President Repeats US Is Willing To Negotiate

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) President Johnson said today he is delighted to get Britain's new proposal for a three-power conference on Viet Nan, and said the United States will attend if Hanoi is willing.

The first question put to Johnson at a televised and broadcast news conference at his LBJ Ranch dealt with British Foreign Secretary George Brown's call for a meeting of the United States and North and South Vietnam aimed at ending the war.

Johnson replied that "We are delighted to get the views and ideas of the British." He went on to say the United States is "very agreeable and rather anxious" to talk to anyone, anywhere, any time for the purpose of promoting peace.

Johnson expressed appreciation for Britain's interest and stated that, if North Vietnam is willing to attend talks, the United States will be there.

Johnson's statement broke no new ground but it did represent a positive response to the British initiative. The President often has expressed willingness to talk with Hanoi should the North Vietnamese display a similar disposition.

Johnson said his administration believes there has been "a decided turn" for the better in the military situation in Vietnam.

But at the same time he said the goal of reaching to negotiating table has not been reached.

Mrs. Johnson sat near the President as he fielded questions in the airplane hangar outside his ranch home. The hangar recently was converted into a television studio for just such sessions.

The opening question deal not only with the British move but also with the efforts of United Nations Secretary General U Thant to promote peace in Vietnam.

Johnson said he wants to encourage the secretary general in every way to use U.N. resources and influence to stop the firing. Any recommendations or suggestions U Thant presents will be very carefully considered and evaluated by the United States, Johnson said.

"We will be glad to meet anyone more than half way so far as talking instead of fighting is concerned,' he concluded.

Asked about New York Times reports of civilian damage in the bombing of North Vietnam, Johnson said it is the policy of this government to bomb only military targets, but added:

"We realize inevitably there are civilian casualties. . .We regret to see these losses. We do everything we can to minimize these. . .They occur in South Vietnam as well as North Vietnam.

"Every civilian casualty is to be regretted.

"Our men do the best they can to hit only military targets."

Service Set Sunday For Mrs. Wilson

Funeral services have been set for 2 p. m. Sunday for Mrs. Jess (Agnes) Wilson, 85, widow of a former Snyder city judge and a resident here for 65 years.

Mrs. Wilson died at 5:45 p.m. Friday in Hendrick Memorial Hospital in Abilene.

Dr. John English will officiate at the funeral service at the First Methodist Church here, where Mrs. Wilson was a member. Burial will be in the Dermott Cemetery, under direction of Bolger Funeral Home.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs Howard Blackwell of Abilene, Mrs. Louis Hammett of Houma, La., and Mrs. Calvin J. Bowlin of Leesville, La.; two sons, A. E. Wilson of Azle and C. E. Wilson of Abilene; a stepson, Albert Wilson of Abilene; seven granchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Nephews will be pallbearers.

Service For Mishap Victim

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday at Rotan for Billy Jack Huckaby, 29, of Roby, who was crushed under earth-moving machinery late Friday in Borden County.

Mr. Huckaby, an employe of Price Construction Co. of Snyder, was operating a front-end loader while working in a stock tank on the C. D. Jones Ranch west of Fluvanna when the machine fell back on him. The mishap occurred at about 5 p. m. Friday.

The Rev. John Gillespie of Seminole will officiate at the funeral service at the First Baptist Church in Rotan. Weathersbee Funeral Home of Rotan is in charge of arrangements.

Ira Youth Suffers Accidental Wound

Gary Lee Vineyard, 17-year-old Ira youth, remained in fair condition in Cogdell Memorial Hospital Saturday morning following surgery Friday afternoon for a gunshot wound in the abdomen.

Sheriff's Authorities said the youth accidentally shot himself with a .22 caliber rifle while cleaning the gun in his home at Ira about 12:30 p. m. Friday.

FOR ACTION IN VIETNAM

Hero Returns With Bronze Star

By BUCK SITTON

"Oh we've got no time for glory in the infantry. We've got no time for praises loudly sung. . ."

These words from a famous infantry song are a pretty apt description of Sgt. Andrew Ramirez of Snyder, who recently returned from Viet Nam where he saw action in 15 battles against the enemy.

Anyone who saw him step off the bus here Christmas Eve morning probably would have taken him for just another soldier — perhaps a little smaller than most soldiers. There were no brass bands playing, patriotic speeches or an official welcoming committee.

But the Army was sufficiently impressed with Sgt. Ramirez' deeds that it awarded him the Bronze Star Medal for heroism in action. The 140-pound, 20-year-old sergeant also won the Purple Heart with a Cluster for wounds he received while fighting the Viet Cong.

As a member of Company C, 2nd Battalion, 27th Infantry, Sgt. Ramirez participated in numerous engagements against the Viet Cong during his year overseas.

Stationed near Cu Chi 30 miles from Saigon, Sgt. Ramirez served with a 25th Infantry Division unit that was actively engaged in clearing the Viet Cong from the area. Andrew and his buddies frequently went on "hunt and kill" operations in addition to marching directly into VC held territory.

Andrew won the Bronze Star for killing three enemy soldiers and wounding three in a cave. The citation given him states: ". . . For heroism in connection with military operations against a hostile force in the Republic of Vietnam: . . . Ramirez distinguished himself by heroic actions on 16 April 1966 while assigned as a member of a tunnel team. Chosen for his compact size and wiry strength, Ramirez, armed with only a .45 caliber pistol and a flash light, repeatedly went into the tunnels which frequently were booby trapped, mined or infested with poisonous reptiles. Without regard for his own safety, Ramirez searched for weapons, trap doors, logistical supplies and hidden Viet Cong. Arriving at a freshly dug tunnel, he made preparations for entrance. Once in the tunnel he discovered a trap door leading to another complex. He started to probe the trap door when it opened and an enemy grenade landed at his feet. Barely making it to safety and the tunnel entrance prior to the explosion, Ramirez returned immediately, without orders, and deposited his own grenade into the chamber below. His prompt and immediate response to the situation accounted for three Viet Cong dead and three others wounded. This outstanding display of aggressiveness, devotion to duty and personal bravery is in keeping with the highest standards of the military service and reflects great credit upon himself, his unit, the 25th Infantry Division, and the United States Army."

Andrew, is modest about his accomplishments as a soldier.

"We're gaining ground," he said when asked if he thought the United States was winning the war.

Upon questioning, he admitted that he didn't know how many of the enemy he has killed.

He has used M16 rifles, grenades, submachine guns, pistols and heavier artillery in various engagements against the Viet Cong.

CRMWD To Set Rates

Directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District will meet in Big Spring at 9:30 a. m. Jan. 10 to fix water rates for the calendar year.

Indications are that there will be no drastic changes. The water rates committee will meet prior to the regular board meeting to make a final review of studies by O. H. Ivie, general manager.

Another item on the agenda is the authorization of transfers to various funds in keeping with terms of the indenture. This will envolve some $600,000.

Ivie also will make reports on progress toward construction of the dam across the Colorado River just above Robert Lee.

Thant Asks US Bombing Be Halted

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General U Thant called again today for an unconditional halt in the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam as a necessary step to prepare the way for Vietnamese peace negotiations.

The secretary-general also called on all parties to the conflict to extend the New Year cease-fire, now scheduled to end at 6 p.m. EST Sunday — 7 a.m. — Vietnam time Monday.

"I feel hopeful that thereafter some favorable developments may follow," Thant said in a letter to chief U.S. Delegate Arthur J. Goldberg.

Thant was replying to a letter from Goldberg on Dec. 19 asking him to take whatever steps were necessary to arrange discussions on a cease-fire.

In his reply Thant reiterated his belief that any cease-fire talks must be arranged on the basis of his three-point program which calls for 1 cessation of U.S. bombing of North Vietnam, 2 a de-escalation of military activities by all sides and 3 participation of the Viet Cong in peace talks.

"I strongly believe," he said, "that this three-point program, of which the cessation of the bombing of North Vietnam is the first and essential part, is necessary to create the possibility of fruitful discussions leading to a just and honorable settlement of the problem of Vietnam on the basis of the Geneva agreements of 1954."

Incidents Mar Truce's Opening

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — A rash of combat incidents marred the opening of the two-day New Year truce across South Vietnam today. A Communist battalion attacked a company of U.S. troops in the central highlands for nearly five hours.

Saigon spokesmen reported nearly 40 outbreaks stirred up by the Communists and labeled 4 significant.

An enemy battalion estimated at 500 men attacked a company of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division in the highlands 15 miles northeast of Kontum City with mortars and small arms through the afternoon, finally breaking contact at 6:30 p.m.

A U.S. spokesman said the company — which normally would number about 150 men — was in a defensive position to observe the truce, ordered into effect at 7 a.m. American casualties were officially described as light. Though the troopers shot back, enemy losses, if any, were undetermined.

The Red onslaught resembled an attack on a U.S. Marine company 17 miles south of Da Nang in the Christmas truce, which was marred by a total of 122 shootings.

The engagement was the largest of 37 cases reported by the U.S. and South Vietnamese military commands in the first 12 hours of the New Year cease-fire.

GETS 20-YEAR PIN — Wayland Gladson, second from right, receives a 20-year service award from W. E. S. Dickerson II, manager of the Western Co. here. At left is Mrs. Dickerson and at right is Mrs. Gladson. The Gladsons have lived in Snyder since 1950. They have two daughters, Carla Barnes who is director of nurses in the Hockley County Hospital at Denver City, and Renee, a sophomore at Texas Tech; and a son, Charles, who is a senior at Texas Tech.

think about?

"Sometimes at night you wish you could go home," he declared.

"Several of my buddies got to go home before I did," he added, "But I didn't want to go home that way." (They were killed).

Action in and around Cu Chi was heavy.

Sgt. Ramirez said that the Company he was in received replacements three times during their year of action.

The former Snyder schoolboy was wounded the first time while on patrol 15 miles from Cu Chi in a wooded area known as the "Hobo Woods." A grenade exploded at his feet and fragments of the explosive hit him in the stomach and side.

"I saw the Viet Cong who threw the grenade. He was laughing. I wanted to get up and go after him, but I couldn't stand up," Andrew recalled.

"It was a small grenade," the Snyder soldier said. "If it had been as big as our grenades, I wouldn't be here now."

Andrew was first wounded on April 18. He then was taken to a field hospital to recuperate from his wounds. Two days after he was released from the hospital, on April 25, he was hit again by grenade fragments.

"Someone lobbed a grenade over a tree and it hit near me," Ramirez said. He was operating with soldiers "at the perimeter" or advance point of his battalion at the time. This action occurred at a site known as "Hell's Half Acre."

He spent 16 days in the hospital after receiving the second wounds while fragments were removed from his arm and leg.

Later, Sgt. Ramirez was transferred to the Second Brigade where he continued to see action during his final two months in Viet Nam.

He went out on patrol two days before he left on Christmas leave.

What kind of enemy are our forces up against?

"They get hopped up on dope and their leaders tell them to go kill some Americans," Andrew said.

"I've seen them attack our positions with many of the Viet Cong unarmed," he added. "Sometimes there would be women with them. Once I saw a Viet Cong attack a tank with a rifle. He didn't have a chance."

On one occasion the Viet Cong attacked in great numbers.

"There were so many of them attacking that it was easy to pick out a target," recalled Andrew.

With many of his buddies killed, Andrew feels that he is fortunate to survive the year of almost continuous action.

He is the son of Mrs. Lula Ramirez, 800 Twenty - seventh Street. Three brothers — Gregory, Gilbert and Robert — and three sisters — Josephine, Linda and Eva — also reside in Snyder.

Another brother, Adam, served with the U. S. Army during the Korean War.

The only respite Andrew had from action was three short rest leaves in Thailand, Taiwan and Japan.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of a teen-age daughter who lives in her own world. She's a straight "A" student, but refuses to take part in any school activities or make friends. When boys call her for dates, she turns them down so bluntly they never call again.

Joan, (we'll call her that) is pretty, has a nice figure, clear complexion, and could be popular if she wanted to be, but she shuts everybody out. When she comes home from school she goes right to her room, closes the door and studies. She comes out only for dinner, then goes back and stays there until it's time for school in the morning.

She never talks to me. Her father died two years ago, but she can't be grieving for him because they never got along. I know Joan is unhappy, but I don't know why. Should I take her to a doctor? What if she refuses to go? She is very stubborn and independent.

JOAN'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Something is bothering Joan, but since there is no communication between the two of you, someone else will have to reach her, if indeed she is to be reached at all.

Let her alone for the time being, but tell her if she wants to see a psychiatrist, you stand ready to make the arrangements. If her attitude persists, ask your family doctor for his recommendation.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: A group of us women were discussing what was important in marriage. I told them that I could forgive a husband for stepping out, but not spending money on somebody else when there were things his family needed. They all thought I was some kind of nut.

Don't get me wrong, Abby, I wouldn't encourage my husband to step out on me, but as long as I get my share, I don't see why I should raise the roof if he has a little fun outside. But with money, it's different. Just let him deprive me or the kids of something because he played the big shot with somebody else and I'd lock him out. Am I wrong?

MIN

DEAR MIN: For the first 50 years I would demand 100 per cent fidelity. After that, I'd be a little more generous.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: My husband's niece is being married soon. She is 22 and her finance is 24. They have asked my husband and me if we would like to be in the wedding party. That means I would be a bridesmaid and my husband would be an usher.

We thought it was darling of them, but Abby, have you ever heard of a 51-year-old bridesmaind and a 58-year-old usher? All the others in the wedding party are about the ages of the bride and groom, and I'm afraid we'll look pretty silly among those kids. Please rush your answer as the growns must be ordered.

TOO OLD

DEAR "TOO": I would thank them for the offer, but decline. Your niece can find another pair of young folks and—having paid you and your husband a unique compliment — might prefer to.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I was profoundly shaken to read in your column the following sentence:

"She sounds like she could have hunted bear with a switch."

Abby, how sad that you, too have sunk to the level where you would introduce a clause with the preposition "like."

Apparently your command of basic good English has also corrupted and debased by those relentless destroyers of English grammar — the writers of radio and television commercials. Now my faith in your judgment in all matters is in grave jeopardy.

Burglars Stocked For Big Celebration

DALLAS (AP)—Burglars who broke into a wholesale warehouse in Dallas should be well supplied for tonight's New Year's Eve celebration.

Police said the burglars drove away from the warehouse during the night in a panel truck containing 250 cases of liquor valued at more than $10,000.

Big Cotton Crop Just About All In

Scurry County's 1966 cotton crop may come close to the 50,000-bale mark.

Ginning figures by the end of the week apparently had reached approximately 47,000 bales and estimates were that close to 2,000 more bales would be added to the total before the last gin shuts down for the season.

A total of 1,695 bales remained on gin yards Friday afternoon waiting for processing.

Some gins already had closed down at the end of the week. The planters gin at Fluvanna had finished its season with a total of 2,009 bales, and the planters Gin at Hermleigh had ceased operation with a total of 2,818 bales. Planters Gin in Snyder had a few more bales to go and the total had reached 3,155 bales, and the Ira gin had a few more left with a total so far of 1,410.

The biggest backlog remaining was at the Snyder Co-op Gin where 9,311 bales had been processed and 1,050 bales remained on the yard. The Snyder Paymaster gin still had 390 bales left to add to 9,592 bales ginned. At Ching Grove, the total number of bales ginned had were still on the yard.

The gins at Inadale and Dunn were closed and no new reports were obtained there. However, they were known to have accounted for over 10,000 bales.

The yield per acre definitely established a record for the county, since the Scurry acreage this year was only about 41,000.

Organized Labor Scores Triumph

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Organized labor triumphed over the White House and business in its fight for higher wages in 1966 but lost ground in prices and politics.

The result spells trouble for the unions in the new Congress and in the coming year's major bargaining table collisions with industry.

Labor victories in breeching White House wage guidelines in the past year's biggest contract settlements had a somewhat empty ring in light of the sharpest rising living costs in a decade.

Cost-of-living wage escalators — the workers' insurance policy against inflation — became a prime union demand again after years of decline.

And after many of their candidates went down to defeat in the November elections, labor leaders became increasingly apprehensive about possible hostile legislation in Congress in 1967.

AFL-CIO President George Meany foresaw the possibility of a compulsory arbitration law to prevent walkouts like last summer's airlines strike, and maybe even wage-price controls.

"We don't look forward to that with any great feeling of delight," Meany said in behalf of the big labor federation's 13.5 million members in 129 unions.

Some 35,000 machinists won annual wage and fringe benefit increases of five per cent or more after a six-week strike that grounded five major airlines. In the process, they handed President Johnson his first defeat in major labor cases by rejecting one contract proposal negotiated in the White House.

Later, about 180,000 members of 11 unions won a similar size contract increase from the giants of the electrical industry, General Electric Co. and Westinghouse Electric Corp.

Labor did get a new minimum wage law, hiking the present $1.25 an hour minimum to $1.40 next February and to $1.60 in February 1968.

The five per cent contract gains, and the emphasis on cost-of-living protection against inflation, set a trend that put in limbo the government's efforts to hold wage hikes to 3.2 per cent a year under White House economic guidelines.

The government also increasingly warned of threats to the Viet Nam war effort in coping with a rash of strikes involving defense products ranging from electronic tubes to jet aircraft engines.

The questions of national interest, vital defense production, and the economic argument over inflation are sure to heighten in the series of major contract negotiations coming up in 1967.

These involve several million workers in trucking, auto manufacturing, rubber, clothing, telephone, paper, leather, food processing and other industries.

In politics the AFL-CIO started off the year irked at the Democratic administration for what it termed failure to deliver past campaign promises to labor, but returned to the fold in time to share the party's remorse at the big Democratic losses to the Republicans at election time.

Meany warned that labor must work to prevent "strangulation" of recently enacted programs for medical care, education, antipoverty and other Great Society legislation.

Labor unions want to win repeal of Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act, legalize construction site picketing, or improve unemployment compensation in the heavily Democratic 89th Congress, and chances for these proposals in the new 90th appeared poor.

Brown has won four straight Ivy League soccer titles.

Bahamas Call For Powell's Departure

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — "The Bahamas should not carry the reputation of being a hideout for people who are wanted by law enforcement authorities in their own state in America," said the Nassau Tribune.

It was calling for the departure from Bimini, 50 miles off the Florida coast, of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y.

Powell, convicted of contempt of court in connection with a libel judgment against him in New York and under fire by some members of Congress, owns property on Bimini.

"If his presence here is not healthy for our society then we should ask him to go and live in surroundings that suit his way of life," the Tribune said Friday in an editorial.

The newspapers said the Bahamian government considered deporting Powell in 1965 after Hurricane Betsy struck Bimini.

When Powell asked the U.S. Coast Guard to send food and water to the island, the Bahamas considered Powell was interfering in local affairs but hesitated to deport him because he was a congressman, the Tribune said.

Nation Ready To Greet New Year

By GEORGE ESPER

NEW YORK (AP) — At 11:59 p.m. tonight, an illuminated ball will slide down a flagpole on the Allied Chemical Tower in New York's Times Square.

Thus, the old tradition, dating back to 1906, will signal the start of a new year.

From New York, to Rome, to Glasgow, Scotland, millions will whoop it up.

New York Mayor John V. Lindsay will have not only his name, but also his New Year's message to the "fun city," up in lights over Times Square tonight.

In Rome, nimble-footed city policemen braced for the usual Roman New Year's Eve shower of exploding crackers and crockery.

Despite the law and by centuries-old tradition, Romans bring in the New Year by exploding fire crackers and by raining down everything but the kitchen sink on cars and fleeing pedestrians. "It's their way of symbolizing a desire to start anew.

Scotland was prepared to celebrate its most singing, swinging New Year of all time. New Year's undoubtedly still holds sway as the No. 1 holiday binge of the year.

Thanks to a price war among publicans, Scots stocked up with drink at slashed prices.

Rotary Club Cancels Debt Of Student

How'd you like to have a $400 debt canceled?

That's what happened to Army 2nd Lt. Weldon Merritt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd H. Merritt, Route 2.

Four years ago when Weldon graduated from Snyder High School, the Snyder Rotary Club loaned him $400 to help pay his expenses at Texas A&M Univeristy.

"We cancelled the debt when we found out what a high scholastic achievement he attained in college," said Don Browning, Rotary Club president.

Weldon was a member of the National Honor Society while a student at Snyder High School. He is an honor graduate of A&M where he won "Distinguished Student" and "Distinguished Military Graduate" awards. He won a scholastic achievement award in psychology — his major field of study and was a member of Phi Eta Sigma and Phi Kappa Phi honor fraternities.

A May graduate of A&M, Weldon graduated from the Field Artillery Officer Basic School and the U. S. Army Airborne School.

He will report for duty in January to the 36th U. S. A. Missile Detachment at Ingolstadt, Germany.

Waco Child Killed On Busy Freeway

FORT WORTH AP)—Gabriel Monrial, 5, of Waco died Friday when he dashed in front of a car on a busy freeway.

The tot, son of Mr. and Mrs. Toby Monrail, died shortly after being hospitalized. Relatives said the youth and his family were visiting an aunt and uncle during the holidays, and that Gabriel was struck while he was crossing a freeway with a 14-year-old cousin.

The cousin, Charles Lonzano, also of Waco, was not injured.

Los Angeles Co Buys Abilene Firm

ABILENE, Tex. AP) — The Los Angeles-based Occidental Petroleum Co. has acquired the McWood Corp. in exchange for Occidental stock and the liquidation of McWood.

Occidental president Armand Hammer said Friday the transaction is subject to approval of McWood stockholders. McWood is an Abilene crude oil marketing firm.

Dr. Carroll's Rites Pend

DALLAS (AP) — Dr. Moyes B. Carroll, 50, former president of the Baptist General Convention of Texas and pastor of a 3,300 — member church here, died Friday after an apparent heart attack.

Funeral services were pending.

Dr. Carroll was first vice president of the Southern Baptist Convention and a member of the board of the Baptist Standard.

He was graduated from Furman University and from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary at Fort Worth. In 1955, Dr. Carroll received an honorary doctorate of divinity degree from East Texas Baptist College at Marshall.

He was a member of the board of Howard Payne College in Brownwood and East Texas Baptist. He formerly pastored churches in Red Springs, Meridian, Matador and Brady before coming to the First Baptist Church of Henderson in 1949.

Two Slain In Dallas Shooting

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Two men were shot to death Friday night in a scrape at a northern Dallas tavern.

Police held a man for questioning in the gunshot slayings of Francisco Palamo 28, and Paul Villegas, 25 both of Dallas. Palamo was dead on arrival at a hospital early today. Villegas died shortly after being admitted.

Palamo lived at 2611 Hondo, Villegas 1603 South Harwood.

Therapy Services At Nursing Home

The West Texas Rehabilation Center at Abilene will offer special therapy services for patients in Hillcrest Manor, Snyder's plush new nursing home when it opens in a few days.

Bill Snowden, chief therapist of the WTRC, was in Snyder this week. He and the owners of Hillcrest Manor, R. O. and R. W. McDonald, and the manager, Buck Cochran, all were guests of the Snyder Kiwanis Club.

Snowden emphasized the therapy would be offered only to those patients who are referred to the Manor by a doctor or physician.

The therapy will be performed by specialists from the Center in Abilene. Ultimately, the Center will assign a full-time aide at Hillcrest Manor. Services provided will be in occupational, physical and speech therapy.

Hillcrest Manor will provide janitorial services and utilities for the therapy room.

Cochran, the new manager, said he still is accepting applications for employment at Hillcrest Manor. Ultimately, the 86-bed, $250,000 rest home will provide employment for over 50 Snyder residents.

Water Use Up Slightly

The Colorado River Municipal Water District will produce about 11.6 billion gallons of water for 1966, Paschall Odom, assistant to the general manager, estimated. This promises to be about 300 million gallons more than 1965.

Odom said the district was making steady progress on its injection of lake water in the deaquified zones in the Martin County well field. At the end of the year the amount put in storage since early fall will be around 200 million gallons. He estimated that, including a carry over from last year, the district will have more than a billion gallons reserve for use in meeting summer peaking demands in Odessa.

Curt Flood, St. Louis Cardinal outfielder, has played 185 errorless games in succession.

Comedian Hope Says Vietnam Not Funny

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bob Hope, back from Vietnam, found it difficult to joke about what he saw there.

"At Chu Chi all through the show on Christmas Day there was artillery fire going on in the background," he said. "Two of the boys at my show were killed a couple of hours later."

The comedian, who had taken a troupe of holiday entertainers to Vietnam twice before, called the conflict "a very dirty war, a booby trap and mine war."

He said there were "many, many truce violations" during the 48- hour holiday cease-fire period.

Hope and his troupe of performers, including comedienne Phyllis Diller, presented 17 shows in addition to performances in five hospitals and four in evacuation planes or carriers bearing wounded servicemen.

"I am amazed at the spirit of these kids," he said. "The morale was great. Even the wounded laughed."

Miss Diller, wearing two wilted leis, quipped that she had been "sent along to frighten them" — the Viet Cong.

Other entertainers who made the trip were Vic Damone, Joey Heatherton, Les Brown and his band and the 1966 Miss World, Reita Faria of Bombay, India.

Jerry Colonna, the mustachioed fixture on Hope's annual jaunts to overseas military bases, did not go this year because of illness.

Joining Hope for the first time on an overseas tour were his wife Dolores and two children, Nora and Kelly.

"I have been dreaming of this for 15 years," Mrs. Hope said.

SMU Is Champion With Upset Win

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Southern Methodist shot a torrid 55.8 per cent from the floor and upset Southern Illinois 66-64 for the championship of the ninth Sun Carnival Basketball Tournament Friday night.

Southern Illinois, No. 2 small college team in the country, jumped to an 8-0 lead in the early minutes but the Mustangs trimmed the advantage to 31-29 at halftime.

Billiard Champion Defends Title

NEW YORK AP) — Luther Lassiter successfully defended his World Pocket Billiard championship when he defeated Cicero Murphy 150-101 in the final match of the series. Lassiter pocketed a total of 1,500 balls to Murphy's 1,435.

Third baseman Ken Boyer led the New York Mets in slugging last season with a .415 mark.

JUMP SHOT — Eldon Woodward (No. 45) gets off a shot for Snyder's Tigers at Lamesa Friday night in the District 3-AAA basketball opener for both teams. Also in on the action for the Bengals are Langston Powell (No. 21) and M. C. Powell (No. 25). Contesting for the Tornadoes are Jerry Mason (No. 22), Arthur Callaway (No. 52), and Gene Everheart (No. 12).

Lamesa Rally Catches Snyder Tigers, 61-47

LAMESA — The cold Golden Tornadoes rallied in the second half with a tenacious defense to turn back an upset-bent band of Snyder Tigers, 61-47, in the opening District 3-AAA basketball clash for both teams.

Snyder put forth a tremendous effort and appeared to be on the way to an upset. The Bengals led by 11-9 in the first quarter, then trailed only 22-20 at halftime.

It was a tight game from start to finish. After Lamesa shot ahead, 41-32 in the third quarter, the Tigers pulled within six points late in the fourth quarter. Lamesa began stalling and the Snyder boys had to become aggressive and go for the ball. When they did they committed several fouls and left the basket open a couple of times. This enabled the Lamesans to post the final 61-47 advantage.

Neither team was exceptionally sharp on offense. Although Lamesa held a considerable advantage in height, the Bengals grabbed their share of rebounds with M. C. Powell leading in that department with seven. Tommy Bullard claimed five, and Bobby Clardy, Langston Powell and Eldon Woodward each captured four.

Lamesa was held to only two field goals in each of the first two frames. They dunked in seven in the third quarter and five in the final stanza to rally for the win. Bob Wiggins and Gene Everheart shared scoring honors with 12 points apiece. The tall Pat Fees was the only other Tor in double figures with 10 points.

Snyder's Tommy Bullard paced the Tiger attack with 11 points, including four free throws in the last stanza. Langston Powell and Drake Snyder each dunked in seven points. Snyder was impressive on defense.

It was a weird game in many respects. Lamesa committed 20 fouls with Jerry Mason and Wiggins fouling out in the final stanza. Three Tigers were only one foul away from the exit—Langston Powell, M. C. Powell and Drake Snyder. The Tigers were charged with a total of 25 fouls.

Lamesa made almost half of its points — 29 — at the free throw line. Clardy, with only three field goals, sank more floor shots than any other Tiger, yet he scored all of these in the first half.

Lamesa meshed only 2 of 21 floor shots in the first quarter, compared with 4 of 13 for Snyder. The Tigers dunked in 2 of 6 in the second quarter while the Tornadoes managed to connect on only 2 of 11. In the third frame, Lamesa hit 7 of 12 while Snyder hit only 3 of 13. In the last stanza, the hosts zeroed in on 5 of 8 shots while Snyder hit on just 2 of 11.

Lamesa has three starters who are taller than anyone on the Tiger squad. Yet they looked rusty. Only a stalwart defense in the second half preserved the victory for them. It seems amazing that they own a 17-0 record.

In the "B" game, both teams operated better on offense with Jerry January and Benny Ward pacing the Snyder attack with 12 and 11 points respectively. Lamesa's Gene Fleming pitched in 13 points to capture scoring honors.

Snyder saw its lead (17-13 first quarter, 28-20, second quarter) vanish in the third period as Lamesa pulled even at 40-40. Six free throws in the final stanza enabled the hosts to pull it out at 52-48.

UCLA, Big Lew Bury Southern Cal, 107-83

Associated Press Sports Writer
By DICK COUCH

Lew Alcindor took Southern California's tough Trojans in stride, but Montana State's hungry Bobcats took Oklahoma City by Storm.

Alcindor, harrassed by a sagging Trojan defense, still scored 25 points as unbeaten UCLA buried Southern Cal 107-83 Friday night for the Los Angeles Classic basketball title.

Montana State's Bob Storm, meanwhile, led the unheralded Bobcats to their third upset victory in the 31st All-College Tournament at Oklahoma City, flipping in 27 points in an 82-81 overtime decision over the host Chiefs for the championship.

Alcindor, UCLA's 7-foot-1 sophomore wizard, shook off USC defenders to set up guards Lucius Allen, 22 points, and Mike Warren, 20, repeatedly and trigger a devastating fast break that ran off 14 straight points at the start and carried the top-ranked Bruins to their eighth victory.

"We had an idea they would go to a zone defense and sag on Lew," UCLA Coach John Wooden said, "so we went to our guards and our outside men for the shots. We played as well in the first half as we have played all year."

Asked about the blanket of USC defenders that surrounded him, Alcindor replied: "They didn't beat me up any worse than the last time. It's just something I have to get used to."

The "last time" was Dec. 3, when big Lew staggered the Trojans with 56 points in his first varsity game.

At Oklahoma City, Storm was named the most valuable player in the All College event - the nation's oldest holiday college tourney — after spanking Montana State past Texas 91-87 and tournament favorite Temple 61-60 on the way to the final.

Second-ranked Louisville and No. 5 New Mexico also captured tournament titles and fourth-ranked Texas Western rebounded convincingly after its stunning first-round loss to Southern Illinois Thursday night in the Sun Carnival — a tourney the NCAA champion Miners had won five years in a row.

Burly Westley Unseld and slick sophomore Butch Beard paced unbeaten Louisville to a 72-63 triumph over previously-unbeaten Princeton in the title game of the Quaker City Classic at Philadelphia.

Vaughan Harper, who led Syracuse past Villanova 81-71 in the third-place contest and totaled 70 points and 50 rebounds in three starts, took the MVP award in the Quaker City test — won for the first time by a non-Philadelphia school.

New Mexico's Mel Daniels dropped in 29 points and Don Hoover led a scrambling defense that forced 26 turnovers as the Lobos belted Colorado State 64-49 to win their own invitational tournament at Albuquerque.

Texas Western throttled Drake 66-47 for third place in the Sun Carnival at El Paso.

Southern Methodist then knocked off Southern Illinois the nation's No. 2 small college team, 66-64 in the final.

In non-tournament action, third - ranked North Carolina pasted Ohio State 105-72 as Rusty Clark, Larry Miller and Bob Lewis combined for 70 points. No. 7 Cincinnati had its eight-game unbeaten string snapped by Iowa 78-69 after Jeff Tillman's 41-point binge led Chicago Loyola to an 85-72 romp over Marquette in a doubleheader at tChicago.

Eighth-ranked St. John's, N.Y., only other member of the Top Ten in action, got past tree-top tall Brigham Young 76-73 in an overtime consolation game at New York's ECAC Holiday Festival. Providence rallied behind Jim Walker's 25 points to overcome St. Joseph's of Philadelphia 82-76 for the championship.

In other tournament finals:

Kansas beat Iowa State 63-57 in the Big Eight at Kansas City, Mo., Bradley nipped Utah 64-62 in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, La.; North Carolina State upset South Carolina 76-73 in the Triangle Classic at Raleigh, N.C.; Seattle topped Xavier, Ohio ,9-719 in the Legion Invitational at Seattle, Wash.

Washington downed Washington State 80-72 in the Far West Classic at Portalnd, Ore.; Clemson trounced Furman 83-66 in the Poinsettia at Greenville, S.C., and Pacific defeated San Francisco 59-51 in the WCAC Tourney at San Francisco.

Wilt Sets Pattern For Other 76ers

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wilt Chamberlain showed how it's done and Billy Cunningham and Chet Walker seem to have learned the lesson well.

All three Philadelphia 76ers scored 23 points Friday night in the club's 137-113 National Basketball Association victory over Detroit in Fort Wayne, Ind. And all three hardly missed from the floor.

It's Chamberlain, of course, who has been shooting field goals at a record percentage during the early part of the season, and Friday night he had eight for 13. But Cunningham, at 11 of 16, and Walker, with 0 of 13, did even better for the one game at least.

The 76ers had nothing in the way of trouble from Detroit in racking up their 35th victory against just three losses for a remarkable .921 mark. They took a 77-55 halftime lead and ran it up to 36 points in the fourth quarter.

Dave DeBusschere and Dave Bing led Detroit with 18 points each.

Texas Sports Hall Of Fame Adds Seven

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Sports Hall of Fame had 56 pictures today with the enshrinement of seven new members in ceremonies Friday.

Jackie Robinson, basketball great from Baylor, and Lloyd Mangrum, golf's famed "man with the mustache," were inducted along with five deceased athletic greats—marksman Ad Toepperwein, J. Walter Morris and Eddie Dyer of baseball, Wesley Bradshaw and Blair Cherry of football.

More than 1,000 persons attended the luncheon Friday when the seven were welcomed into the Hall of Fame.

Robinson got his plaque from Slater Martin, already a member. Mangrum received his plaque from Byron Nelson, also already in the Hall of Texas sports heroes.

The five decreased athletic greats were enshrined posthumously with widows and relatives receiving the plaques.

There now are 25 football players and coaches, 11 baseballers, five golfers, five track men, two tennis, three basketballers and one each of polo, swimming, boxing, horse racing and marksmanship in the Hall of Fame.

Bills Go After Third Pro Title

By MIKE RATHET

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The Buffalo Bills will be out to grab an unprecedented third straight American Football League championship — and an unprecedented pot of gold — when they meet the Kansas City Chiefs Sunday in the most important struggle for supremacy in league history.

The seventh AFL title game, which will be televised nationally by NBC at 1 p.m. EST, offers the added incentive of a shot at the National Football League champion in the Super Bowl and one of the biggest payoffs in U.S. sports history.

The eventual AFL champions will draw checks for about $7,000 each from the league title game and then move on to meet Green Bay or Dallas in the Super Bowl game with a $15,000 payoff awaiting each of the winners and a $7,500 consolation prize for the loser.

The AFL title game then guarantees the winner a minimum in the neighborhood of close to $15,000 — some $11,000 more than the loser will take home.

The Chiefs, with a potent offense revolving around quarterback Len Dawson, running backs Mike Garrett and Curt McClinton and receivers Otis Taylor and Chris Burford, have been established as slight favorites over the defending champion Bills.

However, there is one factor that could hurt the Chiefs' chances — Buffalo's usually frigid weather. It is almost certain that the War Memorial Stadium turf will be frozen, and Coach Joe Collier of the Bills admits that might give Buffalo a slight advantage.

"The advantages and disadvantages will probably counterbalance in most instances," Collier said. "However, they have a more varied attack than we do, they have more formations and they're a little fancier than us."

Pan-Am Wins Own Basketball Tourney

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP)—Pan American College was champion of its own basketball tournament for the fifth time in six years today.

Using a tight defense and 40 per cent shooting from the floor, Pan-American defeated St. Mary's of Texas 67-53 in the finals Friday night.

Howard Fuller, 6-foot sophomore who led Pan American with 20 points, was named the tournament's most valuable player.

Lamar Tech last year's champion and the only other winner of the six-year-old tournament, finished eighth when it lost to Minnesota (Duluth) 80-78 in overtime Friday.

SWC Basketball Looks Brighter

Southwest Conference basketball looked a little brighter today and some of the gloss was unexpected.

Southern Methodist, probably the conference's finest team, won the Sun Carnival Tournament at El Paso with a 66-64 surprise over Southern Illinois, the nations No. 2 ranked small college club.

The Mustangs' victory was the highlight as conference teams won three of six games in intersectional competition Friday night.

Rice and Baylor also came through with upsets while Texas, Texas A&M and Arkansas lost in th windup of holiday tournaments.

Baylor shocked Wyoming 93-83 for third place in the American Legion Invitational at Seattle, Wash. Jim Turner, who scored 16 of the Bears' first 26 points, finished with 33.

Rice, with Bill Doty scoring 21 points and retrieving 15 rebounds, whipped Louisiana State 88-69 in the consolation game of the Poinsettia Classic at Greenville, S.C.

Southern Methodist hit from the field at a 55 per cent pace in turning back Southern Illinois. Trailing 8-0 early, the Mustangs were only two points behind at halftime and had a seven-point lead early in the second half.

Denny Holman's 15 points were high for SMU.

Massachusetts defeated Texas 85-74 for the Longhorns' second loss in three games in the All-College Tournament at Oklahoma City.

Arkansas received a 31-point scoring performance from Tommy Rowand but the smaller Razorbacks fell to stronger Michigan 82-72 in the Los Angeles Classic. It was Arkansas' second defeat in the tournament in which Rowland scored 76 points in three games.

New York University pulled away in the last six minutes and beat Texas A&M 79-67 for third place in the Lobo Invitational at Albuquerque N. M. Mal Graham of NYU and the Aggies' Sonny Benefield locked up in a scoring duel with Graham winning 32-26.

The Southwest Conference race starts Tuesday with defending champion SMU at Baylor, Rice at Texas, A&M and Texas.

Louisville Wins Crown

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Missouri Valley basketball teams finished an outstanding week of holiday tournament play Friday night with unbeaten Louisville winning the Quaker City crown at Philadelphia, 72-63 from Princeton and Bradley taking the Sugar Bowl crown at New Orleans, 64-62, over Utah.

St. Louis, a first round loser in the Far West Classic at Portland, came back to win its last two games for fifth, climaxed with a record 107-87 romp over West Virginia behind 7-foot-1 Rich Niemann and 6-7 Eugene Moore.

Valley teams had a 4-3 edge for the night over outside foes, making it 54-21 for the season, still over the 70 per cent level.

Seventh-ranked Cincinnati had its perfect record shattered, 78-69 by Iowa at Chicago Stadium.

Sugar Bowl Pits Nation's Top Coaches

By BEN THOMAS

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Walking on water is a virtue that hasn't been claimed yet for Bob Devaney by Nebraska partisans, although Alabama followers swear their legendary Paul (Bear) Bryant has such abilities.

Super feats or not, the two opposing coaches for the 33rd Sugar Bowl football game are at the very pinnacle of their profession.

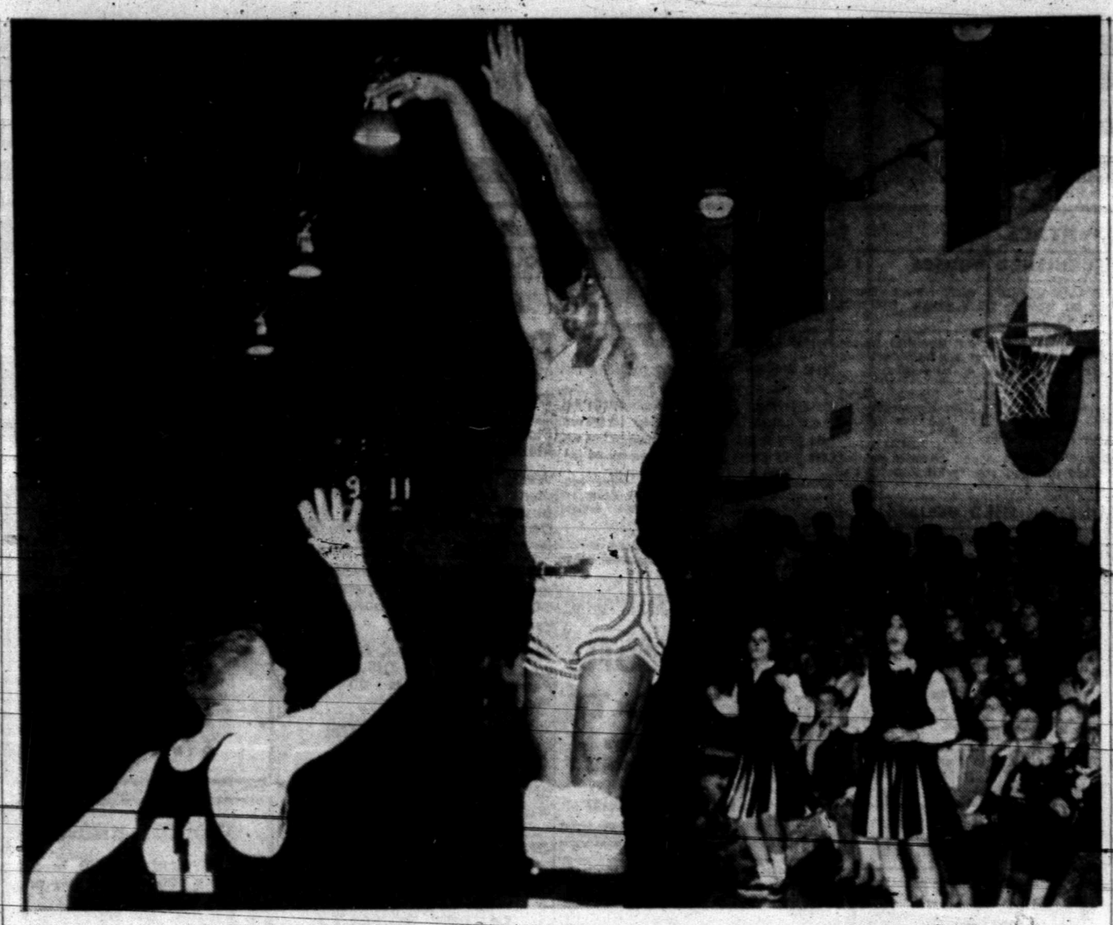

The roly-poly Nebraska coach is rounding out his first decade as a college mentor and his fabulous record pales the comparable 10 years for Bryant.

Devaney fielded his first college team as the University of Wyoming in 1957. He shifted to Nebraska five years later for the 1962 season.

When the once-beaten Cornhuskers trot out to play Alabama before 83,000 at 2 p.m., EST, Monday, Devaney will be going after his 83rd college victory.

Over the last five years only a few percentage points and two national championships separate Bryant and Devaney. The Bear's Red Elephants are 48-5-1 for .898 since 1962. Devaney's Big Red is 47-7-0 or .870.

Bryant won the national title in 1964 and 1965, plus one in 1961. Devaney has yet to capture the mythical crown.

UP HIGH — Jerry (Tap) Mason (No. 22) goes up high to try for a basket in the thrilling Lamesa-Snyder basketball game. Defending for the Tigers is Drake Snyder (No. 41). A sizeable crowd was on hand to see the Tornadoes, district favorites, win their 17th straight victory.

Cowboys, Packers May Play In Mud

By JACK HAND

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The chance of rain for the Cotton Bowl game between Georgia and Southern Methodist raises the possibility that the Green Bay Packers and Dallas Cowboys might slug it out in the mud Sunday in the same stadium for the National Football League title. However, hot air blowers will be used if necessary to dry the field.

"If the field is torn up it could hurt our game," said Coach Tom Landry of the Cowboys. "We'd rather have a dry field."

"I don't think the weather will handicap Dallas any more than us," said Coach Vince Lombardi of the Packers. "Both teams will be handicapped if the field is bad."

Both Landry and Lombardi agreed that the quarterbacks were the key men in this battle for the league title and the right to play the American Football League champion Jan. 15 in the Super Bowl at Los Angeles.

A crowd of 75,504 will watch, starting at 4:05 p.m., EST, with network (CBS) radio and television coverage.

"If Bart Starr has a real hot day, we are going to win," said Lombardi. "If Don Meredith has a real hot day, Dallas probably will win. In this league it comes down to that."

When Landry was advised of Lombardi's remarks, he said, "That is a pretty good observation. How the quarterback goes dictates how a team goes. And Meredith is capable of having an excellent day."

The Packers, one touchdown favorites, have running power in Jim Taylor, Elijah Pitts, Paul Hornung and the million dollar rookies, Donny Anderson and Jim Grabowski. Starr has had a great year passing, with Carroll Dale his favorite long ball target.

A winning share will be worth about $8,600 plus a shot at the Super Bowl where the winner is guaranteed $15,000 and the loser $7,500. The loser Sunday will get about $6,000.

If the game is tied at the end of regulation time it will continue on a sudden death basis until somebody scores by safety, field goal or touchdown.

Tech Clings To Role Of Favorite

By BEN FUNK

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Despite all its injuries, Georgia Tech clung today to the role of favorite in the Orange Bowl football game with Florida.

The odds dropped, however, to 1½ points from the three-point edge the Yellow Jackets had been given prior to reports that several key players hurt in the season-ending game with Georgia might see only limited action.

Coach Bobby Dodd, going after his 10th victory in 13 bowl games since he took over the Georgia Tech helm 22 years ago, said the first two days of practices under the warm Florida sun had given him no cause for encouragement.

The Orange Bowl kickoff is set for 8 p.m., EST, Monday — last offering on a nine-hour long NBC television program of bowl football.

ET Baptist Wins Cotton Bowl Title

DALLAS (AP) — Surprising East Texas Baptist ended Midwestern's three-year reign as Cotton Bowl AAU basketball champion by upsetting the Indians 88-81 Friday night.

East Texas State, a 69-67 loser to East Texas Baptist Thursday night, defeated Arlington State 67-65 for third place.

Bishop College beat Austin College 70-63 and Texas Wesleyan 82-79 in a doubleheader Friday to win the consolation round.

Remember Moegle's Uncompleted Run?

By MIKE COCHRAN

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — It began in 1937 with Sammy Baugh and Kl Aldrich, Texas Christian and outclassed Marquette.

A decade later came Bobby Layne, Y. A. Tittle, Doak Walker, Kyle Rote.

Then Andy Kozar and Bud McFadin, Babe Parilli and Dicky Moegle. Jim Brown, Ernie Davis, Lance Alworth, Duke Carlisle and Bobby Crockett.

All are among the Cotton Bowl immortals, their names etched into the diary amid glowing accounts of football heroics, some bizarre, some incredible.

And history thus dictated that the Georgia-Southern Methodist contest this New Year's Eve produce another glittering chapter in the Cotton Bowl storybook.

Would it be Jerry (Big Play) Levias, the fleet Southern Methodist reminder of the golden era of Walker and Rote?

Or George Patton, the sturdy defensive wonder, an All-America tackle who captained a Georgia team that lost a single game by a single point and ranked fourth nationally?

Perhaps the hero was to be neither flashy back nor bulky lineman, but a specialist like Bob Etter, the gifted Georgian who kicked 12 of 15 field goals and 21 of 22 extra points.

It is doubtful anyone will ever overshadow Bobby Layne's performance against Missouri in 1946, when the flamboyant Texas quarterback hit 11 of 12 passes, two for touchdowns, scored four times himself and kicked four extra points.

Texas won 40-27.

But Layne's individual feats failed to win him acclaim as the most valuable all-around athlete ever to perform in the Cotton Bowl.

The honor befell Doak Walker, who participated in back-to-back Cotton Bowl classics, 1948 and 1949.

He gained 125 yards, completed five of nine passes, one for a touchdown, intercepted a pass, scored once himself and kicked an extra point as SMU tied Penn State 13-13.

The following year, against Oregon, he ran and passed for 145 yards, completing six of 10 passes, scored a touchdown, kicked two extra points and boomed a 79-yard punt.

He was also acclaimed for his blocking and tackling as SMU won it 21-13.

But Dicky Moegle, now Maegle, figured in the most bizarre Cotton Bowl incident, the stunning bench tackle by Alabama fullback Tommy Lewis in 1954.

Officials awarded the Rice flash a 95-yard touchdown run and he went on to shred the 'Bama defense for 265 yards and three touchdowns. Rice won 28-6.

Just a year ago Bobby Crockett, the Arkansas ace, picked off a record 10 pass receptions, although Louisiana State upset the Razorbacks 14-7.

But for sheer drama, nothing equaled the ballyhoo that preceded the 1964 contest between national champion Texas and second-ranked Navy. The Middies vowed that the mythical crown had been misplaced.

Texas settled that national debate 28-6 as Duke Carlisle, in probably his greatest collegiate performance, passed for two touchdowns, ran for a third and set a total offense record of 267 yards.

Ward Will Try To Revitalize Program

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — The University of Maryland, still seeking a revitalized football program, has given Bob Ward a five-year contract to build a strong foundation.

The long-term agreement, for $20,000 annually, was signed Friday, less than one month after Lou Saban quit with three years remaining on a four-year contract to accept a job with the Denver Broncos of the American Football League.

Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, university president, spoke highly of Ward, Maryland's first All-America player as a guard on the 1950 and 1951 teams coached by the late Jim Tatum. Ward was head line coach last season at Army.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Deep Springs, $9.60, scored a front-running victory in the feature race at Tropical Park.

Rose Bowl Tilt May Be Wide Open

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Final serious practice was scheduled today for Rose Bowl-bound Purdue and Southern California, and most everyone predicted a wide open football game Monday.

"Southern California has a fast football team. Long and tall, and Troy Winslow and Rod Sherman are exceptionally fast," said Purdue Coach Jack Mollenkopf.

"I expect a wide open game."

Coach John McKay was asked how he felt about the 14-point favoritism of the Boilermakers from the Big 10.

"I guess that means we'll just have to score more than 14 points," said McKay in his customary manner.

As for Purdue's crack quarterback, Bob Griese, McKay said:

"We'll just try to slow him down as much as possible. How do you stop his passing?

Both teams plan to exercise lightly in sweatsuits Sunday.

The weather continued clear and a little crisp, and the forecast remained the same for Jan. 2.

Tight Race Looms In Hockey League

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rochester and Pittsburgh are still 1-2, one point apart, in the Eastern Division race in the American Hockey League.

Both teams won Friday night, Rochester posting a 7-3 victory over Buffalo and Pittsburgh edging Springfield 4-3. Providence and Baltimore fought to a 4-4 tie.

The American's triumph was their seventh in nine games, and the loss extended Buffalo's winless streak to 12 games. Dick Gamble had two of the Rochester goals and Mike Walton and Bronco Horvath each added one.

Pittsburgh held off a late Springfield surge after Roger Cote's goal at 7:57 of the third period brought the Indians with in a goal.

Baltimore scored three goals within a minute in the final period to rally from a 4-1 deficit and gain the tie. Duncan MacDonald, Bob Cunningham and Bill Knibbs scored the tying goals.

Many Stars Vow To Abandon Fags

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Resolutions to quit smoking head the list of picture people's good intentions for 1967.

Efrem Zimbalist Jr., Bea Benadaret and Bradford Dillman take the pledge, although Dillman confesses: "I make the same resolution every year."

Dick Clark quit in 1966 and intends "to remain cigaretteless in 1967." Dale Robertson, who has been swearing off annually, sounds a note of surrender: "I promise not to give up smoking." Robert Goulet plans to quit "at least six times."

Many resolutions are of lofty or noble intent.

Eva Gabor: "To pay the boys In Vietnam a visit." Ditto Patricia Harty. Peter Fonda: "It may be a hopeless cause, but I resolve to do my damnedest to help end the Vietnam war."

Joni James: "Everything in my power to promote peace and understanding." Harry Belafonte: "Continue finding ways of linking all people closer together through music." Bob Denver: "I'm going to try and help teen-agers more."

Sammy Davis Jr.: "If I hurt or offended anyone unconsciously-in 1966, I resolve to make it up to one and all."

Nick Adams: "To be a better father to my children." Patti Pace: "Sepdn less time traveling and more with my husband and two children."

In the self-improvement category:

Jonathan Winters: "I resolve to say goodby to all the goodies— ice cream, cake and candies.' Fred MacMurray: "To be patient, considerate, thoughtful, courteous and calm when driving the car-choked, frustrating, frenetic freeways."

Mick Connors: "Remember the mistakes I made in 1966 and not repeat them." Robert Conrad: "Make every day count." Lee Marvin: "To read more. There are at least 75 books I didn't get to in '66." Bob Newhart: "To sit in front of the typewriter at least six hours a day." Howard Duff: "Try not to lose my temper so often."

Some resolutions are just gags:

Carolyn Jones: "To cut down expenses. I shall no longer clean my diamonds in gin." Dean Martin: "To drink just a little more."

Ken Murray: "To vote as many actors as I can into public office. This cuts down my competition." Chad Everett: "To think of a good resolution for 1968."

Lorne Greene, Eli Wallach and Morey Amsterdam resolve to make no more resolutions. Danny Thomas and Michael Callan never make them. Jane Morgan is using "last year's to save the trouble of breaking them again."

Says Julie Andrews: "I'd rather not talk about mine I have so many it would be impossible to live up to them."

'Show' Biz' Slogans Are Challenged

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Now that a new year is here, Barry Nelson wishes everyone would swear off a few old theatrical notions.

Nelson, Broadway's champion long-run star, got going the other day on a list of expendable bromides while holding forth on his pet peeve—about players being expected to give the exact same performance night after night.

"The guys that thought up that cliche," he amiably protests, "never had to do it. And the same thing goes for certain other popular axioms about stage work.

"Take that one about, 'The show must go on!' For whom?" Even though he has never missed a performance since his Broadway debut 23 years ago, the idea bugs Barry—"What other business works on such a principle?"

Then there's that slogan about no part being small—"which is great until you try signing a contract with management."

Or the one about the public always being right.

"Some darn fool writes that he couldn't hear all the dialogue and panic breaks out all over the place. Nobody wonders maybe he's hard of hearing or if someone was talking near him."

For supreme backstage hysteria, however, Nelson says there is nothing like the return visit of a show's director for a brush-up session six months after a run begins.

"Trying to freeze a show exactly as it was on opening night is a pernicious fallacy. It's unnatural and unhealthy, but everyone believes it because nothing has ever been said to the contrary. Well, I'd like to rouse everybody."

The red-haired actor's experience has given him more time than most to mull the perils of rigidity. His long runs include "No Time for Sergeants"—18 months, "The Moon is Blue"—30 months, "Mary, Mary"—24 months plus the film—and an extended grind in television's "My Favodrite Husband. "Same lines, different medium," he sighs.

The desire to eat regularly is what keeps a man looking for long runs despite the danger of monotony. "Try getting a second show in a season if the first is a flop," he comments. "People think you're slipping."

Nelsen now is into the second year of "Cactus Flower," a comedy about a Cinderella Lauren Bacall who works for a dentist firm. To date it has grossed $3 million, a record for a nonmusical.

In 13 official at bats during the World Series, Dodger shortstop Maury Wills hit one ball to the outfield. It was a single to center.

Dolls To Be Destroyed

HOUSTON (AP) — Several chain stores had fire marshal's orders today to destroy their inventories of imported Polish dolls whose faces and hair are made of flammable nitrocellulose.

Fire Marshal Robert C. Bredehoeft said Friday his office had collected some 200 of the dolls. He added that hundreds more may be in the hands of children.

At least two of the dolls have burst into flame in Houston homes — one when a little girl tossed it to her father, whose pipe ignited the toy, and another which was left atop a television set.

In Washington Friday, the Food and Drug Administration said it had asked A. D. Sutton & Son of New York City, importer of the dolls, to recall them from the market.

Bredehoeft's office found no dolls Thursday when they checked with Houston toy wholesalers, but it was discovered Friday that chain stores apparently had stocked the dolls directly from New York.

Ling-Temco Buys Wilson Co. Stock

DALLAS AP) — The Dallas-based aerospace firm of Ling-Temco-Vought has purchased about 25 per cent of the common stock of Wilson & Co., a meat packing firm.

A Ling-Temco-Vought spokesman said the 600,000 shares were bought mainly through direct placement and on the open market. The Dallas firm made an offer Dec. 21 to buy up to 750,000 shares of Wilson & Co. at 362.50 per share.

The deal, plus the Dallas firm's Dec. 21 offer, would give Ling-Temco-Vought more than half of Wilson & Co. stock.

SPORTS NEWS OF 1966 IN PICTURE REVIEW

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ORIOLES ON HIGH — Brooks Robinson and Andy Etchebarren race to congratulate Dave McNally after final out of 1966 World Series in Baltimore. McNally shut out the Los Angeles Dodgers, 1-0, to give the Baltimore Orioles a four-game sweep of Series.

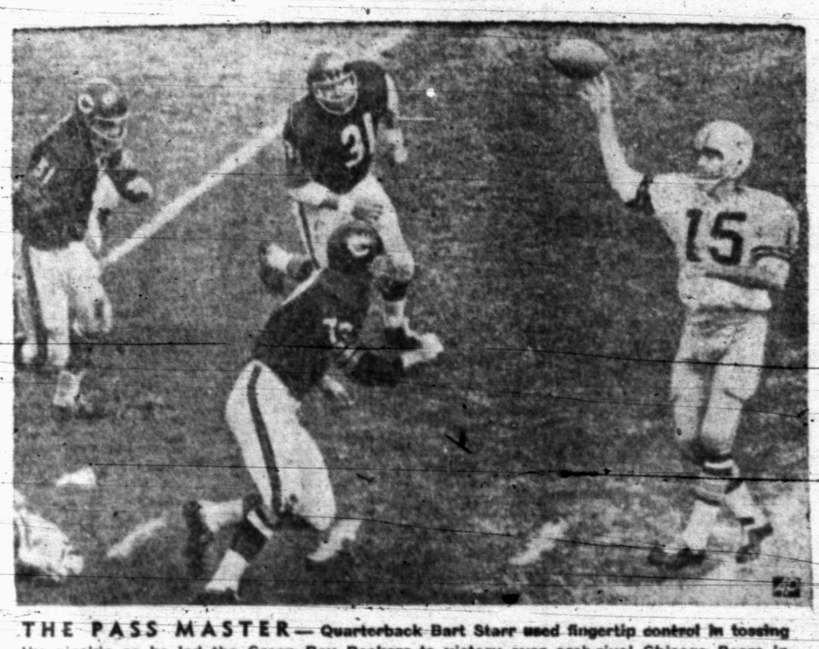

UP FOR GRABS — Kentucky's Thad Jaracz and Dave Lattin of Texas Western vie for rebound in NCAA title game at College Park, Md. Texas Western won, 72-65.

THE END IS NEAR — Referee Harry Kessler motions Cassius Clay to neutral corner as Cleveland Williams is spread-eagled on canvas in second round at Houston's Astrodome. Clay retained heavyweight title with TKO in next round of the November bout.

BEST IN A.L. — Frank Robinson, traded by the Reds to the Orioles, led Baltimore to American League pennant. He won triple batting crown and Most Valuable Player honor.

THE PASS MASTER — Quarterback Bart Starr used fingertip control in tossing the pigskin as he led the Green Bay Packers to victory over arch-rival Chicago Bears in October. Professional football enjoyed unprecedented popularity during the season.

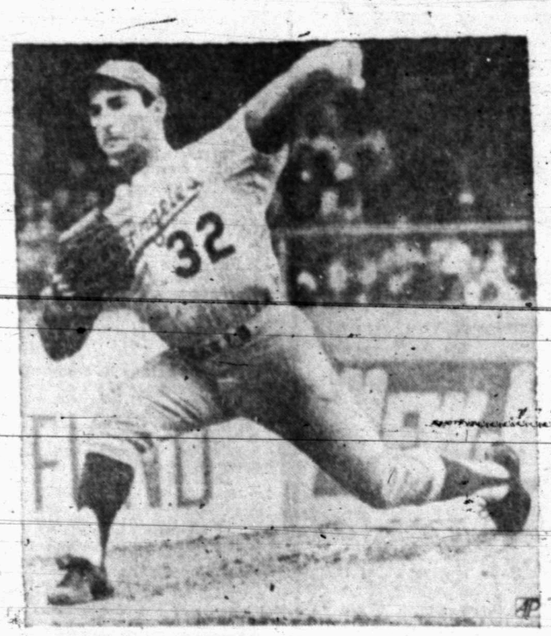

CONGRATULATIONS — Kansas' Jim Ryun smiled as runner-up hugged him after Ryun set world mile mark of 3 minutes, 51.3 seconds at Berkeley, Calif., in July.

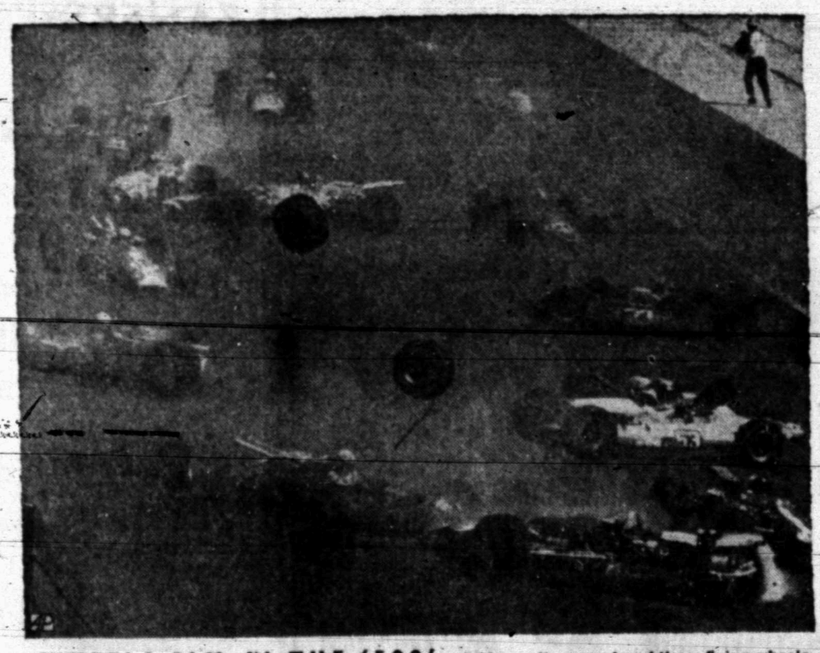

CUP BEARER — Australia's Fred Stolle holds trophy after winning singles title of U.S. National Tennis Championships at Forest Hills, N.Y., in September.

TOP GRIDDER — Quarterback Steve Spurrier of Florida poses with Heisman Memorial Trophy awarded to him as the outstanding college football player in 1966.

THE PITCHER — Sandy Koufax hurls in season finale to win his 27th game and a Dodger pennant. In November the man who pitched four no-hitters quit baseball.

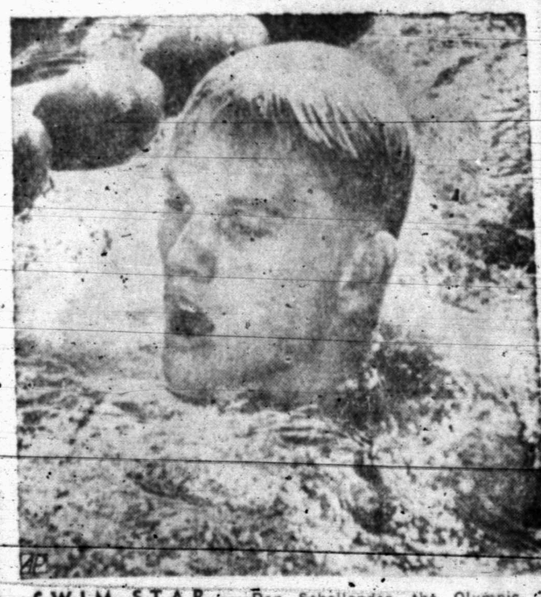

WHEELS FLY IN THE '500' — A 16-car pileup produced these flying wheels moments after the start of the Memorial Day 500-mile race at Indianapolis. There were only minor injuries to drivers and spectators. Britain's Graham Hill won the race.

OPEN KING — Billy Casper acknowledges cheers upon taking lead from Arnold Palmer in U.S. Open golf title playoff at San Francisco. He went on to win crown in June.

PAYOFF FOR ROSES — Kauai King labors to stay ahead of Advocator, center, and Blue Skyer at the finish line to win 92nd running of the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs in May. Don Brumfield piloted Kauai King ahead of the pack early in the race.

SWIM STAR — Don Schollander, the Olympic swimming champion, gasps for breath after setting world mark in 220-yard freestyle at Vancouver, B.C., in August.

ON WAY TO THE TOP — Notre Dame's Joe Azzaro boots field goal against Michigan State to tie the score at 10-10 in East Lansing in November. With nine victories and a tie, Notre Dame won top rating as nation's outstanding college football team.

One Milestone Of 1966; The Moon Became Real

By JIM STROTHMAN

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —To planners steering America's space exploration, 1966 will be remembered as the year the moon suddenly became real.

The conclusion of this nation's two-man Gemini flights and striking photographs of the moon's surface sent back by Surveyor 1 and Lunar Orbiters 1 and 2 cleared the way for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to move confidently into the Apollo man-to-the-moon program in 1967.

Space officials hope to launch two manned earth orbital flights during the next 12 months, opening with Apollo 1 in late February or March piloted by Air Force Lt. Cols. Virgil I. Grissom and Edward H. White II and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee.

Later in 1967, a second Apollo earth orbit flight is scheduled in which the astronauts will rendezvous with a spider-legged lunar vehicle like the one U.S. spacemen are to ride to the surface of the moon in 1968 or 1969.

The first monstrous Saturn 5 moon rocket, a 360-foot-tall giant, is to be launched in 1967 with five times more booster muscle than the Saturn 1 that will be used in the early manned Apollo flights.

The emphasis on moon exploration will continue in unmanned space flights during 1967.

Three more camera-carrying Lunar Orbiters and three Surveyor moon-landing spacecraft are on the Cape Kennedy launch schedule to scout potential astronaut landing sites and harvest more scientific information about the moon's surface.

While the Soviet Union's manned space efforts remained curiously silent in 1966, the United States launched the last five flights in its two-man Gemini program.

There were frustrations, with the most tragic occurring Feb. 28 when the pilots named to fly Gemini 9—civilian pilot Elliot M. See Jr. and Air Force Maj. Charles A. Bassett II—were killed after their jet training plane crashed in St. Louis, Mo.

Troubles continued when Gemini 8, carrying astronauts Neil A. Armstrong and Air Force Maj. David R. Scott, spun out of control shortly after achieving America's first linkup with an Agena target satellite March 16 and forced an emergency landing in the Pacific.

Bad luck persisted on Gemini 9. An Atlas rocket boosting an Agena target satellite broke apart and plummeted into the ocean May 17.

Then two weeks later, Gemini 9 pilots, Air Force Lt. Col. Thomas P. Stafford and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Eugene A. Cernan rendezvoused with a substitute target satellite only to find they could not dock because a protective cover was still attached.

Space walk problems encountered by Cernan and the Gemini 11 pilot, Navy Lt Cmdr. Richard F. Gordon, alarmed project planners. They admittedly underestimated how difficult it is for man to work outside a spacecraft.

But the Gemini 12 pilot, Air Force Maj. Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., aided by new handholds and other restraints to give him leverage previous space walkers did not have, proved that man can work and walk in space

The Gemini program accomplished "all the things that we had to do as a prelude to Apollo," said Dr. Robert R. Gilruth, director of NASA's Manned Spacecraft Center.

Main Soviet space accomplishments during 1966 were unmanned moon probes. The Soviet Luna 9 became the first spacecraft to gently land on the moon's surface and transmit pictures from there, while Luna 10 became the first satellite to be launched into orbit around the moon from earth.

Deadly Heater Fumes Take Two Lives

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. AP) Two boys were critically ill today from smoke and fumes from a heater that took the lives of their grandmother and a sister.

M. J. Clines said he was awakened early Friday by the crys of one of his children and found their house filled with a light hazy smoke with a peculiar odor.

His mother, Mrs. Eva Mae Clines, 75, and a daughter, Valorie Clines, 6, were killed.

Terry Clines 10, and Stanley Clines, 9, were in critical condition at a Wichita Falls General Hospital.

Cause of the deadly fumes was sought.

Red China's Nuclear Might Keeps Asia's Nerves Frayed

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP) — Red China, driving toward meaningful power in nuclear weapons and involved in a chaotic internal power struggle, will keep Asia's nerves on edge in 1967.

After a series of successful nuclear device explosions, China's capacity to support new "people's war" thrusts will be a matter of concern.

The power struggle seem headed for the ultimate showdown. Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung and his heir-apparent, Defense Minister Lin Piao, appear to be in a position to force the issue against those pictured as their main opponents, President Liu Shao-chi and the present secretary general of the party, Teng Hsiao-ping.

The West has a stake in the outcome If charges against Liu and his followers are true, they sought collaboration with the Soviet Union, along with a softening of the present rigidity in Chinese economics, politics, art and culture.

A clear-cut victory for the Mao-Lin group could make it more aggressive in Vietnam, less flexible at home and more militant in posture toward both the United States and the Soviet Union.

Japan's problems in 1967 are economic, tinged with the political. Business is making a comeback from the recent recession. Prime Minister Eisaku Sato's Liberal Democrats are expected to win 1967 elections, but because of corruption charges the margin will be smaller.

In India, February elections are expected to give the ruling Congress party a substantial majority, but Prime Minister Indira Gandhi may be pushed aside in favor of somebody who can cope with such massive problems as food shortages, threats of famine, exploding population, linguistic and religious differences, student unrest and corruption.

Kashmir, the province which is the focus of a warlike dispute with Pakistan; Communist China, with its pressure on Indian borders; rebellious tribes in eastern Assam State — all are smoldering fires which could burst into flame in 1967.

Pakistan's president, Mohammed Ayub Khan, again faces the problem of a growing demand in East Pakistan for a measure of autonomy, if not complete independence.

North Korea, economically crippled by the Chinese-Soviet dispute, will slow down its planned development and give a boost to national defense.

South Korea will continue its steady economic growth, thanks to better relations with Japan. This association will reflect improvement against a long background of mistrust and suspicion.

China Claims Success With N-Weapons

TOKYO (AP) — Red China claimed today it has "succeeded in produeing guided nuclear weapons."

Tokyo observers, noting the claim was confined to a single sentence buried in a 2,000-word dispatch on revolutionary wars, said they doubted the statement meant Peking has an arsenal of nuclear-tipped missiles.

They said if that were the case, more publicity would have been given to the claim.

The statement, in a dispatch broadcast by the official New China News Agency, said: "China has succeeded in producing guided nuclear weapons, his is a telling blow at the U.S.-Soviet collusion in nuclear monopoly and blackmail."

Communist China has reported only one test of a missile armed with a nuclear device — on Oct. 26. It announced its fifth nuclear explosion, apparently the biggest since it began testing two years ago, occurred Tuesday.

The U.S. Atomic Energy commission, analyzing the Dec. 27 Red Chinese test, said Friday the device "involved thermonuclear material."

The announcement seemed to indicate the Chinese had taken another stride toward development of hydrogen weapons, but AEC officials refused comment on suggestions the explosion itself might have been a hydrogen bomb.

Although a number of cities in Japan reported a rise in radioactive count, officials said the count was below a level harmful to humans.

Paw Print Needed On New Account

KETTLE FALLS, Wash. (AP) —It used to be that a name was all one needed to open a savings account. Not so in the case of Bernie S. Bernard.

A deposit was made for him recently by Pat Graham of Colville, and the bank used a paw print instead of a name. Bernie is a St. Bernard.

Production Tops 3 Billion Barrels

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. AP) — For the first time in history, crude oil production in the United States exceeded 3 billion barrels in 1966.

The American Petroleum Institute has estimated the record output at 3,041,180,000 barrels. The old record of 2,848,514,000 was set in 1965.

The 192 million barrel increase for 1965 is tremendous when compared with 1961 through 1965 when the annual growth rate averaged only 53 million barrels a year.

Since 1940, only two years have had crude production growth rates greater than that of 1966.

The Korean conflict prompted domestic crude output to be increased by 274 million barrels in 1951. The closing of the Suez Canal and the disruption of deliveries of Middle East oil to Western Europe boosted U. S. output by 233 million barrels in 1956.

Part of the 1966 increase went into storage but the major factor behind the big jump was a five per cent increase in demand for petroleum products.

The Vietnam War figured to an undetermined degree in the spurt in demand but there were increased requirements for all types of petroleum products.

Other highlights of the institute's year-end report:

Demand—The record requirement for more than 12 million barrels of petroleum products daily represented a 500,000 barrel increase over 1965.

Jet fuel—Despite the airlines strike, commercial consumption for the year ran more than 16 per cent ahead of 1965.

Refinery runs—Domestic refineries processed a record average of 9,451,000 barrels of crude oil daily, some 4½ per cent above 1965.

Refining capacity—Maximum daily processing capacity of the nation's oil refineries rose to 10.5 million barrels a day, compared to 10.3 million at the end of 1965. Another sharp increase is indicated for 1967.

Well completions—Only 36,000 wells were completed during the year, a 5,500 drop from 1965 and the lowest 12-month total since 1947.

Wildcat completions—Although changes in reporting forms make the years difficult to compare, an estimated 9,400 exploratory wells were completed in 1966, compared to 8,300 in 1965. A record 13,034 wildcats were drilled in 1956.

Dry holes—About 14,500 or 40 per cent of the 36,000 wells completed in 1966 were dry hole failures, compared to 16,016 or 39 per cent of the 41,423 completions in 1965.

Imports—A record 1,621,000 barrels daily of foreign oil were brought into the United States, compared to 2,468,000 in 1965. Crude oil imports remained relatively steady but products imports jumped 153,000 barrels a day. Residual or heavy fuel oil imports, now uncontrolled, jumped 102,000 barrels a day.

Natural gas—Production exceeded 17.3 trillion cubic feet a day, compared to 1965's record 16.3 trillion.

Prices—The nation-wide average price for crude oil rose to $2.88 per barrel, compared to $2.86 in 1965. Excluding taxes, the average price for regular grade gasoline rose to 21.51 cents per gallon, compared to 20.70 cents in 1965. The average gasoline tax rose to 10.51 cents per gallon, compared to 10.45 cents a year earlier.

Aerial Warfare?

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Aerial warfare loomed today as the East and West battled in the 42nd renewal of the football series which has earned more than $5 million to help crippled children.

The weatherman forecast cool, crisp weather for the game at Kezar Stadium matching such All-America players as Nick Eddy of Notre Dame, Clint Jones of Michigan State and Mel Farr of UCLA.

Opposing lines averaged more than 225 pounds and some of the most avid spectators were pro scouts who hope to line up the talent for coming seasons.

The East was favored by 6½ points although the Westerners hold the series edge 20-16-5.

Texan Charged In Threat On President

DENISON, Tex. AP)—Granville Ray Stockton, 20, who said he thinks President Johnson is a dictator, was charged by the Secret Service with threatening the President's life.

Stockton was arrested at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Stockton, here Friday night.

U.S. Commissioner Joe Joiner of Sherman postponed arraignment pending a psychiatric examination of Stockton. Bond was set at $25,000.

The Secret Service said a letter, postmarked in Denison Dec. 20, was sent to the President in Washington. It said the letter contained threats on the President's life.

Christian Herter Sr. Dies Friday Night

WASHINGTON (AP)—Christian Herter Sr., former secretary of state, died suddenly Friday night, his son announced today. He was 71.

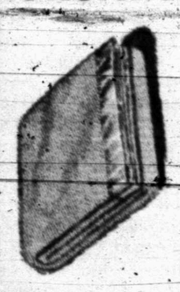

Christian Herter Jr. said the cause of death was not immediately known.

The elder Herter was governor of Massachusetts for four years before becoming secretary of state and was a special aide on trade negotiations to President Johnson at the time of his death.

Book May Become A Classic

FIVE SMOOTH STONES. By Ann Fairbairn.

Fear and hate give a highly emotional charge to this novel, 756 pages huge, which tells the story of one small David's courageous battle against the Goliath of race prejudice.

It is the story of David Champlin, a brown - skinned Negro who has been named for his great-grandfather, a victim of a lynch mob; who is orphaned and raised by his grandfather. With the help of "the Professor," a Dane named Knudsen, David gets a scholarship to a small coeducational college in Ohio.

In this school with the fictional name of Pengard, David almost becomes the victim of a frame-up by a white supremacist youth, but his friends come to his rescue. Among them are Sudsy, who in later years as a surgeon will help save David's life; and Chuck, a Southern boy who has disowned his racist background and is to become a minister working in the civil rights movement.

There also is Sara Kent, the little white girl who falls in love with David long before David dares to let himself fall in love with her. David goes on to Harvard Law School, joins the office of a famous Negro attorney, studies international law at Cambridge, and is about to take a diplomatic post in Africa.

But then comes a tragedy that throws him deeply into the civil rights cause. There is a bitter boycott and a melodramatic shooting incident in the Deep South.

This narrative contains about all the elements of the race question that you can think of—mixed marriage; a young Negro who cannot suppress his hatred; a northern educator with secret prejudices; real liberals and starry - eyed uncomprehending liberals, uneducated Southern whites whose blind prejudice is based on fear; the questions of voting, poverty, religion and communication between the races.

But it also is a story of people—of individuals with their own idiosyncracies. These are three-dimensional people, and they come alive. The book gives the reader a fuller understanding—particularly in the college scenes—of the inbred fear of the Negro; a realization of why David Champlin dreaded the consequences of a mixed marriage.

It has a few flaws. Occasionally the dialogue is not quite as natural as it is in most passages. In the fast developments of the boycott battle, a few twists of the plot are a bit too pat. But the flaws are minor.

This is a novel—a story—to remember. It has a message, but so do the real classics of social fiction, and this may become one of them.

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas' two newest colleges have chosen mascots—even though they do not have athletic teams yet.

The 4,000 students at El Centro College downtown selected the Chaparral as their mascot, and chose powder blue and black as school colors in a campuswide vote. El Centro is the first campus of the Dallas County Junior College District.

In Cedar Hill, Northwood Institute nicknamed itself the Pioneers, a name selected over 20 other entries.

TAKE A TURN AT THE TURTLE — The turtle collar has come a long way from the days when it was the rugged male athlete's sweater signature. In its newest guise, translated in the luscious softness of cashmere, it is pure feminine flattery. The designers uses the double-richness of two-ply cashmere for its turtled charmers. Left, newest cashmere with attractive plaid front topped with solid ribbed turtle. Right, Hand-detailed vertical cable stripes on turtleneck pullover that's long-line, long-sleeved and luxurious.

Play Dumb When Asked Something

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

If you're putting a new addition on your house ladies, learn to speak Chinese or Swahili. That is, unless you are in an area where workmen are African or Chinese. In other words, play dumb.

Whenever you are asked a question, say (in Chinese or Swahili) "I don't know," "call my husband at his office," or "come back tomorrow."

The workmen won't understand what he is saying or doing either.

The man of the house goes off to the rigors of the work day and leaves his wife to cope with such aesthetic pleasures as directing traffic for a bulldozer, finding a missing level for a carpenter or playing footings with the mason. Footings (and why should you know) is what your new house addition will rest on.

In between getting youngsters off to school, doing laundry and canning tomatoes, she's supposed to slosh around in cement to see that everything is just dandy and going the way the architect suggested. When the excavator hits ledge it's the lady of the house who must make the split-second decision of whether they are going to blast (at $500 a stick of dynamite) or give up a crawl space and settle for a 3-inch foundation. That — her husband will tell her later was the wrong decision. Whichever one.

If you don't think things can get stuccoed up with masonry, talk to any housewife who has been on the scene where the action takes place.

One mason put a slab foundation down before the heating duct was laid. Another ignored a plan that called for a bed of gravel before cement and block, and utilized the owner's large stones that were put aside for a stone wall.

The mason can blame the architect. But the likely candidate for a husband's blame is who else?

There are pitfalls that even a husband can't anticipate.

For example, if a mason shows up with a crew on a day when rain is threatening, he'll make sure it's not going to be a total loss. He hastens to complete the job before a downpour, and later when you examine the perimeter, you're likly to discover that all bulges in foundations aren't on the human anatomy. This situation, your husband will tell you as an afterthought, is because the mason used quarter-inch plywood to hold back the cement. He wants you to remember that next time. Next time?

Masons can get into rough spots unwittingly. Can't we all. But masons have slide rules in their heads. No matter how rough the going gets, his head is going like a computer. He's not going to give up without a fight, come high water, snow fall or a new form of mathematics. There will not be enough sand left over for a mudpie, lending credance to the often-heard rumor that many masons build their own houses out of gold bricks.

Anyone who has had problems keeping on an even footing with a mason, has a real treat when she tries to get through to a bull-dozer operator. This is an assignemnt that you should never accept from your husband.

The scene goes like this: Your husband spends the entire weekend marking trees that should be removed, and trees that absolutely must be saved like his favorite dogwood tree or 400-year-old maple. They'll be the first to go. A bulldozer operator considers anything in his path as fair game. You've been given all the instructions, but swoosh, it's all over in a minute.

The only comfort for do-it-yourselfers who must supervise their own house building is the thought that all humans err, even those who decide to build an addition to their house.

Thinking about trying your hand at installing resilient floor tiles? Stop worrying. You can do it — even if your previous do-it-yourself experience has been confined to hanging a picture frame.

It's because the installation of floor tiles is the kind of project that can be undertaken by the rawest novice that these tiles zoomed to such heights of popularity in recent years. Anybody can cement a single tile to the floor. And covering an entire floor is merely a case of putting down one tile after another. Well, perhaps it isn't that simple, since there are such things as measuring and applying the cement properly. But it's the kind of job wherein a beginner who follows certain fundamentals can get as good a result as someone who has installed half a dozen such floors.

Quite possibly, the amateur may have more trouble making up his mind what kind of tiles to install than he has in the actual installation. There is such a wide variety of tiles now on the market that it is sometimes a bit difficult making a selection. Not only are there dozens of patterns and colors from which to make a choice; there are many different kinds of tiles — and many different prices.

If cost is the main consideration, asphalt tile is likely to get the nod. But there's a big "if" here. Regular asphalt tile has a low resistance to grease and chemicals, which would make its use in a kitchen, for example, somewhat dubious. A special type of grease-resistant asphalt tile costs more than the ordinary kind. Asphalt tile has excellent resistance to alkali and is therefore often used in basements and on similar surfaces below ground. (You can get Andy Lang's booklet, "Installing Resilient Floor Tiles," by sending 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 954, Jamaica, N. Y. 11431.)

Whereas asphalt tile once was the big seller, vinyl asbestos has displaced it in popularity. That's because of its versatility, resistance to grease and wear, and ease of maintenance. It can be used anywhere in the house. While not as inexpensive as regular asphalt, it is comparatively low in price.

Other kinds of resilient tiles include rubber, linoleum, cork and solid vinyl. While you will be guided by your pocketbook to a considerable extent, be sure to discuss with your dealer whether the type of tile which suits your fancy is recommended for the area where the tile will be installed. And be sure, after you have made the selection, that you get the proper adhesive for that particular tile. That's why it's wise to buy the tile and the adhesive in the same place, purchasing the adhesive that the dealer recommends rather than the kind which you select from a shelf.

QUESTION: We bought a lacquered coffee table about three years ago. The top began to get a little seedy recently and I decided to give it a new coat of lacquer. I had heard that a new finish will not take properly over a glossy surface, so I carefully sanded the old finish and got it very smooth.

I applied the lacquer, using the kind that comes in a spray can. When I got finished it looked fine. But when I looked at it half an hour later to see whether it was drying, it had wrinkles and a few bubbles in it. I was so disgusted I put it down in the basement so I wouldn't have to look at it. But now I'd like to see if it can't be refinished — this time the right way. Can you advise me what to do?

ANSWER: Where did you get the idea that the table had a lacquer finish? From what you describe, it appears that the finish was not lacquer, but varnish or some other kind of clear coating. When you applied the lacquer, the solvent in it was too strong and acted on the old finish much like a paint or carnish remover. The thinner in lacquer is very strong, which is why lacquer generally should not be applied over any other finish except lacquer. This is the best guess we can make from this distance.

You have no solution now except to remove the entire finish, the old as well as the new. Have your hardware or paint dealer give you a remover which is suitable for the purpose. Tell him what happened. Be sure you follow the instructions on the remover container, especially regarding the volatile properties of the remover and how the surface of the wood should be rinsed or cleaned after the finish is off.

When that part of the project is completed, proceed with the finishing exactly as though you were working on a piece of furniture that had never been finished. But remember the principle that, while varnish or other finishes usually can be applied over lacquer, the latter should never be applied over other finishes.

(The techniques of varnishing, lacquering, staining, bleaching, etc., are detailed in Andy Lang's booklet, "Wood Finishing in the Home," available by sending 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P. O. Box 954, Jamaica, N. Y. 11431.)

Add loads of minced parsely to melted butter and lemon juice and serve as a sauce for broiled or fried fish fillets.

Sincere, Appealing Wife Is Big Asset For Politician

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

Next to his sincere, appealing television image, the best thing a contemporary politician has going for him is a sincere, appealing wife.

Last November's election proved that. Probably never have so many young, good-looking and frankly adoring wives labored so long to win so much.

This month they begin their new duties of sending their husbands off to the U.S. Senate or to the governor's office to make history. It's inevitable that this month, too, the national spotlight will focus on them, and perhaps for a lucky one or two, continue all the way to the White House.

Among the new names to watch — Baker, Brooke, Griffin, Hatfield, Percy, Reagan, Winthrop Rockefeller — are wives of varying persuasions, all within the Republican framework, of course, and personalties. One quality they all share is admiring devotion to the man they cast their ballot for.

Says Nancy Reagan of California: "I am terribly proud of Ronnie. He kept his dignity throughout the campaign."

Loraine Percy of Illinois, says a friend, is "mother tigerish about her husband. She disapproves of anyone who says anything bad about her Chuck."

"The only speeches I enjoy are my husband's. Honest," says Antoninette Kuzmanich Hatfield. "They're guaranteed never to bore. After eight years of listening to him I have never heard him make the same speech twice."

At campaign's end — after Gov. Hatfield had won a seat in the U.S. Senate — she had still another chance to listen. While other candidates and their wives fled to Hawaii or the Bahamas to recuperate, what did the Mark O. Hatfields of Oregon do?

"We packed up and went to a speaking engagement, at William Jewell College in Kansas City."

She recalls, quite comfortably, that her handsome husband once said: "My wife and I disagree about almost everything under the sun, but I have not kicked her out of the house."

They agreed on a house in Bethesda, Md. — "A simple little house with a yard and a small kitchen, which is fine because there's not so much floor to scrub as in Oregon."

A pretty, feminine-looking mother of four, ages 1 through 7, Mrs. Hatfield likes Sally Victor hats, Adele Simpson clothes and reading some of the things written about her after election. One story gushed that she had a softly pounded figure — "That's a nice way to say plump," she chuckled — and that she made some of her own clothes — "I can't sew a stitch."

She does have a cookbook to her credit, now in its third printing. It's called "Remarkable Recipes" after her husband, who "has eaten all of them and he's still healthy."

She has a brain too. Before marrying the young politician she taught and served as dean of women at Portland State College.

Another former teacher — high school physics, government — is Marge Griffin, whose husband Bob was elected to the Senate from Michigan. They're already living in Bethesda, because he has served in the House of Representatives for 10 years.

A 5-foot, 100-pound blonde who says she has inherited a strong constitution from her Danish grandparents, Marge Griffin campaigned hard for her husband in their home state. But she was glad to get back to her four children, ages 5 through 16.

"I've always said that in this stage of life my main role is that of mother and of keeping the family stable. Bob's gone so much. But when the children are grown up, I would love to go back to school and to teaching."

She feels strongly that women should be active in political affairs, "working with the party of their choice instead of being independent, to keep the two-party system strong."

The Griffins avoid the Washington social whirl. "We have neither the finances nor the desire to get into it. But if there is a buffet thing among the other congressmen we do; really casual."

She sums up her life: "Exciting, stimulating, frustrating at times, but never dull. You'd have to be an awful dud not to be thrilled living here and meeting the people you do."

Another of the new senators' wives to be spared the house hunting chore is Remigia Brooke of Massachusetts.

When her husband, Edward, was elected the first Negro senator since 1881, there was speculation whether Mrs. Brooke, an Italian, would feel possible discrimination in the nation's capital.

For the time at least, the concern is purely academic. "I don't intend to move to Washington," she said. "We have two girls, 14 and 17, in school here.

"My husband knows Washington. He was born and grew up there. His mother, Mrs. Helen Brooke, is still there, and he will live with her.

"I will miss him but I miss him here too. I'll probably see more of him, because when he comes home for weekends he will spend all his time with us."

Genoa-born Remigia Brooke met her husband when he was in Italy in World War II. A small woman with brown hair and eyes, she speaks with a pronounced Italian accent — a big help to her husband when he was campaigning among Italian factory workers.

She loves opera and sports and "anything to do with boats." While her husband is gone this winter she thinks she will have more time to pursue something dear to her heart: helping foreign-born workers study for their citizenship tests.

Another new senator's wife known for her compassion is Mrs. Charles Percy, 37 — a tall brunette with pale lips, short skirts and square-toed shoes who has finishing school manners and a disinclination to make speeches. She likes to portray herself, says a friend, as being molded by her husband.

She used to bring home stray cats, even now goes to building sites around Chicago and digs out doomed plants to transfer to safer spots.

When her 21-year-old stepdaughter, Valerie, was murdered in their 17-room mansion in suburban Kenilworth, a strained look appeared around Mrs. Percy's blue eyes that is still there. She had raised Valerie and her twin sister and little brother from childhood. She and Percy, 47, have two children, 11 and 13.

Mrs. Howard Baker of Tennessee, whose lawyer husband won a Senate seat, is another wife who doesn't make speeches.

"There are enough eloquent speechmakers in the family," she says. Her father is the colorful Senate minority leader, Everett Dirksen.

Junior Editors Quiz on MISTLETOE

QUESTION: Why is mistletoe used at Christmas?

• • •

ANSWER: Mistletoe is a curious vine which lives on certain trees. It has evergreen leaves and clusters of attractive white berries. These berries are sticky, with seeds inside, and are eaten by birds. The bird wipes his beak on the bark of a tree to clean it, and some of the seeds are left on the tree. These sprout and send feelers into the tree, making a connection through which the vine gets water and minerals. Roman writer Pliney records that along with the oak tree, the mistletoe was regarded as sacred by the ancient cult of the Druids. Many of our Christmas symbols have their roots in ancient customs. The Christmas tree itself comes from ancient German days. People in Scandinavia are said to have been the first to hang up mistletoe. The tradition seemed to have been that a sprig of mistletoe would lead toward marriage. From this, probably, came the custom of hanging it up to give a gay, romantic note to the Christmas festivities. Catch someone standing under the mistletoe, says the custom, and you have the right to get a kiss.

• • •

FOR YOU TO DO: See if you can find out more about the origin of the Christmas tree. 12-31

GRANDMA

SOLID AND LACY — Knitted cashmere is stepping out with a whole new array of enchanting fashion faces. The dreamy-soft fiber's brand new approach to costume-making is these delightful resort-into Spring suits. Left, serenely tailored jacket with a low slotted belt, notched front and polka-dot ascot, teamed with pleated skirt. Right, an entirely different mood of soft feminity in a trio of jacket, shell and knitted skirt, aerated by open crochet mesh.

British Arts Council Saves Ballet Rambert

By MILTON MARMOR
Associated Press Writer

LONDON, (AP) — For Dame Marie ("I'm 78 if a day") Rambert the future is brimming with ever buoyant hope.

Her Ballet Rambert has risen phoenix-like from the ashes. The British Arts Council came dashing to its rescue at the last moment. Its monetary grant came after Dame Marie Rambert's ballet had given its "Final and last" performance last May.

To Dame Marie Rambert this country owes its beginning in ballet. The daughter of a Russian mother and a Polish father, Marie Rambert was trained by the legendary Cecchetti and became a member of Diaghliev's Russian ballet in 1912.

She married an Englishman, Ashley Dukes (who died in 1959), and came to Britain. They founded the Rambert School of Ballet in 1920, and they bought the Mercury Theater in 1927. Diaghliev visited it in 1928.

The Mercury was the cradle of British ballet. Even before the theater was finished, Dame Marie (Mim to her friends, Madame to her company) had formed her own ballet group.

During those early, crowded days of British ballet, Dame Marie had her two children. This family fact changed the course of her career.

Lilian Bayliss, then at the Old Vic, asked Mim Rambert to join her company, to arrange dances and teach dancers.

"I was too happy with my babies and I had no time," she replied.

And so it was that Miss Bayliss went with Ninette de Valois to Sadler's Wells Theater, and planted there the seeds of what is now the Royal Ballet at Covent Garden Royal Opera House.

The Rambert Ballet kept going by touring. But finally the indomitable Dame Marie gave up her cherished corps de ballet.

Now that the Ballet Rambert is performing once again in a London theater—without, however, the corps de ballet—Dame Marie plans to concentrate on ballets for soloists.

"What does size mean in art?" she asks. "Beethoven's quartets are as great, if not greater, than his symphonies. A tiny Mantegna or a Giotto is worth all the tremendous canvases."

Dame Marie told how her ballet holds a class every day in pure ballet and in contemporary words. "I forbid the word 'modern' in ballet" she remarked. "We want to make our dancers into the most pliable instruments for any kind of dancing."

She has broadcast in Russian, Polish, French, Italian and English. She knows by heart 40 Shakespeare sonnets. She can recite Racine by the kilometer. She is a member of the Puskin Club. Obviously, she is a very active young lady of 78.

A Christmas wreath is as much a part of the Christmas tradition as the decorated tree, gaily wrapped presents, and the stockings hung in a row. A colorful wreath may be placed on the door, inside or out, on a wall, above the fireplace or before a window.
