No Injuries Reported...

Bomb Blasts Building Housing Rugby Offices

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) — A bomb exploded early today in a building housing the Eastern Rugby Union's offices, hours before the group was to field a team against the touring South African Springboks, the targets of recent anti-apartheid protests.

There were no reports of injuries.

Meanwhile, in New York City, lawyers for the state asked a three-judge federal appeals court to reverse a district court's decision and block the game, at least temporarily.

While the blast from a "high explosive device" at 1:17 a.m. left only minor damage at the ERU headquarters, damage in the adjoining offices of a dairy products company was estimated at $50,000, said police investigator James McGrath.

Radio station WWWD said a woman telephoned at 1:10 a.m. to say a bomb would go off soon "downtown." Disc jockey Dale Lane said the woman hung up without identifying herself.

Thomas Selfridge, president of the ERU, a co-sponsor of the Springboks' tour, said his offices sustained about $50 worth of damage.

McGrath said the bomb had apparently been placed in a closet 2½ feet from the rugby office in an area accessible to the public during business hours.

Fearful of a riot, New York state officials had tried to stop tonight's scheduled rugby match pitting the Springboks, South Africa's national team, and the ERU squad. Schenectady is 10 miles from Albany.

Selfridge said the game would go on tonight in Albany's Bleecker Stadium despite the bombing. Police said they were protecting the South African players.

U.S. District Judge Howard Munson ruled Monday that Gov. Hugh Carey acted improperly when he told Albany Mayor Erastus Corning last week to stop the game. Carey cited what he said was an "imminent danger of rioting."

Jill Schuker, an aide to Carey, said the governor was aware of the explosion but would have no comment.

Michael Dollard, spokesman for the Capital District Coalition Against Apartheid, said Monday night that busloads of demonstrators his organization had expected from New York City and elsewhere might not be able to attend on short notice. "Enthusiasm tails off very rapidly," he said.

The racially mixed Springboks came to the United States as an attempt at good will on the part of the white-ruled government in the black-majority nation.

A game scheduled for Chicago was moved 75 miles away Saturday to Racine, Wis. Protesters appeared, although sponsors tried to keep the site secret and barred spectators and reporters. There were two arrests at the game and two more at a Chicago airport as the team left for Albany.

A Springboks contest scheduled for New York City was canceled, moved to Rochester, then called off, because officials feared violence.

Tuesday update

Bank Changes Mind

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — After a week of protests from mortgage-holders, the Buffalo Savings Bank has backed off plans to recall 900 home mortgages made at 8½ percent between 1975 and 1976.

"We made a mistake and we fixed a mistake," bank President Ross Kenzie Monday.

Those who held the mortgages said they were stunned by the action, and over the weekend plans were formed for picketing the bank's branches. They also urged customers to withdraw accounts at the bank.

Bank officials said they took the first action "after much soul searching," and Kenzie said threats of reprisals had nothing to do with the recision.

Sniper Kills Two

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — A man who opened fire from his apartment with a high-powered rifle and killed two neighbors and injured a third, said later he was angry because one of his children was injured by playmates at a park, police sad.

"He was just an agitated individual," said Capt. Jack Jones, who talked with the unidentified man for more than an hour by telephone Monday night and got him to surrender three hours into the siege.

Police were unsure of the details of the incident involving the man's child, and Jones said the man did not tell police about specific problems in the neighborhood, saying only that "it was the last straw when one of his children was injured."

Crash Probe Begins

INDIAN SPRINGS AIR FIELD, Nev. (AP) — The military is investigating the crash of an Air Force C-130 transport plane in which seven soldiers perished and 20 others were hospitalized.

The four-engine turbo-prop was carrying 68 troops on night maneuvers when it crashed early Monday and burned for four hours. Most of the injured apparently were hurt from the impact or when they escaped through side exits, said Lt. Col. Mike Wallace, an Air Force spokesman.

Runway lights were off as part of the mission at this base about 45 miles northwest of Las Vegas, according to Air Force sources. Officials refused to confirm or deny the report.

Birds Invade Neighborhood

PLANO, Texas (AP) — Fire officials have been called to a neighborhood that resembles a scene out of an old Alfred Hitchcock movie, as an army of birds settles into trees and disrupts suburban calm.

Hundreds of blackbirds are roosting in the eastern Plano neighborhood, covering their surroundings with feathers and droppings. A few birds had visited the area every year, but they multiplied into an army this year, filling the air with siren-like screams.

Residents have begun shooting at the birds with BB guns, cutting down shrubs and banging pots and pans, but the feathered intruders keep returning.

Jetfighter In Turkey Crashes

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — A Turkish air force F-104 jetfighter crashed today into a bivouac area prepared for an upcoming NATO exercise in western Turkey. First reports from journalists on the scene indicated at least 100 soldiers were killed and another 100 injured.

There were conflicting reports on whether the casualties were the result of the plane having hit an amunition dump or the result of an explosion when the plane crashed.

Military sources said the pilot was practicing a diving run over the bivouac area and was unable to pull the plane out of its descent. It was not known if the pilot had ejected.

Turkey's ruling generals were meeting in Ankara and there was speculation that the exercise in Turkey might be canceled.

Turkish military sources said 65 bodies already had arrived by helicopter at hospitals in Istanbul and that Gen. Haydar Saltik, commander of the 1st Army, had rushed to the site of the crash.

The sources said that so far it appeared all the casualties were Turkish.

The plane hit a bivouac area near the town of Babaeski about 30 miles from the Greek border.

Reporters who had reached the region of the crash said the American-made F-104 crashed into the bivouac area at about noon. Allied troops had not arrived at the scene of the exercise — code-named "Display Determination 81."

O'Connor Swearing In Ceremony Slated Friday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sandra Day O'Connor, confirmed by a unanimous Senate as the first woman justice on the Supreme Court, promises to be "very busy, very fast" after she is sworn in later this week.

There is no clear indication, however, how she will vote on social and constitutional issues that come before the court.

The 51-year-old Arizona appeals judge won a 99-0 endorsement in the Senate on Monday as the 102nd justice in the 191-year history of the nation's highest court. She will be youngest of the nine members.

Mrs. O'Connor will be sworn in for the lifetime appointment in ceremonies Friday in the Supreme Court building, and White House officials said President Reagan may attend.

"My hope is that 10 years from now, after I've been across the street and worked for a while, that they'll all feel glad for the wonderful vote they gave me today," a smiling Mrs. O'Connor said at an appearance on the Capitol steps with Vice President George Bush and Senate leaders.

Once installed on the court, which opens its 1981-82 term Oct. 5, "I'm going to get very busy, very fast," Mrs. O'Connor said.

The vote, following four hours of laudatory speeches by conservatives and liberals alike, was a victory for Reagan as well as Mrs. O'Connor.

Testimony Begins In Murder Trial

Testimony began Monday afternoon in 132nd District Court here in the trial of Don Alton Durst, who is charged with the shotgun slaying of Billy Norris Cobb last Nov. 28.

First witness called by District Attorney Pete Greene was Sam Johnson, who testified that he was present when the shooting occurred in Smith's Cafe.

Johnson told of seeing Cobb shot down as three shotgun blasts were fired. Cobb's death was attributed to one of the blasts, and another wounded Willie Jones.

Johnson said he had taken refuge behind a juke box when he saw the gun.

He returned to the stand this morning, and then Benito Ortegon, also a witness to the shooting, followed Johnson to the stand.

Most of Monday's session was required to seat a jury to hear the case.

Serving on the jury are Billie Bennett, Jay Wolf, N. Y. Benitez, Billy Wilkinson Jr., Timothy Huddleston, Mrs. J. R. Meadows, Paul Johnson, Robert Romero, Alvin Wimmer, Verna Williamson, Larry Huddleston and Mario Herrera.

Judge Wayland G. Holt is presiding and Durst is represented by Lance Hall of Sweetwater and State Sen. Jack Ogg of Houston.

City Tax Rate Cut 9.2 Cents

The Snyder City Council last night dropped the city tax rate to 30.8 cents per $100 valuation.

This is a decrease of 9.2 cents from the 1980 rate.

The city is the second taxing entity to set its new tax rate following the completion of valuations by the Scurry County Appraisal District.

Scurry County set its new rate at 13 cents Monday morning, a decrease from 13.7 cents last year, and the Snyder Independent School District Board of Trustees is scheduled to set the district's new tax rate tonight following a budget hearing.

City valuations increased from $155,919,000 to $207,814,000. However, the decrease in rate kept the estimated yield at $640,069, only $16,310 more than that of last year. This means that the city will not be required to hold a tax increase hearing. State law requires a taxing gency to hold a "truth-in-taxation" hearing if its total tax revenue exceeds that of the previous year by more than three percent. Thus, it is possible for a hearing to be required even if the tax rate is lowered, provided there is enough gain in valuation to hike the yield more than three percent.

In other business at its special session last night, the city council approved a request by the Snyder Chamber of Commerce women's division for a permit to hold a parade at 10 a. m. Oct. 10. The parade is being planned in connection with the White Buffalo Days celebration.

The council voted to continue its health insurance program with Blue Cross-Blue Shield. Bids for the health insurance were presented at the Sept. 8 meeting of the council, but a decision was delayed at that time. The approval of the Blue Cross-Blue Shield program came on a split vote, with Councilmen Rod Waller, Don Gressett and Gale McPherson voting for it and Councilmen John Wilson and David Holt voting for it. Councilman Ed Thrift was absent. Mayor Milton Ham presided.

Hearing Set On School's New Budget

Snyder School Trustees have scheduled a hearing on the 1981-82 district budget for tonight.

The hearing will begin at 7:30 p. m. in the student center at Snyder High School.

The school board gave its approval to an $8.7 million budget at its regular meeting held on Sept. 8.

Immediately following the hearing on the budget, the board plans to hold a specisal session to set the school district's tax rate.

Ask Us

Q.—Will the Snyder High School football stadium and press box be repainted in time for the first home football game this weekend with Sweetwater?

A.—The painting will possibly be done on the press box trim, says Supt. Bill J. Hood. The stadium on the west side was painted by a group of interested parents. The new boards on the east side are now being painted. This project did not have any emergency priority, since it is not essential to the education process, the superintendent said.

SCURRY UNIT HONORED--The Scurry Unit of the American Cancer Society has been awarded the Golden Achievement Award for reaching an all-time high in crusade income ($25,572.69) and for exceeding the 57 cents per capita goal of the Texas Division during the 1981 Crusade. Ada Belle Clark of Sweetwater, district service and rehab chairman for ACS, is shown presenting the award to Wanda Falls, 1981 crusade chairman and Jo Sterling, past president. (SDN Staff Photo)

An argument about the U. S. Constitution was going on. One of the participants said, "Some people act like the Constitution is equal to the Bible."

Well, it is, in some respects. Both documents probably have more "versions" than anything else ever penned. There is a difference, of course, in the cause and effect of interpretations. Everybody may, at least secretly, have his own idea of what the Bible says. The effect is to produce religious bodies and-or denominations and sects.

Interpretation of the Constitution is left to a few, at least officially. They are called federal judges. As a matter of fact, the Constitution does not come right out and "say" but a few of the thousands of rulings that have been handed down from the bench. And the Constitution really has not changed very much since it was written, despite a flock of amendments. So, arguments about it do not concern what the document itself says, but what the judges say it says.

Over Historic Building's Destruction...

Preservationists Rankled

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — City officials and preservationists are angry after a wrecking crew allegedly defied local ordinances and official warnings and knocked down an historic downtown building over the weekend.

"I'm very upset over this. It's a flagrant violation of the law," said Pat Osborne, the city's historic preservation officer. "These people do this kind of thing early on Sunday mornings before we can get a court injunction to stop them."

The Chee Kung Tong Masonic Lodge, also known as the Chinese Free Masons Lodge, was reduced to rubble by bulldozers Sunday. The Gonzales Lumber and Demolition Co. and its representative, Albert Weinsier, were cited by police for illegal demolition.

Preservationists alleged the people responsible for the demolition decided to violate the law because they would only have to pay a $200 fine.

The building, located next to the Bexar County Courthouse, was built about 1918 by Chinese who had accompanied Gen. John J. Pershing during his expedition into Mexico two years before.

The structure was listed in the National Register of Historical Places and was within the boundaries of the Main and Military Plaza historic district, preservationists said.

"It's a great loss. We have these laws and the historic review board is supposed to review these cases," said Peggy Penshorn, president of the San Antonio Conservation Society. "I can promise you that the conservation society will investigate this incident."

The demolition company had been issued citations last week while attempting to do some wrecking work inside the building. City officials told the firm not to proceed with demolition without a permit.

Mrs. Osborne said the city would press charges against those responsible, but that the maximum fine was only $200 per citation.

The Chinese Free Masons Lodge was located in the same historic district as the Rand building, which the conservation society is fighting to save from being destroyed and turned into a parking lot.

"We have a very strong demolition ordinance, especially for historic buildings . . ," Mrs. Osborne said.

"But the ordinance and federal laws were completely ignored," she said.

Besides its architectural significance, the destroyed lodge was the chief symbol of the Chinese community's heritage in San Antonio, Mrs. Osborne said. She said the two-story brick building feature decorative brick arches and brick cornices, combining Spanish and Oriental influences of architecture.

Mark Eyskens Has Resigned

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The government of Premier Mark Eyskens formally resigned today in a dispute over aid to Belgium's limping steel industry.

A brief statement from the royal palace said King Baudouin "has accepted this resignation."

Eyskens' center-left coalition of Dutch and French speakers lasted 5½ months before splitting over a request for $775 million in aid to the steel giant Cockerill-Sambre. The government refused to guarantee the banks' four-year loan package.

Congress To Have Last Word On Nixon Library

WASHINGTON (AP) — The debate over the proposed Richard Nixon library at Duke University has been conducted in academic halls so far, but Congress will have the last word.

In the process, there may be renewed questions about how far the government should go in maintaining museums highlighting the achievements of former presidents.

The Presidential Libraries Act, passed in 1955, gives Congress 60 days in which to veto any agreement for the establishment of such a library.

The question would be reviewed by the House Government Operations and Senate Governmental Affairs committees.

The members of the Governmental Affairs panel include Sens. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., and David Pryor, D-Ark., sponsors of a bill designed to limit the museum part of presidential libraries.

In addition, the 1974 act giving the National Archives control of former President Nixon's papers provides that they must remain in the Washington, D.C., area.

That act would have to be amended in order to move the papers to the Durham, N.C., campus where Nixon attended law school.

Even among Nixon's staunchest foes, there appears to be little sentiment in Congress to block the proposed library if Nixon, the Archives and Duke reach an agreement. In fact, Pryor said opponents of the Duke facility were being "very short-sighted."

Questions may well come up, however, about what Pryor called "the shrine syndrome" in presidential libraries.

Probably few scholars at Duke or anywhere else would deny that the Nixon papers are a treasure trove for historians and should be available for study.

Presidential libraries, however, are not just libraries. They are also museums celebrating the achievements and personalities of individual presidents.

Chiles and Pryor have introduced legislation since 1979 to curtail the museum function. They have had little support. Time cools passions, and few Americans think it inappropriate to honor both Herbert Hoover at West Branch, Iowa, and Franklin D. Roosevelt at Hyde Park, N.Y.

But Richard Nixon? The idea was too much for some Duke faculty and alumni, who argued that the building would become a memorial to the president driven from office by the Watergate scandal.

Duke President Terry Sanford, however, insisted that the library would be "primarily a research facility" and trustees of the university decided to continue negotiations with the former president.

Nixon's attorney, R. Stan Mortenson of Washington, declines to discuss the status of the talks, or even whether any talks are going on. Duke officials have indicated they will insist that the museum part of the library be severely limited.

Your Birthday

September 23, 1981

In the year following your birthday several large opportunities will be offered you. They may challenge you to work a little more diligently, but in the end you'll know the rewards can be enormous.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The course you set for yourself today is practical and within reach. So long as you are not sidetracked by frivolous ideas, you'll do well. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph that begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Today is not the time to take a break. With a little extra push and diligence, you can get past that hurdle that has been plaguing you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't fall prey to any self-pitying thoughts today. They may try to creep in and overtake that mature and fertile attitude you have going for you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Worthwhile gains come only when dealing with those who are willing to accept a share of the responsibility for a joint project. Reject the drones.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be prepared to listen to and accept advice or facts that might be a little tough to swallow but that you know to be right. Only then can you make progress.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Even if it is a bit inconvenient at this time, live up to your obligations. The rewards in the long run will be well worth your time and effort.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're able to let another's pettiness roll off your back today because you are determined not to let anyone or anything put you in a bad mood.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) An associate may not pull his or her share of the load today. Instead of letting this annoy you and halt your productivity, you'll move ahead on your own.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A concern with a serious matter or handling a problem with a co-worker can best be dealt with today by keeping things on a social plane.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It won't stop you today if you don't have the funds to buy what you want. Even if you have to make or build the article yourself, you'll acquire it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A no-nonsense approach to problems besetting you today is why you'll succeed. You'll wipe away the frills and get right to the heart of the issues.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You may have to be a bit more adamant than usual today about your position on a business situation or the control of your resources in order to get your terms.

Telephone books are like dictionaries—if you know the answer before you look it up, you can eventually reaffirm what you thought you knew but weren't sure.

But if you're searching for something you don't already know, your fingers could walk themselves to death.

The trouble with me is I never learned how to speak Yellow Pages. It's a language of the 20th century, born of frustratiion, nurtured by obscurity and dedicated to the theory that by the time you find it, you no longer need it.

In the language of Yellow Pages, a rug is a "carpet," curtains are "draperies," milk is "a dairy product" and cars are industrial automotives.

A plumber is a "plumbing contractor," an electrician is an "electrical contractor" and hi-fi's are listed under Sound Systems and equipment.

Roaches are listed under Pest Control, exterminating and fumigating, a taco is under Mexican Food Products, a tailpipe under Mufflers and Exhaust Systems, and a pencil is under Advertising Specialists.

One of the most frustrating encounters in the Yellow Pages is trying to find a doctor, who is listed under Physicians, who are subdivided into M.D.s and D.O.s, who are also listed under Physicians and Surgeons, group, associate and corporate practice, and who aren't in anyway and whose phone is being answered by a doctor's answering service...See Physicians and Surgeons Exchange.

You should begin to worry about yourself when you begin to think like the Yellow Pages. Recently, I wanted to call a flea market and caught myself just in time. Flea market would definitely not be under F, but probably under something like Swap Meets. I turned to the S's and read, "See Flea Market."

I don't know what the answer is with the growth of private enterprise and the need to consolidate them under a general heading. But just for kicks I turned to "Survival Kits" and was hit with, "See First Aid Supplies, Sporting Goods heading."

I know this. No one will ever convince me that when Alexander Graham Bell was sitting in his Boston boardinghouse March 10, 1876, with battery acid burning his leg and shouted his first frantic message into the transmitter, "Mr. Watson, come here. I want you!" it was the despair of looking under HELP in the Yellow Pages and finding, "See batteries: Dry cell, wholesale, retail, charging and maintenance," that did it.

'Cops' Rob Man

IRVING, Texas (AP) — When Joseph Edwards was flagged down by a police car as he drove through town, the last thing he expected to become was a robbery-shooting victim.

But Edwards, 62, was shot in the hip and lost his billfold with $50 to a pair of police impostors, apparently driving an old patrol car bought at a surplus auction and outfitted with a set of flashing red lights, according to officers in this Dallas suburb.

Edwards and his wife — residents of Grand Prairie, another Dallas suburb — were driving in Irving when a speeding police car pulled up behind them and flashed its blinking red lights, said Irving police Sgt. B. Fortner.

Art Guild Study Club Has Meeting

The Art Guild Study Club met for dinner September 15 at 6:30 p.m. at the Martha Ann Woman's Club. Mrs. Bill Teaff and Miss Ethel Sturdivant were hostesses and program leaders.

Mrs. Teaff presented Mrs. Leon Autry, who told of a trip that she, her husband and four others made to Brazil in July. They visited with Marta Burity Vicente who was a foreign exchange student in Snyder High School in 1962-63. She stayed with the Autry's during that school year.

Mrs. Autry told many the interesting things they saw and described the beauty of Brazil. They visited the cities of Rio de Janeiro, the capital of Brazil, Salvador, and Manous, which is on the Amazon.

Following the program, a short business session was conducted by Mrs. Myron Roe, club president.

Girl Scouts Are Registering Now

REGISTRATION ....REGROUPING (reorganizing) ...RESERVATION ... All West Texas Girl Scout Council troops are registering now for the 1981-82 membership year. National dues of $3 brings a membership in the largest voluntary organization for girls (international and local) --- the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts, the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. and the West Texas Girl Scout Council, Inc. The West Texas Council Board of Directors and Board Committees (camp, field, program) have regrouped; orientation and training has started for new Brownie leaders. All service units, service teams and service unit chairmen are in a state of reorganization. Reservations are in order for scheduled girl scout events at Camp Boothe Oaks. If you see an encircled R listed on the W.T.G.S. Council general calendar, it means: Registration required one week prior to event.

In October, registered troops will sell the 1982 Girl Scout 70th Birthday Calendar for $1 each. The profit goes to the troop for program supplies. The national Girl Scout Convention will be held in Houston October 25-28 and a craft workshop is scheduled for October 19-20 at the Abilene Service Center. Camping events will be: October 2-3-4, Junior Badge Workshop; October 10, Cadette-Senior Canoe Event; and October 17, "Do Your Own Thing" troop event; Frantic Leader Treat; and Brownies from Area I (Abilene) will visit Camp Boothe Oaks.

Celebration for Juliette Gordon Low's Halloween birthday on Ocotober 31 will be in honor of the founder of Girl Scouts, U.S.A. (1912). A custom of Girl Scouts of today is to give a dime for "Daisy" Low to the World Friendship Fund created in her honor in 1927 at the Thirteenth National Council meeting in New York.

The West Texas Girl Scout Council is a participating agency of the United Way.

"Brick Alley" Is Lean And Tough

BRICK ALLEY. By David Chacko. Delacorte. 276 Pages. $11.95.

Those who like their novels lean and tough will surely be engrossed by David Chacko's "Brick Alley."

Drawing heavily on the techniques of the naturalistic, slice-of-life schools of writing, Chacko has created a stunning word-picture of a world that is fictional and yet seems so true that it might have been drawn from the less savory accounts that appear in and on the media from time to time.

Brick Alley is a place within a place. It's the red light district of a medium-sized Pennsylvania factory town. Brick Alley is controlled by a black man named Leon Blue.

Actually, Blue used to be the boss of the area but he has fallen afoul of the town's white power structure and been told, in so many words — punctuated with a brutal beating — to get out of town.

But Blue is tough, and he's smart. He goes to a white lawyer named Ben Caulder for help. Caulder, a bit idealistic but quite wise to the ways of the world, agrees to take Blue on as a client.

The case seems simple enough: Find out what Blue did wrong, then rectify it. But it's not that simple. Caulder finds himself quite quickly involved in matters that, given exposure, could blow the lid off the town. He also finds himself involved in murder, violence and long-hidden matters that were best left alone.

Chacko handles all the elements that make up this powerful novel in a thoroughly competent and satisfactory manner. His ending is a shocker but, given what has gone before, entirely credible.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

West opened a diamond rather than a notrump because he used the rather popular 15-17 point notrump range.

He was a trifle shocked to find his opponents arriving at three notrump against his 18 high-card points, but did not double because he was sure his partner had nothing and because he had no idea what to open.

He did elect to open the king of spades to get a look at dummy before getting on to trick two.

One good look at dummy and West saw some hope of defeating three notrump. There was a play known as the Deschapelles coup named after a great games player of the 19th century.

The Deschapelles coup is the sacrifice of a sure trick to kill an entry to dummy.

At trick two West led his king of hearts. South played low from dummy, but West merely led another spade and dummy was moribund.

Of course, West ducked one club but did win the second one and poor South wound up with just seven tricks and a mild headache.

"NO, I DON'T THINK YOU CAN HEAR AN EAR DRUM, JOEY."

IN TRANSIT—Shelby Gilmore, left, secretary in the Scurry County Museum since August, is shown with her replacement, Doris Byars. Mrs. Gilmore is transferring to the office of the Diamond M Museum. Mrs. Byars came to the Scurry County Museum from the Senior Citizens Center where she was director of food services.

Both Local Museums Welcome Secretaries

The Scurry County Museum at Western Texas College and the Diamond M Museum will both be welcoming new secretaries this week.

Shelby Gilmore, who has been secretary for the Scurry County Museum since August, is moving to the Diamond M office. She and her husband, Jerry, moved to Snyder from Lubbock after he accepted a position on the faculty at WTC. He is an engineering technology instructor.

Doris Byars began work in the Scurry County Museum on Monday. A native of Scurry County, she was employed by the Senior Citizens Center for 3½ years and previously had been an employee of Ira Public Schools for 12 years. Her husband, J. L. Byars, is a retired Ira School System employee.

"Working with the Senior Center was a wonderful experience," Mrs. Byars said. "I know I will miss all the people there, and I appreciated so much the farewell gifts they gave me. I'm looking forward to working in the museum and I'm sure I'll be seeing my old acquaintances here as well".

The Scurry County Museum is currently featuring a photographic exhibit and a joint exhibit of paintings by Jay Huckabee and bronze sculptures by Dr. Robert Taylor. The museum is open each weekday and from 1 p. m. to 5 p. m. on Sundays. Scheduled for October are an oriental rug show, being arranged with the assistance of Mary Dulaney, and the Scurry County Photographer of the Month exhibit.

Contemporary Indian artists will be showing works in the Diamond M Museum in October. The Diamond M is open Wednesday through Sunday and by appointment on Mondays and Tuesdays. Group tours of the museum are welcome and can be arranged by calling the office at 573-6311.

Sharon Sutton serves as director of both local museums since arrangements were completed for Western Texas College to assume management of the Diamond M. An associate director is to be selected in the near future.

Ms. Sutton's main office will continue to be at the Scurry County Museum and can be reached at 573-6107, or through the college switchboard at 573-8511, extension 210.

Former CIA Officials Cash In On Knowledge

WASHINGTON (AP) — The lucrative trade in U.S. weapons technology abroad is prompting a number of former CIA officials, including a past deputy director, to cash in on their government expertise and contacts.

Gen. Vernon Walters, the CIA's No. 2 man from 1972-76, received $300,000 early this year from a company that specializes in selling sophisticated military technology to foreign countries, according to government documents and interviews with the principals.

While there is no suggestion that Walters' dealings were in any way illegal, they highlight some questions about restricting business activities of former intelligence officials. CIA officials have access to sensitive government secrets; they develop contacts with high-ranking foreign officials; and there is a common suspicion that they still work for the CIA even after they resign.

Walters, now an ambassador-at-large at the State Department and a key figure in President Reagan's foreign policy, said he contacted top Moroccan officials on behalf of a firm interested in modernizing Morocco's tank corps.

In an interview with The Associated Press, Walters said his main work for the company, Environmental Energy Systems Inc., was "putting them (company officials) in touch with the right people."

Morocco tentatively agreed to pay Environmental Energy Systems $190 million for refitting its tanks with sophisticated laser targeting, night-vision equipment and new engines, said the company's president, John R. McLane.

The deal fell through, he said, when the U.S. government agreed to supply Morocco with new American tanks.

Walters said he also was involved with the company's military sales proposals to Spain, South Korea and Brazil, adding: "I would not do anything with any country that was not a friend of the United States."

Others may not have been so discriminating.

The House Intelligence Committee announced plans last week to investigate former CIA operative Edwin Wilson, who allegedly used his CIA contacts and experience to illegally peddle advanced weapons technology to Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy.

U.S-Libyan relations have been extremely strained.

Preparations Set To Begin OnWednesday

The Scurry County Fair will open at 8 a.m. Wednesday to allow commercial exhibits to be constructed.

From 1-8 p.m that date entries will be accepted for textiles, handicrafts, agricultural products, educational and community exhibits, china painting, container grown plants, and canned goods.

The domino tournament will begin at 6 p.m. in Room A.

Coliseum doors will close at 10 p.m.

Travels Extensively...

Vet Works With Skin Problems

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Dr. Pat Breen is on the road again, treating patients with problems that often stump others in the profession.

His itinerary reads like an airline travel schedule, and at each stop there's always a waiting list at the clinic.

Breen is an animal dermatolgist — one of five in public practice in the United States.

"Animals are just like people," said Breen. "They may be allergic to milk, eggs and other foods. They develop rashes, may have a hormone deficiency or lose their hair. It's my job to get them under control."

The demand for his skills takes him to Louisville, Lexington, Indianapolis and Cleveland on a regular basis.

"When the veterinarian gets a tough case, he usually asks me to take a look," said Breen. After he arrives, Breen talks with the pet's owner, examines the dog, cat or horse, and then makes his diagnosis.

"You do your best because pets are important to a lot of folks. Sometimes closer than relatives," said Breen, who also teaches at the University of Cincinnati Medical School and is a consultant to Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit.

Not long ago he was called to zoos where a baby chimpanzee and a polar bear were on the sick list.

"The chimp's skin was irritated. He resembled a baby with a diaper rash. And that's what it was. He was sensitive to the compound they were using to wash out his diapers."

The bear gave Breen a few anxious moments. "The handlers had placed him in a squeeze cage to keep him from moving around while I took a biopsy. But it was still frightening to hear him snarling at me."

The bear's problem was falling hair. "His diet had been changed and he was suffering from a vitamin A shortage."

Breen is currently doing research on insects whose sting can prove fatal.

"We're using dogs because they can be killed by a sting as easily as a man or woman. If the serum and treatment studies are successful, we're hoping the results can help in the experiments on man himself."

Breen, who is 41, was educated at Ohio State University and the University of Pennsylvania. He began practice as a veterinarian in his hometown, Cincinnati, where he still has an office. But he later specialized in dermatology at the request of the American Veterinary Medical Association.

"The association asked eight vets to specialize, and I was one of them," said Breen. "Only five of us are working in the public sectors. The others are in Boston, Dallas, San Francisco and Los Angeles."

Breen still remembers his first patient, Daisy, "a sweet little thing, with a staph infection." She didn't smell like a daisy.

It was a skunk on a leash. "Daisy had been descented but still gave off a musky odor. How could I forget her?"

Reagan Makes It Look Easy

NEW YORK (AP) — If President Ronald Reagan is "laid back," as some critics say of his style, then he is laid back like a fox, says a man who has studied leadership from the times of the Greeks and Romans.

"Reagan can be misunderstood because he makes a tough job look easy," says Eugene Jennings, management professor, author of "Anatomy of Leadership" and adviser to private and public sector leaders.

After a summmer of observing and analyzing the performance and style of Reagan, Jennings reaches a conclusion that probably will give the president a lift as he fights criticism of his values, goals and style.

"He is nearly a perfect match between the man and his times," says the professor, who teaches at Michigan State University.

Jennings observes that all would-be great leaders need such an ideal marriage but that few are so fortunate to achieve it. Without World War II, he observes, Winston Churchill might have died an inconspicuous Lord of the Admiralty and Charles DeGaulle might have been remembered more for his enormous ego than his enormous accomplishments in France.

Jennings contends the near-perfect match creates a momentum of its own that allows the fortunate leaders to paddle easily while others struggle to keep control. Reagan, he claims, is following in the tradition of great leaders in three ways:

1. He has value sense. Values, he suggests, are more important than objectives to great leaders. Great leaders have firm beliefs and communicate them to the people, who then permit greater flexibility on how the objectives are to be obtained. Values are the foundation, says Jennings. In his view, Reagan has a foundation, but Jimmy Carter didn't. Carter worked hard, he says, but "built sandcastles."

2. He has a priority sense. "Reagan covers only those things critical to the execution of his mission," the professor says, adding that "very few great leader scattered their shot and maintained momentum."

Reagan, he says, calls forth one issue at a time for debate, whereas Presidents Carter, Lyndon Johnson and Harry Truman inundated Congress and constituencies. "Reagan never loses control by scattering shot," claims Jennings. The President's priorities are in order, he says.

3. Reagan has a power sense, says Jennings, observing that "great leaders in bearing and behavior make a distinction between authority and power." Reagan, he says, "never appears as an authority figure."

These senses, Jennings maintains, can be equated with good common sense. "It doesn't require massive intellectual capacity; few great leaders were intellectually gifted, but they had a good sense of values, priorities and power, which helped them make difficult jobs looks easy," he says. Such abilities are intuitive, he believes. They are natural to the individual.

And when the timing is right — that is, the match between a man and events and attitudes — it can make for great leaders, says Jennings.

Domino Spots Available For Tournament

Entries are still being accepted for the Scurry County Fair domino tournament. The tournament is for anyone who enjoys playing dominoes, regardless of skill.

The tournament is limited to Scurry County residents. Some father and son and brother and brother teams have already entered.

To enter call Jerry Baird at 573-8511. The tournament begins at 6 p.m. Wednesday and the playoff is slated for 10 a.m. Saturday.

Common to sweat too much

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Could you please help me out? For the past four years I have had a problem of sweating so much that it is very embarrassing for me. I can get out of the shower, put on every kind of antiperspirant available to me at any store and it doesn't help my problem.

I am a very clean person so it bothers me a great deal. I was wondering if my body isn't getting enough salt. It is not my nerves so what do I do? It has been a problem since I was about 13 years old. I can't wear the pretty clothes available because I have sweat dripping down my underarms all the way to my waist. You are my last hope. I hope you come shining through.

DEAR READER — Your problem is more common than you might guess. Of course everyone sweats but a few have such excessive perspiration that it is a social and personal problem. In some cases it is from anxiety and it may particularly affect the palms and soles in that case. In other instances it is mostly of the axilla, which may be true in your case.

You should see a dermatologist and see if he can help you. There are several medicines that are used to block the nervous system that supplies the sweat glands involved. Some of these are the same medicines used to prevent stomach acid (atropine and probanthine medications). You can't get these without a prescription.

Even Inderal used to control blood pressure, heart irregularities and migraine headaches may help because it decreases the adrenaline action. In extreme cases the nerve fibers that affect the area may be removed surgically with good results. If the area is just the axilla usually local surgical removal of the skin area (usually the area that has hair) removes the offending sweat glands and provides a good result.

You will want to read more about these methods and about antidotants in The Health Letter number 16-2, Sweating, Antiperspirants and Deodorants, which I am sending you.

Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. In extreme cases such as yours maybe the usual antiperspirants and deodorants just don't do the job.

DEAR DR. LAMB — A while back I read an item about folk remedies. The message was that perhaps people should look back to grandmother's cures rather than forward and they gave some examples of folk medicine that works. What is your opinion of these methods?

DEAR READER — My opinion is unprintable. I just happened to see that item and it was typical of medical misinformation that is being fed to the public. Specifically, the item referred to using thyme and sage to fight colds and flu, and it went on to say that thyme contains an antibacterial substance and oils of sage were capable of destroying bacteria.

Well, that tells you the whole story. Colds and flu are not caused by bacteria at all. They are caused by viruses. With such faulty thinking you can't expect much. There are some substances that are found in nature that are very helpful but these must be subjected to the same rigorous tests as are the many new truly wonderful medicines that have developed and will be developed in the future.

Police Safely Defuse Bomb

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Police explosives experts safely defused a bomb that was discovered in the trunk of a car in a crowded marketplace today, a police spokesman said.

He said police arrested several suspects in connection with the planting of the bomb, believed to be the work of Palestinian guerrillas. The bomb was found in the town of Ramleh, 12 miles southeast of Tel Aviv.

Surgery Liason Service Launched By Auxilary

Responding to requests from the hospital administration and medical staff, the Cogdell Memorial Hospital Auxiliary has added a new voluntary service.

Beginning this week, an [illegible] working in the third floor surgery waiting room from 8:30 a. m. to 12 noon, Monday through Friday.

Cogdell Memorial Hospital Auxiliary members working in this area will be in communication with hospital personnel in surgery and the recovery room and will relay information to family members and friends who are waiting while a patient undergoes surgery.

Chairman of the Surgery Waiting Room Volunteers is Mrs. Dan Aycock, with Mrs. Don Dillard serving as co-chairman.

"This new service carries out the charitable purpose of the auxiliary—to advance the welfare of the hospital and be of service to the community.

Persons interested in working as a volunteer with Cogdell Memorial Hospital Auxiliary in any [illegible] the hospital may contact Mrs. Tommy Davis, president, at 573-2132, or Mrs. J. B. Tate, vice president and membership chairman, 863-2388.

Conservatives Looking At Vacancies To Come

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even before President Reagan's first nominee for the Supreme Court takes her seat on the bench, conservatives unhappy with his choice of Sandra Day O'Connor are talking about vacancies to come.

Five of the court's eight current justices are over 72 and there is recurring speculation that some of them may retire.

"We'll let this one go by the wayside and hopefully it won't happen again," conservative fund-raiser and direct-mail expert Richard Viguerie said of Mrs. O'Connor's confirmation.

Viguerie, who notes he spent "a great deal of time, money, energy and resources" fighting Mrs. O'Connor's nomination, said he's "hopeful" Reagan will pick someone more conservative next time.

That was echoed by Sen. Charles E. Grassley, R-Iowa.

"President Reagan probably realizes that he maybe let them (his conservative supporters) down to some degree. And he will do something to rectify it," Grassley said.

Some conservatives bitterly attacked Mrs. O'Connor for what they perceived as past stances in favor of abortion and the proposed Equal Rights Amendment.

In the end, however, the Senate approved her historic nomination by a 99-0 vote Monday.

Women's groups enthusiastically backed the 51-year-old Arizona appeals court judge.

"We're hoping she (Mrs. O'Connor) won't be tokenized," said Eleanor Smeal, president of the National Organization for Women. "We'll have to see what the political circumstances are the next time around."

Women's leaders also point with considerable distress to Reagan's nomination of 17 men and no women to lower federal courts — cited as a possible indication of the Republican chief executive's overall plans for the federal judiciary. Only one nominee is black.

Reagan's record so far contrasts sharply with that of his Democratic predecessor, Jimmy Carter, who appointed 40 women to the federal bench, more than all previous presidents combined.

"They're male-dominated and extremely conservative," said Janyce Katz, a spokeswoman for the National Women's Political Caucus, of Reagan's judicial and law enforcement nominees to date. "The fact that he has just appointed one woman does not make up for the fact that he hasn't appointed a sufficient number of women all the way down the line."

Larry Berkson of the American Judicature Society said Reagan's nomination pattern goes against the trend in most states, where women are getting judicial jobs in ever-increasing numbers.

If the lower court nominations are an indication of a pattern, they may assume even greater importance: While Carter was unable to make any appointments to the Supreme Court, Reagan may have a chance to completely reshape it.

DJ's Questions Cause Family Static

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I spend almost every weekend with my brother and his wife at their summer home.

Last Saturday, when we were there, their phone rang and because my sister-in-law was busy preparing dinner, I answered it. The caller identified himself as someone from the local radio station and said if I could answer three questions I would win $50. He asked the three questions, which I answered correctly, then he asked me for my name and address and I automatically gave him my name and address. When I hung up my sister-in-law began screaming at me, saying it was her home and her telephone and I should have given the caller her name and address. She said I had some nerve giving my own name and address — that she knew the answers to those questions and she should get the $50.

Abby, my first thought after winning the money was, "I will take everyone out for a nice dinner."

I feel terrible about the whole thing because we had been good friends for years and now she's mad at me. I apologized and even offered her the money, but she said she wouldn't take it.

Did I do something so terribly wrong? How can I make amends?

FEELING AWFUL IN N.Y.

DEAR FEELING: Your automatic response was understandable and certainly not "wrong." I think you've done all you can. If she wants to stay mad, you haven't lost a very good friend.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I enjoy your stuff. When I attended Tulane University, I told my professor that I was raised in Shreveport, La.

He said, "You raise hogs and rear children."

You mentioned that you were raised in a small town. Tell me, Abby, were you raised or reared? Love and kisses,

HENRY

DEAR HENRY: In "The Careful Writer," the late Theodore M. Bernstein put it this way: "At one time, a war raged (and some skirmishes are still going on) against the use of 'raise' to describe what parents do to children. The battle cry was, 'you raise pigs, but you rear children.' However, in this country at least, the war is over; we raise both pigs and children, and some parents will testify that you can't always tell the difference."

• • •

DEAR ABBY: In response to the girl who thinks her boyfriend is ashamed of her because he has never introduced her to his parents:

Maybe he is in the same situation I was in when I was growing up. I never brought anyone home to meet my parents because I was ashamed of my parents. They were always drunk, and I grew up as "poor white trash."

Now that I am on my own, I've worked my way up from white trash to a successful businessman and a sound citizen.

Please give the guy a break if he deserves one. No one wants to take a girl home to a filthy, smelly, run-down pigpen. It's just too much shame to bear.

BEEN THERE

DEAR BEEN THERE: Thanks for revealing the other side of the coin.

Miller Named FTC Chairman

WASHINGTON (AP) — Conservative economist James C. Miller III has been confirmed by a near-unanimous Senate vote as chairman of the Federal Trade Commission.

Although the vote for Miller's nomination Monday was 97-2, several Republicans, including Sen. Slade Gorton, R-Wash., expressed reservations about whether he or other nominees of President Reagan would enforce antitrust laws vigorously.

'Denver Boots' Used To Keep Vehicles Parked

WASHINGTON (AP) — When former CIA employee Francis E. Terpil skipped the country last year to avoid standing trial, he gave the government the boot — 80 "Denver boots," that is.

So now the man charged with running a terrorist training program in Libya is becoming an unwitting partner in a new federal crackdown against traffic scofflaws.

The metal devices, which are used by many police departments, lock onto a vehicle's wheels so it can't be driven away. The Denver boots that Terpil posted as collateral for bond will be used to immobilize cars owned by people who have refused to pay past tickets but continue to park in federally owned lots at the Pentagon and other complexes.

Terpil fled the country in September 1980, and last month, U.S. District Judge John H. Pratt found him in default of his bond. Pratt ordered that the items posted by Terpil as collateral — 80 Denver boots, $15,000 in cash and a radio transmitter and receiver that Terpil's lawyer said is worth $30,000 — be turned over to the government.

The Denver boots, marketed by a company owned by Terpil, are valued at $312 each.

Although items posted for collateral usually are auctioned off when a defendant defaults, U.S. marshals had said it would be too expensive and cumbersome to deal with the Denver boots.

Coincidentally, the Federal Protective Service wanted to purchase Denver boots to crack down on scofflaws at the parking lots it administers.

"We were in the process of working out arrangements for the boots and became aware (from U.S. marshals) that we could get them from the court at a bargain-basement price," said John Jester, chief of operations for the protective service in the Washington area.

Jester said the agency will pay the $719 cost of keeping the boots in the warehouse for a year — money that the government will try to recover by attaching liens on two residences owned by Terpil.

Meanwhile, prosecutors have not determined what to do with Terpil's powerful radio.

Terpil was one of three men indicted in April 1980 on charges of running a terrorist training program for Libyan strongman Moammar Khadafy.

President Theodore Roosevelt died in 1919.

Even if you're unhandy, you can do something to help hold down electric bills.

Save energy and money at home by learning how to insulate, caulk and weatherstrip — it's easy when you know how. Just call us, or ask for our "Unhandy Person's Guides" on the comments portion of your bill.

It's important to learn ways to conserve energy, especially since the cost of electricity must continue to increase, partly because all fuel used to make electricity continues to cost more.

For example, a contract for low-cost natural gas expires at the end of this year, and we'll have to use more high-priced gas next year.

You can conserve and help hold down your bill by using the "Unhandy Person's Guides" from Texas Electric.

Westerners Claim Early Success In Golf Race

LEVELLAND -- Western Texas College zipped along at an even par 284 here Thursday to finish in the winner's circle at the first Western Junior College Conference Golf Tournament of the season.

The Westeners who are 2-0 in overall tournament play already this season, will host the second WJCAC Tournament at the college course on Oct. 2 and 3.

"I was very pleased with our performance," said first-year head coach Dave Foster, a former WTC player himself. "They (the team) are playing super team golf. Levelland was a big tournament to be so early in the season. We needed to get off to a good start here since we'll be hosting the next conference tournament."

The Westerners edged New Mexico Junior College by one stroke to lead the WJCAC standings with 6 points. Midland College finished five-over par at 289 and got four points, while Odessa was fourth with a 290, South Plains was fifth with a 302 and New Mexico Military Institute was sixth with a 320.

Points are awarded on a first-through-six place finish, with the tourney winner receiving 6 points, second place 5 points and so on.

WTC sophomore Philip Jones and NMJC's Dan Howard locked for low player honors with scores of 67, four-under par. Howard won medalist honors when he ran in a 20-foot birdie putt on the first hole of a sudden death playoff. Jones pared the hole.

Oiler Offense: Where Is It?

HOUSTON (AP) - When an offense fizzles like the Houston Oiler offense has bombed in its first three games this season, people start asking questions.

What about the revamped offense that was supposed to diversify and become virtually unpredictable? What about Rob Carpenter replacing Tim Wilson as the running mate to Earl Campbell in the backfield?

Did Coach Ed Biles ever consider replacing Ken Stabler at quarterback?

Stabler was sacked eight times by the stunting Dolphin defensive line, Campbell netted only 78 yards rushing, the team had a poor third down percentage and made only nine first downs in Sunday's 16-10 loss to Miami.

"What happened Sunday was not Stabler's fault," Biles said. "We just didn't block well enough to win."

Stabler amazingly completed 16 of 28 passes for 178 yards and completed a 71-yard touchdown pass to Ken Burrough.

Carpenter, judged to be a better pass receiver, has replaced Wilson, an outstanding blocker, in the starting backfield. It was suggested Campbell could be missing Wilson's blocking.

"There might be an element of truth to that but the more hype people give it the greater obstacle it will become," Biles said. "There's not that much difference in the blocking ability of those two people."

Although Houston's new offense was supposed to provide opposing defensives with more guesswork, Campbell carried 19 of the 22 rushes. in Sunday's loss.

Biles stood firm on his theme of diversity. "To give the ball to him 30-35 times per game keeps the clock moving and controls the offense but it didn't get us to the Super Bowl," Biles said. "No one dimension team ever made it all the way."

Through three regular season games, the Oilers have converted only 17.5 per cent of their third downs attempts.

"The thing that concerns our offensive staff is that we had six third down and short yardage situations that we failed to make," Biles said. "You're chances of making a third and 14 are slim but you should make the third and fours."

Biles started his weekly news conference by pointing out the positive aspects of Houston's 2-1 record, including Sunday's 16-10 loss to Miami. It didn't take him long.

Biles also noted that the Oilers' offensive totals were only 55 yards less than the Dolphins, who remained unbeaten at 3-0. "Given a big play, we could have won the game 17-16 and it would have been a different picture," Biles said.

The Oilers travel to New York Sunday to play the Jets.

Dorsett Rushes For 162 Yards...

Cowboys Pop Mistake-Prone Pats

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) - Step aside, Earl. Touchdown Tony is on the loose - and so are the rest of the Dallas Cowboys.

Tony Dorsett, off to the best start of his five-year career in the National Football League, is literally and figuratively running away from three-time rushing champion Earl Campbell of the Houston Oilers and any other challengers he may face.

So what? he says.

"Leading the league in rushing is fine (he has 423 yards now), but going into the 16th game is when it'll mean something. Right now it means nothing. That's no goal of mine, to lead the NFL in rushing. I just want to be consistent, game in and game out," he says.

Which is what he has been, more so this season than any other.

Which in turn is why the Cowboys are 3-0 three games into the season, and one reason why the New England Patriots, who had hoped to break out of an early-season slump, lost 35-21 Monday night and are 0-3.

Dorsett's 132 yards and 129 yards in his first two games were merely a prelude to the 162 yards he amassed against the Patriots, 75 of them on a second-quarter touchdown run. His total was 54 yards more than the entire New England ground game managed...and the Patriots had three more carries than Dorsett's 19.

Defensively, the Cowboys pretty much closed down the New England rushing attack (Mosi Tatupu had 63 of their 108 yards). But they permitted Matt Cavanaugh, starting in place of erratic Steve Grogan, plenty of time to search out and find receivers.

Unfortunately for the Pats, four times he found Dallas receivers for interceptions - one in the first period preceding the Cowboys' opening touchdown (Danny White's 28-yard pass to leaping Butch Johnson) and three in the final quarter, two of them leading to Rafael Septien field goals.

The Patriots also fumbled the ball away three times. One was harmless. But a second one, coming the instant Andy Johnson had caught a pass at the Dallas 2-yard line, cost them a shot at a go-ahead touchdown or tying field goal just before halftime. And the third, by Roland James on a Dallas punt, paved the way to White's other touchdown pass, a 1-yarder on a rollout to a wide-open Billy Joe DuPree midway in the third period, the score that put the Cowboys on top 24-21.

The Patriots touchdowns came on runs of 4 yards by Don Calhoun in the first quarter, 3 yards by rookie Tony Collins in the second and 38 yards by Tatupu to put them ahead briefly 21-17 in the third.

New England will now have to face the Pittsburgh Steelers, who erupted on Sunday for a 38-10 victory against the New York Jets, the American Conference's other 0-3 team (Washington is the only one in the National Conference).

2-4A Teams Strike Hard As Loop Battles Begin

District 2-4A wars opened with a series of blitzes last weekend as all four victors scored big while shutting out their opponents.

Andrews blasted Snyder 47-0, Monahans crushed Lamesa 37-0, Pecos pounded Odessa Ector 24-0, and Lake View surprised Fort Stockton 21-0.

After three weeks, Andrews, Monahans and Sweetwater remain the only undefeated teams. Andrews and Monahans are 3-0 each for the season, while Sweetwater - idle in the first week of district play - is 2-0.

Snyder and Lamesa are the only teams yet to find a preseason or conference victory. Snyder, playing its first home game of the season, hopes a change of scene will get the Tigers past Sweetwater, while Lamesa entertains Fort Stockton.

Ector will take the week off to heal, while Lake View tries to pull off an even bigger upset when the Chiefs welcome Andrews. Monahans, the preseason loop favorite, plays its first road game of the term at Pecos.

Tigers Try For No. 50, 7:30 Tonight

Snyder's Tigers go in search of their 50th consecutive district victory here tonight as they host Odessa Ector's Eaglettes at 7:30 in the high school gym.

The match will be preceded by a 6:30 junior varsity contest. Tickets for the twin-bill are $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Snyder is 5-0 in district play and needs only a victory over Ector tonight and Lake View on Thursday to wrap up at least a tie for the round-one title. The Tigers don't officially complete the round until Oct. 10 when they host Fort Stockton in a two-match series.

The Tigers' 49-match district streak dates back to September of 1976 and includes five consecutive conference championships, and two regional and state titles.

McMillian Will Miss Remainder Of Year

HOUSTON (AP) - Sophomore quarterback Audrey McMillian will miss the remainder of the 1981 football season with a shoulder separation, University of Houston officials confirmed Monday.

McMillian hurt his right shoulder in the third quarter of Saturday's game against Miami, and will undergo surgery Tuesday, said Cougar head trainer Tom Wilson.

McMillian sat out most of the 1980 season with a separation in his left shoulder.

Lee To Provide Some Experience

With only three players returning from the 1980-81 season, Western Texas College's Westerners will be a young team again this year, and one of those counted heavily on for the coming term will be 6-4 Spring Valley, Calif. native Darren Lee.

Lee saw a lot of action last year, averaging 11.5 points an outing. Coach Larry Dunaway looks for the sophomore to come into his own now, while still remaining a team player.

"I feel like Darren can be one of the best players in the conference this year," said Dunaway. "He has matured a great deal in many ways over the past year and he's learning more and more what we're doing and how we want to do it.

"If all goes well, I think Darren can be a major college player when he leaves here."

'Shootout' Still Going On Here

The Greatest Little Shootout in Texas, sponsored by the Snyder Chamber of Commerce, will be held Oct. 10 at Western Texas College. Winner of the event will receive a $100 cash prize.

Contestants may qualify now through Oct. 9 at Western Texas College or Snyder Country Club golf courses by playing nine holes. The low 19 qualifiers will advance to the "shootout" on Oct. 10.

Fee per qualifying round is $5 per player. There is no limit to the number of qualifying rounds for a single golfer.

Any ties will be resolved with a "chip-off" at noon Oct. 10.

All 19 qualifying golfers will tee off from No. 1 at Western Texas College on Oct. 10 at 1 p.m. The golfer with the highest score on each hole will drop out. All ties will be determined by a "chip-off". Only two players will be remaining on No. 18.

The "shootout" qualifying is open to any person age 22 and older.

Rangers Keep Rolling, Blitz Seattle Mariners

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Four days ago, the Texas Rangers were written off as dead in the American League West pennant race, but not by designated hitter Al Oliver.

"I told two players before Saturday night's game that we could still win this thing and they laughed at me," Oliver said.

They may be laughing with Oliver now, but not at him. The Rangers won their third straight Monday night, stopping Seattle 4-1 on Danny Darwin's 3-hitter.

The victory moved Texas to within three games of first place Kansas City, which lost to Minnesota Monday night, 7-2.

Darwin had failed in four outings, one loss and three no-decisions, to gain his ninth win of the season against eight losses. Even with the victory, Darwin is only 2-4 in the Second Season.

"I guess pitchers go into slumps just like hitters," said Darwin, who this week watched previous game films with pitching coach Jackie Brown.

"The only difference was that I tried to relax," Darwin explained.

He permitted the only Mariner run in the sixth when Julio Cruz tripled and scored on a ground out.

Texas, held hitless by rookie Bob Stoddard, 2-1, for three innings, erupted for three runs in the third.

AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

Calls It "Grave Mistake"...

Cyrus Vance Opposes AWACS Sale

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, a surprise ally for opponents of the proposed sale of AWACS radar planes to Saudi Arabia, says the deal would upset the military balance in the Middle East, violate a 1978 promise to Congress and be "a grave mistake."

Vance's stand, in a letter to assistant Senate Democratic leader Alan Cranston of California, could strengthen the hand of opponents of President Reagan's proposed $8.5 billion sale, which faces a close vote next month in Congress.

Vance, a strong proponent of past arms deals, said delivering five Airborne Warning and Control System planes to the Saudis "would be destabilizing."

Enhancing the range and firepower of 62 U.S.-built F-15 jet fighters, he said, would break the Carter administration's promise to Congress that the planes would not be made more powerful.

"I believe it would be wrong to abrogate that commitment," Vance said. "To do so would undermine our credibility."

Vance added in the Aug. 5 letter: "It is important that we be perceived as a constant and reliable nation that will stick to its commitments, unless there is an extraordinary change of circumstances. I do not believe that is the case here."

Meanwhile, Henry A. Kissinger, Vance's predecessor as secretary of state, said Monday, "I don't think it was a good idea to sell the planes to begin with."

But Kissinger told a Dallas news conference that it would be an even worse mistake for Congress to kill the sale.

"I think what should happen is that the administration and the Congress, instead of having a confrontation, find some means of working it out to meet everybody's security concerns and not turn it into a test of strength," Kissinger said.

As Vance and Kissinger were weighing the wisdom of the sale, the Reagan administration gave members of Congress guided tours of an AWACS plane as part of its drive to avert a veto.

The first congressman off the AWACS plane at Andrews Air Force Base just outside Washington said the tour and special briefing removed some of his concerns about the sale.

"I'm still iffy, but yes," Rep. Wayne Grisham, R-Calif., said when asked if the tour changed his mind. "I think it showed me there have been some misconceptions about what it will do and won't do."

But other congressmen said the tour did not change their positions.

To Dismiss Trial...

Judge Denies Motion

ANDREWS AIR FORCE BASE, Md. (AP) — The presiding military judge at the espionage court-martial of Air Force 2nd Lt. Christopher Cooke today denied Cooke's motion to dismiss the charges and ordered the trial to proceed.

One of Cooke's attorneys, Kenneth Fishman, said Cooke would immediately ask the Court of Military Appeals to overturn the ruling by Lt. Col. David Orser, the presiding judge. Orser found that Cooke did not have a valid immunity grant.

Orser ruled that Cooke had in fact been promised that he would not be prosecuted by the Air Force officers who interrogated him. But he said that the immunity promise was neither authorized nor later approved by Gen. Richard Ellis.

Ellis, now retired, was the commander-in-chief of the Strategic Air Command when Cooke was arrested. Orser ruled that Ellis was the only person legally entitled to give immunity to Cooke.

Orser said the remedy for the Air Force's false promise was that the confession Cooke made on May 17 would not be admissible as evidence against him.

Orser said also that the government will have to prove that any other evidence it wishes to introduce was not derived from the confession.

Air Force prosecutors, however, have told reporters they believe they have enough evidence to prove the charges against Cooke without using the confession or anything the government learned as a result of the confession.

Shuttle Delay Possible Now

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Highly toxic fuel spilled while being loaded into the space shuttle Columbia's thruster rockets early today, loosening some of the spacecraft's protective tiles and raising the possibility of a delay in its second mission, officials said.

Technicians on the launch pad were all wearing protective clothing, and no injuries were reported.

"There were a limited number of tiles debonding," said Dick Young, spokesman at the Kennedy Space Center. "We know of a small number, but we don't know how many."

Jim Kukowski, a NASA spokesman in Washington, said the initial estimate was that about 25 of the more than 30,000 thermal tiles, which protect the shuttle from re-entry heat, were damaged and would have to be replaced.

Kukowski said officials "don't know yet" if the tiles could be replaced while the shuttle is on the launch pad. If not, the shuttle might have to be returned to its hangar or the Vehicle Assembly Building, which would almost certainly delay the scheduled Oct. 9 launch, officials said.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials said nitrogen tetroxide spilled at about 1:15 a.m. when a "quick-disconnect" fuel-line connector malfunctioned while the forward Reaction Control System thrusters were being loaded. The highly toxic fuel spilled down the shuttle's starboard side.

The spill forced the closing of the launch pad to all but emergency cleanup workers.

Workers began Sunday pumping nitrogen tetroxide, an oxidizer, into the two orbital engines' tanks. The oxidizer will then be transferred into tanks in the Reactor Control System, which contains the attitude-control thrusters.

Fuel tanks in both the orbital maneuvering system and the reactor control system will then be filled with monomethyl hydrazine.

Four Tie In Grid Contest

Are women equal to men when it comes to picking winners? Apparently so since two women and two men each missed five in the third week of the Snyder Daily News Football Contest to tie for top honors.

Those sharing the $17.50 combined first and second place prize money include Delmer Wilson, 4101 Kerrville, Strick Posey, 2206 44th Street, Deborah Love, 1903 Avenue E, and Connie Essery, Route 3, Box 257.

Another weekly contest is about to unfold so it is not too late for armchair quarterbacks to pick up an entry blank at a participating merchant and throw their hat into the guessing arena.

Theft Cases Reported To City Police

Several reports of thefts were referred to the Snyder Police Department yesterday, but no traffic accidents were logged.

Both the American and Texas flags were reported stolen from the flag pole at city hall. The theft happened sometime over the weekend.

Mildred Erwin reported to police that 70 letters were stolen from a sign at U Rent 'Em, and some $50 was reported stolen from a soft drink machine at the Phillips 66 Station at 2000 25th St. Mike Line reported that a billfold was stolen from his car at 2606 34th St. It was reported that the billfold contained several credit cards.

Darren Manley reported that a .22 caliber rifle was taken from his home at 1305 24th St. sometime during the day Monday.

Jean Robbins of Munden's Discount Center, reported that someone poured shampoo over some merchandise, causing damage estimated at $200. It apparently happened Sunday evening.

Local Artists Have Received Certificates

Several local artists who have been honored as Scurry County Artist-of-the-Month by the Scurry County Museum have received certificates of commendation signed by Rep. Larry Shaw and Speaker of the House Bill Clayton.

The document is titled Certificate of Citation, and reads, "Extending our most sincere congratulations, we proudly present this certificate to (name of recipient) in honor of being named as Scurry County's Artist-of-the-Month for (name of Month)." The certificates also bear the gold seal of the House of Representatives.

Selection of the Artist-of-the Month has been a project of the museum and the Snyder Palette Club. The artists honored have been Myrtle Joiner, Lu Bright, Donna Sullenger, Pansy Ray, Viola (Peg) Gracey, Liz Bell and Eddie Jo Richardson.

OBITUARIES

Andrew Coble

Andrew N. Coble, 85, of Anton, died Sunday afternoon in Deming, N. M., where he was visiting a son.

Funeral arrangements were to be announced by Hammons Funeral Home in Littlefield.

He was the father of Mrs. Emagene McCullough of Snyder.

Also surviving are three other daughters, four sons, three brothers; three sisters; 34 grandchildren, 51 great-grandchildren and seven great-gramndchildren.

Mrs. Nason

Funeral service was set for 2 p. m. today in the Robert Massie Funeral Home in San Angelo for Mrs. Opal Nason, 76, of Hobbs, N. M. She died Sunday in Methodist Hospital at Lubbock.

The Rev. Robert Lacey, pastor of Northside Bapitst Church in San Angelo, was to officiate, and burial was to be in the Fairmount Cemetery in San Angelo.

She is survived by her huaband, Ralph Nason; a daughter, Nancy Ford of Sunset, Utah; a son, John Wilson of Snyder; a brother, William Hollensed of Sherman and six grandchildren.

Cash Prizes

HERE ARE THE RULES OF THE CONTEST

In each advertisement on this page you will find the contestants in a prominent football game being played around the country this weekend. Get an entry blank from one of the merchants who are helping sponsor this contest and whose message is on this page. Fill in your selection of the WINNING TEAM only...opposite the name of the firm on the entry blank. Then send your complete blank to FOOTBALL CONTEST EDITOR, THE SNYDER DAILY NEWS or bring your entry by the Snyder Daily News office. Entries must be in the hands of the editor by 12 o'clock noon, Friday. Games ending in a tie must be specified as a tie or else it will be considered a miss.

If there is a tie for first place the winners will divide the cash money of $17.50 and no second prize will be given. If there is a first place winner and a tie for second place, the second prize winners will divide the money for the place. If more than two persons tie for second place, no second prize money will be awarded and the cash will be added to next week's prize. Tie for perfect score will split $100. There will be fun for the entire family. Only one entry blank will be permitted from any one person. More than one will disqualify all the person's entries. Scores listed on the entry blank will have no bearing on the choice of the winner. Sign your entry blank and list your address and phone number and watch for the story on next Tuesday's front page for the winners. Hurry now, and get your entry blank from one of the merchants on this page. The contest blank must be in your own handwriting. Employees of The Snyder Daily News and their families are not eligible to enter.
