RAINEY'S PROGRAM FOR NEW TAXES INEQUITABLE; WOULD NOT STAND UP IN COURTS

—BEAUFORD JESTER.

SAN ANGELO, Aug. 14. — Hon. P. Rainey's tax program is unconstitutional and would be so declared by any court in the land, Beauford Jester charged in speeches at several West Texas towns Tuesday.

Lashing harder at Rainey than he has in either the first primary or the runoff, Jester, himself an attorney, declared that his opponent's proposal to have out-of-state corporations pay millions of dollars in taxes while not imposing the same tax on Texans is inequitable and therefore unconstitutional.

"Any lawyer in the world will tell you that the first requisite of any tax law is that it be equitable," Jester said at Sweetwater. "When my opponent suggests that a tax on gas, oil and sulphur imposed ONLY UPON FOREIGN CORPORATIONS will raise the money to pay for his experiments in government he is sponsoring illegal program."

Jester charged Rainey's taxation program was designed only as vote-getting material.

"My opponent has advocated abandoning the ad valorem tax and substituting levies upon gas, oil and sulphur ever since he started campaigning," Jester said.

"It sounds fine, but we have an intelligent electorate in Texas. It cannot be fooled. That is attested by the fact that only 25 per cent of the voters in the state went for my opponent in the first primary. "And remember this, my friends, any tax, and I do not care what kind it is, is ultimately paid by the people themselves."

Jester declared he was unqualified opposed to lifting the ad valorem tax.

"The railroad, the King ranch and other big businesses would profit by such a move as is advocated by my opponent," Jester declared.

And that gave Jester an opportunity to explain why he decided to tread the people's path. "During my almost four years as Railroad Commissioner I found that the big interests are well taken care of by their agents, who flock into the state capital."

"The people need a representative in the governor's chair. The farmers, the ranchers, cattlemen, merchants, professional people and unorganized labor need aid in our state government and I intend to give them that assistance."

At Sweetwater, where Jester was making a bid for the votes which allowed Jerry Sadler to carry Nolan county with Jester second in the first primary, Jester paid high tribute to Harley Sadler, state representative who campaigned for Sadler.

"Harley knows my program is sound and I refer you to him," Jester told the crowd while standing in the hot sun on the courthouse lawn. Jerry Sadler announced Monday that he was supporting Mr. Rainey.

After being introduced here by Ed Blanton, printing plant owner, Jester lashed at the Ku Klux Klan. "All my life I have fought on the side of right in battle against intolerance and prejudice whether these ugly emotions were turned against one man or many, whether because of race, religion, creed or beliefs," he said.

"I opposed most actively the Ku Klux Klan operations in the American Legion in the early 1920s, when there really was a Klan in Texas. "When that organization tried to take control of the American Legion in Texas, I carried the fight to the Ku Kluxers and I had the assistance of my good friends, Myron Blalock, Wright Armstrong, Mark McGee and A. F. Mitchell."

Ranger Plans Four Big Nights of Rodeo, August 21-24

The city of Ranger's first annual World's Champion Rodeo, sponsored by the Junior chamber of commerce of that city, will hold four big nights, beginning August 21 and concluding the night of August 24.

Joe Dennis of the Ranger Times headed an advertising caravan that visited Cisco this morning. Mr. Dennis called at the Daily Press office and extended an invitation to all Cisconians to drive over and see the big show on at least one night.

Mr. Dennis stated that Gov. Coke R. Stevenson will be present and lead the big parade on opening night. The governor will also dedicate the new $30,000 stadium, Mr. Dennis added.

More than $2,000 in prizes will be awarded in the rodeo contests, it was said.

CIVIL SERVICE CHEESE-CAKE — The White House News Photographers will have fun at their annual exhibit in Washington. Here one member takes picture of Alice Harrison, Tulsa, Oklahoma, a clerk in the office of Sen. Elmer Thomas. Each member must present an exhibit.

HOME COMING COMMITTEES WIN PRAISE

The first annual Cisco Homecoming wound up three days of visiting and entertainment with a barbecue at Lake Cisco park Wednesday night, attended by about 1,500 people. Despite the heat and the fact that a number of hitches occurred in the program that was Cisco's first attempt at such a celebration, the program was a definite success.

At least 500 former residents of Cisco returned to their old home to renew acquaintances and to refresh memories of days that are past. Some of them came from many hundreds of miles.

The significant fact is that despite the novelty of the celebration and the lack of any experience in developing programs of the character in Cisco, the program generally went off in a very smooth fashion.

This was a tribute to the planning of the committees in charge, headed by Dr. C. E. Paul, and the efficient direction of the various activities — notably the registration in charge of Mrs. Sutton Crofts; the bathing revue in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Starr; the golf tournament in charge of J. L. Thornton, N. C. Houston, Dr. Paul Woods; the barbecue in charge of the Lions club committee headed by E. G. Dameron; the kiddies' bathing revue in charge of Mrs. L. C. Heltzel; the parade Monday morning at 10 o'clock in charge of a Rotary club committee headed by Ernest Hittson and the old fiddlers' contest.

Largest attendance during the program was at the bathing revue Monday night, when more than 5,000 people were present. The revue was praised as one of the most attractive, the best staged and the most fairly conducted of any similar program that was ever held here.

Thirty-three girls were entered in the senior revue and 30 tots in the tot revue. Miss Jo Ann Scott won first place in the senior revue; she represented Home Supply Co.

Miss Frances Ann Eubank of Ranger, Miss Mary Gene Smith of Eastland and Miss Zovelle Cagle of Laguna Hotel of Cisco, won second, third and fourth places, respectively.

Arthur Grist, 50 Years a Ciscoan, Was 84 Monday

Arthur Grist, splendid citizen of Cisco for more than 50 years, attained his 84th birthday Monday. He was in the hardware business here for many years. The aged but still hale and hearty man was tendered a birthday dinner in the home of his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Grist, and was also honored with a dinner Sunday by his daughter, Mrs. Lillie Bryant.

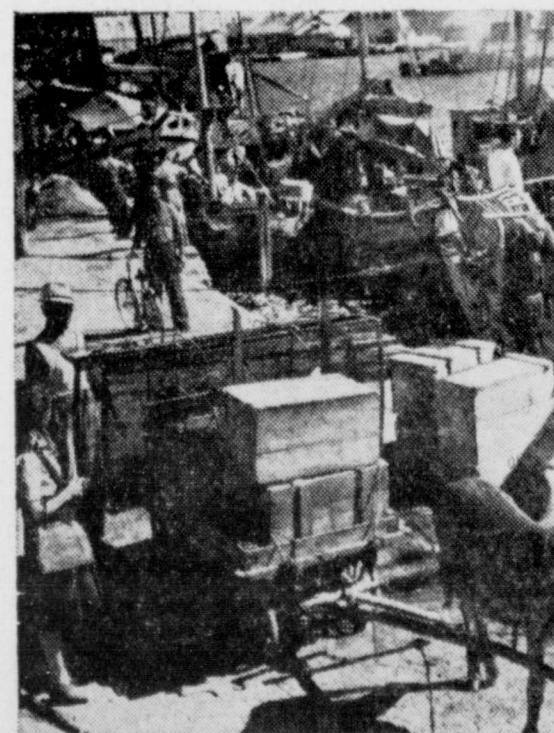

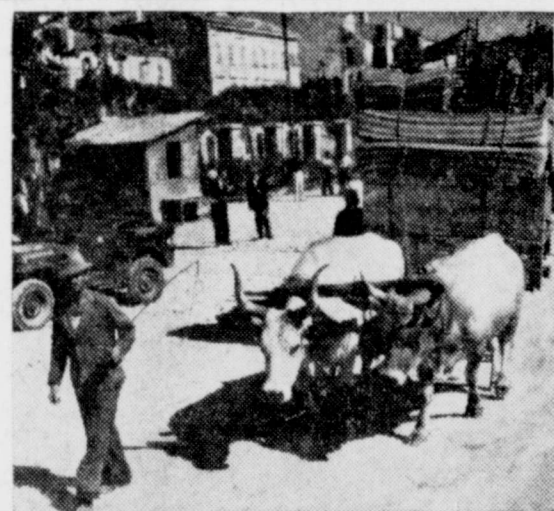

Relatives present on these occasions were his daughters, Mrs. E. V. Ellis of Sweetwater and Mrs. Airhart and her niece Miss Ava Mae Airhart of Big Spring; and Mrs. Lillie Bryant of Dallas.

Sunday afternoon Mr. Grist and other members of the family were invited to the home of their neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. Schaefer, where birthday cake and ice cream were served in his honor.

MONEY IN TREASURY.

There was no set program at today's Lion luncheon, most of the time being devoted to the successful Homecoming celebration just ended. Dr. C. E. Paul, club president and general chairman of the Homecoming event, reported money left in the treasury for next year's celebration. The opinion of all Lions was that the celebration was a fine success. Guests present included W. W. Eddleman, Eastland; Roy Moses, Sinton; E. H. Richardson, Ft. Worth; L. E. Spiller, San Antonio; T. E. Edmondson, El Paso; R. A. Davis, Paducah; Spec Tompkins and W. W. Fewell, Cisco.

FLEEING THE ISTRIAN PENINSULA—When the Paris Big Four Conference ruled that Pola, in the Istrian Peninsula of Venezia Giulia would be turned over to Yugoslavia for administration and control many families became alarmed and returned to the Italian mainland—bag and baggage. The trip is made either by boat or train through Trieste. Here are shown those preparing to make journey by water, the most common mode of travel. While more expensive by vessel—$150 for family of three—train trip entails a wait of from three to four weeks.

Oxdrawn cart, upper left, hauls the furniture of one family to the dock. All forms of locomotion are employed. An Italian girl, center, halts her bicycle to have her papers checked by Venezia Giulia policeman. An Italian family, bottom, supervises the loading of their possessions prior to departure. The day is a sad one for many an old-timer of the peninsula. Mrs. Salma Reinori, 58, right, sits atop her baggage looking back at the village of Pola where she was born and lived all her life. She is headed for Venice with her five daughters. Photos by Leo Stoecker. Acme staff photographer.

EATING CAKE.

At least part of Secretary Byrnes' troubles in the Council of Foreign Ministers are due to the American people. As Anne O'Hare McCormick truly says in the New York Times, "When Americans demand in one breath that their government take a firm stand on principle and in the next that the bulk of our forces be withdrawn from Europe, they should not complain of unsatisfactory compromises. We cannot stand and move away at the same time."

It is the old story of wanting to have your cake and eat it too.

STRANGER THAN FICTION.

Writers of mystery tales have often been accused of "just making up stuff that couldn't possibly be true" but the late E. Phillips Oppenheim in his best flight of fancy never made up any story more bizarre than that of the Canadian passports, revealed in the recent Canadian espionage trials.

In the Spanish civil war many American and Canadian volunteers fought with the Spanish republicans, who wanted a free government of free men under their own law, instead of virtual slavery under a dictator who was playing with Hitler and using the prestige of an ancient regime and an ancient church organization to enforce his own ends.

Many of these brave and devoted volunteers died in action. Their passports were stolen, and some of them found their way into the hands of the Russian secret police. One of these stolen passports, traced through some 22 pages of the Royal Commission's report, belonged to a Polish-Canadian. This one got to Moscow and was used as basis for identification of an important agent who worked in the United States as well as in Canada.

Thus truth once more proves stranger than fiction.

CAPTIVE EAGLE.

Yesterday he was blood brother to an eagle.

Setting his course by white and winging stars.

Today he racks bread loaves in a market basket.

And sells green summer captured in tins and jars.

A pencil behind his ears, he wears an apron.

And clutches an invoice to check the orders by.

He weighs hamburger, frowns when he remembers.

That his silver wings once curved the lupine sky.

And yet, sometimes when he hears a motor's thunder,

His head lifts quickly, his eyes are hurt and proud;

Then his eager heart goes out from his duty-bound body

And streaks away on a crimson sunset cloud.

—Alma Robinson Higbee, in the Rotarian.

ated in the presence of immediate relatives and a few close friends.

Music was furnished by Mrs. Williams, church organist, who accompanied Mrs. Joe I. Patterson, vocalist, as she sang "I Love You Truly;" she also played the traditional wedding marches and played "Always" softly during the ceremony.

The bride wore a becoming blue print silk crepe dress with corsage of white gardenias.

Following the wedding, guests were invited into the dining room for refreshments. The table, overlaid with a lovely lined cloth, held a centerpiece of pretty seasonal flowers. Some Inside Facts You Ought to Know About Bill --

The Abilene Committee for Bill Blanton for Congress, requested Bill's father to make a statement giving some inside facts about Bill, and the following is the Statement:

Bill Blanton has managed his own campaign for Congress, and would not allow me to take any part in it. But being an old-timer, I will tell other old-timers some inside facts about Bill, which he has been too modest to relate himself.

Bill is a far better lawyer than his dad, although I work ten hours each day in the same suite of offices in which I began practicing law in 1897. Bill is a far better judge than his dad ever was, although from 1909 to 1917, I presided over all of the District Courts then in the Counties of Taylor, Callahan, Eastland, Stephens and Shackelford, and kept dockets clean. Bill is a far better fighter than his dad, because he has had a world-wide sphere with the U. S. Army in India and Burma, where at any moment for two years he could have lost his life to wily Japs and other poisonous reptiles.

Bill has better judgment than his dad, is not impulsive like his dad, refrains from making people angry at him, has more patience, is far more forebearing, has more tireless energy, and has a smile and good word for all opponents, which unfortunately his dad did not have, and he has no enemies. When Bill resigned his office of County Judge to enter the U. S. Army, I begged him to let me get him a commission from my War Department friends in Washington who knew him, but he vehemently refused, and made me promise him that I would never request any favor for him, as he wanted to enter as a buck private, carry his pack, march on hikes, and take all the burdens that other boys were taking. With his qualifications I could have gotten him a high commission.

Bill knows the ins and outs of Congress and of Washington, though he was never on any pay-roll there. He is acquainted with Congressional procedure. He is already personally acquainted with many Congressmen and Senators, and will be able to get desirable committee assignments. He knows how to get prompt attention and action for all constituents when they call on him.

Bill is absolutely dependable, and all of you old-timers may count on him and you have my assurance that you will never regret having had a part in sending him to Congress. I know that he will make a much better congressman than his dad did, because he won't make any of his dad's mistakes, and Bill can hold his own with all of the other 434 Congressmen in the constant debates which daily occur on the floor of the House.
