J. W. Townsend, of Lubbock, Friday was arrested by Lubbock county officers on charges of receiving stolen goods in connection with the thefts alleged to have been committed by his son, C. C. Townsend, now being held in the Denton county jail.

Sheriff Wade Hardy and Chief Police John Lemond left early Friday evening for Denton where they will receive the prisoner of transfer him to Lubbock. They expect to arrive back here Sunday.

Mystery Thought Solved
With the arrest of Townsend Denton Thursday officers believe that they have solved the mystery of several burglaries committed in this and surrounding counties. He is said to have burglarized three farm houses on the Fourth of July, stolen several dresses, a typewriter and the chickens, selling them all the next day.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 2. (AP)—A bespectacled 16 year old boy who finds marine biology an interesting hobby today was selected as the protege of Thomas A. Edison.

Chosen first out of a field of competitors from the 48 states and the District of Columbia, Wilbur S. Huston, of Seattle, Wash., will spend the next four years at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the school of his choice, with all expenses paid by the inventor.

What Huston answered to each of the long list of questions in the inventor's "genius" test may never be learned as the advisory committee announced that "in fairness to the boys" none of the answers would be made public.

Snook Attorneys Pounce On State Witnesses' Story

Cross-Examinations Seek To Discredit Charge Of Premeditated Murder On Which Trial Is Based

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 2.—Dr. James H. Snook's attorneys pounced upon two state witnesses in cross-examination today to discredit the charge of premeditated murder on which the state hopes to send the former Ohio state professor to the electric chair for the killing of his co-ed mistress, Theora K. Hill.

Defense Attorney John F. Seidel cross-examined Coroner A. J. Murphy, for an hour and a half in an effort to swerve him from the statement that the deliberate severing of the girl's jugular vein and carotid artery, after she had been beaten with a hammer, was the direct cause of her death.

The indictment against Dr. Snook based the charge of premeditation upon his act, which Dr. Snook is alleged to have admitted, explaining he severed the girl's jugular vein with his pocket knife to relieve her suffering from hammer blows. Attorney Seidel asked the coroner if it were not possible that the hammer wounds on the girl's head had produced death rather than the hemorrhage from the slash in her neck.

It was possible, Murphy said, but not probable.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2. (AP)—Jack Dempsey, once king of the heavyweights, apparently did not think $7 big enough stakes to warrant a bout with Los Angeles traffic police. As 1,700 Convicts Staged Break For Freedom Remarkable photo snapped from the air at the height of the riots at Auburn prison, Auburn, N. Y., when 1,700 convicts, led by a group of 50 leaders, stormed the prison walls in a mad break for freedom. Frustrated at the walls the prisoners turned, captured the arsenal, fired several of the prison shops, which can be seen burning in the photo, and battled guards for hours before being returned to their cells. Four of the prisoners escaped, two were slain, and four guards were wounded in the riots.

Unrest Smoulders Among Prisoners Following Mutiny

Leavenworth Authorities Use Stern Measures In Effort To Prevent Other Outbreaks Of Convicts

(By Associated Press)
UNITED STATES PENITENTIARY, LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Aug. 2. (AP)—Unrest among prisoners smoldered under the surface here today but was held in check by stern measures of prison authorities who announced no further outbreaks were expected to follow yesterday's mutiny in which one convict was killed and three wounded.

Leaders placed in close confinement. There was little evidence of the spirit of revolt which flamed yesterday but an undercurrent of unrest pervaded the institution.

Prison Overcrowded
Built to accommodate 2,000 inmates, the prison houses more than 3,700 convicts.

Sanford Bates, superintendent of Federal prisons, said in a statement at Washington, that the congestion in Federal penal institutions had resulted in a grave situation.

Austin H. McCormack, assistant superintendent of Federal prisons, was ordered here to conduct an investigation into the mutiny.

Grumble At Food
The convicts have been grumbling at the food served. A semblance of order was restored by the day captain on duty and some of the men were sent to their cells. Others were taken to the shoe factory, but refused to go to work and began to smash the machinery.

Table Ware Hurled
The heaviest rioting occurred later when the first group of prisoners were brought into the mess hall.

Leahy Trades Fifty-Year Pen Sentence For Death In Electric Chair Friday

(By Associated Press)
HUNTSVILLE, Aug. 2.—Death in the electric chair at the state prison here chanced rather than accepted a 50-year penitentiary sentence early today claimed Harry J. Leahy, southwest Texas rancher in explanation for the murder of Dr. J. A. Ramsey of Mathis.

On Thanksgiving Day, 1926, a jury at George West found Leahy guilty and assessed punishment at 50 years in the state penitentiary. Leahy himself presented a motion for a new trial, which was granted, with a change of venue to Georgetown.

Additional bits of evidence were woven about the testimony of Roberto Martinez, a Mexican, at the second trial, and Leahy was sentenced to death, February 9, 1927.

Then began a steady fight for life not terminated until a few minutes before Leahy went to the chair early today. With the time for the execution at hand, Governor Dan Moody telephoned a 30-minute reprieve to permit attorneys to make a final plea to find a Waco judge to stay the execution.

Still hoping for a break, Leahy begged postponement of shaving his head for the fatal electrode until shortly before he had to march through the "little green door" to the end. Bravely but without the bluster of the professional criminal the rancher walked to his death.

He said nothing as he was strapped onto the chair and the appliances of execution placed, but suddenly motioned a warden to him and whispered.

Quickly the warden bent and removed the sandals from Leahy's feet.

Eternal Triangle Is Blamed When Three Women Stage Hammer And Knife Battle On City Streets

The eternal triangle again chalks up another victim to its ever-growing list. A young woman, giving her address as Amherst, Friday afternoon was rushed to the Lubbock sanitarium painfully injured as the result of a fight with two other women on east Main street about 3 o'clock.

The other women, stepping in a car standing at the curb, drove off and at a late hour last night officers had not located them.

An examination of wounds by physicians revealed three gashes in her right arm, two at the elbow and another in the upper arm, all caused from the blade of a knife, authorities said.

Witnesses to the altercation stated that the injured woman had just walked up to the entrance of a store when the other two drove in behind her. One of these started in at once to quarrel with her and the fight resulted. A hammer was used by one while the other was said to have pulled the knife. Immediately following the cutting, the women made their escape.

The husband of the injured woman was arrested later in the afternoon, said by officers to have been the cause of the affair. He refused to make a statement when lodged in the city jail. The injured woman in the hospital also refused to talk, merely saying, "I'll get even with her when I get up."

Child Is Burned To Death Friday

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 2. (AP)—One child was fatally burned, and 28 other persons, mostly children, received less serious burns, here this afternoon when an ice cream truck overturned. The victim was John Juha, aged 5, who died shortly after being taken to a hospital.

It was the thoughtless act of an unidentified man that caused the tragedy. He removed the cap from the gasoline tank of the overturned Ford truck, thereby permitting the liquid to run into the hot engine. This ignited the fuel which exploded and the spray of flaming liquid was showered upon the crowd that had gathered.

Passes Islands
The airship reported its position to Casablanca, Morocco, Friday afternoon. It was then 600 miles west of Gibraltar, a previous message to Friedrichshafen, Germany, gave her speed as 100 kilometers or 63 miles an hour.

The airship reported it passed San Miguel Island in the Azores group at 9 p. m. Greenwich time. It was dusk at Horta when the message was received and it was assumed the craft would keep well off shore to avoid danger of mountain peaks.

By 2:15 p. m. E. S. T. Friday, the home office at Friedrichshafen had heard nothing from Dr. Hugo Eckener for so long it admitted it expected nothing further direct before the ship approached the American coast. Chatham wireless station in America was expected then to take up the relay work.

May Reach Goal Sunday
The Graf Zeppelin, by maintaining the average speed of 63 miles an hour previously reported, would reach Lakehurst at 9:30 a. m. E. S. T. Sunday, Dr. Eckener had estimated the duration of his flight from 80 to 85 hours.

Special Correspondent of The Associated Press

ABOARD GRAF ZEPPELIN, Aug. 2. (AP)—At 9:00 (probably Central European time) we are about 350 miles west from Gibraltar. Our position is 12 degrees, 40 minutes west and 36 degrees north, our speed is 100 kilometers (about 63 miles an hour) ship heading fine.

LISBON, Portugal, Aug. 2. (AP)—The Graf Zeppelin was reported to have dropped a mail bag on Santa Maria Island, southern most of the Azores.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2. (AP)—The navy department tonight received a direct message from the Graf Zeppelin saying that at 7:05 p. m. eastern standard time her position was 90 miles south of Pico Azores, proceeding northwest at a speed of 45 knots.

Plan Educational Highway Drive
Organization Is Formed At Austin To Win Favor Of State-Wide Bond Issue For Road Construction

(By Associated Press)
AUSTIN, Aug. 2. (AP)—A movement to "educate the people" of Texas to the need of good roads and a campaign to win favor for the plan of building highways with the proceeds of a state-wide bond issue was launched here today when good roads enthusiasts and representatives of the regional chambers of commerce organized.

Andy N. Bourland of Vernon, president and acting general manager of the west Texas chamber of commerce, was chosen president and Ray Legman of Corpus Christi, manager of the south Texas chamber of commerce, elected secretary of the organization, which was not named.

The meeting was called to order by R. S. Sterling of Houston, chairman of the state highway commission and sponsor of the statewide bond issue plan of building roads which was defeated by the legislature when it refused to submit a proposed amendment to the constitution.

One Johnson of Tyler and Judge W. R. Ely of Abilene, other members of the highway commission, attended.

Sterling has been proposed for governor and his friends predicted he would make the race with the bond issue plan one of the planks

Unexpectedly Long Cross Examinations Result In Delay Of Proceedings At Fort Worth Rail Trial

Show Development
Oil And Agricultural Production Of Panhandle Section Is Revealed By Witnesses On Stand

(By Associated Press)
FORT WORTH, Aug. 2.—Unexpectedly lengthy cross examinations today so delayed testimony in the Interstate Commerce Commission hearings on proposed rail extensions in the eastern Texas Panhandle that Interstate Commerce Commission Examiner Chas. D. Mahaffie adjourned the hearings until tomorrow.

Testimony of three railroads for Panhandle extensions was concluded. Intervenor for the railroads and a fourth railroad still must present their testimony.

Amarillo Testifies
Joe Danziger, Amarillo, oil man, had told of the oil development in the Panhandle, including Gray county, through which the proposed rails would run. He said 60,000 barrels of oil were produced daily in the Pampa field. He estimated the field would produce oil for 25 or 30 years. Production will be increased to 100,000 and possibly 200,000 barrels, he declared.

Danziger testified for the Pampa chamber of commerce on behalf of the Fort Worth and Denver's application for a road from Childress to Pampa, via Wellington and Shamrock. The Chicago, Rock & Is-

Avenue H Subway Contract Will Be Let August 26th

City Commissioners Name Date In Called Session Friday Night; Underpass To Resemble First One

Contract will be let on the Avenue H underpass project August 26, according to an announcement made last night following a called meeting of the Lubbock city commission in the city hall.

Plans have been in the hands of the city for sometime but a certain delay has been necessary due to the adjustment of abutment damages.

Resembles Broadway Subway
The new underpass will be similar in construction to that of the one on Broadway, thought it will be somewhat shorter and will cost approximately $150,000. With its completion Lubbock will be amply safeguarded in the problem of railroad crossings.

It is expected that construction will start immediately after the letting of contract and that work will be rushed to completion.

Closets Bought
The city commission, in its meeting last night, also purchased 100 Saco closets to be used in certain sections of the city not at this time served by sewer connections.

There will be a nominal rental charge for these, payable monthly by the occupant of the premises served.

These closets are used extensively in several cities and have been found to be very satisfactory in reducing to a minimum the menace to health conditions of the community.

War Veterans Are Warned Of Losses

Texas World war veterans were warned Friday that they will suffer a financial loss if they fail to apply for adjusted compensation certificates before Jan. 2, 1930.

The warning was issued by Ben Kucera, city service officer of the American Legion in Lubbock, who pointed out that in the event of death of a veteran who has failed to apply, the veteran's relatives will incur a substantial loss in the adjusted certificate value when making application.

Extension Obtained
"The heads of the legion learned that many veterans were not taking advantage of the soldier's bonus when the closing day for filing under the original act arrived," Kucera said. "For the benefit of the tardy ones, the legion obtained an amendment to the World War adjusted compensation act, effective Dec. 31, 1927, extending the time in which veterans might apply to Jan. 2, 1930. This closing date is nearing and it seems improbable that another extension can be obtained."

Converted Cowboy Preacher Visits In City Friday

Tom Goode, converted cowboy preacher, raised near Roby, Texas, and now of Long Beach, Calif., was a visitor in Lubbock Friday announcing a big revival meeting which started at Ropesville yesterday and which will continue until August 11.

Rev. Goode, a Naarene evangelist, was born on a cattle ranch on the western plains and has been 20 years in the evangelistic field in all parts of the United States.

Record Of Growth Seen In Ranger's Local Industries

Commercial Expansion Is Predicted For City With Vast Supply Of Raw Materials And Cheap Fuel

(Special To The Avalanche)
RANGER, Aug. 2.—No city has ever been so rich in history or great in achievement, can live in the past, rest upon laurels already won. Ranger, with its great supply of raw materials, its boundless volume of cheap fuel, its network of paved roads, its excellent rail facilities and its ideal climate, its highly adapted to industrial and commercial expansion.

Objectives Given
One of the great objectives of the Ranger chamber of commerce, according to the Tenth Anniversary Edition of the Ranger Times is the presentation of the city's many advantages to industries with the goal of bringing about the utilization of the vast deposits of glass sand, brick shale, pottery clay, cement and lime.

Ranger is in the center of one of the great gas fields of the nation, has an adequate water supply and transportation facilities that are almost unsurpassed—thereby meeting the paramount needs of nearly any kind of industry.

Dairying Developed
The phenomenal development of the dairying industry there in the past year and a half—coupled with the fact that Ranger is well adapted to dairying—gives solid ground for the hope that the industry will continue to grow to such an extent that Ranger will be a feasible location for a powdered milk or milk condensing plant.

Ranger has gained fame as a convention city and has successfully entertained a number of great gatherings. In order to be in position to seek more and larger conventions it is recognized that a great auditorium is needed and this is one of the immediate objectives of the chamber of commerce.

To Have Parks
An additional playground and park is another undertaking which is expected soon will be a reality.

Although Ranger is now traversed by a transcontinental highway as well as state and county highways the chamber of commerce is working toward the securing of additional highways and the development of lateral roads to communities throughout the trade territory.

'Own Home' Movement
The organization of a home-owning building and loan association has done much to stimulate the 'own your own home' movement in Ranger and as a result of this impetus during the last year many beautiful homes have been built.

One of the objectives of the chamber of commerce is to continue this movement to the end that Ranger may be a city of home owners. In line with this is the encouragement of the planting of shrubbery, trees and flowers, and the paving of additional streets.

The maintaining of Ranger's supremacy as the wholesale jobbing and retail trading center of the oil belt territory, the support of educational institutions and their expansion to meet the growing needs

Relics And Records Of Early Ranch - Of Section Given Historical Group

(Special To The Avalanche)
CANYON, Aug. 2.—Orwin A. Lambert of Spur, Texas, manager of the Pritchfork Land and Cattle company's ranch in Kent and Dickens counties, has deposited with the museum of the Panhandle Plains Historical Society a number of interesting ranch records and relics.

These records are made up of the ledgers of the ranch during the middle and late eighties, when the late D. B. Gardner, one of the charter members of the Texas Cattle Raisers Association, was president of the company and getting the work of the ranch well under way. Among these records are four maps giving in pictorial form the early history of the ranch lands. The Pritchfork ranch, one of the oldest companies operating in West Texas, was started in 1883 and now owns approximately 130,000 acres of land in Kirby and Dickens counties.

Ancient Ledger Given
Among the records given by Mr. Lambert is a register of the old Barnes House, a hotel of Albany, Texas. The register begins in 1885. In it are recorded the names of some of the most prominent of Texas men connected with the cattle industry. Interspersed among the pages of the register are pages of advertising which have been used by Mr. Gardner as a scrap book. These contain clippings upon every phase of poetry from Tennyson to cowboy bards. They contain many clippings upon the early days of the cattle industry.

Among the relics contained in the Pritchfork collection are three of the first types of wire used in fencing in West Texas, a pair of rawhide hobbles made by Mr. Lambert's father, and the Pritchfork branding iron.

Lockney Schools Add New Course

(Special To The Avalanche)
LOCKNEY, Aug. 2.—Due to the large number of transfers from the surrounding rural schools to the local high school, members of the school board have added vocational agriculture to the high school curriculum for the coming year.

Donald Turner, recently employed with the United States department of agriculture, will have charge of the work.

of this development, and the continuation of an aggressive agricultural program—these are other aims of Ranger's commercial organization.

Aviation Developing
Aviation, the fastest developing industry of America at this time has a large part in the thoughts of Ranger for the present and the future. It is the intention of the chamber of commerce to continue to improve the airport from time to time to keep pace with aviation; to work in behalf of the designation of Ranger as an air mail stop and to establish here in the near future an aviation training school.

NEWSPAPER CENSORED American Publication Under Ban Of Chinese

PEIPING, China, Aug. 2. (AP)—The Daily Leader, an American newspaper, was put under the censorship ban today and Lejournal De Pekin, a French publication, was denied use of the mails. It was understood the nationalist administration at Nanking considered both papers had, within the last few months, published articles which were altogether too critical of the government.

The order provided that the proofs of the Leader must be submitted each day to the censor for his approval. The paper however, was permitted to continue use of the mails.

OUTLOOK BRIGHTENS

Speaker Says That Teaching Should Be Investment

COLLEGE STATION, Aug. 2. (AP)—The educational outlook in Texas will become brighter when the cost of teaching the state's youth is regarded as an investment rather than on expense, President T. O. Walton of the A. and M. college today told the conference of county school superintendents in session here in conjunction with the 20th annual farmers' short course.

"The expense of education is small when compared to the cost of ignorance," Dr. Walton declared. Dean T. H. Shelby of Texas University's extension department urged revision of the tax system and suggested that such a plank would be a fitting one for a gubernatorial candidate.

INJUNCTION GRANTED State Officials Restrained From Recalling Votes

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 2. (AP)—Judge W. Carruth Jones today issued a permanent injunction in a blanket suit restraining state officials from recognizing recall elections thus bringing to an end all legislature recalls. The suit had been brought by taxpayers declaring the recall law not applicable to members of the legislature, and was the result of recalls started by administration adherents following the impeachment proceedings against Gov. Huey P. Long. As a result of the court action all recall movements are halted and the election which recalled D. F. Edwards, West Carroll Parish representative is made null and void.

PALACE "Virgin Lips" with Olive Borden.

LYRIC "The Man in the Manhattan Coat"

The Woman's Day

Mrs. Josephine Valentine, 19, of Los Angeles is held on a murder charge for the death of her 8-month-old son. She admitted setting fire to his baby carriage and burning him to death.

She told police that she owed a milk bill and could get no more milk for her baby till it was paid, that her husband refused to give her money, that she wanted to go to work but couldn't afford to put the baby in a day nursery, and it seemed to her that the only thing to do was to dispose of the burden.

CRAZY OF COURSE! Many a comment could be made upon the case. One's first reaction is that of course the woman was crazed for such a desecration of that strongest of all human instincts, the care of maternity, can only be explained in this way.

Sometimes, though, one wonders if our insistence on the strength of the parental, especially maternal instinct in all normal people isn't a bit far-fetched. Perhaps people can be so crazed, normal in all other respects, at least—and yet left quite cold by the biological experience of parenthood.

"YOU GET IT!" One could comment on the eagerness of parent, the way in which some fathers seek to escape responsibility by leaving the job up to the wife and mother. If she can't get milk well that's just too bad, but it's her job to get it somehow.

There might be a comment, too, on the havoc of this job of wife and mother which tears the nerves raw till a mother, once perhaps normal, can calmly see fire to her baby sleeping in his carriage.

MODERN WOMAN Some might pick up the woman's casual remark. I wanted to go to work, as proof that modern woman, crazed by the clamor cry of "job" will kill even her child in order to get out of the home.

Most interesting of all will it be to see what the court does with her, for if I am not mistaken, no woman has ever paid the death penalty in this country for murdering her child. Courts always decide that such a case is crazy.

SHE GETS IT! The fair of "hospital" and 260-ounce-in-weight Laura Weaver (I shared with her the first woman torch slaver) will be in doubt.

Little Laura confessed that she strangled to death Wilmer Kistelman, her common-law husband, and burned his body to ensure embers. She told her she did it in a cold fury, carried the body 30 miles, drenched it in gasoline, and set fire to it.

It would be very simple to wager that the woman who confessed that she killed her child will get off much more easily than the one who confessed she killed her lover.

Human psychology permits us to believe that sex love is such that murder could occur, but it will not permit us to believe that parental murder can be performed by a sane person.

HA HA! The boys have laughed so much at all the rumpus about Mrs. Gann sister and official hostess of vice-president Coker, shall sit that "us girls" rather rejoice in a similar official case at a star dinner.

It occurred in the American community at Shanghai. Precedent prevails there as in Washington. And admirals and trade commissioners and consuls and what not, have been infuriated ever since a recent dinner at which they said proper seniority was not observed.

We have always observed that any outbreak of petulance on the girls part is invariably closely followed by a matching one on the boys part.

How to Achieve Beauty

Since the trend of the day is toward health, and everyone wants to look healthy as well as to be that way, it is most important to keep your skin looking fresh and bright, without the yellow, sickly tones that are so suggestive of jaundice.

Certainly all skins have a tone of yellow in them. Some have more than a little. And it is those skins, in which the yellow or greenish cast is predominant over the red-orange or ruddy brown, which must be considered carefully when cosmetic colors and cosmetics are chosen.

The most flattering colors to wear next a definitely yellow skin are usually the analogous colors, that is, red-orange and orange. The amount of red in these shades reflects red into the face, while the yellow blends with the yellow in the skin.

The most flattering colors to wear next a definitely yellow skin are usually the analogous colors, that is, red-orange and orange. The amount of red in these shades reflects red into the face, while the yellow blends with the yellow in the skin.

A complementary shade, such as a purple would only emphasize the yellow by contrast.

Many women with dark skins, of the gypsy type, in which a deep yellow tone is strong, wear the orange shades well.

Fairer yellow skins such as some blondes have, sometimes are more flattered by the wearing of yellow greens, since the yellow in these shades blends with them, while the green effects a contrast.

But sallow skins must beware of grays and cool, putty-tone tans. These neutral shades have no contrast value—they add to the general monotonous appearance of the skin and emphasize its drabness.

Unhealthy appearances, such as violet shadows in the face, and dark circles under the eyes, are usually emphasized by vivid greens, yellow greens and yellow, since these shades throw their complementary color, violet, into the face. Sometimes a very brilliant violet or blue will give the same effect by casting its reflection. Textures, as often as colors, create an impression of unhealth in the skin. Only the clearest, finest complexion appears fresh and fair next a fabric with a shiny surface, such as satin. By contrast with this smoothness all imperfections and roughness in the skin are emphasized.

Duller textures, however, like flat crepe or chiffon, are flattering. Next to them a skin usually looks soft and satiny-smooth.

A group of girls in the city enjoyed a swim and feast Thursday evening at Tumble N park. After a dip in the pool, wieners were roasted and watermelon was served to Misses Sue Brown, Genevieve Duckert, Evelyn Rutherford, Mildred Price, Ozle Davis, Myrtle Marian Shaw and Maxine Bradley.

Elaborate Plans In Store For All Texas Motorcade

Party Starting At Marshall Will Visit Famous Caves At Carlsbad; Trip Will Extend To El Paso

(Special To The Avalanche)
LAMESA, August 2.—Each year Texas is invited to go en Masse for a visit to the Carlsbad Caverns, known to all who see them as the eighth wonder of the world. This year a party of people formed an all Texas motorcade, starting at Marshall, August 1st and splitting the state into halves directly westward for the caverns and thence to El Paso, Texas, where the chamber of commerce of that city will entertain the party, according to Wm. A. Wilson, secretary and manager of the tour.

Carlsbad Cavern is the world's "super Grand Canyon underneath!" Proclaimed a national monument on October 25, 1923, by President Calvin Coolidge, more than one hundred thousand visitors have explored the great cave, and none has ever found words to even attempt a description of the variety and beauty of the scenic formations. Safe, clean and cool, with a temperature which never varies from 56 degrees, the visitor thoroughly enjoys every moment of the seven-mile trip over excellently built trails which descend to a depth of 750 feet.

Cavern Lighted
The cavern is lighted with electricity and courteous government guides have conducted the thousands of visitors through the great show place without ever an accident. The government's entrance fee is $2.00 per person, with children under 16 years of age admitted free when accompanied by parents or guardians. The daily trip starts at the cavern at 10:30 o'clock and five hours are spent underground. Carlsbad Cavern long was known as the Bat cave and more than 100,000 tons of guano were mined for fertilizer. Not until Jim White, a Texas cowboy, had lowered himself at the end of a rope and explored the cave, did the outside world know, or even realize after it had been told, the hidden beauties designed by the Master Architect.

Twenty-one miles of trail, tunnels and alcoves are now known in Carlsbad Cavern and exploration continues with countless miles of new rooms still to be revealed.

Situated in the Guadalupe mountains, thirty miles from Carlsbad, the cavern is reached in an hour's drive over good roads, the last six miles of which are through a scenic canyon where hundreds of varieties of desert cactus and other wild flowers send forth their fragrant perfumes.

Information Given
Information concerning this tour may be had by calling at the nearest chamber of commerce on this straight line west of Marshall, Dallas, Ft. Worth, Mineral Wells, Breckenridge, Albany, Anson, Roby, Snyder, Gall, Lamesa, Seminole, Hobbs, N. M., Carlsbad, N. M., and El Paso.

All parts of Texas and any citizen in Texas can register for this tour without charge, the requirement being that the rules of the tour be observed, according to Wilson.

Rabbit Marsville and Johnny Evers both rejected offers to manage the Braves.

Schools At Sudan Have 23 1-2 Units

(Special To The Avalanche)

INDIAN, Aug. 2.—The accrediting of Sudan schools now covers 23 1-2 units with the report of the state department of education granting affiliation in third year vocational agriculture and in physiology.

The school was last fall placed on the list of schools accredited with the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges. This standard gives the graduate of the Sudan school a very high rank. It is also a surety to the pupil looking for high school instruction that he will find efficient teaching and an opportunity for a high grade of supervision. The school is expecting many pupils from other schools this year, pupils who will attend for the opportunities offered here.

DIFFERENT BALL
During a recent game between the Robins and Cardinals the players said the ball was different from the one that they had been using. The covers were not glossy and when hit the ball did not seem to travel as swiftly as the other balls used this season.

Sunday-School Lesson
BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic: Belshazzar's Feast. (Temperance Lesson.)
Scripture Lesson: Daniel 5:17-28.

17. Then Daniel answered and said before the king, let thy gifts be to thyself, and give thy rewards to another; nevertheless I will read the writing unto the king, and make known to him the interpretation.

18. O thou king, the Most High God gave Nebuchadnezzar thy father the kingdom, and greatness, and glory, and majesty.

19. And because of the greatness that he gave him, all the peoples, nations and languages trembled and feared before him: whom he would he slew, and whom he would he kept alive; and whom he would he raised up, and whom he would he put down.

20. But when his heart was lifted up, and his spirit was hardened so that he dealt proudly, he was deposed from his kingly throne, and they took his glory from him:

21. And he was driven from the seat of men, and he dwelt with the beasts, and his dwelling was with the wild asses; he was fed with grass like oxen, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven; until he knew that the Most High God ruled in the kingdom of men, and that he setteth up over it whomsoever he will.

22. And thou his son, O Belshazzar, hast not humbled thy heart, though thou knowest all this.

23. But hast lifted up thyself against the Lord of heaven; and they have brought the vessels of his house before thee, and thou and thy lords, thy wives and thy concubines, have drunk wine from them; and thou hast praised the gods of silver and gold, of brass, iron, wood, and stone, which see not, nor hear, nor know, and the God in whose hand thy breath is, and whose are all thy ways, hast thou not glorified.

24. Then was the part of the hand sent from before him, and this writing was inscribed.

25. And this is the writing that was inscribed: MENE, MENE, TEKEL, UPHARSIN.

26. This is the interpretation of the thing: MENE, God hath numbered thy kingdom, and brought it to an end.

27. TEKEL, thou art weighed in the balance, and art found wanting.

28. PERES, thy kingdom is divided, and given to the Medes and Persians.

Time:—Babylon captured, B. C. 539.

Place:—Babylon, the chief capital of the Babylonian Empire.

Golden Text:—Be not drunken with wine, wherein is riot.—Eph. 5:18.

Introduction.

We are now to study one of the most striking events in all Bible history, an account of such dramatic power that it has stirred the consciences of men for all the generations since it was written. It rings true to every one's experience. We all feel that, if weighed, we should be found wanting. We all know that divine justice, if it were not tempered by divine mercy, must decree our lasting condemnation.

The account of Belshazzar's last banquet is one of the most graphic descriptions that are found in the whole scriptures. He was evidently a young prince of debased habits, and an over-attentive to the affairs of state. Circumstances, however, made it necessary for him to hold a levy, at which a thousand of his lords attended. A banquet followed. The king set by himself at a separate table, apart from the assembled multitude, and while at the height of his enjoyment ordered the sacred vessels of Jehovah to be brought forth from the temple of his god into the banquet hall. He defied Jehovah openly, and drank in the sacred vessels, both he and the prince, and his wives and concubines.

The Handwriting on the Wall.

Suddenly at the height of the profane and drunken revel, came a terrifying wonder. In the full light of the candleabra which illuminated the king's table, over against the plastered wall nearby appeared the fingers of a man's hand—not the arm, only the fingers. Then the fingers, ghastly white against the wall, began to move, and as they moved letters were beneath them on the plaster, and soon an inscription stood out for all to see. In a frenzy of fear Belshazzar cried out for the wise men to be summoned, the interpreters of omens, the magicians, the readers of the stars, the fortune tellers, the sages of many kinds to whom the superstitious Babylonians gave credence. When confronted with the mysterious inscription, all of the enchanters and astrologers and soothsayers were nonplussed. They were able, it seems, to read the inscription, but they could get no meaning out of it. They failed absolutely, and the king was more distressed than ever.

Daniel is Summoned.

At this point the queen entered the banquet hall. She was probably the queen mother; in the opinion of Professor Driver she was no less than the widow of Nebuchadnezzar. Coming into this scene of confusion and dismay, the royal lady, who had good reason to remember Daniel, told Belshazzar about him. She gave a most impressive account of Daniel. In him were found "light and understanding and wisdom, the spirit of the holy gods." He could solve all enigmas and clarify all mysteries. Daniel was speedily found and brought to the king, who immediately placed the problem before him, and offered him rich rewards if he succeeded in solving it. He should be clothed in royal purple. He should have a chain of gold around his neck, a mark of special honor with distinction. He should be the third ruler in the kingdom.

The Wisdom of Daniel.

"In his birth, and in his upbringing, and in his breeding, and in his books, Daniel possessed a knowledge of God and of man that no sage of Chaldea could possibly approach; but at the same time, Daniel was so wise, and so true, and so honest, and so devoted to a learning and to a religion of her own that well deserved his best attention; till Daniel at last came to be acknowledged as more than the equal of the king's most learned and most consulted men. It was the largeness, and the expansiveness, and the hospitality of Daniel's fine mind, all combined with his extraordinary nobility and beauty of character that give Daniel such an unparalleled position in the court of Chaldea, and which has secured for Daniel such a famous and such a proverbial name in all subsequent literature."

"A Daniel come to judgment! yea, a Daniel!"

O wise young judge, how I do honor thee!—Shakespeare.

The Irony of History.

"The story of the stricken despot of mighty Babylon is illustrated again and again by what the late Bishop Thirlwall called 'the irony of history'—the cases in which men seem to have been elevated to the very summit of power only to heighten the dreadful precipice over which they immediately fall. He mentions the cases of Persia, which was on the verge of ruin when with lordly arrogance she dictated the Peace of Antalcidas; of Boniface VIII, in the Jubilee of 1300 immediately preceding his deadly overthrow of Spain, under Philip II, struck down by the ruin of the Armada at the zenith of her wealth and pride. He might have added the instances of Ahab, Sennacherib, and Herod Antipas; of Alexander the Great, dying as the fool died, drunken and miserable, in the sun-premature hour of his conquests; of Napoleon, hurled into the dust, first by the retreat from Moscow, then by the overthrow at Waterloo."—James Hastings.

The Writing Interpreted, vs. 25-31.

"And this is the writing, that was inscribed: MENE, MENE, TEKEL, UPHARSIN." Translated into English, the words mean:—Number, weight, division. "Mene is pronounced to rhyme with bewray, Tekel pronounced to rhyme with bewail, and in the explanation of Upharsin (U being "and") peres is pronounced to rhyme with deface." Driver.

These true fatal words carry in them the summing up of all divine judgment, and will be rung in the ears of all who bring it on themselves. Belshazzar is a type of the end of every godless world-power and of every such individual life. "Numbered—for God allows to each his definite time, and when its sum is complete, down falls the knife that cuts the threads. "Weighted"—for "after death the judgment," and a godless life, when laid in the balance which his hand holds, is "altogether lighter than vanity." "Breakings"—for not only will the godless life be torn away from its possessions with much laceration of heart and spirit, but the man himself will be broken like some earthen vessel coming into sharp collision with an express engine. Belshazzar saw the handwriting on the same night in which it was carried out in act; we see it long before, and we can read it. But some of us are mad enough to sit unconcerned at the table, and go on with the orgy, though the legible letters are gleaming plain on the wall."—Alexander MacLaren.

Babylon Captured, Belshazzar Slain.

That night Belshazzar was slain. The punishment which was his due came swiftly. "His name meant, 'Bel! preserve thou king!' But Bel bowed down, and Nebo stooped, and gave no help to their votary."—F. W. Farrar. The forces of Cyrus, according to Herodotus (I, 190, 191) captured by turning aside the waters of the Euphrates into a reservoir which they had excavated for that purpose. The Euphrates flowed through the middle of the vast city, its banks being lined with great walls, gates in which gave access to the city. VIII, in the Jubilee of 1300 im-

ONE MINUTE PULPIT For he that is not against us is on our part. For whoever shall give you a cup of water to drink in my name, because ye belong to Christ, verily I say unto you, he shall not lose his reward. -St. Mark, ix, 40-41.

THAT SECOND SUBWAY ANYONE in the long line of city-bound cars, halted at the intersection of the Santa Fe tracks on Avenue H immediately following the reception given Colonel Art Goebel the other day, will agree with Mayor Harley Woods that Lubbock needs another underpass in a hurry.

Motor vehicles were literally jammed in the thoroughfare on both sides of the rail right-of-way as three long freight trains were being switched around on tracks traversing the street. At least 100—probably more—automobiles containing at least 250 persons were bottled up on Avenue H for 12 minutes, to be exact, while the trains were switching and no accident was narrowly averted.

The Morning Avalanche has always felt that underpasses should be constructed on both Avenue H and Broadway and has reason to believe that it won't be long until the Avenue H project, like the one on Broadway, will be complete. Contract for the work there is expected to be let in the next thirty days and to quote Mayor Woods, probably sooner.

There seems to be apprehension on the part of some of the residents in the north section of the city concerning the Avenue H underpass. Their fears that the underpass will not be constructed are, according to the city administration, entirely groundless and work will be pushed on the project as soon as all attending problems are ironed out.

Difficultly in satisfying property owners adjacent to the underpass site is the fact that the Santa Fe, as a party to the improvement, must be advised of every move taken and other problems which always attend public works have slowed down the proposition but by no means have postponed it. Mayor Woods reports.

The Morning Avalanche is glad to hear that construction date on Avenue H is far off. This newspaper favors a strict prohibition of a railroad from traversing a thoroughfare or a designated highway to solve our underpass problems of the future and to make impossible political juggling such as permitted the Denver tracks to cross the combination street and highway on South Avenue H.

NEW SLANT ON "PROSPERITY" Commencement addresses ordinarily are just pious platitude designed to please fond parents and all youthful graduates into a state of complacency. Not so the address delivered at Brown University by Professor Zechariah Chaffee, Jr., of the Harvard Law School, the text of which is printed in the current issue of the Avalanche.

Professor Chaffee discussed "Prosperity" and the criticism which he advanced deserves to be broadcast throughout the length and breadth of this fair land.

America, it seems, needs to foster the spirit of sacrifice along three distinct lines: 1. That rich country that is richest by far in the world should devote its money and thought without delay or interruption to the permanent conquest of unemployment.

2. The nation should set itself "to make the physical aspects of national life" more satisfying. 3. The government should abandon present policies with reference to isolation and armaments through a compromise. The way to disarm is to disarm.

Plentiful employment, bettered living conditions through scientific planning and a peace policy which amounts to something more than hypocritical lip service—these are national objectives meriting the thoughtful consideration of American officials.

Professor Chaffee is entitled to full credit for dragging commencement oratory out of the realm of innocuous desuetude. His Brown address may have jolted some of our staid New Englanders but if it did nothing more than inject a few wholesome doubts and fears into a small segment of the first-satisfied populace it served a purpose of the first magnitude.

COMMUNITY PRIDE A mania for large and costly public buildings is sweeping the country, beautifying cities and towns, promoting community pride but inevitably swelling already burdensome taxes. The threat of higher taxes has not abated the building.

Beginning soon after the war, and increasing in volume up to this time, the hue and cry for public buildings has been heard in the largest cities and the smallest towns alike. Everywhere there is a popular demand for municipal convention halls, stadiums and administration buildings, courthouses, libraries, school buildings and other popular edifices.

In many instances as in Lubbock the demand is justified by the growing population. There is a recognized nation-wide need for additional school facilities that is only slowly being supplied. City and county administration buildings are woefully inadequate in many places. Adequate public library space as an educational requirement of the community is second only to the public school.

Beautiful public buildings are the pride of every community, but they must be paid for out of the public treasuries. Those who propose public improvements should not complain about the taxes they pay. Public improvements and low taxes can not dwell in the same house. Some communities are electing the former and others choose the latter.

"QUEEN OF THE SEAS" By crossing the Atlantic from Cherbourg in 4 days, 17 hours and 42 minutes, the North German Lloyd liner Bremen has well earned the title "Queen of the Seas." The Cunarder Mauretania, after holding the oceanic speed championship for 25 years, has at last met a superior whose prowess is being denied.

It is breath-taking to contemplate the tremendous advances made in fast water travel since Columbus blazed the Atlantic trail some four centuries ago.

When one considers the vibrationless luxury of the Bremen, as well as its swiftness and comparative safety, the question of possible competition between air and ocean travel is not difficult to answer. Much aeronautical progress will have to be made before a boat of the Bremen type will be surpassed in favor of trans-Atlantic sea passage or air travel.

STEWART SHOWS WHY DEMOCRATS ARE EAGER FOR HIGH TARIFFS

By CHARLES F. STEWART, Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Democrat politicians can not very well admit that they will be deeply grieved if the tariff bill which the G. O. P. bosses finally get together on is not nearly as high as the minority party management expected.

The fact remains that the Jeffersonian leaders will be placed in an awkward position unless their worst fears are realized. The tariff bill passed by the strongly Republican house of representatives was generally recognized as a rip shouter. It even shocked a good many pretty strong protectionists.

Now the senate finance committee is at work on it. High as it is, the Democrats have felt sure that the Republican majority of the committee was going to recommend still higher rates.

On that supposition, the Democrats argued thus: 1. Maybe the Republicans' senate majority will not accept the committee's recommendation, in which case it is certain the high tariff house of representatives will accept the boosted bill, and maybe the president will sign it.

The result will be a big increase in the cost of living; the farmers will be furious; other countries throughout the whole world will retaliate against the United States; the stuffing will be knocked out of America's export trade; a few interests doubtless will profit, but it will be at the expense of the vast majority, and they will not be long in discovering it. Maybe the bill will pass, but maybe President Hoover, who is not regarded as an enthusiastic high tariffite, will veto it.

3. Maybe the senate and the house of representatives will get into a fight over some change made in the bill by the senate—as, for instance, the insertion of a farm debenture clause—and the whole thing will be deadlocked and go haywire.

In the event of expectation No. 1's fulfillment, the Democrats were counting on a popular revision against the new tariff rates to play into Democratic hands at the next election.

In the event of the fulfillment of expectation No. 2 or 3, they were figuring on a big Democratic advantage as a result of a bad G. O. P. split.

They preferred No. 1 decidedly. Of course, they could hardly say plainly that they hoped the G. O. P. would pass an extra-extravagant bill and play smash with the country—but undiplomatically expressed, that was about what it amounted to.

The Democratic leaders could, however, and did tell what they believed the Republicans were about to do—and also what they believed it would result in. If they had only kept quiet a little longer the probabilities would be stronger now that the G. O. P. leaders really would do it.

All the indications were that they meant to. They may do it yet. Nevertheless, the signs are not as convincing as they were a few weeks ago.

The Democrats made so appalling an outcry that they appear really to have alarmed the voters, and a perfect inundation of warnings is pouring in upon the G. O. P. bosses to "go easy."

Scarcely needful to state, the tight little "interests" which were calculating on a list of absolutely prohibitive tariff rates to give them a complete monopoly—these are as hungry for their clean-up as ever. But politicians are more sensitive.

They have a better idea what it means (to them) to overdo matters—and get caught at it. Anyhow, they are talking more cautiously than they did.

Questionably they will do all they can for their friends, the tariff-benefited interests, but not to the extent of jeopardizing their own electoral welfare.

A month ago the low tariff law-makers pook-pooked any suggestion that the G. O. P. senators might make quite a few cuts in the representatives' proposed schedule of new duties.

The seemed mighty cheerful about it, too. Today they are not so positive. One might suppose they would feel proud of having thrown such a scare into the opposition, but they do not appear to. They look somewhat blank and nonplussed, instead.

MANY ERRORS IN READING DUE TO PSYCHOLOGY, NOT POOR EYES

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN, Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

People sometimes make peculiar errors in reading. In fact, the confusion of a letter or two in a word sometimes has far-reaching results, hardly to be estimated by the printer who makes a typographical error or by the proof reader who overlooks it, or by the newspaper reader who confuses the material after it is correctly set.

Realizing the importance of errors in reading, the British Medical Research Council has made a series of studies on the physiology of vision and on the psychology of reading. The committee found, for instance, that much depends on the ability of the person who reads to comprehend the material that he is reading.

When the meaning of the material read is fully comprehended, errors in reading are negligible; when the meaning is not understood, when there is not a continuous context, the person who reads is likely to introduce into his reading substitute words which merely make confusion or nonsense.

This is, of course, of the greatest importance to those who read material on scientific subjects or on health. It is quite frequently necessary to use a scientific word of which the meaning may not be generally clear. Most writers on health for the public attempt to include definitions or substitute words which will aid understanding. It is, of course, advisable when understanding is not had to look up the word in the dictionary and to make certain of its meaning.

In a long experience of conversations with the public on health subjects, the answering of letters from the public requesting health advice and the discussion of scientific matters before public audiences, I have heard innumerable peculiar uses of scientific words by people, who revealed through such use the fact that they did not clearly comprehend the nature of the terms. Sometimes the results were ludicrous; in other instances, even serious.

Printers occasionally make typographical errors confusing such words as bridge and bride, month and mouth, person and prison, with exceedingly peculiar results.

One of the experiments indicated the importance of varying the uses of words in long articles. It was found that when a certain word is used over and over again in any article this word retains a "prepotency" so that the other words of a similar character are constantly mistaken for the word frequently used later in the article. Obviously this would result again and again in ambiguous meaning.

Such detailed studies of human physiology and psychology do much to indicate the intricate character of the human mind and body and the importance of constant research to aid the activities of man in his daily life.

COLUMBUS LEAVES SPAIN On August 3, 1492, Christopher Columbus sailed from Palos, Spain on his memorable voyage with the three tiny vessels—the Santa Maria, the Pinta and the Nina.

Provisioned for a year and with 90 mariners aboard, the fleet proceeded to the Canary Islands, where the rig of the Pinta was altered. Repairs were completed and the expedition left the Canary Islands September 6.

From the parallel of about 30° N. nearly to the equator there is a zone of perpetual winds—namely, the northeast trade winds—always moving in the same direction, so that the ships of Columbus were steadily carried to their destination by a law of nature.

Day after day passed and the crew became mutinous, but on October 11, about 10 p. m., Columbus saw a light. At 2 the next morning land was distinctly seen. The island called by Columbus San Salvador, has now been ascertained to be Watling Island, one of the Bahamas.

After discovering several smaller islands, the fleet came in sight of Cuba October 27. Crossing the channel between Cuba and Haiti, they anchored in the harbor of St. Nicholas Mole December 4. The Santa Maria was wrecked shortly after and it was necessary to leave a small colony on the island when Columbus began the return voyage on January 3, 1493.

July 5,000 rebels have surrendered since the government announced its amnesty and it is estimated only a few bands remain in rebellion.

The SHINING TALENT

By ELEANOR EARLY © 1929 by NEA Service Inc.

THIS HAS HAPPENED MOLLY BURNHAM, sob sister on a Boston newspaper, has been shot by a dope fiend known as Dopey Dan. Molly was covering the MAN-DINELLO trial—the trial of a notorious gunman charged with the murder of a night watchman.

She believed the defendant guilty and her stories were admittedly biased. As a result of one of her articles falling in the hands of a jurymen, the judge called a mistrial. Meantime, this Dopey Dan—his drug-crazed brain fired with the exploits of Chicago's racketeers—determines to kill Molly.

His bullets would her in the shoulder, and she is taken to the Relief Station, where her name is on the dangerous list. Dan eats an orange smeared with poison, and shoots himself for good measure.

In the hospital, waiting for good news, are Molly's friends, and her sweetheart, JACK WELLS. Also RED FLYNN, a police court reporter, with whom she is writing a crime play.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVIII Molly smiled. "Write a crime play?" "Guess my little dinner party's off."

Her shoulder was bandaged, and one arm was in a sling. Even her head was swathed. "It's nothing really," she assured Jack. "Just a lot of fancy scenery. The nurse says there are dozen photographers out there, waiting to take my picture. I guess they bribed the doctors to make me picturesque."

"But your head?" stammered Jack. "They told me it was only your shoulder."

"I cut it when I fell," she explained. "They took a few stitches, and tied it up for general effectiveness. I'm all right."

"You said it," he pronounced happily. "You're the all rightest same kind that ever lived. You sent for me, didn't you, Molly?"

"Yes. The nurse said you were out there with a girl and a lot of men. She heard you talking to the doctor. Is Rita there, too? And Bob and Zip?"

He nodded. "There's a regular convention all the reporters in the city. I got up. Why I asked if you were out there was because that Red Flynn's out there, too. Maybe you'd rather see him, Molly?"

"Oh, Red!" she sighed petulantly. "Be your size!"

"He says this shooting is worth a million dollars worth of advertising for you. You knew the dope fiend that shot you killed himself, didn't you? I suppose they'll make a great blood and thunder story out of it."

She smiled palely. "Yes, I had a note from Red. Miss Gowen read it to me. He wants to be my manager."

"Your manager?" "Yes. Red's a born news hound. He's tickled to death about the whole thing. Just so long as I didn't die, he thinks it's a great break. He used to be a press agent, honey."

Miss McGowan came rustling back. Bill in starchy white. "You mustn't tire my patient," she admonished playfully.

"Molly caught Jack's hand, and drew him closer. "Forget Red, old Foolish," she instructed. "He's nothing in my life but a police court reporter."

As he was leaving the room she called after him. "You'll stay over tonight, won't you, Jack? And come to see me tomorrow? And tell the others I can see them tomorrow, too—Rita and Bob I mean—and Zip."

"How about Red Flynn?" he asked.

"Oh, you couldn't keep Red out," she declared. "He'll be running in with a battery of photographers, and my life story all typed, and ready for my signature. You don't know Red. By the way, if this story's going to get wired all over the place, you'd better send mother and dad a telegram. Tell them it's all dreadfully exaggerated, and that I'm absolutely all right."

"I'll tell them to come and take you home, where you belong," he threatened.

"If you do," she warned, "I'll have a relapse."

In the morning Jack went shopping. He went to the hospital lounge in pajamas and American beauty roses that matched the satin of the pajamas.

Shortly afterward he wired his office for a week's salary in advance, explaining that a friend was ill, and that he must remain for a few days.

Red, visiting the hospital that afternoon, admired the pajamas, and smelled the roses.

"The only time a girl gets stuff like that," he observed, "is before she gets married. Watch your step, dearie."

"I've told you a hundred times, Red, that I wouldn't get married until I've gotten somewhere. What makes you think I want to cramp my style?"

"Love messes up a lot of things," he remarked. "I got faith in you, that's all, Molly."

"Your faith's touching, Red. Well, you needn't worry. I'm going to convalesce plenty. And, while I'm doing that little thing, we'll tear off the Great American Play."

"Atta girl!" he approved. "You've a vacation coming to you, and don't you forget it. If Wharton hadn't ordered that law and order spiel, you would never—"

Molly's eyes were sparkling with excitement. "You know, Red, I've been thinking it would be a good idea to work Dopey Dan into the play. I don't know just how. Only we ought to get in a gunman murder, don't you think?"

"Now you're talking!" approved Red boisterously. "And I'll tell you what I did today. I sent out a story to the effect that you were incorporating your own life story in a play to be produced on Broadway next season. Just a little feeler. Might interest some of those birds that buy plays. Can't do any harm, and something might come of it."

Red was right. Partly right, at least. For something did come of it. It came in the form of a letter from Mrs. Burnham.

"Dear Daughter," she wrote. "Hardly had our anxiety over your condition abated when another shock was forced upon us. Today's paper announces that you are planning to write a crime play, in which you will include lurid highmarks of your own career. My dear child, that would be more than your father and I could bear. Write a big story, and set our fears at rest. The papers have carried such dreadful stories. It is hard to know what to believe. Mr. Wells has been so kind. He has kept us constantly informed of your condition. You have written of him in such a way that your father and I had our fears allayed as a struggling young man, with a meager income. His telegrams and long distance telephone calls indicate, however, considerable affluence. I hope, my dear, if Mr. Wells is the fine young man he seems to be, you will not start a ridiculous career of your own in the way of a happy marriage."

Molly wired her distracted parents flippantly, inviting them to the premiere of her play, and assuring them that it would make their hair stand on end. Then she sent for Jack.

"See here," she accused him. "How come you're telephoning my family? Don't you know transcontinental conversations are a little luxury reserved for millionaires?"

"It didn't cost much," he affirmed. "The poor things were worried stiff."

"And you've been wiring them," she continued sternly. "That's nothing. Gee whiz, Molly. 'Jack, you're incorrigible.' Her voice now was very gentle. 'I love you fearfully.'"

He sat on the side of the bed, and crushed her hands in his. "And I haven't a cent," he cried bitterly.

"I love you," she whispered. "That's your tough luck," he retorted with bitter humor. "Listen, Molly. I've been thinking things over. I want to free you from our engagement."

"Jack!" "I do," he insisted stubbornly. "Let's talk it over sensibly."

"Don't you love me any more?" "Love you!" he groaned. "The smile fled from her lips. "What's wrong, dear?" "Nothing. Not a darn thing. Except I've got to be fair to you. Don't you see, Molly? Don't make it any harder, dear."

He had walked to the window now and was tugging on the curtain rod. His face was as white as her bandages.

"You've a career ahead of you," he told her doggedly. "You want to write, and God knows you can write. Molly. Why, honey, you can write all around lots of those women that get their stuff published all over the place! Women with big names, I mean. You're better than any of them."

"I want to heaven," he broke off suddenly. "that you'd get this crime bug out of your head. You can write such darn pretty things. Love stories, I mean. Sweet, romantic stuff. Gee, you can't tell that that doesn't sell, Molly."

"Big names can sell anything," she told him patiently. "But anybody can sell crime that can write it pretty well."

"Well, anyhow," He attacked the subject again determinedly. "The point is, you want to write, and here's your big chance. I was talking with your friend Red Flynn yesterday. He says you can cash in like a million on all the publicity of the Mandinello trial, and the shooting. I guess he knows what he's talking about. He's talked it over with a lot of big guns. He says you'll go over into a bang. Well, once you find yourself where you want to be, dear—a playwright, and all that—that's going to be something different. You understand, don't you?"

"No," she said in a scared little voice. "I'm afraid I don't."

"All right then. I'll make it clear. If you're going to make a lot of money and grab a lot of fame—good grief, Molly, you don't want to be tied down to a nogood son-of-a-gun."

"You want to break our engagement, Jack?" she asked quietly. "You really want to?"

"Yes," he insisted stubbornly. "I do. It's for your own good, Molly. It's because I love you so much. I'm going away. Somewhere so far that I can't pester you any more. I'm going to leave you free, sweetheart. To have a career."

"If that's the price, Jack, I'll give up the career."

"No," he said. "You can't. It's there—that talent—right inside you. You can't cut it out any more than you can amputate your heart."

"Oh, yes, I can."

"Well, I won't let you. It would come between us after a while. You know what Longfellow had to say—'Of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these—it might have been.' I guess it's the truth. You'd always be thinking of what might have been, if you hadn't married me."

"But we could get married," she cried. "You could be an architect, and I could write." She tried to laugh. "And we could have a lot of little authors, who'd illustrate their own stories. You know—they'd take after us both."

"And you drawing down maybe a thousand a week," he cut in and me $50. Do you think I could stand that?"

"If I loved me—yes."

"If I loved you?" he laughed harshly. "That's not the question."

NEW YORK, Aug. 2. (AP)—Cotton was lower today under week-end realizing or liquidation and some local or southern selling. December contracts sold off to 18.10 or 34 points net lower with the general market closing easy at net declines of 34 to 47 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 9 to 22 points. A private report placed the condition at 73.1 and indicated a yield of 15,740,000 bales. These figures were about 900,000 bales above one of the reports published on the previous day.

October Declines. October declined 18.84 and March to 19.28, making net losses 34 to 48 points on the active months. The close was within a point or two of the lowest. Private reports yesterday gave the condition from 68.4 to 73.1 and the indicated yield from 15,146,000 up to 15,740,000 bales.

Private cables reported an inactive market in Liverpool.

Exports were 7,446, making 18,210 for the two days so far this season. Port receipts 2,474. U. S. port stocks 516,529.

Cotton Fears Bearish Private Reports

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 2. (AP)—Fears of bearish private reports and unfavorable construction placed on two such reports issued today caused a decline of 11.50 a bale in cotton today. Prices were on the downgrade from the start and reached the lowest in final trading when October contracts sold at 18.74. A net decline of 30 points. The general market closed easier at net losses of 30 points on active months.

Liverpool cables were about 900,000 bales above one of the reports published on the previous day.

THEY'RE GLAD TO GIVE A STATEMENT

"Just A Few Bottles Of Orgatone Has Restored My Wife To Health," Says Lubbock Man

"After I spent a lot of money for medicine and treatments for my wife without it doing her any good, it sure does seem wonderful to me that just two bottles of Orgatone has restored her to health again," is the remarkable statement made a few days ago by W. E. Foster of rural route 6, Lubbock, Texas. Mr. Foster is very well known here in this section and is employed at the Junction service station.

"Several years ago," he continued, "my wife's health failed, she lost her appetite, and before I realized it, she had gotten so bad she was in danger of a complete breakdown. What little she forced herself to eat disagreed with her and she suffered agonies from the gas that rose from the undigested food in her stomach. She was badly constipated and suffered from such terrible headaches that her nervous system went all to pieces and she couldn't sleep hardly at all of a night. She worried over her condition and actually grew despondent. Her liver and kidneys bothered her an awful lot, and she would have severe pains in her side and back, and was very bilious and dizzy at times, she could hardly stand up, without falling.

"Nothing we did for her seemed to help her at all, but she just got worse instead of better. A friend recommended Orgatone to her and persuaded her to try it. Soon after she took the first bottle I noticed that she was picking up getting to be more talkative, and she has continued to improve ever since. She eats anything she wants now and it all agrees with her, she is always in a good humor now. She sleeps fine every night, and in fact, all of her troubles have been completely relieved. She is entirely like a different person. We are glad to do what we can for Orgatone, for both of us are thankful for her health."

Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific bile treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Lubbock, Texas, by the Bowens Drug Store, who are the sole Lubbock agents.

Lighter hogs to shippers ruled moderately active at steady prices. Packers were bearish and on closing rounds enforced an uneven decline of 10¢ to 40¢. The day's top of $12.35 was paid at Chicago. Total receipts were around 5,350 against 79,350 a week ago and 49,683 a year ago.

Dr. Snook, a married man, would hardly have gone to this place with Theora Hix on the night of June 13, if he had any idea of slaying her, for he might have encountered any number of automobiles along the route, defense attorneys Max Seyfert, intimated in questioning Constable Guy.

Court will be convened for a half day session tomorrow at the request of the jurors who are eager to proceed with the trial and to get it over.

In three of the complaints he is charged with converting $25 to his own personal use, in one he is alleged to have misappropriated $10 and in another he is charged with converting $13.45 to his use.

for the evening meal. Table ware was hurled about the room and there was a general uproar, some of the convicts seizing knives and forks for weapons while others tore off legs of tables to use as clubs.

The majority of the convicts went to their cells voluntarily. Those who refused were driven into the cell houses by guards armed with shotguns.

Pandemonium in Cells. There was pandemonium in the two big cell houses as prisoners tore off fixtures from the cell galleries, smashed windows, pried loose bricks which they hurled at the guards and fought hand to hand with the keepers.

Grain Values In Big Collapse On Friday's Market

Likelihood Of Railroads' Embargoes Directed In Opposition To Shipments Given As Reason

By JOHN P. BOUGHAN Associated Press Market Editor CHICAGO, Aug. 2. (AP)—An all-around collapse of grain values today resulted largely from apparent growing likelihood of railroad embargoes directed especially against shipments of wheat to Chicago.

Stocks of wheat were increased to such an extent that seemingly a quick adequate outlet must be found, or embargoes cannot be escaped.

Wheat Market Falls. Wheat future deliveries broadened and the market fell as much as 5 1/4¢ a bushel.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 3 1/4¢ to 4¢ net lower, with corn 3¢ to 4¢ down, oats 1¢ to 1 3/4¢ off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 12¢ to 15¢.

Aggravating the market's effects of threatened choking of grain storage facilities here were wheat receipts of 714 cars in Chicago today. Adding consequent selling was an unexpected sharp downturn in wheat quotations at Liverpool, where future delivery closed at 1 1/2 to 1 3/4¢ per bushel, where, at an advance of 1/8 to 1 7/8¢ per bushel had been looked for.

U. S. Steel also broke into new high territory at 215 1/2, with a gain of a couple of points, which was later lost. Bullish operations again converged upon the utilities.

feet. This was the tragedy of the death with his boots on a badge of shame in the cattle country in which he grew up.

Dr. Ramsey obtained the old Leahy ranch by purchase at a foreclosure sale. Leahy, the state comptroller, resigned the acquisition and plotted to regain possession of the property.

He was alleged to have sent Martinez to the aged physician's home with a story of a sick relation. The Mexican testified he lured Dr. Ramsey to a deserted spot where a shallow grave had been dug. There Leahy, Martinez testified, tortured Dr. Ramsey and forced the signing of papers from 9:30 p. m. to 2 a. m. papers which, however, never were recorded.

Story Is Related. Then said the Mexican, Leahy struck Dr. Ramsey on the back of the head, thrust the body and cast it into the grave. Dr. Ramsey still lived, however, Martinez testified, and Leahy then slit his throat with a dirk.

Two $10,000 offers marked progress of the Ramsey disappearance mystery. Ramsey's body, once offered to find the body for $10,000, and then suspicion pointed towards him. His last $10,000 offer was to any lawyer who would obtain a new trial for him.

Leahy To Be Buried At Corpus Christi

GEORGE J. LEAHY will not be granted his request to be buried in Georgetown, where a jury convicted him of the slaying of Dr. J. A. Ramsey and sentenced him to death.

Relative today decided the body be sent to Corpus Christi where Leahy was well known.

The request to be buried in Georgetown dated back to the time Leahy, Martinez testified, was a Georgetown banker and churchman, who had shown an interest in his spiritual welfare, to see to it that his body was interred here.

In making the request Leahy said: "In after years the people of Williamson county will think different of me to what they do now."

Refueling Record Lubbock Man Makes High Mark

A new refueling endurance record has been set and by a Lubbock man.

Ira Wilson, local abstract man, is carrying on a "refueling endurance" record all his own, and "still going strong" but not seeking any fame but merely to better his health which has been ill of late.

This morning Mr. Wilson has gone past the 600 hour mark and will tell you that in the past three weeks he has swallowed 704 six-ounce glasses of sweet milk in a milk diet treatment for asthma.

He began taking the diet on July 9 and has not tasted solid food since that time. At 8 o'clock in the morning he is refueled by man, Woodrow, his 11-year-old son, starts in with the milk and every 30 minutes until 8:30 at night, Mr. Wilson drinks a glassful.

He declares that his health is improving and besides that, he has gained eight pounds during the three weeks. He plans to continue the diet for some time, maybe a month, he says.

Organized Theft Bands Indicated

Automobile theft has become universal throughout West Texas, according to reports received each week at the police and sheriff departments and indicates that an organized theft ring is in operation. The two departments receive an average of 24 reports of auto thefts each week, it was announced Friday.

In a few cases stolen automobiles have been recovered in this city. "We are constantly on the lookout for stolen autos," said Chief of Police John Lemond. "Notices of thefts have come from practically every city in Texas and New Mexico."

"We receive an average of two reports of stolen cars each day," said Sheriff Wade Hardy.

Exams Given For Teachers In City

H. C. Bowlin, principal of Central Ward school of this city, Friday held examinations in Lubbock in the office of the county superintendent of education, for teachers seeking elementary second grade certificates.

Mr. Bowlin was acting in the absence of Miss Mae Murfee, county superintendent, who is attending summer session at Texas A. and M. college.

Three applicants took the examinations, according to Mr. Bowlin. These included Mrs. Clemmie Evans, of Lubbock and Misses Mae Bell Headstrom and Vern Headstrom, of Ropesville.

Hack Wilson fanned six times in a row and then went on a batting rampage and broke up three ball games in as many days.

Tech Students On Carlsbad Journey

Second Summer School Trip Will Start At 9 O'Clock This Morning; Party To Join All-Texas Motorcade

Two or three carloads of Texas Tech students will leave this morning at 9 o'clock for the college for the second trip of the summer session to the Carlsbad caverns.

The first of the two tours, sponsored by the college for its students, was held on July 5 and was pronounced as one of the most successful ever held. The attendance of the trip today will be small, according to Gus L. Ford, director of the tour, for the reason that practically all of the students went the first time.

To Meet Motorcade. The party plans to join up with the all-Texas Tour to the Carlsbad caverns, possibly at Seminole. Should they fail to make connections here they will meet the motorcade at Carlsbad and go through the caves on Sunday, returning to this city Monday.

Route of the trip is by way of Brownfield, Seagraves and Lovington, but the return journey will be made by way of Roswell, Tatum and Plains.

U. S. Revolution Cost $160,074

Expenses of George Washington as Commander in Chief Revealed In Ancient Dust Covered Volumes

BY ROLAND C. DAVIES Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—George Washington's revolutionary ledger, showing that as commander-in-chief of the new republic's forces in its long war of independence he spent only $160,074 of public funds, has been removed from the government's files for the use of American historians.

The ledger covered the eight year period from Washington's assumption of the revolutionary army's command in June, 1775, to the signing of the peace treaty at Paris and for nearly 150 years has lain thick with dust in the records of the government's general accounting office.

Expenses Recorded. In it Washington daily recorded with quill and ink his expenses and with careful and explicit notations accounted every expenditure, noting whether it was for household expenses, "the commissaries of the enemy's forces" or for purchase of equipment and filling about 100 pages which now form a priceless manuscript.

The ledger shows that between 1775 to 1781, he spent $17,517 on his spy system, including various payments to unnamed persons.

Summary Presented. The book presents a chronological summary of Washington's movements in the revolution and each of his battles. For the first two years he itemized his expenses in terms of pound sterling, but after 1777 his accounts were in terms of both dollars and the English currency, the latter column being headed "lawful money."

Washington evidently did not attempt to conceal from the new American government his reverses on the battlefield. In his 1777 accounts he recorded expenditures "during the retreat through the Jerseys to Pennsylvania" and later in the same year a $1,037 item for expenses on the march from Germantown, Pa., "until we returned at Valley Forge for the winter."

Frequently entries were made for reconnaissances of the commander-in-chief's "sometimes with and sometimes without the army but generally with only a party of horse." The expedition, these records show, were to scout the British forces or to lay out the American army's battle plan or defense positions by personal observation. They constituted a major item of his accounts—a total of $42,753.

Russian-English Meet Deadlocked

MOSCOW, Aug. 2.—Russia and Great Britain have reached a deadlock in their London conference for the resumption of trade and commercial relations and diplomatic services. Great Britain refused to accede to the Russian desire for immediate appointment of ambassadors before controverted questions were taken up.

Russian Ambassador Valerian Dolgalevsky of Paris, who has conducted the negotiations for Russia with British Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson, today returned to his post in France. The negotiations began shortly after the Russian ambassador arrived in London at the end of last week.

TOKYO, Aug. 2.—Rengo news agency dispatches from Harbin, Manchuria, say the incident between Chinese police and an American which brought protests from George C. Hanson, American consul, involved an employee of the national city bank of New York instead of an American consular official as first reported.

American, Charged With Taking Old Plaque, Held In Jail By Spaniards

MADRID, Aug. 2.—Spanish police held in custody today an American giving the name Backey J. Dee, described as a Chicago banker and tourist.

The American had protested to the Escorial palace near Madrid a valuable ancient porcelain plaque. Dee emphatically denied the charge. There were about 25 persons, mostly Americans, in the tourist party visiting the Escorial when the incident is alleged to have occurred.

Tourist Party Detained

As the party left the palace guards detained it, declaring somebody had taken a rare porcelain plaque and a piece of old Candelabra. The tourist guide declared this was impossible. The guards insisted and police were summoned. The police declare they followed Dee and found the plaque.
