Decorate Walls Fireplaces, Dens

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
Old houses are fun to own if you are a do-it-yourself type or can afford to hire someone to make the necessary improvements. But it can be frustrating when the budget keeps a good decorating plan from being carried out.
Here's a letter with a wall problem that is not a rarity in an old house:
"We bought an old house and the only drawback is the walls. I had dreams of papering the bedrooms in Bay Colonial patterns, but wall paperers discouraged me because of our gouged, bumpy walls. It is too costly to replaster all the walls. Do you think fabric could be smoothed over them? I have read that decorators use fabric on walls but the walls must be smooth. They use paper behind it, applying the fabric to the paper, not directly on the wall. When the walls are not flat, they either sand them smooth or attach the fabric to plywood. The method is to stretch the fabric over the board and then staple it to the wood at top and sides using a staple gun. Attach the plywood to the walls and then paste or tack board over the stapled areas. One other possibility, of course, is to paint your walls a single color, utilizing the bumps and hollows to provide texture."
Another decorating problem:
"My sportsman husband has put a mounted fish up on the living room wall, duck decoys on the fireplace and pheasant feathers in floral arrangements. The last straw is a large poster listing shooting rules and regulations which is placed on our bedroom wall. How do other women cope with this idea?"
A man should feel that the home is his as well as his wife's. Put his prizes around a desk or occasional table and he'll be ecstatic. A mounted fish can be attractive if placed properly on the wall, over a desk for instance. Pheasant feathers combined with other dried flowers may make a delightful arrangement on the desk or table. Duck decoys may be used in the same area. The shooting regulations could be framed and put on the wall.
There is a current trend to using wall plaques, oil signs, posters, of every description, so you can be right in style.
You can toast grated coconut by setting it out in a shallow pan and placing it under broiler heat. Watch carefully so as not to scorch!

Angela Will Spurn Talking Dolls For Home-Family

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
Ventriquist Angela Martin, 16, of Astoria, Long Island, has a bright future in the theater, but chances are she'll lose it all over when she's 25.
"I'm not going to be one of those girls who keeps hoping she'll make the big time, then keeps worrying about staying on top. I'd rather have a home and family, because I'd be sorry if I postponed it so long, it didn't materialize."
Doll-faced red-haired Angela has had network time with the best in show business — Jack Paar, Harry Moore, Jackie Gleason, Milton Berle and many others. But that's not enough, she says. You must keep fighting to get ahead, one reason she would not want children of her own to go into the theater. She wants at least four. From what she's seen of it, "it's a rat race, even for the top performers."
"You've got to have alligator skin to last in show business. There are a lot of cold-hearted types in the theater, and most performers must be selfish to advance themselves. I feel that I must be getting selfish too," she says.
This conflict of values upsets Angela. She feels there is no point in having success unless you can share it with people, and she doesn't like stepping on people's toes. She explains:
"I told my mother that if I should make a name in this business, I'd use the money to help friends. It sounds Pollyannish, but I mean it."
Angela taught herself ventriloquism at age 8. She had watched ventriquists perform and began practicing with dolls at home. Neighbors suggested that she audition on a kiddie show. She passed.
Wonderful for tea, thinly sliced date and nut bread spread with cream cheese that has been mixed with grated orange rind.

From me to you A DAILY VIEW

By Rev. R. Charles Spivey
"For by grace you have been saved through faith, not because of works, lest any man should boast."
Ephesians 2:8 (Read verses 1-10)
"works" would be an easier way to heaven. At least in this method of salvation one could do some good things, according to adding up the times of his works. Paul had discovered that this law of works only leads a person farther and farther away from heaven instead of closer. "The good that I desire to do, I do not," he said. Only through faith in God, through His Son Jesus, can any person be saved from sin and be given the gifts of eternal life.

Cleaning Off Desk Good Investment

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Every few years or so, whether it needs it or not, I clean off my office desk. Always it is by compulsion, never by choice.

Sometimes this cleaning chore is undertaken when a fire department inspector threatens to give me a summons for maintaining a hazard to public life and property. Many times, however, it is the result of an "I'm tired of having to climb a step ladder to look over the debris on your desk to see whether you're loafing or working" Clean it off," the boss will say.

The boss usually adds condescendingly, "A messy desk is an indicator of an insecure child." There's something phony about a grown man who even has a step ladder on his desk because he's afraid to throw anything away.

"Well, in a crisis a used toothpick is better than none," I tell him, and go on to point out:

"You've got your psychology backward. A man with a polished desk shows an insecure adulthood trying to hide a secure sense of guilt. A clean desk is the sign of a frightened mind."

As my boss—and the other swivel chair Caesars on the executive rungs above me—all maintain spotless desks, my own rubbed desk may explain why I've never been elected general manager of my firm. There must be some explanation why honest merit has been held down for 30 years.

The rest of the staff enjoys picking "him" and helping me, too. What greater pleasure in office life is there than playing through another fellow's desk on company time naturally?

If the 50 people who work near me spend only a week of their lives "helping" mine, they'll have made a mountain of labor behind me. I figure it costs the firm more than $5,000 every time I clean my desk.

But what better investment can a well-run organization make? Everybody has more fun than he does at the office picnic. Most everybody winds up with a souvenir worth keeping. The other fellow's desk always has something in it you'd like to have yourself.

So far I haven't really dented the Mt. Everest atop and beside my desk, but here are a few items I've found:

A pair of adenoids sent in a test tube by an admiring reader who apparently had no further use for them.

46 packets of matches.

137 pieces of string in eight colors.

About 13 cents worth of stub on a dollar cigar.

A picture of Sophie Tucker as a child actress.

18 toothpicks—only 9 used.

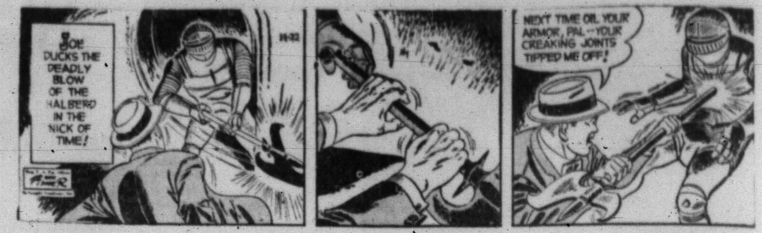

A bottle of sulphur and molasses tonic.

A 1942 Dewey campaign button, and a 1952 one for Stevenson.

A letter dated "Little Big Horn, May 15, 1876." The letter contains only one word: "Help!" It is signed "George Armstrong Custer"—but the signature could be a fake.

When there is illness in the family, two important "drugs" are a dependable supply of hot water and plenty of soap and detergent. Both contribute to the patient's comfort through refreshing sponge baths and clean linens. Towels, sheets, and pillowcases need to be laundered in hot suds and rinses for hygienic protection.

Back Zippers Preferred For Purpose, Columnist Learns

BY INEZ ROBB
"A box of back zippers!" I cried in a recent column, pointing out that their only virtue had been to put a premium on husbands.

I spoke with sympathy of the single woman who must deal alone with this menace.

Then I sat back, awaiting a rash of laudatory letters from women tied in judo knots from dealing with back zippers. Well—there were plenty of letters all right. But a good 90 percent of them advised me to speak for myself, mind my own business or zip my head in a pillow bag.

"Have you shaved your head?" "Do you wear a wig?" and "Do you favor a crew cut?" were among the politer queries.

Messes a woman, favor back zippers and for a reason that I should have been smart enough to figure out by myself. Today's woman is a slave not to her husband or her employer but to her hairdresser. She may break an arm, slip a disc or dislocate her dislocating trying to deal alone with a rear zipper.

But these are minor matters, scarcely to be noticed when stacked up against the happy fact that the rear zipper enables a woman to get in and out of her clothes without disturbing her coiffure.

Woman's hair today is not so much her crowning glory as her cross and most-demanding care. Hair has become a way of life. Within the last decade hairdos have become so increasingly costly and elaborate that a whole new cult has been built up around their care and prolongation.

No coiffures since the days of Marie Antoinette have been so elaborate as those of today, proudly advertised as an age of simplicity that has reduced even the dinner-hour-to-Metropolitan and feminine. As the taste setters turned homes into "engineered living spaces" and furniture into functional frustration something was bound to give.

With the girl, it has given at the top, in a rash of extravagant hairdos ranging from the beehive to the bouffant. And all costing such a mint at the hairdresser's that self-preservation became the first law of fashion.

Who, familiar with the classes of world literature, does not remember that tender and inevitable scene when the lover runs his trembling fingers through the golden locks of his beloved?

Let him try it today! Just let him try it, and see what happens!

No Celebration On DeGaulle's Birthday

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle was 71 today, but his schedule called for no celebration.

De Gaulle's program included a Cabinet meeting, lunch and political talks with President Fulbright. Youlus of the Congo Republic, an evening performance at the Comedie Francaise in honor of Youlus and departure by special train for Strasbourg, where De Gaulle will speak to the army, Thursday.

HERE ARE THE RULES OF THE CONTEST
In each advertisement on this page you will find the contestants in a prominent football game being played in the country this week-end. Get an entry blank from one of the merchants who are helping sponsor this contest and whose message is on this page. Fill in your selection of the WINNING TEAM only . . . opposite the name of the firm on the entry blank. Then send your complete blank to FOOTBALL CONTEST EDITOR, THE SNYDER DAILY NEWS. Entries must be in the hands of the editor by 12 o'clock noon, Friday. Games ending in a tie score must be specified as a tie or else it will be considered a miss.
If there is a tie for first place the winners will divide the cash money of $12.50 and no second prize will be given. If there is a first place-winner and a tie for second place, the second prize winners will divide the money for the place. If more than two persons tie for second place, no second prize money will be awarded and the cash will be added to next week's prize. Tie for perfect score will split $25.00. There will be fun for the entire family. Only one entry blank will be permitted from any one person. More than one will disqualify all of the person's entries. Scores listed on the entry blank will have no bearing on the choice of the winner. Sign your entry blank and list your address and phone number — and watch for the story on next Wednesday's front page for the winners. Hurry now, and get your entry blank from one of the merchants on this page. The contest blank must be in your own handwriting. Employees of The Snyder Daily News and their families not eligible to enter.

Junior Editors Quiz on WATCHES

QUESTION: How can I use my watch as a compass? Can it be done?

ANSWER: Yes, it definitely can be done. Hold your watch flat, face side up. Then hold a small straight stick upright at the edge of the watch and just where the hour hand of the watch points. Now turn watch and stick until the sun casts its shadow directly across the hour hand, so that the hour hand points toward the sun. Then, if it's morning, south lies just halfway between the hour hand and the number 12 on the watch. Notice, in the picture, that we move clockwise as we figure this. West will be at 1:30, north at 4:30, east at 7:30. If the time is noon, south will lie in the direction in which the hour hand points. In the afternoon, south will be also halfway between the hour hand and the number twelve, but you must count backwards, in a counter-clockwise direction in order to locate the halfway point which will be south.

FOR YOU TO DO: The next sunny day go out with a watch and check this system up. Save the picture to help you in figuring the directions out.

(Olmie Cleveland of Norway, Me., wins $10 for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper.)

Kennedy Clan In Holiday Gathering

Next came a 20-minute program of animated cartoons shown in the White House movie theater. A main feature of the party, staged by Mrs. Kennedy, was a live monkey named "Susie," brought in to amuse the youngsters. The youngsters had refreshments in the new dining room in the Kennedy upstairs living quarters. The White House reported that the President was lured from his high level world business to stop in for a brief look at the festivities.

The party Tuesday was for Caroline's Washington nursery schoolmates and a few cousins. The Thanksgiving weekend affair will be a family observation of the birthdays.

The family of ex-Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy has made it a practice for years to assemble for Thanksgiving at the rambling Kennedy home by the sea. The President, his wife and children, will step aboard a helicopter on the White House south lawn late in the afternoon and make the brief hop to Andrews Air Force Base to board a jet plane for Cape Cod. They plan to stay at Hyannis Port until Sunday night or Monday morning.

Sitting down with the first family at the Thanksgiving Day dinner table will be the President's father and mother, three of his sisters and their husbands and his two brothers and their wives. There will be 17 Kennedy small fry.

At the White House Tuesday the President's little son enjoyed the excitement of a joint birthday party with Caroline, 11 of her school chums and several Kennedy cousins.

The red-carpeted ground-floor hallway was turned over to the youngsters and they started their frolic riding tricycles down the long corridor.

Big Party Vetoed By Garner

By TED POWERS
 LVALDE, TEX. (AP) — President John Nance Garner stoutly vetoed a big party for his 53rd birthday today.

Putting on a big black cigar, Garner said Tuesday, "I don't want a fuss, I don't want anybody raising a ruckus around here."

When his visitor arrived, Garner suggested a drink of bourbon. But he couldn't find the bottle and finally gave up the search.

Garner, 53, is the oldest member of the House and vice president of the United States. He has been in the White House since 1933. He is the only man to have served in both the House and the White House.

"I don't feel so good at this time," he said. "I don't want to spend more time in bed—and that's what I'm doing." Relatives said Garner spends about 16 hours a day in bed, with frequent cat-naps.

Expecting visitors, Garner was wearing a blue dress suit and a white shirt with a bow tie.

Garner's wife, Mrs. Edith Garner, is in bed with a cold. She is the only woman to have served as vice president under President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

He seemed to be in one of the periods when he feels good.

Three years ago "Cactus Jack" gave up cigars and bourbon. He smoked several cigars Tuesday. Since he couldn't find his bottle, it was unclear whether he had

Family of Five Perishes In Fire

DARREN CENTER, N.Y. (AP) — A family of five died Monday night in a fire that destroyed their two-story frame farm house on a rural road near this Genesee County community.

The victims were John Amick, 48, his wife, Margaret Mary, 48, and their daughters, Noreen, 8, Patricia Ann, 5, and Jacqueline, 10 months.

In St. Jerome hospital in nearby Batavia with serious burns are Mrs. Amick and her daughter, Jacqueline. Drilling and Amick were brother and sister.

also resumed "striking a blow for liberty" — a Garner euphemism for taking a drink.

Garner moved out of the house to a spot under a huge oak but wouldn't allow his visitor to carry his chair — "I can do it myself."

He reminisced about his years of public service which ended when President Roosevelt decided to run for a third term.

When he and FDR broke on that issue, and others, Garner retired from politics.

Garner's 90th birthday, the late Speaker Sam Rayburn, former President Harry S. Truman, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, now vice president, and Gov. Price Daniel were among the hundreds who attended.

Last year the party was smaller and visitors found Garner shelling pecans. This year he was looking at greeting cards.

Garner's eyesight is failing. Last year he had a cataract operation. He is unable to read the messages to him because his sight is failing.

Storm Area Controlled

MEXICO CITY, MEX. — The Mexican government says the storm along the storm-ravaged coast north of Acapulco has been brought under control.

Communication by highway has been restored to all points along the 100-mile strip, color supplies are arriving at a steady rate and a feared outbreak of disease has been averted, the government said.

Minister of Defense Aguirre, Ochoa said the death toll from a flood of heavy rain and high winds has been accurately determined.

Ochoa said 253 deaths had been confirmed and that the figure might be higher.

Troops continued patrolling the area to prevent looting and to help civilians dig out their tiny towns from beneath tons of mud from a storm swept inland.

It is reported that a new baby born about midday in the use of hot water for cleanliness purposes: laundry and baths.

Capital Required To Operate Farm

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is another in a series of articles in connection with observance of National Farm City Week, prepared by Bernhard Baruch, chairman of the Kansas Club Agriculture and Conservation committee.

Farmers require a great deal of capital to operate a farm. The average investment per farm worker is $1500. The average investment per acre is $100. The average investment per bushel of wheat is $1.00. The average investment per bushel of corn is $1.00. The average investment per bushel of soybeans is $1.00. The average investment per bushel of cotton is $1.00. The average investment per bushel of rice is $1.00. The average investment per bushel of sugar is $1.00. The average investment per bushel of tobacco is $1.00. The average investment per bushel of fruit is $1.00. The average investment per bushel of vegetables is $1.00. The average investment per bushel of nuts is $1.00. The average investment per bushel of other crops is $1.00.

The other $3,000 can and should be considered a fair return on an investment of this size.

In the case of substituting machinery for high priced labor and acreage controls on crops produced, farmers need more land to spread the overhead costs over more acres. This holds true for all agricultural land, along with speculative buying by non-farm people has pushed the sale price of land above the productive value in many areas. The present relationship between net farm incomes and the sale value of farm real estate is the most unfavorable for 25 years and shows no sign of improving.

Agriculture is the biggest private buyer, seller, and borrower in the United States.

Farmers are heavy taxpayers. They pay a larger percentage of total net income as taxes than any other group. Last year farmers paid one dollar in real estate taxes out of each $12 they received in net income.

If incomes were based on increased productivity per man, the farmers would be the best paid group in our economy. However, this is not the case. Net farm income has trended downward since the late 40's and early 50's. Here in this area where we have come out of a severe drought our income has had no time to go but up.

Gross income has risen a little in agriculture but farm costs are now billion dollars higher than they were in 1947. The farm price squeeze has resulted because the price of most things farmers buy has risen 18 per cent while the price of things farmers sell has declined 14 per cent since 1947.

Agriculture furnishes work for a great many people. Sixteen million people are employed in processing and marketing farm products and furnishing supplies to farmers. This is four times the number of farm operators. If agriculture should leave 500,000 people out of the economy, it would mean that 15 million people would be out of work.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To The Daily News:

If you live your life just as you did years ago; if you take no interest in fighting communism; if you're not concerned about what a mess your country is in; if you call those who fight communism "crazies"; if you haven't joined up with at least one group fighting communism; if you won't read materials on the evils of communism; if you have no desire to become informed; if you don't read your daily newspaper; if what Khrushchev said doesn't worry you; if you haven't studied a map of the world lately; then you are a friend of the devil. You are a friend of the communist tyranny which is taking over the world right before your (sleeping) eyes.

THE SURPRISED LOOK of the drawing on the back of this car which figured in a 3-car accident this morning probably matched the feeling of the driver, Oliver Mayberry, who suddenly found himself facing north when he had been traveling south. Only minor injuries were suffered by occupants of the other car.

52 Perish In Plane Crash

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—An Argentine Comet jet airliner exploded and crashed just after taking off from Sao Paulo for New York today and all 52 persons aboard were reported killed. The Comet 4 jet of the Aero-Lineas line carried 40 passengers and a crew of 12, the line's office in Sao Paulo said. The flight originated in Buenos Aires. Witnesses said the plane exploded less than two minutes after taking off from the airport. The flaming wreckage plunged into a eucalyptus plantation near the small town of Friburgo and burned for two hours after the crash. The airline said the plane was captained by Roberto Mosca. It identified passengers boarding at Sao Paulo as two Hungarians and a Brazilian. Nationalities of the others aboard were not known immediately. The plane plunged into hilly terrain making it difficult for rescue crews to reach it. Cries for help were heard but the first men to arrive found no survivors. Witnesses said Mosca apparently was trying for an emergency landing as the plane sheared through 600 yards of trees before it fell down a slope. In London, the British De Havilland Aircraft Co. was plunged into gloom over the crash of its Comet 4—a plane that took over four years of research costing millions of dollars. "The Comet 4 now is in service all over the world," a company spokesman said. "Altogether 55 of them are in service. They have flown a total of 125 million miles and this is our first serious crash." The Comet 4 was born out of the Comet 1—the jet airliner that made its maiden trip in 1949 well ahead of any rivals. Everything went well for Comet 1 until 1952. Then a Comet took off from Rome and disappeared near the island of Elba. In April of the same year another Comet took off from Rome and disappeared near Naples. Comets were withdrawn from service and research and testing went into producing Comet 4.

6 Directors For C-C Here Named

Joe Cargile, president of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce has announced the new chamber directors for the year 1962. A record number of votes was cast in the balloting which ended Nov. 20. New directors elected are C. O. Holder, Jr., Claude McCormick, R. C. Patton, James Rosser, E. H. (Ab) Williamson and Jerry Woodbridge. These new directors have been invited to meet with the present board at their next meeting on Jan. 12. At this meeting a nomination committee will be named to select a slate of officers for the coming year. The first Tuesday of the month is the regularly scheduled time for the meeting of the board but the January meeting has been postponed a week since several of the directors will be in Dallas. Texas Electric Service Company is hosting the directors of the Scurry County Industrial Corporation Jan. 4-5. Several members of the Chamber board are also members of the Industrial board. Purpose of the Dallas meeting will be to show the visitors the TESCO engineering sections and

Five Hurt In 3-Car Crash Near Ira

Tragedy was narrowly averted this morning about 7:45 a.m. in what started out to be a pleasant Thanksgiving dinner with friends. Mrs. Frances Teague and her four children were en route from their home in Andrews to visit Mr. and Mrs. Bob McKinney in Snyder. Nine miles from their destination a freak accident sent their car into the ditch and them to the hospital in a Bell ambulance. Mrs. Teague was treated at the hospital for multiple lacerations. An X-ray examination disclosed no fractures. Charles Teague, 19, her daughter and driver of the car, was treated for minor lacerations as were Pamela, 17, Joyce, 14, and Rusty, 15. The accident happened when a Chevrolet driven by Oliver Mayberry, about 21, of Midland, was traveling south on the Big Spring highway pulling a 1951 Cadillac. Mayberry lost control of his car sending the Cadillac into the ditch and the Chevrolet into the path of the Teague Oldsmobile. The accident was investigated by State Highway Patrol Officers Ivy Daniels and Royce Sewell and by Scurry County Sheriff Earl Abercrombie.

New Policy Approved By Two Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP)—President John F. Kennedy and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer hoped today for speedy British and French agreement to a new Western negotiating policy on Berlin. The policy is reported to have two principal elements—first, rejection of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's demand for basic changes in the status of West Berlin; second, concessions to Moscow on related issues which do not involve Western vital interests. Kennedy and Adenauer, at three days of intensive discussions here, apparently decided to maintain the Western claim that East Berlin should be opened up to traffic and the Communist wall on the East Berlin border should be destroyed. But diplomats said privately they saw little hope that this aim would in fact be achieved and it no longer appears to be an essential condition of an agreement for a Berlin settlement. The key to a peaceful end of the crisis now, the President and West German chancellor said in a communique Wednesday, is "reasonableness on the part of the Soviet Union."

Couple Held In Burglaries

A Hermleigh man and his wife were charged with burglary last night in Judge W. C. Davidson's court at Snyder. The man is Dupe Hernandez, 27, and his wife, Eva Gonzales Hernandez, 17. The couple was taken into custody by Sheriff Earl Abercrombie at their Hermleigh home. Loot from at least five burglaries was found in the house. Bond was set at $1,000 each. Late this morning they had not raised bond and remained in county jail. Sheriff Abercrombie listed the following break-ins attributed to the pair: Nov. 15, the Jess Campbell home near Snyder in which $150, clothing and food were taken; the home of Mrs. Grant Groves in Hermleigh in which clothes were taken; the home of Raymond Ball between Snyder and Hermleigh in which clothing was stolen; the Grover Wall home east of Snyder in which jewelry, a clock and food were stolen; and a home in Roscoe in which a sewing machine, jewelry and clothing were taken. The couple will appear before the grand jury next week.

Train Is Delayed By Soviet Troops

By EUGENE KRAMER BERLIN (AP)— Soviet troops held up a U.S. military train on the West German border for 14 1/2 hours today, claiming that an East German had stowed away on it. The Russians finally allowed the train to proceed on its journey into West Germany at 1:15 p.m.—7:15 a.m. EST. Thirteen minutes later the train resumed its interrupted journey from West Berlin to Frankfurt. It had been stopped at Mgrinborn, the Soviet checkpoint at the border, since 1:45 Wednesday night. The Army said 74 American and Allied troops and family members were aboard, including 11 children 2 to 15 years old. Also aboard were four West German attendants and a three-man East German train crew operating the locomotive that had pulled the train to the border.

U.S. officials speculated that the Russians were trying to establish a precedent for searching the U.S. military trains that regularly serve the U.S. garrison in West Berlin. U.S. authorities in the past have always resisted Soviet attempts to search either Army trains or vehicle convoys on the 116-mile autobahn between West Germany and West Berlin. The Army said that in accordance with standing instructions the train commander refused to allow anyone to board or leave the train. A U.S. officer was sent from West Berlin to investigate this morning. While the Berlin-Frankfurt train was stalled at Mgrinborn, three other U.S. military trains passed through the checkpoint without interference. The Army made no official comment on the Russians' stow-away claim. U.S. Army trains between Berlin and West Germany normally are operated across East Germany by locomotives and crews of the Communist East German railway system. The stalled train was the regular overnight duty train between Berlin and Frankfurt, consisting mostly of sleeping cars. It had been scheduled to reach Frankfurt early this morning. Under normal procedure the U.S. Army makes out military travel orders for all passengers on its trains through East Germany. These are shown to the Soviets at Marienborn, along with passengers' identification cards. The Soviets check the papers, return them to the train commander and allow a West German locomotive to take over the train. Last time the Soviets held up an American train on March 26, 1960, they said it was because a Nazi swastika was on one car. The U.S. Army said it was a child's funny-face drawn in the dust.

PREPARATIONS FOR SANTA'S VISIT SATURDAY are well under way in Snyder. Robert L. Von Roeder, Texas Electric Service employe, is shown placing a tinsel garland above a Snyder street. Santa will arrive in his Rocket Ship on noon Saturday at the southeast corner of the Snyder square, and will be giving rides in his ship to boys and girls who have tickets from Snyder merchants. Snyder stores will remain open until Santa's blast-off time at 8 p.m. that evening.

Road Deaths Are Running Near Normal

By The Associated Press Traffic 41 Fires 3 Miscellaneous 1 Total 45 The nation's traffic deaths in the early hours of the Thanksgiving holiday appeared running near the normal toll for a non-holiday period. The count of fatalities on the highways, which started at 6 p.m. Wednesday, showed 45 were killed in motor vehicle accidents. In addition, three persons lost their lives in fires, including two firemen in New York who fought a fire in the 24-story Times Tower in Times Square. Misty, foggy weather was reported in some sections, including the Chicago area where six persons were killed in traffic accidents during the night and early morning. The National Safety Council did not make an estimate of traffic fatalities for the 102-hour Thanksgiving weekend, ending at midnight Sunday. However, the council said traffic deaths would total 450 during a nonholiday four-day weekend at this time of year. An Associated Press survey during a nonholiday weekend from 6 p.m. Wednesday Nov. 8 to midnight Sunday, Nov. 12, showed 462 traffic deaths, 37 killed in fires and 106 deaths from miscellaneous causes, an overall total of 605. At Longview, the twister raged two hours, damaged other property and loosed torrential rain causing water to rise three feet deep in some houses. In San Antonio, two tornadoes crushed a garage and damaged several homes. Residents of Houston in the same area were warned to get out of their homes. The Kilgore News Herald said losses would run into thousands of dollars. Another tornado struck near Oak Flat and razed through other nearby farming communities south of Kilgore and Longview. Her husband went to a hospital. Eight others required only emergency treatment for injuries suffered as the writhing winds hit the villages of Cushing, Nat. Looneyville, Libert, Trask, Oak

Snyder Has Crisp Holiday

A crisp, frosty Thanksgiving morning greeted Snyderites today. Patches of frost clung to rooftops and automobiles as the thermometer dipped to 33 degrees, following a high of 35 Wednesday. Most business firms in the city were closed for the Thanksgiving holiday, along with schools, banks and offices. A feature of the local observance was the community Thanksgiving service sponsored by the Snyder Ministerial Alliance and the Jaycees. It was held at 10 a.m. today at Grace Lutheran Church, with the Rev. Alan Lynch, pastor of First Christian Church, bringing the Thanksgiving message.

Clear, Cool Weather In Texas Today

By The Associated Press Flat and bright cool weather moved into Texas as a Thanksgiving Day replacement for the tornadoes and heavy rains of the day before. The Kilgore-Longview area in East Texas was assessing losses in twisters which took one life, injured nine and inflicted heavy damage. Other tornadoes struck less severe blows near San Antonio, Houston and Beaumont. Crop-damaging hail and lightning, battered parts of West Central Texas. Skies cleared behind a cold front which sped across the state by late Wednesday, generating wind gusts up to 51 miles an hour at Houston. The wind toppled a number of power lines in Houston. The weather cleared the fair weather clouds which had been expected through Friday. It was expected to bring a first snowfall to the region by Saturday. Mrs. Blanche Collier, about 70, died Wednesday as one or more tornadoes smashed her home near Oak Flat and razed through other nearby farming communities south of Kilgore and Longview. Her husband went to a hospital. Eight others required only emergency treatment for injuries suffered as the writhing winds hit the villages of Cushing, Nat. Looneyville, Libert, Trask, Oak

Americans Pause For Thanks

By The Associated Press Americans at home and those living abroad in a troubled world gave thanks today for the blessings they have pledged themselves to defend. From President to private, from Plymouth, Mass., to the Berlin wall, the heirs of the first Pilgrims who dreamed of liberty celebrated the realization of that dream with the traditional Thanksgiving dinner. President Kennedy, celebrating Thanksgiving at the Hyannis Port, Mass., home of his parents only 34 miles from Plymouth, summed up the significance of this year's festival with the following proclamation: "This year, as the harvest draws near its close, and the year approaches its end, awesome perils again remain to be faced. Yet we have, as in the past, ample reason to be thankful for the abundance of our blessings." In Plymouth, site of the first Thanksgiving, 300,000 Americans gathered to parade up St. Pilgrim's procession from a replica of the first Pilgrim house past Plymouth Rock and past a replica of the Mayflower to First Church in the town square. In Berlin, 6,500 U.S. troops, their families and about 1,000 German guests consumed 60 tons of turkey. German guests also shared the traditional meal. In France, combat-ready units celebrated the day by attending a service at the Kings Weigh House Church in Mayfair. Ambassador David Bruce was chosen to read President Kennedy's Thanksgiving message. Rockefeller Plans New Search Today

By ROBERT MYERS
 MERAUKE, Dutch New Guinea (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York planned a wave-high flying boat search for his missing son Michael today along hostile swampy nooks of the southwestern New Guinea coast.

With time running against Michael, 23, the governor kept on with his quest after completing one 500-mile aerial probe of the Dutch territory Wednesday that produced no trace of Michael. The young man was seen last Sunday swimming for the shore two miles away after his native boat overturned.

In The Hague, the Netherlands Defense Ministry announced that Dutch navy planes would continue to search offshore at the request of New Guinea Gov. P. Platteel. The ministry had announced Wednesday that participation by their Neptune aircraft in the operation had been abandoned as "useless" but that planes belonging to various missions and private companies were continuing the inshore search.

The New York governor also hoped for more precise information on the nature of the shoreline in talks with Dr. R. S. Wassing, 34, Michael's Dutch companion who remained with the capsized boat. He was picked up Monday by a Dutch naval vessel.

With the low-flying amphibious plane, Rockefeller planned to probe every spot where Michael might have swum ashore. Land parties of Dutch soldiers and native tribesmen reported slow progress fighting their way through the dense jungle and mangrove swamps infested with snakes and crocodiles.

Rockefeller and a daughter, Mary Strawbridge, flew here from New York after receiving word of Michael's disappearance. Young Rockefeller and Wassing were collecting native artifacts when their boat, a native catamaran, was swept out to sea and then capsized.

In New York, the American Broadcasting Co. reported that a Netherlands information officer said Gov. Rockefeller has just

U. N. Likely To Drop Cuba Charge

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—U.N. delegates expect the Security Council to quickly drop the Cuban charge that the United States threatens to invade the Dominican Republic.

The council scheduled another session Friday to hear the views of the Dominican government in full. It was expected after that to consider the case closed despite efforts by Cuba and the Soviet Union to blow it up into a major issue.

Cuban Ambassador Mario Garcia-Inchausti called on the council to condemn the United States as an aggressor and order it to withdraw the ships and planes it stationed off the Dominican capital and two brothers of the late dictator, Generalissimo Rafael L. Trujillo, threatened a informants said, however, that no council member—not even the Soviet Union—was willing to sponsor such a demand. Cuba is not a member of the council.

Say Bombs Are Identical

DETROIT (AP)—Police said today that bombs which exploded within minutes of each other at the home of two aides to Teamsters President James R. Hoffa Tuesday night apparently were identical and set by the same person.

But police conceded they were without a clue as to who might have set off the bombs, and the targets, who were unharmed, said they didn't know who might have been responsible.

The bombs exploded outside the homes of Frank Fitzsimmons, an international vice president of the Teamsters and secretary-treasurer of Local 296, and Larry Campbell, 39, a business agent for Local 297, of which Hoffa still is president while holding international office.

White House Will Again Ring Out With Children's Laughter At Christmas

This Christmas for the first time since the Teddy Roosevelts of Sagamore Hill moved to Washington, small children are back in the White House. Young Caroline Kennedy and her brother, John, are bright reminders of the lovable family who romped in those stately corridors just sixty years ago.

On Christmas Eve in 1901, there was a special gaiety in the Nation's Capital. After the quiet reserve of the McAdams, the White House was again ablaze with bright lights and activity. It was predicted a "Jolly Christmas Again for White House," and no promise was ever better fulfilled.

That Christmas, Theodore Roosevelt and his spirited family brought youthful merriment and joy back to the big white house on Pennsylvania Avenue.

In 1901, the baby of the family was Quentin Roosevelt. At four he was exactly the opposite of his father, with equal energy and sparkle. Next came Archie, then seven, followed by Thel, Kermit, Ted Junior and "Princess" Alice. Together, the six delightful Roosevelt children enlivened the White House with a vitality unrivaled in presidential history.

Any day was exciting for the energetic Roosevelts, but what day could possibly compare with Christmas? It began early. Before seven the children were up and dressed, hammering at their parents' door. Santa had preceded them. There, at the bedroom fireplace, hung six bulging Christmas stockings.

The stockings were emptied amid a flurry of excited chatter and laughter. Christmas wrapping flew thither and yon as the children unwrapped the trinkets and sweets. Finally, the flutter subsided and the youngsters' thoughts turned to the bigger presents waiting in the library. First however, they must have breakfast, and this was a hard and fast rule. With Theodore Roosevelt in the lead, the family trooped to the breakfast table.

No doubt a minimum of nourishment was required. Even so, it must have seemed a long wait until the children were at last allowed to peer into the library and marvel at the tables of Christmas treasures. "I wonder," the President wrote later, "whether there ever can come in life a thrill of greater exaltation and rapture than... when the library door is thrown open and you walk in to see all the gifts, like a materialized fairy land, arrayed on your special table."

There was a beautiful pearl necklace for Alice, a shining new bicycle for Archie, a fine breech loading shotgun for Ted. These and many, many more wonderful gifts awaited the Roosevelt Children. There was surely enough to make any child's eyes sparkle with excitement.

With all the general celebration and merriment, it seems strange that there was no Christmas tree in the White House. It caused a good deal of comment at the time. Some said it was Theodore Roosevelt's concern for forestry conservation, others that he desired simplicity.

Whatever the motive, it must be noted that, in 1902, Archie broke tradition with a tiny tree of his own. Enlisting the help of Quentin's nurse and the family's steward, the boy secretly arranged a tree—fast evergreen in an unadorned closet. He hung a gift for each member of the family on its branches. When the doors were opened that Christmas morning, no one was more astonished or more delighted, than President Roosevelt.

Christmas' Cañery

"Christmas they got off in a merry start and never slackened its pace. Throughout the morning, friends stopped by to say "Merry Christmas" to the President and First Lady. Coffee and sweet-butted biscuits across the breakfast table—great platters of fresh breads, great silver pots of steaming coffee.

The morning passed all too quickly and the Roosevelts were soon on their way to lunch at the home of Commander and Mrs. William Sheffield Cowles, brother-in-law and sister of the President. Restless as always, the President spent the afternoon hunting with the other men while the ladies and younger children returned to the White House for a children's party.

Again, the doorbell began to ring, announcing young visitors like Phil Knox Junior, son of the Attorney General.

Even with all these callers, Christmas was essentially a family affair. At dinner, only relatives and close friends watched the President carve the holiday turkey. Still, there was elegance at that table for it shone with cut glass, gleaming silver and candle-labra with crimson shades—high style in 1901.

After dinner, the men adjourned to the private dining room for coffee and cigars while the ladies gathered in another parlor. But there was more celebrating to come in the late evening—and at least forty more friends! A promenade concert began and later a gala holiday dance.

Ever heard of a "laundry party?" When a group of friends get together at a coin-op laundry to do their washing en masse, the task becomes fun. The swish of suds and the hum of machines make pleasant background music for conversation—and your clothes come clean to boot!

With all the general celebration and merriment, it seems strange that there was no Christmas tree in the White House. It caused a good deal of comment at the time. Some said it was Theodore Roosevelt's concern for forestry conservation, others that he desired simplicity.

Tree Rings, Butterflies, Sea Lamps

By The Associated Press

Tree rings, beautiful male butterflies and lamps in the sea figure in science news:

Sunspots and Trees

Two scientists find evidence against the theory that sunspot cycles show up in the annual growth rings of trees.

Sunspots Follow 11-Year Cycle

Some experts think the sunspot effects on climate are strong enough to be reflected in rings of trees.

Under-Sea Lamps

It is generally accepted that climatic changes do show up in the width of growth rings of ancient trees.

But John Dutton and Prof. Reid A. Bryson of the University of Wisconsin meteorology department said they cannot find a real correlation between sunspot cycles and tree growth. They analyzed tree ring data with a statistical method to detect cycles.

Male Beauty

The beautiful colors and designs spotted by male butterflies seem to be completely superfluous, serving no useful purpose, reports Dr. R. E. Snodgrass, research associate of the Smithsonian Institution.

Among some birds, for example, male birds attract females by means of their colorful displays. But among butterflies and moths, it is the females who attract males and primarily through scent, he writes.

The pretty colors of male butterflies may be useful in protective imitation, but "we need a theory to explain their colors on a scientific basis of usefulness to the insects themselves."

Heat Barrier

The heat problem for space vehicles and passengers, plunging into the earth's atmosphere after space voyages may be 2 1/2 times more severe than previously estimated, a new study finds.

The heating comes from friction of atoms and molecules of gases in the atmosphere. But at high speeds there's an additional, and more severe, heating effect called "ram" heating, which occurs as the vehicle's nose and leading edges are pushed into the air.

Shrimp, squid and some fishes are examples, say Dr. J. A. C. Nicol of the Marine Biological Laboratory, Plymouth, England.

A second form is discharging a cloud of luminous matter into sea water. This is used by some clams, shrimps, squids again, and bristleworms and some fishes.

Third is a cooperative method with luminous bacteria. An animal can harbor these bacteria within several glandlike organs, and supports them there. In return, the bacteria produce light for their host. The luminous bacteria take up abode in certain squid and fishes, Dr. Nicol says.

Satellite Still Sending Pictures

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Wednesday that the Tiros II weather satellite, launched a year ago today, still is transmitting good cloud pictures nine months after it was expected to quit operating.

"Recent pictures from the 285-pound hatbox-shaped satellite were of usable quality - about the same as when it was placed in orbit," NASA said in a statement.

NASA said its remarkable performance includes transmission of more than 35,000 photographs and almost 4 million feet of magnetic tape containing weather information.

Experimental Reactor Forced To Shutdown

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP)—A cooling system leak has resulted in the shutdown of an experimental reactor at the National Reactor Testing Station in eastern Idaho.

The Atomic Energy Commission office here said today it is the first unscheduled plant shutdown in three years. However, another nuclear reactor went on a runaway nuclear chain reaction Jan. 3 and killed three military technicians working with it.

There are three of the so-called Spert reactors operating at the site and a fourth is being built.

Indians Not Allowed To Lease Property

NEW YORK (AP)—The Shinnecock Indians may not earn wampum by building or leasing a golf course on their reservation in eastern Suffolk County, Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz said Wednesday.

Lefkowitz, the state's chief legal officer, had been asked an opinion by representatives of the tribe's trustees.

He replied in a letter that the Shinnecocks may not lease any part of their reservation for any purpose other than residence or settlement. A golf course, he said, would constitute an intrusion.

Giant Green Turtles May Cruise Caribbean Again

By JACK RUTLEDGE
SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP)—Giant green turtles, once numerous but now almost extinct, may soon be cruising the Caribbean again, providing needed food for the poor of a dozen countries. In years past the armored monsters weighed 300 pounds or more, roamed the Mexican Gulf and Caribbean, abundant as buffalo used to be in America's West. Today they have almost disappeared from the area except for a black sand beach called Tortuguero in northwest Costa Rica, and a small and comparatively insignificant breeding ground off Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula.

Rural, City Folk Are Much Alike

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the last in a series of articles in connection with observance of National Farm - City Week, written by Bernhard Bartels, chairman of the Kiwanis Club Agriculture and Conservation committee.

Today, Thanksgiving Day, Farm-City Week closes. In this last article I would like to add up what I have been trying to get across. My main point is that the rural and urban dwellers of our country are basically very much alike. Both take pride in a nation grown strong through their combined efforts. Both find a dignity and a fulfillment in their chosen profession. Both consider it their heritage to stand erect, proud, and unafraid; to think and act for themselves; and to enjoy the benefits of their creators. In other words, they are both full-blooded Americans.

Any thinking American whether from the city or the farm values his freedom. He seeks opportunity even more than he seeks security. He prefers looking after himself to being a kept citizen. Any thinking American sees in creeping socialism a threat to his way of life. He resents the load being placed on his shoulders by a big central government with its ever swelling bureaucracy, but even more he resents the load it is placing on the shoulders of his children and grandchildren.

The farmer has traditionally been more independent than the urbanite. Look at the way he has resisted unionization like the plague. He chafes at government controls, but the farmer is certainly not alone in this.

The farmer is also more conservative, especially on social, moral, and religious issues; but also on many political and economic issues. Everyone needs to re-examine his "values" periodically. I think, if we did this, it would lead to a little more conservatism all around.

It hurts a farmer to see good farm land taken out of production to be covered by airports, highways, and urban development. I believe the city-dweller, though not as immediately affected by it, deep down feels much the same way and that in time we will all work together to use more of our marginal lands for these purposes. The rural American now belongs to a minority group and his influence is diminishing. Our legislators with a constant eye toward votes, easily lose cognomen for minority groups. The farmer, as never before, needs the understanding and the friendship of the urbanite and I am sure that this is also true the other way around.

It is toward this better mutual understanding and friendship that this series of articles I have written is dedicated.

Attie Yields Art Treasure

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP)—Officials of Marietta College wondered Wednesday if the attic of the college's old library has yielded up a masterpiece.

A painting by 16th Century German Artist Lucas Cranach, "Image of the Blessed Virgin Mary," or a copy of it, was found in the old library attic during preparations to move into new quarters this month.

Now the school is making efforts to authenticate the painting, although Mariettans are not getting their hopes up over the find. "Several factors indicate that it may only be a copy," explained librarian Richard K. Gardner. "However, because of its apparent age we feel it's worth checking."

Cranach's works have increased in value during the last 30 years. At the same New York art auction which brought $2.3 million for a Rembrandt recently, a Cranach painting sold for $105,000.

Celery seed is just as good to add to creamed cabbage as it is to mix into cole slaw.

The Costa Rican government has promised to protect a five-mile strip of the beach and help with supervision. So far Mexico has done little to preserve its eastern Yucatan grounds. Milton J. Lindner, regional fishery officer stationed with the U.S. Embassy in Mexico City, said the Costa Rican project could provide Central America and portions of South America with meat.

What Dr. Carr is doing is two-fold. First, the Tortuguero beach is being protected from natives, wild dogs and private interests that capitalize on turtle meat exports. Second, thousands of little turtles are being flown to Florida and other spots to launch new breeding grounds.

The Caribbean Conservation Corporation, founded in 1959, assists the project. Already, turtles marked with its CCC metal plaques have been found as far away as Colombia. Why have the turtles become almost extinct? Although fast and even graceful in the water, they are clumsy and almost stupid ashore where they come to lay eggs. They are easily caught, their eggs easily found.

Meat-hungry natives, wild dogs and other animals have almost wrecked breeding grounds. Exploitation by commercial exporters is another reason why the giants have almost disappeared.

Major Factor In Price Rise Absent

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Consumers are still plagued by the high cost of living. But one major contributor to rising prices in the past is absent just now. That is advancing industrial prices.

Such prices, in fact, are holding remarkably steady despite the recovery in industry output. The recession in other postwar recoveries, these prices have advanced sharply.

And because of this stability there is a growing hope that the general rise in the cost of living can be held in check this time. Adding to the prospect is an increasing belief that labor cost advances will be moderate in the next few months, perhaps about in line with existing increases in productivity.

Some industrial prices have weakened during the recovery—aluminum and other non-ferrous metals. Steel prices haven't risen in spite of all the talk about it a few weeks ago when labor costs rose.

Prices of some building materials have dropped, with excess capacity or changing construction demands credited.

Many other industrial prices are holding in a narrow range close to recession levels. Industrialists point to this to argue that any recent rises in consumer prices can be laid at other factors.

Services have been the most active risers in recent months. Some say this is a delayed reaction to earlier cost hikes at the manufacturing and labor levels.

In general the rise in prices during and since the recession has been traced largely to the added costs of distribution, processing and retailing. The cost of the basic materials have remained fairly steady.

Food is its own story. Its original price is influenced by weather and government supports. After that the processing and distributing costs are added. Often the store price seems far away from the farm price.

But this time at least such creeping advances in the cost of living as have shown up in recent months can't be traced to soaring industrial prices.

In the recovery from the 1949 recession the jump in industrial prices was 15 per cent. After the 1954 recession industrial prices rose by 10 per cent, and after the 1958 slump, 5 per cent.

Noting this diminishing percentage and the lack of any jump this time, the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland wonders if industrial prices haven't achieved a stability that could even withstand the impact of increasing defense and other government spending.

The price stability was noted well before the recovery period. One of the major disappointments in consumers at least—was that the cost of living continued to edge higher through most of the recession months. Prices didn't fall just because industrial activity did.

The reason given was that industrial materials might be in less demand but the cost of producing goods and services depended more on other things—labor, convenience processing, transportation, distribution outlets.

But if industrial prices should take a sudden spurt, you'd be sure to feel it in time in your monthly bills. That they are stable now is one happy factor for consumers to note.

Arguments In Suits Heard

AUSTIN (AP)—Dist. Judge Herman Jones has heard pretrial arguments in four civil suits growing out of investigations into the Texas veterans land program.

The suits seek to recover more than $500,000 for the state.

Represented by Asst. Atty. Gen. Arthur Sandlin, the state moved for summary judgment to rescind purchases made under the program.

Austin lawyer John Cofer, appeared for defendants B. H. Sheldfield and L. V. Ruffin, along with 54 veterans from the Brady area.

The state also asks 6 per cent interest rate should be lower. One suit involves $38,247 paid out by the Land Board several years ago. Three companion suits seek more than $200,000.

The correct name of the Big Ten is the Intercollegiate Conference of Faculty Representatives.

Balaguer All Set To Propose New Junta

By ROBERT MERRILL

CULIAD, TRUJILLO (Continued from page 2AP)—President Juan Bosch is expected to propose today the creation of a provisional civilian-military junta headed by himself to bring stability to the Dominican Republic while the work of organizing the legacy of the Trujillo dictatorship goes forward.

The junta proposal—first put forward by the leading political opposition group—was expected in a broadcast in which the president said he would announce new plans to accelerate the democratization of the nation ruled for 30 years by the late Generalissimo Rafael L. Trujillo.

With the left-of-center sector of the political opposition demanding that he resign, Balaguer agreed to strengthen his regime Wednesday night by handing the government's second highest post in the air force general who helped squash efforts of the Trujillo dynasty last weekend to return to power.

The proposed cabinet (see page 2) includes Pedro Rodriguez Escobar, secretary of state of the former cabinet, Col. Pedro Santiago Rodriguez Echavarria, a colonel of the air force, the nation's strongest armed service.

The Rodriguez brothers controlled the air force movement last Sunday that overrode presidential orders and stamped out scattered outbreaks of army revolt in their new positions. They could move even more swiftly by agreement with major forces within the regime.

Armed service officers are known to fear that extremist groups might exploit the weak civilian government—besieged by almost 60 months of political turmoil and the assassination of the dictator—and then topple the present military establishment of Fidel Castro did in Cuba.

Still another change came with the resignation of Labor Secretary Jose Angel Sison. Balaguer said Tuesday that two cabinet members had been involved in the weekend attempt by pre-

Trujillo elements to regain power, but did not identify them.

Sison was considered a close friend of Jose Arizondi Trujillo, a brother of the late generalissimo whose return with Hector Trujillo from exile prompted the crisis that brought U.S. warships steaming offshore.

Balaguer's shakeup came only a few hours after an angry mob of about 200 marched on the national palace demanding his removal.

The marchers were a splinter group from a larger body that rallied through downtown streets halting the end of Trujillo rule.

Tanks rumbled up to aid palace guards—who seemed unable to handle the mob—and police finally dispersed the demonstrators with noise bombs.

One factor in the outbreak against Balaguer was a new post of the left-center 14th of June Movement, the second major opposition group. It issued a statement censuring him for allowing some Trujilloists to leave the country while under suspicion of plotting a coup.

East Half Of Nation Stormy, Wet

By The Associated Press

Stormy, wet and dismal weather was the climatic mood for most of eastern half of the nation on Thanksgiving. Rain also dumped areas in the West, in the wake of heavy snowfalls in some sections.

The temperature table held the only tasty dish on the weather map which showed readings occasionally mild in most areas.

Thunderstorms rumbled across Mississippi, Alabama and western Florida during the night. Hurricane winds were reported in Pensacola, Miss., and near Pensacola, Fla. More than 2 1/2 inches of rain doused Columbus, Miss., in a six-hour period.

The severe weather along the Gulf coastal areas caused considerable property damage but no serious injuries were reported.

Two tornadoes dipped into two small communities near Panama, Fla., damaging homes and buildings and uprooting trees. A child was injured at Gainesville, Fla.

The wet belt extended northward with rain and drizzle through the eastern part of the Mississippi Valley, western Tennessee, the western Ohio Valley and much of the Great Lakes region.

Fog or light drizzle cut visibility over wide areas in the Midwest. More rain fell along the north Pacific Coast and scattered sections of southern Utah. Drizzle sprayed the Middle Atlantic Coast states.

Generally overcast skies prevailed over most of the eastern half of the nation. Skies were clear in the Southwest.

Temperatures were above freezing in most of the country. Except there were some mountain foggy readings were in the 30s and 40s, with 50 reported in the extreme northwestern Plains. The low pressure in the Southwest and the 30s and 40s were reported in the south, east.

Business Executives Boost Higher Education Support

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Not long ago, one of America's most powerful business executives, facing a packed house in a Boston theater, defended the practice of giving the corporate money away.

The incident symbolized the thinking that might turn business into one of the main financial sources of higher education.

Bathone said he had no brief for this sort of thinking. He went on to say that this goes to the heart of the Bill of Rights. We have freedom in this country which few other countries have to the same extent, and these freedoms must be protected.

Alvord Bank Is Robbed

ALVORD, Tex. (AP) — Like any customer, a young man wearing a gray sports coat parked in front of the Alvord National Bank stepped inside and started talking to cashier R. W. McCling.

A large share, including all the unrestricted contributions, went to small independent schools, many of them church-related, lacking taxpayer support and struggling to stay afloat.

Evansville, Ind. (AP) — Eddie Pease, 67, a pushcart peddler, came to the Evansville Rescue Mission as usual Wednesday to pick up his Thanksgiving food basket.

They still polite and mild, he whipped out a gun and emptied it into the air.

His wife, Sarah, 67, accompanied him over Eddie's objections. "No," she said when he advised her to stay home. "This is Thanksgiving, and I want to be with you."

His wife, Sarah, 67, accompanied him over Eddie's objections. "No," she said when he advised her to stay home. "This is Thanksgiving, and I want to be with you."

He headed out of Alvord, a town of 700 northwest of Fort Worth in Wise County, in a white 1959 model car. When last seen Wednesday, the bandit was traveling northwest toward Chico.

The man on the Boston theater stage, conducting his company's annual stockholders meeting, was M. J. Rathbone, president of Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey).

He directs the nation's No. 2 corporation with gross sales of nearly $9 billion in 1960.

Sheriff's deputies in Tarrant County took a 29-year-old man into custody at his home near Aledo and held him for questioning in Fort Worth. Although the man was carrying $172, officers said they doubt he robbed the Alvord bank.

Rathbone's firm pioneered in peering corporate giving to colleges. It remains one of the leaders. In the last five years, Jersey Standard handed out nearly $9.5 million to 494 schools.

Sarah suddenly collapsed in the doorway. She was pronounced dead on arrival at Welborn Hospital, apparently the victim of a heart attack.

A male teacher said the fashion was "turning a classroom of learning into one of distraction."

His spirited defense of giving money away was in answer to a stockholder critic who complained that some funds were channeled to institutions which "teach socialism and ridicule business men, savers and investors."

Lower Hems, Girls Told

FREEDOM, Wis. (AP) — There is too much thigh at Freedom High, in the view of faculty members, so girls at the school were told today to lower the hemlines or go home.

The edict followed a faculty discussion on the current fashion of skirts worn knee high or slightly above. One observer remarked that if girls don't sit properly, there are usually four inches of thigh visible in the class room and as a result the looks aren't for the books.

A male teacher said the fashion was "turning a classroom of learning into one of distraction."

Mothers of the girls were given notes reading: "If you allow your daughter to leave for school with her knee showing you can be almost positive more than knees will be showing when she sits down."

There was no immediate comment from the parents.

Girls who refuse to lower the hems suitably will be sent home or dispatched to the home economics room to lower the hemline before returning to class.

Freedom is a community of some 250 residents in the northern section of the state.

IT'S THE IRISH QUESTION

To Forfeit Or Not To Forfeit

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's a possibility Notre Dame will lose its 1961 season's first game to Syracuse University.

The Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, president of Notre-Dame and in a television interview (CBS Wednesday night) — "Everyone knows Notre Dame doesn't want to win a game if it really didn't. If the rules committee determines that we didn't, we'll act accordingly."

This was an apparent reference to the NCAA's rules committee, which both schools have asked for a formal ruling. Bob Neyland, chairman of the NCAA committee, has said he believes both the Big 10 and Eastern College Athletic Conference have made proper rulings on the game officials' action.

Both conferences held in effect that game officials were wrong in awarding Notre Dame a play after the game ended. On that play, Notre-Dame's Pat Hurst kicked a 41-yard field goal to overcome Syracuse's 15-14 lead. But the two conferences also held that they had no authority to change the score.

Syracuse is a member of the ECAC and Notre Dame uses officials from the Big Ten, but is not a member of it.

The officials had called a penalty against Syracuse for roughing after the Irish tried a field goal as time ran out. The kick was wide. The officials ruled that Notre Dame was entitled to another play.

But after the game the point was raised that the Irish had to be in possession of the ball for the penalty to apply, and once the ball had been kicked, it was no longer in their possession.

Unless Notre Dame concedes to Syracuse, the game goes into the books as a 17-15 victory for the Irish.

Father Hesburgh was here to present President Kennedy with the Notre Dame Loretta Medal, honoring the outstanding Roman Catholic layman of the year.

Ohio State Cagers To Be Strong Again

By HAL PARIS
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State, an awesome giant in basketball circles, looms as a national power again this year.

It's the end of a three-season cycle that has seen the brilliant Buckeyes draw raves as one of the finest basketball teams ever assembled.

Even Coach Fred Taylor sheds his usual air of conservatism when he modestly states: "I think we'll have a good club."

There's sufficient ammunition to support such positive thinking—especially with big Jerry Lucas still on the scene.

Lucas, the 6-foot-8 two-time all-American from Middletown, heads an impressive array of talent that could bring Ohio State a flock of honors.

For one thing, there's the Big Ten title, the most coveted possession in Taylor's book.

"We play them only at a time," the Buckeye boss insists, "but naturally have an eye out for the Western Conference championship. What comes after that is pure gravy."

Ohio is shooting for a third straight championship, one that could equal the feat accomplished by Wisconsin in 1911-12-13.

And while nobody within earshot of Taylor will admit it, the Buckeyes look strong enough to capture another national crown.

That honor proved elusive last March when Cincinnati upset the Buckeyes 70-65 in overtime in the NCAA finale to shatter dreams of a perfect, undefeated season.

But Taylor is quick to point out potential slanders.

"The Big Ten is a lot more balanced and stronger this year. And our opposition outside the league is tough too."

He figures Purdue, Iowa and Minnesota will be rugged and tabs Michigan State and Northwestern as darkhorse teams.

Ohio's only serious losses are All-Conference guard Larry Siegfried, an outstanding floor leader, and Richie Hoyt, the No. 5 man on last year's squad.

Returning with Lucas are starters John Havlicek, a tireless 6-5 performer whom some observers feel is every bit as good as Lucas, and 6-2 Mel Nowell, a fine outside shooter.

Rounding out the top five are Bob Knight, a 6-4 senior who will play a forward post and guard Gary Gearhart, 6-2.

It's an all-senior combo that has proved size and shooting ability. But Taylor says he has a strong crop of sophomores that should provide more potential bench strength and more size than a year ago.

Ohio State Cagers To Be Strong Again

By HAL PARIS
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State, an awesome giant in basketball circles, looms as a national power again this year.

It's the end of a three-season cycle that has seen the brilliant Buckeyes draw raves as one of the finest basketball teams ever assembled.

Even Coach Fred Taylor sheds his usual air of conservatism when he modestly states: "I think we'll have a good club."

There's sufficient ammunition to support such positive thinking—especially with big Jerry Lucas still on the scene.

Lucas, the 6-foot-8 two-time all-American from Middletown, heads an impressive array of talent that could bring Ohio State a flock of honors.

For one thing, there's the Big Ten title, the most coveted possession in Taylor's book.

"We play them only at a time," the Buckeye boss insists, "but naturally have an eye out for the Western Conference championship. What comes after that is pure gravy."

Ohio is shooting for a third straight championship, one that could equal the feat accomplished by Wisconsin in 1911-12-13.

And while nobody within earshot of Taylor will admit it, the Buckeyes look strong enough to capture another national crown.

That honor proved elusive last March when Cincinnati upset the Buckeyes 70-65 in overtime in the NCAA finale to shatter dreams of a perfect, undefeated season.

But Taylor is quick to point out potential slanders.

"The Big Ten is a lot more balanced and stronger this year. And our opposition outside the league is tough too."

He figures Purdue, Iowa and Minnesota will be rugged and tabs Michigan State and Northwestern as darkhorse teams.

Ohio's only serious losses are All-Conference guard Larry Siegfried, an outstanding floor leader, and Richie Hoyt, the No. 5 man on last year's squad.

Returning with Lucas are starters John Havlicek, a tireless 6-5 performer whom some observers feel is every bit as good as Lucas, and 6-2 Mel Nowell, a fine outside shooter.

Rounding out the top five are Bob Knight, a 6-4 senior who will play a forward post and guard Gary Gearhart, 6-2.

It's an all-senior combo that has proved size and shooting ability. But Taylor says he has a strong crop of sophomores that should provide more potential bench strength and more size than a year ago.

Pipers Edge Hawaii To Press Pitt

The Cleveland Pipers put together a four-game winning string and moved to within a half game of slipping Pittsburgh at the top of the Eastern Division standings of the American Basketball League.

A tip-in by Jack Adams with eight seconds to go brought the Pipers a 98-96 victory over Hawaii in the feature of a double-header in Cleveland Wednesday night. Pittsburgh took a 106-92 licking from San Francisco in the first game.

In the other, Kansas City took Washington 106-96 in Richmond, Va., and Chicago crushed Los Angeles 118-90 in Milwaukee.

The Cleveland victory and Pittsburgh defeat set the stage for their showdown game with the division lead-at stake Saturday. Pittsburgh has an 84 record, and Cleveland 74.

San Francisco, getting a 22-point performance from Kenny Sears, had a relatively easy time of it with Pittsburgh. The Saints took a 54-50 halftime lead, poured in 31 more in the third period and coasted home.

Kansas City trailed for three quarters before finding the range and racking up its seventh straight. The Steers, who lead the Western Division by three games, got 27 points from Larry Conley, 24 from George Pruitt and 22 from Gene Tormalhen.

Chicago took a 39-48 lead at intermission and wasn't troubled after that. The Majors got a 26 point performance from Hershel Turner.

Pitchers Doug Mills and Ron Johnson of Illinois and Paul Deen of Indiana each won all four decisions in Big Ten baseball this spring.

Ken McBride's fifth straight win for the Los Angeles Angels was an easy one. He beat Detroit 10-1.

All Quality, No Quantity On Grid Menu

By The Associated Press
Three games—one college and two pros—and the first playing of the Macy Bowl highlight a sparse Thanksgiving football menu today.

Bowling Green of Ohio and Fresno State play in the Macy Bowl at Los Angeles. Proceeds of the game go to the families and survivors of the victims of a plane crash a year ago in which 16 California Poly players lost their lives.

In the big ones, Green Bay is at Detroit—noon, Eastern Standard Time, CBS-TV—in an important National Football League game; Texas is at Texas A&M, 2:30 p.m., Eastern Standard Time, ABC-TV—for their tradition-filled southwest conference rivalry; and Buffalo is at New York 11 a.m., Eastern Standard Time, ABC-TV, in an American Football League affair.

The rest of the schedule includes Colgate at Brown, Memphis State at Chattanooga, William & Mary at Richmond and Virginia Tech at Virginia Military.

The possibility of rain shadowed each of the televised games, but at least two—the Green Bay-Detroit and Texas-Texas A&M games—expected, sellout crowds.

Detroit, challenging the Packers for the Western Division lead of the NFL, has its usual quarterback problem. Coach George Wilson's choice lies between Jim Ninowski and Earl Morrall, each of whom runs hot and cold.

"I don't know who I'll be starting," Wilson said.

The Lions (6-3-1) must win to play in the race. They own one of the two defeats administered the Packers (8-2). A Lion victory would cut the Packers lead to a half game. A Green Bay victory would just about assure the Packers of their second straight division title.

Texas, the No. 1 team before being upset Saturday by TCU will seek a Cotton Bowl berth against their arch rivals, the Aggies. Now ranked No. 5 nationally, they can still gain the best spot in the Cotton Bowl with a victory over the Aggies (4-1-1). They're favored by 14 points.

New York (5-5) could gain second place in the AFL's Eastern Division with a victory over improved Buffalo (5-6).

Soph In Saddle

DENTON (AP) — Sphero quarterback Wayne Mueller is expected to lead the North Texas State football team against Texas Western at El Paso Saturday.

Starting quarterback Billy Ryan is sidelined with a broken hand suffered in last week's loss to Louisville last week.

Mueller has seen action mostly in the latter stages of North Texas games.

BUT UPSETS ARE UNLIKELY

Aggies, Raiders Could Alter Conference Race

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer
Texas and Texas A&M clash at College Station Thursday to get the most vital week of Southwest Conference football on its way.

The Cotton Bowl and the conference championship are at stake.

Texas can clinch the Cotton Bowl host spot if it whips Texas A&M—something it is favored to do by two touchdowns. It also can clinch a tie for the championship.

Then only the Arkansas-Texas Tech game at Little Rock Saturday will remain to have a bearing on the race. Arkansas could gain a tie for the title by beating Tech. The Razorbacks are favored by 17 points.

Texas and Arkansas are 5-1 with one game to play. Rice is 3-2 with two to go.

Rice finds itself a "paper-clip" favorite over Texas Christian despite the fact that TCU reached the season's heights last week in topping Texas from the No. 1 spot in the nation. Rice was showing an upsurge with a 21-7 victory over Texas A&M.

Rice, with Randall Kerbow and Billy Cox doing the throwing, will have a dangerous aerial attack at TCU and its mighty Sonny Gibbs. The conference's total offense leader, TCU boasts a better ground attack featuring Tommy Crutcher, third in the league in rushing.

Texas Tech never has beaten Arkansas in four tries and the Red Raiders are given little chance of turning the tide this time as they meet the November scourge of the conference. Arkansas hasn't lost a November game in four years.

While all the important stuff is going on, Baylor and Southern Yearlings Sash To Victory Over A&M

Yearlings Sash To Victory Over A&M

AUSTIN (AP)—A first quarter touchdown by Texas Yearling Ernie Kov stood up as Texas A&M's freshman bowed to a rain-plashed football game Wednesday.

It was the sixth straight victory for the Texas frosh over A&M and closed out the Yearlings with a 4-1 record. The junior Aggies wound up 2-3 for the season.

From me to you A DAILY VIEW

by Rev. R. Charles Spivey

"Jesus said, 'Who is my mother, and who are my brothers?' and stretching out his hand toward his disciples, he said, 'Here are my mother and my brothers.' For whoever does the will of my Father in heaven, he is my brother, and sister, and mother."

—Matthew 12:48-50 (Read verses 38-50)

Jesus was continually doing or saying something out of the ordinary. And many times he was condemned by the religious community of the day. Even in our time there are those that shake the head when they read the verses above. Jesus seems to have broken the "5th Commandment" to honor his father and mother. But Jesus was not breaking any commandment. He was trying to point out that the true child of God is not the biological child of his mother, but the child of God.

With a quick, the modern man can't and won't see the same or worse facts in themselves; think they are the only one. But Jesus says that the standards of judgment are not based on the physical, but on the heart. There are the real sons of God.

Yugoslav Airmen Finish Training

DALLAS (AP)—Eight Yugoslav airmen have finished training in Texas and the National Indignation Convention (NIC), formed to protest their presence in this country, is holding a new series of rallies.

NIC delegates reconvened Wednesday night to hear a New York magazine publisher appeal for a tough attitude by President Kennedy against the communist menace that is pressing against this country.

Reservists Are Told Of New Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department says those reservists who "have been holding out their hands all these years and now don't want to serve."

The new policy was announced Wednesday in a directive issued by the department to clarify deferment policies for reservists and National Guardsmen ordered to active duty.

The ruling pertains to those reservists who finished their obligations but elected to stay in the reserves in order to build up retirement credits.

The policy review, signed by the deputy secretary of defense, Roswell L. Gilpatrick, also reiterated that extreme personal or community hardship is a valid basis for delay or exemption from active duty.

It also set forth a "firm and uniform policy" on medical deferments for medical and dental students.

Unless they are receiving drill pay, they will be drafted a chance to enter a program permitting them to finish their professional studies, "after which they will be given a chance to enter a program leading to their early commissioning."

The directive added "if they elect not to accept this program, they will be transferred to the standby reserve and after completion of their studies and training may be drafted."

Search Made For Comedian And Son

FORT STOCKTON, Tex. (AP)—Officers searched for comedian Dave Gardner and his son today at the request of his wife.

Mrs. Gardner said she lost sight of a car carrying her husband and son David, 8, Wednesday as they followed the car in which she and the couple's daughter were driving.

At the time they were about 55 miles west of Fort Stockton in West Texas on a trip from Hollywood to Mississippi.

"We made arrangements that if we were separated during the trip we would wait for one another at the next town," Mrs. Gardner said. "I've been waiting here every since then."

Funds Are Allotted For Restoring Farms

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman allotted $500,000 for emergency conservation funds for sharing with farmers in six Texas counties the cost of restoring farms damaged by Hurricane Carla and accompanying floods in September.

The counties are Brazoria, Calhoun, Chamber, Galveston, Jackson and Matagorda.

The program will be administered by the Texas Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Kennedys At Home Today

RYANNS PORT, Mass. (AP)—The Kennedys, like millions of other American families, gathered today to give thanks and eat turkey.

For this day, the President of the United States was just one of Joseph P. Kennedy's children.

He was to sit, not at the head of the table, as he does at dinner for presidents and presidents of nations around the world, but at the side.

For the day, Joseph P. Kennedy, whose ancestors emigrated from Ireland, was the master of his household and the President was just one of his children assembled for a New England family gathering.

In all, there were about 30 Kennedys, with in-laws and offsprings, at the Cape Cod home of former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy.

The President's two brothers and three sisters were there, with their wives, husbands and children—15 of the youngsters—with the President's blonde daughter, Caroline, the queen bee.

Caroline will turn four on Monday. She had a birthday party at the White House in Washington, but a big family party is scheduled for the weekend.

There is a question, however, whether her brother, John F. Kennedy Jr., will be able to join the other Kennedys.

John Jr., who will be a year old Saturday, was left in Washington when the President and Mrs. Kennedy, with Caroline, flew to the summer white house from Washington Wednesday.

The White House said the baby had a light cold, without fever, but may be able to join the family before the weekend is over.

The Kennedys were to sit down to a traditional holiday dinner—prepared by the long-time family cook, Matilda Heldad—served in early afternoon at the Joseph P. Kennedy home.

On the menu—turkey, soup, roast turkey with cranberry sauce, candied sweet potatoes, hot buttered rolls, a variety of pies, including pumpkin, and ice cream—vanilla, strawberry or chocolate.

But the holiday respite from the nation's problems was only for one day for the President.

On Friday he goes back to work, tackling such complex problems as the military budget for the next fiscal year, beginning July 1.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and others are due to discuss defense spending in the next budget.

Times Tower Scene Of Spectacular Fire

NEW YORK (AP)—An inferno several stories underground killed two firemen Wednesday night and turned the Times Tower into a huge chimney belching smoke and searing heat high above the "Crossroads of the World."

A crowd rivaling those of New Year's eve swarmed into the Times Square area around the 24-story triangular building—a landmark known throughout the world.

After a fight of almost five hours, 130 firemen got the spectacular blaze under control at 1:28 a.m. today.

Sixty pieces of fire department apparatus jammed the streets, and traffic was halted for a radius of two blocks. Police headquarters mobilized 130 extra men to patrol the area.

A cleaning woman and a porter were trapped by smoke on the 23rd floor for more than three hours. Through dense smoke and heat firemen finally made their way aloft and led the pair to the street.

Eleven firemen suffered smoke poisoning or injury.

The fire was deep in the seven-level underground storage vaults beneath the building which used to be the headquarters of the New York Times.

The fire apparently started in the fourth level down, and it burned through several levels. The storage vaults are mostly those of a foreign magazine and back-number newspaper firm which has a store in the basement.

The five-alarm blaze generated dense smoke and intense heat that poured up through the building.

The heat burst hundreds of windows, showering shattered glass to the street. Only one person was injured—an ambulance attendant who suffered minor cuts.

The cause of the blaze was not immediately determined.

Through it all, the big "Times" electric signs near the top of the tower cast beams of light through the smoke.

And it was business-as-usual for all but one of the restaurants, saloons, hot dog stands and small shops in the area. A drug store on the 42nd street side of the tower had to suspend operations as firemen ran hoses through it.

The American Red Cross and the Salvation Army set up sandwich and coffee canteens for the firemen and police.

Two firemen—killed—both victims of smoke—were Charles Lang, 31, of 1212 148th St., Ozone Park, Queens, and Robert Hurst, 24, of 329 Taylor Avenue, Staten Island.

The Times Tower was sold by the New York Times last April for conversion into a combined office building and exhibition hall. The conversion has not been completed.

Many businesses, including Editor & Publisher, the trade magazine, have offices in the building. The only New York Times space in the building is a classified advertising office on the street floor.

The building, which gave Times Square its name, was completed in 1905.

It housed the editorial, printing and departments of the newspaper until 1913. In that year the Times moved its operations to its present headquarters nearby on West 43rd street.

Collision Of Plane, Horse Is Reported

WASHINGTON (AP)—The collision in Texas of a plane and a horse was reported Wednesday by the Federal Aviation Agency.

The FAA said a Mooney light plane operated by Richard Plahn and cleared to Kerville last Saturday, because of fuel shortage landed instead at a private strip at Comfort, Tex.

Little Terry Jo's Holiday Mixed Up

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—This was a mixed-up Thanksgiving Day for Terry Jo Duperrault, the sole survivor of the Bluebelle tragedy.

The pretty blonde 11-year-old could be thankful for her escape and rescue, via life raft, from the sinking ketch.

She could be thankful, too, in her hospital room for a recovery that enabled her to order up a traditional turkey-and-fixings dinner.

But for Terry Jo, it was a Thanksgiving Day bereft of her entire family—parents, brother and sister—who went down Nov. 12 with the yacht she Duperraults had chartered for a Bahamas pleasure cruise.

Only an uncle, Fred Duperrault, and an aunt, Mrs. Ralph Scheer, were here as "family" for Terry Jo on the holiday.

She had been in a minor burn and unconscious girl was flown here from a rescue craft and was put on glucose injections in a desperate fight to save her life.

Interrogators say Terry Jo has not cried or indicated she knows her family's fate—except to point silently downward when asked about them by the crew of the merchant ship which rescued her.

Physically, the Green Bay, Wis., girl snapped back with amazing vitality from her 3½ days of foodless tossing on a raft under a tropical sun and rainless nights. She has read comic books and written chatty letters to schoolmates back home.

Here is what Terry Jo ordered for her Thanksgiving dinner at Mercy Hospital: fresh fruit, soup, roast turkey, mashed potatoes, giblet gravy, baked squash, molded cranberry salad, roll and butter, pumpkin pie and milk.

Her appetite has been good. She stood up for the first time Tuesday.

A two-Thanksgiving present was a $94 doll, some toys and clothing from the crew of the freighter Captain Theo, which plucked her from the Atlantic Ocean.

Terry Jo's hospital room is her refuge against a future which still boils concerning the fate of the Bluebelle, the Duperrault family, the Bluebelle skipper's wife, Mary, and the suicide of rescued skipper Julian Harvey.

Harvey cut his veins less than 24 hours after he had heard the little girl had been picked up alive.

Mrs. Harvey's brothers, Dr. Jordan and Charles Jordan, both of Milwaukee, have expressed dissatisfaction with the Coast Guard's inquiry into the Bluebelle tragedy. Harry Jordan said the two will remain in Miami and will try to get permission to talk with Terry Jo.

The Coast Guard has said no findings will be announced until the Bluebelle investigation has closed.

Cement Firm Discloses Plan To Sell

BEAUMONT (AP)—Trustees for the Texas Portland Cement Co. disclosed Wednesday the firm currently being reorganized may be sold to Eastern interests.

They advised U.S. Dist. Judge Joe Sweeney of Tyler, in a petition filed here, that the prospective buyer is Alpha Portland Cement Co. of Easton, Pa., one of the industry's largest manufacturers.

The trustees, Chilton O'Brien and Martin Davis, gave no figures but industry sources estimated the transaction would involve about $4,800,000. Texas Portland's plant is at Echo in neighboring Orange County.

O'Brien and Davis merely asked the court, under whose supervision they have been reorganizing the corporation since July 7, 1958, for more time to file a reorganization plan. They requested that the deadline be set back from Jan. 1 to April 1 because of an offer from Alpha Portland.

Texas Portland has about 4,200 stockholders and 2500 creditors.

The trustees said the projected deal could permit full payment of all administrative expenses plus cash or debentures to meet all creditors' claims allowed by the court and "the realization by all stockholders of some equity to the extent that their proofs of interest might be allowed."

Long-Standing Policy May Account For Some Actions

BY OMAR BURLISON, M. C.
Congressman Omar Burlison reports from the United Nations in New York City on what, in his opinion, was the most significant action of the United Nations during the week just passed.

As incredible as it may appear, the Soviet Union and its satellites voted in the Political Committee to outlaw the use of nuclear weapons in war and banning the testing or stockpiling of nuclear weapons in African territory.

The Resolution was sponsored by Asian and African nations in such number as to give practical assurance that the General Assembly will approve by the necessary 2-3 vote.

The opposition to the Resolution was led by the United States and Great Britain. The total vote against it was 16, which included the NATO Nations.

As is usual in these circumstances, the Soviets appeared to be the champion of the Asian and African States. The NATO powers, and particularly the United States and Great Britain, were portrayed as the culprits.

Both the United States and Great Britain branded the Soviet position as hypocritical. The Soviet position was also branded as hypocritical.

This vote in the United Nations Political Committee is one of the few actions which I have found stem from historical colonialism.

not to already have had a background of policy. In many instances, I find that the position of the United States Government has been fixed for a considerable period of time—some going back to almost the beginning of the United Nations. An example of a fixed policy is our position on the question of Portuguese Angola and South Africa.

Our Government began opposing what supposedly was the nationalist movement in Angola and opposing Portugal in 1960. Likewise, we took a position a year ago against the Government of South Africa for the so-called apartheid practices.

More important is the feeling on the part of many of the Africans and Asians that it is perfectly all right for whites to impose their will on blacks and blacks on whites.

The United States finds itself at a disadvantage with almost half of the membership of the United Nations. By reason of our friendship, both present and historically, with the so-called colonial powers, we too are accused of exercising colonial powers over the Island of Guam, over our Trust Territories in the Pacific, the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico.

They see no imperialism on the part of the Russians since they have no colonies, as such, composed of black, brown or yellow people.

It is understandable that once policy is established it is extremely difficult to reverse it, but it can be done if our own people can be convinced that it is in their best interests to do so.

For three days the Pilgrims ate, drank and prayed, and for three days and three nights the Indians ate, drank and whooped it up over the landscape.

You can't have a party like that without someone asking, "Is there a doctor in the house?" Dr. Fuller was the only one.

No one knows the trouble he faced. There must have been burnt fingers, cuts and bruises to treat during those three long days.

lies in the best characteristics of leadership. The United States finds itself at a disadvantage with almost half of the membership of the United Nations.

These are the principal reasons why our Government appears the greater part of the time to be on the defensive and making excuses for our position.

In the United Nations it is to be meaningful in the future and if the United States as a nation is to be respected, we must change some of our past practices and policies and offer a more positive leadership.

Dr. Fuller Hero On 1st Thanksgiving

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—America's most forgotten Thanksgiving holiday hero is Dr. Samuel Fuller. You probably never heard of him. But when you bear his story you may agree it's time a grateful nation built a monument to him, perhaps in the shape of a gigantic aspirin tablet or tranquilizing pill—medical weapons he could well have used 340 years ago.

Dr. Fuller, said as the top physician among the 102 passengers on the Mayflower. Sickness had reduced the Pilgrim colony at Plymouth, Mass., to about 50 when Dr. Fuller's long holiday ordeal began.

That was on Dec. 13, 1621, when the Indian chief Massasoit arrived with 90 of his braves to help the Pilgrims celebrate their first successful harvest.

A present-day Thanksgiving reduces many a modern man to a groaning wreck from too much food and drink. But at least he has the solace of bicarbonate in his bathroom medical cabinet, and the choice of a hundred patented postures at his friendly neighborhood druggist.

Such was hardly the situation that faced Dr. Fuller on America's first Thanksgiving Day in 1621.

Here is a picture to make any physician in history turn pale:

- 1. A feast that ran for three full days—not one.
- 2. A menu that ranged from gooseberries to pumpkin pie, from cornbread to venison stew, clams, goose and turkey, all washed down probably with green wine and "strong waters."
- 3. A host group of 50 roudoun Pilgrims—including only five surviving women and a number of children—all exhausted by hard work and unused to plentiful food.
- 4. A guest list of nearly 100 hungry wild Indians who were expected to eat with the Pilgrims, and who were ready to drink anything that flowed and gorge on anything that had had its fur or feathers removed.

For three days the Pilgrims ate, drank and prayed, and for three days and three nights the Indians ate, drank and whooped it up over the landscape.

You can't have a party like that without someone asking, "Is there a doctor in the house?" Dr. Fuller was the only one.

No one knows the trouble he faced. There must have been burnt fingers, cuts and bruises to treat during those three long days.

Interceptors Kept Busy By 'Objects'

By FRANK PITMAN
COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—An airbase trying to make up lost time. A wandering private plane. Reflections of city lights against the clouds. A nearby planet. Shooting stars. Whales. Those are some of the things that send the nation's fighter interceptors into the wild blue yonder about a dozen times a day for a close check of unidentified objects in the sky.

The birdmen, who guide craft at twice the speed of sound, have never yet found what they're going up for and they are not sorry. It would be an on-board hostile plane or missile.

Attached to some 40 squadrons on the continent's defense line, the pilots fly at the instant a radar screen or ground observer picks up an object that can't be identified. Most unidentified objects turn out to be simply commercial and private planes that wander outside the avenues of their flight plans.

Tributary commercial flights from overseas are the most common cause of false alarms, officials at North American Air Defense Command said. Favorable or unfavorable winds cause the airliner's schedule to vary, and observers using radar and radio are unable to correlate the craft with its flight plan. That calls for visible check by a fighter interceptor.

Poor flying weather contributes to the number of false alarms. Under those conditions, commercial and private pilots are hard-pressed to stay precisely within their flight plan.

The slightest variance immediately classifies the plane as an unidentified object and touches off an alarm at a fighter interceptor base.

Now-and-then radar is fooled. Once a radar screen projected a blip that turned out to be three whales lolling in the Atlantic.

Ground observers are most likely to be deceived by reflections of lights against unusual cloud formations or the proximity of a planet like Mars or Venus. Once an interceptor flight investigated a strange combination of lights sweeping rhythmically across the sky. It turned out to be three Navy planes maneuvering in formation with all ranging lights blazing. The sweepers of the precision flight resembled a flying saucer.

On an average day some 20 to 30 unidentified objects set off preliminary alerts at the guardian bases. The identity of half of them is cleared up in the few minutes before the fighter interceptor is airborne. Once the plane is aloft, it's hardly seconds before it is alongside and identifies the object.

9 Orphans Get Present

NORWICH, Conn. (AP)—A door-to-door fund drive by high school youngsters has produced a $7,004 Thanksgiving present for nine children of a family whose parents were killed in an auto accident.

The crash last Friday took the lives of Frank Craig, 42, and his wife Theresa, 37, while their children slept at home. Mrs. Craig was expecting her 10th child.

An aunt, Mrs. Joseph Bennett, is trying to keep the Craig children, who range in age from 1 to 18, together.

Wednesday night students of Norwich Free Academy rang doorbells for three hours and raised $7,004. James Craig, 18, is a student at the school.

Pledges to the fund amount to $14,500. This includes a day's pay from the 63 members of Local 267 of the Plumbers and Steamfitters Union, of which Frank Craig was a member.

Little Girl Given Dog

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—A happy Thanksgiving was assured today for Ruthie Ashby, the little girl who so badly wanted a dog.

The blonde, blue-eyed 6-year-old was the victim of a cruel jest Sunday. An unidentified woman at a dog show told her she could have a prize-winning dog.

Ruthie was heartbroken when she had to give up a prize-winning St. Bernard dog which she took home with her.

But since the news got out of Ruthie's bitter disappointment dog offers have poured in to the Ashby home.

The Ashby's probably will accept an offer by Mabel McIntyre of Kearny, N.J. She is breeding her Shetland this weekend and will give Ruthie the pick of the litter, expected in January.

Junior Editors Quiz on RADIATION

QUESTION: What is "fallout" and what will it do to me?

ANSWER: If an atomic bomb were to explode, there would be, first, a great deal of radiation close to where the bomb fell. This would cause a lot of damage but its effect would not last very long. There would be another dangerous effect from an atomic bomb. This would be caused by very fine particles of matter becoming radioactive through the explosion, drifting with the wind and gradually falling down through the atmosphere, perhaps covering a very large area. This is "fallout." Fallout would cause injury and death to many people unless they had a way of protecting themselves. The dangerous effects would last for a number of days. Our President has requested us to build shelters where we will be safe from this fallout. Our picture shows such a shelter built underground next to a private house. The dangerous rays could not penetrate through the earth and concrete of this shelter and the people inside would be quite safe. The pipe sticking up is for them to get air by turning a hand crank inside.

FOR YOU TO DO: Are there school or public shelters in your area? See if you can find out where they are.

(Sherman Swisher of Rossville, Ga., wins $10 for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper.)

Most recipes for hot spiced cider call for the addition of sugar, but your family may find this beverage sweet enough as it and you can omit the sugar. A cinnamon stick and a few whole cloves are usually added for the spicing.

Fashionable Town Does Have Heart

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) - To a casual observer, part of the town is little more than a million bucks. This fashionable Southern California resort might seem like a snooty town blessed with everything but a heart.

But not to the recently destitute Appley family, now celebrating Thanksgiving in this picturesque community famed for millionaires.

In what seemed at first an unhappy act of fate, residents of Santa Barbara got a chance to open not only their wallets, but their hearts as well, to Henry Appley, his wife Lettie and their seven children.

New Trend In Historical Dramas Seen

By WILLIAM GLOVER Associated Press Drama Critic NEW YORK (AP) - A new trend in historical dramas is shaping on Broadway. The central theme, Suburban English - kings and martyr-friends.

"A Man for All Seasons," which opened Wednesday night at the Anta Theater, pits Henry VIII in mortal conflict with Sir Thomas More.

Inevitably it invites comparison with last season's "Becket," wherein an earlier Henry III is to be precise dispatched another Thomas to execution and sainthood.

The new play stands up to the comparison well, thanks largely to the stunning performance of a cast headed by Paul Scofield, and some imaginatively fluid staging.

Playwright Robert Bolt is concerned with conflict which endures. More's refusal to endorse King's heading Henry's divorce from his first wife, Catherine of Aragon, or the establishment of the Church of England.

"There is one little area where I must re-phrase myself," the lord chancellor replies to all pleas by family and friends that he compromise with his conscience enough to smooth the monarch and avoid the block.

Scofield, an English star in his first American appearance, enacts more with a cool austerity. George Rose is nimble, masterful as a combination wagehand, chorus and man of many roles in the progress of the play. Other lead parts are splendidly handled by Leo McKern, Albert Dekker, Keith Taylor and William Redfield.

Arranged a sweeping stairway to frame director Noel Willman's scenes. Assorted props float down from the overhead in amusing contrast to the essentially cerebral mood of the drama.

For fans who delight in historical, excursions, "A Man for All Seasons" is a rich delight.
