The schools had an enrollment of 2,800 pupils last year but according to present indications, it will be substantially increased this year, he said.

"The South, Inc." Being Planned To Advertise Dixie

Half Million to Be Spent Annually In Forwarding Industrial and Commercial Interests.

BILOXI, Miss., Sept. 7. (AP)—A plan to "sell the south to itself" and if successful, sell it to the world, was advanced here today in the tentative formation of "The South, Incorporated."

This corporation is expected by its founders to become a force to stimulate the southward movement of industry and to increase the flow of foreign commerce through southern ports, it was said.

The corporation was explained by P. E. O'Neil, general manager of the Gulf, Mobile and Northern railway at a joint meeting of supporters of the plan and delegates in the southeast shippers advisory board.

To Take Ten Years The plan, O'Neil said, provides for an organization to operate at least ten years with capital of $5,000,000 of which $500,000 would be spent annually in placing representative in the trade centers of the world, advertising and generally promoting southern industry.

Activities of the organization will include the states east of the Mississippi river and south of Virginia and south of the Ohio river.

Confusion Rules Stock Market As "Bull" Is Active

Financial District Thrown Into Disorder As New High Records Are Set In Fifty Issues.

PRICES WHIRL UPWARD FROM $2 TO $20 SHARE

Optimism Spreads To Curb But Bonds Pay Little Head; Increase In Loans Is Cause.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The New York stock exchange today was the scene of one of the wildest "bull" markets in history.

The "bull" movement gathered such terrific momentum from the unexpectedly small increase of $5,000,000 in brokers' loans that prices were whirled upward $2 to nearly $20 a share before the usual week-end profit-taking checked advance and cut down some early gains.

Fifty issues crashed through to new high records, including such shares as Chrysler, U. S. Steel common, Sears Roebuck and Tidewater Associated Oil.

The average of 20 leading industrial issues, compiled by the Associated Press, was lifted more than 1 1/4 points to a new high record for all time, total sales of 4,782,000 shares had exceeded only the week-end before and both times in the "bull" market of last spring.

So great was the avalanche of buying orders that the ticker fell half an hour behind the market, and remained that way all day. Reports of operators, using the abbreviated quotation system, tried desperately to keep pace with the trading.

Wild Confusion Develops Wild confusion developed in many leading commission houses because of inability to get prompt reports of orders from the floor. Streets, hallways and building elevators in the financial district were crowded with messenger boys and broker house runners trying to make stock deliveries within the stipulated time.

Optimism of the stock market spread to the curb market, although not to such an extent, but the bond market paid little heed.

Smith and Prohibition Issue Promise Much For State Democratic Convention in Dallas Tuesday

By L. B. DILBENK (Associated Press Staff Writer)

AUSTIN, Sept. 7. (AP)—The State Democratic convention at Dallas Tuesday probably will be anything but a harmony meeting, it became apparent today.

As the outgrowth of conferences of party leaders in and out of Austin for the past several days, it developed that a fight is practically certain over prohibition.

Prohibition Is Question The question will be as to what extent if any prohibition shall be treated in the platform to be adopted. Governor Smith, his followers and advisers will insist on a resolution pledging support of the national party nominees, renewing the stand of the Seaman state convention against any attempt to repeal prohibition laws, and mentioning the Texas congressional representatives to be vigilant against any attempted repeal.

The group unreservedly supporting Governor Smith, presidential nominee, and his views is understood to be preparing to fight for a resolution strongly endorsing the national nominees, but not mentioning prohibition. Steady Resolution Is Prepared The Moody group resolution was being prepared today. It was learned that the Governor will make a vigorous speech in support of it. His speech is practically completed. Whether the resolution will be offered as an original one, or as an amendment to the "anti-Smith" resolution is not known yet.

IS DISGUSTING MAYOR DECLARES

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 7. (AP)—Charging there was an effort to make Governor Smith's religion "a very pronounced issue" in the presidential campaign, through distribution of "slandering and disgusting" pamphlets and other printed matter, Mayor James J. Walker of New York, declared today he could not understand how such material got through the mails.

"If this keeps up both parties will be driven into naming an agnostic or atheist for the presidency, a man who has no religion."

DALLAS, Sept. 7. Investigate All Mission Funds. An investigation of all Home Mission funds in the state was urged by Dr. George W. Trust, Dallas, who returned from Atlanta where he and former Gov. Pat M. Neff sat on the board which investigated the alleged defalcation.

"If any person connected with a church organization does not get for an investigation of his affairs after the scandal at Atlanta," Dr. Trust told the meeting, "he should be discharged within 15 seconds." The statement was greeted with hearty "amens" from the 200 pastors and laymen present.

I.C.C. Orders Suspension Of Rates On Texas Cotton

Extry! Young John Coolidge Gets Job

Proposed Schedules Are Injurious, Is Claim

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today ordered suspension from September 7 until April 7 of proposed revised rail and water rates for shipping any quantity of cotton from Texas points to eastern and New England points.

The commission noted the proposed schedules "make certain increases and reductions in rates for interstate transportation of cotton, carloads and less than carloads," and said rights and interests of the public appear to be injuriously affected by the rates.

The suspension order followed an opinion by the commission that public hearing should precede rate revision going into effect, and said notice for such hearing would be served upon carriers and other parties to shipments of cotton affected.

TO RAISE FUNDS

Texas Asked For $250,000 In Cotton Council Work

DALLAS, Sept. 7. (AP)—Campaign for funds to finance the South-wide cotton council organized at Jackson, Miss., last February, will begin late this month, T. Whit Davidson, vice president of the council, said here today.

The council, a sort of chamber of commerce for the South, will seek $750,000 annually for its operations. Texas will be asked to raise $250,000 of the sum.

Purposes of the council as outlined by Mr. Davidson, are development of leadership for the cotton producer in order to stabilize prices and production; co-ordination of all organizations working to that end; systematic study of supply and demand and their effect upon prices; encouragement of cotton acreage reclamation; increase of soil crops; conservation of soil fertility, and the improvement of conditions of life generally in rural sections of the cotton belt.

No Trace of Three Others In Big Blast Is Found

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7. (AP)—The charred body of Andrew Anderson, pizza waiterman, one of four men believed to have perished when the barge on which they were standing was exploded last night in sheets of liquid fire thrown out from a cauldron of exploding tar, was recovered today.

No trace was found of Charles Johnson, Tony Specie and Harry Bowers, workmen, standing near Anderson when a blow torch in the hands of one of the workmen set off the blast which a moment later enveloped the barge in flames which instantaneously spread in a fiery blanket over the bay.

F. B. West, fifth workman, who dived into the bay after the explosion, and swam under water beyond the outside rim of the blazing spectacle, was suffering from burns.

The fire caused damage estimated at $100,000 to a new $2,000,000 pier being constructed.

Republican Nominee Scores Demo Platform Contention That G. O. P.'s Have Been Idle On World Peace.

SAYS TREATY SOLVES ALL CONTROVERSIES

Learns That Southern Women Are Strong For Him; To Make Non-Partisan Talk In Tennessee.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Herbert Hoover took his first shot today at the democratic opposition, declaring the signing of the Kellogg-Briand treaty renouncing war, coupled with Naval limitations treaty and the Dawes reparations settlement, constituted a complete answer to the statements of the democratic platform that the republican administration has contributed little to the cause of world peace.

Is Greatest Step Making his first departure from the custom of not permitting his statements in press conferences to be quoted, the republican presidential candidate declared "these three contributions point to this administration as having accomplished the greatest steps toward international peace made by any country since the signing of the peace treaty ending the great war."

"The democratic national platform attempts to convey the impression that no accomplishment has been made by the republican administration."

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton
©1928 by NEA Service, Inc.

Nothing irritates me more than to hear a mother say, "Smiths have the whooping cough, or the measles, but the not going to try to keep Johnny away because he has to have those children's diseases sometime and it may as well be now. The sooner the better."

Never Is Improved
He may seem to recover completely from the torturing days of high temperature, and various congestions, but anyone who argues that he is better for having had them, or that they are irremediable or preventable, is merely doing a bit of guesswork without any foundation whatsoever.

I have heard people say that after typhoid fever, for instance, a certain person was fatter and better than ever. Yes, apparently, only to have ten or twenty years later a still-badder infection which really was a direct aftermath of the intestinal infection of the old disease.

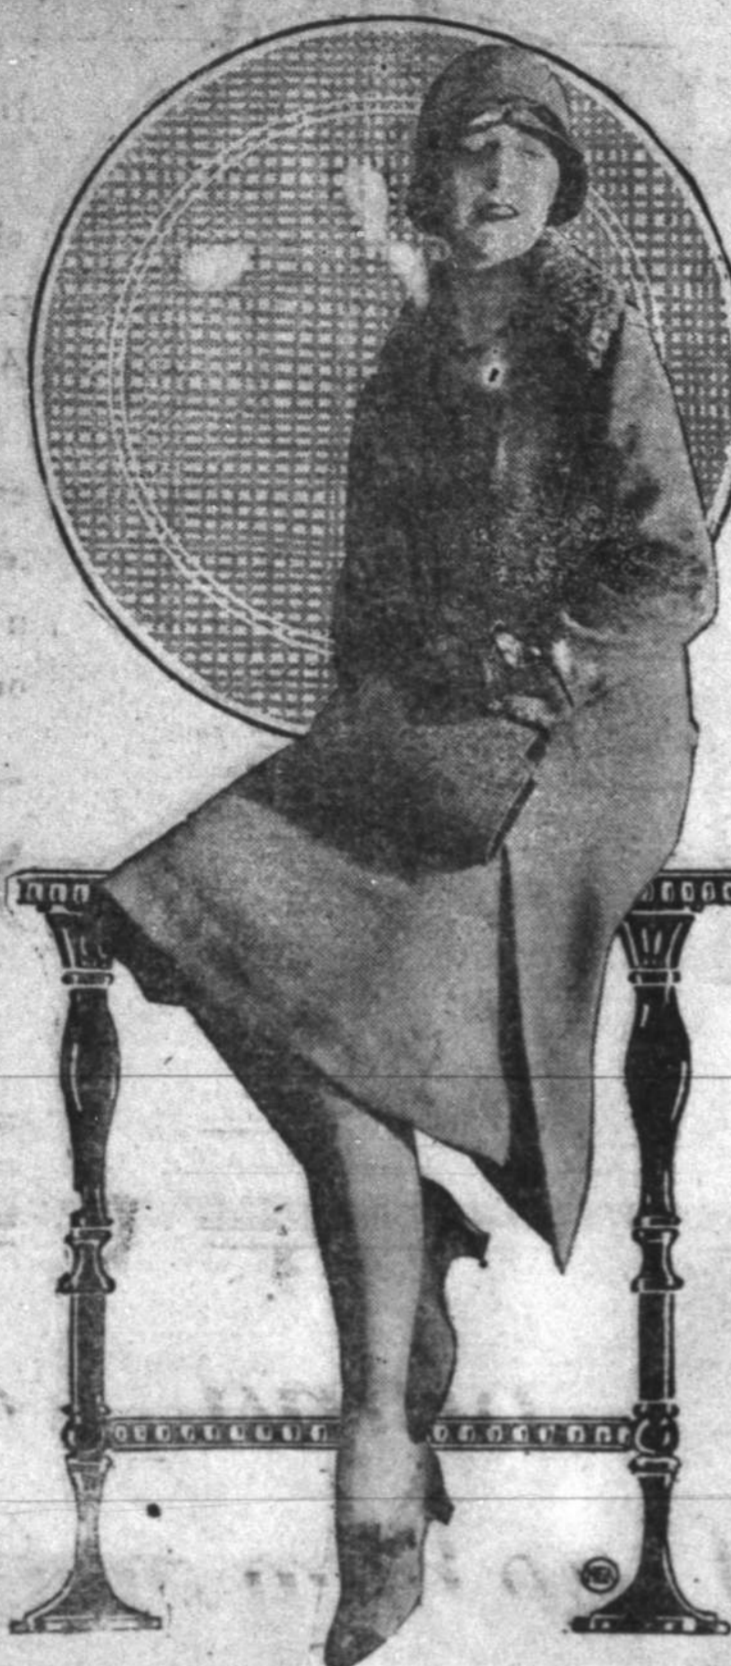

But go back to children's diseases, such as whooping-cough, measles, mumps and all the others. Parents not only should see that their own children are kept from other families who are infected, but from other children in their own households who are infected. If possible, the other children should be kept out of the house.

Isolate Contagion
If a child has whooping cough or any other contagious disease, and he will enough to be out-of-doors, he should not be allowed to roam over the streets or in other people's yards or sit on steps with other children. He never should be taken to movies.

A child with even a severe cold should not be allowed to mingle with other children. He may be only a cold for him, but the germ caught from him, incubating in a less healthy child, may develop into a head or lung affection that is really serious.

For instance, a sore throat may be incipient scarlet-fever. It may be so mild in one child that he is not even put to bed, and the unsuspecting parent may never guess that the innocent-seeming redness and slight indisposition that lasts for a day, or two is really a case

The ensemble suit is of plain grey tweed.

The Woman's Day

By Albee Sumner
Summer

Do you have in your home or among your acquaintances one of those cunning little pests who insist on everyone enjoying things according to the post's own standards of enjoyment?

I watched one such pest in action at a bathing beach party the other night. The pest insisted on everyone floating when he floated, and making life miserable for all the bathers who preferred to stay on a sand bar with the water up to their waists at a bathing beach party the other night.

"What fun do you get making that gender stroke?"
"Do you call that swimming? Try this!"

"Hey, come out here, and get yourselves really wet!" were some of his pet wisecracks.

These pests who insist on duplication of their own forms of enjoyment always insist that you tune in on a different station on the radio; that you play records by So-and-So; that you read such and such books; that you plant cosmos instead of delphiniums in your garden;

That's peevish number one of the day's lesson. I continue with peevish two.

The Morning Avalanche Menu for the Day

BREAKFAST—Blackberries, cereal, creamed smoked fish, toasted graham rolls, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON—Cream of celery soup, toasted cheese crackers, banana and tomato salad, apple tapioca pudding, lemonade.
DINNER—Warm-up mutton, potatoes in parsley butter, creamed cauliflower, head lettuce with Russian dressing, elderberry pie, milk, coffee.

Some cooks think a tablespoon of vinegar added to the berries improves an elderberry pie. Other cooks hold that a pinch of salt, plenty of sugar and thorough baking insure a delicious pie.

Two cups diced cold roast mutton, 4 small onions, 3 tablespoons butter or drippings, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 cup chopped tomatoes, 4 anchovies (optional), 1 dessert-spoon paprika, 1 tablespoon mixed dried herbs, 2 lemons, 3 cups stock.

Melt butter, drippings or oil and add onions thinly sliced. Cook over a low fire until onions are a golden brown and add flour. Stir until perfectly blended and add tomatoes, anchovies, paprika, mixed herbs and juice of lemons. Cook until the mixture is reduced about one-third. Rub through a colander and add meat. Put in top of double boiler and cook over boiling water for one hour or longer. The water should be kept just below the boiling point.

If anchovies are not used, salt must be added with the seasoning. (Copyright, 1928, NEA Service, Inc.)

Fight For Allison Inheritance

The suit of Mrs. Sara Allison (right), divorced wife of the wealthy capitalist, against Mrs. Lucille Allison, (left) his widow, for $2,000,000 for alienation of affections is set for hearing September 10.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 7. (AP)—A wife of 21 years who lost, and one of five days who won the affections of the late James A. Allison, Indianapolis and Florida capitalist, are involved in a $2,000,000 alienation suit, the unfolding of which will revive the financial romance of a quartet of impetuous visionaries who found gold at the end of their rainbow.

The suit of Mrs. Sara C. Allison, divorced wife, against Mrs. Lucille Margaret Allison, widow, is set for argument September 10. The second Mrs. Allison was the capitalist's secretary. Allison contracted pneumonia while on the honeymoon with her, and died five days after the wedding.

The Indianapolis man's road to riches began with his obscure trail followed by an energetic messenger boy. He moved from job to job, finally joining his lot with Carl G. Fisher, who was then interested in an invention to provide motor cars with carbide lamps. Machines were new. Using them at night was called foolhardy.

But Allison and Fisher acquired the carbide lamp, manufactured it, and sold their plant just before electric lights on cars came into vogue.

Together with A. C. Newby and the late Frank E. Wheeler, Allison and Fisher developed the Indianapolis motor speedway in 1909. It saved each a fortune.

Real estate was their next venture, in Indianapolis, Florida and Long Island.

Allison's fortune was estimated at more than $2,000,000 and possibly as high as $6,000,000. His association with Fisher continued until his death. The second marriage took place at the Fisher home on Long Island.

The capitalist had known the first Mrs. Allison since they were children here. The divorce in June, 1927, ended 21 years of life together.

The second Mrs. Allison was his secretary for eight years. Both women were at his bedside when he died.

DUMMY'S POTENTIAL TRICKS, I
Winning cards, potential tricks, are often submerged in the dummy. Precise manipulation—playing with some definite prospect in view—in such instances presents to you the possibility of winning tricks with them. You may not always succeed in accomplishing your object but when you employ the most probable winning method your chances improve.

There are many times when the declarer may win an additional trick in the dummy by playing the proper card as in the example which follows:

Dummy holds—clubs Q 7 6; declarer holds—clubs J 5 4; west leads the club 8.

Dummy should not cover with the queen of clubs. Declarer should play small from the dummy, this procedure guaranteeing one trick in the club suit. If east covers with the Ace or King of clubs, declarer's Jack of clubs forces out the remaining high card and the Queen of clubs in the dummy will win a trick. Obviously, if east fails to play the Ace or King of clubs on the first round, the Jack of clubs in the declarer's hand takes the trick.

Sunday-School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR SEPT. 8, 1928

General Topic—Paul in Athens and Corinth.

Scripture Lesson—Acts 17:1-11:1

1. After these things he departed from Athens, and came to Corinth.

2. And he found a certain Jew named Aquila, a man of Pontus by race, who came from Italy, with his wife Priscilla, because Claudius had commanded all the Jews to depart from Rome; and he came unto them.

3. And because he was of the same trade, he abode with them, and they wrought; for by trade they were tentmakers.

4. And he reasoned in the synagogue every Sabbath, and persuaded Jews and Greeks.

5. But when Silas and Timothy came down from Macedonia, Paul was constrained by the word, testifying to the Jews that Jesus was the Christ.

6. And when they opposed themselves and blasphemed, he shook out his raiment and said unto them, Your blood be upon your own heads; I am clean; from henceforth I will go unto the Gentiles.

7. And he departed thence and went into the house of a certain man named Titus Justus, one that worshipped God, whose house joined hard to the synagogue.

8. And Crispus, the ruler of the synagogue, believed in the Lord with all his house; and many of the Corinthians hearing believed; and were baptized.

9. And the Lord said unto Paul in the night by a vision, be not afraid, but speak and hold thy peace.

10. For I am with thee, and no man shall set on thee to harm thee, for I have much people in this city.

11. And he dwelt there a year and six months, teaching the word of God among them.

12. And when the Jews conspired against him, to kill him, he departed thence, and came to Ephesus.

13. For there is one God, our Father, who is in heaven, and Jesus Christ, who is seated at the right hand of the Father, and who shall come again to judge the living and the dead.

14. Who would have all men to be saved, and come to the knowledge of the truth.

15. For there is one God, our Father, who is in heaven, and Jesus Christ, who is seated at the right hand of the Father, and who shall come again to judge the living and the dead.

16. Who gave himself a ransom for all; that he might redeem himself from all unrighteousness, and purify unto himself a peculiar people, zealous of good works.

17. Whereunto I was appointed a preacher and an apostle, (I speak of the truth, I do not lie), a teacher of the Gentiles in faith and truth.

18. Time—Paul's stay of a year and a half in Corinth, A. D. 51-52.

Place—After several weeks in Athens, Paul removed to Corinth.

Text—For I determined not to know anything among you, save Jesus Christ, and him crucified.—1 Cor. 2:2.

INTRODUCTION

When Paul left Berea, he was accompanied by some of his friends, and they went to Athens. His next stopping place was Athens. In many ways that wonderful city has never been approached, so that still, when we wish to praise a city as the school of learning and art, we call it "the Modern Athens."

FACE ON MARS HILL

Acts 17:22-31

"Men of Athens, Paul began his address using the formula familiar at the beginning of all classical Greek orations. His opening words would be understood by his hearers as a compliment. Paul declared that he had found the people of Athens to be 'very religious.' They had on show no fewer than three thousand public statues, most of them representing gods or goddesses; a Roman poet once said sarcastically that it was easier in Athens to find gods than men.

Among these multifarious statues Paul had lighted upon one dedicated 'to an Unknown God.' He taught the image-worshipping Athenians the folly of idolatry. There is one God, and only one. He made heaven and earth, and does not live in man-made temples. He gave men all things and needs no gifts or sacrifices from men. All he wants from us is that we should feel after him and find him, for he is not far from every one of us. So near is he that he has come down to dwell among men, to die for men, and to prove his deity by rising again from the dead."

That was the outline of Paul's masterly and most courageous address, as Luke records it.

PAUL IN CORINTH

Acts 18:1-17

"After these things he departed from Athens, and came to Corinth." This famous city was about fifty miles west of Athens. It enjoyed a situation most favorable for trade, for it was placed on the rocky isthmus of Corinth, 292 feet high and three and two-thirds miles wide, which connected northern Greece with the southern peninsula, the Peloponnese.

Thus Corinth was the point of transportation of ships and cargoes between the Aegean and Adriatic seas, and through it trade was conducted between the north and the south. Marine traffic is now conducted through a canal cut across the isthmus. Corinth itself was noted for its stonemasonry, its soap and vessels of

Violin Is Fortune Peasant Family Is Paid $35,000

BOLZANO, Italy, Sept. 7. (AP)—A poor peasant family living near here has suddenly acquired $35,000 by selling a violin to a vacation tourist. As a consequence the daughters of the family are being ardently sought by local swains.

The family had been trying to sell the violin for some time. When the London expert examined the instrument he found that it was a genuine Stradivarius.

For I am with thee, and no man shall set on thee to harm thee. This was all the encouragement Paul needed, the knowledge that his labors were to be successful. It is the cheer required by any true worker.

SALVATION FOR ALL. 1 Tim. 2:4, 5

"Who would have all men to be saved." The Christian doctrine of election is to be interpreted in the light of passages such as this. God is Saviour essentially and eternally; he longs for the salvation of every one of his creatures. "And come to the knowledge of the truth." A true knowledge of the truth of Christ and salvation is not enough; the devil believes and trembles. It must be a saving knowledge, knowledge which leads to repentance and obedience, love and service.

CHRIST A "RANSOM FOR ALL." Ye. 6

"Who gave himself a ransom for all." Of course a mere man could do it only as a man. "The testimony to be borne in his own times." That is, when the right time for it in the history of the world had arrived, the time for Christ's testimony to the sacrificial love of God, the New Testament in his blood, Christ came in the fullness of time, when the world had sunk deepest in the mire of sin, and when a little nucleus of men was ready to receive the truth of redemption.

"Whereunto I was appointed a preacher and an apostle." For the hearts of needy men, Paul was divinely appointed by the words of Christ himself on the Damascus road.

PAUL'S EARNEST PREACHING. Ye. 4, 5

"And he reasoned in the synagogue every Sabbath." Following his invariable custom in a new town, Paul began his work where he was most likely to find converts; for in spite of the bigotry of some Jews, their training in the purest religion the world had yet known made them more accessible than pagans to the truth of Christianity.

"Paul was constrained by the word." The Philippian Christians had sent him money, so that he was not obliged to work so hard for his own support. (1 Tim. 5:18; 2 Cor. 11:9.) and could give more time to preaching and teaching. The Spirit moved him to do this work of "preaching the word" with more zeal even than before.

"Testifying to the Jews that Jesus was the Christ." His testimony was based on the ancient prophecies fulfilled in Christ, by his own conversion through a vision of Christ, and by the facts of Christ's death and resurrection. His text was ever this: "The man Jesus as the divine Christ, the Messiah, the Son of God, the Saviour of the world." It is the central truth of Christianity.

PAUL'S VISION IN CORINTH. Ye. 9, 18

"And the Lord said unto Paul in the night by a vision." Paul, we have seen, was a man of visions. He had beheld the Lord on the road to Damascus; he had seen a vision of Ananias coming to him and restoring his sight; he had seen a vision of the Macedonian summoning him to Europe; now again he sees the Lord Jesus Christ. "The not afraid." Here is a window into the heart life of the apostle. He was not dully insensitive to fear while doing his splendidly courageous work, facing the machinations of the Jews and the rage of the idolaters. He had suffered much, but he showed his heroism by marching straight forward in spite of his fear.

BY ELEANOR EARLY

THIS HAS HAPPENED

SYBIL THORNE, spoiled and petted, tells CRAIG NEWHALL, when he asks her to marry him, of her romance with JOHN LAWRENCE, who went to France with the A. E. F. and never returned. "Do you," she asks Craig, "want to marry me now?"

And Newhall, refusing to be jealous of a dead man, takes her in his arms and kisses her devoutly. Little dreaming that Sybil will marry him to please her dying father, whose happiness she desires more than anything in the world. Mr. Thorne, the house is lighted from top to bottom and two solemn men, with black bags, are leaving by the front door.

"Daddy's dead!" shrieks Sybil, and crumples in Craig's arms.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER VI

Craig lifted Sybil to the ground. "Put yourself together, darling," he counseled. "Dr. Parker hasn't come out yet. Perhaps it was only another consultation. Here, let me carry you."

He took her in his arms and she clung to him, sobbing like a child. "And I wasn't home, Craig. I left him—and I died. And I wasn't there. Oh—oh, Craig!"

He felt her tears on his cheek, and the convulsive sobs that racked her body.

"There, there baby," he cradled her tenderly. "We won't go in, honey, until you're feeling better. Just try to stop that crying. You'll make yourself sick, baby."

He leaned against the garden wall, still holding her to him, so that she seemed to get comfort from his quiet, strong body. In a few minutes she grew still, and only her limbs trembled, and her breath came in sobbing tremors.

"I'll call to him," she said. "If Daddy were alive, I wouldn't call it might startle him. But you can't wake the dead, Craig."

Her voice rang shrill and sweet. "Oh, Daddy! . . . Daddy!"

His name was on her lips, when she fainted. Craig carried her in, and they laid her on the broad window seat in the hall, and called Dr. Parker.

He came from the death chamber with his little bag and his stethoscope.

"It's her heart," he said, and prepared a hypodermic, while Tad rushed for brandy, and Mrs. Thorne wrung her hands wretchedly, and called on God to witness her grief.

"First my husband—and now my daughter. Oh, God, God . . ."

It was Craig who took her away and coaxed her presently, to take a drink of brandy herself. Tad was sobbing like a baby. And then Sybil opened her eyes. Tad glucially, she spoke strange words, clear-as-thinking-bells.

"You thought I fainted," she said, "but I died instead, and talked with Daddy. He said . . ."

"Oh, merciful God . . ."

"Mrs. Thorne shrieked her terror. "Sybil! Sybil! Edward! Come back to me . . ."

She crumpled at their feet—such a piteous little gray thing. Her gray hair in loosened wisps about her face, all old and gray. And her dress of drab, gray stuff slinging in unlovely fashion to her poor thin body.

Irreverently Craig thought of ashes. Ashes of desire, of youth, and beauty. Nothing left of them, but a little old woman, anguishing . . .

Valerie was coming home for the wedding. "I suppose," she wrote, "that it wouldn't be the thing to have a big wedding now. I'm absolutely heart-broken about it—about your father. I mean. Did he suffer much? I suppose I can wear my wedding dress just the same. You see, I've everything all bought. Tad, Mother thinks it would be quite unnecessary to change our plans, completely. Though of course, we sympathize so much with your poor mother."

"Was it an awful shock? He's been failing for so long, I suppose you sort of knew. But then, it's dreadfully hard to realize. I remember when my Aunt Emma died it was like that. Such a shock, though we really ought to have been prepared. Did your poor father know? It's so complicated afterward if they don't have time to make a will. When Uncle Robert died, there was such a lot of trouble. Aunt Mary brought suit, and the lawyers got it all. Every cent. But my goodness, of course there won't be any trouble in your family."

"I suppose you'll all get a third. I always thought it was awfully unfair for the widow to have two children. And then, if there's a daughter, she seems to get all that's left. But Sybil wouldn't be like that, of course. She would want you to have your share. I know she's so broadminded, and then she works, too. Business women love to be self-supporting. I've noticed. I wonder if you'd love me any more Tad. If I knew more about business I'm awfully dumb about figures and things. Mother says I never did realize the value of money, and Daddy says you'd think it grew on bushes the way I spend it. But then, that's the way they brought me up. I tell Daddy he has only himself to blame."

"I'm just crazy to see you, Tad. There are millions of men over here—lots of rich Americans—but I've never seen anyone half as handsome as my Tad . . . How is in his pocket.

"Lord!" he exclaimed, "I just happened to think. Tom Henderson's waiting for a phone call from me. Excuse me a minute, will you?"

The telephone was upstairs. In a moment he was down again.

"Awfully sorry, Mother, but I must run down to see Tom. He's waiting for me. I'll have a bite downtown somewhere, and I'll be home early. Sorry I have to leave you."

The women began their meal in silence. Dallying with her salad, Mrs. Thorne looked up hesitantly. "Did you think," she asked tentatively, "that Tad acted sort of funny about that letter? You don't suppose there's anything wrong, do you, Sybil? Sometimes I've wondered if Valerie isn't just a little selfish. And Tad's such a good boy—It seems like I couldn't bear anything . . ."

There were tears in her eyes, and she raised her napkin unsteadily to her trembling lips.

"Oh, Mums," Sybil slipped from her chair to put a consoling arm about her mother's slender shoulders. "You're looking for an angel for your wonderful Tad. There isn't a girl on earth really good enough for him—and we're the ladies who know it—aren't we, darling?"

Privately Sybil had her own forebodings and they made her somehow more tender of Tad. "Poor little Tad," she said within her heart. "Poor little devil," and kissed his suits when they came home from the tailors, and smoothed them lovingly as she

The wedding was three weeks away.

"Anything," decided Sybil, crossing her arms beneath her head, and speculating grimly, "can happen in three weeks. Maybe Val will elope with a count."

(To Be Continued.)

Valerie didn't elope with a count. But, on the eve of her marriage, accepts a diamond ring from a certain Lord Montford. And Tad, furious with rage—but it's all in the next chapter.

CHILDREN TAKE PART

Day Is Feature of Eucharistic Congress

(By Associated Press)

SYDNEY, New South Wales, Sept. 7.—Today was children's day at the Eucharistic congress.

Thirty thousand youngsters assembled at the showground where Cardinal Ronaventura Cerretti, Papal delegate, celebrated Pontifical high mass. Dr. Gilmarin, archbishop of Tuam, preached the sermon.

In the bright sunshine girls in white dresses, with gold sashes, reds, wreaths, and rosettes were massed in squares on either side of the altar. Boys in black, stood behind the girls.

Two hundred thousand persons looked on and 150,000 others participated in the ceremony. Every archbishop and bishop present was surrounded by a group of chamberlains.

As the cardinal's stately procession entered the grounds there was cheering and then the youthful voices sang the hymn "Hail, Queen of Heaven."

After the mass, Bishop Dunn, of

New York, in behalf of the cardinals, bishops, clergy and laity of the United States handed Cardinal Corretti a beautiful bound volume containing spiritual offerings in honor of the birthday of the virgin and of the success of the congress. The book is to be presented to the pope.

Travel Fatigue Quickly Relieved

Long train or motor trips in hot weather cause the nerves to become strained and upset, resulting in nervous headaches, sleepless nights and general fatigue.

A FALSE RUMOR CORRECTED!

In the past few days there have been rumors circulated to the effect that the Bumpass Laundry had closed and that it had sold its equipment, good-will, etc., to other interests—that was no longer in business.

Regardless of the manner in which the rumor began, I believe it only fair to my friends and customers to present the facts concerning the future as it affects us and their relationship with us in the future.

In a few days additional machinery will be installed which will enable us to double our capacity. DOES THAT LOOK LIKE WE WERE GOING OUT OF BUSINESS? Plans for these additional facilities have been under way for months, and due to delayed shipments, I have been unable to make this announcement sooner.

I am making this statement for the protection of my customers and the Bumpass Steam Laundry, and wish to repeat, I AM STILL FEATURING THAT CHARACTER OF SERVICE THAT HUNDREDS OF LUBBOCK HOUSEWIVES APPRECIATE AND HAVE GROWN ACCUSTOMED TO, AND WILL CONTINUE TO DO SO—BETTERING IT WITH THE NEW EQUIPMENT SOON TO BE INSTALLED.

FURTHER I WISH TO STATE THAT THE BUMPASS LAUNDRY IS NOT CONNECTED WITH ANY OTHER LIKE INSTITUTION IN THE CITY, and have no intention of operating otherwise.

To those who called the erroneous statements to my attention, I wish to express my sincere thanks and appreciation, and pledge that at all times the Bumpass Steam Laundry will give that character of service to its patrons that alone is deserving of renewed patronage.

SCRIPTURE: Give not that which is holy unto the dogs, neither cast ye your pearls before swine, lest they trample them under feet, and turn again and rend you.—St. Matthew, VII, 6.

MR. HUGHES AND THE WORLD COURT

If, as seems certain, the Assembly of the League of Nations elects Charles E. Hughes as a judge of the World Court, the choice will be singularly appropriate. He will be a fitting successor to John Bassett Moore, although the training of the two men was very dissimilar, Judge Moore, as a university professor of law and writer on international law, and as the legal adviser of the State Department on numerous occasions, was America's outstanding specialist in international jurisprudence. Mr. Hughes, until he became secretary of state in 1921, had never shown any marked interest in international law. As secretary of state he was confronted by many technical questions which the war had left to be liquidated. He did not, however, rely exclusively on the advice of the department's legal staff, but eminent lawyer and student as he is, he made independent investigations of many of the matters on which the department was required to express its opinions. His rapidly increasing competence in international law was fittingly recognized by his selection as the president of the American Society of International Law (in succession to Elihu Root) and the proceedings of this learned society contain several notable addresses delivered by Mr. Hughes as its head. When Mr. Hughes dons the ermine of the World Court, he will begin a new phase of a career which has probably been as many sided as the career of any statesman in the United States. A practicing attorney in New York City, then professor of law at Cornell university and New York university, and in active practice again, Mr. Hughes gained a national reputation as counsel for legislative committees investigating New York insurance companies. He served as Governor of the state for two terms and then for six years was associate justice of the supreme court of the United States. In 1916 he failed of election as president by an extremely narrow margin, and then returned to active practice, being called from that to serve as secretary of state under Presidents Harding and Coolidge. Mr. Hughes' designation as a judge of the World Court will serve to draw attention to the relation, or lack of relation, of the United States with the international machinery at The Hague and at Geneva. Mr. Hughes was an advocate of the entrance of the United States into the League of Nations. In the campaign of 1920 he was one of the score of prominent republicans who signed a manifesto calling upon the voters to support President Harding as the surest method of insuring American adhesion to the League Covenant. As secretary of state, Mr. Hughes found that his party was unwilling to carry forward this program. Indeed, the hostility to the League was at this time so great that Mr. Hughes chose not to answer communications addressed by the League to the department of state. Later, however, he strongly espoused adhesion by the United States to the World Court Protocol. The Senate finally agreed to the Coolidge-Hughes proposals, but the reservations which were made were not accepted as they stood by the other signatory powers, and the republican administration has refused to engage in further conversations. When the League Assembly designates Mr. Hughes, therefore, it will designate an American statesman who has worked hard for closer co-operation between the United States and the organs of the League of Nations.

THE LIGHT OF THE WORD

In the higher sense, the Word of God is light, the light of the mind proceeding from the Lord. Scripture is called the Word of God because when its literal statements are in the memory, they receive light from Him, and thus illumine the mind as to what is true and good. The printed Word is thus a mechanism by which God enlightens mankind, and it is the sole primary source of all spiritual enlightenment. From the general sphere of spiritual enlightenment comes the light of genuine science, civil advance and all true progress. Where the Word is not found, there is darkness and stagnation the world over. The Bible does not cheapen with familiarity. We finish newspapers, magazines and books and lay them down forever, because we have got all that there is in them. No one ever has got all there is in the Word of God, and no one ever will exhaust it, for it is a progressive revelation of the Infinite. John declares that the "Word was God." The inmost of the Word of God Himself, for the light that comes through it to mankind is from Him. Science has refuted many wrong interpretations of the Word, but never its truth. The Word embraces the highest science, the science of science, for it reveals the science of right thinking, loving and doing. Its light shines ahead of all progress and lightens the way. It is destined to make religion scientific, and science religious. Its X-ray light reveals that natural science is nothing other than spiritual powers operating on and in the outer plane of matter, thus natural laws are effects of which spiritual laws are the cause. These are practical facts that can be demonstrated to the life. Let one observe some evil to which he yields in temptation. Commit to memory passages from the Word that apply to that evil. Then when temptation comes, quote the Word against that evil, and stand faithful to the Word, be the time of temptation a moment or a month. Finally a feeling will come giving comfort, strength and peace. What one then experiences is the Word doing its work, fulfilling its promise. It is the Word entering, and giving light. Following the light leads to the final removal of all that tempts and distresses, and the incoming of the Lord, who satisfies the soul's longing.

LEADERS

No day like the present calls for leaders—leaders in industry, in public, private and national life. The growth of the country calls for 10 leaders where yesterday only one was necessary. Too frequently we think of the leader as one who rushes forward with the crowd following. But the true leader is rather one upon whose ideas, upon whose strength and inspiration, lesser men climb to heights that would not otherwise have been possible. The true leader is not one who rides on the head of the crowd, but rather one upon whose shoulders the crowd is lifted. In such leadership is true greatness, for one who spoke wisely said: "He shall be greatest amongst you who is the servant of all."

There have been many defections in the democratic ranks this year, but one that sounds more serious than the others comes in the announcement that an Al Smith has been elected president of the Smith-Hoover club in Jackson Heights, New York. All of the officers and members—and already there are 50 of them—come from the well-known Smith family. This is indeed a dangerous leak, and there does not seem to be any way of plugging it up. When the campaign opened it was said humorously that if all of the Smiths in the United States were to vote for the New York governor he would be laying the foundation for a successful contest. But it was quite evident from the outset that he was not going to get all of them or even a majority of the family. But few suspected that the more belittler of the Smiths would organize and openly fight one of the most conspicuous of their number. However, that is what has happened and the democrats will have to make the best of it.

Claiming that they worked 25 hours for three dollars while handling the July primary election, the clerks who labored in the voting precincts of Grayson county have petitioned the county democratic chairman for a raise in pay. Their petition probably will be heartily endorsed by election clerks in all other Texas counties. It is a tedious job, at best, to conduct an election; and the long hours of labor make it most undesirable. If necessary in order to pay the clerks a more adequate compensation for their work and to provide a larger number of clerks in the larger voting boxes, candidates ought to be assessed for that purpose. Most candidates would be willing to pay a larger fee in order to secure the returns earlier.

Horned frogs that have lived for years without food or air or water are now becoming so common that little attention is paid to announcements of their discovery. Over at Lockney, however, one has been found imbedded in concrete in the foundation of a house that was built 14 years ago. As the news story goes, after its discovery it shortly expanded from the pancake like mass to its natural size and shape, and after a hearty yawn set forth in search of food. The Lockney Chamber of Commerce has the frog on exhibition.

We felt terribly cut up over Miss Earhart's announcement that she had endorsed a brand of cigars to make possible her offering of $1500 for Com. Richard E. Byrd's Antarctic expedition. "Lady Lindy" gave her name for others, but it seems to us a sad thing that she should so lightly regard its peculiar distinction. This endorsement business has become a farce—or scandal.

One of the important things we should promise ourselves sometimes when reading about the Eighteenth Amendment, is that some day we'll look up the other seventeen just to see what they're about.

OUT OUR WAY—

WHY MOTHERS GET GRAY HIS FIRST PAY DAY. AND THE MONEY NEEDED FOR OTHER THINGS. BY WILLIAMS

SO THINK WE

We think the weather man is doing a fine job of furnishing the hot sunshine weather, and it may be that there will be as much cotton made as the people will be able to get gathered.

We think with Lubbock's wonderful school facilities there need be no unweariness that her population will not continue to increase annually. When a town can promise the people educational facilities from kindergarten to the high degrees in college, you may know that people of the highest type will be attracted by it.

We think that several hundred parking hops come to Lubbock every day and we cannot see why they cannot learn to park economically. There should be a red tag system for people who deliberately park their car in a position that it takes up valuable parking space that some one else is entitled to.

We think that Lubbock county is too progressive to let the road matters stand as they are. Hard surface roads should connect all of the important towns of the county, and we are sure the voters will say so too, when they have an opportunity to say at the polls.

PRESS COMMENT

Editor's Note: So many people have asked just how the President of the United States is elected to his office that we have prepared the following information on the subject, with the hope of enlightening them to a certain extent at least. Read the following carefully, and you will have the main points in it.

The president is not elected by popular vote. The names of the presidential candidates do not appear upon the ballot when you go to the polls to cast your vote next November. You will not find the names of Herbert Hoover and Al Smith on the ballot. You will not vote directly, technically speaking, for either. You will only vote for the presidential electors.

Under our Federal Constitution each state is entitled to as many presidential electors as it has senators and representatives in Congress. For instance, Texas has two senators and 18 representatives in Congress. Texas, therefore, will have 20 votes in the electoral college for president. Each state has two senators, regardless of its size or population, but the number of representatives depends upon the population. For instance, New Mexico has one representative in Congress and New York has 45. Each state has two senators. New Mexico therefore has three electoral votes and New York has 47.

Each party elects its electors in each state. For instance, in Texas, the democrats have selected the names of 20 democrats to appear upon the official ballot in November as presidential electors. Likewise, the republicans have selected the names of 20 republicans to appear upon the same official ballot as republican electors. The republican ticket and the democratic ticket will appear in parallel columns on the same ballot. Any person desiring to vote for Al Smith will scratch the names of the republican presidential electors, and any person desiring to vote for Herbert Hoover will scratch the names of the democratic electors. The names of the democratic and republican candidates for U. S. Senator, Congress, Governor, and other state, district, county and precinct offices will likewise appear in the democratic and republican columns respectively. Any one may vote a straight democratic ticket, if he so desires, in which case he or she will scratch the entire republican column. He may vote a straight republican ticket, if he or she so desires, in which case he will scratch the entire democratic ticket. Or he or she may vote a mixed ticket, if so desired, in which case he or she will leave such names in either column as he or she may desire to vote for and will scratch the other names.

Some persons have a tendency to attack the lining walls of the heart or the structure of the kidney or other vital structures. Therefore any abscess or pocket of infected material, however small, if persistent and not tending toward recovery should be drained and the structures given opportunity to heal.

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that some politicians are dry politically, but they are very wet appetitically, and that is the reason that the Volstead act is not working as dry as it should. If such are put in to office who will enforce the laws, and who is in sympathy with the prohibition law, there will be little trouble in enforcing it, and there will be no need for a repeal or modification of it.

It is reported that there are some of the downtown lots that are shamefully covered with weeds and grass, and they should be cleaned off. It looks mighty bad for a town the size of Lubbock, and with a reputation for progress, and up-to-dateness that we have to let the weeds grow so rank around some of the business houses.

It is reported that the new plans for homes do not contain a porch. It is figured that people do not stay at home long enough to use it any more, and it is a needless expense. We presume that the old porch serving will have to go too, as much as some of the men and women of our age remember how we enjoyed them in years gone by.

It is reported that some fellow has figured up the space used in the average weekly paper to record automobile accidents, and they have discovered that if the editor got paid for the space at the regular rate for advertising, he would have to pay a surtax. Probably it is a good thing that it is as it is, for it is a terrible task to pay income tax.

YOUR HEALTH

Roots Of Teeth Often Source Of Ill Health

By DR. MORRIS FISHER, Editor Journal of the American Medical Ass'n and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine. We all realize that the old policy of going to a dentist unless the teeth hurt is a "penny-wise pound foolish" policy. Continuing his series of dental superstitions in Hygiene, the Health Magazine, Dr. W. M. Gardner points out that an aching tooth usually means that the decay has penetrated far into the tooth and that the acid formed by the development of bacteria is irritating the nerve. The only way to help such a tooth is to kill the nerve and fill it, a procedure now under considerable doubt, or to remove the tooth and put in a substitute.

Promptness An Advantage. No substitute was ever as good as the original article. Regular trips to the dentist permit the discovery of cavities while they are still small, and the use of tiny fillings in the place or large, complicated fillings. When the nerve is taken out of a tooth the pain may stop temporarily, but that does not mean that the tooth is well or the situation perfect. In many instances, because of development at the roots of the teeth. From these abscesses the bacteria are carried by the blood stream to other parts of the body and they set up infections in joints, in the heart, in the brain, in the glands or in the kidney.

The secondary complications are far worse than the abscess at the root of the tooth. The abscesses at the roots of the teeth are usually located by the use of the X-ray. Sometimes a large abscess cavity may be relatively harmless, and a small one quite dangerous. This depends on the nature of the germs that make up the abscess. Some germs are more virulent than others. Some germs have a tendency to attack the lining walls of the heart or the structure of the kidney or other vital structures. Therefore any abscess or pocket of infected material, however small, if persistent and not tending toward recovery should be drained and the structures given opportunity to heal.

Garage Man: "Doctor, I want you to look at my wife." Doctor Walsh: "Is that she standing over there?" Garage Man: "Yes." Doctor Walsh: "I wouldn't be seen with old junk like that. Why don't you turn her in and get a new one? Well, throw her in the back room and maybe next week sometime I'll get a chance to look her over."

Henrietta: "I wonder what on earth causes Freddy to be so effeminate?" Donald: "I don't know, but I've heard that several of his ancestors were women."

Blake: "Heavens! I don't believe that that announcer could possibly be worse!" Reeves: "Oh, don't say that. Suppose he should start singing something he wrote himself."

CUTTING CORN. When you cut corn off the cob, unless you have a very sharp knife, try running a kitchen fork down each row of kernels. This removes the whole kernel very nicely.

CLOTHES SAVING. If you plan to have some attractive blouse frocks that you can put on as soon as you come in from shopping or work, you will find it far easier to always look neat and well-groomed when going out. Changing shoes also is a good economy measure.

HAPPY AND TULLIA TO PROTEST RE-LOCATION OF HIGHWAY

Happy will vigorously protest the re-designation of the highway so that it will run from Canyon on the east side of the Santa Fe and miss the business part of Happy, according to John Toles, who was here Tuesday to see members of the Chamber of Commerce in order to enlist the support of Canyon in the fight against the new designation according to Mr. Toles and it is proposed that a meeting be held in Tullia. Happy and Canyon leaders during the coming week, and a joint meeting be held with the Randall county commissioners court on Sept. 10th in order to enlist the support of the court to hold the highway over its present route.

The news that the highway had been designated to go on the east side of the Santa Fe county certainly is unfortunate for the citizens of Tullia was not known here until last week. Coupled with this announcement was the other that a movement was on foot to take the west highway north of the railway in order to Miss Canyon. The county engineer has been asked by the state highway commission to make surveys and to draw plans and specifications for gravelling both highways south and west of Canyon to the county lines as it is believed that within the county money remaining after the highway is paved to Amarillo the state and federal government will furnish the remainder to complete the gravelling to both the south and east county lines.

It is expected that a number of conferences will be held in the next few weeks among those interested in seeing that the designation of the highways are not changed.—Canyon News.

Towns on the opposite side of the railroad from the highways are certainly unfortunately situated. They are not only losers of the drop in trade of the tourists, but they lose the benefits of people driving through the town to become better acquainted with the town, and learning more about the town. There are, unfortunately, no filling stations on the highway, and plenty of old drink stands and sandwich stands to take care of the demands of the traveling public, and they do not think enough of the town to go out of their way to see the town, unless by chance the town might be of unusual interest and something of great interest is there that they might be interested in seeing. Highways should run through the towns if possible, and we cannot blame any town from protesting the change of a highway that would place it on the opposite side of the track from the town.

FISH

A German judge having officially ruled that fish have no feelings, the debate is on. Do fish feel pain? A British ichthyologist says they do, basing his conviction on the way they flop about after being caught. But that may just show the realist of mankind, for the individual fish, or his determination to behave as a fish out of water should, dying with his scales on. There is always the chance, too, that he may actually be able to flip himself out of the boat back into the native element. While there is life there is hope.

Some fish grunt when you take them out of the water, but that doesn't prove anything either. The fact that they are dissatisfied with their surroundings and don't hesitate to say so, offers no basis for the assumption that they are in pain. Greedy fish sometimes insist on swallowing the hook right down into their "innards," and it is hard to believe that the prospect of catching the fish affords unmitigated pleasure to the victim.

What Education Really Is

BY M. H. DUNCAN, Superintendent of Lubbock City Schools

The Function of Books and Study. It should be clear to all that the child studies in school in order to remove the difficulties in the way of his better living. He realizes he is inefficient in the eight aims mentioned before. Every subject that knocks for a place in the school curriculum must be able to give the password and that password is usefulness in removing the difficulties in the way of his better living. He realizes he is not what he should be in health, in citizenship, as a member of the home, as a worker, or in character. He knows that he does not use his leisure time to best advantage and that he does not know how to use his mind on the problems that daily confront him. Knowing his failures and deficiencies, he has a motive for study and he searches the texts, the reference books, and other sources for help in removing these failures and deficiencies. The books give him the advantages of the experiences of others who have been over the road he is traveling and he searches them, not to gain some useless information, but to learn from the experiences of the writers, to avoid the pitfalls in his way. Study thus takes on a new meaning for the child and he no longer has to be driven to his school work as to a task he sees nothing in, but he enters his studies with enthusiasm because he sees their relation to the needs of his everyday life.

THE STARS CALL TO FAIRIE. This night is wakeful with a million eyes That glow, not like our pilot of the North, Calm guardian of the followers of the god. Nor steady like the torch of eastern skies Which guided ancient shepherds safely forth. These glow as stars that stir unceasingly, the dancer's feet, And seem to call the universe a'd me. Unperturbed, sleepless frogs peer out amazed From once familiar pools, now strangely bright, with many a million mirrored, straggling lamps. Then through the pregnant silence comes their dazed, Dull, bubbling talk to punctuate the night. Their deep-toned voices muted by the damps, That lie forever in these wooded swamps. And who am I to turn a deafened ear, Or sleep-dimmed eye on summons such as these. Rare summons sought in vain by many a kind, Most gracious summons, yet insistent, clear; That bid me witness on my bended knees This meaningful, mysterious, holy thing. With the stars in heaven dance and sing.

Rivers Go On Rise In Southern States

Hundreds of Acres of Farm Lands Are Inundated and Roads Are Impassable; Fall Is 7.32 Inches.

(By Associated Press) ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 7 (AP)—Rivers in parts of Georgia, North Carolina and South Carolina were mounting today due to heavy rains.

Worst conditions obtained probably in North Carolina, where hundreds of square miles of farm land were reported inundated, and thousands of bales of cotton damaged in flooded warehouses at Rockingham and elsewhere.

All main thoroughfares of the state were declared impassable in long stretches, while the Cape Fear River was 48 feet deep or 13 feet above its banks at Fayetteville, with indications of a 52 foot stage in the next 24 hours.

While more rain was expected today, conditions in South Carolina were not so serious, although 45 state highways were impassable, and many small dams were washed away in the Chesterfield county section. A total of 7.32 inches of rainfall was reported at Columbia during the last two days.

Bringing in the Business for rather better weather in the belt. Offerings were comparatively light, and after having been absorbed, the market became firmer on covering for over the government report to be published after the close of the market tomorrow.

Trade buying was reported, and the afternoon advance which carried prices about 8 to 12 points set higher was accompanied by reports of improving demand for forward shipment from Europe. Business failed to broaden on the advance and the market attracted a little more Southern selling or realising around 19.22 for October and 19.00 for March.

This supplied the immediate demand and closing prices showed reactions of 8 to 10 points from the best.

Two more private crop reports were published, one placing the condition at 61.3 and the indicated crop at 15,000,000 bales, while the other made the condition 58.5 and the indicated crop 14,396,000 bales.

The average of the private reports published during the past week, 10 days ago, was a condition of 59.9 and a crop indication of 14,508,000 bales.

Advices from the South emphasized further deterioration chiefly as a result of shedding or insect damage.

KANSAS CITY LIVESTOCK
KANSAS CITY, Sept. 7. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Light receipts stimulated demand for hogs resulting in a 10¢ 25-cent price advance; shipping demand was broad at the river market and a fall advance was scored at several points; Chicago had a top of $13.30, only 5 cents under the recent high mark of $13.35; the supply, estimated at $441,000, was 4,800 short of a week ago, and 2,200 less than the same day last year.

Fat lambs were on a strong to 25 cents higher basis, despite the fact that total offerings of around 53,500 were 9,000 more than last Friday, and 200 in excess of a year ago; aged stock held steady price levels; choice range lambs in Chicago realized $13.75, while best westerns at Omaha topped at $13.35.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON
NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 7. (AP)—Realizing and eleven hour liquidation caused the cotton market here today to close net unchanged to one point down.

Until the end of the market prices were 10 to 12 points higher due to a bullish summary of the Texas crop condition and to reports of damage by rain and floods in the eastern belt.

December traded as high as 18.60, 12 points up, but closed at 18.48, net unchanged for the day.

Liverpool was 2 to 4 points lower than one and first trades here showed losses of 5 points. The market soon rallied, however, on the Texas crop report and further rains in the eastern belt. The climb upward was pushed along later by reports of overflowing streams in Georgia and the Carolinas doing considerable damage to crops.

Before mid-season October had traded up to 18.50 and December to 18.57, 13 to 14 points above the early lows and 8 to 9 points above the previous close.

The market ruled steady after mid-season and rallied additionally on short covering in advance of the government crop report due to morning and on reports of good spot demand. October rose to 18.52 and December to 18.00, 15 to 17 points above the lows and 13 to 12 points higher than the previous close.

Two additional private crop estimates were issued, one making the crop 14,396,000 bales and the other 15,000,000.

Port receipts 35,056, for week 119,562, for season 430,428, last season 800,930. Exports 31,343, for week 140,397, for season 402,952, last season 457,983. Port stocks 530,728, last year 1,193,191. Combined shipboard stocks at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 82,777, last year 70,129. Spot sales at southern markets 42,500, last year 39,171.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK
FORT WORTH, Sept. 7. (AP)—The cattle trade today again was uneven. Steer trading was nominal, the stock steady and calves weak to 25 cents lower. Cows sold from $7.00 to $9.00 and calves from $11.25 to $11.50.

Hogs were 15 cents higher. The top price was $12.15, with the bulk bringing from $11.40 to $11.65. Sows and pigs were steady, selling from $9.00 to $9.75 and $9.00 to $8.75, respectively.

The sheep market was steady. Lambs sold for $15.00.

BOSTON WOOL MARKET
BOSTON, Sept. 7. (AP)—Texas average 12 months staple wools are being moved by a few houses at 1.08 to 1.10 scored basis.

Spotty character of the trading being due somewhat to the higher asking prices on some of the offerings. Eight month growth Texas is selling at 1.09 scored basis. Original sales of 58-60s and the medium grade of territory are being reported.

Medium fleeces are moderately active at steady prices while the finer fleec wools are quiet.

SINGERS TO MEET
Three Thousand Are Expected at 4-County Fete

SNYDER, Sept. 7. (Special)—One of the largest district singings to be held in West Texas will be given here Saturday and Sunday when the Scurry-Nolan-Mitchell-Jones and Fisher county singers will be here.

Prominent singers from all points of the state will attend and preparations are being made to handle a crowd of more than 3,000 people. The meetings will be held at the city tabernacle with seating capacity increased with the addition of seats placed outside the building.

Nothing makes a more delicious sauce for cup o'uldard or bread or rice pudding than hot maple syrup. Let it boil a little and serve as piping hot as possible.

Each fruit pie is really more attractive when only one crust is used. Strips of crust can hold it side by side, or made oven and served with powdered sugar sprinkled over the top, it is delicious.

DAILY MARKETS

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Sept. 7. (AP)—Wild speculation for the advance in today's stock market carried total sales to 4,782,100 shares, the third largest in history. Extreme gains of 2 to nearly 20 points were pared down by the usual week-end profit-taking, but at least 50 issues sold at record high prices.

The unexpectedly small increase of $4,000,000 in federal reserve brokers' loans, announced after the close yesterday, released a flood of buying orders which nearly swamped the trading facilities of the exchange. The ticker fell 30 minutes behind the market before midday and never caught up. While powerful pools whirled their favorites up as a dizzy pace, the public pumped into the market in ever increasing numbers.

Call money held steady at 7 1/2 per cent all day. Banks called more than $20,000,000 in loans, but new funds were quickly forthcoming to take their place. Time money and commercial paper rates held steady. Sterling exchange dropped to a new low level for the year, and Wall Street revived stories of an early return flow of gold from Europe.

Prices movements bore little relation to the day's news, although market letters and flashes of the leading commission houses called attention to the excellent prospects for fall business and repeated many of the dividend and merger rumors in circulation throughout the financial district. One of the most significant developments of the day was the monthly steel input production report of the American Iron and Steel Institute, showing that last month's output had exceeded 4,000,000 tons for the first August in history.

Automobile production in August also a new high record.

Montgomery-Ward was the sensational feature in today's market, soaring 19 1/2 points to 242, partly at the expense of a harassed short interest, and then dipping to 238 1/4. The year's low is 117. Sears Roebuck ran up 8 points to a new top at 157 and then yielded to 154.

U. S. Steel Common attained a new peak for the year at 158 5/8 but closed a point lower for a net gain of about 3 points.

Nearly a quarter of a million shares of Tidewater-Associated Oil changed hands, the stock touching a new high at 25 on buying influenced by reports of an early increase in California gasoline prices. Briggs Manufacturing crossed 49 to a new high on a tremendous turnover, with the demand stimulated by reports of large orders from Chrysler and other leading manufacturers.

DUN'S REPORT
NEW YORK, Sept. 7. (AP)—Dun's tomorrow will say: Factors making for expansion of business are gathering force, a new month having begun with further evidence of accelerated activity. The gains are unevenly supported and some trades will lag, but the main condition is one of response to stimulating influences. A fresh impetus to operations has come with the change in season's chief interest now centering on autumn requirements, and developments thus far have borne out the conservatively optimistic views lately expressed. Statistical measurements continue to reveal some rather striking contrasts, yet a number of these exhibits are distinctly favorable, and in the dispatches from the principal centers there are various notes of an encouraging tenor.

No widespread labor troubles exist to seriously impair the public buying power, and the frequent repeating of orders by many retailers indicates a wholesome position of stocks in distributing channels. Exceptions to that reassuring phase are not lacking, but the general situation is marked by an absence of burdensome accumulations of goods.

Weekly bank clearings $3,440,777,000, an increase of 18.6 per cent, over a year ago.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Sept. 7. (AP)—The cotton market was steady today on covering and trade buying, promoted by unfavorable crop advices from the South. December contracts sold up from 18.91 to 19.08 or 17 points net higher, and closed at 19.00, compared with 18.97 at the close the previous day. The market closed steady at a net decline of 1 point on May, but generally 2 to 3 points higher.

The market opened unchanged to a decline of 5 points under Southern selling, liquidation or realising, influenced by relatively easy early cables from Liverpool and prospects

Uneasiness Marks Cotton Market As Report Is Awaited

Government Report Is Due For Publication At Noon Today; Opinions In New York Differ On Crop.

(By Associated Press) NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Uncertainty as to the showing of the government crop report scheduled for publication at noon tomorrow, has been evident in the trading of the cotton market here during the past week. Some increase of hedge selling incident to advance of the season has been reported. In the opinion of some local brokers, however, this has been about offset by an increase in trade buying, while business otherwise has been attributed chiefly to the evening-up or reduction of old accounts.

These operations have been reflected by irregular fluctuations, with the advance checked by retreating or liquidation and southern selling, while declines have brought in more active covering together with buying to fix prices for the trade. On the whole the undertone has been steady and the best prices of the week were reached during the day's trading when March contracts sold up to the 19-cent level or about 50 points above the low price of the previous prices. A number of the private "end-August" crop reports were issued without much apparent effect on the immediate market. Figures on the indicated crop ranged from 13,929,000 bales up to 15,518,000 and averaged about 14,500,000 bales. According to a canvass made on Tuesday, individual opinions of New York cotton exchange members as to the size of the crop range from a wide divergence of opinion ranging from 13,600,000 to 15,000,000 bales and averaging 14,000,000.

Views Are Conflicting. In view of these figures, it was argued in some quarters that the passing of the so-called "critical" month of August had failed to bring crop ideas any nearer together than they were earlier in the season and the conflicting views naturally increased the disposition to even-up commitments in advance of the government figures.

The statistics published on world consumption and cotton mill stocks for last season were without apparent effect on the market. If anything, the reported world's consumption of 15,407,000 bales of American lint was slightly under expectations, but most traders have been basing their market opinions on expectations of a world's carry over of around 5 and 5 1/4 millions bales and such views were considered about in line with these statistics, placing world's mill stocks at 2,112,000 bales.

Straton Speaks Starts Fight On AI In South

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 7.—Dr. John Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, New York city, carried his anti-Smith campaign deeper into the Southland here last night, reiterating his stand that the New York governor "is the dealer for the moral forces in America today."

Speaking to an audience which filled the city's largest auditorium, Dr. Straton urged voters to cast their ballots for Hoover. Once, while reading a lengthy synopsis of Gov. Smith's public record, the speaker was interrupted by an elderly woman who rose from her seat in the front row to shout: "You're just giving scandal, and it won't go here."

Dr. Straton asked her to be seated, but she was escorted from the hall by members of the audience. Gov. Smith was described as the "wet head," and Senator Robinson, democratic vice presidential nominee, as the "dry tail," of the "Tammany Donkey," by the speaker, who added that he hoped to visit southeastern state and debate with Senator Robinson.

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE (Associated Press Science Editor)

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 6 (AP)—Science apparently is on the threshold of an opportunity to produce bees that keep really busy.

The adage about the busy bee has not stood the test of making them figuratively punch the clock each time they return to the hive with more honey.

The possibility of breeding bees, which includes mating of the more energetic varieties to produce busier workers was developed by Dr. Lloyd R. Watson, of Alford, New York, who is working at Cornell University under the Augustus Hochsicher Foundation for Research.

Dr. Watson perfected his method nearly two years ago, and now is proceeding with experiments at hybridizing and selection among various varieties. He began his studies 15 years ago.

The present method, which after years succeeded, requires expensive laboratory equipment and great technical skill, but it permits absolute control of the mating of the bees, and by means of its employment hitherto impossible studies in the genetical relationships of honey bees are being made.

One economic objective is to produce more honey by developing types of bees that shall be more active, but already other unusual secondary problems are in sight.

Red clover nectar, for example, bees, because the nectar of the clover, where the sweet rests, are too deep for the bee's tongue to reach. It has been observed that

In dry seasons, when lack of moisture shortens the corolla, bees can sometimes reach the nectar. Dr. Watson believes that controlled mating opens the possibility of developing long-tongued varieties of bees, which can reach the red clover nectar in any season.

Hybridization and selective experiments now under way in Dr. Watson's laboratory are being made principally upon four well-known varieties of bees: Golden Italians, Carniolans, Caucasians and so-called Albinos. Each of these varieties possess certain hereditary qualities, which are being united and segregated at the will of the scientist.

The Golden Italians are characteristic for their beautiful golden color and their gentleness and resistance to disease. Carniolan bees seal their honey with very white capping. Caucasians are excessive users of propolis, or bee glue, and the Albino possess fuzzy rings of white hairs about their abdomens.

Other races of honey bees with other characteristic hereditary qualities will also be brought in as the work develops.

Farm Problem Is Really a Question Says Farm Editor

William Johnson Declares Economic Cloud Shadows Farm Life; Conditions are On Upward Trend.

SPENCER, Ind., Sept. 7 (AP)—William Johnson, associate editor of Farm Life, has amplified statements on the farm problem made by him in Detroit before the Agricultural department of the International Advertising Association.

At that time Mr. Johnson, with five other leading agricultural editors, commented on the failure of manufacturers fully to realize that rural communities offer a market for all kinds of manufactured goods. A brief summary of Mr. Johnson's address, "The Silver Lining in the Farm Cloud," which was disseminated by the Associated Press, did not fully picture the "economic cloud" that shadows many rural homes with hardships, nor the efforts of farmers to overcome adverse conditions and improve their standards of living.

"Yes, there is a farm problem," Mr. Johnson says. "Some farmers have been severely pinched by the economic upheavals that grew out of the war. They are all determined to share equally with the towns and cities in the enjoyment of modern conveniences and comforts. Much of their discontent is in the ferment of progress working in their minds. And it is a matter for city folks to rejoice over—not one to lament. It means a large and growing home market for city goods and services, a more profitable market to the cities than any export market can be. In spite of their marketing difficulties our farmers now take large quantities

McDonald Will Case Is Set For Trial On October 29

PARIS, Sept. 7. (AP)—Application for change of venue was denied contestants in the McDonald will case, involving over a million dollars, in district court here today.

The will made a bequest of $1,250,000 to the University of Texas for an astronomical observatory, and is being contested by relatives of the eccentric millionaire.

The case now is scheduled to go to trial October 29. The case has reached the Texas Supreme Court once, where it was reversed and remanded on writ of error after two lower courts had sustained the will.

Dallas Man Confers With Gov. On Textbooks

AUSTIN, Sept. 7. (AP)—C. C. Renfro, of Dallas, requested Governor Moody today to submit to the Attorney General a question pertinent to the October session of the state text book commission, which will let school book contracts totalling more than $1,000,000.

Renfro would not say what the question was, but indicated that the Governor had agreed to seek a ruling on it. The Governor was reticent about the matter.

State School Superintendent S. M. N. Marrs said he did not know what the issue is.

cat which he carried for good luck was stolen from him at Kansas City, Tex. Rankin finished third, landing at 2:08.

Continuing to show speed which his plane did not exhibit when the air derby started, Dale G. Jackson, who left Kansas City in tenth place, reached here in fourth.

Flies Without Valve

S. L. Wittman of Byron, Wis., sixth in at Oklahoma City, provided the first thrill of the afternoon to 3,000 spectators who had assembled to see the races when he came on the field with an intake valve missing from his plane. The valve dropped out after leaving Oklahoma City, and he continued in the race without it. Wittman finished 12th. The pilot declared he would be able to take off at 5 a. m. tomorrow when the flaps had been set for Abilene.

Others landed in the following order: George W. Hopkins, Detroit, 2:15; W. N. Emery, Jr., Bradford, Pa., 2:19; James S. Charles, Richmond, Va., 2:19:34; Theodore W. Kenyon, Boston, 2:20; Don E. J., 2:27; George Zinn, Jr., Trenton, N. J., 3:13 o'clock.

M. E. Grevenberg, Pittsburgh, piloting a Lincoln-Page, was forced down near El Dorado by heavy head winds.

He took the air at Wichita about 1:29 o'clock but was forced to return for more gasoline after going a short distance toward Oklahoma City. His second take-off was not officially timed.

Less than eight minutes after Zinn zoomed across the finish line to a perfect landing, John E. Carberry's arrival was timed by judges at 3:23.

Other planes reached the finish line as follows:

G. W. Brill, Monterey Park, Cal., 3:28; Alfred Stanley, El Mira, N. Y., 3:37; Eugene Detmer, Tarrytown, N. Y., 3:42; A. H. Krieder, Hagerstown, Md., 3:43; Sebastian L. Abilene Awaiting West Texas Flies

PORT WORTH, Sept. 7. (AP)—As Abilene, Texas, awaits in less than a week the Trans-Continental Race, speed across the white alk finish line here today seventh on the lap from Kansas City to Port Worth to be surrounded by a throng of friends eager to see Louis E. Derryberry, Abilene, and Pete Chavella, Port Worth, mechanic.

Still a more enthusiastic reception awaits the flyers when they reach Abilene, a meeting point on the westward trek to Los Angeles, tomorrow.

Tears and smiles mingled in the face of Mrs. Chevalier as she embraced her husband for the first time since the airplane which started their race to span the continent.

Chevalier Saves Plane. How Chevalier's presence of mind during "Miss Abilene" during the day of the race was related by Derryberry shortly after the men climbed out of the cockpit.

The gasoline line became broken as the ship was over the Allegheny Mountains, the pilot said, in a glance at the country below he saw nothing but mountains and rugged slopes that made him get out of the cockpit.

To continue with the broken line seemed an impossibility, but Chevalier solved the problem. Seizing the severed line, he held it in together for several minutes, the strain racked his arm with pain, but sufficient gasoline was fed to the engine to enable Derryberry to get the plane over the ridge to a safe landing in an open field at the base of the mountains, where repairs were made.

AGREEMENT REACHED Tentative Settlement Is Reported In Wage Fight

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 7. (AP)—A statement that a "tentative agreement had been reached" on the proposed specialization plan, but conditional upon restoration of the old wage scale, was issued tonight after a two hour conference between representatives of the manufacturers association, the citizens' mediation committee and the conference committee of the textile union.

The statement added that the wage question would be submitted to a committee by the manufacturers.

Robinson Declares Prohibition Is Not Issue In Campaign

Arkansas Senator Strikes at Hoover's Utterances On Prohibition In Talk In Tennessee.

(By Associated Press) CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 7. Herbert Hoover's utterances on prohibition were fired on tonight by Senator Robinson, who declared the republican standard bearer could have "readily relieved the subject of any ambiguity by a frank statement such as has been made by Governor Smith."

The democratic vice presidential nominee said that "national prohibition had not been made an issue by either the republican or democratic platforms, as both declared for enforcement of existing laws on the subject and that Mr. Hoover's reference to the 'subject of modification requires explanation.'"

Defining his own position on prohibition as a supporter of "all important prohibition measures brought forward during my services in both houses of congress," Robinson said Hoover in replying to questioning cut last winter to prospective candidates by Senator Borah of Idaho, had declared against repeal of the Eighteenth amendment, but "omits all reference to the question of modification."

"Ample opportunity was afforded Mr. Hoover to make clear his meaning in his speech of acceptance. The general consensus of opinion seems to be that he failed to do this. His reference to the subject of modification requires explanation."

Referring to Governor Smith's telegram to the Houston convention, the senator said that there was "nothing ambiguous, equivocal or evasive" in that utterance.

Robinson also pronounced tonight that the democratic party, if placed in power, would make immediate disposition of the muscle shoals problem.

tion in the advancement of world peace." Hoover said. "The arrival home of Secretary Kellogg after the signing of his great treaty for the renunciation of war at once demonstrates this is not the case. Secretary Kellogg has accomplished a magnificent step toward world peace by the renunciation of recourse to war for the solution of international controversies."

WHI Affect All Future Policies. "The secretary has brought about a new era in international relations which will affect all future international relations."

"The early return of Secretary Hughes also brings to mind the tremendous accomplishments of the Washington arms conference."

"To this may well be added the solution of reparations through the commission headed by General Dawes."

"These three contributions point to this administration as having accomplished the greatest steps toward international peace since the signing of the peace treaty ending the great war."

Hoover's statement was made at the end of another busy day of interviewing callers and waiting on his Newark, N. J., speech. His visitors included Nathan C. Frank of St. Louis, who brought the best news from Missouri that the republican candidate has received. This was that Frank had turned a deaf ear to importunities of his friends that he run as an independent candidate for the senate in November and would whole heartedly support the entire republican ticket.

Another caller at headquarters was Mrs. Frank M. Mann, Huntington, W. Va., former democratic national committeewoman, who declared she intended to work for the election of Hoover.

Southern Women for Hoover. "In the last month I have been in the Virginia, the Carolina, New York and New Jersey," she said, "and I have found Hoover sentiment among women very strong."

Hoover indicated today his address at Elizabethton, Tenn., would be non-partisan in nature. The subject of his New York speech has not yet been determined and he has not fixed a time for delivery of the address he contemplates making in New England. Although considerable pressure has been brought upon the candidate to expand his speaking program, it still remains at the four speeches he set for himself a week ago.

It was learned today that Gov. Moody expects to devote much of his speech to a summary of reasons why dry democrats should support Governor Smith instead of Herbert Hoover, the republican nominee. Mr. Moody's view was represented as being that regarding the Governor Smith's personal attitude on prohibition, the main responsibility for maintaining it rests with Congress.

Among those who called on Governor Moody today was C. C. Renfro, of Dallas, who was secretary of the Texas unincorporated delegation club before Governor Smith was nominated. Renfro, who saw the Governor only briefly, said, however, that he did not discuss politics with the Governor. He was here on another matter.

and three cold water on speculation that he would discuss prohibition at Milwaukee. From Milwaukee, Smith will return to New York for the democratic state convention at Rochester, October 1 and 2, then without much delay will set out on another tour, the direction and extent of which is still to be determined.

May Visit In South. Governor Smith and his advisers are considering the advisability of having him invade the solid South for a speech or two, but it is regarded improbable that he will first time before election day to make a quick swing to the Pacific Coast for speeches in Hoover's home state of California.

In the final days of the campaign, the democratic standard bearer intends to cover ground in the Middle West-Northern Atlantic seaboard states and New England.

As he passes through the country Governor Smith plans to conduct a "meeting and greeting" campaign from theater of his special train, but abstains from open-air speeches.

Widespread radio net works are planned for all of the democratic nominee's appearances, and he has been assured that his words in each instance will be carried from coast to coast.
