navy at Baltimore, and the Missouri Tigers entering the jungle of the West Virginia mountaineers. Only one of these teams, Illinois, has not defeat so far.

Title hopes are also involved in three colorful battles, bringing together long standing rivals on neutral ground. Two unbeaten eleven, Washington and Jefferson and La Fayette in their annual clash on the Franklin field, New York, will watch Cornell and Columbia renew their feud at the Polo Grounds, while New York University clashes with Fordham at the Yankee stadium.

Brown, with Yale's scalp already lifted, invades the Hanover, determined to even old scores with Dartmouth, Colgate, although likely to play without its captain, Nick Meier, will try to repulse Michigan state. Boston college the only eastern team as yet undefeated on, may encounter a tartar in West Virginia Wesleyan, but Holy Cross, Harvard, Princeton, Syracuse, Pennsylvania State and Pittsburgh among the major outfits, expect a little trouble in winning.

Undefeated Trio Battle in Rockies

DENVER, Oct. 29.—A trio of undefeated Rocky Mountain football teams in action is tomorrow's menu for the fans in this region.

The outstanding pair—Colorado Aggies and Utah University—came together with a re-sounding clash in a contest slated to decide mountain football supremacy for 1926.

Utah Aggies, also undefeated, but with two ties to their record, will clash it out with Denver University here tomorrow.

Montana State College, undefeated in the conference but badly trampled at Battle last week, meets Colorado Teachers at Baseman in an attempt to retain an unblemished escutcheon on the Rocky Mountain lope.

Colorado College and Colorado University also will have a treacherous underfooting for their annual grudge affair at Colorado Springs, while fair weather was in prospect for the western state Colorado-Minnesota game at Delta, Colo., where the two lowly conference members will fight it out for the cellar position.

BOY SCOUTS OF SOUTH PLAINS REWARDED FOR HARD WORK AS SEVENTY-TWO MERIT BADGES ARE ISSUED AT COURT OF HONOR

Seventy scouts received their merit badges in the court of honor held in the district court room last night. Col. Clark M. Mullican gave a short interesting talk to the scouts on the subject of honesty in court. He was followed by Sup. M. H. Duncan of the Lubbock schools who spoke on "scouts and schooling" bringing out the point that scouting is one of the fundamentals of education.

Rev. L. O. H. Williams led the singing for the scouts and a short period of these were enjoyed by both the scouts and parents. Rev. Williams has applied for the deputy commissioner of this area.

A number of parents attended the court last night and received an hour of sound teaching in the various fundamentals and mechanics of scouting. The following boys received merit badges:

YOUTHS BILLED FOR ALLEGED BEATING

BURCH AND HAMILTON MAKE $3,000 BOND FOR DRUNKEN DRIVING AND ASSAULT

Indicted on charges of assault with intent to kill and of driving an automobile while drunk in connection with the alleged beating of W. L. Knight, aged filling station proprietor, last Sunday, 81 Hamilton and Greedy Burch were yesterday re-arrested by sheriff's officers and then released by Judge Gordon McGuire on bonds totalling $3,000 each, $200 for the assault charge and $1,000 for the alleged drunken driving. The youths had previously been bound over to the grand jury at $2000 each.

The drunken driving indictments bring the total of bills returned on this charge by the grand jury to four. A number of other indictments returned Thursday by the grand jury have not yet been made public.

TO DRILL FOUR MORE WELLS IN TAYLOR COUNTY

(Special to The Avalanche)

ABILENE, Oct. 29.—Within 60 days Hunter and Grisham Corporation and the Wildman Petroleum Company, both of Abilene, will begin the drilling of four wells in the neighborhood of Abilene, two being southwest and two northeast.

The Grisham and Hunter Corporation will start soon on lot 26, league 146, Grimes county school lands, five miles south of Merkel, this county, where it has a 4,500-acre block of acreage. The contract depth is 2,700 feet.

Grisham and Hunter will join with the Wildman Petroleum Company in drilling two wells in Jones county, about 20 miles northwest of Abilene and seven miles west of Anson. One of these will be on league 332, Harrison county school lands, with a maximum depth of 2,500 feet. The other well will be on league 334, Harrison county school lands, with a maximum depth of 2,500 feet. The two companies have an 8,000-acre block surrounding the two Jones county locations.

Peters and Haynes are the architects of the building and D. N. Leaverton is the general contractor. These firms are working harmoniously in making the building the finest office building in West Texas.

BIT LOST; DRILLING HALTS

(Special to The Avalanche)
ABILENE, Oct. 29.—A bit lost in the hole Monday has caused a temporary cessation of drilling in the Sanger Oil & Refining Company's Anderson No. 2, five miles southeast of Abilene, at a depth of 2,200 feet. Intention of Charles W. Sanger, president, is to fish out the tool and drill deeper.

Further relative to the income tax proposition.
Answer: "Yes, he said our firm would have to pay the income tax on the whole."

Question: "A third of you, a third to McDonald and a third to James E. Ferguson."
Answer: "Yes sir."

Weldon said he declined to entertain the proposition and declined to discuss it further, saying, "I have never even mentioned it to him from that day to this. I told him that I would not do that, that in no time in my life had I ever split fees with anyone except a lawyer engaged in a case with me."

Weldon said that Heyes later organized the American Road Co. The American Road Co. confessed judgment to $800,000 excess profits last fall on state highway surfacing contracts.

FIFTY PER CENT OF OFFICES IN MYRICK BUILDING ALREADY RESERVED; BRICK AND STONE WORK FINISHED THIS WEEK

With over 50 percent of the offices already reserved, the business firms of Lubbock and the South Plains are anxiously waiting for the completion of the Myrick building. In the list of firms who have reserved space in the building will be found some of the leading firms of the state who will have district offices here.

The work on the building is progressing nicely, all of the brick and stone work will be finished this week. The front of the building which is finished in beautiful stone work is the finest in this section, according to the opinion of many local architects. The partition walls of the building will be built of exp tile, absolutely fire proof and the best that can be constructed. All inside work will start next week according to the local contractor.

The Myrick Hardware Company will occupy the first floor and the basement and offices will be maintained in the other five floors. For several of the offices which are to be permanent in the building, special arrangements are being made.

Peters and Haynes are the architects of the building and D. N. Leaverton is the general contractor. These firms are working harmoniously in making the building the finest office building in West Texas.

TERRY COUNTY LOWERS ESTIMATE OF COTTON CROP FIFTY PER CENT ON ACCOUNT OF LEAF WORM AND RAIN

(Special to The Avalanche)
BROWNFIELD, Oct. 29.—It is now estimated that the cotton crop of Terry county will run about fifty per cent lower than the estimate of sixty days ago which is caused partly by the second appearance of the leaf worm and torrential rains of the past few weeks which washed off and covered up much of the cotton that was then open.

Pickers are very scarce and home labor is not sufficient to take care of acreage and it is expected that a large amount will be left in the fields as under the present price it is not profitable to gather it. Strenuous efforts were made by the chamber of commerce to secure pickers and farmers made personal trips into other sections of the state but the same scarcity of labor seems to obtain in other sections as it does in West Texas.

Diversification during the coming year will be practiced by farmers and it is expected that the acreage devoted to cotton will be very much less than in any previous year.

SAYS JIM TO GET ROAD PROFIT SPLIT

FERGUSON OFFERED CONTRACTS FOR THIRD OF MONEY, IS CHARGE

AUSTIN, Oct. 29. (AP)—R. F. Weldon, of Wichita Falls told the house that his (Weldon's) partner had "visions of wealth" from profits on highway contracts after a conference with former governor James E. Ferguson.

McDonald was quoted by Weldon as saying after the conference with Ferguson that "we will have to pay a third to James E. Ferguson on road contract business."

Weldon said that he came "revolutionarily" before the committee and explained that when he resigned as judge of the thirtieth district court, he formed a partnership with D. Y. Cummings and C. C. McDonald in 1921 and a year later Mr. Cummings withdrew and McDonald and himself continued partners until the first of March, 1925.

"Mr. McDonald had been down to Austin," Weldon said. "It is a matter of common knowledge, of course, to this committee, and to everybody in Texas, that Mr. McDonald came back and told me he had a conversation with Mr. Ferguson at which Mr. Ferguson told him that he felt he owed him a considerable debt of gratitude for his political activities in his behalf."

"You mean James E. Ferguson," Judge Harry N. Graves asked.

"Yes sir."

"That he believed that it could be worked out where he could repay him in some substantial way, so he could show his appreciation in some substantial manner," Mr. McDonald said that the governor suggested to him that he (Mr. McDonald) associate himself with some road construction company so that he could financially and otherwise equip himself to build roads.

Weldon explained he was personally acquainted with members of the Callahan Construction company, which was doing some work near Wichita Falls and Mr. McDonald asked him if the company did road work, which it did not. Later in Dallas he went to the office of S. E. Heyes, then of the Callahan Construction Co., and Mr. Heyes informed him he would sever his relations with the company about September 1, by selling out his interests and that he might be interested in road contracts.

"He said he could not do that because Mr. Ferguson would not give him a contract," he said. "I have always been opposed to him politically and he would not entertain it. I said to him that I did not believe that I would enter into it. I did not think he would interfere. He said that he would think the matter over, that it might possibly result in his doing such a thing, something to that effect."

"I went back to Wichita Falls and some days passed and Mr. McDonald made another trip to Austin. Evidently, I had told Mr. McDonald what Heyes said. I presume I did do that. Anyway, when Mr. McDonald came back from Austin on his next trip ten or fifteen days later, he said that he had another talk with the governor. He said, 'that thought—' Judge Harry Graves interrupted, 'You say the Governor. Do you mean Jim Ferguson?'

Weldon said: "I mean James E. Ferguson. I don't think of any other but the governor in that term."

"I am not real certain where I got those figures, because I am not an engineer or a road contractor, but I did have some figures in my mind. I had discussed it with Mr. McDonald and he remarked, when he came back, he had larger figures in his mind, he had visions of wealth that those figures would not warrant."

Judge Critt: "Your figures were apparently what?"

"Four cents per square yard on construction work. He talked way beyond what these figures warranted. It was a revelation to me. The upshot of that conversation was that he was enthusiastic about it. He said that we ought to make a great deal of money out of it, but that we would have to cut our earnings three ways. I said that Mr. Heyes and I had discussed the property, the possibility of dividing our four cents profit, that is, an approximate two cents to my firm and two cents to the construction company. He said that we would have to pay a third to him, a third to me and a third to James E. Ferguson."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

General Topic: The Evils of Strong Drink.

Scripture Lesson: Proverbs 23: 29-34.

29. Who hath woe? Who hath sorrow? Who hath contention? Who hath complaining? Who hath wounds without cause? Who hath redness of eyes?

30. They that tarry long at the wine; they that go to seek out-mixed wine.

31. Look not thou upon the wine when it is red, when it sparketh in the cup, when it goeth down smoothly.

32. At the last it biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder.

33. Thine eyes shall behold strange things, and thy heart shall utter perverse things.

34. Yea, thou shalt be as he that lieth down in the midst of the sea, or as he that lieth upon the top of a mast.

35. They have stricken me, shalt thou say, and I was not hurt: They have beaten me, and I felt it not: When shall I awake? I will seek it not again.

Golden Text:—At the last it biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder.

Time:—Solomon, who wrote or collected most of the Proverbs, lived B. C. 1041-983.

Place:—Solomon lived in his capital Jerusalem.

The World's Temperance Sunday.

It is especially fitting that we in the United States join the Sunday schools of all the other lands in observing the World's Temperance Sunday. We have learned that we can not perfectly enforce our prohibition amendment to the Constitution of the United States except as all the rest of the world adopts prohibition or at least aids us in enforcing it by strictly keeping their own liquor away from our shores. Not until all nations cooperate for total abstinence will the purity and manliness of any nation be entirely safe. For our lesson we have the most famous passage ever written.

"Woe" and "Sorrow" V. 29.

"Who hath woe? who hath sorrow?" The English nouns are interjections in the original Hebrew, as the margin says, so that the literal translation is: "Who hath Oh? who hath Alas?" This is very dramatic, but not too dramatic for the dark tragedies caused by strong drink. More than any other evil in the history of the world—more even than war—alcohol has poured grief into human lives. The woe of the drunkard are sorrows over lost strength and skill, over wasted efforts, over poverty and disgrace, over the sorrow and hardships of his loved ones and over the prospect of an eternity of misery and shame. Surely enough, and more than enough, for a world of Oh! and Alas!

"Who Hath Contentions"? V. 29.

"Who hath contentions? Who hath complaining?" "Quarrelsome in his cups" has become a proverb. Drink makes me combative and quarrelsome. Drink inspires me with a silly sort of courage, an exaggerated sense of one's own importance. When this country harbored saloons, a very large proportion of murders took place in those dens of vice. "Tavern brawls" are often described in the pages of literature. "Who the wine is in, the wit is out." Bombastic self-assertion on the one hand, and maddening tears on the other, characterize drunkenness, rendering it now dangerous and again ridiculous.

"Beer and Wine".

"Beer and Wine" is the slogan of the anti-prohibition forces. Beer with two to three per cent alcohol in, they tell us, harmless. It is true that neither one nor the other may cause extreme drunkenness, but both are intoxicating. The average beer drinker consumes more alcohol than the average whiskey drinker. In Germany doctors and scientists affirm that beer is a national curse. There are thirty institutions in Germany for the treatment of drunkards. In England a large proportion of the drunkards are beer addicts. There are millions of Frenchmen living now in squalor and destitution caused by the excessive use of wine and wild liquors. More than two generations ago, Massachusetts made the experiment and allowed the sale of beer alone. At the end of three years the governor, in his inaugural address, described the beer shops as "the greatest obstacle in the social and moral progress of the community."

The "Beer Drinker's Heart".

There is no more harmful belief held by people today than the notion that beer is an innocent drink. The vital statistics of Great Britain show that certain serious diseases, like gout, liver troubles, diabetes, are from three to five times more common among beer-drinkers than among the people in general. So common is the injury done to the heart by beer-drinking, that this special trouble is known as the "beer drinker's heart," and in Munich one out of every sixteen of the hospital patients die from this disorder.

The Bite of the Serpent V. 32.

"At the last it biteth like a serpent." Glittering, smooth, seductive, fascinating at the beginning, but at the end sharp, ugly, cruel, deadly! There is no greater contrast than the start and the close of the drunkard's career. "And stingeth like an adder." Strong drink is like a serpent in its stealthy, noiseless, sinuous approach and it is like a venomous snake in the deadly nature of the wounds it inflicts. Would that man had for it such an antipathy as they feel for snakes.

The Eighteenth Amendment.

The enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment in the United States means ultimately the adoption of prohibition in all other nations of the world. Not long will the decent and Christian elements of Canada, England, Germany, and other nations consent to allow liquor smuggling into a country that is heroically struggling to free itself from the curse.

"Prohibition is the only reasonable attitude for any government. No country can remain part of a license and part prohibition. Enforcement statutes should be progressively drastic, and their execution should have the unrelaxed vigilance of all enemies of alcohol throughout years and decades and ties as witnesses in the McClintock-Shepherd case.

The will first was presented for probate before Judge Henry Honer of Cook county. He refused to probate the instrument, declaring the burden of proof rested on the petitioner to remove a presumption of undue influence. An appeal was taken to the circuit court where the will was ordered probated and the heirs at law then appealed to the supreme court which upheld the circuit court.

BYRD CAN'T COME TO ABILENE, HE SAYS

(Special to The Avalanche)

ABILENE, Oct. 29.—The historic plane that scored over the North Pole with Commander Byrd and now touring the country under the auspices of the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics, Inc., New York, cannot include Abilene on its itinerary, the Abilene Chamber of Commerce was informed today by Harry F. Guggenheim, President.

Guggenheim regretted that the itinerary could not be changed so as to include this city on its return flight from San Francisco to Washington. He counseled the information that since the flight was announced thousands of telegrams of invitation had been received indicating that the United States is developing an "air consciousness."

BABY DRINKS LYE

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, Oct. 29. (AP)—Childish curiosity led sixteen months old Isabel Vargas to drink from a can of lye, with which her mother was scrubbing the floor. The baby is now dead in a hospital.

TALE OF THRILLING RESCUE IS TOLD

SHIP LADEN WITH SULPHURIC ACID RAMMED AT NEW ORLEANS

(By The Associated Press)
NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 29.—Stories of the thrilling rescue of the crew of the steamer Louisiana, sulphuric acid laden freighter which was sunk after being rammed amidships at the mouth of the Mississippi river yesterday, were related here last night by officers and members of the crew.

The Madison, sister ship of the Louisiana, whose bow crashed into the other as she entered the river, arrived bearing the crew of the Louisiana.

The crew of the Louisiana, many of whom were asleep at the time of the collision, awakened by the force of the blow, blinded by sleep and suffocated by sulphuric acid fumes, had difficulty in making their way to the pilot boat under water, which she had towed to the scene of the accident.

Compass inspector F. A. Smith, of the Louisiana, said he was in his bunk when awakened by the shock. "Rushing on deck," he said, "I found the crew stunned by the impact of the Madison which had driven a great hole in the port side."

"The ship was sinking fast, a steel girder broke loose and skidded across the deck, striking first mate Adams. It broke both his legs."

"It looked as if every one was going down with the ship. Luckily the pilot boat ran alongside at that moment as lines were lowered from the perilously sloping side of the Louisiana from which the 25 members of the crew and three passengers were lowered."

"Before all the members of the crew had come down to the tug, flames were leaping fifty feet in the air. The sulphuric acid had taken fire and there was a series of explosions which shook the ship from stem to stern."

"MORE FEED" PLANS TO BE DISCUSSED

MEETING AT ABILENE ON MONDAY ABOUT CAMPAIGN

STAMFORD, Oct. 29.—The "More Feed on Fewer Acres" contest committee, appointed at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce directors meeting held at Fort Worth recently, will convene in Abilene Monday morning, November 1, to work out details of the movement. The "more feed on fewer acres" campaign to be conducted by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has as one of its objects the reduction of cotton acreage. It is also hoped by officials of the organization that this contest will promote the raising of more livestock on West Texas farms.

Legation Wine Too Much for Washington Cop: He Passes out, as Marie's Guest

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Patrolman Lafone Starkweather was $75 poorer today because a clone of who given him at the Rumanian legation while he was assigned to guard Queen Marie at "a pretty wild night party" on the evening of her arrival here not only made him drunk but ill also.

The police trial board said that his previous good record saved him from dismissal after his superiors had testified that Starkweather, chosen for the task of guarding the royal Rumanian party because of his known sobriety, fell from grace and was found drunk and in a daze sitting on a box in the legation yard that night. One glass of "good legation stuff," he said, was responsible.

Starkweather added that "the hospitality at the legation was too generous" for one inexperienced in the handling of alcoholic liquors.

If Starkweather "had been an old timer on the force," Lieutenant Michael Reedy testified "he could have held his liquor and gone about his business, and no one would have known anything about it. But he's had his lesson."

W. T. C. C. DISTRIBUTES BOLLS FREE AT PHILADELPHIA EXPOSITION

STAMFORD, Oct. 29.—Kine Cottor is to favor the Quaker City folk who visit the West Texas chamber of commerce agricultural booth at the big Sesqui-centennial exposition in Philadelphia. Bolls of Texas farmers, growing now, are to be presented to countless numbers of Philadelphians and out-of-state visitors who have never seen southern cotton fields, through the courtesy of John Whitaker, in charge of the West Texas chamber exhibit at Philadelphia.

Crates of choice Texas cotton bolls were shipped to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce agricultural display recently by the Memphis chamber of commerce with instructions that these bolls be handed out as souvenirs to families visiting the big exposition. Additional crates are to be shipped along at different times. Each boll sent is tagged, "Compliments of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce, Memphis, Texas," and its presentation to northern folk is designed to inform city people of Texas' great product and to advertise the Jone Star state through the West Texas Chamber of Commerce booth and its directors.

COTTON SEED OIL

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Despite the weak trend to hard, cotton seed oil held steady and closed one to six points higher, no sales of 1,000 barrels. The weaker trend in cotton, no special buying pressure, comparative firm crude markets and moderate commission house report, were factors in holding the list. Prime crude 7.55; Prime summer yellow spot 8.50; November closed 8.45; December 8.50; January 8.65; March 8.75; May 8.95.

COFFEE

NEW YORK, Oct. 29. (AP)—Coffee futures opened at a decline of 10 points to an advance of 9 points early today, prices showing net gains of about 12 points in early trading on buying attributed partly to houses with European and Brazilian connections. March sold up to 14.95, but met with increased offerings at that figure accompanied by reports of easier Rio exchange rates and closed at 14.93. The general market closed net unchanged to five points higher. Estimated sales 24,000 bags. Closing quotations: December, 12.49; January 12.32; March 14.93; May 14.40; July 14.05; September 13.56.

Spot coffee quiet; Rio 7s 161-4 to 153-8; Santos 4s 20 1/2 to 20 3/4. Cost and freight offerings included quai Bourbon, 3s and 5s as 18.90 to 19.3-5.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Oct. 29. (AP)—Bond trading has expanded so largely this year that it has been necessary to inaugurate three sections, one for foreign bonds and two for domestic bonds to facilitate transactions. The new arrangement will start November 1. Approximately $400,000,000 in bonds were dealt in so far this year, compared with $225,000,000 in the corresponding period in 1935, which up to that time had been recorded.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 29. (AP)—Corn took the lead in the grain trade today, establishing an all-around low price record for the season. The receipts of corn here, more than 700 carloads today, were chiefly reported. As a result, wheat, oats, rye and provisions all became depressed. Corn and wheat both closed unsettled, corn one cent to 13-4 cents net lower, wheat unchanged to 1-4 cent off, oats 1-8 c to 2-8 c 1/2 off and provisions showing 5 cents to 10 cents decline.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Oct. 29. (AP)—Business men in the Southwest have taken the decline in cotton prices very sensibly and do not expect any serious depression, although lower cotton always has meant a set back to business as well as to the grower, says Daniel Upthegrove, president of the St. Louis Southwestern Rwy. (Cotton Belt.)

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO, Oct. 29. (AP)—Cattle, 5,000; steers and yearlings slow, about steady, feed steers 8.50 at 9.75; she stock 25 cents lower; bulls and vealers steady, vealers 11.00 to 11.50. Hogs, 24,000, steady to 10 cents lower. Butchers 12.10 at 12.40; lights and mediums 12.75 at 12.25; sows 10.25 at 11.50; pigs 12.00 at 12.50. Estimated hold over 2,000.

ROTARIANS PLAN TO TALK IT OVER

FIVE CONFERENCES TO BE HELD IN NORTHWEST
TEXAS

The Rotary clubs of forty-one cities of Northwest Texas will hold during the next few weeks five one day conferences. These clubs are situated in what is known as the Forty-First district of Rotary International, being under the jurisdiction of William C. Edwards, of Denton, Texas, as district governor.

A division of the district has been made into zones and a conference is planned for each that will be attended by the Rotarians and their families from cities included in that zone. In addition a general invitation is being extended to Rotarians in the Forty-seventh and Forty-eighth districts. These last named districts comprise east, southeast and south portions of the state.

For Worth, in zone No. 3, is to be host of the first conference, Friday, November 12. Following clubs are included in this zone: Arlington, Cleburne, Denton, Fort Worth, Gainsville, Graham, Mineral Wells, Waxahatchie and Weatherford.

Waco, in zone No. 4, including the clubs at Belton, Temple, Hillsboro, McGregor and Waco, will entertain the next conference on November 15.

This will be followed by the conference at Wichita Falls, Friday, November 26. The following clubs are included in this zone No. 2: Bowie, Burkburnett, Childress, Electra, Nona, Olney, Vernon, Quanah and Wichita Falls.

Amarillo will be the host of the conference of the clubs from Canadian, Dalhart, Lubbock, Plainview, Post, Slaton and Amarillo, zone No. 1, on Thursday, December 2.

The last conference of the five, in zone No. 5, will be held at Abilene on Friday, December 10. The clubs making up this zone are Brownwood, Cisco, San Angelo, Spur, Sweetwater and Abilene.

The purpose of the conference is to promote good will between neighboring cities, better acquaintanceship and more fellowship among the members of the respective clubs. Further, to carry out the slogan of the President of Rotary International—"Make Rotary Effective," in the community as a builder of men who in turn build cities.

An imposing array of speakers from men prominent in the Rotary world, have been invited to appear at one or more of the programs. The list includes the President of the Rotary International, Harry H. Rogers, of San Antonio, and the past district governor of the 41st district, Walter D. Cline, of Wichita Falls, both of whom have just returned from a six weeks' trip to Europe, where they have been arranging plans for next International Convention of Rotary to be held in Ostend, Belgium, June 5 to 10, 1927.

Others invited include Allen Street of Oklahoma City, 1st vice-president of Rotary International, Raymond Hanson, of Kansas City, past president; James G. Palmer, Shreveport, chairman of the committee on Rotary education of Rotary International; past district governors of Rotary in Texas; John V. Singleton, Waxahatchie; Lester Dawley and Bruce Rogarte of Dallas and Sid Hardin of Mission, Harry Merfield of Fort Worth, and Dr. S. P. Brooks, president of Baylor University, Waco, will also be on the program.

The details of arranging for the various conferences are in charge of Lewis D. Fox, of Fort Worth as general chairman, with Guy Sanders, of Amarillo, chairman of zone No. 1, Albert Myles, chairman of zone No. 2, Cliff Dumas, of Waco, chairman of zone No. 4 and Judge James P. Stinson, of Abilene, chairman of zone No. 5.

The year 1926 marks the 21st birthday of Rotary International, the first in February, 1905, by four men of club having been formed in Chicago whom Paul P. Harris, a Chicago lawyer, was leading spirit. There are now 2416 clubs located in 35 countries completely encircling the globe with a total individual membership of over 123,000. There are about 125 Rotary clubs in the state, including in their membership over 5000 Rotarians.

Texas Rotarians feel particularly honored at this time due to the fact that Harry H. Rogers, member of the San Antonio club, was elected at Denver in June of this year, president of Rotary throughout the world.

"Service Above Self," the motto of Rotary, is being exemplified in the state by a very large number of the clubs in the three districts in the creation of a fund aggregating approximately $100,000.00, which is being loaned at a nominal rate of interest to worthy boys and girls to complete their college education. Nearly five hundred students have been assisted by the various clubs during the past few years.

WEST TEXAS FARMERS ARE PLANTING WHEAT FOR BIG CROP, AFTER RAINS WHICH HURT COTTON FAVOR GRAIN

STAMFORD, Oct. 29.—West Texas farmers have learned a bitter lesson this year from their experience in going too strong on cotton. However, with true West Texas grit, they are preparing for another agricultural year and are now busily engaged in preparing their land, and in some cases sowing the seed, for a big wheat crop for 1927. The excessive rains which have been a handicap to cotton, have proved a boon for the wheat farmer, and old timers say that never in the history of the state has the land been in better condition for a wheat crop. A deep season is in the ground and the land is warm and mellow from the rains of summer and early autumn. Plenty of growth has provided a rich humus for the soil and conditions for a big crop of wheat next year are ideal.

According to reports received at the office of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce virtually every part of West Texas will have a goodly acreage in wheat next year. Upon the plains the crop is already up in many places and promises ideal winter pasturage. The South Plains as well as the North Plains will have a big wheat acreage. Levelland and Abilene report large acreage already sown. Abilene has been for years a big wheat shipping point and is increasing the acreage. Levelland has been in the middle of the South Plains cotton country, but the white staple will give way to the golden grain in Cochran and Hockley counties next year. Runninswater reports farmers busily at work preparing land for wheat. From Hereford, comes reports that an even larger crop than the bumper crop produced this year will be planted for next year. Spearman and Perryton on the North Plains report that wheat will hold away in that section next year. In fact virtually every section of the plains is turning to wheat on a larger scale than ever before.

Coming down off the Cap Rock, reports from Snyder are to the effect that Seury county will plant a big acreage in both wheat and oats. This county holds the world's record for wheat production per acre. Glen Garner of near Snyder in 1924 produced 56.2 bushels of wheat per acre on his field. Matador is planting an enormous acreage in wheat and oats. The latter crop especially does well in the rich mixed sand soil of Motley county. Turkey and Quisque joint capitals, of one of the richest farming sections of Texas report the cotton picker giving way before the wheat drill as wheat is being planted in cotton land.

Further down in Central West Texas, where cotton has reigned for many years, the farmers are again turning to grain. Taylor county is now planting a big acreage in grain. Merkel reports that land owners in the newest oil field of West Texas are dividing their time between oil and wheat but busily engaged in preparing land and planting the largest acreage in wheat in ten years. Farmers in Jones and Haskell counties and upon Knox Prairie plan to ride binders next summer judging from the sales of seed wheat reported.

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce is urging farmers to practice diversification as never before. Local chambers of commerce and banks affiliated with the regional organization have been urged to encourage farmers to plant not only wheat and oats but also to plant more acres in grain sorghums, forage and other feed crops. The organization is planning to reopen the hog importation campaign carried out so successfully last year in co-operation with the Fort Worth Stock Yards Company. "Market Your Feed in Pig Skin Packages" will be the slogan adopted for 1927. More chickens, turkeys and milk cows will also be urged.

DOCTOR WHO EXAMINED BODY OF HALLS-MILLS VICTIM IS MUM

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Oct. 29.—Dr. Otto H. Schultze, medical expert of the New York district attorney's office, last night declined to make known his findings reached in the examination of the body of Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, who was killed four years ago, with the Rev. Edward W. Hall. The physician took to his New York laboratory for further examination certain portions of the body, the nature of which he would not divulge. The body was not returned to its grave.

Observers said the body was in a remarkable state of preservation. The autopsy, the third since the slayings occurred, was performed in an effort to determine if the woman's tongue had been cut out, special prosecutor Alexander Simpson said. Dr. Schultze did his work on a crib bench in a barn in the rear of the home of Alfred Vorst, superintendent of Van Laec Cemetery, where Mrs. Mills was buried.

The house is on George's road, part of the highway between New Brunswick and Philadelphia, and the proceedings attracted a large crowd of curious people. Heavily armed guards kept newspaper men and others fifty yards from the house.

FOUR ARE ARRESTED

BROWNSVILLE, Oct. 29.—Four arrests have been made by Hidalgo county officers in connection with the killing early Sunday morning of Pedro and Juan Mata, aged 20 and 22, respectively, at a Mexican dance.

REALTORS BACK PAVING PROGRAM

BOARD IN MEETING AT NEW HOTEL, NAMES COMMITTEE TO PUSH PLANS

That the Lubbock Real Estate board wants to improve its worth to the citizens of the city of Lubbock, was made manifest yesterday noon in the Lubbock hotel, when Mr. Chas. P. O'Neill, president of the board, gave a talk on the board getting in back of the paving program covering that part of the city situated between Ninth and Nineteenth Streets, and Avenue Q to the Tech grounds. It was decided that committees composed of members of the board would see all property owners about paving and also see all residents owners relative to planting trees on their property to get the city beautified as well as to get the streets paved. The board went on record as endorsing and desirous of helping the new paving program as much as possible, and the committee will at once get to work in the interest of making the city more attractive to the prospective coming to this country seeking a home in which to live.
