Gary Gregory Returns From Boys State

Gary Gregory, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Gregory, returned last week from a "very interesting" trip to American Legion Boys State, which was held in Austin.

A total of 785 high school boys from all parts of Texas, and two from Mexico, registered for the event.

Following registration, each citizen was assigned to one of two political parties - the Nationalist or Federalist. Each citizen then functions as member of his party, he attends its precinct, county and state conventions and votes in its primary.

In Boys State, The American Legion provides the type of program where the young citizen has the opportunity to learn for himself that his government is just what he makes it. The boy "learns to do by doing."

Highlight of Boys State was a trip to the Capitol on Friday morning where each elected Boys State Official was given an opportunity to serve in his respective office for a day, followed by the Governor's Ball Friday evening.

Boys State enrollment this year brings the total to 14,939 junior high school boys who have attended since 1940, when Boys State was first inaugurated in Texas.

Olton Twirlers Attending Camp

Three young ladies from Olton High School are attending twirlers camp this week at Stephen F. Austin State University.

D'Lyle Wilks, Margaret Galloway and Marsha Parker enrolled in the special classes, but the fourth member of the group, Cynthia Elkins, was unable to attend because of knee surgery.

Local Lions Name 'Lion Of The Year'

The Olton Lions Club installed new officers Monday night at their annual Ladies Night ceremonies.

James Gallagher was installed as president and Melvin Rape as first vice president and named Lion of the Year. The Lion of the Year award is determined by secret balloting among the members of the club.

Steve Haliburton, as secretary, will keep the club records, and Larry Digby will try to keep track of the money as treasurer.

Leon Noack and Bill Langston will become members of the club's board of directors, joining hold-over members Doug Goen and Walter Struve.

Basil Sherman was named "Lion Tamer" for the coming year, and Jim Hyatt and Delmer Givens will share duties as new "Tail Twisters".

New officers were installed by District Governor Clyde Schneider.

Perfect attendance awards were presented by deputy district governor Fred Hubbard to Louis Hair, 14 years; K. Y. Givens and George Redinger, 12 years; Andy Andrew and Jim Hyatt, seven years; Melvin Rape and Russell Strain, five years; G. H. Bley and Bob Duncan, four years; James Gallagher, two years; and Mike

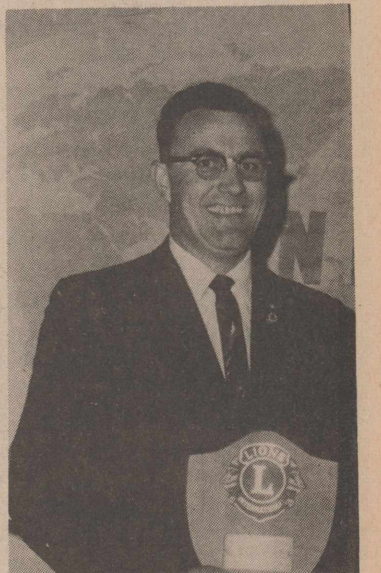

Smith and Denver Offield, one year.

The club's out-going president, Russell Strain presented the in-coming president with a president's pin and Mrs. Bob Duncan was given a certificate for her service to the club in the past for serving on decorating committees.

A past president's plaque and pin was presented to Lion Strain by new Lion Boss Gallagher.

Gary Gregory gave a report on his trip to Boys State in Austin, which the local club sponsored. He said it had been a very meaningful week, one he would always remember and expressed his appreciation to the club for making it possible for him to attend.

Joining the club for her first official meeting was the new Lions Queen, Miss JoEllen Spain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Spain.

OUTGOING LION BOSS Russell Strain proudly shows off his plaque which was presented to him by the new Lion Boss James Gallagher during annual Ladies Night ceremonies Monday night.

SENSING THE NEWS

By Thurman Sensing

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

Of all the sham techniques in the liberal-leftist bag, nothing is more shabby than the endless references to "the kids," meaning the campus demonstrators and protesters.

In the first place, the radicalized element in the country isn't made up of children -- the group to which the label "the kids" truly belongs. We have today in this country a new class of professional or permanent students, as Latin America has had for generations. Many of today's militant "students" are in their late twenties, thirties or even forties. University fellowships and grants are so abundant that shrewd, once-young people manage to hang around college and university campuses for years and years. They "study" revolution and disruption while millions of other Americans, who have to work for a living, are employed in offices, in factories and on the farms of the nation.

These "old" youths affect the wears and manners and dress of college students and speak in a special jargon that is supposed to be youthful. The cult of youth is carefully developed by many individuals whose own youth has long since passed. This kind of posing is tragic in a sense and also hurtful and misleading, for it involves deceit.

Then, too, this element with its artful poses also has produced a new breed of sympathetic commentator whose endlessly repeated slogan is "youth". Nothing is more absurd than the over-age TV commentator attired in extreme "mod" fashion and whose thinning hair is dressed by a youth stylist.

The liberal-leftist references to "the kids" are deliberate and purposeful. They are aimed at promoting the idea that there are two Americas with utterly different sets of values -- the young Americans who want radical change and the middle-age and older Americans who allegedly represent a dying society. One hears this theme stressed on television all the time. It is what has been called the Big Lie technique.

The condition of anarchy facing some parts of the country today isn't the result of American youth turning its back on America. Actually, the current disorders have their roots in the old radicalism of the '40s '50s and '60s. Many of the planners of contemporary protests are men and women who have been involved in communist and fellow-traveling organizations since the 1930s.

David Dellinger, one of the notorious "Chicago 7," is one of these individuals. As for the doctrines of the New Left, these are Russian anarchist and nihilist notions first enunciated a century ago in Czarist times. The New Left hasn't turned up a single really new social or philosophical doctrine.

What is so wrong and misleading about the use of the term "the kids" is that it suggests all American young people belong in the radicalized camp. Some of them are in that camp, especially the affluent protesters who can afford to attend Ivy League schools and travel around the country to various trouble spots, using credit cards supplied by permissive parents.

But millions of young people -- the real youth of America -- believe in the national ethic of work, saving, home ownership, a happy marriage, and service to community and nation. You don't read about these responsible "kids" in LOOK MAGAZINE. You don't find them getting the attention of TIME or LIFE or the TV networks. Almost all the space and network time are reserved for the kooks, the haters, and the destructionists.

The liberal pundits aren't interested in the example of youth achievers, young businessmen who are creating new enterprises. They would rather talk in sympathetic terms about those who threaten to burn down everything if they don't get their way.

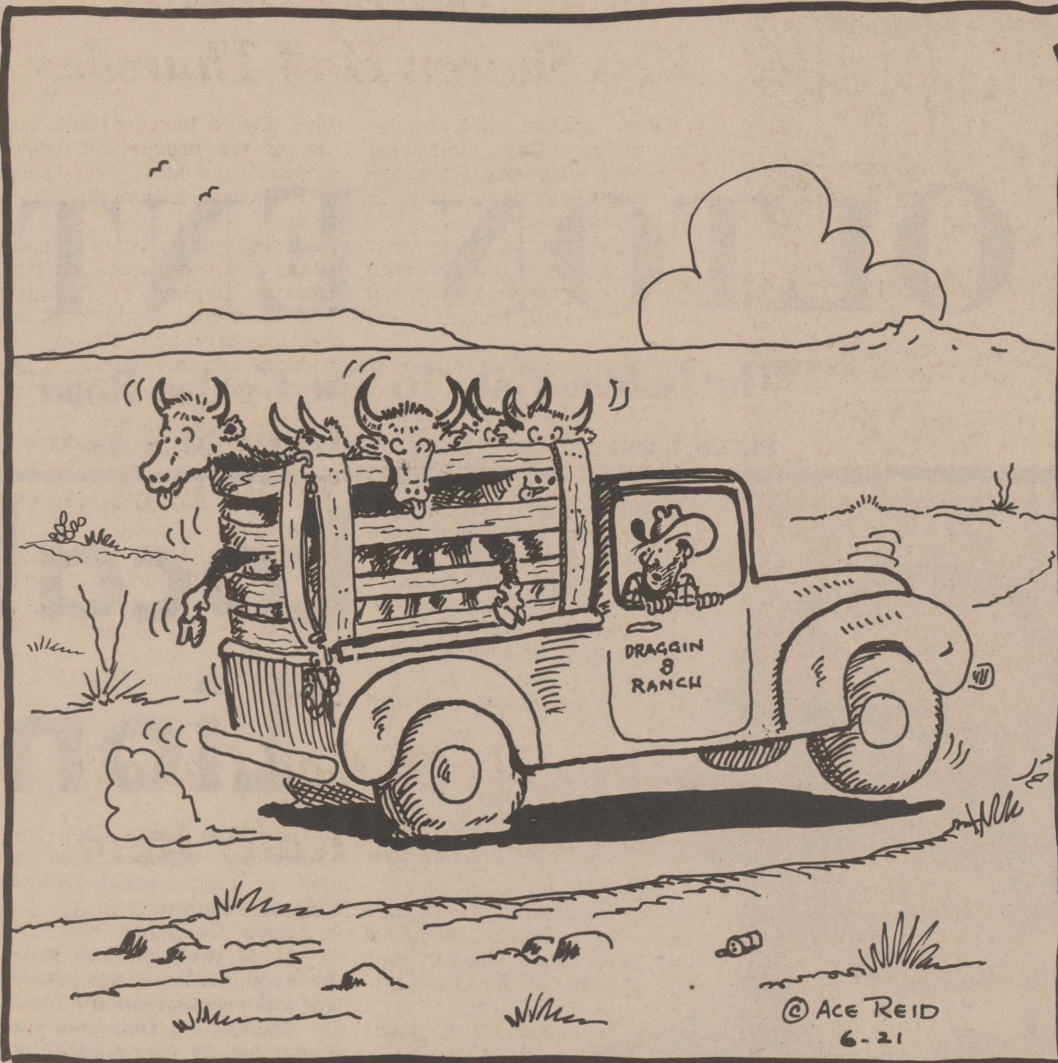

Ask yourself how many interviews you have seen on TV with young construction workers marching in support of the President? How many interviews have been taped showing patriotic "Strike Back" students on campus who back their country and who oppose closing down universities?

How much attention is given to young people generally who believe in the American system, who embody its fine values and who stand up for America? The truth is that the liberals don't want to talk about these "kids." The liberals are engaged in a conspiracy of silence against young people who promote a sane society based on free enterprise and constitutional government.

The liberal technique is to lavish attention on the young SDS members and ignore the young people who believe in their country. It's time the public spoke up when the liberals start their deceptive talk about "the kids" -- their own special variety, that is.

Tall Texoma Tale

(Editor's Note: Lindsay Dennis brought this clipping from the Gainesville Register, back from his recent fishing trip. We hear that it is supposed to be true and we also heard that Lindsay didn't bring any fish home.)

An area fisherman was cruising about Lake Texoma recently, looking for a likely place to wet a hook.

He was buzzing along in his boat and upon rounding a bend in the lake was amazed to see a fellow in an innertube far out in deep water. The innertube fisherman seemed to be moving around as if he had some source of power.

The boater moved on down the lake and started to fish, but he couldn't keep his eyes off the man in the innertube. The innertube rider continued to move about in the water with amazing speed.

Finally, the guy with the unseen power motioned for the boater to come to his aid.

When the boater arrived, he found that the innertube rider was battling to subdue a fish... a fish so large that it had pulled the man into deep water and was providing that "unseen" power which was moving him about so rapidly.

With the boater's help, the angler brought in a huge catfish that later weighed in at 38 pounds!

Don't know what that fisherman would have done had not the boater arrived on the scene. He might still be out there, for no true blue angler would willingly surrender to a fish that big.

Sue's Views

Fat And Forty

BY SUE CANNON

Fat and Forty!
I've heard this expression many times during my life---and now I am THERE!!
Seems like everyone in Olton already knows it so there is no secret about my age anymore.
Monday night at Lions Ladies Night, before they got into the business at hand, Lion Boss Russell Strain said that he had learned that June the fifteenth was something more than the date of Ladies Night and the installation of the new officers. He had been told that it meant something more to one of the guests...and I thought "Oh, No!"

But, true, true! I was right. Russell asked me if I would stand and the Lions joined by their ladies, sang Happy Birthday!
Somebody was one more big blabber-mouth! I'm not calling any names, but a gal with initials G. T. that works at a local grocery store got a kick out of it!
And to be real honest, I thought it was kinda nice to be remembered on my fortieth birthday.

The girls at the office, of course, always remember my birthday and we had an extra celebration this year since Janet Roden's birthday was the next day. So we just had a double celebration Tuesday.

I don't mind being forty, just didn't want to get forty quite this soon. Time is getting away much too fast.
Being forty is bad enough.. but being fat and forty is too much!

Now, for a nice subject. It'll soon be Father's Day and I, among others, will be thinking of dear old Dad and wondering how in the world he ever put with me for all these years.

I asked him last Sunday if he was going to be caught up with his farming enough to come down next Sunday and let me fix Father's Day dinner for him and he said he didn't think he'd ever get caught up again.

So I just may fool him and go up there and eat with him!

The following little item was given to me by Margaret Burrus, who is always finding goodies, so I'll share it with you.

A SUCCESSFUL DAD

I may never be as clever, As my neighbor down the street; I may never be as wealthy, As some other men I meet; I may never have the glory, That some other men have had; But I've got to be successful, As a little fellow's Dad. There are certain dreams I cherish, That I'd like to see come true; There are things I would accomplish, Ere my working day is through; But the task my heart is set on, Is to guide a little lad; And to make myself successful, As that little fellow's Dad. I may never come to glory; I may never gather gold; Men may count me as a failure, When my business life is told; But if he who follows after, Shall be manly, I'll be glad; For I'll know I've been successful, As that little fellow's Dad. It's the one job that I dream of; It's the task I think of most; If I'd fail that growing youngster, I'd have nothing else to boast; For though wealth and fame I'd gather, All my future would be sad, If I failed to be successful, As that little fellow's Dad!

NEW COSMETIC
Another new cosmetic for the look of the '70s is a face glazer that's totally transparent. It tints without texture, creating weightless color. You can see clear through it. The glazer makes for a natural, fresh blush of color that no face should be without.

MRS. ROBERT JOEL NELSON

Nelson-Givens Vows Pledged In Methodist Church Friday

Wedding vows were solemnized Friday evening in the First United Methodist Church for Miss Ida Myrtle Givens and Robert Joel Nelson.

The Rev. Tommy E. Nelson, father of the groom, directed the double ring ceremony before an altar flanked with candelabras entwined with greenery and garden baskets of Majestic daisies. The altar table was laid with a white cloth and greenery and held a Bible on a pedestal and a memory candle with yellow and white streamers.

Mrs. Delmer Givens presented organ selections and accompanied Mrs. Ken Splawn of Ralls as she sang, "Twelfth of Never," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length Victorian gown of white silk organza, accented with daisy patterned Venise lace. The fitted bodice featured long lantern sleeves gathered to lace cuffs and a satin sash defined the waistline. The controlled skirt was complemented by a sheer train sweeping to chapel length.

Her silk illusion veil was a circle mantilla with daisy edge. She carried a bouquet of white Marguerite daisies surrounding a white orchid atop a white Bible.

For the traditional "something new", she wore a pearl necklace, a gift of the groom. "Something old and borrowed" was the Bible which belonged to the groom's mother, a gift for her ninth birthday and carried at her wedding.

She wore the traditional blue garter, a gift of Mrs. Ralph Campbell. She wore a bracelet which was a gift from her foreign sister, Sunee Saehow of Thailand. She carried pennies coined in the years of her birth and the groom's.

Miss Connie Hall was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Brenda Leonard of Hart Camp, Lajuana Burleson of Edmonson and Kay Givens, sister of the bride.

They wore formal length princess styled dresses of yellow linen designed with Empire bodices and puff sleeves. Yellow-centered white daisies accented the high waistlines and they wore a headband of daisies. They carried clusters of Marguerite daisies tied with yellow ribbon.

Freddy Temme of Amarillo was best man. Groomsman were Steve Spain, Johnny Cameron of Amarillo, cousin of the groom, and Eddie Nelson, brother of the groom.

Candles were lighted by Mike Cameron of Amarillo, cousin of the groom, and Timmy Nelson, brother of the groom.

Kayla Martin was flower girl and Steve Hasha, ring-bearer.

Guests were seated by Mike Parsons, Cecil Oursbourn, Steve Stockdale and David Milstead of Plainview, cousin of the bride.

Miss Virginia Milstead of Plainview, cousin of the bride, registered guests.

A reception followed in fellowship hall. The bride's table was laid with a white net cloth over yellow and centered with slender yellow tapered in a white candelabra centered in an arrangement of daisies.

The traditional three tiered wedding cake was decorated with yellow rosebuds and topped with a miniature bride and groom in a cathedral setting.

Presiding at the bride's table were Mrs. Johnny Stone, Miss Sharon Hendrix and Miss Virginia Milstead. Members of the houseparty were Mmes. Elmo Hasha, Marie Milstead, Joe Hall and Charles Shipley.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Givens wore a three piece suit of beige knit with camel tan accessories. The groom's mother wore a blue knit suit with navy accessories.

Each wore an orchid corsage. The bride changed to a yellow linen coat dress fashioned with a dog-eared collar and gold buttons for a wedding trip to Red River, N. M. She added white accessories and an orchid corsage lifted from the bridal bouquet.

A 1970 graduate of Olton High School, the bride will attend McMurry College this fall and major in elementary education.

The groom attended Olton High School and was a 1969 summer graduate of Plainview High School. He is a sophomore at McMurry with a major in history. He is employed with Robert Dennis Construction.

Guests were registered from Waco, Andrews, Amarillo, Canyon, Ralls, Abilene and Littlefield.

July 14 is the date set for the county dress revue to be held at the Community Center in Littlefield at 2:30 p. m. Records and garments will be judged in the morning and the public revue will be in the afternoon. All girls from 9 to 19 are eligible to make any type garments they are capable of making and the highest scoring Senior and Junior girl will participate in the district revue July 28 in Lubbock.

Frozen Food Suggestions Given By Clare Phillips

Your food freezer is not a bank, so don't put foods in and expect them to draw interest, advises Lady Clare Phillips, county home demonstration agent.

Foods get not better with age; in fact, there is bound to be some loss in quality. But a food freezer is something like a bank in at least one respect. In both cases, you need records. Listing what is in a package, along with the date you placed it in the freezer is fine but that is not enough. It would help greatly to have a written record that shows your deposits and withdrawals says Mrs. Phillips, speaking in banker's terms. A written record shows what is in the freezer and how long it has been there. Use the record when making the shopping list.

Use the freezer as often as possible. It is all too easy to "lose" packages of frozen food in the back or bottom of the freezer. Food thrown away because it was stored too long makes the food freezer an expensive kitchen item.

Everything But The Kitchen Sink

BY MOZELLE TROTTER

What a whirl! Who said summertime is idle time? I'm expecting to catch myself just anytime.

By the time you read this THE PLAY will be history. I hope you saw it. There's been an awful lot of hard work put into it - and if the audience thinks the auditorium gets warm, they should be on stage behind footlights!

We've had so much fun getting ready, tho. Everyone ought to try their fortune in the Little Theatre group. Who knows, you might end up on Broadway!

You know, there's something to be said for Dobbin! Dobbin didn't blow a radiator hose in 98 degree weather - he just plodded on.

Monday just wasn't my day. On the way to Hart Camp to meet the new residents we feature this week, trouble did befall me.

I had a nice cool hike down the road to phone for help. But that wasn't the end of the matter, oh no!

Going back to the car with Number One Son, later that afternoon, we had a blow out.

Dobbin wouldn't have done that either!

Oh, but, I'll take wheels anyway! I just like to complain. (Don't tell me I wasn't type cast in the play! There's that line when my niece Christine says, "I can't stand Aunt Sigrid, she's always whining and complaining." - So you see?)

Someone may be trying to tell me something, too.

I had my hair fixed in a "turn of the century" style and I've had all sorts of comments to the effect that "You ought to wear it that way all the time."

I've been loudly proclaiming for some time now that hemlines should go down but after practicing for the play in ankle length skirts, I sure want to be able to "holler when."

Local S.W.P.S. Manager Hosts Economic Research Study

An economic research study which reveals those industries best adapted to the communities in its service area has been prepared for Southwestern Public Service Company by Arthur D. Little, Inc., nationally-known management consulting and research organization.

The confidential information in the study is being made available to those communities in the electric company's service area which have a going program for industrial and area development. Members of the Olton Chamber of Commerce heard a presentation of the study by Melvin Rape, local manager for Southwestern Public Service Company and members of the area development department, at a meeting Thursday June 14, at Hamill's Restaurant.

Elvin Schofield with Southwestern's area development department in Amarillo told the local group that the study allows the electric company to sight in on target industries for this area, those which best utilize the natural, human and geographic resources of the region.

"We have developed a national advertising program, including direct mail and trade paper insertions, which will be aimed at those industries which the surveys show are most compatible to this region. We'll start with those with the most plus factors and work through the list," Schofield said.

Emphasizing the highly competitive nature of industrial and area development, Schofield urged the local industrial development team to make use of the information but to not broadcast it because much of the information in the study will apply to adjacent areas as well as the territory served by Southwestern Public Service Company.

"There's no sense in all of us working together to get this information, paying to have it put in usable form and then give it away. Most of the communities we serve helped compile

FARMERS PAY MORE FOR GOODS & SERVICES USED --

From 1957 to early 1970, the index of prices farmers pay for commodities, interest, taxes and wage rates increased 31 percent. Taxes were up to 129 percent, hired wage rates 81 percent, motor vehicles 35 percent, fertilizer 7 percent, and feed 6 percent to name a few. Thus, the cost-price squeeze continues to keep their earnings below those in other industries.

interested in industrial development what we are going to do as a result of the study and offering them the opportunity to integrate their efforts with ours. We are going to offer industries on the survey list anything and everything they want to know, including plant location studies. We want to get the communities and industries which match together, because that's what industrial development is all about," Schofield concluded.

A copy of the study is available in the local office of the Southwestern Public Service Company for use by the local industrial development team.

ROADRUNNERS

Roadrunners are members of the cuckoo family averaging about 22 inches in length - half of which is tail - and spend most of their lives on the ground running in search of food, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

FARMER EFFICIENCY & FOOD COSTS--

Consumers pay less for food because their farmer friends are producing 20 percent more on percent fewer acres than they did in the period from 1957-59. Each of the nation's farm workers is now supplying the food and fiber for 45 persons compared with 23 in 1957-59 and his output per man-hour has increased 83 percent over the past decade, reminds Extension Economist W. E. Black.

MRS. JIM BROWN

Cook Of The Week

Favorite recipes are shared this week by pretty Reita Brown, a farmer's wife who had spent just one night on a farm before her marriage to Jim in 1963.

Reita grew up in Lubbock but moved with her family to Plainview while she was still in high school. She attended Texas Tech and was a special education teacher until shortly before she and Jim were married.

Staying actively interested in things their children enjoy keeps Jim and Reita busy. Next summer, after Rusty completes the first grade, they will be trying to keep up with sons in three separate baseball leagues. This year they have the hectic fun of only two, with Martin in Pee Wee and Jerry in Little League.

Larry, the eldest, is in high school. Laurie, the only girl, enjoys her younger brothers' baseball and also shares their enthusiasm for fishing.

Reita has been a member of Bykota Study Club but resigned this summer because of the many activities of her busy family. A member of the United Methodist Church, she has been refreshment chairman for Vacation Church School for the past few years.

Aside from the interests of her family, Reita loves to read, play bridge and enjoys handicrafts. She made numerous box purses for Christmas gifts. She plans, perhaps after Rusty starts to school, to try painting.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Right To Attend Funeral

Within hours after her husband died, Grace received a long distance telephone call from his brother.

"Please hold off the funeral until I get there," he said.

But Grace made him no promises. In fact, the funeral was already over by the time the brother arrived. Shocked and angered, he filed a damage suit against Grace, demanding compensation for the mental anguish she had inflicted upon him.

However, the court turned down the brother's claim. Whatever his moral rights may be, said the court, he had no legal right to be present at the burial.

Generally speaking, the final "say" about a funeral belongs to the surviving spouse—or, in the death of a child, to the surviving parents. This includes not only choosing the place of burial, but also fixing the time for the proceedings.

Further, it includes even the method of burial. In one case, a farmer buried his infant son in a crude wooden box which he had put together himself. Indignant relatives and neighbors had him arrested on a charge of failing to provide a decent burial. However, a court found no basis for the charge.

"What would be regarded as entirely proper by one might be regarded as altogether unsuitable by another," said the judge. "No rule can well be formulated."

It may be a different story, however, when someone takes on an affirmative obligation to handle the funeral in a particular manner. This is the kind of obligation an undertaker owes toward his customer. Thus:

An undertaker went ahead with a burial before the family of the deceased had arrived at the cemetery. When the family later haled him into court, he pointed out that they had arrived after the appointed time. Nevertheless, he also conceded that the burial was not supposed to take place except in their presence.

Under these circumstances, the court ordered the undertaker to pay damages. The judge said: "(He) was guilty of a callous assault upon the sensibilities and feelings of the bereaved."

Aside from the possibility of nuclear conflict, hunger is probably the foremost problem of the world today. Approximately half of the world's 3.5 billion people suffer from malnutrition. The World Food Congress in 1963 was told that around 10,000 persons die every day of starvation. And the present outlook is that hunger will grow more and more intense with the passage of time.

The world's population increase is zooming along at almost 60 million souls per year. The population of the world reached the first billion by 1830, took only 100 years to reach 2 billion and only 30 more years, 1930 to 1960, to reach 3 billion. It is expected to pass 6 billion people by the turn of the century.

Almost every country in the world is searching, some desperately, for ways to increase agricultural production to feed its hungry people.

Meanwhile, in the U. S., where agriculture is using only about four-fifths of its productive capacity, consumers are enjoying the most sumptuous and varied diets in the history of the world. So it is not surprising that the urban population of this country scoffs at the possibility that the U. S. may not be immune to the problem of hunger.

But the idea may not be so far fetched, says Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. Johnson points out that the U. S. population is growing by leaps and bounds along with the rest of the world. The population in the U. S. increased from 13 million in 1830 to 123 million in 1930 and 179 million in 1960. It is now something over 200 million and expected to reach 300 million by 1990.

"That means the U. S. farmer in 1990 will be called upon to produce food and fiber for almost three people where he now produces for two," Johnson says, "and he will have to do it on considerably less land than is now available for cultivation."

Roads, cities and other non-farm uses for land are on the increase, eating up millions of acres of productive land each year. From 1944 to 1964 harvested cropland in the U. S. declined by 66 million acres.

Over and above population increases and reduced land area suitable for the production of agricultural commodities, Johnson continues, there must be people in the U. S. with the know-how and the incentive to feed and clothe the nation from the farm. He says "Farmers can only continue to produce food and fiber above their own needs so long as they have a means to recoup production costs and realize a return on capital investments in land and equipment."

The nature of farming is such that the farmer is in a perpetual "buyers market", without the marketing muscle to demand a fair price for his products. Consequently the market price of many major farm commodities is now and has been for many years well below the cost of production. And the continued availability of these commodities to consumers has been dependent on farm income being bolstered from another source.

"Fortunately for agriculture, the consumers and for the Nation, Congress has devised and enacted a series of programs to supplement farm income from public funds, Johnson and this reason alone U. S. agriculture and the U. S. diet is the envy of the world."

Now, however, there is danger that an urban-minded Congress either this year or sometime in the near future may kill this production incentive for farmers before a replacement has been found. "And when that happens, if it happens, it is not inconceivable that the population of the U. S. could feel the hunger pangs so well known to the people of so many other countries of the world," Johnson concludes.

Graham Tennessee Crusade Draws Over Half Million People

Evangelist Billy Graham closed his East Tennessee Crusade here Sunday afternoon, May 31, after 10 days of history making and highlights that included a visit by President Nixon and songs by Johnny Cash.

Well over a half million people filed into Neyland Stadium since May 22 to back a new team playing on the University of Tennessee's Tartan Turf. It's the same football field where the nationally acclaimed Volunteers have beaten some of the great teams of the country, but during these days there has not been an orange jersey in sight.

President and Mrs. Nixon flew into "orange country" early Thursday evening for a stopover at the Crusade while on their way to the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif. Approximately 100,000 people swelled the stadium area far past capacity in what was thought to be the largest crowd for any event in Tennessee history.

In delivering a 13-minute address from Graham's platform, the President received 14 ovations, one a full minute, from the vast majority in the sympathetic audience.

Evangelist Graham called the President's reception in East Tennessee "one of the greatest receptions I have ever seen given a President anywhere."

President Nixon told the vast sea of humanity that, "I can tell you America would not be what it is today, the greatest nation in the world, if this were not a nation which has made progress under God."

It was youth night at the Crusade and a high percentage of the audience were young people and students who jam-packed the stadium long before the 7:30 p. m. starting time. The President exhorted the young people toward spiritual things when he declared: "And if our young people are going to have a fulfillment beyond simply those material things, they must turn to those great spiritual resources that have made America the great country it is."

FROM SEYMOUR

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. True of Seymour visited Monday with Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Hackler. Mr. and Mrs. True are the parents of Riley True, the Hackler's son-in-law, who lives in Plainview.

Mr. Nixon's address here was history making too, as it was possibly the only time in American history that a President spoke from the platform of an evangelist.

About three hundred anti-war demonstrators, carrying signs which said, "Thou Shalt Not Kill," gathered in the east section of the stadium and shouted slogans throughout much of the service. Several minor incidents were reported, and some arrests were made.

Singer Johnny Cash, who has emerged as today's champion of the down-trodden and troubled, told last Sunday (May 24) of his experience with drugs and dramatically warned youth at the Crusade, "It ain't worth it."

Silence fell over the audience in the sun-drenched stadium, as the famed Western singer stood on the speaker's platform and said: "I'd like to ask the young people to take it from a man who's been there that knows what he's talking about."

"In plain everyday words, my young friends, it ain't worth it. There's a beautiful thrill and ecstasy that comes from some drugs the first time. But then as time goes by, and it only takes a short time, you cross that line between ecstasy and terror and that's where you stay -- on the terror, the horror side of that line."

"I escaped. I was lucky beyond measure. Don't try it. It ain't worth it."

Cash, earlier in a meeting with reporters, told of his Christian conversion experience as a 12-year-old boy in an Arkansas Baptist Church. He said that "However, lately I have been placing a new emphasis on the spiritual things of my life."

Appearing with Cash were the entire cast of his television show, including the Carter family, the Statler Brothers, and Carl Perkins and the Tennessee Three.

Cash and his group sang four songs including "The Old Account Was Settled Long Ago," and "What Is Truth?"

Some 42,000 people paused for 60 seconds of silent prayer Saturday afternoon for "the boys in Vietnam and Cambodia" in what was considered the largest Memorial Day ceremony held this year in the United States.

Color guards, representing the Army, Air Force, Navy, Marines, and Coast Guard, marched to the center of the field and presented the colors as the huge audience sang the National Anthem and repeated the Pledge of Allegiance led by UT's head football coach, Bill Battle. American flags waved throughout the observance.

Evangelist Graham who said he was "thrilled" by the service, personally called on the throng to pray for "the boys in Vietnam and Cambodia, that peace will come soon in this war which has gone on far too long, pray for the war prisoners, and wives of those men in prison...what agony they have gone through."

The evangelist's nightly sermons portrayed various subjects, most of them aimed toward young people. However, as a characteristic of his Crusades, Evangelist Graham stuck to basic ideas about Christ and salvation.

Many people have wondered why the Billy Graham Team would come to such a small populated area of the country—Knoxville population is about 170,000—but its decision to come here was well rewarded by the people of East Tennessee. The Crusade drew 45,000 people the opening night of the meeting was one of the largest Monday night crowds ever assembled to hear Dr. Graham. Some 55,000 were present.

Also, some 12,300 people marched across the green carpeted field to commit their lives to Jesus Christ.

This is the first time a Graham Crusade has been held in the center of a great university. Students live in the stadium dorm at the very site of the Crusade meetings. UT is the third largest university of the south, with nearly 25,000 students and thousands of them came to the services. Approximately 50 percent of those responding to the invitation were in the 13 to 25-year age bracket.

Four of the Crusade services will be carried on the largest Graham Crusade telecast in history. June 22-25 are the dates the Crusade will be shown throughout the United States and Canada, as well as other parts of the world. More people than at any previous time will have the opportunity to view this Crusade, according to Crusade officials.

Black Panther Changes Sides

While some clergymen and some educators — most notably Kingman Brewster, president of Yale University — have rushed to the support of the Black Panthers, many people are aware of the threat posed by this group.

"Clergymen quite rightly should be very active in establishing social justice," says William Sullivan, assistant director of the FBI. "... Does this mean, however, that they have to ... give support to an organization containing a band of criminals?"

An entirely different Christian approach to the Black Panthers is demonstrated in this account of an experience which Angela Radumas, a California college student, relates.

"Why Did You Smile?" "As I was about to enter my anthropology class," she says, "a tall, vicious-looking black grabbed my arm."

"Looking down at me, he asked, 'Why did you smile at me?'"

"I wasn't aware I had smiled, but apologized anyway. ... 'Why did you smile at me?' he pressed."

"The Holy Spirit prompted me to tell him about salvation through Jesus Christ."

"I have peace inside that all the money in the world can't buy," I said, trembling. ... I told him I had accepted Jesus Christ into my heart, had received forgiveness of sin, and that's why I am happy."

"Jesus, huh? Who is He?" he asked.

"I told him about Jesus being God's only begotten Son and how He came down from heaven to die on the cross for our sins."

"How can I get a hold of this Jesus?" he insisted. ...

FROM ARKANSAS

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Wood and their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Randy Wood and child of Glenwood, Ark. have been recent guests of the elder Wood's father, G. H. Wood.

"All you have to do is when you go home after school, get on your knees by your bed and ask Jesus to come into your heart," I answered. "You'll see the fantastic change that He will perform in your life."

"Can you help me get a hold of Jesus now?"

"We bowed our heads, and he repeated my prayer."

"Is that all?" he asked after we had said 'Amen.'"

"If you really meant what you said, Christ lives right inside your heart now," I answered. "You must read the Bible and communicate with the Lord so you can grow in Him."

His Face Shone

"Three days later, we met again. ...

"You don't know this, but I'm a Black Panther," he began. "And I was on the campus only to cause trouble. I don't even go to school here. We were having this big meeting at my pad, see, to discuss what damage we were going to do the next day at school."

"He related that when gang leaders gathered in his apartment, he announced that he couldn't go through with the plans. He explained about 'this white girl' who told him about Jesus and that she really believes what she was saying. ... He told them that he had accepted Christ as his Savior and that he couldn't go on living for the devil."

"He said some of his buddies jeered, but he stood firm. Others became curious and asked questions. ... So my Black Panther friend led three buddies to the Lord. His face shone as he told me this. ...

"A smile can do an awful lot. ... It turned a Black Panther to Christ."
