Pleas Of South Are Ignored By Policy Framers

By FRANCIS M. LE MAY
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, July 20. (AP) — The Democratic convention tonight shouted ratification of a 1944 platform pledging the party, if retained in power, to lead America into an association of sovereign nations to maintain peace—by the use of arms, if necessary.

From the Mississippi delegation, apparently reflecting the southern "revolt" on the race issue, came an attempt to get a roll call on the platform, but the motion failed to get the necessary one-fifth support for such a poll of delegates.

The platform pledged continuation and improvement of the Democratic administration's domestic program, and was loud in its praises of Franklin D. Roosevelt. It promised the "earliest possible release" of wartime economic controls.

South's Pleas Ignored

Ignored were southern pleas for a states rights declaration, although the document made no specific mention of a permanent Fair Employment Practices commission or anti-poll tax and anti-lynching laws, as did the Republican platform adopted here in June.

On the race question, the party declared.

"We believe that racial and religious minorities have the right to live, develop and vote equally with all citizens and share the rights that are guaranteed by our constitution. Congress should exert its full constitutional power to protect those rights."

To augment international associations for world peace, the platform put the party on record for a "world free press," to facilitate free and untrammeled interchange of news among nations.

One Of Shortest In History

The Democratic declaration of principles, embodied in approximately 1,500 words and perhaps the shortest in the party's history, reviewed the party's 12 years of national administration, and in effect declared the party was ready to stand or fall on President Roosevelt's record.

South Registers Protest In Giving 89 Votes To Byrd

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO STADIUM, July 20. Tumultuous Democratic legions handed a fourth presidential nomination tonight to Franklin Delano Roosevelt, its leader through eight years of peace and three of war.

It had become almost a habit with them. Only one ballot was necessary.

The vote was: for Roosevelt 1086 votes.

For Virginia's anti-New Deal senator, Harry F. Byrd: 89.

For James A. Farley, who engineered two elections for the chief executive but balked at a third term, one vote.

South Supports Byrd

The Byrd support came largely from the South, where dissatisfied Wixie delegates had objected to some of the convention's actions.

The pro-Roosevelt delegates from Texas, given half the state's 48 votes when seated, voted all 24 for Roosevelt on the roll call of states. The anti-fourth term led group cast 12 for Roosevelt and 12 for Byrd.

Still undecided was the choice of a running mate to enter the arena with Roosevelt against the Dewey-Bricker Republican ticket.

Vice-President Henry A. Wallace and Senator Harry Truman of Missouri, rode by turns an ebb and flow of a swirling, unperdictable vice-presidential tide.

Barkley Also Still In

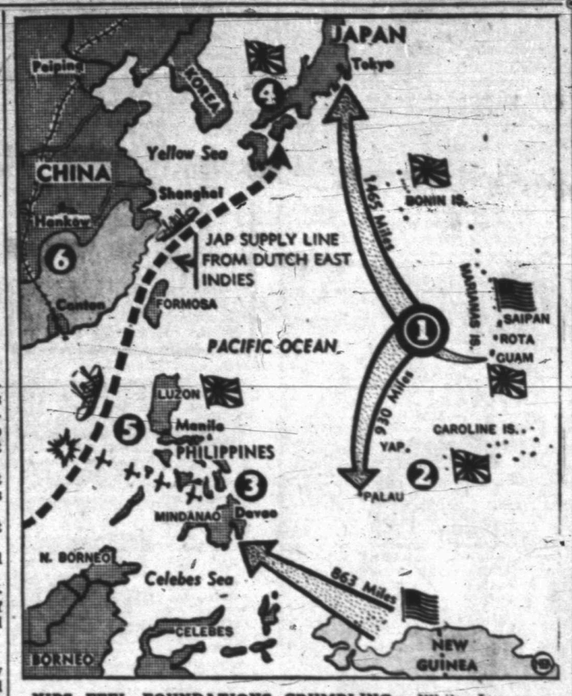

Still in the running, too, was Senate Majority Leader Alben Barkley of Kentucky, whose thunderous voice earlier had placed Mr. Roosevelt's own name in nomination in a moment of unprecedented convention drama.

For the President to stand upon the convention adopted a platform pledging that the United States should join an association of sovereign nations empowered to use armed force, if need be, to preserve the future security of the world.

Thousands and thousands of Democrats packed Chicago's tremendous stadium to hear Barkley's nominating address. At the end there was bedlam.

Delegates, whipped up to a near-delirium of excitement at their

NIPS FEEL FOUNDATIONS CRUMBLING — While Jap warlords were quaking and being shifted about by the "Sons of Heaven" in an effort to find a combination to stop the onrushing American troops, Yanks were consolidating and applying the bomb-torch to areas nearer the Jap homeland than ever before by land-based planes. Two airfields are on Saipan, less than 1,500 miles from Japan. Interesting possibilities for future smashes include: 1. Invasion of Rota and Guam; 2. New amphibious operations to straighten line for attack on Philippines and Jap homeland; 3. Philippines invasion; 4. Twin air attacks on Japan from bases in Pacific and China; 5. Stepping up of air and submarine campaign against Jap supply lines; 6. China's east coast, where ports may be seized.

General, Admiral To Succeed Tojo

(By The Associated Press)

Emperor Hirohito in an unprecedented maneuver apparently designed to strengthen Japan's military rule, yesterday named a general and an admiral jointly to form a new government in succession to that of the fallen Hideki Tojo.

The two chosen as "co-premiers," Gen. Kuniaki Koiso, governor-general of Korea and Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai, who was premier in 1940, both have been considered outstanding proponents of Japanese expansion.

Three-Point Program

In broadcasts from Tokyo, Domei said the new regime would have a three-point program:

1. To separate the military command from administration of the state.

2. To enlist the work "of capable persons selected from among the widest possible fields in the country, with particular emphasis laid on enlisting the services of young statesmen of big caliber and strong character."

3. To "work out administrative problems whereby the entire nation will be given full opportunity to give vent to their irresistible enthusiasm to contribute to the nation's all-out war efforts."

LAND-BASED BOMBERS POUND BONINS AGAIN
By LEONARD MILLIMAN
Associated Press War Editor

Low-flying land-based American bombers have struck 600 miles from Tokyo, where two staunch advocates of Japanese conquest are trying to form a government powerful enough to cope with the deepening U. S. Pacific advance into Japan's war-built empire.

The raid, by Navy Liberators, on the Bonin islands, was only one of the many worries confronting Japan's designated co-premiers—Gen. Kuniaki Koiso, governor general of Korea, and Adm. Mitsumasa Yonai, who was premier in 1940. They were named by Emperor Hirohito to replace the fallen cabinet of Hideki Tojo.

Others Follow Tojo

Lesser government officials followed Tojo into the discard to the accompaniment of American bombs and shells widening the breach in Japan's inner defense line around Saipan island, 1500 miles from Tokyo.

On that island in the southern Marianas, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced yesterday, 19,973 Japanese dead have been buried. Another 1,620 soldiers were captured.

From Saipan, Navy Liberators made their low-flying bombing and strafing raid on Haha and Chichi islands in the Bonins. This is the closest blow to Tokyo ever made from a former Japanese base. One ship was sunk, four left in flames, and 11 seaplanes damaged.

Guam Gets A Rest

Nimitz made no mention of further bombardment of Guam but reported "widespread damage has been done to military objectives" in 15 days of air and naval bombardment.

The fall of Tojo's cabinet virtually supplanted war news in China. Observers there speculated that the change of governments might result in Japan abandoning her attempt to establish a west wall in China and concentrate on trying to halt the Americans.

Ruthless Campaign By Gestapo Ordered

Fuehrer Blames Small Clique Of Officers In Army

By JUDSON O'QUINN
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Friday, July 21. — Adolf Hitler, slightly bruised and burned by a bomb explosion, declared today that a group of German Army officers failed Thursday in an attempt to assassinate him and prepare for a surrender "as in 1918", but he and other speakers in an unprecedented broadcast made it obvious that Germany confronted a major internal crisis if not a widespread revolt against his Nazi regime.

Thirteen of Hitler's personal military staff were injured in the explosion, and Hitler disclosed that one of them had died.

Himmler Put In Charge

In a six-minute address in which his voice ranged from icy anger to shaking frenzy, Hitler announced he had appointed the dreaded Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler as commander-in-chief inside Germany to exterminate the "usurpers."

A subsequent official German announcement said the man who panted the bomb, Col. Count von Stauffenberg, had been shot and ring leaders of the plot had been executed or "committed suicide." But Hitler, Reichsmarshal Herman Goering and Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz, who also spoke, made it clear that despite all their protestations the revolt was too extensive to put down in a night, if at all.

Goering, No. 2 Nazi, accused the plotters of issuing false orders to the troops and of setting up a new government on the false premise that Hitler was dead.

Hitler, Goering and Doenitz all stressed their theme that the armed forces, particularly the Army, were not affected by what they called "mad generals," "former generals" and "a small clique of stupid officers."

But the very preventive measures they outlined indicated that they had at best scotched, not killed, the revolt.

The air force and Navy were told to obey only a tiny handful of specified higher officers, and Hitler, in disclosing the extent of his fears, shouted:

"I order that no military au-

British Smash On East From Caen

By JAMES M. LONG
Associated Press Staff Writer

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Friday, July 21 (AP)—British tanks and infantry smashed into the enemy stronghold of Troarn and threatened to cut it off from the south last night at the height of vicious, fluid fighting that has badly mauled five of 13 German divisions blocking the road to Pris.

In the northernmost of three dryes aimed at the heart of France, the British First seized the railway station of Troarn, eight miles east of Caen, and an infantry column struck out for St. Pair and high ground less than a mile south of Troarn.

A second column pounded straight down the road to Paris and hauled up just short of Vimont, eight miles southeast of the Orne river break-through which punctuated the opening of the British offensive three days ago.

Here, on its left, tanks and infantry knocked the enemy out of Frenouville and were assaulting the stoutest German position in the entire area, an anti-tank screen six and a half miles southeast of Caen, on a two and one-half mile front.

Canadian In Third

The third column, spearheaded by Canadians, drove into a battle on the southeast or the beginning of a German fighting withdrawal toward the French capital. But nowhere had the Nazis been able to stem the advance.

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery protected the right flank of this three-pronged attack by sending forces rolling down the south bank of the Orne river. These units seized Fleury and pressed on south to high ground which commanded the epemy strongpoint of Maltot across the river.

Ten more towns and villages in this arc were swept up, driving the Germans back from positions where their guns might interfere with free Allied use of the docks of the great river port of Caen.

25 Bridges Battered

Twenty-six bridges were destroyed or damaged by the French in a fortnight, and a train carrying flying bombs through eastern France was destroyed and many other trains were derailed, the communique said. One Panzer division en route to the front was delayed 30 hours and lost 80 killed and 300 wounded.

Most of the American positions on the western end of the front remained unchanged during the day, and heavy mists and overcast limited aerial activity.

Reds Launch Eighth Drive

By W. W. HERCHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 20. — Russian troops smashing 32 miles through tottering German lines in the eighth major offensive in 28 days reached the central Bug river tonight only 50 miles from the big rail city of Lublin in the heart of Poland, and in the north, other Soviet forces were only a two-hour march from German East Prussia.

Red Army troops for the first time in the war appeared ready to burst onto the soil of Germany proper in East Prussia, where a Moscow dispatch said "a serious panic" had developed.

Others Break Into Plain

South of the new front, which exploded west of Kowel, other flying Russian columns broke into the plains beyond by-passed Lwow and captured the rail junction of Rawa Ruska, only 200 miles from German Silesia and but 83 miles from the last natural German defense line along the Wisla (Vistula) river, Premier-Marshal Stalin announced in an order of the day.

The Red Army now has hurled perhaps more than 1,500,000 troops simultaneously against an enemy reeling on a winding 700-mile front from Latvia south to Lwow on the approaches to the Carpathian mountains.

Stalin in two orders of the day announced these sweeping Russian gains which put Germany in her gravest hour since the war began in 1939. On Wednesday, Russian troops had crossed the Bug near Sokal, penetrating into German-occupied Poland for the first time since Hitler struck Russia June 22, 1941.

Heavies Batter Ten Nazi Areas

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 20.—Nearly 3,000 American warplanes smashed into Germany from Britain and Italy for the third straight day today and pounded at least ten important objectives in the Leipzig, Munich and Friedrichshafen areas, rounding out the greatest massed air assault ever mounted against the enemy.

Close to 5,000 tons of explosives were hurled down on vital war targets in today's two-direction attacks.

1,200 Heavies Out

More than 1,200 heavy bombers and 750 fighters from Britain attacked plane engine factories at Dessau, Eiytnach and Eisenach-Stockhausen, 100 miles southwest of Leipzig, Messerschmitt assembly plants at Leipzig-Mokau and at Gotha, 80 miles southwest of Leipzig, an aircraft components factory at Russel-Sheim, suburb of Main; a ball-bearing factory at Leipzig and synthetic oil plants near Leipzig and at Merseburg.

An Italian-based force of about 1,000 bombers and fighters attacked an airplane parts factory, the Zeppelin works and an airdrome at Friedrichshafen, and the Memmingen and Bad Worishofin airdromes 75 and 45 miles, respectively, southwest of Munich. Excellent results were reported.

From the entire American force 19 bombers and nine fighters failed to return. Anti-aircraft fire was heavy over some targets.

HENRY GOING BACK

SAN ANTONIO, July 19 (AP)—Claude D. (Cowboy) Henry, whose three-month prison reprieve was ordered revoked last Friday by Gov. Coke Stevenson, was en-route back to prison today. Henry, serving a 50-year penitentiary term assessed in 1940 at Hondo, twice escaped the prison farm at Sugarland.

Texas Regulars Quit Convention

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, July 20 — Thirty-three "regular" Texas delegates walked out of the Democratic convention tonight after southern delegates seeking to wring party concessions to their viewpoint were defeated on every point.

Along with the Texans, a lot of other southerners were sore. Some said that so far as the Roosevelt administration is concerned the "solid south" may be a thing of the past.

Both Delegations Seated

The Texas walkout, with the members singing "The Eyes of Texas are Upon You," came when the convention adopted the report of the credentials committee seating half the delegation picked by the "regular" state Democratic convention and half that from a rival pro-fourth term group.

The day brought one rebuff after another to the Southerners who have been protesting the present party trends as they see them.

Their demand for restoration of the two-thirds nominating rule rejected by the convention's rules committee and their "white supremacy" drive repulsed by the platform framers, they turned their wrath toward firing a volley of "protest" votes against renomination of President Roosevelt for a fourth term.

They gave up their futile fight only after many of them muttered predictions that southern electoral votes would be cast against Mr. Roosevelt in sufficient num-

FDR Accepts From Coast

WITH PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, At A Pacific Coast Naval Station, July 20. — President Roosevelt accepted Democratic renomination for an unprecedented fourth term in the White House tonight and implied it will be his last.

He predicted a world at peace within the next four years and declared, "in any event, new hands will then have full opportunity to realize the ideals which we seek."

The President spoke from a special train which carried him across the continent in secrecy to a Pacific naval base, setting the time for his expressed determination to put the war above political campaigning.

People Have Choice

Mr. Roosevelt made no personal mention of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, his Republican opponent, but he said the voters this fall have the choice of turning the government over to "inexperienced and immature hands" or continuing in office those who already are planning a permanent world peace and security.

The President said his fourth term decision "is based solely on a sense of obligation to serve if called upon to do so by the people of the United States."

He spoke from the presidential train stationed deep inside a Pacific naval base, which he reached after a six-day trip across the country.

War Won't Wait

He said he was at the base "in the performance of my duties under the constitution" and declared:

"The war waits for no elections. Decisions must be made—plans must be laid—strategy must be carried out. . . .

"They do not concern merely a party or group. They will affect the daily lives of Americans for generations to come."

Mr. Roosevelt outlined the administration's post-war aims to join the United States in an international organization, empowered to use military might of participating nations to keep the future peace. Also being planned, he said, are the blueprints for a domestic economy to provide "employment and decent standards of living for all Americans."

Experienced Hands

"The people of the United States will decide this fall whether they wish to turn over this 1944 job—this world-wide job—to inexperienced and immature hands," the President said, "to those who opposed lend lease and international cooperation against the forces of aggression and tyranny until they could read the polls of popular sentiment; or whether they wish to leave it to those who saw the danger from abroad, who met it head-on, and

Yank Smashes Bewilder Nazis

ROME, July 20. (AP)—American troops battered their way across the Arno river valley on a 25-mile front between Pisa and Florence today as German forces, bewildered by the sudden breakthrough, retreated across the Arno into the mountain defenses of their Gothic line.

Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's doughboys held complete control of hill masses overlooking the Arno from the south, and American artillery raked the entire valley in search of Nazi rearguard units protecting the withdrawal of the main body of enemy forces to the north of the stream.

Similar To Rome Tactics

German resistance was confined almost entirely to these small groups armed with automatic weapons—similar tactics to those which delayed the entry of Clark's troops into Rome an entire day. One American column was firmly established on the south bank of the Arno at Pontedera, 12 miles inland from Pisa.

Allied planes continued their methodical destruction of enemy communications in the Po valley of northern Italy, flying 1,400 sorties through yesterday's rain. Twenty-five Allied craft were lost and seven Nazi planes were destroyed.

KFYO Broadcast To Take Place Of Big Election Party

The Avalanche-Journal's traditional downtown election party will go on the air Saturday night with all returns, local, district and state results, being broadcast over radio station KFYO.

Lack of interest in both state and local politics caused the change.

No election returns will be posted on boards in front of the newspaper as in past years but instead returns will be broadcast by KFYO direct from the Avalanche-Journal newsroom as soon as they come in at regular intervals.

So there won't be any need of using up good tires and gasoline to drive downtown this year, just sit at home and listen to returns as they come in. Complete results will be published in Sunday's Avalanche-Journal.

Joe Gets Another Promotion, But He's Afraid It Won't Last Long

By KENNETH L. DIXON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE AEF IN ITALY, July 10 (Delayed) (AP)—Pvt. Joe Hazher is private first class again and he aims to celebrate the "commission" quickly before something else happens.

Joe is a medic from Des Moines, Ia., and the stripe status of his sleeve is changed more often than a woman's mind. He has been a Pfc. three times and was made a T/4 once and T/5 once—but every time something happened.

It started back in Camp Claibourne, La., on May 2, 1941, when Joe first made Pfc. Shortly thereafter he got a pass into town.

"Them buses never run on time in Claibourne," he explained the first busting.

Later he was made Pfc. again and T/4 but well, ah—the bust was made again. And that sort of thing kept up until Joe's shirt sleeve began to look like a practice ground for the sewing circles. He's fatalistic about this new stripe.

"I'll be busted again," he said with assurance. "I don't know what for but I'll do something. I come into this man's army a buck and I'll go out a buck."

Someone out of the cannon company was supposed to go home on 30 days furlough and Capt. Paul W. Blowman, Clearfield, Pa., had to decide who. There were three guys eligible—three top sergeants who came overseas together in April, 1942. They were Lester Mazelin, Monroe, Ind., Bucky Walters, Newark, N. J., and Robert Mucha, Duluth, Minn.

To save the captain further embarassment the three guys agreed to cut the cards. First they had a preliminary cut to see what the final cutting order would be. It was Mazelin, Mucha and Walters.

Then as their buddies gathered and gaped they cut the deck for the big chance. Mazelin cut and turned up a king. Everybody gasped. Mucha cut disspiritedly—and turned up a king. Everybody whistled. Walters was just going through the motions listlessly—and he turned up a third king. Everybody swore in amazement.

To cut the cuttings short they cut again deeply into the deck. Walters cutting first this time got the two of hearts, Mazelin the six of diamonds—and Mucha did the impossible, turning up the fourth king in the deck.

Duluth, here he comes!

Woman Blamed In Dual Slaying

DALLAS, July 20. (AP) — Mrs. Robert L. Hurt, 40, shot her 54-year-old attorney husband to death, then killed herself early today in a bedroom at the couple's apartment, Justice W. L. Sterrett held in an inquest verdict.

The bodies of Hurt, a former Dallas county district attorney, and his wife, were found on a bed. A pistol was clutched in Mrs. Hurt's hand.

Was Third Wife

Eb Hurt, brother of the dead attorney, said the former district attorney's present wife was his third, and that the couple was married at Sherman, Tex., last December. He said the wife was the former Mrs. Carolyn Tomlinson, then residing in Dallas.

Hurt, a grandson of the late James Mann Hurt, chief justice of the Texas Supreme court for 25 years, began his first term as district attorney in 1933, and served four years.

His survivors included a son, Bob, jr., naval ensign now stationed at Corpus Christi and a daughter, Miss Catherine Hurt, of Dallas.

Note Will Is Clue

Chief of Detective Will Fritz said a newly drawn will which was witnessed early this morning, only a few hours before the tragedy, may be the key to the motive which led to the slaying.

He said the will, which had been drawn by Mrs. Hurt and witnessed at about 3:30 a. m. by her sister, Mrs. Alma Darby, and a friend at the latter's home, had not been found Thursday night.

The two witnesses said they did not see the contents of the will, only the signature of Mrs. Hurt.

Historic Milestones Dot Career Of FDR, Known Throughout World

CHICAGO, July 20, (AP)—Franklin Delano Roosevelt, during three White House terms, has become as familiar to the typical American as his Uncle Charley down the block—and probably has wielded a lot more influence on his daily life.

Eleven consecutive years in the White House, in peace and in the world's greatest war, have crowded" F. D. R.'s" career with historic milestones and made him the best-known living American, at home and abroad.

Fully Confident

At 62, this big and debonair man appears looking with every outward show at confidence beyond military victory to the gigantic job of fitting the nation into the peacetime structure of a war-weary world.

In some important respect, that task, if assigned him by the voters in November, will parallel the problems he met when he took office in the depth of the 1940's depression.

It was then that he founded the New Deal, supplanted recently under the stress of world-wide conflict by a new creation of the Roosevelt imagination—Dr. Win-the-War.

Mr. Roosevelt began to practice in 1907, went to the New York state Senate three years later, got his real start in politics when Woodrow Wilson made him assistant secretary of the Navy.

His Love For Sea

That was a spot where the Rooseveltian love for the sea had a chance to bear fruit. By 1919 he was in Europe directing the demobilization of the United States fleet.

The young man was named by the Democrats in 1920 as running mate to presidential nominee James M. Cox. But the political tides were ebbing fast, with the first World war ended, and Cox and Roosevelt were swamped by Republicans Warren G. Harding and Calvin Coolidge.

It was the next year that infantile paralysis struck Franklin Roosevelt — a painful, crippling disease which clamped itself on him at his mother's summer home at Campobello, New Brunswick. Courage that has been applauded as heartily by his enemies as by his friends finally helped him get around on braces.

Named New York Governor

The Roosevelt name began to blaze in the national spotlight after his election as governor of New York in 1928.

A political current which couldn't be stemmed by Herbert Hoover and the Republican organization swept Roosevelt into the presidency in 1932—the electoral vote score 472 to 59.

He took the oath of office and immediately closed the nation's banks—a drastic step prompted by the shuddering repercussions of the darkest depression in American history.

President Roosevelt swiftly took steps to rebuild confidence in business and government, set up the "Blue Eagle" National Recovery administration, and provided food and jobs at public expense for the needy. Congress gave him exactly what he wanted.

Swept Nation In 1936

Immensely popular for his decisive steps in the black days, Roosevelt won unanimous renomination in 1936 and in the fall swept every state except Maine and Vermont from Republican nominee Alf M. Landon.

His honeymoon with Congress barred to an end early in his second term. Mr. Roosevelt wanted to increase the size of the Supreme court, which had knocked out some of his favorite projects as unconstitutional. Although Congress balked, he eventually got to name all but one of the present court.

Mr. Roosevelt clinched a place in the history books with his decision to run for a third term, something no other President had been able to achieve. He told the people that the storm raging over Europe prompted his decision.

Storm Broke In 1939

That storm broke in full fury in 1939. Less than a year of the third term had elapsed when the United States was engulfed in the war by Japan's sneak attack on Pearl Harbor.

Mr. Roosevelt's inner circle began stressing his capacities as commander-in-chief.

At Quebec, Cairo, Casablanca, Teheran, America's only third-term president has met face to face and man to man with other leaders of the United Nations.

It is those personal contacts with Britain's Winston Churchill, Russia's Josef Stalin and China's Chiang Kai-Shek which Roosevelt supporters are emphasizing now as compelling arguments why this nation needs Roosevelt at least four more years.

500,000 Allied Troops Reported In France

HOUSTON, July 20 (AP)—The Allies have poured 500,000 men into France, forcing the Germans to withdraw 50 divisions from the Russian front to strengthen their western European defenses, and the United States during July will build 110 B-29 Superfortresses, Rep. Albert Thomas of Houston told the Lions club today.

Thomas, a member of the House naval affairs committee, said "we have 84 aircraft carriers now and there have been 34 carriers leased to our Allies."

Superfortresses twice have bombed Japanese mainland.

Thomas said that he recently "saw two 45,000 ton aircraft carriers under construction" in an east coast port.

In the opinion of top-flight military men the European war will end by December, Thomas said, and "we can get the Japs well licked in another nine months.

Germany's oil production has been sliced 40 to 60 per cent by air attacks, said Thomas, adding: "Of the 57 refining facilities in Germany, nearly all have been hit. Their aviation production is off 50 per cent."

The Germans are manufacturing about 800 planes a month compared with this nation's output of 8,000 to 8,500 monthly, he said.

Volcano Refugees Begging In Streets

MEXICO CITY, July 20 (AP) — Hundreds of men, women and children, driven from their farms by the lava of Paricutin volcano, are begging in the streets of Uruapan and Galtzontsin, Public Health Minister Gustavo Baz said today.

Dr. Baz has just returned from the Paricutin region, where he studied conditions on instructions from President Avila Camacho to determine what relief measures are necessary.

Dr. Baz said the lava continues covering fields and houses.

Reports from Uruapan said the towns of Los Reyes, Periban, Zirosto and Zacan, all within a 25-mile radius of the volcano, were threatened by the continued lava flow. Paricutin and San Juan Parangarticutiro, towns nearest the volcano, already were abandoned.

Flare-Ups In Axis Nations Open Up New Possibilities Of Victory

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

Bright with distant promise of victory as is the war news from seething fighting fronts on both sides of the world, even nearer and more glittering possibilities have been opened before the eyes of the United Nations fellowship.

SIMPSON

There is plain evidence that defeat is gnawing at both ends of the Nazi-Nipponese war Axis. It can be read in the fall of the Tojo war cabinet in Japan. It underscored Berlin disclosure that a bruised and flame seared Hitler had narrowly escaped death while amidst his hand-picked inner circle corps of personal military and naval aides.

Just what these far separated axis mates cannot yet be adduced events foreshadow for the reeling certainly. But that each is symptomatic of sagging war morale in Germany and Japan alike is axiomatic. They clearly indicate rising disunity within both, hint at impending internal break-downs which could hasten the day of Axis doom.

Tojo's fall unquestionably stemmed directly from sharp internal disagreement within the innermost circle of Japanese military leadership of war strategy. It was an admission of defeat that called for at least an appearance of political hari kiri by the man who had led Japan into the war, and all his closest associates.

The unexplained attack that singed Hitler is no less a symptom that there is growing up in Germany a desire for vengeance on the man responsible.

Weather Favorable In Texas For Truck Crops

AUSTIN, July 20. (U.P.)—Weather for harvesting the few remaining Texas commercial vegetable crops, mainly cantaloups, watermelons and summer potatoes, was favorable the first half of July, the USDA reported today.

Cantaloups planted in the Winter Garden area for late harvest and Panhandle potatoes both are suffering from insects. While most watermelon districts are through harvesting, melons continue to move in large volume.

Childress Officer Loses Two Tanks, But He Fights On

SAIPAN, Marianas Islands (Delayed) (U.P.)—Like the cavalry officer of pre-mechanized warfare days, First Lieutenant Thomas M. Horne had two "mounts shot out from under him" here and fought on.

Horne, son of Mrs. Minnie Horne, Childress, Tex., lost the first tank while attempting to knock out a battery of two Jap three-inch dual purpose guns from 25-yard range.

His third round of 75-mm. fire blasted one gun, but the second gun scored a hit, detracking his tank. He and his crew climbed out and returned safely to the spot, knocked out the second gun, and machine gunned the crew and nearby infantrymen.

He counted 89 Jap bodies there the following day when he went up to salvage the tank.

A magnetic mine was placed by Japs on Lieutenant Horne's second tank when it moved to a nearby hill to clean out snipers from a building. The blast killed the assistant driver and wounded two other crew members. This tank, also, was later salvaged.

The accident in which four persons lost their lives, occurrel last Friday. The body arrived here by train late Thursday.

Besides his father, Pierce is survived by his wife, a stepson and a son, C. A. Pierce, II, of Southgate, Calif.; two brothers, Guy Pierce of Longview and Chardo Pierce of Chicago and two sisters, Mrs. Elma Lowrey of Corpus Christi and Myrtie Pierce, an Army nurse in the war zone in Europe; and two half-sisters, Mrs. Bobbie Lee Garner of Long Beach, Calif.; and Mrs. Jackie Webb of Santa Monica. He had not resided in Lubbock for several years, having worked on many large engineering projects in the western part of the United States.

Demo Committeemen Stress Importance Of Precinct Meets

The Lubbock County Democratic Executive committee in a meeting at the county courthouse Thursday afternoon stressed the importance of precinct conventions in each precinct Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

These conventions are for the purpose of selecting delegates to the county convention to be held in the county courthouse Saturday, July 29, at 2 p. m. Delegates will in turn be selected at this convention to the state party convention in Dallas.

Instructions To Judges

At Thursday's meeting instructions to election judges, who are chairmen of their respective precints, in matters pertaining to Saturday's election were given by Ellis. Election boxes and supplies were also given the judges.

The question of whether or not to allow negroes the right to vote in the first primary was discussed at length. It was finally decided that it would be up to the precinct judges in their respective boxes.

Ellis predicted that Lubbock county's vote would be light in Saturday's primary election, estimating that possibly no more than 10,000 of the potential shower of 16,000 ballots would be cast Saturday.

"The Lubbock county vote apparently has its eye on the November general election," he said. "I can't find evidence of much heat at the moment."

If the voters felt that way, candidates did not match the mood. By radio and press and personal appeal they bombarded the electorate with campaign promises and indicated no letup before some of them are eliminated for two more years.

Excited Radio Man Brings Nazi Rout

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, July 20 (AP)—An isolated American airborne unit which found itself bolstered by a great mass of tanks on D-day, marveled at the slick planning, actually had an excited radio operator to thank.

Headquarters disclosed tonight that the radio man sent a message reporting enemy strength at 150 tanks, instead of the actual 150 men. The high command immediately rushed a big block of armor into the area.

What the force did to the Germans then was really a sight, a high officer said.

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

BECAUSE of our weekly letter to men in service, this will be the last opportunity we will have to remind our readers to go to the polls and vote. You have heard the candidates over the radio, you have read their statements in the paper, you have talked to those who know them, now go to the polls and vote the strength of your convictions. (As they always say in politics).

Like pie and ice cream debate on everything from weather to politics is an old American tradition. Sometimes when we hear die hard Republicans discussing the New Deal, it seems there is nothing in America worth fighting for, but there isn't one of them who wouldn't cut off his right arm if it would help win the war.

When someone can stand up and say that in his opinion we are under a dictatorship and rant and rave about FDR and nothing comes of it except arguments, then you can bet your last dollar if you are a betting person, that that is proof enough we are not ruled by a dictator. Because democracy gives one the chance to criticize his government, his leaders, Congress, the way the country is being run or not being run, if you please. This is democracy the way the Americans like it.

The majority still rules. You just wait until the election returns come in and you'll see.

THEIR OWN STRENGTH

DO BRITISH women think men are more suited to politics than they are?

A male member of Parliament estimated recently that, since they outnumbered the men, English women COULD create a government of their own sex.

But the women do not seem to know their own strength. It is over 25 years since Lady Astor became the first woman member of Parliament. Yet today, there are only 15 women members, out of six hundred and fifteen.

And what about this side of the ocean.

IN THE MAIL

DEAR MARGARET:

I'm awfully busy right here, back at my old job of doing publicity for Ripley. I've been at it a month now, and it seems as though I've never been away — except when I get those wonderful overseas letters!

Incidentally, would you tell your readers to send along any Believe-It-Or-Nots, if they have them? Letters from Lubbock will get special attention, as long as I'm around. I never give the boss any rest, if there's anything from Texas to promote!

Regards,
Mrs. Arnold Blair,

Negroes To Be Barred From Houston Polls

HOUSTON, July 20. (U.P.)—H. O. Cosby, judge of Harris county voting precinct 82, said today that negroes will be barred from casting ballots in the Democratic primary election Saturday, despite contrary orders received from the County Party Chairman, M. L. O. Andrews.

Cosby said he would bar negroes on the grounds that the Supreme court decision under which ballot barriers were removed was still in the process of being appealed and therefore had no legal bearing on this week's election.

The judges will have four blondes, seven brunettes and two redheads to choose from.

"Miss Winged Commando" is to be featured in a short interview on the SPAAF radio program over KFYO at 7:30 o'clock, so the public will bet a look-in on the proceedings too. All the girls were entered in the contest by nomination of soldiers on the field. The contest is to be a popularity contest as well as a beauty contest.

To Be Judges

Judges will include S/Sgt. Walter Reed, Sgt. Eugene Shainen, F/Sgt. Verne E. Schwin, F/Sgt. Charles K. Alexander, F/Sgt. Marion Lewis, Pvt. Joseph A. Klemayer and others yet to be announced.

KANSAS CITY, July 20. (U.P.)—The better business bureau reported today that another trade has been changed to meet the changing time.

"I'm working my way through nurses' training."

Girl Unknowingly "Borrows" $10,000 From Show Owner

FORT WORTH, July 20. (AP)—Three months of carnival life grew wearisome here last weekend for a 19-year-old girl who "set 'em up" in a doll-rack ball-throwing concession, and she went home to Texarkana.

What she didn't know, when she more or less borrowed a suitcase from the trailer of Albert Wright, show owner, was that it contained ten $1,000 bills wrapped in a pice of newspaper and tucked away in a hidden compartment.

Saturday night at about "tearing down" time, Wright discovered his loss. He discovered the pretty rack girl was gone, too, and he put in an appearance at police station.

Police called the police department at Texarkana and had the girl picked up. She still had the bag, and the bag still had the $10,000. City detectives brought it back to Fort Worth today and returned it to Wright, who left to rejoin his carnival. There was no prosecution.

"My, my!" the girl remarked, explaining that she even had made a side trip to Stephenville, still lugging the bag.

Lifting Of Ban On Mexico Feed Asked

SAN ANTNIO, July 20. (U.P.)—In an effort to increase feed supplies for Texas cattle, a recommendation was on its way to Secretary of Agriculture Claud Wickard today urging lifting of a 31-year ban on cottonseed imports from Mexico.

The move grew out of a conference here yesterday of representatives of oil mill interests of both nations with American and Mexican pink bollworm quarantine officials.

Mexican oil mill interests opposed lifting of the quarantine, orginally ordered before pink bollworm infestation crossed the Rio Grande into the U. S., on the grounds that they haven't enough cottonseed to supply the demand.

Manuel Alcazar, Mexico pink bollworm chief, joined U. S. interests in the request to end the quarantine.

Barkley's Nomination Lauds FDR As Typifying Almost Perfection

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, July 20.—Senator Alben W. Barkley, who six months ago laid down the New Deal standard in a bitter but short-lived tax quarrel with the White House, raised it high today with a call for renomination of President Roosevelt as a leader "unsurpassed if ever equalled."

It was another dramatic moment in the relations between the President and his "Dear Alben" of other days, for the Kentucky senator himself is a vice-presidential candidate lacking a favorable nod from the man he was nominating for an unprecedented 16 years as chief executive.

Dramatic Conclusion

Barkley concluded his nominating speech to the throng packed tier on tier in the lofty, echoing stadium with these words:

"I present to this assembly for the office of President of these United States the name of one who is endowed with the intellectual boldness of Thomas Jefferson, the indomitable courage of Andrew Jackson, the faith and patience of Abraham Lincoln, the rugged integrity of Grover Cleveland and the scholarly vision of Woodrow Wilson—Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

Barkley conceded he had disagreed on occasion with the President. But he added, in his prepared address:

"It is one thing to differ from a friend. . . . It is quite another thing to discard, or seem to discard, a leadership unsurpassed if ever equalled in the annals of American history; or to repudiate a record of achievement in national and international affairs so amazing and successful that his friends proclaim it and his enemies dare not threaten it with destruction."

Barkley thrust repeatedly at the Republicans. He termed their recently adopted statement of party policy "a tired old platform" and quipped that it "looks in all directions and sees nothing."

He said the Republican standard-bearer, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, had contended the men in charge of the government "have grown old and tired."

"None of those who are in charge of the government," he rejoined, "are as old as the old guard which dominated the convention which met in this place three weeks ago. . . .

"In this hour of tragedy . . . , when hearts and minds and tongues . . . cry out for peace and deliverance and the leadership of experience in war and its aftermath, no birth certificate . . . can or will constitute the prime qualification for the presidency of these United States."

WALLACE CALLS HIM GREATEST AMERICAN

CHICAGO STADIUM, July 20. (AP)—Vice-President Wallace, describing President Roosevelt as "the greatest living American," said today he would carry the party to victory in November because he stands "unswervingly for the living principles of both political democracy and economic democracy."

Wallace seconded Mr. Roosevelt's nomination for a fourth term by Senator Alben W. Barkley.

Wallace did not refer directly to his own fight for renomination, but said the coming election would be "the most extrordinary" in the history of this country. . . .

"It is appropriate that Roosevelt should run on the basis of his record as a war leader. He is successfully conducting a war bigger than all the rest of our wars put together. He must finish this job before the nation can breathe in safety. The boys at the front know this better than anyone else."

Pimples Disappeared Over Night

Yes, it is true, there is a safe harmless medicated liquid called Kleerex that dries up pimples over night. AUSTIN, July 20. (U.P.)—Jessie Singleton, 44, and W. W. Scott, 31, were killed and Scott's father, M. M. Scott, 51, was wounded in a shooting on the outskirts of the city early today, city police said.

Singleton's 13-year-old son, Lee, was being held in connection with Scott's death and the wounding of the elder Scott, police said. The elder Scott is in the city hospital with wounds in his arm and back, officers said.

Singleton was struck by a bullet from the elder Scott's gun, officers said.

The Scotts went to a house which was occupied by Singleton's sister, officers said, intending to move her belongings with a trailer and pickup truck. Singleton and his son protested the moving, police reported, and the shooting followed. Young Singleton shot with a 22 caliber rifle, police said.

Raw Cabbage Is Vitamin Source

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Raw cabbage packs a big vitamin C wallop. Use it frequently in salads for health and appetite hilarity.

Cabbage and Beet Salad
(Serves 8)

Two cups shredded raw cabbage, 7 cup shredded raw beets, 1 tablespoon grated onion, 1/3 cup mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ½ teaspoon sugar.

Toss cabbage and beets together. Mix onion, mayonnaise, lemon juice and sugar and mix through the vegetables.

Celery Cole Slaw
(Serves 8)

One-half cup vinegar, 1 tablespoon butter or fortified margarine, ¼ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, ⅛ teaspoon black pepper, ¼ teaspoon paprika, ½ head cabbage, shredded, ½ cup diced raw celery.

Bring the vinegar and butter or margarine to a boil. Remove from heat and add all the other ingredients except the cabbage and celery. Allow to cool and pour over the cabbage. Stir well.

Hot Slaw

Two egg yolks, slightly beaten, ¼ cup cold water, ¼ cup vinegar, 1 tablespoon butter or fortified margarine, 1 tablespoon sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 cups shredded cabbage.

Combine egg yolks, water, vinegar, butter or margarine, sugar and salt. Cook on low heat, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Add cabbage and reheat.

"—and anything fat or greasy makes me sick!"

KITCHEN KORNER

Be sure to add Calavo balls or cubes to your fresh fruit cocktail if you want guests to sit up and take notice. The smooth, delicately green colored fruit is appetizing and refreshing in appearance and at the same time provides a wealth of minerals and vitamins.

Interest and good eating qualities of conserves may be heightened when sliced blanched almonds are included in your selected ingredients. Don't delay in getting around to preparing these delectables. Remember what they do for your meals as winter months come on.

If there are hikers in your family, be sure to equip them with a good sized packet of raisins before they take off. Raisins provide significant amounts of food energy and afford pleasant chewiness, too.

Put a few flourishes on cole slaw. Different kinds of salad dressing does it. Also seasonings. Whole mustard seed, celery seed, green peppers, pimientos, or shredded carrots give the old-fashioned stand-by quite an air.

If you can find some apricot whole fruit nectar on the market, you will be pleased to find that it makes a most delectable and refreshing summer gelatin salad. A boiled mustard dressing gives good flavor contrast.

Liver, eggs, green vegetables such as broccoli, kale and zucchini squash, buttermilk and skim milk are some common foods which are excellent sources of pantothenic acid.

To remove face powder from a satin or velvet dress brush lightly with a woolen cloth.

Old-Fashioned Deep-Fish Meat Pie Family Favorite

An old-fashioned deep-dish meat pie is as heart warming as red geraniums on the kitchen window sill, and a practical main dish for any season. The crowning glory of this savory meat, vegetable, and gravy mixture is the crusty browned biscuit topping.

Made with blended shortening, the biscuits are flaky and tender. You may wish to make a double measure of the biscuit dough and serve a platter of high and handsome biscuits with the meal. A crispy green salad completes the menu.

How Can Be Used

Leftover cooked beef, lamb or veal can be used as the meat in this recipe — ham is good, too. Leftover gravy poured over the meat and vegetables blends the combination together. If you haven't any gravy left over, make a savory brown sauce using soup stock (or bouillon cubes dissolved in hot water), seasoning with Worchestershire sauce. Tomato gravy in a meat pie is good, too.

You may wish to add a cup of cooked peas or green beans, or substitute turnip or rutabaga for the carrot in the recipe. Each family has its own favorite combination of meat pie ingredients, but all like a tender biscuit crust.

Deep-Dish Meat Pie
Yield: 6 servings

2 tablespoons blended shortening
1½ cups diced cooked beef, lamb, or veal
Salt, pepper
2 tablespoons flour
1 medium sized onion
1 cup cooked diced potatoes
1 cup cooked diced carrots
Biscuit dough

Season meat. Dredge in flour. Add minced onion and brown in blended shortening. Pour into a baking dish. Heat. Cover top with round or diamond shapes of baking powder biscuit dough ½ inch thick. Bake in a hot oven (435°F) about 20 minutes or until biscuits are well-browned.

Biscuit Dough

¼ cup blended shortening
2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2-3 to ¾ cup milk

Sife together flour, baking powder, and salt. Blend in shortening until mixture is consistency of coarse corn meal. Stir in milk to form a stiff dough. Turn onto lightly floured board or pastry cloth and knead gently 3 or 4 times. Pat out to ¾ inch thickness. Cut into rounds with floured biscuit cutter or into diamond shapes with a knife. Place on hot meat and vegetable mixture. Bake in a hot oven (435°F) 15 to 20 minutes.

Fish supplies the same health-building qualities as meat.

Dried beans and peas help stretch meat points.

Bruised vegetables have less vitamin content.

Ready-to-eat breakfast cereals become much more entrancing to juveniles, and oldsters for that matter, when they are crowned with a smiling, bright, yellow half of a cling peach.

Baked stuffed green peppers, popping over with tender corn and chopped ripe olives, offer one of the best reasons for our enjoyment of the corn and green pepper season. Some prefer the mixture of chopped green pepper, corn, and ripe olives sauteed in fortified margarine, but the combination is irresistible in either form. For such uses the already chopped or sliced ripe olives are economical and convenient.

Texas Marine Credited With Longest Rifle Shot Of War

By T/SGT. MASON BRUNSON

SAIPAN, Marianas Islands (Delayed) — Buddies of Marine Pfc. Hiram W. Westbrook, II, 19, of San Angelo, Tex., are giving him credit today for the longest successful rifle shot of this campaign and possibly of the war—a bull's eye on a Jap at more than 1,100 yards.

Although other Marines verified the distance at over 1,100 yards — or approximately two-thirds of a mile—and saw the Jap soldier fall when Westbrook shot, the modest young sniper himself was reluctant to take credit for the long-range bell ringer, made with telescopic sights.

Given Full Credit

Westbrook said he was "fairly certain" it was his shot that felled the Jap, but pointed out that our mortars had been firing in the same area and added that he didn't want to claim the kill unless he was "absolutely sure of it."

He was given full credit for it, however, by the mortar men and by his fellow snipers. The range was established at a little over 1,100 yards by mortar crews and by other snipers who were using telescopic sights.

"Hunting" Pretty Good

Westbrook is the son of Col. Lawrence Westbrook, who is stationed at Army headquarters, Pentagon building, Washington. His mother resides at San Angelo.

Young Westbrook's long shot was made on June 29. On that day he and several others of our snipers had stationed themselves on a high ledge on the northeast side of Mt. Tapotchau. From there they could look down into the valleys below. The "hunting" had been pretty good that day.

Through his 'scope, Westbrook picked out a Jap walking down a road.

"He was limping," the young sniper said, "and I think he must have been wounded already.

Texan Sighted Carefully

Westbrook said his sights had been set at 800 yards, but he clicked them up to add about 300 yards more to his elevation. Mortar men nearby, who had been dropping shells in the same area, said they had been firing at from 1,100 to 1,500 yards.

The Texan sighted in carefully and the Jap dropped a moment after he pulled the trigger.

"I'm fairly sure I got him," Westbrook said. "Mortars had been landing in there, though, and I don't want to take the credit unless I can be absolutely sure."

Has Developed Range-finder

His section leader, Platoon Sgt. Donald F. Allen, 23, Pueblo, Colo., and another sniper, Sgt. Charles B. McGinnis, 26, of Fairmount, W. Va., both saw the Jap fall and gave Westbrook credit for the kill.

"Westbrook is one of our best men," said Allen. "He's quiet and unassuming and you wouldn't know he's around most of the time. It's kids like him that are winning this war."

Allen said Westbrook had worked out a range-finder for the individual rifleman, a gadget which operates on the same principle as a camera range-finder.

His commanding officer is trying to have it patented and put into production.

War Correspondent Says Boys At Front Pooh-Pooh GOP Platform

CHICAGO STADIUM, July 20. (AP) — War correspondent Quentin Reynolds told the Democratic convention tonight that the men at the fighting fronts know a military and industrial miracle has been performed at home "under the leadership of their commander-in-chief and our—Franklin D. Roosevelt."

And these men have become "very sensitive to a commodity which they call bunk," he said, coupling with that statement a reference to the Republican platform as compounded of "double talk."

Know About Platforms

"Our boys abroad know about platforms," Reynolds declared. "A platform is something you build to throw across a river so that you can get to the other side. Soldiers test every plank in a platform before they use it.

"By now, perhaps they have waded through the delightful double talk of the Republican platform and I doubt if they've found a half a dozen planks in it strong enough to bear even the light load of the Republican promises."

Reynolds called no names but much of his speech appeared couched in reply to Republican Representative Clare Boothe Luce's address last month to the opposition party's conclave. Miss Luce, among other things, questioned whether "G. I. Joe" and his slain brother "G. I. Jim" might not have found another fate had the nation's foreign policy been in other hands than President Roosevelt's in the immediate pre-war years.

No Presumption To Speak

"I do not propose to speak for your son abroad and I would never commit the unholy sacrilege of speaking for his dead brother who has been killed in combat," Reynolds said.

"No man — or woman — can speak for him. We can only accept his sacrifice humbly and not presume to speak for him with our unworthy tongues."

But he had lived with the G. I. Joes, Reynolds said, and he knew one of the first things they had learned was that this is no "foreign war."

"This was no war that any leader of ours has brought us into," he continued. "It was a war that was forced upon us. It was, in effect, a world revolution aimed by Germany and Japan, not at any one country, but at all types of society not their own."

Realized It Too Late

Many were late to realize it, Reynolds said, quoting Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio as saying as late as August, 1940, that he could not vote for the Selective Service act because "no necessity exists requiring such tragic action."

Then, recalling President Roosevelt's 1937 speech in Chicago proposing a "quarantine" of aggressor nations, Reynolds said, "one voice kept warning us, one man charted us through the dangerous shoals of wartime diplomacy, doing everything in his power to avert the catastrophe."

"ROBOT" STUDIED IN U. S.

DAYTON, O., July 20 (AP) — Army air force material command officers at Wright field disclosed today that a Nazi robot bomb had been shipped here from England, and was being studied closely in an attempt to learn all its secrets.

Board Delays Setting Of State Tax Rate Until Around August 1

AUSTIN, July 20. (AP) — Members of the state automatic tax board indicated today that the state tax rate on which taxes will be paid beginning Oct. 1 will not be set until about Aug. 1.

Their statutory meeting today was recessed subject to call of the chairman, Gov. Coke R. Stevenson, because property valuation estimates have not been received from 14 counties. Comptroller George Sheppard and Treasurer Jesse James are other members of the board.

Rate Hinges On Opinion

Whether the present 47-cent rate on $100 property valuations will be decreased may hinge on an opinion which the attorney general is to render on validity of transfer of about $6,000,000 from the available school fund balance at end of the current fiscal year, Aug. 31.

The state board of education recently authorized the transfer, subject to the opinion, to supplement by $4 the state school apportionment of $25 per capita.

Comptroller's statistician Bob Calvert told tax board members that valuations are slightly increased over last year's $3,911,517,620. This excludes an allowance of about $700,000,000 for homestead exemptions, Calvert said.

The present tax rate is divided 35 cents ad valorem for the general revenue fund, 10 cents for the available school fund and two cents for the Confederate pension fund. The school rate is the only unit which is flexible.

Most Taxes Discounted

Last year school tax collections accounted for about $23 of the $25 per capita apportionment.

Sheppard said about 75 per cent of the taxes levied last year were collected in the three months during which discounts are given, October, November and December. He said collections were now about 91 per cent of the total and that delinquencies were lowest since before 1930.

Calvert estimated that the state would receive about $33,000,000 from oil taxes this year, compared with $25,000,000 last year. He believed that the state's general revenue fund deficit would be eliminated by about Dec. 1 if the high collection rate continues.

Easing Of Embargo On Burrus Asked

FORT WORTH, July 20. (AP)—Easing of grain shipment congestion in the yards of Fort Worth elevators resulted today in the recommendation of C. P. Wasson of Dallas, district manager of the American Association of Railroads carloading division, that the shipping embargo against Burrus Mill and Elevators company be lifted.

"I haven't received confirmation from the AAR's embargo office in Chicago yet," Wasson told the Star-Telegram, "but I think we're safe in assuming that the embargo will be off by Thursday morning."

By unloading more than fifty cars today, he said, Burrus was "practically" within the limit of the three day "bank" of cars.

Most Texas Congressmen Facing Aggressive Primary Opponents

By WALTER P. BOSWELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, July 20—Most of Texas' 21 congressmen, including Speaker Rayburn of Bonham, are battling aggressive opponents in the eleciton races which reach a decisive hurdle in the state's Democratic first primary Saturday.

Such veterans as Rayburn, Hatton Sumners of Dallas, Joseph Mansfield of Columbus, Wright Patman of Texarkana, Nat Patton of Crockett, and Luther Johnson of Corsicana, as well as incumbents of less congressional age, have been faced by determined campaigners.

Draw Much Interest

Outside the Texas Democratic intra-party squabble over the fourth term, the congressional races have drawn the greatest interest in a war-time general election year which will see nomination of candidates for state and county officers from governor to constable.

Many of the issues are home grown, but in at least four districts the incumbents—Mansfield, Sumners, Ed Gossett of Wichita Falls, and Sam Russell of Stephenville—have asserted that the CIO Political Action committee is against them.

The decision of Rep. Martin Dies, chairman of the House Committee on Unamerican Activities, not to run again in the Second district, assured one new Texas face in Congress. Campaigning to succeed him are J. M. Combs of Beaumont, former Texas Appeals Court justice, and Sgt. Hugh Wilson of Camp Swift and Port Arthur.

Only Four Unopposed

Only Representatives Milton West of Brownsville, Ewing Thomason of El Paso, Paul Kilday of San Antonio, and O. C. Fisher of San Angelo were unopposed. They will go on the general election ballot as nominees without the bother of Saturday's primary or the runoff Aug. 26. Democratic nomination in Texas has, with few historical exceptions, meant election.

Topping state races are those of 56-year-old Governor Coke Stevenson, seeking re-election against nine candidates, including Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cunningham, 62, of New Waverly; the lieutenant-governorship, where three candidates seek to unseat incumbent John Lee Smith, and the attorney general's race in which Jesse Martin of Fort Worth and Fred Erisman of Longview are candidates against Grover Sellers, the incumbent.

Two Oppose Rayburn

Rayburn, 32 years the representative from Texas' Fourth district, is opposed by State Senator G. C. Morris of Greenville and Rev. George Balch of Commerce, who ran against Rayburn in 1942.

Sumners has claimed the CIO committee is supporting Judge J. Frank Wilson, one of his opponents. His other opponent is bearded Cyclone Davis, jr.

Patman, seeking his ninth term in the First district, is opposed by former Texas legislator Abe Mays of Atlanta, and State Senator E. Harold Beck of Texarkana.

Mansfield, 84, has four opponents in the Ninth district: State Senator L. J. Sulak of La Grange, Flight Instructor Charles Krueger of Bellville; Maj. Ben E. Faber of Eagle Lake, and George Barron, superintendent of schools at Yoakum.

Patton and Lanham

Patton, ten years in Congress, has District Attorney Tom Pickett of Palestine and Capt. Andrew Brannen of Groveton as opponents in district seven.

Fritz Lanham of Fort Worth, seeking a 14th term, in district 12, is opposed by O. A. Cole, and Cole's wife, Mrs. Clory Cole; State Representative Virgil Goodman; Dr. F. E. Harrington, who ran against Lanham two years ago; John J. Connolly, insurance statistician, and F. E. Covey. All Lanham's opponents are from Fort Worth.

Luther Johnson, seeking a 12th term in the Sixth district, is opposed by Shester North, Waxahachie feed dealer and World war One veteran.

Beckworth Faces Scrap

The Third district congressman, Lindley Beckworth of Gladewater has opposition from Capt. D. S. Meredith, jr., former Gregg county district judge, who is with the Army in the South Pacific, and from E. A. Martin, Longview attorney.

The team campaigning against Beckworth includes Morgan Sanders of Canton, who Beckworth upset from a congressional seat in 1938.

Other districts, incumbents listed first:

8—Albert Thomas of Houston; Jock Buckley Houston, and George Leonberger, Houston.

10—Lyndon Johnson, Johnson City; Buck Taylor, Austin.

11—Bob Poage, Waco; Walter D. Hardin, Waco; A. Judson Henderson, Killeen.

13—Ed Gossett, Wichita Falls; State Senator George Moffett, Chillicothe.

14—Richard M. Kleberg, Corpus Chirsti; Capt. John E. Lyles, Corpus Christi.

17—Sam M. Russell, Stephenville; R. M. Wagstaff, Abilene; Clyde Garrett of Eastland, former member of Congress; Joe E. Fitzgerald, Stephenville.

18—Eugene Worley, Shamrock; Lamarr Bailey, Amarillo.

19—George Mahon, Colorado City; C. L. (Speedy) Harris, Spur.

Districts of the unopposed for are West, 15; Thomason, 16; Kilday, 20, and Fisher, 21.

Male sealions have been known to reach a weight of 1,800 pounds.

Dodgers Plan Shift Of Infield Lineup

NEW YORK, July 20. (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers acquired 20-year-old Barney Koch today from their Montreal farm club of the International League in exchange for Eddie Basinski, who had a trial of several weeks in the team's infield.

The Dodgers also announced that infielder Eddie Miksis had been sent to Trenton, N. J., of the Interstates League on option.

Manager Leo Durocher said he intended to use Koch at second base and that he would move Eddie Stanky to the shortstop post.

Dick Siebert, first baseman for the Philadelphia Athletics, has played with 10 different teams in organized ball. He began with Waynesboro in the Blue Ridge league in 1930.

Dallas Schoolboy Is Signed Up By Utica

DALLAS, July 20 (AP)—William G. Bramham, president of the minor leagues, disclosed that Bill Sanders, Dallas schoolboy who has been the center of a baseball controversy here, signed a contract with Utica of the Eastern League, George White, sports editor of the Dallas Morning News, said tonight.

Bramham in a telegram said he was informed that Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, was investigating "some angle of the case."

Sanders, 15, and with two more years of eligibility in interscholastic sports, was the subject of protest by Dallas high school coaches and Athletic Director P. C. Cobb recently when it was reported he had been signed by a scout for the Philadelphia Nationals to report to Indianapolis of the American Association.

"Sanders since has returned to Dallas, reportedly under orders of baseball commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis, who steadfastly has refused to commit himself publicly on the case," White said.

OUR PLEDGE

WE pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands: One Nation, indivisible, with Liberty and Justice for all.

CIO Reaches For US!

IF ANYONE in Lubbock or on the South Plains is under the impression that activities of the CIO Political Action Committee are something that is taking place far away, it is time to awaken.

It is time to realize that no portion of this land is so remote as to escape the attention of the CIO political committee. It is time to know that these labor czars are attempting to pull the wires from their sumptuous offices back East which will determine the outcomes of elections in all states and in all districts—including Texas and our own South Plains.

The bid for political domination of the nation now being made by CIO is, in many respects, the most astonishing—the most incredible—thing of its kind in history. It is an attempt to fill practically all key positions in this nation with officeholders who will be obedient to the CIO.

The first objective of the PAC is, of course, the Presidency. More specifically, this means the continuation of Franklin D. Roosevelt in office. Next to that, PAC is seeking control of Congress by "purging" those who will not be dominated by CIO, and by electing those who will. After that, the CIO group is fighting for the control of as many legislatures and as many state offices throughout the Union as it can get.

For the prosecution of this fight, PAC has been supplied with an enormous slush fund—millions of dollars. This money has come from millions of war plant workers who have been compelled to pay dues to the union in order to obtain and hold their jobs.

ILLUSTRATIVE of what is being attempted is a huge poster which has come into the possession of the editor of Avalanche-Journal Newspapers. It is addressed "to organized labor" under the caption of, "1944 Poloitical Bulletin," with the request that it be posted on labor bulletin boards and elsewhere. Upon it are listed all the candidates for all the congressional, state and legislative offices in Texas involved in tomorrow's Democratic primary. With the listing of names is reported the purported "labor record" of each candidate.

Space does not permit the listing of all those names here, but here are some which, we believe, are of most interest in this territory:

For Congress—The vote record of Congressman George Mahon is reported as being, "for labor, 12, against labor 18, noting voting 1." For C. L. Harris, who is opposing Mr. Mahon, the listing is thus, and we quote: "C. L. (Speedy) Harris, Texas Legislature, 45th and 46th Sessions, 11 favorable and 1 unfavorable" votes on proposed labor legislation.

In the State Senate race in this district, circumstances have been such that Sterling J. Parrish is unopposed for the Democratic nomination. This notation is printed with his name: "No legislative record. Recommended."

In the 119th representative district race, the notation, "no record," appears beside the name of each of the three candidates.

Now, as to some of the races for state offices:

For lieutenant governor, the incumbent, John Lee Smith, is branded as "antagonistic to labor." Lee Satterwhite is supported for the office as having been "always fair to the working classes."

For Associate Justice of the Texas Supreme Court, Judge Richard Critz, seeking re-election, is assigned this record: "His opinions are invariably antagonistic to Labor's interests." Gordon Simpson, an opponent, is credited with a "100 per cent record for labor."

For Commissioner of Agriculture, defeat of Commissioner J. E. McDonald is sought because, and we quote, he "is now waging a campaign against Roosevelt's renomination."

MOST people readily understand the strategy of the labor group. It is as old as politics. The CIO czars know, of course, that their membership represents a very small minority of all voters. But their expectation is that the non-labor vote (and we don't mean anti-union or anti-labor vote) will be divided fairly evenly among various candidates, the hope and plan being that this strength will be enough to elect. Naturally, if these favored candidates are victors, labor will claim the credit, and will demand subservience of the officeholder.

Are the CIO czars going to succeed in this strategy in Texas and in our own territory? Tomorrow will answer that question. If they don't succeed, it certainly won't be because they aren't trying.

Withhold not good from them to whom it is due, when it is in the power of thine hand to do it.

Say not unto thy neighbor, Go, and come again, and tomorrow I will give; When thou hast it by thee.

EXPLANATION OF CARTOON

THE FIRST AMERICAN PROHIBITION AGENT

Oratum was the chief of the Achkinesbacky Indians, inhabitants of what is now the State of New Jersey.

He was appointed as the first American prohibition agent by Peter Stuyvesant, the picturesque last Dutch Governor of New York. The appointment dated March 30, 1662, carried with it the authorization to seize all the brandy brought into the Indian Country, to arrest the carriers, and to arraign them before the Governor for trial.

To Those Who Came In Late: This is the story of what happened to Pinky Harrison after he was killed in a foxhole. The scene is Heavenly Bend Junction, half-way point between the Earth and Big Valley. Travelers stay here until they stop looking back to Earth.

XXII

SAMMY stood watching them, with his hands on his hips. "All right, he's going to be okay now. Can we go on now?"

"No, you can't go on," God told him firmly.

"There, you see! You don't want to listen!" Exasperated, Sammy turned to the others. "Sure, the old guy got scared. I was just coming home, and I saw him from the porch. Starting out for the Big Valley and stopping to sit there on the bench for a while, and what happens? You all heard what happened. Only he gets caught out in it! Well, it can happen to you sometime, too. How long are you going to let this go on, huh? You listen to Sammy, and I'm telling you, you'll know what to do!" He began to move back to his soap box, as he talked. "What I say is 'to hell with earth' . . . let's wash our hands of the whole damn thing! They're getting their wars closer to us all the time, so let's move out . . . that's what Sammy says!"

A few, puzzled and interested, began to talk up to him.

"How do you mean? Leave here?"

"Sure—build ourselves another place, further up. Get really high this time, and I mean high. And cut 'em off . . . to hell with them. Cut the train service. Evacuate this place. Leave 'em to stew in their own juice. To hell with them."

Emily, as she listened, shook her head. It reminded her, in a way, of speeches she had commented on back in 1937, 1938, 1939 . . . isolationists shooting off their mouths. "You can't do that, Sammy! The world's trouble is our trouble! Isn't that right, Father?"

She turned toward the bench, and stared. Only Timothy was there.

Nearby, the baby carriage was empty, too.

They all saw it now, and were puzzled. Only Pinky knew what it meant. He turned to Sammy, and said quietly: "You've got to wait . . . You've got to give him another chance!"

THE fragrance of the wisteria was sweet that night, but nobody noticed.

They waited on the porch: tense, craning forward, listening for every footstep along the quiet street.

Little Phillip Allerton was swinging on the gate, and the gate creaked as usual.

After a while, Betty Allerton couldn't stand it any longer. "Phillip, I wish you wouldn't do that."

"I got to keep looking for him, don't I? There's somebody now!"

But it was only Matt shuffling toward them.

"Did you get Timothy back to the Big Valley?" Julie called down to him.

Matt nodded. "He's going to be all right. Haven't seen any signs of the old man?"

That's just what we were going to ask you."

Matt shook his head. "I went out to Lookout Point twice, but it's windy waiting out there."

Julie sighed. "Well, come up here with the rest of us."

"Why doesn't somebody look through the telescope?" Matt suggested.

"We looked," Pinky told him, "but the smoke's so bad you can't see anything."

"Couldn't see him anyway," Mrs. Johnson reminded them. "Nobody can see him when he goes to earth."

"We could have told about the baby, whether he got her back or not," Ada pointed out.

"Yes, I suppose."

"Well, I don't know." It was Julie's turn now to shake her head. "I got the funniest feeling in my bones."

Emily shuddered. "Julie, don't say that."

"It's true." Then Julie rose quickly, peered down the street. "Who's that?"

"Hello, Uncle Lawd," little Phillip called eagerly, recognizing him at once. He could always tell by the way his coat-tails swung.

De Lawd loomed into close view. "Hello, sonny." Then, embarrassedly, he glanced up toward the others. "I'm sorry, everyone. I don't mean to be coming by here like this all the time, but it's kind of important to all of us, you know."

"Course it is," Julie assured him warmly. "We'll let you know the first thing. Oh, and lobk . . ." she picked up the napkin-covered plate that was beside her, took it down to the gate to him. "Want to take this to Rose? Nobody ate very much here tonight. Shame to let it go to waste. Got whipped cream on it."

De Lawd smiled gratefully. "She'll appreciate that. Well, we'll all keep hoping. Let me know."

And off he went.

Half-way down the block, he met Jehovah and Mr. Caterwaller, walking arm in arm, in the friendliest of fashion. "No word yet, Cousin Jehovah," De Lawd told him, and went on toward his house.

Nevertheless, Jehovah and Caterwaller continued on down the block to God's house, waited there with the others, sitting on the steps.

Laredo Had Rationing, Ceilings In 1812

DALLAS, July 20 (AP) — One hundred and thirty-two years ago a Texas city, Laredo, had rationing and price ceilings, the Office of Price Administrations weekly news letter reports.

The information, says the news letter, was uncovered by Federal Judge Allen B. Hanny of Houston while studying historical documents in connection with suits involving claims by purported heirs of four Spanish grandees to valuable oil lands.

It was in 1812, during the uprising of Mexico against Spain that the city fathers of Laredo placed price ceilings on meat, candles, bread, hay, stove wood and lard, and rationed beans and corn according to age groups, the news letter reports.

The penalty for violation was twenty-five pesos fine, doubled and trebled for second and third offenses.

South Africa, which had only three factories equipped to produce war materials in 1939, had 600 by 1941.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

A ONE-GALLON bottle half-filled with coins and bills, amounting to $42 was stolen from the counter of Gerken's confectionery store at Lake Ronkonkoma, a Long Island resort village.

The bottle was the repository for a fund being collected to give a welcome-home celebration for the 190 Lake Ronkonkoma men in the armed services when the war is over.

When the theft was discovered, John Gerken, owner of the store, closed up shop and so did all the other merchants in the village. Every parked car was searched, every passer-by was questioned, every suspicious-looking summer visitor was carefully scrutinized.

So far the missing bottle-bank has not been recovered. Maybe it never will be found.

But the story is interesting, nevertheless.

It is gratifying to see an example of that old-fashioned neighborly spirit, that "all-for-one-and-one-for-all" idea, which has gone out of our lives to such a great extent.

Here, in the midst of a busy summer-resort season, every shopkeeper closes his store to serve a common cause.

That bottle belonged to the community, that fund was for a common cause.

Why can't we find more community interests, more common causes to keep us busy? If we did we would probably have less time to think of our own little troubles and our own problems.

I have been reading a lot of the recent War bond advertisments, and so have you.

They were very elegant, very beautifully done and very professional.

But somehow, many of them missed the mark.

One of the advertisements offered an oil portrait to the largest buyer. Another offered nylon hose, a third seats to a magician's show — the best seats to be given to the purchaser of the largest amount.

Other ads stressed the safety of the investment, the nice interest, the things that could be bought when the bonds came due.

I HAVE bought my share of war bonds and so have you.

Why? Because of any inducements held out to us?

No, you and I have bought our bonds, because our country is in danger, because it is our plain, simple duty to help it all we can.

I think you would have bought just as much if these bonds didn't pay one penny of interest.

I don't expect any interest on my mother, my wife, my garden, the sun which I enjoy, the moon that shines on me.

I don't even expect any interest on the affection I give to my little dog.

Interest on Liberty, on the privilege of being an American?

Funny that that stolen bottle in Ronkonkoma should have made me think of all this.

And yet, in that bottle was the fund to celebrate victory and freedom.

Isn't a War bond the same thing?

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

CHICAGO, July 20.—Democratic strategists here are banking on three numerically important groups to re-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt to the White House—the woman, organized and unorganized labor, and the colored people. With their presidential slate and platform virtually selected, they can afford to map basic and far-reaching campaign plans.

For the first time in American history the two major parties—these same considerations apply to the Republicans—depend for victory on three elements of the electorate who cannot be identified definitely as administration or opposition partisans. The 1944 contest, as the politicos here and at Albany freely admit, will be the grandest and merriest free-for-all in the exciting annals of national politics.

Political bosses as such will take a back seat in the fourth-term hayride. Their organizational tactics and patronage may tend to drag the regulars to the polls, but they will constitute a minority of the November 7 turnout. The outcome will hang on the last minute ballot-box behavior of unknowables and unpredictables who will make up about 70 per cent of the total, countrywide vote.

DELEGATES: A greater number of women than men will cast ballots, by reason of the industrial migration and the fact that more than 10,000,000 males are serving here or abroad in the armed services.

The ladies appear to be more politically conscious than ever before, largely because both foreign and domestic issues touch home and family more intimately than in the past. Aside from rising prices, rationing and other war restrictions, it is the first time since they obtained suffrage that they will go to the polls in the midst of a war.

The President's advisers think he has an advantage with them because of his greater experience as commander-in-chief. They hold that many a mother who might otherwise vote for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey will sink her prejudices and return FDR to the White House for the sake of her soldier-sons. No one denies the potency of that argument.

Both parties recognize the newly won strength of the feminine faction and are wooing it assiduously. Clare Boothe Luce and Actress Helen Gahagan Douglas have been headline orators. Women have served in key positions on important convention committees at both Chicago assemblages. More of them are here as delegates than have shown up at previous meetings. And because of the shortage of political manpower they will be drafted to ring doorbells, make speeches and distribute literature during the campaign.

In politics as in love, however, the darlings remain a mystery. But if the thousand newspaper and radio analysts gathered here in the press boxes and hotel corridors could predict how the sweethearts will act next November, they might be able to give the Roosevelt-Dewey score right now.

UNIONS: Labor likewise plays a dominant role. More than 50,000,000 people are employed in war factories, as against 30,000,000-plus four years ago and far fewer in 1936 and 1932. The number belonging to unions of one kind or another totals more than 14,000,000, as against only about 3,000,000 when Mr. Roosevelt took office in 1933.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, estimates that at least 80 per cent of the workers will vote for FDR. Sidney Hillman and Philip Murray, CIO leaders, seek to boost that percentage to 95 by intensive, well-organized and heavily financed campaigning in the factory districts. They have set up registration booths in numerous plants, and those who don't line up properly may be ostracized. In this way they have readier access to and control over industrial migrants than the recognized political leaders of the community.

The CIO has not been uniformly successful. Many resent the Hillman-Murray activities. The union bosses have won in primaries and special elections where conditions were favorable, as in Massachusetts, Los Angeles, Oregon. But they have lost in Maine, Pennsylvania, New York City and elsewhere. Recent polls suggest that a CIO label may hurt rather than help a candidate.

APPEAL: Two powerful labor organizations may offset the "one big industrial union's" efforts. These are John L. Lewis's United Mine Workers and the influential Railway Brotherhoods. Their rank and file are supposed to be sore over the administration's handling of their wage disputes. Although less vocal and obstreperous than the CIO, they are reported to be doing some hard, quiet precinct work against the White House.

The colored folk, if they vote as a unit, could tip over the barrel in at least eight electorally vital states. It is believed that in the past they supported the President almost unanimously.

In recent special congressional elections in Baltimore, New York, Philadelphia and other cities they seem to have returned to the party of Abraham Lincoln. But there is no certainty that they will vote Republican with a Roosevelt at the head of the Democratic ticket.

The platform framed here this week does not match the GOP's in its appeal to this group. But the Hanneganites count on Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt's promises and actions, formation of the Fair Employment Practice Committee and the New Deal's sympathy for the downtrodden to counteract the opposition's love call.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

EXPECT a fanfare of Government trumpets calling attention to the Pacific—not merely to proclaim new victories but to give, also, a realistic picture of the problems yet to be solved.

The joint chiefs of staff and war production industrialists, especially the shipbuilders, are upset because a large proportion of the public thinks that the German campaign is in the bag and that after it is over, the Japanese phase of the war will be short and snappy. Politicians are encouraging such notions with their promises to end the fighting quickly.

SHIPS: There is no doubt in the military mind that Japan is doomed. Our brave men on Saipan proved that we can outfight the Nips even on their home grounds.

But we paid dearly in taking that stronghold. The only way future losses can be kept down is by giving our men an overwhelming superiority in tanks, planes, guns, etc., making steel the substitute for blood.

This calls for more boats to transport equipment overseas. Hence Vice Admiral Emory S. Land announces that 2,500,000 tons of cargo vessels have been added to his 1944-45 building program, including 262 freighters and tankers.

These will be required not only in the Pacific but also in the Atlantic, as the campaign in France is consuming larger quantities of munitions than estimated, and widespread destruction of French property has increased rehabilitation needs.

This Year In Texas Politics

Two Oppose Seventh Term For School Supt. Woods

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

STATE Superintendent of Public Instruction L. A. Woods, seeking re-nomination to the post in the Democratic primary election, has two opponents, Walter Scott McNutt of Jefferson and Earl Rogers of San Marcos.

Here in brief is the line-up of candidates, who they are and what they advocate:

McNutt: president of Jefferson college, has taught in Texas rural and city schools and colleges at Creedmor, Penelope and Brownwood, and in the University of Cincinnati and Florida State College for Women. He holds two degrees from the University of Texas, and the Ph. D. from the University of Cincinnati. He is the author of numerous textbooks, and was once in the race for the governorship of Arkansas. He is running on a 14-point platform, including: better paid teachers.

Ex-Employe Running

Rogers: has been active in Texas public schools for 20 years. He is now principal and director of education at San Marcos Baptist academy. Rogers received his A. B. degree at Howard Payne college and his M. A. at Southern Methodist university. He is a veteran of World War I, and served in the State Department of Education under the late S. M. N. Marrs and the incumbent for more than two years.

Rogers has been teacher, principal or superintendent in several school systems, including Wichita county, Electra and Denison. He pledged himself to "give the people of Texas an educational, not a political administration."

WOODS: born in Newton county and brought up in San Augustine county. Taught school in that area before he moved to Waco, where he taught and became county superintendent. From that post, he was elected state superintendent, to which office he has clung six terms. He seeks re-election on his record as state superintendent and as a school man.

"Barefoot Boy" Seeks Office

Texans every two years elect one member of the State Supreme court, but seldom has the race for this job been enlivened as it has this year.

Associate Justice Richard Critz, seeking re-election, is opposed by four lawyers, including Tom Smiley of Karnes City, who went barefoot for nine months in the early part of the war to help alleviate the shortage of leather. Another opopnent is Lt. Col. Gordon Simpson of Tyler who is serving overseas, and whose friends say will resign from the army to take the judicial post if he is elected.

Others in the race are James B. Hubbard of Corpus Christi and Charles T. Rowland of Fort Worth.

HERE are biographical and professional sketches of the candidates:

Critz: born in Mississippi and moved to Texas with parents in 1892. He was educated at Southwestern university, Georgetown. He still maintains his legal residence at Georgetown. Critz was licensed to practice law in 1902 and for eight years was county judge. Gov. Dan Moody appointed him as a member of the Supreme court's Commission of Appeals in 1927, and he was appointed associate justice by Gov. James V. Allred in 1935. He was elected to the office in 1938 and has served continuously since. When Critz became a member of the Commission of Appeals, there were approximately 500 pending cases on the docket; today the court is caught up with its docket for the first time in 50 years. Critz has written hundreds of opinions. He was married in 1906 to Miss Nora Lamb, and they have four children, two daughters and two sons.

Hubbard: born in Mississippi and educated at Jefferson college, Washington, Miss., University of Texas, and the University of Chicago. He was superintendent of schools at Belton from 1902 until 1909, and was elected district judge in 1917 after a number of years in the private practice of law. In 1929, Hubbard moved to Corpus Christi, where he has been continuously in the practice of law since.

He has tried hundreds of cases in the lower courts, and more than 100 cases in the various appellate courts.

Ex-Legislator Running

Rowland: born on a farm 10 miles west of Fort Worth, and educated in Veal's Station college and Springtown Male and Female Institute, both now defunct. He and Mrs. Rowland are parents of a son and two daughters. Rowland is licensed to practice both before the state and United States Supreme courts, and has been in the general practice of law for more than 40 years. He is a former representative in the legislature from Tarrant county.

SIMPSON: Tyler lawyer, now a lieutenant colonal in the United States Army in the North Africa-Italy area, who, if elected, will resign to assume office in accordance with law. He was born at Gilmer in 1894 and he and Mrs. Simpson have two daughters. Col. Simpson received his B. A. and law degrees at Baylor university; he served in World War I and was a lieutenant when discharged. He was a member of the House of Representatives in the legislature in 1922-24; district judge at Tyler in 1926-28; practiced law at Tyler from 1919 to 1942. He was president of the state bar association in 1942-42, and volunteered for service in the Judge Advocate General's department soon after the start of World War II. Friends of Col. Simpson filed his petition for candidacy, and are conducting his campaign.

Houston Man Faces Life Imprisonment On Wife's Charge

HOUSTON, July 20. (U.P.)—Homer G. Edwards, central figure in a sensational 1930 murder case, today faced the prospect of spending the rest of his life in the penitentiary because of a charge filed against him by the woman he married by proxy from a prison cell seven years ago.

Gov. Coke R. Stevenson revoked Edwards' parole after Mrs. Edwards filed a charge of aggravated assault against her husband last Saturday, alleging that he had beaten her.

His wife was tearful and filled with remorse today.

"I knew when I filed the charge it would mean he went back to prison for life, but I was mad at being beaten up. I don't want him to go go back though. I want him to get a break," said the woman, who met Edwards in 1931 when he was a fugitive in Alabama from the Texas state insane hospital at Rusk.

Edwards was convicted in August of 1930 for the murder of John W. Bradshaw, whose body was found in the Guadulupe river near Waring, Tex., abdomen ripped open and filled with rocks. An accomplice, Ernest Young, received a 50-year-sentence for the murder.

Both Edwards and Young pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity. Both were fugitives from the San Antonio state hospital at the time of the slaying. After conviction, they were placed twice in the Rusk asylum, but Edwards escaped twice before being finally confined to the penitentiary until paroled to the Salvation Army at Houston.

Courthouse Offices To Close Saturday

All offices in the Lubbock county courthouse will be closed all day Saturday, election day, it was announced Thursday.

County Clerk Ed Allen announced that the county clerk's office would open at 7 p. m. to receive voting boxes and returns from the election and would remain open until midnight if returns are not in before that time.

RECOVERY DRIVE FAILS

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP)—Rails tried to lead the stock market on another recovery trip today but they failed to hold and relatively urgent selling toward the close threw both carriers and industrials for losses of fractions to a point or more generally.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was off .4 of a point at 88.4. It was another broad market, 929 issues appearing. Of these 492 were down, 234 up and 203 unchanged. Transfers totaled 1,342,910 shares compared with 1,138,700 the day before.

Great Northern ended up ⅝, aided by the company's latest refunding plans. Small plus signs also were retained by American Telephone, Johns-Manville and Douglas Aircraft. Pan-American Petroleum dropped 4⅝ points.

Railway bonds did rather well.

Slipping in the curb were Cities Service, Electric Bond and Share, Republic Aviation and St. Regis Paper.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP)—Cotton futures closed 60 to 75 cents a bale lower today under pressure of persistent liquidation.

Aggressive mill buying in the October contract advanced prices as much as 38 cents a bale in early trading but values soon retreated when commission house and New Orleans selling met only scale-down support. Southern hedge-selling also was apparent in the decline.

Back at camp, Hart was informed Cole had found the wallet in a pair of army trousers offered for sale in a store in which he worked. Hart remembered trying on a pair of pants while here, slipping his billfold into the pocket.

plank declared:

"That the world may not again be drenched in blood by international outlaws and criminals, we pledge:

"To join with the other United Nations in the establishment of an international organization based on the principles of the sovereign equality of all peace-loving states, open to membership by all such states, large and small, for the prevention of aggression and the maintenance of international peace and security.

Necessary Agreements

"To make all necessary and effective agreements and arrangements through which the nations would maintain adequate forces to meet the needs of preventing war and of making impossible the preparation for war and which would have such forces available for joint action when necessary.

"Such organization must be endowed with power to employ armed forces when necessary to prevent aggression and preserve peace.

"We favor the maintenance of an international court of justice of which the United States shall be a member and the employment of diplomacy, conciliation, arbitration and other like methods where appropriate in the settlement of international disputes."

The platform pledged party support of the Atlantic Charter and the four freedoms—freedom of speech, freedom of worship, freedom from fear and freedom from want.

Domestic Policy

On domestic policy, the statement of party principles and philosophy embodied to a large degree the platform suggested by Democratic Chairman Robert E. Hannegan: "Franklin D. Roosevelt."

The preamble put it in a nut shell, declaring:

"The Democratic party stands on its record in peace and in war. To speed victory, establish and maintain peace, guarantee full employment and provide prosperity—that is its platform.

"We do not here detail scores of planks. We cite action."

Major domestic planks included:

Agriculture—Parity with industry and labor, with special emphasis on aid to small independent farmers, by means of price guarantees, crop insurance and any new legislation which may be required.

Labor—Enactment of such additional legislation as time and experience may require, including the amendment or repeal of any existing law which has failed to accomplish its purpose.

Promise To Veterans

Veterans—"A continuation of our policy of full benefits for ex-servicemen and women with special consideration for the disabled. We make it our first duty to assure employment and economic security to all who have served in the defense of our country."

Taxes—"adaptation of tax laws to an expanding peacetime economy, with simplified structure and wartime taxes reduced or repealed as soon as possible." Encouragement of risk capital, new enterprise, "development of natural resources in the west and other parts of the country and the immediate reopening of the gold and silver mines of the west as soon as manpower is available."

"Adequate compensation" was pledged for workers during the demobilization period.

Other Declarations

Other declarations pledged the party to:

Continue and improve social security, employment, bank deposit insurance and flood control programs.

Favor the opening of Palestine to unrestricted Jewish immigration and colonization coupled with a policy resulting in the establishment there of "a free and democratic Jewish commonwealth."

Back legislation assuring equal pay for equal work regardless of sex and submission of a constitutional amendment on equal rights for women.

who now have seized the offensive and carried the war to its present stages of success, to those who by international conferences and united actions have begun to build that kind of common understanding and cooperative experience which will be so necessary in the world to come."

"They will also decide this fall whether they will entrust the task of post-war reconversion to those who offered the veterans of the last war breadlines and apple-selling and who finally led the American people down to the abyss of 1932; or whether they will leave it to those who rescued American business, agriculture, industry, finance and labor in 1933, and who have already planned and put through legislation to help our veterans resume their normal occupations in a well-ordered reconversion process.

Will Decide On Record

"They will not decide these questions by reading flowing words of platform pledges — the mouthings of those who are willing to promise anything and everything — contradictions, inconsistencies, impossibilities — anything which might snare a few votes here and a few votes there.

"They will decide on the record. . . ."

And into the record on the side of the administration he put our military success, war and food production "unparalleled in all history," the Atlantic Charter and the Moscow declaration and "our accomplishments in recovery and reform since March 4, 1933."

Greets Convention

Mr. Roosevelt greeted the Chicago convention delegates by telling them they are "aware of what I have sought to gain for the nation, and you have asked me to continue."

"It seems wholly likely," he said, "that within the next four years our armed forces, and those of our Allies, will have gained a complete victory over Germany and Japan, and that the world once more will be at peace—under a system, we hope, which will prevent a new world war.

"In any event, new hands will then have full opportunity to realize the ideals which we seek."

Assassin Barely Misses Hitler

thority, no leader of any unit, no soldier in the field, is to obey any order emanating from these usurpers.

Should Kill On Sight

"I also order that it is everyone's duty to arrest—or, if they resist, to kill on sight—anyone issuing or handing out such orders."

How such an apparently extensive conspiracy could be broken up in such short order as the subsequent German radio announcement claimed was not at all clear.

(The secret German-language radio station "Atlantic," of uncertain antecedents but professedly anti-Nazi, said in a broadcast recorded by the Christian Science Monitor that "revolution has burst forth in Germany" and that "part of the Eastern Army is deserting and returning from the front.")

Hitler Coldly Furious

Speaking for six minutes in coldly furious tones, Hitler said he was "unharmed and well," even though a bomb had exploded within six feet of him and had injured 13 members of his personal military staff, one fatally.

Hitler went on the air ostensibly to reassure the German people of his health after it was officially announced Thursday night, at 6:28 p. m. (11:28 p. m. central war time) that an attempt had been made to assassinate him with explosives.

He reassured them of his personal safety, and he declared a deadly fratricidal war on his internal enemies and disclosed the greatest internal weakness in his embattled regime since he assumed power in 1933.

Goering Also Bleats

Hitler named a Col. Count von Stauffenberg as the man who planted the explosive.

Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering, beefy No. 2 Nazi, went on the air immediately after his fuehrer, declaring:

"A plot was made against our fuehrer by a Col. Count von Stauffenberg, at the order of a miserable clique of former generals who were dismissed because of their cowardly and bad leadership.

"The fuehrer was saved by providence. These criminals try now as a new reichs government, or as usurpers and by wrong orders, to confuse the troops."

Goering was followed ir turn by Admiral Karl Doenitz, chief of the waning German Navy, who intimated that the revolt may have spread to his arm of the service, declaring the Navy would only "accept orders from its commander-in-chief and its own commanders," and that "to avoid being misled by false instructions, every traitor will be ruthlessly destroyed."

Adolf Minces No Words

Hitler minced no words in his short and snappy statement to the German people on what he called "a crime that has no equal in German history."

He declared that "an extremely small clique of ambitious, unscrupulous, and at the same time foolish, criminally stupid, officers hatched a plot to remove me and, together with me, virtually to exterminate the staff of the German high command.

"The bomb that was placed by Col. Graf (Count) von Stauffenberg exploded two meters (about 6 feet) away from me, on my right side. It wounded very seriously a number of my dear collaborators. One of them has died. I personaly am entirely unhurt apart from negligible grazes, bruises or burns."

Hitler and none of the other speakers disclosed the exact hour or even the approximate location of the explosive assassination attempt.

At Own Headquarters?

Indications were that it possibly was at Hitler's own closely-guarded headquarters, however, as the first DNB, German news agency, broadcast Thursday was datelined in that fashion.

Although the official account said the attempt occurred on Thursday, some British and Swedish quarters suspected it had occurred on Wednesday, since communications between Germany and Sweden were cut off for 14 hours Wednesday night and Thursday morning—usually a definite indication that something is radically wrong in the Reich.

The extent of the as yet unacknowledged confusion in Germany was indicated by Hitler himself as he said, "the assertion of these usurpers that I was no longer alive is disproved at this moment as I am talking to you, my dear people."

Shuffle His Aides

"To create order once and for all," he asserted, "I have appointed Reichs Minister Himmler to be commander of the Army at home (Heimatheeres). Into the general staff I have called Col. Gen. (Heinz) Guderian to replace the chief of the general staff, who had to retire for health reasons."

Hitler said he had appointed another eastern front veteran to aid Guderian but did not disclose his name. He said there had been no other changes in Reich authorities.

As an additional safeguard against any false orders, however, Goering announced that Col. Gen Hans Stumpf was in command of all the air force inside Reich territory and that airmen were to take orders only from him or from Goering personally.

First and only news of the assassination attempt came from the German radio.

The dictator spoke for about six minutes.

Annihilation of this "clique," Hitler asserted, would give Germany the "atmosphere" that the front and the people needed.

"Again I have evaded fate, which would have brought much misery to the German people," he added.

A German underground source in London, which cannot be named, suggested that a rift in the Normandy command over Marshal Erwin Rommel's demand for more troops, and Hitler's support of Marshal Guenther von Kluge's refusal, might have touched off a fight at Rommel's headquarters in Breda, Holland, similar to a recent pistol-shooting quarrel among German generals in Athens. This source said Hitler was at Breda on Wednesday.

Southern Sentiment Turns Toward Two-Party System

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., July 20. — Southern threats of revolt against Roosevelt undoubtedly stem from a widespread feeling among Southerners that their section would be far better off with two strong parties instead of the present one-party system.

That sentiment is increasing. A special survey throughout the South shows that more than six out of every ten voters with opinions are convinced that the South would benefit by an effective two-party system.

Idea Shows Growth

The growth of this idea in the minds of Southern voters is shown in the following trend based on Institute surveys.

"Do you think the South would be better off, in general, if there were two political parties of about equal strength instead of one strong party as there is at present?"

	Yes	No
1939	57%	43%
1943	59	41
Today	64	36

In the latest survey approximately one in five expressed no opinion.

Gain More Attention

While there is every evidence that the majority of Southern states will as usual cast their ballots for the Democratic ticket in November, many Southern leaders feel that the South would get far more attention from Washington, and have a far greater say in the councils of the Democratic party, if it were less solidly Democratic on election day.

As might be expected, sentiment in favor of a two-party system is strongest in the less solidly Democratic parts of the South, such as North Carolina, Virginia, Kentucky, Oklahoma and Tennessee. In short, the more taste a Southern state has of an effective two-party system, the more it likes that system.

But if a permanent two-party system were to develop in the South, the second party would undoubtedly have to carry some other label besides "Republican." Rather than vote Republican—a symbol associated with bad feelings generated in the war between the states—Southern Democrats would prefer to see a new party formed out of the conservative wing of the present Democratic party.

As long ago as 1936 an Institute poll found that nearly half of all Southern voters said that if there were only two political parties in this country—one for Conservatives and one for Liberals—they would join the Conservatives.

When a poll tested Southern reaction to various possible names for a new conservative party it was found that "Southern Democratic party" was the preferred name. Other popular names were "Jeffersonian party" and "Independent Democratic Party of the South."

OPA Tightens Reins On Tire Inspection

FORT WORTH, July 20. (AP) — Abolition of all official tire inspection stations in the 49-county Fort Worth OPA district was announced today by T. A. Carr, associate district OPA mileage rationing officer, as part of a move to save tires by requiring more rigid inspection before they can be replaced.

Carr said the district OPA office would redesignate official inspection stations, with some permitted to inspect truck and passenger car tires only, depending upon the qualifications of their personnel and the facilities for inspection.

Regulars Walk Out

bers to jeopardize his chances for reelection should the balloting in northern states be close in November.

After the credentials committee's decision, Merritt Gibson, the regular's member of the committee, commented: "Under this action, our electors are instructed to vote against the nominees of this party next November."

But former Governor Dan Moody, chairman of the regular delegation, said the action would have the effect only of freeing the electors to act on their own discretion in the presidential and vice-presidential vote.

Leaders Stayed In Hall

Moody did not walk out of the convention and George Butler, chairman of the state Democratic Executive committee, also remained. The walkout was led by Clint Small of Amarillo, a former state senator, and E. B. Germany, former state chairman.

Both Texas and Mississippi electors were authorized by their party conventions to vote for whomever they please in the electoral college should their demand here be turned down. Virginia's Senator Harry F. Byrd is the man expected to receive anti-Roosevelt southern electoral college ballots if the north-south breach is not healed before November.

One Point Salvaged

The only thing salvaged by the delegates below the Mason-Dixon line in a day of action on many fronts was a directive from the rules committee to the national committee to make a study, within two years, of reapportionment of delegates to the 1948 convention.

The reapportionment plan the Southerners have in mind would give "bonus" delegates to states supporting Democratic nominees and would add a sizeable bloc of votes to the southern delegations.

The rules committee agreed unanimously to recommend the study after first rejecting, 23 to 10, the Southern demand for restoration of the 1936-discarded rule under which a vote of two-thirds of the convention delegates were necessary to make a nomination. That rule gave the south a "veto" club.

By agreeing to the reapportionment study, the rules committee averted a convention floor fight on the two-thirds rule.

Some Leave In Huff

Tanner Freeman, one delegate who walked out, said he was going home to San Antonio. Another said he was going home to "keep my self-respect." Most of those who left grimly pushed their way toward exits without comment.

Among those who did not walk were:

Bowlen Bond, Fairfield; John E. Quaid, El Paso; Robert D. Peterson, Marlin; Fred Kaderli, San Marcos; Frank Martin, Wakahachie; Mrs. Clifford Braly, Pampa; W. M. Rodes, Emory; M. A. Glenn, Waco; H. V. Puckett, Quitman; J. S. Lewis, Lampassas; Mrs. H. H. Weinert, Seguin; C. E. Simons, Austin; David Warren, Panhandle; James E. King, Memphis; C. C. Gibson, Amarillo; J. W. Elliott, Tahoka; Maury Hughes, Dallas.

FDR Gets Call On Fourth Term

But Senator Harry Truman of Missouri, like Wallace, was gaining some support. And Barkley, too, was in the race.

There wasn't any suspense left best opportunity yet for a rollicking, old-fashioned demonstration, finally subsided to hear a seconding speech by Vice President Henry A. Wallace, adopt a platform and wait for Mr. Roosevelt's acceptance address by radio tonight.

And they still had to settle a spectacular, see-sawing battle over whose name will go on the ticket with Roosevelt's. Wallace himself was trying to repeat and was putting up a stiff scrap.

in the presidential candidate picking. It long since had been determined that Mr. Roosevelt would try to make a total of 16 unprecedented years in the White House.

Drama In Nomination

But there was drama in the fact fact that Barkley, the majority leader of the Senate offered the chief executive's name to the convention. For it was the Kentuckian who, a few short months ago, broke with the President over a tax bill veto.

In the whirl of vice presidential maneuvering, Truman, who had been saying he wasn't running, finally brought his campaign into the open by declaring himself "in the race."

"And," he said, "I'm going to win."

Wallace backers had other ideas; and they saw their man picking up new support.

Caught somewhere in the eddies was Barkley, holding aloft the nominating speech, which his friends hoped, would rescue his own chances for second place on the 1944 ticket.

Defeat Seen As Axis Boon

Before the Barkley oratory, delegates loosened up their vocal cords by cheering a suggestion of their permanent chairman, Senator Samuel Jackson of Indiana, that a defeat for Roosevelt would be a boon to the Axis.

While many delegations temporized by voting to nudge favorite sons forward for the vice-presidency until a swing sets in for some one man, Wallace's stock rose a couple of points when Kansas inscribed its 16 votes in his column.

North Dakota added eight more and Colorado said it would chip in most of its twelve for the incumbent vice president on the second ballot.

Against this, Mississippi trundled out 20 first-ballot votes for a neighbor, former Governor Sam Jones of Louisiana, but Senator James O. Eastland said they would be switched to Truman once it becomes apparent Jones hasn't a chance.

Action Only A Formality

In the "wait and see what happens" category was Illinois, which promised its 58 votes to Senator Scott Lucas as long as he wants them.

Mr. Roosevelt's own renomination was only a formality, of course, but Dixie dissedents picked Mrs. Fred T. Nooney, jr., of Florida to nominate Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia for the presidency, figuring he would poll some 10 per cent of the convention's 1,176 votes. Though Byrd still asserted he didn't want his name to go before the convention, his home state decided to cast all its 24 votes for him.

James A. Farley, the old party wheelhorse who managed two Roosevelt campaigns but turned thumbs down on a third nomination, decided to cast his half vote as a New York delegate for Byrd and to support Barkley for vice-president.

Two Typhoid Cases Reported In County

Two cases of typhoid fever have been reported in Lubbock county by health authorities but in each case the illness was contracted elsewhere.

One of the patients is a young woman who returned recently from Tennessee and the other is a migratory Mexican farm worker employed in the Monroe community, the report said. Immediately after his illness was diagnosed definitely, approximately 60 Mexicans were brought to Lubbock from the Monroe area to receive anti-typhoid inoculation.

Another caution in which health authorities joined is in connection with polio. Although no new cases have been reported in Lubbock in several months, outbreaks have occurred in parts of the South. Furthermore, it was pointed out that this is the "polio season."

Therefore, officials said, precautions are advisable. They emphasized that very little is known about polio, but the evidence seems conclusive that houseflies are the worst carriers of the disease. They suggested that the danger of an outbreak will be reduced greatly if everyone will engage in a fly-swatting campaign through the remainder of the summer.

Patman Says Service Men To Get More Gas

PARIS, Tex., July 20. (AP)—Rep. Wright Patman (D-Tex), in a speech prepared for delivery at a political rally here tonight, said the Office of Price administration would increase the gasoline allowance for members of armed forces on furlough.

Effective next Tuesday, he said, the gasoline allowance would be one gallon per day.

Beyond that, he added, rationing boards will have a quota for extraordinary uses of gasoline by members of the armed forces on furlough.
