Food Stamps Now Effective In County

Wreck Here Saturday Claims One Life

New Program Benefits Local Needy Citizens

Mrs. Lois Moore, 54, of Muleshoe was dead on arrival at West Plains Memorial Hospital Saturday afternoon, October 27, about 4:45 p.m. following a two-car collision four miles north of Muleshoe on Highway 214.

A Department of Public Safety patrolman reported that Mrs. Moore was eastbound on a dirt road when she pulled out onto Highway 214 and was in collision with a southbound car driven by Bill Moore of Roswell, N.M.

Mrs. Moore's car was knocked across the highway. The left side of the car was caved in. She was freed from the car by a DPS crew but died in route to the hospital.

Moore was seriously injured in the accident and was admitted to West Plains Hospital as was his wife, Verdis.

Mrs. Moore was born October 31, 1918 in Chillicothe, Texas and had been a resident of the Muleshoe area since 1920, moving from Chillicothe.

She had worked in the Richland Hills School lunchroom for the past 13 years. She was a member of the Trinity Baptist Church.

Mrs. Moore married Alva Moore December 29, 1935 in Amherst.

Funeral services were held at 4 p.m. Monday in the Trinity Baptist Church. Rev. Oscar Newell, minister of the First Baptist Church, officiated.

Burial was in Bailey County Memorial Park under the direction of Singleton-Ellis Funeral Home.

Survivors include her husband; one son, Dewey of Muleshoe; three daughters, Mrs. Raymond Hill of Muleshoe, Mrs. Richard Hayes of Phoenix, Arizona, and Mrs. Bill Myers of Springtown, Texas; her father, Vess Garner of Denton; two brothers, Carlos of Saratoga, California, and Joe of Denton; and 14 grandchildren.

Palbearers were Raymond Gage, Van Rogers, Clarence Damron, J.L. Calvert, Bill Bell and Cleo Ward.

DEATH VEHICLE . . . Pictured is the remains of a car driven by Mrs. Lois Moore of Muleshoe who was killed in the collision Saturday afternoon. The accident happened about 4:30 p.m. four miles north of Muleshoe on Highway 214. Two other persons, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Moore of Roswell, N.M. were also injured. They were reported to be in satisfactory condition at West Plains Memorial Hospital at presstime.

The Commodity Distribution Program was recently phased out in Bailey County, and a Food Stamp Program installed November 1. It will be 100 percent funded by the State of Texas, and administered from Dimmitt, in Castro County.

Bailey County Judge Glen Williams stated that the Food Stamp programs are being installed in every County in Texas, with Bailey County being one of the last. This is because of the three ways that the Commodity Programs have been funded: some were financed totally by the counties; some financed jointly by the county and state; and some totally by the state. Food stamps were installed first in those counties that had borne all the expense of the Commodity Programs, secondly in those counties that had shared the expense with the state, and finally the ones that had not borne any expense. Bailey County fits in the latter group.

Income is calculated by taking one's gross income (salary for example), then deducting the withholding tax, social security, rent, (or house payments), real estate taxes, monthly drug and doctor bills if any, and hospitalization insurance. When these deductions will receive in return.

Services Held Monday For B.H. Wagnon

Buel H. (Toad) Wagnon, 69, died around 1:45 a.m. Sunday morning, October 28, in West Plains Memorial Hospital after a lengthy illness.

Wagnon was born April 19, 1904 in Sipe Springs, Texas. He was a resident of Muleshoe since 1926, moving from Lorenzo.

He was a retired farmer, a member of the Muleshoe Church of Christ and a member of the Muleshoe Masonic Lodge.

He married Oneita Ivy on February 12, 1929 in Muleshoe.

Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. Monday, October 29, at the Muleshoe Church of Christ. Ebb Randol, Church of Christ minister from Farwell, and Royce Clay, pastor, officiated.

Burial was in the Bailey County Memorial Park under the direction of Singleton-Ellis Funeral Home.

Survivors include his wife; three sons, Joe Pat and B.H., both of Muleshoe, and Billy Wayne of Ft. Scott, Kansas; two daughters, Mrs. Rhonda Pummill of Muleshoe and Mrs. Tommy Gunstream of Beaumont; one brother, Vance Wagnon of Muleshoe; and nine grandchildren.

Palbearers were Joe Mack Wagnon, June Wagnon, Charles Mayhugh, Ronnie Ivy, Robert Ivy and Junior Matthews.

First Freeze Recorded Here

Bailey County recorded its first killing freeze Wednesday morning, October 31, 1973.

The temperature plummeted to 29 degrees early Saturday morning and Muleshoe residents found ice on their car windshields.

Muleshoe has recorded its first hard freeze on October 31, three previous years, 1956, 1960 and 1971.

ASC Offices Has New Office Manager

The following is a newsletter from the Bailey County ASC Committee:

"A few days ago, a form to nominate someone for 1974 Community Committeeman was mailed to each person. Petitions were to be returned by October 29 and ballots will be mailed to all known eligible voters on November 19. Ballots are to be returned by no later than December 3 and ballots will be counted on Dec. 5. The County Convention will be held on December 12.

Form ASCS-503 cards which will be mailed to each farm operator will be used to report 1973 cotton production. Please be sure to give the ginner the farm numbers or description of each farm you operate and then be sure to designate the farm each load of cotton is from each time you go to the gin. Request the gin representative to double check the information on the card before returning it to this office. The penalty for reporting incorrect production ranges from five cents per pound on the difference between incorrect and correct production, to being ineligible for program benefits.

Your 1973 actual or adjusted yield will be averaged with your 1971 and 1972 actual or adjusted yield to determine your 1974 program yield.

All active cotton gins located in Bailey County have certified that the bagging and bale ties used on cotton which may be pledged to Commodity Credit Corporation for loan will meet specification.

The 1973 marketing year for wool and unshorn lamb sales ends on December 31, 1973 and applications should be filed by January 31, 1974.

It is now permissible to graze set-aside acreage. No haying of crops on set-aside acreage will be permitted without prior approval from the County Committee and the required fee paid.

If you cannot secure fuel or fertilizer you may report it to this office. However, all we will be able to do will be to pass your complaint to our State Office, as we have no fuel or any authority to secure any fuel or fertilizer. Please keep us informed of Spencer Beavers has returned from Norman, Okla. where he studied the Development of Inter-Personal Skills at Oklahoma University on Wednesday and Thursday.

Beavers left last Saturday and stopped in Snyder to hear his son Glenn Border preach and then went on to Dallas where he heard his other son, Chester Clay Beavers preach.

Delma McCarty attended a Food Stamp school in Lubbock on Thursday, October 25.

Rotary met at noon Tuesday with guest Sam Brooks, Don Williams and Richard Meyers present.

Kerry Moore had the program and showed slides on what is Rotary, what is a Rotarian and how can Rotarians help the community.

Sixteen campus beauties have been nominated to compete for the coveted title of Homecoming Queen at South Plains College. The coed elected by the students will be crowned during halftime ceremonies of the homecoming basketball game on Saturday, November 10.

Sophomore Vanda Spurgeon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Spurgeon of Muleshoe, is one of the candidates.

Lilano Estacada has begun to plan for the annual Christmas Parade. The Parade will be televised by area newspapers and television stations.

Mrs. Irs Martin has returned from Denton, Texas where she spent ten days visiting her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Linck Gant III and their new son George Linck Gant the IV.

Mrs. Gant is the former Jeanie Martin.

Cotton Market News

Spot cotton prices in Western cotton markets were lower than a week ago, according to the Agricultural Marketing Service, USDA. Demand for available supplies of current ginnings weakened.

Foreign mills appeared content to await delivery of previously contracted cotton and showed little interest in making purchases for prompt or nearby delivery. Domestic mills, with nearby needs apparently filled, did little to stimulate active trading. Some buyers continued to actively seek cotton but offered prices below last week's levels. Supplies of "free" cotton increased although the bulk of current ginnings was being delivered against previous commitments.

Growers with available supplies of cotton offered freely early in the week but began to resist lower offering prices later in the week. Excellent harvesting weather prevailed throughout most of the West during the week. Rains delayed harvesting for a short time, early in the week, in the Upper San Joaquin Valley of California. Most gins, however, had sufficient backlogs of seed cotton on hand and ginning was not slowed. Harvesting was nearing peak proportions in California. Harvesting in Arizona was active. Central and South Texas growers were able to resume harvesting at most locations following rains of last week. Growers were increasing picking and

Cotton Harvest Off To Fast Start

Cotton harvest activities are increasing daily and quality of the early harvested cotton has been excellent, according to Paul R. Dickson, in charge of the U.S.D.A. Cotton Classing Office in Lubbock.

Due to the great increase in harvest activities, the seasonal classing office at Lamesa opened for business on Thursday and the Brownfield and Levelland offices will begin operations on Monday.

The U.S.D.A. offices at Lubbock and Lamesa classified samples from 16,500 bales during the week ending Friday. This brought the total for the season to 21,900. At this date last year, samples from only 1,000 bales of the 1972 crop had been classed.

Grades of this early harvested cotton were excellent. Middlings made up one-third of all cotton classed during the week at Lubbock and Strict Low Middlings made up 44 percent.

Staple varied widely according to the variety of cotton harvested. Staple lengths varied from 13/16" (25) up to 1-5/32" (37). Average staple length during the week was approximately one inch (32).

Micronaire readings were excellent. These readings indicate that most of the early harvested bales were fully mature.

Eightyseven percent of all cotton tested at Lubbock had micronaire readings in the premium range of 3.5 to 4.9, 8 percent was in the high micronaire range of 5.0 to 5.2 and 4 percent was in the very high range of 5.3 and above.

The Agricultural Marketing Service of the U.S.D.A. reported active trading on the Lubbock market. Prices were $40 to $50 per bale lower than the previous week. Prices averaged 3400 to 3800 points over the loan at the end of the week.

Average prices paid for the most predominant qualities in the 3.5 to 4.9 premium micronaire range were: Middling (31) staple 30 - 56.65 cents per pound, Middling (31) staple 31-57.40, Middling (31) staple 32 - 58.40, Strict Low Middling (41) staple 30 - 55.70, Strict Low Middling (41) staple 31 - 56.25 and Strict Low Middling (41) staple 32 - 56.95.

The person will receive an identification card at the time he is certified and will receive an Authorization to Purchase (ATP) card in the mail each month. Both cards must be presented at the time of food stamp purchase.

"A major problem exists for Amendment Nine in the State's urban areas," Elder commented. He pointed out that Houston alone is expected to have a quarter of a million voters go to the polls November 6 and "giving those individuals ample information on Amendment Nine is a great hill to climb."

Winning second place this week was Sanford Gilbreath who missed two games, Arizona-Utah and Cincinnati-Louisville. He was off 20 points on the tiebreakers this week. For his efforts he will win $3 and 16 points in the contest.

Third place went to Sam Gonzales this week who also missed two games, Houston-Auburn and Arizona-Utah. He was off 21 points on the tiebreakers. He will win $2 and four points in the contest.

Nona Blake Douglass also just missed two games, but was off 31 points on the tiebreakers.

Other missing just three games were Doug Cowan, W.E. English, Mary Frances Perez, Hattie Ray Jones, Millie Mae, Andres Gonzales, Marilyn Engelking, Diane Lloyd, Debbie Engelking, Jana Grimsley, Dr. J.R. Putman, Mary Watkins and Lamar Polard.

W.E. English is still leading the contest with 20 points. Those trailing close behind with 10 points are Jacky Bruton, Terry Mick, Andres Gonzales, Sam Ellis, Amelia Gonzales and Buck Wood.

Kenneth R. Henry and Duane Lloyd have eight points in the contest.

The winner at the end of the contest will win $53 cash and two tickets to the Cotton Bowl Game in Dallas on New Year's Day.

Food Stamps Available At Post Office

Muleshoe Postmaster Spencer Beavers announces that beginning November 1, food stamps will be available for purchase at the post office in Muleshoe on Monday through Friday, except on Federal holidays.

Food stamps may be purchased between the hours of 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. by persons certified as being eligible by the State Department of Public Welfare.

The person will receive an identification card at the time he is certified and will receive an Authorization to Purchase (ATP) card in the mail each month. Both cards must be presented at the time of food stamp purchase.

Nixon, Cox & Tapes

Despite the obvious personal prejudice and bias of television network reporters, who strove to work up an impeachment mood and crisis after President Nixon's firing of Archibald Cox, that in itself was not a constitutional crisis; the President had that authority.

A constitutional crisis could occur if the Supreme Court ordered the President to do something he refused to do. The President has moved to avoid that possible crisis by surrendering the controversial tapes of his private conversations. There is no doubt, of course, that those who seek to make the most of Watergate, and who have convicted the President in their minds, see Cox's firing as a terrible travesty. (Lending weight, however, to charges that Cox was a political figure was his behavior in going immediately to the office of Senator Ted Kennedy upon learning of Nixon's decision to surrender the tapes.)

It should also be remembered that the President offered to turn over the controversial presidential private conversation tapes to a Democrat, in a compromise patterned on the Appeals Courts' suggestion of a compromise. Cox, going it alone after the Senate Watergate Committee accepted that compromise, talked of citing the President for contempt. The Massachusetts Democrat gave some the impression he was hell-bent on avoiding a quieting compromise leaving him out of the picture.

This from someone in the Justice Department, even though a special prosecutor, would be hard for any President to tolerate. Cox was, in effect, refusing a type of compromise suggested by the court, and after all the Watergate suffering, abuse, national upheaval and damage to America in so many ways, his star-rod press conference rejection was more than President Nixon could stomach.

There is little chance the President will be removed from office as a result, despite impeachment resolutions amid the howls and yapping of a number of Senators and Congressmen, much of it politically motivated, much inspired by the news media hounds seeking the President's scalp and some more solidly based. That President Nixon ever agreed to allow an independent investigator as powerful as the President himself inside the executive department was a surprise to many; that the situation could not work out is not as much of a surprise.

The President had a case in his fight to maintain the separateness and integrity of his office and personal files. In offering to turn his conversational tapes over to a member of the opposite party on Capitol Hill, respected for his integrity by all, to allow him to decide what is pertinent, that should have been enough to end the legal dilemma over Watergate. He has now agreed to turn over the tapes to the court and certainly this should enable the Watergate investigation to be pursued normally through the courts, and the nation to get on with other pressing business.

WASHINGTON REPORT BY

Lloyd Bentsen,

United States Senator

CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET REFORM

The Senate is proceeding on legislation that will permit Congress to examine Federal spending from an overall point of view, something we haven't been able to do since the days of the Civil War.

During the first 75 years of our government, one Committee in each House of Congress controlled both spending and taxing activities. But the great amount of financial activity during the Civil War placed extraordinary burdens on these two Committees, and in the mid-1860's their work was spread among several Committees.

In 1921, the Budget and Accounting Act provided for an annual Federal budget to be prepared by the Executive branch of government, through what is now known as the Office of Management and Budget.

The Congress, though, has developed no similar mechanism for determining overall expenditures and relating them to revenues.

Our Constitution assigns to Congress the power to raise taxes and make expenditures. But we are in danger of losing that power because we have failed to provide the mechanics for controlling the budget.

Only because we have been an incredibly rich nation have we been able to survive a situation in which our income legislation had little correlation to our expenditure legislation, must allocate resources carefully.

But, I think that day has passed. We have reached the limits of our resources. Our allocation of resources must now zero in on only those programs that show a high return in the development of our human and natural resources.

In the 54 years since 1920 there have been 37 Federal budget deficits and the failure to arrive at congressional budget decisions on an overall basis has contributed to the size of these deficits.

It would be an error to place the responsibility for all of these deficits on the shoulders of Congress, since deficit budgets were submitted to Congress during 32 of the years in question.

In addition, despite its institutional weaknesses, Congress has shown in recent years that it can make reductions in spending authority requested by national Administrations. In each of the past 20 years, for example, Congressional appropriation bills have provided less money than requested by the Executive branch.

But this does not give a complete picture, since only 44 percent of the spending in the current Federal budget involves items considered in the appropriation bills.

And piecemeal reductions in Federal programs, such as Congress presently makes, provide no permanent solution to the problem of regaining and retaining Congressional control over Federal spending.

We must provide Congress with the means of making an independent judgment concerning the amount of government money to be spent each year. We need the machinery to insure coordination among the various Committees which insure obligations and make outlays.

The Senate Committee on Government Operations is currently studying legislation which would give Congress that capability. It is expected that this measure will come before the full Senate either later this year or early next year.

The bill would establish a firm ceiling for all spending by the Federal government. The ceiling would be set following a careful review of expected income and of economic conditions.

It would create a new Budget Committee in each House of Congress, as well as a Congressional Office of the Budget, to serve as a counterpart to the Office of Management and Budget in the Executive branch.

The proposed budget reform measure would require the President to submit his proposed budget by November instead of January in order to provide more time for Congressional review.

And it would establish a general reserve fund to cover any unforeseen increases in expenditures. Congress must have a system to insure that when we vote additional funds for any one program we are getting those funds and what this increase will do to the rest of the Federal Budget.

This is not liberal or conservative issue. Nor is it a partisan issue. It is an issue which must be faced, not by Republican and Democratic Senators and Representatives, but by United States Senators and Representatives.

This budget reform bill, which I am co-sponsoring, will give Congress an overall perspective of Federal spending. And it is important that it be approved quickly, if we expect to maintain Congressional control of our Federal purse-strings.

Stamps...

are made the net is the charge all income. According to the chart, which may not be quite up to date, a family of four with a net income as described above of $375.00 per month can spend $88.00 per month, and receive $114.00 worth of food stamps. A family of two with an income of $240.00 per month can spend $44.00 and receive $66.00 of stamps, thus it is on a graduated scale, dependent on the number in the family and their income.

Mary Robbins of Dimmitt meets in the Commissioners Court room each Monday to interview prospective recipients, take applications, and render whatever service she can. She makes the determination of eligibility immediately, and that determination is wired to Austin, and an ATP card with other necessary papers is returned within a matter of two or three days. "ATP" means authority to purchase. Then the recipient can take his ATP card with other papers to the Post Office and prove that he is certified as being eligible to spend "X" number of dollars and receive "X" number of food stamps in return.

Food stamps come in $5.00, $2.00 and $1.00 denominations, and a person may take them to any participating grocery store and buy any item of food that is for human consumption. He cannot buy anything except food for human consumption. And the groceryman cannot give him cash in change. He can give food stamps in change, or give credit on the next purchase. The person making the purchase must not only have the food stamps, but must have the other papers certifying that he is eligible for them. This is to prohibit trading or selling them.

A person can buy 1/2 of his months allowance at one time, and the other half later that month. He must make his purchase in the month for which the allowance was intended, but he does not have to use the stamps that month. The stamps can carry over, but the right to purchase can not.

Experience has shown that a Food Stamp Program will add five to ten percent to the volume of business being done by local grocery stores. This is new money that will turn over from seven to ten times locally, and will thereby benefit the entire community. The principle advantage of the Food Stamp Program, over commodities, is that elderly people, sick people, and parents with babies and small children, can buy more tasty and healthful foods, thereby contributing to more healthy families.

Like other programs, food stamps will be subject to some abuse, but we hope over all that it will serve the county well. The Commodity Distribution Program, during its time, filled a real need in Bailey County. Food Stamps can do better.

Progress 4-H Club Carnival

The Progress 4-H club had a Halloween Carnival Thursday night, October 29th at the Mary De Shazo gym. The members and their parents dressed up in costumes. The boys and girls went to the several booth set up by each project. The members would sign up at the project if they thought they would like to be in the project. After the members went to all of the booths and they had five of these booths checked off they were served refreshments. After the refreshments the awards were given for the scariest, most original, and funniest costume. Winners were funniest adult, Eugene Shaw, member, Dusty Puckett; most original dressed adult, Joe Rhodes, members Trey Stoneham and Curtis Carpenter and scariest dressed adults Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Carpenter, member, Tommy Stoneham.

The following projects set up the various booths for the members to visit: horse club had rifle safety; rabbit club has home improvement; clothing had leathercraft; and electricity club had crafts and hobbies.

A spook house was set up to provide fun and entertainment for everyone.

Girl Scout's Halloween Party

On Friday night the fourth and fifth grade junior Girl Scouts had a Halloween party at the Girl Scout Hut.

After the girls arrived they followed a rope to the entrance of the surprise "Witch's Den." Each one was let through the den. After a "scary trip," games were played and spook stories were told while listening to Halloween music.

Refreshments of punch, popcorn balls and chocolate fudge were served.

Those attending the party were the leaders, Mrs. J.O. Parker, Mrs. Otton Parker, Mrs. Don Martin and a welcome visitor, Mrs. Ronnie Garner; two older cadet girl scouts, Miss Danna Holmes, Miss Brenda Parker, who helped with games; and Marilyn Harris, Marlana Phipps, Mary Alice Orozco, Donna Harris, Kristi Henry, Susie Pierce, Tami Bratcher, Shelley Davis, Regina Bevers, Staci Vandiver, Caice Hendrix, Sandra Parker and Terrie Martin.

It was reported that everyone had a good time.

Uniform Identity Meat Standards

The new Uniform Retail Meat Identity Standards have been released by the National Livestock and Meat Board. This new standard of identity for the retail cuts of meat was prepared by the National Livestock and Meat Board in cooperation with numerous retail meat industry representatives, as well as representatives from several government agencies.

The result of this system was narrowing the names given various retail cuts of meat from approximately 1000 to 325. This basically was done by eliminating some of the fanciful names which have been attached to some retail cuts of meat; for example, the ribeye steak which has been merchandized under all of the following names.

1. Delmonico Steak
2. Boneless Ribeye Steak
3. Fillet Steak
4. Beauty Steak

This only names a few, but there are many other.

In essence, the new identity standards recommends that retail markets adopt the standards so that a homemaker shopping for meat in one section of the country will encounter the same names for the same retail cuts in another section of the country.

Not only did wide name differences occur from one part of the country to another, but even within the same city.

The new labels, under the Uniform Retail Meat Identity Standards will contain much more information than in the past. The new label will contain the name of the specie from which the meat was derived, such as beef, pork, or lamb, the primal or sub-primal cut from which the individual cut was derived, the recommended name of the cut and whether it is a steak, roast, or whatever type cut it might be.

For example, a Porterhouse steak label would include the following. First, would be the specie and in this case "Beef". Second, would be the primal cut from which the cut was derived and in this case "Loin". Third, would be the recommended name, "Porterhouse Steak".

Perhaps some homemakers have become accustomed to the more "fanciful" names and there is a provision that this name can still be added to the bottom of the label or it can appear on a separate label. However, the basic recommended identification must appear on the price-weight label.

These new Uniform Standards are now in use in some markets and will be appearing more and more all the time.

Knits - Mixed Blessings

COLLEGE STATION --- The knit explosion brings many new and varied fabric constructions for use in wearing apparel.

"However, new problems confront consumers concerning knits," Mrs. Becky Culp, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A & M University System, said.

snagging is one of the biggest problems. "Usually, it's due to fabric construction or looseness of the loops. Re weavers -- who readily repair damaged woven fabrics -- hesitate accepting snagged knits.

"About the only thing a homemaker can do to mend a snag is take a needle--or needle threader with a fine wire loop-- and pull the loop to the underside of the fabric.

"Don't cut the snag off from the outside surface. If a hole develops in a knit, it's nearly impossible to mend without showing."

Pilling ranks next to snagging as a major problem, the specialist continued.

"Pills usually occur in areas abraded or rubbed during wear. They result when fibers work to the surface in small balls and don't break away due to the strength of synthetic fibers.

"Adding to the problem, dry-cleaning and washing can accentuate this condition."

To remove pills or pills, Mrs. Culp suggested carefully shaving the fabric surface. However, she pointed out that this is just a temporary solution.

Shrinking complaints--particularly concerning men's polyester doubleknit suit and garments--are increasing.

"In men's suits, a wavy zipper or fullness of the lining denotes shrinkage.

"In some cases, the garment can be steamed and stretched back into shape--but usually it reverts to its shrunken dimensions upon hanging for several hours.

"To avoid this preshrink all fabric and notions before sewing them -- using the same procedure the garment will receive in actual use.

"Most shrinkage and relaxations occur during the first laundering," the specialist explained.

"When purchasing fabric, buy a few extra inches to absorb lengthwise loss from shrinkage. "If a fabric shrinks more than five per cent, return it to the retailer."

Despite the snagging, pilling and shrinkage characteristics, knits offer several "plus features," Mrs. Culp noted.

"Comfort from stretch, ability to shed wrinkles and almost limitless design possibilities enforce their popularity."

A History of Bailey County Pioneer Families

Bill Hamblin

Bill Hamblin who was born March 12, 1905 in Zaphard, Texas came here from Black Fort Colorado in 1913. He came by way of train as far as Farwell then on to Muleshoe by car. Hamblin was employed by Colden Land Company.

He remained here for seven years then moved to Colorado, California and Oklahoma. In the late 20's there were frame houses and windmills. When he returned to the Muleshoe area, Hamblin rode in a wagon to school. There were times when cows chased them on the way to school. They used oil lamps and coal stoves.

All that was here was the DePo, Post Office and a grocery store. Once a week he made a trip to the storage tank for diesel.

Sand storms were so bad they wet sheets to hang over doors and windows.

Hamblin said "Everyone visited their neighbors more and shared planting and harvesting. Crops were mostly corn maze, alfalfa and wheat."

HARVEY BASS

Fall '73 Wools

COLLEGE STATION -- For fall '73, the wool look is classic-Plus.

"The 'plus' sets a fabric off from the traditional realm and gives it newness," Marilyn Brown, consumer education-clothing and textiles specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, explained.

"The softness of heather, a twist of tweed, and new colorings for old patterns provide this season's pluses.

"Tweeds and tweed effects show up in many wool and wool-blend fabrics. They continue surface interest--with multi-colored nubs and slubs popping up in the most surprising places.

"Unlike tweeds of years past, this season's fabrics make no pretense of being traditional. They're bright, lively and unexpected within the confines of classic patterns.

"Nubs appear in coating, sportswear and dress-weight fabrics. When slubs aren't woven in the fabric, they're often printed on."

Plaids also remain important--offering a greater variety than the bright checkerboards of '71 and '72, the specialist continued.

"One difference involves size. Slightly scaled down patterns combine with striped glen and checked coordinates.

"Novelty weaves and novelty fibers woven in with wool appear less often this season."

Heather effects provide "that something extra" for many plaids and solids, Miss Brown added.

"Gray and camel soften grounds while adding traditional coloring to new-looking patterns. Worsteds, flannels, whipcords and gabardines appear most often in these two colors--although some are treated to rust, bottle green and other dark, rich colors.

"Color usage provides one of fall's biggest pluses," she emphasized.

With gray and camel keeping classics steady, maroon, red, green, orange, blue and white "rock the boat."

"These color combinations take many traditional men's wear fabrics and turn them into women's apparel. Powdery pastels have faded into the background.

"Today's color statement is bold without being abrasive--with coloring bittersweet and classic," Miss Brown contended.

Due to soaring wool prices and more temperature control, she predicted that lighter wools--11 ounces and under--will predominate.

"Nun's veiling, one of the thinnest wools, answers the naturalist's need for winter dress, blouses and flowing at-home wear."

To control expenses, manufacturers blend in nylon and acrylic--which also create fabric lightness, the specialist said.

"Close-cropped, tamed-down mohair makes a fall showing in printed fabrics and in combinations with wool--with hair fibers woven into some fabrics.

"Camel hair, a true classic, prevails in natural colors with some brights--for everything from the heaviest coating to light-weight fabrics.

"In addition, thick, luxurious cashmeres reappear in the classic vein," she added.

Market Report

COLLEGE STATION -- With meat prices about in line with other commodities, expect them to remain around current levels, one authority said this week.

Mrs. Gwendolyn Clatt, consumer marketing information specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, cited consumer resistance to high prices as one factor causing the current lower prices.

"Watch for more beef features this week at markets," she advised. "Consider chuck roasts and steaks, round steak, ground beef and beef liver."

"Pork supplies have increased with attractive prices usually found on Boston butt roasts, shoulder steaks, quarter-loins sliced into chops, ham portions, smoked picnics, canned hams and sausage."

"However, keep in mind that cuts in most demand will cost more. For example, a center-cut loin roast is more expensive than rib or loin-end roasts although both have the same inviting flavor and preparation simplicity."

Fryer chicken prices are near "pre-freeze" levels, the specialist continued. For real economy, she advised buying whole birds and cutting them up at home.

Also look for eggs in an attractive price bracket--with large size usually the best value.

"For an instant, natural food, turn to milk. Just pour it in a glass and drink up. There's no peeling, no rind and no seeds," she pointed out.

Turning to fruits and vegetables, Mrs. Clatt noted that seedless grapes have about disappeared from markets. "How-main in good supply with low prices."

"New crop cranberries are available at first-of-the-season prices, while bananas, pears, oranges, pineapples and cantaloupes offer the best fruit buys "Carrots, head lettuce, cabbage, celery, dry yellow onions, hard shell squash, pumpkin, potatoes, rutabagas and cooking greens comprise the most economical vegetable choices."

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights by Bill Boykin

AUSTIN, Tex.--Future development of major Texas water projects will come to a halt unless new standards laid down by the National Water Resources Council are reversed, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby says.

Hobby, joined by State Sen. Max Sherman of Amarillo, and serving as spokesman for four Texas water advisory councils, urged President Nixon and Texas congressmen to alter the regulations.

"Unless this policy is reversed," said Hobby, "Texas stands to be harmed very substantially."

The new principles and standards for planning water and related land resources are effective October 25.

While acknowledging that they have merit, Hobby said, they would destroy "the long-established partnership between federal and state governments for development of water resources... For all practical purposes, the thrust of 'principles and standards' wipes out the present-day mechanics for use and control of water, and falls short of practical substitutes."

A proposed "discount rate" feature, claimed Hobby, precludes federal participation in traditional development of water projects. The standards, he maintained, would further force impractical planning for projects on an instate basis.

In the last five years, more than $850 million have been invested by the local, state and federal governments in Texas water projects. About a fourth of that was federal money.

Refusal by the federal government to finance in the future "non-reimbursable features" such as fish and wildlife, recreational benefits and flood control provisions would ban parts of water projects that "tend to enhance the environment," said Hobby.

DOUBLE -- HEADER CONVENTION PLANNED--Legislators are being polled on a proposal to split next year's constitutional convention into two sessions -- one from January 8 to April 6 and the second after mid-June.

Sen. Bill Meier of Ennis offered the suggestion, contending that the convention may be poorly attended just before May and June primary elections. Many legislators, who are delegates to the convention, will face opponents for re-election.

The recess, as proposed by Meier, would give legislators nearly a month to campaign before the May primary and another month before the June runoff.

Meanwhile, House Speaker Price Daniel Jr. urged lawmakers to set a 90-day flexible and extendable timetable for the convention and try to finish the job of rewriting the constitution by early April. He said legislators can do it by making use of the research of the Constitutional Revision Commission as a beginning point. Daniel said taxpayers will be saved nearly $2 million if the convention winds up in 90 days rather than extending over the full 170 days allowed.

ALLOWABLE STILL AT 100 PER CENT -- For the 20th straight month, the Texas Railroad Commission set the November statewide oil allowable at 100 per cent.

Uncertainty of supplies for winter months and possible cuts in imports from the Middle East were cited by Chairman Jim Langdon.

Exceptions again were made for the East Texas Field, Kelly-Snyder, Tom O'Connor and several others, where the allowable was retained at less than 90 per cent of potential.

APPOINTMENTS -- Netum Steed and G.L. Vinson of Wichita Falls and Jack Warren of Tyler were named to the National Petroleum Council.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe appointed Hugh Hall Jr. of San Antonio to San Antonio River Authority board of directors; John A. Mehos of Galveston to the Gulf State Marine Fisheries Commission; and Alcus Greer of Houston and William H. Sharp of Lubbock (reappointments) to the Commission on Fire Protection Personnel Standards and Education.

State Insurance Board has extended the appointment of Clay Cotten of Austin as state insurance commissioner for two years.

AG OPINIONS--Counties may use federal revenue sharing funds to contract with private non-profit corporations to construct recreational facilities for the aged, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

*There is no authority and no appropriation for paying state employees who resign or are dismissed (except in case of death) in lieu of accrued, unused vacation time.

A California non-profit dental service corporation is not providing dental service in Texas by entering a contract to pay for dental services of a Delaware corporation, including its Texas facility employees, where dentists are not chosen by employees.

*The state comptroller must pay statutory witness fees for out-of-state witnesses into the court registry on certification by the judge that fees are necessary to compel attendance. A county can advance funds and be reimbursed by the state.

*A State Insurance Board order authorizing companies to set unusual risk rates subject to later board approval is not authorized.

*Status of an area from dry to wet can only be accomplished by a "for" vote on a legalizing proposition, and transformation of a wet area to a dry area can only be accomplished by an "against" vote on a prohibitory proposition. A city prohibitory election which does not result in a vote unfavorable to the sale of alcoholic beverages has no effect at all upon the status of the city or any part.

*The owner of a title to a fractional interest in a patented survey less than total is not entitled to purchase only his proportionate share of the excess acreage in the survey.

COURT SPEAK--A three-judge federal court in Dallas adopted the so-called "Plan B" for Texas congressional reapportionment, which will require some readjustment of existing boundaries. Attorney General Hill said he has no plans for further appeals. Motions to intervene in the case were rejected as not "timely."

A Corpus Christi district judge set an October 26 hearing on a state motion to cite Roloff Evangelistic Enterprises for contempt in operating two youth care facilities without state licenses.

The Court of Criminal Appeals upheld four convictions, including two life sentences, of a Dallas man in the shooting of three.

BOLLWORM PLOWUP EXTENDED -- Agriculture Commissioner John White extended the cotton stalk destruction deadline "according to individual needs" in 14 rain-soaked South Texas counties.

An earlier extension had set the plow-up deadline for October 15 in zones 1 and 2 of the pink bollworm control area.

"Super Gin" Nearing Completion

In March of this year, members of the Crosbyton, Wike and McAdoo Cooperative Ginson on the High Plains of Texas, voted to join forces to create a new cooperative under the banner of American Cotton Growers (ACG).

The members of AC recognized that improvements in the present cotton handling system have been difficult to make. With this in mind ACG members created an organization which will have the responsibility and control of all off-farm operations required to get their products to the consumer.

ACG members pre-committed more than 43,000 acres of cotton to the cooperative before planting season. Cotton will be stored on the turnrow and picked up by the gin's fleet of 150, 47-foot containers. These containers can haul 25,000 pounds or more of seed cotton in a single load.

Once at the gin cotton will be dumped into an elevated hopper (37-foot elevation) and the cotton will be blended. This should solve the problem of lack of uniformity in High Plains cotton and result in a better market price.

The 30-bale-per-hour gin will press each bale to universal density (U-D) and wrap the bales in clear plastic shrink-film. Compress costs will be lowered because no resampling or re-compression will be needed once cotton reaches the compress. ACG will operate a burr pelleting plant as a source of additional income for its members. Burrs will be pelletized and sold as cattle feed.

Seed will be processed by Plains Cooperative Oil Mill while lint will be marketed by Plains Cotton Cooperative Association. ACG members have agreed to market their cotton through a seasonal pool. Every ACG member will receive the seasonal average price for each quality of cotton he delivers. Through the seasonal pool concept, members do not receive the high for the market year, but they are protected from selling on the low.

By marketing better cotton and cotton by-products for more money and by lowering handling costs between the farm and the customer, ACG members will increase the profitability of cotton farming.
