Bloodhounds Used by Posse of 50 But Escaped Men Not Caught

Special to The Record News.

BOWIE, Oct. 17.—Deliberately running a Ford coupe in the ditch on the Meridian highway, a mile east of Bowie late Wednesday afternoon Gene Dugan and Frank Dumas, who were being brought back from Fredericksville, Texas, to Frederick, Oklahoma, by Sheriff Ed May of Tillman county, Okla., on an automobile theft charge, held the sheriff down and threatening him with a razor relieved him of his gun, money and keys to the shackles on their feet.

Sheriff May said he had been sick all day and had one of the two boys do the driving. He said he started to stop with his prisoners at Decatur but decided to come on to Bowie. He said the prisoners realized he was weak and feeling bad and when the car was wrecked by being run in the ditch, the boys piled on him. He said one of them, Dugan, drew a razor from out of his shirt and stood over him threatening him.

That Sheriff May put up a game fight was shown when he was brought into Bowie a few minutes later by a motorist. He had a slash across his neck, one on his shoulder and his hand was cut worse than any he received. He said the boys got his gun first after the tussle with the razor. They then unlocked the shackles he had on their legs and holding the gun on him ran off.

A posse of 50 men started out in search of the boys as soon as May got to Bowie and had his cuts dressed. A farmer was the first to report seeing the lads and said he had talked to them and thought they had been hunting. He said one of the boys was bloody and the other looked like he had gone through an awful fight.

Bloodhounds were put on the trail and followed it a few miles from the spot where the escape was made. The trail led toward Bridgeport in Wise county. At 11 o'clock last night the posse had not found any trace of the boys, some taking the theory they had caught a Rock Island freight train.

Sheriff May is a cousin of Dave May, chief of detectives of the Wichita Falls police department.

Oil Fraud Cases Brings Battle Of Wits From Atty's

By The Associated Press

FORT WORTH, Oct. 17.—A merry tilt between defense attorneys, government prosecutors and the court marked the afternoon session of the third day of the trial court here of Frederick A. Cook, Arctic explorer, and his 13 co-defendants.

Former United States Senator Joseph Weldon, leading counsel for the defense, created a stir when he sprang to his feet reprimanding Special Prosecutor Sylvester R. Rush for stating that he "hoped to prove guilty" Cook and the others on trial.

Prosecutor Rush became impatient at the delay. He had just finished introducing a letter purporting to be one written by Cook to C. W. Whitmer, Fremont, Iowa, real estate operator, the first government witness. He shot back a hot retort, which brought other defense attorneys to their feet, each reprimanding him for the statement.

A titter of amusement ran through the spectators and only when Judge John M. Killitz issued an order for quiet did the disorder cease. Attorneys participating in this play were Henry Kahn, Houston; H. B. Davies, Corsicana; J. W. Bailey, Dallas; W. H. Linden, San Antonio; and Prosecutors Rush and Pratt.

Some of the letters read to the jury dealt with Cook's purported entry into the Smackover, Ark., oil field. These painted glowing pictures of the Cook company's prospects there and told of how stockholders were assured of great profits. How other letters from Cook to Whitmer heralded discovery of the "largest oil pool in Texas" also was told to the jury. These letters were in connection with the projected launching of the "Amalgamated Petroleum Underwriting Syndicate," which was to provide the Petroleum Producers association with more funds.

Supreme Court for Clay Road Bonds

Refuses Anti-Roads Appeal on Mandamus Hearing.

The legal gauntlet in one angle of the Clay county road controversy wherein certain land owners of that county have attempted since last March to prevent issuance of bonds voted by a three to one majority for constructing a 34 mile concrete highway through the county, came Wednesday when the supreme court refused to grant a writ of error in the suit of Huggins against Vaden.

Immediately after the road building program had been made at Henrietta last March, Louie Huggins joined by Carl Worsham and other land owners asked for a mandamus from Judge H. R. Wilson of the thirtieth district court. The mandamus was against County Judge Vaden and the county commissioners. The action was brought to compel the commissioners court to create a nullifying district which would have ruined the original district and killed the issue.

Judge Wilson refused the mandamus and the court of civil appeals at Fort Worth sustained him. The anti good roads attorneys appealed from the decision of the court of civil appeals. The state supreme court Wednesday sustained both Judge Wilson and the court of civil appeals and refused the anti roads faction a writ of error.

The good roads advocates here feel that as the other appeal which is before the supreme court from Judge Paul Donald of the ninety-seventh district court who refused the antis an injunction, will also go against the anti roads faction. Practically the same contentions are embodied in both petitions and the good roads advocates feel the same results will ensue. Those favoring the roads have not lost a single law suit and the voice of the majority is being upheld.

Judge J. S. Dickey, chief counsel for the good roads advocates and president of the Henrietta chamber of commerce when the road fight was staged and won, said Wednesday that all litigation should be out of the way by Jan. 1 and construction work started at that time.

Non-Union Mines Are the Cheapest Says Coal Man

By The Associated Press.

FORT SMITH, Ark., Oct. 17.—Peter Hanraty, former president of district 21, United Mine Workers, testified in federal district court here today that if the non-union mines of Colorado were located in Oklahoma instead of Colorado, there "wouldn't be any union mines in Arkansas and Oklahoma."

"They couldn't compete with the non-union mines," he declared.

Mr. Hanraty, now an operator at Panama, Okla., was called to the witness stand by the plaintiffs at the retrial here today of the suit for damages against the United Mine Workers of America as a result of property destruction in the Hartford Valley coal fields during the 1914 strike.

Hanraty testified that as district head of the organization it was his practice to notify international officers in the event an operator in his district tried to run an "open shop."

"When at attempt is made in a union field to operate an open shop," he was asked, "does it effect any district except where the mine is located?"

"Yes, sir," Hanraty replied. "It involves every district and the international organization, for the reason that an open shop of a non-union mine can produce coal cheaper than a union mine."

Astrologer Planned 26 Deaths With Four Juvenile Operatives

By The Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 17.—After deciphering horoscopes prepared by Arthur Covell of Bandon, Ore., relating to John R. Dixey, Bandon merchant and his wife, Lake S. May, Seattle criminologist, announced today that a list of persons whose deaths he declared were planned by Covell to take place when the individuals "came under unfavorable planetary influences," had grown to 26.

Mr. May said that horoscopes decoded by him revealed that Covell, who is to be tried Friday at Coquille, Ore., on a charge of first degree murder for the death of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Ebba Covell, at Bandon, had planned two bases of operation—at Bandon and at Hollywood, near Los Angeles.

In the revelations of the horoscopes, according to May, were details of a life of ease at Hollywood, surrounded by celebrities of filmdom.

May's disclosures included a juvenile band numbering four to execute "orders" received by Covell from the stars and transmitted in a triple code of his own devising. May said that Bandon to which he has been giving horoscopes and other papers from his study for days indicated that Covell had gained the complete confidence of the children.

Included in their number were Alton Covell, 16, nephew of Arthur who had confessed that he placed an ammonia soaked rag that caused the death of his step-mother, Mrs. Ebba Covell; Lucille Covell, 13, who, according to reports from Oregon, had admitted that he knew a month before its occurance that Mrs. Covell's death was planned and Berlin Brummett, 12, of Bandon.

LEGAL LIGHTS LAMP DUCKS NO?

They know law but they didn't know ducks from mud hens.

That is the case of Judge Guy Rogers and Wayne Somerville, assistant county attorney.

The two went hunting early Wednesday morning and killed 16 feathered birds at a lake near town.

The assistant county attorney swam out in the cold water to bring back what he thought were ducks.

Bringing them to the bank Judge Rogers' judicial eye soon noted the quarry was mud hens instead of ducks.

OKLA. SOLONS PROBE KLAN

Stormy Sessions Precede Friday Impeachment Proceedings

By The Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 17. A "searching" investigation into the ku klux klan and its activities was authorized today by the lower house of the state legislature when it adopted unanimously a resolution proposing the inquiry.

The joint committee of three members each from the senate and house would be named to conduct the investigation and consider evidence of mob violence and masked depredations adduced by military courts of inquiry in various sections of the state. The resolution was introduced by Representatives Otjen of Enid, and Vernon of Waggoner.

The action came at the close of the stormiest meeting of the extra session during which an attempt failed to unseat nine house members and charges and counter charges of party prejudices in the impeachment proceedings against Governor J. C. Walton, were hurled across the chamber.

The house investigating committee inquiring into the governor's official conduct, held a night session tonight for submission to the assembly Friday.

REJECT LACK OF CONFIDENCE MOTION

By The Associated Press.

DRESDEN, Oct. 17.—The Saxon diet late tonight rejected a motion of lack of confidence in the government by 48 socialist-communist votes against 45 votes of the non-socialist parties.

The socialist-communist government of Saxony is functioning in its own particular way without giving much consideration to the reich government at Berlin.

In the Saxon diet today among great excitement, Premier Zeigner read a letter from General von Mueller, in which the general alluded to the speech of the finance minister, Herr Boettcher, delivered at Leipzig October 13.

In the speech to which General von Mueller referred Herr Boettcher said that the proletarians would soon have to stand a baptism of fire, should it come to a serious struggle against political and economic attacks of a counter-revolution.

GEORGE LIKES HUGHES' PLAN FOR GERMANY

Want Reparations Without Revolution if It Is Possible

AMERICA IMPARTIAL

Ledgers Can't Be Examined With Bayonets, He Declared

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—The Hughes proposal for an international commission to ascertain Germany's capacity to pay was endorsed by David Lloyd George, war time premier of Great Britain, in an address tonight at the International amphitheater at the heart of the stock yards district. To the largest audience he has yet addressed since arriving in New York, he declared that such an examination of Germany's to pay was one of common sense with the alternative nothing but the blindness of force and violence. Discussing the situation in Europe with its exhaustion after the war and reparations question as the most acute phase of the situation, Mr. Lloyd George declared it was a fatal mistake to drive the German population into despair.

"We want reparations," he added, "but revolution is not the way to get them."

Speaking after a day spent in seclusion recovering from the efect of a cold and fatigue, Mr. Lloyd George showed little evidence of illness. The address was delivered with force and deliberateness to an audience which filled the vast amphitheater with its seating capacity of 10,000. Amplifiers carried his voice to the farthest corners and caught up and hurled out the answering applause. Wireless telephone carried the address further, to unnumbered thousands.

Although in the heart of the stock yards district, the audience was notable for the number present of men and women prominent in business, financial and social life. The presiding officer was Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes, former director of the federal budget at Washington.

Great Britain desired reparations, Mr. Lloyd George explained, but was following her traditional policy of moderateness in victory as the surest way of attaining that end.

"You cannot examine ledgers with bayonets," he remarked.

"Can Germany pay more? If she can she ought to. It is to her interest to get through with it. And if she can pay, but is merely refusing to pay, let us find it out, and the allies will march together in any enterprise that is necessary to force her to pay.

"Mr. Secretary Hughes delivered a very important speech at the beginning of this year at New Haven, I think, in which he proposed that the whole question of Germany's capacity to pay should be examined by a commission of business experts and he made it clear if a commission of that kind were appointed every facility would be given for an American expert to be on that body, a thoroughly practical, business-like proposal.

"The examination of Germany's capacity and the treaty of Versailles was left to a body called the reparations commission. On that body the United States of America wants to be represented. But something happened to that treaty down in Washington. The United States of America therefore, has no representative. But when it is suggested that there should be a committee of experts, with an American among them, that is substantially the same thing, and I cannot understand why either France or Belgium should refuse to accept that very moderate and sensible proposal.

"The United States of America is absolutely impartial. She has no interest in reparations. She has certainly no more interest in Germany than anybody else. She is well disposed towards France, and there, without a friendly country, absolutely impartial, with a great fund of business knowledge at its disposal, represented in a body of that kind, it seems to me we would find a way to ascertain how much Germany can pay and once we have done that, then we could march together to compel her to pay.

"That seems to me to be the only way to settle this troublesome question without creating further disturbances, without upsetting the world, without keeping every one in a state of nervousness, without destroying the confidence which is the life of commerce."

Declaring that the question which is being asked in Germany at the present moment is between red and white, Lloyd George said; "That is not what you want. You want a settlement. You want peace. It is the surest road to reparation. It is the surest road to the restoration of Europe.

"That is why we have been unable to join the full invasion of Germany without an examination such as Mr. Secretary Hughes suggested in the question of Germany's capacity to pay.

"This problem has been examined by great French statesmen before. Mr.

A further extension of the relief measures is being planned.

EASTERN OKLA. IS NOW IN MIDST OF THE BIG FLOOD

Eufala, Henryetta and Okmulgee in Midst of Flood Area

LIVES ENDANGERED

Death Total in Oklahoma City Is Now Eight at Last Report

By The Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 17.—Sections of eastern Oklahoma are being engulfed tonight by the same flood which struck Oklahoma City and vicinity early Tuesday with such devastating effect.

The swirling torrent, which reached a crest of 11 feet above flood stage here, already has isolated Eufaula, 35 miles south of Muskogee on the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad and is wreaking havoc in the lowlands around Henryetta and Okmulgee, a few miles north of Eufaula.

Last advices from Eufaula told of a four foot rise in the north Canadian river which forced scores of families residing in the lowlands to seek refuge on their house tops. With the water creeping into the outskirts of the city and still rising, rescue parties were breasting the treacherous current in boats in an effort to reach those marooned before their houses completely were submerged.

Near Okmulgee, the Deep Fork river is flooding an area three to five miles wide, forcing many farmers to seek refuge on higher ground. Rising at the rate of two feet in the last 24 hours, the waters have swept away much livestock and torn huge gaps in the Okmulgee-Henryetta concrete highway.

The probable death toll in Oklahoma City from the flood was brought to 8 late tonight when authorities, penetrating further into the stricken regions, reported six persons missing. It is considered almost certain that they were drowned when the savage waters lashed through their homes on the south side. Two are known to be dead.

Testimony Is Now Finished In Clem Gray Murder Case

Admits He Helped Hide Clothing But Accuses Negro of Killing Victim With a Piece of Iron.

By The Associated Press

TEXARKANA, Texas, Oct. 17.—The taking of testimony at the trial of Clem Gray, on a charge of murder for his alleged connection with the killing of Otis Ballard at Mount Pleasant, on September 24, was concluded in the Titus county district court at Mount Pleasant this afternoon, and Judge R. T. Wilkerson prepared his charge to the jury, a copy of which was submitted to counsel for the defense.

The charge will be read to the jury when court convenes at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, and will be followed by the arguments.

The trial reached its climax today when Gray went on the stand in his own behalf. Gray testified that he did not kill Ballard but that he was beside Ballard when Burl Kemp, negro, used as a state witness, hit the boy in the head with a piece of iron, "killing him dead the first lick." Gray said that he grabbed at Kemp after he struck the blow and said, "My God, don't do that."

Kemp, said according to Gray's testimony, "You will never get any more of Mr. Gray's money," and struck Ballard two or three more licks. Gray said the negro then begged him so he decided not to tell the officers and assisted the negro to hide the body by helping him get the body through the wire fences and getting and driving the car in which the body was taken to the Cypress creek, where it was hidden.

Gray testified that he was sore at Ballard because he had double crossed him so many times. He testified that no one except himself and Burl Kemp knew anything about the killing of Ballard. Gray said that Kemp borrowed his knife and cut the clothes off Ballard before the body was thrown in the water.

George McKinley, one of the men arrested in connection with the case, testified that on the night of the homicide they made arrangements with Ballard to go with him to the east side school house; that they had some more whiskey and that he went ahead of the party over to Gray's house and got the whiskey and met them at the east side school house; that they drank all the whiskey they had and then went down near the bridge east from the school house and sang a while, and that he suggested to Ballard that he go with him (McKinley) for more whiskey, and that he and Ballard went up to the school house and that he told Ballard to wait there, as the man he was to get the whiskey from might not want him to know that he was selling it.

McKinley said that he had to make two trips to Gray's house on account of another man being there the first time, and that when he did go in to see Gray, that Gray and Kemp were in the room together and that Gray asked him where the Ballard boy was, and he told him he was at the school house.

McKinley testified that Gray handed him a bottle of whiskey and told him he would follow him. McKinley said Gray finally appeared at the school house after he had gotten back to where the Ballard boy was. He said that Gray was dressed in a dark suit with the coat collar turned up around his neck and had on a light brown hat with the crown pushed up and the brim turned down, and that he failed to recognize him until Gray spoke.

McKinley said that the Ballard boy inquired how Gray was and that they talked and drank some whiskey, and that he saw the other parties—Gaines Black, Aubrey Smith and Paul Keith—who had accompanied him to the school house—starting towards where they were

Lynch Davidson Will Announce For Governor

"Texas needs a business administration and the chief executive next time who will be the choice of the people will be a man who can make a business success of running the state" former Lieutenant Gov. Lynch Davidson said while in Wichita Falls a few hours Tuesday afternoon, from a trip to Amarillo where he has been attending a lumber convention.

"Though I have not made any formal announcement as a candidate for the next democratic gubernatorial nomination, I am certainly going to be in the race." Davidson replied when asked regarding his gubernatorial aspirations.

When asked in what ways he considered a business administration would help Texas the most Davidson said "in every way. Take the mooted penitentiary problem we have heard so much about lately. I can not see why that should be so complicated. The running of the state penal institution is no more of a task than running every large business. I work as many men, have as much land and deal with the same problem which our penitentiary has. I do not consider it a bugaboo or anything unusually hard to make a business success of" Davidson said.

Davidson referred to the state owned railway, 32 miles in length, which runs from Palestine to Rusk. "When I was designated to take over the state railroad it was in such a shape nothing could be hauled over it. With a very limited appropriation I have succeeded in putting it on its feet and making the state railway a paying proposition."

When questioned further about his candidacy for governor Davidson said he would soon begin an active campaign for the nomination. "I feel I owe the state something for what it has done for me. Unlike my forefathers I did not have to protect myself with a shotgun and try to make a living too. The state gave me this protection and I started out as a barefoot boy without a dime and began laboring in a saw mill. As a consequence I have been able to succeed in a business way. I certainly have no other hope of reward if I should be elected governor other than satisfaction of giving my services to the state," Davidson concluded.

GOVERNORS' SESSION DELAYED BY FLOODS

By The Associated Press

WEST BADEN, Ind., Oct. 17.—Their opening session delayed until 9 o'clock tonight by slow travel over rain-soaked roads through the hills of southern Indiana, governors from all sections of the United States tonight began their fifteenth annual conference on state and national problems, preparatory for a meeting in Washington Saturday with President Coolidge.

Moving cautiously because of the downpour, which struck the executives' automobile caravan shortly after it left Indianapolis at 9 o'clock this morning, and resulted in an overturned executive car on a sharp bend, the state chiefs were 11 hours en route to their gathering place, and compelled, therefore to move their assembling hour forward several hours from 2 p. m. today.

Governor and Mrs. J. M. Dixon of Montana and Governor and Mrs. Charles R. Mabey of Utah, whose car left the road and turned over in a ditch 12 miles north of Bedford, Ind., at 2 o'clock this afternoon, were resting in their hotel quarters tonight, but were pronounced uninjured by their mishap

EXPORT OIL RATE IS CUT 4 CENTS BY REDUCTION

Rate Changed from 24½ to 20½ Cents Effective Soon

OIL MEN ARE JUBILANT

Fort Worth and Denver Officials Reduce on Own Accord

A 20 per cent freight rate reduction on export oil from points on the Fort Worth and Denver to New Orleans and which includes Wichita Falls, Iowa Park and Electra was announced here Wednesday afternoon in a telegram received here by G. M. Smith, general agent of the Denver, from headquarters.

The export oil rate at the present is 24 1-2 cents and the reduced rate announced Wednesday is 20 1-2 cents, a decrease of four cents.

According to General Agent Smith the reduction was made voluntarily by the Denver and followed a number of hearings and investigations of late. Whether other roads will meet this rate was not known by Smith.

The fact that so much oil is exported from Wichita Falls and vicinity will mean an enormous saving because of the reduction, oil men said last night.

The new rate will become effective just as soon as the change can be made properly. The printing of new traffic rules in accordance with the reduction will necessitate a short time, Smith said yesterday.

23 LAWYERS IN BIG MEXIA SUIT

By The Associated Press.

MEXIA, Tex., Oct. 17.—A jury deliberating on a case involving about fifty million dollars, was discharged today after failure to agree on a verdict.

The case, Pierce vs. Freeman, involved two tracts of lands, 80 and 90 acres in the Fish Pond district, Mexia oil field, titles to which were the subject of the legal controversy.

The suit was brought by the heirs of Mary Carey Pierce against the Freeman brothers of Mexia and various oil companies, and the evidence showed millions of dollars worth of oil had been produced from the acreage up until the case went to trial three weeks ago.

The case was tried by eleven jurors. Twelve were selected but one became ill during the proceedings and was discharged. The eleven jurors had been held together since October 1.

Twenty-three lawyers took part in the long legal battle.

A number of oil companies who were originally defendants settled with the heirs before trial. This left the Texas Pipe Line company, the Kirby Oil company and the Freeman Brothers as the only defendants.

LOOK WHAT THEY'RE DOING NOW

Sweeties Swinging Swagger Sticks

The swagger stick for women is an established fashion in Wichita Falls. Attractive displays in the local shop windows tell of successful sales of this smart accessory to the newest offerings in coats, dresses and suits for fall and winter wear.

The swagger stick formed quite an important item in the wardrobe of the girl who bought her college clothes in advance for the winter and spring season, according to local dealers, and many Wichita Falls girls carry them.

The sticks are beautifully made of polished woods in brown and blacks. Fancy heads in many shapes are carved and cleverly colored to harmonize with the popular shades being featured in hats and bags. The head, the tip of the stick, and the novelty balls or tassels that hang from a wrist strap near the head, all match in color. The wrist loop is a strap of kid leather, or a silken cord. Gray, rose and blue are popular shades being featured, and it is a simple matter to match any of the new fall suits or dresses.

The swagger stick is one of the most interesting of recent fads and comes to this country from London where no woman is correctly dressed without one.

Clemenceau, Mr. Millerand, Mr. Briand, have all looked into the question of the invasion of the Ruhr. They have always dismissed it. They have always said, with the instinct of great sane statesmanship that it was on the wrong road; and I regret that their wise policy has been not adhered to.

"Justice is shrewd; justice will be served, but justice is also temperate and justice is always patient. Vengeance, vengeance is justice without wisdom. That we want to avoid.

"I regret that after such a great and glorious victory there should be questions of this kind to retard the fruition of peace. Storm clouds are gathering over Europe.

"It will need all the wisdom, all the calm, all the judgement of the mariners who are guiding the ship of civilization or else it will be wrecked, with its invaluable cargo of achievements and hope for mankind."

Brigadier General Dawes declared that Mr. Lloyd-George's cation in placing command of the allied armies in the hands of Marshal Foch and centralizing authority had saved the allies. "Action," Brigadier General Dawes said "was the keynote in Lloyd-George's campaign."

"Notwithstanding the action of political demagogues," he said, "The American people love and admire Lloyd-Gorge and England, the mother country."

His assertions met with an outburst of aplause.

Lloyd-George began speaking at 8:51 o'clock.

As he started some one at the rear of the hal shouted: "We can hear you."

"I thank you for that encouraging message," Mr. Lloyd-eGorge responded and the crowd laughed.

In the midst of his address, a newspaper photographer set off a flash light a few feet from the stage.

"Oh, you must stop that," Mr. Lloyd-George, startled said. Then he added: "I can stand firing as well as anyone, but at the right time."

Mr. Lloyd-George had notes spread before him as he spoke. The audience which filled the ampitheater listened attentively and frequently applauded.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—An hour before the former British premier was to speak, thousands, many of them without tickets of admittance, were milling about the entrance to the ampitheater i na vain effort to get into the building.

The amphitheater itself filled slowly as the doors were not opened until half an hour before the address. At eight o'clock fifteen minutes before the program was scheduled to start, the ampitheater was little more than half filed, due to inability of the crowd to get in.

The Stars and Stripes and the union jack were blending and a band furnished entertainment while the crowds were arriving.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Mr. Lloyd-George appeared on the platform at 8:35 p. m.

The audience arose and greeted him with vociferous aplause.

He was attired in an ordinary business suit over which he wore an overcoat, and showed little effects of his illness.

"If Winter Comes" Rare Local Color

PERCY MARMONT as MARK SABRE and MARGARET FIELDING as MABEL in IF WINTER COMES
A WILLIAM FOX Special Production

The local color in the William Fox screen version of the A. S. M. Hutchinson story, "If Winter Comes," is scrupulously maintained. Director Harry Millarde, who went to England to "shoot" the picture, which will be shown at the Strand Theatre next Sunday, searched carefully for the correct locations.

The office where Mark Sabre thought out so many of his serious problems is the result of careful thought and close attention to the description given by the author. The familiar chair and desk, the book-lined walls and the personal touch of its occupant that tells what manner of man he is, in spite of the attempt to envelope the room with the cold and formal stateliness of the rest of the place, are all there. It is in this room, after Sabre's collapse, that Hapgood turns furiously on Mr. Fortune with the command "Go for a doctor! Go like hell!" and Nona falls on her knees beside the stricken man with her cry of "Marko! Marko!"

Twyning's office, which is the scene of Sabre's interview with the father of Harold after the boy has been killed in battle and it is too late for Mark to tell the stricken man what a contemptible cur his son is—that interview ends with his patting Twyning's heaving shoulders and saying, "There, there, Twyning. Fine death . . . . Brave boy," is in strict conformity to the other apartments, although less elaborate in furnishings.

DOPE PAYS

VIENNA, Oct. 17.—Cocaine smugglers are active in Austria, bringing in the drug from Germany and France. The police not long ago found a consignment of 169 pounds. One kilogram was sold recently for the equivalent of $2.100. It was purchased first for $56.00, the profits of middlemen accounting for the spread.

CLUB TO STAGE ONE-ACT PLAYS

Community Players Plan Club Plays in Addition to Regular Ones

The one-act plays to be given biweekly by the Community Players in addition to the longer plays now being prepared will start the last of this month, it was decided yesterday at the regular luncheon of the club at the Kemp. The Episcopal Parish house has been chosen as the place to stage these plays, as announced by Mrs. Gene Graham. The three-act play now in hand is "Daddy Long-Legs," which will be followed by "The Man From Home," by Booth Tarkington.

These one-act plays are invitational, each club member being allowed to bring one friend. "Will o' the Wisp," to be directed by Mrs. Bruce Ruffner, and "The Open Road," by Surline Turner, have been chosen as the first of the series.

Miss Turner, who has been studying in the school of speech under Alexander Dean at Northwestern University, talked on her experience with the one-act play and gave some valuable suggestions.

Mrs. E. L. Fulton occupied the chair in the absence of the club president, Paul Barnett, an important matter attended to being a loan of a group of the players to the Methodist church in gratitude for the use of their rooms for rehearsals. Those members to participate in presenting the play, "Gold, Silver, and Precious Stones," at that church Sunday morning at 11, will be as follows: Mrs. Bruce Ruffner, Paul Barnett, Ernest Robertson, Mrs. Karrenbuck, Dorothy Ellis and William Bonnean.

Why suffer from Rheumatism?

THERE is a certain unexplainable feeling that goes with hale and hearty old age—it is a feeling of happiness, of care unknown, of reborn youth.

But rheumatism—that deadly malady which has caused so many to surrender to the woes of pain and suffering—caused so many to forego the pleasures of life—caused so many to be dependent. Why suffer from it?

To be helped about—crutches, canes and willing hands always needed to assist you here and help you there. Rheumatism will vanish the same as skin disorders—the same as sallow complexion—the same as that run-down condition when S. S. S. is used. S. S. S. builds red blood cells by the score. Your nerve power is strengthened. When rich, red, healthy blood courses through your veins, there is no such thing as inflammation or neuralgia of the muscles and joints. S. S. S. is what you need to retain that old time vim and vigor and vitality, when you turn down the final stretch of life.

Mr. M. A. Farmer, Elyria, Ohio, writes:

"S. S. S. relieved me of rheumatism and nervousness. It is the best medicine for building up the blood."

S. S. S. is made of carefully selected and scientifically prepared and proportioned herbs and barks. Only pure vegetable ingredients are used. Stronger healthier bodies—bodies able to withstand the onslaughts of diseases are the results of S. S. S. All leading drug stores carry S. S. S. The large size is the more economical.

The system whose overhead is less than six per cent can give a larger value than the system whose overhead expense is from fifteen to twenty-five per cent.

In the retail distribution of food products there are certain costs which must be added for which the consumer must pay. None of these costs add to the intrinsic merit of the products.

The system, which can eliminate some of these costs and lessen others, can and does give better values.

The Piggly Wiggly system eliminates certain costs and lessens others, therefore, it can and does give the public greatest values.

Rev. Caleb Ridley Charged With Drunkenness and Whiskey Taken

By The Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 17.—Rev. Caleb Ridley, known as the kludd of the ku klux klan and former pastor of an Atlanta church, was arrested here late today by the police on a charge of being drunk while operating an automobile. The arrest was made by Motorcycle Officer L. E. Shumate, who said that in the machine driven by Dr. Ridley were two small bottles of whiskey.

In police station, Dr. Ridley stated that he had driven out into the country when he was accosted by a man who offered to give him some whiskey. He stated that he accepted the whiskey, and before reaching town, he took a drink.

Officer Shumate, who made the arrest, said he saw the automobile zigzagging down Peachtree street, one of the main thoroughfares, and stopped it, and finding Dr. Ridley apparently under the influence of liquor, arrested him. Dr. Ridley, the officer said, admitting having more liquor in the automobile and produced two small bottles.

Germany's Comeback Alarms Competitors

By The Associated Press.

COPENHAGEN—German shipping is showing remarkable recuperative powers, so much so that other maritime states are today concerned lest this "dreaded competitor soon will regain her old position." The quotation is from the Scandinavian Shipping Gazette, which publishes an article on the subject.

In 1920 Germany had 420,000 gross tons of steamers and motorships according to this authority, and in June of 1923 a total of 2,516,000 tons.

"Bitter complaints are made against the resumption of the German competition in practically all waters, but perhaps principally in South American seas," the Gazette says in conclusion.

Every druggist in this country is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if a full pint bottle of Allenrhu, the sure conquerer of rheumatism, does not show the way to stop the agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

Allenrhu has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and piteous and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen, the discoverer of Allenrhu, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenrhu decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed druggists to guarantee it as above in every instance. BARBERS AND BOBBED HAIR!

Grannies, Matrons, Flaps-Customers

A ten per cent increase in the business of two of Wichita Falls leading barber shops has been noticed since women are having their hair bobbed. Besides the first visit, the girls come back as often as every two weeks to have their hair trimmed. Five or six girls visit the shop each day.

At times there is a girl in every chair, and more women than little girls come, according to the barbers. All ages of girls come all hours of the day. Several gray heads have been bobbed by local barbers, and many women from 30 to 40 years old visit the shops as regularly as the younger girls.

Most of the women having their hair bobbed for the first time save the hair, whether for sentiment or later use, one can judge for himself. The first-timers laugh and joke about losing their locks, and occasionally a girl gets in the chair with the towel around her neck, her hair combed smooth and the scissors ready to clip, and she changes her mind and won't let the barber clip a hair.

To many of the girls, it is a relief, the realization of a long felt desire, and they leave the shop all smiles. This is especially true if the style particularly becomes a girl.

The style is growing in favor among young married women. One woman had her three-year-old baby girl's hair bobbed, and then climbed into the chair and had the barber repeat the same stunt on her.

Many Brilliant Twirling Feats In Past Series

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK—While unusual pitching performances have been frequent in world's series baseball, the annual struggle for the championship never has known a no-hit game. The nearest to a perfect performance was pitched by Ed Reulbach of the Chicago Cubs against the Chicago White Sox in the series of 1906.

Reulbach was found for only one safety in that game, the famed "Jiga" Donohue blurring the record with a clean single. Reulbach walked six men, however, and fanned three.

Five two-hit games are on record. Ed Walsh, pitching for the White Sox against the Cubs in the same series that brought one-hit fame to Reulbach, allowed but two safe swats and won his game, 3 to 0. Still another great pitching feat was accomplished in that series when Mordecai Brown, of the Cubs, held the Sox to two blows the day after Walsh's fine game. Brown won his game, 1 to 0.

In 1913 Ed Plank, of Connie Mack's great Athletics, held the Giants to two singles and won, 3 to 1. In 1914 Bill James, of the "Miracle" team of Boston Braves, held the Athletics to two hits and shut them out, 1 to 0. Waite Hoyt, the youthful star of the New York Yankees, was found for but two hits by the Giants in the 1921 series and won, 3 to 0.

Jack Coombs, of the Athletics, hurled the best three-hit game in a world series when on October 17, 1911, he defeated Christy Mathewson and the Giants, 3 to 2 in 11 innings. Coombs won five world's series games in his career and never was beaten, although one game of which he twirled a part went against his team. He won four games for the Athletics, and, later, one for Brooklyn.

Coombs' great record follows:

October 18, 1910—Pitching for Athletics against Mordecai Brown, Chicago Cubs; won 9 to 3, allowing seven hits, striking out five men and passing nine.

October 20, 1910—Pitching for Athletics against Ed Reulbach, Chicago Cubs; won 12 to 5, allowing six hits, striking out eight men and passing four.

October 23, 1910—Pitching for Athletics against Brown, Cubs; won 7 to 2, allowing nine hits, striking out seven men and passing one.

October 17, 1911—Pitching for Athletics against Christy Mathewson New York Giants; won 3 to 2, in 11 innings, allowing three hits, striking out seven men and passing four.

October 10, 1916—Pitching for Brooklyn against Carl Mays, Boston Red Sox; won 4 to 3, allowing seven hits in six and one-third innings, striking out one man and passing one.

In 1911 against the Giants Coombs slightly injured himself and was forced to retire in the tenth inning with the score tied. Plank, who finished the game, lost it 4 to 3.

By his work in the 1910 series Coombs became one of the four pitchers to win three games in one world's series.

In 1905 Christy Mathewson won three games for the Giants against the Athletics, all of them shut-outs; in 1909 Charles "Babe" Adams won three for Pittsburgh against Detroit and in 1920 Stanley Coveleskie, of Cleveland, won three games from Brooklyn.

Young Waite Hoyt's pitching in the 1921 series for the Yankees against the Giants is recorded among the best Hoyt won two of the three games he pitched. He allowed 18 base hits, two runs, struck out 18 men and passed 11.

Last fall Jack Scott was the pitching hero of the world's series. The veteran Giant twirler capped his brilliant comeback by holding the Yankees to four hits in the third game and blanking them, 3 to 0.

GIVEN WEDDING HINTS WITH LICENSE

CENTERVILLE, Mich., Oct. 17.—County Clerk John Niendorf of St. Joseph county believes that a county clerk's responsibility does not end with the issuance of marriage licenses. He has had printed a supply of cards containing his rules for a successful marriage and each couple is given one.

One side of the card carries the county clerk's blessing: "May all your days be as happy as your wedding day."

On the reverse side appear ten "rules" to insure happy marriages. They include:

"Keep up the courtship. Go 50-50 on the money and 50-50 on the love. Make your own home and don't live with relatives. Beware the boarder, and don't be a tightwad."

"They're all good rules," Niendorf said. "I have tried them in my own home, and I know."

KLAN ISSUE BAFFLES LEGION

Resolution Committee Does Not Know What to Do

By The Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17.—The national resolutions committee of the American Legion resumed its sessions here late today, it faced a third all-night meeting, according to members of the committee.

The resolutions committee, its members said, is split wide open on the question of the Legion's attitude on the ku klux klan question. Leaders of the American Legion, it was asserted, strongly advised the committee to ignore the question.

The sentiment on the floor of the convention is openly anti-ku klux klan and it is freely predicted that any resolution favoring the denouncing of the klan by the Legion will be substantially adopted.

One member from each state is represented on the resolutions committee and the majority has submitted resolutions or suggestions favoring the denunciation of the klan. Others suggest that the question be ignored and out of the 48 resolutions and suggestions, the national committee is trying to work out a concrete resolution which can be presented to the full convention.

Official Recognition Sought by Soviets

By The Associated Press.

BELGRADE, Oct. 17.—Intensive efforts are being made by the Soviet government at Moscow, both here and in Prague, to obtain recognition by Jugoslovia and Czechoslovakia as an entering edge to worldwide recognition.

The first recognition by any European power was expected from the Stamboulisky regime, in Bulgaria, The Soviet agents in that country were in close relations with the late Stamboulisky government. It is an open secret here that only Stamboulisky's fears of complications with Great Britain and France stood between him and the carrying out of his desire to exchange diplomatic representatives with Soviet Russia.

The fall of Stamboulicky made it necessary to change the field of endeavor to Belgrade and Prague.

The efforts of the Soviet advocates are finding a strong popular response, especialy in Czechoslovakia, where the anti-German feeling still exists.

In Jugoslavia Soviet purposes have been accompanied by activities in the form of espionage. The latest incident is the one in which the Russian Colonel Loika figured prominently.

Loika arived in Belgrade from Russia about two years ago, represented himself as a czarist officer fleeing from Soviet persecution. His story, suported by documents, was credited by the war ofice; hereceived a colonel's commission and was attached to the aviation arm. Here he availed himself of every opportunity to collect military information.

But when the anti-Bolshevist Russian colony recently discovered his true character as a Soviet agent, orders were issued for the colonel's arrest. Before they could be carried out, however, the took to the air in one of the planes attached to his command, and when last seen was headed in the direction of Russia.

The incident has produced a painful impression here.

Devotes Life Raising Flowers For Needy Sick

By The Associated Press.

MUSKEGON, Mich., Oct. 17.—Believing that the greatest service any person can give to his fellow man is that of spreading cheer and happiness, A. H. Allen, the largest producer of gladioli in western Michigan, has consecrated his life to the raising of flowers for free distribution to hospitals, charitable institutions and public buildings in order that he may extend his message of human kindness to all who look upon his offerings.

About 15 years ago Mr. Allen became imbued with the idea of serving humanity. Always a lover of flowers, he decided to use them as his medium for showing his love for others.

The Allen farm has 11 acres devoted to the culture of gladioli. During the flowering season the tract is a riot of every color and color combination conceivable. In all there are 97 varieties of this popular flower, each with its distinctive coloring and its own characteristics.

Mr. Allen, during the flowering season, comes down town each day with a supply of blossoms, makes his rounds, and leaves bouquets at the hospitals and in other places where he believes they will be appreciated.

"The sight of flowers is the greatest tonic for persons who are ill or discouraged that the world ever has produced," Mr. Allen said. "I have proof that flowers do speak a language of gladness. Every morning when I come into Muskegon with an armful of flowers strangers speak to me on the street. After I have delievered the blossoms and am empty handed no one pays any attention to me. It was the flowers that the strangers spoke to before."

On the Allen farm this year are 120,000 gladioli bulbs in blossom. The grower is at work on several new varieties, several years being required to develop a new species.

GEOLOGIST DESCRIBES IRON ORE IN MINN.

By The Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 17.—Minnesota is producing a brand new iron ore, according to Prof. George M. Schwartz, of the department of geology, University of Minnesota. Three hundred tons a day of the new product is going to Detroit for use in the manufacture of a widely known automobile.

Magnetite iron bearing rock has been known to exist for many years in northern Minnesota, Dr. Schwartz explained, but it has been impossible to call it an ore because it could not be smelted by any simple process. The magnetic-concentration process, introduced by a iron company on the Mesabi range in northern Minnesota, however, changes the rock into a true ore, capable of being smelted, and it is on this account that it is now considered a new ore.

This magnetic rock is found in huge beds at the east end of the Mesabi range and has limitless possibilities of development, according to geologists and miners at the Minnesota university. The concentrating machinery that is being used was invented some years ago by E. W. Davis, superintendent of the mines experiment station at the University of Minnesota.

"The magnetite ore being used at present," Dr. Schwartz declared, "is found on the part of the Mesabi range which lies east of the town of Mesaba. The pit of the Mesabi Iron company is near Bulphur Siding, at a new town called Rabbitt. This part of the range is usually known as the East Mesabi, and extends from the town of Mesaba to Birch Lake, a distance of 20 miles. It was in this area that the iron formation of Minnesota was first discovered, but on account of the absence of rich ores, it receive little attention until recently."

HENRY FORD IS FOND OF ORIOLES

Few American birds are more brilliant than the oriole, with its almost tropical contrast of orange and black; and a story is current that this feathered cousin of the crow caught the fancy of Henry Ford, who decided to colonize it on his estate near Detroit. Men were set to work to build homes for it, and soon the trees were well stocked with bird houses, says Nations Business.

But this praiseworthy effort came to naught. Orioles flashed into the trees and right out again. They ignored the invitation; and sparrows, not so choice in their residential preferences, took advantage of it.

Then Henry Ford began looking into the customs, culture and domestic habits of the oriole, and, as a consequence, he had the bird houses, every one of them, hung on springs. Whereupon the sparrows deserted them, and the orioles, which build swinging nests, took to them at a great rate.

Solon Asks Grain Bill Be Modified

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Congressman Thomas D. Schall, republican of Minnesota, here today, said he had sent a telegram to President Coolidge, urging modification of the Capper-Tincher grain futures act. He said the telegram said, in part:

"At the time of the passage of the act I believed it would be a benefit to the grain producers. No doubt it has some good features, but I now believe some of the more stringent provisions were unwise and are responsible for a great deal of the loss suffered by the grain growers.

BANNER WHEAT GROWER

Thomas D. Campbell, of North Dakota, operates the largest wheat farm in the world. He had 200,000 acres planted to wheat this year and the total yield is said to be almost 500,000 bushels. There's not a horse or a mule on the Campbell farm. He employs expert engineers to drive his tractors and other improved farm machinery.

Thomas D. Campbell is an educated farmer, a product of the colleges of the northwest and he made his own way. He has banished all old time methods of farming and all the old time implements of farming. He has one elevator with a capacity of 100,000 bushels and it is his point of view that until the wheat grower is the master of the marketing of his product, that disaster will come to him.

He is only 41 and if he lives he hopes to have 500,000 acres under control someday and all planted to wheat. Senator Morris Sheppard in his rounds of Texas, is advocating individualistic effort instead of socialistic endeavor on the part of the voters.

Thomas D. Campbell must be the last word in individualistic effort. He is the champion wheat grower of the world.

NEW TRADE RELATION

Stanley M. Bruce is the prime minister of Australia. He is in London attending the annual meeting of the Imperial Counsel of Dominion Prime Ministers. Stanley M. Bruce made a sensational speech. He scored British dependence on America and outlined a plan to curb it. He advocated the creation of an empire purchasing board. This would buy only what the homeland and dominions could not produce. He would strike a blow at the producers of American food stuff and meat, and protect the farmers of all the dominions from competition with the farmers of the United States.

Great Britain has been the great free trade nation of the earth. Now the wheat growers of England demand a high tariff on wheat produced in England. England has 33,000,000 mouths to feed at home and the English wheat growers produce a very small part of the wheat consumed at home.

Now how would a tariff on wheat help alleviate the distress of the millions of Britons who never saw a wheat field. It must be admitted however, that the Bruce plan of an empire purchasing board would revolutionize commerce and finance to a certain extent.

THERE'S MILLIONS IN IT

New York has another murder mystery. Two weeks ago Mrs. Charles Webb died. Her estate represented a value of tow million dollars. Her friends said she had been the victim of poison. Her surviving husband was hounded alike by the sensation mongers of a great city and state.

Her last will and testament made him the beneficiary of her fortune. This the sensation mongers said, afforded conclusive evidence of guilt and that the woman had met her death by foul means. A physician who had attended the woman in her dying hours was as full of suspicions as an egg is full of meat. He hinted that there was a dark secret which should be unravelled.

Then a dozen medical experts were called in and these experts under oath, told a grand jury that the woman had died of natural cause. This was a knock-out for the sensation mongers. This was a knock-out for the relatives who had been cut off in the will without a shilling.

This should have been a knock-out for all men and women concerned who are ready to convict before all the evidence is in or before the person accused or suspected of crime has been given an opportunity to vindicate himself.

Of course, the sensation isn't a dead sensation.

There is to be a will contest and a bitter one. Wherever there is a large sum of money at stake, those who are overlooked in the making of the will appear to be ready to quarrel over the division of spoils as a flock of vultures wrangle over the carcass of a steer. It appears to be human nature.

Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes says this is the day of fleeting visions and lack of real thoroughness. He has a remedy. "The mass must be educated and democracy must be reasonable." The great man should not despair. Democracy has controlled the republic 147 years and sanity has ever come uppermost.

About the Only Chance Will Be When the Show Is Over

Black Money

BY J·S·FLETCHER AUTHOR OF "SCARBOROUGH KEEP" "THE BOROUGH TREASURER," ETC.

LADY RIVERSREADE'S HOME FOR WOUNDED OFFICERS, SURREY—Required at once, a resident lady-secretary, fully competent to undertake accounts and correspondence and thoroughly trained in shorthand and typewriting; a knowledge of French and German would be a high recommendation. Application should be made personally any day this week between 10 and 12, and 3 and 5 to Lady Reaversreade, Riversreade Court, Dorking.

He set off at once and found Rhoda Hannaford, to whom he told the story of his trip to Sellithwaite.

Then he pulled out the Times and pointed to the advertisement.

"I want you to go down to Dorking tomorrow morning and interview Lady Riversreade in response to that," he said. "Whether you'd care to take the post is another matter—what I want is that you should see her under conditions that will enable you to observe her closely."

"Why?" asked Rhona.

"I want you to see if she wears such a band as that which Hudson told Hollis and myself about," replied Hetherwick. "If she does, then she's Mrs. Whittingham! In that case, I might ask you to do more—still more."

"What, for instance?" she inquired.

"—your object in that?" she asked.

"To keep an eye on Lady Riversreade," he replied promptly. "If the Mrs. Whittingham of ten years ago at Sellithwaite is the same woman as the Lady Riversreade of Riversreade Court, of today, then, in view of your grandfather's murder, I want to know a lot more about her! Go as Miss Featherstone."

Rhona considered matters awhile, watching him steadily.

"You think that—somehow—this woman may be at the back of the mystery surrounding my grandfather's murder?" she suddenly asked.

"I think it's quite within the bounds of probability" he answered.

"All right!" she said abruptly. "I'll go! Tomorrow morning, I suppose?"

"Sooner the better," agreed Hetherwick. "And look here I'll go down with you. Don't forget that the main thing to do at Riversreade is to get a good look at Lady Riversreade's right wrist, and see what's going on!"

Riversreade Court proved to be some distance from Dorking. Half an hour's run in a taxi brought them to a house—pretentious imitation Elizabeth structure. At the lodge gates he stopped the driver and got out.

"I'll wait here for you," he said to Rhona. "You ride to the house and come back here. Be watchful now—of anything!"

Rhona nodded reassuringly and went off: when an hour had elapsed the cab came back.

"Well?" he asked as he got in and seated himself at Rhona's side. "What luck?"

"Good, I should say, answered Rhona. "She wears a broad black velvet band on her right wrist, and on the outer face is a small cameo. How's that"

"And she herself?" asked Hetherwick. "What sort of woman is she?"

"That newspaper portrait was a very good likeness of her," Rhona replied. "She's a tall, fine, handsome, well-preserved woman, perhaps forty, perhaps less. Very easy, accustomed manner, a regular woman of the world I should think."

"And the post—the secretary-ship?"

"I can have it, if I want it. I mentioned you and Mr. Kenthwaite as references. I'm willing, eager to do anything to clear up my grandfathers murder. But I don't think this woman had anything to do with it. In my opinion, she's honest and straightforward enough."

"And yet it looks as if she were certainly the Mrs. Whittingham who did a Sellithwaite jeweler to the tune of four thousand pounds!" laughed Hetherwick. "That wasn't very honest or straightforward!"

"I've been thinking about that," said Rhona. "Perhaps after all, she really thought the check would be met, and anyway, she did send the man his money, even though it was a long time afterward. And again—an important matter! Lady Riversreade may not be Mrs. Whittingham at all. More women than one wear wristlets of velvet."

"But the portrait!" exclaimed Hetherwick. "The positive identity!"

The cab drew up at the White Horse Inn, and Hetherwick led Rhona into the coffee-room. But they had hardly taken their seats when the manager came in.

"Does your name happen to be Hetherwick, sir?" he inquired. "Just so—think you. A Mr. Mapperley has twice rung you up here during the last hour—he's on the phone again now, and you'll speak to him?"

"I'll come," said Hetherwick. "That's my clerk,' he murmured to Rhona as he rose.

But he was away several minutes, and when he came back to her again, his face was grave. "Heres a new development!" he said, bending across the table and whispering. "The police have found the man who was with your grandfather in the train! Matherfield wants me to identify him. And you'll gather from that that they've found him dead! We must catch the two-twenty-four."

Matherfield was on the platform at Victoria when the two-twenty-four ran in.

"Last night a man named Appleyard came to me," he explained. "He has a chemist's shop in Housecerry Road, Westminster: But yesterday he happened to read an account of the Hannaford affair. Then he remembered something that seemed to him to have a possible connection with it. Some little time ago he advertised for an assistant and one of the applicants was a medium-sized man, sallow-complexioned, thin face and beard, large dark eyes, very intelligent, superior manner, poorly dressed and evidently in low water—"

"That's the man!" exclaimed Hetherwick.

"He said his name was James Granett, and his address Number Eight, Fligwoods Rents, Gray's Inn Road—Holborn end. Lately he'd been in the employ of a firm in East Ham but it had to reduce its staff, and he'd been thrown out of work. Appleyard wrote to Granett engaging him. But Granett never turned up, and Appleyard heard no more of him until he read this Sunday paper. Then he felt sure Granett was the man, and came to me.

"We heard the story, went to Granett's room and found the man dead in his bed!"

"Dead!" exclaimed Hetherwick. "Dead—then—"

"He'd been dead several days," replied Matherfield grimly. It was a poor room, but clean—you could see from various little things that the man had been used to a better condition. He'd evidently gone to bed in the usual way, his clothes were all carefully folded and arranged. An evening paper on a chair by his bed fixed the date. It was the same as that on which Hannaford died. I've made a careful note of that circumstance! Everything looked as if the man had gone to bed in just his ordinary way, read the paper, dropped off to sleep, and died in his sleep."

"Yes! And from what cause, I wonder?" exclaimed Hetherwick.

"Precisely! The same idea occurred to me, knowing what I did about Hannaford," said Matherfield. "However, the doctors will tell us more about that. A locked box we found in the room may contain something that will give us further information."

At Granett's lodgings, Hetherwick identified him as the man on the tube train.

He stood by while Matherfield forced open the box and began to examine the contents of the box. The officer drew forth two bundles of letters, neatly arranged and tied up with tape. Unloosing the fastenings and rapidly spreading the envelopes out on the table, he suddenly put his finger on an address.

"There you are, Mr. Hetherwick!" he exclaimed. "That's just what I expected to find—though I certainly didn't think we should discover it so quickly. This man has lived at Sellithwaite some time or other. Look there, at this address—Mr. James Granett, 7 Victoria Terrace, Sellithwaite, Yorkshire of course. That's were old acquaintance. See—there are several letters!"

Other envelopes indicated that Granett had been in Sellithwaite ten years before—at the time of which Hannaford had spoken to him on the tube train. Further search revealed in his clothes a brand new five pound note.

"I'll lay anything he hadn't had that on him long!" said Matherfield. "Got it that night doubtless! And from whom?"

"I should say Hannaford gave it to him," suggested Hetherwick.

But Matherfield shook his head.

"That's a definite clue!" he said, with emphasis. "I can trace that!"

THE OLD OAK TREE

When birds are in his branches
And flowers star the glade,
The old oak tree content is he,
With clothes of somber shade.
Let tanagers in scarlet,
And dandelions trim,
Light up the scene—a quiet green
Is good enough for him.

Throughout the passing summer
The simple hearted oak
Will brook no change to garments strange—
He loves his modest cloak.
Enough to hear the music
Of bird and brook and breeze,
That join in song, and watch the throng
Of butterflies and bees.

But in the misty autumn
When all the birds have fled
The old oak tree appears, does he,
Adorned in gorgeous red.
A busy-fingered dyer
Jack Frost—you've heard the name—
Has made that sheen of somber green
A giant flower of flame.

A flower that rain its petals
With every wind that blows
Till all the glen is bright again
With pink and gold and rose
And soon a myriad blossoms
Bloom on the forest floor—
The birds have fled, the flowers are dead,
But lo! it's spring once more.

THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Where the citizens cannot afford to pave the streets the next best thing that can be done is to pave them properly graded, wet thoroughly and let pack, then have them oiled. This would save housekeepers much house-cleaning in the summer time, and in wet weather prevent having much disagreeable mud to contend with. I would sight you to the block between seventh and eighth streets on Denver.

This block has been oiled twice, but was not graded and is flat, but has no mud to speak of after all the rain. It would pay you to see this block and observe the difference in the condition of it and other parts of the city where the streets have not been oiled. I dare say that if the streets are properly graded and allowed to settle after dragging they could then be kept in good shape by having them oiled every three months. This would cost about $35 the first time and about $25 thereafter, making a total cost of $110 a year per block, and would save the city a considerable sum usually paid out in grading and dragging the streets.

THE COLONIZATION QUESTIONNAIRE

How Long Can the Owners Hold Their Land

Many of the land owners have expressed themselves as being apprehensive of the amount of taxes that may be levied on their land on account of the increase in value through irrigation and the additional water taxes.

It is going to be necessary for the land owners to pay these taxes if they don't sell first. If the land is not farmed so as to produce good crops, taxes are apt to be quite a financial burden to many of them. Farming large acreages of land under irrigation is not generally practical in the hands of the average man.

Those who have been following the results of the questionaire remember that comparatively few of the land owners had made money out of oil. They will also recall that it is the exceptional man who has made enough to pay taxes through farming.

The questionaire has revealed some unusual and contradictory situations, but if one remembers the reports on oil and farming it is hard to understand the following.

The owners were asked "Are you in a financial position to hold your land and pay water taxes plus other taxes without farming or selling?"

Thirty-three per cent did not answer the question.

Forty per cent said, "Yes."

Twenty-seven per cent said "No."

The answer to these various contradictory answers may possibly be found in the fact that many of the land owners are men of considerable financial means and that their holdings, under the project, are not such a large part of their wealth that is going to worry them.

FINISH POWELL OIL ARGUMENTS

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 17.—Arguments in the cases brought by J. G. Bass and associates and James P. Straughan, receiver for the Galloway interest in the Powell oil field in Navarro county, were concluded in Travis county district court today, by Judge George Calhoun.

The Bass interests are contesting validity of the rule prohibiting drilling of wells within certain specified distances of other wells. The Straughan suit seeks to compel pipe line companies to connect three of the Galloway wells with their lines.

Today's Poem

In the Amphitheatre of Life.
The Superficial Decorator.

I had the material wherewith,
To give me whatever I wanted
But I never knew what I wanted.
Then one day an artist came from
Afar to paint a local portrait,
The community dined him, put laurels
On his head and homage at his feet.
Then I knew at last what I wanted.
I wanted, not the homage paid
Wealth but the homage paid art.

I studied in Chicago, New York,
And Paris. At last I was finished
In bitterness for the world.
Gave the homage I thought due,
Me to our local dyer's son who
Started life as a sign painter.
With nothing in his heart
But the love of art and
Who gained his skill,
All alone, sweating it out
From the substance of his soul
That homage meant nothing
To him but the world to me.

Then one day with my lips curled
Up in a cynical smile and
My soul eating its own wormwood
I passed the village restaurant,
What strange fate
Made me stop and gaze at
Just a little sweet potato
Growing on the window sill
With sprouting tendrils
Trying to out-fragrance the
Nearby shoots of the narcissus
And hyacinth bulbs?
Somehow in it I saw the
Agony of my own soul
Trying to gain credit
For a perfume of bloom that
Never gathered the essence of it.
For the fragrance of the bloom
Is not an immediate thing.
It is the manifestation
Of the quality of the substance
That the roots have gathered
And stored long before there
Ever was the hope of a blossom.

Facts about Child-birth

AN eminent physician has shown to thousands of expectant mothers just how to be free from dread, and from much of the suffering which many mothers experience for months, right up to the moment when the Little One arrives!

Mrs. Wm. Washington, 107 Louise Ave., Nashville, Tenn., says: "There is positively no woman on earth that would be without 'Mother's Friend' during expectancy if she only knew the value of comfort."

"Mother's Friend" is externally applied to the region of the abdomen, back and hips. It relieves the tension on nerves and ligaments as month follows month. Finally, it makes child-birth a joy instead of a painful dread.

Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., BA-72, Atlanta, Ga., for a free wonderful book containing information every expectant mother should have. POEMS SWEET REMINDERS

Every now and then we pick up a book of poems and our eyes rest on verses here and there and we sigh as we read them, and remember when we felt just like that.

Who has not, when reading lines from Tennyson's Maud

"Half the night I waste in sighs,
Half in dream I sorrow after
The delight in early skies;
In a wakeful doze I sorrow
For the hand, the lips, the eyes,
For the meeting of the morrow,
The delight of happy laughter
The delight of low replies"

paused and closed their eyes and remembered sleepless nights and wonderful days when one was in love with a certain some one?

And a clear picture of them comes before the eyes, and we live over again the golden days of our romance with them.

People who say they do not like poetry do not know what it means; it isn't just reading words in a book, but it is being reminded of all the love affairs we ever had. And it is fun to live them over again, and ponder as we sit with the book in our laps in front of the fire.

AMUSEMENT CALENDAR

Strand — Mae Murray in "The French Doll."

Olympic—"Ruggles of Red Gap." A James Cruze production.

Empress—Wesley Barry in "The Printer's Devil."

Gem — Katherine McDonald and Bryant Washburn in "The Woman Conquers."

"Ruggles" Exceptionally Good

"Ruggles of Red Gap" at the Olympic is a clean-cut comedy with keen satirical thrusts — the character sketches are perfectly acted and the story is rich in incident. "Ruggles" is another triumph for James Cruze.

Ernest Torrence, Edward Horton, Frank Elliot, Fritzi Ridgeway, Louise Dresser, Charles Ogle and Lois Wilson are sketching the characters and following their antics, one forgets that it is all quite preposterous. We see Red Gap being put on the map; we see Egbert's wife determined to make her husband over into a gentleman and taking him to Paris to teach him manners; we see his delight in embarrasing her by hobnobbing with lowly servants; we see him take an impoverished Englishman's valet away from him in a game of draw poker; we see these made-over rancit folks tame Ruggles back to Red Gap and Egbert passing him off as a retired British army officer.

Humor must be found, and the only way to find it is to add a few sparks of unadulterated burlesque as James Cruze has cleverly done. "Ruggles of Red Gap" is one of the best comedies that has ever come to the silver sheet. A noted New York critic says, "A delightful comedy gem, excellently directed and acted by artists who understand real entertainment values."

"If Winter Comes" Booked

An important booking announced by the Strand theater for next week is the William Fox screen versions of A. S. M. Hutchinson's famous story, "If Winter Comes." This widely read novel has been faithfully picturized under the direction of Harry Millarde, the man who made "Over the Hill" and "The Town That Forgot God." Percy Marmont as Mark Sabre and Ann Forest as Lady Tybar head the cast. A year was spent in filming the picturesque scenes of English life, the exteriors being taken in the actual localities mentioned in the book.

One of the most sympathetically portrayed characters is Hapgood, the boyhood friend of Mark Sabre's, who gives such a thorough insight into the thoughts and feelings of "Puzzlehead" Mark. The part is finely played by Arthur Metcalf, an actor of unusual ability and long experience.

Bosworth's Diary

Hobart Bosworth has a truly remarkable diary. It covers 40 years of his eventful life and is more than one million words long. No one except Mr. Bosworth has ever seen it. He does not intend that it shall be published until 50 years after he is dead. He will make such provision in his will. The document details the earliest days of picture making and gives intimate pictures of the film pioneers.

The journal also recounts the actor's own dramatic life story and describes his mental and emotional development during his early success as a leading man on the stage, the seven years in which he fought illness on the desert, and his entry into motion pictures. Strangely enough, the character which Mr. Bosworth plays in "Name the Man!" Victor Seastrom's first American production, keeps such a diary. During the making of the picture at the Goldwyn studios the actor revealed for the first time the existence of his own autobiography.

Goldwyn to Film "Ben Hur"

The long-awaited announcement of the director of the motion picture of General Lew Wallace's immortal "Ben Hur" has just been made by President F. J. Godsol of the Goldwyn Pictures corporation, and A. L. Erlanger. Charles Brabin, one of the oldest directors in the business, whose most recent productions here been commissioned to this important assignment. Mr. Brabin will work in the closest association with Miss June Mathis, who will assume the editorial directorship of the gigantic motion picture enterprise.

PICTURES AND PEOPLE

Hal Roach is occupying his time in the east attending the Broadway stage and screen hits. He couldn't help but register gladness over the reception of "Why Worry" at the Strand. The other day he was the guest of honor at the A. M. P. A. luncheon and made a very enjoyable speech.

The secret is out. We're grown so accustomed to reading of million-dollar productions that we refuse to enthuse over the cost. But we are more than interested in the cost figures of Rex Ingram's "Sacramouche," which have mounted into the colossal sum of $1,139,014. The end is not yet in sight as the picture is now being edited, with the consequent retakes and the insurance which it is predicted will itself call for a premium well into six figures.

Pupils of the New York School of Dramatic Art have been instructed to attend performances of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" at the Astor theatre this week in order to gain a real impression of the value of make-up in regard to dramatic characterization as illustrated by Lon Chaney in the title role. If, according to reports, it takes Chaney three hours to make up, we see where the pupils will disobey union hours and be kept after school.

Tom Geraghty, scenario writer and production editor for Famous, has arrived in New York for a short vacation, part of which will be spent with Booth Tarkington at the author's summer home at Kennebunkport, Me. They will talk over plans for the filming of "Pied Piper Malone," the original story which the novelist and playwright has written for Tom Meighan. Incidentally this is the first original screen story ever written by Mr. Tarkington.

Famous is making big plans for Doug, Jr. Rumor has it that his first picture will be a special. It is rather difficult to get the right sort of material for the star because his age makes anything but light comedy dramas prohibitive. The younger Doug has inherited his father's smile and enthusiasm—assets which should carry him over many barriers.

Returning from Europe and expected in New York the latter end of the week are Betty Compson and Betty Blythe.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Devilled Chipped Beef.—Beat four eggs slightly and pour into a skillet in which one tablespoon of butter has been melted. Dice one cup of smoked, shaved beef and add two the eggs together with one teaspoon of prepared mustard, one tablespoon of vinegar, a dash of cayenne and one-eighth teaspoon of salt. Stir slowly until eggs are set, then serve.

Pork Chops—Have frying pan hot. Put in a little fat, roll pork chops in flour, season with salt and pepper and fry until brown. Add boiling water to cover. Simmer slowly for forty minutes, keeping plenty of water on them. Add dash of sage to each chop a few minutes before serving. When done thicken with gravy as usual. They will be as tender as chicken.

Corn Fritters—Take one pint of green corn, cut from cob; one-half teaspoon salt, six level tablespoons of flour. Beat yolks of two eggs, add to corn and flour; beat whites of two eggs and fold in other ingredients. Drop in hot fat with a tablespoon and fry until both sides are browned. Serve on a hot platter.

Quince Marmalade—Three pounds quinces, one and one-half pounds apples, two cups sweet cider, sugar Pare, quarter and core apples and quinces. Put in a baking dish and add cider. Cover and bake in a slow oven until tender. Add more water as the cider thickens and becomes absorbed. The mixture should be solid, but there should always be enough liquid to prevent burning until tender. Measure fruit and add one and one-half cups sugar to each cup of fruit. Cook, stirring constantly until thick and jelly-like. Pour into jelly glasses and cover with parafin when cold.

THIS LITTLE BABY GIRL

Was Benefited by the Good Her Mother Got from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Pittsburgh, Pa.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before my little girl was born, and the effect it had was wonderful. This will be the first child I have nursed as I had to bring my two boys up on the bottle. I was very nervous and worried, tired all the time and after I read about the Vegetable Compound I tried it and kept on with it. I still continue its use and recommend it to my friends. You may publish these facts as a testimonial for your medicine."—Mrs. WM. KLINGE, 169 Plymouth S., Pittsburgh, Pa.

It is remarkable how many cases have been reported similar to this one. Many mothers are left in a weakened and run-down condition after the birth of the child, and for such mothers the care of the baby is well-nigh impossible. Not only is it hard for the mother, but the child itself will indirectly suffer.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent tonic for the mother at this time. It is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and does not contain any harmful drugs.

Four Teams Are Undefeated In This District

COYOTES, ELECTRA, VERNON, QUANAH UP FOR CHAMPIONSHIP; ELIMINATION SATURDAY

By T. T. HUNT

Its Wichita Falls, Electra, Vernon and Quanah now, for honors in the north half of district number four, interscholastic league. Wichita Falls and Electra of the 18 high schools in this half of the district have come through the first three scheduled games with a perfect 1.000 per cent standing, having played three and won three. Quanah and Vernon stand in a peculiar class of their own, each having won two of the scheduled games but tieing their own affair, 0-0. This leaves these teams a 1.000 percentage, but not quite so good as the Coyotes and Electra.

All this mix-up is expected to come to settlement Saturday, after which games some will be there and some will be notable for their absence. The two outstanding leaders, Wichita Falls and Electra, meet here at a very opportune time to at once settle an old rivalry and to see who will head this part of the country on the gridiron this year. A comparison of the two teams gives the Coyotes a slight advantage, they having won all their games in easy style while Electra has had to fight for their present standing. However, neither team has met the same team yet, which adds another feature to the story.

Wichita opened the season by a 74 to 0 defeat of Nocona here, while Electra was trouncing Fairview about 114 to 0. Between the two, Electra probably had the easier opponent, though the Coyotes won in a walk. The second series proved closer, Wichita blanking Bowie by two touchdowns, while Electra was barely beating the little Crowell team by 7 to 0. Here Electra took an added game on, defeating Burkburnett only 6 to 3. The next results were: Wichita 26, Henrietta 7; Electra 14, Graham 0. A total summing up of this schedule complete gives Electra four wins out of four, Wichita three out of three. Electra was scored on once, Wichita once.

To Burkburnett goes the honor of first scoring this year on the Electra crew, while Henrietta claims that place on the Wichita Falls program.

The game here Saturday should be the deciding contest as to who shall represent this half in the district playoff. And if dope means anything, the Coyotes, playing under three easy wins, and with their old enemy in their own back yard, should take the game by at least two touchdowns. It will be a fight when these two teams meet, for it is a well-known fact that each team has been holding back its best for the contest, which has not been in vain. Saturday, the coaches are expected to instruct their teams to cut loose with any and everything necessary to at once cinch the honors of the district here and beat that other club.

Vernon will meet Paducah, a small team, while Quanah is elected to meet Crowell, another small town bunch, but which has tripped up several aspirants already. The big teams are playing at home, which is a factor, and both are expected to come out winners. If this happens, there will be some more playing around here, first of which should be, of course, a playoff between these two. If either loses, the dope goes the way of Quanah before the fighting Crowell club.

Among other bidders who fought a good fight, Seymour stands out as one having gone to the third game before being eliminated. The Seymour team was admittedly playing slower teams in its early games, but showed up as a contender nevertheless. Vernon is responsible for putting them out of the running, beating Seymour last Saturday at Vernon, 34 to 0. This was Seymour's first real test, and when it came it proved a hard one. Next Saturday they play Henrietta at home, and while having no bearing on the league race, it is expected to be a hard fought game.

Graham is another team which ran well, running into a snag when it met Electra last Saturday, losing by a score of 14 to 0. The Graham offense could not be got under way, although the defense was enough to keep down the score.

The 18 schools comprising the north half of district number four have shown some good exhibitions of football so far, which is all that counts in a championship way for 14 of them. Following is a list of those teams defeated and put out of the race with one of the teams doing the trick in each case: Crowell by Electra, Nocona by Wichita Falls, Henrietta by Nocona, Fairview by Electra, Bowie by Wichita Falls, Burkburnett by Electra, Paducah by Quanah, Bridgeport by Graham, Decatur by Jacksboro, Jacksboro by Graham, Chillicothe by Quanah, Olney by Seymour, Graham by Electra, Seymour by Vernon.

Everett Scott May Retire From Yank List

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct 17.—Not only will the New York Giants, fallen world's champions, go through a rebuilding process before they are ready to scale title heights again, but the Yankees, their successors to baseball's crown, also may bolster a few links in their victorious machine before the 1924 season gets under way.

It developed today that Everett Scott, veteran shortstopper of the Yankees, who holds the all-time record for consecutive games played, is considering voluntary retirement, although Miller Huggins, manager of the new champions, has no desire himself to part with the game's greatest "iron man."

Scott, however, has an attractive business enterprise, in view, which, if accepted, would mean his passing after having piled up the remarkable record for participating in 1,138 consecutive games, a record he started in 1916, with the Boston Red Sox.

Scott may find the call of the game too strong to resist when spring training comes around, but in the event he drops out, his shoes may be filled by Joe Boley, "$100,000 Beauty," of the Baltimore Orioles, who has been eagerly sought by a number of major league clubs for several seasons.

Series retrospect today brought to light another record, made by Bob Meusel, whose $50,000 hit broke up the deciding game. Meusel drove in eight runs during the series, shattering the mark of seven, established by Tommy Leach with Pittsburgh in the series of 1903, and four times equalled by Danny Murphy and Frank Baker of the old Athletes: Eddie Roush of Cincinnati, and Irish Meusel, brother of Bob, in the 1921 Giant-Yankee series.

KID GLEASON RESIGNS OFFICIALLY

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—William "Kid" Gleason, the fiery manager of the Chicago White Sox since 1919, resigned today, making the fourth managerial position to be filled in the American league before the opening of the 1924 season.

The 58 year-old pilot, with a record of 37 years in baseball, resigned, he said, because he was discouraged with his attempts to reconstruct the club, wrecked with the exposure of the world's series scandal with Cincinnati in 1919.

"Hoofs Across the Sea."

Uncle Sam with his well known horsepitality has welcomed the renowned Papyrus to his shores and will attempt to beat him in a race next Saturday. Cousin John Bull is peerlingly anxiously across the Atlantic with his field glasses to see who is in the lead—the Anglo-Saxon race is dominated at present by a horse race!

Whether it is Zev, "the wild three-year-old of the Rancocas stables," or "My Own," or your own particular favorite, the American horse to toe, or rather hoof the mark, will have the best wishes of the entire country. If the Star Spangled horse and jockey wins they will be more famous than the well known Sir Galahad and his noble steed. While if they lose—they can pose for the "end of the trail."

When you chortle over the fact that this is the year for youthful champions like Helen Wills, who is only 18, and Bobby Jones who is 21, then remember that Papyrus and his opponent are only three years old!

WASHINGTON U. PLAYERS ARE 'PIKERS'

By The Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS Oct. 17.—The majority of the students of Washington university prefer the traditional nickname of "Pikers" for the football team a survey of the student body shows. Recently the nickname was changed to "Bears." The vote today was three to one to return to the old name of "Pikers." The student council also went on record as favoring the old name.

Brevity.

Swiftly, I would abolish
All speech except the bold.
Why pause to pad or polish
A tale that must be told?
Let wits employ me often,
And all observe me well,
That none may say I soften
Or on my story dwell—
That when I bring them sorrow,
With message, short and sad,
Men may believe tomorrow
I'll leap to make them glad!

SIAMESE PRINCE FOOTBALL PLAYER

Bostonians have an example of royal activity in sport close at hand. The example is Pradit Suhkum, prince of Siam, sophomore at Boston university and candidate for the varsity football eleven at halfback says the Boston Transcript.

His royal personage weighs only 125 pounds and extends only 5 feet 4 inches into the air, but "Sukie," as his teammates have dubbed him, has managed to make so good an impression on the head coach, that he survived a cut in the varsity squad which reduced the numbers from about 70 to 35.

Prince Pradit Suhkum, 19 years old, has been in the United States since he was 13 years old. At Gunnery school, Washington, Conn., he learned his first lessons in the American sport. He played football on the school team for three years at the quarterback and halfback position, doing much of the drop kicking for his team. So well did he succeed with his mates that he was elected captain in his final year.

Then he entered Boston university and played on the freshman team that year. Although scanty weight is a considerable handicap in defensive play, he is a speedy ball carrier and has a deceptive shift in his running which sends him weaving in and out and makes him extremely hard to tackle.

The prince thinks that football as played by the American colleges is the greatest of all sports and he is serious in his intention of introducing it into the colleges of his native land when he returns after graduation. He is much impressed with the importance of amateur sport in the development of young men.

Inasmuch as the leading colleges of the little country, the capital of which is Bangkok, are government owned and controlled, it would seem that the prince's introduction of football should have fair success.

ZEV-PAPYRUS ARE TRAINING

International Classic Saturday Drawing Great Interest

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Wade Zev, America's entry in the $100,000 international race next Saturday, went through his final hard workout today in form that aroused a marked contrast of opinion. Papyrus, England's thoroughbred hope, cantered through his first workout under Steve Donoghue, premier British rider, who will handle the reins of the derby winner, in the classic at Belmont park.

Zev's workout, a mile and a quarter in 2:09, fell short of the expectations of some observers, to whom the horse's slow finish was disappointing, but general belief prevailed that the Rancocas star purposely was eased up after showing a brilliant burst of speed in the first few furlongs. Zev covered the first half in the remarkably good time of 47 seconds flat and was clocked in 1:12 2-5 for the six furlongs. Thereafter, Jockey L. Fator, who had the leg up, restrained the colt, turning the mile in 1:39 4-5, nine furlings in 1:54, and finishing the mile and a quarter in 2:09.

"The work was all right," declared Sam Hildreth, Rancocas trainer. "I told Fator to give Zev a mile in about 1:40 and let him go on a quarter farther without 'hunching' him. That's what he did and I'm satisfied with the colt's showing." Papyrus, with Donoghue up, had an easy gallop of six furlongs but is slated for a final preparatory test tomorrow morning, probably at a mile and a half, the distance of the international race.

Donoghue, sitting erect, and holding a long rein in contrast with the customary American style of riding, got his first survey of the Belmont track, on which he will match his riding wits with Earl Sande, leading American jockey, in the big race. The little English jockey seemed pleased with the condition of Papyrus, which he piloted to his fifth derby triumph at Epsom Downs this year.

JOCKEY HANGS UP A WORLD'S RECORD

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 17.—Jockey Ivan Parke established what is thought to be an American, if not a world's record, when he won the fifth race at Latonia today. The victory marked his tenth win in 12 starts, and horsemen at Latonia said they never heard of another jockey in the world equalling the feat.

Parke finished third with his other two mounts yesterday.

HOPE TO PLAY JR. SERIES TODAY

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 17.—Only a downpour or rain when it is time to call the fourth game of the junior world's series here tomorrow between the Kansas City American association pennant winners, and the Baltimore International league leaders, will cause another postponement, officials of the two clubs asserted here tonight.

Kansas City has won two games, Baltimore one.

FOOTBALL.

In plays where linemen are drawn into the backfield for a shift into an unbalanced line, what are the important considerations that insure the success of the play?

Answered by
GLEN "POP" WARNER

Football Coach, University of Pittsburgh for past eight years. Teams undefeated five to eight years. Former Athletic Director Carlisle Indians. Successful coach for 28 years.

In such formations the linemen who are back of the line for the purpose of shifting to either side of the ball to form an unbalanced line should be in such a position that not more than three steps or two steps and a jump will bring them into their shifted positions on the line. In shift plays, quickness in shifting into position is the main factor in the success of the plays used. Therefore the players shifting should be in such a position that they can quickly jump into the different formations. The next important factor in the success of these shifts is for the ball to be put into play the instant the shift has been completed.

REDS WILL PLAY CUBAN CHAMPIONS?

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Oct. 17.—August Herrmann, president of the Cincinnati National league baseball club, will probably go to Havana about February 15, and will if practicable make arrangements for at least one game between the Reds and whatever club wins the Cuban championship, according to a story published in the Cincinnati Times-Star today.

Texas Aggies And Louisiana State Play Saturday

By The Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 17.—Two football games of more than usual interest in Louisiana are scheduled for Saturday the meeting here between Tulane and Louisiana Polytechnic institute, the latter tutored by "Billey" Dietz, old Carlisle star, who was a member of the Indian eleven when Glenn Warner piloted it to the championship of the country, and the contest between Louisiana state and Texas A. & M. at Baton Rouge.

Louisiana state will experience its first air test under Mike Donahue's leadership in the game with Texas. The Texans are conceded to have a considerable margin because the 1922 eleven is very intact, and the coaching system has been the same for three years while the Tiger personnel has been juggled back and forth and the entire squad has been learning football from a new coach. They played a nothing to nothing tie in 1920, the Tigers won six to nothing in 1921, when McFarland picked up his own fumble in mid-field and raced through the entire Texas team for a touchdown, but the Texans marched to a 47-0 victory last year.

Legion's Card Promises to Be Best So Far of the Season

The boxing card scheduled tonight at the opera house, under the auspices of the American Legion, promises to be one of the best fight cards ever presented here, according to those in charge of the frays.

All the boxers who were listed to entertain are either already in town or have notified the legion they will be on hand tonight.

Arrangements have been completed to have the five-piece orchestra on hand to slip a little jazz into the bill between the bouts and while the crowd awaits the beginning of the show.

Seats are going fast and it has been necessary to arrange some extra seats to take care of the increasing demand.

The management wishes to call especial attention to Wildcat Monte, of Amarillo, who has been featured in main events in his native hamlet. Wildcat is here and straining on the leash. He looks like a real prize fighter.

Another one who is expected to make things interesting is Duke Lionel, Fort Worth high football player. Duke is also here and appears fit to meet his weight in bearcats.

'MASTER MIND' IS NOW DEAD

Joseph Grizzard Connected With $630,000 Pearl Theft

The authorities of scotland Yard were informed the other day of the death in London of Joseph Kemmi Grizzard, one of the most noted receivers of stolen jewels in Britain says London Mail.

Grizzard had been widely known to he police for many years, and his name will be best remembered in connection with the theft of a pearl necklace valued at $630,000 belonging to the late Ax alxyer of London.

Grizzard, who was a connoisseur of diamonds, pearls and all precious stones, was the master mind that conceived this historic robbery which was committed 10 years ago.

Mailed From Paris.

The pearls were sent from Paris packed in a box which was afterwards sealed and sent by registered post addressed to Mr. Mayer. When Mr. Mayer opened the package he found it contained bits of coal which had been substituted for the pearls.

How the pearls were stolen remained a mystery until Scotland Yard detectives arrested Grizzard and four other men. It was then proved that Grizzard had by means of a subterfuge obtained the parcel from the postman who was responsible for its delivery, had broken the seals and abstracted the pearls and after substituting pieces of coal resealed the package so cleverly as to make it appear that it had not been tampered with.

After Grizzard and his fellow criminals had been arrested, a man to whom they had handed the pearls became alarmed and put them in a quatchbox, which he dropped into the gutter at Islington.

They were picked up by a plumber who had not the vaguest idea of their value. He handed them round in various public houses and tried to sell the $630,000 worth of gems for pots of beer. Nobody, however, would purchase them.

He then took them to a police station and the inspector on duty, after looking at them, said, "They are not real pearls: take them away." Eventually he spoke to a policeman, and, acting on his advice, went to Scotland Yard, where the late Chief Inspector Ward recognized them as the stolen jewels.

A Man of His Word.

Grizzard and two o. his companions were sentenced to seven years' penal servitude, and the two others received lighter sentences.

Grizzard was suspected of being concerned in receiving the proceeds of many big jewel robberies, but he was so careful in his methods the police had the greatest difficulty in connecting him with them.

A jewel thief would ring him up on the telphone and say: "I have 10,000 pounds worth of jewels. I am coming to see you." Grizzard would reply, "That is not my way of doing business. I will send one of my women clerks to see you; meet her at so and so, and she will give you my card. In the exchange you will hand her the stuff and I will tell you in two hours what I will pay for it."

Your Heart and Home Problems Solved By Elizabeth Thompsun

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am 18 years old. When I was 15 I met a boy two years my senior. A short time after our acquaintance I thought he was angry at me and didn't care for my company. One evening, I went with his boy friend. I didn't try to spite him by going with his friend and would give anything if I had never met him. After I went with his friend this other boy and I went with each other about 18 months.

He lives in a different town. Every time I was around him he asked me for a date until lately. He always talks to me but never asks for dates. I had friends tell me he would not go with me any more because I went with his friend and didn't treat him right. Don't you think it this were the reason he would have mentioned it before now? Other girls have said I wasn't fast enough for him. Please tell me how I can regain his old friendship. He means all the world to me. Do not ask me to forget him.

He goes with many other girls. I have many boy friends but do not care to go with them as I love this boy too dearly. A LOST LOVER.

The things your friends tell you about your boy friend's indifference do not sound probable. Surely if he had resented yor going with his boy friend he would have shown his resentment sooner and would not have gone with you 18 months afterward. It never pays to comfort oneself with the feeling that the boy is too fast. He wasn't too fast until he grew indifferent to you. Doubtless he finds more enjoyment with some other girl now and has grown tired of you.

It is useless for you to go on grieving for the boy and wanting him back. He can not be forced to return to you and therefore effort on your part to bring him back will avail nothing. Let pride come to the front, and no longer show how much you care because of his indifference. By all means go with other boys and make every effort to forget some one who no longer cares for you.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am a boy 22 years old and have been married two years. The first year was very pleasant, but the second has been awful. Every time I go home my wife curses and raises mischief for nothing and tells me that she has other friends and she can get anything she wants. Tell me if you think I should live with her or not.

FRECKLES.

Something ought to be done to make the conditions of your home happier. Of course if you and your wife cannot get along together, separation seems the only wise course. Have a heart to heart talk with her and offer her her freedom since she is so discontented. Say that you cannot go on living in the inharmony which now exists and you think both would be happier if she were free to enjoy her other friends. She may realize that after all you mean a great deal to her and as a result try harder to make your home happy.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am a young girl and want you to tell me how I can win the love of a young boy I have just met. He seems to like me very much. Please give me some advice.

BROWN EYES.

Love is a thing which cannot be forced. Since the boy seems to like you be satisfied in his friendship. He may learn to care a great deal for you and again he may not, but any effort on your part would not help matters.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a married woman, thirty years old. My neighbors and relations are all the time trying to cause trouble between my husband and me. I stay at home all the time and don't go any place with a man. Even so I am criticized. I don't know what to do. I am sick all the time. I try to make my husband a good home but he doesn't appreciate it. He throws other fellows up to me when I am innocent.

My folks never help me out when I am sick, but always come when I am able to cook and do for them.

Please advise me which way to turn as I am between two fires.

TROUBLED ONE.

You are badly in need of a vacation in order to get a new viewpoint. If you could only go away for a while, you would return to your home with a new desire to be happy there, and your husband would have a chance to realize the place you have filled in the home.

It seems to me your discouraged attitude is a handicap to you. Instead of looking on the bright side of things and refusing to let the unpleasant drag down your spirits, you are ready to look on the dark side of everything. Naturally when you are discouraged sick and resentful, you make your husband unhappy too. Change your attitude to one of hopefulness and you will find much more in life to encourage you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl in my teens. Recently I met a boy a few years my senior. Don't form the wrong impression of me right away for I am not in love. I merely like this boy and enjoy his company very much. I do not keep steady company with him as he lives in another city but we correspond. He is nice, mannerly and well-behaved. He would like to come to see me often. How often should I permit him to come. He is the only one I think anything of at all and my parents approve of him.

Please give me a remedy for oily hair. My hair is bobbed and I shampoo it once a week, but in three or four days the oil comes back.

THAT RED-HEADED GAL.

Once or twice a week would not be too often to let the boy call to see you. He may not find it possible to see you so often, however, since he lives in another city.

The trouble with your hair is the fact that you wash it so often. The oil glands have become weakened. I think you will find that if you let your hair go three weeks without washing, the glands will improve and it will become less necessary for you to wash your hair often to remove the oil. There is a trying period when the hair is left three or four weeks without washing, but it only lasts three or four days and then the hair seems less oily. Do not brush or comb your hair when it is drying, because that increases the oil.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a woman thirty-five years old, but not to old to ask for an opinion. I have three girls whose ages are fifteen, eleven and nine years. What would be proper underwear for them to take to a boarding school in southern Florida. My youngest daughter is large for her age. When bloomers are worn, should drawers be worn under them? Should I buy bloomers or drawers for them to take? Do girls in boarding schools wear bloomers or drawers?

BROWN EYES.

Supply each daughter with under wear which will be easily laundered. I would recommend a white wash fabric which would stand boiling, such as nainsook. It is impossible for me to determine the quantity because I do not know the conditions of the school or the facilities for having the laundry work done. If you are in doubt about the quantity to provide, write to the school and inquire.

When bloomers are worn drawers are rarely worn under them. Personally I prefer a light colored bloomer so that there is no temptation to wear the garment after it is soiled. Some girls prefer bloomers. Either would be all right and therefore I would advise the preference of each daughter. Both are worn at boarding schools.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My girl friend who was rather bashful when around boys never recognized a certain boy with whom she went to school. Now she is older and quite over her bashfulness and she would like to recognize him as her friend. What can she do to gain his friendship? It was only through her bashfulness that she never recognized him. She wonders if it is too late to do differently now. Please give some advice about the matter.

THANKS.

Many girls feel self-conspicious about boys and ignore friendships for that reason. Since your friend has sufficiently recovered from that stage of her girlhood, I would advise her to speak to the boy the next time she sees him. I presume he will show recognition as soon as she speaks to him.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am a comparative stranger here, having been in town only a few months. I have been wondering if there is such a thing in this town as a boy who can think of something besides "petting" when he is with a girl.

Occasionally I meet young men through my girl friends and business associates who seem at first to be real gentlemen, but when I go out with them my air castles tumble because they are one and all for "petting" and if one does not allow it they don't ask to come back. They find a girl who will not do that dull and uninteresting. I can't imagine them wanting to come back or wanting to take one anywhere who did allow "petting" because I shouldn't think they would respect that kind of a girl.

I always try to be a perfect lady in fact I guess my ideas are too old fashioned along that line for they don't seem to "take." I know that I have not been flirtatious or bold and I am sure that I have done nothing to encourage these men to be fresh. What is the matter? Can't they distinguish between a lady and a flirt or is there something wrong with my actions of which I am unconscious? I am sure you would say that these boys to whom I have reference were the best boys in town for every one does.

I am only human and I get dreadfully lonesome at times for boy friends who are capable of being pals without the "petting." Please tell me what is wrong with me.

JIMMIE D.

Usually I am optimistic about the trend of the times and when other people cry out because of the change in standards, I am apt to uphold the young people of today. It is a letter like yours, however, which makes me wonder whether all is well or not.

I really to do believe that there are many fine girls left who share your high ideals. I also believe that there are men who know how to be "pals" and are not mere "mashers." You have not been very fortunate so far in the young people you have met, but don't become discouraged. Keep your faith in men and always look for the qualities you admire. I really believe that even if you do not find a number of "pals" before much longer you will find some interesting man who has deeper interests than kissing and who will admire you because you are not cheap.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Do you consider it better to use orange sticks or ivory sticks to push back the cuticle from the fingernails?

DOUBTFUL.

Use orange steiks, because any harder material is too harsh for the nails.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: Is it all right to dance with a girl for a partner? I have plenty of women friends, but the men won't dance with me and I love to dance.

DANCING DOLL.

Yes, it is all right to dance with your women friends.

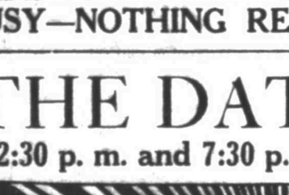

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am a married woman 20 years old and have a child. I would like to know if it would be all right to go with another man while my husband is at work? Please give me your advice.

ALFONSA.

I think you know without asking me that it is not all right to go with another man while your husband is working.

LEAVES PATH OF BROKEN HEARTS

Elopement of Welsh Heiress Thrilled Washington Society

Miss Catherine Radcliffe, a daughter of the wealthy Daniel Radcliffe of Cardiff, Wales, went to Baltimore the other day and became the wife of George Wise, recently an army air pilot, but now in the dairy business, says the New York World. Thus another thrill was given Washington society, and perhaps a broken heart or two was left in the wake of the elopement.

Not only was the marriage a complete surprise to her closest friends, but it occurred while Miss Radcliffe was generally supposed to be engaged to Lieut. Julian P. Brown, United States marine corps, aide to Gen. Smedley B. Butler, at present stationed at Quantico, Va.

The engagement of Miss Radcliffe and Lieutenant Brown was announced last July, arousing more than usual interest since an understanding, if not an actual engagement, had been understood to exist between Lieutenant Brown and Miss Elizabeth Hanna, daughter of the late Dan Hanna, and granddaughter of Mark Hanna, who has made her home in Washington the last two years.

Stole March on Hostess

Miss Radcliffe, for a week prior to her marriage, was the guest of Miss Virginia Selden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Selden of Washington. She left on Friday, September 21, for Warrenton, Va., ostensibly to visit their friend, Mrs. John Ripley Buchanan.

On that day, however, Miss Radcliffe and George Wise, late lieutenant in the royal flying corps during the World war, and afterward in the United States army air service, were married secretly in Baltimore.

Miss Radcliffe, who came to Washington about two years ago, was introduced to society by Rear Admiral and Mrs. J. K. Robinson and instantly became one of the most popular members of the younger set in which were prominent Miss Hanna, Miss Selden, Lieutenant Brown, Lieutenant Wise and a dozen other young persons. In that set in the last year engagements and rumors of engagements were frequent and marriages unheralded by any engagements became numerous.

Denies Rumored Annulment

A good deal of mystery still surrounds the elopment. The marriage remained a secret for several days before the story leaked out. Mrs. Wise was then with her friend, Mrs. Buchanan in Warrenton, but Mr. Wise, who had returned to Washington, where he makes his home with his mother, admitted the fact. He explained that Mrs. Wise would remain with Mrs. Buchanan until the arrival of Mr. Radcliffe to whom a cable had been sent announcing the marriage, and it was then his intentions to bring his wife home.

"We didn't want anyone to know about it until then," he said. Mr. Wise has denied rumors that the marriage might be annulled.

It is uncertain when Mr. Radcliffe will arrive. Mr. Wise does not know, and Commodore W. J. Agnew, United States navy, and Mrs. Agnew, the latter a sister of Mrs. Wise, refuse to discuss the matter.

Women's Opportunities

Women are now enfranchised and enjoy equal educational opportunities with men. They may enter practically all professions and trades, and 24.01 per cent of them are gainfully employed. The passage by almost every state of married women's property and equal guardianship acts has freed wives and mothers from the medievalism of the common law. Millions of home making women are organized for cultural, philanthropic and civic ends which modern domestic conveniences and labor saving devices give them leisure to pursue. City homes are smaller and social life is consequently spent more in public. Prosperity and machinery have given us on the one hand the largest leisured class of women the world has ever known; while on the other hand modern industrialism (replacing the old home industries by quantity production in factories), plus the increased cost of living, drives an ever larger proportion of women into extra domestic remunerative work. ELECTRIC ROADS FACE PROBLEMS

This Type of Transportation Now Has Heavy Motor Competition

By The Associated Press.

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 15.—Electric railway business generally, throughout the United States, is in good condition according to leaders of the industry who assembled here to the number of four thousand for the annual convention of the American Electric Railway association.

Motor competition, the outstanding problem of the industry, is being solved very largely by electric lines supplementing their services with buses, or where the electric service appears adequate, regulatory authorities eliminating bus competition it is declared.

The outstanding problems of the industry at the present time, according to James W. Welsh, executive secretary of the association, are the gradual increase in wages, which began last April and has continued uninterruptedly, and the failure of material costs to go down.

Realization that costs are not falling, however, is general with regulatory authorities, Mr. Welsh said and hence, fares are being maintained generally. The average fare throughout the country now is about seven cents in some communities, and lower in others, ten cents being the maximum. The outlook for lower fares in the immediate future is not good, Mr. Welsh declared. Cuts can come only with decided falling costs, which are not in prospect now.

Operation of municipal lines and motor bus competition will be two of the big topics of discussion at the convention which lasts until Friday.

Indicative of the returning prosperity of electric lines, the exhibit of electric railway supplies by manufacturers is larger this year than ever before in the history of the association, now 42 years old.

SEE HIRAM AS A COOLIDGE RIVAL

No Formal Announcement, But Evidence Shows Johnson As Possibility

By B. N. TIMMONS.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—While no formal announcement has come that Senator Hiram Johnson of California will contest with President Coolidge for the republican presidential nomination evidences are multiplying that he intends to do so, and information received here today that recognized managers of his possible candidacy are seeking to get control of a string of newspapers indicates that he will make his usually spectacular campaign.

It is told here that Albert Lasker, Chicago advertising man, who recently retired from the chairmanship of the United States Shipping Board, and William Wrigley, Chicago millionaire, who were promoters of the Johnson candidacy in 1920, are quietly lining up forces for the Californian and seeking to get control of publicity agencies preliminary to formal announcement.

Anti-Johnson men, including some of the leading former Pregressives who supported his candidacy in 1920, do not fear the Californian's candidacy so far as possibility of nomination is concerned, but those among them who favor the election of President Coolidge fear that it will open the field so that the Coolidge chances might be dimmed. In this view it is predicted that ex-Governor Frank O. Lowden might get the nomination, and there are others than Lowden who would like to see the Johnson candidacy an announced fact. If the advantage did not turn to Lowden, it is said that in turn Gov. Pinchot, Senator Watson of Indiana, and Senator Wadsworth of New York, might be considered, while the possibilities might bring Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin into the limelight.

It is admitted that Senator Johnson has few peers in campaign activity, and that he might inspire a popular enthusiasm, but asserted also that unless President Coolidge be drawn into the international muddle, thereby arousing ire of the irreconcilables, Johnson's campaign mainspring would not be very effective.

Progressive leaders, who formerly idolized Hiram Johnson, it appears now would prefer President Coolidge to their erstwhile associate. Since the memorable rise of the progressive party with Johnson in lieutenant leadership, the senator has experienced change of heart, so that his recent record appears as more conservative than that of the president. Johnson supported the tariff, when the plan was to renominate President Harding, to play in with conservative leaders who in turn were to support Johnson as the Harding successor. The result is that he will have a difficult campaign unless internationalism supplants domestic questions as an issue, because leaders would rather trust the conservative steadfastness of Coolidge, than the wavering progressivism of Johnson. This is true of men like Senator Borah, Judge Kenyon, and including Senator LaFollette, who is friendly to President Coolidge and unfriendly to Johnson, though approving the policy of neither one.

Everything is seen as pointing to a well managed and well financed campaign for the California senator, whose peace has been made with the east, but as the reports come from states where he was formerly popular it is not seen where he has the nucleus of state organization, or state financing.

A typical example is the late President Harding's own state, which would have been enthusiastic for a native son, but where the hope of rather than support of Coolidge is said by leaders to exist. In 1920, although Johnson did not appear in the primaries, where enemies of Attorney General Daugherty supported General Wood in a fluke which brought Wood in ahead of Johnson, the feeling for him was such that 15,000 voters wrote his name on the ballots. The Johnson call does not now exist there, according to foreign progressives, who might support Lowden, but who say they will aid Coolidge as against Johnson, and who assert that the Johnson movement, by his own record, comes four years too late. It is admitted, however, that Johnson personality and oratory might change the outlook, if his campaign is well equipped financially, and properly advertised.

Says Dangerous Varicose Veins Can be Reduced at Home

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way.

If you or any relative or friend is worried because of varicose veins, or bunches, the best advice that anyone in this world can give is to get a prescription that many physicians are now prescribing.

Ask your druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and apply night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins. Soon you will notice that they are growing smaller and the treatment should be continued until the veins are of normal size. So penetrating and powerful is Emerald Oil that it dissolves goitre and wens and causes them to disappear. It can be secured at any pharmacy.—Adv.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Stock prices crashed below the previous low levels of the year in the early part of today's trading and then bounded upward, cancelling nearly all of the early losses and recovering most of the ground lost yesterday.

Northwestern rails, which were depressed yesterday as a result of President Coolidge's suggestion of lower freight rates on wheat for export, were again in supply this morning, new low records for the year being established by Northern Pacific, Chicago and Northwestern and Nickel Plate preferred. With few exceptions, however, the closing prices showed net gains on the day.

Further cuts in gasoline prices combined with the revival of rumors, previously denied, of new financing by the Pan-American company, had an unsettling influence on the oil shares, which also have been adversely affected by reports of increased production income of the Texas fields.

More than a score stocks dropped to new low levels for the year during the morning reaction while a dozen others duplicated their previous bottom prices.

Floor traders, finding a scarcity of the usual leaders at the low prices, started a rally just before noon, which was given impetus by lower time money rates and reports of increased buying of steel, copper and railroad equipment. The charter of the support eventually brought about extensive covering operations by nervous shorts.

Gains of one to two points on the day were recorded by United States and Gulf States steels, Baldwin, American can, Studebaker, and many others.

Money rates were easier. Call money opened at 4 3-4 eased to 4 1-2, 4 1-4, and finally to 4 per cent. Brokers started bidding only 5 per cent for the shorter maturities in the time money market with a number of loans arranged at 5 1-4 for 30 and 60 days.

The feature of the foreign exchange was the establishment of another new low record for all time for German mark at 1 3-8 cents a hundred million. Heavy offerings of grain and cotton bids caused by slight recession in the sterling rate to below $4.53. French francs eased 2 points to 6.04 1-2 cents.

Fort Worth Livestock

By The Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Oct. 17.—Strength was noted throughout the cattle price list Wednesday, but the only class actually showing an advance were cows, which were quoted strong to 15 cents higher, most of the gain being on the medium grades. Steers were disposed of on a strong basis, canners and cutters cleared very readily at fully steady values, heifers and yearlings remained unchanged, bull rates were stronger and on calves the market was well in line with Tuesday's basis.

Receipts amounted to 3,500 head of cattle and 1,500 calves. Sales of fat cattle ranged from $6.00 to $7.00. Two cars of good cows sold at $3.60. Fair to medium cows brought $3.00 @3.50. Cutters went at a range of $2.00@2.75. Canners brought $1.50 @2.00. Bulls changed hands at a general range of $2.75@3.75. Heifers and yearlings ranged around $4.50@6.50. The best calves went at prices ranging from $6.00@6.50.

There was not a great deal to the stocker trade. The best steers available cleared at a spread of $6.00@6.50.

Receipts of hogs displayed an increase, about 1,200 head being on hand. Washouts and high water in the Panhandle and Oklahoma have materially reduced receipts here and the scarcity of supplies has caused the market to assume an unevenly higher basis. The top was $8.25 to shippers and $8.15 to packers. Bulk sales ranged from $8.00 to $8.25. Pigs sold at an advance of 25 to 50 cents, the top being $7.65 with bulk sales at $7.25@7.50.

Early receipts of sheep were limited to one deck of feeder wethers which sold at $5.75, a steady price. The count for the day was estimated at 85.00 head.

New Orleans Cotton

By The Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 17.—A strong tone ruled in the early trading in cotton today, but after advances of 26 to 29 points the market ran into a great deal of liquidation of long contracts and during the most of the session thereafter the supply of contracts was too liberal to be readily absorbed. A gradual decline resulted and the close was practically at the lowest, showing net losses of 8 to 12 points. December rose to 28.93 in the early trading and closed at a range of 28.46 to 28.50.

Early strength was partly due to a highly favorable Liverpool market but was mainly caused by more wet weather in the belt. The unfavorable tone of the weekly crop and weather reports contributed to the strength. It was generally considered that the most unfavorable part of the weekly reports was the mention of the nearly completed state of picking over wide areas in the eastern belt.

During the day the market was steadied by the new storm warning because of disturbances both in the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean sea but no buying of consequence was aroused. Comment was heard that recent buying had greatly weakened the technical positions of the market.

Cottonseed Oil.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Cottonseed oil declined under selling of nearby deliveries by refiners and scattering liquidation based on the drop in lard and cotton. After easing 5 to 20 points, prices rallied a little on buying of forward months by commission houses. Closing bids were unchanged to 10 points net lower. Sales 13,300 barrels. Prime crude 9.50 nominal; prime summer yellow spot 11.75 bid; October closed 11.09; December 10.60; March 10.74; May 10.95, all bid.

MONEY At Work

The grocer buys mining stocks, the miner takes fliers in oil, the oil man may be investing in securities of food companies. Why is it that the average man is so eager to invest in an industry about which he knows nothing?

If you are familiar with shoes, why buy stock in an oil company? You are better qualified to choose wisely among shoe or leather stocks.

It is a far better policy, when venturing in lines that are unfamiliar to confine yourself to conservative bonds.

There are so many risks to be borne by one who buys stocks that it is extremely unwise to increase those risks by investing in stocks of businesses that you know nothing about.

DECIDED SET IN PRICE OF WHEAT

Results From Enlarged Selling Based on Weather Dope

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Decided set in prices of wheat resulted today from enlarged selling based more or less on opinions that prevailing wet weather, although unfavorable for the rapid drying out of corn, was giving the new wheat crop a good start. Closing quotations were unsettled, 1 3-8 to 1 3-4, cents net lower, December 1.06½ to 1.06 5-8 and May 1.11 1-4 to 1.11 3-8. Corn finished 1-4 to 5-8 cents down, oats 3-8 to 1-2 cent off, and provisions at unchanged figures to 12 cents decline.

For the first time this season, new corn from Iowa reached Chicago today, and some new corn came in also from other sources. Cash prices remained firm, though, and future deliveries showed better rallying power than was the case with wheat. Oats followed corn.

Provisions were easier in line with the hog market.

STATE LIVESTOCK

Receipts of cattle for the first half of October were liberal at all markets, and the Fort Worth run heavier than expected according to the semi-monthly summary of livestock markets released by the Fort Worth Livestock Market News Service of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics through the State Marketing Bulletin, says the State's Marketing Bulletin. Calves came in very freely, fully one third of total receipts consisting of immature offerings.

Despite the limited quota of slaughter steers, demand from packers was decidedly bearish and unresponsive, resulting in a dull, draggy tone throughout and a material downward revision of values. Adverse reports on steer trade at northern markets explained to some extent the price-cutting program that was carried out in Fort Worth. Packers subtracted about 50-75c from slaughter steers from prices that were in force on October 1st, and market action was very unsatisfactory. There were practically no steers brought forward good enough to sell above $7.75, although strictly choice fed steers were listed up to $9.75. Most of the slaughter steers on sale recently have been of grades that sell from $6.00 on down.

Values in the she-stock division of trade ruled higher early in the month but practically all of the early advance was lost during the past ten days and current prices are about in line with those reported on October 1st. A few choice heifer cows sold up around $5.00 in small lots; most of the medium cows cleared from $3.00 to $3.25 and canners moved at a stereotyped spread of $1.75-2.00. Heifers commanded the usual premium over cows.

Calf trade was spotted, prices holding up creditably on the more desirable light and medium weights, which attracted bids both from packers and independent buyers, while heavy calves and most of the medium quality offerings, in a variety of weights, showed losses of 50c or more from last month close. A few of the best light calves sold up to $7.25 with bulk of sales, all weights, from $4.25 to $5.50.

Aside from a tendency toward weakness, bull trade remained generally unchanged. Demand has been rather quiet with occasional sales reflecting small declines. Most of the bulls were bolognas and medium grades that sold within the $2.50 to $3.50 spread.

Fluctuations Feature Hogs.

No material change in prices occurred in the steer division of the stocker and feeder trade this month so far. A fairly good demand has existed for desirable stock steers and yearlings in grades that sell around $5.00 to $6.25, but there was very little call for the medium and common grades. Most of the latter found a slaughter outlet. Stock calves showed a lower tendency, and the same was true of stock cows.

A material increase in hog receipts was a trade feature during the past week or ten days, but the market held up creditably in spite of more liberal supplies and current values were little different from those quoted on October 1st. Market fluctuations in the trade occurred almost daily during the past ten days, but advances have been generally offset by declines and the market as a whole presented a generally steady appearances. Packers bought desirable butcher hogs freely and a limited shipping outlet existed for the better grade of butchers at small premiums over prices paid by packers. Buying demand continued to favor medium weight butchers of good and choice quality and these sold up to $7.85 and $8.00 both to packers and shippers. Loads showing a mixture of weights were listed at the usual discounts and the less desirable butchers moved at a rather wide spread, ranging down to $7.25 and less. Packing sows in smooth grades moved largely around $6.25 to $6.50, with the rough grades from $6.00 on down. A healthy demand was indicated in the pig division with heavy slaughter pigs quoted up to $6.75 and $7.00, the latter price an extreme quotation. Stocker pigs ranged from around $6.25 on down.

COTTON MARKET IS UNSETTLED

Sells Up to 29.47 on Opening But Closes Steady

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—After selling up to 29.47 at the opening of the cotton market, December contracts broke to 28.95, under renewed liquidation, and closed at the lowest, with the general list closing barely steady, net unchanged to 20 points lower.

The market opened firm at an advance of 27 to 45 points on unexpectedly higher Liverpool cables and reports of continued unsettled weather in the south, October selling up to 30.20 and January to 28.87, on covering and fresh buying, but the advance met a great deal of realizing, and there also appeared to be increased hedge selling by the south. Prices weakened under these offerings, and the market became easier when the detailed weather reports came in showing much lighter precipitations in the southwest and when the official forecast for frost in Oklahoma and West Texas failed to further stimulate demand. Talk of an easier spot basis in the south, probably contributed to the afternoon decline which carried prices off to 29.55 for October and 28.43 for January, or about 12 to 23 points net lower. Last prices were within a point or two of the lowest on most positions. The week is said to have just about lost its intensity over Arkansas and while there were further showers in Texas and Oklahoma, the precipitation was much lighter. The weekly report of the weather bureau read unfavorable as to conditions in the southwest but was without much influence.

Port receipts today 35,605. U. S. port stock 668,373. Exports today 23,266, making 1,276,541 so far this season.

Lynch Addresses Plains Retail Lumbermen at Meet in Amarillo

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN AND FELLOW CITIZENS:

Upon receipt of Mr. Galbraith's invitation to address you here, it was my first thought what a tremendous distance lies between Houston and Amarillo, and in my mental process I considered all sorts of reasons of making it impossible for me to take such a long trip. Then I thought what a long time it had been since it was my pleasure to be in Amarillo. Then I remembered that no lumberman in Texas, or none of the lumbermen, have ever called upon me, their fellow lumberman, that I had not tried to meet that call. So here I am. A letter received from Mr. Oliver suggested that having added to many years of lumber experience some experience in the government of this state, I express to you some of my views on the subject of government.

Perhaps all of you do not know that my business includes the manufacture of hardwood and pine lumber, and the wholesaling and retailing of lumber. If time permitted my telling of almost thirty-five years experience in the arena of the lumber game, how many times the hands of the sheriff were just in reach of my collar; and how many different kinds of daring blows and desperate clinches one must undergo in pursuing the lumber business from manufacturer to consumer, I am sure you would agree that after having engaged in it so many years I am entitled to retire from the punches of the business prize ring. I am sure you will also agree that our particular line of business calls for an experience as broad as, or broader than, the ramifications of government itself. If, therefore, you will take your own business as an example, you will have a fair example of the intricacies of government.

I think sometimes we have too much government. History is a long record of the rise and fall of governments. The governments of Nebuchadnezzar, Alexander and the Caesars were great and powerful in their time, but their glory is past. They grew and expanded and prospered, like the swelling, rolling wave, until, at the peak of their prestige, they broke and declined, as if from their own weight. And indeed a major cause of their decadence was too much government. I do not say this in prophetic pessimism, nor am I a pessimist. I am optimistic enough to believe our form of government and the fiber of our people so fundamentally sound that we shall solve and surmount all problems confronting us, or to confront us in the future.

It is the duty of every good citizen to be on guard, lest the ever encroaching forces of evil snatch from us this splendid form of government. We have fallen into the habit of trying to saddle all the multifarious responsibilities of a hundred million people upon the good old horse government. We run to Congress or to the legislature to cure every ill of mankind by legislation; to correct the mistakes of the Almighty, as some one has so aptly said. We pass a law for this, and create a bureau or a commission for that—each one involving some measure of restraint or restriction upon individual freedom or encroachment upon individual rights—until the country is sick with governmental indigestion. No subject is too minute or illusive to be smothered by expensive legislation. An eminent American authority has made the assertion that no big American problem has been solved by legislation in 50 years.

The primary, vital functions of government are limited to making and enforcing adequate laws to protect life, liberty and property. Its secondary functions are carrying on, or regulating, public works and service, such as education, sanitation, roads, bridges, recreation; conservation of resources, promotion of commerce, art and science—things that could not well be left to private enterprise in the best interest of the people. It is not so much in the primary functions of government, but in these secondary functions and their ramifications, that the trouble of too much government occurs; government undertaking to extend its efforts in too many divergent directions.

A people least governed are best governed, is a principle that has never been negatived by proof or practice. As early as the fifth century this truth was realized by Justinian. The Roman law was becoming so overgrown and unweildly that no human power could successfully cope with it. The law of the land, beginning several centuries B. C., required thousands of volumes. Justinian authorized a commission to reduce the Roman law to two volumes and an index! And the reign of Justinian stands out as one of the most wise and progressive of all time.

In our time expensive government manifests itself most through the present day bureaus and commissions. They have built a dam between the people and representative government, at the people's expense.

The population of Texas during the past 10 or 12 years has increased 25 per cent; the expense of state government 500 per cent. Is it any wonder we groan under the burden of taxation?

Transportation is one of the vital forces of civilization. Bureaucratic regulation has brought to a dead halt further construction of railroads in this country and seriously hampered those in existence. Through bureaucratic activities we are threatened with the grouping system of railroads, which is the first step toward government ownership—to my mind the greatest calamity that could happen to the American people. The iron hand and the mailed fist cannot establish respect for the law. Legislation respectful of the people's rights automatically inspires their respect for the law. To insure the permanancy of our form of government the laws of the land must be enforced and respected.

To some extent, perhaps, some of the ills of the day of which I have spoken tonight are traceable to the unhappy and unfortunate tendency of the people to form in groups and blocs, contesting for various kinds of advantages and privileges. The most menacing of all of these groups is the one which arrogates to itself the right of unlawfully visiting and executing sentence on citizens entitled to their day in court, and thus undermining and dethroning the majesty and sanctity of government. There is no greater perfidy nor more traitorous act committed against our state or nation than the seeking, by a man or any set of men, to take the administration of the law away from the duly constituted authorities.

There is another message I wish to deliver to you, my fellow lumbermen, and for that matter to all of the business men of Texas. It concerns the farmers of this state. You cannot go on indefinitely being lumbermen, bankers and oil men, merchants and doctors, lawyers and judges, legislators, governors or anything else unless the farmers of this great state are prosperous. I quite well realize in the effort of each individual to provide for himself and his own, frequently he unconsciously over-reaches those least able to take care of themselves in the business sense. Unfortunately it is in that sense the farmer and the agricultural producer of this state finds himself dependent. That he produces economically—I may go further and say almost on the basis of starvation—will not be gainsaid. To that point he needs no help, but at the point where he wants to put his product on the markets of the world—at the point where the business end of his affairs commence—he needs the co-operation of every element and kind of business and professional man in this country. Those engaged in the marts of trade and business should give their unsparing assistance in providing ways and means to deliver to the farmer's door a large and substantial part of his products' sale price to the consumer.

Oratory and elocution are not going to solve the problems of this great state of ours. We are woefully disposed to respond with our ballots to elocution and oratory and pretty promises of elocutionary candidates. Election to office bestows no greater individual ability upon man that he had before election. We have been prone to experiment with men upon pre-election promises, which they were utterly incapable of fulfilling. The electorate of this great state of ours with its five million or more of people, its tremendous cattle and agricultural interests, its large and growing industrial enterprises, its great merchants and manufacturers, its religious and educational enterprises, its important eleemosynary and penal institutions, should not heed in terms of votes the lute-like tones of the elocutionist and the orator. This economic and governmental fabric, of delicate texture and essential importance to humanity, needs the skilled hand of intensive intelligence and extensive experience. It is a decision of no small or mean importance, but it is one the voters must make. It is for them to determine the man, or set of men, who shall set our course and guide us on the way to our inevitable destiny.

Many of my fellow lumbermen have curiously asked me times over why I "got into politics," as they express it. And to them I have said that I am not in politics, nor am I a politician; and I may say the same to this splendid audience. My answer may interest you, like others who have asked that question. With nothing but the Methodist religion as a foundation upon which to stand, at fifteen years of age I began the lumber business as a day laborer in a saw mill in east Texas at the magnificent salary of 80 cents per day. Constant and diligent personal endeavor under the protection of our democratic form of government, has caused prosperity to smile its reward of a competency sufficient for myself and family.

I have frequently laid down the principle that we cannot safeguard our priceless heritage given to us by the sacrifice of the lives of our forefathers, if it is entrusted to the incompetent. We can only judge men's competency by the measure of their success in their individual undertakings. Weigh the qualifications of candidates to make and administer the laws that govern us—to conduct the vast business affairs of government—according to their success in their own affairs, and we shall have taken a long step toward solving the problems of government. They will reduce the business of government to its simplest and most fundamental functions, which is the keystone of efficient economical business and the principle of Jeffersonian democracy.

It has been my firm belief for years, and I have so stated on frequent and numerous occasions, that men at the age of 50 with that ripe experience which success usually entails, and who have acquired a competency for themselves and families, should interest themselves in the affairs of government. In fact, if not willingly so, they should by law be subject to draft, just as the soldier in time of war. The desire to be a useful citizen and live up to my own creed, as here stated, accounts for my activities and interest in the greatest form of government, governing the greatest and grandest people under the shining sun.

WICHITA CLUB IN WEEKLY MEETS

Leavell Speaks on Christianity at Wednesday Program

Regular Wednesday luncheons will again be held at the Wichita club until the first of the year, after which a continuance will be decided upon, it was the decision of the club at yesterday's luncheon in the club rooms.

Two committees were appointed to nominate two tickets for officers, these to be run against each other and voted upon at the regular annual banquet to be held the first of the year. On committee No. 1, President W. W. Anderson appointed the following members: C. E. McCutcheon, J. T. Harrell, C. H. Clark; for the second, N. H. Martin, A. H. Brittain, G. C. Wood; on the general committee in charge of the next annual banquet, Frank Timberlike and G. L. Shaffer were appointed. W. W. Silk, J. L. McMahon and R. M. Myers will compose the program committee at that meeting.

Following the luncheon and the business session, Dr. Leavell, pastor of First Baptist church, Houston, and who is holding a revival at the First Baptist church here, spoke a few words on the principles of Christianity. Having been a business man himself, Dr. Leavell stated, he considered himself in that capacity, and took it as his life's work to sell stock in trade, Christianity, to all.

It is to the business advantage, if not other, for every business man to dedicate a tithe of his earnings to the cause of his Maker, to whom everyone owes his property and merely holds it as a loan for its safe keeping, said Dr Leavell. Every man should belong to the church, if only as a business proposition, he continued, in repay and recognition of those principles upon which this nation was founded and is now progressing.

The speaker introduced his short talk with a selection of suitable laughing stories, which received their need of attention from those present.

W. B. Hamilton, who last night spoke on the oil industry at the Technical club, was allowed to beg off yesterday on account of the preceding good talk and promised to make his address at the next meeting.

HIGH LATIN CLUB HAS GOOD PROGRAM

The High School Latin club met Wednesday afternoon at the close of school. The minutes were read and the role called.

The program committee which consists of Electra D. Reason, chairman, Clifton Clay, Ruth Moore, Claude Simpson and Nell Fisher, provided for the following program: Piano solo, Floyd Ard; welcome address, Electra D. Reason; response, Marguerite Goodner; Latin pledge, Clifton Clay; song, "Vigella Tertia Noctis," Latin class.

In a Latin name contest which followed, Fred Couper won the prize.

The officers for this year are; President, Frances Ann Saunders; vice-president, Sam Bashara; secretary, Fred Couper; treasurer, Elizabeth Couper; press reporter, Electra D. Reason, and sponsor, Miss Masters.

"SUPPOSING" IS SERMON SUBJECT

A large audience gave undivided attention to Dr. James B. Leavell last night when he delivered a forceful message on the subject, "Supposing." Striking illustrations and mental pictures served to impress the hearers as the evangelist spoke of people who suppose or take for granted that Christ will save and that God will provide. "Christianity is as real and definite as anything could possibly be," said Dr. Leavell. "There is no excuse for one to be uncertain of his own salvation. Many churches are traveling without Jesus—just waiting for an evangelist to do all the praying and working, supposing that men will be saved. There is every evidence that a vast majority of church members are either unregenerated, or have lost the personal touch with Jesus. True children of God will not neglect the church and its work, indulge in sin, and forget the Christ who died to save their souls. Why will men suppose in their religion, yet be certain in every other relation of life?"

A personal workers band will be perfected Thursday evening at the 7 o'clock prayer meetings which precede the regular prenching service.

DANCE, DANCE, DANCE, MAE MURRAY CRIES

"I think," declared Mae Murray, noted star whose picture, "The French Doll," is now playing at the Strand Theatre, "I think we owe it to ourselves not to let a day pass without getting slightly intoxicated."

"I don't mean on alchohol," she added. "There is nothing I detest more than seeing a person suffering from alchoholic intoxication. I think 'suffering' is the right word, because nothing appears more dismal to me than to see a person lose control of his proper senses.

"What I mean by intoxication is a liberation of the senses from the ordinary constraints. I mean a tingling sensation of the joyousness of life. I mean the sort of feeling that makes you want to laugh and sing—and especially dance.

"It's the sort of feeling you get when you look at something beautiful. When you drive at top speed in your automobile or when you feel the cold rain in your face on a windy day. It makes you thrill all over with a quickened sensation of life.

"That's intoxication with life."

"COMMUNITY BUILDER" NOW OFF THE PRESS

"Community Builder" for October, official organ of the chamber of commerce, is just off the press. Articles by J. F. Crowell of Itta Bena, Miss., and Merle Thorpe, editor of "The Nation's Business," are included.

Articles pertaining to the Wichita valley and concerning the Texas-Oklahoma fair and exposition, as well as of things of the city are in the publication.

Miss Katherine Henricle of the Texas Child Welfare association, leaves tomorrow for Denver where she is taking a child to meet its relatives.

McConnell Bros. are exhibiting a phonograph curiosity in their show window. It is the first talking machine played in Wichita Falls, and was purchased in 1890 by A. W. Ayers of 1021 McGregor street. The machine is quite small and is operated with a hand crank and a series of wheels connected by rubber bands. The little red horn looks like a misplaced megaphone.

A big upstanding Texas oil man stood in front of the Security National Bank in the afternoon sunshine and appeared very ill at ease. The cause for his discomfort was a tiny blue-eyed baby girl about eight months old that he held awkwardly in his great hands. She wasn't cross, but she squirmed restlessly and whimpered now and then. The big man appeared utterly helpless and changed the baby from one arm to the other. There seemed nothing else to do, until an idea suddenly occurred to him, and setting the baby on the stone ledge that ran around the building, he smoothed her little skirts down and steadied her with one hand until "mother" should come back.

Mrs. W. J. Carden of Dallas has returned home after a visit with her husband, W. J. Carden who is deputy field supervisor of the railroad commission.

Miss Thelma Wells of this city has gone to Olney to look after her oil interests there.

The Junior class of the high school is planning a Hallowe'en party. Rumors are out that they will have a banquet soon.

Report cards for the high school, Junior high school and the Junior college were given out yesterday. Cards are given in each subject for the work done the past six weeks. The students are asked to have the cards signed and bring them to school today.

K. C. Barkley of Houston is in the city on business for a few days.

Ben Turpin Might Could Read This

The queer antics of hundreds of people around Ninth and Travis during the week has attracted much attention.

People have been seen twisting their necks and turning their heads, leaning over and looking back between their legs and performing all sorts of acrobatic feats. A gang of small school boys were seen standing on their heads looking.

The object of their gaze is a large poster posted up-side down and ever effort has been made by the passer by to read it. Many guesses have been made as to the reason of this unusual method of putting up a sign. One was heard to remark as to what strange brand of hooch the village bill sticker had gotten hold of that would cause him to do things upside down.

Another declared that the words spelled one thing right side up and another upside down and backwards. The writer was able to discover one thing for sure and that was that by doing a perpendicular about-face the poster advertised the Gloria Swanson picture "Zaza" opening Sunday at the Olympic theatre. Why it was turned upside down thus causing people to become contortionists in order to read it could not be learned. If "Zaza" is also like that the ceiling seats should sell well during its engagement.

JEWELRY STORE MERGE EFFECTED

Will Mean One of Largest Stores of Kind in State

One of the largest jewelry concerns in northwest Texas, and comparing favorably with the largest jewelers in the state, has become a certainty for Wichita Falls since the deal Monday which placed the Haltom-Friedly Jewelry company, located at Eighth and Indiana, in the hands of Sam Kruger, owner of the Kruger Jewelry company at Eighth and Ohio.

The business deal which took place Monday is one of the largest to be consummated here for some time in mercantile circles, and places two of the city's largest jewelry establishments in the hands of one firm. The two stores will be consolidated January 1, according to Mr. Kruger, when the stock now occupying his store on Ohio will be moved to the Haltom-Friedly location on Indiana.

A new arrangement of stocks and displays is being worked out by Mr. Kruger for the new establishment, all of which will be ready with a surprise for his customers at the first of the year, he announces. To the new owner of the Haltom-Friedly store goes the jewelry and silverware agencies held by the former owners, which will add to the stock available in the complete new store.

Sam Kruger came to Wichita Falls from Fort Worth 12 years ago. Since that time he has made plain his business motto to keep progressing, moving from his first small establishment on Ohio to a more central location at Eighth. The last move has more than ever been an example of the old policy, all of which will add to the city's mercantile standing. Further announcements regarding the new change will be made from time to time.

KNOW HOW TO PLAY HANDS? There's Book On It At the Library

The Choral club of Wichita Falls has donated a 12 volume encyclopedia of music to the Kemp library. The books are entitled "The American History and Encyclopedia of Music," and contain much information desired by musicians.

Among the new books is "A Treveller in Little Things," by W. H. Hudson. This book is made up of 37 essays. The volume of sketches was prompted by a chance conversation Mr. Hudson had with a pompous commercial traveler, who comparing his own important "line" with what he considered the writer's lesser one characterized him as a "traveller in little things." Among the "little things" written about Mr. Hudson are the English villagers and villages, apple blossoms, the vanishing curtsey little girls of whom he is a devout worshipper, church yards, birds and insects. "Of these the author writes with his accustomed imagination and feeling for the inner and more elusive beauties," says a book review.

"Our Best Poets," is another new book by Theodore Maynard. In this new publication, a study is given of the contemporary English and American poets, taking in discussions of free and lyric verse.

Alexander Burton has a new book, "After Dinner Speeches, Their Preparation and Delivery." He says that simplicity and geniality should be its chief characteristics, and the object of the book is to tell how these may be acquired. The contents are: simplicity, geniality, wit and humor, telling a story, preparation of an address, mental memoranda, an historical address, illustrative anecdotes, the application of stories, toasts and sentiments, and added to this list is a collection of toasts and sentiments in poetic form taken from well known authors.

"Holding Hands," is the interesting title of another book by Florence Irwin. This book deals with card playing. The author says in the preface of the book, "To those who already play a good game of auction, nothing is more beguiling nor more instructive than the study and discussion of interesting hands. The demand for a collection of such hands, from my pen, seems to warrant the compiling this little volume."

EASTERN STARS TO VISIT HERE

Will Stop Here Sunday Afternoon on Way to Convention

A special train carrying delegates to the forty-first annual convention of the Order of Eastern Star held in Amarillo will arrive in Wichita Falls Sunday afternoon, October 21, at 5:30. The train already consists of four sleepers made up at San Antonio, and at Fort Worth an additional seven to operate on regular trains will be put on to take care of the delegates from central and east Texas.

The two chapters of this city, Wichita Falls chapter No. 237, and Faith chapter are making plans to care for the delegates while they are here.

The train will be in Wichita Falls four hours, arriving in Amarillo at 7 o'clock Monday morning. Several delegates from this city will go to Amarillo for the convention.
