FULLER SAYS RUSSELL MUST BE SENT BACK

Massachusetts Governor Again Asks Wichitan's Extradiction

LETTER TO FERGUSON

Bay State Executive Declares All Requirements Are Complied With

Associated Press

Efforts by the state of Massachusetts to bring back from Texas for trial Albert P. Russell of Wichita Falls, charged with wife abandonment, were renewed yesterday when Governor Alvan T. Fuller addressed a letter to Governor Miriam A. Ferguson asking her to reconsider her refusal to hand Russell over to authorities of this state.

In his letter the Massachusetts governor asserted that, with Russell's identity as the person named in the indictment admitted, the governor of Texas has no discretion in the matter, and he warned against the danger of "a haven of refuge to which criminals might flee without fear of being called upon to answer for their misdeeds."

A special agent sent to Austin with requisition papers for Russell several weeks ago reported on his return that James Ferguson, husband of the governor, had refused to hand over the prisoner on the ground that his removal to Massachusetts would "injure his business." Governor Ferguson in a letter to Governor Fuller later expressed the belief that Russell was innocent of the crime for which he was indicted. Governor Fuller's letter said in part:

Writes to Governor

"Applying the principles of law to my requisition for the return of Albert P. Russell to Massachusetts it was admitted at your hearing that the papers accompanying the requisition were in proper form, that Albert P. Russell is the man sought and that he was in Massachusetts at the time alleged in the indictment as to the date of the commission of the offenses."

"All three requirements having been complied with, I respectfully submit that, as matter of law, you have no discretion in the matter and it is your duty to honor my requisition.

"The question of guilt or innocence of Russell is one with which your excellency has no legal right to be concerned and is solely within the jurisdiction orf Massachusetts. As I read your letter denying my requisition your denial is based solely upon the ground that Russell is innocent of the crimes for which he has been indicted. It must be obvious that if governors of asylum states adopted a policy of denying requisitions upon such a ground it would lead to the breakdown of interstate rendition and to the establishment of havens of refuge in the United States to which criminals might flee with the assurance that they were safe there, since the demanding state has no power to compel its witnesses to proceed to the asylum state for the purpose of proving the guilt of the fugitive.

Danger of Asylum

"Such a policy would result also in setting up the governor of the asylum state as an extra-territorial court of the demanding state, a result which is unjustifiable in law and undesirable from the point of view of sound administration of justice.

"It is well established that there is no power to compel the governor of an asylum state to honor the requisition of the governor of the demanding state if, contrary to his legal duty he declines to do so. But the very fact that the governor of the asylum state cannot be compelled to do his duty, ought to make him exceedingly careful lest he fail to do that which the law says he must do.

"You state further in your letter that you believe that 'the prosecution was inspired by a desire on the part of his wife to collect some money rather than the mere enforcement of your criminal law.' I assume without question that you did not thereby intend to impugn the good faith of Massachusetts or of its officials charged with the administration of criminal law. * * * Permit me to assure you that the commonwealth of Massachusetts has at no time had, and does not now have any motive or desire in this matter except to prosecute Russell for the crime for which he was indicted."

At Austin Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson last night said she had not received a letter from Governor Fuller of Massachusetts requesting her to reconsider her refusal to grant extradition of Russel. Until the letter is received she will have no comment to make on its contents, she said.

TRAFFIC LIGHT BASIS OF SUIT AGAINST CITY

"Amicable Settlement" On $10,000 Action Demanded By Sam G. Wisdom

A $10,000 damage suit growing out of injuries alleged to have been sustained as a result of the operation of the new traffic control lights is looming against the city unless an "amicable settlement" is soon reached between it and Sam G. Wisdom, 2104 Fifth St. A three-man commission is to be appointed today by Mayor Shepherd to investigate the merits of Mr. Wisdom's claims and make a report to the city council.

In a petition that is already drawn Mr. Wisdom alleges that on Feb. 17, last, he was knocked down and several injured by an automobile at Seventh and Indiana and that the accident came as a result of his being ordered by a traffic officer on duty at the corner to turn back to a sidewalk after he had inadvertantly started across the street when a red signal light was set against him. He alleges he was not familiar with the operation of the lights, knew nothing of the police department regulations concerning them and became confused at "the angry" orders and demeanor of the officer on duty.

The petition also recites that the accident occurred prior to the time a law governing traffic control with the lights became effective. For this reason, he holds, the officer had no legal right to order him to turn around.

Injuries sustained in the accident, it is alleged, will permanently impair his health and affect his earning capacity for the balance of his life.

The case is the first to come up as a direct result of an accident attributed to the new traffic signal system.

HERE'S A GOOD GLUE AD

If Paste Would Stick Like This Possum—The Others Would Quit

That rooster which J. F. Riggs toted all over town on his automobile fender isn't one-two-three with George Schweining's possum.

George says so himself.

George, with the Southwestern Glass and Paint company, and Gordon Veal of the City National bank, caught a possum on the Burk road early last evening. They threw it up on top of their Ford coupe and the animal stuck.

Unattached to Henry's top except with his claws he continued to stick in a drive around the city. To prove it the possum ordered George and Gordon to drive by The Record News. About midnight George phoned saying they had just garaged the flivver and that their friend from the wide open spaces was still sticking.

City Council—

Authorized Mayor Shepherd and Commissioner Hoyard to work out a basis of payment to the Wichita Falls Electric company of $5,100 due it for installation of the new traffic signal system. Approximately $1,100 will be paid in cash, it is understood, and the balance probably in three years at 6 per cent interest.

Agreed to a special meeting with the school board some time this week to take up consideration of some paving matters involving school property.

Considered a request from Utilities Commissioner Clifford for a change in the routing of the new 12-inch water main to be built from Broad street to the business section. A more complete report was requested before final action was taken.

Authorized 650 feet extensions of a two-inch water main on Avenue N west from Grant at a cost of $250. Eight houses will be served by the main.

Refused to grant a dance hall permit for a building on Front street near the Wichita river bridge.

Considered two tax matters presented for adjustment by Assessor and Collector W. R. Iyer.

House Engrosses Bill To Abolish Penitentiary Farm System

SUBSTITUTE LOSES

Throckmorton Solon Loses First Round In Opposing Changes

AUSTIN, March 9. — Re-location and centralization of the Texas penitentiary upon a single tract of land somewhere near the center of population, which has been suggested by several investigations committees and the recent prison survey, was favored today by the house when it engrossed the Teer bill 72 to 40.

A substitute bill, prepared by Representatives A. H. King of Throckmorton, and J. W. Stevenson of Austwell, signers of the recent committee minority report, was introduced but tabled.

The Teer bill as introduced, appoints a commission composed of the governor, attorney general and commissioner of the general land office, to be known as the re-location commission whose duty it should be to dispose of all of the existing farm properties, and purchase 10,000 acres somewhere near the center of population upon which a modern prison plant shall be erected. An amendment was adopted to exempt the Cherokee county prison land because of its mineral value.

She Burns Up Hogs to 'Drive Away Devils'

KITCHENER, Ont., March 9.—Anna Reynolds, reputed priestess of a cult in Toronto, known as "the faith of the holy light" was in custody today charged with having presided over a weirdly exotic midnight ceremonial at Bluevalm, Ont., in which ten hogs were sacrificed as "offering to devilish spirits."

Constable P. C. Whiteside arrested her on the charge that she was "insane and dangerous to be at large." Earl Underwood who furnished the hogs and told authorities he would do anything "Anna Reynolds said to do," was in custody for questioning.

The woman, a professional nurse, came from Toronto to the Underwood farm several weeks ago, to attend Mrs. Underwood during an illness. Underwood's story as related by Whiteside is that last Thursday the priestess ordered Underwood to build a great pyre of logs in a field. He did so. Then she ordered that ten of the farmer's choicest hogs be trussed up on the pyre. That also was done. At midnight the priestess ignited the pyre and as the blaze of pine logs mounted skyward, she made queer gestures and uttered strange incantations, to "drive away the devils."

A LOVE EPIC OF THE FAR NORTH

Doheny Sued For $904,000 Tax

LOS ANGELES, March 9.—The United States government today filed suit in the federal court here for $904,551.52 alleged income taxes due for 1919 from E. L. Doheny, oil magnate, his son, his wife, two of the directors in his companies and two of his concerns, the Doheny Pacific Petroleum Co., and the Petroleum Securities Co.

Those named with Doheny besides his son, E. L. Doheny, Jr., and Mrs. Doheny are J. D. Anderson and Olyn Welborne.

The government alleges that the sum is due on the taxes for 1919 the defendant's' report for that year showing a net taxable income of $11,664, where as it is said, it should have been $2,101,345.

The suit also calls attention to the transfer of 5,500 shares of capital stocks of the defendant's from the Doheny Pacific Petroleum Co., to the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Co., another Doheny concern, which together with cash and other property amounted to $4,425,052.

DEATH IS HIS SINGLE ROAD TO HAPPINESS

Brilliant Student, Fearing Oblivion, Leaps Window To Meet It

NEW YORK, March 9. — Henry Mead, a graduate student of Columbia university, was unable after 12 years to conquer his fear of death, so today he killed himself, leaping to the street from the window of his dormitory room on the sixth floor of Hartley hall. He had received the degree of Ph B at Brown university in 1922 and was studying for a doctor's degree in dramatic literature. He had registered home addresses as both Fall River, Mass., and Brooklyn. He was 25 years old.

Mead left four notes behind. One addressed to Dr. G. Alfred Lawrence, a neurologist here, said:

"You have failed."

Another addressed to "my mother" read:

"You might try to console yourself with the knowledge that I consider this act necessary for my happiness and that whatever pleases me would be pleasing to you."

Dr. Lawrence described Mead as possessing two conflicting personalities. One was distinguished by high hope and ambition; the other was a "fear complex"—a dread of death before his time.

The police found three bottles of a poisonous liquid in Meads' room which led them to believe he had considered suicide by poison before he finally decided on the window. His cot was in disarray as if he had tossed on it most of the night, fighting out his last decision.

Terrell Law May Soon Be Superceded

AUSTIN, March 9.—(AP)—Texas today moved a notch nearer a new primary election law superceding the Terrell law which has been in force more than 10 years. The senate passed Senator Berkeley's measure offering an entirely new primary system. The vote was 15 to 12.

The bill provides for only one primary, instead of two as at present. The primary for all parties would be held the same day, the third Tuesday in July.

Voters are to register their first and second choices, providing there are more than two candidates. If neither candidate has a majority, then all the first and second choices for each man are to be added and the candidate with the highest number of first and second choice votes to be declared the winner.

The general election ballot, under provisions of the bill is arranged with a square in front of the party designation.

TEXAS COTTON OUTLAWED

Arkansas Bans It Because of Pink Boll Worm Menace

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 9.—Governor Tom J. Terral today telegraphed Governor Ferguson of Texas, that failure of the Texas legislature to make provision for continuation of the pink boll worm quarantine in that state would result in Arkansas declaring an embargo on cotton products from that state.

Governor Terral's telegram follows:

"Our plant board informs me that there is grave possibility of the Texas legislature not making provisions to carry out quarantine to keep pink boll worm confined to present infected areas. Justice to your agricultural and commercial interests demands that you be apprised of the faith that our prosperity and the prosperity of every other southern state centers around our cotton industry. It is right that you be informed that Arkansas is prepared to take whatever steps may be necessary for us to protect our own industry. Our plant board through an emergency plan already on our statute books is in a position to carry out quarantine affecting any and all products which it may be necessary to regulate or exclude and our board shall have support in any step deemed necessary to protect our cotton industry."

AUSTIN, March 9.—(AP)—Charges that two or three members of the house of representatives had threatened to kill the Durham election reform bill unless the author would agree to permit the Ferguson amnesty bill to come up ahead of it were made in the house today by Representative A. J. Durham of Sabinal.

Representative Durham asserted the proposition was the "most diabolical and most contemptible insult I ever received, and I hurl it back in their faces, and denounce them as men unworthy to be members of this house of representatives."

He asserted that he would resign at once should the house do so.

As he spoke the members crowded around the speaker.

AUSTIN, March 9.—(AP)—Captain J. A. Herring, chairman of the prison commission, and N. T. Thornton, manager of the Wynne prison farm, disagreed in their testimony before the senate tonight on the question of whether Herring asked Thornton to resign.

Captain Herring had previously announced that he sent a telegram asking for Thornton's resignation. Captain Thornton said he might resign but "not while under fire."

MONDAY IS WARM DAY

City Ambles Through a Lazy Day; Colder Tuesday.

Early summer warmth and sultriness took some of the wind from Wichita Falls sails Monday and the city as a whole ambled through a rather lazy day. It was one of the warmest periods thus far this year. A partly overcast sky carried a hint of rain most of the time but this had failed to materialize at a late hour last night. The wind, which had been a boistrous factor in local weather conditions the past few days, had subsided to a great extent yesterday.

Partly cloudy and probably colder was the prediction for Tuesday.

TWO MORE MAY DIE AS RESULT OF BAD BURNS

Stephens Lease In Wilbarger County Scene Of Sunday Catastrophe

IGNITE GAS PAIL

Mother And Small Babe Dead; Two Other Children Not Expected To Live

VERNON, March 9.—A mother and her six months old babe are dead and two more of her children, a girl and boy, are expected to die before morning, and a third child, a girl, of the same family has been injured, in an explosion of gasoline on what is known as the Stephens lease South Vernon oil field, Wilbarger county.

The dead:

Mrs. Jane Paschall, 38.

Nelson Paschall, her 6 months old son.

The injured:

Mildred Paschall, 14, a daughter, expected to die.

Chalmer Paschall, 12, son, expected to die.

Lucille Paschall, 16, burned about hands, will recover.

The accident took place at 1 o'clock Sunday morning, according to word received today, when victims of the explosion were brought to the Vernon hospital.

Reports of the fatalities concur in the story that Mrs. Paschall and her daughter, Mildred, were attempting to light a gasoline stove having a generator when the burning torch which one was holding in her hand dropped to the floor. In the effort to recover the burning torch a pail containing about a gallon of gasoline was upset directly in front of the stove, the liquid igniting from the torch.

The "splash" of flame, it is said, completely envelopd the mother and little six months old son, although the former lived 19 hours after the explosion and the little tot survived but three hours.

A baby, three years old, was rescued from the flames when Mildred Paschall picked him up from a bed where he was sleeping and tossed him bodily through a window to safety. The tot was not injured in his fall to the ground.

Chalmer Paschall, 12, proved a hero of the catastrophe. But he may pay for his heroism with his life, as word from the hospital tonight is to the effect he cannot survive his burns until morning. Chalmer was sleeping in a tent outside of the frame house when the explosion occurred and awakening rushed inside to save one of the children. When he was recovered he was found overcome on the bed of the room.

The husband, J. N. Paschall, was on the Ray Massey lease some distance from the scene of the explosion at the time.

Gotham Society Bandits Repeat Dot King Crime

NEW YORK, Mar. 8.—Using methods which proved successful, albeit fatal, in the "Dot" King and "Lou" Lawson robberies, three armed and masked men in dinner garb invaded a sumptuous studio apartment in the Plaza section of Fifth Avenue before dawn today and escaped with $25,000 worth of gems.

The victims who were bludgeoned, bound, gagged and left unconscious, were Mrs. Fay Perkins, estranged wife of a restaurant owner, and Milton Abbott, reputedly wealthy cotton broker of this city.

Mrs. Perkins' apartment was the scene of the affair. With the exception of a few dollars taken from Abbott's pockets, the $25,000 loot was Mrs. Perkins' loss. She suffered such injuries that physicians tonight reported her condition grave. The only clue to the identity of her assailants was furnished by Abbott who saw the silk handkerchief mask slip from the eyes of one man and got a glimpse of features which he said he would recognize again.

Well Known Beauty.

Mrs. Perkins who is 24 years old, has been married for seven years, but lives apart from her husband, Benjamin H. Perkins, according to police. She is well known among the "white light" cabarets of Broadway because of her expensive gowns and abundance of jewelry.

Last night Mrs. Perkins' escort was Abbott, described by himself as a "long-time friend of the family." They had attended a theatre and finished a conventional night about town by supping at a cabaret. Then they retired to a rear room of Mrs. Perkins' apartment on the second floor at 168 West Fifty-eighth street.

While they were there three men gained entrance to the hallway, opened the main doors of the apartment with crowbars and stole over the high piled rugs to where Mrs. Perkins and Abbott were.

With guns in hands, the invaders leaped upon Mrs. Perkins. Abbott sprang to her defense and was battered insensible with a fist and a pistol butt. The woman screamed and fought as the masked men tore at her bracelets, her wrist watch and her rings.

Chew At Her Finger.

They beat her, kicked her, they tore her flesh and stripped her clothing They even chewed at a finger from which a ring failed to slip readily enough. When Mrs. Perkins refused to tell where the rest of her gems were, they threatened first to kill and later to torture her flesh with burning matches. At last she pointed to a dresser casket that contained the jewels. The bandits emptied it, bound and gagged their victims, gave them a parting command to be silent or die, and departed.

Mrs. Perkins was first to free herself. Then she cut Abbott's bonds and he, without informing police, went straight away to consult the broker who had insured Mrs. Perkins' jewels until two weeks ago, when the policies are said to have expired.

She called her physician who reported to the police, what had happened. Abbott later was found at his apartment.

Forrest Case Is Postponed Until A Date In April

Walters Preliminary Hearing Was To Have Been Heard Monday

WALTERS, Okla., March 9.—The preliminary hearing for Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Forrest charged jointly with the murder of their son-in-law, George Hicks, here four weeks ago today was postponed, the final date to be announced later.

Due to the fact that a session of the district court is being held and that the Neil Smith murder case is set for Monday, the date previously set for the Forrest-Hicks murder case will be continued.

The Forrests are charged with first degree murder, which is not a bailable case under the statutes of Oklahoma unless the charge is reduced or the defendants make a reasonable showing that the crime was committed in self-defense, of home or that the act was committed during a heat of passion and without previous meditation.

In Comanche Jail.

The Forrests have been confined in the Comanche county jail since their arrest. They will be returned here for the examining trial.

District Judge A. S. Wells expects to hear the case of the Forrests some time in April at a special term of court providing the case is carried to his court.

In the preliminary the state's case will be handled by County Attorney Toby Morris and special prosecutors D. B. Madden and Walter Hubbell. The defense will be in the hands of John Thomas of Lawton and Mathers and Mateon of Oklahoma City.

George Hicks was shot to death soon after his arrival at the Forrest home with his bride, to effect a reconciliation. The five shots fired formed a circle over his heart from a 38 Colts, snuffing out his life instantly.

He "Won and Lost."

The tragedy is the culmination of a romance in which George Hicks "won and lost." He came to this community last September to visit his brother Elmer Hicks in the Beaver community and it was while he was there that he met and won Cora Forrest, a beautiful young girl. They eloped one day in November and were married in Walters and started on a honeymoon but were stopped in Lawton on the order of the girl's father, A. B. Forest. Mr. Hicks was returned here and placed in the county jail on a charge of perjury filed by his father-in-law, the charge being that Hicks had sworn falsely to the bride's age. The case came up for hearing, and Toby Morris and Jimmie Mathers, special counsel, appeared for the state, but upon evidence the young man was cleared of the charge. He and his bride, who had not been allowed to communicate from the time of the marriage until the trial, were again united. When Toby Morris moved to quash the charge and Judge Campbell dismissed the defendant, the spectators cheered and many friends gathered around to congratulate the young couple. They were allowed to continue their honeymoon. The public generally understood that peace reigned in the Forrest home.

POLICE HOPE FOR EVIDENCE.

Officers Believe They Will Prove Three Guilty of Prohibition Murder.

LAKE CHARLES, La., March 9.—If a statement issued early tonight District Attorney J. J. Roberi expressed confidence that within the next 36 hours the state will have evidence which it is believed will prove Eustice, Byron and Bob Luna guilty of the murder of William L. Collins, federal prohibition agent, and Samuel E. Dubon, deputy sheriff, Friday night, and their nephew William Burge as an accomplice.

Tables Turned

In a widely quoted sermon preached two years ago in New York, the Rev. Stuart L. Tyson, Episcopalian, and vice president of the Modern Churchmen's Union said: "Christ's idea of marriage was one man for one woman until death broke the bond of matrimony." Now he is suing for a divorce from his second wife, whom he married in 1917, charging extreme cruelty. His first wife, by whom he had 12 children, was killed in an accident.

Tillman County Will Get State Road Aid

FREDERICK, Okla., March 9.—At a recent conference with Carl Reid, district engineer of the state highway commission, the county commissioners of Tillman county closed a contract for state aid for this county which, it is believed, will be greatly to the county's advantage.

Under the terms of this contract 50 per cent of the expense of construction work of a permanent type on state highways is to be borne by the state highway department and 50 per cent by the county, while in the maintenance expense, 75 per cent shall be borne by the county and 25 per cent by the state.

All money thus expended is to be spent under the supervision of the county commissioners and County Engineer E. L. Guyer.

Red River Bottom Operators Will Be Reimbursed For Drilling Costs Without Regard To Title To Lease

Supreme O. K. Put On Kirby's Well No. 139 By Court

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The supreme court issued an order today approving the expenses incurred by the Kirby Petroleum company in drilling well No. 139 in the bed of Red river on land involved in the famous boundary line dispute which was before the courts for years.

The court also directed the receiver to reimburse those who put down wells in the deceivership area for actual reasonable costs incurred, irrespective of whether they were put down by right or under an erroneous impression of lafful ownership.

Referring to th efact that the receiver holds considerable money for which no claimants have appeared, the court directed him to pay to the state of Texas all money obtained from wells adjudged to be in Texas which remains in his hands unclaimed on April 15, next. This will leave such claimants after that date to take up their claims with Texas.

To facilitate closing of the receivership the court fixed the compensation which will be alowed the receiver to date of closing the receivership and also approved reports made by the boundary commissioners in their survey of a line through the receivership area. The court also fixed compensation to be paid boundary commissioners.

The court directed the receiver to pay to the secretary of interior $1,100,000 more out of funds in his hands derived from wells which the court found to be located upon land belonging to the government. This will bring the total received by the government from these lands under receivership to $3,000,000. There will be a further balance on this account to be disbursed at the close of the receivership.

Bobo Tells Kiwanis To Aid Other Clubs

"Wichita Falls has one of the best Kiwanis clubs in the entire district," stated District Governor Julian Bobo before the Kiwanis club Monday noon at the Kemp hotel in a report of the Abilene district convention. "We are doing good local work in comparison to other clubs in the district, but we are just as much a part of district, state and international Kiwanis activities as were our local activities, and to the organization work we owe our service.

Bobo urged the co-operation of Kiwanians in the atendance drive of Kiwanis international. Rex Watland, who also attended the convention, urged that Wichita Falls pay more attention to the work of smaller clubs in the district.

"Though 85 per cent of the membership is in attendance today," stated Frank Queisser, secretary, "a much larger per cent will be needed to make the proper showing in the attendance contest of Kiwanis International."

A directors' meeting was called by Queisser for Wednesday evening at the Overland Motors company, at which final plans will be laid for the day nursery drive.

Wm. E. Young led a sing song for the club with Myron Ellis at the piano.

Clean-Up Week Inaugurated By Civic League Club

8,000 Pamphlets On How To Keep Yards Cean Given Children

Bonfires, piles of trash burning in many backyards, iron, old rubber and "unburnable" junk piled neatly in boxes and sacks to await the free service of the city's trash wagons—these were signs Monday evening that told of a busy afternoon all over the city on the part of Wichitans and their children who observed wholeheartedly the opening day of the "clean-up week" inaugurated by the Civic league of the Women's Forum.

Committee members of the Civic league visited homes in all the voting precincts, spreading the gospel of cleanliness and sanitation and leaving pamphlets containing rules and suggestions for the observance of the spring clean-up.

Eight thousand school children went home from school Monday afternoon, each carrying a copy of the pamphlet with the desire to clean up the yards of the city, the vacant lots and the alleys.

A committee composed of members of the Civic league will tour the city Monday, March 16, on an inspection trip, awarding prizes for the cleanest yards.

When Riches Lure

The Story of a Wife Who Wanted Only Luxury

GERALDINE WADE wanted luxury. So she married Dudley Graham, whose prospects for quick success seemed excellent. For a time she was happy. But riches failed to come. Then rich Young Ted Keplinger came into her life. Under the insidious influence of his wealth the novelty of her marriage to Dudley quickly died. And when Keplinger offered her the things her heart desired if she would say the word—she said it.

But now from the bitterness of her heart she tells in True Story Magazine for April the story of "The Woman Who Wouldn't be Contented." If every young man and young woman could read the story of misery, shame and poverty she now pours out of her heart, many whose heads are now turned by the luxury and jazz would be saved from certain heartache and ruin. Be sure to read this powerful story in the April issue of True Story Magazine.

Dudley's face was drawn and white. "You can go," he said, "but I am going to keep the baby."

PUBLICITY THE THING.

Publicity is the thing. It pays to advertise. California had climate for sale in the long ago and the men of vision of the Golden state placed their chief product on the bargain counter of America and the buyers were numerous. What happened is ancient history. Los Angeles became one of the largest cities of the country, and the Imperial Valley, a desert waste, was brought in.

Texas has the climate, the fertile soil, more days of sunshine than any other land, more of the raw materials which make a people rich and powerful, a coast line greater than that of California, a petroleum wealth that is almost incrediable and all the fruits of the tropics as well as the cereals and vegetables of the temperate zone can be cultivated on a grand scale.

California has spent millions to advertise its climate and its products. Why not Texas? Truth is Texas has California and Florida backed off the earth when it comes to soil and climate and the things which make existance attractive to the men and women of this progressive age.

Texans should come out of their trance. Their state is on the verge of a new departure. Men of vision are longing and planning for the manufacturing age. It is coming. Texas is capable of supporting a population of 23,000,000.

Speaking of advertising the men of the magic valley and the Nueces river country did a fine bit of it when they planned their recent excursion of lawmakers and press correspondents to their sections of Texas. They placed their goods on the bargain counter and sold them.

All the big upstanding men of the sections participated in the receptions. All the women were in evidence on the reception and entertainment committees. All the big motor vehicles were placed at the service of the visitors. All the points of vantage were explained. All the achievements up to date were glorified. All the possibilities were exploited or forecasted. All the big railroad officials of the sections named were in the party. Did they win? Well, go examine the legislative records.

They asked for an extension of credit and the lawmakers voted it and the governor signed the bill. Senator Archie Parr was at the head of the legislative committee. Representatives W. R. Montgomery, H. L. Faulk, and E. D. Dunlap were his able assistants. It was one of the most successful junketing parties ever given in the history of Texas.

Mexico was invaded and Robert Stuart of Hidalgo, one of the builders of the lower country, was in evidence everywhere as chairman of the citizens committee. Milton West of Cameron county was likewise in evidence. He is one of the leaders in the lower Rio Grande country. He is in his early thirties and was a young ranger when he began to study law in the office of the late Judge James B. Wells. He was a district attorney for five years, covering five counties and retired last year because he had made up his mind to give all his time to the practice of law.

Judge Wells, for more than 40 years, was the general attorney for the King ranch interests and a powerful political boss. He ruled with an iron hand, was one of the most generous of men, and those who followed his flag idolized the man. Now political bossism is a thing of the past: There is a new civilization in the winter garden of America.

Milton West won the friendship of the newspaper correspondents by his hospitality and his never failing courtesy. There is a new Brownsville on the map. Sixty per cent of the newcomers are from other sections of Texas or other American states and this percentage will hold good in every section of the lower valley.

Matamora is just across the river from Brownsville. It is not a wicked border town. There are dance halls and saloons but excellent order is maintained at all times by the police and the soldiers.

Judge Walter Timon of Corpus Christi, who has figured in the politics of the lower country for years, has decided to move from Corpus Christi to Brownsville, where he will hold forth in the future.

He was defeated for re-election by Judge A. W. Cunningham, another stormy petrel in the political circles of the valley. Judge Timon and James E. Ferguson are close personal friends; Judge Cunningham and Pat Morris Neff are close personal friends. Rangers have been banished from Corpus Christi. There are a few rangers in evidence in Brownsville.

As for Hidalgo county Sheriff A. Y. Baker is in the middle. He has been in the saddle for many years and he has slain or sent to prison more bandits and outlaws than any ten sheriffs or ranger captains on the border.

All this lower country yis in the senatorial district of Hon. Archie Parr, who has never been dislodged or forced to dismount, politically speaking. Indeed the name of the men and women of the lower country who contributed to the success of the junketing party would fill a page of this newspaper.

Yes, publicity is the thing. Advertising is the life of trade. California caught the spirit and spent a few millions to make hundreds of millions. The winter garden of America and the lower coast country apear to be catching on to the California idea.

Why not all Texas? Why not all Texans? Why not a skyscraper Texas, the greatest manufacturing state of the 48 as well as the great agricultural state which it is today.

CREAGER AND WURZBACH.

Boss R. R. Creager and Congressman Harry Wurzbach are indulging in another scrap over federal patronage. Boss Creager has asked for the appointment of an El Paso republican to the office of United States marshal. Wurzbach has asked the president to name a citizen of San Antonio.

If he is running true to form Boss Creager will win. He always does. He has the ear of the president. Wurzbach hasn't. Creager is the boss; Wurzbach is only a congressman. There is a difference. Political pie is a dainty morsel. Boss Creager is a dispenser of the morsel—that is if Coolidge hasn't changed his mind.

DAWES STIRS UP THE SENATE.

The volcanic Dawes has begun his career as vice president by "bawling out" the senate and being promptly and properly "bawled out" in his turn by indignant senators. For once his famous aggressiveness has plunged him into a controversy from which he must come out decidedly worsted. His assailants have law, history and logic on their side and the vice president must stand their attack alone and unsupported. Not a member of the senate can defend his position, nor has any member attempted to do so. His antics have astonished friends as well as foes of the Coolidge administration and by this time he probably has been advised that the president is far from delighted with his performance.

Mr. Dawes precipiated hostilities by ordering the senators to change their rules of procedure. He took the position that it was his right to express himself upon the conduct of the senate and that it was the duty of the senate to adopt his suggestions. In effect, he claimed a right to rule the body over which the constitution calls him to preside. Asserting his disinterestedness, and speaking as one possessed of supenior authority, he scolded the senators as an angry parent might scold his children, for talking too much and doing too little. The particular object of his ire was the rule which permits each senator to speak for one hour when two-thirds of the senate have agreed to take up a measure for consideration and he denounced such freedom of debate as a product of mere courtesy to individual senators.

Senatorial replies to the vice president's tirade have proved Mr. Dawes as ignorant of the foundation of the senate's rules as of his own proper functions. But senators have been too courteous to point out quite all the vice president's mistakes. Among these mistakes the most amusing is that Mr. Dawes attacked the senate immediately in advance of the delivery of a presidential address in which great pains were taken to compliment and conciliate the legislative branch. President Coolidge and his running mate spoke at cross purposes, the former asserting the dignity of our national legislators and the latter quarreling with them. Placed side by side the two addresses form an exhibit of poor team work calculated to excite the mirth of democrats and grieve the souls of loyal republicans.

Mr. Dawes was wrong in supposing himself the senate's guardian. As president of the senate he is clothed with no authority but that derived from the very rules he attacked. The constituion assigns him to the place of presiding officer of the senate, but denies him a vote in that body, except in case of a tie, and is silent as to how he shall conduct himself in the chair. The senate, like every other legislative body, makes its own rules. It has never allowed a vice president to dictate its rules or, indeed, to take any important part in its deliberations. In the senate, the vice president is a figurehead pure and simple. It is necessary to have a vice president in order to provide for the emergency of an unexpected vacancy in the presidential office, and since the vice president has nothing else to do, it is well enough to place him in the chair of the upper house. That house, however, can, and very often does, transact its affairs without him, and owes him no greater obedience than is due any other person called to its chair. All this, of course, is known to every one who has made even a superficial inquiry into the duties of the vice presidential office. But evidently Mr. Dawes is just now learning it.

WHY CARBON BLACK.

A big pipeline is to carry the natural gas from the East Texas fields to the upper gulf coast cities. Why carbon black?

California investors have been granted permission by the Arkansas railroad commission to build and operate a natural gas pipeline through Arkansas from the northern Louisiana gas fields, to Memphis, Tenn. It is said the project is expected to cost $10,000,000. Why carbon black?

Agents of Natural Gas Supplying companies promise to construct pipelines to the Panhandle fields in order that the supply may be carried to the consumers in central and northern Texas. Why carbon black?

Why sell natural gas to carbon black makers at two cents per cubic foot when the supply companies pay to the owners of gas wells eight cents per cubic foot. Again why carbon black?

Again why dissipate and finally destroy the chief asset of Texas if Texas is to be a skyscraper instead of a pigmy state?

By Dr. Frank Crane

THE JEWISH PRESS.

Dr. Mordecai Soltes of Teachers college, Columbia university, New York, has made some interesting investigations in regard to the Jewish press of America.

One thing he finds is that the most diligent reader of Yiddish press editorials is the Jewish laborer.

He outstrips the merchant, the manufacturing and the professional groups, and also the housewives.

The latter group, the housewives, appear to be the least interested in the editorials, about half of them ignoring the editorial comment altogether, while only twenty-six per cent reported that they consult it occasionally.

That the laborer is most interested in the editorials is explained by the fact that among the laborers are many who were students of the Talmud in the countries from which they emigrated. They are frequently far above the average in mental ability and educational attainment.

Analyzing 1,543 editorials from Yiddish papers during six months, Dr. Saltes finds that sixty-four per cent of them deal with American issues and twenty-six per cent with problems strictly of a Jewish nature. Only about ten per cent deal with world questions.

The papers included are The Daily News, The Forward, The Morning Journal, The Warheit and The Day.

All the Yiddish newspapers urge their readers to go back to the soil. They deprecate the tendency of the immigrant Jews to concentrate in the cities. They also utilize every possible opportunity to urge Jews to become American citizens. They point out that naturalization is a privilege and a duty and that all who intend to settle permanently in the country should avail themselves of it.

They denounce sabotage, terrorism, direct action and similar methods of solving problems and claim that desirable changes should be made in other ways.

The report goes on to say that there is no future for the Yiddish press as, if the present tendencies are maintained, it will gradually decline and finally eliminate itself.

The most interesting part of the report, however, is that these papers concede their main editorial function to be to interpret American events, ideals and institutions to immigrant Jews.

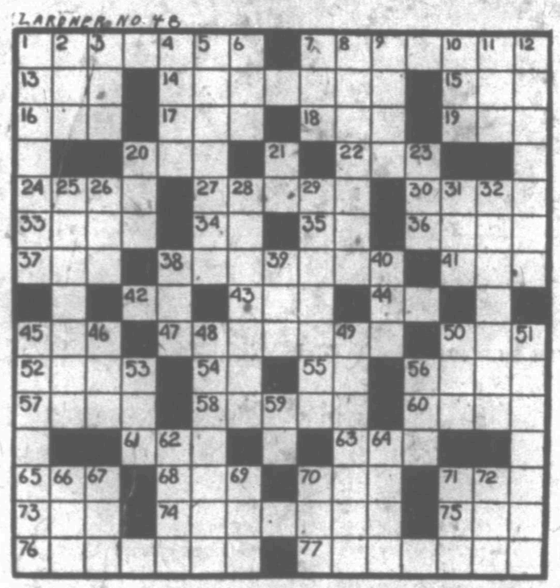

Dr. Soltes says: "It is evident that the Yiddish press has a decidedly American outlook. The Yiddish newspapers are American newspapers printed in Yiddish and constitute a desirable accession to American journalism.

This report that the Yiddish press is in the front rank of Americanizing agencies and does not tend to provincialism is very gratifying

Cross-Word Puzzle

Every number in the form represents the beginning of a word, reading either horizontally or vertically. If there is a black square to the left of the number, the word is horizontal; if above it, the word is vertical. The same number may of course begin both a horizontal and a verical. The definitions for the correct words to fill the form are found below, with numbers corresponding to those on the form. Run through the definitions till you find one that you recognize, and put it in its proper place on the form, one letter for each white square. This will furnish several cross-clues to the words linking with it at right angles. Continue in this manner till the form is completely filled. If you have solved the puzzle correctly it should read both horizontally and vertically with words corresponding to the definitions.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE ANSWERED.

Irrigation

A RIO GRANDE FARMERS' ADVICE ON DRAINAGE.

Another piece of adive given by the Rio Grande farmers to Dr. Youngblood for the benefit of the people here was: "Tell them to provide adequate drainage the moment it is needed, if not before."

It would seem that these Rio Grande men had had some experience with water logging and know what it means to the land if needed drainage is deferred. In fact they think that drainage is so important that it should be installed even before it is needed. To these men the expense of draining land is as nothing compared to the great loss that surely comes if it is not drained when needed.

Perhaps some people here might get the idea from the above that it would be advisable right now to tile the whole project and thus prevent for all time any possibility of loss from excess water in the soil. Such a thing might prove to be the cheapest thing in the long run but it is hardly necessary.

It is impossible to tell except in a general way just what parts of this project will become seeped first, and there will always be areas that will not waterlog regardless of surrounding conditions.

The cheapest and best way to handle the question of when to drain is to begin observing the rise of the ground water level through test holes sunk for that purpose. A constant observation of the water in such holes gives ample warning of impending disaster.

Whenever it is found that year after year the water table is rising higher and higher then plans should be made to drain before it gets close enough to the surface so that capillary attraction will begin to cause alkali concentration at the surface.

Land once thoroughly waterlogged is very difficult to reclaim even after a drainage system has removed all surplus water.

POEMS THAT LIVE

Forget Me Not

Go, youth beloved, in distant glades,
New friends, new hopes, new joys to find,
Yet sometimes deign, 'midst fairer maids,
To think of her thou leov'st behind.
Thy love, thy fate, dear youth, to share,
Must never be my happy lot,
But thou mayst grant this humble prayer.
Forget me not, forget me not!
Yet should the thought of my distress
Too painful to thy feelings be,
Heed not the wish I now express,
Nor even deign to think on me:
But, oh, if grief thy steps attend,
If want, if sickness be thy lot,
And thou require a soothing friend;
Forget me not, forget me not!

MATTERS OF HEALTH

You may praise the merchant successful,
He's the guy that usually wins;
But the fellow worth while
Is the one who can smile
When the doctor announces—"it's twins."

Those who are sensitive to flowers and grasses that pollinate in the early spring should begin immunization about six weeks before the expected attack of "rose cold."

According to recent statistics each year about 90 per cent of us have from one to three "colds", lasting from three to five days. If you employ 100 or 1,000 people your annual loss, chargeable to "colds", will represent a neat figure.

Man pollutes the water sheds,
Thus infects the oyster beds,
Until each bivalve fairly teems
With deadly microbes from the streams.

"Croup" that persists after daylight is often diphtheria involving the windpipe—a very dangerous form of [illegible] now one which demands immediate treatment.

The fellow who bounces out of bed [illegible] for exercise, a cool plunge and a brisk rubdown, is ready [illegible] breakfast and a hard day's work.

More Truth Than Poetry

TO A DOG STAR.

(The kind you see on the film.)

I know you have but little heart,
In chasing burglars from the screen;
The man who makes you play the part
Is hidden somewhere off the scene.
The audience believe that you
Are true and loyal, strong and bold,
Yet I suspect that all you do
Is what you're told.

I see you heard a large and wild—
Though somewhat mangy—grizzly bear,
Before he lunches on a child
Who wandered in the monster's lair.
But little did you know or care
About the hero's part you played.
Somebody said: "Hi! sic 'im there!"
And you obeyed.

I watched you lie beside a shack,
Alone upon a treeless plain,
To wait your master's coming back,
Not knowing he'd been fatally slain.
But you had little notion why
You seemed the picture of despair,
It was the film director's eye
That held you there.

Yet you deserve at least the praise,
That human movie actors get;
You stand, or rise or go your ways,
Or stop exactly where you're set.
Your part you patiently go through,
And put about the self same strain
As your two-legged colleagues do,
Upon the brain.

HOW IT STARTED

"Argus-Eyed."

The person who is always on the watch, whom nothing escapes, is said to be "Argus-eyed." The implication is usually that one is of a suspicious nature, and this element is quite in keeping with the origin of the expression.

The term comes to us from the parlance of mythology. Argus being the creature of a hundred eyes who never went to sleep with more than two at a time. He is familiar chiefly as the tool of the goddess Juno, who was always suspicious of her husband, Jupiter, and who used Argus to watch him.

It was his zealousness in watching Io, Jupiter's mistress, whom the god surprised by his wife, had turned into a heifer, that at last brought Argus to grief. Jupiter, troubled at the distress of Io, who in the guise of a heifer, had been given by Juno into the custody of Argus, enlisted Mercury to put Argus out of the way.

Leaping from the heavenly towers to earth, Mercury, disguised as a shepherd driving his flock, charmed Argus with the music of his Pandean pipes. In vain, however, did he try to lull the watchful eyes to sleep, until finally, with a supreme effort, he related to Argus the story of how the pipe upon which he played was invented. The fantastic story, accompanied by a plaintive melody from the instrument, at last caused the hundred eyes to close at once, and as Argus nodded forward for a moment, Mercury cut off his head!

What Today Means To You

By MARY BLAKE.

PISCES.

In the same degree that yesterday's conditions were unsettled and depressing, so today's planetary aspects indicate an underlying, atmosphere of encouragement and optimism. The temptation will be not to do too little, but to do too much, and to take chances which, under ordinary circumstances would never be attempted. It is safe to endeavor to accomplish any task that savors of constructive and deliberate effort, along customary lines. It is impolitic, and might prove detrimental, to venture into or explore unknown territory. "The shoemaker to his last," is an adage that, if practically adhered to, will today give safe results.

If you have been privileged to bring a human life into being today, you will be keenly interested in knowing that the signs indicate that much care, and especially good nutrition, will be needed to steer this child safely through the vicissitudes of infancy. Once, however, this period is successfully passed, it will develop physically in a very satisfactory manner. In disposition, it will show a tendency towards churlishness. This can be corrected by the proper environment and association. Its character will be erratic, and violent outbursts of temper on its part will frequently occur. In the face of great trouble or disappointment, it will maintain calm and poise. Trifles will, however, often cause it to lose its head.

Those, whose birthday it is today are, unless the signs are mistinterpreted, generally of very exacting and jealous temperaments, and, as if they demand much, they are ever ready to yield just as much, and more, than they expect to receive. Their jealousy does not only embitter their affections, but it permeates nearly every relationship of life. They are jealous, not only of those they love, but, of others' success, position, possessions and attainments, and rarely extend congratulations, without experiencing a momentary pang of envy. This is a most unfortunate disposition, and can only be cured by self-determination and strength of purpose.

They are demonstrative and extremely affectionate, and enjoy to its fullest extent the sense of possession. They will do anything, or make any sacrifice, for those they love or for those in trouble. Anyone who can successfully avoid arousing within them the "green eyed monster"—and there are not many that can do this—will never regret having chosen a "March 10th" arrival, as either a mate or a friend.

Successful people born on this date are: Donald M. Fairfax, naval officer, served with distinction in the Civil war; Henry R. Stiles, physician and author, prominent in New York for many years; Dudley Buck, organist and composer, best known for his church music; William McMurtrie, chemist, former professor in the University of Illinois; Henry E. Krehbiel, author and musical critic; William A. Keener, educator, former dean of Columbia law school.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

SHALL SHE MARRY HER HOMELY SUITOR OR LOOK FURTHER FOR A BEAUTIFUL SHEIK? COULD TWO OLD PERSONS WHO ARE TIRED OF LIVING WITH THEIR CHILDREN BE HAPPILY MARRIED?—WHICH SHALL SHE MARRY?

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a typical flapper with one of the angel faces at most men fall for, but Fate has sent me a homely sheik.

I really and truly love this fellow and know that he will make a wonderful husband, but my friends tease me so much about his looks that I feel as I could not stand it any longer.

Shall I marry and tell my friends to keep quiet, or shall I go out and ant for "Prince Charming?" I would like you to advise me.

CHERRY BLOSSOM.

Answer:

Well, angel face, inasmuch as you are the one who is going to marry the man, and not your friends, it seems to me that you are the one to pick him out, and the only question involved is how he is going to look to you across the breakfast table 365 days a year.

Undoubtedly it is agreeable to have a life partner who is easy on the es, and most men make this the first requisite in picking out a wife. Women, however, have more judgment in matters of the heart than men ve, and they are wise enough to know that beauty is the last thing to arry for, because it is the one count on which you are bound to lose out.

Goodness, fineness, brains, energy, a pleasant and agreeable disposition, nobility of character—these not only last, but increase as the years go by. Even money and social position generally hold out, and so men and women who marry for any of these things get a run for their money. But those who marry for beauty are foredoomed to lose out.

A few years turns every living picture into a chromo. Age robs the loveliest maiden of her peaches-and-cream complexion. It grizzles her hair. It converts her into a living skeleton or a tub of fat. And the man fares no better. Time snatches away his ambrosial locks and leaves him bald-headed. It adds ay-window effects to his architecture. It puts spectacles over the most omantic eyes. And lo, your sheik is no longer a sheik, but old man Jones e Smith.

It is foolish to marry for beauty, because beauty is bound to fade. It is lso foolish to marry for beauty because the superlative good-lookers are almost invariably vain and selfish, and especially is this true of men. Beauty rns their heads even worse than it does a woman's, and that is saying a lot.

It is doubly and trebly foolish for a woman to marry a man for his good looks, because she will always present an invidious comparison to him and she will always have to hear people whispering behind her back, wondering what made such a handsome man marry a woman who looks like that. Also, other women will be continually trying to vamp him, and she will have a perpetual fight to hold her own.

There is great comfort and safety in a homely husband, so you had better arry one and monopolize the beauty in your family.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—A civil war veteran, 80 years old, who has lost his wife, ants to marry the widow of his buddy, who is 75. Both are well and spry, nd comfortably well off, but their respective children will not hear to the arriage.

The children want the old people to live with them. The old people want home of their own, and feel that they can be very happy and companionble together. They say that when they are in their children's homes they eel like dried up old flowers that have been put in a vase with fresh roses. What do you think of this? FRIEND OF YOUTH OF '61.

Answer:

I think that anybody who is 80 years old who has pep enough to want to tackle matrimony again should go ahead and do it. Furthermore, I see no reason why these two old people, who have been friends for a lifetime, should not be very happy together, and get great pleasure and comfort in each other's society. They have the memories of a long life to talk over, and can spend many happy days reminiscing together.

Young people know how old people bore them, and it is strange that they o not realize that they are equally tedious and tiresome to the old. Grandma nd grandpa are no more interested in hearing them discuss the last cabaret show than they are in hearing grandpa and grandma tell about something that happened during Rutherford B. Hayes' administration.

The most insurmountable barriers of all obstacles is age. Not even love can scale that. We each belong on our side of the wall, and our interests are bounded by the things of our own generation.

The people whom we find congenial are the ones who have done the things we have done, who have thought the same thoughts, and have the same deals and tastes, and that is why old people are sensible to remarry and get themselves companions who belong to their own age class.

And children are wrong and foolish when they prevent these sensible unions.

If a man of 80 and a woman of 75 wanted to marry somebody much younger than themselves, their children would be right to break it off if they could; but when two old friends want to walk hand in hand together the few last laps of the journey, nobody should interfere with them. DOROTHY DIX.

My Dear Miss Dix—Two men wish to marry me. No. 1 is good-looking, good family and shows by every action that he loves me. He enjoys taking me out, and if he has a date he will walk through fire to keep it. He is absolutely reliable and a man of his word. No. 2 is very handsome and successful in business, but he never brings me candy or flowers as No. 1 does. I have never seen his people. I am never sure of his keeping a date. His business takes him out of the city, but he seldom writes; says he is too busy. Which man would make the best husbands? TROUBLED.

Answer:

No. 1. No. 2 would probably forget to mention the wedding day anyway, which would be lucky for you, as a man who is so selfish and inconsiderate before marriage would break your heart after marriage by his neglect.

The thing that makes a woman happy in marriage are little things, kindness and consideration, the tenderness that never fails and the knowledge that you can depend on your husband, no matter what happens. Of course, the man who never shows his wife any attentions, who never brings her flowers or sends her a telegram when he is away from home, and who has always to be reminded of her birthday, and that Christmas comes on the 25th of December, may still love her, but it is a poor love, with mighty little romance to gild it. And it leaves matrimony as flat as champagne that has been left open overnight. DOROTHY DIX.

Community Fireplace To Be Given Wichita Falls By Camp Fire Girls Soon

A large community fireplace, the gift of the local organization of Camp Fire girls, is under construction at Scotland Park and will be presented to Wichita Falls with ceremonies by the girls, March 15, at their grand council fire.

Rising ten feet high, the fireplace will be of red brick lined with fire brick, the throat two and one-half feet wide and 18 inches deep, topped with a mantel four and one-half feet high. A chimney four and one-half feeth igh rises above the mantel, and the structure, which is for the general use of picnic parties visiting Scotland park, is being erected on the west side of the park with due attention as to wind directions conducive to the success of the fires built therein.

A copper plate etched by Miss Mary McIlheren, chairman of the local guardian's association after the fashion of Camp Fire handcraft and bearing the inscription "Presented by Camp Fire girls to the city of Wichita Falls," and the Indian symbol of the association, will be bolted to the chimney as a marker.

The 1,000 brick used in the construction of the chimney were donated by the Texhoma Oil and Refining company through the efforts of T. H. Lawson, and were hauled from Iowa Park by C. J. Ferber, father of an Iowa Park Camp Fire girl. Construction work is being donated by two local bricklayers who are working under the advice of Miss Glenore Fisk, local Camp Fire executive.

SUFFERED FROM BAD HEADACHE

Lady Says She Found Black-Draught Helpful and After Long Use Recommends It to Others

BEREA, Ky., "I have known of Black-Draught about all of my life," says Mrs. W. G. Pigg, of this place. "My mother gave it to me when I was a child, for colds or when I would come in feeling bad from overeating or from childish ailments.

"After I was grown, I had very severe headaches and suffered intensely. So many times headache is from the disordered stomach or liver. I found that when I took Black-Draught, it would help me—just a few doses and it seemed the headache was less and less.

"I have used Black Draught all during my married life.

"When I would have indigestion, I would take a dose of Black-Draught. It will help the sour, bitter taste in the mouth and tightness after meals.

"It is good to take for a cold. It will cleanse the system and make one feel like new.

"I don't know of any better medicine than Black-Draught. I have recommended it to others and will continue to do so for it has proved very satisfactory."

Thedford's Black-Draught is composed of purely vegetable ingredients, carefully mixed in proportions which have been determined by long experience and scientific research.

"Joint-Sase is selling like hot cakes in my store because it is a wonderful and speedy remedy for all joint troubles.

"But why not impress on tens of thousands of suffering people some of the things that dozens of my customers tell me almost daily.

"Some say that it knocks out lumbago over night—others assert that for chest colds and sore throat it has no equal, while many insist that there is nothing they ever tried that is so efficient for neuralgia, neuritis and even head colds and nasal catarrh."

Answering the above letter, we, the makers of Joint-Ease, know that what this thriving New Jersey druggist says is true, but we still maintain that Joint-Ease is prepared for stiff, inflamed, painful, swollen joints, whether in ankle, knee, hip, elbow, shoulder, fingers or spine.

You'll like to see penetrating Joint-Ease, for with just one minute's rubbing, it soaks in through the flesh direct to the ailing bones and ligaments—that's why it succeeds—for when Joint-Ease gets in joint misery gets out—And without any waste of time all swelling and congestion disappears. PUBLICITY THE THING.

Publicity is the thing. It pays to advertise. California had climate for sale in the long ago and the men of vision of the Golden state placed their chief product on the bargain counter of America and the buyers were numerous. What happened is ancient history. Los Angeles became one of the largest cities of the country, and the Imperial Valley, a desert waste, was brought in.

Texas has the climate, the fertile soil, more days of sunshine than any other land, more of the raw materials which make a people rich and powerful, a coast line greater than that of California, a petroleum wealth that is almost incrediable and all the fruits of the tropics as well as the cereals and vegetables of the termperate zone can be cultivated on a grand scale.

California has spent millions to advertise its climate and its products. Why not Texas? Truth is Texas has California and Florida backed off the earth when it comes to soil and climate and the things which make existance attractive to the men and women of this progressive age.

Texans should come out of their trance. Their state is on the verge of a new departure. Men of vision are longing and planning for the manufacturing ags. It is coming. Texas is capable of supporting a population of 23,000,000.

Speaking of advertising the men of the magic valley and the Neuces river country did a fine bit of it when they planned their recent excursion of lawmakers and press correspondents to their sections of Texas. They placed their goods on the bargain counter and sold them.

All the big upstanding men of the sections participated in the receptions. All the women were in evidence on the reception and entertainment committees. All the big motor vehicles were placed at the service of the visitors. All the points of vantage were explained. All the achievements up to date were glorified. All the possibilities were exploited or forecasted. All the big railroad officials of the sections named were in the party. Did they win? Well, go examine the legislative records.

They asked for an extension of credit and the lawmakers voted it and the governor signed the bill. Senator Archie Parr was at the head of the legislative committee. Representatives W. R. Montgomery, H. L. Faulk, and E. D. Dunlap were his able assistants. It was one of the most successful junketing parties ever given in the history of Texas.

Mexico was invaded and Robert Stuart of Hidalgo, one of the builders of the lower country, was in evidence everywhere as chairman of the citizens committee. Milton West of Cameron county was likewise in evidence. He is one of the leaders in the lower Rio Grande country. He is in his early thirties and was a young ranger when he began to study law in the office of the late Judge James B. Wells. He was a district attorney for five years, covering five counties and retired last year because he had made up his mind to give all his time to the practice of law.

Judge Wells, for more than 40 years, was the general attorney for the King ranch interests and a powerful political boss. He ruled with an iron hand, was one of the most generous of men, and those who followed his flag idolized the man. Now political bossism is a thing of the past. There is a new civilization in the winter garden of America.

Milton West won the friendship of the newspaper correspondents by his hospitality and his never failing courtesy. There is a new Brownsville on the map. Sixty per cent of the newcomers are from other sections of Texas or other American states and this percentage will hold good in every section of the lower valley.

Matamora is just across the river from Brownsville. It is not a wicked border town. There are dance halls and saloons but excellent order is maintained at all times by the police and the soldiers.

Judge Walter Timon of Corpus Christi, who has figured in the politics of the lower country for years, has decided to move from Corpus Christi to Brownsville, where he will hold forth in the future.

He was defeated for re-election by Judge A. W. Cunningham, another stormy petrel in the political circles of the valley. Judge Timon and James E. Ferguson are close personal friends; Judge Cunningham and Pat Morris Neff are close personal friends. Rangers have been banished from Corpus Christi. There are a few rangers in evidence in Brownsville.

As for Hidalgo county Sheriff A. Y. Baker is in the saddle. He has been in the saddle for many years and he has slain or sent to prison more bandits and outlaws than any ten sheriffs or ranger captains on the border.

All this lower countr yis in the senatorial district of Hon. Archie Parr, who has never been dislodged or forced to dismount, politically speaking. Indeed the name of the men and women of the lower country who contributed to the success of the junketing party would fill a page of this newspaper.

Yes, publicity is the thing. Advertising is the life of trade. California caught the spirit and spent a few millions to make hundreds of millions. The winter garden of America and the lower coast country apear to be catching on to the California idea.

Why not all Texas? Why not all Texans? Why not a skyscraper Texas, the greatest manufecturing state of the 48 as well as the great agricultural state which it is today.

CREAGER AND WURZBACH.

Boss R. B. Creager and Congressman Harry Wurzbach are indulging in another scrap over federal patronage. Boss Creager has asked for the appointment of an El Paso republican to the office of United States marshal. Wurzbach has asked the president to name a citizen of San Antonio.

If he is running true to form Boss Creager will win. He always does. He has the ear of the president. Wurzbach hasn't. Creager is the boss; Wurzbach is only a congressman. There is a difference. Political pie is a dainty morsel. Boss Creager is a dispenser of the morsel—that is if Coolidge hasn't changed his mind.

DAWES STIRS UP THE SENATE.

The volcanic Dawes has begun his career as vice president by "bawling out" the senate and being promptly and properly "bawled out" in his turn by indignant senators. For once his famous aggressiveness has plunged him into a controversy from which he must come out decidedly worsted. His assailants have law, history and logic on their side and the vice president must stand their attack alone and unsupported. Not a member of the senate can defend his position, nor has any member attempted to do so. His antics have astonished friends as well as foes of the Coolidge administration and by this time he probably has been advised that the president is far from delighted with his performance.

Mr. Dawes precipiated hostilities by ordering the senators to change their rules of procedure. He took the position that it was his right to express himself upon the conduct of the senate and that it was the duty of the senate to adopt his suggestions. In effect, he claimed a right to rule the body over which the constitution calls him to preside. Asserting his disinterestedness, and speaking as one possessed of supenior authority, he scolded the senators as an angry parent might scold his children, for talking too much and doing too little. The particular object of his ire was the rule which permits each senator to speak for one hour when two-thirds of the senate have agreed to take up a measure for consideration and he denounced such freedom of debate as a product of mere courtesy to individual senators.

Senatorial replies to the vice president's tirade have proved Mr. Dawes as ignorant of the foundation of the senate's rules as of his own proper functions. But senators have been too courteous to point out quite all the vice president's mistakes. Among these mistakes the most amusing is that Mr. Dawes attacked the senate immediately in advance of the delivery of a presidential address in which great pains were taken to compliment and conciliate the legislative branch. President Coolidge and his running mate spoke at cross purposes, the former asserting the dignity of our national legislators and the latter quarreling with them. Placed side by side the two addresses form an exhibit of poor team work calculated to excite the mirth of democrats and grieve the souls of loyal republicans.

Mr. Dawes was wrong in supposing himself the senate's guardian. As president of the senate he is clothed with no authority but that derived from the very rules he attacked. The constituion assigns him to the place of presiding officer of the senate, but denies him a vote in that body, except in case of a tie, and is silent as to how he shall conduct himself in the chair. The senate, like every other legislative body, makes its own rules. It has never allowed a vice president to dictate its rules or, indeed, to take any important part in its deliberations. In the senate, the vice president is a figurehead pure and simple. It is necessary to have a vice president in order to provide for the emergency of an unexpected vacancy in the presidential office, and since the vice president has nothing else to do, it is well enough to place him in the chair of the upper house. That house, however, can, and very often does, transact its affairs without him, and owes him no greater obedience than is due any other person called to its chair. All this, of course, is known to every one who has made even a superficial inquiry into the duties of the vice presidential office. But evidently Mr. Dawes is just now learning it.

WHY CARBON BLACK.

A big pipeline is to carry the natural gas from the East Texas fields to the upper gulf coast cities. Why carbon black?

California investors have been granted permission by the Arkansas railroad commission to build and operate a natural gas pipeline through Arkansas from the northern Louisiana gas fields, to Memphis, Tenn. It is said the project is expected to cost $10,000,000. Why carbon black?

Agents of Natural Gas Supplying companies promise to construct pipelines to the Panhandle fields in order that the supply may be carried to the consumers in central and northern Texas. Why carbon black?

Why sell natural gas to carbon black makers at two cents per cubic foot when the supply companies pay to the owners of gas wells eight cents per cubic foot. Again why carbon black?

Again why dissipate and finally destroy the chief asset of Texas if Texas is to be a skyscraper instead of a pigmy state?

By Dr. Frank Crane

THE JEWISH PRESS.

Dr. Mordecai Soltes of Teachers college, Columbia university, New York, has made some interesting investigations in regard to the Jewish press of America.

One thing he finds is that the most diligent reader of Yiddish press editorials is the Jewish laborer.

He outstrips the merchant, the manufacturing and the professional groups, and also the housewives.

The latter group, the housewives, appear to be the least interested in the editorials, about half of them ignoring the editorial comment altogether, while only twenty-six per cent reported that they consult it occasionally.

That the laborer is most interested in the editorials is explained by the fact that among the laborers are many who were students of the Talmud in the countries from which they emigrated. They are frequently far above the average in mental ability and educational attainment.

Analyzing 1,543 editorials from Yiddish papers during six months, Dr. Saltes finds that sixty-four per cent of them deal with American issues and twenty-six per cent with problems strictly of a Jewish nature. Only about ten per cent deal with world questions.

The papers included are The Daily News, The Forward, The Morning Journal, The Warheit and The Day.

All the Yiddish newspapers urge their readers to go back to the soil. They deprecate the tendency of the immigrant Jews to concentrate in the cities. They also utilize every possible opportunity to urge Jews to become American citizens. They point out that naturalization is a privilege and a duty and that all who intend to settle permanently in the country should avail themselves of it.

They denounce sabotage, terrorism, direct action and similar methods of solving problems and claim that desirable changes should be made in other ways.

The report goes on to say that there is no future for the Yiddish press as, if the present tendencies are maintained, it will gradually decline and finally eliminate itself.

The most interesting part of the report, however, is that these papers concede their main editorial function to be to interpret American events, ideals and institutions to immigrant Jews.

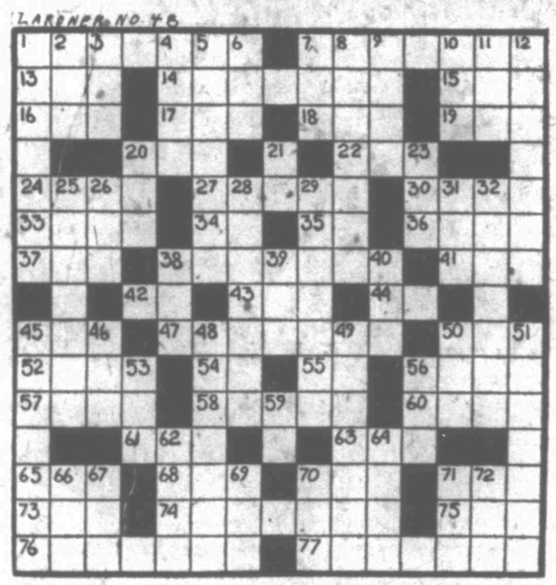

Dr. Soltes says: "It is evident that the Yiddish press has a decidedly American outlook. The Yiddish newspapers are American newspapers printed in Yiddish and constitute a desirable accession to American journalism.

This report that the Yiddish press is in the front rank of Americanizing agencies and does not tend to provincialism is very gratifying.

Cross-Word Puzzle

Every number in the form represents the beginning of a word, reading either horizontally or vertically. If there is a black square to the left of the number, the word is horizontal; if above it, the word is vertical. The same number may of course begin both a horizontal and a verical. The definitions for the correct words to fill the form are found below, with numbers corresponding to those on the form. Run through the definitions till you find one that you recognize, and put it in its proper place on the form, one letter for each white square. This will furnish several cross-clues to the words linking with it at right angles. Continue in this manner till the form is completely filled. If you have solved the puzzle correctly it should read both horizontally and vertically with words corresponding to the definitions.

Irrigation

A RIO GRANDE FARMERS' ADVICE ON DRAINAGE.

Another piece of adive given by the Rio Grande farmers to Dr. Youngblood for the benefit of the people here was: "Tell them to provide adequate drainage the moment it is needed, if not before."

It would seem that these Rio Grande men had had some experience with wates logging and know what it means to the land if needed drainage is deferred. In fact they think that drainage is so important that it should be installed even before it is needed. To these men the expense of draining land is as nothing compared to the great loss that surely comes if it is not drained when needed.

Perhaps some people here might get the idea from the above that it would be advisable right now to tile the whole project and thus prevent for all time any possibility of loss from excess water in the soil. Such a thing might prove to be the cheapest thing in the long run but it is hardly necessary.

It is impossible to tell except in a general way just what parts of this project will become seeped first, and there will always be areas that will not waterlog regardless of surrounding conditions.

The cheapest and best way to handle the question of when to drain is to begin observing the rise of the ground water level through test holes sunk for that purpose. A constant observation of the water in such holes gives ample warning of impending disaster.

Whenever it is found that year after year the water table is rising higher and higher then plans should be made to drain before it gets close enough to the surface so that capillary attraction will begin to cause alkali concentration at the surface.

Land once thoroughly waterlogged is very difficult to reclaim even after a drainage system has removed all surplus water.

POEMS THAT LIVE

Forget Me Not

Go, youth beloved, in distant glades,
New friends, new hopes, new joys to find,
Yet sometimes deign, 'midst fairer maids,
To think of her thou leov'st behind.
Thy love, thy fate, dear youth, to share,
Must never be my happy lot,
But thou mayst grant this humble prayer.
Forget me not, forget me not!
Yet should the thought of my distress
Too painful to thy feelings be,
Heed not the wish I now express,
Nor even deign to think on me:
But, oh, if grief thy steps attend,
If want, if sickness be thy lot,
And thou require a soothing friend;
Forget me not, forget me not!

MATTERS OF HEALTH

You may praise the merchant successful,
He's the guy that usually wins;
But the fellow worth while
Is the one who can smile
When the doctor announces—"it's twins."

Those who are sensitive to flowers and grasses that pollinate in the early spring should begin immunization about six weeks before the expected attack of "rose cold."

According to recent statistics each year about 90 per cent of us have from one to three "colds", lasting from three to five days. If you employ 100 or 1,000 people your annual loss, chargeable to "colds", will represent a neat figure.

Man pollutes the water sheds,
Thus infects the oyster beds,
Until each bivalve fairly teems
With deadly microbes from the streams.

"Croup" that persists after daylight is often diphtheria involving the windpipe—a very dangerous form of [illegible] which demands immediate treatment.

The fellow who bounces out of bed. [illegible] for exercise, a cool plunge and a brisk rubdown, is ready [illegible] breakfast and a hard day's work.

More Truth Than Poetry

TO A DOG STAR.

(The kind you see on the film.)

I know you have but little heart,
In chasing burglars from the screen;
The man who makes you play the part
Is hidden somewhere off the scene.
The audience believe that you
Are true and loyal, strong and bold,
Yet I suspect that all you do
Is what you're told.

I see you beard a large and wild—
Though somewhat mangy—grizzly bear,
Before he lunches on a child
Who wandered in the monster's lair.
But little did you know or care
About the hero's part you played.
Somebody said: "Hi! sic 'im there!"
And you obeyed.

I watched you lie beside a track,
Alone upon a treeless plain,
To wait your master's coming back.
Not knowing he'd been foully slain.
But you had little notion why
You seemed the picture of despair,
It was the film director's eye
That held you there.

Yet you deserve at least the praise,
That human movie actors get;
You stand, or rise or go your ways,
Or stop exactly where you're set.
Your part you patiently go through,
And put about the self same strain
As your two-legged colleagues do,
Upon the brain.

HOW IT STARTED

"Argus-Eyed."

The person who is always on the watch, whom nothing escapes, is said to be "Argus-eyed." The implication is usually that one is of a suspicious nature, and this element is quite in keeping with the origin of the expression.

The term comes to us from the parlance of mythology. Argus being the creature of a hundred eyes who never went to sleep with more than two at a time. He is familiar chiefly as the tool of the goddess Juno, who was always suspicious of her husband, Jupiter, and who used Argus to watch him.

It was his zealousness in watching Io, Jupiter's mistress, whom the god surprised by his wife, had turned into a heifer, that at last brought Argus to grief. Jupiter, troubled at the distress of Io, who in the guise of a heifer, had been given by Juno into the custody of Argus, enlisted Mercury to put Argus out of the way.

Leaping from the heavenly towers to earth, Mercury, disguised as a shepherd driving his flock, charmed Argus with the music of his Bandean pipes. In vain, however, did he try to lull the watchful eyes to sleep, until finally, with a supreme effort, he related to Argus the story of how the pipe upon which he played was invented. The fantastic story, accompanied by a plaintive melody from the instrument, at last caused the hundred eyes to close at once, and as Argus nodded forward for a moment, Mercury cut off his head!

What Today Means To You

By MARY BLAKE.

PISCES.

In the same degree that yesterday's conditions were unsettled and depressing, so today's planetary aspects indicate an underlying, atmosphere of encouragement and optimism. The temptation will be not to do too little, but to do too much, and to take chances which, under ordinary circumstances would never be attempted. It is safe to endeavor to accomplish any task that savors of constructive and deliberate effort, along customary lines. It is impolitic, and might prove detrimental, to venture into or explore unknown territory. "The shoemaker to his last," is an adage that, if practically adhered to, will today give safe results.

If you have been privileged to bring a human life into being today, you will be keenly interested in knowing that the signs indicate that much care, and especially good nutrition, will be needed to steer this child safely through the vicissitudes of infancy. Once, however, this period is successfully passed, it will develop physically in a very satisfactory manner. In disposition, it will show a tendency towards churlishness. This can be corrected by the proper environment and association. Its character will be erratic, and violent outbursts of temper on its part will frequently occur. In the face of great trouble or disappointment, it will maintain calm and poise. Trifles will, however, often cause it to lose its head.

Those, whose birthday it is today are, unless the signs are mistinterpreted, generally of very exacting and jealous temperaments, and, as if they demand much, they are ever ready to yield just as much, and more, than they expect to receive. Their jealousy does not only embitter their affections, but it permeates nearly every relationship of life. They are jealous, not only of those they love, but, of others' success, position, possessions and attainments, and rarely extend congratulations, without experiencing a momentary pang of envy. This is a most unfortunate disposition, and can only be cured by self-determination and strength of purpose.

They are demonstrative and extremely affectionate, and enjoy to its fullest extent the sense of possession. They will do anything, or make any sacrifice, for those they love or for those in trouble. Anyone who can successfully avoid arousing within them the "green eyed monster"—and there are not many that can do this—will never regret having chosen a "March 10th" arrival, as either a mate or a friend.

Successful people born on this date are: Donald M. Fairfax, naval officer, served with distinction in the Civil war; Henry R. Stiles, physician and author, prominent in New York for many years; Dudley Buck, organist and composer, best known for his church music; William McMurtrie, chemist, former professor in the University of Illinois; Henry E. Krehbiel, author and musical critic; William A. Keener, educator, former dean of Columbia law school.

Community Fireplace To Be Given Wichita Falls By Camp Fire Girls Soon

A large community fireplace, the gift of the local organization of Camp Fire girls, is under construction at Scotland Park and will be presented to Wichita Falls with ceremonies by the girls, March 15, at their grand council fire.

Rising ten feet high, the fireplace will be of red brick lined with fire brick, the throat two and one-half feet wide and 18 inches deep, topped with a mantel four and one-half feet high. A chimney four and one-half feeth igh rises above the mantel, and the structure, which is for the general use of picnic parties visiting Scotland park, is being erected on the west side of the park with due attention as to wind directions conducive to the success of the fires built therein.

A copper plate etched by Miss Mary McIlheren, chairman of the local guardian's association after the fashion of Camp Fire handcraft and bearing the inscription "Presented by Camp Fire girls to the city of Wichita Falls," and the Indian symbol of the association, will be bolted to the chimney as a marker.

The 1,000 brick used in the construction of the chimney were donated by the Texhoma Oil and Refining company through the efforts of T. H. Lawson, and were hauled from Iowa Park by C. J. Ferber, father of an Iowa Park Camp Fire girl. Construction work is being donated by two local bricklayers who are working under the advice of Miss Glenore Fisk, local Camp Fire executive.

Allred to Have Additional Help

AUSTIN, March 9.—Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson Monday approved the Daniel bill granting an assistant district attorney and special investigator for the Wichita county district attorney's office. The measure is to become effective 90 days after adjournment.

Approval of the Daniel bill by Governor Ferguson was reported to District Attorney James V. Allred last night by wire from Rep. Roy J. Daniel, who introduce dthe measure in the legislature. Request for the assistant was made by Mr. Allred, who has found that the great amount of criminal matters requirin gattention in this district was more than he and one assistant could properly care for.

No difficulty was found in agining passage of the measure b both house and senate.

SUFFERED FROM BAD HEADACHE

Lady Says She Found Black-Draught Helpful and After Long Use Recommends It to Others

BEREA, Ky., "I have known of Black-Draught about all of my life," says Mrs. W. G. Pigg, of this place. "My mother gave it to me when I was a child, for colds or when I would come in feeling bad from overeating or from childish ailments.

"After I was grown, I had very severe headaches and suffered intensely. So many times headache is from the disordered stomach or liver. I found that when I took Black-Draught, it would help me—just a few doses and it seemed the headache was less and less.

"I have used Black Draught all during my married life.

"When I would have indigestion, I would take a dose of Black-Draught. It will help the sour, bitter taste in the mouth and tightness after meals.

"It is good to take for a cold. It will cleanse the system and make one feel like new.

"I don't know of any better medicine than Black-Draught. I have recommended it to others and will continue to do so for it has proved very satisfactory."

Thedford's Black-Draught is composed of purely vegetable ingredients, carefully mixed in proportions which have been determined by long experience and scientific research.

He Wants to Sell City a Brick House

The city sat a kick-back Monday night from its row with Front street resident who are being evicted under a court order.

A man who owns a brick house that must be moved appeared before the commissioners and asked the city to buy it, saying he would sell it at a sacrifice for $600. Mayor Shepherd told him that Wichita Falls was not in the realty business. He came back, withdrew his offer and to say he would not sell it at that price now.

Another man who also had a brick house in the affected territory who wanted the city to take it at $400, made a retreat, too.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

SHALL SHE MARRY HER HOMELY SUITOR OR LOOK FURTHER FOR A BEAUTIFUL SHEIK? COULD TWO OLD PERSONS WHO ARE TIRED OF LIVING WITH THEIR CHILDREN BE HAPPILY MARRIED?—WHICH SHALL SHE MARRY?

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a typical flapper with one of the angel faces hat most men fall for, but Fate has sent me a homely sheik.

I really and truly love this fellow and know that he will make a wonderful husband, but my friends tease me so much about his looks that I feel as I could not stand it any longer.

Shall I marry and tell my friends to keep quiet, or shall I go out and unt for "Prince Charming?" I would like you to advise me.

CHERRY BLOSSOM.

Answer:

Well, angel face, inasmuch as you are the one who is going to marry the man, and not your friends, it seems to me that you are the one to pick him out, and the only question involved is how he is going to look to you across the breakfast table 365 days a year.

Undoubtedly it is agreeable to have a life partner who is easy on the es, and most men make this the first requisite in picking out a wife. Women, however, have more judgment in matters of the heart than men ave, and they are wise enough to know that beauty is the last thing to arry for, because it is the one count on which you are bound to lose out.

Goodness, fineness, brains, energy, a pleasant and agreeable disposition, nobility of character—these not only last, but increase as the years go by. Even money and social position generally hold out, and so men and women who marry for any of these things get a run for their money. But those who marry for beauty are foredoomed to lose out.

A few years turns every living picture into a chromo. Age robs the loveliest aiden of her peaches-and-cream complexion. It grizzles her hair. It converts her into a living skeleton or a tub of fat. And the man fares no better. ime snatches away his ambrosial locks and leaves him bald-headed. It adds ay-window effects to his architecture. It puts spectacles over the most omantic eyes. And lo, your sheik is no longer a sheik, but old man Jones r Smith.

It is foolish to marry for beauty, because beauty is bound to fade. It is lso foolish to marry for beauty because the superlative good-lookers are almost invariably vain and selfish, and especially is this true of men. Beauty urns their heads even worse than it does a woman's, and that is saying a lot.

It is doubly and trebly foolish for a woman to marry a man for his good looks, because she will always present an invidious comparison to him and she will always have to hear people whispering behind her back, wondering what made such a handsome man marry a woman who looks like that. Also, other women will be continually trying to vamp him, and she will have a perpetual fight to hold her own.

There is great comfort and safety in a homely husband, so you had better arry one and monopolize the beauty in your family.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—A civil war veteran, 80 years old, who has lost his wife, ants to marry the widow of his buddy, who is 75. Both are well and spry, nd comfortably well off, but their respective children will not hear to the arriage.

The children want the old people to live with them. The old people want home of their own, and feel that they can be very happy and companionble together. They say that when they are in their children's homes they eel like dried up old flowers that have been put in a vase with fresh roses. What do you think of this? FRIEND OF YOUTH OF '61.

Answer:

I think that anybody who is 80 years old who has pep enough to want to tackle matrimony again should go ahead and do it. Furthermore, I see no reason why these two old people, who have been friends for a lifetime, should not be very happy together, and get great pleasure and comfort in each other's society. They have the memories of a long life to talk over, and can spend many happy days reminiscing together.

Young people know how old people bore them, and it is strange that they do not realize that they are equally tedious and tiresome to the old. Grandma and grandpa are no more interested in hearing them discuss the last cabaret show than they are in hearing grandpa and grandma tell about something that happened during Rutherford B. Hayes' administration.

The most insurmountable barriers of all obstacles is age. Not even love can scale that. We each belong on our side of the wall, and our interests are bounded by the things of our own generation.

The people whom we find congenial are the ones who have done the things we have done, who have thought the same thoughts, and have the same ideals and tastes, and that is why old people are sensible to remarry and get themselves companions who belong to their own age class.

And children are wrong and foolish when they prevent these sensible unions.

If a man of 80 and a woman of 75 wanted to marry somebody much younger than themselves, their children would be right to break it off if they could; but when two old friends want to walk hand in hand together the few last laps of the journey, nobody should interfere with them. DOROTHY DIX.

My Dear Miss Dix—Two men wish to marry me. No. 1 is good-looking, good family and shows by every action that he loves me. He enjoys taking me out, and if he has a date he will walk through fire to keep it. He is absolutely reliable and a man of his word. No. 2 is very handsome and successful in business, but he never brings me candy or flowers as No. 1 does. I have never seen his people. I am never sure of his keeping a date. His business takes him out of the city, but he seldom writes; says he is too busy. Which man would make the best husbands? TROUBLED.

Answer:

No. 1. No. 2 would probably forget to mention the wedding day anyway, which would be lucky for you, as a man who is so selfish and inconsiderate before marriage would break your heart after marriage by his neglect.

The thing that makes a woman happy in marriage are little things, kindness and consideration, the tenderness that never fails and the knowledge that you can depend on your husband, no matter what happens. Of course, the man who never shows his wife any attentions, who never brings her flowers or sends her a telegram when he is away from home, and who has always to be reminded of her birthday, and that Christmas comes on the 25th of December, may still love her, but it is a poor love, with mighty little romance to gild it. And it leaves matrimony as flat as champagne that has been left open overnight. DOROTHY DIX.

"Joint-Ease is selling like hot cakes in my store because it is a wonderful and speedy remedy for all joint troubles.

"But why not impress on tens of thousands of suffering people some of the things that dozens of my customers tell me almost daily.

"Some say that it knocks out lumbago over night—others assert that for chest colds and sore throat it has no equal, while many insist that there is nothing they ever tried that is so efficient for neuralgia, neuritis and even head colds and nasal catarrh."

Answering the above letter, we, the makers of Joint-Ease, know that what this thriving New Jersey druggist says is true, but we still maintain that Joint-Ease is prepared for stiff, inflamed, painful, swollen joints, whether in ankle, knee, hip, elbow, shoulder, fingers or spine.

You'll like to use penetrating Joint-Ease, for with just one minute's rubbing, it soaks in through the flesh direct to the ailing bones and ligaments—that's why it succeeds—for when Joint-Ease gets in joint misery gets out—And without any waste of time all swelling and congestion disappears. CLASSY OUTFIELDER TAKES UP WHERE HE QUIT AT CLOSE OF BRILLIANT SPURT LAST SEASON

Quintet of Players Romp Into Camp Monday Afternoon—Training Officially Opens Today

Spudder fans can quit their stove league sessions now and shift to the grandstand territory of Athletic park. There has been a bit of training camp activity the past several weeks, and there's been a sprinkling of fans on hand each day at the orchard to see it done right, but the real work begins this morning. Skipper Tanner wil open the 1925 training season officially at 9:30. Twice-a-day workouts s the order from now on.

Not all th eSpudders are expected to out this morning, but the majority will put in an appearance this afternoon at the 2:30 session.

A quintet of newscomers showed up Monday. Wray Query, catcher obtained the past winter by Prexy Harvey from Portland of the Pacific coast loop, romped in from his home in Denison yesterday morning, and donned the monkey suit for action. Query participated in 61 games with Portland during the 1924 season, and walloped the pill for a .294 average.

Pet All Set.

Pete Turgeon, classy Spudder keystoner and a wee but mighty ball clouting athlete, drive in on an afternoon train. Pete kept in fair conditon the past few months by playing basket ball in Minneapolis. He didn't workout yesterday, but appears to be in pretty good shape, and is all set to begin the grind today.

D. C. Cochlin, young backstop from Danville i nthe Piedmont league, came in on the same train with Turgeon. Cochlin ht .265 last year.

Sloan, a rooke infielder from Crowell who used to play with Stamford, also showed up for a tryout.

Teddy Dorman, young infielder who was with the Supdders the early portion of the 1924 season and who has been recalled for another fling at breaking in with the Tannermen, arrived during the afternoon full of pep and with the fond hope of surprising the skipper clear out of his shoes when Tanner sees him in action this year.

Fitz Flashes.

A handful of Spudders cut loose with an infield practice yesterday afternoon, the first of the year. The greater portion of the period however, was devoted to willow work. Al White and Tanner each piled into the horsehide with a vengeance, but the greatest joy fo rthe skipper during the drill was the showing of Howard Fitzgerald, center fielder, who arrived Sunday and took his first workout Monday. Fitz broke away the latter part of the 1924 season with a hitting drive and fielding performance that completely eclpsed the work of any other outer gardner in the league for the time. Yesterday, Fitzgerald took up where he closed at the end of the last race. With no preliminary work he displayed surprising all-around form, and crashed the agate with gusto during the batting round.

Darcy Boasts, Works Out And Then Shows Up Missing

"Has anybody seen our Jackie? Anybody seen our fightin' cat? Oh, Jackie, Jackie, I wonder where you're at!"

Those are the words Promoter Don Wofford is warbling these days to the refrain of that ancient hymn "Anybody Seen Our Kitty."

Don Wofford's missing Jack Darcy, so-called Australian bearcat, who is billed to mingle mittens with Duke Trammel, Fort Worth mug masseur, in the American legion ten-round main event Thursday night.

Darcy drove into town the other day, announced that he wanted Trammel would place an appearance forfeit and a side bet that he can stop the Cowtowner before the allotted ten cantos had passed on, and then went to work preparing for the foray. He telephoned Wofford following his Friday workout, telling him that he would be right over to the promoter's office to slap the coin on the board.

Darcy failed to show.

"All right," mused Donnicus, "something's happened to delay him, so he'll be around tomorrow, probably."

Probably was right. No sign of Jacques on the morrow.

"Mayhap as how he has decided to take the week end off, but will come around Monday," meditated Don, who in the meantime had kept up a diligent search for the suddenly elusive antipodean.

There was no Darcy appearance Monday. And that's that.

The promoter is making arrangements to bring in a substitute to box Trammel, but still holds out hopes that Darcy will turn up possibly today.

Wofford had scheduled this bout specially for the Spudders in training, who are to be guests of the legion Thursday night.

WALKER WALLOPS FIVE HOME RUNS IN SANTONE PARK

SAN ANTONIO, March 9.—Tillie Walker, former slugger of the American League, signalized his first appearance in the workout with the Minneapolis, American Association baseball team on Bear Field Monday afternoon with five drives over the fence in batting practice, three clearing the palings in center field. Pat Duncan also put two balls over the fence.

Si Rosenthal, heavy hitting outfielder of the San Antonio Bears of the Texas League, is among the late arrivals. So is George Brovold, who will play shortstop in place of Turkey Gross. Exchanged to the Boston Red Sox for Danny Clark, who will play third base. Clark was the first to put the ball over the fence in the new park.

The first exhibition game between the Millers and Bears will be played Friday afternoon.

Tilden never uncovered his most powerful strokes, experimenting with chops and cuts and working for accuracy.

Witt Only Yank Veteran Who Is Not Sure Of Job

Whitney May Alternate At Any Of Several Positions

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. March 2. Whitey Witt is slated, some say, to warm the Yankee bench. Some others have him booked to be Everett Scott's successor at short. Still others say he will be alternated in the Yankee center field with young Earl Combs.

He is probably the only veteran of the Yankee regulars who has no idea of what the future holds for him. All the others have a good chance of assuming their regular positions at the opening of the season and keeping them until they give out or youngsters demand their places. Witt hasn't the slightest idea what will happen to him.

But that isn't worrying the white haired gentleman from Philadelphia, Winchenden, Mass., and parts. He is one of the most lighthearted members of the squad under Huggins' wing this year.

Not that Witt doesn't care what becomes of him. But he realizes that mooning won't do' him any good at this stage of the game, so he has taken the other course. He is one of the first birds out for each of the two daily practice sessions. He enters the grdind full of pep and emerges the same way.

He figures that if fate and Miller Huggins put him on the bench he'll be in condition for a long summer. And if he does get a chance in the infield or outfield, he'll be set for it.

Which, after all, is a nice way of looking at it.

Breaking loose in the last quarter, the Frederick boys took the long end of a 33-18 score from the Grandfield loogers.

Greatest Homer Trio In Captivity

Presents Interesting Study At Yankee Camp, Writes Brown From Field

This is the second of Norman E. Brown's articles from the training camps. Brown is covering these camps for The Record News. —Editor.

By NORMAN E. BROWN

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 9. The New York Yankees, training here in the hope of regaining their lost American League pennant, have among them three great home run hitters.

Babe Ruth, of course,

Norman Cullop, home run star of the Western League last season.

And Lou Gehrig, home run king of the Eastern League.

On past records these men form the greatest trio of ball murderers on any club in the country.

Babe hit 46 home runs last year. He holds the world's record of 59 in a season and hopes to make that mark 60 the coming campaign.

Cullop slammed out 40 home runs for Omaha in the Western League last year, leading that league by a wide margin.

Gehrigh, with Hartford in the Eastern League last season, slammed out 37 home runs.

These three huskies, among them, collected 123 home runs—more than the number registered by entire leagues of ball players in the old days.

Mighty sluggers all. And yet a close study of them from all angles reveals the fact that they have totally different individualities, physiques and styles at bat. The variations in their grips on the war club and the start of their swing alone are worthy of study.

Ruth's Position

Ruth, as legions of fans know, faces the pitcher with the handle of his bat held chest high, a bit away from his chest. The bat lies slanting over his shoulder. He falls quickly into the long, free swing from this position.

Gehrig holds his bat handle much lower, a bit above his belt, so to speak. His bat stands more vertical than Babe's. When he starts his swing he shoves his hands away from his sides, then draws them up toward his shoulder. His hands are practically shoulder high when he starts the back swing of his bat.

When Cullop Waits

Cullop gives one the impression of having a strained position at bat. He holds his bat tight to his hide, his hands down practically to his belt. His bat is erect on his shoulder. While waiting for the pitch he pulls the bat away from his shoulder a bit, but keeps his grip down by his belt. When he starts his swing he lifts his hands upward and outward at the same time.

In build there is a striking difference.

Ruth is the largest of the trio. He carries broad, powerful shoulders, but the broadness runs through his entire torso. He is fat around his chest and waist.

Gehrig is shorter. He carries the broad shoulders but his body narrows down. He has a trim waist. He is a better built athlete than Ruth.

Cullop Small

Cullop is much smaller than Gehrig and looks almost tiny alongside Ruth. He does not seem to have the power in his shoulders that either of the others have. But he puts as much power into his blows as either Ruth or Gehrig.

This last statement may be challenged. It is true, however, Manager Art Griggs of Omaha, where Cullop starred with the bat, has said that he believes Cullop hits the ball as hard and as far as Ruth does. Cullop is not the experienced hitter Ruth is. He probably hasn't faced the kind of pitching Ruth has. But as the three men cut loose at the ball these days Cullop draws the lion's share of attention.

"How that boy can hit," has come from every one of the Yanks as they have watched Cullop in action with his bat.

The Yankee home-run trio is seen in action in these photos made at the training camps at St. Petersburg, Fla., by a Central Press Photographer.

Different Temperaments

The men are of entirely different temperaments. Ruth, of course, likes the plaudits of the crowd. He has become a practiced showman in his efforts to please the fans.

Gehrigh has been up before. He has acquired the confidence that comes of working out and traveling under big league colors. He goes at his work in a dashing way.

Cullop is modest and retiring. Huggins usually is forced to call him in from the field when it comes time for him to hit. Apparently Cullop's hesitancy comes from a fear that he will create the impression he is conceited or seeking attention.

All things considered, these three demons of the stick make an interesting study for the "bugs" who turn out daily to watch the ex-champs unlimber.

NEHF GIANTS' PROBABLE MOUND SELECTION FOR SERIES OPENER

Major League Clubs Jar Loose This Week in First of Spring Training Exhibition Tilts

NEW YORK, March 9.—(AP)—Art Nehf looks like the choice of the New York Giants to pitch the first clash with Washington in the "spring world series" Tuesday at Palm Beach. Frank Walker, Mickey Devine, Kent Greenfield and Joe Lance are among the recruits selected to make the first road tourn of the year with the Giants.

The Brooklyn Dodgers are ready for the St. Louis Browns Wednesday. Manager Robinson expects to use Eddie Brown in right field and Big Dick Cox in center with Captain Zack Wheat in left. Cox is the sensation of the Brooklyn camp, having brought an advanced edition in hitting and fielding from Portland of the Pacific Coast League.

The New York Yankees will play the Boston Braves Thursday with either Jess Barnes or Rube Marguard opposing them.

After a week's review Manager George Sisler says he feels certain his St. Louis Browns will get better pitching this year. Lacking the Sisler stamp of official approval, reports from the Brownie camp at Tarpon Springs, Fla., indicate the following hurlers will be on the staff this summer: Bush, Vangilder, Wingard, Davis, Blaeholder, Gaston, Giard, Grant, Falk and one from the ranks of the recruits.

Card Hurlers Wild

Moundsmen also hold the training limelight among the St. Louis Cardinals at Stockton, Cal., Manager Branch Rickey having experienced some difficulty in finding a hurler who could place the ball near the plate during the exhibition games Saturday and Sunday.

Manager Fletcher of the Phillies is working hard to get his men in condition for exhibition games with the Athletics at Fort Myers Thursday and Friday.

Babe Ruth, sultan of swat, will be in the Athletics' outfield against the Phillies Friday. Ruth has been borrowed by Manager Mack from the camp of the New York Yankees for the day.

With the arrival yesterday at Lakeland, Fla., from Hot Springs, Ark., of Pitchers Uhle and Edwards and Riggs Stephenson, utility infielder of the Cleveland American team, the entire roster of that club is now in Lakeland.

Sox Snaps to Life

One of the snappiest workouts ever staged by a Chicago White Sox team was staged today at the camp at Shreveport, La., with Baseball Commissioner Landis as a spectator. Recent arrivals are Td Lyons, Charley Robertson and Ted Blankenship, while Willie Kamm, Earl Sheely, Bib Falk, Bill Barrett and Maurice Arebdeacon are still to appear.

Two more casualties have hit the Chicago Cubs. Bobby Barrett was struck in the mouth by a ball on a bad bounce and Percy Jones received a sprained hand in a collision with another player. Only one session was on the card today.

Tom Zachary, the reliable southpaw of the Washington Senators, who tamed the New York Giants in the last world series, looks like the choice of Manager Harris to start the opening battle at Palm Beach, Fla.

The only other veteran pitchers to be taken along are Martina, Marberry and Russell, Johnson being left behind with his receiving partner, Ruel, which puts the catching burden on Tate and Hargrave. All of the regular infield and outfield are making the trip. President Griffith came to terms yesterday for a one-year contract with Vean Gregg, the veteran purchased from Seattle.

The Detroit Tigers opened their second week of training today. Earl Whitehall, pitcher, who is reported en route to the camp, and Heinie Manush, outfielder, who is the only Tiger holdout, are the only members of the squad absent.

Andree Sets 'Em On Their Ears In Coyote Practice

High School Clashes With Seconds In 8-Inning Battle

Selecting what possibly will be the regular nine during the 1925 campaign, Coyote Baseball Coach Henderson sent his club into the initial practice contest of the year with the second-stringers Monday. The first team emerged from the firing an 8 to 5 victor, thanks to the sterling mound work of Captain Bill Andree throughout the first five innings. The tilt went but eight rounds. Bill gave way in the last of the fifth to a pinch swatter. During the five cantos be pitched, the captain allowed but a pair of safe wallops, a triple by Olin Harvey and a single by Ralph Walker.

Rufus Neel, Dee Woodson, and "Lefty" Lesley connected for two hits for the winners while Olin Harvey and Jean Nesbit came through with a like number. No one could land his third bingle in safe territory.

Johnnie McMahon made himself a general thorn in the back of the second string men by snaring anything the rough grounds would allow him to get to, and capping this with a long, running stab of Rougley's drive in the fourth canto. "Peachy" Bland, received a chance at third for the second stringers, pulled another hair raising play by scooping in off his shoe tops a foul from the willow of Rufus Neel. Despite one wild heave early in the contest Neel played a fine game at third for the winners.

These two nines possibly will mix it again Wednesday afternoon for the second practice tilt.

The score:

				R.	H.	E.
Second Team	000	100	40	5	8	3
First Team	041	020	1x	8	9	2

Batteries: Clay, Seal and Tarkinton, Nance; Andree, Ray, and Hicks.

F. H. METHODISTS TO ENTER SUNDAY SCHOOL LEAGUE

Floral Heights Methodists will be represented in the Sunday school league during the 1925 Wichita Falls amateur baseball campaign instead of the Twilight loop in which the Methodists played last season.

The announcement was made Monday night following a session of the junior board of the church. A committee was appointed to select a team manager as soon as possible.

DEEMS APPARENTLY SMOOTHS INDIANS' PITCHING WRINKLES

Former Coyote Slab Star Joins Junior College Squad—Caskey Looks Good As Catcher

Most of, possibly all, Coach Bubs Mosley's Junior college pitching worries were completely forgotten Monday afternoon when Dummy Deems, former Coyote mound star, showed up for his initial practice with the Tribe.

With the lanky Larry Crites developing speedily and looking better each workout as a probable good slab bet for the Indians, the appearance of Deems apparently ironed out the hurling problem. Both are right banders, and each boasts a fair assortment of curves.

Until yesterday, Mosley was in doubt as to when and where he could locate a pair of dependable pitchers and at least one real catcher. The rest of the team layout looked good, but that battery question seemed a hard proposition indeed.

Now that backstop quandary stacks up as almost a matter of the past, for in Mike Saskey, who performed behind the bat yesterday during the practice session, it looks like Coach Bubs has uncovered a sure enough find. Caskey handled himself well, and probably will improve sufficiently to quiet Mosley's fears for the strength receivers' department of his club.

Classy Infiend.

The fist real infield drill of the season was staged Monday, and considering the roughness of the embryo diamond laid off recently and quickly so that the Indians could get down to business in a hurry, the performance of his players must have been more or less pleasing to the mentor. Thurman stacked up nicely at the keystone cushion, and Kizmire fielded in sensational manner at short. This pair propably will hold down those positions as regulars. There is no doubt about Kizzar coming through. Deems and Crites alternated at third. It is more than likely that these lads will continue in this manner, taking turn about on the mound, one at the hot corner while the other is pitching.

Hershie A Wolloper.

First base is another one of those question marks. But wit hCarey and Timmons both battling for the position Mosley seems assured of a dependable initial sacker.

As far as yesterday's work was concerned Ray Hershi just about earned himself a berth in the outer gardens, not so much because of his fielding ability but due to the surprising slugging ability he displayed during batting practice. Hershi mauled the apple to all sectors with recklessness and abandon. Hhe should develop into a heavy hitter. His stance at the plate is a natural one, and he takes a healthy cut at the ball.

IT'LL BE A BATTLE TO SEE WHO CAN GET EACHOTHERS' GOATS WHEN WOMEN CLASH

Feminine Golf Association Plans Trio of Tournaments For Coming Thursday

Somebody's gonna get somebody else's goat (pardon the slang, please,) pretty soon at the Country club. Goats are going to be got, interchanged, and passed around quite often, too. It's all due to start happening when the club's feminine linksmen swing into action the latter part of this week.

That ancient phrase, slangy as it is, "She gets my goat," is coming into its own again. For every member of the women's golf association will have a goat, and a number of them are going to loose 'em before many more weeks wear along.

You've guessed it. They're going to stage a goat tourney. Initial play is billed for Thursday. Each golfer will be presented, or sold (we don't remember which) a miniature goat; not a live one, but a toy affair. Then the golfing goat battle begins.

Each golfer will challenge another for a match, the winner getting the loser's goat, literally speaking. The tournament is to run for several months, closing date not set yet, and at the end of the war the woman who has in her possession the most goats wins. What happens then hasn't been decided yet.

Always a Comeback

Incidentally, if one woman loses her goat, she still has the privilege of taking in after someone else's or challenging her victor for a return match.

Besides inauguration of the goat affair Thursday, members of the association are slated to hook up in lunch. Golf balls will be given the nine-hole medal play, starting at 9:30 a. h. and a driving tournament after lunch. Golf balls will be given the medalists in the two classes, A and B. Prize for the winning driver has not been decided yet.

Handicaps for the medal play:

Class A.

Mrs. W. W. Silk, 9; Mrs. A. W. Fisher, 5; Mrs. G. H. Humphries, 5; Mrs. Fred Couper, 6; Mrs. C. O. Davis, 7; Mrs. L. McCrory, 7; Mrs. L. Stringer, 9; Mrs. J. H. Fletcher, 7; Mrs. W. Witcher, 9; Mrs. Ruehl, 10; Mrs. J. Bobo, 6; Mrs. E. Marriot, 12; Mrs. J. Hatchett, 9.

Class B.

Mrs. J. Constantine, 2; Mrs. D. G. Whitney, 4; Mrs. J. A. Fisher, 3; Mrs. Fred Kingery, 6; Mrs. Boling, 5; Miss L. Hampshire, 12; Mrs. Wyett, 11; Mrs. Rosco Davis, 12; Mrs. Sanford, 12; Mrs. Sheegog, 12; Mrs. Thomas, 12; Mrs. Ike Upchurch, 9; Miscs Irene Taylor, 12; Mrs. W. Abbott, 5; Miss Del Marcus 2; Mrs. J. Liebold, 12.

The driving competition is expected to prove a stiff battle with Mesdames A. W. Fisher, G. H. Hampshire, C. O. Davis, J. H. Fletcher and Fred T. Couper possibly taking the lead over the rest of the field unless some hitherto dark horse gets away with an' extra long wallop. Driving will be held from the eighteenth tee. The fairway is to be staked off, nd prepared in every way for correct gauging of the distances made. Each entrant will be allowed three drives.

Work Starts On Amateur Loops' Ball Diamonds

Grounds To Be Ready For Use In Short Time

Park department workmen started Monday on the preparation of two baseball diamonds to be used this summer by the Twilight and Sunday school league baseball teams. The diamonds are being laid out on a large plot of ground on Jalonick street adjoining the Barwise school.

In addition to doing the proper grading, laying out of the infield, base paths and outfeld gardens, the city will also erect all necessary backstops.

The fields will be ready for play within a short time.

Wisconsin Swamps Illinois

The game, the result of which was one of the biggest upsets of the season left Illinois and Indiana tied for second and third places with eight victories and four defeats.

Seaman Shades O'Connell.

NEW YORK, March 9.—Sally Seaman, of New York was given a judges' verdict over Charlie O'Connell of Cleveland, at the end of 15 rounds in Madison Square Garden tonight. Originally scheduled for 12 rounds, the contest was carried three more rounds when the judges decided on a draw at the end of the twelfth.

The Story of a Social Climber
by Lucille Van Slyke

CHAPTER 82
She Writes to Chet

She spent hours that night writing letters to Chet, letters which she tore up because they were so cruel to send. Why it had swept over her so suddenly she didn't know. She just knew that no matter what happened she never wanted to see him again. She blamed herself bitterly, she blamed Chet not at all.

"He is exactly the same Chet he always was," she thought wretchedly, "a big, blundering, good looking person, who will never know his own mind, really, who will always have to have somebody else decide things for him. I never loved him at all, I just loved the man I thought he might be. I can't even hate him."

But it did hurt awfully to understand at last how small minded and weak and indecisive he actually was.

The letter that she finally sealed to send was really the kindliest thing she had ever written to him.

"Dear Chet. It must be very hard indeed for you to live in that horrid boarding house brooding over things. I know that Jean is lonely and disappointed and perplexed. I realize that what we talked about this spring was mad and foolish. I thank God that it didn't happen. Forgive me if you can, Chet, for having made so much trouble for us all. I somehow feel sure that if you and Jean go on with your plans you won't be sorry in the end. You have it in your power to make her happy and contented and I know she will be very good to you."

Then abruptly and rather defiantly, she signed herself

"Rosalie Blanchard Quimby."

Next she wrote a brief letter to Quim.

"Dear Quim. You've been more than good to me but I can't go on this way any longer, taking things from you, I just can't!

"Please make some arrangement for somebody to come stay here with Nannette as soon as you can."

This she slipped into an envelope without signing and walked slowly down the road outside the gates to drop them in the wayside letter box, knowing that she had burned her bridges behind her with a vengeance, but feeling blessedly the better for having dared to do it. What the future held she did not know, she only knew that she couldn't go on being a pensioner on Quim's bounty.

Chet's answer, arriving two days later, made her laugh aloud. It was so inadequate a climax to something that had once seemed romance with a capital R.

"Dear Rosie. Probably you are right. I guess it might be the best thing for us to do. I am aiming to see Jean Sunday when I go over to have dinner with my folks. The branch here is doing fine and I guess I can find something to rent. I shall always entertain the kindest regards for you in spite of how you have treated me."

Its stilted phraseology was so utterly ludicrous that it made her almost hysterical with bitter mirth.

Quim's answer came a day later. Her letter had been slow reaching him. He telegraphed her:

"Again I beg of you to do nothing hastily. Wiring lawyers to hurry matters all that is possible. Please be so good as to remain where you are until I can communicate more definitely."

On the heels of this arrived Quim's sister, who stormed into the house looking rather formidable in her smart town clothes.

"Quim has sent me an utterly crazy telegram," she announced. "He practically ordered me out here to get as your jailer. What on earth is the matter now?"

It was noon when she arrived. Rosalie had been sitting in a basket chair on the side lawn mending Nannette's stockings. Nannette, in a brief bathing suit, was paddling about in a shallow old fountain below the terrace, playing with some toy boats. Rosalie, white and limp from the heat and the stress of her emotions, faced her sister-in-law tremulously.

"Nothing especially is the matter," she stammered, "except that I just can't stay here any longer."

"The handsome hero won't wait, eh?" Aunty Dee jerked off her hat and fanned herself vigorously with it.

"The handsome hero doesn't want me any more," Rosalie tried to speak lightly. "Quim doesn't want me either. I found out yesterday about a little job I can get that will tide me through the summer. A normal school friend I knew is going to be married unexpectedly and they need a substitute for her job at a girls' camp in Maine. It is awfully lucky for me. I'm sure that Nannette wouldn't make any fuss at all now about my going. She is so busy and happy and has so many friends. She is a lot more grown up than she was in the spring."

She stood up, steadied herself against a small metal table that held the mending basket and added: "I hope you can stay until Quim comes back."

Dee's eyes narrowed reflectively.

"All right," she announced briskly, "I'll phone my maid to pack a bag and send it out for me."

The suddenness of the release almost took Rosalie's breath away.

"I had promised to manage the water sports for the tiny children at the club on Saturday morning," she said dully, "but it's all planned out so it would be easy for you to go over, Nannie and two of her friends were going to help. They'll know just what to do. And Nan is having three girls for luncheon and tennis tomorrow."

"All right," Dee was laconic. She strolled to the edge of the terrace. "Quite whenever you please."

Rosalie crept up stairs without another word. She found her traveling bag, packed some simple necessities in it, dragged out an old suitcase and put in a few rough clothes suitable for the camp. She took up her telephone and wired her normal school friend her acceptance. Then she dressed herself in a thin dark frock.

Dee made no effort to come near her. Nannette, entirely unsuspicious, played happily in the old fountain. Rosalie went to the window and called softly to her.

"You'd better come and bathe yourself and dress for luncheon, dear."

"Coming Quimmy," the girl's voice fluted up to her with the delightful new nickname that the Boardman girls had invented.

Her hat and gloves and purse lay on the edge of her dressing table. Nannette eyed them as she passed in the doorway.

"You're not going to town this hot day?"

"Have to—" Rosalie forced her voice to sound casual.

"May I go with you?"

"No. Aunty Dee is here, you can entertain her, can't you?"

"Righto," the child was in amiable mood. She walked quietly to the bathroom that was the connecting link between their rooms.

"I'll not play boats any more," she said dreamily. "It's really too kiddish." She was so dear and funny and solemn about it! "I shall be almost grown-up after this, shan't I?"

"Daddy is coming in a few days," Rosalie said.

Nannette forgot to be grown up, turned a double handspring and landed with both arms around Rosalie.

"How just sweet!" she exulted. "I just prayed he would! Everything is just bully now!"

It wasn't fair at all, but Rosalie turned suddenly cowardly. She hadn't the courage to tell the dear little girl that this was goodbye. She gave her a loving push toward the bathroom door. Then she caught up her hat and her purse and fled blindly. The station cart was waiting for her, Geachin was driving for her. He eyed the bags.

"What train shall I meet tonight, ma'am?" he asked respectfully.

CHAPTER 83
Chalk Dust

The train was a bit late, she dismissed Geachin, but he nodded toward the bags and said stiffly.

"Best for me to wait, ma'am."

But in her restless, unhappy mood, she couldn't sit still. So she clambered out of the station cart and paced up and down the platform. Other station carts and many cars were parked in the blue stone space.

"There's Quimmy!" called a gay voice. "Oh, Mrs. Quimby, mother says you and Nannette are to come to luncheon with us Saturday after the water sports!"

"So sorry," she answered dully, "I can't. But her Aunty Dee is visiting her. Perhaps they could go."

"Mercy no!" the frankness of fourteen answered, "I'm scared stiff of her Aunty Dee! I do wish you could!"

An eager eighteen-year-old youth hailed her from the opposite side of the tracks, calling through his cupped hands:

"I say, Quimmy! Some of us are getting up a treasure hunt for Saturday night! Would it be asking an awful lot to ask if we could use your place?"

She forced herself to smile.

"Suppose you phone Nannette's aunt. She's at the house in charge. I'm on my way to town. I'm sure she'd say yes."

Perfectly silly of her to feel her knees wobbling. Utterly childish of her to care so much about their liking her and wanting her! The boy's friendly grin made her want to cry, it was so inexpressibly dear. The train rumbled in, she clambered aboard and leaned out from an opened window.

"Goodbye!" she called. Not just to the boy but to the whole blessedly sweet world she was leaving behind her.

Then she shut her tired eyes.

Back of her voices were speaking guardedly.

"No, the little woman in the seat ahead. Mrs. Harrison Quimby. Isn't she pretty? She's ages older than she but perfectly crazy about her. They have the most wonderful old place about a mile from the station. Gee, it must be fun to live the way she does. She's terribly popular, everybody likes her."

"Some people have all the luck," the other voice was discontented. "I'm so sick of school teaching I could just die. Same old thing, year after year. Chalk dust and bells and papers to mark."

It bore in upon Rosalie's unhappy thoughts that the Maine job was for a brief time, that she would have to find a job for the winter, that this same chalk dust, bells and papers to mark that the voice back of her condemned was all in the world that she knew how to do and that at the best it would provide a drab living.

Figures danced wildly in her mind. Quim's secretary had paid the household bills, handing her a check each week for her personal expenses. She had saved every penny that she could out of it, meaning to give it back to Quim when she could make enough to fill out the entire amount. But it was going to cost her quite a bit for her tickets to Maine and her wages there would barely make enough to pay for her return tickets. All the old pinching, grudging, horrid economics of her girlhood would begin from this moment!

Town was ghastly hot. She found that her train left at midnight. She bought her ticket, frugally engaging an upper berth, checked her bags, then went over and sat down, rather limply, on a side bench and watched with unseeing eyes the travellers and the commuters who hurried or lagged through the station. Her sombre eyes fixed themselves upon the great clock over the information booth. Every moment that it checked away made a picture for her.

Now Nannette and Aunty Dee would be getting up from the luncheon able to saunter arm in arm out to the shaded terrace. Aunty Dee would doze in the comfortable long basket chair while Nannette played paper dolls. She could picture the child running lightly along the path to stand tiptoe beside the sundial eager for the time when the shadows would fall athwart the "III" upon the dial. For at three o'clock around Geachin would come with the station cart, and the bathing suits and off Nannette would go to frolic in the big pool with the other youngsters.

The ghastly humidity of the station made Rosalie think longingly of that cool water. And the youngsters shouting and laughing and their mothers and nurses calling to them from the big stone benches beside it.

They would get deliciously shivery and go off to play tennis to warm up and then they'd dive under the shower baths to cool off again.

She stirred uneasily, she'd forgotten to play nine holes of golf at 4 o'clock, with young Mrs. Glidden and her niece and Nannie. She rose, found a telephone booth, got Mrs. Glidden's house and left a message with her maid.

"Mrs. Quimby is sorry that she cannot play golf this afternoon."

Charge Fraud In Annulment Suit Of Teapot Dome

Old Scandal Is Again Flashed Before The Public Eye

CHEYENNE, Wyo., March 9.—(AP)—Teapot Dome—which became almost a household phrase during the senate oil committee investigation early in 1924—again today was flashed on the screen of public interest.

In the second appearance, however, it was stripped of much of the glamour and sensationalism which characterized the senate investigation of a year ago. Today's setting was in federal court before Judge T. Blake Kennedy with the government seeking to annul the lease which was granted to the Mammoth Oil company, one of the Harry F. Sinclair companies.

Owen D. Roberts and Atlee Pomerene, special counsel for the government, led in the fight to have the lease annulled on the grounds that it was obtained through fraud.

An attempt to locate the "saddle" of Teapot Dome, marked the day's session, when in its closing minutes, K. C. Heald, geologist of Yale university formerly with the government geological survey, took the stand as the first witness for the government.

He Scoffs Idea of Labor Conflict Enc

NEW YORK, March 9.—Donald R. Richberg, special public utilities counsel for the city of Chicago, tonight voiced dissent from the belief, expressed by industrial and economic leaders today, that a distribution of property ownership was taking place in America which promised to end the conflict between capital and labor.

The theory was expounded at the semi-annual session of the academy of political science by several speakers.

Mr. Richberg said he opposed "any opinion that a new properitorship is developing which will transform the conflicting interests of seller and purchaser or of employer and employee into the common interests of genuine co-operators."

He quoted a public utility owner as having said:

"I wish Henry Ford never had been born, so that people would not think that a man could raise wages and reduce prices and still make money."

But this public utility man, said Mr. Richberg, solved his problem, as others have, by adopting a "divide and conquer" motto. That is, "he sold stock to his customers and employes and encouraged each group to create public sentiment against the demands of the others."

"The customer-producer is a myth," he continued. "The ordinary mortal is primarily a purchaser or a seller. The customer-stockholder of a public utility corporation is simply trying to ride two horses in opposite directions. An employee who becomes a fractional employer by the purchase of stock from his employer is attempting the same embarrassing acrobatic feat."

NEW YORK, March 9.—The calling of between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000 in bank loans today followed the depletion in reserves of the clearing house banks, shown last Saturday and was accompanied by a rise in the call money rate from 3 1-2 to 5 per cent. This development was expected in the financial district; in fact the only element of surprise was the plentiful supply of money at the opening of the market reflected in the renewal of call funds at 3 1-2 per cent. Coupled with the calling of bank loans as a factor in the firmness of money were the preparations for income tax payments, at the end of the week.

Pure Oil company is understood to have acquired a controlling interest in the Wofford Oil company of Georgia, one of the three chief marketers in that territory, which will enable Pure Oil to market its own products in that state. Wofford Oil has bulk plants and service stations in Atlanta, Macon, Rome and Columbus.

Stockholders of the Submarine Boat corporation are said to be looking forward to distribution of between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 probably within a year, which the corporations will receive through the signing of the navy omnibus bill by President Coolidge. The amount due will be included in the next appropriation bill of the secretary of the navy. Twenty-three of the company's fleet of 32 large vessels are in operation, the other nine recently having been in service and now in good condition.

Estimates of industrial engineers that consolidation of Armour and company and Morris and company would result in an annual saving of 10,000,000 will have been more than justified in two years, according to F. Edson White, president of Armour and company, the merger was said to have increased the volume of business and enabled economies in operation and distribution.

Traffic on the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe since the first of the year shows marked improvement over the same period of 1924. Freight loading to March 6 totaled 305,711 cars against 291,262.

Proposed increase of $50,000,000 in the bonded indebtedness of the Union Oil company of California to $95,000,000 will be acted upon by stockholders at a special meeting April 2.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Read Johnson today was appointed regional manager of the veterans bureau at Dallas, Texas. He formerly was acting district manager there.

Livestock

FORT WORTH, March 9. — For the most part the cattle market held to a steady level Monday, but there were instances where logers amounted to around 25 to 35c. Receipts displayed an increase, but quality was rather good, and several lots were choice. The estimate was placed at 4,500 head of cattle and 1,000 calves. The movement scaleward was not active, but made fair progress and the yards were cleared within a reasonable hour.

Beef steer receipts were of fair proportions and the run possessed a good top end. Some weighty heifers, culled from show consignments, sold up to $9.75, and another lot of good steers went at $9.00, these being experiment station cattle. Medium to good heifers were purchased at a spread of $8.50 to $9.75.

Demand for cows was again rather broad, but buyers were trying to force a small decline, and fleshy cattle, such as scored such a big advance last week, came in for a slightly lower trend. But it was a good market at that. One sale of several carloads was made at $5.00 and good individual cows ranged up to $6.00. A large number of consignments were disposed of at a spread of $4.00 to $4.35. Canners went at $1.75 to $2.00, and the cutter deal was around $2.25 to $2.75.

Sales of good to choice heifers and yearlings were reported as high as $9.00 to $9.50; but not in carlots. The market made fairly good progress and prices held to a generally steady level.

Bull values remained in line with last week's close. Good beef bulls brought $4.00 to $4.25.

Calf prices were just about in line with the higher close last week. In this division quality was rather common, the only really choice calves came in small lots and went to $8.00 to $9.00.

Stockers values were in line with last week's close. A good demand prevailed for all useful kinds.

The hog market was slow to start. Buyers were in possession of orders telling of declines at most places, and bids here were unevenly lower. Sales averaged 25c down, the top being around $14.10, with most to the run clearing at $13.75 to $14.00. Receipts were close to 2,500 head. Figs and sows remained steady, the former selling up to $10.50 and the latter making $13.00.

Sheep house receipts consisted of 2,200 head, most of the run being feeders. Some fat sheep wethers went at $8.75 and a deck of feeder wethers brought $7.00, prices that were called steady.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, March 9.—The cotton market started the week with a strong tone and prices were up 25 points for May and 22 for October in the first half of the morning, mainly owing to strong Liverpool cables, the English market being 10 to 21 points better than due at the time the local market opened and reported sales 10,000 bales of spots of which 8,500 bales were American according to cables the English market was influenced to higher levels by drouth news from the southwestern portion of the cotton belt. The market turned soft during the second half of the morning and continued to ease off during the afternoon until May showed a loss of 31 points from the high of the morning and October a loss of 21 points. The decline was largely due to private reports of insistent rains in Texas and Oklahoma. The market had an irregular close nearly months a few points net lower and late months a few points net higher.

At the start the market was firmer and first trades showed gains of 12 to 21 points before the advance culminated. May sold up to 26.23, July to 26.44 and October to 25.38 or 22 to 25 points above the previous close. The subsequent reaction carried May down to 25.92, July to 26.17 and October to 25.17 or 21 to 21 points below the early highs. The market closed a few points above the lows showing net losses of 2 to 4 points on old crop months and net gains of 2 to 3 points on new crop position.

The loss of the early advance was due to the showing on the weather map of several areas of low barometer in the far west accompanied by rains there. Map readers interpreted this showing to mean rain was probable in the west in the immediate future and this impression gained ground during the day when rains were reported in Oklahoma and a few sprinkles in Texas.

One of the main supporting influences was the good export for the day totalling 51,510 bales. The total for the seasons to adte was brought up to 6,334,074 bales against 4,329,565 bales last season for the same corresponding period an excess this season of 2,008,419 bales.

NEW YORK, March 9. — Speculative uneasiness over the money situation growing out of the unusually high total of brokers' loans, the large deficit in reserve shown in last Saturday's clearing house statement and the increased demand for funds incidental to the approach of tax day and heavy governmental financing, was generally held responsible for the heavy selling of stocks in today's market. Call money opened unchanged at 3½ per cent but soon jumped to 4½ and 5 closing at the top.

Extreme declines of ½ to 5 points took place in the standard industrials while a number of specialties sold 6 to 13 points below last week's closing levels. The decline was an orderly one, however, with indications of good support for most of the high grade railroad and industrial issues. Independent strength was shown by a dozen or more issues, most of which are believed to be under pool control. American Safety Razor soared nearly 5 points to a record high at 67½, and Lac. ledge Gas jumped nearly 6 points to a new top at 160¾ and then slipped back to 154½.

Most to the so-called pivotal industrials lost ground. United States Steel common closed ¼ lower at 123¾ after having sold at 123¼. American Can fluctuated between 178½ and 182½ closing at 180¾, for a new loss to 1 point. Baldwin opened at 140¾, yielded to 137¾ and then rallied to 139½, off 1¼ on the day. Studebaker closed fractionally higher at 44⅝.

Wilson & Co., preferred, which soared up to a sensational 21 point advance to 60 last Saturday and then forfeited most of its gain, today broke to 30¼ and then rallied to 36, where it was off 7¾ points on the day. Atlantic Gulf and West Indies was heavily sold on publication of charges that the company had been granted excessive tax rebates being quoted as low as 29¾ and then rallying to 33⅜, off 2¾ on the day. Miami Copper broke over 3 points to 11¼, the lowest price in 15 years on the reported depletion of its reserves. United States distributing preferred broke 10 points on one sale.

Weakness also was shown by Associated Drygoods, Atlantic Coast Line, Commercial Solvents "B", Federal Mining and Smelting preferred, International Paper preferred, Mathieson Alkali, National Lead, Twin City Rapid Transit, United Cigar and United States Cast Iron Pipe, all of which showed net losses of 2½ to 3½ points.

Maxwell Motors, "A" and "B" attained new peak prices for the rear at 80¼ and 39½ respectively. Butte and Superior responded to the resumption of dividends by advancing 1 point to 20½. Good buying also was noted in American Ride and Leather preferred, Manhattan Electric and Supply and Republic Steel.

A large volume of stock financing is expected within the next few weeks. Public offering is expected shortly of 240,000 shares of common stock of The Fair, Chicago's well-known department store.

Time money rates held firm with 4 per cent quoted for the 60 to 90-day maturities and 4¼ for the longer dates. Commercial Paper ranged from 3¾ to 4¼.

Postal Rates To Be Increased On Classes April 15

Post Cards Will Cost Two Cents In Future; Other Rates Go Up.

Wichitans who use the United States mail to any extent must acquaint themselves with some radical revisions in certain classes of the service next month, according to word given out yesterday by Postmaster O. P. Maricle. Effective April 15, advances will be made in tolls in several differen branches of the service. The changes, which will mean a big increase in revenues for the postoffice here, are being made to meet the salary raises recently granted by congress for the nation's postal workers.

A few of the more important alterations, Assistant Postmaster Lon Howard has pointed out, involve the charges on private postal cards, the charges on third class mail matter and changes in money order, registered mail and insurance fees.

Under the new schedule, post cards which heretofore have been catried for 1 cent will require 2-cent stamps, the same as letters. This applies only to private cards. Government printed cards may still be sent for 1 cent. Sending of third class matter through the mails, which includes advertising circulars and all publicity media, will hereafter cost 1 1-2 cents for each 2 ounces or fraction thereof. The present rate is 1 cent. To facilitate this the government is printing new 1 1-2 cent stamps that will be ready for distribution before long.

Pan's Fancies In Summertime Told Vividly In Music

Woman's Choral Club Presents Cantata To Full House Monday

"Pan, On a Summer Day" presented Monday evening by the Woman's Choral club at the First Baptist church proved a treat for the full house assembled in anticipation of a good program, at the announcement of a concert by this popular musical organization.

Like one great performer, under the hand of Mrs. Louella B. Thompson, director, the clear women's voices sang a delightful fairy tale like a bunch of playful children, and the words were so distinct that the story was easily followed.

The delicate accompaniment by Mrs. O. B. Kiel at the grand piano sketched first the faint glint of dawn and with the descriptive work of the carefully trained chorus, drew in the "cheeping" of the birds, the "pit-pit" of the summer shower, the humming of the bees, the roar of the storm, the crackling of thunder, the wail of the wind, the chirp of the crickets, and the mysterious murmurs of the night.

The Story

On a summer day Pan plays his pipes as the world awakes, now humping softly, now with bird-calls. The sunbeams steal over the hills to draw up the diamond dew drops dropped from Night's trailing garments torn off as she fled. A summer shower blows up and ends abruptly. At noon, Pan, in the reeds by the river, lulls the world to sleep with the song of the bees. In the afternoon, during the great storm, Pan, frightened, flies from the wind and the rain, and after the calm, laments over a mighty oak tree, fallen. As twilight falls, Pan pipes a serenade to the myriad of dancing stars, but hides in terror at the darkness and the slow rising moon. Hearing the music of the spheres in praise of "Night," Pan, (nature) hushes in breathless adoration.

Various effects through the cantata were achieved by humming, by delicate staccato, and by remarkably clear enunciation and tone shading, resulting in one of the most enjoyable concerts ever presented by the Choral club.

Assisting Artists

Balancing the choral program were three assisting artists of local fame: Mrs. F. R. Collard, organist; Mrs Harwood Stacy, pianist, and Mr. Ethel Allen Nelson, violinist, with Mrs. Lucile Brooks Huff, accompanist.

Mrs. Collard opened the evening's program with "Grand Processional March (Queen of Sheba)," by Gounod-Eddy, a stirring number. Torjussen's "Norwegian Tone Poem (To the Rising Sun)" followed, a lovely selection, beautifully interpreted by Mrs. Collard. A flashing rapid number, Gillette's "Rippling Brook" closed the enjoyable group.

Mr. Nelson played Rubenstein's "Romance in E-flat" and followed with Kreisler's beautiful "Liebesfreud" which brought forth an outburst of prolonged applause. He graciously responded with a reappearance, but at the insistence of the house was forced to return for an encore, playing "Minuet in G" by Beethoven.

Mrs. Harwood Stacy at the piano, interpreted Chopin's "Funeral March" with simplicity and richness, developing well the main theme and breaking into the lighter strain with delicate touch to portray fully its sweetness. Her second number, Strauss-Schutt's "Concert Paraphrase (Weiner Blut)" was well received. Again, a reappearance failed to satisfy the audience, and Mrs. Stacy played an encore, quiet and rich in harmony, which contrasted well with her two former numbers, one solemn, the other brilliant.

During an intermission between the performance of the soloists and the choral cantata, a silver offering was taken by Misses Elizabeth Langford, Camille Avis, Mary Virginia Barron, Jolino Woods, Corrine Tucker and Mary Delayeny, who also served as ushers for the concert.

G. O. P. Completes its Ostracism of Pinks

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Formal approval of the demotion of the La Follette insurgents from their rank on the standing committees was given today by the senate.

The vote was 64 to 11 and came after five hours debate, confined largely to the Republican side. Democratic leaders interrupted occasionally, but mainly to reiterate their desire to keep clear of the rod within the Republican ranks.

The real test as to whether the majority party was to complete organization of the senate according to a program determined upon immediately after the 1924 elections came on the proposal to remove Senator Ladd of North Dakota, one of the insurgents from the chairmanship of the public lands committee.

Senator Stanfield of Oregon, the majority candidate was elected, received 36 votes to 13 for Ladd and three for Senator Jones, Democrat, New Mexico. Senators Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, La Follette's running mate on the independent presidential ticket last November, and Copeland, Democrat, New York, supported Ladd, while Senator Bruce, Democrat, Maryland, voted for Stanfield.

Twenty-five Democrats voted present as did Ladd and Stanfield.

13 More Blocks In City Scheduled On Improvement Slate

Wichita Falls Itself To Catch Part Of Seventh Street Burden

Thirteen more blocks of paving got under way Monday night when the city council received petitions and called for bids on three separate projects involving that much territory. Bids were also called for the paving of one block of alleyway, making 14 blocks in all that were really launched. In addition to this, it was indicated that an additional two blocks would be asked within a short time for a continuation of one of the projects started last night.

The longest stretch was that of five blocks on Seventh street between Broad and Van Buren, petitions for which were received. It was also learned that two more blocks of Seventh street between Broad and Burnett would be scheduled for improvement under a petition that is now being prepared. This would connect the present termination of the Seventh street paving at Burnett and carry it on west for seven blocks.

Members of the council heaved a distracted sigh when the papers were opened because the proposed work will catch several Seventh street lots the city owns and on which the municipal barn is located. Street Commissioner Clifford said he might claim exemption on this property on grounds that it was a homestead for his mules. Streets bordering on homesteads can be left unpaved if the owner so insists.

Catch It Again.

Should the Seventh street project between Burnett and Broad go through it will also catch the city property on which No. 4 fire station is located.

Collins street between Baylor and Harrison, four blocks in all, was one of the other projects, while four more blocks on Ozark and Hayes street was the other. The latter includes the paving of Ozark from Grant to Hayes and Hayes from Ozark to Avenue H.

Requests for the paving of the alley paralleling Travis and Austin between Eighth and Ninth were also made. Acceptance of the improving of Travis street between Seventh and Eighth, which was done by the L. E. Whitham company, was made by the city upon recommendation of City Engineer F. M. Bugely.

Over Half of City Court Docket Caused by Intoxication.

The Volstead law, admirable as it may be, evidently failed to inspire awe in the befuddled hearts and heads of this city's bibulously inclined Saturday and Sunday.

In testimony thereof witness the police court docket Monday morning. That ponderous column whereon is recorded the minor indiscretions of some of our best citizens—as well as those of others not so good—had "drunk" inscribed on it just 21 times between 8 o'clock Saturday morning and the same hour Monday morning. That many worthies in various stages of inebriacy were locked up to sleep off the effects.

Their cases were called for trial by Judge E. S. Whitelaw and bonds forfeited in most of the instances. A total of 40 cases in all were docketed, the others being for speeding, vagrancy, affrays and gaming.

Police Find No Clues In Refinery Robbery

An all day hunt Monday for the safe which thieves removed from the American Refining company filling station at Ninth and Brook Sunday night failed of result, officers reported last night. No trace of the vault, the $300 or more in cash or of the robbers themselves could be found.

The safe was moved from the building and evidently placed in an automobile, there to be carried to some isolated point in the country where it could be opened at leisure. The robbery was discovered about 6 o'clock Monday morning when the office was opened for business.

Officials of the refining company stated that they did not know exactly how much money was in the safe at the time, but that it would run to approximately $300.

RAID WELL EQUIPPED "BAR"

Officer Persuades Baggage Man to Show Him Place to Buy Drink.

What officers declared to be a well equipped "bar" was broken up Monday afternoon when 28 pints of corn whiskey were seized and one arrest made in a raid on a Seventh street news stand and cold drink emporium. Federal charges of possession and sale of intoxicants will be filed today against the young man arrested.

The arrest was made by Plain Clothesmen Jimmy Allen and Billy Bryon of the city police force. Early in the afternoon Allen persuaded a local baggage smasher to show him some place where he could "get a drink," and without hesitancy the man piloted him to the stand, which had already been under suspicion.

There Allen bought a pop bottle full of whiskey for $2 called Bryan and the place was pinched. A search of it brought the 28 pints to light.

Couzens, Probing Tax Returns, Gets Income Citation

Senator From Michigan Charges It a Retaliation For Investigation

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Public disclosure of the testimony in the senate internal revenue bureau investigation led today to charges, counter-charges and a series of statements emanating both from the capitol and the treasury.

Chairman Couzens of the investigating committee declared in the senate that because he had "persisted in endeavoring to eliminate rottenness in government departments" treasury officials have attempted to "discipline" him by reopening his 1919 income taxes and assessing against im an additional ten or eleven millions of dollars of taxes.

The senator said Internal Revenue Commissioner Blair had personally presented to him a written notice that the treasury intended to re-examine the facts with respect to the tax he had paid on his sale to Henry Ford of his minority holdings in the Ford Motor company, although the tax had been paid on the basis fixed by the treasury during the Wilson administration and the matter had been closed for three or four years.

Since the period in which action may be taken under the statute of limitation expires next Friday, the senator was asked to sign a waiver of limitation, but he announced he had declined to do so.

Meanwhile, more testimony gathered by the senate committee and relating to the taxes of the United States Steel corporation and the Aluminum Company of America became public. This evidence disclosed that counsel and engineers for the committee take the position that the government has lost many millions in taxes through erroneous war amortization valuations made in the case of these and scores of other corporations.
